Rumor Has It Gene Evans May Play Hemingway Role

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Behind the Screen: Life of Ernest Hemingway before the cameras? I checked with Gene Evans, the newcomer who scored as the cigar-chewing sergeant in "The Steel Helmet" on the rumor that a plan is being cooked up to star him in a film biography of the author. "There's been talk about it, that's all," he shrugged. "I expect that if it's ever done, it probably will be at MGM and Clark Gable will play Hemingway. Not that I wouldn't like it. War, women and elbow-bending. What a movie it would be!"

Two hundred and three pound Gene still howls when he remembers his role in a western. "I was awful," he says. "I shook and the horse shook right with me."

Pat Wymore on her romance and marriage to Errol Flynn: "So many people thought it was all publicity. I've got news for everybody. It's the real thing. We worked in the same picture for three weeks before we really talked. Then suddenly one morning we looked at each other and bells rang and it was love. I didn't know what had hit me."

Another off-beat characterization for Sterling Hayden. He's playing a minister in "Skid Row." Gertrude Astor, the silent star, is in greatest pain again for Republic's "Havana Rose."

Only Bob Fallon's uncertain draft status, I hear, is delaying his marriage to Marie Wilson. He's the 22-year-old red-haired actor who eluded it out with Alan Nixon recently. . . . Sight of the year: Cesar Romero in Scottish kilts in the British-made, "Happy Go Lovely."

Portrait of Pickford

Now it's Mary Pickford who is writing her memoirs under the title, "America's Sweetheart."

Revival of the 10-year-old Range Buster western films on TV has put a town named Corriganville on the tourists' map. Until TV came along, Western Star Craah Corrigan rented his "town"—a western movie street—to movie makers and leased other parts of his 2,000-acre ranch-home in the Chatsworth mountains for sets such as the village in "Vendetta."

Except for occasional film companies, life at Corriganville, 45 miles from Hollywood, was rather dull.

Came TV and things changed. From 3,000 to 5,000 fans invade the place every Sunday now to picnic, see the sights and shake hands with Craah. He beams. "I can't keep 'em out. It's wonderful."

Casting switch: Bob Mitchum playing the honest cop and Bob Ryan as the heel in the remake of "The Racket."

Additional proof that women are the movies' biggest customers. A fan mail poll of favorite stars puts four men — John Wayne, Brod Crawford, Spencer Tracy and Glenn Ford—at the top.

Evelyn Keyes pulled a Guasie Moran while in Uruguay for the Film Festival by playing tennis in a nylon shorts-and-bra outfit. . . . Marathon acting stunt: Steve Cochran's all but three minutes of the just completed "Tomorrow Is Another Day."

New Lena Horne? They'll be beating the drums for Dorothy Dandridge as the screen's new Lena Horne when "Harlem Globe Trotters" is released. Dorothy has this to say about the "new face" tag: "I've been in pictures before but not in a saree. They're always had me carrying trays as a waitress."

When you've passed originally, your partner knows that your hand is not good enough for an opening bid. No matter how strongly you bid later on, your partner remembers that you couldn't bid to begin with.

Hence you can make a jump bid after an original pass to show that your hand was almost worth an opening bid. Such a jump bid is not, of course, as strong as a normal jump (which would show a hand at least as strong as an opening bid).

In the hand shown today, North quite properly passed to begin with. When his partner opened fourth-hand with one heart, however, North was entitled to assume that the combined hands could surely make a game. His response of two spades showed that he had a good spade suit, a maximum pass, and a holding that promised a game opposite a normal opening bid.

South naturally raised the spades, whereupon North showed his heart support. Now South was entitled to get a bit ambitious. North couldn't have better than queen-jack at the head of his hearts. Hence he was bound to have a pretty good spade suit, South reasoned.

The arrests were made Friday. The door of the armored car was pried open as it was parked about twilight in front of a restaurant on busy Highway 66 in West Amarillo. Baby Breaks Tie In Rhode Island Senate

PROVIDENCE, R. I. —(P)— A baby Saturday broke the 22-22 Democratic-Republican tie in the Rhode Island State Senate and nobody knows what the historical consequences will be. With the Rhode Island Legislature straining hard toward an April 17 adjournment and with many important measures pending, Senator Florence K. Murray (D-Newport) told her colleagues late Friday: "I'm going to the lying-in (hospital)." And this morning, the slender, quiet, studious woman senator had a fine baby boy—her first child. And the Democrats for the time being had lost control of the Senate. For with the Senate deadlocked, the Senate's presiding officer, Lt. Gov. John S. McKiernan, a Democrat, has been able to cast the deciding vote. Baby Murray took away Lt. Gov. McKiernan's vote. In the meantime, researchers on such matters were furiously thumbing dog-eared record books and saying, "Nothing like this has ever happened before in American legislative history."

Farm Equipment Materials Receive Priority Ratings

WASHINGTON —(P)— The government Saturday authorized approximately 1,800 manufacturers to use defense priority ratings to obtain material needed in making farm equipment during June. Announcing this decision, the National Production Authority said the manufacturers may apply defense priorities to orders for as much materials and components as they required during an average month in the first half of last year. This assistance to producers of farm equipment closely follows the demotion of two Agriculture Department officials criticized recently by a House committee and farm groups for alleged failure to present farmers' needs forcefully to the Defense Production Administration. Secretary of Agriculture Brannan Friday reassigned Ralph S. Trigg, who had been head of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation, and Frank K. Woolley, deputy administrator of PMA. Brannan named both officials to be his special assistants for COC affairs with lesser authority hereafter. NFA made no reference to Brannan's action in its announcement of the farm machinery program.

Many Midlanders Swap Experiences Of Air Field

By TANNER LAINE
What ever happened to Jerry? Wonder what old Joe is doing these days? Did Bill get that job with an oil company that he used to talk about? These are samples of questions that crop up among ex-servicemen wherever they may have scattered after getting those lovely pieces of paper called discharges. Here in Midland it is fairly easy for many ex-servicemen to find the answers to their questions. Many of the thousands of men stationed at Midland Army Air Field during World War II stayed right in Midland. They married Midland girls. They got jobs here and built homes. That in itself is a compliment to the friendly spirit of this city and to the beauty and charm of the local belles. Ever once in a while on the streets here, you can hear war buddies stop to chat and the talk usually turns to... When they were together in the 486th Bombardier Training Squadron of the 490th, the 491st, or whatever unit. When they had guard duty together or were confined to the post for some inspection. Officers And EM's. Former officers and enlisted men, a lot of the boys at MAAF are still around. Scanning the faces you see most every day in Midland, you will find these fellows who were in the 8th Headquarters and Air Base Squadron at MAAF: Art Cole, Horace Busby, W. E. King, Clarence Kerth, Edward Jones, Bob Swaim, Edwood Kinney, and Maurice Henry. Former staff sergeant Cole of special services is now the director of Midland's Community Theater. Busby, who ran the post theater at MAAF, is in the advertising department of The Reporter - Telegram. Ex-Sergeant King, who used to supervise that extra good food at the officer's mess, is owner of the Hi-D-Do Drive-in. Ex-soldier Kerth is with the Rocky Ford Vans. "Jonesy," an ex-mail clerk in khaki, now is manager of Plamor Lanes. Swaim and Kinney are carpenters and helping to build Midland. Henry works at a recreation club. And there's Bernard S. Collins, who was with the base squadron. He now is at City Drug.

The 490th Bombardier Training Squadron contained such present Midlanders as Jerry Monroe, Henry Anderle, Robert Moser, J. E. Sanders, William B. (Slats) Adams, H. R. Pool, L. W. Soulon, J. B. Peterson and Mike Cristiani. Monroe is with Texas Electric Service Company. Moser works for Schlumberger. Anderle is at United Tile. Sanders is an employee of Elder Chevrolet Company. Adams is an electrician for Phillips Electric. Pool is manager of the Rendevous. Soulon can be found around Caffey Appliance Company. Peterson and Cristiani are watchmakers. Steel Restrictions Force Layoffs At Automobile Plants

DETROIT —(P)— Government restrictions on steel will force layoffs at some auto plants starting Monday, industry spokesmen said Saturday. The exact number of workers affected, however, will not be known until the full impact of the curtailment order is determined. General Motors Corporation already has started layoffs at plants in Kansas City, Baltimore and South Gate, Calif. Several thousand workers were affected. Hudson Motor Car Company said a labor cutback starting Monday will eventually affect 3,500 of the company's 24,000 production workers. Ford Motor Company said no general layoffs have been scheduled. At South Bend, Ind., Studebaker Corporation planned to lay off 4,000 employees. No Cuts Soon Chrysler Corporation will not drop any employees immediately. But a strike that was settled Friday will keep 9,000 employees at the Dodge main plant from working Monday due to a shortage of axles. Chrysler attributed the shortage to a series of walkouts which began Thursday night when 40 maintenance employees quit in a grievance dispute. Friday morning, 24 maintenance workers failed to come in. A continuation of the strike on the second shift Friday night was avoided by a union-management conference that ironed out the grievances, the company said. The 9,000 workers will return to work on their regular shifts Tuesday. They are part of a 33,000 work force at the Dodge main plant.

Hizzoner Adopts Buyers' Attitude In Levying Fines

PITTSBURGH —(P)— Judge James L. O'Toole, Jr., had a few comments on the price of liquor when he sentenced two persons who pleaded guilty to charges of selling intoxicants without a license. Mrs. Rose Delvicio, 74, told the judge she charged 50 cents for one ounce of liquor. "That's a plush joint price, it's too much," said O'Toole as he sentenced her to pay a $200 fine. "What price do you charge for a drink?" O'Toole asked the next defendant, Charles Heigle. Charles replied: "We charge 25 cents for whiskey and 15 cents for a bottle of beer." O'Toole gave Heigle a suspended sentence, declaring: "Don't see how anyone could make much money with those prices!"

Now, Honestly —

The man you elect to be your mayor for the next two years will not work miracles as soon as he takes office. Municipal planning—like business planning—takes time and thorough study. The city council is your legislative governing body; your mayor is the city's chief executive. Both the council and the mayor must, working together, evolve a long-range program designed to meet the demands of our city's expected expansion and growth.

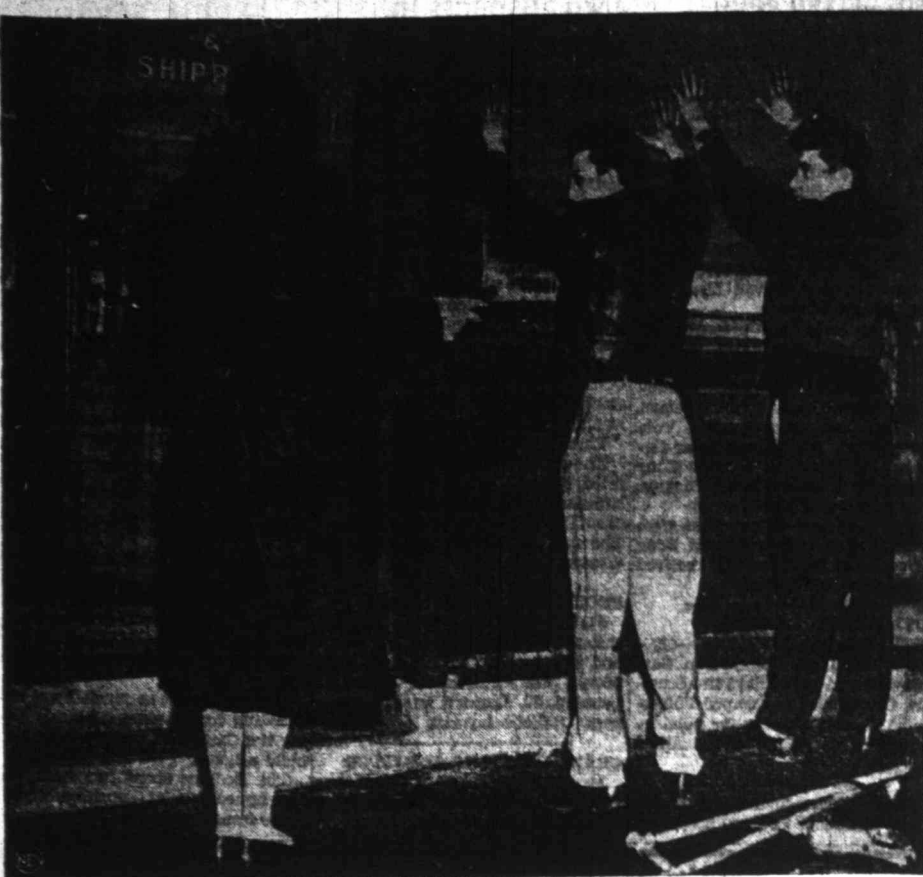

Perry Pickett —

Makes no fantastic promises to you. But he does pledge to the people of Midland that he will give you vigorous, dynamic, progressive leadership, and that he will be the mayor of ALL the people of Midland. He DOES have a program, and he WILL work for it. Here is that program:

- Economy
"I believe that we must be economical in administering our city government. We are overburdened with bureaucracy at the national level — we should take care not to become top-heavy in our city administration here at home."
- Public Services
"I look forward to the day when EVERY section of Midland has paved streets and adequate water, sewer, and drainage facilities. I shall work diligently to speed the arrival of that day. No section should be preferred over any other."
- Expansion and Planning
"We must plan for the future growth of our city in every phase. A planned program that anticipates eventualities is vital."

Texas Prosecutors Ask Tougher Laws Aimed At Gambling

AUSTIN —(P)— Texas prosecutors Saturday asked legislators to give them tougher laws on gambling that mobsters can't dodge or flaunt.

They asked Attorney General Price Daniel to furnish them a list of all Texans who have paid federal taxes on slot machines. This came after District Attorney Homer Dean of Alice told the conference the Federal Internal Revenue office at Austin wrote him it was "too busy" to furnish him with a list, and for him to come and get it.

Daniel said he gladly would pass the information along.

"This will do more good than all the laws the Legislature can pass from now until doomsday," observed Maverick County Attorney David E. Hume of Eagle Pass.

The prosecutors unanimously endorsed pending or proposed bills tightening up or writing new laws to ban slot machines, football gambling cards, policy games and punchboards.

An anti-bombing bill written to curb gangland reprisals was another pending measure approved unanimously by the conference.

The prosecutors also urged a statewide front of "organized resistance" against crime. Formation of local committees to dig into crime was suggested.

The prosecutors unanimously endorsed pending or proposed bills tightening up or writing new laws to ban slot machines, football gambling cards, policy games and punchboards.

Daniel, who called the two-day session of district and county attorneys, predicted the conference's action on slot machines would mean the one-armed bandits would be virtually wiped out in Texas.

"I believe the federal government is going to lose about a million and a half dollars in slot machine tax revenue from Texas next year," the attorney general cracked.

Daniel recently has obtained from the collector of internal revenue here and at Dallas lists of the Texans who paid federal taxes on slot machines.

A proposed law endorsed by the prosecutors would outlaw possession of slot machines, making it a felony. They asked that the Legislature make no exceptions that would exempt clubs or other organizations from the statute.

Prosecutors, who said pin ball machines actually couldn't be anything else but gaming devices, also requested the Legislature to make free games given by winners on these machines "things of value" so as to bring them under the gambling laws.

On the suggestion of John Stapleton, Floydada district attorney, they included football gambling cards, which he called one form of gaming that is widespread. John Nicholson, county attorney of Comanche County, backed the anti-punchboard proposal.

Gets Endorsement
District Attorney Hardy Harvey of San Antonio obtained endorsement of a proposed law to make mere possession of a punchboard illegal.

"Under the law now there's no effective way to curb punchboards," he said. "Just picking up those on exhibition is like trying to bail the ocean with a bucket. They have warehouses full of them."

Chairman Fred Meridith of the House Crime Investigating Committee asked the prosecutors for help in future on-the-spot hearings in localities "where it is suspected crime is flourishing."

Meridith did not mention gambler Mickey Cohen by name, but noted the committee has two ways of dealing with witnesses who refuse to testify.

He said the Constitution provides for contempt proceedings before the House itself, or for criminal charges. Under the strictly legislative pro-

Regents Uncover No Evidence To Justify Dismissal Of Ayres

AUSTIN —(P)— No evidence has been found to justify the firing of Economics Professor Clarence E. Ayres, the University of Texas Board of Regents told the Texas House Saturday.

That was the regents' answer to a House resolution ordering investigation of statements by Ayres which Rep. Marshall Bell and other members considered Socialistic. The House had asked whether Ayres would be kept on the payroll.

Advised of the regents' decision, Ayres told The Associated Press: "I have never wavered in my confidence that the board would uphold the integrity of the university, and I think the whole faculty feels the same way."

One indirect note of rebuff for Ayres was voiced in the five-and-one-half page letter prepared by a three-man committee representing the board.

Recognize Effects
"We are keenly conscious that unfortunately and regrettably the entire university sometimes suffers from the indiscreet or unpopular actions or utterances (often distorted or misunderstood) of a single member of the faculty," they noted.

The committee, comprised of Regent Claude W. Voyles of Austin, University Chancellor James P. Hart, and President T. S. Painter, sent their reply to House Speaker Reuben Senterfitt after sending copies to other board members for approval. The board had directed them to determine the "truth or falsity" of statements attributed to Ayres.

"We have not found in our investigation to this date evidence which would justify us in failing to or refusing to continue Dr. Ayres' contract of employment," the letter stated.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. —(P)— Flames streaked early Saturday through four floors of historic Carvel Hall, the famous old hostelry of this country's Navy town.

One of the building's wings was badly damaged by bursts of flame, but firemen had the blaze under control after four hours. Damage was not estimated.

All the guests walked safely from the burning structure. So did a hundred Annapolis party-goers who gathered there for a dance earlier in the evening.

Money Saved For Operation Stolen

SAN ANTONIO —(P)— A 90-year-old widow was held up in her home early Saturday morning and robbed of money she had been saving to pay for an operation for her daughter.

The woman, Mrs. Carrie Ochoa, said she lost $470 to the bandit, who obtained entry into her home by posing as a special delivery mail carrier.

Roscoe Parmley Dies Of Traffic Injuries

MINERAL WELLS —(P)— Roscoe N. (Boss) Parmley, 43, oldest active member of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Ironship Builders and Helpers of America, died Saturday in a hospital here from traffic injuries.

He was hurt last Saturday in an auto-truck collision between Mineral Wells and Strawn.

He was a charter member of Boilermakers Local No. 96 in Fort Worth, joining Jan. 5, 1894, and had missed only "one boilermaker's" convention since his first in 1904.

15 College Students Hurt In Premature April First Hi-Jinks

BROWNWOOD —(P)— Fifteen Howard Payne College students—most of them athletes—were injured early Saturday in two automobile wrecks blamed on the annual fight between upperclassmen and freshmen.

Eight upperclassmen were hurt when their 10-year-old car plunged off U. S. Highway 283 two miles north of Brownwood at 3:25 a.m. All but one were football or basketball players.

Seven freshmen were hurt at 5 a.m. when their car left an access road just off U. S. Highway 283, eight miles north of Brownwood.

None of the students was hurt critically, although Kenneth Miller, about 19, of Gustine, suffered a bad throat cut.

Officers said upperclassmen apparently were chasing freshmen—both groups in cars—throughout the county during the night.

Besides Miller, upperclassmen hospitalized are Melvin White, Coleman, fractured collar bone; and Bill Perkins, 19, Brownwood, fractured pelvis. Perkins, athletic manager for both the football and basketball squads, was the only student in the car who is not a football or basketball player.

David Pauley, McCamey
The other upperclassmen, all released after treatment of minor injuries, were: S. V. Box, 19, Tuscola; Elvin Hill, 20, Lawn; David Pauley, 21, McCamey; Carl McMillan, 19, Lampasas, and Bill Walls, 19, Prairie Valley (near Nocona). Walls was named to the All Texas-Conference basketball team just this week.

The freshmen suffered only minor injuries. They were Bed Sudderth, Buddy Harmon, Marcus Miles, Tommy Loisenbury, John Parker, Bill McCarver and Jim Hardy.

The first of April traditionally is "Freshmen Day" at Howard Payne. Hazing is banned. Upperclassmen raise their "Yellow Jacket" flag on the campus about 10:30 the night before and during the night freshmen try to pull it down.

Because April 1 falls on Sunday this year, the 1951 hi-jinks got started early.

Pair Arraigned On Marihuana Charges

LAREDO —(P)— George Bram and Jack Sansom, both of Houston, were arraigned Friday on charges of smuggling marihuana and evasion of the Marihuana Tax Act, the Customs Agency Service reported Saturday.

The men were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Frank Y. Till. The service reported 27 pounds of crude marihuana and a 1948 Cadillac car were seized a short distance north of Laredo on U. S. Highway 81.

Students Believed Carrying Explosives

FORT WORTH —(P)— Assistant County Probation Officer E. I. McGee said Saturday he believed 190 blasting caps and 13 sticks of dynamite are in circulation among Arlington Heights and W. C. Stripling school students.

McGee said he had been told one youth played a game of sandlot football recently with several blasting caps in his pocket. The caps are detonated easily by a jar or blow.

The probation official said he believed the explosives were stolen from the Benbrook Dam project near here.

It's Okay To Park Near Heires' Home

NEW YORK —(P)— You can park in front of Doris Duke's home now. The city traffic department said two "No Parking" signs outside the heiress' residence at one East 87th Street were placed there without authority. It ordered the signs removed.

The action was part of a city-wide drive against scores of such signs outside homes without authority by private citizens seeking to assure themselves a parking place.

Texan To Set Up National Headquarters For Air Force Pilot Training At Waco

WACO—(AP)—It'll be back home in Texas for Maj. Gen. Warren R. Carter when he sets up national headquarters here for Air Force pilot training.

The Air Force general with the thinning hair is a native Texan and has been in Texas much of the time during his 34 years in the armed services.

Carter was born in Winchell, a small town in Brown County. He's spent time at Kelly Field and Randolph Field, both at San Antonio, and at Foster Field in Victoria.

His command here will be known technically as Flying Training Air Force. It will direct the training of all of Uncle Sam's Air Force pilots, navigators, radar observers, bombardiers and combat crews.

