Britain Sends Cruiser To Abadan

All Tankers Ordered To Leave Port

LONDON—(P)—Britain Tuesday ordered the cruiser Mauritius to "proceed forthwith" to the vicinity of Abadan, the Iranian oil port where 27 tankers are caught in a jam in a dispute over payments for oil.

British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison, announcing the action in the House of Commons, said the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has ordered all its tankers to leave Abadan immediately.

Ten of the tankers are loaded with oil but have been refused clearance by Iranian authorities because the captains refused to sign receipts acknowledging payment was due Iran's new nationalized oil company.

The company issued its order "with the full agreement of his majesty's government," Morrison announced. He described the situation as very serious.

Departure of all tankers presumably would mean the shutdown of the Abadan Refinery, the world's largest. It is filling storage tanks because of the shipping tie-up. There is enough storage capacity to keep the refinery going about a week.

Morrison said if Iran persists in her present tactics AIOC will be forced to halt operations "within a matter of days."

He warned that Britain will hold Iran "responsible under international law for insuring the protection of any British subjects in Persia," Morrison added.

"Should they prove incapable of discharging that task the British government would be compelled to assume it themselves, using such means as are necessary for that purpose."

"The House may rest assured that preparations have been made to take action at short notice."

The Mauritius, an 8,000-ton cruiser with a normal crew of 730 men, has been at Bahrain Island in the Persian Gulf since early June.

Morrison said the British government would "take all possible action" for the protection of any

Ridgway Says Outlook Is Much Better

TOKYO—(P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said Tuesday he didn't know what was happening to cease-fire proposals "but things look better than ever."

The Allied commander made the statement on a flying visit to South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The war flared anew, fanned by new Chinese fighting spirit on the ground and aggressiveness in the air. Red planes twice struck at U. S. B-29 Superfort bombers and engaged in two battles with American Sabre jets. One Red MIG-15 was shot down.

Communists fought so stubbornly on the western flank of the erratic 100-mile front one officer said "indications are the Chinese are preparing for an offensive."

Ridgway bore a bruising briefcase when he called on the Korean president. Of the Russian peace bid, endorsed by the Chinese radio, Ridgway said:

"I would want an ironclad agreement. I am not willing to take a bill of goods."

He also visited the front. He said it was just one of his usual trips. "I had no connection with anything regarding a cease-fire."

Before he returned, a memorandum came out of his Tokyo headquarters raising official doubts about the latest Communist cease-fire proposal. It questioned the suggestion as a Russian "political move" that might give the enemy a military advantage.

There was no cessation of firing on the front, ranging from the 38th parallel to 30 miles north of it. But there was no noteworthy change in battle lines.

Attacking Chinese captured a key hill position in an early morning fight near Kumhwa, but were driven off by noon in a UN counterattack.

Reds launched a series of probing attacks and raked Allied lines with artillery at scattered points. Some Allied patrols were turned back by

The Baseball Club of Midland has donated the tickets, which will be given away each morning and afternoon, beginning Wednesday, of the X-ray campaign.

Lucky numbers have been selected each morning and afternoon winners will be presented two tickets.

The State Department of Health X-ray unit has been set up on the first floor of the courthouse.

Also, free transportation to and from the courthouse is being provided by the Midland JayCees. Transportation is available from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. by dialing 2-3211 or 2-1976.

By Tuesday noon the number of persons who have had X-rays climbed to 823. Approximately 130 persons were X-rayed Tuesday morning.

Volunteer workers helping at the unit Tuesday morning were Mrs. Harry Adams, Mrs. Harry Gossett, Mrs. W. H. Sloan, Mrs. W. C. Mitchell, Mrs. C. Ed Prichard and Mrs. Guy Bentley of the First Presbyterian Church.

Also Mrs. John Hills, Mrs. Cecil Yaden, Mrs. T. S. Jones, Mrs. Robert S. Dewey, Mrs. Fred Douglas and Mrs. L. S. Page of the Children's Service League.

Workers Monday afternoon were Mrs. Irvy Dyer, Mrs. John Rhoden, Mrs. Robert Fay, Mrs. Robert Cobb and Mrs. Lucille Johnson of the JayCee-ettes.

Cease-Fire Parleys By Red China, Britain Known To Uncle Sam

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1951, by NEA Service, Inc.)

PARIS—Red China and Great Britain have been exploring the possibility of a Korean cease-fire for several weeks, with the knowledge of the United States.

Indications are that the Red Chinese still are making demands unacceptable to the U. S.

This information, disclosed to me by a Western diplomat familiar with Far Eastern developments, lends new significance to the cease-fire proposal put forth in New York Saturday by Russia's UN representative, Jacob A. Malik.

With the crisis in the Middle East, especially the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, rapidly nearing a climax, Russia might be angling for a breathing spell in the Far East and West.

Moscow certainly was taken by surprise when the Western deputy foreign ministers decided to end the futile Four Power conference in Paris. Pending the outcome of the

Acheson Tells U. S. Military Aim In Korea

WASHINGTON—(P)—Secretary of State Acheson said Tuesday withdrawal of Communist forces behind the 38th parallel in Korea could be considered "a successful conclusion of the conflict."

He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee the United States military aim in Korea is "to repel aggression and restore peace and security to the area."

"If this aggression is stopped, and with guarantees that it will not be resumed, then you will have repelled aggression and restored peace and security in the area."

Acheson appears before the committee to support the Administration's proposed $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program. His statement about Korean peace prospects came while members quizzed him on the cease-fire proposal by Jacob Malik, Soviet delegate to the United Nations.

Earlier, in urging the foreign aid program, Acheson told the group that Soviet expansion by "encroachment" has "got to be stopped."

INVESTIGATES PEACE BID—Nasrollah Entezam, president of the UN General Assembly (C) tells reporters at the State Department it should not be difficult to arrange a cease-fire in Korea "if good will exists." He said he would fly to New York to arrange an appointment with Soviet delegate Jacob Malik on the latter's peace proposal.

Skepticism About Red Feeler Grows

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(P)—The United States showed increasing skepticism toward the Russian cease-fire proposal Tuesday as Secretary General Trygve Lie hurried home from Europe to coordinate plans for UN consideration of the Malik proposals.

State Department officials questioned whether the Soviet Union's Jacob Malik had not come up merely with a political proposal designed to improve the military position of the North Korean and Chinese forces.

This view became known in a memorandum distributed at supreme headquarters in Tokyo. The memorandum expressed doubt whether Malik had made his approach in good faith.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the supreme commander of UN forces, commented:

"I would want an ironclad agreement. I'm not willing to take a bill of goods."

Malik proposed Saturday that the "belligerents" in Korea discuss a cease-fire and mutual withdrawal from the 38th parallel. He mentioned no conditions, but Monday the Chinese Communists, backing Malik's proposal, brought up the old questions of a seat for Red China in the UN and the fate of Formosa.

Lie interrupted his Norwegian vacation to fly here. Asked what he thought of the chances of peace, he said "That's what I'm going to

Phone System Will Handle Needs, With Public's Assistance

Like a stiff, new pair of shiny shoes, Midland's dial telephone system was being broken in rapidly Tuesday.

And, with the public's help, it will handle comfortably the city's telephone needs within a short time.

This was the picture described Tuesday by telephone company officials following complaints of delays in reaching the operator for long-distance calls.

"There are a number of contributing factors," said District Manager Billy Yeatts, "but one of the biggest reasons for the delays is caused by customers calling in numbers instead of using the new phone book."

"Every information call ties up another operator and the more used for that purpose means fewer available for long-distance calls."

Yeatts said the new board, which has 41 positions, compared to 32 at the old switchboard, is still "stiff and new."

"That may sound funny," he said, "but it will take a while to break it in and to break in the operators. They will pick up speed in its operation as they familiarize themselves with it."

He added the new system meant telephone service for the first time for an additional 1,200 customers.

"This means a great increase not only in local calls but in long-distance calls," said Yeatts. "But with changes in operational procedure and the addition of new circuits we will be able to handle Midland's needs."

Enforcement Trouble Told By Garrison

AUSTIN—(P)—State Police Chief Homer Garrison, Jr., repeated Tuesday that Galveston is "a thorn in his side" with respect to enforcement of gambling laws.

He suggested to the House Crime Investigating Committee two possible pieces of legislation to remedy the situation:

1. A law to allow the state "to step in and prosecute" when local officials fail to do their duty.

2. A law allowing change of venue in filing felony charges in gambling cases.

Garrison was followed on the witness stand by Galveston County Attorney Raymond Magee who told the committee:

"We have never refused to take any case before a grand jury," and, Magee added:

"Any charges brought by a grand jury and indicted by grand jury will be prosecuted by our office."

Galveston County has no district attorney. This makes the county attorney responsible for prosecution of both misdemeanor and felony charges.

Garrison was the second witness at Tuesday's hearing, at which Galveston's public officials and civic leaders were given an opportunity to say what they think of gambling conditions on the resort island.

The Maceos and their associates were on the stand all day Monday. Sam Storio, general accountant of the Maceo Enterprises, agreed Monday.

City Council To Get Plans For Proposed Tower At Terminal

Final plans for a proposed new control tower at Midland Air Terminal will be presented Tuesday night for approval by the City Council.

The control tower, to be financed jointly by the city and the Civil Aeronautics Authority, will provide the busy air terminal with its first such facility in several years.

Although a tower now stands at the terminal, it has not been approved for use by the CAA because it does not afford a clear view of all runways. It will be torn down.

City Manager W. H. Oswald said the council will be asked to authorize the advertising of bids for its construction.

The council also will study, Oswald said, the possibility of intervening on behalf of Continental Air Lines in its request to the Civil Aeronautics Board for authority to extend its present route—which runs from Midland to Tulsa—to Bartlesville, Okla., and Kansas City, Mo.

Other items which will be presented at the council at its session beginning at 7:30 p.m., include:

A proposal to purchase a site for the city's new sewage disposal plant.

A project to extend water lines in parts of Bauman and Garden Heights additions.

