Giraffe dies of shock

MARWELL HALL, England (AP) — Victor, the spreadeagle giraffe died today apparently of shock during an attempt to winch him to a canvas sling made by the Royal Navy.

The giraffe, which had been unable to stand since he did the splits last Thursday, could not survive the attempt to lift him with a block and tackle hung from steel scaffolding.

The plight of 15-year-old Victor was front-page news in this animal-loving nation and around the world. Telegrams and letters poured in to the Marwell Park Zoo with suggestions on how to get him to his feet.

He apparently fell while trying to mate with one of the zoo's three female giraffes.

Victor "was a bit stressed by all the activity around him last night," said his keeper, 21-year-old Ruth Giles. "But he appeared to have settled down and had something to eat this morning."

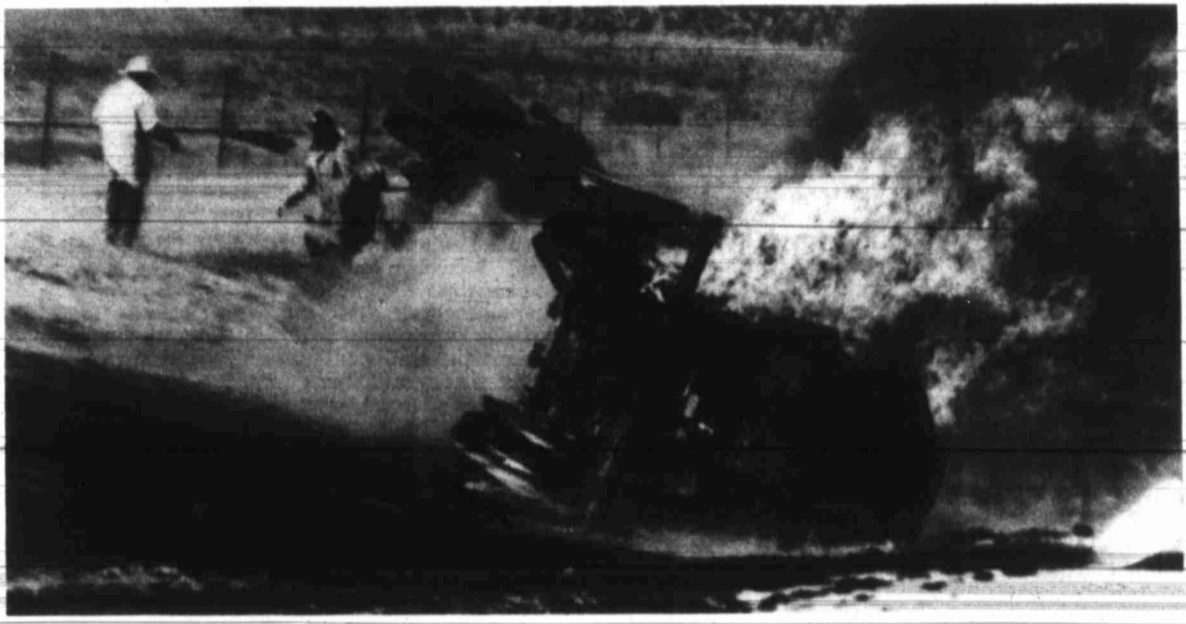

A veterinarian who examine the giraffe said he died from "shock." An autopsy was planned.

The 18-foot-tall East African giraffe had been raised in the air, clad in a harness specially made by Royal

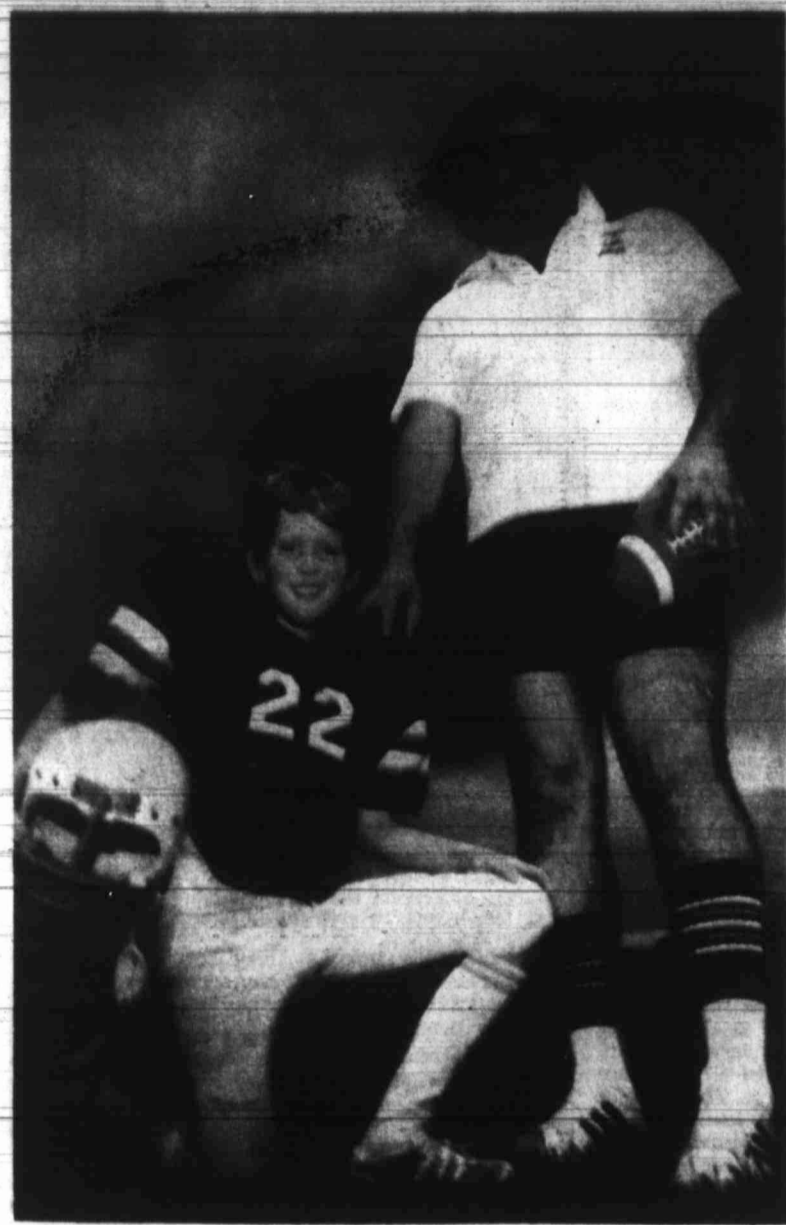

Navy sailmakers. The one-ton animal hung swaying from the steel scaffolding as workmen lowered him near the ground in a see-saw operation designed to slowly restore circulation to his rickety legs.

He seemed to have trouble with his breathing as they lowered him, and he suddenly died.

PROS, PAST AND FUTURE — The mornings are cooler, the grass is preparing to turn brown and everyone's mind has turned to football in the fall. Former pro lineman for the Denver Broncos, and new Big Spring citizen, Rod Rodriguez, and Phillip Koger, sixth grade student at Goliad, are two local participants in the gridiron action. Koger, the son of a former Big Spring coach Tom Koger, plays for the Eagles of the Pee Wee League, and Rodriguez is one of the coaches for the same squad.

VOLUNTEERS FIGHT FLAMES — The Coahoma Volunteer fire department is shown battling the flames from a Pride Oil Transport truck which crashed on the highway just inside Mitchell County and burned at 11 a.m. today. The driver got out of the vehicle before it exploded into flames.

Missing airplane fueled in Beaumont

Trans Regional Airline's missing $180,000 Navajo Chieftan was gassing up in Beaumont, La. an hour before its loss was reported to the Howard County Sheriff's Department, according to Sheriff A.N. Standard.

"We have learned," said Standard, "that a plane giving the correct number radioed the Lake Charles La. FFA at 7:15 a.m. Friday requesting help. The pilot told the ground that he was socked in and needed to land. Lake Charles sent him back to Beaumont."

According to the Sheriff, the plane touched down in Beaumont at approximately 7:20 a.m. Friday, one hour before the report of its theft from the Howard County Airport was filed.

The plane was airborne again at 7:40, refueled with 168 gallons of gas and two quarts of oil and headed eastward. The pilot had given a name and a Los Angeles address when he purchased the gas.

"This is the first plane theft this department has worked," commented Standard, "but we are involved now with authorities from the Texas and Louisiana state law officers to the FBI to the Oklahoma City national aircraft theft index."

According to reports, Trans Regional manager R.E. McClure thought he heard a prop noise at about 4 a.m. Friday. The plane, when filled with gas, has a cruising range of about five hours at 200 m.p.h., or about 1,000 miles. But Trans Regional said the plane had only an hour and one-half of fuel when stolen.

United Way drive begins

Mayor Wade Choate has officially declared today as "United Way Day" in the City of Big Spring, and through his declaration encourages local citizens to join with him in support of this fund-raising endeavor.

The United Way solicitation campaign got under way today after a special meeting of civic clubs and United Way officials at the Settles Hotel Ballroom at noon.

Charles Beil, director of the campaign, said the purpose of the meeting today was to officially recognize the kick off of United Way solicitation which will continue until the deadline of November 1.

Zero-plus dialing begins

Zero-Plus Dialing — a faster method of making operator-assisted long distance calls — comes to Big Spring October 3.

Bob Hurt, manager for Southwestern Bell, said the new service will allow customers to reach an operator within three seconds the majority of the time.

The service is used when making person-to-person, collect or credit card calls, calls billed to a third number or calls from pay phones and motels.

In connection with the cutover, operator service will be handled from other West Texas cities. "No regular full-time employees are being laid off as a result of the changeover," Hurt said.

"Zero-Plus Dialing works much like One-Plus," Hurt said.

"The customer dials zero then the area code unless it's the same as his and then the distant telephone number.

"When the customer completes dialing the call, an operator will request the information needed to complete the call. The operator leaves the line as soon as the call is completed."

Driver escapes flaming crash

COLORADO CITY — John Roulston, Jr., a truck driver for Pride Transport of Abilene, was treated for minor bruises and released after he narrowly escaped burning with a truck which exploded on IS 20 at 11 a.m. today.

Roulston apparently lost control of the vehicle which was headed west on IS 20 two miles inside the Mitchell County line. The truck left the right side of the highway and turned on its side in the ditch. The driver crawled out and had just gotten across the highway when the tanker exploded.

David Palmer, Taylor County game warden who was driving in the vicinity, said "There was a loud noise and flames shot 70 feet in the air when the truck went up."

The truck continued to burn until after noon today. Coahoma Volunteer firemen raced to the scene and kept the flames from spreading, although the load of combination fuel was apparently going to have to burn out before the fire could be brought under control.

David Hancock, highway patrolman assigned to Mitchell County was in charge. Marvin Keenan of Mitchell County, deputies from that county and DPS patrolman Bill Jennings from Big Spring directed traffic at the scene.

Three more Pride Transports came along and pulled off past the scene of the fire to learn details for their company. They said they "had no idea who was the driver of the burning truck."

Root Memorial Hospital personnel said apparently the driver was brought to Colorado City by a private car. The driver complained some of his back at the scene, according to one bystander, but apparently had minor abrasions in the accident.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Lunch lines

Q. Why did school officials cut cafeteria lines from four to three in the high school cafeteria? Doesn't this result in excessive crowding and long waits for students?

A. According to John Smith, principal of the high school, the change was made due to the reduction in enrollment, creating a reduction in lunchroom staff. Smith said the line cut was "to provide for things to come". Although he admitted lines were a little longer, he said there had been no problems with time to eat. The longest line was usually to the snack bar, according to Smith.

Offbeat: Women to carry torch

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A group of women are planning to literally carry the torch of women's rights from the site of their first big gathering to the site of their latest convention.

The National Women's Hall of Fame announced that the torch will leave this upstate New York village where Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott first organized suffragettes in July, 1848, and be carried Olympic style by relay runners to the National Women's Conference which begins in Houston on Nov. 18.

The torch is scheduled to be lit Wed., Sept. 28, at the same location where the women's rights advocates first met. The site is now a laundromat.

