Russians can attack

Satellites in danger?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown said today the Russians are now able to attack some satellites in space, a development he said was "somewhat troubling."

Brown told a news conference the Soviet Union "has an operational capability that could be used against some satellites."

He said: "I find that somewhat troubling."

This was the first disclosure that Russia has achieved some form of an anti-satellite system.

The defense secretary declined to go into detail on the kind of U.S. satellites that might be vulnerable to Soviet attack. The most important are reconnaissance satellites, which keep track of military developments in the Soviet Union, and other space vehicles which would warn of any Soviet missile launch aimed at the United States.

Defense sources said the Russian capability is believed effective against satellites traveling in relatively low-level orbits, which might include some reconnaissance vehicles.

Brown made his disclosure in response to a question at the end of a long news conference.

"We don't have that capability," the defense secretary said, although he noted that the United States is engaged in an exploratory development which could lead to such a weapon.

The United States had a crude anti-satellite system in operation in the early 1960s, but dismantled it.

In other matters, Brown said "it may take months more" to resolve the question of whether U.S. allies in Europe want production and deployment of a U.S. neutron bomb, a weapon designed to disable tanks by killing their crews but without inflicting severe damage on structures on the battlefield or killing civilians in nearby areas.

He said the neutron weapon, which has become a political issue in Europe, has "substantial military advantages" and he disputed the contention of critics that its existence would make nuclear war more likely because it limits physical damage.

Cancer death study eyes Howard County

What is called a "statistical study" on refinery-related cancer has caused some ripples in West Texas.

Monday, Dr. William Blot of the National Cancer Institute was quoted in reference to a study published in the October 7 issue of Science magazine.

Blot apparently did a "statistical study" of counties in Texas, Oklahoma, and other states in relation to cancer deaths and refineries.

Howard and Mitchell Counties in Texas were reportedly among the group where cancer deaths were higher than the rate in non-petroleum producing counties.

According to Pat Newman of the National Institute of Health, the study simply looked at the numbers of cancer deaths in counties with less than one per cent of the workers employed in petroleum manufacture and in counties with more than one per cent of the workers employed in the industry.

"The study simply looked to see if there was a statistical relationship between cancer rates. For certain cancers, the elevation in the petroleum manufacturing counties was higher."

"This does not mean that the deaths were people employed in the industry or that the industry caused all the deaths. It is a simple comparison of numbers," said Newman.

The National Cancer Institute is a division of the National Institute of Health which conducts research for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Cosden Chemical Co. Refinery president Ken Perry said that he knew nothing about any such study. He said that Cosden was in compliance with benzene regulations, but that benzene was just one of a list of thousands of substances labelled toxic on the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) list. Perry said he had no contact whatsoever with any federal authorities in connection with this study.

The Dallas OSHA office denied having any connection with the study.

Baum says race up for grabs

Jim Baum, Big Spring candidate for U.S. Congress, told his campaign volunteers Monday, "This campaign is up for grabs for a candidate with supporters with a winning attitude."

Baum made the remarks at a meeting of the "Baum Squad," a group of volunteers dedicated to supporting Baum's candidacy.

Volunteers filled the Reddy Room at Texas Electric Company Monday to hear Baum and to outline strategy and volunteer assignments.

Baum said that with "... a winning attitude spreading across the 33-county district, we can all go to Washington where the middle income family can be represented." He added, "We have government of the people, for the people, and by the people, if the people get involved."

Baum has already traveled some 2,000 miles since announcing his candidacy two weeks ago.

Campaign coordinator Evan Evans outlined needs to be filled by the "Baum Squaders" and volunteers assignments were made at the conclusion of the meeting.

Carter tells U. N.

U. S., Russia near arms accord

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Carter reported today the United States and the Soviet Union are "within sight of a significant agreement" to limit strategic weapons.

In an address to the United Nations General Assembly, Carter also looked beyond a new SALT accord and declared the United States is "willing now" to reduce its arsenal of nuclear arms "by 10 per cent, by 20 per cent, even by 50 per cent," if the Soviets will do the same.

The President received a standing ovation as he entered the assembly hall, jammed with representatives of all but two of the U.N.'s 149 member nations. Absent were South Africa, which has boycotted General Assembly sessions since 1974, and Albania, which follows an isolated course in world affairs.

During the speech, Carter was interrupted by applause only once, that when he said the United States would never use nuclear weapons except in self-defense.

At the conclusion, he was given a 37-second standing ovation. Among those who withheld any applause was Farouk Kaddoumi of the Palestine Liberation Organization, which has "observer status" at the U.N.

While emphasizing arms control efforts, Carter also discussed the search for a Middle East peace.

"We do not intend to impose from the outside a settlement on the nations of the Middle East," he said. But he added that "the fundamental rights and interests" of Israel and her Arab neighbors must be accepted, and concluded:

"For Israel, this must mean borders that are recognized and secure. The commitment of the United States to Israel's security is unquestionable."

"For the Arabs, the legitimate rights of the Palestinians must be recognized. How these rights are to be defined and implemented is, of course, for the interested parties to decide in negotiations, and not for us to dictate."

Carter, who will spend two days in New York pursuing both public and private diplomacy, was meeting separately later in the day with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail

DREAMING OF A WHITE CHRISTMAS — Michelle Houghton, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Houghton, is way ahead of the seasons as she tries on this winter jacket at a local department store. Despite recent 100-degree temperatures, Michelle is a pretty reminder of cold temperatures to come.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Trailers

Q. Is it against the law to leave travel trailers in city streets all the time? Can they be in the streets even if the person who resides there is gone? Some Big Spring streets are almost completely clogged up with travel trailers, vans, boats, and other junk.

A. "Yes, it is against the law in many cases to leave trailers and vehicles such as this on city streets. If people will call the city, we will take action on it," said Harry Nagel, city manager.

Calendar: Stenholm rally tonight

Rally for Congressional candidate Charles Stenholm ending the district-wide bus tour, 7 p.m., East side of the Howard County courthouse. Raford Dunagan, county Democratic chairman, who will introduce Stenholm at the rally, said the meeting will be staged inside the courthouse "if it's raining."

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliary will meet at the VFW post at 7:30 p.m. The district commander will make an official visit.

Kentwood PTA meeting, 7:30 p.m., at the school.

Public hearing on Stanton City budget, 7:30 p.m., City Hall in Stanton.

Whistle stop in Coahoma for Charles Stenholm's bus tour, 4:30 p.m.

"How to Get the Most From Your Income," is the first in a community action series sponsored by Howard College Adult Ed Program, starts at 7:30 p.m. today in the Howard College Student Union Building.

Offbeat: Fishy report

Is it a case of the fish that laid the golden egg? One might get that impression reading the offense report at the Big Spring Police Department. It seems that burglars made off with "one fish bowl," valued at $50, sometime over the weekend from the home of Carl Dugger, 1212 Mulberry.

The report failed to note how the fish felt after the heist, or what Dugger had been feeding it.

TV's best: Baseball playoffs

The National League Championship Playoffs swing into action when Los Angeles, the Western Division winner, plays host to Philadelphia, the top team in the Eastern Division, in a best of five series starting at 7 p.m. on NBC.

Inside: Saw her boyfriend shot

WITH SABERS DRAWN, the defense goes after a blonde Fort Worth coed today who says it was millionaire Cullen Davis who shot her boyfriend and pursued her on a life-and-death chase from the palatial Davis mansion last year. See p. 7A.

FIVE HOUSTON policemen, including a sergeant, have testified they heard of Terry Denson, a defendant in the Joe Campos Torres murder case, brag about throwing a wine into a ravine. See p. 7A.

LAWYERS for H. R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John N. Mitchell are telling U.S. District Judge J. Sirica early today that the three men should be released from prison now. See p. 6A.

Outside: Clearing

Decreasing cloudiness and a decreasing chance of rain are predicted through Wednesday by weather experts. High temperature today is expected in the mid 70s, low tonight in the upper 50s, and high Wednesday in the upper 70s. Winds will be from the south at 10 to 20 miles-per-hour. Chances of precipitation are put at 60 per cent today, 40 per cent tonight, and 30 per cent Wednesday.

Big building permits said on the way

The city has issued a building permit for a $100,000 warehouse and expects to issue another Wednesday for a $260,000 project.

E. L. Terry, representing the 700 Corporation, was issued a permit 9 a.m. today for the construction of a 50-foot by 150-foot warehouse at 3404 E. FM 700. The metal and brick building will be used to store supplies for eight Kentucky Fried Chicken outlets, according to Mark Campbell, building inspector for the city.

"It is a little premature to name the business, but we expect a permit for $260,000 Wednesday," said Campbell. "This is great. We have already topped last month's total with the warehouse alone."

September's construction costs came to $92,160, down from $130,000 for September of 1976. This brings the year's total to $2,669,268.50, also down from the year-to-date total for 1976, $4,145,463.

"Most of that '76 total was (Dorothy Garrett) coliseum money. When you look at it that way, we are doing really well so far this year," said Campbell.

Only one project topped the $10,000 mark for September. A new home will be constructed at 2700 Coronado by E. C. Roberson Jr. at a cost of $40,000.

Deposits jump, still short of record mark

Deposits in Howard County's four banks bounced back from second-quarter figures, but still fell short of the record deposits listed in the first quarter of this year.

Deposits totaled $118,572, 276 for the period ending Sept. 30, a gain of $16,335,251 over the same period last year, but short of the record $122,907,216 period ending March 31.

