

Loss doesn't ruin homecoming excitement

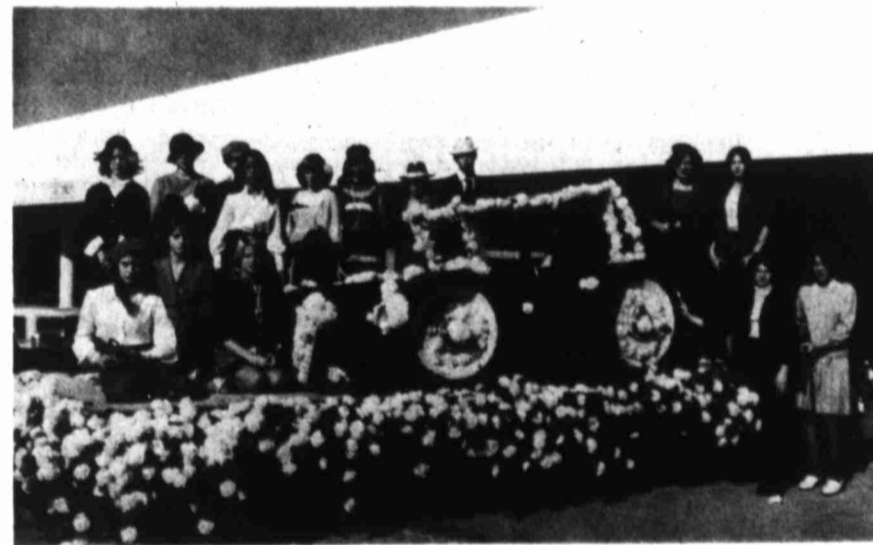

QUEEN FINALISTS — Andra Hohertz, Denise Young, Irene Little, Debra Hayworth and Connie Dackson, smile from atop a decorated car in the Homecoming parade Friday. All five girls are seniors and were selected from a field of 23 nominees.

TOP WINNER — The sophomores, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" was top winner in the large float division with the seniors, second, the freshmen third and the band, fourth. The other three winning floats were "Blue Suede Shoes", "We've Only Just Begun" and "Star Wars".

SMALL FLOAT WINNER — "Remember the Days in the Old School Yard" was the theme of the small float winner. Future Homemakers sponsored this float. Second went to the Bible Club for "Standing on the Promises", third to Meistersingers for "That's Entertainment" and fourth to the Astronomy Club for Star Wars.

NON-HIGH SCHOOL WINNER — For the fifth straight year, Rannels won the non-high school division of the parade, this time with their float called, "The Boys Are Back in Town."

RENOTING THE OLD DAYS — The Permian Basin Medical Association entered this old car in the parade. In decorated cars, the Future Scientists won with "Jaws", the Shorthand Club was second with "I Write the Songs" and the Latin Club was third with their Roman chariots. An old-timers coffee highlighted Homecoming on Saturday morning.

R2-D2 — The robot from Star Wars was a popular number in the Homecoming parade and helped the Astronomy Club place fourth in small floats.

HALFTIME SHOW — The Big Spring Steer Band shows off at the halftime at Homecoming featuring the band, a rifle corps and the flag corps, part of which is shown here in a tribute to the stars and stripes.

KIDS LOVED IT — The Junior float on the theme, "The Monster Mash" was a great favorite of the children and the crowd although the judges didn't award it any prizes.

GED commencement held for 35

The first Commencement Exercise for GED graduates who participated in the Howard College Adult Education Co-Op took place Tuesday, October 25 in the Howard College Auditorium. Thirty-five graduates participated from the Co-Op area of Howard, Reagan, Martin and Glasscock counties. Friends and relatives filled the auditorium to support the graduates. Dr. Bobby Wright, Dean of Occupational Education presented the candidates for graduation. Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College and Dr. Charles Warren, chairman of the board of trustees awarded the diplomas. Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president presented an inspiring main address. Mrs.

Socorro Valenzuela, as a student representative, gave the farewell address. Adult Education faculty members, Lillian Wheat and Margaret Lloyd gave the invocation and benediction. The pianist was Mrs. Terry Newman. Scholarships were awarded to outstanding students by Herb Johnson, co-op director of the program. Charles Bennett, Valedictorian of the class was the recipient of the Polly Hunt Memorial ABE Fund Valedictory Award. The Salutatorian of the class was Raymond Bedford. The Polly Hunt ABE Memorial Fund Outstanding Student Award was presented to Laura Kissel. The alternate for this award was Inez Molina.

The graduates were Marge Adams, Raymond Bedford, Charles Bennett, Annette Castro, Truong Chau, Cecilia Chavez, Betty Gamboa, Lupe Gonzales, Maricela Hamilton, Josie Hernandez, Laura Kissel, Dick Lauderdale, Adell Lott, Gloria Mirelez, Inez Molina, Rosalinda Moreno, Conie Nichols, Velma Nunez, Shirley Parker, Jeanie Randle, Tina Reagan, Daisy Riggan, Joyce Robinson, Gloria Rodriguez, Kathryn Senter, Peggy Soldan, Mary Elva Talamantez, Randy Teague, Carolyn Valencia, Oscar Valencia, Socorro Valenzuela, Tami Wise, Alicia Yanez, David Yanez, and Mary Lou Yanez.

Pat Toomay, the former Dallas Cowboy now headhunting for the Oakland Raiders, says Dallas team colors should be chrome rather than silver and blue, implying that its players are machines coming off an assembly line.

Playing for the Cowboys became so oppressive, he says, he prevailed upon management to deal him away. Of the Dallas situation, Pat recalls: "The atmosphere was strained. They treated the players like they were idiots."

Pro football, he laments, is a dodge that keeps him trapped in hotel rooms, buses and jet planes for half the year. His interests lie in literature and art.

Toomay says he found sanity in Oakland. "Sanity," he says, "is when football is the most important thing with a team — not whether you show up for a meeting at a certain time, not how you dress on the road."

David Pickle, Big Spring-born and son of the former Herald editor, Joe Pickle, is now managing editor of the NCAA News, which is published just outside Kansas City at a place called Shawnee Mission, Kansas.

Educated at Baylor, David wrote sports for both the Corpus Christi and Waco papers before accepting employment with the NCAA.

You might have reasoned otherwise but a study made of Harvard graduates shows that company presidents have the happiest marriages and develop the richest friendships.

The study also reveals that a man's social class has no effect in determining his outcome in life; that it is not the isolated traumas of childhood that shape one's future but the quality of sustained relationships with other people, and a healthy person sometimes in his 40s achieves 'generativity,' a ripe creative stage of human existence.

Dr. George E. Valiant, a psychiatrist who directed the study over a decade, said that one of his biggest surprises was that it was difficult to predict from adolescence which men would be the best balanced at middle life.

Talk about your energy conservationists, how about the late Charles Lindbergh?

When his plane, the Spirit of St. Louis, took off from America it had 450 gallons of fuel aboard. When he landed in Paris, the craft still had 85 gallons left.

