1,100 OSHA regulations

Silly rules on way out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department made good today on its promise to rid employers and workers of nitpicking, outdated and just plain silly job safety rules by moving to dump more than 1,100 regulations.

No longer must toilet seats in businesses be of the open-front type. No more must fire extinguishers be no higher off the floor than 3½ feet in some cases, 5 feet in others.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall noted that thousands of injuries and illnesses are suffered by workers each year, but "to the best of our knowledge none has been caused by the shape of a toilet seat or because a fire extinguisher was two inches too low."

The proposed new rules were made public with no little pride by the department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration, a much-maligned agency in the past.

"Today's announcement marks one of the few times in history a government regulatory agency has decreased its rules rather than adding more," said Eula Bingham, head of OSHA.

Dr. Bingham had vowed last May to cut "the Mickey Mouse" out of OSHA's much-criticized rules. Her office estimates that 62 million workers and 5 million employers are covered by the regulations.

The new version will eliminate a prohibition against putting ice in drinking water — a rule that goes back to 1930, when ice often came from ponds with unpotable water. It will also do away with specifying the gauge of sheet metal in ductwork required for ventilation purposes.

Many of the rules being eliminated are duplicated by those of other agencies. Others are obsolete through technological change. And others simply insult intelligence.

"Tanks may be of any shape or type consistent with sound engineering design," says one provision that will be out.

One requirement dealing with areas containing hazardous chemicals forced employers to keep a daily roster of employees entering regulated areas and to hold on to the lists for 20 years. The rule won't be in the new version.

A special edition of the Federal Register will completely reprint all 250 pages of closely spaced, small type that detail OSHA's general industry standards. Provisions to be revoked will be in black brackets.

Dr. Bingham said that because of the high interest expected, the usual 30-day period for public comment will be expanded to 90 days.

Meanwhile, OSHA's 1,400 inspectors have been told to wink at most, but not all, violations of the rules that are slated to be discarded. The government term for this is "de minimis" enforcement.

Glass foulup will delay opening of HC coliseum

"For want of a nail, the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe, the horse was lost; for want of a horse, the battle was lost and for want of a battle, the war was lost."

Howard College officials were facing a similar situation today in the long-awaited Howard College coliseum.

They had already had one slab of flooring poured too high and had to tear it up and do it over.

This time, all of the shatter-proof glass, required by the federal government, arrived, from the glassmakers for the doors all over the building and did not fit.

"It will all have to be sent back to the factory and Howard College will have to get back in line for its turn for the special glass," according to Dr. Charles Hays, college president.

Dr. Hays said, "Somebody just fouled up and we are helpless in the situation."

Dr. Hays and John Gary, architect, were on the site this morning checking with the contractor on the matter.

It is not known how much this will delay completion, which had been moved back from a hoped-for October date to the contract date in January.

Other problems had made officials believe it would be February and now they may be looking at March.

Did hijackers cause crash of airliner?

JOHORE BHARU, Malaysia (AP) — Investigators are trying to determine whether the hijackers of a Malaysian airliner caused the crash in which all 100 persons aboard died and whether the hijackers were Japanese terrorists.

One witness to the crash Sunday night said the twin-jet Boeing 737 wobbled unsteadily, rose slightly, then started down and exploded. Wreckage, dismembered bodies, clothing and debris were scattered over a square mile of swamp north of the Johore Strait and Singapore.

The Malay Mail newspaper said the eyewitness reports "indicated some kind of tussle between the hijackers and the crew."

"The explosion may have been caused by explosives carried on board by the hijackers, considering the wide area over which the wreckage was strewn," the paper said.

Among the dead were the Cuban ambassador to Malaysia, Mario Garcia, and his wife; two World Bank officials from Washington, O.D. Hoerr and S.S. Naime, and Malaysia's agriculture minister, Ali Haji Ahmad.

Malaysian Airways said about 20 of the 93 passengers were foreigners.

Sources at the Kuala Lumpur airport said the pilot radioed that members of the Japanese Red Army took over the plane. But the airline said it could not confirm this and did not know how many hijackers there were.

They took over the plane about 10 minutes after it left Penang island, off the northwest coast of Malaysia, on a flight to Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital, and Singapore with 93 passengers and a crew of seven, an airline spokesman said.

The plane stopped at Kuala Lumpur, but the hijackers forced the pilot to take off almost immediately for Singapore, the spokesman reported. The explosion occurred shortly after.

About running again in 1978 City incumbents undecided

City officials who face re-election next April are still undecided whether to seek their positions for another term.

The mayor and two councilmen have terms expire in April. As councilman, they have just been through a very difficult period for city officials. They are unsalaried except for token payments and some of them had indicated earlier they were not planning to offer again for office.

The transition of Webb AFB to a city industrial park and airport has taken hours of their volunteer time.

Mayor Wade Choate has made numerous trips in behalf of the city and in attempting to get the contract for Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., in Washington.

He had hoped to avoid running for re-election, but industrial representatives point out that Lockheed officials are particularly interested in his re-election as mayor, having dealt with him from the start of attempts to bring their industry to Big Spring.

Choate has not yet made any type of formal announcement and probably won't until early 1978.

Harold Hall, a city councilman, is active on the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council board of directors. He had indicated earlier that he hoped to give up the time-consuming position.

Hall spends a number of hours serving on the council, more serving on the Steering Committee which handles the airport, and still more attending regional planning meetings.

However, Hall is also faced with the position of being needed by the community at this time.

The planning council has final authority on grant requests needed to fund many of the projects at the airport. They also have authority over determining which city would get things as a M.D. Anderson cancer research center.

If Hall does not seek re-election and vacates his council post, he automatically goes off the regional planning board. The person elected in his place would not necessarily become a member of the board.

All county judges serve on the board, but only two representatives from cities, and they are elected by the board itself. Hall will not make a decision until 1978.

Ralph McLaughlin is the third councilman facing re-election. He has just completed his first term. He has some feelings about continuing more than one term, since the city is so involved in so many projects.

However, McLaughlin said "I have not even thought about it yet — one way or the other. I have so many things going on in my business right now. I'll just make a decision early next year."

Vance plans mideast trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, resuming the U.S. initiative in the Middle East, will visit Arab and Israeli capitals beginning this weekend to assess prospects for a comprehensive peace settlement.

Stops have been set for Egypt, Israel, Lebanon, Jordan and Saudi Arabia with only "technical problems" holding up a visit to Syria as well, according to U.S. officials.

U.S. officials said the Vance mission will seek to measure the chances that a comprehensive settlement could emerge from the Israeli-Egyptian overtures.

Formal announcement of the trip, the third to the region by Vance in less than a year, is expected later at the State Department. Along with it, the administration will emphasize Vance's quest for "new insights" from Middle East leaders on the possibility of moving toward an overall settlement.

"Our commitment to peace requires us to remain involved in the peacemaking process," said one American official here. He added that both Egypt and Israel enthusiastically welcomed the trip.

U.S. officials said details for a stop in Damascus, Syria, could not be worked out until the Syrians return from a conference in Tripoli, Libya where anti-Sadat Arabs met over the weekend.

The American mediating role in the Middle East was scaled down last month by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's dramatic mission to Jerusalem and then his call for preliminary peace talks with Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin in Cairo in mid-December.

The direct overture to the Jewish state has divided the Arab world, and the Carter administration tried to heal the rift by emphasizing its interest in a comprehensive settlement among all nations involved in the conflict. This was intended to ease concern in some Arab capitals that Sadat would reach a separate peace with the Jewish state.

President Carter acknowledged at a news conference last Wednesday that the United States was no longer the "dominant intermediary" in the area. At the same time, he discarded the lukewarm support the United States had given Sadat's plan for a Cairo conference and he gave the plan a warm endorsement.

A DUSTY VANISHING TRICK — Like pulling a rabbit out of a hat, the big horizon of Big Spring appeared (bottom) after Sunday's dust storm. According to Charles Yates of the Experiment Station, the storm (top) was rated a five out of 10 with visibility of a quarter mile and six hours duration. A ten would be visibility of 20 to 30 feet for two or three days. Yates said the probability was "99 per cent against" making up the 2.5 inches of rain required to bring Howard County up to its normal yearly rainfall. Average rainfall for December is 5 inches, leading Yates to prophesy more dust storms likely.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Why not two?

Q: The high school band started collecting newspapers. Why do the State Hospital volunteers think they should do the same?

A: Yes, the band did start collecting newspapers first this year. In one of the previous years, it was a Meistersinger project when they were raising funds to go to Europe. Ways and means of raising funds for organizations are hard to come by and so there is often more than one garage sale, more than one art auction, more than one bake sale and car wash and apparently two newspaper collections.

Offbeat: Looking for wife

LAKEMORE, Ohio (AP) — William "Grandpa" Goddard, who, at age 81, has outlived two wives, is looking for another. And this time he's going south of the border.

"I guess I'll advertise in some Mexican papers for a wife. That way I'll get a better choice," said Goddard of Lakemore.

His daughter, Elinor McCardle, and a waitress at a restaurant he frequents are going to teach him enough Spanish to get along in Mexico. What's the age limit for a potential bride?

"Well, let's say 18 to 80," he said. "... you better make that 21 instead of 18. I don't want people to think I'd rob the cradle. I don't want to leave anybody out."

"The only thing is the older they are, the richer they have to be."

PROPELLER-Y DONE, FELLAS! — Workmen gather round the gigantic propeller of the Queen Elizabeth 2 as she sits in a dry dock at the Bethlehem Steel shipyards in Bayonne, N.J. Sunday. The queen of the seas is expected to remain dry for 17 days during which she will receive her annual facelifting and overhaul — all for a cool $5 million.

Veteran envoy dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — David K. E. Bruce, a veteran American diplomat who served in a variety of posts including mainland China, died of a heart attack Monday at Georgetown University Medical Center. He was 79.

The center issued a statement saying that Bruce was admitted to the hospital's coronary care unit at 10 p.m. EST Sunday and died at 2:10 a.m. Monday.

Bruce had a long list of diplomatic credentials as he served under six presidents — from Harry S. Truman to Gerald R. Ford. In what amounted to a diplomatic grand slam, Bruce was the only American ever to serve as ambassador to Germany, France and Great Britain.

Then-President Richard M. Nixon tapped him as the first head of the U.S. liaison office in Peking after relations between the United States and mainland China warmed in 1973.

Bruce's previous Asian experience included an 18-month assignment as chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks at Paris beginning in 1969, a job that brought him out of retirement.

Bruce retired again on Aug. 1, 1971, for reasons of health, he said, but the China assignment returned him once again to the diplomatic ranks.

Singer's body found

BURNET, Texas (AP) — The body of country and western singer Jimmy Heap, 55, was recovered Sunday from Lake Buchanan, northwest of Austin.

The search continued today for his boating companion, B.H. Hamilton, 62.

