Howard County jail break thwarted

A spontaneous jail break attempt by three Howard County inmates ended inside the jail for two and in a four-story fall for the third.

Roy Dean Boyd, 22, of Big Spring attempted to go out the fourth floor window on sheets and when the sheets broke, he fell right beside the courthouse door, broke both legs, his wrist, and had a possible skull fracture and broken back.

Jeffrey Wallace, 18, a burglar from Big Spring and Scotty Lee Moore, 21 of Lamesa got out of their cell but were loose in the jail block with nowhere to go. After Boyd fell, they had no inclination to try the windows.

The Moore youth had been jailed in connection with aggravated robbery of two local drugstores, and was incarcerated Oct. 7 with bonds set at $50,000 each.

Boyd has been on jail since September for burglary of habitation and theft by exercising control. Total bonds were set at $62,500.

Boyd was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital and will be kept under guard at that facility.

The bid for freedom came at 6 p.m. when jailer Milton Howard Winston opened the door to a four-man cell to remove some trash. According to Sheriff A. N. Standard, three of the prisoners jumped Wilson, beating him in the fact with their fists.

The fourth prisoner elected to stay in the cell.

Meanwhile, Deputy Eddie Owens on the first floor of the Court House was unaware of the jail break. The county custodian spotted the injured Moore crumpled on the sidewalk and rushed in to alert Owens.

Owens, in turn, took stock of the situation and alerted all area law enforcement agencies to help cordon off the jail area.

Sheriff Standard, Dan Hutchinson of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and two city policemen, Tony Lujan and Jerry Pruitt went up into the jail with shotguns and put the two prisoners back in the cell. Nobody was hurt during this action.

Sheriff Standard said, "We are lucky that the jailer was not injured more severely."

"He just walked out of there. But he had two pretty good black eyes," said Stanley Bogard, police chief.

Wilson was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital shortly after the incident was defused.

The sheriff expressed appreciation to all of the law enforcement officers who quickly arrived and completely surrounded the courthouse.

Ben Franklin favored Tom for nation's symbol

Turkey is tasty, but it's dumb

By WALT FINLEY

There it is, high on a mountain top overlooking a slice of America: The turkey, symbol of what this country stands for and aspires to become.

A bad dream caused by Thanksgiving Day indigestion?

Well, the turkey just might have made it to that lofty position if Ben Franklin had won out — definitely a sobering thought.

TIRED OF FLYING KITES and coining witty sayings, Ben reportedly strutted over to Congress one day and pleaded to have the turkey adopted as the nation's symbol, causing quite a flap.

Franklin said the bald eagle — which finally wound up on the Presidential Seal and the endangered species list instead of consequently being raised on eagle farms across the land for Thanksgiving Day consumption — was a "bird of bad moral character...generally poor and often very lousy."

It's somewhat ironic that Ben would pick on the bald eagle, since he himself was bald. That aside, Ben was plainly for the turkey, contending that it was "much more respectable" and "a true original native of America."

Either Ben needed a better set of bifocals (one of his many inventions following a shocking experience with the kite) or he never really hobnobbed with a few thousand turkeys waiting around to get fat.

FRANKLIN WAS RIGHT about the turkey being a down-home sort of bird. It was domesticated by the Aztec Indians of Southern Mexico before the Europeans ever made it over this way. But he failed to mention any misgivings about his feathered friend.

For instance, although it apparently had a good public relations outfit working for it, the turkey may have pulled a no-show at the original Thanksgiving Day feast in 1621.

Deer, geese, ducks and a few eels were served, but probably no turkeys. Ben also neglected to touch on the bird's lack of intelligence. A turkey is dumb.

Much of the turkey's low I.Q. rating apparently stems from its frequent pileups — that's what they call them — resembling the lemmings' annual death march into the sea.

I DIDN'T SEE IT happen, but I wrote about one pileup when a truck driver was bringing a load of feed to a large turkey farm near Sand Springs (Oklahoma, that is). The trucker made the mistake of honking his horn as he pulled up, causing the turkeys to hop on each other in a big, steep pile. Hundreds of them died.

They say a person could, at other times, play taps on a truck horn without causing a single turkey to budge.

OTHER THINGS have set them fluttering into a king-of-the-mountain death sentence for those unfortunate enough to be the first in line, such as mere shadows, low-flying airplanes and sudden thundershowers.

Newly hatched gobblers have to be taught to eat. Turkeys can starve to death because they don't always recognize food and water when they see it.

Turkeys and dancer Gene Kelly have a lot in common. They don't know enough to get out of the rain. When it rains, ex-Alpine cowboy Jay Sanders reports seeing turkeys look up at the water and some drown standing up — because they leave their mouths open.

And mother turkeys have been known to "space out," or sit motionless on a nest and starve to death.

According to an Associated Press story, the Fred Remer family near Spiro, Okla., raises more than 100,000 turkeys annually in "confinement." Once, when moving some poulters from one of the 500-foot-long shelters to another one, one of the baby turkeys declined to step over a small stick of wood.

"Caused by darnest traffic jam you ever saw," Remer told a reporter. "I wish they were smarter — it'd make my job a lot easier."

INCIDENTS such as "The Great Traffic Jam" may help explain why the word turkey has recently began meaning a lot more than just reference to a bird.

Tyke learning to talk again

Need for aid understood

By MARJ CARPENTER

"It began to look as though Jenny was going to be completely deaf and never speak," Mrs. Gerald Bowlan of Snyder said this week.

"We're thankful that there are hearing aids for little tykes and rehabilitation centers like here in Big Spring at the Dora Roberts Rehab. Last week Jenny said Mama and Dada," she added.

"When Jenny was born, she could hear. I know it," her mother stated firmly. "She would turn at sounds and she would cry when people sang in church — things like that. You can tell when your kid can hear."

The mother continued, "She had an earache and I got some medication from an army doctor. My husband is a corporal stationed out in Lamar, Calif."

"He said she had fluid on her ears from an infection. Anyway, I gave her the medicine. I don't know if she had too much or it was too strong, or what. But she quit hearing," the mother added.

Glenn Carrigan, audiologist at the center, said, "It appears that the deafness may have been caused by too much or too strong medication all right."

The child quit turning her head when there were people around, and never uttered a sound.

The mother became frantic. She went to the doctor, who told her, "Some children don't talk until after they are two years old."

Little Jenny will soon be 23 months old. Jenny and her Mother were eventually sent from Wichita Falls where she was being treated to Big Spring.

An extremely happy and active youngster, Jenny wears a small hearing aid in her ear attached to a battery which is carried on a strap next to her body. She wears it without complaint.

Sometimes, she is outfitted with a hearing aid in both ears and two batteries. Then her eyes really light up.

At other times, there is a little beeping sound on her battery because the hearing aid and battery have to be so close together on such a small child that there is feedback.

Jenny doesn't try to pull the hearing aid out of her ears. It's as though she understands that she only has sound when it is connected. She doesn't complain about wearing the battery.

At this point, Jenny may think all of us carry a battery around to hear with.

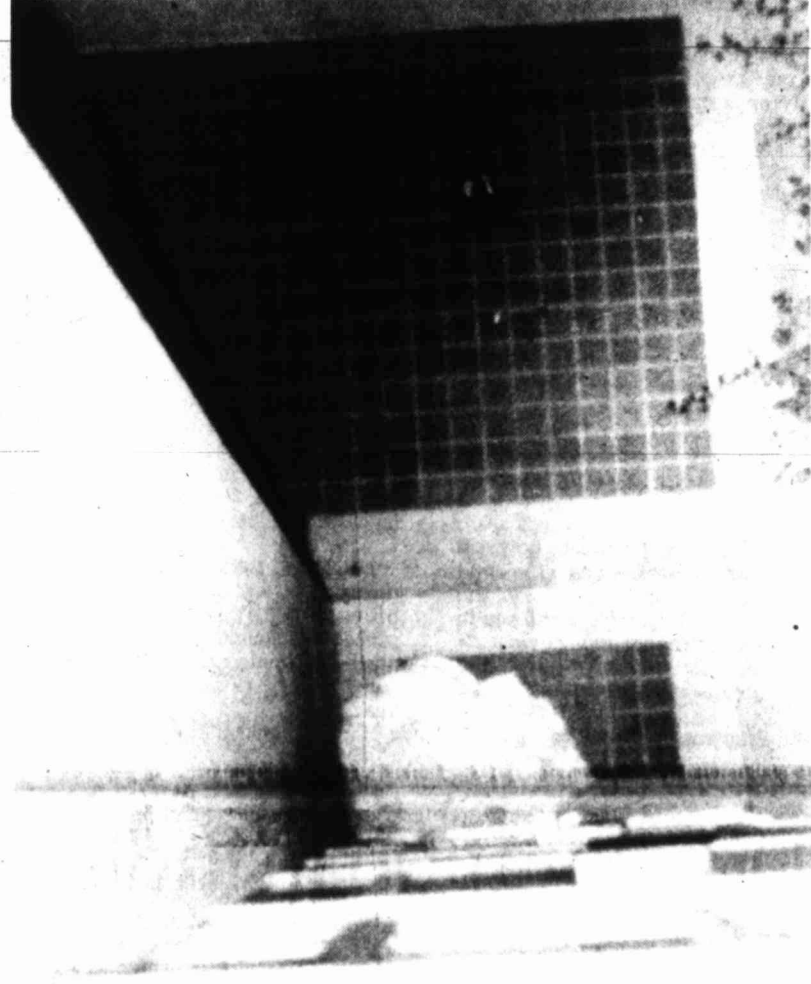

She rushes into the Rehab center and immediately goes hunting Wally Moreno, a physical therapy aid who carries candy in the pocket of her smock for Jenny. Jenny gives Champ Rainwater, the center's manager, a big smile and then runs happily back to hunt the audiologist.

After all, sound began for Jenny the day she came to the center.

And a quiet world began to have more meaning. She probably will not be able to attend public school, but will attend a school for those with hearing difficulties.

However, Jenny has a new world opening up to her — honking horns, clacking geese, television music, bands in parades, and Mother's voice.

And her mother is thankful — that she found a place to bring Jenny sound so that she can learn words.

THE LONG STEP — Roy Dean Boyd, 22, prisoner in the county jail, was seriously injured while attempting to go out the fourth floor jail window on sheets at 6 p.m. Wednesday. This picture is taken from the window where he started to climb out. When the sheets tore, he fell to the spot where his shoes are shown below.

Action/reaction: Good reason

Q Does the caretaker at Moss Creek Lake Park get a month's vacation, from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15? Who owns the cattle roaming around the lake? Will it take a month to restock the lake with fish?

A According to Jerry Foresyth, assistant city manager, the caretaker of Moss Creek Lake, Jim McCain, does get a month's vacation and for good reason. Foresyth explained McCain was on the job on the lake for 335 days of the year working all day long. The cattle belong to a number of ranchers in the area and have always been permitted to graze there. The restocking of the lake with fish is up to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, which has not contacted the city as to their intentions.

TODAY

All schools, public offices, post office, and most businesses closed today for Thanksgiving holiday.

Offbeat: They're sorry

SEATTLE (AP) — The jury hadn't even heard the case, but it was locked up anyway.

King County Superior Judge William Goodloe recessed a trial for attempted murder and ordered panelists locked in the jury room for a few minutes until the courtroom cleared.

Nearly an hour and a half later, Goodloe stopped in the courtroom to inspect its newly waxed floors. He heard noises coming from the jury room, unlocked the door and found a puzzled group of men and women.

The judge, chairman of the court's jury committee and concerned about making the experience of jurors as meaningful as possible, told them he was "profoundly sorry" they had been forgotten.

Tops on TV: Bears-Lions

What's Thanksgiving without parades? For early risers there are two starting at 8 a.m. Kermit the Frog will float into history on NBC, and William Conrad (who already resembles a float) will host the "All-American Thanksgiving Day Parade" on CBS. For gridiron fans, a newly-inspired Chicago Bear team will tangle with the Detroit Lions at 11:30 a.m. on CBS.

Quake jolts Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A powerful earthquake jolted western Argentina early Wednesday, killing at least 50 persons, injuring hundreds more and wrecking thousands of dwellings, the government reported.

The tremors were felt over a wide area reaching into Chile, Peru and Brazil, but serious damage and casualties were reported only in Argentina.

Hardest hit was the province of San Juan, a wine-growing and agricultural region located 800 miles northwest of Buenos Aires in the Andean foothills near the border with neighboring Chile.

The government ordered airlifts of doctors, medicine and blood plasma into the affected region. Army troops were called out of their barracks to help dig through rubble for the injured and dead.

The National Meteorological Service's seismic instruments placed the epicenter of the quake, which measured 7 on the Richter Scale, near Caucete, a rural community of 30,000 persons 18 miles from the provincial capital of San Juan.

Provincial authorities said 80 per cent of Caucete's dwellings collapsed into rubble when the quake struck at 6:28 a.m. (4:28 EST). Most of the buildings were built of adobe.

A reading of 7 on the Richter Scale indicates a major quake capable of causing widespread heavy damage. The Richter Scale is a measure of ground movement in which every increase of one whole number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

Other rural towns in the province were also heavily damaged in the quake. San Juan itself, a city of nearly 500,000, was not as seriously affected. In 1944, an earthquake nearly leveled the city and killed 40,000. The city was rebuilt and the new structures were constructed to resist seismic movements.

SEEKS TO BE DONOR — Karen Hurdle, 16, right, kneels beside her sister Gail, 23, in the living room of their Arlington, Va. home recently. The Hurdle family appeared in Arlington County Circuit Court Tuesday in an attempt to win a decision allowing Karen to donate one of her kidneys to Gail who is suffering from a kidney disease known as polynephritis.

Kidney swap permission

ARLINGTON, VA. (AP) — All her life, Karen Hurdle has lived with the suffering of her older sister, Gail. Now Karen wants to give the only help there is: a kidney. She had to go to court to get permission.

And she got it Wednesday from an understanding state circuit judge.

For Karen to donate a kidney for 23-year-old Gail, there were problems both family and legal.

Her parents were against it. What if there were complications? Mrs. Hurdle feared they might have "two ill daughters instead of one."

Besides, Horace and Aleta Hurdle learned minors may not donate organs. Their daughter, Karen, is 16, two years shy of the age at which she needs no one's consent.

Karen persisted. Her parents came around. The Hurdles went before Circuit Court Judge Charles H. Duff in Arlington. He heard the story, said he was "impressed by the apparent thought" the family had given to the proposition, and promised to rule quickly.

The Hurdles said there have been only six cases in the United States in which a decision was sought giving parents the right to permit a minor to donate a kidney to an ailing sibling. They said that in all but one case the permission was granted.

Gail was afflicted with polynephritis, a kidney disease, in 1964 when she was 10. Medication helped, but in August 1972 her kidneys failed. Now she needs 4½ hours each week on a dialysis machine, a mechanical kidney.

She needs a transplant as soon as possible because, among other complications, the openings in her left arm and right leg for hookup to the dialysis machine are closing.

"Gail was our first concern," Mrs. Hurdle testified in court Tuesday. "We wanted her to get well. But we didn't want to jeopardize Karen."

COIN COLLECTION RECOVERED
J.D. Carter nabbed suspect

Alert store attendant helped recover coins

A collection of rare old coins was recovered recently due to the alertness of a Seven-Eleven Store attendant and some hard work by Detective J.D. Carter.

The coins, which included a 1958 proof set, two pistols and $65 cash were stolen Oct. 26 from the home of Dewey Z. Howard, 3710 Connally.

Carter got a lucky break the next day when the manager of the Wasson Road Seven-Eleven Store called with some interesting news. It seems that a young man had spent several antique coins on items in the store, and the manager became suspicious.

Carter immediately asked the manager's help, and staked out the store in the event the suspect returned. After several hours of waiting in his own pickup, Carter noticed the manager trying to get his attention.

The suspect had returned. Carter arrested the 18-year-old local man, and bond was set the next day at $5,000 by Justice of the Peace Bob West. Once the coins and other stolen merchandise have been inventoried, they will be returned to their owner.

Nouveau art work

RICHMOND, VA. (AP) — A turn-of-the-century wooden sideboard carved in art nouveau style has been added to the collection of the Virginia Museum here.

The sideboard stands nine feet high and was created by Emille Galle at the Salon des Beaux Arts in Paris in 1903. It is in two pieces — a three-foot-high base and a six-foot vitrine. It was purchased with money from the Frances and Sydney Lewis Art Nouveau Gallery and is on display in a fund named for the Richmond couple.

A recurring wheat motif on the sides and base and a harvest scene inlaid on the doors reflects the autumn theme for which Galle was apparently striving.

Deaths — Nolan Voight

Services for Capt. Nolan Voight, 37, who was killed in a plane crash near Lincoln, Neb., Sunday morning, will be held at the First Presbyterian Church here at 2 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Wm. F. Henning, pastor of the church, will officiate with full military honors included in the service.

Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in charge. A flyover of Air Force planes from Lincoln AFB will be held at the cemetery.

Capt. Voight was stationed at Webb AFB prior to going into the reserve and moving to Lincoln.

Survivors include his wife, Sherry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Aton of Big Spring and two children, Brian and Wendy and his father, Edgar Voight of New Braunfels.

Money allocated for Borden span

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation Commission has approved the 1977 State Bridge Replacement Program according to Roger Welsch, District Engineer of the Abilene District.

In a continuing effort to replace the obsolete bridges on the state's system, the 1977 Bridge Program allots $30 million to be used for the improvement or replacement of 143 structures.

Many bridges on the selected list will not be fully replaced. Where the supports are adequate, only the bridge deck will be replaced and/or widened. No additional right of way will be required in this program.

Bridges in the Abilene District include:

Borden Co., FM 669 — Colorado River Bridge, 5.5 miles North of FM 1785.

Fisher Co., FM 611 — Buffalo Creek, 0.6 miles South of US 180.

Jones Co., FM 600 — Clear Fork Brazos River, 5.6 miles South of US 180. US 83 — Clear Fork Brazos River, 6.5 miles North of Taylor County Line. FM 1082 — Clear Fork Brazos River, 0.6 miles East of FM 600.

Taylor Co., US 84 — Buffalo Creek, 3.5 miles South of FM 604 at Lawn. US 84 — Buffalo Creek, 3.3 miles South East of Lawn.

"Engineering and plan work will begin immediately on the Bridge Projects in the Abilene District," Welsch said.

Turkey is sure dumb

look or work or come out right these days is labeled a "turkey." Where folks used to gamely say "Let's talk turkey" when getting down to the money aspects of a business transaction. Nowadays they worry about whether the deal itself will be a "turkey."

Similarly, a car that is a "lemon" also now is considered a "turkey." So is a guy or gal who doesn't rate too highly on a date. And on and on ad infinitum.

Because of the widespread use of the "new" word, some double meanings have unavoidably popped up.

An appliance outlet, currently offering a free bird with each TV purchase, warmly invites customers to "come by (buy?) and get your turkey." That unfortunately, may leave some wondering if they mean the bird or the set.

A MAJOR GREETING card company this season is featuring turkey jokes — and you can take that either way.

The cover of one of the cards asks, "Do you know the difference between a Thanksgiving turkey and a 10-pound sack of fertilizer?" On the inside, the reply: "No? Well, don't invite me to your place for Thanksgiving dinner."

Another card asks, "What if the first Pilgrims had gone out and shot a mole?"

The Pilgrims might not recognize a commercial turkey, which moved from the show ring to the dinner table in the 1930s and attracted year-around consumption beginning in the 1950s.

While their wild counterparts can still fly up to one non-stop mile at a reported 55 miles per hour (are you paying attention Governor Briscoe), today's commercial turkey does well to waddle around under its own weight.

GOURING on vitamin-charged diets of corn and milo, the hens and toms sometimes become so fat during their short lifespan (generally 18 to 22 weeks, respectively) that their legs break from the stress.

The program has become so common that an ad in "Turkey World," a national publication, seriously warns that "better legs are no accident."

When a turkey does suffer a broken leg, other turkeys often rush to its side — and proceed to peck the bird to death.

Overweight problems also have cut into the tom's love life, which once involved a harem of six hens.

THEY'VE BEEN BRED to be so meaty it's very difficult for them to breed. Artificial insemination probably accounts for 98 per cent of all the estimated 138 million turkeys which will be raised in America this year.

Happy Thanksgiving.

At least 10,000 killed

Devastation in India

MACHILIPATNAM, India (AP) — Devastation on a dizzying scale greeted the first reporters to reach the scene Wednesday of the cyclone and tidal wave disaster that officials say killed at least 10,000 persons along India's southeast coast.

About 200 bloated bodies turned black by the sun were floating on what once were fields of grain. Water covered hundreds of square miles of fertile farmland and reporters aboard a helicopter flying 20 feet over the ground could see the remains of rice crops under several feet of water.

