

Attorney general enters governors race

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Attorney General John Hill announced for the Democratic governor's race today saying he would have a no-new tax policy similar to that of incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Hill said he would veto a tax bill if it were passed to him by the Texas Legislature.

"I think we have adequate funds to finance our state," he told an Austin news conference. "Our economy should stay good. It's merely a matter of priorities."

Hill said he would veto a tax bill if it were passed to him by the Texas Legislature.

The attorney general, who said he had no plans to resign his present post, predicted Briscoe would outspend him 3-to-1 but "he will be wasting his money...I expect to win without a runoff."

"I'm announcing my candidacy for governor today," he told a Capitol news conference this morning. "The first of four similar announcement parties. 'I'm certain I can and will win.'"

Hill said one issue stands above all others in the 1978 gubernatorial race and that is Gov. Dolph Briscoe's request for 10 years in office.

"No governor has asked for 10 years. No public opinion polls only confirmed what I have sensed, and what I have been told all over the state, that a majority of Texans is opposed to the idea of anyone holding the state's highest office that long. In short, we are ready to stay with tradition and to turn the job over to a new governor."

Hill criticized Briscoe for what he said was gubernatorial ineffectiveness in handling the energy crisis, property taxes, utility rates, and the public school financing system.

Mennonites forced to leave WT

SEMINOLE, Tex. (AP) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service says it has no choice but to force a group of more than 500 Mexican and Canadian Mennonites from its 6,400-acre colony in West Texas because of the members' temporary status in the United States.

"What do I know of immigration law?" asked Seth Woltz, the man who brokered the $1.6 million sale of the land to the religious group.

The Mennonites are of Russian descent, but their ancestors fled to Canada early in this century.

Besides the INS difficulty, the group of Old Colony Mennonites have turned away from their leader, a bishop who encouraged the move to Texas.

Known for their pacifism and their strong work ethic, the Mennonites are for the most part supported by the West Texans who are their neighbors.

Seminole Mayor Bob Clark says he can provide letters from angry citizens who don't like the idea of amnesty for some illegal aliens while the Mennonites face eviction.

"It makes me mad as hell," Clark said. "It just didn't ever make sense to me that a group of law-abiding people like the Mennonites would come in here on tourist visas and settle down and start farming. They were just getting some bad advice or someone was deceiving them."

Woltz said the bad advice came from an El Paso attorney, but that the Mennonites were not deceived.

Whatever, they soon discovered that their 6,400 acres, they held water rights on only a little more than a third of the land.

"We didn't know until we were out drilling wells, getting ready for planting," said colony member Frank Wiebe. "Then a man from the oil company showed up and showed us a contract and told us we could not drill wells."

The result was a disaster for the farmer's maize crop, but Wiebe says, the cotton crop would provide a "fair" yield.

Wiebe is one Mennonite who has received a letter from INS, saying he has overstayed his temporary visa and must leave voluntarily or face deportation.

Panel mulls continuing Lance probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate committee investigating the financial affairs of Bert Lance is deciding whether to continue its inquiry as two key members say they still want Lance to resign.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee planned to call witnesses from its own staff today to answer Lance's assertion that he told committee investigators in January about the financial troubles now under investigation.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., the ranking Republican on the committee, said the staff members called to testify would contradict Lance's contention that he told investigators about his financial dealings before being confirmed by the Senate panel.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the committee, said members would meet in a closed session later to decide whether to end the investigation or call more witnesses.

Webb question? Get the answer Tuesday

Big Springers will have the opportunity to get the answers to any and all questions about the future of Webb AFB facilities Tuesday and Wednesday, according to City Manager Harry Nagel.

The Subcommittee on Housing and Community Facilities at the base will meet in open session 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Base Officers' Club. Committee members will discuss what will be done with rental properties on Capehart Village.

Meetings will be held all day Wednesday during what is known as the Federal Team Visit to Big Spring. The day's activities will include a tour of the base facilities, program briefings, a variety of workshops and a summary session.

Each workshop will be attended by federal officials in a variety of capacities.

All are urged to attend the conference. Registration will begin 8 a.m. Wednesday in the Webb Officers' Club.

HC Fair week begins today

By MARJ CARPENTER
The Howard County Fair got under way officially today at 3 p.m. and the first performance of the Shrine Circus was at the same hour. The second performance of the circus is at 8 p.m. tonight.

Clowns, elephants, acrobats, and circus animals will fill the rodeo arena for the annual event with Shriners dispensing traditional popcorn, peanuts and all the trimmings from the concession stand.

In the fair barn, Neil Fryar, general superintendent was everywhere at once this morning.

Women's exhibits, garden club exhibits, art and barrows for today's judging were coming in fast.

Fryar said, "Everything is going according to schedule. The only change is that the Old Fiddler's Contest on Friday has been changed simply to a Fiddler's contest... young or old or in between."

The events today include the circus, the women's exhibits, the official opening of the fair, the barrow show and others.

Tuesday will see judging of the agricultural products and commercial booths in the morning and the Barrow Sale at 7 p.m.

The Midway and the carnival is open every night. The entry price to get into the fair is low, set at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children in order that more people may attend.

Circus workers and performers said this morning, "We were in San Angelo last and go next to Sweetwater." They said they are on the road 11 months of the year and last year were even on the road at Christmas, performing in Dallas that week.

The Shriners, who saw several sudden showers in the area over the weekend were watching the clear morning skies hopeful for a sunny day today in Big Spring.

A lot of times Howard County Fair week has been coupled with rain in Big Spring, but crowds usually attend the traditional events anyway.

Later in the week, such things as the Jerry Clower show on Wednesday, the continuing exhibits in the demonstration booth, the poultry and rabbit shows on Thursday, Agri-Business tour Friday morning with a noon barbecue honoring farmers, ranchers and their families, the pet show, fiddler's contest, domino tournament, steer and heifer show, open and youth horse show and county roping will be some of the many events available to the public.

Next meeting in Big Spring

Base closing confab 'worth it'

A breakfast meeting between 13 Big Spring representatives and four federal officials was the highlight of the special conference in Topeka, Kan., according to City Manager Harry Nagel.

The three-day conference was attended by 75 representatives of cities which had recently lost defense installations. Managers and owners of base properties and interested citizens gathered for business sessions, panel discussions and a variety of workshops on base reuse methods.

While there, the Big Spring contingent was able to meet privately with four federal officials: Gen. Joe Meis, deputy assistant secretary for installations for the Air Force, Eldon Erickson, regional director for the Office of Economic Adjustment, Abe Belos, representative for the General Service Administration, and William Sheehan, director of the Office of Economic Adjustment.

"I'd have to say that was the highlight of the trip," said Nagel. "We discussed the problems we have been having with getting buildings to rent right away on the base. The problem is unique in that we were ready to lease buildings even before the base closed. I think the four men will be very helpful to us in the future," he added.

As an added bonus, the majority of those attending the conference voted to hold the next annual meeting in Big Spring next year. The pitch to hold the meeting here was spearheaded by Area Chamber of Commerce Manager Bill Albright.

"This will be a great opportunity. We just beat out Nebraska in the voting," said Nagel.

Thursday and Friday were particularly busy days for those who attended. Thursday morning included a business session, two general workshops and a tour of the former Forbes Air Force Base facilities.

After lunch conferees chose between three different panel discussions which lasted for four hours.

Friday included another general session on the federal role in base conversion, two more workshops and another business session.

"The trip was definitely worth the time and effort," concluded Nagel.

Officers nab burglars

Wrong place, wrong time

Two local burglars chose the wrong place and the wrong times to pull heists over the weekend.

One of the burglars decided to break into what must have appeared a likely source of valuable merchandise; a van parked in the lot of the Wooden Nickel Club. Unfortunately for the burglar, the van belonged to Officer David Spilman who was working security at the club.

Spilman strolled out of the club around 12:15 a.m. Sunday, just in time to catch the suspect forcing a coat hanger in next to the window of the van.

"What do you think you're doing?" Spilman asked the surprised man.

According to the officer, the suspect explained that the van belonged to a friend of his, and that he had left a tape deck inside, and that he just wanted to get it back and be on his way.

"Well, that's my van, and you're no friend of mine," Spilman informed the suspect as he arrested him.

According to the officer, the suspect replied, "If I had known the van was yours, I never would have tried to break into it."

The second unfortunate burglar tried to rip off 18 packages of frozen meat from the home of Milton Junek, 2703 E. 25th. Little did the 24-year-old intruder know that Junek's next door neighbor is Big Spring Chief of Police Stanley Bogard.

According to the chief, he and his wife heard suspicious noises at their neighbor's home around 11 p.m. Saturday. As Bogard and his wife watched, a car dropped off the suspect in the Junek's front yard.

Bogard slipped out the door of his home, wearing only a pair of boxer shorts, and witnessed the burglar grab the frozen meat from the neighbor's garage and stash it next to Bogard's mail box.

When the intruder returned to the garage for more, the chief slipped back inside, put on his clothes, and came back out, carrying a shotgun this time. And at that moment, patrolling Lt. Claude Morris pulled into the driveway, and the two officers made the arrest simultaneously.

"That guy was pretty surprised," said Bogard this morning.

$180,000 plane stolen from Trans Regional

A twin-engine Navajo Chieftain is missing from Trans Regional Airlines where somebody apparently flew it away around 4 a.m. Friday morning.

The Howard County sheriff's office has been joined by the Federal Aviation Administration and possibly the Federal Bureau of Investigation in seeking the plane.

Speculation are many, with the possibility that it has been used to haul contraband from another country, or possibly be used to reach a foreign country.

