Former Hicoan Died Friday In Oklahoma; Buried Here Monday

People in Hico were surprised to learn of the death of William Austin Brown, better known here as "Pup", who passed away Friday, June 29, in a hospital in Beggs, Oklahoma, where he had been visiting his brother, Vernon Brown. While fishing early that afternoon, he suffered a heart attack, and he was taken to the hospital, where he died at 7:30 that evening.

W. A. Brown was born January 27, 1886, in Little Rock, Arkansas, and came to Hico over thirty-five years ago, where he met Adella Heffner and married her January 23, 1910. To this union were born two sons, Leo Brown of California, and Cpl. W. A. Brown Jr., serving overseas with the U. S. Army; and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Smith, Toledo, Ohio, and Mrs. Nancy Morgan, Waxahachie.

When he first came to Hico, "Pup" ran a dray line. In 1932 he was employed as a janitor at the Hico Public Schools, and he continued doing this work until the first of this year. Since then he has been visiting his relatives in Fort Worth and Oklahoma. He was well-liked by the school children, because he always had a cheerful smile and a friendly word for them, and most of the time he was whistling wherever he went. He will be missed by many friends in Hico.

Funeral services were held at four o'clock Monday at the First Baptist Church of Hico, with Rev. J. F. Isbell officiating. Pallbearers were Alvin Casey, O. W. Heffner, Jesse Hobo, C. D. Richbourg, D. R. Proffitt, and Bob Hancock. A large number of friends and relatives attended the funeral, and all of the children were there except W. A. Jr., who was unable to come home.

Surviving besides his four children are three brothers, Joe Brown, Lipan; Vernon Brown, Beggs, Oklahoma, and Hobb Brown, Fort Worth; and five sisters, Mrs. Ethel Jackson, Bluffdale; Mrs. T. J. Bray, Fort Worth; Mrs. C. K. Newbury, Bakersfield, California; Mrs. Lula Trimble, Duncan, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Annie Stanford, also of Oklahoma.

With Farmall Tractor Power

THROUGHOUT the Spring, from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard, worried farmers searched the skies for signs of clear weather, but the cold rains fell relentlessly.

For more than a month the seed should have been germinating in the warm soil. Millions of acres lay unplanted because the ground was too wet for preparation of the seed bed and too cold for germination of the seed.

Only a generation ago there could have been but one outcome—crop shortage and food scarcity. Nature allows scant time for planting when the warm sun waits till late May or June before drying the soggy soil. Horses are too slow and tire too quickly to get the job done then.

But the farmers remember May of 1943—only two years ago—when their fast, untiring tractors averted crop failure. Then, too, rains drenched the fields and the month was all but lost before they could get on the land again.

Now, most farmers drove their tractors from dark to dark, and longer. Many planted around the clock, working in two or three shifts. They made one of the greatest crops in history.

In today's war-torn world—with hunger and disease already stalking many peoples—even one major crop failure could bring famine. This is why the sound of tractors and planting machinery was heard, day and night, from the Plains states to the Eastern seaboard—why headlights stabbed the darkness over the fields.

America's farmers are doing it again, in spite of an unprecedented combination of adverse circumstances—bad weather, shortages of machines and shortages of manpower. For the second time in three years, they are relying upon their tractor-powered machines to help rescue large areas of the world from catastrophe. More of these tractors are products of International Harvester than of any other company.

THAT EXTRA GALLON

It's marvelous what some people can do with a gallon of gasoline. But it is apparent, to anyone who has looked over the highways, that traffic has at least doubled since the OPA came through with that extra gallon per week.

TRAVEL IS SO BROADENING

Passengers are already being signed up for a new type of post-war cruise—an 80-hour trip around the world. When this new advance in travel was announced by Pan-American Airways, 11 people immediately signed up for the first trip.

HOUSE AND HOME

DO YOU find yourself always hurrying and always tired? If you do, it's time to stop and do something about it, because unless you are actually ill, it may be your own fault through lack of system.

When you're at home alone all day, do you eat your lunch? Are you wearing the right kind of shoes to work in? Do you worry over the past, present and future and about things over which you have no control?

So eat your lunch sitting down and relaxing. Listen to the radio or read something that will take your mind off of yourself and your problems.

Take an afternoon nap. Even 15 minutes will rest you. Do you know that the researchers have figured out that if you go at your job half dead from weariness, you're paying a 50 per cent tax on every hour?

And another thing, you aren't making your family if you are everlastingly tired.

And now about time. If you aren't "quick turned" or if you're only "out of practice" you may have to train yourself in this respect. Learn to make each move count. Avoid handling things twice or more times unnecessarily.

Market lists are essential. With trips to market reduced to an absolute minimum, forgotten necessities amount to acute discomfort. The minute you see you're almost out of a household supply, put it on the list and save yourself the time of going through staples to discover your needs.

[Opinions expressed in this weekly feature are the writer's, and not necessarily those of the News Review.—ED.]

