Only three bidding for F-4C contract

Proposals for an Air Force aircraft engine modification contract went out to eight companies but only three, including Lockheed Aircraft Service Co., of Ontario, Cal., returned bids.

Lockheed, a division of Lockheed Aircraft Co., is committed to use facilities at Webb AFB in Big Spring should its proposal be accepted by the Air Force.

The other two firms in contention for the contract, which will initially extend for 4½ years, are McDonnell-Douglas of Tulsa, Okla., and little known World Airways of Oakland, Cal., which in the past has established a reputation as a charter airline.

Among firms which declined to bid on the contract were Fairchild Aircraft Co., Florida; General Dynamics, Fort Worth; and Hays Aircraft, Birmingham, Ala.

Lockheed's bid on the contract went in last Tuesday. The pact will formally be awarded March 31 and plans toward its execution will be initiated the following day.

A Lockheed team headed by Ken Neudorffer, vice president in charge of Domestic Operations, will arrive here as early as Jan. 9 to complete advance planning for a pre-award survey scheduled for Jan. 12-13-14.

Accompanying Neudorffer here will be R.E. (Bob) Bolduan, Director of Pricing, Contracts and Planning; Ken Miller, F-4C projects director; and J.E. (Jack) Conner, head of Lockheed's Marketing Department. Others due from Lockheed are specialists familiar with the engine modification program.

The Air Force Logistics Center at Hill AFB, Utah, will be represented at the Jan. 12-13-14 survey by a nine-man team. The leader is Tom Lightfoot. His assistant is Ross Crim. Their specialty is contract definition.

Others due to visit from Ogden include A. Nebecker and T. Simpson, Management and Experience; William Vincent and Val Lofgreene, specialists in Production and Facilities; Dave Berrett and Ben Lehman, Quality Assurance; and Robert Erickson, specialist in Review Safety Factor.

The architectural firm of Gary and Hohertz have volunteered to construct a scale model of the entire Lockheed complex here. That model will rest on the conference table during the January meeting here.

Gary and Hohertz is contributing its work and materials for the project as a service to the Industrial Team. John Gary and Daryle Hohertz, partners in the architectural firm, have indicated to Winston Winkle and Clyde McMahon Sr., Industrial Team leaders, that the scale model likely will be finished by Jan. 9.

Winkle said this morning he had been told Webb had the only facility totally dedicated to engine modification among those bidding for the contract.

Picketing meat plant

Farmers plan next move

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — Most of Texas' striking farmers planned today to "go home, sleep and plan our next move" while others aimed their tractor pickets at a Plainview meat packing plant that refuses to honor the strike by closing. Officials of the Missouri Beef Packing Co. won a temporary restraining order Thursday from State District Judge John Thomas Boyd, preventing the farmers from blocking the plant's gates with their tractors.

The farmers kept their tractor pickets after deputies served the restraining order, but peacefully moved aside to allow the plant's trucks to depart, officials said.

Greg Rystad, a spokesman for the American Agriculture group organizing the strike, said Thursday night that additional farmers and tractors had been sent to join those already picketing.

"By morning, there should be 100-150 tractors down there," said Rystad. "The roads are probably going to get so clogged up with tractors that it's not going to matter whether he gate is open or not. We've consulted with our attorneys and intend to stay within the limits of the law as it has been explained to us."

Plant officials met with representatives of the farmers on Thursday and issued a statement that said the company is "sympathetic to the plight of the farmers" but could not close because of commitments to customers throughout the nation.

"This is an extension of Phase I we didn't want to see," said Rystad, who promised that Phase II would be "more militant."

"We're beginning to see more militancy on the part of the farmers," he said. "A lot of people thought farmers were nice, gentle, hayseed-chewing kind of people. We're not going to alert a lot of people about Phase II, but it will be more militant."

Farmers must cut cotton plantings by one-fifth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is telling the nation's cotton growers that they must reduce their plantings by one fifth in 1978 if they want to receive the full benefits of federal income supports.

Cotton farmers who go along with the voluntary cutback in production will be guaranteed the full 1978 target price of 52 cents a pound, the minimum allowed by new farm legislation.

For example, if the average 1978 market price is below 52 cents, the difference will pay the farmer the difference up to 8 cents a pound.

Farmers who don't cut plantings by 20 percent from their 1977 amount will receive only a percentage of whatever target price payments are made, the department said.

Area farmers discuss strike

By MARJ CARPENTER
ACKERLY — A group of almost 40 farmers gathered at the Ackerly grain Thursday waiting to hear from a grain farmer from Plainview, who failed to show up.

Troy J. Brown, formerly from the Ackerly area, was working his way down from the Panhandle, speaking to farmer's groups along the way.

A group of farmers at Tahoka kept Brown and another Plainview farmer for several hours asking questions about the strike and they failed to arrive in Ackerly.

Brown contacted his brother-in-law Gayle Batson by telephone to tell him they would have to come at a later date. The farmers were meeting tonight in Hopesville.

Larry Shaw, one of the farmers who attended the meeting at Ackerly, said here today, "We are mainly concerned with finding out more about the strike and the results of it."

"We are all concerned. Down at the State Farm Bureau meeting in Houston earlier in the year, we discussed the matter for two hours. We did not endorse the movement because we were not sure of all of the repercussions."

"As farmers we are wanting to get our cause before the public eye. Most of the farmers in this part of the state are definitely not interested in a strike that would injure other people. I'm not sure that we condone such extreme measures as blocking off meat cutter plants or bakeries or dairies."

"But we are glad that the farmer's cause is finally getting people's attention. We would like to see the government quit using the export as a political football for the Department of State and show a little more concern for the producer.

"So many things now are consumer oriented. The producer has been overlooked. If this strike catches the eye of the news media and the general public, it has probably partially accomplished its purpose," Shaw added.

The farmers in the Howard, Martin, Dawson and Borden County areas say that the grain farmer is "much worse off than we are because their prices have been bad for more than one season."

In West Texas, most of the strike movement appears to be centered in the grain and wheat farming area.

If Carter signs bill

Your payroll deductions to rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill requiring a $227 billion increase in payroll taxes over the next decade to support the Social Security system is on its way to President Carter, carrying the unenthusiastic support of a majority of Congress.

The bill imposes a greater tax burden on workers than Carter had proposed. But he says, the measure that passed Congress on Thursday represents "a good resolution" of the financial problems facing the Social Security system, which pays benefits each month to 33 million Americans.

The Senate approved the bill 56-21; the House vote was 189-163. Even without the bill, Social Security taxes are scheduled to increase on Jan. 1, 1978. With the bill, every American who pays into Social Security — the total today is 107 million persons — will face even higher taxes starting in 1979.

For high-income workers — those who will be earning about $42,000 a year or more 10 years from now — and their employers, payroll taxes would more than triple over the next decade. The tax increase on the "average" worker, who now earns $10,000, will go from the present $585 a year to $715 in 1987.

But the government expects the average worker's income to increase to about $18,600 a year by 1987, putting his tax under the bill at $1,330 a year. That compares with a $1,200 tax on that level income under present law.

In every case, the employer would continue to match whatever payroll tax is levied on the employee.

All told, the bill is designed to bring an additional $227 billion into Social Security between 1979 and 1987. At least on paper, the tax increases would remain in effect far beyond that, because the bill is aimed at keeping the system financially sound for the next 30 years.

The system is in trouble because of a sluggish economy and a declining birth rate, which mean fewer workers are paying into Social Security, and because inflation and a quirk in a 1972 law are driving up benefits.

Correcting that quirk, which will mean lower benefits for some future retirees, will erase about half the long-range deficit in Social Security. The other half will be made up by the higher taxes.

The only major benefit increase in the bill would double, by 1982, the current $3,000 limit on what a retired person 65 or older may earn and still draw a full pension.

Another provision prevents a reduction in benefits when a widow or widower 60 or older remarries. Current law has been criticized as an incentive for some elderly persons to cohabit without marrying.

Begin reveals Israel's Mideast peace plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin outlined for President Carter today his nation's proposals "for resolving the issue of Palestinian Arabs" in negotiations with Egypt.

After Begin left the White House, Carter telephoned Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to give him a report of the discussions. Carter and Begin are to meet again Saturday night.

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, said there could be further "communications" between Carter and Sadat but he knew of no meetings planned with the Egyptian leader.

A White House statement said that during the two-hour meeting, Begin and Carter also discussed proposals for future relations between Israel and Egypt.

"The president thanked the prime minister for his thoughts in both of these areas and promised to give them serious consideration," the statement said.

Carter planned to fly to Fayetteville, N.C., this afternoon to attend the wedding of a nephew. He is due to return here Saturday afternoon and will meet with Begin again that evening.

Earlier, qualified U.S. sources said Israel was "rethinking" its position regarding the territory on the West Bank of the Jordan River that it won in the Six-Day War of 1967. Speculation centered on proposals for some local self rule for the 650,000 Palestinian Arabs living there.

Whooping Crane spotted in area

A whooping Crane, a bird that is on the endangered species list, has been spotted in Mitchell County and may be heading this way, according to Bebe McCasland, local bird enthusiast.

"It (the crane) may be missing from a Federal Game Preserve in New Mexico. If it is in this area, it will be flying with a flock of sandhill cranes," said Ms. McCasland.

The whooper can be distinguished from the sandhill cranes by its white color and slightly larger body. It will have black wingtips, and a band on its upper leg.

Those who think they may have seen the bird are urged to call Ms. McCasland at either 267-6327 or 267-8201; Mike Paul at Gamco Industries, 267-6327, or at home, 263-1694. If neither of these people can be reached, call Midge Erskine in Midland at 694-8001.

Cheer Fund needs help

The Salvation Army is urging its many friends to keep the "pot boiling" during the coming week, so that needy families in the area can be assured of Christmas dinner and toys during the holiday season.

Christmas Cheer Fund donations are being accepted both by the Salvation Army and the Herald for that purpose. Over 200 families have already signed up, hoping to be remembered in such ways. Registration closes today. The food and toy tickets will be mailed Saturday.

Toy Day is set for next Thursday. Only those families who have received toy letters of invitation should attend.

The Noon Lions will man the Salvation Army kettles Saturday. Members will be trying to win the trophy awarded to the club collecting the most money. The Civitan Club worked today for several hours. The Rotary Club plans to supply bell ringers two hours next Saturday.

Donations for the fund now total $1,675. Included among gifts arriving during the 24-hour period ending at noon today was an anonymous donation of $100.

Latest gifts include:
Anonymous $100
Mr. Mrs. J. W. Speagle $50
Memory of Cliff Chapman $5
Mr. Mrs. C. Meek, Buchanan, Dam, Memory Dan Meek $10
Previously acknowledged $1,540
Total $1,675

Action/reaction: No bond needed

Q: Why hasn't a statement been taken from the policeman who shot the man recently, and why hasn't the Justice of the Peace set a bond on him?

A: First, according to District Attorney Rick Hamby, the officer has been interviewed at length by both the Texas Rangers and himself. Second, bond is not required of anyone unless they are arrested and charged with a crime. A grand jury will investigate the shooting.

No air traffic slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas holiday travelers will not have to worry about a slowdown in airline traffic after an agreement between the government and the air traffic controllers. The agreement on a new three-year contract averted a threatened slowdown by the controllers, who direct air traffic in and out of the nation's airports. Ratification of the agreement was expected to take about five weeks, union officials said. John F. Leyden, president of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, said the union reached a settlement Thursday after marathon bargaining sessions with the Federal Aviation Administration. If the contract had not been settled, Leyden said, he was prepared to call for a job action "on the week prior to Christmas." He said the major sections of the new agreement included provisions on transfers based on seniority, expansion of training, binding arbitration in contract disputes and improvements of various work rules. No economic issues were directly involved.

Johnson trial arguments

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — Grain dealer Henry C. Johnson, on trial for allegedly "aiding and abetting" his missing brother Robert in the interstate transportation of stolen grain, has denied cheating North Texas and Oklahoma farmers out of their wheat. Final arguments were scheduled today in Johnson's trial. Both the defense and the state rested their cases Thursday. "I did not write a warehouse receipt for wheat that was not there," Johnson, president of Geronimo Elevator Co., testified Thursday. "I didn't try to cheat anybody. I was not a bookkeeper," added Johnson. "I didn't run books or nothing. I trusted these people to tell me how much I had," he said of his employees. Johnson's bookkeeper, Patricia Price, faces trial on the same charges.

