

Their son is missing in elevator blast

Hope growing thin for local couple

LONG HOURS OF WAITING — Mr. and Mrs. Glen R. Earhart of Big Spring, look at the picture of their son, Mark, who is missing and believed dead, in the grain elevator explosion in Galveston. As of noon today, he was still among two persons missing.

By MARJ CARPENTER
"It's now been over 36 hours since our son was reported missing in the grain elevator explosion and our hopes are getting thin," Glen Earhart said this morning at his residence on old Gail Road, north of Big Spring. The explosion at the Farmer's Export Co. grain elevator in Galveston Tuesday night killed at least 15 persons, with three persons, including Earhart's son, Mark Earhart, still missing.
"He was the only one of our eight children who did not get home for Christmas. He only had one day off," Mrs. Earhart said, as her voice trailed off in an interview Wednesday afternoon.

"HE THOUGHT the grain inspector job was a good one. We all did," Earhart stated quietly.
"We became a little uneasy when the grain elevators exploded down at New Orleans, and we talked about it," he continued.
"That was when we went down Thanksgiving to see Mark and his wife," Mrs. Earhart added. "They had been there since September and were really happy with the job and all."

She looked off into space and added, "When we got up Wednesday morning and heard the early news, I had a terrible feeling. We decided to call. I knew Mark had worked on the night shift the previous week and was hoping maybe he was on the day shifts."

THE FATHER SAID, "but when we called, his wife told us that she was waiting until daylight to call us. He had been at work and was reported missing. We just couldn't believe it."
"We kept hoping early yesterday morning that they were going to find him alive, trapped under some rubble," his mother added, "but the longer we wait . . .
There was a pause while she looked away. The father said, "Our son Gary was en route back to Georgia where he teaches school. We caught him in Fort Worth and he and his friend have gone down there. They flew. They should be there by now."
The mother added, "I'm glad they went because his wife's father is in Saudi Arabia. Her mother has gone from Denton to be with her, but they might need a man there."

MARK EARHART
... still missing

THE 24-YEAR-OLD Mark finished college at Sul Ross in 1975 with an agri-business degree. He married that same year. He had worked around in the Big Spring area until he got the job in September.
"There's some kind of methane gas forms in grain when it's dry,"

Earhart said quietly. "We talked about it and talked about his inspection duties."
"I wish the phone would ring," the mother said.

"The phone rang. 'Oh no,' she said. One of the family members answered and holding a hand over the telephone said, 'It's just somebody asking' and went on to have the conversation."
"We're trying to keep the phone clear," Mark's mother added, and paused again. "He loved Little League," she said to nobody in particular.

"HE WAS ON THE All Stars," his father added. They sat thinking their thoughts, apparently recalling happier days when Mark was small.
"His wife had to go to the hospital yesterday and once to the funeral home for identification. It was 'him,' Mrs. Earhart added.
"There was still one critically burned man that had not been identified," his father added. "It might be Mark. But they don't really think they've found him yet. Maybe they will. But every hour lessens the chances that he'll be found alive. Every hour . . ."

Death toll now 15

Missing now believed located

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Flood lights combined with a cold, misting rain early today to cast shadows into gaping holes in a huge grain storage tower as men below dug through the rubble for more bodies.
Rescue workers say at least 15 persons died in the blast at the Farmer's Export Co. grain elevator Tuesday night. The explosion, heard by some persons 70 miles away, injured at least 22 others.

Capt. E.E. Burke of the Galveston County sheriff's office said late Wednesday at least three persons were believed to be still missing.

Rescue operations were hampered by a fire that kept reappearing atop the burned-out tower. It was still smoldering late Wednesday but firemen said the rain and high humidity all but nullified the threat of a second explosion in the elevator or the 40 grain silos nearby.
Burke said searchers believe the missing persons have been located beneath a demolished freight car that was parked on a railroad siding. The car was directly in the path of the blast and was still buried beneath tons of rubble late Wednesday night.

at an adjacent pier were moved away from the wharves after debris rained down on their decks. The Sutjeska sustained minor damage when it was moved before a loading hose could be disconnected. Forty-five feet of railing were ripped from the deck.
Farmer's Export Co. brought in construction crews, bulldozers and cranes that were utilized throughout the day in cleanup operations, which are expected to last for several days.
Weary searchers, many of whom had been at their grim task for 26 hours by Wednesday afternoon, kept one eye out for falling debris from the 13-story structure as they dug under and around twisted steel beams and car-sized chunks of concrete.

By late Wednesday, the county morgue had reached capacity and some of the bodies were moved to John Sealy Hospital.
Galveston Fire Marshal A.D. Carroll said he hopes to determine today what caused the explosion.
"It was definitely accidental," said Carroll, adding that two possible causes are being considered. He said a spark from a nearby switch engine may have ignited the highly volatile grain dust, or a switch in the top of the stricken elevator might have short-circuited.

The north end of this island resort town remained off limits to everyone except construction crews and authorities. Most of those not working huddled together against the rain at a temporary command post two blocks from the elevator.
Dazed survivors told of a huge "ball of fire," a "flash from a gas stove" when the grain tower erupted "like a volcano." Most were just glad to be alive.
Alfred Brown, 45, of Galveston, was unloading grain at the time. Moments after the blast, he said, "We could hear three people in the control tower (of the elevator) yelling for help but we couldn't get to them."

A crew of 32 and eight federal grain inspectors were believed to be working at the elevator when the blast occurred. Company officials refused to estimate damage costs at the $26 million facility.
The area surrounding the elevator resembled a bombed-out battlefield. Sheets of ripped metal were strewn for hundreds of yards. A diesel engine leaking fuel lay in a huge hole.

Carter begins six-nation tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter embarked today on a nine-day, six-nation journey, saying he intends to use the trip to promote peace and the cause of human rights.
"We will be reaffirming our dedication to peace and our support of justice and human rights," the president said in brief remarks delivered on the South Lawn of the White House.

He said the world would see a "different America" which is "at peace with other nations and also at peace with itself."
After a short helicopter flight, Carter left Andrews Air Force Base aboard a presidential jetliner at 7:57 a.m. EST for Poland, more than eight hours away.
Meanwhile, in Tehran, Iran, one of the president's scheduled stops, a bomb exploded at a U.S. cultural center Wednesday night, injuring a doorman and causing heavy damage to parts of the building.

A telephone caller told The Associated Press the bomb was the first of several promised by Marxists to protest Carter's visit Saturday and his planned meeting with the Shah of Iran. The shah will honor him in a New Year's state dinner.
On Sunday, Carter confers in the Iranian capital with Jordan's King Hussein and is expected to discuss a possible role for Jordan in current Middle East peace negotiations.

Nazi forces during World War II. Carter will hold an unusual news conference in Warsaw Friday for American and Polish reporters. To be broadcast live in the United States, it will be the first formal news conference ever held by an American president in a Communist country.

Q. What is the proper care and nurture of poinsettias?
A. "A good humid, bright place is the best place to keep a poinsettia," Terri Johansen, of Johansen's Landscape Service and Nursery on the San Angelo Highway said.
"It is important to give the plant as much light as possible, as darkness shortens the plant's life," she said. She added that "the plant should be checked daily for water, and should be watered thoroughly when the soil is dry to the touch. The top of the television is a disaster area," she warned.

Offbeat: Banking arrangement

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 19-year-old woman from suburban Colonie has been sentenced to two years probation for embezzling money from the bank where she worked.
And where will the confessed embezzler get the money to repay the bank? From a loan at The First National Bank of Scotia, where the embezzlement occurred.
U.S. District Judge James Foley said Monday he found the arrangement unusual, but accepted it. Wendy Westfall had pleaded guilty to taking $2,150 from the bank between February and August of last year. She is to pay back the bank in monthly, $61 installments for four years. That comes to $2,928, including interest.

Rare wet stuff falls, stops much too soon

A few days ago, Big Spring children were tucked into bed with the hope of hearing the tap of reindeer hooves on the roof.
Last night, a sound more pleasing to area farmers came to Howard County. For a few hours the tapping of raindrops lulled ag-men to sleep as the first rainfall in two months offered some hope of turning their fine, red dust back into topsoil.
The total rainfall was only .23 inch in Big Spring, and the highest amount reported was in Lomax where a half inch of the precious stuff fell. But the slow, steady precipitation came at the right time to serve as a small Christmas consolation to the farmers who have been watching their land dry up since August.
Total rainfall for the year still lags behind the 18.41 inch average at 15.59 inches thus far, making 1977 the driest year since 1970 when only 12.93 inches came down.
More significant than that is the strange timing of the rain this year. If West Texas can be said to have a wet season, it is certainly the fall. The September rains help the cotton growers put up their land through the dry winter and into the spring. But this year the rain came in the summer, putting Big Spring ahead of schedule in the first half of the year and insuring a good cotton crop, then disappearing. The land dried, the wind blew, and the recent dust storms are the result.

Area forecasters do not predict more rain, however, and while .23 inch was nice, anything more will be appreciated.

PLO and Jordan nix plan

Yasir Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization and Jordan today rejected the peace plan offered by Israel and backed by President Carter.

Iraq was reported ready to join hardline Arab opposition to Israeli-Egyptian peace talks, already strained by tough stands taken in Cairo and Jerusalem.

Israel Radio said a bomb killed two men and wounded two near a market in Netanya, north of Tel Aviv, in an apparent Arab guerrilla campaign to wreck the Egyptian-Israeli peace talks.

Palestinian guerrillas of the Marxist Popular Democratic Front in Beirut claimed responsibility for the blast, and claimed 10 Israelis were killed or wounded in the explosion.

"No peace can be established in the Middle East without a PLO-governed independent Palestinian state," PLO spokesman Mahmoud Labady said in the Lebanese capital.

He was commenting on Carter's statement in a television interview Wednesday that it was not in the interest of permanent peace for a "radical" state to be created in the Middle East.

Sadat 'dissatisfied'

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat said today he is "dissatisfied" with President Carter's statement on the Middle East and added "it may delay for some time" the signing of an agreement with Israel.

Carter, in an interview on television in Washington Wednesday night, supported Israel on two key issues: he rejected the idea of an independent Palestinian state and approved the continued presence of Israeli troops on the west bank of the Jordan River after an eventual peace settlement.

Carter's remarks, Sadat said, would "for sure" make negotiations "difficult for me."

"I am disappointed because I should like that we put all our efforts towards ending the suffering in the Middle East and giving a bright future to our next generations," Sadat said in an interview in Cairo with the American Broadcasting Company.

1,000 evacuated after blast

GOLDONNA, La. (AP) — Nearly 1,000 people were evacuated after a freight train jammed a log truck, setting off an explosion that killed two men, burned 10 houses and threatened to release a cloud of deadly chlorine gas over this small community.

"All of a sudden there was this rumbling — just a roar, like an earthquake," said Frank Easley, who was across the road in his father's store when the accident occurred Wednesday.

"When I got to the door there was just a wall of orange flame," said Easley, who suffered minor burns, as did his father, Jack. "I'm 37 years old and it's the only time in my life that I thought I might die."

Authorities said the explosion and fire were fed by ruptured tanks of locomotive diesel fuel and a derailed butane tanker car. Eighteen cars derailed, along with two locomotives.

Fearing that some of the derailed cars might leak their cargoes of poisonous chlorine or flammable ethylene, authorities ordered the evacuation of everyone within 10 miles of this town in the Kisatchie National Forest, 50 miles southeast of Shreveport.

Cher gets separation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The on-again, off-again marriage of singer Cher Bono and musician Gregg Allman is off again with the granting of a legal separation to Mrs. Allman.

Under a Superior Court ruling handed down Tuesday, the 31-year-old singer retained custody of the couple's 16-month-old son, Elijah Blue. She also has custody of Chastity, her daughter by singer Sonny Bono.

Allman, leader of the Allman Brothers band, and Mrs. Allman were married June 30, 1975, in Las Vegas. Five days later, Cher filed for divorce, but that petition was dropped after a reconciliation.

Since then, Allman filed for divorce once and Cher filed for a separation once, but in both cases there were reconciliations.

White takes 'lousy job'

WASHINGTON (AP) — John White looked at the crowd of reporters who had come to his press conference Wednesday at the Department of Agriculture. "Last week, when I announced the cotton set-asides for next year, there were only four or five of you," he grinned.

Since last week's cotton announcement, however, White's stature has changed. President Carter tapped him Wednesday to succeed Kenneth Curtis as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

White, a long-time Texas agriculture commissioner and party stalwart who is now deputy secretary of agriculture, is expected to win quick approval by the full committee at a meeting next month.

Then he will take over a post that Curtis, former governor of Maine, quit after a year's service, saying it was a "lousy job." As chairman serving under an incumbent president, White agreed, his job is to be responsive to the president's political needs.

Asked if it amounted to being an "errand boy," White smiled. "If that's true, then I'll be a high-class errand boy."

He did say he has been promised direct access to the

TO HEAD DNC — John White, deputy secretary of Agriculture, faces reporters in Washington Wednesday after it was announced that President Carter had selected him to be Democratic national chairman. White said that he would give top priority to paying off a party debt of $2.5 million and electing more Democrats to Congress in 1978.

president and freedom to hire and fire staff at the DNC, which has become home for a number of ex-Carter campaign aides who did not get jobs within the administration.

Texans who have known White said Wednesday that his major political credentials are an impeccable record of party loyalty and an ability to get along with the disparate groups in the Democratic Party.

White, 53, was elected commissioner of agriculture in 1950 and re-elected 13 times. His first effort at re-election tested his Democratic loyalty.

In that year, 1952, Texas Gov. Allen Shivers led the state's Democrats into Dwight D. Eisenhower's Republican camp. The legislature changed the law to allow Shivers and his cohorts to run as both Democrats and Republicans in the primary.

White was the only statewide official to stick with Adlai Stevenson and the Democratic Party.

He demonstrated his loyalty again in 1972, when he agreed to be Texas co-chairman of the doomed campaign of Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

He also managed to maintain good relations with more conservative Texas Democrats, like Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and former DNC chairman Robert Strauss, who recommended him to Carter.

His job as agriculture commissioner never forced him to define himself ideologically, and he claimed the middle ground when asked about his stance Wednesday. "I like to think of myself as sensible, ... a moderate," he said.

Demos stop squabbling to laud choice of white

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Democratic state officeholders dropped their pre-election year squabbling to join in praising the choice of John White as chairman of the party's national organization.

President Carter announced his choice of White, former state agriculture commissioner, on Wednesday.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe said he was pleased. He said that under White's leadership, the party will "continue to progress."

