As site for new industry Lockheed favors Big Spring

By JAMES WERRELL Officials of Lockheed Aircraft Service Company of Ontario, Calif. have announced that the company will use Webb Air Force Base facilities in a bid to modify F-4C fighter aircraft. Boulduan, Director of Planning, Pricing, & Contracts for Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., has notified me by telephone that Webb Air Force Base at Big Spring had been selected to do work on Governmentairplanes if it is awarded the contract by the Defense Department. The contract will be awarded March 31, 1978, and if Lockheed is the successful bidder on that date, it would start preparations and move in immediately and get its first F4C Airplane June 1, 1978, and would receive an average of one and one half airplanes per week until it had 24 airplanes under roof and being worked on at one time.

'Lockheed's first contract with the City of Big Spring would be from April 1, 1978, to October 1, 1982, or 41/2 years.

If Lockheed is awarded the bid, between 600 and 1,000 highly paid employes would operate out of a 30-acre compound at the north end of the base. "Of course, everything hinges on whether Lockheed gets the contract, but at this point I'd say our chances are excellent. I'd say we're in," said Winston Wrinkle, member of the Big Spring Industrial Team.

The Lockheed Aircraft Service Company is a division of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation which is located in Burbank, Calif. It will compete with Fairchild, McDonnell-Douglas, Northrup and Hayes Aircraft Corporations for the contract to modify fighter planes.

'The contract will not necessarily to the lowest bidder. Quality of facilities and ability to best staff the project will be considered before price," said Wrinkle. "We have Senators Bentsen and Tower, Congressmen Burleson and Mahon, and Majority Leader Jim Wright doing their best to see that we (Big Spring) get the contract," he added. If Lockheed is successful, the first phase of operations is expected to begin in April of 1978. The pay scale for as many as 1,000 employes would range from $4 to $7 an hour.

In order to accomodate Lockheed, the city plans to build a new 90,000 square foot hangar, and rent space in 19 existing buildings on the base. To make room for the new hangar, the wooden hangar 11 will be demolished. Included in the Lockheed compound will be an existing six-plane hangar, the new 18-plane hangar, aircraft and jet engine machine shops, an X-ray jet inspection chamber, an aircraft battery shop, a jet engine test cell, a paint shop and several office areas.

Big Spring has been in close competition with officials from Selma, Ala., who had hoped to lure Lockheed to the defunct Craig AFB there. Negotiations have been under way for the last four months.

On Nov. 3, six Big Springers traveled to Ontario, Calif. to present the city's proposal to the company. Those attending were City Manager Harry Nagel, City Attorney Jim Gregg, Airport Manager Harry Spannaus, and Industrial Team members Clyde McMahon and Winston Wrinkle.

Why did Big Spring get the nod from Lockheed?

"Well, both cities had about the same facilities to offer. I think the decision was made because of several other factors." said Wrinkle. "We have superior schools; no corporate income tax in Texas; Howard College will set up a training program for employes; and I think they were impressed with the Texas work ethic," he added

Excellent flying weather and pleasant climate for workers were also cited as reasons for Lockheed's decision.

Clyde McMahon, longtime member of the Chamber of Commerce, was the principal local contact person on the project and worked countless hoursputting the package together for Big Spring.

Three counts in Wichita Falls Former Webb pilot charged

A former Webb AFB instructor pilot has been charged in Wichita Falls with attempted capital murder after two brothers, one 13 and the other 11, told investigators they had been abducted and sexually assaulted by the man.

Accused is 1st Lt. Michael David Jarvis, now assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls. Jarvis, who was born in Boston, Mass., May 19, 1953, and who now lists his home as Brea, Cal., was still in the Wichita County jail this morning, unable to make $120,000 bond.

Jarvis was assigned to Webb as recently as last July. Reports emanating from Wichita Falls that he was involved in youth work here on a limited basis have not been substantiated here

To John Hill's agents

Jarvis earned his commission at Washington State University in the ROTC and went on active duty June 28, 1975. He was assigned here to the 3389th Flight Training Squadron. When he was reassigned, he went to the 89th FTS at Sheppard.

Jarvis is also charged with the sexual abuse of a child and with aggravated kidnapping.