Headquarters will be opened about May 1. The two-star general will have jurisdiction over 16 flying training bases from Florida to California, including seven in Texas. The full roster:

Connelly AFB, Waco; Randolph AFB, San Antonio; Goodfellow AFB, San Angelo; Perrin AFB, Sherman; Reese AFB, Lubbock; San Marcos AFB, Ellington AFB, Houston; Williams AFB, Chandler, Ariz.; Luke AFB, Phoenix; Vance AFB, Enid, Okla.; Craig AFB, Selma, Ala.; Tyndall AFB, Panama City, Fla.; Nellis AFB, Las Vegas; Mather AFB, Sacramento, Calif.; and two civilian contract flying training schools at Greenville, Miss., and Columbus, Miss.

Was Flying Instructor

Carter was flying before most of today's Air Force pilots were born. He was a flying instructor 33 years ago at Kelly Field near San Antonio.

He still flies his own plane—a B-25 bomber. He is rated a top fighter pilot and has held the Air Force gunnery championship several times.

The general, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Carter of Brownwood, is assembling a 12-man staff including at least two colonels. About 150 persons are expected to staff the office in May. Eventually, there will be 1,000.

Carter has been deputy commander for flying training of the Air Training Command at Scott Air Force Base, Ill. Before that he was commander of Lowry AFB, Denver.

His staff here will include one man who is no Waco stranger—Capt. Sankey Trimble, former Associated Press newsmen at Santa Fe, N. M. Trimble was public relations officer at Waco Army Air Field at the close of World War II. Now called back to duty, he will head Carter's Air Information Division.

Father Vows To Stay In Jail So His Son Can Stay In School

GRAHAM, N. C.—(AP)—Clarence E. McVey says he's going to stay in jail so his son can stay in school. McVey, 48-year-old carpenter, has been in jail for two days. He disobeyed a court order to take his son, David, six, out of school.

David was six last November 4. State law says a child must be six years old by October 1 to be eligible for public school that year. But David started to school in September and has been making good grades.

McVey told a reporter he'll stay in jail "until I rot before I'll take little David out of school now."

Mobilization Impact On Two Texas Cities Cited By Committee

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two Texas cities were cited by the Senate Banking Committee among "current examples of the impact of defense mobilization activities" on a number of cities.

They are Dallas and Weatherford—named along with such places as Tucson, San Diego, Calif.; San Ysidro, Calif.; San Miguel, Calif.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Great Falls, Mont.; Grand Island, Neb.; Salt Lake City; and Bremerton-Seattle, Wash.

Here's how the committee put it: Dallas, Texas—"Important aircraft center. Defense activities of Chance Vought Aircraft leading factor in employment gains. Growing worker shortage. High employment turn-over. Worker training program started. Other defense industries active, including plant expansion for defense production by Otis Engineering Company. Bureau of employment security reports: heavy in-migration during last seven months, and a definite shortage of low-cost rental units; no remedial action in sight. More in-migration likely."

Weatherford, Texas—"Proximity to Consolidated Vultee Aircraft and Bell Aircraft, as well as reopening of Camp Walters, creates need for 1,000 rental units. Also expansion of sewerage system of city needed to care for increased population expected."

The comments were in a report recommending Senate passage of a $1,500,000,000 defense housing bill to be debated next week.

Information was obtained from the Defense Department, Labor Department, Census Bureau and Housing and Home Finance Agency, and from news reports.

Pennsylvanian Discovery Is Seen For C-W Midland Area

Another new discovery has been indicated in Midland County.

The Texas Company No. 3-A Clarence Sobharbauer and others, two locations west of the discovery well of the Warfield-Ellenburger field of Central-West Midland County, found Pennsylvanian oil on a drillstem test from 10,490 to 10,570 feet. Operator is now drilling the project below 10,575 feet.

On the drillstem test, which lasted seven hours and 22 minutes, gas was at the surface in 36 minutes at the rate of 98,000 cubic feet per day. No fluid surfaced while the tool was open.

Recovery was 450 feet of heavily oil and gas-out mud and 2,500 feet of free 41.7-gravity oil.

No water was made on the test. Probably Run Pipe

Operator probably will determine the thickness of the Pennsylvanian pay and then run pipe and complete the project as a new field opener.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure during the drillstem test ranged from 345 to 875 pounds. Shutin pressure after 20 minutes was 2,100 pounds.

Location is 680 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 19, block 40, T-2-S, T&P survey and 11 miles southwest of the city of Midland.

Sohio Is To Start On Spraberry Test In SE Midland Area

Sohio Petroleum Company is to start drilling immediately at its No. 17-D. H. Hut and others trustees, one and one-half miles west of the recently completed Ted Weiner et al No. 1-18 Driller, discovery from the Spraberry sand in Southeast Midland County.

Projected to 7,500 feet, the prospector will be drilled 660 feet from north and east lines of section 13, block 37, T&P survey, T-4-S.

The No. 1-18 Driller was completed from open hole in the Spraberry from 7,110 to 7,235 feet for a daily flowing potential of 303.62 barrels of 37.1-gravity oil.

Prospector Is Staked In North Pecos Area

Patrick A. Doherty has filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas for permit to drill No. 1-B M. L. Masterson as a wildcat in North Pecos County.

Location is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 140, T&S survey and 17 miles northeast of Fort Stockton.

Combination cable and rotary tools will be used to drill to 5,000 feet. Projected depth is calculated to take the project into the Ellenburger.

Operations will begin immediately.

Offset Scheduled To Upton Opener

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company has staked location for an east offset to its No. 1 McElroy Ranch, Ellenburger discovery in Northwest Upton County, 18 miles northwest of Rankin.

The offset will be the concern's No. 3 McElroy Ranch and will be drilled 660 feet from south and east lines of section 29, block D, CCSD&RGNG survey.

No. 1 McElroy Ranch is at total depth of 12,420 feet in the Ellenburger and electric log surveys are being run.

The latest drillstem test, from 12,375 to 12,420 feet, failed to develop flowing oil. However, the three-hour test developed 600 feet of oil and 600 feet of gas-out mud with a sulphur odor on the recovery.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure was 1,550-1,650 pounds and shutin bottom hole pressure after 30 minutes was 5,375 pounds.

Operator likely will set casing and make production tests and complete.

No. 1 McElroy is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 129, block D, CCSD&RGNG survey.

NW Kent Test Is Drilling After DST

Keweenaw Oil Company No. 1 Oliver, Northwest Kent County wildcat, one and one-half miles north of the Salt Creek field, tried a drillstem test at 6,388-6,420 feet in the top of the Canyon reef lime.

The tool was plugged with cavings and there was no test. Operator pulled the tool, conditioned the hole, and will drill a few feet deeper.

A drillstem test will then be undertaken.

This project topped the Pennsylvanian reef line at 6,380 feet, on a datum of minus 4,251 feet. That is 90 feet high on that marker to the nearest completed producer from the reef on the north side of the Salt Creek field.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 11, block 1, H&GN survey. It is 12 miles northwest of Cleburne.

Possible Discovery In Reagan Is Coring

Ted Weiner No. 1-40 Proctor, Northwest Reagan County possible discovery from the Spraberry sand has drilled the plug on 5 1/2-inch casing, which had been cemented at 6,915 feet, the top of the Spraberry, and drilled out to the total depth at 6,928 feet.

Operator then cored at 6,928-59 feet. Recovery was 21 feet of fractured oil sand and nine feet of fractured shale. Another core is to be cut.

The section at 6,915-28 feet was cored before the casing was cemented. That section also showed good indications of possible production in fractured shale.

Location is at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 40, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey. It is 27 miles north and east of Rankin.

Weiner, et al. No. 1-17 Walter Braden, Spraberry discovery in Northeast Upton County, three and one-half miles northwest of the No. 1-40 Proctor, which was completed about six weeks ago for a daily initial production of 452 barrels of oil, flowing from pay at 7,000-7,180 feet has been cleaned out and is now back on production.

The oil yield of this new field opener is reported to have dropped to around 75 barrels per day soon after it was potentialized.

Operator found that the pay section had caved rather badly. Those cavings have been cleaned out and operator representatives report that the well is now flowing .05 barrels of oil per day, and it is not making any water.

Operator found that the pay section had caved rather badly. Those cavings have been cleaned out and operator representatives report that the well is now flowing .05 barrels of oil per day, and it is not making any water.

NW Martin Test To Run Protection Pipe

Pan American Production Company and associates No. 1 F. D. Bredette, Northwest Martin County wildcat, 13 miles northwest of Tarzan, is bottomed at 11,095 feet in lower Pennsylvanian lime and shale, and is to cement 7-inch protection string on bottom.

After the plug cures on the casing operator will drill out and make more hole. The prospector is slated to dig ahead to 13,000 feet, or a test of the Ellenburger.

Location is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 140, T&S survey and 17 miles northeast of Fort Stockton.

Combination cable and rotary tools will be used to drill to 5,000 feet. Projected depth is calculated to take the project into the Ellenburger.

No Shows Found In DST In C-E Martin

Callery & Hurt, Inc., and Ted Weiner, et al. No. 1-18 Earl Powell, Central-East Martin County prospector, nine miles north of Stanton took a drillstem test at 11,412-901 feet in a dolomite thought by some observers to possibly be the Ellenburger.

Recovery was 90 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water. Electric log surveys are now being taken. After that has been finished operators will decide the fate of the prospector.

It has not found any shows of production up to now. Location is at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 8, block 36, T-1-N, T&P survey.

Pennsylvanian Logs Oil Shows In Kent

Keweenaw Oil Company No. 1-E Will Connelly, Southwest Kent County wildcat logged good shows of oil in samples in the Pennsylvanian lime at 6,970-85 feet.

Operator deepened to 6,992 feet and is now taking a drillstem test.

This exploration is three-quarters of a mile south and one mile west of the nearest completed oil well in the East Polar-Pennsylvanian field. It is 16 miles southwest of Cleburne.

The drillstem is 680 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 3, block 5, H&GN survey. It was started out to dig to 8,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger unless it develops commercial production at a lesser depth.

S-C Andrews Pool Gets West Stepout

H. L. Brinson and C. E. Henson have staked drillsite for a one-location west stepout to production in the northwest side of the Furman Mascho field of South-Central Andrews.

Plymouth President Sees New Highs For Petroleum Industry

PITTSBURGH — New all-time records for demand and production will be established by the petroleum industry in 1951, Walter S. Hallanan, president of Plymouth Oil Company, predicted Thursday.

Whether the industry will be able to keep pace with the ever-growing demand for its products by drilling an increasing number of wells and continually raising reserves to new high levels will depend, he said, upon continuance of the present 27 1/2 per cent rate of depletion and ability to obtain steel and other necessary materials.

Allowance Necessary

In the company's annual report to stockholders, Hallanan said the present depletion rate is "absolutely essential to the continued growth of the oil industry."

Since it has been demonstrated in two world wars that oil is the most important critical material of modern warfare, he continued, "any action by the government that would curtail exploration and cripple development would, in the light of the grave international situation, be an invitation to national disaster."

Hallanan said that in response to the demands of the mobilization program, the industry established new records in 1950 in every division of its multiple activities.

He pointed out that the industry had drilled more wells, increased reserves to an all-time high of more than 29,000,000,000 barrels, refined more oil and produced more motor fuel, natural gas and natural liquids than ever before, as it met a demand that reached a record high for the eighth consecutive year.

The report shows that Plymouth earnings for 1950 were $8,498,425.46, equal to $7.01 per share, as compared with 1949 net profit of $6,171,586.94, equal to $5.12 per share. Hallanan pointed out that 1950 earnings represented a new all-time high for the company, and an increase of 29 per cent over the previous earning record established in 1949.

Hallanan told the Plymouth stockholders that petroleum reserves constitute the real yardstick by which national security may be measured. "American oil reserves today are almost five times as great as at the end of the first world war, despite an increase in consumption of almost 400 per cent during that period," he said in the report.

"At the same time, the retail price (excluding taxes) of the petroleum industry's principal product—gasoline—is 20 per cent less than the price in 1918 and the gasoline of today is a vastly superior product over that of 33 years ago."

To increase production, Hallanan said that while the depletion question has always borne direct relationship to national defense "this factor is more important than ever before in this present era of threatened armed aggression against our country."

He pointed out that in response to a request from the Interior Department, an industry committee is now making a comprehensive study of the materials and capital requirements of a discovery and development program necessary to increase productive capacity within the Western Hemisphere by one million barrels daily. The responsibility of this increased production would immediately fall upon the domestic industry, Hallanan said, when and if international conditions should cause any interruption of oil imports.

The National Geographic Society says Sarajevo, capital of the Yugoslav state of Bosnia, has become a manufacturing center.

Potential Scheduled For Pennsylvania Discovery In Lea

HOBBS, N. M. — Lawton Oil Corporation and W. L. Goldston No. 1-A State, assured Pennsylvania discovery in Central-West Lea County, is at total depth of 10,821 feet waiting for potential.

The prospect was acidized through perforations in five and one-half inch casing at 10,577-617 feet with 4,000 gallons.

Operator ran the swab several times and the well kicked off and flowed for one hour and made 12 barrels of oil at the end of the hour, operator shut the well in for pressure buildup prior to taking potential.

The Pennsylvania was topped at 10,212 feet, elevation 4,235 feet. No. 1-A State is three miles south of the Saunders field which produces from the Pennsylvania and Wolfcamp.

Exact location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 30-15-35e.

Long Steepcut

One and three-quarters miles north of production in the Denton multiphase field of Central-East Lea County and 11 miles northeast of Lovington, Magnolia Petroleum Company will drill its No. 1 Pope as a Devonian prospect.

It will be dug 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 35-14-37e.

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 2-D L. R. Chamberlain is to be a 12,000-foot Devonian test in the Denton field. Drillsite has been set 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 14-15-37e. That puts it in the south side of the field.

Phillips Petroleum Company and Atlantic Refining Company made location for their No. 2 Denton, which is to be drilled as a 10,500-foot exploration in the Denton field. Drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and 1,987 feet from east lines of section 11-15-37e. That makes it one location north of the nearest Wolfcamp producer in the north side of the field.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1-SC State, one-location east of Wolfcamp production in the Saunders field of Central-West Lea County is coring below 9,840 feet in the Pennsylvania.

Assured Production

The prospect was assured production on a drillstem test in the top of the Pennsylvania on a drillstem test from 9,761-9,805 feet. The test tool was open four hours and seven minutes.

Gas was at the surface in three minutes, mud in five and oil in seven minutes. It flowed to tanks four hours and made 353 barrels of 42-gravity oil.

No top on the Pennsylvania has been released.

A previous drillstem test from 9,495-9,593 feet failed to develop signs of oil. The tool was open one hour and 25 minutes. Recovery was 60 feet of drilling mud with no shows.

Location of the assured producer is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 3-15-35e.

One location east of a Pennsylvania producer in the Bagley-Hightower field of Northwest Lea County and 13 miles west of Tatum, Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 2 Chambers has proven for production from the Pennsylvania.

Stanolind Employees Make Good Safety Record During 1950

TULSA — Employees of Stanolind Oil and Gas Company maintained an outstanding safety record during 1950, Stanolind president E. P. Bullard announced Saturday.

During last year, an average of 7,058 employees worked a total of 14,977,084 hours with 52 lost-time accidents. This resulted in an accident frequency rate of 3.47. The accident frequency rate indicates the number of disabling injuries for each million man-hours of work.

While Stanolind workers had a record low frequency rate of 3.22 during 1949, the 1950 rate is also extremely good. Stanolind had an increase both in number of employees and number of man-hours worked last year as compared with 1949.

Low Accident Rate

The 3.47 frequency rate for 1950 again ranks Stanolind as one of the safest places in the nation to work. The National Safety Council reported that in 1949 "the last year for which industry-wide figures are now available" the petroleum industry as a whole had a frequency rate of 10.14.

Other industries reporting to the council and their 1949 frequencies were: Coal Mining, 41.48; Gas Utilities, 17.92; Electrical Utilities, 14.02; Iron and Steel production, 12.40; and Wholesale and Retail Trade, 8.69.

In recognition of outstanding safety records compiled by specific areas within the company, Stanolind received 16 awards from the Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association during 1950. This association is sponsored by the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

Stanolind also received its second Distinguished Service to Safety Award from the National Safety Council last year for excellence in safety practices throughout the company.

AAPG President's Award Winners For 1951 Are Named

Walter B. Spangler and John J. Peterson, Esso Standard Oil Company geologists, are joint winners of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists' President's Award for 1951.

The award is made annually to the author, or authors, under 35 years of age, of the most significant original contribution to petroleum geology published in the monthly Bulletin of AAPG.

Selected by Committee

The winning paper, selected by a national medal award committee headed by J. V. Howell of Tulsa, is "Geology of Atlantic Coastal Plain in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia."

Presentation of the award will be made in St. Louis April 24 at the joint annual meetings of AAPG and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists, and the Society of Exploration Geophysicists. Spangler and Peterson are now assigned to the Creole Petroleum Corporation, Caripito, Venezuela.

McClure-Turner To Operate Consulting Service In Midland

McClure and Turner is the firm name of a new geological consulting service in Midland. Offices are to be at 305 Wilkinson-Foster Building.

The concern will start functioning early in the current week.

Operators of the service are Harold Y. McClure and Clyde W. Turner. Both are well-known geologists in the Permian Basin.

McClure recently resigned as an assistant to the division geologist of Gulf Oil Corporation at Port Worth to return to Midland and become a partner in the new venture.

McClure had been employed by Gulf for more than 17 years at the time he left that concern. Prior to going to Port Worth during 1950, he served for more than a year as district geologist in Midland for Gulf.

Before being made head of the district geological department in this city McClure worked as a staff geologist for the Gulf organization in West Texas for a number of years.

Turner resigned as district geologist for The Blackwood & Nichols Company in the Permian Basin to join McClure in the new consulting service.

Before joining the B&N staff during 1950 Turner was district geologist in Midland for Republic Natural Gas Company. He served in that position for about three years.

He worked as a geologist for Gulf in Midland for five and one-half years prior to his connection with Republic Natural.

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP— Record Stock Of Gasoline On Hand

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON — A record inventory is on hand for the start of the oil industry's 1951 gasoline season.

The 43,400 goal, Lawton said, will require that steel tubular goods production average 157,500 tons a month. He estimated 1951's first quarter average production at 130,000 tons a month, compared to 150,000 a year earlier.

Heavy demands for steel for other uses, he said, makes it doubtful that more than 140,000 tons can be produced in April.

Lawton said applications sent to PAD for priority assistance on third-quarter drilling programs indicate operators are well prepared to drill at a rate substantially higher than the 43,400 goal requires.

Gas Prices

Independent operators in Texas have conflicting opinions on whether the state's oil and gas regulatory body should be authorized to establish minimum prices on natural gas.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association approved a minimum price resolution only after an hour of debate. The voice vote was close. Two weeks ago TIPRO's executive committee unanimously approved the resolutions.

Convention opposition centered on a contention the organization was formed to fight government controls. Other independents maintained a state minimum price statute would be a "road block" to extension of jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission.

Several bills which would authorize the Texas Railroad Commission to establish minimum gas prices are pending before the state's Legislature.

Richard G. Lawton, director of the Production Division of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, said such a figure would be about one-fifth higher than the PAD's annual goal of 43,400 completions.

The 43,400 goal, Lawton said, will require that steel tubular goods production average 157,500 tons a month. He estimated 1951's first quarter average production at 130,000 tons a month, compared to 150,000 a year earlier.

Heavy demands for steel for other uses, he said, makes it doubtful that more than 140,000 tons can be produced in April.

Ridgway Says American GI In Korea Ace Fighter

By CPL. DICK KEMP
U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEAD-QUARTERS, KOREA —(AP)— Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway says the American soldier in Korea "has arrived."

The U. S. Eighth Army commander said American fighting men "have now acquired poise and self-reliance, born of confidence, which gives them pride in themselves."

He added, "It isn't confined to our men alone, but it is also true of all United Nations fighting forces."

The energetic, 56-year-old general made his remarks in an exclusive interview for the Pacific Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper.

"I don't think there are any finer," Ridgway said, "American soldiers will rise to any height and any demand put upon them."

He praised his men proudly for "the manner in which they have licked weather and terrain."

"They have beat the other fellow while they were doing it," he said. "It is the stamp of the professional soldier."

Ridgway took command of the Eighth Army last December 31. He succeeded Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, who was killed in a jeep accident northeast of Seoul while the Allied forces were falling back before the Chinese.

"The spiritual is to the physical three to one, or a thousand to one, you might say."

"There was a time when the men would walk in the valleys instead of on the ridges. Now they know they have to dominate the heights."

"It takes great physical endurance to do so, but the men have taken it in stride—they know it is a job they have to do, and they have done it."

Asked what was the greatest physical and idealistic attributes of the individual American soldier, Ridgway said, "He never does more physically than his spiritual strength permits."

Asked to name the one battle or the one phase of the war in which the individual American soldier has most distinguished himself, General Ridgway replied: "It is impossible to say. You cannot compare different men in different places at different times."

There have been superb examples of tactical conduct, planning and gallantry in battle during this war, he said.

The general said the individual soldier fights well, not only to keep his pride in himself and his organization, but to continue to deserve the pride of the people back home.

American soldiers have met every single challenge thrown at them, he said.

He praised the replacements who have come to Korea. These, he said, take no time in becoming a part of their organization. He also praised the training received by these men.

Ranger To Celebrate Publication Of Book On Its 'Roaring Era'

RANGER—"An atmosphere of mud, murder and madness" characterized the great Ranger oil rush of more than 30 years ago, which began when the discovery well came in unexpectedly for everyone except W. K. Gordon, superintendent of the Texas Pacific Coal Company, thought it would be a dry hole.

The vivid, fast-moving story, an important chapter in the history of Texas and oil, is told in Boyce House's book, "Roaring Ranger, The World's Biggest Boom," which will be issued by the Naylor Company of San Antonio, Friday. And that will be "Roaring Ranger Day" here, with the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsoring a luncheon, a program afterward to which the general public is invited, a tour of the new oil fields and a dance.

And that will be "Roaring Ranger Day" here, with the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsoring a luncheon, a program afterward to which the general public is invited, a tour of the new oil fields and a dance.

Such celebrities as Tex Rickard, Rex Beach, Jess Willard, John Ringling and Dr. Frederick A. Cook, "discoverers" of the North Pole, played a part in Ranger's epic and they are portrayed in the book along with less-famous but no less remarkable men, such as John M. Chabot and M. H. Hagaman, who built a shack over into a city; Jack Rapp, who has been shooting wells with nitroglycerine since 1902; Col. Robert D. Gordon, picturesque operator who gave away gold pieces; Brann Garner, incredible theater man; Cowboy Evans, who drilled 40 dry holes in succession, and Si Bradford, great peace officer who fought it out with the three Santa Claus bank bandits in a thrilling battle amid the derricks.