The runners will start carrying the torch on the 2,500 mile route the next day, bringing it through Albany, Springfield, Mass., New York City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., Atlanta and other points along the way.

The National Association of Girls' and Women's Sports, which is coordinating the runners, says the torchbearers hope to average 50 miles a day.

Farmers too busy for protest

By MARJ CARPENTER
Cotton farmers in Howard, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin and Mitchell Counties are busy with the harvest and apparently have no time to ride tractors to Austin.

A group of Texas farmers rode their tractors to the capitol today in protest of depressed market conditions. "That's all right for those South Texas farmers who have their cotton in the barn," one Martin county farmer quipped here Monday. "But we're trying to get the crop in and a lot of people are busy stripping."

Some are also defoliating, if they can obtain defoliant and if they can afford it. A large number of farmers did take time off to attend the cotton meetings in Lamesa Monday, however.

Around 100 went to her Earl Sears, a former Lamesan who is one of the key men in the cotton industry today.

The administrative vice president of the National Cotton Council talked to the farmers about the new farm bill and pointed out that "it may be the best solution we can get at this time."

He did stress that seven segments of the industry had gotten together to discuss it. Among the items discussed at the meeting was the fact that a textile slump and a combination of over production have caused cotton prices to go down.

Speakers at the meeting Monday pointed out that the problems are amny — cottonseed is cheap and gins are having problems and the entire industry is suffering some of the pains that the cattle industry and other industries have already been through.

An appeal to lump cotton together in a million-bale coop loan through a Gaines County farm union is getting little attention around Big Spring and Lamesa.

Donnell Echols of Patricio, a director of the National Cotton Inc. has long been known as a strong spokesman for cotton. Echols says,

"Many of the farmers will go into the loan on their own, hoping the price will go up in the next ten months. However, very few want to go into a group. They want to be able to catalogue their own cotton and know what is what."

Echols pointed out that "There is a strong possibility that the prices might go up during those ten months. Of course, they might not. The farmers are just facing a decision which we must each make for ourselves."

Because of the cheap cottonseed, indications are that farmers will be paying $13-$25 above the seed to get their cotton ginned this year. There was a panel at the meeting in Lamesa who attempted to explain what had caused this dilemma. Ed Breihan, vice president of the National Cotton Council and manager of Plains Cotton Oil Mill; Bob Rickley, manager of West Texas Oil Mill in Pecos and Allen Herzer, manager of the Lamesa Cotton Oil Mill, addressed this problem.

Tony Price, executive vice president of the Texas Cotton Ginners Association spoke on "Cotton Gins in Trouble."

All in all, the West Texas cotton farmers feel like they are fighting plenty of problems.

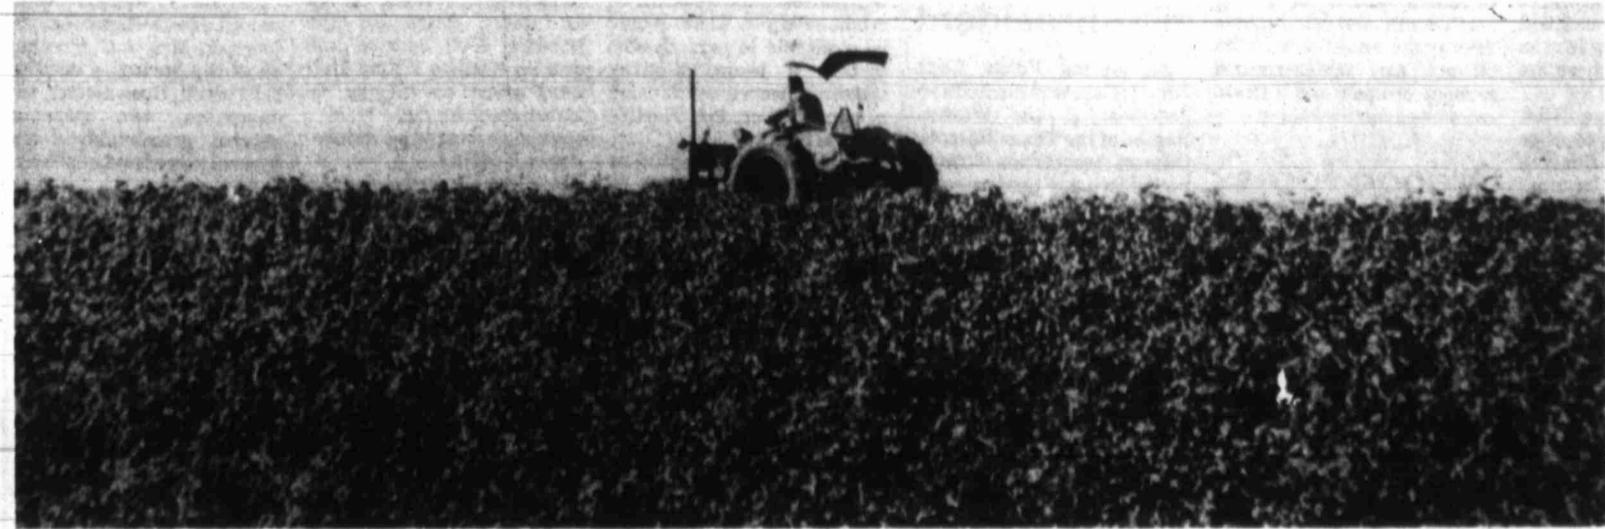

They are trying to defoliate when defoliant is scarce and expensive. The cheapness of cottonseed has caused the cost of ginning to go up.

The problems for the cotton textile mills on the world market and the overproduction due to last year's good cotton prices have caused the price of cotton to go down.

A small profit is being offered by the cotton buyers, who are the go-between from the farmers to the mill.

Some farmers are taking the available price because they need the money now. Others are planning to put their cotton in the ten-month government loan program and hope that the market climbs.

A Lenorah farmer stated firmly, "I've got my cotton stripped but I haven't got time to drive a tractor to Austin. I wish them luck. But I don't feel like putting wear and tear on my tractor just to tell some politician what they already know. The cotton farmers are in trouble."

TOO BUSY — This Howard County farmer is shown busily working in his cotton field Monday. He and most other cotton farmers in this part of the state are too busy getting the cotton ready for harvest to be driving tractors to Austin to protect the plight of the farmer. The protest was scheduled to take place today.

A BUSS FOR BESS—Rep. Edward Koch kisses his campaign chairperson, former Miss America Bess Myerson, after he won a Democratic primary runoff handily Monday night in New York. The victory over Secretary of State Mario Cuomo, Gov. Hugh Carey's handpicked candidate, virtually assured the tall bachelor his election in November as the city's 105th mayor.

Probated sentences

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A former Duval County lawyer and a former school superintendent were placed on probation in state district court in separate cases charging them with theft from the Benavides Independent School District.

Marvin Foster pleaded no contest Monday to charges of taking $3,500 from the school district for legal services never performed.

Bryan P. Taylor, the former San Diego school superintendent, pleaded guilty to taking money from the school district during a nine-month period in 1974.

Taylor and another official had work done on their houses and charged it to the district.

Foster, who now lives in San Antonio, was placed on probation for five years and ordered to pay restitution of $3,500 by State District Court Judge Darrell Hester. Foster also submitted a signed statement resigning his license to practice law.

Taylor, now living in Brady, received three years probation and must make restitution of $1,200 after entering a plea-bargaining agreement with the state. Taylor agreed to testify in Duval County criminal cases of which he had knowledge in exchange for the probated sentence.

Both men had undergone trials previously for the same offenses and both faced judge Hester Monday after being reindicted by a Duval County grand jury.

Prisoner swap treaty

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP)—Americans jailed in this Mexican border city say the prisoner exchange treaty could cause more problems than it solves.

"No one has told us what will happen to us once we get back to the United States," said 29-year-old Lance English of Austin.

"Will we be eligible for parole? Can we appeal the sentence? Where will they take us in the States? Will we have criminal records in the United States?" he asked.

"And why the hell is it taking so long to get us out of here?"

English, one of seven Americans imprisoned in Matamoros, has been in this prison across the Rio Grande from Brownsville for 34 months. He was sentenced to a five-year, nine-month term for marijuana possession.

"I've got about $4,000 tied up in an appeal in Mexico City," said Robert Becket, 29, of Rio Grande City. "I don't want to go back if I'm going to lose all chances of an appeal."

"I can't believe I could be jailed in the United States on the kind of case they've got against me."

Three killings in Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—A Dallas actor kicked in the door of his ex-wife's apartment early today, shot her and her boyfriend to death and then fatally shot himself with his .357 Magnum revolver, police said.

Officials said Kenneth Bruce Jones, 32, called a friend shortly before 2 a. m. and told him, "I just killed my wife and her lover. Go ahead and call the police. When they get here I'll be dead."

When police arrived at the North Dallas apartment they found the nude bodies of Myrna Emmanuelli, 35, and her boyfriend 27-year-old Michael Crim on the bedroom floor. Jones' body was sprawled in the room.

A Dallas County Medical Examiner's office spokesman said Jones' friend had told him Miss Emmanuelli had broken a date with her former husband Monday night and instead had gone out with Crim.

Police said Crim was shot in the back of the head and Miss Emmanuelli was then shot once in the face.

Jones apparently put the barrel of the weapon into his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Perfect night for a circus, fair debut

By MARJ CARPENTER

Hundreds of pounds of popcorn, hundreds of hot dogs, cotton candy and gallons of soft drinks disappeared as 6,000 persons watched the annual Shrine Circus on a perfect September night Monday.

Souvenir books, balloons, whistling birds and miniature monkeys on a stick were sold by the dozens to the applauding crowd. They tried even to listen politely to George Bair, chairman of the circus, as he introduced the Shrine officials prior to the action and cheered when the clowns came running out to begin the show.

COMPETITION—This group was plenty of competition for the Shrine Circus clowns Monday night. Travis Floyd, president of the local club, is shown in the middle of a group that even took part in the circus grand entry. Close to 6,000 attended the circus here Monday night.

It was circus night in Big Spring and for the first time in several years did not rain. Quipped one rancher as he left the arena with his children, "Times are really getting tough if it fails to rain on circus day."

At the fair itself, the barrow show and sale was held an opening day, and women's exhibits were judged. Winners will be announced this week.

The agriculture exhibits were being judged today. Art was on exhibition all over the walls of the Dora Roberts Fair building with ribbons on the paintings.

Many commercial booths were holding demonstrations or giving away prizes and such booths as the Heritage Museum, the March of Dimes, the student council, and the historical organization were stressing their various projects.

The barrow sale is scheduled at 7 p.m. today and Wednesday's big event will be the Jerry Clower Show in the rodeo arena at 8 p.m.

Thursday will include the poultry and rabbit shows and washer pitching at 7 p.m. Friday includes the Agri-Business Day Tour at 8:30 a.m., the barbecue honoring farmers and ranchers at noon and the children's pet show at 7:30 p.m. There is also a domino tournament beginning that night.

The Open and Youth Horse Show scheduled Saturday will be held in the rodeo bowl with halter classes beginning at 9:30 a.m. and performance classes at 12:30 p.m. There will be an open jackpot barrel race at 2 p.m. There are open, novice and junior classes and an electric eye will be used. For further information, call 263-6528.

The big Howard County Roping is scheduled at 4:30 p.m. with the finals at 7:30 p.m. There is also a steer and heifer show at 1 p.m. Saturday and a Short Horn Show at 8 a.m. The finals for the domino tournament is scheduled Saturday as well.

Skipper Driver and Neil Fryar, president and superintendent of the show say, "There's something at the show for everyone, so bring the family."

WINNER—This crossbreed barrow, shown by Janie and Jamie Phillips was the grand champion at the Barrow Show Monday at the Howard County Fair. The poultry and rabbit show are Thursday and the Steer and Heifer Show Saturday at the annual event.

The admission price is only 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. The Midway is open nightly.

There was some problem with parking on opening night where people blocked in those who arrived earlier. Some who attended the fair were blocked in by those at the circus.

Officials pointed out that "if people cannot be mannerly and not block in cars, it may become necessary to haul some away."

The only other night that they anticipated a real problem was possibly on Wednesday with the Jerry Clower Show. Patrons are urged to be considerate of the other motorists.

