Baseball Showdown Set Sunday

Meet Called To Consider Indians' Fate

Recurring rumors that the Midland Baseball Club might be sold came to a head Friday when Owner Harold Webb and Longhorn League President Hal Sayles announced a meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday in Hotel Scharbauer's Crystal Ballroom here to determine the disposition of the Midland franchise.

Businessmen from Ballinger and Winters will meet here to discuss buying the club and moving it to Ballinger as a twin-city operation.

But Sayles said Midland businessmen will be heard at the meeting and will have a chance to buy the club before the Ballinger-Winters delegation is heard. It is the custom of baseball to allow the home city to buy a club before it is moved elsewhere.

Several Midland men said Friday they would attend the session to discuss the possibility of buying the Midland Indians. It is possible several of them will form a corporation to purchase Webb's interests.

"I'm not crying wolf," Webb told The Reporter-Telegram Friday.

"Some people think I'm just trying to scare them into coming to the ball game. But I've got to draw better than I am now, or sell out."

"I'm ready to sell," he continued, "and I want to sell to Midland people, if possible. I know the ball club will make money. We're not drawing now because we are losing, and we're losing because we don't have pitching. But I can't buy pitching with the crowds I now have."

The Midland manager said the players want to remain here and hope Midlanders will buy the club. "Something's wrong," he said, "and it may be me. Frankly, I believe I've been here too long. The (Continued On Page Eight)

Daniel Declares All Bookie Shops Closed

AUSTIN —(P)— State Attorney General Price Daniel said he believed open bookie shops in Texas were closed down Friday.

Horse racing information service sent by telephone to the Maceo interests of Galveston was stopped on a court order obtained by the state Thursday.

Daniel said Galveston County was "the only place where Continental Press, a nationwide monopoly on racing information, was coming to open bookie shops in Texas. Daniel got a restraining order stopping the service. Last year he won an injunction stopping Western racing information into Texas.

He filed his suit Thursday against the Maceo Syndicate, its 16 partners, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and Southwestern Associated Telephone Company.

Hearing on a temporary injunction will be held here June 18.

Grandfalls Man Dies In Car-Truck Crash; Monahans Man Hurt

BOERNE —(P)— One man was dead and another injured critically following an automobile collision two miles north of here on Highway 87.

The accident occurred late Thursday when a truck driven by Quinton Hardaway, 30, San Antonio, and a car crashed head-on, State Highway officers reported.

Charles Leon Roberts, 37, of Grandfalls, driver of the car, was killed instantly. A passenger in the car, Tom Garrett, 32, of Monahans, was injured critically. Officers said Hardaway lost control of the truck when a wheel came off. He suffered slight bruises.

Herring Nominated As U. S. Attorney

WASHINGTON —(P)— Charles F. Herring was nominated Friday by President Truman as U. S. attorney for West Texas.

Herring has been parliamentarian of the Texas Senate since January. He is an attorney in Austin and has served briefly as secretary for U. S. Senator Lyndon Johnson of Austin in Washington.

He is 37 years old, calls McCreger, Texas, his hometown, is married and has three children.

Vogeler Repudiates Confession

WASHINGTON —(P)— Robert A. Vogeler Friday repudiated as rubbish the "confession" of sabotage and spying against Hungary he said he made after 17 months in a Communist prison.

The American businessman, freed April 28 when the State Department complied with Hungarian government demands, detailed for the first time his prison ordeal to the National Press Club.

"There comes a time when a person is faced with the utter futility of not complying with their demands," Vogeler said of his captors. "He believes that he is abandoned, that he will be killed in any case, that an alleged confession will appear anyway—so he signs the rubbish placed before him."

Unfortunate Impression
"As for my testimony at the trial, I seem to have created an unfortunate impression at my first press interview that the testimony was partly true," he said. "In my description of it I sought to use irony when I said 'There was some truth in it.' Perhaps I have lost my sense of irony."

"The fact is that my name, my birthplace, my employer's name and other similar facts were indeed accurately given. But little, if anything else, applied."

Vogeler was discharged from the Bethesda Naval Hospital on June 1 after almost a month of treatment. He was an assistant vice president of the International Telephone & Telegraph Company.

"Thanking the American press for keeping the case alive," Vogeler said this was a "case history" of Communist methods and advised, "It can happen to you."

"I wish everyone could understand this," he said. "No price is too dear to pay for our way of life."

Air-Ground Search Underway For Three Missing Children

SANTA FE, N. M. —(P)— More than 200 men searched the rugged Sangre De Cristo Mountains Friday for three small Santa Fe children who wandered away from a family picnic.

Wearily after fanning through the tortuous area with flashlights and lanterns all night, the group was joined Friday by low-flying planes and men on horse.

Missing in the almost two-mile high Santa Fe Ski Basin area are Larry McGee, seven, and his sister, Janet, five, children of Mr. and Mrs. Preston McGee, and Steven Cross, three, and one-half, son of Mrs. Charlotte Cross, Santa Fe.

McGee is a prominent mortician here; Mrs. Cross is the widow of an Air Force officer who flew in the Berlin airlift.

State Police Chief Joe Roach, personally directing the combined air-ground search, said the three youngsters disappeared after noon Thursday while picnicking with their mothers. The mothers spent about three hours frantically searching for them before telephoning to Santa Fe for help.

Mobile searchlight trucks played beams on low-hanging clouds throughout the night, hoping to attract the children.

State police said temperatures stayed around 45 degrees during the night and that the children, although lightly dressed, would have suffered little from exposure.

★ LATE NEWS FLASHES ★

WASHINGTON —(P)— Price Director Dille Friday told Congress failure to control beef prices would wreck the ceilings on all foods and force the abandonment of the entire stabilization program.

AUSTIN —(P)— Senate Finance Chief Howard Carney of Atlanta Friday was named president pro tempore of the Senate for the interval between the present session and the next regular meeting of the Texas Legislature in 1953.

DALLAS —(P)— Cattle growers apparently are trying to create an artificial meat shortage through a "sit-down strike," William J. Speck, Dallas district director, Office of Price Stabilization, declared Friday.

WASHINGTON —(P)— A 20 per cent cut in money for the Army Engineers' flood control and rivers and harbors program for the next fiscal year was recommended Friday by the House Appropriations Committee.

Disappearance Of Diplomats Spurs All-Out Manhunt

LONDON —(P)— The Foreign Office Friday said messages bearing the names of two missing British diplomats—and sent from Paris by a mysterious third person—failed to give a single clue as to their present whereabouts.

William Ridsdale, head of the Foreign Office news department, said three messages to relatives here appeared to have been composed by the vanished Britons, but were not in their handwriting.

In Paris, the newspaper France Soir said the missing pair—Donald Duart MacLean, head of the American department of the Foreign Office, and Guy Burgess, until recently at the British Embassy in Washington—now may be in Warsaw. The paper said French Army representatives now say they have decided it is straight Devonian.

The Fossilman was drilled test at 12,215-265 feet. The tool was open two hours and 35 minutes. No gas or fluid came to the surface while the tester was open.

Recovered Oil And Water
Recovery was 4,300 feet of mud cut oil and 4,800 feet of salty, sulphur water.

The prospector started a core at 12,255 feet. The cutting had reached 12,278 feet and was to continue to 12,305 feet.

When that depth is reached operators plan to run a drillstem test. Corrected top of the Fossilman is at 12,207 feet. Elevation is 2,286 feet. Top of the Fossilman had previously been tentatively picked to be at 12,226 feet.

Location is 13 miles northwest of Throck and 600 feet from south and 4,520 feet from east lines of League 258, Wichita County School Land survey.

Spraberry Explorer Slaked Near Midland
The Blackwood & Nichols Company officially reported location for a 1,500-foot lower Spraberry wildcat two and one-half miles north-east of the city of Midland.

The project will be dug as the concern's No. 1 Hofferkamp, 1,960 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 13, block 38, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company and Seaboard Oil Company are supporting the venture.

The project is seven and one-half miles north of Moore Exploration Company No. 1 Baumann, indicated flowing discovery from an unidentified formation.

K-M Gets Slight Oil Shows In Fullerton In Andrews Tests
Kerr-McGee Oil Industries No. 1-B-11-23 University, wildcat in Central-South Andrews County, has found some slight shows of oil and gas in the Fullerton pay section in a series of three drillstem tests.

On a test from 6,400 feet to 6,500 feet, recovery was 200 feet of oil and gas cut mud which was four per cent oil.

The tool was open two hours. There was no water. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 120 pounds and shut-in pressure after 15 minutes was 280 pounds.

Had Oil And Gas
A drillstem test was taken at 6,550-85 feet with tool open two hours. Recovery was 240 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud which was six per cent of oil. No water was recovered.

No pressures were reported. Operator took a two-hour drillstem test from 6,799 feet to 6,821 feet. Recovery was 195 feet of heavily gas cut mud and 45 feet of salt water. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 100 pounds and 15-minute shut-in pressure was 360 pounds.

Not Much Oil
Informed sources do not think that the shows of oil found in the above drillstem tests are sufficient to make much of an oil well.

The project is now drilling below 6,824 feet in the lower Fullerton lime and shale.

It is located 2,007 feet from north and 2,033.4 feet from west lines of section 23, block 11, University survey.

Korean War No Stalemate, Says General Marshall

TOKYO —(P)— U. S. Defense Secretary George C. Marshall paid a surprise visit to the Korean war front Friday while big Allied guns fought a long range artillery duel with Chinese batteries in front of Chorwon.

Marshall said any peace moves would have to come from Red China. He is seeking more United Nations troops to support the Allied drive.

The Korean campaign is not a stalemate, he said. It's a "military classic."

The war "is going along fine," added Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN supreme commander.

UN forces hammered Friday at suddenly stiffened resistance before Chorwon, gateway to the Reds' vital "Iron Triangle" on which their whole position in Korea depends.

The Eighth Army reported gains of up to a mile, and slightly more than that in drives up the central front. Tanks rumbled up one road for three miles without trouble.

These blows were aimed at Kumhwa, eastern anchor of the triangle. Chinese Flight Stabornly

Stanton Reporter Changes Ownership

STANTON—James E. Kelly, veteran West Texas newspaper publisher and owner of The Stanton Reporter, has announced the sale of the weekly newspaper to the Permian Basin Publishing Company, a corporation being formed by a group of Midland newspaper people.

The sale and transfer of The Stanton Reporter was effective June 1.

Kelly, editor of the Stanton newspaper the last 20 years, will continue with The Reporter in that capacity. A spokesman for the new owners said a building and expansion program for The Reporter already is planned and that everything possible will be done to make it one of the best and most progressive weekly county seat newspapers in Texas.