This area, about 900 miles southeast of New Delhi and 250 miles north of Madras, was the hardest hit by the storm that struck Saturday and battered the coast for two days, making tens of thousands homeless. It is part of the delta near where the Krishna River flows into the Bay of Bengal.

Crewmen of the Indian air force helicopter told the reporters they had seen thousands of corpses earlier in the week. Most of them now have been buried or burned on huge pyres.

An air force officer said he had seen 8,000 human corpses and an equal number of dead cattle in another district.

"The stench as so strong we had to bring up the helicopter," he said. "We had to fly all day and we wouldn't have been able to carry out our mission otherwise."

On India's southwest coast, where another storm struck Tuesday from the Arabian Sea, reports said 192 persons were killed and 32,000 were homeless. At least 120 of those deaths were reported in the Lakshadweep islands off the coast.

The actual number of deaths in the east coast storm, which officials said washed away as many as 100 villages in the Andhra Pradesh state, may never be known. The Times of India in New Delhi said the death toll could reach 20,000. And T. Venkatramiah, a local politician who went to New Delhi to appeal for help, estimated the number killed at 50,000 and said two million persons may be homeless. He said 38 million acres of crops were damaged.

However, an accurate estimate of the fatalities was made practically impossible by a breakdown in communications, the uncounted number of scattered survivors and the disappearance of whole villages whose populations had not been centrally recorded.

As the helicopter threw out 44-pound sacks of cooked rice and vegetables in the Divi Taluk district, at least two dozen villages and hamlets were seen flattened or submerged in sea water.

Weather

Mild temperatures prevail in state

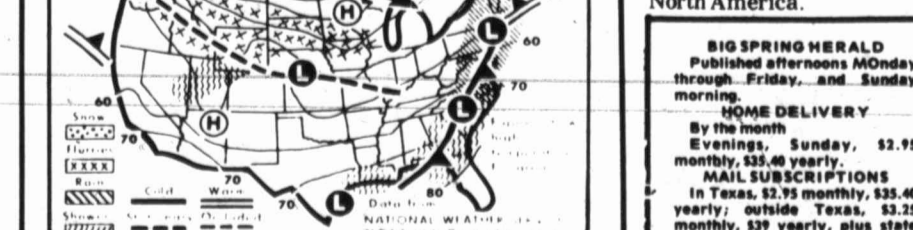

By the Associated Press
Fair skies and mild temperatures prevailed over most of the state Wednesday as Texans prepared to celebrate Thanksgiving Day and feast on turkey and football.

Early morning fog in portions of East and South Texas fled before midmorning sunshine. Earlier the fog had reduced visibility to less than half a mile at Cotulla.

Winds across the state were light and variable. Temperatures by mid afternoon ranged from 58 at Amarillo to 74 at Austin, San Angelo and Corpus Christi.

The National Weather Service said mild afternoons and cool nights would continue.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy north, fair south through Friday. Cooler north Thursday. Highs lower 60s north to mid 80s Big Bend. Lows Thursday night mid 30s north to upper 40s south.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today, Thanksgiving Day, predicts an area of flurries from Wisconsin to Washington, and an area of showers in parts of Nevada, Utah, Colorado and Wyoming. Rain or showers for much of the East Coast and Gulf States.

Two auto accidents

Two automobile mishaps were reported Wednesday morning.

One occurred when cars belonging to Linda H. Graham, 1713 Yale, and Richard L. Read, 1517 E. 17th, collided at 1005 S. Goliad. A parked car belonging to Weight Watchers of West Texas, Lubbock, was struck by the colliding vehicles.

The accident occurred at 11:57 a.m.

Two minutes later, a vehicle driven by Lendra A. Willingham, Gail Route, struck a parked vehicle belonging to Linda M. Swinney, 1008 E. 20th, on the 200 block of W. 8th.

Firemen check

The Big Spring fire department made a run to Gill's Gold-N-Crisp Fried Chicken at 6 p.m. Wednesday to check out a possible leaking gas report. The problem was quickly corrected by a serviceman from Pioneer Gas. Customers were not even aware there was a problem until a fire truck stopped out front.

STAR OF TODAY'S DINNER ACT — Pretty Jane Emerson examines a dressed turkey at a local Safeway store, a pre-Thanksgiving mission repeated hundreds of times around the city. Music City, USA

There's only one Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It takes all of Page 400 in the yellow pages of the Nashville telephone book to list the music publishers.

Two major Nashville streets are Music Square East and Music Square West.

Boots Randolph plays his saxophone every night at a downtown night club bearing his name.

Nashville calls itself "Music City U.S.A." And without music, Nashville would be another Montgomery or Charlotte or Little Rock. In the word association test, "Nashville" is followed naturally by "music." The combination would make for a sure to points on the TV show "Password."

"Harper Valley P.T.A." in 1968 but has had no record approaching its success since.

So what's it like living in Nashville?

Only Nashvillians can run into Johnny Cash at a movie, go to the same dentist as Dolly Parton and claim the same ZIP code as Waylon Jennings (37204).

And while most people drive an average of 500 miles to attend the Grand Ole Opry, Nashvillians have only to drive across town.

If you don't like Boots Randolph, you can choose from several other celebrities who have clubs. They include Webb Pierce, George Jones, Johnny Paycheck and The Four Tops.

There's no shortage of motels, either. There are 111 with 8,442 rooms.

The motels, of course, mean there are tourists, 6.8 million of them last year.

It's easy to get to Nashville because the city is penetrated on all sides by superhighways. Interstate 65 runs north-south, I-40 goes east-west and I-24 runs northwest-southeast.

Moreover, the Chamber of Commerce says Nashville is just three hours southeast of the center of population of the country.

All this means money for the city. Visitors spend $128.4 million annually.

For Nashville motorists, there are special problems. In London you beware of the fog. In Nashville you beware of the tour buses.

They scurry throughout Nashville like ambitious ants, carrying wide-eyed fans to the old Grand Ole Opry, to Pierce's home with a guitar-shaped swimming pool, and to Cash's lakeside home where wastepaper from camera film is often strewn along the road.

Minnie Pearl recently erected a barrier to keep the buses from turning around in her grass, although she said the vehicles are still welcome to drive by her home.

Says one of the ads: "Personalized — custom tours. DAILY. See Backstage at The Opry — Homes of The Stars — Music Row — Historical Sights — Many Other Attractions & Points of Interest. Experienced Opry Guides. SPECIAL GROUP RATES. Not Connected With Other Tours."

Out of things to be thankful for?

Things to be thankful for in Big Spring on this turkey day:
 —The water is not salty enough to float a bar of lead.
 —Howard County Commissioners Court, while not necessarily in favor of motherhood you understand, would nevertheless be willing to place it on the ballot.
 —MOTHER NATURE, through a dearth of rainfall, may see fit to drain One Mile Lake although the City of Big Spring could not.
 —Selma, Ala., has yet to beat Big Spring at anything. Wonder if we could get them transferred into District 5-4?

 —The Air Force left the City of Big Spring enough salvage material for the city to create a new department: assistant city manager for junkyard operations.
 —New projections for the completion of the coliseum at Howard College are within the decade.
 —The Colorado River Municipal Water District has a new packaged product: dehydrated water. For a drink you rip open the package and pour the CRMWD contents into a glass; then add water.

—Cotton prices can't go much lower.
 —The Owens Street overpass is at last open to interalley traffic.
 —Hustle, hustle, hustle is the motto only for the Chamber of Commerce.
 —Rumors are Big Spring will either get a new motel or a renovated county jail.
 —The latest joke: "The Webb environmental impact statement."
 —Cattle prices can't go much lower.
 —THE ENVIRONMENTAL Protection Agency has not yet banned farming per se because of sand pollution even though it has considered several plans to protect the endangered boll weevil.

 —Big Spring public schools have plenty of growth capacity.
 —Big Spring area oil producers have the satisfaction of knowing that, in President Carter's words, they are "ripping the country off" for only $7 a barrel while the friendly Arabs only rip us off for $13.
 —Seriously, Big Spring is the kind of place to live that really does make one thankful. It's pleasant, interesting, hometownish, and downright fun.
 —J. TOM GRAHAM

Hard to tell Around the rim
James Werrell

Happiness is "a loaf of bread, a jug of wine and thou," as Omar Khayyam put it.
 But lately more and more Americans have found they can do without the loaf of bread and even the thou. Budding oenophiles are popping up all over the country, and this surging popularity of the fruit of the vine is probably due to the delightful product coming out of California lately.
 But how does one tell the good stuff from that which should be used on either a salad or pancakes?

IT WAS INEVITABLE that the country's consumer watchdogs would get into the picture as more and more labels flood the market, and as America's taste buds become more sophisticated. The November-December issue of Consumers Digest offers several good tips on choosing among the jungle of everyday wines on the shelves.
 To begin with, it seems that Americans drink much better, ordinary, everyday "jug" wines than our European brethren. It is only when one gets to the top 20 per cent of the French wine production, according to CD, that American wines begin to pale.

As a matter of fact, the wine that most people drink most of the time in France has probably been trucked in in big tankers from Algeria, where grapes ripen faster, giving the French "vin ordinaire" a raw and rough taste.
 But not all our domestic wines are works of art, and the labeling on most can be pretty deceiving. First of all, domestic wine has either a "generic" or "proprietary" or "varietal" name.
 Most jug wines are generic wines with names such as "chablis," "burgundy," "sauverne," "chianti," and "sherry," among others.
 In Europe each of these names meant something specific about the grape used in the wine, but here the names mean exactly nothing. There are no restrictions on what goes into a generic wine, and it ends up tasting the way the winemaker wants it to, some good, some not so good.

A proprietary name is simply a moniker supplied by the producer to distinguish his particular wine. Examples include Pink Chablis, Cracking Chablis, Hearty Burgundy and Vintage Burgundy, to name a few.
 The third category, the varietals, tells a bit more about the wine. The name will tell the type of grape that makes up most of that particular wine.
 Some popular varietal grapes are cabernet sauvignon (of most red Bordeaux wines), chardonnay (of white Burgundies), zinfandel (the only varietal that is confined to the U.S.), and riesling (the grape of the great wines of Germany).

 Because varietals are the most expensive grapes, the wine itself is usually more expensive. But beware, federal regulations require only that 51 per cent of the wine be of a particular varietal in order to designate the name on the label.
 SO A BOTTLE labeled "cabernet sauvignon" may be 51 per cent of that grape, and 49 per cent junk. On the other hand, California vintners are devoting more acreage to varietals, and more of these higher quality grapes are included in the jug wines, often giving a good value at a low price.
 The CD columnist even goes so far as to recommend a few labels to look for. In the first category, red wines, he states categorically that dry is best.
 Among the recommendations are: (Burgundy-style wines) Inglenook Vintage Burgundy, Almaden Mountain Red, Christian Brothers Burgundy, Paul Masson Burgundy, Simi Winery Burgundy, and Louis Martini Mountain Burgundy (Italian-style wines) C.K. Mondavi Barberone, Franzia Barberone, Almaden Mountain Chianti, Italian Swiss Colony Chianti.
 Those are just a few of the reds, and the list of whites is longer and more confusing, says CD. But in white chablis jug wines, it is recommended that if you have a wine you like, stick to it. Otherwise, try Franzia Chablis Blanc, Sebastiani Mountain Chablis, Los Hermanos Mountain Chablis, Stone Creek Chablis or Mondavi Chablis.
 In white varietals, CD chooses to deal only with chenin blanc, saying to pick and choose among the vast selection of others. Recommended on the dry side are Lost Hills Cellars, Louis Martini, Wente Brothers and Souverain of Alexander Valley.

ON THE SWEET side of the chenin blanc picture are good bottles by Italian Swiss Colony, Christian Brothers, Inglenook Navalle, Robert Mondavi and Papagni.
 CD calls the search through the inexpensive California wines a "treasure hunt." Those who have grown accustomed to the jug wines of the huge producers should try some lesser known brands, and those who have drunk generics should step up to some of the varietals for a bit of variety.
 At any rate, happy hunting, and cheers!

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is quietly transforming its mushrooming merchant marine fleet into an armada.
 This is the startling conclusion of U.S. intelligence experts who recently testified behind closed doors on Capitol Hill. We have had access to their secret testimony before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, chaired by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.
 The Soviet fishing fleet, the expert solemnly explained, has been casting its nets for more than just fish. The fishing vessels have become the biggest "electronic intelligence collectors" on the high seas.
 Soviet Navy officials are routinely assigned to Russian freighters, trawlers and survey ships, the analysts disclosed. But even Russian merchantmen and fishing boats are sometimes "assigned political objectives and specific intelligence missions."

AN ESTIMATED 10 to 15 per cent of the 500 Soviet non-military vessels off the U.S. and Canadian coasts are actually intelligence ships collecting vital information, the testimony reveals. Because some Russian trawlers are really naval ships in disguise, the U.S. repeatedly warns the Soviets not to sail close to American shores.
 The maritime fleet often carries more than mere cargo, the experts confided. Some ships are "suitable for transporting troops and military equipment," with decks and ramps that can support the weight of heavy tanks. Such vessels were used to carry Soviet tanks into Angola and the Middle East.
 The commercial fleet also serves as "an advance flotilla for Soviet warships, opening ports and exploring anchorages which are sometimes forbidden to regular units of the Soviet Navy." The merchant ships are closely trailed by survey ships, which the investigators said are "usually thinly-disguised electronic intelligence vessels."
 The survey vessels are "the eyes and ears of Soviet Naval intelligence." They assess the capability of the U.S. Force and Navy and relentlessly probe out anti-submarine defenses.
 The motive behind all this oceanic spying is the Soviets' effort to control the "choke points" which are vital to Western commerce and defense. In Cuba, for instance, "the U.S.S.R. has already achieved a strategic position astride the Panama Canal's sea lanes," the experts warned. Another Soviet target is an "unguarded NATO

Explaining Thanksgiving

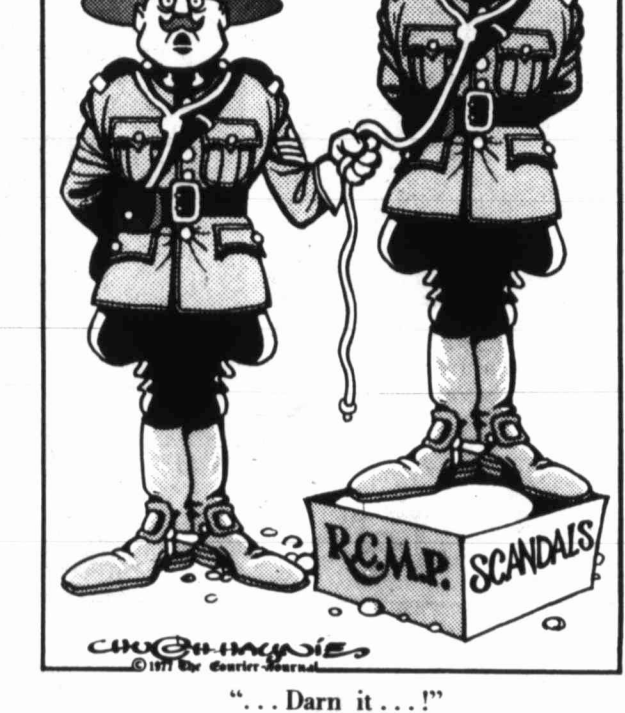

Art Buchwald

(About 10 years ago, a Bedouin tribesman stumbled into a cave near the Dead Sea. Much to his surprise he found a dozen scrolls dating from 70 A.D. But more important, he came across an ancient column showing how Americans in those days explained Thanksgiving Day to the French. It was considered the archaeological find of the century.)
 One of our most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day known in France as le Jour de Merci Donnant.
 Le Jour de Merci Donnant was first started by a group of Pilgrims (Pelerins) who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the New World (le Nouveau Monde), where they could shoot Indians (les Peaux-Rouges) and eat turkey to their heart's content.
 They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous voiture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower or Fleur de Mai in 1620. But while the Pelerins were killing the dindes, the Peaux-Rouges were killing the Pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the Peaux-Rouges helped the Pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn. The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their Pelerins.
 In 1623, after another harsh year, the Pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more maize was raised by the Pelerins than Pelerins were killed by Peaux-Rouges.
 Every year on le Jour de Merci Donnant, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.
 It concerns a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres-Deboutish and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation). The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant: "Go to the damsel Priscilla (allez tres vite chez Priscilla), the loveliest maiden of Plymouth (la plus jolie demoiselle de Plymouth). Say that a blunt old captain, a man not of words but of action (un vieux Fanfan la Tulipe), offers his hand and his heart, the hand and heart of a soldier. Not in these words, you know, but this, in short, is my meaning.
 "I am a maker of war (je suis un fabricant de la guerre) and not a maker of phrases. You, bred as a scholar (vous, qui etes pain comme un etudiant) can say it in elegant language, such as you read in your books of the pleadings and wooings of lovers, such as you think best adapted to win the heart of the maiden."
 Although Jean was fit to be tied (convenable at etre emballe), friendship prevailed over love and he went to his duty. But instead of using elegant language, he blurted out his mission. Priscilla was muted with amazement and sorrow (rendue muette par l'etonnement et la tristesse).
 At length she exclaimed, interrupting the ominous silence: "If the great captain of Plymouth is so very eager to wed me, why does he not come himself and take the trouble to woo me?" (Ou est-il, le vieux Kilometres? Pourquoi ne vient-il pas aupres de moi pour tenter sa chance?)
 Jean said that Kilometres-Deboutish was very busy and didn't have time for those things. He staggered on, telling what a wonderful husband Kilometres would make. Finally Priscilla arched her eyebrow and said in a tremulous voice: "Why don't you speak for yourself, Jean?" (Chacun a son gout.)
 And so, on the fourth Thursday in November, American families sit down at a large table brimming with tasty dishes, and for the only time during the year eat better than the French do.

We always get our man!

... Darn it ...!

Kissing not only way to get mono

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 14. A couple of friends have just gotten "mono." I think I have some idea of what it is. I asked my mom about it and she said she never heard of it. I've looked in a medical book, and asked friends, and I'm still not sure. How does a person get it? —L.F.
 Years ago it was mistakenly called "glandular fever." An older medical book might still use that term.
 We suspect that "mono" is caused, by a virus, but don't know which one. It's contagious, so feel fortunate you didn't get it from your friends. Young people are the chief victims, especially children, and it can run rampant where young people live together, as in college dorms. The popular name for it is "the kissing disease," which you've probably heard of. That's pretty descriptive of how it can be transmitted, but there are other methods — coughs or sneezes, for examples.
 Headaches, muscular pain, and fevers (up to 104 in children) are the common signs, and sore throat, enlarged lymph glands, even eye disturbances can be part of the picture. The word mononucleosis refers to the single-nucleus white cells that appear in the blood. Their presence confirms the diagnosis. An enlarged spleen is often found.
 The symptoms usually appear with five to 15 days after exposure. Your friends probably felt pretty low for a couple of weeks, perhaps even for a couple of months.
 Drugs don't help. The only treatment is rest and plenty of fluids. Complications, such as ruptured spleen, are watched for, but are rare. Your friends probably recovered with only a memory of a pretty unpleasant experience. Recurrence in children is rare.
 Parents should always be on the lookout for mono and watch for early symptoms, which can be as vague as mild lethargy or a sudden, unexplained failure in school performance.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that ear ringing means the approach of deafness? —H.F.
 From my mail I figure there must be many millions of folks with weird assorted noises in the head. I wouldn't want to suggest to them that they all are going deaf. Let's just say it can mean approaching deafness.
 I could not begin to touch on the various ear noises and what they do and do not mean. For now, I'll just pass along one thought. One cause of deafness is infection of the middle ear. If that is allowed to go untreated, it is bound to affect your hearing — meaning deafness or a degree of it. Ear noises can be a part of that picture. My booklet, "Ear Noises: Their Causes and Cure," will fill you in on various ways the ears play tricks on us. For a copy, send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

 Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently had a tubal ligation. Someone told me that just by having my monthly menstruation the tubes can become untied and I'll become pregnant. Is this true? —A.D.
 Hogwash. Properly ligated tubes have a very slim chance of becoming untied, and menstruation has nothing to do with it.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me what sugar of lead is. What is it used for? —S.F.H.
 It is a chemical compound of lead (lead acetate). It has astringent powers, as in a compress, but is not used anymore.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: My brother has Parkinson's disease. I have heard that stress and worry make it a lot worse. Is this true? He has gone down a lot. —L.B.
 Persons with Parkinson's disease are easily discouraged by the tremor and the peculiar gait they develop. With appropriate treatment they usually do not lose ground as rapidly as you letter implies. Drugs can help. Be sure he is getting treatment, not languishing with the problem.
 Mononucleosis is primarily a disease that hits young people. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Mononucleosis: What it is; What To Do." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have emphysema, which limits my activity. Can you tell me what a person suffering from this can do for himself? I'm a smoker, and have been told to quit. —F.B.