Other speculations include the possibility that somebody may have just taken the plane joyriding and left it somewhere, or taken as a prank. However, it has apparently not shown up at any surrounding airports like a joy-rider will usually do.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said the $180,000 airplane is well equipped and could be used to go "quite some distance."

R.E. McClure, manager of Trans Regional reported the green and white plane missing at 8:30 a.m. Friday. He said that he thought he heard a prop noise "around 4 a.m." but at the time was half asleep and wasn't sure.

The plane was sitting outside the hangar. The cockpit was locked and had to have been forced open.

Serial numbers, registration and model number all have been turned over to officials. They are also seeking any newly painted twin-engine Navajo Chieftains in case it has been repainted over the weekend.

Action/reaction: Too hot

Q. Why is there no air conditioner in the cafeteria kitchen at Goliad when there is air conditioning in other parts of the building?

A. The Big Spring Independent School district has never had sufficient funds to air condition the school system without a bond issue. Some schools were air conditioned by PTA donations, some by the county system and some not at all. At Goliad, school funds were used to air condition the school. The dining room area is air conditioned and school officials were told at the time of installation that it was sufficient to air condition the kitchen, according to Don Crockett, school bus manager.

Offbeat: Gold Cadillac bargain

AUBURN, Ind. (AP) — At $54,000, the 1931 gold leaf Cadillac Fleetwood might be considered the bargain of this year's Midwestern U.S. Classic Car Auction.

Two years ago Mark Miles of Louisville, Ky., spent $100,000 for the vehicle with diamond encrusted hub caps, white mink carpeting and a radiator cap studded with rubies and sapphires. "I'm a little disappointed by the price, but it is part of the game," Miles said Monday.

The auto's new owner, Chig Davis of Sandy, Tex., said he plans to exhibit the car at shopping malls and car dealerships.

Davis also paid $29,600 for a 1925 Stutz Sportair Phaeton at the auction.

Crash kills five

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Five persons died late Sunday in a two-car accident on Texas 359 about 20 miles east of Laredo in South Texas.

Officers said an automobile driven by Robert L. Skow of Edinburg apparently crossed the center stripe and was involved in a collision with a car driven by Gloria Colunga, 21, of Laredo.

The victims were identified as David John Ernest, 19, of Alamo; and Gloria Colunga, 21, Alma R. Martinez, 23, Maria Perez, 49, and an 18-month old infant, Angelica Martinez, all of Laredo. Skow, the only person to survive the initial impact, was taken to a Laredo hospital for treatment of numerous serious injuries.

CBS-CIA tie noted

NEW YORK (AP) — Daniel Schorr claims his former boss at CBS cooperated with the CIA. Schorr has written a book in which he says board chairman William Paley was on "a very personal basis" with the spy agency.

Schorr left the network after the release of sensitive information to a newspaper. Now he's telling all in a book called "Clearing the Air," excerpted by New York magazine.

Among the incidents cited by Schorr was one in which Paley supposedly let the CIA use the CBS booth overlooking the United Nations Security Council so a lip-reading expert could spy on the Soviet delegation.

CBS spokesmen were unavailable for comment on the article but have said similar allegations were published in the past that CBS, along with most other news organizations, provided information through briefings and other assistance to the CIA during the cold war of the 1950s but has had no recent dealings with the CIA.

Helen Reddy sued

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Singer Helen Reddy has incurred the wrath of Kansas State Fair officials. They've asked the Kansas attorney general to sue her for canceling an appearance last Friday.

The fair's board of managers announced its intention over the weekend after deciding that Ms. Reddy did not have a sore throat nor had she been in the hospital. Those were the reasons they had been given for her cancellation.

A spokesman for the Las Vegas hotel where she was performing last week said she completed a two-week engagement Thursday night without missing a show.

Lawyer stabbed in China

TOKYO (AP) — A mentally disturbed Chinese man stabbed New York lawyer Richard Talmadge as he, actor William Holden, actress Stephanie Powers and Talmadge's wife were returning to their hotel in Peking Sunday, Holden reported by telephone.

Talmadge, 33, was stabbed in the chest and arm, but his wounds were not serious, his wife reported. She said he was hospitalized for observation, and she expected him to be released today or Tuesday.

The assailant was arrested, the Italian news agency ANSA reported. Death is the maximum penalty for an attack on a foreigner in China.

"This was a minor incident and could happen in any city," said Holden.

Carter asks race look in med schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration today asked the Supreme Court to rule that medical schools can consider the race of would-be students in an "affirmative action" special admissions program.

The action was seen as a victory for civil rights groups that had feared the Justice Department position might weaken affirmative action programs mandating hiring and school enrollment of minorities.

Opponents claim that such affirmative action programs often result in reverse discrimination, shutting college and employment doors to more qualified whites.

The Justice Department suggested that the high court not reach a decision, however, on whether Allan Bakke should be admitted to the University of California at Davis Medical School.

Bakke, a white man who was rejected for admission to the medical school in 1973 and 1974, successfully argued before the California Supreme Court that he was the victim of racial discrimination. Bakke claimed that he would have been admitted if not for the school's practice of reserving 16 of its 100 entering-class spots for "disadvantaged" students.

Bakke said that those students selected for the special admissions program were never white and that they were less academically qualified than he.

The university appealed the California court's ruling, and the Supreme Court will hear arguments in the case Oct. 12.

heavily against racial quotas. The California Supreme Court found that Bakke was the victim of such a racial quota.

Although not speaking to the quota issue explicitly, the Justice Department brief filed today appeared to defend the medical school's program against the California Supreme Court's finding that it was harboring an unconstitutional quota that violated Bakke's right to equal treatment under the law.

Saying it did not understand the state court's definition of a quota, the government brief referred to the 16-student program as "a particular target."

"It is not clear whether the number was inflexible or was used simply as a standard for assessing the program's operation," the 74-page brief said of the university's 16 reserved spots.

Civil rights groups urged the university not to appeal the California court's decision, fearing that the facts of the case would not present the best possible test for affirmative action programs before the Supreme Court.

"The administration's brief should come as a relief to many civil rights attorneys who feared not as strong an endorsement for affirmative action programs, called 'reverse discrimination' by their opponents.

It was reported that an earlier Justice Department brief supported affirmative action — but came down

Feud over land grant going to federal court

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A long-smouldering dispute pitting traditional rights against property rights — a conflict that has sparked a modern-day range war in the ranch and farm county of southern Colorado — will be taken to federal court here today.

Principal characters in the controversy are Jack T. Taylor, owner of the 77,000-acre Sangre de Cristo Mountain Ranch, a handful of county officials and the Mexican-Americans who have called the land home for more than a century.

Taylor, a North Carolina lumberman, acquired the mountain ranch in the San Luis Valley in 1960, the year the trouble began.

Shortly after taking over the last unfenced section of the historic Sangre de Cristo land grant, Taylor fenced the vast acreage, erected barricades and dug ditches to close off four roads leading into the area.

Violence began. There were threats first, then assaults, shootings, bombings, and arson.

Taylor was confronted by an angry mob in 1962 after he had for years gone there to cut firewood, graze their animals, and to hunt. Those residents, of Spanish descent, believe they had an unwritten right to access, as their ancestors had before them.

Later, Taylor turned to the federal courts in Denver, seeking clear title to his land. The court upheld Taylor's claim that the old Spanish and Mexican laws on which the "settlers' rights" were based was not applicable.

who paid for the right to enter.

The original million-acre land grant, made under Mexican law but ratified by the United States in 1844, had given the first settlers and their descendants perpetual rights to use the land Taylor now owns.

But Taylor refused those privileges — except to those

Hospital visitors outlined by doctor

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A Fort Worth physician testified today Priscilla Davis had "several" visitors as she lay wounded in a hospital during the early morning hours of Aug. 3, 1976.

"I met several people but I don't recall their names," Dr. Michel Heard said as testimony resumed after a week's delay in the capital murder trial of millionaire industrialist Cullen Davis.

The defense contends Mrs. Davis and others conspired at some point to name her estranged husband as the gunman who wounded her and killed her lover and her 12-year-old daughter at Davis' Fort Worth mansion.

Dr. Heard, who examined Mrs. Davis shortly after the shootings, said he could not recall who visited the patient in the emergency room but did remember seeing two young ladies there at that time.

Asked if it were not unusual to permit visitors into the "trauma room" under such circumstances, he replied: "We let visitors come into the trauma room on a very limited basis."

He said also that "it's usually the nurses' responsibility to limit visitors."

Mrs. Davis' boyfriend, Stan Farr, and her daughter by a previous marriage, Andrea Wilborn, 12, were shot to death on that same summer night. Gus Gavrel Jr., a chance visitor to the residence, was wounded.

Davis, a Fort Worth industrialist, is on trial at this time only for the death of his stepdaughter, Miss Wilborn. He faces charges, however, in the other shootings.

Dr. Heard has testified that his examination of Mrs. Davis the night of the shooting revealed no evidence that she had consumed alcoholic beverages or taken drugs.

Energy plan to get stiffest test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Votes on the Senate floor and in the Senate Finance Committee this week will give President Carter's energy plan its stiffest congressional test since the package was first sent to Capitol Hill last April.

An extremely close vote is expected in the Senate on the critical issue of lifting federal controls over the pricing of natural gas.

The President's plan, approved in the House, would retain federal regulation but would permit the price per thousand cubic feet to rise from the current $1.46 ceiling to $1.75.

In 1975, the Senate voted 58 to 32 to deregulate natural gas prices, long urged by producers who argue that freeing prices from government restrictions is necessary to provide enough economic incentive to encourage the search for new reserves.

But Carter's energy advisers say the $1.75 price will provide enough increased profits to encourage added production and avoid shortages like those that closed factories and schools last winter.

At least two versions of deregulation will be voted on sometime after the natural gas debate begins on Tuesday.