The two men, both from Taylor, were reported missing Saturday after a witness reported seeing their boat capsized.

Court OKs delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court's order striking down as unconstitutional the way Tarrant County, Texas, elects its state legislators was set aside temporarily by the Supreme Court today.

The justices granted a request by Texas officials that the ruling of a three-judge federal court be held in abeyance until the Supreme Court considers a formal appeal.

The Texas attorney general's office told the court that if the lower court's ruling were allowed to stand it "would precipitate a wholesale overhaul of voting precincts in Tarrant County." Such an overhaul would not only affect state legislative elections, but municipal and school board elections as well, state lawyers said.

Tarrant County includes the cities of Fort Worth and Arlington, and has a population of more than 700,000.

Coal strike unavoidable

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller said today there is no chance of avoiding a nationwide coal strike set to begin at midnight tonight.

Asked what the chances were for a strike, Miller said, "There'll be one."

Miller said the status of the union's talks with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association were "not too good."

More than 2,200 miners were reported off their jobs late last week in Ohio and West Virginia in apparent anticipation of a national walkout, which would be the 10th for the UMW in 40 years.

Miller was interviewed as he arrived for today's bargaining session. Today is the final work day of the expiring contract.

At the end of Sunday's bargaining session, Wayne L. Horvitz, the chief federal mediator said: "We've got some hard problems. We're working on them. That's the nature of this process."

Police beat Vandals busy

Criminal mischief makers remained busy through the weekend, destroying windows in cars and residences.

Gary O'Neal, 8000 Village Oak, No. 5, reported vandals destroyed one of the rear windows at his residence sometime between Friday at 5:30 p.m. and Saturday at 10:30 a.m. Police believe rocks were used to break the window.

There are no windows left in a car belonging to Sylvia Conwell, 1406 Robin, after sharpshooters shot them out with a pellet gun.

According to reports the car was parked in the City Park Sunday afternoon when the shooting occurred.

Vandals threw rocks through one of the glass windows in the rear door of Wilson Auto Electric, 408 E. 3rd, at about 11:20 p.m. Sunday.

Value of the window was estimated at $20.

Someone threw rocks through the rear window of a car belonging to Mrs. Robert Phillips, 311 Edwards, sometime between Saturday at 7 p.m. and Sunday at 5:30 a.m.

Replacement estimates come near to $200.

Someone damaged the vinyl top of a car belonging to Ronnie Hanson, 538 Westover, when he threw a rock at one of the windows.

An unknown party slashed a tire on a car belonging to Dale Pittman, 1802 Hearn, while it was parked at Long John Silver's on South Gregg.

A short change artist was able to cheat a clerk at the Seven-Eleven on Highway 80 out of $20 late Sunday afternoon.

According to reports, the man who performed the caper wanted to purchase an inexpensive item, and produced a 50 dollar bill to pay for it.

When the clerk had given him two twenty dollar bills in change she turned around, and while she was not looking the man slipped one of the bills into his pocket. When she turned around again, he informed her she still owed him $20.

Police were alerted to the shortchange by a boy who witnessed the whole thing.

Burglars entered Faye's Lounge through the rear door Sunday between 1 a.m. and 3:39 a.m.

According to reports, the only thing missing at this time is $20 which had been placed in a cup behind the bar.

An assault, resulting from a domestic quarrel, sent Bernadette Littlecook to an Odessa Hospital at about 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

According to reports, the assault occurred at 3rd and Aylford in the street. Ms. Littlecook stated she would press charges against the man who hit her.

Jesse Perez and Bobby Perez, both of 201 NE 6th, reported to police that they were assaulted by a gang of juveniles at NE 9th and Runnels early in the afternoon Sunday.

According to reports, both boys had wounds resulting from thrown rocks and were bruised. Jesse Perez received a knife wound on one of his fingers by one of the assailants.

Burglars used a sledge hammer to knock through the cinder block wall of Fox' Pawn Shop, 911 W. 4th, at about 8:15 p.m. Sunday.

The burglars were scared off before they could enter the store, and I.D. officers took pictures and finger prints at the scene.

A man was arrested at the Blue Moon Lounge, 4th and Abrams, after firing a couple of shots from a .22 caliber pistol while sitting in the bar.

According to reports, he also took a pot shot at a man standing outside the bar, before police arrested him.

Value of the bikes is estimated at $200.

LIKE A SHERMAN TANK — During World War II, the phrase "built like a Sherman tank" came into existence. This not only is built like a Sherman, it is a Sherman "47" and it came through Big Spring Sunday on a 42-wheel rig headed for Indian Springs, Nevada where it is to serve as a target. It was being transported from Texas by J.H. Rose Trucking of Houston on a 107 foot-long rig. Robert Freitag of Odessa and John Stanley of Houston were drivers for this 156,000 pound load. One of the drivers, and Randy Lewis of Big Spring, are looking over the World War II relic.

Energy Langdon blasts energy program

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Texas Railroad Commissioner Jim C. Langdon told the Interstate Oil Compact Commission today that President Carter's energy program not only will hurt energy producing states "but would alter the social, economic and political structure of the nation."

Little hope left for unborn child

NEW YORK (AP) — A comatose pregnant woman has developed pneumonia and internal bleeding, and doctors held little hope that she could be kept alive to give her 5-month-old fetus a chance to be born.

Dr. Thomas LaBarbera, director of the critical care unit at Victory Memorial Hospital, described the condition of Rosemarie Maniscalco, 27, on Sunday as "poor, very poor."

"According to statistics, it has been practically impossible to sustain life in a person in her degree of coma," LaBarbera said.

Mrs. Maniscalco collapsed into a coma Nov. 23 after suffering severe bleeding in her brain, the pressure of which choked off blood flow to the interior of the brain.

At her family's request, she is being kept on several

Naturalization requests increase during January

District Director William J. Chambers of the Immigration Service stated that the alien address report program usually causes a sharp rise in the number of applications for naturalizations.

The law requires all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions, to report their addresses each January. Throughout the United States, almost 30 per cent more applications for naturalizations are received during the month. Chambers attributes this sudden rise to the Alien Address Report program.

Fresh items lead food bill

By the Associated Press
Americans still spend the biggest chunk of their food dollars for fresh, unprocessed items, despite the increasing availability of convenience foods.

That's one of the findings of a U.S. Department of Agriculture study based on surveys conducted by Supermarketing, a trade publication, in 1965 and 1975. The USDA looked at what happens to every $100 you spend on food. Here's how the 1975 breakdown worked out:

—Fresh, unprocessed foods (milk, cream, meat, poultry, seafood, nuts, eggs, vegetables and fruit): $45.75.
—Mixes and mixtures, described as ready-to-eat or ready-to-heat: $69.98.
—Foods like bacon, macaroni products and oils that are cured, frozen, canned, dried or only slightly refined: $17.31.

Items that lost ground over the decade included condensed milk, lard, fresh cream, butter, evaporated milk, cornmeal, dry beans and peas, ready-to-eat sweet bakery goods, eggs, fresh potatoes, canned pork and beans, flour and ice cream.

—Modified products with sugar or some other minor ingredient added: $9.27.
—Accessories like coffee, tea, cocoa, soft drinks and condiments: $7.69.

When the figures were compared with 1965 statistics, the USDA found that the percentage of money spent on the first three categories — fresh foods, mixes and mixtures and frozen, canned, cured, etc. products — had decreased slightly over the decade. Spending for accessories increased slightly.

The big increase came in the category of items like frankfurters, peanut butter and process cheese which are described by the government as "modified." The share of the food dollar taken by these items increased 11 percent from 1965 to 1975.

A look at individual items within the five categories showed some sharp changes. The amount of the food dollar going to presweetened cocoa increased 120 percent from 1965 to 1975; the share taken by process cheese — a blend that may include some noncheese flavorings — went up 113 percent in the same period.

Other items that took a bigger share of the food dollar in 1975 than they did 10 years earlier included oils, sugar, margarine, ready-to-eat cereal, natural cheese, dry milk, salad dresses, frozen dinners, entrees, soups and juices; rice, potato chips and fresh vegetables (not counting potatoes).

Less than half of the food dollar actually goes for food. Most of your dollar goes to cover marketing costs — transportation, processing and distribution. A study by Andrew Weiser of the USDA's economic research service that consumers spent $172.3 billion to U.S. farm-produced foods in 1976. This includes foods purchased for use at home and those bought away from home. It does not include imports like coffee or non-farm items like seafood.

Sixty-seven percent of the total — $116 billion — went for marketing costs; 33 percent — $56.3 billion — went to farmers.

Ohio schools in trouble

CINCINNATI (AP) — As unpaid Cleveland teachers boycott classes, and Toledo schools face another closing and possible teacher walkout, a lawsuit that could shut public schools throughout Ohio is nearing an end.

Final arguments were scheduled today in the year-long trial on the constitutionality of Ohio's method of school financing, which the Cincinnati school board says discriminates against urban districts.

If the judge grants an injunction sought by the 60,400-student Cincinnati district to stop the state's current school financing system, most school districts in Ohio could face closings as the Legislature considered alternate financing methods, lawyers said.

Meanwhile, attorneys for the Toledo school board planned to ask the Ohio Supreme Court today if the district's Nov. 8 ballot on a property tax increase proposal contained legally faulty wording.

Toledo schools were closed seven days this fall for lack of money before voters approved a 6.1-mill tax increase that provided emergency funds to reopen the 55,000-pupil district. If there was legally incorrect wording, schools could close again.

In Cleveland, U.S. District Judge Frank J. Battisti scheduled a hearing Wednesday on a legal tangle that has forced Cleveland schools to keep operating although there is no money to pay teachers.

The unpaid teachers continued a classroom boycott that has thrown the 113,000-pupil system into turmoil.

The Toledo board also had similar problems because of a Common Pleas Court restraining order that prohibits 1977 tax revenues from being spent on daily operations until $9 million in outstanding bank notes are paid. Four Toledo banks obtained the order Friday.

With the order threatening to delay their paychecks, Toledo teachers were considering today whether to boycott their classrooms.

The Cincinnati lawsuit contends the state's year-old school financing system discriminates against urban districts and results in wide differences in the amount of money schools can spend per pupil.

The formula makes state funds contingent upon the ability of local districts to pass tax levies.

The Cincinnati board argues there is a gross disparity in per-pupil funding among systems because of varying local tax bases and the willingness of property owners to approve tax levies.

BRITISH TROOPS ARRIVE FOR DUTY — A British trooper from a company of the Royal Regiment of Wales checks over gear of his company after the unit landed at the United States Naval Station in Bermuda Sunday. A number of British troops were flown in Sunday to help restore calm to the tense island following three nights of rioting and firebombings.

Bermuda quiet after troops arrive

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — British troops armed with rifles and machine guns deployed in Bermuda today for the first time in nearly 10 years, but rioting to protest the execution of two blacks for political murders already had ended.

