Evy Trosti, Young High Wire Queen, Plunges To Death

BALTIMORE (AP)—The smiles on the faces of the clowns weren't so bright Wednesday night—but the show went on. It went on without pretty, 17-year-old Evy Trosti, the high wire queen of "The Great Arturos." She dropped to her death during the afternoon performance of the Shrine Circus before 7,500 persons while performing a Spanish dance with a balance pole on a high wire, 60 feet above the floor of the Fifth Regiment Armory. Her father, Arturo—"The Great Arturo" of Ringling Brothers fame—was on the high platform, level with her when she dropped. He quickly slid down a rope and was one of the first to reach her. "I can't breathe, Daddy," she kept moaning. "Help me, it hurts." Her crushed body was hurried to the nearby Maryland General Hospital, where she died a half-hour later. Arturo collapsed when he received the word. Evy was to have returned to Tampa this weekend to reenter school. She started working on the high wire when she was 10 and joined her father and her cousin Eric three years ago.

George Is 'A Doll' At Home So Zsa Zsa Wants Him Back

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—Zsa Zsa Gabor, the Hungarian doll with a zippy answer for the romantic questions of confused males on a TV show, can't answer her own 864 question—will she and husband George Sanders kiss and make up? The host Zsa Zsa could do for me was: "I think he'll be back. I'll be the happiest wife in the world if he does. He loves me and I love him." Then she added: "But maybe all this publicity is good for his career. We'll build him up again as a big woman hater, although at home he's a doll." Zsa Zsa was referring to their marriage, which blew a fuse when she refused to say lines on the Talulah Bankhead radio show which she thought might ridicule their domestic life. George got mad because she couldn't take a joke and then she told him to pack up and leave their home, which he promptly did with the announcement, "I have been discarded like a squeezed lemon!" But now she wants him back and is beaming: "He packed three photographs of me with his clothes." Now that she's a Venus, Zsa Zsa's aimed her sights at movie stardom. She's playing a o-o-lah-lah French model named Zsa Zsa in MGM's "Lovely to Look At" and speaks only French with English subtitles. I asked her if she thought her personality would come across to the popcorn munchers even though they couldn't understand French. "Dolling," she said, "just ask the cutters on the picture. I could tell you but I can't be THAT connected." King Meets King Janet Leigh, ready to scam MGM for two months when she completes "Scream of Fear" may go to England for a visit to Buckingham Palace and presentation to the King and Queen. She and Tony Curtis will get the honor in December if current plans materialize for an English junket to appear in a charity show for underprivileged children. Tony's crack about the trip Janet in hysterics.

Distinguished Visitors

Midland is the host city Friday to a group of distinguished financiers from New York City who are visiting several leading cities of Texas while on a flying tour of the Lone Star State.

The group of bankers is headed by Winthrop A. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank of New York, one of the world's largest financial institutions. Others in the party include Richard H. Mansfield, a director of the Chase National Bank; Roland C. Irvine, vice president in charge of the bank's business relations in the Southwest; Kenneth C. Hill, second vice president in the bank's petroleum department, and Gail H. Moulton, New York consulting geologist.

This headquarters city of the vast Permian Basin Empire is honored to have the distinguished bankers as its special guests, and citizens join with Midland bankers in welcoming them to Midland. It is hoped the stay of the New Yorkers here will be both pleasant and profitable.

The visit of the New York bankers to this city is further recognition of the enviable position it occupies in West Texas business circles, and points up further the importance of the Permian Basin Empire in the nation's oil picture.

Here in Midland, the visitors are in the heart of one of the nation's fastest-growing sections, with spectacular growth and development evident on every hand. It is no wonder the eyes of the business world are on the Southwest and upon West Texas in particular.

The visiting bankers, of course, are familiar with the facts and figures concerning Midland and vicinity, but it is hoped they will find time to visit nearby oil fields, communities and installations to see first hand just what makes this city and section tick.

It is good to have Aldrich and members of his party as visitors in our city, and it is hoped they will return soon and often.

Midlanders and West Texans know, respect and appreciate the Chase National Bank, and are grateful for its continued, personal interest in this city and section.

Welcome to Midland, Mr. Aldrich, Mr. Mansfield, Mr. Irvine, Mr. Hill, Mr. Moulton and others in your party.

One important problem has been solved by the Army and Navy. Lots of women no longer have to worry about what to wear.

Too many people who think they have nothing to do make the mistake of doing it.

A compromise is when a man agrees to buy what his wife wants if she'll just quit nagging about it.

Affairs run smoother for the man who uses plenty of elbow grease.

A pessimist is any person who thinks the world is against him—and why shouldn't it be?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Secret Waldorf meeting did not include Eisenhower; Franco lobbyist passes out twenty dollar tips; Cubans celebrate their first Thanksgiving.

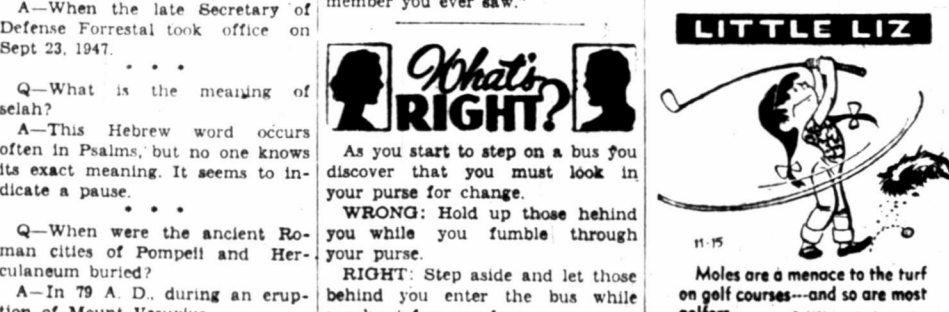

WASHINGTON — "Will He Won't He" Eisenhower — Governor Dewey did not meet secretly with Eisenhower at the Waldorf as reported last week. A Broadway columnist got that one mixed with a Waldorf meeting which did take place between Dewey, Senator Duff of Pennsylvania, Herbert Brownell, the Dewey GOP mentor, and Gen. Lucius Clay, Georgia-born Clay, a lifelong Democrat, now in the Eisenhower camp. The meeting discussed ways and means of rounding up delegates despite the fact that Ike cannot declare until next Spring. There's not the slightest question but that Ike started life as a Democrat. His first speech at the age of 18 at Abilene, Kansas, was at a Jackson Day dinner. Taftites are suspected of putting a neat one over on Arthur Krook. He reported that Ike would come over to the Taft side if the Senator would desert the isolationists. It now seems certain that Ike will face President Truman in the Oregon primary—whether he likes it or not. He also will face Taft in the Republican side of that primary. Ike's name has been entered on both the GOP and Demo tickets, which makes Oregon the most significant test of political strength in the country—namely, Eisenhower vs. Taft and Eisenhower vs. Truman.

Inside Washington
Dictator Franco may be scratching the barrel back in Spain, but he seems to have plenty of money to spend on lobbying in Washington. Chief Franco lobbyist Charles Patrick Clark sometimes passes out $20 tips to Mayflower Hotel waiters when ordering sandwiches and coffee. Down in Texas, they are not feeling so lousy. The City of Houston has been struggling for some months to raise $8,510,555 to pay its entertainment bill for Douglas MacArthur, Glenn McCarthy, the Houston hotel owner, is even putting the bite on San Antonio, Fort Worth and Austin to help out, while in Athens, Texas; notes, pigs, pottery, petroleum and phidding the folks auction.

Q—How far is the horizon, as seen over the ocean by a person standing at the water's edge?
A—Assuming his eyes are five feet high, the horizon would be at a distance of about three miles. At ten feet, it would be about 4.2 miles away and at 50 feet about 7.2 miles. From an airplane a mile high, the distance would be about 95 miles.
Q—What breed of dog is the Normandy?
A—It is a French breed similar to a mixture of our blood and pointer. It stands about 28 inches high and weighs approximately 75 pounds. The skin on its face is loose and wrinkled and it has a very coarse muzzle.
Q—When did unification of the armed forces begin to operate?
A—When the late Secretary of Defense Forrestal took office on Sept. 23, 1947.
Q—What is the meaning of selah?
A—This Hebrew word occurs often in Psalms, but no one knows its exact meaning. It seems to indicate a pause.
Q—When were the ancient Roman cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum buried?
A—In 79 A. D. during an eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

Have a Laugh
By Boyce House
At the conclusion of the speaker's address at a luncheon club, the president said, "The meeting is now adjourned but we would like for all the board members to meet over in the corner." One club member went over and the president said, "Jones, this is just for the board members." Jones replied, "I'm the most bored member you ever saw."

What's Right?
As you start to step on a bus you discover that you must look in your purse for change.
WRONG: Hold up those behind you while you fumble through your purse.
RIGHT: Step aside and let those behind you enter the bus while you hunt for your fare.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Looking at a hand in a newspaper is not quite the same thing as holding it at the bridge table. As a player, you get only one chance to make the right play; as a reader, you get as many chances as you want.

Table with columns NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH (D) and bridge card symbols.

the king of hearts against the contract of three spades. Find the right defense. Take as many tries as you like; if you find the correct defense you're one player in ten thousand.

While you're thinking, let's see what happens if the defense is a matter of routine. Hearts are continued, and South ruffs the third round. South draws three rounds of trumps (two rounds of trumps would be slightly more expert, but it doesn't matter in this case), cashes the top club and gives up a club.

Maybe the defenders come to life so that West manages to win the third club trick (East drops his jack and queen). He leads a fourth heart, and South ruffs with his last trump. Dummy saves the last club and the two diamond honors. Dummy must get in with a diamond to cash the established five of clubs. That is declarer's ninth trick, so he makes his contract.

Are you ready with the right answer by now? Make your mind up before you read any farther. East should overtake the king of hearts with the ace of hearts at the first trick. Then East returns the six of diamonds at the second trick. Simple, isn't it? But also quite devastating. This defense holds South to only eight tricks.

West plays the nine of diamonds, forcing dummy to win the second trick with the queen of diamonds. South cannot prevent West from gaining the lead with a heart. And West will then lead the jack of diamonds, giving the defenders two tricks in that suit. The defense thus shuffles two hearts, two diamonds, and a club, setting the contract.

Incidentally, don't dismiss this defense as an impossible play. Robert de Nexon, the great French expert, actually made the play in a European tournament some years ago.

Q—The bidding has been: West North East South 1 Diamond 1 Heart 2 N.T. Pass 3 N.T. Pass Pass Pass 4-4. Hearts 9-6-3-2. Diamond 6. Clubs J-9-8-5. What do you lead?
A—Lead the deuce of hearts. With four or more cards in your partner's suit lead the fourth-best card (unless you have touching honors at the head of the suit).

Q—Your partner will not think that your defence is a singleton since that would mean that declarer holds your nine, six, and three. If declarer held those cards in addition to what he really does hold, he would have doubled one heart.
TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades J-10-8-7-4. Hearts 6-3. Diamonds 6-2. Clubs J-9-8-5. What do you lead?

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Turkey Works Desperately To Speed Modernization

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

ANKARA, TURKEY — You can't help liking the Turks. They are so poor, and so earnest. Such rags and tatters on the poor beggars who carry such impossible loads on their backs. Patch-on-patch in such unbelievable combinations of colors and materials as to make Joseph's coat of many colors look as conservative as an undertaker's Prince Albert.

Standard footgear of the peasants along the 25-mile drive from Ankara's big airport to the hill-town capital seem to be rubbers worn over heavy hand-knit wool socks into which the pants were tucked.

By contrast, there are more taxicabs along Ankara's main stem, Ataturk Boulevard, than in any city of comparable size. The hardware stores offer good lines of tools, heavy machinery, technical and scientific equipment. The cars are modern American makes and not the midget French and Italian models, even though gasoline costs 36 cents a gallon. Electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners and washing machine models are in the store windows for those who can afford to buy, which would seem to be few.

The standard wage for the best mechanics, coal miners and industrial workers is around 100 Italian lira a month, which is the equivalent of $1 a day in U. S. money. There are practically no labor unions, but a bill now in before Parliament which would grant workers the right to strike, now denied. This is just another of the many indications which show even the 24-hour visitors in the face, to show how desperately hard Turkey is trying to become modern.

Welcome American Influence
Every place else in Europe, the educated people pass out the line that there is an old culture, an established civilization and way of life which they want to keep. They resent American influence to do things in a more modern way, to change. In Turkey it's the exact opposite. Anything that happened before 1922, when the new Turkey was born, they want to forget. Ataturk, founder of the new Turkey, realized that his country had lost its empire because it was behind the times. He set out deliberately to westernize Turkey and to make it a part of Europe, not of Asia. His people still are trying.

