Good Oil Shows Develop On DST In Lea Wildcat

Forest Oil Corporation recovered 2,100 feet of slightly gas-cut mud, 4,940 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud and 30 feet of muddy oil after a drillstem test of the Wolfcamp in its No. 1 H. L. Lowe, wildcat in Northeast Lea County, N. M.

The interval tested was from 10,131 to 10,180 feet. Tool was open 62 minutes. A 1,000-foot water blanket was used.

When 5,400 feet of drillpipe had been pulled, after the tool was closed, it started unloading and unloaded 32 minutes and then unloaded several times after that for shorter periods.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure was 3,255 pounds to 3,690 pounds. Shutin pressure after 15 minutes was 3,960 pounds.

The above test was not entirely satisfactory to the operator and another test is now being run in the same interval.

No. 1 Lowe is seven and one-half miles north of production in the Denton-multiphase field and about the same distance south of the Gladiola field.

Exact location is at the center of the southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 25-13s-37e.

NE Offset Staked To Devonian Opener In NW Martin Area

Pan American Production Company, Forest Oil Corporation and Houston Oil Company of Texas have staked location for their No. 2 F. D. Breedlove, which is to be one location northeast of the same concerns' No. 1 F. D. Breedlove, following discovery recently completed from the Devonian in Northwest Martin County.

Exact footage of the new project has not been reported. It will be available in a few days.

To Test Devonian

It is projected to at least 12,120 feet to try for production in the same pay from which the No. 1 Breedlove was completed.

The new field opener—the No. 1 Breedlove—is 13 miles northwest of Tarsan and 660 feet from south and 4,520 feet from east lines of league 28S, Bristow County School Land survey.

It was completed for a calculated 24-hour potential of 2,341 barrels of 41.3 gravity oil, and no water, flowing through a three-quarter inch tubing choke.

The production was from perforated section at 12,078-118 feet. That interval had been washed with 600 gallons of mud acid and treated with 500 gallons of Diesel fuel.

Cabot Completes Spraberry Oiler In Driver Area

Cabot Carbon Company No. 1-B TXL, wildcat in the Driver-Spraberry area of Southeast Midland County, has been completed as a producer for a daily flowing potential of 216 barrels of oil and no water.

Located 660 feet from south and 560 feet from east lines of section 33, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey, this new oiler is one mile southwest of production in the east side of the Driver area and one mile east of Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 2 Sam Preston which was completed in the southwest side of the same field.

No. 1-B TXL flowed 35.3-gravity oil from open hole at 7,036-7,252 feet after a 4,500-gallon Hydrafrac treatment.

Gas-oil ratio was 644-1 and tubing pressure was 375 pounds. Completion was made on a one-quarter-inch choke.

Reagan Wildcat Makes New Oil In Spraberry Zone

Lloyd H. Smith, Inc., and George P. Livermore, Inc., No. 1-A D. E. Hughes, North-Central Reagan County wildcat, four miles northeast of Stiles is credited with having made some new oil and some lead oil during 13 hours of flowing and swabbing from the upper Spraberry.

This project is bottomed at 5,870 feet in the Spraberry. It had cemented 7-inch casing at 5,753 feet. The plug on that pipe had been drilled out and the open hole at 5,753-5,870 feet had been Hydrafrac with 1,500 gallons.

Kicked Off After Swabbing

After the pressure was lifted from the injection the prospector was swabbed until it kicked off and started flowing.

It flowed 27.6 barrels of oil the first hour; 27 barrels of oil the second hour, and 20 barrels of oil the third hour.

After the flow died operators (Continued On Page Four)

Sale Of Fabulous Panhandle Cattle Empire Confirmed

MATADOR, TEXAS—(P)—An American syndicate has bought the fabulous Matador and Alamositas Ranches in Texas, a cattle empire.

Manager John Stevens of the Matador Ranch said late Monday night he had received telephone confirmation that the two big spreads—more than 800,000 acres of land—had been sold.

Earlier, it had been announced an American syndicate had offered $18,960,000 for the Matador Land & Cattle Company, the Scottish firm that ruled the Panhandle spreads.

Lazard Brothers, a banking firm which also has offices in New York and Paris, here is the syndicate which has bought the big ranch. The syndicate also reportedly includes 11 newly formed American cattle companies.

The two ranches total about 812,000 acres. The Alamositas lies in Oldham and Hartley Counties, on the New Mexico border in the northern part of the Texas Panhandle and covers about 400,000 acres.

The Matador lies northeast of Lubbock, and stretches almost to the southwest tip of the State of Oklahoma. Parts of it lie in five counties—Floyd, Motley, Cottle, Crosby and Dickens.

The previous announcements of the impending sale said the 47,000 Hereford cattle on the ranges went with the land.

There was no mention of the ultimate aim of the American syndicate for the two ranches.

Both Ranches Under Lease

Rumors said the buyers planned to dissolve the company and sell the land.

Both ranches are under lease for oil exploration. Under terms announced by the London banking (Continued On Page Six)

Murder Suspect Free Man After Verdict Declares Him Sane

GROESBECK, TEXAS—(P)—John L. Rudasill, handsome 28-year-old former Merchant Marine, walked out of court a free man Tuesday after a jury found him sane.

Sparkman returned Monday from a two-week tour of Western Europe, where he and other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee conferred with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander (Continued On Page Six) Rudasill has spent more than 19 months in jail since the fatal shooting in 1949 of Mrs. Annie McDonald Milani, 19-year-old mother of two children.

The husky youth was indicted on murder charges but never brought to trial. Tuesday's was the fourth insanity trial. Two ended in deadlocked juries. But the third, in district court last January, brought a finding that he was insane then and at the time of the shooting. Won't Be Tried

Because of the January verdict that he was insane at the time of the shooting, he never will be tried for the slaying. Tuesday's trial was only to determine whether he is sane now—whether or not he should be returned to the Rusk State Hospital.

Rudasill broke into a wide grin and slapped his mother, Mrs. Wilbur Keys of Mexia, on the back when the verdict was announced. He shook hands with each of the jurors. Then he walked out of the courtroom with his mother.

After the January verdict of insanity and his stay in the Rusk Hospital, authorities there returned him in 15 days with the report they believed he was sane.

Rites For Admiral Sherman Set Friday

WASHINGTON—(P)—Adm. Forrest P. Sherman will be interred at 2 p. m. Friday in Arlington National Cemetery with high military honors.

In announcing this Tuesday, the Navy said the body of the former chief of Naval operations will lie in state in Washington Cathedral from Wednesday afternoon until time for the funeral.

Sherman died Sunday of a heart ailment in Naples, Italy, while on a tour of the Atlantic Pact countries. A plane carrying his body left Naples Tuesday and is due here Wednesday afternoon.

The body will be taken from the airport to the cathedral on Massachusetts Avenue, about five miles from the cemetery.

Tenant Discovers Landlord Really Meant Business

A 22-year-old Midland man learned Monday that when his landlord told him to get out, he meant it.

He complained to police that the landlord had given him 20 minutes to vacate the premises. At the end of 20 minutes, he still was packing his things.

The landlord, however, grabbed a baseball bat and began beating him over the head, he claimed.

He was given emergency treatment at Western Clinic-Hospital.

Solons Split On Increased Military Goals

WASHINGTON—(P)—Some senators Tuesday called for more information on why President Truman believes it probably will be necessary to build the armed forces beyond the present goal of 3,500,000 men.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) declared, however, he is convinced the President is right. The Oregon lawmaker said the strength of the fighting forces must be increased, from both a manpower and an equipment standpoint, "if we are to make it clear to Russia she has everything to lose and nothing to gain as a result of any aggression."

In his midyear economic report, Truman told Congress Monday the 3,500,000-man goal, now almost reached, may prove inadequate regardless of the outcome of the truce talks in Korea.

The President urged "full speed ahead" on the military build-up generally and said 3,500,000 men in uniform may not be enough to thwart a global threat of Soviet "blackmail" and aggression.

Truman also declared there should be no yielding to those who would discard the anti-inflation control system "or shoot it full of holes."

Sparkman Disagrees

As for the armed forces manpower increase beyond 3,500,000 men, Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) said he knows of no good reason for any increase beyond the current goal "unless there is greater trouble in prospect somewhere else."

Sparkman returned Monday from a two-week tour of Western Europe, where he and other members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee conferred with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander (Continued On Page Six)

City Council To Consider Wage Hikes

A proposal for a flat $20 across-the-board monthly pay increase for municipal employees will be submitted Tuesday night to the City Council.

The proposal was disclosed Tuesday morning by City Manager W. H. Oswalt, who said an alternate plan also would be presented.

There is little chance, however, he said, that the pay increase will become effective before October 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year. He pointed out that while the city council did not reject a general pay increase proposal a month ago, it appeared reluctant to approve it before the beginning of the 1951-52 fiscal year, for which budgets now are being drawn up.

Increase Is Cited

"The cost of living on a nationwide basis," said the city manager, "has increased approximately 9.5 per cent, and with the tight labor supply situation here, we are going to have to do something."

Although the average $276 municipal salary is well above the monthly salary for municipal employees in East and Central Texas, he said, it is not enough to meet the competition for labor in this area.

Oswalt said his alternate plan for a pay increase calls for the advance in the classification of city employees. Under the classification system, the employees are rated by grades, to make possible merit advancement to higher classification and high wages, although performing the same duties.

"This would mean an increase of around $10 monthly for most employees," he explained.

"But we are working on a 10-cent-per-hour increase for our com- (Continued On Page Six)

Two Men Charged With Bombing South Dallas Negro Home

DALLAS—(P)—Two men were charged here early Tuesday with one of the South Dallas negro home bombings.

Charged shortly after midnight before Justice of the Peace Bill Richards were Arthur Eugene Young of Greenville, Hunt County, and Claude T. Wright.

Police Chief Carl Hansson said Wright owns his home in South Dallas and Young is a relative.

Young was arrested in Hunt County. Wright was arrested on a Dallas street.

The two men were charged in the June 24 bombing of a house at 2214 Eugene Street. It had been purchased by a negro woman, Doris Jean Andrews, a month previously.

A dynamite blast partially wrecked it.

South Dallas has been rocked by eleven bombings in less than 18 months. During the same period there have been five other bombings in the city.

The arrests came dramatically on the eve of a special grand jury selection to probe the tense South Dallas racial situation.

Mississippi River Flood Waters Ebb Despite New Rains

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Mississippi River flood waters, swirling along the Southeast Missouri border, lost some of their strength Tuesday but heavy rains in scattered sections of the Midwest kept streams at high levels.