Police in Wichita Falls said the youths told them they were collecting aluminum cans along U.S. 287 when Jarvis stopped and promised to supplement their can supply with several he had stored at his residence, if they would accompany him. They said he took them instead to a residence on the city's north side. One brother told officers he was three hours. The other said he was sexually assaulted several time during that interval. The brothers said they were also threatened with a knife. Both told investigators they were then loaded back into a car and taken to a bridge spanning the Wichita River, located on FM 2715, a half mile from FM 1740. There they were thrown into the river 27 to 29 feet below the bridge. They were picked up by a motorist early Saturday night and taken first to a Wichita Falls restaurant where police were summoned. They later were taken to a hospital for examination before they were released.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rival demonstrators reassembled at separate locations near the White House today as the Shah of Iran, winding up his violence-scarred state visit, paid a return call on President Carter.

In the aftermath of Tuesday's raucous street protests, which resulted in 124 injuries and 12 arrests when fighting broke out among proand anti-shah forces, a heavy police contingent today kept the groups more than a block apart.

The protesting groups were far smaller in numbers and more orderly than on Tuesday, as the police lines were doubled.

About 1,000 chanting Iranian students, many wearing masks to conceal their identity, continued to protest the shah's U.S. visit from Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania

Some 200 other opponents marched in a circle on the Ellipse, a park area behind the White House where much of Tuesday's violence occurred. Meanwhile, about 200 pro-shah demonstrators assembled at 17th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, several hundred feet from the students.

Police had canceled permits for demonstrations closer to the White House in the wake of Tuesday's violence.

Following the White House meeting with Carter, the shah's schedule called for him to attend an Embassy Row luncheon hosted by Vice President Walter F. Mondale and then a meeting on Capitol Hill with the House International Relations Committee

The shah and his wife, the Empress Farah, are to leave tonight from Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington for Paris.

In a White House meeting Tuesday that was overshadowed by the demonstrations, the shah reportedly pledged to Carter that he would not push for higher oil prices at a meeting of the Organization of Petroleum-Exporting Countries next month,

The monarch, whose nation supplies 7 to 8 per cent of U.S. oil imports, has said in recent interviews that Iran would remain neutral on the pricing issue. The Washington Post said he was understood to have told Carter the same thing

This has been the most tumultuous of the shah's 12 visits here during his 36-year reign.

There were 12 arrests and 124 people reported injured, 25 of them police officers, as repeated clashes broke out between the contending factions.

George Washington University Hospital officials said at least 45 demonstrators were treated in the emergency room.

Three were admitted, including a 66-year-old pro-shah demonstrator from California. He was listed in serious condition late Tuesday night after undergoing two hours of surgery for a fractured skull.

A 21-year-old demonstrator was in satisfactory condition with a spinal injury. The third, a 20-year-old antishah student, was in fair condition with facial cuts.

National Park Service police estimated that about 8,000 people took part in Tuesday's protests. The shah's supporters see him as a hero for bringing prosperity and stability to Iran. His detractors look upon him as a tyrant whose regime would crumble without U.S. economic and military ties.

The most serious of Tuesday's incidents erupted just beyond the White House fence as the shah and his wife arrived for a ceremonial welcome from Carter. On the White House roof, teams of snipers stood by, armed with rifles.

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) - The newest source of underground marijuana in this eastern Oklahoma town is the pit where authorities buried 81/2 tons of marijuana several months ago.

Officials tried to keep the location of the pot plot a secret, but the local newspaper caught wind of the marijuana burning and printed a picture of it. It also gave an approximate location of the site

The 81/2 tons of marijuana were confiscated by authorities from an airplane that landed in Ardmore, Okla.

In an effort to halt the marijuna thefts, officers staked out the drug burial site on pastureland during the weekend. After watching two teenage boys dig up 300 pounds of pot in several hours, officers arrested the juveniles and charged them with possession of marijuna, said Pittsburg County Sheriff J.B. Orr.

The sheriff's department will meet with the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation to try find a way to eliminate the new-found underground drug source.

Dangerous drug decision

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed today the conviction of David Harold Henderson of Dallas County for possession of a dangerous drug even though Henderson pleaded guilty.