There are lots of things you can do. The least popular, but probably the most effective, is to quit smoking. There are breathing exercises you can learn. Check with an emphysema clinic at a local hospital.
 Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a connection between my leg pains and the fact that I am taking water pills? —Mr. L.F.
 Can be. Report the symptoms to your doctor. Could be a mineral deficiency related to the water pills.
 Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:
 While passing through Big Spring on Sunday night, Oct. 9, 1977, my husband was stricken ill and admitted in the VA Hospital. We were traveling in a truck, we did not know anyone in Big Spring.
 A gentlemen from the truck stop (Rip Griffin) told us about the VA Hospital and drove us there. At once the doctor checked him and put him to bed. I don't know if anything like this has ever happened to you or not but it is a strange feeling and you feel very alone. It didn't take long to find that Big Spring and the VA Hospital has some of the world's best people.
 He was on 5W and the nurses and doctors and the entire hospital staff were really great people. Words can never say how grateful we are for the help, your town and hospital will always have a place in our hearts. Again many thanks for the kindness.

A fishy tale

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union is quietly transforming its mushrooming merchant marine fleet into an armada.
 This is the startling conclusion of U.S. intelligence experts who recently testified behind closed doors on Capitol Hill. We have had access to their secret testimony before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, chaired by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y.
 The Soviet fishing fleet, the expert solemnly explained, has been casting its nets for more than just fish. The fishing vessels have become the biggest "electronic intelligence collectors" on the high seas.
 Soviet Navy officials are routinely assigned to Russian freighters, trawlers and survey ships, the analysts disclosed. But even Russian merchantmen and fishing boats are sometimes "assigned political objectives and specific intelligence missions."

jugular" on the southern coast of Africa. Ninety per cent of Europe's oil passes through this crucial trade link.
 AT THE SAME TIME, KGB agents have infiltrated American port cities such as New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore via merchant ships. They have also quietly smuggled in arms and Russian spies to other Western nations. As Andrei Gorskov, the powerful head of the Soviet Navy put it, Moscow is trying "to effectively utilize the world's oceans in the interests of building Communism."
 SOUTH AFRICAN REPRESSION: The martyred Steven Biko isn't the first South African black leader who has died in custody under suspicious circumstances. During the past 15 years, at least 41 others have died in detention in South Africa. Many others allegedly have been brutalized.
 For South African laws allow the authorities to detain people without bringing them before a court to determine their guilt or innocence. Often the prisoners aren't permitted to contact their families or attorneys. Nor are they allowed independent medical attention.
 The latest available figures show that 566 persons were detained, without charges, in South Africa between January 1976 and September 1977. The story is told in a news report prepared by the respected South African Institute of Race Relations. A copy of the report has reached the United States through the United Methodist Church.
 "LARGE NUMBERS of those who openly voice opposition to the government," states the report, "have been detained in the past and are in detention at present." Black students and organizations are the principal targets of the harassment, the study has found. Often "detainees are interrogated for the purpose of obtaining either statements that implicate others or confessions."
 A man called as a state witness, for example, pleaded that he was brutally beaten. He testified to the South African Race Relations Institute: "I was told what to say, which was contrary to my knowledge. The contents of my statement are the thoughts of the security police."
 Other witnesses have told of beatings and torture at the hands of the police. One man told the court that he had been so badly beaten that he could no longer remember which part of his testimony was based on his own experience and which part had been suggested by the security police.

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear DR. Graham: I feel I am a weak Christian, and sometimes I have this terrible feeling that God will not let me into Heaven when I die. What can I do to overcome this? — Mrs. A.D.
 Dear Mrs. D.: One of Satan's oldest tricks is to make us look at ourselves rather than at Christ. When we look at ourselves, we know we are weak and sinful. When we look at ourselves (and are honest about ourselves), we know there is no reason why we should deserve eternal life. Satan takes these thoughts and makes us doubt our salvation, and we feel defeated.
 Let me suggest two things. First, realize that it is only the love and grace of God that saves you, not any good works you might do. You are saved by Christ alone; only He can give you His righteousness through faith. "This righteousness from God comes from God through faith in Jesus Christ to all who believe. There is no difference, for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, and are justified freely by his grace through the redemption that came by Christ Jesus" (Romans 3:22-24, New International Version). Your salvation is from Him; it does not depend on how strong or weak you are. Learn to trust Him. He died on the cross for your sins.
 Also, learn to walk with Christ every day so that your faith is strengthened and you begin to enjoy victory over the sins that defeat you. Learn to read the Bible and claim its promises for yourself. Learn to commit every detail of your life to God in prayer, "casting all your care upon him: for he careth for you" (1 Peter 5:7). God loves you, and He wants you to learn to trust His love — both now and in the future.

LP gas very much in demand

Policies create black market

NEW YORK (AP) — Liquefied petroleum gas is used by 60 million consumers, storekeepers, farmers and industrialists in the United States. And increasing numbers of people are trying to get a share of the abundant and clean-burning fuel.

But industry officials say they face some serious problems.

Federal policies are creating a black market, there may be delivery problems in the near future and a trend has developed toward greater dependence on imports, industry spokesmen say.

Propane and butane are the two most common forms of liquefied petroleum gas (LP gas), with propane accounting for about two-thirds of the total. Propane long has been used in farms and rural homes for heat and power. It's also used in light industry as a boiler fuel, in forklift trucks and other small vehicles and for backyard barbecues in suburbia.

It is more costly than natural gas, but often less costly than electricity.

Propane and butane are produced from natural gas, and in some cases, crude oil. The major advantages offered by propane and butane are that they are delivered to a customer's location by truck and can be stored for any length of time — important factors for people in rural areas not served by natural gas pipelines.

But now, in many of the nation's industrial areas — especially the Midwest — thousands of plants are installing storage tanks and are buying quantities of propane for use during increasingly frequent natural gas curtailments.

Although this is good for the LP gas business in the short term, Donald G. Bunnell, president of the 3,900-member National LP-Gas Association, sees the development as the industry's most serious long-range problem.

"Propane can do a limited job in this regard, but it can't bail out the natural gas industry," he said. "The total domestic propane produced is less than one-third our total level of curtailed natural gas."

"If those (industry) tanks are filled in the fall and that is sufficient to carry them through the winter, there would be a minimum of effect," he added. "But if those industries are going to have to have repeated refillings, in competition with our traditional market, there is going to be a problem."

Industry officials stress that there is more than enough propane in inventory for all customers this winter and for the next several years.

The potential problem, officials say, is in finding the equipment and workers to distribute the fuel to numerous new customers. The problem is complicated by the fact that when the fuel is in greatest demand, during severe cold weather, roads often are blocked by snow and ice.

In recognition of all this, the federal government has imposed an allocation system on propane distributors. Any large industrial firm that wants to use propane first must find a distributor willing to supply it. Then, federal energy officials must give their approval.

AT 45, Leslie Caron develops own style

LONDON (AP) — Three years ago Leslie Caron discovered she was 42 and had nothing to do. "I was at a turning point in my life," she said. "I could either turn to writing or drinking. I chose the pen."

Miss Caron remembered that decision while in London for the world premiere of her latest film, "Valentino," a biographical extravaganza based on the life of the 1920s silent screen lover Rudolph Valentino.

In the movie that casts ballet star Rudolf Nureyev in the title role, Miss Caron portrays Alla Nazimova, a flamboyant Russian-born Hollywood film star who chose Valentino as her leading man in the 1921 production of "Camille."

"Nazimova is a very exciting, larger-than-life lady and naturally I'm playing her like that," said the French actress.

But the role also calls for a mature "older" woman. The beautiful coquette of "Gigi," the simple village beauty of "Fanny," and the innocent ingenue of "An American in Paris" now fills that requirement with mature grace and her own special style.

At 45, her green eyes sparkle in a nest of wrinkles. In a fashion season which has brought a French haute couture revival of the 'cute little girl' look Gigi made famous 20 years ago, she wears simple classics suitable for the mother of two children who are now at Cambridge University.

But the flair of the actress is there, evident in the famous wide mouth outlined in flamboyant pink matching the soft folds of a sweater cut low to show off a tanned neck free of lines. The firm chin and dancer's figure are testimonials to the strenuous exercise the former ballerina has just put in on summer stock stages from Tulsa to Toronto.

It has been 26 years since Gene Kelly spotted her dancing in "The Sphinx" in Paris and made her a star by casting her in the lead female role of "An American in Paris."

Her gamine looks and French accent type-cast her for the next decade as an innocent pinafores-and-pigtails teenager, who usually blossomed into a beauty surrounded by beaux.

Winner of two British Film Academy awards, she has been nominated twice for Hollywood's equivalent Oscar. Dedicated to her craft but not a slave to it, Miss Caron has interspersed the past few years with writing as well as acting.

Egypt campaigning to assure Arabs that Sadat has not betrayed them

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt mounted a diplomatic campaign Wednesday to assure its Arab brethren that President Anwar Sadat has not betrayed them. But those most vociferous in denouncing him as a traitor — Syria, Libya and the Palestinians — ignored the Egyptian appeals for unity. Acting Foreign Minister

Butros Ghali called in the ambassadors of 21 Arab states for individual meetings to explain that despite Sadat's unprecedented trip to Israel last weekend Egypt's basic policies remain unchanged. Sources said Ghali was particularly anxious to persuade some of the richer oil-producing countries to shift openly to Egypt's side. Mohammed Shawalia, charge d'affaires here for Saudi Arabia, which last week reacted negatively to the Sadat trip, emerged from his meeting with Ghali and told reporters, "I personally am satisfied." He said, however, he would have to report to his government "and they will tell us what to do." Those most firmly opposed to Sadat's peace initiative were not represented, however. Libya, which broke diplomatic relations with Cairo over the trip, was not invited, and the Syrian and Palestine Liberation Organization envoys ignored their invitations.

Iraq, South Yemen, Algeria and Tunisia have also been sharply critical of Sadat. Morocco, Oman and Sudan have backed the Egyptian, while the United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Qatar, North Yemen and Jordan have remained officially silent, though Jordan's newspapers attacked the move.

Ghali said he told the ambassadors Egypt had not changed its basic aims, "but there is a revolution in the new diplomatic approach which is based on direct contacts after 30 years of indirect contacts." In his effort to calm Arab opposition, Sadat received some help from an unlikely source — Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan. Briefing Jerusalem reporters on the talks between Sadat and Prime Minister Menahem Begin, Dayan said Egypt is not ready "to leave the Arab states in the lurch. It cannot act alone." Dayan also downplayed the "No more war" statement made by Sadat during his visit, saying the Egyptian meant "there will be no more war if you get out of the (occupied) territories." Sadat, meanwhile, met with American Ambassador Hermann Eilts in what appeared to be a resumption of U.S.-mediated indirect negotiations between Egypt and Israel.

Farm

Empty store shelves?

DALLAS (AP) — Farmers say some key commodities may be scarce on store shelves late next month unless they can convince the government and consumers that they need higher prices for those items.

The higher prices, a group of the nation-wide strike organizers said here Wednesday, would result in an increase of about three per cent in the price of food costs.

The group, led by Steve Close of Bitas, Colo., was in Dallas to announce a Dec. 1-2 country and western benefit at Texas Stadium to publicize the nationwide strike scheduled for Dec. 14.

The strike is sponsored by American Agriculture, a loosely-formed group of farmers that was started in Colorado and has extended to other states in the nation.

"I don't think people are ready for what's about to happen," said Close claiming support of farmers representing about 50 per cent of the total farm production, especially wheat and corn.

The farmers said that beginning on Dec. 14 they will stop planting next year's crops and will stop buying farm equipment and any other products "except those that are essential."

"We have been stocking up," said Keith Thomas of Campo, Colo., "Our children will continue to eat."

At stake are the prices or "parity" that farmers get for their products, especially wheat and corn.

Parity is a special formula devised in the 1930s to arrive at a price that would give farmers a fair return for their products.

But farmers say that while parity for what is set at about $5 per bushel, the actual price paid is around $2.

"Dadgummit, they are breaking us," said Close explaining he had an excellent harvest on his 2,000-acre wheat, corn and milo farm this year and still lost more than $10,000.

"No farmers are making any money anymore," he said. "The only difference now between the big farmers, who have been secure for years, and the little boys is that the big boys are set up to lose more money."

Farm Bureau to salute couple

HOUSTON — Texas Farm Bureau will salute the outstanding farm and ranch young people of the state with three activities involving them at its 44th annual convention here Nov. 27-30.

Young people's activities will include a Discussion Meet, a Talent Find, and finals of the 1977 TFB Queen Contest.

TFB encourages participation of young farmers and ranchers in its activities and has a 13-member Young Farmers and Ranchers Advisory Committee which coordinates involvement of young people in organizational affairs.

Members of the state advisory committee will be contestants in this year's Discussion Meet. Semi-finals and finals will be held on Sunday, Nov. 27, opening day of the convention.

Participants will be Bob Gruner, Canyon; Ron Roberts, Plainview; Karen Pratt, El Paso; Rickie Rape, Pittsburg; Emmitt Hataway, Hermleigh; Patty McCasland, Goldthwaite; Harlan Russell, Bertram; Cindy Torno, Buffalo; Joe Franzten, Luckenbach; Ted Brandt, Weimar; Winford Matthews, Yoakum; and Daryl Fromme, Sinton.

The Talent Find, also scheduled for Sunday evening, will feature young entertainers. Participants will be Trinitide Acker, Pampa; Pamela Lindley, Ermon; Maresa Vickers, Jarksville; Tress Timm, San Angelo; Kelly Kendrick, Novice; Diana Rhudy, Gatesville; Judy Foley, Jasper; Renee Coale, Blessing; Elizabeth LePori, Gonzales; and Becky and Monica Machac, Edinburg.

The Queen Contest finals climax a statewide search for a representative young beauty to reign as TFB queen during the coming year. Finalists have progressed through county and district eliminations.

This year's finalists are Lorilee O'Donald, Canyon; Connie Williams, Iowa Park; Maureen Vittetoe, Greenville; Debbie Pogue, Sulphur Springs; Mary Kay Schwartz, Garden City; Cindy Walker, Abilene; Mary Creamer, Manor; Felicia Zbranek, Devers; Shirley Kiel, Columbus; Becky Borchers, Yoakum; and Jody Edmondson, Mathis.

Voting delegates from the 210 organized county Farm Bureaus in Texas will formulate policies on state issues and recommendations to the American Farm Bureau Federation on national issues at the convention.

At the end of the Texas rally, organizers plan to parade 50 tractors from Texas Stadium through downtown Dallas and then load them onto trailers for transportation to Washington, D. C. The tractors will arrive Dec. 10 "and stand a silent watch over the Capitol until some action is taken," Close said.

Upland cotton production may total 5 million bales

AUSTIN — With harvest over the halfway mark, Upland cotton production in Texas this year may reach 5 million bales, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan B. Brown has announced.

Latest estimates by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service are for 200,000 bales over the October 1 forecast. This production level would be the largest since 1949. In 1976 there were 3,307,000 bales ginned.

Increases in the number of 480-pound bales are reported for all regions except the Edwards Plateau, Brown said. The southern part of the High Plains is expected to have the largest production, with 2,350,000 bales.

Forecasts for Upland cotton in other districts of the state are as follows: Northern High Plains, 500,000 bales; Northern Low Plains, 500,000; Southern Low Plains, 415,000; Cross Timbers, 15,000; Blacklands, 250,000; East Texas, 35,000; Trans-Pecos, 65,000; Edwards Plateau, 55,000; Southcentral, 35,000; Coastal Bend, 185,000; Upper Coast, 105,000; South Texas, 30,000; and Lower Valley, 440,000.

The total forecast for American Pima cotton has tripled since 1976, with 21,000 bales expected to be produced in the Trans-Pecos region.

"All reports show that this year's crop is of excellent quality," Brown said. "If the market would take an upward turn, things could be looking better for cotton farmers."

The average price for Upland cotton as of Oct. 15 was 51.3 cents per pound, far below the offerings earlier in the year, Brown said.

Texas hot dog murder conviction upheld

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed Wednesday the murder conviction of a Dallas man in a dispute over a hot dog and granted a new trial to a Houston doctor who claimed a policeman used excessive force in arresting him.

The appeals court affirmed the 20-year sentence for Eddie Dosson of Dallas in the slaying of Lafonza Garrett, from whom Dosson got a dollar to pay for a theater hot dog.

Dosson, nicknamed "Fat Albert," sat beside Garrett and Bobby Ray Bivens in the Capri Theater on Dec. 29, 1975.

Garrett gave Dosson a dollar to buy Garrett a hot dog. When Dosson returned with some beer but without the hot dog or the dollar, an argument ensued.

Dosson allegedly pulled a gun, shot Garrett and fled.

The defense contended police officer Jack Bragg should not have been allowed to testify about Garrett's "dying declaration."

Bragg, who arrived at the theater moments after the shooting, testified he told Garrett, "You don't want to let them get away with this because you're dying."

Twice, Bragg asked Garrett who shot him. Gurgling, Garrett each time said, "Fat Albert." Bragg asked a third time, trying to get the assailant's surname. Garrett died before he could answer.

The appeals court said the hearsay testimony was admissible under the "dying declaration" exception to the hearsay rule.

Dr. Nathan Cotlar won a new resisting-arrest trial in Houston because the appeals court ruled he should have been allowed to present evidence of excessive force used by a police officer named Watson.

The doctor testified his wife was driving him on Feb. 13, 1976, to a hospital where he needed to see a patient he had operated upon hours earlier.

His wife ran a red light. Officers Watson and Gosch, a female trainee, stopped the doctor's car. The wife did not have her driver's license with her.

Cotlar told Watson of his mission. Watson said it would take only five minutes to write the tickets.

The officer testified Cotlar kept interrupting him as he tried to talk with the doctor's wife. Cotlar told officer Gosch "she had a fine example of someone to be teaching her profession," Watson said.

Watson said he was squatting by a door of the doctor's car and that Cotlar said, "Let's go," and started pushing the door in on Watson.

Wells said the job security provisions in the Galveston agreement are practically the same as those tentatively reached Nov. 13 in an East Coast contract that traditionally sets a pattern, for other regions.

Only three container ships in Port Houston and one in Galveston have been affected by the strike but Houston port officials have estimated a $300,000 daily loss in revenues, fees and other economic factors.

Tentative agreement in dock strike reached

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Union officials say a tentative agreement has been reached with West Gulf shippers to end the selective strike longshoremen began Oct. 1.

The agreement affecting 7,000 longshoremen in ports from Lake Charles, La. to Brownsville was reached Tuesday night between the International Longshoremen's Association and the West Gulf Maritime Association.

The strike against containerized and automated cargo ships has involved 50,000 longshoremen from Maine to Texas and union officials have expressed hope agreements affecting 34 ports can be submitted at ratification meetings Friday.

Willie Wells, president of Houston union Local 1273 and chairman of the union's West Gulf negotiating committee, was happy with the Galveston agreement he said would be recommended to the membership for ratification.

"We feel very good about the contract from a monetary standpoint, working conditions and job security programs for now and in the future," Wells said.

Wells said a formula for containerized tonnage assessments still has not been fully defined but that a memorandum of understanding would allow ratification prior to the formula being finalized.

Don King made speedy rise to top in music

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Don King made a wrong turn in life. And it helped him become one of country music's most promising young singers.

Two years ago, King was headed for Jerry Reed's publishing company to try to sell a song he had written. He got confused about where he was and ended up at Con Brio records.

When he mentioned that he was a musician, record company officials asked for a tape of him performing. He made one, and within two months he was recording for the company.

King, 23, now has his third hit this year — "I Must Be Dreaming." The others were "I've Got You To Come Home To" and "The Girl Of My Dreams."

"It's taken a pretty good balance of luck and talent," King said. "I'm taking it all with a big smile."

After graduating from high school in Omaha, Neb., in 1974, he moved to Nashville for a shot at the music business. He bypassed college even though he was a high school honor student for three years.

He spent a year playing his guitar at a local hotel lounge before he knocked on the wrong door that changed his life. As one of the chosen few among the dozens here trying to get into the music business, King is well-qualified to offer advice.

"Patience is a virtue," he said in an interview in a recording studio after polishing numbers for his second album. "Listen to everybody but don't take persons' word for law."

"If you are able to write, your chances are much better. If you can write, the people here will automatically hear your voice because you'll play them some songs."

"The proving ground for artists is nightclubs, whether you're on your own or in a group. You learn a lot about entertaining. You'll be amazed how much you learn in six weeks and how much you learn about yourself."

