BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

On Friday and Saturday nights, March 2 and 3, the Hico Tigers were present at a basketball tournament held in Hamilton. Boys and girls both did some fine playing, thought by many to be the best they have put forth this year. The first night Blue Ridge and Hico met for two fast games. The boys' game was a close one. The Tigers managed to come out in the lead at the end with a 31-25 victory. The Hico girls swamped Blue Ridge 21-7.

The second night found Hamilton and Hico clashing. Competition was heightened by the fact that the county seat and our own city have always been close rivals. The girls fought hard but lost by two points. The final score was 9-11. The Bulldogs gained the top side of the score at the beginning of the boys' game and not until the last quarter were the Tigers able to stack up a lead of points. Near the finish of the game, Hico came out with some good teamwork and the victory was ours. The final score was 26-28.

SENIOR NEWS

Jimmie Thompson, a graduate of H. H. S. last year, visited in Hamilton Friday. Jimmie is attending N. T. S. T. C. and advises all of us to study hard, for college is Mr. O' snap. And we better be safe when sorry, according to Jimmie. Milton Rainwater, an ex-classmate of the Seniors, visited in Hico this week end. He is stationed with the I. R. T. C. at Camp Good. Milton has just recently been inducted into the Armed Forces and was sent to Hood after a short assignment at Fort Sam Houston. His old friends were glad to see him looking well and happy.

STUDENT AND FACULTY OPINION

The Public's Eye View has brought a variety of opinions. Below are the personal expressions of a student and a teacher. The student is a Senior girl. Her opinion is given first.

It is only natural that when girls reach a certain stage in life, their attentions become centered on boys. Likewise, the same is true of boys about girls. Usually this occurs sometime during their high school career.

It is necessary that girls and boys know what to talk about when they are together and that they treat each other with respect at all times.

A girl should not be over aggressive in associating with boys, as they rarely like a girl who is "boy crazy."

Boys should make their dates ahead of time. Occasionally, a date at the last minute is a nice surprise; but when it happens frequently, a girl does not appreciate it. When a boy calls for a girl, he should go to the door, and should never hunk for her.

A boy will always think more of a girl if she asks him to call for her at home and introduces him to her parents. A boy should know how to carry on an intelligent conversation with a girl's parents. She can often learn a great deal about a boy when others are present that may be difficult to learn when she is alone with him.

It is not always necessary that a boy spend a lot of money to have an enjoyable time. It is very considerate of a girl, if she knows that the boy does not have very much money, to suggest that they do things which do not cost anything, such as playing cards or games at home or going out for a walk.

The girl who goes in for petting without real love not only cheapens herself, but she learns little else about boys. Similarly, this is true of the boy. Real love is a sacred thing.

"The Rains Came" would be a good nomination for the movie of the week. Drenching showers have dampened the spirits of the most cheerful. Yes, all this and report cards, too. As those little headaches were handed out, downcast faces told the sad, sad story. All of which leads up to the yarn about the H. H. S. student who said his mother always got c-sick when she looked at his report card, that is—until D-Day.

There's nothing like giving credit where credit is due. We might have said that before; somehow, it has a distinctly familiar ring. But repetition is the best means of impressing an idea. ## Dear Adults (especially parents of teen-agers):

Yours is the most responsible position in ours or any community today. You're the mamas and the daddys of the greatest coming generation the world has yet to see— we know they're the greatest because the greatest world society will be resting on their shoulders, and they're going to be big enough to carry the whole load. They're going to be able to assume that responsibility because you've prepared them for it.

Parents and other adults, are we really helping them to meet life squarely and wholly in "the face"? Are we setting examples that you'd be ashamed for your children to copy? The power of imitation is probably the strongest teacher today, yet we're sometimes prone to expect products of a higher quality than the patterns set for them to live by.

Let's work together—all of us—to provide wholesome working environment, wholesome home atmosphere, and wholesome leisure time activity. You know life for all of us can be very fine, beautiful, and exciting if we live to the future with high hopes. Let's remember that a helping hand does more than a slap in the face toward achieving the aims and goals we set for ourselves and others.

After bitter fighting, the U. S. marines established a large beach-head on Iwo Jima near Suribachi airfield. Iwo Jima, containing ideal airfields is one of a series of island stepping stones to Japan. The Japs are reported to have fortified mountain caves. The original 20,000 troops in the landing party expect to have a tough struggle. Iwo Jima is 750 miles from Tokyo.