Two of the four banks showed increases in deposits over the second quarter, First National and State National, while all four banks showed increases over the deposits listed a year ago.

Loans at the four banks skyrocketed during the third quarter to $71,894,500, an increase of $7,332,983 over the figure reported at the end of the second quarter and $10,520,616 more than was reported at the end of the third quarter, 1976.

Deposits during the first quarter of the year reached an all-time high, reflecting a bountiful cotton crop, increased Christmas business and increased oil revenues.

Fahmy and the foreign minister of Israel, Moshe Dayan.

The President, whose two meetings last month with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko gave fresh impetus to arms control negotiations, said on that subject:

"In strategic arms limitation talks, we and the Soviets are within sight of a significant agreement in limiting the total numbers of weapons and in restricting certain categories of weapons of special concern to each of us."

Carter did not elaborate. However, the United States is concerned about the very large missiles in the Soviet arsenal while Moscow has expressed concern about deployment of cruise missiles by the United States.

Carter went on to say: "The United States is willing to go as far as possible, consistent with our security interests, in limiting and reducing our nuclear weapons. On a reciprocal basis we are willing now to reduce them by 10 per cent, by 20 per cent, even by 50 per cent."

Calling for the completion of negotiations on a comprehensive nuclear test ban, the President asserted:

"My country believes that the time has come to end all explosions of nuclear devices, whether what their claimed justification — peaceful or military."

Carter also called anew for restrictions on exports of nuclear fuel and technology, and for restraint in exports of conventional arms.

Turning to southern Africa, he said, "We urge South Africa and other nations to support the proposed solution to the problems in Zimbabwe, and to cooperate still more closely in providing for a smooth and prompt transition in Namibia."

Injunction sought in Stanton beating

STANTON — The killing of an allegedly mean dog, and a beating which followed was to be aired today at an injunction hearing in 118th District Court at 2 p.m.

Preston Faris, Martin County agent was severely beaten last week, after an incident in which he shot a dog that had allegedly been causing trouble in the rural area of the county north of Stanton.

Owners of the dog had apparently been warned earlier in connection with animals which had apparently been damaged or killed by the Great Dane. After a small poodle was killed by the dog in the front yard of the owners, Faris apparently took matters in his own hand and shot the dog.

Assault charges have been filed against Nicky and Guy Waggoner in county court in connection with the beating of the agent which followed.

A temporary restraining order has been filed against the two Waggoners and Malcolm and Ann Irvin preventing them from injuring or harassing the agent or his family.

The hearing today was to be a request by Faris's attorney, Guilford Jones of Big Spring to turn the order into a permanent injunction.

Stewardesses win suit

CHICAGO (AP) — American Airlines ended a seven-year court case Monday by agreeing to pay a $2.7 million settlement and rehire 300 stewardesses it fired because they became pregnant. Charles Pressman, attorney for the stewardesses, said he believed the settlement was one of the largest ever in a civil rights case. Pressman said 87 of the women returned to work after a 1974 agreement with the airline and that as many as 63 others will go back to work for American. The women were fired between 1965 and 1970. A class action suit was filed in 1970, charging that the firings after the women took leaves of absences to have their babies violated the 1964 federal Civil Rights Act. Judge Frank McGarr of U.S. District Court said he had been assured that no current employees would lose their jobs as a result of the settlement. It provides that women who return to work will get seniority for the length of the court action, plus any seniority they accumulated before being fired, less the term of their pregnancies. The agreement also calls for American to retrain and rehire women according to seniority if they meet the company's height, weight and medical standards. American also agreed that the women can choose new assignments from any vacancies provided they do not displace stewardesses with more seniority. Pressman said a similar suit against Trans World Airlines is pending before the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Elvis, jet dispute

TRENTON (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether the late Elvis Presley should have been allowed to back out of an agreement to buy a luxury jet once owned by fugitive financier Robert Vesco. The Boeing 707 jet has been the center of a legal dispute for many months. It was seized from Panama in May 1974 by Vesco's former pilot and flown to Newark International Airport. Several parties claimed ownership of the $1.5 million airliner, but control of the craft was turned over to the receiver of the bankrupt Fairchild General Corp., the company once controlled by Vesco who has been indicted for fraud and is living in exile in Costa Rica. The jet has been sold to Ferdinand Marcos, the president of the Philippines. Presley had put a $75,000 down payment on the aircraft, complete with bedrooms, a bar, discotheque and sauna. He backed out of the deal at the last minute, however, fearing it was unclear who actually owned legal title to the aircraft. The company's receiver, John J. McLaughlin, then sued the popular rock 'n' roll star, but Superior Court Judge Irwin Kimmelman ruled Presley had a legal right to drop the purchase plans.

Sleepwear dangers cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the fire retardant Tris is now off the market, its replacement, Fyrol FR-2, might be next. Critics say the two chemicals are equally dangerous. The Consumer Product Safety Commission told a House Commerce subcommittee on Monday that the agency is testing Fyrol FR-2 to determine whether it is linked to cancer. Tris was removed from the market because of such a link. Fyrol FR-2, like Tris, is a flame retardant used in children's sleepwear and other garments. Commission Chairman S. John Binyington, under criticism by two committee members about lack of action so far on Fyrol FR-2, said the commission could publish a proposed standard for the chemical as early as next week. Rep. Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., suggested the commission declare the chemical an "imminent hazard" and order all garments treated with it off the market. Several commissioners said more testing is necessary before such a step can be made. Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., noted that the manufacturer of Fyrol FR-2 had enough doubt about the chemical to stop making it.

Several crimes cleared with four arrests

Steve McFarland of the Coahoma police department and two Howard County deputies have cleared four burglaries, six breaking-and-entering offenses and numerous thefts with the detention of four juveniles. According to Sheriff A.N. Standard, the investigation began with the breaking and entering at the Coahoma high school over the weekend, when drapes valued at $2,000 were slashed. The investigation, handled by McFarland and deputy Frank Corey, grew to include four juveniles, 15- and 16-year old, who were picked up over the weekend. They gave statements, according to the Sheriff, which led to the clearance of the crimes. Cleared incidents include two burglaries at the Breaker 19 Cafe, one at Carl Gray's car lot, one at the Sand Spring's car wash, six break-ins at the junior high and high school, and numerous thefts from Clawson's Lumber and Sand Springs Building Supplies. Items recovered include stop watches, knives, calculators, and currency. According to juvenile officer Ed Cherry, restitution in the amount of $2,460 will be made.

Hunt pressed for aircraft

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — An aerial search for a private aircraft with seven persons aboard believed to have crashed near the Four Corners area was to resume today, officials said. A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration's flight service station in Salt Lake City said searchers failed to turn up any sign of the missing Piper Cherokee 6 on Monday. The plane was reported missing Friday after leaving Farmington, N.M. bound for Salt Lake City. Officials said the flight originated in Houston and that the seven on board were to attend the semiannual general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) that ended Sunday in Salt Lake City.

TV murder trial defendant

MIAMI (AP) — Ronny Zamora, the television murder trial defendant, liked the Superman show so much as a child that he asked permission to leap from a window, the boy's mother testified. "He was just crazy about Superman," Yolanda Zamora testified Monday. "He would wrap a towel around his neck and ask my husband to open the window so he could jump out. 'To him, watching television was the greatest thing in the world. It was like a gift to him. The way he learned English, actually, was watching TV.' Mrs. Zamora was the major witness as defense lawyer Ellis Rubin began trying to prove that a decade of viewing televised violence left Zamora, 15, unable to tell right from wrong. The mother's testimony was to continue today. Zamora and Darrell Agrella, 14, are charged with first-degree murder in the June 4 shooting of Elinor Haggart, 83, in her Miami Beach home. Agrella is to be tried separately. Mrs. Zamora said she first

Researcher paints rosy picture

THE WOODLANDS, Tex. (AP) — Herman Kahn, director of the Hudson Institute in New York, said Monday night that environmentalists have become a private religion and "I don't associate with them anymore because I don't like the company I kept."

Kahn, speaking at a world conference on the future needs of society, said ecologists should be given a book whereby they have a list of 10,000 species to save and "let them save them and leave the rest of the world alone."

The researcher painted a rosy picture for the next 200 years, with predictions of enough food to feed the world's population and a forecast "that we are not running out of fossil fuels. We have a hell of a lot of fossil fuels left."

Challenging Kahn's picture of the future were Dr. Mihajlo Mesarovic and Dr. Barry Hughes of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland.

"It is time to separate the serious from the silly. We have been on a binge of emotion and a drought of common sense."

The congressman also had some harsh words for certain environmental projects, especially the clean water program, which, he said, "is falling far short of performing the goals set by Congress, even though the money has been available. The program has simply choked on its own red tape."

Wright said, "The people who stood in the way of the bulldozers and otherwise tried to block construction of nuclear power plants are well motivated. They believe what they are doing is in the best interest of society."

"But recent scientific studies indicate that the accumulation of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, brought about mainly through the burning of fossil fuels, poses a far more serious environmental risk to the earth than we face in the operation of nuclear power plants."

There also is a great need, Wright said, for more and more persons to return to the land to produce their own food "and to regain the qualities of self-reliance which are essential to human well-being. The abandonment of small farms and the growth of corporate farming on a massive scale has forced a migration of people from rural to urban areas. "This has caused almost every social problem from environmental pollution to crime to unemployment to human incivility and become a challenge to even the capacity of a people to govern themselves. Means can and must be found to solve these basic problems, which are central to the future of free societies."

