Reds Attack All Along 150-Mile Front

Russians Answer Western Proposal For Peace Talks

LONDON—(AP)—Russia has answered the Western powers' counter proposal for peace talks ranging over all the world's touchy troubles, the British Foreign Office said Monday.

A Foreign Office spokesman declined to say whether the Russians have accepted the West's counter offer.

Russia proposed Big Four talks last November 3. They would have concerned only the future of Germany.

The proposal came after a meeting in Prague of "Iron Curtain" foreign ministers who drew up a declaration asserting the Communists would "not tolerate" Western rearmament of Germany.

The West sent its reply only after lengthy consideration. The reply was delayed until the Big Three Western foreign ministers—Dean Acheson of the United States, Ernest Bevin of Britain, and Robert Schuman of France—conferred last month in Brussels.

It proposed a meeting of deputies of the four countries to see whether they could agree on a list of subjects for discussion covering troubled areas much wider than Germany alone.

Foreign office sources said the Russian reply to the British note—identical to notes sent by the United States and France—was handed to the British Embassy in Moscow Sunday night.

There was no word here whether replies also have been handed to the American and French Embassies. It was regarded as likely, however.

A preliminary translation of the note has been sent by the British Embassy to the Foreign Office. A spokesman said this now is "under consideration."

Foreign officials said the reply was lengthy, and ran to 10 long paragraphs. They declined all comment for the time being.

Although Moscow radio frequently beats the Western nations to the draw in making public disclosures of the contents of such notes, there had so far been no information about it heard here by monitors of Russian broadcasts.

Final congressional action on the measure was set for an unprecedented New Year's Day session called by the House to speed defense legislation.

The new levy would boost the government's tax revenue to the highest dollar level in history, more than $45,000,000,000 a year. The previous record collection was $43,000,000,000 in 1945.

This tax boost is the second since the Korean war began. The first increase was enacted in September. The two bills together raise taxes by $8,000,000,000 a year.

Quiet New Year Here

Midland's observance of New Year's Eve was one of the quietest in history, if not the quietest.

A few firecrackers popping and horns tooting and that was it for the noise.

Police reported but two arrests and the quietest New Year's Eve in history. Newbie W. Ellis Chapel reported no ambulance runs. No traffic accidents of consequence were reported.

There were scattered parties in the residential districts for families and friends. The YW held an informal get-together for members.

"Watch Night" services at two churches attracted a good number of citizens, with prayers for peace predominating.

Hospitals reported a quiet night. Cars were parked in a wide area around a theater where a New Year's Eve matinee was shown. Otherwise the business district Sunday night was quiet, very quiet.

The inactivity and quietness carried over into Monday morning. Downtown Midland Monday was a far cry from its usual bustling self.

Hotel room keys were stacked high. "Everybody gone to the ball games or somewhere," a hotel man said.

Retail stores, offices and other businesses were tightly closed Monday.

Many Midlanders were out of town on holidays trips or to see downtown attractions.

At least two New Year's babies are in the running for First Baby of 1951 honors, according to early reports from Midland hospitals.

It appeared that a five-pound, eight-ounce son born to Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Overstreet, 706 South Colorado Street, at 2:50 a.m. Monday in the Midland Memorial Hospital, had the edge over a son born to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brown, 396 Banner Street, at 8:27 a.m. New Year's Day at Western Clinic Hospital. The Brown infant weighed seven pounds, eight ounces. Other newborn babes yet may be reported.

Midland merchants will present valuable gifts of all kinds to the first white child of the New Year born in Midland County.

To claim the gifts, the parents of the first baby of 1951 must present certification by letter from the attending physician, stating the exact time and place of birth. The written statement should be brought to The Reporter-Telegram as promptly as possible. The awards must be claimed within 30 days.

The winner will not be declared until sufficient time has elapsed for letters to be brought to The Reporter-Telegram from any part of the county.

FORWARD INTO '51—From a year whose ending was darkened by military defeat for democracy and the threat of another world war, we look forward into 1951 which may hold mankind's only hope.

House Convenes In History-Making Session Monday

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House of Representatives scrawled history into the record of the expiring 81st Congress Monday by holding a New Year's Day session.

Records in the House clerk's files fail to disclose any previous year in which either branch of Congress met on New Year's Day.

And the House must meet again Tuesday to clean up odds and ends of business before final adjournment to make way for the 82nd Congress convening at noon Wednesday. The Senate, which had no session scheduled for Monday, also will meet Tuesday.

For 71 House members Monday's and Tuesday's votes will be their last for at least two years. Some of them are retiring voluntarily. Most of them were unseated in the November elections which trimmed down the Democratic majorities but left the party in nominal control of the new Congress.

Two Teen-Agers Trapped By Fire, Are Asphyxiated

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fire gutted a two-story Staten Island home Monday and asphyxiated two teen-agers trapped on the second floor of the building.

The dead were identified as Robert Owen, 18, of Galveston, Texas, and Frances Bowling, 17, of Tarrytown, N. Y.

Owen, a seaman, and the girl were guests in the home of Mrs. Ruth Herchas who escaped uninjured. The youth's body was found in a bathroom. Miss Bowling was overcome in a rear bedroom.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

Solon Asks Six-Million Man Force

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An assertion by Senator Wherry (R-Neb) that the Administration's arms program would wreck the economy clashed Monday with a call by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) for a 6,000,000-man fighting force.

Douglas told a reporter he thinks Russia may strike either directly or through some of her satellites within a few months. He proposed pushing mobilization to the 6,000,000 level by November 1, and added:

"The next move by a Soviet satellite country should be regarded by the United States as a move by Russia."

The armed forces goal proposed by Douglas, a Marine lieutenant colonel in the last war, is 2,500,000 higher than that fixed by President Truman. It would mean almost full mobilization of the country's resources.

Wherry estimated in a television interview Sunday night that the military program the Administration seems set upon would cost the United States $75,000,000,000 a year for three years. Civilian projects, he said, would boost the figure to $100,000,000,000.

See Rained Economy
The Republican floor leader told reporters later the television show ended before he got around to what he really wanted to bring out: that such a program "would wreck the economy."

Wherry also launched a new attack at Secretary of State Acheson. He said Acheson had committed the U. S. to supply foot soldiers and other military aid to the defense of Western Europe without congressional approval. This action, he said, was "outside the Atlantic Treaty" and beyond Administration authority.

Douglas, on the other hand, made (Continued On Page Five)

Korean War Reveals Little Of Russia's New Arms To U. S.

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON—(AP)—In more than six months of bloody fighting against Communist forces, the United States has learned almost nothing of the modern battle weapons Russia would throw into a war of her own.

The explanation is that with few exceptions—such as one model of a jet fighter—Russia has armed her Chinese and North Korean satellite forces with equipment either designed or manufactured some years ago. She has been careful not to jeopardize the secrecy of her new equipment by risking its capture in action.

An Army Ordnance official has advised a congressional committee that so far as is known equipment being used by the enemy in Korea is 10 years' or more old so far as design is concerned.

This includes such items as the T-34 medium tanks, artillery, machine guns and small arms used by the Korean and Chinese Communists. However, some of the enemy's Russian-made communications equipment may be of more recent design. Captured material included radio sets similar to that used by American forces.

Walker Body Arrives In Nation's Capital
WASHINGTON—(AP)—The body of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker has arrived here for interment Tuesday in Arlington National Cemetery.

The body of the Eighth Army commander, who was killed in a jeep accident in Korea, was flown here from Tokyo, via Anchorage, Alaska; Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. It was accompanied by the general's widow, his son, Capt. Simms Walker, a grandson of the general and by Sgt. Walter Reynolds, longtime aide to the general from Gainesville, Texas. The plane arrived Sunday.

The body will lie in state Tuesday morning at Fort Myer Chapel.

Drive Aimed To Push Allies Off Peninsula

TOKYO—(AP)—Two hundred thousand Chinese and Korean Reds smashed into South Korea Monday in a general offensive aimed to push United Nations forces off the peninsula.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said UN troops made limited withdrawals in some areas along a 20-mile sector. The spokesman said the enemy attacked all along the 150-mile front stretching along parallel 38.

The heaviest fighting raged southeast of Yonchon and east of Kaesong, the spokesman said.

Censorship prevented pinpointing of Chinese gains. But AP correspondent Jack MacBeth reported from the front that "this was 'unmistakably a Chinese victory.'"

The Reds surged across the frozen Imjin River—Natural defense barrier 20 to 30 miles northwest of Seoul—in at least two points. MacBeth said the fiery Chinese attacks routed one UN division and forced another to withdraw.

General MacArthur's Monday afternoon communique said only that "Red pressure had increased. But a field officer said after the first Red attacks:

"This is it." MacBeth said the enemy had driven wedges "several miles deep" in Allied lines.