Authorization for the preliminary work on the annual audit of city finances.

The possibility of constructing a new city jail, to replace the old one ordered abandoned Monday, except as a temporary lock-up.

Midlander Is Back In U. S. From Korea

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—The Transport Gen. John Pope Monday brought 3,377 combat soldiers, including 194 Texans, home from Korea.

Tuesday the veterans were on their way to their homes over the nation, on rotation and 30-day leaves.

They include: M-Sgt. W. H. Whigham, Midland; Sgt. Bobbie Berryman, Big Spring; Cpl. William T. Green, Snyder and Pfc. Melvin Howell, Big Spring.

Tidelands Legislation Study Is Set

WASHINGTON—(P)—The House Judiciary Committee voted 15 to 5 Tuesday to hold a special meeting Wednesday to consider legislation to give the states title to oil-rich submerged lands.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) already has said that if and when such a bill—giving title of undersea coastal lands to adjacent states—is approved by the Judiciary Committee he will do what he can to obtain House passage.

Representative Willis (D-La) said the committee, in executive session Tuesday morning, voted to devote Wednesday's closed session to the bill despite opposition of Chairman Celler (D-NY).

Willis said the three to one vote gives proponents of the measure, which would reverse a Supreme Court finding, hope the bill can be disposed of and reported to the House in one day.

The Supreme Court, in the California-Texas-Louisiana cases, held that the federal government had "paramount rights" over the tidelands off coastal and lake states.

Since those decisions representatives of the coastal states have been backing legislation to vest title to the lands in the states.

The bill under consideration is by Rep. Walter (D-Pa) backed by Willis and Rep. Gossett (D-Texas), who have introduced similar bills.

Youth Being Treated For Drug Addiction Is Witness In Probe

WASHINGTON—(P)—A 17-year-old youth, now being treated in a federal hospital for drug addiction, told senate crime investigators Tuesday he quit school to earn money to satisfy his craving for dope.

The testimony of the slim, dark-haired boy at televised hearings dramatized an earlier warning from a U. S. Public Health Service official that "we're faced with an epidemic" of drug addiction among teenagers.

The young addict, who said he first started using marijuana at the age of 13 and then shifted to heroin, appeared voluntarily.

His face was not televised. Only his hands were pictured.

His name also was withheld, but he said he was of Puerto Rican descent and had gone to an aviation school in New York before he dropped out to take a job as a clerk so he could buy heroin.

Dr. Victor H. Vogel, medical officer of the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at Lexington, Ky., said there was a 20-fold increase between 1947 and 1950 in admission of youths to federal institutions for treatment of narcotic addicts.

The problem is most acute in the large cities, he testified.

Death Penalty For Archbishop, Eight Companions Asked

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY—(P)—Prosecutor Gyula Alapi demanded the "severest punishment," meaning death, for Roman Catholic Archbishop Jozsef Groess and his eight companions Tuesday and the archbishop threw himself on the mercy of the court in a final statement of repentance.

"I declare I repent and regret what I did," said the sombre 64-year-old archbishop, who confessed at his trial that he conspired to overthrow the Communist government by arms and with American help.

"I have been a Royalist and am still. x x x I still hope the Hungarian people will forget what I did and ask the priests and Catholic faithful not to follow my example. Please consider my confession when you pass judgment."

Strike Threatens Western Union Service In City

Unless a nationwide strike set for next Monday is settled, Midland will be without Western Union service.

Fifteen employees of the Midland office of Western Union would be affected by the strike which would call 35,000 workers over the nation from their jobs. A company official in Midland said the switching center in Dallas, if closed down, would paralyze operations here, even though Midland employees stayed on the job.

The AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union has ordered out all clerks, telegraphers, technicians and messengers to enforce union demands for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase. Negotiations stalled after the union refused a company offer of a 10 per cent increase.

Now It's Up To The Movie Moguls

ORANGE, TEXAS. —(AP)—Memo to Hollywood's movie moguls: It's your turn now.

Dolph St. Clair has reached Los Angeles after a 3,000-mile, 25-months wheelbarrow pushing expedition from Florida. And if he doesn't get into the movies, his mother is going to be mighty disappointed.

He's a nine-year-old blond.

His mother told District Judge Owen M. Lord of Beaumont last August 23 the sole purpose of the wheelbarrow stunt was to get Dolphy into the movies.

Mrs. St. Clair and Dolphy were carried before Judge Lord after the boy was hit by an automobile while walking along a highway a few miles west of Orange. The judge ordered the expedition abandoned in Texas.

The mother returned to Louisiana by bus with her son and her wheelbarrow and started over again, detouring around the Lone Star State by way of Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Truman Claim That U. S. Has Bipartisan Foreign Policy Is Blasted By Taft

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) declared Tuesday it is an "absolute untruth" to say, as President Truman did Monday, that this country has a bipartisan foreign policy.

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, dismissed without a direct reply Truman's charges in a speech at Tullahoma, Tenn., Monday that the Republicans are "playing right into the hands of the Russians" by conducting a "smear campaign" against the Administration.

But the Ohioan—a possible GOP presidential candidate—disputed Truman's assertion that "we have had a bipartisan foreign policy in this country since Pearl Harbor" and "I would like to keep it that way."

The President went on to say that some Republicans—and he obviously was striking at Taft—"want us to play Russian roulette with the foreign policy of the United States—and with all of the chambers of the pistol loaded."

Taft told reporters it is an "absolute untruth" that any bipartisan policy exists now.

"The 1948 election so went to the President's head that he has consulted no Republican leaders since that date," the Ohio senator declared.

"Senator Vandenberg pointed out that the Republicans were never consulted on the disastrous foreign policy in China, which he opposed. His reference was to the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.)."

Taft didn't reply directly to Truman's charges that some Republicans were "spreading fear and slander and lies" in attacking such persons as Secretary of Defense Marshall, Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and Secretary of State Acheson.

Previously the Ohioan had accused Bradley of making a "political speech" a day before Gen. Douglas MacArthur's homecoming address to Congress and said he had no further confidence that Bradley's military judgment was uncolored by politics.

And Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), foremost critic of Acheson, attacked Marshall, asserting he was a key figure in what McCarthy called an international "conspiracy" to give the Communists control of this country.

Taft referred reporters to a portion of a speech in Indianapolis, Ind., Saturday in which he said: "I do not agree with Senator McCarthy's accusation of conspiracy or treason, but I do feel that Marshall's policy (on China) was the most stupid policy and that subsequent events in Formosa and Korea stemmed directly from it."

Marshall failed in a 1946 mission to bring about unification of the Nationalists and Communists in a single government for China. Marshall said his "sincere efforts to achieve stetlement" of the strife between the Nationalist government and Communist forces were "frustrated time and again by extremist elements of both sides." His mission took 13 months.

McCarthy told a reporter he plans to answer the President later.

If Truman is going to run for reelection, he laid out a pattern for 1952 campaign speeches in his Tullahoma talk. Any other nominee hardly could escape using the same pattern.

Basically Truman showed his intention of carrying the fight to the Republicans while defending his own administration as the champion of world peace.

Voicing his criticism of Taft and McCarthy without naming them, the President took the same kind of shot at MacArthur.

He said some Republicans—obviously referring to MacArthur—want to "take a chance" on (1) spreading the Korean war, (2) tying up all U. S. resources in Asia, (3) "losing our allies in Europe," (4) the belief that Russia won't fight in Asia and (5) that "we won't have a third world war."

Midlander Installs New Officers Of McCamey Lions Club

McCAMEY—Officers of the McCamey Lions Club for 1951-52, headed by Horace Slaughter, president, were installed in office at a special ladies night program held Monday night in the organization's club rooms.

Bill Collyns, editor of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and a former president of the McCamey and Midland Lions Clubs, installed the new officers after making a brief talk on Lionism and its position in local, state, national and international affairs.

Slaughter succeeds James A. Rutherford as president of the McCamey chapter.

Other officers are Horace Carter, first vice president; Derwood Langston, second vice president; Roy Smith, third vice president; Tom Nevinger, secretary; E. G. Caldwell, treasurer; Elmo McCook, Lion Tamer; O. O. Jacobsen, tall twister; and Jack Knox, Bill Van Atta, Robert McKinney, Walter Campbell and Rutherford, directors.

The new president made a brief acceptance speech in which he pledged his best efforts and called for the continued support and cooperation of the members.

Rutherford reviewed highlights of the year in club activities, and expressed appreciation to members for their assistance during the last year.

A past-president's pin was presented Rutherford as a gift of the club.

In his installation message, Collyns charged both the officers and the club members as to their duties and responsibilities in Lionism, calling on them to strive continually for record accomplishments in club activities.

Mrs. Collyns, president of the club, accompanied her husband to the meeting here.

Red's Peace Talk Is 'Two-Faced,' Johnson Declares

AUSTIN—(AP)—Soviet Russia's talk of peace is "two-faced," Senator Lyndon B. Johnson charged here Monday. "The Kremlin wants peace in Korea only because the Kremlin needs time to make war elsewhere," he told the homecoming 27th Fighter Escort Wing at a public assembly on the balcony of the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

The talk was part of the celebration that started with a parade down Congress Avenue for the men and their families. They rode in 100 open cars volunteered and driven by Austin citizens. Three bands participated.

Johnson said the Communists are not peace-makers.

"There can be no lasting peace on Communist terms. The fight must be carried on—it must be settled on our terms."

He said the nation that controls the skies will write the peace.

The 27th returned over the weekend to Bergstrom Field after seven months of combat in Korea.

"What you men of the 27th Fighter Escort Wing have done over Korea speaks far more eloquently as a tribute to your valor than anything we might say here today. You have done your job well," he told the airmen.

Phillips Pipe Line Will Be Extended

BARTLESVILLE, OKLA.—(AP)—The Phillips pipe line from Borger to East Chicago, Ind., is to be extended 500 miles. The petroleum company said Monday the construction will start shortly to add 30,000 barrels a day capacity and help relieve a propane shortage in the Chicago and Great Lakes area.

