Cairo summit a 'breakthrough'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today announced the United States will send a high-level representative to a mid-December peace conference in Cairo and he called recent Arab-Israeli contacts "a historic breakthrough in the search for a lasting peace in the Middle East." Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference that Assistant Secretary of State Alfred L. Atherton will head the U.S. delegation to the Cairo conference called by President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. Carter said the conference is now scheduled for around Dec. 13. When Sadat called for the conference, he set

Dec. 3 as the deadline for responses to his invitations. He said he would then set a date for the talks. Carter's reference to Dec. 13 is the first public announcement by any of the parties of the likely starting date for the conference. The president said that the importance of the meetings between Sadat and Prime Minister Menahem Begin of Israel "is that there has been an initiation of direct, person-to-person negotiations."

chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. —Declared he had not made too many campaign promises "and I think I'm doing an adequate job in trying to fulfill those promises."

Turning to the U.S. role, Carter said, "I think it's much more important to have direct communication between Egypt and Israel than to have us acting as a constant, dominant intermediary." —On other topics, Carter: —Praised the late Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., for his legislative efforts to maintain a strong U.S. military defense. McClellan died Monday. —Said his position on energy legislation was unchanged and that he would veto any bill that would be unfair or violate energy conservation goals. —Indicated he was undecided whether to reappoint Arthur Burns as —Said an inspection program of 9,000 "high risk" dams would begin shortly, a program he said would take nearly three years. —Said he remained "committed to a substantial tax reduction in 1978" which would be coupled with a revision of the nation's tax laws. —Said his recently postponed overseas trip has been rescheduled and his itinerary would be announced Thursday. —Described the nation's foreign trade deficit as disturbing, but noted it was fairly stable at $2.4 billion a month. He attributed to deficit primarily to oil imports and improvement in the U.S. economy which permits the U.S. to purchase more foreign goods.

Viet refugees face death

Boat of no smiles a ferry to oblivion

By EDDIE ADAMS AP Special Correspondent

KHLONG YAI, Thailand (AP) — "I will die! I will die! I will die!" screamed the aged Vietnamese woman aboard the boat of no smiles. Forty-nine other sick or hungry refugees, half of them children, sat in silence or wept uncontrollably on the deck of the weatherbeaten 30-foot fishing boat that had brought them from Phuquoc, off the west coast of Vietnam, through the dangerous waters of Cambodia. They thought they had reached freedom that hot November day when they entered the snug harbor of Khlong Yai, a tiny fishing village within shouting distance of the Cambodian border.

AP news special

But Thai marine police, armed with M-16 rifles, refused them permission to come ashore and towed the crammed fishing boat three hours back out into the Gulf of Siam. Thailand and other Southeast Asian countries that have more than 100,000 refugees from Indochina on their hands are becoming increasingly hostile to new arrivals from Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. U.N. and U.S. Embassy sources estimate that those who flee Vietnam by boat — the boat people — have a 30 to 50 percent chance of survival.

The Cambodian Communists may shoot up the small boats as they travel along the coast. Sea bandits have been known to seize refugee boats and kill everyone aboard for their valuables.

The Vietnamese usually escape in small fishing boats not built to withstand the dangers of the open sea. They generally leave home short of food and fuel. Some are lost at sea.

If they do reach Thailand or Malaysia, the police or the navy send them back to sea. The last boat allowed to dock in Thailand arrived Nov. 19 with 16 persons aboard. The Thais arrested them all. The U.S. Embassy helped get them freed, and they are reported emigrating to the United States.

A few days later the boat of no smiles was turned away from Khlong Yai.

The oldest person aboard was a woman in her late 70s. The youngest was a girl born Nov. 24 in the fish hold to Nguyen Na's 20-year-old wife, Ti. The 21-year-old father had been a medical corpsman in the South Vietnamese navy, trained by the U.S. Navy at San Diego, Calif. He delivered the baby.

The young couple said they wanted to name their daughter Freedom — if the voyage ended in freedom for the family.

Most of the 14 men, 11 women and 25 children aboard broke into tears when Thai officials ordered them back to sea.

Their fuel was used up on the five-day voyage and they had also run out of food. After buying them supplies, this correspondent tried to go aboard. The Thai officials wouldn't allow it at first, then relented.

The Vietnamese asked for maps and directions to Australia, more than 3,000 miles to the south. The police told them they had no maps for them

NO PLACE TO GO — A Vietnamese fishing boat loaded with 50 refugees sits in the Gulf of Siam on a recent November day. The boat was towed back to sea after being refused entry at the small fishing village of Khlong Yai. Chances for survival of the boat people who leave Vietnam are believed to be from 30 to 50 percent.

but pointed in the general direction. After the police had towed the boat out to sea for three hours, they took in their 300-foot tow rope and prepared to return to Khlong Yai. The Vietnamese shut off their engine and told the police it had broken down.

The police told them to get moving because the Cambodian Communists patrolled the area. They warned that if they tried to return to Thailand, police guns would be waiting.

"If we must die, we must," said a young woman as the police pulled away. "It's better than to live under communism. If we return to Vietnam, we would all be killed."

She added that she had never thought anything could be so horrible and ugly as life in Vietnam today.

Half an hour later, the police returned with orders from Bangkok to remove me for my own safety. Under no circumstances was I to remain. A Vietnamese woman was disappointed. She felt that if I stayed aboard, some country might accept the boat.

A former Vietnamese navy seaman aboard said they had no compass or map.

"The stars and the sun have guided us this far," he said. "We don't know how long our luck will hold, but this is only the beginning. More and more will escape no matter what it costs.

Only the very rich can survive now in Vietnam."

Then the boat moved away, its meager supply of water and fuel in a few rusty cans. A white shirt was tied to the bow by the sleeves as a flag of truce.

I rode for several hours with the marine police. We returned to the general area in which we had seen the boat last. We heard what sounded like machine-gun fire, but there was no sign of the refugees or their boat.

PLEADS FOR HELP — A Vietnamese woman holds her sick child as she pleads for help from fishing boat carrying 48 other refugees as it arrived at village of Khlong Yai, 220 miles southeast of Bangkok. The refugees were refused entry and the boat was towed back to sea.

For community luncheon

Lockheed group due here

Charles (Chuck) Thum, president, heads a delegation of Lockheed Aircraft Service Company officials which will be honored at a community luncheon Thursday at the Big Spring Country Club.

A few reservations are still available for the luncheon. The tickets sell for $4 each and are available at the Chamber of Commerce office. Those in a position to attend who have not yet made reservations should contact Carole Hunter, luncheon chairman.

The Country Club will accommodate 250 and local officials are hopeful the supply of tickets will be exhausted.

JOHN DAILEY

Members of local service clubs have received special invitations to attend the luncheon.

In addition to Thum, other

Lockheed officials who will be here include Bob Bolduan, Director of Pricing, Contracts and Planning; John Dailey, Director of Public Relations; and Ken Miller, F-4C projects director.

Dailey arrived in Big Spring this morning to meet local members of Big Spring's Industrial Team and help with the planning for the Thursday reception. Dailey is a one-time reporter for the Pittsburgh, Pa., Post-Gazette who not only handles public relations for the Ontario-based firm but supervises the publication of four house organs for Lockheed.

The contract aligning Lockheed with Big Spring in its bid to win an Air Force engine modification pact will formally be signed during the luncheon. Representing Big Spring at the ritual will be Mayor Wade Choate, so commissioned by the Industrial Team.

Dailey said this morning that Lockheed officials are very optimistic that their firm will win the Air Force contract, which will formally be awarded next March 31. Should Lockheed's bid be accepted, operations would start here immediately following that date.

Winston Wrinkle, who along with Clyde McMahon Sr., led Big Spring's effort to win the Lockheed contract, will emcee the Thursday program. City officials, county officials, members of the Webb Steering Committee, Industrial Foundation, the Chamber of Commerce board and trustees from the public school and Howard College boards will also be in attendance.

Thum is bringing with him slides of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation's worldwide operation, which will be screened for the benefit of those attending.

Although Lockheed does business on a global scale, this would be one of the firm's first ventures into Texas.

The rest of the Lockheed delegation will arrive in time to attend a private reception this evening.

Korean plan

included top U.S. agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Korea's intelligence chiefs approved a plan to plant collaborators in the White House, Congress and top federal agencies last year, according to copies of the plan released by a House subcommittee.

But a former Korean Central Intelligence Agency station chief in New York City, testifying before the House international relations subcommittee, said he doubts much of it was carried out.

Stolen aircraft now in Lubbock

Trans Regional Airlines has not yet regained the use of its stolen airplane, and according to R.E. McClure, the firm may have to wait quite a while.

"The plane is in Lubbock now, undergoing assessment of the damage done by the thieves. It looks as if the damage is pretty extensive, and I don't know how long it will take to repair," said the airline vice-president.

He cited damage such as holes punched in the body of the plane, seats removed, landing gear damaged, props damaged, paint job marred, equipment stripped, and blocks ruined.

"It's a mess," he said, "they really did a job on it."

The plane was stolen Sept. 16 from the Howard County Airport and apparently flown to Beaumont, refueled, and headed eastward. The next word came two months later, when the plane was recovered in a dawn raid by federal law officers.

It was turned over to the insurance company shortly after its recovery, and sent to an aircraft mechanics company to determine the extent of the damage.

"Maybe they'll just keep the plane and pay us for it," said McClure.

Action/reaction: Date of Flood

Q. When was Noah's flood?

A. In Genesis 5, the Bible says Adam was 130 when Seth was born, who was 105 when Enos was born, who was 90 when Cainan was born, who was 70 when Mahalaleel was born, who was 65 when Jared was born, who was 162 when Enoch was born, who was 65 when Methuselah was born, who was 187 when Lamech was born, who was 182 when Noah was born, who was 500 when his sons were born. This adds up to 1,556 so it was a few years after that during the lifetime of Noah after his sons were born. That would have been that many years from the beginning of time, but we did not compute how many years before Christ.

South Africans vote

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa's embattled whites elect a new Parliament today, and another landslide victory for Prime Minister John Vorster, the apostle of apartheid, is predicted. Vorster's ruling National Party, campaigning on a platform of continued white supremacy and defiance of the Carter administration and other foreign critics, could win between 125 and 135 of the 165 legislative seats, according to opinion polls and other surveys.