Ranger was an unending show, with lease brokers walking around with cards advertising bargains stuck in their hats—one dealer wore sandwich boards; corn liquor was a dollar a drink; a cot in the McCleaskey Hotel hallway cost $5 a night; and the field's biggest well, the Norwood gusher, produced $35,000 worth of oil a day on a farm which had been bought for $5 an acre, 11 years before.

More interesting items: A mule drowned in the mud of Main Street; a man made $40,000 in one day on a "hot check"; a baby that had fallen into a well was rescued by a brave driller; the Oklahoma Cabaret was held up in the daytime and there was a gunfight through the streets.

"Roaring Ranger" tells also of Eastland, Breckenridge, Cisco and Desdemona (Hogtown) for the oil boom which began at Ranger embraced those cities.

House, author of 12 books, was newspaper editor in Ranger, Eastland and Cisco for 10 years and he chronicled many of these events, day by day, as they happened. He knew almost all the principal figures personally and obtained their experiences from them.

The Midland Geological Society is to hold its regular semi-monthly luncheon meeting Tuesday in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Schaefer.

The program will consist of two motion pictures, "Avalanches to Order" narrated by Lowell Thomas and "Smoke Jumpers." Both were released recently by United States Forest Service.

"Avalanche to Order" describes the work of the snow rangers who cooperate with National Ski Patrol and Winter Sports Association to predict and control avalanches.

The second film, "Smoke Jumpers," shows how the Forest Service has developed its own airborne squadron to combat forest fires in remote areas.

Max David is president of the Midland Geological Society. John E. Galley will be in charge of the program.

The West Texas section of the Committee on Drilling Practices of the American Petroleum Institute will hold its April meeting at the Gulf Building, Odessa, from 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday.

L. Brudwig, Liquid Plastic Corporation in Houston, and G. C. Owens, Plains Petroleum Company, will lead the discussion on "Coatings for Tubular Goods" with special emphasis being given to new drill pipe and tubing.

All persons interested are urged to attend this meeting.

Deep Rock Oil Corporation's net earnings amounted to $3,800,000 for 1950 compared with $1,815,000 in 1949.

Included in the 1950 results was nonrecurring profit on sale of American Independent Oil Company securities of $463,000 after provision for income taxes. The earnings are equal to $7.46 a share against $4.54 a share for 1949.

Washington Oil-Permian Basin And Rocky Mountain Areas Are 'Most Reliable' For New Crude

WASHINGTON—The government's top oil and gas man said last week the Permian Basin of West Texas and the Rocky Mountain region are the nation's "most reliable areas" for finding new crude.

Bruce K. Brown, deputy director of the Petroleum Administration for Defense, also said in a memorandum viewed by top PAD chiefs that new pipe line outlets in these areas are "a must."

He said "particularly Wyoming" appears a source of new crude.

"Crude production in Southeastern New Mexico and West Texas increased from 212,000,000 to 336,500,000 barrels between 1945 and 1950, or 58 per cent," Brown said.

"In the Rocky Mountain region, production rose from 50,100,000 to 83,100,000 barrels, or 66 per cent, between 1945 and 1950. These two areas have great prospects for finding more oil."

The Brown statement came shortly after the PAD warned the National Production Authority that pipe line output is well below demands of the oil and gas industry. Demand is about a million tons a quarter, and production only 700,000, the PAD warned the NPA.

The NPA was asked to take steps to put a floor under present line pipe production, and to initiate steps to augment the production substantially.

No matter whether NPA does take steps to increase mill output of line pipe, the figures indicate a shortage of pipe ahead.

As a result, the prospects are that the government's forthcoming controlled materials plan will designate certain pipe lines as matters of first priority.

Since a new oil line means money to hundreds of thousands of landowners and royalty owners, oil producers and communities, it may be valuable to know which lines will be favored.

Here are some of the government wants built with speed:

1. Several oil lines north and east from the Permian Basin, including the five-company plan proposed to carry crude through a large diameter line to the Gulf.

2. The Plains Pipe Line from Wyoming to St. Louis where line pipe deliveries, scheduled for July, have been put off until December. The PAD will try to get the delivery earlier.

3. Ohio Oil Company's Wood River, Ill.-Lima, Ohio, line which is being delayed because National Tube Company can't come forth with the steel, presently, until the third quarter of 1951. About 236 miles of this system, from Wood River to Sheridan, Ind., have been laid, but construction will cease without additional pipe. The line will bring crude to the Great Lakes region and to Lima; in the event of tanker stoppages on the East Coast, the crude could be brought East.

4. Gulf Oil's proposed line from Mississippi fields to Mobile, Ala., designed to release badly-needed tankers. Part of the pipe is coming from Europe.

5. Phillips Petroleum Company's products line from Berger, Texas, to Chicago, which is to provide greater supplies of propane to the Great Lakes region, and save pressure tankers for avgas hauling.

6. The Plantation Pipe Line which is to carry refined products from the southeast to East Central United States, and perhaps even further north, if needed.

SAN ANTONIO—The thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Western Petroleum Refiners Association will open in San Antonio Monday for a three-day conference which will focus attention of refiners throughout the Americas on the oil industry's importance in the defense program and the scientific and technical improvements which are making this growth and progress possible.

The meeting will attract refining industry leaders from every oil producing state, and evidence of the national administration's recognition is indicated by the fact that Bruce K. Brown, deputy administrator, Petroleum Administration for Defense, Washington, D. C., will address the concluding session of the meeting on Wednesday. All business sessions of the conference will be at the Plaza Hotel, and R. W. McDowell, president of the Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation, Tulsa, who is president of the WPRA will be the presiding officer.

CONOCO PURCHASES NOC OF KENTUCKY—Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—The National Oil Corporation of Kentucky has been purchased by Continental Oil Company for an undisclosed amount.

Clarence E. Bauer and Martin A. Bauer, who founded the Kentucky Petroleum Products Distributing Company 25 years ago, announced the sale.

Deep Rock Oil Corporation's net earnings amounted to $3,800,000 for 1950 compared with $1,815,000 in 1949.

'Sunflower Sand' Is Probable Designation Of Post-Hole Field

The "Sunflower Sand" tapped by a post-hole digger near Colorado City produced a brownish-green sweet oil.

Joe Greer of Midland, District 3 supervisor of the Texas Railroad Commission, Saturday said he has had numerous telephone calls about the oil production at three and one-half feet. Greer last week witnessed a barrel-an-hour flow of 49.3-gravity oil after 30 minutes digging with an ordinary post-hole digger.

The discovery—source of oil still unknown—is located near the Colorado River a half-mile west of Colorado City. Greer said if the operator files an application with the commission he will tag the discovery "Sunflower Sand."

These are some of the typical questions callers, both local and long distance, asked: "Where is the tract?" "Who owns it?" "Has he gotten any dry holes?" "Do you need a permit to drill with post-hole diggers?"

Greer answered that if the operator has a dry hole he hasn't filed a plugging report.

"You just can't be sure whether it is seepage from some unknown source, or formation oil. You know how it is in West Texas—oil just about everywhere."

Burris, Kinsey, Kennedy and Dick Spencer entered the sprint medley relay for Midland, but the Bulldog team was forced to quit midway of the race due to faulty passing of the baton.

Lloyds Of London Decreases Life For Crippled Your Host

ARCADIA, CALIF. —(AP)— Your Host will live a little longer through the courtesy of Lloyds of London.

Owner William Goetz said Saturday night he had agreed to transfer title to the horse to the insurance company for $250,000. That was the amount of insurance carried on the crack Thoroughbred which broke his leg in a fall January 13.

Veterinarians for the insurance company—differing from the experts hired by Goetz—said they thought there still was a chance of saving the horse for stud purposes. Your Host, winner of 13 of his 23 starts, virtually has been a three-legged horse since fracturing his ulna bone. The Goetz veterinarians said the horse is in pain and a hopeless cripple.

Lamesa Manager Still Interested In Negro Ball Players

LAMESA —(AP)— Jay Haney, manager of the Lamesa Lobos of the West Texas-New Mexico League, said Saturday he has not decided against the use of negro ball players if the right player comes along.

Haney received threatening letters regarding negro players working out with his team.

Haney said two negroes still were working out with the club, but that none had been signed. He indicated it was unlikely that the pair now being tested would make the grade.

Haney declined comment on several threatening letters he said he had received from the Amarillo area except to say he was keeping them "for future reference if the need arises."

Most of the letters were unsigned, he said.

Baylor Wins Pair From Minnesota

WACO —(AP)— Baylor University gained momentum as the wild baseball game moved along to blast the Minnesota Gophers 13-1 here Saturday for a sweep of the two-game series.

Pinch-hitter Bobby Stotts started Baylor toward victory with a three-run homer in the fourth. Stotts doubled next time up. Joe Miles' triple, Larry Isbell's two-run single, three hits by Ken Williams and two safeties each by Buddy Parker and Keith O'Brien also figured in the victory.

Texas' first run was scored on a double by Frank Kana and Chili Eighan's line single in the second. Rice tied it in the next frame, scoring on Witt's double and Beard's two-out single.

The Steers iced the game in the fifth, scoring an unearned run. Pitcher Hand led off with a double, went to third on Shortstop Eddie Burrows' sacrifice, and scored on Owl Shortstop Doyle Beard's error.

The final Texas run scored in the sixth on Leader's wild pitch. Scoring was Leroy Jarl, who had walked.

ODESSA—Midland High School's golf team was off its usual game here Saturday, but captured the West Texas Relays Golf Tournament by out-shooting Lubbock, Odessa and Lamesa golfers.

The Midland team total was 330-11 strokes over the score that captured the Southwest Recreation Meet at Fort Worth two weeks ago.

It was the sixth meet of the year for the Midland team, which yet has to be defeated.

Lubbock and Odessa golfers shot 84 each for team total. Lamesa trailed with a 355 total.

Roane Puett's 76 was low for Midland. Other Bulldog scores were: Graham Mackey 78, Marcelino Moreno 81, Doyle Patton 83, Johnny Ward 86 and Raymond Leggett 88. Sam Adams paced Lubbock with a 77. G. Black of Lamesa led his team with 78 and Arlan Scott was Odessa's best, shooting an 80. Puett's 76 was good for medalist honors.

Possibly more points would have been scored if a Midland boy hadn't dropped the baton during a 440-yard relay race. Midland was yards ahead at the time.

Kid Gavilan Blasts Hairston, To Meet Bratton For Crown

NEW YORK —(AP)—"There goes the next welterweight champion of the world."

Mike Miele was talking Friday night about Kid Gavilan. A good many of the experts agree with him. The Cuban flash had just beaten Gene Hairston, Miele's fighter, in an exciting 10-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Miele thought his 21-year-old middleweight contender had earned at least a draw but all three officials voted for Gavilan, from 5-4-1 to 6-3-1 and 7-3. The AP score-board had Gavilan the winner 7-3.

Gavilan, too, is convinced he's going to be the next 147-pound champ. He got off to a good start in that direction Friday when he signed to meet Johnny Bratton, the NBA welterweight king, in the Garden May 18.

The New York Commission will recognize the winner as world champion.

Passing Of 20 Years Fails To Dim Memory Of 'The Rock,' Notre Dame's Gridiron Genius

SOUTH BEND, IND. —(AP)—The legend of the "Rock" still blunts the scythe of time.

Twenty years ago Saturday, 43-year-old Knute Rockne, Norwegian-born master of the American game of football, plunged to death in a Kansas plane crash.

The football world was stunned by the news that Notre Dame's famed coach, bald-domed man of electrifying personality and stanning psychology, met a tragic end in the midst of a brilliant career.

It could be expected the Rock's feat of guiding 13 Irish eleven to five undefeated, untied seasons and 105 victories against only 12 losses and five ties would wear well against the fame-dimming parade of years.

But 20 years have passed, a generation of football players not yet born when Rockne thrived has churned the turf on his beloved Irish campus, and still the memory of the man has a burning hold on the grid realm.

His name has been projected high in the voting in The Associated Press' all-time All-America poll, the coach selection of which will be disclosed April 11.

Master Of Phrases

Sunday, Notre Dame alumni throughout the nation will commemorate Rockne's passing by attending mass and communion breakfasts. On the campus here, 150 past and present students and friends will do the same and also visit the nearby cemetery for the traditional placing of a wreath on Rockne's grave.

That fatal plane crash came near Bazaar, Kan., March 31, 1931.

Master of the biting phrase and pulse-stirring halftime oratory, Rockne's coaching pinnacle probably was reached in the era of his famed Four Horsemen. Still football's most famous combination, "Horsemen" Harry Stuhldreher, Don Miller, Jim Crowley and Elmer Layden led the Irish to 27 victories in 30 games from 1922 through 1925.

The sight of Rockne's "Notre Dame shift," executed with the grace and precision of a ballet corps, did much to plant the roots of Notre Dame's phenomenal "curbstone alumni" from coast-to-coast.

READY — While Allen Gettel may not have two balls in his hand, this is expected to be a familiar sight in the National League bull pens this year. The Giants are counting upon the veteran right-hander as a relief worker. He won 23 while losing seven for the Oakland Coasters last trip, mostly as a replacement, after having been out until May 28.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL AT A&M TO TALK NEW COACH SUNDAY

COLLEGE STATION —(AP)—Texas A&M's Athletic Council meets Sunday to consider appointment of a new head football coach.

But Athletic Director Barlow (Bones) Irvin said it would be an informal meeting and he did not think any definite action would be taken.

"We are just going to get our heads together and talk over the situation," he said.

Harry Stiteler resigned several weeks ago after informing college officials he had not told the facts about a mysterious beating he received in Houston last December.

Earl Stewart Sets Blistering Pace To Grab Azalea Lead

WILMINGTON, N. C. —(AP)—Earl Stewart Jr., a 29-year-old Texas redhead, burned up the Cape Fear Country Club course with a blazing 33-32-65 Saturday to zoom into the third-round lead of the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament with a 208 total.

He was one stroke ahead of Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago veteran, whose 68 gave him 209 going into Sunday's last round. In third place at 210, after 71 Saturday, was Tommy Bolt, another Texan, who registers from Durham, N. C. He was one stroke ahead of Art Doering, Richmond, Va., and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., both of whom had 70 for 211.

Stewart, who 10 years ago won the National Intercollegiate title while playing for Louisiana State University, missed by one stroke the competitive record for the 6,832-yard course.

A sizzling putter gave him seven birdies and 11 pars. He opened with three birdies, sinking a 20-footer and following with two from 15 feet. After eight pars he went back to work on No. 12 where he dropped one from 10 feet for a birdie foug. On No. 13 a 50-footer found its way into the cup for a three; on 15 he had a standard pro "two-two" birdie and on 17 he smacked an eight iron within two feet of the pin for a birdie three.

Freddie January, 1950 A pro since January of last year, Stewart has followed the circuit all winter. His best effort was a tie for fourth, worth $700, at Greensboro last Monday.

He started the round in a tie for 11th place, four strokes from the lead, after rounds of 70 and 73. The top 20 and ties: Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, 70-73-65-208.

Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, 69-72-68-209.

Cohen—

Texas Stock Car Racing Association there Monday, he said.
They are purchasing his bullet proof sedan for $12,000. The car is to be returned to Texas, where it will be shown at various tracks.
Can't Break Word
This was a change in earlier plans for the three to fly to Tucson.
Mickey said that during the day he received a new offer of $16,000 for the sedan from the "president of Manila." He didn't clarify the title.
"But I've already closed the deal and I can't go back on my word," he said.
Mickey said W. H. Fryer, El Paso attorney, arrived during the day. Cohen said he would keep in touch with Fryer from Los Angeles, however, and continue with plans to file injunction proceedings against a House Crime Investigating committee of the Texas Legislature.
In El Paso, Fryer told The Times he hadn't been employed by Cohen. He said there definitely would be no action filed against the committee in El Paso, and that Mickey wasn't coming to Texas at this time.
Wants Protection
The committee has cited him for contempt for failing to appear at a hearing in Austin Tuesday.
"I won't go back to Texas until my attorney makes arrangements against any further arrests and harassments," Mickey stated heatedly.
He said he is willing to pay his own expenses on the trip, but first must obtain such protection.
"I called Attorney General (District Attorney) Long today to get a guarantee I would be treated right," he continued, but was unable to reach him. He said the call was not returned.
Cohen said he had received a call during the day from William Prescott Allen, a Laredo publisher. He said Allen had taken two full pages in an Austin, Texas, paper charging that the Texas committee subpoenaed and harassed Cohen to cover up for other things going on in Texas.
Allen earlier this week ran an ad of less than a page in both afternoon and morning editions of the Austin American—Statesman. It was a reprint of an editorial in his own Laredo Times. In it he said in part: "Mickey Cohen, in coming to Texas as he has stated, was a publicity screen by the corrupt politicians in order to cover up conditions Allen, Cohen Talk
The Laredo publisher confirmed he talked by phone to Cohen. He said Mickey had asked him to meet Cohen in Tucson next week. He said Mickey had asked the meeting because Mickey thought Allen might know why the Texas committee wanted to question him. Allen said he didn't think he would meet Cohen, but that he might.
He said he had told Cohen of a lawyer who would represent Cohen if Mickey needed one.
Mickey repeated his earlier statement that the only reason the "Texas people" are bothering him is to get publicity.
"They really don't need me," he said.
Cohen said he would return to Tucson Tuesday, and will stay at the nearby Del Rio Ranch.
The present owner of the drug store Harry Cohen will buy it, J. F. Hurlbut of Tucson. It is a medium sized establishment, and one in which Mickey undoubtedly will have to wait on customers.

Justice Douglas To Hike In Himalayas

PORTLAND, ORE.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said Saturday he plans a 400-mile hike in the Himalayas along the Tibetan border this summer.
He said he had received permission a few days ago from Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and would leave for India about July 1.
Douglas, an ardent mountain climber, was in Iran the last two summers and the Moscow radio said his mountain climbing was a blind for spying.
Manufacturers and wholesalers will be checked first, he said. Later, the drive will be extended to retail business.

Allied Tanks—

day. In announcing the crossing, the Eighth Army made no mention of a retirement. Presumably Republican forces remained on the north bank of the river.
The Chinese, who are reported preparing a massive Spring drive with 300,000 men just north of the parallel, continued heavy supply and troop movements by night.
Red Vehicles On Move
Allied pilots reported a total of 5,900 Communist vehicles were seen moving to and from the battle zone on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. Of 1,800 vehicles spotted Friday night, Fifth Air Force pilots claimed about 100 destroyed.
AP Correspondent William C. Barnard, on the critical central front, reported the Reds fell back from soldiers east and west of Chunchun. He said this, coupled with a notable increase of Communist movements behind the front, indicated the Reds were relieving units now on the line or withdrawing closer to the parallel.
Chunchun, only eight miles south of the parallel and 45 miles northeast of Seoul, is regarded as a logical jumping-off point for either an Allied drive north or a Chinese drive south. The Reds are within one mile of Chunchun at one point in well-prepared ridge positions.
To Unmask Chinese
The American tank patrols into North Korea were designed to unmask Chinese intentions.
One column clanked up the historic invasion route north of Uijongbu, through a narrow defile between steep hills.
The tanks sliced across rice paddies and churned through the Imjin River to avoid road mines.
At 10:21 a.m. the voice of the patrol commander, Lt. Col. Wilson M. Hawkins of Pascagoula, Miss., crackled over tank radios:
"We've made that crossing you all have heard about. Congratulations."
Lt. Isadore E. McClain, Roxbury, Mass., commander of the all-negro crew of the first U. S. tank across the line in four months, declared:
"I can't see any reason for not crossing. There's a job to be done and we ought to get on and do it."
One Patrol Unopposed
The other American tank patrol, commanded by Lt. Edward Crockett, of Oakland, Calif., crossed the parallel on the central front, north of the Chungpyong Reservoir. It met little or no resistance but retired before nightfall.
Most of the other actions during the day took place on the central front. The strongest resistance was east of Chunchun, where advancing Americans met a battalion sized Red unit guarding a series of steep ridges.
The Reds were driven from the hill after a 90-minute firefight.
The U. S. Eighth Army announced that casualties inflicted on the Reds through ground action Saturday totaled 625 killed or wounded—a low count.

The Fifth Air Force added another 100 casualties during the day in bombing and strafing attacks on 50 Korean towns and supply centers.

OPS Sets Drive For Strict Compliance With Price Orders

DALLAS.—(AP)—The regional Office of Price Stabilization Saturday announced a "drive to bring about strict compliance with price regulations" will begin Monday.
The drive was announced by John N. Touchstone, acting regional enforcement director for the OPS in Dallas. He said it will be part of a nation-wide program to bring about strict compliance.
OPS investigators, the announcement said, "will begin a systematic check of manufacturing and wholesale business houses throughout the Southwest to make sure they are keeping full price schedules and records required under the price control program."
In Dallas and Northeast Texas, investigators from the Dallas regional office will make the investigations, since the district office here has not been established.
In Rest Of State
In the remainder of Texas, as well as in Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas, investigators from OPS district offices will do the job. OPS district offices are at Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock, San Antonio, Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla., Little Rock, Ark., Shreveport and New Orleans, La.
"Our intention in this drive is to bring about strict compliance with price regulations," Touchstone said. "We are not interested in establishing a record of violations. What we are interested in is stabilizing prices through compliance with our regulations and orders."

Manufacturers and wholesalers will be checked first, he said. Later, the drive will be extended to retail business.

Iran Uprising Cited To Support Interim Tidelands Measure
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) Saturday cited the uprising in Iran as a reason why Congress should approve his "interim bill" on the hotly controverted offshore oil lands.
The Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, which O'Mahoney heads, is considering two bills on the valuable lands.
One measure, sponsored by 33 senators, would transfer ownership of the lands to California, Texas and Louisiana. The "interim bill" sponsored by O'Mahoney and Senator Anderson (D-NM) would recognize the paramount rights of the federal government to the off-shore area but would give some benefits to the states.

A Midland woman stopped by police headquarters Saturday night, accompanied by her four-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Gay explained that he was still there, booked for drunkenness and couldn't be released unless the wife—or somebody—put up a cash bond.
"Oh," answered the woman. "I don't want to get him out. My daughter and I have been to the movies and I just wanted to be sure he was still in jail before going home."

