Water Supply Again Critical Problem Here

By COPE ROUGH
If Midland is lucky, it will get through the Summer with its present water supply.

This was the frank admission of city officials as the city moved into the Spring season and the Summer, with heavy demands for water, looming ahead.

Midland's three waterfields have been developed to their capacity, and additional pumping facilities probably will produce only enough to meet a normal increase in water demands this Summer.

These facts are not new to city authorities, who are in the midst of a search for additional water supplies.

It is not an alarming situation, commented City Manager W. H. Oswald, "but we know that additional supplies must be obtained and we are in the process of getting them."

But the figures themselves point to the possibility of "rationed" water if the present dry weather continues into the Summer months, when the load on the city's water system is heaviest.

Last year, for instance, the water consumption in Midland jumped from 129,000,000 gallons in May to 197,000,000 gallons in August.

Consumption this Summer, according to Water Superintendent Henry Numm, will pass the 200,000,000-gallon figure for the first time.

The prediction is based on an expected normal increase in water use. During the month of February, 1951, he added, the city pumped 79,448,000 gallons of water, an increase of approximately 20,000,000 over February of 1950.

This increase can be expected to continue through the Summer months and if the drought continues there probably will be a greater

Rising Costs Snarl Fire House Plans

Plans for two new fire stations for Midland hit a snag Friday when the lowest bid for their construction was 50 per cent higher than their estimated cost.

The three bids ranged from $36,000 to $53,000 in excess of the estimated $32,000 it would cost to build them.

Even the lowest alternate bid was more than $17,000 over the estimated cost figure.

City Manager W. H. Oswald said the bids were "much higher than we anticipated" but added that the two substations, one in the north section of the city and the other in the south, definitely would be built.

May Cause Delays
However, the high bids may cause delays.

The Odessa firm of Dean and Shanks submitted the lowest base bid of $78,000. P. B. A. of Midland bid $63,132 and Houston Hill of Midland submitted an $85,000 bid.

"It may upset our plans considerably," said Oswald, "but the fire stations will be built."

He said the bids will be taken under consideration and the problem will be discussed at the regular meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

The City Council can reject the bids and call for re-advertisement. This, however, would mean added delays.

Oswald said it also is possible the city might build the stations itself, serving as its own general contractor and sub-contracting the various phases of the job.

Fire trucks and other equipment for the two new stations have been purchased and delivery now is being awaited.

EASTER SUNDAY—In a world of chaos, war and the hardening of hearts against the teachings of the Master, there is hope in a beautiful story of the Resurrection.

Partly Cloudy Skies Is Easter Forecast For Western Texas

By The Associated Press
The Weather Bureau predicts rain in East Texas Easter Sunday.

The forecasts called for occasional rain in the south and central East Texas and partly cloudy skies in West Texas Sunday. Temperatures will remain about like Saturday's heavy readings.

The highest maximum reading for the day was Fredrick's 84, with San Antonio's 61 the coolest.

Temperatures over the rest of the state mostly were in the middle seventies.

Rain fell at Beaumont, Brownsville and Victoria. Cotulla's 42 inch was the heaviest reported. Traces fell at Corpus Christi and Laredo.

Friday's dust storm that came into the Panhandle from Kansas descended on South Texas Saturday. Galveston, Houston, Alice and Junction reported dust as high winds invaded the area.

Spirit Of Easter Empties City Jail

The spirit of Easter cleaned out Midland's City Jail Saturday night. Earlier in the day, a 41-year-old Midland salesman was arrested for drunkenness and placed behind bars to sober up.

Five hours later, his wife showed up with the family bank roll and put up the necessary $25 to bail him out.

"Honey," he said, turning to his wife, "Easter is no time for anyone to be in jail. Let's see what we can do for the other boys in here."

He checked with Police Chief Jack Ellington, put up the necessary $175 and bid "Happy Easter" to the four other inmates of the jail as they walked to freedom.

Permit For New Humble Building Boosts Year's Total Above $4,000,000

A construction permit for $913,000 issued during the week ended Saturday to Humble Oil and Refining Company for a four-floor office building helped to push Midland's 1951 building above the $4,000,000 mark.

The Humble building grant featured the week's total of $1,076,960. The 1951 total was $4,200,865.

Tellepsen Construction Company will construct the Humble building at 615 West Missouri Street. It will be 174 by 120 feet, of brick, tile, steel and reinforced concrete.

Residence construction permits for houses in the $15,000 to $20,000 class also featured the week's building.

James K. Boyce received four permits for brick veneer residences, a $22,000 residence at 1200 Bedford Street, 70 by 42 feet; an $18,000 residence at 1701 Bedford Street, 88 by 33 feet; a $16,000 residence at 1704 Harvard Street, 34 by 63 feet, and a $12,000 residence at 911 Mogford Street, 63 by 29 feet.

F. W. Stonehocker was issued two permits for large residences. One for a $19,000 frame structure at 1606 West Ohio Street, 42 by 101 feet, and one for a $15,000 residence (brick veneer) at 2202 Harvard Street, 71 by 46 feet.

Contemporary Construction Company received a permit for an $18,000 residence at 1111 West 12th Street.

Thousands Gather For Annual Easter Pageant At Lawton

LAWTON, OKLA. — (AP) — The vanguard of an expected 150,000 persons began moving into the Lawton area early Saturday night on an annual pilgrimage to the Wichita Mountain Easter Pageant.

Warm weather may push the attendance even higher. Skies were clear and temperatures Saturday night were expected to go no lower than 40.

Early gatherers on the mountain side brought blankets and basket lunches for their long vigil until the program began at midnight.

The pageantry was to continue until the resurrection scene is enacted at dawn.

Chief Asks Parents To Safeguard Pupils On School Streets

Police Chief Jack Ellington Saturday warned parents to exercise caution when letting their children out of cars at the schools.

"I have noticed children getting out of automobiles on the opposite side of the street and then having to dart through traffic to reach school," he said.

"Parents should let their children out on the side of the street nearest the school and avoid the danger of having them hit by passing automobiles.

"The same thing applies when picking them up after school. If possible, the cars should be parked so children will not have to cross the street to reach them."

Convicted Slayer Of Lamesa Officer Gets New Trial At Angelo

LAMESA—Jack Rogers, sentenced to death for the slaying of City Policeman Claude Johnson a year ago, will be given a new trial in the 119th Judicial District Court in San Angelo.

District Judge Louis B. Reed granted the defendant's motion here Saturday.

The first trial verdict was reversed by the State Court of Criminal Appeals last February when it ruled that the trial court was in error in not granting the defendant a change of venue. Rogers was convicted May 6, 1950.

The high court's decision was based on publicity the case received in area newspapers.

Mac Wassell and R. B. Snell, court-appointed defense attorneys, asked Judge Reed to release them from the case. No ruling had been handed down Saturday on the request.

Rogers was charged with beating the policeman on the head with his own pistol, a blackjack and a length of iron in the early hours of March 29, 1950, on the Lamesa city square.

He was arrested an hour later by the Sheriff's Department and confessed to the slaying.

New Clues Spur Search For Airmen

SHANNON AIRPORT, IRELAND — (AP) — Recovery of an Air Force type valise Saturday night swung fleets of ships and planes toward a new sector of the Atlantic in search of a U. S. Air Force Globemaster, missing since early Friday with 53 persons aboard.

The valise was picked up by the international weather ship Charlie at 6:30 p. m., London time, 630 miles southwest of Shannon. The Charlie was one of two weather ships which previously had been sent to an area 500 miles west of Ireland following reports early Saturday that flares, wreckage and life rafts had been sighted.

Duffel Bag Found
The valise was the first object actually picked up as a possible clue to the whereabouts of the huge C-124 transport. It was found as hopes were fading for the missing men.

Later, Coast Guard headquarters in Boston said its cutter Casco radioed it had picked up a charred duffel bag, identified as belonging to one of the Globemaster's passengers, 500 miles west southwest of Shannon. The bag belonged to U. S. Air Force Capt. L. E. Rafferty of Great Lakes, Ill., listed among the 53 persons aboard the plane.

Before the valise was found, fifty planes and five ships criss-crossed an area 500 miles west of Ireland for 12 hours and had discovered no trace of the bobbing life rafts, wreckage and flares reported there earlier by a lone B-29 pilot.

"We have received a lot of favorable reports," said a spokesman. (Continued On Page 12)

Hearing Monday To Precede Surveying Of Alleged Vacancy

A state-appointed surveyor will set in motion Monday the machinery that will prove or disprove a claim that a 40-mile-long, oil-rich vacancy strip runs through four West Texas counties.

The surveyor is Byron L. Simpson of San Angelo, who will meet Monday morning with interested persons in the Glasscock County Courthouse in Garden City.

The meeting is set for 10 a. m. Notices have been mailed to 200 individuals and firms who might be interested in the land involved in the vacancy claim filed last month by James C. Wilson, Jr., a Fort Worth attorney.

Wilson claimed the vacancy, ranging in width from 250 feet to 600 feet, cuts through Martin, Midland, Glasscock and Reagan counties.

Simpson, following the filing of the claim, was appointed by Bascom Giles, commissioner of the General Land Office, to conduct the survey.

On his findings may rest the fate of the strip of land which cuts through the Germania and the Tex-Harvey oil fields.

Following the meeting Monday, at which Simpson will explain the purpose of the survey, his job will begin. He is expected to complete his report within a month.

Coahoma Lad Drowns On Boy Scout Hike

BIG SPRING — (AP) — Jerry Bob Shive, 11, drowned Saturday on his first Boy Scout hiking trip. The boy joined the Scouts three days ago.

He fell into a creek when a ledge on which he was standing gave way. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shive of Coahoma.

World Peace Is Universal Prayer Theme

By The Associated Press
A hill called Calvary rises over barbed wire entanglements. Throughout the Christian world, the tolling of bells signifying the resurrection of the Prince of Peace mingled Sunday with the cries of war.

Bullets punctuated solemn Easter morning services in the muddy desolation of war-blackened Korea.

Throughout the free world, Christians prayed that the most terrible destruction that mankind ever has devised will not be visited upon them.

Peace was the universal theme of Christian prayers. This was the message the bells pealed out over the eternal City of Rome. It was the message in many thousands of pulpits in America and other lands.

In Korea, American soldiers and Marines, with soldiers of other United Nations countries, gathered bareheaded before altars crudely constructed of wooden boxes.

Jerusalem was thronged with pilgrims as the great bells of the ancient Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre pealed out their first joyous Easter notes. Archbishop Albert Gori, Roman Catholic patriarch of the Holy Land, led a procession into the Basilica for the celebration of Easter Mass.

Barbed Wire, Armed Guards
Barbed wire and armed guards met pilgrims at the historic Manteleum Gate on their way to the holy shrines of Christendom's first Easter. The peacekeepers of the United Nations served as go-betweens in making arrangements so pilgrims could travel from the modern City of Jerusalem, held by Israel, to the old walled city, held by forces of the Kingdom of Jordan.

They prayed for peace at the site where the stone was rolled away from the sepulchre.

Traditional U. S. Easter Sunday services were arranged in thousands of communities at sunrise—in outdoor amphitheaters, on hilltop clearings, on coastal beaches.

The parades brought out Spring finery throughout the areas where fine weather permitted. New York was crowded by visitors for the Easter parade along Fifth Avenue, (Continued On Page 12)

Allies Given Orders To Cross Parallel 38 If Necessity Arises

TOKYO — (AP) — Allied forces arrayed just south of Korea's 38th Parallel had orders from General MacArthur Sunday to cross the old boundary if necessary to whip the Chinese Reds.

As Easter sunrise splashed across the brown Korean hills, powerful Allied armored columns and parachute troops were consolidating swift gains of the week. At one point they were within two miles of the parallel.

The Reds offered little or no resistance except north of Seoul.

American and Belgian troops battled hand-to-hand with die-hard Chinese dug in on hills northwest and northeast of Uijongbu.

Using bayonets and hand grenades, the Americans and Belgians advanced 1,000 yards Saturday. A frontline officer said the Reds were well dug in.

South Korean troops were cleaning out minor pockets of resistance northwest of Seoul sealed off Friday by American paratroopers and an armored force. The paratroopers were within eight miles of the parallel.

On the east-central front, Americans took one hill after another against light resistance.

Capitol To Take On Sideshow Aspects At Week's Hearing

By MARTHA COLE

AUSTIN—(AP)—Deck the halls with bows of bunting. The Capitol is putting on a show this week. The crowds—they're even talking about making some "standing room only" signs.

Monday night for sure the truckers and the railroads will come a-trucking and a-chooing (respectively) up for a Senate hearing. It's on a bill to increase the weight of loads trucks can carry. Rail-roads don't like that idea.

Tuesday morning there's Mickey Cohen. Whether he'll be here for the crime investigating committee to ask him a few little old questions is a moot question. But he's got his invitation.

Wednesday afternoon there's the prohibition amendment at a public hearing in the House. Drys from all over the state have vowed to March on the Capitol. Even Billy Graham, the evangelist who draws thousands, told Rep. Milton Wilkinson of Patroon, author of the amendment, that he would be here if he could.

Programs Suggested
"Why we oughta print programs," mused Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa.

"Yeah—and sell ads like 'If you can't stand this, get your Alka Seltzer at Burp's Drug Store,'" commented a helpful representative who will remain unnamed.

It was a lazy weekend at the Capitol. Almost everybody had gone home for Easter vacation. Just about half a dozen representatives were sitting around at the desks on the floor of the House.

"I bet if we charged admission to all these things this week, we could wipe out the state debt," the helpful representative offered.

"But the constitution says the hearings must be open to the public."
"Aw, it doesn't say a thing about 'free of charge.'"

"Well, I interpret it that way," the speaker ruled.
The Crime Investigating Committee hadn't decided this weekend where to hold its Tuesday hearing. They've got to think of the crowds if Mickey accepts his invitation.

The truck-railroad fight, Mickey and prohibition have top billing. But there some other attractions, too.

The nurses are expected in the Senate gallery Wednesday when the bill to license practical nurses comes up. Sen. Hill Hudson of Pecos had an incipient filibuster going against the bill Thursday when the Senate quit for the weekend.

And taxes—always a good box-office—come up in the House. Wednesday afternoon at the same time the prohibition hearing is going on the House Revenue and Taxation Committee will be considering taxing natural gas some more.

Tuesday night the same committee will talk about bills to tax parking lots and the hotel business.

BOSTON —(AP)— Squirrels may be cute little pets or fair game for the pot to some people. But to Boston Park Department people, the squirrels on Boston Common are just pests.

Not only do they bite people, but they chew the insulation off electric wires, park attendants say. They tell of several persons who have had serious bites on their hands after making friends with the squirrels. When they have a nest in a tree that must be removed they gang up on the men who must climb the tree.

Economic Report To Urge Higher Tax Program, End Of Farm Price Supports

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One of the most important economic reports ever prepared by Congress soon will recommend the removal of farm price supports and a high tax program which may set American living standards for the next 10 to 20 years. It also is proposed to abolish all federal subsidies to the states.

The report has the support of both Senators Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Democrat, and Bob Taft, Ohio Republican, and has been adopted, so far confidentially, by the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report.

Though the report has not been made public, this column has obtained a copy. Its recommendations are based upon a "long pull," which is expected to strain the nation's economy the next 10 to 20 years.

In blunt language, the report urges: "It is essential that new and heavier taxes be promptly assessed. Increases in withholding rates and corporation profits taxes are vital now. They are necessary to put a damper on price increases which are steadily gnawing away at civilian income and government appropriations."

The report adds, however, that "people with incomes of $3,000 a year or less already are overburdened by the increasing cost of living and the present level of taxes. The government cannot look to them for any substantial new revenue."

Warning against writing a blank check for the military, the report declares: "In a long period of heavy defense expenditures, there does not exist the urgency to spend first and then look around and see how much the government will need to borrow in order to pay its bills."

The defense garment should be cut to the revenue cloth . . . Military hoarding of manpower and materials must be kept to a minimum. The report also warns that "deficit spending cannot be contemplated even for the current defense program, unless we are willing to invite the crack-up of the American system . . . Congress, short of all-out war, should make no military appropriation unless and until adequate tax revenues are definitely in sight."

Here are other important highlights of the Taft-O'Mahoney economic blueprint. The report drastically suggests abolishing federal aid to states and relying upon "traditional local methods of financing education and medical aid and public health."

No Parity Prices

2. The report describes farm parity as a "device which was invented at the depth of the agricultural depression" and hints strongly that it is now out of date.

3. The report also takes a dim view of public housing and rent control, declaring: "The need for government provision of housing and community facilities can hardly be large . . . The need for extending and strengthening rent control has not yet been clearly established."

4. The report views with suspicion the tremendous tax deductions that have been granted to corporations for expanding defense plants.

5. The report also advocates a tough anti-trust program. "Far from granting exemptions or postponement of anti-trust action," the report urges, "the government must more vigorously than ever push the program to aid small business and to preserve free, private, competitive enterprise."

6. The report takes a crack at commodity speculation, warning that "The course of commodity prices during 1950 has demonstrated again that the cost of living, not to speak of costs of production in general, should be freed from uninformed and indiscriminate speculative manipulation."

After pointing out the tough road ahead, the report adds hopefully: "The United States has the spiritual power, the economic strength and the productive resources to perform the task it has undertaken." (Copyright, 1951, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

State's Construction Figure $272,358,604

Accumulative total for the year reached $272,358,604.

Thornton Is Ruled Sane, Must Face Trial For Murder

EL PASO —(AP)— Glenn Scott Thornton, who asserted he killed a man 10 years ago at the request of a Mineral Wells druggist, has been found sane. He is to be tried for murder in Carrizozo, N. M., April 20. The druggist, Leon Todd, also has been charged with murder in the death of William Floyd Hewitt at Ruidoso, N. M. Dr. Arlin B. Cooper of El Paso conducted the sanity test after Thornton repudiated a statement asserting he shot Hewitt on promise of money from Todd. District Attorney T. K. Campbell of Las Cruces, N. M., ordered the test. Hewitt's death had been listed as suicide. Thornton is listed as a former Arizona convict.

Easter Sunday

"He is not here; for He is risen, as He said." Come, see the place where the Lord lay." (Matt. 28:6).

That was the startling statement of the angel to Mary Magdalene and the other Mary as they came to the sepulchre on that first Easter morning.

What a terrifying statement and what shock it was to Jesus' loved ones—until they had been assured God's promise had been fulfilled and that His son, Jesus, was risen from the dead.

"Be not afraid," Jesus told them later as they encountered Him on the road and as they "held Him by the feet and worshiped Him."

It was then they were filled with great joy. It was the Resurrection. It was God's word fulfilled. It was the first Easter.

"He is not here; for He is risen..."

Once again these glad words are heard by Christians around the world as that all-inspiring faith in Jesus Christ's resurrection asserts itself from within.

It is Easter. It is a glorious occasion—one which stirs the soul to a fresh awakening of the real meaning of the Cross and of life everlasting. Yes, it is Easter—Easter, 1951.

Huge throngs of worshippers will overflow churches in Midland and throughout the Christian world on Easter Sunday to worship the Christ who was crucified and who arose from the dead to bring forgiveness of sin and life eternal to those who believe on Him.

It is encouraging to note a widespread reawakening in Christian ideals and principles among many peoples of the world in recent months, and that spiritual reawakening perhaps will reach a new high on this Easter Sunday.

A spirit of love and understanding and of unlimited faith in the teachings of Jesus Christ will do more to bring peace and understanding to a troubled world than any other one thing.

"He is not here; for He is risen..." should mean just as much to us today as it meant to the followers of Christ 19 centuries ago.

The Lord Jesus Christ, although crucified, lives today, Easter Sunday, 1951, and in his living there is the hope of eternal life. There also is the hope of eternal peace, if Christians everywhere but will turn to Him who died that man might have life eternal.

Yes, it is a glorious occasion. Let us, then, rejoice together on this Easter Sunday—worshipping the living Christ today, tomorrow and always.

Everybody knows exactly how to raise children except the folks who live on either side of you.