Cars were parked all over the parking area, around Airport School, and all the way down the "bird streets" on opening night.

'We just can't go'

BOISE CITY, Okla. (AP)— "We just can't go on this way," says Fred Ottinger, a Panhandle wheat farmer who hopes to see a groundswell of support for a protest calculated to pull farmers from a deepening financial hole.

The 43-year-old lifetime farmer said today he sees evidence of growing support for a loosely-knit group calling itself American Agriculture.

Based in Springfield, Colo., the group is advocating a farmers' strike beginning this December unless farmers receive a government guarantee of 100 per cent parity, a full return on their investment.

Farmers from several surrounding states will converge on Pueblo, Colo., Thursday to meet with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Robert Bergland.

At least 20 farmers from the Boise City area will go to Pueblo, Ottinger said. At least one will be among those driving farm equipment to emphasize farm problems.

Ottinger said about 150 farmers met in Boise City Monday night to talk about the Thursday meeting and the proposed farm strike.

"We asked them to stand up if they were for the strike and, as far as we could tell, the support was 100 per cent," Ottinger said.

The strike, scheduled for Dec. 14, would halt the production and sale of farm products and the purchase of agriculture equipment and production supplies, Ottinger said.

Farmers at the meeting also vowed to drop their membership in any farm organization which fails to support the planned strike.

The farmers say the return they are receiving on their investment has reached a 44 year low. Parity averages 64 per cent for all farm products, ranging upward

Tax on gas-thirsty cars nixed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee, after approving President Carter's proposed tax credit for home insulation, today rejected his tax on gas-thirsty automobiles.

The surprise vote against the tax was 11 to 5. Several committee members said they voted against the Carter tax because the Senate already has voted to ban the manufacture of fuel-inefficient cars beginning in 1980.

Today's vote was even worse for Carter than it appeared on its face. There are growing indications that the committee will vote to kill the other two major taxes that make up the President's energy tax program.

Despite the committee's vote, the gas-guzzler tax is not dead. The full Senate will consider it next month, as will as a House-Senate conference committee.

As passed by the House, the bill would impose a tax of up to $53 on any 1979 model car that gets less than 13 miles per gallon. In 1985, the maximum tax would climb to $3,856.

Whatever the fate of the tax, it will have no effect on an existing law which penalizes manufacturers if their fleet of cars falls below a minimum efficiency standard. For 1978 models that minimum is 18 mpg; in 1985 it rises to 27.5 mpg.

On a 9-7 vote the committee rejected a House provision that would have repealed the existing income tax deduction for state and local gasoline taxes. The repeal, supported by the Carter administration, would have cost consumers an additional $1.4 billion a year by 1985.

Votes on two other key proposals are likely later this week, with results also expected to be unfavorable for Carter's energy plan.

One panel member predicted that no more than four of 18 members would vote for a proposal to tax industrial use of natural gas and oil so heavily that utilities and factories would switch to coal.

And committee aides said there is virtually no chance the panel will accept Carter's proposal to force energy conservation by imposing a stiff tax on all domestic oil. The Senate Energy Committee voted 13-1 Monday to recommend that the finance panel reject the tax.

ability" of a tax credit. That is in the case of the earned-income credit, which provides a tax bonus of up to $400 for working families with incomes under $8,000.

Production drops below 3 million

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—For the first time in five years—since all out oil production began in Texas in 1972—the Texas production dropped below three million barrels a day in July. Railroad Commission chairman Mack Wallace said today.

"Production first exceeded the three million barrel daily mark in May 1969, as a growing domestic demand pushed the market demand factor to 53.8 per cent for that month," Wallace said.

"Imports made up 22 per cent of U.S. demand in 1969. Now, as production drops with demand exceeding producing ability, imports account for 44 per cent of our petroleum needs," he said.

"Almost half of the gasoline in your automobile's tank is imported," he said.

Wallace spoke before the commission again set the oil production allowable at 100 per cent of market demand for October.

Except for two months last winter, the allowable has been at 100 per cent of market demand since April 1972. Even at that level, it falls short of meeting the demands of oil refineries for Texas crude. Nominations and additional demand for Texas crude for October totalled 3,816,951 barrels a day, a decrease of 101,867 barrels, compared to September nominations.

Nominations by major oil purchasers for September, in barrels per day and with changes from September noted in parentheses were:

- Amoco 330,000 (-2,500)
- Atlantic Richfield 160,820
- Chevron 68,600

His first promotion

TORREJON DE ARDOZ, Spain—Paul H. Collazo, nephew of Mrs. Sally Collazo of 2509 Avenue C Snyder, has received his first promotion in the U.S. Air Force.

Collazo, promoted to airman, recently completed technical training at Keesler AFB, Miss., and is now serving as a postal specialist with a unit of the U.S. Air Forces in Europe at Torrejon AB, Spain.

The airman attended Snyder High School.

The U.S. Consul Safety Commission this week issued warning advising to avoid riding "Zipper" amusements. Four deaths and injuries have been reported in midland districts of Columbia. ## Police beat

Elbow break-in investigated

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—A former police officer, granted immunity in exchange for his testimony, told a district court today he participated in the beating of a prisoner and then watched another officer throw him in the Buffalo Bayou where the man drowned.

The testimony came from Lewis Kinney in the murder trial of former Houston police officers Terry Denison, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, who are charged with the drowning of Joe Campos Torres.

Campos Torres' body was found on May 8 in Buffalo Bayou. He was last seen alive the night of May 5 when he was arrested during a disturbance at a bar.

Prosecution witness have said that five police officers took Campos Torres to the edge of the bayou, beat him up, then took him to the police station and were told to transfer him to the hospital.

Deaths

Henry Hull

Henry Hull, longtime resident of Big Spring, died in Lawrenceburg, N.M. Monday after a long illness.

Hull worked in Big Spring for many years for the Harding Well Service and was married to Wilma Hull who, prior to moving to Lawrenceburg, N.M., worked as a nurse at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

The two credits are similar to those recommended by Carter and passed by the House. They would be allowed for approved expenditures between April 20, 1977, and Dec. 31, 1984.

The committee went a step beyond what the President and the House recommended and voted to make the credits available even if they exceed the taxpayer's income-tax liability. This means the credits would be extended to families whose taxable incomes are so low that they owe no income tax.

Congress has voted only once to allow such "refund-

Lance should quit, says Proxmire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only senator who voted against confirming Bert Lance as budget director says Lance should resign because he has failed to master his job.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Monday he is not as concerned about allegations concerning Lance's conduct as a banker as he is about signs that the Georgian has not taken hold as director of the Office of Management and Budget, even though he has had since January to learn.

In three days of Senate hearings last week, Lance said he should be judged not solely on those occasions in which he may have made a business mistake, but on his entire career, including what he said are his early achievements as director of the OMB.

But Proxmire, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said, "All indications are that he has delegated—virtually all authority to subordinates and really hasn't taken charge at all."

Lance's sole qualification for the OMB director's job was that he was "President Carter's friend," Proxmire said.

"He had never managed a budget. He had not one minute of experience in the federal government," Proxmire said.

The Wisconsin Democrat said in an interview he believes that Lance's performance in office has justified his vote last January against confirmation.

Although Proxmire has been a critic of Lance for months, he has not previously urged the budget director to resign. He said late last month that while he wanted to see Lance replaced, he didn't believe the time was right for the President's longtime friend to quit.

"If Mr. Lance should leave now, there might be a feeling he was drummed out for a lack of integrity, and he's a man of high integrity," Proxmire said on Aug. 28.

Speaking on a television interview program, Proxmire added he hoped "there might be a time when Mr. Lance can step aside."

Proxmire said Monday it is apparent that Lance's aggressive testimony left the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee somewhat off balance and somewhat enhanced his own position.

He said Lance should exploit the more favorable atmosphere that has been created to "resign with his head up."

Insurance costs

NEW YORK (AP) — The average size of an ordinary life insurance policy bought by an American has increased by more than four times since 1920, climbing from $1,990 to $8,750 in 1976, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The sharpest increase, the council's figures indicate, was between 1950 and 1976 when the price rose from $2,320 to the current levels.

American families usually hold more than one policy, the insurance group says, and the average amount currently is an estimated $29,800.

Budget chief becomes deficit for Carter?

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — The American people, the jury that Bert Lance sought to judge his case, are sharply divided over whether Lance should keep his job as budget director in the Carter administration, an Associated Press public opinion poll shows.

The nationwide survey of 1,548 adults, taken Monday evening, also found President Carter's image had been dented by the Lance affair, particularly in regard to Carter's oft-repeated campaign pledge to enforce high moral standards in government.

The AP survey showed that nearly 38 per cent of those interviewed felt Lance should resign his position as director of the Office of Management and Budget, while about 35 per cent said he should stay. Nearly 27 per cent expressed no opinion, despite wide publicity about the case.

The AP survey followed Lance's vigorous self-defense during three days of nationally televised Senate committee hearings into his personal and business dealings.

The hearings before the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee were intended to focus on allegations that Lance withheld personal financial information during his Senate confirmation hearings in January.

The impact of Lance's 20-plus hours of testimony last week before the Senate panel is difficult to measure, since the television audiences for the hearings were believed to be very small. National television ratings for last week are not yet available.

The survey provided some indication that Lance's television performance helped his standing with some Americans.

The telephone survey was conducted by The AP by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa.

The 3 per cent difference between those favoring Lance's resignation and those opposing it is inconclusive because of the margin of possible statistical error.

Lance has repeatedly said that he would not resign and that he is innocent of any wrongdoing in his personal financial affairs.

Carter and Lance met privately Monday. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said he had no information on what was discussed or who requested the session.

Powell said if Carter has made a decision on whether to keep Lance as budget director "I'm certainly not aware of it."

As for Carter's promise to enforce high moral conduct in government, about 26 per cent of those interviewed said that their confidence in Carter's keeping that promise had decreased, while 8 per cent said their confidence had increased.

More than half — 53 per cent — said their opinion of Carter's commitment was unaffected by the controversy.

This erosion of confidence in Carter also was reflected in an evaluation of his overall job performance. About 22 per cent said their opinion of Carter's performance in office had decreased because of the Lance controversy. Slightly more than 9 per cent said their opinion of Carter's performance had risen with 59 per cent saying there had been no change.

Asked to rate Carter's overall performance, more than half of those interviewed gave Carter excellent or good marks. About 38 per cent gave him only a fair rating, with 9 per cent saying he has done a poor job.

This performance rating for Carter is somewhat lower than findings by other polls taken in early August, but factors such as differences in the wording of the questions could account for this.

The almost even split on the question of whether Lance should resign may indicate an improvement in Lance's position. A special Gallup Organization survey of 501 adults commissioned by Time Magazine found late last week during the hearings that 67 per cent of those questioned thought Lance should resign. Twenty-one per cent said he should not resign.

That poll and the AP survey cannot be directly compared with accuracy because of variations in the interviewing methods, sample selection and timing.

The AP poll figures represent the exact outcome of the interviews with the panel of adults across the continental United States. But conclusions about the opinions of all adult Americans, drawn from the poll results, could be affected by statistical variations.

As might be expected, both Lance and Carter drew their strongest support from their home region, the South, and from their own Democratic party.

Warning issued on 'Zipper' ride

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) this week issued an urgent warning advising consumers to avoid riding on the "Zipper" amusement ride. Four deaths and two serious injuries have resulted when the door of the "Zipper" car opened in mid-air causing the victims to fall to the ground.

The Commission has authorized its staff to file a complaint in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia seeking an injunction to prohibit further use of these rides until they are fixed. State and local authorities as well as the owner-operators of these rides have been notified by the Commission as to the extreme danger these rides present to the public.

From 1968 to the present, 93 "Zipper" rides were manufactured and sold by Chance Manufacturing Company, Inc., Wichita, Kansas. There are known to be 80 of these rides in use in the U.S. and Puerto Rico with over half of these as traveling units that are installed at fairs and carnivals. The remaining thirteen rides are outside the country. It is estimated that 1,000 persons per day ride each "Zipper" during the summer carnival season.