Priorities for pipe deliveries in the third quarter of the year have been issued by the Petroleum Administration for Defense, Phillips said, thus permitting completion of the line before the heavy winter use of propane sets in.

Phillips has large underground storage facilities near Borger, Kansas City and Chicago. The expansion program will make it possible to store summer surpluses of propane and other liquefied petroleum gas and have them available near large consuming centers to supply winter demands.

Cease-Fire Parleys—

(Continued From Page One) Middle Eastern crisis, the Russians probably would have liked the conference to go on a while longer. Not To Top Levels It was emphasized that the current talks had not yet reached top levels. They resulted from a feeler transmitted from Peiping to New Delhi and delivered to the British by the Indian ambassador to Great Britain.

While all parties deny any official discussions are going on, it is understood the Chinese have let it be known they would be willing to talk truce terms on the basis of Russia's June 10 note. On that date, U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk canceled a Sunday excursion and hurried to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow to receive a 18-page communication. That note charged the U. S. deliberately excluded Russia and Red China from Japanese treaty negotiations. The Russians insisted that not only their country but also Communist-dominated Mongolia and North Korea be given a voice in all future Japanese deliberations. They called for a general peace conference to be held in July or August.

There is little new on the surface in the latest "peace" move. But well-informed Western diplomats believe the Peiping Chinese are weakening. They continue to hold out for membership in the United Nations prior to negotiations for a "full peace" in Korea. But Mao, it is understood, would now consider an acceptance by the west of Russia's June 10 note as at least a basis for cease-fire negotiations. May Try Sneak My diplomatic informant put it this way: "Having failed to gain admission to the UN through the front door, Mao Tse-tung may yet attempt to sneak through the back door."

Diplomats think it unlikely the U. S. would agree to Red China's latest terms, although President Truman reportedly is ambitious to terminate the Korean war as quickly as possible.

Skepticism— (Continued From Page One) find out." He conferred with British and Canadian officials in London. Lie is due in New York Wednesday. Britain announced it was beginning talks in Washington with 15 other governments which have forces in Korea. The idea is to map some sort of joint approach to the Communist nations to establish exactly what they have in mind in the way of a cease-fire plan.

But the President, like the British, is keeping diplomatic channels open. Truman recently told a press conference in Washington he was unaware of any "official" peace proposals impending in the Korean war. This was interpreted by West European diplomats to mean that he was aware of "unofficial" proposals. The British are anxious to keep a bridge open between Red China and the West. Communist China's participation in the Japanese treaty negotiations would appease the small but loud group of leftists in the British Labor Party, led by disaffected Marxist Aneurin Bevan. This report of Anglo-Chinese negotiations sheds new light on the recent discussions in London between John Foster Dulles, special representative of President Truman, and British Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison. Although "full agreement" was reached between Britain and the U. S. on a draft treaty for Japan, decision on Red China's participation in the impending treaty conference was left for "some future date."

Bonura Praises Club Youth Job

The Optimist Club of Midland Tuesday was told by Zeke Bonura, manager of the Midland Indians, that of all the club's activities he was most impressed by their work with youngsters.

"What you're doing for the kids," Bonura said, "is just wonderful. You don't seem to be organized just for your own pleasure, but you are set up to help the youngsters."

Referring to the club's sponsorship of the Little League Yankees, Bonura advised members at their regular weekly luncheon that the important thing is to teach the boys the right way of life.

"Whether they're good ball players is secondary," Bonura said. Bonura, who came to Midland only recently to manage the Indians, began in big league ball in 1933 in Chicago.

The Optimist's Little League Yankees will meet the Cubs for first place when the teams play Friday at 5:15 p.m. at the Little League baseball field just east of the high school stadium. Plans were announced at the luncheon for another family night, to be held about the middle of July. The board of directors has not yet set a date for the affair but it has tentatively been scheduled for a Tuesday.

The first railroad fatality occurred in England in 1830 at the opening of the Liverpool to Manchester line. The victim was run over by the locomotive. A witness complained it was a "dear price to pay for the folly of seven hundred people going 15 miles an hour."

The additional wells were ordered drilled last week by the City Council when high temperatures strained the city's water production to its capacity.

High Winds Strike Damaging Blows

By The Associated Press Tornadoes and windstorms struck damaging blows across four states Monday. Crops, property and livestock losses were estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Tornadoes hit in Iowa, Nebraska and Colorado and severe windstorms whipped Southern Minnesota. At least five persons were injured.

Two small communities in North Central Iowa were hit hard by a tornado. The business district of Duncan, a town of 80 residents, was wrecked and more than half the homes were damaged. Damage was estimated at more than $500,000. Three persons were hurt.

The twister moved across rural areas, killing hundreds of livestock, and then struck Crystal Lake, a town of 301 population. Every building and home in the town was damaged.

Tornadoes also struck Sidney, Neb., and in rural areas in Eastern Colorado, near Holyoke. A destructive hail storm pounded Scottsbluff, Neb., for the second time in two days. Thunderstorms and winds up to 80 miles an hour were reported in Western Nebraska.

Two Drunk Drivers Are Convicted Here

Two men who pleaded guilty to charges of drunk driving were fined and had their driving licenses suspended for six months in County Judge Clifford C. Keith's court Monday.

A 31-year-old Los Angeles, Calif., man was fined $100, and a 40-year-old man from Fortales, N. M., was fined $50.

Tax Payments For Servants Exceed Hopes Of Bureau

WASHINGTON — (P) — The Internal Revenue Bureau said Tuesday more housewives have made Social Security reports and tax payments for household servants than the government had estimated were subject to the tax.

Revenue Commissioner George J. Schoeneman said a tabulation of district collectors' reports showed 511,288 housewives had filed the special, envelope-type tax returns as of May 18. The Federal Security Agency had estimated that only 478,000 would have to do so.

Schoeneman declared in a report to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder results have demonstrated "housewives generally have been favorable" to extension of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program to household servants.

Ridgway—

UN patrols bumped into Communist barbed wire entanglements on the east-central front. "The Reds definitely are building a heavy defense, probably parallel to our lines," an officer said.

The Communist Air Force showed new aggressive tendencies in its strikes at bombing Superforts. Allied Air Forces reported no B-29's were damaged in one attack. But it did not say what happened to those in the second strike.

It was in this last battle that a red nosed MIG-15 was shot down. Twelve Red jets attacked the B-29's and in turn were hit by 24 U. S. Sabre jets. After a brief fight, surviving Reds streaked for the Manchurian border.

STREAK STOPS AT SIX—Broncs Edge Indians 4-1

Midland and Big Spring square off in the second tilt of the three-game series here at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Indian Park. Lefty Bill Reed probably will pitch for Zeke Bonura's Indians.

Mike Fornelius and the Big Spring Broncs edged Bruce (Gabby) Blumenthal and the Midland Indians here Monday night 4-1. The first of the three-game series to be played here ended a Midland winning streak at six straight—longest of the season.

Big Spring broke a scoreless tie between the two teams in the fifth inning on a single by Manny Junco, a two base error by Center Fielder Rudy Escobar and singles by Valdez and Fornelius.

Midland climbed within 2-1 in the bottom of the inning when Flem Flott—who slammed out four hits in five trips—doubled and went to third on an error. A towering fly ball to the right field wall by Escobar brought Flott across the plate. Squeeze play.

A triple by Quintano and a squeeze play that was successful added a run for the Broncs in the seventh, while a double by Fornelius and a single by Costa scored the final run in the ninth.

The Indians threatened in the last innings as Fornelius got one pitch away from his win and faltered. He walked Gordon Tanner, pinch hitter, gave a single to Flott, then walked Escobar to load the sacks.

But Fornelius whiffed Scooter Hughes to end the ball game. Blumenthal pitched a fine ball game, allowing but eight bingles. He struck out three and walked four.

By The Associated Press
How long can they keep it up? Which will be the first to break? These are two questions baseball fans are asking as the Dallas Eagles and the Houston Buffs remain locked in a life-and-death struggle for the Texas League lead. The battle has been going on now for two weeks and the pressure is terrific.

Going into action Monday night Dallas held a one-game lead over the Buffs. Houston thumped Oklahoma City for a 7-0 win. Dallas rallied in the late innings to dump Shreveport 8-4.

Tulsa's Oilers continued to cut a figure in the race despite their lowly berth. They blanked the San Antonio Missions 7-0 to slow that club's fight to get back in the middle of the first place battle.

It was the eleventh win in 13 starts for the Oilers. Fort Worth rallied in the late frames to down Beaumont 9-3. Bud Bundy led an 11-hit Cat attack that culminated in a five-run eighth inning.

Warren Challenges Senator O'Connor To Crime Debate
MIAMI, Fla. — Gov. Fuller Warren, still at some undisclosed retreat, Tuesday countered a Senate crime probe subpoena with a challenge to Senator O'Connor (D-Md) to a "full, frank no-holds-barred discussion of gambling in Florida and elsewhere."
He charged O'Connor, during two terms as governor of Maryland, "was directly responsible for the gambling corruption and other vice which saturated the biggest city in Maryland." The state's biggest city is Baltimore.
He proposed the debate be held in Miami July 7. The crime committee issued a subpoena for Warren to appear in Washington July 9. The subpoena has not yet been served on the governor.
Warren declared O'Connor is "in shaky political shape in his home state and badly needs some favorable publicity."
Governor Warren said "it may become my duty to go into Maryland and tell the fine people of that great state some things they may not know about their senator, who is backed by a corrupt, mob-ridden political machine, according to the American Mercury Magazine."

Selassie Assures Italians On Eritrea
ASMARA, ERITREA — Emperor Haile Selassie has given assurances that Italians in Eritrea "shall be granted their rightful place" in Eritrean economy when this country is united with Ethiopia under a federation. Federation, according to a decision of the United Nations Assembly, is to be set up not later than September 1952.
The Ethiopian Emperor gave the assurance to the President of the Eritrean Chamber of Commerce, Vittorio Verzellino, in a recent Addis Ababa interview.
Verzellino, after his return to Asmara, said the Emperor also indicated the possibility that Ethiopia and Italy may soon resume diplomatic relations. These have been severed since 1935 when Mussolini's legions invaded Ethiopia.