Whatever the Senate and the House eventually agree on will mean higher fuel bills for homeowners.

Before moving to the natural gas bill, the Senate scheduled a vote today on continued federal financing of legal help for the poor, including attempts to narrow the types of court suits Legal Services Corp. attorneys can file under the program.

The Senate Finance Committee, meanwhile, will begin crucial votes on the tax portions of the energy plan. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., who heads the panel and is among the most powerful committee chairmen in the Senate, said last week the panel will set aside Carter's proposals for rebating heavy taxes on crude oil to consumers.

Instead, Long is urging that new taxes on the oil companies be turned back to the companies to encourage the search for new reserves.

In the House, Carter faces another uphill fight on the question of whether the United States should continue developing a fast breeder nuclear power plant, which uses plutonium for fuel.

The plant, scheduled for construction in Clinch River, Tenn., would mark a commitment to a type of nuclear technology that Carter contends would lead to the proliferation of nuclear weaponry and make it possible for terrorists to manufacture small nuclear bombs.

The plutonium used in fast breeder reactors can also be used to make nuclear weapons, and Carter has said the United States should take the lead in discouraging its production and use.

Despite Carter's opposition, the House is expected to defeat moves to kill the program and instead vote to continue the project.

The House is also scheduled this week to decide whether to permit the Pentagon to go ahead with production of the neutron bomb, a small nuclear device designed more to kill people than damage buildings or property.

Other votes are also planned on funding for black lung disease treatment and the nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Odessa roughneck held for murder

ODESSA — A 22-year-old Odessa oilfield worker is being held at the Odessa City Jail on $100,000 bond for the murder of a seven-eleven store clerk whose body was discovered in a lonely oil field pasture last Sunday near the hamlet of Mini-Skiff Junction.

Tom Wesley Clark, of 1800 East 50th, was arrested shortly after 10 p.m. Friday, five hours after police officials called him to the station for questioning.

Mrs. Phyllis Wood, 25, of Odessa, apparently was abducted from the 7-11 store at 5210 Dixie on Sept. 9 within six to eight minutes after she had called the Odessa police station to report a suspicious noise, according to investigators.

At the time, police theorized that a partially torn down wooden fence in an alley southeast of the store may have been connected to the disappearance of Mrs. Wood.

Detective Jerry Smith, who is investigating the case, credited a traffic division specialist in tracking down hit-and-run vehicles with accumulating evidence which led to the arrest.

Clark's 1976-model black and red car parked at his residence revealed damage on its right front side, police said.

His boots were confiscated as evidence to determine whether they would match up with a foot print in the pasture northwest of here where Mrs. Wood was found dead.

The victim apparently had been run over by a car, according to Justice of the Peace Manuel Valles.

Mrs. Wood was dressed in blue jeans and was nude from the waist up.

Biggest marijuana haul in Ector County

ODESSA — An Odessa man earned $75,000 one minute, but found himself under arrest moments later after selling about 875 pounds of marijuana to Odessa Police Department narcotics agents.

It was the biggest marijuana bust in Ector County, eclipsing a 265-pound record by police here in January.

Jan Leman Hood, 26, of 400 Tanglewood, was being held in the city jail Sunday night on the charge of delivery of marijuana. Justice of the Peace Harold Sligar set bond at $99,999.

Sligar said Hood was expected to be transferred out to county authorities today.

"It was pretty good Mexican marijuana — probably worth from $300,000 to $350,000 in street sales," said Sligar.

"He had it pretty well covered up under a tarp in the back of his truck under some fishing poles and wood. It was just like he'd been on a fishing trip."

Odessa narcotics agents, with an $80,000 contribution from a city resident, made the deal shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday.

They were approached at a room of the Vagabond Motel, paid $75,000 in cash and were given a set of keys to a 1971-model pickup truck parked outside, officials said.

Shortly after, other police officers made the arrest and confiscated the pickup truck with the marijuana.

Officials had been working on the case for several months.

The vehicle becomes the property of the city, Sligar said that it did not appear to Black leader didn't die from head injuries?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Pathologists for the government and the family of dead black leader Steve Biko today disputed American news reports that he suffered multiple head and body injuries.

Dr. Jonathan Gluckman, a pathologist representing the Biko family at the autopsy on Biko's body, criticized the Washington Post and CBS News, which carried the report of the injuries and said the information came from "well-placed" South African sources.

"I am confident that no source close to the autopsy would have made such a statement," Gluckman told the "Daily Mail," Johannesburg's leading English-language newspaper and an opponent of the government.

"It is a scandalous suggestion to say anybody involved in the affair would have said anything at all about it," he continued. "The job is not completed until the microscopic-chemical work is completed."

Government pathologist J. Louber told the Pretoria newspaper Beeld the preliminary findings of the autopsy have been sent to the police and said they do not support the American news reports.

"Thousands of blacks" attended memorial services Sunday for Biko, who died in jail under suspicious circumstances last week, but no violence was reported.

In Johannesburg's volatile Soweto township, 3,000 persons jammed a Roman Catholic Church for prayers and songs interrupted by black power slogans. Seven carloads of riot police watched from half a mile

Weather Lightning triggers three fires today

Lightning started three fires in Northeast Texas this morning as thunderstorms boomed into the state with hail, gusty winds and heavy rain.

A police dispatcher in Mt. Pleasant said three residential fires occurred as a result of lightning but no injuries or damage estimates were reported.

Farther north near the Red River, a second storm dumped almost three inches of rain on the town of Clarksville.

The National Weather Service warned of possible flooding of underpasses and low lying areas of Northeast Texas. Most of the activity this morning was located ahead of a southbound cool front running from Longview to Waco.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies prevailed south and east of the front and thundershowers and thundersqualls were active along and about 125 miles east of the front. Skies were clear north and west of the front.

Juarez trial tried again

A second attempt to try Ismael Juarez Jr., charged with aggravated robbery, is being made today in 11th District Court.

The first attempt, during the summer, ended with not enough persons to make a jury. The youth is charged in connection with a stabbing and robbery at Winchell's Doughnut Shop last year.

Prospective jurors were being questioned this morning by District Attorney Rick Hamby and by the defense attorney. Questioning was to continue this afternoon.

Truck-car crash hurts man slightly

Mitchell Allen Harris, 17, 1900 Mittel, was treated in the Malone-Hogan Hospital and released this morning after the car he was driving collided with a cement truck and then turned over on Midway Road.

Both the McMahon Concrete truck driven by Gary Dean Grubbs, 33 and the car driven by Harris were headed east.

The truck was attempting a turn and was struck by the car, according to the investigation report. Investigating highway patrolman was Bill Jennings.

Use This Method To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, TEXAS — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

Have you faced the fact that you have a hair loss problem? Hair loss occurs so gradually that men and women often ignore it. Until it's too late. Even though you see yourself in a mirror every day, many of you won't admit to abnormal hair fall.

If you think, honestly, that you might be in this category, look at a picture taken a year ago — three years ago. Notice a difference? If so, now's the time to stop your hair loss. You could be going bald.

If it appears that you are already losing hair, whatever your daily hair routine is, if you continue to follow it, your hair will probably gradually thin away to nothing.

But it doesn't have to happen. Often hair fall is NOT normal. Now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that not only stops hair loss, but actually grows hair! And you don't even have to take their word for it. You can try their treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself. Naturally they wouldn't offer this opportunity unless it worked. But it's impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," it is certainly not proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

If you have thinning hair, the Loesch treatment may be the answer for you. If you still have your hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair, do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days — at their risk — if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially by mail. Adv.

U.S. off gold, on 'confidence' standard

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of five editorials about money, which is something we use daily but never stop to consider. Yet what happens to money has far-reaching impact on our lives.)

During the 1960s the U.S. was involved in an extremely costly war, while at the same time government spending for social programs increased at home.

President Johnson told Americans we could have both guns and butter. Was he ever wrong.

The war drained American dollars abroad, and soon many more dollars were going out of the U.S. than were coming in. A large balance of trade deficit meant that the nation was in effect growing poorer for the first time since World War II.

One result was pressure on the dollar. America remained on the gold standard, but the practice of backing every dollar with an equal amount of gold had long since been abandoned.

The U.S. was still holding the world monetary system together by guaranteeing foreign governments gold upon demand for dollars at a rate of $35 an ounce, even though gold was climbing in price on the speculative markets as the dollar weakened.

Most other countries did not even attempt to back their currencies with gold, choosing instead to guarantee them with U.S. dollars which were supported by gold.

President Nixon tried to combat the pressure on the dollar by lowering its value by 15 per cent twice. This, I believe, was a major factor in the double digit inflation of the mid-1970s.

Now the gold standard is gone completely, and money from one country is measured mainly against money from another, with the dollar remaining the major currency of the western world.

In other words the U.S. government will no longer give anyone gold for its dollars upon demand. The dollar is only as sound as the world's confidence in the U.S. government.

Economists say, "So what? The gold standard was obsolete and unworkable anyway." But after seeing the MPC (military payment certificates) violated in Vietnam, I wonder BACK IN the 1960s, another thing was happening. The federal government was running up large deficits each year. The government spent more money than it took in.

President Johnson somehow had to pay for both his guns and butter. He and then Nixon did it the way desperate governments have for centuries: printed more money.

From a politician's point of view, printing money was a neat maneuver. The war in Vietnam and war on poverty could be fought without financial discomfort to Americans.

Johnson would be out of office before the inflation which comes from weakening the money began.

TUESDAY: Inflation, the new threat to the dollar. — J. TOM GRAHAM

SOS to Graham

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — President Carter has confided this concern in the ear of evangelist Billy Graham: If I let them "drive" Bert Lance out, it will only whet their appetite for other victims within my official family.