Getting nowhere should make people get sick of letting well-enough alone—but in lots of cases it doesn't.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson says: European allies need to coordinate information regarding Communist agents; Philadelphia tennis champion becomes Eisenhower's top diplomat; Brass hats hold grudges a long time.

PARIS—One of the most important needs in Europe today is a coordinating agency to stop Communist espionage.

If a Communist agent leaves Norway and goes to France or Italy, there is no way by which the French or Italian governments are tipped off regarding his entry.

Only between France and England is there exchange of information regarding Communist agents.

If a Communist leaves France for England, the British authorities immediately are notified and vice versa. However, no such arrangements are in effect between other members of the North Atlantic Pact.

In some allied countries, furthermore, the Communists indirectly are subsidized by big business, especially in the case of the German industrialists and the big Italian manufacturers around Milan.

Some people thought General Eisenhower was going either social or political when he appointed Ambassador Tony Biddle, former Philadelphia tennis champion, as staff officer in charge of diplomatic relations.

Biddle, son of a J. P. Morgan partner, caused heart failure to deep-dyed Philadelphia Republicans when he got aboard the New Deal bandwagon and contributed $90,000 to the Roosevelt campaign chest.

In reward, he was appointed ambassador to Norway, and Chip Robert, then treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, made it a habit, whenever funds were short, to get Biddle on the Trans-Atlantic telephone and suggest that it might be wise to ante up a little more because other party contributors were angling for his job.

Later Biddle became ambassador to most of the governments exiled by Hitler—Poland, Norway, Yugoslavia—and now has turned up as foreign liaison man on Ike's staff.

Those who work with Biddle, however, pay tribute to his ability to handle people—something which Eisenhower, in his delicate job, always can use.

Before Ike arrived in Rome, for instance, Tony Biddle visited Italy to pave the way for his reception, and there was met by Gen. Rinaldo Fiore Verzazza, who pulled a very long face indeed. Eisenhower, the general warned, could not possibly make a public appearance in the main part of Rome. Instead, he would have to be taken quietly to a suburb of the city and kept under wraps while the high Roman officials came to confer with him.

"Communist sentiment is such," said General Fiore Verzazza, "that there would be riots, even revolution. General Eisenhower would even run the risk of assassination. He cannot enter Rome publicly."

Biddle listened carefully, said he would report back to Eisenhower—which he did in Lisbon that night—and then came back to General Fiore Verzazza next day.

"Mon General," he said humbly, "I have considered your advice carefully. I am sure that it is excellent advice, because you know your country far better than any of us."

"But there is one thing I must tell you that I don't like to tell you. In fact, I don't like to tell anyone. 'However,' continued Biddle, 'we Americans have an inferiority complex. When we talk to you who have 2,000 years of fighting behind you, you whose people have known fighting every since the days of Julius Caesar, we feel quite inferior.

"And it would give us an even greater complex if our leader, General Eisenhower, should sneak into Rome as if he were afraid. Furthermore, it would hurt our fighting spirit for the future.

"I admit that we shall be worried when General Eisenhower arrives. We shall be worried and afraid. But, Mon General, we shall take our cut from you. And as Eisenhower drives down the streets of Rome, we shall endeavor—like you—to be unafraid."

General Fiore Verzazza beamed. Furthermore, he got busy, and Italian officials prepared a terrific sendoff right through the center of the city for Eisenhower.

American Wives In Germany About a year before Pearl Harbor, the U. S. Army was engaged in a backstage argument over the then-controversial jeep. Gen. George A. Lynch, chief of Infantry, wanted to add the jeep as standard equipment to his infantry divisions—in effect to make the infantry mobile and semi-mounted.

Other planners in the War Department were opposed. One day this writer got a phone call from Col. Stanley Grogan, attached to Army Press Relations, suggesting that I talk to General Lynch. I did so, and subsequently wrote a story about Lynch's styled plan to give jeeps to the infantry. The story may have had some small part in winning the battle of the jeep, but it also had some small part in losing a War Department battle for promotion.

For, later, Colonel Grogan was taxed by his superiors with having made the phone call to me, which he readily admitted. (All outgoing telephone conversations from the Pentagon Building had been recorded that day.) Later also, Colonel Grogan came up for promotion—but was not promoted. The years passed, his contemporaries were made generals, and eventually one of his friends on the Selection Board dropped the hint that Grogan's phone call regarding the battle of the jeep was still being held against him by the grudge-bearing brass hats.

In Munich the other day I again talked to Colonel Grogan, who is doing a highly efficient though unexciting job in charge of Army "housekeeping" in the largest military district in Germany.

It will be part of Grogan's job to house the new American troops to be sent to Germany under the North Atlantic Pact—which presents a tough problem, not so much from the point of troop housing but from the viewpoint of families and morale.

Today there are approximately 40,000 American wives and children in Germany. From the point of view of morale, they have done wonders. The minute the wives arrived in Germany, morale, efficiency, general conduct improved.

However, in case war should break, in case the Russian attack which these troops are being sent to block, should come, then these families would be in grave danger. First they might become hostages to the Russians; or second, about 20,000 American troops would have to be diverted from the front to evacuate these families.

So the Army is caught either way. To date it has ruled that families cannot accompany new troops unless housing is available in advance, which probably means that sending of more families to Germany will be curtailed.

Have a Laugh

A woman entered a butcher shop and said, "Do you have a nine-pound roast?" The butcher replied, "Yes, ma'am; here's one that weighs exactly that. Shall I wrap it up?" She said, "No, I don't want it; I've been dieting and I just wanted to see what nine pounds looks like."

Questions and Answers

Q—How long since the United States has had an ambassador to Spain? A—The last U. JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY, Written for NEA Service. "What has happened to Generous George?" asks a Bridgeport fan. "Did he rib an opponent once too often or has his generosity dried up?" South was Generous George, but he didn't say a word at this point because he was afraid that West would shift to diamonds. West had no way of knowing that a diamond shift would be effective, so he continued with the jack of hearts, and George beamed as he played a low heart from the dummy and ruffed in his own hand.

George next laid down the ace of trumps, followed by the ace of clubs and a club ruff. He returned to his hand by ruffing a low heart, since there was a possibility that the ace of hearts would drop. When it didn't drop, George ruffed his last club in dummy and returned the king of hearts.

East naturally played the ace of hearts, whereupon George cleared his throat and made a little speech of congratulation. "There's nobody I'd like to see win this trick more than you," said George, truthfully enough. And he discarded a diamond instead of ruffing.

East glowered, but there was nothing he could do. If he returned a diamond, dummy's king would win a trick. If he returned anything else, dummy would ruff while South discarded a diamond loser.

As usual, George lost nothing by his generosity. If he had ruffed the fourth round of hearts, he would have been obliged to lead diamonds himself. Then he would have lost three diamond tricks in addition to the heart that he had lost at the beginning of the play.

New Plant Projects Underway To Speed Up Defense Effort

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent. WASHINGTON—Five hundred and forty new defense plant projects costing more than $2,600,000,000 have been approved for construction by Defense Production Administrator William H. Harrison. Not all are complete plants. Most of the projects are enlargements of existing facilities.

All these projects are being financed by private capital. But they are being given the advantages of the government's tax amortization allowances. This will permit the almost 400 companies involved to write off from 50 to 100 per cent of the cost, for tax purposes, during the next five years.

The fact that so many new plants are being built or enlarged while so many more existing factories face partial or complete shutdown for lack of materials is one of the great inconsistencies of the defense effort. Most of the plants in civilian industry which face cut-backs are smaller businesses. They can't understand why they appear to be discriminated against.

The answer given by defense production officials is that many of the new facilities are to increase the supplies of materials needed by small business. This applies to steel, aluminum, magnesium and such things.

The other part of the answer is said to be that the new plants are to make things for which no facilities now exist. This would include manufacture of such things as guided missiles, the new H-bomb project, new radar equipment which never has been made before. Factories which have been making metal window frames or pin ball machines are said to be not suitable for making complicated new weapons.

Plants Reactivated One other answer given is that new plants have to be built to prevent shutting down existing plants. The new Chrysler tank arsenal in Delaware is cited. This might be put into automobile or truck plant. But to do so would shut down the auto plant and cause temporary unemployment. If the new tank arsenal shouldn't be needed, it will be put in moth balls for use when needed.

Building new plants is only one source of new productive capacity for the defense effort. Another equally important capacity comes from reactivating plants built in World War II.

There were 3,500 plant expansions for military production during the last war. They were financed largely by the government at a cost of $18,000,000,000. About 2,000 of these facilities were new tools and small additions scrambled with privately owned plants. They were sold largely to the private plants at the end of the war.

The other 1,500 expansions were complete plants. They cost about $11,000,000,000. Of this number, roughly 900 could be used by civilian industry. Most of them were sold outright as surplus property.

The other 600 plants were divided into two classes. In round numbers, something more than 400 plants, built at a cost of $5,000,000,000, were put in what was known as the Departmental Reserve. They were the war plants, good only for making munitions. They were left under control of the Department of Defense. This Departmental Reserve was calculated as what was necessary to support Army, Navy and air Force of 6,000,000 men. Methalling Helped Budget The other 200 plants, which cost $6,000,000,000, were put up in what was known as the National Industrial Reserve. Some 140 of these plants were sold or leased to private industry under a security clause. This permits the government to take over the facilities again for war production, if and when necessary.

The approximately 60 plants remaining in the National Industrial Reserve have been held in stand-by condition by the government. The agency which manages them is General Services Administration. Cost of preserving them and preventing deterioration since the end of the war has been $100,000,000. But the government has received $50,000,000 rentals from plants under lease. So net cost of maintenance has been $100,000,000.

That this expense has been justified is indicated by the estimate that it today would take three times the original cost, or $600,000,000, to construct duplicate facilities.

Practically all of the Departmental Reserve plants have been partially put back into production. What this means is that if there were three plants to make, say, gun turrets, each will have been put on one-third production for one shift.

Of the 60 National Industrial Reserve plants, about half are being put back into production. This includes all the aluminum and magnesium production plants. The other 30 plants are still in reserve.

The government's team which administers these reserves is headed by J. W. Ferguson of the Munitions Board and C. D. Williams of General Services Administration.

A surgical operation made possible by his meager earnings as a fashion designer for 'Jens Paul,' an exclusive design shop, was successful. Tim, infatuated by the partners of the 'Dress of the Year' and hears Paul Panciera, Jens' partner, take all the credit for designing it. But Tim is so much in love with Jens that she is able to slay Tim's suspicions and then she begins to see merit in a plan to operate a firm in partnership with Tim, with Mr. Panciera out of it. Returning to her apartment, she has a quarrel with Mr. Panciera and throws him out. The next morning Tim gets out of bed and in his exuberance walks for the first time without his cane.

entered the office. "Wonderful evening." He was as offhand as he had been when he left her the evening before.

Miss Major obviously did not believe him. "Was Miss Roland surprised?" she asked blandly. "Surprised and delighted. We had supper together."

"Really?" Her cynical disbelief was sharp and unmistakable. "I suppose she is expecting you now."

"Nope. This is another surprise. Where can I find her? Do you know?"

"Miss Major was very bland. 'You do not know where to find her?'"

"We have a date for lunch but—" He leaned over the desk. "Have you ever been in love, Miss Major?"

"If I had been," Miss Major answered coolly, "I wouldn't therefore make a fool of myself."

Tim laughed. "But that's just the point. When you're in love you make a fool of yourself. That's the fun of it. I just plain forgot to get Miss Roland's phone and home address."

Miss Major smiled a bland smile. "She'll be in around 11."

"Holy mackerel! That's a hundred years from now! You call her and tell her Tim Reese wants to see her. Will you, please?"

"You're sure she'll know the name?"

Tim was disconcerted. "Don't you know the name?"

"Sorry." She shook her head mechanically. "Never heard of it."

Tim was more disconcerted. "How long have you worked here, Miss Major?"

"About five months."

"And you never heard of Tim Reese?" It suddenly struck him as entertaining. "I may not be any great figure in the dressmaking business, but heck," he laughed. "I figured I ought to be known around here at least."

MISS MAJOR sat up quickly, a sharp inquisitiveness lighting up the blandness of her face. "Are you a designer, Mr. Reese?"

"After a fashion. I designed that gown that won the award last night, although you'd never know it to read the papers this morning."

"Oh!" Miss Major stood up abruptly, her blandness gone. "You're YOU!"

"Yup. I'm me." Tim was amused.

"I'm terribly sorry, Mr. Reese." She was humbly apologetic. "I had no way of knowing who you were. Your name is never used here to my knowledge. Mr. Paul Panciera takes credit for all the designs."

A small smile of satisfaction came over her face. "In the trade, we've always known Mr. Panciera could not be the designer of those creations that have made this house so successful, but we could never find out who the designer was. You were kept a great secret, Mr. Reese."

"Well, the secret is out." Tim chuckled. "And maybe Mr. Panciera is too."

Miss Major moved quickly back behind the desk, got out a pen and paper. "Your name is Tim Reese." She wrote it down carefully. "And your address, Mr. Reese—"

"I know, but I have, if you don't mind, Mr. Reese, a very special reason of my own for asking for it now."

Mickey Cohen Avers He Won't Be In Texas Unless He Gets Fare

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Mickey Cohen said Saturday that Texas Legislative Crime Investigating Committee wants publicity more than it wants him.

And, the gambler added, he won't be in Austin Tuesday unless the committee sends him the round-trip fare.

"I'm willing to go there by plane, train, bus or any other reasonable way."

He said he already has paid for five long distance phone calls to committee members explaining he can't afford to make the trip.

"I also sent them a wire and an air mail special delivery which they never acknowledged," he said and added:

"What do they think I'm on—a tour? What if New York City wants me next month to go there? Am I supposed to go out and sell one of my suits?"

On Lawyer's Advice

He said his lawyer advised him the committee should pay his expenses "if they want me bad enough."

"But they don't want me now. They got all the publicity. They know I can't tell them anything about Texas."

He said Sheriff Jimmy Hicks of El Paso should be called also.

"He met me at the airport last Wednesday, invited me to lunch and then served me the subpoena."

No member of the Texas House of Representatives group will say if the committee will pay Cohen's expenses. The House rules allow a witness $2 a day expenses while on the road and $3 a day while in attendance.

"I'm not paying my own way there," he emphasized. "And that's absolutely the truth."

Woman Purchases Fur Scarf With 68 Bananas, Tax

JACKSON, MISS.—(P)—For 68 bananas (plus tax) Mrs. B. R. Upton of Jackson bought a four-piece fur scarf Saturday.

She took it seriously Thursday when Station WJXX, tired of using the word "dollars," said in an advertisement for Stern's Fur Shop: "And just think, ladies, for only 68 bananas, plus tax, you can have one of these beautiful four-piece Kolinsky scarves."

Mrs. Upton went to the shop Friday to ask if the radio ad were a gag. Proprietor David Stern thought it over, then said he would make it stick.

Saturday Mrs. Upton returned with 68 bananas—plus tax. The tax came to $15. The bananas cost $4.91.

45th Division Thunderbirds Head Overseas For Second Time In Span Of Only 10 Years

CAMP POLK, LA.—(P)—Once more the Thunderbirds must say "Goodbye."

For the second time in a decade the 45th Division—the famous "45th Thunderbirds" of 511 days of combat in World War II—is heading overseas toward a theater of war.

Last time the Thunderbirds went east to Africa and Europe.

This time it is west, to Japan and possibly Korea.

But east or west, it's the same old parting story—and this is the week-end devoted to the 45th's farewell.

Saturday they finished polishing up the brass, getting their dog tags stamped, packing the old familiar "A" and "B" bags. Sunday they will attend Easter sunrise services and visit friends arriving by the hundreds at this sunbaked camp in the heart of the piney woods country about 60 miles north of Lake Charles.

For "Training Purposes"

Monday, the entire division will pass in review before Gov. Johnston Murray of Oklahoma (the 45th is Oklahoma's National Guards) and its commander, Maj. Gen. James C. Stuyon.

After that, semi-security falls over the division until it reappears in Tokyo for training and defense purposes.

The Thunderbirds aren't kidding themselves. They did a little "training and defense work" in North Africa, too, back in 1943.

But then came Sicily, Italy, Southern France and Austria—and when the shooting stopped the 45th had racked up more days in actual combat than any other Army division but one.

Heroes were born and legends created. The division earned eight Medals of Honor, one of the highest totals in the Army.

No Illusions This Time

Last week "The Thunderbird News" published a short notice saying that Secretary of the Army Frank Pace had told Senator Robert Kerr (D-Okla.): "The Thunderbirds won't be sent to Korea unless the military situation requires it."

Any veteran knows what gossip can do with a negative sort of notice like that—and the Thunderbirds are saying goodbye without illusions this time.

For some 90 per cent of the officers and a majority of the non-coms it is an old story. They're the division veterans of World War II, men who have spent more time in active Army service in the last 10 years than they've spent as civilians.

A surprising number of its heroes are back. The division commander was chief of staff last time and his key staff members today served with the division in Europe.

Cook Faces Another Charge Designed To Give Death Penalty

OKLAHOMA CITY—(P)—Killer W. E. Cook, Jr., Saturday faced another charge designed to give him the death penalty before he can begin serving a 300-year sentence in Alcatraz.

District Judge Clarence Mills Friday ordered Cook held for prosecution Monday on state charges of kidnaping and robbery.

This was the latest move by authorities in Oklahoma, Missouri, and California to get the confessed slayer of six persons on a charge that carries the death penalty.

But the Justice Department has ordered Cook to begin serving the sentence, meted out Wednesday for the kidnap-slaying of the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Atwood, Ill.

U. S. Marshal Rex Hawks was awaiting the U. S. attorney general's decision on whether to turn his prisoner over to county officials or proceed to the San Francisco Bay prison.

He is to be confined there, awaiting the report of the Imperial County, Calif., grand jury at El Centro considering kidnaping and murder charges against him. They involve the young desperado's sixth slaying, that of Seattle salesman Robert Dewey, 32.

Ask To Try Cook

Officials at El Centro asked to try Cook when he beat Oklahoma's electric chair Wednesday. Federal Judge Stephen Chandler surprised the court at a sanity hearing by abruptly accepting the defendant's guilty plea and giving him five 60-year terms, to run consecutively.

Chandler decreed Cook didn't have sufficient mental capacity to warrant the death penalty.

Cook admitted shooting Dewey on his flight to Mexico where he was captured January 14.

The next day the bullet-riddled bodies of the Mossers were fished from a Joplin, Mo., mine shaft, where he dumped them January 2. Joplin authorities also have asked permission to try Cook on murder charges.

The federal charges here took precedence because the crime began in an Oklahoma County.

New Yorker Arrives In Tokyo For Visit With Soldier Son

TOKYO—(P)—A 51-year-old New Yorker arrived Saturday for a reunion with his soldier son, a former paratrooper. The meeting is being arranged with special consent by General MacArthur.

"Maybe I'll see my boy tomorrow—Easter Sunday—or the next day," said Robert Strasser, sales manager for a New York metals firm.

"Whenever it is, I'll wait right in Tokyo until he gets here from the war zone."

Strasser made the 7,000-mile flight to see his son, Theodore, 23, after bombarding the Army, senators and congressmen with letters and telephone calls. Then he wrote to MacArthur.

Permission was granted, providing Strasser paid his own expenses. His boy, an only child, was drafted out of high school in 1945.

"He spent a year at Camp Dix but after six months reenlisted as a paratrooper," said the elder Strasser. "He got his wings at Fort Benning, Ga., and I last saw him in February of 1947 when he left for the west coast."

Sent To Japan

"After a few weeks in Seattle he was shipped to Japan and he's been in Japan or Korea ever since."

Young Strasser no longer is with the paratroops. He has been reassigned to a headquarters company in the U. S. Seventh Infantry Division, which has been in action on the Korean east-central front.

Strasser said his son landed at Inchon, on the west coast, last September and was in action with the Seventh Division in the Allied push last fall.