Israeli envoys cheered

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Hundreds of cheering Egyptians greeted Israeli peace negotiators during a tour of Cairo by night. More sightseeing was planned today as the negotiations recessed until Monday for the Moslem, Jewish and Christian Sabbaths. "This is part of what we feel to be the beginning of the peace process — human, political and sociological," one Israeli said.

Japan changes stand

TOKYO (AP) — Ambassador Mike Mansfield says he thinks Japan, despite initial opposition, has accommodated itself to the Carter administration's plans for withdrawal of U.S. ground forces from South Korea. Both Japan and South Korea have expressed anxiety that the pullout would encourage North Korea to new acts of belligerency.

Largest bank robbery?

GARLAND, Texas (AP) — Police and FBI agents are apparently working with few clues today as they investigate the robbery of a bank in this Dallas suburb in which two men escaped with perhaps as much as $250,000. The men, who wore black ski masks, were described by officers as having "all the earmarks of professionals." Officers said the two men forced their way into the American National Bank of Garland as an employee arrived early Thursday. Although officials would not disclose the exact amount taken, one said the $250,000 figure was "in the ball park." If the amount was $250,000 or an amount near that figure it would be one of the largest bank robberies in Texas history.

Border 'superagency' shaping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration and Naturalization Service into a new border "superagency," according to informed sources.

32 inmates die in hospital fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Fire broke out early today in a mental hospital building holding more than three times the number of patients it was designed for, and 32 inmates were killed, officials said. The hospital director said the building was designed for 400 patients but held more than 1,200 of the hospital's 6,800 residents. He explained that the building was so crowded because many of the patients are from poor families who refuse to take them back after the hospital says it can give them no more help. "These people are more or less rejected by their families, suffering from a stigma, or their homes are distant from Manila," the director said. Castaneda said the victims could have been evacuated but they resisted "because of their illness. There were some patients who were so apathetic and indifferent that they didn't want to move out, and some were hostile and combative."

Thick smoke and darkness also hampered the rescuers, who included members of the hospital staff, firefighters and civilian volunteers. The fire occurred in Pavilion 2 of the sprawling hospital complex in a Manila suburb. It was a single-story structure with concrete walls, galvanized iron roof and wooden ceiling, and the fire was believed to have been caused by an electrical short in the ceiling. The hospital director said the building was designed for 400 patients but held more than 1,200 of the hospital's 6,800 residents. Police beat Two assaults reported

Two aggravated assaults were reported recently. A Fourth Street resident was beaten by a large man while she visited at a Wood Street residence. Police found the woman lying next to a car in the driveway of the home, 8:05 p.m. Thursday, and she was taken to Malone-Hogan Hospital where she was treated and released. The victim has not yet signed a complaint against her assailant. A local service station attendant was told by his boss 7 o'clock this morning that the employee would have to work late today. The employee said that he had planned to go out of town today and couldn't work late. An argument ensued, and the boss struck his attendant in the head with a flashlight. A .45 caliber pistol and leather holster were stolen from the home of Bennie Bennett, 504 Douglas, Thursday. The firearm was valued at $300. Burglars hit the home of Magalean Henry, 601 N. Scurry, sometime between 9 p.m. Thursday and 3 a.m. today. Stolen were an electric blender, a radio and a radio scanner. Loss was estimated at $220. Detective Mike Kelly will investigate the passing of two forged checks at local Seven-Eleven Stores Thursday. According to reports, two male youths cashed checks for $10 using the name Charlie Vernon. The attendant, however, knew a Charlie Vernon, and knew that neither of the youths was he, and called police. Thieves hit the Kwik-Car Wash, 2506 Rebecca, between 8 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Thursday, and stole a vacuum hose and nozzle. Loss was estimated at $31.

The agencies "carry out their specific missions with limited consideration for the activity of the others. This produces separate but similar lines of effort that dilute border coverage and control." DEA is the main federal agency in charge of stopping smuggled narcotics, most of which enter the United States from Mexico. The Customs Service is supposed to stop smuggling of all kinds. INS is concerned with stopping the flow of illegal aliens, and the Coast Guard has law enforcement duties at sea. Securing the border without closing it down would "require what has not yet been achieved — a comprehensive, coordinated effort by all federal law enforcement agencies." The GAO report stopped short of recommending the agencies be merged, but it did suggest that they pool their intelligence reports and stop duplicating each other's enforcement efforts.

Deaths - E.F. Conway

Services for E.F. Conway, 78, who died Wednesday in a local hospital, will be 2 p.m. Saturday in the Nalley Pickle Rosewood Chapel, with Paul Keele, Cedar Ridge Church of Christ, and Randal Morton, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park. Pallbearers will be J.M. Dalton, Neil Spencer, Winston Kilpatrick, Eldon Pounds, B.H. Denson, Lester Young, Grady Teague, and Charlie Shanks. Thelma Mae Porter, 74, died at 12:25 a.m. Friday in the Big Spring State Hospital. Graveside services were at 12 p.m. today with Chaplain James Powell, Big Spring State Hospital Chaplain, officiating. Burial will be in the hospital cemetery under the direction of River Welch Funeral Home.

The pressure for a merger came earlier this year in a White House paper prepared by the Office of Drug Abuse Policy, which suggested several ways of combining the agencies. In the meantime, the GAO said, the government is failing in its efforts to control traffic along the Mexican border. The INS caught more than one million illegal aliens in the last fiscal year, but it estimates that two aliens slip over the border for every one who is caught and sent back. Although the report said improvements could be made by better coordination, it added that the problems would persist as long as the government opted for a border that allowed free trade and commerce and unless the Mexican government increased its cooperative efforts.

Police brutality charged

Associated Press Writer Kentucky Gov. Julian Carroll has ordered an investigation of police brutality charges in a confrontation between state police and striking members of the United Mine Workers union. The order, which was announced Thursday, concerns an incident in which 400 United Mine Workers pickets who tried to halt work at the non-union Green Coal Co. in Daviess County in western Kentucky Tuesday were dispersed by riot-equipped state police using tear gas. Several people were reported injured and 19 arrests were made. Approximately 160,000 members of the UMW have been on strike since their contract with the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association expired Dec. 6. Although federal mediators have assisted negotiations, no agreement has been reached on the key issues of labor stability and the union's depleted health benefit funds. In negotiations Thursday, small bargaining units for the union and coal industry held morning and afternoon sessions. Chief industry spokesman Joseph Brennan said at the close of the sessions, "We're having very long and hard discussions." UMW general counsel Harrison Combs declined comment on the day's discussions except to say bargaining would resume today. In Virginia, the National Labor Relations Board is investigating the Norfolk & Western Railway's complaint of unlawful picketing by striking coal miners.

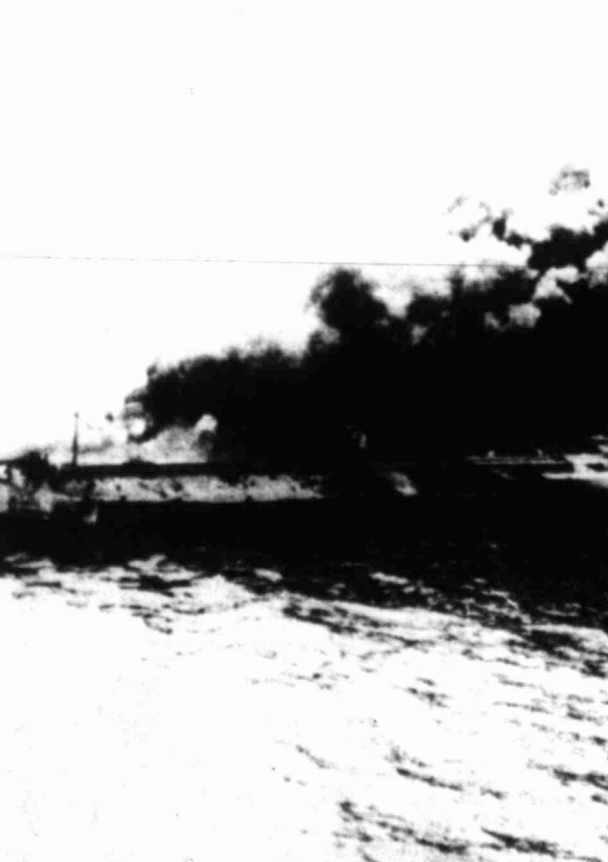

Wildcats scheduled

Wildcats were scheduled in Borden and Mitchell Counties this week in the oil patch. Resources Investment Corp., Midland, will drill the No. 1-23 Waddell, an 8,800-foot wildcat, one location south of the depleted Dalton (Pennsylvanian) field of Borden County, 10 miles north of Gail. Location is 467 feet from the south and 660 feet from the west lines of 23-30-6N-T&P. The discovery, Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. (now Atlantic Richfield Co) No. 1-A Doyce Waddell, was finished July 21, 1958 for 672 barrels of 40.2 gravity oil through a 35-54-inch choke and perforations at 8,325-331 feet, initially identified as Mississippian. Duncan Drilling Co., Big Spring, will drill the No. 1 Coleman Ranch, a 4,500-foot wildcat in Mitchell County, 1 3/4 miles south of the depleted Hodnett (Strawn reef) field. Location is 990 feet from the south and 2,310 feet from the east lines of 74-94-H&TC. The Hodnett field produced at 7,507 feet.

More drilling in America

Rotary Rig drilling was up in both Texas and the nation last week compared to a year ago. The total is the U.S. is 2,151 compared to 1,857 a year ago and 2,136 last week. In Texas the total is 833 compared to 722 a year ago and 828 last week. The relative safety of the Liberian fleet came into question earlier this year when four Liberian-registered tankers — the Argo Merchant, Olympic, Oswego-Place and Samsinena — were involved in accidents. A supertanker is a vessel of 300,000 tons or more. By contrast, the Argo Merchant which ran aground and broke up off Nantucket last December was carrying only 7.5 million gallons of oil.

SUPERTANKER COLLISION — The supertanker Venol blazes, sending black smoke into the sky over the Indian Ocean today after colliding off South Africa's southeastern coast with her sister ship, the tanker Venpet. The Venol was carrying a full load of oil, officials said. Two seamen were reported missing, while other crew members of the Liberian-registered ships were rescued by helicopter and ship.

Two supertankers collide Dozens leap from burning decks

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — Two American-owned supertanker sister ships collided in fog and caught fire in the Indian Ocean off South Africa early today, sending flames across the oil-slicked seas. Dozens of crewmen leaped into the water from the burning decks. Bethlehem officials said that the tankers are controlled by a Bethlehem subsidiary. Two seamen were reported missing and 82 other crew members were reported rescued by helicopter and ship. Only one of the supertankers was carrying a full load of oil, estimated at between 58.8 million and 73.5 million gallons, officials said here. The fully loaded 330,954-ton Venol and the 330,869-ton Venpet, which was carrying no oil, collided at about 10 a.m. (3 a.m. EST) 20 miles off Cape St. Francis, 54 miles east of this industrial coastal city. The South African Press Association reported that a 60-mile-long oil slick was building up from the collision site near prime beach area in South Africa. Maritime officials expressed fears about possible pollution and described the collision as the most serious supertanker accident ever along the South African coast. The Japanese-built, four-year-old sister ships were traveling under "a flag of the west African" republic of Liberia, where the world's largest merchant fleet — about 2,600 vessels — is registered.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Government sources said today that the release of President Spyros Kyprianou's kidnapped son might be imminent.

The sources said 19-year-old Achilleas Kyprianou could be freed by early afternoon.

There was no immediate official confirmation of the report and no indication the government would meet the kidnappers' demand for amnesty for all political offenders. But there was an apparent easing of tension at the presidential office.

Members of parliament and diplomats were smiling as they emerged from meetings with the 45-year-old president.

Kyprianou, with signs of strain gone from his face, came out of his office to thank high school students demonstrating to demand the release of the missing youth.

"I place the national interest above all," Kyprianou told the students. Thousands demonstrated elsewhere in Nicosia in support of the president. "Full support for Mr. Kyprianou" and "Freedom for Achilleas" were among the placards carried.

Standard Oil may owe $250 million in taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of California may owe the state up to $250 million in back taxes, fines and interest, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The state Franchise Tax Board reportedly told Standard it owed the money because it had not paid taxes on $1.7 billion in profits from its 29 percent interest in the Arab American Oil Co. (Aramco).

Aramco is a firm formed by a consortium of major companies to develop oil fields in Saudi Arabia.

The tax board claimed that overdue taxes amount to $156 million and that penalties and interest could push the figure to $250 million, or more than one-fourth of the firm's 1976 net income. However, company officials said they would "vigorously protest" the huge tax claim.