Well blows wild again

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A natural gas well in the Gulf of Mexico was blowing wild again today after briefly sealing itself and extinguishing the fire that heavily damaged a $20 million drilling platform.

A U.S. Geological Survey spokesman said shifting sand apparently caused the one-hour cutoff Monday. That was enough to snuff the flame that had been spewing high above the rig Rowan Odessa before the hole reopened.

Another spark could ignite the fumes again any moment, so troubleshooters kept their distance.

Fireboats sprayed water to cool the rig while representatives of Transco Exploration Co., Rowan Industries Inc. of Houston, Tex., and wild-well experts from the Red Adair firm monitored the situation from half a mile away.

The well blew out last Saturday. However, some 70 men aboard the Rowan Odessa already had been evacuated.

They were taken off when the drill bit into a strata of gas at 14,600 feet on Sept. 23. When the high pressure gas hit the hole, automatic blowout preventers snapped shut. But highly explosive gas continued to leak out, forcing the emergency evacuation.

Another Rowan jackup drilling rig, the $22 million Juneau, was moved to a site half a mile away and began drilling a killer well — one that would intersect the wild well and enable drillers to control the wild hole with heavy mud and other means.

The wild well is about six miles off the coast of Louisiana and 60 miles southwest of Lafayette, in water 25 feet deep.

They said a new statistical analysis tool they had developed showed that the world could face great famines by the year 2000 and steep increases in the price of food.

Hughes, in an interview, said, "We are concerned with unemployment from 6 to 10 per cent and that would be a disaster, regardless of what Dr. Kahn says. We are faced with a per capita income in this nation dropping from $6,000 to $3,000 and that would be disaster. This could mean an end to our system. And an end to our present freedom."

Mesarovic said the one major goal today "is to find a way to live in global harmony with population control a necessity along with the prevention of a lowering of any standards of living."

In an earlier presentation during the conference, attended by representatives of 30 nations, Jerome Weingart of the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis, Laxenburg, Austria, said the biggest effort in the development of solar energy is now directed at space heating.

Weingart, a native of California, said full development of solar energy could produce 50 trillion watts of energy, an amount sufficient to completely power the world 100 years from now.

The scientist envisions using solar collectors in the desert regions of the world to generate heat and then use this to produce hydrogen or other forms of energy.

Kahn's attack on the environmental movement was the second of the day. The first was made by U.S. House Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Tex.

Wright said the environmental movement "has taken on some of the foolish aspects of a fad and a great deal of mischief has been done in the process."

Cold showers in Crystal City

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — The Crystal City High School football team has not begrudged the spell of hot weather that gripped South Texas until late September.

The town of 8,000 residents had its natural gas supply turned off Sept. 23 in a dispute with its gas supplier over back fuel charges.

While many residents of the town are concerned about its having another worry.

Cold showers. The Javelins players have another worry.

Cold showers. The Javelins played just one home game last month but a cold shower after rolling around in full uniform in 90-degree weather is a welcome relief.

However, the same couldn't be said should a bone norther whistle through the little town. Cold showers and 40-degree temperatures don't mix real well.

"We have had a few complaints about the cold showers so far," said Coach Larry Waters. "But it really has not affected the guys."

"I told the players we can't worry about so. We can find any number of excuses for poor per play football. We can find any number of excuses for poor performance," he said.

The Javelins are 1-4 after dropping a 57-6 decision last Friday night to Kerrville Tivy. A cold shower was the least of the team's problems.

Waters said the lack of gas would not force the school to move its three remaining home games, since the football stadium's lights are electric.

The team has home games — and cold showers — scheduled this Friday, then Oct. 14 and Oct. 28.

"To be honest, I really don't know what is happening with the gas deal," Waters said Monday. "It's not in my hands. Like I told the players, we can't let these things get to us."

AF to boot homosexual

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — An Air Force sergeant says the Air Force has told him he will be discharged against his will because he is a homosexual.

Sgt. Robert McKee, 24, a native of Long Beach, Calif., and a veteran of more than four years in the Air Force stationed at nearby Carswell Air Force Base, said a four-officer board reviewed his case after he told his commanding officer he was a homosexual. He said the board told him he would get an honorable discharge within the next two weeks.

"I just got tired of hiding it. I thought it would be better to be out in the open," said McKee, a television equipment repairman whose job involved the maintenance and repair of Carswell's closed circuit television system.

McKee said he revealed his homosexuality seven months ago to his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Clyde Picht.

Picht said Sunday he could not comment on the case because of his role in it and because there might be future litigation.

McKee said that at no time during the examination by the special four-officer board was his ability to do his questioned.

McKee said he will accept the Air Force's decision and will not take the case to civilian courts.

Concert season beginning

One of the things that most amazed me about Big Spring was that this small community had a concert season.

That a town of 30,000 people so far off the regular metropolitan show circuit could attract and support four of five professional musical events of national caliber each year was astounding.

The organization that accomplishes this feat for our town is the Big Spring Community Center Assn.

THIS SEASON, the association will bring four major events to Municipal Auditorium. They are:

—Nov. 14: The New DeComier Singers

—Jan. 16: West Side Story with the

MRS. J.W. KUYKENDALL

Young Americans

—Feb. 16: Peanuts Hucko, king of the clarinet, and his Jazz Five.

—April 8: Duo pianists Grant and Winn.

Imagine, a fully staged production of the famous "West Side Story" done by a nationally famous touring group coming to Big Spring.

That the concert association was able to arrange such a feature as this popular Broadway musical is quite an achievement.

The concert group is conducting its annual membership drive this week, so this is the time when Big Spring citizens can obtain their seat at the four musical events.

A membership (season ticket) is only $12 for adults and $6 for students. It also entitles the holder to see four concerts in Midland under a reciprocal agreement between the two towns.

That's eight concerts for $12, or $1.50 each for an adult. That's an entertainment bargain that no person who appreciates music could afford to pass up.

MRS. J.W. Kuykendall, president and campaign manager for the association, says that the group hopes to sell 1,200 memberships, which would be a sell-out of all but the balcony in Municipal Auditorium.

She says volunteers will be at the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. all this week to sell tickets.

The concert association enriches the life of our community. It deserves our support—not just because it is there, but because it brings top talent to Big Spring at incredibly reasonable prices.

You can sue

Around the rim

Troy Bryant

Did your landlord keep your $100 deposit even though you left his house in better shape than it was in when you rented it?

Did you buy a new lawn mower, only to have it break down immediately and the store refuses to refund your money?

Did the neighbor kid work over your car's paint with a screw driver, but you can't get him to pay for the damage?

What can you do? You may want to file a suit in small claims court.

A small claims court is a court which is a judicial forum to hear and decide civil cases involving claims for money only in amounts of $150 or less or $200 in cases of wage disputes.

The best part about the small claims court, though, is that you can do it all yourself. No lawyers need to get involved.

Of course, if more than $150 is involved, it still may be best to lower your claim to that amount in order to use the court.

Anybody over 18 who is not engaged in the business of lending money at interest or functioning as a collection agency can use the court fees amount to less than $20.

Before you decide to run down to the Justice of the Peace office and file suit against someone, here are a few items to go over:

—Analyze the nature and cost of the wrong. If property is damaged, determine what it will cost to fix it. Remember that the small claims court deals only in money. It can't make someone do anything or refrain from doing anything.

—Call the person responsible for the wrong and try to settle the dispute. Don't gripe, just ask the person or establishment to compensate you for the wrong you feel they have done you.

—If you get no results, write a letter outlining your complaint and again ask for compensation. Also give a reasonable period of time for reply and state that you will file suit in the proper court after that time period has expired.

—Analyze the position of the person you have a claim against. Even if you win the case, will he be able to pay the amount?

Write down a statement which you feel is the main contention between you and the party you are suing. You will have the burden of proving this statement. Gather all documents you which have a bearing on the statement of the dispute. Determine if there were any first-hand witnesses to the occurrence who can come to court with you and help tell your story.

—Pay a visit to the Justice of the Peace and file your suit. He will keep you posted on what happens next.

Many times, all it takes is for the suit to be filed before the wrong is righted.

Recently a landlord here in Big Spring held on to a renter's deposit despite the fact the property was left in good shape. He refused to return it.

The renter went to the Justice of the Peace one morning and paid $10 or so for a filing fee.

Before the day was out, the renter had his deposit back.

Of course, the small claims court is not the answer for every dispute, but it has its place. It also does not always end so quickly. Sometimes the case goes to trial either before the judge or a jury and even then the decision can be appealed to the county court if the claims is for more than $20.

So, don't take that dispute without a fight—use the small claims court.

Same old Carter

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — A recurrent cause of trouble not only for his energy program but for his presidency surfaced again over the Sept. 24-25 weekend when President Carter personally alerted surprised energy officials that he was "going public" to save his bill in the Senate.

There is no evidence that any official in the Energy Department objected. But after President Carter entered the White House press room in Sept. 26 to blame "special interests"—that is, big oil and its Senate allies—for dismemberment of his energy bill, the department spread the word across Capitol Hill that it had no part in the attack.

It was in fact pure Jimmy Carter—evidence that in some respects he has changed very little after eight months in the office. The President is still inclined to moralize on issues that, far from being moral, are matters of practical politics and to appeal directly to the voters whenever he runs into trouble in Congress. The anger on Capitol Hill generated by Mr. Carter's outburst promises deepening trouble ahead when his ambitious legislative program encounters inevitable obstacles.