Soviets oppose talks

CAIRO (AP) — The Soviet Union, as expected, has sided with Arab opponents of President Anwar Sadat's Cairo conference with Israel, while U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim proposed that everybody try to get together at a conference at a neutral site. U.S. officials said Moscow passed its "nyet" to Washington and joined Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization in refusing to attend the parley Sadat called to pave the way for a new Geneva peace conference.

Urban spending plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A task force on urban problems has come up with a huge new program and proposals for increased spending in at least a dozen areas as part of a multibillion dollar plan for "cities and people in distress." The plan, which recently was sent to President Carter, is likely to meet some harsh resistance at the Domestic Council and the Office of Management and Budget.

Oil drilling OKed off New York coast

NEW YORK (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has granted 10 oil companies permits to begin exploratory drilling for oil off the New York and New Jersey coasts.

Formal announcement of the decision was made Tuesday following inquiries prompted by an Associated Press story disclosing the pending decision.

Environmentalists in both states repeatedly testified that the permits should not be granted. They contended that exploratory drilling would endanger marine life and cause pollution. They also argued that the federal agency was being lax in enforcing environmental standards.

However, an EPA source said the agency had determined, as it had when it granted tentative permits in September, that its "environmental review does not indicate that significant environmental impacts will result."

He added: "The permits limit the discharge of pollutants such as deck drainage, drilled cuttings, drilling muds and sanitary wastes which are associated with this type of operation in order to protect marine environment."

The 10 oil companies interested in drilling include Exxon, Gulf, Shell and Texaco.

The decision may or may not climax the ongoing battle being fought over the issue by environmentalists and the oil concerns.

On Nov. 14, Suffolk County and a group known as Concerned Citizens of Montauk asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review a decision issued in August by the U.S. Court of Appeals that said the drilling could go ahead.

The Supreme Court has not yet indicated whether it will hear an appeal on the case.

Coahoma seeks reversal

COAHOMA — The Howard County Water District won its second hearing before the Public Utilities Commission last week, and now the City of Coahoma is again asking the hearing examiner to reverse his opinion, according to Oscar Cagle, Water District Board Chairman.

The Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 and the City of Coahoma have been disputing the right to sell water to those residents who live in the water district, but outside the City of Coahoma.

Medical Society meets tonight

Both city and Howard County officials will attend the Howard County Medical Society 7:30 p.m. today at the Big Spring Country Club.

During the meeting members and guests will discuss the possibility of locating a regional academy for Texas Tech in the Permian Basin here. Big Spring is one of three locations being considered for the facility, with Odessa and Midland also entering into the discussions.

The meeting is open to all who would be interested in helping to locate the academy here.

Presently, the Water District buys water from the City of Big Spring and sells it to the City of Coahoma. Coahoma then sells water to residents both inside the city limits and outside the city limits in the Sand Springs and Midway areas.

The Water District wants to sell water to those customers outside the city limits of Coahoma.

"Each of the two previous hearings has cost several thousand dollars in court costs and attorney fees," Cagle said. "The water district has lowered taxes twice in the last four years, and we had hoped that these hearings would not continue until the cost would force the trend of taxes in the other direction.

"It seems like it would be so simple to settle the matter when all the water district is asking, at the request of customers, to serve those outside of Coahoma, especially since the officials to the City of Coahoma have sworn in the hearings that they are not making any money from the sale of water."

In his second opinion in favor of the water district, the examiner said that "The Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 should be granted a certificate of convenience to sell water to customers in the water service area in Howard County consisting of the geographical area of its district, but excluding the city limits of Coahoma."

The examiner also said, "The City of Coahoma service area in Howard County should consist of its city limits."

Police beat Wave of crime abates

Tuesday was a relatively quiet day for local police with only two incidents reported.

An alert neighbor tipped off officers that two men had broken through the front door of the home of Milton Juarez, 706 N.W. 7th, around 6:40 p.m. Tuesday. Juarez is out of town, and it is as yet unknown if anything was stolen, but the burglars left the food freezer standing open.

Officers were called to Malone-Hogan Hospital late Tuesday to investigate an assault on a woman. When they arrived, however, the victim refused to give them any information other than that the assailant was a "skinny cowboy."

She was treated and released for a gash on the left arm.

Six mishaps were reported Tuesday. Vehicles driven by Douglas Bankhead, 1908 Morrison, and Roy Bruce, 611 Tulane, collided at Third and Birdwell, 1:19 p.m. Tuesday.

Total of 1,179 farms, ranches recognized

AUSTIN — A record crowd was on hand in San Antonio Nov. 16 as 67 Texas farms and ranches were accepted into the Texas Family Land Heritage Program during honors ceremonies at the Institute of Texan Cultures.

These additional properties make a total of 1,179 properties recognized by the Texas Department of Agriculture since the program began in 1974. To qualify, a Texas farm or ranch must have been in continuous production at the hands of one family for a century or more.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown and his wife Galdys were on hand to present the honor certificates along with San Antonio mayor Lila B. Cockrell, who welcomed the honorees, family, and friends to San Antonio.

"We are particularly proud to be able to recognize these families," Commissioner Brown commented. "At a time when agricultural producers in the state are facing severe economic problems which are forcing many to give up their way of life, these people stand as an example of perseverance and hope.

"They demonstrate the strength and durability which has made Texas agriculture one of the leaders in providing food fiber for our nation and the world," Brown stated.

The 1977 honorees will also be included in the Texas Family Land Heritage Registry, Vol. IV, which chronicles individual family histories.

Tired of cattle? Raise oryx

WINCHESTER, Tenn. (AP) — Like a lot of farmers, Don Shadow was disgusted with the low prices being paid for cattle. So he switched to more exotic stock — antelope, camel, llama and bison, among others.

"I got tired of the poor prices for cattle," Shadow, 37, said. "That was about seven years ago."

Now he devotes half of his 300-acre Franklin County spread to breeding about 20 species of rare animals and birds. When he has a surplus he sells them to individuals and zoos.

"I won't sell them just to anybody. They have to demonstrate that they have the facilities to take care of them," he said. "I deal mainly with the zoos."

Shadow, who also runs a nursery and still raises a few cattle and sheep, doesn't talk much about prices. But, by way of illustration, he said a young female llama is worth about $1,000 and a young male $300.

With special stock come special problems. "You have all kinds of problems because everything is different," he said. "All your fences have to be high — my corral, for instance, is eight feet high. And the barn needs special stalls so none of them can hurt themselves."

"They're all on large areas where they can graze themselves," he said. "But they need different supplemental feeds. Some of it is specially prepared, some of it I grow myself, and some of it I mix myself."

For variety, Shadow keeps ostriches from Africa, emus from Australia and rheas from South America — all this exotic about 45 miles west of Chattanooga.

Most of his stock comes from dealers and zoos. His farm has been approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"Many zoos have limited space to exhibit their animals, so they sell most of the offspring to other zoos and individuals," he said. "I've been interested in animals and their preservation all my life. Captive breeding is eventually going to be the only solution for some endangered species, particularly in some of the underdeveloped countries which are experiencing rapid population growth."

Shadow said there are now more black buck antelope on United States farms than in India, their country of origin.

"I also have some little buck jack deer from south China — they're only about 15 inches high at the shoulder," he said. "And some mouflon sheep from the islands of Sardinia and Corsica. They're the ancestors of most breeds of sheep."

Abortion fight threatens payroll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, having rejected yet another compromise solution in the battle over government-paid abortions, faces increasing Senate opposition to providing funds for continuing the fight.

The Senate resentment could threaten funds for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and paychecks for the two departments' 240,000 employees.

Appropriations for the departments are tied up in the abortion issue, and temporary funds provided earlier run out at midnight tonight. The House effort to provide more temporary money was expected today.

The House on Tuesday turned down what some senators had referred to as their final compromise offer. Each chamber has taken five votes on abortion suggestions proposed by the other, with the House taking a more restrictive view than the Senate on use of government money for abortion.

The latest Senate proposal would have allowed government-paid abortions when a woman's life was endangered by a full-term pregnancy, for treatment of rape or incest victims who reported the incidents to authorities and where a woman would suffer severe and long-lasting physical harm if the pregnancy was carried to term.

The House rejected the proposal 205-183, with the defeat credited to lobbying by abortion opponents who argued the language was too liberal.

Even if another temporary resolution passed the House, Senate action was in question.

The Senate was in recess because of the death Monday of Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Soviets buy more grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two weeks after its current round of U.S. grain purchases began, the Soviet Union is continuing to buy more corn and wheat to help make up for its reduced 1977 harvest.

The Agriculture Department said late Tuesday that an additional 600,000 metric tons of corn and 200,000 tons of wheat have been sold to the Soviet Union by private exporters.

Since the current buying began Sept. 14, the Soviets have bought about 3 million tons of grain for delivery in 1977-78, the second year of an agreement calling for them to buy at least 6 million tons annually.

Counting earlier purchases, about 5.3 million tons have been sold for second-year delivery, including 3.5 million tons of corn and 1.8 million of wheat.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The Soviet Union bought about the minimum of 6 million tons last year, but officials have given permission for Moscow to buy up to 15 million tons in 1977-78. They say the Soviets probably will buy the full amount, perhaps 10 million tons of corn and 5 million of wheat.

Because U.S. stockpiles are so large, officials say much more than that could be sold to the Soviet Union without triggering higher food prices for American consumers.

Storm delays Eastern harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent storms have stalled farm field work and the wrap-up of harvesting in most of the eastern half of the country, according to the Agriculture Department.

However, the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather review, about 92 percent of the U.S. corn crop was harvested by Nov. 27. That lagged behind the pace a year ago but was ahead of most other years.

The soybean harvest also was slowed by wet fields and cold weather in many states. About 88 percent of the crop was harvested against 96 percent last year and an average of 92 percent by Nov. 27.

The report said, however, that snow and rain have continued to replenish soil moisture and that it is now "adequate to surplus" in most states.

"Florida remained short (of soil moisture), but many areas in the West showed improvement from a week ago," the report said.

Cotton picking in the southern states was hampered also, but the harvest was 84 percent completed by Nov. 27, well ahead of last year's pace of 60 percent and the average of 53 percent by this time.

Every kid deserves chance at team

It made me feel good to see in Nov. 24 issue of the Herald a commitment from Big Spring High School coaches to keep the athletic programs as open as possible.

"Our sports programs are open to everyone," Athletic Director Don Robbins said. "We haven't told anyone they couldn't come out. In a school this size, we encourage the kids to get involved because we need maximum participation."

That is the attitude I think coaches in a school the size of Big Spring should have.