They have a long way to go, perhaps, but the progress they have made in 28 years breaks a world record. They modernized their alphabet. Their women discarded the veil for hats and make-up. Literacy was increased from 20 to 50 percent. The first white flour ever to be milled in Turkey will be put on the market soon from this year's bumper wheat crop. It will be an event.

THE REPORTER-TELEGRAM, MIDLAND, TEXAS, NOV. 15, 1961-5

P-TA President Is Convention Speaker

DALLAS—(AP)—The president of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers Wednesday night said the country's strength lies primarily in ability to create, express, control and implement ideas.

The president, Mrs. H. G. Stinnett, Jr., Plainview, added in an address at the P-TA's annual convention:

"It will be our homes, churches, schools and colleges and other educational agencies of all kinds, not bombs, that will make or break our country."

"If we intend to live as free people, we must study to learn a double art," Mrs. Stinnett said. "The double art is to enjoy our own liberty without endangering the equal liberty of anyone else, and to see to it that no one, or no group, under the pretense of exercising freedom, manages with impunity to endanger that of another."

Dr. Willard E. Goslin made a plea for an educational system equal to that deserved by American youth. Mrs. Erskine Heads Committee "There was an attempt Tuesday to prevent Goslin from speaking. His program of teaching children to become part of a group society instead of stressing individuality has caused considerable controversy."

Santa Better Duck, Come December 10, Or Be Conked By North Pole, Showers Of Mail

SEATTLE—(AP)—The "pole" part of the North Pole may have been a misnomer up to this time but something is going to be done about it come December 10.

And if Santa Claus really does make his home there he's going to get such a flood of letters on that day he'll need a private secretary until next Christmas.

All of which is a way of saying plans generated by Stan Garson.

Ike Rates Second To Taft In Poll Of House Republicans

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft tops Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, 71 to 54, as the first choice of House Republicans for the GOP presidential nomination in a poll conducted by Representative Cole (R-NY).

Results of the private survey, started in September and concluded this week, were disclosed by Cole Thursday in the wake of California Gov. Earl Warren's announcement he is a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Warren's move Wednesday put his hat formally in the ring along with Taft's. So far, the Ohio senator and Warren are the only avowed candidates in either major party.

Cole's poll, which brought replies from 161 of the 196 House Republicans to whom he sent questionnaires, gave Warren five votes as first choice for the party nomination. The balloting was completed in advance of Warren's announcement of his candidacy.

Dirksen Third Choice

Taft and Eisenhower between them polled 125 first choice ballots, with Taft getting a 17-vote edge. In third place as No. 1 choice was Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois with 13 votes. Gen. Douglas MacArthur was fourth with 12 votes, followed by Warren with five.

The poll showed Warren second only to Taft for representatives' second choice, with 23 votes to Taft's 30. Warren was the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1948.

Cole's conclusion was that his survey showed "serious consideration" by House Republicans only for Taft and Eisenhower.

Senator Nixon (R-Calif.), however, termed Warren "the strongest dark-horse candidate" in the field. Nixon said he had found strong grass roots backing for Warren in several states.

Taft's reaction to Warren's announcement was: "The more the merrier."

Governor Shivers Makes November 22 Official Thanksgiving

AUSTIN—(AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers has made it official. November 22 is Thanksgiving Day in Texas.

Next year, under a new state law, Thanksgiving will be the last Thursday in November. Shivers had announced last Summer he would proclaim November 22 as the official day this year.

His proclamation said:

"Whereas, Thanksgiving is one of the most revered of our national and state holidays, and its appropriate observance is a custom deeply engrained in the heritage of America and Texas; and

"Whereas, almost since the inception of this great nation the people of practically all states have each year set aside one day for giving thanks for the many benefits of life we enjoy in this great land; and

"Whereas, for almost a century Thanksgiving has been a national holiday observed throughout our nation; and

"Whereas, all the people of Texas and of these United States have many things for which to give thanks in this year of 1951, including our many freedoms which we cherish so dearly; and

"Whereas, the fourth Thursday has been proclaimed as the national holiday and generally will be observed instead of the fifth Thursday throughout the nation;

"Now therefore, I, Allan Shivers, as governor of the State of Texas, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 22, 1951, as Thanksgiving Day in and for the State of Texas."

American Chemists Scheduled To Share 1951 Nobel Award

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN—(AP)—Two of America's leading atomic scientists, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Dr. Edwin M. McMillan, both of the University of California at Berkeley, were expected to be named Thursday night as winners of the 1951 Nobel prize in chemistry.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Science meets late Thursday to vote the awards, but all indications here pointed to the naming of the California pair.

If chosen, they will divide a prize of 167,612 Swedish crowns (about $32,357), from a trust fund established by the inventor of dynamite, the late Alfred Nobel.

Seaborg is the discoverer of five new elements of matter, including plutonium, the substance which made the atomic bomb cheaper. McMillan, through the earlier discovery of the element neptunium, paved the way for Seaborg's findings of plutonium.

For the 1951 Nobel award for physics the leading contenders were two British atomic pioneers, Sir John Cockcroft, director of Britain's atomic research project at Harwell, and Prof. E. T. S. Walton of Trinity College in Dublin.

Working as a team in 1932, they were the first scientists to split the nucleus of an atom with powerful electric charges—an experiment which opened the way to the atomic age.

Oldtime Cowpoke Backs Up Story About Jackalopes

PECOS—This is intended to be a news story—a featured and unbiased account of a recent event. Whether there is fiction herein will be left to the judgment of the reader.

Ben C. Wolcott of Raymond, Calif., claims in a letter to the editor of The Pecos Enterprise that there once were such animals as "lovable, now extinct, jackalopes."

Describing himself as an old cowhand of the early days on the Pecos River, Wolcott wrote:

"The jackalope was a cross between the jackrabbit and the antelope. They were beautiful animals—until the javelina hogs came along and preyed upon them, almost to the point of extinction.

"This made Judge Roy Bean so mad that he called in all of the 'Law West of the Pecos' and made war on the javelinas. Oil from the massacred, fat hogs seeped into the ground and grew until it developed into the Pecos oil fields and also fertilized the soil—all because of the jackalope."

The jackalope controversy began a few weeks ago when Alton Hughes, Chamber of Commerce manager, received a message from a Wyoming girl for verification of a Texas Air Force sergeant's story of Texas jackalopes. Hughes reluctantly admitted the sergeant probably had lied.

Gillispie Rites Held At Lamesa

LAMESA—Funeral services were to be held here at 3:30 p.m. Thursday for Mrs. Ruby Mae Gillispie, 18, of Midland, who was killed in an automobile accident north of Stanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Gillispie, an employee of the telephone company in Midland, was driving alone 18 miles from Stanton on the Lamesa highway when her automobile overturned several times. Her husband is Jackie Gillispie, employee of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company of Midland. The couple moved to Midland from Lamesa about eight months ago.

The Rev. Jesse Davis, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, was to conduct funeral services in the Higginbotham Funeral Home Chapel. Interment was to be in the Lamesa Cemetery.

Mrs. Gillispie's survivors include the husband, the parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Jeter, Sr., and a sister, Annie Mae Scitern, all of Lamesa.

Byrnes Recognizes Shivers As South's Democratic Leader

DALLAS—(AP)—Gov. Allan Shivers has been recognized by Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina as political leader of the Southern Democrats, the Dallas News said Thursday.

Both governors are anti-Truman. In a story by Allen Duckworth, News staff writer, the newspaper said the aging Byrnes selected Shivers in a hotel conference during the Southern Governor's Conference.

Shortly before, Byrnes had nominated Shivers as new chairman of the conference. Shivers was elected.

Dolly Madison, wife of the 4th U. S. President, used a 1,500 horse-drawn chariot in Washington. It would be equivalent to a high-priced custom-built sports car today.

Honest-To-Goodness Letters

Mrs. Audrey Vance, Fairbanks journalist and radio announcer, liked the idea and added a suggestion—how about dropping off some "honest-to-goodness" letters to Santa Claus. "Fine," says Carson and it was a fait accompli (look it up yourself).

Alaska Airlines Chairman H. W. Marshall heard that the Air Force was taking an uppity attitude toward the project and offered to donate one of its four-engined specials for the 3,200 mile flight from International Airport, Fairbanks, Alaska.

Thursday, they decided the steel pole and all the letters the kiddies of this continent want to send to Santa Claus, care of North Pole Nellie (that's Mrs. Vance's Misnomer), Fairbanks, will visit Santa December 10.

The Air Force is helping, too, but not officially. The flight route of the polar special will be over its famed "Polaris" route, established by the 58th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron, based at Eielson Air Force Base, Alaska.

And just in case the airliner makes an unscheduled call on Santa Claus, it will have aboard full emergency equipment for a two-month stay on the ice—including rations, tents, stoves, clothes. But no barber chair.

Two Men Jailed In Marijuana Raid

CORPUS CHRISTI—(AP)—Two men were in Nueces County jail Thursday after their arrest in a Laredo raid which netted $100,000 in marijuana.

Held under $3,000 bond each were Tom Eyerett, 48, San Diego, and Comercindo Rodriguez, 67, who lives across the border from Roma, Texas.

West Texas Gas Asks New Pipe Line Permit

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Authorization to construct 38 1/2 miles of new natural gas pipe line in Potter and Randall Counties has been asked by West Texas Gas Company, Lubbock, Texas.

The line and increased compressor station power would cost an estimated $1,836,145. It would increase the capacity of the system to about 35,000,000 cubic feet.

Use Common Sense to Take Off That Ugly Fat

Overweight can be a menace to health, but common sense should be the watchword to get rid of the extra pounds. A rigid diet over a protracted period of time, can also do harm.

Why not try the Barcontrate way as countless others have done, with remarkable results? Barcontrate contains no harmful drugs. In fact, it contains ingredients to make you feel better. Just go to your drugist and get a course of liquid Barcontrate. Pour into a pint bottle and add 12 ounces of canned grapefruit juice. Then take 2 tablespoons twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to take off bulky fat, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

"I have taken Barcontrate and gotten wonderful results," writes Mrs. B. L. Feary, 724 E. 41st St., San Angelo, Texas. "I have lost 14 pounds and I feel so much better. I got rid of all my blood and gas and can now get a good night's sleep. I ate anything I wanted."

Lost 13 Pounds

"Barcontrate not only made me lose weight, but it made me feel so much better," says Mrs. Ida C. Johnson, 701 Scott St., Dalhart, Texas. "I have already lost 13 pounds taking Barcontrate."

10 Pounds Lost

"I am very grateful to Barcontrate," writes Opal McKee, 216 W. 9th, Roma, Texas. "I have lost 10 pounds taking this wonderful medicine."

The Reporter-Telegram

Johnny Kennedy, Terry Fuglaar Named Captains

Warned by Coach Tugboat Jones that "this will be our toughest ball game of the year," Midland's Bulldogs zipped through a lengthy workout Wednesday, looking ahead to the Friday night battle with the Sweetwater Mustangs.

Particular attention was paid to punt returns and kickoff returns by the Bulldogs Wednesday. A light workout was on tap Thursday, as the Midland eleven awaited the 8 p.m. kickoff Friday.

"Our spirit is good," Jones said, "as the boys know they have a tough game ahead of them."

Johnny Kennedy and Terry Fuglaar were elected captains for the game by their teammates Wednesday.

Dan Ratcliff, reserve end, will be out of the game Friday night. Ratcliff suffered an ankle injury when blocked in the Wednesday scrimmage session. Regular Guard Pete English still is favoring a bruised leg, but he expects to go by game time Friday.

The Bulldogs also viewed films of the 46-0 win over Big Spring in a Wednesday night skul session.

Midland will hold a six-pounder man weight advantage over the Mustangs, 181 to 175 pounds. Last year, Midland won a 21 to 6 contest for the first Bulldog win over the Mustangs since 1950.

A capacity crowd is expected Friday night at Memorial Stadium for the game and MHS homecoming celebration.

Taylor Top Point Maker in 1-AAA; Brooks Is Second

Lamesa's Ray Taylor has forged to the front of the District 1-AAA scoring class.

The classy Lamesa end has tallied 78 points for the season.

Ralph Brooks, Midland tailback, is only six points back with 72 points tallied.