LOCAL BUSINESS HAS ADAPTED TO WEBB AIR FORCE BASE CLOSURE BY EXPANDING

MuTex Sound and Electronics located at 1009 Gregg, also known as Radio Shack, is making every effort to be the Electronic Super Market of West Texas.

MuTex represents almost all major brands of electronics. Realistic is Radio Shack's brand but, because MuTex is an independent dealer, it also represents such major brands as Panasonic, Pioneer, Motorola, Midland, Fairchild, Casio, and Texas Instruments. MuTex is making every effort to be the largest supplier of electronic equipment, both retail and wholesale, in the West Texas area. During this holiday season the inventories are at record levels with a selection of gift items unequalled by any store of its type in a large metropolitan area. One of the most exciting family gifts is a high performance electronic video entertainment system made by Fairchild. It is the first cartridge game system. Just change cartridges that look like 8 track tapes and you can play up to 40 different color games with eight-way hand controllers. This is a system that the whole family can enjoy year after year by continuing to purchase new and different cartridges for competition and enjoyment.

Electronic watches by Texas Instruments, Fairchild, Elite, Benson, Enterprex and Han-Dox, are extensive in selection and the prices are right. Calculators by Casio, Enterprex, Realistic, Teal and Texas Instruments are available in abundance and make super gifts for students and engineers. The Teal calculator is now powered by a solar cell. It is the newest concept in calculators which is powered by light energy. They are only available at MuTex Sound and Electronics. All types of CB radios, disco lights, stereos for cars and home are too numerous to mention. Electronic toys for children are available from radio-controlled cars to dog radios and Sesame Street record players. Many electronic games now available are both educational and exciting fun.

The closure of Webb Air Force Base affected MuTex Sound and Electronics more than some other types of business in Big Spring, but by expanding the wholesale division of the company, overall performance is expected to keep pace with last year. Many products now purchased by MuTex are on a factory distributor basis. Therefore, much of the price advantage is passed on to retail customers. An example of this is large home stereo speakers made by Pioneer and Sonic retail priced at $99.95 a pair being sold for only $59.95. MuTex appreciates the opportunity to serve all of West Texas from its location at 1009 Gregg in Big Spring and hopes that the people who shop for "Electronic Anything" will look first at the Electronic Super Market where licensed technicians serve your needs before and after the sale. If you buy a product but can't get it repaired then it is a poor investment at any price. MuTex has a repair shop that will repair anything it sells. That is important. Shop Big Spring first and shop MuTex (also known as Radio Shack) for your electronic gifts this Christmas.

A willingness to deliver cotton against futures contracts prompted selling. There were 123 deliveries. Intention notices issued this morning, brokers said.

The average price for strict low middling 11 16 inch spot cotton declined 2 points to 48 3/4 cents a pound Tuesday for the 10 leading markets according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

How to reduce paperwork

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gov. Rudy Perpich has begun a program aimed at cutting down on the number of paperwork forms circulating in state government. But the agency in charge of forms reduction recently sent other agencies a set of instructions on how to reduce paperwork. The instructions totaled 16 pages.

Whites, Indians waging legal battle over land

BOSTON (AP) — A 30-minute drive from the place where Pilgrims and Indians celebrated the first Thanksgiving over deer meat and sweet potatoes 356 years ago, modern-day whites and Indians are waging bitter, divisive legal war over land worth $30 million.

The Thanksgiving holiday marks a pause in the fight that has seethed through 26 days of testimony in federal court here and may continue at least that much longer before all arguments are heard.

"The Indians don't think of this Thanksgiving as something to celebrate," said Russell Peters, a leader of the Indians who have taken the Cape Cod town of Mashpee to court, "unless they spend the day doing some hunting and bring down a deer for venison." Deer meat was one of the gifts the Wampanoag Indians carried as guests of honor when they joined the Plymouth Pilgrims at that original Thanksgiving in 1621.

Peters and other Mashpee Indians claim they are descendants of the Wampanoags and that most of the small town's land belongs to them.

The issue before a jury of 12 is whether the modern-day Indians constitute a tribe. If they do, they could claim ownership of the land under the 1790 federal law which requires U.S. Congressional approval for any sale or transfer of tribal lands. The state of Massachusetts incorporated Mashpee as a town in 1869.

Some historians claim the Wampanoag Indians were wiped out in a 17th century battle and that the Indians who settled in Mashpee in the 19th century were in many cases Christian children of Indians who had intermarried with Africans.

The court fight has set whites of European descent against Indians, Indians against Indians and whites against whites in this town of about 4,000.

The first two witnesses supporting the town's side were Indians. One of them, Hamilton J. Whiting, 43, a former director of the council Peters heads, said in court: "The land was taken a long time ago. Let old bones be old bones."

But bitterness has existed since the Indians filed their claim in August 1976, cloudbusting every land title in town and paralyzing the Mashpee economy because no one can get mortgage money.

An attempt by a mediator appointed by President Carter to find a settlement out of court failed.

An opportunity for mediation collapsed after the trial started Oct. 17. The town rejected a deal pay the Indians $4 million for tribal development.

Peters estimated the value of 11,000 acres of contested land at $30 million.

Animal bites invariably done by family pets

A family St. Bernard crushes the skull of a 4-year-old boy in New Mexico. A 17-year-old Ohio girl is killed by a usually friendly Great Dane. Every year between 136,000 and 246,000 people in Texas participate in other episodes of this real-life variation of "Jaws."

Estimates of bite victims differ so widely because many attacks go unreported. But studies agree that most victims of reported bites are males less than 20 years of age who are attacked by unsupervised dogs, the main villains, an article in the November issue of "Texas Medicine," the Texas Medical Association monthly journal, says.

The same article also points out that cats are a real problem. Cats account for only 12 per cent of the bites reported in Texas but their bites become infected almost three times as often as dog bites.

A study done in Alpine, Marfa and Van Horn shows that almost half the victims bitten were attacked by animals owned by other people. Animals owned by victims of their families account for another 36 per cent of the reported bites. An owner could not be identified for only 15 per cent of the biting animals.

However, many owned dogs run unsupervised in packs that can attack and kill people and livestock. Packs plague livestock in outlying areas of some cities. But urban residents are not safe either. For instance, pack of seven neighborhood dogs killed a 5-year-old Nevada boy.

Barely half the dogs and cats in the three towns surveyed were confined to their owner's property, reported Evret C. Newman, D.V.M., the article's author.

Animal bites can be reduced only if progress is made on several fronts, says Dr. Newman, a state health department veterinarian in El Paso. He recommends encouraging owners to continuously confine pets, giving more funds for animal control agencies, and educating people how to behave around animals.

The need for more education does not mean that most victims provoke attacks. In fact most animal attacks are unprovoked, Dr. Newman says.

The state health department has developed several education programs for groups ranging from adults to about age 5. These programs, many designed for use in schools, cover subjects, ranging from pet care to rabies. They also should help people spot potentially dangerous animal behavior patterns.

Top horses, bull picked by cowboys

DENVER, Colo. — A trio of horses and a Bradford bull have been named the 1977 Bucking Stock of the Year by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. The stock was picked following a poll of the top 15 bareback bronc and bull riders and the top 30 saddle bronc riders.

Honors for Saddle Bronc of the Year went to Crystal Springs, a 9-year-old black mare owned by Bob Barnes of Peterson, Iowa. Barnes bought the mare's mother at Miles City, Mont., and raised "Crystal." The filly jumped and kicked at home; he was impressed with the springy action, so he tagged her "Crystal Springs." The horse made it to the National Finals Rodeo in 1972; Ned Londo scored 88 points on her, one of the highest marks recorded at rodeo's world series. This spring at the "big four" rodeos (Denver, Ft. Worth, San Antonio, Houston), unless the cowboy bucked off, the mare took him to the pay window in first place.

Mr. Smith, a 16-year-old palomino and Alley Cat, a sorrel gelding, tied for the bareback bronc award. Mr. Smith is from the Eugene, Ore., based Christensen Bros. string. The horse came up from the amateur jackpot circuit in Nevada, where riders found it impossible to stay aboard him.

Officer killed, 2 soldiers hurt in military training exercise

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP)—A Fort Hood officer has been killed and two other soldiers injured in a military training exercise.

Fort Hood spokesmen Wednesday identified the dead man as 2nd Lt. John G. Green of "C" Company, 1st Battalion, 7th Cavalry.

Officers said Lt. Green was killed Tuesday when he was pinned under the tank in which he was riding after the vehicle went off an embankment and rolled over.

Two other soldiers, Sgt. Reo Royston and PFC Jim McSweeney, were injured. Royston was reported in satisfactory condition and Darnell Army Hospital. McSweeney was treated and released.

Lt. Green is survived by his wife Sherry of Killeen, his mother Beulah Green of Costa Mesa, Calif., and his father John C. Green of Caldwell, Texas.

Despite the Steers' loss to Snyder Tuesday night, Head Coach Tommy Collins was "very pleased" with the team's progress.

"We're improving in every game," said Collins, "and the kids have made tremendous strides from the first game (with Ector.) Snyder has a good ballclub. They beat the Steers last year around Christmas.

"And they had four starters back this year and are tough. And we played them a good game, which means we're going to be tough," Collins commented.

Collins is most satisfied with the Steer defense, and feels that improvement on offense is the key to the winning fortunes for the locals this year.

"We need to work our guards more into our offense," he said. "Right now, they're only following up on a couple of options they have during a play. We need to diversify more."

The Steers won't be back on the local hardwoods until after Christmas (Dec. 27), when they host Brownfield.

Through way of Ollie and Mildred to Frenchie and Erma to Marj Carpenter to me, I'd like to share with you this editorial which appeared in the Port Arthur News about ex-Big Spring Coach Bob Burris.

"In this day when discipline in the schools has gotten the back burner, it does our heart good to see an educator do what he thinks is the right thing in the face of criticism and adversity and come out with the sweet smell of roses about him.

"We're speaking of Coach Bob Burris of Thomas Jefferson High School in Port Arthur. Last week, Burris called a meeting of his contingent and told them he didn't want them to attend a rock concert in Lake Charles the night before the season's final game.

"A lot of those high school gridders gave up their tickets and stayed home because its one of those sacrifices athletes make to stay in training, last game or not. Nine dared go.

"The next day, Burris booted them off the team.

"His action drew immediate criticism from fans, once the story hit the sports pages of The News Friday afternoon. News Sports Editor Bob West was besieged by irate fans wanting to know: 'What's Burris think he's doing? We had a chance for second place in the conference (behind state biggie Port-Neches Grove). Now he's gone and thrown it away.'

"In the face of losing second ranking in the conference and drawing the fire of his fans, Burris did what he thought had to be done to maintain discipline.

"And Friday night his Yellow Jackets swatted West Orange-Stark. That triumph, paired with a surprise win by Lincoln over Vidor, gave TJ undisputed possession of second place in 22-4A.

"And again right prevailed."

Tom Sorley fans will want to catch the "Big 2 and little 6", or as Tommy Hart says, "Big Heads". (Big 8) shootout on national TV Friday between Nebraska and Oklahoma.

The 6-2, 200-pound ex-Steer is officially listed as backup quarterback for the game, but if previous experience proves true, Sorley will get in the contest. He likes that TV, and has already won the "Offensive Player of the Game" award once this season from ABC.

Here are Sorley's stats going into the "Okie Smokeout". He has rushed for a total of 156 yards on 45 carries and three touchdowns. In the passing department, Tom has

'Modest' picker tries again

NEW YORK (AP) — What's so tough about picking college football winners?

Last week, in a fit of pique at all the skulduggery by the various bowl committees, this corner picked every upset where a Top Twenty team was concerned, 10 in all.

And guess what? Three of them actually came about, giving several bowls plenty of consternation — Colorado State over Arizona State, San Diego State over Florida State and Houston over Texas Tech. In addition, Clemson needed a last-minute touchdown to beat South Carolina.

Even with all the crazy selections, last week's score was 39 right and 19 wrong for a 67.2 percentage. Imagine if we were really bearing down. For the season — and these will be the last picks before the bowl games — it's 546-220-15 — 713.

This is the week that will settle the final lineup for the Cotton, Bluebonnet, Orange, Liberty, Rose and Fiesta bowls.

Texas at Texas A&M: These bitter rivals have

Barker wins

MELBOURNE, Australia — Top-seeded Sue Barker of Britain overcame a 2-5 first set deficit and then fought off four set points to beat Mary Sawyer of Australia 7-6, 6-4 in firstround action of a $75,000 women's tennis tournament.

Betty Stove of The Netherlands beat Jeanne Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. 6-1, 6-1 and Australian Evonne Goolagong routed Britain's Glynis Coles 6-1, 6-1.

Hallelujah! 11 TV football games

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual Thanksgiving Day feast, turkey and pigskin, not necessarily in that order, are here. Most sections of the country will get no fewer than 11 football games this long weekend to help with — or perhaps impede — digestion.

Here's the schedule:

—THURSDAY: CBS kicks things off with Chicago-Detroit, a pair of National Football League disappointments. Pat Summerall and Tom Brookshier will talk about how both clubs have a shot at their division title despite 500 records. As the game wears on Brookshier will suggest he'd rather be home eating turkey. Summerall will agree.

ABC is next with college action, Texas Tech-Arkansas. Although the game is virtually meaningless in the Southwest Conference race, Keith Jackson will assure us "when these two teams get together, anything can happen."

Doubters in the audience will switch to NBC an hour later for the best game of the day, St. Louis-Miami, an NFL matchup with definite playoff implications. Curt Gowdy and John Brodie call the shots.

Steer subs split tilts

The Big Spring junior varsity basketball squad handily defeated Snyder, 61-49, Tuesday night, but the Shorthorn sophomores dropped a 67-55 decision to the Tiger subs.

In the JV game, Danny Crosby led all scorers with 20, while ex-Steer quarterback Billy Johnson notched 18. Lara and Rodriguez combined for eight and seven, respectively. Henry Woods was tops for Snyder with 19. The Shorthorns hit 57 per cent of their free throws to pace the win.

In the sophomore loss, Brocky Jones and Cesar Espinoza hit 12 each and Rocky Torres bucketed eight. The Sophs hit 15 of 39 free throws, in a foul-plagued game.

Next game for both teams will be Dec. 5 in a rematch in Snyder.

No scarcity of excellent big men this year

By the Associated Press

Phil Ford's high-flying style often makes news and always makes courtiers nervous.

Once at a North Carolina game, he sailed after basketballs with his customary elan and twice landed on top of the press table. After the second trip, one observer quipped: "One more time back here and they'll make him pay for a ticket."

North Carolina's magnificent flying machine will be giving it another whirl this season, along with a splendid crop of players touted as one of the best in college basketball history.

Along with the ubiquitous Ford, such fine guards as Marquette's Butch Lee, Portland State's Freeman Williams and Holy Cross' Ron Perry will flash their shining talents.

There is no scarcity of excellent big men, either, with such centers as Minnesota's Mike Thompson, San Francisco's Bill Cartwright and Kentucky's Mike Phillips. The forwards show some tall talent, too, in players like UCLA's David Greenwood, Indiana State's Larry Bird and Wake Forest's Rod Griffin.

Ford is lauded as the best guard in the nation by North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, who rarely deals in absolutes. While others may argue that point, Ford is exceptionally good.

The 6-foot-2 senior runs Smith's well-known four-corner offense with such efficacy that it has been given his personal appellation: the "Ford Corners." Orchestrating Smith's complex offensive maneuver with his gifted ball-handling ability, Ford led the Tar Heels into the NCAA final against Marquette last season.

Lee, director of Marquette's 67-59 championship victory over the Tar Heels at Atlanta, also is without question one of the country's premier guards. The 6-1 Lee is one of the great penetrators in the college game, and like Ford, dominates from the backcourt as few can.

Williams, the nation's leading scorer last season, passed up the National Basketball Association bidding draft and will be shooting for more extraordinary figures this season. Williams averaged nearly 39 points per game in the 1976-77 season, including a 71-point burst against Southern Oregon.

Perry was the country's most exciting freshman guard last season. The year in the East Coast leading freshman scorer Minnesota basketball this season starts and ends with won honors as rookie of the (See "North..." p. 2B)

SMU's Meyer may leave Ponyland

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University football Coach Ron Meyer may have won only seven games in two years, but he apparently looks like a winner to the Wisconsin University folks looking for a new coach for their school.

Wisconsin Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch admitted he is definitely interested in hiring Meyer away from SMU and told the Dallas Times Herald, "we hope that he is as interested in us."

Meyer and Hirsch talked by telephone 10 days ago and Meyer described, that conversation as a "fact-finding mission."

But Hirsch said this week he is trying to set up a meeting with the 38-year-old Meyer in Dallas next week. "I want to arrange things so I can interview several applicants on the same trip," he said.

Meyer, on the second of a five-year contract with SMU after a successful career at Nevada-Las Vegas, said he had not submitted his name as a candidate for the Wisconsin job and he thought that a Wisconsin alumnus had done it for him.

I am certainly not looking for a job now, nor am I playing games with SMU in an attempt to get more

Spurs to sign 'Mo'

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The San Antonio Spurs today placed center Jim Eakins on waivers and prepared to sign free agent guard Dennis "Mo" Layton to shore of the injury-riddled backcourt of their National Basketball Association team.

Eakins was picked up by the Spurs just prior to the regular season, but became expendable with the acquisition of Mike Green from Seattle 11 days ago.

money. I am very happy here," Meyer said.

SMU Athletic Director Dick Davis said Meyer told him about the call from Hirsch.

Davis said it would be up to Meyer to decide if he wants to take the job with the Badgers. "I know Ron likes a challenge," he said. "But he has one right here. I'd say Ron is making as much or more than most of the coaches in the Southwest Conference. He has a very lucrative contract. He's told me he's satisfied with it and we're very satisfied with him."

Hirsch said some 60 coaches have applied for the job, but noted that Meyer had not. "He has not been a head coach that long," he said, "but he seems to have accomplished a lot. We understand he's a hard worker, a good recruiter and a dynamic guy."

One thing that would be different at Wisconsin if Meyer accepts the job, will be the crowds. The Badgers, which finished with a 5-6 record, are fourth in attendance averaging 72,000 fans per game.

SMU ended its past home season by attracting 6,900 spectators to the Cotton Bowl for Rice and 21,700 for its Homecoming game against Texas Tech.

In three years at Nevada-Las Vegas, Meyer's teams compiled a 27-8 record.

Cross country teams advance to Regionals

SAN ANGELO — The two Big Spring High School varsity cross country teams advanced to the Dec. 3 Regional Meet in Lubbock, by virtue of their fine finishes in the District 5-4A Meet Wednesday.

The boys, coached by Jerry Carter, finished third in the eight-team field, and Coach Jeannie Hester's girls took a second place finish among five teams. The top three finishers in each district automatically advanced to the Regional Meet.

Midland Lee won the men's competition, with 48 points, but the locals were breathing down their necks with 54 second-place points. Other team totals were: Cooper, 3rd with 68; San Angelo Central, 4th with 70; and Abilene, 5th with 91. All District 5-4A teams were represented except Permian.

Individual finishers for the locals included: Donna Dilberto, 3rd, 13:25; Linda Moss, 10th, 14:37; Cathy Weeks, 15th, 14:42; Tiffany Whiteside, 18th, 15:07; Tammy Woodard, 22nd, 15:41; Jodie Parnell, 26th, 15:55 and Connie Jackson, 30th, 16:19. There was a total of 38 entrants in the girls' competition.

"These kids have really done a good job," said boys Coach Jerry Carter. "They've come a long way since the first meet, a last place finish, and they just kept coming and believing in themselves, until they finally did it!"

Carter explained that most of the local runners turned in their best times of the year in the district meet.

Central won the boys competition with 38 points, followed closely by Midland's 39 and Big Spring with 95. Other league totals were: Midland Lee, 115; Odessa, 140; Cooper, 160; Abilene, 164; and Permian, last with 202.

Fifty-one varsity boys competed in the meet, and local finishers were: Craig Nabors, 13th, 10:21; Steve Trevino, 14th, 10:22; Brad Glaser, 19th, 10:40; James Martin, 24th, 10:55; Gary Jewell, 25th, 10:56; Lorenzo Martinez, 29th, 11:00; and John Petty, 33rd, 11:10.

Junior Varsity finishers for the Steers were: Kirk Mancill, 7th, 10:59; Kevin Wolf, 15th, 11:40; and Mark Moses, 29th, 13:22.

Oklahoma-Nebraska game. Prime competition will come from the soap operas on NBC and CBS. Will Rita reveal Bill's secret? Will Mac get wise to Sven's deception and call it off with Regine? Will Oklahoma earn an Orange Bowl bid? Will I.M. Hipp carry the ball 46 times? Will Rick Forzano notice?