Charles Lindsey Marchbanks just happened to be recently to visit an ailing mother, now lives on a quarter-section spread between Granbury and Fort Worth. He's trying to breed Santa Gertrudis cattle with buffalo, says he wouldn't wish his kind of problems on his worst enemy.

Charles was worked over by a steer he was loading onto a trailer a couple of years ago. The 1200-pound animal spooked when a dog attracted to the scene started barking, as dogs are prone to do at the most unfortunate times.

Marchbanks just happened to be in the trailer at the time and the steer came down rather hard on him. A doctor was to say later Charles was lucky to get out alive.

Marchbanks accumulated a room full of trophies while in sports car racing a few years ago but says most of the awards were lost when he moved his household goods from Lubbock to the ranch a few years ago.

There's a fellow in Orange County, Cal., named Mark Sork who operates the Aerial Burial Service. For a fee of $30, he'll scatter the ashes of a cremated person to the four winds.

Mark's becoming well known on his home turf, maybe because of the catchy slogan he uses. It reads: "In by Stork, Out by Sork."

I don't know where you heard it but the word 'bacarat' does not mean 'put your money on a rodent.'

It wasn't generally noised about that heavy losses were inflicted upon Mrs. Bing Crosby in London by thieves shortly before her husband fled this vale of tears.

The artful dodgers raided the Crosby flat and made off with swag valued at $22,500 pounds. Included were two antiques (a 7,500 pound gold cigarette box dating back to 1870 and an 1821 gold snuff box), items Kathy had planned to give her husband for Christmas.

"It cost me all the money I earned this year," Mrs. Crosby lamented.

Harry Ledbetter, the Democrat who is campaigning for state treasurer, played one year of high school football under Emory Ballard and his college ball under Gene Stallins.

Harry said here recently the greatest thrill he ever got in athletics occurred the day he threw two touchdown passes against Georgia Tech his sophomore year.

Hugh Mehan, director of the Teacher Education Program at the University of California in San Diego, says that intelligence tests for children are unfair. For the past few years, he has been refusing such exams.

Selective cuing by school psychologists, he says, helped improve some students' scores as much as 27 per cent.

Psychologists are prone to deviate from straight question-answer-question-answer formats from time to time.

Testers, Mehan insists, emphasize key words, compliment correct replies and cut off students after they have completed an answer.

American business connections, mainly in coffee, are keeping Idi Amin and his obscurities going in Uganda, according to stories emanating from England.

Coffee, of course, still fetches premium prices around the world and American imports of the product from Uganda rose 33 per cent this year.

U.S. industry captains reportedly are active in keeping Amin's political links open with the outside world. Invariably, Americans have taken the rap for propping up some of the world's worst despots, reasoning it is easier to do business with one man than with a party.

Fan clubs all over the world attest to the fact that there is a Slippery Rock College.

The name conjures up a back-water school with a leoser's image. In reality, the Pennsylvania school has done quite well in football — having won 263 games while losing 185 and tying 33 since 1900.

Sales of Slippery Rock T-shirts top $80,000 annually.

The school reportedly took its name from an incident dating back to 1799 when Seneca Indians forced a certain Col. Daniel Brodhead and his men to flee Fort Pitt.

Inmates face bull in rodeo

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — It wasn't the money that caused Gus Hammond to walk along with 39 other men and one bull into the rodeo arena before 20,000 spectators.

Although the bespectacled Hammond stood to be $25 richer if he could snatch a tobacco sack with money from the bull's horns, he said the main reason for facing the bull was because he wanted his family to see him in the rodeo.

Usually his family only sees him in the visiting areas at Huntsville State Prison where the Paris, Texas, native is serving a life sentence for murder.

For the past 46 years, prisoners like Hammond have risked their necks each Sunday in October to participate in the Texas prison rodeo. Their rewards include excitement, some money and a chance to get out of their cells.

Hammond, 39, was injured during his encounter with the bull in the "hard money" event in the first Sunday's activities this year. His wife fainted.

"The only thing that really scares me is getting permanently disfigured," Hammond said, "but you don't think about that when you're out there."

Not every convict is eligible to participate in the rodeo. To be considered, he must have a clean conduct record. After checking health conditions and holding a tryout, prison officials pick the contestants.

Willie Craig, a 57-year-old inmate serving 30 years from Greenville, has been in 20 rodeos during the 27 years he has spent in prison since 1943. Last year he was the top money winner. This year through three Sundays of competition he pocketed $128.

"When I walk into one of those arenas, I know where I'm at," Craig said. "I'm not scared. I know either I'm gonna win or the bull is."

The net proceeds from the event supplements state funds used in treatment and rehabilitation programs for the nearly 20,000 inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections. Last year's rodeo grossed $339,000.

The inmates give different reasons for entering the rodeo. But the reasons boil down to a desire to get out of their cells.

"I would ride in the rodeo for nothing because it kills the monotony," said Perry Waddie, 44, serving a life sentence from Dallas.

IN THE SADDLE — "Buffalo Bill" Cody, recreated in this big new statue at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City, rides again. Perched atop Persimmon Hill, home of the Cowboy Hall of Fame and "front door of the west," the 33-foot figure greets travelers on US 66. The statue was inspired by the 1944 film "Buffalo Bill", starring the Joel McCrea, an Honorary Life Chairman of the Cowboy Hall of Fame's Board of Directors. Created by noted sculptor Leonard McMurry and cast in Italy, the bronze already has become an Oklahoma City landmark. William F. ("Buffalo Bill") Cody, Army scout, Pony Express rider, buffalo hunter and Wild West Show star, symbolizes the western spirit which the cowboy Hall of Fame was created to preserve. The Cowboy Hall of Fame has attracted more than 3.6 million visitors since it opened in 1965.

TESCO rates said among lowest

Texas Electric Service Company's rates were among the lowest in the nation last year, a study by a New York investment firm confirms.

The study, forwarded to Jack Redding, manager of the Big Spring TESCO division, also notes that price increases for TESCO customers between 1971 and 1976 were among the smallest in the United States.

The brokerage and investment banking firm of Kuhn Loeb and Co. studied rates charged by 79 electric utility companies throughout the country. The companies surveyed were those in which investors had expressed the most interest.

TESCO charged an average residential rate of 2.57 cents per kilowatt-hour in 1976 — lower than the rates of 74 other companies, according to the study.

TESCO's rate was 31 per cent lower than the 3.73 cent average for the 79 companies studied.

Of the four companies that had lower rates than TESCO, three — Puget Sound Power & Light, Pacific Power & Light and Idaho Power — are in the Northwest where cheap hydroelectric power is available. The other —

Louisiana Power & Light — relies on long-term contracts for natural gas.

Consolidated Edison of New York had the highest rate for 1976 of 8.78 cents, more than three times TESCO's rate. Other companies at the top of the scale included Public Service Electric & Gas in New Jersey, 5.75 cents; Boston Edison, 5.48; Tucson Gas & Electric, 5.44; and Long Island Lighting, 5.19.

Between 1971 and 1976, TESCO's residential electricity price grew by an average of 5.2 per cent annually — almost half the average for the 79 companies of 10 per cent.

