Freéd hostage blasts Japanese capitulation

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — An American missionary among the hostages freed from the hijacked Japanese airliner condemned the Japanese government's capitulation to the demands of the five terrorists.

Jenabe Caldwell, 51, of Anchorage, Alaska, said the 4½-day ordeal aboard the plane was "pretty horrendous, terribly, terribly brutal, but I wouldn't have let those guys go."

"The minute we give in to criminals we're finished, and that's just what we're doing," said Caldwell in a telephone interview from the Holy Family Hospital.

"While I was on the plane, I thought, 'This is war, and even if we're casualties, we shouldn't give into it.' 'Somewhere we've got to have enough guts to stand up for what we believe in.'"

Caldwell, a missionary for the Bahai sect, said the five hijackers were "mostly boys," but "anyone who thinks these Commies were playing games, they should have been on that plane."

"These guys called it war and I agree," he continued. But "they didn't want to die; they wouldn't have blown up the plane with themselves on it. They were too cocky for that."

Caldwell said the ordeal aboard the plane was "pretty horrendous.... You were living in your own hell, the lack of air, the stench, the complete unjustified brutality."

"I thought I had lived under pretty tough conditions, but this was the toughest living I've ever had. And for others it was much worse."

"I saw a Saudi man pistolwhipped twice. Other passengers were clubbed on the head. It was unjustified. We were all cooperating. There was no rhyme or reason to it."

Caldwell said he was hospitalized for acute constipation and a painful back ailment. He said he was leaving the hospital today and planned to fly to Bangkok.

Bahism is a modern religion developed in Iran that stresses principles of universal brotherhood and social equality.

Hijack ends in Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Five hijackers who took a Japanese jetliner on a six-day journey of terror over two continents released their last 19 hostages and surrendered to Algerian authorities today, airline officials said.

"They came out with their hands up," said a Japan Air Lines spokeswoman in New York. "As far as we know the hostages are okay, but we don't know for sure."

The conditions for the surrender were not immediately known. It was believed the ultra-leftist terrorists had hoped to obtain political asylum from Algeria's leftist government.

The Japanese Foreign Ministry said all the terrorists — including six "comrades" freed from Japanese jails to meet the hijackers' demands — had left the Japan Air Lines DC8 at 4 p.m. local time (noon EDT), less than two hours after it landed here.

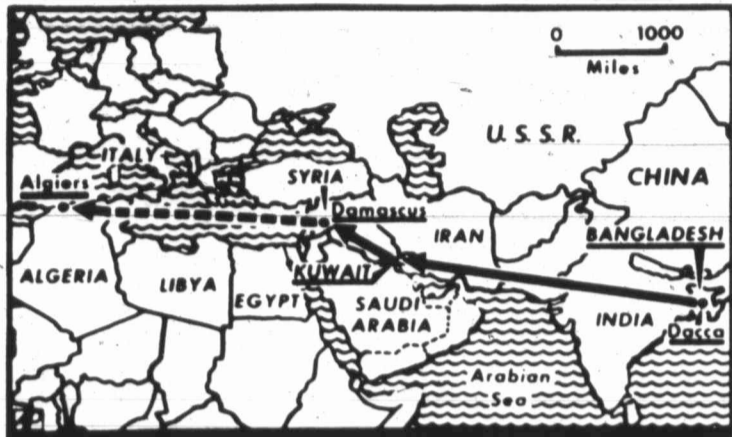

There was no immediate word on where they were taken.

The plane, which also carried a $6 million ransom paid to the hijackers, landed in Algiers after an overnight, two-stop flight from Bangladesh, where the terrorists held it for five days after hijacking it over India.

An official communique said landing permission was given here "at the express demand of the Japanese government and for humanitarian reasons."

One American was among the final group of hostages aboard the plane.

The hijackers, believed looking for asylum in a sympathetic country, had commandeered the DC8 over India last Wednesday, forced it to land in at Dacca in neighboring Bangladesh, where they released most of their hostages. After a 4½-day siege, they took off from Dacca Sunday, stopping in Kuwait and Damascus, Syria, HJACK ODYSSEY — Broken line indicates the route taken to Algiers, Algeria, Monday by a Japanese jetliner under the command of five hijackers and carrying $6 million ransom, 19 hostages and six other terrorists after an overnight, two-stop journey from Dacca, Bangladesh. The plane had stopped in Kuwait, and Damascus, Syria.

refueling and freeing more hostages on the way.

There was speculation that if Algeria refused to give the terrorists refuge, they would turn to Libya or South Yemen, two Arab countries with radical governments which have accepted hijackers and other terrorists in the past. The hijackers are members of the ultra-leftist Japanese Red Army, which works closely with the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The take off from the Syrian capital had been delayed while Japanese and Syrian officials tried to get more hostages released, but the hijackers refused and ordered the pilot to take off.

There had been 156 persons aboard when the terrorists seized control of the Paris-to-Tokyo plane early Wednesday after it took off from Bombay. The hijackers freed 115 of their hostages in Dacca, seven more in Kuwait and 10 in Damascus. This left 12 captive passengers and the crew of seven aboard along with the five hijackers and six terrorists freed from Japanese prisons in response to the hijackers' demands. The Japanese government also paid a ransom of $6 million.

Twelve Americans were aboard the plane when it was hijacked, the airline said. Nine were freed in Dacca and two in Damascus, leaving one still aboard today. The airline identified him as Thomas Phelan, 29, of San Francisco, a State Department employee.

Two other Californians, William D. McLean, 46, of Alamo, and Eric Weiss, 30, of San Francisco, were freed along with eight Japanese passengers in Damascus. McLean is executive vice president of a tugboat and barge company.

The airline sent a plane from Tokyo to Dacca today to fly the freed hostages to Bangkok en route to Tokyo.

The hijackers were believed to have boarded the plane in Bombay and were armed with automatic weapons, grenades and plastic explosives.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The Richland County Sheriff's Department has found it had an unannounced guest lounging around in bedclothes for three months in the evidence room.

The three-foot-long rat snake turned up when its owner appeared at the office to claim bedclothes that had been seized as evidence in a case on May 15.

Officer Steve Felsburg said the bedclothes had been wrapped in a pillowcase inside a plastic bag and that the owner pulled out the snake, explaining rat snakes don't eat often and go into a type of hibernation when there's no food.

The owner reported the snake always slept in the bed, Felsburg said.

Indira Gandhi arrested, charged

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India for 11 years until her election defeat last March, was arrested today on charges of misusing her position.

Eyewitnesses said a large squad of agents from India's central bureau of investigation took Mrs. Gandhi, 59, into custody at her New Delhi home.

Mrs. Gandhi was charged with acquiring 104 vehicles through misuse of her official position, India's national news agency reported.

A large crowd assembled outside Mrs. Gandhi's home as soon as supporters learned of the raid and while she was still inside. They chanted "Long live Indira Gandhi."

Shortly after the plain-clothesmen arrived, supporters of Mrs. Gandhi issued a statement in her name charging that the "arrest is a political one. It is to prevent me from going to the people. It is an attempt to discredit me in their eyes and the eyes of the world."

Sources close to her household said Mrs. Gandhi demanded that the bureau agents take her away in handcuffs but they explained this was not customary in such cases.

In her statement Mrs. Gandhi said even though she lost her individual liberty for a time her supporters must be prepared to fight "the very real threat to the country's self-reliance."

The arrest came as Mrs. Gandhi appeared to be making what political sources said was the first tentative move toward a comeback after here election defeat in parliamentary voting last March.

In recent weeks, Mrs. Gandhi has paid a well-publicized visit to one of India's aged spiritual leaders, stepped up her travels to rural areas and made a few statements critical of the new Janata party government.

But while she was on the move, investigators were following the time-tested sleuthing technique of "follow the money" to unravel what they claimed was an intricate pattern of alleged embezzlement, fraud, extortion and abuse of authority by the inner circle of the former Gandhi government.

In August, authorities arrested two of Mrs. Gandhi's former cabinet ministers on charges of official corruption.

The political and financial dealings of her son, Sanjay, 30, are under microscopic investigation by a special government commission.

Stenholm kicks off campaign with tour

STAMFORD — Charles Stenholm, a local farmer, will officially begin his campaign for Congress tonight when he begins a one-day tour of the district with a rally here.

A rally in Big Spring Tuesday at 7 p.m. will wrap up the tour.

Jones County supporters had organized the Stamford rally.

Early Tuesday morning many of those same supporters, along with Stenholm and his wife, Cindy, will board two buses for a tour of 23 communities in the 17th Congressional District. At brief stops in each community, Stenholm, traveling the eastern half of the district, and Cindy in the west, will again announce his intention to run for congress.

"The purpose of the trip," Stenholm says, "is to make this a district-wide campaign from the start, meeting as many people face-to-face as possible for my announcement."

Stenholm is running for the congressional seat now held by Omar Burleson. Congressman Burleson announced his retirement in August to be effective at the end of his current term in 1978.

Cindy Stenholm, wife of Stamford farmer Charles Stenholm, will bring her husband's campaign for congress to Coahoma on Tuesday, October 4, at 4:50 p.m., as part of a district-wide bus tour announcing his intention to run for congress.