Standard shifted ownership of the Aramco shares in 1968 to a subsidiary, Chevron of Europe. But the state tax board claimed the transfer was actually a sale and that Standard would have to pay taxes on the increased value of the shares.

Emmett A. Murphy, Standard's general tax counsel, argued that the transfer was a "nontaxable contribution of capital" from the parent firm to its subsidiary.

Earlier today the kidnappers were reported to have extended their deadline 24 hours, until 10 o'clock tonight (3 p.m. EST). A local newspaper reported Thursday that the kidnappers warned Kyprianou they would send him the of his son if their demand was not met.

A spokeswoman said the government has information leading it to believe the youth is alive. "The government thinks he is alive," she said.

The kidnappers are believed to be members of EOKA-B, the underground movement dedicated to "enosis," the union of Cyprus with Greece.

A military source said eight Greek Cypriot and Greek officers attached to the National Guard had been arrested for questioning about the abduction.

Howling winds, some gusting as high as 59 mph, kicked up dust in most of West Texas today as a fast-moving cold front was poised to enter the state.

The National Weather Service at El Paso issued a traveler's advisory for the Guadalupe Pass and Davis Mountains after winds gusted to 59 mph in that area. They said the winds should continue through the day.

The winds were kicking up dust along the Texas-New Mexico border early today and forecasters said the wind would pick up over the remainder of the western half of the state during the day.

Webb at last gets off high center

At last, the red tape over Webb Air Force Base appears to be diminishing.

Big Spring gained "right of entry" into the west side alert hanger (Building 1101) this week, and immediately, the announcement came that Cotton Machinery Co., Inc., of California would begin making cotton module equipment on the site.

The breakthrough came just like the cavalry riding up at the last second. Cotton Machinery Co. needed badly to begin relocating its Lubbock assembly plant by the first of the year.

This community had been encountering nothing but delays in its efforts to industrialize the former air base and transfer its control to the City of Big Spring. While the Air Force still had complete control of the base, the city was able to get "right of entry" on several buildings, which allowed firms such as Lubbock

Manufacturing Co. (a tank truck plant) to locate there.

But when the base went into "excess" status and began being kicked about by various federal agencies, the red tape became impossible. For five months there appeared to be little or no progress.

MEANWHILE, the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Industrial Team kept plugging away to locate industry at the base. They would take a prospect to Webb, negotiate a possible agreement with him, but the city would find itself unable to obtain a "right of entry."

A "right of entry" is only an agreement to allow a particular facility to be leased before the actual transfer of the base to the City of Big Spring can be hammered out.

The city had requested "right of entry" to 36 different buildings which were being held up for reasons unknown in Washington.

For a while, this was tolerable. But the industries began to need the Webb facilities. The Webb Steering Committee began to worry that the lack of movement in Washington might actually nullify the community's considerable recovery efforts.

SO MAYOR Wade Choate worked on the problem last week while he was in Washington. Then City Manager Harry Nagel and Industrial Park Manager Harry Spannaus spent two days early this week working on the problem.

The result is that the transfer process of Webb has begun moving again.

Mayor Choate said Thursday that he had received almost daily calls from the General Services Administration, which has become quite sensitive to the letter's and newspaper article's criticism over the delays.

The mayor expects to soon be able to announce that "right of entry" has been cleared on all 36 buildings which had been bogged down in the paperwork.

But problems still exist. Nagel said that at a meeting with GSA in Washington, it was agreed that Big Spring could keep the names of its industrial prospects confidential. Later this week, it appeared government agencies might renege on that part of the understanding.

Big Spring is not out of the red tape woods yet; but it does seem that progress has been made which will allow our town to push ahead on its industrial efforts — from the Lockheed project to the small but valuable industries which have been eyeing Webb.

Why sleds?

Around the rim

Bob Burton

In typing letters to Santa Claus, I am struck by the number of children who ask for sleds.

I mean, I like Texas and the winters here are certainly a change from the blue, windy frigid months I was used to in the north. But I have never yet seen a chance to really do some sledding.

Last November we got five inches here at one point, and it hung around for a few days. But to really get down to some sledding, you've got to have a long, steep, clear run and at least two good snowfalls.

THE HILLS begin as a white blanket of soft, deep snow. Very pretty, but it won't serve for sled riding. The first requirement was to send a toboggan down to pack some of the surface. The first run was always tremendously slow as the new snow packed up under the broad front of the wooden toboggan and the six or seven aboard jerked back and forth trying to get up some momentum. If the travellers hit a particularly deep drift, the snow would fly up from the front of the sled, completely covering them in a white dome.

After the original track was made, sleds were gradually brought into play as the packed surface grew slicker and slicker. The best hill in town was actually a road, closed by the police after every good snowfall. During a couple of occasions each year, schools would close and the quarter-mile run would become packed with small shrieking sledders who would as soon run over your toe as look at you and older, more placid sledders who never belly-flopped, but usually would carry a small child before them as they descended slowly, and then seat the child on the sled to be placidly pulled back uphill.

The maintenance crew in the village rolled out oil drums at the beginning of the sledding season and they stood on a couple of intersection corners along the route all winter. They looked odd when the ground was clear, but come the snow some philanthropist would stake them with wood and they would glow cherry-red until late at night.

AS I hit my teenage years, sledding became more of a nocturnal activity. Most of the traffic would disappear from the hill as dusk fell and the temperature dropped, but under the gas streetlights a few hardy souls would remain to take advantage of the freezing surface and skim faster than ever down the gloomy hill.

Of course, a jump was required for the ultimate in sledding challenge. In the freezing air, we generally would start with snow to form the wedge, use cardboard or plywood for the ramp, and pour hot water over the whole thing. We used hot water because we thought it froze faster than cold water.

In a day or two the jump was ready and bruises, bent runners, and the exhilaration of flying combined in the most daring.

I always carried a candle in my pocket to wax the runners.

So, while we probably won't have a white Christmas, if it snows this year and someone is going sledding, call and tell me where the hill is. I'd like to sled again.

Jimmy's resolution

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Hopes inside the Carter administration for better things next year have been boosted by this word coming out of the Oval Office: Jimmy Carter wants to rid himself of as much detail as possible in the second year of his presidency.

That is an unpublicized New Year's resolution both Carter cronies and key officials devoutly hope the President will not forget. The overflowing in-basket that has become the trademark of this presidency not only means Mr. Carter may be devoting too much time to the wrong activity, it is also viewed inside the administration and on Capitol Hill as a source of possible harm. Put bluntly, the President in solitary contemplation sometimes gets the wrong ideas about matters better left to the experts.

THIS REMARKABLE FACT tells much about bitter disappointments of the first Carter year felt by many of his supporters. Supremely confident of his own intellect, he has developed neither a top-notch White House staff nor a trusted kitchen cabinet of experienced counselors. This leaves no way to protect him from his own misinterpretation of the facts. Accordingly, his New Year's resolution to step back from the deluge of details is welcome news in the administration.

When Carter intimate Charles Kirbo visited here from Georgia recently saying how much older his friend looked, he echoed a prevailing theme of Washington. While the conventional holiday wisdom of 1974 and 1975 was that President Ford ought to cancel his annual skiing vacation and get down to work, the conventional wisdom today is that President Carter ought to let up on his work and get down to play.

Actually, there is divided opinion in his official family about the seriousness of the President's workaholic affliction. Some officials point out he is seldom at his desk much after 5:30 p.m. and obviously enjoys weekends at Camp David. But others note that whenever and wherever Mr. Carter takes time off, he carries that ubiquitous file folder bulging with work — and actually plunges into it.

WHAT WORRIES EVERYBODY, in addition to whether the President is working too hard, is whether he is doing the wrong work. Beginning with the economic stimulation package nearly a year ago, Mr. Carter has probed and scrutinized every program with intensive, solitary study. The procedure reflects his massive self-confidence and engineer's belief that he can master any situation by himself.

The danger of this is best shown by tax reform. Entering the presidency with his campaign litany that the tax system is "a disgrace to the human race" but with precious few details, he became immersed in a self-taught cram course on the Internal Revenue Code.

According to congressional tax experts, Mr. Carter got a few things wrong — dangerously wrong. The decision to set aside comprehensive tax reform because of the needed quick tax cut next year saves him from most such mistakes. But insiders report that, as a self-educated tax expert, the President had checked the wrong box too many times on the option sheets.

There are hordes of tax experts at the Treasury and in Congress whose advice the President could tap.

Angina patient wants 'high' living

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am being treated for angina pectoris. I had an attack two years ago and have been under a doctor's care since then. My checkups have been satisfactory. They include blood pressure tests and ECGs. I am 62.

My problem is that my husband will retire soon and we want to move to a town where the elevation is 7,000 feet. My doctor's only comment was, "Why move?" What is wrong with this town? He does not say yes or no to my question about moving. I would appreciate your thoughts. — Mrs. M.R.

I can understand your doctor's non-committal comment, and I don't believe he is speaking on behalf of the local Chamber of Commerce. For one thing, 7,000 feet can be the dividing line in such matters. It's at about that elevation where folks who are going to have problems are more likely to have them. It's not a predictable matter.

You can answer part of your question yourself. If you have visited and spent any time in the new area and haven't had symptoms, it means your system has adjusted to it. If you had any symptoms at all — slight dizziness, shortness of breath, or the angina pains — you should be warned. I don't like to raise unnecessary ghosts for you, but I should note that the excitement and exercise of a move of this kind can take its own toll.

Remember, also, that as a rule angina tends to get worse rather than better, so you have the future to think about. Angina pain is caused by a lack of oxygen supply to the heart. As a rule, any angina patient is going to have a harder time at high (thinner) altitudes than other people. If the choice is yours, opt for a lower altitude. You can usually interpret a non-committal answer such as your doctor's leaning more to the negative than to the positive.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have trouble with my eyes. At times one eye looks over to the side while the other is looking ahead. Everywhere I go someone is telling me that one eye is crooked. It hurts my feelings. Is there anything I can do to correct it? — Miss J.E.

This sounds like an eye-muscle imbalance. Nothing you can do until it's seen by an eye doctor and diagnosis made. I suggest you see one soon. It can be helped.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 15-year-old virgin. I discovered what looked like a pimple in the vulva area. I fear it might have been a chancre or the first sign of syphilis, even though I've never had sexual relations. What was it? Am I worrying needlessly? — Miss S.T.

Probably a tiny cyst. A chancre is a painless open sore and not a pimple. If it has disappeared, forget it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl 17 years old. When I go to the bathroom I notice blood in my stool. Also, I've been having stomach pains and antacids don't help them. The pains in the stomach seem worse when I eat fried foods. Could you tell me what this can be? — D.F.

Can be a good many things. Best you find out which — promptly.

Red blood in the stool can be caused by hemorrhoids or rectal fissures. The stomach ache could mean ulcers. Coming after a meal of fried foods, it could mean faulty gall bladder. Dark (black) stool can mean bleeding high in the intestinal tract (as from an ulcer).

Subtle loss of blood over a prolonged period can cause anemia. You need a stomach X ray as well as a rectal examination and a stool study.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can laxatives make one lose weight? — H.M.

Not if you're eating regularly. All laxatives do is make you get rid of residue from your food more quickly. Laxatives act on the lower part of the colon where this residue collects. The nutrients are absorbed higher in the digestive system.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that tight ponytails can cause hair to fall out? — Miss Y.R.

Yes. It can put a strain on the roots and cause some loss. Same goes for overnight curlers.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. Dr. Thosteson's new booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist" tells you why. For your copy, write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Dear Editor: I cannot overstate the need for law and order in this society of ours. It was indeed an act of violence to harm, when both the assailants of Mr. Thurwanger and Mrs. Delnor Poss did their vicious acts.

We as civilized people should thank and be grateful for such law officials as Mr. Thurwanger and Mr. Leroy Spires. When our system can be run by people who term their actions as "injustice" then we are indeed in the hands of unauthorized law.

Justice must be supported through our law to suppress those prowling on innocent victims. Thanks also to Marj Carpenter. Do not be intimidated by those who would like to suppress the news.

Mrs. C. Holcomb Lamesa

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a teenager and I am confused about sex. I know you are not supposed to go "all the way" before marriage, but just how far can you go without sinning? — P. K. S.

DEAR P. K. S.: Jesus said that "whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart" (Matthew 5:28). This indicates that we can sin in this area of our lives without even touching another person. The standard the Bible sets for us is in our minds and hearts, not just in the amount of physical contact we experience. As physical beings there is always a point at which physical contact inevitably brings about thoughts and desires that are wrong outside of marriage.