Wilson Urges Less Borrowing, Spending To Crimp Inflation.
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson Saturday night called on businessmen to halt unnecessary borrowing and spending and thereby deal a "major" blow to inflation.
Wilson urged a government campaign to whip up sentiment "throughout the business community."
The head man of the nation's vast defense buildup said he wants to get across the idea to corporate and business interests "that it is not in the public interest to either borrow or spend unnecessarily."
"An organized effort on their part to exercise restraint in borrowing and spending should be a major contribution to an anti-inflation program," he said in a letter to Secretary of Commerce Sawyer.
Other mobilization moves included:
1. A 30-day postponement of the National Production Authority's ban on the use of aluminum in more than 200 civilian products. It was to have been clamped on tomorrow.
2. NPA authorized use of defense priority ratings for obtaining materials needed in making farm equipment during June.
3. Secretary of Commerce Sawyer indicated a decision will be made by Monday on rubber allocation for April. The Senate Small Business Committee urged Friday that a proposed cut be abandoned.
4. NPA reserved 80 per cent of cotton duck production for defense-related orders, starting Sunday. The material goes into such military items as tents, tarpaulins, stretchers, cots.
5. NPA banned some uses of nickel in the manufacture of heating and cooking appliances, refrigerators, sewing machines and about 70 other civilian products.
6. NPA cut the percentage of molybdenum going into some stainless steels and banned it in other stainless steels. The alloy is being used widely as a substitute for tungsten, most of which formerly came from Red China and Korea.

Spring Floods Kill Nine; Thousands Driven From Homes
By The Associated Press
Spring floods caused death and destruction in many parts of the United States as March made a lion-like exit.
At least nine persons died—including Mary Louise Cordingley, 31, Iowa women's golf champion.
Thousands of persons were forced from their homes. Many climbed trees to escape the swirling waters.
Three non-fatal train accidents also were attributed to rain and floods.
The deep South, Midwest and East were hardest hit.

Colonel Milan N. Plavac said dogs will be inoculated and licensed by the city all this week for a total cost of $1.50.
The Shannon Veterinary Hospital and the Mills Veterinary Hospital will have attendants on hand every day this week to give the rabies shots.
Colonel Plavac said dogs under six months of age would not have to be inoculated.

Tito Says—

Some credence was given to the reported parachute drops inside Albania by previous statements from the official Albanian Telegraph Agency that Italian spies had parachuted into the country.
Borba's account was written by Vladimir Dedjier, one of Tito's top propagandists and former director of information.
Dedjier said the parachutists had come from Italy, where some 5,000 Albanian exiles now reside. There is a "Free Albania" movement among the exiles and they have held a long-running campaign of dropping leaflets over their wild and mountainous homeland.

The Borba article said the rebel planes from Italy met anti-aircraft fire and the government police forced the people to stay in their homes until all the anti-regime leaflets were collected.
"An attack on Albania would be for the U.S.S.R. a God-sent opportunity as an excuse for Soviet aggressive policy on the front," Dedjier said, "particularly when one bears in mind how much the U.S.S.R. has lost of its prestige as a peace-loving country from the time the government of the U.S.S.R. started to conduct an aggressive policy toward Yugoslavia."
Always a hotpot in the Balkans, Albania's strategic importance lies mostly in the fact that it guards a vital section of the Adriatic Sea. It has only 1,175,000 inhabitants, but its army is reported relatively large.

Since the split with once-friendly Yugoslavia, Albania's affairs have been reported clouded more and more under direct Russian control.

Tightened Election Laws Will Help Texas Fight On Crime, Declare Midland Women

Fighting crime organizations by keeping elections out of their control is the factor behind strengthening the state's election laws.
Three Midland women have returned from Austin, where they appeared with other groups in support of a bill to remove weaknesses and loopholes from election laws and principally to provide means of prosecuting illegal balloting.
Mrs. W. Y. Penn, election laws chairman for the League of Women Voters and a member of the State Election Laws Commission created by the Legislature to draft the proposed legislation; Mrs. J. E. Beakley, president of the Midland League of Women Voters, and Mrs. J. S. Roden spent several days at the capital in support of the measure.
Strongest point of the proposal, Mrs. Penn said, is to authorize the attorney general of the state to intercede in election contests and to prosecute fraud. Twenty-five prominent members of the league from over Texas appeared before legislative committees studying the bill.
Committee Approval
Mrs. Penn Saturday said she had been notified by Rep. Bill Stump, House sponsor of the legislation, that it would be approved by a House committee next Wednesday.
"With syndicated crime moving into Texas," she said, "it is even more important not to allow crooks to gain control of elections over the state."
More than 90 amendments to the multitude of present election laws have been recommended by the commission after more than a year's research and study.

One provision would disqualify as election officials employees or relatives of candidates.
Other changes to tighten the laws provide power to the secretary of State to send a messenger for election returns when a county judge fails to make a report, penalize anyone destroying ballots before expiration of a time required by law, authorize the Attorney General to investigate and prosecute election law violations when local authorities fail to do so and place venue in Travis County, set a filing fee for state candidates at five per cent of one year's salary, require candidates to file expense reports two days before elections, and making it unlawful for election officials to give out election returns before the polls close.
The commission proposed that the limit on campaign expenditures be removed and that candidates pay $3 for each 100 votes recounted at their demand.
The Texas League of Women Voters, headed by Mrs. Ed Kilman, Houston, president, and committees interested in the protection of voters and candidates, has been supporting this type of legislation for a number of years. The late Gov. Beauford H. Jester fostered creation of the election laws commission to make the study. It is composed of members of the legislature and lay members.

Crime Hullabaloo Finds Many Texas Cities Short On Qualified Policemen

By The Associated Press
The current hullabaloo about crime finds a shortage among Texas with the heaviest responsibility—the police.

Texas cities report the draft, reserve callups and defense industries are taking away their policemen. Qualified replacements are hard to find.

Sherman in North Texas has lost a third of its police strength since September. The force now is one man short, and there is no one on the eligible list.

Practically all losses have been to war plants, says Sherman Police Chief V. L. Brown. He said the situation "could become serious."

Not all cities are in trouble. Some with good police forces now, however, fear for the future.

The Panhandle city of Pampa, for instance, luckily has no draft age men on its force. Few laws for defense jobs because Pampa pays its cops unusually well. Patrolmen get from $215 to $235 a month.

But John Wilkinson, Pampa police chief, is worried about what will happen when high-paying jobs at Amarillo Air Force Base and the Atomic Energy Commission's Pantex ordnance job start beckoning.

Law Revision Asked
Texas lawmakers are being urged to solve the problem by amending the Civil Service law to permit hiring of men over 35. The bill was introduced by Senator Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo because of Amarillo's own difficulty in keeping its police ranks full.

Amarillo's Police Department has been shorthanded since the Korean war began. The situation is expected to worsen soon with reactivation of the Amarillo Air Force Base and other defense projects.

Marshall, in East Texas, probably has the highest rate of turn-over among policemen of any Texas city. The low starting pay is blamed by Ernest Smith, Civil Service Commission member.

In 1950, resignations from the Marshall force ran almost one a month. Three men have quit this year. Four left in 1949, eight in 1948.

Good salaries and a liberal pension system have kept the ranks almost full in Dallas. There are a few vacancies.

Applications Not Plentiful
"But applicants aren't so plentiful nor so well-qualified as they used to be," said W. F. Brogdon, assistant chief in charge of training and personnel. Dallas pays a recruit $220 a month during eight weeks of school, after which he gets $255.

At Corpus Christi, Police Chief Roy Lay said it is harder to get qualified replacements. Twenty recruitments have been hired since last July to compared to 14 in the previous nine months. There now are three openings.

Acting Police Chief Bill Lamb of Lubbock wants the maximum age raised from 35 to 40 or 41.

"I've lost four men in the last month," Lamb said. "Those four were reserve officers and have been recalled. Another was recalled into the Navy. Two others left to enter defense jobs."

The Lubbock police force has 87 men. Regulations call for 98. The Abilene police force is running six men short with no names left on the eligibility roster. Police Chief Raymond Eakins said half a dozen reservists were called to service, and about 10 men left for better paying jobs.

Junior High School Conditions Reflect City Schools' Needs

There's standing room only in the corridors of crowded John M. Cowden Junior High School.

Between classes, the area of the corridors allows only two and one-half square feet for a student, according to figures compiled Saturday.

School Supt. Frank Monroe revealed recently the urgent need of $1,350,000 in bonds for the expansion of the public schools.

Wesley Martin, principal of junior high, said the school's current enrollment is 941 students. They are being taught in 23 classrooms—an average of 41 to the room.

Principal Martin said the Texas Education Agency recommends a maximum of 28 to 30 students to a room.

Last year six sections of the sixth grade were removed from junior high, leaving 168 sixth-graders enrolled there. Before this removal the enrollment was 955.

Next year, Martin said, these sixth-graders will be enrolled in a new elementary school but this is not expected to relieve the situation.

"Our census shows that we already have an enrollment of 827 in next year's seventh and eighth grades alone and it can be expected to increase by at least 15 per cent during the Spring and Summer," Martin said.

The principal said his estimate of a reasonable enrollment in Cowden Junior High School would be 690 students, an average of 30 to a room.

If the voters approve the building plans for a new junior high school the operation would probably be under the regular 6-3-3 system, six grades in elementary school, three in junior high and three in high school.

The high school, built for a capacity of 1,000 students, now has an enrollment of 850. According to present census figures, 1,075 will enroll next term. This rate of increase will necessitate the moving of the ninth grade back to junior high in 1962, said Charles Mathews, high school principal.

Commodity Price Index Turns Upward
NEW YORK —(AP)—The Associated Press wholesale commodity index turned upward last week for the first time in three weeks, climbing to 212.74 from 212.20 last week-end.

A year ago the index was 159.75. The base year of this index of 35 important wholesale commodity prices is 1926, which equals 100.

Only one of the six commodity groups represented—foods—was lower this week. Textiles were unchanged, while industrials, livestock, grains, cotton and nonferrous metals advanced.

Phone Tip Paves Way For Arrest Of Escaped 'Con'

COLUMBUS, OHIO —(AP)—A phone tip to Warden Ralph Alvis of Ohio Penitentiary last week resulted in capture of Thomas E. Daren of Cleveland, two and a half years after he'd escaped from a work detail at the fatgrounds.

Daren was captured in Galveston, Texas, where he was working for an ice and fuel company. He was known to the company as Theodore Urban.

Alvis said Saturday a penitentiary officer will bring Daren back to the penitentiary this week.

Daren, who had served five years of a 10-to-25 year sentence for armed robbery, walked away from the detail in August, 1948.

Last Wednesday Alvis got a phone tip that Daren was working in Galveston under a different name. The warden notified Texas police and the Highway Patrol. Twenty-four hours later, Alvis received a telegram saying Daren had been caught, and that he had waived extradition.

LEGISLATION ON POOLING AGREEMENTS IS SIGNED

AUSTIN —(AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers Saturday signed a bill allowing an administrator or executor under control of the county court to commit royalties or other mineral interest to pooling agreements.

The new law, effective immediately, is by Senator R. A. Weinert of Seguin. It applies to oil, gas and other minerals.

Specially Designed For WEST TEXAS!

There are many reasons why Crestview Heights homes are meeting with the outspoken approval of Midland residents . . . the high ground on which they're located . . . paved streets and concrete curbs, gutters and walks . . . the Murray all-steel enameled kitchen cabinets . . . central heat . . . maple hardwood floors . . . colored stucco interiors . . . Cove ceilings . . . mahogany slab doors . . . Ware aluminum windows . . . blanket spun-glass insulation . . . 2 closets in each bedroom . . . and many other fine features.
 But the principal reason why people have been buying homes in Crestview Heights at a rate of more than one a day since we began selling them is the DESIGN. These homes have been created especially for West Texas . . . the modern, functional designing that is West Texas' own!

CRESTVIEW HEIGHTS

Correctly Shaped Glasses Add To Illusion Of Beauty

These glasses are beauty aids as well as sight-assisters. Frames highlighted with vertical trim in center (left) give illusion of slender nose to broad-bridged nose. Glasses beautified with horizontal ornamentation add apparent width to thin-bridged nose (right).

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

If you think your eye glasses don't do you justice, perhaps you should study the problem. Actually, they can serve just as cosmetic a purpose as your favorite lipstick.

Since illusion is such an important part of feminine beauty, there's no reason why it shouldn't extend to your glasses. Correctly shaped and ornamented glasses can seemingly correct many faults of nature.

For those whose features fall short of perfection, here are some hints on the selection of glasses worked out by a well-known optician.

First, examine your nose impartially. If your bridge is broad, your entire nose is likely to look heavy and blunt. Glasses with ornamentation placed vertically on their bridge create an illusion of a narrower line. Your nose appears slimmer and more graceful.

If your difficulty, on the other hand, is a too-narrow bridge which makes your eyes look close-

Millinery Magic For Your Outdated Straws

Realizing the spirit-lifting importance of a new spring hat, this young woman accepts her low budget as a challenge. To bring her last year's pill-box up to date, she begins (upper left) by drawing circles that will later be shaped into vari-sized cones. Yellow felt is the fabric for small side-placed cones (lower left) which are complemented by matching bead-eyed daisies dotted on chin-strap.

not an involved hocus-pocus involving special professional skills, but a simple technique almost any woman can imitate.

He uses fabric cones in an endless variety of shapes and sizes. Nothing could be easier to duplicate at home, he assures amateur designers.

Borrow a classroom compass from your teen-ager and from then on your millinery problem is one of simple arithmetic.

The first step in making a cone, Marshall says, is the drawing of a circle on the material of your choice. Size will vary according to the individual dimensions given for each hat.

For three of them, you'll need buckram cones for interlining and stiffening. From buckram circles, cut pie-shaped wedges according to instructions, then sew the cut cover veil. Pink silk with black polka-dots is used for large cone (center) perched aslant for coolie-hat effect. A cone of turquoise velvet, enhanced with cage veil, gives new forward movement to pill-box (upper right), while a black velvet peak and fan-shaped hat pins add a touch of the Oriental (lower right). Silk and velvet cones are formed on buckram for body and shape.

edges back together. Whip a length of fine wire along the bottom edge of the cone for added support.

To avoid seams in your covering material, shape the fabric onto the buckram by pulling first on one bias and then on the other. Turn excess material under and hem. If the covering fails to shape out smoothly, it may be necessary to cut out a wedge, as you did in making your buckram cone, and re-seam.

Marshall adds height and a hint of the oriental to a pastel straw which is centered at the front of the pill-box and enclosed in a case. A stiff veil, coaxed into a semicircular shape with a hot steam iron and a bit of persuasive finger shaping is tacked into place, before the cone is sewed on, to halo your face.

Finishing touches are large fan-shaped hat pins, which may be to your hat. This requires a buckram cone base, made from a 13-inch circle with a five-inch wedge removed. A matching polka-dot scarf completes the ensemble.

APRIL BRIDE—Mr. and Mrs. Mark T. Walker announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Billie Marthelle, to Victor F. Chancellor, Jr., of Midland. Chancellor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor F. Chancellor, Sr., of Caracas, Venezuela, South America. The wedding will take place April 21 in the First Methodist Church.

Felt cones, for the fourth hat, have enough body to require no buckram. Cut them from four-inch circles with two-inch wedges removed.

Perfume For Daily Use

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Since much of the pleasure of wearing perfume lies in sniffing your own favorite scent as you go about your daily tasks, those women who reserve fragrances for special occasions are missing half the fun.

Wear perfume for yourself, as well as for others. You'll find Perfume touch-ups at the office aid this young woman in making her perfume an everyday personality accent.

Your spirits lifted each time a movement wafts the fragrance to your nostrils.

Daily use of perfume is one means of marking your own individuality. It's a good idea to select a scent that you feel matches your personality, and wear it so consistently that your family and friends always think of you whenever they smell roses, carnations or whatever.

Your taste may not run to floral scents. In that case, choose something more to your liking. You're the one to be pleased.

It's well to remember, however, in selecting your day-in, day-out perfume that a light spicy scent or a fresh, breath-of-flowers one is less likely to grow tiresome than

PROOF of its healing power

The way to health and harmony among men is earnestly and unselfishly sought by both Science and Religion.

Many divergent methods confront mankind. But the claims of all ultimately submit to one test—the test of proof.

The final chapter in the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, consists of 100 pages of unselected testimonies from persons healed by reading this book alone.

All testimonies have been carefully authenticated. All manner of diseases and discord has been cast out permanently and promptly. This is the proof that Christian Science provides of its healing power.

Washable Slacks And Blouses

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Washable wool, cut into slacks and blouses, has an obvious practicality. It can be laundered without worry over shrinkage.

A new process that makes wool washable also makes it color-fast. Thus, it can be laundered often and still turn up looking fresh and new.

Washable wool is used by designer Carol Caldwell of California for the slacks and blouses that are so typical of California and so right for leisure hours elsewhere, too.

Astoria Virginia Mayo, who owns a ranch in the San Fernando Valley, likes washable wool for ranch life. It's easily cared for and it can take real wear. She likes it, too, when she goes sailing, since there's no harm done if the wool is soaked by spray.

Miss Mayo wears, left, Carol Caldwell's washable red-and-navy wool sailing suit with boxy middy blouse and knee-length pants. The blouse, which slips over the head, has large, boxy pockets. Neckline is made adjustable by a zipper closing.

Washable gray flannel slacks and gold jersey blouse worn, right, by Miss Mayo are neatly tailored. Slacks nip in at the waist, button sailor-fashion. Blouse buttons from waist to high neck, has sleeves with easy cut.

Good grooming is a simple and convenient matter for those who use these two-in-one cosmetics, particularly when the make-up is packaged in compact cases such as those offered by one well-known firm.

P-TA Study Group Completes Course

A 12-hour study course on "Growing Toward Maturity" was completed Thursday by the Junior High P-TA Study Group when it met in the home of Mrs. Ellison Tom.

As a study guide the group used the list of topics in the National P-TA magazine. Guest speakers have been a consultant from the University of Texas, Holly Friberg and Mrs. Monetta Brown.

Members who have completed the course are Mrs. Bob Wood, Mrs. Sherwood O'Neal, Mrs. Tom, Mrs. Jack Ewing, Mrs. Stanley Erskine, Mrs. Loyd Mills and Mrs. Vernon Bottoms.

When you are preparing a hearty salad of kidney beans let the beans marinate in a zesty French dressing for an hour or more before serving. When using canned beans for the salad some cooks like to rinse them under cold water before tossing with the dressing.

Some cooks like to let frying-size pieces of chicken marinate in sour cream seasoned with garlic, lemon juice, salt and pepper and Worcestershire sauce before cooking.

Low-Priced Pelts Are Well Designed

Each of these little furs for spring makes fashion news. The navy blue mole triangle (left) goes with everything, is high-fashion for budget money. Three-skin fisher scarf (center) marks the first time in many years that fisher has been available in any quantity. Red mole cardigan sweater (right) is very light, is budget-priced, is no longer a design available only at couturier furriers.

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—Furs have lately become an all-year fashion. There are little furs for Spring, light furs for Summer, all kinds and sizes for Autumn and Winter.

There's real fashion news in little furs for this Spring. The fur industry has become aware that the average woman likes to own a fur or two but that she can't wait all her life to buy a mink coat with pennies trimmed from her household money.

For the average woman, then, these new furs are designed. They are light, small and handsome. They're as well designed and detailed as far more expensive furs. And most of them are within reach of practically any modest income.

A beautiful navy blue mole triangle, for example, is a fur that any woman could wear almost from dawn to midnight. Lined in red silk taffeta, it's very high fashion. For the woman who can afford only one inexpensive fur, it's ideal. And it's equally useful for the woman who wants a small, extra fur. Flexible enough in design to be worn several ways, it can add interest to any Spring costume.

The red mole cardigan sweater, very light and very supple, is a new addition to the list of small furs available to the average woman. Formerly, the fur sweater could be had only by going to a couturier furrier. But furriers have found mole flexible to work on and easy to dye.

The straight cardigan sweater, simple in design, is edged in silk braid. It can see wear with slacks, casual clothes or evening dresses and thus is companion to three-fourths of the clothes in a woman's wardrobe.

Baby fisher, made into a three-skin scarf, is not inexpensive. But it's in the small fur news this Spring because, for the first time in years, it's available in some quantity. It's within reach of the average woman, true, but only if she can talk herself into spending on such a scarf what she'd normally spend for a good fur coat. Fisher is a sophisticated fashion fur but, since it's also durable, it can be counted a good investment.

To make hot mustard to go with Chinese egg rolls just mix four tablespoons dry mustard with three tablespoons of water and stir until smooth. Serve this mustard with other Chinese dishes, too.

McMurry College Indian Band Plays Here Sunday

ARILENE—With war threatening enrollments, public relations is increasing in importance on college campuses.

And at McMurry College, officials consider Raymond T. Bynum's Indian Band one of the best agencies in the public relations business. The band will play at the First Methodist Church of Midland Sunday night. Starting time is 7 p.m.

Success of the 48-member band has been attributed to one particular quality — versatility. Sacred music, Latin American rhythms and popular swings are played with equal ability.

Already the group has made more than 70 public appearances since September, playing for everything from a World Communion Day service in an Amarillo church to an International Students' Friendship Day celebration in Eagle Pass last February 22.

Already "seasoned" television performers after a program presented last Spring over KRLD-TV in Dallas, band members presented a 30-minute television show over KOTV in Tulsa before the McMurry-University of Tulsa football game.

Plenty of versatility is exhibited on the average concert tour. Typical was the group's recent four-day visit to Eagle Pass and Piedras Negras: three high school assembly programs, two concerts of sacred music in churches, a parade, an "international friendship" concert in Mexico, a variety musical show and a formal night concert for the citizens of Eagle Pass.

At the Eagle Pass celebration, the McMurry musicians played before several hundred high school students, members of 10 high school bands attending the festivities. A week later, 2,000 high school students heard the Indian bandmen play at the annual Heart O' Texas Band Festival in Brady. Twenty-two high school bands attended that celebration.

A decided Latin American flavor is observed in the band's performances this year, as usual. Serapes and sombreros were bought in Mexico when the band was there on tour two years ago. An even more definite touch of authenticity has been the addition this semester of Servando Trevino, freshman from Santa Barbara, Chihuahua, Mexico. He is marimba soloist and a member of the band's percussion section.

Music Study Club To Present Pianist

ODESSA — Odessa's Federated Music Study Club will present Leo Sirota, international concert pianist, at 8 p.m. Friday in the high school auditorium.