British commanders said 260 troops had been brought in from bases in Belize, in Central America, and England to back up the 900 men of the local police force and the Bermuda Regiment.

The British island colony was calm all day Sunday, and only three fire bombs exploded Sunday night, in a truck and a vacant house in Hamilton and at a reform school 12 miles outside the city. No casualties were reported.

"I think the steam has gone out of it," said Police Inspector Allan Lister. A dusk-to-dawn curfew remained in effect.

Black youths rioted and hurled fire bombs Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights to protest the hanging of two black terrorists convicted of murdering the British governor and his aide, and the British police chief and two white supermarket owners in 1972-73. It was Bermuda's first executions in 31 years.

The rioters were estimated to have done $5 million worth of damage, but no serious injuries have been reported. Three persons, including two Americans, died in a fire at the Southampton Princess Hotel Thursday night during the first riot, but the rioting and the hotel were seven miles apart, and officials said they had been unable to determine yet whether there was any connection.

Lois Brown Evans, leader of the predominantly black opposition Labor party, charged at a news conference that Prime Minister David Gibbons and Governor Sir Peter Ramsbotham overreacted by calling in the British troops and that their presence would create more

There also was resentment among some black soldiers of the Bermuda Regiment.

Hamilton's downtown streets were virtually deserted Sunday although some tourists were out with cameras and tennis rackets. Many of the 3,000 tourists were cutting their holidays short because of the inconvenience of being confined to their hotels at dusk.

Many restaurants and shops were closing hours before the curfew.

The government still refused to identify the two Americans killed in the hotel fire. But Peter Baur of Philadelphia, Pa., said officials had notified his family that one of them was his granduncle, George B. Gandy, 61, of Ambler, Pa., and the other was believed to be his grandmother, Dorothy Jean Joyce, 71.

Human Resources Dept.

AUSTIN — James B. Harvey of Austin has been selected as administrator of the Texas Department of Human Resources' West Texas region headquartered in El Paso.

His appointment was announced today by State Human Resources Commissioner Jerome Chapman.

Harvey, 44, succeeds Mrs. Hazel Baylor, who was promoted November 1 to a new position as associate commissioner for policy matters in the department's state office in Austin.

A native of Sabinal in Uvalde County, Harvey is a former public welfare regional administrator. For the past several years he has been special assistant to the director of the State Program on Drug Abuse administered by the Texas Department of Community Affairs.

As one of 10 regional administrators in the state, he will be responsible for all programs and functions of the Human Resources Department within his region.

The department administers 28 programs touching the lives of one out of every six Texans, from infancy to old age. It provides financial and medical assistance to approximately 1.5 million needy people each month, and social services to another half-million people.

Harvey will be responsible for the delivery of all of these services in 23 counties. The region extends from El Paso to Glasscock County on the east, and from the Big Bend northward to Gaines, Dawson and Borden Counties.

Harvey began his career in 1959 as a child welfare caseworker for the agency (then the Department of Public Welfare) in Wharton. He held numerous positions with progressively increasing responsibilities, the last two as administrator of the Austin-Waco area and as chief of social service in the state headquarters. He has a Master of Social Work degree from the University of Texas at Austin.

Rodeo Queen says sport may become 'expensive hobby'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The new Miss Rodeo America is a 20-year-old senior at the University of Southern Colorado who says rodeo is in danger of becoming an "expensive hobby" instead of a profession.

Miss Rodeo Colorado, Almbeth Carroll of Pueblo, Colo., was chosen Miss Rodeo America here Sunday night in a pageant held in conjunction with the National Finals Rodeo.

Miss Carroll was chosen from a field of 52 contestants representing the United States and two Canadian provinces.

The 5-foot-9 brunette had earlier been judged winner of horsemanship and personality categories of the competition.

She is studying recreational therapy at the Pueblo college and plans to work in that area after graduation.

She lists hobbies of goat-tying and officiating at high school basketball games. Miss Carroll is one of three women in Colorado who are certified basketball officials.

The new Miss Rodeo America grew up on the rodeo circuit, watching her father, who was a calf roper, and seeing some failings among rodeo committees.

MISS RODEO AMERICA — Miss Rodeo Colorado, Almbeth Carroll of Pueblo was named Miss Rodeo America in ceremonies held in conjunction with the National Finals Rodeo here Sunday night.

As I grew up, and I want to see the same for rodeo families of today," she added, "But without increased prize money, this is impossible, rodeo will become an expensive hobby instead of a profession."

Runnersup in the week-long pageant were, first runnerup, Miss Iowa, Shelly Renee Burmeister, of Des Moines; second runnerup, Miss California, Sara Hickey, of Exeter; third runnerup, Miss Utah, Diane Hamilton, of Tooele; and fourth runnerup, Miss Hawaii, Dayna Leigh English, of Mililan.

The Miss Rodeo America contestants were chosen on the basis of horsemanship, personality and appearance.

Final judging in the field of horsemanship was held for the 10 semifinalists chosen late Sunday.

Winners chosen earlier Sunday were Julie Day, Trenton, Tenn., as Miss Congeniality and Miss Hickey in the personal appearance category.

The semifinalists, in addition to the winner and four runnersup, were Miss Indiana, Jean Troyan, Greencastle, Ind.; Miss Texas, Shelly Renee Burmeister, Fort Worth, Texas; Miss Kansas, Kathy Kaufman, Derby, Kan.; Miss Nebraska, Vicki Lynne Kennedy, Juniata, Neb. and Miss Oklahoma, Rhonda Gayle Steenbergen, El Reno, Okla.

Temperature readings reached into the 80s and 90s in portions of North and South Texas Sunday. It reached 92 at Alice, 88 at Corpus Christi and 83 at Dallas.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s in the Panhandle and portions of North Central Texas to the 40s and 50s over most of the remainder of the state.

Cotton farming is a lonely game

The Big Spring area cotton farmer is facing the same old dilemma which "crops" up, so to speak, rather frequently.

He has on his hands a bountiful harvest, much more than he had expected earlier in the year.

But the price is not good. So he confronts the question: To sell or not to sell?

He can go ahead and sell his cotton at from 42 to 44 cents a pound. This will make a little money for him, but not much.

FARMER AND businessman John Hale describes it this way: With paid-for equipment, he can make money and keep going, but at those prices, he couldn't replace anything.

"I could keep going until everything wears out," he says.

JOHN HALE

THE COTTON market is significantly off from last year when the yield was good and the price was between 55 to 75 cents. It was one of those rare years when both price and bounty were good.

Not so now. A reported slack demand in the textile industry along with a large carryover of bales from last year has depressed prices to only 1½ cents above the government loan price.

This leaves individual farmers with many questions to answer. And each farmer, individualists every one, makes up his own mind.

Should he sell his cotton now and take what thin margin he can get? Or should he put it in loan and gamble that the price will improve?

Will the fact that the government loan time frame has been extended to 18 months mean that the price will stay at that level for that long?

Will the new Russian demand for wheat result in some marginal cotton areas turning back to grain in the next year, and thus improve the cotton fiber market?

HALE, WHOSE cotton yield was nearly a bale an acre, took both stances. He has sold half and will take a chance on market improvement with the other half.

But he was not optimistic for immediate price improvement. In 35 years, he says that the government price has basically determined the market price in all but two or three years.

Howard County Agent Bruce Griffith was quoted last week as saying that many of the farmers in this area were putting their cotton into government loan to bet on a stronger price next year.

Who knows? Only time will tell which course is best for cotton farmers.

And before the verdict is in, each farmer will have been forced to make his own decision.

Lost prose

Around the rim

Danny Reagan

The worst thing I can possibly do is put something away in a certain place so that I will be sure to remember where it is later when I need it. It summarily disappears and is never seen or heard from again.

There's probably a spot in our apartment, behind a book, on top of a shelf or right in front of my nose that is hiding a small fortune in tickets, mislaid bills, spare car keys and old pets.

THAT'S WHAT HAPPENED to this week's rim. It was about the care and feeding of the peacock eel and its role in the shaping of American History. Since I was going to Austin for the volleyball tournament, I knew I wouldn't have time (or the inclination) to write a rim when I got back.

So I wrote the eel rim and put it on my desk at home where it was immediately swallowed in the "Cutoffs Rhomboid Triangle," an area 24x30x28 inches where rims, notes, buses, ships and planes are lost forever.

Therefore, since the Dallas Cowboy game is only minutes away, I think I better throw this thing into automatic and whip out two pages of something so that this corner won't be just white space (it'd be a definite improvement — Ed.)

taken from the book of "Extreme Haste"

— Coke is made by roasting soft coal in special ovens. Pepsis are also made something like this.

— Hu...uh...

Well, that didn't last very long. I better rip something off.

According to the Knight-Ridder News Service, the inscription on the metal bands used by the U.S. Department of the Interior to tag migratory birds has been changed.

THE BANDS USED the bear the address of the Washington Biological Survey, abbreviated Wash. Biol. Surv., until the agency received the following letter from an Arkansas farmer:

"Dear Sirs: I shot one of your crows the other day. My wife followed the cooking instructions on the leg tag and I want to tell you it was horrible."

— A new law in the Philippines orders all Filipinos over the age of 10 to plant one tree a month or be fined and stripped of various rights and privileges. If this law remains in effect for one year, it will result in the planting of more than a quarter of a billion trees in a nation that is largely rain forest.

— Last May, hundreds of thousands of protesters in Peking, China, took to the streets in massive demonstrations against the housefly.

— The government of Tanzania has issued a statement denying that vampires are being used to supply the national blood bank.

Shall I go?

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Thus far, unlike Walter Cronkite, Eric Sevareid, Barbara Walters, and Jimmy Carter, I have not participated in the recent events in the Middle East. However, I am a member of a Hawaiian organization called The Pearl Harbor Committee to Keep One's Eyes on the Russian Fleet, and therefore, ex officio, I must get into the act.