The father said he doesn't know how much time he will be allowed to spend with his son, but is "grateful for the chance to see him again after all these years."

Before leaving New York Friday, Strasser commented:

"This proves to me that the Army, in spite of its tremendous size and its many problems, still has a heart."

Agreement Defers Meat Strike Action

CHICAGO—(P)—The CIO United Packinghouse Workers announced they had signed an agreement with Armour and Company extending their wage agreement, thus deferring strike action for another six weeks.

The announcement said the CIO workers would go along with AFL and Independent union workers in the industry who extended their agreements Friday.

Extension of the agreement to May 7 gives the wage stabilization board a chance to okay the raise when it is reestablished.

Central Crockett Wildcat Shows For Gas, Distillate

Humble Oil & Refining Company has a gas-distillate discovery in prospect at its No. 1-D Alma Cox, et al, Central Crockett County wildcat.

This project has shown gas up to 2,800,000 cubic feet per day, with 3.8 barrels of distillate per hour, flowing from the upper Ellenburger. Operator is continuing to test to try to complete as a commercial petroleum producer.

The gas and distillate is coming from perforated sections at 7,300-10 feet and at 7,320-60 feet. Those intervals had been treated with 1,000 gallons of acid. No water is being shown.

Acid Treatment
The project swabbed out the acid load and residue after the 1,000-gallon injection and it then kicked off and started showing gas and spraying distillate.

During the first two hours the flow was through a 21/64th-inch tubing choke. It was in that period that the well showed gas at the rate of 2,800,000 cubic feet per day with a distillate spray of 3.8 barrels per hour.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 1,000 pounds and 1,025 pounds. The flow during the next three hours was through a 26/64th-inch choke on the tubing. Gas volume during that period was at the rate of 2,500,000 cubic feet per day and the distillate sprayed out at the rate of 1.5 barrels per hour.

Flowing tubing pressure was between 1,025 pounds and 625 pounds. Operator then tested the wildcat for 12 hours through a 32/64th-inch tubing choke. Gas volume averaged 1,900,000 cubic feet per day during that time. No information was reported regarding the amount of distillate produced during that 12-hour period.

Testing to try to complete was continuing at last report. The possible new field opener is two and one-half miles southwest of Ozona and is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from north lines of section 4, block QR, GO&SF survey.

It was drilled to a total depth of 8,203 feet in the lower section of the Ellenburger late in 1950. There were no shows of oil in the bottom of the formation and the project was abandoned after extended testing.

A string of 5 1/2-inch casing had been cemented at 7,415 feet, through the top of the Ellenburger. After the hole had stood abandoned for more than three months operator decided to re-enter it and test the upper Ellenburger which had logged some shows of gas when it was drilled through.

The project was cleaned out at 7,380 feet and the sections at 7,300-20 feet and at 7,320-60 feet were perforated and the acid injected and the current shows of gas and distillate resulted.

Moncrief To Deepen NE Gains Wildcat To Test Ellenburger

W. A. Moncrief of Fort Worth No. 2-B Stella Scanlon, Northeast Gaines County wildcat is to go on to 12,000 feet to test the Ellenburger.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 117, block M, EL&RR survey and 118 miles southeast of Searcy.

The project was originally scheduled to go to 8,500 feet but apparently that depth has been reached without finding any shows of production.

Operator filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas asking permission to deepen to 12,000 feet.

Wildcat Stepout Set For Drilling In King Sectors

Addison Warner of Borger No. 1 W. R. Ross Ranch is to be a 6,000-foot rotary wildcat in East King County.

Packer Fails On DST In NW Upton
Operator is coming out of hole with packer after it failed on a drillstem test of the Ellenburger at Sinclair Oil & Gas Company No. 1 McElroy Ranch, assured producer and new field opener in Northwest Upton County, 18 miles northwest of Rankin.

Hole will be conditioned and another drillstem test attempted made. The project is now at total depth of 12,371 feet in the Ellenburger.

A core was cut from 12,330 to 12,371 feet. Recovery was 38 feet of fractured dolomite with bleeding oil and good odor.

Location of the discovery is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 129, block D, CC&D&RGNG survey.

Semi-Wildcat Set For C-N Crockett
Joe G. Sauer of Midland and J. S. Meriwether, Jr., of Fort Stockton are to begin operations immediately on No. 1 Sory estate, a semi-wildcat in Central-North Crockett County.

Location is 330 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 51, block BB, GC&SF survey and three-eighths of a mile east of production from the San Andres in the World field.

Combination cable and rotary tools are to be used in drilling to projected depth of 2,600 feet.

Schleicher Prospect Is Flowing To Test
The Ohio Oil Company has released the rig at its No. 1-A Thomson, assured fourth producer in the Huldale-Strawn field of Central-North Schleicher County, and it is now being flowed to clean out and test.

The No. 1-A Thomson has made a small amount of water, but interested observers believe that it was residue from the drilling fluid and that it will not make any water on the potential test when it is taken.

The project is an east offset to Delta Gulf Drilling Company No. 1 Thomson, discovery well of the field. Drillsite is nine miles north and slightly east of Eldorado.

Production is coming from casing perforations at 5,700-5,810 feet. Exact location is 330 feet from south and west lines of section 81, block TT, TC survey.

SW Concho Field Assured Producer
Morgan Drilling Company of Midland No. 1 Anton Lubke indicated as the second producer for the Pfleger field of Southwest Concho County.

The possible producer bailed at the rate of 65 barrels of oil per day from total depth of 2,116 feet. No water was recovered with the oil.

No. 1 Anton Lubke is an east offset to CB Drilling Company of Abilene and Jack D. Collins of Dallas No. 1 Pfleger, the discovery well of the field.

Five and one-half inch casing is cemented at 2,112 feet, which is the top of the Swastika sand. Tubing has been run and the prospect was to be pumped for 12 hours before moving off rig.

Location is 330 feet from south and west lines of section 2871, B. B. Miller survey, abstract 179.

There have been three dry holes drilled in the field since the discovery was completed.

Thompson Defends Depletion Allowance In Amarillo Address

AMARILLO — Terminating petroleum's depletion allowance "the keystone of our oil producing industry," Texas Railroad Commissioner Ernest C. Thompson came home to Amarillo Friday night to address the annual banquet of the American Petroleum Institute production men at the closing session of a three-day meeting of the Mid-Continent division of the organization.

Some 600 oil producers from the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas, Indiana, Illinois and Western Kentucky attended the work-and-study meeting, at which 11 technical papers were presented.

Thompson described the currently controversial depletion allowance as "the proven incentive" upon which added oil production can be built in this time of national emergency. He said: "The depletion allowance does not guarantee to any oil operator that he will find oil. He just gets a hunting license to search for new oil."

The Texas Railroad Commission member earlier in the month had made a statement supporting the present 27 1/2 percent depletion allowance before a congressional committee.

Thompson emphasized his contention made at that time that the industry needed to make a strenuous effort to show the public its stake in maintaining a climate in which more and more oil can be discovered to keep the nation rolling now and in the years to come.

Thompson departed from his prepared speech at frequent intervals to mention specific answers he gave to questions posed at the Marj 6 Washington hearing.

Pennsylvanian Pay Is Discovered In NE Lea Project

HOBBS, N. M.—Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 2 Mathers, prospector in the west side of the Bagley-Hightower field of Northeast Lea County, discovered a new pay in the Pennsylvanian on a drillstem test from 8,645 to 8,715 feet.

The Bagley-Hightower field has several producers from that formation, but from a lower zone. The tester was open four hours and 50 minutes. Gas was at the surface in four minutes, mud in 20 minutes and oil in 35 minutes. Operator turned the flow to tanks after the tool had been open 50 minutes. During the four hours it flowed, recovery was 89.16 barrels of 46.3 gravity oil.

Gas-oil ratio was 1,499-1. The venture is now being drilled below 8,715 feet.

A top on the Pennsylvanian was not released. Drillsite is 660 feet from east and south lines of section 3-12s-33e.

Lea Discovery
Paul C. Teas No. 1 Bernice Dinning, located in Central-West Lea County and near the Eddy County line, has been completed as a discovery from the Yates sand.

The older was completed for a daily pumping potential of 124 barrels of oil per day from total depth of 3,423 feet.

The Yates sand was topped at 3,264 feet. The open hole section was treated with 1,500 gallons of Hydratrac.

Location is 1,650 feet from south and 330 feet from east lines of section 24-20s-33e.

One mile north of the nearest completed producer in the Denton field of Central-East Lea County, Atlantic Refining Company will drill its No. 2 State as a 10,000-foot prospector.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 2-15s-37e. The Denton field gets its production from the Wolfcamp and the Devonian.

Outcrop Staked
Barney Cokburn has staked a one-mile east outcrop to his No. 1 Corbin, discovery of an unnamed field in Central-West Lea County.

Tubing pressure was 2,200 pounds. The pressure dropped 140 pound to 2,060 at the end of the hours swabbing.

The No. 1-P-D State is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 32-15s-37e and nine miles west of the Knowles Devonian pool.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—
1950 Chalked Up By Most Companies As Second Best Year In All History

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON—(AP)—Most oil companies are recording 1950 as their second best financial year in history.

Annual reports sent to stockholders have shown, in most cases, last year's net earnings have been exceeded only by 1948.

Sharp increases have been reported over 1949, a year which saw the nation's crude oil output cut sharply when the bottom began to fall out from under heavy postwar demand.

Some oil executives, however, are warning stockholders not to be too optimistic over 1951, despite prospects for continued heavy products demand.

1951 earnings may be lower than 1950 because of costs increases and tax hikes.

Despite Production
W. S. S. Rodgers, chairman, and Harry T. Lein, president, made their warnings despite predicting the industry's volume of business will be much greater than 1950.

Socony-Vacuum and Texaco were among the companies reporting 1950 earnings exceeded only by 1948.

Socony-Vacuum recorded a net of $128,200,000 or $4.03 per share of common stock, compared to 1949's $98,300,000 and $3.09. The 1948 per share average was $4.11.

The Texas Company last year had a net of $149,000,000 with $10.82 per share, compared to $132,700,000 and $9.63 a year earlier. In 1948 the common stock average was $12.03.

Several Changes On Geological Staffs Have Been Made

Changes in the personnel of the geological departments of four Midland oil companies have been reported.

Tom L. Ingram is the new area geologist for Stanolind Oil & Gas Company for the east side of the Permian Basin. He succeeds Charles R. Barr who has been moved to the company's district office at Wichita, Kan.

Barr is now district geologist for Stanolind at Wichita. Ingram has been a member of the staff of the SO&GC district office in Midland for more than three years.

Sol Meltzer is a new man on the staff of Cities Service Oil Company's West Texas-New Mexico district office in this city.

He was moved here recently from Amarillo where he had been handling a scouting assignment for the same concern.

He will work as a development geologist. L. E. (Ed) Patterson is district geologist for CSOC in Midland.

Warren B. Scobey has joined the headquarters organization of the Ralph Lowe interests, and associated concerns, in Midland.

He will work with L. C. (Louis) Chase, chief geologist for the Lowe operations, and other members of his staff.

Resigned From Magnolia
Scobey resigned a position on the geological staff of Magnolia Petroleum Company's West Texas district office in Midland to form the new connection.

He went to work for Magnolia in this city more than five years ago when he was released from the U. S. Navy as a lieutenant.

Before entering the navy Scobey had graduated from Cornell College at Mt. Vernon, Iowa and from Syracuse University in Syracuse, N. Y., and had done graduate work at the University of California at Berkeley.

Denmark has been using a vaccine known as BCG against tuberculosis since the early 1930s.

TIPRO To Consider Federal, State Bills At Annual Meeting

AUSTIN—Bills pending both in Congress and the Texas Legislature are scheduled for consideration by the 350 members of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association to attend the TIPRO fifth annual meeting in Beaumont, Wednesday.

Most attention likely will be directed toward legislation designed to correct natural gas price discrimination. The association already is committed to the support of legislation to empower the Railroad Commission of Texas to set minimum natural gas prices in individual fields when necessary to prevent waste.

In Congress, the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Extension Act is scheduled to receive TIPRO attention. As passed by the House, the Act includes import restrictions in the form of "peril point" and "escape clause" provisions. Some members feel strongly, however, that both provisions are phrased to protect coal industry interests at the expense of oil.

TIPRO members generally support the intent of both provisions. However, on the floor of the House changes were made and new matter introduced causing imports of oil and residual fuel to be measured by a "competitive fuel" yardstick.

Date, Locale Set For 1951 Annual WTGS Field Trip

The 1951 Annual West Texas Geological Society Field Trip will be held June 1-2 in the Brazos and Colorado River areas of West-Central Texas.

Leaders for the trip will be Monroe G. Cheney of Coleman, president of Anzac Oil Corporation and ex-president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, and D. H. Eargle, of the United States Geological Survey.

During the first day, outcrops in the Brazos River area in the vicinity of Mineral Wells will be studied. The party will spend that night at Brownwood.

June 2 correlative beds of different facies and thickness will be studied in the Colorado River area, with the trip ending at Brady.

Instructions will be included in the guidebook for the trip for optional trips south of Brady, where the Pennsylvanian and its relationship to the Ellenburger can be observed, and to Jack and Wise Counties where a study of the upper Pennsylvanian reef can be made.

SWEETWATER—(P)—Pokey Powell's just four years old and that may be too young to understand about violent death.

But fire meant something to Pokey. And Friday night when a kerosene stove exploded, spewing flame, he grabbed his two-week-old sister, Terry Ruth, and toddled to safety. By the time he got out of the door the two-room house was ablaze.

A brother, Lee Edward, six, and a sister, two, already were outside with their grandmother. His mother was at a vocational training school.

The house and all the family's belongings were destroyed, including pictures of Pokey's dad, killed three and one-half months ago when a gas stove exploded and burned the house in which the family then lived.

Washington Oil-Steel Shortage Faces Oil And Gas Producers Despite Government Priority Order

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A steel shortage faces oil and gas producers, at least for the next few months, despite completion of a broad, government program allowing producers to use priorities to obtain oil country goods.

That program, known as Order M-46, carrying the approval of the National Production Authority and the Petroleum Administration for Defense, merely sets up a distribution mechanism for what steel there is; contrary to what is understood, it does nothing about insuring the production of oil field steel goods themselves.

Aside from a general understanding between NPA and the PAD that oil producers should have about 157,500 tons monthly of oil country goods, enough for 43,400 wells in the next 12 months, there is nothing on the record whereby either the government or the steel industry agrees to come up with this amount.

In fact, before oil producers are to obtain this amount of oil country goods, further action is needed. Either the NPA must direct the mills to turn out this quantity of goods, or the mills must agree to do so by voluntary efforts. The NPA is seeking a voluntary agreement.

Production of oil country goods is well below this rate, according to Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator of the PAD, Richard Lawton, director of PAD's production division, will have further words about this week.

Higher Rate Apparent

"It is apparent on the basis of the applications thus far received," said Brown, "that operators are seeking to drill oil and gas wells at a rate substantially higher than is required to bring in a total of 43,400 new domestic wells during the next 12 months."

"PAD wishes to encourage the drilling of additional wells, since our calculations show that 43,400 new wells is the minimum number required to dispose petroleum reserves at a satisfactory rate and to provide sufficient productive capacity to meet defense and essential civilian petroleum demands."

"Nevertheless, it is clear that not enough steel will be available during the next few months to produce the oil-country tubular goods required to meet third-quarter drilling programs as presently planned."

Brown said production of oil country tubular goods dropped from a rate of about 150,000 tons a month during 1950 to a monthly rate of about 130,000 tons during the first quarter of this year.

"PAD is confident the NPA will make every effort to assure that enough steel is made available to United States mills to enable them to step up production of oil-country tubular goods to a monthly rate of 157,500 tons during succeeding quarters of 1951," Brown added.

Will Take Time

"However, it will take time to reach this goal. Because of heavy demands for steel for other uses, it is doubtful whether much more than 140,000 tons of steel can be made available for this purpose during April. The amount which will be available for May and June cannot yet be predicted.

"Therefore, it will be necessary for oil and gas operators to supplement their mill orders through the use of material already in stock, by using second-hand material wherever possible, and by invoking the steel conservation measures already recommended to them by PAD."

These conservation measures were proposed a week ago by Secretary of Interior Chapman. He urged study of a four-point program of well-spacing, repressuring, reducing string casing, and dual completions.

Under the priority, or distribution rules set up in M-46 issued by the National Production Authority, there is red tape for oil operators, but it is held to the minimum required under any such government program.

To use the priority system, and most oil producers will want to, they are to file two reports with the PAD. One is form PAD-16, an inventory report on oil field goods on hand. The other is PAD 17, an estimate of oil country goods needed for the third quarter of this year, starting July 1.

Action By April 16

The PAD is aiming at acting upon the reports by April 16 and notifying operators at once, thereby authorizing them to use priority rating DO-48 to obtain oil-country steel goods from the mills. Thereafter these forms are to be filled out quarterly, with PAD regional offices processing them.

Order M-46 also sets up an "emergency" program for "urgent" cases, which starts operating April 1 for oil and gas producers. To take advantage of it, producers should send the PAD form PAD-15 and PAD-16, upon which PAD acts and, if in approval, issues a priority rating, DO-48E.

To save time, the NPA has arranged for warehouses in 13 locations to carry field stocks to fill DO-48E priority orders for such emergency cases. When the program is in operation, about five per cent of monthly tubular goods production, or 6,000 to 7,500 tons monthly, will be carried in the field warehouses.

In West Texas, the field stocks are located at the National Supply Company, Odessa, under a contract with the NPA. Wichita Falls is another location.

Priority System

While the main purposes of M-46 is to distribute oil-country goods to producers, it also sets up a priority system enabling the oil and gas industry to use priorities to obtain steel supplies for maintenance, repair and operations. This is the third part of M-46. Under the procedure, oil and gas operators are permitted to use a DO-97 priority by writing on an order, "The undersigned certifies that the rating hereby applied is authorized by and is properly used pursuant to the provisions of Order M-46." If the total amount of good is $2,000 or more, or if cost of any item is $1,000 or more, Advance PAD approval is required.

While forms may be obtained from Washington, most oil and gas associations and PAD's new regional offices also have them.

Meanwhile, to spur on companies engaged in producing oil-country goods, Bruce K. Brown is querying them on past and future shipments of their products. Answers are due in next week. Brown said:

"It is of the utmost importance that steps be taken as quickly as possible to bring materials supplies for these companies into balance with demands. After the information we have requested has been obtained, however, it will take some time for PAD, working in cooperation with the National Production Authority, to develop a workable program for equitable distribution of needed materials."

OPS Starts Series Of Price Freezes On Petroleum Products

WASHINGTON—(P)—Expected regulations freezing profit margins on petroleum products are beginning to roll from the Office of Price Stabilization.

The first of five anticipated orders was issued Thursday. It applies to refined products at the retail level. Gasoline, heating oils, kerosene, liquefied petroleum gas, lube oils and greases are involved.

Regulations to govern prices at the wholesale level on refined products, crude oils and natural gas are expected to follow shortly.

Some 400,000 filling stations throughout the country were directed under the first order to post prices based on those prevailing in the period from last December 19 to January 25. If, because of a local price war, their margin of profit in that period was abnormally low, they are permitted a mark-up of four cents a gallon on gasoline.

The forthcoming ceilings on natural gas are expected to provide an exemption in all cases in which rates are fixed either by the Federal Power Commission or a state regulatory body. They will apply to both wholesale and retail levels, at the wellhead, casing head plant and industrial sales.

T-NMPLC To Build 75 Miles Of New Lines To Midland Basin Pools

Plans for the building of approximately 75 miles of 8-inch oil pipe line to serve new pools in the Midland Basin were announced Saturday.

The new lines are to be built by Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Company. Some of the work connected with laying the new lines will be started immediately. The rest of it will be done when necessary line pipe and other equipment is secured.

Announcement of the plans for the projects was made in Houston by R. B. McLaughlin, president of T-NMPLC.