Stockholders Listed
Stockholders of the Permian Basin Publishing Company, which now is in the process of organization, are Jimmy Allison, James N. Allison, Robert M. Turpin, H. G. Orson, W. H. (Bill) Collyns, Betty Stultz Simmons and Sylvia Holliman, all of Midland, and Kelly.

Garvis P. Rois has joined The Reporter staff as managing editor and advertising manager, and H. G. Hull is the shop foreman. Julia Pearl Hildreth is society editor.

Forty chosen quartets were ready to give out with their best in the two-day annual championships of SPEBSQSA.

City Plans South Side Truck Route

The City Council Thursday afternoon gave the green light to plans for a south side by-pass route for trucks and other heavy through-town traffic.

The proposed route was recommended by the city's planning commission.

City Manager W. H. Oswald was instructed to proceed with preliminary discussions with the county and with the State Highway Department.

The proposed route would tie in with the Front Street improvement project and fit later into a more comprehensive by-pass route for cross-country traffic.

When completed, the route would permit north-south traffic to skirt Midland and not congest downtown streets.

Oil Changes Traffic
The plan was outlined before members of the council by Burton Atkinson, member of the planning commission, and Kenneth McParland, commission secretary.

Atkinson said the development of oil in Midland County had changed the traffic pattern through Midland since the Front Street project, designed to speed east-west traffic flow began, making it necessary to provide an additional north-south route.

Such a route would divert traffic originating from the north and west and heading south to by-pass the business district of the city.

Under the proposal, Florida Street would be extended west to a point where Front Street will connect with U. S. Highway 80 and then head straight north to intersect with the Andrews Highway.

Atkinson said the city already had much of the right-of-way, although Florida Street, itself, would be widened in some parts.

Van Camp, 50, Dies In Midland Hospital
Van Camp, about 50, an employee of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, died Friday morning in a Midland hospital of a heart ailment. Camp resided at 802 North Big Spring Street.

He was admitted to the hospital here for treatment Thursday and was advised to remain overnight. Mrs. Camp was out of the city at the time of his death.

Camp had worked for Magnolia about 20 years in its engineering department.

Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Maurine Camp of Midland and two brothers, Dr. Joe Camp of Pecos and Ray Camp, Fort Worth newspaperman.

Camp was a prominent lay worker of the First Christian Church. Funeral arrangements are pending. Newline W. Ellis Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Big Spring Airport To Be Used As AF Training School

WACO —(P)— Maj. Gen. Warren R. Carter Friday announced the Big Spring Municipal Airport will be used as an advanced single-engine flying training school.

He announced appointment of Col. Ernest P. Wackwitz, Jr., now at Goodfellow Air Force Base at San Angelo, as project officer for the new base.

General Carter is commanding officer of the Flying Training Air Force with headquarters here. FTAF supervises pilot-training for the Air Force at 26 widely separated bases.

Coincidentally with the Waco announcement, District Army Engineers at Fort Worth announced that H. M. Lindsey will be brought from a Nebraska assignment to serve as project engineer at Big Spring AFB.

Work to be done there, Carter announced, includes airfield pavements, fuel facilities, operations buildings, storage and training facilities, navigational aids, barracks, dispensaries and utilities.

The base will not be operational for several months. When training begins, personnel strength will be about 200 officers, 1,000 airmen, 200 civilians and 100 students. Ultimate strength will be 300 officers, 1,900 airmen, 500 civilians and 400 students.

Aircraft used will be one of the following: The T-6 Texan; T-28, a two-place conventional engine trainer; the T-33, a two-place jet; or TP-80, training version of the Shooting Star.

Council Cuts Down Sewage Land Needs

The City of Midland, faced with the prospect of paying $128,000 for a section of land for its new sewage disposal plant, decided Thursday it could manage with half a section.

The $128,000 figure was set by a board of appraisers after the city had brought condemnation proceedings.

This figure, however, far exceeded the $24,000 which the city originally had planned to spend for a site for the new plant.

Thursday, the council instructed City Attorney Edwin T. Stitt to proceed with negotiations for acquiring only a half-section, which City Manager W. H. Oswald said would be adequate for the project.

Crime Probers Hear About Big Narcotics Parties In Baltimore

BALTIMORE —A— Shocked Senate crime investigators were told Thursday about narcotics parties in Baltimore attended by as many as 40 men and women dope addicts at a time.
The first-hand reports were revealed when the investigators questioned 10 inmates of the Maryland Reformatory for Women in nearby Jessup.
Senator O'Connor (D-Md.), committee chairman, said he and two assistants were told about parties in private homes, when anywhere from 15 to 40 dope fiends gathered.
The witnesses said heroin, a quick-acting, habit-forming drug, was the narcotic most frequently used at the parties.
A reformatory official said the testimony literally "took their (the investigators) breath away."
Linked With Washington
Assisting O'Connor in the questioning were James M. Hepburn, his administrative assistant in the crime hearings, and Richard G. Moser, the committee's chief counsel.
O'Connor said the committee's findings in Maryland warrants stepping up the probe into narcotics both here and elsewhere.
One thing partially established, he said, is that there is a link between Baltimore and Washington in the narcotics traffic.
The committee has received reports that more and more women are being used in peddling narcotics in the belief they'll be given lighter sentences than men. That was one reason for questioning women at the reformatory, O'Connor said.

Costello Has A New Way Of Whipping Up His Scripts

Hollywood — On the Record: Someone asked Lou Costello how he expected to get 104 half-hour scripts for the Abbott and Costello television film series, before Christmas, from just one writer, Eddie Forman.
Lou looked around and whispered: "With whips."

Hometown Honors Jet Ace Jabara
WICHITA, KAN.—(P)—Friday is Jimmy Jabara day in Wichita. His hometown scheduled a big parade at 2 p.m. to honor Captain Jabara, first U. S. Air Force jet pilot to become an ace.
Son of a Wichita grocer, Jabara knocked down six Russian-built jet planes—one more than required for ace honors—before returning to the U. S. last week from Korea.
The young hero, who was called to Washington first for consultations, arrived Thursday night with his wife and two children and got a big reception.
His rank was forgotten as his old schoolmates milled around calling "Hi there, Jimmy."

The gun's barrel is nine feet long. It has a terrific muzzle velocity.
Allied forces captured some of the guns. They were equipped with new Russian-made tires.

Forest Rangers Hunt Escaped Black Bear
CHICAGO —(P)—A 250-pound black bear was on the prowl Friday in a forest preserve near suburban La Grange.
Police said forest rangers were hunting through the mile-square, heavily wooded area in an attempt to trap or kill the bear.
The bear, described as about six feet tall and unmuzzled, was reported to have escaped from a small circus.

Culver and Culver, Man-Wife Team, To Practice Law Here

A hard-working and already precedent-setting young man-and-wife legal team soon will be claiming Midland as home. They are John R. Culver and his wife, Barbara.
The Culvers can claim the distinction of being the first married couple ever to be graduated in the same law class at the Southern Methodist University School of Law at Dallas.
Culver, a 28-year-old Army veteran, is the son of Mrs. Jewell Culver, an employee of Colbert's here. Culver's mother said her son and daughter-in-law will move to Midland about July 1 to establish a joint law practice.
Culver and his pretty wife marched up to receive their law degrees at SMU's commencement exercises Monday. Mrs. Culver, who has said she wouldn't mind opposing her husband in a law court, got off to an early start by receiving her degree a few minutes before her husband, a victim of alphabetical order.
The Culvers have a young son, Larry, who arrived between semesters 16 months ago.
For the last three years the Culvers have been hard at work with their law cases. They worked out a study system whereby Barbara read law cases aloud while John beat out "briefs" on a typewriter. They put in six to eight hours of homework a day.
Barbara, who had newspaper background to help out, would take notes in class while John sat back and "absorbed" the lectures.
The Culvers met at Texas Tech, where John had gone to school after his discharge from the Army. Barbara was editor of the college paper then and tried to interview him, but Culver balked. Barbara, however, did not turn Culver down a little more than a year later.

Cheyenne Indians Pray For Peace

RAPID CITY, S. D.—(P)—Four Indian braves, painted with yellow ochre and wearing only loin cloths, prayed for world peace Friday from atop Bear Butte.
The four Cheyennes will remain on the mountain four days and four nights, fasting and praying. Chief Whistling Elk, head medicine man of the tribe from Lame Deer, Mont., conducted the ceremony starting the ritual Thursday.
The band of about 50 Indians taking part will remain at the foot of the butte until the men come down. Prayers are being made for a stop to the Korean war and for American forces to come safely through it.
The last Cheyenne peace ceremony was conducted in May, 1945; the Japs surrendered the following August.

Uncle Sam Offers The Ladies Plenty Not Found Elsewhere

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer
I couldn't attend a joint press conference at which Col. Mary A. Hallaren, director of Women's Army Corps, and Col. Geraldine P. May, director of Women in the Air Force, offered to explain the various programs for women volunteering for these two services.
But I'd like to quote a paragraph from a letter written by Maj.-Gen. T. J. Hanley, Jr., chief of Military Personnel Procurement Service, inviting me to the conference.
"The build-up in male personnel for the two services now is being accomplished steadily each month through voluntary recruitment and Selective Service. The need for women in both the U. S. Army and the U. S. Air Force has increased tremendously since the outbreak of Korean hostilities. Now the time has come to acquaint the women of America with the career opportunities for needed, and worthwhile service which are available in the Army and in the Air Force."
How about acquainting yourself with those facts, you June graduates?
Aside from serving your country, which is of first importance, if you go into one of the services you will be sharing with the young men of your age group a tremendously important experience.
That is a privilege — and one that women have only recently earned. It is such a privilege that it is hard to imagine the armed services having any trouble getting all the young women they need to uniform.
And remember this: over the long haul the great majority of women lead somewhat unexciting lives. Here is a real chance for an experience entirely different from anything you have known—or, in all likelihood, will have a chance to know again.

At least consider what you can offer Uncle Sam and what he can offer you before you do any serious job-hunting.

Keep Lotion In The Kitchen

Hand lotion, kept within convenient reach in the kitchen, aids this homemaker in keeping her hands soft and lovely despite ravages of dishwasher and household grime.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The homemaker who walls that her hands are doomed to roughness and redness because of the kind of work she does is really making excuses, whether she realizes it or not.

What she's truly saying is that she doesn't consider her hands sufficiently important to make an effort in behalf of their loveliness.