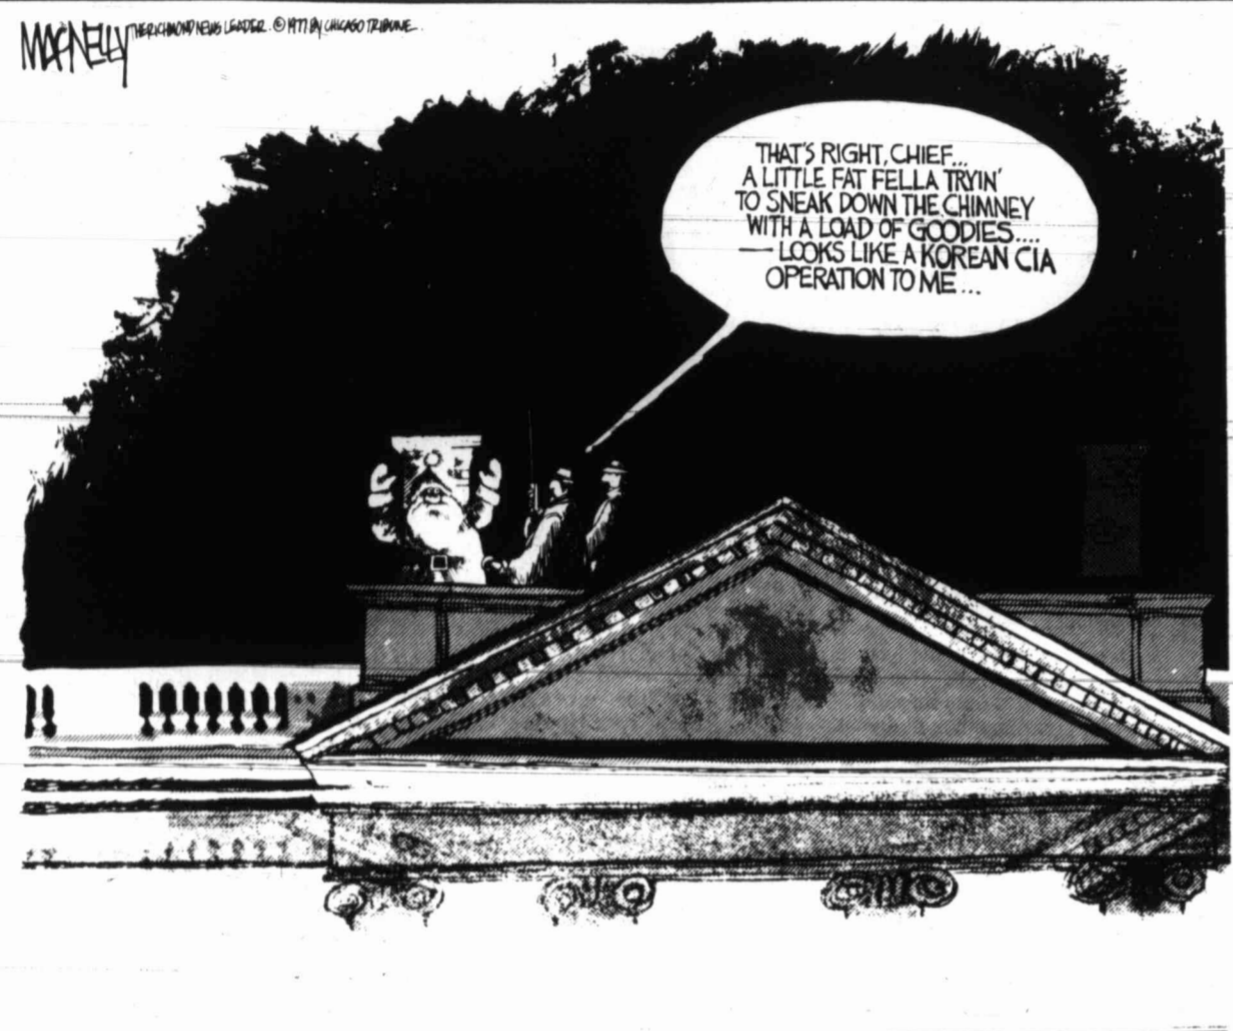

All along, the Soviet role in the Mideast imbroglio has been ambiguous. When the initiative was taken by Mr. Kissinger to bring the contending parties to Geneva, Moscow was brought in as co-sponsor of the Geneva conference. This was thought, to begin with, to be in the spirit of detente. But there was a certain geopolitical realism there also: nothing is truly stable in this world unless the Soviet Union agrees that it should be stable.

BUT THE history of the Soviet Union in the Israel-Arab conflict has been one of unremitting partisanship. It provided, virtually free of cost in the early years, tens of millions of dollars of military hardware to the anti-Israel nations. Under Nasser, serious efforts were made to bolshevize the entire Egyptian situation. Sadat kicked out the Russians in 1972, an extremely important development in the political history of the Mideast. But in Iraq, and in Syria, the Soviet paramilitary continued hard at work to increase tensions, assert the wildest claims of the Arabs, proving yet again that the Soviet Union has a vested interest in chaos.

Concerning the meeting in Cairo called by Sadat, both the United States and Russia were caught unawares. The United States is having a very difficult time in making up its mind exactly how to fine tune its reaction to the Cairo-Tel Aviv developments, because on the one hand we do not wish to appear to throw cold water on an initiative merely because it was not of our own making, and also because no one can say for sure whether, after the amenities are performed in Cairo, the parties may not end in shouting at one another, slamming doors, and oiling the tanks. At this moment, Sadat is on record as demanding the return of all the territory taken in the 1967 war. But who seriously believes that the Israelis are prepared to give up those parts of Jerusalem occupied after that war?

The Soviet Union, meanwhile, has the easier time of it because it can always fall back on ideological reiterations. In this case, to suggest that there is something in it all of a bourgeois conspiracy. And so when Foreign Minister Gromyko on November 29 entertained Foreign Minister Khaddam of Syria, he spoke disparagingly about the Cairo conference, remarking that it was aimed at "exploding" the proposed Geneva conference.

Gromyko then went on with a little Communist boilerplate, with an interesting improvisation. He said, "The imperialist circles of the West are depicting as a courageous step the laying of a wreath at the grave of the unknown Israeli soldier in Jerusalem. But that soldier occupied the soil of Syria, Egypt, Jordan and Palestine. He killed Syrians, Egyptians, Jordanians and Palestinians. It is amazing that this can be described as 'courage'."

Odds are breast cysts not cancerous

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have fibrocystic dysplasia. What causes it? What is the latest treatment? How often should a mammogram be done if you have it? I am 31. — Mrs. S.W.

It's probably the word "dysplasia" that's throwing you off. It means abnormal development. In your case it is formation of fibrous cysts. These are abnormal spaces in tissue which become surrounded by fibrous cells and fill with fluid. This is what "fibrocystic" refers to. Because the breast tissue abounds in secreting glands, it is often subject to this problem.

About one woman in 20 will have them, usually between the ages of 20 and 50. Many detect the lumps themselves, especially prior to menstruation when the glands become active and the breasts engorge. They may "disappear" for the rest of the month.

Doctors have to treat any lump with suspicion. Some like to remove the first one found to satisfy themselves that it is benign. About 80 per cent are. Others are satisfied to draw out some of the fluid for examination. This is a painless procedure that can be done in the doctor's office. An isolated lump that recurs can be removed surgically, and this can be done if it causes pain. The problem usually ends after menopause, when the woman's estrogen production tapers off. The appearance and disappearance of the lumps is related to the normal ebb and flow of estrogen production during the monthly cycles. Some doctors have found that high doses of vitamin B help the liver reduce the effects of estrogen and thus cyst formation.

Mammography is a helpful tool in detection of breast malignancies, but the trend today is to use it less often for women under 40, avoiding needless X-ray exposure. Current thinking is that fibrocystic disease does not forebode cancer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I plan a football career. So many careers are cut short due to knee injury I would like to know of any exercises that would strengthen the entire knee area. I'm hoping to avoid danger to the ligaments and cartilage. — M.O.

The knee is the largest joint in the body, also the one most exposed to injury. That's chiefly because it is not constructed for lateral (sideways) movement.

Strengthening of the knee joint for vigorous use requires strengthening of all of the leg muscles. Bicycling is a good exercise. However, it's not that simple. The entire leg, from the hip to the ankle, has to be in top shape to withstand the pressures involved in football. A strong ankle or thigh can often prevent severe twisting of the knee joint.

Watch a professional football team work out, especially in the early weeks of training camp. You can believe that most of those leg exercises are aimed at one goal — preventing that bane of the professional athlete, the dislocated knee.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A few weeks ago you discussed regional or terminal ileitis. It was clear as far as you went, but I have a couple of other questions.

How does it affect the bowel action (diarrhea or constipation)? How is it diagnosed?

I have an unpredictable bowel, with thin, watery stool, and it's very erratic as to timing and control. — E.E.B.

Terminal ileitis, as I pointed out, is inflammation of a section of the small intestine (the last portion). It usually causes loose stool and abdominal pain. Diagnosis is made by X-ray of the bowel, stool studies (for parasites) and blood tests. Proctoscopic examinations also help. The unpredictability of your bowel movements suggests the possibility, but only tests can confirm it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will a physically active person have a lesser chance of having high blood pressure than one who isn't so active? — G.J.

Studies indicate this. For example, one study in England showed that mailmen have less hypertension than bus drivers. But many other factors are involved — weight, mental, mental stress, etc. — so no general rule can be made.

To find out what causes high blood pressure and what can be done to treat it, send for a copy of "Controlling Your Blood Pressure (Hypertension)" by Dr. Thosteson. Write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: While on a visit to the Holy Land, I saw Golgotha where the Lord was crucified, and on the side of the hill was a tomb. There is some controversy as to whether this is the tomb where Christ was buried. Can you please clarify this for me? — M.S.R.

DEAR M.S.R.: We cannot be certain where Jesus was buried. The closest we can get to a description of the tomb is from John 19:41. "Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid." This at least tells us that the tomb was situated in a garden.

The place that most people prefer to regard as the site of the tomb is known as the Garden Tomb and is situated outside the wall of the Old City of Jerusalem. While this may not be the exact tomb, the setting seems right and it was very likely a tomb of this kind in which Jesus was buried. There are those who think that this particular burying place dates from the late first or early second century A.D., but it is worth visiting to obtain a good idea of what the tomb was like. It also provides a suitable setting in which to stand and picture what that resurrection morning must have been like.

Other pilgrims visit the Church of the Holy Sepulchre that was built by Constantine in 326 over what was believed then to have been Christ's tomb. A well worn flight of steps leads down to a grotto where a 6-foot-long tomb is hewn out of the rock. The richly decorated church over the site rather takes away from what must have been a simple structure, and the quiet atmosphere of the Garden Tomb is much more in keeping with what most visitors want to find.

It is interesting to visit these sites, but, of course, the importance lies not in the exact location of the tomb but rather in the glory of what took place in the life, death and resurrection of Jesus, the Saviour of the world.

Dear Editor: Cal Calnan has written other articles with real wisdom in them, but I felt like giving him a more personal "hand" by way of this note for the one in the Sunday, Nov. 27, edition.

I appreciate the work about needing to encourage people to "hang in there" with marriage. Some counselors I have become aware of consider that to be one of several equally important options.

I think the Lord would have us work for every way possible first to keep the family, or make our family, a growing experience.

Dear Editor: Jim Lancaster, owner of Big Spring Cable TV, should reassess his decision about home theater in Big Spring.

Abilene, Midland, Odessa, San Angelo and Lubbock all participate. As usual, Big Spring is delegated to a third-class level. We need entertainment, too. Television in Big Spring is a wasteland.