Drive Through Hole
He said the Chinese found a hole and drove through it with such force that they encircled several UN positions.

By nightfall the onrushing Reds were only 20 miles from Seoul, MacBeth reported.

He said stronger attacks were expected momentarily.

AP correspondent John Randolph said the new Chinese assault began shortly before dawn while "darkness still crippled the United Nations' air power."

A front-line spokesman said: "This is the heaviest Communist attack on the Western front since we pulled out of North Korea."

Randolph said the main attack rolled across a UN minefield directly north of Choksong.

"Regardless of losses," he said, the Chinese poured across the field until their dead bodies marked a pathway through the exploded mines.

An estimated 30,000 Reds struck in the first charge.

Regiment Shattered
Randolph said the impact shattered one of two Allied regiments. (Continued On Page Five)

Three Dead, Six Hurt In Collision
FORREST CITY, ARK.—(AP)—A collision of two automobiles on an ice-coated, fog-shrouded bridge near here Sunday killed three men and injured six other persons.

The dead were identified as Cpl. Bruce Kremlinger, 23, Uim, Ark., and two cattlemen, Huey Long, 33, of Tupelo, Miss., and C. P. McCormick, formerly of Hot Springs, Ark.

Another Tupelo cattleman, T. J. Wilson, was among the injured.

The other five injured were in the car with Kremlinger. They included Jacob Strong, 30, Roe, Ark., stationed at the U. S. Air Force base at Wichita Falls, Texas, who suffered severe head lacerations.

Man Anxious To Begin New Year Right, Gives Himself Up To Cops
NEW YORK—(AP)—A furniture finisher gave himself up to police Sunday night because he was anxious to start the new year with a clean slate.

The man, Emanuel Valenzuela, 25, of Richmond Hills, Queens, told police he robbed a man of $300 on December 21. Police records showed Joseph Cosgrove, 40, of Kew Gardens, Queens, was robbed of that amount on that date.

Valenzuela faces five to ten years for assault and robbery if convicted.

He said he was encouraged by his sweetheart to reform.

BREATH-TAKING GROWTH—Midland During 1951 To Try To Catch Up With Itself, Groundwork Laid

By COPE ROUGH
The City of Midland, which has seen its boundaries expand at a breath-taking rate in the last few years, is going to try to catch up with itself in 1951.

The groundwork has been laid and already its leaders have plunged into the job of providing adequate municipal services for the city's ever-increasing population.

Plans are being drawn, engineering surveys are underway and much of the material already is on hand.

Twelve months from now, unless a grave national emergency seriously intervenes, the city will boast an adequate water system, ample sewer facilities, new fire stations, long stretches of additional paved streets and other municipal improvements.

The taxpayers of Midland put up the money last Summer when they put the stamp of approval on a $3,500,000 bond issue.

Almost before the last ballots were counted, the City Council swung into action to assure the construction of these needed facilities.

Under the direct supervision of City Manager W. H. Oswalt, the program has made steady progress.

This, then, is a report on what has been done and what may be expected in the coming year.

The largest single item in the bond issue was the $1,600,000 marked for waterworks improvements and water line extensions.

This program already is underway. A total of $190,000 has been appropriated by the council for water line extensions. These projects include $97,100 for extensions on the south side; $16,200 for extensions in the Parkies, Crestview and Gardens Additions; $66,000 for extensions in the Johnson-Moran Addition, and $23,800 for extensions in Loma Linda and portions of other additions.

It includes, too, $47,100 on pre-paying projects.

"Too often," explained Oswalt, "cities will go ahead with a paving project and then, later, have to tear up this pavement to put in water line improvements.

Tax Bill Expected To Reach Truman's Desk By Nightfall

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The new $3,500,000,000 excess profits tax bill is expected to reach President Truman's desk by nightfall.

Final congressional action on the measure was set for an unprecedented New Year's Day session called by the House to speed defense legislation.

The new levy would boost the government's tax revenue to the highest dollar level in history, more than $45,000,000,000 a year. The previous record collection was $43,000,000,000 in 1945.

This tax boost is the second since the Korean war began. The first increase was enacted in September. The two bills together raise taxes by $8,000,000,000 a year.

And even before the second bill reached the White House, Truman and congressional leaders were talking about a third installment—that may boost individual income levies again—to be enacted by the new Congress convening January 3.

The aim is to keep revenue as near to government spending as possible. Some members are suggesting a general manufacturers excise tax. If it becomes necessary to raise $18,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 to attain a pay-as-you-go basis.

The Senate stamped its final approval on the new tax bill December 21.

Here is how the bill works:

1. It puts a 77 per cent tax on "excess profits," retroactive to July 1, 1950.

2. Increases the top normal tax rate on corporation profits from 45 to 47 per cent. Corporations will pay 25 per cent of the first $25,000 of their earnings; 47 per cent on all profits over $25,000, until they reach the excess profit area. The normal rate increase also is retroactive to July 1, 1950.

MAY had never seen him before. He was looking over the chipped greasy top of his booth, past the tube of blue neon that bordered the flashing sign in the window. It gave her a chance to study him while her hands were busy filling the sugar bowls which she had assembled on the table in front of the bar.

It wasn't the fact that he was a stranger. He was a young man and his features were nice, not handsome. He just looked like a nice person.

His face when he had looked up in response to her, "What will you have?" had made her wonder. It was what she had seen in his face that made her curious. Nearly every night one or two newcomers dropped in for a beer or two as this man had. It wasn't the fact that he was a stranger. He was a young man and his features were nice, not handsome; he just looked like a nice person. But there was something more.

AS she watched him he turned his eyes from the window and shuddered as though the aspect of the cold, squalid, empty street matched his own feelings too closely. She noticed that his hand trembled as he picked up his glass and drained it.

stant, then he looked down at his dungarees, stained from toil in the coal mines, and he nodded. "Have you worked here long?" he asked.

HE frowned at his glass before he spoke again. There was the difference. Mer seemed to like to ask such questions. It went with the beer like pretzels, but this one didn't seem fresh. He didn't smirk.

THE familiar deep soothing voice of the commentator swept through the room. "Good evening, friends."

"Every once in a while in this so-called civilization of ours something comes to light that makes me ill, fills me with a torturing black despair, and causes me to wonder where and how mankind got off the track that was intended to lead to decency and understanding."

Maydelle Midkiff And George Jackson Wed

Mrs. George R. Jackson

On her parent's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, Elsie Maydelle Midkiff became the bride of George Roy Jackson Sunday in the First Methodist Church. The Rev. H. H. Hollowell, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Midkiff, 1305 West Illinois Street. Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy M. Jackson of San Angelo.

The double ring ceremony was performed before an altar flanked with candelabra and backed by palm tree effects of woodwardia. All white arrangements of gladiolus and mums were used to complete the decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper satin gown fashioned with a fitted bodice and a yoke of illusion outlined with lace flowers. The long sleeves came to points over her hands. The gathered skirt extended into a chapel length train in the back. Her elbow length veil of illusion was caught by a band of pearlized orange blossoms.

New Year's Resolution

What we Americans must resolve this New Year's Day is abundantly clear. We must make ourselves as strong militarily as our resources in men and material will allow.

We must not quail at the hard sacrifices this task will impose upon us. No sacrifice, even that of our lives, is too great to make to save our liberties.

We cannot thus abandon the field to the barbaric, un-moral totalitarians who today wear the dress of communism but are still the tyrants of old.

We must stand here, where we are. And we must stand now. To wait longer might mean we never will be able to stand against the force that could be arrayed opposite us.

It seems cruelly unfair that with the expenditure of so much treasure and so much blood in World War II, we were able to buy so little peace and happiness.

None can escape this responsibility, nor tell himself his energy and ability are not required. Total effort is needed.

The quality of a nation's life always is measured by the sum of the millions of individual contributions to its well-being. Nothing is lost in this accounting.

Red Words Vs Red Deeds

Dig out the Russian-Communist primer and you read that Communists stand for the people. Their party is the party of the worker, the farmer, the downtrodden.

Let's see how this works out in practice. The other day the Soviet Embassy in Washington was disclosed to be installing some fire-fighting equipment.

For this task, the party of the people put its trust in non-union men, not in the organized workers who are supposed to be the symbol of the workingman the world over.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

WASHINGTON — Putting big business to work on important government projects has not been as easy as the public might suppose.

Take, for instance, the problem of stepping up vitally needed aluminum. The public already has had aluminum for civilian uses cut back 35 per cent.

Paradoxically two of the companies which General Services Administrator Jess Larson had the most trouble with were two that Uncle Sam helped put in business—Reynolds Metals and Henry Kaiser.

Reynolds was urged by Secretary of the Interior Ickes to manufacture aluminum in competition with the giant Aluminum Corporation of America during the war.