It is important to involve as many youths in the school's formal athletic program as possible, especially in the early grades.

Athletics can be a most maturing influence on young boys and girls. Our community reaps multiple benefits from developing involved and competitive youth as opposed to the street corner kids who do not participate in anything.

Cowboys and the Houston Oilers are willing to take a look at everyone who shows up at training camp. Even I could try out for the Oilers, although I would be lucky to last five minutes before being cut. This year, the Oilers picked up a pretty fair starting defensive end, a Houston fireman, who simply walked onto the field.

If the pros can look at everyone, obviously public school programs should.

But parents must realize that there are many limitations in terms of facilities and coaches time.

The Oilers will cut 99 per cent of their "walk-ins" by the second practice, and public school programs are even more handicapped by times and places.

Particularly in sports like basketball where gyms are expensive and fully booked, squads must be kept to manageable levels. Cuts must be made.

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL bad for the kids. I learned as much about myself from the teams I could not make as from the ones desperate enough to accept me.

As Coach Robbins pointed out, Big Spring has a rather intensive intramural program for those students who cannot survive the cuts.

Some of us as youth had to learn to face the reality that we were not great athletes, despite wanting to be, and moved ahead to other endeavors.

Parents should also remember that coaches owe it to the youngsters to give them a fair and honest appraisal of their abilities in a particular sport. I would obviously be wrong to overencourage a youth who has little or no chance to make the team.

The letter raised the question of whether public school teams should play only to win. I personally think that the value of athletics comes from learning how much devotion and dedication it takes to win.

Young people cannot learn how to deal with defeat until they've really tried their best to win. The reward in anything comes from accomplishment, and that means at the least giving the sport everything the athlete has.

COACHES REALIZE that to build a consistently strong program for winning they must involve and develop as many youths as they can.

Who can tell if the scrawny kid might develop into a Harvey Martin?

One of my best friends from high school was a skinny marginal bench warmer in junior high, a clumsy reserve early in high school who began to make our small team only as a junior.

But by his senior year, he was developing fast. He was not sought by colleges, but he wasn't through playing football. He found a school that would give him a chance, and he eventually became monster linebacker and defensive captain of a pretty successful college team.

The things that worked for him were:

- 1) He got in the athletic program and stuck with it. He didn't hop in and out like it was a bath, or he wouldn't have made it.
- 2) He was given a chance.

I WAS working for a newspaper in Gonzales, Tex., when Obert Logan graduated from Trinity where he was a flanker. At 5-10, 170 pounds, he had little chance to make it for the Dallas Cowboys, but no one in Gonzales could convince Logan of that.

Logan kept insisting that he could make the team, even as a free agent. "I'll make that team somehow," he said as he jogged along the Guadalupe River.

He did. For a couple of years, "Little O" started as a defensive back for the Cowboys before going to New Orleans in the expansion draft.

Cleveland's great running back Jim Brown once said that being tackled by Logan was like stepping on a piece of chewing gum — you didn't notice it much, but you were stuck to the ground just the same.

Again, Logan had two things going for him:

- 1) He stuck with the program.
- 2) He got a chance.

Clarifying stand

Around the rim

Eileen McGuire

Having been reproached from both sides since my rim last week dealing with the National Women's Conference, I would like to clarify where I stand on the ERA issue.

First of all, I am and have always been in favor of passage of the ERA in that I am against discrimination of any kind, be it towards women, children, men or beasts.

I do not "accept and take for granted" the discrimination and unequal representation women have endured for centuries. In fact, I am awed that women in this country have been bestowed with the power of deciding whether another human being should be allowed to live, and yet still be denied of full legal control of their own lives and affairs.

As a woman who has personally experienced the anger and frustration of unjust discriminatory laws, I do not take discrimination lightly. At the same time, it is difficult to accept the package deal that comes along with the ERA.

ERA ACTIVISTS label having an unwanted baby as discrimination against the mother. It's unfortunate that a woman should find herself in this situation, but aside from abortion as an alternative to endangering the physical or mental health of the mother, I feel that abortion is discrimination against the child in favor of the mother.

I could easily swing over to the Pro-Family side because of my feelings that an eight-week old fetus is just as human and has just as much right to life as an eight-month old embryo, were it not for the fact that the Pro-Family side is against the ERA.

Also, Pro-Family enthusiasts are against federally funded day care centers and centers for displaced homemakers, programs that I feel would help many welfare-trapped mothers onto the road of independence. I would rather spend my hard earned money paying for programs that promote self-sufficiency, than to support a family on welfare for the rest of their lives.

The welfare trap is not an easy one to get out of and it is not something that befalls only the uneducated and lazy. Any woman who finds herself divorced or widowed with small children to raise and no training for a high-paying job which would enable her to pay for child care while still retaining enough of her salary to support herself and her children, may one day find themselves on welfare, unable to get off.

I AGREE WITH Pro-Family activists in that a woman shouldn't be hired just because she's a woman and there's a quota to fill. I also agree with ERA supporters in that a qualified man should not be hired over a better qualified woman just because he's a man.

I agree with Pro-Family that sex education and family planning should be taught in the home, but since it isn't always and ignorance in these areas is disastrous for both the individual and an overpopulated planet, school is the next best place. Better to learn about sex in school than through trial and error.

I confess. I am guilty of satirizing the Houston conference. Five million dollars was spent to come up with resolutions that have already been put before congress in the form of an amendment which probably won't pass because of other women, like me, who are caught somewhere in the middle.

As far as leaning toward the sensational by describing the opening day of the conference as a cat fight, there seems to be a discrepancy between two letters to the editor published on Friday and Sunday. Women defending the conference claim that it was a time of "harmony and unity and common purpose," while another letter testifies that whenever women of opposing viewpoints tried to speak, they were answered with the banging of the gavel and "On to the next microphone please."

When the two sides have resolved their differences and a common ground is achieved that all women can feel comfortable with, only then will I retract my statement of "Women? Phooey!"

Policy modified?

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — President Carter's voice in the wilderness, defending the human rights of the world's oppressed peoples, is losing its zeal. He has been listening to the backroom counsel of his diplomatic advisers who claim moral posturing makes poor foreign policy.

Here are a few examples:
—The president has muted his criticism of the Kremlin's human rights record. A pleased Chairman Leonid Brezhnev has responded with a secret message agreeing to step up the disarmament negotiations. The message was delivered Nov. 18 by Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

—CARTER ALSO stroked the shah of Iran during their recent con-fabulation. Afterward, the president put out the word that he was "encouraged" by the improving human rights environment in Iran. The shah responded by ordering his secret police to crack down on dissidents. Police goons in civilian dress have attacked the shah's critics with guns, knives and truncheons.

—The United States has provided Anastasio Somoza, with the munitions to keep his people in submission. Yet the Carter administration defended these military offerings on Capitol Hill and also sent a medical evacuation plane to Nicaragua last summer to fly Somoza to a Miami hospital for treatment. This made it clear to Nicaragua's oppressed people whose side Carter is on.

—In a series of columns beginning June 4, 1975, we revealed the first grim details of Cambodia's subjugation. We reported that communist firebrands had turned the country into a nation of cattle. Cities had been emptied and the population herded into the hinterland, we disclosed, with no thought for their welfare. Hundreds of thousands had fallen by the wayside. This must go down in history as the greatest atrocity since the Nazis herded Jews into the gas chambers. Yet the Carter administration has rejected entreaties to awaken the world conscience to the Cambodian horror.

—For years, we have been reporting on the atrocities of Uganda's grand squire, Idi Amin, who appears to be a comic-opera figure but is no laughing matter. His goons have slaughtered an estimated 150,000 of his subjects, often for frivolous reasons. Yet we found out that a dozen of Amin's crack airborne police were getting their helicopter training in Texas.

NOW CONGRESSIONAL investigators are running down evidence that some Ugandan trainees in this country are tied to Amin's personal execution squad. In Uganda, this killer squad is known euphemistically as the State Research Bureau.

At least 21 Ugandans have received communications training, for example, in Melbourne, Fla. A secret staff memo, prepared for Reps. Don Bonker, D-Wash., and Don Ponce, D-Ohio, alleges that 13 of the 21 trainees worked for the notorious State Research Bureau.

The memo claims four others were employed by the Ministry of Defense. Still another worked for the Ministry of Information, although he may actually be an undercover agent for the Research Bureau.

The memo, citing several sources, asserts that some trainees were in constant telephone contact with Ugandan officials at home in Kampala. There allegedly were several telephone calls between Kampala and the Holiday Inn where the trainees stayed in Florida. At least twice a month the trainees were also visited by a Ugandan official who apparently is attached to Amin's United Nations delegation, the memo reports.

Still another group of Ugandans received commercial flight training at Embury-Riddle University in Daytona Beach, Fla. They were sponsored, according to congressional evidence, by Amin's Police Air Wing.

Guddie Boruku, one of the Ugandans still at Embury-Riddle, is identified in the congressional documents as an Amin relative, with ties to the State Research Bureau. Contends the memo: "Boruku is in constant telephone communications with Kampala and makes visits there frequently."

Still another group of Ugandans are taking flight training in Vero Beach, Fla., from an outfit called Flight Safety International. A spokesman for the firm told our associate Larry Kraftowitz that the trainees are students, but investigators have information that the trainees are members of the Ugandan armed forces.

The memo charges that U.S. officials have helped promote the brutal repression in Uganda by its "lay" monitoring of training contracts and Ugandan credentials.

Concludes the memo: "The U.S. is acting in a way which is totally inconsistent with its policy concerning human rights and its policy of withholding aid to the Government of Uganda."

Footnote: A State Department spokesman said as far as he was aware the trainees at Vero Beach and Melbourne came to the United States as "government employees on official business." Spokesmen for the flight schools said they were unaware of the backgrounds of the Ugandan trainees.

Three of the Ugandans training at Melbourne, incidentally, asked for political asylum in the United States. The three defectors, say our sources, were the only Christians in the group and feared dictator Amin's purge against Christians.

Even gulls do it

William F. Buckley, Jr.

In a recent period spent mostly aboard airplanes my wife, at the end of a long leg, threw down a book and said, "That is the worst and the most disgusting book I've ever read." That was a challenge, so I picked it up and, a day or so later, arrived at pretty much the identical conclusion. The book in question is the latest by Harold Robbins, who is an American industry specializing in sex & power books. I had read one of his a decade ago, and the formula stood out as though sketched in luminous ink. Tycoon, girl on the make, business crisis, orgy, crisis survived, orgy, to be continued.