The proposed lines include 8-inch trunks to the Germania area of Northeast Midland County; to the Warfield-Scharbauer area in Central-West Midland County and to the Sweetie Peck field in Southwest Midland County.

All those lines would come into the Basin Pipe Line System's station in East Midland and that concern would move the oil brought in by them for the account of Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Company.

Outlet For McElroy

Also planned is an 8-inch line from the T-NMPLC station at Crane to the area in Northwest Upton County on the McElroy ranch which is now in the spotlight as a new oil region on account of the discovery of prolific flowing production from the Eilenburger by Sinclair Oil & Gas Company at its No. 1 McElroy. The proposed expansion program announced Saturday also includes

Adams Of Midland Tells Los Angeles Meeting Of GSA About Texas Reefs

LOS ANGELES—Ancient reefs in Illinois, Texas and Canada that resemble present-day coral reefs in the South Pacific were the subject of symposium for petroleum geologists Saturday at the closing session of the 47th annual meeting of the western section of the Geological Society of America at the University of Southern California.

Dr. John Emery Adams of the Standard Oil Company of Texas, of Midland, Texas, was one of the four of the nation's leading experts on reefs who spoke on the program of the symposium which was one of the highlights of the convention.

Study of reefs round Bikini and Eniwetok by geologists who were observers of the atomic bomb tests there has enabled prospectors to understand similar formations that were on the bottom of the ocean in the Middle West three or four hundred million years ago and are now underground there.

Since petroleum is getting increasingly difficult to find, geologists are continually investigating methods of locating new oil reserves.

Most of the oil produced in the world so far has come from dome-like warping of sediments called anticlines. For several years, however, some important new pools in Illinois, Texas and Canada have been found in ancient reef-like formations resembling present-day coral reefs.

Although buried anticlines are relatively easy to find, the presence of reefs deep within the earth is extremely difficult to predict, speakers pointed out.

Adams Appears

Dr. John E. Adams reconstructed a part of Texas geographically to show an ancient swampy flooding the greater part of that state. Scattered broadcast through this sea were isolated reefs capping the original submarine hills on the ocean floor. Some of the reefs died, others were periodically rejuvenated by warping of the old sea floor. Late in the history of reef-building, a great barrier reef developed in an arc across the state.

Dr. P. E. Cloud, chief of the division of stratigraphy of the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, compared recent reefs to ancient reefs. He showed that ancient reefs commonly consisted of lime mud formed by primitive plants and by chemical precipitation. Other old reefs may be filled depressions on the sea floor. All of these grade into the surrounding sediments.

Kinds Of Reefs

Dr. H. A. Lowenstam, University of Chicago geologist, divided ancient reef-like occurrences into three groups. Some began to grow like recent reefs in only slightly rough water. Others formed as banks of debris and still others as submarine carpets of shells and coralline material.

H. W. Hoylman, consulting geologist of Los Angeles, discussed methods of locating reefs by geophysical means. He revealed that promising regions can be blocked out by measuring differences in the earth's gravitational attraction or changes in the earth's magnetic field. Most direct success is attributed to seismic surveying, in which charges of explosive are detonated and the velocity and direction of earth-transmitted shock waves are measured.

Nevadan Outlines Armchair Theory Of Oil Exploration

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senator George W. Malone (R-Nev.), a mining engineer before coming to Congress, testified Saturday before a House Committee in support of the oil industry's position.

"Inexperienced, hand-raised economists," he said, "with little or no practical experience, seem to believe that the way you secure metals and minerals, including petroleum, is to wait until you need them."

"Then you take a buck-board or a truck and you go up into the mountains with a hay knife and you cut off the amount of minerals you need. They seem to believe you can pick up an oil well almost any morning you find you really need it."

His point was that the depletion allowance encourages wildcat exploration for new oil supplies.

WPM March Issue Publishes Article On Reef By Harris

"Exploring for Pennsylvanian Reef Reserves in West Texas" is the title of an illustrated article by Dr. Siden Harris, president of Southern Geophysical Company in Midland and Fort Worth, in the March issue of World Petroleum Magazine.

Dr. Harris outlines six rules which might be followed in exploring for the Pennsylvanian reefs in West Texas.

1. Employ up-to-date modern instruments with a very flexible response reaction.
2. Be careful of too much mixing or overlapping of detectors.
3. Do not disregard sudden sharp or "screwy" dips which apparently do not conform with the rest of the section, both above and below the dip involved.
4. Carefully pick and plot on the seismic cross-section all dips that appear to be valid reflections regardless of magnitude or direction of dip.
5. Too little shooting probably is worse than none at all; areas that exhibit the possibility of deep-seated Pennsylvanian anomaly should be thoroughly explored, sometimes even cutting a section of land with several crosscross lines.
6. Last, but not least, all data should be thoroughly worked and rechecked.

The luckless Oxford eight, waterlogged from the start on the flood-swollen Thames River, failed to get half a mile along the horsehoose shaped four and a quarter mile course.

As the crew swam to safety following launches and boats, the sorriest of them were their bespectacled American coxswain George Alexander Carver of Hightstown, N. J. He had to take a tremendous but good natured ribbing from the huge crowd.

Art Doering Sets Greensboro Pace

GREENSBORO, N. C. —(P)—Arthur Doering of Richmond matched par 71 Saturday to take the halfway lead with 141 in the $10,000 Greensboro Open Golf Tournament with most of the field home.

Doering's 36-35 reversed par figures for the 6,718-yard Starmount Country Club course and put him three strokes ahead of the first-day leader, Marty Furgol, who fell off to 76 Saturday after a first day 68.

A triple tie for third place at 145, four strokes back of Doering, included Johnny Bulla, Lew Worsham, and Jim Ferrier, winner of the last three tournaments on the current winter swing.

Bulla had 72 Saturday, Worsham 70 and Ferrier 74.

Seven threats at 146, five strokes off the top end, were Glenn Teal, Jack Shields, Jack Burke of Houston; Jay Hebert, Bob Toski, Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas, and Roberto de Vicenzo.

Prominent casualties were frequent.

Snead Blows High
Sam Snead, seeking his third successive Greensboro win, needed 40-38-78 on a card dotted with seven fives for a 149 total.

Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., 73-74-147.
Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., 75-72-147.

O'Sullivan, Page Pace Fem Sandhills Open; Alice Fourth

PINEHURST, N. C. —(P)—Amateur Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., and the veteran amateur Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill led the field Saturday in the first round of the $3,000 Sandhills Women's Open golf tournament. Each had a 75, one over par.

Next came pro, Patty Berg of Minneapolis and Alice Bauer of Midland, Texas, with 78 each.

The other Bauer sister, Marlene, shot 77, as did amateur Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., runner up in the National Women's Championship Tournament last year.

Babe Zaharias took an 80. The Bauer sisters played steadily. Marlene had a spectacular first nine. Far to right in the woods off the first tee, and in trouble all the way to the green, she had a seven but rallied from that bad start to turn in 37.

Betty MacKinnon of Mt. Pleasant, Texas, had a 41-43-84.

Fort Worth Fetes Bantam Ben Hogan At Screen Premiere

Masters Saturday—the only major tournament that has masters Saturday—the only major tournament that has eluded him in one of golf's greatest careers.

The little man practiced at Colonial Country Club while Fort Worth talked about the world premiere of the picture of his life—"Follow the Sun."

The premiere went on at three downtown theaters Friday night. Some 6,000 saw the film that told the story of the Fort Worth caddy who climbed to fame, then climbed back after being so severely injured in an auto-bus crash it was feared he never would walk again.

At the end of the picture, Hogan made a little speech. He talked about Ben Hogan Day in Fort Worth—an occasion which brought a resolution from the Texas Senate. He said: "Val this wife, Valerie) and I want to keep this day sort of sacred for us forever."

Hogan also paid tribute to the man who gave him his start—Marvin Leonard, Fort Worth business leader and builder of Colonial Country Club. It was Leonard who loaned Hogan the money to make his first golf tour and then, when Hogan finally started winning and wanted to pay it back, declined by saying: "I don't want the money; I just wanted you to offer it. You being successful has paid me back."

But Hogan paid it back anyway. Sam Engel, producer of the picture who revealed that Hogan received almost $100,000 for the screen rights, said Little Ben was a difficult fellow to do business with. Hogan served as technical adviser on the picture and insisted that golf be depicted technically correct in every way and above all be shown as a sport for sportsmen.

"He didn't worry much about how his life was shown but he said nothing was going to be done to cause criticism of golf," related Engel. "However, the picture followed the actual life of Hogan closer than any other picture ever did its subject. His life story was better than any we could have written."

Hogan will play in four tournaments this year—the Masters, the National Open, the Greenbrier, W. Va., Invitational and the Colonial National Invitation here. He won't attempt the National PGA. "I can't stand the grind of that one—both stroke play and match play," he said.

Hogan has recovered from injuries received in the crash of his automobile with a bus near Van Horn, Texas, in February, 1949, but he says he never will be able to make the PGA again. His legs won't stand it.

Midland Lad Turns Out For Colorado Mines Grid Team

GOLDEN, COLO.—Milward Kent Miller, 18, Midland, has turned out for Spring football practice at the Colorado School of Mines. The 196-pounder will play tackle.

Miller, a freshman in geology, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milward Miller, 604 West Kansas Street, Midland. He is a holder of a freshman football numeral earned last year. He performed for Midland in 1948 and 1949, playing center for the Bulldog team.

Enrollment in Army, Air and Navy ROTC units at the University of Texas at Austin totals 1,871 for the Spring semester.

Midland Frosh Second

ODESSA — Midland High School's Freshman track team took second place in the Odessa Junior High and Freshman Relays here Saturday, compiling 12½ points. Seminole captured first place with 14 points. Odessa Bowie took third in the 15-team meet.

Midland's 440-yard relay team of Jesse Hatfield, Bill Mims, Puffy Rutledge and Bill Snow won first in their race, posting a winning time of :48.2.

Hatfield captured high jump honors, clearing the bar at five feet, six inches. Joe Bauman of Midland soared over the mark at five feet, two inches to tie for third.

Other Midland points came on Bill Mims' 99-foot discus toss, good for third place, and Vernon Carpenter's fourth place in the chinning event. Carpenter chinned 36 times. Mims also finished fifth in the 100-yard dash.

The Midland team will enter a similar meet next weekend at San Angelo, Coach John Higdon announced.

G. B. Morris, Tech Line Coach, Chosen To Tutor Scotties

DALLAS — G. B. Morris, since 1947 line coach at Texas Tech College, has been named head football coach at Highland Park High School.

Appointment of Morris to succeed Floyd Hightower was made unexpectedly Friday night by School Superintendent W. B. Irwin.

Irwin said Hightower and his two assistants, James O. Franklin and Ernest Kennedy, had asked to be relieved of their football duties. Hightower will continue as track coach and ROTC commandant. Kennedy will keep his baseball coaching post, with Franklin as his assistant.

Irwin said the three made their requests three days ago. Hightower asked to be relieved because his "duties with the ROTC were becoming more and more important because of the war situation." Irwin did not give the reasons given by the assistants.

Aides for Morris will be named later.

Hightower became head coach last year when Herman Morgan resigned to become freshman coach at Southern Methodist University.

Morris coached at Breckenridge High School before coming to Highland Park. He was an assistant to Morgan, when he went to Texas Tech.

King's Row

By LARRY KING

Since sport scribes in the area already have started to pick the way Longhorn League teams will finish—almost a month before the season even starts—it looks as if it's time for us to join the merry round of guessing games.

But we aren't going to attempt to pick the finish of the clubs in the league.

All we shall be concerned with for now is the team Midland will fare this season.

—KR—
We think it's fairly safe to say the Indians will finish no worse than they did last year.

If they do, someone is going to have to enlarge the Longhorn League cellar and make it a bit deeper. Yet, we aren't going to sell you press agent bally-hoo that the Midland club will finish 20 games in front—or in front at all.

—KR—
Currently, the entire team is pretty much one big question mark, the way we see it. The team can come through and finish in the first division, or it can falter.

Maybe that sounds to you like a good way of saying nothing, but look a little deeper into the crystal ball to see what we mean.

—KR—
Who will catch? Kenny Jones may be back, or he may stick with Oklahoma City.

First Baseman Jim Prince, wanted by Oklahoma City, hasn't reported to that club and probably will be with Midland.

Second Baseman Quentin Basco has gone into the armed forces. While we're sorry to see Basco go, we can't help but feel he wouldn't have been much help to the team if he posted the anemic .222 batting average he had last year.

Eddie Mellio probably will be at third base. Eddie's a hustler, and hits in the clutch. His arm could be stronger, but no one expects him to make the big leagues anyway.

Scout Hughes probably will be back in the shortstop position. He can field with the best of 'em. All he needs to do is tack a few points to his batting average. If he won't swing for the fences so often, he'll do that too.

—KR—
Gus Pena will be around for the outfield. Everybody knows Gus. Nuff said there, as he's a hustler in the outer gardens.

Jacome, Hayes and Patton will be there to hurt. All have the ability and know-how. Condition and desire will play a large part in their on-rod records.

The rest of the team is yet to be filled. With what, we don't know.

—KR—
Therefore, in the light of the known and the unknown, we say this and only this: The team could fall into a solid outfit that would finish at or near the top.

Provided, of course, the proper guidance comes from Roundman Harold Webb.

This is the year Webb has a chance to win back Midland fans

Comebacks By Oldtimers Are Big Noise In Majors

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—(AP)—Baseball is standing pat this Spring. Most clubs came South with set lineups. Fearful of the military draft, nobody talks big trades.

The Yankees have a "new Joe DiMaggio" in Mickey Mantle and the Cardinals a "left-handed Dizzy Dean" in Vinegar Bend Mizell. But the over-all rookie crop is undistinguished.

The big noise is the comeback department, where such "names" as Bill Nicholson of the Phils, Virgil Trucks of Detroit, Joe Coleman of the Philadelphia A's and Ted Wilks

Lone Star Players To Register; Loop Officials Will Meet

Registration cards for Lone Star League players now are available at the Midland Youth Center, loop prexy Bill Gildewell has announced.

All boys who play in the Lone Star League must be registered by Thursday, March 29. The age range is 15, 16 and 17 years.

Gildewell also announced a meeting of Lone Star officials will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the City Hall.

of the St. Louis Cards are struggling back up the ladder.

Nicholson, floored by diabetes last Summer, has bounced back with a vengeance. If he keeps it up, Manager Eddie Sawyer will have to give him back his old job in right field.

Trucks Story Incomplete

The Trucks story still is incomplete. On his ability to fog that ball hangs Detroit's pennant hopes. Only a hale and hearty Trucks can take up the slack left by 19-game winner Art Houtteman, now in the Army. Early reports are encouraging.

Arm trouble sidelined Trucks in late May last season. First they said he'd be out two weeks. He never did throw again and went home for keeps September 15 in the midst of the Tigers' stretch staggers.

Coleman is another sore arm case. He wasn't much good to Connie Mack all last season, winding up with an 0-5 record. Two cautious outings in the early exhibitions have been convincing.

EYE ON BALL — Hank Edwards of the Dodgers keeps his eye on the ball at Miami, Fla. Stadium, and his boxer knows where to look for it—in his master's glove. Edwards, ex-Indian with the Cubs last season, is a pinch-hitting candidate and would like to share the work in left field. (NEA)

BOWLING

Two red-hot races are on in Midland bowling leagues, as Plymouth Oil clings to a scant one-game lead over Stuart's Photo keglers in the Petroleum League and Kruger Jewelry holds fast to the same margin over I. W. Hynd Company in the Women's Bowling League as a result of games played last week.

In the Petroleum loop, Plymouth rolled three games over Phillips 66 to preserve its lead while Stuart's banged Honolulu Oil the same number.

Other results: Tex-Harvey blanked Skelly Oil 2-0, Rotary Engineering Company rolled over Ralph Lowe 3-0, and Union Oil shut out Superior Oil 3 games to none. Standard of Texas split with Core Lab 2-1, Ohio Oil dumped Tide Water 2-1, Sun Oil took West Texas Reproduction 2-1, Mabee Drilling earned a 2-1 split over Shell Oil, and Browne's Magnolia took Seaboard Oil by the same count.

Core Lab amassed 2,568 points to take high team series honors and 914 pins to top high team game. D. Coughenour's 583 earned high individual series honors and his 286 was good for high game.

Petroleum standings:

Team	W.	L.
Plymouth Oil	55	26
Stuart's Photo	54	27
Sun Oil	51	30
Core Lab	46	35
Rotary Engineers	46	35
W. Texas Reproduction	45	36
Ohio Oil	45	36
Mabee Drilling	43	38
Union Oil	42	39
Tex - Harvey	40	41
Seaboard Oil	39	42

Standard of Texas	35	46
Superior Oil	35	46
Browne's Magnolia	34	47
Honolulu Oil	32	49
Tide Water	30	51
Skelly Oil	24	57

In the Women's League, Kruger Jewelry continues to set a scorching pace. The Kruger team took two of three games from Piggy-Wigly stores, rolling up 1,787 for high team series and 624 for high team game.

I. W. Hynd took two of three from Checker Cab. Neely Agency took a 2-1 split from cellar-dwelling Rodeo-Tel and Hoover Body Shop blanked Schlitz 3-0 to round out the action.

Lois Childress' 500 total was good for high individual series and her 192 grabbed high individual game laurels.

The standings:

Team	W.	L.
Kruger Jewelry	50	28
I. W. Hynd	49	29
Piggy - Wigly	40	38
Checker Cab	40	38
Neely Agency	38	40

Schlitz Company	32	46
Rodeo - Tel	29	49

The A's have another comeback case in Pitcher Dick Fowler. Burstis is his trouble.

Wilks was the National League's Joe Page until last year. He went on the disabled list in May and underwent an operation for removal of a bone spur from his elbow. It was July before he could work.

Bob Scheffing, Cincinnati's No. 1 catcher, seems to be as good as new after a bone chip operation.

Nippy Jones, who seems slated for the Cardinals' first base job, has shaken off a spinal disc operation. He appears nimble as ever, swinging that bat.

Williams Is Big Story
The big comeback story is Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox. Ted is having trouble getting his old power into his drives since he fractured his left elbow in the '50 all-star game. Improvement has been gradual but steady. He hopes to be back on the beam by opening day.

The comeback bounce of Yankee Joe Page and the Red Sox' Lou Boudreau after mediocre seasons could decide the American League race.

Page flopped badly in '50 for a 3-7 record. From No. 1 fireman in baseball he was demoted to just another left-handed pitcher. Smokey Joe is an every-other-year man. He's due again.

Boudreau benched himself at Cleveland and wound up getting the gate as manager. Trim and ready, he could give Boston a tremendous lift with a good year.

It's the old timers hitting the comeback trail, rather than the shiny-nosed kids from the bushes who figure to decide the 1951 pennant races.

Hanes Hosiery Gals Walk Over Wayland To Win AAU Crown

DALLAS —(AP)— Hanes Hosiery headed back to Winston-Salem, N. C. with the National AAU women's basketball trophy tucked in its traveling bags.

The North Carolina gals Friday night had an easy time walloping the Hutchinson Flying Queens of Plainview, Texas, 30-34, for the championship.

Nashville, Tenn., the city that's made a habit of housing the championship, could claim only the third-place team. Cook's Goldblumes outlasted American Institute of Business 39-23 for this honor.

Jackson, Miss., State Board of Health defeated Tintoreria, Coahuila, Mexico, for the consolation championship 41-35.

Hanes led all the way in knocking off the surprise team of the tournament. It was Wayland that knocked out the defending champion, Nashville American Business College, and the Goldblumes.

Some Consolation
But Wayland had some consolation: It placed the most players on the all-star team picked by Mrs. Irving Van-Biarcom, chairman of the National AAU Women's Basketball Committee. Three Wayland girls made the team. Two were from Hanes, two from AIB of Des Moines; two from the Goldblumes, and one from the Atlanta, Ga., Blues.