Henderson allegedly possessed diazepam, a tranquilizer marketed under the trade name Valium, on Aug. 8, 1976. On Feb. 17, 1977, he waived trial by jury and pleaded guilty. The judge sentenced him to one day in jail and a $250 fine.

The appeals court said the state health commissioner added diazepam to the list of controlled substances in 1975, but the court in an earlier case held the commissioner had no power to add drugs to the penalty group of such substances.

Publisher's corner-Did Carter fool or betray Briscoe?

Texans have watched their governor, Dolph Briscoe, through a rather puzzling series of stances toward President Jimmy Carter.

First, Gov. Briscoe came out strongly as a Carter supporter way back when the peanut farmer was little known outside Georgia. When Briscoe announced his support for Carter, most Texans were still saying, 'Jimmy Who?''

Then during a close presidential campaign, we heard Gov. Briscoe claim to have a promise from Carter to deregulate natural gas. The promise came in the form of a nowfamous letter.

THIS WAS PUZZLING to most of us since Carter's public stance was against deregulation. I personally heard candidate Carter tell Harte-Hanks Communications Inc. editors (which the combined largest newspaper readership in Texas) favor deregulation right now. This less than three weeks before the election, and if the candidate had ever been tempted to hedge, it would have he stuck to it. When the president unveiled his energy debacle, Gov. Briscoe began to scream that Texans had been betraved. The famous letter, which was dated four days after I had heard Carter was waved as a sign of this betraval So what did the letter say?

It was a rather broad and bland Republicans versus Democrats campaign statement. The meat of deregulation comes only briefly in the fifth paragraph which read:

."First, I (Carter) will work with the Congress, as the Ford Administration has been unable to do, to deregulate new natural gas. The decontrol of producers prices for new natural gas would provide an incentive for new exploration and would help our nation's oil and gas operators attract needed capital. Deregulation of new gas would encourage sales in the interstate market and help lessen the prospect of shortages in the nonproducing states which rely on interstate supplies. While encouraging new production, this proposal will protect the consumer against sudden, sharp increases in the average price of natural gas."

THE LETTER. which was addressed to Gov. Briscoe and also to the governors of Louisiana and Oklahoma, is quite clear that the president would work to deregulate new natural gas." But that's not what he has done. And that's not what his public statements before the campaign were declaring.

One of two things must have happened: 1) The letter was a campaign blunder in which one part of a very busy election staff did not know what the other part of the staff was doing, and the letter was not thought out or cleared by Jimmy Carter. 2) Or it was a desperate, last-minute effort to carry the much-needed state of Texas at any price, with a "face the consequences later'' attitude prevailing. I am inclined to think it was the former, since the letter concludes with a reference to a "strong commitment to increasing our domestic production, "strong commitment to increasing our domestic production,' a stand candidate Carter frequently opposed.

But if I had a personal letter from Carter which pledged one thing and had to watch him do something else, I would feel just as betrayed as Gov. Briscoe. - J. TOM GRAHAM know someone who was using narcotics. It may have been a friend, a friend of a friend, or a relative, but no matter who it was, the fright and disgust which was experienced by the person seeing the "junkie" was enough to turn off any feelings of curiosity at putting a needle into a vein in most cases. I MET TWO GIRLS once in a

They were very lucky, so I thought, because their father paid the rent on their apartment and they could have parties all night, any night, without parents hanging around to bother

Later I found out that after their father had remarried. He rented them the apartment so they wouldn't be in the way of his new wife.

Cheri and Cheryl were sick all the time. I couldn't figure it out. When I would ask them to go to the movies, one of them would say, "I've got a toothache." Or, "We have to wait til Daddy brings us some monev.

One day I noticed that before their father came over, Cheri put some heavy makeup on the back of her hand. I asked what she was doing, and she answered that her father got upset when he noticed that a sore on her hand never healed. I was so naive that I wondered how he could get upset about that.

After they got to know me, I found out they were junkies. They started shooting up , putting heroin in their veins with needles, when I was present. A guy would bring dope over to sell, and they would divide it exactly down the middle. No matter how careful the one doing the dividing was, the other would accuse her of taking more than her share.