Dear Editor: These are the days of nostalgia. I suffer with it as much as anyone. So — if the Big Spring High School class of 1931 ever has a reunion, I would appreciate it if someone would notify me. Possibly, if you print this letter, someone will.

In the meantime, maybe, if any of my old classmates remember me, they might drop me a line and tell me what's been going on with the old gang of too many years ago. My parents moved away in 1935 and the only ones I've even heard anything about since then were Randall Howie and Cecil Neel.

But I still remember others. Like Ruth Earley. And Fannie Sue Read. And Bill Henley and Orbin Daily and Lucille Rix and Irene Shockley and the Morgan brothers.

Since I had transferred to Big Spring from New Mexico, and not being able to fit in all the Texas required subjects in the two years that I was there, I had to go an extra half year in order to take Texas History. So I was actually allowed to participate in the graduation exercises of 1930 but didn't actually graduate until January 1931. So I may not have all the names above in the correct year.

But, regardless of class year, there are others I would like to hear from or about. Like Limpie Mae Cotton. And Carter Whitaker. And Emma Louise Freeman. And Elvis McCrary and Melba Cauble and Polly Webb and Mary Alice Wilke.

Funny, the more you remember the more you remember. But that's enough for this time. If there is a reunion, Class of '30 or '31, I hope some will let me know. I live close enough now to attend.

Age Not Always Bar To Having Children

DEAR ABBY: FACING FACTS, a newly wed couple, asked if you thought it would be fair to have children at their ages. (She was 30 and he was 50.)

Well, believe it or not, when we married, my husband was a 68-year-old college professor, and I was 20!

We've been happily married for 10 years and are the parents of two beautiful, healthy, intelligent daughters, now 5 and 9.

Maybe we belong in the Guinness Book of World Records, but we still feel very much blessed in spite of the 48-year age difference between us.

HAPPY IN MASON CITY, IA.

DEAR HAPPY: Congratulations. Read on for another case that may also belong in the Guinness Book of World Records:

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told that couple who hesitated to have children because of their ages to go ahead.

When I was 18 I married a wonderful woman who was then 36 but looked like sweet 16. She had had six children by two previous husbands.

We've been married for eight years, and are now the proud parents of one dozen children—all healthy, thank God.

No names, please. The people in our little town call us "the crazy couple with all the kids."

P.S. We've never been on welfare, and I'd like to add that our family is complete now because, after our 12th, I had a vasectomy.

LOVES CHILDREN

DEAR ABBY: I must disagree with the advice you gave that newly married couple who asked if they should have any children. (He was 50 and in good health, and she was 30.)

True they may have everything it takes to be wonderful parents, but no matter how physically fit the man is, there's little chance that he'll be alive and spry at 70.

I'm 24 and when I was born my mother was 37. At all the school functions (especially in grade school) people would ask me why my "grandmother" was there instead of my mother.

I was chided all through school, and you know how cruel children can be without meaning to be.

REMEMBERS WELL

DEAR REMEMBERS: The average life expectancy of a man today is about 70, and I repeat, the number of years a man has lived isn't as important as the condition of his health.

Some men in their 50s and 60s are better qualified for fatherhood than other men who are 30 years younger.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a little tip for DOG TIRED, whose neighbor's dog barks at night and disturbs the whole neighborhood: Place the dog owner's telephone number in large letters beside your telephone. Every time the dog barks at night (and the later the better) ring up the owner. It works wonders.

NO LONGER DOG TIRED

DEAR NO: What if the dog owner has an unlisted number? Or takes the telephone off the hook after the first ring?

DEAR ABBY: I admire parents who take an interest in their children's school work, but we have a situation in our school that I think needs looking into.

There is a family whose parents are well-educated and very smart, so if one of their children has to write a theme or give a speech, his parents "help" him with it to the extent of doing the whole thing.

I happen to know this is so because my son pals with their son, who won a speech contest by giving an "original" speech, which his father wrote for him. I think this is unfair to the other children who go by the rules.

I wish you would mention this in your column. Maybe the guilty parents will see it and take the hint.

FURIOUS

DEAR FURIOUS: Not only is it unfair to the other children, it is unfair to their own child. The real "prize" is in the learning—not in the winning.

She's fed up with women's lib

Former resident takes stand, leaves mark on Washington

By EILEEN MCGUIRE

"I am fed up with (women) making a business out of being liberated," Nellie J. Gray, Washington lawyer and lobbyist recently said in an interview for the Houston Chronicle.

Nellie is from Big Spring. She's an independent thinker and doer, has led a life marked with unconventionalism and she did it without women's lib.

After serving a stretch in the army during World War II, Nellie earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from Denton's Texas State College for Women (now Texas Women's University). In the late 1940's she studied for her master's in economics and in 1956, entered law school, taking classes at night while working for the Labor Department during the day.

In 1959, she was admitted to the bar. Nellie was her own person long before the modern women's lib movement hit America. And yet, according to the article, she cringes when people refer to her as a liberated woman.

"Women could do these things all along," she told the reporter. "If you wanted to go to law school, you did it."

Living off of her retirement, Nellie's full-time job now is lobbying. In opposition to the National Women's Conference, Nellie recently helped organize the International Women's Year Citizens Review Committee and also attended the Pro-Family Coalition in Houston.

In an article dealing with the division of women over the Equal Rights Amendment, Nellie's picture appeared as one of the leaders in the Nov. 28 issue of U.S. News and World Report.

According to the article, the number of women in favor of passage of the ERA is declining. It is not the movement toward self-sufficiency for women that is losing popularity, only the amendment.

"Polls indicate that the public, by about 2 to 1, supports women's efforts to improve their role in society," the report states. "Three more states must ratify the amendment by March 22, 1979 in order for the measure to pass. Opponents of ERA supporters claim that the ERA and women's movement ignores the needs of blue-collar and minority women while supporters claim that the ERA is for all women."

Whatever happens to the ERA, it has left its mark on American society and so have women like Nellie Gray who has added to the confusion by proving that a woman can be successful in a man's world without the amendment.

"We have to make Congress know we're not going away until we get a constitutional amendment of right to life from the moment of conception," she told the interviewer.

national Women's Year Citizens Review Committee and also attended the Pro-Family Coalition in Houston.

In an article dealing with the division of women over the Equal Rights Amendment, Nellie's picture appeared as one of the leaders in the Nov. 28 issue of U.S. News and World Report.

According to the article, the number of women in favor of passage of the ERA is declining. It is not the movement toward self-sufficiency for women that is losing popularity, only the amendment.

"Polls indicate that the public, by about 2 to 1, supports women's efforts to improve their role in society," the report states. "Three more states must ratify the amendment by March 22, 1979 in order for the measure to pass. Opponents of ERA supporters claim that the ERA and women's movement ignores the needs of blue-collar and minority women while supporters claim that the ERA is for all women."

Whatever happens to the ERA, it has left its mark on American society and so have women like Nellie Gray who has added to the confusion by proving that a woman can be successful in a man's world without the amendment.

Evangelists reluctant to disclose finances

Americans give most to the preaching business

EDITOR'S NOTE: Americans gave nearly $30 billion to charity last year. The biggest chunk of the money went to religious groups. And these organizations are under growing pressure to give donors more information about the way contributions are spent. Here, in the first of a five-part series, is a look at the move toward financial disclosure by charities.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Representatives of the nation's top evangelical associations are meeting in Chicago later this week to talk about money and to try to decide how much they should tell the public about the way contributions are spent. The religious charities traditionally have been the strongest opponents of efforts to force non-profit organizations to disclose information about their financial operations. Some spokesmen contend that legislation on financial disclosure would be a violation of the principle of separation of church and state.

The arguments and the fears remain. But a growing number of religious leaders say they must set up a voluntary system for financial disclosure to avoid a mandatory one. In a recent meeting in Washington, D.C., Roman Catholic bishops approved strict new standards governing fund raising in the church. The standards, intended for use by all Catholic dioceses and religious orders in the United States, require full accountability to contributors, with regular, audited reports setting forth the amounts collected, the costs of the fund raising and the purposes and uses of the money.

The evangelical leaders — about three dozen of them — were invited to Chicago by W. Stanley Mooneyham, president of World Vision, which a spokesman describes as "a non-profit, interdenominational outreach of Christians concerned with the physical and spiritual needs of people around the world."

World Vision has been one of the few religious groups which has always been willing to provide financial information to donors who asked.

In July, officials of World Vision and about half a dozen other religious charities met in the office of U.S. Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., who is a member of the World Vision board.

Among the subjects under discussion was a bill proposed by U.S. Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., which would require most major charities to provide a breakdown of where and how their money is spent.

Speaking in support of his bill, Wilson said it represented "a golden opportunity to take a positive step that will insure that the vital work done by legitimate charitable organizations can be continued in the future in an environment that is not tainted by frequent scandal."

At about the same time as Wilson was speaking, Hatfield was talking to the religious leaders. Richard L. Watson, director of communications for World Vision, said Hatfield told them: "If Christian agencies don't take the bull by the horns and come up with some kind of organization of their own that voluntarily provides information, then Congress is going to do it."

"We agreed with Sen. Hatfield... We felt Christian agencies ought to do something voluntarily."

Watson said World Vision supports the idea of financial disclosure, but is opposed to making it mandatory.

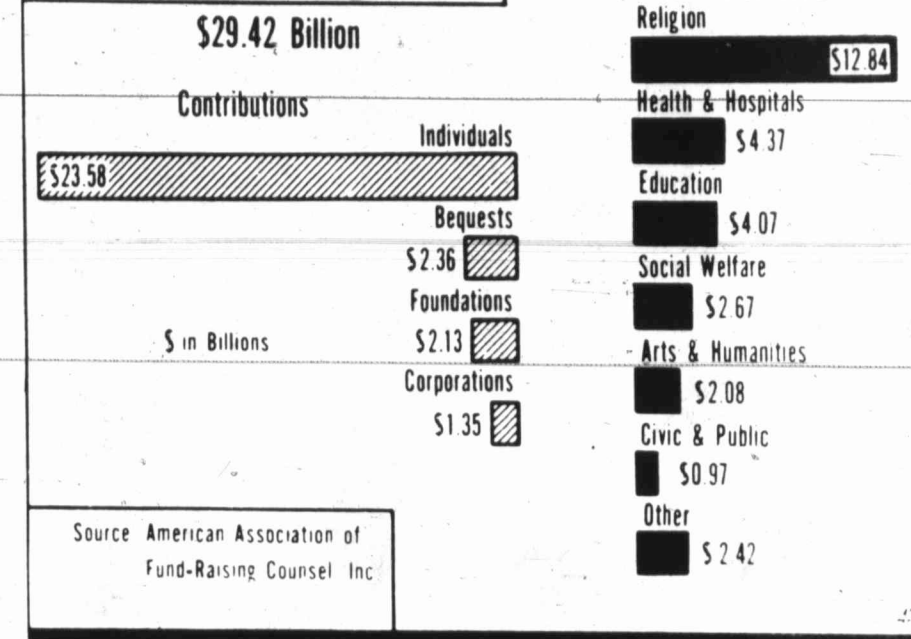

There had been pressure for financial disclosure from other sources as well. Published reports said that the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association was not in compliance with a Minnesota law requiring registration and annual reports on annuity plans sold in the state. The problem — which Graham blamed on postal and other errors — was cleared up, and the association subsequently provided, for the first time, a full, public breakdown of its spending.