The minor difference between the incumbent Robbins and the one I had read is that scant attention is given to a plausible plot. The major difference is that a third of the sex scenes are explicitly homosexual.

ROBBINS IS ONE thing, John Cheever is something quite other. Cheever is the marvelously gifted writer who made his reputation by chronicling the decline of the aristocratic Wapshot family of Massachusetts over the course of two books in which is recorded with splendid imagination the attrition of gentility by creeping poverty, sexual promiscuity, booze, and a social tempo at odds with traditional concepts of life and leisure. But the latest of Cheever, "Falconer," continues on the general theme of social and personal disintegration, but ups the ante, so that we have degradation rather than mere disintegration, and a number of the metaphors used, and the descriptive tissue of the book are — quite suddenly, for Cheever — homosexual. What's going on?

That was Saturday I read "Falconer."

On Sunday I read the account of the tergiversation of Betty Friedan at Houston. It came, appropriately enough from every point of view, with tears in her eyes. You see, Betty Friedan was really the founder of the modern feminist movement in the United States, and a couple of years ago she dug in her heels. No lesbian-stuff for her, she said. This greatly outraged the left-wing of the feminist movement which considers lesbianism the highest form of emancipation from male sexism, or however you want to put it.

Betty Friedan said all along that there was nothing whatever in the woman's movement that argued against the cohesiveness of the family unit. But she was beginning to lose her popularity, and last weekend, in Houston, she capitulated. In an emotional statement, she said to her sisters that, really, she had been wrong. Woman must be free to love woman instead of man. The ineluctable laws of nature require us to conclude that there is nothing then left of the family. The only bright spot here, one supposes, is that there cannot be a dissolution of the family unit if there is no family unit.

EKG's don't tell many fibs

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Imagine my surprise the other day when the doctor said my EKG reading showed I had had a heart attack sometime in the past. I have never in my life had any heart attack, but I could not convince him of that. Does this mean that the EKG's can lie and aren't all they're cracked up to be? — Mrs. H. E.

No, but a person's heart isn't always all it has been "cracked up to be." In other words, one can have heart damage without even being aware of it. And the damage (however slight) is detectable by the EKG, which rarely tells fibs.

You have heard the term "silent heart attack." This is what it is — a small incident, perhaps hardly noticeable. A mild chest pain or a dizzy spell may have indicated some heart disturbance. A case of "indigestion" can be a heart attack. The person may pop an antacid tablet and go on his merry way. The heart carries the mark.

Instead of arguing with the machine or the doctor, accept the diagnosis and learn just how much damage was caused. The heart muscle may have repaired itself nicely and you may have emerged none the worse for the incident.

On the other hand, if there was more extensive damage, it might account for other symptoms you may have now, and you would want to know about that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In answering a question about the effects of tonic in a mixed drink, you said, "The tonic wouldn't hurt as much as the gin." I have recently begun having a gin and tonic at the end of the day before I eat dinner. Is the gin especially harmful?

Mrs. M. P.
The question referred to the effect of the quinine in the tonic water. This is very small and harmless unless one is sensitive to quinine. Gin is just another alcohol, one flavored with the juniper berry. As such, too much just "ain't good" for anyone. Your before-dinner drink is harmless if you confine it to that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: To pee or not to pee, that is the question. Can you perhaps tell me what is the answer? I am 89. — R. H. L.

I don't know the answer, Sir, and I don't think you'll find it in Hamlet's famous speech, from which you quote (with some liberties). If I catch the drift of your question, I would guess you have a prostate gland acting up, which would not be unexpected at your age. Report it to your doctor.

He may not match Shakespeare in eloquence, but he will be able to track down the problem for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you please explain what I read recently about a new product that's supposed to prevent the body from retaining fat? It said that in about a year people will be free to eat as much as they want without fat or weight gain. Can this be true? If so, when will it be on the market, and for whom? — N.M.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: What do you think of churches that refuse to serve communion to anyone other than their own members? I find this hard to understand. — Mrs. G. S.

DEAR MRS. S.: In I Corinthians 11:17-34 Paul gave us instructions about the celebration of the Lord's Supper. One of the points he wanted to stress is that the Lord's Supper is a very serious and solemn matter that should not be taken lightly. He warned that "whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord . . . he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body" (I Corinthians 11:27-29).

For this reason many churches, dating far back in church history, have carefully guarded the Lord's Supper to be sure that no one takes it casually or thoughtlessly. I am sure churches that serve communion only to their own members are only trying to prevent a wrong practice of the Lord's Supper. If they are seriously trying to follow the Bible, they do not refuse communion to others out of pride (thinking they are the only church that has true Christians in it) but out of a desire to honor Christ.

However, it has been my own practice to observe communion wherever I have been invited to do so. It is the most sacred rite of the Christian church throughout the world. Whenever we take communion, it should remind us of the death of Christ for us, and the salvation we have through faith. "Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold . . . But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot" (I Peter 1:18-19).

SURROUNDED BY HELP — An unidentified man who was on board a single-engine plane which crashed in the Rockies near Aspen, Colo. Sunday night, is loaded into an ambulance after being flown from the crash site. Seven Oklahomans on board the plane were returning from a ski vacation when it crashed in the snow. Six survived two nights in the mountains, one died.

Health prevents service

FBI director nominee withdraws name

WASHINGTON (AP) — Help wanted: FBI director. Must be bright, aggressive and committed to the law. Mental and physical stamina essential for working long hours, settling touchy internal arguments, and facing frequent public criticism. Rewards include $57,500 salary, a measure of fame and substantial power. Apply to the attorney general, Washington, D.C.

The Carter administration once again is sending "help wanted" signals after U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson concluded that his health prevents him from becoming FBI director.

Attorney General Griffin Bell announced Johnson's decision at a news conference Tuesday. He said he and President Carter may agree on a replacement by Jan. 17, when Congress returns from a recess.

Bell asked the current director, Clarence M. Kelley, to postpone his scheduled Jan. 1 retirement until mid-February. Kelley was to give Bell his answer today.

In a statement from his Montgomery, Ala., office, Johnson said his slow recovery from major surgery last August has forced him to step aside and to ask Carter to withdraw his nomination.

"It will be several more months before I will regain my strength and stamina," Johnson said. "It will not be fair to the Federal Bureau of Investigation or to me to keep this matter pending any longer."

The Alabama judge was Carter's first choice for the job, and the President will have a tough time finding another nominee with such broad support. Civil rights groups that have criticized the FBI for past abuses of individual rights praised Johnson for his judicial decisions protecting the rights of schoolchildren, prisoners and mental patients.

FBI agents and other law enforcement groups generally were pleased with Johnson's record of imposing stiff prison sentences in criminal cases.

"Johnson has become the standard, and it's going to be a helluva tough standard for anyone else to come up to," a department official remarked.

Bell, who will recommend a potential nominee to Carter, said he doesn't plan to rush into a decision.

Six survive plane crash and cold

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — For two nights, high in the snow-covered Colorado Rockies with the temperature near zero, the survivors of a small-plane crash above the timberline shivered and hoped for rescue.

One of them, 17-year-old Charles Randolph, set out to find help.

Then, on Tuesday, it came.

A rescue helicopter spotted Randolph on a snow-covered slope, waving his arms. It picked him up, and he guided the rescuers back to the others.

In that way, six of seven Oklahoma City residents aboard a twin-engine plane that crashed on Sunday night were found alive and airlifted out to be hospitalized.

A seventh person, C.B. Cameron, president of American Fidelity Insurance Corp., was found dead.

daughter, Lynda, 17; Randolph and another school friend of the young Camerons, 16-year-old Karen Mills; and the plane's pilot, Terry DePlois, 30. Mrs. Cameron, Bill Cameron and DePlois were listed in serious condition and were flown to a hospital in Denver.

"It was a miracle that we found the boy at all," said Harry Stebner of Aspen, who was on the helicopter that spotted Randolph.

Stebner said Randolph was shivering and his face was deep blue.

"We dropped down and picked him up," said Stebner. "It was fortunate we were able to land. The poor kid was just blue with the cold and about as miserable as any individual could be. But fortunately he was coherent."

Randolph, who suffered the least serious injuries, told a family friend that he had set out Monday morning and had spent that night in a hunter's cabin. On Tuesday, he kept to the edge of a ridge, always keeping a creek on the same side, so he would not walk in circles.

"We just retraced his steps and there was the plane," Stebner said. It was difficult to judge the distance, Stebner said, but his guess was that Randolph had walked about three miles.

It was snowing heavily at the crash site, a bowl 15 miles west of Aspen on 14,130-foot Haystack Mountain. The area was inaccessible from the ground and all the injured were removed by helicopters using winches.

JIM SHARP REESTABLISHES RESIDENCY
Deputy Sue Ann Born delivers certificate.

Speculation increases that Sharp will run

James B. (Jim) Sharp Jr., to be deemed as a potential candidate on my part. That the U.S. House of Representatives, recently reestablished his voter residency as Big Spring.

Sharp was first appointed to his position under the Democratic patronage of Congressman Omar Burleson (17th Dist. Tex.), who announced his planned retirement from Congress at the close of this, the 95th Congress, more than a year from now.

Sharp, whose father and grandfather both are Methodist ministers and have served numerous churches throughout West Texas, attended public schools in Abilene and lived in Big Spring three years.

After earning his Bachelor's of Fine Arts degree in Journalism from Southern Methodist University in 1974, Sharp was appointed as Assistant Doorkeeper from Texas to begin his public service career on that gallery since 1932, when former President Lyndon Johnson received his first government assignment as an Assistant-Doorkeeper on Gallery Number one. For the past year-and-a-half, Sharp has worked on the Floor of the House in the same position, but with additional responsibilities.

Rumors continue to circulate indicating Sharp may be preparing to launch a bid for the Congressional office. When contacted, Sharp simply stated, "I will be keeping a keen eye on any progress made by the Conference Committee on Energy."

Defining his stance, Sharp explained, "Any final determination by Congress, or possible inaction, could precipitate what would have

The white Cessna 414, owned by the firm Cameron and Cameron, had taken off Sunday night from Aspen for Oklahoma City with a fuel stop scheduled in Pueblo. The passengers — family and friends — had been on a Thanksgiving ski vacation.

The survivors included Cameron's wife, Jo Carol; their son, Bill, 18, and

"Ford pickups and ranching just naturally go together. We depend on 'em for everything."