Warren Challenges Senator O'Connor To Crime Debate
MIAMI, Fla. — Gov. Fuller Warren, still at some undisclosed retreat, Tuesday countered a Senate crime probe subpoena with a challenge to Senator O'Connor (D-Md) to a "full, frank no-holds-barred discussion of gambling in Florida and elsewhere."
He charged O'Connor, during two terms as governor of Maryland, "was directly responsible for the gambling corruption and other vice which saturated the biggest city in Maryland." The state's biggest city is Baltimore.
He proposed the debate be held in Miami July 7. The crime committee issued a subpoena for Warren to appear in Washington July 9. The subpoena has not yet been served on the governor.
Warren declared O'Connor is "in shaky political shape in his home state and badly needs some favorable publicity."
Governor Warren said "it may become my duty to go into Maryland and tell the fine people of that great state some things they may not know about their senator, who is backed by a corrupt, mob-ridden political machine, according to the American Mercury Magazine."

Odessa Lawns Due For A Tough Time

ODESSA —(P)— Grass lawns in Odessa will have a tough time this Summer, unless it rains a lot.

After 8 a.m. Friday it will be against the law to water your lawn in Odessa. The purpose of the new city ordinance is to conserve the city's dwindling water supply. Some sections of the city have been entirely without water.

City Manager Casey Fannin said Monday night a person caught watering a lawn after Friday morning will have his water meter removed. To get water turned back on his residence, the violator will have to sign an agreement to live up to the emergency water provisions.

Houston Negro Goes To Chair Tuesday

HUNTSVILLE —(P)— Morris Besard Tuesday night becomes the third negro to die for the rape of a 16-year-old white girl.

The 21-year-old Houston negro is to die shortly after midnight in the electric chair at the Texas State Penitentiary here.

Two other negroes, Eugene McFarland and Nathaniel Edwards, already have been executed. All three had been convicted and sentenced to death. The girl was raped near Houston May 13, 1949.

Kentucky Ex-Students Planning Club Here

Ex-students of the University of Kentucky in Midland will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to organize a club here.

The meeting will be held at the Ranchland Hill Country Club. Feature of the meeting will be a showing of the 1951 Sugar Bowl football game in which Kentucky beat Oklahoma.

J. W. Thorne, temporary chairman, is in charge of arrangements for the meeting. He estimated there are between 15 and 20 exes of the university in Midland. He arranged for the Sugar Bowl film when he attended commencement exercises recently at the university. Also, he attended a reunion of the Class of 1907 held during commencement week.

A special guest at the Tuesday night meeting will be Jim Line, Kentucky athlete and scholar, who lives at Odessa. Line was an outstanding cager and received the school's Sullivan Trophy for scholarship and leadership.

Marshall Housewives Protest Tax Method

MARSHALL —(P)— Eleven Marshall housewives don't like the way U. S. Treasury Department representatives try to collect unpaid Social Security taxes.

In a joint letter to Secretary of the Treasury Snyder the women said they each received uninvited door-to-door calls from the Treasury agents. They reminded the secretary that a recent Supreme Court ruling held that "uninvited door-to-door solicitation is unconstitutional."

The women involved have previously protested the new procedure of housewives collecting Social Security taxes from domestic employees. They reported the wages paid but did not remit social security payments from their employees.

War Wounded Fly Peacefully From Tragic Land Of Korea

By FRANK H. KING
A KOREAN PORT — The wounded fly smoothly and peacefully from this tragic land. They flew Tuesday, as they fly every day the weather permits, slung in litters lining the big planes that lift them above the clouds that help blot Korea from their sight and memory.

"Six months ago it wasn't this good," said the pilot, Capt. Peter A. Bechtel of Hanover, Pa., as we followed the last stretcher up the ramp to an air evacuation plane.

"We landed on dry rice paddies in North Korea and flew ammunition almost to the Yalu River. The wounded would come out of foxholes with shattered arms and body wounds in bloody bandages. We crowded them into the empty cargo space and headed for Japan."

The "air evac" is an old story, yet a new story every day that torn and broken Americans from the Korean hills are stacked in planes and flown to greater safety and better medical and nursing care. All are young, but few are gay. Some are insensate from battle shock. Occasionally a man dies in the air. The others may not know it, for many sleep deeply on the journey from one strange Oriental land to another.

At first glance the air evac planes look like the big liners that fly between American cities, but the interior is rough, barn-like cargo space.

Lie Four Deep
The litters of the wounded are slung one above the other until men lie four deep with just enough space for comfort. Parachutes are stacked away like cordwood because these men harnessed up in bandages and casts would be helpless in an emergency. The yellow "Mae Wests" immediately are put into use, partly blown-up as pillows.

The first plane out has nurse Capt. Miriam Troxell of Lewistown, Pa., a tiny bit of combined feminine charm and professional nursing efficiency, in charge of the 27 litter cases and several walking wounded. The nurse commands the plane from the tail hatch to the door of the pilot's cockpit. She gives the orders in all routine and emergency situations concerning the patients.

The pilot is a happy-go-lucky veteran who flew with the RAF in World War II, racked up 340 missions on the Berlin air lift, and has flown in Korea since the fighting started. His co-pilot is Capt. Rudy Krueger of Anchorage, Alaska.

Wrapped In Blankets
The wounded are wrapped in blankets. With engines roaring the plane waits on the strip while a small bomber faces off to battle in North Korea. Bombs were being trundled to the bombers in carts hooked together like those that haul the luggage at commercial airports.

Through the mists the flight skirts the peaks that rise from the shoreline. Up the valley are the flags of the United Nations Cemetery where almost 5,000 Americans have been buried. A bulldozer is leveling the rice paddies to make room for more dead. Over another hill to the

Foreign Lobbies Probe

Sound American public policy probably would be served by a fair congressional inquiry into lobbying by foreign governments. But there's serious doubt such an investigation conducted now would measure up to vital standards of fairness.

Senators McMahon and Morse first broached the idea in the MacArthur's hearings, suggesting that the so-called "China lobby" be looked into. They contended that funds originating in the U. S. are being used to influence American Far Eastern policy.

Secretary of State Acheson agrees such a study could be valuable, but believes it should attempt to distinguish between "proper and improper" foreign lobbying activities.

He told the Senate that President Truman has instructed all appropriate executive agencies to cooperate fully should such a study be undertaken.

From the senators' discussion of the issue, it is apparent the inquiry, if voted, could not be confined to the "China lobby." It would extend to all governments, friendly or otherwise.

On its face this proposal seems eminently wise and fair. Other things being equal there is no reason to oppose the widest possible scrutiny of foreign lobbying operations.

But, unluckily, other things are not equal. Senators who approach our foreign relations in a calm spirit of justice and reasonableness are somewhat rare. Too many have pet likes and dislikes among foreign nations.

In their eyes, the countries they disapprove can do no right. Those they like are forgiven any sins, including those they will not tolerate in some other nation.

Consequently, putting the lobbying activities of all nations under the microscope at this time would mean more than useful disclosure of improper doings.

It would provide lawmakers who have varied foreign hobbies with an ideal excuse to unleash once more their vilest and most vitriolic charges. It would be another old day for emotionalism, of which we already have had too much in Congress these recent months.

In the course of a lobbying inquiry, America's international relations would inevitably suffer, as they have suffered too often in the past few years from irresponsible congressional outbursts.

There has been enough talk for the moment. The need now is for action—action to arm the free world against the Communist danger, action to cement the free peoples in this resolve.

At some later time, when the atmosphere of Congress more temperate and the risk less from irresponsible behavior, it will be wise to study just how foreign nations may have improperly tried to influence American policy.

Almost certainly, that goal would be quickly lost sight of if the investigation were undertaken now.

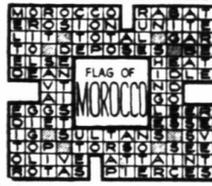

The cry of the menfolk who pay for milady's permanent—long live the kink!

What the average woman says goes—especially when she's talking about money.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY, Written for NEA Service

If you were naming the best players in the country you'd have to include Alvin Landy on your list. Strangely enough, Landy is so busy directing tournaments that he practically never gets a chance to play a game.

He found a chance to play, however, on a recent trip to the nation's capital, where he had gone to arrange the national tournament, scheduled there for August. One of the hands he played in Washington is shown today.

Landy refused the first heart trick, thus forcing West to abandon the suit. If West leads a second heart, declarer has two tricks in the suit instead of only one. If South takes the first heart, he dares not lose a trick to East, for then a heart return will ruin him.

West shifted to the eight of diamonds, and Landy made his second fine play by putting up the ace promptly. A finesse allows East to win and return a heart. Then the hearts become established while West still has the king of clubs as an entry.

After taking the second trick with dummy's ace of diamonds, Landy led the jack of clubs for a finesse.

West took the king and led his remaining diamond to East's king. East then returned a heart, but the party was over; Landy could take the ace of hearts and run the rest of the tricks, making his contract with an over-trick.

Incidentally, Landy says that this year's national tournament will be bigger and better than ever. If brilliant remarks and heated debates are heard in Washington during the first week of August, both political parties can relax. It will be just part of the annual bridge battle for the national championship.

Q—The bidding has been: North 1 Diamond, East Pass, South 2 Clubs, West Pass.

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-10-8-3, Hearts A-Q-2, Diamonds 8-5-4, Clubs J-8. What do you do?

A—Bid three no-trump. Your hand would have been worth an opening bid if your partner had passed. The combination of two such hands should produce a game. You must try for game at no-trump because a rebid in spades would not describe your hand properly and might force your partner to bid three no-trump or to get past the level of three no-trump. Either would be undesirable.

DREW PEARSON ON 'The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND'

Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Drew Pearson says: Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., tries to switch inflation votes; Senator Dirksen helps real estate lobby; Housewives' friends lose out in secret

WASHINGTON — The most important Senate debate of the year so far as housewives were concerned was fought behind closed doors of the Banking and Currency Committee last week. No housewives were present when the solons debated price controls, but this column is able to report who was for and who was against the housewife.

