Deep Prospector Set For Yoakum

Continental Oil Company has filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permission to start drilling at once on a 13,000-foot wildcat in extreme northwest Yoakum County.

The prospector will be drilled as the concerns No. 1 W. L. Rodgers, 1,900 feet from north and 600 feet from west lines of section 106, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

That makes it nine miles northeast of the Gladola field of Northeast Lea County, N. M., which gets Devonian production above 12,000 feet.

It is presumed that the 13,000-foot contract destination will take the explorer through the Devonian.

SE Borden Gets 7,100-Foot Test

P. R. Rutherford No. 2 W. E. Murphy is to be a 7,100-foot wildcat in Southeast Borden County to try to get commercial oil production from the Pennsylvanian lime reef.

It will be 2,867 feet from west and 467 feet from south lines of section 52, block 25, E&TC survey. That will make it 7,100 feet northeast of the nearest completed oil well from the reef line on the northeast side of the Reinecke field.

Drilling is to begin immediately. This prospector will be 2,400 feet east of the same operator's No. 1 W. E. Murphy, a recently completed failure in the reef.

Rutherford had a thin reef lime pay section in No. 1 Murphy, which made some oil, but water developed along with the oil and it was impossible to make an oil well of the project.

Clear Fork Project Staked In SW Gaines

Intex Oil Company No. 1 P. S. Dunbar is to be a 7,100-foot wildcat to explore the Clear Fork lime in Southwest Gaines County.

The prospector will be only 600 feet east of the east line of Lea County, New Mexico, and one and one-half miles southeast of the House-San Andres field in Lea County.

Location is 600 feet from south and west lines of section 25, block A-12, red survey. Drilling with rotary tools is to start immediately.

The wildcat is being drilled on a lease secured by Intex from Forest Oil Corporation in a farmout deal. The project is being supported by Union Oil Company of California, Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company and Amerada Petroleum Corporation. Those concerns have agreed to make dry hole contributions toward its drilling.

NW Upton Opener Coring Ellenburger

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company No. 1 McElroy Ranch, Ellenburger discovery in Northwest Upton County, 18 miles northwest of Rankin, is coring below 12,233 feet.

Operator pulled a core from 12,209 to 12,231 feet. Recovery was 19 1/2 feet of fractured, porous lime with a good odor of oil and gas. There were no signs of water on the recovery.

A drillstem test probably will be run after the core now being cut is pulled.

The latest oilstem test in the discovery was from 12,154 to 12,209 feet. It lasted four hours and 15 minutes.

Gas surfaced in 35 minutes. Oil came to the top in two hours and 10 minutes. During the first hour it flowed to tanks, it made $6.91 barrels of oil and during the second hour it made $4.96 barrels.

Location is 690 feet from south and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 129, block D, CC&D&RGNG survey.

Discovery Finaled In SE Cochran Area

Two miles west of production in the Slaughter field of Southeast Cochran County, Blackwood & Nichols Company of Midland has completed its No. 1 Dean as a discovery from the San Andres.

The opener was completed for a daily flowing potential of 388.06 barrels of oil flowing through open two-inch tubing.

Pay was topped at 5,013 feet. Total depth is 5,038 feet. Five and one-half-inch oil string was set at 4,964 feet.

The potential was based on an actual six hour flow of 89.91 barrels of fluid of which six per cent was water and the rest oil.

Location is 978 feet from north and 747 feet from east lines of the east half of the west quarter of league 91, Lipscomb County school land survey. That makes it 12 1/2 miles southwest of Whittace.

Frank Costello, Who Took Walk From Hearing, Told To Return Or Face Arrest

NEW YORK—(AP)—Racketeer Frank Costello, who defiantly walked out of the Senate Crime Committee hearing Thursday, was ordered to return Friday afternoon.

The bigtime gambler was told to come back or face arrest.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the committee, said a U. S. marshal would be sent to inform Costello of the ultimatum.

The new directive came after a physician reported Costello is able to testify.

The gambler, before he stomped out of the hearing room, had claimed he was ill, and unable to continue answering questions.

Dr. Vincent J. Panatieri said he had examined Costello and found him able to appear for a "reasonable" length of time.

It was on the basis of Dr. Panatieri's certificate, stating that Costello was suffering "from acute laryngitis," that the gambler had declared his right to walk out.

On the basis of the doctor's testimony, Kefauver said, "it appears that Mr. Costello is physically able to answer a certain number of questions for at least a time."

Costello's rebellious departure threatened him with arrest on contempt charges.

As Costello took the witness chair for a third day, his attorney, George Wolf, read a prepared statement condemning the Klieg lights in the courtroom, the grinding of newspaper and television cameras and "the hordes of photographers x x x darting about."

Because of the "intolerable conditions" in the courtroom, the attorney said, his client was "unable to testify properly, x x x could not properly concentrate and x x x as a result, his answers were incoherent, unintelligible and at times incoherent." (Continued On Page Nine)

They'll Remember St. Pat Saturday

There'll be the wearing of the Green here Saturday.

Midlanders of Irish descent will join the Irish from over the world to honor St. Patrick, the patron saint of the Emerald Isle.

If any planned festivities celebrating the occasion were scheduled in Midland, nobody announced them.

But it doesn't matter. The Irish just celebrate this occasion spontaneously, anyway.

Midlander Charged In Auto Theft

HOUSTON—(AP)—A Midland man arrested Thursday night at a Pasadena hospital was returned to Fort Worth Friday on an automobile theft charge.

He is Charles H. Gabler, 29, who stumbled into the Pasadena hospital Thursday night and said he was suffering from amnesia. He left a 1950 Lincoln Continental parked nearby.

Pasadena Police Chief Edd Miller said Gabler is charged in Fort Worth with theft of the automobile from Mrs. Paula Ruth Brower of Denton.

Fort Worth police arrived in Pasadena Friday with a warrant. They returned home immediately with Gabler.

Omaha Jailbreaker Falls Before Guns Of Arizona Officers

ST. JOHN, ARIZ.—(AP)—A wild West style gun fight has written the final chapter in the career of Dewey Battershaw, widely-known Omaha, Neb., jailbreaker.

Battershaw, 21, fell before the guns of Northern Arizona sheriff's deputies in a roaring battle eight miles west of here late Thursday. His two companions, Clifford Battershaw, a 17-year-old younger brother, and Victor Sweet, 24, were captured.

All three were wanted for a break from the Douglas County jail at Omaha March 4. The younger Battershaw, wielding a pistol, aided the other two in gaining their freedom.

Their fight with police here, begun as a routine chase after a speeding car, ended in a battle from tree to tree across the cedar-studded countryside.