Again, only four other utility companies had smaller average price increases — Indianapolis Power & Light, Kentucky Utilities Co., Louisiana Power & Light and Louisiana Gas & Electric.

Price increases double and triple of those of TESCO were recorded in almost all geographic regions of the country, led by San Diego Gas & Electric's average annual increase of 16.1 per cent.

The survey also pointed out that Texas Electric customers use considerably more electricity than customers of other utilities.

In terms of a total annual electric bill, TESCO's lower-than-average rates were more than offset by its customers' higher-than-average consumption.

The company's average annual bill for a residential customer was $317 in 1976. The national average bill was $297, according to the study.

No lock out policy in national forests

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. Thomas C. Nelson says the National Forest System has no lock-out policy on oil and gas explorations.

Nelson, deputy chief of the 187 million acre Forest System, says oil and gas production is small potatoes right now but that substantial increases can be forecast with confidence.

How soon, Nelson added, remains to be seen, but he has urged oilmen to actively participate in current programs aimed at determining the Forest Service's share of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

"In our evaluations, we will be giving critical attention to the trade-offs, how much it would cost socially and economically to recommend an area for wilderness," he said.

He added that many companies have shown a willingness to submit data which show high minerals potential, data that will be used to balance wilderness potential against costs.

Nelson discussed the situation with the public lands committee of the 5,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America and urged the independents to become involved.

"If you don't speak up, the trade-off picture will be distorted and your interests will not be well served," he said.

Nelson said the Forest Service favors the development of oil, gas and minerals on its lands but there are qualifiers in that a great diversity of interests must be served.

"No one interest can have all the leeway it wants and all interests seem to want more than they can get," he said.

"And we in the Forest Service have an obligation to administer oil and gas development activities in such a way the surface environment can be safeguarded."

Nelson said there are a number of reasons now why oil and gas interests are not likely to be overlooked as the formula is developed to integrate minerals development with the use and conservation of other resources.

Martin wildcat

A wildcat is slated in Martin County. Tamarack Petroleum Co., Inc., Midland, will attempt to reopen the Gordon Street, West (Wolfcamp oil) field of Martin County.

They will attempt to extend the Spraberry Trend Area 1 3/4 miles southeast with the scheduling of its No. 1-30 Tom, a 9,800-foot project, 5/8 mile east-southeast of the depleted Gordon Street, West field and 1 1/2 miles southeast of Stanton.

Location is 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of 30-35-1s-T&P.

The discovery, Texas National Petroleum Co., Midland, No. 1 Jim Tom, was finalized Jan. 27, 1961 for 186.3 barrels of 42 gravity oil, no water, with gas-oil ratio of 768-1, through a 16-64 inch choke and perforations at 9,220-255 feet.

New Grace executive

NEW YORK — Lloyd L. Jaquier, has been named group executive of W. R. Grace & Co.'s Agricultural Chemicals Group. He was formerly deputy group executive and general manager Mr. Jaquier also continues as corporate vice president, a post he was elected to earlier this year.

Mr. Jaquier, 57, joined Grace in 1963 with responsibilities in marketing and operations after 20 years with Phillips Petroleum Co.

He received a B.S. degree in chemical engineering in 1943 from the University of Kansas and completed the Advanced Management Program at Harvard Business School in 1972. He and his wife, the former Norma Smith, reside in Memphis. They have two daughters.

Grace's Agricultural Chemicals Group had sales last year of $469 million and is one of the country's largest commercial producers of fertilizer. The Group's major business is nitrogen and phosphate fertilizer production and distribution. Grace also markets animal feed supplements and artificial insemination products and services.

W. R. Grace & Co., an international chemical company with related natural resources activities and selected consumer services, operates an agricultural chemicals plant on IS 20 East of Big Spring.

Cosden Technology signs foreign pacts

Cosden Technology, Inc. Big Spring, a wholly owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, has finalized three recent license agreements with foreign companies.

Industrial and Allied Chemicals of Bombay, India, is the licensee for a 5,000 metric tons per year polybutene plant to be constructed in Baroda, India, adjacent to the IPCL refinery. The plant, the first of its kind in India, will be completed in early 1979.

Polybutenes are used in lube oil additives, cable coatings, caulking compounds and adhesives among other applications.

Another polybutene license was finalized between CTI and Polibutenos Argentinos S.A. of Buenos Aires, Argentina. This plant will be located in La Plata, near Buenos Aires and will have a 9,000 metric tons per year capacity. The first of its kind in South America, it will be completed in early 1979 under the engineering supervision of HRI Engineering Company.

A third license was signed by CTI and Styrochem (Proprietary), Ltd. of Germiston, South Africa. This license covers the use of CTI's suspension polymerization technology for making polystyrene and will permit Styrochem to expand an existing plant employing the CTI technology. Engineering and construction will be by Styrochem and the completion date is scheduled for late 1978.

C. JOHN MILLER
Miller speaks at confab

C. John Miller has been selected the keynote speaker at the welcoming luncheon of the Oil Production Technology Symposium, sponsored by the South Plains Society of Petroleum Engineers, AIME, at the KoKo Convention Hall, Lubbock, Nov. 4.

Miller has been involved in all phases of the oil business since 1954. He is currently a member of the National Petroleum Council, American Petroleum Institute, Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPPA) and the Michigan Oil and Gas Advisory Board. He is the immediate past president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, and is vice-president of Miller Brothers Drilling Corporation Allegan, Mich.

Miller will present his views of the "Past, Present and Future of U.S. Energy."

Rig numbers up slightly

The number of rotary rigs active in Texas were up slightly from last week and quite a bit from last year in the weekly report.

Of 808 tops last week's 805 and last year's 691. The total in the United States was down this week to 2,107 from 2,129 last week. A year ago, the total in the United States was 1,797.

Stanton High Cast is selected for one-act play

By DEE DEE ADKINS
The last stages of the table-top football tournament are soon to be drawing to a close. The third round left only Miles Tollison, Lee Byrd, Randy Koonce, Ben Bowlin, and Todd Smith in the running. Then the game was played and Miles and Randy prevailed. Ben also lasted through the drawing of "bye".

Things get a little complicated from here on out. Ben again drew the "bye" and Randy and Miles started playing their two out of three. Randy won these so the next step was for Miles and Ben to play two out of three.

Forsan High Annuals go 'Free Wheeling' to perform for students on Wednesday on sale

BY STEVE COWLEY

Annuals go on sale next week. The cost is $10 for the yearbook. There is also a family plan that allows a lower cost per book if more than one is bought in a family. The annual staff will be busy on the 31st. Retakes will be taken that day, as will the Band group picture, high school cheerleaders, high school and junior high pep squads, and the Homecoming Queen and nominees.

BY TRACIE MCELVEA

With the end of the homecoming events for this year, the school has gone back to a more normal state. Congratulations for the new Homecoming Queen Connie Jackson are being said as the homecoming events slowly taper off.

The Forsan Buffaloes smashed Garden City last Friday night by a score of 53-6.