Well folks, I noticed an article in the paper the other day in which a writer said in just so many words that he would like to "throw some speakers as far as they could throw their voices."

Promoters of the 500 mile auto race at Indianapolis, an annual Decoration Day feature for many years, are hoping to resume the grind in 1946 if the war is all over.

THIS AND THAT

By JOE SMITH DYER

FROM MY DIARY: Genoa, Italy, July 4, 1932. 10 p. m. This morning when we went down into the dining room for lunch there were small American flags on all the tables (1945 postscript: they would not do that now, but now Americans would not go to Italy.)

After breakfast this morning we walked to what is supposedly the birthplace of Columbus. The guide told us a long story, but none of it impressed me much. I have the feeling that this place is just a make-believe and that Columbus never did see it.

railway stations are bedecked with flowers. The people in the vineyards were happy, prosperous, good-natured, and they gave us huge bunches of grapes and refused payment.

After the lakes we go back to Rome—that clean, thrifty, modern city that has such an ancient background.

Last week when we were there, we saw the Fascist exhibition which was celebrating the anniversary of Fascism—the most pretentious affair I have ever seen.

At Ozzazzi last week we went down to the quay to see a tiny little steamer sail away for Corinth. Many were there to see friends and relatives off; steeage passengers settled themselves around the engine room deck; an old, old woman on the hatchway; a new bride with a goat-hair rug around her shoulders; an old man with a sack over his back which no doubt contained all his earthly possessions.

Six-Inch Sermon

By REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Man's Failures and God's Promises. Lesson for July 8: Genesis 6:5-7, 8:1, 4, 18, 20-22.

The departure of men from original purity soon had its consummation in widespread wickedness. And God destroyed all living things on the earth by a deluge.

Here in Genesis we learn that only Noah and his family and the creatures with him in the ark escaped. At length Noah learned, when the dove returned with an olive leaf in her mouth, that the waters were receding, and at last when the earth was dry he and all with him went forth from the ark, which had rested on the mountains of Ararat.

Retribution must ever come upon the persistently disobedient and impatient. But even for these there is hope—to the gate of the tomb—as long as the rainbow is seen in the cloud. Beautiful token it is. Find your rainbow in the cloud because you admit Jesus into your hearts.

HE STUCK UNTIL HE WON OUT

IN 1931 a young man who had just graduated from a Kansas college wanted to go on a honeymoon with his bride, but they didn't have any money.

He investigated five different possibilities, but turned them down; then he heard of a company which manufactured posters for banks.

But he didn't know a thing about selling posters to hard-headed bank presidents. The company furnished a small printed sheet of instructions on how to sell the posters, but the instructions were moronic.

So the young man-about-to-go-on-a-honeymoon thought to himself, "If I were a banker, what would make me want to buy this set?" In other words he approached the sales from the buyer's point of view.

So with the posters in the back seat and his bride in the front seat, he started on his honeymoon.

When he arrived in the first town, he took his sample set and called on a banker. The banker listened carefully to what young Ed Whittlesey said and then remarked, "I would not put your posters in a barn, let alone in my bank."

Young Ed Whittlesey went to four bankers and made not a sale. It looked as if the honeymoon were over. Then he and his bride worked out together a sales talk, and new approaches on selling, and made another effort. For it was sales, or no honeymoon.

He swooped down on a banker with this new approach and made a sale for $50. Then he and his bride went as far as the money would take them, then tackled another banker. Finally he landed in Colorado Springs at 11 o'clock one Saturday morning with no money. The bank was to close at 12 noon, and the young honeymooner had to make a sale. But the banker didn't want the posters. The young man hung on like a bulldog to the seat of a tramp's pants and at five minutes before closing time he consummated the sale.

The average man can do far, far more than he thinks he can. Elbert Hubbard once said: "No one ever gets very far unless he accomplishes the impossible at least once a day."

Successful Parenthood

BY MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

EARLY MARRIAGE IN WARTIME

Are they too young to marry? It is parents who ask this question about sons and daughters who wish to marry in the face of War's separation. The young people themselves may have reservations—how long will we have together, is he or she the one I really love—but they never question their youth. Faced with so momentous a decision they probably feel older than they will again for many years.

actual compromising, is the easier by far. When marriages were founded solely on romantic attraction it was the bitter discovery that there were some things you didn't like about your spouse, and some things he or she had the nerve to face the expectation of both joy and disappointment, both the security of being loved and the tortuous insecurity of being separated.

So if parents must find an answer to this question, what yardstick can they use? For they can't depend on their feelings alone to guide them—the boy or girl about to marry always seems alarmingly young to his parents, especially in wartime. First, there is the historical fact that early marriage was the custom in the first 100 years of our national life. Girls frequently married at 16 or even younger and left their parents' protection to make a home in a distant wilderness. Yet we look back upon the frontier era as having produced men and women of exceptional character. Their early marriage was in many cases the very foundation for the emotional stability, the hardness we associate with our pioneer ancestors.