How about drawing a truce Youth and Adults? Haven't we waged enough open battle simply by completely ignoring each other long enough? Let's get together and hash out our problems by being friends.

Put yourself in his shoes

Suppose there weren't money enough to bring your child into the world? Pvt. R.'s wife told him she was going to have a baby. There wasn't enough money to pay for medical care. Helpless, Pvt. R. appealed to the Red Cross. They assisted his wife in applying for emergency maternity and infant care.

Suppose you were wounded... Imagine the anxiety of the parents of Pvt. E. D., who had had no word from him in months. The Red Cross sent a welfare inquiry. And then the International Red Cross reported he was healthy and well, and was receiving American Red Cross packages regularly.

Suppose you were dying for want of blood plasma? Shrapnel riddled Sgt. R. J. M.'s left arm. He was losing blood fast. A medical corpsman administered first aid and Red Cross blood plasma. Then they carried him to the field station and gave him 8 more pints of plasma. Without it, he would have died.

Suppose you lost your leg? And you couldn't tell your family? It happened to Sgt. J. T. and now his pals are coming to see him in the hospital. He appealed to a Red Cross worker to break the news. She did... and soon Mom was holding his hand while Dad was telling funny stories—and Sgt. J. T. was happy.

The Red Cross can't do this work without your help! The actual cases outlined above illustrate just a few of the thousands of ways in which the Red Cross helps our fighting men—at home and overseas. But without your help there would be no Red Cross. For the Red Cross is wholly dependent on the money that you and other sympathetic Americans contribute. Think of the suffering you can alleviate by your contribution—and give all you can!

VICTORY GARDENS

It is time to be planning your victory garden. Check-ups among seed companies indicate that we are far behind last year in buying seeds.

Last fall, when it looked as though the European war was about over, and after the farmers had broken all records for food production, a 1945 victory garden didn't appear to be of great importance.

Every family which has the space should aim at supplying its own food requirements for next winter. By doing that we may be able to avoid a major food shortage in our own country if farm production should fall off.

MIDNIGHT CURFEW

The federal order closing all places of entertainment at midnight is probably a good thing. Particularly in the cities it will help to prevent absenteeism in war factories.

By avoiding the true explanation for the order, we feel the government officials involved showed a dangerous lack of confidence in the people.

The Liquid Diet

By Dr. J. B. Warren

Foods must be reduced to liquids before they can be digested and absorbed, hence a prepared liquid food is more easily handled by the system than one that is solid.

THIS AND THAT

By JOE SMITH DYER

AS IT HAPPENED:

Reasonably fair, plump, and slightly over forty, a healthy, tidy, capable woman with seven years experience as a secretary, yet she could not find a job.

Another woman snugly secure in the position of personnel manager had given her opinion as that of the business world in general.

The employment carina then tore up the application form the woman had filled in and threw it in the waste basket and advised the applicant not to waste any more time.

BLOOD DONOR:

A small delicate-looking little man came into the Oakland, California, Red Cross Blood Donor station and stood patiently in line, waiting his time at the desk.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL:

Daily for half a century Mrs. Harry Coleby of Blagdon, England, has dusted off her husband's casket. It is a part of her daily household work.

OVER-POLITENESS:

Anyone will agree that it is very unwise to be impolite, but too much politeness is just as bad.

While riding on a railroad train one time I heard a very heated argument that will illustrate my point. The train conductor was trying to collect full-fare on a half-fare passenger and here's the story:

"But excuse me, lady," said the conductor. "Your little boy is certainly over twelve."

Angry in consequence of so suggestive a remark about her age, the mother replied: "Do I look to be the mother of a twelve-year-old child?"

Naturally the conductor was somewhat puzzled and also a little mad, but he was extremely polite.

Yes, the conductor was very polite because here is what he said in the way of a come-back at the woman:

"Madam, don't tell me that you are the little boy's grandmother."

Politeness very often is an opportunity to say something with a double meaning. Only you're supposed to say it softly.

AFTER I had finished reading "Excuse My Dust" by Bellamy Part-ette, I realized how far the progress in automobiles has gone since they first were placed on the market.

Forty years ago people were actually afraid of an automobile. They despised its noise. Its bad smell and all its dangers.

And today—those very same people who were opposed to speed are driving their own cars at a pretty fast clip, despite the fact that many of them are well over the 75-year mark.