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, a longtime friend of White, compared him with another Texan who has held the top Democratic Party job, Robert Strauss of Dallas.

"Both combine common sense and good judgment with action. And they both enjoy being in the forefront. I'm envious of John's ability to administer and delegate authority and see that a job is done," Armstrong said.

Comptroller Bob Bullock said White "is probably going to make just about the best chairman the party ever had."

"I hope he can take a sledgehammer and hit Carter in the head and convince him Texas is an important state," he said.

Attorney General John Hill, who is running for governor against Briscoe, said it would be "good for Texas" to have White in the party chairmanship.

"I like to see someone we know have the president's ear. Maybe he can reveal to us what he (Carter) says. Governor Briscoe always says he can't tell us what he talks about with the president," Hill said.

Steve Madry, 1206 Wood, reported a gray bicycle stolen at that address Wednesday.

Melody Dabney, 2202 Alabama, reported 48 eight-track tapes and case taken from a vehicle parked at that address.

A United States Air Force check in the amount of $409.20 was found and returned to the person to whom the check was made out. Proper identification was produced and the check returned.

A woman living in the 1500 block on Main Street insisted she had a prowler at 1:18 a.m. The prowler turned out to be a white cat in the trash can.

Two calls reported fireworks shot off in the city limits.

Marsalis heads TMHA

Denton Marsalis, owner of D&C Sales in Big Spring, has been named president of the newly formed Big Spring Chapter of the Texas Manufactured Housing Association.

Bruce Walters, of Austin, TMHA chairman, said the Big Spring chapter and the Permian Basin chapter were voted into membership by the board of directors.

Other officers of the Big Spring chapter are Dealy Blackshear of Hillside Trailer Sales, vice-president; Glenna Wilson of OK Trailer Courts and D&C Sales, secretary; and Bobby Nicholson of C&C Sales, treasurer.

Baum's campaign manager named

Former Howard County Judge Lee Porter has been named campaign chairman for the Jim Baum Congressional campaign.

Porter, a lifelong resident of Howard County, retired as county judge in 1971, after serving two terms in that capacity.

Porter is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Porter. Mrs. Porter, the former Molly Frost, arrived in Howard County in 1886.

Judge Porter attended schools in Big Spring and in 1924 went to work for the State National Bank as a bookkeeper. In 1927, he was promoted to assistant cashier of the bank. He and his wife, Louise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lewis of Dallas, were married in 1933. The Porters have two sons, Dean, a petroleum and geological engineer for Sun Oil Company, stationed in Indonesia; and Lewis, Senior Assistant Engineer for IBM in Austin.

In 1935, Porter began employment with the county tax office, working as the deputy tax assessor and collector. In 1939, he successfully ran for county clerk and remained in that office until 1952, at which time he was appointed by the late District Judge Charles Sullivan to that position of county auditor.

Porter was elected county judge in 1962 and remained in office until he retired Jan. 1, 1971. In accepting the role as Jim Baum's campaign manager, Porter said, "I'm looking forward to working with Jim in this election. I'm convinced he has a good chance to be our district's next congressman. Jim and I will be working closely together in the months ahead and we'll be asking many Howard County citizens to help us win this race."

Baum, a democrat who is seeking the seat being vacated by Congressman Omar Burleson, expressed his gratitude to Judge Porter for accepting the campaign manager's job by saying, "I'm honored to have a man with Judge Porter's experience and political background serving in this capacity."

Will parity come to haunt the farmer?

In the mail this week the Herald received a bundle of information about the so-called "farm strike."

The information came from the Hereford office of the American Agriculture Movement, an organization of farmers that is sounding increasingly militant every day.

While I am in almost total sympathy with the farmer on what the roller-coaster market has done to him in the 1970s, I am not certain that 100 per cent parity is the answer.

Frankly, I am unable to understand exactly how the farmers figure 100 per cent parity. Obviously, the costs of production are different in different areas depending upon rainfall and irrigation, size of farm, and many other factors.

The movement lists 1977 cotton prices, for example, at 77 per cent of parity. Yet, most farmers that I had talked to in this area said the price would meet the cost of production in this area, or roughly 100 per cent parity.

THE FARMERS "demand" four things, according to their literature:

- 1) 100 per cent parity for all domestically used agriculture products;
 - 2) 100 per cent parity for all foreign exports;
 - 3) All agricultural products used for food reserves shall be at 100 per cent parity;
 - 4) Imports of meat and all agricultural products must be stopped until parity prices are reached.
- Unless these demands are met, the farmers say they will:

- 1) Not sell any farm products;
- 2) Not produce any more products (no crops in 1978);
- 3) Not buy any equipment.

The pamphlet concludes: "We will not advocate or condone violent action, but we will strike."

At least the restraint from violent action is reassuring, although in recent days farm spokesmen's statements have sounded more inflammatory to me.

ON FARMER demand number one, the call for parity is no small matter. The American Ag literature said that farmers would have earned another $95 billion in 1976 from what they produced.

"This is new wealth," the brochure said, "injected into the national economy, and is renewable each year."

Not so. This would be an income redistribution scheme and not new wealth. The farmer already created the wealth when he produced the crop. If it is true, as claimed, that he received only 63 per cent parity for it, that means only that the farmer did not get his share of the wealth he produced.

It is true, however, that the farmer is creating much of the wealth of our nation today, especially in the area of imports and exports. Without farm exports, our nation would be rapidly going broke.

The government cannot pick up the price support tag for an additional $95 billion that it would allegedly have taken to bring the farmer to parity in 1976. Even Uncle Sam doesn't have that kind of cash.

On demand number two, I think the farmers have a valid point. The U.S. government should not make any more Russian wheat deals which, in effect, force the U.S. taxpayer to subsidize the cost of Soviet bread. We are still outmaneuvered by the Russians, as witnessed by the American grain the Soviets bought secretly and in violation of agreement in Europe this fall.

Demands three and four are a little more unclear to me. I think the American farmer would make a mistake if he should start a trade war over agricultural products since he benefits from world food trade as much as anyone. Stopping imports would only shove the world closer to a trade war, and the U.S. farmer is certain to wind up the loser.

The American Ag literature is certainly correct when it talks about the whiplash changes in government farm policy from urging the planting of wheat from "fence row to fence row" during the shortage in 1974 to the handling of the present glut. When cattle prices were high in 1973, they were frozen by the government, the literature noted.

MY PROBLEM with the American Agriculture Movement's demands is that I am uncertain that the government can solve farmer's problems.

The 1950s demonstrated that the government cannot run a surplus commodity program. If the government guarantees 100 per cent parity, that is all the farmer is likely ever to get for his crop, so he'll go broke just the same. Or at best, he'll barely make a meager living.

I am afraid that the only answer is the same old painful one that the law of supply and demand dictates. The lot of the farmer won't really improve until there is more demand and less supply. That means that some of the weaker farmers will be driven from the business.

But the world should recall that only three years ago it appeared massive famine was a possibility. The American farmer alone has the potential to prevent that from happening. He is the only one that can expand production enough to compensate for shortfalls in other areas.

This is a potential the U.S. must preserve. It is necessary for the strength of our nation and for world peace.

When these problems are laid side-by-side, it seems the solution should be for continued government price supports, but only at a "save the farm" level, and not at what the American Agriculture Movement calls 100 per cent of parity (which looks more like 120 per cent of parity to some).

The decades ahead will be good to the farmer. Simple arithmetic of the world population explosion dictates that it will be so. When the demand is strong again, as it will be, the farmer won't want the government lowering prices.

So it is to the farmer's advantage to keep markets as free as possible and not create some governmental system which will work against him in the good years.

'Beg Pardon'

Around the rim

James Werrell

"It's nice to know we're not alone," was the thought that flashed through my mind as I read the article in "The Wall Street Journal" concerning newspaper errors.

In defense of my journalistic brothers and sisters, I must point out that when one tries to put thousands of words on large pieces of paper in a very short time there are bound to be mistakes.

But, as the owner of the cat that just gave birth to 17 kittens said, "It's my cat, and now it's my kittens, and what the hell am I going to do with them?" Unfortunately, for newspapers the answer to getting rid of mistakes isn't as easy as, "Bundle them up and throw them in a lake."

IN BYGONE DAYS the answer to correcting mistakes in a newspaper was to print the correction in as few words as possible, and bury it in the want-ads. But now, according to the Wall Street Journal article, more and more papers are beginning to display their confessions of error in more prominent areas of the rag.

The paper's credibility will rise, reason publishers, and besides, correction columns are probably some of the best read in the whole paper. And that is how sections entitled, "Beg Your Pardon," "Excuse Us" and "We Were Wrong," are born.

The Journal's article also pointed that papers are no longer correcting only the blatant errors, but also the slightly more picaresque.

Take for example the correction that began, "Unless you're crazy about cinnamon, you won't care for our recipe for oven-fried apples," in the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times Magazine. It then slashed its recommended dose of the spice from one and a half cups to half a teaspoon.

The correction that ran in the San Antonio News is probably one of the longest on record (my sympathies to the reporter who covered the story).

In setting straight the story of a pilot who died in a plane crash, the News wrote: "He was not a former Air Force pilot, as reported, but had been in the Air Force pilot training program in the past . . . he wasn't flying an aircraft owned by Beck Concrete Co. He was in a plane owned by Crow Aviation Co., where he was a student working toward a commercial pilot's license."

"HE WAS NOT making a mechanical check of the plane, and was not trying to land. He was making a low-level pass. He was not trying to lower the landing gear."

"He had been living in a two-plane formation with Harry Perez, not Joe Perez, and Perez did not circle the area until help arrived. Perez was already on the ground when the crash happened."

"The victim was not trapped between the instrument panel and engine, but between the seat and the instrument panel . . ."

The News' editor, by the way, blamed the mistake on "a source who didn't know a damn thing."

Perhaps the most timely correction mentioned was made by the Twin Cities (Minn.) Reader. A last-minute layout change had left the paper hopelessly confusing to readers, so after instructing people to tear out and transpose paragraphs and even whole pages, the weekly advised:

"Now tear the entire paper in half. Keep tearing until you have a pile of shreds. Put this high grade confetti into a shoebox and set it aside until New Year's Eve."

Happy New Year!

Cooking up a book

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The threat of a congressional subpoena, used in the past to command the appearance of such diverse figures as crime overlord Frank Costello, Teamsters' boss Jimmy Hoffa and banking tycoon J. P. Morgan, has now figured in a wild goose chase after a collection of exotic Korean recipes.

The threat came from the sanctuary of Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate prosecutor, who is now investigating the Korean payoff scandals for the House Ethics Committee. His chief deputy, Peter White, came across a news snippet that Suzi Park Thomson had a book in the making.

SHE IS THE pettily attractive South Korean woman who used to hobnob with former Speaker Carl Albert and other Capitol Hill bigwigs. She has been cross-examined repeatedly behind closed doors by the Jaworski team. Not once during the hours of detailed questioning had she mentioned that she was writing a book.

The alert White hit the telephone and tracked down Suzi's literary agent, Bertha Klausner, in New York City. He demanded that Ms. Klausner supply the committee with the book material Suzi had sent her.

Ms. Klausner would not comment on her conversation with White. But both Suzi and her lawyer, Philip Hirschkop, quoted Ms. Klausner as telling them she had been threatened with a subpoena, which would compel her to turn over the 20-page book summary.

To save Jaworski's men the trouble of serving the subpoena, we are happy to supply them with the highlights of Suzi's manuscript.

The book will reveal Suzi's secret recipes for such Oriental delights as Kim Chee and Cheju Island Pheasant. It will also include the ingredients for a bizarre dessert, which Suzi has named "The Congressman."

The latter is a concoction of liquor, ice cream and chopped nuts, pumped up appropriately with air. Kim Chee consists of cayenne-peppered cabbage. Cheju Island Pheasant offers a chestnut sauce and stuffing.

Speaker Albert used to dote on Suzi's Korean-style spareribs. There will also be instructions on how to fix Peking Goose. If Jaworski's investigators can wait until the book is in final form, they can also discover the secrets of Shabu-Shabu, a sort of Mongolian hotpot.

But perhaps the most befitting dish will be a Korean-style meat mixture of Suzi's own creation. She calls it the House Leadership Stew.

SINCE THE KOREAN scandals surfaced, Ms. Thomson has been depicted as a sexy spy in the pay of the Korean government, a sort of Dragon Lady intriguing with Korean payoff man Tongsun Park to bribe influential congressmen and other high governmental officials.

She has sworn that the charges are false and unfair. Sources on the Ethics Committee confide that their evidence is less sensational than the headlines. They can show only that Ms. Thomson was perhaps too trusting of Tungson Park and too cozy with a few congressmen. They have no evidence that she is guilty of bribery or espionage.

The notoriety, meanwhile, has prevented Suzi from finding a job in Washington. She wrote the cookbook in the hope it would help her start a catering business.

Footnote: Peter White gave us a polite "no comment" about the incident.

KIDS FOR KRUEGER: Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Tex., has been on the receiving end of some astonishing piggy-bank contributions from the offspring of oil-rich families. The money has been deposited quietly in a political war chest, which he expects to use to unseat Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

Krueger has also made a brash appeal to oil and gas corporations for funds to underwrite his primary campaign.

Decline of Turner

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — Adm. Stansfield Turner's heavy-handed rule as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has badly tarnished his former glitter, ending any chance of his returning to the Pentagon in a high military post and making him a new and serious problem for his former Annapolis classmate in the White House.

Instead of resolving President Carter's CIA problems (intensified by the forced withdrawal of Theodore Sorensen's nomination to head the agency) Turner has compounded the President's predicament. Mr. Carter must now rebuild confidence not only in the CIA but also in his boss.

ONE POSSIBLE answer: give day-to-day CIA command to Frank Carlucci, a veteran civil servant now serving as ambassador to Portugal, who is coming in as deputy CIA director. Under this plan Turner would be given vague powers as overall presidential intelligence adviser, without operational authority.

Criticism of Turner as a public breaker of china in his own agency is hurting him in the administration. It has commended him to congressional critics of the CIA, but has raised suspicions elsewhere on Capitol Hill that Turner is taking his cues from Vice President Mondale and Mondale's former aide, National Security Council (NSC) staffer David Aaron — sharp critics of the CIA.

This possibility stems from Turner's conduct since taking over Central Intelligence. He has run over most everybody in his path, military-style. While this disregard for bureaucratic sensitivity sufficed in 1972-74 when he ruthlessly but brilliantly revamped the Naval War College as commandant, the beleaguered CIA is a more complicated civilian institution.