Two bus tours are scheduled on Tuesday, the morning after Stenholm's announcement. Both will originate in Stamford at 4 a.m.

A western tour will travel to Floydada for breakfast at 7 a.m. The tour will end with a rally at 7 p.m. in Big Spring. Stops along the way include Crosbyton, Ralls, Tahoka, Post, Snyder, Roby, Sweetwater, Roscoe, Colorado City and Coahoma.

First stop on the eastern route will be Wichita Falls where State Sen. Ray Farabee will join Stenholm for breakfast. The bus will then travel through Gainesville, Decatur, Weatherford, Mineral Wells, Stephenville, Eastland, Breckenridge, Albany and Abilene. Stenholm will fly from Abilene to Big Spring for the rally there.

Record-breaking heat halted by spotty rain

The mercury went to 103 Friday, on the last day of the month, to set three records: the hottest, the hottest longest, and the driest in Big Spring history.

This September was the hottest, averaging over 96 degrees each day, had longer stretches of heat, including the longest stretch of days over 100 degrees, and the driest with only the barest trace of rain for the entire 30 days.

But the whole desert outlook washed away Saturday in a cold front which brought 70-degree highs and almost two inches of rain Saturday night.

That Big Spring was caught in a limited rain is made obvious by area rain reports. In Mitchell County, Colorado City got just a trace, but the south part of the county reported to be two inches. Ackerly said that "we were just under the cloud, but we didn't get much rain."

Knott and Lake Thomas got none, as did Lamesa and Luther. Sand Springs, Garden City and Colorado City each reported a trace.

But west Big Spring got 1.50 inches, Forsan reported 2.00 inches, Lomax .30 and Stanton 1.50.

No one else in Big Spring is quite so low, but the Experiment Station reported only .12 inches of the wet stuff.

SHOPPERS GOT A BREAK — Supermarket shoppers got a break last month, with prices edging down almost one per cent, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows. Continuing declines in the cost of coffee and pork chops, along with scattered savings on a variety of other items, helped offset increases, mainly in the price of orange juice.

Orange juice prices up

By the Associated Press
Consumers hunting for grocery bargains found scattered price decreases last month, but the declines failed to offset earlier boosts — particularly for coffee, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1977, and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the highlights of the latest survey: —The marketbasket total at the checklist store declined during September in 10 cities and was up in three. The average drop was 1.9 per cent and the average increase was 2.9 per cent. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores was eight-tenths of a per cent lower at the start of October than it was at the start of the preceding month.

—The marketbasket total has increased steadily since the start of the year, up an average of 8.2 per cent in nine months at checklist stores. Coffee is to blame for much of the increase. When coffee was removed from the totals, the AP survey showed a 1.5 per cent increase in the marketbasket bill in the first three quarters of 1977.

—Savings varied from city to city. The items most frequently decreasing in price last month were pork chops, down at the checklist store in seven cities; coffee, down in six cities; eggs, also down in six cities; and frankfurters, dropped in five cities.

—On the gloomy side, orange juice prices continued to rise. The price of frozen orange juice concentrate increased at the checklist store in eight cities. The higher prices are due to last January's freeze in Florida, which struck hard at oranges grown for juice, sharply reducing their yield.

Government experts have predicted a 6 per cent food rise this year, followed by a 3 to 6 per cent increase next year. They say the increases can be blamed on rising costs for things like advertising, labor and packaging rather than on higher prices paid to farmers.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Border crime fighters confer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — More than 200 top law enforcement officers from Mexico and the United States begin discussions today on ways of preventing crime along the southwestern border and the problem of Mexicans who cross illegally into the United States.

Other issues are the problems that might arise out of a new prison exchange treaty between the United States and Mexico, the smuggling of dangerous drugs and other contraband, petty crime in border communities, and major thefts on both sides of the 1,934-mile border.

This is the second of a series of border conferences suggested during Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo's visit with President Carter earlier this year.

Mexican officials attended the first conference in San Diego, Calif., in April only as observers. But in the three-day conference here, which ends Wednesday and is co-sponsored by state attorney general John Hill of Texas, Evelle J. Younger of California, Toney Anaya of New Mexico and Bruce Babbitt of Arizona, the Mexicans are taking full part in the discussions.

Top officials include U.S. Deputy Atty. Gen. Pete Flaherty and his Mexican counterpart Samuel Alba Leyva; drug enforcement officials Peter Besinger of the United States and Armando Lopez Santibanez of Mexico and U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Commissioner Lionel J. Castillo.

With Mexico going through its worst economic crisis since World War II, the number of Mexicans entering the United States illegally has doubled to an average of 73,000 a month in the past two years. The 2.5 million to 5 million Mexicans living and working illegally in the United States, by various official estimates, send home $3 billion to $10 billion a year.

Most work at menial jobs that Americans shun and at much less than the $2.30 minimum hourly wage.

Controversial legislation presented by President Carter to Congress proposes granting residence to illegals who enter the country before Jan. 1, 1979, giving non-deportable status to those who arrived prior to Jan. 1, 1977, and fining employers who knowingly hire them.

Some American law enforcement officers privately express the opinion that the Carter amnesty proposals may create a bureaucratic nightmare.

Another topic high on the conference discussion list is drug smuggling. Despite an all-out effort by the Mexican government, the southwestern border is still the No. 1 smuggling point into the United States, principally from marijuana and heroin, a highly addictive drug made from poppies grown illegally in Mexico.

Weather

Autumn finally arrives in Texas

By the Associated Press
Autumn weather has finally arrived in Texas and early morning temperatures were about 50 degrees lower than the readings recorded during last week's early autumn heat wave.

Wichita Falls, where the mercury topped the 100-mark late last week, had a 50-degree reading at 5 a.m. under clear skies. Lubbock also reported 50 while the Dallas-Fort Worth area had 53, San Angelo had 64 and Waco reported 61.

Sunsets today at 7:29 p.m. Sun rises Tuesday at 7:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 98 in 1975. Lowest temperature 38 in 1975. Most precipitation 1.58 inches in 1945.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are anticipated today over portions of the southern Rockies, the Great Plains and portions of the Texas and New Mexico coast. Warm temperatures are expected for much of the West Coast with seasonably cool weather elsewhere.

Common Cause vs. lobbyists

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around Congress, everybody talks about lobbyists, but nobody has yet decided what to do about them. So far, there isn't even a clear rule to determine who they are.

Making that determination is not as simple as it sounds.

There's little doubt in the case of a Washington lawyer or a former member of Congress, who earns his pay by trying to influence legislation in behalf of his clients.

But it's more difficult to draw a line in the case of a citizen or a group working on a shoestring budget to influence Congress in behalf of a cause. And that happens every day, on issues that range from abortion to taxes to a dozen other topics.

This is a big season for lobbying, and for angry complaints about the business of influencing Congress.

"It is time for the public interest to prevail over the special interest lobbyists," said President Carter, trying to defend his battered energy program against crippling Senate amendments.

He said the lobbying by oil and gas interests for an end to federal regulation of natural gas prices shows "the special interests are trying to block enactment of the entire energy program."

Then there is the gathering battle over the treaty to yield U.S. control of the Panama Canal at the end of this century.

Before that one is settled, conservative opposition lobbies may spend more than $750,000 trying to block ratification. They are relying heavily on campaign techniques, using mass mailings, advertising and speechmaking to try to persuade constituents to press their senators for votes against the treaty.

Carter is certainly not defenseless against such lobbying, at the Capitol or in Congress. He has a dozen spokesmen for special causes. His telephone calls go through immediately, while the lobbyist often cools his heels in an outer Senate office.

Furthermore, the White House has its own lobbyists, five deployed on Capitol Hill out of a congressional liaison staff that totals 20. The Cabinet departments have personnel to work for their legislation.

Still, it can be a difficult matchup for any administration, particularly when a corps of skilled and well-financed advocates goes to work on an issue like natural gas prices.

Congress has been trying, so far without success, to shape legislation that would regulate lobbyists, primarily by requiring full public disclosure of their activities. Such a bill almost passed the last session, but ad-journalment came before agreement.

However, campaign finance limits and disclosure laws have eliminated, or at least controlled, what had been a major route to influence in Congress by the well-heeled lobbyist or interest. They can't donate enough money to warrant special treatment.

The law that is on the books now is composed largely of a loophole. Enacted in 1946, it requires the registration of individuals and groups seeking to influence legislation. But it applies only to persons employed for the "principal purpose" of lobbying, and it says no more than that about what a lobbyist is.

Furthermore, the Supreme Court has held that the law covers only lobbying that involves direct contact with members of Congress.

That is not usually the most effective way to influence Congress. Pressure from home, where the votes are, can be a lot more effective.

While the current law requires lobbyists to register with Congress and report their expenditures, it doesn't ask how they spend the money, who they lobbied, or why.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., said last year that while 10,000 people may be paid to lobby, fewer than 2,000 of them are registered.

Common Cause, which is lobbying for a new lobby disclosure law, says "millions of dollars spent to influence legislation go unreported."

But there is another side to the issue, and it is spelled out in a study by Hope Eastman, a Washington lawyer who used to work for the American Civil Liberties Union. She warns against sweeping legislation that could, in the name of lobby reform, infringe on citizen rights, petition the government for redress of grievances.