I don't know why I stayed to watch them shoot up - I guess it was because in those day, I was studying to be a psychologist or a social worker, and seeing their style of life was like I was getting "clinical experience," or perhaps it was because the whole lifestyle at that time was "do your own thing," and people just did not go around passing judgement on other people and their ways of life. Also, I thought, quite naively, that if I could set a good example for them and introduce them to my friends, they might give up the narcotics. Since the police had not done any good by arresting them, I did not figure that it would help to run in and grab their dope, saying, "No, no, that's bad." It would probably have alienated them completely from me, and that wouldn't help them either.

The bitter truth

Around the rim

Dusty Richard

I saw in the paper recently that the Big Spring Police Department is filled with blood, stick the needle in and aspirate it; draw up a little blood cracking down on dope in schools and into the hypo so that they could be sure that they had hit a vein, and push These measures are great, and sorely down the plunger. In the heroin would needed, but in my opinion, there is no better prevention of dope use than for go, and they they'd untie the arm and you could tell by the expressions on their faces when the heroin had done a person to actually see or better yet, its work.

> They could never tell me why they used the stuff. They'd say, "Oh, it feels good," or, "You know we've been depressed ever since our mother died," but when I pressed for a better reason, they just didn't know.

THE TWINS were finally busted for possession of heroin. Their father came to me and aked me to help them get their heads together not to use dope. I found out then that they were only 16. I began to build up a crusade to get them straight again. I tried everything, but their father, although he asked me for help, would not help me. He kept bringing them money, which he knew was going to support their habits, but because he had practically kicked them out of the house when they were 15, he had to soothe his guilt.

On their birthday, my boyfriend and I took them out to a nice restaurant, but they had shot up before we got to their apartment, and they kept falling asleep throughout the dinner. They later told me that they had taken pain pills for toothaches, and the pills made them sleepy, but I knew the story by then and realized the cause was heroin.

I finally quit seeing them when they were busted again for possession. The police kept a continual watch on their apartment and I knew that I would be arrested - guilt by association, as it were. It would have ruined my whole life, so although I cared for these girls and wanted desperately to help them, I abandoned them after talking to Cheri, who was in jail.

She told me that they both had been sick, because they were going through withdrawal. They were supposed to go live in a "halfway house" which is a program to re-enter addicts into society as productive members. The program included methadone maintenance, and Cheri said that the methadone tasted awful, but promised that she would do her best. That was the last I heard from them in quite a while, but once I saw a mutual friend who told me that they had sunk to the depths - one was living with a "biker" and the other worked in a massage parlor. They were still on dope he said.

I REMEMBER CRYING - they were only 17 and I could bet that they'd be dead before they were 25. If I had ever in my life entertained any thought of shooting heroin, or anything else, into my vein, just seeing those girls ruin their lives, throw away every chance they had to get off heroin, and seeing them make the friends who cared about them so anguished, that's when I knew that no matter what, hard drugs were not for me, and I could never let that "Satan Stuff" get a hold on me. One time before they were arrested, I was so frustrated about them using the heroin, and because I could not do anything to make them stop, I threatened, "Okay, this time I am going to do some too, just so I'll know what it is that heroin has that life itself can't offer you. Here is some money, when the guy comes with the dope, buy some for me." I really just wanted to see what they would say.

Western Europe. The new negotiations are acquiring a dynamic that tends toward apparent parity for the two superpowers while ignoring Europe

Should this assessment prove correct, he said, "a turning point in postwar history will soon be reached because the Soviets would draw the conclusion that Western Europe is open to them." He did not necessarily mean military invasion but rather the political and economic impact of overwhelming Soviet military superiority in central Europe.

American diplomats are skeptical of French sincerity in privately expounding this line. They also claim that West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, in his recent warning delivered in a speech to the Institute of Strategic Studies, was uninformed. CORRECT OR NOT, there is solid reason to believe that Mr. Carter dangerously underestimates European alarm about his pending strategic arms deal with Moscow. The brutal truth is that Mr. Carter's top SALT planners are regarded both here and in Bonn and London with skepticism or something much worse. That skepticism goes far beyond SALT and the dilemma it is creating for European acquisition of new weapons to defend against the awesome Soviet buildup of nonstrategic fighter aircraft, nuclear missiles, dense anti-aircraft systems. tanks - and now the Backfire bomber. ("The Backfire is terrible, you say, so let it only be able to strike Europe," one middle-level planner told us in a revealing sarcasm.)