The Buffs never gave the 'Kats any breathing room in the rout, and the whole team got to play. Next Friday is the Buffs' final regular season game. The Buffs will do battle with the always-tough Roby squad. The team will then have to sweat out the final outcome of crazy District 3-B.

The big news at school last week was the announcement of Forsan's advancement into the Class A ranks next year. It had been known since the start of school that Forsan was moving up, but the district they were moving into was still a mystery. The final announcement was greeted with a kind of "Grin and Bear It" attitude by most.

The Buffalo Marching Band returned from the Texas Tech clinic very pleased with their performance.

Hoelscher named secretary

Janet Hoelscher, a sophomore from Garden City was recently elected recording secretary for District XVIII of the Texas Future Teachers of America at the district convention held at Kermit. As an incoming district officer, Janet will serve as a voting delegate at the state convention scheduled Feb. 17 and 18, in Dallas.

Other members of the Garden City Chapter who were candidates for district offices were Denise Schwartz, parliamentarian; Dorothy Schwartz, chaplain; and Crystal Overton, financial secretary.

Bradley Calverley, a junior from Garden City, served as district parliamentarian this past year and will also be a voting delegate at the state convention.

The answer due Monday

Why didn't blonde tell story to grand jury?

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A green-eyed blonde returns to court Monday to explain why she did not tell a grand jury Cullen Davis was in bed with her at the time of a 1976 shooting spree.

That is but one of several questions left unanswered by Karen Master, 28, the millionaire murder defendant's girlfriend and the cornerstone of his alibi.

"The jury will hear the full story Monday," the voluptuous divorcee told newsmen. "And they will recognize it as the truth."

Davis, meanwhile, said he does not believe prosecutors have proved anything in the 10 weeks of testimony "except that four people were shot at my house."

"They don't have any physical evidence to show I had anything to do with the shootings out there. The only evidence against me is three so-called eyewitnesses." Two of those eyewitnesses were wounded survivors of the midnight rampage at Davis' $6 million Fort Worth mansion. And the third was the only person to escape unharmed.

The state contends Davis killed his 12-year-old stepdaughter, Andrea, in the mansion basement, then ambushed his estranged wife, Priscilla, and her lover, Stan Farr.

Mrs. Davis, 36, recovered from a chest wound but Farr, 30, died of multiple gunshot injuries.

Gus Gavrel Jr., 22, a chance mansion visitor, was crippled in the gunfire. His date, Beverly Bass, 19, escaped.

Looking confident and composed, and smiling at the jurors, Mrs. Master testified late Friday she awoke at 12:40 a.m. the morning of

Aug. 3 and Davis was asleep in bed beside her.

At the time, Davis was living at her home in the Fort Worth suburb of Edgecliff Village and Priscilla was sharing the mansion with Farr.

Mrs. Master said she glanced at the digital clock on the dresser, dropped off to sleep again and did not awaken until the defendant's brother telephoned with news of the shootings.

She said it was between 4 and 4:15 a.m. when she heard Davis tell his brother, Kenneth, "Oh, no. Oh, my God. Really? Who was shot?"

After a series of subsequent phone calls from police, she said Davis dressed, walked outside and surrendered to a contingent of officers in the street.

Before passing the witness to prosecutors, Richard "Racehorse" Haynes asked Mrs. Master if she is in love with Davis.

"Yes I am," she replied, looking directly at the jury.

Asked by prosecutor Joe Shannon if she had been instructed to direct her responses to the jury, she replied: "No, I was not. I have not had an opportunity to see the jury. They're very interesting people."

And the fight was on.

Under brutal cross-examination, Mrs. Master conceded she did not tell investigators or a grand jury about the 12:40 a.m. awakening, nor did she provide such testimony at Davis' bond hearing.

"Your boyfriend had been arrested for murder and you did not tell Det. C.R. Davis he was home in bed with you?" Shannon asked.

"No, I did not," she replied.

"Is it a fact you did not take the stand and testify that Cullen Davis was home with you at 12:40?"

"Yes, that is a fact."

"Isn't the truth of the matter that you went to bed at 9:30 p.m. and did not awaken until a phone rang at 4 or 4:15 a.m.?"

"No. That is not true."

Shannon, quoting liberally from previously secret grand jury transcripts, asked the witness about an Aug. 4, 1976, conversation she had with Davis.

Shannon asked her if she recalled telling the grand jury, "...I asked him...to satisfy in my own mind what time he got home on Monday evening, and he said it was a little before 11?"

She said she recalled the testimony.

Some areas get needed rain

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Some sections of Texas got good rains during the past week which Texas farmers and ranchers hope is a prelude of things to come, reports Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Rains fell in the South and Rolling Plains and in parts of Central, Southeast and Southwest Texas. The moisture should give a boost to small grains and pastures and ranges. However, conditions remained dry over most of Texas, causing further pressure on stockmen to reduce cattle herds. Runs at local auctions have been heavy and have driven prices down.

Harvesting of cotton, sorghum, soybeans and peanuts is active and the pecan harvest started gaining momentum.

Cotton, sorghum and soybean harvesting is making good progress in the High Plains although rain caused some delays the past week. Cotton harvesting was delayed in the Rolling Plains. Harvesting of peanuts and soybeans is active in North Central, Northeast and Southeast Texas. Peanut harvesting also continues in central areas and along the Coastal Bend.

Some early fall vegetables are being harvested in the Rio Grande Valley and San Antonio-Winter Garden area, said Pfannstiel. Harvesting of citrus and sugar cane is also up in the Rio Grande Valley.

Reports from district extension agents showed these conditions:

PANHANDLE: Sorghum harvesting is about complete. The cotton harvest is making good progress. Dry conditions are hampering wheat growth and reducing grazing.

SOUTH PLAINS: Sorghum and soybean harvesting is about complete. Cotton harvesting was delayed by rain. Cotton yields and grades have been good. Sugar beets are being harvested in Castro County. The rains will help wheat and ranges.

ROLLING PLAINS: Good rains should boost small grains. The rains caused some delays to cotton, sorghum and peanut harvesting. Cotton harvesting ranges from 5 to 75 per cent complete, with excellent yields. Sorghum and peanut yields have also been good. The pecan harvest is starting in some counties. Cattle marketing is heavy, and there is some supplemental feeding.

NORTH CENTRAL: Peanut harvesting is active and soybean and pecan harvesting is getting started. About 5 per cent of the cotton crop remains in the field. Planting of wheat and oats is past the halfway point. Grazing conditions are short.

FAR WEST: The cotton harvest has generally good yields. A good pecan harvest is getting started. Peppers are about ready to harvest in Pecos County. Lettuce looks good in El Paso County. Cattle remain in fair to good shape, with cow culling active.

WEST CENTRAL: Cotton and peanut yields are down due to the dry weather. The pecan crop will generally be below average. Some dry planting of small grains continues, other farmers are waiting on rain. Grazing is poor and stock water is low. More and more livestock are moving to market; some feeding has started.

