Here's The Story Behind Luise Rainer's Fade-Out

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
 NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Behind the screen: Luise Rainer, the Viennese doll who has two Academy Oscars (1936 and 1938) but who has appeared in only one movie since 1944—and that we don't talk about—has stopped blushing when people ask her "what happened?"

There's no cloak and dagger mystery to it. Luise's movie personal disappearance was partly her fault, which she admits, and, she says, partly Hollywood's.

Starting here for two weeks in "Joan of Lorraine" at the Ivor Theater, the one-time cinematic boxoffice blockbuster told me:

"I was very young. There were a lot of things I was unprepared for. I was too honest. I talked seriously instead of with my eyelashes and Hollywood thought I was a cuckoo."

"I worked in seven big pictures in three years. I have to be inspired to give a good performance. I complained to a studio executive that the source was dried up. The executive told me: 'Why worry about the source. Let the director worry about that.'"

"I didn't run away from anybody in Hollywood. I ran away from myself. I ran away from myself."

Luise doesn't like to talk about her last film seven years ago "because the studio tried to change me into a glamour girl and it was awful."

She now lives in New York as Mrs. Robert Knittel (he's a publisher) and has a four-year-old daughter, Francesca. She's been touring with "Joan" on and off, for three years and has starred on TV shows in N.Y. and London. During the war she entertained

Nervey Work
 Pery High, a modern Robin Hood who has become Hollywood's Mr. Big in the bow and arrow business, says moviegoers can go on worrying about his hits. With Pery, it's the near misses that count.

"A direct hit is easy," says Pery, who did all the trick archery work in "Joan of Arc" and "Passage West." To prove his point, his wife, Pat, began tossing five-inch cardboard discs into the air and Pery put an arrow through the middle of every one before it hit the ground.

"See," he said, "that's easy. It's the close shots—the near misses—that are important."

Like the time Pery had to shoot an arrow within an eighth of an inch of Ingrid Bergman's foot for a scene in "Joan." Only it wasn't Ingrid. It was a stunt girl double. And she happened to be married to the second unit director who was supervising the scene.

"That," says Pery, "was a tough one—mentally and physically."

Senate Crime Panel To Hold Televised Hearing In New York

NEW YORK —(AP)—The biggest and probably the most spectacular open hearing yet held by Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and his Senate crime probing committee will begin Monday in New York. A parade of approximately 50 witnesses, including "big names" in politics and the underworld, is scheduled to appear. Top name among the politicians scheduled to testify is that of William O'Dwyer, former mayor and now ambassador to Mexico, who has promised a "factual picture" of the New York scene.

Kingpin among the underworld figures is gambler Frank Costello, whom the committee has described as head of a national crime syndicate. The crime probes want to look into possible links between politics and the underworld, gambling, narcotics, gangster infiltration into legitimate business, waterfront smuggling and racketeering, and the Mafia, secret "black hand" organization. In contrast with a closed preliminary hearing held by the committee earlier in New York, the doors will be wide open this week. Newsmen will have front row seats. So will photographers and television cameramen. The group will meet soon, he said, and will advise him on defense responsibilities concerning gas. Texas members include: D. A. Hulcy, Dallas, Texas, president Lone Star Gas Company; Paul Kayser, El Paso, Texas, president El Paso Natural Gas Company; James C. Reid, Dallas, vice president and operations manager, Southern Union Gas Company; and Claude A. Williams, Houston, president, Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation.

Former RFC Head Is 'Shocked' By Probers' Findings

HOUSTON —(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, former head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has written Senator Fulbright, (D-Ark.), he has been "shocked" by the revelations of the senator's sub-committee investigating the RFC. "The situation is much worse than I had any idea it could be," Jones said in a letter, the text of which was printed Saturday night by the Houston Chronicle, of which Jones is publisher. Jones repeated a recommendation made last year that the RFC be "given a decent burial, lock, stock and barrel." He also commented at length on RFC loans to Kaiser-Fraser, Texas Petroleum, Waltham Watch and the Lustron Corporation, and said a thorough investigation of these loans "is clearly indicated."

Saint-Lou—

(Continued From Page One) picked Wall Street for his painting. Now, that is the question the little fellow has been waiting for and his dark brown eyes will begin to sparkle. "Here," he will explain, "I was able to get my best impression of what Midland is. That is how I paint. I am an impressionist and here I think I have been able to capture the spirit of your growing city, with its tall buildings, its busy streets, its blue skies spotted with a few white clouds." Someone probably will walk up close to the painting and try to determine what brand of cigarettes are lying in the gutter on Wall Street. "Not A Photograph" "No. No. no," Saint-Lou will protest. "This is not a photograph. This is a painting... an impressionistic painting. "It is not for the detail that it was done but—you see—for the whole general impression. One little portion of the picture will mean little. But all together it means much."

There will be several portraits and a number of landscapes in the collection. Someone probably will ask which he prefers to do—landscapes or portraits. Saint-Lou probably will pause a minute before he answers. "Ah," he finally will answer. "I enjoy painting anything. "The landscape painting is wonderful. You have so much freedom. If you do not like the tree here you move the tree there. If the hill does not slope enough, you can change that, too. "But, I think I like the portraits best. Spirit Of Subject "You see, you have to fight. You have so much to do. You have to feel the spirit of your subject, you have to put that on canvas. At the same time you have to please your subject and, perhaps, please whoever is paying for it. "It is a fight, yes, but I think I enjoy it most."

Someone else probably will ask another question. "Why should I have a portrait painted," he will query, "when I can have a good photograph made and much cheaper." A pained expression doubtless will darken the ever-present smile of the little Frenchman. "The camera is good, yes," he will answer. "But the camera can see only what it can see. The photographer can try to add to the camera when he retouches the picture. But the camera can only do so much. "With the artist—the good artist—there is much more. "He can see and he can feel and he can catch the spirit of his subject. "What the artist sees goes to his eyes, then to his brain, then to his heart, then to his fingers and then to the canvas. "And when it is done you can look at it and catch its spirit and say, 'This is my wife' or 'This is my daughter.'"

Some curious person probably will get personal and ask Saint-Lou why he came to the United States. "I think I am something of a good-will ambassador from France," he will explain. "I like the country here and I like to paint it. "My own president, Vincent Auriol, you know, is coming to the United States soon. It will be the first time a French president visited the United States." And Saint-Lou will pause a moment and add: "Yes, I think we have something in common. You see, I am the first French artist to paint Midland."

SUNRAY REPORTS EARNINGS DOUBLE THOSE OF 1949

TULSA, OKLA. —(AP)—A net profit of $20,482,000 from a $94,212,000 gross income, equaling $2.97 per share of common stock, was reported Saturday for 1950 by Sunray Oil Corporation directors. That was about double the earnings of 1949, the report said. The company paid $3,473,968 in preferred dividends last year and $6,412,000 on common stock.

Tax Collector Warns Of April 1 Deadline On '51 Auto Plates

Life for J. W. Speed and members of his staff is just one last-minute rush after another. And now the Midland county tax assessor-collector is getting ready for another one. This time it's the annual last-minute scramble for the automobile license tags and the inevitable rush is expected to start within a few days. The deadline is April 1, but that apparently doesn't mean much to Midland County motorists—that is, not until along about March 30 or 31. Speed looked over the current figures Saturday and decided the rush would develop as usual—just as it developed six weeks ago when the deadline neared for payment of poll taxes. His figures showed only 2,690 passenger license plates have been sold.

And that is far short of the more than 11,000 plates of all varieties sold for 1950. So Speed urged Saturday that motorists get their new plates as soon as possible to help avoid a last-minute rush. He also urged that applicants bring with them their certificates of title, receipt for 1950 and any other necessary papers. He added that motorists who have been waiting for a low number now can start coming in. "We lack only about 200 of reaching the end of the current series," he explained, "and in a day or two will begin with No. 10 and start climbing again."

Motorists who operate their automobiles after April 1 without a 1951 license plate will be subject to a 20 per cent penalty.

Cabinet Of Slain Iran Premier Quits

TEHRAN, IRAN —(AP)—The cabinet of Iran's assassinated Premier Gen. Ali Razmara resigned Saturday to pave the way for the formation of a new government. Acting Premier Khalil Fahimi, appointed by the Shah to take over last Wednesday when a religious fanatic's bullets slew the strongman premier, will direct the government with the aid of the undersecretaries of the various ministries.

U. S. Agents Grab Enough Marihuana For 343,000 Reefers

SAN ANTONIO —(AP)—In what may be the biggest haul of marihuana in the history of this section of Texas, three Laredo men were arraigned Saturday in U. S. Commissioner P. A. Lockhart's court for conspiring and transporting 345 pounds of marihuana across the Mexican border. Bond was set for the men at $10,000 each, and they were taken to the county jail. The Laredo men, Rafael T. Martinez, 32; Robert R. Rodriguez, 27, and George C. Magnon, 41, were apprehended in Von Ormy by federal authorities. Some scope of the gigantic amount of narcotics seized in this raid was explained by narcotics officers who pointed out that the 245 pounds confiscated some 343,000 cigarettes could be made and that the "reefers" sell for about a dollar each.

Midland To Install New Street Lights

A program for extending Midland's street-lighting system was announced Saturday by City Manager W. H. Oswalt. Oswalt said the plan for installing 83 additional street lights will be presented for approval Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the City Council. Practically all the lights he said, will be installed in newly-annexed areas of the city. They also include one mercury vapor lamp to be installed at Andrews Highway and Louisiana Street. The installation work will be done by the Texas Electric Service Company and will require several months for completion.

Life Underwriters Discuss Legislation

Pending insurance legislation was discussed Saturday at a noon luncheon meeting of the Permian Basin Association of Life Underwriters. The meeting, held in Hotel Scharbauer, was directed by Association President Joe C. Davis of Midland and attended by insurance representatives from Lamesa, Odessa and Midland. Future programs also were planned, with E. L. Swalm of Midland in charge of the program for the next meeting, April 14.

Theft Suspect Is Mother Of Actress

DALLAS —(AP)—Hollywood, Calif., police have identified a woman held there on a theft charge as the mother of actress Peggy Ann Garner. Detective Jerry Hardy said in Hollywood the woman is Mrs. Virginia J. Garner, wanted there on a felony charge of issuing a worthless check. Detective V. P. Sala of Hollywood said she was identified positively as Peggy Ann's mother through fingerprints and a picture, sent by Dallas police to Hollywood. She is charged here as Katherine Janis Whittaker, 38, accused of theft under $50. Sheriff Bill Decker said she also is charged at Fort Worth under the name of Mrs. Jeanne Craig on two counts of theft of over $50. Decker also has a hold order on her from Caddo Parish, La.

Senate Committee Starts New Hunt For Reds In Government

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Senate Internal Security Committee has started a far-reaching new search for Communists-in-government, including the armed forces as well as the civilian agencies. Disclosing this Saturday, Senator O'Connor (D-Md.), a member of the new committee, said the group also is "beginning work on the problem of penetration from abroad by Communist agents." The committee agenda O'Connor disclosed indicates there probably will be a new airing of charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that Communists and Red sympathizers have infiltrated the State Department.

Britain-Based B-29 Is Reported Missing

LONDON —(AP)—A U. S. Air Force B-29 Superfortress, with a crew of 12 aboard, is missing on a training flight, a spokesman for the Third Air Force said Saturday night. The plane left the Royal Air Force Base at Lakenheath, England, Friday on a round-trip flight and was due back Saturday morning. The bomber last was reported over Almeria, in Southeast Spain. Units of the U. S. and British Mediterranean Fleets and U. S. Air Force planes are searching in that area.

Texas Draft Quota For May Is 3,112

AUSTIN —(AP)—Texas' May draft quota is 3,112. The state's share of the national call for 60,000 men was announced by State Selective Service headquarters Friday. The figure is 1,038 less than the April call when 80,000 men were ordered nationally, State Selective Service Deputy Director Morris S. Schwartz said. Schwartz said local board quotas will be ready late this month. Meanwhile, 7,726 draft registrants have been ordered to take pre-induction examinations in April in anticipation of the June draft call, he said. The May quota brings Texas' total number of men ordered since the beginning of the Korean conflict to 30,174.

Ceilings—

(Continued From Page One) could not be taken as final or official decisions. Percentages Still Secret The OPS kept the "mark-up" percentages closely guarded. Nor would the agency make any official guess as to the overall effect on the housewife's food bill. The orders also will apply to the prices of butter, packaged cheese, sugar, salt, cookies and crackers, canned meats, canned soups, canned vegetables, flavorings, jams and jellies, peanut butter and many other foods. Retailers and wholesalers are expected to be given about four weeks to make the changeover to the new system. One thing seems sure: The new system will leave the housewife somewhat confused. She still won't have any clear way of knowing what her grocer's ceiling prices are. But OPS officials say the "mark-up" or "margin" type of order is an essential step on the road toward dollars-and-cents ceiling prices that can be fixed firmly for each locality and posted in the stores for all to see. That stage may not be reached until next Summer or Fall.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And The Quiet Voice

Everyone has two voices, a loud voice and a quiet voice. Even monkeys do, and that makes me want to tell you about Sammy and Bobby Ringtail, the monkey boys, who always liked to wake up early in the morning before anyone else was awake. That was all right with Daddy Ringtail, of course, as long as they remembered to use their quiet voices, so that he could sleep.

One night, right after those monkey boys had climbed into bed, Daddy Ringtail said: "Sammy! Bobby! Please remember to use your quiet voices when you wake up in the morning. I want to sleep late."

Bobby said he would try to remember, and Sammy said that he would help Bobby do it.

"Remember," Daddy Ringtail said. "Use your quiet voices." Then he went to bed to sleep. He slept on through the night and maybe dreamed how much fun it is to sleep, and when morning came he was doing the best job of sleeping that he ever did in his life. That is when Sammy and Bobby woke up before anyone else.

"Use your quiet voices," Sammy said to Bobby in his own very quiet voice. "Don't forget."

Bobby said that he wouldn't forget, and he said it with his quiet voice. So Sammy and Bobby played in their room and talked in very quiet voices that were almost as quiet as a whisper. The playing was fun, for they were playing with a ball on the floor. It was so much fun that Bobby became more and more excited. His voice grew louder and louder. It didn't awaken Daddy Ringtail, but Sammy was afraid that it would.

"Use your quiet voice!" Sammy said, and he said it with a voice that wasn't very quiet at all. He was excited to see, and afraid that Bobby would wake Daddy Ringtail.

Bobby used his quiet voice again, until the next time he forgot, and then it was his loud voice again. Sammy was provoked by this time, and he quite forgot about his own quiet voice. "Bobby!" Sammy shouted. "Use your quiet voice! You'll wake Daddy Ringtail!" And it was Sammy's own very loud voice that awakened Daddy Ringtail at last.

He didn't scold. It wouldn't have done any good. He knew he could never sleep very late in the morning with monkey boys in the house. And you might remember this if you ever get a monkey boy to live with you. Happy day!

FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS

Moisture finally came to Midland and vicinity, and the ranchers and farmers, with broad smiles on their faces, settled down for a pleasant weekend—perhaps the most enjoyable and surely the wettest since last September.

It still is very damp as this column is being written, but just what the weather situation will be when this edition hits the streets early Sunday, DSQ has no idea. He hopes it will be even wetter.

Rut at least it still can and did rain in West Texas, and in March, too. It could have been that DSQ was a month early in predicting a wet February.

At any rate the long overdue moisture will benefit the grass and weeds on the range lands and will put farm lands in better shape for Spring planting. It will keep down the sand, too.

And the ranchers can wear their best smiles to the annual convention of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association in Dallas this week.

Let's have more moisture right along now.

Cal Boykin, hotel owner-operator and captain of the Midland County Sheriff's posse, has purchased one of the few horses in America registered in the Half-Arabian Stud Book of the American Remount Association.

Galaz IV, foaled March 15, 1948, is the new golden Palomino pride of the Midland man, who plans to show his new prized possession in future horse shows. The Palomino is by Galaz III and out of Champagne Bubbles.

Boykin purchased the horse from Leroy Clark of San Angelo, owner of Champagne Bubbles.

Galaz III is one of the most famous studs of Arabian stock. He was sent to the United States from Europe by the U. S. Army in 1944. From 1939 to 1944, he was on stud duty at the Roan Hungarian State Stud Babolna.

Women attending the cattlemen's convention in Dallas this week will receive orchid corsages flown direct from the Hawaiian Islands. The flowers were grown on Maui Island, in the Hawaiian group, site of one of the world's largest cattle ranches, the Hana Maui.

Congratulations to Sherwood Foster and Marion Flynn of Midland, from whose ranches the champion calves of the San Hills Hereford Show came.

Congratulations also are in order for Janet Pauley, a member of the McCamey Chapter of the Upton County 4-H Club, who showed her lightweight fine wool lamb to the grand championship of the Odessa show.

James Lyles, also a member of the McCamey Chapter, took home the showmanship award in the lamb show.

Other Upton County boys and girls who showed lambs at Odessa were Scotty Howard, Mona Dee Johnson and Sammy Helmers of McCamey and Sue Magill, Mona Sue Branch and Lloyd and Mac Yocham of Rankin.

The time now comes for the annual Midland County Livestock Show—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—with entries expected from Midland, Martin, Upton, Glasscock, Crane, Andrews and Ector Counties.

Indications are the 1951 show will be the best in the history of the Midland 4-H and FFA Club shows and all.