ABC returns at night with Southern Cal-UCLA in one of those "regionals" that will be shown everywhere but the Wells Fargo office in Phoenix and selected bowling alleys in Lafayette, La. Those points will get Arizona-Arizona State and McNeese-Southwestern Louisiana. Chris Schenkel and Frank Broyles call the shots on USC-UCLA. The game has lost much of its usual luster due to Southern Cal's poor season but Schenkel will assure us "when these two teams get together, anything can happen."

—SATURDAY: ABC checks back in with a doubleheader — Penn State-Pitt followed by Army-Navy. Grambling-Southern will also be shown but only on a 12-inch screen located behind the Coke machine at the Grambling student center.

Al Michaels and Lee Grosscup will call the Penn State-Pitt game. Keith Jackson and Ara Parseghian will be on hand for Army-Navy. Neither team is ranked but Jackson will point out: "when these two teams get together, anything can happen."

CBS provides an added bonus Saturday for fans who have yet to catch a glimpse of the year's dumbest event. "The Sports Spectacular" will present the eighth installment of the World's Strongest Man contest. In this episode the contestants try to lift a platform with two girls on it. Will anyone be able to do it? Will anyone actually tune in to see? Do the girls have Blue Cross?

—SUNDAY: CBS gets the edge here. The NFL insists that the networks alternate national telecasts on Sundays during the regular season and it's CBS' turn. The network will offer Washington-Dallas, Summerall and Brookshier, presumably well fed by now, will be on hand to point out that Washington still has a shot at a playoff berth.

CBS will televise six games regionally and NBC will have four of them. ABC will be content with college football highlights.

—MONDAY: Frank Gifford, Howard Cosell and Don Meredith will close out the weekend with Buffalo at Oakland. This could be the least attractive Monday night game of the season. Oakland should win by 30 points. But Cosell will assure us "when these two teams get together..."

'Backs up against the wall' may produce win

COWBOYS NOTES

The Dallas Cowboys have had two consecutive weeks of playing teams with their "backs to the wall." Both times Dallas has lost—Now maybe the Cowboys have reached that point of being backed up following a lightning-like 8-0 start in 1977 that has slipped to a current 8-2 mark.

Facing near-elimination for the NFC championship, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cowboys a Monday night ago, 24-17. Last Sunday Dallas had to contend with the Steelers in Pittsburgh, a team that is embroiled in a four-way dogfight in the AFC Central Division. The Steelers played their best game of the year, winning 28-13.

Now the Cowboys ride into Washington Sunday. St. Louis presently is a game behind Dallas in the NFC East standings but can leapfrog into the driver's seat should the Cowboys lose Sunday and the Cardinals continue winning.

The Redskins are two games off the Dallas pace and also could pull within striking distance with a win Sunday (and a win in their Monday night game this week against Green Bay).

The last time a team rushed the ball roughshod against the Cowboys was in the ninth game of the 1970 season when St. Louis rambled for 242 yards in a Monday night game in the Cotton Bowl (which also was the last time Dallas was shut out; that night the count was 38-0). Pittsburgh had its way Sunday against Dallas with 228 yards on the ground, led by Franco Harris' all-time personal high 179. It was the best performance against a Dallas team by land since Jim Brown ran for 232 yards in 1963.

The Cowboys offense had been in steady decline prior to Sunday. Dallas had just 288 yards against Philadelphia Oct. 23, 254 yards against New York Nov. 6 and 236 yards against St. Louis Nov. 14. Only in the 37-0 win over Detroit Oct. 30, a game in which the Cowboys turned in their top offensive and defensive (combined) effort of '77, did the Cowboys roll, with 344 total yards. Last Sunday Dallas rediscovered its running game with 136 yards by Tony Dorsett and Robert Newhouse and the team racked up 337 total yards. The last time Dallas and Washington met, Oct. 16 in Dallas, the Cowboys hung up 435 yards in total offense.

The Cowboys suddenly are going sackless. Doomsday II, after amassing 39 traps of the quarterback the first eight games this season, has had just one in each of the last two games. Harvey Martin spilled Jim Hart for a four-yard loss in the Cardinal game and Randy White

DALLAS COWBOYS

(with help from Mike Hegman) threw Terry Bradshaw for a 14-yard loss late in Sunday's game in Pittsburgh.

Ever since George Allen moved from Los Angeles to Washington to take over the Redskins in 1971, NFC East rivals Washington and Dallas have split their regular season games. Last year a trend of Washington winning the D.C. game and the Cowboys winning the Dallas game was stopped as the Cowboys won in Washington early in the season, 20-7, only to lose the 1976 regular season finale in Dallas, 27-14. That had happened only once before, in 1971, when the Cowboys lost in Dallas to the Redskins, 20-16, before coming back to win in Washington, 13-0.

Sunday's game will be the third consecutive contest the Cowboys have played under the lights since it begins at 4 p.m. (EST). The key Thanksgiving weekend game will be the 36th all-time meeting between the teams. Dallas leads the series, 19-14-2. In games since '71, the teams are deadlocked at seven wins apiece.

Although it's a mean task against the remaining defenses Dallas will see this regular season (Redskins, Eagles, 49ers and Broncos), Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett has an outside shot at a 1,000 yard rushing season. Dorsett, who started his first pro game at Pittsburgh last week, has one 100-yard me (141 in the first St. Louis game) and 595 yards on the year. He needs 405 to reach 1,000, or an average of 101.3 yards over the last four games. Robert Newhouse would need to average 120.5 yards over the same span to reach 1,000 since he now has 518 yards. Newhouse has not broken 100 yards in a game this season but he has had performances of 73 (twice, including last Sunday), 71, 67, 63 and 61. He and Dorsett combined for 122 yards rushing against Washington the last time the two teams met. A more feasible goal for Newhouse would be to tack on 413 yards to break his career high water mark of 930 yards rushing in 1975. That would be an average of 103.3 yards over the last four games.

Billy Joe DuPree's 10 catches the last four games have brought the Pro Bowl tight end back into prominence in the Cowboys' offense the second half of 1977. DuPree now has 21 catches for 237 yards (11.3 per reception) and three touchdowns. Drew Pearson leads the club with 38 receptions and now has caught passes in 41 consecutive games. Preston Pearson is second on the team with 32 catches.

The Cowboys scored a total of just three points in the second half the last two games.

North Carolina may have best roundball recipe

Thompson, who holds or will hold every Gophers' offensive record by the time the season ends. The 6-10 center was a 61 per cent shooter last season while scoring 22 points and averaging nine rebounds per game — figures that got him elected to some Player of the Year selections.

The 6-11 Cartwright shoots as well as any big man in basketball — college or pro. He figures to keep on doing what comes naturally, as he did last season with nearly 20 points and nine rebounds per game.

Phillips anchors one of the best front lines in college basketball at Kentucky. The rugged 6-10 center led the Wildcats to the National Invitation Tournament title two years ago and into the NCAA playoffs last season. He figures to do more leading this year — perhaps all the way to the top.

Greenwood, a 6-10 junior forward, is one of UCLA's slam dunk specialists who not only can score but rebound with the country's best big men. The leading man in the Bruins' cast this season, the graceful Greenwood should improve on his 1976-77 figures of 10 rebounds and 17 points per game.

Byrd was among the most proficient and least recognized players last season, with averages of 33 points and more than 13 rebounds per game. The Sycamores' star might make more of a name for himself this season, now that Indiana State has shedded its small town image and joined a "name" conference — the Missouri Valley.

Griffin is a strong specimen at 6-6 and 225 pounds who throws his weight around under the basket. He hit a sizzling 62 per cent from the floor last season, averaging almost 21 points and nine rebounds, and was named Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year over many other standouts.

Danny Reagan

completed 35 of 74 passes for 467 yards, two TDs and three INTs.

Sorley currently has 623 total yards on offense, third behind Berns and I.M. Hipp. He is also the fifth leading scorer for the Huskers, with 18 points.

Worth noting: the annual Sooner-Husker "Smokeout" will mark the third appearance for both teams this fall. Nebraska whipped Alabama 31-24, and Oklahoma State, 31-14, in its two regional dates, while Oklahoma lost to Texas, 13-6, and clobbered Colorado, 52-14 on its two TV shots.

Oklahoma leads the series, 30-23-3. First game was in 1912. Nebraska led until WWII, and then the Sooners under Bud Wilkinson (from 1947 to 1963) went on a spree and gained the lead. The Sooners have won the last five straight.

Nebraska has gained 3,138 yards rushing in 10 games for a 313.8 average. This puts the Huskers just 145 yards shy of the all-time Nebraska season rushing record of 3,283 set in 13 games during 1971. Thus, two of the nation's stoutest rushing attacks will square off Friday. Oklahoma is averaging 320.1 per game and ranks number one in the Big 8, while the Huskers rank number two. OU is second in the nation behind Texas, and Nebraska is third.

Should be a great game. Time: 1:25 p.m.

The Turkey Day game should be a good one as well, despite the fact that Texas Tech got clobbered, 45-7, by Houston last week in a laugher.

Today, the Red Raiders meet the Red Hogs of Arkansas in a nationally-televised game. For fear of raising protests of "Prejudice, prejudice!" I'll just have something to say about players on both squads to watch for.

ARKANSAS — Quarterback Ron Calcagni, no. 18, junior, who has hit 54 per cent of his passes for over 1,000 yards. It was Calcagni whose 58-yard pass to Robert Farrell, no. 83, with 1:41 remaining that enabled the Razorbacks to squeeze by the Aggies.

Running back Ben Cowins, no. 28, junior, who has rushed for 1,150 yards, 13 TDs and a 5.6 average. This is the second straight year that Cowins has passed the 1,000-yard mark. He uses quickness to great advantage as he breaks into the opponents' secondary.

Wide receiver Donny Bobo, no. 44, sophomore, who has caught 20 passes for over 450 yards. He has played the last five games with a broken wrist. Bobo is an outstanding blocker as well as receiver, and he played at the running back spot much of last year.

On defense, look for linebacker Larry Jackson, no. 66, junior; tackle Jerry Walker, no. 75, junior and defensive back Howard Sampson, no. 31, senior. Best trio to watch. Walker has registered 14 sacks for a minus 90 yards. The stingy Arkansas defense has allowed only nine TDs in 10 games.

TEXAS TECH — Quarterback Rodney Allison, no. 12, senior, who is recovering strongly after breaking a bone in his lower left leg during the first quarter of the Texas A&M game. He missed the next four games and resumed play against TCU when he was operating at about 50 per cent efficiency. If nothing unforeseen happens, he should be operating at 100 per cent today.

Fullback Billy Taylor, no. 33, senior, is the team's leading rusher with over 800 yards and 11 TDs. He also leads Tech in receptions, with 25 for 200 yards. Taylor has been the team "workhorse" and picked up a great deal of the slack when Allison was sidelined. He carried the ball 35 times against North Carolina; 26 against TCU and 20 times against SMU.

Top receivers, in addition to Taylor, are Sammy Williams, no. 80 (19 catches for 300 yards) and Brian Nelson, no. 87.

The top four Tech defenders are linebacker Mike Mock, no. 44, senior; tackle Jim Krahl, no. 72, senior, end Richard Arledge, no. 48, senior, and back Eric Felton, no. 20, senior.

The Raiders are hurting physically, and the Hogs are definite favorites. Give the Techs a few points for pride and home team and you might have an upset. Don't beat anything more than cranberry sauce though.

Sorry you Aggie and T-Sippers won't be able to see what should be the greatest game of the season. Closed circuit TV of the contest will only be seen in Austin and San Antonio.

Aggie corps attention! As everyone knows by now, this year's Heisman Trophy race is now between two people...Texas' Earl Campbell and Oklahoma State's Terry Miller.

Miller is leading the nation in rushing with 152.7 yards per game, while Campbell is second with 152.2 average. Campbell has 1,552 yards in 10 games, with just the Aggie game to go. He needs 159 yards to surpass Miller (1,680) and win the national rushing title. However, Miller has several hundred more yards in his career than Campbell.

Miller is also fourth best in NCAA history, his 4,582 yards putting him behind Tony Dorsett (6,082), Archie Griffin (5,177) and Ed Marinaro (4,582). Who'll get the Heisman? Campbell, of course!

Music major leads SWC defenders

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston linebacker Willis Williams is a senior music major from Marlin who plays the piano, sings at weddings and last weekend specialized in ringing bells in the Cougars' awesome 45-7 victory over Texas Tech.

Williams rang Tech quarterback Rodney Allison's bell several times, played a tune on the heads of Raider runners and finished with eight tackles, three assists and a key interception.

It all amounted to a dirge for the bowl bound Red Raiders and earned Williams the Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week honor.

"The rush was incredible," Williams said. "We put a big rush on Allison and it stayed there the entire game. "We were determined not to have one of those third quarter hulls."

Tech, already locked in with a Tangerine Bowl bid, had the lull. Harrased by the aggressive Cougar defense, Allison fumbled and threw an interception the first two times he touched the ball in the third quarter and the Cougars turned both into touchdowns.

"It was just a matter of us relaxing and having a good time," Williams said. "We're getting our team back together from all the injuries and that makes a difference."

It was a key interception by Williams at the UH goal line in the second quarter that may have turned the tide for Houston. Tech had the momentum after scoring a touchdown and recovering a fumble by Houston on the next kickoff.

Ironically, Williams' interception was in almost the identical position as an interception he made last year against Miami that saved the game for Houston.

Music major leads SWC defenders

Arkansas, and Lionel Harvey of Cincinnati.

Among other top centers are: Jerome Whitehead, Marquette; Roosevelt Bouie, Syracuse; George Johnson, St. John's; Dave Corzine, DePaul; Mike Gminski, Duke, and Mike Santos, Utah State.

Recruiting efforts during the off-season turned up some diamonds in the rough everywhere in the country.

This widespread array of talent will provide more balance than has been seen in recent years in college basketball. As many as two dozen or more teams have a realistic shot at winning the national championship.

Most of the conferences have fierce top-to-bottom energy and there are few clear-cut favorites anywhere, including North Carolina's defending ACC champions.

Besides the Ford-led Tar Heels, the ACC boasts several attractive teams — including Wake Forest, Clemson, Duke, North Carolina State and Maryland, with its omnipresent King. The ACC, intermittently touted as the strongest league in the country, might live up to that lofty billing this season, but will get plenty of competition from the Big Ten.

Like the ACC, the Big Ten recruited some of the nation's top high school talent this season and the consensus is that the league might be the best balanced in its history. Defending champion Michigan, Michigan State, Ohio State and Wisconsin appear to have scored the highest in the recruiting war.

Does equal opportunity exist at Big Spring High School for any student who wishes to participate in sports?

That was the major question which surfaced last week after a letter to the Herald's editor detailed problems certain students were reportedly facing as they tried to break into the basketball program here.

The letter, written by Johnny Hardeman, and signed by three other students stated that "...both Robbins (athletic director) and Collins (head basketball coach) are not letting the students who have the desire play, because they are playing only to win."

The letter also stated that Collins did not allow certain students to try out for basketball when they requested an opportunity.

"I went to him (Collins) to ask him if I could try out," said Hardeman, "and before I could say anything, he said I'd be wasting my time and his. And when I said 'What you're saying is you're not even gonna let me try out?' he said 'No.'"

"That's exactly what happened," said Coach Tommy Collins, about his conversation with Hardeman.

"I told him that, with his size and weight, if he was 6-3 or 6-4, he might be able to play outside (away from the basket)," continued Collins, "but, since our season had already started, he wouldn't be able to play."

Collins also stated that he suggested to Hardeman that he wait and try out for the track team, where his size and physical abilities would be a plus in the field events.

Hardeman, a 210-pound junior, was a starter three or four times this football season for the Steers on the defensive line. A workhorse on the field, and dedicated competitor, Hardeman's chagrin was understandable.

"I've tried out for basketball every year since I've been in high school," Hardeman stated.

The day the letter appeared in the Herald, Hardeman was allowed to tryout. "I'd seen him play before," said Collins, "but I let him work out with the JVs two days. Then, I had to release him and another kid."

Collins explained the junior varsity program thusly: "The JV team is not a team as such. It is composed of people who we think have an opportunity to be varsity material next year. It's not fair to let a kid play as a junior and cut him as a senior. We're trying to eliminate that."

"Nobody likes to cut somebody, but he (Hardeman) was right when he said we wanted to win. We're here to win with the best possible program it takes to win," Collins concluded.

What about the other three students who signed the letter? Ricky Gutierrez came down to the Herald offices personally to explain his position: "I didn't have anything to do with trying out for basketball. I was just witnessing the letter for Johnny." Gutierrez explained, adding that he "didn't want to hurt Coach Collins."

Gutierrez was a standout performer for the Runnels football team and was expected to come out for high school football this season. An emergency appendectomy, and subsequent complications, prevented that, however.

Oscar James (mistakenly spelled Jones in print) played football for the Steers last year and was encouraged to continue in his football career. He eventually dropped out of the football program and is no longer enrolled in high school. Collins indicates that he never talked to James, and James was unavailable for comment.

James Pinkard, a senior athletically, was also unavailable for comment, and Collins stated that Pinkard had earlier talked about playing this year, but never approached him for a try-out.

Big Spring Athletic Director Don Robbins also had a few comments on the matter:

"Yes, I talked to Hardeman. He's a good kid with a good attitude, and when he came to me (before the eventual try-out), I told him I could not force the basketball coach to change his policies. It's the responsibility of each individual coach in his program to run that program," Robbins said.

"Our sports programs are open to everyone," Robbins continued. "We haven't told anyone they couldn't come out. In a school this size, we encourage the kids to get involved, because we need maximum participation."

"At the same time, we don't want to feel like we're having a program just to be having it. We're trying to instill a pride of winning in these kids, and trying to build and strengthen our program so we can compete in this tough district (5-4A)."

"The purpose is to win, and if you're not teaching winning, you're teaching losing, and losing is not the American way of life," Robbins concluded.

Robbins explained the need for cuts thusly: "The only programs up here in which we have restrictions, screens or cuts, are the basketball and baseball programs. We have limited facilities in both of these programs, and just don't have room for everyone."

"In high school, we have five boys' basketball teams, three girls' teams, plus volleyball practice and any overflow from P.E. classes. And they're all trying to use Steer Gym."

"In baseball, we have one diamond, and can't have 500 kids over there. All we can run are the varsity and JV programs. We don't want a lot of kids out there just standing around, were supposed to keep them busy. Facility-wise, we just don't have the room," Robbins stated.

Due to the limited space, players who have been involved in a particular program since junior high school or early years in high school are given preference.

"It's not fair to the kids who have been in the program all through high school to be cut, because a senior waits until his senior year to come out for a particular sport," said Robbins.

"Hopefully, he's played prior to his senior year. Normally, most programs, including ours, will letter a senior if he does the job and has played prior to his senior year," Robbins concluded.

Robbins indicated that for those students who cannot make a varsity squad, there is a very well-organized intramural program at the high school that involves 22 sports and is very competitive. "It's a dandy," said Robbins.

BSHS Student Activities Director Craig Fischer, who talked with Gutierrez and Pinkard in their conversation with Robbins to determine if there were any problems, said:

"If you wait until your last year to come out, the coaches just aren't going to look at you very long," Fischer said. "This was the case in Andrews when I worked there and I imagine it's like that just about everywhere."

Collins said that the players who were involved in basketball the previous year, who do not go out for football in the fall, get involved in the off-season basketball program.

No one likes to be a bench-warmer, and there seems to be less of them at the local high school than elsewhere, because of the limited number of people on the squads. Everyone may not get to be on every team they want to, but there should be at least one sport open for any dedicated student who wants to play for his school.

'Cosell must go' draws attention

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — For delicatessen owner Irving Gold, the World Series was the straw that broke the camel's back, or to circumscribe the metaphor, the blow that broke the bagel.

"That's when I decided after eight years of suffering through Monday night football that Howard had to go," said Gold, a little man against a mighty network, standing staunch in his white apron next to the pastrami slicer here in the national headquarters of the "Cosell Must Go" movement.

From the refrigerated showcase displaying the chicken livers, roll mops and smoked salmon hung dozens of letters affirming support for the month-old campaign against "Old Motor Mouth," as several of the respondents called the sportscaster in question.

The backroom of Gold's Ridgefield delicatessen, normally given over to jars of kosher pickles, tins of paprika and tubs of potato salad, bulged with cartons of "Cosell Must Go" kits, consisting of a large green and white button and a like-colored bumper sticker, and stacks of letters, more than 1,000, each accompanied by a $3 check from fresh recruits to the cause.

Gold, a Monday night football TV addict who "just couldn't take Cosell's verbosity and extraneous statistics any longer" began it all by placing newspaper ads in Denver, Des Moines and Atlanta calling on ABC to recall the glib announcer whom he regards as "a throwback to the radio days of Ted Husing and Bill Stern when all that verbiage was needed."