Signs of coming trouble in Congress appeared when Turner was quizzed by the House Intelligence Committee early this month. Asked for a "fact sheet" on multiple firings of senior officers in clandestine intelligence, he replied in a six-page memorandum on Dec. 14 that "contrary to media reports, I was not directed . . . by either the Vice President or David Aaron" to reduce the clandestine service.

IF THIS indicates Turner is beginning to walk on thin ice in Congress, that ice broke long ago for him in the Pentagon. Intimates of Defense Secretary Harold Brown confide that, barring a direct order from the President, Brown would not propose Turner for either of the two big Pentagon jobs opening up in June: Chief of Naval Operations or Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Turner has escalated conflicts over intelligence jurisdiction that have embittered relations between the Pentagon and the CIA for years

"All right," said the Cat; and this time it vanished quite slowly, beginning with the end of the tail, and ending with the grin, which remained some time after the rest of it had gone.

Plays beauty parlor: Lashes gone

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter was playing "beauty parlor," and pulled out (with her fingers) about half of her upper and lower eyelashes. This happened seven months ago and they don't seem to be growing back. She had beautiful long, black lashes, too.

Can you offer any hope that they might eventually grow in again? If so, how long should it take? She had often watched her mother thinning her eyebrows. Probably a lesson there. — Mrs. W. M.

Indeed there is. Parents should be careful of what they do in front of children. I treated a youngster with a nasty razor cut once. He had watched his father shaving. The father let him use an empty safety razor and occasionally "shave" with it. You guessed it. The boy picked up the wrong razor one day — a loaded one.

Eyelashes grow very, very slowly, probably slower than any other body hair. Some will not grow back. You might expect growth in a few years when she enters puberty. There's no way to force lash growth. Time will tell. Because the lashes protect the eyes from foreign objects (dust, etc.), she may need extra care. Clear-lens glasses might be in order. See an eye specialist. I personally know instances in which the lashes have grown back, so don't consider this hopeless.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have acne. I know it, my parents know it, the doctor knows it — everybody. But for the life of me I can't get the doctor to give me anything for it. All I get is the same old thing — that it's not serious and will go away. Aren't there hormones or something else to take to help ease the situation? I'm 16. — Miss H. W.

Your doctor has decided that your acne does not fall into the serious category, and that drugs or other therapy is not necessary. If he's been in practice any length of time and has seen young people like yourself, you can assume he knows whereof he speaks.

Acne usually looks much worse to the person who sees it in the bathroom mirror. As you may know, it affects about 80 per cent of all young people at about the time of puberty. With most, the condition clears, but only after a year or so of great agonizing.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am concerned about my daughter-in-law. Although she has several small children, she is thinking about taking a full-time job. I feel this might be unwise. Do you have any opinion? — P. V.

DEAR P. V.: It is difficult for me to give an opinion without knowing all the facts. In any case, I hope your daughter-in-law will think carefully about this matter. Certainly it is sometimes possible for mothers to both work and properly care for their children. However, oftentimes such an arrangement causes problems.

Throughout the Bible children are seen as a gift from God. "Lo, children are an heritage from the Lord; and the fruit of the womb is his reward" (Psalm 127:3). Children are also a great responsibility. Not only are parents supposed to protect them from physical danger, but they are to teach them and instruct them. "My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother: For they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck" (Proverbs 1:8). Parents are to discipline their children, but they are also to love them and show them by word and deed, the way God wants us to live.

The question is whether your daughter-in-law can fulfill her responsibilities as a mother while working full time. It is not sin.

The question of whether the children will be adequately cared for during the day. If she is so tired at the end of the workday that she cannot be a good mother (as well as a good wife), doubt if it is really God's will for her to work. She should also look carefully at her motives. Sometimes a mother just wants to avoid the responsibilities of motherhood. Sometimes a family may be working for material possessions that they don't really need.

Encourage your daughter-in-law and her husband to put Christ first in their marriage and seek His will in this matter.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is forecast today from the northern Rockies across the northern Plains. Rain is expected from the Gulf into the Midwest. Cold weather is forecast for most of the country.

Cochran faces escape charge

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Buddy Cochran, convicted of ramming a sports car into a crowd at a Ku Klux Klan rally in President Carter's hometown last summer, now faces charges of escape and damaging government property.
Cochran was charged on Wednesday with escape, a felony, and two counts of damaging property at the Sumter County jail. He escaped Tuesday and was recaptured 15 hours later in an Atlanta suburb.
Michael Sylvester Proctor, 30, who escaped with Cochran, was still at large. Proctor was awaiting trial for attempted rape.
Sumter County Sheriff Randy Howard said Cochran was charged with causing $600 in damages to his jail cell lock during the escape and to a toilet in the cell after he was returned to the jail Wednesday.

Cochran and Proctor escaped by sawing through the lock on the jail door, Howard said. Cochran ripped the toilet off the wall in a fit of anger, apparently because "we aren't allowing him any visitors until we determine who brought the blades in," the sheriff added.

Cochran was convicted on eight counts of aggravated assault and sentenced to 12 years in prison after the incident July 2 in Plains. Thirty-two people were injured when a car rammed a speakers' platform at the rally. Cochran has appealed.

DP&L asks rate hike of 23.8 percent

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Power & Light Co. is asking for an average rate increase of 23.8 percent, which is the largest request in the 60-year history of the company.
If approved, it would affect some 225,000 residential customers while providing an additional $76.8 million for the company.
DP&L officials said Wednesday the rate hike was caused by the necessity of the firm to build generating plants that do not use oil or natural gas as a fuel.
"It is vital that we continue our change from natural gas and oil to more abundant and less expensive generating fuels — namely, lignite coal and nuclear fuel," said DP&L president Jerry Farrington.

"This past year the cost of electricity in Dallas was about $30 million less than it would have been if our generation had been totally by natural gas as it was a few years ago," he added.
For the average residential consumer paying a $60 monthly bill, the proposed rate boost would increase that bill to $76.74.

DP&L serves Dallas, Highland Park, University Park, Cockrell Hill and some unincorporated areas in North Central Texas.

Boy stabbed to death at Willie's concert

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A 14-year-old boy was stabbed to death and two others were in critical condition with stab wounds sustained while more than 10,200 music buffs were attending a Willie Nelson concert here Wednesday night.
No one has been arrested in the incident.
James M. Goodson of Bedford died at a hospital shortly after being stabbed at 11:15 p.m.
Police said two brothers, 15-year-old Darrell and 18-year-old John Drake, also of Bedford, were in critical condition with stab wounds received during a fight at the Tarrant County Convention Center.
One witness told authorities that a man in his 20s with long, black hair attacked the youths. The stabbings apparently occurred, authorities said, when a drink was spilled in a crowded aisle at the center.
"This is going to be a tough case to crack," one officer said. "There was so much noise, so many people and it was so dark most folks didn't know what was going on."

Columnist Heloise dies

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Heloise Bowles, author of the syndicated newspaper column "Hints From Heloise," has died of heart trouble. She was 58.

The columnist, known professionally as Heloise Cruse, died at Baptist Hospital here Wednesday night, a nursing supervisor said.

Her daily column of household tips, written for King Features for the past 17 years, was carried in more than 600 newspapers, King Features executive editor Allan Prialux said in New York.

Prialux said the column would be taken over by Mrs. Bowles' daughter, Ponce Cruse, who had been helping write it under the name Heloise II.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Carter mulls '78 tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, trying to balance a pair of promises, concedes that he can't guarantee a balanced federal budget by 1981 without jeopardizing his planned $25 billion election-year tax cut.

"If there was an absolutely rigid fixation on a balanced budget, then there would be no chance for tax cuts," Carter said Wednesday night in a year-end interview with television correspondents.

"But I think when you take into consideration that we have a $25 billion tax reduction for the people next year with about $6 billion tax reductions this year, that is $31 billion, (and) that is a major benefit to the people.

"I just can't give a firm commitment on how we will balance tax cuts versus a balanced budget by 1981," the president said.

His statements seemed to hedge his campaign promise to balance the budget during his first term. As recently as last week, during his Christmas vacation at home in Plains, Ga., he was asked whether the balanced budget was still a goal and not just a dream.

"Absolutely," Carter declared.

In the television interview, the president was asked whether he still thought that balancing the budget by 1981 was a realistic goal, given claims on the budget such as his promise of a tax cut. This time, Carter replied, "Obviously, I can not guarantee that. We have obviously known that to balance the budget would be difficult.

"It depends upon how fast business invests, how many people are at work, which cuts down obviously on expenditure for unemployment compensation, welfare payments — and there has to be some tradeoff," Carter said. "It would take about a 10 percent annual increase in real terms in business investment with the present projections of economic need.

"We want to cut the unemployment rate down considerably and, of course, we want to deal with the problems of the cities... We also, contemplate in the 1979 fiscal budget emphasizing anew our interest in solving the higher unemployment rate among black young people... We want to meet the legitimate needs of our people and at the same time not let inflation get out of hand."

Meeting those needs costs tax money, Carter acknowledged. But, apparently replying to former President Gerald R. Ford's contention that people would about break even between tax increases and the proposed tax cut, Carter said, "I think the benefits to be derived from our tax cuts in 1978 and 1979 will exceed any tax burden that may have been added."

The questioning began with Carter's tour beginning today of Europe, Asia and the Near East. "Energy," the president said, "will be the tie that will bind us together on this trip." Wherever his journey leads, Carter said, "what our nation does with energy will be a prime question." Until Congress takes action, he said, "that cloud will hang over the determination and leadership qualities of our country."

He said he hoped his foreign mission "will demonstrate to the American people and to the Congress the necessity for rapid action" on energy. Carter said he had "private signs... divulged to me by conferees" that a compromise can be struck on energy. "I don't think there is any doubt that they will pass this legislation early in the (next) session," the president said.

Carter also said he would introduce a national health insurance program in the next session Congress "can't pass it this year," he said, "but it will be introduced."

In the coming year, he predicted, the United States and the Soviet Union will reach a strategic arms limitation agreement. Carter also predicted approval by the Senate.

With progress in that area as well as on a comprehensive nuclear test ban and superpower restraint in the Indian Ocean, the president said, "my guess is that President Brezhnev would be likely to want to come here to visit."

Carter predicted Senate approval of the Panama Canal treaty by April and said senators should not amend it because that would require Panama to have another referendum on the pact. "I don't think it would be fair," the president said.

Instead, he said, the Senate could express its understanding of what the treaty specifies about U.S. rights to defend the waterway after Panama gains control of it in the year 2000.

In a final prediction, Carter said progress in curbing unemployment this year will be exceeded next year. "I believe we can get it below" 4.5 percent, the president said.

Unemployment has been averaging about 7 percent. Turning to the Middle East, Carter said some Arab leaders have told him they would not object to a peace settlement that included a U.S. guarantee of Israel's security.

He said he would prefer a minimal U.S. role in post-settlement peacekeeping, but added that he would consider guarantees "very, very favorably" if it meant preventing a breakdown in talks.

In general, Carter said he feels good about his first year in the White House.

He considers his biggest mistake to have been building expectations too high and underestimating the difficulty Congress would have fulfilling them.

On the other hand, he counts as his biggest achievement "having our nation and its government represent more accurately the hopes and dreams of the American people."

SS officials map visits to several area towns

A representative of the Big Spring Social Security office will be in several area cities to help people apply for benefits, obtain social security numbers, and answer questions.

On every Tuesday in January, through March from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. until 2 p.m., a representative will be in the Snyder County courthouse on the third floor.

Officials will be in Colorado City in the Wallace Community Center every Wednesday in January, through March from 10 a.m. until noon, and from 1 p.m. until 2 p.m.

The Senior Citizens Center in Lamesa will have a representative every Thursday in January through March from 10 a.m. until noon and from 1 p.m. until 2 p.m.

On Jan. 23, Feb. 27 and March 27, a representative will be in the Neighborhood Center in Stanton from 2 to 3 p.m.

It is advised that faster service can be given by phone. Applications for numbers can be handled by phone, and residents of the towns above may call free by asking the operator for Enterprise 84108.

The Social Security Office is located in room 229, Federal Building, 501 Main St., Big Spring, 79720.

Wealthy widow warned against living alone slain

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — A wealthy widow whose family warned her against living alone has become the SLAIN — Mrs. George C. Woodruff, widow of a prominent businessman, and former University of Georgia football coach, became the fifth woman to be strangled to death in the same Columbus, Ga. neighborhood during the past four months. She was 74 years old.

fifth woman found strangled in 3½ months in a quiet, residential neighborhood of this west Georgia city. Unlike the four other victims, all of whom were strangled with stockings, authorities speculate Kathleen Woodruff, 74, was killed with her own scarf. Mrs. Woodruff, widow of former University of Georgia football coach George "Kid" Woodruff Sr. and a member of one of Columbus's most prominent families, was discovered dead in her bed late Wednesday morning by her maid. As they have in the previous murders, police refused to discuss the Woodruff case in detail, but officers at the scene said Mrs. Woodruff apparently had been beaten and strangled by an intruder who entered her brick home through an unlocked rear window. After the first two murders, many of the residents in the neighborhood armed themselves with pistols, burglar bars, dogs and dead-bolt locks, but Mrs. Woodruff apparently did not fear for her safety. Tommie Stevens, the Woodruff family maid for 33 years, said the widow repeatedly was urged to take on a live-in companion. "She just wouldn't listen. She felt nobody would bother her," Mrs. Stevens said. The other four victims, aged between 59 and 89, also were found strangled at their homes in the same Wynnton Road district of Columbus. All lived within about 1½ miles of the Woodruff home.

Refinery fire injures two in New Mexico

LYBROOK, N.M. (AP) — One man was in critical condition and another was in fair condition after a fire at the Southern Union Refining Co. on New Mexico 44 between Cuba and Bloomfield.

The two injured employees were transferred Wednesday from the Cuba Health Center to Bernalillo County Medical Center in Albuquerque.

They were James Roundtree, 30, and Harry Johnson, 25, both of the Lybrook area. Roundtree was in critical condition at BCMC.

Ted Stiffler, a Bloomfield plant superintendent filling in for the vacationing Lybrook superintendent, said the fire broke out about 3 p.m. Wednesday, apparently caused by "some type of gas leak."

The fire, Stiffler said, was located at the center of the plant and broke out perhaps in the plant's control room.

"That whole section of the plant (control room) is pretty well burnt. There's quite a bit of damage," said plant manager James Martin.