Everyone is invited. Everyone is urged to attend.

J. S. Bridwell, Wichita Falls, has given Lubbock's Texas Technological College funds to provide an annual scholarship of $400.

Eligible for the scholarship competition are senior students in the Department of Animal Husbandry who are in need of financial assistance and who plan to engage in practical cattle production.

The recipient of the scholarship must have at least a 1.5 grade average and the winner would be ineligible for any other scholarship administered by the college.

Bridwell is a rancher, independent oil operator and purebred Hereford breeder.

Finer fibered, Texas High Plains cotton has definite market advantages over certain higher-priced types, a Cotton Research Committee of Texas report, published at the University of Texas, reveals.

The preliminary study, the University of Texas Technological College scientists, shows where each High Plains variety is planted, what its specific fiber properties and spinning values are and the relationship between its properties and rainfall.

The report also shows the amount of High Plains production in the last decade.

Greater Strength Specifically, researchers found that some High Plains finer-fibered cotton, when made into yarn and cloth, resulted in a product with strength equal to or greater than like samples of coarser, higher-priced cotton.

Also they found High Plains cotton tested as well in many cases as higher priced cotton when fabricated into coarse goods such as duck, drill and sheeting.

The investigations included cotton grown in Midland, Gray, Deaf Smith, Farmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Bailey, Lamb, Hale, Floyd, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Dawson, Martin and Howard Counties.

Nobody ever had a good word for cattle rustlers, but 74 years ago wide roving bands of these ornery crooks were responsible for the formation of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, which many cattlemen today say is the best thing that ever happened to the industry.

Elaborate preparations for the 31 convention of the association in Dallas, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday has set many a cattle raiser to recalling events in the early history of the organization. Old-timers say the stories are as interesting as ever came out of the old west.

Faced with the growing wave of rustling in the Reconstruction period after the Civil War, a small band of determined cattle raisers met under a large oak tree in the frontier town of Graham, Texas.

Basic Creed Written It was Feb. 15, 1877, and on that day a basic creed was written which has never been altered:

"The members of this association shall work together for the good and common interests of all stock raisers—and to do all within their power for the promotion of the stock interests."

The association was formed during the era of the open range, and many of its early activities centered around the organization of round-ups, trail drives and protection against theft. Later came problems growing out of fencing, the closing of the open range and the cattle trails, and a shift to owned or leased ranges and marketing by rail or truck. The association today has more than 9,000 members from 18 states. A representative group of them will be in Dallas this week.

January farm cash income in Texas averaged a 26-per-cent gain over January, 1950, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

Cotton and wheat were lower than in the year-earlier period, but oats and corn rose 25 and 22 per cent, respectively.

Although the total Texas farm cash income dropped 27 per cent in January, 1951, from December, the livestock market showed strong gains. Income from cattle was up 36 per cent from December; calves were up 42 per cent; hogs, 39 per cent; and sheep and lambs, 23 per cent.

Cattle, the major cash farm product during both months, brought $30,900,000 in January, or $8,300,000 more than in December and more than twice as much as in January, 1950. Cotton brought Texas farmers $10,600,000 during January, 1951, compared to $39,600,000 in December.

Poultry Income Drops Poultry income was 64 per cent lower than during the December holiday boom. Texas rail stations shipped 11 carloads of turkeys during December, but only eight carloads in January. Egg shipments dropped from 26 carloads to two.

Total January milk and milk products income was up 25 per cent from December and up 74 per cent from the year-earlier level. Manufactured dairy products rose one per cent during January, contrasted to their usual two per cent drop during that month. Greatest gain was in ice cream, which rose 12 per cent from cool December to icy January.

Farmers who plant poor quality seed are likely to harvest poor crops, warns L. C. Coffey, associate agronomist for the Texas A&M Extension Service. Careful examination of the tag on each sack of seed will help the farmer determine the quality of the seed he is getting.

Coffey says certified seeds usually are the best seed of a particular variety available. Certified seeds come from fields that have been inspected during the growing season and have been handled properly at harvest time, cleaned, tested for purity and germination, and properly stored.

Blue tags attached to each sack of certified seed carry accurate information about the quality of the planting seed. These blue tags are issued by the State Department of LOVE THAT BULL—Doug Prince, known down Texas way as "the Hamburger King of the Southwest," caresses "Ace Triumph," the Grand Champion steer of the Houston Livestock Show after paying $72,500 for the prize beef. The steer was bought originally for $17,800 by oil man Glenn McCarthy, who donated it for a charity auction.

Agriculture for use on seed which have met certain high standards of purity and germination. In 1950, blue tags were issued for 96 varieties of 12 different crops grown in Texas.

"The contribution of Texas agriculture to the nation's economy will be determined largely by what we do with our rainfall," E. R. Alexander says in an article in a book, "Water and Man."

This and other matters pertaining to water are pointed out by the head of the Agricultural Education Department of Texas A&M College, "The Texas Farmer," Alexander says, "is already irrigating two and one half million acres of land."

Expansion of irrigation, he writes, "has reached a limit except in a few areas. Our State Water Conservation Association is wisely planning for conservation of underground water."

Alexander says "We must use legumes and crop residue to build up fertility and increase water holding capacity of the soil. We are not thinking and talking enough about the necessity of doing something to control the raindrop where it falls. The program of the State Soil and Water Conservation Board is beginning at the right spot—out on the land away from the streams and the cities."

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Drilling Program Ahead Of Reserve Discoveries

By MAX E. SKELTON

HOUSTON—(AP)—Discovery of new crude oil reserves last year did not keep pace with a record well drilling program.

There were almost 44,000 well completions last year but estimated proved reserves increased during the 12-month period ending December 31 by only 618,909,000 barrels.

That is a substantial gain, but one that is dwarfed when placed beside the 1948 gain of 1,792,759,000 barrels. It was in 1948 that the previous completions record of 40,000 was established.

The 1948 additions to reserves are all the more impressive in that actual crude production that year approximated 2,002,448,000 barrels, compared to last year's 1,943,776,000.

Gains in reserves in 1949 more than doubled 1950—1,369,045,000 barrels—although there were approximately 4,500 fewer completions.

Despite the slump, the 1950 increase sent estimated reserves beyond the 25,000,000,000-barrel mark the first time in history.

The annual joint report of the American Petroleum Institute and the American Gas Association, released Thursday, placed December 31 crude reserves at 25,268,398,000 barrels.

Increases in natural gas liquids improved the 1950 picture. These reserves climbed 538,691,000 barrels. When combined with crude's gain, this makes 1,157,560,000 barrels of liquid hydrocarbons having been added to reserves last year.

Natural gas liquids gains in 1949 and 1948, respectively, totaled only 188,229,000 and 286,808,000 barrels. Congressmen heard a lot this week about petroleum reserves.

Oil and gas operators from throughout the country testified before the House Ways and Means Committee in Washington in opposition to a proposed slash in the industry's depletion allowance on taxes.

The committee heard testimony such a reduction would disrupt exploration programs designed to add additional millions of barrels to reserves.

Oil men for 25 years have been allowed to deduct 27 1/2 per cent of their gross income from their wells while figuring their taxes. Such deductions, however, may not exceed 50 per cent of their net income.

Administration leaders have proposed the allowance be cut to 15 per cent.

It was the second time in two years for the oil men to parade before the congressional committee.

The allowance cutback proposal was defeated last year, but industry leaders saw greater cause for fear during the current session of Congress. They speculated that some congressmen who supported the allowance a year ago might change their opinions because of the heavy demand for taxes to support the national defense program.

A national Petroleum Council Committee last week advised Secretary of the Interior Chapman a reduction in the allowance would seriously curtail exploratory operations, cause declining reserves and productive capacity and bring inevitable increases in prices of petroleum products.

The council's committee on capital and material requirements said the allowance is essential in providing risk capital for the industry.

The committee's primary job is to determine the capital and materials needed to permit the industry to increase the availability of petroleum products by 1,000,000 barrels daily over levels of last November and December.

O&GCM Recovered From Wolfcamp In C-W Lea County Explorer

HOBBES, N. M.—Lawton Oil Corporation and W. L. Golden have discovered a second possible pay section in their No. 1-A State, wildcat in Central-West Lea County.

A drillstem test from 10,130 to 10,186 feet in the Wolfcamp developed 1,036 feet of very heavily oil and gas-cut mud.

The test tool was open four hours. Operator used a 1,000-foot water cushion. Gas was at the surface in 40 minutes. The drill pipe started unloading as it was being pulled. It unloaded the 1,000-foot water cushion, which was cut with oil and gas, and the 1,036 feet of oil and gas-cut mud.

Operator was to drill 30 feet deeper and take another drillstem test.

The Wolfcamp was topped at 9,258 feet, elevation 4,225 feet.

The prospector had previously indicated that it might produce from the San Andres on a drillstem test from 4,794 to 4,875 feet. The San Andres was topped at 5,370 feet, on an elevation of 4,225 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 30-155-33e and about three miles south of the Saunders field.

New Projects
McAlester Fuel Company has staked two projects in the Denton field of Central-East Lea County for immediate drilling.

The firm's No. 1-B Pat H. McClure, 2,310 feet from south and east lines of section 14-155-37e, will be drilled to 12,500 feet to test the Devonian pay of the multipay field.

Location falls at the extreme south edge of the field and outside of production.

The other Denton prospector will be McAlester's No. 1-C Pat H. McClure. Location is 330 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 14-155-37e and at the east side of the field.

The No. 1-B McClure location supplants the one filed for the same operator's No. 1 Stoneman in the same quarter of the section.

The No. 1-B McClure will drill to 12,500 feet to test the Devonian.

More Pay
Another drillstem test in the Devonian at Phillips Petroleum Company and The Atlantic Refining Company No. 1 Denton, assured producer in the Denton field, developed production.

Since the first drillstem test of the Devonian was taken at 11,465-11,850 feet, the explorer has proven for 1,051 feet of solid pay.

The latest drillstem test was made over the interval from 12,445 to 12,516 feet. The tool was open for four hours. A 3,995-foot water cushion was used.

Gas shoved to the surface in two hours and 15 minutes. No fluid surfaced. Recovery was the water blanket and 40 barrels of clean oil and 2,131 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud.

Operator is now drilling below 12,516 feet. Fifty feet of new hole will be made and another drillstem test made.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 11-155-37e.

Spudded In
Levers Oil Company No. 1 State, wildcat in North-Central Chaves County, 25 miles northeast of Roswell, has been spudded and is now drilling below 110 feet in red beds.

The exploration is contracted to go to 1,925 feet.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 16-155-27e.

Mallco Refining Company No. 1 D. B. Anderson, contracted 2,500-foot wildcat in Southeast Chaves County, is at total depth of 1,670 feet in dolomite shutdown for repairs.

The wildcat topped the San Andres at 1,612 feet.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 4-145-28e.

Another wildcat in Southeast Chaves County, E. J. McCurdy & McElvey No. 2 Key, is digging below 1,138 feet in anhydrite.

It is contracted to go to 3,200 feet.

SUN GEOLOGIST—Lee C. Smith is the new district geologist for Sun Oil Company in Midland. He has charge of the company's geological offices in Midland, San Angelo and Abilene. Smith came from McAllen where he had been Sun's district geologist in South Texas for several years.

RRC Authorization Is Needed To Start Drilling Operations

The Railroad Commission of Texas has put into effect an order requiring all operators to have authorization from the oil and gas division of the commission before commencing operation on any drilling project.

The order includes regular locations as well as Rule 37 permits.

The authorization will be in the form of a notification from the RRC after the Form 1, request for permission to drill, has been received and approved by the commission.

Results Of Failure
The failure of an operator to comply with the order will cause such well to be closed in and the holding up of the allowable of such well.

An order also has been placed in effect that each Form 1 filed in each and every field designated in the list attached to the commission's memorandum of February 13, shall be accompanied by a unit plat showing the acreage dedicated to that well.

No Form 1 shall be approved until a unit plat is attached to and made a part of the Form 1. The unit plat is to be in addition to the unit plat required by the proration department and used in setting up the allowable for the well in question.

Gas-Cut Mud
A drillstem test at 12,484-12,518 feet, which tool open one hour, developed a recovery of 630 feet of slightly gas cut mud.

The prospector has already shown for a discovery from the Pennsylvanian.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 32-165-37e.

Allan Hargrave of Midland has completed his No. 1 Bradley as an extension to the Black River field of extreme Central-South Eddy County.

The new well was completed from a line of the Delaware for a daily production of 20 barrels of oil and five barrels of salt water. The gravity of the petroleum is 44 degrees.

The Delaware line was topped at 1,860 feet, elevation 3,253 feet. Plugged back total depth of the extender is 1,870 feet.

Drillsite is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 24-245-26e.

Running Casing
Paul C. Texas No. 1 Bernice Dinnin, wildcat in Central-West Lea County and near the Eddy County line, is at plugged back total depth of 3,373 feet in sand running casing, which was to be set at 3,361 feet.

The last test at the prospector was at total depth of 3,423 feet. The wildcat bailed one barrel of oil in three hours plus an undetermined amount of salt water.

No. 1 Dinnin is bottomed in the Yates sand which was topped at 3,264 feet.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 330 feet from east lines of section 24-205-32e.

Washington Oil—'Save Our Oil And Gas' Campaign Discovered In Munitions Board Memo

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent
WASHINGTON—A first step in what appears to be a new "Save Our Oil and Gas" campaign was discovered last week in a Munitions Board memorandum.

"Coal is the nation's largest fuel resource," said the memorandum, written and sent out in behalf of Chairman John D. Small to the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"It should be employed, as far as practicable, at all military facilities — both command and industrial, as well as military sponsored industrial facilities."

Of natural gas, the memorandum says: "The popularity of the fuel is expanding its use at such a rate that the demand may outrun the great expansion in pipe lines and distribution systems."

Of fuel oil, it says: "Petroleum products will be in great demand. There is a shortage in both tank cars and tankers. For this reason the use of heating oil and fuel oil should be kept to the practical minimum."

In summary: "In general, first preference should be given to the use of coal, second preference to natural gas and third preference to fuel oil."

Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) disclosed the memorandum at the start of Interior Committee hearings into a national fuel policy. He also distributed copies of excerpts from "oil shortage" statements by government and oil industry officials.

Fuel Policy Urged
Coal leaders urged a fuel policy, but oil and gas men opposed at the round table hearings, which could come up with proposals to forbid the use of oil and gas for many types of heating as a conservation measure.

In the round table, oil, gas and coal executives, totaling 14, are lined up in a row on one side of the committee table, their backs to the audience, facing the one, two or three Senators on hand for the sessions. The discussions were March 7, 8 and 9, with more to come later. A report is expected by the end of June.

Frank Earnest, Jr., president, Anthracite Institute called for steps to keep coal strong.

"Do you want the federal government to tell homeowners what fuel they can use?" asked Dr. Robert Wilson, Standard Oil Company, (Ind.), a member of the round table.

"No," said Earnest. "I want the facts out. The committee can do whatever it wants."

C. J. Potter, president, Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal Company, Indiana, Pa., said if oil and gas are as limited as he thinks, there should be a national fuel policy.

"Do you mean positive intervention by the government?" asked Senator O'Mahoney.

"Yes," replied Potter.

A. Jacobson, president, Amerasia Petroleum Corporation, New York, suggested: "You want the government to step in and say to industrial and commercial users of coal, to homeowners not to use gas and oil, to new homes going up the same thing. That is what it comes down to."

"There are other ways to do it," retorted Potter.

Summing up, Senator Russell Long (D-La) said the basic question seems to be: "Should we restrict use of oil and gas when discovery exceeds consumption."

"Exactly," replied J. Ed Warren of Midland, Texas, a member of the panel representing the Independent Petroleum Association of America, of which he is president.

At one point, Senator O'Mahoney gave a running out of oil speech. "What do you mean?" asked Wilson. "We are producing half the world's oil in the U. S."

Flustered, O'Mahoney said that's what he wanted to get on the record, but he knew he did not lead the world in reserves.

"We are far, far ahead of any other country," said Wilson.

"We have 30 billion barrels known reserves, but the Middle East has 50 billion," said the Senator.

Wilson retorted: "The Middle East is actual figures, showing that Saudi Arabia, a chief oil country, has far less known reserves than the U. S. Coal tried to woo independent oil producers at the panel.

The independents are in his "camp" about foreign oil, said John Battle, secretary of the National Coal Association.

"Not in your camp," rejoined J. Ed Warren, "just against excessive oil imports on the merits of the issue."

"We are far, far ahead of any other country," said Wilson.

Warren said the domestic oil men are in a healthy condition now, and when the imports become excessive he would fight them.

Midland Has 67 Rotaries In Operation

Midland County, for the first time, is listed by Reed Roller Bit Company survey as the most active area in the Permian Basin in actual drilling operations.

The firm's March 1 survey showed Midland with 67 rotaries with drilling bits in the hole.

Second among counties in the Permian Basin is Ector with 60 rotary rigs in operation.

In previous reports, active operations included prospectors which were waiting on potential or rigging up. The March 1 report from Reed lists only projects actually making hole.

Of the 525 rotary rigs going in the Permian Basin, 309 are in Midland, Ector, Scurry, Borden, Upton, Terry, Kent, Howard, Glasscock and Martin Counties.

Scurry has 57 and is followed by Borden with 30.

The latest survey shows a drop of 10 operations since February 15. One year ago on March 1, there were 536 rigs drilling.