The 1-AAA scoring summary:

Player	Points
Ray Taylor, Lamesa	78
Ralph Brooks, Midland	72
James Butler, Sweetwater	54
Tom Caskey, Plainview	42
Robert Kessling, Midland	36
Jimmy Robinson, Lamesa	32
Jerry Millaps, Lamesa	30
Ramon Towery, Vernon	24
Spec Franklin, Big Spring	24
Larry Friday, Midland	22
Dick Spencer, Midland	20

Denver City Hangs Up 4-A Grid Crown

DENVER CITY — With the 4-A crown already in their grasp, the Denver City Mustangs will have little to worry about when they meet the Stanton Buffs here Friday night.

The Mustangs are favored by as much as 50 points in some quarters.

Other 4-A games this week pit Tahoka at O'Donnell (non-conference), Seagraves at Sundown and Whiteface at Springlake (non-conference).

The 4-A standings:

TCU, Texas Get Ready For Big One

DALLAS —(P)— Texas Christian, the miracle team of the Southwest Conference, takes it easy Thursday and Friday—saving its strength for what is expected to be a bruising contest Saturday with Texas.

The Horned Frogs, hampered all season by injuries but squeaking past all conference opposition so far, reported Thursday in good physical condition.

Herbert Zimmerman returned to TCU practice sessions Wednesday and announced he had recovered from a leg injury, but Coach Dutch Meyer remained doubtful that Zimmerman, starting defensive guard, would play all the defensive time.

Texas, meanwhile, was seeking a defense to stop the baffling TCU spread formation, which has aroused interest of coaches throughout the country.

The Rice Owls, still strong contenders for the Southwest crown with only one loss, reported Thursday that their top passing combination, Dan Drake-to-Bill Howton, was in good condition for the Texas A&M tilt Saturday. Both have been bothered by injuries.

But Teddy Riggs, the Owls' leading ground gainer, has an injured shoulder.

New Material

A&M Coach Ray George tried to send new material at defensive backfield positions Wednesday to fill vacancies caused by injuries.

Arkansas and SMU eased up on contact work Wednesday in preparation for their weekend contest. Both were trying to guard against further injuries to their squad.

Both teams are out of the running for the conference crown. Arkansas has three losses, while SMU has two losses and one tie in league play.

Dick Hightower, outstanding SMU center and linebacker, returned to uniform after recovering from injury.

The Baylor Bears, who meet Wake Forest in a non-conference tilt, continued to polish their serial and ground games.

Baseball Drawing Up Plans For More Major Leagues

DRAWING UP A master plan to create more major leagues.

Rejecting 10-club or 12-club versions of the current majors as "entirely unsound," a special committee has outlined plans for a new "open" classification through which entire eight-club leagues might advance to the majors.

Exact details of the steps leading from "open" to major still must be worked out. But the major leagues special committee on Pacific Coast League problems promises the plan will be ready before the minor league meetings at Columbus in early December.

The Pacific Coast League, waging a vigorous battle against the player draft, would qualify for "open" classification under the proposal. The new "open" class would provide a measure of draft relief by letting players exempt themselves from selection.

President Clarence Rowland of the Pacific Coast League hailed the move. "This gives us assurance that the integrity of the Pacific Coast League will be recognized, and that when it advances, the advance will be made by all eight clubs as a whole," Rowland said.

This could mean a major league on the Pacific Coast "within a reasonable time." The "open" classification would not be permanent but open for review within a five-year period—as a preliminary step to major league status.

To qualify for the jump from triple A to "open," a league must have the approval of at least six clubs, remove salary limits, submit full data on stock ownership and financial stability of each club, show an average attendance of 2,250,000 annually over a five-year period, show an aggregate population of 10,000,000 and a combined work capacity of at least 120,000.

Deadline for application would be 60 days before the season opening. This all is in the proposal stage yet. The major-league executive council will recommend the proposal to the minors at Columbus and the major league council will recommend it to the majors at New York in mid-December.

Deer, Wild Turkey Seasons Start Friday

AUSTIN —(P)— Deer hunters heading for their leases in the Hill Country and South Texas Thursday were hoping for sharp cold weather. It keeps the bucks on the move and helps them get the meat home in good condition.

The general open season on deer and wild turkey begins an hour before sunrise Friday. Hunters by the thousand will be afield.

Deer generally are in sub-standard condition, but in areas where acorns are available, or persimmons, there have been reports of nice fat bucks.

The general bag limit on deer is two bucks with pronged antlers. On turkeys it is three gobblers. Watch out for special laws in the areas where you hunt.

LITTLE BIG STUFF—Wee Greg Wetzell went straight from his highchair to the John Carroll University football squad. The four-year-old Cleveland youngster gives a demonstration of football, as it should be played, before each home game. He snakes hips and stiff-arms his way toward pay dirt and to prove that he's just as good in the line, simulates fierce blocking. (NEA)

Quotes of note:

"It probably is technically incorrect to use the word 'upset' in connection with a game in the wild and woolly Southwest Conference. It's an upset down there when it isn't an upset."—Arthur Daley, New York Times.

"Otto Graham is more likely than any pro player to break away from rushers and run to a first down or touchdown, but Frankie Albert, because of his clever sidestepping, is the hardest QB in the league to catch and pin down."—Los Angeles Ram's defensive end, Larry Brink.

"Midland had an army of scouts at every Sweetwater ball game this year. Wouldn't it be nice to make all their notes go for naught, Mustangs?"—Bud Worham, Sweetwater sports writer.

Indiana's 32-10 rout of Ohio State last month on a 12-state television network prompted Sports Editor Earl Flora of the Ohio State Journal to crack: "The big question has been how much will television hurt football. Now it's how much will Ohio State hurt television?"

"If ever there was a rugged heavyweight who looks like the best crowd-pleasing champion in sight, it's Rocky Marciano."—Bill Corum, New York Journal-American.

"Lamesa is about the only team in 1-AAA which has a chance to finish in a tie for the title with Midland—but look at that 34-7 score and see what Midland did to the Tornados."—Tommy Hart, Big Spring Herald.

A national magazine recently came out with an article on the "All-American Flops of 1961"—that is, the boys who were supposed to be all-everything this season but who haven't shown much.

Bob Smith, Texas Aggie back, Bobby Reynolds, Nebraska back and Babe Parilli, Kentucky back, were listed.

Smith has been slowed down some by injuries and Reynolds has been out all year with injuries. Parilli, after a slow start, has come into his own.

We'll finish with a football year told by big Bill Glidewell. It concerns one season when Harry Stuhldreher was coaching at Wisconsin and not having much luck at it.

Especially did his offense bog down. On this particular Saturday afternoon at Madison, his Wisconsin boys were soundly beaten. Didn't tally a point.

The game over, the crowd swarmed on the field. Stuhldreher, walking with his head down, bumped into somebody. Looking up, Harry saw it was a little old woman with bonnet and shawl.

"Beg your pardon, Mam," he said apologetically. "No OFFENSE." The little old woman gave him a withering look. "You're tellin' me," she snapped.

Granger Forced To Forfeit All Victories

ROCKDALE —(P)—Ineligibility of Ramon Villereal, an end, caused Granger Wednesday to forfeit all its football games this season.

The Lions were undefeated in District 22-A.

Hearne, defeated only by Granger, now leads the district.

Granger school Supt. H. W. Goodgion requested a meeting of district officials to obtain a ruling, if possible.

Joe Page, Others In Annual Draft

NEW YORK —(P)—For the price of $10,000—a good day's hot dog and beer take—any big league club can have Joe Page, the gay reliever of the 1947-49 champion New York Yankees.

Fireman Joe and 4,683 other players are on the draft list for Monday's grab bag at Cincinnati. Owners are displaying unusual interest in the bargain basement sale.

If you're a little hazy on the draft, here's how it works. The last-place club in the American League—the St. Louis Browns—gets first pick of all eligible minor leaguers. Then the Chicago Cubs, last in the National. And so on through the New York Yankees, No. 15, and the New York Giants, sixteenth and last.

Last year the majors drafted 28 men for $269,500. That was only $3,000 short of the record set in 1947 when 29 were picked for $272,500.

Prize pick of a year ago was Morris Martin, the ex-Brooklyn lefty who wound up with a fine 11-4 record for the Philadelphia A's. Once they gave Martin a starting chance in the second half of the season, he was terrific.

Metkovich Around
Some 15 of the 28 stuck around most of the year including the No. 1 pick, George Metkovich, who batted .294 for Pittsburgh.

Remember Boo Ferriss of the Red Sox? He's on the Louisville list. So is Bill Evans (8-4), who has had big league trials.

Page, who finished up at San Francisco with a 2-1 record, is on the Kansas City roster. So is Pitcher Bob Keegan, 13-9, at Syracuse, and Utility Infielder Kermit Wahl.

Brooklyn's St. Paul farm has outfielder Dick Whitman (311), Second Baseman Jack Cassini (.305) and Reliever Al Epperly (13-4). Anybody looking for a utility infielder, might nab Gene Mautch, ex-Boston Brave, at Milwaukee.

Montreal has a hat full of hot-shots although only one can be taken. In the draft list are pitchers Jim Hughes (10-4), Bob Alexander (15-9), Tom Lasorda (12-8), Mal Mallette (10-2) and Dan Bankhead. Marv Rickert, a former big leaguer, can be had for $10,000 from Baltimore where he led the league in 35 homers.

Some of Houston's Texas League champs turn up on the Rochester list in Catcher Les Fusselman, and Pitchers Fred Martin and Al Pappi (43-9). The entire 24-man Syracuse club is in the draft but only one can go.

The Pacific Coast League, waging a battle against having its players drafted, has a flock of eligibles.

Joe Gordon, Sacramento manager, is listed but whoever takes him will have to pay his manager's contract through 1962. Marv Rothbart, the half punt lefty who had a 4-2 record for the White Sox, is on the Seattle list as is Earl Johnson, formerly of the Red Sox.

At Gettle, the pitcher the Giants bought last winter only to have him flop with a 1-2 record is among the Oakland eligibles.

Nippy Jones, St. Louis Cardinal first base regular for much of the season, would cost only $7,500 if taken from Houston.

And so it goes all down the line. Some bargains. Some busts. Talent being as scarce as it is, the grabbing will be furious.

Taft Foresees Call For More Americans To Join NATO Army

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Taft (R-Ohio) foresees a likelihood that the United States may be asked to commit "far more than six divisions" to the defense of Western Europe.

The Ohio senator said in a new book, "A Foreign Policy for Americans" that the past history of the Truman Administration's handling of foreign policies makes it likely that "in another year we will be asked for more divisions" to supplement the North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces headed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As a candidate for the 1962 Republican presidential nomination, Taft wrote down a barrage of criticism against President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, Gen. George C. Marshall and other Administration figures.

Taft said most presidents "have been imbued with a real determination to keep the country at peace." But he went on in a direct attack on Truman and President Franklin D. Roosevelt:

"I feel that the last two presidents have put all kinds of political and policy considerations ahead of their interest in liberty and peace."

Denies Isolationist Views

Taft wrote that he doesn't go along with those who think this country can withdraw to its own shores. He said he believes the threat of Russian aggression is "so serious today that in defense of the liberty and peace of the people of the United States, I think we are justified in extending economic aid and military aid to many countries x x x."

But he said he is not for any permanent program calling for "a global plan for general free assistance to all mankind on an organized scale as part of our foreign policy."

Taft opposed the North Atlantic Treaty and agreed with reluctance to the contribution of six divisions to the North Atlantic Treaty forces.

Robot Economics Teacher Has Water Pump For Heart

CHICAGO—(NEA)—A new member of the Roosevelt College faculty may set the pace for the professor of the future. His heart is a water pump.

The prof is an "economic brain" imported from Britain, the only one of its kind in this country. Pink-tinted water circulating through its veins give students of economics a graphic picture of the U.S. economy in motion.

For instance, when Congress spends more than taxes are bringing in, the machine shows what happens and how much. Water flowing through a series of tanks represents dollars. The source, national income, is drained off as the flow passes each tank.

Regulates Flow

A system of weights and balances regulates the flow into and out of the tanks, which bear such labels as investment, government spending and consumption.

The robot is affectionately dubbed a "moniac" by Prof. Abba P. Lerner, formerly of the London School of Economics, who brought the device to America.

"The machine's great value is that it has no intelligence," he says. "It takes nothing for granted. When you make a mistake it lets you know about it."

Impresses Officials

Invented by W. A. Phillips an Englishman, it has impressed officials of the Bank of England and financial experts on the Continent. The "moniac's" great virtue is that it dramatizes and clarifies a whole series of financial relationships that have hitherto been extremely difficult for students to grasp.

