Government controls on gas prices debated

Senate still deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate struggled today to break a deadlock on natural gas pricing after holding its first all-night session since the battle over the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Lawmakers worked past daybreak as Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd waged an around-the-clock battle to break a filibuster led by two senators who want to block a vote on an industry-supported plan to lift price controls on natural gas.

"We've had about enough of this foolishness," Byrd declared at dawn. But the West Virginia Democrat did not appear to be making headway in steering the Senate toward a final vote.

The Senate faced a decision on whether to vote to replace President Carter's plan for continued price controls with a deregulation plan favored by the industry.

Unlike earlier talkathons, where senators could steal away for several hours of uninterrupted sleep, this filibuster was being waged with votes instead of words.

Nearly all of the senators had been present, at least from time to time, during the night.

Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, leaders of the stalling action, called for repeated roll-call votes, forcing legislators to engage in the arduous task of taking up separately some 500 amendments to the bill.

As the morning wore on, senators primed themselves with coffee and shuffled back and forth between the Senate floor and nearby rooms where cots were set up. But few caught much sleep.

"This is barbaric," grumbled Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee. "These cots are useless with these votes coming up every 15 minutes."

Byrd said failure to act on the gas-pricing bill jeopardizes passage of Carter's entire energy package. He added that the President is likely to call Congress back into session if it adjourns without reaching a decision.

Even though the Senate voted earlier in the week to limit each senator's speaking time to one hour apiece for the remainder of the debate, the tactic failed to deter either Metzenbaum or Abourezk.

They just switched tactics, stopped talking and began demanding votes.

The aim of the two senators is to stall for time while pushing their proposal to continue federal control of natural gas prices with as low a price as possible.

Oil and gas industry lobbyists and sympathetic senators want an end to controls. They think they will prevail if they can sweep away the parliamentary tangle and put their proposal to a vote.

In a preliminary test shortly after midnight, the Senate refused by a vote of 47 to 40 to table the latest deregulation proposal managed by Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, and James Pearson, R-Kan.

Carter says he will veto any plan that lifts federal controls.

Deregulation proponents claim the controls have kept the price of gas artificially low, discouraging development of new supplies. But Carter contends that the controls are needed to protect consumers from soaring gas bills.

Owens Street signals up

Signals were installed today, and should be controlling traffic at the intersection of Third and Owens by 10 a.m. Thursday, according to Johnny Shortes, electrical superintendent for the city.

"This should facilitate the flow of traffic coming over the new overpass," said Harry Nagel, city manager.

Restraining order issued against mother

A 10-day restraining order was granted in 118th District Court Tuesday against Minnie Linda Jones Newbill, 1002 N. Main, enjoining her from going onto the campus of Bauer Elementary School.

The suit was filed by attorney Richard Miltstead for the Big Spring Independent School District, which posted a $750 bond, after an incident in which Mrs. Newbill allegedly struck a first-grade teacher, Linda Alexander, 29, across the mouth with a stick.

Mrs. Newbill was arrested over the weekend by the Howard County Sheriff's Department on misdemeanor charges filed Friday in County Attorney Harvey Hooser's office. She has posted $5,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

The restraining order alleges that Mrs. Newbill struck Ms. Alexander with a stick after Ms. Alexander kept Mrs. Newbill's daughter after school Thursday to complete work for the school day. The suit states that Mrs. Newbill removed her daughter from the classroom and then returned to speak to Ms. Alexander, at which time an argument erupted.

Seven stitches were reportedly required to close the gash on Ms. Alexander's lip.

A hearing on the 10-day order will be held Oct. 6 at 10 a.m. to decide whether to extend or discontinue it.

'Red Army' demanding $6 million

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — Self-proclaimed Japanese "Red Army" terrorists hijacked a Japan Air Lines DC8 with 156 persons aboard over India today and forced it to land in Dacca, the Bangladesh capital.

In Tokyo, Chief Cabinet Secretary Sunao Sonoda told a news conference the government was trying to confirm that the hijackers had demanded a $6 million ransom, and release of 10 persons held in Japanese prisons, apparently including three Red Army members.

An airline spokesman said there was no indication that anyone had been hurt.

Air Vice Admiral A.Z. Mahmood, chief of staff of the Bangladesh air force, said he was negotiating by radio with a hijacker who said he was a member of the Red Army, a radical leftist group, and threatened to blow up the plane if police came within 300 yards.

Mahmood said the hijacker demanded the plane be refueled, that an electric generator be supplied to operate the aircraft's air conditioning system and lights, and that a gangway be brought to the plane.

A man thought to be a passenger was reported ill aboard the plane, but Mahmood said the hijacker refused to let him be removed.

The jet landed in Bangladesh despite a government refusal to grant landing rights. It narrowly missed a Bangladesh Fokker Friendship airliner that took off yards ahead of the landing Japanese aircraft.

The hijacking was the first of a Japanese airliner since 1973.

Japan's Kyodo news service said its Beirut bureau received a Red Army communique identifying the hijackers as members of the radical leftist group and demanding release of "revolutionary comrades" in Japanese custody.

The Japan Broadcasting Corp., quoting Japanese sources in Dacca, said there were four hijackers, including one non-Japanese. The Foreign Ministry said it had no such information.

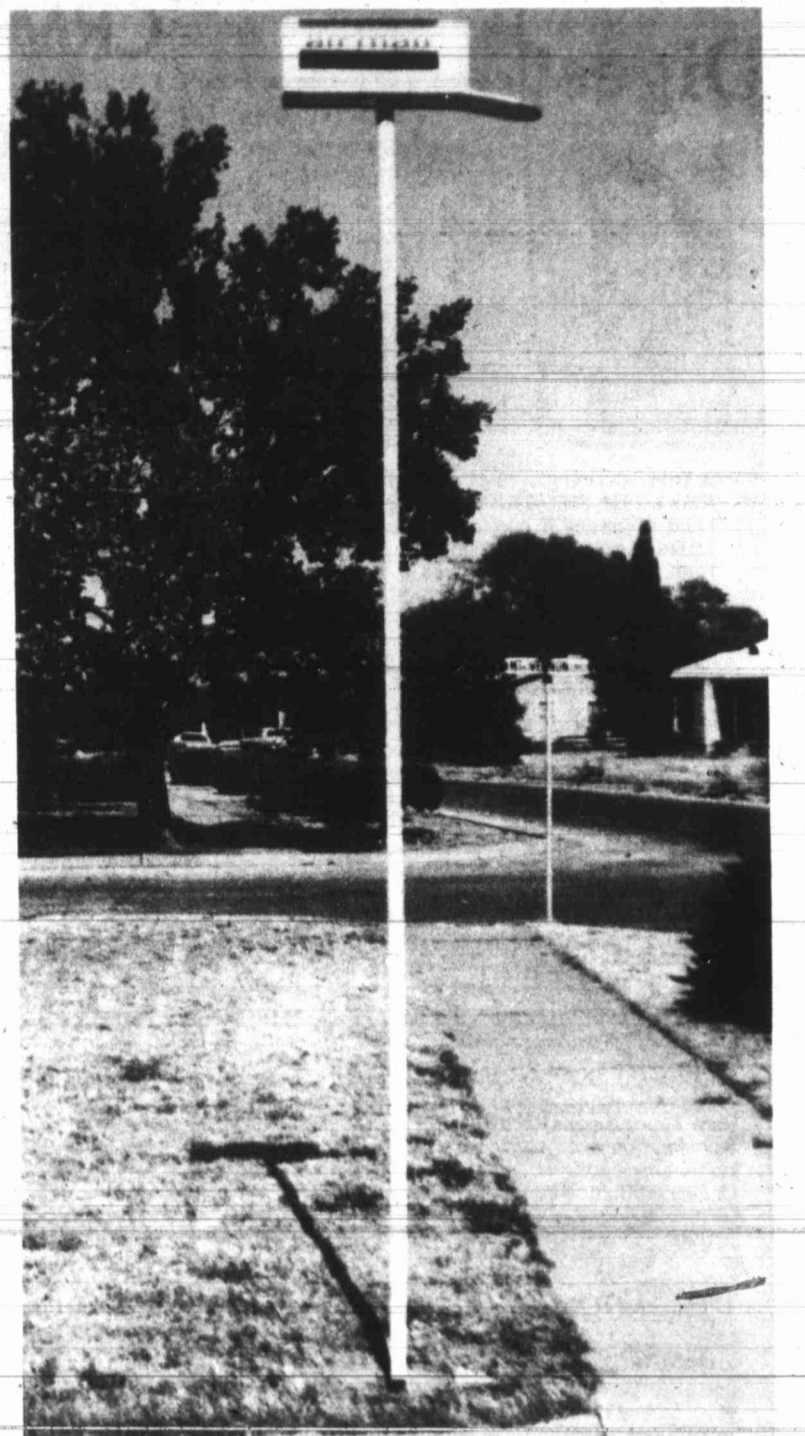

A ministry spokesman said the hijackers demanded they be addressed as the "Hidaka Commando Unit." Officials said this apparently was a reference to Toshihiko Hidaka, a Red Army leader who reportedly committed suicide after being arrested by Jordanian authorities in October 1975 for allegedly using a

Treasurer candidate

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Charles Sanderson, a certified public accountant and former Bexar County auditor, announced today he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination as state treasurer.

Sanderson, 45, a native of San Antonio, told a news conference here he has filed for the post in Austin.

He said his goal as state treasurer would be "the institution of a modern and efficient cash management system."

ALL NIGHT DEBATE — Under a full moon the Senate continued its first all-night session trying to break a deadlock on natural gas pricing today in Washington. The two leaders of the stalling action, Senators James Abourezk, D-S.D., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, called for repeated roll-call votes, forcing legislators to engage in the task of taking up separately some 500 amendments to the bill. This was the first all-night session since the debate over the civil rights act of 1964.

Briscoe convinced Carter dead wrong

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today he thinks President Carter is dead wrong in threatening to veto an energy bill if it deregulates the price of natural gas.

The Senate version of the measure moves strongly in the direction of unfettered prices, compared with the House version that would preserve regulation but at higher levels than currently.

Briscoe told reporters, "The Senate is moving in the right direction."

"I disagree completely with his (Carter's) statement. I feel he is going exactly in the wrong direction," he said.

He repeated that remark almost verbatim when asked if Carter was betraying promises made to Briscoe and other oil state governors in last year's campaign that he would work for deregulation.

He declined to say yes or no.

Neither would he say yes or no when asked if he would campaign as energetically for Carter as he did last year if he had it to do over again.

"I am a Democrat. I have always supported the Democratic ticket," Briscoe said.

He was asked about the condition of his re-election campaign treasury and said he has either contributions or pledges of contributions "in excess of $1 million."

Briscoe spoke with reporters after addressing the truck dealers division of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association.

78th FTW disbands Friday

Like Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "old soldier", Webb Air Force Base is fading away as a pilot training base for the United States Air Force.

On Friday, the 78th Flying Training Wing officially ceases its active role and those people left will be assigned to Detachment 2, 64th Air Base Group, at Reese AFB, Tex.

The detachment commander will be Lt. Col. Ronald M. Miller who has been at Webb since 1971. Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, will assume the management of the airport and industrial complex for the City of Big Spring upon his terminal leave of Nov. 1, 1977.