Any housewife, busy with cooking, cleaning and child care, is justified in reacting indignantly when it's suggested she adopt elaborate, time-consuming routines. Any woman, however, who's interested in retaining her essential femininity should be willing to devote a few minutes each day to overcoming her hand problem.

Face it frankly. Hands that are continually thrust into dishpans, scrub pails and laundry tubs are a problem. As the skin dries out from constant immersion in soapy water, scalliness develops. Fingernails tend to become brittle.

One answer is prevention. Learn to use rubber gloves for your indoor tasks and canvas work gloves for your outdoor chores. You may feel a bit clumsy at first, but practice reduces awkwardness.

As an added measure, when you're engaged in particularly dirty tasks, make a practice of smoothing on hand lotion before you don your gloves. Or, if you find gloves unmanageable, use lotion as a substitute, smoothing on a thorough coating before you tackle the job.

Scrape your fingernails across a cake of slightly moistened soap to prevent imbedded grime beneath their tips.

The Great Goal

There'll be the usual trumpeting in Congress for sharp, across-the-board cuts in President Truman's $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

It shouldn't have to be said there is nothing sacred about foreign aid proposals. Where genuine economies can be attained, they should be.

But we'd all like to escape the spectacle this year of lawmakers becoming suddenly solicitous about the taxpayer after having shown him no marked respect in voting funds which affect their home bailiwicks.

The Administration program asks $6,250,000,000 in military aid and $2,250,000,000 in economic. Of these sums, Europe would get $5,240,000,000 for arms and $1,650,000,000 for the windup of the Marshall Plan.

The argument for this assistance is the peril facing Europe and Asia from the Russian Communists. If the free lands are to be kept out of the Kremlin's grasp, they must be buoyed up economically and defended by stout arms.

The United States long since has recognized this compelling necessity and has committed itself to basic aid programs. What is being asked now is simply another installment on an account already established.

Some will say, as they have every year this program has been considered, that we can't afford it. This little fantasy has no bearing on the issue. When the nation's defense is at stake, you don't argue cost.

There's an even more tangible answer to this. It comes from William C. Foster, head of ECA:

An economically sound, well-defended Europe means we can hold our armed forces to 3,500,000 or 4,000,000 men. Without Europe, we'd need maybe 14,000,000.

With Europe on our side, we can hold military output here to 20 or 30 per cent of total production. Alone, we'd have to earmark perhaps half of it for defense, with consequent severe curtailment of the civilian economy.

Furthermore, if we help Europe produce its own arms (through economic aid), the weapons will be produced where they can be ready for use—on the Continent.

And it's been carefully estimated that for every 25 cents we spend to aid Europe to arm itself, the Europeans will add about 75 cents from their own resources.

Foster believes Europe with U. S. support can boost its production $100,000,000,000 annually, from the present $170,000,000,000. If that happens, he says, Europeans then could produce enough arms to protect themselves (and us) and raise living standards by 50 per cent.

That's the great goal—to put Europe in shape to carry its own load. What we've done toward that end so far stands as a remarkable achievement. But we can't wisely halt until the job is finished. A half-built dam won't hold back the river for long.

Yes, we probably could slash an arbitrary billion or two off the new foreign aid proposals. But the chances are that we'd pay it out many times over at some later date, in more aid to Europe, a bigger army at home, a lower standard of living, perhaps even a war begun by a Russian emboldened at the sight of a weakened free world.

When you are saving a civilization, isn't it better to spend too much than too little?

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

In far-off Australia bridge championships are often decided by means of specially prepared hands. This year the Australian Bridge Council is arranging a special contest of thirty-two prepared hands to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the federation of the six states of Australia.

The hand shown today, prepared for such a contest some years ago, shows how the Australians demand every ounce of skill from their contestants.

South is expected to get to three no-trump, a somewhat doubtful contract. However, it must be admitted that good players bid just such flimsy games every day in the week.

West opens the king of spades, holding the trick. He continues with the queen of spades, and East discards the six of diamonds.

South wins with the ace of spades and sees that he needs at least two (actually three) heart tricks for his contract. Hence he is doomed to defeat if West has the ace of hearts. He must play the hand on the assumption that East has the heart ace.

South therefore leads a heart at the third trick. West plays the seven . . . and now the correct play must be made from dummy. Pretend you're an Australian and pick the right play.

Dummy must play a low heart. This allows East to win with the eight of hearts. East will also win a trick later on with the ace of hearts. But then the rest of dummy's hearts will be good, and declarer makes the contract.

If the queen of hearts is played on the first round of that suit, East naturally takes the ace. Then West is bound to get the lead with the ten or jack of hearts to run enough spade tricks to set the contract.

What happens if East discards a heart on the second round of spades? Then South is set—even if East discards the ace of hearts.

However, this is assumed to be a double dummy play, and did not actually happen when the tournament was held.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: North 1 Heart, East 1 No-trump, South 1 Spade, West 1 No-trump. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-9-8-3, Club 4. What do you do?

A—Bid three hearts. You expect your partner to make game at his suit, and this jump raise indicates that fact. You have better than an average hand together with fine trump support and good distribution. This should be enough to

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Senator Russell's Private Life Helps To Explain His Career

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The junior gentleman from Georgia, Chairman Richard Brevard Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is a bachelor. That explains a lot about his career.

Although he is a most eligible catch for any gal or for any hostess, Senator Russell shuns the Washington social racket like the plague.

When he first came to Washington, he considered many of the invitations he got something like command performances. He felt he had to go.

But one night at a party he got into an interesting discussion with a British army colonel. Everybody seemed to be sticking around, so Senator Russell stayed too.

That was the end of the Russell social career. Senator Russell now lives in Washington with one of his married sisters and her husband, Col. J. K. Stacy, an airline official. But until he moved in with the Stacys, Senator Russell kept a bachelor apartment in the Mayflower Hotel many years.

He Can Cook, Too He did some of his own cooking, too. Scrambled eggs and country ham—with grits—is his favorite dish. But sometimes when Louisiana's Senator Allen J. Ellender comes up to see him, they cook up quite elaborate meals. Senator Ellender fancies himself as something of a Southern chef.

Why Senator Russell never married always has been something of a mystery. He has good height and build, blond hair and blue eyes and he's a pleasant company with the characteristic Southern gift of gab and fund of good stories. He says he's never had time to marry. He's too wedded to his job.

Dick Russell was the oldest of 12 children. He has seven brothers and four sisters, all living and all married. Their mother, now 83, still lives at the family home and farm just outside of Winder, Ga., a little town about 40 miles northeast of Atlanta. The senator makes his home with his mother when he's not in Washington.

A grand old woman of the old South, she has a mother's natural leanings for her first-born. And it's generally understood among his friends that Senator Russell certainly won't marry while his mother is still alive, and maybe not even after that.

There's a 1,200-acre farm around the Russell homestead, a big white clapboard place set in a grove of old trees. Most of the land is farmed on lease. The family has lived there only since the war between the states.

The senator's father, now dead, was a former chief justice of the Georgia Supreme Court. The Russell family, early Scotch-Irish settlers in Georgia, had a wool mill and an iron mill near Marietta before the war. They were destroyed.

provide a reasonable play for game. TODAY'S QUESTION The bidding has been: North 1 Heart, East 1 Spade, West 1 No-trump, South 1 Spade, West 1 No-trump. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-9-8-3, Club 4. What do you do?

If the queen of hearts is played on the first round of that suit, East naturally takes the ace. Then West is bound to get the lead with the ten or jack of hearts to run enough spade tricks to set the contract.

What happens if East discards a heart on the second round of spades? Then South is set—even if East discards the ace of hearts.

However, this is assumed to be a double dummy play, and did not actually happen when the tournament was held.

Have a Laugh

By BOYCE HOUSE

A "drunk" was tossed out of a club and he arose, announced he was going back in and throw everybody out. To another intoxicated gentleman on the sidewalk, he said, "You stand here and count 'em."

Then he re-entered the place. A minute later, the door flew open and a form sailed out. The man on the sidewalk said, "One." The man who had been kicked out, arose and said, "Don't start counting yet; this is me coming out again."

The FORM DIVINE by HILDEGARDE DOLSON

THE STORY: Lucilla Webb, enrolled in the Beautiful-You School, hadn't told her husband Arthur she had a new, glamorous woman out of her. Consequently, Arthur is baffled at Lucilla's new attitude and the exercises she does at home.

time, Lucilla worked almost as hard to get it off as she had to put it on.

She was to meet Derek again for cocktails the following Monday. He had managed to mutter the invitation at the East-Beauty bar, while Paris was grumbling about that day's lunch treat for Bulgies, a piece of watermelon the size of a finger, sprinkled with mineral oil and rolled in shredded beet-tops. "Go on, taste it," Paris had urged Lucilla generously. "It tastes like gasoline, only worse."

In her other ear, Derek was murmuring, "Same time, same place?" Her nod was meant for Derek, but was taken by Paris as assent. Lucilla couldn't help shuddering, as Paris' fork was thrust at her, laden, but the thought of the date ahead stimulated her enough to swallow the ghastly stuff.

The Sunday before this second rendezvous, while Arthur and Hoopy went to the vet's to retrieve Sniffles, Lucilla tackled three white frills together, to make an Elizabethan ruff.

In the midst of this she heard Arthur and Hoopy return, and went out into the foyer to greet Sniffles. She bent down to pat him, and he drew back, growling. "Why, Sniffles!" she exclaimed. At the sound of the familiar voice, the spaniel stared unbelievably. "Sniffles, don't you know me?"

She was a little surprised—but also flattered—at Sniffles' tribute to the New You.

THE early martyrs who merely crawled on their stomachs over broken glass, would have looked with genuine astonishment at Lucilla and her classmates in the final stages of evolution. One set of machines was the electric re-educating kneaders known in Beautiful-You parlance as Bump-Wumps.

Under the direction of Miss Willit, the Bump-Wumps were used to machines for as long as an hour at a time, backing up to sit on the Bumpy revolving apparatus. Miss Thumhold, having the firmest fatty tissue, was the No. 1 victim of the Bump-Wumps.

When the resignation on her face had proceeded through the stage of exalted suffering to a mute animal resignation against pain, Miss Willit would exhort her with cries of, "Just five more minutes on the upper thighs, Miss Thumhold. Remember, we must agitate the flesh!"

Mrs. Varsney and Mrs. Cleery, whose flesh was more easily agitated, were so encouraged by the day-to-day shrinkage that they would run to the torture-rack as to a lover, and hug it till they were black and blue.