I may even wind up teaching the teachers. A robot without imagination it forces the instructor who operates it to check back on himself.

Besides, it doesn't flunk anybody.

Latest Tabulation Confirms Defeat Of Four Proposals

By The Associated Press

Late returns from Tuesday's state Constitutional amendment election showed no change Thursday from earlier trends.

Defeated were proposals allowing establishment of a pension plan for county officials, the University of Texas more freedom in investing its permanent funds, an increase in the state welfare ceiling and taxes for rural fire fighting.

The only proposal to win approval was that boosting by $75,000,000 the amount of bonds which could be issued to help veterans finance farm and ranch purchases.

The latest vote recorded by the Texas Election Bureau:

County pensions, 64,938 for, 120,670 against; University fund, 85,678 for, 97,626 against; rural fire prevention, 66,786 for, 117,002 against; welfare boost, 84,136 for, 108,289 against, and veterans' land fund, 99,807 for, 86,899 against.

In the legislative races, eight candidates appeared assured of election with four district contests still in doubt.

Education Week Provides Opportunity To Appraise Schools' Administration

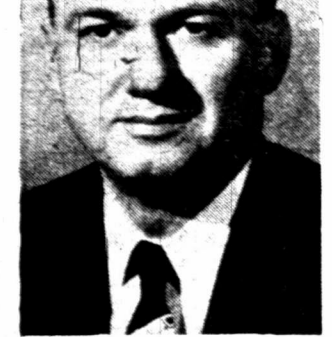

(This article was written by Dr. J. W. Edgar of Austin, who is commissioner of education of the Texas Education Agency, in observance of American Education Week.)

By DR. J. W. EDGAR
The Minimum Foundation School Program for the administration of Texas public schools—often referred to as the Gilmer-Aikin School Program—has been in operation two years.

This week, American Education Week, is a good time for all of us to take a look at the schools and the state educational administration and to ask some questions about public education.

What is being accomplished in the effort to provide better public free education, to bring more children into the classrooms, to provide adequate school bus transportation, and to raise the professional standards and salaries of school teachers?

What are the major problems that Texas school administrators and teachers and the local school patrons are going to have to work out this year and in the years ahead, and how are we going about finding solutions for these problems?

On the first question, state-wide evidence indicates that the objectives of the Minimum Foundation School Program are being realized. That is, a larger percentage of school-age children than ever before are being offered a well balanced, minimum program of education by better prepared school personnel.

Gets Desired Results
In 1948-49 there were 1,524,000 children of school age living in Texas with 1,124,000 of these in average daily attendance. The school census for 1951-52 showed 1,566,000 children in Texas. Of these, 1,205,000 were in average daily attendance. This increase in the percentage of students attending school indicates that the plan of providing state financial assistance on the basis of school attendance appears to be getting the desired result—bringing more school-age children into the classrooms.

Since the Minimum Foundation School Program went into effect, the changes noted below have taken place in Texas' public school system.

State-level educational administration, formerly shared by four agencies, is now coordinated under one.

Average classroom teacher's salary in 1946 was $1,850; in 1949, $3,018; and in 1951, $3,059.

Supervisors, counselors, school nurses and other special teaching personnel which used to be available only in the larger school systems are now available for the very small schools as well.

The number of school districts has been reduced from about 5,000 to 2,200. Automatic consolidations of dormant districts accounted for a large part of this reduction, and all of the consolidations of active districts were made with full consent and approval of the persons in the districts concerned. Consolidations have strengthened the schools, allowing them to employ more personnel and to offer more courses.

Give Set Amount
Local financial contributions to public education, which were based on real property evaluations, varied widely in the past. Now the local districts contribute a set amount of $45,000,000 a year to the operating costs of the minimum program, based on an economic formula which involves population, payroll, minerals production and retail sales, as well as assessed valuation and scholastic population.

In 1939-40 about 30 per cent of total state expenditures went for the costs of education. In 1947-48 it was 29 per cent and in 1949-50, about 29 1/2 per cent. These percentages show that the rise in the cost of education closely follows the rise in the total cost of state government. The cost to the state, we believe, is no more than it would have been by this time under the old system, or under any new system which would have raised teacher salaries and improved instructional programs.

Most important, every school age child in Texas now has an opportunity for a full nine months—175 days—of schooling each year. The state furnishes free textbooks and if the child lives two miles or more from school he can ride the free school bus.

We believe that the quality and effectiveness of instruction offered to school children depends primarily upon the professional training, ability and attitude of school administrators and teachers. That is why the raising of teacher pay and standards was given first priority in the reorganization of state educational administration. For the school teachers of Texas the Minimum Foundation School Program has meant better salaries, with increments for years of experience and advanced study, and higher standards for their profession. Reports to the Texas Education Agency from teachers, administrators and lay citizens throughout the state have convinced us that the teaching profession has gained more respect and support from the public and that teacher morale has improved during the past two years.

Teaching As Profession
There are fewer non-degree teachers in the public schools and more teachers with masters degrees, and more young men and women are choosing teaching as a profession.

These things mean better education for Texas children.

For the public schools of Texas the Minimum Foundation School Program has meant increased efficiency through reorganization of school districts. The new 21-member State Board of Education, elected by the people, has strived to see that all possible control and responsibility is left to the district and county superintendents and local school boards, with professional leadership furnished by the staff of the Texas Education Agency.

The smaller public schools of Texas, as well as the large ones, are now enjoying many special educational opportunities which only the large ones could afford before the program went into effect. A major objective of the program is to make available to children in rural areas an education as good, and in as many fields of endeavor, as that offered to students in the centers of population.

The public schools are creating more interest in school attendance among children by offering a wider variety of courses to fit a greater range of needs. School administrators throughout the state have tightened up attendance regulations, and have informed their students that the growth and improvement of their schools depends upon their regular attendance of classes.

Many school districts have used part of their increased financial assistance under the Minimum Foundation School Program to employ school nurses or physicians and to establish health programs where none existed before. Other school systems have expanded their health programs.

The vocational education program in Texas public schools has been extended during the last two years. The schools are providing adults, disabled persons and war veterans, as well as school-age children, the training necessary for them to find places in agricultural work, trades homemaking and businesses.

Local school districts may establish special education units for the teaching of physically and mentally handicapped children and for those who are partially deaf or blind.

Public education in Texas is improving and moving forward through the effective handling of educational problems as they arise. Two of the biggest problems ahead of us right now are the increasing scholastic population and rising costs. Texas must provide buildings, equipment, books and teachers for more and more pupils and the public must have assurance of full value received for the money being expended on public education in Texas.

We will continue to work out the problems as they come up, according to a plan which has been called the "Texas Way in Education". By this plan there is a cooperative study of school problems, widespread discussion and final action in terms of the best possible solutions. This "Texas Way" will be used next March in connection with the next annual Public Schools Week in Texas and the 1952 Citizens Advisory Conference on Education.

Public Schools Week, like American Education Week, is aimed at getting local citizens to visit and to get a better understanding of their elementary and secondary schools. The basic objective of the 1951-52 Citizens Advisory Conference will be to establish a priority arrangement of the 20 most pressing educational problems that should be resolved within the next three years, and to get the best thinking schoolmen and laymen on the possible solutions of those problems.

On Full Schedule
The people of Texas have let it be known that they want public schools which will provide every school-age child with the opportunity to attend school regularly on a full-time schedule, the incentive and encouragement to attend through the twelfth grade, a well rounded program adapted to varied interests and needs, skillful teachers, and adequate school buildings, facilities, books and transportation.

The Minimum Foundation School Program is Texas' plan for providing its school children with these educational opportunities. The program has been successful thus far and continued improvement seems assured. As long as a majority of citizens are interested in the schools we can count on progress in public education.

Nacionalistas Hold Lead Over Liberals
MANILA—(AP)—Majorities piled up by Nacionalistas in the cities may be big enough to defeat administration candidates in the nine Philippine senatorial races, late returns indicated Thursday.

The Liberal Party of President Elpidio Quirino is winning in the outlying provinces as expected. But tabulations indicated there won't be enough votes to offset leads piled up by Nacionalistas in early returns in Tuesday's election from the large cities.

A Nacionalista sweep would leave Liberals holding just half of the seats in the 24-man Senate. Liberals have 12 holdovers; Nacionalistas two. One holdover is an Independent.

Dr. Jose Laurel, puppet president under the Japanese, polled 682,861 votes to lead the Nacionalista slate of eight candidates for the regular six-year Senate terms. The top Liberal, Education Secretary Teodor Evangelista, had 405,588. He was in ninth place. The top eight are elected.

Truman Unfurls Fair Deal Banner For '52 Campaign

KEY WEST, FLA.—(AP)—President Truman Thursday declared he is drafting a "State of the Union" message committing the Democratic Party to campaign in 1952 under his "Fair Deal" banner.
But, under a bombardment of questions from reporters at a Winter White House news conference, he refused to comment on whether he intends to support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Democratic presidential nomination or whether he will seek it himself.
He said that at no time did he discuss domestic politics with General Eisenhower in their recent Washington conferences on the Western European defense program.
Asked whether he will urge enactment of his "Fair Deal" program in the "State of the Union" message he will send to Congress in January, he said of course, and he added it will be a part of the Democratic platform.
"Regardless of who runs?" he was asked.
Regardless of who runs, he replied.
He said he stood by his previous assertion he will not disclose his 1952 intentions until after his "State of the Union," budget and economic messages are delivered.
And, he added, he may even wait a little later.
The President said he would ask further changes in the Taft-Hartley Act, which has been the frequent target of union leaders, but he would not disclose them at this time.
Horrified At Atrocities
He was asked about a story out of Pusan, Korea, in which the U. S. Eighth Army charged the Reds with murdering about 5,500 American prisoners of war.
It's a horrible thing, the President said. No facts have reached him as yet, he said, but he declared it is the most uncivilized thing that has happened in the last century, if this is true.
But he wouldn't comment on whether it would bring closer the day when we might use the atomic bomb in Korea.
The President also told the conference:

DRY-CLEANING JOB—It beats the old wet wash-tub, thinks Duke, pet pup belonging to young Mark Buck of Las Vegas, Nev. But Duke still isn't too fond of a cleaning job, even when it's done with a modern vacuum cleaner.

U. S. Is Studying Plan To Mobilize Top Inventors

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Uncle Sam wants to mobilize the nation's inventors for an all-out assault on the big "idea bottlenecks" holding up many vital military projects.

The National Inventors' Council, a semi-government outfit which acts as a go-between for Uncle Sam and the country's inventors, has already petitioned the Pentagon to start paying enough money for accepted ideas to inspire inventors to solve the big problems at hand.

Russia and England give tremendous rewards and privileges to inventors of useful military items. But the U. S. barely comes through with a "thank you." As a result, today, when the need for specific ideas and inventions is greater than ever, men of creative minds are apathetic about the service's problems.

Members of the Council include top-ranking industrialists, Army and Navy officers and patent experts. John C. Green and Leonard Hardland, full-time employees of the Council in the Department of Commerce, give ideas and inventions their first screening.

Some of Problems

Some of the pressing needs and problems for which the military is seeking outside help include:

- Improved fuels and lubricants for use in extreme cold.
- Machinery for fabricating and welding high-strength titanium.
- An adhesive tape which will stand up in hot or cold temperatures and against weathering.
- A device capable of burrowing a large, vehicle-sized hole or tunnel through hard, compacted snow or solid ice.
- New miniature radio equipment construction methods that will be completely used up after it delivers its power.
- The inventor mobilization plan, being considered by the Council, would involve the preparation of a master list of those U. S. inventors not already employed by the government or by companies with big government contracts. Persons on the master list would be given some classified information on just how far the services have gone on certain projects plus some of the needs which are now kept secret.

Lack of this information causes many good scientists and inventors to spend years on problems which have already been solved. The big need is for greater exchange of information between government and private inventors, says Hardland.

Would Be Limited

The master list would be limited to established inventors, men who would observe the restrictions on any classified information made available to them.

The Inventors' Council, which gets about 400 ideas and suggestions during a normal week, has greatly eased the red tape an individual inventor must go through in trying to sell something to the government. About five per cent of these ideas get further than the waste-basket. But still the red tape involved in getting an inventor credit and money for an accepted idea is fantastic.

If his idea isn't patentable, or if he neglects to patent it, the inventor isn't likely to get a cent for a good idea from Uncle Sam. If it is patentable and he does patent it, he practically has to give away all rights to it to get the government to use it or to put any further work on an idea.