The Mississippi's crest was expected late Tuesday at Cape Girardeau, a city of 20,000 in Southeast Missouri. The unprotected waterfront of the city already was flooded, but little further damage was expected.

Army Engineers said there is no danger of serious flooding south of Cape Girardeau.

Heavy downpours of brief duration in the area just north of St. Louis kept the river from receding as rapidly as expected here. Streets and basements in five communities in the vicinity of Alton, Ill., 20 miles northeast of here, were flooded by sudden downpours Tuesday.

Cooling Showers Fall In West Texas

By The Associated Press

Long-awaited rain fell in many Texas cities Monday and Tuesday night, and a cool front moved into the South Plains and West Texas to lower temperatures there.

High winds at Lubbock caused some damage at the municipal airport but welcome rain fell with it, 1.43 inches. A brilliant electrical display accompanied the storm.

A flag pole at the airport was blown over, and a large plate glass window of the port lobby knocked out.

Plainview reported 1.33 inches of rain, Amarillo a good half-inch, and showers fell at Childress, Salt Flat, Odessa, Wink and in the Alpine-Marfa area.

More scattered showers were expected Tuesday night in West and extreme Northwest Texas, Lubbock, Dalhart, Marfa, Alpine, Salt Flat and other South Plains and West Texas communities cooled to the low 60's Monday night. Eastern parts of the state continued to swelter, however, as the cool front moved directly south.

U. S. 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA—(AP)—Allied troops beat back eight Red probing attacks along the Korean front Tuesday and fought for the third successive day to drive Communist troops off high ground near the east coast.

Allies, Reds Adamant On Troops Issue

UN ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, KOREA—(P)—United Nations truce negotiators return to Kaesong Wednesday for a "yes or no" answer from the Communists on a Korean war armistice agenda.

The Red North Korean Pyongyang radio Tuesday indicated the answer will be "no."

UN delegates insist cease-fire talks omit any discussion of withdrawing foreign troops from Korea.

In an unofficial answer, Pyongyang radio quoted the Communist "Korean Central Press" News Agency:

"All our people demand withdrawal of all foreign national troops from our territory."

The Moscow radio, monitored by the U. S. Army in Tokyo, carried a slightly different version of the Communist news agency's comment. It said:

"Our representatives in Kaesong resolutely insist on the final solution" of the troop withdrawal question.

The broadcast failed to mention the fact that the Allies have left the door wide open for a "final" solution of the issue, but have refused to take it up in negotiations for a cease-fire.

Peiping Gives No Clue

The five Red negotiators undoubtedly have received new instructions from Peiping and Pyongyang since Saturday. On that day they called for a recess in talks which had bogged down over this Communist demand.

Red China's Peiping broadcast Tuesday gave no hint of what attitude Red delegates would take Wednesday.

Listeners recalled that the two Chinese delegates had called for the recess, taking the lead away from the North Koreans for the first time in the peace talks. Observers suggested this might indicate Peiping's silence was more important than Pyongyang's talking.

Pyongyang radio said:

"At the cease-fire talks in Kaesong, Americans are refusing this issue emphatically. The United States delegates propagandize that this problem has no relation with cease-fire talks."

Farley May Break Down

The UN position is that the question of withdrawing troops is a political issue to be debated at a higher level after the shooting war actually has been halted.

"This stubborn attitude," the Red (Continued On Page Six)

Allies Put Peace Issue Up To Reds

UN ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, KOREA—(P)—It has been a long, slow pull, but the United Nations finally hold the initiative in the Korean cease-fire talks.

When the two sides first met across a table at Kaesong July 8, the Reds held both a physical and a psychological advantage.

They had picked the site. They guarded it with their soldiers. They made it appear the Allies were coming to the Reds, hat in hand.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's successful demand that the Reds neutralize Kaesong reduced the Red advantage.

But it was not until Saturday that the Allies actually seized the initiative.

Communists Must Decide

That day, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegate, told the Reds the two sides had a sufficient agenda for armistice talks. Without stating it in so many words, Joy told the Communists to stop demanding inclusion of the subject of foreign troop withdrawals from Korea.

It was as if he said:

"Now look, fellows, you know our position. We're not going to change our minds. If you want the talks to go on, forget about the idea of withdrawing the troops and get on with the job of talking about those items we already have agreed upon."

"Our government can talk about the withdrawal of troops at another time."

The Reds, on the defensive for the first time, called a recess to consult higher councils.

Wednesday, they must say if they will bow to the UN suggestion that the troop withdrawal topic be passed for the present.

If they do, a quick cease-fire in Korea might be accomplished.

If the Reds continue to press demands for discussion of the controversial issue, some Allied sources believe the talks might settle due to daily wrangling and finally die out.

The Reds, who long have held the upper hand, find themselves faced with the responsibility of saying whether it's to be peace or war in Korea.

Harriman, Iranian Officials Hit Snag In Oil Crisis Talks

TEHRAN, IRAN—(P)—Negotiations between President Truman's special envoy, W. Averell Harriman, and Iranian officials were reported to have hit a snag Tuesday over details for ending the bitter British-Iranian feud over nationalization of oil.

The snag was not described as a deadlock. Both Harriman and members of the Iranian government's Oil Nationalization Board still expressed "satisfaction" with progress made in the talks so far.

But after 10 hours of discussion Monday in the bedroom of ailing Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, the Iranian cabinet still had not resumed formal negotiations with Britain.

Both Harriman and the Iranians were understood to have submitted proposals "along the same general lines," according to a source close to the negotiations.

Differences On Details

These would call for British acceptance of Iranian government ownership of the country's rich oil resources, including the installations of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which exploits most of Iran's oil. But an operating company controlled by the customers who buy Iranian oil would be set up.

According to the source, Harriman proposed that this operating company would distribute and market the oil, and manage the wells and the refinery at Abadan—the world's largest.

The Iranians, however, were reported to have proposed that the operating company buy Iranian oil at the Persian Gulf jetties, distribute and sell it, but that the nationalized Iranian company would manage and direct the actual production.

Both sides Tuesday were trying to find a compromise.

Crude Oil Output Increases Slightly

TULSA, OKLA. (AP)—Domestic crude oil production increased slightly during the week ended July 21, The Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday. Production averaged 6,082,950 barrels daily, up 4,000 barrels from the previous week's output.

A big gain was in Oklahoma, up 3,800 to 608,050.

Production was on the upgrade also in Arkansas, which increased 1,050 barrels to 76,700 and Louisiana, up 750 to 611,725.

Flood-harassed Kansas showed the high waters' effects, its output slumping 11,800 barrels to 233,600 barrels.

Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,744,750 barrels, and New Mexico, 147,127.

Screen Star Finds It Pays To Have So-Called Glamor

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Robert Ryan shouldn't have told me that it's all humbug, film-flam and glibly-gook about Hollywood stars being a bunch of average citizens who mow their lawns, dawdle kiddies on their knees and wake up every morning singing. "I'm so lonesome."

I haven't been so stunned since dad told me that Santa Claus was really you-know-who.

"It's the bunk," growled Bob. "Actors aren't like other people." Here I had been thinking that Vic Mature, Errol Flynn and Frank Sinatra were typical Americans, as folksy as Lum and Abner, as uncomplicated blueberry-pie normal as Just Plain Bill and twice as homespun as Abe Lincoln.

And that Lana Turner, Ava Gardner and Betty Grable were just 4-H girls at heart, with a yen for running up chintz drapes, whipping up cute aprons out of flour sacks and reaching right under a cackling hen for a warm egg.

Yes, you get to believing it, after the 810th press agent has phoned to announce:

"I've got a great angle on Gloria Giamourpant and Ronald Strong-jaws. They've given up night clubs. Yes, indeed, it's interfering with Gloria's P-TA meetings and Ronald's wood carving."

"That Gloria's a real home-body. She'd rather make a batch of gefuete fish and can her own chutney than sign an autograph anytime."

Follow The Menu

Then you slip through the fan magazines and see Pat Neal mixing up batter for hush-puppies, Humphrey Bogart disbanding his dahlias and Lis Taylor finishing up a patch-work quilt.

And it's all you can do to restrain yourself from rushing out to borrow a cup of sugar and some freshly-churned butter from Hedy Lamarr and her new groom, Ted Slaughter.

Johnson wasn't letting his illusions go amash without an argument.

"Heddy! I read somewhere that Bob Ryan was a regular all-American boy with a taste for seersucker, baseball games, family picnics and church socials?"

And that he'd rather fix a leaky pipe around the house or water petunias than play the game of Expand-The-Chest with Claire Trevor in those eye-popping billboards for "The Best of the Bad-men."

Bob yawned:

"Sure, I'm a pretty quiet-living guy," he said. "I've never been worth a nickel when it comes to dishing out the profile boy stuff."

"They have to make it up for me. But that doesn't mean that I'm normal and wholesome and average. How could I be and still be an actor? Actors, my friend, are very RARE birds."

The Ryan plumage, he admitted, has been dun-colored in the flicker journals, but that isn't his fault.

He's not pleading guilty about fan stories that start out, "Robert Ryan is exactly like the man next door," either.

"They come rushing over for home layouts and photograph me with my children," he sighed. "And they've got their stories already written before they even see me."

Once in a while Bob fractures a laas with pencil and paper by saying:

"Lay off the stuff about talking to my neighbor over the back fence or helping my wife with the supper dishes. I'm an actor and I don't think like Joe Doakes. I like the lights and the make-up and the applause. I'd be miserable selling vacuum cleaners or hanging wall-paper."

But in print it comes out:

"Robert Ryan—the real Robert Ryan—is a simple, down-to-earth human being who could easily be that good-looking insurance agent in the corner house. In fact, you'd never know that he was an actor."

Simple Gravestone Readied For French World War I Hero

ILE D'YEU, FRANCE (AP)—A simple funeral and a gravestone bearing only his name were readied Tuesday for Marshal Henri Philippe Pétain, who in life had worn the laurels of a national hero and the chains of a condemned traitor.

Denied interment at Verdun among the soldiers he led in World War I, the 85-year-old chief of the Nazi-dominated Vichy regime will be laid to rest here Wednesday in the little stone-walled cemetery of Port Jumeville.

Friends and admirers hurried to this bleak Atlantic island for the rites. The grave was made ready. Ready, too, was the simple headstone reading "Philippe Pétain" without mention of his rank or qualities.

Pétain died here Monday, after almost six years of exile following his conviction of treason for his acts as head of the Vichy government. In death he remained a controversial figure, as his supporters continued their fight to clear his name.

An appeal from Pétain's lawyers to bury the old soldier at Verdun, where he often said he wanted to be put to rest, was turned down Monday night by the government.