No estimate of damage was immediately available.

The refinery, which processes about 70 million cubic feet of natural gas daily, primarily produces gasoline, propane and other gas by-products.

The plant is a wholly owned subsidiary of Southern Union Gas Co. with headquarters in Dallas, Texas. Gas Company of New Mexico is a division of the Dallas company.

Begins later than American New Year and lasts longer

Fireworks, parades, feasts kick off Chinese New Year

By EILEEN McGUIRE

As another year comes to a close, Americans prepare to welcome in the new with a traditional toast to the sounds of "Auld Lang Syne" and the loudest noise-makers celebrants can find. Later in January, when the American hangover is long forgotten, the Chinese will begin their New Year celebration and, like Americans, will welcome it with plenty of noise. According to Big Spring resident Sue Lee, born in Korea and raised and educated in China, the Chinese New Year is based on the moon calendar which is the center of the Chinese farmer's life. In America, Mrs. Lee explained, the full moon falls on varying dates each month. One month, it may fall on the 4th, the next on the 10th. But in China, the full moon is always the 15th of the month and the Chinese lunar year begins on the 15th of January, the first full moon of the year. "Right now," she said, "it is mid-November in China." The New Year's celebration is still a couple of months away for her sister and brother who remain in China. Mrs. Lee's husband, Byung H. Lee, an internist at the V.A. Hospital, was also born in Korea and raised in China. The couple escaped in 1947 with their two small children, one just an infant, when the Communists took control. "All of China was my home while I was growing up," Mrs. Lee recalled. "We had to keep moving because of the fighting between the Japanese and Chinese." The Lees made their home in Korea before coming to the United States 12 years ago. For awhile, they resided at St. Joseph, Michigan where Lee began his practice, later moving to Big Spring. They are the parents of two sons and two daughters, two of the children born in China and two in Korea. "All four of our children are American-educated and college graduates," Mrs. Lee said proudly. According to Mrs. Lee, the Chinese New Year is the biggest celebration of the year in China, marked by 15 days of fireworks, parades and feasting. "The emphasis of the celebration," she said, "is on the new generation." The dragon, an important figure in Chinese New Year parades, is the symbol of long life, happiness and good fortune, she explained. The dragon was so chosen because legend has it that the creature has a life span of a thousand years. Mrs. Lee, master of the 80,000 characters that make up the Chinese language, said she found English a very difficult language to learn though she speaks it quite fluently now. In comparing the two cultures, she pointed out that the main difference is the philosophy behind the family unit. "In China, four and five generations of the family live together in one house. The children do not separate from the parents. The parents take care of their children and later, the children care for their parents as they once did for them. It is the most important of all Chinese traditions. The family sticks together. It's an obligation. Families do not scatter as they do in America." It took the Lees a little while to adjust to Big Spring, according to Mrs. Lee, after living in Michigan, but now she enjoys it very much. "The people are so friendly here," she said. "But I do miss the trees." The Chinese people's elegant cuisine is an integral part of their culture and today, just as it was in ancient China, the preparation and appearance of food is as important as the flavor. Americans are becoming more and more aware of the aromatic, appetizing and healthful cuisine of the Chinese. Following are two of Mrs. Lee's favorite Chinese dishes. The Dumpling is a traditional dish for the Chinese New Year feast and Sweet and Sour is a delicacy appreciated by many Americans. Chinese do not eat pork, but Mrs. Lee said that beef can be replaced by pork if desired. The last four recipes are borrowed from the Chinese art of cooking but developed for American tastes and ingredients. With these recipes at hand, resolve to celebrate the Chinese New Year in your own home all year long.

DUMPLING AND FILLING
1 cup mushrooms, diced and soaked in warm water 2-3 hours before use
1/2 cup bamboo shoots, diced
1 pound lean ground meat (beef or pork)
1 egg

SWEET AND SOUR MEAT
1 pound lean meat (beef or pork), cut into 1/2-2 inch size chunks
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1-2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
Roll meat in 6 tablespoons corn starch and mix with other ingredients. Fry in 6 cups of oil until meat is browned. Drain oil.

SWEET AND SOUR SAUCE
1 cup pickled vegetable or pineapple chunks
1 small green pepper, cut into pieces
1/2 teaspoon chopped garlic, fried in 1 teaspoon Sesame oil.
Boil together for a few minutes:
3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons dark soy sauce
Add boiled ingredients to other ingredients. Mix 2 teaspoons of cornstarch with 2 teaspoons of water and add to mixture. Stir and serve over Sweet and Sour Meat.

BATTER FRIED SHRIMP
1/4 cup unsifted flour
1-3rd cup corn starch
1/2 to 2-3rds cup cold water
1 teaspoon salt
1 pint (about) corn oil
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 pound shrimp, shelled, deveined
Soy Dipping Sauce (recipe follows)
Pineapple Mustard Dipping Sauce (recipe follows)
In medium bowl stir together flour and corn starch. Gradually stir in 1/2 cup of the water and the soy sauce until batter is smooth. Add additional water 1 tablespoon at a time until batter is just thick enough to coat pieces (about the consistency of cheese sauce). Pour corn oil into deep fryer filling no more than 1-3rd full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degree F. Stir in 1 tablespoon of the hot oil into batter. Stir in baking powder. Dip shrimp into batter. Carefully add batter coated shrimp, a few at a time, to hot oil. Fry 3 minutes; drain. Serve with Soy or Pineapple Mustard Dipping Sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

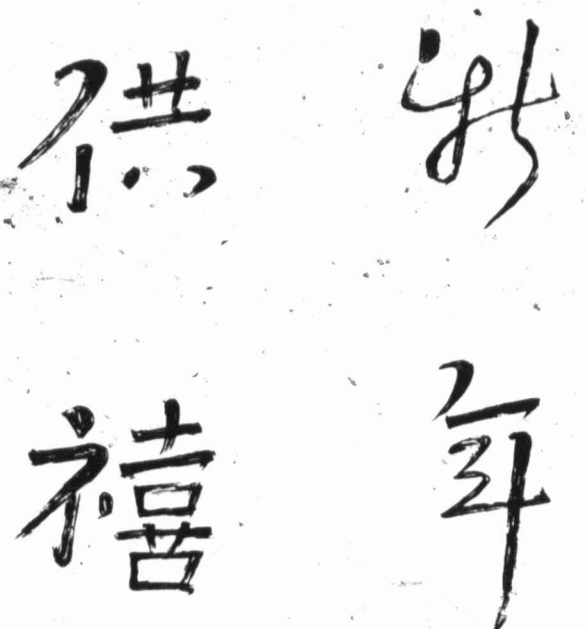

BATTER FRIED CHICKEN
1 pound boneless chicken breast, cut in 1-inch cubes, for shrimp. Increase frying time to 5 minutes.
BATTER FRIED SHRIMP
1 pound boneless shrimp, cut in 1-inch cubes, for shrimp. Increase frying time to 5 minutes.
BATTER FRIED FISH
1 pound fillets, cut in 1-inch cubes, for shrimp.

SOY DIPPING SAUCE
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 cup water
2 tablespoons minced green onions
1 tablespoon minced smooth. Stir in water, green onion and ginger. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Cover; refrigerate. If desired serve sprinkled with additional green onion. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.
PINEAPPLE MUSTARD DIPPING SAUCE
1 can (8-oz.) crushed pineapple in own juice, undrained
1/4 teaspoon minced fresh ginger root or 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons soy sauce
In blender container place pineapple and ginger; cover. Blend 30 seconds or until liquified. In small saucepan stir together corn starch, mustard and sugar. Gradually stir in pineapple mixture and soy sauce until smooth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Cover; refrigerate. Makes about 1 cup.

STIR-FRY BEEF AND GREEN BEANS
2 tablespoons soy sauce
2 tablespoons dry sherry

Beef and Mushrooms: Follow recipe for Stir-Fry Beef and Green Beans. Substitute 1 pound mushrooms, sliced, for green beans. Reduce stir-fry time to 2 minutes.
Beef and Chinese Vegetables: Follow recipe for Stir-Fry Beef and Green Beans. Substitute 1 cup diagonally sliced celery, 1 cup sliced mushrooms, 1 can (8 oz.) water chestnuts, drained, sliced and 1 can (8 1/2 oz.) sliced bamboo shoots, drained, for green beans. Reduce stir-fry time to 3 minutes.
Note: 1 pound boneless chicken breasts, thinly sliced, may be substituted for beef.

Beef and Cauliflower: Follow recipe for Stir-Fry Beef and Green Beans. Substitute 1 small head cauliflower for green beans. Break cauliflower into florets, then slice. Stir in 1 jar (2 oz.) sliced pimiento, drained.

CHINESE HOSPITALITY — The tea serving ceremony is a custom for which China is well known. Mrs. Byung H. Lee demonstrates Chinese hospitality in her Big Spring home which features a delightful blend of American and Chinese culture in the decor. Along with the tea, Mrs. Lee serves Dumplings, a traditional Chinese New Year dish, centered on the table. The recipe is one which she shares with the rest of us in the accompanying article.

BEAUTY IN THE WRITTEN WORD — Mrs. Lee found English a very difficult language to learn though to Americans the Chinese language, containing 80,000 characters, appears insurmountable. The large poster Mrs. Lee sits before is a poem and an excellent example of the artistic value of the Chinese written word. Throughout her home, Chinese art adds an oriental flair, distinguishing her home from typical American suburbia.

Swiss family joins Coahoma kin to celebrate holidays

By EILEEN McGUIRE
Christmas brought a special present to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sharp, Coahoma, this year. That very special gift was a reunion after two and a half years with Mrs. Sharp's sister, brother-in-law and nephew, who came all the way from La Chaux de Fonds, Switzerland to share the holidays with their American kin.
Arriving Dec. 21 and departing Jan. 5, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Froidevaux and son, Noel, labeled Big Spring as "A very pretty town" and are enjoying their holiday experience in a city very different from European cities. This is Froidevaux' and Noel's first visit to America, Mrs. Froidevaux having visited here before.
Froidevaux, a former watch maker, is a social worker in the French speaking region of Switzerland. He works with people suffering from mental and physical handicaps, dedicating his life's work to helping these people help themselves by creating a center that employs only the handicapped.

Before it came such a commercialized industry, Froidevaux produced first watches, later clocks with his own hands.
Handicapped himself, he later became involved with founding an organization to help others learn to be productive despite their handicaps and was eventually joined in his cause by the Swiss government.
The center manufactures distance and map-measuring instruments and includes a sheet metal shop, box factory, printing shop and employs mechanics to repair small machinery.
Among other things, the printing shop turns out publications for and about the handicapped.
The map-measuring instruments, called cartometre and rotametre, measure distances on maps and are exported solely to the United States.
One facet of Froidevaux' work is to aid the handicapped obtain special benefits they may be eligible for, such as insurance and social security benefits. He also works diligently at

Changes go into effect Jan. 3

Malone-Hogan to enforce visiting policy

Beginning Jan. 3, visitors at Malone-Hogan Hospital will notice a few changes in the visiting hours, administrator Norman Knox announced today.
Actually, the hours will remain the same. Proposed changes will focus primarily on the enforcement of the current stated policy that limits visiting hours and on the regulations governing children's visiting privileges and overnight visitors.
The visiting hours will remain from 3 to 5 in the afternoons and 7 to 9 in the evenings. Morning visitors will be discouraged and overnight visitors will be allowed only with permission of the charge or head nurse on the patient's floor.

indeed need set times for visitors as well as control of noise and commotion caused by too many people in the corridors.
The questionnaire he refers to is one that is mailed to all dismissals of the hospital, requesting their comments and suggestions received during their stay in the hospital. Covering all aspects of care, the comment form is mailed 10 days after dismissal.
Noting that although analysis of the patient returns show that the responses are 95 per cent favorable, Knox pointed out that the administration uses the comments and suggestions to pinpoint problem areas.
"When an irate patient complains in the questionnaire, the matter is not taken lightly," he said.
Since its opening in 1975, the comments have focused at different times on totally different problems.
"Some are chronic hospital problems common to all hospitals, and ones that we have to deal with periodically throughout the year, as we try to improve our services," Knox said.

"Others are specific ones that call for revision of policy. The problems involving our visitor policy has recently become one of the areas that patients seem to be concerned about in the questionnaire."
One patient wrote "Do not allow family members to stay overnight in the hospital room. My roommate's mother was very disturbing to me at night." Other comments focused on visitors of newborns.
"I suggest that you change the age limits for those able to visit at the maternity ward. My four year old desired to see both mom and new brother sooner than 3 days," a father observed.
"Your policy states that no children are allowed on the patient floor, yet the halls are full of them at night."

"Look at your policy," another patient emphasized in his comment.
And although the patient is the number one priority in the hospital, it is not only his or her comments that influence policy revisions. Commenting on the need to control the number of children on the patient floors, Nursing Director Jean Connelly, R.N., said "this is one area in which I agree heartily with those patients who are unable to rest because of the noise of visiting children. And since we've made provision for special passes to be issued in special cases where it is important to the patient to see a particular child or grandchild, I see no reason to feel that any emotional need will be denied. And it will be much quieter on the "Ultimately, it is the patient in whom we are most interested and this makes us very sensitive to the needs that patient for the love and presence of his family and friends," Knox affirmed.

"Our medical staff has approved this new effort to serve better the needs of the patient, and we covet the support of the community in making it work."

WINDOW FASHIONS

By Ted Hatfield
Think Big!

Big patterns in fabrics can mean big problems in decorating, especially when used in upholstery — on a chair, for example. Not only must the large pattern be carefully placed, but it may overpower the chair. And you may not see enough of the pattern.

You can make dramatic use of large, bold patterns in draperies more effectively than in upholstered furniture. This is because draperies over a large window area, sliding doors, etc., provide the space to show off such a pattern while keeping it in perspective, so that it is not out of balance or "too much of a good thing."

However, be cautious in choosing big patterns. If possible, try to see a fairly large swatch of any large pattern in your home. It may look very different there than in a store's display. We will gladly bring fabric samples to your home, so that you can select with confidence. Call us, and rely on our reputation for expert, courteous service and quality workmanship.

Soon-to-be-wed couple honored

A buffet honored Sue Garrett and Stanley Partee Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Horton, 809 Mountain Park.
Cohosts for the event were Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas and Mike Thomas, Greg and Waleo Horton.
Many of the guests had been Boy Scouts together with the prospective bridegroom. An out-of-town guest was Doug Robison of Richardson.
Also among the guests were many of the couple's friends home from various colleges and universities for the holidays.
A total of 36 young friends of the couple attended the pre-nuptial event.
A special gift of a place setting of their selected china was presented to the honorees.
The buffet included turkey, ham, cheese and assorted relishes.
Holiday decorations were used throughout the home for the event.