Giving inventors more information about what's going on in various fields, and giving them more money for what they produce, are the two big factors in breaking the idea bottleneck, a patent expert for the Pentagon says. If we don't do something along these lines soon, he claims, Russia is likely to overcome the lead we have in scientific warfare.

Night Cap Is Aid To Charm

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

There are few things less flattering to a woman than an old hairnet, pulled hastily and carelessly over her hair just before she retires at night. Particularly when the net is broken and stray wisps are escaping does a woman's appearance fall short of pleasing her family or building her own morale.

A feminine, shirred nylon night cap keeps hair firmly in place during slumber, adds to her bedtime beauty.

To enhance your femininity as well as your loveliness at bedtime a night cap is an excellent aid, as great-grandmother knew to her advantage long years before today's women began their nightly scare-crow trek to slumber.

One particularly attractive night cap is a lavishly-shirred all nylon one in a variety of colors to match your gowns or your mood. It's available in white, black, pink, yellow, light blue and coral.

The cap, which is elasticized to provide close-fitting hair protection, tucks beneath your tresses, and ties in a pert bow on the top of your head, combining neatness with glamor.

Roman Candles Chase Starlings

URBANA, ILL. (AP)—Use Fourth of July Roman candles to get rid of noisy flocks of starlings or blackbirds, suggests the University of Illinois experts.

The University Wildlife Service says shoot the Roman candles just before it gets dark and the birds then will have only enough light left to fly elsewhere for the night. It adds that two or three nights of this should scare the birds away for good.

U. S. Tin Mission Headed For Malaya

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA (AP)—The announcement that a United States tin mission is coming to Malaya to study the industry here has aroused speculation about possible renewal of Anglo-U. S. negotiations for a tin agreement.

Tin men here say such an agreement would be acceptable to the Malayan mining industry if it is spread over a period of three to five years and carries a U. S. guarantee for a fixed price that is economic for Malaya.

The American group includes Gen. Tom Wilson, of the General Services Administration; Spencer Shannon and George Euser, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Charles Merrill, of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, and Harlan Bramble of the U. S. State Department.

By GAIL BAKER

Hi! Well, amid the twins' yelling and hooping, the Peke and the Siamese cat going into their daily battle, and Mother calling me to dinner, I'll try to peek out all that has happened in the last week.

Let's see . . . the mainest thing we have done is to beat the Big Spring Steers by a 46-0 score! We're shore proud of that, aren't we? Now all we have to do is to beat Sweetwater, (all we have to do) which the football boys say we are going to do, and we will be district champs! Whatcha say we all get out there and yell for 'em Friday night at Memorial Stadium . . . that always helps, they say!

The game Friday night is our last home game of the season, and there is going to be quite a Homecoming celebration. Invitations were mailed to the exes, urging them to be home for the game.

Happy Birthdays
Friday night after the game in Big Spring the football boys sang "Happy Birthday" to Freddie Bilbo, whose birthday was Friday. He says they won just for him. While dressing, Freddie was proud to put on his usual cerise-colored tie, which he wears after each game the Bulldogs win.

This Friday night the boys have another "reason" to win—it is Loren Roberts' birthday, and they said they are going to win for his birthday present. Sure is a nice present, isn't it?

Tuesday night the dramatics class presented three one-act plays in the high school auditorium. Everyone there thoroughly enjoyed them. The student directors did a fine job, too, didn't they?

Friday night on the way to Big Spring, the Fricks had quite a mishap. The rear end of their car got on fire, the entire car was a total loss.

The Episcopal Church began its annual Youth Rally Wednesday night by having a dinner at the church. Entertainment was furnished by some of the cast of the high school Halloween Talent Show.

Nancy Klingler's and Margie Neill's mothers seemed to have enjoyed their visit to the YC Saturday night.

day night. They were quite involved in a game of ping pong. Did you all have fun?

Tournament Stated
Speaking of ping pong, when Mr. Glidewell returns from Abilene next week, the Youth Center will begin a ping pong tournament. Those wishing to enter may talk with Mr. or Mrs. Glidewell.

Oh, no! The mumps are back in "style" again! Joan Turner is the first victim that we know of, so far! Hope you get well real soon, Joan!

Last weekend Maxine Hill took a trip to Ruidoso and other places in New Mexico. Her most memorable experience was when she saw a dead bear!

Dot Strawn, rather Dot Pate, was here over the weekend, and, as we told you last week, a shower was given in her honor. Everyone says she is really looking good! Hope you come back again, Dot!

Last Wednesday night Sadie Nugent gave Grace Boles a surprise birthday party. The party almost "wasn't" because when Sadie came by unexpectedly and asked Grace to go get a Coke, Grace wouldn't go—she had too much to do! But after all is said and done, the party was a huge success!

Did you know that Midland High has two new cheerleaders? We do! James Dozier and Jim Ervin! They were leading yells at the beginning of the game in Big Spring! Congratulations on your ability to lead yells, you all!

Congratulations to Nancy Cooper, who was elected Catalco Queen of 1951! Queen Nancy's six attendants are Pris Fields, Pat Boles, Chris Heideberg, Emily Hamilton, Marston Sevier and Maxine Hill.

"Most Popular" Nominations
Tuesday in homerooms, nominations were made for Most Popular Boy and Girl! They were voted on later.

That time is almost here again! Next week is six weeks' exam time. Here's hopin' we have better luck this time.

The senior class officers Tuesday selected the senior invitations. Time's sure "a flyin'"—only SIX months and thirteen days left!

Nancy Roberts and Sue Francis spent the weekend in Junction; Bill Crenshaw visited in Dallas—did you all have a good time?

The other night at the Center we asked Jim Hammet his "statement to the press." He gave us his LIFE HISTORY! He said he escaped from "Sing Sing" in 1912 when he was 11 years old, then he started going to school. We asked him what happened then, and he said he didn't exactly know, but he's still here.

anyway! He says he'll break out again before long, though! What a life! Hmmm.

YC Visitors
Saturday night the Youth Center had two visitors. One was an ex-Midlander, John Dittmer, who moved to El Paso about two or three years ago; the other was a friend of John's from El Paso. Good to see you all!

There surely were a lot of exes home over the weekend, and many of them attended the Midland-Big Spring game in Big Spring. Some of those we saw were "Christmas" Barber, Jimmy O'Neal, Graham Mackey, Carolyn (Cook) Downey, Buddy Johnson and Dorothy Allen, Earl Chapman and Guy Vanderpool, grads of last year, were seen wanderin' around town—and in and out of the Youth Center.

Morris Bassham and Bill Spence were here from Texas Tech. Duane Bush, Jack Burris, and David Lavery were home from Texas Western.

More Exes Listed
Others we saw were W. E. Franklin, Billy Grisset, Bob Connors, Al Scoggins, Billy Crites, Dan Dickenson, Jo Underwood, Bill Adams, John Midkiff and Peggy Charleston.

NMMI'ers who were home for the Armistice weekend were Bobby Floyd, Timmy Cornwall, Charles Davis, Teddy Kerr, Charles Paris and Jon House.

While talking to Big Bobby Harris, the other day, we found out his big brother, "Hoot" is in the Air Force, stationed in Denver, Colo. He will be home Christmas.

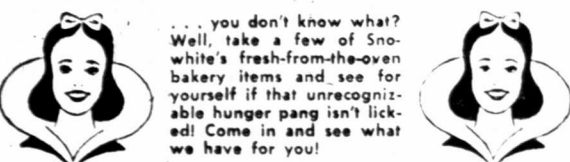

Loren Roberts, Jimmie Lineberger and Stan Coker went to the Baylor-Texas game in Austin Saturday. They say they surely had a swell time. (Incidentally, in case you didn't know, Baylor won—18-6.)

'Bye, 'bye till next Thursday! See ya then!

Trimmings Improve Roast Duck

ROAST DUCK with cranberry-cornbread stuffing is the perfect Thanksgiving suggestion for the small family.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
A pair of browned roast ducks garnished with golden yellow preserved kumquats makes a perfect Thanksgiving dish for the family too small for a big turkey.

Because roast duck demands a sweet accompaniment, try a cranberry corn bread dressing. The mild flavor of rich corn bread is livened with the tartness of chopped, fresh cranberries.

As it bakes, the dressing becomes light and fluffy, slightly crisp in texture. The tangy flavor is good with any type fowl and especially fine with duck. Allow a cupful of dressing for each pound of duck.

Roast a 4 to 5 pound duck in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) approximately 2 1/2 to 3 hours total cooking time, or to an internal temperature of 185 degrees F. when a roast meat thermometer is used. Extra dressing may be baked in a casserole with the bird during its last hour of browning.

Cranberry Corn Bread Dressing (Makes 2 quarts dressing)

One and one-half cups sliced fresh cranberries, 1 1/4 cup sugar, 1 pan corn bread, crumbled, 1 1/2 cups finely chopped celery, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon mace, 1 3/4 cup melted shortening.

Combine cranberries and sugar. Let stand 5 minutes. Combine rest of ingredients with cranberries and toss lightly to mix. Stuff fowl, allowing 1 cup dressing per pound of fowl.

Golden Corn Bread
One cup enriched yellow corn meal, 1 cup sifted enriched flour, 1 1/4 cup sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 1/4 cup shortening, soft.

Sift together dry ingredients into bowl. Add egg, milk and shortening. Beat with rotary egg beater until smooth, about 1 minute. Do not overbeat. Bake in greased 8-inch square pan or greased muffin pans in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

There is nothing more disconcerting to a young beau or belle than to own a lovely evening dress and tuxedo which seldom is worn. Sometimes it has been worn just once at a big frolic, other times—and particularly in the case of the tuxedo—it has been a present from a dotting uncle or aunt or mother or dad, and has never been worn.

Well, why not wear dress-up clothes more often? Ingenious girls could get together and cook up special events that would require formal togs. For one thing a young man in a tuxedo is a lot more fun on a party and is not likely to act younger than his age, as is unusually the case with boys in their teens, if he is all dressed up.

One idea to get some wear out of those pretty duds is the Prom House Party or a Sweet-Sixteen get-together.

Little dance cards could be given to the girls just as at a regular Prom. Since each man would then be tied down to dancing each dance—or sitting it out with a gal—there would be no bashful boys or wallflowers on this shindig. He's got to get up on his feet or else!

A buffet supper with party variety foods can be made hours in advance by the hostess, so that even she can have a good time. Tomato juice, apricot nectar or a cold soup such as mock vichyssoise can be served first. Then small sandwiches—chicken salad, cheese, watercress and cucumber—could be daintily arranged on a tray, garnished with parsley for extra-special table glamor. Trim the crusts off the bread for this occasion. A ham salad is inexpensive and served with au-gratin potatoes (which can be made in advance and popped in the oven at the last minute) is delicious. Add to this a tomato aspic (recipe to be found in any cook book), especially decorative if it is made in a fish or animal mold.

For dessert—a fruit salad is easy to do and if enough fresh fruits can be obtained, canned fruits can be added. If bananas are used, however, don't mix them until just before serving.

An interesting punch can be made by making a strong solution of 2 measuring cups of tea, sweetening it with one-half cup of sugar, or use one of the new non-caloric sweeteners now on the market, one-third cup of orange juice, one-third cup of lemon juice. Mix all together and put it in a punch bowl. Add sparkling water and ice cubes. Be sure to make the tea strong as the ice cubes will melt, weakening it as the evening goes on.

The ice cubes can be made very interesting. Try coloring the water in the tray so that you will have colorful ice cubes, particularly lovely when used in clear glasses. Another fun-idea is to put a sprig of mint in the ice cube compartment before freezing the tray. A cherry can be put in the water to freeze within the clear ice cube.

If your group of boys do not have tuxedos, the girls still can dress up providing the boys can be persuaded to wear a dark blue or other dark suit.

Non-Smoking Fred Wemple Never Without His Pipe

The only difference between Fred Wemple of Midland and the average pipe smoker is tobacco. Wemple, business man and member of the Texas Highway Commission, has a pipe clenched between his teeth almost every working hour. But he's never smoked one in the many years he's worn out hundreds of pipes.

Because of a delicate throat condition he gave up cigarette smoking 20 years ago and stuck to chewing gum. But returning from a football game in Fort Worth one day he won a pipe on the train in a contest sponsored by students.

"I stuck it idly in my mouth and have had one there since," Wemple said. "It's a pacifier and I see no difference between puffing air and puffing smoke."

But his pipe "smoking" habit does create small consternation occasionally—especially in movies where seat neighbors look askance at the pipe in his mouth.