Number of rotaries in other counties are: Upton 25, Terry 22, Kent 17, Howard 14, Glasscock 12 and Martin 5.

19-Year-Old Youth Held As Suspect In Holdup Attempts
A 19-year-old Latin American youth was being held Saturday as the unsuccessful "Masked Bandit of the Tourist Court."

He was arrested by city police a short time after residents of a tourist court east of the city reported they had been accosted by the man.

O. C. Farmer, a Houston salesman, reported the masked man had opened the door to his room about 8 p. m., looked around and then quickly fled.

A few minutes later, in another cabin, Earl Cowell, a telephone company employee, reported he woke up to find the masked man bending over him.

"Give me your money," he quoted the man as telling him in a low voice.

Instead, Cowell shouted for help and at the same time pulled out a pocket-knife. The youth fled from the cabin.

A short time later police Sergeant Chester Sprague and Officer Clarence Hollis picked up the 19-year-old youth.

They said they found on him a home-made billy club and a triangle-shaped handkerchief which could have been used as a mask.

The suspect denied any knowledge of the robbery attempt.

Comanche, Claude Win Girls Crowns

AUSTIN — (AP) — Forward Florence Jo Coan's free throw and field goal in the last 30 seconds Saturday night beat McLean 50-49 and won Comanche the first Class A state championship in Interscholastic League girls basketball.

Claude won the Class B title 42-40 over Denton Valley of Clyde.

Comanche had moved to the finals by beating Fredericksburg 58-39, and McLean whipped Plano 44-31.

Coan matched 23 points in the game to bring her tournament total to 86 points, the record. Her three-game score total equaled the state tournament series record in boys' basketball set by Marcus Frierberger of Greenville in 1947. Frierberger now plays for the University of Oklahoma.

Comanche trailed McLean 18-13 at the half and 33-28 when the third quarter ended.

Dorothy Gudgel paced McLean by sinking 27 points.

The whole McLean defensive clan—La June Chilton, Mary Graham, and Bruner—fouled out in the last quarter.

Comanche, a 257-student school in North Central Texas, edged Denton 54-42 in the first round of play.

McLean beat Carrizo Springs 40-32 in the first round.

King's Row

By LARRY KING

If you wander downtown the morning after a Midland High School football game and ask the score of the contest, likely you will find nine out of every 10 persons could tell you.

Likewise, the same thing holds true for baseball and basketball. But stop a Midlander on the street and ask him about the MHS golf team.

Mr. Average Fan probably can't give you an answer.

Yet Audrey Gill's team is one of the finest in the entire state. It has won five meets in as many starts this year, all by large margins.

That same fan who'll tell you the third-string quarterback's name can't name a single golfer on the MHS squad, it's likely.

Consequently the kids on the golf squad fall to get the backing they should have. We'd like to take time out right now to salute Graham Mackey, Roane Puett, Johnny Ward, Marcelino Moreno, Teddy Kerr, Raymond Leggett, Doyle Patton and Buzz Bray. They are the boys who make up that golf team that is meeting with so much success.

Gill is of the opinion golf is the most trying of all games. He points out that absolute concentration is necessary on every shot.

"You have to forget everything but the ball," he relates.

"Show me another game where the spectators are deathly quiet in a critical moment," Gill continues. "In any other sport, the fans scream to high heaven. But on the course, when you step up to attempt an important shot, the silence can drive you crazy. But it's necessary 'for concentration,'" he finished.

Gloria Ezell is another Midlander who agrees that golf can be most upsetting.

Even though Gloria captured the Women's Invitational Tournament and the Women's Club Tournament at the Midland Country Club last year, she'll tell you golf isn't easy.

If you think it is, get out your clubs and take off for Ranchland Hill or Midland Country Club golf course.

Then you'll agree the MHS youngsters certainly deserve a hearty round of applause.

Little League Tryouts Continue

Big Jim Ferrier Sets Miami Pace

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. — (AP) — Big Jim Ferrier battled par, a stiff east wind and competitive pressure Saturday to latch on to a one-stroke lead in the $10,000 Miami Beach Open Golf Tournament.

The San Francisco veteran toured the Normandy Hole course in 70, two strokes under par, for a 54-hole count of 204.

Chuck Klein of San Antonio matched the course competitive record of 65 and climbed from eighteenth place to the runner-up spot at 206.

Stammin' Sammy Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had a par 72, which dropped him to a third place tie at 208.

Klein was one of the few golfers who didn't seem to mind the spanking breeze. The Texan missed a six-foot putt at the ninth that would have given him a competitive course record of 30. He carved another two strokes off par on the back nine to move into second place.

Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., and Al Besselin of Mt. Clemens, Mich., fired 69's to climb into a third place tie with Sneed. Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., also had a 69 to go into sixth place with a total of 207.

Georgia Gal Upsets Polly Riley In East Coast Women's Final
ST. AUGUSTINE, FLA. — (AP) — Smooth-swinging Mary Lena Fulk of Thomasville, Ga., won the Florida East Coast Women's Golf Tournament Saturday by upsetting Polly Riley of Fort Worth one-up.

For Miss Fulk it was the first major victory outside her native state.

For Miss Riley it was a big disappointment. She won at Palm Beach and Ormond Beach during the winter tournament swing, and was shooting for her third victory since 1948 in the East Coast event.

The Texas lass rallied to square the match after going two down on the fifteenth. She sank a 18-foot putt for a deuce and a win of the short sixteenth green. Then she won the seventeenth when Miss Fulk trapped her second shot and took five strokes to get down.

Victory came to the Georgian on the final hole. She found the edge of the carpet with her second shot and sank a three-footer for a birdie four.

12—THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, MARCH 11, 1951

MHS Golf Squad Gets Double Win

Audrey Gill's MHS golf team continued to clean up all competition over the weekend, slamming Abilene golfers here Saturday and defeating Lubbock Friday afternoon in Lubbock.

The Midland linksters shut out the visiting Abilene team, winning 27-0 in point totals. Lubbock was defeated 24-4.

Teddy Kerr led the Midland team with a 74 score at Lubbock. Cold weather and bad playing conditions prevented the golfers from posting good scores for the most part. Roane Puett was the only Midlander to lose. Marcelino Moreno was forced to settle for a half with Lubbock Captain Hale, who shot a hole-in-one on the seventeenth hole. Midland boys winning were Graham Mackey, Johnny Ward, Raymond Leggett, Doyle Patton, Buzz Bray and Kerr. Leggett Leads Leggett turned in a beautiful game against Abilene Saturday, winning 10 and 8 and shooting a low 70. His opponent was Abilene's Bob Olds.

Other results, Midland scores given:

- Mackey (78) defeated Kennedy 3 and 2.
- Puett (75) defeated Burns 5 and 4.
- Ward (76) took Bowden 6 and 5.
- Moreno (76) ousted Davis 6 and 5.
- Kerr (75) defeated Wright 6 and 5.

The double-win gave the Midland team a record of five wins and no defeats in golf matches played this year.

Layne, TKO Winner Over Chicago Negro, Eyes Shot At Title

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rugged Rex Layne Saturday set his sights on either Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles or undefeated Rocky Marciano. No matter who he gets, don't sell him short.

The so-called "smart guys" sold him short Friday night and they're still paying off as the result of Layne's sensational technical knockout victory over Belting Bob Satterfield in 2:36 of the eighth round of a Madison Square Garden 10-rounder.

He sampled some of Bob's block-busting rights, went down for eight in the first round, and then came back to wreck Satterfield with a barrage of his own righthand wallops.

Utah's pride and joy, undefeated in a year and ranked fourth in the NBA rankings, was made the 9 to 5 underdog against the Chicago negro, rated one of the hardest hitters in the ring today.

Reluctant Patient Pays $25 Extra For Finger Bandage

A 25-year-old Midland man had to pay an extra $25 Friday night to get his finger bandaged.

The man was brought to Western Clinic-Hospital to have his finger treated after he had cut it on a broken glass while drinking.

He didn't like the idea of having it treated, though, police reported, and created such a disturbance they had to arrest him.

Saturday morning, he pleaded guilty before City Judge J. M. DeArmond in Corporation Court to charges of disturbing the peace and was fined $25.

"The hospital is no place for loud cursing and other disturbances," Judge DeArmond told him. "There are sick people there and they need peace and quiet."

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures

What's the matter with American girls—on the romantic scene, that is? Why do some of their sweethearts marry girls across the sea? So many girls are concerned about this problem and the man shortage, that I asked my correspondent Hal Boyle, recently back from Korea, what in his estimation foreign girls have that American girls do not have.

Mr. Boyle's answer is simple. Says he: "Japanese and French girls, in particular, are more feminine than the average American girl. They are modest and charming and learn how to build a guy up. American boys love it."

What does Boyle mean by "building a guy up"? He defines it as that certain something which makes a fellow feel important, permitting him to make a few decisions—a privilege he is not always accorded by American women, he says. Abroad he is not likely to be led around "by the nose" as he is in this country.

So there you have it in a nutshell, girls. The boys want a pat on the back, not occasionally, but pretty darn often. And if that's what they want—well, why not? The little girls in Japan, in particular, impress our boys with their courtesy and willingness to please them. Some boys tell us they are embarrassed by all this sudden affection.

One could point out that 18,000,000 working women in this country not only grease the wheels of industry, but the family bankroll as well, not to mention assuming all the household and nursery chores. They probably are just about as feminine as might be expected after daily hours in the man's world. If the poor husband must seek his own dropped collar buttons or draw his own bath water, he is put upon, indeed.

But if he wants femininity, give it to him. You don't have to put him on a leash and stroke his brow every few seconds to make a pet out of him. Rustle up some of those superlatives you use to describe next season's fashions. For instance:

1. If you know more than he does about a particular thing, don't let him know it. Treat him to the "wonderful," "marvelous," "terrific," "stupendous" routine, even if you don't share his viewpoint.
2. Make him feel like he's big-man-on-campus even if he's low-man-on-school-thermometer.
3. Be awed by money. Act as if you'd never seen it before, and don't tell him how to spend it.
4. Make a big thing over presents (if you get any). Don't say, "Do you mind if I exchange it for..."
5. When and if he proposes, do not mention that you'd like to continue working to help out with the family exchequer.
6. It is a good idea not to appear too healthy if you're adopting this new feminine viewpoint. Cancel dates occasionally because you have the vapors or ague or some such.
7. If you should play tennis or golf with him, let him win by a big healthy margin, and of course ask him to suggest a few pointers on how you can improve your game.

Mr. Boyle points out, however, that a very small percentage of American boys do not come back to their sweethearts, and a few get fooled settling for second-best. Take the American author, who shall be nameless, who married a Japanese girl, and even became a Japanese citizen. Mr. Boyle says that rumor has it that he's the most hen-pecked man in Japan.

Mrs. Jimmy Carter Gives Demonstration

Mrs. Jimmy Carter gave a demonstration of sewing machine attachments at the Terminal Home-Making Study Group meeting Thursday. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. T. McElligott. The next meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. N. E. VanFossan. A demonstration on short cuts in cooking will be given.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. J. V. Gunn, Mrs. Bob McGregor, Mrs. F. Z. Barrett, Mrs. J. L. Taylor, Mrs. VanFossan and Mrs. J. E. Matlock.

prints, surrahs, taffetas and shantung, is a big, happy revival in dresses.

The trumpet line leads dress silhouettes this Spring. It's used in many variations on the one theme: center-front trumpet, one-side trumpet and back trumpet. But the tunic is important, too, and so are diagonal and oblique lines.

The costume, a dress with its own jacket or coat, is coming up in importance. Frequently, the tie-in comes through dress fabric which is matched to coat or jacket lining.

Eisenberg uses pure silk surrah in grey, speckled with tiny yellow dots, for a classic Spring coat dress. The skirt flares gently; the bodice is tucked. A yellow kid belt encircles the waist. Pearl buttons are used for the front closing, from neck to hemline.

Pure silk for spring is interpreted by Eisenberg in these designs. Pure silk surrah in grey with tiny yellow dots fashions a coat dress (left) with gently flared skirt, tucked bodice, three-quarter sleeves. A dress with straight wrap-around skirt (above) is in pink silk surrah with black dots. Its overlap bodice fitted, its wing collar notched. The belt is in shiny black patent leather.

Silk surrah appears again in another dress from this same designer. This time, it's pink dotted in black. A straight wrap-around skirt has jet button closing and is topped by an overlap fitted bodice. The wing collar is notched and sleeves are smartly short. The dress is belted in black patent.

Baker To Direct Music For Church

STANTON—A. Ray Baker, senior music student at Hardin-Simmons University, will become music director of the First Baptist Church of Stanton starting Easter Sunday. Baker is a native of Missouri and a graduate of an institute of music at Philadelphia. He was a student at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, before enrolling at Hardin-Simmons.

He will direct all musical activities of the Stanton church which is planning a week-long series of services starting on Easter Sunday.

ices, is being conducted in Midland by the Children's Service League. The drive, which began in February, will extend through March 23. Of the funds raised, 50 per cent will remain here for the use of Midland's handicapped children and 40 per cent will go into the state fund. Should the city fund be exhausted, handicapped Midlanders could obtain aid from the state fund.

The 1951 Easter Seal girl is four-year-old Brett Downes, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Eber V. Downes, Jr. of Hampton, Va. The young "pin-up" girl, a victim of cerebral palsy, has had her picture published this month in newspapers and national magazines and has appeared on television and in the movies with star, Ruth Roman.

Brett receives treatment at the cerebral palsy center operated jointly by the Medical College of Virginia and the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults at Richmond. Although cerebral palsy can never be completely cured, Brett's prospects for a normal adult life are very good, according to the doctors. Through the prescribed treatment she is learning to minimize her handicap.

The money from this year's Easter Seal campaign will be used to help more and more handicapped children like Brett back to normal ways of life. Easter seal funds are used for handicapped children, regardless of race or color. Donations should be sent to Mrs. Allen Leeper, 1808 West Texas Street.

Community Theater To Give Patrick's 'The Hasty Heart'

It was at an ambulance depot in the Syrian desert where he was stationed with the American Field Service in World War II that John Patrick met the lonely embittered Scottish sergeant who later was to serve the playwright as a model for Sergeant Lachlen MacLachlen, the central character in Patrick's comedy-drama, "The Hasty Heart," which will open at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the City-County Auditorium as a presentation of the Community Theater.

Patrick, who was then a sergeant himself in an ambulance unit attached to British forces, noticed the Scottish soldier was awkward and uncomfortable with others, that he seemed very lonely, but that he was antagonistic to all overtures of friendship. He would eat hurriedly, pay no heed to those around him, and depart from the mess hall before anyone could draw him into conversation.

Having watched the Scot's mess hall performance for several days, Patrick finally asked him if he didn't think it dangerous to bolt down his food at every meal. The Scotsman looked Patrick in the eye just long enough to inform him that his table manners were his own business.

Seeing that the Scot was trying to hide his desperate need for friendship behind a mask of fierce pride and insolent antagonism, Patrick continued to be sympathetic and patient with him and slowly won the embittered man's friendship. In fact, the two became such good buddies that when Patrick became ill with malaria, the Scot violated regulations to smuggle in some quinine from the Free French Forces for him. The result was that the Scot was promptly court-martialed, broken to the grade of private and transferred.

Begins Play
The American never saw him again but he thought of him often. He still was thinking about him when, a year and a half later, he lay in a British hospital in Burma, recuperating from a recurrence of malaria. The hospital room, with its wide range of nationalities and accents, struck him as a perfect setting for a play. And the Scottish sergeant whose friendship had been won so hard, seemed to him a perfect central character for that play.

After leaving the hospital and returning to active duty, Patrick had little opportunity to get his ideas for the play down on paper. In Cairo, some months later, the author managed to make a few notes, but these were stolen from him. Finally, aboard ship returning to the states, he completed the first draft of "The Hasty Heart."

The play was a success and after 204 performances in New York it was taken on a country-wide tour and later was given in London.

In the Community Theater's presentation Charles Dixon will be seen as the lonely Scottish soldier. Others in the play will be Fred Reiter as the orderly, Howard Davis, Yank; Jim Newman, Digger; Lew Hoey, Kiwi; John R. Davis, Blossom; C. G. Cooper, Tommy; Virginia Dunagan, Margaret, and Wally Jackson, Colonel.

Tackle Spring Beauty Brush-Up

This young woman swings into spring, using brushes and elbow grease as aids in her beauty re-conditioning. A clothes brush (left) keeps new spring suit fresh and jaunty, is applied with special care to dust-catchers such as pockets. Winter-dry skin is flaked off knees with palm brush (center); complexion is made smooth and glowing by shaving brush and cream soap.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

When scattered warm days begin hinting of Spring, many women turn their thinking to scrub-brushes and vacuum tools, quite forgetting that a personal overhauling is as much in order at this time of year as an annual housecleaning.

To get in the swing of Spring, first size up your problems and then pitch in. You'll find good brushes and generously applied elbow grease among your best tools.

Tackle your beauty brush-up with the same thoroughness that you apply to your Spring cleaning. You can't overcome Winter's ravages with spotty, hit-or-miss methods.

Your face is a good place to begin. The dull and flaky look that results from exposure to steam heat, chapping winds and chilling cold is easily banished with a shaving brush—the same kind that the man of the house uses to lather his whiskers.

Your routine is slightly different. Dip your shaving brush into warm water; then whisk it across a cake of rich-lathering cold cream soap. Next, using a rotary motion, work the lather into your skin. Pay strict attention to the areas around your chin and nostrils, which offer hiding places for dirt. A soft badger-bristled shaving brush is best for this.