Even some administration officials admit that it was no high-pressure lobbying campaign by the oil and gas industry that delivered multiple wounds to the energy program. Only a handful of the industry's giants, led by Gulf and Mobil, have pressed hard against the Carter program—a mere shadow of massive oil lobbying in the past years. Indeed, consumer and labor lobbyists were more effective in sabotaging the oil equalization tax.

The Senate disaster grew from a combination of factors: deepening public unrest with government regulation; fading public support for the Carter program; failure to devise a Senate strategy after Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill guided the program through the House so easily.

Both friends and foes of the program use a harsh word to describe a basic source of the problem: incompetence. A case in point was the oil equalization tax. Shortly after Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to discuss compromises, Assistant Treasury Laurence Woodworth proposed a different approach. When Woodworth left the room, Assistant Energy Secretary Al Alm popped up with still a third version.

In this case, the President used a technique he often employed as governor of Georgia: lumping his opponents with "special interests." It was the decision of Mr. Carter, not of his congressional lobbyists or his Energy Department. But Dr. Schlesinger, himself hostile to big oil, approved it.

Other administration officials did not at all approve. "If you make the same appeal against special interests too many times," one told us, "it begins to lose all effect." Other officials saw inconsistency in the President attacking the industry for raising the cost of energy when his own program does exactly the same thing.

Knowing from experience that the President could not be moved, officials confined their activities to toning down Mr. Carter's language. Names of individual Senators and oil companies were removed from the statement.

The President need not have pushed the panic button. The energy bill, though in disarray, is far from dead. At this writing, it seems the Senate may pass a natural gas deregulation bill, but the Senate-House conference will surely find a compromise setting a higher regulated price.

Post—coronary personality change expected

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please explain what happens to a person who has had a major heart attack. Before he was devoted, lovable, and understanding. Now, he thinks only of himself, can do no wrong. Is there any hope for him ever returning to his old self, or is there anything that can be done for him?—H.J.

A book I read recently on this subject contains this wise statement: "The trouble occurs in a heart, but the heart is in a human being, and the human being lives in a family."

So emotions play an important role in the heart-attack victim's immediate future. Many feel they are already a burden on their family and will continue to be so. They may react defensively. Of course, we know that today most heart attack victims return to activity and most can resume their former occupations. Education is important. The person you describe may not know the facts of the matter in this regard.

I suspect he is going through the initial stages of recovery, when all of his fears and irritations are at their highest level. It is at this time that he needs family support and understanding, no matter how ornery he may seem to be. Anxiety and depression are common sequelae to heart attacks. His physician may be able to give him more assurance.

As soon as recovery becomes a real thing to him, all of these unrealistic fears will vanish. Once he's assured that the physical problem has been handled successfully, he should return to his own congenial self. You can almost bet on it. My booklet, "How to Take Care of Your Heart," is directed to both heart-attack victim and to those with undamaged "pumps." For a copy, send a quarter and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What's the difference between dry and moist heat for aching muscles? Are there moist heat pads available? What is the best method for using heating pads, not water bottles, ect?—M.M.

Moist heat is generally regarded as most effective for aching joints, although I must admit I cannot explain why one kind would be better than another. Heat is heat, and the muscles should respond to either variety. A hot tub bath is a good way of delivering moist heat. A hot, wet towel, is fine, also. There are heating pads that provide moist heat. With one the heat is controlled by a switch held in the hand. If the user falls asleep, his grip on the switch relaxes, turning off the heat.

A hot water bottle can deliver either dry heat or keep a moist compress warm. Fill the water bag two-thirds. Then fold the top to expel the air before putting on the stopper. You can wrap a thin towel around the bag for comfort.

I personally prefer the hot water bag over the heating pads from a safety standpoint. The main advantage is that they cool down gradually. But I know that as far as convenience is concerned the electric pads are better.

Persons with faulty circulation should beware of long exposure to any heat. I'm thinking, for example, of those with poor leg circulation. Diabetics should be especially careful, since nerve disturbance in the extremities may similarly take away the warning sensation of pain others would get with skins burns.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

A no-frills trip

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — President Carter intends to embark on an 11-day trip to eight countries on four continents in late November. Some people are accusing the President of trying to get into the "Guinness Book of Records." But Zbigniew Brzezinski, Mr. Carter's National Security Advisor, insists that the trip makes sense and will enhance American foreign policy with countries that are playing an increasingly important role in world affairs.

There is another theory as to why the President is going to all these places and, while I couldn't pin it down, it makes more sense than the one advanced by Mr. Brzezinski.

It seems the President only wanted to go to Brussels, but since he is so conscious about costs he had to include the other countries in his itinerary.

Rumor has it that Andy Young, the ambassador to the U.N., came into the President's office and said, "I have good news for you, Mr. President. Under the new 'no-frills airline rates' you can fly to Brussels for $145."

"That sounds great Andy," the President said.

"All you have to do is show up at the airport six hours in advance and be listed on standby."

"That seems reasonable," the President said.

"If the plane isn't full up you get a seat and fly to Caracas, Venezuela."

"That seems to be a weird way of going to Brussels."

"You have to stay 24 hours in Caracas and then fly to Brasilia in Brazil and remain there for 24 hours more."

"And then go to Brussels?" the President asked.

"No, then fly to Lagos, Nigeria, for a 72-hour layover," Andy said.

"All this for $145?" the President said.

"It's a fantastic bargain," Andy told Mr. Carter. "From Nigeria the plane goes to New Delhi for a 48-hour refueling stop."

"And from there it's on to Brussels?"

"Not exactly. You then fly to Tehran for lunch."

"Does the airline provide me with lunch?"

"Not under the 'no-frills plan.' But the Shah of Iran will give you lunch in Tehran because he wants to encourage 'no-frills' airliners to land in his country."

"What date will that be?"

"November 29th."

"Will they be showing the same movie on the entire flight?" the President wanted to know.

"They don't say in their ads, but if you want to see a movie you'll have to pay $3.50 extra."

"We better scrub the movie," the President said. "I'd rather have the $3.50 to spend in Brussels."

"You won't be going to Brussels after Tehran. To get the benefit of the $145 fare you have to fly to Paris first."

"It could be worse," the President said. "They could have taken me to Poland."

Andy looked embarrassed. "They are taking you to Poland. But it will only be for 24 hours. They have to drop off several people in Warsaw."

"It sounds like a long flight."

"Frankly, I don't know how they can do it for $145, but the regular fare is $395 with taxes so we're saving $250. Now on December 2nd you arrive in Brussels, but you can only stay for 24 hours."

"I would think that's enough time. Then I go back to Washington?" the President asked.

"There's no guarantee you can leave the next morning, you have to go back on standby for the return flight. But I was told that at that time of the year you won't have any trouble getting on the plane."

"And that's the cheapest way I can go to Brussels?"

"I've checked out all the other charter planes and this is not only the least expensive but also the fastest way to get there."

"You did a good job, and every taxpayer in America is proud of you."

Free spying info

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Not long ago, the General Services Administration cheerfully supplied the Soviet embassy with an "Inventory and Summary" of some of the Pentagon's most sensitive computer locations. The obliging GSA volunteered, in the spirit of détente, that its staff would be "happy to assist you if there are any questions." No doubt the Soviets are curious about the Secret computers, which track ship movements on the high seas and provide the Joint Chiefs with critical information about major weapons systems.

Some experts fear that the computer sites lack adequate controls and that top-secret messages might be intercepted. As early as 1974, the Systems Development Corporation warned that the computers "contain security deficiencies" and that the "entire system is vulnerable."

Our investigation has established, in fact, that various federal agencies' furnish the Soviets with a massive cordial cooperation of the U.S. government.

Through this mass espionage effort, the Soviets dredge up tons of raw information. "I would guess 90 percent of it is worthless," one U.S. official told us. "But it's the remaining 10 percent that worries us." Here's how it works: The two governments have agreed to exchange "official" publications. Each year, the United States delivers between 10,000 and 12,000 government documents to the Lenin State Library, however, that neither side regards as sensitive. But the Soviets also receive from Washington a monthly master list of all nonclassified documents that the federal government publishes. Some contain details that would be classified in any other country, such as the location of the computer terminals.

The master list is indexed so the Soviet can easily determine which additional publication might contain valuable information. Soviet agents may purchase these directly or use surrogates to allay suspicion. Here are a few incidents we have uncovered:

—Two Soviet officials made separate approaches recently to the Office of Technology Assessment for a report on nuclear proliferation. They also asked to be put on the mailing list. Now all this office's reports are delivered to the Soviet embassy by the mailman.

—Czechoslovakia and Hungary quietly signed up for 10,000 selective reports each year from the National Technical Information Service. The two countries are completely under Soviet domination; both were put on the mailing list.

—Soviet representatives arraged with the Geological Survey Office to send detailed maps, surveys, geological data and other information to "academies" and "institutes" in Moscow. The agency happily complied.

—Soviets receive the official Patent Gazette, a weekly publication, which lists all the new patents granted by the government. Agents can pick up the specific patents that interest them.

The locations of the computer sites were listed in an obscure publication entitled "Inventory and Summary of Federal ADP Activities." But the document wasn't so obscure that the Soviets missed it. The General Services Administration received a polite letter from the Soviet embassy.

"I shall appreciate it very much," wrote an embassy official, "if you can spare a copy of your recent publication, 'Inventory and Summary of Federal ADP Activities.' Thanking you in advance for your cooperation." The sensitive document was mailed to the embassy with an accompanying "happy to assist" letter.