CENTRAL: Good rains

fell in a few locations but a general rain is still needed. Peanut harvesting is about 60 per cent complete, with yields and grades poor due to the drought. Pecan harvesting has started, with yields down in non-irrigated orchards. Livestock marketing is heavy, with some entire herds liquidated. Supplemental feeding is active.

SOUTHWEST: Most of the area received much-needed rain that should boost small grains and grazing conditions. However, culling and marketing of cows continued heavy. Some ranchers have started feeding cattle due to the lack of adequate forage. Pecans are falling and crop prospects look good. Fall vegetables are making good progress, with some early plantings being harvested. Soybean harvesting will begin soon.

The six-member board met here in a special session and unanimously selected Davis to head the agency. On September 1, legislation consolidated the staffs of the Texas Water Development Board, the Texas Water Quality Board and the Texas Water Rights Commission into the single agency.

Charles E. Nemir, former assistant executive director of the Water Development Board, has served as acting executive director of the new agency since September 1.

Davis, 50, has been executive director of the Texas Soil and Water Conservation Board for the past 16 years and has been with the agency for 23 years.

He is a native of Thrall, attended public school in Taylor and holds bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from the University of Houston. Prior to his state service, Davis taught business administration for five years at Blinn Junior College.

Midland theatre boasts family fare
Legendary Arthur opens

"Arthur and the Magic Sword," developed from the ancient legends by Keith Engar, will open the Pickwick players' fall season. This exciting and colorful British story of the sixth century will come alive to audiences in public performances November 5th at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. and November 6 at 2:30 p.m. at Midland Community Theatre's Theatre Center.

"Arthur and the Magic Sword" tells of the events in the childhood of young Arthur which lead to his becoming the famed King Arthur of England. Merlin the Magician is entrusted with the care of the infant Arthur, son of the King, and he places the child in the home of the loyal knight, Sir Hector. Only Merlin knows the boy's true identity and only he can prepare Arthur for his future role. When Arthur is fifteen, all of the knights and nobles gather at Canterbury to choose a new King. A magical sword, implanted in an anvil stone, appears in the churchyard. Whoever is able to pull the sword out of the stone will be King. The boy, Arthur, has his turn. The evil sorceress, Morgana Le'Fey, tries to trick Arthur into her power, but Merlin confronts her with his own brand of magic, and Arthur succeeds.

Reservations for "Arthur and the Magic Sword" can be made at Theatre Center, 682-2544. The box office opens October 31.

BOGEY SPEAKS — Bob Denver, who stars as Allan Felix asks advice and encouragement from John Furlong, who portrays Allan's idol, Bogey. The Woody Allen comedy opened Tuesday evening for a five-week run at the Mansion Dinner Theatre in Odessa.

Get insulated at the library

By REBECCA TAYLOR COUNTY LIBRARIAN

The need for insulation in a climate such as ours may seem obscure. However, the same insulation that keeps the home warmer in the winter with less energy use, keeps it cooler in the summer with less energy use.

Insulation is anything between the outside of a wall and the inside. The problem is to obtain the most efficient insulator in the least amount of space. Efficiency in insulation is indicated by the "R" number, the greater the insulating capability. For example, "R-19" is recommended for this area as a minimum. This amount of insulating capability may be obtained from given thicknesses of the following materials: 172" of sand or gravel, 99" of brick, cement and plaster, 45" of concrete block (filled core), 21" of gypsum or plaster board, 15" of soft wood or plywood, 6" of fiberglass or 5" of cellulose fiber (loose fill).

The most common insulators used today are: mineral fibers (fiberglass and rook wool), cellulose fiber, foamed plastics, and expanded mineral materials.

Mineral fiber is available in loose fill, batts or blankets. Any of these can be installed by the homeowner, however, old clothes, heavy gloves and a respirator are needed as the fibers break off and become airborne, or become imbedded in the skin. Batts are the easiest to handle though blankets produce less waste.

Cellulose fiber is made from wood pulp and treated to be fire and moisture resistant. It has slightly higher insulating value (30 percent) than mineral fiber, but may break down in a hot attic. This form of insulation is not injurious to the skin, but a respirator should be used to prevent inhalation of the loose fill fibers.

Foamed plastics are of several types; polyurethane, polystyrene, and urea formaldehyde are a few. These are available in rigid board which can easily be cut and fitted into place. A good professional can do a more satisfactory job by foaming the plastic in place. The greatest disadvantage of this material is that it must be covered by wall board, to prevent the escape of thick toxic smoke in the case of fire.

Expanded mineral materials are loose fills, usually containing both perlite and vermiculite.

Play It Again premieres

PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM premiered Tuesday evening at the Mansion Dinner Theatre in Odessa. Produced originally on Broadway by David Merrick, the Woody Allen comedy stars Bob Denver in the leading role of Allan Felix.

John Furlong portrays Bogey — the illusionary Humphrey Bogart who prods and encourages a reticent Allan Felix in his several attempts to cope with the opposite sex. Allan, recently divorced, finds relationships with women difficult to the point of awkwardness. His friends, Linda and Dick Christie, played by Dreama Peery and C. E. Pogue, come to his rescue by offering opportunities with several young ladies.

Poor Allan is a miserable flop, until a brief interlude with friend Linda gives him the confidence he needs.

This framework provides an evening of one-line showstoppers, character and visual gags. Among the diversified fantasy and real girlfriends, there's Nancy — ex-wife — played by Sandra Magill, who defeats Allan with defeatism; a go-go-girl, Vanessa, Gina, an intellectual though suicidal girl, Sharon the dream, and Sharon the real-life girl. These vignettes provide excellent fun for two young actresses — Enid Woodward and Jaye Restivo. There's fun for the audience too, as the girls transform themselves into a variety of zany dream characters, none of whom care for Allan. Still, all's finally well when the

MRS. DAVE DUNCAN exhibits the lustrous elegance of dark shimmering natural ranch mink. The fantastic display of luscious pelts beguilingly caught at the waist with antelope speaks only of its sheer luxury.

MRS. DON NEWSOM shows the '77 version of the always-classic suit. The velvet tunnel-waist jacket, tweed skirt with soft inverted pleat and polka dot ascot or bow blouse are compliments to any figure and can be assembled as your taste directs.

MRS. HAYES STRIPLING displays a trio of separates tailored for each other. The camel full-length coat, skirt and printed bow-tied blouse exemplify incredibly understated good taste with a "touch of class."

MRS. RON COHORN presents a pure white mist mink to complement every fashion. This style will take you everywhere in perfection.

MRS. JERRY IDEN models separates and sportswear, one of the major looks in fashion and one that's here to stay. You can use your own taste and your own sense of "put-together." This ultra-suede separate jacket can be worn over numerous things besides the sleek slacks and tennis shirt modeled here.

Swartz presents 'Holiday Fashion Moods'

Beautiful, fashionable clothes modeled by attractive women will be featured at the premiere showing of "Holiday Fashion Moods" at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 5 at the Big Spring Country Club.

The clothes will be presented by Swartz and the show will be sponsored by the Big Spring Country Club Ladies Golf Association.