Colonel Miller was commander of the Webb rescue unit for two years after his arrival and became the executive officer of Air Base Group, the housekeeping unit of the entire base, in '73. He has served as the commander of the group since July of this year.

The Detachment 2 caretaker force is authorized 11 officers, 120 enlisted and 150 civilians from Oct. 1 to Dec.

31. In January it will go to seven officers, 61 enlisted and 134 civilians and from March 1 until the base is turned over to Big Spring the force will consist of 7 officers, 41 enlisted and 126 civilians.

Additional military members will remain at the base for a time until they receive openings in schools or other assignments. At the first of this week there were 361 remaining.

Some additional people at the base are assigned to the commissary and the communications squadron. Those civilians actually filling positions on the caretaker force will vary from time to time as they resign to take jobs elsewhere.

The largest exodus for one day of civilians is taking place Friday as 46 regular employees are either retiring, resigning or separating because of the reduction in force. An additional 51 employees paid from nonappropriated funds are also terminating their employment that day. The remainder of the civilians who had worked at the base either transferred to other federal jobs or resigned gradually since they received their RIF notices in June.

Snyder wet-dry petition fixed

SNYDER — Indications are that a petition is being prepared for Scurry County to call for a wet-dry election in Snyder.

The last wet-dry election was held in 1972 and was defeated, with the count remaining dry.

Reappraisal at issue in tax board confab

The issue of reappraisal will be the boiling pot at this afternoon's session of the Howard County Tax Appraisal Board. Representatives of all the board's participants have been invited to the meeting.

What will result will be a free-for-all discussion of the cost, necessity, and benefits of a reappraisal in Howard County.

The board moved last meeting to expand their discussion of reappraisal to include members of the participating bodies, after realizing that none of the persons representing entities on the Appraisal Board were willing, or empowered, to commit their groups to any kind of a plan, let alone financial assistance.

Under the direction of Tom Ferguson, chairman, the board decided to ask their bodies to come, thus generating direct discussion of the issue and hopefully approaching an agreement.

Presently, the Howard County Tax Appraiser's office is using a 1959 building schedule, and is not empowered to deal with depreciation or appreciation in property, just in additions and improvements. A reappraisal would realign properties across the county.

The present estimate of an outside reappraisal is approximately $400,000, but estimates of an interior job generally hover around $250,000.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Stray attention

Q. We live out in the country and see numerous dogs and cats abandoned out here. We've adopted many of them, but our pocketbook won't allow any more. Is there a place in town that people can call to have unwanted pets picked up?

A. There is still no humane society in Big Spring, but a call to the Animal Shelter (263-8311, ext. 67) will get a stray or unwanted pet more attention than it bargained for.

Offbeat: Crime costly for thug

KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP) — Benton-Franklin County Superior Court Judge Albert Yencopal, noted for innovative sentencing, has ordered a burglar to pay the burglary and theft insurance of a restaurant.

Yencopal, who ordered Allen Bender, 22, to pay the approximately $200-a-year insurance costs for three years, said he felt it was time burglars realized their acts drive up business costs.

Bender, a former fireman, pleaded guilty Aug. 16 to second-degree burglary in the theft of a safe containing $390 from the Steak-Out Restaurant. The money was recovered, but the safe was damaged, police said.

Crystal City getting help

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Natural gas may be flowing again for residents of Crystal City, the little Texas town that had gas shut off because it hasn't paid its bills for more than two years. The town of 8,000 is getting help through Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and not through its own representatives in Washington. Kennedy's office said Tuesday the Community Services Administration has agreed to provide $160,000 to be applied toward the town's $750,000 debt to Lo-Vaca Gathering Co.

Mexico lures Zenith

CHICAGO (AP) — Zenith Radio Corp., which claims to rely on American parts and labor more than any other major television maker, is moving key operations to Mexico and Taiwan and eventually eliminating one-fourth of its U.S. workforce. Chairman John Nevin said Tuesday the firm was forced to take the action because of foreign competition.

Feuding over abortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate are still feuding over the emotional abortion issue after failing to resolve their differences prior to the month-long summer recess. Meanwhile, the stalemate is stalling approval of a $60.2-billion appropriations bill to finance the operations of the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare in the new fiscal year.

Arms lid progress noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is voicing optimism that Russia and the United States can settle their differences over a new strategic arms limitation agreement. Gromyko, emerging late Tuesday from an unusual and hastily arranged nighttime negotiating session at the White House, said "some further progress" was made in resolving the differences between the two superpowers.

Latin violence warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's highest ranking military officer is warning that violence could erupt in Latin America if the Senate refuses to ratify the Panama Canal treaty. Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made the assertion Tuesday as the Carter administration's military and diplomatic forces defended the pact on Capitol Hill.

TV insanity trial heats up

MIAMI (AP) — The defense has lost an early battle to introduce questions on television violence in the murder trial of Ronald Zamora, the 15-year-old portrayed as an addict of TV crime shows.

A jury of nine men and three women was seated late Tuesday after two days of questioning during which defense lawyer Ellis Rubin was prevented several times from asking prospective jurors about their TV viewing habits.

Zamora's defense on charges that he and another teen-ager killed an elderly woman during a robbery is that he suffered "insanity induced by too much television."

CRMWD planning revenue bond refunding issue

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District took the initial step Tuesday toward a revenue bond refunding issue designed to gain greater flexibility in operations and development as well as achieve possible long range savings.

First Southwest Corporation of Dallas was named the fiscal agent to handle details of the refunding issue; Blythe, Eastman, Dillon Company of New York City as underwriter; and McCall, Parkhurst, and Horton, Dallas, the bonding attorneys. The district's finance committee, headed by Clyde McMahon, Sr., Big Spring, will work out the final details.

The district has outstanding about $35,000,000 out of $61,500,000 issued to construct the district's system which serves more than a dozen cities directly and indirectly in this area, plus many industrial users of water.

The proposed plan is to issue enough new revenue bonds to equal the principal and interest requirements of the outstanding bonds. This money would go into an escrow account to pay off all indebtedness either as it becomes due under present schedules or in a lump sum, whichever would be more advantageous to the district.

Under a resolution authorizing the refunding bonds, a schedule of annual payments would be set up to meet the debt service requirements. It would not, however, be necessary to provide coverage (a reserve to guarantee payments; the district currently sets aside 1.35 times the annual debt service charge under terms of the trust indenture). This could mean a savings to the district, McMahon pointed out. Also, being out from under the present bond indenture would give greater latitude in operation and development.

The board authorized the general manager, O.H. Ivie, to make a proposal on behalf of the district to the Bureau of Reclamation whereby the district would furnish contractual services in a weather modification program over a three-year period. This is in connection with the Bureau's HIPLEX program and would involve over-flying and penetration of thunder clouds for seeding, instead of the present seeding at cloud base.

Unless rain sufficient to produce 2,000 acre feet or more for Lake J.B. Thomas should come during October, secondary oil recovery units (SACROC, Monsanto, and Sharon Ridge) will be given notice that deliveries will be reduced by one-half from Lake Thomas effective Nov. 1, 1977, the board voted.

Ivie presented projections which showed 9,000 acre feet of water would still be in Lake Thomas in June 1, 1978 even if there is no inflow, provided the repressuring deliveries are curtailed. Without the curtailment, the reserve would be down to 6,000 acre feet on that date. He outlined several complex patterns of production to meet all demands, while at the same time seeking to provide the best quality of water feasible under the circumstances.

Abandonment of a City of Snyder water well, found to be uneconomical to produce, was approved. This was necessary because, said James Rosser, attorney for the district, contracts between member cities and the district yield all production facilities to the district and the district furnishes all water handled by the cities.

Ivie reported that the district continues to receive inquiries from potential new customers. He also said that the district is experiencing unprecedented demands for this time of the year. Odessa has shown an increase of almost 100 per cent recently in its daily requirements.

As reported previously, the board adopted a budget anticipating revenues of $7,890,974 and expenditures of a like amount ($2,960,927 in operation and maintenance, $3,651,887 in debt service, and $1,278,160 in net revenues for reserve, retirement, improvement and extension and contingency funds. The 1978 Operating Budget is up 4.95 per cent over the Budget of 1977.

Band picking up newspapers
If your newspapers are stacking up, you can call the Big Spring band, and members will take them to Weathercheck to be made into insulation.

The Big Spring Steer Band has a money-making project of picking up used newspapers and selling them to the local industry.

Anyone having a quantity of newspapers to be picked up, call the band hall at 7-7463, Ext. 70 during the school week. Band hall members will pick-up papers between 4:30-8:30 p.m.

Papers may also be left in a container on the band hall parking lot.

Cattlemen round up $127,530 for children

Heavy fed steers again topped the market at Ranchers & Farmers Livestock Auction in Abilene Monday with a pen of outstanding steers donated by Abilene Feeders selling at 75c a lb., nearly twice the prevailing market.

Some specialty items on sale ranged from a tiny baby buffalo selling for $650 to a huge mountain of beef, sometimes known as a heavy steer, which weighed 2,480 lbs. that sold for 50c a lb. This enormous, fed steer was donated by Bill Ramsey of Reeves County Feeders of Pecos.

Besides the largest and smallest there were Hereford, Angus, Santa Gertrudis, Charolais, and other beef types that joined the parade across the scales and before the auctioneer's final hammer fell, $78,304.22 worth of livestock had sold at Ranchers & Farmers Livestock Auction.

Besides the livestock, $45,226 in cash was donated to the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children to make a grand total to date of $127,530.

C.A. Morris, chairman, said he was not pleased at the first sale and was looking forward to the horse sale Saturday, October 1, and other cattle, livestock and equipment sales to follow in oncoming weeks.

Morris stated this was a good start on the $200,000 needed to get the Center back on an even keel.

The West Texas Rehabilitation Center, a private, non-profit corporation, has an annual budget of one and one-half million dollars and serves over 5,000 different handicapped children and adults a year.

Services at the Center are available to all upon proper referral and open to all people regardless of race, creed, financial circumstances, or geographical residence.

Tooter King
Tom N. (Tooter) King, 46, died at 10:25 p.m. Tuesday in a local hospital after a two-year illness.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the River-Welch Funeral Home with private burial following in Trinity Memorial Park.

He was born Aug. 18, 1931 in Dickens County.

King had been in Big Spring the last three months, coming here from Dallas.

He was a backhoe operator and a member of a Baptist Church.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. Donald J. (Jacqueline) Ellis, Sand Springs, Mrs. Pete (Ruth) White, Brownfield, and Mrs. Horace (Bootie) Hyatt, Spur; two brothers, Roland King, Big Spring, Jerry F. King, Dallas; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Rogers Brown
Rogers Brown, 73, died at 2:45 a.m. today in a local hospital.

Services are pending at River-Welch Funeral Home. He was born July 28, 1904 in Washington County and married Carrie Lee McNeil in Brenham. She preceded him in death in June, 1972.

HOUSTON (AP) — Heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey defended Tuesday the coronary bypass surgery he developed and said a study which showed no difference between the surgery and medical treatment has been largely misinterpreted.

DeBakey, who performed the first coronary bypass operation here 14 years ago, was responding to a study among 13 Veterans Administration institutions.