Highway Patrolman Ray Dahm and Emmett Wilhelm, Apache County undersheriff, spotted a late model Dodge racing through town Thursday evening. They gave chase. Auto Careers Wildly

The fleeing car accelerated, careening wildly down the highway. It struck a dip and plunged off the road, as a bullet smashed through the pursuing patrol car's windshield.

The Dodge overturned several times. The three desperadoes climbed out and took off into the brush, firing as they went. Dahm and Wilhelm summoned help by radio and went after them.

As more police rushed to the scene, the desperadoes kept moving farther from the road. They took cover behind trees and underground, keeping the officers at bay.

Finally Highway Patrolmen Harley Thompson and Bill Sorrells caught the trio as they moved onto a ridge. They pinned them there with steady drum fire from high-powered rifles.

The Woman Pays, But Baby Dampens 'Ardu' In Court

A blue-eyed, 14-month-old boy had the last laugh Friday in the Midland police department.

One member of the department had been unkind enough to put a red overtime parking ticket on his mother's car and she had the baby in her arms when she brought the summons to Corporation Court.

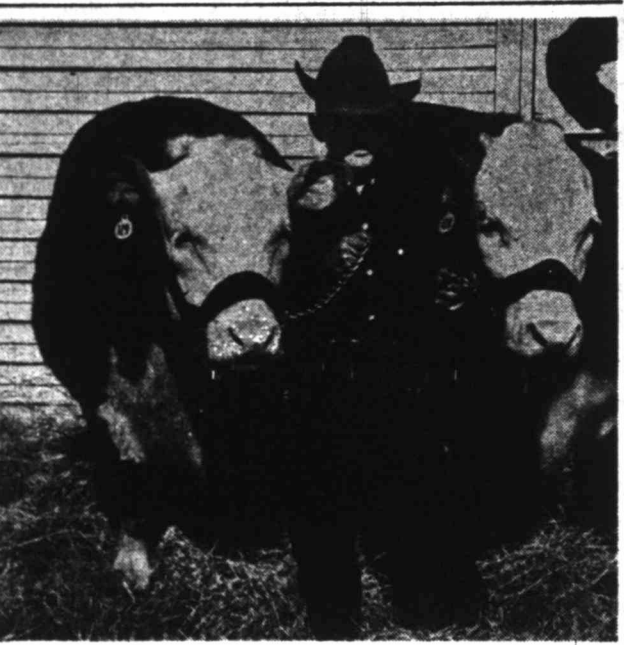

"I think you all are real mean," she teased when Judge J. M. DeArmond told her the fine would be $1.

She turned and thrust the baby at Police Chief Jack Ellington standing nearby.

"Here," she said, "hold him while I write out a check."

A minute later the mother and baby left and all the court attaches waved a merry goodbye to the youngster.

All except Chief Ellington. "This is Midland," he muttered with a sheepish grin. "He was wet."

The chant of the auctioneer Friday was ringing down the curtain on the annual Midland Livestock Show.

The auction sale, final event of the three-day show, was scheduled to begin at 1 p. m. in the sales barn of the Midland Livestock Auction Company with M. G. McConal as auctioneer.

Sixth Man Arrested In Car Theft Ring

ALBUQUERQUE—(AP)—A sixth man was arrested Thursday night at Brownwood, Texas, in what the FBI terms one of the largest car theft rings yet seen. Arrest of a seventh, cleaning up the investigation, was expected momentarily.

The FBI said the latest man to be arrested in connection with the ring is James B. Van Hus, Brownwood, believed to be the Texas garage man who supplied the ring with titles to wrecked cars.

Federal and state officers climaxed an intensive probe into the four-state ring's activities earlier this week with the arrest of three men at Taos, N. M., and two in Albuquerque. They said they have accounted for 43 cars the organization is credited with stealing, mostly in Texas, with a few in New Mexico, Oklahoma and Missouri.

The stolen vehicles were disposed of on Taos and Albuquerque used car lots, after the motor numbers were altered to conform with the titles to wrecked cars.

One of those arrested earlier was a University of New Mexico policeman, Raymond Gainski, 21, who acted as a part-time car salesman. The other four are Clark Keltling, 38, Indio, Calif.; Harden C. Kemper, 49, Taos; E. H. Sigler, 24, Texas, Arkansas, Texas, and Clarence Edward Shoffner, 21, Childress, Texas. All face charges of interstate transportation of stolen autos.

Bids On Painting By Saint-Lou Now Being Received

Bids on the oil painting, "This Is Midland," which has been on display in various downtown locations the last two weeks, now are being received by The Reporter-Telegram.

The typical Midland scene, created by Saint-Lou, noted French impressionist, will be sold to the highest bidder, with the entire proceeds going to the Midland Memorial Hospital.

The bids should be accompanied by checks, made payable to the Midland Memorial Hospital, or by other evidence of good faith. Names of the bidders will be published unless otherwise requested.

"This Is Midland" now is on display in the lobby of Hotel Scharbauer.

GI's Resume March After Sharp Fight

TOKYO—(AP)—American troops overwhelmed desperate Reds in a roaring artillery duel on the Korean war front Friday and then crashed ahead for new gains.

The Reds threw their heaviest artillery fire of the war. Americans answered with a barrage that out-thundered the Reds 50 shells to one.

The drive carried an American division onto high ground north of Hongchon, an important road hub 20 miles south of Parallel 38.

Earlier Friday, the Reds abruptly halted their eight-day retreat on the central front. They turned on the Allies with their heaviest artillery barrage yet.

Then came the roaring American echo. United Nations warplanes joined in the blasting with rockets, fire-bombs and machine guns.

The Allied answer to the Communist stand boomed throughout most of Friday.

Front dispatches did not identify the U. S. troops in the action. Nor did they give the distance of the American advance.

But they said Chinese Communists had thrown reserves into the fight north of Hongchon. Elements of the 39th and 40th Chinese Communist Armies (corps) were identified in action there. The units last were reported farther east in February.

Red Opposition Crumbles

House Panel Pares Post Office Funds

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee Friday recommended a $36,525,000 cut in next year's budget of the Treasury and Post Office Departments.

That represents a reduction of about 1.3 per cent under the amount President Truman asked for the two departments for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee asked the House to cut that much from the $2,935,125,000 requested, applying $11,151,000 of the reduction to the Treasury's request for $597,251,000, and $25,374,000 to the $2,360,874,000 sought for the Post Office Department.

The bill will be debated by the House next Tuesday. It is the first of the departmental budget bills to be presented to the House this year. The Appropriations Committee abandoned last year's system of lumping the entire federal budget into a single measure.