Styles this fall are soft, and any way that that look can be achieved is fine, as long as it is flattering to your figure, according to Adolph and Andy Swartz.

Jan Iden, president of the Ladies Golf Assn., said that all members and non-members of the country club are invited.

Tickets are $7.50, and may be purchased from Swartz, Barnes Pelletier and the country club, or at the door, if reservations are made in advance by Nov. 4. The ticket price includes champagne and hors d'oeuvres, and only a limited number are available.

All those who plan to attend are urged to get their tickets soon because this is something you won't want to miss!

Learning never tasted so good

Mrs. Pat Deanda, newly added to Bauer Elementary School's teaching staff this year, received raves from her second-grade students Thursday when she prepared a full meal within the classroom.

Part of Bauer's Bilingual program, Mrs. Deanda organized the Mexican dinner for the children to go along with the cultural program she is teaching. The meal was designed to illustrate to the children that all ethnic groups have their own particular customs and traditions.

The delighted children not only got the opportunity to see how the products were made, but they and the faculty got to eat them afterwards. Included on the menu were flautas, Spanish rice, refried beans, salad and flour tortillas.

According to an anonymous informant at Bauer Elementary, Mrs. Deanda, who was described as being a very happy person with a smile and positive word for everyone with whom she comes into contact, is working very hard to advance her students in cultural studies.

Mrs. Deanda was assisted in serving the meal by Mrs. Viera and Mrs. Herrera.

POP QUIZ SMELLS GOOD — Following a lesson in some traditional dishes of Mexico, Mrs. Pat Deanda serves the finished meal to her second grade bilingual class at Bauer Elementary. The kids don't seem to mind this type of exam one bit.

Club finishes quilt project

Mrs. Lee Porter was the hostess of a covered dish luncheon at a recent meeting of the Sew and Chatter Sewing Club.

The 12 members finished a queen-size quilt.

Plans were made for the Thanksgiving luncheon which will be Nov. 9, hosted by Mrs. C.Y. Clinkscales, 705 W. 18th.

Texans attend meeting and tour six states

Ann Fairchild and Bernice Reed of Snyder drove to Amarillo Oct. 13. While there they joined a group of 25 people who had chartered a bus to go to the Annual Primitive Baptist Meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio. There were 24 States represented at the meeting, and afterwards, the group from Texas toured the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

They visited some of the churches in Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Delaware and Maryland, such as a church in Pennsylvania which was established in 1701. It is a log cabin structure, and is still in use. They viewed the tombs of John Leland and James Madison, where religious freedom was founded in 1788.

In Laray, Va., the group toured the Laray Caverns. Then they traveled through the Great Smoky Mountains, and the Blue Ridge, Appalachian and Ozark Mountains on their way home. Ms. Fairchild and Ms. Reed arrived back in Big Spring Oct. 23.

The Jiffy Knitting Club met Monday evening in the home of Vina Lee Wilson, with five members and one guest, Mae Bradley, present. Bernice Galloway gave a demonstration of a new method of mock ribbing. She also showed two beautiful coat sweaters knitted in shades of blue. Marie All-fleck showed a lovely shell knitted in gold yarn and trimmed in red.

The club voted to have their knitting magazine sent to one location to avoid confusion with the company on the subscription, and to enable the club not to miss an issue. The magazine will be sent to Ms. Galloway, and when a member needs to check out an issue, it will be much handier to have them located at the same place. Refreshments were served, and the next meeting will be Nov. 28 in the home of Gladys Perkins.

Recent guests of Mrs. A.P. Oglesby were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Porter, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Oglesby and family, Odessa; Drs. Don and Gwen Rippey and their daughters, Kim and Kelly, Austin; Al Hall and girlfriend, Mel Hague, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Terry McAdams and son Mickey, Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cots, Big Spring.

Mrs. H.H. Story spent last weekend in San Angelo visiting with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strom. While there Mrs. Story and her daughter attended the Golden Anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holland of Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamlin Elrod have returned home from Dallas where Elrod went for a check-up.

Mr. and Mrs. T.R. Camp have gone to Skaitook, Okla., to visit their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Brunton, Patty and Michael.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Gilmore were their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gilmore of Tyler. Their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Griffith, Donaldson, were also guests.

Miss Tricia Cherry and Jay Holcombe were married Oct. 20 in an afternoon ceremony in the chapel of Wesley Methodist Church with the Rev. Augie Aamodt officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cherry, 1008 Baylor Blve. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Holcombe, 1908 Purdue Ave., are the parents of the groom.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of unbleached muslin and white satin, trimmed with lace and featuring an empire waist and long sleeves. A garden hat trimmed with lace pearls and ribbon completed the look.

A reception was held for the newlyweds in the home of the bride's parents following the 1 o'clock ceremony. The two-tiered white wedding cake, decorated with red roses and hearts, was served from a table covered with a white cloth. Crystal appointments were used.

She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations, accented with white lace.

Alter decorations consisted of a large arrangement of red roses and greenery.

Mrs. Lester Rose, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and the best man was Randy Hyden.

Corsage presented to honoree

Patti Fitts, bride-elect of Jerry Stout, was presented a corsage at a shower in her honor Monday evening.

The shower was in the home of Mrs. David Duke.

The honoree was attired in a peach polyester dress featuring a cowl neckline and long sleeves gathered at the wrist.

The engaged couple's mothers, Mrs. James Fitts and Ina Stout, were also presented with corsages.

Debbie Fitts assisted her sister with the gifts.

The refreshment table was draped with a lace-trimmed cloth, and was centered with an arrangement of peach flowers, flanked by candelabrum. Silver and crystal appointments were used.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. Floyd Stephens, Mrs. Tom Yeats, Mrs. Ray Rackley, Mrs. Al Spargo, Mrs. Floyd Williams, Mrs. Albert Peltus, Mrs. Paul Beasley and Mrs. Roy Watkins.

The couple plan to be married Nov. 11 at Trinity Baptist Church, with the Rev. Claude Craven performing the ceremony.

Free pre-natal course begins

Beginning December 7, Malone-Hogan Hospital will host its first free Pre-Natal Clinic for expectant parents. The course is for any expectant parents in the community who are interested in the various aspects of the process of birth. Expectant parents do not have to be patients of Malone-Hogan physicians, and no fees will be charged. Further details will be outlined later, but classes will be limited to 15 couples. It will consist of eight sessions, scheduled once weekly for two months. Additional classes will be scheduled later, as long as there are interested parents. Only those with due dates between February 1 and March 29 need to register for this class. Those with later due dates can register later. Registered Nurse Karen DeNardo, a former staff member of the labor and nursery units of Resurrection Hospital in Chicago, will be the instructor. She is a graduate of the University of Illinois College of Nursing, Chicago, Illinois, and is presently working in the obstetrics-gynecology department at Malone-Hogan Hospital. To register for the December class, call Mrs. Curry, 263-1211, Extension 175, Monday through Friday, before December 1.