"The Congress appears to have been unduly influenced by the lobbyists' ugly image," she writes in an assessment published by the American Enterprise Institute.

After a dozen tries, Congress may settle next year on a lobby reform law. The administration favors a bill requiring registration and detailed disclosure of lobbying by organizations that spend more than $1,250 a quarter at it, or invest $5,000 in efforts to generate constituent pressure on Congress. There would be less exacting disclosure rules for smaller, less expensive lobbying efforts.

Police beat Auto burglars busy

Sam J. Jones, Box 142 Vincent Rd., was busy watching "The Outlaw Josey Wales" at the Ritz Theater Sunday night when somebody stole two guns from his pickup parked outside.

According to reports, the theft occurred between 9:30 and 11:45 p.m. The burglars went through the right window to get at the guns which were of an unknown value.

Someone, with what must have been an unusual hunger, climbed through a window on the west side of a residence belonging to Doris Mearns, 1510 Sycamore in order to get to a frozen steak and some french fries in her kitchen.

The burglary occurred between 7:30 and 9:10 p.m. Sunday. Value of the food taken is estimated at $2.

Somebody broke into the home of Floyd Stephens, 1106 Lloyd, between Saturday at 6:20 p.m. and Sunday at 9:40 p.m. and took a television set worth about $25.

While they were going about their business the burglars knocked over a refrigerator and caused approximately $100 damage.

Joe Hernandez, 601 NE 9th, was away when criminal mischief makers broke the windshield of his pickup and car with rocks.

According to reports, the vandalism occurred between Friday afternoon and Sunday at 10 p.m. Damage is estimated at $300.

Somebody took the battery and broke the headlights on a car belonging to the Dan Moore Co., 1107 N. Nolan. The mischief and theft occurred sometime two weeks prior to Saturday.

Bobby H. Gee, 215 Kentwood, reported the theft of four hub caps from his car while it was parked in the No. 215 stall of his apartment complex, between 8:30 a.m. Saturday and 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

The hubcaps were classics, and are worth about $40 apiece.

Somebody took a purse belonging to Christina Watson, Rt. 1, Box 467, from a pickup parked on Webb Lane, between 4 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The purse contained a number of credit cards and identification and about $60 cash.

Another purse snatcher took a handbag belonging to Debbie Burks, 1502 State Park Dr., from a car which was parked at the Pizza Inn, 1702 Gregg, at about 1:45 p.m. Saturday.

The purse was worth about $8 and contained approximately $15 cash.

At 8:47 p.m. Saturday, a car driven by John Garcia, 815 W. 7th, careened into a telephone pole on the 900 block of Lancaster.

Burglaries down in Lamesa

LAMESA — Only four residential burglaries and no business burglaries were reported in the city of Lamesa during the month of September. There was one murder charge.

The city reported one auto theft during the month as crime continued to be down in that city.

Judge orders Ma Bell to pay $3 million

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — State District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry officially ordered Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. today to pay $3 million in damages for slandering two former company executives.

Curry entered the judgement after denying a motion by Bell that he set aside the jury's recommendations in a five-week trial that ended Sept. 12.

Lawyers for the telephone company said they would, within 10 days, file a motion for a new trial, the next step in what is expected to be a lengthy appeal process.

The jury recommended Bell pay the damages for slandering fired Bell executive James Ashley and the late T. O. Gravitt who was the top telephone company official in Texas when he committed suicide Oct. 17, 1974.

The jury recommended that Ashley receive $1.5 million in damages and that Gravitt's widow receive $1.5 million.

The jury also found that slander, which resulted from an internal company investigation, was a proximate cause of insanity that caused Gravitt to kill himself.

Chamber gets many suggestions

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce recently ask its membership for suggestions, and they came pouring in.

Most of the 200 questionnaires returned to the chamber office contained some kind of idea, praise or criticism.

The chamber's board went over these ideas a week ago at its annual retreat to plan a program of action for the coming year.

As many of the suggestions as possible were incorporated into next year's chamber plan. Other comments were only humorous or non-constructive.

A sampling of some of the input follows:

—Continue to stress more need for participation from all sections of the community in the decision making.

—We must not allow ourselves to become divided by responding emotionally to issues of a controversial nature. We must all be more objective as we consider issues and problems.

—Improve the Interstate 20 interchanges on the east and west of the city. For many travelers, that's their first impression of Big Spring.

—The effort to attract new jobs and new people to our community should consume the largest percentage of chamber time at this point in the community's history.

—I am concerned that the attempt to attract industry with the base closing might be too indiscriminate. We need to attract businesses and people who are a definite asset. We don't need growth just for the sake of growth.

—Support and develop farm and agricultural related business.

—Have some membership meetings other than during business hours.

—Spend some time with small businesses. Let them know they are needed and wanted.

—We need to develop an all-out campaign to encourage local citizens, business owners, city schools (including college), county, etc., to patronize local merchants. If the merchants go under, Big Spring will never prosper.

—Beautify the city by calling on citizens to plant more blue spruce and cedar trees that seem to do well here.

The two most frequent comments were those urging the chamber to attract new industry, jobs and people and those asking for increased efforts in beautification. Quite a number of comments praised the chamber's efforts this year.

But one man had a more specific request of the chamber:

—Fire my wife. I need her at home.

Labor and the Russians

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Leadership of the United Auto Workers (UAW) honored four visiting "trade unionists" from the Soviet Union not long after turning away a leading Soviet dissident, pointing up a deep ideological cleavage in the American labor movement.

On Sept. 28, four members of Soviet "trade unions" lunched with UAW brass at Solidarity House, the union's headquarters in Detroit. About two weeks earlier, UAW leaders could not find time to see Ukrainian dissident Leonid Plyushch. A respected mathematician expelled from the Soviet Union in 1976 after four years' imprisonment, Plyushch now lives in Paris and was making an American tour.

The UAW's position is directly opposite to AFL-CIO George Meany's and complicates the auto union's possible return to the AFL-CIO. The Carter administration authorized visas for Communist trade unionists over the objections of Meany, who considers Soviet labor leaders as mere government stooges. Meany has championed exiles from Communist oppression, and AFL-CIO officials helped Plyushch with his itinerary.

The four visiting Russians, labeled as ordinary workers but obviously handpicked by the KGB, began their U.S. trip in Chicago Sept. 23 singing the praises of life in the Soviet Union. "We work very hard and are very well paid," declared coalminer Andrei Gatsenko, adding that miners make more than doctors and can retire with half pay at age 50.

AFL-CIO headquarters naturally was not informed of the itinerary which had been arranged by an outfit called Trade Unions for Action and Democracy (TUAD) — formed in 1970 in close collaboration with the U.S. Communist party. The visiting Russians were met in Chicago by UAW regional officials and visited Steelworkers Local 1033 (which is in the straits of Steelworkers maverick leader Ed Sadlowski).

Sadlowski's lieutenants arranged for the Soviets to lay a wreath at a plaque commemorating the 1937 massacre in Chicago of Republic Steel Co. employees seeking to organize a union. To anti-Communists at AFL-CIO headquarters, identification of KGB puppets with bona fide trade union martyrs borders on sacrilege. From Chicago, the Russians went to Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and New York — meeting such anti-Meany unionists as the mine workers and meatcutters.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, told his union long has favored visits from Soviet trade unionists because "the only way you can relax the cold war is to establish relations between people." As for the Detroit visit of the dissident Plyushch, Mazey told us, "I wasn't able to meet him" for lack of time. However, he was distinctly unenthusiastic about Ukrainian nationalists (separating the Ukraine from Russia would be like "trying to unscramble an egg") and suggested a solution was for them to "leave the country."

UAW reunion with the AFL-CIO while Emil Mazey and George Meany still hold high positions has always generated skepticism. Their conflicting views on visitors from Russia shows why.

Rising fears by big businessmen that the departure of Bert Lance has cost them their only important entry in the Carter administration reached an embarrassing climax in the White House Sept. 23, with Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal listening.

Those fears were stated bluntly by duPont's Irving Shapiro, one of ten business leaders meeting that day with President Carter.

What do you mean, "What sign?"

We can be our bowel's worst enemy

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 40 years of age. For almost five years I have had stomach and colon problems, which are sometimes very painful. Results of X rays of the upper and lower intestinal tract have been negative. I'm told I have colitis and spastic colon. In my bowel movements I pass white and brown mucus, and sometimes my stool is pencil-size. Although I am taking a tranquilizer prescribed by my doctor, I don't feel that he has explained fully the subject of colitis. Is it caused by emotions? Is there a cure for it? Is it very common? — Mrs. M.E.

It appears to me that your nervous system may be playing tricks on you. Bowel patterns often reflect emotional tension. The problem is common among tense individuals, and your hectic society seems to be breeding a disturbing number of those. Another unfortunate source of this problem is what, for want of a better term, we call "bowel consciousness." Some folks expect to have daily bowel movements as predictable as the tides or sunsets. These people often fall into laxative or enema routines which can ultimately bring real bowel problems.