Compared with current appropriations for the two departments, the bill's total represents a cut of $58,021,800.

The committee turned down the Post Office Department's request for money to hire 200 additional postal inspectors and 35 postal clerks but said it does not object to employment of additional inspectors if the department can finance the program from available funds.

It added that the department is "dragging its feet when it comes to the installation of modern mechanical equipment" in its large city offices.

Martin Is Selected To Succeed McCabe

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman has picked William McCheyne Martin to succeed Thomas B. McCabe, who resigned Thursday as Federal Reserve Board chairman.

Martin has been serving as assistant secretary of the Treasury two years. McCabe will return to private business.

Crane Man Injured When Car Overturns

CRANE—Dick Lovelace, about 35, was injured seriously early Friday when his car struck a crushed-rock pile on a highway under construction 12 miles north of Crane.

Sheriff M. E. Lear said the accident occurred on Highway 51 when Lovelace, driving alone, was going to his job with a drilling company at Seagraves. The highway is under construction. The car traveled about 200 feet after Lovelace was thrown out by the impact.

Doctors at Crane Memorial Hospital said he suffered cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries and the extent of his injuries would not be known for 24 hours. Lovelace was picked up at the accident scene by Bill Alexander, who was driving a car ahead of him.

Saturday Is Deadline For Trustee Filing

Saturday is the deadline for candidate filing in the April 7 school trustee election, school officials announced Friday.

Only two candidates, Robert M. Payne and R. U. Pitting, Jr., have filed with Mrs. Ernest Sidwell, board secretary, for the two trustee vacancies.

The terms of V. C. Maley and Mrs. W. H. Gilmore as members of the Board of Education expire next month.

Proposed Congressional Reshuffle Would Put Midland County Into San Angelo District

AUSTIN—(AP)—A congressional redistricting plan boasting strong House committee support was distributed Friday for informal study. The Legislature was in recess for the weekend.

Rep. Paul Wilson of Geneva, a leader in planning the realignment of districts to conform to population shifts, said the bill had support of 16 of the 21 House Redistricting Committee members. He also claimed advance approval by almost two-thirds of the 150 representatives.

"Three or four of our 21 congressmen may be unhappy, but the rest should be satisfied with the new setup," Wilson told The Associated Press.

Unhappy Congressmen
He said the unhappy congressmen probably would be Reps. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls, Omar Burleson of Anson, Ken Regan of Midland and Tom Pickett of Palestine.

The redistricting effort would put Gossett and Burleson in the same district.

Regan would be shoved into a district where Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo would have predominant strength. Pickett would have to run against

Rep. Lindley Beckworth of Gladewater in a district made up mostly of counties which now belong to Beckworth, Wilson explained.

Harris County (Houston) would gain the additional congressman to which Texas is entitled because of increased population. The new plan would divide Harris County into two districts, Nos. 8 and 22.

Dallas and Bexar (San Antonio) Counties would be single-county districts, Nos. 5 and 20, respectively. Three 'Vacant' Districts

Tarrant County (Fort Worth) and its neighbor to the west, Parker County, would create District 12.

Three districts would be carved out which would have no present congressman residing in them. One is in North Central, one in South, and another in far West Texas.

They would be made up of the following counties:

District 11—Stephens, Palo Pinto, Taylor, Callahan, Eastland, Erath, Hood, Johnson, Ellis, Comanche, Hamilton, Bosque, Hill, Navarro and Somervell.

District 18—Webb, McMullen, Live Oak, Bee, Refugio, Aransas, Calhoun, Victoria, Goliad, DeWitt, Karnes, Gonzales, Wilson, Guada-

Europe's Jaded Cynics

European intellectuals like to think of themselves as the most mature people politically to be found anywhere in the world. They take as one sign of this "maturity" the fact that many of them reject capitalism in favor of socialism or some other system of state control.

From their lofty eminence, they see America as the practitioner of an "outmoded" capitalism which permits businessmen to exploit workers and gouge the public for huge personal profit.

This gross misunderstanding of the U. S. economic system has a number of sad consequences. First of all, it leads many Europeans to regard America with contempt and distaste, and thus to resent the necessity for their dependence on our financial aid.

Secondly, it predisposes these same people to keep alive in their minds an undeserved sympathy for communism. Though they profess to be shocked at the horrors of totalitarian brutality, these intellectuals can't escape the feeling that the socialist, "cooperative" aspects of communism are desirable.

Some even believe that worldwide communism is inevitable. Said one in Britain: "To oppose communism is to go against the grain of events."

The basic mistake made by such Europeans is the identifying of present-day American capitalism with the European variety. This latter in too many places still is the discredited, exploiting, selfish brand of capitalism that has flourished in continental Europe since the industrial revolution.

The capitalism of 1951 America bears slight resemblance to this. It has welfare and security features that surpass the social safeguards of Europe's socialist economies. For from exploiting workers, it pays them amazingly high wages.

This is not to say our system is without flaws. It has plenty of them. But both management and labor are working to correct them. Less and less does the feeling exist among the laboring rank and file that the worker and the boss are natural enemies.

Furthermore, our economic system is proving again and again that it has within itself a dynamic drive that keeps it expansive, progressive, flexible. It is far more powerful and productive than it was even a bare six years ago.

Furthermore, our economic system is proving again partly our fault, since we seldom do a good job of explaining to others how our system works. But it is certainly the fault, too, of the Europeans themselves.

What they mistakenly assume is their "maturity" is in fact a dismal resignation and defeatism in the face of today's economic dilemmas. In turning to state control, whether Communist or any other, they actually are surrendering to reaction.

War-weary and disillusioned, they do not even take the trouble to distinguish between their own moth-eaten brand of capitalism and the driving force that motivates the U. S. economy. Seemingly they do not read, or perhaps they do not believe what they read. If this is so, perhaps the smartest thing they could do is to come over here and see what really is going on.

Anything we in the U. S. can do to encourage this education of the European by travel should be done. Experience has shown that this eye-opener really works. It's high time we helped the European to cast off some of his enervating "maturity" and infuse his spirit with some of America's "immature" vigor.

Two miles northwest of Hoengsong on the Korean front, a band of Marines came upon the latest massacre of American soldiers by Chinese Reds. The men, traveling in a strung-out convoy, had been brutally ambushed.

Bodies of GI's were crumpled in rice paddies flooded by recent thaws. Some were found in, under and around the 40 trucks and half a dozen field pieces in the convoy. Many were burned, suggesting the Chinese once more had resorted to their humanitarian specialty: pouring gasoline over their victims and touching it off. Several soldiers had their ankles tied and they had been shot in the head.