Tax Rebellion By Texas Wives Strymies Snyder

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Snyder Tuesday said he will answer a letter sent him by rebellious Marshall, Texas, housewives "in due course." And it will be up to them if they want to make his reply public.

The housewives have written Snyder they won't collect federal withholding taxes for social security on their domestic servants. They say this is "involuntary servitude," and that they don't like it and neither do their employees.

What about it? Snyder was asked at a news conference.

Snyder admitted he has received their letter, and that he would answer it. But that was about as far as he would go.

"I can't find anything in Emily Post," Snyder said, "that approves of corresponding with ladies through the newspapers."

Training Staffs To Be Tapped For Korean Rotation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administrative and training staffs of the six U.S. Army areas will be tapped for about half the troops to go to Korea as replacements in the next few months.

Announcing this Monday, the Army also said some individual soldiers will be chosen from the 31st and 47th National Guard Divisions now in training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and Camp Rucker, Ala., respectively.

The two guard divisions already have supplied some replacements, the Army added.

Its aim is to replace 30,000 Korean troops in each of the next three months. To that end, the Army said, the six Army areas will be called upon to supply 29,000 men in July and August and an undetermined number in September.

Defense Officials To Go Ahead With Natural Gas Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government officials say they are going ahead with an order which would restrict use of natural gas in areas which face a shortage.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman and C. Pratt Rader of the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD), an Interior Department arm, said Monday they have not backtracked because of a House vote to curtail their power.

Before it passed its extension of the Economic Controls Act, the House voted in a provision which would prohibit any natural gas curbs from applying in any state where a public agency exercises authority to restrict gas use.

The Senate did not include such a provision in its bill.

Chapman and Rader said they are going ahead, pending a final decision by Congress on the point.

Rader, deputy assistant administrator of PAD, presided at a session of the Interior Department's Gas Industry Advisory Council Monday. Later, he told newsmen the order would apply primarily in states east of the Mississippi—except for Louisiana and Mississippi—and in Minnesota, Iowa, and parts of South Dakota, Nebraska and Missouri.

Progressive Party To Enter Candidate In 1952 Elections

NEW YORK (AP)—The Progressive Party has served notice it will enter a candidate in the 1952 presidential election, but it hasn't said who.

The party, which polled more than 1,110,000 votes in 1948, says that in 1952 it will give "an opportunity for the people of this nation to fight and vote for a national ticket dedicated to real peace, to a welfare economy, to the full restoration of the bill of rights and to full equality for the negro people."

Party Chairman Elmer A. Benson and Secretary C. B. Baldwin announced the Progressives' 1952 plans Monday in a statement calling for an "extraordinary session" of the party's national committee.

The meeting was scheduled August 18 and 19 in the Midwest, probably in Minneapolis or Chicago, the two party officials said.

Plans for 1952, including the time and place of a national convention, will be discussed by the national committee, they added.

Henry A. Wallace was the party's candidate in the last presidential election, but he quit the party a year ago after it raised objections to American participation in the Korean war.

The Benson-Baldwin statement made no mention of Wallace.

County Agent C. V. Robinson estimated the damage but said no estimate could be placed on the loss of wildlife. He said a good many deer probably were killed.

The fire burned hundreds of acres in Southwestern Llano County Friday and Saturday.

Rutherford Reminds Midland Of Election Of New Lawmaker

State Rep. J. T. Rutherford of Odessa reminded Midlanders Tuesday of the legislative redistricting law which will require the election next year of a new legislator to represent Midland, Upton, Crane and Pecos counties.

These counties were removed from Rutherford's district and formed into a new one.

Rutherford said the additional representative in the Texas Legislature will give West Texas a stronger voice in lawmaking matters.

"I have a personal and selfish motive in hoping the people of this new district will select a fine, capable member of the Legislature," he said.

"Until my term expires I still wish to be of service to the people of this area."

While in Midland the legislator attended the Monday meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Rutherford recently completed a term as state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mormons Observe 104th Anniversary

The members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons) observed the Mormon Anniversary Wednesday. On July 24, 1847, the Mormons entered the Salt Lake Valley.

Twenty thousand persons trudged 1,200 miles over the plains and mountains for the purpose of re-tailing their belief that God had spoken in this dispensation resulting in the Book of Mormon. This book is a record containing a religious and secular history of the ancient inhabitants of the American continent between the years 600 B. C. and 421 A. D.

Led by Brigham Young, the group started from Iowa City, Iowa, in wagons or pulling hand carts. After they had gone a fourth of their journey 500 of the men were called by the government to fight the war against Mexico.

July 22-28 Is Farm Safety Week

The week of July 22-28 has been proclaimed National Farm Safety Week by President Truman.

Farm people have been urged to adopt safety measures on and off the farm and in the home. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, farm people suffer approximately 18,000 accidental deaths and 1,500,000 disabling accidents a year.

Because of increased mechanization, the Department says, the output-per-man-hour is 50 per cent higher than it was in 1937, but at the same time these changes have increased the hazards of farm operations.

Also, prevention of accidents on farms is an essential part of the nation's defense program because there is little manager reserve to meet the need for increased production. Department of Agriculture reports say.

Midland is like a paradise to a newcomer who has just moved here from an oil camp outside Andrews.

The Neels' three-year-old daughter, Tenny Ann, loves the new friends she has made with many neighbors in the James Apartments, 606 West Watson Avenue.

Neel, a geologist, has been transferred by the Humble Oil Company and the irregular hours of his job have not allowed the Neels to discover too much about Midland's recreation activities or organizations.

Mrs. Neel said her husband was a little worried about engaging in his favorite sports—hunting and fishing—here.

Both the 29-year-old Neel and his wife attended Texas Tech College in Lubbock. They have been married for eight years and are natives of Texas. Mrs. Neel is from Seymour and her husband's home town is Caohoma.

Oil and gas-cut mud had been recovered on three drillstem tests covering the section from 6,560 to 6,640 feet. Top of the Ellenburger was picked tentatively from samples at 6,590 feet, on elevation of 2,031 feet.

Elks Open Club Quarters Here

Formal opening of its new quarters and initiation ceremonies for 18 new members were held Monday night by Midland Lodge No. 1826, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The new quarters will be open daily from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., except Sundays, when hours will be from 1 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Exalted Ruler Jack Mogle presided at the initiation of candidates to the lodge. New members included Robert Allen Parrott, W. P. Crasby, Lloyd Whitley, James Burnett Price, George Potter, Jr., J. W. Mims, John G. McMillan, Jr., and Paul H. Lavery.

Others are Charles C. Langdon, Glenn Hillman, Calvin L. Glass, Charles J. Conaling, Ben H. Bland and William Dean Baker.

A stag party for members will be held Friday at the clubhouse.

The Administration will have to make a case for any armed forces manpower increase," Sparkman told a reporter.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), also just back from Europe, put it this way:

"My impression is that our Army is big enough and General Eisenhower didn't indicate he wants any more men in Europe."

Senator Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "Whatever the cost may be, we've got to build and preserve an adequate national defense."

But he added that Congress "will want to take a careful look" at any proposal to build beyond 3,500,000 men.

The draft law authorizes an armed forces manpower ceiling of 5,000,000 men, but additional funds probably would be required to increase the strength much beyond 3,500,000.

Senator Byrd (D-Va), another member of the Armed Services Committee, said he is for giving the military "whatever is absolutely necessary for adequate defense" in the way of manpower and equipment.

"But they will have to back up their requests for money with facts showing just why it is needed," Byrd added. "I think Congress is going to demand more efficiency throughout the whole defense establishment. I don't think there is going to be any more of the blank check business there has been in the past."

The defense program and the expense of it are becoming so colossal we will face bankruptcy unless we insist on maximum efficiency."

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, declined to comment on Truman's report until he has had a chance to analyze it.

Earlier this year, Taft proposed that the armed forces strength be held to 3,000,000 men instead of 3,500,000.

Ranch Sale—

firm handling the sale, shareholders of the Matador Company would retain part of the mineral rights after selling.

John MacKenzie of Denver, Colo., American manager of the properties, confirmed the sale to him, Stevens said.

Stevens said he knew no details other than the company had been bought by a group of Americans.

Lazard Brothers spokesman said, when they first revealed negotiations, that the American syndicate regarded the ranches purely as a good investment for cattle raising.

The Alamogosa Ranch is leased to the Superior Oil Company of California for oil exploration. Humble Oil & Refining Company of Texas long has held a lease on Matador Ranch acreage. It has tried 13 times to strike oil, but each well was dry.

The Matador Company was one of the last vast cattle empires still controlled by Scottish and British interests, though much of West Texas, first was reached by the English.

In Lazard Brothers' announcement in June of the impending sale, the American syndicate offered $23-70 each for the 800,000 shares—a total of $18,960,000.

The normal value of the Matador Company's shares was five shillings—the equivalent of about $1.20 at the time the ranches were founded in 1882, but worth only 70 cents on international exchanges in June. But their market value in London has risen to approximately five pounds ($14), doubling in value during the last six or seven months while rumors of the sale were being heard.

Headquarters for the company was in Dundee, Scotland, and the chairman of the board was an aging Scotman, William MacDougall.

Shivers Requests Governors' Backing Of Tidelands Bill

AUSTIN—(AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers Tuesday urged the governors of the nation's other 47 states to support federal legislation to return Tidelands title to the states.

Governor Shivers sent each of the governors the following telegram:

"H. R. 4484 by Walter of Pennsylvania confirms state ownership of submerged lands for your state the same as ours. It applies to all the states and is essential of federal ownership of this property is to be prevented.

"I hope you will wire all members of the house from your state giving them this information and asking their support of H. R. 4484 when it comes up for vote in the House this week. Passage of this bill will prevent encroachment of federal authority over state property."

radio said, "means that the U. S. is aiming to retain military bases in South Korea."

"In the face of their defeat (UN Commander Gen. Matthew B.) Ridgway and his soldiers are aiming to stay in Korea forever. This comes solely from the militaristic purpose to obtain the monopolistic profit from inflated war industries."

If Communist negotiators persist in their stand Wednesday, cease-fire talks will break down on the day fighting in Korea rounds out its thirteenth month.

Some Items Agreed Upon

There was no indication the UN negotiators would budge from their refusal to include the question of troop withdrawals on the agenda—the list of subjects to be discussed in actual armistice negotiations.

Just before the recess was declared Saturday Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief UN delegates informed the five Red generals the UN delegation was prepared to accept items already agreed upon as the complete agenda.

These subjects have not been disclosed. But it was generally believed here that they embrace such matters as:

1. A cease-fire with provisions for enforcing it.
2. Creating a 20-mile buffer zone between opposing armies.
3. Creating an international commission to police the cease-fire agreement.
4. Exchange of war prisoners.