The New York Daily News refused to run the ad, but Gold began getting letters from all over the country from sports fans like himself who turned off the sound when Howard was trying to tell it like it was in his familiar adonoidal staccato.

"I cried out the petitions calling for Howard's head, or at least his thorax. 'Rid us of that air pollutant called Cosell.' 'Make him ambassador to some obscure country.' 'Unload this monotonous, nasal, verbose idiot.'"

Some of the campaign converts were doctors, lawyers and CPAs, according to Gold, and a surprising number were women, including one with 10 kids who could only afford to send a dollar for the kit and another who said that Monday night football on TV was sacred because it was the only time she ever got to spend with her husband.

"I'm not a demographer and I haven't figured out the statistics from the mail, but the number of people turning off the sound when Howard is on is incredible," said Gold, stroking his Solzhentzys beard dissidently. "At $200,000 a minute, it doesn't make sense. The sponsors must be losing millions with him."

Generously built like one of his bologna sandwiches, Gold once "played a little football" and has a keen knowledge of the game, but he can't say the same for Cosell. "I've nothing personal against him; I never met the man. He's probably what my mother would call 'an honorable decent human being who works hard every day.' I don't want to deny him an opportunity to make a living. Just get him off Monday night football. Let him do radio, talk shows, interviews, anything. But spare us that constant chatter and unnecessary information about games going back to the Civil War."

"I just took up tennis and now Howard is doing tennis, which I don't need, thank you, as another aggravation to my sanity." Besides the newspaper ads, the bumper stickers, the Cosell-must-go buttons all supported by the $3 contributions, Gold is drawing up a roster of names on a nationwide recall petition. He sees himself at the head of "Irving's Army," little people beyond the call of the ratings pollsters crying out to be heard against the debilitating effects of one man's logorrhea.

"I can't stop now," avowed the Don Quixote of the dill pickles. "I've got a responsibility to my public."

HOUSTON (AP) — Joe Louis, the former world heavyweight boxing champion, was reported Wednesday to be making good progress from his Nov. 3 heart surgery.

'Gold Gloves' named

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News has announced its Gold Glove awards for American and National League baseball players whose fielding was 24 karat.

Outfielders Juan Beniquez of Texas, Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and Al Cowens of Kansas City were also named to the Gold Glove squad, as were catcher Jim Sundberg of Texas and pitcher Jim Palmer of Baltimore.

Earning fielding awards in the National League were first baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, second baseman Joe Morgan of Cincinnati, third baseman Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia and shortstop Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati.

Buddy Rich still has lean, youthful look

NEW YORK (AP) — Buddy Rich bounded in the door, wearing a New York Yankees baseball cap and a silver racing-driver's jacket. He looked like a trim high school coach.

Rich was taking the field. Not to play a game but to record an album with his 14-member band, which occasionally calls itself the "Killer Force."

Meanwhile, the band members began drifting into the studio, kibitzing with each other and Rich and getting their instruments set up. Eventually — at one point Rich sat on a stool in the middle of the studio and read a favorable newspaper review — the band settled down to concentrate on the music.

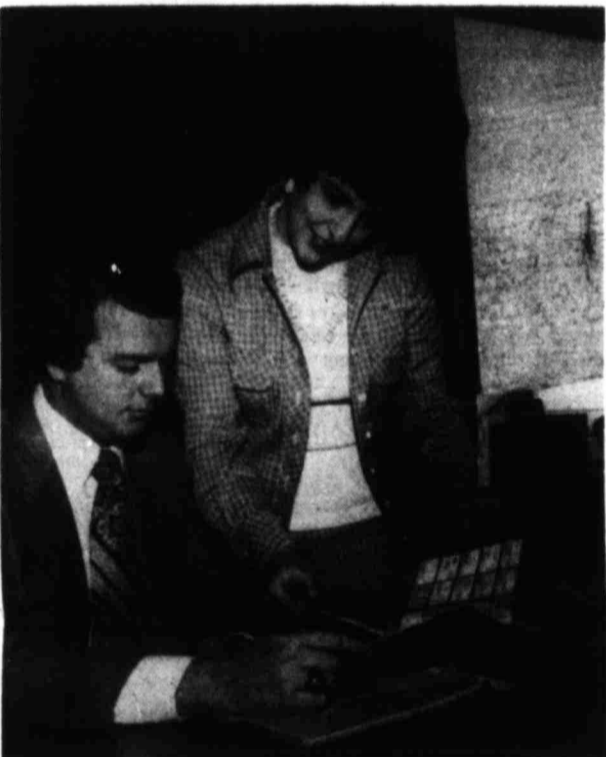

After cutting the first side, Rich and the band members went to the control room to listen to what the longtime jazz drummer calls the "best big band I've ever worked with."

The informally dressed jury — foreman Rich was wearing jeans, a short-sleeved black shirt with a Ferrari logo and jogging shoes — reviewed its own work and pronounced itself satisfied. After the break, the band went back into the studio to finish the session.

"Was that as great as I thought it was?" Rich,

District is 'on target' with 208 planning study

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is on target in its portion of the 208 Planning Study of waste water management in the Colorado River Basin.

This report came from O. H. Ivie, general manager of CRMWD, at a report and critique session of the chairman and sub-chairmen in Austin Tuesday. Ivie and Rodney Lewis, CRMWD administrative assistant, represented this area at the session. John Babcock, Austin, reported for the Lower Colorado River Authority. Both discussed comments received after publication of Volume I of the Study, and how these

Thanksgiving

Let us be thankful for the presence of love in our hearts.

What the world needs today is all the love we can spare.

It is needed in our offices, in our factories, around the conference tables of the world, on our streets, in our schools, in our churches...

but most of all in our homes. As we sit down at our Thanksgiving dinner, let us reflect for a moment on the ways in which we can give this greatest gift of all... our love.

Foghat earned its reputation

NEW YORK (AP) — "As long as there's rock 'n roll there's going to be blues," says Lonesome Dave Peverett, lead singer and guitarist of the rock band Foghat.

Peverett's group is one of the most successful in the blues-rock vein that's based on the music of old masters like Muddy Waters and John Lee Hooker.

Most of his band's young white audience is unfamiliar with the older black men who supplied much of the basis for rock.

So Peverett, 27, recently repayed his debt to Waters and Hooker by bringing them together with several of their peers and more modern bluesmen like Paul Butterfield and Johnny Winter for an all-star show to benefit the New York Public Library.

"We figured it was the least we could do," said Peverett. "We've made a lot of money from the blues and the library idea was a pretty good way of paying it back. We also like to think the show would bring a bit more attention to Muddy, John Lee I there's not many of those guy left."

Like many British youths in the 1960s, Peverett worshipped the old blues masters. He admits he adopted the nickname Lonesome Dave "because all those American blues guys had nicknames — Lightning Hopkins, Muddy Waters.

His four-member band started in 1972 as a spinoff of Savoy Brown, a British blues band best known for its numerous personnel changes.

"When I joined Savoy Brown it was very heavily into playing classic blues like Howling Wolf and Muddy Waters," he said.

'Raymundo will sleep in the Palmar County jail tonight'

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — A Texas escapee's week of freedom ended Tuesday night when he was arrested in an Albuquerque bar. An Albuquerque police spokesman said Raymundo Estraca, 27, who escaped Nov. 15 from the Deaf Smith County jail in Hereford, Texas, was arrested after a tip to the police department that a man who was possibly wanted in Texas was in the bar. Estraca gave the police two false names, but once an officer found out his real name, a check showed he was wanted on felony warrants from Texas, the spokesman said. The spokesman said Estraca offered no resistance. He is to be sent back to Texas as soon as he signs a waiver of extradition, said Sheriff Charles Lovelace of Farwell, Texas. "Raymundo will sleep in the Palmar County jail tonight," Lovelace said. Estraca and Jerry Persons, 24, escaped from the Hereford jail, taking a car, authorities said. They were spotted in Farwell and chased over the New Mexico line, where officers from Texas and Curry County arrested Persons after a traffic accident. The two men were being held in Hereford on charges of rape and robbery by assault in connection with an incident near Texico in eastern New Mexico last summer, authorities said. Texas authorities said Persons pleaded guilty Tuesday to robbery, burglary. Lovelace said Hereford authorities have not filed charges against Persons.

Clubhouse Bridge game benefits charity

A Charity Bridge Game was held Monday night at the Pioneer Gas Company in an effort to raise money for the Arthritis Foundation by ACBL.

Mrs. E.L. Powell directed the nine tables which included visitors from Midland and Colorado City.

First winners were Mrs. Truman Jones and Mrs. R.H. Weaver. Second winners were Mrs. Morris Rose and Mrs. John Stone. Mrs. E.O. Ellington and Mrs. John H. Fish took third. Fourth were Mrs. James N. Alison and Mrs. H. Ford Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Riley came in fifth.

The Sectional Award went to Mrs. J.A. St. John and Mrs. L.N. Jones.

The group raised $72 for their cause.

Mrs. Truman Jones won the title Life Master recently at the regional tournament.

Club names new officers

Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club held its monthly meeting Nov. 21 in the Personnel Building at the Cosden Refinery.

The program was a film entitled "It Never Rains Oil." The film explained in a very interesting and humorous way how dependent the country is on oil, and also of the benefits received by the oil companies as well as the nation from percentage depletion.

The meeting included a business meeting conducted by Mrs. W.E. Barnett, president. The following members were elected as 1978 officers, to be installed at the December meeting: president, Mrs. Paul Van Sheedy; vice president, Mrs. Leon Kinney; secretary, Mrs. Doryne Hefner; treasurer, Mrs. Morrison Donaghe; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lee Herndon; and immediate past president, Mrs. W.E. Barnett.

Mrs. R.C. McDaniel agreed to have the Christmas party and installation of officers in her home on Dec. 13.

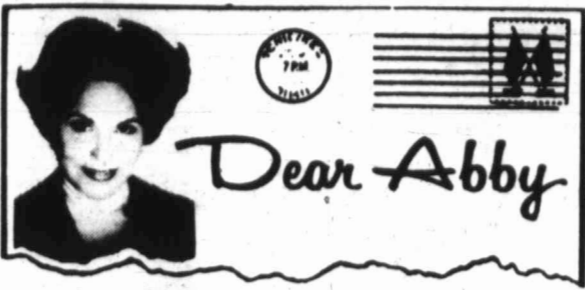

Marguerite Cooper won the attendance prize.

Wives honored at open house

The Permian Basin Medical Society Auxiliary held an open house coffee Saturday morning in honor of the wives of dentists and hospital administrators in Big Spring.

The affair was in the home of Mrs. James W. Cowan, auxiliary president. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Paul Kiouke, Mrs. Robert Griffin, Mrs. Roscoe Cowper and Mrs. Jack Woodall.

The fall theme was carried throughout the home with autumn flowers and leaves. About 40 members and guests enjoyed refreshments and visiting.

So Many Reasons To Be Thankful

DEAR READERS: Can you believe it's Thanksgiving again...so soon?

A few years ago I wrote a column especially for Thanksgiving, and it was so well received that I was asked to repeat it. Now it's become a tradition. So, here it is again, with a few minor changes:

On this Thanksgiving Day, take a few minutes to think about what you have to be thankful for.

How's your health? Not so good? Well, thank God you've lived this long. A lot of people haven't. You're hurting? Thousands—maybe millions—are hurting more. (Have you ever visited a veterans' hospital? Or a rehabilitation clinic for crippled children?)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal chords to utter human sounds, walk to the breakfast table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes, praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't.

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight.

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to BE one. If nobody calls you, call them. Go out of your way to do something nice for somebody. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern—concern for honesty in government, concern for peace and concern for fair play under the law. Your country may not be a rose garden, but it also is not a patch of weeds.

Freedom rings! Look and listen. You can still worship at the church of your choice, cast a secret ballot and even criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock on the door at midnight! And if you want to live under a different system, you are free to do. There are no walls or fences—nothing to keep you here.

As a final thought, if you've never said grace at your table, do it today.

And if you ARE accustomed to saying grace, this time, instead of having an adult recite it, let a child lead the rest.

First, everyone at the table should hold hands.

Here is my Thanksgiving Prayer, which I offer not only once a year, but on every occasion when grace is recited at my table. You are welcome to use it:

"O, heavenly Father: We thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

We thank Thee for health and remember the sick.

We thank Thee for friends and remember the friendless.

We thank Thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

May these remembrances stir us to service.

That Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving and may God bless you and yours.

Love, ABBY

DEAR ABBY: My older sister irritates me no end. She never takes my word for anything. She always has to check it out. If I were in the habit of lying, I could understand it, but I'm not. I always try to stick to the truth.

Another thing about her that bugs me is that if I happen to be out when she phones me, when she finally reaches me she always asks where I've been. Abby, I just hate having to account for my whereabouts. She doesn't have to know every move I make!

I'm not a child. Far from it. I'm a married woman in my 40s.

Any suggestions?

YOUNGER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Yes, grow up. You're still intimidated by your older sister. Don't blame her if you lack the courage to tell her that: (a) you resent her checking out everything you say because you're generally truthful, and (b) if you want her to know where you've been, you'll volunteer the information.

DEAR ABBY: I invited 22 people to my home for Easter Sunday dinner at noon. Everyone but my husband's brother and his wife accepted. She said, "I'm sorry, I already promised my mother we'd go to her house for the noon meal, but we'll be hungry again at 7 p.m. so we'll come to your house for leftovers. Okay, honey?"

Not knowing what else to say, I said, "Okay."

Well, they came at 7 p.m. with three other couples I didn't even know, and cleaned me out of all my leftovers and ran.

I stood in my kitchen doing dishes until midnight. I'm plenty burned up because I had plans for those leftovers. I'll leave it up to you, Abby. How could I have gotten out of letting her come when she invited herself?

TUCKERED OUT IN TORRANCE

DEAR TUCKERED: Just because people invite themselves is no reason to make them welcome.

You could have said, "I'm sorry, but my dinner party is at NOON, and I expect to be tucked out at 7 p.m., so let's make it some other time. Okay, honey?"

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

CAN'T WAIT TIL THANKSGIVING — Sonny Chapman, owner of Chapman's Meat Market, 1210 Gregg, displays some of the alternatives for Thanksgiving dinner, a huge delicious turkey or a big juicy ham... the choice is yours. He said that turkeys have been selling "real good" and are only a little higher in cost than last year, at an average of 69-79 cents a pound. Hams, though not selling quite as well as turkeys, are running a close second, and Chapman said that he is selling more than last year. They are also a little higher than last year (what isn't?). A dry-cure ham will run on the average of $1.69 a pound and up. He said that they don't sell any duck or geese there, just a lot of "turkeys, turkey breasts, chicken and hens for Thanksgiving."

Turkey leftovers can be transformed into meals family will gobble up

Well, Thanksgiving is over, the dishes are washed, and now all you have to do is figure out what in the world you are going to do with all those leftovers! Here are a few recipes that may make your task easier.

SALADE A LA VOLAILLE
(for six)
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon paprika
Dash cayenne
1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
1 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 cups torn lettuce
1 1/2 cups cooked turkey
1 7-ounce can artichoke hearts, drained and halved
1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe olives
6 anchovy fillets, halved
2 tablespoons capers, drained

In a small mixing bowl, combine salt, mustard, paprika and cayenne, blend in egg yolk. Add vinegar, mix well. Add oil, a teaspoon at a time, beating constantly with an electric mixer till two tablespoons have been added. Add remaining oil in increasing amounts, alternating the last 1/4 cup with lemon juice, olives, anchovies and capers. Toss with enough of the dressing to coat. (If desired, thin dressing with a little milk). — Served during Pres. Martin Van Buren's administration. From the Better Homes & Gardens' Heritage Cookbook.

BEIGNETS DE RECHAUFFE DE DINDE A LA CREOLE
(Turkey Fritters Creole)
1 1/2 cups turkey meat, chopped
1 cup cranberries
1 whole clove
1 allspice berry
1/2-inch stick cinnamon
Cheesecloth bag
1 generous cup sugar
1 1/3rd cup flour
1 teaspoon double-action baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, finely grated
1 large egg, beaten well
1-3rd cup milk
Cover cranberries in a saucepan with cold water. Tie clove, allspice and cinnamon in cheesecloth bag and add to berries. Cook until the cranberries burst. Discard the spice bag. Add sugar to the berries and cook the mixture until it is clear. Drain the berries and reserve the syrup. Let the berries cool, and mix them with the chopped turkey. Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt and nutmeg. Add milk to the beaten egg and combine it with the flour mixture, beating well until the batter is quite smooth. Add the turkey-cranberry mixture to the batter. Drop by teaspoons into hot deep fat, and cook the fritters until golden-brown and well-puffed. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve on a hot platter, garnished with French-fried parsley. — From the Gourmet Cookbook, Volume 1.

TURKEY HASH
(for four to six)
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 cups light cream or milk
2 cups cubed cooked turkey
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1/2 cup dry sherry
Toast triangles
In a saucepan melt butter; blend in the flour, salt and pepper. Add cream or milk all at once. Cook, stirring constantly, till the mixture is thickened and bubbly. Stir in turkey, eggs and sherry. Heat through. Serve hot over toast triangles. — Served in the colonies of Maryland and Virginia during the 1600's. From the Better Homes and Gardens' Heritage Cookbook.

SWEET POTATO —TURKEY PIE
(for six)
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1 17-ounce can sweet potatoes, drained and mashed
1/2 cup sliced onion
2 cups diced cooked turkey
1 10 3/4-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 8 3/4-ounce can whole kernel corn, drained
1 8 1/2-ounce can peas, drained
1 small tomato, peeled and diced
Melt two tablespoons butter; beat melted butter, nutmeg, allspice and 1/4 teaspoon salt into mashed sweet potatoes. Line a 9-inch pie plate with potato mixture, building up edges 1/2 inch high. Cook onion in remaining butter until almost tender. Stir in turkey, soup, vegetables and 1/4 teaspoon salt. Spoon into potato shell. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes. Serve hot. — Made by cooks after canned soup was invented. From the Better Homes and Gardens' Heritage Cookbook.

TURKEY CASSEROLE BOURGEOISE
(for six)
5 tablespoons butter
1 generous tablespoon flour
3 tablespoons sherry
1 cup chicken stock
Pinch fresh grated nutmeg
1 cup light cream, scalded
1 cup thinly sliced mushrooms, sauteed
3 egg yolk, beaten with a little milk
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 tablespoon green pepper, finely chopped
3 cups turkey meat, cooked and cut into small slices
Fine bread crumbs
Grated cheese
In a saucepan, heat butter and stir in flour. When the mixture is bubbling, but not brown, add chicken stock and sherry. Cook for three minutes and season with a pinch of nutmeg, and salt and pepper to taste. Bring the sauce to a boil and stir in the scalded cream. Stirring occasionally, bring the sauce to a boil again and add to it the mushrooms, which have been sauteed in 2 tablespoons butter. Add the beaten egg yolk-milk mixture to the sauce, stirring briskly. Add also the onion juice, green pepper and turkey. Taste for seasoning. Divide the mixture into 6 individual heated casseroles.

Sprinkle with equal parts of grated cheese and fine bread crumbs, and dot with bits of butter. Put the casseroles on a baking sheet and brown under a broiler flame or in a moderately heated oven. Serve bubbling hot. — From the Gourmet Cookbook, Volume 1.

Red, white or rose? All are okay

Wondering what you should serve with that Thanksgiving dinner today? Oneophilist Don Richard suggests wine. A rose is good for a crowd of people with varying preferences, he said.

"Any Portuguese Wine, like Mateus, would be good."

If there are neophyte wine drinkers at the table, Richard suggests a white German wine, like a Riesling or a Liebfraumilch. Blue Nun is an inexpensive brand that he recommends.

For white-lovers with more sophisticated taste buds, he said that a Spatlese or an Auslese would be appreciated.

And for those who prefer red, "a light red French" would do the trick. He recommends Beaujolais.

"At Thanksgiving, as at any other time of the year, there are no hard and fast rules," said Richard. "You should choose your wines as your taste dictates."

TWEEN 12 AND 20

Try giving flowers to ungrateful mom

Dear Doctor:

I am 13 and I have a very ungrateful mother. Anything that the family buys for her is the wrong thing or she will find something wrong with it.

With the holiday season coming, we would like to know what we can do about it? In the past, she has hurt my dad's feelings even more than mine.

Jerry, Columbus, Ohio

Dear Jerry:

Enlist the aid of a relative or friend close to mother, to find out what she would like. An alternative would be to give her a gift certificate. If that sounds too impersonal, give mother flowers. I have yet to meet a woman that doesn't enjoy beautiful flowers.

not preach to you on religion. I figure that in the 10 months that I have been a non-smoker, I have saved over $300, but the best part is that I have not smoked since the clinic.