Perhaps a handful were killed in fair fighting. The rest were murdered before they could man their guns. Said a Marine officer: "It must have been all over in a matter of minutes."

This is war as Communists fight it. It comes easy to them, since they have no faith in moral codes of behavior on or off the battlefield, and no regard for human beings.

We must expect to hear reports like this from time to time so long as a Communist is left anywhere with a gun or some weapon of political power.

When you throw all care to the winds, look out they don't blow it right back.

Any man who always promotes harmony finds it easy to face the music.

His Memory Slips A Cog Occasionally

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Heroic backstage wire-pulling needed to put across Italy's new armament program; Wiping out Italian unemployment, it should help banish communism; Gervasi's work as chief of ECA information in Italy stands out.

(Ed. Note: Drew Pearson is on a flying tour of Europe and the Middle East, surveying the world situation.)

ROME — The inside fact about the new armament program just voted by the Italian Parliament is that it was put across only after some heroic backstage wire-pulling which few people, even those in official life, know about. The behind-the-scenes story illustrates what terrific uphill obstacles the United States faces in both rearmament Europe and inspiring internal reforms over here.

The rearmament move really began when Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza, a great friend of the United States, became worried about the bad press Italy was getting in the United States and asked some of his American newspaper friends about it. Their reply was "don't you realize that American boys are dying in Korea, that we all face possible war with Russia, yet Italy is doing nothing about it? The American people are getting tired of protecting the rest of the world."

Rearmament was not in Sforza's bailiwick. Furthermore, it was not in the bailiwick of certain American connected with the Marshall Plan who talked to Sforza about rearmament. Both were on delicate ground because he risked offending U. S. Ambassador James Dunn, who follows the old-fashioned diplomatic theory that you must not jog the elbow of foreign governments regarding domestic policies and he was reluctant to crack down on the small-like pace of Italian rearmament.

However, Sforza finally came up with a 26-page rearmament plan which was so confidential that it was given to ECA officials in the Rome railroad station by Sforza's deputy, so they wouldn't be seen together.

The ECA officials sent back word that the proposed plan chiefly called for more expenditures by the already overburdened American taxpayer and that any real Italian rearmament plan also must provide for Italian sacrifices. More conferences followed, out of which was finally evolved the $400,000,000 arms bill okayed by the Italian Parliament last week.

Money Wanted By Army
The new Italian arms bill can bring about a complete end of communism here, provided Italy is able to get all-too-scarce steel, aluminum and copper from the United States. For the new program should reactivate the northern automobile and tank factories, which have been virtually idle since the war, and wipe out Italian unemployment—the chief cause of communism.

However, the inside fact is a lot of money also will be wasted under Italian rearmament. The army, for instance, still maintains huge farms, theoretically for breeding cavalry horses. Though the cavalry long since has passed from use, the army clique refuses to relinquish its vast landed estates and Minister of Defense Randofo Paolardi, a devotee of David Dubinsky and the International Ladies Garment Workers, hasn't dared to buck the military hierarchy to bring about needed economies. In fact, Paolardi quietly has appealed to American military advisers to pressure him for these economies.

This illustrates in Italian bureaucracy something which would make Senator Byrd fume. Commerce Minister Ivan Matteo Lombardo, commenting privately on this bureaucracy, once remarked "I have 13 stenographers. If I fire all but three of them I could get some work done, but with 13 they just get in each other's way." This bureaucracy has piled up the Italian people do when you leave them alone?

For some months Gervasi, a former Hearst newspaperman and roving correspondent for Collier's, has been putting new life into American propaganda in Italy. Thanks to him, millions of Italian people now know what the Marshall Plan has brought them. Three of his publications are among the most ingenious in Europe. One is a comic magazine called "The Story of America" which is sold on newsstands weekly and is lapped up by the Italian public.

Another is "Il Campi" or "The Land," a monthly magazine for farmers which is increasing Italian agricultural output and at the same time is getting across the fact that the United States has extended great help to Italy. The third is called "Illustrated Worker," a poor man's Collier's, aimed at weaning labor away from the Communists. The last-named is so popular that, in six months, it has reached a newsstand circulation of 200,000 and soon will become a paying proposition.

Gervasi's ingenuity has done a great deal to give communism its heavy setback in Italy. Yet, when plans for future American publicity here recently were submitted to the American Embassy, Ambassador Dunn carefully struck out Gervasi's proposed plans.

Finally, while the American Embassy hesitated, Frank Gervasi, the live-wire chief of ECA information, got busy. He organized a committee of pro-American Italians which, working backstage with the ECA, concocted some of the most effective posters ever seen in Italy.

Jean Bellard, son-in-law of Edgar Ansel Mowrer and now French attache on Eisenhower's staff, conceived one brilliant idea—namely, quoting from the Moscow press at the time Eisenhower liberated Europe. One set of posters therefore featured the hammer and sickle with quotes from Izvestia and Pravda hailing Ike as a great liberator. At the bottom of the poster was the date: May, 1945. Other posters featured Ike in his Columbia University cap and gown, regretfully laying aside his books to don an out-grown uniform.

Overnight, squads organized by the ECA went out, tore down the Communist posters and put up the new set. Few people had any idea who inspired the overnight change. In fact, gracious Ambassador Dunn, riding through Rome's streets the next day, remarked, "You see what

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service
As a rule, a suit is biddable if it contains at least four cards. There are situations, however, in which a player should not hesitate to bid a three-card suit. Today's hand illustrates the point.

North has no trouble in illustrating his opening bid. But after he bid one diamond and South responded with one spade, what should North do next? Many possibilities suggest themselves, but all except one are very bad. Let us consider the bad bids first and see why they are bad.

North cannot raise spades. A raise to only two spades is an underbid, while a raise to three spades slightly overstates the strength and seriously overstates the length of North's spades. It is most undesirable to give your partner a double raise with only three trumps.

North cannot rebid in no-trump. North has no trouble in illustrating his opening bid. But after he bid one diamond and South responded with one spade, what should North do next? Many possibilities suggest themselves, but all except one are very bad. Let us consider the bad bids first and see why they are bad.

Bridge hand diagram showing cards for NORTH (D) 16, WEST, SOUTH, and EAST with specific card distributions.

A bid of one no-trump would be an underbid, while a jump to two no-trump is unaccounted because of the weak doubton in hearts. Any jump bid in no-trump should guarantee a stopper in each of the unbid suits.

North cannot rebid the diamonds. A rebid of only two diamonds is an underbid, while a jump to three diamonds overstates the strength of that suit and is not sufficiently informative.