That virtual appeal for help to Dr. Graham was delivered in a long telephone conversation initiated by the President this past week. It reveals the true nature of Jimmy Carter's battle against rising demands from the press, Republicans, and leading Democrats for the scalp of budget director Lance.

GRAHAM, WE have been told by informed political sources, was surprised by the vehemence of the President's self-defense in refusing to be stampeded into ousting Lance. The President made this case to Graham:

1. The press demanded Lance's head before the facts were known and before Lance had his day in court.

2. Getting rid of Lance would give the press a taste of power which, following its legitimate triumph in Watergate, would induce an irresistible avalanche of investigations against other Carter administration officials.

3. The focal point of this attack would probably be the "Georgia mafia" starting with Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, long a member of the Carter inner circle.

Mr. Carter's decision to confide in Billy Graham is understandable. Both are Southern Baptists and born-again Christians. Besides, other Presidents — most conspicuously Richard Nixon — have appealed to Graham for aid in political crises.

Nevertheless, there are risk in the implications of Jimmy Carter's drawing the wagons around himself and his beleaguered friend and beseeching America's most popular evangelist for help.

NON-RUNNING FORD Evidence that Gerald Ford has no intention to run for President in 1980 came in his refusal of two choice invitations from prestigious Republican groups next month.

The former President turned down chances to talk to the Republican Governors Association at Bretton Woods, N.H., Oct. 9 and to the National Federation of Republican Women in Atlanta Oct. 21. Instead, John Connally will address the governors and Ronald Reagan will be main speaker in Atlanta.

GOV. MELDRIM Thompson of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican governors, was asked by a prominent Republican politician why Ford regretted. He snapped: "He probably has a golf date."

The real reason is lack of interest in the political scene. Ford, says one party insider, "is cultivating a low profile in politics and a high profile as a senior statesman. He's not even thinking about 1980 as a candidate."

Harsh criticism of Ford is rife among Republicans who have doubts about the Panama Canal treaties. They were furious that the titular head of their party jumped to support President Carter so fast at the theatrically staged multi-summit treaty signing here.

REPUBLICAN STATE chairmen will air their grievance about Ford in New Orleans Sept. 27, just before the National Committee meets there. The state chairmen may pass a resolution not only putting themselves on record against the treaties but sniping at Ford for rushing to Mr. Carter's defense on first making an effort to ascertain party-wide sentiment.

Stop childhood obesity early

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I need help in a weight control problem for my eight-year-old girl. She weighs 94, and was 8 pounds at birth. She seems to be hungry right after she eats, and is always asking what's for lunch right after her breakfast. The doctor says she'll outgrow this, but so far she hasn't. — Mrs. J. W. K.

Several angles to this problem. One of them is heredity. Are you and your husband obese? If both of you are lean then heredity is not likely to be the answer. If one of you is, there is the probability the child did inherit this tendency. If both parents are obese the chances of an offspring being so shoots up to about 80 per cent.

If heredity is not a factor, poor early eating habits may be. Some parents cannot be convinced that a fat child is not necessarily a healthy child. Experts who have made studies of this say it all goes back to the size and numbers of fat cells in the body. The number and size tend to taper off in early childhood. The large ones tend to stick around and are the reason why so many folks have difficulty losing weight later on. If parents would avoid overfeeding tots in their very early years, there might be a lot less obesity to contend with in later life. Letting her "outgrow" it can be like locking the barn after the horse is gone.

The "what's for lunch?" syndrome may raise psychological questions, just as it might in an adult who can't keep away from the refrigerator.

What can you do? Since you don't give me your child's height or body frame, I cannot tell how serious the weight problem is. But the only way you're going to control her weight is by curtailing calories. Sugars, pastries, ice creams, and the like should be avoided. Be sure she is getting plenty of protein food, however. It is appetite satisfying and necessary for her as she approaches puberty.

Youngsters can't be expected to appreciate the role diet plays in health, so you will have to work at it with her. She may not appreciate substituting raw vegetables for cookies at snack time. Make a real effort without creating resentment or antagonism. If other family members are fat you can make it a group effort. Youngsters can relate to that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with chronic burping. It seems to be getting worse. Also it is accompanied by a nauseous feeling. I am otherwise in good health, I think.

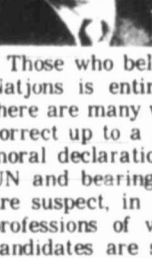

I am a female, 53, and have not been through the menopause yet, in case this may have any bearing on things. Can you tell me what might be the cause? I am very concerned that this may be a symptom of cancer. — R. A.

I would normally suggest a problem with your eating, drinking, and breathing habits. But if you are not an air-swallower or a food and drink gulper, there can be something more serious involved.

With the nausea you need X ray studies of the gall bladder and the stomach. Your symptoms need not be danger signals of cancer, at all. There are other causes.

Don't delay diagnosis — for your own peace of mind and because early diagnosis of cancer frequently leads to effective treatment.

At 53, you are very close to menopause. Have you changed your eating habits or other aspect of your lifestyle? Can you associate the

Crushing Rhodesia

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Those who believe that the United Nations is entirely irrelevant (and there are many who believe this) are correct up to a point. It is true that moral declarations issued from the UN and bearing its moral pedigree are suspect, in the same sense that professions of virtue from political candidates are suspect. Mostly, UN declarations are filed away somewhere until the time comes to celebrate the anniversary of their passage, at which point they are trotted out. But every now and then the UN does very concrete harm.

Rhodesia being a case in point. — LORD HOME, when he returned to Her Majesty's Government as Secretary for Foreign Affairs in 1973, admitted that if the Conservative Party had been in power, it would not have gone along when sanctions were voted by the Security Council against Rhodesia in 1965. Why? Because, he said, he does not believe in sanctions except in extreme circumstances, and the Rhodesian situation was not an extreme circumstance. At the time, Dean Acheson fiercely denounced the imposition of sanctions as clearly in violation of the UN Charter inasmuch as the government of Rhodesia, having declared its independence of Great Britain, was on its own as regards internal arrangements.

Just the same, Great Britain, in a fit of pique that would have great resonance, asked for, and got, sanctions.

Years went by and last spring, seeking to tighten these sanctions, the Security Council voted to freeze all Rhodesian funds everywhere in the world (except when used to pay pensions). The idea was to immobilize the two or three Rhodesian Information Offices extant. Why? One would think that the mighty powers burping episodes with particular focus, such as carbonated drinks of certain vegetables — cabbage, onions, or radishes?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does one get vitamin C from exposure to the sun? — M. G.

No. You are thinking of vitamin D, which the sun helps produce in the skin.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has a ganglion cyst on his wrist. You have mentioned surgery for this, but can it be whacked with a book to make it go away? A doctor told me this, and it sounds cheaper. What do you think? — Mrs. J. J.

A ganglion cyst is one adjacent to a tendon or joint capsule. To hit it with a book is old stuff, but I would not list it among approved "surgical" procedures. The blow could make the cyst disappear, but it would come back. With surgery, it should not.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Mincing no words

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

It's difficult for me to understand the mind of a vandal... a person who willfully destroys property that does not belong to him. And the only reason for such destruction is (and please pardon my french), "just for the hell of it."

I'd like to be able to write something very profound... a rim that vandals and would-be vandals would read and say "Wow, that's true, I'll never vandalize again as long as I live. What a profound rim!"

UNFORTUNATELY, the only profundity that ever slipped from my mind, out through the typewriter and onto a sheet of paper was banned in four states.

Anyway, vandals don't read the paper. Vandals can't read. Something to do with small brains.

Heck, I'm not going to mince words. I hate vandals. I despise them. They cost you and me and themselves money. I have a theory that vandalism is what's driving this country to hell in a handcart.

Young vandals become old hard-nosed criminals, I'm sure of it. Oh, not all of them, sure, but just as sure as mother's milk leads to creamed spinach, vandalism leads to major crime.

At this point, I could now quote authorities on the matter, local police, city officials and nationwide studies to prove my point. However, since they might not, I'll just continue as I was.

Vandals are hard to apprehend. The deed is usually done at night, the rock is thrown, the paint is spilled and the thugs are gone without a trace.

BUT THEY HAVE started their car down the road of crime. They get away with it, and because it is a hard crime to solve (and being small in most cases, citizens don't pursue the solving end of it and just let the insurance companies take care of it), the punks think, "Well, if I can do that and not get caught, maybe I can shoplift something and not get caught."

And so it goes, ad infinitum, with the social and neighborhood conditions that promote the growth of vandalism staying the same, assisted by the vandals' act themselves and the complacency of the people around them, with everyone losing money on the deal. Even vandals don't make any money.

I think I could vaguely comprehend the plight that might make a vandal do what he did if he got money or anything else out of the act other than a warped sense of macho criminal pride.

What can be done? I don't know. I'm no criminologist or social worker. I'm just like the majority of you out there... just blowing off some steam.

All I wish is that after they discover a cure for the common cold and all the major diseases and find enough food for the whole world and have "a lasting peace", "they" (which is you and me) would do something about vandalism.

Rocky going

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The same spotlight, which caught Bert Lance in its white glare, has also illuminated some shadowy banking practices. It's now all too clear that some bankers have been playing loose with their depositors' cash.

The bankers have fought, quite properly, to protect the privacy of their depositors. But some bankers have used the privacy regulations to hide their own dubious financial dealings.

Banks are regulated by federal agencies that, in turn, are supervised by Congress. But instead of watching one another, they are devoted to protecting each other. Thus the regulators and the regulated, the supervisors and the supervised have become lovingly bound in an interlocking embrace.

CONGRESS' INVESTIGATIVE agency, the General Accounting Office, has never been able to audit the federal agencies that oversee the banks. Not that the powers on Capitol Hill really want to expose the banks' shadowy activities.