The UN holds 163,000 Red prisoners of war. The Chinese and North Koreans are believed to hold about 10,000 Allied prisoners, mostly Americans.

men labor and that would amount to around $20 over a month's time. "So the flat $20 increase for all employees would appear more equitable."

Common labor presently is being paid at the rate of $1 to $1.10 an hour and these workers have asked for wage increases, with many of them quitting their jobs.

The $20 increase would cost the general fund approximately $3,280 monthly, the water department $440 and other phases of municipal operations $100, Oswald said.

This does not include the labor force engaged in capital outlay projects being performed by the city. At present, some 60 men are working on such projects but, Oswald said, "this is an abnormally high number and the additional cost of pay increase for them can not be figured on an annual basis."

Israel Reported Set To Boost Oil Output

HAIFA, ISRAEL —(AP)— The Israeli government was reported by official sources Tuesday to be preparing a new law which would permit it to give concessions to American companies to carry out oil explorations. The legislation would nullify concessions given to British prospectors by the former British mandate government.

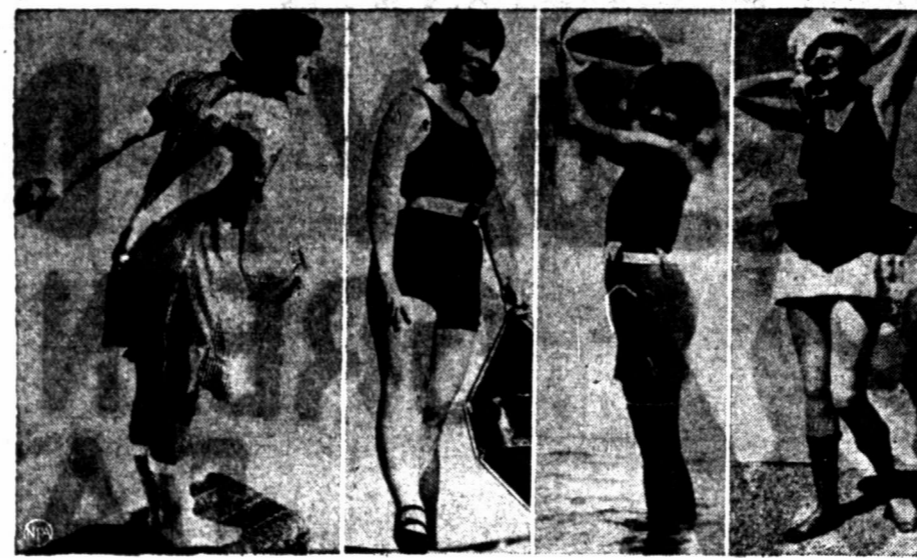

A high government source also declared the Haifa refinery—largely owned by the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company—soon will increase production to full capacity.

From Bloomers To Bikinis—No. 6

As the 1920's progressed, so did bathing suits. But it was a hard fight. At left is a creation that was being recommended in 1922 as "modest," because some people were finding it difficult to get used to the daring styles, like the next one, that some young ladies were adopting. This is really daring. For the first time, legs are seen in their entirety. And a tightly-drawn belt brings the debut of that commodity we now call "curves." The belt was the big style advance of this period, and it was to remain important for several years. The next gray mermaid finds a happy medium between the "modest" and "daring" styles exhibited at left. Last picture proves that even in 1922, the fashion stylists wouldn't let well enough alone. They had to go and make bathing suits out of fur. They still do it—even though the only people who swim in fur bathing suits are polar bears, river rats, otters and their ilk.

GI Teaches Italian Bride English But Can't Convince Her U. S. Isn't All Gold

SALERNO, ITALY — (NEA) — When George Fortin, a 35-year-old ex-GI from New Bedford, Mass., returned to the village of Passiano in southern Italy to marry the girl he met during the war, he made thousands of Italian girls' hearts beat faster.

"It can happen," they whispered, as they rushed to search for American addresses of long forgotten soldiers.

But to tiny, doll-like Nina Farano, who was a child of 10 when she kissed George good-bye seven years ago, his return was the most normal thing in the world.

"He promised, didn't he?" she explains.

After the initial excitement died down, George found there were many unexpected problems. To the villagers of Passiano, where George met and later married Nina, the former tank trooper seems like a knight in shining armor.

Already all members of the Farano family, both male and female, have given their portrait photos to George with strict instructions to get them published in U. S. papers, with the news that they were willing to go to America on the slightest invitation. They all fondly believe that "George will see to it."

Own Small Store

The Faranos, who own a small grocery store in Passiano, would be hard to convince that they are at least as well off in their mountain village as George, a mill-hand in New Bedford, is at home.

The fact George owns a 1940 Studebaker probably sets him above the average Italian in their eyes. Even Nina, whose farthest trip has been 50 miles to Naples, is convinced that she will go to live in a country where milk and honey flow freely. She believes that George, whom she first met as a soldier whose pockets bulged with candies and chocolates, must be the hero of New Bedford, Lesson in English is given Nina Farano, 17, by George Fortin, ex-GI from New Bedford, Mass., who went back to Italy to wed.

as he undoubtedly is to Passiano. Only one thing worries the bride: "Is it true that American reporters and photographers are more insistent than Italians?" she asks.

Idea Perplexing

George is perplexed and unhappy with the ideas Nina and her family have of America. He is painstakingly teaching Nina English and she is catching on fast. But any attempt to explain the real facts of life in the U. S. are usually interrupted with questions about skyscrapers, de luxe automobiles and movie queens.

A recent letter from a Roman movie company to the newlyweds, Lesson in spaghetti is given by his bride, Nina, at her home in Passiano, Italy. George wants to get back to "good old home cooking—U. S. style," in New Bedford.

Jacome Wins No. 18; Blumenthal Defeated

Red Blumenthal's Big Spring Bronco will invade Indian Park at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. Dave McKennie, who has won four games and lost two, probably will hurt for the Indians.

VERNON—Eddie Jacome edged within two games of the 20-game winning circle Monday night, as he posted a 7-0 shutout verdict over the Vernon Dusters in the second game of a doubleheader.

The win gave Midland a split in the series. Vernon took the Indians and Gabby Blumenthal, 2-1, in the opening contest. Both games were seven-inning affairs.

Jacome helped his own cause in the nightcap, getting three hits in four attempts and allowing but six hits in hanging up his eighteenth win of the year. It was the second Redskin shutout this season.

The Indians were sharp afield in both contests, supporting Blumenthal with three double plays and a rare triple killing in the first contest, and getting three double plays with Jacome on the hill.

In the first game, Indians' lone run came from a single by Scooter Gardner. Al Richardson won his own game for Vernon in the fifth, smacking a double that scored Art Herring. Blumenthal allowed only five hits.

Gordon Tanner homered in the top of the fourth in the nightcap, his fourth of the year. The Tribe tallied three runs in the sixth, with doubles by Hughes and Rudy Escobar helping the attack.

Midland's triple play came in the first contest. After two Dusters had singled, Crumley trapped a drive inches off the ground, tossed to Zeke Bonura at first base and Bonura threw to Hughes at second for the third out.

Big Spring comes to Midland for a game Tuesday night.

King's Row

by Larry King

From fellow-worker Tanner Laine comes an interesting note:

"Dear King's Row: I am respectfully submitting my selection for an all-time Midland Indian baseball team with hopes it might stimulate others to do so, or at least, get them to pick one for their own pleasure.

Here is my choice: Kenny Jones, catcher; Jim Prince, first base; Rip Collins, second base; Clyde Perry, shortstop; Frank McAlexander, third base; Hank Ramadell, left field; Harvil Jakes, centerfield; Julian Pressley, right field; Ernie Nelson, Ossie Kolwe, Claude Gray, Eddie Jacome and Leland Crisaman, pitchers. Little Arnold Davis, centerfielder, is so near to Jakes, we would make him utility outfielder. Utility infielder would be Tony Flarito or Eddie Mellio.

Sincerely,
Tanner Laine."

Thanks, Laine. You're team oughta set off a flow of baseball talk-especially among the "old timers" here who have seen all your selections perform. Anyone else have some favorites?

-KR-

That's quite a duel Eddie Jacome and Dean Franks, the Roswell pitcher, are carrying on. Both are far and away the leading pitchers in games won, and both are trying to beat the other to the magic number 20 win of the year.

Jacome always asks us: "Did Franks win last night?" and while we were in Roswell for the all-star game, Franks came around to ask us if "Jacome had won another."

Franks now has 19 wins, and Jacome has 18.

Major Leagues- Crucial Series Begin

By The Associated Press

The American League just finished a set of crucial series in the red-hot battle for first place. Now they start another group, this time with the Eastern clubs as hosts.

Specifically, pace-setting New York plays host to red-hot Cleveland for two games while Chicago's White Sox are tangling with Boston. Then they switch, with Chicago moving to Yankee Stadium and Cleveland moving to Boston.

The American League was idle Monday as the clubs were on the move. Only one game was played in the National League. It was a slugfest with the Boston Braves upsetting the Pittsburgh Pirates, 15-4.

Boston scored seven runs in the first inning but didn't win the game until the eighth, when Roy Hartsfield singled home Sibby Sisti.

Browns Buy Fort Worth First Sacker

FORT WORTH—P-Ben Taylor, hard hitting Fort Worth first baseman, has been sold to the St. Louis Browns for immediate delivery.

Taylor will go to the Browns in exchange for two players and an undisclosed amount of cash. Joe Lutz, San Antonio first baseman, and John Bero, Browns' infielder, are the two players to be sent to the Cats.

Longhorn League- Indians, Dusters Split Double Bill; Rockets Win One

By The Associated Press

Eddie Jacome, the Midland mound star, is building himself quite a reputation in the Longhorn League.

Monday night he got the call in the second game of a doubleheader with Vernon, after the Dusters had taken the first game. He came through with a six-hit shutout to give the Indians a split of the card.

Both games were well played with pitchers dominating. The Dusters took the opener, 2-1, with Al Richardson pitching and betting his way to the win. Midland copped the second game, 7-0.

Rain all but wrecked the rest of the schedule. Odessa and Roswell were booked for a doubleheader at Roswell but rain washed out the second game. Roswell won the first one, 3-1. San Angelo at Artesia and Big Spring at Sweetwater also were rained out.

Jailed 'Angel' Of Left-Wing Causes Faces New Contempt Threat In Bail-Jumping Probe

NEW YORK—A millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field, jailed "angel" of left-wing causes, was hauled back into federal court Wednesday under a new contempt threat in the government's probe of Communist bail jumping.