The "Zipper" consists of a boom with twelve cars attached. Each car can seat two adults or three children. While the boom rotates all twelve cars simultaneously, each car individually rotates. The doors of the cars are hinged on one side. The lap bars are attached to the doors. When the doors are closed the padded lap bar comes down across the laps of the riders. When the doors are opened, the lap bar swings away from the rider eliminating any protective barrier and making it possible for the rider to fall out of the car.

The Commission staff is evaluating the possibility of an engineering "fix" to ensure that the car doors do not open while the ride is in motion.

The information contained in this press release is available to consumers who phone the Commission's toll-free HOTLINE at 800-638-2666 (Maryland residents only: 800-492-2937).

Dollar becomes a political football

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of five editorials about money, a thing we use daily but rarely stop to consider. Yet, what happens to money has great impact on our lives.)

The U.S. fought the Vietnam War in the 1960s, but we're paying for it in the 1970s.

We covered the cost of the war by weakening the dollar. We devalued it. We expanded the money supply. It is the same tactic governments have always used in wartime.

The result was the same: inflation. In one sense, inflation is like borrowing money. You print some now, and the not-so-easy payments come later.

Inflation has been called the easiest form of tax for government to impose, but also the cruelest. It destroys savings built up over a lifetime of work. It reduces everything from pensions to dividends to rubble.

WORST OF all, inflation lowers confidence in the dollar, now guaranteed only by the good intentions of the U.S. government.

With a dollar worth 6 to 10 per cent less every year, Americans become more anxious to have their assets tied up in things of more constant value, like houses or other real property. We are in danger of becoming more like the people of an undeveloped country who trust tangible property more than money.

The implications to the American system of growth through the investment of savings is potentially staggering. We can see some of this effect in a stock market that has been limp for more than a decade.

We could stop inflation if the government desired, but we are determined to refinance the payments on the Vietnam War into the 1980s.

Inflation is easy politics.

TEXAS A & M economist and unsuccessful politician Phil Gram once said in a speech that there is no secret about the roots of inflation. At its simplest, it comes from weakening the money. The government can run up a big deficit if it chooses, but this will not be inflationary if the government borrows the money since borrowing will depress the private sector. Only when the government covers its deficit with printing money is it inflationary.

Americans have fought long for a sound dollar. We have placed control of the money supply in the hands of the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which governs the money supply. The chairman is supposed to be uninvolved in politics.

However, it's not working. The present chairman is Arthur Burns, a President Nixon appointee. Burns, believe it or not, is supposed to be a conservative; yet, the way he pumped up the money supply just before the 1972 and 1976 elections is a national disgrace.

Burns, apparently to please President Carter, has continued expanding the money supply for beyond the 5 or 6 per cent target (which is already high) for most of this year.

Instead of a solid monetary policy in this country, we continue to follow an inflationary one.

Meanwhile, remember the old balance-of-payments threat to the dollar during the Vietnam War?

As it turned out, we hadn't seen nothing yet.

Chill from KGB

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Operating along the lines laid down by the Kremlin's top spy, the Soviet KGB last year propositioned an Estonian nationalist with a $500,000 inducement to establish a fraudulent front for enticing anti-Russian-Estonians into the human rights movement — for exposure and imprisonment.

The entrapment offer to 44-year-old Erik Udum puts into hard action the chilling anti-dissident harangues of top Soviet officials, including Yuri Andropov — a power in the ruling Soviet Politburo and head of the Soviet KGB.

As though making a virtue out of the huge financial offer secretly made to Udum by his agents in Tallinn, Estonia, in the spring of 1976, Andropov himself delivered perhaps the harshest attack against the dissident movement early this month. With Andropov speaking in Moscow's Bolshoi Theater, party leader Leonid Brezhnev and other top Soviet officials were listening.

"DISSIDENCE HAS BECOME a kind of profession," Andropov said, "which is generously paid with foreign currency and other tips, which in essence is little different from the way imperialist services pay their agents."

The speech, marking the 100th anniversary of the birth of Felix Dzerzhinsky, notorious founder of the Soviet secret police, was ominous. It was the Kremlin's clearest warning that the October Belgrade conference (to check compliance with the 1975 Helsinki agreements) will do nothing to halt Moscow's attack on the dissident movement.

The KGB's approach to Udum — news of which was smuggled out of Estonia — is a classic attempt to subvert an anti-Soviet nationalist with promised riches. It reads like a spy thriller.

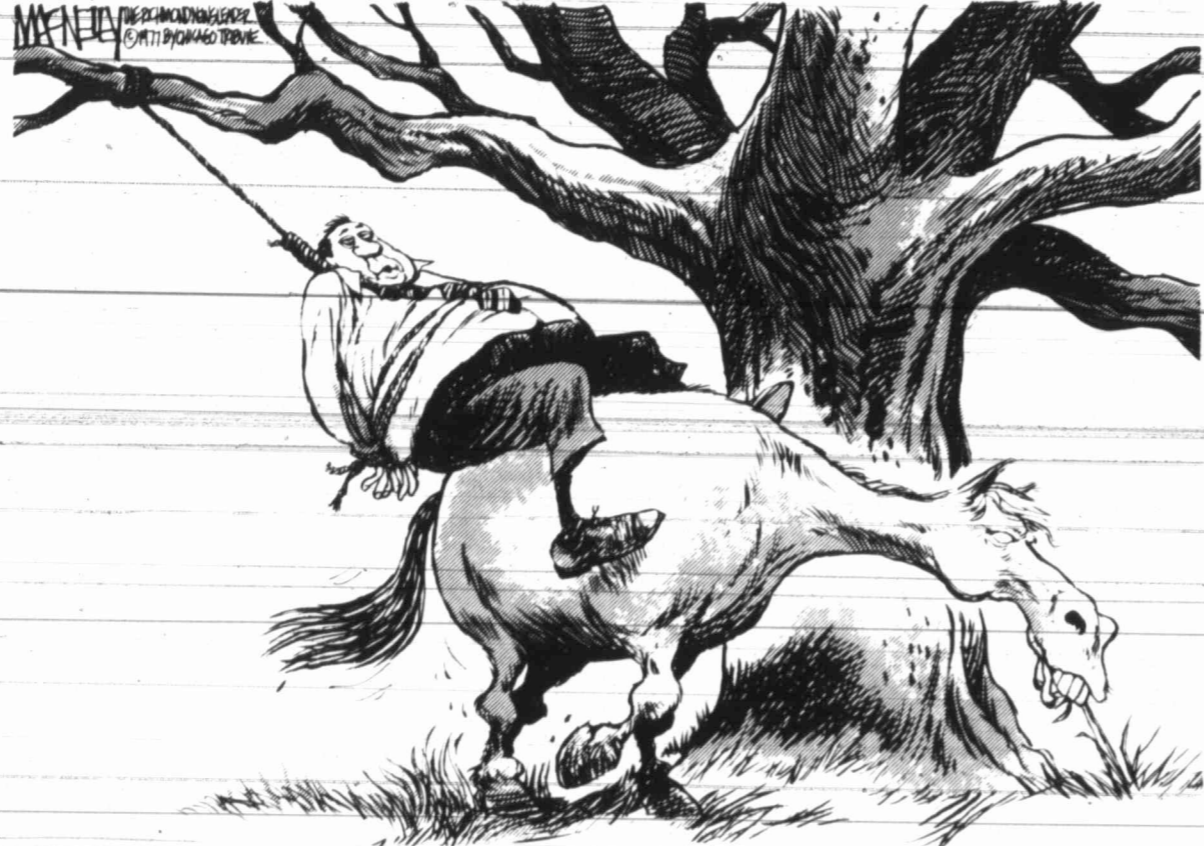

Udam uncovered and removed a hidden "budding device" in the electric meter box outside his Tallinn apartment in March, 1975. He was summoned to KGB headquarters and interrogated about a "missing 'civil defense device'" — in fact, the bug.

THE INVESTIGATION: under command of a KGB major, ended with this offer to Udum: give back the bug in return for immunity in a KGB investigation of the Estonian nationalist movement, of which he was a secret member. Udum accepted that offer, then rejected a KGB bid to become an undercover agent.

That was only the beginning. A year later, buoyed by the Helsinki accords, the dissident movement was gathering steam. The KGB major summoned Udum to three long conversations on April 4, 11 and 14, each in a different location. His proposition: that Udum become (in Udum's words) "a prominent dissident and organize a dissident group."

"He offered me money for the organizational expenses," Udum says. "On April 4 the sum he quoted me was between 200,000 and 500,000 rubles (around half a million dollars)." The Udum dissident group would then offer foreign correspondents "information" — actually only information supplied by the KGB.

Udam said no such dissident group could possibly work and that he himself would risk quick exposure. Instead, testing KGB reactions, he proposed a Helsinki "monitoring" group.

Cartilage rarely repairs itself

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I began running cross-country and tore a cartilage in my right knee, and possibly another in my left knee. If I have the cartilage removed, will I be able to run for exercise, if not competitively?

—Y.A.
This is one of the most common athletic injuries. The space between the upper and lower leg is cushioned by two half-moon pieces of gristly substance (cartilage). If the knee is subjected to abnormal movement (sideways) this cartilage can be torn. It will repair itself only rarely, and the only alternative is to enter the joint and remove the torn section.

Many athletes resume normal activity after such surgery, but there may be several months of conditioning and rest before that is possible. Only the surgeon can answer your question.

In cases where the tear is mild, the joint can be put in a cast for a couple of weeks. The surgery can be postponed if the pain subsides afterward. With both knees involved you would be severely handicapped, so surgery is probably imperative. Recovery would be longer with both knees affected because conditioning exercises are more difficult to carry out.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you think of freezing as a means of removing hemorrhoids? I asked my doctor about it for my surgery. He doesn't favor it. He wants me to have the regular kind. I wonder if you know any doctors around here who do this?

—Mrs. G.J.
This technique (called cryosurgery) has been around for some time. There is still a lively difference of opinion among doctors about it. Your doctor's reluctance to recommend it should tell you that. Now let me suggest you do what you might consider to be the "unthinkable." Ask the doctor what objections he has in your specific case. It could be that your hemorrhoids don't lend themselves to cryosurgery.

In the final analysis, it comes down to which procedure your doctor feels most competent in using. Freezing is a delicate procedure and requires great skill. Not all doctors feel comfortable with it. As to the various kinds of hemorrhoids and their treatments, see my booklet, "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." Send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Several years ago I went to an allergist because of headaches. I was tested for many things and was found to have allergy to many foods, among them oranges, wheat, chocolate, milk, eggs, etc. My question is, after many years would I still be allergic to them? Could I now be allergic to different foods? — Mrs. "A."

I presume you mean "A" for allergy.

You certainly could still be allergic to the foods. Or you might be allergic now to others that weren't on the original list.

The key question is how successful your avoidance of those foods has been. If you've been symptom-free all these years I'd advise you to stay away from them, even though specific allergies can subside with time. The proof would be in the eating.

If you want to be adventurous, you can try a bit of one "no-no" food or another — if you're willing to pay the possible price of headaches. Incidentally, the foods you mention are all among the more common sources of allergy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you please explain nerve deafness? What causes it? I understand it is hereditary, and that you can be any age and become deaf from it. Are there early signs of it? — Mrs. R.N.

It results from a gradual degeneration of the hearing (acoustic) nerve. The first sign is hearing loss for high tones. It usually happens after 40. The causes are unclear, but heredity is a factor. Note: While I have observed in the past that hearing aids will not reverse the problem, they are often used with success until the nerve loses function completely.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I developed a lump on the left side of my neck. It looked like a swollen gland. Then the stiffness became bad. I have tried applying heat, but that doesn't help. The lump is bigger now and the neck is stiff most of the time. Should I see a specialist or wait and see what happens? It also feels like another lump is forming. — Mrs. P.I.

A lump in the neck that has persisted and which is getting larger should be removed. This is more imperative since you suspect that another one is forming.

Your wait-and-see idea is hazardous. Have the lumps examined.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I find John the Baptist fascinating. Were there any prophets after John? — M.I.T.

DEAR M.I.T.: John the Baptist was the last of the prophets, as Jesus makes clear in Luke 16:16: "The law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached..."