Those who at first voted against the housewife on rolling back prices included two Democrats: 1. Chairman Burnet Maybank of South Carolina, whose family has long been in the cotton brokerage business and who has been especially opposed to price control on cotton. The so-called rollback on beef actually was a rollback on all farm goods, including cotton.

2. Joe Frear of Delaware, who owns three dairy and chicken farms, sells fertilizer, farm machinery, and is director of the Baltimore Trust Company, the Farmers Bank of Dover, Del., and the Camden, N. J., Fruit Growers National Bank.

Republicans voting against the housewife were Capehart of Indiana, Bricker of Ohio, Schoepel of Kansas, Dirksen of Illinois and Ives of New York. Later Ives got swamped by protests from New York, and after dining with GOP Congressman Jack Javits, Republican candidate for mayor of New York, Ives switched his vote and led a drive to protect the housewife.

The original Senators voting for the housewife were: Sparkman of Alabama, Douglas of Illinois, Benton of Connecticut, Moody of Michigan, Fulbright of Arkansas and Robertson of Virginia, all Democrats. Later, however, Robertson switched his vote against the housewife.

Most effective battler against the housewife was the able new Republican Senator from Illinois, Everett Dirksen. Dirksen, a Chicago Tribune spokesman and an old friend of Morton Bodfish, a leading brain of the real estate lobby, led a move behind closed doors to wipe out price controls altogether. He was joined by Capehart, Bricker and Schoepel, four, which would have eliminated both wage and price controls.

Dirksen also tried to slip through the 61 per cent rent increase that Ohio's Bricker failed to foist on the committee in an earlier vote. Bricker had wanted to let the landlords choose any year since 1942 and increase their rents 67 per cent above their top figure—despite the fact that he had objected when the Mayflower Hotel raised its rent only 15 per cent. He was talked down behind closed doors and finally offered a 37 per cent compromise.

Yet Dirksen later came back with a proposal to strike out all rent controls, but give the President authority to recontrol rents in defense areas. What the committee almost missed, however, was that Dirksen offered the Bricker 61 per cent formula for recontrolling rents even in defense areas—interesting news to Chicago's over-crowded tenants.

Another camouflage maneuver was tried by Capehart after Dirksen lost the vote to strike out wage and price controls altogether. Capehart then moved to extend allocation controls for a year, but let price controls expire December 1. This was an obvious attempt to kill price controls in December at a time when Congress would not be in session and would be unable to renew them.

Irony is that this is the same Capehart who kept shouting that Truman was responsible for inflation because he didn't slap on controls last June, immediately after the Korean outbreak.

Backstage Lobbying: During the early committee debate, Robertson of Virginia was one of the staunchest champions of the housewife. He not only presided over the banking committee for one day in Maybank's absence, but held the proxy of Arkansas' Fulbright, during which time he argued that the country needed some kind of price control.

Later Robertson suddenly reversed himself and it was reported that his Virginia colleague, Harry Byrd, had been proselytizing him. If Robertson had not switched his vote, the housewives would have won.

To offset his switch, Congressman Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., at the suggestion of the White House, telephoned Senator Frear and urged him to vote with the consumers. Young Roosevelt's impassioned plea made an impression on the Delaware Farmer-Senator—though not quite enough.

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

Saga Of Bubbles, The Baby Sitter, And Father-of-the-Year Kefauver

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Selection of Tennessee's crime-busting Senator Estes Kefauver as "Father of the Year" has brought to light a baby-sitting story. It happened on a Sunday afternoon in the very hot-temperament of the Senate's crime investigation. Chairman Kefauver had come home for a quiet weekend after a particularly strenuous series of hearings. But three daughters and a son, and a dog and a constantly ringing telephone were too much for him.

So Senator and Mrs. Kefauver decided to flee to the cool dark seclusion of a movie, where they could forget their troubles. And they called in "Bubbles" Stone, a 16-year-old neighbor girl, to babysit. As Mrs. Kefauver departed, she said the dog was down in the basement, and was due to have puppies at any time. If she—the dog—started to cry, give her this aspirin.

Father of the Year Kefauver and wife had no more than left the house when things began to happen. Telegrams arrived. A crate of oranges came as a gift, from Florida admirers. Long distance wanted Senator Kefauver. The children—were children. And down in the basement, Mama Dog brought four puppies into the world.

When Bubbles Stone got home that night, she admitted to her own mother that she had had about all the nature in the raw that she could take in one day. But she wanted to know how you made a dog take an aspirin? Mrs. Stone said she didn't know, but she supposed you put the pill in the dog's mouth, and then gave it a drink of water.

"I tried that," said Bubbles, "and it didn't work. I finally had to take an aspirin myself."

Dark Outlook For Veep: Vice President Alben W. Barkley came back on the job wearing dark glasses, following his eye operation. Photographers immediately pounced on him and asked him to pose. The Veep refused.

"If those pictures ever got out," he cracked, "people would say, 'There's that blind vice president. Where's his tin cup?'"

One of the vice president's first official duties on return was to exclude the "in" sincerity of the union labor leaders' walk-out from participation in the defense effort last Winter seems proved conclusively now. The union leaders' complaint was that they were not being consulted at the top levels of defense planning. In February Defense Mobilizer C. E. Wilson asked the United Labor Policy Committee to name someone whom he could appoint to his staff. It was April before they picked George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Mail Clerks. It took him five weeks to report for work. But he finally was sworn in, early in June. Then C. E. Wilson announced Harrison had to go to a labor conference in Europe for a month. "When he gets back," said Wilson, "we'll roll out the red carpet."

Regardless, We're Hungry: Ashes to ashes and dust to dust. If the livestock raisers don't leave you meatless by withholding animals from market, the packinghouse workers must.

America's Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO, which has just succeeded in breaking the wage freeze ceiling by getting Wage Stabilization Board approval on their nine-cent-an-hour pay increase, now are planning to ask for more money in August. In addition, the union wants minimum annual wage in hourly wage rates, equal pay for women and men, union shop, a "social service fund" to be paid for by the company and to cover not only and honors to George Benjamin, Arkansas farmer, for his work on soil conservation. The man was accompanied by his nine-year-old son.

"What's your name, young man?" asked the Veep.

"George," said the boy.

"That's a good name," commented the vice president. "A good common name. I wish I'd named something like that. I was named for my grandfather, Alben. It's a good name, but people misspell it so much. They write to me as Albin, Allen, and sometimes as A. Barkley. Who wants to be just A. Barkley?"

Coming back from Korea, Defense Secretary George Marshall left Tokyo on a Monday. Next day, when he got to Alaska, it still was Monday, by reason of crossing the international date line going east. So, with an extra day that didn't have to be accounted for, the secretary and his party went fishing for an afternoon near Nakan, Alaska. General Marshall wouldn't tell what he caught. But Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, the Army's new G-1, or general staff officer in charge of personnel, who went with Marshall, let the fish out of the bag. He said the secretary got three or four little ones. General McAuliffe himself didn't get any.

Cussed Out From 'Copter: Major General McAuliffe, who won fame in the World War II Battle of the Bulge by telling the Germans "Nuts" when they asked him to surrender, brought back one complaint from Korea. He said that, since the advent of the helicopter, front line commanders have found there was no longer any privacy on the battlefield. Division commanders hopped around in their helicopters, and gave the colonels and majors hell right on the ground if they weren't doing all right.

Let George Do It: The complete "in" sincerity of the union labor leaders' walk-out from participation in the defense effort last Winter seems proved conclusively now. The union leaders' complaint was that they were not being consulted at the top levels of defense planning. In February Defense Mobilizer C. E. Wilson asked the United Labor Policy Committee to name someone whom he could appoint to his staff. It was April before they picked George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Mail Clerks. "That's a good name," commented the vice president. "A good common name. I wish I'd named something like that. I was named for my grandfather, Alben. It's a good name, but people misspell it so much. They write to me as Albin, Allen, and sometimes as A. Barkley. Who wants to be just A. Barkley?"

Coming back from Korea, Defense Secretary George Marshall left Tokyo on a Monday. Next day, when he got to Alaska, it still was Monday, by reason of crossing the international date line going east. So, with an extra day that didn't have to be accounted for, the secretary and his party went fishing for an afternoon near Nakan, Alaska. General Marshall wouldn't tell what he caught. But Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, the Army's new G-1, or general staff officer in charge of personnel, who went with Marshall, let the fish out of the bag. He said the secretary got three or four little ones. General McAuliffe himself didn't get any.

Cussed Out From 'Copter: Major General McAuliffe, who won fame in the World War II Battle of the Bulge by telling the Germans "Nuts" when they asked him to surrender, brought back one complaint from Korea. He said that, since the advent of the helicopter, front line commanders have found there was no longer any privacy on the battlefield. Division commanders hopped around in their helicopters, and gave the colonels and majors hell right on the ground if they weren't doing all right.

Let George Do It: The complete "in" sincerity of the union labor leaders' walk-out from participation in the defense effort last Winter seems proved conclusively now. The union leaders' complaint was that they were not being consulted at the top levels of defense planning. In February Defense Mobilizer C. E. Wilson asked the United Labor Policy Committee to name someone whom he could appoint to his staff. It was April before they picked George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Mail Clerks. It took him five weeks to report for work. But he finally was sworn in, early in June. Then C. E. Wilson announced Harrison had to go to a labor conference in Europe for a month. "When he gets back," said Wilson, "we'll roll out the red carpet."

Regardless, We're Hungry: Ashes to ashes and dust to dust. If the livestock raisers don't leave you meatless by withholding animals from market, the packinghouse workers must.

America's Packinghouse Workers of America, CIO, which has just succeeded in breaking the wage freeze ceiling by getting Wage Stabilization Board approval on their nine-cent-an-hour pay increase, now are planning to ask for more money in August. In addition, the union wants minimum annual wage in hourly wage rates, equal pay for women and men, union shop, a "social service fund" to be paid for by the company and to cover not only and honors to George Benjamin, Arkansas farmer, for his work on soil conservation. The man was accompanied by his nine-year-old son.