Orders and backing, Kaiser was sold surplus aluminum plants at bargain rates after the war. However, both wanted to produce pretty much on their own terms in the new emergency.

Early last Fall, when the government first contemplated expanding aluminum production, genial, hard-working Henry Kaiser, genius of the far-flung Kaiser industries, welcomed the idea with enthusiasm.

Let's get going, let's get going," he told Larson.

However, when it came to signing a contract, both Kaiser and Reynolds had their own ideas. And their ideas were that Uncle Sam take all the risks, they take all the profits.

For here is what Kaiser and Reynolds wanted from the government in return for expanding the aluminum plants which they originally purchased from Uncle Sam at bargain-counter rates:

1. A government guarantee of their loan.

2. The right to amortize their investment in five years, whereas ordinarily tax depreciation would be spread over 20 years.

3. The government to buy all aluminum except a margin allocated to small manufacturers.

4. If the market dropped or if government purchases decreased, the companies could turn the plants back to Uncle Sam in two and a half years.

In brief, the two aluminum companies wanted the government to put up the money, give them tax relief, buy most of the product, and then take the plants off their hands in case business went bad.

All this the government agreed to do. However, one aluminum company wanted even more. Reynolds proposed that if price controls should be imposed on the nation, they would be exempt.

This was too much. And in a confidential backstage conference with Larson, the attorney for Reynolds Metals, Judge Robert Patterson, refused to support his own client. Patterson, who served as secretary of War, quietly remarked:

"Gentlemen, we have asked for enough."

Note—The aluminum contracts now have been signed. They provide for a total of 320,000 tons expanded production divided among Kaiser, Reynolds and Alcoa.

So They Say

If the atom bomb is necessary to save the United Nations Army and stop Communist aggression, its use cannot be refused.

Out of each successful struggle and achievement comes growth and a feeling of adequacy for the child. Our homes need to be places where children learn how to meet what is difficult or adverse with spiritual help and with emotional courage.

RIGHT: Take the responsibility yourself for seeing that he doesn't spend enough time at any one house to become a nuisance.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

Everybody enjoys remembering a hand that he has bid properly and played well, but the chances are that your favorite memory is not of that type of hand. You probably are fond of some grotesquely optimistic contract that you managed somehow to bring home.

The bidding was very logical if you allow for the fact that South had the king of spades together with his clubs. He thought he had a very good club suit and a singleton spade.

It was then too late to correct the error. He had to make the best of a bad situation. As it turned out, the best was very good indeed.

South studied the opening diamond lead carefully and decided that all would be well if each opponent had two clubs. He could discard a spade. South wished he were home and in bed.

Bridge hand diagram showing North (D) 1, West, East, and South hands with cards and suits.

Decliner then led a trump, hoping for a 2-2 break. When West discarded a spade, South wished he were home and in bed.

East clutched his cards closer to his vest when the heart finesse succeeded, but South just gave him a weak grin.

The weird slam contract was now safe. South led the six of clubs to dummy's last spade. If East ruffed low, South could over-ruff with the ten; and if East ruffed with the queen, dummy's jack of clubs would be good for the last trick.

Before geologists developed their knowledge and theories of erosions, it was commonly thought that valleys were caused by fissures in the earth's crust produced during an up-heaval.

Must Back Up Charges But the reason given for not putting this brand on the Communist claims is that once the charge of aggression is made, the accusers must be able to do something about it.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Grim Diplomatic Chess Game Played To Settle Korean War

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—What happens next in the effort to stop the Korean war by negotiation? It's a subject that can only be speculated on. But it has a number of possibilities, as analyzed in Washington.

The Chinese Communist government has turned down the United Nations General Assembly's three-man truce commission offer to arrange a cease-fire.

That commission is made up of General Assembly President Nazimollah Entezam of Iran, Lester B. Pearson of Canada and Sir Benegal Rau of India. It may make other approaches, though there is no known basis for further negotiation.

The Chinese Communists insist they will agree to a cease-fire only on condition that all "foreign"—meaning to them, United Nations—troops be withdrawn from Korea; that all questions regarding Asia, including Formosa, be discussed, and that Red China be admitted to the United Nations.

The position of the three-man commission and a majority of the General Assembly is that the cease-fire must come first, and that only the Korean situation be then discussed.

Assuming both sides stick to their positions in this argument, the truce commission eventually must report failure to the General Assembly's Political Committee One. This committee would then report to the full General Assembly.

Further Steps After receiving the report of failure to negotiate a cease-fire agreement, the next step for the General Assembly probably would be to take up the so-called "six-power" resolution on Korea.

This resolution calls on the Chinese Communists to withdraw from Korea. It previously was vetoed by Soviet Russia in the Security Council. Because of this veto, the matter was presented to the General Assembly.

There is some hope that the six-power resolution may be strengthened in the General Assembly, so as to condemn the Chinese Communists as aggressors.

Thus far, the U. S. State Department has taken pains not to brand either Russia or Red China as an aggressor. For failure to take this action the State Department has been accused of pussyfooting.

Everyone—including everyone in the State Department and the United Nations—knows that Soviet Russia and Red China planned the Korean invasion. Intelligence reports and the testimony of captured Communist soldiers have revealed that the North Korean army was built up more than a year ago by a draft on the Chinese army.

Every Communist soldier with any Korean blood in his veins was put in the North Korean army months before the June 25 attack. Also, Chinese support troops and Russian supplies were moved into position in Manchuria long before the attack.

The idea that the North Korean army was built up by "volunteers" from China is of course a complete lie.

Must Back Up Charges But the reason given for not putting this brand on the Communist claims is that once the charge of aggression is made, the accusers must be able to do something about it.

In blunt language, if the United States and the United Nations make formal charges of aggression, it is up to them to back them up.

It happened not far from a State Police Headquarters station. When the trooper officers there with first-aid equipment they managed to drag Max out of the smoking wreck.

"He's the only one that's alive," said the senior officer, "but judging from the way he looks he's going to wish he wasn't."

The infantry squad was standing by anxiously watching proceedings.

"Where's Eddie?" asked Jake. "Nothing's happened to Eddie," Joe assured him. "He's waiting for Margie Lou. Sometimes it takes a little while."

Sure enough, after a few moments, Eddie came out of the twisted, smoldering coach. He was carrying Margie Lou. Duke followed with "briskly wagging tail."

Before he joined the others Eddie held Margie Lou close for a long moment with his lips against her trembling mouth.

When he pit her on her feet she was clinging to his hand and looking at him with wonder and dawning happiness.

"Why, Eddie, that's the first time you kissed me. That must mean that I am—"

"You are, Margie Lou." The sun was rising. Somewhere, away off, there was a bugle.

"That's the reveille," said Eddie, "for us."

LATER in the day when a wrecking crew was clearing away the debris one of the men found amidst the ashes a brass coin with a square hole in it.

"What's this thing?" he asked idly. "Chick money," another explained. "Some folks carry it for good luck."

"Oh! All I've got to say is this one didn't bring any luck to anybody when this hunk of junk blew up."

For we who live are blind and do not know. THE END

Have a Laugh

By BOUCE HOUSE A man had a gash on his forehead. An inquisitive fellow asked, "What happened?" "The other said, 'bit myself.'"

"Away up there?" "Yes—I stood on a chair."

An ancient one: "Didn't I see you in Seattle last week?" "No, I've never been in Seattle in my life." "Neither have I; it musta been two other guys."

MARGIE LOU sensed the presence of someone behind her and turned a tearful face to meet the grinning, triumphant leer of the only man in the world she really feared and hated.

"Help, Eddie!" she cried. "You don't need any help, Baby," Max assured her. "I'm here. And a nice bit of luck it is finding you driving this old crate. It'll be swell having you along."

"Wherever I go, Baby. Turn at the next crossroads and head for Indiana. We'll go there on our honeymoon."

They neared the intersection and Margie Lou did not slow down.

"I said, 'Turn here!'" Max reminded her as he grabbed her roughly by the collar of her uniform coat. The cloth tore away but he swung her out of her seat against the folding entrance door.

Eddie looked on in helpless rage. Max, now in the driver's seat himself, turned the corner on two wheels. It seemed, "Indiana, here we come!" he shouted triumphantly. "Me and my gal. A good joke on my wife."

Margie Lou was starting to get uncertainly to her feet. She put her hand to her neck. "The coin!" she said in dismay. "Eddie, our lucky charm is gone. The string broke."

Eddie was kneeling on the floor beside her. "Here it is!" he said. She couldn't hear him but she found it herself and holding it in her hand she managed to rise to a standing position.

"Oh, Eddie," Margie Lou cried miserably, "what'll I do?" "Stop sayin' Eddie all the time. Duffy ain't here and neither is Eddie. But Max is—good old Max." He took one hand from the wheel, found a loose cigaret in his coat pocket and flipped it.