The machines, plugged in to wall sockets, made a loud, ratchet noise in action; but so did Paris. She gave her opinion of the Bump-Wumps candidly, at the top of her lungs, interesting frequent and piteous yells of, "How much longer I gotta take on the fanny?" Whenever she was quiet for several minutes, Miss Willit, with justifiable suspicion, would investigate. "Miss Green, you aren't even in contact!"

AS soon as Lucilla, who had her own Bony's personal manipulation program in one corner of the room, was given an exercise jumping rope, Paris was irresistibly drawn. "Look, you're holding it too low down, and you gotta jump with both feet at once." She would grab the rope and demonstrate so buoyantly that her top-knot of curls leaped. "Didn't you ever skip rope as a kid?"

It turned out that everybody in the class but Lucilla had been an expert rope-jumper, although the others contented themselves with occasional kibitzing, whereas Paris had the tenacity of a trainer.

"There, you didn't trip so bad that time, did you? Now swing it easier, and make like your feet were tied together." Lucilla naturally resented the good advice, although after benefiting by it until she could jump 10 consecutive loops without tripping, she always expected Paris to praise her.

Alcoa May Build Huge Plant In Texas

WACO—A 100 million dollar aluminum plant may be built in Southern Milam County, Rep. W. R. Foage announced.

He said Thursday night no definite decision had been made, and that the Aluminum Company of America is considering the Texas site and a site in Louisiana for the plant.

The choice between the two sites may be made in Washington next Wednesday, Foage said.

Foage said there are several things in favor of the Milam County site.

He said there is an extensive field of lignite that would give an inexhaustible fuel supply for the giant steam generators which reduce bauxite ore.

Railroad transportation is adequate, he said, and that the problem of an adequate water supply has been licked.

Ore for the aluminum plant would be shipped from South America. He said the U. S. Bureau of Mines is supporting the Milam County site because it is interested in having the lignite deposits developed.

Proposal To Use Tidelands Revenues For U. S. Aid To Education Stirs Texas Ire

WASHINGTON—Ten senators have joined in a proposal that revenues from off-shore oil be used for federal aid to education.

Their proposal was prepared as an amendment Thursday to a resolution that would permit continued oil operations in the so-called Tidelands under temporary federal control.

The proposal would permit states adjacent to the off-shore oil lands to retain 37 1/2 per cent of the revenues. The remaining 62 1/2 per cent would be placed in a special educational fund in the U. S. Treasury.

Speaking for the 10 sponsors of the amendment, Senator Hill (D-Ala.) said the Geological Survey estimates oil deposits off the coasts of California, Texas and Louisiana are worth more than $40,000,000,000.

This resource, he said, belongs to all the people of the United States, not just the residents of the three states.

Vast Treasure Involved
Hill said the purpose in offering the amendment, among other things, is to awaken in Congress and among the people generally an understanding of the "vastness of the treasure involved."

Senators sponsoring the proposal, besides Hill, are Douglas (D-Ill.), Morse (R-Ore.), Hennings (D-Mo.), Benton (D-Conn.), Tobey (R-NH.), Neely (D-WVa.), Sparkman (D-Ala.), Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Opposition to the proposal came promptly from Texans in Congress. Senators Connally and Lyndon B. Johnson issued opposition statements. Representative Gossett also said he is against the idea. All are Democrats.

Poor Boy-Rich Girl Marriage Ends In Murder Conviction

DETROIT—The poor boy-rich girl marriage of Albert Daly and Virginia Hebb has completed its tragic last chapter.

Daly, 22, a Marine Corps private, was convicted of first degree murder Thursday for the shotgun slaying of Virginia, also 22.

A circuit court jury of nine men and three women took eight and one-half hours to arrive at the verdict. It means life imprisonment.

Daly, wearing Marine dress blues, pleaded at the verdict. He was led handcuffed from the courtroom.

The story began in 1948 when Albert met Virginia at a dance in fashionable Grosse Pointe. Three weeks later, they eloped.

Daly claimed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Pauline Hebb, widow of a wealthy manufacturer, tried to break up the marriage.

However, the jury also heard how Daly, on leave from Camp Lejeune, N. C., invaded his wife's home February 8 and with a shotgun in his hands, ordered Virginia into her bedroom and locked the door behind them.

Police, summoned by Mrs. Hebb, gave Daly 15 minutes to "talk it over" with Virginia. Then they burst in the door, simultaneously with a roar from the shotgun.

Virginia was dying from a wound in her stomach. Daly said the gun discharged as she grabbed it.

The jury, however, found he intentionally had pulled the trigger.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Traveling Snailman

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, was sitting out on the porch of the monkey house. The sky was blue. The sunlight was golden. The fresh smell of Spring was in the air. Daddy Ringtail had almost fallen asleep in his chair. "Daddy Ringtail, look!" cried Mugwump. "Huh?" asked Daddy Ringtail. "Daddy Ringtail, look at the little house that's walking along with us!"

Daddy Ringtail opened his eyes. He looked. Yes, and down below on the Elephant Path he saw it. He saw a house with legs on the bottom — legs that walked. Daddy Ringtail slid to the ground. Mugwump hurried with him. "Happy day to you folks!" said a voice from inside the house. There was really a man inside. The man got down on his knees to let the house sit down on the ground. Then the man opened the door and crawled out. "Happy day to you folks," said the man again, very politely. "Happy day to you, sir," said Daddy Ringtail. He was surprised, you know, with the strange man, and with the strange little house the man carried.

"My name's Mugwump," said Mugwump. "My name's Joe," the stranger answered. "I am a traveling snailman."

"A traveling snailman?" "Oh my yes, a traveling snailman."

Having explained that a traveling snailman is who he was, Joe crawled back into the house and closed the door. Again he picked the house up to carry it on his shoulders. Only his feet stuck out the bottom, while he staggered on and away.

What little steps! How slow he took them! The little house was very heavy, and so he couldn't take big steps to walk fast. But why oh why must he travel on and on — all the time — and never stop to live at one place? Well, a traveling snailman always carries his house along with him; and so he cannot travel fast; and so he has to travel all the time to get anywhere at all. That's why he can't live in one place. Happy day!

Juvenile Swim Star Pronounced Leukemia Victim

RESIDA, CALIF. —(P)—When four-year-old Dennis McShane was 17 months old he could swim the length of a big pool, dive from high springboards.

He appeared on a float in Pasadena's Tournament of Roses in 1948. When he was just past one year old he was given a social security card as a full-fledged wage earner. He was appearing in a movie.

Now doctors say he has only six months to two years to live. He is suffering from leukemia — cancer of the bloodstream.

All his activities had nothing to do with his present condition. Doctors say his swimming has helped him withstand the ravages of the disease.

Dennis has had many blood transfusions and must have more. Because he must be near a hospital, he has been taken from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen McShane, and placed with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston, in Los Angeles.

Dennis' cocker spaniel pal, Mugsy, is wondering what it's all about. So is Dennis.

Parents Held After Child's Body Found Sealed in Oil Can

DETROIT —(P)— Police Friday held "for investigation of murder" the parents of a two-year-old boy whose body was found entombed in a plaster-covered oil can.

Under arrest were Leo Lisa, 36, a die-setter, and his wife, Dorothy, 28, parents of five other children. Service of eviction orders on the family led to the discovery Thursday of the body of Walter, two, in a 20-gallon oil can standing a few feet from his parents' bed.

Police said the body had been in the oil can two months. Detective Sgt. Harry Wimmer said Lisa told of striking Walter in anger at the boy's crying during a parental quarrel and finding him dead on his bunk the next morning.

"I got the can from the garage, put the boy in it, bolted it down, covered it with plaster, and put it in the closet," Lisa was quoted as saying.

Sergeant Wimmer said Mrs. Lisa declared her husband hit the boy "in a drunken rage."

Police said the landlord had secured an eviction order because the couple created a nuisance with constant drinking bouts.

The family lives in the old, down-river Zug Island section of Detroit.

Clark Crash Suits Settled For $6,500

LOS ANGELES —(P)— Two million-dollar suits filed in connection with the plane crash that killed singer Buddy Clark Oct. 1, 1949, have been settled for $6,500.

Mrs. Louis Hughes, former wife of the singer, won court approval Thursday of a $3,500 settlement of a suit in behalf of her children, Thomas, 13, and Katherine, 12.

The widow of the singer, Mrs. Nedra Broccoli, received $1,000, as did radio newscaster Sam Hays and his wife, who were passengers on the plane. Two other passengers, Jennings Pierce and Frank Berend, get $500 each.

There was no insurance to cover the wreck, attorneys said. The suits were directed against D. W. Mercer, owner of the charter plane that was returning from a football game at Palo Alto; James L. Hayer, the pilot; and James D. Melvin, agent for Mercer. Hayer was injured in the crash.

Weary Legislature Trudges To Finish Of Bitter Session

AUSTIN —(P)— A work-wearied 52nd Legislature Friday trudged triumphantly to the end of its fighting, taxing, reforming session.

Final adjournment was set for high noon. Some of the state's toughest problems of recent years apparently were solved. Only a few more were left dangling.

Chief among the solutions were a mammoth $151,000,000 appropriation bill to keep state business and services running two more years and a budget-balancing $83,000,000 tax bill to keep the state free of debt.

Some of the session's earliest and most prolonged fights came over efforts to cut back state expenses, axe some services and hold salary lines. In the end, cut backs were few, no services were axed, many salaries were increased, and the spending line in general was held to that of the last two years.

Biggest guns blazed in the intertwined rural road and tax battle. Tempers of the governor and county judges, senators and representatives, sometimes showed from opposing fortresses. The state ended up with its first tax in history on natural gas being pipelined out of Texas and a threatened rural road program left undamaged.

Densens of other issues were faced head-on. Legislative seats were reapportioned—a bitter task lawmakers had dodged for three decades.

Election Law Reform Reform was voted in the state's criticism-battered election laws. It gave the attorney general sweeping powers to investigate election frauds statewide.

Organized crime was dealt knock-out blows. Mere possession of slot machines, punch boards and policy games was outlawed.

A House committee began a continuing inquiry into local crime conditions throughout the state. Laws to punish criminals were tightened. A registration law was slapped on communists to bring them under state control. Civil defense laws were enacted to serve the state should war come or other disaster strike.

Truckers and railroads fought bitterly through legislation that finally resulted in on-the-spot unloading for overloaded trucks but increased load limits from 48,000 to 58,420 pounds.

Though many automobile drivers probably would consider it a bitter pill to swallow, a double anti-die was whipped up to combat traffic's death-and-damage rampage. Annual inspection of automobiles was ordered in an effort to get unsafe cars and trucks off the highways. Drivers were forced to show proof of ability to pay, through insurance or otherwise, for personal and property damage.