Actually there had not been any prophets for over 400 years, after Malachi in the Old Testament. Malachi himself had foretold the coming of a prophet like Elijah just before the Messiah would come, "before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord" (Malachi 4:5). Jesus identified John as that prophet (see Matthew 11:13-14).

One of the most important things to realize is that Jesus is not just another prophet, as some people have claimed. Even in Jesus' own day some people saw Him as a prophet; when Jesus asked His disciples who men said He was, they replied, "Some say that thou art John the Baptist; some, Elijah; and others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets" (Matthew 16:14). But He is greater than any of the prophets. He is "the Christ, the Son of the living God" (Matthew 16:16).

That is why Jesus Christ is not only worthy of our admiration, but of our worship and our service. That is why He, and He alone, can take away our sins. As John himself said, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29).

Good news

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

We hear a lot about pollution, endangered species, exotic chemical spills and related things with good reason. Man has the technology to kill everything on earth, intentionally or unintentionally, including himself.

Most of the news heard in this area recently has been bad news, but here is a little of the good variety:

According to the National Audubon Society, the endangered brown pelican is showing strong signs of a comeback along the Texas Gulf Coast, apparently as the delayed result of the ban of DDT and other long-lasting pesticides.

Thirty-four young pelicans, by far the largest number in recent years, were fledged this summer in two coastal Texas colonies, according to David Blankinship, an Audubon scientist stationed near Rockport, Texas. And there have also been hopeful signs in Louisiana, despite two major setbacks, he said.

The brown pelican is the coastal variety, big-billed birds seen flying gracefully over the waves of waddling clumsily down the beach. They appear to be so plentiful in some areas — notably in Florida — that laymen are sometimes surprised to learn that the Federal government has officially classed them as an endangered species. What alarmed scientists, Blankinship explains, was the birds' lack of nesting success in much of its range; if not enough are produced, the pelican population must eventually crash.

It is widely believed by ornithologists that build-ups of long-lasting pesticides in the environment, and in the birds' food chain, have been a major cause of pelican nesting failure, Blankinship says. There was no immediate relief after DDT and other of the persistent pesticides were banned, he said, because it takes time for these long-lasting chemicals to work out of the environment. But now healthy chicks are being hatched again, and it is reasonable to conclude that reduced contamination by pesticides could be the reason, or at least a major factor in the recovery, he believes.

The National Audubon Society has been the leader in the conservationist campaign to ban certain long-lived pesticides, and the Society also has been involved in both the successful Texas pelican colonies. One of them is a National Audubon sanctuary, the other an island owned by the Nueces County Navigation District and operated as a sanctuary by the Audubon Outdoor Club of Corpus Christi, an affiliate of the national society.

Blankinship declined to give the exact location of the two colonies, because disturbance by humans can also be a problem for nesting pelicans. Even some birdwatchers who should know better, are thoughtless about this, he said.

The 34 young fledged in Texas this summer was a continuation of an increase which has slowly gaining momentum, said Blankinship: last year, 16 young were fledged; the year before that nine, and in the ten years from 1964 through 1974, the total was only 40.

To the scientist, the reports from Louisiana have also been encouraging, despite two major recent setbacks, he said. A dozen years ago, there were no brown pelicans breeding in Louisiana where they were once so abundant it proclaims itself "the pelican state." An attempt to restore Louisiana's pelicans, by re-stocking from healthy colonies in Florida, was making good progress, until 1975 when high concentrations of endrin sprayed on sugar cane fields washed into coastal water after abnormally heavy rains (endrin has since been undergoing review by the Federal government) and more than 300 pelicans died. And last year, said Blankinship, abnormally cold weather came at just the wrong time and the Louisiana nesting season was a complete failure. Even so, he said, there are now some 400 pelicans in Louisiana, including 100 recently brought in from Florida in the latest re-stocking effort.

That may not rival a Dallas Cowboy Super Bowl victory for good news to Texans, but it is at least a step in the right direction.

Old age hurts

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Age is slowly, inexorably overtaking the "old revolutionaries" who rule the Soviet Union. In a few years, they will be completely replaced in the Kremlin by a new set of leaders.

This is giving U.S. strategists the flutters as they try to anticipate whom the new leaders will be and how their views will affect world affairs. No one has enough solid information to judge whether the moderates or hardheads will come to power.

The real political power in the Soviet Union is concentrated in the Politburo, the policymaking arm of the Communist party. There are 14 full members, but only six really count: Leonid Brezhnev, Yuriy Andropov, Andrei Gromyko, Andrei Kirilenko, Aleksei Kosygin and Mikhail Suslov.

THE AVERAGE age of the full Politburo is 66½; but the average age of the Big Six is 70. According to our sources, none of the Kremlin patriarchs are threatened with "identifiable, life-threatening conditions." But several are showing signs of advancing age. They tire easily, and a slight case of the flu can keep them in bed for weeks.

Leonid Brezhnev, the Grand Sachem of the Communist party, is plagued with circulatory problems and may even have suffered a stroke. He occasionally slurs his words and has difficulty walking. He is a bad air traveler and doesn't adjust easily to jet lag.

In the old days, he used to smoke and guzzle vodka heavily, but he has now sworn off cigarettes and cut back on his alcohol intake. He also has a painful dental problem, which may be the result of his former smoking habit. More likely, it stems from a distortion of the jaw which has bothered him since he was a young man.

Brezhnev, who will be 71 in December, has had a strenuous year. But last June, he showed signs of severe fatigue and disorientation during a three-day visit in France. He was, say American observers, "very, very tired." But he returned to Moscow, disappeared for a two-week rest, and emerged with renewed energy.

Aleksei Kosygin, now 73 years old, is a sturdy Slav with few health problems. For years, U.S. analysts studied every new picture of him in an effort to determine whether a dimed-sign mole on his left cheek showed signs of skin cancer. Apparently tired of the rumors that he was afflicted with the disease, he disappeared for nearly three months last fall and reappeared with the mole removed.

DURING KOSYGIN'S absence, the diplomatic gossip mill carried the tale that he had suffered a heart attack. American officials, however, give the story little credence. They note that he still goes on lengthy fishing expeditions and arduous hikes with President Urho Kekkonen of Finland.

Since 1963, it has been rumored that Mikhail Suslov, the party's ideological high priest, has tuberculosis. For a man who will be 75 in November, he appears to be holding up under the burden pretty well. Suslov, nevertheless, is succumbing to advancing years and is visibly slowing down. He is the last of the romantic revolutionaries, say our sources; when he goes, there will be no one around "who can interpret the faith like he can."

Andrei Kirilenko is the Politburo's chief of industry. If something should happen to Brezhnev, Kirilenko is the man most likely to step into the big shoes. But Kirilenko, already 71, would probably hold the job for only a short period. He is considered a hard worker and suffers no known health problems.

Also in good health is Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, 68. He was out of sight for a period during this past winter, and rumors circulated that he had been stricken with a heart attack. Just as the gossip reached its peak, he reappeared. It is now believed he was merely down with the flu.

THE REMAINING member of the Big Six, secret police chief Yuriy Andropov, 63, also was rumored to have a heart condition. But he, too, was apparently sick with the flu.

Of the remaining minor members of the Politburo, only 78-year-old Arvid Pelshe is thought to be knocking at death's door. U.S. analysts thought him nearly gone in 1971, when his official photograph depicted him as positively cadaverous. But he bounced back, appearing in a subsequent photo cheerfully attired in a pink shirt and Glen Plaid jacket — avant garde apparel for the stodgy Soviet warhorses.

LABOR SCANDAL — For years, many companies have blatantly ignored court orders to stop harassing workers who are trying to join a union. The most notorious offender is J.P. Stevens Co., the giant textile conglomerate which has conducted illegal activities against union organizers. Such firms find it is cheaper to pay court fines than general wage increases to their employees.

We have had access to the confidential files of the Senate Labor subcommittee, which has been investigating unfair labor practices. The Hickman Garment Co. of Hickman, Ky., for example, was quite adept at suppressing its workers' rights. The firm tried to discourage its employees from forming a union with such tactics as threats, coerced interrogations and illegal firings.

The Fetter Broadcasting Co. of Cadillac, Mich., also discriminated against union organizers, demoting one woman reporter to a secretary's job. The firm's vice president, Gene Ellerman, has boasted that unfair labor practices "delay negotiations and that's okay as long as they keep the union out." He told us the matter has been settled.

Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., is pushing a bill that would put new teeth into the National Labor Relations Board.

Woman con changes mind about testifying

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman serving a 10-year prison sentence says she will testify today in the trial of a $7.6 million civil lawsuit after earlier refusing to do so on three previous occasions. Marcia McKittrick was sentenced to six months in jail Monday by State District Judge Arthur Leshner for refusal to answer questions in the suit resulting from the 1972 shooting death of prominent Houston plastic surgeon Dr. John Hill.

Ash Robinson, alleging Robinson masterminded the slaying of Hill in revenge for the death of Robinson's daughter. Hill was shot to death at his fashionable River Oaks home as he returned from a trip. At the time of his death, Hill was awaiting trial on charges he killed his first wife, Joan Robinson Hill, through medical neglect in 1969. No criminal charges have been filed against Robinson, 79, and he denies the allegations by Robert Hill, 17, Connie Hill, 37, and Myra Hill, 75.

Miss McKittrick did tell the seven-man, five-woman panel that the reason she would not testify was because she feared for her life and her 12-year-old son. Leshner told Miss McKittrick, convicted of driving the getaway car in the Hill slaying, that if she did not testify, he would add the contempt sentence to her regular prison term. Later in an interview with the Houston Post, she said she would testify if called again.

Odessan pleads guilty to clerk rape, murder

ODESSA — A 22-year-old Odessa man was found guilty of aggravated kidnaping and murder here Monday afternoon by District Judge Joseph Connolly in 161st District Court. Tom Wesley Clark of 1800 E. 50th waived his right to a jury trial and pleaded guilty to the kidnaping and murder of Mrs. Phyllis Ann Wood, a 7-11 store clerk. Mrs. Wood's body was found in an oil field pasture Sept. 11.

The defendant was tense near the opening of the proceedings, smoking cigarettes, his voice cracking occasionally. His family sat directly behind him in the front row of courtroom seats beyond the rail. Clark was arrested shortly after 10 p.m. Friday, five hours after Odessa police officials had called him to the station for questioning. Mrs. Wood had been abducted from the 7-11 store at 5210 Dixie on Sept. 9 within six to eight minutes after she called the Odessa police station to report a suspicious noise, according to investigators. At the time, police theorized that a partially torn down wooden fence in an alley southeast of the store may have been connected to the disappearance of Mrs. Wood. Investigators later said that a 1976-model black and red car belonging to Clark and parked at his residence revealed damage to its right front side. The car was later impounded as evidence.

Farm Personal income dips in only one state

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gain in personal income fell behind the increase in consumer prices in only three states last year. All were major farming states: the Dakotas and Nebraska. Nationally, personal income rose by 10.2 per cent over 1976, while consumer prices rose 5.25 per cent, according to an article in the Commerce Department publication "Survey of Current Business." Personal income fell in only one state, North Dakota. The decline was one-half of 1 per cent, the report said. Farm income fell 12.8 per cent during the year, the article said. The analysis said returns to farmers were the weakest in the three states where income growth fell behind price boosts. Those three states were included among the 13 "slowgrowing states," a category dominated by farm-related states. For example, excluding farm income, North Dakota personal income would have shown an 11 per cent rise. But farm income dropped 46 per cent. Likewise, in Nebraska, the gain would have been 11.3 per cent, but farm income dropped 46.7 per cent. Farm income dropped the most, 50 per cent, in South Dakota, but non-farm personal income was up 11.9 per cent so the statewide result was a 3 per cent gain. Iowa, the major corn state, Montana, Minnesota and Illinois also were on the list. The report showed a good year for farmers in Maine, however. Personal farm income there jumped 95.8 per cent, almost double the 1976 level, while non-farm income rose 12.5 per cent. But even in the 17 fastest-growing states for personal income, farmers trailed. On the average, all personal income rose 12.7 per cent in those states, but farm income in eight of them showed declines of 8 to 30 per cent, for an average gain of only 8.9 per cent. In the slow-growing states, farm income declined an average of 19 per cent. That contributed significantly to the fact that the average income gain in the seven farm-related states was less than half the national average. In those seven states alone, where farming accounts for at least 10 per cent of the residents' income, farm income fell nearly 40 per cent.