"What's your name, young man?" asked the Veep.

"George," said the boy.

"That's a good name," commented the vice president. "A good common name. I wish I'd named something like that. I was named for my grandfather, Alben. It's a good name, but people misspell it so much. They write to me as Albin, Allen, and sometimes as A. Barkley. Who wants to be just A. Barkley?"

medical care, but also legal fees. Also increased clothing allowance, check-off, payment for time spent handling grievances and payment of differential between regular pay and fees received while on jury duty.

Union argues that, including recent cost-of-living raise, average for industry is $1.35 an hour. And while wages have risen eight per cent, January, 1950, to May, 1951, meat prices have risen 25 per cent. Embarrassing Questions

Navy Lt. William H. Evans, Jr., who got fired for writing letters criticizing Truman Administration far Eastern policies, didn't do so well on an interview in Washington.

"I wrote that letter with my oath of office propped up right before me," Lieutenant Evans boasted.

"Did you also have Navy Regulations before you when you wrote it?" asked a veteran war correspondent.

Later, Lieutenant Evans made a statement about not being able to stand it, seeing our boys dying in Korea.

"Did you see any action yourself?" he was asked.

He had to admit that he hadn't.

Q—Is there any relation between the word cardinal, meaning "red," and the word cardinal, "a high official of the Roman Catholic Church?"

A—Yes. Cardinal red was so called in allusion to the red robes worn by the cardinals of the church.

Q—When was the last shipment of African slaves landed in the United States?

A—The Wanderer, the last ship to bring slaves direct from Africa to the United States, landed its cargo on Jekyll Island, Ga., in November, 1858.

Q—Has the Soviet Union participated in the Olympic Games since the Russian Revolution?

A—No. Although much is made of sports in Russia, there has been little participation in world contests. However, last year Russia sent a strong team to the European track and field championships, and Soviet women athletes are considered among the world's best.

I had my coffee before a replenished fire in the old grate and with it a sizeable chunk of apple-sauce cake a neighbor woman had sent over by her son when he came to cut firewood for me that afternoon. Bart Jonathan was right. I was finding Hollister different from New York.

And I was wrong. I would not be staying, not that I had entertained the thought seriously. That had been the background for the lie I was living, the lie Bart Jonathan would not understand.

The telephone rang a couple of times, once for me, as night pinned clouds across the sky for an early darkness, but I didn't answer it.

I PUT the coffee cup on the mantel beside Peter Leigh's picture of Caroline and her Paul. I had to get away from Hollister, now—tonight. Morning would bring Carl and—and— I refused to think the rest of it, but I could not close my mind to Caroline's wistful eyes, her stubborn belief that, one day, Carl Metzker would see her as something more than an efficient cog in his public relations office machinery.

Oh, Carl was clever, all right. And cruel. Caroline's death—and mine—to him would be merely self-preservation, the prime law of Nature. He would go on contacting slimy little men who had betrayed their souls, he would go on paying them, and men who deserved to live would die because of it.

Before the fear could come again, I went to the telephone. Bart Jonathan had to believe me! I cranked the old telephone and waited for the operator.

Realization and blind terror came hand in hand. There wasn't even the dull hum of an empty line. Minutes ago the phone had been ringing. Now only a broken—or a cut—wire could register such nothingness.

THE STORY: No one believed me, Mary Tobias, when I told that my employer, Carl Metzker, was a Communist courier and had killed my friend Caroline Leigh. So I fled for my life, taking Caroline's name and claiming her valet's property in Indiana as a place of refuge. But Carl has just called me by telephone—he has traced me here.

Bart Jonathan told me that, although not in so many words, as I sat in his office that first day.

"You will find Hollister different from New York, Mrs. Leigh," he said, his eyes soberly on mine. "For a girl used to a big city—"

He paused, and grinned. "I'm sorry. Don't let me discourage you."

"I won't." He didn't know what lay behind the firmness. "I know the house won't be a city apartment. Mr. Jonathan, but I had planned to spend my vacation here, at least." I made myself smile, although my lips felt stiff. "I might even stay."

The young lawyer fiddled with the papers on his desk; I prayed he wouldn't ask me to sign them. Not just yet. "Of course, I might be able to sell the place for you, but—"

Trying to sound like an interested hearer, I said, "But what?"

Bart Jonathan's chuckle was embarrassed. "Paul's Uncle Peter was more or less the recluse, Mrs. Leigh. The house is not in very good shape."

THAT hadn't mattered. Until five minutes ago, I had been perfectly willing to struggle with the wood-burning fireplace and the drafty old coal range and the lack of plumbing. It hadn't been fun, but until I heard Carl's voice on the phone, it had been security.

I went to the kitchen, measured coffee into the aluminum percolator that I had bought to replace the grimy old pot Paul Leigh's Uncle Peter had used, dipped water into it and set it carefully on the coal stove. I needed the calming effect of strong coffee, it might help me think straight, keep

New Hair-Styles Feature: Bare Ears, Bold Parts

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

For a coiffure in tune with the times, rhythmic swoops and swirls are your best bet this summer. This is indicated by a survey of new styles by leading New York hairdressers, all of whose creations stress sweep and grace despite differences in hair-lengths and purposes.

Although locks are longer in general, they are still a far cry from the loose-hanging shoulder-length bobs of a few years back. Control is the keynote this season.

Hair-styles are following fashion's lead toward the elegant and feminine. Brief boyish cuts, gamin tousle-heads, and little-girl fluff have all yielded to sleeker, more mature arrangements.

If you've been clinging to an out-moded hair-do because of its ease and comfort, perhaps you should take a closer look at new coiffures. Most of them offer the same simplicity American women learned to appreciate in the short-hair days.

Now, however, instead of brushing your tresses down at the sides, you sweep them back and up from your temples to reveal—partially or wholly—your ear.

The part in your hair is important this year, too. No longer should you whisk it casually from crown to forehead, wherever your comb chances to fall. You part should be an integral element in your hair-do; it should serve a definite purpose.

John Fonda, in one interesting style, uses a slanting part that emphasizes the gleaming fall of curls that swirls around the side into a half-bang upon the forehead. This treatment of the front hair softens the efficient-looking upwept sides and relieves them of all severity. This is an excellent choice for the woman who wishes to combine a look of femininity with that of efficiency and competence.

In another arrangement, Fonda draws the part across the head, in a direction just opposite to the usual manner of parting. He turns the short front hair over to make a low roll that points up an interesting hairline. The center section of the hair is dressed smoothly back toward the crown, and the side locks are brushed up to add a look of height and importance. This style, although fundamentally simple, appears sufficiently sophisticated for the most elegant occasions.

Another glamorous, but easily-managed style—this one by L. Nicholas—features this season's popular center part. Called the "Clover-leaf" by its creator, this coiffure swirls toward each side to brush the forehead lightly with smooth wing-tips of hair. Cloverblossoms nestle in the part, offering a textural contrast to the sleek, gleaming tresses. An illusion veil, adorned with artfully-placed dots, adds a final touch to this belle-of-the-ball coiffure.

Robert Fiance sections off softly-waved bangs by means of a semi-circular part rising from the forehead. He then pulls side tresses back into wide, sweeping waves which complement the back curls and lead an observer's eye to them. These curls, formed of hair long enough for a complete turn, are brought up off the nape for the high-clustered look preferred by Fiance.

Even in casual styles, such as that created by Henry of the Roosevelt, accent is upon the part. His "Auricle," which forms a soft, becoming halo around the head, is set around a part that is drawn slantwise across the head. It ends a bit lower than the crown, giving the head a well-formed, delicate appearance. He turns, rather than curls, the ends and brushes them upward to the ears then downward in back to form a soft U centered on the nape of the neck. This cool comfortable hair-do is of particular appeal to those who like prevailing fashion adapted to nonchalant living.

TV Sets Too Costly For Average Jap

TOKYO —P— Jiro Sato, Japan's man in the street, and his wife are eager for television but they are going to have to wait a long time for it. The reason: Nobody can afford it.

Receiving sets are far beyond the reach of the average man. Six companies are making sets on an experimental basis, but these are not on general sale. The sets cost 100,000 yen, or about $275. That's a sum the 15,000 yen-a-month worker would find impossible to shell out. There are less than 300 sets in Japan, all of them in Tokyo.

So far, one license for TV broadcasting has been issued. It is held by Yomiuri, the largest newspaper in Tokyo. Officials of Yomiuri say they plan TV on a limited and experimental basis for a few years.

"How can a young postman on a permanent two to 10 p.m. duty do his courting?" he asked.

Some Folk Seem To Enjoy Annual Scrap Over Vacation

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Writes one of my male readers: "What can you do, besides look forward to a yearly fight, when husband and wife have an entirely different idea of what a real vacation should be?"

"I like to get as far away from people as possible and 'rough it,' which my wife claims is no vacation at all for her. She likes to go where there are lots of people, to sit around and talk to and play bridge with, etc."

That isn't too unusual a situation. Are you sure you want to give up those yearly where-do-we-go-for-our-vacation fights? Maybe you both enjoy them.

If you don't you ought to be able to work out some fair arrangement. There are several possibilities. You can divide your vacation time in two—if there is enough of it—and spend part of it at a place your wife chooses and part at the kind of place you like.

Or you can take your vacations separately, if each of you can have fun without depending on the other for companionship.

Or you can plan two years' vacations at once, with you having the say-so where you go one year and your wife making the plans for the other. Flip a coin to see who gets his way this summer and who has to wait until next year to carry out his plans.

Those are some ways you could work things out—unless you find it more exciting to match your wits against each other every year to see who can win the argument. You might at that. Lots of couples must or they wouldn't fight over vacation plans year after year.

right are the camps where thousands of war prisoners, both Chinese Reds and North Koreans, await removal to a concentration area.