Your X rays showed no structural problem. The tranquilizer you are taking is to relax the bowel muscles. But that won't be the total answer for you. You may have to adjust your style of living. You should try to eat a normal diet. Your stool indicates a need for some bulk. You can ask about some of the bulk producers — agar, diethylsulfoacetate. A bit of prunice juice may help.

The condition is curable, but the most important part of the cure is yourself.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Panama and military

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Opponents of the proposed Panama Canal treaty have arguments that are plausible (notably: that the United States will be perceived to be retreating in metronomic beat all over the world), and some that are implausible. In the second category one finds most offensive the argument that our entire active senior military are putting their careers ahead of the interests of their country by recommending a treaty they know to be injurious to the strategic security of the country.

When on Tuesday the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Brown, testified before the Foreign Relations Committee he was asked directly whether his judgment and that of his associates — including the commander-in-chief of the United States Southern Command in the Canal Zone, General McAuliffe (no relation to Nuts) — were influenced by President Carter's advocacy of the treaty, he replied with some heat that this was not so. The honor system at West Point has had problems in recent years, but few critics of the Academy have gone so far as to suggest that the nation's senior military officers, obeying the demands of Duty, Honor, and Country, are sworn to serve the president of the United States as ventriloquist's puppets.

It is frequently cited as presumptive proof of executive intimidation that it was only a few weeks ago that President Carter recalled a general from South Korea for criticizing publicly Carter's decision to diminish our military presence there. There is an important distinction here.

No member of the military may campaign publicly against his commander-in-chief's decisions. But his expert judgment in purely military matters is always available to Congress, and there is no historical presumption that he will distort his testimony for sycophantic reasons. The special competence of the military in the matter of the Canal has to do with a single question: Is the operation of the Canal affected a) favorably; or b) unfavorably, by the proposed treaty?

General Brown brought up the point that the treaty incorporates the specific recommendations of the military made four years ago, before anybody had ever heard of Jimmy Carter. Indeed, he said that "the key point that finally" — i.e., at the insistence of the military, backed up by the negotiators — "found its expression in the Treaty of Neutrality was conceived within the Defense Department."

General McAuliffe said he had worked for two years with the Joint Chiefs to insure that "our defense requirements were taken care of" in the treaties. Admiral Holladay, chief of Naval Operations, testified through an aide that in his judgment "the continued use of the Panama Canal for military purposes in our national defense plans is best assured through the provisions of the new treaties."

It is true that retired admirals in a statement several weeks ago denounced the treaty. Asked to account for this, General Brown hazarded that their opposition had crystallized before they actually studied the proposed treaties. "While I respect their sincerity and integrity, I question how well-informed they were." Needless to say, it is an obligation of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to hear out these retired military men and to come to a conclusion respecting their differences with the incumbent senior military.

A few bloopers

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

Know what a blooper is? Sure you do. Seen enough in the paper right? Wanna see some more? If you do, then read the rest of this, or turn over to the sports pages. Either way, you'll get your fill.

ON THE Johnny Carson Tonight show years ago, George Burns told Rosemary Clooney that after 38 years, singing is all he can do. He then asked Rosemary . . . "How come you and Jose Ferrer have five children?" to which she replied, "Jose doesn't sing!" "Oh, he does it the hard way," Burns snapped back.

DISC JOCKEY: "We now hear a recorded selection by Frank Perkins and his orchestra on Decca. . . . Frank Perkins is not to be confused with Madam Secretary Frances Perkins who was fourteen years in labor!"

RADIO NEWSMEN (this is not Baum or McMillan) some times cannot control themselves: "In the wonder world of science, the Hayden Planetarium has heard from a Minnesota man who claims that the shape of the aurora borealis can be changed by flapping a bed sheet at it from the ground. The planetarium doubts this, but the man says he did successfully flap sheets in his backyard one midnight, although his wife kept hollering at him to cut out the foolishness and get back in the house!" (At this point the newscaster breaks up with laughter and can't continue.)

FAYE EMERSON, on the Arthur Godfrey TV program (ages ago) bloopered the following: "Walter Slezak, whenever I think of you, I think of your Fanny. . . . Of course I mean your starring role in "Fanny."

QUOTE FROM radio broadcast:

Opium importation

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Secret House documents accuse the Central Intelligence Agency of helping an Asian opium ring smuggle drugs into the United States and then lying to Congress about it.

An intelligence report, quoted in the sensitive House documents, charges unequivocally: "The CIA was, in fact, facilitating the movement of opiates to the U.S. They steadfastly hid behind the shield of secrecy."

The strange drug case had its beginning in 1973 at New York's Kennedy Airport. Drug-sniffing dogs led authorities to 25 film canisters loaded with millions of dollars worth of opium.

The guilty finger was pointed at a dapper Asian named Puttapor Khamkhuan who, it turned out, was not only a major narcotics smuggler but a valuable CIA agent in Thailand as well.

The Justice Department proceeded to lock him up, but the CIA protested that "national security" was at stake and refused to turn its documents over to the prosecutors. The CIA brought enough pressure that the case was quietly dropped, and Khamkhuan slipped back into Thailand.

But in 1975, a House Government Operations subcommittee learned about the case and demanded hundreds of pages of CIA documents. Then-CIA chief William Colby insisted to the subcommittee that the agency had "fully cooperated" with the prosecutors. And the CIA's association general counsel, John Greeney, even testified under oath that "we did not recommend that he not be prosecuted."

These statements are flatly contradicted, however, by the CIA's own documents. The "censored CIA material that was turned over to the subcommittee shows clearly that Greeney and the agency tried to kill the case.

The plan to save Khamkhuan, according to the documents, was supposed to go like this: "John Greeney will attempt to plea bargain (to) have him plead guilty to some

"Everybody was watching the incompetent . . . I mean incumbent . . . with a great deal of interest at today's session of the state legislature. Throughout most of the session, he rested his head on his chin . . . rather his chin on his hand . . . and he has his constituents wondering where he will stand when he takes his seat. . . . That sounds like a nice trick if you can do it!"

"THE AUDITORIUM was jam-packed with thousands of his constituents who had traveled hundreds of miles to hear the candidate who was seeking re-election. However, public address equipment difficulties were the source of disappointment for the throng, who left without hearing the speaker. . . . It was later learned that the speaker had a screw loose somewhere!"

"EXCUSE ME, Senator . . . I am sure that our listening audience would like to hear more about the fine work that your important Congressional committee is doing . . . but unfortunately, Margaret Truman is about to sing."

DISC JOCKEY: "Our Happy Days musical show continues with a medley; we will now hear, 'I'm Walking Behind You', 'Finger of Suspicion', and 'The Call of the Wild Goose!'"

OPEN MIKES can be treacherous. Here is a case where listener phoned a disc jockey several times inquiring if the banks were open on Veterans Day . . . In disgust, and believing his mike was not open, the disc jockey came out with . . . "If he is so concerned with the banks being open, why doesn't the son of a bitch call the banks himself!"

Topless Now Decent Exposure In Texas

DEAR ABBY: Sorry, but you blew it when you said that even though there was no law against females going topless in Texas, they could be arrested for indecent exposure and/or disorderly conduct.

Not so. According to the Texas Penal Code, effective January 1, 1974, a female who goes bare-breasted in public is not guilty of indecent exposure or disorderly conduct. (I am enclosing a copy of the Penal Code.)

PARK RANGERS, AUSTIN, TEX.

DEAR PARK: Thank you. I hereby revise my answer to read: Females who go topless in Texas cannot be arrested for indecent exposure and/or disorderly conduct unless they are also BOTTOMLESS!

DEAR ABBY: How can I help the man I love overcome his reluctance to marry? We are both in our late 30s and have been married before.

My marriage ended in divorce after 15 years. It was a bad scene from the start. He says his marriage was a 12-year honeymoon. Then his wife died after a lingering illness. He says he will never marry again because he couldn't bear the experience of losing another wife. His mother, with whom he lives, is raising his two children, so he doesn't need a wife to make a home for his children. He claims that he loves me, but that he can't consider marriage. We are so right for each other and I want to marry again. How can I get him to change his mind?

IOWAN

DEAR IOWAN: I don't think you can. For a man to deny himself happiness today because he may lose it tomorrow doesn't make much sense. Don't count on him if you have marriage in mind. He hasn't.

TEN - HUT — Fifty-four kindergarten pupils line up outside the school in preparation of their march down Main. The class is also planning a circus in November.

Sack army practiced 3 times before parade

Don't be alarmed if you happened to see a battalion of small soldiers in red, white and blue uniforms marching down Main Street Friday morning.

The Jack & Jill Pre-Kindergarten, Kindergarten and First Grade staged a parade as a project of the new J.B. Lippincott kindergarten curriculum.

Mrs. Donna Massey, head kindergarten teacher, and Miss Susan Wood, her assistant, helped the children make their "uniforms" of patriotic caps, vests, and coffee cans which they used as drums.

Cathy McNally, feet raised high, was the drum major of the parade. The children, said Mrs. Arach Phillips, principal of the school, practiced three times by marching around the school grounds before taking it to the streets. Mrs. Beatrice Billalaba, physical education teacher, helped with practice.