Then there were the many occasions at state board meetings in Austin when one official, suffering from a sinus condition, always moved across the room from Wemple and his pipe. For a year this continued and the Midland man wondered why. One day, though, the truth came out and the sufferer was convinced that Wemple never lights up his pipe.

In his collection there are at least 50 pipes, mostly gifts from friends over the state. At one party, after his fondness for pipes had become known, he was given a dozen pipes and enough tobacco for an average smoker's five-year needs. Wemple always gives the tobacco away.

Yet there are persons in Midland who would swear that Wemple smokes his pipe. If they've seen smoke coming from his mouth it could be nothing more than frosted breath.

Not believing this cost one Midland man $10. He just knew that Wemple smoked his pipe and he backed up his belief with money.

MASS KILLING

BILLINGS, MONT.—P—Ranger-riding is more than just watching the dogies. Frank Hendren killed 665 rattlesnakes in six days while at work for a livestock company. He found them gathering in a basin, piled in bunches of 18 or 20 getting ready to den up for the winter. Hendren used a 1x4 board about five feet long to toss them away from the holes. Then he clubbed them to death. He notched the board to keep count.

But you do not have a drying frame for sweaters, knitted children's leggings or other knitted wools, try this method. Before wetting the garment, lay it upon a sheet of heavy cardboard and draw the outline carefully. Cut the pattern. The washed garment may then be fitted to the cardboard form and dried to correct size and shape.

Canada Ready To Build St. Lawrence Seaway All Alone After Waiting 10 Years For United States

TORONTO (NEA)—Sometime in 1960, ocean-going ships may be able to steam up the St. Lawrence River through Canadian waters and sail through all the Great Lakes.

That is how Canadian planners visualize the future at the moment in their decision to go ahead and build the controversial St. Lawrence Seaway alone, without U.S. help.

Although the U.S. Congress has shelved action on the idea of a joint project until 1962, rather than actually turning down the idea, the present plan has been rebuffed for the past 10 years and has been under study since 1920.

Thus Canada has now begun action to do the job alone, building all the canals to clear the St. Lawrence rapids on the Canadian side of the international boundary. Since there are international complications to be cleared away, however, the door is still open should Congress change its mind early next year.

Three major considerations prompted Canada to give up waiting.

Canada needs the power the waterway would provide for immediate industrial expansion.

She needs the waterway to ship iron ore from the new fields being developed in Labrador and Northern Quebec to the steel mills in the Cleveland and Southern Ontario areas.

And she needs the seaway to allow construction of larger naval vessels at Great Lakes shipyards as part of Canada's defense effort.

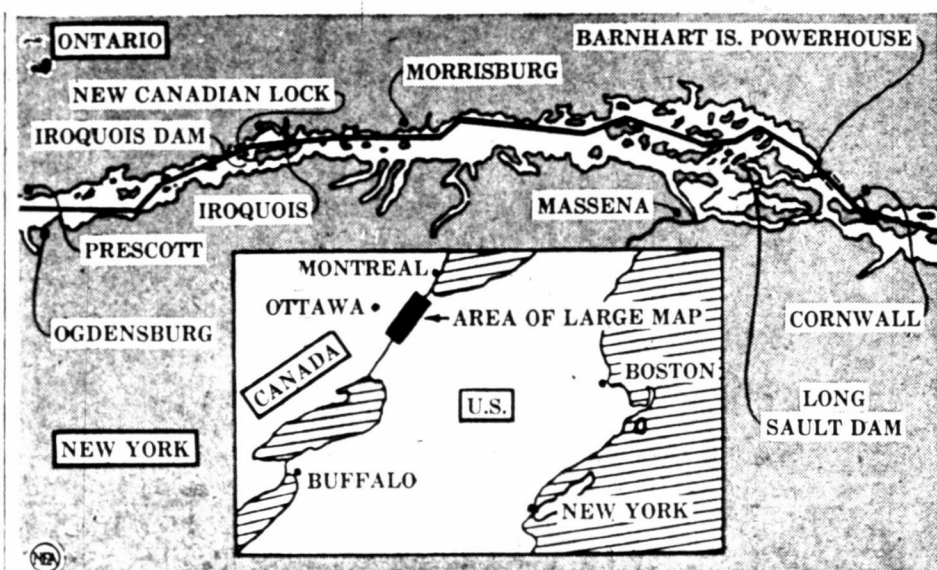

Major pressure on the Canadian side of the border has come from Ontario, where a phenomenal industrial boom which has been growing since 1939 has pushed up electric power needs.

Right after World War II there were electricity "brown-outs" in Ontario. Although new power plants are now going into operation and the "brown-outs" have been temporarily eliminated, there still is a power shortage.

If Canada sticks by the present decision to go ahead alone, all shipping will go through Canadian territory and building costs (estimated at $500,000,000) will be met through toll charges at the locks.

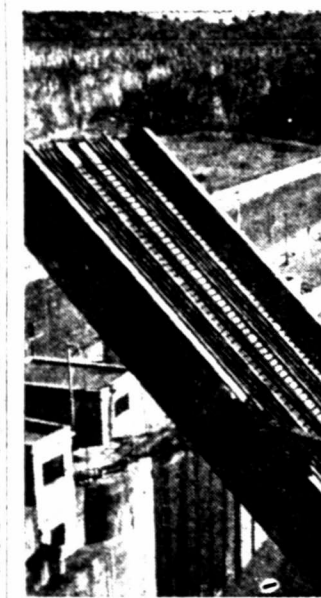

The eight-year project will require a labor force of more than 10,000 men and will flood out 30 miles of Canadian territory in the International Rapids section north of New York State.

It will mean wiping out seven villages and one larger town in the 47-mile stretch between Cornwall and Prescott and moving those communities to new sites. And it would require deepening of existing channels all the way from Montreal to Lake Ontario, as well as the Welland Canal and other canals all the way up to Lake Superior.

All in Canadian waters: Map shows how Canada plans to build controversial St. Lawrence River Seaway all alone. Lack of U. S. participation would put entire project north of border.

For bigger ships: Welland Canal locks on Canadian side of the Great Lakes, like this one, would be deepened as part of St. Lawrence Seaway to let ocean-going ships pass through.

Development of the waterpower at the International Rapids still would require approval of the International Joint Commission, which handles all water problems along the U.S.-Canadian border.

There has been no U.S. decision as to whether the federal or the state government would handle power development on the American side of the rapids, and hearings on that phase of the project may mean a delay of at least 18 months.

Canada's decision for a solo project is not exactly new. Such plans are understood to have been ready for about two years, but not put into operation because of hope the U. S. would ratify the 1941 treaty for the seaway.

Now Canadian opinion has stiffened in the face of U.S. opposition, and legislation for an all-Canadian seaway is expected at the current session of Parliament.

The cost would be divided between the Dominion and Ontario governments, since Ontario wants the electric power from the dams.

Above the cost of the waterway itself, there will be another $33,000,000 for power development. This would be shared with New York State—if New York gets the go-ahead from the International Joint Commission.

HISTORICAL MARKERS

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—P—The Ohio Sesquicentennial Commission is thinking about marking the state's historically significant sites and buildings. Ohio observes its 150th birthday in 1953. The plan calls for having historic spots marked by them.

To make baked potatoes look attractive make a crosswise gash in the top of each when you take them from the oven, then squeeze the potatoes on each side so the pulp will fluff up. Garnish tops with sprigs of parsley.

When you want to garnish the bottom of a gelatin mold pour a thin layer of the gelatin mixture into the bottom of the mold—just enough to coat it; now arrange the garnish at the bottom of the mold and chill. Next pour the rest of the gelatin mixture into the mold and chill again until firm.

Daddy Ringtail And Gadget

The Haffen Puffin, the friendly fellow, was a very important fellow, he was very important. I am the Haffen Puffin, I am, I am, and I am a very important somebody indeed!

Chicagoan Crusades With Music In His Living Room

CHICAGO (NEA)—Don't go near Oscar Lohner's apartment unless you like opera. The guy is an unofficial, unpaid, unstopable salesman of grand opera. Anybody who walks in the door gets a digested version of an opera thrown at him, complete with costumes, music and scenery.

Officially, Lohner gives his one-man performances in his living room every other week. They attract quite an audience, because he is the only one-man opera company in a 14-room apartment on Chicago's southside. Also, he is a very informative and entertaining person.

Lohner is a big, jovial man of 50. During the day, he is an interpreter for his airline. At night, though, his other side comes out and he is an opera. Not just one character; Lohner is a whole opera all by his big, jovial self.

One corner of his living room is transformed into a miniature stage, equipped with colored lights and curtains and a set. The set is backed up by a big painting of the scene, and on the stage Lohner places a few props necessary to the action.

Audience Seated
The audience—friends and sometimes visiting dignitaries—are seated, and Lohner disappears into the bedroom where he changes into costume.

He comes out in different clothes and a different mood. He is no longer Oscar, the host. He is now Lohner, the opera. He begins by describing the opera he is presenting. With vivid actions and insertions of humor and/or despair, he tells the story act by act, scene by scene, aria by aria.

Then he darts behind the curtain to start the phonograph. Long-playing records of the night's opera are ready. The overture begins.

While the music plays and the recorded stars perform, Lohner acts out the part and translates the singing into English. He loves and laughs and sobs and, sometimes, drops dead. It is very authentic.

Some of his audience come back for performance after performance. They have contributed scenery, draperies and props to his living room. La Scala, Lohner varies his performances; his repertoire includes dozens of operas, but his favorites are Rigoletto, Faust and Tosca.

There is a real crusade behind what Lohner calls his "Home Opera Club." It is designed simply to give people a better understanding of grand opera.

"No amount of labor, effort, cost, study or time," he says, "can deter me from my battle in behalf of that almost unknown stepchild, opera. Once the plots underlying the individual operas are known to the average American, the language barrier will be at least half-raised."

Opera stars he's met in his airline capacity—Metropolitan singers like Ferruccio Tagliavini and Italo Tajo—have praised his efforts. Dr. George Cuneo, the Italian consul in Chicago, wrote in Lohner's guest book.

"To the kind Mr. Oscar, with my admiration for his most vivid passion for art."

Vivid is the right word for Oscar Lohner.

To bring up the pile after you have shampooed upholstery fabric, brush against the nap with a soft brush when the material is nearly dry. To shampoo, use a mild, cool, stiff lather, a stiff brush and a circular motion, working over a small area and taking care that the fabric does not get wet through. Scrape off suds, then wipe with a clean, damp sponge. Allow upholstery to dry thoroughly before using.

All-Time High In Liquor Sales Seen

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP)—State Liquor Director William C. Bryant predicts the department's net profit will hit an all-time high of $20 million this year. Ohioans buy liquor through a system of state liquor stores. Bryant says 1951 sales should run between $170 million and $175 million. The previous record profit was $16,943,364 in 1947 on a total sales of $137,928,157.

PAINLESS METHOD
BUTTE, MONTANA (AP)—A 50-year-old miner never thought he'd live to see the day when jail looked good to him. His hotel was destroyed by fire and four persons perished. "Boy, am I lucky," he said. "I made the jail last night on a drunk charge, otherwise I'd have been in there."

Surgery Is Most Modern Treatment For Varicose Veins

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Although varicose veins and varicose ulcers primarily are diseases of the middle and later years of life, younger people are also sometimes troubled with these conditions. Standing on the feet a great deal, overweight, childbirth, chronic constipation, the wearing of tight bands around the legs or hips, all probably contribute somewhat to the development of varicose veins. Here then, as in so many other disorders of mankind, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The veins near the surface of the body all have folds or valves which prevent the blood from flowing the wrong way. They are especially important in the legs. The pressure on the valves in the veins of the legs especially is great and they often are broken. When this happens the necessary support is lessened and the vein becomes swollen. It is these swollen blood vessels which are called varicose veins.

Swollen veins are unsightly and women especially dread them for this reason almost as much as for the complications they may produce.

People who have varicose veins are more likely to have swollen feet or ankles than those with normal veins. Also the poor circulation brought about by varicose veins can produce ulcers. Such ulcers sometimes become enormous, and cause open sores.

Successful Treatment
Several ways of treating varicose veins and ulcers have had much success. The use of elastic bandages which support the widened and enlarged varicose veins is, of course, an old remedy and helpful in many cases.