In 20 minutes the air evac plane is cruising above the clouds. Many of the men have their own cigarettes. A crewman opens a sack of old comic books and magazines. There is a special lunch because the plane brought in a load of officers and men returning from five-day leave and they left their lunch boxes behind.

The little nurse is everywhere at once, up and down the tiers of litters, adjusting bandages, attending wants, answering questions.

The ambulatory cases want to help out, and the nurse humors them. A big fellow hobbling on one leg is using both hands to hold a cup, while a badly-injured man tries to suck a drink through a glass tube.

It is a routine flight, one of many made every week. When the going is tough at the front and the casualties heavy, the helicopter rescues more frequent, and the hospital trains more numerous, there are more flights.

Within an hour, most of the men turn their faces to the shadows of the curved wall of the plane and are asleep. A few lie flat, staring at the brown letters above them. On a bottom row litter a man racked with battle shock clenches his hands and keeps his eyes tightly shut.

Over the straits the panorama of Japan opens up through the clouds. Soon the snow-capped cone of Mount Fuji is a landmark to the left, but the air evac planes give it a wide berth. Other planes have crashed against the steep sides of the ancient volcano and no air evac plane flies closer than 30 miles to it. Few of the wounded see the scenery, nor do they care.

At the port of destination in Japan, the pilot brings the big plane down to kiss the runway with the gentlest, softest touch imaginable. The sleeping wounded do not stir. The litters are carried out as carefully as they came in, and distributed to waiting ambulances. Some of the men will fly on to America. After a rest others will go back to duty in the Korean hills.

An Aching Back May Not Be Rheumatism

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

What has become of the old-fashioned name of rheumatism? What is meant today when someone is said to have rheumatism? In a way this word has been sacrificed to the march of science since it no longer satisfies medical knowledge to call almost any muscular or joint ache or pain by the simple name of rheumatism.

What formerly was labeled rheumatism now is diagnosed more carefully as rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, rheumatic fever, myositis or one of several other disorders. Rheumatism, when still used, usually refers to the muscular pains and aches which may develop in almost any part of the body and from any one of many different causes.

Almost everyone at one time or another has suffered with such kinds of muscular rheumatism. A draft blowing on the back or neck may be enough to set it off. Muscular aches and pains often accompany or follow infections such as sore throats or influenza. Toxic substances absorbed from diseased tonsils or an abscessed tooth not infrequently pains which feel just like "rheumatism" often come after one has given hard use to muscles which were soft and flabby or after one has maintained a poor posture for long periods of time.

It is impossible here to list all the treatments which have been suggested. But I have received inquiries about bee stings or the substance which the bee injects when she stings. This remedy is as old as the hills. Even some doctors who have investigated it think that it is helpful. I remember as a boy an elderly bee keeper who had what was called rheumatism then and who was all crippled up in the Winter but who claimed to be much improved in the Spring when he got out with the bees and was stung a few times. I never could make up my mind whether his improvement was caused by the stings or the fresh and warmer air of Spring-time; I still don't know.

In other words there still are some things left for which the label of rheumatism is about as good as anything else. Rheumatism of any cause is uncomfortable and a thousand kinds of treatment have been tried. Many if not most get well of themselves. In others the cause can be traced and eliminated. But some go on and on until the victim without his or her rheumatism would seem like a different person.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Do We Have An Elephant?

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, had gone for a visit with Old MacDonald who has a farm. What happy times they had together, and every evening they would sit on the porch and sing a song. "Old MacDonald has a farm, ee ee I ee I oh!"

Yes, and Daddy Ringtail was happy to help with the work at the farm. He fed the pigs and the chickens and the cow. He even fed Archibald who is Old MacDonald's donkey. What fun to feed and look after all the animals there at the farm!

Yes, but one morning, Daddy

Ringtail came running back from the barn in a hurry. Old MacDonald could see him running, because Old MacDonald was washing dishes in the kitchen close by the window. "Mercy me!" said Old MacDonald to himself. "Something must have happened to some of my animal-creatures in the barn!" And so Old MacDonald ran out the door to meet Daddy Ringtail coming all to see what the matter was. Why, Old MacDonald ran out so fast he even forgot to take off his apron.

"Daddy Ringtail," said Old MacDonald in a very excited voice, "has anything happened to any of my animal-creatures out there in the barn?"

"Mercy me no," said Daddy Ring-tail. "All your animal-creatures are doing fine, Old MacDonald, except - - except, Old MacDonald, does one of your animal-creatures at the barn happen to be an elephant?"

"What's that?" asked Old MacDonald, because he was so excited he could hardly believe the words he had heard. "Say them again," said Old MacDonald. "Daddy Ringtail, say those words again."

And so Daddy Ringtail said the words again. He said: "Old MacDonald do we have an elephant?"

And Old MacDonald now was laughing to hear the words. Did they have an elephant? Why, of course they didn't have an elephant. Old MacDonald was thinking, and he laughed so hard with the thought of it that he slipped his leg with his hand to help him laugh the better, yes sir. But he stopped his laughing quick enough when the elephant came walking out of the barn. It was a real elephant sure enough! And Old MacDonald still has it on his farm, but how the elephant got there - like a lot of things that happen - will be a mystery forever, I guess, but a happy mystery is a happy thing indeed. Happy day!

Loss Of Papers Is Big Mystery

ADDIS ABABA —(AP)—Ethiopian Airlines and civil aviation officials are investigating into the disappearance of "important papers" from the brief case of Dr. Eduardo Anze Matienzo, of Bolivia, UN Commissioner for Eritrea. Senor Matienzo visited Addis Ababa briefly late in May. After landing at Addis Ababa Airport, he found he had inadvertently left his brief case in the plane.

Airport officials searched the airliner but failed to find the brief case. It was later returned to Dr. Anze to have been a "round-about way." But officials said, all the papers were missing.

Child's Record-Time Offers Rhythm Instead Of Jingle-Jangle

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—As dead and gone as a crank-handle phonograph are the days when children sat primly upon the parlor sofa while indulgent parents favored them with a turn or two of their precious grown-up records.

Expiring, too, is the practice of shoving the kids into a back room together with a phonograph grown too screechy for front room use and a collection of saccharin-voiced kiddie-disks that bore the small fry and torture the adults.

A new era of children's records is upon the land. Only a few years ago, juvenile platters were a step-child industry, tolerated mostly for the small change they brought into the records business at Christmas or birthday time. Today, they're getting the fair-haired treatment, and the time, effort and money lavished upon them shows in the results. Narration is child-slanted without being condescendingly childish; music is tuneful without being jingly-jangly.

One firm that can claim a large share of credit for raising the standards of children's records is the Children's Record Guild. It aims not only at providing healthful outlets for young energy but throws in besides a touch of music appreciation and a dab of educator-approved psychology in addition to a large bank of just-plain-fun.

Children cooped up on rainy days find purposeful movements for fidgety young muscles when interpreting in their own way the antics of the little boy in "Nothing to Do." They better understand the various dance rhythms after following a father through a day in which he hears the tune of "Hot Cross Buns" in varying beats wherever he goes. They learn that the sound of an empty house are interesting, not frightening, when the creaks and drips are duplicated instrumentally in "The Lonesome House;" and they learn the rewards of cooperation through the subtle lesson slipped into "Mr. Grump and the Dingle School Band." In still another record, "The Carrot Seed," they are gratified and reassured to find adults and their big brothers sometimes be mistaken.

The guild is deadly serious in its attempt to make its records a meaningful part of a child's life. It's not enough, they contend, to buy a record at random at times when a gift seems in order. Nor has a parent fulfilled his obligations when he regards his child's record player as a convenient and sort of glorified baby-sitter.

Children often need a bit of a nudge from an adult before they realize there's fun to be had "acting out" the movements of their records. If mothers and fathers take a few minutes to "clap-clap-clap" their hands as instructed in "Train to the Zoo," they're likely to find they have a monkey-see, monkey-do right in their own homes.

These records offer, too, an opportunity for family sharing of pleasure. The father who's too dignified to push a toy truck around the living room floor, or the mother who can't really take an interest in her daughter's dollhouse, pretending, may find in record-playing an opportunity for companionship that's not only dutiful but actually fun.

JACOBY ON GANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

In recent articles we have been discussing the choice of your first discard. There are times when you should discard from strength (three or more of a kind) and times when you should discard from weakness (no more cards to match the discard). Your choice should depend mostly on the nature of your hand.

Sometimes you are dealt a clear cut offensive hand; sometimes a clearcut defensive hand. Most of the time you are dealt a hand that isn't much of anything, and you must wait for the hand to take on a real character during the early part of the play.

An obvious offensive hand is one that gives you an excellent chance to win the discard pile very quickly. Naturally you must have the count. Equally naturally, you must have several different pairs.

When the count is only 30 points, the ideal hand is five pairs and a joker. Low pairs are better than high pairs because low cards usually are discarded more freely than high cards.

You seldom will get the perfect hand, but you don't have to wait for perfection. Four pairs plus the count is a very fine hand, and even three pairs plus the count is a good offensive combination.

With any such hand you should begin a campaign to win the discard pile. Keep your pairs and try to accumulate new pairs. It may be necessary to discard from three of a kind when you have such a hand (provided that this discard does not give up the count).

Such a discard from strength serves three purposes. It may induce the player at your right to match the discard—in which case you will take the pack at once. It makes room in your hand for new pairs. Finally, it is probably the safest discard you can make. The next player is less likely to have a matching pair when you discard from three of a kind than when you discard a singleton.

A DEFENSIVE hand is one that offers a good play for a fast out and very little play for winning the discard pile. For example, you might hold four cards of one kind, and one or two wild cards.

Such a hand will produce a canasta very quickly if your partner can add to either meld. It is not much good for winning the pack since you have only two pairs. The enemy is unlikely to throw a card that you can pick up.

With such a hand, you discard odd cards and keep building up your hand. When possible you will make the initial meld, especially if you can do so without having to use your wild cards.

New Club Pays Your Bills, But You Must Pay The Club

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Up to now, there's only been three ways to deal with a month's accumulation of bills. You could rip them up, set fire to them or, as a last resort, pay them. Now there's a fourth alternative.