The 54 kindergarten pupils will have another parade as soon as they move to their new school, which will be located on 18th and Nolan. Mrs. Phillips said that would probably be around Thanksgiving.

And if you thought your eyes were deceiving you when you saw the parade, wait til the kids get started on their circus.

A new service that allows you to dial all Long Distance calls yourself.

If your telephone number begins with 26X you now can dial all Long Distance calls from Big Spring yourself. Of course, you're accustomed to dialing your own station-to-station calls the fast and convenient One-Plus way. But now, you also can dial your own collect, person-to-person, credit card and bill-to-third-number Long Distance calls with Zero-Plus dialing. Zero-Plus can be used at home or office or from coin telephones. Zero-Plus is fast, easy and convenient.

Zero-Plus Dialing . . . How it works:

Just dial "0" (zero), plus the Area Code if it's different from 915, plus the distant number. For example, suppose you want to call person-to-person to 621-8997 in St. Louis. You will find St. Louis in the Call Guide section of your directory with Area Code 314. So when you hear the dial tone, dial:

"0" (zero) + 314 + 621-8997

When the operator asks, "How may I help you?", explain the type call you've dialed and give the necessary information. (Regular operator-handled rates will apply for all Zero-Plus calls.) To make a call within the 915 area, just dial "0" (zero) plus the distant number. You don't need to dial the Area Code.

Farm To reopen Pandora's box?

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress near the end of the current session, attempts are being made quietly to have the Senate reverse its decision early in the year to do away with a separate committee on nutrition.

The decision was made as part of an internal reorganization plan that was worked out with little tension and bitterness among senators whose provinces were being juggled. Few have indicated a desire to reopen that Pandora's box.

If the decision is not reversed, the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs will be out of business New Year's Eve, its research functions transferred to a subcommittee of the agriculture committee.

The panel, with a budget of about $430,000, has no legislative functions as such. It can only conduct the hearings and research that form the basis for measures worked on by the committees from which its membership is drawn: agriculture and human resources.

About 10 days ago, as debate on energy legislation began to eclipse other Senate work, three Republicans and three Democrats introduced a resolution that would continue the committee for two years with a smaller budget and staff.

The resolution was referred to the rules committee, scene of the earlier reorganization fight where a two-year extension was defeated and the extension to Dec. 31 agreed upon as an alternative to killing it right away.

This time, Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., the chairman, and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., the ranking minority member, are publicly standing aside, although their turf and the jobs of staff members they and Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., have hired are at stake.

Democrats Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina and Dick Clark of Iowa are carrying the battle instead, backed by Republicans Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma.

Some of them voted against the committee before. But, in a letter to all other senators, they say that their resolution "is meant to convey our current strong feeling that the work of the committee has been of extraordinary usefulness during the last several months and should continue."

Early harvest may help, hurt boll weevils

This year's early harvest presents problems for the boll weevil, but at the same time it could help. This apparent contradiction is not so according to James T. Lee, County Extension Entomologist.

With the early harvest we are experiencing, the food for the diapausing weevil is being removed at a fast rate. This removal could force the weevil into hibernation before it has built up adequate fat reserves for the winter.

As a result, the weevil population could experience heavy winter kill. But with almost a month to go till normal frost date, the stripped cotton stalks could produce a lot of re-growth and fruit for the weevil to feed on.

With weevils being found in just about all fields in the area, the re-growth is just what the weevil is looking for. Cotton producers this year could send the weevil into winter cover fat or hungry.

If producers would destroy the cotton soon after harvest, they could put the weevil under a lot of stress without spending any money for insecticides.

Japanese investment in U.S. farmland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan, recently criticized by the United States at world economic meetings for not helping others' economies by dropping trade barriers, has invested $99 million in North American farmland, forests and food manufacturing concerns, the Agriculture Department said today.

The Foreign Agriculture magazine article said, however, that the exact Japanese investment in U.S. agriculture "is not known. Data are neither readily available nor accurate."

The $99 million by the end of 1976 represented about 17 per cent of that country's overseas investments, which are concentrated in Asia and Latin America, the report said. Including buildings, U.S. farmland was valued in 1975 at a total of $370 billion.

The report said that Japanese firms probably are still in the market for farmland, but most of their investments the last three decades have been in non-farm enterprises in Hawaii and on the West Coast.

Food dollar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fresh, unprocessed foods accounted for the same 46 cents out of every consumer food dollar in 1975 that they did in 1965, according to recent studies of industry figures by Agriculture Department economists.

Well, first of all the bylaws of the Chamber prohibit endorsement of any political party or candidate for elective office. This is not a new policy. It is however a very wise one and particularly, since the Chamber is a tax exempt — non profit organization, it has proven to be essential to maintain our status without running afoul of the Election Campaign Laws and the myriad of reports and records required.

Administrative policies of the Chamber (as directed by the Board) require the staff to avoid any active "work in behalf of a political party or candidate" and prohibit use of staff and equipment "in preparation of any advertising piece for any individual business or in behalf of any political party or candidate."

Politics and religion are vital subjects to these crucial times — or in any times. But so often we "cop out" by declining to discuss them.

Why the cop-out? Maybe it's because we don't want to offend anyone. After all, in politics one has to make a choice and that action often puts us on one side or the other. That choice is usually an arbitrary one and generally reflects some prejudices, personalities, and sometimes even pettiness. Objectivity is likely to be a very elusive target in partisan politics. On the other hand, we often say that religion is a personal thing between man and his creator. Thus it should be a private matter and not the subject of general public discussion. In other words — "it matters not to me what church that person attends or what beliefs are peculiar to that particular religion."

I guess those observations are reasonable enough. I'm sure some one could argue either way but pleasing everyone is virtually impossible — so, where does that leave your Chamber of Commerce?

Lady farmer

with Marj Carpenter

Farmers piled onto the bus at Stanton for the Martin County Farm Tour. In the group was Betty Blake — And she's a farmer.

She talked a little bit about how much she enjoyed living on a farm. "Of course, it costs more and more each year to farm. But there's something about it. You're out from town. They sky is clear and the neighbors are good and the schools are small and then you kind of get a good feeling when the crop comes up."

When your life has fallen completely apart and you have to carefully put it back together like Betty has done, you take each day as it arrives.

Betty was formerly Betty Jane Hill and she was the daughter of a farmer, Belton Hill from around Brown. She went to elementary school at Flower Grove and later completed high school at Ackerly.

She and her husband went up to Lubbock and lived, where they attended school and worked, and then came back to Big Spring. When they got a chance to go back to the farm near Lenorah and Tarzan, that's where they headed.

The plane crash occurred near the farm home of their daughter, Tahita.

There were three more children left at home. There were BeLynda, Don and David Ray.

Farm markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were lower at midday. The average price for strict low middling 1 1/8 inch spot cotton declined 30 points to 49 1/2 cents a pound Friday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $1.85 to $2.50 a bale lower than the previous close. Oct 51.90, Dec 52.85 and Mar 53.75.

Mastermind Hesse charged

DALLAS (AP) — Heinz Jurgen Hesse, the convicted mastermind behind a vast oil and gas fraud scheme, was indicted by a federal grand jury today for failing to appear for sentencing.

Hesse vanished last June — the day before he was to be sentenced in the multi-million-dollar swindle. Asst. U.S. Atty. William Wuester said Hesse, who is believed to have fled the country, could receive up to 10 years in prison for the fraud conviction and another five years for bond jumping.

Authorities said Hesse's company, HJH Inc., took about $27 million from Europeans for alleged investments in American oil wells. Hesse was free on $200,000 bond when he failed to appear in U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham's court.

Bucs lose 17 straight

Dallas faces tough foes

DALLAS (AP) — The preliminaries are over for the Dallas Cowboys. Now they get down to some bare-knuckle family feuding in the National Football League East.

"You have to beat teams like St. Louis and Washington to win your division anyway," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry after the Cowboys went through the motions in a 23-7 victory over hapless Tampa Bay.

It was the 17th consecutive NFL loss for the Buccaneers, who play tough defense but own a woeful offense.

Dallas travels to St. Louis this week and hosts Washington the following Sunday. The Cowboys already have the lead in the NFC East and could really stretch it with a hot streak.

"It's hard to get up emotionally for a team like Tampa Bay, which hasn't won a game," said Landry. "You just hope your team can do a good day's work."

Dallas linebacker Thomas Henderson certainly showed up for work.

He intercepted two passes, including a spectacular 79-yard return for a touchdown that he celebrated as his "Hollywood" nickname by spiking the ball over the crossbar.

"That was the big play of the game," said Landry. "They were driving and suddenly we have a touchdown. That took the wind out of their sails."

Dallas built up a 17-0 first period lead on a field goal and Robert Newhouse's 17-yard run before taking off for the afternoon.

Efren Herrera kicked field goals from 32, 19 and 20 yards.

Tampa Bay, now 0-3, did score its first touchdown of the season. Cowboy rookie Tony Dorsett fumbled the ball after a hard shot by Jeris White. While everyone stood around, Tampa Bay linebacker Richard Wood picked up the ball and thundered 37 yards for a touchdown. He also spiked the ball over the crossbar.