Sirota came to America in 1947 to make his debut in Carnegie Hall. He was then appointed artist, piano teacher of St. Louis Institute of Music. His program will include two sonatas by Scarlatti, "Chorus of Deryshes," Beethoven; "Turkish March," Beethoven; "Variations On A Theme of Paganini," Brahms; "Three Etudes," Chopin; "Nocturne In C Minor," Chopin; "Scherzo In B Flat Minor," Chopin; Polonaise In A Flat Minor, Chopin; "Two Preludes," Jose Antonio; "Soneto 47 del Petrarca," Liszt, and "Rhapsodie," Liszt.

★ TEEN TALK ★
By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

There's nothing to beat practical experience when seeking a job, as most girls find out.

Girls studying home economics at Saegerstown, H. S., Pa., are going to be slightly ahead of their competition this year, however, when they graduate and seek jobs or go on to college—they're part of a fine job training experiment, which gives them some business experience in between classes.

Each Home Ec. senior spends two weeks working at four different jobs. She gets no pay, but in return for work her temporary employer teaches her as much about his business as can be crammed into two weeks.

It is the kind of a program which should appeal to any girl. And besides giving her a whiff of the business world, she can decide whether she is suited to the grind. Not To These Girls

Work in a frozen food locker plant might seem a little far fetched but not to these girls who consider that the same general process used in the plant applies to deep freezing food in home devices. They also learn how to process meat from the time it is slaughtered until it is ready for the table. They can cut steaks and other meat.

The general store has lots of appeal and gives good training, as it has everything from "nails to hair-nets" as one girl puts it.

Hardware terminology is another thing again, and while the girls do not pretend to know everything about hardware after two weeks, they've learned a lot.

At a home furnishings store the girls even do book work and sit in on sales conferences. And of course the piece de resistance two-week assignment is at Cal's dairy bar where the girls master the fine art of concocting a sundae or flipping a hamburger.

New Vocabulary
Every once in a while we learn that teen-agers drum up a new vocabulary, not quite as gay and colorful as that in vogue a few years back, but descriptive nevertheless.

Houston, Texas, students have a little new lingo other young people might like to hear about:

"Hold a flag" is a phrase used in a somewhat scornful manner to someone who is proclaiming a fact which is fairly common knowledge.

"Well, send up a rocket" is a rebuff to a boastful friend . . .

"What's to it, dumplin'?" replaces "Whatcha know, Joe?"

"Sure, Bert" is another shushup for a smart-aleck friend.

"Hot Rocks" are right guys.

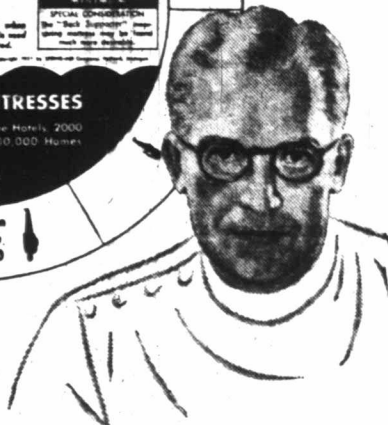

Romance often is indicated by a girl and boy exchanging their identification bracelets. "Going steady" sometimes is subtly announced by wearing matching sweaters.

Too much jewelry is considered junky. Suede loafers rate a "fine-o." Heavy cosmetics are taboo for girls "in the know," a dash of lipstick and a bit of powder sees Betty Co-ed through even the most important social events.

Inspired By Desert Sands

Bold patterns and vivid colors strike the theme for a new group of belts and matching beach bags for resort and summer wear. Authentic Arabian tent stripes are reproduced (left) on a crushable belt with dramatic five-inch buckle. A belt in African tent stripes (center right) has jet hook closing and matching over-the-shoulder pouch bag. Small leopard print on val-d'ay canvas makes leather-bound contour belt (right) paired with a matching shopping bag trimmed in capeskin.

NEW YORK—The sands of the Sahara and the jungles of Africa are the inspiration for a new group of belts and matching beach bags for resort and summer wear.

Authentic Arabian tent stripes and Somali leopard patterns are reproduced on 100 per cent val-d'ay cotton canvas to make these belts and bags for beach and spectator sports wear.

Belts begin with narrow tubular dog leashes and grow to a spectacular five-inch crushable size, fine for accenting solid color cottons. The bag styles emphasize two dominant designs: the over-the-shoulder pouch bag with natural rope drawstring and the shopping bag type. Both bags have waterproof linings. Belts and bags are trimmed in shining black patent or in brightly colored cape, the leather used sometimes as a slim binding and sometimes as buckles or wide bandings.

A wide crushable belt in vivid Arabian tent stripes pulls through a five-inch buckle with the pointed end of the belt falling diagonally to one side. The colors in this belt, which is lined with bright taffeta, range from golden sand to desert rust.

Another belt, three inches wide, is in African tent stripes with a jet hook closing. The gleam of this closing is picked up by the black patent which trims a matching over-the-shoulder pouch bag with rope drawstring.

Small leopard print makes a leather bound contour belt with matching shopping bag trimmed in soft capeskin. The print is in a combination of chamol, brown, black and white.

Workers Move From England To Ontario

TORONTO (AP)—A heavy movement of technical and skilled workers from England to Ontario is under way by sea and air and is expected to be in high gear by mid-April.

Ontario officials dealing with immigration said eight ocean liners have been mustered to bring the immigrants across the Atlantic Ocean in groups of 400 and 500. One United States ship has been diverted to call at Halifax to handle the traffic. Trans-Canada Air Lines is landing about 150 persons a week and has a waiting list of about 1,400.

The MATURE PARENT

Child's Bad Report Card Could Be Our Own Failure

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
We shall find it difficult to love our children wisely if we do not love ourselves.

The wise men of modern mental hygiene tell us that unless we love ourselves, we cannot love others. What they know confirms someone still wiser, who made loving ourselves the measure of the love he asked us to give our neighbors.

A boy in trouble for persistent truancy from home spoke for all children whose parents dislike themselves when he cried: "I can't live with her! She never knows what to do! Why can't she stop asking me to tell her what she ought to do?" This mother distrusted her ability to make good decisions because the malice and jealousy of a step-father had convinced her she was an incompetent and worthless person.

Superstition of the Middle Ages taught us that demons could be cast out only by calling them by their right names. If we want to break the spells of weakness and ineffectiveness placed on us by the modern demons of jealousy, malice and envy, we must learn to recognize them and their influence on our confidence.

Until we know how to identify these destroyers of our authority over our children, self-love will be difficult to attain.

Need Battle Experience
Without battle experience with these enemies, we won't be able to claim our own right to consideration or teach our youngsters how to claim theirs.

Without battle experience, we won't be equipped to give helpful counsel on discouragement to a daughter who hasn't been invited to join the sorority of her dreams. We won't be able to point out the hazards of false pride to a son who tries to "borrow" money from us because he has boasted to a friend that his allowance is bigger than it is.

When we have been out in a storm, we take great care to discard our wet clothing in case wearing it reduces our resistance to illness. Old impressions we have acquired that tell us we are unworthy of love should be discarded, too, as threats to our children's growth—and our own maturity.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Skelton

Mr., Mrs. Skelton To Observe Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

Fifty years of marriage will be observed next Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Skelton of Paul, parents of four sons and four daughters.

The observance will be celebrated at an all-day open house at the home of a son, James C. Skelton, 919 North Dallas Street. Friends and members of the family, including 25 grandchildren and two great-grandsons, will attend the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Skelton were married April 7, 1901, in Delta County, where they operated a farm until moving to West Texas in 1906. They have lived in Snyder, Westbrook and for a year in New Mexico and Midland, and farmed until 1935. The husband operates a grocery and service station at Paul. He is 71 and his wife is 68.

Long wedded life is the result of "give and take," Skelton said.

Their sons are James C. Skelton, Midland; Delmar E. Skelton and Ralph Skelton, both of Terminal; and Raymond Skelton of Fort Davis. Daughters are Mrs. Rose M. Smith, Spur; Mrs. Vera May Estep, Notrees; Mrs. Alton Towery, Midland, and Mrs. Clara V. Bailey, Albany.

Families who own their homes enjoy larger dwellings on the average than renters. The median size of owner-occupied homes is 5.3 rooms compared with a median of 3.8 rooms for renters.

What's RIGHT?
A friend's daughter who has married and moved away comes home for a visit with her parents.

WRONG: Wait for her to come and see you.

RIGHT: Call on her to welcome her back.

You are so self-conscious that you hate to stand up in a meeting and express your ideas.

WRONG: Give in to the feeling, always avoiding such painful experiences.

RIGHT: Make yourself overcome your shyness by doing the thing you fear to do.

PARIS (NEA)—Like any good hostess, Paris is getting out her best gowns for the parties she'll be giving this Summer for the 2000th birthday.

There's just one big hitch: nobody's sure how many tourists-guests Paris will have at the celebration.

It's anybody's guess, says Harry Hill, American Express manager, "Right now future reservations in the U. S. are away down. They may jump way up after Easter, but nobody knows." He thinks many families are waiting to see how the draft affects them before they make any plans for a European vacation.

The Commissariat au Tourisme—official tourist bureau—is confused, too, since reports from its agents in the U. S. and other countries which keep France's tourist trade going are contradictory.

Hope Expressed
Nevertheless, they are hopeful. "If the international situation remains unchanged," says one official, "it is probable the 1951 season will be just as good as 1950."

This in itself is not much icing for a 2,000-year-old lady's birthday cake, but Paris hotel owners are looking forward to some extra tidbits apart from the regular tourist season.

They figure the Festival of Britain will draw a large number of Americans who will eventually cross the Channel for a few days in Paris. The Boy Scout Jamboree, which takes place in July in Austria, is scheduled to wind up here.

The American Society of Travel Agents will hold its annual convention abroad for the first time this Fall—in Paris. And the Fall United Nations meeting is now almost a sure thing for Paris, bringing a minimum of 1500 people with a definite spending potential.

Psychological Factors
As for ordinary tourists, French authorities are counting on "psychological factors" to bring them in. One such is the idea that this year may be the last chance to see Europe, before another war. Another is that as U. S. restrictions cut down consumer goods they leave more money available for trips abroad.

Most French hotel-keepers are going all out to attract Americans. They realize that U. S. tourists spent $41,400,000 in France in 1950, and that's revenue they like to keep expecting. So hotel owners are going all out to cater to American whims like sanitation, twin beds, soft pillows and showers.

All French businessmen are being cautioned that the touring Americans aren't all wealthy, that most are actually traveling on a tight budget.

Americans, on the other hand, must realize that France's cost of living is almost as high as that in the U. S. This is especially true of Paris' luxury hotels and restaurants. The only thing that remains free and untaxed is Parisian atmosphere.

And this year, with a 2000th birthday to celebrate, the atmosphere will be a genuine bargain.

Ancient Mexicans often worshipped trees and many tree shrines were destroyed by the Spaniards after the conquest of Mexico.

Young Wife Is Not To Blame If Son Neglects His Parents

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

The most common complaint I get from mothers-in-law against daughters-in-law is that the daughter-in-law does all the deciding about how much time the couple spends with his parents and with her parents. And furthermore, her parents always get the best of it.

For that fact the daughter-in-law is thoroughly disliked. Yet the mothers who put full blame on the daughter-in-law when young people are neglectful of the husband's parents aren't being honest with themselves.

What kind of sons have they bought up—that they don't dare see their parents as often as they like? If it means enough to him any husband can say to his wife: "We spent our last vacation with your parents. I think we should spend this one with mine." Or, "Mother and dad haven't been over to dinner in a long time. Let's have them over tomorrow night."

Is Daughter To Blame? If the son doesn't care enough to take a stand or is so weak-willed he is afraid to, should the mother honestly blame her daughter-in-law for that?

But if a young man married a girl who doesn't see things that way it is up to him to set her straight. If he doesn't, he is to blame for the neglect of his parents. But try to make the mother of a son see it that way. It is so much more comforting to blame the daughter-in-law for the son's shirking of a responsibility because that doesn't reflect on his upbringing.

New Liquid Kills Roaches and Ants

RECENT EXPERIMENTS in state universities have indicated that the cockroach is a possible carrier for the polio virus. In any event, the roach is just about the most repulsive pest the housewife has to contend with.

Science has just come forth with a new discovery that kills roaches and ants, and that stays effective for months. It is called Johnston's NO-ROACH, and is just as simple and easy to use as it looks. Just brush this colorless, odorless, stainless coating around baseboards, kitchen cabinets, near the stove, icebox, sink, etc. Brushed across window sills and door sills, NO-ROACH kills ants and insects that crawl into the home from the outside. Insects that walk across the invisible coating slowly become paralyzed and die, then this application stays effective for months to kill the strays that wander in.

Johnston's NO-ROACH contains no DDT, no sodium fluoride, and no phosphorus. No more messy powder sprinklings, or all-over spraying when you start controlling roaches, ants, and waterbugs, this modern NO-ROACH way.

Recreation And Rest Keep Actress Fit

Ginger Rogers combines fitness with fun in a program designed to keep her weight low, her spirits high. Tennis playing (left) and swimming (upper center) provide both exercise and recreation. Rest on terrace in company of her sheep dog, Fudge, helps build energy reserves (lower center). Well-chosen foods (right) contribute to beauty, serve as fuel for vigorous activities.

By GINGER ROGERS
Written for NEA Service

Keeping fit is, for an actress, a matter of bread-and-butter. Long hours, hard work, many extra demands on time and energy mean that the actress who doesn't bother to keep fit can't keep up the pace very long. Staying in shape has its own rewards: glowing health, clear skin, firm muscles, the ability to enjoy living.

This matter of keeping fit is just as important for housewives and career women as it is for an actress. I don't exercise. But let me explain that. I don't mean that I stay fit by lolling on a sofa or by eating bon-bons. I just mean that I'm not the type to leap out of bed in the morning, shove open the window all the way, take a deep breath and start deep knee bending. It works for some people, but not for me.

My exercise comes through competitive games played chiefly in the fresh, open air. I like golf, table tennis and tennis. I have both a tennis court and a swimming pool on the grounds of my Hollywood home, and I make frequent use of both.

I've never had tennis lessons. I couldn't spend hours batting a ball against a wall; the idea seems dull. And I've never had time for lessons. I just like to play. As for swimming, it's refreshing and it's fun.

Aside from these sports, I like to spend some of my time out-of-doors sunbathing. I feel better when I'm tanned, and then, too, I like the healthy look that out-of-doors people always have.

I have no theories about food or diet. I always eat to feed my hunger and not my appetite. Fortunately, I enjoy fresh fruit and vegetables and milk products. The fact that I have a soda fountain in my house is indicative of my fondness for ice cream and all of its accompaniments.

I find that I have a tendency to eat more nourishing food when I'm engaged on a musical dancing pic-

Spring's No Time For Loafing—It's Housecleaning Season!

By PATTE ABBOTT
Let the poets sing about the long, lazy days of Spring. Women know better. For them, the warm, sunny days mean rolling up their sleeves and digging into that Spring housecleaning.

Midland women have varied opinions about just how and when this should be done. One woman remarked wistfully that she always tried to wait until the dust storms were over, but she added she was no weather prophet and her efforts at crystal-ball gazing were more often doomed to failure than not.

Neither of the above methods appealed to the next person interviewed. "With me," she explained, "it's a sort of Spring fever. I just do it when the spirit moves me."

In fact, more than one confessed to a bit of misadventure that would make efficiency experts shudder. It wasn't that they didn't get the house clean, they said, it was just that they never knew how they did it.

MIDLAND'S LEADING FLORISTS

Operation housecleaning now was beginning to take shape. Your reporter had talked to a countless number of women and had found an equally countless number of opinions on the proper time for beginning the task. Replies ranged all the way from the superstitious to the scientific.

A newcomer to Midland told us her Spring housecleaning was always clocked by the arrival of those official harbingers, the robins. Her companion, though, was more skeptical. "You mean a robin is the first sign of Spring?" she asked. "I've lived in West Texas all my life and I thought it was a dust storm."

Your reporter left hastily on the pretext of pursuing a prospect across the street. This time a new angle was tried. The question was not so much when, as how, Midlanders went about their yearly cleaning. And here again the answers were varied.

Some preferred doing it piecemeal, a room at a time, while others liked to take a deep breath and get the whole thing over at once. A few turned the job over to maids, but more of them took a hand in it themselves. And there also were a few hardy souls who claimed they loved the work or, at least, the satisfaction they felt when they had finished.

As one of them remarked, "It's really worth the struggle just to convince myself that Winter is over. After that, it's Spring to me even if there are icicles on the garden furniture for the next two weeks."

After interviewing something like 20 people, your reporter tried in vain to sort the answers and draw some kind of conclusion. The only thing the victims seemed to have in common was the belief that the job had to be done sometime.

No, there was one exception. One Midlander dared to be different. When asked about her plans for the seasonal ordeal, she said, "I think I'll just sit this year out."

Banquet Honors YWA Members

The Business Women's Circle of the First Baptist Church gave an organizational banquet for the Young Women's Auxiliary Friday night in the recreational hall.

Mrs. Collye Walgren was master of ceremonies. The program was opened with prayer by Martha Scharbauer, Sue Huett, social chairman, welcomed the guests.

Shirley Beattie, youth director of the First Baptist Church, was guest speaker. DePhane Tabor gave a reading and Nellvree Clark spoke on "Joys of YWA." Peggy Greathouse sang, accompanied by Lynn Griffin. The meeting was closed with a prayer by Swan Hagler.

Temporary officers were appointed by Lola Farnsworth. Others attending were Helen and Chris Heidelberg and Barbara Long.

Use plentiful honey for family meals: It's delicious spread on hot buttered toast for breakfast.

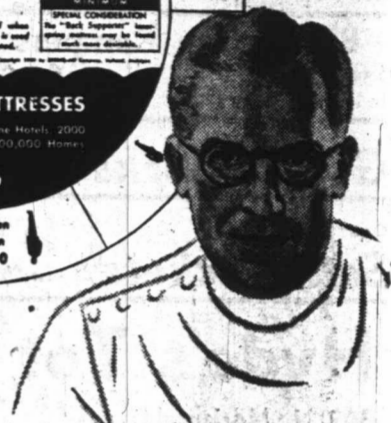

Give chicken ample time to get done when you are broiling it. A two-pound chicken (dressed weight), when broiled at moderate heat, will probably need from 35 to 45 minutes if it is to cook evenly to the bone.

Medicated Cosmetics An Aid

Combating her skin blemishes on a 24-hour schedule, this young woman washes her face before each meal and again at bedtime.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

She applies medicated cream (center) for treatment at night, and uses medicated lotion (above) for makeup base during the day.

Women with imperfect skin often feel they are fighting a losing battle. For every blemish they down with treatment at night, two pop up during the daytime hours when make-up must be worn.

One possible answer for this is the pair of medicated cosmetics offered by a leading beauty firm. These include not only a cream for application at night, but also a lotion which carries on the good work during the day, according to their makers.

Infection, it's a good idea to avoid using them for your face until your blemishes are cleared up. Dry your face after each washing with a fresh linen towel or with fluffs of sterile cotton. Pat on a fresh application of medicated lotion.

Actress Values Smooth, Supple Hands

Film star Gene Tierney credits the beauty of her hands to constant care rather than a lavish, time-consuming routine. Her daily grooming tricks include generous applications of lotion after frequent hand-washings (left) and the wearing of gloves each time she goes out (right). Her hands gain grace and suppleness (upper center) from piano playing, and smoothness (lower center) from overnight cream treatments each week. Old white gloves protect bedding as she sleeps; guard book pages during bedtime reading

By GENE TIERNEY
Written for NEA Service

As an actress, I consider my hands among my most valuable assets. And as a woman, I feel they're equally important. Even when I'm relaxing between pictures, I make a point of keeping up my hand-care routine. Graceful, well-groomed hands are quite as vital to my role as wife and mother as they are to my character interpretations before the camera. Actually my hand beauty program is a very simple one. I would never have the patience, I fear, for an elaborate procedure involving a lavish output of time and energy. My secret, if it can be called that, is persistence. I have learned from experience just what's necessary to keep my hands smooth and supple, and I perform these small chores faithfully. A few seconds of care can add up to hours of hand loveliness, I've found. For instance, I remember to wash my hands often. This prevents the roughened fingertips that result from ground-in-dirt. A sandpaper handclasp never enhances a woman's charm.

To keep my hands from drying out as the result of these frequent clean-ups, I always smooth on hand-lotion as an automatic finish to my hand-washings. I prefer a lotion that's quick-drying and non-sticky. I also apply a protective coating of lotion each time I go out. This helps guard my hands against reddening and chapping. I never leave my home without gloves on—not in my hands. They serve as additional protection against cold and grime. My weekly hand program is as uncomplicated as my daily routine. This consists simply of an overnight cream treatment, which I attend to on the one evening a week I set aside for beauty tasks. Just before retiring, I smooth a rich cream onto my hands and massage it well into the pores. Then I pull on a pair of old white gloves to keep grease stains off the bedding. I also find the gloves good protectors for my books as I turn pages during my usual bout of bedtime reading.

Pastor Sued After Alleged Warning On Atomic War

BURBANK, CALIF. —(AP)—Eight elderly church members have come down from their mountain retreat and filed suit against their pastor they said told them atomic war was coming. They claimed in superior court that President Jerry Hauff of the Full Gospel Assembly in Christ, at Van Nuys, induced them to sell their homes in 1947 to give him cash to establish a hideout in Angeles National Forest. Their suits ask return of $82,000 in promissory notes. Enos and Orella Engelbrecht, Calvin Burton, Carrie Odigard, Emma Bartels, Bessie Pletcher and Martha and Clarence Gill, who brought the charges, say Hauff claimed to have received messages from God that a great atomic war was coming. They all moved to Eden City, Hauff's ranch near Acton. There they stored food in caves, lived in houses with no water or toilet facilities and worked 83 hours a week doing farm chores, they asserted.

TIMELY RUNAWAY

REGINA —(AP)—When a team of horses bolted from the railway tracks in a heavy snowstorm at Kronau, they saved the life of farmer Guy McGill, who was in the enclosed sleigh and did not see a freight train that missed him "by inches."

Pittsburgh Glass Says New Paint Is Revolutionary

A revolutionary new interior paint that has unusual decorative qualities combined with the rugged durability and washability of an enamel and yet possessing the appearance and usefulness of a flat wall paint, was announced here Saturday by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. The new product, to be known as Wallhide Rubberized Satin Finish, is described by C. C. Smith, manager of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, as having properties never before obtainable in a wall coating. "It has rubber-like characteristics with a distinctive sheen that is low enough to make it suitable for use in any room of the home."