God has created us with the ability to express our love in a physical way, but outside of marriage this must be carefully held in check. As you indicate, fornication is a sin, condemned by Scripture. Paul told the young Timothy, "Flee also youthful lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart" (II Timothy 2:22). Avoid excessive physical stimulation. Put Christ at the center of your relationships. Commit this whole area of your life to God, and let Him lead you to the person He has chosen for your life partner.

One of the problems with any dating relationship that stresses the physical is that such things begin to overshadow all else. But there is much more to love than physical closeness. When you read I Corinthians 13 you see that true love is selfless, constantly seeking the good of the other person. This is the kind of love God has for us in Jesus Christ.

Cocaine tax scheme unveiled

Miami (AP) — After a two-year investigation, a Texas-based cocaine smuggling ring has been broken with the arrests of eight people, the Drug Enforcement Administration has announced.

The ring covered up drug profits by using banks in the Grand Cayman Islands that are covered by secrecy of transaction laws, authorities explained Thursday.

DEA agents arrested eight persons, including a North Dallas businessman, in Miami Wednesday night and U.S. marshals arrested a Dallas attorney in that city to culminate the two-year investigation, DEA spokesman Ted Swift said.

One pound of cocaine seized in conjunction with the arrests in Miami, which Swift said followed a day of negotiations in which some of the defendants promised to deliver 40 pounds of cocaine to DEA undercover agents for $850,000.

Among those arrested in Miami was North Dallas businessman Harold E. Oldham Jr., 33, president of Startraans, Inc., a transportation firm that rents luxury buses to traveling entertainment groups.

Dallas attorney Raymond A. Enstam, 40, was arrested at his home and IRS agents armed with a search warrant seized a number of documents at his office, represented as drug sale profits, was turned over to Enstam by DEA undercover agents who accompanied him to the Cayman Islands from Dallas last month, Swift said. On arrival there, Enstam allegedly converted the cash into a cashier's check in the amount of $46,220 at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. The balance went to Enstam, Oldham and others as commissions for the laundering service, Swift said.

The Cayman Islands, a small chain south of Cuba with about 3,500 population, has more than 300 banks.

Arrested in addition to Oldham were: John W. Bland, 43, Miami; Shirley A. Ruggiero, 38, North Miami; her son, William, 21, North Miami; Ronald D. Schiller, 28, Fort Lauderdale; Wanda Brown, 28, Hialeah; Walter Hal Metz, 36, Hialeah; Joseph Evans, 34, Johnson City, Tenn.

All were charged with possession with intent to distribute cocaine.

RUBBLE REMOVED — Workers watch as a large crane swings the tail section of the wrecked DC-3 on to a flat car as the remains of the plane are cleared away at Dress Regional Airport in Evansville, Ind., Thursday.

The aircraft, in which 29 including the University of Evansville basketball team members died, will be reconstructed in a nearby hangar for investigators who are attempting to find the cause of the accident.

No parole for busnapping trio

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Three admitted kidnapers may spend the rest of their lives in prison because a judge ruled that three schoolgirl captives suffered bodily harm from fainting spells, nosebleeds and stomach upsets.

The defendants — James Schoenfeld, 26, Richard Schoenfeld, 23, and Fred Woods, 26 — were convicted Thursday of kidnapping with bodily harm under a tough law that calls for a life sentence with no parole.

Superior Court Judge Leo Deegan denied the case without a jury, ruling that three of the 26 young captives had suffered bodily harm directly linked to the July 1976 ordeal.

Describing the kidnappings as an "ordeal of terror," Deegan said it was the testimony of some of the children that convinced him bodily injury had occurred.

The defendants admitted kidnapping the youngsters and school bus driver Ed Ray at gunpoint, but they denied five more serious charges of kidnap with bodily harm.

They were acquitted on two counts of bodily harm involving Ray and a child, Cynthia Van Hoff.

The kidnapers have not been sentenced. Deegan scheduled a Jan. 16 hearing to discuss the request of defense attorneys that the sentence be modified by their showing mitigating circumstances.

Ted Merrill, representing the younger Schoenfeld, asked for the hearing.

Outside of court, he said he was not certain what approach he would take but one possibility was trying to have the statute declared unconstitutional.

"The defendants are not bad kids. There are some things we want to bring to the attention of the judge," said Lester Gendron, attorney for James Schoenfeld.

Gendron, who described his client as surprised, said, "This was an erroneous decision and it certainly will be appealed."

In his swift ruling, which came immediately after closing arguments, the judge relied heavily on the testimony of the victims.

He discarded the prosecution's key contention — that the victims suffered heat exhaustion — by saying he was not convinced the evidence supported that conclusion.

"I am satisfied, however, from the testimony of some of the children that they fainted and had stomach distress," he said.

Jodi Heffington, 12, Jennifer Brown, 10, and Rebecca Reynolds, 10, had testified that the stifling heat in the van which transported them 100 miles from their central California hometown to a rock quarry had caused fainting, nosebleeds and stomach upsets.

They experienced similar problems, they said, after their captors placed them in a buried moving van, where they said they gasped for air and sweated profusely during the 16½ hours before they dug their way out.

The victims and their parents expressed relief at the verdict. If the defendants had been acquitted, they would have been eligible for parole in seven years.

Jodi Heffington, 12, said she was "glad." Rebecca Reynolds, 8, said, "They got what they deserved."

Dangerous items study

costs $157 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public spent $157 million over four years on a government safety agency that had only a token effect on reducing the number of dangerous products, a congressional study says.

The General Accounting Office, a congressional investigating agency, on Thursday delivered a highly critical report on the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which is supposed to "protect the public from unreasonable risks of injury associated with consumer products."

The GAO said the commission took an average of 834 days to develop its first three standards under the Consumer Product Safety Act, compared to 330 days specified in the act.

These three standards were for swimming pool slides, architectural glass and matchbooks.

The GAO said the three products account for less than 1 percent of the injuries that require treatment in hospital emergency rooms.

"Also, up to Dec. 30, 1976, the commission was developing standards to protect consumers from the unreasonable risk of injury associated with three other products — television receivers, aluminum wire and power lawnmowers. None of these standards had been issued as of June 30, 1977, although they had been under development for an average of 845 days."

"I am satisfied, however, from the testimony of some of the children that they fainted and had stomach distress," he said.

Genetic guidelines may be relaxed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Institutes of Health is considering relaxing guidelines on controversial genetic research that could create new drugs and improved crops.

Critics say it also could produce virulent disease organisms against which humans, animals and plants have no defense should the microbes escape the laboratory.

The proposed revised federal guidelines were discussed Thursday at a special meeting of the advisory committee to the NIH director, Dr. Donald S. Fredrickson, who will decide early next year whether to put them into effect.

At issue is the so-called recombinant DNA research — reshaping deoxy-ribonucleic acid, or DNA, the basic genetic component of life. The work involves splitting and transferring genetic material from one species of organism to another, creating life forms not found naturally.

Concern about potential hazards led NIH to issue guidelines in July 1976, which specified how the work was to be done and banned some kinds of research. Congress is considering legislation to control the research and some communities where the work is being done have enacted local laws.

The relaxed guidelines would allow scientists to work with certain organisms without prior NIH approval and give researchers more options on how to reduce the risks of microbes escaping into the environment.

Dr. John Littlefield, head of the Recombinant Advisory Committee, a group of experts who drafted the proposed revisions, said his group was "pretty convinced that potential hazards have been overstated."

However, others testifying at the meeting said some recent data, indicating recombinant DNA research may not pose as many potential risks as previously thought, were too new and unproven to justify relaxing vigilance.

Speaking in favor of relaxed guidelines, Dr. Bernard Davis, professor of bacterial physiology at Harvard Medical School, said the danger from recombinant DNA is less than working with normal disease-causing organisms.

Davis said, "I would conclude that the original guidelines are far too severe."

Those favoring eased restrictions cited recent research at Stanford University indicating crossbreeding between species occurs more often in nature than previously believed and is therefore not truly "unnatural" or necessarily dangerous.

Also, tests with organisms used in the research indicate they don't survive well outside the laboratory and pose less of a potential hazard if they escaped.

However, speakers like Nancy Pfund of Palo Alto, Calif., an environmentalist representing the Sierra Club, said some of the new data used to justify relaxing guidelines are either unpublished or not widely available for scientific review.

Until the data are proven under traditional scientific review, they should not be used to justify easing the rules, she said.

Nuclear test triggered leukemia?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is trying to find out if soldiers and others present at a 1957 nuclear test in Nevada to determine whether they have contracted leukemia as a result of radiation exposure.

The National Research Council, a quasi-governmental agency that is part of the National Academy of Sciences, has been assigned the job of conducting a study "to identify, locate and obtain necessary follow-up medical data" on thousands of soldiers and others who were present at the test, named "Smokey," on Aug. 31, 1957.

The researchers will work from a list of 3,413 persons the Army believes were present at the test. The names were compiled from various rosters and from registers of badges issued at the time of the test.

Defense officials said they expect researchers to concentrate on available medical records of known participants and that those participants may not necessarily be physically examined.

The study is expected to take about two years, officials said.

Although the study will focus on the Smokey test's participants, officials indicated the project could be expanded to consider the effects on those who attended some other above-ground atomic tests, including one on Nov. 1, 1951, called "DOG Event," and a 1953 test at Desert Rock.

The possible magnitude of the problem, if the government should undertake a widespread study of the possible effects of past nuclear tests, is underscored by an estimate that about 200,000 persons participated in such tests between 1946 and 1963, when they ended.

Attention was drawn to the situation last spring when some former servicemen who said they were present at the 1957 Smokey shot at Yucca Flats, Nev., reported having contracted leukemia and blamed that test for their illness.

So far, the Army says it knows of six men who have been positively identified as having leukemia after participating in the Smokey test. But the Army says "there has been no confirmed link" between the incidence of leukemia in test participants and their presence at the test site at the time of the blast.

However, the national Center for Disease Control says two cases of leukemia have been "definitely" linked to the Smokey test.

Dr. Glyn G. Caldwell, deputy chief of the CDC cancer branch, said four other cases "probably" are associated with the test.

The Defense Department has made no effort to contact those on the list of 3,413 persons who witnessed the Smokey test. The Army reported about 40 persons had contacted it after reports of the possible leukemia link with the test appeared.

Hughes was Texan, Texans don't lie

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury that will decide Howard Hughes' legal residence at the time of his death heard and saw the late recluse billionaire Thursday in a 1947 newsreel in which Hughes said he made money selling oil well tools and beer to Texans.

The newsreels showed an aggressive, irritated Hughes responding to charges that his companies had mismanaged some $5 million in aircraft construction contracts and reaped excessive profits.

Hughes' comments were before a Congressional committee investigating the aircraft construction contracts.

The newsreels were shown in the probate court of Judge Pat Gragory apparently to show Hughes' declaration that he was a Houston resident and that the bulk of his fortune at the time came from his Houston-based operations.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill is trying to prove that Hughes was a Texas resident at the time of his death in April 1976. If Hill is successful, Texas could gain as much as $100 million in inheritance taxes.

Attorneys for the co-administrators of the Hughes estate are trying to establish Nevada as Hughes' legal residence. Nevada has no inheritance taxes.

The second phase of the trial will concern the validity of the so-called Mormon will.

Replying to a charge in the newsreel that he made a questionable $5 million in profits, Hughes said "I'm not sure that is a correct statement, but the fact remains that if I made $5 million, I made it selling oil well tools and beer to people down in Texas."

One of a million carolers. And on Christmas Eve she will bring comfort, reassurance, joy to many.

Mrs. J. is blind. She has never seen the carolers... but eagerly she listens for their arrival.

Mr. H. is an invalid. His nurse invites the boys and girls in and serves them cocoa. Mr. H. loves their happy smiles as well as their joyous voices.

Little Paul R. broke his leg last Saturday. That's why he's not caroling this year. But they'll be around to sing "Silent Night" under his window. That one is Paul's favorite.

When you hear the carolers on Christmas Eve, pause and consider the Love that inspired their singing. That Love was born in a Bethlehem stable one holy night centuries ago.

St. Paul Lutherans name Parish officers

The St. Paul Lutheran Parish Workers met for their December meeting at the home of Mrs. George Von Hassell, 3701 Caroline Street. Mrs. Carroll Kohl gave the topic on the history of Christmas as it is today. The final plans for the Progressive Party held on December 11 were made with the following as hosts: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bell, Mr. and Mrs. August Graumann, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Henkel and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roeber.