HIS shrill scream lasted for all of the few seconds it took for

+ Jacoby On Canasta +

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For NEA Service

One of the difficult features of writing on canasta is that in most situations you can't announce "This is the correct play." Even if you announce this, you can't prove it by showing how it worked out.

For instance, here is a typical situation, in which the player has three choices of action, and any one may prove the best.

Your opponents have taken the discard pile several times and have made one canasta and are close to making several more.

Your side has melded two wild cards with four kings and also has three small melds on the table.

The opponents hold six cards each; you and your partner three each. Your three cards are a pair and an odd card that matches an opponent's four-card meld. You draw a deuce.

Your three choices are: 1—You may freeze the discard pile. 2—You may complete the canasta. 3—You may discard the odd card and hold the deuce and the pair.

In general I would favor the play of completing the canasta right away. In the first place there is a chance that your partner is sitting with a matched three of a kind and will be out automatically at his turn. And if he is not already out, he may draw out. If he fails to go out you will still have a chance to draw out yourself. In any event you should be able to get the hand over with fairly quickly.

However, if neither of you can draw out, and you keep picking their cards, this play will result in your losing a lot of points before the hand ends.

My second choice is simply to discard the odd card and wait in hope that my partner will be able to complete the canasta in which case I will go right out. The advantage of this play is that I will still have all three options open to me at my next turn in the event that there is no change in the situation. The principal weakness is that maybe my partner is waiting for me to make the canasta in the same manner and if neither of us gives in we may never go out, while if either of us will make the canasta the hand will be over.

My last choice is to freeze the pack. The reason that I don't like this play is twofold. It will delay our going out and since the opponents are working toward several new canastas the chances are that they will make several even without the discard pile.

ing ground" is the late model MIG-15 jet fighter. American fliers now have numerous opportunities to study the MIG-15 in the air and get at least some idea of what it can do in combat. The plane is an amazingly accurate copy of the latest USAF operational jet fighter, the F-86. Airmen say in certain positions, it is almost impossible to distinguish between the swept-winged F-86 and the MIG-15.

But even though the Red Air Force has put the MIG-15's into the air against USAF planes and had a few of them shot down, the Communists have been extremely careful that no plane go down in UN territory. All jet air skirmishes have been staged close to the Manchurian border.

There are two apparent reasons for this caution: (1) to prevent perhaps fairly intact wreckage falling into American hands for detailed, technical analysis of the MIG-15; (2) to keep secret the nationality of the pilots who fly these ultra-modern aircraft for which special skill and long training is required.

While the United States presumably has not put all of its new weapons to battle test in Korea, some equipment new or improved since World War II has been used—and captured by the enemy.

Dispatches from Korea have told of American forces in recent weeks being hit by 3.5-inch rocket fire. The assumption is some of these new anti-tank weapons, developed and rushed to Korea by the U. S. Army to stop enemy tanks, have been captured and are being turned against their former owners.

a new appeal for unity behind the effort to prepare the nation for the threat of another world war.

Commenting on Senator Taft's (R-Ohio) assertion last week that there is a "lack of confidence" in Washington and that he himself doesn't have much confidence in some of the military leaders in the Pentagon, Douglas said:

"Let's stop fighting each other and start fighting the Communists. Ninety-nine per cent of Americans are united in the purpose to beat the Communies and don't want to see quarreling over methods obscure that common interest."

However, Wherry, made it clear that so far as he is concerned the way to national unity lies through President Truman's removal of Acheson.

Medical Student And Nurse Die In Suicide Pact

NEW YORK (AP)—A suicide pact Sunday night claimed the life of a 22-year-old medical student and left his 21-year-old student nurse sweetheart seriously ill.

Police said they found John F. Gebhardt of Erie, Pa., a third year student at Cornell Medical College-New York Hospital, slumped in a residence hall booth, the telephone receiver off the hook.

Laura Cross of Fayetteville, N. Y., was found at about the same time lying fully clothed on her bed at a nurses' home two blocks away.

Detectives said both had swallowed strong sedative capsules and both left notes.

Gebhardt's said: "My dearest parents and Carol (apparently a sister): I love you all dearly and wish you all well in life. John, who was too weak to bear the burden."

The girl's said: "You will find a similar situation in room 3 of York Court East. John F. Gebhardt, a third year medical student, is following the same actions. Kindly inform dean of medical college first. Laura Cross."

Elderly Father Of 15 Kills Daughter, Commits Suicide

WAYNESBURG, PA. (AP)—An elderly father of 15 children went on a shooting rampage in his home at nearby Sprags Sunday killing a daughter and wounding a son before ending his own life.

Mary Phillips, 18-year-old high school senior, was killed by a bullet through her heart.

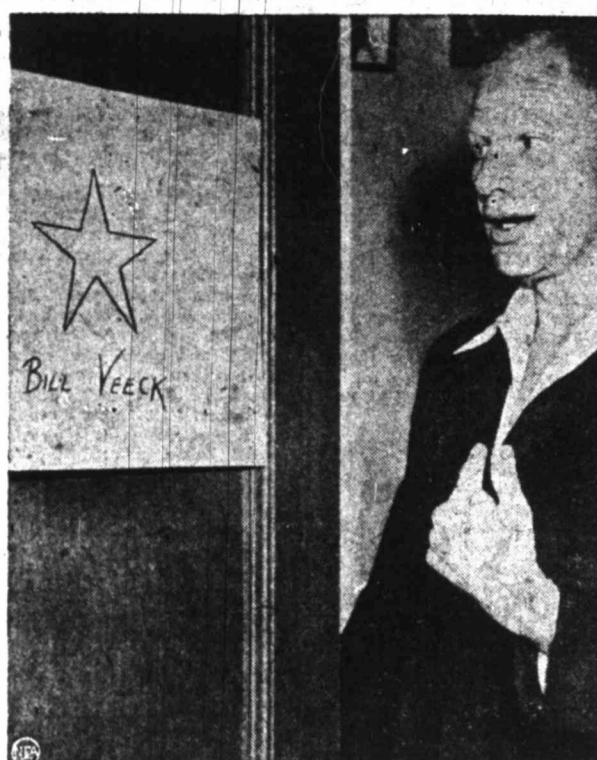

Her father, William Phillips, fired a bullet into his own brain after the double shooting, state police said.

Charles Phillips, 19, also a high school senior, is in critical condition from a bullet wound in the head.

State Policeman Richard Rothwell said the 66-year-old father fired four shots without apparent reason from a 22 single shot target pistol.

Phillip's wife, Martha, 49, barely escaped a bullet aimed at her by her husband as she ran screaming from the room.

Approximately 5,000,000 trees are cut annually in the United States to be used for telegraph and telephone poles.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And What Is A Year?

Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, climbed in the chair with Daddy Ringtail. "Daddy Ringtail," said Mugwump, "what is a year? What's the matter with the year we had? Why did we have to get a new year today?" "Umhmm," Daddy Ringtail said. "Daddy Ringtail," said Mugwump,

"everybody says that today is the first day of the new year, and yesterday was the last day of the old year, and why did we have to get a new year?"

Daddy Ringtail explained that a new year had to begin today because the old year was all used up. "Do tell," said Mugwump.

"Yes," Daddy Ringtail explained, "a year is 365 days, and when those days are gone, then a new year begins and lasts for another 365 days."

But a year is more than 365 days, because people also—famous people like presidents of the United States—have their birthdays in the Month of February.

After February comes the Month of March. It is the month when winds blow more than ever before, people say. March is a great month for the flying of kites.

After March comes April. April is a happy month. Soft rains begin to fall, and the gardens begin to grow, and grass turns green, and the trees are covered with leaves again, if they aren't covered even before. April showers bring May flowers, which is something everyone knows.

May is the month that follows the Month of April. Some people even begin to go barefooted late in May when June almost has come, and if you want to hear the rest of this story—if you want to hear the rest of the words that Daddy Ringtail said to Mugwump—be sure to look for tomorrow's adventure. Happy day!

Daddy Ringtail wanted Mugwump to understand. A year begins with some days which are called the Month of January. January is one of the coldest months of the year, and it has 31 days.

After January comes February. It too is a cold winter month, but one of the happy things about it is Valentine Day. That is a day in February when people send valentines to one another. Many fa-

Bumper Crop Of Authors Produced In Texas In 1950 And Many Others Are Developing

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Staff

Texas produced a bumper crop of authors in 1950.

This includes Texas writers both coming and going—those born here but now moved on to foreign territory and those born elsewhere but now adopted Texans.

There are more of them—both classes—every year.

"A good many of them are coming on—developing," said William H. Vann of Belton, secretary of the Texas Institute of Letters and professor of English at Mary Hardin-Baylor College.