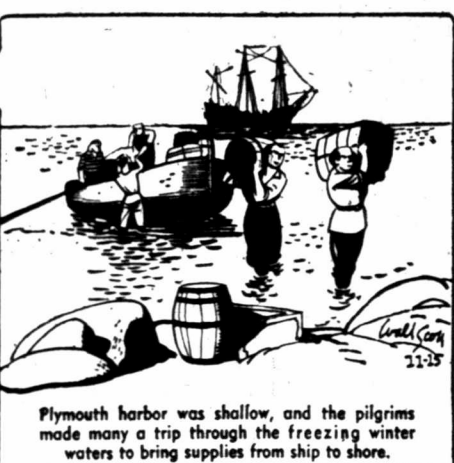

Varicose veins often are removed by surgery. Injections for varicose veins have been used for many years. These act by closing the opening of the varicose vein entirely so that the blood must flow through some other vein which is normal or lies deeper in the tissue. At present, surgery seems to be becoming more popular as a treatment and injections less so.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

Meanwhile, the colonists worked unceasingly to build the town of Plymouth.

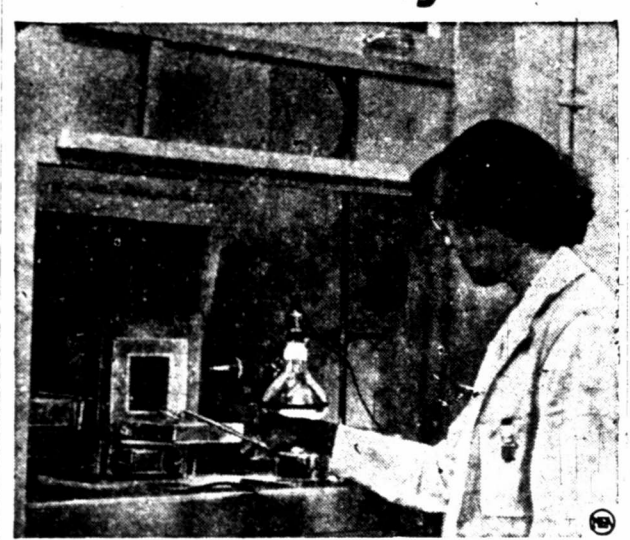

Plymouth harbor was shallow, and the pilgrims made many a trip through the freezing winter waters to bring supplies from ship to shore.

This constant exposure led to the "General Sickness," a virulent form of tuberculosis. More than half the colonists died.

Foot-Thick Concrete Walls Are Featured Of New Lab Using Radioactive Isotopes

This is the issue room where skilled technicians distribute them as needed. They go from one room to the other through chambers with inch-thick lead doors.

BOSTON (NEA)—The atomic age may not be here yet, but already it has influenced one new building in Boston.

The New England Deaconess Hospital built a new Cancer Research Clinic, where radioactive material is being used for research. And because of the dangers of working with things radioactive, the structure has some unique architectural features.

Radioactive isotopes—the material used in cancer research—is shipped in from Oak Ridge, Tenn.

First Seven Million Words Are Hardest

PT. MADISON, IOWA (AP)—Take it from a pair of pen and pencil writing twins: the first seven million words are the hardest.

Each day each sister writes more than 7,000 words and figures to test writing equipment, manufactured by the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Company.

The Williams sisters were troubled with writer's cramp during the first few months they worked. But six months and seven million words later, they reported they were no longer bothered by arm or hand cramps.

Trapped In Wreck, He Frees Himself

MINOT, N. D.—A motorist, Ray Etzler, pinned beneath his overturned truck, jacked up and freed himself all by his lonesome.

The Butte, N. D., man was driving with his wife and small daughter when the truck overturned on a slippery road. Etzler was thrown from the machine and pinned under the overturned truck.

Etzler managed to get a hand free and reached the jack he carried in the truck. With his one free hand, he carefully jacked the machine off his body high enough to allow him to escape. He then freed his wife and daughter.

In this room the radioactive isotopes are prepared.

It first goes to the preparation room, where it is stored in a massive concrete vault with a lead door.

It is here that the isotopes are prepared for use. Skilled personnel take the highly-concentrated material and dilute it into required strengths. Then they put it in storage chambers—enclosed with inch-thick lead doors—inside stainless steel containers.

Open At Both Ends
These storage chambers are pass-through compartments. They open at both ends. The other end is in the Issue Room, where the radioactive isotopes are distributed as needed.

Perhaps the biggest problem facing the clinic's designers was how to get rid of waste isotopes. Previously, they'd always been buried in the earth or carried out to sea and sunk in places where they would be covered with silt.

But the laboratory, enclosed in 12-inch-thick concrete, is located in the hospital's basement. It was deliberately placed close to the sewer system. Contaminated waste can thus be sent directly into the sewer without being carried through pipes inside the building.

Before it reaches the main sewer system, however, the waste goes through a careful de-contaminating process. All active materials are first combined with inactive materials. Then they are diluted.

PROBLEM FURNITURE

If you have a problem chair or divan that because of its bulk appears ungainly and awkward, consider bringing it down to proportion by clever use of fabric and style in a new slipcover. Dark colors, plain fabrics, make a piece look smaller, as do clean, uncluttered styles. If you wish to add apparent size, try the effect of light colors, splashy patterns and full valances.

Slim Czech Refugee's Life Spells Meaning Of Freedom

By ANNE LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—The word freedom is, to many Americans, rather like the heirloom silver. It's valued, it's safeguarded, but it's seldom used except for special occasions like the Fourth of July when it's brought out for polish and display.

"The danger inherent in this complacent attitude is strikingly pointed up by the experiences of a young refugee from Czechoslovakia, now a student in America.

This slim, young blonde, whom we shall call Maria for safety's sake, is still in her twenties, yet she has encompassed within her lifetime enough national history to fill a textbook, according to spokesmen at the New York office of Crusade of Freedom, where she volunteered her services during the past Summer.

Her personal history of tribulation began when she was 13, with Hitler's occupation of her country. Shortly thereafter, the situation became serious for her parents, who refused to embrace the Volkduetche propaganda larded out by the Nazis. As the result of this "stubbornness," Maria stated, her father was divested of most of his business and personal holdings. It was necessary to leave Prague and to settle in their country home in Klatovy, a village near the German border.

A young teen-ager, Maria was just beginning to adjust to this new way of living when she was deported to Germany for slave labor. There, in a Junker Aircraft plant, her late-adolescent physical growth was nourished by a breakfast of warm water, a lunch of potatoes and turnips mashed together, and an evening meal of two slices of bread or sometimes nothing. Perhaps eight times in two years the laborers were treated to meat.

The years which most girls spend in developing their latent femininity, and in pursuing trivial youthful pursuits, Maria spent as a welder or as a plumber, working 12 hours a day then marching back to the barracks to lay her weary, smooth-shaved head upon a louse-ridden bunk for fitful sleep.

When occupying Allied forces liberated the laborers, Maria returned to her parents' home in Freedom is a prayer, not a word, in homeland of this Czechoslovakian girl who managed to escape from fear.

Klatovy. There she found American officers billeted in her house, and through them, she obtained work for a time as an interpreter.

When schools were again disrupted, she continued her disrupted education, making up a whole year's work in five months. At the age of 21 she graduated from the Gymnasium, and then entered Charles University in Prague, where she identified herself with the anti-Communist faction.

When the Russians took over the occupation of Prague, she was among the many students who were dropped from university rolls because of their political beliefs. Many of these former students were sent to coal mines. Maria was lucky. She managed to obtain a job in Prague, in a metallurgical plant. As secretary in the purchasing department she was able, from time to time, to pick up small bits of information that were useful to anti-Communist groups.

Maria's small part in the resistance movement was sufficiently important to interest Russian authorities.

She was called in for questioning 28 times, she says, for periods ranging from her nine-hour session to brief interrogations lasting perhaps half an hour.

It was one morning, not long after she had reported for work at her usual hour of 7:25 a.m., that a member of the resistance group with which she worked called to warn her of the imminent arrest. That day, of Maria and two other underground members. She had to get out of the country immediately.

Feigning illness, Maria journeyed home to prepare for this journey into the unknown. Her first task was to burn letters, address books, pictures—anything that would link her with anyone at all when the inevitable police search came.

Then, for luggage, she packed a knapsack—a sandwich, an extra sweater, another pair of shoes. She dared not say good-bye even to her family, since the knowledge of her leaving would have made them accomplices of a dangerous political enemy.

The crossing of the border, through the Bohemian forest, was a nightmare adventure in the company of two other young anti-Communists. At 7:30 p.m. they began making their way on foot, through the dark unknown woods, until they were sure at last that they had reached Germany and freedom.

It is her vision of the meaning of this word that has given Maria the courage to go on—through the overcrowding and despair of the DP camp in Munich, and through her uncertainty while she waited for the International Refugee Organization to arrange the American scholarship that brought her to Barat College in this country.

Brass Outnumbers Enlisted Personnel

XENIA, OHIO.—(P)—The brass outnumbered the enlisted men at nearby Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

The Public Information Officer says there were 3,900 enlisted men there at last count. Officers numbered 4,450 and civilian workers 24,850. Every two weeks the base hands out $3,800,000 in payroll checks.

Christmas Meal Needs Radiance

Grapefruit poinssetta is delicate touch for Yuletide dinner.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Santa Claus is always chubby. But he seems to be happy about it. However, too many people get up from the Christmas family dinner feeling fatter than St. Nick but nowhere near as happy.

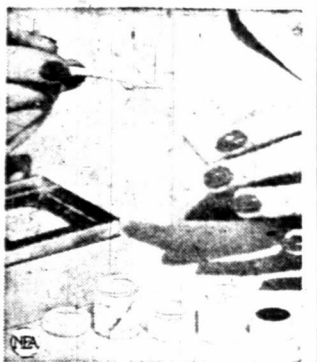

The answer—they dine wisely but not too well. Plum pudding and mince pie with cheese at the end of a procession. Oyster soup to begin with, then turkey basting with chestnuts, giblet gravy and cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes rich and fluffy, Brussels sprouts and onions agleam with butter.

Good, isn't it? It is a little heavy, you'll admit.

But how about getting in some

Compact Cylinder Is Cosmetic Case

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
Probably the woman doesn't exist who hasn't wished, at one time or another, for a portable dressing table. The conventional make-up kit fixtures—lipstick, rouge and powder—are fine as far as they go. But the difficulty is, they don't do as complete a job of perk-up worn and weary feminine beauty as is sometimes desirable.

A complete make-up job is possible, even away from home, with this handy cylinder of take-apart sections for cosmetics necessities. Compartments screw together for compact carrying in purse.

This cylinder, which isn't much bigger than your thumb when assembled, is actually five small cosmetic jars, all screwed together for the sake of compactness.

Take it apart, and you're all set for a thorough fresh-up job, beginning with the removal of your stale make-up with the cleansing cream that's contained in one section.

In addition to cleansing cream, there's foundation, night cream (for travelers who dislike being burdened with jars), rouge and a section for your own face powder. The last is conveniently closed with a sifter top.

New 1952 Model De Soto To Go On Display Here Friday

The 1952 De Soto, a finely designed and engineered automobile with a host of features that make it one of the most beautiful, comfortable, economical, and safest cars in America, will go on display Friday at Mid-West Motor Company here.

A sparkling array of new two-tone color combinations give this latest De Soto model a fresh beauty and the newest of modern fabrics—Nylons as well as wine woolens—lend a touch of high fashion to the car's interior. There are 13 body colors to choose from plus five two-tone combinations.

The De Soto qualities of driving ease, smooth riding, steady, certain braking, operating economy, and engine power are present in the 1952 model in full measure, officials said.

The hood ornament has been redesigned and the De Soto name on the hood is in single block letters instead of the previous joined script.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The National Canasta Laws Commission met recently to discuss the interpretation of various laws of Canasta and of Samba. That makes it possible for me to answer a question that several readers have asked. I knew that some of the members of the lawmaking body thought one way about this question, while others thought just the opposite way. So there was no point in answering the question until we had all agreed on the answer.

Suppose you are playing Samba and that your partner melds 6-5-4 of spades. Later in the same hand, one of you melds 10-9-8 of spades. Can those two melds be joined into a single sequence with a seven of spades?

The official answer is that the two sequences may be joined. Mind you, this is possible only when the completed meld is not more than seven cards in length. In the game of Samba, a sequence may never contain more than seven cards.

The situation may arise in actual play when one side is obviously trying very hard to meld out in a hurry. For example, suppose your opponents are playing for out, and that your partner has melded 6-5-4 of spades early in the play. You hold, among other goodies, J-10-9-8 of spades. What should you do?