Mrs. Harold Bentley, and treasurer, Mrs. H.T. Hansen. Other officers completing their second year of their term of office are: Mrs. J.D. Nelson, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Carroll Kohl, 2nd vice-president and Mrs. Guilford Jones, secretary. In closing Mrs. Kohl read the poem "The Clumsy Camel" by Virginia Mueller and the group sang "Silent Night."

Refreshments were provided by each person attending with their favorite Christmas treat. Twelve responded to the roll call.

Two services

Two Christmas Eve services will be held at First Presbyterian Church again this year. The early service will be at the Christmas Candle and Carol Service at 7 p.m. The 11-15 p.m. service will be Communion and will be held in the chapel.

Prayer vigil set at church

The First Church of God announced Christ's Birthday prayer vigil which got under way throughout the world Dec. 14, running through Christmas Day. The Texas Day of Prayer, along with Montana, Inland Empire, Guam, British Isle, India and Egypt has been designated for Wednesday, Dec. 21.

The Women of the local Church of God will observe the hour of 6-7 a.m. The vigil will be held in the sanctuary of the First Church of God under the direction of the Women of the Church of God.

The scripture for the vigil is "Whoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do that the Father may be glorified in the Son."

Ruth Class is entertained here

The Ruth Class of North Birdwell Methodist Church was entertained in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. David Pohl Monday night.

Cash gifts were given to the state hospital volunteers for a recreation project.

Mrs. Pohl presented the devotion with Mrs. William Carter reading a Christmas story.

Gifts were exchanged. Refreshments were served to 15 members. Mrs. Ellie Bearden gave the closing prayer.

Messiah slated at Methodist

The First United Methodist Church will present a performance of "The Messiah" Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

The Chancel Choir, augmented by other singers, will present Handel's Messiah Sunday.

Soloists will include Joyce Bradley, Marilyn Newsom, Patty Parham, Susan Dawes, Kim Kirchoff and Ken Carney.

Joan Beil will be pianist. Sam and Dayton Robertson will play the trumpet parts and Brad Robertson the timpani.

Charles Parham Jr. is organist and director.

St. Mary's Episcopal Church will feature a special service

10:30 a.m. Sunday which will include carolling and lessons.

In addition, three guest soloists from Midland, Dr. and Mrs. James Huddleston and Mrs. Sue Oldham, will join in the carolling session.

Gleaners class of Baptist Temple hosts party

Mrs. Ethel Simmons and Mrs. Mabel Kirkland were co-hostesses with Mrs. Ernest Steel for the Gleaners Sunday School Class of Baptist Temple Church. They met Thursday night in the Steele home for their annual Christmas party.

The devotional was given by Mrs. A.W. Page from John 3:15. She asked, "Do we think more about giving than getting?" and added "Christmas is a time love shown to one another." She urged them to "have a Christ centered Christmas" and tell the Christmas story to some one.

A committee composed of Mrs. Olean Melton, Mrs. Mabel Cravens and Mrs. A.F. Hill was appointed to plan a Christmas basket for a needy family. Mrs. Mildred White, class teacher, urged the members to set up a regular system of visitation to the rest homes.

Gifts were planned for extension members. Decorations carried out the Christmas theme and gifts were exchanged.

The class meets quarterly and will hold their next meeting March 9 in the home of Mrs. A.F. Hill with Mrs. Bob Wren, Mrs. Melton and Mrs. Louise Dunlap as co-hostesses.

Baptists host rest trailer

All of the local Baptist Churches have combined to act as official hosts at a hospitality wagon in downtown Big Spring for busy Christmas shoppers.

The trailer, loaned for the occasion by D and C Sales, is located on the northeast corner of the courthouse square.

Inside different churches serve refreshments and have comfortable chairs for shoppers to rest. The trailer will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily through Christmas Eve.

The local Baptist Association is sponsoring the rest stop with the hope that it will add a little to the Christmas spirit for Big Spring shoppers.

They expressed appreciation to D and C Sales for their cooperation in loaning them the trailer.

BEAT MAN — A Cleveland, Ohio policeman waits for an assignment under a blackboard showing only a few cars on patrol. About 90 per cent of Cleveland's force was out Thursday with the "blue flu" — actually a protest for higher wages. Cleveland's mayor Dennis Kucinich has taken a hard stand against the strikers.

'Blue flu' epidemic Mayor calls cops 'crybabies'

CLEVELAND (AP) — The police lieutenant was pecking away at a typewriter in the dingy office of Cleveland's 3rd District police headquarters. "When was the last time you had to type a report?" he was asked. "I never typed one before," he replied. He was among a handful of officers who reported for work in the 3rd District Thursday night at the end of the first day of a "blue flu" epidemic. Police said about 80 per cent of the city's 1,500 of-

City manager from Westbrook

WESTBROOK — A 38-year-old native of Westbrook, Kerry Sweatt, has been named city manager of Odessa. Kerry is the son of Emory Sweatt of Westbrook. Currently city manager of the city of Paris, Tex., Sweatt will begin his duties in January. A 1957 graduate of Westbrook High School, Sweatt attended West Texas State University at Canyon, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1961.

Hobbs invokes parks curfew

HOBBS, N.M. — A 10 p.m., curfew will go into effect at the Industrial-Air Park here as soon as signs can be posted. City Manager Joe Harvey says the curfew is being invoked to combat vandalism. Harvey said vandalism has been reduced in city parks here by an 11 p.m. curfew.

Auto editor dies

DETROIT (AP) — Robert M. Finlay, 64, veteran auto journalist and editor-at-large of the trade publication Automotive News, died Thursday. He worked for the Detroit Free Press for seven years before joining Automotive News in 1943.

Hughes forged his handwriting

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The strange handwriting style of Howard Hughes — a shaky disconnected scrawl — may show he had "a disturbance of motor coordination," a handwriting expert says. Arnold Etman, who analyzed Hughes' handwritten business memos and the disputed Mormon will, testified, "I'm convinced that the will was written by Howard R. Hughes."

Actually, Etman said, Hughes' handwriting in later years was so "irregular" that his business memos could have been mistaken for forgeries. "If this is not a forgery, he forged his own handwriting," Etman said Thursday, pointing to a memo authenticated as Hughes' writing.

Etman, who was flown here from Holland to testify in the Mormon will trial, told jurors that Hughes' writing — both in memos and the contested will — is typical of a person with abnormal motor control. "We find that in a disturbance of motor coordination of the writer," he said. Motor control, he noted, is "the way in which signals given by the brain are conveyed to the muscles of the writing hand." Etman, a short, bespectacled man with a Van Dyke beard, stood beside poster-size blowups of Hughes' writing and the disputed will. He showed jurors how the writing changed from large to small letters and how letters of words failed to connect. "The general aspect of motor disturbance seems to be equally bad as in the will," he said of one memo. Etman, retired from the Dutch Ministry of Justice, was called by Harold Rhoden, attorney for Noah Dietrich, the executor who seeks to prove the will authentic. Rhoden says kidney disease affected Hughes' brain causing the strange scrawl. Hughes' relatives, not mentioned in the will, contend it's a forgery. "When this will was first shown to you in Holland," Rhoden asked Etman, "did you know who Howard Hughes was?"

We'll see

I have this feeling down the nape of my neck that this will be the last season for the Big Spring Steer football team to "get no respect."

I'm not talking win after win here. I'm talking All-District balloting. The 5-4A All-District team list was released this week, and on it were 72 names, 72 positions that were nominated for, voted on, chosen to the team and chosen honorable mention.

There were two Big Spring players on that list: senior split end Kenneth Coffey (6-0, 170) and senior quarterback Mike Abreo (5-7, 150). They were both named honorable mention.

Again, the Steers didn't have anyone named to the first team.

After taking a close look Wednesday night at the Sports Banquet of the freshmen, junior varsity and returning varsity members of the respective gridiron squads, I'd have to say there's a nucleus for some "respect" next season.

At least a handful of perspective all-district gangbusters stood out in the crowd. Whether or not they will break into the ranks of the "Little SWC" elite is still in the cards. But the potential is there.

By the way, this marks the second year in a row Coffey has made the honorable mention list — not a bad feat considering the caliber of athlete in the best AAAA district in the state of Texas.

The ex-Coahoma griddler, Charles Tindol, who you'll remember scored the final TD in Abilene Christian University's 24-7 NAIA Division I national football championship win over Southwestern Oklahoma did okay as a freshman this year for the Wildcats.

He didn't see that much action, but when he got in the middle of the scuffle, he showed himself proud. I.e. He carried the ball 18 times for 86 yards, a 4.8 yard average and ran for three touchdowns.

Tindol also caught three passes for 45 yards and was the fifth leading scorer for the 'Cats. He also had two unassisted tackles.

Brother Robbie, who also carried a freshman's eligibility ranking this year, was in the five unassisted tackles and one assisted. Robbie also recovered a fumble, that one in the championship game.

Bob Rogers took a crumpled piece of paper out of his pocket yesterday that said Joe Sharpnack made a hole-in-one on Munny's number one hole, using a four-iron.

Witnessing the event were Buck Buchanan, Jim Roger and Riley Wyatt.

Stanton's Terry Neill, who looks more like "Grizzly Adams" as each day goes by, remarked that he was glad to see the new girls' dressing rooms in the works for Stanton High School.

I sure will be glad when all that new money starts flowing into Big Spring so that something can be done about Memorial. "Yes, I haven't given up yet." Stadium's greatly needed renovation.

Pete apologizes to Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers said today Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner, has apologized to the Oilers for a mistake that cost them a Houston touchdown in an Oct. 30 game Cincinnati went on to win in overtime, 13-10.

Jack Cherry, Oiler director of public relations, said Rozelle telephoned the apology to Coach Bum Phillips on Nov. 2 after viewing game film.

"We talked with the league office Sunday night and it was agreed we would confirm the call if asked about it," Cherry said. Phillips made no reference to the call at a Monday news conference when he was asked if he ever thought about the controversial call made by line judge Vince Jacob with only 27 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter and the game tied 10-10.

Phillips said he possibly had thought about it 4,000 or 5,000 times.

"When you look at the standings it's hard not to think about it," he said. Jacob signaled a touchdown when Cincinnati's Willie Shelby misplayed a kickoff and Houston's Steve Baumgartner fell on the free ball in the end zone for what the Oilers contended was a touchdown.

Jacob ruled the ball touched Shelby while the Cincinnati player had one foot out of bounds. Phillips contended at the time Shelby was not out of bounds when the ball bounced into the end zone. Films later showed Shelby was not out of bounds and Shelby was later quoted as saying the ball had not touched him.

Steers advance in tough Reese tournament

LUBBOCK — Utilizing a new starting lineup consisting of Del Poss, Scott Wilder, Kenneth Coffey, Mark Poss and Ken Perry, the Big Spring Steers shocked everyone Thursday afternoon at the Reese AFB Christmas Classic basketball tournament.

In the opening round's biggest upset of the day, the Steers dropped defending tourney co-chairman and defending State Class AA champion, Morton, 53-48.

"Offensively, we just played super," said Coach Tommy Collins. "We attacked their zone deliberately and just had excellent team play."

Ken Perry had another tremendous game, according to Collins. The 6-4 senior shared top scoring honors with Del Poss at 13 markers, but his 13 rebounds were his hero status.

The Bovines displayed a very balanced scoring effort against a solid defensive ballclub. In addition to Perry and Poss' 26 points, Coffey hit for nine, Mark Poss sunk eight, Scott Wilder scored six and Mark Bergeron had four.

"They just did a great job on the boards," said Collins. "Especially Mark Poss, Coffey and Perry. In various spots throughout the game, everyone looked great."

The locals built up an 11 point lead in the third quarter and were on the verge of blowing the defending champs off the court, when Morton put on a last ditch surge. Even though Big Spring was throttled to only eight points in the final stanza, they still held on for a five point victory.

Morton Coach Dan Smith attributed the loss to the play of one of his star players: "As Rusty Lamar seems to go, so goes our team." Smith also indicated that foul trouble plagued his team early.

But probably the most attribute factor to the Morton loss was cohesive team play exhibited by the locals.

In President's Trophy Division action today, the Steers meet El Paso, a 72-58 winner over Lubbock High, at 5:30 p.m. Dimmitt takes on Cooper, Lovington plays Dunbar, and Lubbock High tangled with Morton at 11:30 a.m. in the consolation bracket.

If the Steers beat Address today, they would meet the winner of the Dimmitt-Cooper game Saturday night at 8:30. If they should lose, they would play the loser of that game Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Sands opens district against Borden County in Ackerly Tuesday night, while the girls play Midland Lee at 5 p.m. in a preliminary game.