After your face is thoroughly stimulated from the brushing, allow a few moments for the creamy suds to soften and smooth your complexion. Then rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, and finally with an invigorating splash of cold water.

Give your back and shoulders the same treatment at bath time, scrubbing that hard-to-reach spot between your shoulder blades with a long-handled flesh brush. Lack of care here can result in unsightly blemishes which show conspicuously through thin Spring blouses.

Follow up your back brushing with massage, using rich hand lotion or lanolin hand cream.

The next spots for attention are elbows, knees and heels. The horny layers of skin that accumulate on these friction areas can be smoothed down with a little concentrated brushing.

An excellent tool for this purpose is a small, round palm brush, which is held cupped in your hand like a cake of soap. Its bristles are sufficiently stiff to loosen dead, dry skin as you brush.

No beauty recondition is complete without hair brushing. One hundred strokes each night will work wonders in restoring gloss and highlights to Winter-neglected tresses.

Don't conclude your brush-up program the day you pack your Winter coat in moth balls. To retain the beauty you've gained continue using the tricks you've learned.

If you're to have a handbox appearance throughout the Spring it's particularly important to remember to brush your clothes each time you go out, paying special attention to neglected crevices like pockets and cuffs.

Reindeer meat is a staple food of Northlanders.

The MATURE PARENT

Children Need Reminding Parents Can't Be Perfect

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Sooner or later, our children will discover we do not always practice what we preach. When they do, we should not retire from authority, with our faces red and our confidence shattered.

Youngsters should be put straight when they attempt to use our failings to evade facing and correcting their own. Efforts to force us to overlook their mistakes by reminding us of ours are tactical devices that rout only the unwary or insecure father and mother.

When our youngsters demand a "good example" from us, they need reminding that we are, alas, fallible human creatures who have no pretensions to perfection. This tends to disarm them of their hump-tiousness and gives us the chance to point out that we are making a pretty sincere and consistent struggle to do our best with ourselves.

A father I know couldn't fathom why his son seemed defeatist in school. One day in a heart-to-heart talk, young Bob blurted out that he would never be "worth a darn" because he hadn't his father's ambition and ability.

Bob, Sr., laughed with relief. "That's what you think," he told his son. "All my life I've had to struggle to get up enough energy to do my job. I had trouble staying in college. I've made more than my share of bonehead plays."

"Sure I've achieved something you'd call success. But not by being smarter or more immune from natural laziness than other people."

Mrs. J. B. McCoy Entertains Club

The evening group of the Star Study Club studied the club constitution and ritual Thursday when it met in the home of Mrs. J. B. McCoy, 1405 West Illinois Street.

Members present were Mrs. Paul Bowman, Mrs. R. E. Baker, Mrs. Roy Jones, Mrs. H. B. McNeil, Mrs. Roy Gardner, Vera McLeRoy, Mrs. Leo Baldrige, Mrs. Fred Wyoff and Mrs. Earl B. Newland.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Roy Jones, 1604 West Tennessee Street.

Getting right down to it I guess the difference was just that I kept on plugging away and correcting my mistakes."

Father Bob then gave his son a piece of sound advice: "Never be afraid of mistakes. We learn by our errors. People who never make mistakes don't have as many opportunities as we more human folks do."

This confession did a world of good for young Bob's morale. It broke down a barrier between Bob and his Dad and between Bob and real achievement.

Family leadership, like other leadership, is not gained by self-righteous assumption of freedom from human error.

Recall for yourself examples of leadership that have impressed you. Pretty generally you will find that your trust is given to the man who recalls the progress that has been made when he inspires us to make more progress.

JACOBY on Canasta

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

As experienced canasta players all know by this time, new laws have just been issued for the game of canasta. When the laws were being prepared by the South American commission and the American commission, there was general agreement on most points. However, each commission had its own pet laws that wanted to be adopted in the new code. For example, the new rule about black threes was adopted mostly to please the South Americans.

According to the new laws, you are never allowed to use a wild card with black threes. The only possible melds are three black threes. Naturally, there is no such thing as a canasta of black threes.

Until now, American players have been allowed to meld out with two black threes and a wild card. From now on that is not a legal meld.

The other change applies when the dealer turns up a black three at the beginning of the hand (before any play has been made). When this occurs, the dealer must turn up another card to cover that black three.

As every experienced canasta player knows, the dealer is automatically obliged to turn up an additional card to cover a red three or a wild card. From now on he must also cover a black three. The only difference is that the black three does not freeze the discard pile, whereas a red three or a wild card would.

For example, suppose the dealer deals 11 cards to each player and then turns up a black three. The discard pile is not frozen, but he must turn up another card to cover the black three. If the next card happens to be a red three or a wild card, he must continue to turn up cards. Now, however, the discard pile is frozen.

Incidentally, many readers have asked me if it is permissible to make a discard at the same time that they meld out with black threes. The answer is "Yes."

You are allowed to make a meld of black threes only if you are melding out on that very play. At that time, the rules permit you to discard or not to discard—exactly as you please.

For example, suppose your side has a canasta and you hold two black threes and a king. You draw another black three from the stock pile. At this point you put the three black threes down on the table and meld out. If the king is an unmeldable card, you may discard it. If the king is meldable you may add it to a previous meld of kings made by you. Either way of melding out is perfectly correct.

Let's List Some Things We Ought To Keep In Mind

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Lets face it—A woman's talent for turning on the tears is one talent that becomes less and less effective the more it is practiced on the same man.

No woman can say "I have been a good wife" or "I have been a good mother." Only her husband and children should make those statements.

Maturity has its compensations. But, being elected president of a woman's club isn't as sweet a sensation as being the most cut-in-on girl at a spring dance.

When a husband who used to say "You're cute" starts telling you that you're a wonderful cook, it's hard to act as pleased as he means you to be.

It never is a good idea to go shopping with another woman unless you are prepared to buy something you aren't counting on. For two women on a shopping spree egg each other on in order to ease their own consciences.

The time to consider whether Junior's teacher is as cranky as he claims is after he has been out of school two weeks with mumps or measles. Nothing makes Mama more tolerant of teacher than that kind of experience.

The Weaker Sex

We say children mind their fathers better than their mothers because mothers are with them all day long. But there's still the fact that when Dad says "No" he means "No" and when Mama says "No" she means "No, if you don't tease until I weaken."

If we housewives took more pride in the job of homemaking, husbands would have a higher regard for it, too. After all, we're the ones who start the phrase "Just a housewife." And we're the ones who tell our husbands how dull and uninteresting housework is.

Sailcloth Is Unfurled By Warm Winds For Use As Rough And Tough Beachwear

By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Staff Writer
NEW YORK—It seems only fitting that sailcloth should be used by designers for beach wear. Sturdy top sail, accustomed to rough wear, can take it. Further, it's a fabric that tailors neatly and seems somehow at home with seaweed and sand.

Navy top sail teams naturally with white elasticized cotton (left) in a well-made beach ensemble by American Sportswear. A sleeveless jacket buttons to the waist, has waistband inserts of the fruited cotton for perfect fit.

The elasticized cotton is set in above patch pockets of the trim skirt, again to insure a smooth fit at the waist. Skirt and jacket come off to reveal a boned bra and matching shorts with a very fetching knit insert. Plaid gingham and sailcloth are combined in a three-piece beach ensemble (right) in red and blue. A short, slim coat of blue top sail has red plaid revers. It ties casually with a set-in self belt.

The fitted bra worn under the coat is shirred and tied. Straight sarong shorts are draped across the back, are smooth in front.

Austrian Musical Troupe Delights Audience Here

Thirty Austrian students and teachers turned the Midland High School auditorium into a Viennese evening garden Friday night, in an evening of unique entertainment. The Austrian good-will tour, brought here by the Midland Junior Chamber-of-Commerce, was a huge success as the captivating Austrians captured the hearts and fancy of delighted Midlanders.

The plot of the two-hour musical simply was a love story that went through four seasons of the year before ending happily in a typical peasant wedding. But the quaint and colorful costumes worn by the Austrians, and their folk songs and dances made the plot secondary.

The hit of the show was Karl Zahabberger, harp and singer, who played tunes of his own composition, as well as popular Austrian songs. Yronika Stoeckl was splendid in her role as the milk-maid and drew hearty rounds of applause for her singing and yodeling. Dr. Susanne Polsterer, blonde and beautiful mistress-of-ceremonies, portrayed the part of successful Susi who captured the heart of Pepl, played by Josef Ortner.

Diplomatic Victory
But as much as Midlanders enjoyed the "Visitors from Vienna" show, it was in an informal way that the visitors scored a diplomatic victory. They were eager to please and anxious to learn as much as possible about Midland and its way of life.

JayCee President Art Joseph led the Austrian party on a tour of Midland oil fields Friday afternoon. The guests expressed amazement when told a well they were visiting had been drilled past 9,000 feet. The crew on the well explained the working of the machinery to the interested students, who snapped photographs of everything in sight.

Earlier in the afternoon, the group had rehearsed at the recreation hall in the Midland fire station and took delight in inspecting the equipment and sliding down the fire pole.

Dr. Polsterer, eager to learn all about the United States, busied herself throughout the afternoon with a map outlining the forty-eight states. She attempted—with great success—to fill in the names of the states in the proper places.

Mrs. Lancaster Entertains
At the home of Mrs. N. A. Lancaster, 1705 West Indiana Street, the Austrian group gathered after the performance and surprised Midlanders present by performing such "American songs as "The Thing," "Tennessee Waltz" and many others.

Zither-playing Karl Zahabberger—who performed the "Third March" no less than a dozen times at the request of his enchanted listeners—said he is called upon to play the song at least a dozen times in every American city.

Col. Milan N. Plavsic, director of Midland's department of public safety, presented the Austrians with honorary police commissions at the performance Friday night, and Joseph presented a western-type tie clasp to Dr. Oskar Bock, lecturer at the University of Vienna. Dr. Polsterer received a set of western-type ear rings from Joseph, who presented the gifts for the Midland JayCees.

The non-profit goodwill tour is sponsored by the Austrian government. The troupe travels in six carroulons by a national motor company. They perform in a different city each day.

Maybe You Saw It Differently, But Here's GI Who Saw Red Cross While He Was In Service

A lot of you fellows, ex-servicemen, may see it differently from me. That is your privilege certainly.

We contributed to the Red Cross. We did so because we saw what the Red Cross does—in war and in peace.

We grant that an ex-serviceman's experience with the Red Cross is known by him and him alone. That is why we speak only for ourself.

We have heard the pro and con in Midland from both sides. We never tried to tell anybody. We aren't now.

For several reasons and they are all personal, we will join the Red Cross every year with what little money we can give.

One of these reasons is to repay for a cup of coffee and a glass of milk.

Those may seem small items but at the time they were very big, believe us.

Coffee And Milk
The cup of coffee was handed to us in Scotland. We had alighted from the big boat that took us overseas and we stood in the rain about four hours waiting for a train to transport us to a base in England.

The glass of milk was handed to us two years later when we got off a boat at New York—coming home from Europe and the war.

The Red Cross did the handing in both cases.

In between the cup of coffee and glass of milk, here is what we saw the Red Cross do:

It gave each man on the boat going over a kit. In this were playing cards, cigarettes, a book and "housewife" (sewing kit).

At our base in England and later in Germany, the Red Cross staffed and kept going an "Aero Club" for enlisted men. This club provided snacks, games, dancing, library facilities, and even clothes-patching done by volunteer women. Always with our group overseas, there were from one to three paid Red Cross workers.

Not only that, once or twice weekly, the Red Cross came to our base with a big "clubmobile." This was a big truck with a comfortable lounge where a guy could come in and get a cup of coffee and a doughnut while American records were played. This served the boys on the line, the cold and sometimes hungry GI's. It wasn't an officers' club proposition.

Nor did it just park at headquarters. It went to the boys.

Not Civilian Prices
When we went on pass to London, the Red Cross provided a place to sleep and eat. Yes, you paid a small fee for the service. But you didn't pay the high prices you would have had to pay at civilian hotels.

The Red Cross at our base relayed messages home for the GI's in cases of illness, death and emergency. We know a lot of boys who found out through the Red Cross they had a new son or daughter—many days before that important letter could get there.

We have heard a lot of ex-GI's in Midland say: "I never even saw the Red Cross."
Well, we did.—(T. L.)

The Big Grab

One of a series exposing the Federal Government's confiscation of the oil-rich Tidelands
(Copyright, 1951, The Dallas Morning News)

By ALLEN DUCKWORTH

There was a bit of talk around Texas a few years ago about the actions of Attorney General Price Daniel.

Why, asked some, was the attorney general of Texas spending so much of his time worrying about a California lawsuit?

What difference did it make to Texas if the Federal Government confiscated California's offshore oil lands?

After all, wasn't Texas secure? Didn't Texas have a special agreement with the Federal Government that gave it the right to keep all its un-sold lands after joining the union?

Attorney General Daniel wasn't so sure the "Big Grab" crowd would respect that title.

Neither was Gov. Beauford Jester.

As things have panned out, Attorney General Daniel was as right as a fox with a crystal ball.

The "Big Grab" plotters in Washington were using the strategy of divide and conquer. They weren't going after all the states at once. First, they would pick off California, apparently the weak-stater. Then they would use a Supreme Court opinion in the California case to slick Texas and Louisiana. And then, who knows?

The Critical Gobble

Daniel helped California defend its lawsuit because he was dead sure that the divide-and-conquer scheme would hit Texas eventually. He argued on behalf of the National Association of Attorneys General who appeared as amicus curiae ("friend of the court").

Aided by Governor Jester, Daniel tried to line up nationwide sentiment against this obvious creeping paralysis of super-federal powers. Congress tried to help with a resolution that the states had full ownership, but President Truman slapped it down with a veto. The "Big Grab" was stretching for the critical gobble and wasn't to be trifled with.

Even while Daniel worked in the California case, efforts were made to lull him and Texans generally.

After arguing for the State Attorneys General in the California case, Daniel got a friendly pat on the back from Attorney General Tom Clark, who had presented the federal side. Said Clark:

"Well, you've had a nice trip up here, but that's all it amounts to. Texas is different from California and will never be sued. I have just handed the press a written statement to that effect."

Many a Texan read with relief that written statement by Texas-born Tom Clark. It was the lawsuit "involves only the area off the coast of California." In that statement prepared for Clark, the Justice Department said:

"When asked regarding his native State of Texas, the Attorney General (Clark) pointed out that Texas had been an independent nation, a republic, for 10 years before joining the union. As a republic it owned all of the lands within its boundaries, including the marginal sea commonly called 'Tidelands.' This area similar to that involved in the California case extended into the Gulf of Mexico and was under the sovereignty of Texas all during the republic and was retained by it under the provisions of the Act of Admission."

The Attorney General Clark stated quite plainly that Texas retained those lands.

It was convincing enough for many Texans.

(Months later, in a congressional hearing, Clark told Rep. Ed Gossett that "I still feel that Texas has special rights" but added that Texas could plead those "special defenses" in court.)

After following the "Big Grab" strategy under the direction of "Honest Harold" Ickes, Daniel knew pretty much what to expect. When the California opinion by Justice Black was read, Daniel and Jester were more apprehensive than ever.

New Philosophy

Lawyer Daniel and Lawyer Jester read the opinion more carefully than the average layman.

The language did far more than take control of thousands of acres of off-shore lands in California.

An entirely new philosophy of government seemed to have been set up—not by revolution, nor by act of Congress, but by ukase of the Supreme Court.

Said Justice Black:

"The crucial question . . . is not merely who owns the bare legal title to the lands . . . The United States here asserts rights in two capacities transcending those of a mere property owner . . . Many a great lawyer gasped and reread those words."

"Bare legal title . . . mere property owner . . ."

The opinion went on with talk about how the Federal Government had to protect the coast in time of war as an argument for owning the coastal lands.

It took only a reading of Justice Reed's dissent to realize how this opinion of the court might be extended to other property.

Powers of Protection

Yes, admitted Reed, the United States had certain powers of protection over the coasts, just as it had over every river, farm, mine and factory of the nation.

Could Reed have been hinting at the possible projection to other property of this theory expressed by the majority?

Commented Governor Jester in a how he did a complete about face after stating flatly that it was a matter of "settled law" that the states owned their submerged lands. We have shown how President Truman refused to let Congress act in favor of the states.

Iron-Clad Defense

After winning its Supreme Court lawsuit against California, the federal prosecutors turned to Texas.

Unlike California, Texas had an iron-clad defense. The United States told Texas to keep its un-sold lands when it joined the union in return for payment of its public debts. Texas was the only state ever to do that. The agreement was in writing.

When the lawsuit was filed, the Texas Attorney General—Price Daniel—said only Congress, not the court, had the authority to act.

"Congress made the agreement and has recognized it for more than 100 years. This court should not permit the Attorney General to sue without permission of Congress," Daniel argued.

But, he added, if there was going to be a lawsuit, why not have a full one, so that evidence might be heard?

Those weren't Daniel's words. He put them in lawyer language for the court. But that's what it amounted to.

Daniel was asking for Texas only what the most humble citizen can demand and get.

No Testimony—Period

Daniel wanted to try the case before a district court or a master assigned to hear evidence. He wanted a chance to present evidence of Texas' ownership and use of those lands. Then, if the Federal Government didn't like the verdict, it could appeal—clear up to the Supreme Court—if it desired.