... Says Jay Palmer of Kaufman, Texas, rancher and trainer.

"We own nothing on the ranch but Ford pickups...use 'em for haying, feeding, repairing fence, general ranch work."

"We make a lot of long trips hauling horses, pulling a six-horse trailer. There's no place to stop and we can't afford to be broke down. That's why we drive Fords. We can depend on 'em to get us there."

"Back home, the service on the Ford pickups is just the best from my Ford dealer. And that's as important as the Ford pickups themselves."

See all the Ford pickups at your Texas Ford dealer. As Mr. Palmer knows, they're built tough for Texans.

Easy consumer credit adding to inflation

(AP WIREPHOTO)
NO FRILLS FOR GOVERNOR — California Governor Jerry Brown checks in at the Laker Sky train office in Queen's New York Monday night. Brown, who is enroute to London to speak at the memorial service for Dr. E.F. Schumacher, arrived from California on a regular commercial flight then boarded the budget Skytrain for the flight to London.

NEW YORK (AP) — In a consumer society we honor the consumer. We provide him and her with warranties. We hold before the consumer the latest idyll of the good life. We work to make it achievable with easy credit. And, says a credit authority, in so doing we create an inflationary bias in the economy. We do this, says Sidney Homer, by directing credit into consumption — homes, cars, luxuries — rather than into production, such as for new factories that will enlarge the supply of goods available to the consumer market.

This latest criticism is one in a growing list whose common divisor is the fear that our emphasis on consumption is at the expense of production. And without production, there can be no consumption.

To paraphrase the many commentators on the theme: We are all busily eating the recipe instead of devising a recipe to make it bigger. We are absorbed in our rights as consumers rather than with our responsibilities as producers.

There is much statistical documentation of this. In the past 15 years, for instance, gains in worker productivity have averaged less than two-thirds the rate of the immediate post-World War II period.

Homer, limited partner in the Salomon Brothers securities firm, told a meeting of the American Council of Life Insurance that credit to finance consumption will rise five to six times faster this year than rate of new capital going into production.

Ever since World War II, he said, government policy has consistently stimulated consumption and consumption credit, and has in many ways discouraged capital formation and production credit.

Production credit is needed to make jobs. It is needed to improve and expand production facilities. It is needed simply for the survival of existing concerns, to say nothing about the formation of new companies.

How would he direct the flow of more capital and credit into production?

"First, (by) putting a ceiling on mortgage formation that is aided by the government so that in a housing boom all available credit will not be usurped by the great mortgage market," he said.

Tough words for housing. To the housing people, their industry goes into cyclical slumps primarily because capital is drawn from them into higher paying industrial uses. They would not like to lose more of that capital.

Tough words also for consumers of houses, new and used, who this year will number more than 4 million. Isn't it a consumer's right as an American to own a house? Isn't that why 67 percent of families do?

His second proposal: Permit savings and loan associations, which are the nation's biggest mortgage lenders, to buy corporate bonds, and thus funnel some of their funds into production rather than consumption credit.

"I do not doubt the benefits of more and better homes and other consumption facilities," Homer exclaimed.

"My protest is against the gross imbalance between the huge amount of long-term credit going into consumption and the small amount going into production."

Human error caused Antonio blackout

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Human error was responsible for an Oct. 16 power failure that darkened the San Antonio area and the municipally-owned City Public Service utility was "completely unprepared" for a major emergency, an investigation has found.

Findings of the investigation by Southwest Research Institute confirmed earlier CPS statements that a manually-operated circuit breaker was left open, causing a short which brought the entire electrical system down.

Parts of the state's second largest city were without electricity for nearly three hours after the blackout was triggered shortly after 7 p.m. on Oct. 16, a Sunday.

CPS officials had denied earlier there was any human error involved in the outage.

The outside investigators' report recommended a strict system of checks so that CPS would always know the reliability of its system, and better backup equipment so that major problems will not be prolonged.

The report, commissioned by CPS trustees, was reviewed at a meeting of trustees Tuesday. CPS Chairman Tom Berg scheduled a session Dec. 12 to go over details of the report and another being prepared by the utility's own staff.

While noting the deficiencies, the report also praised the work of CPS employees after the breakdown occurred.

It said the basic cause of the blackout was a static line from the Braunig Plant in southeast San Antonio that broke and fell onto live lines, causing a short.

Normally, the short would have been isolated, but a circuit breaker that is manually operated had been left open, according to the report. The report noted there was no log kept to record openings and closing of the circuit breaker.

The report said the blackout could have been shortened by 45 minutes had backup generators at the Control Center worked properly.

Former governor named to position with HCA

Hospital Corporation of America has promoted the former governor of Tennessee, Winfield Dunn, to senior vice president-public affairs, it was announced today. Malone-Hogan Hospital of Big Spring is an affiliate of the hospital management company.

Also promoted to senior vice-presidencies are San A. Brooks — finance, and Andrew W. Miller — administrative services.

Board Chairman Jack C. Massey and President Thomas F. Frist, Jr., M.D., announced the promotions, which they said "recognized the abilities and past contributions of these key members of the senior management team."

"This move to further strengthen our roster of senior officers is consistent with the continued growth and success of the Company," Massey and Frist explained.

Dunn is a former governor of the state of Tennessee, who joined HCA in 1975. While governor, he was twice elected to the Executive Committee of the National Governors' Conference and served as chairman of the Republican Governors' Association. A doctor of dental surgery, Dunn practiced in Memphis where he served as a member of the Board of Trustees of the city hospitals. He is a graduate of the University of Mississippi and received his D.D.S. from the University of Tennessee Dental School.

Brooks joined the Company in 1968, after seven years with Ernst & Ernst, the international public accounting firm, as manager of its Dallas office, and with responsibility for hospital clients in that area. He is a graduate of Baylor University, a member of the Texas and Tennessee Societies of Certified Public Accountants, the American Management Association, and the Financial Executive Institute.

Miller, who is currently president of the

WINFIELD DUNN

Federation of American Hospitals, joined HCA in 1970. Prior to that, he was senior project manager with Health and Institutional Consultants, Inc., in Atlanta, the chief financial officer of a 400-bed hospital, and an audit senior with Arthur Anderson & Company. He is a CPA, and a member of various professional associations.

HCA is the world's leading hospital management company, currently operating 94 hospitals with more than 14,000 beds in 24 states and two foreign countries. The Company's common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Best will win

PAVO, Ga. (AP) — Janice Hart was in line to pay her qualifying fee to run for city council. But Mayor Ed Hutchinson suggested another post — mayor.

"Mrs. Hart ran for council last year and made a good showing," but lost," said Hutchinson. He said he advised her to run for mayor in the Nov. 28 election because the council races were "too crowded."

The mayor, who already faces opposition from Hershel Finch, said he's not worried about the extra competition.

"I feel the best will win, and there will be no hard feelings," he said.

Arthritis Foundation to gain from art, crafts auction

So far, Fran Riley and Terry Patterson have collected 53 exhibits to auction off at the Artists for Arthritis Foundation Auction coming up Saturday. The auction, to take place from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Community Center, is open to the public. Proceeds will be used for research and education by the Arthritis Foundation. Featured will be paintings and crafts donated by professionals and new talent from all over Texas as well as local artists. Some out-of-state artists are also participating. Among the works to be sold, are some of Terry Patterson's, a local artist who has had some 38 one-man shows.

Mall sale will help with pool project

The Volunteer Services Council, Big Spring State Hospital, will have its second and final Arts and Crafts Sale this Saturday in the Highland Shopping Center Mall, will all proceeds going to the patients' therapeutic swimming pool project.

Punch party to be held

Lots of new items are arriving, all hand-crafted, and you're invited to Christmas shop and know your Christmas dollars are going to a worthy cause. Dub Bryant, local auctioneer, is donating his services for the event and serving as moderator will be Mrs. Clyde Angel. Music will be provided by Murrey Vice. Punch and cookies will be served and there will be door prizes.

Thanksgiving origin reviewed for club

Ireba Griffith presented a program on the origin of Thanksgiving to the Centerpoint Home Demonstration Club Nov. 22 at the Sizzler. She said that the first American Thanksgiving Day was celebrated during the second winter the Plymouth colonists spent in the New World. The first dreadful winter in Massachusetts had killed nearly half of the members of the colony, but new hope grew in the summer of 1621. The corn harvest brought rejoicing, so ings and crafts donated by professionals and new talent from all over Texas as well as local artists. Some out-of-state artists are also participating. Among the works to be sold, are some of Terry Patterson's, a local artist who has had some 38 one-man shows. Crafts up for bid include homemade dolls, macrame, afghans, and even some Christmas decorations. Most of the paintings are framed and ready to hang or give as gifts. "It's a good chance to get a nice gift, something of value, without spending a whole lot," Ms. Patterson commented.

Dub Bryant, local auctioneer, is donating his services for the event and serving as moderator will be Mrs. Clyde Angel. Music will be provided by Murrey Vice. Punch and cookies will be served and there will be door prizes.

Gov. William Bradford decreed that Dec. 13, 1621, be set aside as a day of feasting and prayer to show the gratitude of the colonists. Mrs. Griffith then told about the extensive preparations for the feast. Included on that first Thanksgiving menu were wild turkey, venison, geese, duck, fish, journey cake, cornmeal bread, succotash and pumpkin stewed in maple syrup. Three days were spent feasting before the pilgrims returned to their tasks.

Although the custom of Thanksgiving spread throughout the United States, it wasn't until Nov. 26, 1789 that Pres. George Washington issued a proclamation for a day of thanks, and not until 1941 did Congress rule that the fourth Thursday in November would be observed as Thanksgiving and would be a legal holiday.

After the program, Mrs. Bob Wren gave the invocation and members ate dinner. A business meeting was then conducted by Joyce Orr. Nineteen members and four guests were present. Guests were Janet Rogers, Extension Agent; Sandy Stretcher, Assistant agent; Mrs. Floyd Earls, Home Demonstration Secretary; and Olene Melton. All members were asked by the decorations committee to go to the Kentwood Center and help decorate the hall and tree for the Christmas party at 10 a.m. Dec. 3.