Leading scorers for Sands were Martin Nichols (18), David Long (14), Bill Wigginton (8), Larry Feaster (8) and Stan Blagrove (5). The Mustangs now sport an 18-1 record.

None went to the general public, says athletics business manager Al Lundstedt. Lundstedt said 7,400 tickets were sent to priority season ticket holders, such as former Longhorn lettermen and members of the Ex-Students' Association and Longhorn Club. Students bought 6,000 tickets, and 1,600 tickets went to Longhorn football players, their parents, and the athletic staff and school officials.

Lundstedt said 700 persons in priority groups were left without tickets.

The Oilers would have to upset the Bengals, who are favored to win, but would go nowhere after Sunday if they lose because they would be 3-3 against Central Division foes. The Steelers are 4-2 in division play.

"Have (Steeler President) Art Rooney send us an incentive bonus for this week's game," the veteran Culp said.

The Steelers say they'll play to win in San Diego, but most eyes are on the Houston game.

"Will Oilers Respond To Steelers' SOS?" a Pittsburgh Press headline asked this week.

Houston Coach Bum Phillips said he hoped to oblige the Pittsburgh fans. "Shoot, if I had to pick anybody to go the playoffs, I'd pick myself," he said, "but I'd rather see the Steelers go than Cincinnati."

Sydney, Australia — Topseeded Vitas Gerulaitis of Kings Point, N.Y. and Roscoe Tanner of Kiawah Island, S.C., scored hard-earned victories over two other Americans and advanced to the quarter-finals of the $210,000 New South Wales Open tennis tournament.

Gerulaitis rallied to beat Tim Gullikson of Onalaska, Wis., 6-7, 6-2, 8-6, while Tanner beat veteran Tom Gorman of Seattle 7-6, 7-5.

Local fems win in Queens Classic

The Big Spring girls advanced to the second round winners' bracket in the first, and what is to be annual, Hawk Queens High School Classic basketball tournament by virtue of a 80-63 pounding of Snyder Thursday night.

"Big Spring's Sherry Byrd exploded for 35 points, Rose Magers added 27 and Salina Harris dropped in 18 to lead the local scoring effort. Lisa Sterling was tops for Snyder with 22.

The victory marked the third straight for the locals, and they now sport a 3-9 season record. The Steers will face the strong Midland club tonight at 8:30.

"Our guards really played well on defense," said Coach Carole Bartasek, "and our forwards put their stuff together too."

In other action Thursday, Deborah Ledbetter's 16 points led Midland Lee past Odessa High, 49-35. Jamie Cruzan popped in 28 for OHS.

Ft. Stockton rolled over San Angelo Central, 40-19, as Pam Turck scored 18 for the winners, and True Evans hit eight for Central. Terry Dean singled the cords for 27 in leading Midland High past Odessa Permian, 68-43. Lorie Powders led Mojoette with 20 markers.

Today's schedule includes Snyder against Permian at 4 p.m.; Odessa versus Central at 5:30; followed by the Midland Lee and Ft. Stockton bout at 7 p.m. The Big Spring-Midland tilt ends second round competition.

"We had a surprisingly good crowd the first day," said Hawk Queen Coach Don Stevens. "It was decent yesterday afternoon and real good last night. Some of these teams are bringing pretty good followings with them. We expect an even bigger crowd today."

Stevens also expressed optimism about the future of the Queens Classic. "This tournament is good for girls' athletics, and in a few years I believe it will build into a very popular event. It's just a matter of getting people out, so they can see what they're missing."

Steelers hope Oilers bang Bengals' bell

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Houston Oilers middle guard Curley Culp believes an Oiler win over the visiting Cincinnati Bengals Sunday should be good for an extra paycheck — from the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Steelers' playoff hopes ride with the outcome of Houston's confrontation with the Bengals, not with their own game in San Diego against the Chargers.

"The only thing I want to know is that when we go out there and beat the stuffing out of the Cincinnati Bengals, when the Steelers go to the Super Bowl, are they gonna send half of their paychecks in care of the Houston Oilers?" Culp asked.

The Steelers, stumbling with an 8-5 record, could secure a playoff berth for the sixth time since 1972. But Houston will have to do it for them.

The Oilers would have to upset the Bengals, who are favored to win, but would go nowhere after Sunday if they lose because they would be 3-3 against Central Division foes. The Steelers are 4-2 in division play.

NFL PLAYER OF THE YEAR — Miami Dolphins' Quarterback Bob Griese grins as he receives the news that he was named Thursday at the National Football League's Player of the Year by the Maxwell Club of Philadelphia.

Tech opens in Vol Classic

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The opening game tonight between Utah and Texas Tech may be the best of four games in the 12th annual Volunteer Classic basketball tournament.

Utah, which fell out of the The Associated Press' top 20 rankings this week because of an 80-79 loss to Long Beach State, is the pre-tourney favorite. Texas Tech, however, is undefeated in its first five games this season.

Host Tennessee, 4-1 with its only loss to San Francisco, meets Dartmouth, winless in three games, in tonight's second preliminary game. Winners tonight play for the Classic championship Saturday night following a consolation game between the two preliminary losers.

The opening game will match Utah's 6-6 guard, Jeff Judkins, and Texas Tech's 6-7 forward Mike Russell. Both are averaging 20-21 points and eight to nine rebounds a game.

After missing four games, Tennessee captain and playmaker Johnny Darden will return to the Vols' lineup for the first time since his near drowning in a swimming accident two weeks ago at Tempe, Ariz. Darden, who scored 18 points in the season opener, began practicing with the team again Tuesday after trainers determined the oxygen count in his blood was sufficient.

Dartmouth is led by 6-8 center Sterling Edwards, who is averaging 15 points a game. Sophomore guard Dave Broll is the Big Green's second leading scorer with 11.5 points a game.

Sophomore forward Reggie Johnson, 6-9, has emerged as the Vols' top scorer and rebounder this season following the departure of Bernard King and Ernie Grunfeld at the end of the 1976-77 season.

Dartmouth, Texas Tech and Utah arrived in Knoxville Thursday and conducted practice sessions Thursday night. This is the first year any of the three teams have played in the Classic.

Tennessee has won the tournament 11 of 12 times since it was started in 1966. Missouri took the crown in 1972.

Plano lost its season opener to South Garland but persevered. The Wildcats tied Sherman but advanced by making more first downs although Sherman later claimed it had more penetrations. Plano also came from 28 points down to defeat Highland Park.

Possible Super Bowl preview coming Sunday

COWBOY FACT SHEET

THIS WEEK — The Dallas Cowboys (11-2) host the Denver Broncos (12-1) in the final 1977 regular season game for both teams. The Cowboys are champions of the AFC Eastern Division this year, while the Broncos are champs of the AFC Western Division and own the best win-loss record in the NFL. Both teams will open the playoffs next week with home games — the Broncos likely to meet the winner of the AFC Central Division at Mile High Stadium in Denver, Dec. 24, while Dallas probably will face the NFC's Wild Card team in Texas Stadium Dec. 26.

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS — Dallas 42, San Francisco 35 (Monday night); Washington 26, St. Louis 20 (Saturday); Philadelphia 17, New York Giants 14.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES — Los Angeles at Washington (Saturday); Denver at Dallas (Sunday); Chicago at New York Giants (Sunday); New York Jets at Philadelphia (Sunday); St. Louis at Tampa Bay (Sunday).

KICKOFF — 3 p.m. CST Sunday at Texas Stadium. Crowd: A sellout, capacity 65,101.

TELEVISION — Telecast nationally by NBC (KXAS-TV, Channel 5, in Dallas-Fort Worth) with Jack Buck and Len Dawson.

RADIO — KRLL (1080 in Dallas), KFJZ (1270 in Fort Worth) and the 10-state Cowboys Radio Network with Frank Gieber, Verne Lundquist and Brad Sham.

SERIES STANDING — The teams have met only once previously, Dallas taking a 22-10 decision at Mile High Stadium in 1973.

THE COACHES — Cowboys Coach Tom Landry heads into the final game of his 18th season at Dallas with a career record of 148-95-6 to rank him sixth among all-time winningest NFL coaches.

Red Miller is in his first year at Denver, and has led the Broncos into the playoffs for the first time in the club's 18-year history.

HOW IT SHAPES UP — "Sure, this will be a possible Super Bowl preview," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry told the press Tuesday at his weekly luncheon, "but it will not be played like a Super Bowl game. "When all the marbles are on the table like they are in the Super Bowl, things can be different. Teams will tend to play it differently.

"Sunday's game with Denver will be more of a pride game, a keep-your-momentum-going game. Every game is important. Just because you have it sewed up (Dallas has won the NFC East and Denver the AFC West), you can't let down. We just have to keep going. We've been at it so long now that we know we just have to go out and play hard."

Landry added that he preferred to play a team of the Broncos' caliber at this stage of the season: "I'd just as soon play them now. We need to play that type of team. We got off to such a fast start this year (8-0) that we just haven't had that many games where we had to win.

"Washington was one (three weeks ago) and Denver will be a good test. No, I do not think they'll have a psychological edge. Red (Miller) said (in a telephone conference hook-up prior to Landry's comments) what they're going to do — take each game at a time.

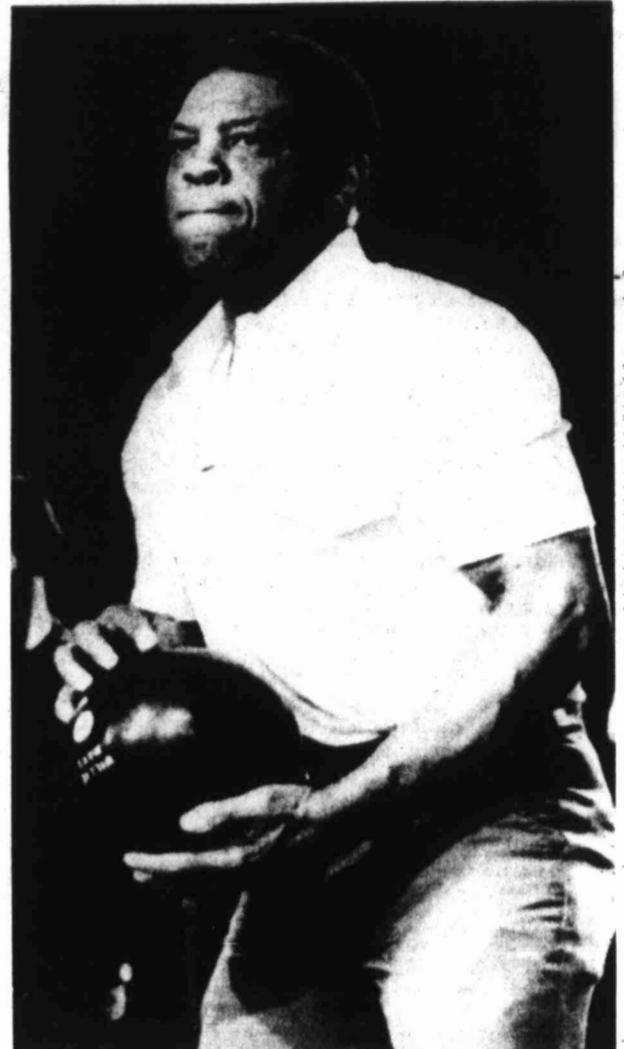

"Denver is a remarkable club. They have managed to stay up all year. They've had good morale, a lot of enthusiasm from their fans, excitement about winning and being in the playoffs. And any time a team starts to smell the roses for the first time, you don't know what they're going to do. They can go a long way with their excitement.

"I'm kinda rootin' for them myself. Of course they have (QB) Craig Morton. We think the world of him. He was a winner with us and he's come into a good team, much like Y.A. Tittle did with the old Giants and Billy Kilmer with Washington. Craig's smart and he knows what he's doing. "They've a very active team with an excellent defense. It'll be a good game."

About his own team's progress, Landry said: "This team has the greatest potential of any team we've ever had. We're still very young, but we've played pretty well all year. We had one bad running game against Pittsburgh and one bad defensive game against San Francisco. But it wasn't a total breakdown against the 49ers. We played good defense against the run.

"I think the plus of our Monday night game (at San Francisco) was Roger Staubach's play. He played very well, he's healthy and back to where we knew he would be. The whole offense played well. San Francisco is no slouch defensively.

NEXT WEEK — The Cowboys will host an AFC Division playoff game in Texas Stadium Dec. 26, with a kickoff time to be determined.