Too much speed is bad, of course, but sometimes it's necessary or else you're left far, far behind.

The most disastrous wars in history were the result of trivial causes.

Now We Know the Meaning of 'Logistics'

By ELLIOTT PINE

An important official of the Office of Defense Transportation told a delegation of baseball owners.

"Heck, we want to see you continue playing ball. We hope all leagues have good seasons. I'll keep the fans home on week-ends to see ball games."

Gabby Hartnett, big league catcher and former manager of the Chicago Cubs, rolled 297 in a major league. The hit opponent bowled a perfect 300 a few weeks later, when Gabby was absent on a hunting trip.

Gabby wants a return match. Frank Gotch, the wrestler, won 154 of his 168 contests. His six defeats were dealt by Dan McLeod, Farmer Burns, Tom Jenkins (three times), and Frank Beall.

The Detroit Red Wings have been beaten only twice on their home ice since 1942: a record for other pro hockey clubs to shoot at. Harry Stuhldreher, the Wisconsin U. football coach, thinks that hockey and lacrosse should be included in college sports programs whenever possible.

Bobby Bragan of the Dodgers was the National League's most versatile player last season. He caught 35 games, played shortstop in 51, third base in six, and second base in one.

Sammy Byrd, who recently took the Texas open golf tournament, defeating Byron Nelson by one stroke, is a former Yankee outfielder. Only girls' and women's events will be scheduled for the Pacific coast ice skating championship contests in Berkeley, Calif. All eligible men have gone to war.

New Swim Champ

Billy Kelly, star of the undefeated swimming team of North Carolina university, who has just broken three American records, the 150-meter individual medley; 100-meter breast stroke and the 50-meter breast stroke. He also holds the national junior 100-yard free style.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Clifton of Stephenville were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hyles Thursday of last week.

Mrs. W. S. Norris and daughter, Ida Fay, and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Jones of Blackland A. A. F. at Waco were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McAnelly, Mrs. Vernon Jones and baby Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. McPherson, who is ill, has been going to the Dublin Hospital for medical treatment several times this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Ballard and children of Lanham visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hyles, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bennett and children of Hamilton spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Bennett.

Well, folks, at this writing I understand that President Roosevelt is getting ready to introduce another nominee to the House and you know what that means.

If some of us don't go up there and close all the windows we are liable to find ourselves with a lot of broken-legged congressmen on our hands.

I feel sure that all of you feel the same way as I do about it and we just don't want that kind of a thing to happen. It's bad enough to have to "fall them up" when the grazing gets short.

Of course most of all of us folks poke a little bit of fun at them every now and then, but you gotta admit that they're a pretty good sort of fellows to have around once in a while, too. It may be that if we work easy with them we can get them to do away with a lot of those Departments that keep all of us wrapped up in Red Tape all the time.

Why, the dickens! It's getting to where there are so many Departments in Washington that we don't know which one to file our complaints with, and none of them seems to know which department has the authority to do anything about it.

Maybe the very first office you come to will be very attentive as you pour out your troubles to them and as the tears trickle down your cheeks you begin to feel like at last you are among friends.

But when you have concluded, what do you hear? "We are very sorry, Sir, but this matter should be submitted to Department So-and-So."

Then the music goes around and around. You find yourself up against a bunch of shrewd players in a game of "Button, Button, who's got the Button?"

Sometimes I wonder if they didn't get that "Running the Gauntlet" idea from the American Indians. And last, but not least try filling out one of their questionnaires and then try cutting on "Paper Dolls" and see for yourself which has the most merit.

Perry L. Maxwell, Former Hico Citizen, Dies At Hamilton

Perry L. Maxwell, 70, prominent in business and civic affairs in Hamilton County for many years, died at his home at 514 East Henry St., Hamilton, Monday following a long illness.

Funeral services were held at the First Presbyterian Church in that city at 3 p. m. Tuesday, with Dr. R. W. Hall, pastor of the church, as the officiating minister. Interment was made in the Graves-Gentry Cemetery in Hamilton.