Dear Abby

Wants Parents Back Together

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl. Recently my parents were separated, and my father moved out of the house. Every Sunday he comes to visit us kids. (There are four of us. I am the oldest.)
When he comes here, Mom goes out, and if Dad is still here when she returns, she goes right to her room and stays there until he leaves. Dad always asks how Mom is, if she's "happy," and how her health is.
He really seems interested in her. After Dad leaves, Mom asks how Dad looked and what he said. Abby, I think they still love each other, and I would do anything to get them back together again, but I've been told to live my own life and to let them live theirs. How can I help?

WANTS TO HELP

DEAR WANTS: If your parents parted without seeking professional help in resolving their differences, beg them to give it a try for their own sakes as well as for yours. But if they have, the advice you received was good.

DEAR ABBY: Shortly before our 16-year-old daughter was to receive her driver's license, I made the statement that if she were involved in an accident that was her fault, or was arrested for a traffic violation, I would take her license away for one year. Everyone in the family heard me make this statement.
Last week my daughter was driving and my wife was with her. My daughter was trying to look at a road map as she drove.
Her mother told her to stop the car if she was going to look at the map, but she didn't stop—until she hit a highway post about five seconds later.
Now my wife feels that the one-year penalty was too strict to begin with. I believe it will not only teach the girl a lesson, but will serve as an example to the younger children. If you say the one-year penalty is too harsh, I may reconsider.

POP

DEAR POP: Yup. It's too harsh. A year is practically a lifetime for a 16-year-old. Personally, I'll bet the highway post taught your daughter more about safe driving than the reprisals of her pop. If it happens AGAIN, lower the boom. For the time being, lower the penalty.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 23 years and my pet peeve is my husband's constant complaining about the sandwiches I put in his lunch pail.
He says he loves tuna fish, but it makes his hands smell. He doesn't like pork products, and he says peanut butter gives him a pain between his shoulder blades. He also says he is sick of eggs and cold cuts. And chicken and turkey are too dry.
Yesterday he came home and said a fellow had a Canadian bacon sandwich and it looked real good, so this morning I put one in his lunch pail. Well, he came home tonight and said he found out Canadian bacon was ham and he hates ham! Do you have any ideas, Abby? My man is driving me nuts.

NOW WHAT

DEAR NOW: Keep giving him tuna and pack rubber gloves!

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

NEW FED HEAD — President Carter and Mrs. Ariadna Miller stand behind G. William Miller as he addresses reporters at the White House Wednesday following the announcement that Miller is President Carter's choice to head the Federal Reserve Board. Miller, a New England businessman, faces Senate confirmation for the position.

Burns' successor hailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business leaders are praising the appointment of G. William Miller to head the Federal Reserve Board despite their strong support for the man he will succeed, Arthur F. Burns.

Miller, 52, chairman of Textron Inc. of Providence, R.I., and a director of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, is to take Burns' place when he steps down as chairman Jan. 31.

With the election of a Democratic president, Burns' chances of reappointment appeared dim early this year because of his conservative money policies that antagonized labor leaders.

However, businessmen liked the stability represented by Burns' anti-inflation policies and urged President Carter to reappoint him to maintain business confidence. An optimistic business community is likely to make long-range investments, creating new jobs, they argued.

Carter, faced with this dilemma, said he contacted dozens of businessmen before choosing Miller as the nation's chief money manager.

"They expressed overwhelming confidence and approbation of Bill Miller to be chairman," Carter told reporters Wednesday.

Many businessmen expressed surprise but support for the choice.

"This is surely one of the finest appointments President Carter has made," said Heath Larry, president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

The chairman of the Bank of America, A.W. Clausen, said he thought the selection was "super."

Irving S. Shapiro, chairman of the Du Pont Co. and chairman of the Business Roundtable, said Burns will be missed. "But given the president's decision not to reappoint Mr. Burns ... we applaud the selection of Bill Miller. He has been an outstanding business leader and has the confidence of the business community."

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Carter "has made a sound decision."

Mr. Miller is capable and well qualified and should obviously have the confidence of the business community.

"In replacing Dr. Arthur Burns as chairman, the president is clearly moving away from the discredited policies that created the last recession and prevented a speedy recovery," Meany said.

Technically, Carter is nominating Miller to a 14-year term as one of seven board members, replacing David Lilly, whose term expires Jan. 31. If Miller is confirmed by the Senate, Carter will appoint him to a four-year term as chairman.

Miller has always had liking for money

BORGER, Texas (AP) — The new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board has always had a liking for money, his mother once said.

G. William Miller of Textron Inc. was born and raised in this Texas Panhandle city.

In a 1968 interview with the Amarillo Globe-News, Miller's mother, now deceased, said he was an energetic youngster. "He always liked to have some money of his own in his pocket. From the time he was nine, he always had pickup jobs, like working at a hamburger stand or washing windows for the merchants on Borger's main street."

Miller graduated from Borger High School at age 16, then attended Amarillo College until he was old enough to enter the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

He completed an accelerated wartime course there in 1943, taking a degree in marine engineering.

Miller served in the Pacific in World War II. He met his wife, Adriana, in Shanghai. They have been married more than 30 years.

Miller graduated from law school at the University of California, where he finished first in his class.

After working as a corporate merger specialist with a New York law firm, he became Textron's general counsel in 1960 at age 35. He then worked his way up to president of the firm.

President Carter Wednesday named Miller to succeed Arthur Burns as head of the Fed Jan. 31.

Farm Recycling manure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is studying the feasibility of what may be the ultimate in recycling — fattening up farm animals on other animals' manure.

The Food and Drug Administration has a 1967 policy against that practice, and says it has no immediate plan to change its mind. But it wants to study the arguments involved, particularly since some states have authorized manure feed additives within their borders.

The process of using manure additives involves collecting wastes from various animals, drying and processing the waste to kill bacteria and make it acceptable to the animals, then mixing the result with regular feed.

Using treated animal wastes in feed may provide an economic benefit to consumers, the FDA said, since it is less costly than other sources of nutrition. Large corn crops have lowered feed prices for now, but the Agriculture Department notes that this could change.

"In addition to contributing to the nation's protein supply, recycling of animal waste may reduce water and air pollution," the FDA said.

However, it added that "animal waste could contain disease-producing organisms and parasites, residues of drugs and drug metabolites and other contaminants."

Some states, including Alabama, California, Colorado, Mississippi, Virginia and Washington, have issued their own laws allowing some uses of dried waste as feed.

In addition, Florida, Georgia, Iowa and Oregon have started registering dried waste as a feed ingredient under existing laws.

The FDA's current disapproval isn't a factor in those states unless the product crosses state lines.

"The research to date has demonstrated that animal waste contains nutrients that can be used either by the species that produces the waste or by other species," the FDA statement said.

Scientists estimate that 1.7 billion tons of animal waste is produced in the nation each year and as much as 143 million tons of this can be used as animal feed.

Hamburger to cost more in '78

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Meat Institute says consumers will pay more for hamburger next year but that spare ribs for backyard barbecues will cost less.

Foreign filbert farmers face federal force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has adopted a new rule aimed at protecting filbert farmers from foreign filberts.

Barbara Lindeman Schlei, head of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, announced Wednesday that beginning Feb. 15, "all filberts imported into the United States will be required to measure up to minimum standards" which are in effect for American filberts.

Oregon and Washington are the main commercial producers of U.S. filberts, also called hazel nuts. This year, the two-state crop totaled 11,000 tons, up from 7,170 tons in 1976.

The crop is regulated under a federal marketing order which includes standards for grade, size, quality and other factors. Ms. Schlei said that under the new regulations, imported filberts will have to meet the same standards as those in effect for Oregon and Washington.

Ms. Schlei said that most imported filberts come from Turkey as shelled nuts and from Italy as unshelled nuts.

Farm markets

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat No. 2 hard red winter 2.73 1/2 in Thursday. No. 2 soft red winter 2.73 1/2 in. Corn No. 2 yellow 2.23 1/2 in (hopper) 2.18 1/2 in (box). Oats No. 2 heavy 1.45 1/2 in. Soybeans No. 1 yellow 8.02 in. No. 2 yellow corn Wednesday was quoted at 2.22 in (hopper) 2.17 in (box).

Richard E. Lyng, president of the industry-supported association, said Wednesday that hamburger prices may go up 10 to 15 percent because farmers and ranchers will be sending fewer grass-fed cattle to market.

On the other hand, he said, lower corn prices are triggering more grain feeding of cattle which produce the choicer cuts of beef. Those will cost more, too, but will not increase proportionately as much as hamburger.

According to government figures, hamburger sold nationally in retail stores last month for an average of 85.6 cents a pound. A 10 percent increase would push prices to about 94 cents and a 15 percent hike to 98.4 cents a pound.

In 1974, hamburger prices rose steadily to more than $1 a pound, averaging a record of almost $1.10 a pound in February 1975 before leveling off.

The institute said that around three billion pounds of hamburger or ground beef was produced this year but added that this is a "very rough" estimate.

It seems no one is sure how much hamburger is sold annually. The government does not attempt to keep track of it all, because retailers often grind up slow-selling cuts of beef into hamburger.

A report by the National Science Foundation showed that in 1975 hamburger production may have been as much as 7.6 billion pounds, a year when farmers and ranchers trimmed breeding cattle herds sharply.

Even so, the institute's estimate means that enough hamburger probably was produced this year to make at least 12 billion quarter-pound hamburgers, or about 55.6 for each American.

Washington (AP) — Winter wheat in the southern Great Plains has deteriorated somewhat lately because of dry weather and winds, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of Dec. 25, the winter wheat crop across the country was generally rated "good" except for parts of the southern plains, the department said Wednesday in a weekly weather report.

"High winds affected stands in Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado," the report said. "Very little snow cover was reported in the major growing areas."

The crop in Kansas, the largest wheat producer, was "generally rated good, a decline from the good to excellent conditions in earlier weeks," the report said.

Florida's citrus country 'frosty'

By the Associated Press

A warming trend will account for higher temperatures, perhaps as high as 32 degrees, across the Plains today while another weather system continues to keep Florida's citrus country under refrigeration.

Early morning temperatures were running in the mid to high 20s, with some low 30s in Kansas and Missouri, which is about five degrees warmer than 24 hours earlier.

Temperatures in parts of northern Florida are in the 20s. Frost was expected over much of the state today.

Readings were below zero in the upper Mississippi Valley and extreme northern

New England. Twenties prevailed from Illinois to Mississippi and eastward to the middle and south Atlantic coast.

Isolated rain and snow showers covered the area from northern California through northern Nevada and from Oregon into Idaho, Montana and Washington. Snow fell in the higher elevations.

Precipitation also ranged Arizona to Mississippi.

Scattered rain showers, drizzle and fog extended through much of Texas and extreme south central Oklahoma into Louisiana.

Snow fell in North Dakota, Minnesota and in the Great Lakes region.

Early morning temperatures around the nation ranged from five-below-zero at Marquette, Mich., to 66 at Brownsville, Texas.

Crash victim identified

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The third person killed in an automobile accident at Armored in northeast Arkansas on Monday has been identified as Jimmy Marr, 25, of Blytheville.

Also killed in the crash were two relatives of University of Texas football coach Freddie Akers. The two were the coach's brother, Carl Akers, 36, and his nephew, Lonnie Akers Jr., 22, both of Blytheville.

Marr's name had been withheld pending notification of next of kin.

State police said a car driven by Lonnie Akers ran off the road, struck an embankment and burned.

Warren B. Woodson

The name Warren B. Woodson may not be that familiar to sports fans in the West Texas area, but to a few people in Big Spring, he is unforgettable.

This Saturday, during the Cotton Bowl luncheon, when both teams will be present, Woodson will be inducted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Former collegiate All-Americans Jim Swink of Texas Christian and Don Meredith of Southern Methodist, along with former coach Gil Steinko of Texas A&I and the late J.V. Sikes of Texas A&M will also be enshrined during the noon ceremonies.

For 38 years, Woodson was a head football coach in the college ranks, mentoring successfully at Tarleton, Arkansas State Teachers, Hardin-Simmons, Arizona, New Mexico State and Trinity. He compiled a career record of 247-112-20 — better than 68 per cent winning football.

He coached five undefeated teams, five which lost only one contest and took eight conference championships. Woodson also won All-Southwest Conference honors in basketball and captained the tennis team while attending Baylor.

Ron Logback, assistant football coach and offensive coordinator this past season for the Big Spring Steers, was a member of the 1958-1961 New Mexico State squads coached by Woodson. During that time, the NMSers were Sun Bowl champs ('59 and '60), were undefeated and untied in 1960 and held the longest winning streak at the time (24 games).

"I really didn't like him at first," said Logback. "I didn't understand him much, and I was just a young kid who wanted to play football."

"I've come to love the man, though, in the last 15 years, realizing what he's done for me as a coach," Logback continued. "He has always been a just man, a highly religious man, and I've never heard him use abusive language to any of his players."

"Oh, he was critical enough," the local coach remembered, "and he could make you feel bad sometimes, but he would always get the errors corrected, and without belittling his team."

Woodson is, from all indications, still a very hard-working man, who doesn't look field goal close to his 70-odd years. That's because he has always stayed on a very rigorous physical fitness program. "I still play golf about twice a week," Woodson said recently. "There's a nice little course about four blocks from where we live." Woodson now resides in Dallas.

He implemented and stressed the importance of stretching exercises long before most coaches had anything to do with them. "He was a very demanding coach and definitely ahead of his time in football," Logback stated. "He did many things many years ago out there on the field that you've just seen taking place in the last 10 years."

The offense-minded ex-coach reportedly "spent more time coming up with ways to defeat people" than anyone in the annals of collegiate football. "We never beat anyone on defense," remembers Logback, "but we sure beat a lot of teams 45 to 30-something."

Logback's only regret in knowing Woodson is that he didn't pay more attention to his former coach at the time. "I could've learned so much more about the man," said his former pupil. "I really admire him. He's the type of person that builds character in an individual, and I'd like to be like him as a coach."