The General Accounting Office, meanwhile, warned the Pentagon in 1975 and again in 1976 that the security of this computer system was inadequate. This caused Reps. John Moss, D-Calif., and Charles Rose, D-N.C., to question the Pentagon about the security problems.

Moss received a private, reassuring letter from Lt. Gen. Lee Paschall, the defense communications director, stating: "I believe that the sensitive information stored and processed in these systems is secure from unauthorized disclosures or misuse as a result of extensive physical and environmental controls employed."

Unimpressed, Moss scribbled a note to his top investigator on Paschall letter, declaring: "This general has got to be kidding. This is a polite, but not smart, brush off."

Moss is concerned that an enemy could intercept a top-secret message while it is being transmitted from one computer to another. He is also worried that anyone with access to the computer terminals could be bribed or blackmailed into turning over information to an enemy. But General Paschall also assured us in a telephone interview that all communications links are secured with cryptographic equipment.

My answer

Billy Graham

*DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Sometimes I am overwhelmed with the feeling of God does not exist, and I get depressed and almost ill. Can you help me in any way?—M.A.C.

DEAR M.A.C.: Very frankly, if God did not exist we would have every right to be filled with despair. If there was no God, no amount of false courage could hide the fact that life would be utterly meaningless.

But the Bible says God does exist. Furthermore, He loves us and wants us to be His children. How do we know this? We do not know it just through our intellectual reasoning. We do not know it just through our feelings and convictions. We know it because God has revealed Himself to us. We know it because God came down in the form of man—Jesus Christ. We know this is the truth, because Jesus Christ rose again from the dead.

No, you need not despair. Turn to the Gospel of John and ask God to show you through His pages that He exists, and that He loves you. When you come to know Jesus Christ as your lord and Saviour, depression will be replaced by joy. Despair will be replaced by hope.

Police beat School burglary foiled

The arrival of patrolmen foiled a burglary in progress at Marcy Elementary School, Eleventh and Owens, 7 p.m. Monday.

According to reports, the intruders entered through a window on the north side of the building, and left mud on a classroom window sill while making their exit. Several windows were broken, but an inventory of all that is missing or damaged has not yet been completed.

Burglars entered the home of Carl Dugger, 1212 Mulberry, sometime between 2 p.m. Thursday and 10:30 p.m. Monday. The intruders stole a fish bowl, valued at $50, and damaged a typewriter, nine eight-track tapes and a pair of shoes. Total loss was estimated at $150.

A witness saw two men remove a 14-foot by 10-foot gold colored carpet from the office of Berkley Homes Inc., Eleventh and FM 700, 4:33 p.m. Monday. The rug lifters put the carpet into the bed of an old, blue pickup and drove away. Loss was estimated at $80.

Burglars entered the home of J.T. Myrick, 709 Anna, sometime between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday. Stolen were a desk telephone, a transistor radio and a stuffed, toy dog. The items were valued at $60.

Vandals broke the rear window of a car belonging to C.D. Hitt, 1301 Pennsylvania, sometime between 5:30 and 7 p.m. Sunday, while the auto sat in Hitt's garage. Damage was estimated at $129.30.

Algerians holding five skyjackers, $6 million

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The Algerian government held five Japanese Red Army hijackers, their $6 million ransom and six comrades today while their last freed hostages waited to complete their journey interrupted by the hijacking of a Japanese airliner six days ago.

The terrorists freed the 12 passengers and seven crew members and walked out of the hijacked Japan Air Lines DC8 jet with their hands up about two hours after it landed here Monday, ending a 5,000-mile journey without loss of life.

Officials said the hostages, who stepped off the aircraft ahead of the terrorists, were relaxed and smiled as they boarded an airport bus to hotels in Algiers. A Japanese spokesman said they were "in very good condition."

The only American among them, State Department employe Thomas Phelan, 29, of San Francisco, was "well but tired, with digestive problems resulting from irregular meals," U.S. diplomatic sources said.

Algerian officials refused to say what would become of the 11 Japanese terrorists, who were driven away in official vehicles, or the $6 million.

In the past the Algerian government has held hijackers for a few days, then sent them to another country without making any announcement. It has confiscated ransom moneys and returned them to the governments that paid them.

A special JAL jet was due here today to pick up hostages who wanted to finish their Paris-to-Tokyo flight. Besides Phelan, one was Indonesian and the rest Japanese.

The hijacking occurred Wednesday after the terrorists apparently boarded the airliner in Bombay with concealed automatic weapons, hand grenades and plastic explosives. There were 156 persons aboard. The hijackers forced the pilot to land in Dacca, Bangladesh, and held the plane there until Sunday when the Japanese government delivered the money and six terrorists from Japanese prisons.

Paintings recovered

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Nine art works, valued collectively at about $200,000, have been recovered and returned to the McNay Art Institute here where they had been stolen in two burglaries earlier this year.

The works — five by French Impressionist Pierre Auguste Renoir and four by Spanish abstractionist Pablo Picasso — were taken during break-ins Feb. 19 and Aug. 15.

"All the works were returned to the museum in undamaged condition," said McNay Director John Palmer Leeper. However, because of a continuing investigation by police and the FBI, Leeper would comment no further Monday.

The manner in which the art works were recovered was not disclosed and the FBI would not comment on the case.

Police had said the two burglaries earlier this year were similar in method.

Finley ordered to pay, pay, pay

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has been ordered to pay his estranged wife $50,000 in additional attorneys fees.

The ruling Monday by the Indiana Court of Appeals is the latest action in a divorce suit filed by Shirley M. Finley in 1974.

The court upheld the decision of the Porter Superior Court, which ordered Finley to pay $50,000 in legal fees in addition to the $17,000 he already has paid. It also ordered him to pay for an audit of his family-owned business, Charles O. Finley & Co. Inc.

Finley owns 31 per cent of the firm; Mrs. Finley owns 29 per cent and each of their four children owns 10 per cent.

Finley currently pays his wife $1,250 a week in support.

Banker Thornton quits ABC post

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — R. L. Thornton Jr., an outspoken Dallas banker, has quietly resigned as a member of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

He submitted his resignation to Gov. Dolph Briscoe in a one-paragraph letter that gave no reasons on Aug. 15. But it didn't come to light until this week.

George Lowrance, the governor's appointments secretary, said Briscoe has several names under consideration for a new commissioner.

Thornton's unexpired term, however, would normally come to an end Nov. 15.

Thornton said more than a year ago he was mulling the idea of resigning in protest to what he called the forced resignation of Luke Robinson as administrator of the ABC.

Robinson resigned on June 28, 1976, "due to dissension in the Alcoholic Beverage Commission."

The following day, Thornton said fellow commissioners Tom Gordon of Abilene and Ed Harlee of San Antonio had bowed to outside pressure in forcing the resignation. Robinson had angered a number of dealers in San Antonio and elsewhere with his rigid enforcement of liquor laws.

Paradoxically, it was unrelenting pressure from Thornton that forced the resignation in 1974 of ABC Administrator O. N. Humphreys.

Thornton criticized Humphreys on several public occasions and finally swung the second vote he needed for dismissal, that of Joe Burkett of Kerrville.

Heroin trial in second day

STANTON — A trial of David (Bubba) Young, 26, charged with the sale of heroin in February went into its second day before Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court.

Rick Hamby, district attorney, put two witnesses on the stand for the prosecution Monday.

They included Al Gonzalez, an undercover narcotics officer from San Angelo and David Legg, chemist from Midland.

The jury, which included 11 men and one woman, was selected by 1 p.m. in Martin County, over 75 of the 100-venue jury reported for duty Monday.

The sale apparently involved "34 papers of heroin," Gonzalez was returned to the stand by the prosecution this morning. Tom Hirsch, Odessa, attorney for the defense, was to begin his presentation before noon today.

Mel Prather, co-chairman of the Big Spring Arts and Crafts Festival Committee, said today that he meant to say in Monday's issue of the Big Spring Herald that the entry deadline for the coming festival was postponed by one week because of delays in the paper stock arriving to the printer and not because there was any delay in the printing itself.

Garza will begin serving two concurrent eight-year terms for burglary of a habitation. He was sentenced August 26.

Williams will begin serving a five-year term for burglary. He was sentenced Wednesday.

Juarez will begin serving a 20-year term for attempted murder. He was sentenced Thursday.

"Texas Electric must spend $243 million for new construction this year alone.

"By far the biggest percentage of electricity you use today is made in plants that use natural gas for fuel.

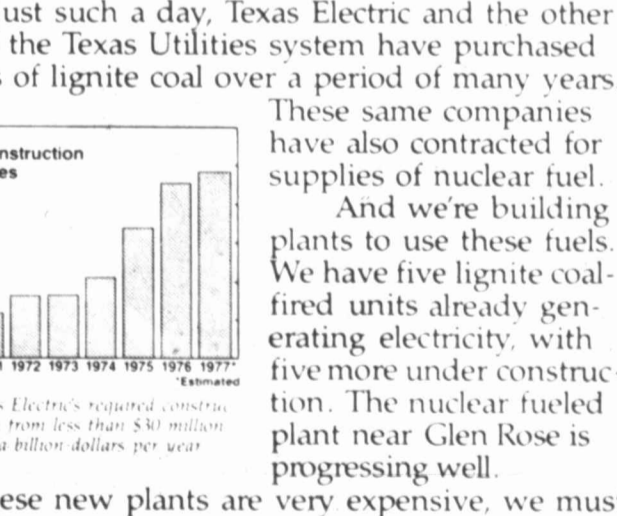

Most of this is gas we contracted for many years ago when it was very cheap. But these contracts will expire soon.