There has been an occasional legislator, like the late grizzled old populist, Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., who has thumbed his nose at the banks. But the banker could always turn to many others for solace. A disturbing number of legislators seem to make it their business to see that the banks are not deprived nor embarrassed.

Two conscientious House members, Reps. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., and Fernand St. Germain, D-R.I., are now pushing banking reforms. They want to give the General Accounting Office the power to audit the federal banking agencies.

This overdue reform would discourage the questionable bank lending practices and municipal bond dealings that have been illuminated in recent weeks. A free-wheeling banker like Bert Lance would have been restrained.

But the legislative push by Roenthal and St. Germain is encountering resistance in the backrooms of the House. The chief obstructionist is bespectacled Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., articulate and assertive, who looms, quite appropriately, like a banker.

First, Brown lobbied the House Rules Committee to prevent the reform legislation from coming up for a vote. Failing this, he inserted a misleading statement about the bill in the Congressional Record. He coupled this with a private letter to his colleagues, urging them to gut the bill. Finally, he is offering a series of crippling amendments.

One amendment to limit disclosure, for example, would prevent government auditors from revealing to Congress the specifics surrounding a Lance-like scandal. Congress would have to rely on the federal agencies for whatever information they might choose to furnish. Another amendment would limit the auditors' access to Federal Reserve records.

In a statement opposing the banking reform, Brown solemnly warned his House colleagues: "If the members analyze this bill closely, they will find its shortcomings outweigh its public benefits."

THE MEMBERS might find it more enlightening to analyze Brown's campaign contributions closely. He has never considered his public trust, as a member of the House Banking Committee, a bar to collecting large sums from the bankers.

The bankers' political action committee, BANKPAC, gave him $2,500 in 1970, $2,500 in 1972, $1,500 in 1974 and $2,300 in 1976. He has also raked in individual contributions from executives of the Bank of America, American National Bank, Klamazoo Bank, Detroit Bank and other banking operators.

Those who stop to consider that Brown helped write the nation's banking laws and in theory at least has an interest in preserving them might wonder.

FOOTNOTE: BROWN told us he supports the concept but not the form of the banking reform legislation. Asked whether his amendments would gut the reforms, he shouted: "Gut? Gut! If you... understood the bill and the way the things works, then you would know that isn't true." But respected economists insisted that Brown's amendments would indeed gut the bill.

FORD'S COMING BACK? — Ex-President Gerald Ford will be invited to testify before Congress for the first time since he left the White House. A House International Relations subcommittee wants to know whether he promised mainland China that he would break off relations with Taiwan if he were elected in 1976.

Chairman Lester Wolf, D-N.Y., has laid the groundwork for Ford's appearance.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: How do you interpret I Peter 3:18-20, which talks about Jesus after His death going to speak to the "spirits in prison," which seems to mean hell. Does this mean there is a "second chance" for people who rejected Christ in this life? — N.N.O.

DEAR N.N.O.: This passage has been the subject of much discussion, but whatever it means, it is clear that it is not talking about some type of "second chance." Peter says that the only "spirits" to whom Jesus preached were those active before the time of Noah, and there is no indication anywhere in the Bible that there is some sort of second chance for people who have not come to Christ in this life.

I personally think the meaning of this passage may be indicated in Peter's second letter. Here he talks about God's judgment on the angels which sinned against God before the time of Noah, and were cast down into hell (II Peter 2:4). The same idea is found in the book of Jude, verse 6. The context of I Peter 3:18-20 indicates that Jesus did not preach in order for his listeners to repent, but simply to announce to the forces of evil that He had overcome them through His death and resurrection. James says, "the devils also believe, and tremble" (James 2:19).

No, the Bible does not teach a "second chance." It says instead, "behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation!" (II Corinthians 6:2). The Bible also warns, "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" (Hebrews 2:3). This is a solemn warning, urging us to accept Christ while there is still time.

CHECKING — Vivian V. Longo chats with an unidentified worker during a familiar check recently at the Citycorp Center in Manhattan, New York. Miss Longo, 25, is reportedly the youngest building manager of such a large structure — the third largest in New York — before and during its first occupancy. The 59-story, $145-million skyscraper is 97 per cent rented, officials say.

Gayhill 4-H wins awards

The Gayhill 4-H Club held its regular meeting Sept. 13 at 7:30 p.m. Brent Rhoton, vice president, presided. The club motto was led by Scott Underwood. Ruby Junick led the pledge and Dawn Underwood led the prayer. Roll call was answered by each one telling about their summer vacation. A report on record books was given. There were only six record books turned in at the county level and they were all from Gayhill.

At the district level, Junior Division, Tanya Hollis won second place for her Citizenship Record Book. Dawn Underwood won first place in Home Environment and Scott Underwood won first place in Agriculture.

In the Senior Division, Paul Dean Ray won first place in Beef and went on to State judging. Brent Rhoton won first place in Agriculture and also went to the State level.

Dana Westbrook won first place at the District and State level for her Home Environment Record Book.

The club decided to collect money in the Luther Community for the United Fund. A date will be announced later.

Refreshments were served by Brent Rhoton. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., Oct. 10.

Council names new officers

The Home Demonstration Council met on Sept. 12 for a business meeting which included the installing of new officers. Mrs. Pat Johnston presided at the meeting and Mrs. Norred conducted the installation.

Mrs. James Johnston was named as the new Council chairman and Mrs. Bob Wren as vice chairman. Other officers are Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes, secretary and Mrs. Frances Zant, treasurer. Each was given a flower bookmark.

Roll was called by Mrs. L.Z. Rhodes. A training meeting will be held on Sept. 30 at 14th and Main Church of Christ for the new officers.

Delegates to the Home Demonstration Council State Convention are Mrs. Alton Underwood, Mrs. Dale Soles, Mrs. Bob Wren, Mrs. Frances Zant, Mrs. Waymon Etchison, Mrs. Merle Hodnett and Mrs. Kelly Burns.

Convention honors club

The 4-County Young Homemakers Club has left a permanent mark on El Paso, host of the 1977 Area II Young Homemakers of Texas. Officially ending their first year of membership, the club was awarded the title of "Outstanding New Chapter."

The Area II convention was held in El Paso on Sept. 18 in conjunction with the Area II Young Farmers of Texas.

The 4-County Young Homemakers were represented by nine members plus their advisor, Kathy Blagrove, therefore qualifying for the sterling tray awarded to the club with the largest per cent of members present. The meeting consisted of a morning shopping tour in the largest mall in El Paso which proved to be expensive as well as enjoyable for most.

The club, then met with the Young Farmers of Texas for a luncheon which included awards and door prizes.

After the luncheon, the Y.H.T. installed their new Area II officers and attended three workshop sessions entitled "Mental Illness in Children," "Energy Conservation," and "Crafts that Talk."

The Y.H.T. wishes to thank Cleveland Athletics, Keaton Kolor and Country Cupboard for their generous donations of door prizes as well as for their support of the organization.

The Y.H.T. was organized for young adults, from ages 18 to 35, who want to further their knowledge and better themselves and their families as well as the community they live in.

They have been invited to help host the Area II convention for next year.

The 4-County Young Homemakers began their 1977-78 club year at 8 p.m., Sept. 15.

The program included a business meeting in which past, present and future matters were discussed.

A report was given by Don Nell Herm on the Area II convention held in El Paso. Other business discussion included their participation in this year's Howard County Fair.

The Y.H.T. has quilted two quilts, colonial girl and little farmer boy patterns, for which chances are being sold. The chances cost a dollar apiece and are on sale now from any 4-County Y.H.T. member.

The drawing will be held Saturday at the Y.H.T. fair booth. For more information on the quilts and drawing, call 353-4419 or 353-4724.

The group is also sponsoring the tobacco spitting and washer pitching contests to be held Thursday in the South barn. Everyone is invited to come take a spit or just watch.

Next week is an important week for the club as it has been recognized as "Young Homemakers of Texas" week. As a special remembrance of Young Homemakers, both past and present, the 4-County Y.H.T. chapter will present its flower, the red carnation, to each church in the Knott and Ackery areas.

Next month's meeting will be held Sept. 13, at 8 p.m. The program will be on dental care and child training.

New members are Sheila Kemp, Mickie Nichols, Brenda Riddle, Sharon Hamsbeck, Teresa Herm and Rita Pitts.

Local members to attend conference

The annual Texas Home Demonstration Association conference, to take place Sept. 20-22 in Galveston, will be attended by 45 members of home demonstration clubs in Howard County.

Meeting highlights will include keynote addresses, educational workshops and social events.

Educational workshops will include sessions in health, safety, family life, citizenship, cultural arts and 4-H. From those workshops, members will bring

Pastor's Lesson: Speak Up For The Oppressed

DEAR ABBY: In stressing the importance of speaking up for oppressed minorities, you published a quote and asked if anyone knew its origin.

The original quote was somewhat different. Its author was Martin Niemöller, who served aboard a German U-boat during World War I. He later became a Lutheran minister. When Hitler rose to power, Niemöller opposed him and was promptly thrown into Theresienstadt—a Nazi concentration camp. At this camp 76,000 Jews (of which 15,000 were children) were sent to their death. At the time of the liberation, only 100 children had survived.

When Pastor Niemöller was released, he was asked, "How did the world let this happen?" He responded: "In Germany, the Nazis first came for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

How sad that only 32 years have passed and many of us have already forgotten that lesson. Let this serve as a reminder.

SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR SAN: Thank you and the hundreds of other readers who sent me their versions of that brilliant quote. The same sentiments were expressed by Thomas Paine (1737-1809)—a revolutionary—whose writings greatly influenced the political thinking of the leaders of the American Revolution.