Nope. Those federal prosecutors didn't want any testimony—period.

So, the court ordered Texas to the bar.

Texas couldn't prepare its brief in reply to federal claims until it examined the federal charges.

Daniel was forced to wait seveny-seven days before the federal brief was delivered to him.

Texas was given only twenty-seven days to prepare, print and file its brief.

The Federal Government raised points that would require Texas to restate and revise its entire argument.

"A physically impossible task," the scrappy little Texas Attorney General protested to the court, in vain.

27 Days To Answer

Even time was used against Texas in that rush to grab the off-shore oil lands—lands Texas had owned since winning its independence at San Jacinto.

Seventy-seven days for the prosecution.

Twenty-seven days for Texas! Daniel and his assistants huddled up in an Austin hotel room and worked days and nights against the deadline. Crews of printers labored overtime. When Daniel entrained last March for Washington, the ink wasn't dry on the hastily prepared and printed brief copies. His own copy hadn't been bound.

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general, presented the federal case.

Perlman admitted that the annexation agreement gave Texas public lands, but he insisted that the seaward lands were not lands in the same sense.

Asked Justice Minton, who later voted to uphold the Texas claim: "Was it not land that was under the water? There was not anything else."

Two Hours To Argue

They gave Attorney General Price Daniel two hours to argue the Texas case that day in March, last year. Defenses for common criminals usually last longer in plain county courtrooms. But that was all—two hours—that the Supreme Court allowed Texas for argument over two million and a half acres of lands whose oil lease incomes help educate the kids of Texas.

Three months later—last June—the famous "minority" opinion came in against Texas. There are

Old Man Texas Given Bum's Rush

Old Man Texas was hustled in and out of the Supreme Court of the United States.

When the bum's rush was over, Old Man Texas found himself much poorer. The court said he must give up 3,000,000 acres of land he had owned more than a century.

His experiences in the long-range "Big Grab" scheme that was hatched in Washington is a warning to every state and every citizen of the dangerous possibilities in the Supreme Court's decision.

What happened to Old Man Texas, in losing those 2,000,000 acres of off-shore oil lands could happen to inland states, he believes, if the theory of nationalization is extended.

Old Man Texas says to the other states who haven't been sued yet, to industries and to all property owners:

"Pull up a chair and listen to me, pardner. You may be next."

One has only to look over at once Merry Ol' England, where nationalization of most everything the government decides it wants "for public welfare" has progressed since the close of the last war, to understand what Old Man Texas is talking about.

Mere Property Owners

The submerged oil lands of California were first on the nationalization list over here. Then it was Texas and Louisiana.

What next? The shores of the Great Lakes of the northern states? Seizure of rivers and creeks and lakes from inland states?

Basic industries from the hands of private owners?

Far fetched?

Old Man Texas merely quotes the exact words of Justice Hugo Black in the first Tidelands seizure opinion. Black used the phrases "bare title" and "mere property owner" in brushing aside the state's objections and allowing the valuable oil lands just because the government said it was necessary.

Incidentally, no one in the Federal Government has proven yet that it can manage the oil lands better than the states. And the states have shown, up to now, that they can get more out of the big oil companies than can the Federal Government.

Projecting this theory expressed by the Supreme Court, the Federal Government could seize anything by merely saying it was necessary.

Refused Court Trial

A shameful angle is the manner in which Old Man Texas was handled in court. Here is the record: Old Man Texas was refused a district court trial.

Old Man Texas was refused the right to present evidence.

Old Man Texas wasn't allowed near as much time to prepare his defenses as was Uncle Sam, who had gone on a bureaucratic binge and was suing Old Man Texas.

Old Man Texas didn't even have the benefit of having a majority of the court ruling against him.

The treatment given Old Man Texas was pretty rough in the Supreme Court, from his viewpoint. But in the light of the whole history of the "Big Grab" it was consistent with the federal strategy.

We already have shown, in previous stories of this series, how "Honest Harold" Ickes, as Secretary of the Interior, made the first reach of the "Big Grab." We have shown

Midland Man Attached To Unique Air Force Group

Second Lt. William C. Upham of Midland has been named assistant projects officer of one of the Air Force's unique organizations.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Upham, 510 North Big Spring Street, he has been assigned to the 1850th AACOS Mobile Communications Squadron at the Tinker Air Force Base near Oklahoma City.

Serving in both the European and Pacific theaters during World War II, Lieutenant Upham was commissioned recently after being an enlisted man nine years.

The squadron to which he is attached is the only organization of its type in existence. It is made up of special communications teams which can move in a minimum of time to any destination.

Lieutenant Upham is a graduate of Midland High School and he and his wife now reside at Midwest City near the air base.

A sharp upswing in applications for Army Officer Candidate School has occurred since the first of the year throughout Texas, officials of the Southwestern Recruiting District of the U. S. Army and Air Force has announced.

Eligible for Army Officer Candidate School are men and women with high school education, between the ages of 19 and 28, U. S. citizens and in good physical condition.

Accepted applicants are enlisted as private and initially assigned to a basic training center. Upon completion of basic training, they are designated officer candidates with a base pay of $11.90 per month.

After completing 14 weeks of basic training with the Fifth Armored Division at Camp Chaffee, Ark., Pvt. Thomas G. Landwehdner has been transferred to the 700 First Army Service Unit at Fort Meyer, Va.

Son of Mrs. Gladys Landwehdner of Terrell, he was employed by an engineering company in Midland prior to his induction and lived at 610 North Main Street.

Pvt. Lowell G. Osborn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Glenn of Snyder, formerly of Crane, has been transferred to the Field Artillery Replacement Training Center at Fort Sill, Okla. He received his basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

The telephone at the home of Mrs. Willie Sanders, 511 East Ohio Street, rang Tuesday night to bring a thrill to her entire family.

It was from Japan and on the other end of the line was her son, Cpl. Howard Sanders, who has been in the thick of the fighting in Korea since it all started.

The soldier, a veteran of World War II, explained he had been returned to Japan for a minor operation and was getting home.

Corporal Sanders attended Carver High School in Midland.

Personnel and units reporting to Fort Sill are advised not to bring their families until adequate housing has been procured for them.

Maj. Gen. A. M. Harper, commanding general of the Field Artillery Center, announced last week the housing situation in the Fort Sill area is critical and officers and men reporting there should arrange for quarters before bringing their families.

Lt. C. S. Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hunter, has been transferred from Fort Hood, Texas, to an officers engineering school at Fort Belvoir, Va., for a three-month period.

Harold M. Vestal, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Vestal, recently was promoted to the rank of technical sergeant at the Hamilton Air Force Base in California.

He is assigned with an Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron at Madera, Calif., as a radio repairman. His unit composes an important link in the radar defenses of the West Coast.

He enlisted in the Air Force in November, 1942, and when his bomber was downed over enemy territory, he was interned as a prisoner-of-war until the end of hostilities in 1945.

Chief John S. Sessions of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Office in San Angelo will visit Midland Monday to contact young men between the ages of 17 and 31 who are interested in enlistment in the U. S. Navy or in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He will be available between noon and 5 p. m. in the basement of the Post Office.

He Catches Up On Coffee Drinking

Jerry Monroe likes a good cup of coffee as much as the next man.

But right now—he's caught up! Monroe Friday visited nine Midland firms which are serving free coffee in a Sunbeam advertising plan.

He drank coffee at each place. It was "so good."

Now he is a walking advertisement that the coffee is good all right.

But he just can't drink any more for a spell.

Midland, a coffee-drinking city if there ever was one, is taking advantage of the free java and toast offer of Wempie's, Beauchamps, Caffey Appliance, Kruger's, Cameron Drugs, Midland Hardware, Burton's Appliance, Midland Drug and Western Appliance.

The offer continues through March 22.

Sunbeam Coffeemasters and Sunbeam Toasters were kept very busy Friday—a cold and rainy day.

The general opinion, and a much talked about one, is that the sportsman of today is living in the tail end of an era and that his grandchildren will stalk nothing more wily than old tin cans and bottles.

Hunting, concludes this school of thought, is on its way out.

The sage of the lure counter, for instance, always will inform his audience that our game supply is becoming depleted, that population increases are crowding out wildlife, that plowed land is replacing our forests, and that the large number of hunters now taking the field will eventually wipe out every vestige of the oldest sport.

That much-talked theory, accepted as it is by a lot of otherwise intelligent sportsmen, is essentially a lot of hooey. And it's dangerous.

In the first place, Americans just now are realizing what the word conservation means. That goes not only for wildlife, but for forest and water and soil.

Also, scientific farm procedures are producing more food on less acreage—not crowding out all game.

Actually, more and more land, worn out by years of farming, is being put back into pastureland. A few years of natural plant growth transform planted rows into game's natural habitat.

In other words, the outlook now is for more cover in the future, and more game in it. And for better hunting and fishing than we have today.

Game agencies over the nation are taking into consideration the largest number of hunters and fishermen ever to take the field—but they're also planning the biggest game crop ever helped to its feet by man.

It's a long-range proposition, this conservation, but it pays off. It pays off well enough that the sportsman of today, along with every one of his kids, has plenty to look forward to—and don't let any-one kid you otherwise.

School Improvement Project Announced By P-TA Congress

AUSTIN—A study of parent-teacher cooperation for school improvement will be a project sponsored jointly by the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Texas Association of Supervision and Curriculum Development, beginning in September.

"It is hoped from this study that techniques will be developed by which parents and teachers can work together profitably," said Donald McDonald, who has been elected as project coordinator. McDonald, assistant professor of elementary education in Texas Tech, now is on leave of absence to do graduate work at the University of Texas.

From eight to 10 schools will be chosen to engage in the project, each school to select some techniques of parent-teacher cooperation for intensive study and experimentation. No two schools will experiment with the same technique.

Representatives from each system will be brought together in Summer workshops to plan the program.

The following conditions must be met by participating schools:

- (1) agree to make this a major undertaking over a three-year period;
- (2) show that it has time and facilities for the experiment;
- (3) keep a careful and complete record;
- (4) agree to send and cover expenses of one faculty member and at least two P-TA members to a one-week workshop this Summer and next Summer, the time and place to be decided later.

Either the school, the P-TA or both may pay the expenses of sending delegates to the workshop.

Although In Prison, Writes For Job To Redeem Life; Self

A man who almost has paid his debt to society wants to redeem and rehabilitate himself—in Midland.

He is in prison now. Yes, that's correct. But his appeal to the Texas Employment Commission office here indicates he is "going straight," and is sincere in his desire to make something of his life—yet.

He is a man who got into trouble once in 35 years and almost has it paid for—he gets a parole April 1. He wants a job and wants it badly to prove his good resolve.

The 35-year-old man's wife is in Midland. She is anxious to help him. "I'll Get To Top"

"I don't expect to be put at the top of the ladder. All I ask is to put me on the bottom rung. I'll get to the top," writes the man.

"I will see that you never regret helping a guy get a new start in life," he added.

The man has held responsible jobs in the past. He lists work as a sales manager, tire and appliance manager, employment with a railroad and foreman in a shipyard during the war. He has studied management.

He invites a check of his prison conduct. "The Midland employer who gives this man a chance will be doing him a great service. That employer is apt to get a serious and conscientious employee," J. D. Bechtel of the TEC office said.

The U. S. Navy got its first submarine in 1900. It was the 63-ton 74 foot Holland, a tiny craft in comparison with present 1500-ton, 300-foot submarines.

Grandchildren Won't Be Without Game To Hunt, Says Observer

By BOB BRISTER

ATHENS, TEXAS (AP)—Loaf around some hunter and fisherman hangout for a couple of hours and somebody's a cinch to start a discussion on how tough things are getting.

The general opinion, and a much talked about one, is that the sportsman of today is living in the tail end of an era and that his grandchildren will stalk nothing more wily than old tin cans and bottles.

Hunting, concludes this school of thought, is on its way out.

The sage of the lure counter, for instance, always will inform his audience that our game supply is becoming depleted, that population increases are crowding out wildlife, that plowed land is replacing our forests, and that the large number of hunters now taking the field will eventually wipe out every vestige of the oldest sport.

That much-talked theory, accepted as it is by a lot of otherwise intelligent sportsmen, is essentially a lot of hooey. And it's dangerous.

Beginning To Build

In the first place, Americans just now are realizing what the word conservation means. That goes not only for wildlife, but for forest and water and soil.

Also, scientific farm procedures are producing more food on less acreage—not crowding out all game.

Actually, more and more land, worn out by years of farming, is being put back into pastureland. A few years of natural plant growth transform planted rows into game's natural habitat.

In other words, the outlook now is for more cover in the future, and more game in it. And for better hunting and fishing than we have today.

Experts Recommend Penetrating Seal As Finish On Oak Floors

Penetrating seal is fast becoming a preferred finish for oak and other hardwood floors, according to reports from floor finishing experts.
The material, which differs considerably from varnish and shellac, is gaining popular acceptance because of its resistance to chipping, scratching, spotting and ordinary wear. Instead of forming a surface coating on the wood, it penetrates the pores. In effect it becomes a part of the wood itself. Imparting a soft satiny sheen rather than a sharp glare, it brings out the full natural beauty of grain for which oak is famed.
One type of penetrating seal also eliminates the need for a wood filler on oak and other open grain woods. It is applied easily with a long-handled mop.
The raccoon gets its name from "arouhoun," its Indian name.

Greater Use Of Glass In House Design Forecast

A prize-winning New York architect says "the intelligent use of glass in a house provides a new approach to living, a concept of a home—not merely as a shelter—but as an opportunity to expand your shelter within the confines of a normal-sized building lot."
Architect Seymour R. Joseph says that in this respect "glass has virtually revolutionized design and planning for the architect." He foresees even greater use of glass to admit daylight and sunshine into American homes.
Joseph explained that the recently developed impact-resistant glass, as well as double pane insulating glass have helped to overcome shock damage and heat loss, two important factors which formerly limited the widespread use of glass in construction.
"Today more and more houses throughout the U.S. lift their faces to the sun through large picture windows and even an entire wall of glass," said Joseph.

SHADOW BOX—To "brighten the corner where you are," have a shadow box installed. It's a recess in the wall made by removing the plaster and possibly a portion of the stud. The one shown above brings to life a kitchen wall which otherwise would be drab. The hardboard border is covered with a prime coat of bright enamel. The plastered wall and shelves are painted to match the balance of the kitchen. Varied collections of plants, dishes and knickknacks make the kitchen shadow box an ever-attractive spot.

U. S. Homes Still Fare Best Even With Defense Curbs

All-out mobilization of America's industrial forces may curtail availability of many labor-saving devices for the housewife, but she'll still have more leisure, be freer from drudgery and more comfortable than any other woman in the world, says a prominent interior designer.
"The reason," explains H. Creston Doner, director of design for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, "is that America's production lines have turned out so much labor-saving equipment that even a complete curtailment would leave more of these devices in the American kitchen than most women elsewhere will ever enjoy."
The factor of high productivity also is reflected in lower costs, Doner pointed out, citing the fact that the price of glass for the home has advanced far less than many items because of increased plant efficiency and employe cooperation. Household items get the same break in buying other products, whether they are kitchen ranges or heating pads, where manufacturers have been astute enough to step up production, he said.

More Free Time
Some domestic science experts estimate that as a result of labor-saving devices modern housekeepers enjoy more than twice as much free time as their grandmothers.
"While scientists haven't been able to take all of the work out of housekeeping, they have put it pretty much on a pushbutton basis," said Doner. "And even though household appliances may become difficult to get, American women still are far ahead of the rest of the world."

Only one adult in five works on farms or produces food today, but, in Revolutionary times, nine of ten Americans worked at the job.

DANGEROUS JOB
Workers employed in filling radium needles for hospital use must take three months' vacation after working three months at the job, which is one of the most dangerous in the world.
REFUSE OVERPAYMENT
Porters who carry baggage from trains in Copenhagen work as a cooperative union with a small flat charge. They are the only porters known who return money when overpaid.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON— Texas House Members Keep Weather Eye On District Realignment

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Texas members of the House say little but think lots about realignment of the state's congressional districts.
Every member of the 21-man solidly Democratic House delegation is keeping a close ear and eye on the Texas Legislature.
How the state lawmakers revamp the districts will determine whether some of the present congressmen keep their jobs. It almost certainly will affect the political strength of a number of them.
Since it's the duty of the state legislators to make room for a 22nd Texas congressional district—gained through the 1950 census, the lawmakers here are keeping a discreet silence.
Knowing that no official group likes for another to trespass on its jurisdiction, the incumbent congressmen refrain from public utterances for fear that their views might backfire.
Would Like Changes
However, they would be happy to see a lot of changes in the chambers redistricting bill. That measure, among other things, likely would disturb some close friendships.
It would leave Rep. Olin E. (Tiger) Teague of College Station without a single county of his present 6th district. Some of the counties would go to Rep. Tom Pickett of Palestine, some to Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco, and one to Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson. And Rep. Lindley Beekworth would lose his home county of Upshur to the district of Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana.
If they had their way, the Texas congressmen probably would vote to give the 22nd congressman to Harris County and leave the other districts as they are with that exception. They point out that Harris County, with Houston, has about double the population of the average congressional district.
Unusual Tribute
An unusual tribute was placed in the Congressional Record by Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa.
"Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to June Green, who was called by her Maker on the twenty-first day of February, 1951," said the new Texas congressman.
"June was a member of the negro race and lived in Pampa, Texas. She had been employed in my household for several years, and her ministrations to my children in sickness and in health, her wholesome philosophy, and her sterling character provided my children with an understanding that will serve them well in treating the problems of life."
"The color of her skin did not dim the vision of those children nor detract their ability to see and appreciate the understanding, the tenderness, the kindness, and the sterling qualities of Christian character with which she was so richly endowed."
The armed forces have a lot of room to economize without impairing their efficiency, Rep. Ken Regan of Midland told the House.
An Army officer in both wars, Regan said he felt the military services could eliminate a lot of waste.
"It would appear that some of our procurement officers are again going hog-wild," he said. "For among other things, I am reliably advised there is a current requisition for bids to furnish 6,400,000, plus gallons of paint in one quart, one gallon, and five-gallon containers, to be delivered in 120 days."
"Can any man in the Army point out a possible need for all that paint for such immediate delivery?"