"Years ago you couldn't find a Texas book. Now there are a dozen more every year than the year before. And they are published nationally, not locally."

Most of these writers place the origin of their works in the Texas scene. But you can't call their works just regional; they still deal with human nature and its problems.

J. Frank Dobie, the Texas folklore authority, once said it was like beef stew—it has a different flavor in Texas from what it has in Boston, but it still has nourishment.

"Of course, we have folklore in our own backyard," said Vann. "And people are eating it up."

The majority of Texas writers still chose prose. The familiar names of Texas poets were missing on the publishers' lists. And the crop of historical works was slimmer than usual.

The state's pioneer in nature writing, Roy Bedichek of Austin, won the institute's Carr P. Collins $1,000 award for "the best Texas book of the year"—"Karankaway Country." It's his observations of wild life combined with intense conviction of man's obligation of conservation.

Bedichek didn't start writing until he was past 70 years old. He has a lifetime of observing behind him. When he was secretary of the State Intercollegiate League, he used to take a camping outfit with him on his trips to visit schools, scorn the hotels and camp out in the open. Of "Karankaway Country," Rebecca Smith Lee, former chairman of the English Department at Texas Christian University, said: "If it be a regional item, then so is Thorau's 'Walden.'"

The Defense Department also said one soldier had mistakenly been listed previously as killed.

The mixup involved Marine Pvt. Joe Collins, Jr., son of Mrs. Cleo Collins of Comroe. Last Thursday Mrs. Collins received a telephone call from her son who now is recovering in a California hospital.

Mrs. Collins was notified early in December that her son had been killed in action. Another telegram, received December 20, advised there had been a mistake, that he was wounded.

Dobie, who resigned from teaching at the University of Texas and now lives in Austin, came out this year with "The Ben Lilly Legend." It's a yarn about a bear hunter.

The institute honored Mary Poole by giving her the TBCW Daedalian quarterly $100 award for her volume of poetry, "Being in Night." Miss Poole, a young writer, was born in Galveston, was graduated from the University of Houston and later taught there and now is studying at Columbia University. She writes in a modern, free-hand style.

William Goyen, a sort of nomad who now calls Houston home, won the McMurray Book Shop $250 award for the best novel for his "The House of Breath." "Three well-known Texans" combined to revive an old one—"A Texas Cowboy" by Charles A. Biringo. Tom Lea of El Paso did the illustrations, Carl Hertzog of El Paso designed it, and Dobie wrote the introduction.

The list of all Texas books this past year is too long to cite here, but it included: "Folk Laughter on the American Frontier," by Mody C. Boatright, an English professor at the University of Texas who also is secretary of the Texas Folklore Society.

"Cowboys and Cattle Kings: Life on the Range Today," by C. L. Sonnichsen, who teaches at Texas Western, El Paso. He wrote this account of modern day ranching under grant given by the Rockefeller Foundation.

"The Edge of Time," by Loula Grace Erdman, a teacher at West

Texas State College, Canyon. It's about a homesteading couple in the Panhandle.

"Cornbread Aristocrat," by Claud Garner, a Weatherford fruit grower. "The Magic Fallacy," by David Westheimer, a former Houston newspaperman who now is back in the armed forces. It's a brief novel written in Westheimer's sensitive style.

"The Home Place," by Fred Gipson. Another homey story by the former Corpus Christi newspaperman who now lives in the hill country around Mason.

"Black Gold," by Jewel Gibson, a grandmother from Fairbanks, Texas. This is a novel packed with information about oil drilling. "Towering Texans," by Harold V. Ratliff, Southwest sports editor for The Associated Press at Dallas. Ratliff's second book is comprised of tall but true tales about legendary Texas sports figures.

Women Drivers Are Being Advised Not To Cut Corners On Car Care

By GAIL DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—If you're one of the 16,000,000 women who drive a car, the money spent on that car is as much your concern as the money spent on your home. As a woman, you probably use the car more than your husband and thus have the responsibility of seeing that it's checked regularly for gas, oil and mechanical failures.

Most women don't want to be mechanics in order to keep down car costs. And they needn't be. Keeping down costs is a matter of method. Winter driving accounts for most engine troubles, experts say, and most of these troubles occur in the cooling system, which keeps the engine running too hot or too cold. Without a cooling system, an engine would get so hot it would be ruined. A car radiator throws off enough heat to warm a six-room house on a zero day.

Check Cooling System

To check up on the cooling system, you don't even need to look under the hood of the engine, experts explain. Just keep your eye on the temperature gauge on the dashboard. When the needle swings to either a high or a low range, make for the nearest service station to have the engine thoroughly checked.

If you don't want to pay for repairs on an overheated engine, keep the radiator free of leaves, paper and dirt. If the radiator becomes clogged, the intake of air is impeded and the engine can get too hot, even though everything else is clicking along.

Close-up of radiator and cooling system.

This woman motorist brushes leaves, paper and dirt from the radiator of her car in preparation for comfortable winter driving. A clogged radiator slows intake of air.

When you force the engine to do unusually hard work for long periods—spinning your wheels to get out of a snow drift, for example—you're also running the risk of overheating the engine. If sand or ashes aren't handy, call a service station. When you sum it up, a towing job costs less than a damaged engine.

Experts advise that you do not turn off the ignition immediately after a hard run. Idle the engine rapidly, thus allowing it to cool gradually. If you don't heed this advice, the coolant in your radiator may "afterboil" so violently that some of it will be lost down the overflow tube.

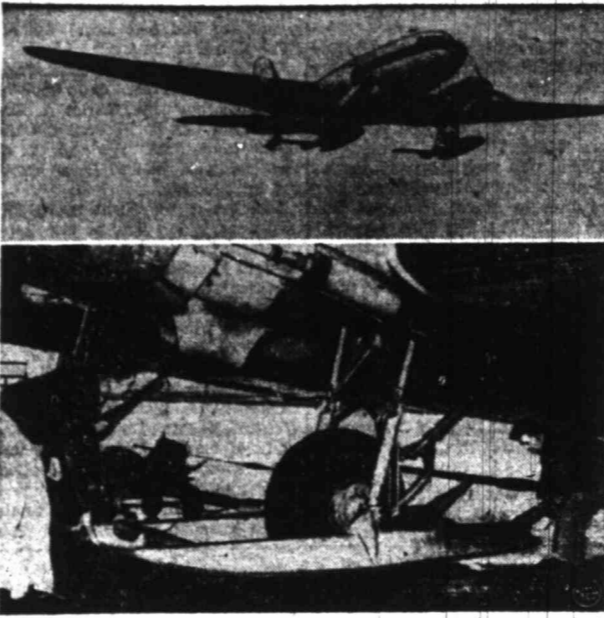

Before an anti-freeze is put in, the engine's cooling system should be checked by a mechanic. Otherwise, experts say, you may lose a large amount of anti-freeze through leaks and loose hose connections.

Follow Tips

When you buy anti-freeze, you can save money by following some tips from the National Bureau of Standards. There are both standard and premium-priced products. It's possible to use either for average passenger car service. But the fact that you pay more doesn't necessarily mean you're giving your car extra protection. You may only be wasting money.

One large company, producers of anti-freeze at standard and premium prices, says frankly that their standard-type product protects four out of five cars fully. The more expensive anti-freeze is necessary only if you drive at high altitudes, or where it's colder than 30 degrees below zero, or if your car has a special-type thermostat.

And if you've saved last year's anti-freeze for use again this winter, you're taking a gamble, the experts advise. If it has become contaminated, it can cause serious damage to the engine of your car.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★ Victim Remembers Little Of Frightening Epilepsy Fit

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

A convulsion or "fit" in a child is alarming. The parents naturally become deeply disturbed and worried and want to know whether it must be considered as the sign of some serious disease.

Epilepsy, which is a disease of the nervous system, is the most common cause. However, there are some children who have convulsions which do not appear to be related to this disorder.

They are usually somewhat "nervous" children, but neither this or any other feature of their physical or mental make-up seems to explain why they should develop "fits." But fortunately they seem to get over the convulsions as they grow older without having suffered any permanent ill effects.

It is important to find the cause of fits especially if they are a sign of epilepsy. This can be done much better now than in the past thanks to the discovery and development of an instrument called the electroencephalograph which measures the electrical waves in the brain.

Not only are the waves which can be recorded by this machine different in epilepsy from those of a normal person, but the information which is obtained is of great help in deciding the seriousness of the epilepsy, what medicines to give, and how the patient is responding to treatment.

Epilepsy is not equally serious for all those who are afflicted with it. The less serious variety is called petit mal; in this there are usually no convulsions but only spells of brief loss of consciousness. The treatment of petit mal is likely to be quite successful with the drugs which are available today.

The more frightening form of epilepsy, known as grand mal, is accompanied by convulsions and loss of consciousness. A typical attack does not come without warning. On the contrary most of those who suffer from attacks get peculiar sensations for days or hours before the fit takes place.