The study of 596 heart patients showed at the end of three years no significant difference in the survival of those treated medically and those who had surgery.

"We are not challenging the (VA) study," DeBakey said. "I'm sure they presented the facts quite correctly. What we are indicating to you is that this does not cover the field of coronary disease and the bypass operation. "It is a misrepresentation to take the results of that study and say this applies to all forms of bypass operations and surgical procedures."

Indian Guides organized
The Big Spring YMCA will hold their Y-Indian Guide organizational meeting on Tuesday October 3rd, 7:00 p.m. at the YMCA.

The Y-Indian Guides is a program for boys in the first, second, and third grades and their fathers.

The program centers around the use of Indian symbols and ceremonies. Fathers and their sons carry out rituals and programs of lasting character building influence with basic Christian teachings as a natural part of the program.

This all comes at a time when the young brave thinks his dad is the "greatest guy on earth."

The organizational meeting will end with the fathers and sons having a free swim at the "Y." If you are interested in joining the Y-Indian Guides or want more information come to the organizational meeting or call the Big Spring YMCA at 267-8234.

Sand Springs fire fought
The grass fire which plagued Sand Springs Tuesday afternoon caught on fire again Tuesday night and then this morning.

The extremely dry condition of the grass causes fire departments to issue warnings to all residents concerning trash fires, and cigarettes and matches tossed out of cars.

The Sand Springs fire is south of the highway on the western edge of the community. Sand Springs firemen were helped by the Webb AFB Fire Department on Sunday afternoon.

House burglary loss set at $2,025

Burglars hit the home of Betty L. Hamilton, 1405 State, sometime late Tuesday night, and made off with over $2,025 worth of merchandise.

After kicking in the front door of the home, the intruders took a color television set, two stereo speakers, a stereo console, $300 in cash, a box full of eight-track tapes and five pounds of meat. Including damages, loss was estimated at $2,025.

Johnnie Ray Payne, 902 S. Bell, reported that a suspect he recognized shot at him while he sat in his car near 2807 S. Goliad. The incident occurred around 11:08 p.m. Tuesday. The only shot to hit anything near Payne struck the fender of his car.

Car burglars stole the CB radio antenna from a car belonging to Glen Albert, Box 1301, while the auto was parked in the parking lot of Furr's Cafeteria between 11:10 and 11:40 a.m. Tuesday. Loss was estimated at $10.

Six mishaps were reported Tuesday. Vehicles driven by James J. Wheeler, Cushing, and Jack W. Lipscombe, 2404 Alledale, collided at 11th and Birdwell, 3:18 p.m. Vehicles driven by Twilla Barnett, 077 1/2 W. 8th, and Douglas B. Henry, 1301 Johnson, collided at 13th and Scurry, 4:41 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Amber M. Jones, 601 Lincoln, and Mary P. Sotelo, 504 S. Bell, collided at 2500 Wason, 9:58 a.m.

VA sponsoring Explorers

The Veterans Administration Hospital is sponsoring the Medical Explorer Post again this fall, and invites all high school students interested in a career in the medical field to join.

The program will make available more information and familiarity with many of the different areas of opportunity in the health field.

The first meeting of the year is scheduled for Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in Room 216 of the hospital. Clayton Hicks will coordinate the program.

Kelly promoted to detective

Patrolman Mike R. Kelly of the Big Spring Police Department was promoted to Detective Investigator today after his outstanding work in an undercover narcotics investigation in August of 1976.

Kelly came to Big Spring from Kingsville, and has been with the Big Spring Police Department just over a year. Before he was employed in Kingsville, Kelly worked as a patrolman in San Antonio.

He has a wife JoNell, who works at Cosden, and who is also a reserve policeman with the Big Spring Force.

Farmers aid sick neighbor

Good neighbors are a real thing in West Texas. And out in the rural area, they are especially good about helping a friend in need.

This morning, ten cotton strippers halted working in their own fields and went to the fields of H.B. (Hap) Hatch, two miles west of the Fairview Gun.

A group organized by Lester Owens, including Morris Barnes, R.C. Thomas, Dois Ray, Dois Arvill Ray and others quickly stripped the 60 acre crop belonging to Hatch.

Hatch had a stroke recently and is paralyzed on one side. Farmers in West Texas always help each other out on occasions such as this.

Mrs. Hatch said, "There is no way we can thank them enough."

Mobile homes getting bum rap

Mobile homes have faced a bum rap on the question of safety, says a Big Spring dealer.

Denton Marsalis, owner of D & C Sales, contends that mobile homes are as safe as conventional stick homes, and he comes into my office with statistics from the California State Fire Marshall to demonstrate it.

Marsalis, obviously a talkative fellow under ordinary conditions, is literally a torrent of words on what he and other mobile home dealers across the nation consider a trumped up charge in the public's mind against their industry.

The state fire marshal in California found that 0.819 per cent of on-site built homes had fires in 1975 and only 0.0024 per cent of the mobile homes did.

In other words, one out of 122 on-site built homes had fires against only one out of every 409 mobile homes, Marsalis pointed out.

SO HOW does the mobile home image suffer? Marsalis says that television and newspaper cameramen are mysteriously drawn to damaged mobile homes like moths to flame.

While I personally know that there is no media conspiracy to get the mobile home industry, I must admit that on does seem to see quite a few "mobile home damaged" stories. Perhaps it is because if a mobile home is damaged, it is probably always pointed out that it is a mobile home — a distinction not always made on other types of dwellings.

Marsalis contends that with the federal regulations governing the construction of mobile homes, that they are better built and more thoroughly inspected than conventional homes.

And if a mobile home (defined as being at least eight feet wide and 36 feet long) is anchored down right, it is less vulnerable to damage from wind storms than stick housing, says

Marsalis. Okay, but what about the mobile homes which are blown over in heavy understorms with almost tornadic winds?

Those are mainly old ones put up on private lots before the laws requiring dealers to anchor them were in effect, Marsalis says. He adds that these types of mobile homes will continue giving the otherwise safe industry a black eye for another two decades before they are all gone.

The mobile home industry has become the only hope for home owner hungry Americans who prefer single family dwellings. Of the new homes under $32,000 sold in the U.S. last year, mobile homes accounted for 92 per cent.

MARSALIS says he is trying to keep the mobile home industry strong and improve its image in the public's mind.

For one thing, he is serving on the Legislative Committee of the Texas Mobile Housing Assn. The committee will meet in Austin this week to begin planning for the next session of the Texas Legislature.

Marsalis said that the association is still trying to straighten out all of the wrinkles thrown at the industry when House Bill 305 was rammed through the 1975 session. The cumulative bonding aspect of that law threatened for a while to wipe out mobile home dealers like a medieval plague.

Big Spring should be proud and supportive of the mobile home industry, Marsalis thinks, because of the impact the industry has on our town.

Not only does it provide housing for many of our people, but also jobs. There are three mobile home dealers, a dozen parks, and Berkley Home Inc., a factory that employs some 200 people making one of the top-line products of the entire industry.

Exit Lance

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Concerning the resignation of Bert Lance, a few observations:

1. President Carter has once again demonstrated (as in his speeches at the UN and Notre Dame) that he is absolutely unruffled by logic. If he had said, "As we all know, two plus two equals five" his brow would have remained completely unfurrowed. What he did say was a) Mr. Lance — or, rather, "Bert" — is without question objectively qualified to perform the services of Director of the Budget; b) indeed Bert is uniquely qualified to perform the services of Director of the Budget, inasmuch as there is a transcendent communion of will and purpose between Bert and the President; c) Bert was absolutely exonerated in the course of the investigation into his affairs; and therefore, d) the republic is well served by his resignation.

It is significant that Mr. Carter managed this soritical catastrophe without any trace of apprehension. And when one reporter said to him, "But Mr. President, didn't Mr. Lance violate such-and-such a law which he did with the reporting of loans to officers of a bank?" — the President calmly replied that he had nothing to add to the defense made by Bert, which the President had found totally satisfactory. Conclusion: the President thinks straight in crooked lines.

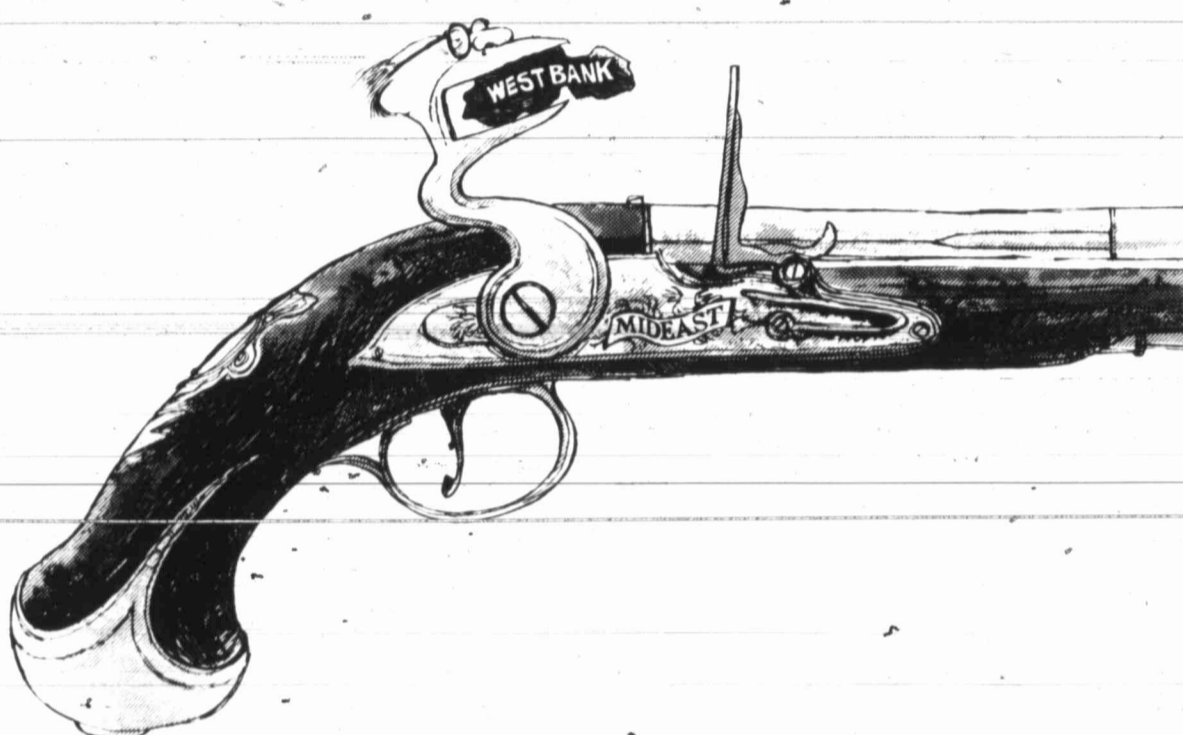

2. If one had chopped off the President's press conference two-thirds of the way through, one would have concluded that he would arrive at the conclusion that Bert would stay on. The U-turn at the end of the formal part of the conference showed that the President is less stubborn than here and there predicted. He went so far with Bert and then — however convinced he was of Bert's chastity — he bowed to the pressure of Congress and the press. Most presidents do this. Occasionally you run into a Harry Truman, who in these matters is to be compared to Gordon Liddy, or Woodrow Wilson.