For example, if North happens to bid three diamonds, what should South then do? Should he bid three no-trump with no stopper in clubs? If not, what else can he bid?

The only remaining possibility is a rebid of two clubs. This misstates the length of North's clubs, but has no other defect. If South can rebid the spades, North will be able to raise that suit enthusiastically.

If South can stop the hearts, he will know that the clubs are taken care of and can therefore bid no-trump confidently. Even if South has to pass two clubs, without even being able to give a reference bid of two diamonds, there will be no game in the hand, and the chances are that two clubs is not a particularly bad contract.

When this hand was actually played, declarer let the opponents win the first club trick and then had no further trouble.

Dummy won the second round of clubs and the diamonds were begun at once. East took the ace of diamonds and could not continue clubs; so that the rest of the play was very easy. Declarer made two clubs, four diamonds, two hearts and two spades for a total of ten tricks.

Economic Aspects Of Japanese Treaty Pose Tough Problems

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Purely economic aspects of making a peace treaty with Japan present some interesting problems. Most attention so far has been paid to the political and military parts of the treaty.

Whether or not to rebuild Japan's army and navy and to make Japan an independent nation is of course the first worry of countries which the Japs overran in the last war.

But whether to rebuild Japan's industrial and commercial might presents even graver risks. It was the old Japanese empire's business aggressiveness—the desire to create a greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere—that really started the last war in the Pacific.

Japan wanted to dominate the whole Oriental market, with its billion potential customers.

The Japanese have been, and are today, the only people in the Orient with the capacity and potential for a highly industrialized civilization. At the end of the war a deliberate effort was made to cripple this capacity. In particular, plants that could make armaments were dismantled.

Today there is a better understanding that Japan's industry has something to contribute to defense against Communist aggression in the Pacific area. Take steel, for example.

Japan's steel producing capacity is 10,000,000 tons a year. Only 10 per cent of U. S. capacity, but it's important. If the Communist block of countries had it, it would be that much of an additional strain on American steel-making capacity, and it might throw the balance in favor of the Communies. So Japanese steel production must be maintained.

The argument against reparations is that the Japanese simply don't have what it takes to pay them. As far as the Philippines—the biggest sufferers—are concerned, they already have received more postwar aid from the United States than they would be able to collect from Japan in reparations.

In these negotiations with Japan, the experience of Ambassador John Foster Dulles as special representative of the President comes in good stead. After World War I, Dulles was counsel to the U. S. Commission to negotiate peace with Germany, and on the Reparations Commission. Nobody collected much reparations from Germany and the postwar curbs didn't work. Japan is Germany all over again.

The same is true of electric power, aluminum and copper production, textile and chemicals production. The trouble is that Japan's former sources of raw materials for these manufacturers have been cut off.

In the case of steel, Japan formerly got its iron ore and coking coal from Manchuria. Red China and Russia now control those supplies. So if Japan's steel production is to be kept going at capacity, it may be up to the United States, Canada, India, Indonesia and other countries to make up the deficiencies. And if the Communies take over all of Southeast Asia, Japan's rice supplies will be cut off.

This may mean the setting up of some new trade patterns on top of the old patterns which contributed to Japan's prosperity before the war. In the opinion of American trade experts, this can be done. But in doing it, a lot of opposition from the British, Australians, New Zealanders, Filipinos and other neighbors of Japan must be overcome.

They all fear revival of Japanese competition in the Pacific. They don't want to see the Japanese merchant marine fleet built up again.

Diamonds K-J-9-5-2, Clubs A-K-4. What do you do?
A—Bid two clubs. The bidding of this hand is discussed in today's article.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Have a Laugh

By BOYCE HOUSE

A few years ago when the warfare between Jew and Arab was raging in the Holy Land, an aged Jew stood at the walling wall in Jerusalem while snow flurried about him and he held the frayed overcoat tightly about his thin form as he said, over and over, "Oh, that I might be with my people!"

A passerby, touched by the lament, could picture a helpless family surrounded by fierce Arabs, and he asked, "Where are your people?" The old man replied, "In Miami, Florida."

He was startled. "You're 18! No, Midge, not 18."
"Eighteen next May. But I don't think there's anything we can do about it." She laughed as brightly as she could. "Get ready. In the spirit of Christmas, I'll drive you to the train."

MIDGE, as the train pulled out, stood in the snowy dusk of the station, smiling.

The image of her speeding him on his way, as Tim supposed, was warm and pleasant and he held to it until the train was well out of the station. Then, the image faded and vanished.

For Midge, it was an almost unbearably long and empty drive back to the hospital.

Night had settled over New York and snow was falling as Tim's cab squirmed its way out through Fifth Avenue traffic, but there was little sign of dark or snow in the brilliant tumult of mazelike lights and decorations, shining store windows and massed glowing faces everywhere proclaiming the approach of Christmas.

The shop of Jean Paul on 56th Street was richly lighted. Business hours were over, but several employees were still at work, putting away fabrics, hats, dresses, straightening out the chaos of the day.

Tim entered timidly, boyishly. It was his first visit to a gown shop. He saw an enchanted, many-mirrored place, with a decor bright and modern but still quaintly color-schemed in deep rose and ice blue, with hats poised on pedestals as if for flight, with perfume bottles and costume jewelry glittering on shelves and in show cases, with evening gowns on stunning mannequins, with bolts of colorful fabrics still on view.

Here and there, as slowly with his canes he made his way into the shop, he recognized designs of his own and he had the pleasant feeling of being a co-creator of this beautiful world.

This was a woman's place, and yet in his pride of achievement he felt more of a man than he had since Normandy.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran, has been keeping the exclusive gown shop "Jean Paul" in business with his designs. Not realizing his value to the firm, he works because of his infatuation with Jean Paul, a model and one of the partners in the firm. Midge, Jean's sister, creates the illusion she cares for Tim, she knows that Tim is really a man who has kept up indefinitely and she attempts to shift Tim's attention to Midge. A love affair blossoms between the two. Midge, who is blind, is completely, stylish outfit with which to dance. Tim, Midge is angry when Midge seems to like her in the outfit, and goes out of the hospital reception room, slamming the door. Tim bumps his head on the door and discovers he can wave his feet and will be able to walk again. Tim plans to surprise Jean on his return from a trip abroad. At 56th Street, Jean is still excited over her cure, but little by little she realizes he is still thinking of Jean and she wishes reproachfully that "Midge's miracle" had never taken place.

came. Tim did not hold Jean's not calling against her. She was, he told himself, too much in the turmoil of arriving home to have time to telephone.

Nonetheless, he was disappointed. Tim persuaded himself that she was planning to come out to Cedarbrook without calling as she had done before. That consoled him though it did not altogether quiet his impatience.