The problem as seen here, however, goes deeper, starting with heightened Soviet penetration into Africa. When the French sounded out Washington on the Soviet-backed Angolan incursion into Zaire, the answer was nonchalant: Zaire's President Mobutu was not worthy of U.S. help.

she was born she had on her records. "PKU 3.6 per cent." When my son was born last year nothing was said about PKU. Does this mean the girl may have slight retardation, or what? -Mrs. L.E.

"PKU" stand for a real tonguetwister of a word "phenylketonuria." this means the presence of phenylalanine in the urine. It is a substance (an amino acid) found in protein. The problem was recognized years ago as a cause of mental retardation, so testing newborns for this is a common practice today

The reason it appears in the urine is that the liver fails to break it down properly.

The 3.6 per cent reading would have put your daughter in a suspicious category. A reading of 6 milligrams and above is considered significant.

There's much missing from your letter. She is now six years old, but you don't mention her present mental state. If you haven't noted any unusual behavior, I doubt you have anything to worry about. If she was put on a reduced phenylalanine diet after birth, the chances of mental retardation occuring is small. She may also have been able to compensate for her deficiency.

Your daughter is about to start school and will have the usual aptitude tests. This will tell much. If you are still worried, the PKU problem can be tested in other ways.

I have used the term, "inborn error of metabolism," in discussing certain ailments in this column. One reader wrote to ask me what that means. PKU is a classic example.

-Acting general counsel Eric Fygi, whom we discovered had destroyed documents sought by Congress while he was at the old Federal Energy Administration. -Undersecretary Dale Myers, who worked for Rockwell International and was an energy official under Nixon and Ford.

The Ottinger letter also named some GOP officials who were essentially non-political. But it neglected to mention Lynn Coleman, who represented oil and gas companies as an attorney for John Connally's law firm.

Even Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich. who has supported Schlesinger, complained to him in a private letter that a "disproportionate number" of his appointees were trained at the old Atomic Energy Commission, Energy Research and Development Administration or Defense Department. Despite the congressional griping, however, it is unlikely that President Carter will abandon his hand-picked energy czar. Footnote: An Energy Department spokesman said there is no evidence "a real movement" against Schlesinger. Eisenstat's office declined comment.

We have now learned that Viguerie's firm also has used congressmen's names without their permission to raise money for an anti-union lobby called Americans Against Union Control of Government

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have a friend at work who claims to be a Christian, but she is always speaking unkindly of other people and never apologizes if she offends them. If that is what Christians are supposed to be, then I don't really want to be one. -N.N.

Dear N.N.: I think down inside you know that this is not what Christians are really supposed to be. It is unfortunate that this woman does not reflect Christ more completely in her life, and perhaps she is not aware of how insensitive she really is. Christians are commanded: "Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you" (Ephesians 4:31-32).

My prayer is that you will not just look at other Christians, but that you will look at Christ. God loves you, and He wants to forgive you of your sins and give a new purpose to your life. Most of all, He wants to give you eternal life. It would be tragic for you to miss the greatest, most wonderful gift of God - eternal life - just

NEW ORLEANS (AP) ---Legal clinics, which thrive by advertising flat fees for simple law services, have multiplied rapidly since the Supreme Court guaranteed Legal Services. their right to advertise in Advertising is essential to the economic survival of the clinics, which attract customers by charging lower-than-normal rates.

Many clinics also set a flat fee schedule for such routine services as wills, name divorces, simple criminal matters and bankruptcies.

The Supreme Court ruled in a case from Arizona that the First Amendment guaranteed lawyers the right to advertise. But the court added that the legal profession had the right to regulate the time, place and form of such messages.

Which brings us to our point. When you make a tax-deductible contribution to United Way, you could get back a lot more than you give. Because in those United Way agencies is help for drug abuse, mental health, family troubles, alcoholism, rehabilitation, and even emergency help for heart attack victims. American Agriculture has named Dec. 14 as strike day. Farmers have been asked to withhold all produce from the market and to boycott all but essential goods after that date

"We're not going to buy a damned thing," Schroder said. "We consume 40 percent of the steel made in the United States. If it goes to the 14th, this thing is going to shake this nation to the core.