The issue of financial disclosure is not a new one. Religious organizations in particular have come under attack ever since the scandal within the Pallottine Fathers of Baltimore, a Roman Catholic order, which raised $20 million in a two-year period, but spent less than 5 percent of the funds on charitable purposes.

Some states already limit the amount charities can spend on fund raising. Others require charities to include a financial statement along with appeals.

Advertisements for the Save the Children Foundation of Westport, Conn., include a section which asks potential donors: "Do you wish verification of Save the Children credentials?" The section says that 78.1 per Eloy Moran went up on a March of Dimes fly over the city a couple of years back and decided he liked it.

He went home and talked to his father, Jose R. Moran about it. His father used to fly down in Mexico, when he lived in Durango and he had enjoyed flying. So he sacrificed a little and came up with funds to let the boy take pilot's lessons.

So Eloy went out to Trans Regional and began the task of learning to fly.

He has now had 28 hours of lessons and he has already soloed.

"I love it," Eloy stated. A sophomore at the high school, he said he intends to get both his private license and his commercial license by the time he finishes high school.

"I would like to eventually be a private pilot for a company. I just think it would be a great way to make a living," young Moran stated.

Eloy has four brothers and one sister and he is the oldest child in the family.

"We have all been up in the air on the March of Dimes flights," he laughed, and added, "Most of my brothers also would like to fly."

He said he wouldn't mind having some Air Force training, but had not fully decided on this matter.

Eloy said he was born in Mexico, but when he was three years old, his father, Jose and his mother, Enriqueta came to Texas — "for better jobs."

His father has worked for a couple farmers in the area through the years and currently is working for

ELOY MORAN...young soloist

Edgar Phillips.

Eloy is quite proud of his new student license and will show it to you. Like a car license, it has the stipulation that he must wear glasses. He has it approved by an optometrist.

"There's something about being up in the air that is quite different from any other feeling," Eloy states.

He says, "It's not as hard to fly as a lot of people think it is. And there really is something special about it."

He admits that he often is looking toward the sky when he might ought to be doing something else. "But I'm thinking about getting back up there," he laughed.

Eloy believes that by the time you are 16 you ought to be deciding how you want to make a living.

And Eloy has definitely made up his mind. He wants to make his living some way in an airplane.

And he didn't see any reason to "wait any longer to start learning to fly."

So Eloy has taken to the air — over the fences — where I'm out riding.

Money stays home

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

For almost a year now, we've been campaigning to "Shop Big Spring First" in an effort to get our people to patronize our own merchants and retail establishments. It appears that we are making progress. More people are spending more of their money in Big Spring. City sales tax is up 10 percent over the same period in 1976. But the startling thing is that in the latest reporting period, Big Spring shows a 33 percent increase. This is good.

It's a sign we are realizing that we can obtain quality merchandise at home and that we benefit and support our community when we buy locally. We are attempting to emphasize Big Spring as an "Area Retail Trade Center." And more folks are beginning to come to Big Spring to shop instead of going greater distances to other trade centers.

But we have to advertise that we can get it in Big Spring — and that the price is competitive — and that the service and satisfaction are assured. That's where the retailer needs to take the initiative. He has got to provide an atmosphere that strongly welcomes the out of town trade as well as the home town folks. His clerks must extend courtesy and helpfulness and his prices have got to be right. Consumers — you and me — react in strange ways. If an item is being sold a dollar cheaper 50 miles away, we'll often drive a hundred miles round trip even though it costs us 30 cents a mile. (Latest AAA estimate).

It's also very necessary to evidence a positive attitude in satisfying the customers' desire. This requires a more than modest inventory of diversified stock and an overnight ability and willingness to acquire the items requested. It also requires a united effort among our local merchants.

If you can't satisfy the customer at Highland South — send him to College Park or Downtown — but don't tell him "he'll probably have to go to City X to get what he wants." Encourage him to stay here in town and shop, — oh, there's one other thing: — at the Christmas Season — if the stores are open only for the convenience of the retailers and their clerks — you can be sure that the customer will soon get the message and go shopping where the stores are open — when they want to shop. Our retailers must meet the customers' needs!!! It also takes a positive attitude on the part of our customers. First, we have to convince ourselves that we can obtain the best of goods and service right here at home. Brag on the bargains you get in Big Spring and tell everyone how well a local firm performed a service for you.

Some of our larger companies and institutions are in a position to increase trade by doing their purchasing right here in town. Remember, every dollar spent outside our community is a drain on our economy. Every dollar spent in Big Spring is a boost to our economy. It's our community. Are you supporting local trade Mr. and Mrs. Consumer? Working together it's amazing what we can accomplish; especially when we Hustle! Hustle! Hustle!

Woman says she's secret wife of H.L. Hunt

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — An Atlanta woman who claims the late oil billionaire H.L. Hunt was bigamously married to her and that he spent nearly $1 million to keep it secret will get her day in court next month.

Depositions have been piling up in U.S. District Court in preparation for hearings on the two-year-old suit, filed by Franie Tye Lee. Mrs. Lee — who claims she was married to Hunt from 1925 to 1934, while Hunt was married to Lyda Bunker — is seeking half of the property Hunt acquired during that time, and half of the money that property has earned since.

When Hunt died in Dallas in 1974, he was one of the world's richest men. He made his first million in the late 1920s, the time Mrs. Lee claims she was married to him.

Attorneys for the Hunt estate have introduced a document which they say bears Mrs. Lee's signature. The estate's attorneys say the document shows that in 1942, Mrs. Lee agreed to give up any claims to Hunt's estate.

However, the estate's attorneys do not refer to any marriage between Hunt and Mrs. Lee.

Mrs. Lee claims she married Hunt in Tampa, Fla. She says they later moved to Shreveport. There, she said, he was out of town on oilfield business most of the week, but stayed with her at her apartment on weekends. She said Hunt was the father of her four children.

Mrs. Lee says her marriage to Hunt ended after she learned that her husband, who she says called himself Franklin Hunt, was H.L. Hunt and was married to another woman.

Records show that Hunt married Lyda Bunker of Lake Village, Ark., in 1914. She died in 1955. Two years later, Hunt married Ruth Ray, a divorcee who used to work in a Hunt oil office in Shreveport, and adopted her four children.

Shreveport city directories from the 1920s list a Franklin Hunt whose occupation was given as an oilfield worker and later a salesman.

Mrs. Lee claims that after she learned of Hunt's marriage to Lyda Bunker Hunt, he took pains to keep her financially comfortable and to keep the bigamous marriage a secret.

Her deposition said he gave her $100,000 in 1942 and assigned her $200,000 a month from one of his East Texas oil tracts. She claims he never denied he was father of her four children.

"It's no secret," she told reporters after her suit was filed. "I was married to him back when he was rich."

Mrs. Lee's suit, filed two years ago in Baton Rouge, La., is scheduled to be heard next month before U.S. District Court Judge Tom Stagg.

Give Wisely," listing about 500 charities which are broken down into two groups — those which comply with BBB standards and those which don't. Among the standards is a requirement that the organization provide an independent financial audit and that it spend at least 50 percent of its money on program purposes.

Most of the organizations which are not in compliance are religious in nature. As of late last year, Mrs. O'Rourke said less than 10 percent of the religious-based organizations had provided an independent financial statement. (World Vision is in compliance; the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association is not, although officials have said they will provide the financial information required to change the group's status.)

Why are they so uncooperative? "It's not a matter of being uncooperative," said Mrs. O'Rourke. "They seem to think that we have no right to ask them the question." She said some religious-backed organizations "feel like they only have to answer to God."

World Vision's Watson said he expects a specific course of action to come out of the Chicago meeting. He also said that financial disclosure has helped rather than hurt the charity. "The more we tell people, the more confidence they are having in World Vision," he said.

Cowboys clinch division

DALLAS (AP) — Tony Dorsett is fast making his million dollar price tag a bargain basement rate.

The incredible halfback from Pittsburgh, who was collegiate football's all-time ground-gainer and a Heisman Trophy winner, became only the third rookie in the National Football League history to gain over 200 yards in a game Sunday.

He romped for 206 yards on 23 carries, including the longest touchdown gallop in the National Football League this year — an 84-yard lightning bolt — as Dallas whipped Philadelphia 24-14.

"He's just like he was when they drafted him, the best in the country," said Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil.

The Cowboys clinched their seventh Eastern Division title and will host a National Conference first round game Dec. 26. It's Dallas' 11th time in the playoffs in the last 12 years.

Dallas players showered and quickly filed out of the dressing room. There were no champagne corks popping. It was just another day at the office.

"I think this team (now 10-2) is mature enough to realize we're just starting," said veteran Preston Pearson.

Dorsett, asked about a chance to reach 1,000 yards in his last two games, said "If I do get 1,000 yards, fine and well. If I don't and we're winning, I can't complain about that."

Dorsett has 865 yards with two games to play. He has scored 11 touchdowns and averaged 5.6 yards per carry.

Only Jim Brown and Tom Wilson ever rushed for 200 yards in a game in their rookie year in the NFL.

The 3-9 Eagles played Dallas tough until Dorsett took control.

Dorsett scored early on a one-yard Dorsett run and Roger Staubach flipped a 16-yard scoring pass to Drew Pearson.

The Eagles countered on a 51-yard touchdown pass from Ron Jaworski to Mike Hogan and a 12-yard touchdown pass.

Efren Herrera's 24-yard field goal was the difference starting the fourth period.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry reached into his coat for a new play, put in only this week. It called for tight end

Jay Saldi to come back in motion on a trap block.

"Jay made a great block coming across then it was off to the races," said Dorsett. "I felt it was coming. It was just a matter of time before I broke one."

Vermeil said "That play just broke our backs. They have a fine football team. The only way they can lose is to screw it up and they're not going to do that. They have a great coach and fine talent."

Landry said "Tony's performance was just outstanding. We're glad to be home now for Christmas. I think we are moving forward now."