Perry Love Maxwell was born at Whigham, Ga., December 2, 1874 and came with his parents to Texas, settling at Hico when he was 15 years of age. He had lived in Hamilton County since that time. He was married to Miss Mary Katherine Connolly in 1895. One of their three children, a son, Robert L. Maxwell, died about two years ago. The other two, Lt. Perry C. Maxwell of the U. S. Navy, whose home is in Graham, and Mrs. Hogue Williams of Hamilton, together with their mother, survive Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. Maxwell was an active business man in Hamilton County for fifty years. Part of that time he was associated with Connolly & Co., and later he owned his own business. He was the first dealer for the Ford Motor Company in Hamilton and was associated with other business enterprises until ill health forced his retirement two years ago.

An elder in the Presbyterian Church, Mr. Maxwell's life was always to be accounted on the side of righteousness and good citizenship. He had many friends.

Surviving besides the members of the family mentioned above are three sisters: Mrs. W. C. McCurdy of Purcell, Okla., Mrs. H. B. Woods of Lubbock, and Mrs. A. D. McFatter of Dallas.

A large number of out-of-town friends and relatives attended the funeral service.—Hamilton Herald-News.

Mrs. Sam Tudor Jr. spent the week end visiting relatives in Fort Worth and Dallas. She accompanied her nephew and niece, Melvin and Lt. Naomi Jones, who have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Jones at Hamilton. Naomi was on her way to Topeka, Kansas, while in Fort Worth Mrs. Tudor visited an aunt, Mrs. Netter Killian; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bryant, and Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Wooten. While in Dallas she visited another uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert V. Lee.

Six-Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

The Cost of Discipleship. Lesson for March 11: Matthew 19: 16-26, 29.

Memory Verse: Matthew 16:24. Congresswoman Rankin told of a small boy who, when asked by his Sunday school teacher which he would rather be - Dives or Lazarus, replied: 'I'd rather be Dives when I'm living and Lazarus when I'm dead.' Sadly enough, he expressed what seemed to be the philosophy of the rich young man and of many others.

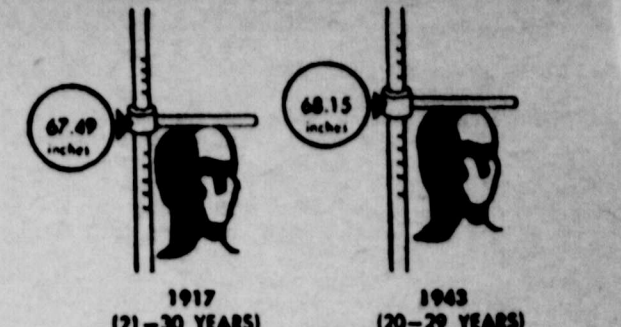

Expressing a laudable desire and claiming to have kept all the commandments, the young man went away sorrowful, indicating that he had utterly failed to live by the law of love in which Jesus summed up all the commandments.

After his departure, Jesus spoke of the difficulty of a rich man's entering the kingdom. It would be impossible for a camel to go through a needle's eye and, if there was in Jerusalem's wall a small gate known as the "Needle's Eye," as some suppose, it would have been hard enough for a camel to pass through. It is certainly hard enough for a rich man to enter the kingdom. But Jesus told the astonished disciples that with God all things are possible. With God, a rich man can overcome the "love of money," consecrate his wealth to large service, and "be saved." The cost of discipleship is great, but the reward is infinitely greater. The memory verse bids a man do more than practise a little "self-denial," so as to make, for example, a larger gift to missions - it bids him "deny himself," deny his right to do just as he pleases with his life and his possessions.

AMERICAN MEN GETTING TALLER

ACCORDING TO EXAMINATIONS AT INDUCTION STATIONS

PREDICT FURTHER PINCH IN CIVILIAN STOCKS

OFFICIAL NEEDS, DROP IN OUTPUT, AFFECT SUPPLY

Shortages Force Shift to Protein Substitutes.

As the result of a pending meat shortage, U. S. civilians, who have been eating well throughout the war, may be forced to include other protein-rich foods on their menus to help build and repair muscles, blood, nerves and other soft body tissues.

With government purchases remaining at high levels and livestock slaughtering decreasing, civilian meat consumption this year may tumble to the lowest point since 1935, when the per capita figure dropped to 116 pounds.

Tight now, the situation may become tighter still this summer, it is reported, if the government, unable to stock up on supplies during the winter months, should be compelled to enter the market later during the customary low production period to meet its needs.