Parity, the issue on which the strikers have focused, is a term to describe a "fair" price for farm products in relation to the farmer's cost of living. Farm prices in mid-October were just under 65 percent of parity for most products

'We want a reasonable profit," said Tommy Carter of Alma, Ga. "How many common workers and laborers would be willing to get 64 percent of 'the salary they should be receiving? Well, that's what we get for our crops.

Georgia is a stronghold for strike supporters. Larry Lee, spokesman for, the Nation 1 Pork Producers Council and a former Georgian, said everything bad that can happen in farming happened in Georgia this year.

'From drought to army worms to aflatoxin (a fungus which attacks corn and soybeans) — all but about 30 counties have been declared disaster areas," said Lee. Few observers give the strike much chance of 11V=0111=11=1=10=10 and I want it to be my last.

He won't believe me. He is an absolute nut on the subject! I'm 38, and don't need any extracurricular flings. How can I convince this nut I'm married to that he can trust me out of town?

Husband Says Cut Out

Those Business Trips

DEAR ABBY: I've been married less than a month and my husband has already given me an ultimatum. If I go on any overnight business trips with the professional group I belong to, we are finished! Abby, this is my third marriage,

I am a professional woman and I've gone to these meetings for years. I am not going to give them up just

NOT GIVING IN

DEAR NOT: You should have settled this with your "nut" before you tied the knot. If you invite him to go along on the trips, he may feel less threatened. If that doesn't work, you will have to chose between your nut and your business trips.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's boss wants to transfer us to a bigger city about 500 miles from here. It has more advantages for our children and would mean a big promotion for my husband, but every time I think of moving. I burst into tears. I've even put off going there to look for a place to live because I hate the thought of leaving this town.

I've lived here all my life. My family lives here. Our children's friends are here. And we have just built a lovely home. I know I sound selfish, but I can't help it. My husband wants to move. If I need a good lecture, let me have it.

HATES TO MOVE

DEAR HATES: You rattled the right cage. If a man is to succeed in business, his greatest asset is a wife who is always in his corner. Let him accept the promotion. You and your children will make new friends. Help your husband climb the ladder of success by being supportive, and you will have another lovely home that his "Jack" built

DEAR ABBY: I've just had the biggest slapdown in my life. My insurance company has disallowed the prosthesis I bought for the mastectomy I had four years ago. It's not a case of vanity or replacing a piece of female equipment. It's a case of restoring equilibrium. Without proper balance, a woman cannot walk straight. Also, her neck and shoulders ache from the lopsidedness.

Those little pads and "falsies" from the department store don't work. At my son's wedding, I was dancing and having a marvelous time, when my sister caught my eye and whispered urgently in my ear, "Please go to the ladies' room and check your falsie!" It had worked its way up to my shoulder!)

After that, I phoned my local American Cancer Society to find out where to get a properly fitting prosthesis. Just two days after I had it, my neck and shoulder pain disappeared. And it feels so good and looks so natural. Abby, if you print this, maybe some bright insurance executive will see it and realize that such a prosthesis is not simply cosmetic. It's vital to the health of a woman who has had a mastectomy.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Here's your letter. Insurance executives?

by now but things haven't worked out that way. It's hard sometimes to come off the bench," said Dorsett, a native of Aliquippa, a town about 25 miles from Pittsburgh.

Landry, who may be looking for a way to put back some zip in a struggling offense, hinted Tuesday that his prized rookie may be the necessary catalyst.

"I haven't made any definite decision." Landry said. "Tony will continue to play more and more because he's a tremendous runner. The more he plays, the better he gets."

Early in the season Dorsett had difficulty getting accustomed to the complex Dallas offense. He says it's second nature to him now.

"I worked on it before and after practice for weeks. I just concentrated more on catching the ball with my hands instead of against my pants and shirt.

"I have it down now. I can go out there and run with the authority I had in college.

Doing that in Pittsburgh in front of his family and friends would be something special to him

'I can't wait to get home,' said Dorsett. "I hope I play well. Of course, I always

Bostock, the most popular player in the recent re-entry free agent draft, is basing a great deal of his argument for the huge contract on his strong 1977 season - a .336 batting average, second best in the American League behind Minnesota teammate Rod Carew's .388; 14 home runs and 90 runs batted in.