Frustrations may be vented in NFL

By the Associated Press
By Sunday afternoon, a couple of teams around the National Football League may be wishing they were anywhere but on a football field — and they'll vent their frustration on the teams stuck out there with them. In other words:

Another Rocket lost

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets, already suffering from the loss of forward Rudy Tomjanovich, now have lost guard Mike Newlin for at least three weeks with a broken finger. Newlin, expected to shift forward to help replace Tomjanovich, was placed on injured reserve Thursday after breaking the finger Wednesday night in a 113-91 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers.

"He still doesn't want to talk to anybody," Tofel said. "He said he wanted to wait about a week. His face is swollen and the poor guy looks so bad he'd be embarrassed for anyone to see him."

"All teams suffer injuries," Rockets President Ray Patterson said. "We've been lucky to this point. I'm just glad the injuries to Rudy and Newlin didn't happen last year, or we'd have lost the franchise."

Tomjanovich may be out for the season after being hit in the face last Friday by Laker forward Kermit Washington, who was suspended at least 60 days and fined $10,000 following the one-punch fight.

"We'll have to step around and get help," Patterson said. "Meanwhile we'll see what we can do to help ourselves. Rudy White has been sitting on the bench for a couple of years and Robert Reed can play Newlin's position."

Dr. Paul Tofel said in Los Angeles that Tomjanovich's

—The Pittsburgh Steelers, knowing the Cincinnati Bengals have clinched the American Conference Central Division title, will take it out on the San Diego Chargers.

—The New England Patriots, knowing that Miami has eliminated them from the AFC East race, will turn the tables and beat up on Baltimore, thus keeping the Colts out of the playoffs and giving the Dolphins the crown.

And in half a dozen or so other cities around the nation, the NFL season will come to an end virtually unnoticed.

Last week's record was a less-than-sparkling 7-7, putting the record at 124-58 for a .681 percentage. The picks:

Bengals 23, Oilers 17 — Houston, upset over an official's call that kept it from beating the Bengals the first time they met, would love to upset Cincinnati. But playing for a playoff spot is a bigger incentive.

Steelers 17, Chargers 10 — Two ferocious defenses — but Pittsburgh's got a solid offense to go with it.

Dolphins 31, Bills 14 — Bob Griese could see all the holes in the Buffalo defense even without his spectacles. Patriots 24, Colts 20 — The upset Special New England, seething over last Sunday's blocked punt, will give a textbook demonstration of "don't get mad, get even." Rams 21, Redskins 20 — The future is ... well, it's some other time for George Allen. And it's just possible his future is somewhere other than Washington.

Life is just a bowl of Tangerines

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden says he wants FSU's date with Texas Tech in the Tangerine Bowl to be fun for the Seminoles. Bowden said Thursday that side trips to attractions such as Disney World, Cypress Gardens and Circus World will be distracting, but he wants his players to enjoy the trip to Orlando.

After all, Bowden said, Texas Tech will be sight-seeing, too, "so you've got to say they're as dumb as we are."

"You have to make it a reward in some way because you're asking these guys to go out and give you two more weeks of practice in December — and practice in December is drudgery," Bowden said.

The Seminoles, 9-2, play the Red Raiders in the bowl at Orlando next Friday night. Texas Tech is 7-4, but Bowden said that record is deceiving because the Red Raiders lost quarterback Rodney Allison and some key linemen early in the season with injuries.

Allison "probably the best quarterback in the U.S." before the Red Raider star broke his leg early in the season. Allison has returned to action and is expected to play at full speed against Florida State.

The Seminoles must establish a passing game early to beat Texas Tech, Bowden said, adding he hasn't decided whether to start Wally Woodham or Jimmy Jordan at quarterback in the bowl game.

"Our defense is going to have to play extra well to hold them down," Bowden said he considered

Ali signed to fight Norton

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who has "announced" his retirement as world heavyweight boxing champion several times, apparently will be around quite a while longer.

At a news conference Thursday to promote a title bout against young Leon Spinks in Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 15, Ali suddenly disclosed that he has signed for still another defense next September against Ken Norton, a three-time rival.

The Norton fight, for which Ali reportedly will receive a whopping $12 million, will be held in a foreign country, according to Bob Arum of Top Rank, Inc., who also is promoting the Spinks bout.

At the Ali-Spinks news conference, the champion was asked if he was ducking Norton. That's when he disclosed his latest plans.

The contract needs only Norton's signature. Arum has deposited $125,000 in a bank to serve as part of the purse. The money goes to Ali if Norton fails to sign by May 1.

"I see no problems in getting Norton," Arum said. "I can't say that I have him, though, because I don't." However, Ali said Norton's advisors are clamoring for another shot at the champ.

"They're bent on getting me," Ali said. "But if I don't get $12 million we ain't gonna dance."

Ali and Norton split a pair of non-title bouts and Ali defeated the challenger in September 1976 in a unanimous but highly controversial decision.

First, however, is the little matter of the 24-year-old Spinks, the 1976 Olympic light-heavyweight champion. The two fighters appeared at a news conference Thursday.

"My speed is not like it was, but I still have enough to beat him," said Ali, who will be 36 next month. "It's possible for him to win, but it's not likely. He was a little boy growing up and watching me. Now he's meeting the master."

Spinks is two years older than Ali was when he won the crown from Sonny Liston in 1964.

"He was great when I was a kid," the challenger said. "He's still great, but he's getting older. I'm waiting for him. I don't think I'll knock him out, but I'll be ready."

(AP WIREPHOTO)

MONTVALE... a dead community

Montvale was an early Sterling County community a few miles west of Sterling City.

All that remains to remind persons passing by of the one-time settlement is a well-kept cemetery with a gateway and an arch that says "Montvale Cemetery."

The county was named for Capt. W.S. Sterling, early buffalo hunter, rancher and Indian fighter. The U Ranch was formed in Sterling County in 1876 by D.A. Earnest and W.J. Holland. They later sold it to M.B. Stephenson who in turn sold it to W.R. McEntire in 1880. Cattle were brought from East Texas to stock the ranch. The U Ranch Stock and goods were unloaded in Montvale in 1880, according to some of the old-timers in Sterling County.

Montvale was located on a little rise near the Concho River. One of the early Montvale arrivals was Earl Bailey in 1893 who was reported to have purchased land for $3 an acre in that area.

There were a lot of little early settlements in the county. On March 4, 1891 when there was a petition to set up a county seat, the areas that were considered included Montvale, Cummings and Sterling City.

The first store in the entire area was at Camp Elizabeth. Then in 1883, there was store 4 1/2 miles down river at Sterling City. One store or settlement was first called Hogeye or Wildhog. Then there was an official name for the first Post Office of St. Elmo. Then in 1884, the post office moved west to what was called Montvale.

There was a fellow there named B.Z. Cooper who had a general store and blacksmith shop. He also had a feed lot. There was also a man named R.B. Cummings who had a saddle and harness shop.

Montvale had a church with an adjoining cemetery, a school, a hotel and barns. The church was Methodist. The first school was built there in 1889. A surveyor named H.B. Tarver platted out a town.

Then Cummings got to feeling crowded over the big civilization that was filling up Montvale. He moved four and one half miles up river with his saddle and harness business and began Cummings. They had a paper named the North Concho News.

In 1891, F.C. Sparkman began a Concho Valley Saloon. With a saloon and a newspaper, the center of activity moved over to Cummings.

The battle between Montvale and Cummings wilted away to a battle between Sterling City and Cummings for the county seat.

Both of those localities had a newspaper and they developed a heated editorial campaign for the county seat. Montvale faded out of the picture.

With the selection of Sterling City as the county seat on the second vote, both Cummings and Montvale faded away and died out.

It's hard to find any remnants of Cummings. Only the city well remains and it is privately owned.

But Montvale had started a cemetery with their early church, so one little segment of Montvale remains behind in the cemetery.

It is located north of highway 87 between Sterling City and Broome. And it is a reminder that once there was a Montvale — with a church and a school, and a hotel and a stable and a blacksmith — out where I ride fence down in Sterling County.

Military trial snagged

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The Supreme Court Thursday suspended any further military court proceedings against former Sen. Benigno S. Aquino Jr., chief political foe of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, on charges of subversion and other crimes.

Aquino and two alleged Communist guerrilla leaders had been convicted and sentenced to death. The sentencing raised an international uproar and Marcos ordered the military court to reopen the case. The U. S. State Department said it was disturbed by the sentence.

Justice Fred Ruiz Castro announced Thursday's ruling after the court cross-examined Solicitor General Estelito Mendoza for four hours on whether the military court acted hastily in convicting Aquino and the others last Nov. 25.

Marcos said he ordered the reopening of the case before the same military court "in the interest of justice." But Aquino told the Supreme Court on Wednesday that Marcos did it to allow the military court to correct serious judicial errors in convicting him and the others.

The Supreme Court justices unanimously decided to stop any further military court trial until they reach a decision on whether the military court has jurisdiction in the Aquino case. The former senator has asked that the case be transferred to a civil court.

Aquino has maintained that he cannot get a fair trial from a military court because Marcos, whom Aquino believes is his accuser, has "command control and command influence" over the military.

Aquino described the military court that tried him as "a kangaroo court" and said he and his co-defendants were never allowed to make closing statements, in violation of court martial procedure.

The military court reopened the case against Aquino and the two alleged Communist leaders — Bernabe Buscayno and former Philippine constabulary Lt. Victor Corpus — on Dec. 5 despite Aquino's urgent petition to the Supreme Court to stop a military court rehearing.

Members learn makeup application

The Tuesday meeting of the Creative Homemakers Home Demonstration Club took place at Young n' Alive, where members learned proper methods of cosmetic application.

Diane Clinton, owner, demonstrated makeup techniques on two volunteers. She said that all makeup should be pH-balanced, that is, have a pH of 4.5 to 5.5.

She said that cleaning and moisturizing should be done everyday, even if makeup is not used.

Clinton advised that when taking off or applying makeup, upward strokes be used in order not to break down the tissues of the skin. The only exception to this is the area around the eyes, where gentle pats should be used.

Before applying moisturizer, she said, it should be put in the palm of one hand and rubbed with the fingers of the other in order to break the emollient beads. If the beads are not broken in the hand before they are applied to the face, they will break down later and cause the foundation makeup to streak.

There are two color families used in makeup, said Clinton, and they should never be mixed. The blue family is the colors of red, pink, burgundy, peach and green. The yellow family is the colors of russet, brown, khaki and anything that looks like autumn. She said that the color of your makeup should match the color of your clothing.

"A big mistake that a lot of women make is to wear blue eyeshadow if they have blue eyes and brown if they have brown eyes. That's not right."

She said that when wearing clothing that is white, black or beige, makeup in colors from either family can be worn.

One rule to remember when applying makeup, said Clinton, is that dark colors set in and light colors bring out. Therefore, if a part of the face needs to appear more sunken, for example, the eye sockets or cheeks, a dark color should be applied in those places. Where highlighting is needed, such as under the brows and on the jawbone, light colors should be applied.

If eyeliner is used on the top lid, it should also be used below the lower lashes. The same rule applies to mascara, said Clinton.

Lip brushes are back in, as they help keep the lip color on longer, and give more control in application. Lips should also be outlined, and this is the time to correct any defects in lip shape, said Clinton. If the lips are too wide, they should be lined slightly within the natural lip line and filled with a darker color. If lips are too narrow, they should be lined slightly out of the natural lip line and filled with a lighter color. However, corrections should be slight, and not be noticeable.

Blusher is now being used in the hollow of the cheeks, rather than right on the cheekbone. This helps give the effect of higher cheekbones, said Clinton.

The most important thing to remember is that the first thing noticed on a face is the lips and eyes, and care should be taken with the application of makeup on both places, said Clinton.

After the makeup demonstration, club members had refreshments and held a short business meeting, conducted by Esther Lopez in the absence of Darla McLeod, president. Volunteers were asked to work at the Big Spring Stock Show in January.

Johnnie Beasley co-hosted the meeting with Lopez.

Mrs. Glen Person, state president, was the speaker for the evening. She gave a talk defining the duties of the club.

The next meeting will be Jan. 10.

Trying to Stop Teens' Affair

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old son has been having an affair with his 17-year-old cousin. I have just learned that this has been going on for three years!

Both have been raised in good Christian homes, and my sister (the girl's mother) is beside herself with anger and grief. Of course we have laid down the law, and the children are not to see each other without close supervision.

These aren't problem children. We who know what has happened are simply amazed. My niece is rather immature for her age, but my son has several older girlfriends who think he is a freshman in college.

My question is, "What next?"