The great-grandson of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt and four other persons were accused Monday of "contemptuous" conduct before a federal grand jury.

All five are connected with the Civil Rights Congress Bail Fund which posted, and forfeited, $80,000 in bonds for four fugitive top-ranking Communists. The jury is looking into the matter's flight.

Field, a trustee for the bail fund is serving a 90-day contempt of court sentence for refusing to tell Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan who contributed to the fund.

U. S. Attorney Irving H. Saypol took Field before Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey Monday. Saypol said Field refused to answer grand jury questions unless he was permitted counsel.

"Beyond Realm of Reality" Saypol said Field, in effect, wanted his lawyer in the grand jury room, a practice forbidden by law.

When Judge McGohey heard this, he said:

"That's enough. I don't need to hear any more. That just goes beyond the realm of reality."

But the court granted Field until Tuesday for further argument. If Field remains silent, the judge can impose an additional contempt sentence against him.

Also summoned into court along with Field were two bail fund office employees, bookkeeper Muriel Patterson and telephone operator Dorothy Faulkner.

Saypol said their conduct as jury witnesses was "offensive and outrageous."

Abner Green, another bail fund trustee, was given until Wednesday by Judge McGohey to produce the fund's records and books.

If Green doesn't heed the judge's order, he faces the prospect of joining Field and two other fund trustees in jail for contempt.

The other two—mystery writer Dashiell Hammett and W. Alphonse Hunt—are serving six-month contempt sentences for not answering questions about the fund.

The fifth jury witness, the bail fund's attorney, Mrs. Mary Kaufman, was included in Saypol's denunciation. He said he would "deal with her later."

Suspect Arrested In Girl's Murder

SAN FRANCISCO—The FBI Tuesday announced the arrest of Bill Smith, Jr., on a murder charge for the slaying of young Noreen McNicholas at Tacoma Nov. 5, 1948.

Kimball said Smith made no effort to resist arrest, denied slaying Miss McNicholas, but admitted he had known her.

Smith was to be arraigned before a U. S. commissioner here Tuesday. The U. S. attorney at Tacoma has recommended $25,000 bail.

Weather Hampers Airlift Plane Search

Missing aboard the Tokyo-bound airlift plane are three civilians reported to be on a United Nations mission, 26 U. S. servicemen, two seamen of the Royal Canadian Navy and a Canadian crew of seven.

Death Of Panhandle Cattle Develops Into First Rate Mystery

AMARILLO —(P)—What killed 38 head of Sam Wohlford's cattle? Nobody knows, and loss of the heifers and calves valued at $12,000 is developing into a first rate range mystery.

In less than 24 hours the cattle died on Wohlford's Sherman County ranch. The bodies were found late Tuesday scattered over a low spot in a two-section pasture where an old gas well is located.

Dr. Charles Thompson, Dalhart veterinarian, said a Dallas chemical laboratory had been unable to determine the cause from numerous tests. Two more tests are to be made on the internal organs of five of the cattle.

Chemist "Guesses" Gas

Thompson quoted one chemist as "guessing" the cause might have been hydrogen sulphide gas. He said hydrogen sulphide is highly volatile, disintegrates immediately and would be almost impossible to trace.

The gas is a component of all gas produce in "sour" gas wells. In sufficient concentration it produces a poison gas. But Amarillo oil and gas men say that the fumes must be confined in an enclosed space for them to be fatal.

The gas well in the pasture where the cattle died was in production for several years. It was not known to be a producer of poisonous gases. Oil men said it was "impossible" for such a well suddenly to begin producing poison gas.

Two Defendants In Damage Suit Deny Negligence In Blast

Two defendants in an $81,895.25 damage suit in 70th District Court have denied formally they were negligent in an alleged butane gas explosion in the home of a Midland couple almost two years ago.

The denials came in answers filed by E. B. Young, a contractor, and A. W. Jones and T. D. Jones, Jr., of the Jones Butane Service.

Two other defendants, C. B. Green and A. D. Brooks of Acme Plumbing Company, have not filed answers.

The suit was brought by Una C. Elliott and her husband, Donald C. Elliott, and asked $23,000 in exemplary damages and $56,895.25 in actual damages.

Young's answer denied the suit's allegations insofar as they charge Young with negligence or fault and termed the accident "unavoidable."

The Joneses denied their firm is liable in the capacity in which it is being sued, that is, as the agent, servant and employe of Young.

The Elliotts' petition alleged that on July 23, 1949, the day they moved into their house at 2301 North Main Street, an explosion occurred in the house from butane gas which had leaked from a butane system installed in the yard.

The Elliotts named Young as the contractor who built the house. Acme Plumbing and Heating Company installed plumbing for the house and the Jones Butane Service installed a 215-gallon butane tank in the yard, the suit said.

Attorneys for the Elliotts are Frank Beason and Edwin T. Stitt. Jones Butane Service is represented by Perkins, German, Mims and Bell, and Reagan H. Legg is attorney for Young.

Judge Would Get At Root Of Trouble

CUMBERLAND, MD. —(P)—His real trouble, said the defendant on a drunk charge for the fifteenth time this year, was a "couple of achin' jaw teeth."

Best pain killer he'd found was whisky, he told Police Court Magistrate J. Milton Dick Monday.

The magistrate thinks he's got both problems licked now. He gave the man six months in jail but suspended the sentence providing the habitual drunkard gets his two aching teeth yanked.

Six Persons Fined For Drunken Driving

Midland County Court had a busy day Monday when six motorists were fined a total of $700 for drunken driving. One of the men also was fined $100 for carrying a Bowie knife.

Five of the drunk drivers, including the knife carrier, were Midland men and the sixth was from Martin County. Four were arrested by state highway patrolmen, two by city police.

Fines in the drunk driving cases ranged from $100 to $150, and each man's driver's license was suspended for six months.

Answer Is Filed In Damage Suit

Cap Rock Electric Co-Op of Stanton, a defendant in a $276,420 damage suit in 70th District Court, has filed an answer to the suit denying it was negligent in the electrocution of an oil field worker.

The suit, brought July 3 by Mrs. Ladema Lee Moore against the Co-Op and the Water Well Service Supply Company of Big Spring, asked $276,420 for damages in connection with the death of her husband, Orville Dean Moore, who was electrocuted at the Tex-Harvey water works six miles southeast of Midland.

Mrs. Moore's petition alleged her husband was killed when an employee of Water Well Service Supply Company was using a hand winch to lower a gin pole which came in contact with a 12,500 volt line of the Cap Rock Electric Co-Op.

Moore was electrocuted, the suit contended, when he came in contact with the worker or his truck, or was killed by the high-voltage charge arching to his body.

At the time of his death Moore was employed by Tex-Harvey Oil Company, the petition said.

The Co-Op's answer argued Moore's death was the result of a "new and independent cause" and labeled the electrocution an unavoidable accident.

Attorneys for the Co-Op are Strasburger, Price, Holland, Kelton and Miller of Dallas, and Mrs. Moore is represented by John J. Watts of Odessa.

Water Well Service Supply Company has not filed an answer.

Jealousy Blamed In Stab Death Of Novelist's Ex-Mate

OAKLAND, CALIF. —(P)—Police Tuesday blamed jealousy for the knife-slaying of Robert E. Heskett, 55-year-old divorced husband of novelist Betty MacDonald.

Officers said Heskett was stabbed by Thomas J. Blake, 37, Visalia, Calif., bulldozer operator, in a quarrel over Blake's ex-wife, Thelma, 35.

Blake was charged with murder. Heskett, an Oakland carpenter, was "Bob" in Miss MacDonald's best selling "The Egg and I."

Heskett was divorced by Miss MacDonald in 1935 after eight years of marriage and two daughters. She was awarded custody of both.

Investigators said Mrs. Blake told them:

Blake came to Heskett's apartment Sunday, demanding to see her and "my babies." She said she and daughters Peggy Lou, five, and Shirley Marie, seven, had moved in with Heskett a week previously.

Heskett ordered Blake to leave. There was a fight, Heskett collapsed, stabbed in the heart.

Blake told police he stabbed Heskett in self defense because Heskett had swung at him with a hatchet.

Ex-GI Romeo From Muskogee Is Freed From German Jail

MUNICH, GERMANY —(P)—The U. S. Army took extra precautions Tuesday to insure the departure from Germany of Homer Cook, the husky ex-GI romeo from Muskogee, Okla., who broke jail three times to get his German girl.

Cook was released from a German prison at Straubing Monday night after good conduct reduction of his sentence for illegal entry into Germany, jail breaking and various other charges. He was ordered expelled from the country.

An official announcement said the Army had put Cook under "protective custody" and would keep him at a "secret place in or near Munich" until he leaves Germany.

The 28-year-old Oklahoman was granted seven days to appeal the expulsion order, but U. S. authorities said he had waived appeal.

The announcement said Cook is destitute and the Army and consular officers will have to arrange some way to get him home. He entered Germany illegally after his release from the Army to woo the German girl he first met as an occupation soldier.

Cook's German wife—the former Anna Sporer, whom he finally married in prison last Spring—wants to go to America with him. It looked like lack of money and entry permits would prevent this.

The Army said Anna, now working as a waitress in an American club here, probably would be permitted to visit Homer this week, but the press would be barred from seeing him. Numerous reporters also missed him Monday night at Straubing, when he was spirited out of a jail side door and whisked away by two carloads of American Military Policemen.

Anna has told friends Homer hoped to get a job in Warner, Okla., and then send for her.

Lawson Services Are Held Tuesday

STANTON—Funeral services for Evin Pillow Lawson, 69, were to be held at 3 p. m. Tuesday in the Methodist Church here, with the Rev. J. E. Harrell, pastor, officiating.

The Rev. O. N. Reed of Greenwood Baptist Church and the Rev. T. R. Hawkins, Baptist minister here, will assist Mr. Harrell.

Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park in Midland.

Lawson, a farmer near here since 1914 and a member of the Methodist Church, died Sunday afternoon after a lengthy illness.

Surviving are the widow, four sons, a daughter, a brother, a sister, and six grandchildren.

Mississippians Plead Innocent To Job-Selling Charges

JACKSON, MISS. —(P)—Eight of Mississippi's top pro-Truman Democrats pleaded innocent Monday to federal charges of conspiring to sell government jobs.

They included Clarence Hood, deceased acting Democratic national committee man; Curtis Rogers, secretary of the rump Democratic committee formed after the state's regular Democrats bolted in 1948 to support the States' Rights; B. C. Beasley, former committee secretary; Laverne Yelverton, office secretary; and Frank Mize, chairman of the committee.