"We just got beat by a superior team," said Buc Coach John McKay. "It's no relief to get past Dallas. If you're going to play in the NFL, you're going to have to play and beat teams like Dallas."

"Realisticly, when you're offensive line blocks, you'll make some yardage.

Somewhere in the players' contracts it says maybe in fine print you're supposed to block."

On Henderson's game-breaking play, Gary Huff aimed a sideline pass for tight end Dana Nafziger.

"Obviously, he's pretty fast and I'm pretty slow," said Nafziger. "He had a head start on me but I did not gain a lot on him."

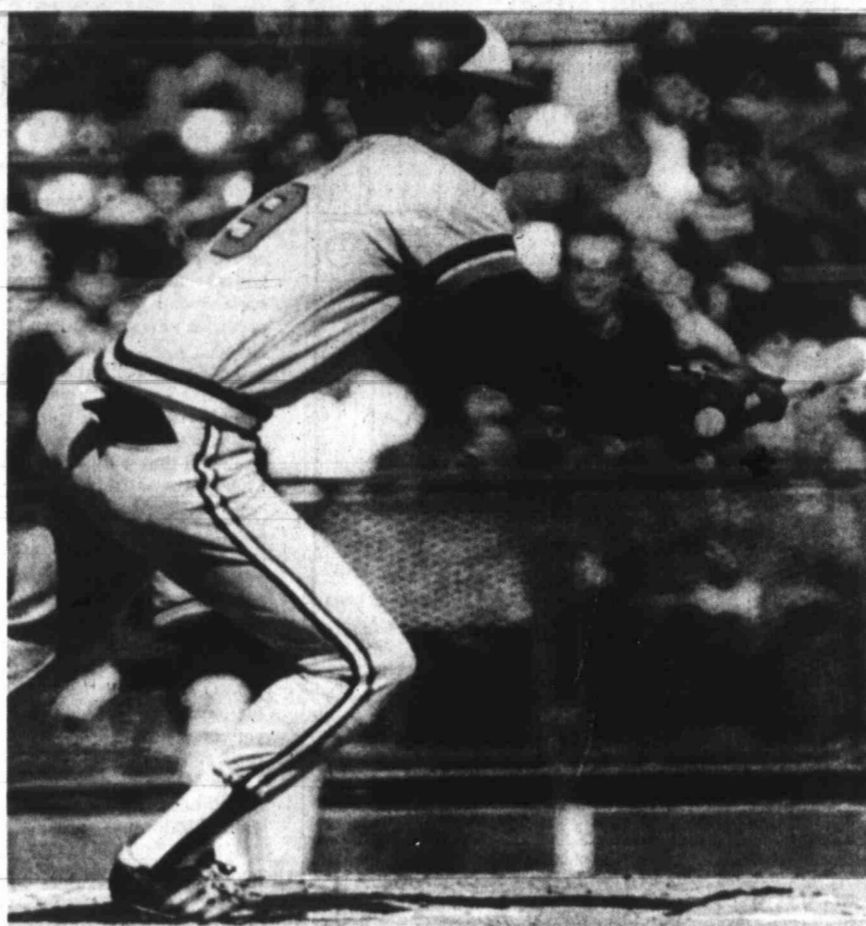

"I saw it coming all the way and there wasn't anyone who was going to stop me," said Henderson, who runs a 9.7 in the 100-yard dash, which is the reason Nafziger couldn't catch him.

Also missing Henderson was Huff.

"I had my hands on him, but I don't guess you could say that slowed him down much," sighed Huff.

Dallas again received excellent production from tailbacks Preston Pearson and Dorsett.

Pearson, the starter, was asked in the dressing room if he or the heralded Dorsett should start. "I wish the media would get off that thing," he snapped. "We're good friends and good teammates. Tony's a damn good back. If it was up to me, I'd let the man start and get the media off that kick."

BUNTS FOR A HIT — Minnesota Twins' Rod Carew bunts for a base hit during the first inning Sunday in Milwaukee as he closed out the season and won the American League batting title. Twins defeated the Brewers 6-2. Carew also collected his 100 RBI in the game and finished the season with 238 hits, the most in the major leagues since 1928.

Two winners meet

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two of Monday night football's most consistent winners, Oakland and Kansas City, tangle tonight with the Raiders favored by as many as 14 points.

The Chiefs, who have lost only twice in nine Monday night appearances, are winless in two outings this year. The injury-depleted Raiders, 8-1-1 for Monday night, have not lost a regular season or postseason game in a year.

A crowd of about 50,000 was expected for the 9:05 EDT kickoff, the 35th meeting in the once-bitter rivalry which dates to the birth of the old AFL 17 years ago.

Oakland, the defending Super Bowl champion, lost offensive tackle John Vella and linebacker Phil Villapiano in last week's 16-7 victory over Pittsburgh. Defensive back Jack Tatum was also on the questionable list.

"Any time you lose a player or players like these, it has got to hurt you," said Raider Coach John Madden. "But that's one thing we've felt that we've always had, pretty good depth. Now it's going to be tested."

The Chiefs, 5-9 the past three seasons, fashioned a 3-3 exhibition record this year and sparked hope that their much-advertised rebuilding program was beginning to bear fruit. But a season-opening loss at New England and last week's 23-7 shellacking by San Diego have put the Chiefs in danger of another dismal year.

"We are in the process of growing and we are aware of that," said Coach Paul Wiggin. "I think we've got to evaluate just what our team is all about right now."

Miami foils Oilers

MIAMI (AP) — "It's too early to talk about leads," says Miami Coach Don Shula. "We're happy to be where we are."

But Shula's Dolphins, 27-7 winners over the Houston Oilers Sunday, are already looking to next week's battle with Baltimore as a major test of the National Football League season.

Miami extended its record to 3-0 Sunday while the Colts also remained unbeaten with a 17-14 victory over Buffalo.

"Baltimore's got to be the big test," said Dolphin linebacker Steve Towle. The two unbeaten teams in the Eastern Division of the NFL's American Conference meet Sunday afternoon at Baltimore.

Miami shocked Houston with a 21-point burst in the first quarter of Sunday's game as quarterback Bob Griese spotted the Oilers secondary in singleton coverage on Duruel Harris. Griese hit Harris with five passes in the first quarter for 87 yards, including a 16-yard touchdown.

Griese completed 13 of 20 passes in the game for 188 yards and was intercepted once. Houston's Dan Pastornik completed 16 of 31 for 137 yards and suffered two interceptions.

"We're on our way," said running back Benny Malone, who gained 87 yards and scored a touchdown in the first-period onslaught. Norm Bulaich bulled one yard for another Miami TD in the opening period.

"The offensive line was blowing off the ball," said Malone, who finished with 90 yards in 19 carries. "The holes were huge. Everyone was just pulling together."

Like the Yankees, Kansas City moved to the top with a hot streak that started in mid-June and never let up until they clinched the division crown on Sept. 23.

"The first quarter was a thing of beauty," said Shula. "Griese ran it to perfection. We looked like an excellent football team." Griese, an 11-year veteran, was awarded the game ball. But Shula also praised a defensive stand in the fourth quarter that halted Houston after the Oilers had a first down inside the Miami four-yard line.

"One of our fine goal-line stands," said Shula.

It's 162 games later, but...

Yanks and Royals go to it again

NEW YORK (AP) — It took 162 games and six months of struggling, but the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees are right back where they left off a year ago — battling for the American League pennant.

The best-of-five series begins Wednesday in New York with a day game. The two teams play Thursday night in Yankee Stadium and then move to Kansas City for a night game Friday. Then, if they are needed, they'll play a day game Saturday and a night game Sunday. The winner then hosts the first two games of the World Series, which begins in the American League city Tuesday, Oct. 11. One pitch separated the two division champions a year ago. They went down to the ninth inning of the fifth playoff game before Chris Chambliss blasted a dramatic home run that put the Yankees in the World Series for the first time since 1964.

Both teams suffered through difficult times this season as they sought to repeat their division titles. The Yankees, in a soap-opera atmosphere, had a summer of discontent, often argued with each other on and off the field. The Royals became involved in a four-team battle in the West with strong and surprising challenges from Texas, Chicago and Minnesota.

In early August, the Yankees, who spent much of the season's early months in third place, seemed to straighten out. The turnaround, which included a string of 40 victories in 50 games, started when Reggie Jackson was inserted into the cleanup spot in the batting order. Jackson, the center of much of the clubhouse controversy, responded with a rash of home runs and runs batted in that pushed his season's total in both departments up among the league leaders.

Third baseman Graig Nettles, voted the club's Most Valuable Player in a poll of the players, swung a lethal bat and catcher Thurman Munson, last year's American League MVP, also supplied plenty of power. Jackson, Nettles and Munson teamed for more than 85 home runs and more than 300 runs batted in.

The attack's table setter was leadoff man Mickey Rivers, the club's leading hitter, whose speed often sent up Yankee rallies.

Chambliss and outfielders Roy White and Lou Pinella rounded out the offense that finished tied for the AL lead in hitting with Boston and Minnesota with a .280 batting average.

The defense was airtight with second baseman Willie

DEFENSE — Denver's Jim Kiick, 33, is brought down by Seattle's Terry Beeson, 58, and Dave Brown, 22, during their game Sunday in Seattle. This action took place in the second quarter. Denver won the game 24-13.