You can have somebody else pay them. And there's a somebody who is eager to do just that—for a fee. The Bill-of-the-Month Club is the name, and it's a new-fangled organization set up to handle an old-fashioned headache.

The idea is a simple one. You instruct the merchants you deal with to send all future bills to the club. The club, in turn, sends you just one bill a month, covering everything. You pay the club, which pays the merchants.

Here's how the Bill-of-the-Month-Club works, dollar-by-dollar: Mr. and Mrs. John Dough are a nice, average couple, with a nice, average way of life. He makes money and she spends it. She has charge accounts with five department stores, two butchers, three beauty parlors, a sprinkling of groceries. Bills also come in each month from the insurance company, the landlord, the telephone company, the gas and electric company—and a few thousand other relentless millionaires.

These records offer, too, an opportunity for family sharing of pleasure. The father who's too dignified to push a toy truck around the living room floor, or the mother who can't really take an interest in her daughter's dollhouse, pretending, may find in record-playing an opportunity for companionship that's not only dutiful but actually fun.

MATHIAS TAKES MARINE TRAINING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(AP)—Stanford's Bob Mathias, world decathlon champion, will begin training under the Marine Corps Reserve Officer candidate program July 16 at San Diego, Calif.

The rugged six-week class is not expected to interfere with Mathias' plans to report for football this fall. The six-foot three, 205 pound athlete from Tulare, Calif., said he will concentrate on his academic work instead of defending his three-time national decathlon title this summer.

English Dropping That Tweedy Look

LONDON—(AP)—The Englishman is changing his shape again.

Instead of lounging around in tweeds, his trousers sagging at the knees and his pockets bulging at the seams, he soon will be strutting about looking like a crack guards officer.

In short, he will be wearing the "military look." The "Tailor and Cutter" trade paper for Britain's tailoring industry, welcomed the change. The newest suits for men are based on military patterns with tighter fitting jackets with a slash up the back and narrow trousers without cuffs.

The new style, according to the magazine, is a reaction from the "sartorial hysteria" of American stylists which followed the end of the war. "Drape exaggerated itself into an early grave and the bright and exaggerated fashions made popular by Hollywood panted themselves to a standstill," it said.

The greedy pike is a terror to other fish, eating one-fifth of its weight each day.

They admit the Club probably won't appeal to anybody making less than $10,000 a year. That's a sizable chunk of population to be written off, but they figure there are enough people left to make it pay.

"It's not the lazy guy we're after," says Bandler. "We're after the busy guy, who simply doesn't have time to pay his bills."

Before they went into business, they checked several large stores to see if they'd have any objection to sending their bills to the Club. "Lissen," one department store executive said. "I don't care who pays as long as somebody does. If the account wants, I'll send the bill to you or to them or to Margaret Truman. All I want is my dough."

Which is a pretty decent way of looking at it.

It is said that pigs are the only animals that will eat primrose.

With its monthly bill-to-end-all-bills, the Club sends all the individual bills and vouchers for your records. If you disagree with a charge, you can still enjoy that age-old American custom of fighting it out. You just deduct that item for the Club's bill and send them the remainder. Then you take up the questionable charge with the store that made it.

Complete Budget Report
There's still hope for the man who gets flendian delight in tearing up the first bill he gets and paying the second or third.
The Club will pro-rate that payment among his creditors, and stick the rest on the bill next month.
At the end of the year, the Club sends you a complete budget report, showing how much you've spent for what. That report is designed to help at tax time, but it should also make for excellent comical reading.

The Club is the brainchild of James Brewster, an engineer and financial management expert. He was swamped with bills one day, one thing led to another and he had the idea. With Richard Bandler, an advertising man who liked the scheme, Brewster consulted top-level businessmen in many fields. Nobody found any bugs in the plan, so they went into the business of assuming other people's burdens.

Communist Female Has Iron-Hand Rule

RANGOON—(AP)—A woman has established an iron-clad rule in Communist-occupied territory adjoining the border of the Pegu and Hanthawaddy districts immediately north of Rangoon.

Buxom Ma Saw Mya, reputed lieutenant of Red Flag chief Thakin Soe, is described by refugees fleeing the area as more cruel than any male Communist they know. The refugees, now in Rangoon, said the woman maintains a jungle love-nest. Petty leaders war among themselves for her favors. According to the refugees her current "husbands" are two leaders she wooed from the rival White Flag party.

Ma Saw Mya is the self-appointed president of the people's court set up in the area to try recalcitrant villagers, the refugees stated. They said the penalty for all offenses, including tax evasion, was execution.

No Traffic Deaths In Last 50 Years; Hobart Wonders If It's Just Luck

Hobart cracks down on violators who ignore stop signs on the city's main streets. City Marshal Roy Elkins stops a driver who ran through one such marker. For a second offense, he could be fined $20.

By ALVENA ADAMS
HOBART, OKLA. —(NEA)— In this age of heavy traffic and mounting highway deaths, the town of Hobart, Okla., holds a unique record. It never has had a traffic death since its incorporation in 1901, a 50-year distinction that National Safety Council says no other American city of more than 5,000 can equal.

But how Hobart has avoided a traffic death for 50 years is a puzzle, even in Hobart. There are two schools of thought. Both admit that one of the biggest factors is that Hobart has tough traffic laws and tough enforcement. One group says that's the big reason for the absence of fatalities — that plus a few other factors like wide streets, safe-driving courses and safety-conscious citizens.

But there are those who say the city's remarkable record is the result of pure and simple luck.

Ease Skin Discomfort with RED ARROW CALAMINE LOTION
For diaper rash, sunburn, insect bites and poison ivy. Promotes healing. PLAIN or with PHENOL.

Bruce Wright, an insurance agent and real-estate man, sides with the last viewpoint. "We have as many reckless drivers here as in any other town," says Wright.
But City Marshal Roy Elkins believes that his strict enforcement of existing laws has a lot to do with the record. He's firm in making drivers observe the six stop signs placed at the busiest intersections.
"At first," he says, "I gave the fellows a chance. But that time is past. We're cracking down on them now."

Newspaper Publicity
The "crack-downs" are given newspaper publicity, too; that's part of Elkins' campaign to warn other drivers that the law means what it says.

The width of the streets—Main Street is about 46 feet wide and even residential streets average 36 feet—is also a contributing factor to the safety of Hobart. The citizens make a point of keeping shrubs at residential intersections trimmed low, so that drivers have clear vision in all directions.
Children in grade schools are taught traffic rules. Bicyclists have to obey the laws, too. They seem to like the idea, and even give the same hand-signals motorists use when they make turns or stop.
A high school driving class, in operation for several years, is another cause of the city's safety record. Students learn the correct way to drive in heavy traffic, both day and night, learn how to park parallel and at right angles, and become familiar with all phases of traffic problems.
Hobart, through County Judge Clarence W. Hunter, is tough on drunken drivers. Fines are heavy and second offenders are grounded for keeps.

"I'm not going to fool with them," says Hunter. "To me, the drunk driver is as much a criminal as a murderer—in fact, he has the potentialities of a murderer, and too often becomes one when he gets behind the wheel."
But despite all the precautions and laws and police, there are still many around who feel, like Wright, that it takes a good portion of luck to make the record stand up.

INDIA GIVES RATION PICTURE
NEW DELHI —(P)— One-third of India's population is under rationing—55,000,000, in villages and 70,000,000 in cities and towns. Giving this information in parliament, Food Minister K. M. Munshi said this was a drop of almost 30,000,000 from the beginning of 1951.

The food scarcity in Bihar and Bengal has brought an additional 3,000,000 people under a kind of rationing—distribution through controlled "fair price" shops.

Heavy Grains Imports Contracted By India

NEW DELHI —(P)— India has contracted to import a little more than 4,000,000 tons of food grains this year. This does not include the proposed loan of 2,000,000 tons of wheat from the United States, the Russian 400,000 tons and the Chinese grain deals yet to be negotiated.

Of the quantity contracted, the United States tops the list of wheat and milo suppliers, and Burma and Thailand of rice. From the total 2,300,000 tons of wheat, the United States alone will send 1,141,500 tons. From a total of 1,100,000 tons of milo, shipments from America will total 635,300 tons. Of the 1,000,000 tons of rice to be imported, Thailand and Burma send almost 344,000 tons each, with Pakistan (218,000 tons), China (80,000 tons) and Egypt (3,500 tons) ranking next.
India annually produces almost 40,000,000 tons of foodgrains and her normal deficit is one-tenth of her production.

SEMINOLES HAVE RECORD SEASON

TALLAHASSEE, FLA. —(P)— The Florida State University baseball team closed its 1951 season with 13 wins against six defeats for the best record since the sport was inaugurated here in 1948. Coach Charlie Armstrong's Seminoles also had the best record in Dixie Conference play where they won six out of seven starts.

Burma Communists Plan Seizure Deal

RANGOON —(P)— Foreign properties would be nationalized under a Communist-planned Burma of the People's Democratic Front, according to a party manifesto issued here.

The People's Democratic Front is composed of the Communist-minded Burma Workers and Peasants Party and the Burma Trades Union Congress. It is led by the former Labor Minister Thakin Lwin.
The manifesto says further that people's councils will rule the army, the police and, of course, the people. Since the present government suspended its own nationalization program for want of capital, the Front presumably would appropriate without compensation.

THOMAS DID IT AGAIN

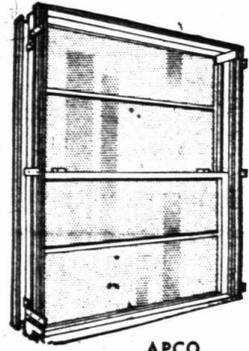

EAST LANSING, MICH. —(P)— Jesse Thomas, Michigan State's "one man track team," scored four firsts in an outdoor dual meet with Illinois to equal a mark he set against Wisconsin in an indoor meet. Thomas won the 100 yard dash, 120 yard high and 220 yard low hurdle events and the broad jump.