Out of the presence of the jury she told Leshner she did not know what could be done to protect her son. "They have me in protective custody custody (the county jail) yet I've been asked to testify against the man who I know has less concern for human life than I do for insects," she said. Robinson sat across the courtroom, sober-faced and unmoved. In the interview with the Post, Miss McKittrick said there was another person present who had an effect on her.

Protesters jailed after seven years

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the turn of the decade, during an age of student protest, three young men participated in an anti-Vietnam war demonstration in a small college town near Washington. This week, uprooted from otherwise typical middle class lives, they went to jail for their part in that protest of seven years ago. Jay G. Rainey, 31, is married, the father of two children and was head of employment relations with a Virginia manufacturing firm. James G. McClung, 36, was a public information specialist at the Library of Congress in Washington. Stephen B. Rochelle, 29, of suburban Fairfax, works with computers at a Maryland engineering firm. Last week they were ordered by Rockingham County (Va.) Circuit Court Judge Joshua Robinson to report to the county's jail on Monday to begin serving six month jail terms.

Students, McClung was an assistant English professor. According to news reports and interviews, the group was protesting the Vietnam war, violations of student rights and refusal by the school, now called James Madison University, to renew contracts of some professors, including McClung. College officials called in police to dislodge the demonstrators and many were convicted of trespassing and fined $100 each. But Rainey, Rochelle, McClung and four others argued that their constitutional right to free speech had been violated. They asked for a trial in circuit court, without a jury, according to their lawyer, John C. Lowe. Their request for trial without a jury was denied. The jury that heard the case imposed six-month jail terms and $500 fines on Rochelle and Rainey, Lowe said. McClung got a nine-month sentence and a $1,000 fine. The four others were fined $500 each. Rochelle, Rainey and McClung appealed. A federal district court decided their right to free speech had been violated. But the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned that decision, saying First Amendment rights of students on campus are not as broad as those of a citizen in public places, Lowe said. McClung asked if he would do it all again, said: "I think not. My principles have not changed. I still believe in the constitutional right of people who want to protest. But I would certainly not (do it again) knowing that the law's punishment was anything like what was meted out."

There's good news today for U.S. beer drinkers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even though prospects for the U.S. crop of hops worsened during August, the total hops in storage on Sept. 1 was a record 50.5 million pounds, the Crop Reporting Board says in an encouraging aside for beer drinkers. The inventory was 100,000 pounds above the previous high — a year earlier — and 20 per cent larger than Sept. 1, 1975, the board said. Brewers' stocks accounted for 48.5 million pounds of the total. About 30.1 million pounds of the hops were held in dry form, and 43 per cent of those were imported. This year's U.S. hops crop was projected at 53.4 million pounds as of the same date, a drop of 2 per cent in a month to a level 8 per cent below 1976.

Canada first to ship eggs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Canada will be the first country whose exporters will be able to ship egg products into the United States since the Egg Products Inspection Act was put into effect seven years ago. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman announced that decision Monday, saying that most of the nine comments the Agriculture Department received on the question dealt with the economic impact on the U.S. egg producers. But, she said, economic issues are outside the scope of the act, which is designed to assure that imported eggs and egg products are wholesome. It requires that they meet the same standards imposed on domestic products and that the country have a continuous government-inspection system approved by USDA. The Canadian products will be allowed to cross the border Oct. 23, a spokesman said.

Injured prisoners booked before rushed to hospital

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Houston Police Chief Harry Caldwell has testified department rules have been changed so that injured prisoners are booked before being taken to a hospital for treatment.

Caldwell testified Monday in the murder trial of two former Houston policemen charged with the drowning death of Joe Campos Torres in Houston's Bayou.

Terry Denson, 27, and Stephen Orlando, 21, are charged with pushing Torres into the bayou after the prisoner was allegedly beaten by a group of officers.

Torres was arrested in a bar disturbance May 5 and his body was recovered from the bayou May 8.

Caldwell was not permitted to say whether the department policy change came as a direct result of the Torres case.

However, he did testify that prior to Torres' death, it was "quite common to find misdemeanor injured prisoners taken to Ben Taub (Hospital) and left to get away."

"Policy now requires charges to be filed before going to Ben Taub," Caldwell said.

Earlier testimony showed that Torres was a prisoner in Orlando's custody when he was refused admission to the jail and ordered taken to the hospital for treatment.

Carlless Elliott, a rookie policeman and Orlando's partner at the time, testified last week that instead of being taken to the hospital, Torres was taken to a parking lot and released to the bayou.

Caldwell would not agree with defense attorney Bob Bennett that releasing an arrested prisoner before booking is anything but a violation of the department rules.

However, he did say that "almost every rule in the book is violated at one time or another."

"Once an officer took a prisoner into custody," Caldwell testified, "it would exceed his discretionary powers to just take him somewhere and release him."

Two other officers have testified that it is not unusual for an officer to remove an intoxicated person from a barroom disturbance and release him without charges.

"I wouldn't be shocked to find it happens," Caldwell said.

Caldwell agreed that an officer might have trouble justifying an extended visit to the hospital, waiting hours while a prisoner gets minor treatment.

The seven-woman, five-man jury also heard testimony from officer Mario Oropeza, who said he arrested Torres and turned him over to Orlando and Elliott for transport to the jail.

Oropeza testified of a meeting with Orlando a few hours after Torres had been taken away. Orlando wanted to return Oropeza's handcuffs which had been clamped on Torres during the arrest.

"I asked if Torres had given him any more trouble and he said, 'No, Oropeza said, 'He also said the jail wouldn't take him so they let him loose."

Vow to pardon double murderer draws fire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's Gov. Ray Blanton, who vetoed the state's death penalty law, has drawn the ire of some politicians and newspapers by promising to pardon a man convicted of double murder who works as a photographer for the state.

The focus of the controversy is Roger Humphreys, 30, son of the Democratic governor's patronage chief in Johnson City. Humphreys was convicted of second-degree murder for killing his ex-wife and her lover in 1973.

Blanton says Humphreys, a trusty serving 20 to 40 years in the state prison at Nashville, has been rehabilitated and Blanton has promised to pardon him before the end of his term as governor in 1979. Humphreys would be eligible for parole in 1984.

Humphreys works by day as a photographer for the state Tourism Department at $100 a month and spends his nights in a rehabilitation center at the main prison. He uses a state car for assignments, and last month the Secret Service, on the recommendation of Blanton's press secretary, cleared him to cover a visit by Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere.

Before winning trusty status, Humphreys spent about four years in prison, including 575 days in a Johnson City jail awaiting trial and the outcome of appeals.

Blanton's promise to pardon Humphreys came during a television interview Thursday night.

"Everything I do is political," he said at the time.

The Jackson Sun has called for Blanton's impeachment. The Memphis Commercial Appeal has called the first-term governor, who under the state constitution is not permitted to succeed himself, "a hillbilly version of Richard Nixon."

Former Gov. Winfield Dunn, a Republican whom Blanton succeeded in the statehouse, said he thinks Blanton's promise of a pardon "has gone beyond the point of abuse."

Jack Allen Thompson filed a civil lawsuit in 118th District Court Monday against Will Guthrie asking $650,000 in damages because he had "been shot with a 12 gauge shotgun in the buttocks and back of the legs."

The lawsuit claimed that the shooting had occurred at 104 E. 6th on July 7, 1977. It asks $150,000 for pain and suffering and $500,000 for exemplary damages.

The case earlier went to a Howard County Grand Jury and was nolleed.

Unity called survival key for Indians

DALLAS (AP) — American Indians must be united in order to survive, David Gardner, chief of the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma, told delegates to the 34th annual National Congress of American Indians Monday.

"We are now living in a different world where there is hope instead of despair; where adequate housing is a possibility and adequate health services are approaching reality," Gardner told the approximately 3,000 delegates representing 160 tribes in the United States and Canada and observers from Hawaii.

"We are a people on the move ready to assure our position in this great land of ours," Gardner said. "We deserve the right to survive, but to do so in the face of our adversaries, we must be united."

Mel Tonasket, president of the National Congress of American Indians, told the gathering "Backlash is not a word we should be afraid of. It should spark us to more action not cause us to sit down and be good little Indians."

"Every time something good has happened for Indians, it has been because a tribe has been brave enough to take action," Tonasket said.

Tribal representatives, Tonasket said, should "make a commitment to be tough."

"Maybe we've got to consider getting into the taxation business. There's nothing to stop us implementing our own taxes on land transactions, etc....it astounds me how we think we can be strong and sovereign without the things a government needs...We wouldn't then have to go begging for money," Tonasket said.

Tonasket urged the tribes to work together for unity because "the well (federal help) is going dry in Washington." He urged them to stop fighting among themselves.

Mrs. John Brown of Colorado City is indeed petite and ladylike. But she's also a source of endless energy.

Recently her daughter, Mrs. Myra Robinson of Big Spring drove over to Colorado City along with Rev. and Mrs. Bill Henning of Big Spring to visit her mother.

As they turned up 5th Street, they saw her down the street in the yard of the First Presbyterian Church squatted down with a knife cutting grassburrs out of the lawn.

Bill asked Myra to let him go up to her and he walked over to her and said, "Lady when you finish there, will you come over to Big Spring and work in my churchyard?" She looked up and laughed and then kind of apologized, "You know these grassburrs really needed to be out."

Mrs. Brown has never believed in getting somebody else to do something if it was anything she could do.

She doesn't talk about her age but she was married in 1916 to John D. Brown. She was helping out in her Dad's store at Cuthbert at that time.

Brown's uncle, George Reynolds had purchased the Bush and Fuller Ranch in Mitchell County and he sent Brown out to run it. He would stop en route to the ranch at the Cuthbert Store.

The chance meeting turned into a courtship and then a marriage in the family home. For the next nine years, the Browns lived on the ranch and then in 1925 moved into Colorado City.

She has resided there ever since. Sometimes, she comes over to Big Spring and visits her daughter, Mrs. Myra Robinson "for a spell." She has another daughter, Lucy Saye in Clarendon whom she visits. Her son, Reynolds Brown works for Texaco in Nigeria. She hasn't gotten down there.

After her husband came to Colorado City from the ranch, he worked at Texaco filling stations.

Mrs. Brown's father was David Theophilus Bozeman. He came from Georgia to Mexico in the early days where he met his wife, who had grown up in Alabama. He had been a teacher and taken some business courses in Atlanta, Ga. They married and moved to Hill County and later to Mitchell County where he resided at Cuthbert.

He taught in the school there and ran the post office

ISMAEL JUAREZ JR.

Ismael Juarez Jr. pleaded guilty to aggravated robbery in 118th District Court Monday and was sentenced to 20 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

During the morning, it began to appear that a jury would be selected. At noon, Juarez and his attorney, Richard C. Abalos of Odessa, entered the pleas. The prospective jurors were dismissed.

Juarez was to spend ten days with his family prior to going to Huntsville.

Juarez was charged in connection with the stabbing of Andrew Gross during an attempted robbery of the Winchell's Donut House on Feb. 22, 1976. At that time, Gross crawled across the floor to a telephone and summoned police.

Gross and his mother, and four members of the Juarez family were the only persons sitting silently in the courtroom when the sentence was handed down Monday afternoon.

District Attorney Rick Hamby read the guilty plea and the recommendations of the state with District Judge Ralph Caton issuing the sentence.

Gross and his mother, and four members of the Juarez family were the only persons sitting silently in the courtroom when the sentence was handed down Monday afternoon.

District Attorney Rick Hamby read the guilty plea and the recommendations of the state with District Judge Ralph Caton issuing the sentence.

Tumbleweed gets prize

B. Smith Lewis, known throughout the state as Tumbleweed Smith, received an advertising excellence award for a series of advertisements during 1976.

The ads, which were used on all local radio stations were done for First National Bank with a Symbol of Banking theme. Tumbleweed used such West Texas symbols as mesquite trees, windmills and water in the series.

The award was in the Local Small Market category of the CLIO competition, a worldwide contest with 7,430 entries from 45 countries.