These sensations are called the "aura" and they may take different forms. Sometimes the aura is noticed in the vision, sometimes it is merely a strange feeling in the abdomen.

New Treatments

The attack itself is often more unpleasant to the onlooker than to the one who has it. A loud scream or cry may occur at the beginning. The victim quickly becomes unconscious but muscular movements occur such as a drawing back of the head, tightening the fists and straightening the legs.

The face gets red and a person who has never seen an epileptic attack may feel that death is close. But the victim recovers, and having been unconscious remembers nothing about the attack.

The purpose of treatment at present is to make the attacks less severe and farther apart. While treatment is not yet perfect many are helped by drugs and the outlook is by no means as dark as it used to be.

Schools of New York City contain about 1,100,000 pupils and 36,000 teachers.

Nine Texas Convicts Flee In Pre-Dawn Break; Two Retaken

HOUSTON—Two of nine convicts who fled in a pre-dawn break Sunday from Ramsey Prison Farm were captured in a stolen automobile here late Sunday night.

A Houston policeman picked up Robert L. Cannon, 29, of Houston, and Douglas Fairbanks Bryan, 29, of Brazos County, both serving life as habitual criminals.

Moffett, on his way to work, became suspicious when he saw a black sedan, its headlights off, pull out of a residential driveway a few doors from his home.

Cannon and Bryan admitted their identity readily and offered no resistance. They said they stole the automobile in Angleton, Texas, and also broke into a store there and robbed a cafe.

The trail of the nine had vanished on the hard concrete of Highway 288 after they escaped.

Prison General Manager O. B. Ellis said the men obviously had outside help and that he believed someone was waiting in an automobile for them at the highway.

Three Life-Termer

Three of the nine who escaped were serving life.

The men were all in one cell block.

Once free from the cell block, the men evidently wrapped themselves in blankets and rolled to a ditch that had been dug for a gas line.

Ellis charged there "was gross negligence by the guards on duty inside the building in not checking to see that each cell was locked and that a man was in each cell."

The escapes and their last offenses are:

Robert L. Cannon, 29, life for burglary from Harris County.

George E. Carter, 43, life for rape, from Kleberg County.

Douglas P. Bryan, 29, life for burglary, from Brazoria County.

Charles James Wigginton, 30, 15 years for robbery, from Dallas County.

O. E. Brashear, 35, 12 years for burglary, from Potter County.

L. C. Combs, 34, 36 years for burglary, from Tarrant County.

Thomas Richmond, 43, 15 years for robbery, from Harris County.

Maynard Hollandsworth, 36, four years for burglary, from Harris County.

Charles Scott Dickerson, 34, 24 years for burglary, from Travis County.

About 30,000,000 Americans participate in adult-education programs, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Full Report On State Hospital Probe Scheduled

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—The State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools January 8 will be handed a full report of the investigation here of the Wichita Falls State Hospital.

The board's executive secretary, Larry C. Cox, Sunday said the investigation has failed to reveal "any possibility that Dr. Earl F. Dean, suspended superintendent of the hospital, was a user of narcotics or under the influence of narcotics on December 29."

Dr. Dean, ward attendant Dewey Harmon and another employe, later reinstated, were suspended on that date after a phone call to Gov. Allan Shivers from District Attorney Alan Haley.

Cox said Dr. Dean, under questioning, admitted using what is termed "intoxicants" but not liquor. Cox said Dean headed a staff with only two doctors, besides himself, and had been under great pressure. The hospital here has about 2,800 patients, Cox said.

Cox said the suspended superintendent himself is under the care of acting Supt. Dr. Mark E. Huff at present.

He added that "evidence was developed in the two day investigation to the effect that Dr. Dean was under the influence of intoxicants and not in a condition to properly conduct his duties."

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES
II Tim. 4:5-8; John 21:15-19
A LADDER FOR OLD AGE

We come now to the sacred task of setting up a ladder for old age. There is only one way to remain young and that is to grow old gracefully.

1. Accept your age. Each age has something beautiful in it.

Don't fight the fact that you are getting old—use it. You can't be twenty-eight again, then make fifty-eight or sixty-eight beautiful and useful. Each age has its own peculiar beauty and makes its own contribution. I am fifty-eight and I love it—I wouldn't be twenty-eight for anything; fifty-eight is too interesting and too full and too adventurous! I am simply tingling with interests. And in the midst of these interests there is a calm and an undisturbable poise I did not have when younger. Life begins at fifty-eight!

2. Accept the liberties that come through advancing age. If youth has its liberties, so has advancing age. A wonderfully useful Quaker nurse said this to a group: "Beyond fifty, after my change in life, I found a freedom and a calm and an interest in people as people, and not merely as sex beings." Her liberty to love and help others was very real. While women find these liberties from sex after fifty, men do not as a rule gain them until after sixty. Often there is a flaring up, just before passing out. But Creative God, after my body has ceased its sexually creative function, may my mind and my soul be creative, for they never tire, they never wear out. This vehicle of body may not respond as well as before, but help me to keep it keyed up, alert and fit, for purposes of the Kingdom of God. I am at Thy service—forever! Amen.

Seven Persons Hurt When Physicians' Automobiles Collide

BROOKHAVEN, MISS.—(AP)—Seven persons were injured near here Sunday in the automobile collision of two Texas physicians.

The doctors were identified as Jack L. Smith of Galveston, resident physician of the John Sealy Hospital at Galveston, and Dr. Curtis H. Carter of Houston, Texas, and Augusta, Ga.

The injured included Mrs. Allen Smith; Mrs. Bonnie Mangum; Dr. Carter; Mrs. Carter; King Carter, six; Michael Carter, 15 months, and Mary Carter, four months. All were hospitalized.

Dr. Smith and his two children, Allen Lee, three, and Rebecca Ann, 16 months, suffered only cuts and bruises.

Daniel Steck, Former U. S. Senator, Dies

OTTUMWA, IOWA.—(AP)—Daniel F. Steck, 69, of Ottumwa, former Democratic U. S. senator from Iowa, died Sunday night at St. Joseph Hospital here. He suffered a heart attack at his home Saturday.

Steck, an attorney, served in the Senate from 1928 to 1931. He was the first Democrat elected to the Upper House of Congress from Iowa after the Civil War.

Steck ran a close race against Republican Senator Smith W. Brookhart in 1924. Brookhart was declared the winner but Steck contested the election and was seated April 12, 1926, by a vote of the Senate.

Steck was born in Ottumwa and was educated in the public schools here. He was graduated from the University of Iowa in 1906. He was county attorney for four years and served two years during World War II as an Army captain.

California was named for a sixteenth century writer's dream of a Utopia containing beautiful black Amazons, gold and pearls.

12—THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, JAN. 1, 1961

11 Bowl Attractions Draw 450,000 Fans

NEW YORK—(AP)—Some of the country's most powerful eleven opened a new half century of football in bowl games Monday that will decide four major questions: Whether national champion Oklahoma can extend modern football's longest winning streak to 32 and win its third straight Sugar Bowl game.

If California can lose to a Big Ten team, Michigan this time, for third straight year in the Rose Bowl.

Which great line, Texas or Tennessee's, is the better. Whether Clemson's single wing attack is stronger than Miami's (Fla.) T-formation.

In all, about 450,000 spectators came out in promised fair weather to watch 11 bowl games, from coast to coast. They contributed about $2,000,000 at the box office.

Here's how they lined up in the four major bowls (records in parentheses, attendance, starting time (EST), network broadcast and favorite):

Sooners Vs. Kentucky
Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Oklahoma (9-0) vs. Kentucky (10-1), 82,000, 2:30 p.m., ABC. Oklahoma 6 1/2 point favorite.

Rose Bowl at Pasadena—California (9-0-1) vs. Michigan (5-3-1), 100,000, 5 p.m., CBS. California 1 1/2 point favorite.

Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (9-1) vs. Tennessee (10-1), 75,349, 2:30 p.m., NBC. Texas 7 point favorite.

Orange Bowl at Miami—Clemson (8-0-1) vs. Miami of Florida (9-0-1), 85,000, 2 p.m., CBS. Clemson 1 point favorite.

Only Oklahoma carried a perfect record into the four big bowl games. The final Associated Press poll of 450 listed Oklahoma No. 1, Kentucky No. 7, California No. 8, Michigan No. 9, Texas No. 3, Tennessee No. 4, Clemson No. 10 and Miami No. 15.

Here's the rest of the bowl lineup:

Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.—Wyoming (9-0) vs. Washington & Lee (8-2).

Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.—Emory and Henry (9-1) vs. Morris Harvey (9-0).

Cigar Bowl at Tampa—La Cross (Wis.) Teachers (9-0) vs. Valparaiso (9-0).