Doors Should Be Chosen And Fitted Carefully

By HENRY J. WINGATE
Nationally-Known
Architectural Engineer

Doors have one principal purpose—to provide a means of entrance and exit. In addition, they contribute to the design and decorative aspects of the house. Special care therefore should be exercised in choosing and fitting them.

Exterior doors require particular attention. They are an integral part of the facade and should be in complete harmony with the house design. A heavy, ornate door that is proper for an English Tudor house is completely out of place in a modern ranch house of simple lines.

That all exterior doors fit properly is especially important. If not, they admit cold air, causing drafts and heat loss. Since no door can be made to fit tightly at all points at all seasons of the year because of normal shrinkage and swelling of the wood under varying humidities, weatherstripping is required.

True Arch Square
A door is only as good as the frame in which it is hung. The frame must be true and square or the door will stick. Settling of the house often twists and warps frames slightly out of line, but the use of metal frames for both inside and outside doors will minimize this. It often is necessary to have a carpenter refit many of the doors in a new house after the first change of season.

There is an infinite choice of door design, but the solid flush-type door is preferred. It will resist fire much longer than the door with thin center panels, costs very little more, and for modern interiors with straight lines, simple doors without panels are appropriate.

Door Hardware
Door hardware is important and the small added expense of top-quality latches, locks and hinges is well-spent. Three hinges instead of the usual two will eliminate much of the annoyance of sagging and sticking. Back and side doors should be equipped with locks equally as strong and burglar-proof as the front door.

Interior doors should be hung so as not to block traffic or collide with each other. This is especially important in today's small homes where every inch of space counts. Hanging a door on the opposite side of the frame so that it swings in a different direction often saves valuable wall space. Sliding doors are again becoming popular because they are space-savers.

Full-Blooded Indians Reported On Wane

OLD TOWN, Me.—(AP)—Although there are 1,247 Indians living on Maine's three Indian reservations, Hiram Hall, state Indian agent, says it would be "pretty hard to find a full-blooded Indian in Maine now."

Tribal segregation is not as strict as it once was. Indians who live on Maine's reservations are under no compulsion to do so. Those who do, says Hall, do so because they prefer to. On the reservation, they pay no property taxes. They go to good schools, look for jobs, marry and settle down, root for the Red Sox and try to be good citizens of the United States, says Hall.

With more than 11,000 members, the day family depends on bees for fertilization.

Practical Planning Needed To Remodel Family's Bathroom

Remodeling the bathroom in the home takes a great deal of careful thinking. Because it is one of the smallest room areas in the house, the bathroom often is neglected decoratively and is poorly planned.

All members of the family, young and old, should be taken into consideration as to their daily routine in this busy room. As the family grows a should the bathroom, perhaps not physically, but to the extent that this greatly used room serves the purpose of the users. Here are a few bathroom modernization suggestions from the Title Council of America.

1. Put counter tops on either side of the washbasin and build storage cabinets underneath for towels, linens, and other supplies. Storage is an important feature in any bathroom and the homemaker should plan its possibilities.
2. If walls and floors are worn, replace them with waterproof, colorful material such as clay tile which comes in more than 200 shades that will enhance the beauty of any bathroom.
3. Install a shower over the tub with clay tilework carried to at least the height of the shower curtain bar so the walls will be waterproof.
4. Replace the ceiling light fixtures with fluorescent tubes behind a honeycomb for bright diffused lighting without shadows. For Dad's clean shave many medicine cabinets can be purchased with fluorescent lighting already installed at the sides.
5. A stepladder-type towel bar supplies ample room for hanging bath towels. The lowest rung enables junior to hang his towel after use without throwing it in a corner.
6. Shelves along the wall, or in cabinet form, for each member of the family help keep medicine cabinets neat and avoid confusion at the toothbrush rack.

BOWLING ALONG—Norma Clark, customer of a Salt Lake City, Utah, savings and loan association, uses the unique "change bowl" set up in the institution's lobby. Sign at the bowl, which contains $25 in small change, says: "Need change? For bus fare, gum, parking meter? Fish for your own change here." Bowl has done a flourishing business. A recent check on the money in it proved a tribute to Salt Laker's honesty. The bowl contained 19 cents more than the original $25.

Author Of Words To 'The Eyes Of Texas' Never Capitalized On Song, Widow Says

BEAUMONT—(AP)—The man who wrote the words to "The Eyes of Texas" never capitalized on it, and was always very humble, his widow recalls.

The song—often called the national anthem of Texas—was written on a laundry wrapping by John Lang Sinclair in 1903. He wrote it in response to a demand by the University of Texas Glee Club, of which Sinclair was a member, for use in its student minstrel of 1903.

Mrs. Sinclair told her story just before University of Texas students opened their annual banquet here by singing the song.

"John tried and tried. Time for the show drew near—but no song," Mrs. Sinclair remembered.

"So one night glee club men

Republic National Life Marks New High In 1950 Business

DALLAS—The year 1950 was a highly satisfactory one in the history of the Republic National Life Insurance Company, Theo P. Beasley, president of the Dallas company, stated as he reviewed the firm's Dec. 31, 1950, statement just released for publication. In many respects the last year may be considered as marking a new high in the progress of the company since its organization in 1928, the Republic National Life head declared.

Life insurance in force rose to a total of $310,369,600, which places the Dallas company among the top 15 per cent of the nation's legal reserve companies. Premium income hit a new high of $8,886,778.31, of which $6,226,798.32 was applied on life contracts and $2,658,979.99 on health and accident policies.

Financial strength still was further improved in 1950. Of its total invested funds, 55.5 per cent are represented by such liquid assets as U. S. state, county, municipal, public utility, and other high-grade bonds; government insured FHA loans and other real estate loans secured by first mortgage liens; government insured savings and loan shares; high grade stocks and cash. Capital and surplus reached $1,328,461.77, which is added protection to policyowners in excess of the legal reserve set aside to guarantee all policy obligations.

The Republic National Life features complete personal protection, including life, accident and health, hospitalization, medical and surgical reimbursement, group and franchise plans.

marched into his room in B' Hall (which stands precariously, yet), handed him cigarettes and locked him in with an ultimatum—the song or else!

"And in the wee hours, out came Mr. Sinclair and 'The Eyes of Texas.'"

Now In Archives
The laundry wrapping on which Sinclair wrote the song now is in the university's archives.

Mrs. Sinclair said the idea behind the lyrics was a takeoff on Dr. Prather, then university president, who often said solemnly: "Young ladies and young gentlemen, the eyes of Texas are upon you!"

"He received a great deal of satisfaction from the way students received his song," Mrs. Sinclair, herself a Texas graduate, said, "but he was very surprised about it. And he was always very humble."

"He never would let anyone make any money out of the song, although he was approached many times with proposals to have it marketed."

"The students of the university made the song, he always said," she recalled, "and in 1938, after purposefully failing to copyright the song himself, he gave the song to the students formally, and allowed the university to copyright it."

Sinclair was born of Scottish parents near San Antonio. As a young initiate of the violin on his parents' farm, he swung such a squeaky bow he was exiled to a dry well on the farm for practice lessons.

He kept up his musical interests anyway and joined the University Glee Club during his years at Austin. Until his death in 1947, Sinclair had a tax service firm in New York. His widow, here for the last few months, is thinking of again making her home in Texas, her native state.

Crew Stops Train To Rescue Pooch

CARBONVILLE, Ill.—(AP)—Along a lonely stretch of rails between Carbondale and Cairo, Ill., train crewmen spotted a dog in a wire fence.

One of the crew dashed off a note telling of the dog's plight. The note was passed to the first persons the train passed. However, when they passed on the return trip, the dog was still ensnared.

On the next day's run they stopped their Illinois Central local, released the dog, wet, starved, and near exhaustion. But its tall shumped thanks.

Reds Who Surrender Are Invited To Tea

KUALA LUMPUR—(AP)—Communist terrorists who lay down their arms and surrender to the British are being entertained at tea by the Selangor branch of the Malayan Chinese Association.

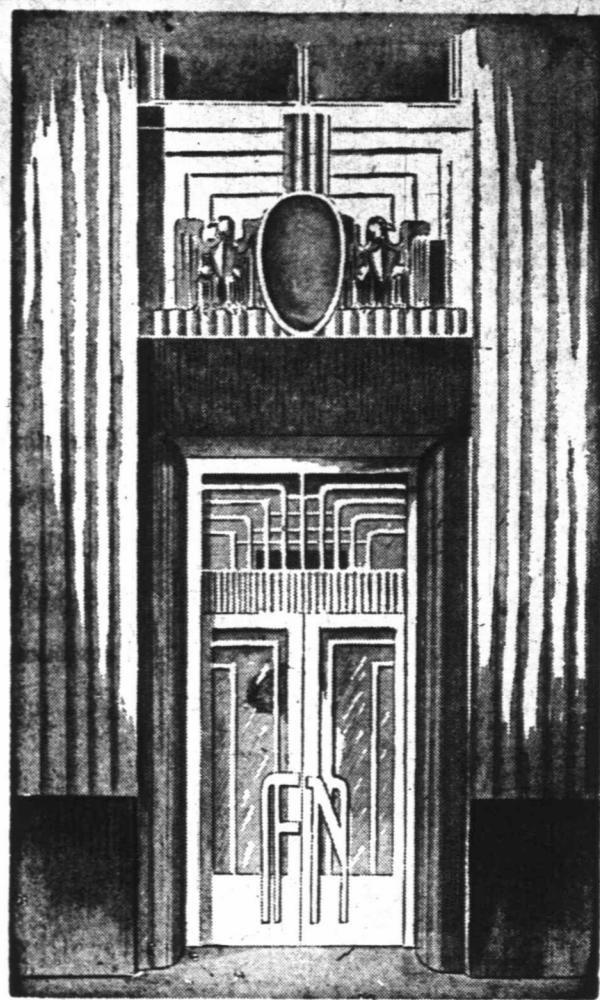

Six former terrorists, recent guests of the association, said they had found that British government authorities had given them freedom, clothing and food after the surrendering. They said this was in marked contrast to deceit and the tyrannical rule of leaders of terrorists in the Malayan jungle.

Prisoner Memorizes The New Testament

FOLSOM STATE PRISON, Calif.—(AP)—Prisoner James Wyatt isn't idling away the time he's serving for attempted burglary. He's memorizing the New Testament.

He says he can now recite two thirds of it and that he hopes to have finished the task by the time he becomes eligible for parole in the fall.

Wyatt appears at chapel services to repeat, for example, the entire book of John—some 19,000 words. Each day he learns 132 more words by heart.

THE HISTORY OF OUR CHERISHED AMERICA

is the story of the development of a system of producing goods in an atmosphere of freedom, so that each of us may enjoy the greatest measure of benefit from our individual efforts. Yet the major product of our system is not limited to the individual. That product is the unrivaled American standard of living, shared by all. During the past 50 years alone—a period during which we fought and won two world wars, because our system was threatened—we bettered our production and the income of our families twofold. We have more goods to choose from. More income with which to acquire goods. More time in which to enjoy living.

Let us profit from the lesson of our heritage. Our world's best standard of living is the product of our freely determined will to produce a better life. Let us resolve our problems within the scope of a system that has met the test of time. Let us not permit the system to be destroyed.

Life Is Series Of Ups And Downs For Operators Of Midland's Elevators

By TANNER LAINE
Operation Lift!
Persons in Midland with their ups and downs, to say the least, are the elevator operators.

There is a lot of elevator travel here, more so than in most cities of the size—because Midland has the multi-floored buildings.

We rode all the elevators we could find in Midland for a little first-hand garnering of facts and the finding of personalities.

We went along for the ride, mostly, up and down. The things never go sideways, they tell us.

Ira Stanford is a well-known operator. He's been at the Petroleum Building 13 years.

"I've put in a lot of miles up and a lot of miles down," laughs the popular negro operator.

Ralph Geisler, manager of the Petroleum and McClintic Buildings, points out that elevators in Midland carry their peak loads at the coming and going from work hours and the lunch period.

"However, don't forget the coffee hours, one each in the morning and afternoon," comments Geisler. "That's when our operators really are busy."

The "coffee hours" vary with buildings, but normally they come about 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The Petroleum Building's three elevator shafts and cars probably have been used more than any in the city. For years, the 12-floor ride in that building has been enjoyed by many workers and also by visitors to the city from smaller cities—to ride an elevator.

Will Add Third
The McClintic Building, which is going to 12 floors with the completion of present construction, has two cars now and will add a third. Mary Toliver is a veteran operator at this building.

Speed of the Petroleum Building elevators is 600 feet per minute and 500 feet per minute is the speed in the McClintic.

Both negro men and women operate the elevators in the two.

"We have had many requests for rides in our elevators to get the best view of Midland," Geisler said. "They ride to the top and then go out for the view."

The Petroleum Building was one of the taller buildings of the area for years and its elevators were, and are, extensively used.

They probably have carried more "tourists" than the others.

The "pioneer" of elevators in Midland was that in the now Leggett Building. Dr. John B. Thomas built the Thomas Building in 1927. Its elevator was built large enough to accommodate stretchers because the doctor's hospital was on the sixth floor. The building was bought by Dr. L. W. Leggett in 1946.

"We have to admit that in the early days, running the elevator to the right floor was a trial and error proposition," laughs the doctor.

However in 1947, self-leveling equipment was installed, and the elevator was modernized.

Building's On Fire
L. W. Hines operated the elevator in the Leggett Building a number of years. Once, Dr. Leggett remembers, he got a phone call from Hines saying "the building is on fire."

"Did you call the fire department," asked the anxious doctor?

"Nope, just called you," answered the faithful operator. He had noted smoke on a floor and immediately called the boss, not the fire department.

Negro women operate this building's elevator at the present.

John Davis, negro operator, at the Midland Tower has built himself quite a reputation. He stings out "Downtown Midland" at the main floor, "coffee to the right and shoe shine to the left." He has other chants which the riders seem to enjoy.

"Going to Midland" has been heard when a car leaves the ninth floor of the Tower enroute to the street level.

C. P. Roberson, building superintendent of the Midland Tower, points out the safety features of elevators and reminds that they require much maintenance.

Roberson ran a survey on an average 12-hour day. He found that his cars in two shafts had carried more than 5,000 passengers between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Speed of the Tower elevators is 700 feet per minute, nine seconds approximately for the nine-floor trip, about a floor per second. These are the fastest in the city.

Joan Durham was operating the elevator in the six-floor Wilkinson-Foster Building when we visited. In England, they would say she was operating "the lift."

Barbara Towery was on duty in the Permian Building (six floors). She likes the work. "It's a half-day shift," she says. She and another girl alternate the job.

"My yes, it keeps me busy when they go out for coffee," Barbara says. "They buzz me plenty then."

Safety Devices
All elevators in Midland have safety devices to prevent fatal, fast or far falls in emergencies. Elevators are of two types—geared and gearless. Most of the newer and quieter ones are gearless. Midland elevators are all of either Otis, American, Montgomery or Westinghouse make.

There are two shafts and cars in the eight-floor First National Bank Building. "No different from the rest," says a rider, "except there's a noiser door on one of the cars."

Some of Midland's operators are uniformed and some are not.

The operators soon learn the tenants and can let them off at their floor without the necessity of a request.

All the operators agreed there is a need for studying up on elevator courtesy, especially by users.

Some riders are indignant if the operator fails to recognize them and leave them at the right floor.

Operators wish riders would call out the desired floor as soon as they enter the car. Much valuable time is wasted "backing up." In fact, some operators won't do that.

Passenger-Operated
Passenger-operated elevators are located in the courthouse, the Magnolia Building, Stancoll Building and Midland Memorial Hospital.

It is told that once the elevator in the courthouse prevented a jailbreak. A prisoner got out of his cell and managed to get hold of a gun. The elevator was at the top where he was but was punched elsewhere and the elevator whisked from the top before the would-be escapee could enter. In the meantime, another prisoner got the gun away from the breaker and shot him.

The elevator at the Midland Memorial Hospital was made large enough to take care of transporting stretchers.

The Honolulu Oil Building has a shaft but no elevators are operating.

The Scharbauer Hotel has two shafts and cars and the Crawford Hotel has one. These elevators are pretty busy, too. And they also have the added load of luggage.

"Just lots of people use the hotel elevators, even to go to the messinae floor," a Scharbauer operator said.

Yes, some Midlanders are a bit anxious when riding in an elevator and some won't use them. Most persons here will, though.

"Don't stunt, I've got a weak heart," a wag once told a Midland operator.