Krugerrand jewelry combines the outrageously elegant with the eminently practical. It's more than just beautiful jewelry. It also happens to be a very intelligent way to own gold. You see, the Krugerrand contains one troy ounce of pure gold, not a fractional amount. Its gold content, therefore, is never in doubt. This is why the Krugerrand is the world's best way to own gold. And why Krugerrand jewelry is the world's best — and certainly most fashionable — way to give it. Stop in soon and see our complete collection of Krugerrand coins in 14K Wideband frames.

Women's bank aims to further cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first nationally-chartered bank owned and operated by women will cater to women's financial and credit needs. But it won't ignore men, says a future executive of the Women's National Bank, set to open here in late December. "We will do as much good for the women's cause if we are extremely successful as if we just tried to confine our business to women," said Meredith M. Homet, a public relations consultant who will be second in command. The bank's 15-member board includes six men and a partly-male staff will be hired, said Ms. Homet, who prefers that designation. The bank will assign officers to individual customers for consultation, and offer lunchtime sessions on investments, wills and other subjects, Ms. Homet says. State-chartered women's banks operate in San Francisco, San Diego, Richmond, New York and Greenwich, Conn. The application for a federal women's bank was rejected by the comptroller of the currency three years ago. Most proposed board members lacked banking experience and there was insufficient information on the need for a women's bank, the comptroller said. Ms. Homet joined other organizers to win support for the idea. They conferred with congressmen, documented the special credit problems women face and found more experienced board members. The new application was accepted. The bank has already collected $3 million in pledges from about 1,000 individuals and organizations. It expects to raise another $2 million through stock offerings, probably in late December. Like any new bank, its major consideration is the acquisition of deposits and the sale of stock. Some corporate accounts may be solicited from companies with a favorable percentage of women in their work force, Ms. Homet said.

Check the ingredients

By the Associated Press

Castor oil, beeswax and borax. These are the items dreams are made of for American consumers who spend nearly $10 billion a year on cosmetics and toiletry preparations.

Learning what's in the different products can help you save money, decide among competing brands and protect yourself against items you might be allergic to.

The principal ingredient in lipstick, for example, is castor oil. Beeswax also is used in lipstick and it is mixed with borax in cleansing cream to prevent oil and water from separating.

A Food and Drug Administration regulation which took effect April 15 requires cosmetic manufacturers to list most ingredients on product labels, or, in cases where the item is very small, on accompanying packaging. But the agency says a lot of misinformation persists about what cosmetics can — and cannot — do.

The Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act defines cosmetics as substances which may be "rubbed, poured, sprinkled or sprayed on, introduced into or otherwise applied to the human body for cleansing, beautifying, promoting attractiveness or altering the appearance without affecting the body's structure or functions."

The effect on bodily functions is a key part of the definition. Products such as antiperspirants and antidandruff shampoos are legally classified as drugs because they are designed to change the way the body acts; deodorants and regular shampoos are cosmetics.

Drugs are much more strictly regulated than cosmetics. They must be proved safe and effective before they are placed on the market. No such testing is required for most cosmetic ingredients although the FDA does insist that if the manufacturer has not substantiated the safety of a product, the label must carry a statement saying: "WARNING — The safety of this product has not been determined."

Unlike the other ingredients, color additives used in cosmetics must be approved by the FDA for purity and safety. One of the best-known colorings, Red Dye No. 2, was banned by the government last year and manufacturers have been forced to develop substitutes.

Many of the color additives that have been okayed for general use in cosmetics are not approved for use in products applied around the eyes because of the sensitivity of the area. The FDA also announced recently a plan to make sure that eye cosmetics have adequate preservatives to make them bacteria free, even when exposed to potential contamination during ordinary use. The agency acted after receiving reports of instances where contaminated cosmetics caused eye infections.

While cosmetic manufacturers and retailers claim special properties for individual brands, the basic ingredients for a given product are fairly similar. The difference in products — and price — may lie mainly in packaging and promotion. Personal tastes and reactions also play a major role. What works for you may be a disaster for your neighbor.

Advertising and promotion claims may be confusing and the FDA advises consumers to take these claims with a grain of salt.

Doesn't Like People Who Are Always Late

DEAR ABBY: Why are some people always late? I know two—a man and a woman. The woman has no excuse whatsoever because she has no job, no children and all the time in the world. The man is self-employed, and his reputation for tardiness is so well-known that when he makes an appointment it is assumed that he will be anywhere from half an hour to an hour late—and he always is. He has never been known to apologize for his lateness.

My time is every bit as valuable as anyone else's, and I resent being kept waiting. Why, oh why, are some people always late?

HATES LATENIKS

DEAR HATES: Show me a "latenik" and I'll show you a person who is selfish, inconsiderate and emotionally immature. Like children, they live in a timeless world, and they couldn't care less about the inconvenience they cause others.

Occasionally, one who is meticulously punctual will be made late through no fault of his own. But those who are chronically tardy are invariably immature and inconsiderate in other ways.

DEAR ABBY: When I recently extended an invitation for an 8 o'clock dinner at my home to a couple we know and like, she said, "May we bring our children?" (They are 5, 7, and 9.)

I said, "I am sorry, but this party is for grownups. I'll have the children another time when we plan a cookout."

She became very angry and said, "Well, if our children are not welcome, don't count on us!" Then she slammed the telephone down on my ear.

Abby, I do not think children belong at parties with grownups, and hers are particularly ill-mannered. My husband thinks I was wrong for not making her children welcome. I'd like your opinion.

DEAR HOSTESS: I'm with you.

Not best way to do it

Love-letter filed as will here

BY BOBBURTON
On an August night in 1880, General J.J. Byrne wrote a letter to his wife.
"My Darling, my beloved wife," it began. It was a love letter, but it was a love letter with a curious twist. General J.J. Byrne was bound for the Guadalupe Mountains, where there had been reports of recent Indian attacks. "It may be that I have conjured up a horrid dream, but it is too sadly real for that, yet I may be spared to you, and low, for years to come."
"But if it is my fate to die without again meeting you on earth..." the letter continued, and it laid out the General's desire "to put my affairs in order so you can know what provision has been made for you in the event anything should befall me."

her husband intended. The letter was probated as a will.
Today, such an idea is not always so effective. The kinds of tragedies which can claim a life today are not always as truly foreseen as Byrne's.
But a will, professionally drawn up and notarized, remains the single best possession you can leave your family.
Lawyers are not acting in a burst of self-interest when they recommend that everyone have a will. A will is the cheapest way to insure that your estate, your possessions, pass quickly and freely exactly where you intend them to. And yet, 70 per cent of the Americans who died last year died intestate, without leaving their wishes behind.

By legal definition, a will is "a legal document by which a person makes a disposition of his property, to take effect after his death, and which, by its own nature, is revocable during his lifetime."
The problem, in most cases, is simply this: the person who had died has assumed that his wishes were so obvious that no one could possibly question what to do with his estate.
What the intestate person has accomplished, in effect, is to allow the State of Texas, which generally wishes it didn't have the responsibility, to administer his estate. Texas does so with a fixed formula, under fixed laws, and without much personal attention for the recipients of the estate.