Carter proved that, at the margin, he would yield. In doing so he demonstrated at once a strength and a weakness. A strength in his final declination to go to the fanatical lengths of a Woodrow Wilson, ultimately eroding even his latent authority; weakness in that he invites fractiousness in the Congress and, to a degree, in the press. And, of course, the mirage of Carter-guided-exclusively-by-the-right-or-wrong-of any question is gone, as, inevitably, it had to go. Bye-bye.

3. The proposition that the press showed the impartiality of its investigative zeal by going after Lance, a Democrat, should not be thoughtlessly accepted. It is true that Lance was a Democrat, but that was not his dominant image. The man the press pursued was not the Democratic assistant to the President, but the swinging capitalist banker who came to Washington to balance the budget. It is an unguarded secret that Mr. Blumenthal, the Secretary of the Treasury, was to the left of Lance on a number of questions involving fiscal husbandry.

Much of the bureaucracy, addicted to swollen budgets and expanding federal activity, opposed Lance, and gave psychological aid to his persecutors.

Flu vaccine: Opinions differ

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There doesn't seem to be uniform opinion in the medical profession about the need for flu shots for the elderly. I am really confused.

I get flu shots every year and every year I catch the flu. Once this turned into bronchitis and lasted four weeks. My wife does not get the shots and is only mildly affected. I would appreciate hearing your opinion.

W.A.S.

There's precious little uniform opinion about matters of this sort in the medical profession. But differences of opinion make horse races and progress.

As to the flu shots, I cannot tell you to have them or not have them. Such decisions rest on the individual physician's evaluation. Age is important. Most doctors think influenza vaccine is advisable for the elderly or those with weakening ailments, such as heart disease, diabetes, emphysema, asthma, or any such general debility. The U.S. Public Health Service agrees.

The term "flu" is used loosely for various respiratory tract infections. Necessarily there are always some varieties of viruses not included in vaccines. The idea behind vaccines is to protect against the most damaging viruses that seem most likely to be around in any given year. Your flu could well have been due to any one of the 80 or more viruses that cause the common cold. It's also quite possible that your attacks might have been even more severe without the vaccine protection.

We are all unique in the ways our bodies react to anything, including flu viruses. Some may be zoned out of the picture for weeks, while others may have only the mildest of symptoms, a bit of a snuffle or a low-level fever. It can occur with or without the shots.

Protection is the key word in all of this. Some doctors just don't bother to give flu shots. I suspect some may even have withheld them to avoid patient anxiety over the confusing controversy surrounding last year's swine flue program. It's all part of the difference of opinion you speak of. Other doctors give the shots routinely for patients they feel will benefit. My own doctor does, and I trust his judgment enough to have them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please give me some advice on angina. What can I do about it? My doctor wants to put dye into my veins. Why is this done? Will it have to be repeated later? — C.F.

The dye injection is part of what is called an angiogram. It's the most reliable method for telling the actual status of the coronary arteries — whether normal or narrowed by atherosclerosis. The dye is just that — a staining material that makes the blood vessels stand out clearly under X ray. "Angio" is the Greek word for "vessel" or "container"; hence, "vessel picture."

Before such techniques, the only way physicians could tell much was by ECG evaluation.

More on Somoza

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Uganda's fat, farcical President-for-Life Idi Amin, a comic-opera tyrant who is not amusing to his hapless subjects, has a counterpart in the western hemisphere. We nominate Anastasio Somoza, the Grand Sachem of Nicaragua, as the Latin Idi Amin.

We do not confer this honorific upon him casually. We were first struck by the resemblance between the two potentates five months ago. We then began a painstaking investigation to determine whether the likeness was valid.

We spoke to U.S. officials, diplomats, businessmen and Nicaraguans who know Somoza personally. We made secret arrangements to talk with members of his own staff.

A PORTRAIT gradually formed of a tempestuous tyrant, whom his associates secretly call "mimado" — a spoiled brat whose every whim must be catered to. This is a portrait Americans should contemplate, because he's their "mimado." He has been trained by the Pentagon, pampered by the State Department, financed by the Treasury.

He is not as bloodthirsty as Amin, although Somoza has ordered his share of torturing and killing. He has bullied and brutalized his people in the Idi Amin manner if not scale.

Like the African despot, Somoza also runs his country as if it were his private estate. Directly or indirectly he controls every profitable industry, institution and service in Nicaragua. He has millions stashed in foreign bank accounts, millions more in commercial investments outside of Nicaragua.

His dirt-poor subjects, meanwhile, eke out a meager living for wages that average 30 cents an hour. If this keeps them thin, Somoza's lifestyle has bloated his own belly. He has a prodigious appetite for food, liquor and sex. Amin and Somoza could match bellies.

Like Amin, Somoza is fond of arraying himself in military splendor, his ample bosom bedecked with medals bestowed upon him by himself and his family. He particularly likes to get all gussied up in the big blue sash and gold medal of the Order of Ruben Dario. This organization, created by Somoza's dictator father, is named after a famous Nicaraguan poet and is the nation's highest decoration.

In his warrior's attire, Somoza has the appearance of a mighty, if gaudy, battle hero. The truth is he has never been closer to combat than 10 miles. That occurred in 1966 when the citizens of Managua demonstrated in the streets and the national guard moved them down by the hundreds.

As commander of the guard, Somoza directed the slaughter from Las Mercedes airport — a safe 10 miles away. On at least one other occasion, he surveyed the site of a guerrilla skirmish from a circling airplane long after the guerrillas had been flushed out.

Like Amin, Somoza is given to throwing temper tantrums. He is always in a foul humor when, for medical reasons, he is compelled to swear off the bottle and sip tea as a substitute. His aides have learned to avoid him during his "tea breaks."

For his fits of rage can be awesome. Idi Amin, who reportedly has had five wives, a couple dozen mistresses and 34 children, may have led a more vigorous sex life than Somoza. But the Nicaraguan panjandrum has achieved a bedroom reputation of sorts.

Although he has stayed married to the same woman, he keeps at least one mistress. She is an irrepressible woman, named Dinorah Sampson, who refers to Somoza as "mi papa" or her sugar daddy. Somoza's wife may be the "First Lady," says Dinorah, but she is the "First Woman."

Several sources with first-hand knowledge tell us that Somoza has also carried on flirtations with the wives of subordinates. The dictator merely dispatched the husbands to the hinterlands while he made merry with their wives.

Drawbacks, too

Around the rim

Dusty Richard

In a recent edition of the San Antonio Light, there was an article about how some people, including many politicians, want to take away benefits of the military. President Carter is quoted as being in favor of "phasing out" commissaries.

I disagree. As Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said, "We must honor our obligations to those who served our nation. We cannot renege on commitments made in the past. To do so would amount to a breach of faith to those who relied on (these) benefits as they made career decisions in the past."

IT IS TRUE that I am biased. My father is a retired Marine, my brother is presently in the Marines, and my first 17 years were spent at various military installations around the world.

It seems to me that everyone talks about the benefits that military personnel receive, but no one ever remembers the drawbacks that go along with the benefits. I remember.

I remember the time that my father, who spent 14 years of the 29 he was in the service out of the States, was away on a cruise to Puerto Rico. I was in the first grade at the time and we were stationed in Camp Lejeune, N.C., a long way from our home in San Antonio. My mother had four small children to take care of. I remember a Military Police truck driving around the street of base housing and an MP in the truck was shouting through a loudspeaker for all men of so-and-so battalion to pack and report immediately to their headquarters and that the men of my father's company would not be coming home as soon as expected. My mother's face was white as we stood at the door, trying to figure out what had happened. Later, during whispered conversations between my mother and the other women on base, I heard words like "Cuban Missile Crisis" and "Bay of Pigs." I didn't understand. I just wanted my daddy to come home.

I REMEMBER one day at Santa Margarita Elementary School. One of my friend's mother had come to pick her up from school. Her father had been killed, shot through the throat by a sniper in Vietnam. I remember wondering how long it would be until my daddy went and got killed, too.

I remember my brother taking my sister and me aside right before he left for Vietnam, telling us that he had taken out an insurance policy naming us as beneficiaries. He said that he had made sure we'd go to college if he was killed. I remember crying because I didn't know what insurance was, what "beneficiary" meant, or if I even wanted to go to college, but I knew I didn't want my big brother to be dead.

I remember the black car that would drive down our street sometimes when we were stationed in Camp Pendleton, Calif. All the women who had sons or husbands in Vietnam would peep out the window to see at whose house it would stop, praying that it wouldn't, please God!, stop in front of theirs. I remember the time it slowed down in front of our house and the chaplain inside the car looked at our address. My mother just said "Tommy." Then it crept down the street and stopped at the Spire's. We looked at each other in relief and guilt, because it meant that someone else's loved one was dead — not ours.

I remember my sister and I sleeping with our mother practically the whole time my dad was in Vietnam, because of our bad dreams. We would all run every time the telephone rang. We learned the names of places we never knew existed as we faithfully watched the news every night.

I REMEMBER never having one friend for more than two years at a time until I was 16. I remember running away from where we were stationed in Virginia — I just couldn't take that last move away from San Antonio where I had made friends in high school.

My father remembers WWII, Korea and Vietnam... the mother who died when he was far from home, the bullet he took on some god-forsaken hill somewhere, the kids who grew up more every time he had to leave them, the boys he had to send out to die in Vietnam.

My brother remembers the girl who jilted him when he left for Nam, the first time he ever saw a Vietcong cut in half by machine gun bullets, and the way he came home from the war half crazy.

My mother remembers the baby that was born when my father was somewhere in the South China Sea, the children she raised alone more than half the time and the husband and son she had to send to war, wondering if she'd ever see them again.

This story is not unique — it could be the story of any military family in any branch of the service anywhere in the world.

Yet, there are people who want to give aid to every country ever set foot in, appropriate funds for this bomb and that, and subsidize every large corporation that shows a little profit loss, and then turn around and scream bloody murder because of "all" the benefits the military receive.

They say, nobody told your fathers and sons and brothers to enlist. They could have burned their draft cards if they were drafted, or got out of the service as soon as they wanted to. No one made them do what they thought was right — to go to war and fight and maybe get killed so the rest of us could sit over here fat and happy.

But then again, if they hadn't, who would have?

Big Spring Herald

Dear Editor:

I read in your paper an article concerning the ERA. Since you allowed one side to be published I am sure you will be fair in printing a letter for the other side.

In this article I found not one fact to back up "one person's opinion." Our laws are recorded in the Yale Law Journal, as you well know, so let me point out a few facts already on record.

First, it was stated that women were overlooked when the Constitution was written. Not so! The 14th amendment provides due process of the law to all persons. In over 180 cases, the U.S. Supreme Court and various lower courts have held women as "persons" under the 14th amendment and have ruled favorably to women.

Second, the article was misleading in stating the ERA "consists of only one short sentence." Why didn't she take a look at the whole thing? It reads: Section I. "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex." Section II. "The Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article." Section III. "This amendment shall take effect two years after date of ratification." We had better take a close look at Section II. If ERA goes through we are transferring power from states to the federal government.