Selected for the team were: Juanita Clepper, Pat Tate and Marie Wales, Wayland; Capt. Ekkie Jordan and Jackie Swain Fagg of Hanes; Joy Cummings and Helen Corick of AIB; Peggy Ryan of Atlanta, and Lurline Greer and Pauline Bowden of Nashville.

Bulldog Boosters Meet Tuesday Night

Russell Cotton, president of the Bulldog Booster Club, announced Saturday the Boosters will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Midland High School Gym.

New officers will be elected at the meeting, Cotton said.

MHS Coach Hightower Jones will report on the track team to the Boosters and talk briefly on the Midland football prospects for next Fall. Audrey Gill will report on his unbeaten golf team.

Witness Declares Referees Involved In Hardwood Fixes

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A witness told Senate crime investigators Saturday that certain betting commissions believe "three, four or five" basketball referees are involved in throwing games.

Sidney A. Brodson, a free-talking Milwaukeean who said he bets as much as $1,000,000 a year on sports contests, offered this testimony to the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Brodson said at least one of these basketball officials "is in the Midwestern Big 10 Conference and another in the East's Ivy League."

Brodson did not name any of them but said "oddsy enough, these officials are still refereeing."

He said big time betting commissioners in several cities, with whom he does business, suspected these officials in much the same manner as they were suspicious of the Madison Square Garden games in New York.

Brodson said he knew there was "something abnormal" about the Garden games before the recent bribery scandal broke in New York.

Montez, One Of Best Collegiate Milers, To Appear In Odessa West Texas Relays

EL PASO—Javier Montez, Texas Western College track star and one of the top milers in the nation, will make his first appearance of the 1951 season at the West Texas Relays March 30-31 in Odessa.

Montez originally was scheduled to compete in the Border Olympics and the Southwestern Relays, but a knee injury forced him to withdraw. Although the injury was not serious, it slowed up his training program.

The knee trouble has cleared up and he is rounding into top shape for the West Texas Relays.

The slim, 21-year-old ace, is rated by many as the most likely successor to Don Gehrman, former Wisconsin University star, as king of the collegiate milers.

came last year in the Kansas Relays, when Montez ran second to the famed Gehrman. As a sophomore last year, the smooth-striding Montez won the mile events at the Southwestern Relays, Arizona Relays, Texas Relays and Border Conference meet. In addition he won the 3,000-meter run at the Texas Relays and set a new Border Conference mark in the two-mile event. Also, he set a record of 4:17.6 in the P. M. Irish Mile at the Arizona Relays. He finished fourth in the two-mile at the Drake Relays, but it was the first time he had ever run this distance in competition.

Dale Waters, Texas Western track coach, is confident Montez will continue to improve and some day will be a great distance runner.

Oil Search Begins In Mojave Desert

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.—Western oil men are keeping an eye on drilling operations on the vast Mojave Desert across the mountains.

While no one has struck oil there yet in commercial quantities, some experts believe it's there to be found. In several areas derricks now point skyward among the yucca and Joshua trees. Test wells are being drilled near Barstow, Victorville, Oro Grande, Helendale and Harvard.

Effective Control Of Mastitis Seen

OSLO—P—Effective veterinary control may reduce cases of mastitis—a glandular infection of the cow's udder—to the vanishing point in less than a year, experiments here show.

Dr. Oskar Bratlie, head of the State Institute for Mastitis Research in Oslo, says the institute has succeeded in wiping out mastitis in the Lesja area during the 10-month period from March, 1950, to February, 1951.

The infected cattle are given penicillin and the cow sheds are thoroughly disinfected.

Turf Experts Praise MCC Golf Course Program Especially North Unit Now Under Construction

No golf course in the world will have anything on Midland's.

This high praise was given to the North Course (under construction) of the Midland Country Club by two visiting turf experts, both eminent agronomists.

They are Dr. Fred V. Grau and Dr. James R. Watson, Jr. Doctor Grau is director of the green section of the United States Golf Association. Doctor Watson is with the agronomy department of Texas A&M College and secretary-treasurer of the Texas Turf Association.

The agronomists were here to inspect the turf program of the Midland Country Club, make recommendations, and to pass judgment on the progress made at the new North Course.

Conferring with Jay Floyd and Fred Hogan of the MCC, the turf experts spaced their recommendations with compliments of the program already under way here.

In the North Course, Midland and the club not only will have one of the largest and longest golf courses in the world, but it also is destined to become one of the most beautiful.

An amazing job is being done in the rugged, mesquite-brush land North of the city.

Ribbons of Water
Ribbons of water, the lifeblood of any golf course, are spraying the arid West Texas soil from the course's nine miles of water lines.

The water arteries are seven-inch lines. The course has its own water tower.

The fairways and greens of the new course are oasis-green and are distinctly outlined in the half-section or more area of the course. These fairways and greens now are

Episcopal Men's Club Meets Tuesday Night

The Men's Club of Trinity Episcopal Church will meet Tuesday to hear a talk by the Rev. William Boyd, Rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church of Big Spring, and to elect new officers.

Reservations for the supper preceding the meeting should be made with Perry Pickett, telephone 3905. The meeting will be held in the Parish House at 7 p.m.

TURF EXPERTS CONFER WITH MCC OFFICIALS—Spending two days in Midland to study the turf program of the Midland Country Club and to make recommendations were two eminent agronomists, Doctors Fred Grau and James Watson. Shown in the photo, left to right, are Doctor Watson, Doctor Grau, Jay Floyd, Fred Hogan and Ralph Plummer, who is architect for the new North Course of the club.

planted to rye to hold the soil. This step brought praise from the turf men.

Later the fairways will be planted to Bermuda.

The greens will be covered with Bent grass.

"The Midland course will be a model one, no doubt about that," Doctor Grau said, who has been consultant to leading clubs over the world.

He compares the Midland course with the famous St. Andrews golf course of Scotland, in the utilization of natural terrain and the extensive turf program of the fairways, greens and tees.

Under the greens of the Midland course is a base of mixed soil and peat moss—a fine seed bed. The greens are scientifically designed for drainage.

No expense has been spared in preparing the new course. Ralph Plummer is the architect.

Essential to proper turf, especially in this area, is aeration. This is a process of spooning holes out of soil without disturbing the general turf, according to the turf experts.

"This technique will be utilized extensively at North Course and will be done by machine. Water and fertilizer program are of great importance to a first-rate golf course, the visitors said. Both are well planned at Midland, they commented.

The perfect turf program for a golf course includes the following grasses: Marion Bluegrass, Kentucky 31 Fescue and Bermuda.

And someday, Midland's North Course will have this complete program. The bluegrass is for the cool seasons and the Bermuda for hot seasons—providing a year-round greenness and carpet.

"Better grass for better turf for better golf," said Doctor Grau, "that's the USGA slogan."

"The Midland club certainly is following the slogan."

The fact that the Midland course has been constructed soundly and in view of future plans, Midland can qualify as host in the not-too-distant future to such top golf events as the National Amateur and the National Open.

The new North Course is that excellent.

It is estimated that the pyramids of Egypt contain enough stone to build a wall four feet high and a foot thick around France.

+Wink News+

Army To Call 1,500 Field Grade Officers To Duty On June 29

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Army Saturday night said 1,500 field grade officers of the National Guard and organized reserve will go on active duty on June 29.

Some 1,100 will be majors and 400 lieutenant colonels. They will come from infantry, armor, artillery, signal corps, engineer and chemical corps categories. The National Guard officers can be brought in only if they volunteer. Members of the organized reserve will be ordered up if not enough volunteer.

Up to now emphasis has been on the calling up of junior grade officers—lieutenants and captains—who have been needed in expansion of the Armed Forces. But the progress of the expansion has now reached the point where additional field grade officers are needed.

Saturday's announcement followed two Friday affecting guard, reserve and ROTC officers. One said that 3,516 officers and enlisted men of National Guard units and 815 officers and men of the Organized Reserve Corps units would be called to active duty. The other said the Army would call to active duty this summer all students enrolled in the Reserve Officers Training Corps program who graduate this spring. Approximately 10,000 ROTC men will be involved.

Must Volunteer
The Army said many of the 1,500 officers are expected "to enter duty voluntarily in the present emergency." No member of the inactive reserve and no individual National Guard officer will be ordered to active duty under this program "unless he volunteers," the Army said.

First priority will be for qualified volunteers of the Organized Reserve Corps and National Guard and second to members of the volunteer reserve. The Army added: "Preference will be given to officers who consent to be ordered to active duty for at least six months" in their present grade. They will go on duty for the customary 21 months, or such other period as may be authorized by law.

Allies—

Saturday after a visit to Seoul and the front lines. He said he had ordered the Eighth Army to cross the parallel into Red North Korea "if and when its security makes it tactically advisable."

There was no official Chinese broadcast reaction to MacArthur's offer to meet the Communist commander in the field and discuss a means of ending the war.

The United Nations commander said Red China lacked the industrial muscle to back modern Allied firepower and weapons, despite Red manpower.

He warned that should the UN decide to extend the war to China's coast and inland bases, it would mean the collapse of Chinese Communist military power.

His statement was reminiscent of his surrender ultimatum to North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung last October 8.

Sung rejected that ultimatum October 10 and ordered a "fight to the death."

Forced To Withdraw
Subsequently the Eighth Army was forced to withdraw from far North Korea under the onslaught of massed Chinese infantry.

But less than two months later the Eighth Army was back at the parallel and in much greater strength. With an estimated 3,450 casualties inflicted on the Reds in Friday's drive toward the parallel, the Chinese and Korean Red losses since January 25 neared 200,000.

The Eighth Army communique late Saturday reported light to heavy resistance northeast of Seoul, but little activity elsewhere on the front.

"MUST BE THERE SOMEWHERE"—If you're looking for that silver lining through all the dark news, you might try these "world's largest binoculars," being focused by D. P. Bushnell of Pasadena, Calif. Valued at $3000, the 75-power binoculars make an object a mile away appear to be only 74 feet distant. This pair is the sole survivor of 12 built by the Japanese during World War II for use on battleships. The U. S. Navy sank the others.

Odessa's Paul Harvey, Electra's Mayor Get Bids To Crime Inquiry; Can't Imagine Why

AUSTIN — (AP) — "Will Mickey be here?" is the big question in the Texas Capitol, where the Texas House Crime Investigating Committee begins its first hearing at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Committee members have implied that if Cohen doesn't show up he will have a contempt action over his head.

Mickey and six other witnesses have been ordered to appear the same day. The others include four present or former El Paso law enforcement officers, Odessa Sportsman Paul Harvey, and Electra Mayor T. Leo Moore.

All six have professed ignorance of why they were called.

The El Paso witnesses are: John Hartridge, a policeman who was fired after Cohen visited his home Wednesday.

W. D. White, a detective who telephoned Cohen Sunday to invite him to El Paso for the funeral of slain Detective Ralph Marmolejo.

R. H. Lessor, acting police chief, who told White not to have Cohen come to El Paso.

Joe Campbell, former sheriff who was entertained in Cohen's home in Los Angeles last fall while he still was sheriff.

Leading The Witness
Harvey refused comment when asked if Cohen visited him in Odessa last year.

"That's leading the witness, isn't it?" he asked.

Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, a member of the investigating committee, said the question of whether Cohen and Harvey did get together at Odessa likely would be one of the first things asked.

Moore said he didn't know Cohen, "never met him and wasn't even in town when Cohen came to Wichita Falls" on alleged oil business last year.

He later said Cohen had never been in Electra to his knowledge.

"But if the committee does not know about the crime situation in Dallas and Fort Worth after all the stories in newspapers, they should get themselves some seeing-eye dogs," Moore commented.

Two Brothers Die Instantly In Road Crash Near McCamey

McCAMEY—Two oilfield worker brothers were killed almost instantly late Friday night in an automobile-trailer crash four miles east of here on U. S. Highway 67.

Dead are Kenneth R. Clevenger, 24, and Jasper Clarence Clevenger, 26, both of McCamey. They were employed in the oil fields near McCamey and had resided here about two weeks.

The car in which the Clevenger brothers were riding struck a trailer being pulled by a car driven by Elder J. Cothorn of Fort Stockton. Others in the car were Bill Armtrout, owner of the automobile, Mrs. Cothorn and two children of Mr. and Mrs. Cothorn. None of the occupants of the car were injured.

The Clevenger car and the house trailer were demolished.

State Highway patrolmen and Upton County officers are investigating the accident.

Survivors of the Clevenger brothers include the parents, who reside in Tattensburg, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. Herman Peoples of McCamey.

Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday afternoon. The bodies are at the Jacobsen Funeral Home here.

Texas April Draft Quota Cut In Half

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas' draft quota for April has been cut in half, Draft Director Paul L. Wakefield said Saturday.

The reduction, in line with a national curtailment, resulted from high enlistments and less-than-expected casualties in Korea.

All local draft boards will be notified Monday to slash their April quotas by half, Wakefield said. The statewide figure will be 2,075.

Wakefield did not know whether the May quota would be adjusted.

"We were directed in early March to deliver around 3,000 men in May. Whether this will be left as it is, be decreased or increased, we have no way of knowing. The Department of Defense calls for the men it wants," he said.

increase than that over last year. Since last spring, the city has drilled six new wells in the Wadley tract north of the city and two of them were used the latter part of the summer.

New Pump Installed
A new pump now is being installed to give the city the benefit of this extra production.

But, even with the new wells and additional pumping facilities, the Wadley tract will have a capacity production of only 7,000,000 gallons a day.

The other two fields, Cole Park and Rosedale, both east of the city, provide another 4,000,000 gallons. The city, therefore, will have a capacity of 11,000,000 gallons of water a day.

'Jesse James' Is On The Move Again

GALVESTON — (AP) — The man who asserts he's Jesse James is on the move again. He came through here Saturday in an ambulance en route to a visit with a friend.

The wispy-haired 103-year-old man who says he is the notorious train-robbing Jesse was on his way from an Austin hospital to visit an old friend near Gilchrist.

Although in a weak condition, Jesse, who says he adopted the alias J. Frank Dalton long ago to hide his true identity, regularly travels about the country by private ambulance.

He has visited Galveston often, he said, and was here when the sea-wall was erected.

The claim is that only he, of many former members of the famous James gang, still lives and holds the secret location of numerous buried treasures taken in the gang's heyday.

Jesse will visit Mrs. Flora Diamond, the widow of an old dead friend, Jack Diamond, near Gilchrist. He plans to stay several months.

Robert Johnson is one of four Lamont, Calif., hill billy musicians indicted for murder in the January 22 shooting. District Judge Robert A. Hall set a hearing for next Friday.

"completely original." Peron asserted it does not employ uranium, but "deals with creating artificial suns on the earth."

The scientist used the word explosion in referring to the experiments, but specified that it was not like an atom bomb blast.

"I control the explosion," he said. "I can make it increase or diminish at my desire. When an atom bomb explodes without control there is terrific destruction. I have managed to control the explosion so that it is produced in a slow, gradual form."

He said secrecy is necessary "simply for economic and industrial reasons because, just as there is espionage for war, there is also economic espionage." He suggested the cost of atomic energy would be much less than electricity. He said he had been actively in atomic research for 15 years.

Peron's decision to apply atomic energy strictly to peaceful uses was described as "another proof of Argentina's third position," midway between communism and capitalism.

Radio Relay Phone System Will Link Austin, San Antonio

DALLAS — (AP) — Work is expected to begin within 30 days on Texas' first micro-wave towers for a radio relay telephone system.

They will link Austin and San Antonio.

The towers are in operation in other parts of the nation. They speed telephone calls by radio relay through the air—not over wires.

Four towers will be in the Austin-San Antonio leg.

The system will allow 1,200 telephone calls at the same time between San Antonio and Austin—far more than present facilities permit and more than are expected for many years.

Each tower will be both a transmitter and receiver.

The advantage is the vastly greater number of telephone calls made possible.

But despite the Spring gaiety, there was a note of underlying solemnity, keyed by a message prepared by Francis Cardinal Spellman for people behind the Iron Curtain.

It told them they would conquer "godless enemies, not with a sword, but with a crucifix."

For the first time since the ancient days of christianity, midnight Easter masses were celebrated in Rome. A solemn pontifical mass was conducted by Clemente Cardinal Micara, at the Basilica of St. John Lateran. In other parts of the world similar midnight masses were held.

No midnight mass was held at St. Peter's Basilica. There a solemn pontifical mass was to be celebrated Easter morning by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini and broadcast by the Vatican radio. It was to be followed by the pope's blessing, "Urbi et Orbi," to the city and the world, bestowed from the central loggia of the Basilica overlooking the great square of St. Peter's.

Tiny Tots' Easter Day

BABY'S FIRST EASTER—Robin Rutter, five-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. William Rutter, Jr., thoroughly is enjoying her first Easter, rabbit and all. To celebrate her first Easter, little Miss Rutter chose to wear a crisp yellow dress with white accessories, proving that even a tiny young lady knows the latest fashions suitable for the Easter Parade.

OH, LOOK MOMMY—Jennifer Ball, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ball, is both surprised and happy when her mother shows her the pretty, yellow egg she has just dyed. The coloring of Easter eggs, red, blue, yellow, etc., was borrowed from the rays of the Aurora Borealis, the northern lights and the dawning hues of the Easter sun. Easter eggs have come down to us as a symbol of reviving life, their colors being symbolic of the Spring flowers.

SISTER ACT—Wearing matching Easter outfits and equipped with baskets, Janet, left, and big sister, Sandra, are ready to start looking for those colored eggs the bunny has hidden around their home. The two little girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Seawright. Janet is six years old and Sandra is nine. They are pictured in front of their home.

EASTER SERVICES—Craig and Carol Coughran are ready to go home after attending special Easter church services in their new Easter outfits. Craig, four years old, and Carol, three years old, are the children of Mrs. Jeanne Coughran.

EASTER EGG HUNT—A big Easter egg hunt is underway and Janet, left, and Sandra Lovejoy help Corky Crotty fill his basket with brightly-colored eggs. Six-year-old Janet and Sandra, nine, are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Lovejoy. Corky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Crotty.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The discard pile does not mean as much at samba as at canasta. Even if you never pick up a pile, your hand still gains one card per turn. This is ample to give you and your partner the two canastas that you need in order to meld out.

During the early part of a hand, a substantial discard pile is worth fighting for. Such a pile may enable you to make several canastas instead of merely two; or it may give you a good chance for samba. Towards the end of a hand even a fairly good-sized discard pile may be more of a hindrance than a help. It is bound to contain several useless cards so that your play for out is delayed.

For example, suppose that your side is playing for out, that you already have the necessary two canastas, and that your hand at this point consists of two jacks, two eights and one wild card. If you keep on drawing from the stock, you are likely to draw an out card very quickly. All you need is a jack, an eight, or a wild card— together with another card (remember that a draw from the stock consists of two cards) that you can meld.

If you pick up a discard pile that contains three or four useless cards, it will probably take you four or five rounds to rid your hand of the garbage.

Nevertheless, if the discard pile is large enough you would take it anyway. For one thing, you would probably find enough important melds in a very large discard pile to compensate for the delay in melding out. Moreover, you might be able to put down several unimportant melds an even though your own play for out might be delayed, these small melds would speed up your partner's play for out.

For these reasons, you need not concentrate too hard on discarding safely. Remember that there are twelve cards of each rank so that even if you never give anything away, your opponents will probably get what they need from the stock-pile anyway.

Do not make a discard that will help the opponents with a sequence meld or that will give the opponents a canasta then and there. However, do not worry too much about giving opponents a fourth or fifth card of some meld that they have on the table.

Guard Throat Against Time

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

It's like locking the barn door after the horse has run away to wait until your throat is crepey and sagging before you begin combatting wrinkles. You've learned your lesson, but it's a trifle late.

It's a better idea to realize, no matter how youthful and dewy your skin may appear at present, that there'll be inevitable drying as you grow older.

Wrinkles are likely to be inevitable, too, unless you begin taking proper precautions to slow down their onslaught upon your beauty. Since there are fewer oil glands in the skin beneath your chin than elsewhere, it's often there that time begins marking up your age in unmistakable lines.