In a recent letter to L. W. (Dub) Harris of Big Spring, who was Woodson's quarterback while at Arkansas State Teachers College in the mid 30s, Woodson had the following to say about Logback: "Ronnie Logback is one of the very finest men that has ever played for me. His moral standards are very high and he is an excellent coach. I noticed that Big Spring was weak this past year in football, but Logback does a fine job of coaching."

Logback was a member of the "hamburger squad" his freshman year at NMS, played defensive halfback his sophomore and junior years and was promoted to quarterback by Woodson after Big Spring's Charlie Johnson graduated.

Former Herald sports editor Tommy Hart remembers Woodson as doing a great service for pro football.

"He was a pretty good athlete, and a great one on being in condition... a taskmaster and great offensive mind, but the most notable thing he ever did was develop Charlie Johnson for the pros," said Hart.

After Johnson graduated from Big Spring High School in 1956, his uncle, Jack Johnson, took him to see Hardin-Simmons coach Sammy Baugh. "Baugh was running the budget into the red recruiting players from all over the nation," Hart recalled, "but he wouldn't even take time to look at a kid who lived only 106 miles away."

Disillusioned, Johnson attended Kerrville Shiner for a year, participating only in the basketball program, since football had been discontinued the year before. But at the end of his freshman year, Johnson went to see Woodson, and the patient coach gave the former high school star a chance.

"Charlie had the potential but not the confidence," Hart recalls of the young man who was later to make a name for himself with the St. Louis Cardinals. "But while at New Mexico State, he learned more under Woodson than he could have under anyone."

Because of his "advanced" age, Woodson was forced by University rules to retire. He went on to bug quite a few eyes at Trinity, however, but the situation prompted Ron Logback to make one final comment: "He's the type of guy that you don't appreciate until he's gone. I realized that and New Mexico State realized it after they forced him to retire."

It's a pleasant thought that the Texas Sports Writers Association selection committee realized it... and before he was gone, too.

Vikes never lose in Texas Stadium

DALLAS (AP) — So you think the Dallas Cowboys should be favored in their National Conference title game with Minnesota because they are playing on home turf at Texas Stadium. Don't rush out and bet your lunch money on it even though the oddsmakers have installed the Cowboys as 11-point favorites for Sunday's game which decides the NFC entry into Super Bowl XII in New Orleans.

Fact: Minnesota has NEVER lost in Texas Stadium. The Vikings ripped Dallas 27-10 in the 1973 NFC title game, trimmed the Cowboys 23-21 in the 1974 regular season and took a 16-13 pre-season decision in 1975.

So much for the home field jinx. "We might have a little edge because the Vikings have to travel but the home field advantage is greatly exaggerated unless you are playing in a wild place like Denver," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry.

He added, "I'd call it a tossup ball game." Dallas traditionally has played well in Texas Stadium and some members of the Chicago Bears, who were butchered 37-7 last week, spoke in awe of the stadium with a hole in the top.

"It (the stadium) can be distracting," admitted Chicago defensive back Doug Plank. "It's that biggest image I guess — the Texas and the best. They've got the team and they've got those Cowgirls (cheerleaders) on the sidelines... if you aren't careful you kinda stand back and watch it all in awe."

Obviously, there's no awe in the Vikings. The Vikings and Cowboys have represented the NFC in eight of the last nine Super Bowls.

"It's been a great rivalry," says Viking Coach Bud Grant. "We've played in a lot of crucial games. We have a lot of respect for Dallas and we feel they have a lot of respect for us. We certainly aren't in awe of them."

Hog players to drop reinstatement effort

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Attorney John W. Walker asked U.S. District Court today to dismiss his suit seeking the reinstatement of three Arkansas Razorback football players to the Orange Bowl.

Judge Terry L. Shell took no immediate action. A spokesman for his office said he would set a date for a hearing on the dismissal motion.

Walker had no comment to reporters as he left the Federal Court Building. However, running back Ben Cowins said in a statement that he and the two other Razorbacks suspended from the post-season bowl game by Coach Lou Holtz had "instructed our lawyers to discontinue efforts to get us into the Orange Bowl."

"Our team is strong, our replacements are competent and we can still make a good showing in the Orange Bowl. We regret that we aren't there, but our team has our full support."

"We believe there are other examples of athletes who have conducted some form of misconduct before a bowl game, but they were not as severely punished. They were disciplined, if at all, in other ways after the game."

"But under the circumstances, including the absence from the state of witnesses and our lack of financial resources to get them back here for this hearing, it is impossible for us of our own knowledge, to prove this contention in court today."

Cowins, running back Michael Forrest and flanker Donny Bobo were suspended from the game by Holtz following a Dec. 20 incident that Cowins said involved a partially-clad young woman at a Fayetteville athletic dormitory.

In testimony Wednesday, Cowins had said his football career would be irreparably damaged if he doesn't play in the Orange Bowl.

Each of the three players has one year of eligibility left.

"Everything we have built up in the past three years has been torn down in what, in my opinion, was a rash judgment by Holtz," Cowins said. "All that's left now is for us to salvage what's left."

Walker filed suit Tuesday asking the court to order Holtz and other university officials to allow the three to participate in the Jan. 2 game at Miami.

"A lot of us don't have a lot of smarts," Cowins testified Wednesday while clutching and unclutching a rolled sheet of paper. "We can't make it as big time lawyers. This thing could keep us out of the (pro) draft."

When asked by Walker if his testimony indicated he would be "injured irreparably" by not playing in the Orange Bowl, Cowins said, "Yes."

"We feel, something is wrong by us not being in the Orange Bowl. I don't think the team can really come together."

Walker maintained that Holtz chose to suspend the three "despite the fact" that they had not been charged with a crime and had not violated any rule Holtz had made known to the players.

"We spent a lot of time gaining respect from the team and Arkansas. We don't want to have them believing something that is basically untrue," Cowins said.

He said the three voluntarily gave an account of the dorm incident to Holtz Dec. 20, the night before the suspensions were announced.

The three went to freshman running back Trent Bryant's room to "have a discussion with a certain person in the room. It didn't work out, so we left," Cowins said.

"We told Holtz that an incident took place that was completely under control and everybody knew what was going on. I told him basically that about 10 people were in the room and some of the girl's clothes were removed, and there was an indication of play. It was just a playful act."

Cowins said that Holtz "walked to a table, sat down, (See "Suit" p. 3B)

Coahoma, Forsan advance in tourney

COAHOMA — Action intensified in the Fifth Annual Bulldog Holiday Tournament today, as the Stanton, Coahoma and Forsan boys all vied for a spot in Friday's championship game.

The hosting Bulldogs met Forsan at 1:30 p.m. today, and the winner will in all probability meet Stanton in the boys' finals contest, 7:30 p.m. Friday. Stanton still had to beat Ozona today, however, for the championship berth.

In opening round action Wednesday, the Forsan team drubbed the Big Springs, 74-59; the Coahoma JV girls dropped Andrews, 55-39; the Forsan JV girls defeated Sanderson 67-63 and the high-flying Stanton boys, no doubt remembering last year's frantic action, buried Greenwood 52-40.

In other action today, Greenwood boys met Sanderson, the Coahoma JV girls played Ozona, the Coahoma and Forsan feds squared off at noon, and Carole Bartasek's Big Spring group entertained Andrews at 3 p.m.

Two games are on tap tonight in Bulldog Gym. Beginning at 6 o'clock, in girls' action, the losers of the Forsan-Coahoma and Coahoma JV-Ozona matchups are pitted against one another. That game will be immediately followed (7:30 p.m.) by a game involving the boys' losers of the Stanton-Ozona and Forsan-Coahoma contests.

Action will conclude in the Classic Friday with the consolation girls' game, 3 p.m.; the consolation boys' game, 4:30 p.m.; the championship girls' contest, 6 p.m.; and the championship boys' meeting, 7:30 p.m.

SLATON — Stanton's Bulldogs advanced to the semifinals of the West Texas Girls' Basketball Tournament here Wednesday by defeating Abilene Wylie 6-0 in overtime, 38-35.

Loretta Young led Stanton with 22 points. LeAnn Wester paced Wylie with 17.

STANTON feds edge Wylie 6-0

STANTON — Stanton's Bulldogs advanced to the semifinals of the West Texas Girls' Basketball Tournament here Wednesday by defeating Abilene Wylie 6-0 in overtime, 38-35.

Loretta Young led Stanton with 22 points. LeAnn Wester paced Wylie with 17.

"No, I haven't thought about losing," the Longhorn defensive tackle sniffed. "I think if we go out there and take care of our business we'll win the football game."

"We'll be national champions and we won't have to argue with anybody about it."

The top-ranked Steers meet the Fighting Irish in the Jan. 2 classic and Shearer, an All America selection, was almost flippant as he discussed the contest during a telephone news conference Wednesday.

"You're obviously not awed by Notre Dame," a writer observed.

"Well," Shearer replied, "We've had more time to prepare for Notre Dame... I think the intensity is there. I think we're all looking forward to a good game."

"I haven't been in awe of anybody we've played but I don't think that means I haven't any respect for them. I know it's going to be an enthusiastic game because the stakes are high."

"Notre Dame's always playing for the national championship. They're not playing for any kind of a conference championship or anything."

Shearer contends the unbeaten Longhorns played a tougher schedule than the once beaten, fifth-ranked Irish and deserve their lofty status in the national poll.

"I think we've definitely played better teams this year than Notre Dame did. We played three teams in the Top Ten," he pointed out. Texas shot down both Orange Bowl foes, No. 2 Oklahoma and No. 6 Arkansas.

"Notre Dame played only USC, and I think Clemson may have been in the Top Twenty, and they gave them a good game," he added.

Shearer did concede that the Longhorns benefitted from a schedule break, explaining: "Our first three games weren't too tough. We had a chance to pull all our troops together and see what we had. But we did have a tougher schedule than Notre Dame, which doesn't mean a damn thing when you come down to Jan. 2."

Teammate Earl Campbell, the Heisman Trophy winner, refused to speculate on the esoteric sidelights of Monday's clash. He put it this way:

"What I've seen so far, they're going to be real tough... When Jan. 2 comes, the Texas Longhorns are going to be out there... doing their very, very best."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Study and decide the overall aspects under which you wish to operate during the coming year. Reduce this course of action to specific and detailed formulas so that the dreams and hopes you have for the coming year can be an actual part of your life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make plans first and then carry through along intelligent lines. This also includes anything of a governmental nature.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan more time for a loved one. Forget all that worrying and be more objective in handling practical affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to get your home in better condition to suit your ideas and sense of neatness and artistry. Set aside some time for entertainment. Take no chances with one who is jealous of you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talk over your ideas for the new year with good friends and gain their approval. Take time to be with loved ones who can also help you. Avoid one who has harmed you in the past.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into the details of property, home affairs and handle them intelligently. Learn to budget more wisely and make your money stretch.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Schedule your time and efforts so that you gain personal aims with ease. Be with as many friends as you can who can be of assistance to you. Show your appreciation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan how to get your routines better organized so they work out more efficiently in the future. Talk matters over with your mate and have greater harmony between you. Make sure financial affairs are well handled.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to what good friends have to suggest so that you gain your aims. Get together with interesting people and have a good time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more alert to what is happening on the public scene and you can improve your position. Avoid a known gossip.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) By taking a new stand with certain situations you find you can improve them considerably. Meet individuals whose background of experience has been different from your own.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep any promises you have made in a most scrupulous way. Do whatever will improve understanding with loved ones, but be diplomatic about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make definite arrangements with associates so that you can come to a true meeting of minds. Then you can carry through with work in a surer way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will do well in any kind of work that requires detail and specialization, and should have special courses in such as well as regular academic course of the usual nature. Just like in the movies: Staubach vs Morton

By the Associated Press

If Hollywood were writing the script, the Dallas Cowboys and Denver Broncos would win Sunday's conference crowns in the National Football League and turn Super Bowl XII into the "Saga of the Quarterback Nobody Wanted."

To give the story the proper dramatic ending, the championship game would develop into a fierce duel featuring rival quarterbacks Roger Staubach of the Cowboys and Craig Morton of the Broncos and end with Morton throwing a last-gasp touchdown pass for the victory.

Then, with the eyes of 60 million TV viewers upon him, he would bask in the spotlights of "New Orleans' Superdome" — the old, oft-rejected retreat who wouldn't die.

That's the way any screenwriter worth his salt would do it. Unfortunately Dallas has a way of fashioning its own scenarios, and they aren't always so poignant or sentimental. In a word, they are devastating.

Yet no one can deny that there has been a certain ethereal quality about Morton's resurrection this year and the inexplicable surge of a Denver team that had been a doormat for 17 years, never before making the playoffs.

It is as if some unseen force has been leading Morton and his orange-shirted nobodies to a rendezvous with the unbelievable.

Morton, out of the University of California, was a member of one of college football's most illustrious classes — the class of '65. The group included Heisman Trophy winner John Huarte of Notre Dame, Joe Namath, Gale Sayers, Dick Butkus, Tucker Frederickson and a scrambling quarterback from the U.S. Naval Academy named Roger Staubach.

It was at this point that Morton experienced his first, bellystabbing taste of slight. The College All-Stars, playing the NFL's Cleveland Browns in Chicago, voted Staubach their captain. "A natural leader," they said.

Morton had been the No. 1 draft choice of the Cowboys. Dallas also had chosen Staubach in the 10th round as a "future" pick since Roger QUARTERBACK'S SAGA — Craig Morton, right, who once seemed to be the quarterback nobody wanted, will be taking the Denver Broncos into the National Football League final while his old teammate Roger Staubach leads Dallas Cowboys against the Minnesota Vikings, Sunday. had a four-year commitment to the Navy.

In his first four years at Dallas, Morton wore the seat of his trousers thin sitting on the bench. The Cowboys' No. 1 quarterback was Don Meredith, a home-town hero from Southern Methodist.

In the summer of 1969, Meredith, at age 31, decided he'd had his fill of football and unceremoniously quit.

The decision coincided with the end of Staubach's naval duty — and so Jolly Roger, as a 27-year-old rookie, moved onto a collision course with Morton, the frustrated stand-in, in the bid for Meredith's vacated job.

Morton got the nod. He was the No. 1 field general in 1969 and 1970, Staubach filling in only when Craig suffered an injured finger in the 1969 exhibition season and after an arm operation early in 1970.

In 1970, the sore-winged Morton led the Cowboys to an 11-2-1 regular-season record and into the Super Bowl, where the team lost to Baltimore -16-13. Staubach never got in the game.

In 1971, Landry rotated the two quarterbacks through the first half of the season. The team floundered. Squad members were divided.