IN SHOCK IN INDIANA

DEAR IN: A thorough briefing, I hope, for both "children" who have been playing adult games for three years. Skip the preliminaries about the birds and bees, and get down to brass tacks and babies before your tribe increases.

DEAR ABBY: My husband occasionally plays in a band with four other musicians. Our flat is the most practical location to store equipment and rehearse, which leads to my problem:

What makes the wives of these musicians think that because their husbands come to my house, they too are automatically invited?

When the wives come over, I have to clean house for company, assume the role of hostess, and serve refreshments. I'm not able to visit my mom or spend the evenings just doing nothing if I feel like it. I'm forced to entertain and clean up afterward.

I have two preschool children and work part-time, so I'm not a lady of leisure.

How do I tell these wives that the band practice is for the guys? We don't socialize outside of these circumstances, so please tell me how to handle this tactfully.

ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: Phone the wives before the next rehearsal and tell them you may not be home. Hold the refreshments down to coffee or a cold drink, and let the guys help themselves.

Repeat this procedure before each rehearsal and they'll soon get the message that somebody at your flat is sharp.

DEAR ABBY: Do kids ever get too old to kiss their parents? And what do you think of boys kissing their fathers? I don't mean every time they see each other, but when one of them has been away on a long trip.

I'm a 15-year-old boy who still kisses both my parents, and I've been criticized for it.

ME

DEAR ME: Kids never get too old to kiss their parents. And I see nothing wrong with boys (and men) kissing their fathers, their brothers or anyone else they feel like kissing. A kiss is not—as the song goes—"just a kiss." It's a lovely way of saying, "I like (or love) you."

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS E. ASBILL

Sterling City couple celebrates 40th year

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Asbill of Sterling City will be celebrating their 40th wedding anniversary from 2-5 p.m. today at the First United Methodist Church of Sterling City.

The children and grandchildren hosting the event will be: Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Asbill and Ricky, Seminole; Tina and Lee McKinley, Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Roger, Jacque and Tommy Glenn, Hobbs, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Asbill and Deandra, Bronte; and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Asbill, Christy and Corey, Artesia, N.M.

The former Olivia S. Scarborough and Thomas E. Asbill were married December 25, 1937 in Grape Creek, Texas in the home of his parents. The Asbills have been residents of Sterling City for 18 years and were residents of Garden City for 12 years before moving to Sterling City in 1959.

Tom was employed by the City of Sterling before his retirement in 1970, and Mrs. Asbill teaches the third grade in the Sterling schools. Mrs. Tom "Olivia" Scarborough, mother of Mrs. Asbill, now makes her home with them in Sterling City. All friends are invited to share in the celebration.

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Margaret Mead once observed that "fathers are a biological necessity but a social accident."

A University of Texas psychologist and his colleague from the University of Illinois contradict the famous anthropologist in an article published in the November issue of Psychology Today.

Drs. Douglas Sawin of UT Austin and Ross D. Parke from the University of Illinois write that "the father is not just a poor substitute for the mother; he makes his own unique contribution to the care and development of infants and young children."

In research begun several years ago in Madison, Wis., and continued in Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, the two psychologists found that fathers, when given the chance, were just as involved with their new babies as the mothers. Also, further studies showed that later in the first year, fathers reacted differently with their babies than did mothers.

"Fathers engage in more physically arousing and unusual activities; for instance, such rough-and-tumble play as tossing the infant in the air," they report. "Mothers usually play conventional games, such as peekaboo. They also tend to stimulate their children verbally rather than physically."

The psychologists write that besides playing differently with the baby, fathers play more frequently with the baby than do the mothers.

"Fathers are more visually attentive and playful (talking to the baby, imitating the baby), but they are less active in feeding and caretaking activities such as wiping the child's face or changing diapers," they write.

The psychologists conclude that in most families, "The father's main role is that of a playmate to the infant."

It seems that "how much and how well fathers interact with their infants has a strong effect on the child's development, particularly if the child is a boy."

"Babies as young as five months are more at ease in social situations when their fathers help take care of them and play with them," the psychologists note. "They prove to be calmer and happier when left alone or with strangers."

Drs. Swain and Parke suggest that since the father's role in parenting is just as important as the mother's, innovations in hospital and business paternity policies should be made to encourage the father's involvement with his baby.

For example, evidence indicates that the more contact fathers and mothers have with their infant immediately following birth, the more the attachment between them is strengthened. Studies from Sweden show that men who were given a chance to learn and practice basic caretaking skills right in the hospital were more involved in the care of the infant and in household tasks three months later.

Also, flexibility in the workplace that would "permit a larger role for the father in infancy include shorter work weeks, more flexible working hours and split jobs in which father and mother each work part-time at a given job," they observe.

Kremlin closing door on wheat buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has virtually closed the door to buying more U.S. wheat and corn this year than officials here already have been saying it will purchase.

For at least two months, the Agriculture Department has been counting on the Soviets to buy 15 million metric tons of grain for delivery in the 1977-78 year, which will end next Sept. 30.

The United States earlier this fall gave Moscow permission to buy up to 15 million tons without further discussions. Under a five-year agreement, the Soviet Union is committed to buy at least 6 million tons annually and can have up to 8 million tons if it chooses without further talks.

After giving approval for up to 15 million tons, department officials have said repeatedly that they expect the Soviet Union will take the full amount, probably 10 million tons of corn and 5 million of wheat.

After a meeting with Soviet officials, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Dale E. Hathaway said in Moscow this week that he was informed that Russia will buy "substantially more" than 8 million tons of grain, but not more than 15 million tons.

During the agreement's first year, which ended Sept. 30, the Soviet Union bought about the minimum of 6 million tons of wheat and corn. So far for the 1977-78 year, sales to the Soviets of about 6.4 million tons have been reported to the department by private exporters. That includes about 4.1 million tons of corn and 2.3 million tons of wheat.

A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Another related development reported in Moscow at a meeting of the Supreme Soviet, was that this year's grain harvest turned out to be 195.5 million tons.

Although sharply less than last year's record harvest of 223.8 million tons and about 8.3 percent below Moscow's initial goal of 213.3 million tons for 1977 production, the new figure is slightly more than had been estimated.

On Nov. 2, Moscow issued its first 1977 harvest estimate of 194 million tons, about 10 percent less than the 215 million U.S. experts had forecast.

Vaccinating calves against brucellosis

WASHINGTON (AP) — heifers for Florida and other southern states.

The Agriculture Department says that farmers, particularly in the South, need to pay more attention to vaccinating calves against brucellosis.

"The practice of routinely vaccinating heifer calves is especially desirable for herds in the relatively high-risk areas of the South," according to Frank J. Mulhern, head of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service. "But it's also desirable for the northern dairy herds that produce many of the replacement

Texas crop estimates

AUSTIN — Texas crop production estimates just released for 1977 show one reason why farmers are disgruntled with national policies, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown stated today.

"Estimates for harvests indicate increases in cotton and good yields in wheat and other grains. During any other year, these high levels of production would be something to shout about," Brown said, "but under current conditions, they mean oversupply.

"Most grain and cotton farmers believed that they were encouraged by Federal leaders to continue full-steam-ahead planting, and the result is low prices with little buying on the world market."

Estimates for Upland cotton from the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service show a 65 percent increase over the 1976 crop. This year's ginnings could result in the largest crop since 1949 with 5,450,000 bales. Estimates were pushed up 9 percent since the November report.

Results of Howard ASCS elections told

Results of the election for the Howard County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service were announced this week.

The county is divided into five community areas, zoned on a map. For Community A, Donald Allred was elected chairman; Joe Mac Gaskins, vice chairman and Jerry Roman, regular member.

For Community B, Robert Wegner is chairman; Mike Moates, vice chairman and Milton Anderson member. Loyd Underwood had been elected chairman of that community but he was recently elected to a county committee position, replacing Buddy Barr who is no longer eligible to serve after nine successive years of tenure. Since Underwood is on the county committee, he cannot also serve on the community committee.

For Community C, Morris Barnes was elected chairman; A.G. Rogers, vice chairman and Oren Lancaster, member. In Community D, Don McKinney was named chairman; Rodney Brooks, vice chairman and Travis Reid, member. For Community E, D.R. Bates is chairman; Lawrence Davis, vice chairman and Bud Grantham, member.

At the county level, in addition to Underwood, the committee includes R.C. Thomas, chairman and Donnie Reid as the third member. These three committee members administer the farm program through the local ASCS office for Howard County. Alternates are Joe Mac Gaskins and Jerry Roman. If they become county committee members, they can no longer serve as community committeemen.

Daily Bread

The day before Christmas had been full of incidents, some of them most unpleasant. Father seemed to be burdened with worries as well as bundles. Mother's anxiety had reached the breaking point on many occasions throughout the day. Wherever the little girl went, she seemed to be in the way.

Finally she was carried up to bed. The feverish excitement of the Christmas planning had completely unnerved her. As she knelt by her bed to pray the Lord's Prayer, she got all mixed up and prayed, "Forgive us our Christmases, as we forgive those who Christmas against us."

As we watch the tense, nervous shoppers this season, we feel like praying as the little girl did, "Forgive us our Christmases." Our celebrations make some rejoice, but not always the angels in heaven. Our minds are on things, not on Christ. May God forgive us our Christmases.

FDA renegeing on ice cream sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — An imported substitute won't be replacing natural protein in the 800 million gallons of ice cream produced in this country yearly after all, as the federal government backtracks under dairy industry pressure.

A Food and Drug Administration spokesman said Thursday it was renegeing on a plan originally announced in May to allow ice cream makers to use sodium caseinate in place of non-fat dry milk.

The FDA said then that it had decided the nutritional and taste qualities of ice cream wouldn't be hurt by the switch.

The ice cream industry agreed and noted its costs would be cut about 5 cents a gallon by using the European import, already in the American kitchen in the form of non-dairy coffee creamers, whipped toppings and instant breakfast drinks.

But the American dairy farmer balked. He argued that the change would cut his income and add $300 million to the Agriculture Department's spending for dairy supports.

In announcing the decision to keep sodium caseinate out of America's favorite dessert, at least temporarily, the FDA said it had determined the additive might lead to less nutritious ice cream.

"We have decided to revoke it (the rules change) because it would be possible to make an ice cream that was less nutritious than the current ice cream," FDA spokesman Wayne Pines said.

Sodium caseinate, made by reducing skim milk to its dry protein residue, is a protein similar to that in non-fat dried milk. It once was produced in the U.S., but the beginning of federal price controls in 1949 ended its commercial value as dairymen switched to producing dry milk — which was covered by the subsidy.

The FDA's proposed switch was to have gone into effect June 13, but was delayed for more study because of the dairy industry objections.

Pines said a statement revoking the regulation is being prepared by the FDA and will be published soon in the Federal Register.

Pines said the FDA would allow to stand a part of the regulation that requires ingredient labeling on ice cream by July 1979. Ice cream now is exempted from labeling requirements.

Rat control program presented by Benson

Monty Benson, area Wildlife Damage Control Specialist, has been the guest of biology classes at Big Spring High School this week.

Cooperating teachers were Joe Reed, Mrs. Deanna Adams, David Reynolds and Wayne Nail.

Benson presented slides and films explaining the health hazards and costs that commensal rats and mice present to humans. He also outlined control methods available to the public and the proper use of these methods.

Students were encouraged to initiate a rat and mouse control program in their homes and neighborhoods by using their knowledge of rodent biology and proper control methods.

As a Wildlife Damage Control Specialist, Benson also deals with damaging non-rodent species such as raccoons, shunks, o'possums and armadillos.

For free information regarding control of damaging wildlife, one can write Monty Benson, in care of County Extension Agent, Old County Courthouse, Abilene, Texas 79602 or call 915-673-0331 between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Indictments smash counterfeiting ring

HOUSTON (AP) — Four men have been indicted by a federal grand jury in what Secret Service agents describe as a Colombian counterfeiting operation that passed millions of dollars over a 10-year period.

The Thursday indictment alleges the four conspired with a fifth man to bring the fake money and counterfeit securities into the United States, transport them across state lines, and then pass them.

Kenneth Wiesman, Secret Service agent in charge, said the Colombian-made bills were of high quality and began showing up in the United States in 1967. He said passers of the bills have been arrested from time to time but the Thursday action brought the first indictments in the case.

Wiesman said in the last fiscal year alone, the loss to the public amounted to $684,000.

Spyridon Rocos, 57, a Greek national living in London, England, was indicted along with three others, brothers Daniel Price 56, and Herman "Sonny" Price, 58, of Arlington, Va. and Salvatore John Marino, 52, of Long Island, N.Y.