For example, a young man dies, leaving a wife and child. According to state law, half his estate goes to the wife. But the other half is held for the child, and the wife cannot get at the assets, either to invest them or even to spend them on the child's welfare.
In another case, a person dies and leaves behind children by a previous marriage. The present spouse immediately becomes a partner with the children—an event which is not necessarily pleasurable.
In order for a person to get at funds under the control of the court, legal procedures are involved and accounting to the court required, all of which can cost more than the will did in the first place.

Each will has one thing in common. An executor is appointed to handle the distribution of the estate. In a simple will, the executor could be a spouse or other close relation. In more complicated procedures, a lawyer or other trained person could be named.
A will is a good idea, but can't people just draw one up themselves?
Not if they want to be really sure that the provisions contained in it are legal. An example of a common error—persons who leave a will which states that the recipient can never sell a certain tract of land outside the family have written an illegal provision.

It was a personal letter, signed twice and handwritten. On the back of the envelope was the postscript "This letter is only to be delivered to Mrs. Byrne in the event of my death."
The letter was delivered, as the General met the fate he saw so vividly as he wrote of "human nerves strung to greatest tension by emotions, too sad for words to tell..."
It survives today, however, not as a faded emotion handed down from generation to generation, but as an official document, preserved in the Howard County Clerk's office. The letter, intended to serve as comfort for the widowed Lilly L. Byrne, actually served to get her the reward

Wood was the fuel
with Marj Carpenter

LOTS OF WOOD — The old wooden windmill, the huge root woodpile and the McDowell Ranch House are shown 90 years ago 20 miles southwest of Big Spring.

They saved enough cows to restock and build the herd back up.
But there always seems to be another problem waiting for the West Texas rancher. They haven't had a good market price since 1972.
Originally, Grandpa Lorin McDowell came to Howard County in 1883 following his older brother here from San Saba where the family raised sheep and cattle.
The two brothers each homesteaded some land, purchased some and the family ranch today includes about 80 sections to 50,000 acres with 55 sections on the ranch which splits the Howard-Glasscock County lines plus 25 sections in Borden County.
The three generations of Lorin McDowells have cattle which have produced a crossbreed in their herd of good beef. Added to the original Longhorns were some Durhams latter called Shorthorns brought in by Grandpa. There is a H.W. Caylor painting of some of these cattle on top of a hill on the McDowell ranch. The painting is displayed in the front office at the ranch.

The office is made out of the original family barn and holds such items as the spurs and the rifle scabbard belonging to Lorin Jr.
The old ranch house occupied by Mrs. Rosemary McDowell has been remodeled and is around 75 years old. The family of Lorin III built a new house on the ranch.
The McDowell brothers lived in a dugout when they arrived. They later built a ranch home and then homes for their individual families in Big Spring. Lorin's was where the Big Spring Herald now stands and his brother's was across the street in the location of River-Welch Funeral Home.
The two brothers, Lorin and J.I. also helped found the First National Bank. Lorin was the first president. Lorin III is still a member of the board.
The family horse pasture used to be in what is now inside the city limits near the old Birdwell Home. It's been almost a hundred years since the first McDowell came to Howard County. That spans almost half of the life of the nation.
The Half Circle L Ranch has developed their own breed of cattle during that time and survived many ranching problems.
There is also a Lorin IV. Lorin III and Nellie have three children, Lorin IV, 15, Allen 12 and Laurel Lee, 8.
The McDowells are typical of the early West Texas people—hospitable, friendly, courteous and resourceful. And that's the way they still are — out at the McDowell Ranch where I occasionally ride fence.

Gen. Bradley moving to Texas in November

LOS ALAMITOS, Calif. (AP) — With trembling hands and voice, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, bid farewell to California, saying he will miss the "warm hospitality, sunshine and laughter."
Bradley, who will be moving to Fort Bliss, Tex., in mid-November, was paid a tribute by the California National Guard on Thursday. The farewell salute included an ear-shattering 19-cannon salute and the presentation by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of the Medal of Valor, California's highest honor. All branches of the armed forces participated.
The 84-year-old World War II field commander arrived by helicopter and, in a blue convertible once owned by West Point classmate Dwight D. Eisenhower, reviewed six groupings of troops who stood at attention in precise rows.
Bradley was pushed in his wheelchair to the reviewing stand, where he stood — with help — for the national anthem.
Bradley, who suffered a severe stroke in 1975, noted he was moving to Texas partly for health reasons. In 1973, he underwent surgery to prevent a blood clot from migrating to his lungs.

Med equipment salesman performed surgical tasks

NEW YORK (AP) — The case of a medical equipment salesman who allegedly performed surgical tasks in two hospitals in Suffolk County may reflect a wider pattern of medical abuse, according to a state legislator.

A Little Lower Is it necessary? Public records

Ralenda was calling me on business. During our conversation she mentioned that she had met a new friend and that she was going to get married again. I asked one of my stock questions: Can you live without him? Immediately, her response was in the negative. I need to be with him, she stated. I knew that once again a marriage was doomed to failure and I was saddened to think how little she had gotten from our counseling sessions.

It was precisely because of the stresses and strains that come to every marriage, that I asked Ralenda if she "could live without him." Her answer, thoughtful, almost glib, told me too effectively that she was not able to give to marriage the strength that it requires for spouses and other members to survive.

It is surprising that White took so many slashes at Dwiell in his "first" meeting with reporters as a candidate. One aimed at his opponent's father, Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Sr. White already has been called "Switchblade Mark" in at least one political column.

INVESTIGATING CHARGES OF SURGERY BY SALESMEN — Matthew L. Liflander, left, responds to questions during a news conference in New York Friday on an investigation he heads on allegations that medical salesmen performed surgery in some hospitals in New York State. At right is Allan Hevesi, chairman of the New York State Assembly Health Committee.

public hearings beginning here Nov. 10. However, a number of published reports identified the hospitals as Smithtown General and St. John's, both in Smithtown in Suffolk County. Spokesman for both hospitals said they had no knowledge of any illegal surgery, but refused comment on the specific allegations.

In one case, Hevesi said, a doctor told the salesman to drill into a patient's skull to remove brain casing after the salesman said the doctor was drilling at the wrong angle. The salesman reportedly took the drill and finished the job.

White gets nickname

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — It shouldn't surprise anyone that Mark White came out swinging at Price Daniel Jr. in his announcement that he too wants to be attorney general of Texas.

It is surprising that White took so many slashes at Dwiell in his "first" meeting with reporters as a candidate. One aimed at his opponent's father, Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Sr.

White already has been called "Switchblade Mark" in at least one political column. Considering poll results before the announcement, White has little choice to hit hard at the popular Daniel Jr.

Daniel is clobbering White in the polls, and in the coming election year it would be next to impossible for White to develop issues and get them played in the newspapers prominently.

White the attorney general's race is one of the most important in Texas from the standpoint of power, it will be competing for newspaper front pages with the U.S. Senate and the governor races.

The style of White's campaign is distasteful to many, probably even to the former secretary of state. But it is his only chance to win the Democratic nomination.