It was the first time that Tumbleweed had entered the competition for Orange House Productions.

I saw her last in line at a barbecue on the Fee Ranch near Roscoe on Labor Day. She was having as much fun singing the old songs and taking part as anybody.

But Mrs. Brown really believes in enjoying life and doing her share of the work — even if it's cutting out grassburrs to make somebody's path a little easier.

And since I run into quite a few grassburrs, I know that what we need most in the world is more people that cut out the burrs — out where I'm ridin' fence.

Sludge-hauling contracts caper

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal court has been told of an alleged scheme to win a city contract with $775,000 from a Swiss bank account and other illegal payoffs.

The allegations were made Monday at the fraud trial of the handling of $42 million in sludge-hauling contracts awarded by the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District. The U.S. District Court jury trial is in its third week.

William Benton, former senior vice president of Ingram Corp of New Orleans, testified that he handed nine no-questions-asked letters of credit from a Swiss bank, worth $70,000 each, to a consultant for the Sanitary District. He said he also gave the consultant, Franklin H. Weber, $95,000 in cash.

Benton testified that he also dumped $30,000 in a plastic bag held by a secretary to Valentine Janicki, then Sanitary District vice president.

On trial are Weber, Janicki, Edwin Bull, owner of a barge company, state Rep. Robert McParlin, and Frederick B. and E. Bronson Ingram, owners of Ingram Corp. All are accused of bribery and fraud.

Benton, as the government's chief witness, said he

Love Triangle Rotting At The Base

DEAR ABBY: For three years, I've been involved in a very painful love triangle. The man I love says he loves both me and the other woman. I know the other woman. We finally got together and compared notes and found out that he had been lying to both of us!

Here's the unbelievable part: Knowing that he's a no-good liar who has been using both of us, I just can't say goodby to him and make it stick. The other woman feels the same way about him. He has us under some kind of spell.

Abby, why would a woman who knows a man is no good and will only hurt her keep going back for more? What kind of fool am I? Sign me

For the past two years, he has been residing at 2609 Cheyenne with his son, Aron Goolsby.

Clubhouse

Club votes to continue pecan sales

A chicken-spaghetti dinner was held in the Texas Electric Reddy Room recently to start off the 1977-78 club year for the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club. Miss Edith Gay, president, presided.

The club's theme for this year, "The Third Century — Women in the World: Change, Challenge and Responses," was announced. Mrs. Garland Morrison, First Vice President, distributed the yearbooks.

The Finance Committee, consisting of Mrs. A.G. Eitzen, Mrs. J.R. Smith and Mrs. Delphia Gordon, served as the hostess committee.

Mrs. Eitzen gave each member a copy of the proposed budget for the year which was accepted.

The club voted to continue with the pecan sales as a money-making project despite the increase in sale price to $4.50 per pound. Due to the shortage of pecan crops and the likelihood of further price increases, Mrs.

Eitzen was authorized to order the pecans to arrive the week of Sept. 19. Those desiring pecans may contact Mrs. Eitzen at 267-7137 or any club member.

A new member, Mrs. Ola Mae Robertson, third grade teacher at Marcy School, was welcomed into the club.

The next meeting will be Sept. 27 at Coker's Restaurant with a guest speaker from Hollingsworth CPA Firm. The Finance Committee is in charge of the arrangements.

Twenty-three members were present at this first meeting.

Sewing club makes quilts

Members of the Sew and Chatter Club met in the home of Mrs. F.C. Appleton recently to cut scraps for a quilt that will be sewed together at the next club meeting.

A birthday cake, to honor Mrs. Lee Porter and Mrs. Ruby Billings, was served with coffee.

The next meeting will take place on Sept. 28 at the home of Mrs. M.A. Cook, 1611 Main.

Club welcomes new members

The Newcomers Handicraft Club will be meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Oleta Rose, 2401 Cindy. The meeting will feature an instruction on how to crochet granny squares, given by Mrs. Jackie Zimmerman.

For further information, interested parties may contact Mrs. Zimmerman at 273-0489 or Mrs. Gayle Cavnar at 267-3443. New members are welcome.

Use spices sparingly

Use spices sparingly, since they can overpower rather than enhance vegetables' natural flavors. One-fourth to one-half teaspoon of most dried spices and herbs is enough for two cups of vegetables, advises Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"I'm in the Financial Department at Texas Electric, so I know electricity is costing more to make because of higher plant and fuel costs.

But I'm also a Texas Electric customer — and my bills are higher, too. I've found this tips booklet very helpful. It's full of energy-saving ideas.

Like keeping your thermostat set on 78 degrees or higher during the summer. Waiting until you have a full load before you run the dishwasher or the washing machine. Turning off unused lights.

If you're serious about saving energy and money, just write 'send the book' on the comment portion of your electric bill."

Tom Sorley not hurt seriously

When ex-Big Spring Steer all-district quarterback Tom Sorley went out of Saturday's game against the Tide, I immediately put in a call to the information office in Cornhusker land.

Monday afternoon, Assistant Sports Information Director at the U of N, Bill Bennett, returned my call. He gave me the full story, and luckily, it's much better than the broken arm tale that was told last season.

If you saw the game, you noticed that Sorley started for the Big Red. He went out near the end of the first quarter on a trick play. Sorley handed the ball off to Rick Berns, who in turn handed it to split end Tim Smith, who gave it back to Sorley, who in turn threw it to tight end Ken Spaeth for an 11-yard pickup.

According to Bennett, Sorley was hit as he released the ball, bruising his throwing shoulder. "This is something that will probably be aggravated all season," said Bennett. "It just doesn't have time to heal completely from game to game."

During the Washington State game, Sorley bruised his shoulder originally. It had time to heal between that game and the Alabama win, but he was hit on the same spot, causing it to act up again.

By the way, that Washington State game won Sorley his starting job against Alabama. Against WSU, Sorley rushed six times for 32 yards and completed nine of 16 passes for 159 yards. Bennett indicated that Tom could've played in the second half against Alabama if necessary.

In the short time that Tom saw action against Bear Bryant's forces, he carried the ball once for a six-yard pickup, and completed three of five passes for 20 yards.

Senior Randy Garcia is scheduled to start against Baylor this week, even though Tom could be ready. Bennett added that Coach Tom Osborne had indicated all along that he would be using both quarterbacks.

"Tom's arm was really sore today (Monday)," said Bennett, "but it should be less sore as it comes up to game time. Tom really spurred us on in that first game and he's a good leader. He'll be back."

Tom is the first ex-Big Spring'er to ever start at quarterback for a Big Eight school.

Five SWC teams in AP top 20

By the Associated Press

Despite Coach Bo Schembacher's plea to newcomers to "do me a favor and vote us out of first place," the Michigan Wolverines are still college football's No. 1 team.

Michigan and Southern California held onto the top spots in Monday's Associated Press college football poll while Oklahoma and Ohio State, who tangle Saturday in Columbus, Ohio, moved into the 3-4 positions, replacing Notre Dame and Alabama.

Michigan had more trouble than expected in beating Duke 21-9, evoking the following comment from Schembacher: "I hope you fellows do me a favor and vote us out of first place. I'd really appreciate that."

Nevertheless, the Wolverines received 42 of 64 first-place votes and 1,094 of a possible 1,280 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Five first-place votes and 1,032 points went to Southern California, which beat Oregon State 17-10.

Oklahoma, the preseason leader, had dropped to fifth in the first regular-season poll last week by edging Vanderbilt 25-23 but jumped back to third with seven first-place votes and 955 points by crushing Utah 62-24. Meanwhile, Ohio State leaped from sixth to fourth with two first-place votes and 877 points by trouncing Minnesota 38-7.

Penn State, a 31-14 winner over Houston, jumped from 10th to fifth with five first-place ballots and 717 points while the losers slipped out of the Top Ten, from ninth to 19th.

In rising to fifth, Penn State edged past Texas A&M, which defeated Virginia Tech 27-6 and went from seventh to sixth with 708 points, and Texas Tech, up from eighth to seventh with two first-place votes and 631 points after trouncing New Mexico 49-14.

Colorado, which buried Kent State 42-0, joined the Top Ten, going from 12th to eighth with 435 points. Texas flattened Virginia 68-0 and also cracked the Top Ten, vaulting from 18th to ninth. The Longhorns earned the remaining first-place vote and 287 points.

Alabama sank from fourth to 10th by losing to Nebraska 31-24, but the triumph enabled the Cornhuskers to move back into the Top Twenty. They are in 14th place.

Notre Dame fell from third to 11th by losing to Mississippi 20-13. Completing the Second Ten behind the Irish are Mississippi State, Florida, Nebraska, Washington State, Arkansas, West Virginia, UCLA, Houston and Brigham Young.

Washington State, Arkansas and West Virginia made the Top Twenty for the first time. Washington State defeated Michigan State 23-

Fry wants in Southwest

DALLAS (AP) — North Texas State Coach and Athletic Director Hayden Fry, bolstered by Saturday night's 28-13 victory over Southern Methodist, said Monday his school wants in the Southwest Conference but isn't coming with "hat in hand."

"We want to earn respect," said Fry Monday. "There's no particular timetable but I feel we could make a healthy contribution now."

Fry said a 10-member conference would be ideal. "That would be a perfect number," said Fry. "We don't want to replace anybody."

Fry said NTSU might make a strong move in the spring before the SWC faculty fathers.

"We want to make sure our program is in perfect shape because if they (the SWC representatives) vote and say 'no' then it's difficult to get them to change their minds down the line," said Fry. "It took Texas Tech 20 years to get into the conference and Houston 10."

Coog QB out

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston quarterback Danny Davis will undergo surgery on a separated shoulder tomorrow and will be lost for the rest of the season, UH officials said Monday.

Davis, who led the Cougars to a Cotton Bowl win last season, was injured in Saturday's 31-14 loss to Penn State.

Speedster Delrick Brown, a Lufkin sophomore, will take over the quarterbacking chores for Houston. Brown was the Cougars' leading punt returner last year and took over when Davis was injured Saturday.

"I'm not worried about Delrick doing the job," said Cougar coach Bill Yeoman. "It's just that he hasn't been there before and we can't throw the whole pot at him at once."

Yeoman added that the Cougars will continue to stress the passing game with Brown at the helm.

The Lufkinite will be backed up by freshman Darrell Shepard and sophomore Albert Windom.

Curtain drops on 49ers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The television viewers who saw Franco Harris outgain the whole San Francisco 49er offense had to include some of the guys who will be here next Sunday — the Oakland Raiders.

"Oakland is heralded to be the best football team in the NFL," Harris said Monday night after he and a totally dominant Pittsburgh Steeler defense combined to crush San Francisco 27-0.

"So here we are playing the best team in the NFL," Harris added.

"And I don't think we are second to anybody, so something has to give. The Steelers did little giving at all Monday night, yielding 101 net offensive yards — 82 by the run and 19 by the pass.

Harris, who scored a pair of Steeler touchdowns, rushed for 100 yards himself and added nine more on a pass reception.

"I've always scored points in my career, always," lamented 49er quarterback Jim Plunkett who hit three of 13 passes for 30 yards, all of which were erased by Steeler sacks for minus 30 yards.

"That was a scary moment," said Kyle, who beat out veteran Mel Renfro for the starting job.

yard field goal to give the Steelers a 10-0 half time edge, and he added a 47-yard scoring kick that made it 13-0 in the third period.

In the last quarter, Harris ran seven yards for another touchdown and quarterback Terry Bradshaw hit John Stallworth with a 15-yard scoring pass.

"Their defense was tough and physical. They gave us a beating," Harris said after the best opening game of his career.

"But they just got let down by their offense," he added.

The 49ers did not cross midfield in the first half. They visited Steeler territory only three times in the second half, once via a Harris fumble.

Kyle was Vike target

DALLAS (AP) — Aaron Kyle had a bull's-eye on his helmet last Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings and he was aware of it.

"I knew (Minnesota quarterback Frank) Tarkenton would come right at me," said Kyle, starting his first game at cornerback for the victorious Dallas Cowboys.

"On the first play he tried to hit Ahmad Rashad and I thought I had intercepted the ball," said Kyle. "That's when Cliff Harris crashed into us and knocked Rashad out and busted my lip."