"One of the outstanding advantages of this new finish is that it requires no special primer because it acts as its own primer. Exceptional ease of application with no brush pull enables anyone to do an excellent paint job with this ready-to-use product. It may be applied by brush, spray or roller coater on any interior wall or ceiling surface including new or old plaster, paint, wallpaper, wallboard, brick, concrete, cinder block, wood, or primed metal. Grease, crayon, lipstick, finger smears, and ink spots may be easily removed from the painted surface because the rubber-like film prevents such materials from penetrating the surface," Smith said. Smith also said that Wallhide Rubberized Satin Finish will fill a special need for hotels, hospitals and other institutions where quick-drying of paints is an important factor. The finish dries in one hour to a smooth, velvet-like sheen without apparent brush or spon marks. If a second coat is desired, it may be applied in four hours. "The development of this new finish with its distinctive properties was dependent to a large degree upon the availability of synthetic latex in a form that could be adapted by technologists to practical finishing needs. The special properties embodied in Wallhide Satin Finish insure a new order of resistance to soap and water. Dirt and stains are easily removed and there is equal appeal in the convenience of easy cleaning of brushes, rollers and equipment by washing out quickly in soap and water. Hands, too, clean up in this easy way," according to Smith. Complete Color Line Wallhide Rubberized Satin Finish will be furnished in 12 standard colors, including the popular deep tone decorator hues. With standardized jetdowns and intermixes, the basic colors permit an almost unlimited selection of shades designed to match or harmonize with practically every conceivable decorative scheme. The new finish is now available at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the A and L Housing and Lumber Company. Raindrops are perfect examples of streamlined bodies.

Pastel Party Time

A short white organdy evening gown for spring is worn with a fitted pink taffeta coat. Designer Cecil Chapman uses sailor collar and wide cuffs for the coat; very full skirt for the dress.

By GAIL DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—Dresses for both big and little parties this Spring will often be mauve. Mauve, stressed as an accent color in daytime designs, will see a merry whirl after dark.

The pastels follow mauve and after them, striking combinations of black-and-white.

There are as many short-skirted formal as there are gowns which sweep the floor. The short party dress can be truly formal and when it is, can be worn to the places where grand ball gowns go.

Fabrics for Spring are as fragile as the designs they conjure up: embroidered organdy, silk satin, shirred chiffon, taffeta and nylon net.

Designer Cecil Chapman, who is fond of mauve for Spring, uses pastels, too. She turns aqua, silk satin into a slim-lined evening gown with side-split skirt draped in an oblique line. This is not a toposis gown; there are slender straps. The top is draped; the bodice is tight and smooth.

Embroidered white organdy topped by a fitted pink silk taffeta coat is typical of this designer for Spring. The coat, with sailor collar and very wide cuffs, tops the full-skirted evening gown, which has a fitted midriff.

Her News Is Off The Shoulder

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Television fans in Hollywood are getting their news off the shoulder these days.

They're getting it from Palma Shard, 21, a former model and musical comedy understudy who's now a newscaster with oomph.

Miss Shard, a dark-haired lass from West Pittston, Pa., has another video trick besides her strapless gown. She looks her audience right in the eyes all the time she's broadcasting the news. She does it by listening to herself talk, and thus doesn't have to read from a script.

Palma Shard: She has to listen while she talks.

Fifteen minutes before she goes on the air, Palma makes a recording of her newscast. Then, while she's looking into the camera, the recording is played back to her through a tiny hearing-aid speaker cooped in her hair.

She keeps a copy of the news script beside her in case something happens to the recording she's listening to, but she hasn't had to use it yet.

"I'm about one phrase behind all the time," she explains. "Getting any farther behind than that makes me lose the train of thought. Obviously, if I did I would look mighty silly."

There is always the possibility, however, that if Palma lost the train of thought she wouldn't lose her audience. In her low-cut gown, they probably would figure she looks anything but silly.

U. S. To Confer Top Military Decoration On Wisconsin Indian

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Wounded and alone, Mitchell Red Cloud of the Winnebagoes braced himself against a tree for his last stand. Fire from his automatic rifle slowed the rushing hordes of Chinese Communists, giving his brothers-in-arms time to reorganize and evacuate their wounded.

So he stood and fought until the enemy overran him and he died far from the home of his forefathers. That was last Fall in Korea.

Tuesday the government of the United States is conferring upon Cpl. Red Cloud, in death, its highest military decoration, the medal of honor.

His mother, Mrs. Nellie Red Cloud of Hatfield, Wis., will receive the award from Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Red Cloud, an American Indian from Friendship, Wis., was 25 years old when he died a veteran of two wars.

As a Marine in World War II, he served for a time with Carlson's Raiders. In October, 1948, he joined the Army.

Detected Enemy At daybreak on the morning of last November 8, at Hill 153 near Chanshyon, North Korea, he detected the enemy approaching his outfit, Company E, 19th Infantry Regiment of the 24th Division.

He called a warning and opened fire. Cut down by bullets from a burp gun, he got back to his feet, supported himself against a tree and fought until he died.

honor said: "This heroic act stopped the enemy from overrunning his company's position and gained time for reorganization and evacuation of the wounded. Corporal Red Cloud's dauntless courage and gallant self-sacrifice reflects the highest credit upon himself and upholds the esteemed traditions of the Army of the United States."

Red Cloud will be the eighth Army man of the Korean war upon whom the medal of honor has been conferred.

His father, Mitchell Red Cloud, Sr., who died in 1946, was at one time a guard at the White House here, an Army spokesman said. Back home in Wisconsin, he wrote columns for the Black River Falls paper, the Banner Journal.

Midland's Growth Makes Downtown Parking Problem

Ever-growing Midland has parking pains. There was the time when Midlanders could park their cars within a few steps or few blocks of their downtown destinations—and leave them parked all day.

But the coming of parking meters and much heavier traffic, both the result of a town becoming a city, ended much of the care-free parking of yore. Many have solved their parking problems by using parking lots or feeding nickels to the meters.

Then there are just as many, or more, who circle the downtown blocks time and again in search of a free, unmetered space. These are scarce.

parking backs up into many side streets as far as five to six blocks from the center of the city.

Like any other city, Midland has its "meter hawkers." These are the alert drivers who search out parking meters that are out of commission. When these are repaired they go in search of another free spot. It sometimes is nerve-racking to "meter hawkers" who drive nonchalantly to their pet space only to find it already occupied.

MINERAL OF MANY USES It is estimated there are 14,000 different uses of salt in our modern civilization. Europeans use twice as much salt per capita in food preparation as Americans.

seen circumstances and Midlanders back to the horse and buggy there is at least one place that will come in handy. Along the curb at the First Baptist Church are old time iron rings to secure the reins of "O'Dobbin."

The tusks of such animals as the hippopotamus, walrus, and narwhal are used for ivory in addition to those of the elephant.

Western Union Observes 100th Year Of Service

Western Union Sunday begins its second century of service to the nation as a new Western Union, with its operations highly mechanized and ultra modern.

Organized April 1, 1851 as the New York and Mississippi Valley Printing Telegraph Company in Rochester, N. Y., and changing its name to Western Union five years later, the nation's telegraph company today (April 1) observes its 100th anniversary.

Because of the Korean conflict and the necessity for concentrating attention on the special defense communications requirements of the armed services, the government and industry, Western Union dropped all plans for elaborate observance of its centennial. It was announced by R. O. Smith, Western Union manager of Midland.

Western Union's first executive office in Rochester, N. Y., back in 1851 was equipped with a single roll-top desk, a few chairs and a cast-iron cuspidor shaped like a plug hat. It was a modest beginning. And the office was ordinary. But the men who first worked in it were not.

One Dominating Idea Despite competition from 50 small, local telegraph companies—widely varying rates, and a skeptical public that viewed the telegraph as little more than an interesting toy, Western Union's first leaders were inspired with one dominating idea—to provide their young, growing nation with the world's finest communication system.

The goal that was but a dream 100 years ago was reached long ago, and new goals of technical progress, speed and efficiency are constantly being attained.

The nation's telegraph system is now prepared to meet both peace-time and emergency demands. Western Union has doubled its World War II capacity and increased its efficiency of operation by means of a new, highly-mechanized system of automatic telegraph transmission including facsimile.

A newly-completed network of fifteen high-speed switching centers is now in operation throughout the country. Each center serves an area of one or more states. The operator transmitting a message from a Western Union office simply types a routing symbol at the beginning of each telegram. That symbol causes an "electrical brain" at the message center to route and flash the message to its destination. Under this system, a telegram is typed only once, at the point of origin.

JOSEPHINE'S RETURN—St. Louis-born singer-dancer Josephine Baker, who captured Paris 25 years ago wearing a girdle of bananas and little else, has returned home for her first Broadway appearance in 15 years and a five-month tour of America. The singer, "about 47 years old," is seen with her French husband, Joe Bouillon, reading congratulatory messages after her opening in New York. For her new routine of "dressed-up" sex, Miss Baker brought along 45 trunks of costumes valued at $250,000.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Laxity of U. S. attorneys makes Senate crime probe continuation desirable; Many U. S. attorneys become subservient to local political machines; In three cases U. S. attorneys refused to prosecute guilty persons.

WASHINGTON—There are more reasons that meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is due partly to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exists.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for reelection.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. district attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to influence a district attorney; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

FDR Tangled
 Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer; and as in Georgia with Neil Andrews—both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Mulligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, vigorously had opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Mulligan in Kansas City, he since has permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or political bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That also is why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Senate four months last Winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Senator Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, since has regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personally, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert Treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges County, right under the shadow of the capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Rippas and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to Army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard-working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on John Hill, the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Rippas and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. attorney in Mobile, Rippas and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D. A.'s Nose
 Another case occurred closer to home—right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

In September, 1949, an official police report charged that Lieutenant Shimon had tapped the wires of Howard Hughes, head of Trans-World Airlines with the wire-tap expenses paid by Senator Owen Brewster of Maine. The police report also showed that Shimon had broken into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He merely was making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore, Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Fay's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both to the Justice Department and to Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeded to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wire-tapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees sometimes are so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That also is why U. S. attorneys and local law-enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

How Is Higher Education Faring In The Legislature? Economy Move Is Underway

AUSTIN—(AP)—How is higher education faring in the Fifty-second Texas Legislature?

Will colleges next fall be able to offer this year's high school graduates as many courses and as good instruction as in past years?

Definite answers are not possible, but there is an obvious move underway to put schools on a uniform financial basis, to curb the offering of new courses and degrees, and to make schools spend local funds more carefully.

This means the Legislature wants more economy in the educating of Texas youth at the college level.

The House approved a $163,000,000 spending bill for costs of state departments, courts, elementary institutions, higher education and junior colleges the next two years. Of that total, more than $62,000,000 was earmarked for higher education.

A Senate-endorsed bill would provide roughly one million more than the House measure for colleges and universities. A conference committee will have to work out a compromise.

School officials are hoping they can win some increase before the final version is sent to Gov. Allan Shivers for signature. During the weeks since the session opened, they have been fighting for more money.

They asked House and Senate committees for a whopping $96,509,914, almost $4 million more than the record amount received from the Legislature two years ago. Mere Pay Salaries

They said they needed more for teacher salaries and administrative costs. Medical schools and the Texas State University for Negroes at Houston said they needed new buildings.

Appropriations committee members pointed to a downward trend in enrollment and said the colleges should be able to get by on less money instead of more.

College administrators said the drop in enrollment paralleled completion of schooling for most of the World War II veterans. They hinted the state should make up the money which schools are losing at the GI education program plays out.

Furthermore, they said, expenses do not drop in direct proportion to decreased registration. They have to pay a professor the same to teach a class of 15 as a class of 25.

Consolidate some classes, replied the legislators.

Explaining the $62,000,000 recommendation to the House, Rep. W. R. Chambers of May said his subcommittee had tried to bring "chaos out of confusion."

He said in the past it had been a case of each school saying "get all you can out of the legislature."

He said the bill would benefit teachers tremendously, raising the average salary from $3,800 to $4,200 for a nine-month school year.

Chambers estimated more than $2,000,000 was cut off administrative costs in order to give instructors and professors more pay.

"Business managers may be unhappy, but teachers will be glad," he said.

Senator Wardlow Lane of Center tried to get $1,900,000 added to the University of Texas total in the Senate Finance Committee and lost. He said university people said they couldn't operate on what the committee recommended.

Rep. Doug Crouch of Denton fought for a $657,500 addition to the appropriation for the Texas State College for Women.

William L. Kerr, Midland attorney, is a member of the Board of Regents of State Colleges.

As he sees it, whatever the appropriations, he would like for the schools to have smaller classes with more teacher-pupil relationships with emphasis on the teaching of sound fundamentals.

He recently was consulted by legislators who are studying state college appropriations.

Kerr wants sound and solid facilities teaching courses that will fit youth for life. He's against such things as a course in "religion-acting." He said he believes some schools have put in impractical courses to attract more students. They did this, he said, to get more students to add to the weight of numbers in seeking more appropriations from state government.

Regarding the legislature's desire for more economy, Kerr said he hopes it will not be "penny wise and pound foolish."

State College for Women. The House turned it down, 63-55. Then Crouch asked for $698,450 more to cover instructional costs alone. He missed on that one by only three votes, 57-54.

He said the appropriations for TSCW would force the school to lose 46 per cent of its faculty.

Say TSCW Could Pay

Economy leaders said TSCW could pay the recommended $4,200 average salary if it would use the state's average teacher load of 19 students per instructor instead of a 13-to-1 ratio.

"What kind of economy is that when you're going to lose 46 per cent of your faculty?" asked Rep.

Maury Maverick, Jr., of San Antonio.

There was no House floor debate on a provision tacked on the bill in committee prohibiting state-supported institutions of higher learning from "adding any courses, degrees plans or departments which were not offered or existing at any time prior to Oct. 15, 1950."

This is the so-called "freeze" on education.

It was recommended by the Texas Legislative Council on the basis of extensive research last year. The Council reached the conclusion there was considerable unnecessary duplication of degree programs and educational services among Texas colleges.

Further control of higher education is proposed in a pending bill by Rep. Callan Graham. It likewise is based on legislative council recommendations.

It would create a nine-member state coordinating commission appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor and speaker of the House. The Commission would have authority to determine the degree programs and educational services of each school.

Governing boards of each school would appoint representatives to the commission, but they would have no voting power. However, when the commission and college board disagreed, the Legislature would be asked to solve the question.

Local fees would be placed in an emergency fund from which money could be appropriated by the Legislature or by the commission chairman to individual colleges as emergencies arise.

"Equalization Fee"

In addition to tuition fees, each student would pay an "equalization" fee, $10 a semester for an undergraduate and $15 for a graduate.

The money would go in the emergency fund.

Another pending bill by Rep. John Morrison of Chiltonochee would hike tuition fees from $25 to $35 a semester. This would give schools an additional $20 per student each regular school year.

Chambers said the bill was introduced to soften the blow of an economy appropriation.

One catch in the House appropriation is a freeze of 10 per cent of the allocation for teaching salaries. This would put $3,700,000 in a reserve fund to be used only if full-time student enrollment increases. The $62,000,000 appropriation was figured on the expectation that enrollment will decline 20 per cent the next two years. If this holds true, the House appropriation for actual college spending would be some $3,000,000 less than the Legislature granted in 1949.

The economy effort has not been directed at higher education alone. House and Senate recommendations for state departments run five to six million dollars below the $52,572,325 appropriation of two years ago.

State courts would receive virtually the same as in 1949, but the outlay is relatively small, $6,000,000, compared with that for colleges and state departments.

The allotment for junior colleges remains stationary at the $4,200,000 level.

State hospitals and special schools, in the midst of an improvement program initiated a year ago, would receive one to two million dollars more than during the current biennium.

Don't Overeat But Don't Go Hungry Either

Are you one of those overweight girls who are trying to fight the "battle of the bulge" on a starvation diet? If you are, you probably have found the going a little rough. It just doesn't make sense to go on a starvation diet, take off weight and then quickly put it back on again when the diet period is over. For it is obvious that one cannot continue a rigid diet over a protracted period.

Other than the hunger and health angle, a starvation diet is apt to make one look haggard and "bony." "What can I do then?" you ask. "How can I take off my fat otherwise?" Nearly four million bottles of a proprietary diet, Barconate, have been sold in Texas in the past eight years.

When you buy Barconate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not follow a starvation diet, nor buy vitamins to fortify you against weakness from lack of food. You need never know a hungry moment while subsisting with Barconate. It contains no harmful drugs, but does contain ingredients to make you feel better. Barconate does this first, sets down your appetite. Barconate takes care of your DESIRE. Second, calibrates, and eliminates, so that water is eliminated—almost like melting fat. At the same time, you feel better, more supple, more active, but never starved or hungry.

Barconate is a home recipe. Just get four ounces of Barconate from your drugstore. Pour into a pint bottle and add 15 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then just take one tablespoonful twice a day. The makers agree to refund your money if the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose body fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—12 medicinal pounds and inches of waste fat don't just seem to disappear, always like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, waist and ankles.

Sooth Nerves, Smooth Skin With Pine Oil In Your Bath

By ALICIA HART NEA Staff Writer

A hot bath can do more for you than float the dirt away. It can dissolve your worries, unkink your muscles, unkink your brows.

In these days of unrelaxing, when irritable dispositions and latent expressions rank high as charm detractors, it's a good idea—for the sake of your beauty as well as your nerves—to dip often into the serenely offered to a leisurely tubbing.

A modern version of this old-fashioned beauty aid is available in foaming form, combining the luxury of bubbles with the skin-smoothing effects of oil.

Makers of this bath oil advise setting aside at least 10 to 15 minutes for soaking in this refreshing fragrance. Prepare your beauty bath by pouring a small amount of oil into the tub directly beneath the faucet. Turn on the hot-handle full force and let the rush of water work the oil into abundant suds.

Frothy bubbles and soothing oil contribute to enjoyment of relaxing, worry-dissolving bath.

Education Opens Lab Doors, Says Top Woman Scientist

By GALE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—The woman who wants to become a scientist will find opportunities better today than they ever have been, in the opinion of Dr. Mildred C. Rebstock, an outstanding woman scientist. She won the Woman's National Press Club Award last year, a woman of the year for her part in the synthesis of the life-saving antibiotic, chloromycetin.

"Many industrial laboratories didn't hire women before World War II," Dr. Rebstock says. "During the war, they had to take women. Since then, many laboratories have continued to hire them. This means better and brighter job opportunities in the field."

As a research chemist for Parke, Davis & Co. in Detroit, Dr. Rebstock has learned that a pharmaceutical research department offers real chances in almost every field of science.

methods, and carry on independent research with little or no supervision."

Dr. Rebstock, who is now 31, got her start in science in chemistry class when she was in grade school in Elkhart, Ind. A chemistry set is a natural for most small boys and for some girls. It proved to be more than a toy for Dr. Rebstock.

She took more chemistry in high school, then went to a Bachelor of Arts degree. To this she added a

Dr. Mildred C. Rebstock: "Opportunities are tops today for the woman scientist."

"We have bacteriologists, physiologists, chemists, histologists, parasitologists, enzymologists, pharmacists and medical scientists working with us. Pharmaceutical and food products companies hire more women in research jobs than a paint company would. The reasons are plain. Nutrition is a natural for women, and pharmaceutical research requires delicate techniques better suited to women."

Dr. Rebstock emphasizes that education is directly tied in with any ambition to become a scientist, since job advancement depends greatly on the amount of education.

"The girl with a bachelor of arts or sciences degree is usually hired for research work as a laboratory technician," she explains. "This means working under close supervision, possibly in routine tests. But the girl who has a master's degree gets more responsibility and thus more opportunity from the very beginning. And the girl who has a Ph. D. is regarded as able to plan research projects, work out

Master of Arts degree in 1943 and a Doctor of Philosophy in 1946. She was a straight-A college student; she felt it essential to put in long hours in the lab.

It was this background which helped her to work successfully on the synthesis of chloromycetin, the drug that is effective in treatment of typhoid fever, scrub typhus, undulant fever, surgical infections, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, and parrot fever.

The Trans-Iranian Railway has plan research projects, work out 224 tunnels and 4,102 bridges.

Crew Cut And Horn-Rimmed Specs Replace Profile

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The role of Broadway's top matinee idol, which was once exclusively filled by handsome men with distinguished profiles, is now the personal property of a youngster named Russell Nype. Nobody had yet discovered if he even has a profile, much less whether it's distinguished.

But he has two other attributes which threaten to set a pattern for idols yet unborn. One is a crew haircut. The other is horn-rimmed glasses. Add those to a pleasant, collegiate personality and a pleasant, collegiate singing voice and you've got 1951's answer to John Barrymore.

Nype made his Broadway debut in October, playing the juvenile lead with Ethel Merman in "Call Me Madam."

The next day he had television, night club and movie production fighting to bid for his services. The first load of an endless stream of fan-mail streamed in. People stopped him on the street to congratulate him. And his eyeglasses and close-trimmed coiffure were famous.

Now 26, Nype is a Zion, Ill., boy who says he was "the ugliest kid in town."

Nype was bitten by the footlight bug when he made his theatrical debut as a boy soprano in an Easter Sunday performance. He was five. Ambition Must Wait

But his ambition had to wait. Nype went through Lake Forest, Ill., College on a scholarship and graduated with highest honors in English. After a three-year Army stint, he stormed New York.

"I came with my uniform and $300 mustering-out pay," says the man who is expected to earn $75,000 this year. "The first thing I did was to start glamorizing myself."

The glamorizing process involved fancy, the "ricol" haircuts and contact lenses so he could shelve his eyeglasses. But by the time he went on in "Call Me Madam," Broadway had unglamorized him right back to where he started.

Scalped in New Haven

"First they scalped me in New Haven," Nype recalls. "Then, after weeks of hiding in the wings to put in my contact lenses, Russell Crouse

(the show's co-author) caught me with my glasses on. 'I like them,' he said, 'keep them on.'"

Despite his popularity, Nype remains a bachelor. But he says he's looking around very seriously.

Although he claims to be lonely, Broadway gossip columnists continually link his name with assorted ladies. He pooh-poohs such items as "a" publicity.

"Like the tal. about me and the Duchess of Windsor," he explains. "The Duchess is a charming, gracious woman; I'm flattered to be a friend of both the Windsors."

Essentially, Nype is unaffected by his sudden fame. He still sings hymns, loves hamburgers, lounges in overalls, goes for long walks and hopes someday to (a) write a novel and (b) own a farm.