With production for the first three months of 1945 down 25 per cent, and with the government taking 50 per cent of the output of federally inspected plants for the quarter, civilian consumption of meat will be down about 38 per cent for the period, the American Meat Institute reported. Whereas the public received 263,000,000 pounds weekly during the first three months of 1944, the figure has been cut to 162,000,000 pounds weekly during the corresponding period this year.

With prospects for a 38 per cent drop in production for the second quarter of this year, and weekly allotments of 151,000,000 pounds, compared with 232,000,000 for the same period in 1944, there is little hope for immediate improvement in the situation, it was said.

In connection with the decrease in meat production, the American Meat Institute declared, there will be a corresponding drop in the output of such by-products essential for war and civilian uses as leather, greases, and other materials for explosives; many medicines such as insulin, glandular extractives, adrenalin and surgical sutures.

Indicating the tight meat prospects ahead for 1945, a U. S. Department of Agriculture survey revealed that there were fewer hogs, sheep and cattle on farms on January 1, 1945, than on the same date a year before.

In the largest decline on record, hog numbers fell from the all-time high of 82,852,000 of January 1, 1944, to 60,660,000, a drop of more than 22,000,000, USDA reported.

Although less steep, the decline in sheep was appreciable, with the figure of 51,769,000 for January 1, 1944, down to 47,945,000, or a drop of 3,824,000 head.

Of the group, cattle showed the slightest decline, with the record number of 82,364,000 of January 1, 1944, down only 604,000 to 81,760,000 head. As a result of a tapering of fattening up, or finishing off, however, the greatest percentage of cattle abounding may be of the utility or short-fed type.

Ironically enough, the slump in hog and cattle numbers came in the face of the largest feed supply in 20 years, as a result of the bumper harvests of 1944. Supply per animal unit, including chicken, was 27 per cent above a year ago, the USDA reported.

Despite prospects for less and less meat for civilians during the coming weeks and months, American families need not suffer nutritionally from this shortage, with several good substitutes supplying essential proteins.

Satisfactory substitutes for meat include fish, poultry, milk, cheese (both cottage and American), eggs, mature dried peas, beans and nuts, according to nutritionists.

Milk and milk products are essential in the daily diet at any time. During the shortage extra quantities of milk and cheese can help supply protein needs. Farm families with surplus milk can make their own cottage cheese, which is equal to meat for building and repairing body tissues. Regular American Cheddar cheese ships well, so most of it goes to our armed forces.

Eggs are an excellent protein food, and dishes combining eggs and milk have a high protein rating. Eggs also can be prepared in so many different ways that they need never become monotonous.

Protein in mature dried peas and beans is not as high in quality as that in meats and other substitutes listed, but these foods can fill part of the protein needs in the diet with the others. One bean is of outstanding importance in this emergency - the edible soybean.

Protein in the soybean is almost the same in quality as that in meat. It can be prepared in all the ways other beans are used, and is also available in flour and grits which may be used in bread, puddings, cream soups, cooked breakfast cereals, vegetable casserole dishes, or to extend meat and fish dishes.

LETTERS from Readers

Hamilton, Texas March 5, 1945

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Holtford News Review, Hico, Tex.

Dear Editor and Wife: Well, this is March and if I don't fork over a little dough, the best paper in the county will come no more after the 15th. So here it is - keep the paper coming. I enjoy every issue and look for the home paper every Saturday. I am glad it has a page for the Colors, as I know a lot of the boys and knew some of them when they were in grade school - the McKeenzies, Myrtle Ash, and W. R. Linch. I am so sorry for their parents, and I hope all the boys get home.

It has been five months since I have been to Hico - a long time to me. My health is so poorly I can't go anywhere very far, but I am hoping when the weather gets pretty I will be able to come over and see everybody a few minutes, talking over old times with those I have known so long - more than 43 years.

J. C. Rodgers and I are the only ones left that attended the Baptist Church in the summer of 1901. Those who were little children then are getting grown now.

This is enough for now. Good luck to both of you, and regards to all my friends.

Respectfully, MRS. J. J. HARVEY. (Nee Mrs. Mollie Carpenter)

A Good and Poor Appetite

By Dr. J. B. Warren

A good appetite is developed by work or exercise which makes you hungry, being outdoors, because oxygen burns up wastes in the body, leaving a good space between meals. A poor appetite is developed by having meals too close together, being overtired when you eat, remaining indoors where there is less oxygen, and not exercising enough to cause natural hunger and a regular bowel movement.