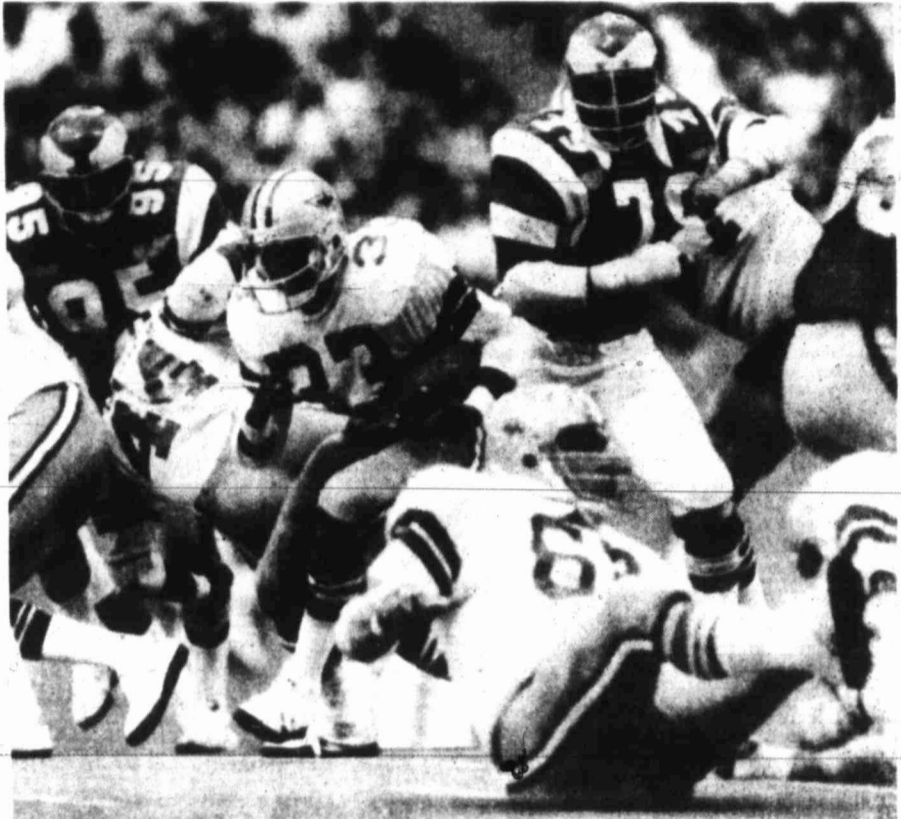

Dorsett, needing only 135 yards in the final two games, said "If my linemen block like they did today we'll get that 1,000 yards. I feel very comfortable in this offense now. It is about second nature to me. Earlier, I just hadn't been studying enough."

Dorsett has the club record for the longest touchdown run (his 77-yarder against St. Louis earlier this year was erased) and his 11 touchdown gallops ties the team record.

"Dorsett just gives them that big play in the running game and they always have been able to get in with the passing game," sighed Vermeil.

Eagle linebacker Bill Bergey pretty well summed it up, saying "Dorsett shortly will be the best running back in the game. And as far as a Super Bowl is concerned, who's going to beat them?"

LONGEST RUN OF THE SEASON — Dallas Cowboys' Tony Dorsett (33) threads his way through the Philadelphia Eagles defensive line during fourth quarter action Sunday on his way to a 85-yard TD run. Being left behind is Eagles' John Bunting (95) and teammate Manny Sistrunk (79). Falling down in the foreground is Cowboys' John Fitzgerald (62) with teammate Robert Newhouse (44) blocking in the background. Dorsett's run was the longest of the NFL season as the Cowboys beat the Eagles 24-14 enabling them to become a host team in the playoffs.

Dolphins meet Colts

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Dolphins challenge Baltimore for a share of the American Conference East lead under the eye of national television tonight.

But to share the lead, they first have to deal with Colts quarterback Bert Jones.

And to do that, they must buck one disquieting statistic — Jones has thrown 165 passes against the Dolphins without an interception.

"Maybe he throws the ball too hard for us to catch," joked safety Tim Foley. "You'd think we'd have gotten one somewhere along the line on a tip or something."

Jones and the rest of the Baltimore operation are the main obstacles to a Dolphins playoff berth in the National Football League.

Baltimore, 9-2, holds a one-game lead over the 8-3 Dolphins. A Colts victory would expand their lead to two games and all but assure them the American Conference East title.

If Miami beat the Colts and went on to win its remaining two games, the Dolphins would have one less loss than Baltimore in division play. Since division records serve as a tiebreaker, the Dolphins could clinch the title by winning their last two games.

But Coach Don Shula links those events to the Dolphins' fortunes against Jones, who has engineered Colts victories against Miami in their last five contests.

"In the five games they've won, he's played pretty much error-free football," Shula said. "He can go to his backs, he can go long... their running game is solid. They have a complete offense. But we'll show."

Aeros straighten out

By The Associated Press

The Houston Aeros had lost all eight of their road games this World Hockey Association season and Coach Bill Dineen knew the streak would have to end some time.

"Our club has never been under 500 on the road and that's been the key to the success of our hockey club," he said Sunday night. "We talked about that today. We knew Cincinnati had been riding a crest."

Cincinnati had won five of its last seven and its last four in a row. But the Aeros managed "the best positional game we've played this year," according to Dineen, and skated away with a 3-2 triumph.

Elsewhere in the WHA, the Birmingham Bulls blanked the Indianapolis Racers 3-0 and the Edmonton Oilers trimmed the Winnipeg Jets 3-2.

Cam Connor scored the winning goal for Houston with 6:45 remaining. Andre Lacroix and Rich Preston gave the Aeros a 2-0 lead before Rick Dudley and Pat Stapleton tied it.

Bulls 3, Racers 0

Paul Henderson, Steve Durhano and Mark Napier scored the goals while John Garrett blocked 23 shots for the shutout against Indianapolis, which also was a bit weary.

Irish talking tough

By The Associated Press

The fifth-ranked Fighting Irish are full steam ahead to a Jan. 2 Cotton Bowl contest, and players were talking about how much tougher they will be with No. 1 Texas than they were with Miami, Fla., Saturday night.

Notre Dame left Miami, 3-8, in the dust with a 48-10 victory sparked by Joe Montana's three touchdown passes. The young Miami squad scored only in the second period on Ken MacMillian's 35-yard pass to Steve Alvers and Chris Dennis' 38-yard field goal.

But it was that brief upset opportunity for Miami that stuck in the mind of junior fullback Jerome Heavens.

"We learned from this game," he said. "I'm not saying we took it lightly, but we kept Miami in the game by making mistakes. That's something we won't do against Texas."

The Irish smothered Miami in the second half with 20 points and held the Hurricanes scoreless.

Montana hit a 23-yard TD pass to Vagas Ferguson in the second period for a 20-10 halftime lead, then added passes of 4 and 5 yards to All-America tight end Ken MacAfee in the second half.

A star was born in Texas

A&M's 27-7 drubbing of Houston when freshman quarterback Mike Mosley, entering the game late in the second quarter, posted two TDs in a 79-second span, stunning the Cougars, who led 7-3 when Mosley went in.

Magers honored at tournament

ROSE MAGERS

Rose Magers was named to the all-state volleyball tournament team following completion of the competition Saturday night in Austin.

The senior girl has an outstanding record in volleyball in her high school career, and this year was named all-district, all-regional tournament and all-state tournament.

The Steers, who had defeated Beaumont French in the first game out of three, watched French defeat San Antonio Ediston with ease Saturday night in 15-7 and 15-8 games in the finals.

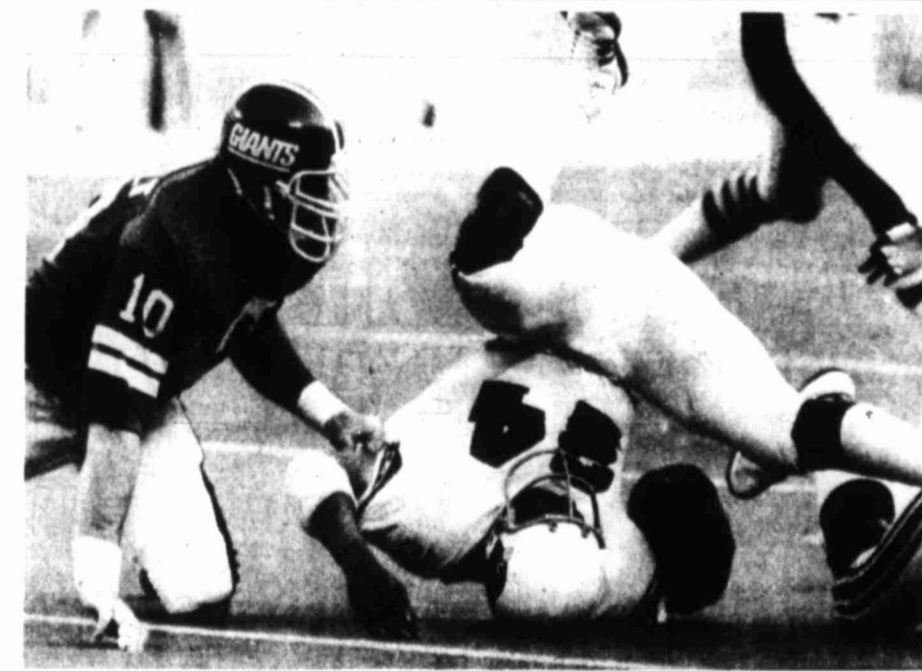

Seminole won the state championship in AAA in its final year before going down to AA classification.

The smallest school in 2AAA, Seminole has nevertheless compiled an enviable record in all sports at that school, with a reputation for never complaining about its size.

Buena Vista at Imperial also won a state championship for West Texas, defeating Austwell-Tivoli, a school near Corpus Christi, in the finals. Seminole defeated South Park from Beaumont.

Beaumont is a strong volleyball town, used to having teams in the finals, and this year it had two.

Needville beat Fabens, a school near El Paso, in the finals for AA championship and Brazos defeated Wink, the A representative in the tournament. Brazos then went on to beat Wallis-Orchard, a school near Rosenberg for the championship.

ST. LOUIS IS UPSET — St. Louis Cardinals' Wayne Morris ends up on his head after being tackled by New York Giants Brad Van Pelt (10) in East Rutherford, N.J., Sunday. The Giants unexpectedly beat the Cardinals 27-7.

Broncos wake up, win playoff spot

HOUSTON (AP) — The Denver Broncos, bound for the playoffs for the first time in the team's 18-year history, had only one malfunction Sunday before reeling off a 24-14 victory over Houston — nobody told them when the game started.

The Broncos slumbered in the first quarter while the Oilers set a lively tempo and took a 7-0 lead early in the second quarter on Ronnie Coleman's two-yard run.

Suddenly Denver's alarm clock went off and they realized they were late for work. Quarterback Craig Morton threw two touchdown passes of 13 yards to Riley Odoms and Rick Upchurch for a 14-7 halftime lead and at last the Broncos were wide awake.

The victory gave the Broncos an 11-1 record, best in the National Football League this year, and clinched at least a wild card berth in the NFL playoffs.

"It's been a long time for the Denver Broncos but it's been even longer for Craig Morton," said Morton, who suffered his ups and downs at Dallas and the New York Giants. "It was satisfying for me. This team is really together. I'm very proud of it."