Fans became restive booing Morton regularly. The Landry made the firm decision — Staubach as his quarterback.

It was a spirit-puncturing blow to Morton. Staubach proceeded to lead the Cowboys through the last seven games without a defeat and, as the game's Most Valuable Player, to a 24-3 victory over the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

Morton again was doomed to a spear-carrying role and complete frustration. He remained a bench-warmer with the Cowboys until mid-1974 when he was peddled to the New York Giants, there to be pilloried by the press and public.

His career appeared headed for the dump heap when suddenly this year the Giants shoved him off on the Broncos. For Morton it was like falling in a bed of roses.

The Broncos named him captain. Fans adored him. At age 34, he found new life and new spirit, leading the Broncos to the best record in the league. Can the fairy tale really end there?

Williams lifts Tech to win

HONOLULU (AP) — Sophomore forward Kent Williams scored seven of Texas Tech's 15 points in an overtime period to spark the Red Raiders to a 78-73 upset victory over Rhode Island in a Rainbow Classic first-round game Wednesday.

Texas Tech, now 7-1 on the season, will meet the winner of the North Carolina-Brigham Young basketball game in one of Thursday's semifinal contests, with Providence going against Stanford in the other.

Williams gave the Red Raiders the lead for good at 2:27 remaining in overtime on a 20-foot jumpshot to break a 67-67 deadlock, then came back shortly after with two free throws to increase the margin to four points.

Aggies go into Bluebonnet limbo

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Jimmy Bellard figures there's always a mystery to preparing for bowl games but the Aggies had the right formula a year ago.

"Bowl preparations are always in limbo," Bellard said Wednesday as the Aggies arrived to begin final preparations for their New Year's Eve meeting in the AstroDome against Southern California.

"You never know exactly what to expect," said Bellard, who has the Aggies in a bowl for the third straight year. "But we've been having good workouts so I hope we are prepared to play Southern Cal."

Whatever formula the Aggies used a year ago worked. They blistered explosive Florida 37-14 in the Sun Bowl to complete a 10-2 season. Things didn't work out as well two years ago however when the Trojans whipped the Aggies 20-0 in MIAMI (AP) — The University of Oklahoma football team goes into Monday night's Orange Bowl game against Arkansas with one of the finest collegiate defenses in the country, and that surprises the Sooners coaches.

"If you had told me three months ago that we would have this kind of (defensive) team, I'd have laughed at you," defensive coordinator Larry Lacey said.

"We just had too many question marks to start the season. We had to have a lot of unsung players come through for us, and they did," Lacey added.

Spring training for the defense was a process of trying to find players to fill gaping holes, at both end spots, at linebacker and in the secondary.

Lacey took a long look at the offensive squads and got fullback George Cumby as a linebacker. To back up Burget he got quarterback Bruce Tatom.

However, Burget injured his back on a summer job and his playing status was questionable from game to game. That shoved Tatom into the starting position we're going to slack off on these guys the last two days. We've worked out twice in 15 hours since arriving and we have our rhythm back."

Both teams were scheduled to work out today in the AstroDome in their next to last drill prior to Saturday's kickoff before a sellout crowd of at least 54,000.

"We'll follow the same bowl preparation format that we did last year," Bellard said. "In 1975, we played the early (bowl) game. We were taking final exams while we were getting ready to play and we didn't have the players' full attention."

Both teams closed out the regular season with impressive victories. USC came from behind in the final two seconds with a 38-yard field goal by Frank Jordan to beat arch rival UCLA 29-27 and the Aggies whipped defending Southwestern Conference champion Houston 27-7.

Aggies go into Bluebonnet limbo

The most impressive aspect of A&M's victory over Houston was the off-bench performance of freshman quarterback Mike Moseley, who will start against the Trojans. Moseley replaced senior starter David Walker, still suffering from a chest injury.

Bellard said his decision to start a freshman quarterback against the Trojans was simple.

"If David Walker was full speed he'd start the game," Bellard said. "Not because he deserved it but because he earned it. But if you can't practice full speed, it's hard to get your timing."

Moseley, a 9.4 sprinter and former schoolboy state hurdles champion, will pose more of an outside threat than Walker.

beyond all expectations is senior tackle David Hudgens.

Lacey said Hudgens is "the type of player that probably will not be here in the future under the 30 scholarship rule. It will be difficult to take a chance on a marginal player anymore."

The star of the defensive team this year has to be Cumby, a sophomore who didn't want to make the switch to linebacker.

Cowins has tallied 1,192 yards rushing this year and scored 14 touchdowns. He is second in SWC rushing to Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell of the Texas Longhorns.

Bobo is the team's leading receiver with 22 catches this season.

Sun Bowl partly cloudy

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Stanford and Louisiana State are at the Sun Bowl to have a good time, but they are so serious about Saturday's game that the practices are behind closed doors.

The Sun Bowl, noted as one of the fun events on the post-season holiday football calendar, was drenched by a steady rain Wednesday when the two teams arrived.

LSU Coach Charley McClendon immediately announced his team was closing workouts to the public and the media for only the second time in his career.

Stanford Coach Bill Walsh quickly followed suit.

"Of course, you can go up

Aggies go into Bluebonnet limbo

on a hill and watch if you want to," McClendon laughed about a nearby mountain which overlooks the Sun Bowl. "But we've got some things we want to work on."

McClendon added, "Stanford is a very complicated team and we've got to do some things to offset that."

Stanford Coach Bill Walsh replied, "Seeing as how LSU has closed their practices, I think we'll have to respond in kind. With a bowl game, you have more time to prepare and your game plan is much more elaborate."

"I think we would feel a lot more comfortable closing our practices if theirs are going to be closed. Of course, we welcome the press but we don't want people going around writing about what formation we're running what out of."

The game will match the running of LSU's Charles Alexander, who finished second nationally in rushing with 1,686 yards, against the passing of Cardinal quarterback Guy Benjamin, the country's No. 1 passer.

"It's hard to say who would be the favorite in this," McClendon said. "I think most people are expecting a highscoring affair. In this day, teams are so equal it really is almost always close."

put his hands over his face and peered down. We knew something was wrong.

"He said we violated the 'do-right' rule. That's 'always do right,' I guess."

Holtz said that breaking the do-right rule had a negative effect on the freshman players.

Cowins said the woman involved in the incident had suggested to Holtz that the whole matter be dropped and Holtz should let the three play in the game at Miami. The woman was not identified.

Cowins said Holtz later told the rest of the team about "what had happened." Cowins said the three standouts were not present at the meeting.

Cowins said the feedback he later received from teammates led him to believe "they were told something different by Holtz than what had actually happened." He said he confronted Holtz with that opinion, but the coach gave "no response."

Holtz is in Miami with the team preparing for the Monday game.

Under questioning from Deputy Attorney General Frank Newell, Cowins said he guessed about 20 people were in the room at the time of the incident. He said he could not remember everyone's name that was in the room.

When Newell asked Cowins to identify any persons he could recall from the dorm room incident, Walker asked the judge to call the lawyers from both sides to the bench.

After a brief exchange, Shell called a recess.

Cumpton named Hereford coach

HEREFORD — Don Cumpton, director of athletics the past two years at Muleshoe High School, has been named the head football coach at Hereford High School.

Cumpton formerly was a coaching aide at Hereford. He replaces Fred Upshaw, who announced his decision to quit Nov. 15.

Under Cumpton, Muleshoe finished with a 9-1 football record the past fall. Cumpton formerly coached at Sanford-Fritch.

Evansville lad killed in wreck

NEWTON, Ill. — David Furr, a freshman at the University of Evansville and his brother Byron, were killed in a car crash while returning from a high school basketball tournament.

Furr, 18, was an Evansville basketball player, but had been redshirted by Coach Bobby Watson before the season because of an ankle injury.

He was not eligible for the 1977-78 season, and thus was not aboard the ill-fated charter when all 14 members of the Indiana team were killed in the Dec. 13 crash.

$1,840,000 settlement

CLEVELAND (AP) — The families of 26 insulation installers who died or became ill because of asbestos inhalation will share in a $1,840,000 settlement reached Wednesday with 17 corporations.

The agreement in the court of U.S. District Judge John M. Manos was reached with such firms as Johns Manville Products Corp., GAF Corp., Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., Celotex Corp., Raybestos Manhattan Corp. and Flintkote Corp.

Robert E. Sweeney, an attorney for the plaintiffs, charged in the 26 suits filed since 1972 that the corporations failed to properly protect workers from asbestos inhalation and exposure, which he said causes lung cancer, abdominal cancer and rectal cancer to workers in the construction trades.

Asbestos, which is mined and crushed, is widely used as a binder and insulator for many products.

Sixteen of the 26 cases involved the death of the workers, Sweeney said. From 150 to 200 similar cases have been filed throughout the country, he added.

Manos had conducted pretrial hearings for more than 1½ years and the case was to go to trial next month. Sweeney said this was the first time that a federal judge has consolidated cases involving product liability. At one time, Manos rented a ballroom at a downtown Cleveland hotel so that about 80 lawyers, corporation officials and insurance company officials could discuss a possible settlement.

The amount that each company will have to pay each worker or his family has yet to be worked out, Sweeney said. All the workers were members of the International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers Union.

10,000 Oklahomans support Anita Bryant

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An evangelist says he will give NBC officials a 10,000-signature petition protesting the television network's cancellation of an appearance by Anita Bryant on Orange Bowl broadcasts.

Larry Jones left here Wednesday and said he will present his petition to NBC officials in New York Friday.

Jones has formed a group called "Oklahomans for Anita" to support Miss Bryant in her campaign against homosexuals, and has been soliciting donations.

Miss Bryant, who now lives in Florida, is a former Oklahoma resident and was Miss Oklahoma in the Miss America pageant.

Jones said Miss Bryant's "civil rights to freedom of speech are being abridged," by NBC's taking her off Orange Bowl broadcasts.

Cotton Maid finalists

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A new Maid of Cotton will begin a year-long reign over the nation's cotton industry tonight.

Eighteen young women, representing cotton-producing states from the Carolinas to California, are going through the final selection process in Memphis today.

One of the finalists will succeed Ellen Clark of Memphis, the 1977 Maid of Cotton, during ceremonies at a Memphis hotel.

One of the new maid's first duties will be to appear in Dallas Monday for the Cotton Bowl parade and football game between Texas and Notre Dame.

Later, the new maid will meet President Carter and begin an international tour to promote cotton.

YMCA board nominations

The official ballot for election to the YMCA Board of Directors has been drawn up.

The men and women elected to the board will serve a three-year term through the year 1980. Included on the ballot are nine nominees named by the Y's nominating committee, as well as nine spaces for write-in candidates.

Those voting are asked to fill in no more than nine of the 18 spaces. Deadlines for return of ballots is 5 p.m. on Jan. 6, 1978.

Those who consented to having their names placed in nomination on the ballot are: Harold D. Bentley, Frank Hardisty, Dr. Charles Hays, Mrs. Paula Talbot, Mrs. Virginia Ross, Sid Smith, A. J. Prager, Cheri Sparks and Jim Parks.

Henry named publisher

LAMESA — Stephen A. Henry, news editor of the Lamesa Press-Reporter for the past 6½ years, has been named publisher and general manager of the Levelland Sun-News.

The Levelland paper has been purchased by the Hockley County Publishing Company Inc.

Participating in the transaction are James Roberts, publisher of the Andrews County News; Walter Buckel, publisher of the Lamesa Press-Reporter; O. G. (Speedy) Nugent, publisher of the Hereford Brand; Roy McQueen, publisher of the Snyder Daily News; and Larry Crabtree, publisher of the Vernon Daily Record.

A replacement for Henry here is due to be announced in a few days, according to Buckel.

Four seek re-election

LAMESA — Dawson County Judge Leslie C. Pratt, Precinct Two commissioner A. B. (Abe) Furlow, County Clerk Mrs. R. T. Bingham and Justice of Peace Richard Nelson are among those who have announced for re-election in Dawson County.

Mrs. Bingham currently is filling the unexpired term of Louis C. White as county clerk. She previously had been chief deputy in the office.

All are Democrats.

$3,60 bet turns into $142,500

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — G.W. Llewellyn and Sam Rosa found the end of the rainbow Tuesday when a horse appropriately named "Decent Fellow" turned a $3.60 bet into a $142,500 pot of gold.

Llewellyn was at his home in this Southeast Texas city watching television when he got the news he had won the Irish Sweeps Hurtle race that carried the cash prize. "I damn near fell out of my chair," he said.

Rosa, a nearby Nederland resident, was listening to the news at work. "I shouted, 'Damn, I won.'" The winners agreed chances of winning the Irish Sweeps are about five million-to-one. The fact that they beat those odds is a promise of some high times to come. "Here, go buy yourself a bottle of wine," said Llewellyn, shoving a crisp $20 at a reporter. "I'm going to have a good time. I'm going to spend money."

Rosa said he called his sister in New York to tell her the news. "I told her 'This is lucky Sam.' She didn't recognize me," he chuckled.

Llewellyn has not decided how to spend the victory cash but he expects Uncle Sam to have a lean and hungry look. "I guess the government will take about half," he said, showing no serious disappointment. "Our creditors will be looking for us now. You always have somebody you have to pay."

Llewellyn is manager of an engineering firm. Rosa is a supervisor with the same company. It was Rosa who persuaded Llewellyn to split the price of entering the contest. The winning ticket cost them a British Pound, the equivalent of about $3.60.

Rosa has been entering the contest for several years but Llewellyn is a relative newcomer. Will they enter again? "We've already got a ticket for the March race," said Rosa.

Shots riskier than small pox

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The State Health Department says it will go out of the smallpox vaccine business Jan. 1 after distributing 7.9 million doses since it began production in 1938. Health commissioner Dr. Fratis L. Duff said smallpox has been confined to infrequent outbreaks in parts of Ethiopia and Somalia. He added that worldwide efforts to eradicate the disease make "very small" the threat of an imported epidemic.

Smallpox vaccination is no longer mandatory in most nations. Texas eliminated it six years ago from the list of required immunizations for school children.

Duff said that with smallpox almost eradicated, the immunization itself is riskier than the disease.

Hospital roof project okayed

SNYDER — The Scurry County commissioners have agreed to pay for a re-roofing project at Cogdell Memorial Hospital here.

The hospital had run short of funds in planning for a major addition, which voters had approved in November. Funds that ordinarily would have been used for the roofing project were needed for planning expenses which were required to prepare for the bond election.