Preventive treatment is usually less difficult than corrective treatment, so even if you're years from real wrinkle worries, it's well to begin thinking about the problem.

A throat cream offered by one cosmetics firm is helpful in restoring oil to drying necks, since it's high in lanolin content. It is particularly recommended by its makers as a massage cream. They claim it has sufficient body for satisfactory stroking, yet is easily absorbed.

Lingerie Is Bright And Bold

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—The lingerie picture is painted this Spring in splashes of vivid color. For the first time, navy blue, crimson, flame, yellow, gray, green and violet appear generally in lingerie collections.

Fabrics make further fashion news. There are leopard chiffons, narrow pin stripes and bold candy

BACON MUFFINS

When you're making bacon muffins be sure to chop the bacon and pan-broil it, then drain it, before adding to the muffin batter. These are good with scrambled eggs for Sunday morning breakfast. Use two slices of bacon in a muffin recipe calling for two cups of flour.

stripes, flower prints. Linen, pique, silk shantung and chambray fabrics formerly used only for street wear, now turn up in lingerie designs. Nylon makes news because it's woven to look and feel like silk crepe. And lace appears, not only as trimming, but as an all-over fabric.

A white, lace-trimmed gown with matching negligee, left, is in a luxurious rayon crepe that has a true, chalky white look. Panels of lace are set into the gown at each side, over pale blue satin bows. Bodice of the gown has wide lace straps backed with blue ribbon. The yoke, too, is lace. The full, flowing skirt of the negligee is smoothed and fitted at the waist with a band of the lace. Lace is repeated in three-quarter length sleeves.

Layers of bright color make a graceful negligee, right, in flame and yellow nylon. Cut of the skirt is irregular to create a misty, floating look. The waist is nipped in by a ribbon sash.

Adventists Back Foreign Mission

Expansion of Seventh-Day Adventist medical and educational work in South Africa will be made possible through a special foreign mission offering to which members of the Midland Adventist Church contributed Saturday, according to C. A. Holt, pastor.

The offering, which will be taken in all Adventist churches in North America, is expected to reach $250,000, of which $40,000 beyond regular budget requirements is earmarked for special projects in Africa.

New buildings for two training schools—one in Angola and one in the Congo—and Malamulo Hospital in Nyasaland, will make it possible to train additional African workers so they can help their own people.

Seventh-Day Adventists now are operating 10 training schools for the education of teachers and pastors as part of this program of self-help. Medical aides are being trained in nine hospitals.

Learn About Bible

Already more than 3,000 native teachers, pastors and medical workers are helping the natives achieve a happier, more healthful way of life in thousands of villages. Last year more than 60,000 students attended little village schools to learn about the Bible and the three R's.

Malamulo Hospital, located at the denomination's largest mission station in Africa, operates one of six Adventist leper colonies which are able to care for 725 patients.

Use of newly-developed treatment for leprosy, using the sulphones and derivatives, is making it possible to discharge patients after two or three years. Yet there is a need for enlarging to take care of more patients. Many now must be turned away for lack of medicines and space.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures

It may seem premature but now is the time to test the vacation job market. Lazy birds who wait until school closes will pass the Summer again meaning that there just isn't anything available. Young adults who set their job sails now will know what the market has to offer and be able to choose from the job pot.

If you start now to look for Summer employment you can make the big decision as to whether you are mainly interested in (1) money (2) a job that builds for the future (3) a job combining a vacation.

Once you decide that your main object is money, perhaps for next year's college tuition, you naturally will want to take a job near your home so you can live and eat with your family at minimum cost. Also you will have the opportunity now of picking a firm which can afford to pay the salary you want. It is doubly good if you can get a good paying job in the field you plan to pursue after your graduation from high school or college.

Select A Job
In selecting a job that will tie in with your future plans here is a typical guide which you can use or you can chart your own if you have an unusual job in mind.

Jobs as stock girls, sales girls, information girls and clerks in department stores are good background if you plan a career as a buyer, fashion designer and even a copy writer.

A job as hospital helper, nurses aide or laboratory assistant is ideal for the girl who plans to be a nurse or pathologist.

Assisting in a school or hospital kitchen is invaluable if you plan to be a dietitian.

Jobs as clerks, typists, stenographers and general office worker will give you experience for your goal of private secretary.

Sit down and list all the jobs related to your future career. Try to get one of them before settling on anything else, but don't hold out too long unless you can afford to.

Use Directory
If you are a vacation-job hunter, take out the classified directories in local libraries, or get circulars from local travel bureaus and correspond about job possibilities with the resort you'd like to visit. It is better if you can arrange to do this through your school which frequently has information about good hotels and inns in resort areas.

When picking some yourself, make sure that they are recommended by your travel bureau, or other reliable source, and if possible have a family friend in a nearby town give it the look-see before you make a decision.

Jobs as camp counselors or farm hands or beach helpers offer fine possibilities if you do your looking early. Some dude ranches hire girls to assist them during the busy vacation season.

If you go to see your prospective employer in person, don't show up in blue jeans and shirt, even if it is for the dude ranch job. Wear a clean pressed suit, a small suit hat, tailored shoes—not spikes, a minimum of makeup. Your gracious manner and charm should win you the job providing you can compete with your competition in other respects.

For a flavor change add celery cooked until tender-crisp to hot steamed rice. Sprinkle with a little dried pimiento for color.

SERIES E BONDS MAY BE HELD ANOTHER TEN YEARS
DALLAS — Congress has completed legislation that will postpone "writer's cramps" and other inconveniences for millions of Americans who bought United States Defense Bonds during and since World War II.

Nathan Adams of Dallas, state Defense Bond chairman, has received notice from the Treasury that legislation has passed giving owners of Series E bonds the option of holding their bonds for all or any part of another 10 years, with accrued interest. The bill will go into effect on May 1, tenth anniversary of the beginning of Series E bond sales and, consequently, the date on which bonds sold on May 1, 1941, will reach maturity.

will be discussed by the speaker, who is termed one of the outstanding men on the American platform today.

Montague was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police six years, most of which time he spent in the Arctic Patrol. It was while he was serving as a Mounty that he showed a tendency toward adventure which he had inherited from a long line of swashbuckling ancestors, most of whom were seafarers. Studied Engineering

The former Mounty was destined for an engineering career and was educated with that end in view in Montreal, Canada. He brushed aside further formal education when a chance came to him to serve with the lads in the scarlet tunics.

"He is the author of two books, "North to Adventure" and "Riders In Scarlet."
Nesmie W. Ellis, K&F Club secretary-treasurer, said a large attendance at the Tuesday night gathering is evidenced by the large number of advance reservations. He urged all members who plan to attend the meeting to make their reservations promptly.

Medical Attorney Addresses Women's Hospital Auxiliary

Philip R. Overton of Austin, attorney for the Texas State Medical Association, was the guest speaker at the Friday meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Midland Memorial Hospital. The group met in the Nurses' Home.

Overton spoke of the value of both hospital and medical auxiliaries in interpreting their fields to the general public. Through them, misinformation and ignorance of actual conditions can be corrected, he said. Also, he explained that auxiliaries could improve hospital facilities by promoting gifts and endowments. The gifts, he said, are tax free and can serve the community much better than the small amount of tax money which would be returned through federal aids and projects. He read statistics to show how much Texas money went for federal taxes and how small the amount was which was returned.

Another advantage of the auxiliary pointed out by Overton was its usefulness in combating socialized medicine. He said auxiliaries should show the public how the quality of medical services would deteriorate under socialized medicine.

He added that the quality of the medical men might not be so high, either when the educational protection of the American Medical Association is removed.

All Midland women are eligible to join the auxiliary, according to Mrs. R. M. Barron, membership chairman. Dues are used for various hospital projects.

In a business meeting held before the program, Mrs. Bill Glasscock, chairman of the library committee, reported that books and magazines were badly needed for the hospital. These are made available to the patients at no charge. Members of the auxiliary staff the cart which carries the selections to the rooms. Mrs. Glasscock also said that volunteers could be used on the project.

A report on the recently opened gift shop was given by Mrs. Ernest Sidwell. The shop offers baby gifts, toilet articles, puzzles, toys and many other items, available to everyone, whether or not they have friends or relatives in the hospital. The proceeds are used to cover hospital needs.

Mrs. John Galley explained the proposed "point" system for auxiliary members. Under this system each member would be required to earn a minimum number of points for her work and some special type of recognition would be worked out for those earning a great number of points. It is hoped, she said, to put the system into effect at the beginning of the fiscal year.

RECENT BRIDE—Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Otho were married recently in the parlor of the First Christian Church with the Rev. Clyde Lindsley officiating. The bride, pictured above, is the former Virginia Lee Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Long of Midland. Otho is the son of Mrs. Grerude Otho, also of Midland.

C. R. Anthony Company Will Open New Midland Store In W. A. Yeager Building May 18

The C. R. Anthony Company, which operates stores in seven states, announced Saturday the opening of a new store in Midland. The opening is expected to be May 18.

The C. R. Anthony store will be located in the new two-story building being erected by W. A. Yeager of Midland in the 200 block of North Main Street.

Yeager said a long-term lease agreement on the building has been signed and that the interior of the structure will be completed according to specifications of the Anthony company.

The store will occupy the entire building—two floors and a mezzanine.

Electric motor stairs now are being installed and will be in operation when the store opens. The motor stairs will be the first in operation in the Permian Basin Empire.

In a statement concerning the opening of the Midland store, Charles Ross Anthony, president and founder of the company, said: "Our policy is to offer quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices."

In this statement he said the company will continue its policy of using local people in the store, with the exception of the manager and possibly the assistant manager.

"We are not trying to just sell more and more items, we are trying to sell at the lowest possible price," Anthony said. "We had our greatest growth during the depression of the early thirties. This growth during that period is a testimonial to our strength and ability to offer this quality merchandise at popular prices."

Cowboy boot overhauls for Oklahomans, size seven dresses for tiny Latin American women in the Rio Grande Valley, and ponchos to keep the rain off Texas cowboys. These are just a few of the thousands of items that the C. R. Anthony Company sells in its stores which now splatter a map of the Southwest, and far west. The stores, that number 108, are in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, New Mexico and more recently, California.

Each C. R. Anthony store has 12 departments handling complete lines of men's and boys' furnishings, hats, dress clothing, and work clothing, women's and misses' ready-to-wear, fashion accessories; infants' gifts and wearing apparel; and a complete family shoe department.

The story of the Anthony company is more the story of the man, Charles Ross Anthony. It is a Lincoln-esque story which also is the story of a free American. It is the story of a young Tennessee farm boy.

This young farm boy moved with his parents from Tennessee to Missouri, and then from farm to farm. He can remember a life of grubbing, hard work before he even reached his teens. For he was left without parents when he was 12 years old. First his mother died, and two years later, his father.

He then hitched a ride with an uncle back to Tennessee where at 13 he was working in a mill for a while, and then for a farmer grubbing sassafras sprouts.

With a small stake he yielded to the lure of the West and took the "Home Seekers Special" train to Indian territory to what is now Holdenville, Okla. He landed there in 1898 with five cents in his pocket.

That nickel wouldn't go very far and he needed a job, badly. Someone told him to talk to Mrs. E. J. Scales, a widow, who owned the general store. She needed someone to help her with the store and the chores. It was this first job that launched young Ross Anthony into the mercantile field.

Mrs. Scales was influential in Ross Anthony's life. She had been a school teacher and was convinced the boy needed more than the "Four-

Well-Made New Cottons Are An Aid In Battling Budget

By GALE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—To the woman battling her budget in an effort to reduce high living costs, well-tailored cotton dresses retailing at under $15 are a must. She has requirements for such dresses, however. They must be fashion-right, they must do something for her and, of course, they must wear well.

Such dresses, designed by Pampel, appear this Spring in a range of designs, colors and fabrics. Meticulously tailored, they can go to all of the places in which far more costly fashions appear.

Broadcloth, that perennially hardy, handsome fabric, makes a simple, becoming dress in citrus color (left) with fitted bodice. The roll collar and cap sleeves are young and flattering. A white criss-cross cable stitch motif is used to accent the bodice yoke and the stand-out skirt pockets.

Another buy from this same designer is a checked tissue gingham (right) with full skirt and very full, push-up sleeves. The wide collar is notched. This is the fabric that is always cool, always pretty, and that washes and irons like a handkerchief.

Desk Posture Aid To Charm

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The snippy dispositions of many women with desk jobs can often be traced almost directly to their sitting postures. The backaches that result from slumping are nothing to smile about—and these women seldom do.

Instead of furrowing your forehead with frowns, try these simple hints for chasing away general desk-fatigue.

The first step is to settle yourself comfortably and properly in your chair, with your hips touching the back of the seat. This will give your torso a wide base for weight carrying, which is not possible if you hunch upon the edge.

Next arch your back until you can feel the tautening of your stomach muscles and the uplifting of your chest. Not only will your figure profit from this trick, but your health as well. Cramped organs can't function properly.

Finally, slide your legs slightly forward. This will relax your posture somewhat and will enable you to retain it with ease throughout your working day.

New Dial System For Phones To End Waiting

Midland home-owners can now start planning for one little gadget that hundreds of them have sought in vain for many months.

It's a wonderful little instrument invented years ago by Alexander Graham Bell.

With it a woman can chat by the hour—and probably will—with a friend who lives across town.

And Junior will be able to have fun with it all day long, putting it to his ear to hear the pretty little buzzing sound.

It is—you guessed right—the telephone.

The telephone, of course, has been in Midland for some time but because the city outgrew the telephone system, there's a waiting list of some 2,000 persons.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has not overlooked this fact because the only sight prettier to its officials than a city full of telephones, is a picture of long lines of customers waiting to pay their monthly bill.

So months ago the telephone company launched an expansion program that will cost some $2,000,000 and, in a way, revolutionize the telephone system here.

First, there will probably be enough telephones to go around.

There will be, according to Midland Manager Al Case, some 10,000 connections in the new system and, assuming that many of these will be used by two, three and four-party lines, they add up to lots of telephones.

Second, there will be a dial system.

No longer will there be long, irritating delays while the customer waits for the operator to say, "Number please."

The user simply will pick up the telephone, be sure the buzzing signal is there and proceed to dial the desired number.

The new system is nearing completion.

The equipment is being installed in a new two-story building at Missouri and Marlenfield Streets and new customers are already being wired for service.

The big day will arrive in June. Telephone company officials aren't sure about the exact date but the program is proceeding according to schedule and the schedule calls for the new dial system to begin operating in mid-June.

If you have a kitchen cleverer you may find it useful to use in halving acorn squash. Place the squash halves, cut-side down, in a baking dish and bake in a moderately hot oven until soft. Serve as is, sprinkling each half with salt and pepper and melted butter or margarine.

which to choose. In rare cases in which a perfect blending of shades is impossible, the firm will do a special dye job, matching a hair sample.

There are four styles available—a figure eight chignon, a looped and coiled braid, a plain braid and a two bun unit. These offer enough variety for a whole wardrobe of hair pieces, changeable as mood and occasion demand.

Since they are priced comparatively low, you may find you can fit several into your beauty budget.

Perhaps you've shied away from hair pieces because of a lack of faith in your ability to arrange and dress them. These tresses solve

C. O. Cranes Residing In Durango, Colorado

Claude O. Crane, former Midland resident, now is in the real estate and insurance business at Durango, Colo., according to information received here.

Crane, who was in the same type of business here, left Midland several years ago for Ruidoso, N. M., where he and Mrs. Crane resided for a few years before moving to Colorado.

He was active in affairs of civic, fraternal, church and youth organizations while a Midland resident and is a past president of the Midland Lions Club.

If your bare recreation room or den walls are making you long to break the budget for framed pictures, try this inexpensive means of adding color to those expanses. Collect attractive road maps and glue them to the walls; then coat them with two thin applications of shellac to give them a lasting finish.

This difficulty also. There's nothing to do to these pre-styled pieces except pin them on.

First twist your own hair into a few large pin curls to secure the ends and to provide anchors for the tresses. Then fasten the switch on with large hair pins.

Since the braids, chignons and buns are protected by an invisible net, combing is usually unnecessary. In the event the silk becomes disarranged, you can work it smooth again with your fingers, according to the makers.

Other advantages, they claim, are extra lightness, which allows elaborate coiffures without uncomfortable weight on your head and extra sleekness, since there are no variegated hair ends to protrude.

Old Guns Are Found At Natural Rock Fort In Central Texas Area

BURNET —(P)— A number of old guns have been found scattered among the boulders of a natural rock fort near this Central Texas city.

Apparently they mark the site of an Indian raid on a camp of white settlers.

Donald Murchison was running his trap lines on the ranch of his father, Oscar Murchison, when he found the guns on the side of a rocky hill.

With the guns were iron cooking utensils and other items. Donald went for help. He returned and gathered nine flintlock rifles of varied size and length, minus stocks long exposed to the weather.

A Spanish axe similar to present day pictures of Spanish tools was found, also scythes blades, an old wood auger, a pair of steel stirrups but no saddle, a Spanish spur, a bullet-mold, Indian grinding stones used in grinding grain, a cannon ball and various iron pots and a large brass key.

For More Than 85 Years
The Murchison family has lived on the ranch for more than 85 years. The presumption is that the equipment was left on the hillside by victims of Indians, or robbers.

The area is rich in Texas history. The Mormons established a settlement near here in the 1850's but later abandoned a water-mill and manufacturing venture. In the early 1870's, a federal fort was established to help drive off Indians and open the country up for settlement. The granite for the capitol building at Austin and for the Galveston seawall came from an area west of here. Longhorn Cavern near here was a hangout for both whites and Indians in the last half of the century.

Elks To Elect New Officers, Initiate Candidates At Meet

Officers for 1961-62 will be elected and 72 candidates for membership will be initiated at a meeting of the Midland Lodge No. 1826, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at 8 p.m. Monday in the club's temporary quarters in the old First Christian Church Building at the corner of Illinois and Lorraine Streets.

Percy L. Trout, secretary, said the candidates are requested to be present at 7:30 p.m.

A special degree team will be in Midland to initiate the large class of candidates.

Information also will be given concerning the acquiring of a permanent lodge building here.

Lodge officials urge a record attendance of members at the Monday night gathering.

Easter Is Nostalgic Time To GI Joes In Korean Foxholes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(P)— Easter is a forlorn time to a man in a foxhole. It is one of the saddest of seasons to the average soldier, particularly if he has had religious training.

Nobody likes to fight on a holiday. Who wants to be killed or wounded on Thanksgiving or Christmas? It doesn't make sense.

But Easter time hits many a soldier with a double nostalgia. He thinks long, long thoughts about his task. He looks at his rifle with distaste. He not only doesn't want to have to fire it—he wishes he didn't even have to touch it.

"How did I ever get into this strange trade?" he asks himself, and he ponders the oddity of battles being fought on a day dedicated to the resurrection of the Prince of Peace.

Many an American soldier must be thinking those long, long thoughts right now in far-off Korea. Easter comes to the troops in different ways.

On the actual frontline all the men can do is stick where they are . . . hope the enemy won't attack . . . and dream of home . . . and be a little sick in their hearts.

Methodists To Hold Arkansas Session

Methodist ministers and laymen from throughout the state will be among the 500 delegates and visitors to the denomination's South Central Jurisdictional Convocation April 3-5 in Little Rock, Ark.

Attending from rural and big city churches alike, delegates will represent almost 2,000,000 Methodists in eight states — Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico.

Held every four years, the convocation program will feature sessions of seven jurisdictional church boards and agencies, and addresses by six bishops and seven eminent lay and clerical leaders. Delegates also will divide into ten discussion groups to map plans related to the convocation theme, "Our Ministry."

They look from their foxholes and see a land where men are at strife and nature is at peace. The brown on the hills is turning to green. Buds are bursting on the apple trees. Two sparrows are debating their nest.

"Why don't they call in an architect?" says one soldier lazily.

"If I was home now, Sally and I would be going to church," says another. "We always go at Easter." And in his ears he hears the call of distant bells in a quiet town.