It stated that women would be entitled to better education. Not so either! Existing laws (such as the Education Amendment of 1972) require public institutions of higher learning to admit women. Current Department of H.E.W. guidelines cover all educational institutions, public or private, and require equal admission, equal sports participation opportunities, equal scholarships, etc. for women. Nor will it provide better jobs, as stated, this is already guaranteed under three laws (1) The 14th amendment; (2) The Civil Rights Act of 1964 (3) The Equal Opportunities Act of 1972. If these three laws can't be enforced, how will another help?

The draft has not been repealed, merely deactivated. When running for office Pres. Carter said he would not hesitate to re-instate the draft if needed. (Ft. Worth Star Telegram, Aug. 25, 1975). Are we so naive as to think there will never be another war? Congress has always had the power to draft women but has chosen not to use that power. Under ERA Congress will lose the right to exempt women from the draft. To exempt because of sex would be discrimination and therefore unconstitutional. (Congressional Record, page S4375) ERA would necessitate drafting men and women on equal basis including combat duty. (Yale Law Journal, page 969-77). Under ERA, the wife can be forced to supply half the family support, or all of it, if she is a better wage earner. (Page 944-945 Yale Law Journal, which was inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator Birch Bayh, leading proponent of ERA.) The Bible tells us in Deut. 6:7 that we are to teach our own children. It does not say put them in a day care center. Under ERA we will lose this right, if a wife fails to support her husband he can use it as grounds for divorce. (Yale Law Journal, page 951). Divorced women will lose the customary right of child custody, child support, and/or alimony and can be forced to pay child support and alimony, if her husband wins custody of the children. (Yale Law Journal, page 952).

The ERA is the explosive weapon many think it is! Once the ERA becomes an amendment, states will have no authority over homosexuality, abortion, drafting of women, unisex bathrooms, and many other things. This is not just what I think, this is the conclusion of the authorities in Constitutional law. ERA would give the federal government complete control in any sex-related problem within the state. It would unquestionably legalize homosexuality.

According to Section I, if you deny a homosexual the right to teach your children in public or private schools, you would be discriminating "on account of sex." That would be unconstitutional. ERA will permit homosexuals to marry and adopt children according to leading law counsels (Yale Law Journal, Jan. 1973, Congressional Research, page S4372) If God wouldn't tolerate this in Sodom, have we any reason to expect him to condone it in America? Incidentally, some claim homosexuals are born that way and can't help themselves. Would a just God condemn, as the vilest sin under Heaven, anything one was born with and couldn't help? (Read Rom. 1:27; Lev. 18:22; Lev. 20:13).

Is this what anyone really wants? Or do they just now know any better? Mrs. Weldon Watson

Connally bribe try figure

Disbarment of former milk producers manager upheld

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court upheld Tuesday the disbarment of Harold Nelson, former general manager of American Milk Producers, Inc., and a key figure in an alleged attempt to bribe John Connally while Connally was secretary of the treasury.

The high court handed down scores of decisions after several weeks of not returning any.

The tribunal said it found "no reversible error" in a ruling of the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals ordering Nelson's disbarment.

A San Antonio district court suspended Nelson but refused to disbar him on the ground that he had not been convicted of a felony involving moral turpitude.

Price supports were raised March 25, 1971, and the federal information alleges that Jacobsen and Connally met in Washington on May 14, 1971, in violation of the federal conspiracy law.

Connally was indicted on bribery charges. Jacobsen posed for imprisonment for three years. It is, therefore, obvious that the trial judge considered the offense more serious than that of making illegal campaign contributions.

"Furthermore," the court added, "by pleading guilty to the criminal information, appellee (Nelson) admitted all the facts contained therein."

The information alleged, among other things, that Nelson authorized Bob Lilly, another AMPI executive, to give lawyer Jake Jacobsen $10,000 to pass to Connally if Connally would agree to recommend that the Nixon administration raise milk price supports.

Price supports were raised March 25, 1971, and the federal information alleges that Jacobsen and Connally met in Washington on May 14, 1971, in violation of the federal conspiracy law.

Connally was indicted on bribery charges. Jacobsen was the prosecution's star witness against him. Connally was acquitted.

In other cases, the high court ruled:

—Susan Miller is entitled to have a jury decide if she was falsely imprisoned by The Fair department store in Jefferson County. A clerk forgot to remove a magnetic wafer attached to a garment Mrs. Miller bought, and an alarm system was activated when she left the store. A male employe accosted her outside the store and took her back inside, where she "felt that everyone thought I had shoplifted." A trial court refused to submit the arrest issue to the jury.

—James Richard Carter's case must be transferred from juvenile court to district court jurisdiction in Marshall for possible trial of Carter in the strangulation slaying of his mother. The nude body of Carter's mother was found on her bed in 1974 after a deputy sheriff came across him on a highway. Carter, then 17, claimed a large black man had kidnaped him and had attacked his mother, but an appeals court said there was sufficient evidence to turn the case over to a grand jury on a charge Carter killed his mother.

—It will hear arguments from Wilford Kamarath, a disabled Dallas veteran, who sued his landlord for alleged failure to provide a "habitable" apartment. Kamarath rented an apartment from C.C. Bennett in a 75-year-old, two-story brick building in March 1975. Kamarath inspected the apartment before agreeing to pay $110 monthly rent. City building inspectors told the landlord to repair it or close it. Kamarath sued Bennett, claiming an "implied warranty of habitability," but lower courts ruled the law in Texas in such cases was governed by the doctrine of caveat emptor — let the buyer beware.

ATF hopes to stifle cigarette smuggling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government hopes to stifle cigarette smuggling along the Mexican border with a new regulation aimed at the big export warehouses located primarily in Texas.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms announced the regulation here. After a 60-day period for public comment, it will be put into effect.

The bureau's director, Rex Davis, said that smuggling may be costing the federal and state governments as much as $22 million annually in lost taxes — $7 million to the federal government, $14 million to Texas, and $1 million to Arizona. The $22 million is based on the assumption that all of the cigarettes sold by the export warehouses return to the U.S. black market.

Davis said he thinks most of them do, and he added legitimate businessmen along the border are being undersold by competitors who illegally sell the tax-free packages.

The new government regulation would require anyone wishing to buy tax-free cigarettes from a wholesale warehouse to present a copy of an import permit issued by the Mexican government.

An informed federal source said negotiations with Mexico have produced an

Chief not big on walking beat

HARLEM, Ga. (AP) — Harlem Police Chief C.R. Wright is not big on walking a beat. He's witnessed eight minor traffic accidents and has spotted three stolen cars over the past nine months without moving from his chair, he says.

"Our town is only a mile across, so instead of getting out in a car and making a fool of yourself, you just sit still and let them come to you," he explains.

Wright said he would spend most of his time turning around at the city limits if he patrolled the streets in one of the town's two police cars.

Three-time Grad Can't Find a Job

DEAR ABBY: I have a strong feeling that by the time you (or a member of your staff) reads this, I may not be around, but I hope you print this with a response that will help others who share my dilemma.

I spent eight years earning three university degrees, and now I can't find a job. I was even willing to work out of my field and do typing or waitress work, but was turned down with, "You'd only leave us as soon as we got you trained."

Now I have nothing and I can't afford to continue looking for work. The cost of resumes, gasoline, parking and just living while job hunting has taken all my money. After I mail this letter, I won't even have the price of another postage stamp!

Someday, if a multi-degreed person should ask you for a job, I hope you'll remember me, and how happy I would have been to be your typist.

WORTHLESS

DEAR WORTHLESS: Your signature is a revealing clue to your problem. No one, whether he has three degrees or none, whether he's employed or jobless, is "worthless."

If you're still around, and I sincerely hope you are, I beg you to call the Suicide Prevention hotline. If there's none in your city, contact your local Mental Health Association. You desperately need more help than I can give you in a letter. God bless. And let me hear from you again. I care.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

Sanders celebrate twenty-fifth year

Jerry and Madeline Sanders, married 25 years today, were surprised by a party Sunday.

The Silver Anniversary party was given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Sanders, and his brother and sister-in-law, Larry and Paula Sanders of Odessa.

The Sanders, who were married Sept. 28, 1952, were honored with a three-tiered cake baked by Sanders' sister in Houston, decorated with the numeral 25 in a silver gazebo on top.

Sanders had been in the weddings of all 12 Big Spring couples who attended the party.

Mrs. Sanders, the daughter of Mrs. Nellie B. Wilber of Claremont, N.H., and the late Mr. George H. Wilber, was born and raised in Randolph, Vermont, and graduated from Randolph High School in 1946. She is a graduate of Gifford Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, completing her studies in 1949. An RN, she has been associated with the Malone-Hogan Hospital for 25 years. She is presently Supervisor of the Hospital Pharmacy.

Sanders was born in Big Spring and graduated from Big Spring High School. He attended Howard College and Lubbock Barber College, and has been a barber here for 20 years. He is now co-owner of Continental Water Company.

Thea Musgrave is Classic Lady

BY MARY CAMPBELL
(AP) Newswriters Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Thea Musgrave's father, back home in Scotland, didn't think that becoming a composer of classical music was a canny move, so he didn't encourage her.

Still, he figured, if a man became a classical composer, married and had six children, eight people would starve. If a woman married and had six kids, the husband would have to support her. So he didn't discourage her, either.

With that, Thea Musgrave, at Edinburgh University, turned from medicine to music because "an overwhelming passion" overcame the earlier choice made on the cooler reasoning that the doctors make a good living.

Today she composes, is married, has no children, isn't starving. And her third opera, "The Voice of Ariadne," will be given its American premiere at the New York City Opera on Sept. 30.

"A fairly formidable output, along with her orchestral and other works, in a field that hasn't exactly been crowded with women."

"I never felt unwanted," Miss Musgrave says. "It's

The James Brothers

with Marj Carpenter

In a book called "Texas Yesterday and Tomorrow," Steve Wilhelm says, "Tradition has it that the James brothers, Frank and Jesse, had a hideout on the North Concho River near Sterling City. Old-timers originated the story of having seen the James brothers in the Sterling City vicinity and around Big Spring in the early 80s." That set me to wondering a little bit and this week when I went down to Sterling City to ride fence, I found the answer. Frank and Jesse James holed up—literally in a dugout on a tributary of Sterling Creek off the North Concho.

There is a draw which runs south on a ranch owned by Robert Foster since 1938 which is called James Hollow. They were reported to be dodging the law around 1880. They killed buffalo and wagons came to the Sterling City area for the hides because it was risky for them to come out of hiding. The first tax assessor in Sterling County was a man named W.J. Cosby. He had ridden with Jesse James during the Civil War years under Quantrell. He was very friendly with Jesse and this was probably the reason that Jesse and Frank stopped in that area.

There were probably other reasons. Nobody was likely to look for them there. There were still a few Indians around and it was a comparatively tough territory.

It was said that in those years, his gang would herd wild horses down to the area and Frank and Jesse would break the horses and send them back to be sold.

On one occasion during that time, Jesse was reported to be around the Big Spring area. They were supposed to have stayed hidden around Sterling City for over two years. Jesse was, during that time, reported once to have wandered over to the Stanton area and worked on the Millhollon Ranch briefly one winter to make money for grub. He was asked no questions.