Then, suddenly, out of his impatience came an idea. Why not go into New York and visit her? That would really be a surprise. He was astonished he had not thought of the idea before. He had been a prisoner of the wheel chair so long, he had not fully realized how free he was now to go and come.

The idea came to him on a snowy afternoon in one of the middle days of December when preparations for Christmas were in the air and holly and evergreen trees had begun to appear at doors and windows.

MIDGE had come up that afternoon with a truck load of spruce and fir branches and a dozen rolls of red ribbon to help decorate the recreation room.

Tim, in his new enthusiasm, grabbed her, told her his plan to go to New York to surprise Jean. She was very solemn, said nothing.

"Don't approve? Look." He showed her how well he could walk with canes. "Almost as good as new. Almost."

She still kept her solemn silence. He was amused. "My, but you're getting old and sedate, Midge."

She softened, tried to join him in his light mood. "Uh-huh. Plucked my first gray hair today." "It's the wrinkles I notice," Gaily, he patted her under the chin. "Especially around the neck."

"Little wonder. In 30 years I'll be 48."

Midland Seniors Present 'Icebound'

"Icebound," the 1951 senior class play being presented Friday, is the story of personalities as grim as its New England Winter setting. Curtain time is 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium. The opening performance was given Thursday.

The first act finds the Jordan family gathered in the parlor restlessly awaiting the death of their mother upstairs and even more restlessly awaiting the reading of her will. Here Mrs. Jordan plays a trick on her selfish children for the entire estate is left to Jane Crosby, a servant girl, convincingly played by Beverly Keisling.

The action from there on out centers around Jane's efforts to teach the family a lesson and her, at least partial, success.

Members and adopted members of the greedy family include the eldest, Henry Jordan, played by Clint Dunagan, and his wife, Emma, played by Joyce Howell. Martjann Forrest takes the part of Nettie, the wheedling little gold-digger who is Emma's daughter by a former marriage.

Cast Listed

Sadie Fellows, a widow who once was Sadie Jordan, is played by Mary Neil, while Shirley Harrison as Orine, her daughter, furnishes a welcome note of comedy. Mary Jo Heil portrays Ella Jordan, the inevitable unmarried sister who considers staying at home with her mother a sacrifice worthy of an ample financial reward.

Joe Barnett does a nice job in the part of Ben Jordan, the prodigal son who nevertheless has his redeeming features. Judge Bradford of the circuit court is portrayed by Dolan Brynson.

Deiphane Tabor is the servant whose part of Hannah, the excellent in the part of Hannah, the servant whose homely philosophizing furnishes a shrewd commentary on the grasping nature of her employers. Dr. Curtis is played by Clifford Wilcox and the part of Jim Jay, a deputy sheriff, is taken by Guy Vanderpool.

Costumes Are Authentic

The costumes of the play which is set in the late 1920's are for the most part originals worn in the cast did their own makeup.

Verna Harris, Midland High School speech teacher, is the director. She is assisted by Swan Hagler, student director and manager. Jo Ann Nelson is in charge of the programs and Leon Cline is handling the publicity.

Those working on the sets were Russell Fuller, Douglas Atwell, Kenneth Wright, Swan Hagler, Lynn Griffith, Charles Crabtree and Jim Lock. Members of the ticket committee are Josephine Weaver, Ruth Donnell, Dorothy Perkins, Mrs. Elsie Magee, Mrs. Faye Massey, Mrs. Mary Phyllis and F. D. Rutledge.

Ushers are Wanda Burnside, Margie Cramer, La Dean Johnson, Jo Ann Nelson, Isleta Terry and Nancy Webb.

David Lavery is the head of the senior class. Other officers are Guy Vanderpool, vice president; Roy Ripley, secretary; Wanda Burnside, treasurer; and Deiphane Tabor, sergeant-at-arms.

"Icebound" was written by Owen Davis and produced through arrangements with Longmans, Green and Company of New York.

Love Animals, But Mo ney Talks—

Future Ranchers Bring 'Dreams' To Stock Show

By TANNER LAINE

Jimmy Lucas flicked a small pellet of hay from the broad back of "Charles."

"Charles" was his pride and joy—his show steer.

Jimmy punched "Charles" with a stick to straighten the handsome Hereford's legs. The reaction seemed to be automatic.

In this fat and full-bloomed steer was a year's work for Jimmy.

All of Jimmy's hopes and dreams were going into the show ring where they would come true or be shattered.

feeding him cracked corn, cottonseed meal and Alcomo. In June, he went on milk pellets and alfalfa leaf meal and linseed pellets. Then came sweet feeds.

"I bathed him every day. I brushed him every morning and every night. Brushing is more important than combing. It makes his hair long and gives it a shine.

"I trained him to lead and to stand. If a steer acts up in the show ring the judge may hold it against him. I fed him to get fat on the ribs and hips and have good flanks. I wanted his color to be good."

His baby beef was entered in the Midland Livestock Show.

The hopes and dreams of a lot of 4-H Club and FFA boys and girls go into the livestock show.

The show is the climax—the payoff—of many long weeks of preparation by the young exhibitors. Those blue ribbons are the big goal.

They mean more money at the auction sale, a handsome profit.

Agonizing Moments

It is no wonder then that moments in the show ring, in competition with the stock of the other boys and girls, can be agonizing for a club youngster.

The judge stalks up to a calf or lamb. He looks. He feels. His face is "poker." He calls for a circle of the entries. He ponders. He feels again. He begins to line the animals. He is picking the blue-ribbon winner.

It takes a year of hard work to put a prize animal in the show and there are weeks upon weeks of feeding, training and constant watching and worrying whether it's a blue-ribbon winner or just an entry.

Jimmy was nervous. Much was at stake. His steer seemed to sense the "big moment," too.

"I hope the judge feels from his head toward his rear. Charles gets nervous if you feel him from the back to the front. I wonder which that judge is going to do?" Jimmy said.

He told about "Charles."

"I got him from A. G. Bohannan when he was about a month old. Dad and Mr. Bohannan picked him out. I named him 'Charles' for my county agent (Charles Green), who was so helpful to me.

Feeding Program

"The first month, I fed him hay and oats and by the second month fed hay, whole grain corn and oats. This was in March and April of last year. By the third month, I was

'Won't Talk, Eh?' Police Solve Case Quickly, Anyway

The body of the well-dressed figure was draped grotesquely over the jagged edges of a shattered display window glass Thursday night at the S and Q Clothiers, 114 North Main Street.

Sergeant Robert Drake, returning home from a meeting of the Texas National Guard unit, took one horrified look and summoned police.