He said, "He that would make his own liberty secure, must guard even his enemy from oppression, for if he violates this duty, he establishes a precedent that will reach to himself."

And that, my friends, is what human rights are all about.

DEAR ABBY: I have been meaning to write this letter for years, but I never got around to it until now. I want you to know that a letter in your column signed TOO LATE caused me to visit my mother every day during her last two years in a nursing home.

I will always feel indebted to you, Dear Abby, for motivating me to do something that now permits me to live with a clear conscience.

J. E. K., JR., AMERICUS, GA.

DEAR MR. K.: Thanks. Your letter made my day. CONFIDENTIAL TO "FRIENDLENDER IN DE QUEEN, ARK.: You can make more friends in one week by becoming interested in other people than you can in a year of trying to get other people interested in you.

Author claims single women are slighted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harriet Frank Jr. has not been single for 30 years. But her first novel, "Single," has been scooped up by a prestige publisher, book club and paperback house at prices that make a presold winner.

"I feel modern literature has slighted the single woman, the tough-minded woman," says Ms. Frank, a top Hollywood screenwriter who turned to the novel for her 1970s story of women alone.

"There are books about weepers and wailers. I wanted to write a book about women who have a strong grasp on life," she says. "But what about the women who are doers and shakers?"

"Single," published this month with a first printing of 50,000, tells of four lone women playing out personal crises against the backdrop of a California seaside singles apartment complex.

"If you cast a wide net over any place where people live, you'd turn up an odd bunch of fish," Ms. Frank, who prefers that designation, declares.

Her women, she concedes, are not everyday girls-next-door. They are: "—Nell, a successful doctor whose cool detachment makes her love affairs temporary.

—Stella, a slovenly alcoholic poet who curses her benefactors while proclaiming her own brilliance.

—Hortense, a tough, black schoolteacher whose acid tongue burns her pupils, friends and two-timing boyfriend.

—Eunice, a sexually promiscuous movie studio secretary who retains a childlike optimism through affairs, abortions and abandonments.

There are traces of Ms. Frank in her characters. "Like Hortense, I'm naturally acerbic," she says, then grins: "Like Stella, I'm full of myself."

Despite some leftover movie stereotypes — the blowy-blonde-with-a-heart-of-gold — Ms. Frank says her novel, heavily spiced with sex, could not have been written 20 years ago.

"We're beginning to take a cooler look at women's place in society," she says. "Now women can make choices about careers and success."

"I'm trying to say that you can survive success if you have a strong sense of yourself. That doesn't necessarily require love and marriage."

However, in the next breath, Harriet Frank Jr., also known as Mrs. Irving Ravetch, cheerfully contradicts her own thesis.

"I've been happily married for 30 years," she says. "I think the married state is the best that life can offer.... I think quite naturally women have a strong desire to love and be loved.... I think the pairing instinct is a strong one, a good one."

"If you like yourself, you'll have good company and wind up with a man as well," she declares.

"I believe in Women's lib," says Ms. Frank. "But I would wish there wasn't that faint edge of hostility toward men. I like men. We have a

Oldsters find alternative to institutionalization

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Entering her 66s, Helen Perrier is determined to avoid ending her life in an institution. So are her friends, Louise Sullivan, 81, sightless in one eye and so fuzzy of vision in the other she is legally blind, and Kathleen McCarthy, 61, whose nerves are frayed.

They've banded together to make their own household. They live in a rambling, first-floor apartment with high ceilings and awash in throw rugs and bric-a-brac. The old two-family house is in a working-class neighborhood in east Somerville, a Boston suburb. They live on Social Security disability payments.

Although the women are not related, the U.S. government recognizes them as a household. As a family unit, they get a federal subsidy paying about half their rent.

Their performance has implications for social agencies across the country seeking ways both to reduce institutionalizing the old and to improve elderly lives. "I think we're making it," said Miss Perrier, 61, who worked as a practical nurse but spent much of the past 15 years caring for an ill mother who died last year. A clear-eyed woman with dark, brown hair, Miss Perrier is disabled by arthritis and has diabetes.

"Louise has her couple of cans of beer a night," she said with a smile. "She couldn't have that in an old folks home."

"Helen likes her spaghetti anyway she can get it," Mrs. Sullivan shouted sharply into the living room from what she calls her office — the kitchen where she keeps her television set. Preserving her failing sight, she peers at it only briefly at night, and only to see detective and crime shows. She listens to her Talking Books — Perry Mason and Ellery Queen. "I'm so happy here," said Miss Perrier. "There are more children, more friendly animals in the neighborhood. I wouldn't complain about anything. My dogs are allowed. Everybody can be together. We have all we want."

Diane Mazonson, a case work supervisor for the Somerville Council on Aging, said she believes her city and many others with increasingly older populations will have to take a closer look at the arrangements Miss Perrier and her friends have made.

The assistance checks give the three women a monthly income of about $600. Medicaid pays for medicines and other health expenses.

Miss Perrier figured the women spend about $60 weekly for food, with a part-time housekeeper from a welfare agency doing their big weekly supermarket shopping.

Two-paycheck families increasing in number

COLLEGE STATION — Most affluent U.S. families depend on at least two wage earners, reports Dr. Carolyn McKinney, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"According to the American Council of Life Insurance, four out of five American families in the richest fifth of the population have two or more wage earners in the household, the specialist says.

Usually, the two who work are husband and wife, although in some of these families employed children also supplement the family income.

Within the past half-century the proportion of married women who work rose from about 29 to 44 per cent. Today, with nearly 37 million women in the work force, over 60 per cent of whom are married, the double-salary life style has not only created a "population explosion" in the middle- and upper-income bracket but also in the financial planning of families at all levels of income.

It pays to grow older?

By LOUISE COOK
As a sociated Press Writer
Millions of senior citizens are learning that it sometimes pays to grow older.

They are taking advantage of discount programs offering older Americans up to 50 per cent off on products and services.

The programs, most of which were begun in late 1975 or early 1976, are spreading across the country. They vary in organization and eligibility requirements, but they all have the same goal: to help senior citizens, particularly those on fixed incomes, save money.

One of the most ambitious efforts is Ohio's "Golden Buckeye Card." Joe Gall of the Ohio Commission on Aging said it is the only statewide program in the country.

The Golden Buckeye plan started in March 1976. Ohio residents 65 and over can apply for a card at any one of about 1,500 locations. Holders of the cards are then entitled to discounts on everything from auto repairs to groceries at participating merchants.

As of the beginning of September, Gall said, 517,465 persons had applied for cards and 17,178 merchants were participating. He said the state had started a campaign to reach shut-ins and others who normally would not hear about the program through organized senior citizens clubs or activities.

A nationwide discount program is available through the American Association of Retired Persons, a Washington-based group with 10.8 million members. Anyone 55 or over can join the group — you don't necessarily have to be retired. Members pay a $3 annual fee and receive discounts at nine national hotel and motel chains and two rent-a-car companies, Hertz and Avis. They also can take advantage of a pharmacy service providing home delivery of prescription drugs and medical items at low cost.

Information is available from the association at 1909 K St., Washington, D.C., 20049. (The association, in conjunction with the National Retired Teachers Association, also published a comprehensive "Retirement Information Guide," available from Fulfillment Section, NRTA-AARP, P.O. Box 2400, Long Beach, Calif., 90801.)

The federal government has many programs to help the elderly. They range from well-known, widespread plans like Social Security to more limited things like the Golden Age Passport, which entitles holders to free admission to national parks, monuments and recreation areas.

Information on the programs is available from federal departments involved, but individuals may find it easier to contact state or local agencies. A list of state agencies is available from the Administration on the Aging, Washington, D.C. 20201.

SPRIT OF ST. LOUIS — A replica of Charles Lindbergh's famous Spirit of St. Louis was in Albuquerque Sunday as part of a 107-city, 48-state tour that commemorates the 50th anniversary of Lindbergh's flight. The tour is sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association.

Club deaths blamed on code violations

FT. MITCHELL, Ky. (AP) — The Beverly Hills Supper Club, where 164 persons died in a fire last May, was an "electrician's nightmare" with numerous building code violations that were covered up, a new Kentucky state report says.

A reading of this report shows a shocking and total disregard for human life by the owners of this club," said Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll, who released the long-awaited report Sunday night.

At a news briefing, Carroll said he has suspended with pay three top state fire investigators for what he called "ineffective enforcement, generally, of the law."

The report was released as congressional investigators gathered in nearby Cincinnati today to begin hearing testimony on the May 28 Beverly Hills blaze and on national fire codes.

Carroll was expected to be among those testifying. "Not only did they construct in clear violation of the law, but they operated in violation of the law and then failed to use reasonable care to evacuate the premises," Carroll said.

James Osborne, an attorney for the owners of the Southgate, Ky. nightclub, said Sunday night he had not read the report and would have no immediate comment.

"Everyone but the victims patrons knew about these violations," said Ovid Lewis, a Northern Kentucky University professor who helped in the investigation.

The report cited numerous electrical violations, including installation of improper wiring without approval or proper inspections.

In addition, state investigators also said the building did not have an approved sprinkler system, as required by the code.

The investigative team estimated that at least 1,300 persons were in the Cabaret Room at the time of the fire, while calculations by the fire marshal indicated that the capacity should have been 536.

Long struggle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The four-year battle of the citizens of a small Icelandic fishing village to save their homes and livelihood from the ravages of a large volcanic explosion seems to have paid off.

According to a National Geographic Magazine report, the 5,000 people of Vestmannaeyjar on the island of Heimay couldn't wait to return to their village after being driven away in 1973 by fire, lava and heavy ash that threatened to close forever the mouth of their harbor and cover their homes.