Despite most of the elevators here have operators, most of the cars are automatic or semi-automatic in their performance. It's a matter of pushing a button for a floor and stop braking.

Study Manual
The training period for elevator operators is short. There is a rapid turnover in personnel in all buildings. The "Elevator Operator's Manual" is studied by operators at the Midland Tower.

Courtesy can work both ways in elevator operation—operator and passenger.

A lot of Permian Basin Empire children have had their first elevator rides in Midland.

One of them we observed, announced it—"peschy swell."

The operator took that to be satisfactory.

Midlanders have a 14-floor elevator ride to look forward to upon completion of Jack Wilkinson's V&J Tower. No doubt the new four-floor Humble Building will have its favorite elevator riders, as well.

England is the world's largest importer of apples, pears, grapefruit and oranges.

Modern Midland Church To Try Old Time Religion

"'Tis The Old Time Religion!" Is it good enough for you and me, in modern Midland?

A young church in the city is going to find out—in a church where there probably isn't a member 38 years of age.

It is the St. Mark's Methodist Church, located in the fast-growing north sector of Midland. The church won't be a year old until July.

The energetic young parson and members of his church have scheduled "an old-fashioned revival meeting."

And they do mean "old-fashioned."

"It's sort of a noble experiment for us," says the Rev. James Sharpe, quite young himself.

Shouting Methodists
So, if there be any "shouting" Methodists, even "foot-patting" ones left in Midland, the young folks want you to come show them how.

These young people are going into this thing with whole-hearts. They are going to have prayer meetings in their homes before the services.

They're advertising.

"And we're going to pray hard, too," says a youthful member.

The theme of the revival is "God Has The Answer."

Now all this is being planned by a bunch of young persons one would expect to be a little hold-offish about religion.

But they are dead serious about it!

Sermons in their church by their young pastor are filled with modern parables and illustrations.

The Thing
While young persons listened intently, young Mr. Sharpe has called the hydrogen bomb—an atom bomb dipped in Hadesol. And he admonished his members that religious songs can catch on with them as well as "The Thing."

"The old-fashioned-religion is the up-to-date kind," the preacher says. Perhaps you want to know where the revival meeting experiment is taking place and when. St. Mark's is located at the intersection of Main and Hamby Streets.

It's a little church, bricked over an old Army-type barracks. It's members did much of the work on the structure. The men met at night, after work, and got in some licks for the Lord.

"Come On Out"
"Come on out," say the frank young church members, "we can do it."

Well, no one doubts it. They have youth and God surely is on their sides.

The noble experiment begins Wednesday night. Nightly services are scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

The revival will last 10 days.

"An old-fashioned revival meeting! I heard mom and dad talk about them and here I am just about in one myself," a member not yet 21 years old, commented.

"Let's get going," he turned to the pastor and said.

Liner Passengers Don't Like Label

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA —(AP)—Some of the passengers on the round-the-world liner Caronia stepped ashore here recently when the ship docked and said they were unhappy about the ship's reputation as being on a "millionaire's cruise."

Lewis Cole, owner of a chain of Kentucky self-service stores, referred to newspaper reports which have called the Caronia the "millionaire liner" and stated that all the passengers were "nice people who do not like all the money publicity." He added that while the ship was certainly not making a poor man's trip, the big percentage of passengers were far from being millionaires. The Caronia is carrying 233 passengers, mostly Americans, on a 104-day cruise.

Thomas Edison devised an automotive engine powered by nitroglycerin in 1880.

ONE OF BIG DINING ROOMS—Here is the main dining room of the new Blue Star Inn, which holds open house Sunday and opens for business Monday. Equipped with indirect lighting, the room is set off by the growing greenery at the far end, which adds an atmosphere of relaxation to the modern interior.

Blue Star Inn, Midland's Newest Restaurant, Sets Open House Event Sunday

The Blue Star Inn, which delicately will blend the exotic foods of the Far East with the robust cuisine of the American kitchen, proudly will open its doors to the public Sunday for the first time. For seven hours a pair of smiling gentlemen named Joe Chung and Richard Yee will escort visitors through Midland's newest and most modern restaurant. And, then, on Monday, they will open officially for business. "We are extending an invitation to everyone," explained Chung, "to visit us during our open house on Sunday. There will be coffee or tea and tasty little cookies for the visitors, and candy for the children. "We are proud of the restaurant we have built here and we think Midland will be proud, too." West Wall Location Located at 2501 West Wall Street, on the outskirts of the city, the basic architecture of the Blue Star Inn has drawn interested glances from thousands of passersby as it took shape. Striking in appearance, with its circular entranceway, bordered by growing shrubbery that is just as much a part of the building as the brick and mortar, the Blue Star

Inn strikes a new note in eating accommodations for Midland. And the interior continues the theme of modernism and devotion to the correct atmosphere for enjoying a good meal, whether it be the subtle blend of slice chicken breast and tiny green mushrooms or a thick sirloin steak bordered with the traditional French fried potatoes and onion rings. With only a faint suggestion of the Oriental, the two large dining rooms are tastefully decorated with indirect lighting, pastel-colored walls and comfortable chairs around ample tables. There is nothing to detract from the main purpose of the restaurant—the pure enjoyment of the finest foods. Even the water stations and the cabinets containing the linens and the silver and the hot breaks are tucked away behind a veritable garden of greenery growing at one end of the main dining room. The Blue Star Inn has been designed and constructed from long experience with the discriminating epicure. Veteran Cafe Men Chung and Yee, partners in the new venture, long have been in the restaurant business. In fact the opening of the Blue

Star Inn is the realization of a dream long shared by the two men who first met each other more than 15 years ago in St. Paul, Minn. Both moved later to Fort Worth where they gained a wide reputation for their Chinese and American dishes. Chung operated the Blue Star Inn in Fort Worth until two years ago. "Some friends of mine," explained Chung, "insisted that I come to Midland and open a restaurant. "Finally I came out here. It has taken a long time to find a suitable site and build a suitable building to house the restaurant. "But now everything is ready and we are opening for business." For the kitchen, Chung and Yee purchased the latest type of equipment, ranging from the automatic dishwasher, with its superheated water, to the huge specially-built range for preparing the delicate Chinese dishes. Off one side of the kitchen is a huge refrigerated storage vault in which are kept the finest steaks and chops as well as the poultry used so extensively in the Chinese dishes. Two Dining Rooms The two dining rooms, of almost equal size, will accommodate a total of 250 persons. One of the dining rooms is so arranged that it readily can be used by civic clubs, private parties and other such events. There is ample hard-surfaced parking space outside the Blue Star Inn. Temporary Club Officers Listed

Two more temporary appointments of officers for a new Lions Club in Midland have been announced. These include: F. H. Glaun, tailor, and B. L. Crites, secretary. At a recent meeting of the new club, James L. Daugherty, a past district governor, spoke on "Lionism" and the functions of a Lions Club. Previously announced temporary officers include: the Rev. J. B. Stewart, chairman; and Lee Thomas, assistant chairman.

Teacher Leaves On Motorcycle Jaunt

LONDON —(AP)— A preparatory school teacher near here who believes that "school mastering is bad for the brain," has set out on a round-the-world motorcycle tour. John L. Cook, the teacher, took along T. H. Hamilton, Fletcher, a farmer, who answered his advertisement for a traveling companion with another motorcycle. The two men expect to visit in Europe, India, Australia, Africa, the United States, Mexico and Buenos Aires. Sunday will begin at 2 p.m. and continue until 9 p.m. Business hours during the week will be from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., while the restaurant will remain open until midnight on Saturdays.

RAPID RELIEF

Relief funds voluntarily contributed to Chicago after the great fire of 1871 were enough to provide temporary shelter for 40,000 persons, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Hofwyl, in Switzerland, and Krumau, in Bohemia, both established in 1797, were the two earliest agricultural colleges.

By plane, train, bus and auto, tourists pour into Miami and Miami Beach.

Hotel lobbies are jammed with incoming guests seeking to register.

Swank—and expensive—shops bustle as customers snap up merchandise regardless of high prices.

Huge crowds at horse and dog-racing tracks may break the 1946 postwar boom record in numbers and betting.

Last year's in-the-red night clubs are in the black, reaping rich harvest of "last fling" dollars.

MIAMI HITS JACKPOT ON TOURISTS' 'ONE LAST FLING'—What many observers describe as "one last fling" by tourists uncertain of what the near future may hold has given Miami and Miami Beach what may be their biggest boom year since the postwar celebratory season of 1946. Montage above shows typical scenes in the two resorts as tourists from the U. S. and Latin American countries thronged in and ignored inflated prices and sub-normal weather to have themselves a time. In Hialeah's first eight days, the pari-mutuel machines took in almost $9,000,000—23 per cent more than on corresponding days last year. Tropical Park track's 41-day meet was the third biggest in its history—almost $23,000,000 being bet there. Swank shops got their share of the boom—and ascribed it to "scare buying" of quality merchandise by folk fearing a future austerity period. Old-line hotels are booked solid, look for a continued sell-out this month.

Mo Goo Gai Pinn — Chinese Foods May Change Eating Habits Of Patrons

Mo Goo Gai Pinn isn't nearly as bad as it sounds. It may scare away a few people whose diet has been limited to thick steaks or barbecued spare ribs. But, take it from Richard Yee and Joe Chung, a hefty order of Mo Goo Gai Pinn is liable to change the eating habits of a lot of patrons who'll be dropping out to the Blue Star Inn, which will hold open house Sunday and begin serving meals Monday.

Yee and Chung, who are partners in the new restaurant on the western outskirts of the city, admit the Chinese names may be a little confusing.

So they've prepared their menu accordingly.

One page is devoted to the Chinese dishes in which they specialize. Modern Accepted Words

But below the Chinese names are the descriptions in modern accepted words.

That Mo Goo Gai Pinn, for instance, is nothing more than sliced chicken with mushrooms—well, a little more, because the way Yee tosses it together produces a savory dish that long will be remembered. Then there is Almond Gai Ding which is described as "cubets of chicken, diced Chinese vegetables."

Other outstanding Chinese dishes include:

Chow Gai Kew—"breast of chicken sauteed with tender green mushrooms, bamboo shoots and water chestnuts."

Char Sue Ding—"diced Chinese pork and vegetables."

Subgum Egg with Pork—"minced Chinese pork, vegetables and almonds."

Battered Butterfly Shrimp—"jumbo shrimp, liver and Chinese pork wrapped with bacon and special sauce."

Only a few

But these are only a few which will be prepared, using only the finest imported ingredients.

The Blue Star Inn offers special dinners for couples and families. A typical menu for four, for instance, would include:

Soup, four egg rolls with Cantonese shrimp, Almond Gai Ding, Shrimp with Lobster Sauce, Chicken Fried Rice, Sweet and Sour Pork, Almond Cookies and tea or coffee.

The tea is the delicately scented Chinese varieties which is served at the restaurant and in packages to be taken home for use at the family dinner table.

Of course, the Blue Star Inn's menu is not limited to Chinese foods.

Sharing equal prominence are the fine steaks of chops and the delicious sea foods of every kind.

Halliburton Gals Want Mink Coats Like Capitol Cutie

OKLAHOMA CITY —(AP)— Secretaries of a Duncan oil firm don't like being left out in the cold. They want mink coats just like a secretary in Washington.

Fifty-six female employees and the male secretary to the president of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company sent a letter to The Daily Oklahoman complaining about the RFC.

"It is a little late in the season, but we don't mind that if we can get in on the gravy train around the nation's capitol," the complainants wrote.

"As secretaries in a big corporation, we have worked hard, asked no favors, paid Uncle Sam and the State of Oklahoma our share of taxes. x x x

"We, as citizens and taxpayers, demand that our pastel minks be forthcoming immediately or else that the RFC and mink-enshrouded secretary be removed from government payrolls."

The gals apparently referred to testimony in the current Senate RFC investigation relating that an $8,540 mink coat was received by Mrs. E. Merl Young, secretary in the office of President Truman's personal secretary.

Chinese Reported Aiding Vietminh

SINGAPORE —(AP) Between 5,000 and 6,000 French civilians and troops have been captured by Ho Chi Minh's rebels, said a repatriated soldier from the French army in Indochina.

The soldier, Georges William Harry Pace of Tunisia, was one of 153 French servicemen returning home after completing their time with the French forces in Indochina. They passed through Singapore aboard the Messageries Maritimes' 14,781-ton "Andre Lebon."

Pace said the French are no longer fighting only the Vietminh rebels, but Chinese Communist regulars also. Pace was in the big September-October French retreat from the outposts down to Hanoi. He was wounded by a hand grenade.

U. S. ARMED FORCES
Since the start of the Revolutionary War, excluding the Korean situation, some 25,030,000 men have served in the armed forces of the United States, with approximately 19,014,000 of this total being alive today. Largest group of veterans is the 14,000,000 who served in World War II.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

MAKING CALAMITIES SERVE

Dungeons of various kinds often lead to finding grace there. Milton wrote his Paradise Lost when blind. Clifford W. Beer was once in an insane asylum. Later he wrote A Mind That Found Itself, and founded The National Commission for Mental Hygiene. The mentally upset owe much to a man who himself was mentally upset.

Darwin said: "If I had not been so great an invalid I should not have done nearly as much as I have accomplished." Carlyle said that he wrote with "a rat continually gnawing at his stomach." A man was set aside with a broken hip; while lying in bed the wallpaper at which he had continuously to look gave him the idea of becoming a sketch artist, and he became a very successful one. He found grace in the dungeon.

A poet failed on the first night of the public reading and felt the next day that everybody was pointing the finger of scorn at him. He went home and wrote his greatest inspirational poem on the ability "to take it" when you fail. That poem fell into the hands of a man in the hospital who had lost both arms and feet, and it inspired him to become a public reader—and he became a very successful one. They both found grace in the dungeon.

A young man came to our Ashram armless. He eats and writes with his toes. At work period, refusing to be left out, he painted

Reds Will Exhibit Trades At Prague

PRAGUE —(AP)— China will exhibit at the Prague International Trade Fair for the first time this year, and the Chinese are taking no chances on being late.

The fair is scheduled from May 30 to June 3, but a Chinese delegation from various ministries in the Communist-led government left Peiping in January. Their train was loaded with China's exhibits, which will take up 780 square meters of floor space. They also will visit a trade fair in Leipzig, Germany, and exhibitions in Moscow, Warsaw and Budapest.

Rules Are Offered For Public Speaking

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Are you nervous when appearing before an audience? Do your knees shiver and shake? Then you are perfectly normal, says Dr. Waldo Phelps, instructor in speech at the University of California.

"Tenseness is natural even in people with years of public speaking experience," he states. The instructor outlined three rules a speaker should follow to control the trembling and shaking. They are: 1. Use gestures to release excess energy; 2. Prepare carefully; and 3. Have something to say which you want to share with your audience.

ON IKE'S STAFF—Maj.-Gen. Edmond H. Leavey, of Washington, D. C., is the only American on General Eisenhower's newly-appointed seven-man general staff that will help him organize and lead the Atlantic Pact army. General Leavey, veteran of World War II's European and Pacific theatres, will be Ike's assistant chief of staff for logistics.

Smuggling Brings Some Big Profits

BANGKOK —(AP)— Thai (Siamese) police and customs men have tightened measures against smuggling of dollar bloc goods to Singapore and Hongkong which is bringing smugglers in Thailand huge profits.

L. Thawin Sresthaphanichkarn, director-general of the Foreign Trade Department, said prices of these essential goods were three times higher in neighboring countries.

He said the Ministry of Commerce was going to clamp stricter control over re-exports of these goods which have to be bought with valuable foreign exchange.

Paint near the temperature of steam is applied by spray in a new "hot spray" process, for which the necessary heating equipment now has been developed. Varnish and lacquer can be applied by the same method. In the process, heat replaces a large part of the solvents now used in paint.

Deep-Freeze Method Used In Subway Job
BUDAPEST —(AP)— An official news agency here reports that a deep freezing method is being used in the construction of Budapest's new subway.

Engineers here always have been sorely pressed by the problem of subsoil water. They are now pumping a certain liquid, not identified by the agency, into the earth near the proposed subway shaft. This freezes the subsoil water and prevents it from infiltrating into the shaft, the report states.

Freshmen Lead Honor Roll For First Six Weeks

The Editor Speaks

A year ago when a police car passed the average group of boys in Midland, one might hear "There goes a 'Roach'" or "Does your dad work?"—Now, he's a cop!
—Now, when a police car or motorcycle passes the same group, you are more apt to hear "Hello Herb" or "There goes Jim."
Why the change of attitude?

The police are just as strict—even more so. The boys have been fined more for traffic violations than ever before. They know that if they violate a traffic law, there probably will be a policeman watching somewhere and that it will cost them their driver's license or a stiff fine.

Then, why the friendly attitude all of the sudden?

Knowing the patrolman and often discussing the matter with Colonel Plavick, director of Public Safety, and some of the high school boys and through personal experience, this is my explanation.

Sure, the boys know the police will get them when they break the law. But they also know the police department has one aim, "To protect the people's safety." They know that if they show true cooperation and help the police accomplish this aim; then the police are more than glad to help them.

When they do break a traffic law, they know everyone from the cop that stops them up to the judge in the traffic court will listen to their side of the story before passing judgment.

The Police Department probably was just as fair last year; but it evidently was not obvious enough for the boys to realize it.

As for the report on the Police Department's side, Colonel Plavick says he is well pleased with the high school students' cooperation and looks for them to make a generation of fine citizens.