Barber did it

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Miller Barber did it with consistency, winning his 10th tournament title just as he has accumulated $1.2 million in his 19 years on the pro golf tour.

"It seems like every time I've been in contention lately, someone comes along and burns the grass off the place," the 46-year-old Barber said Sunday after winning the $200,000 Napa PGA tournament.

Howard Twitty, a 28-year-old pro from Arizona, came up with a searing 62, second best round on the tour this year, but it wasn't enough to beat Barber, who finished with a seven-under-par 65 on the 6,870-yard Silverado Country Club North course.

Barber posted four subpar rounds, including a 66 on the second day, for his 72-hole total of 272, which beat George Archer by two strokes and Twitty by three. Archer, who led the field by four strokes after a 63 Saturday, struggled to a 73 Sunday.

Twitty began the tournament with a 73 and went into the final round 12 strokes from the top before breaking the course record set by Johnny Miller in last year's tournament and tied by Archer Saturday.

The only score to better Twitty's 10-under-par round this year was the all-time tour record 59 posted by Al Geiberger in the Memphis Open.

How good are the Longhorns?

By the Associated Press

Just how good is the University of Texas? Questions about the eighth-ranked team in the country linger although the Longhorns have crushed Boston College, Virginia and Rice, three teams with excellent chances to finish in the bottom twenty.

Texas mauled Rice 72-15 Saturday to join Arkansas, Texas A&M, Houston and Southern Methodist on top of the Southwest Conference football ladder with 1-0 records.

But guess who's coming to the next kickoff. It's Barry Switzer and his top-ranked Oklahoma Sooners in a little social gathering that takes place every October on the Texas State Fair Grounds in the Cotton Bowl.

Unless you have a ticket don't show with less than a Cnote because that's what scalpers will be demanding outside the gates. It's a sellout, of course, and has been bumped from national television.

The game will be seen live on television in Norman, Okla., and Austin, Tex., but blacked out elsewhere.

Texas jumped ahead of Rice so fast-scoring with only 11 seconds elapsed in the game—that the Horn regulars didn't get a lot of work.

"We ought to be fresh for Oklahoma," said new Coach Freddie Akers.

Texas will carry a 61.3-point per game average into Saturday's Red River rivalry, highest in the nation.

"We expected to be 3-0 at this point and it's always a challenge and an honor to play the No. 1 team," said Akers.

Looking ahead to Oklahoma, Texas quarterback Mark McBeth said, "If we play our game and hold our mistakes to a minimum we could show them a few things."

Last year the teams played to a bitter 6-6 tie in Texas Coach Darrell Royal's finale.

In other games Saturday, Michigan humiliated Texas A&M 41-3; Ohio State celebrated its first trip to the Southwest with a 35-7 thumping of Southern Methodist; Arkansas clubbed Texas Christian 42-6, Houston outlasted Baylor 28-24; and Texas Tech survived North Carolina 10-7 in the league's only happy intersectional outing.

The SWC is now 14-9 against outside competition.

Oklahoma ripped Kansas 24-9 Saturday and Switzer said "I think we gained some confidence today and that should help us when we cross the Red River next week."

Junior quarterback Thomas Lott, who was injured in preseason practice, scored three touchdowns for the Sooners and got the game ball.

"He's healthy and ready to go against Texas," said Switzer.

Longest streak on the line

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Following their 42nd consecutive victory, the Texas A&I Javelinas set the stage for a small-college shootout pitting the No. 1 And No. 2 NAIA nationally-ranked teams.

A&I puts the nation's longest collegiate winning streak on the line against Saturday night against Abilene Christian University, the NAIA's second-ranked team. "It's got all the makings of an excellent game," said A&I coach Fred Jonas. "Abilene has had two weeks to get ready for us and I know they think if they win this one, they've got it made."

The Javelinas haven't lost a game since November of 1973, marching to three consecutive Lone Star Conference titles and three NAIA national championships. A&I has ruled the NAIA rankings for 34 weeks.

Despite the annual joust on the floor of the Cotton Bowl, life goes on around the rest of the SWC with SMU at Baylor, TCU at Rice and Texas Tech at Arizona in other games on the schedule.

Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard perhaps welcomes the week off so his shell-shocked Aggies can regroup. They outplayed Michigan in the first half then came unraveled like a 25-cent softball.

"The only way it doesn't hurt is if you're not a human being," said Bellard.

Ken Perry and J. Miller also posted a 123 score followed by Kent Morgan of Big Spring and Gus White Jr. of Lamesa with 124. Ron Medley and his son also shot 124.

Carl Small and J. Gonzalez shot 125 along with Roy Mize and B. Glover. Spot Cockrell and Sam Hunnicutt shot 125 as did Bob Hurt and J. Brookmale. Southwestern Bell telephone officials.

Shooting 127's were Harold Davis and Joe Gibbs of Midland, Jack Cook and Hal Battle, Midland and Buck Drake and Jackie Milam.

John Arrick and his partner, Steve Lockran from Dallas shot 129 as did Harold and Dr. Wesley Strahan, Red Womack and Alston Bostick of Odessa also shot 129s.

A. Finley and J. Richey shot 131; W. Glaser and M. Bruton shot 133; Dan Vilkins and O. Olson shot 134; J. Rose and Beetle Bailey shot 136 and Bob Bell and Don Gilbreath of Stanton shot 137. Jerry Worthy and P. Patterson shot 143 and H. Bell and Jim Lewis of Dallas shot 153 in the event.

Marcum-Ramsey win tourney

Carl Marcum of Big Spring and W.E. Ramsey of Dallas were partnership winners at the Big Spring Country Club annual tournament over the weekend with a three-day score of 120.

Tied for second were R.L. Heith of Big Spring and C.H. Brockert of Midland along with Richard Terry of Big Spring and Keith Finley a former resident. They shot 121.

Troy Frazier and Steve Johnson of Dallas were fourth with 122.

Scores of 123 were shot by Dr. Jim Mathews and Joe Dickson, from Scott and White Clinic in Temple.

Ken Perry and J. Miller also posted a 123 score followed by Kent Morgan of Big Spring and Gus White Jr. of Lamesa with 124. Ron Medley and his son also shot 124.

Carl Small and J. Gonzalez shot 125 along with Roy Mize and B. Glover. Spot Cockrell and Sam Hunnicutt shot 125 as did Bob Hurt and J. Brookmale. Southwestern Bell telephone officials.

Michigan pounds A&M

By the Associated Press
Like comedian Rodney Dangerfield, Michigan and Louisiana State hadn't been getting no respect lately.

They were after McClendon's scalp down in the bayous but things may have quieted down some thanks to tailback Charles Alexander...

chip-shot 24-yard field goal, which gave the Aggies a 3-0 first-period lead, very forgettable. Besides Texas A&M and Florida, two other members of the Top Twenty went down to defeat...

Meanwhile, Michigan bounced back impressively from an unimpressive third-ranked Wolverines win over Duke (21-9) and Navy (14-7) that dropped the Wolverines helped by some urging from Schembechler...

DOGJERS SET HOME RUN RECORD - These four Los Angeles Dodgers set a major league home run record for the year when they hit a combined total of 125 home runs.

Weekend action hot and heavy

QB's different, results the same

Quarterbacks Archie Manning and Terry Bradshaw used different techniques but the end results for the New Orleans Saints and Pittsburgh Steelers were the same.

Steelers 28, Browns 14 Bradshaw connected for TD passes of 6 and 14 yards with Lynn Swann and hauled a 65-yarder to Frank Grant.

Chargers 24, Bengals 3 Harris hit ex-Bengal Charlie Joiner on touchdown passes of 30 and 15 yards as the Chargers surprised slumping Cincinnati.

Lions 17, Eagles 13 Dexter Bussey scored both Lion TDs, one on a 14-yard sweep and the other on a 3-yard pass from Greg Landry as Detroit subdued Philadelphia.

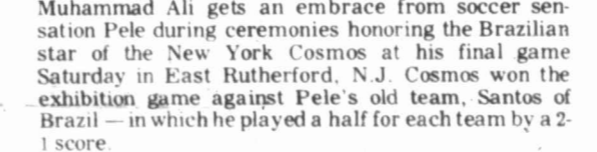

TENDER L. C. - Defensive end L.C. Greenwood of the Pittsburgh Steelers gently helps Cleveland Browns running back Greg Pruitt to his feet after clobbering him at the line of scrimmage in the third quarter of Sunday's game.

Manning ran for three touchdowns and passed for a fourth in New Orleans' 42-24 rout of Chicago Sunday. Bradshaw reversed the method, passing for three TDs and running for another as Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland 28-14.

Leahy's 32-yard field goal with 23 seconds left came after the Jets had stripped the ball away from Mike Haynes following a punt. It was the second straight loss for the Patriots, who bowed by the same score to Cleveland last Monday night.

Chargers 24, Bengals 3 Harris hit ex-Bengal Charlie Joiner on touchdown passes of 30 and 15 yards as the Chargers surprised slumping Cincinnati.