At one point, firemen sprayed cold seawater on the encroaching lava flow in an effort to create a dam that would divert the molten rock. Now, with the village mostly cleaned of ash, the fishermen find themselves with an improved harbor and a potential source of heating energy from the lava deposits.

The governor announced suspension of the state's highest fire official, Warren Southworth, and two of his subordinates, Stanley Boyd, head of the division for new construction, and John Bramlage, a northern Kentucky field representative.

California outlaws mandatory retirement

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — They may still do it to horses, but starting next year it will be illegal to turn most California jobholders out to pasture at a certain age.

To keep on working after normal retirement age, most jobholders will need only the desire and the ability.

Maine is the only other state with a law modifying mandatory retirement. The Maine law, which takes effect next July, covers civil service workers only.

In Washington, the House was to vote Wednesday on a measure dropping the mandatory retirement for federal workers. The proposal contains a provision to extend the private sector's mandatory retirement age from the present 65 to 70.

Under the new California law, the employees of the state and local governments will need only a state certificate of continued competence to stay on the job. The law won't apply to fire and police officers or schoolteachers.

In the private sector, an employee could stay unless his or her employer went through a state agency and demonstrated that the employee's abilities would be reduced.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who signed the end of mandatory retirement into law late last week, said, "I see this not only as a matter of individual liberty, but also as a necessity for collective survival."

While the retirement legislation drew little attention before it was passed, supporters said Brown had come under pressure from the business community to veto it. And Brown has taken heat inside his own cabinet.

"I'm opposed to the whole idea of people staying on the job until they die or get in poor health and are forced to quit," said Leonard Grimes, secretary of agriculture and services.

The author of the retirement legislation sees the issue from another angle. "It's ridiculous that when they reach the magical age of 64 or 65, you tell them they have no worth. Some of our best contributions come from people over 65," Assemblyman Richard Alatorres said.

Questions still linger in Bell jurors' minds

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — After five weeks of testimony, jurors in the multi-million dollar damage suit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. braced themselves in different ways for the ordeal of deliberations.

Katie Hensley, a devout Lutheran who was one of the two dissenting jurors in the decision that may cost Bell $3 million, prayed for guidance the night before the jurors were to begin their work.

The jurors' recollections of the two-and-a-half day deliberations produce a picture of mostly middle- and low-income working people tossing around seven-digit dollar figures like executives.

Ashley had claimed he was wrongfully fired from his executive post after an improper investigation. Gravit's family claimed the former executive was driven to his suicide by that investigation.

But Cutrera, a former Marine sergeant, said Ashley's on-the-job record was impressive enough to overshadow any off-the-job indiscretions.

Richard Figueroa, who joined Mrs. Hensley in dissenting, said at first the case was "a big ol' puzzle. But toward the end it all started fitting into place."

The award proposals ranged from Chapa's $9 million down to Penn's proposal of $100,000 for each defendant. Penn stuck to his low figure until Chapa threatened to vote with Mrs. Hensley and Figueroa if the reward wasn't higher, the jurors recalled.

The threat worked and the jurors fled back into the courtroom to announce their decision.

And some of the jurors told the newspaper that questions about their decision still hung in their minds.

Several jurors recalled the toughest question was money. To retired Air Force Sgt. Ross Cutrera it was like a high-stakes poker game.

Artemio Chapa, a city maintenance worker who grew up on San Antonio's impoverished West Side, suggested the plaintiffs were entitled to at least $9 million.

But to Mrs. Hensley the money was a secondary issue. She saw it as a moral question. The defense witnesses convinced her that Ashley and Gravit were executive playboys — and she stubbornly tried to convince the other jurors of that.

Richard Figueroa, who joined Mrs. Hensley in dissenting, said at first the case was "a big ol' puzzle. But toward the end it all started fitting into place."

Watch for children

with Marj Carpenter

It's now the start of the fourth week of school and Big Spring has been fortunate in having no accidents involving school children walking or on bicycles.

Just as school began this year, a local mother of a young child sent in a particularly well-written essay on safety at school. She pled that drivers not just drive legally—but safely.

She had to wait at home each day and hope and pray that the motorists are watching, and concerned and careful.

Children might forget for a moment the dangers of a coming vehicle. But in Big Spring, thus far this year, we have been lucky—because apparently the drivers are remembering the importance of caution when driving around schools.

and just like any team effort, such as football or baseball inattention to those basics leads to disaster and defeat.

Among the basics, essential to industrial development, are the requirements to do a very thorough and detailed job in researching the assets that are available to a community — what buildings and what sites can be used? What utilities are available, what zoning restrictions apply, what tax rates should be considered — is the price competitive—what natural resources are present?

The second major step is seeking prospective industries. Again, the process in itself requires a major effort involving considerable analysis of the market. What type of industry are we seeking — will they be compatible with our people and with our existing industries and business — will the type of employee that is attracted to Big Spring compliment and benefit the community. Once we've established the criteria for types of industry, much communication is required in order to advertise the desirability of our assets which we researched initially. This prospecting for suitable industries is also a full-time job.

The next step is visiting with the prospect when he arrives in town. Here is where a thorough

Plight of farming

I was privileged to attend a meeting of Food and Fiber Institute last week and in addition to listening to an old friend of ours, Rep. George Mahon, I was introduced to the chairman of the House Agriculture and Related Actions Sub-Committee of the powerful Appropriations Committee, Rep. Jamie Whitten of Mississippi. Rep. Whitten is the likely successor to Rep. Mahon as appropriations chairman. But what was impressive, was the frankness with which Rep. Whitten expressed the plight of our agricultural economy. It was obvious that he is aware of our problems and is working to help solve them. He noted that only 5 per cent of the American population is involved in farming and ranching and that the other 95 per cent benefit directly from that small minority and he emphasized that we need to communicate with that 95 per cent if we are going to improve the situation. I agree, and this office is dedicated to help establish those communications and carry the message to the other 95 per cent.

No matter how well we do something — there's always room for improvement. It follows, then that if we begin to think there's no way to do it better or more efficiently, that thought becomes a very dangerous attitude and we quickly lose effectiveness.

Our chamber of commerce is really a good example of an activity that constantly requires updating and improvement. Likewise — one of the major activities of the chamber, industrial development, needs and deserves continual attention. That attention involves a periodic review of the basics,

What happens now?

What happens now? Fall back and regroup. That's what happens now to the Big Spring Steers, according to Don Robbins.

Robbins was understandably distraught by the chain of events that took place over the weekend. Of most concern to the Steers was the eye injury to senior starting quarterback Mike Abreo. "Mike won't be in school this week. He's suffered a lot of physical and mental anguish," said Robbins.

How much damage has been done to the eye is still uncertain. There will just have to be a day by day analysis of his progress, according to Robbins. "But he is much better pain-wise," Robbins added.

This morning, Robbins checked a freshman student of school who admitted to throwing the rock that struck Abreo. The student and his father were apparently going to visit Abreo and apologize.

"The kid who threw the rock was just playing around," said Robbins. "To our satisfaction, it was just a freak accident and there was no premeditation involved."

Robbins freely admits that the injury to Abreo took the wind out of some of the coaches and players' sails. "We had the best pep rally of the year, but after the announcement about Mike, we just didn't play with the intensity needed," the coach stated.

Robbins attributed the loss to a breakdown on the kicking game and blocking assignments and a fired-up Snyder club. The Steer coach said that there would probably be a few position changes on both offense and defense this week. "We have to improve this week," Robbins said. "This is going to be work week," he said, emphasizing the "work."

The Steer coaching staff will add a few new wrinkles to the offense in the next two weeks, getting ready for loop tussles.

Robbins indicated that the Steers would have a chance to win during district action.

"Even as well as our defense is playing," he said, "we're still going to have to improve our scoring average to stay in there." The Steer offense is averaging seven points a game. The defense scored once against Andrews.

The Steers have two weeks to prepare for district. Barring further "Why-us-lord?" occurrences, and a letdown mentally, the Steers should still have a better chance of winning a conference game than they did last season.

The Quarterback Club will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the High School cafeteria. Game films and a scouting report on Abilene will be given. There will not be a meeting following the Steers' open week.

Peewee League football began last Saturday. Coaches are reminded to have their scoop-in by 6 p.m. Saturday, if they want it in Sunday's paper. In the only game not reported, the Oilers beat the Packers 6-0.

Next Saturday at 3 p.m., the Packers meet the Vikings, the Oilers meet the Dolphins at 3 p.m. and the Cowboys meet the Eagles after that. Coahoma has a bye.

As much as I hate to say this, here is my prediction. The Southwest Conference race will not be between Tech and the Aggies and Houston, but between Tech and UT. Even though Virginia was completely out of UT's league, 68 points against anyone is to be reckoned with. Boy, that has a bad taste to it.

By the way "Jumpin'"... Texas Tech 28, A&M 10.

Staubach torpedoes Viking ship

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)—Roger Staubach (AP)—Roger Staubach fulfilled one of the Navy's most famous fighting traditions in leading the Dallas Cowboys to their 13th consecutive opening-day victory in the National Football League.

"Damn the torpedoes, full speed ahead," the legendary Naval battle cry, may well have been on Staubach's lips as he navigated the final four yards into Minnesota's end zone to give the Cowboys a 16-10 overtime victory over the Vikings Sunday.

The 35-year-old quarterback, who spent four years on active duty with the U.S. Navy before joining Dallas in 1969, doesn't always like to run, but when he has to...

"I just put my head down," explained Staubach. "Sometimes it works, sometimes, well you know, I've got a few bruises."

Staubach pinched into the end zone between Viking linebackers Matt Blair and Jeff Simon.

"I don't like seeing him run, but I can't take that away from him," added Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "When he knows it's gonna win the game, you can't stop him."