A county-wide Home Demonstration Christmas party will be at 2 p.m. Dec. 13 at the center for all H.D.C. members and their guests. There will be a gift exchange and program at that time. Mrs. Orr, club president, will host a Christmas salad luncheon at her home, 2906 Mac Auslan, at noon Dec. 8. There will be an exchange of gifts for all Centerpoint H.D.C. members. All members will bring cakes and sandwiches to serve at the Big Spring State Hospital Christmas party for Ward 10 at 10 a.m. Dec. 13. They will also provide stocking stuffers for patients at the hospital. The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Jan. 10 at the Kentwood Center. Florence Rotherm and Ruby Rutledge are in charge of the program. "Mrs. Macklin on New Fabrics."

Dear Abby

Her Quiet Guy Might Just Be Shy

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who is very intelligent, articulate and informed. The problem is, he hardly opens his mouth when we're in the company of others (especially strangers). I desperately wish he would speak up so others would know how bright he is, but he just sits there as though he has nothing to contribute to the conversation. It's so frustrating and embarrassing that I want to scream. When the two of us are alone, his dialogue is brilliant, but in company, he clams up. I'm sure some people think he's shallow, and others probably think he's stuck-up, but he's not.

What is wrong with him, Abby? How can I get him to enter into the conversation when we're in a group?
UPTIGHT

DEAR UP: Your friend could be shy. (Many intelligent, well-read people are.) Or perhaps he's too well-mannered to interrupt others who enjoy dominating the conversation.

You can help draw him into future conversations by asking him some direct questions. Try it.

DEAR ABBY: How can I get it across to my hairdresser that I wish she would keep quiet when she is working on me? I have changed beauty operators four times in the last year because all these girls do is talk, talk, talk. I am not interested in their private affairs, and I have no desire to talk about mine. My husband says it's the same way in his barber shop. The barbers talk the men's ears off, too. People who work in offices and stores can't be jabbering to their customers or clients about everything under the sun. They have to keep their minds on their work.

I would appreciate total silence so much while I'm getting my hair done that I would gladly pay a double tip for it. How can this be accomplished?
NO GOSSIP

DEAR NO: Offer your hairdresser a double tip to button her lip, and the only words you are likely to hear before a long silence will be, "You just made a deal, lady."

DEAR ABBY: I am an middle-aged woman who hasn't been to my gynecologist for six years. With all this talk about cancer, I know I should go, but I've been putting it off because I'm afraid I might have VD. I had a few symptoms six years ago, but they went away. I've noticed my eyesight is not as good as it was, and my memory seems faulty. I read somewhere that VD symptoms usually disappear but the disease continues to do its damage.

I don't want to go to my regular doctor in case I have it. I've considered going to a strange doctor and using a phony name, but I hate to go through all those examinations and give him a whole medical history when I know I'll never see him again. I just want to find out if I have VD so I can either take care of it or forget it.

I've never been intimate with anyone except my husband, but there is a good chance that he had it and I got it from him. What should I do?
CONCERNED IN ST. PAUL

DEAR CONCERNED: Call your Planned Parenthood Clinic and make an appointment for a gynecological examination. It will include blood tests and urinalysis. No phony name is necessary. All their records are strictly confidential.

Task force studies fairness of system

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Tuesday it is setting up a task force to study whether women receive fair treatment under the Social Security system. Outgoing Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell was named to head the panel of five women and four men by HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., who said in a statement: "The roles of women and our society's recognition of those roles have changed dramatically in recent years."

Califano instructed the task force to address these issues: —The treatment of married women who do not work in paid employment; —Treatment of single workers; —Protection for divorced women; —The effect of remarriage on widows' benefits; —Equity for individual workers versus protection for families.

The panel was told to complete its report by Feb. 1. Cardwell retires as Social Security commissioner next month. Some women have complained that wives who have had short working careers get no return on their Social Security taxes since they are entitled to a larger benefit as a spouse than from their own record.

Slides from behind the Iron Curtain shown

Jones shares experiences

"One Picture is Worth a Thousand Words" was perfectly illustrated last week at a meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, when Clemont Jones presented a slide show and narration of scenes he had photographed behind the Iron Curtain.

The club met for dinner at Coker's Restaurant.

Jones, who spent three years in Germany, took the pictures himself during the time the wall which separates East and West Berlin was being built. The pictures gave mute testimony to the contrast between East and West Germany — the despair and hopelessness of the eastern sector and the modern everyday living of the west.

Jones said that even though the wall was impregnable and the untold miles of barbed wire entanglements were impenetrable, many East Berliners got through to join their families and relatives in the western sector, but just as many did not, as was evidenced by pictures of plaques which families had placed against the wall at the site where one of their loved ones had tried to escape and did not make it. Jones also showed pictures of the corpses of people who had been shot in escape attempts.

He said that even though there was supposed to be freedom of worship, the churches were all located on one block, and it just so happened that during services, the communists chose that block as the place to demonstrate by marching and beating on drums, thus harassing the worshippers. In this regard he contrasted the many freedoms we have in America which we take for granted, and emphasized our blessings, urging members to give thanks to God and respect our freedoms.

Jones, who spent a total of ten years in Germany, England and Japan with the U.S. Air Force, is now employed at GAMCO. He and his wife, who was a guest of the meeting, have lived in Big Spring nine years.

Program chairman was Anita Paulsen, assisted by Mamie Roberts.

One new member, Kip Bracy, was introduced. She is employed by the Big Spring Herald.

A Thanksgiving theme was featured in table decorations of arrangements of mums, ceramic turkeys, basket arrangement of sand dollars from Corpus Christi, which were sent especially for the occasion by a niece of Mrs. Paulsen; and candles in brass candleholders from Germany.

It was announced that the Half-Way House Christmas party would be at 7 p.m. Dec. 14, and that a box of gifts for the Big Spring State Hospital from the club had been delivered to the volunteer office.

'Be a Better Shopper' tells how Food-buying system can save you money

Scene: Supermarket with two shopping carts. Contents: One week's groceries for a family of four. Cost: For the food in the left cart, $52.90; for basically the same food in the right cart, only $44.07. Difference: $7.93.

Question: How does one shopper buy essentially the same foods as another shopper while paying ten to fifteen percent less?

According to a Cornell University publication titled "Be a Better Shopper — Buying in Supermarkets," the key to consistently spending less at the supermarket is to develop a food-buying system. Written by Professor Heinz B. Biesdorf, a consumer economist at Cornell University, the publication is in its second edition, having been extensively revised, expanded and updated. More than 40,000 of the first edition were printed and distributed.

"Knowing and practicing a few money-saving tricks can help consumers save money," Dr. Biesdorf says, "but consistent savings of ten to fifteen percent can be realized only by sticking to a food-buying system." For an average family of four, this annual savings amounts to an annual reduction in food costs totaling over $400. In order to save this ten to fifteen percent in the supermarket, the food shopper needs some "start-up" money, some extra time, and some extra storage space.

Prof. Biesdorf realized that many people don't have extra money, but he says, this doesn't have to be a problem. "If you put off buying some non-essential items such as shoe polish or window cleaner for another week, you can use the money that would have been spent on these items as 'start-up' money, to buy in quantity the essential food items that are on special this week."

If, for example, you buy four cans of tomato juice at the special price of two for 99 cents, instead of the regular price of 65 cents each, you have saved 62 cents. If you also buy three pounds of spaghetti for 78 cents instead of the usual $1.33, you save an additional 55 cents. And, if you take advantage of the special on a non-food item such as the larger, seven-ounce tube of toothpaste at 69 cents instead of 95 cents, you've saved another 26 cents, bringing your total savings to $1.43. This is not only money in your pocket, but next week you'll have a shorter shopping list because you've bought some items in quantity the week before.

And since a shorter shopping list means that you spend less money than you normally would, you'll have additional "start-up" money, and can take advantage of even more savings.

The premise of "Be a Better Shopper" is familiar to many food shoppers: "Buy when the price is right, and when the price is right, buy in quantity for future use." But anyone who is serious about saving ten to fifteen percent on groceries must do more than stockpile goods bought at comparatively low prices. The serious food shopper begins comparison shopping even before leaving home — by studying and comparing newspaper food ads.

Most stores and supermarkets offer special prices on selected products in the newspaper each week. Although only a small number of items in a given store's stock are likely to be on special at one time, the savings that can be realized by buying these specials are large.

Carter spends little time on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite his decision to delay a four-continent trip to insure congressional approval of his energy plan, President Carter has spent little of the time he would have been abroad working on the legislation.

The president, said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, was convinced that "his personal involvement was vital to the development of sound energy legislation."

But what has the president done in the eight days since he was scheduled to leave? He spent a four-day Thanksgiving holiday at the presidential retreat, Camp David, Md., and he has spent four days at the White House.

But he has devoted comparatively little time to energy legislation.

Had he followed the agenda he had originally set for himself, he might have been strolling down the Champs Elysee in Paris today.

But instead of winding up an 11-day trip with meetings in Paris and Brussels, Carter is busying himself with a news conference, lunch with Defense Secretary Harold Brown and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and preparing the fiscal 1979 budget.

The president had been scheduled to leave Washington Nov. 22, but 15 days before his planned departure, Vance said Carter would remain at home to oversee congressional deliberations on his energy plan.

The package is now in congressional conference committees that are seeking to resolve differences between House and the Senate versions. The House passed much of Carter's plan, which emphasizes taxes to discourage consumption, while the Senate chose instead to reward conservation with tax breaks.

On Tuesday, Carter spent breakfast with congressional leaders, discussing House and Senate efforts to resolve the differences. But that was the only publicly announced meeting since Nov. 22 devoted in large part to energy.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell insisted that the delay was not a mistake, but he did not give any details of time spent by Carter on energy. An examination of the president's public schedule gives no indication he has concentrated on the legislation.

Of course, the House and Senate made it difficult for Carter to meet last week with members working on energy. They recessed for the week and few representatives and senators were in town.

Powell said that despite such disappointments, postponing the trip was worthwhile because "it indicated the importance which we attach to" the legislation.

"Progress on the bill has been sometimes good and sometimes halting, but it wouldn't have been as good if he wasn't here," the spokesman said.

What, he was asked, was actually accomplished? Coming up with a cause-and-effect relationship "is rather hard to do in this world," he replied.

ARRIVE FOR COAL TALKS—Robert Nathan, left, counsel for the United Mine Workers, and Arnold Miller, UMW president arrive for a meeting Tuesday in Washington with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. The meeting was arranged by federal mediators in hopes of averting a strike.

Coal miners will strike 'until hell freezes'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal miners will hunker down and strike until "hell freezes over" rather than give in to industry bargaining demands that would mean the death of their union, says one United Mine Workers leader.