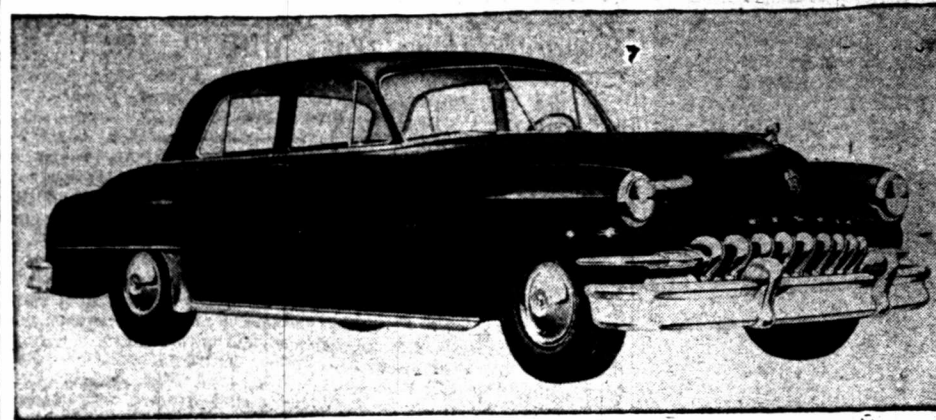

You put down the 10-9-8 of spades, but not the jack. If your partner has the seven, he can join the two melds into a samba, but he would not be able to do so if you had put down your jack, since then the combined meld would contain eight cards.

The advantage of making this small meld is that your partner has a chance to make the samba at his very next turn. For all you can tell, you may not get another turn to play (since the opponent at your right may meld out before the play gets back to you). It may therefore be very important to give your partner this immediate opportunity.

Let's carry this situation a bit farther. Suppose the hand keeps going for a play or two even though both opponents are trying very hard to meld out. Your partner doesn't put down a seven of spades, and you can't do the trick either. Now you pick up the king and ace of spades. What should you do now?

At this point you may well decide to abandon the seven of spades. The samba can be made if your partner has the queen of spades. It may pay to put down the jack of spades, thus inviting your partner to add the queen if he has it.

To blanch green peppers before stuffing them for the main course for lunch or supper, cook the peppers five minutes in boiling salted water. Spanish rice, with small pieces of crisp bacon, makes a good filling for the peppers.

NEW 1952 MODEL DE SOTO—The Mid-West Motor Company Friday will display the new 1952 model De Soto, a finely designed and engineered automobile with a host of new features. The new line provides a wide choice of body models. The De Soto Custom four-door sedan is pictured.

MAKE YOUR OWN AUTUMN—A novel method of reproducing autumn's beautiful foliage is demonstrated above by Dick Kleber of the Boston Museum of Science. To make colorful leaf prints, you rub artist's oil paint onto a leaf placed against a piece of newspaper; work the paint thoroughly into the leaf, out to its edges and smooth over the surface; place paint-covered side of leaf against a piece of good-quality paper, and press several thicknesses of newspaper against it. The result, as seen above, will be an exact duplicate of the leaf with all its identifying lines in full color.

Winners Of First Go-Round In Feeding Contest Announced

PECOS—Winners of the first go-round in the Reeves county 4-H Club calf and lamb feeding contests were announced by County Agent Jimmy Taylor. At least three more judgments will ensue before finalists are selected. Gold cups have been donated by a business firm to be presented to the winners. A boy must win the cup three times before he is permitted to keep it permanently, Taylor stated.

Joe Campbell of Pecos won the lamb-feeding contests last Spring, while George Boyd, also of Pecos, took first in calf-feeding.

Different judges will grade the animals, and 4-H members will be given no advance warning of the inspection tours. Taylor explained efforts are being made to recognize those boys who are working hardest.

Winners of the first go-round, all with a possible $5,000 points, are: All From Pecos Calf-feeding — Otis Lee Henson, 1,535; Billy Joe Needles, 1,528; and Joe Campbell, 1,494. All are from Pecos.

Lamb-feeding — Darlene Ellison, Balmorhea, 1,463; Joe Campbell, 1,445, and Doug and Mary Dale Miller, 1,440.

Judges added that judging is based upon cleanliness of feed lot facilities, availability of fresh feed at all times, availability of clean, cool water, placing of the animal in the Pecos Spring Show, and a written record of financial statement of the year's work.

ASIATIC BRIDE

SINGAPORE—P— Arthur Janzen, Dutch Vice-consul here, married Siamese Princess Puckpring Pramoj at The Netherlands consulate-general office. Janzen and his bride now are enroute to The Hague where he will take up a new diplomatic assignment.

Green lima beans, snap beans, whole-kernel corn, and diced carrots and celery in a rich cream sauce make a delicious vegetable dish to serve with a roast of beef for a company dinner.

Bracero Complaints 'Just Homesickness'

PECOS—Most complaints registered against farmers by Mexican national laborers stem from the fact that the braceros "just want to go back home," said Earl J. Freeman, Pecos liaison officer with the U. S. Employment Service.

Freeman, who opened his arbitration office here in October to investigate all complaints by farmers and braceros, said most of the complaints are "really unjust." He indicated that under the international agreement, braceros must be returned to Mexico upon request regardless of whether they submit a reason for going.

Many farmers are not too happy with their labor relationships, Freeman said. This is due largely to the fact that most braceros are not familiar with their contracts. They have never been told what was expected of them. For this reason, "farmers haven't received complete cooperation."

Taught To Pick
A large percentage of the Mexican Nationals have never had cotton experience prior to coming here, Freeman continued. Some farmers have even gone to the extent of hiring men to teach the braceros the fundamentals of cotton-picking.

Freeman said it is not uncommon to find Mexican bookkeepers and professors among the laborers sent here as cotton-pickers.

So far, only five formal complaints have been filed against farmers. These were described by Freeman as "routine."

The liaison officer estimated there are 6,500 braceros working on farms in Reeves, Ward and Loving Counties. Hundreds have been returned to Mexico because they were unaccustomed to the colder weather.

Freeman said he hopes that in the future a vice consul or some representative of the Mexican government, will be stationed here to help handle the ever-increasing problems provoked by expanding crop acreage.

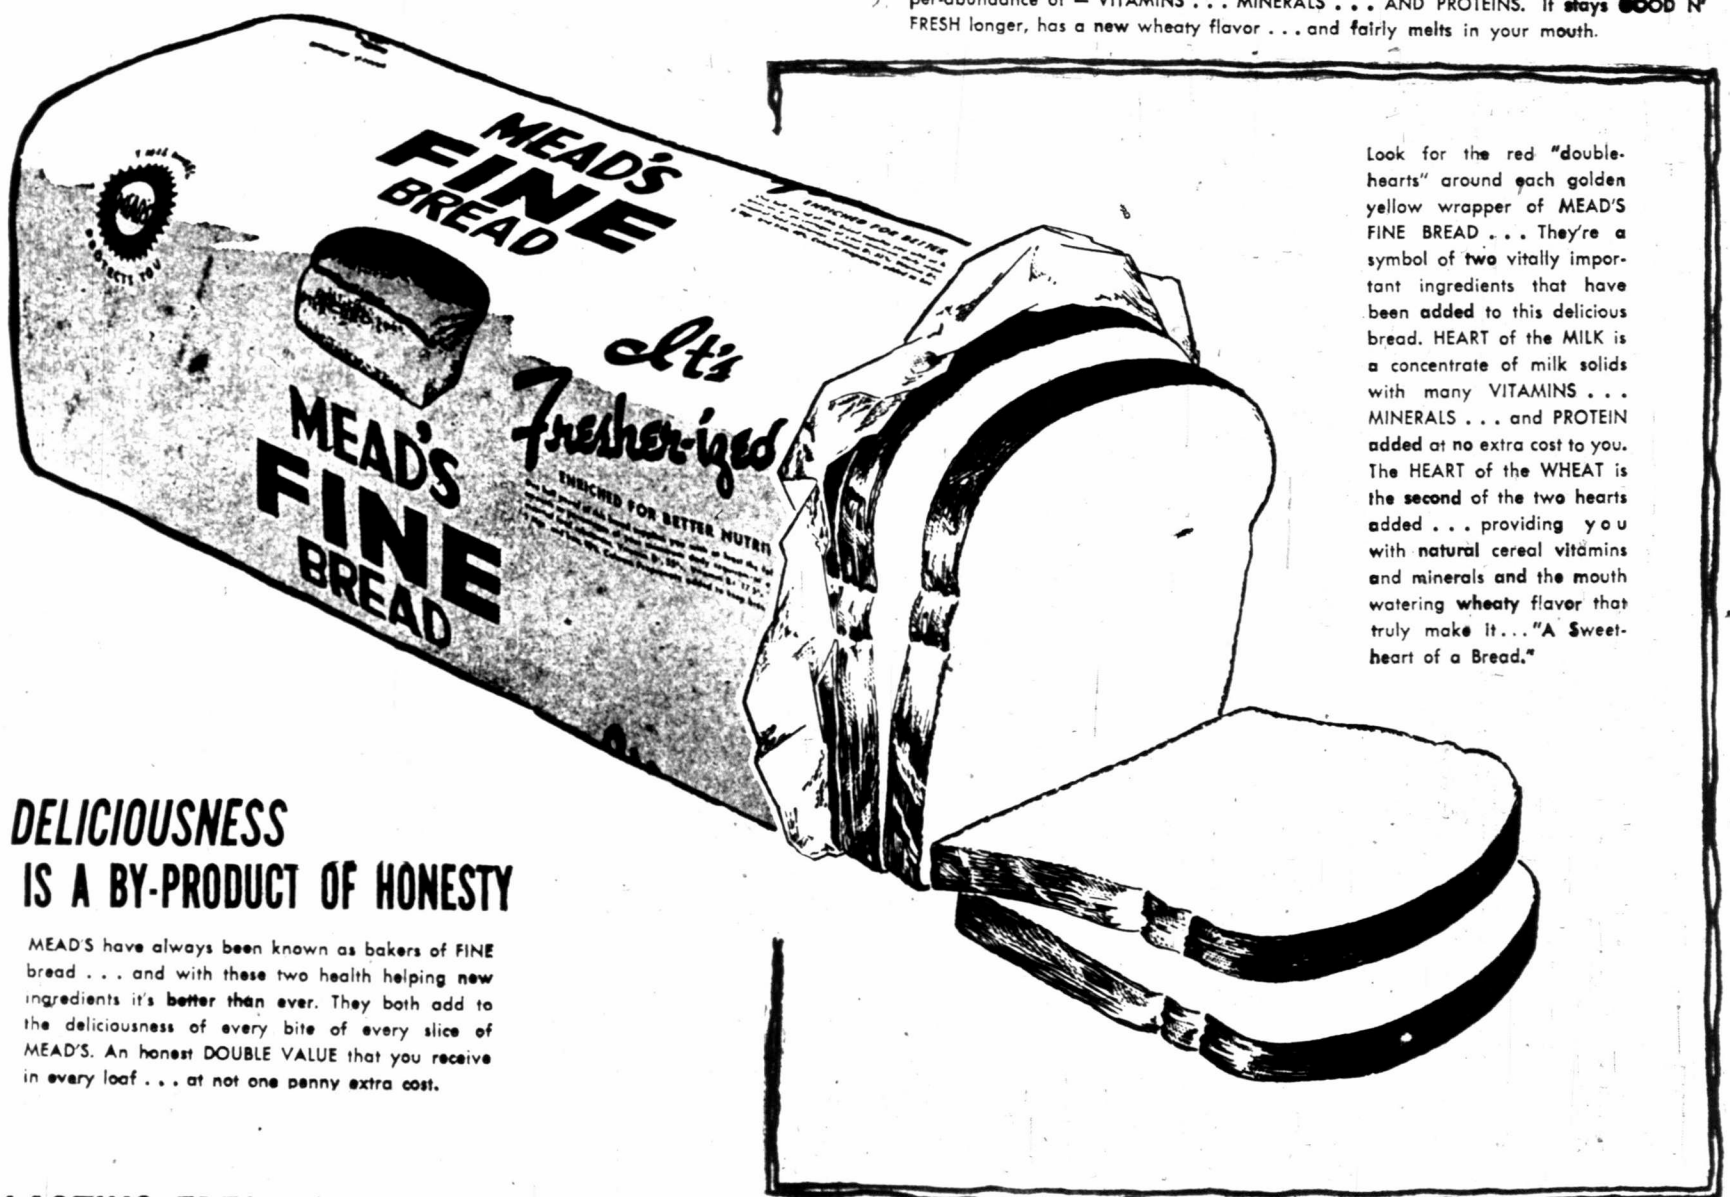

B. A. Tulliver, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office here, said about 500 U. S. domestic workers are helping with the current cotton harvest—a ratio of about 13 braceros to every domestic worker.