They were among the 12 indicted last week by a special grand jury. The eight voluntarily submitted to arrest.

Others of the group were Roy Braslier of Brookhaven, Henry Debro of Jackson and Dewey MacLeod of Mt. Olive.

Arrested and freed on bond last Friday were Committee Counsel Forrest Jackson and Committeewoman Mrs. C. V. Murphy of Winona and her husband.

J. H. Wilkinson of Jackson is the only one of the 12 who has not appeared at the U. S. marshal's office.

All 12 were indicted on the conspiracy charge. Braslier, Debro and Rogers also were indicted for perjury. Their bonds were $5,000, the rest $2,500.

All must appear in federal court here September 5.

Army Engineers Pour Cold Water On Plan To Reverse Direction Of Missouri River

WASHINGTON —(P)—Army Engineers have poured cold water—in reasonable quantities—on a suggestion they might turn the Missouri River around and run it in another direction.

The idea was advanced Monday at a Senate Appropriations subcommittee hearing on funds for various flood control projects. Senator Thye (R-Minn) started the discussion with Brig. Gen. C. H. Chorpensing, deputy chief of Army Engineers.

"I notice on the map," Thye said, "that the Missouri flows south about turns a right angle (to the east). Would it be possible, general, perhaps to change the river and divert it south or southwest where its waters might be more in demand?"

"Well," said Chorpensing, "there's almost no limit to what engineers could do—if they had the money. What you suggest probably could be done but I wouldn't estimate the cost."

"Then it's not feasible?" Thye asked.

"The general shook his head and said 'It's not feasible.'"

He added that cities along the Missouri probably wouldn't like it if someone took their river away.

Senator Cordon (D-Ore) commented it might be illegal to move the Missouri, since people living along it have certain lawful rights, including the right to have the river flowing past them.

Senator Ellender (D-La) suggested it might be possible to divert headwaters of the Missouri southward by tunneling under the Great Divide.

That's where the matter ended. The Missouri, apparently, is going to stay right where it is—just as soon as it gets back in its banks, that is.

Mounties Still Get Their Man But It's All Scientific Now

OTTAWA, CANADA — (NEA) — The Mounties still get their man, but they're doing it differently nowadays. Typical of the change is the new commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, L. H. Nicholson, who knows more about chemistry than blood hounds.

Some of the Mounties still wear red coats and some still ride horses. But more of them wear the brown "undress" uniform and cover their vast beats in patrol cruisers. They all know how to ride and shoot and follow forest trails, but most of their detecting these days is the scientific, laboratory type that Nicholson prefers.

He joined the Mounties as a constable when he was 19. After his five-year term was up, he joined the provincial police force in his native New Brunswick Province, then switched to Nova Scotia's provincial police.

When the Mounties took over policing Nova Scotia, Nicholson went back into the force he started with, this time as an inspector. He was put in charge of the criminal investigation section in Nova Scotia, and spent his time studying fingerprints, bullet holes and assorted clues.

In 1938, he moved to Saskatchewan, in the same post. With the war, Nicholson went overseas with the Canadian Army's provost corps, ending as a colonel. After the war, he rejoined the Mounties as head of the main laboratories of the criminal investigation department in Ottawa.

He had a big hand in establishing closer contact between the Mounties and the American FBI. Today the two crime-fighting organizations exchange data daily, and wage a unified war against continental crime.

Crime Increases
Despite the advent of scientific detection, crime is on the increase throughout Canada. The Mounties now devote large amounts of time to crime prevention as well as detection. They sponsor youth groups and give talks on better citizenship.

Now 47, Nicholson is commissioner of a force far different from the one he joined in 1923. The Mounties patrol much of their territory by plane instead of dog team. They police all of Canada except the two most populous provinces, Ontario and Quebec. Their beat is from just south of the North Pole to the Canadian-U. S. international boundary.

But the life of the Mountie stationed in a far-off post still is dan-

Behind-The-Scene Effort

Czechoslovakia's imprisonment of AP Correspondent William Oatis on trumped-up spy charges has stirred an understandably great sense of outrage in America.

The problem really has two aspects. The first is how to free Oatis. The second is how to forestall repetition of these fake spy charges against other innocent Americans.

To begin with, for the Reds' purposes, the particular individual is not important. In this instance it happens to be Oatis. But it could have been Dana Adams Schmidt of the New York Times, except that he fled Czechoslovakia on a tip he was marked for arrest.

The seized individual is valuable to the Reds chiefly as a symbol. He's a symbol of Western "plotting" against the Communist world, and thus is victimized as a dramatic example to Iron Curtain peoples that they are circled by enemies.

But inasmuch as the man himself is unimportant, that means any specific person can be bargained for. Once he has been convicted and imprisoned, the Reds' main goal is achieved. It was thus with Robert Vogeler in Hungary.

In the Vogeler case we did not have to pay a heavy price. Virtually all we gave the Hungarians in exchange for Vogeler was the removal of restrictions we had imposed in direct retaliation for his seizure.

Up to now we have not dealt any comparable retaliation to Czechoslovakia. We must resort to some such pressure tactics soon if we are to get into a shrewd bargaining position with the Czech Communists.

Secretary of State Acheson said recently another plea for his release has just been made to the Czech government. But as in the Vogeler case, such pleas merely are the external evidences of the government's efforts to effect release.

The real job is a quiet, subtle, painstaking labor of applying pressures which can be traded off in the bargaining negotiations. In the nature of these delicate operations, they cannot have much publicity. It might prove ruinous. One informed source says Vogeler's release was delayed five months by premature leaks about negotiations in progress.

But Americans are impatient. They are not disposed to stand idly by while Oatis is being subjected to the terror of a Red prison. To them, every day he spends in Communist hands is a bad day.

Consequently, the State Department should make thoroughly clear to all that the hard work of bargaining for Oatis' freedom constantly is going forward without rest. And it should proceed with the greatest dispatch to impose upon Czechoslovakia restrictive measures which are a just retaliation for his unwarranted imprisonment.

Other possibly more sweeping restrictions aimed at preventing recurrence of the Vogeler-Oatis pattern must await solution of this case. We must remember that the Czechs have this man, and while they do he is always in danger. That is a strong bargaining point.

To get Oatis free we must match that point in strength, and we must avoid anything which might hamper his release. You don't shoot a kidnaper before he turns over his victim.

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson says: Oregon primary can force Eisenhower decision; General Kiel admits sending plane for dress uniform; Communists fear American propaganda.

WASHINGTON — Oregon will be the showdown state where General Eisenhower finally makes up his mind whether "to run or not to run"—and on what ticket.

The situation in Oregon was outlined to Kiel's political chief-of-staff, Senator Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, the other day by Robert Letts Jones, publisher of the Salem Ore. Capital Journal. Jones pointed out that Oregon has a primary election whereby any person can be entered in the race by a petition of 1,000 signatures—whether the candidate wants his name entered or not.

Thus Eisenhower's name could be entered in the Oregon presidential primary by 1,000 of his friends, entirely without his consent, and as a means of testing out his political strength.

The Oregon primary has another interesting angle, Jones explained to Senator Duff. The state attorney general has ruled that no candidate can run unless his party affiliation is known, thus Eisenhower would be forced, at the time, to be stamped either as a Republican or a Democrat.

Since the Oregon primary is May 16 and since all names have to be filed ninety days in advance, the showdown for Eisenhower would be sometime in February.

Note—It's a good bet that Kiel's friends—and he has a lot in the Northwest—will toss his hat into the ring through the Oregon primary dressy general.

When this column told how Gen. Emil C. Kiel, commander of the Air Force in the Caribbean, had sent his plane all the way from Ecuador to Panama to get his dinner jacket for a dinner given him by the Ecuadorian Defense Minister, the U. S. Air Force queried Kiel, wanting to know if the "Pearson story" was accurate.

General Kiel replied that he had sent a plane back from Ecuador to Panama, but that he had not sent it to bring back his dinner jacket.

However, officials of the Defense Department pressed him further, finally got an admission that although the plane had not brought back the general's dinner jacket, it had brought back his "full dress uniform."

Note — Both Secretary of Defense Marshall and Secretary for Air Finletter take a tough view of generals who use government planes for personal errands. The 2,000-mile trip for the dress uniform cost the taxpayers about $4,500, and Kiel probably will lose out on his next promotion as a result.

President Truman is pressing Democratic senators to write a report on the MacArthur investigation. They had planned to forget about a report, because they feared a majority would not agree to blasting MacArthur. However, the President believes Chairman Dick Russell of Georgia is honest enough to accept the evidence, which most observers consider to have been clearly and overwhelmingly against MacArthur. He knows that Russell's support almost would guarantee a majority report criticizing the general.

Reports from behind the Iron Curtain indicate that one reason for the seizure of AP correspondent William Oatis by Czechoslovakia was that American propaganda through the Voice of America and Radio Free Europe is hurting.

When the Communies want to get something out of the U.S.A., their crudest but most successful technique is to seize an American citizen, and hold him as a hostage until we come across with the ransom money.

The Justice Department, by divorcing Western Electric from Bell Telephone, would permit anyone to sell new patents and equipment to the telephone company.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

The bidding of today's hand was a bit peculiar. East's overall in spades was so thin that it was practically invisible. East didn't want to pass tamely when the opponents had a part score.

When two clubs were passed around to him, East felt obliged to take further action. His bid of two hearts was risky, but West's return out to be reasonably safe. In any case, North decided to go on to three clubs.

West opened the queen of spades, and South was faced with the task of playing the type of hand in which there is no clear-cut line of play. The expert handles such a hand by a sort of "general direction" play.

East played the deuce of spades on the first trick, and South ducked. West shifted to a heart.

1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠
Pass Pass Pass Pass
3 ♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead—♠ Q and dummy won. A diamond was returned from dummy, and East stepped up with the king to take the trick.

East couldn't see any clear defense, but returned his singleton trump—largely because South seemed to be avoiding trumps. Declarer let the jack of clubs ride around to dummy's queen and returned another diamond.

East had to step up again, this time with the ace of diamonds. This time he returned a spade, and South won with the ace.

By this time South had a fairly good idea of the distribution. He therefore led a heart to dummy and ruffed a diamond in his hand. Next he ruffed a spade with dummy's low trump and ruffed dummy's last diamond.

When South then led his last spade West had only three trumps left. He had to ruff uselessly as dummy ruffed with the king of clubs. He was sure to make one of his trumps, but he could not set the contract.

It is interesting to note that South would have been set if he had barged right out on some such routine plans as drawing trumps. That line of play would lose a trump to West and a second spade to East in addition to the inevitable two losers in diamonds.