Pecos old-timers claimed Clay Allison as their outlaw but he wasn't nearly as well-known as Jesse James. They also claimed that Billy the Kid once stopped in their saloons.

But Jesse and Frank knew better than to wander over to Pecos. There were too many people there who would have known them. But in the Sterling City, Stanton and Big Spring areas, nobody paid too much attention to anybody who appeared to be breaking horses and minding their own business.

You might say that Jesse James spent his last years in the Sterling City area. At that time, there was a $10,000 reward on his head offered by the Governor of Missouri.

Think of how much money that was in relation to money today. He was shot to death April 3, 1882 in Saint Joseph, Mo. where he had been betrayed by the Ford brothers, Charles and Robert, who were members of the same gang.

They were probably among those who helped drive wild horses to Sterling City for Frank and Jesse to break. He had gone home after apparently being tricked into thinking it was safe.

The Ford brothers were captured and tried and pardoned by the governor and received a reward.

Frank James, the following year, surrendered and was in jail awaiting trial for a year and finally was released.

He then occupied a farm near Excelsior Springs, Mo. where he died Feb. 18, 1915.

People who knew James down around Sterling City passed on to their survivors the message that James was no criminal. They reported that he was chivalrous to women and that during the long years of his struggle with the law committed no crime with the primary intention of taking human life. They said he was activated simply by trying to stay free.

And that's the wonderful story I heard this week down around Sterling City—while out ridin' fence.

average of 400 members each year since we opened our doors in 1968. This shows a big need in Big Spring for boys to have a place of their own where they can come and go of their own free will.

Any boy in Howard County from age 6 to age 17 can become a member of the Boys Club. The United Way contributes a vital percentage to the Club's budget so that membership can easily be within the reach of every boy, regardless of family income. Dues are fifty cents a year for elementary school boys, one dollar a year for junior high boys, and two dollars a year for senior high boys. If a boy has difficulty paying the dues, he can earn them by doing jobs around the club. Members have access to all the educational and recreational facilities of the Boys Club, including a gym, an outdoor playground, a library, a woodshop, and table games like ping-pong, air hockey, and foosball. Many fine sports contests are held through the year, such as the Hotshot Basketball Contest. There are also "learn to swim" classes and art programs.

Bert Andries is Executive Director of the Boys Club of Big Spring. Guy Griffith is a math teacher at Goliad and a part-time assistant at the Boy's Club. # Hancho Kim indicted in influence-buying probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury is accusing a Washington businessman of conspiring with the Korean Central Intelligence Agency to buy influence from congressmen and government officials.

The grand jury issued an indictment Tuesday of Korean born cosmetics manufacturer Hancho C. Kim, charging that he conspired to defraud the United States and that he made a false declaration to the grand jury.

Later, a second grand jury in Baltimore indicted Kim on a charge of income tax evasion. Each of the three charges carries a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a maximum $10,000 fine.

The conspiracy indictment was the second in the grand jury's investigation of alleged South Korean efforts to buy influence in Congress and for the first time accused the CIA of direct involvement in the effort.

Earlier, the grand jury indicted Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park on 36 charges. Park, indicted in absentia, was accused of bribery and with acting as a foreign agent to buy influence in Congress with cash, gifts and parties.

Park is in South Korea and is fighting Justice Department efforts to return him to the United States.

Meanwhile, Rep. Donald M. Fraser, D-Minn., confirmed reports Tuesday night that a CIA agent named Sohn Young Ho has defected and is in the custody of U.S. marshals. Fraser said Sohn is cooperating with the House subcommittee on international organizations in its investigation of alleged Korean efforts to influence U.S. foreign policy.

The New York Times identified Sohn as the CIA agent in charge of New York area operations and said he was accredited as a Korean consular official in New York.

In its indictment Tuesday, the grand jury said the CIA delivered $600,000 to Kim's home to finance the influence-buying scheme from Aug. 15, 1974, until April of 1976.

It said Kim and a CIA agent with the Korean embassy, Kim Sang Keun, sent more than 141 Telex messages from Kim's suburban Washington home to CIA headquarters in Seoul to report progress.

The grand jury said Hancho Kim also got instructions from an assistant to the director of the CIA in Seoul, Gen. Yang Doo Wan, who is also known as Lee Sang Ho.

The grand jury named Kim Sang Keun and Yang Doo Wan as unindicted co-conspirators. Kim Sang Keun, at one time the No. 2 CIA agent attached to the South Korean Embassy in Washington, defected and cooperated with investigators. He previously was reported to have told the grand jury that he personally delivered the $600,000 to Hancho Kim.

The new indictment charges that the CIA money Hancho Kim got was "for the purpose of distributing the money to members of the Congress." However, no congressmen are named in the indictment.

'Poor' IRS employe faces federal charges

HOUSTON (AP) — Federal authorities said a man employed by the Internal Revenue Service who claimed he couldn't pay his taxes because he didn't have a job was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of filing false statements with a government agency.

Asst. U. S. Atty. James Powers said Gerald H. Fahrenthold, 53, had filed a 1976 income tax return with the IRS but did not enclose money owed.

When the IRS questioned Fahrenthold, Powers said, he told them he was unemployed and could not pay the taxes in one sum. The IRS was making arrangements for Fahrenthold to make the payments in installments when it was discovered he was an employe in the agency's audit division, Powers said.

Good ol' Poe Poree

Around the five-city area, football players stayed relatively healthy last week.

Steer quarterback Mike Abreo is coming off a serious eye injury and could be ready for Friday night's game in Abilene. Stanton's All-State hopeful Marvin "Lemon Juice" Jones might also see action in the New Home contest.

Jones is reported to be doing much better, but the healing of a badly sprained knee (an injury much like that which sidelined Steer Joey Vasquez for three weeks) is a day to day process. "I think he could play if we needed him," said Coach David Thompson.

Of course, Stanton's Todd Smith and Oscar Perez are still mending broken hands, but those injuries occurred a couple of weeks ago.

Sands Mustang fullback Jackie McDonald suffered a slight neck injury last week, but with the aid of a brace, he should be ready to go by Friday.

Forsan's Tom Posey also pulled a neck muscle during warmups last Friday and sat out the entire Robert Lee contest. He was missed, but should be back for the Dawson game this week.

Big Spring's Ricky Cluck has been out recently with an attack of asthma, but should also be ready. The two-day bug went around BSHS during the off week, and Coach Don Robbins is hoping it ran its course.

Coahoma has stayed remarkably healthy throughout the season.

"Jumpin' Jerry" Foresyth called Tuesday afternoon to discuss some game or another played in Lubbock last Saturday.

Must admit he didn't gloat, and we discussed A&M's chances against rugged Michigan. The Aggie expert quoted some figures and expounded briefly on the Southwest Conference picture as it now stands.

Told him that I would much rather see A&M win the race than Texas, since Tech is now virtually out of it, but I also told him I refused to eat any more crow.

Okie Phenokee Walt Finley empathized with me and the other Tech fans. "A good quarterback is important to a team," Finley asserted. "Look at Oklahoma. With Lott in there the first quarter, we rolled up a 20-0 score, but after he left the game, we had to hang on by the skin of our teeth for the win."

Tech would've probably hung on for the win too, if they could've built up a 20-point lead before Allison left. One final note of that game: Right smack dab in the middle of half-time, a fire broke out right underneath the section where my favorite double-T person and myself were sitting.

A half-dozen firetrucks and cop cars arrived on the scene, as smoke billowed over the edge of the stands and press box. Haven't seen such occurrence mentioned anywhere in print, so thought I'd mention it. A concession stand caught on fire and burned to the ground. Pity it couldn't have happened before I ate that leathery hot dog.

If you're not doing anything tonight, join me and Pearl at Hawk Gym at 8 o'clock to see the Hawks practice. Wednesday night is the only evening practice for the locals and they are lookin' good.

Taller and beefier than they've been in years, the Red and Gray squad could go all the way this year. FYI: On the 13 member team this year are five local players, Casey Wilder, Elroy Green and Jim Ray of Big Spring; Ralph Miranda of Forsan and Daryl Witt of Coahoma.

By the way, Big Joe Cooper now stands at a trifle over 6-10 and has gained 25 pounds in the off-season. I get a nose bleed just looking at him.

Returning with "Coop" from last year are Russell Sublet, Eugene Williams, Johnny James and Jim Ray. Joining the team for the first time this year are Allen Bonds from El Paso, Elmer Johnson from DeRidder, Louisiana (Marvin's brother), Robby Randolph, All-Stater from Memphis, Tennessee and affable R.Q. Tolliver from Munday.

"These are the friendliest bunch of guys OFF the court I've ever seen," said Hawk mentor Harold Wilder, "but on the court, look out!"

Nader's Raiders invade sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Nader is bankrolling a consumer group for sports lovers because, he says, "There is a rising crescendo from sports fans about the way they are being treated."

The consumer watchdog said Tuesday that he has made a personal loan of $10,000 to launch the group — dubbed the Fight to Advance the Nation's Sports, or FANS.

And while Nader says he will take no policy-making role in the group, he had some ideas about the jobs it should tackle.

Major sports, Nader said, "are heavily subsidized by the taxpayers," and taxpayers should have a say in trading of players, quality of stadium concessions — ticket pricing and accessibility.

He said the group's first move ought to be to force owners of baseball, football and other major pro teams to make disclosure of their costs and profits, so fans can tell whether ticket prices are too high.

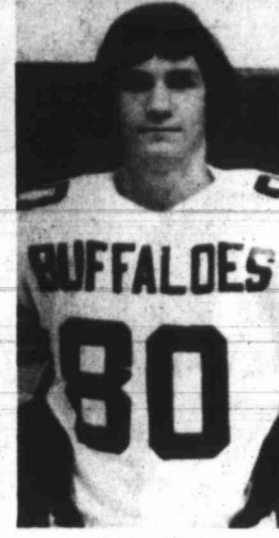

Peter Gruenstein, a 30-year-old Washington lawyer who will be executive director of FANS, said that because so many professional clubs get tax breaks and public subsidies, Congress might be convinced to require financial disclosure.

MIKE RITCHEY, a 160-pound junior offensive and defensive lineman for the Coahoma Bulldogs, was a unanimous pick from the ranks of the Big Red. Ritchey went both ways during the contest and supplied key blocks for Bulldog ground men.

"I usually don't like to single out just one individual," said Coach Roy Winters the morning following the game, "but Mike had a truly outstanding game."

RON ROBERSON, 155-pound senior offensive and defensive end for the Forsan Buffaloes, caught a touchdown pass during last week's heartbreaking 7-6 loss to Robert Lee. He also intercepted a pass while operating on defense.

Roberson's consistent play on both offense and defense earned him this week's honor. Ron also caught the pass three weeks ago that scored the first points for Forsan this season.

MIKE SWINSON, 160-pound senior for the Stanton

Buffaloes, was in on 17 tackles from his linebacker slot in Stanton's 12-7 victory over Roscoe last Friday. He also graded out high from his offensive guard position, and earned the respect of his coach by playing all night long with an extremely bad ankle. BILL WIGGINGTON, 142-pound sophomore from Sands High School, gained 14 yards rushing and caught a 35-yard pass to highlight his effort against Jayton last week.