Police immediately investigated and breathed a sigh of relief at what they found.

The "well-dressed man" was a display dummy that had fallen forward and smashed the big plate glass window.

Daddy Ringtail And Whisker Trouble

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, never would have guessed that so much trouble would come from his white whiskers. They weren't his whiskers, of course. They belonged to the Featherman and to Little Mister Fixit.

"Daddy Ringtail," they said together, "we want you to tell us. We want to know who has the longer whiskers." Poor Daddy Ringtail! He saw how the Featherman wanted his whiskers to be the longer. He saw how Little Mister Fixit wanted his own whiskers to be the longer. Neither could be happy unless his own whiskers were the longer.

Daddy Ringtail thought and thought about what he should say. Little Mister Fixit sat ever so still on a leaf that had fallen to the ground. He was a very little man, you know. Daddy Ringtail looked at him and his whiskers, and then he looked at the Featherman and his whiskers.

The Featherman sat very still on a log that lay close by the Elephant

Path. He was really a big old man, and his whiskers were very long indeed. But were they longer than Little Mister Fixit's whiskers? Or were Little Mister Fixit's whiskers longer than the Featherman's whiskers?

"Quiet!" said the Featherman. "Daddy Ringtail's about to tell us." "Featherman," said Daddy Ringtail, "your whiskers are longer, because they are as long as my arm. Little Mister Fixit's whiskers are not as long as my arm at all."

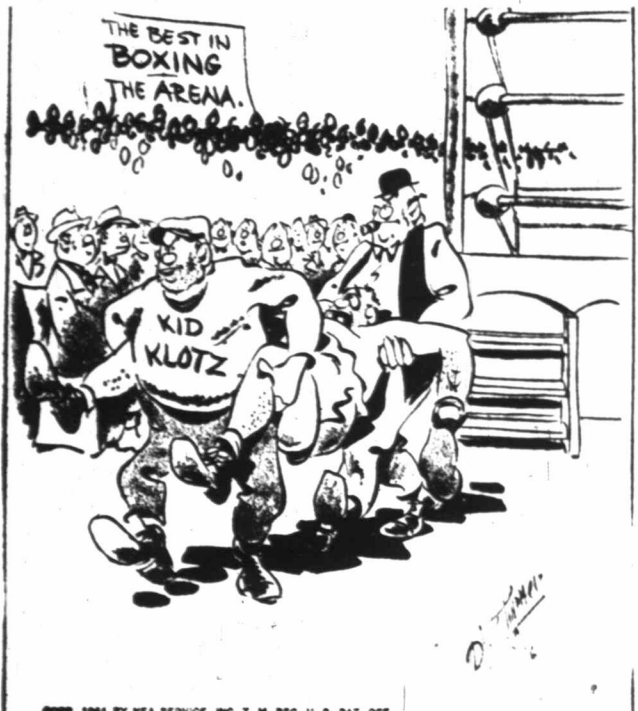

The Featherman jumped up and down three times to hear these words. He was oh so happy to hear them. But Little Mister Fixit was a very unhappy someone to hear them.

"Now don't fret yourself, Little Mister Fixit," Daddy Ringtail said to the little old man. Your whiskers are longer too, because they reach all the way down to the top of your shoes. Featherman's whiskers only reach to his belt."

Little Mister Fixit was now the one to jump three times in the air. He was happy to have the longer whiskers, and the Featherman was happy to have the longer whiskers, and there wasn't any more trouble, and so Daddy Ringtail was happy, and we can be happy too. Happy day!

Motorcycle Helps Preacher Get About

PACIFIC BEACH, CALIF.—(AP)—The Rev. Frank Crane, 27, reminds members of his church of the old time country parsons who rode horseback to visit their far-flung parishioners. The difference is that Crane, a fifth-generation Methodist minister, uses a motorcycle.

He makes daily calls on his modern contraption and says the idea has made him especially popular with the younger set.

"At first I had a tough time getting one youth group to attend Sunday meetings," he says, "but when I started giving rides on the motorcycle to all who came, the attendance boomed."

"GODSPEED..."

... An old word in our language! Really a prayer: "God speed you on your journey." And it came into use in an age when man's travels were slow and laborious.
 Why, in this supersonic day, does such a word remain in our language? Obviously, because it still expresses a deep spiritual truth.
 With all our conquests of time and distance, we are dependent on God for the fundamental needs of the soul. Though we can travel in an hour farther than our forebears travelled in a week—are we any nearer Peace, Happiness, Contentment?
 Our progress toward the real goals of life is influenced more by the Church than by rockets. Wherever we may travel, wherever we may live, the Church helps us to know and understand the power of God.
 Are you helping the Church help you? GODSPEED!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
 The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dayton, Brigham Young Gain Finals In NIT Tourney

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's Brigham Young's polished poise against the never-say-die grit of little Dayton Saturday night in the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Brigham Young, classy champion of the Skyline Six, is the favorite, but don't try to sell that merchandise to the lads from Ohio. These eager beavers, dark-horses at every pole, don't convince easily.

A howling crowd of 16,815 counted them out Thursday night in Madison Square Garden when top-seeded St. John's collared them at the final whistle and carried them, crippled and reeling, into a five-minute overtime.

Dayton's two big siege guns—towering Don Meekins and fat, trickery Lon Morris—were on the sidelines for excessive fouls and two other stalwarts, Charley Grigsby and Dick Campbell, were hobbling around on lame legs.

But the spunky Flyers whanged out a 69-62 overtime victory in the semi-final that long will stand as a monument to unadulterated pluck. They simply refused to be beaten.

Brigham Young moved into the title round on an entirely different pattern, chilling the blast-hot Seton Hall team 69-59 with such graceful ease and professional finesse that the joust tended to be boring.

But at that Regis, a 1940 finalist, had the stuff to knock out the top seeded Evansville (Ind.) Purple Aces 70-68 in one of the real thrillers of the thirteenth tournament of the NAIB.

James Millikin, with its great Scotty Steagall scoring 32 points, outclassed Florida State of Tallahassee 91-60. Baldwin-Wallace ran over cold Memphis (Tenn.) State 90-67, and Hamline won as it pleased 80-56 over New Mexico A&M.

James Millikin, with its great Scotty Steagall scoring 32 points, outclassed Florida State of Tallahassee 91-60. Baldwin-Wallace ran over cold Memphis (Tenn.) State 90-67, and Hamline won as it pleased 80-56 over New Mexico A&M.

Odessa Netters Defeat Midland

Odessa High School's tennis team defeated the Midland netters here Thursday afternoon 7-5.