Sun Bowl at El Paso—Cincinnati (8-3) vs. West Texas State (9-1); Salad Bowl at Phoenix—Miami (10-1) vs. Arizona State at Tempe (9-1).

Five Of Six Texas Loop Teams To See Action This Week

By The Associated Press
Five of the six Texas Conference basketball teams see action this week as play resumes after a holiday layoff.

Auburn Christian, which played in the Sunshine Tournament at Fortales, N. M., last week, is the only team that doesn't get in some pre-conference play this week.

The Wildcats beat southeastern New Mexico 66-48 in the tournament, but then lost to Colorado College 57-46 and to Southeast Missouri 75-63.

In the only other game last week, Brooke Army handed Southwestern a 33-24 licking.

Howard Payne tries Brooke in two games Friday and Saturday at San Antonio, while other tilts these two days match Austin and North Texas; McMurry and Eastern New Mexico; Texas A&I and Trinity; McMurry and Wayland, and Southwestern and St. Edward's of Austin.

Southwestern is scheduled to pace the conference in pre-season games, boasting four victories against a like number of defeats.

Max Bennett, for many seasons a star player in the American Hockey League, coaches the Canadian College hockey team.

King's Row

By LARRY KING

January 1, New Year's Day. That means Bowl games, coast to coast, as guns go bang and a morning-after-the-night-before.

And once again, Texas teams are playing an important part in the bowl business. The University of Texas, of course, has the eyes of Texas upon it as it carries the Orange and White into the Cotton Bowl against General Bob Neyland's Tennessee powerhouse.

And, dotted around the country, other bowls will see Texas teams playing. The Sun Bowl, with West Texas State playing Cincinnati and San Angelo College going against Wharton in the Oleander Bowl, for instance.

But the major bowls are the big attraction—and Texas teams long have been at the top of the heap.

In the four "major" post season bowls—Rose, Sugar, Orange and Cotton—Texas teams have gone to battle a total of 22 times. Texas teams have won 13, lost six and tied three.

SMU is the only Southwest Conference team to have appeared in the Rose Bowl. That was 15 years ago—when Bobby Wilson and Company dropped a 7-0 decision to Stanford.

And in the Sugar Bowl that very day, TCU squeaked past LSU 3-2, in a "baseball score" grid clash.

One year later, TCU played in the first Cotton Bowl game and ousted Marquette 16-6.

Rice Institute whaled Colorado 28-14 the following New Year's Day in the second Cotton Bowl. Texas Tech played in the Dallas classic one year later, losing 20-13 to St. Mary's of California. But Davey O'Brien was leading TCU to a 15-7 win over then-powerful Carnegie Tech in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, to offset the Raiders loss.

1940 saw Texas A&M journey to the Sugar Bowl and edge LSU in a 14-13 thriller. The following year the Aggies again took a one point victory—13-12—this time in the Cotton Bowl and over Fordham.

In 1942 the Aggies lost to Alabama in the Cotton Bowl, 29-21. It was a double defeat year as Georgia outscored the other Texas entry—TCU—40-26 in the Orange Bowl.

Texas licked Georgia Tech 14-7 at Dallas the following New Year, then tied a star-studded Randolph Field 7-7 in the same classic January 1, 1944. The Aggies took it on the chin at the hands of LSU, 19-14 at Miami.

—KR—
The weakest Southwest Conference team ever to go into a major Bowl game—the 1944 TCU team—lost to a good Oklahoma A&M eleven, 34-0, at Dallas on January 1, 1945. It was the most one-sided contest a Texas eleven has participated in at the bowls.

But Texas gained some revenge on the hallowed Big D soil the following year, gaining a 40-27 win over Missouri in one as wild as the Dalton, Hatfields and McCoy's.

Year 1947 saw the opposite sort of a game in the Cotton Bowl—a scoreless deadlock between Arkansas and LSU.

Rice visited the Orange Bowl and powered over Tennessee, 8-0.

And the following year an under-rated Penn State team tied SMU and Doak Walker, 13-13 at Dallas. Texas flailed highly-regarded Alabama in the Sugar Bowl, 27-7.

The Mustangs again were in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day. This time January 1, 1949—and they took a scrapping Oregon team, 21-13. Texas, tabbed as "third rate and over-matched" outscored "a fine Georgia team," 41-28 in the Orange blossom contest.

And last year, Charlie Justice found he couldn't go through the powerful Rice line. Rice won, 27-13. That was in the Cotton Bowl.

—KR—
And in addition to the big "uns, Lone Star teams have played in the Sun, Oil, Harbor, Grape, Kickapoo, Cigar, Raisin and perhaps some other bowls.

Great stars have flashed in these games. Stars such as Baugh, Aldrich, Gillespie and O'Brien of TCU, Wilson, McKissick and Walker of SMU, Kimbrough, Thompson, Boyd and Moser of A&M, Layne, Bechtel and McKay of Texas, Burkhalter, Weems, and Williams of Rice. That's just a handful of the many Texas lads who have thrilled combined thousands in these year-starting post season classics.

And you can bet it will continue—for years to come.

Little Fanfare For New County Officials
With little ceremony and fanfare members of Midland County's official family will begin new terms of office Tuesday.

While most of the officials have long been at their jobs, five of them will be going into office for the first time.

Robert W. Hamilton, Midland attorney, will begin his duties as district judge while W. A. Shaffer of Odessa will be sworn in as district attorney.

The county attorney's office will be taken over by Reagan Legg, while Alvey A. Bryant will be sworn in as a county commissioner and L. C. Stephenson will take his post as a justice of the peace.

For the new county officials, the induction will consist of filing bonds and oaths of office with the county clerk.

HD AGENT DIES
COLORADO CITY—Mrs. Mary R. Drummond, 44, Mitchell County home demonstration agent since March 1, 1946, died in a hospital here about noon Sunday.

TOPS IN TENNIS—Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont of Wilmington, Del., won the United States women's singles championship for the third consecutive year. Arthur Larsen, inset, of San Leandro, Calif., was a rather surprising men's singles titleholder. Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., an equally unexpected finalist.

No Holiday For Midland Hoopsters; Play Here Tuesday

Holiday or not, the Midland High School basketball team raced through a brief drill Monday morning at the MHS gym. Coaches Red Rutledge and Audrey Gill put the Purple basketballers through a swift warm-up round and then topped the session off with a brisk scrimmage.

The "B" team, tutored by John Higdon, took a short workout also. Both the "B" and varsity cagers see action Tuesday night on the home court, facing Brownfield. The "B" team owns a 32-22 win over the Cub reserves. But the Brownfield varsity tipped the Bulldogs 45-39 a couple of weeks back.

The curtain-raiser "B" clash will start at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity go following immediately.

Ralph Brooks has returned to the team after a brief bout with influenza, and his return gives Midland needed height and hustle. The Bulldogs have won two, lost four on the season. Brownfield is even-steven with a 4-4 record. Higdon's classy "B" hoopsters have won four of five starts.

Read The Classifiers.

Elementary School Basketball To Start

Play in the Midland Elementary School basketball league will begin shortly after the present holidays are over. The teams have been going through drills since football came to an end in November.

John M. Cowden Junior High will also field teams. Seventh and eighth grade squads will represent Cowden on the court.

Elementary schools to field teams are West, South, Crockett and North. Both fifth and sixth grade teams will compete in the league. The defending champion Latin American School again expects to field a strong team.

Woman Should Have Called Game Warden
ORANGEBURG, S. C.—When Mrs. Sallie Ayers came home Sunday night, the found clothes littered throughout the house, papers torn and scattered over the floor, and everything generally in a state of disarray.

Without further ado, she called the police.

Investigating officers turned up a gray squirrel. They figured he made his entrance by a chimney.

FINAL CHAPTER of a great ring career is written on the battered face of Joe Louis, shown here in the 11th round of his bout with Ernie Charles, who won the fight, and the heavyweight title, by a unanimous decision.