Money Issues Left Dangling Teeth were fitted to an already existing law prohibiting the closing of shops in Texas. Anti-trust fines ranging from $50 to $1,500 were added to force obedience.

Referred to a statewide election for settlement was the highly controversial proposed constitutional amendment to increase the ceiling on the state's welfare program from $35,000,000 to $45,000,000. Voters will get a crack at it at the polls November 13.

The issue of statewide prohibition underwent a thorough drenching. Among major issues left dangling were a proposed new state water code on which an interim committee spent 14 months in research to bring better conservation authority and practices.

A bill to permit the Railroad Commission to fix minimum field prices on natural gas also withered on the vine. Judicial and congressional redistricting were left unattended.

Congressional redistricting brought one of the Senate's two all-night filibusters of the session. A 17-hour stand by Senator George E. Brown blocked the redistricting bill and forced the state to select the new congressman to which it is entitled at a statewide election next year.

The other filibuster, by Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, set an all-time record for one-man stands. He talked 17 hours and 55 minutes against a bill to abolish the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools. The Senate passed the bill but it was bottled up in the House.

Blonde Songstress Resumes Work To Support Children

LOS ANGELES —(P)— Blonde songstress Helen O'Donnell would rather stay home and look after the children but, she charges, her socialite husband refuses to support her.

The husband, Clifford Smith, Jr., 30, was jailed Wednesday night on a failure to provide warrant sworn out by Miss O'Donnell. He later was released on $500 bond.

Smith, scion of a wealthy Portland, Maine, banking family, had been ordered under terms of a separate maintenance action to pay $1,500 a month support to his wife and three children.

He appealed on the claim that all he earns is $70 a week as a dog handler. He has no other funds, he says, except an occasional contribution from his parents.

Miss O'Donnell's lawyer said Thursday that to support the children, she has been forced to resume her singing career. She sang for a number of years with the Jimmy Dorsey Orchestra.

Vishinsky Reported Stricken By Heart Ailment, Recovering

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. —(P)— An authoritative source here Friday said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky is suffering from heart trouble but nevertheless may head the Soviet delegation if the Council of Foreign Ministers meets in Washington.

The Soviet press on May 22 announced the return to duty of the 67-year-old Vishinsky, following an illness which began late last winter. Cause of his illness was not announced.

The source here, who insisted on anonymity, said, however, Vishinsky had suffered a heart ailment and was improving.

Smiths Barely Stay Ahead Of Joneses In New Midland Dial System Directory

The 1951 Midland telephone directories have arrived, and following their wake will be the joyous switch to the dial system.

Al Case, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company branch here, Thursday said delivery of the new directories would, be completed Friday.

The big switch to the dial system will take effect about midnight June 23. At the time of the change, approximately 11,000 telephones will be in operation in Midland.

The new directory is loaded with 40 white pages of listings that begin with the A & L Housing and Lumber Company and end with A. J. Zotos.

In the new book the 66 Smiths listed hold only a slim lead over the 58 Joneses. Every number in the directory is new, and each has five digits.

Case said the $2,000,000 dial system will meet a lion's share of Midland's telephone needs. Some outlying districts still will lack service, but he believes the company will be able to catch up with its waiting list within a month or two after the dial system goes into operation.

Will Retain Personnel Installation of the dial system will add about 1,200 new telephones to the company's service, Case said. The change to the dial system will not necessitate a reduction in the telephone company's present operating force, Case said. Plans are that operators of the current force will be offered continued employment as long distance, information and dial assistance operators.

The beginning of the end to the sluggish manual system was in November, 1949, when construction started on the new building that houses the dial equipment. Since that time the intricate dial equipment has been connected and dials have been installed on all instruments.

Oil Scouts, Landmen Get Down To Business BEAUMONT —(P)— The National Oil Scouts and Landmen's Association got down to business Friday. Delegates got in some pre-convention entertainment Thursday with a golf tournament, won by Ben Brooks of Ardmore, Okla.

Speakers Friday were to include Clyde E. Smith of Woodville, associate justice of the State Supreme Court, Paul Weaver of Houston and E. J. Turner of Freeport.

Official Proposes Tax On Accidents RHINELANDER, WIS. —(P)— A Wisconsin official has come up with an idea for a tax that all good citizens would try to dodge.

It's an accident tax, by which each automobile driver would be taxed for accidents in which he is involved. The amount of the tax would depend on how much the driver was to blame.

Raymond E. Jensen, vice chairman of Wisconsin's Highway Commission, broached the plan Thursday night in a speech before the annual banquet of the Summer Highway Conference.

The tax rate would start at $25 but multiply for succeeding mishaps until "a driver who repeated in accidents would soon reach a tax rate so high that he could no longer afford to continue to hold a driver's license."

"And what's more," he added, "the state would give every aid and encouragement and instruction for dodging the tax."

The MATURE PARENT

Efficient Parent Is One Who's 'Useful' To Child

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
I know a little boy named Mike. He is a four-year-old, red-headed, mischievous, happy and lovable little boy.

When he goes visiting with his father, his father sets aside the last 15 minutes of the visit for Mike to organize himself. He does not help Mike put on his rubbers and overcoat. He lets him fumble. He lets him struggle with the wrong button until he locates the right one.

But all the time, Mike's father is attending to Mike. And as I have watched Mike and his father grin at each other over the finished achievement, in understanding built of odd quarter-hours like this, I have thought: "What a well-weeded little garden of a child you are. How fine is the quality of time you are given."

Mike's father is a busy executive. He is never at home for a pre-bedtime hour. If you suggested he set up a "working and playing together" schedule with Mike, he'd think you had lost your mind. Maybe two people could like each other better than Mike and his father. If so, I haven't met them.

Pre-bedtime hours and those "working and playing together" programs are fine if we can manage them. If we can't, we can take excellent advantage of the quarter and half-hours we are able to spare.

Mike's father doesn't talk about the "pressures" of life. Once when I asked him how to have what he has with his child, he said: "When Mike was born, I decided I was going to be an efficient father. I looked up the meaning of the word 'efficiency' in the dictionary. I discovered it had nothing to do with time, crowded or empty, slow or fast. It just means 'to be useful.' So I quit worrying about the amount of time I could give Mike and concentrated on watching for the odd chances to be useful to him."

Mike's father is a sensitive as well as efficient father. He knows that a small person may be deeply grateful for 10 minutes given up to him while he struggles with a shoelace or the choice of a dessert from a restaurant menu.

He knows that a half-hour can be of priceless value to a small person who needs comfort and counsel when the boy next door has said, "Soram. We don't want any little kids in this game."

If we are resentful at pressures that seem to deprive us of time with our youngsters, it's the resentment that's our problem, not the pressures. The resentment is what accounts for our failure to make good use of what time we can give.

We can learn more about Johnny while we teach him to brush his teeth properly than we can learn in a month's vacation spent in mooning about the pressures we have to return to. (All Rights Reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

Thoughts Of Hungering Public Tip Scales Of Justice In Favor Of Impatient Waitress

The courts of law took judicial notice Friday of the Case of the Impatient Waitress.

And a lot of long-suffering restaurant patrons will get some satisfaction out of the results.

It happened in the corporation courtroom of Judge J. M. DeArmond as Clerk June Cowan called for the trial of a 60-year-old restaurant cook.

"You're charged with disturbing the peace," Judge DeArmond informed him. "Guilty or not guilty?"

"Not guilty, your honor," haughtily answered the cook.

So the waitress — the complaining waitress — was called to the stand to testify.

"I had placed my order," she related, "and when I went back to the kitchen for it, he said it would be ready in 30 minutes.

I went back 20-minutes later and he hadn't even started on the order.

"When I asked him about it he got mad at me and picked up a saucer and started to throw it at me.

"I told him my customers were waiting for their food.

Too Bad To Repeat
"Well, that made him madder and he started calling me names — real bad names."

"What, did he call you?" asked the judge.

"Well, judge, they were too bad to even repeat."

Agriculturists End District Meeting

County home demonstration and agriculture agents Friday wound up a two-day training meeting here designed to bring agents of Extension District Six up-to-date on extension policies and county agent work.

It's a home demonstration agents and 20 agriculture agents from District Six, which is made up of 22 counties, including Midland County, convened Thursday at the Midland County Courthouse.

The theme of the two-day program stressed methods by which county agents can do more effective work.

Staff personnel of the extension system from Texas A&M College attended the gathering to brief agents on their work.

Photography Speaks
Friday morning the agents held separate discussion meetings. R. E. Callender, wildlife specialist of College Station, addressed the group.

A photography clinic was conducted by Jack Sloan, acting editor of extension service publications. Sloan spoke on the value of pictures in home demonstration work.

Miss Maurine Hearn, state home demonstration agent of College Station, addressed the women's group on how they can fit into the civil defense pattern and announced that the extension service is developing a civil defense program.

Also announced Friday were plans for the annual girls 4-H Club camp that will be held at Fort Stockton July 10, 11 and 12. The camp will teach leadership techniques in handicraft work, citizenship and recreation.

Farm Writing Urged
State Agent E. C. Martin told the group of the part they should play in community improvement work.

Miss Frances Arnold, assistant editor of extension service publications, spoke on the value of monthly narrative reports on agents' work progress.

A. B. Kennerly, also of the editorial department, told how county agents can reach more people through articles in farm magazines.

Other speakers were Miss Maurine Hearn, state home demonstration agent, and Miss Mildred Harris, assistant 4-H Club leader.

Directors of the two-day meeting were Miss Vida Holt and George W. Barnes, district agents from Fort Stockton.

Host and hostess for the occasion were Charles Green, Midland agriculture agent, and Miss Pauline McWilliams, also of Midland.

"Now, young lady, this is a courtroom and I have to know.

So the waitress blushingly whispered the name, and Judge DeArmond shook his head understandingly.

"He finally told me to get out of the kitchen and stay out," the waitress continued.

"When I went back to my customers, they wanted to know what happened; why the man was using that profane language."

Head To Apologize
"Judge, I had to apologize; I even apologized for the cook."

The cook, red in the face, told Judge DeArmond it was "a pack of lies."

"She came into the kitchen yelling out her orders and I asked her like a gentleman not to yell so loud.

"As for the saucer in my hand, I frequently have saucers and knives and things like that. If anybody wanted to, they could say I was getting ready to use them on someone."

Judge DeArmond weighed the two versions judicially, finally decided to tip the scales of justice in favor of the Impatient Waitress who was trying to get some food for her hungry customers.