Vikings 19, Packers 7 Viking Coach Bud Grant picked up his 100th regular season victory despite a fired-up Green Bay defense that sacked Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton four times for 53 yards.

CHAMPS EMBRACE - Heavyweight champ Muhammad Ali gets an embrace from soccer sensation Pele during ceremonies honoring the Brazilian star at his final game Saturday in East Rutherford, N.J.

Ali cried?!

Last week, just before Muhammad Ali entered the Madison Square Garden ring against Earnie Shavers, there was a knock on the door of his midtown hotel headquarters.

"It was Pele, the great Pele," Ali related excitedly after he had beaten Shavers in a slashing fight.

It must have been one of the most momentous scenes in the history of sports - these two dynamic superstars, unquestionably the most widely acclaimed, most recognizable athletes in the world, face-to-face, trading their homespun philosophies.

What is it that sends Ali fans into wild hysteria the moment he enters the boxing ring, his booming mouth extolling his virtues, his fists high in defiance, his brown eyes flashing like those of an excited little boy?

"It's his humanity," says Peter Bodo, biographer of the soccer star. "He is a completely natural person - warm, open, gentle. He conveys the image of the common man."

Pele bade "adios" to the sport he had played for 22 of his 36 years in a moving ceremony Saturday at the Meadowlands.

The mere presence of either one could tie up traffic from the Champs Elysee in Paris to St. Kilda Road in Melbourne, Australia, and stir riots from Bangkok to Boston, but, in character and personality, they are as far apart as the poles.

What, really, are the ingredients of sports charisma?

Courthouse strolls of Davis curtailed

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — The courthouse wanderings of millionaire defendant Cullen Davis will be curtailed starting today as Davis reportedly spoke with the mother of a juror who will decide if he lives or dies.

Davis, 44, on trial for the August 1976 slaying of his stepdaughter, has had the run of the courthouse the last eight weeks since the trial was moved here from Fort Worth on a change of venue.

State Dist. Court Judge George Dowlen issued the curtailment directive after meeting with attorneys Saturday. Prosecutors said they feared jury contamination since relatives have in the past been allowed to visit the sequestered jury on occasion.

"It's a legitimate concern," Dowlen told newsmen after the meeting. "I don't think this situation will come up again."

The judge explained that cramped courthouse conditions were largely responsible for Davis' earlier freedom of movement.

Flamboyant defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes said he believes the restrictions will work in Davis' favor. He said his client would be more apt to accidentally make an offhand remark that would hurt his case than one that would be self-serving.

Officer Benny Thompson was due to return to the stand today. Thompson was a crime scene search officer who participated in the investigation after two were slain and two wounded at Davis' Fort Worth mansion.

Besides Davis' stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12, his estranged wife's lover, Stan Farr, 30, died in the shooting spree. Farr was the live-in house guest of Priscilla Davis, 33, who has been separated from the defendant for about three years. Mrs. Davis was wounded along with Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, a chance mansion visitor the night of the shootings.

Prosecutors hinted they would probably call Lynda Arnold, Farr's sister, and her daughter, Dana, shortly after Thompson leaves the stand. Mrs. Arnold and her daughter are believed to be the last persons to talk via telephone with Andrea Wilborn just an hour before she was shot to death.

Officers identified the driver of the truck as Hice John Lacey, 22, of El Paso, Texas. They said he remained in jail Sunday under $15,000 bond on three counts of first-degree manslaughter.

HE MAKES CRIME "BUSTS" — Fernando G. It takes Ponce about three hours to build the bust, but they often succeed in making an identification where sketches fail.

Soviet-American statement hit by Sen. Jackson, Meany

The Israeli cabinet, Sen. Henry Jackson and George Meany sharply criticized the new joint U.S.-Soviet declaration of principles for an Arab-Israeli peace agreement while the Palestine Liberation Organization and other Arabs called it a positive step toward peace.

The declaration, issued Saturday as part of the effort to get Arab-Israeli peace negotiations in Geneva started before the end of the year, urged Israel to recognize the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people" and give them a role in the Geneva conference.

The statement also called for Israel to withdraw from territories occupied during the 1967 war, the creation of demilitarized zones manned by United Nations troops or observers to protect Israel's security and possible participation of the United States and the Soviet Union in international guarantees of Israel's borders.

Israeli leaders asserted that the declaration would stiffen Arab policy and hamper efforts to reconvene the peace conference, which met briefly in December 1973. The Israelis contended the call for Palestinian participation would open the door to the PLO and to creation of an independent Palestinian state, both of which Israel rejects.

The Israelis have said they will accept Palestinian representatives in a Jordanian delegation, but they must not be leaders of the PLO.

Finance Minister Simha Ehrlich, presiding over the weekly cabinet meeting in place of ailing Prime Minister Menahem Begin, said the declaration was "the first signs that the superpowers want to impose a solution."

"The statement is not acceptable to Israel. We cannot accept an imposed solution," said Ehrlich. Meany, the president of the AFL-CIO, said the declaration undercut Israel's bargaining position, and Jackson, the Washington Democrat, said the Soviets should not have been involved.

Although the Soviet Union and the United States are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference, Jackson said he saw no need to bring the Soviets into the picture, particularly since Egypt has expelled Soviet advisers.

"It seems to me we have elevated the Soviets to a position they would not have dreamed of," Jackson said.

The Egyptian government radio welcomed the declaration as a "positive step toward a breakthrough in the stalemated Arab-Israeli conflict." But it criticized the failure of the PLO as the representative of the Palestinian people.

Suspected cancer-causing chemicals should be banned?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says red tape is delaying decisions on whether hundreds of chemicals suspected of causing cancer should be banned from the American workplace.

In a plan expected to have a far-reaching impact on business and industry, the Labor Department today proposed eliminating the slow, item-by-item review of suspected carcinogens it says has stymied its work.

Although 1,500 to 2,000 substances have been identified as potentially causing cancer, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has completed regulatory action on only 17 in its five-year history.

The proposal by the Labor Department agency would set standards for identifying and regulating all potential cancer-causing agents, often without the need for lengthy hearings as now required.

"Trying to control carcinogenic substances on a case-by-case basis is like trying to put out a fire with an eye dropper," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said in announcing the plan, designed to pick out those substances that need emergency action.

"This new policy will allow OSHA to respond to threats to workers' health with much greater speed and efficiency," Marshall said.

After public hearings sometime in the next several months, the Labor Department can make the standards permanent.

Liberals pinning hopes on tie vote

Filibuster vow voiced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two liberal senators filibustering to keep natural gas under federal control say they are within two votes of victory as the Senate deadlock enters its third week.

Although two tests have demonstrated that supporters of natural gas deregulation have the votes to win, Democratic Sens. James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio are vowing to continue their filibuster in the name of lower home heating costs.

"We are good for another 10 days or two weeks," Abourezk said after a rare weekend Senate session.

Abourezk and Metzenbaum are pinning their hopes on a tie vote.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale would then have to break the deadlock — by voting for the Carter administration's plan to continue controls.

In an important vote last week, supporters of deregulation won 50 to 44.

But for a potential parliamentary advantage, Abourezk voted with his opponents, meaning the true vote was 49 to 45.

With Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., willing to switch and vote for the Predicting that some minds would be changed over the weekend, Abourezk said he thinks "the momentum is in our direction."

Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said he expected the issue to be decided by Wednesday. But as long as the filibustering senators refuse to agree to a time for a vote, there is little Byrd can do to force the issue.

The Carter administration had originally proposed raising the price ceiling on natural gas to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet, but the President has since agreed to a compromise of $2.03.

The President's allies argue that while gas producers may need higher prices to provide enough incentive to find new reserves, gas does not need to be deregulated.

And a final congressional decision must await action by a House-Senate conference committee.

Because the House has approved Carter's $1.75 ceiling, Senate supporters of deregulation quietly acknowledge they anticipate a joint committee will vote a higher ceiling than $1.75, but federal controls if his vote would make the difference, that leaves a two-vote margin to reach tie.

will not approve deregulation.

As the Senate resumed the seemingly endless natural gas debate that has blocked almost all other business, the House scheduled work on a comprehensive proposal to make it easier for labor unions to organize.

Carter Considering $5-a-barrel levy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is considering a $5-a-barrel levy on imported oil if Congress scraps his plan to raise domestic crude oil taxes, according to his top energy adviser.

The import fee would raise gasoline prices five to seven cents a gallon, the same increase envisioned by the President's original proposal, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Sunday.

"We are in this ludicrous position in which we are subsidizing every barrel of oil that comes into the country," Schlesinger said.

"That is the reason the (domestic) equalization tax was proposed. If Congress fails to enact that tax, the President must consider other alternatives."

Schlesinger said the President could raise taxes on imported oil under the Trade Adjustment Act without having to get congressional approval.

Schlesinger said the $5-a-barrel import tax would, by raising gasoline prices, have the same energy-saving effect as a $2.50-a-barrel tax on domestic crude.

Schlesinger said the United States "cannot afford" to continue importing $45 billion worth of oil, the projected total for this year.

He said that while gasoline prices would rise under the import tax, consumers could be offered some form of tax relief. Carter has promised to rebate the $12 billion to $15 billion the domestic crude tax would generate to consumers.