Two matches were called because of darkness with the sets incomplete. Richard Burks and Jim Irving received a half-game win over Odessa's Roland and Cawther after winning the first set 6-1 and being tied 6-6 in the second when the game was called.

Mark McKines and John Zint defeated Bobby West and Jack McAfee of Odessa 6-3, then lost the second 4-6 before the tilt was called.

Complete results, Midland netters listed first: Pat Boles and Nancy Roberts lost to LaQuita McNeal and Bobby Jarrett, 3-6, 6-8.

Marion Sevier lost to Rosie Sides 6-4, 2-6, 1-6. Pat Douglas defeated John Williams 6-3, 6-1.

Jack Anderson lost to Jim Garrett 7-9, 0-6. Sue Francis was blanked by Gall Everett 0-6, 0-6.

Bobby Hudson and Tom Dyer lost to Jim Hill and Bob Pritchard 4-6, 0-6.

It was the second win this season for the Odessa netters over Coach Don Powers' Midland team.

MHS Track, Golf Teams In Cowtown

PORT WORTH—A 10-man track squad from Midland High School arrived here late Thursday to participate in the Southwest Track, Field and Exposition meet here this weekend.

Midland's four-man golf team arrived at noon Thursday and shot a practice round on the greens in the afternoon.

DALLAS—(AP)—Southern Methodist University used two big four-run innings—the first and third—to hang an 8-6 licking on Hardin-Simmons University Thursday. The two baseball teams met again Friday.

HITTING, PITCHING WORRY CINDY MOGULS

TAMPA, FLA.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds are looking for two major items—some hitting and a relief pitcher.

The hitting situation really became serious after a fourth straight Grapefruit League defeat at Miami Thursday night. The Rhinelanders got five safe blows as they dropped a 10 to 3 decision to Brooklyn. And those were against two of the Dodgers' second-line hurlers.

Over the long haul, however, the worry was relief hurling. Most observers seemed to think Bud Beryl might be the answer to that problem. The 32-year-old right-hander is expected to be given every chance to become Cincinnati's fireman.

SARASOTA, FLA.—(AP)—Walter Mulbry is in line to take over the duties of baseball commissioner temporarily if and when Happy Chandler resigns.

The four-man Executive Council quietly set up that move Monday night at Miami Beach when it refused to accept the resignation of Mulbry as secretary-treasurer of baseball, a $30,000-a-year job.

Deportation Looms For Ex-Convict In Basketball Scandal

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Justice Department has moved to deport Salvatore Sollazzo, the ex-convict accused as the master briber in the college basketball scandal here.

But the Manhattan district attorney hopes to convict him of bribery and make him serve a sentence before any deportation.

A warrant of arrest was served on Sollazzo in his jail cell Thursday in proceedings for deportation to his native Italy.

Grounds for a deportation order, the Justice Department said, include past convictions for crimes involving moral turpitude, entrance into this country without a visa, and misrepresentation of himself as an American citizen to immigration authorities.

After the warrant was served on the 47-year-old Sollazzo, a spokesman for District Attorney Frank S. Hogan expressed hope the deportation proceedings would be held in abeyance until after his trial in a state court and possible sentence.

MIAMI, FLA.—(AP)—The New York Giants have lost temporarily the services of two veteran performers—Second Baseman Eddie Stanky and Utility Outfielder Roy (Stormy) Weatherly.

Both were injured Thursday. Weatherly suffered a fractured jaw and the loss of three teeth when struck by a line drive in batting practice. Stanky was hit on the side of the left wrist attempting to catch a line drive. Weatherly will be out for six weeks and Stanky for at least four days.

GOOD THINGS COME IN THREES FOR NATS

ORLANDO, FLA.—(AP)—The Washington Senators were happy Thursday about three things: Sid Hudson and Gene Bearden took over for the Nats on the mound Thursday in the fourth inning and tied the Detroit Tigers to a single hit in six frames.

Centerfielder Irv Noren slashed an inside pitch out of the park in the seventh inning, jogging home the run that gave the Nats a 5-4 victory after they had trailed Detroit 4-0.

And outfielder Sam Mele's sore arm appeared mended.

'Clown Prince Of Golf Trickery' Will Perform At Midland, Ranchland Hill Clubs

Paul Hahn, "Clown Prince of Golf Trickery," will appear at the Midland Country Club and Ranchland Hill Club next week.

The trick-shot artist will perform at 5 p.m. Tuesday at Midland CC and at 5 p.m. the following afternoon on the Ranchland Hill greens.

The performance at Midland Country Club is for members of the club and their guests only. However, the Women's Golf Association at Ranchland Hill, sponsors of Hahn in his appearance there, reports the public may attend for a small charge. All money taken in will go toward the Women's Golf Association fund.

Hahn features other tricks such as teeing off while in a sitting position, on his knees and in other unorthodox situations.

Hahn recently completed a sports short produced by Columbia Inter-

Word from Sweetwater is that the Swatters have acquired pitchers Jesus Zarola and Jesus Torres from Laredo of the Gulf Coast League. Zarola posted a 15-4 record in a Mexican League last season, we are told.

Sweetwater sold vet infielder Harry (Rags) Ragone to Texas City. He had been purchased recently from Tyler in the East Texas loop.

Bud Worsham also sends word from Swatertown of a plan to hire a man to patrol the box seats each night to be sure the persons in the choice seats have tickets and belong there.

Worsham says it isn't a strong-arm idea at all, but to protect the rightful owners from crashers.

So sorry-department: We reported Wednesday A. Z. Sturges was organizing a softball team to represent the VFW. But Sturges informs us it is the AMERICAN LEGION.

Forgive us, and all that.

By the way, 7:30 p.m. Monday a meeting will be held in the American Legion hall for all managers interested in forming a City Softball League here.

If enough teams show, officials will be elected and work will start on a schedule for the loop.

Teams in the Church League also are invited to send representatives to the confab.

Legion officials report another park may be available for softball this year, in addition to Wadley Field, if needed. It's Dave Allen Field, approximately one-quarter mile South of Neill Sheet Metal Company, we are informed.

DOTS AND DASHES: When Pecos High School won the Comanche relay at Fort Stockton last weekend, it was the fourth year in succession the Eagles had copped that meet.

Add golf bugs: Ben Crites of The Reporter-Telegram, who plays each day every weekend without fail. Latest rumor is that Duane Bush, 59 Bulldog end, is headed for Baylor.

Sweetwater boys also are interested in the Waco school, "is said." Prediction Department: Jack Burris is in the 440-yard dash and W. H. Black in the pole vault are Midland's best bets to place in the meet at Fort Worth. End of the row for now!