"Guilty," he intoned. "The fine will be $25."

U. S. Presbyterians Open 91st Assembly

ORLANDO, FLA. —(AP)— It takes 26 members to win one other person to the Presbyterian Church.

If the 2,799 ministers of the denomination had been the only ones working toward this end during the church year, the average would have been only 10 per minister.

And of 2,600 languages in the world, only 1,108 have some parts of the scriptures translated and published—and only in 188 has complete Bible been published.

These figures are from the division of men's work of the Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

The church opened its 91st General Assembly Thursday night by electing James Ross McCain, president of Agnes Scott College at Decatur, Ga., moderator and naming 15 large standing committees.

The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. is the southern part of the presbyteries in 16 states was on one than 400 commissioners from 85 presbyteries in 16 states was one or more of the committees, which do much of the assembly work.

Survey Determines Where Money Goes

KINGSVILLE —(AP)— Where does a college student's money go?

The answer has been the subject of a year-long study by business administration students at Texas A & I College. The investigators were students of Mrs. Katherine Whitelaw, assistant professor of business administration.

The study found that A & I resident students spend an estimated $218,850 each month — or almost $2,000,000 during a nine-month winter term. The average expenditure of an individual was found to be $140 a month.

By far the largest amount goes for food and shelter — $80,000 a month and with $36,000 going for clothing. More than half the clothing budget is spent outside of Kingsville.

Entertainment is the third largest student expense at $33,800 a month. Next highest were transportation at $26,000 and Laundry and cleaning at $9,000.

The estimated figures are based on a representative sampling by questionnaire of resident students. Part-time or commuting students were not considered.

Of a month's total, $177,530 was spent in Kingsville and $41,300 in other towns; $92,900 went to merchants, and the rest of the Kingsville money went to the college.

On an average, the student pays $50 a month for food and shelter, $22 for entertainment, and $19 for general expense such as laundry, drugs, school supplies, and insurance. Most students spend an average of $20.50 on transportation expense and $29.44 on clothing, although the latter, of course, varies from month to month.

Baseball Club—Harrell Speaks To Midland JayCees

club needs new blood and with it, I'm sure it will be a success."
Webb Asks $30,000

Webb said he would ask $30,000 for the ball club. He said Kenny Jones, Gordon Tanner, Eddie Melillo, Scooter Hughes, Eddie Jacome, Woody Pennington, Hayden White, Bill Reed, Dick Campbell, George Fimbach, Donald Blair and Bruce Blumenthal are the players who belong outright to the club. Webb placed their value at "about $7,000."

Also, the contracts of Gus Pena, Bob Phillips, Lou Dawson, Ralph Blair, Tex Stephenson and Quinten Basco still are retained by the Midland baseball team. All—except Pena—are in the Army and have expressed a desire to play here when discharged.

Jim Prince, who retired recently, still is owned by Midland and will be the property of the club if he should decide to play again. Webb said he valued those players at "approximately $6,000." Of the present Indians, only Bill Hornsby and Rudy Escobar do not belong to the Midland team outright.

"The franchise alone is worth about $10,000," Webb elaborated. He also said baseball equipment, uniforms, the bus, two Coca-Cola vending machines, a popcorn machine, beds and bunks, two hot water heaters, an air conditioner, office supplies and tickets and other items are valued at $15,000.

Midlanders Interested
"He deems it necessary to draw 'at least 900 fans each night' to make money. The Indians have averaged less than 500 this year, according to Webb.

"If the club leaves Midland," he said, "the fans probably will be out some money on their box seats and signs. I think a clause in the National Baseball Association states the fans purchase such things at their own risk."

"However, I'd hate for that to happen, and that's one reason I'd like to see the club stay here."

Several Midland fans contacted The Reporter-Telegram Friday and said they would like stock in the ball club if it is not purchased by several Midland businessmen. Vernon and Sweetwater in the Longhorn League are operated under a similar set-up.

The Indians currently are in seventh place in the league standings. This is Midland's fifth year of pro baseball. During the first three years—when the team was in the first division—Midland drew well at the gate. But the last two years have seen the club falter in standings and the crowds decline.

Price War Spreads To Half-Price Sale Of Famous Watches

NEW YORK —(AP)— The price war swung Friday to Union Square, where nationally-known watches were on sale at half price.

Some 500 persons were watching outside the door of S. Klein's when it opened Friday.

An official of Klein's, which specializes in men's and women's clothing, said the store had not handled watches previously and that these apparently had been purchased since the Supreme Court ruling modifying fixed price agreements.

Klein's was offering Gruen, Elgin, Benrus, Bulova, Longines and Longines-Wittnauer watches at half price.

Beef Shortage Seen In Dwindling Flow Of Cattle To Markets

CHICAGO —(AP)— The nation's major livestock markets completed their dulllest week of cattle trading in more than three years Friday and some areas faced their worst retail beef shortage since the war.

The number of cattle sent to market in the 12 biggest livestock centers this week totaled only 122,100. This is the lowest receipts since last week ended April 2, 1948.

Last week 141,600 head of cattle were offered and a year ago 167,700. But the light receipts is only part of the retail beef shortage. The big packers have taken only a small portion of the limited offerings.

Small packers and order buyers who shipped the animals east took the bulk of the cattle sold at the Chicago stockyards.

Consumers Stock Up
This could cause an eventual disruption in the normal channels of supply.

Only 5,400 head of cattle arrived at the 12 principal markets Friday—normally a light trading day. But it showed the trend in receipts still is downward. Last Friday receipts totaled 6,200.

Sharp beef shortages will appear in butcher shops in many cities next week, some packing industry spokesmen predicted.

In Chicago, some of the big chain stores said consumers were ordering larger cuts and quantities of meat in an obvious attempt to stock up before the shortage becomes fully effective. Most of the chains said they expect beef to be extremely scarce by Monday.

Some independent stores already were reported to have felt the beef pinch.

Marshalls Trip No Surprise To President Truman

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State Marshall's surprise trip to Tokyo was no surprise to President Truman, but it was to Secretary of State Acheson.

"The President, of course, knew General Marshall was going," commented Irving Perimeter, White House assistant press secretary.

Acheson told the Senate MacArthur inquiry he had no advance word of the trip. But both Acheson and the White House said no peace proposals were in the air.

There was no White House comment on speculation, touched off by the trip, that Marshall might be carrying new orders to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway for conduct of the Korean war.

In Tokyo, Marshall told reporters he had carried no new directives and that the trip had nothing to do with any peace moves. General Ridgway declined to comment.

Giant Plane Lands Safely After One Engine Goes Dead

SHANNON, IRELAND —(AP)— A Pan American Airways Stratocruiser with 57 persons aboard landed safely with one engine dead at Shannon Airport Friday after a 2,000-mile flight to nowhere over the North Atlantic.

The big plane developed engine trouble 1,000 miles at sea, just short of its point of no return. The pilot came back on three engines.

The aircraft made a routine landing without the usual precaution of a fire engine standing by.

The pilot reported his number one port engine had developed an oil leak. The ship, on Flight 101 bound for New York City, had taken off from Shannon at 11 p.m. Thursday. It landed back here at 6:50 a.m. Friday.

ARIZONA GRADUATES MIDLAND STUDENT

TUCSON, ARIZ. — Among the 1,141 students granted diplomas this Spring at the University of Arizona was Rex E. Gerald, Midland, Texas, who received the degree of bachelor of arts.

Diplomats—

Southampton on May 25, MacLean's thirty-eighth birthday, aboard the weekend excursion boat, the Falaise. The boat put in at St. Malo, in Brittany, the next day. The two went ashore and did not return. They left bags bearing their names in their cabins, Scotland Yard was informed.

French police reported the two apparently reached Paris by automobile.

The rumor that MacLean and Burgess might be in flight was published Thursday by Lord Beaverbrook's mass circulation Daily Express, which quoted a friend of the two men as saying their destination probably was Moscow.

The Foreign Office gave no official credence to this report, but admitted it was mystified by the sudden disappearance of two trusted diplomats.

'Missing Without Leave'
It posted them as missing without leave and said they vanished from their homes May 25 and went to France "a few days ago."

High British officials privately expressed fears that British-American relations might suffer if the two men are not found quickly and their actions explained.

These fears were heightened by recollections of the flight to Russia last year of Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, a British nuclear physicist, and the flight to Hungary of Prof. Lajos Janosy, a British-trained cosmic ray expert.

These incidents had followed the atomic spy thefts of Dr. Klaus Fuchs and Dr. Alan Umm May, both of whom now are in British jails. Close Watch Maintained

Secretary of State Dean Acheson said in Washington it would be "a very serious matter" if the missing diplomats had decamped to Russia with vital state secrets.

British authorities Thursday night asked the help of all friendly countries in Europe in their search.

The closest watch was being maintained in Paris at airports and railroad stations. Fifty French plainclothes men—each with photographs of the missing men—combed the streets of Central Paris.

Friends said MacLean had suffered a nervous breakdown while on assignment at the British Embassy in Cairo last year.

Burgess was recalled to London from Washington about three weeks ago and was awaiting reassignment.

MacLean's work as head of the Foreign Office's American department gave him access to top drawer British-American exchanges on such subjects as North Atlantic Pact defenses and the Korean war.

Marshall—

Army reported. Later front dispatches reported Allies hacked their way for two miles through mud, slime and deeply dug-in Reds. Censorships prevented dispatches from saying whether this carried troops to the gates of the city.

In the east it was a hacking advance over ridges, or no gain at all. The day-long artillery duel roared on the western front within earshot of where Marshall conferred with top UN field commanders.

Allied shells screamed down from the heights into Chorwon, ripped escape roads and burst in hills where the Reds were entrenched.

Bulwarked Bankers
The Reds' bunkers were bulwarked with seven-layers of logs and piled high with sandbags.

Chinese opened flood gates Thursday in an effort to wash out the Allied attack. And they fought with a new type anti-tank gun capable of piercing five inches of armor.

"I think they are going all out to defend Chorwon," a UN officer said. When they could get through the rain clouds, UN warplanes swooped in with jelled gasoline bombs to try to burn the Chinese out of their holes.

The area, known as the "Iron Triangle," was blanketed with fragmentation bombs Thursday night by 23 UN bombers. They used radar technique. Far East Air Forces said 9,000,000 bomb fragments splattered over the triangle in "one of the heaviest operations of its kind."

Navy Enlisted Man Heads Island Group

PEARL HARBOR —(AP)— A 25-year-old Navy enlisted man was headed north from Guam Friday to administer a group of islands dotting 20,000 square miles of the far Western Pacific.