Bostock, picked by the maximum 13 teams in the draft, is expected to narrow the bidding to six clubs later this week, according to his agent, Abdul Jalil.

Jalil said Tuesday that Pittsburgh and Kansas City already have been eliminated from the Bostock sweepstakes because their financial offers were not comparable to those of other clubs.

"You can't ask a player to consider signing for $1 million less with one club than he can get from another," said Jalil. "Right now, we have five offers of over $2 million and three offers that are better than what Reggie Jackson signed

NEW YORK (AP) - College football bowl invitations can't be formally extended until Saturday, but The Associated Press has learned that Notre Dame will go to the Cotton Bowl, Penn State to the Orange Bowl and either MOhio State or Michigan to the Sugar Bowl

Of course, many of the bowl pairings will depend on key games this weekend, but, as usual, the major post-season classics will attract the nation's top teams.

The opponent for sixth-ranked Notre Dame, 8-1, in the Jan. 2 Cotton Bowl game at Dallas could be top-ranked Texas, 9-0. The Longhorns, leading the Southwest Conference, still have to face two league opponents, unranked Baylor, 4-5, and No. 14 Texas A&M, 6-2. The SWC champion automatically is the host team for the Cotton Bowl

No. 9 Penn State, 9-1, will face the Big Eight conference champion, either third-ranked Oklahoma, 9-1, or 11thrated Nebraska, 8-2, in the Orange Bowl at night Jan. 2. Oklahoma and Nebraska will decide the league title when they meet Nov. 25. The Big Eight loser will go to the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, Dec. 31 against unranked Louisiana State, 6-3

Fourth-ranked Ohio State and No. 5 Michigan, each 9-1, clash Saturday for the Big Ten Conference title and a berth in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2 at Pasadena, Calif., against the Pacific-8 Conference representative, either No., 19 Washington, 6-4; 20th-ranked UCLA, 7-3, or unranked Stanford, 7-3.

The Ohio State-Michigan loser will meet No. 2 Alabama, 9-1, in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 2. If it's Ohio State, that would set up an interesting confrontatitn between the Buckeyes' Woody Hayes and Alabama's Bear Bryant, two of the game's master coaches.

Other major bowl games are shaping up this way Gator Bowl, Dec. 30, at Jacksonville, Fla. - No. 15 Clemson, 7-2-1, against an undetermined opponent.

Liberty Bowl, Dec. 19, at Memphis, Tenn. - No. 18 North Carolina, 7-2-1, against an undetermined opponent. Fiesta Bowl, Dec. 25, at Tempe, Ariz. - The Western Athletic Conference champion, most likely No. 12 Arizona

State, 8-1, against eighth-ranked Arkansas, 8-1. Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, Dec. 31, at Houston - The Texas-Texas A&M loser against possibly unranked Iowa State, 7-3, UCLA, unranked Southern California, 6-4, or Washington.

Tangerine Bowl, Dec. 23, at Orlando, Fla. - No. 16 Texas Tech, 7-2, against 13th-ranked Florida State, 8-1. Peach Bowl, Dec. 31, at Atlanta - Unranked North Carolina State, 7-4, against an undetermined opponent. Independence Bowl, Dec. 17, at Shreveport, La. -Unranked Louisiana Tech, 6-0-2, the Southland Conference champion, against one of three unranked independent teams - Colgate, 10-0, East Carolina, 8-3, or Louisville, 6-3.

'The one thing we are afraid of is that the Pac-8 (race) won't be decided until Nov. 25.

tips from lie detectors NEW YORK (AP) -Advertising researchers are borrowing techniques from sophisticated lie detectors in an attempt to find out what consumers really want rather than what they say they want. "People often cannot say what they believe. They don't understand themselves what influences them," says Ron Nelson of the Consumer Response Corp., which specializes in voice pitch analysis. Brain wave analyses and nervous system responses are also being used in marketing surveys.

The techniques are used to udge an audience's reactions to pilot commercials or Texas proposed products. The tests ordinarily take place in special "testing lounges," set up in shopping areas. The findings are used to help companies decide how to develop their advertising campaigns or whether a market exists for a new product. Company officials say the