Jan McGrew, Sacramento, Calif.

Dear Jan: Anything that has helped a fellow human being stop smoking is worthy of mention.

Questions may be sent to Dr. Robert Wallace, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Doctor:

I hope you can help me. I'm about ready to pack my bags and leave home, and I'm only 15.

My problem is my mother. I have friends who attend parties where beer is served. They go to talk with friends and do not drink. Because of this my mom thinks that I drink beer and that my friends have corrupted me. She is always telling me she has "sources" who know where I go and what I do. That's when mother and I start fighting. She does all the talking. I can never defend myself.

Our neighbor tells mom that I shouldn't hang around with "so-and-so" but her 17-year-old son drinks and smokes pot. Mom never believes me and it's getting worse. Help!

Cathy, Elizabethtown, Ky.

Dear Cathy:

Mother is wrong in her approach concerning your selection of friends. It is important for her to know who they are and how they behave, but not to find out secondhand from a neighbor.

I would agree with mother on one phase of the problem. Fifteen-year-olds do not belong at parties where beer is served.

Why don't you have a party and invite your friends? This way, mother will get a chance to see your friends as they really are.

Dear Doctor:

I read recently in your column where a 19-year-old boy wanted to stop smoking. If I might, I would like to share how I broke my eight years of being hooked on cigarettes.

I was introduced to a five-day plan sponsored by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. It is international in scope and has helped thousands — and the cost is only $10.

With the help of a physician, films, and lectures on changing behavior (walking, drinking juices, taking vitamins) it was never much easier for me. The moral support of these people, plus sharing with fellow smokers gave me great encouragement.

One doesn't have to be a member of their church to enroll in the plan, and they do

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—A program aimed at reducing sex stereotyping in junior and senior high schools in New York State has begun at the N.Y. State College of Human Ecology, Cornell University.

The teams, working under the direction of Charlotte J. Farris, professor of community service education, will teach the teachers to be alert to their own biases and to examine stereotyping in books, films and other classroom materials.

Women vote 'no' to Cabinet-level department

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to the National Women's Conference said "yes" to 25 sometimes controversial recommendations on how to achieve equality of the sexes but "no" to a 26th proposal that could have helped implement them — a Cabinet-level women's department.

Instead of a Cabinet-level department to argue for their rights, the delegates called for a follow-up conference and asked President Carter to name a national commission to carry out the meeting's recommendations.

Once those recommendations are forwarded to the president, he will have 120 days to report on them to Congress.

The proposed Cabinet-level department was defeated partly due to fears by some delegates that it would do women more harm than good.

The proposed department had not been considered by the 140,000 delegates who attended the 56 state and territorial meetings. It was added by the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year, headed by former Rep. Bella Abzug, who chaired the three-day meeting.

For some delegates, the very fact that Ms. Abzug had made the department her special priority prompted their suspicions that she wanted to head it.

She became the principal target of conservatives at the session, with leader Phyllis Schlafly repeatedly referring to the conference delegates as "Bella's bunch." The 2,000 delegates ranged in age from 16 to 85. Sponsors said it was the most diverse delegation of American women ever assembled, with minorities, poor women and the young and the old represented in large numbers. The conference, the first government-sponsored women's meeting, was financed through a $5 million grant.

The only proposal debated heatedly and at length was a plank advocating equality for lesbians.

Other recommendations back the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, enforcement of anti-bias laws, new shelters for battered wives, centers for displaced homemakers and more aid to help minorities and the handicapped fight discrimination.

About four-fifths of the delegates backed the ERA, lesbian rights and the right of poor women to federally financed abortions.

The other 20 per cent aligned themselves with a coalition of conservative, religious, antiabortion and traditional women's groups that sponsored a counter-convention.

Several specific actions are expected to follow the conference:

—Dr. Ethel Allen, a surgeon and city councilwoman from Philadelphia, has set up a regional network of minority women to monitor the plank they worked on.

—Presidential assistant Midge Costanza said she will call together the more than 40 presidential appointees who attended the conference to discuss their impressions.

—Delegates are expected to organize around the Plan of Action in their own cities.

—Conservatives will mount their own lobbying campaigns against the movement, capitalizing on the contacts they made and the literature they picked up, especially on abortion and homosexual rights.

Masterson is reelected

AUSTIN — Bill Masterson, Odessa, was reelected chairman of the Texas commission on Alcoholism when commission members met in regular session Saturday in Austin.

Also reelected was David Wade, M.D. Austin, the Commission secretary. Jim Clipson, Jr., Eagle Lake, was elected vice chair.

In other business, the Commission accepted the resignation of Clinton Kritser, Amarillo, and Kersey who has been executive director since September 1976. His resignation is effective January 10, 1978. They named Abe Mays, Jr., executive director effective January 11, 1978. Mays, of Georgetown, has been serving as acting executive director in the absence of Kersey, who has been ill for some time.

The Commission consists of six persons appointed by the governor. They direct the activities of the state agency by the same name. Barbara Kritser, Amarillo, and Robert W. Harrell, Austin, are the other two commissioners. One position is open at this time.

Kids are thankful for turkey and stuff

Turkey tops the list of what 21 first-graders at College Heights Elementary School are thankful for this Thanksgiving. Jim Holmes, principal, was kind enough to allow the Herald to interview the children from each of the four first-grade classes at the school, and here is what the kids said.

Jessie Dean said that the meaning of Thanksgiving is love, and Carrie Reed thinks that it means we should be thankful for fruit. Cynthia Perez said that it means turkey, and she is thankful for God. Shane Hedges said that we should thank God for turkey. These are members of Mrs. Mary Alice Rush's class.

In Mrs. Emily Easley's class, David Hodges said he is thankful for having good things to eat, and Tony Dean Juarez is thankful for pie. Teresa Ann West and Keith Renteria are thankful for turkey, as is Heather Smyrl. Joe Garcia is thankful for fruit, and John Anthony thanks God for giving us all the food. Richard Foresyth said that he is thankful that the Indians and Pilgrims invented Thanksgiving and that the Indians helped the Pilgrims grow corn.

Leslie Musgrove and Nancy Martinez, members of Mrs. Thel Watts' class, are thankful for food, and Joe Johnson and Keith Jordan are both thankful for turkey.

Joel Jennings said that Thanksgiving means being thankful for food, and Crystal Hicks said that it means you get to eat turkey. Jason Kyle Woods said that he is thankful for turkey, and Susan Rawls is thankful for turkey and all the people who come visit at Thanksgiving. And last-but not least, July Campos is thankful that her father is going to cook a turkey. These are members of Mrs. Patsy Conway's class.

Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale was the driving force behind the movement to make Thanksgiving a national holiday, says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins.

Mrs. Hale, who started her crusade in 1827, was editor of Ladies' Magazine and Godey's Lady's Book and was the best-read editorial writer in the country. She promoted the holiday with fiery editorials and with hundreds of letters to presidents, governors and other men of influence. On Oct. 3, 1863, her efforts were rewarded with President Lincoln's Thanksgiving Proclamation, which made Thanksgiving a national holiday.

Robenaldt displays handicrafts

Janice Robenaldt, Home Economic Consultant for Pioneer Natural Gas Co., was guest speaker at the Monday meeting of the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

Ruth Manuel, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Robenaldt is a native of Roundrock and received her degree in home economics from Texas Tech. Her services are available to clubs, schools, churches and civic organizations.

Mrs. Robenaldt displayed Christmas decorations and toys with explanations on the construction of each. Some of the items in the display were Christmas wall hangings, hay wreaths decorated with calico and gingham trim, spoon dolls and stick horses for children, casserole covers and an apple centerpiece for the dining table.

Ruth Penner, office manager for Robert F. Penner, Petroleum Consultant, was another guest speaker.

Her job consists of production optimization — to do anything that will increase oil or gas production from a given property. This can be drilling, stimulating wells, changing equipment in producing methods, water flooding or any other means of improving production.

As office manager, she is purchasing agent for all equipment and supplies, and locates equipment as needed on the various job sites. Top secretarial skills are a necessity to take care of the legal work concerning contracts, property titles and engineering and geological information.

Ms. Penner says that every day is different, and brings a new challenge.

The annual chapter Christmas party will be Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. at Howard College. Reservations must be made by Dec. 16 with Lucille Brown or Ruth Manuel.

The B.S.S.H. party sponsored by the chapter will be Dec. 13.

Guests in attendance were Deloris Albert, Bille Barron, Zennua Haston and Geraldine Dietz, all of Scenic Chapter, and Cindy Albright.

Disabled vets get an assist

Recent legislation granting a 6.6 per cent increase in Veterans Administration compensation benefits to disabled veterans also included a boost in the VA clothing allowance for the nearly 58,000 disabled veterans whose prosthetic or orthopedic devices cause undue wear and tear on clothing, Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional office, said today.

The increase, however, applies to the 1978 allowance.

The 1977 payments had already been made before the increase went into effect last month, Coker explained. Clothing allowance checks are normally mailed by September 1 each year. The payments go to veterans whose service-connected disabilities require the use of special prosthetic or orthopedic devices, including artificial limbs, braces and wheelchairs which VA determines cause damage to their clothing.

Veterans on VA compensation rolls receive the allowance automatically after initial application.

Military retirees not receiving VA compensation must apply for the allowance each year. They are not required to waive any portion of their retirement pay to receive the allowance, however.

Piano trousers protect purity

Did you know that in the early 1880's, a gentleman never said the word "leg" in front of a lady? A leg was called a "limb." And that the mistress of a school for young girls went so far as to put little-trousers on the four "limbs" of a piano to preserve the purity of her students? Did you want to know that? — from Virginia Slims' Book of Days.

JUST RECEIVED — Wright-Way Furniture, 1029 Wright St., has just received a new shipment of recliners, perfect for Christmas gift shopping. Marty Lloyd (above) invites everyone to come by and be shown the complete selection.

SNYDER — Representatives of a major appliance manufacturer will personally be located at the following locations to take employment survey information from area residents interested in employment:

Monday, November 28, 7:00 a.m.-7:00 p.m.; Willie Wirehand Room; Midwest Electric Co-Op; Highway 180.

Tuesday, November 29, Colorado City; 7:00 a.m.-7:00 p.m.; Colorado City Civic Center; 157 West 2nd Street.

Wednesday, November 30, Thursday and Friday, December 1-2; Snyder, 7:00 a.m.-7:00 p.m.; Snyder Chamber of Commerce Office; 2302 Avenue R.

The firm, one of the nation's best-known electrical appliance manufacturers, is considering operating a new plant in Snyder. At this time, the company is interested in determining the number of people in the area that will be available for a variety of jobs. The company will only operate in Snyder if substantial number of workers respond to this survey. A large percentage of the jobs will involve light assembly work, and it is anticipated that many of these jobs could ideally be filled by women. There will also be jobs available for men.

For most jobs no specific skills will be required as the firm plans to train most of the new employees.

The plant will initially support about 125 full-time, year-round positions. It will operate one eight-hour shift, five days per week, with the initial operation planned to begin in early 1978. Employment is expected to increase to 400 persons in the future.

The positions will begin at wage rates competitive to the area and provide such fringe benefits as paid hospitalization of life insurance, paid vacations, paid holidays and benefits normally associated with major corporations.

Corporate executives of the company will be on hand to answer questions and visit with those interested. It is therefore necessary that interested persons personally appear to fill out survey forms. These forms will be used to contact prospective employees when the plant begins operations.

All information will be held in strict confidence. Anyone needing further information should call the Snyder Chamber of Commerce collect at (915) 573-3558.

Not entitled to new trial

LAS VEGAS (AP) — District Judge Michael Wendell has ruled that convicted murderer Billy Bob Farmer is not entitled to a new trial.

The ruling Monday cleared the way for District Judge Paul Goldman to sentence the 46-year-old Texan as soon as a pre-sentence report is made.

Farmer was convicted of first-degree murder last month for the Oct. 20, 1976, shooting death of Ron Davis, 43.

However, while waiting for the jury to reach a verdict, Goldman began his vacation, making arrangements for another judge to take the verdict.

Goldman remained in telephone contact with a bailiff. He told the bailiff to tell the jury to continue deliberating, even though deliberations were in their second day.

Farmer's attorney, Oscar Goodman, contended his client was entitled to a new trial because communications were being made between the judge and the jury without the knowledge of the lawyers in the case.

Death in jail ruled suicide

WAXAHACHIE, Texas (AP) — A suicide ruling has been returned in the death of a 21-year-old inmate of the Ellis County jail. Sheriff Barney Boyd said the body of Don Washington of Midlothian was found hanging from a rope made from strips of a blanket Monday morning.

Washington was a former jail trusty who escaped and was recaptured last week, Barney said. The sheriff said the suicide ruling had been returned by the Dallas County medical examiner.

$25,000 judgment

HOUSTON (AP) — Court records show a Houston builder has secured a $25,000 summary judgment in state district court against former Texas Supreme Court Justice Donald B. Yarbrough in connection with an allegedly unpaid promissory note.

The records State District Judge Madison Rayburn signed the judgment without trial Nov. 10, awarding Joane Badeaux Masters attorneys' fees as well as the amount of a promissory note she claimed Yarbrough signed in 1974 allegedly to be used to purchase a bank.

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim McConn, the landslide winner in Houston's million dollar mayoral campaign, says he will give top priority

Club planning open house

The Prospector Club will hold a special open house at their new club room on the weekend of Dec. 3-4.

The club is located at 606 E. 3rd and they have spent many weeks renovating the facilities.

The hours of the open house will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dec. 3 and 1-5 p.m. Dec. 4.

The open house will include some lapidary demonstrations and there will be exhibits and refreshments served. The public is invited to the event.

to improving mass transportation, streets and services to the inner city.

McConn, 49, a builder and former city councilman, molded a 2-1 Tuesday decision over Frank Briscoe, a former district attorney, with overwhelming vote percentages in black, Mexican-American, and youth precincts.

It was Briscoe's second mayoral runoff defeat and he indicated it may have been his last political race. Both McConn and Briscoe are Democrats.

McConn's victory was apparent just minutes after the polls closed and it overshadowed results of the city controller race in which Kathy Whitmire became the first woman to be elected to a city office in Houston's 140-year history.

Mrs. Whitmire, 31, took 58.6 percent of the vote in the runoff against another certified public accountant, Steve Jones.

"This is a real breakthrough for women and all people who want to see women have an opportunity to participate at all levels of government and politics," Mrs. Whitmire said.

"If there is a qualified woman candidate, the voters are as willing to accept her. I think we have proved a very important point."

McConn received 134,307 votes to Briscoe's 67,353. Mrs. Whitmire defeated Jones, 110,762 to 78,365.

Dr. Richard Murray, political science professor at the University of Houston, said results of the mayor's race appear to be more of a rejection of Briscoe than a mandate for McConn.

Briscoe, facing McConn and 10 other opponents, led the nonpartisan Nov. 8 city general election with 31.9 percent of the 170,959 votes cast and increased only to 33.4 percent as 203,069 ballots were cast in the runoff.

"Jim McConn got 22 percent of the vote two weeks ago but in a two-man race he got 66 percent," Murray said.

Murray attributed McConn's decisive victory to trends in black and white precincts.

Only 18.2 percent of registered blacks voted Nov. 8 but 32.7 percent voted Tuesday and 97.5 percent went to McConn.

Contractor wins in court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Supreme Court upheld Wednesday an arbitration award in favor of L. H. Lacy Co. against the City of Lubbock on a contract to construct runway and taxiway improvements at the Lubbock Regional Airport.

The high court noted construction contracts are exempt under the Texas General Arbitration Act but said arbitration awards may be valid as common law awards when both sides agree.

A civil appeals court overturned the trial court judgment.

The white vote meanwhile increased only slightly, with Briscoe holding narrow margins in affluent and middle class areas and McConn leading in blue collar and low income neighborhoods.

Briscoe also lost 97 percent of the black vote when he lost the 1975 runoff to Mayor Fred Hofheinz, who did not seek a third term.

"I don't know whether I'm too conservative for the city of Houston or Houston is too liberal," Briscoe said in conceding defeat.

McConn responded by saying, "Mr. Briscoe was just not sensitive to the problems of the minorities of this city."

Briscoe had referred to McConn as "my bankrupt opponent." McConn said Tuesday night home building reverses several years ago may have left him $400,000 in debt "but tonight I am the richest man in Houston."

Mrs. Whitmire will take over the office vacated last summer when Leonel Castillo resigned to become director of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The office pays only $14,800 a year but the Texas Legislature recently empowered the city council to boost this up to $45,500 and increase the mayor's salary from $20,000 to as high as $68,100.

Constant rededication needed, says speaker

Greatest blessings, like mana from heaven, can spoil unless continually renewed, Dr. Kenneth Patrick, First Baptist pastor, told a joint meeting of Kiwanians and Downtowns Lions Wednesday.

Since Thanksgiving falls on the regular Kiwanis meeting day, the club met at the Howard College Cactus Room this week.

There must be a constant rededication to liberty, Dr. Patrick declared. The same holds true for morality and ethics, as well as faith. The basic blessings issue from God and have the constancy of God to back them, he added.

"Yet," he said, "some of us are so busy worrying about future blessings that we forget to give thanks for the present ones. Like Paul, we need, 'in everything to give thanks."

Harold Raines, who was in charge of the program, also announced the Ladies Night Christmas Party Dec. 15 7 p.m. at the college. M. A. Barber, president, mentioned a zone meeting Nov. 30 at 7 p.m. in Stanton Junior High cafeteria; and the Christmas party which Lions held sponsor Dec. 13 at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Vocal group of year is wholesome quartet

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — They call themselves the Statler Brothers. But they're not brothers and they're not named Statlers. Maybe they should call themselves the Success Brothers or the Wholesome Brothers. Either would be more appropriate.

That's because the quiet quartet has been chosen vocal group of the year by the Country Music Association for the last six years. And they're so wholesome that their worst vice is smoking.

Without fanfare, the vicelless Virginians have become country music's dominating vocal group while maintaining a red freshing, quiet dignity during a period of raised voices and transition in country music.

They've toured with Johnny Cash and were regulars on his television show, recorded 20 albums and 35 singles, won three Grammy awards and consistently attracted 50,000 people to an annual July 4 concert in their hometown of Staunton, Va., population 24,500.

And success hasn't spoiled them. They've cultivated such a clean-cut image that they mockingly refer to themselves as "the Bland Brothers."

Phil Balsley, a member of the group, was asked in an interview recently to name the worst thing about the quartet. "Well, we all smoke," he said. "But Harold (Reid) quit. Lou DeWitt quit and started back. We don't drink, but Lou has about two a year. I think."

The four owe a lot to Cash, who made them part of his touring show in 1964. "He has been very good to us," Balsley said. "We learned a lot from being around him. And he put us in front of so many people. It was great performing with the Carters and the Tennessee Three and Carl Perkins (members of Cash's road show). It was like a big family."

But during their early years with Cash, the "man in black" was addicted to pills and his career was hurt by his erratic behavior and missed dates. "He hurt himself more than anybody else," Balsley recalled. "But there were times when he could hardly stand up but he'd go on stage and tear up the audience."

The group, which took its name from a brand of tissue, will be on Cash's Christmas TV special this year.

The group's string of Country Music Association awards is even more impressive considering that few performers or groups have won more than two. Their streak is matched only by Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass, who won six straight awards as top instrumental group.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Water Development Board has named Dick Whittington deputy director and Charles E. Nemir assistant executive director of the newly created Texas Department of Water Resources.

Whittington has been acting deputy director since Sept. 1. Nemir was acting executive director until the board named Harvey Davis to the permanent directorship Oct. 28.

Cookbook big hit

One of the places where the Gala Gourmet cookbook is being praised is in the Heritage Museum.

Mrs. Gerri Atwell, curator, said this week, "The Gala Gourmet Cook Book, with Mrs. Kent Morgan as editor, is undoubtedly one of the most delightful cookbooks we've seen in a long time."

Mrs. Atwell pointed out that in addition the unusual array of excellent recipes, it includes Dr. Houston Zinn's barbecue sauce and it even includes one humorous recipe on how to cook an elephant, submitted by Bonnie Hohertz.

The sales from the cookbook benefit the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. One of the places the books are for sale is at the museum.

The museum is to be closed all day today.

Mrs. Atwell reported that Mrs. J. C. Nelson and Brownie Troop 200 of Elbow toured the museum this week.

Among the new renewal 1978 membership are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wheat and Mrs. Coy O. Nalley.

Firms training Ugandan pilots asked to voluntarily call halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is asking firms training Ugandan pilots in the United States to voluntarily halt the sessions.

Hodding Carter III, the chief State Department spokesman, said Monday this would be faster than revoking the Ugandans' visas, a process that "takes longer than the training itself."