"What if Jesus Christ came up that road instead of a Chinaman?" a third soldier says. They think that over a minute, and a corporal remarks:

"Nobody'd even know him."

"I would," says a young private softly. And his hand leaves his rifle and reaches over and touches a small Bible in his breast pocket.

Strange Easter Parade
In cities there are the strangest Easter parades on earth. Uniformed American soldiers and white-clad Korean civilians mingle, as they enter the same churches and worship together. The soldiers have cleaned up as well as they can, and the civilians are wearing the tattered best.

"I didn't know any of the people were Christians," says a new replacement with a note of wonder.

"Sure, more than a million of them are," replies a veteran. "Why there are 37 Presbyterian churches in Teagu alone."

"That sure would make my grand mother mad," says another soldier shaking his head, and adds in explanation:

Personality, Showmanship Behind Graham's Success

FORT WORTH —(P)—Young Billy Graham, the loudest voice now crying in the wilderness, sees two reasons why his evangelistic cry is heard: "The hunger of the people" and God.

"The people are hungry for the Bible, hungry for prayer, hungry for the spirit, hungry for salvation," he says.

You can hear just about anything Graham has to say on those subjects from many other evangelists. Billy admits that. He brings up his second reason: "God has chosen to work through me. He's using me as his instrument."

"That sounds pretty mystical, doesn't it? A pragmatist might laugh. But it's the only explanation I can give."

Dr. Wallace Bassett of Dallas, former president of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, says: "It's because he has such personality; he's so transparently sincere."

Billy's charm is undeniable. At 32, he looks like a dapper college senior. He's tall—six feet two—and wiry. He has light brown, wavy hair, deep blue eyes, and an almost classic profile. He crackles on the platform like an electric wire.

Personality and one more factor—showmanship—are the things that strike the lay observer who goes looking for reasons behind Billy's rise.

Graham's six-man, super-charged "team" puts on a masterful hymn production to soften up the crowd. Then Billy takes over and knocks 'em dead.

Backs At Rail
The blade of his hand backs at the platform rail. "We need a church that is on fire with the spirit of God!" His explosive baritone jars "amen's" from the tight-packed crowd.

At a breakfast interview, he is easy-going, quick to smile, but intent on making his point that he is "God's right hand man" because that's the way God wanted it.

This combination of personality, showmanship and fervor has brought Billy to the top among evangelists in the last two years. His staff says he preached to 1,889,000 people in his main meetings in 1950 and converted 43,700 of them. Millions more heard his national radio program.

His latest crusade, in Fort Worth, drew an average of about 11,000 persons a night to Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum. For his final meeting here Sunday in bleacher-bolstered TCU-Amon Carter Stadium.

On Easter we are brought together into the friendly, neighborly home we call our Church. # Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The cattle market was strong at the Midland Livestock Auction Company's weekly sale Thursday. Bidding was active on all classes of the 650 head consigned and sold.

Aged fed steers drew $31 to $35. P. R. Stewart of Seagraves sold 23 steers that averaged 770 pounds in singles at just over $33 cwt. Fat calves and yearlings went at $30 to $34.50, mediums $28 to $30. Fat cows moved at $25 to $28, mediums $23 to $25, canners and cutters $18 to $23. Bulls auctioned for $27 to $29.50. Ten registered bull yearlings consigned by E. O. Montgomery of Wilson, Texas, brought an average of $268 a head.

Stocker steer calves cleared at $28 to $41.50 and heifer calves about the same. One choice quality 290-pound heifer was bid up to $55.50 cwt. Yearling stocker steers cashed for $35 to $37.50 and stocker cows scored $21 to $27. Hogs went to $21.

A lamb enriched the Midland County Polio Fund at the auction sale. Sherwood Foster donated it to the fund. Sam Preston bought the lamb and gave it back, as did Marion Plynt. A. B. Coksey of Peccod did the same thing and by the time the sheep found a home, the Polio Fund had added $102.50.

The March of Dimes added another $22.86 from the sale of a hog donated by Foster, and the Boy Scouts got $45.98 from the sale of a hog donated by J. R. (Bum) Gibbins.

A booklet, "The Rancher's Side," published more than a year ago by a group of West Texas ranchers, and since widely distributed by oil companies, is reproduced in the March issue of WORLD OIL magazine. J. N. McKean, Midland advertising and public relations agency owner, produced the illustrated booklet for the cattlemen's group.

The booklet, according to J. E. (Bob) Hill, Midland, and Earl Vest, Monahan, who head the Permian Basin Ranchers' Association, was an effort to minimize surface, property and livestock damage and loss caused by oil development, pipeline lines, and to improve relations and create a better understanding between ranchers and oil men.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company also reprinted and distributed the booklet. More than 10,000 copies have been circulated both in the United States and in South America.

Midland sponsors of the booklet in addition to Hill were Foy Proctor, Tommy Lineberry, M. F. King and Roy Parks.

Think it takes a lot of work to grow that acre of corn? It surely does. But you and your mule are loafers compared to Mother Nature. So states an Associated Press news release from College Station.

Here's what Nature must take from the soil and air to produce 100 bushels of corn per acre:

- 4,300,000 to 5,500,000 pounds of water.
  - 6,800 pounds of oxygen.
  - 5,200 pounds of carbon or 19,000 pounds of carbon dioxide—equal to the carbon in four tons of coal.
  - 190 pounds of nitrogen—equal to 800 pounds of 20 per cent nitrogen fertilizer.
  - 40 pounds of phosphorus—equal to 450 pounds of 20 per cent superphosphate.
  - 125 pounds of potassium.
  - 75 pounds of yellow sulphur.
  - 50 pounds of magnesium—which equals 500 pounds of epsom salts.
  - 50 pounds of calcium—the amount found in 150 pounds of limestone.
  - Two pounds of iron.
  - Small amounts of manganese, boron, chlorine, iodine, zinc, and copper.
- The Texas A&M college extension service determined the amounts required. The elements will produce 16,200 pounds of corn, stalks and roots.

From Amarillo, The Associated Press reports as follows:

Exhaustive tests at the Amarillo conservation experiment station have resulted in recommendations for dryland production on the hard lands of the Texas Panhandle.

Varieties recommended include "Early Hegari, Double Dwarf, Sooner Mile, Martin, Midland, Combine 7078, Redbine 60 and Combine Kafir 60.

The tests were conducted since 1939 by Kenneth B. Porter and Charles J. Whitfield of the Amarillo experiment station. They used Pullman clay loam, a heavy soil predominant in the Texas High Plains.

Flainaman, Caprock, Westland and Redbine 66 were found to mature too late for best results under usual dryland farming conditions, but they may produce higher yields under irrigation or in favorable years on dryland.

Early Hegari and Martin were found to be the most consistent producers.

Texas Blackbull Kafir and Sumac 108 produce good yields of both grain and forage, but less forage than later maturing varieties.

Early entries indicate last year's entry list of more than 700 FFA and 4-H Club judging team members may be exceeded for Abilene Christian College's fourth annual Agriculture Field Day, Monday, April 2, according to Francis M. Churchill, head of the college's agriculture department.

E. W. Allred, regional range conservationist, SCS, and Jim Gray, extension sheep and goat specialist, San Angelo, will address the visiting county agents and vocational agriculture teachers at 9 a.m.

Individual and team prizes will be awarded in judging of livestock, dairy cattle and poultry; and in grass identification.

The West Texas Hereford Tour will be held in the Abilene area May 16-17, according to information released by Roscoe Blankenship, president of the West Texas Hereford Association. Roy Arledge is tour chairman.

Ranches on the schedule are: May 16—ACO agricultural farm; W. J. Fulwiler Ranch; Roy Largent Ranch near Merkel; Bill Brown Ranch near Merkel; Mrs. Fay Young Morton Ranch at Hamlin; Jay Pumphrey Ranch near Old Glory; the Brown and Davis Ranches at Throckmorton; and the Swenson Ranch at Stamford.

Texas Milking Shorthorn Breeders are holding their annual field days during this week and invite farmers and stockmen to attend one or more of the meetings. Cal Brackley, fieldman for American Milking Shorthorn Society, will attend, discussing the merits of the breed.

Each day there will be judging by FFA and 4-H Club boys and trophies and appropriate prizes will be awarded the winning teams.

Dates and places of meetings are as follows:
Monday, Jim Strain Farm, 3 1/2 miles East of Canyon.
Tuesday, Frank Well Farm, three miles East, and two miles North of Hale Center.
Wednesday, R. E. Gracey Farm, one-half mile southwest of Roscoe.
Thursday, Jack Armstrong Farm, seven miles northwest of Sanger.
Friday, Clyde L. Haggard Farm, 20 miles north of Dallas on Highway 289.

Many successful cattlemen are getting 60 to 80 extra pounds of body weight on their calves at weaning time by creep feeding. In addition, they usually sell for a higher price than calves not creep fed because they carry more finish, according to the Ralston Purina Company.

When calves are creep fed, the brood cows maintain their weight better, allowing them to go into the winter in better condition after rearing their calves. Calves are more uniform because those from low milk producing cows eat more creep ration than those from the good milkers, thus helping to even up the gains.

Creeps don't have to be expensive—they can be built with rough lumber or even poles. It is important that the creep be located near shade and water and where the cow herd frequents. It saves labor to use a self-feeder inside the creep.

Balanced Supplement
If a farmer has grain available, he should feed four parts grains to one part of a balanced supplement. Those with little or no grain should feed a complete, grain-type ration. The calves usually will start to eat by the time they are two weeks old but sometimes a little extra care may be necessary to get calves started to eating.

Always keep the feeder and the feed clean and remove any dirty or moldy feed. It is a little easier to get young calves started to eating if the feed is ground coarsely, but there seems to be no advantage to cracking or grinding grain for older calves.

Seaweed is processed for the production of such things as agar-agar, iodine, cattle feed and manure.

Cottonseed Meal Bolsters South's Livestock Industry

HOUSTON—(P)—Long ago Texas and other Southern farmers wouldn't feed cottonseed meal to livestock.

They had heard it would cause "cottonseed meal poisoning" if fed to beef cattle. Dairy animals fed cottonseed meal, they said, had udder trouble and gave less milk.

So they sold the meal, and other cotton by-products, to foreign markets at low prices.

Today, cottonseed meal is a highly-valued livestock food, with addition of certain necessary vitamins. This not only means more money from the cotton crop; it has built up the South's livestock industry and has helped shift Texas from a one-cotton crop economy.

When the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association meets here in June, it will honor the man to whom it gives much credit for the change.

He is A. L. Ward of Dallas, educational director of the National Products Association, Inc.

Ward's portrait will be painted by Mrs. Dana Dunagan of Dallas. W. L. Stangel, dean of agriculture at Texas Tech, Lubbock, heads a committee raising funds for the portrait, which will be hung at Texas A&M College.

Born in Harris County, the 65-year-old Ward was born in Harris County, where he worked with livestock on his Uncle Robert's farm. He went to night school to get his high school diploma and entered Texas A&M in 1906.

At A&M he specialized in livestock judging and was graduated with a BS in animal husbandry. Then he raised dairy cattle and Duroc hogs near Paris.

After Army service in France in World War I, Ward became swine husbandman for A&M's extension service. It was then that his talents for educating became apparent.

Ward's purebred boar campaigns and son-litter contests put many good hogs on Texas farms. Texas produced some world champion litters.

He then became manager of the student livestock judging contests at the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show at Fort Worth, and livestock superintendent of the State Fair of Texas. He became president of the Texas Agricultural Workers Association and president of the North Texas Chapter of Friends of the Land.

Ward then moved into the cotton field. He became a member of the advisory committee of the National Cotton Council and president of the Statewide Cotton Committee of Texas.

But his greatest contribution to Texas agriculture was the part he played in getting cottonseed products used on the farm.

Texas farmers did not raise cattle. They raised cotton, and their land—lacking fertilizer—deteriorated. Now cottonseed is a valued fertilizer.

At that time—the 1920's—there was almost no research into possible home uses of cotton by-products. The Tennessee Experiment Station estimated that the South was losing $44,000,000 worth of fertility yearly from failure to use the feed products of cottonseed. From 1900 to 1924, the South shipped abroad more than 11,305,000 tons of cottonseed cake and meal.

More American families now own their own homes than ever before in history—53 per cent of all occupied dwellings.

Tax Cuts Down On Britishers' Smokes

LONDON—(P)—Taxes on cigarettes are cutting Britain's smoking. With a pack of 20 costing three shillings and sixpence (48 U. S. cents)—about two shillings and ninepence of that tax—demand is falling off, manufacturers report. But the demand is still greater than the supply.

Efforts to produce a cheaper cigarette but with the same tobacco by using filter tips are described as "pretty discouraging."

Dollar restrictions are forcing some firms to increase their proportion of non-dollar tobacco. A few years ago the proportion was 30 per cent non-dollar tobacco to 70 per cent dollar, but now the ratio is nearer 40-60.

Annual loss of soil fertility through erosion and leaching is estimated to be about seven times the amount used by planted crops.

Building Materials Available Here; But Hardware, Steel Short

Building materials for Midland homes still are available but you have to "be on your toes to get them all," a builder said.

Hardware and steel items especially are hard to get at this time, a lumber yard representative said. Also, brick is difficult to obtain. The building of homes here goes on practically uninterrupted for want of materials.

A recently reported hard-to-get product is cement.

However, this item is not yet declared short here.

Midland lumber yards have managed to keep stocks of building materials on hand for a sustained period.

The body of Jesus was placed in a sarcophagus owned by Joseph of Arimathea who had permission from Pilate to bury Him there. Soldiers were placed on guard at the tomb, lest His body be stolen, and a great stone sealed the entrance.

But when Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" came to anoint His body with spices, they found the stone rolled back, and "a young man clothed with a white robe," who told them, "He is risen."

And as they went to tell His disciples, wrote Matthew, Jesus met them, saying, "All hail!" And He bade them tell His disciples to meet Him in Galilee, where He came and bade them to go forth and teach all nations. "And, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Buying New Draperies Is One Way To Work Off Case Of Spring Fever

The remodeling, redecorating urge is almost as certain to be a sign of Spring fever as the more accepted romantic symptoms.

And what woman can look at the somber colors of her Winter draperies without promising herself she'll buy some gay ones for Spring or, at least, without vowing to put fresh zip into the old ones.

Unlike fabrics and colors in dress design, period rather than season is the determining factor in choosing draperies. Some startling departures have been made from this precept, and with very favorable results, but amateur decorators usually feel safer in planning their draperies to suit the period in which the room is decorated.

For instance, with the modern furnishings which are especially popular in this section of the country, bright, clear colors are always good. Oranges, blacks and whites are favorites. Plain draperies in solid colors hold but a slight edge here over geometric prints and abstract designs prompted by modern art.

Copies of old document prints in muted tones blend in nicely with Early American furnishings. Soft tones of old gold or mustard are colors particularly well adapted to this period.

For a room in the 18th Century tradition, draperies might be in pattern designs and fabrics such as raw silks, linen and antique satin are frequently used.

The English Renaissance period, also known as the "Age of Oak," might be pointed up with heavy draperies fringed in gold, silver or strong colors, while draperies to match a Georgian room would be fashioned along classic lines with formal, draped swag valances. In a room in the American Federal tradition, draperies might vary from ruffled chintz tie-backs for simpler homes to elaborately trimmed draperies in imported silks for more formal homes.

The list could go on and on. Each period and style of furniture would suggest a combination of draperies to match. What is most important, though, is selecting draperies to suit the needs of each particular house and each particular buyer. West Texans are accustomed to a free and easy, informal style of living and their draperies should reflect their tastes. A fabric recommended for this section of the country is cotton, a material which has the advantage of being both durable and attractive.

Draperies designers aren't predicting any drastic changes in colors or patterns this Spring. In fact, individual tastes and available styles will be so varied that it would be difficult even to establish any basic trends.

Midlanders who are in the market for new draperies, however, would do well to consider light colors. The reason has nothing to do with the fashion hit parade. It's simply that light colors are useful in covering up the sand West Texas falls heir to in the Spring. We think it's reason enough.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Marshal Petain refuses freedom; Communism is more lackadaisical in France than Italy; French workers are unaware of Marshall Plan benefits.

PARIS — The French Government and its not-such-a-great setback in France. In Italy a score or more of the top Communist leaders have resigned from the party while 200,000 workers have failed to renew their party membership.

But in France, communism, at least numerically, is not on a decisive retreat. In fact, the coming election probably will see the Communist Party retain its present position with approximately one-third of the voters and the largest single block of deputies in Parliament.

There are several reasons for this. One is that French communism is more lackadaisical than in Italy. French Communists don't store up secret arms to fight against their country and many probably would defend their country if Russia should invade. Second, many French workers have signed as Communists under pressure from shop stewards and are not Communists at heart, while many farmers vote communist, not because they believe in it, but because they are just perpetually agin the government.

Another important reason for the difference in the French and Italian battle against communism is in the administration of the Marshall Plan in France and Italy.

It's difficult to realize that there could be such a difference in the American administration of the same program in two different countries, but there is.

U. S. Propaganda In Italy for instance ECA Administrator Leon Dayton has made public speeches encouraging the Italian government to cooperate in using ECA funds for housing, land reform, and to help the workman generally. In France, however, ECA money was poured in at the top to help factories get back in production, and while ECA thus has helped employment, the workman at the bottom doesn't see where he has got any benefit. So he votes communist.

Milton Katz, ECA Administrator in France, probably appreciates this failure. But he's newly appointed, and so far hasn't done anything about it.

In Italy, meanwhile, Frank Gervasi, in charge of ECA public information, has done a superb, imaginative job of getting the Italian worker to understand housing, land reform, and other benefits which come from the United States. Ger-vast is publishing magazines, now sold on the newsstands not with an American label on them, but as regular Italian periodicals. They have a large circulation and pack a powerful wallop in undermining communism and making friends for the U. S. A.

There's a big difference between the setback to communism in Italy

In contrast, Robert R. Mullen, now head of Marshall Plan information for the entire ECA, proposed a unique French publicity stunt to Helen Kirkpatrick, former ECA information chief in France. Learning that French workers usually go to work on bicycles, then hang their bicycles from the ceiling, Mullen proposed:

"We will get two million yo-yo tops with the map of France and 'Viva La France' painted on one side, and on the other side a message telling how France was rebuilt through the Marshall Plan. Then we'll hang a top from every bicycle and when the French worker goes home he'll take a yo-yo top to his children. Thus, two million French families will be talking about the Marshall Plan."

Miss Kirkpatrick diplomatically scotched her boss' idea. She knew such an array of yo-yo tops among cynical French workers would make the United States the laughing stock of all France.

Note—On the other hand, John Paul David, a French artist, has done a terrific job of puncturing Communist propaganda with a poster campaign. Encouraged by ex-Premier Rene Plevin, David has devised such poster-slogans as "The Dove That Went Boom," and "Don't Draft Us For 18 Months. We Want To Serve Three Years As In Russia." The latter especially was effective in combating the Communist drive against 18 months military service in France.

With THE MARINES IN KOREA—Sgt. Frank T. Versage is credited with inventing a grease that kept Marine rifles firing in the Korean Winter. It was found that ordinary grease sealed rifles as effectively as a welding job when cold froze the grease.

Rifles cleaned with gasoline and fired dry worked for a while but soon jammed. Versage experimented for a week and came up with a mixture of graphite, diesel oil, 80 octane gasoline and No. 10 motor oil. Rifles greased with it worked despite cold.

Soap Used By Most Cover Girls Now Available At Saving

The same bath and complexion soap used by nine out of 10 cover girls now is available in the Midland area at a tremendous saving.

Midland retailers are offering SweetHeart soap in a terrific one-cent sale. Customers buy three cakes of the soap and a fourth is added for just one additional penny. This is a saving of 25 per cent and it applies to both the regular and bath-size SweetHeart soap.

"Frankly," said a spokesman for SweetHeart soap, "we make this amazing offer to induce women to try SweetHeart. Every woman wants a lovely complexion."

"And it's obvious that, if cover girls who make beauty their business, try SweetHeart and then stay with it, other women will do the same."