And as for the patrolmen's report—just wave at the next one that passes and he will give it to you himself with a friendly smile.

Kenneth Wright, Joe Barnett Leave For Music Parley

Joe Barnett and Kenneth Wright, Midland High School band students, left Tuesday to attend the 1951 Southwestern Music Educators Conference in Oklahoma City, Okla., which will be held from March 7 to March 10.

Joe and Kenneth have been selected to play in the 100-piece symphony band, which will be comprised of selected high school music students from the Southwestern Division of the Music Educators' National Conference. The Southwestern Division includes Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

Members of the All-Conference band were selected on their past musical record.

The 100 members will receive intensive training during three days of rehearsals under Paul LaVelle, conductor of the Band of America. The band will share the program with the All-Conference Chorus and Orchestra in the Municipal Auditorium on March 10.

Joe plays the trombone and Kenneth the baritone.

Both won top honors in the State Band Contest last year.

Jerry Hoffman, MHS band director says both are exceptional music students and excellent student directors.

After All, It's Your Library, Isn't It?

How many times have you heard students say, "Oh, there's no use going to the library—all that's down there is pretty dead stuff!" And have you ever wondered just whose fault it was that these students could not find anything to interest them in the library selections?

The school spends several hundred dollars each year on the library. With all this, why do some find nothing in the library to interest them? Only because most students haven't taken the trouble to make suggestions about books they like to read.

Certainly, every book that you recommend will not be bought, but if more students make suggestions, books of the type desired by the larger per cent of those requesting them would be placed on the library shelves.

So next time someone complains about our library, why not take them with you to talk to the librarian about what type of books would be of interest to the students.

After all it is your library, isn't it?

Fourteen Go To Abilene Conference

Fourteen students of Midland High School attended a meeting of the Future Homemakers Association of Area III on Saturday, March 10, in Abilene.

The House of Delegates, meeting at 9:30 in the Abilene High School cafeteria, included representatives from 26 counties in the area. Betty O'Neal, representative from Midland, and Earline Hancock attended. Earline was elected to the office of Area Historian.

The homemakers attended the morning session, held in the Abilene High School auditorium. "The White House Conference for Children and Youth," a speech by Rosslyn Wilson of Coleman, was the highlight of the morning session. Miss Wilson is vice president of the state FHA.

When the House of Delegates was completed everyone went to the afternoon session featuring a speech, "The Home Life in Europe," by Rene Chenaux-Respond of Abilene Christian College. Also included in this session was the report of the House of Delegates, reports of district meetings and installation of the newly elected officers.

The Future Homemakers from Midland attending the meeting were Jerry Allman, Sherry Bethel, Shirley Hoyett, Barbara Delay, Le Roy Glenn, Marsha Heald, Earline Hancock, Barbara King, Betty O'Neal, Shirley Pannell, La Lee Teaff and Rosemarie Turner. Sponsors for the trip were Miss Clyde Parnelly and Mrs. Faye Massey, homemaking teachers.

Area III for which the meeting was held extends from Baird west to El Paso and south to Brady, Sonora and Marfa, covering 26 counties.

What The Students Say— Should We Date 'Steady'?

The Senior play "Icebound" will be presented Thursday and Friday March 16-17, at 8 p.m.

This week our Roving Reporter asked this question: "Do you believe in going steady?" We asked this question because, at one time or another, most teen-agers go steady during their high school years.

In tallying our survey we find that the girls are for it, five to four; the boys are equally divided on the subject, while five boys and four girls remain neutral.

Winifred Brinson—"If it's with the right person."
Dale Stice—"No, it takes up too much of your time."
George Blake—"No, it's a long and complicated process to get off the hook."
Beverly Keisling—"No, it restricts your school experiences."
Caroly Cook—"I think most high school kids are too young to be serious; you ought to date everybody."
Ray Young—"No, I'm too young for such things."
Pat Nance—"Yes, it's a lot of fun."
Billy Cartwright—"I guess it's all right; I wouldn't know."
Charles Worthen—"I guess I'd have to ask my mother."
Dick Countiss—"It's according to whom you're going with."
Shirley Winter—"Heaven's no!"
Nancy McKinley—"If he's in Oklahoma."
Leon Cline—"I think it's every man for himself."
Mrs. Rowland—"I think the idea is all wrong but if you're going steady you have an assurance of dates. If you aren't you never know until the last minute."
Tommy Vannaman—"No, it develops so many of the brain cells that it causes pressure on the nape of your neck."
Sue Corser—"There are disadvantages and advantages."
Ann Stephens—"It's horrible."
Mary Schneider—"I think it's real neat."
La Dean Johnson—"Oh, it's wonderful!"
Supt. Monroe—"I think you ought to do a little shopping."
Roy Ripley—"I don't think much about it; I know from experience."
Miss Perkins—"Oh dear!"
Coach Rutledge—"It's all right for an old man."
Coach Gill—"I haven't thought it for a long time."
Shirley Boyett—"I think it's OK."
Jo Anne Hunada—"Do I have to say?"

Morris Basham—"Oh, it's all right, beings I used to."
Tommy Parker—"It's undecided."
John McQueam—"Personally, I don't think much about it."
Jimmie Counts—"I think it's a mistake."

John Van Buskirk—"I think it's fine!"
John Ward—"With the right person it's OK, but with the wrong person it just isn't worth it."
Susanne Young—"What I think is unprintable!"
Bobby Manning—"I think it's a waste of time."

"THE L-BOMB, YOU SAY?"—A spectacular lightburst like this might well be called an L-bomb if you think of it as a light explosion. Actually, it's a demonstration by General Electric engineers E. A. Lindsay at Nela Park, Cleveland, O., aimed at dramatizing the techniques used by engineers to control light radiations. By means of reflectors, prisms and lenses, Lindsay shows clearly how wild, radiant energy, as released by the "L-bomb," can be tamed to do useful work.

Mrs. Sidwell Is Speaker

Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, a former Midland High School faculty member and a member of the Board of Education, spoke to the student body on her recent tour of Europe during assembly Wednesday, March 7.

Mrs. Sidwell described the buildings, industries, people, and appearances of Germany, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria, Belgium, Holland, and England.

She said Germany was the most war-torn of all the countries with the least money to rebuild, but the people were more courageous and happier as a result of Germany being an occupied country. She visited two of Hitler's homes and the underground barracks of his personal guards.

Vietsa Castle
She found that Denmark resembled America with its small farms and signs of average prosperity with no signs of poverty. She saw the castle portrayed in Shakespeare's Hamlet.

The flowers and the painting, "Night Watch," by Rembrandt, and paintings by Van Gogh impressed her most in Holland.

In Venice she saw the white marble Saint Marks Cathedral while sailing down the Grand Canal. She saw the famous leaning tower of Pisa.

When she asked an Englishman why the bombed ruins were cleared away in England and not in any other country, he replied, "Yes, but England isn't a conquered country." She toured the Tower of London, the Raleigh Stairway, the tower built by Edward III, the home of the former Queen Victoria, Eaton College, and Shakespeare's home, Little Denmark.

She gave the group a detailed description of a clock in Germany commemorating the "Big Drink" and a Swiss clock made 400 years ago, still in use.

Mrs. Sidwell stated she preferred Denmark for its peace and prosperity, and Switzerland for its natural beauty.

Earline Hancock was master of ceremonies.

The Bulldog Barks Linkmen Setting Scorching Pace

The Midland High School golf team continues to set a scorching pace in their warmup matches with area teams. The Bulldog linkmen have previously won 23 out of 24 games and defeated Odessa, Amarillo and Lubbock in match play. Midland also tangled with Lubbock and Abilene last weekend.

This week, Coach Audrey Gill will enter his linkmen in an invitational tournament at Fort Worth, on March 15 and 17.

Boys who will make the trip include Graham Mackey, Roan Puetz, John Ward, Marcelino Moreno, Phil Franklin, Teddy Kerr, Ray Leggett, and Doyle Tappin.

The Bulldog track team will also be in Fort Worth on the sixteenth and seventeenth for their initial meet of the year.

Boys who will make the trip and the events they will probably enter are: pole vault, W. H. Black; shot put, Jim O'Neal and Jerry Culp; discus, Jim O'Neal and Jerry Culp; 100 yard dash, Roy Kinsey; 200 yard dash, Roy Kinsey and Johnny Kennedy; 400 yard dash, Jack Burris; 800 yard run, Norman Drake; mile run, Billy Medart; 400 yard relay, Dick Spencer, Roddy Braun, Johnny Kennedy, and Roy Kinsey; mile relay, Jack Burris, Johnny Kennedy, Roddy Braun, and Roy Kinsey;

Humphrey Haunts Spring Arrives At High School

It seems as though Spring weather is really here to stay. Most of the girls at Midland High School have discarded their sweaters and wool skirts and have donned cool cottons. Even the football boys have bowed before the heat; they have actually stopped wearing their letter jackets! When they first received their jackets, neither man nor beast could separate the boys from their prized possessions.

If you see many MHS students jumping around exercising their lungs, don't be alarmed! Cheerleader tryouts are coming up on March 28, and a lot of kids have their eyes on the job of leading yells and the megaphone that comes with it.

Congratulations to Jack Mashburn, who has been named a life member of the National Parent-Teachers Association.

Freedom! That is the most precious word in the English dictionary to MHS'ers, and they are really getting a chance to know the true meaning of the word. On Tuesday, March 6, the teachers had In-Service Training and school was dismissed at 2:30 in stead of 4 o'clock. Everyone took advantage of the free time and good weather and seemed to enjoy himself. The Youth Center was crowded with MHS students while others were seen just "bumbling" around.

Fashion News of the Week: Jean Ferguson takes top honors again but not with earrings. On Wednesday she wore a beautiful green cotton blouse which looked just like satin.

Stan Coker, Loren Roberts and James Weathered spent the past week in Dallas having a good time and hearing the nationally-known evangelist, Billy Graham, speak. They left Tuesday and came home on Thursday.

Bouquets to the Junior Red Cross Club for the swell job they have been doing all year. At Christmas time they sent presents to the Veterans' Hospital at Wichita Falls and now are working on gift boxes for foreign countries. Their work is greatly appreciated and they have earned a well-deserved pat on the back.

Marjann and Don Forrest arrived at school on Tuesday decked out in colorful outfits which caused a good many signs of admiration. Marjann wore a cute cotton skirt while Don wore a matching shirt. We suggested that they switch around and trade. Everyone agreed that Don's shirt would look swell on Marjann with her skirt but Marjann's skirt on Don? Well!

Friday, March 9, was also a holiday so the teachers could attend a convention in Lubbock. Some kids spent the day at the YC, others stayed home, while still others "hit the road." A large group of Presbyterian young people went to Moranch near Kerrville to hold a retreat. They left Friday morning and are to arrive home on Sunday evening.

The library recently received a copy of the Texas A&M 1949 annual, Aggie Land, and Lucille Wilkinson, librarian, announces the MHS'ers are welcome to look at the annual and get an idea of life at Texas A&M.

To shave or not to shave, that is the question! The Journalism class is debating whether to shave Leon Cline's beard or not. One Pat Grover even bought him a pack of razor blades but it looks as though the class will have to bring the razor and do the job themselves.

Remember When?

Asphalt has been in use for many years as a waterproofing compound. Noah used it to make his ark leakproof. The asphalt, or pitch as it is also called, served as a cement in the building of the Tower of Babel and as a waterproofing for the walls of the ancient Hanging Gardens of Babylon.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Tito, to please radical wing of party, still is a prisoner of communism, though Yugoslav brand is relaxing; Should Tito fall, Yugoslavia would go back into Soviet orbit.

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)
BELGRADE — You can't escape the fact that our new-found friendship with Yugoslavia is nothing less than a marriage of convenience with a communist state. For communism, though somewhat relaxed under Tito recently, still is going full blast. In fact, Tito to some extent is a prisoner of communism since, in order to please the radical wing of his party, he has to show he's more of a Communist than Stalin.

Therefore, the present Yugoslav government line is that Stalin uses communism merely as a cloak for imperialism and that communism of the Yugoslav brand is pure and unadulterated. What most people outside this country fail to realize is that the hard core of the Yugoslav government was trained either in Moscow or in Serbian jails during the Fascist regime of King Alexander and that they will support Tito only as long as he retains a theoretic communism.

This puts the capitalistic United States in a more paradoxical situation than anywhere else in the world. For, while Yugoslavia is a communist state, it remains simultaneously the greatest thorn in Stalin's side because it demonstrates to the Red satellites that it is possible to thumb a nose at the almighty Kremlin and get away with it.

Furthermore, if the United States did not support Yugoslavia Tito unquestionably would fall and, if he fell, this country unquestionably also would go back to Stalin.

Thus we find ourselves in the position of inferentially supporting Communism yet opposing Stalinism. Stalinism being Russia's aggressive demand that the rest of the world come under its rule by force. So far, the United States government has justified its Yugoslav marriage for convenience just as it has its dealings with dictator nations of Latin America on the ground that every nation has the right to choose its own form of government so long as it does not try to foist its rule on others.

Here is how Communism works in Yugoslavia today—All stores are owned by the government though many store owners are kept as their managers. Every business establishment, including any barbershop using more than three barbers, is operated by the government. The stores are modern and have good-looking goods, but the prices are terrific. Yugoslavia today is the most expensive country in the world outside Russia. . . . Some party members formerly were able to buy at special stores at special discounts but this practice raised such resentment that the system was abolished. . . . Dinner in ordinary restaurants costs almost as much as dinner at the Waldorf and it's difficult to see how the average worker lives. Most of them do so by eating at government canteens, which is considerably cheaper though the food is not good. . . . Ration cards enable them to purchase food at low prices but food has been so scarce that the government has not been able to fulfill the amount of food each worker is supposed to get on his ration card. This is where American food has been so important to Tito at this particular time. . . . Foreigners in Yugoslavia are given special tourist dinars which give them a 70 per cent discount at all hotels and restaurants. Without this discount it would be impossible for tourist travel through Yugoslavia.

Yugoslav economic conditions are somewhat worse than in the Red satellite countries—even than in Bulgaria, which also suffered from the 1950 drought. This is not due to communistic farm collectivization so much as to the Yugoslav ambition to build factories in a hurry, which caused them to siphon too much money out of agriculture and into industrial materials. . . . While the drought caused a severe crop shortage, some shortage undoubtedly was due also to peasant resentment against the quota system by which he is required to produce certain quotas for the government. Last week this quota system was largely relaxed—another important step in the gradual easing off of strict communism. . . . Before it was relaxed, however, about 11,000 Serbian peasants went to jail, partly for failing to fill farm quotas and partly for refusing to join the farm collectives. . . . So far, about 19 per cent of the farms collectivized with the greatest success are in Montenegro and Macedonia, where the farmers had little to start with. As usually happens those with the least to lose became Communists more easily, while the wealthier Serbian peasants, who have fought for their land since the days of the Turks, went to jail rather than be collectivized.

Communism relaxing — Various signs point to a gradual relaxation of strict Communism. In addition to the easing of farm quotas, more and more people are flocking back to churches. . . . Americans appear popular everywhere—perhaps more so than in Western Europe, certainly more so than in France and England. . . . The Yugoslav press now prints full and free accounts of foreign news and there is no censorship of foreign newsmen whatsoever. Domestic news, however, still follows the party line. . . . Begging now is almost nonexistent in Yugoslavia whereas, 30 years ago, when I was last here, beggars were everywhere. Tippling also has been abolished, though not entirely lived up to. Thievery, which some years ago was the greatest curse of the country, now seems to have disappeared. When I was here after World War I it was necessary to have a gendarme stand guard over one's baggage and then, sometimes, it was necessary to watch the gendarme. . . . Hitherto Tito has held a tight, virtually a dictatorial, rein over Parliament, but a few days ago parliament took at least one Democratic belt over the traces against him. He had introduced a criminal code which provided imprisonment for any woman submitting to abortion. However, Parliament refused to approve this part of the law and finally decreed that only the doctor who performed an abortion, not the woman who submitted to it, would be guilty of crime. This is a small straw in the wind it may indicate gradual restoration of democratic processes in Yugoslavia.

She's The Sweetheart Of 201 Midland Guys As Sweetheart Of Large Lions Club In City

She's the sweetheart of 201 Midland guys. She's the sweetheart of the Midland Lions Club, largest service club in the city. She is Mrs. G. R. James.

This means that Mrs. James attends the weekly luncheon meetings of the Midland Lions Club, the only woman there among so many men.

She plays the piano for group singing. "This is all very interesting," Mrs. James said. "I like the title and enjoy the meetings."

The new Lions Club sweetheart is married and has two sons of high school age. She is a draftsman with Amerada Petroleum Corporation here.

"This is my first time to play the piano for a service club, although I have done so for churches and other large groups," Mrs. James comments. "The Lions seem so appreciative, I try hard."

Mrs. James is learning the tempo at which the service club sings. "They have favorite songs and I will learn them," she says. "I wish they would sing right out, louder, then I will know they are enjoying it."

The James came to Midland from Dallas about two and one-half years ago. Mrs. James is a native Oklahoman but claims Dallas as "hometown."

She also is an organist. Mrs. Jack Ellington was Lions Club Sweetheart here for a number of years. She resigned after an extended tour of service. Mrs. Kit Carson also served for a period of time.

Without a sweetheart, the club appealed for a new one. Mrs. James responded. She's glad she did.