He also knocked down two passes on defense and displayed a lot of "individual effort," according to his coach, Travis Mullanax. "The whole team looked a lot better," said Mullanax, "but Bill really stood out."

Big Spring had an open date last week, but returns to action this Friday.

Punt, Pass & Kick time

There is just one week remaining for youngsters in the Big Spring area to register for the local Punt, Pass & Kick competitions.

Bob Brock, Ford Dealer sponsoring the popular youth activity in this area, said that registration would be taken through Friday, Sept. 30. The Big Spring PP&K Competition is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 1, at Blankenship Field.

"Although time is growing short, any youngster 8 through 13 years of age can still compete," said Brock. "All a contestant need do is come into our showroom, accompanied by a parent or guardian, and fill out the PP&K registration form. There's no entry fee or charge of any kind, and that goes for all six levels of competition, up to and including the National Finals."

Brock indicated that trophies will be awarded for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place in each of the six age groups. Increasing the youngster's chances of winning one of the 18 trophies is the fact that each contestant competes only against others of the same age. And since there is no body contact, an entrant's size is not as important as his ability to punt, pass and place-kick for distance with accuracy.

"Winners can continue on up through the Zone, District, Area and Division contests to the National Finals," a spokesman said. "It's possible that one or more of our local winners could wind up in the Finals."

When contestants register, each entrant gets a free PP&K Tips Book. It contains helpful pointers from the pros on punting, passing and kicking. In the 1977 edition are suggestions from NFL stars Marv Bateman, Ken Stabler and Toni Linhart. Complete PP&K rules and suggested conditioning exercises for contestants are also included.

This is the 17th anniversary year for PP&K. From its inception, the youth activity has been sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the National Football League. In that time more than 14 million youngsters have taken part in PP&K, making it one of the largest activities of its kind in America.

This Saturday has been proclaimed Punt, Pass and Kick day by Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate.

Rice fish will start

HOUSTON (AP) — Freshman quarterback Randy Hertel, carefully primed by Coach Homer Rice in Rice's first three games, is getting the same chance Tommy Kramer received as a freshman signal caller — a starting assignment against a nationally ranked power.

Kramer was thrown into the fight as a starter against Notre Dame his freshman year at Rice and closed out

Aggies to add seats

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Regents at Texas A&M have given the go-ahead to an expansion of Kyle Field.

The addition of 14,600 seats for the 1979 season will bring the stadium's total capacity to more than 63,000.

Athletic Director Emory Bellard says the expansion project will begin after the 1978 season.

last season as the nation's leading passer and an All-American selection.

Rice announced Tuesday that Hertel, brother of Southern California starting quarterback Rob Hertel, will be his quarterback when the Owls face eighth ranked Texas in their Southwest Conference opener Saturday.

"It's a tough thing to put a freshman quarterback in against a team like the University of Texas," Rice said. "I've worked with three quarterbacks in our first three games and Hertel's been in some tough situations so we're giving him a chance to start."

Hertel will replace sophomore Jeff Swab, who started last week's 77-0 loss to Louisiana State.

Junior college transfer Mark Snyder, plagued by an early season injury, also has worked at the quarterback position vacated by Kramer last season.

And while Nader says he will take no policy-making role in the group, he had some ideas about the jobs it should tackle.

Major sports, Nader said, "are heavily subsidized by the taxpayers," and taxpayers should have a say in trading of players, quality of stadium concessions — ticket pricing and accessibility.

He said the group's first move ought to be to force owners of baseball, football and other major pro teams to make disclosure of their costs and profits, so fans can tell whether ticket prices are too high.

Peter Gruenstein, a 30-year-old Washington lawyer who will be executive director of FANS, said that because so many professional clubs get tax breaks and public subsidies, Congress might be convinced to require financial disclosure.

HAPPIER TIMES — Big Spring Herald photographer Danny Valdes caught Texas Tech quarterback Rodney Allison and Head Coach Steve Sloan in a festive mood before the start of last Saturday's game with the Aggies. Later, neither had anything to smile about, as Allison broke a bone in his leg and A&M went on to defeat Tech 33-17.

Phils clinch title

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Bowa hopped around like a drenched rat. Veteran Tim Lincecum laughed like a kid. Even soft-spoken Manager Danny Ozark smiled as the champagne poured down his head.

The Philadelphia Phillies celebrated their National League East title-clinching triumph with traditional swigging, spraying and silliness. But they won't be satisfied with just one party this year.

"The celebration isn't as loud as last year. The fellas are taking it with less excitement. We want to play in the World Series," said Mike Schmidt after Tuesday's 15-9 victory over the Chicago Cubs in which he hit his 38th homer on his 28th birthday.

The Phillies won their first divisional crown last season, but were beaten in the playoffs in three straight games by Cincinnati.

"Last year, we were happy with just winning our division. This year, we won't be happy unless we win it all," said Bowa, who smacked four singles Tuesday.

The next target is the National League pennant. That battle begins next Tuesday in Los Angeles against the Dodgers in a best-of-five series.

The Cubs fell behind 11-2 when Philadelphia scored seven runs in the seventh inning. But they rebounded with two runs in the seventh and five in the eighth, closing the gap to 12-9. However, the determined Phillies scored three more runs in the ninth, locking up the victory and the East championship.

Woodard out of hospital

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M fullback George Woodard is to be released from a hospital here this afternoon and is expected to play in Saturday's game with Michigan, team officials said.

Woodard was hospitalized Tuesday, complaining of stomach pains. The team feared he may have had appendicitis.

After treatment with antibiotics, Woodard's white blood count is back to normal, and he is expected to return to practice Thursday, assistant A&M trainer David Heath said.

Woodard had either a small bowel inflammation or a flareup of his appendix, Heath said.

The No. 5 rated Aggies will play the No. 3 Wolverines in Ann Arbor, Mich.

COFFEY CRAMPS — Big Spring Steer all-district candidate wide receiver Kenneth Coffey is seen here being attended to on the sidelines of the Hobbs game. Coffey, who was bothered early in the season with cramps, has overcome the problem and will go into Friday night's contest with Abilene healthy, as will the entire Steer squad.

Breaker! Breaker! Aggie gets prize

By The Associated Press
It was a safety blitz in September that probably will help write the final chapter in December on the Southwest Conference football championship. Junior Carl Grulich blazed into the Texas Tech backfield from his position as Texas A&M's free safety to nail quarterback Rodney Allison last Saturday. They both went down in a tangle and Allison suffered a broken bone in his left leg. "I just contained him, wrapped him around the waist while he was twisting," said Grulich. "The weight of my body landed on his foot at an angle ... it was a freak thing." Grulich added, "I'm sorry it happened but it wasn't even a hard tackle."

The 6-foot-1, 200-pounder from Richardson Pearce made 13 solo tackles, seven assists, tipped three passes and sacked the quarterback two times for minus 37 yards in A&M's 33-17 victory.

For Grulich, it earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week award.

Grulich is a converted quarterback and lasted six weeks at that position as a freshman at A&M. "I'm really happy back there now even though I'm probably the slowest guy in our defensive backfield," said Grulich, who runs a consistent 4.6 in the 40. "I love playing for Coach (Melvin) Robertson. He seems to have a knack for putting people in the right place."

Grulich is the second leading tackler on the Aggie team, although he occasionally uses technique that makes Robertson cringe.

"I've always tackled with my head down and the coaches have tried to get me to change," said Grulich. "They're afraid I will get hurt."

"It's just sort of a habit I got into. I'm not missing a lot of tackles. I've tried to tackle with my head up but it just doesn't work."

"I'm really looking forward to Saturday," said Grulich as the fifth-ranked Aggies tackle the third-ranked Michigan Wolverines.

"I like the idea of playing in front of 104,000 people... that should really turn our defense on," he added.

KILLED HIM A B'AR — On a recent hunting trip to the Alaskan peninsula, Alvin Whitaker of Big Spring bagged a moose with a 58-inch antler spread and a Grisly Bear that weighed approximately 500 pounds. After returning from the two-day hunt, Whitaker said: "Hunting isn't easy, even in Alaska. Just try to skin out a 1,000 pound moose in three feet of ice water."

Teaff still wary of Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The loss of University of Houston quarterback Danny Davis hasn't made Baylor Coach Grant Teaff any less wary of the Cougars as they prepare for a Southwest Conference showdown in the Astrodome Saturday night.

"The last time we face Houston with an unknown quarterback it was Danny Davis and he pinned our ears back," Teaff said of last year's 23-5 loss to Houston in the Cougars first game as a SWC member.

The unknown this year for the Bears is Delrick Brown, who replaced Davis, now sidelined with a shoulder separation. Brown, a sophomore from Lufkin, led the Cougars to a 34-16 victory over Utah last week and his performance was pleasing to Houston Coach Bill Yeoman.

"I don't think anybody in our organization thought our running game would suffer with Delrick in the game," Yeoman said. "If anything, it might be improved because Delrick has more speed than Danny."

"He still needs more work on his passing however. He still doesn't work the whole field the way Danny did. But there's nothing to worry about his delivery. He threw one (Don) Bass dropped that would have been a 70-yard touchdown."

Yeoman said last year's victory over the Bears may come back to haunt them this season.

"I thought last year if there was any team we might have blindsided, it was Baylor because they didn't know what to expect," Yeoman said. "As a result, I think they will be very enthusiastic and emotional when they play us."

The Cougars went on to post a 10-2 season that included a victory over Maryland in the Cotton Bowl.

Both teams are suffering from crippling injuries this season however. Ironically, both teams have been hit hardest at the same positions, quarterback and nose guard.

Baylor lost second team All-American nose guard Gary Don Johnson and the Cougars have lost Robert Oglesby. Teaff has worked feverishly to keep one quarterback healthy.

Greg Wood and sophomore Sammy Bickham suffered injuries in the same scrimmage prior to the season opener against Texas Tech. Freshman Scott Smith helped the Bears beat Kentucky before suffering a shoulder injury. Wood returned to the lineup last week in a 31-10 loss to Nebraska.

Ali's determination good

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali admits he is not the fighter he once was, and obviously Earnie Shavers will try and cash in on that fact Thursday night when Ali defends his heavyweight title at Madison Square Garden.

But Shavers will find — as the Shavers of the boxing world have discovered 19 times already — that Ali is not disposed to yield the title yet.

Shavers will find the greatest stumbling block in his path to the title is not Ali's left jab, his quick combinations or footwork.

Tony will play, but not start

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry has told sports writers he'll let them know about running back Tony Dorsett's status.

Obviously tiring of questions about when Dorsett will take over a starting position, Landry said, "Tony will continue to play, but Preston (Pearson) is the starter."

Dorsett and Pearson each were impressive in Dallas' victory last week over the New York Giants.

Those weapons have faded with age and constant combat. What remains intact through Ali's 17-year pro career and 56 fights is his determination to retire as world heavyweight champion. Not even with boxing's hardest punch will Shavers find a counter-weapon to Ali's courage or willpower.

In Ali's last serious title defense — almost a year ago against Ken Norton in Yankee Stadium — Norton found himself with a chance to become champion: All he had to do was throw punches in the last 30 seconds of the 15th round.