Many homemakers will double their savings by also taking advantage of the Blu-White Flakes one-cent sale now in progress. Blu-White Flakes are the bluing flakes that work two ways at once, both blue and wash, to get laundry dazzling white.

Thane Is Speaker At Assembly

During a special assembly, Tuesday afternoon in the high school auditorium, students and faculty of Midland High School were addressed by Dr. Kenneth Walker, known professionally as Thane.

Dr. Velma Scott introduced Thane and described his abilities in various fields. Thane was described as a mentalist. He was also described as a philosopher, scientist, former high-school teacher, college professor, and a naval officer during World War II. He was among those chosen to witness the first atomic bomb explosion in Alamogordo, N. M., early in 1945.

Thane spent many hours in Washington, D. C., being briefed by well-known political figures, among them Secretary of State Dean Acheson and President Harry Truman. The purpose of this briefing was to prepare the men for carrying a message to the people of this country. It was this message which Thane conveyed in his speech to the students.

He described the dangerous situation in which our nation finds itself today. He told of the vulnerability of this country at the beginning of World War II, and also at the outbreak of the Korean conflict. He warned the 18-year-old boys to expect to be drafted by October unless they were still in high school, but told them not to "jump the gun" by quitting school now to join the service, as they would regret it later.

The program was closed with an exhibition of mentalism. Thane's young assistant, who has been studying extra-sensory perception for the past few years, was blindfolded while five boys were chosen from the audience. These boys each took one card from a pack of regular playing cards, and held them over their heads so that the audience could see them. The young man was able to identify three cards out of five.

Midland High Golf Team Is Tops In Fort Worth Meet

Mackey, Ward, Puett and Leggett Sweep Southwestern Golf Tournament Title

The Midland High School golf team captured the championship at the Southwestern Recreation Track, Field, and Golf Meet held at Fort Worth on March 16 and 17.

Coach Audrey Gill and golfers Graham Mackey, John Ward, Roane Puett, and Raymond Leggett represented Midland High School at the meet, in which 28 teams from Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana participated.

The matches were held at the Meadowbrook Golf Course.

The MHS team left Thursday morning and upon arriving at Fort Worth, played an 18-hole practice round. The Midland boys totaled a score of 319 to take the crown, with Capitol Hill High School of Oklahoma City as runner-up with a tally of 321.

The schools that placed and their scores were: Sunset High of Dallas, 323, and Highland Park of Dallas, 329. Medalist was a boy from Capitol Hill with a 73.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the paid assembly on Tuesday, March 20. The King Ambassador Quartet presented the program and provided some fine entertainment. During one of the songs, one man in the quartet pointed his finger at Sadie Nugent and nearly scared her to death.

Who's Who At MHS Horace? Why He's Corky, Of Course

Does anyone know a boy named Horace Volt? Well, maybe if we asked, "Does anyone know a boy named Corky?" someone might say that he did. Yes, that is Corky Moss's real name—Horace Volt Moss.

Corky is head cheerleader for next year, having received the most votes last year when he won the title of a cheerleader.

Corky is a junior in high school this year, being all of 17 years old and reaching the height of six feet, three inches. He has green eyes and black hair.

He is editor of the column, "Bulldog Barks," president of the Future Teachers of America, and a member of the MHS letterman's club, lettering on the basketball team.

His favorite pastime is "loafing"; however he does like to play ping pong or pool.

His favorite record is "To Think You've Chosen Me"; his favorite foods are pork chops and fried potatoes.

Corky's schedule consists of history, radio speech, English, basketball, and journalism. He took geometry at the first of the year, but he decided that was "too easy," so now he has taken up a study hall.

Library News

Do you need some extra information for an oral report—or for a written report right quick?

Why not try the magazines in the library?

For instance, the Home Ec girls might find many interesting articles in such magazines as Better Homes, House Beautiful, Household or American Builders.

Farm and Ranch and similar magazines will help the Ag boys.

Then, too, for the history students there are books like Current History, Newsweek, Time, and the U. S. News and World Report.

Chemistry, physics, and biology reports could be gotten from timely articles in the Scientific American or in True, the Man's Magazine.

The Players Magazine, which is about the modern theater, should prove to be of interest to "drama" knowledge-seekers.

Now, after all the work is done, why not relax by paging through the Ladies Home Journal, Sports Afield, the American, or Seventeen? All of these magazines and more are available in the MHS library.

High School Students Get On-Job Training In Program Helped By Midland Businesses

Ruth Donnell, coordinator of Distributive Education in Midland High School, is working with 25 students this year. These students are working three to four hours daily for Midland business concerns while earning a high school diploma.

The program was begun in Texas in 1937 in San Antonio as an effort of the State Department of Education to give more adequate opportunities to high school students not planning further education after they graduate from high school. Its program is to enrich the education of young people who desire to prepare for careers in the field of retail, wholesale and service vocations.

It is the job of the coordinator to determine the interests and aptitudes of the student, to find him a job in the field in which he is interested, and to help him in every way possible to be a success at the job. In addition to providing general background information on selling, personality in business, store arithmetic and other matters, the coordinator must give individual instruction to each student on his particular type of work.

Although the coordinator finds a job for the student, it is the student who must make application and receive employment on his own merits. The coordinator and employer evaluate the on-job activities. The students are graded on projects at school, such as designing displays or writing advertising copy.

The Midland program was started five years ago and has been under the sponsorship of Miss Donnell the entire time. It is a two-year course and may be taken the junior and senior years in high school, each year's work counting as two school credits. Miss Donnell has had special training in the field of distributive education as well as two years' experience required in business.

A businessman said of the distributive education program: "I think it is wonderful that students are being trained for a place in the business world. The experience they get through the program will be very valuable after they finish school, and I am glad of the opportunity to be a training sponsor and help in any way I can in furthering this work."

It is the job of the coordinator to determine the interests and aptitudes of the student, to find him a job in the field in which he is interested, and to help him in every way possible to be a success at the job.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

36 Texans Are Flag Officers In Services

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Thirty-six Texans are flag officers in the armed forces—29 are generals and seven are admirals.

They're scattered over the globe, some in Korea. Thirteen of the generals and five of the admirals are on duty in the Washington area.

They get the designation "flag officer" because wherever they go, flags bearing stars identifying their specific level of rank fly on the car, jeep, plane or ship in which they happen to be traveling. A metal plate serves as a flag where the wind resistance is too great.

The naval officers on duty outside Washington are Rear Adm. Albert M. Bledsoe, Cleburne, commandant of the 15th Naval District, Bilboa, Panama Canal Zone, and Rear Adm. Heber H. McLean, Liano, commandant, fleet activities, Japan-Korea.

Maj. Gen. J. T. Walker, 1917 Texas A&M graduate, is director of Marine Corps personnel here. He is a native of Aale.

The other Texans with admiral rank, on duty here, are Rear Adm. Al Lorenzo Sherwood Sabin, Jr., Dallas, Rear Adm. Ralph Smith Riggs, Paris; Rear Adm. William K. Mendenhall, Jr., Waco; Rear Adm. Tom Burbridge Hill, Fort Worth, and Admiral of the Fleet Chester W. Nimitz.

Army and Air Force generals from the Lone Star State, on duty in areas away from Washington, are: Maj. Gen. Roderick R. Allen, Marshall, Korea; Brig. Gen. Charles C. Blanchard, Ballinger, deputy commander of U. S. troops in Trieste; Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clark, San Antonio, deputy commanding general of Army forces in the Pacific.

Brig. Gen. John H. Collier, Uvalde, deputy commanding general, U. S. Constabulary, European command; Maj. Gen. John B. Coulter, San Antonio, Korea.

Official Proposes Extended Curricula

AUSTIN—Universities should extend their undergraduate petroleum engineering curricula to five years so students will have a better background, Dr. H. H. Power, University of Texas Petroleum Engineering Department chairman, says.

He made the statement in an article in the current issue of the Journal of Engineering Education. He reports conclusions made after a national survey of 22 engineering schools.

Today's petroleum engineering student should take broad fundamental studies in geology, mathematics, chemistry, physics, and allied fields; learn design, economics, and good English; and have a flexible degree program, allowing proper choice of elective courses, Dr. Power says.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Once Upon A Time

Daddy Ringtail, and Mugwump Monkey, and the Huffen Puffen were sitting together on a log that was close by the Whispering River. "Daddy Ringtail," said Mugwump, "who was I before I was who I am right now?"

"Huh?" asked the Huffen, and so Daddy Ringtail explained that Mugwump was wanting to know who he was before he was ever Mugwump.

The Huffen chuckled. Said he: "What makes you think you were ever anyone else before you were Mugwump Monkey?"

Oh, but Mugwump knew the why of his thinking it. Why, he was sure he hadn't had many b'r'days. Yes, and so he had to be somebody else before he was Mugwump. Daddy Ringtail laughed to hear these words, but he asked Mugwump what he would have liked to have been—before he was ever Mugwump. Mugwump answered that he would have liked to have been a magician.

And the Huffen said: "I would have liked to be a giant, I would. I would have liked to be a great big giant so big, so big—so big that people could sleep inside my glove like it was a house." What a great big giant the Huffen was wishing he had been!

By Wesley Davis

"Uhh," said Mugwump, "and I would have liked to be a magician with a magic hammer—a magic hammer of the kind that would make some lightning and thunder if I threw it against the sky."

"Well now, you fellows," said Daddy Ringtail with a happy voice of make-believe, "how would you like to turn back the clock to a 'once upon a time' when maybe you both were the things you would have liked to have been before you were you."

"Huh?" asked the Huffen, and so Daddy Ringtail told him again. "Huffen," said Daddy Ringtail, "would you like to turn back the clock, play-like, to a 'once upon a time' when maybe you were a giant, and Mugwump was a magician?"

Oh, and the Huffen said he would like it, because I will tell you about it Monday. Happy day! (Copyright 1951, General Features Corp.)

Company Compiles Tomato Statistics

NEW YORK (AP)—All the canned tomatoes produced in the United States are grown on land which, if brought together, would be about half the size of Rhode Island. That is 570 square miles, according to statistics compiled by the American Can Company.

But the same figures show that 50 years ago all of America's canned tomatoes could have been grown on 85 square miles. The statisticians say the rising popularity of tomato juice made much of the difference. Canned juice and whole tomatoes provide 45 per cent of modern production.

By MR. FIX
Distributed By NEA Service

Seed catalogues, Easter hats and the end-of-Winter stir up the Spring home-hunting urge among house-holders who aren't living where they'd like to be.

If you're one of them (and there seem to be millions) put away your tools. This Mr. Fix exercise requires only the ability to ask questions, use your eyes, and make realistic decisions. Stick a flashlight, an ice pick and a notebook and pencil in your pocket and off we go.

We'll skip lightly over the preliminary skirmishes and assume at this point you've found a house—in this instance, not a new one—that interests you enough to pry into it further.

Start down under. Look for signs of leaks or dampness. Peer into crawl-spaces with your flashlight and see if there's any evidence of rot. Poke the ice pick into the main timbers to make sure they are sound.

Inspect Wiring
In more elderly houses, look carefully at the wiring; a lot of homes still are standing in defiance of today's electrical safety standards, with old-fashioned wiring not enclosed in protective cable.

Jump up and down on the floor in the middle of each room. The agent (or prospective seller) may look a little bemused. But who wants to live in a house that isn't solid? It isn't if the floors give easily when you jump and the house shakes all over. Then borrow a broomstick, or something similar, and tap the ceiling to make sure that's solid, too.

Use Flashlight
Try the plumbing. If the water doesn't run with normal gusto, the pipes may be too small or clogged up with mineral deposits. If the water runs red or rusty, they're corroded, and you'll need new piping. Stains on ceiling or walls also may be evidence of plumbing trouble.

Try out your flashlight and ice pick again in the attic. With the lights out, look hard at the roof for daylight which would indicate a leaky roof.

While you're doing all this, your wife ought to be figuring out whether the rooms are big enough for your furniture; whether the kitchen is what she wants; whether the closets are sufficiently large and plentiful.

Without signing anything, go back home and compare notes. If it's still what you really want, and you're willing to take on the job of fixing all the things you found wrong, you're ready for the outside check-up. That's not just windows, screens, paint, and physical items.

Check Neighborhood
Check the neighbors and the neighborhood. See what you get in the way of trash collection and so on with your taxes. See what other people think of the reputation of the man who built the house in the first place. If you have doubts, get a builder or architect you know to make a further inspection. Then find out what the bank's experts think; how they feel about giving you a mortgage ought to take care of the final decision.

Skimping On Quality Called False Economy In Building

It is false economy to skimp on the quality of building materials and equipment in order to cut construction costs of a home. If a modest budget makes economies necessary, they can be achieved more wisely by simplicity of design and good planning.

That's the advice of architects, who point out that the quality of materials which go into a house determines to a great extent how satisfactory the dwelling, how great the upkeep expense, how high the resale value.

Interior Features
This principle applies to various interior features of a house as well as to such basic exterior parts as the walls and roof. Generally, the foremost considerations in selection of materials should be serviceability, durability and easy, low-cost maintenance. For parts that are exposed to view, appearance also is a factor. Materials which fail to qualify on those counts usually are not economical, whatever their initial cost.

The flooring is a good case in point. A permanent, structural feature, it should last a lifetime without a major repair. Since it is an important element in the interior appearance of a home, it should be attractive and easy to keep clean. Hardwood, particularly oak, meets these requirements especially well. For that reason it has gained almost universal acceptance as the standard of excellence in modern residential flooring. Approximately 80 per cent of the homes in this country are floored with hardwood, most of it oak.

Permanent Benefits
The preference for floors of oak is so pronounced, in fact, that homes equipped with them command higher resale prices. Surprisingly, the difference in cost between high quality materials and lower cost substitutes frequently is trivial when spread over the amortization period of a dwelling. The permanent benefits to be gained, however, are substantial in terms of maintenance savings and all-around satisfaction.

Safety Expert Lists Spring Cleaning Rules

NEW YORK — More than 30,000 Americans were killed and around 6,000,000 are injured every year in home accidents. This thought should be uppermost in the minds of homemakers preparing for their annual Spring housecleaning chores, a leading safety expert cautions.

"In the rush of Spring cleaning, homemakers forget to observe simple home safety rules, thus adding to the staggering toll of deaths and accidents in the home," says W. Dean Keefer, safety engineering director for the Kemper insurance group.

"The basic reason behind this," Keefer explains, "is that women are performing unaccustomed tasks in a hurry."

Safety Rules Listed
The safety expert urges housewives to remember the following safety rules for Spring cleaning:

1. Get help in moving heavy objects. If it is absolutely necessary to carry a heavy load, make sure it doesn't obstruct your vision. In lifting, avoid strain by bending the knees and keeping the back straight.
  2. Never use chairs or tables in place of step-ladders. Make sure of a firm footing for the ladder.
  3. Keep stairs clear of brooms, mops, wastebaskets and similar articles. Make sure stairs and halls are well lighted.
  4. Be certain to read instructions and warnings printed on labels of cleaning fluid containers. Many cleaning solutions and paint removers are flammable or poisonous, or both.
  5. Avoid fire hazards by clearing rubbish and discarded furniture from attic or basement; burn rags saturated with oil, turpentine or alcohol immediately after use to avoid spontaneous combustion, and clean closets of material which cause fires.
  6. Burn rubbish outdoors in a closeness wire basket on a day when there is little wind.
  7. Don't carry sharp objects or hot liquids up or down stairs if at all possible.
  8. Avoid electrical contacts, while standing on damp floors.
  9. Wipe up spilled grease, water or other liquids immediately to avoid falls.
  10. Avoid overtiring or muscle strain.
- The danger to children also increases during the Spring housecleaning period, calling for special precautions for their safety, Keefer warns.
- "Another bit of advice from the safety expert—don't forget these safety practices after Spring housecleaning. They apply throughout the entire year."

Use Of Fluorinated Water Spreading As More Cities Wage Battle On Tooth Decay

Help For Him Is fluorinated water, which reduces tooth decay in those who drink it from birth up to 65 per cent. No help to adults, however.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(NEA)—People around here won't taste it, but they're going to get a little something extra in their drinking water soon. It's fluorine, a chemical which reduces tooth decay.

The New Rochelle area is the latest in a long list of cities to switch to fluorine. Since the early 1940's, a fluorinated tidal wave has been sweeping the U. S. as news of the watery wonder spread.

Some U. S. localities have natural fluorine in the water. Dentists noted people in those spots didn't have the normal amount of tooth decay, then proved the same happy result could be obtained by artificially adding the chemical to local water supplies.

Idea Given Test
First, however, the idea was tested thoroughly. Controlled studies took place in Wisconsin, Michigan, New York, Texas and Illinois. Scientists decided the fluorine did do the trick but with certain reservations. Such as:

1. It only works if the fluorine is taken when your teeth are calcifying. That is when you are a child. In the main, only children through eight get any benefit and the most benefit goes to youngsters born and raised on the stuff. It won't help adults.
2. It's not a cure-all. Even children who drink fluorinated water from birth will still have cavities, though not as many.
3. It won't help the rural population at all. Only people served by a public water system, at present, will benefit.
4. It has to be put in the water carefully. Too little will result in no benefit; too much can mottle the teeth.
5. Scientists point out present data is still far from complete. For one thing, the recommended amount of fluorine to be added may be fine for tested climates but prove wrong for others.
6. Tests are also incomplete as far as long range effect is concerned. None of the experimental cities have been using fluorinated water for more than seven or eight years. Perhaps results may change—for better or worse—over a longer stretch.
7. It costs money to work even a junior grade miracle like this. Estimates are that the cost per person is somewhere between five and 15 cents a year.

Example Cited
Despite the scientific hedging, however, it is clear that fluorinated water has proven beneficial, so far. Most authorities agree that if the chemical is properly supplied, dental decay can be reduced by from 50 to 65 per cent in those who drink it from birth.

To cite one example, a four-year test in Newburgh, N. Y., showed that the DMF rate—the number of decayed, missing and filled teeth in every 100 permanent teeth—dropped from 20.8 to 13.9 in the children tested. In that same time, the DMF rate in the non-fluorine control city, Kingston, N. Y., remained the same.

Another of fluorine's good points is that it is odorless and tasteless. And moderate underdosing and overdosing does no apparent harm. In Newburgh, a companion research project to the dental one dealt with how the chemical might affect other health factors.

The pediatricians concluded that the fluorine did no physical harm whatever. But, they added, final conclusions should be postponed until the youngsters had been fluorine-drinkers for at least 10 years.

Depends On Size
Depending on the size of the city involved and other factors, fluorine can be introduced into the water supply in many forms. Various compounds containing the fluoride ion—such as sodium fluoride, sodium silicofluoride, hydrofluosilicic acid, sodium silicofluoride—can be used. And it can be added as a powder or in solution.

To guard against dangerous over-concentrated doses, most cities require a daily check by the local water department. Some localities, where chemicals are already being added to the water, can use existing equipment for adding fluoride.

The fluorinated water theory has been endorsed by many groups, including the U. S. Public Health Service, American Dental Association and American Water Works Association.

Good Lines Keep Pitched Roof In Popular Demand

Pitched roofs—that is, definitely sloped roofs—are still the leading type among American homes, according to a recent home magazine survey.

The charming appearance of pitched roofs and the types of architecture with which they are used accounts to a large degree for their popularity. While usually associated with traditional designs of Colonial or European origin, pitched roofs also are prevalent among ranch-style houses.

Attractive in their basic lines, pitched roofs gain additional beauty from the various colors and patterns of roofing materials made for sloping surfaces.

Pleasing Patterns
One such material, asbestos-cement roofing shingles, offers a color range that includes greens, blue-blacks, reds, browns, blends and white. For pleasing patterns, asbestos roofing shingles are produced in four different styles—multiple-unit, American method, Dutch lap and hexagonal.

Besides their appealing appearance, pitched roofs usually can provide the advantage of under-roof space for rooms and storage at lower cost than the same amount of space on the ground level.