Proud is not the word as far as first year Denver Coach Bob "Red" Miller was concerned.

"I want to talk about the playoffs, I want to talk about the playoffs, I want to talk about the playoffs," Miller screamed giddily, shouting about the topic he has been afraid to mention all season.

"We are in the playoffs and for the first time this season I'm ready to talk about them."

Morton suffered a strained shoulder on the final play of the first half and was relieved frequently by Craig Penrose and Norris Weese in the second half.

After Denver's Jim Turner had kicked a 42-yard field goal and Houston's Dan Pastorini had hit Ken Burrough for a 29-yard TD pass to cut the Broncos' lead to 17-14, Morton returned to set up a security touchdown.

Morton, who finished with 13 completions on 22 attempts for 187 yards, hit Odoms with a 33-yard pass late in the fourth quarter and Weese completed the drive with a five yard touchdown run.

Lakers lack punch

By the Associated Press
Even with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar back in the lineup, the Los Angeles Lakers didn't have enough punch.

The National Basketball Association All-Star center scored 21 points and grabbed 14 rebounds Sunday night in his first game since he suffered a broken right hand in a fight with Milwaukee's Kent Benson on opening day Oct. 18.

But despite the presence of the five-time Most Valuable Player, the Lakers dropped a 111-109 decision to the Denver Rockets and plunged lower in the Pacific Division with an 8-14 record.

"We've got to put a winning streak together or it will be too late to make the playoffs," said Lakers Coach Jerry West.

Jabbar's return was offset by fine performances from Denver's David Thompson and Dan Issel. They scored 27 and 23 points respectively and Thompson assisted on Jimmy Price's game-winning basket with three seconds left.

In the other NBA games, the Washington Bullets whipped the Cleveland

Cavaliers 100-94; the Milwaukee Bucks ripped the New Jersey Nets 134-118 in overtime and the Atlanta Hawks turned back the Phoenix Suns 96-89.

Before Price hit his winning shot from the top of the key, the Lakers had tied the game 12 seconds earlier on a jumper by Norm Nixon. Denver called a timeout, then played for a last shot.

Of his return to action, Jabbar said: "It's hard to say what kind of shape I'm in. It's been so long since I've played. I've only had two practice sessions prior to tonight. But I really wasn't as tired as I thought I would be at the end of the game."

Bullets 100, Indians 94
Phil Chenier and Kevin Grevey combined for 53 points at one guard position to carry Washington over Cleveland. The victory, the Bullets' ninth in their last 10 games, moved them past the Cavaliers into first place in the Central Division.

Bucks 134, Nets 118
Brian Winters scored six of his 36 points and Quinn Buckner seven of his 21 in overtime as Milwaukee surged past New Jersey.

IN THE THICK OF THINGS—Los Angeles Lakers premier center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, center, pushes in between Denver Nuggets center Dan Issel, right, and Denver's Anthony Roberts bumping Issel in the process during first quarter action Sunday night in Los Angeles. Sunday's game marked Abdul-Jabbar's first action since breaking his right hand in the first game of the season. Abdul-Jabbar scored 21 points and 14 rebounds but it wasn't enough as Denver beat the Lakers 111-109.

Aussies keep Davis cup

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The Davis Cup will reside in Australia this year, thanks to an artistic triumph in the finals by John Alexander.

"It was one of the greatest matches of all time," said Australian team captain Neale Fraser after watching Alexander oust Adriano Panatta of Italy in a grueling, five-set marathon that took nearly four hours to play Sunday.

"It was a very exciting, beautiful match," said Italian captain Nicola Pietrangeli, adding that his country had nothing to be ashamed of in losing to the Australians.

Alexander described the match as the toughest game he could ever remember playing. He also expressed sympathy for his opponent.

"I feel desperately sorry for Adriano, who must be terribly disappointed," said Alexander. "I know that I would have been."

In one of the most tense and closely-fought matches in recent Davis Cup history, the 26-year-old Alexander rallied to win 6-4, 4-6, 2-6, 6-6, 11-9.

Alexander's victory gave the Australians an unbeatable 3-1 lead in the best-of-five series and gained them the Cup which they have held 25 times but have won only twice in the past 10 years.

The final singles match between Australian Tony Roche and Corrado Barazzutti was abandoned by mutual agreement. Alexander's challenge. He doublefaulted and lost an unlucky net cord to drop his service, allowing the Australian back into the game.

The Italians, who won the 77-year-old Cup 4-1 over Chile last year, lost both opening singles on Friday but kept their hopes alive with a victory over Australia in the doubles Saturday.

Three of eight playoff berths filled

By the Associated Press
Making the National Football League playoffs is old hat for the Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams, but not for comeback hero Craig Morton and the surprising Denver Broncos.

"It's been a long time for the Denver Broncos, but it's been even longer for Craig Morton," said the 34-year-old quarterback, who threw two touchdowns passes to help Denver subdue the Houston Oilers 24-14 Sunday and clinch the American Conference's Western Division title and the Broncos' first playoff berth in their 18-year history.

"It was very satisfying for me," said Morton, who suffered years of frustration as a backup in Dallas and then as a starter on a weak New York Giants club. "This team is really together. I'm very proud of it."

Proud is not the word for Denver's first-year coach, Arencibia is state champ

Red Miller.

"I want to talk about the playoffs, I want to talk about the playoffs, I want to talk about the playoffs," Miller screamed in the lockerroom after Sunday's win. "We are in the playoffs and for the first time this season I'm ready to talk about them."

Dallas and Los Angeles are also ready to talk of the playoffs after filling two of the four National Conference spots.

Dallas clinched the Eastern Division title with a 24-14 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles behind Tony Dorsett, who rushed for 206 yards and two touchdowns. Los Angeles assured itself of the NFC West crown with a 20-14 decision over the defending Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders on a 43-yard scoring pass from Pat Haden to Harold Jackson with 2:10 to play.

That fills three of the eight playoff berths. The Baltimore Colts could make it four with a victory over the Miami Dolphins tonight. That would clinch the AFC East title for the Colts, although the Dolphins would still be in the running for a wild-card berth.

Here's the way the playoff picture looks:

AFC
Denver, 11-1, is in the playoffs as the West winner. Baltimore, 9-2, can clinch the East title tonight.

Pittsburgh, 8-4, leads the Central by one game over Cincinnati, 7-5. The two teams meet Saturday at Cincinnati.

Oakland, 9-3, is still alive in the wild card race, along with New England, 8-4, and the loser of tonight's game between Baltimore, 9-2, and Miami, 8-3.

NFC
Dallas, 10-2, is in as the East winner.

Minnesota, 8-4, leads Chicago by one game in the Central.

Los Angeles, 9-3, is in as the West champion.

St. Louis, Washington and Chicago, each 7-5, are the frontrunners for the wild card, as well as Minnesota if it fails to win the Central Division. St. Louis is at Washington Saturday in a key game.

Morton threw 13-yard touchdown passes to Riley Odums and Rick Upchurch to help the Broncos to a 14-7 halftime lead. He suffered a strained shoulder on the final play of the first half but came back in the fourth quarter to guide the Broncos to their decisive score, his 33-yard pass to Odums setting up Norris Weese's 5-yard run.

Pastorini hit Burrough with a 51-yard pass on the final play of the first quarter and the Oilers took a 7-0 lead early in the second quarter on Ronnie Coleman's two-yard plunge.

Sands eagers swept another tournament over the weekend, this time in New Home.

The same duo led the Mustangettes to a 57-55 cliffhanger over Post. In this one, Martin had 33 points, while Floyd put 20 on the scoreboard.

And who led the scoring in the championship game? Floyd scored 31 points and Martin looped in 30 to win the game 73 to 43.

Mustangs keep on winning

Coach Stan Pulliam also recognized three outstanding guards for the team, Suzie Brasher, Tammy Nichols and Leslie Guitart.

The boys team was equally triumphant. They began their winning ways with a 49-42 defeat of Dawson. High scorers were David Long with 21 points, Martin Nichols with 16, and Larry Feaster with eight.

Ferguson still on top at finals

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Reigning World All-Around Cowboy Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla., moved back atop the money winners Sunday in the second go-round of the National Finals Rodeo here.

Ferguson compiled $2,866 in total earnings after a first place finish in calf roping and a fourth-in-steer wrestling Sunday, added to his winnings for a second in steer wrestling in the rodeo's opening round Saturday night.

Sandy Kirby of Greenville, Texas rode a previously untried bull, designated only as No. 56, to a score of 79 and a first place finish in the bull riding event Sunday to remain in second place in the standings with $2,795 total earnings.

Meanwhile, Jack Ward of Springdale, Ark., continued to dominate bareback bronc riding with his second first-place finish in as many nights.

The world championship rodeo, held indoors at the State Fairgrounds Arena here, continues through Dec. 11 with 10 go-rounds. The top money winner will be the world champion cowboy, a title Ferguson won last year.

In steer wrestling, Rick Bradley of Burk Burnett, Texas needed only five seconds to topple his rival for the $1,453 first place money in the second go-round. It was the best time of the competition thus far.

Competitors from the West Coast continued to dominate the split-second team roping event. H.P. Evetts, Hanford, Calif. and Angel Crosthwaite, Redmond, Ore., got their ropes on a fleeing calf in 6.9 seconds, to earn $740 each.

Canadian cowboy Mel Hyland of Salmon Arm, B.C. topped the saddle bronc competition in the second go-round with a score of 78.

Grain executive calls for more farm exports

WASHINGTON (AP)—An officer of one of the nation's largest grain companies today called for stepped-up efforts by the federal government to boost U.S. farm exports and pump new life into the agricultural economy.

Myron R. Laserson, senior vice president of Continental Grain Co. for North America, said that an export credit program operated by the Agriculture Department could be remodeled to enable larger sales of U.S. wheat overseas.

The program, which has existed for more than 20

Director of GSPS will explain and answer questions on the feed grain section of the Agriculture Act of 1977.

Oscar (Cotton) Fanning, PCG Executive Assistant will lead discussions on cotton program provisions, and Marvin Sartin, Extension Specialist in Management Specialist will discuss the economics of cropping alternatives under the new law.

"The Act of 1977 is not as easily understood as some we've had before," says Johnson, "but the dollars-and-cents importance of understanding it is just as great if not greater than ever."

"The allotment system is a complete departure from what we've become accustomed to, and will involve such strange terms as National Program Acreage, National Reduction Percentage and Normal Cropland Acreage, all of which will be confusing to producers until fully understood," the PCG official points out.

There have also been changes in the workings of the disaster program and new regulations are in the making for the designation, care, use and cross compliance aspects of required set-aside acreage.

And, although not new, since the target price method of supporting prices has not been a factor in cotton producer income since its inception in 1974, "many producers still have some question about how it works and how they may benefit from it," Johnson stated.