"They're going back to the pre-John L. Lewis days," Frank R. Clements, a union district president from Alabama, said Tuesday after attending a union briefing on the industry's bargaining positions.

Federal mediators, working to head off a walkout that could begin as early as next week, were resuming their shuttle today between union and industry negotiators in hotel rooms one floor apart.

The mediators took charge of the talks Tuesday and won a quick pledge of "concentrated and continuous negotiations" as they met first with one group and then the other in an effort to develop a bargaining climate favorable to face-to-face talks between the two groups.

Chief mediator Wayne L. Horvitz told a brief news conference that both the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, industry's bargaining arm,

"have assured us they want an agreement."

But asked whether a no-strike settlement is realistic, he said, "I don't know the answer to that. Mediators always have to believe you can reach a settlement without a strike."

UMW President Arnold Miller also sidestepped a question of whether a strike is inevitable, saying, "I couldn't say right now."

The UMW, whose 130,000 active members mine 50 percent of the nation's coal, is ready to call a strike when its contracts expire at midnight Monday.

Under union procedures, ratification of a new contract by the active members would take at least 10 days. Thus, a strike appears certain at 130 BCOA companies barring a last-minute agreement to extend the current contract.

A strike is not expected to have an immediate impact on the national economy. The union's share of national coal production has fallen in recent years, and the industry's best customers have stockpiled supplies to last at least 90 days.

Miller briefed the union's 38-member bargaining council after Tuesday morning's shuttle talks, but there was no discussion of a possible contract extension. Instead, one UMW leader said that a long strike will result if the BCOA refuses to alter its contract proposals.

"We'll stay out till hell freezes over before we'll comply with their bottom line proposals, which would kill the union," said Clements. His reference to the pre-John L. Lewis days was to the period before 1920, when Lewis became UMW president.

The union, no longer as strong as it was in Lewis' heyday, is asking for a limited right-to-strike at individual mines over local issues as well as refinancing of nearly bankrupt health and pension benefit funds.

The funds were drained in part because of a 10-week wildcat strike last summer that cut off industry payments into the funds.

Arthritic artists auction

with Marj Carpenter

A group of artists and handiwork craftsmen are getting together Saturday from 4-6 p.m. for an Artists for Arthritis Foundation Auction.

The event will be held at the Dora Roberts Community Center from 4-6 p.m.

It is particularly fitting that some of the beautiful afghans made by Mrs. Clara Potts are for sale. Because Mrs. Potts has had crippling arthritis in her hands since 1968.

"It doesn't hurt me to go ahead and do handiwork," Mrs. Potts said here this week. "In fact, it may keep my hands from becoming completely useless."

She and her husband moved to Big Spring back in 1928 during the oil boom. "We came from Sterling City," she recalls.

Later, she and her husband ran an alteration shop at Webb AFB. "I altered men's uniforms from 1952 to 1962," she recalls. She laughed and added, "Nearly everybody was issued a uniform too big or too little."

Her husband constructed one of the most unusual driveways in Big Spring at their home on South Main. He actually had it built but he designed it.

The driveway is in the 1000 block of South Main where the homes east of the street go straight up. It is two concrete runners for a car with concrete steps in the middle to walk up the hill. It is still being used today.

At that time, it was really a rarity since most of the city streets were dirt.

The local Art Association is also backing the auction this Saturday.

Mrs. Terry Patterson, chairman of getting the

ARTHRITIS HASN'T STOPPED HER
...from doing fancy handwork

artists to send in paintings and crafts, said it will be an awfully good chance to pick up an unusual Christmas gift.

Mrs. Fran Riley is chairman of the drive for funds for the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

This is the first time that this particular event has been held as a fund-raising event for the drive.

Mrs. Patterson, a well-known artist in Big Spring, said they already have a number of crafts and paintings to be auctioned.

Mrs. Potts is particularly interested in the project since she has had her own private battle with arthritis.

And her beautiful afghans will be among the items for sale. She mused, "It may be too late to help my arthritis but it will help somebody."

And that's the way I found — the uncomplaining Mrs. Potts — busy with her crochet work when I was out ridin' fence.

Del Rio man pleaded guilty in bank failure

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A Del Rio, Texas, man has pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of misusing bank funds in connection with the 1975 collapse of the People's Bank in Willcox.

Pleading Tuesday to the charge of misusing no more than $100 in bank funds was Jay Francis Kerr, 29. He was originally accused of submitting a falsified financial statement to borrow more than $59,000, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Irma Dirst.

The lesser plea was accepted, she said, because Kerr agreed to help the government in its continuing investigation into the bank's failure.

Kerr was the second person to plead in the case. Earlier, former Texas Rangers relief pitcher Darold Knowles entered a similar plea. Knowles, who has been sold to Montreal, also faced a felony charge but was allowed to plead to the lesser offense.

Kerr faces a possible maximum sentence of a $1,000 fine and one year in prison.

When the People's Bank closed, investigators said more than $1.7 million in bank funds could not be found.

BONDS' MESSAGE — Howard College freshman Allen Bonds was so busy Tuesday night making key defensive plays and setting up perfect assists to his teammates that he rarely put the ball up himself. Here, however, he's seen putting up two of his four points. Preybird sophomore Russell Sublet (21) can be seen in the foreground. HC won the contest with Cisco, 86-61.

Hawks strangle Wranglers, 86-61

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

With less than five minutes gone in the first stanza Tuesday night, the Howard College Hawks had themselves a very L-O-N-G 15-2 lead over the Cisco Wranglers. The evening was not going to get any shorter for the visitors, either.

In that opening few minutes Big Joe Cooper and Eugene Williams put on a softshoe duet that completely awed the blue-clad Wranglers into scorelessness. "Coop" blocked two shots, stole a pass and sunk five points in that span of time. Williams totalled six points and one steal during the spree. Cisco came out playing a man-on-man — a defense that just doesn't work that well against the Preybirds. By the time they realized that, and changed to a zone, the score was 17-4. With 7:21 left in the first half, the change of strategy had brought the Wranglers good news and back to within six, at 26-20.

The bad news for CJC was that the Hawks have some very respectable outside shooters who can tear apart a zone. Freshman Robby Randolph wore his telescopic sight during that first half, and hit eight crucial points from the 30-35 foot range in the final minutes before intermission to keep the Preybird edge.

Super sophomore Russell Sublet also hit a couple from the corner to negate the zone and warm himself up for a superb second half showing. Johnny James came off the bench during that stretch of time to block a shot, pierce a bucket and help with the rebounds.

Freshmen Allen Bonds and Casey Wilder only had two points between them the entire second half, but they must have had a dozen unselfish assists apiece to finally fire up the awesome Hawk run and gun — a dampening effect which completely buried the Wranglers in the second half. Subs Elmer Johnson and R.Q. Tolliver had perhaps their best nights in a Hawk uniform. They played almost the entire fourth quarter.

Johnson hitting four and Tolliver sinking five during that time. R.Q.'s turnaround jumper from close in, with 3:30 left in the game, gave the Preybirds their biggest margin, 30 points, 83-53. Much to the delight of the partisan crowd, local guards Elroy "Mr. Invisible" Green and Ralph "Torpedoe" Miranda came off the bench in the final minutes to again dazzle their screaming groupies with hustle extraordinaire. (Of interest to fans in attendance. The technical foul on Green was a rare one. He was wearing a chain around his neck.) Coach Harold Wilder was very pleased with the efforts of the entire 11-member team, and expressed special pleasure on the moves

Hawk Queens keep win streak alive

The Howard College Hawk Queens faced a vastly improved McMurry squad Tuesday night in Hawk Gym, and may not have beat them by 44 points (as they did in an earlier encounter), but Coach Don Stevens' crew were salty enough to pull out a 79-66 decision and remain undefeated at 7-0.

"We outscored them 28 points from the floor, but they put up 35 free throws to our only 15." Sophomore Tami Edwards led all scorers with 25, while Linda Batla and Letha Strickland, also returners from last year's squad, hit in double figures of 16 and 12, respectively.

"Free throws were what held us back," said Stevens. "We didn't play all that badly," said Stevens. "We made a few mental mistakes and didn't hustle after the loose balls, but we hit 41 per cent from the floor and rebounded them 47-34. I think the confidence is building and they're about to jell."

The Queens will need a bushel of confidence for this weekend's Houston Tournament when they could possibly meet three of the top five teams in the nation.

DALLAS (AP) — The board of directors of the Texas Baseball League voted Tuesday to extend the contract of President Carl Sawatski through the 1980 season.

A 136-game schedule was approved for 1978.

Landry warns of offensive need

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys are in the National Football League playoffs for the 11th time in the past 12 years, but Coach Tom Landry warned Tuesday that his team will not get to the Super Bowl unless the offense improves.

"We haven't been playing good enough offense the last two or three weeks to get into the Super Bowl," said Landry. "The strength of our team is defense."

Landry said Dallas' 14-7 victory over Washington Sunday underlined a sputtering offensive effort.

"We're aware Roger Staubach isn't passing the ball well but there's nothing wrong physically," said Landry. "We're reviewing the situation. Roger could have fallen into some bad habits. We just haven't reached a conclusion. "Poor routes and poor protection could be throwing Roger's timing off. We just don't know. We have a young Jill Floyd and Susan Martin gain led the Fillies with 37 and 33 points respectively. Donna Plagens paced the Bearkitters with 20. Becky Fryar (16) and Carla Parker (8) led the JV girls in point production. Andre Frerich hit eight for GCHS.

Campbell leads AP All-American list

NEW YORK (AP) — Four regular-season ranking, and quarterback Doug Williams from predominantly black Grambling State University.

Williams, the all-time leader in passing yardage and touchdown passes, was the first Grambling player to make the AP's nationally recognized major All America team since this is the small Louisiana school's first season in the NCAA's Division I.

Forsan dominates All-District team

The Forsan Buffaloes, who many consider the best Class B (Division A next season) team in West Texas, completely dominated the District 3-B East Zone All-District selections, capturing 12 of the 28 positions.

State championship beckons for local volleyballers

By DANNY REAGAN
Sports Editor

The 12th annual University Interscholastic League High School Girls' Volleyball Tournament will be held in Austin Friday and Saturday at the Toney Burger Activity Center, 3200 Jones Road, and the Big Spring High School team will be in the thick of the Class AAAA action.

The local ferns will meet

Beaumont French Friday at 8:10 p.m. in the second semifinal match of the Division AAAA playoffs. Scouting reports have been difficult to obtain on the Beaumont club.