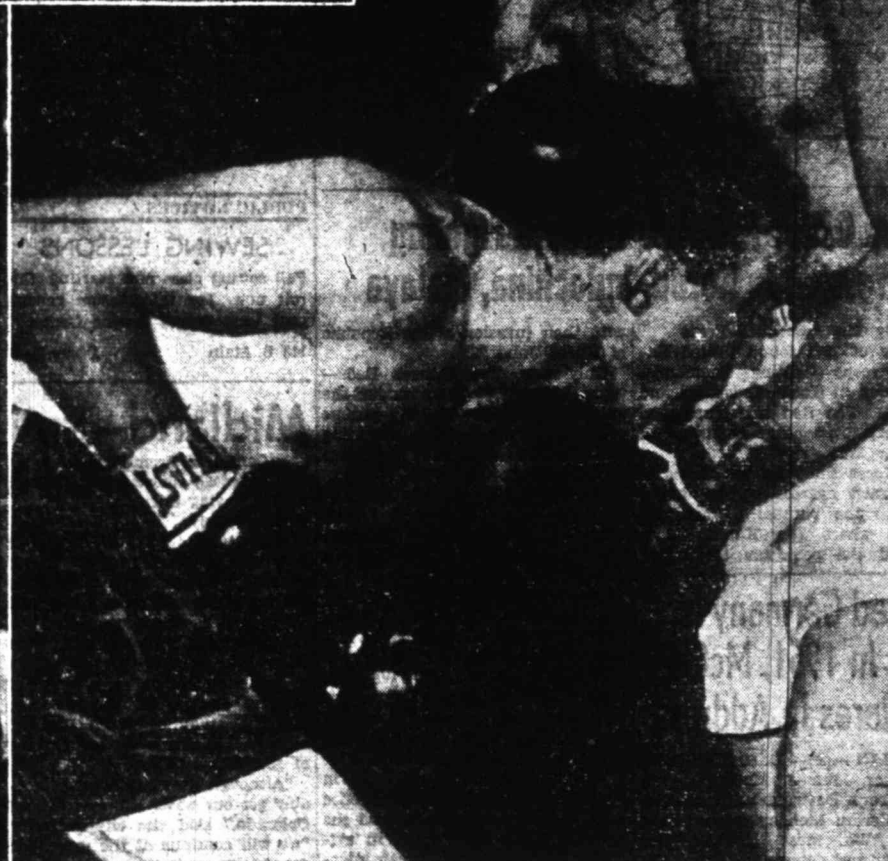

CAUGHT AT THE POST was Paul Barry of the Los Angeles Rams but he had already scored the touchdown, which was the margin of the Rams' 23-10-21 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

DEATH is mirrored in middleweight Lavern Roach's eyes as he leans against his opponent, George Small, before collapsing to the canvas in the 10th round of their bout at N. Y.'s St. Nicholas Arena. Rushed to a hospital, Roach died of head injuries shortly after this picture was taken.

Fate Of Public Health If A-Bomb Drops On Texas Depends Upon Leaders' Action

AUSTIN —(AP)—What will happen to public health if an atom bomb falls in Texas?

The answer, says State Health Officer George W. Cox, may depend largely on what Texas health officials and public leaders do in 1951.

It may depend also on the annual run of customary diseases—polio that soared to an all-time high this year, flu that put more than twice as many persons under medical care this year than last, tuberculosis, dysentery, measles, mumps and all the others.

What 1951 may bring in the way of diseases or atom bombs no one knows, Dr. Cox said, but the plans that can be laid to protect health against most of the diseases and the atom bomb are well known.

"Preparation to give mutual aid among cities is a most important part of civil defense," he said. "It would be tragic beyond human understanding if some city had to have made no preparation."

Two principal committees have been designated at the state level to formulate plans and advice concerning public health aspects of atomic warfare.

One is the Medical Advisory Committee from the State Medical Association charged with plans for caring for the injured and ill, the treatment of burns, shock and fractures, determining material for stockpiling and the material for teaching purposes and for hospital accommodations.

The other is the Health Resources Committee made up of representatives from health and voluntary agencies. It must consider methods of acquiring needed material and property use, training of personnel, methods of controlling epidemics, distribution of material and supplies.

Yongdong Terminal Is Concentration Of Human Misery

By HAL BOYLE

YONGDONG, KOREA —(AP)—Misery is massed and concentrated in this big rail junction. Korean refugees literally fight for a place on any kind of a train going south, as far from the massing Chinese Communist hordes above Parallel 38 as they can go on this peninsula.

Their goal is the southeastern port, Pusan.

They swarm here on foot by the thousands daily, from Seoul. That capital city already has been evacuated by half of its 1,000,000 or more civilians.

They had a terrifying 12 weeks under Red Korean rule last Summer. They fear, even more, rule by Chinese, should the Communists smash the United Nations' defense line near Parallel 38.

The refugees camp for days outside Yongdong's busy rail yard, waiting to get in Once inside, they cannot be driven away. They climb on any chain of boxcars, refusing to believe guards who tell them the train isn't going south.

Not Ready To Move
"One bunch stayed three days on a line of cars that wasn't ready to be loaded," said Pfc. Carl Honeywell, of Baxter Springs, Kan.

"Nothing we could do would get them to leave."

Another group stuck for weary hours aboard a switch engine that did nothing but shuttle back and forth in the yard.

"I couldn't convince them—I just had to let them stay on," said Pfc. James D. Solomon, of Clermont, Ind.

The refugees—old men, old women, young men, young women and many, many children—eat as best they can. Some have brought food and cooked it huddled over small fires by the edge of the tracks. Others cook rice on top of the boxcars. Still others forage in garbage cans and pick up the scraps dropped by other refugees.

They rip planking from the boxcars at night for fires to keep themselves warm. They are so afraid of losing their places that they carry small cans in which to relieve their natural functions. The whole area is sour with the odor, and is ripe for epidemics.

They strap themselves to the sides of flat cars, held to perilous footing by slender strands of rotten rope. They pile their belongings so high that a low tunnel could sweep them to the roadbed.

Crisis Dampens Rejoicing As New Year Ushered In

By The Associated Press

Monday marks a new year—1951—but there is nothing new about Americans' cares and worries for the present, or hopes and fears for the future.

The war threats of the new year are a hold-over of the old.

The peace prayers of 1951 are the echoes of 1950.

And the tears of today are the harvest of yesterday's bullets.

Millions of Americans Sunday night bade farewell to the old year and welcomed the new with traditional revelry and merrymaking.

Mrs. Kate George Will Retire As Regan's Secretary

Mrs. Kate George, who has served as secretary to three U. S. representatives from the 16th Congressional District, will retire February 1, Congressman Ken Regan announced Sunday in El Paso.

Mrs. George's retirement will mark the end of 40 years in state and federal employment.

Regan, who departed Sunday for Washington after attending various Sun Carnival activities at El Paso, said it was with regret that he announced the retirement.

Mrs. George became secretary to Congressman Claude Hudspeth in 1923, serving until his retirement. She then was secretary to Congressman R. E. Thomason 17 years and has continued as Regan's secretary since 1947.

She will be succeeded by Mrs. Margie Fanning formerly of El Paso, who has been assistant secretary since Regan took office more than three years ago.

POPE HAS AUDIENCE
VATICAN CITY —(AP)— Pope Pius held a special audience Monday to receive the New Year greetings of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican.

Warm steam swirls around them and wets them. If the train takes off in bitter cold that moisture freezes—and when the train halts there will be frozen dead to be lifted off.

Refugees wait from one day to a week before they get a train out. It takes them from 48 to 72 hours in winter weather to reach Pusan. And for most of them there is no friendly warmth waiting—just the unfriendly welcome of a strange city.

Atomic Bomb Bases, Stronger Allies Are Needed, Dewey Says

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y. — (AP)— Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said Monday that America, to survive, must develop strong allies and "maintain invulnerable bases around the world from which to send the atomic bomb."

Otherwise, "We shall be soon isolated and left to die," the Republican governor of New York asserted in his third-term inauguration address.

Dewey, defeated twice for the presidency, took sharp issue with former President Herbert Hoover, who said recently the United States should withdraw from Europe and Asia and make the Western hemisphere a defense Gibraltar against communism.

"Once again," Dewey said "the call should be plain to free men everywhere to band together and bravely live else they fall apart and ignobly die."

He said resources of the free world "vastly exceed" those behind the Iron Curtain. "There is no weakness of our cause which courage, hard work and strong leadership cannot cure," he added in his prepared address.

Only One Road
"There is only one road to survival," Dewey said. "That is the road of hard-headed realism, of toil and more toil, of sacrifice and greater sacrifice. x x x"

"There is still time for action, but the hour is very late."

Dewey promised a "Spartan course" of action by his state Administration. He urged New Yorkers to "lay aside partisanship and selfishness" and to set an example for the nation "in self-denial and in hard work for the greater good."

Dewey accused the Truman Administration of choosing a "disastrous course" in abandoning the Chinese Nationalist government. He charged, also, that the national Administration here permitted "the mightiest force on earth, on Naval, air and ground forces, to disintegrate."

Dewey said that only U. S. possession of the atom bomb seems to have deterred Russia from waging "an immediate, all-out war of conquest."

KING-PINS—Mrs. Marion Ladewig and Dick Hoover won national individual match game bowling championships in simultaneous tournaments at the Chicago Coliseum. Hoover, a 200-pound resident of Akron, O., just turned 21 and competing in the meet for the first time, became the youngest champion in the 18-year history of the show. Mrs. Ladewig, 38, of Grand Rapids, Mich., retained the women's title.