Carter said the training, believed to involve several dozen Ugandans at various sites, is scheduled to end by the close of the year.

He identified training sites as two aviation schools in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, Oak Grove and ACME; and the Lyecoming Division of AVCO in Connecticut.

The spokesman said a dozen Ugandan pilots had been taking a refresher course at the Bell Helicopter School in Fort Worth. It ended last Friday.

The State Department announced recently it was tightening restrictions on travel by Ugandans to the United States because of Uganda's poor record on human rights.

Food editor dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Demetria Taylor, writer and food editor for Parade magazine, died Friday at age 74. She also wrote several cookbooks under the pen name Beth Merriman, including "The Complete Book of Home Canning" and "The Nutrition Cookbook."

WON HER FIGHT—Marcella Kirk, Ringgold, Ga., reads a letter from her husband Farrell, a federal convict she married last year in unauthorized ceremonies beside the pop machine in the cafeteria of the penitentiary in Atlanta. She was barred from visiting Farrell, whose picture is on the table, after the incident but won her battle to regain visiting rights this week.

Yet he's running 18 hours for re-election

Briscoe worth maybe $50 million

(Editor's Note: Gov. Dolph Briscoe has launched a re-election bid that would give him 10 years as chief executive, longer than any other Texan. Here is a look at a private man who wants to stay in the public eye. An earlier story dealt with one of Briscoe's opponents, Atty. Gen. John Hill.)

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Often times, in public, Gov. Dolph Briscoe grimaces as if he were in pain. It is the reaction of a private man to public life.

But here he is at 54, a rancher and banker worth maybe $50 million, driving around Texas, his wife Janey at his side, hustling votes, buoyed by applause and stung by harsh jokes.

Neighbors say his daddy, Dolph Sr., a Uvalde merchant and rancher, always wanted his son to be governor.

Briscoe's tireless 18-hour campaign days indicated, however, that more than a father's dream prompted him.

Fourth among 10 candidates in the 1968 Democratic primary, Briscoe, despite eight years in the state House of Representatives, was described as Texas' first successful political amateur in 30 years when he beat the pros in 1972.

He got into office without a majority vote after the Sharpstown bank scandal wiped away some of the competition. Surprisingly, he proclaimed that politics is not a game for the rich.

Two years later he managed to stay afloat although the Republicans tried to tie George McGovern — an unpopular presidential candidate — around his neck.

With a guarantee of six years in office, the man who said in 1972 he didn't think he wanted to spend the rest of his life in office, now asks for another four years.

No Texan has ever been governor for 10 years; Allan Shivers holds the record at 7½ years.

What makes Dolph run? "I've enjoyed the job," he has said. "It's a lot of fun."

Observers doubt that, however, when they hear his nervous laugh or notice his grip tightening on the podium.

He is in the most public of Texas political offices, yet he has reclusive tendencies, retreating to his Uvalde ranch for days at a time. At receptions, if Janey should stray, he will guide her back by touching her elbow, apparently feeling more comfortable with her in on the conversation. Janey's constant presence has led to a spate of remarks about "Gov. and Mr. Briscoe."

"I do no work at all that's political," Janey once told a reporter. "I want to be governor about like I want to be the first ape on the moon."

Their relationship, however, is another of the seeming Briscoe paradoxes.

Supporters, for example, cite Briscoe's personal integrity as the quality that most appeals to voters, yet he steadfastly refuses to give the public a picture of his wealth. He puts in his financial report only what is required by law of public officials.

"I think some things are a private matter and should remain a private matter," he says. He has abruptly cut off news conferences when the questions turn to his finances.

Briscoe is shy, yet he loosens up while campaigning and, according to Rep. Mickey Leland, once did the "head wiggle (dance)" in a black section of Houston. He apparently will do any hat that is offered him for a photograph, although most are unflattering.

Liberals assail him, but he passed party loyalty tests by supporting Adlai Stevenson in 1962 and McGovern 20 years later.

Although he is a lifelong Democrat, Republicans have cheered his legislative goals, with one exclaiming during the 1977 Legislature, "We've got a Republican in Democrat's clothing."

He has conservative tastes in clothes and wears boots, but Janey and the Briscoe girls favor gowns by Oscar de la Renta.

Friends say he is decisive, but others smirk at the time he turned to Janey on election day 1972 and reportedly asked, "Honey, do you think I ought to get some potato salad?"

"Why, of course," an eavesdropper said she replied, "we need potato salad (with barbecue)."

Mexican-Americans have accused him of being insensitive to their needs and he kept the Mexican consul waiting four months for an appointment, yet he has not been hesitant to appoint Mexican-Americans to state jobs. Janey's personal secretary is Maria Gonzales.

Although brief ceremonial functions seem to suit him, his 1975 inaugural day was the most austere Texas inaugural since the Korean War.

Briscoe held his tongue for months on something as important as a proposed new state constitution, yet supports controversial appointees with what one reporter termed "determined ferocity."

He looks robust but had a kidney ailment in late 1974 that kills 55 percent of its victims.

It was while he was recovering from the ailment that Briscoe got out of bed to deny renewed rumors that he had undergone psychiatric care. When the rumors first surfaced in the 1972 election, Briscoe had said he found them "interesting, even amusing," but privately he was said to be furious.

Texas' prosperity — particularly oil and gas revenue — has enabled Briscoe to make good for three legislative sessions on his appealing pledge of no new state taxes.

"The necessity of fiscal responsibility in all levels of government is second only to world peace in our survival," he told independent oil and gas men last year.

Briscoe has had mixed success with his legislative priorities through the years — mass transit, curbing governmental spending, anti-crime bills, the repeal of the utility tax, increased highway spending and setting aside $1 billion for emergencies.

Another credo was voiced in a 1975 speech. "I personally believe," he said, "that it is time to recognize that the people of this country are better off with less government — not more government."

"It's clear the people wanted a governor who would leave them alone," jabs Ray Hutchison, a possible Republican candidate for governor, "and in that respect he would have to get high marks."

Briscoe's main strength, insists Mark White, a former Briscoe appointee as secretary of state, is "his ability not to say anything, to be quiet when he doesn't have to speak."

His silence has led to friction between the governor and the press, who chide the governor's aides about Briscoe not holding more news conferences.

It was two months after he assumed office in 1973 that he granted his first interview to a Capitol reporter, and in 1975 he held only two news conferences during a 128-day period.

"I'll hold a press conference when I think there's a need for one," he once said.

The Associated Press waited two months for a response to a request for an interview with Briscoe — to match one the AP had with Hill — but never got an answer.

Hill and others have said repeatedly that Briscoe lacks leadership, and he was asked if this bothered him.

"Not at all," he said. What he likes to brag about is that those who should know him best, his neighbors in Uvalde County, cast 92 percent of their vote for him in his last race in 1974.

"I'm an unabashed admirer of the man," says Briscoe's administrative assistant George Lowrance. "I'm not ashamed to say I love him."

"His friends all swear by him," is the testimony of others close to Briscoe.

Next year, on election day, Dolph Briscoe should find out how many friends he has.

AMERICA'S FIRST HOLIDAY

Although the Pilgrims of the Massachusetts Colony celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1621, the traditional Thanksgiving held on the last Thursday in November was established by proclamation by President George Washington in 1789. Our first President and the Congress agreed to establish a day of public thanksgiving to offer thanks in the tradition of our Pilgrim forefathers for the opportunity to establish a nation based on the principles of freedom. This Thanksgiving Day, we should pause and be grateful for the opportunity to live in a land where peace and freedom are our sacred rights guaranteed in a Constitution and based on a tradition which was started more than 350 years ago by a group of Pilgrims seeking religious freedom in a new land.

Stenholm is concerned over medical proposals

Charles Stenholm, candidate for Congress from the 17th Congressional District, said today he was concerned about having enough hospital beds in the rural areas of Texas if proposed rules and guidelines coming from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) are implemented.

The new guidelines, Stenholm said, would have the effect of decreasing health care facilities even more in rural areas by setting arbitrary bed to population ratios. "What HEW is proposing is to set a maximum of four beds per 1,000 population," Stenholm said, "which would reduce the beds available in Texas by approximately 11,000. Texas currently has an average ratio of 4.73 beds per 1,000 population."

Citing this situation as just further evidence of the evils of arbitrary federal guidelines, Stenholm said that "we have a local system for determining hospital bed needs. In Texas there are 12 Health Systems Agencies and a State Health Coordinating Council given the responsibility of determining the hospital bed needs of each region. Their decisions are supposed to be based on need with no consideration of specific ratios. The proposed guidelines would completely bypass this system of local decision making, imposing instead these arbitrary ratios."

Stenholm said that he has written HEW asking the agency to reconsider its proposal.

The HEW guidelines, Stenholm said, will concentrate hospitals in urban areas, since the thrust of HEW is to reduce the cost of medical services by making equipment available to doctors only in regional hospitals. "And this will encourage doctors to locate in cities," he added, "making it more difficult for the elderly and those with emergency needs to get to a doctor or hospital. Longer trips to a hospital will result because applications for new hospitals or additional beds in rural areas will have been turned down by HEW since, according to the proposed guidelines, rural areas will not have a sufficiently high concentration of people to justify more hospital beds."

"Small communities wanting to attract business will suffer because the decline in medical services will make them less attractive to industries that take such factors into consideration before selecting new plant sites."

He pointed out these implications of their guidelines to HEW officials in his letter, Stenholm said.

Stenholm said that in order to avoid this neglect of the elderly and our rural population, "we have to keep the decision-making process as close to the people as possible."

'The Mighty Mite' dies in Illinois

ELMHURST, Ill. (AP) — Henry (Fergie) Ferguson, nicknamed "The Mighty Mite," an Associated Press Wirephoto operator for 38 years, is dead.

The jockey-sized man whose trademark on the AP Wirephoto network was a nasal, Donald Duck-like voice, died Monday night in a hospital after a lingering illness. He was 76.

As a Wirephoto operator, Ferguson met such men as Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Wendell Willkie, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower while on assignment with a portable picture-sending unit at such places as Rushville, Ind., and Abilene, Kan.

And he was in Fulton, Mo., when Winston Churchill gave his famous "Iron Curtain" oration.

When Fergie retired in 1965, the AP Wirephoto network coast to coast stopped for eight minutes as a salute to the little guy who once aspired to become a jockey until he was thrown from a horse.

Acquitted of slaying ex-husband

Life is different now

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Francine Hughes feels an enormous sense of freedom, a freedom to stand outside and watch stars and cars and her breath "puff up in the air."

Life is different now, says the mother of four, who was catapulted to national attention by her trial for slaying the ex-husband who beat her for 14 years.

"I just enjoy it. I just take it in. I don't have to worry about what's at home," she said.

"What's at home" used to be ex-husband James Hughes.

It is now almost four weeks since she was acquitted of first-degree murder by reason of insanity.

"The other night I went out on the porch. It was dark. I watched the stars, watched the cars go by, my breath puff up in the air," she said.

The 30-year-old Mrs. Hughes said she is giddy and overwhelmed by requests for television appearances and newspaper interviews — and perplexed by the attention to her plight as a "battered woman."

"Before all this happened, I was like in a small world and it sort of overwhelms me. I don't understand still what's going on," she told The Associated Press Tuesday.

"I know that there are certain things that I really do want. I want to be successful at a job. I was headed for a business career," she said.

Mrs. Hughes, who in almost nine months in jail crocheted a bedspread for her mother and three afghans for her children, said she now spends time baking bread and cookies, getting ready for the holidays and rediscovering her children, who are aged 6 to 12.

She and the children have settled temporarily in a modest two-story frame home with her mother in Jackson. It was here that she left high school at the age of 16 to marry Hughes, her sweetheart. She said he began to beat her shortly after they were married in 1963, and continued the abuse even after their divorce in 1971.

Shortly after the divorce,

Hughes, a 31-year-old former construction worker, was badly injured in an auto accident. He moved into his ex-wife's Dansville home so she could care for him. The beatings worsened.

In tears during the nearly two-week trial in Ingham County Circuit Court, she relived her life with Hughes. She told of repeated incidents in which Hughes choked her, threatened her with a knife, teased her children to tears and allowed a family pet to freeze to death.

In the argument that precipitated the killing last March 9, she said, Hughes ripped up her books from classes at a nearby business school, then made her burn them.

WE ARE CLOSED TODAY FOR THANKSGIVING.

with Marj Carpenter

"We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessing" is almost as well known at Thanksgiving as "Come Ye Thankful People, Come."

This strictly American holiday is one that has changed its profile through the years, but still has the same basic meaning.

The original meaning of "being grateful to the Lord for the harvest" is still there. Most American families remember to say a special thank you and table grace at Thanksgiving even though they neglect it often the rest of the year.

The feast has probably taken an over-emphasis, but the original feast was also part of the First Thanksgiving.

Today more than anything, it means families getting together. The old "Over the River and Through the Woods to Grandmother's House We Go" still has a basic philosophy about this Thanksgiving.

It's more like, "Catch a ride home or grab a plane and get home for turkey" but the meaning is basically the same.

I was sitting in the clutter that is now called Midland Air Terminal, Monday night waiting for my son to arrive on the Southwestern Peanut Flight.

I sat up in the terminal's balcony watching the crowd go by. And airport crowds have changed. The new low-price flights draw crowds that look like those you used to see in bus stations.

There's an informal air. At that time of night, there are very few women dressed in their best or men in suits with brief cases.

Just as I had decided that I knew nobody in the Airport (which is rare for me), a woman sitting nearby said, "Aren't you Marj?"

When I admitted I was, she called this 14-year-old girl over and said, "The picture of you, when you were a baby being christened, that's on our television — this lady took it."

PURITANS STARTED IT

Well it turned out to be the former Diane Roberson from Pecos, she and her family were putting her niece on a plane to get home to Arizona for Thanksgiving.

As I listened to the crowd, everybody was either going somewhere for the holiday or picking up somebody coming in for the special day.

Thanksgiving still has meaning. At our house, the memories include the year we saved the turkey but almost burned down the house, the year I cooked for days and then everybody had the virus and was too sick to eat, the couple of times we went to the Texas-A&M turkey day game, and many other memories.

Each family has its own memories. Incidentally, speaking of football and Texas, Jim Bob sent a message to Danny Reagan, "If the drunken University fans shook up the Tech horse to the point where he died, they did it by fan mail. The horse has never been allowed to come to Austin and Bevo doesn't go to Lubbock."

Football and football rivalries are part of American Thanksgivings. Schools like Permian who are often in the playoffs think of the Thanksgiving weekend as a time for playoffs.

Texas and Texas A&M have highlighted the day with a special game for Cars on the hoof

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — A group of high school students chased 28 new cars on foot here recently — for the benefit of their schools.

The students had taken part in a blind drawing for keys to 28 new cars donated by an automobile manufacturer for use in the schools' automotive technical training courses.

They were lined up in the firm's storage lot here just off the San Diego Freeway. Students, one from each school, equipped with a set of keys drawn at random and a sign bearing the school's name, lined up across from the vehicles and raced each other to the cars.

Once the vehicle was found, the student taped the school name card to the door, climbed in, started the engine and moved forward a few feet to a designated point. The first three students to accomplish this were awarded bonus gifts for their schools.

The cars, valued at $115,000, are prototype pre-production vehicles that cannot be sold or registered for use on public highways. In the past five years Toyota has donated 200 cars to schools across the country as part of a continuing program.

many years. This year it will only be on radio. The experts on national television, and all of the other sports experts, picked Houston, A&M and Tech as the teams to watch in the Southwest Conference this year.

So they decided to televise Tech and Arkansas on Thanksgiving and A&M and Houston the following week. Only A&M in that group has a chance to go to the Cotton Bowl. But in the summer, Texas had been selected as a lowly fifth place.

But whatever your family does on Thanksgiving — cooking, visiting, eating, football watching, hunting, or whatever, I hope you take a moment to not only "gather together" but also "ask the Lord's blessing."

On Thanksgiving — out where I ride fence.

Case of polio confirmed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Department of Health said Wednesday a 16-month-old daughter of Mexican parents had polio when she was brought into this country.

The department did not reveal the infant's name.

After examination by a doctor in Anahuac, the girl was admitted to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston for treatment, the department said.

Tests at the department's laboratories confirmed the polio is Type 1.

The girl had no contact with other children in this country, the department said.

Earlier this year, another case of polio was reported from Eagle Pass and also involved a child who contracted the disease south of the border.

Even as we join family and friends we should be doing every day of our 'Promised anything' insufficient

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A judge asked a man charged with burglary if he had been "promised anything" before accepting his guilty plea, but that was insufficient inquiry, the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled, 3-2, today in reversing a Taylor County conviction.
 The court returned the conviction and 15-year prison sentence assessed Denoris Richards for a possible new trial.
 "The real thrust" of Richards' plea, the appeals court said, "is that the court did not determine whether the plea was freely and voluntarily made."
 "The record before us reflects that the court admonished the appellant (Richards) as to the range of punishment and inquired as to his mental competency," the appeals court said. "The court made no inquiry as to the plea being free and voluntary except to ask if the appellant had been 'promised anything.'"

The catalogue section is conveniently located downstairs. If you don't find what you want on Penney's counters, you can always order it.

Turkeys, hams selling well

According to local grocers, turkeys and hams are selling much faster than last year.
 No one seems to know why since prices have remained pretty much the same.
 Hubbard Packing Company sells no turkeys, but report they have sold over ten cases of hams. Chapman's Meat Market reports higher sales than last year with their turkeys, which they get from Eldorado, Ark.
 Foodway is way up on all meat sales, and Newsum's is running way ahead on turkey sales, especially with their pre-cooked turkey dinners. Furr's supermarket also reported an increase of turkey and ham sales.

Cotton exchange permission

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Organizers of a New Orleans commodity exchange say the Securities and Exchange Commission has given them permission to proceed with membership sales.
 Bob F. Wright, a Lafayette lawyer and businessman, said the exchange plans to sell 500 memberships to traders and brokerage houses at $6,000 each.
 The exchange is being established under the corporate structure of the old New Orleans Cotton Exchange, which ceased operation several years ago.
 Wright said the exchange has submitted plans for trading in rice and cotton. He said he hopes trading can begin sometime next year.
 He said the federal Commodity Futures Trading Commission will approve the commodity contracts after the New Orleans exchange is fully organized and designated as a contract market.

Shots fired, pupils retreat

HOUSTON (AP) — Police said a man was arrested Monday on the Texas Southern University campus after a brief encounter between some 50 Iranian protesters and four university police officers who were attempting to escort an Iranian Consulate employee from the campus.
 Lorrie Alexander, chief of TSU security, said the man was arrested because he hit Alexander. Alexander said he fired three warning shots to force the students to retreat. He said there were no injuries.
 The arrested man was placed in city jail with bond set at $203 on a misdemeanor assault charge.

Curator appointed

BOSTON (AP) — Theodore E. Stebbins Jr., who has been a curator and professor at Yale University, has been appointed curator of American paintings in the department of paintings of the Museum of Fine Arts here.
 Stebbins has a Ph. D. in art history from Harvard University and a law doctorate from the university's Law School. He has written several books, including a biography of Martin J. Heade, a 19th-century American painter.

Publisher wants to keep it that way 'There's no place like Nome'

NOME, Alaska (AP) — A lone parking meter stands on Front Street, a tribute to the newspaper editor who has crusaded against progress.
 Albro Gregory, the crusty publisher of the Nome Nugget, believes "There's no place like Nome" and he wants to keep it that way.
 Gregory, or "Greg" to his friends, wants to maintain the town's Gold Rush image.
 He once editorialized: "I'm not against progress, but not in this town."
 Gregory fought against the replacement of boardwalks with paved sidewalks and the paving of streets. And when city fathers started talking about downtown parking restrictions, Gregory railed against the prospect of parking meters.

He lives in a small room in the one-story newspaper building. Next to his room are a couple of old presses he no longer uses.
 Many of his problems are similar to those of any other paper, even if his solutions aren't.
 One reader from the lower 48 wrote nasty letters to Gregory about spelling errors. Gregory responded by deliberately making an error in the paper and challenging the reader to find it.
 When the reader didn't notice that the same volume number was used on several editions, Gregory wrote back: "You're not so smart."

A native of Bothell, Wash., Gregory has been in Alaska for 22 years, working in Juneau, Wrangell and Fairbanks. He came to Nome to manage the paper and ended up buying it.
 Most people who know him have their own story to tell. One of the favorites is that he watches his office from his favorite bar, the Breakers, directly across the street. When he sees someone go in, he picks up the bar phone and calls them and asks what they want.
 By the way, if you are wondering what happens to the money that goes into the parking meter — and there isn't much — it is donated to a fund to help building a swimming pool.