Against just such a day, Texas Electric and the other companies in the Texas Utilities system have purchased large supplies of lignite coal over a period of many years.

These same companies have also contracted for supplies of nuclear fuel.

And we're building plants to use these fuels. We have five lignite coal-fired units already generating electricity, with five more under construction. The nuclear fueled plant near Glen Rose is progressing well.

Haldeman repentant, Mitchell is 'truly sorry'

Watergate trio should be freed from pen now?

WASHINGTON (AP) — H.R. Haldeman is repentant. John D. Ehrlichman has "demonstrated continuing contrition." John N. Mitchell is "truly sorry."

Their lawyers argued before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today that for those reasons, and others, the three men should be released from prison now.

Each man was close to Richard M. Nixon when he was president. Each was among the most powerful men in the first Nixon administration. Each is serving at least 2 1/2 years in prison for multiple criminal acts in the Watergate coverup.

Ehrlichman, 52, will have served a year of that sentence on Oct. 28 at the federal prison camp at Safford, Ariz. Haldeman, who will be 51 later this month, entered prison at Lompoc, Calif. on June 21. Mitchell, 64, became a prisoner at the Maxwell Air Force Base facility in Alabama the next day.

They are the last Watergate figures still in prison. Haldeman, chief of staff in the Nixon White House, and Ehrlichman, the domestic counselor, asked that their sentences be cut to time served. Mitchell asked only a reduction of his sentence.

Sirica has granted similar pleas in the past for such Watergate figures as John Dean, Herbert W. Kalmbach, James W. McCord Jr. and Jeb Stuart Magruder. He has said that a necessary ingredient of such leniency is contrition, a thread that ran through the petitions filed by the three convicts' attorneys.

Ehrlichman's lawyers pleaded that he has been disbarred, is hundreds of thousands of dollars in debt, is in danger of losing family ties and has been punished enough. They said all the money he received for his novel "The Company" and the television series that it spawned had gone to satisfy lawyers fees. All three of the convicted men made similar references to being impoverished by the Watergate scandal.

Like Haldeman, Ehrlichman mentioned the pardon granted to Nixon, speaking in his petition of "the ironies of serving a superior who is later pardoned." Haldeman's petition said Nixon had made clear in his television interviews "that he was the principal actor in the obstruction of justice in 1972 and 1973."

The former attorney general said he also needs a replacement hip and that he suffers from an enlarged heart. Mitchell made no mention of Nixon, who remains his friend. But his petition noted that since his sentencing he has become a widower and that his 15-year-old daughter, Martha, has been "the principal victim of these events."

GOEHRING IS STILL TRYING TO FLY — Seventy-two year old Clyde "Daring" Goehring at San Diego's Palomar Airport has lost his bid to claim the $87,500 prize offered by a British industrialist for the first person to fly under his own power. But Goehring says he'll continue his 14-year quest to get into the air on his own. He said Monday he hopes to take off in a month or two.

Left ear mailed to parents

Kidnaped student rescued

By The Associated Press

Italian police rescued a kidnaped university student today, but not before his abductors mailed part of the man's left ear to his family to underline their demand for a $1.2 million ransom. The grisly message recalled the tactic used by kidnapers of a Getty family heir in 1973.

Swiss and Italian police, meanwhile, reported no progress in the kidnappings of the 5-year-old grand-niece of a Bolivian tin magnate or the 4-year-old grandson of an Italian industrialist.

Giuseppe Luppino, 21, son of a wealthy landowner, was freed at dawn by a squad of police who broke into an isolated hut where he was being held near the southern Italian town of Reggio Calabria.

Police said six persons were arrested in the raid. A police spokesman said Luppino broke into tears when his rescuers appeared. The spokesman quoted him as telling police the kidnapers had mutilated part of his ear several days ago, after beating him almost unconscious and using a small amount of anesthetic.

Police said the family had paid the kidnapers $600,000. A spokesman said the victim's ear was dispatched to extort additional money from the family.

The kidnapers of J. Paul Getty III, grandson of the later oil billionaire, sent the youth's right ear to Italian newspapers to press their demands for a $2.5 million ransom. Getty was held for five months in the Calabria region before the ransom was paid and he was freed. Two men were convicted and imprisoned in that abduction.

In Geneva, Swiss police said the family of 5-year-old Graziella Ortiz has received no word of ransom demands from the kidnapers who snatched the child Monday outside the family's suburban Geneva home.

Graziella's parents broadcast a plea Monday night for their daughter's safety. Her father, George Ortiz, appealed to reporters today to "please leave us alone, we want to save our daughter's life."

The child's millionaire father is the nephew of tin magnate Antenor Patino. Patino, 82, is the son of the late Bolivian tycoon Simon Patino, who founded a tin mining empire later nationalized by the Bolivian government.

In Turin, Italian police said a caller has told the family of 4-year-old Giorgio Garbero that the boy was unhurt after being abducted Monday from his home. But a spokesman said the caller made no ransom demand.

Giorgio is the grandson of industrialist Orfeo Pianelli, president of an Italian major league soccer club. Pianelli appealed today for media silence on the case to avoid any interference in efforts to free the child, Italy's 57th kidnap victim so far this year.

Hughes Tool workers return to picket line

HOUSTON (AP) — Striking Hughes Tool Company steelworkers returned to the picket line today as the plant entered its second day of operations since shutting down Sept. 18.

About 700 strikers showed up at the plant Monday when the plant opened for the first time since the strike began.

A Hughes official said some new employees were hired last week and others were interviewed for jobs Monday, despite the pickets. The new workers are not primarily to replace strikers, the spokesman said, but to fill about 300 existing vacancies.

About 24 police cars and a police helicopter were in the area Monday to oversee the pickets.

The mass pickets were dispersed following an order by W.R. Morris, president of the United Steelworkers Local 1742. Morris said the strikers had shown their solidarity by turning out in such force.

Supreme Court making key decisions by doing nothing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court can make important decisions by deciding to do nothing, as it demonstrated on the first day of its new term.

Handing down 40 pages of orders Monday, justices dealt important setbacks to the gay liberation movement and to Richard M. Nixon and gave a significant victory to supporters of school integration. In all three cases it refused to review a lower court decision.

The court let stand rulings by state courts in Washington that employers may fire homosexuals from their jobs solely because of their sexual preference. The Washington courts ruled in the case of former Tacoma schoolteacher James Gaylor that homosexuals are "immoral" and cannot expect the Constitution to provide a right to be gay.

The legal controversy surrounding Richard Nixon's White House tapes reached the nation's highest court for the fourth time in three years. The justices ruled in effect, again by deciding to do nothing, that the 880 reels of tape may be released for use in civil suits. A lower federal court has made the same finding.

In a third case, the high court let stand a federal judge's racial desegregation order requiring the busing of students throughout 11 school districts in the Wilmington, Del. area. That action is significant because it shows a majority of the justices feel multi-district remedies to racial discrimination in schools are legitimate.

Keeping tabs on space junk

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Twenty years ago today the Soviet Union hurled a 185-pound aluminum ball into space, and mankind's first satellite orbited the Earth.

It stayed there three months before being pulled back into the Earth's atmosphere. Now, there are 4,472 objects in space large enough to be detected and tracked.

The North American Air Defense Command estimates that figure could climb to more than 19,000 by the start of the next century. The command keeps tabs on what amounts to a man-made traffic jam circling in space.

Since Sputnik 1 was launched, more than 10,000 space objects — instrumented payloads, rocket motors and debris fragments — have been detected and catalogued by observers at the command's underground Space Defense Center in Cheyenne Mountain, west of Colorado Springs.

Included in the count are the 4,472 objects still out there and another 5,906 that have "deorbited," or disintegrated after coming back into the Earth's atmosphere.

Analysts at the air defense command's headquarters estimate the number of objects in space that they can detect and track will reach 15,661 by Oct. 4, 1997.

Most objects now in space are debris. Of the total there now, only 971 are payloads — many of them no longer working.

There is a need to keep track of as many objects as possible, scientists say, because of the possibility, however remote, of in-space collisions.

Flow of illegal aliens from Mexico dips

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — The flow of illegal aliens from Mexico fell off here in September, but still was at a much higher rate than one year ago, U.S. Border Patrol officials report.

They said 578 illegal aliens were caught in and around this border city in September, compared with 359 caught in September 1976. In August, Border Patrol officials reported the arrests of 700 illegal aliens here.

The decline from August to September was attributed to less available work in Cochise County's vegetable fields. "Apparently, the harvest is pretty well through," one agent said.

Life-and-death chase described

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — With sabers drawn, the defense goes after a blonde Fort Worth coed today who says it was millionaire Cullen Davis who shot her boyfriend and pursued her on a life-and-death chase from the palatial Davis mansion last year.

"Cullen, please don't shoot me. It's Bev," Beverly Bass, 19, said she cried after the "man in black" fired a near-fatal bullet into Gus "Bubba" Gravel Jr., 22.

"Bubba screamed and stumbled and fell in front of me," Miss Bass testified Monday during the seventh week of testimony in the Fort Worth industrialist's capital murder trial.