He didn't; Ali did. In 30 seconds of exhaustion, Ali proved he was a champion; Norton proved he was not.

"Retiring champion — with my title — means more to me," says the 35-year-old Ali, "than having $20 million and not having the title."

Ali concedes that Shavers' only chance is his devastating punching power. In 54 victories, Shavers has knocked out 52 opponents, the highest knockout percentage of any heavyweight in history. He kayoed Jimmy Young in one round and Jimmy Ellis in three rounds in 1973, and last April he knocked out Howard Smith in two rounds.

"His best shot is to knock me out before he gets tired," says Ali, "and that's seven rounds."

"If he's as slow as he looks, as shiftless as he looks," says Ali, "I won't have to dance, just move back and forth a little bit."

Along with packing a dynamite punch, Shavers also packs a glass jaw. Three of Shavers' five losses have been by knockout — Jerry Quarry in one and Ron Lyle in six.

All three probably swung with more authority than Ali does now, but Shavers will go down from a combination of fatigue and accumulative punches. Only seven times in 60 fights has Shavers gone 10 rounds, never longer.

Ali has been knocked down only four times in his career, and he has gotten up each time. The first two knockdowns were by Sonny Banks in 1962 and Henry Cooper in 1963. Ali wound up knocking out both of those fighters.

Ali also was knocked down by Joe Frazier, also a heavy hitter, and Chuck Wepner, by a fluke punch that landed while Wepner was standing on Ali's foot.

"When you fight for the world heavyweight championship," Ali says, "the champion has the edge. Shavers is scared. I'm nervous, but from the excitement of the fight. I'm used to this. He's not. He's already lost the first round."

Ali has predicted knockouts between rounds four and seven. Shavers thinks he can take out Ali in seven.

This corner says Shavers will go eight.

Bears to start soph helmets

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor Coach Grant Teaff says sophomore Greg Wood will start at quarterback Saturday against Houston as the injury-plagued Bear signal-callers strive for consistency.

Teaff said the decision for Saturday does not mean that Wood has an inside track for the rest of the season.

Schembechler's sham: "We ain't no good. Don't worry Aggies!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Bo Schembechler already has been wrong twice this week ... and three times this season. First, Michigan's ultrasuccessful coach predicted his Wolverines would "be down somewhere around the second five" in this week's college football poll. And then he said Michigan would go into Saturday's game against Texas A&M as the underdog. Well, the Wolverines did indeed drop from the No. 1 position in The Associated Press rankings, as Schembechler requested two Saturdays ago, but they only fell as far as third place. And, amazingly, Michigan ruled as more than a touchdown favorite early in the week despite last weekend's hard-earned 14-7 victory over Navy.

Not quite, but Schembechler didn't miss by much. The Aggies are ranked No. 5 following last week's 33-17 triumph over Tech. But the ratings obviously don't mean much to Schembechler. All Texas A&M's Emory Bellard will say about Schembechler's remarks is that "I'm very appreciative of his generosity ... but most any coach likes a psychological edge." This corner gives the edge — and because Michigan is a touchdown-plus favorite it's the Upset Special of the Week — to ... Texas A&M 20-14. Last week's record was 54 right, 18 wrong and one tie for a 750 percentage and the Upset Special, Army, battled Boston College on even terms into the final period before succumbing. For the season, it's 160-51-4-758. Kansas at Oklahoma: The Jayhawks were the first college team to beat Barry Switzer. Switzer has since lost two more games, but not this one ... Oklahoma 35-7. Washington State at Southern California: The Cougars have improved and have a shot against any team as long as Jack Thompson's at the controls, but the Trojans are not just any team ... Southern Cal 31-14. Kentucky at Penn State: The Wildcats won last year's meeting 22-6, but the Nittany Lions have a 9-2 mark since then. Would you believe Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl against ... Penn State 24-10. Ohio State at Southern Methodist: Woody Hayes is mad since losing that one-point thriller to Oklahoma and SMU is available for stomping ... Ohio State 42-6. Colorado at Army: "We have a chance to beat them," says Army's Homer Smith. "We now have the people and weapons to win a game like this." But the last time Army played a Big Eight Conference team, Nebraska destroyed the Cadets 77-7. Smith wasn't around, though, in 1972. ... Colorado 35-20. Rice at Texas: Rice has been outscored 125-3 in its last two games. Texas has outscored its last two opponents 112-0. This was considered as the Upset Special for at least one whole millisecond ... Texas 49-7. Florida at Louisiana State: Why would the nation's No. 9-ranked team — that's Florida — be a one-point underdog to LSU? Probably because Florida is coming off a tough game against Mississippi State and might be looking to next week's meeting against Pitt. So ... LSU 21-20. Georgia at Alabama: The Crimson Tide shouldn't have trouble keeping their minds off next week's game at Southern Cal. All they have to do is remember last year's 21-0 humiliation. ... Alabama 28-7. Indiana at Nebraska: Two years ago, a nationally known forecaster — no, not us — picked Indiana to beat Nebraska at Lincoln. When Nebraska won 45-0, the Cornhuskers voted that brave forecaster the game ball. We're still not that brave ... Nebraska 34-9. Texas Tech at North Carolina: Rodney Allison, Tech's big-play quarterback, is out. This looks like the second Upset Special ... North Carolina 24-17. Michigan State at Notre Dame: The Irish have had some problems on the road but this one's under South Bend's friendly Golden Dome ... Notre Dame, er, Notre Dame 27-13. Answer: To be watched rather than felt — THE CURVES

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, SEPT. 29, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you would be wise to engage only in activities in which you are interested. Also, a good time to analyze your assets and liabilities so you understand your true financial position.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Consult a business on ways to become more affluent. Plan improvements to property you have so it becomes more valuable.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take time to improve your appearance and make a better impression on others. Take treatments to improve your health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You could become confused if you don't handle small personal duties early in the day. Don't neglect to pay an important bill.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Consider how best to gain your personal goals and then do so in a positive way. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make sure you handle public matters well. Find new appliances that will help you get ahead faster in your line of endeavor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A new contact has important information you need, so be sure to get it in a most tactful way. Show others you have wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many tasks that need doing and this is just the right for such. Show more affection for your mate and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your associates could be as opinionated as you, so come to a better understanding by being more pliable. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan time to handle all that work that has been accumulating. Ask fellow workers for helpful suggestions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make early arrangements for social activities you want later in the day. Express your finest talents.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy and handle all those small tasks at home that will make everything run more smoothly there. Don't waste precious time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can now put your own affairs in proper focus and accomplish what has been impossible in the past. Avoid one who is irate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do well in financial and property matters, so give the proper education for big success in such. Teach to come to quicker decisions, since there is a tendency to analyze too much. Don't neglect good spiritual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Deposit term insurance policies

There's built-in catch

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - "Deposit term policies" offer buyers a profit on their life insurance, but many life agents say there's a built-in catch.

The State Insurance Board will hold a hearing next Monday on a complaint filed by the Dallas Association of Life Underwriters that could result in the policies being outlawed.

Perhaps as many as 50 companies are selling deposit term policies in Texas now.

Ted Becker, staff actuary for the board's Business Practices Group, describes a deposit term policy this way: "It's a 10-year policy, with a first-year premium that is more than double what the policyholder will pay in each of the remaining years."

A $40,000 policy sold by one company would cost $175 a year if bought by a 40-year-old man. But the first year's premium would be $415. The $240 difference is referred to as a "deposit."

The pay-off comes at the end of the 10-year policy term, when the policyholder gets back double the difference - $480 in this case. If the policyholder died while the policy is in effect, the benefits paid his survivors would increase by the same amount, $480.

A commonly found feature of the policy is guaranteed renewability regardless of the state of one's health.

The catch is that if one allows the policy to lapse before 10 years are up or fails to pay the premiums, the so-called deposit is not refunded.

"I don't like to call it a deposit that earns interest because if he lapses the policy, the policyholder has no equity. It is not interest-bearing, because it is so critical that the policyholder persist and continue to pay the premiums," Becker said.

The Texas Association of Life Underwriters is protesting the policies along with the Dallas group, saying it has received "complaints throughout the state" about them.

It said in a statement Monday that 25 states have outlawed deposit term policies or put them under regulation.

"While we have numerous objections to the product, the principal objection that we have to deposit term is that the prospective buyer is required to put up a deposit that is forfeited if the policy is discontinued," said James Rutledge, president of the Dallas association.

"We have found no valid reason to put up a forfeitable deposit to buy insurance for the protection of one's family," he said in a statement.

12-year-old Denton girl kidnap victim?

DENTON, Tex. (AP) - Several days before her apparent kidnaping Sunday, a 12-year-old Denton girl had written a school essay detailing the gunpoint abduction of a girl she called Shelly.

Suzie Mages was last seen talking with a long-haired man at a fast food restaurant in this North Texas city and police say they have had no luck in trying to find her.

The junior high school pupil's mother said her daughter's essay was surprising.

"At first it kind of floored me," said Mary Mages. "But as far as I'm concerned, it was just that the assignment dictated coming up with something squirrely and she did."

Mrs. Mages and her husband own a Denton health food restaurant. North Texas State University students who frequent the spot have volunteered their help and have churned out posters seeking information in the case.

"We haven't got a thing," said Denton police Capt. Hugh Lynch. "We can put her at that Burger King. We've got witnesses that get her to that point. But then we lose her. We're going back and starting all over."

Mrs. Mages left her daughter in charge of a family washing chores at a laundry room 25 yards from the Burger King shortly before 2 p.m.

"I just want her back," Mrs. Mages said. "I don't care anything about the guy and I won't press charges against him. I'll pay him money, anything. I just want Suzie back."

Stranded circus

SAPULPA, Okla. (AP) - The Hanneford Family Circus came to Sapulpa two weeks ago and put on a two-show performance. It's still here.

Officials of the show say they are stranded three miles east of Sapulpa because they have not been paid according to an agreement.

Parked on property of Dr. Bill Swafford, a veterinarian, are the troupe of four elephants, eight ponies, a dozen dogs and a chimpanzee, plus the human cast.

The Creek County sheriff's office says there apparently are no complaints and the scene is quiet.

Swafford also is pleased enough with his unexpected guests.

"It was a magnificent little show - real good family entertainment," he said. "And the people are above what you generally consider traveling show people to be. They're nice and clean-living."

"They have a beautiful big red, white and blue tent."

The circus owners say they have not been paid for performances in Joplin, Mo., and Vinita, Okla. They have told residents here they cannot continue to put on shows without fuel, feed for their animals and other expenses.

The group is scheduled to perform at Enid and Oklahoma City early next month.

Merit Sparks Low Tar Boom!

'Enriched Flavor' tobacco seen as major factor in unprecedented smoker move to low tar.

Since its introduction, MERIT has become one of the most popular new cigarettes in twenty years.

A popularity largely responsible for a significant growth in low tar smoking.

The reason: 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco that delivers extra flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The kind of flavor smokers can switch to—and stick with.

Here are the taste-test results which show why smokers are switching to MERIT. If you smoke, you'll be interested.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1977
Kings: 8 mg. "tar," 0.5 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Dec. 76
100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Tests Prove Taste

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. The results proved conclusively that 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco does boost taste without the usual increase in tar.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar! Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.