CARD SENSE

Q—With East-West vulnerable, the bidding has been:

West North East South
1 Heart Pass Pass 2

You, South, hold: Spades K-J-6-3, Heart 8, Diamonds Q-J-4-2, Clubs Q-J-8-3. What do you do?

A—Double. If your partner is "loaded" with hearts, he will pass for penalties and you will do very well. If he has a poor hand, he will bid and you will pass discreetly. Game against your hand is almost unthinkable in view of East's pass so the re-opening double is practically riskless.

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding has been the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-J-6-3, Hearts Q-J-4-2, Diamond 8, Club Q-J-8-3. What do you do?

Big Business Executive Discovers Even A Bureaucrat Can Be Thrifty

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Edwin T. Gibson, General Foods executive vice president, is retiring soon as deputy administrator of National Production Administration. He thinks more businessmen should come to Washington as he has, to learn how the vast U. S. government operates. He himself has gained considerable respect for the ability of many top bureaucrats. And he has one story to show how the supposedly spendthrift government pinches its pennies.

As a "WOO"—a private citizen serving the government—"without compensation," Gibson has been allowed the usual $15-a-day expense money. That's supposed to cover everything. On one occasion he had to go to New York. To save the government some money, he hopped a ride on a General Foods private plane which happened to be going that way. But he came back by train, and billed the government for the return fare.

His expense account went through General Accounting Office audit, and came back with $140 disallowed. The reason given was that he should have bought a round-trip ticket, to save the government money. Patiently he wrote a letter explaining that he had ridden for free one way on this trip. He asked if, in the future, he should ride only by train and charge the government both ways, at increased cost.

GAO never answered this question. But they sent him a check for $140.

Defense Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann, who also is National Production Authority administrator, believes that the U. S. civilian economy will rock along at about the present rate for the rest of 1951. This is at the level of 60 to 70 per cent of 1950, and he says it's still a pretty high standard of living.

First was Defense Secretary George Marshall's statement to House Foreign Affairs Committee on the need for European arms aid. General Marshall, then referred to "the amazing build-up" of Soviet power. Earlier, General Marshall had expressed concern over Russian army occupation of Southern Kurile Islands, just a short distance from Hokkaido, Japan.

Second warning was given by Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, on 1,000-plane strength of Red Chinese in Korea and Manchuria. Point here was that if Korean fighting continued, Communist forces might have air superiority over the United Nations. Results of conflict under such conditions might be far different from what they have been.

Let's Not Do It Alone
Here is new argument being advanced by opponents of the "go it alone" theory for American continuation of Korean war, without United Nations support. Suppose the United States should go it alone to the extent of bombing Red air bases in Manchuria and Siberia.

Then suppose the Russians retaliated by a sneak bomb raid on some U. S. city like Seattle or Detroit. That would mean start of war between the United States and Russia.

European nations might say they wanted no part of any such struggle, in spite of North Atlantic Pact. And in such circumstances, the United States would have to fight the war without allies.

Q—How did the penknife get its name?
A—The name is derived from the fact that originally the purpose of the knife was to make and sharpen quill pens to suit the writer.

Q—Was Jefferson Davis the only president of the Confederate States?
A—He was the first and only president. Davis was still in office when the Confederacy collapsed in 1865.

Q—How fast is the condor disappearing?
A—Once one of the most numerous birds in the western plain states, the condor has been reduced to an estimated 60 to 100 birds in the Los Padres forest in California. These birds have only one offspring every two or three years.

THE GILA MURDER BY JULIUS LONG

THE STORY: Laura Colton, civic and social leader of Coltonville and the wealthiest woman in town, reaches into the glove compartment of her car and is bitten by a strange, terrifying creature, a lizard there. By the time she could be unsmothered by Mr. and Mrs. McCracken, who lived near the scene, Laura Colton is dead.

There were four feet, rather claws, and jaws with their fang-like teeth. The creature was indeed enough to scare a woman to death even if her heart had been far stronger than Laura Colton's.

"I figger," said Chief Mitchell, "that she got it out of the glove box. I looked in her car and it's open. After it bit her she stopped her car in the street and came a-runnin' to Bob's house, carryin' the thing with her. She must of been scared plumb out of her wits."

Dr. McCracken had not quite heard all that the chief had said, but he got the idea, and he nodded.

"I think I'd better call Dr. Crevelston," he said. "He's her physician, and he can probably tell me about her heart. Though I'd swear my diagnosis is correct, the autopsy will make it sure."

CHIEF MITCHELL winced. It hardly seemed right to perform an autopsy on the body of Laura Colton, who had been the town's virtual queen since her father had died 25 years before, and who had been its crown princess another 25 years before that.

Of course there had been the two-year period when Laura had been absent from Coltonville, the Arizona interlude when she had been the bride of her second cousin, Sam Colton, an engineer employed by a mining firm at Bisbee, Ariz., also at Ajo. It had been at the latter village that Laura had persuaded Sam to give up mining and return to Ohio. She had brought him proudly back her father's death having been the prying wedge between her husband and his chosen career. She had returned to reign as the undisputed queen of Coltonville.

People had said nasty things. They had questioned Laura's motive for marrying Sam, arguing that she had chosen her husband as consort only because his name had been the same as her maiden name of which she was so proud. They further charged that day by day she ruined Sam, a good, rugged soul who could have been able to support her in his own right, but who was like a fish out of water in Coltonville. Laura wouldn't even trust him to oil the machinery in the factory, it was alleged, doubtless unfairly.

The truth, however, was uncomprehensibly close to popular gossip. Sam Colton knew nothing but mining, and after five years he had become a loafer whose life was made bearable only by the two children, Lawrence and Patricia. Sam doted on the kids, and though Laura dominated their raising, he derived sufficient satisfaction from them to make his existence bearable.

PERHAPS it would be more accurate to say that he enjoyed Pat, as Patricia soon came to be known. Lawrence never did come to be called Larry, and the phenomenon may explain the difference between the two. The boy, first born, was never very well, liked from the start while Pat was a hoyden rascal popular with everybody and pretty as a movie starlet.

She was just out of a co-ed college now, having won the fight against her mother, who doted on Vassar. Lawrence was vacationing from post-graduate school, where he was getting his Ph. D. in abnormal psychology, the only subject in which he had ever shown any interest. He had been in F-F during the war because of flat feet, weak eyes and a heart murmur.

"I think we ought to notify the family," said Chief Mitchell. "Sam shouldn't have to hear it from the neighbors."

"That's right," agreed Doc McCracken. "I'll notify him before I call Crevelston." He hesitated. "I think you're the one to tell him."

"What are you afraid of?" the police chief asked candidly. "Don't tell me Sam will mourn her!"

"Okay," said Doc McCracken. "I'll call Sam Colton and you get Paul Baker, the county prosecutor, over here."

An Irishman, who had a drink or two, was on a street car and he kept yelling, "Hurray for Ireland." An Englishman at last said, "Hurray for h---." To which Pat replied, "That's right; every man for his own country."

Enraptured by war, Persia was ripe for the conquest by Arab squadrons that began in 577 A.D. Frenzied warriors of the Gospel of Islam, the Arabs sought to conquer the world for their new creed. Although their power disintegrated in 750 A.D., their contributions to Persian culture are still in evidence.

Still another pattern was woven into the fabric of Persian culture during the subsequent reign of the Seljuk Turks from 1037 to 1197. Under the Seljuk ruler Malik Shah, Persian civilization flourished and some of the greatest scientists, poets and philosophers in the history of Iran attended the Shah's courts.

Next villain in the historical drama of Persia was Ghengis Khan, whose Mongol troops, capable of riding 80 miles a day, brought devastation and carnage to the kingdom in the 13th century. Hulagu Khan, and later ruthless Tamerlane, carried on the reign of terror. Turkoman chiefs were the next to rule Persia.

It was Shah Abbas the Great who did most to wrest the land from the Turks. Setting the reins of power after the death of Tahmasp in 1576, Abbas modernized his army and advanced on the foe. In the battle of Lake Urmia, the Shah's soldiers pried the heads of 20,000 Turks before his tents. Persia was again a mighty power.

Room Situation Different Here

Midland hotels and tourist courts are more likely to be "booked up" during the early part of the week than during the weekend, a survey revealed Monday. For, unlike most cities, Midland's peak guest load comes during the first four days of the week. Hotel men say this is accounted for by the return of sales and company representatives to their homes of the weekend. They come here during the early days of the week from the larger cities and return at the last of the week. This leaves Midland with more accommodations or a weekend. But Tourists Learn Rooms are at a premium Monday through Thursday at two large hotels, the Scharbauer and the Crawford. It is easier to get a room here Thursday through Sunday after the exodus of the traveling men. It's almost the same picture at tourist courts. Two large courts, the Star-Will Motor Courts and Kingsway Courts, report peak guest loads from Monday through Friday with space available most of the time on weekends. Tourists, especially motorists, have about learned this fact of Midland and they find it more convenient to stop here during a weekend if seeking a place to sleep.

Benson, Ariz., Doctor, Paralyzed From Waist Down, Comes Back To Run Hospital

Dr. James Hesser and patient: "I can do... just as well this way as when I stood up."