Reports are that the Beaumont French team is tall and from a school that is predominantly minority. One local player, Becky Ragan, indicated that Beaumont was not that tall, but looked heightily because they didn't wear knee socks with their tennis shoes.

A height advantage has proved little consolation to Steer opponents so far this season, and with the exception of All-State Rose Magers, the Steers aren't that tall themselves. Desire and a powerful serving game should give the locals an even chance.

Mentally and physically, the girls are ready. According to Coach Nancy Deason, "They're practicing as if it was just another ballgame."

The Steers underwent "real good" practices Tuesday night and this morning, and will practice at home for the last time Thursday from 7:30 a.m. until 9:00 a.m., when a school-wide pep rally will send them on their way to Austin at approximately 10 o'clock.

By coincidence, another Beaumont school is in the state tourney, Deason's alma mater — Beaumont Southport, competing in Class AAA.

If the girls beat Beaumont Friday, they will play the winner of the San Antonio Edison and Killeen matchup at 7:15 p.m. Saturday for that long sought-after state crown.

For those local fans who can't make the tournament, local stations KBST-1490 and KFNE-FM 95 will cover the live play-by-play.

Following is the schedule for the playoffs:

FRIDAY, DEC. 2
9 a.m. Conference A: Brazos (WALLIS ORCHARD) vs. Wink.

10:10 a.m. Conference A: Leon (Jewett) vs. Callisburg (GAINESVILLE).
11:20 a.m. Conference AA: FABENS vs. KOUNTZE.
2 p.m. Conference AA: NEEDVILLE vs. VAN.
3:10 p.m. Conference AAA: South Park (BEAUMONT) vs. Tivy (KERRVILLE).
4:20 p.m. Conference AAA: Castleberry (FORT WORTH) vs. SEMINOLE.
7 p.m. Conference AAAA: Edison (SAN ANTONIO) vs. KILLEEN.
8:10 p.m. Conference AAAA: French (BEAUMONT) vs. BIG SPRING.

SATURDAY, DEC. 3
9 a.m. Conference B: ABBOTT vs. Buena Vista (IMPERIAL).
10:10 a.m. Conference A: Leverett's Chapel (OVERTON) vs. Austwell Tivoli (TIVOLI).
11:20 a.m. Conference A Finals.
2 p.m. Conference AA Finals.
3:15 p.m. Conference AAA Finals.
6 p.m. Conference B Finals.
7:15 p.m. Conference AAAA Finals.

Ticket prices per session will be $2 for adults and $1 for students. The Interscholastic League, which sponsors the tournament, is administered by The University of Texas.

'Super Drum' sweetens

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Lawrence Welk, the Ice Capades and the circus are coming later, but Tuesday night the Texas Longhorns inaugurated the $29 million "Super Drum" with a not-so-super 83-76 basketball victory over Oklahoma.

"It's the best in the West, I guess. I haven't seen any better," Texas Coach Abe Lemons said of the special events center that is the new home for Longhorn basketball.

A crowd of 12,650 — about 4,000 short of capacity — turned out on a cold, misty night to watch Lemons' second Longhorn squad square its season record at 1-1, with returning starters Jim Krivacs and Ron Baxter combining for 43 points.

Cheerleaders, 12 shapely coed dancers known as the "Longhorn Luvs" and what Lemons said "must have been the biggest band ever to attend a basketball game" were added attractions.

"You mean the (Texas) Aggie band goes to their games?" Lemons asked incredulously, after the Longhorn band had filled the court at halftime. "What do they make them do, wear tennis shoes?"

Texas took the lead for Beaumont was not that tall, son's second straight jump shot and led at halftime, 48-36.

John McCullough threw in a jump shot to narrow Texas' margin to 61-58 with 8 minutes remaining in the game, but Krivacs, Baxter, Dotson and John Moore hit seven of eight free throws in just over a minute to seal the victory.

Krivacs scored 22 points and Baxter 21 for Texas.

"We just dug to deep a hole in the first half," said Oklahoma Coach Dave Bliss.

Texas, a 65-64 loser to Southern California in its opener on the road, out-rebounded the Sooners 50-42.

Runnels White rolled up stats

Thanks to the extensive attention that Coach Bobby Zellars and his staff paid to the statistical picture throughout last football season, the Runnels White squad's superior efforts can easily be seen.

Fleet-footed Richard Evans led the White team in rushing with 760 yards on 90 rushes — a 8.4 yard average. The team as a unit carried the ball 190 times for 1,183 yards, a very respectable 6.4 clip.

Grass-burner Bobby Williams led the squad in receiving and scoring. He caught 18 passes for 506 yards (28.0 average) and 10 touchdowns. He ended the season with 70 points. White receivers totaled 27 receptions for 631 yards and a remarkable 23.3 average.

Brian Langdon was the leading punter with nine punts for 295 yards and a 32.7 yard average. Tracy Spence picked off three interceptions and Blake Rosson, Johnny Green and Bobby Williams recovered two fumbles each to lead the defense.

In eight games, Runnels

White only allowed a total of 15 yards of punt returns against them. Throughout the entire season, the squad only allowed an average of 1.13 yards total returns.

The entire statistical chart follows:

Queens prepare for tourney

The Howard College Hawk Queens will be in very fast company this weekend as they participate in the Houston Junior College Women's Basketball Tournament.

Three of the nation's top junior college squads are entered. Panola Junior College of Carthage, Texas, defending National Champions, will be marked as the favorite, considering the fact that they return most of last year's team.

Temple Junior College, finishing third in the nation last year, has their entire team intact from last season, featuring All-American Hattie Browning.

South Plains Junior College of Levelland, the team that finished fifth nationwide last year, also returns a veteran group and has to be considered as one of the favorites to take the title.

The queens, sporting an unblemished 7-0 record, have drawn the Temple powerhouse for a first round opponent. That game is set for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Fonde Recreation Center, 110 Sabine, in Houston.

If the locals should get by Temple, they would in all probability face another tough foe, South Plains, at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. If the Queens drop their first contest, they will play a consolation game at noon Saturday.

In eight games, Runnels

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although you feel some changes of a drastic or dramatic nature that now take place can be difficult for you to take, nevertheless, you have the opportunity to benefit greatly by improved conditions that give you a chance to be creative.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are concerned with economy but not to the point of missing out on a good investment. You are able to have a good time later after handling an annoying problem.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A situation at home seems very difficult now, but later all works out fine and is an opportunity to get ahead faster. Get at the cause of the problems and solve easily.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to get the information you need and be sure to hurdle some obstacle in the path of your progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Budget money wisely. Make that little investment that can lead to a good deal in due course of time. Gain the assistance of a financial bigwig you know.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't allow a personal problem to keep you from going after important business goals. Attend worthwhile social functions.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan wisely so that you can achieve your finest aims easily, precisely. Please mate, loved one more and show that you are thoughtful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use tact with allies and avoid problems with them. Revise entertainment plans if they are to work out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study any civic or practical matters well before you act upon them. Come up with any good ideas you may have. Be particularly careful with your credit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting into new projects may be a little difficult now. Make more contacts that could lead to advancement.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A responsibility seems endless right now, but later you are able to push right through with it. Do whatever will please mate, loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show you will cooperate more with partners and gain their good will, increase harmony and become more successful. Join with others in other activities and be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You find it difficult to concentrate on your work now. Later, you get much done. A fellow worker can be helpful with some backing you need later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young persons whose true personality will not emerge until later in life and will find it difficult to relate to others except by being persistent. If you give praise when deserved, this will be most helpful to your progeny. Build up ego and life will become a most successful and happy one.

'Hillside strangler's' 8th victim found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 18-year-old girl's nude body was found lying along a narrow winding residential road — the eighth young woman in the last month and a half to be strangled and dumped on slopes or at the base of hills in the northern suburbs of Los Angeles.

Police are calling it the case of "the hillside strangler" — but now, because of the latest case, they think more than one strangler may be involved.

On Monday night, a neighbor reported seeing two large men force red-haired Lauren Rae Wagner's car to the side of the street just two doors from her home in the Sepulveda area of the San Fernando Valley, and drag her from it.

Other residents along the steep eucalyptus-lined Cliff Drive said they heard dogs barking persistently between 1 and 2 a.m. Tuesday, but did not recall hearing a car stop or pull away.

Miss Wagner's body was found Tuesday morning by a woman taking a walk with a friend at a bend in the road in the Mt. Washington area, 20 miles from the abduction site.

Police Lt. Dan Cooke said the discoloration around her neck indicated she was probably strangled like the other victims.

Police scheduled an autopsy to find out if she had been raped like the others also.

Initially, police had blamed the recent deaths of four other young women on the "hillside strangler," but police now say those killings were dissimilar from the others.

In Miss Wagner's case, there were several similarities, and Cooke said the investigation had been turned over to a 32-man Hillside Strangler Task Force, made up of Los Angeles and Glendale police, county sheriff's deputies and coroner's staff.

Like the others, Miss Wagner's body had been dumped within a five-mile radius of Glendale. The others, too, were believed to have been abducted, strangled and dumped from a vehicle in remote areas.

But there was at least one dissimilarity.

In the other cases there seemed to be some attempt to hide the body. Miss Wagner's body was lying in full view by the side of the road, near thick brush where she could have been hidden.

the voters need a governor who thinks of everyone — not just the oil and gas industry.

"I think energy is important but our problems in Texas are not technological, they are governmental," Hutchinson said.

Hutchinson said he realized he was backing "awesome personal resources" in both the Republican and Democratic parties.

"But I have never, and I am not now, prepared to accept the proposition that the governorship of Texas is reserved only to those of enormous personal wealth, and I am confident that an overwhelming majority of all Texans agree with my view," he told an Austin news conference.

The Republican victor will meet the survivor of a Democratic primary struggle that so far involves Gov. Dolph Briscoe, seeking an unprecedented 10 years in office, Attorney General John Hill and former Gov. Preston Smith.

Hutchinson running for governor

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Dallas lawyer Ray Hutchinson has made it official that he will seek the Republican nomination for governor paving the way for the way for a rare GOP battle for the state's top executive office.

Hutchinson, a 45-year-old former state representative and one-time chairman of the Texas Republican party, made his announcement Tuesday, first in Dallas, then in the state capitol before going on to Houston and San Antonio.

Wealthy Dallas oilman William Clements has already thrown his hat in the ring for the Republican nod for the governor's office.

Hutchinson said he thinks