The Vikings were expecting Staubach. "We know that's one of their plays down in that area," said Viking Coach Bud Grant. "We were looking for it."

Staubach's seven-yard TD pass to Preston Pearson gave Dallas a 10-7 lead midway through the fourth period, but Fred Cox kicked a 35-yard field goal with 1:25 left to send the game into overtime.

Dallas placekicker Efran Herrera missed a 27-yard field goal try with three seconds left that could have prevented the sudden-death session.

The Cowboy defense harassed Fran Tarkenton and Co. mercilessly after Minnesota's opening drive of the game, which carried 81 yards and resulted in the lone Viking touchdown.

"There is just no answer why we looked so good then and not later," said Tarkenton. "It's obvious both defenses played better than the offense."

Chuck Foreman, all alone at the Dallas 10, caught a Tarkenton pass and high-stepped into the end zone. Cox' kick gave the Vikings a 7-0 lead.

Herrera's 40-yard field goal in the second period pulled Dallas within 7-3.

Staubach hit on 18 of 30 pass attempts for 196 yards while Tarkenton suffered three interceptions while completing just 13 of 32 attempts for 182 yards.

Cliff Harris picked off two passes by Tarkenton, who suffered through a miserable performance. The 17-year veteran quarterback was responsible for another Viking turnover with a poor pitchout to Foreman and he was whistled twice for intentionally grounding the ball.

Oiler offense smooth

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers offense, so much improved during preseason games, finally cranked up to blank the New York Jets 20-0 in a ragged National Football League season opener Sunday but it took plenty of urging—two pass interference calls and Curly Culp's fumble return.

"I will speak sternly to these young men next week," Oiler offensive coordinator Ken Shipp said after the Oilers finally put away the hapless Jets. "I was really disappointed in our game. We worked hard all week. We just didn't get the job done."

A second quarter pass interference call gave Houston a first down at the New York one and fullback Don Hardeman bulled over on the next play.

The penalty originally was called against Jets defensive back Burgess Owens but both Owens and safety Maurice Tyler said later that Tyler was guilty of both key pass interference calls.

Early in the fourth quarter an 11-yard pass interference call against Tyler gave Houston another first down at the New York one and this time, quarterback Dan Pastorini submarined in for the score.

Since the Jets got inside Houston's 20 only once in the game, that should have wrapped it up for Houston but, Culp gave the Oilers another score in the fourth quarter. He scooped up a fumble by Jets quarterback Richard Todd and ran 27 yards to the New York three before being hauled down from behind.

Two plays later rookie Rob Carpenter leap-frogged the Jets line for the score to make it 20-0.

Froggies are human too

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian's new coaches have been telling their players to make something happen. But they would've preferred for Steve Barker to wait until he was officially in a game.

Oregon's Kenny Bryant had swiped a pass Saturday and was scampering down the TCU sideline, apparently headed for a 97-yard touchdown, when the helmetless Barker came off the bench and tackled him.

"I've been on the bench two weeks and the coaches are saying to make something happen," said the frustrated Barker, a reserve linebacker who has never seen the hapless Frogs win in his college career.

TCU has lost 13 games in a row, including Saturday's 29-24 loss to the Ducks, and has won only two of its last 37 games.

"I'm tired of staying on the bench and seeing people on the field and going through the motions," said Barker. "I wanted to tackle him, damn right."

Meanwhile, about 100 miles away in Abilene, Western New Mexico freshman Jessie Davis stuck his leg out from the sidelines Saturday and tripped Abilene Christian's Alex Davis, who was credited with a 56-yard touchdown run in a 46-13 ACU victory.

New TCU Coach F.A. Dry was apologetic, but said the illegal tackle ignited the furious fourth quarter rally that brought the Frogs back from a 24-3 deficit.

"I want to apologize publicly for the boy coming off the bench," said Dry. "Ironically, that kind of turned us around. I looked up and saw him going. I knew what he was going to do but I couldn't get to him."

Bryant, who was 10 yards ahead of the nearest TCU player, said, "I didn't see the guy. The next thing I knew I felt myself spinning around. I wondered what had happened, because the only people who had a chance to get me were the quarterback or tailback."

Adding to the confusion, the angry Bryant, thinking he had lost the touchdown, threw the ball to the ground and was promptly penalized on the ensuing kickoff for spiking the ball.

Dry said he hadn't decided whether to discipline Barker. "There would have to be a lot more circumstances than just wanting to see the team win for me to kick him off the team," said Dry, one of the first to grab Barker when he retreated back to the bench. "He's had no history of disciplinary problems. He acted out of emotion."

"I'm prepared for a lot of punishment," said Barker after the game.

It was the first such off-the-bench tackle involving an Southwest Conference team since Alabama's Tommy Lewis came off the bench to stop Rice's Dick Maegle 95-yard touchdown run in the 1964 Cotton Bowl game.

Aggie-Raider duel highlights SWC action

By the Associated Press
It's showdown time on the high plains with seventh-ranked Texas A&M and eighth-ranked Texas Tech tangling Saturday night in a Southwest Conference shootout of unbeatens that could go a long way toward deciding the eventual host team in the Cotton Bowl.

Texas A&M coasted to a 27-6 victory over Virginia Tech Saturday with the Red Raiders on the Aggies' minds.

"We weren't exactly high as a kite," said Aggie Coach Emory Bellard. "We know who we play this week."

The Aggies get a red-hot Red Raider team which scorched New Mexico 49-14.

Tech stung A&M in College Station last year when Rodney Allison came off the bench following a shoulder separation suffered by starting Tech quarterback Tommy Duniven.

Allison is a senior now and recalls "That game was one of the most physical I've been around. I'm sure it will be that way again. The Tech-A&M games always are."

In other games Saturday, Arkansas ripped Oklahoma

State 28-6. Texas slaughtered Virginia 68-0. North Texas tripped Southern Methodist 24-13. Florida routed Rice 48-3. Penn State mauled Houston 31-14. Oregon nipped Texas Christian 29-24, and Baylor blasted Kentucky 21-6.

The SWC tries to fatten its 8-4 intersectional record this week when Baylor goes to Nebraska, TCU is at Southern Cal, Tulsa is at Arkansas, Houston is at Utah, Rice is at LSU, and SMU hosts Tulane.

Defending co-champion Houston suffered a big blow when quarterback Danny Davis went down with a separated shoulder and will be lost at least six weeks.

The big news at TCU was not that the Horned Frogs lost their 13th consecutive game but how it happened. Remember the Tommy Lewis off-the-bench tackle of Dicky Moegle in the 1954 Cotton Bowl?

TCU linebacker Steve Barker came off the bench and tackled Oregon's Ken Bryant who apparently was on his way for a touchdown.

The officials gave Bryant a 97-yard touchdown run.

"I was just trying to make something happen," said Barker.

He did. TCU scored three touchdowns in three minutes but fell just short.

Arkansas' Ben Cowins

turned in perhaps the top offensive performance of the day with 203 yards against the Big Eight Cowboys.

OSU Coach Jim Stanley said "Cowins is as good as any back I've seen" which apparently includes Stanley's own Terry Miller.

Cowins scored two touchdowns, including a 72-yarder.

Turner wins Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner blew away Australia's hopes for capturing the America's Cup and then, with healthy helpings of champagne and rum, got blown out of his deck shoes.

Turner, alias "Captain Outrageous," "Terrible Ted" and "The Mouth of the South," sailed veteran defender Courageous to a victory margin of 2 minutes and 25 seconds against Australia Sunday and then the celebration began.

Hundreds of yachts, sailboats, outboards and even surfboards with sails greeted Courageous' return to Newport Harbor after the sleek whitehulled yacht made it four straight in the best-of-seven series for the cup.

Turner's victory marked the 23rd time that the United States has successfully defended the 126-year-old trophy and the third time that Australia has had a 12-meter yacht in the finals and lost.

After joining the Australia crew in a swim at his dock, Turner walked the four blocks to America's Cup headquarters with his wife and a Newport policeman helping him navigate.

Even with a lot of help, Turner kept walking out of his deck shoes. "Ted's the name and baseball's my game," Turner said as he wobbled down the street with a bottle of rum clenched in his fist.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time when you will be able to express and state your views intelligently and in a practical manner so be able to make them work for you in your everyday existence. See that those who are in positions of power and authority are aware of your willingness to back their efforts.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show your ability to bigwigs and gain their favor so that you can become more successful in the future. Forget about going off on some tangent.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have new interests that need further study before they can be operating successfully. Trust your intuition which is most accurate now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) See how a more meaningful relationship between you and loved one can be developed. Be sure not to lose your temper with anyone.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get an early start on those jobs ahead of you and do so efficiently. Complete one before you go on to the other. You have new plans that partners will cooperate with you regarding them also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Give full attention to the duties ahead of you and they are soon behind you. Take better care of your health... Go over bills and pay the most pressing ones.

VRIGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan recreation early so that it goes off smoothly later. Handle business affairs wisely. Give more attention to needs of loved one, mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are more aware of the needs of your family and must do your best to please them. Get more organized better and you can be more successful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take time to seek persons and interests through which you can better your position in life. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Good time to put your financial affairs in better order and become more successful. If you have any doubts, contact a business expert you know and get needed advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the right interests that will further your goals. Get out to some social affair and make headway. Don't lose temper with one you love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget daydreaming and get to work on concrete plans for greater success in the future. An expert can be very helpful to you, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what clever and wise persons have to suggest for your betterment in life, gain personal aims more readily. Join with good friends and work out some feasible plan.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be most practical and understand the value and use of money. Be sure to give good ethical training early so that your progeny can become successful in right channels. There is musical talent here which should be developed.