Chief Steward Frederick A. Pobst of Pueblo, Colo., is the first enlisted man in Naval history to be assigned as a representative of the United States government. He will administer over the Bonin-Volcano group, part of the U. S. Pacific trust territory taken over from Japan after World War II. The islands include two Jims.

The Navy said Pobst will govern about a dozen tiny atolls with a native population of 145 men, women and children. He will try to organize all of the outlying atolls under a single government and teach the Bonin Islanders to run their own government. The pattern necessarily will be a blend of American and native Pacific customs at the start.

The Navy said Pobst is an all-around man for an all-around job. He was chosen for his knowledge of mechanics, clerical work, cargo handling and farming.

Pobst, accompanied by his wife, Loretta, and their 10-year-old daughter, Merrily Fay, will set up headquarters at Chichi Jima, 500 miles south of Tokyo, in a quonset hut he is taking with him. The Pobst's only links with the world will be by radio and quarterly calls of a Navy supply ship.

BAR PRESIDENT—Cecil E. Burney, Corpus Christi attorney, was elected president of the State Bar of Texas in a statewide mail election, the results of which were announced Tuesday. He currently is serving as vice president. Homa S. Hill of Fort Worth was named vice president for 1951-52.

Funeral Rites Held For J. S. Lindly, 88

RANKIN—J. S. Lindly, 88, father of Mrs. S. H. Boyd of Rankin, died in San Angelo last Saturday.

Lindly was born near Mexia, Texas, in 1863. His wife, who survives him, was Miss Ella Ross of the Mexia community and they had been married 67 years ago. Lindly had been a member of the Methodist Church since he was 17 years of age.

Other survivors include six other living children, 40 grandchildren and 58 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in Tahoka Monday afternoon with the Rev. Young of Abilene officiating, assisted by pastors of the Methodist Churches of Tahoka and O'Donnell. Interment was in the Tahoka cemetery.

Teen-Agers Face Charges In Florida Bombing Episodes

MIAMI, FLA. —(AP)— Four bomb-happy teen-agers responsible for a series of dynamite blasts in the Miami area will face felony charges, says Assistant County Solicitor Vivian Rutherford.

Rutherford said Thursday he will charge Alex John Pelleni, 18-year-old former University of Miami freshman, and Donald L. Ross, 18, June graduate of Miami Senior High School, with setting off eight sticks of dynamite against a wall of Miami Jackson High School last March 7.

The second charge will name Pelleni and 17-year-old twins, John C. and James H. Steffand, Miami High School football players, in the March 26 blasting of the Imperial Hotel with five sticks of dynamite, Rutherford added.

A misdemeanor charge also may be filed against some of the boys for blasting a stone marker near Musa Isle Indian Village, the assistant solicitor said.

Turns State's Witness
A fifth member of the group, Samuel Chambers, 18, son of a Miami physician and a home chemistry hobbyist, may escape prosecution because he turned state's witness, Rutherford said.

Detective Chief H. G. Howard said Pelleni admitted he engineered blasts at Miami Jackson High School, the Imperial Hotel and Shenandoah Junior High School, and participated in others. No one was injured in the blasts.

The only apparent reason for the blasts was Pelleni's statement that he had a "grudge" against the high schools and once had an argument with a woman who lived at the hotel, Howard said.

Chambers made a 100-page statement naming Pelleni the leader and alleging the university student made some of the explosives in a "shop" at his home.

Cars In Collision Are Damaged $500

Police reported Friday that damages totaled $500 to both vehicles when Corporation Court Judge J. M. DeArmond collided with a parked automobile Wednesday night at 605 West Missouri and South Pecos.

Judge DeArmond, who escaped injury in the collision, told police he was trying to keep from hitting another automobile when he drove into the rear of the vehicle owned by G. F. Vannaman, 606 1/2 North Pecos Street.

Vannaman's automobile was unoccupied at the time.

PASSEL OF RUSSELLS—When the family of Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia holds its reunion at the family home near Winder, Ga., this is the turnout. Senator Russell's mother is seated in the center of the group. She had 13 children—eight boys and four girls. All are living. Senator Russell, oldest of the children, and the only bachelor in the family, is seated third from right in third row from bottom. When all his brothers and sisters and their children get together, it makes a lot of people for photograph. There are

At the heart of ANY town

At the heart of any town... at the center of any city... along the lanes of any rural settlement... wherever men live and labor and search for happiness—there you will find the Church.

It has always been so since the time of Christ—even in the days when men paid with their lives for being Christians... when cellars were chapels, and catacombs were hiding-places for the faithful.

So deeply has the Church imprinted its truth upon the life of our country that none—not even the man who tries to live without religion—can visualize an America without the marks of Christianity. Our heritage of freedom, our dream of peace, all of our treasured blessings and sacred hopes were born of the teachings of our Church, of the faith of our fathers.

Attend, join, support some church. Your spiritual riches can never be taken from you; they can be lost ONLY THROUGH NEGLECT.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Dorish Continues Chisox' Amazing Shutout Pitching

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fritz Dorish is the latest "waiver waif" to burst out as a shutout starter for the incredible Chicago White Sox. Paul Richards has a new trick every day in the greatest sleight-of-hand job since Thurston sawed his last woman in two. And the end is not in sight. You wouldn't be too surprised if he pitched catcher Gus Niarhos against the Yankees and got away with it.

He yanked Dorish out of the hat Thursday—his first start after nine turns in the bullpen. But what need has Richards for a bullpen? His starters go the route every day. This was the Sox twenty-fourth complete pitching box score at Boston in 1947. In '48 and '49 when Sox pitching gave away more gobs of runs than Ted Williams and company could supply, Dorish couldn't make it. Both years he finished in the minors. Last year the St. Louis Browns grabbed him for $10,000. As a reward for a 6.99 earned run average, even the Browns let him go. He was on the Toronto roster when the White Sox drafted him.

Sixth Shutout
Dorish's neat five-hitter against Washington, 5-0, was Chicago's sixth shutout and twentieth win in the last 22 starts. No wonder they lead the American League by a robust four-and-one-half-game margin. The Sox confused the Senators with their amazing speed and daring three bases-in-six attack. Stealing three bases in six attempts, they gave Julio Moreno, Joe Haynes and Sandy Consuegra the jitters. It was the Sox' sixth straight on their new string and the Senators' sixteenth loss in their last 18 games.

The New York Yankees barely averted another disaster in St. Louis, rallying with three in the ninth to pull out a 7-5 decision. The result left the world champs four and one-half games behind Chicago as they move into Comiskey Park for a four-game set.

Boston snapped its five-game losing streak at Detroit 5-3 as Dom DiMaggio kept his 27-game hitting streak intact.

The Cards outdid the Dodgers nine to five but a ninth-inning single by Carl Furillo with the bases loaded, score tied and none out, broke up the game. It was a toutine for Rookie Tom Poholsky, who had a three hitter going to the ninth when he filled the bases with two walks and a single.

Gianis Lose
The enterprising Cincinnati Reds knocked off New York again 5-4 to move into a second-place tie with St. Louis. It's the Reds' best road trip in years, 6-2 against the East so far. Virgil Stallcup's three-run homer off Dave Koza in the fifth, giving the Reds a 5-1 lead at the time, proved decisive.

Bubba Church pitched the Phils to a 7-1 romp over Chicago, allowing five hits for his sixth win.

Vern Bickford kept six Pittsburgh hits scattered in earning his eighth win for the Boston Braves 5-0.

Bobby Locke Paces Plus and Minus Golf Tournament

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y.—Bobby Locke was trying to catch Bobo Locke as the second round of the Palm Beach Round Robin Golf Tournament started Friday.

The South African, twice a winner and once second in the event, emerged from the opening round, Thursday with a point total of plus 16, four better than his closest rivals, Chick Harbert and Roberto De Vincenzo, the latter an Argentinean.

Following Locke, De Vincenzo and Harbert in the scoring, Friday were Jim Ferrer, plus 11; Fred Haas, Jr., plus 4; Lloyd Mangrum, plus 4; Jimmy Demart, plus 4; Ed Oliver, plus 4; Jack Burke, plus 3; Johnny Palmer, even; Herman Barron, minus 4; Cary Middlecoff, minus 5; Clayton Heafner, minus 8; Henry Ransom, minus 9; Al Brosch, minus 12; and Chandler Harper, minus 32.

Two rounds were scheduled Friday.

NEW COACH AT TARLETON
STEPHENSVILLE.—(AP)—H. A. (Sandy) Sanford has been named head football coach of Tarleton State College. He succeeds Willie Zapalac, who resigned to become head coach of Hillsboro High School.

CAR KILLS WORKER
WICHITA FALLS.—(AP)—C. R. Dally, 49, a Highway Department worker, was killed Thursday and two others hurt when hit by an automobile as they patched U. S. Highway 287, four miles west of here.

Longhorn League— Artesia Moves To Sixth Place In League Standings

By The Associated Press
There is rejoicing in Artesia. The Drillers no longer are in the cellar of the Longhorn League.

Doormats of the circuit since the opening of the season, the youngest club in the circuit has been fighting back recently and Thursday night vaulted into sixth place. They did it with a victory over Vernon which Odessa was beating Midland and Roswell was trouncing Sweetwater.

The Drillers have only a half-game edge on the two clubs below them but their supporters don't mind that.

Artesia broke loose for five runs in the eighth inning to edge Vernon 10-7. Odessa whammed Midland 11-9, and Roswell dumped Sweetwater 8-3.

League-leading San Angelo took advantage of the activities, beating Big Spring 7-3 to gain a full game in the pennant race. The Colts now have a seven and one-half game lead over second-place Vernon.

Pretty Pat Garner Wins In Tourney

QUINCY, ILL.—(AP)—Pretty Pat Garner carried Texas' hopes into the quarter-finals of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament Friday against defending champion Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill.

Miss Garner, of Midland, Texas, who has been playing golf only a little more than three years, took on the capable Miss Lindsay in one of two feature matches over the Quincy Country Club course.

Playing sub-par golf the second straight day, Miss Garner eliminated Mrs. John Davis of Quincy 5 and 3 Thursday with an assortment of shots featuring an eagle 3—her second of the tournament 437-yard ninth hole.

Miss Lindsay was charted in even par figures as her methodical shooting beat Ruth Tenk, Quincy, 4 and 3.

The first match, and co-feature of the day was between Medalist Grace DeMoss of Corvallis, Oregon, and Ruth More, Perkin, Ill.