The $4 million bond issue will finance construction of a new three-story wing at the hospital. When the bonds are sold, the hospital expects to be in a position to return the funds approved for the roofing project.

Estimated cost of the new roof is $28,000.

Construction record posted

LAMESA — Building permits in Lamesa for 1977 have surged past the $3.5 million mark, a record year for construction.

Last year, $1,704,055 in construction was started in Lamesa. Two years ago, the aggregate amounted to $1,197,130. The all-time previous record occurred in 1958, when permits valued at $3.1 million were issued.

Commercial permits issued during 1977 include K-Bob structure, $115,000; Lamesa Housing Authority apartment complex, $590,000; and a new office for Cable TV.

Lamesa Federal Savings and Loan Association is also planning a $680,000 structure.

Energy saving tips spelled out

If people were as conscious of their homes as they are their car batteries, they would save a lot of money.

Sandra Killough, home economist for Texas Electric Service Company, gave electric energy saving tips to the Downtown Lions at their Wednesday meeting at the Howard College Cactus Room.

Anyone contemplating a new home will be miles ahead by following the E-OK guide, which sets up an energy efficiency rating. But there are numerous things owners of existing structures can do to cut power bills. During the past decade consumption of electricity has increased 80 per cent, and 30 per cent of that could be saved she said.

Heating and air conditioning each approximate 20 per cent of the total, so largest savings can be effected here by adequate insulation (which will more than pay for itself), opening drapes on the sunny side in winter and pulling them in summer, having clean filters; setting the thermostat on 65-68 degrees and leaving it there; making sure hot water lines do not leak or drip and that the reading is about 140 degrees.

Summer air conditioning can be improved by the use of a heat pump, and by making certain that condensers have plenty of air room around them. Fewer windows and awnings also help. Weather stripping and caulking also are big aids.

M.A. Barber, president, announced the mid-winter district 2-AI Conference in Sweetwater for Jan. 27-28.

Ed McMahon 'Goin' Home'

By JAY SHARBUTT
 Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Since 1962, announcer Ed McMahon has heralded Johnny Carson's frequent visits to "Tonight." He also makes a few bucks on outside work. Come the New Year, he tries a new venture. He'll host "Goin' Home," a half-hour syndicated show in which he accompanies various stars to their hometowns, big and small. It isn't a series yet. Only the pilot show has been taped so far.

In it, he goes with country music's Roy Clark to Clark's tiny hometown of Meherrin, Va. The show will air in January on about 60 cities. If stations like and buy the idea, a series will result.

"We're pretty pleased with it," said McMahon, a tall, hearty gent born 54 years in Detroit. "We've got a good idea, so we'll see what happens. We hope it'll sell."

He says he's already got agreements from such as Joe Namath, Alice Cooper and Burt Reynolds to join him on "Goin' Home."

As with Clark's show, he said, each homecoming will be taped on location.

"That he'll also be on location — but remain a regular on 'Tonight' — is the toughest part I have," McMahon said.

"I'll have to do 26 of these (initially) and they're always in places like Meherrin, Va. They're not easy to get to."

The problem of travel time is eased a bit by a new NBC contract he signed last year. He says it gives him nine weeks of vacation per year from "Tonight," though not all at once, of course.

So he asked his folks if he could live with his grandmother.

"That was a very sad, traumatic moment for me — but they understood my problem," said McMahon, who attended Boston College and started his radio career at station WLLH in Lowell.

During World War II, he was a Marine flight instructor and test pilot, flying Corsair fighters. But not in combat. He was to go overseas, but his orders were canceled on V-J Day.

He went back to broadcasting, then was recalled to duty during the Korean war. He says he worked for Marine artillery, flying 85 missions in a tiny L-19 spotter plane. Which is no way to grow old.

"You bet," laughed Big Ed McMahon. "But after you do that, you can do anything."

Gun duel in Atlanta leaves two men dead

ATLANTA (AP) — A special police unit was on standby when marshals went to a house to evict Black Muslim tenants, but before the SWAT team arrived on the scene two men were dead in a gun duel, police say.

The hour-long battle erupted Wednesday when deputy marshals tried to evict Lee Anderson, whose Muslim name was Mahamin Jashua, and Nicky Gore, whose religious name was Mujahid Muhammad, from a two-story brick house. A police spokesman said he did not know if the house was a place of worship for the Muslims.

It was not clear why the eviction notice had been served.

Killed were Lee Anderson, 42, and city Marshal David Larry Folds, 25, who was shot in the chest as he stepped from his car when the shootout erupted.

A second deputy, J.W. Broadwell, was in fair condition at Grady Memorial Hospital after surgery for a bullet wound in the stomach. Gore was charged with murder and aggravated assault after he surrendered, police said.

Police Maj. W.W. Holley said an eight-member SWAT team was placed on alert, but did not participate in the initial approach to the house because the eviction was "a civil matter."

Chief Marshal Sanford Jones said he and two deputies drove by the house Tuesday and saw men armed with guns upstairs.

Officials said Broadwell and another deputy, Aubrey Lockridge, had gone to the house three weeks ago to serve an eviction notice. Chief Deputy Roy Worthington said an unidentified occupant had told the deputies then: "You're not taking me out of here. Somebody's going to end up dead."

A second deputy, J.W. Broadwell, was in fair condition at Grady Memorial

Stabile neighborhood TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A mammoth stable sculpture by artist Alexander Calder has been installed in the middle of the modern, $350-million Crown Center development here.

The museum-quality piece, 18 feet high, 22 feet long and 16 feet wide, is named Shiva, after the Hindu god of reproduction and destruction.

In the near future Shiva will be joined by additional art works, all of which will be placed on a 10-acre.

Ridin' fence

Fix it up a bit

with Marj Carpenter

The philosophy of the late R.B. Hughes was that if you're going to have a tool shed, you might as well go to it and get more trouble and expense.

That's why the tool shed at their home was decorated like an old country barn with the old signal trees, and bridles from the old days hanging outside.

Hughes was quite a builder and built furniture inside the home such as an old china cabinet. But he also worked on many larger projects.

For instance, he stayed 8 1/2 years in Colorado and helped construct the Air Force Academy there.

He helped build a couple of churches right here in Big Spring including the Main Street Church of Christ and the Temple Baptist Church.

Mrs. Hughes was a Harrison and originally came out to Big Spring in 1926. She is an active 73 year old and got her drivers license when she was 68. Back when she was 64, she built a storm cellar.

She recalled that her father raised her, a brother and two sisters. Her mother died when her baby sister was one week old. "My grandmother took the baby sister to raise and Dad took care of the rest of us," she related.

Her brother is Johnny Harrison and her two sisters are Mrs. Maude Duncan and Mrs. Jewel Hobbs.

She met her husband here when he was stationed at Bombardeer School during World War II. They had a son, who resides in Houston and they adopted a little girl, four days old. The two children, between them, have seven children.

"Grandchildren make the world wonderful," Mrs. Hughes stated. But Mrs. Hughes is one of those people that is going to have a wonderful world anyway. Instead of just a tool shed, she has a miniature red barn. Instead of saying, "I'm too old to learn anything new," she constantly learns and does new things.

NOT A COUNTRY BARN just a tool shed

Here we all are, caught up in the week which is the traditional "Blah Week" of the year. You are faced with the letdown after Christmas.

Even the mail is depressing. It suddenly changes from cheery Christmas cards, packages and surprises to tax folders — and notifications about how much it will cost to buy car tags.

You cling desperately to a few cheery remnants of the holidays, like company still in the house, leftover turkey and bowl games.

You discuss the Super Bowl and maybe you read Sam Pendergrass's prediction in "Oeste" that little Chad Wash, son of Charlie and Joyce Wash at the Brass Nail, has predicted in advance that the Super Bowl will get down to the Cowboys and the Denver Broncos with the Cowboys winning by three points.

You listen to people reviewing their Christmas bills and you hunt for a bright spot. There are some good sales in town. Some folks are planning big New Year's Eves, such as the Brass Nail and the Country Club and many others.

You know that activity continues. St. Mary's Episcopal Church had the groundbreaking for their retirement center today.

Building permits are up. The Steering Committee and other community leaders are working diligently toward a progressive Big Spring.

And still, it's the after-Christmas, before-New Year drags and dregs. But cheer up. The leftover turkey is bound to run out. The future may hold something wonderful.

And if not, be a Mrs. Hughes. Go out and paint the barn or dig a storm cellar or something.

Life goes on and the people who go with it have the most fun — or so I've found while out ridin' fence.

Acorns help lost skier survive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For four days, cross-country skier Eric Schine wandered lost, hungry and cold, often hallucinating, in the trackless snows of the High Sierra before making his way to safety.

"I made the skier's first error," he said in a hospital bedside interview in San Francisco on Wednesday. "I went skiing alone."

He told a harrowing story of existing on leaves and acorns, losing his ski poles, breaking his ski bindings and digging out snow caves to sleep in.

The San Francisco bank employee, a former member of the University of Denver's Alpine Club, said he went skiing touring the day before Christmas. His plan was to make it from the crest of Squaw Valley to Picayune Valley 10 miles west, about 200 miles north of San Francisco.

"I went down what I thought was a small run and ended up going down the backside of a mountain," said Schine, 26. "The streams and sun became distorted. I had no map, and there were no landmarks." Schine tried to follow streams in the belief that they would lead him to safety. Instead, his senses scrambling in the snow and fog, he became more and more lost.

Schine said it occurred to him that he might freeze to death. He had no matches to start a fire.

Bone-weary and disoriented, he scooped out a snow cave and went to sleep. He awoke Christmas Day and headed west. His heart leaped when he heard voices — thought he heard voices.

He said he was hallucinating. That evening he saw a helicopter, but it swooped behind some trees and vanished.

"If it had come over 30 feet more it would have seen me," he said. "I yelled, but I couldn't make myself heard over the rotor."

On Monday morning the Placer County Search and Rescue Team began scouring the mountains near Nevada for him. But night came again, and Schine was still lost, and fearing for his life. He dug out another cave and slept.

He said he awoke Tuesday determined to get a grip on himself. "I got the direction right this time, and began following the sun. I didn't see an animal or a person for three days."

At a stream, Schine found his first signs of civilization — discarded beer cans.

He climbed a hill; in the distance, voices.

"I thought I was hearing things again," he said, but it was true this time. He was hearing, and finally saw, the rescue team. He ran toward them yelling and yelling.

That night, at Auburn Faith Community Hospital, he was found to be in good condition despite the ordeal.

El Paso banker named to TAC post

Briscoe replaces Cauble

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After leaving the appointment in suspense for almost a year, Gov. Dolph Briscoe has decided to remove hot-tempered Rex Cauble from the Texas Aeronautics Commission.

Cauble currently serves as chairman of the commission — one of whose members he once slugged during a public session of the body.

In Cauble's place, Briscoe appointed James D. Abrams, an El Paso banker and contractor who served six years on the Texas Air Control Board, regulating pollution, not airplanes.

The governor reappointed C. T. Matthew of Yoakum to a new term on the commission, which is embroiled almost continually in controversy over airline certificates and routes.

Both Abrams' and Matthew's terms extend to Dec. 31, 1982.

Cauble, a Denton businessman and big political contributor, has been commission chairman since the fall of 1971. He was re-elected this fall — even though his term had lapsed. Commission members elect their chairman.

Briscoe had sat on the appointments for nearly a year. Both Cauble's and Matthew's terms expired Dec. 31, 1976.

Former Gov. John Connally first appointed Cauble to the commission in June 1967, and Cauble was named to another term by former Gov. Preston Smith.

Cauble has taken part in nearly all major decisions of the agency but probably gained his greatest notice in March 1976 when he grew angry at commission member Jack McCreary of Austin and punched him in the jaw.

The blow was struck at a public meeting of the commission after McCreary voted against a resolution that said individual members should stop issuing orders to the agency staff.

McCreary did not return the punch, saying, "I won't hit a man his age." He did, however, call Cauble "a sorry chairman and a disgrace to the commission."

Abrams, the new commission member, is president of J. D. Abrams, Inc., a construction firm, and a director of both El Paso National Bank and Border City Bank.

Matthew is president of the Yoakum Federal Savings and Loan Association as well as a rancher.

Hand delivery service

Mail fight continues

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rain, snow and sleet didn't deter the P.H. Brennan Hand Delivery Service from competing with the U.S. Postal Service. But a court order may send the husband-wife 10-cents-a-letter, same-day delivery system to the dead letter office.

"It's going to be a long law suit," said Patricia Brennan, 25, who runs the business with her husband, J. Paul Brennan, 38. "By no means are we down and out."

Mrs. Brennan said Wednesday that she had not been served with any papers yet. She said the decision would be appealed. The delivery service continued Wednesday, but it was not clear whether it would continue operating during the appeal.

U.S. District Judge Harold P. Burke ruled Tuesday in favor of the Postal Service which filed suit in February to protect its statutory monopoly on first-class mail.

"Elimination of this monopoly would seriously threaten the very existence of the U.S. Postal Service," the government's brief said.

The Brennans contended in court that Congress had overstepped its authority in granting the Postal Service such a monopoly.

But the government argued that Congress and the courts have recognized for more than 200 years the need for a monopoly.

"There is a strong and abiding national interest in having one uniform postal system, operated impartially, unturned by considerations of profit, serving the entire country," the government brief said.

Although unwilling to say exactly how many letters a day the private service delivers in downtown Rochester, Mrs. Brennan confirmed that she and her husband handled about 1,000 pieces a day during November. The Brennans charge 10 cents a letter and guarantee same-day delivery. Many of their clients are lawyers.

Messenger services operate in many cities dispatching couriers to companies who call each time they have something to send. The Brennans' firm, however, picks up mail every day from its 300 customers.

Mrs. Brennan said she got the idea for the delivery service two years ago when she received a letter from Idaho 13 days after it had been posted.

65 or older gaining power
NEW YORK (AP) — Current population trends indicate that one out of every six Americans alive in the year 2030 will be 65 or older, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.
The number of elderly persons has grown at more than two-and-a-half times the rate of growth of the nation's total population since the turn of the century, the council reported. At that time, only 4.1 percent of the population was 65 or older, but by 1975 that figure had grown to 10.5 percent.
By 2030, the council said, the proportion of senior citizens is expected to climb to 17.0 percent, then decline to 16.1 percent in 2040 and 2050.
The insurance group cited an extension of the average American's life expectancy — from 46.3 years in 1900 to 68.2 years in 1974 — and a decline in the birth rate to 15 per 1,000 people currently, as the two primary reasons for the trend.