BENSON, ARIZ.—(NEA)—It's a 24-hour-a-day job for a paraplegic just to live, they say, especially if his ailment is fairly recent. Yet Dr. James M. Hesser, who was paralyzed from the waist down only nine months ago, is handling a job that takes the most vigorous kind of a man—the job of surgeon and general practitioner. Dr. Hesser's spine was severed when his automobile went out of control as he was speeding to the scene of another highway accident. He spent weeks in hospitals recovering and learning to take care of himself as a paraplegic. Meanwhile, he couldn't get back to his own hospital job soon. A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, Dr. Hesser had settled down at Benson, a cattle and mining town of about 2,000, after wartime duty at Davis-Monthan Air Base not far from here. He gradually built a small clinic into a 10-bed red adobe hospital. With earnings and GI loans, he put in almost everything a hospital needs: X-ray, surgical equipment, transfusion facilities, even an ambulance. After his accident, Dr. Hesser could have lived out his life comfortably on his sizable insurance. His weight had dropped from 167 to 130. But he was determined, at 43, to get on with his career. "I'm trying my best to do what I did before I got hurt," he says. Now he's back as school doctor—as well as doctor for the town, county, a railroad, and a powder plant. At his hospital Dr. Hesser sees 20 to 25 patients a day. He tries to work only four hours a day, but often finds himself running over this time limit. Next year he hopes to be strong enough to stay up eight hours daily. He'll make house calls now in absolute emergencies, and hopes eventually to make them more often, using a wheel chair for short distances and, for longer ones, a car whose throttle, clutch, and brake are hand-operated. As far as Dr. Hesser knows, he's the only paraplegic in the country carrying on general medical practice, including surgery. From Wheel Chair In an operation he handles the instruments from his wheel chair. "I can do one just as well this way as when I stood up," he says. He delivers babies, cuts out appendices, does everything he did before. Dr. Hesser's hospital is doing so well he's looking for a doctor to

There still seems to be confusion in the minds of some players as to when you can take the discard pile for the first meld. The rule is always the same regardless of whether or not the pack is frozen. You must have a natural pair that matches the previous discard. The total count of your meld, including the previous discard, must be at least as much as the minimum count. It may be more than minimum count. Let's take some examples. In all examples, remember that the pack may or may not be frozen. That doesn't make the slightest difference for the purpose of taking the discard pile for your initial meld. You need a count of 50 points. The player at your right discards a king. You hold: K-K Q-J 7-7-7 6-5-4 You may put down the two kings and the four sevens, counting 40 points. The discarded king counts an additional 10 points. The total is 50 points, so you are entitled to pick up the discard pile. Once again you need 50 points and the player at your right discards a king. You hold: Joker K-K Q-J 10-9-8-7-6-5 You may put down the joker and the pair of kings, counting 70 points. The discarded king counts an additional 10 points—this makes no difference. You may pick up the discard pile. A third case. You need 50 points for the initial meld, and the player at your right discards a king. You hold: A-A-A-K-K Q-J-10-9-8-7 You may put down the three aces and the two kings, counting 80 points. The discarded king counts an additional 10 points—which makes no difference. You may pick up the discard pile. If you have friends who argue about this matter, clip this article out and save it for them. It'll save me a lot of letter writing. LIGHTNING KILLS COWS CENTRALIA, ILL.—(AP)—As Farmer Murrell Uehleman looked on helplessly, lightning wiped out his seven milk cows with a single bolt. Lightning coursed along the fence and felled seven animals. An eighth, knocked down, survived. Sun lamps are used in zoos to keep horned lizards happy in winter.

The MATURE PARENT

Don't Hide The Fact We Need Child's Love

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
The year that Kit was eight years old, his grandmother was taken to the hospital. His mother went to see her every day. As the hospital's visiting hours coincided with Kit's return from school, he would arrive at home just as his mother was leaving. Preoccupied and impatient, she would say, "How should I know what you did with your red sweater? You know as well as I do that the apple butter is in the ice box." After a month of this, Kit went upstairs one day and stole 50 cents he found under his mother's bureau scarf. Then he went downtown and bought himself a banana split, a Coke and a package of bubble gum. When his mother discovered her loss, she was frightened and angry. She spanked Kit. After she had slammed the door, Kit began to punch his pillow. He said to it, "Ugly old meanie. Think you're somebody, don't you? You're not... you're not..." Kit had stolen from his mother because she had given him a strong impression that she was a big, powerful, self-sufficient creature who could well afford to lose 50 cents. Actually, she was nothing of the kind. She was a woman who was afraid that someone she loved was going to die. She was a human being in need of love and comfort. But of course parents never admit such a need. When we are discouraged and unhappy, we don't dream of saying to our kids, "I need comfort." No sir. We say, instead, "Go away; don't bother me." We express our need for love and comfort just exactly as Kit, the child, expresses his need for them. We express it by irritation, impatience and bad temper. MAKE CHILD FEEL RICH When a child steals, we should be far less concerned with his returning the material object he has taken from us than with his returning the love he has taken from us. A child steals when he has been made to feel deprived, worthless, unable to offer nothing of any value to us. He takes a material thing to relieve this feeling of poverty. If we want him to stop stealing, we must replace his feeling of poverty with a feeling of wealth.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And Don't Look Back!

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, was climbing the mountains with his old friend, the Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf.

The climbing was fun, at first. The two friends were not tired and the day was young. The sky was blue and the air was warm. Mountain flowers grew along the way, and down in the valley our friends could see the white top-side of a cloud. Daddy Ringtail and the Huffen stopped beside a mountain stream of fresh, cold water to eat their lunch, and then of a sudden the Huffen said: "Daddy Ringtail! I'm lost!"

Daddy Ringtail looked around him. A great mountain was on one side. A great mountain was on the other side. Way up high in the sky an eagle was circling around and around. Then Daddy Ringtail looked at his feet to see where the shadow would be. Yes, and then he knew just where the sun was, without even having to look for it. "Home is that way," said Daddy

Typing Of Fish Blood Proposed

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF.—(AP)

—Where do salmon wander after they swim into the sea from their spawning beds in rivers?

Where do sardines breed? What course do tuna follow in their ocean migrations?

Scientists at Santa Barbara College hope to obtain answers to these and other questions of interest to ocean fishermen by research into the blood types of fish. Dr. John E. Cushing recently launched the program. He and his aides are studying blood samples from salt water fish kept alive in a special aquarium on the campus.

He expects to find that fish have different types of blood, just as humans do, and that through knowledge of the various types man will be able to trace their paths through the sea. A fish's blood will act as an identification tag, identifying him no matter in what ocean he is found.

In keeping with its policy of stocking the finest merchandise, Mid-West recently accepted the agency for DeWitt saws. The firm solicits your business and requests that you get its estimates before starting that next job of construction or repair.

An attempt is made to keep all items fully stocked in order to give one-stop service to its customers.

thus saving much valuable time. And many persons find that the prices at Mid-West are the lowest possible for quality materials.

Rock wool insulation is another material and service of the concern. Insulation now will provide protection against many more hot days this Summer and will protect against cold next Winter.

HUMAN "SACRIFICE"

WATERLOO, ILL.—A group of persons, fined for fishing without a license, were shy the $10 fine and costs. So they left one of the girls in the group with Magistrate Arthur as bail. Mrs. Koch, unaware of the deal, was surprised when she came home that evening and found the girl in her kitchen, still awaiting her friend's return.

President John Quincy Adams
once taught rhetoric at Harvard.

He Holds 'Pendulum Of Death' In Teeth

On the ground, Morituri—Walter Kubik—and Isa Kriechen, the girl inside the sphere, stand beside a miniature motorcycle that will supplant the bicycle she now rides.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—"The Pendulum of Death" is no imaginary torture to the "Great Morituri."

Unlike the make-believe torture of Edgar Allen Poe fame, "The Pendulum of Death" is a body-wracking feat of superhuman strength dreamed up and performed by German-born William Kubik, 36. Kubik now is appearing for the first time in this country in Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus.

Morituri, "the man with the iron teeth," hangs by his knees 50 feet above the sawdust ring and holds more than 1,000 pounds of swinging weight with his teeth alone. He has devised a unique system for creating the half-ton pull.

Gripped firmly in his teeth, a cable hangs below the iron-nerved German. Attached to the cable is a rigid, 700-pound steel-mesh sphere more than nine feet in diameter.
Inside this fantastic pendulum, a young woman waits for just the right moment—and then launches herself astride a small bicycle and whirls about the globe while it swings in a wide arc over the audience.

Boyhood Dream
As a boy Kubik dreamed of following in his father's footsteps as a strong man. He never grew to typical strong man proportions, but he developed the ability to lift 100-pound sacks by his teeth before he was 12. He made his first professional appearance as top man on a hand-to-hand balancing team with his father shortly after his 13th birthday.

As he grew older Kubik began working on the spectacular. By the time he was 30, he was widely acclaimed in Europe as a serialist who served as a living link in a trapeze wire that supported whirl-

In 1949 he went back to his phenomenally strong teeth for ideas.
He perfected an act in which he held, by his teeth alone, a complex trapeze system on which five men performed. But the public never saw it; no sooner had he developed it than the various members married and the act folded.

Wants To Make Sure
Early in 1950 the "Pendulum of Death" was born. This time Kubik wanted to make sure that his act stayed with him, and he found a young German girl who was doggedly determined to become a circus performer.

Shy, blonde Isa Kriechen, 16, now rides the bicycle inside the sphere that hangs from Kubik's teeth.

What happens to a man, Morituri was asked, while he is holding such a tremendous weight?

"The weight," he explained through an interpreter, "causes my body to stretch over three and one-half inches. The pull is felt all over the body but is felt most, naturally,
on the neck."

"After the weight is released, I am unable to even nod my head for at least a minute. Everything, of course, depends on the girl!"
Morituri explained further:
"I cannot see the weight below me from my position. So, if she should fall . . ."

He shrugged. The shrug was to indicate that the jolt of a fall while the globe was spinning would snap Kubik's neck, killing him instantly.
For the last few weeks Isa has been practicing something new.

Hanging in the air, this is how Morituri's "Pendulum of Death" looks to circus crowds as a girl rides a bicycle inside the steel sphere he holds in his teeth.

"The bicycle is light," Kubik explained. "Very soon now, Isa will enter the globe and ride a motorcycle."

"Is the Great Morituri ever afraid?" he was asked.

Again the shrug, and, with a smile that showed strong white teeth, he answered.

"A strong man is never afraid."

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★

Dropsy, A Serious Illness, Demands Medical Attention

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

A correspondent who seems much confused about dropsy writes: "Since last Summer my feet and ankles have been swollen. One doctor told me it was a dropsical condition.
Should I drink a lot of water?
Have heard that it is bad for dropsy
as the blood turns to water anyway.
Don't the kidneys need additional flushing in kidney ailments?
It is practically impossible to answer all these questions without writing a book. However, perhaps some of the correspondent's confusion can be cleared by a few words on what dropsy is and what it signifies.

Essentially dropsy, or edema as it is known in medical circles, is the accumulation in the tissues of fluids which ordinarily would be eliminated through the urine.
There are two main reasons for dropsy. One is the failure of the heart and circulation to pump the blood fast enough through the kidneys so that these organs filter out and eliminate the fluids which should be cast off.

The fluid therefore accumulates in the body and generally goes to those parts which have the poorest circulation such as the feet and legs.

This kind of edema is treated by trying to improve the action of the heart and circulation, raising the legs so that the circulation will not have to work so hard against gravity, and other methods.

Then there is the kind of dropsy which comes from disease or damage to the kidneys themselves. Here something has gone wrong with the filtering action of these organs so that they simply do not eliminate all the fluids they should.

Complicated Treatment
It does not work just to try to flush them out with water since this will mean merely that more fluid than ever is kept in the body.
The treatment of dropsy of kidney origin is really complicated and may involve restriction of salt, special diet, and other things.

Dropsy therefore is not a disease by itself but rather the reflection of some underlying disorder which is likely to be serious. The woman who wrote us about it (as well as any others who develop edema)
should place herself in the hands of her doctor and obey implicitly whatever directions he finds necessary to give her.