Rashad, who suffered a mild concussion, was replaced by Bob Grim, Kyle, who finally regained his senses, was relieved.

"Grim is a good receiver but he's not as fast as Rashad," said Kyle, a No. 1 draft choice two years ago.

Kyle, a former star at Wyoming, is typical of the young Cowboy defense. There were four players starting at new positions for the first time in Sunday's National Football League 16-10 victory over the Vikings.

"A lot of people thought we wouldn't be coordinated," said Kyle. "But they underrated us."

Besides Kyle, Randy White was making his first start at defensive right tackle, Bob Breunig was lining up at middle linebacker and Thomas Henderson was strongside linebacker.

"They (the Vikings) ran a lot of junk plays on that opening touchdown drive and we adjusted to it," said Kyle. "We were still confident all the way through the game."

Grim got loose from Kyle only once on a double reverse flea-flicker in overtime when Tarkenton just overshot the mark.

"That was a scary moment," said Kyle, who beat out veteran Mel Renfro for the starting job.

Steer netters win first season match

The Big Spring High School Tennis Team brought home a victory on its first outing of the fall season by defeating Snyder Saturday by a score of 18-8. Coach Wendell Sadler was extremely proud of his boys' effort in overcoming a strong Snyder boys team. The Steers won the top five singles matches and the top two doubles matches in strongly contested matches.

Winners for the boys in singles were Barry Fish, Andre Couvillion, Craig McMahon, Wasi Syed, Nick Williams, and Tony Stiegel. Doubles teams scoring victory points were Fish and Williams, Couvillion and McMahon, and Stiegel and Dale Brown.

The girls team registered an identical record of 9 wins and 4 losses in their contribution to the total team score, but their number one players didn't fare as well running into last year's district champion from Snyder.

In his singles match, Craig McMahon broke through with a great come-from-behind effort to defeat his opponent 2-6, 7-6, 6-3.

Mary Catherine Mathews gave a valiant effort in playing the strong left-hander but still fell in defeat by scores of 6-2 and 6-4. The number one doubles team of Toni and Joni Cline had problems with the same young lady and lost in top doubles play. Winners for the girls in singles were Toni Cline, Kelli Bryans, Susan McMurray, Beverly Carlile.

Laura Mexia, and Cindy Jones.

Victories in doubles were scored by the teams of Alyssa Burns and Mathews, Carlile and Bryans, and Mexia and McMurray. The girls are coached by Mrs. Deanna Adams.

As the new high school mentor, Coach Sadler was well pleased with the all-around effort displayed by all team members. The varsity tennis team will stage a re-match against Snyder at 10 a.m. at the Figure Seven Tennis Center, and will then travel to Seminole the following Tuesday. Everyone is urged to come out and watch the matches.

Dodgers can clinch tonite

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' pennant-clinching party has been moved to the visitors' clubhouse at Candlestick Park.

"It's inevitable," said third baseman Ron Cey as the Dodgers headed into tonight's game with the San Francisco Giants needing just one more victory — or a loss by the Cincinnati Reds to clinch the National League's Western Division title.

Bosox may be back in race

The Boston Red Sox may have gotten themselves back in the American League East pennant race with a 6-3 victory over the first-place Yankees. But few of the participants were dwelling on Monday's game.

"We've got to win tomorrow night," Boston catcher Carlton Fisk said after his three-run homer in the third inning powered the Red Sox within 3½ games of New York and into a tie for second place with Baltimore.

NCAA says OU needs ducat veer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A newspaper says it has learned from a source that the NCAA has recommended changes in football ticket policies at the University of Oklahoma but has decided against taking harsh disciplinary action.

The Daily Oklahoman says in Tuesday editions that it was told by a source that "the NCAA has recommended that OU take internal action to prevent abuse of its player ticket policies and to initiate a review of some coaches' recruiting practices."

The action ends a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigation of Oklahoma that began in September 1976.

Steer statistics mark time

Despite missing the entire Snyder contest because of an eye injury, Mike Abreo continued to lead the passing and rushing column in Steer statistics after three ballgames.

Fullback Robbie Wegner closed to within one yard of the senior quarterback, however, Abreo has rushed 28 times for 132 yards and a 5.0 average, and Wegner has carried the ball 27 times for 131 yards and a 4.85 clip.

Because of a running game that has picked up considerably more yardage than it did last season, the Steer passing game has fallen off somewhat. So far, through pre-district, the Steers have completed 17 of 41 passes for 211 yards, and have rushed the ball 100 times for 390 yards, a respectable 3.9 average.

The Steers have intercepted six enemy passes. That's more than the foes have completed to their own men (five). But the Longhorns have also lost the pigskin six times.

Here's the complete story:

Herald contest winners told

Winners in the first week of the Herald's football contest were announced Monday afternoon.

Taking the first place prize of $12.50 was Jack F. Ellis Sr. of Sterling City Rt., Box 104. Don Stevens, Box 157, Sterling City Rt., copped second place cash of $7.50, and Keith Hamilton, 1303 Lamar, got the third place green of five bucks.

The Coahoma-Tahoka pick was thrown out, as that game won't be played until this Friday.

Contest organizer Oliver Cofer, of the Herald Advertising Dept., reminded entrants that every entry must be complete, and scores should only be written for the two tie-breaking games.

Sports Editor Danny Reagan announced that he has nothing whatsoever to do with the contest and quit calling him at home.

STRATEGY SESSION — With less than a minute and a half remaining in last Friday night's 12-7 Steer loss, the locals had fourth down and inches from the Tiger 40-yard line. Junior quarterback Ricky Myers and coach Don Robbins discussed what to do during a timeout. However, an offside penalty made their plans academic.

Preppie poll leaders change

By the Associated Press

Yoakum's reign atop the Class 2A rankings in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football poll came to an abrupt halt at the hand of 3A Gonzales last week and runnerup Belville was standing by to take advantage of the slip.

Gonzales' 37-14 victory dropped Yoakum down to 10th in this week's 2A ratings while the other No. 1's of a week ago—Sherman in 4A, Mount Pleasant in 3A, Seagraves in A and Wheeler in B—continued to lead their divisions.

Sherman and Port Neches-Groves maintained a stranglehold on the first two spots in 4A while No. 3 San Antonio Churchill was surprised by San Antonio Highlands 12-8 last week and dropped to ninth this week.

Temple, eighth a week ago, leap-frogged into the No. 4 spot this week.

Fifth ranked Midland Lee and No. 9 Killen were other 4A losers and both disappeared from the top 10. Longview, No. 8 and Galveston Ball, 10th, are their replacements.

Tenth-ranked Gainesville, which stumbled over Waxahachie 14-6, was the lone 3A casualty and has been replaced by Huntsville in the No. 10 position.

Marfa, after spending only one week in the top 10, dropped from its 10th spot in Class A was a 14-8 loss to Class 2A Alpine. Wall, 3-0-0, is the new No. 10 team.

Roby and Axtell, ninth and 10th in B last week, dropped from the list after losses and have been replaced by Valley Mills and Celeste, both unbeaten.

Grand Tourney pairings set

Pairings have been selected in the Big Spring Golf Association's Grand Tourney, and participants are reminded that they may call the pro shop at the Comanche Trail Golf Course to find out those pairings.

The number there is 8-3822. The deadline for first-match play has also been extended from Saturday to Sunday. Local golfers will be involved in Grand Tourney match play until Oct. 8 at the local course.

Spicer leaves Baylor

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Larry Spicer, a 6-foot-8 starting center for the Baylor University basketball team for the past two years, has withdrawn from the Southwest Conference school, officials said Monday.

Baylor Coach Jim Haller said Spicer left for personal reasons.

"We regret Larry's decision to leave Baylor University," Haller said. "It was disappointing that he didn't accept the challenge of being a total student athlete."

The 187-pound Spicer averaged 18.4 points and 8.4 rebounds a game last season.

He was chosen freshman player of the year in his first season with the Baylor Bears.

Volleyball fish win, District play begins

The BSHS volleyball freshmen teams decided Garden City Monday night in two games. The "A" team won 15-11, 15-2 and the "B" squad was victorious 9-15, 15-5, 15-2.

In the "B" game, Holly Peurifoy had 10 top points, followed by defensive standout Shelly Wood's eight points. The "Bs" are now 1-0. Jackie Roach was high-pointer for the "A" team with 11 points. It was a good team effort, according to the coach.

Spiker Gloria Gonzales, and high-pointer Tammy Sawyers (8) played well for Garden City. The BSHS "A" team is now 5-2. Next game for the freshmen will be this afternoon at 4:30, here against Snyder.

That will be a preliminary bout for the first game of the district season for the JV's and varsity teams in Steer Gym against Abilene High. The varsity squad enters district action with an impressive 12-2 record.

DISPUTE RAGES IN Picher

'Someone's alive down in that shaft'

PICHER, Okla. (AP) — A dispute is raging in this small Northeast Oklahoma community over searching an abandoned mine for someone who may be in it.

'Someone's alive down in that shaft — they're dying and we aren't doing a damn thing about it but letting them die,' Ray Bruner said angrily Monday as officers forced him and about 150 other persons away from the deserted shaft in the Oklahoma-Kansas state line area.

Bruner, his brother Bob and two Picher city officials claim they heard someone crying for help from the hole Sunday.

Bruner fears someone is injured in the shaft, perhaps clinging to a ledge waiting for help.

Picher Police Chief Ladell Morgan does not believe there is anyone there, nor does he believe Bruner heard voices.

'Pigeons sometimes roost in those shafts and that is probably what Bruner heard,' the chief said.

But Morgan, who has been

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

The EPA's new ratings showed that the diesel-powered Volkswagen Rabbit gets the best mileage of 1978 model cars being offered for sale in the United States. The Rabbit posted 40 miles per gallon in city driving and 53 mpg in highway driving for a combined mileage of 45 mpg. Two Chrysler Corp. cars — the Plymouth Fury and the Dodge Monaco — were at the bottom of the fuel-efficiency list.

Both Chrysler models are high-performance autos designed for police pursuit and are not sold to the general public, a spokesman for the company said.

Some motorists are discovering their fuel gauge hits the empty mark faster than the government says it should, Costle said.

The problem is with the methods used by the EPA in forecasting new car fuel efficiency, he said.

The mileage report, assessing the fuel efficiency of foreign imports as well as U.S.-manufactured cars, is based on tests conducted under laboratory-controlled conditions by professional drivers. The results are broken down into three categories: city driving, highway driving and a combined figure.

The combined figure does not represent an overall average of highway and city driving, however. The government gives more weight to the city driving

Rabbit top gas-miler of '78 cars, EPA says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is planning to change the way it calculates the figures that tell buyers how much gasoline mileage to expect from their new cars because owners don't necessarily get the same results.

Douglas Costle, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, which furnishes annual auto mileage projections, acknowledged Monday that methods for calculating the figures have left some new car buyers angry and disgruntled.

The EPA's new ratings showed that the diesel-powered Volkswagen Rabbit gets the best mileage of 1978 model cars being offered for sale in the United States. The Rabbit posted 40 miles per gallon in city driving and 53 mpg in highway driving for a combined mileage of 45 mpg. Assailant shot to kill, prosecutors contend

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — The bullet that cut down jet-set blonde Priscilla Davis last year was fired to kill, not wound, prosecutors in the Cullen Davis murder trial are attempting to show.

Attacking a defense conspiracy angle, state attorneys brought out Monday that the slug that slammed through Mrs. Davis' chest could have been fatal except for an unexplained deviation in its course.

Dr. Michel Heard said the bullet would have penetrated the aorta, or main artery, had it not veered on impact and dropped another five inches as it exited through her back.

'What is the effect of a severed aorta?' a prosecutor asked Heard, 27, the doctor who examined and treated Mrs. Davis shortly after the shooting spree at the Davis mansion in Fort Worth.

'Very large and rapid blood loss that could result in loss of life within a matter of minutes,' Heard replied over defense objections.

Lawyers for the millionaire industrialist have implied through questioning of state witnesses that Davis, 43, was perhaps the target of a bizarre conspiracy designed to link him to the shootings.

The dark-haired, stoic defendant is on trial for the shooting death of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.