It's Up To The Senate

It now appears the contest to keep Midland County in the Permian Basin oil district in the congressional redistricting shuffle, will be in the Texas Senate, and it is encouraging to know that Senator Hill D. Hudson will lead the fight there.

State Rep. Paul Wilson's vicious bill to place Midland in the sheep and goat country to the southeast, thereby throwing Rep. Ken Regan into a district with Rep. O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, has been approved by a House committee which recommends its passage.

Concerning the House bill, Senator Hudson is quoted as saying, "No bill carrying that provision is going to pass the Senate as long as I can raise my voice above a whisper."

Senator Hudson is to be commended upon his stand and it would be well for Midlanders to let him know they appreciate his noble efforts. It also would be well for Midland residents to let other representatives and senators know how they feel concerning redistricting.

The proposed legislation vitally affects the economy of Midland County and the Permian Basin Empire as a whole, and it now is time to do something about it.

It is more than just a contest to save Ken Regan from being thrown into another representative's district—it is an all-out battle to keep Midland in the oil district of which it is the headquarters.

News reports from Austin say both El Paso representatives will support the Paul Wilson bill.

Rep. S. J. Isaacks is quoted as saying, "I for one will not legislate for or against any congressman. Midland County simply isn't needed to give the district its fair and proportionate population." And that statement from a former Midlander!

The other El Paso representative, Frank Owen, said "Legislation should not be on a personal basis."

Again, it is not a matter of legislating for or against any congressman. It is not a personal matter. It is a matter of economics, and the El Paso representatives should be familiar enough with West Texas economics to recognize that fact. It may be they have some other reasons? ?

Anyway, the matter doubtless will be decided in the Senate. More power to Senator Hill D. Hudson in his stand for fair legislation.

Setback For The West

It would be idle to pretend that Iran's action in taking over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company is not a setback for the West. But its effect is not likely to be as immediate as some statesmen fear.

Under British management a high percentage of the oil produced was shipped out to Europe and the United States. This country got about 40 per cent of total output. Some was allotted to Iran for its own use.

With the fields and refineries nationalized, the Iranian government may wish to set aside a larger share of production for use within the country. But it cannot possibly utilize the full output of Anglo-Iranian.

The government unquestionably will want to dispose of the big surplus beyond its own needs. It will be greatly interested in the revenue to be gained. But who is to buy and how is the oil to be transported to market?

Iran has no tanker fleet of its own and thus cannot carry the oil to European and other overseas markets. Without a substantial foreign loan, it could not acquire such a fleet even in a few years' time.

The thought occurring naturally to most of us is: Why can't she sell to Russia? Everybody knows Russia would welcome more oil, would love nothing better than to dominate the whole oil-rich Middle East.

Undoubtedly Iran can sell some oil to the Soviet Union. But again, the limit is transport. Iran has few railroad tank cars. And no pipe line runs from Anglo-Iranian's refineries northward to Russia's border. Engineers are emphatic in saying none could be built in less than two or three years. The U. S., with steel plentiful, required three years to build a 1,000-mile line across the flat Arabian desert.

These are hard facts from which there is no escape. No matter what may be the wishes of Iran's government, it must face them.

Consequently, for the immediate future the prospects are good that the oil will continue to go to present customers. Britain and the U. S. have the tanker fleet to take it from Iran's shores, and it goes without saying that they still want the oil.

Britain is, of course, gravely upset at Iran's expropriation of the oil properties and is protesting the action as illegal. Yet it is hard to see what she can do about it. In the end, some practical settlement which accepts the fact of Iranian control would seem to be indicated.

If that arrangement is sensible enough, it may yet be possible to keep the bulk of this oil out of Russian hands indefinitely. If it is not, then Iran's seizure of the British properties may have to be viewed as the point where the West's fortunes in the Middle East took a serious downturn.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Senator Maybank charges abuse of big business tax exemptions; NPA Administrator defends amortization policy; RFC scandal involves Pickering Lumber Company.

WASHINGTON—Senator Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, Democrat, really let off steam in a closed session of his joint congressional Defense Production Committee this other day.

"The RFC is chinked to this thing," he exploded, referring to the government's policy of handing out tax subsidies to big corporations for alleged defense expansion.

"Technically, these subsidies are authorized under the Defense Production Act which permits tax deductions on plants that the government approves for national defense. But Maybank, who put the act through Congress, now charges that it has been abused.

"I do not see why you are going to have all these people exempted from taxation," the senator from South Carolina stormed before a closed-door meeting of top government officials. "What you are really doing is taking off taxes, while the tax commission is trying to collect taxes. Here is a tremendous loss of heavy revenue from the big corporations—Bethlehem Steel, United States Steel, General Electric. If you gentlemen pass out certificates of necessity to people like Kaiser-Frazer, for example, we might as well pass them out to everybody in the United States and stop any tax law."

Intent Of Congress Ignored
Turning to acting National Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann, in charge of dishing out tax subsidies, Maybank demanded: "How much have you given so far for amortization (tax write-offs)?"

"The amount certified up to date is 2.5 billion dollars," replied Fleischmann.

"And 11.5 billion has been asked for," snapped Maybank. "I see what the use of passing a tax bill if we are going to amortize eventually 11.5 billion? It was my thought that justification was needed that the plant was necessary for defense. You gentlemen construe otherwise?"

"Yes, sir," piped Fleischmann. "In other words, you construe that whether it is necessary for the military or not, you have a right to amortize certain things?" demanded Maybank incredulously.

"That is correct," admitted Fleischmann.

"And you have amortized 2.5 billion dollars worth on that basis?" Maybank persisted.

"We felt we not only had the right but had the duty under the act, sir," replied Fleischmann.

"Then we have got to rewrite the act in June," snapped Maybank. "It was not my thought that you had the right to amortize United States Steel, which has plenty of money, nor General Electric, which has plenty of money. That was not my thought when I voted for it."

Since Mobilization Boss Charles Wilson was formerly head of General Electric, Maybank added as an afterthought: "I do not mean to be personal at all. Nobody thinks more of Mr. Wilson than I do. But I notice General Electric got a large sum. They do not need any money."

Big Business Benefited
"I think Mr. Chairman," broke in Congressman Ralph Gamble, New York Republican, "that some of those plants were planned before this so-called war emergency and would have been built anyway. For instance, the United States Steel plant in Pennsylvania was planned two years ago."

The idea of the Defense Production Act was for materials for defense," agreed Maybank. Then returning to Fleischmann, he observed: "All the big corporations have gotten certificates and the little fellows do not get any."

"There has been no such policy," has a juicy story in its files dating back to the time when Jesse Jones was the one-man boss, and involving a special assistant of his.

The case is of a $2,500,000 loan to the Pickering Lumber Company of Missouri, and the appointment of three RFC officials to the Pickering board of directors.

In 1934, according to information presented the Fulbright committee, the Pickering Company was "practically bankrupt." But two years later, the RFC—then under Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones—gave the company a loan of $2,500,000.

A short time later, Ben Johnson, special assistant to Jones and an expert on lumber appraisal at the time the loan was made, became a member of Pickering's board of directors. He now has become president of the company.

Also added to the Pickering board after the loan was granted were A. A. Calkins, manager of the RFC in San Francisco when the loan was made; and J. M. Kemper, chairman of the RFC advisory board for Missouri.

This information was dug up by crusading Congressman Chet Holtfield in a fight to save a great forest of primeval sugar pines of California. It is the Pickering company which is out to cut this irreplaceable forest.

Holtfield, in a letter to Senator Bill Fulbright, chairman of the RFC investigation, recommended that a Senate probe find out how the Pickering Company of Missouri acquired 33,000 acres of uncultivated land in California, using the taxpayers' money—through an RFC loan—to do it.

Deals In War Surplus Goods Are Getting The Once-Over

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—House of Representatives committee investigation into foreign surplus property disposal and re-impetration into the United States barely are scratching the surface of what were some of the government's biggest postwar business deals.

There were three main sources of U. S. supplies reaching foreign countries in the war and postwar years. First were the U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force supplies shipped overseas for the use of American troops. Nobody knows how much originally was shipped. But almost $15,000,000 worth of supplies were declared surplus at the end of the war. They were sold for about $2,000,000,000.

Second were the $50,000,000 worth of Lend-Lease supplies sent to allied foreign governments. About $1,000,000,000 worth of civilian-type goods were in the pipeline of supply at the end of the war. These goods were sold to the countries for whom they had been ordered, at nominal value. Settlements were made with all the governments who received these goods, except Soviet Russia. State Department still is arguing with the Russians about that.

Third were the $2,700,000,000 worth of U. S. supplies furnished to UNRRA—the postwar United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

To attempt to trace much of this property over the last five years would take thousands of investigators. Most of the consumer goods, like the foodstuffs and medical supplies furnished UNRRA, unquestionably were consumed at their destination as intended. Some of the goods probably got into black market operations, but how much, nobody knows.

Biggest source of resale items was the U. S. military surplus. Ten billion dollars worth of this was sold to foreign governments for an average of 17 cents on the dollar, original cost.

About half a billion dollars worth of military supplies were transferred to foreign government possession. Almost $175,000,000 worth were given to UNRRA and private relief organizations. And $400,000,000 worth were simply abandoned. They weren't considered worth bringing home.

They were some pretty strict bans against importing any of this stuff into the United States. Congress put that into the surplus property disposal act. The reason was fear that the Army-Navy surplus stores would undersell regular goods in the postwar markets, and cause a lot of unemployment.

At first it wasn't profitable to bring much of this foreign surplus back to the States for resale. Transportation costs were high. Also, there wasn't much shipping space available. But as U. S. prices have advanced steadily over the last five years, the prospects for turning a fast buck on resale of war surpluses have picked up.

All that was needed to make the U. S. market really right for such stuff was a shortage of some items. This has been provided by the defense effort. Since last July business really has been good. Even U. S. armed service procurement officers have been buying back some of their own old surpluses—to save money.

Goods Getting Back To U. S.
Nobody knows just how much surplus may have found its way back to U. S. shores. At present, the principal items seem to have been trucks and parts. Germany was the principal source, with Philippine Islands and some of the other Pacific bases a secondary source, for west coast imports. In all, though, no more than 200 trucks may have been involved. But now all foreign surplus sales have been frozen by U. S. officials.

Whether any laws have been broken is open to question. At the time the surpluses were sold, in 1945 and 1946, the pressure was on to get rid of the supplies and not quibble about price.

For instance, it was costing $5,000,000 a month to store and guard surpluses in India. To save money, full speed ahead was ordered in surplus property disposal. In Germany, a billion dollars' worth of surpluses were given to the West German government to help revive its economy. Many have simply bought these cheap surplus and held them till the price went up. This seems to be the record of the fabulous George Dawson, British financier whose U. S. agent was once John Maragon, for whom White House aide Gen. Harry Vaughan wrote letters of introduction.

In probing for possible abuses, the House Expenditures subcommittee on Inter-Governmental Relations has been concentrating on a few specific cases, to pin-point evidence. Chairman Herbert E. Bonner of North Carolina points out his group is not a crime investigating committee, but a legislative one. Its job is to recommend new legislation or a tightening of existing laws and regulations to prevent such abuses being repeated after the Korean ruckus and the European rearmament effort are over.

So far, the Bonner committee has dug into only two cases, and has reached no conclusions on them. After Easter, it promises to dig some more.

KILLER'S PACE BY JULIUS LONG

Rose's silly defense... wouldn't fool a 10-year-old, not to mention a jury of 12 adult men and women.

THE STORY: Star Williams fails to make his final argument in behalf of the defendant in the Bidault case and, while the court waits, and him at the stand Rose holds a small automatic pistol in her hand. My name is John Marshall and I work for Williams.

EVEN with specially built-up shoes, Star Williams barely made it over five-one-one on his small body. The exaggeration was increased by his wealth of brown hair, graying at the temples. His enemies had accused him of dying his hair gray to lead his exceptionally distinguished appearance. Other enemies accused him of dyeing the rest of his hair brown, discrediting him with such age as to place him under the shadow of senility.

The truth was that nobody, excepting Star Williams himself, knew his age. He had been big time so long that most people regarded him as much older than he could have been. Yet the texture of his skin was almost boyish; there were many ridiculous contradictions to the other extreme. The date of his admittance to the bar was known, but a story that he had practiced many years in another state left room for more guesses as to his true age and experience.

"What's up, Jim?" Star asked in all innocence. "I'm sure that only something special would make you barge in on a lady like this. What's your trouble?"

"I've nearly gone crazy trying to find you!" screamed it. "Right this minute Judge Wanmaker is probably giving the Bidault case to the jury! Your shilly-shallying has cost you the Bidault case and ruined you!"

Madam Sonya Saretsa stiffened and eyed me with an unfriendly frown. She looked as if she might be considering picking up the little automatic pistol again. It was a popular 25 caliber model the type women admire so much. I wondered if Sonya Saretsa always packed a rod and why she happened to have this one in her hand when I had walked in. Maybe the clerk downstairs had warned her that she was about to be visited by a madman.

Star spoke sharply. "I assure you that I have not been shilly-shallying. I might add that I have not even been dilly-dallying. The time I have spent with Madam Saretsa has been most profitable. I suggest that you yourself catch her act at La Jolla Club."

"La Jolla Club!" It was too much. Star clucking up with a night club magician. "For crying out loud, Star, call Wanmaker and tell him you're coming right over! If you don't you're ruined!"

STAR smiled thinly and deprecatingly. "Jim, when you've been around criminal courts as long as I have, you'll know that no judge will ever let a jury have a case without the defense argument unless he's waited a darn sight longer than Wanmaker has."

"But his deadline was 9:30! It's past that now!"
Star shrugged. "He's an old wind-bag. He knows I'd make a monkey out of him if he didn't wait till I got there."

I groaned. "And it cost me a hundred bucks of my own money to find you!"

Star eyed me interestedly. "And to whom were you so foolish as to pay such a sum to ascertain my whereabouts?"

"Pete, the louse! How'd he find out you were here?"

Star chuckled in appreciation of Pete's knavery. "Why that mercenary barkeep! I sent over for a bottle a while ago."

"Rose would not even tell Kitty or me where you were hiding out!"

Star eyed me with lifted brows. "Hiding? Hiding out? I assure you that I hide from no man! Least of all, Andy Tanner, the dashing A. A. of River County!"

"You might have had the decency to tell me what you were up to! You owe me for the hundred I unnecessarily spent!"

"Unnecessarily is right, Jim. That's why I can't refund it to you. I'm not responsible for your irresponsible expenditures!"

I fumed. "You'll pay me that century or get yourself a new slave! Well, are you going to stand here and yack-yack all day while Wanmaker runs up his blood-pressure?"

Star yawned and turned to Madam Saretsa. "Well, thanks Sonya, for a lovely and instructive evening. I look forward to renewing our acquaintance."

Madam Sonya Saretsa acknowledged this with a thin smile. "The pleasure was all mine, Star. Any time."

WE left. I kept telling myself: "If he hasn't the sense to care, why should I go into a fit?" But it was no use. I'd been with Star too long to go crazy from the suspense.

But Pete had been right. This Bidault case was a sure loser, whether Star showed up in court. All the evidence was in. Andy Tanner had given his opening ar-

Call for Texas' annual "farm cleanup week" to begin Monday, has been issued by the American Foundation for Animal Health and cooperating groups.

"Theme of this year's cleanup week is: 'Clean up for more profits through fewer livestock disease losses.'"

Here are some of the farm pointers suggested for the week in the bulletin issued by the Foundation:

"1. Buildings in which livestock and poultry are housed should be cleaned and disinfected to kill disease germs and parasites.

"2. Mud holes and stagnant ponds which may harbor parasites and germs should either be drained or fenced off.

Other Suggestions
3. Old strawstacks, common sources of infection, should be spread and plowed under.

"5. Nails, glass, wire and other objects which cattle might swallow or step upon, should be picked up. Protruding nails in mangers or partitions should be removed.

Water appears to be the limiting factor in the production of cotton on the Rolling Plains.

Cotton yields were increased 24 per cent by contouring and 57 per cent by using level terraces at the Spur Experiment Station, while the use of commercial fertilizer, barnyard manure and sorghum litter on small test plots failed to increase the yield.

Three-fields — with straight rows, contour rows, and contour rows and closed level terraces — have been planted to cotton continuously since 1927. The soils on the fields are a largely Athlete clay loam, and the slope averages five-tenths per cent.

An average annual yield of 123 pounds of lint per acre for straight row farming was increased to 151 pounds by contouring. Where closed level terraces were used with contour rows, the yield was increased to 192 pounds, an average of 70 pounds more lint per acre annually than from straight rows.

Runoff Reduced
Average annual runoff was reduced from 2.75 inches to 1.95 inches by using contour rows. There was no runoff from the area with closed level terraces.

Progress Report 1340, which gives a summary of 24 years of water conservation tests at Spur, is available from the Publications Office, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Happy Sleeping

Uncle Bunkum was having a little vacation away from his monkey cage at the zoo. Now he had come for a little visit there at Daddy Ringtail's monkey house, high in the top of the very tall tree, right in the middle of the Great Forest.

Yes sir, and Uncle Bunkum was happy and happy indeed to have such a happy vacation. He laughed his cackly laugh to show how happy he was to be far away from all the noise and bustle and fustle of life at the zoo. Why, he would take a little nap, he would—there across the foot of Mugwump's bed—before lunch was ready in the kitchen.

"Sure," said Mugwump. "Sleep all you want to, Uncle Bunkum. You can use my bed to do it."

And so Uncle Bunkum lay down across the foot of Mugwump's bed, all ready to do a fine job of taking a nap before the time for lunch. Uncle Bunkum closed his eyes. "Ta-rum te tum! Ta-rum te tum!"

By Wesley Davis

"Oh, Mugwump," said Uncle Bunkum.

"Did you want something, Uncle Bunkum?" asked Mugwump.

"And Uncle Bunkum said: "Would you please not drum your drum music? Uncle Bunkum is trying to take a nap."

"Sleep all you want to, Uncle Bunkum," said Mugwump, and he put the drum back in the box. Uncle Bunkum closed his eyes. Yesir, Uncle Bunkum now was about to do a fine job of taking a nap before lunchtime.

"Play-like soldiers—attention!" The voice was loud and clear. The voice belonged to Mugwump. And then in a hurry came the loud noise of a bugle bugling the bugle music for the play-like soldiers to march on out of the room and away.

"One-two! One-two! Hup-two! Hup-two! Soldiers, march!"

Uncle Bunkum watched from the bed until Mugwump Monkey had march his play-like soldiers away. Uncle Bunkum closed his eyes. Soon he was fast asleep, doing a very fine job of taking his nap after all. Happy sleeping, Uncle Bunkum! Shhh, Happy day!

TO COMBAT RADIATION
Atomic scientists have invented a radiation "dosimeter" simple and rugged enough to be used by any one in a radioactive disaster area, and small enough to be carried like a package of cigarets. It will aid the ordinary citizen to find the best way out of the area of dangerous radiation.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON—

Native Texan Heads Washington Group

By TEK EASLEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The typical government girl here works in one of the huge departmental buildings and spends the day typing form letters and filing papers in steel cabinets, seldom seeing anyone except those with whom she is employed.

Rhobia C. Taylor of Houston, a native of Navasota, works for Uncle Sam but she is far from being one of those typical government workers.

She is director of events in the office of the head of the National Institutes of Health.

It's plural, all right, for the organization is composed of seven national institutes which come under the Public Health Service. They handle and coordinate scientific research regarding the heart, cancer, arthritis, neurological blindness, metabolic diseases and dental health.

One function of the organization is to allocate funds to universities and hospitals to finance in whole or part research in some particular problem.

The studies are coordinated so a scientist in one state won't be laboring to find an answer which has already been turned up in some other part of the country.

Miss Taylor first When anyone goes to the office of the Institutes on any matter, he will likely go first to Miss Taylor.

9 a.m.—arrange program for student nurses interested in cancer;

11 a.m.—show work on peptic ulcer to Australian physician;

Noon—lunch with two scientists from The Netherlands;

1:30 p.m.—give talk on NIH to students at a local junior high school;

4 p.m.—back to NIH to work out training and orientation materials.

Miss Taylor attended public schools in Houston and then majored in sociology at Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Belton. Incidentally, she has just been elected president of the alumnae of that school in the Washington area.

Finishing college, she went to Mississippi State College to serve as freshmen women's advisor for seven years before joining the USO at the beginning of World War II as associate director of activities in Florida.

She went to work for the Public Health Service in 1945.

When Miss Taylor goes back to Houston to renew her Texas citizenship, as she says, she stays with a sister, Mrs. Norman J. Roberts.

Wichita Falls Hospital Has $25,000 Hog Farm But Only Two Doctors For Patients

WICHITA FALLS —(AP)—The Wichita Falls State Hospital has a brand new $25,000 hog farm for its 866 hogs.

But it managed to keep only two doctors to examine and treat over 3,800 North Texas sick enough to be in the hospital last year," says the beginning of an article by Jean Walsh.

Miss Walsh is a reporter for the Wichita Falls Record News. She wrote 16 articles on the state mental hospital in her city.

She said they were written "in defense of more than 3,800 North Texans who have been patients in the . . . hospital during the past year, the 2,600 who are still there . . . and each of the 1,900,000 residents of 65 North Texas counties which the hospital serves . . ."

Doctors could not be hired, she said, because of current salaries, "which are so far below those offered in private institutions, in private practice, and in other states . . . that doctors won't give them a passing glance."

The state hospital board, Miss Walsh said, is recommending that at the Wichita Falls hospitals four psychiatrists be paid no more than $5,280 and that four other physicians be paid no more than $4,800.

Miss Walsh writes of "overworked employees," of a turnover in attendants "something like a slow-moving popcorn machine," and of patients "crowded into bare cage-like wards . . ."

Rosie The Riveter, Winnie The Welder, Staging Comeback

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Rosie the Riveter and Winnie the Welder are on their way back.

Forty out of every 100 new workers being hired by the giant Convair B-36 plant here are women.

There are now about 3,000 women among the 28,000 employees, and several hundred more are added each month.

During World War II, when the manpower situation was similar, Convair hired a great number of women. At one time women constituted 38 per cent of total plant personnel.

On January 1 of this year there were only 1,800 women on the Convair payroll, and most of them were office or technical workers. With the number at 3,000 and growing, many of the new women employees are production workers.

Experienced workers—veterans of World War II production lines—get preference in hiring. But, they, as well as the inexperienced, get a training course.

R. J. Donnelly, industrial relations manager, said many of the new women employees are becoming aircraft sheet metal assemblers.