Miss Bass, speaking softly but in a husky, nervous voice, was the third state witness to name Davis as the gunman who triggered the shooting spree that killed two and wounded two in the midnight Aug. 2, 1976 carnage.

He is on trial for the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn.

The defendant's estranged wife, Priscilla, 36, was wounded in the gunfire and her lover, Stan Farr, 30, was slain.

During her dramatic testimony Monday, Miss Bass twice pointed out Davis in the courtroom and once was breathing so heavily that it was audible on the sound system.

accounts by Mrs. Davis and Gavrel.

The defense spent more than two weeks cross-examining Mrs. Davis, a blonde socialite who separated from Davis two years before the shootings and has filed suit for millions in a pending divorce action.

Miss Bass knew in advance she could expect a similarly relentless but perhaps less lengthy ordeal at the hands of Davis' high-priced defense team.

The witness said she and Gavrel bumped into Mrs. Davis and Farr at a popular Fort Worth nightspot just hours before the shootings. She said she informed Mrs. Davis she would be spending the night at the mansion with the Davis' oldest daughter, Dee.

She said when she and Gavrel arrived at the mansion and started up the walkway, she heard screaming and moments later, saw the "man in black."

Miss Bass said when the figure moved into a rightly lighted entrance way to the house, she recognized him as the defendant and said, "Bubba, that's Cullen."

Prosecutor Tim Curry asked the witness what happened after she uttered the defendant's name.

"He just turned around and shot," she replied.

"Who did he shoot?" Curry asked.

"Bubba."

"Did he say anything?"

"No sir... He just stood there... Then, he leaned over Bubba with his hands out. He had a garbage bag wrapped around his hands, like this," she said demonstrating how a pistol was concealed.

Torres murder case They never heard ex-officer brag

HOUSTON (AP) — Five Houston policemen, including a sergeant, have testified they never heard former officer Terry Denson, a defendant in the Joe Campos Torres murder case, brag about throwing a wino into a ravine.

The officers were called to the stand to refute testimony by Glenn L. Brinkmeyer, a former policeman who said under immunity that Denson told him he pushed a drunk into a gully near Houston police headquarters.

Brinkmeyer's allegations and the rebuttal by the policemen ended testimony in the trial in which Denson and Stephen Orlando, both former Houston police officers, are charged with murder in the drowning death of Torres.

The seven-woman, five-man jury is expected to hear final arguments today.

The body of Campos Torres, a Mexican-American prisoner, was pulled from the murky waters of Buffalo Bayou on May 8. Prosecutors say Denson pushed Campos Torres into the bayou after he and several other officers beat the prisoner.

Brinkmeyer was allowed Monday to testify before the jury about portions of what he said outside the jury's presence on Friday.

The jury showed little expression as Brinkmeyer said Denson had boasted of having pushed a drunk off a deep ravine.

Defense attorneys said the boasts were war stories and gossip and pointed out Brinkmeyer could not remember the date of Denson's alleged boasting.

"This leaves the defense in a position where we can't call anybody to refute it, doesn't it?" defense attorney Mike Ramsey asked.

Prosecutor Bert Graham reminded the jury of Brinkmeyer's position as Denson's friend in an effort to show he wouldn't make up something so damaging.

"Wouldn't you like to see these two men walk out of here free?" Graham asked.

"Yes," Brinkmeyer replied.

Denson's former supervisor, Sgt. Jack Qualls, said he used to drive around to keep tabs on officers in his district.

"I think I would have heard about it," Qualls said. "Some officers will always come and tell his sergeant things. They might want a day off or something."

State District Court Judge James Warren refused to permit Brinkmeyer to testify before the jury about 10-15 other cases of alleged beatings of prisoners. Warren agreed with arguments by defense lawyers that Brinkmeyer's failure to fix dates and locations of the alleged beatings prevented them from investigating.

Denson, Orlando and Brinkmeyer were among five officers fired from the Houston police department after an investigation into Campos Torres' death.

Brinkmeyer, 25, and Louis G. Kinney, 27, were granted immunity. Joseph Janish, 22, is awaiting trial on a misdemeanor assault charge.

Li'l Abner to bite dust

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Capp has decided to call it quits.

So Li'l Abner, Capp's satirical comic strip that began in 1934 and grew to be an American institution, will appear for the last time Nov. 13, a Sunday. The comic strip's last daily run will be Nov. 5.

"Set in Dogpatch, U.S.A., 'a yokel's paradise where everybody loafs and eats turnips and pork chops,'" the cartoon strip currently appears in about 400 newspapers around the world.

In its heyday, it ran in about 900 newspapers, according to Robert Reed, president of the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate.

Capp, 68, who lives in Cambridge, Mass., was not immediately available for comment about his impending retirement.

"Al Capp is one of the great satirists of our times," Reed said. "His art style was copied by many cartoonists through the years."

Voucher squabble

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The executive director of the Board of Private Investigators said today she will try for the third time this week to set a meeting at which the board can discuss allegations concerning expense vouchers of its chairman.

Clema Sanders said she polled the board last Tuesday, she said, but could not get a quorum of the nine-member board for either of two dates she suggested.

She will try again on "Thursday or Friday" of this week, she said.

The board was polled after Asst. Atty. Gen. Joe Dibrell wrote to the board chairman, State District Court Judge Joseph Connolly of Odessa, asking that such a poll be taken.

High Tar No Longer Essential To Taste.

Tests prove low tar MERIT delivers flavor of higher tar cigarettes.

For years, it seemed the only way to get real taste from a cigarette was to smoke a high tar brand.

High tar cigarettes had an "exclusive" on taste.

Today, all the standards are changing because of a new taste breakthrough called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver flavor way out of proportion to tar.

Test Data Conclusive

MERIT and MERIT 100's were both tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes. Thousands of smokers were involved.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.

Midland

By DANNY R. Sports Editor

Last season, the Bulldogs, coach amiable second-year Jerry Hopkins, compiled a 5-5 record, which is a 54-18 brisket-baked Steers.

This year, with number of starting players, the 'Dogs were expected to be even better. They have yet to live up to anyone's expectations. Their record is bad enough. Their District 5-4A championship is even the Steers.

The Bovines have found someone to beat, right? Well,

"Midland is a much better team than their opponents," said Steve Don Robbins. "The Permian to 24 players were the first team on them this year. They haven't lived up to their potential as yet."

The 'Dogs offense is a T-power type that has speed and power. It has talented backfield players. Price, a sprinter on the squad, and Walter alternate between wingback and fullback position, while Brentley Jackson is a massive threat at fullback.

Jackson sustained a shoulder injury during the Permian contest.

Southern California is the driver's seat in the national championship. Coach John Robinson has the road to No. 1 in his hands.

"All we have to do is go undefeated," Robinson says. "Of course, we want to win the national championship."

Robinson isn't through his field work. The nation's No. 1 team has some muscle to show in its position, considering the remaining games on the schedule.

Autumn camporee due this weekend

Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts will have an opportunity this weekend to get to know more about the plants and animals native to this area.

The autumn camporee of the Lone Star district of the Buffalo Trails Council will spotlight environment with nature and information on local animals and insects. The site will be at the Round Up grounds.

All boys interested in Scouting are invited to participate. Many of the troops are asking guests to attend and get a sample of the fun and adventure of camping. Troops will begin arriving after 5 p.m. Friday and pitch camp, although a few may wait until Saturday morning to set up. Cub Scouts (boys 8-9-10) may take part Saturday if accompanied by an adult leader.

Soil Conservation Service and other USDA technicians are laying out the signature trail with identification of many of the plants to be found in this vicinity, and they will help the boys to easily pick out these plants. Also, the Webb AFB entomologist will go over a list of small animals and some of the more prevalent insects which are common here.

Saturday afternoon will be given over to games and contests — including three-legged race, knot tying relay, tug o war and other. Parents are invited, especially to the 8 p.m. campfire program Saturday. There will be a brief devotional service at 8:30 a.m. Sunday prior to breaking camp so boys may attend their own church

Higher education not out of control

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Texas' commissioner of higher education said Monday that despite rising costs "higher education is not out of control. It can police itself and is doing so."

Dr. Kenneth Ashworth addressed the annual conference of Texas Deans of Business. "Small classes are being eliminated or held to a bare minimum. Faculty workloads are being evaluated and abuses eliminated," he said. He also commented on the fact that more graduates are being produced than some fields can handle. "It is not a fair measurement of the value of a college

Sure, it's hot, but winter time is coming

It's been too hot to think around Big Spring during September. But now it's October.

And possibly the heat wave will end as abruptly as it began. Believe it or not, folks, there is a winter coming.

Some oldtimers say that a hot, dry summer will bring a cold winter, while others maintain that the hot, dry summer followed the cold winter.

Only the winter will tell which prediction is correct. And those who are ready for winter are going to be glad.

Don't Tell New Lovers About Old Ones

DEAR ABBY: I am a 63-year-old widow. My husband died two years ago after a beautiful marriage that lasted for 30 years.

I went completely to pieces and foolishly took up with a man shortly afterwards. I was lost and lonely, and he provided the tenderness and consolation I desperately needed at the time. It was mostly a sexual attraction, and it lasted only a few months.

After we broke up, I met a very fine, 72-year-old gentleman who was everything a woman could want in a husband. He proposed marriage and I accepted. Then I told him about my brief affair, thinking he would understand. Well, he didn't! Instead, he said he couldn't marry me knowing that I was "second-hand" merchandise.