Oilers Rally To Defeat Tribe 11-9

In spite of 15 base hits, including a two-run homer in the eighth inning by Woody Pennington and eight Odessa errors, the Midland Indians dropped an 11-9 contest to the Oilers here Thursday night.

While the Oiler fielding was pathetic, Midland took very little advantage of it as 14 runners were left stranded on the bases. In the

by LARRY KING
Now is the time for Midland's real baseball fans to rally around. The City of Midland stands a chance to lose its baseball club to eager beavers from Ballinger and Winters unless something is done in a hurry.

Harold Webb has the right idea. He thinks he has seen his best days here, and he doesn't believe he can help baseball by staying here any longer. We agree.

You have to give Webb credit for bringing baseball here and turning out some fine Longhorn League baseball clubs.

But, like old soldiers, sooner or later a man has to fade away. In the last two years, Webb has faded rapidly here. His crowds haven't been the best because of a losing ball club and because he wasn't here to ride herd on his ball club at all times.

Frankly, with the club in the shape it is now—and going from bad to worse—we feel there must be a change.

Perhaps things are looking up after all. Maybe it's really true it's always darkest before the dawn.

Several fans asked why Webb left the field Thursday night in the sixth inning and sat the rest of the game in the dugout.

His players said it wasn't because he was disgusted, but because he was trying to change the Indians' luck.

SUITABLE FOR FRAMING—Peggy Carr, Las Vegas, Nev., showgirl, measures up to "standard-lovely," according to Nevada chiroproctors. Checked out in the plumb-line frame, Peggy took first place in their annual posture contest.

Texas League— Dallas Eagles Add To Lead With Win Over Shreveport

By The Associated Press
The South may have a reputation for friendly charm, but Dallas' baseball club would have argued about that before this current road trip.

But the Eagles are beginning to thaw a bit—mainly because this trip into the southern end of the Texas League hasn't proven another Bull Run.

Thursday night, they nicked Shreveport 5-3 and boosted their league lead to three and one-half games when Oklahoma City snapped second-place Houston's seven-game winning streak 7-6.

In other games, Tulsa edged San Antonio 10-9, and Fort Worth nudged Beaumont 6-5.

Ken Mapes hit a single, double and home run to drive in four of Dallas' five runs against the Sports.

Three Odessa errors, a triple by Scooter Hughes, a fluke bingle by Bill Hornsby and a single by Hayden White sent the Indians into a 5-0 lead in the initial inning, but Ortega then blanked the Tribe until the sixth while his mates took the lead by 8-5.

The big blow was a triple by Bob Martin in the sixth with the bases loaded which scored three men and broke a 5-5 deadlock.

Midland's two in the sixth came on a triple by Rudy Escobar followed up with Singles by Eddie Melillo and Woody Pennington. Melillo then scored on an error as an infielder booted White's easy grounder.

Baseball Films To Be Screened

Three baseball films will be screened at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Eagles Lodge, 107 North Weatherford, according to John Redfern, Jr., Little League official.

The films, "Little League Action," "How To Umpire" and "Great Major League Hitters," will be viewed by Little League and Short-horn League players here. Redfern said any interested persons may attend.

Stewart Gets Bid To National Open

DALLAS.—(AP)—Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas won a spot in the National Open Golf Tournament when veteran Tommy Armour withdrew because of illness.

The USGA Awarded Armour's spot to the Dallas section. Stewart got it because he finished as first alternate in qualifying here earlier this week.

Others from this section who will play are Tommy Bolt, Durham, North Carolina, Iverson Martin, Weatherford, and Ray Gafford, Dallas.

Ochoa Passes Up Appeal Deadline

MEXICO CITY.—(AP)—George Ochoa apparently passed up his last chance for a continued legal fight against extradition to Texas but the time for his return to face a homicide charge has not been fixed.

Teleforo Ocampo, Ochoa's lawyer, said the Laredo importer had not filed any appeal against the Mexican government decision to return him. The deadline for the appeal passed Thursday night. This would seem to rule out any continued legal fight here unless the lawyer can come up with a new maneuver.

Cab Driver Gets Airplane As Tip

VANCOUVER, B. C. —(P)—Bob East probably is the only cab driver in the world to be given an airplane for a tip.

When East took his fare to Sea Island Airport this week for a trip to Victoria, the passenger learned East always had wanted a plane. So he bought him one.

East admitted Friday he's still in a tallspin. "I haven't slept since," he said. A week ago East took the man for a short ride and was given a $100 bill. He said he didn't have any small bills and asked East to look him up later and give him the change. East did. So the man, pleased, hired East's cab the next few days.

The big tipper? As yet, unidentified.

CZAR PETRILLO AGAIN HEADS AFL MUSICIANS

NEW YORK —(P)—James C. Petrillo Thursday was reelected president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians for a twelfth term. There was no opposition.

Other officers also were elected at the final session of the union's 54th annual convention.

600 Legionnaires To Hold Meeting Saturday, Sunday

PLAINVIEW — More than 600 delegates of the 195 American Legion Posts in the 5th Division will gather in Plainview Saturday and Sunday for their annual convention.

Charles C. Gibson of Amarillo has announced.

The legion's 5th Division is composed of posts in the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th and 21st Congressional Districts.

Election of a new division commander will top the business activity, Gibson said. Candidates for other state legion offices may also be nominated or endorsed. Gibson, Amarillo newspaperman, is among the candidates for state commander and has been endorsed by the 17th, 18th and 21st Districts. The State Convention will be held in San Antonio August 17-18-19.

A delegate and an alternate to the national legion convention will also be selected.

William C. McCraw of Dallas, former attorney-general of Texas and now state Legion membership chairman, will be the principal speaker at the Plainview convention. Other speakers on the program include State Commander Bill Elkins of Killeen, State Adjutant G. Ward Moody of Austin, National Executive Committeeman H. J. Bernard of Houston and Bob Sisson, manager of the Lubbock VA Regional Office. Mrs. H. L. Lyle of Cisco, State president of the Auxiliary, will attend.

Lenora Woman Dies In Stanton

STANTON — Mrs. Fannie May Cagle, 55, died in a Stanton hospital Thursday after a long illness. She had been living at Lenora with a daughter, Mrs. Paris Barton.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday in Brownwood. Interment also will be there. Arrington Funeral Chapel is in charge of arrangements here.

Mrs. Cagle had lived at Brownwood most of her life. She was born Oct. 29, 1895. She was married to the late P. F. Cagle in 1914.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Barton of Lenora, Mrs. George T. Phillips of Waco, Calif., Mrs. C. A. Holler of Odessa and Rosemary Cagle of Lendrah; a son, Bill Cagle of Brownwood; two brothers, Roy McDonnell of Collinsville, Ill., and Walter McDonnell of Austin and a sister, Mrs. M. A. Cochran of Austin.

A son, James, died in World War II in Germany.

Grandma Sprouse, 84, And Husband Of 23 Celebrate Fifth Anniversary Without Fuss

CAT HOLLOW, KY. —(P)—Inflation and the Sprouse wedding anniversary arrived in Cat Hollow on the same day Friday.

After five years of married life, Delbert (Shorty) Sprouse, 23, is doing sawmill work at $3 a day.

His wife, 84-year-old Grandma Sprouse, gave her consent for him to "work out," since farming conditions are bad. But she wonders,

"Know places where they're gettin' $4," she mused.

Otherwise, the fifth wedding anniversary of the Shorty Sprouses was just another day in their simple life.

"We ain't makin' no more fuss about it than we ever did," said Grandma.

When they were married five years ago, Mrs. Sprouse was 79 and Shorty was 18.

As a result of the publicity their wedding got, much has happened to the Cat Hollow couple. A trip to New York, for example, and other things that would change a lot of people.

But Grandma and Shorty haven't changed. They go on living the lives they would have lived if the world hadn't found out about their marriage.

Shorty is working away from the farm because farming has been made next to impossible by the hard winter.

"Ground been so hard, can't bust it," Grandma said.

The winter left its marks on Grandma, too. Their old hewn log cabin was drafty and she "caught a chill."

"Can't get rid of it," she said.

But Grandma's still up and around. And she still enjoys a "chew" from her plug tobacco. She still takes care of the chickens and does some cooking, too.

She reckons the sixth year won't be any different than the first five.

Indian Chief Sues Rainmaking Firm

YAKIMA, WASH. —(P)—An Indian chief who doesn't like the white man's cloud medicine has asked the courts to help him take the scalp off the paleface rainmaker's bankroll.

He is Chief Klutus Tetumseh, who alleged in a damage case filed in Yakima Superior Court Thursday that rains made by the artificial rain makers ruined his crop the last few days.

The chief, a Wenatchee Indian who farms on the Yakima Reservation in Eastern Washington, named the Big Bend Water Development Company as the makers of the bad cloud medicine.

And he wants $800 because what he has out in his field, he says, ain't hay. It's water-soaked alfalfa.

The complaint alleges the rainmakers work for wheat growers who want water for their wheat.

Three Children Die In Apartment Fire

CHICAGO —(P)— Three unidentified children were killed and five persons injured in a fire which swept a three-story frame apartment house early Friday.

The five injured in the blaze at 1964 Carmen Avenue, on the city's North Side, were taken to Edgewater Hospital.

One of the dead children was found in a crib in a third floor room. The other two were found on the second floor.

Firemen said more than 20 persons escaped from the apartment building, which housed six families. Firemen said a box of fireworks stored on a back porch of the house, exploded during the fire.

Six Trainmen Die When Trains Collide

CLARKSVILLE, TENN. —(P)—Because an order was not followed, six trainmen died Thursday when two Louisville and Nashville passenger trains met head-on six miles south west of here.

Thirteen passengers were injured, one critically, when the Pan American, northbound from Memphis, and southbound local No. 103 out of Bowling Green, Ky., came together in a rainstorm.

R. C. Parsons, L&N general manager, said at Louisville, Ky., the Pan American's engineer and conductor had written orders to stop at Hematite, Tenn., to let the local pass. No. 103 was running two hours late.

The engineer, 54-year-old W. J. Miller of Paris, Tenn., was killed. The conductor, C. P. Vester, also of Paris, said the orders to stop at Hematite were received by him and Miller, but added that he was too unnerved by the wreck to offer an explanation of why they were not carried out. The trains crashed on a stretch of single track two miles north of Hematite. The diesel engines were demolished, and three cars of the local and two of the Pan American wrecked beyond repair.

The other dead were J. H. Johnson, 53, Paris; Buck Hagan and Harold Glen, Bowling Green; Tom Dillahay, Dixon Springs, Tenn., and J. A. Richardson, 60, Paris, engineer on 103.