Other Groups Listed
Other classifications include riveters, electrical and radio bench workers, upholsterers, power sewing machine operators, welding and engineering draftsmen.

One requirement is American citizenship.

The women workers are not glamour girls. All jewelry must come off because of moving machinery. Hair must be covered by nets or bandannas. No tight-fitting sweaters are allowed because they interfere with freedom of movement.

Finally, the rule is "medium loose-fitting wash slacks, ankle length." That isn't glamour.

Scholarship Awards Are Listed Here

It won't be long now! We are referring to the termination of this school year.

And, of course, this is the turning point for the seniors. What are you going to be doing this time next year? Maybe you would like to go to college, but you haven't got the necessary funds. If so, this article is written for you as it tells of various scholarships at different schools.

The Editor Speaks

By LEON CLINE

There are two processes in education—learning to do and doing. Both are necessary if schools are to produce useful citizens.

Midland High School gives its students every opportunity to use what they learn and to learn by doing. This is evident by the shop, the Home Economics kitchen, and the typing class.

Some things the school can't do. These things the townspeople have done.

Each year the Midland business men see new ways to help the MHS students and eagerly volunteer their services or materials.

One of the largest aids is the distributive education program in which many business men cooperate in letting MHS students work part of each day. They spend extra time in teaching the students the trade and report to the school on the progress of the students.

The school has continual use of two cars, a pickup, and a station wagon. These cars make the driving class possible, the pickup is a big advantage to the Agriculture Department and the station wagon is used for school trips. The generosity of Mackey Motors, Mackay-Young Motors, and Elder Chevrolet, gives many MHS students a more complete education.

The Reporter-Telegram, one of the school's oldest friends, has given space for the "Bulldog" each week for many years. They were more valuable to the Journalism class is the help they receive from the staff of The Reporter-Telegram.

The newest and one of the most helpful friends of the school is the KJBC radio station.

Each week since the beginning of the school year KJBC has broadcast a program from one of the Midland schools, Jack Cecil, the station owner, has extended an invitation to the speech and music departments to broadcast programs whenever they wish. Also the station has given the school two regular programs of its own.

Many others help too. Lawyers and business men and women visit classes to contribute information on subjects. The First National Bank and Dr. Pepper Bottling Company donate book covers. The Booster Club backs the other events.

All in all the people of Midland are giving the high school students the best in education.

Decorations For Banquet, Prom Made

Members of the Art Club, Thursday group II, have been working on decorations for the Junior-Senior Banquet, making posters for the cheerleaders, and looking at wood block prints. Bertha Phillips made place cards and center pieces to carry out the Duth theme for the homecoming luncheon.

A talk on the installation and process of freezing the ice for the Ice Show of 1951 held in the high school auditorium, was given by the stage manager of the show to Mr. John Buzio's Science Club.

Jane Umberson and Barbara Ware reported on their teaching experiences at North Ward and Davy Crockett Elementary Schools to the Future Teachers Club.

Mrs. Shepard of the Hardwick-Stewart Furniture Company talked to the Altrusa Club on interior decorating during club period. She gave the requirements and her experience as an example to interested members in interior decorating as a vocation. She displayed samples of different drapery material and the club discussed fabrics, their weaves, and color schemes of rooms.

The members of the Future Homemakers of America have bought and set out six rose plants south of the building.

Spring has been an inspiration to poets, down through the ages, and many beautiful poems have been written with April as their theme.

April's children are idealistic and practical. They have a wily tenacious nature even though they are not always physically robust. A vivid imagination is also one of their gifts.

Witnesses In Sudan Court Take Salt

ER ROSEIRES, ANGLIO-EGYPTIAN SUDAN.—P— You don't take the testimony of witnesses here with a grain of salt. The witnesses take the salt. This strange quirk developed at a court inquiry called in this Blue Nile province.

The Falubud tribesmen, who live near here, refused to take the regular oath, saying they had their own form. The witnesses ceremoniously placed some grains of salt on their tongues—followed by a red pepper, a piece of charcoal and a grain of wheat—carefully chewed, then spit the lot out the nearest window.

They offered no explanation but said it was new impossible for them to tell a lie.

What The Students Say

The Girls Must Have, Above All, Personality

They wrote a song on Personality in which they said "a girl can get somewhere in spite of stringy hair—if she can show a faultless Personality. From our latest poll we find that the boys of Midland High School apparently agree. Our question this week was "What quality do you admire most in a girl?"

In tabulating our answers we find that an average of four out of five boys prefer a good personality to any other quality. Here are some of the other answers:

Alan Olson—"Honesty."
 Winifred Brinson—"Dependability."
 Calvin Pirtle—"Friendliness."
 Harold Faden—"The way she dresses and character."
 Ronnie Rene—"Niceness."

Leon Cline—"Well-roundedness—and you can take that two ways."
 Coach Rutledge—"Sincerity."
 Earl Chapman—"Sweaters."
 Terry Bradley—"Friendliness."
 Don Adams—"Friendliness."
 Royce Measures—"A good conversationalist; she doesn't have to carry on an intelligent conversation... just a conversation."
 Glenn Baker—"Good looks."
 Jim O'Neal—"I didn't know girls had any good qualities."
 Jerry Culp—"Truthfulness."

Children Of April Arrive With Spring

April has arrived and with it comes Spring, the most beautiful season of the year. The budding of trees, flowers and all growing things tends to encourage humanity. After winter's sleep, the awakening of nature is a promise of rebirth to all the world.

Carver Choir Sings At MHS On April 4

The Carver High School Concert Choir will present a program in the regular assembly Wednesday April 4. Harry L. Anderson, the choir director, will select about 25 students from a choir of over 75 for the program.

Who's Who At MHS Brunette Is Chosen

Marion Sevier has been chosen by the Junior Class to represent Midland High School at Blue Bonnet Girls State. Peggy Read was chosen as the alternate.

Don't Forget To Keep Off Grass

Whenever Midland High School students are asked to help out on some project or campaign, they have always done their part and proved highly cooperative. When they were asked to keep off the newly-planted grass, every MHS'er seemed to respond to the plea. The grass has flourished and with the coming of Spring it will not be very long before MHS is surrounded by a beautiful green carpet.

But as usual the mind has a tendency to forget. With the passing of time students have decided to take short cuts across the lawn. They seem to believe that their job is done. The grass will continue to flourish if only the students will remember their responsibilities and keep off the lawn as faithfully as they did at the beginning of the year.

Marion Sevier Is Chosen To Represent MHS At Meeting

Two hundred and seventy-five girls are expected to attend from the State of Texas. Out of these one will be chosen to meet with a group from the other states.

Included on the scheduled program is a visit to the state capitol. In addition to the scheduled program there will be miscellaneous activities which include Girls State Newspaper, musical programs, amateur nights and athletic contests.

Marion Sevier She takes piano lessons, having played the piano for eight years.

Humphrey Haunts

Only Nine More Weeks And Doors Will Close

The Easter holidays are over and Midland High School has settled down again. Only nine more weeks and MHS will close its doors for Summer vacation. To the seniors it will mean something extra special, not just another Summer. It will be the end of one chapter of their lives and the beginning of another. Although students complain about school and their teachers, on graduation day everyone feels sad about leaving their dear alma mater and almost every eye sheds at least one last tear. But enough of this sentimentality, on with the news!

"Humphrey Haunts" would like to put in a plug for the teen-age request program heard every Saturday night over KJBC from six o'clock until seven o'clock. It is a really swell show and we feel that everyone will enjoy listening to it. By the way on one broadcast they let out some rather sensational news, so keep tuned in and maybe you can hear a scoop. If you want to find out what the news was, Joyce Howell is the one to see.

British To Leave Ethiopian Army

ADDIS ABABA ETHIOPIA.—P— A British military mission which has been training the Ethiopian Army since 1942 will be withdrawn in the near future. An official Ethiopian government statement said the decision "reflects the further development of Ethiopia in the organization of her own 'affairs' and is also due to the increasingly heavy demands on British manpower and financial resources resulting from the present world situation."

Thinclads Will Enter Meet At Big Spring

The Bulldog tracksters journey to Big Spring Saturday, April 7, for the Big Spring Relays. The "thinclads" were entered in the West Texas Relays at Odessa on the 30 and 31 of last week.

The MHS golf team is entered in the Lubbock Invitational Tournament on Saturday, April 7.

The Bulldog linksmen will face some of the state's roughest competition in the tournament. Probable entries are Lamesa, Odessa, Pampa, Lubbock, Borger, Abilene and Midland.

The same foursome that recently captured the Fort Worth Invitational meet will represent MHS at the Lubbock tournament. These players are Roane Puetz, John Ward, Ray Leggett and Graham Mackey.

The Midland tennis team played in the Odessa tournament last weekend. No action is scheduled for the Bulldog netters this week.

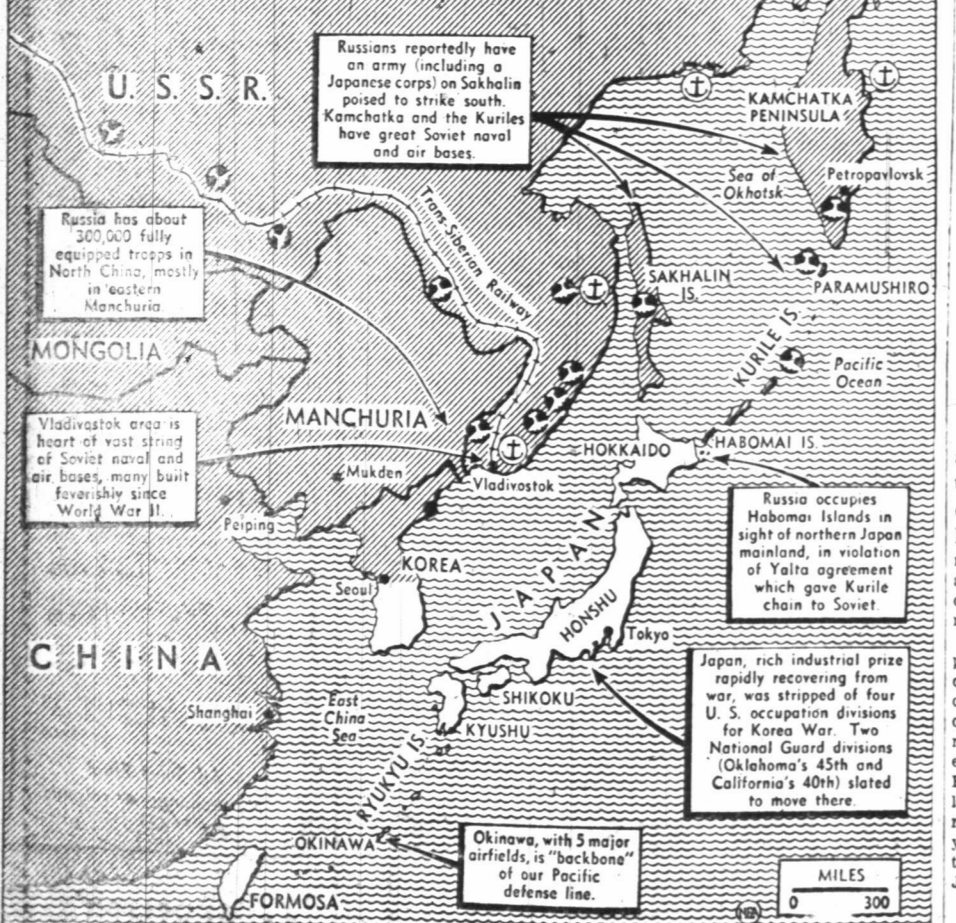

A large group of Midland freshmen and eighth graders will enter the San Angelo Junior High track meet Saturday, April 7. Boys who will make the trip are Jesse Hatfield, Paul Davis, Bill Snow, Joe Ewing, Bill Mims, Darrell Spivey, Russell Rutledge, Jimmie Hunt, Dale Jobe, Joe Bowman, Duane Chesnut, Clinton Noble, Bill Shaw, Jerry Green and Gene Hunter.

The MHS Jr. and Sr. basketballers were scheduled to clash with the Coaching staff, Friday, March 30.

WOLF OUT OF BOUNDS

YORKTON, SASKATCHEWAN.—P— A 90-pound male timber wolf was chased by men on horseback and shot about 12 miles east of Yorkton. Harry Swallow, president of the Yorkton Fish and Game League, said it was unusual for a timber wolf to venture this far south.

RED THREAT TO JAPAN GROWS

The Newsmag above tells why the U. S. is rushing two National Guard divisions to occupied Japan. The disclosure by Ambassador John Foster Dulles that Russia had seized several small islands in the Habomai group off Northern Japan is just one incident in the growing Soviet build-up of Far Eastern military strength that has both Washington and Tokyo worried.

Remember When?

About a year ago this week, some of this news was published in the Bulldog—The Freshman Frolic of 1950 was presented at a paid assembly program.

Frances Tredaway and Dot Highlower were elected FFA sweethearts. Votes for this election sold for one penny each.

Five senior members of the National Honor Society—Dan Dickinson, Roslyn Leffer, Fay Montgomery, John Klingler, and Maggie Murphy—took the general Aptitude Test given by MHS.

The DE Club was to present a style show at a special assembly. The Journalism class presented a special April Fool's Edition of the Bulldog, entitled "The Mongrel."

Loren Roberts was the featured student of the week. Plans were being made for the first City School Music Festival which was presented May 5, 1950.

Good Ventilation Increases Kitchen Comfort, Utility

Unlike fish, who live in water, the homemaker needs air when preparing the family's meals. And, aided by clean, fresh air, her cooking hours can be spent in comfort.

Any homemaker knows cooking produces grease and vapors that cling to kitchen walls and drift into adjoining rooms. By installing adequate ventilation and easy-to-clean, stain-proof wall surfaces, grease and cooking vapors can be eliminated.

Many homemakers have ventilating systems installed at a window or ceiling. The best place for ventilation, according to a Tile Council of America report, is about two feet above the stove. At this point undesirable odors and vapors are eliminated quickly. Low efficiency results from ventilating fans as a window or ceiling because vapors are dissipated by the time they reach the fan.

Kitchens Hours

The council estimates the homemaker spends about 1.4 hours a week preparing and cooking foods. During these hours, exposed areas of the kitchen—walls, floors and countertops—are subject to stain and collection of grease. Covering these surfaces with stain-proof and easily maintained materials shortens the homemaker's cleaning chores and keeps kitchen efficient.

Wall surface back of the stove is the area most easily stained both by cooking fats and steam. A clay tile panel extended a few inches beyond the stove and around the ventilating system is a good solution to this problem. After a quick going over with a damp cloth and cleanser, it will be as bright as when first installed.

The kitchen should be made as pleasant to work in as possible. Keeping it free from dirt and cooking odors helps ease the homemaker's time spent in this room.

COMPACT—Designed for comfortable, gracious living, this compact house has two bedrooms and attached garage. Flexibility of furniture arrangement is provided in the combined living and dining area. A built-in bench and table also is a feature of the complete kitchen. Generous bedroom closets are provided. The exterior may be either frame or masonry construction.

Buyers Of Homes Advised On Ways To Test Plumbing

The plumbing system constitutes a vital working part of a house, but because it is largely concealed behind walls and under floors, most prospective home buyers are at a loss to check its efficiency.

Water-tightness, a few simple tests will reveal the condition of any home's plumbing almost as clearly as X-raying would, says a Tile Council of America report. Here are pointers on the subject for prospective buyers:

1. To check whether pipes are of sufficient size, leave the water running full force in the kitchen and turn it on at the same time in the bathroom. There should not be a marked reduction in the flow.
2. Check fixtures to see whether they are chipped or scratched. Fixtures in color cost more and are therefore usually the mark of a better quality house.
3. To save redecorating costs, be sure that bathroom floors and walls are finished with waterproof materials.
4. The water-heater or hot-water storage tank should have the label of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, as indication of its safety. Homes having automatic laundry equipment need a 50-gallon tank for an automatic storage heater with gas as a fuel.
5. Test the condition of pipes by filling wash basins and bathtub with water. If the water is rusty, pipes are in poor condition.
6. Drop a cigar in the bowl of the water closet and then flush it. It should flush completely and refill quietly.
7. Check finishes in shower stalls and on walls around shower fixtures. A material such as clay tile, which won't be damaged by steam, is a necessity for such spaces.
8. Inspect sinks, wash basins and bathtub for rust stains. They indicate leaky faucets, and you may have not only to repair faucet but also replace the damaged fixtures.

Older Homes Need Repairs, Improvements

Estimates from government sources indicate that 54 per cent of the more than 42,000,000 homes in the United States — or almost 23,000,000—are more than 30 years old. Many of these have had little if any work done to them since they were built and are in need of repairs or improvements such as new heating plants, floors, windows, siding and asphalt roofs.

This need is one of the factors which spells out a banner year for home modernization. Not since the beginning of the post-war building boom have either mechanics or materials been available for any appreciable volume of repair and remodeling work, but now owners of older houses have the opportunity to undertake modernization and repairs. Further, government regulations restricting home construction are causing a substantial rise in real estate values in all parts of the country.

Flood Of Orders

Building contractors say a flood of orders for home modernization and repairs indicates an awareness on the part of owners that such improvements will enhance the value of their investments.

With the demand for new housing still far from satisfied in most areas, the remodeling program also is certain to include a substantial amount of conversions of the large, older homes into multiple dwelling units.

Dealers in building materials, like the contractors, are ready for an early start on the huge backlog of home repair, re-roofing and remodeling jobs. They have been building up inventories of insulation material, asphalt roofing, siding, wallboard and other supplies.

Dr. Mecham has been a teaching fellow in Pacific Coast history at Seville, Spain, and has done research in Spanish archives. Since 1926, he has taught at the university. He holds bachelor's, master's and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of California.

Suggestion Of Child Causes Saving In Air Mail Stamping

WASHINGTON —(P)— An eight-year-old down in Mobile, Ala., has brought about a money-saving change in the stamping of air mail.

He is Gregg Buckalaw.

He recently wrote to Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson suggesting that the "via" be dropped from the phrase "via air mail" which post offices everywhere rubber-stamp on items for plane delivery. "Via" is Latin for "by way of."

Donaldson has advised Gregg that his suggestion is good and is being adopted promptly.

The youngster wrote, with an accompanying illustration: "You can save a lot of money by doing this. You can save by taking the via off the air mail letters. You can save almost a third of rubber and it is a critical war material besides."

"Yours truly," "Gregg Buckalaw (8)."

The postmaster general replied: "The postal service belongs to all the people and serves all the people and one of the reasons why the Post Office Department can give so much service for so little is that people like you are interested and take time to write letters to me, suggesting ways for improving the service and reducing expenses."

"I am issuing instructions that hereafter all rubber stamps purchased by the Post Office Department for endorsing letters and parcels to be sent by air will read "air mail" omitting the word "via," which after all is entirely unnecessary."

"Sincerely yours," "Jesse M. Donaldson."

Donaldson made no estimate of how much money will be saved.

Old Question On Spawning Bass Arises

By BOB BRISTER
ATHENS, TEXAS —(P)— This time of the year every year, the same old question arises among fishermen everywhere — will spawning bass strike?

It is always answered, by experience, the same way. Yes and No. The controversy probably arose years ago when some early-Spring Waltonian observed mammoth bass on their underwater beds in the shallows giving him a cold, fishy, stare. Unable to catch any, he immediately deducted a spawning bass won't strike.

Since that time, the idea has become a legend. Each Spring it is strengthened by hundreds of fishermen who dangle choice morsels before the noses of bass in shallow water—and receive not so much as a fin-wiggle in return.

Best Time Of Year
But an experienced angler will tell you the spawning months are one of the best times of the year to fill a stringer, the very best season to bring home Grandpa.

Here's the gimmick:
The spawning bass you see in the shallows can be either male or female, depending on the stage of the process. The female lays her eggs and leaves. The male takes over, fertilizes them and stands guard during the hatching period.

So, whether you get a strike or not, could depend a lot upon what he or she happens to be doing at the time.

It is doubtful a female bass, busily giving birth to a few thousand eggs, would stop everything to grab a shiny gadget with treble hooks.

But an old he-bass, fanning the eggs afterward and not trusting anything or anybody, is apt to knock the stuffing out of a cigar if you throw one over him.

And so it goes. The argument is settled, just as it always has been. They will and they won't, depending.

High School Students Prepare For Lubbock Interscholastic Meet

Midland High School students are preparing for Interscholastic League literary events to be held at Lubbock April 7.

Competing schools will be Midland, Big Spring, Odessa, Lamesa and Lubbock.

Literary events in the annual competition include debate, declamation, extemporaneous speech, one-act play, ready writers, spelling, slide rule, typewriting and short-hand. Winners at the district contest will go to the regional meet in Abilene, where the subsequent winners will be selected to go to the state meet.

Recently the contest sponsors revealed the contestants who will represent MHS in the different contests.

Verna Harris announced the following contestants: boys' debate—Joe Barnett and Clifford Wilcox; girls' debate—Jean Ferguson and Ruth Bleyberg; declamation—senior girl, Nancy McKinley; junior girl—Katherine Cartier; senior boy—Charles Whitmore; junior boy—Bill Robitsek. Alternates are Virginia Kroenlein and Helen Heidelberg. The debate question this year will be "Resolved, That social welfare benefits to the people should be extended by the government."

Extemporaneous speakers will be Royce Measures and Shirley Brown. Oratorical Team

The spelling team will include Claudine Hamner and Sandra Keim, with Frances Bond as alternate, according to Dorothy Perkins, sponsor.

Wesley Pittman will enter the ready writers contest, with Gregory Lovelady as an alternate. Miss Gwen Gordon reports.

Representing the school in short-hand at the meet will be Barbara Acker, Wanda Burnside and Jeanita Rice, according to Mrs. C. G. Percy. Alternates are La Dean Johnson, Ruby Goins and Margie Cramer.

Candidates Listed
Mrs. Elsie Magee, who sponsors the slide rule contestants, announces the following candidates: Fred Meisner, John Van Buskirk, Bill Van Landingham and alternate Eugene Cooper.

Typewriting contestants, as announced by Miss Fannie Reeves, are Diane Anderson, Phyllis Bufkin, Nancy Webb, Toya Chapple, Mike Brunner, Joe Barnett, Mary Jo Hejl, Jane Umberson, and alternates Jo Dean Downing and Gail Baker.

The one-act play contest will be held in Lubbock on Saturday. All other literary events are scheduled April 7. The music festival and band competition will be held at a later date. The music festival of choral music will be held in Midland this year, according to R. C. Michener.