I told him that in all the years of my marriage, I never looked at another man, but he said it didn't matter—my affair after my husband's death was something he could never forgive.

Abby, don't you think he is wrong to hold that against me? I didn't even know him when this happened. I love him and want to marry him, but I cannot understand his attitude. Please advise.

HEAVY-HEARTED

DEAR HEAVY: I think he's wrong. But you could be lucky to have found out how unforgiving and unfair he is. I'm sure you realize how foolish you were to discuss your past with him. Don't make that mistake again.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law and I have been having a difference of opinion about something that deals with a sexual matter.

I have never regarded sex as "dirty," but I don't think small children belong in their parents' bedroom when the parents are having relations.

My brother and his wife have a 3-year-old son who is allowed in their bedroom while they are making love. In fact, they boast about their openness and "healthy attitude" about sex. They say it is "beautiful" and see no reason to keep it hidden as though it were a crime or something to be ashamed of.

Maybe I am wrong, but it just doesn't seem right to me. Neither my brother nor his wife is stupid, so I can't understand their thinking. Please ask your experts if I am wrong or my brother is.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: I don't have to ask my experts to say that I agree with you. Although sexual relations may be beautiful, they are (or should be) a private affair.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Reeds, Stinsons host Ambassadors

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Stinson were hosts of the annual Ambassador fall party Saturday night at the Reed home.

The patio was lighted and decorated with balloons and a carnival atmosphere. The traditional oysters on the half shell, corn beef, ham and other foods were served buffet-style. A casino theme was used inside for games. Ambassador members and their wives were guests for the event.

They're Classics every one

Classic idea comes true

A new organization at Howard College might have been called "Charlie's Angels," but it wasn't.

Instead, the more dignified name of "The College Classics" was selected for the newest brainstorm of Howard College President Dr. Charles Hays.

It happened like this: Dr. Hays had an idea last summer. He's always doing that. In fact, his assistant, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, says that Dr. Hays has so many good ideas, it's too bad there aren't more employees at Howard College to carry them all out.

Dr. Hays had been to a meeting and saw a group of coeds who served as hosts. Why didn't Howard College have something like that?

He presented the idea to Mrs. Avery; Terry Newman, dean of students; and Don Melton, admissions counselor.

Howard College should have an organization which would serve as official hostesses at school functions, be hostesses at events in the community and even out-of-town when the right occasion comes up, help the college with its recruiting, meet dignitaries, give tours of the campus, assist with registration, and so forth.

THAT'S HOW the idea for the College Classics was born.

The staff rejected the idea of calling the group "Charlie's Angels" because it wanted a more dignified name, said Mrs. Avery.

8 not 'Charlie's Angels'

The eight freshman coeds who were selected to be the very first "College Classics" at Howard College are:

- Laurie Choate, Rt. 1, Big Spring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Choate.
- Katy Brooks, Box 407, Coahoma, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette Brooks.
- Janie Rodriguez, 2100 S. Monticello, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Rodriguez.
- Cathy Valdes, 626 Caylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Valdes.
- K'Lynn Boyer, Lamesa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Boyer.
- Kathy Keune, Lamesa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Keune.
- Sharla Jameson, Eola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cohler Jameson.
- Jan Phillips, Abernathy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Phillips Jr.

Classics were:

- 1) Have a flexible schedule which would allow the student maximum time to work on behalf of the college.
- 2) Have poise, personality and neatness.
- 3) Be able to relate to other people—not just students.
- 4) Be capable of making presentations before groups, and be at Howard College for at least one full year.
- 5) Be enthusiastic for the college.

IN RETURN, the eight coeds will receive a scholarship and be featured in the yearbook, as well as have an opportunity to participate in many different kinds of events and activities.

Mrs. Avery, who will serve as supervisor for the group, said that the coeds jumpsuits arrive. Through Swartz, the eight are having gowns made for evening functions; and Big Spring Dress Co. is making the casual jumpsuits for daytime events.

Their first official function was the United Way kickoff luncheon in September when the Classics greeted arriving campaign workers.

Persons from the community expressed surprise at seeing the eight smiling coeds as they entered the ballroom of the Settles Hotel.

Mrs. Avery said the coeds had been accepted very well, and she received several requests for the Classics to appear.

She said she hopes the Classics will counteract any negative impressions that people in the community might have about college kids.

One thing is for certain: Big Spring will be seeing a lot more of these eight young coeds.

Ridin' fence Round and about

with Marj Carpenter

Around the first of each month, I've been turning this column to short subjects, not long enough for an entire column.
The Ambassadors held their annual Bash at the Bill Reed home with Mel Stinson as co-host recently. Al Stephens, the former Gibson's manager here, had promised to come back for the occasion.
But I hear that Al broke his arm when he fell off the moving van. I knew Al wasn't really enthused about moving but I didn't think he'd throw himself off the truck.
Incidentally, Stinson had a parachute hanging in his office Friday with a monkey hanging from the bottom. It seems that Mel just got his pilot's license and that's the way his fellow workers celebrated the occasion.
At another recent celebration, Dr. Houston Zinn and Kay Boren celebrated their annual birthday party with what they called an Unhappy Hour. Dr. Gale Kilgore was thumping that guitar and most everyone seemed pretty happy about it. It may have been the happiest unhappy hour on record.
And then, there is Coach Ronnie Taylor out at Fossan that decided to get involved in the workouts. It's being told that he has a bruised nose and two black eyes after one of the Buffs blocked him out, just like he told him to do.

The Buffs are going strong and have a chance to win it all. There's a few of the fans that are all freaked out because they lost a non-conference game, but they could get it all together and win the whole mess this year before they have to go up to a school classification, because they're growing out there.
Speaking of football (and nearly everybody does this time of year), if the Steers can remember last year's game, they could win at least three district games this year. And what shut up a lot of the snide remarks being made in other newspapers around the district.
You begin to hear the old Big Spring song of complaining about the coaches. Come on, I've only been here six years but I heard the town mumbering about the coach that went over to Lake View and put out a champion and then they mumbered about Bob Burris a while. Bob, incidentally has a team at Port Arthur Jefferson that is 5-0 this season. They've defeated a couple of Houston schools, Nederland, Port Arthur, Lincoln and a Beaumont school.
Off of football, a lot of the kids in town say that the police officer that is claiming that the incidence of dope is up, evidently wasn't around much, four or five years back when it was really dominant.
As a matter of fact, Big Spring may be joining most of the rest of the nation in a fall-off of the hard stuff, although grass is available in States in nearly every town.
Certainly, it's a problem, but the problem has apparently been going down — not up, in recent years. I can see that an officer who is dealing with it a lot, would get to believing it was everywhere unless he talks to some of the older officers who were dealing with it five years ago.
The good kids — the ones out of the action to destroy themselves — aren't very likely to take a lot of time to stop and talk it over with police. If they even stop and park somewhere, they may get a ticket.
If it really is getting worse, and the kids and I are wrong, I would be one of the first to want more emphasis put on that and less worry on who stopped on whose parking lot. I happen to know some of the officers very well who have battled this battle through the years. And they have done very well, under very difficult circumstances. It's no easy fight.
Certainly any attempt to educate, if it helps even one kid, is admirable and to be commended.
There's two local civic clubs that are about to reach an important milestone. The Rotary Club will be 50 during the next year and the Kiwanis the following year. And they both have a lot of longtime members who have done a lot for Big Spring. Hurrah for them.
Bernard Houston, out on the Martin County farm tour, says farmers are going more and more to big machinery because machines don't sit on their backs when they should be working, don't watch the clock, don't stop for coffee breaks and to go the bathroom and they don't goof off.
That's an unpopular attitude in the days of demands for benefits, higher wages, and less hard work. But he's sure got a point. And he's got some big machines too. Out where I've been ridin' fence.

Open door policy with Mexico urged

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The United States should have an open border policy with Mexico, adopt a minimum wage for all workers and provide for collective bargaining among Mexican immigrant laborers, says Jose Angel Gutierrez, a founder of the Texas Raza Unida Party.
Gutierrez, a judge in Zavala County, Texas, spoke Saturday to a conference in Salt Lake City on undocumented workers. He said his suggestions, along with an attempt by the United States to bolster Mexico's economy, could end what the Carter administration sees as an immigration problem.
Gutierrez acknowledged his plan could lead to a "tremendous influx of Mexican immigrants to the U.S. immediately." But he said most of the immigrants eventually would return to Mexico as living conditions in that country improve and use of cheap labor in the United States is eliminated.
The Carter immigration policy was criticized in a

Farm New farm provisions important

The farm program signed into law September 29 contains for cotton, wheat and feed grains an allotment system totally different from anything farmers have seen before, notes Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, "and it's going to be important that farmers gain a clear understanding of the new system before making final plans for 1978 crops."
Acreage allotments for the major crops have been based on historical plantings since farm programs began. But under the new law each year's allotment will be determined by that year's planted acreage, independent of previous years. Johnson explains that when price prospects for cotton appear to be below the target price, the Secretary of Agriculture, not later than December 15, will announce how many acres can be expected to produce the needed U.S. cotton supply. That will be known as the "National Program Acreage." The National Program Acreage figure will then be divided by the estimated U.S. cotton acreage for harvest that year to determine an allotment "Allocation Factor." And that factor will be applied to each farm's planted acreage to arrive at the farm allotment.

As an example, assume (1) that the Secretary says 11.1 million acres are needed to meet demands in 1978, and (2) that the acreage planted to cotton in the U.S. totals 12 million. The National