On the financial side the risk is in some ways less great than it was in their parents' day. It is, in fact, more to be compared with what pioneer young people faced, for theirs was a joint enterprise in every sense of the word. They both expected to endure hard work, danger, loneliness, many lean years. There was no conflict about whether a man was a failure if his wife had to work as hard as he did—the community expected her to do so. After several generations in which a man's success was gauged by the leisure of his womenfolk we have come back to the normal ideal of shared responsibility. This is not to say that every woman should add to the family income, especially since her first responsibility is to make a home for the children. But if it becomes necessary she will have plenty of company among her friends to make the idea acceptable.

But you say, marriage today doesn't have the opportunity to take root that it did in the days when "going back to mother" was literally impossible because of the distances involved. This may be true, but it is partly offset by the fact that young men and women when they enter on a marriage nowadays are much better informed as to the problems they will face than any generation which has preceded them. Success in the give and take of marriage must be learned through experience, but couples who approach marriage aware of this and other problems of adjustment have already accomplished half of the necessary compromise. The second half—the of wartime. Needless to say, all of these reasons why younger marriages are inevitable and acceptable in wartime do not apply to hasty marriages. Too short acquaintance is always a weak foundation for marriage and never more so than during the exaggerated emotionalism of wartime.

TIK-CHENAUPT NUPTIALS PERFORMED IN OKLAHOMA

John Otis Chenault and Alice M. Tik, hospital apprentice first class in the WAVES, were united in marriage in the parlor of McFarlin Methodist Church at Norman, Oklahoma, last Saturday night, June 30. Dr. Robert J. Smith performed the double ring ceremony.

The vows were exchanged before tall baskets of gladioli and seven-branched candelabra flanked the altar, with Pharmacist's Mate Third Class Helon Scott lighting the candles.

Pre-nuptial music was played by Pharmacist's Mate Third Class Viola Merrie, and she accompanied Hospital Apprentice Second Class Wallace Carroll as he sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white street-length dress and carried a Colonial bouquet.

Pharmacist's Mate Third Class Eleanor Wolfe was the bride's attendant, and Melvin Tik, brother of the bride was best man.

The bride was reared and educated in East Alton, Ill., and has been stationed with the WAVES in Norman since September of last year.

The groom has recently received a medical discharge from the Marine Corps and will enter college in September at A. & M., where they will make their home.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Tik and son, Melvin, of East Alton, Ill., and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Chenault of College Station and his aunt, Mrs. S. W. Everett of Hico were in Norman for the wedding.

Mrs. Harry T. Pinson carried her daughter, Patsy, to Austin Tuesday where she enrolled as a freshman student at the University of Texas. Mrs. Pinson returned to Hico Tuesday night and left Wednesday morning for California for a visit with her husband, Captain Pinson, who is stationed at Fort Ord, California. She was accompanied to California by Miss De Alva Hammons, who will visit in Los Angeles.

Good news for all Texans—and for thousands of army officers and enlisted men—was the appointment of Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker as commandant of the army's Eighth Service Command.

For all can be sure that the doughty Texan will do a good job there, as he did in Europe, where he commanded an armored unit for Gen. George H. Patton. General Walker, who took his new post in Dallas on June 22, was honored the day before when his home-town, Belton, celebrated "Walker Day". Complete with parade, barbecue and the appearance of Gov. Coke Stevenson and other notables, the gala day told the Texas general that his neighbors truly welcomed him home and to his new job.

Now comes a typical Texan—General Walker—to command of the Eighth Service Command, and Texans naturally feel that this help for their patriotic enterprises will continue.

General Walker, one of the most famed field commanders during the bloody battles that preceded our victory over Germany, is a vigorous, scrapping Texan—every inch a soldier. A graduate of West Point, he is termed a master at the intricate task of commanding large army units.

That he will take a prominent part in Texas enterprises is inevitable. Already admired and loved by the people of the state, he is in a position to exert civilian, as well as military leadership.

As a soldier and veteran of long months of overseas fighting, he knows the real value of USO, War Prisoners Aid, United Seaman's Service and other National War Fund agencies which serve our fighting men.

Every state and local leader who takes part in the October war fund drive in Texas will be inspired to greater effort by the fact that this great Texas military leader is with them in their work.

SENATE FAVORS NEW PEACE ORGANIZATION

United Nations Aim to Short-Circuit Aggression

By Al Jedlicka

With no indication that the bitter battle centering upon American entrance into the League of Nations will be repeated, the U. S. senate is scheduled to consider the ratification of the United Nations' postwar security organization, with prospects of overwhelming approval barring unforeseen events.

Shaped after extended deliberations by 800 delegates from 50 countries at San Francisco, the new organization holds the hope of the world to prevent the calamity of another global conflict even more devastating than the present one, causing hundreds of thousands of civilian as well as military casualties and costing upwards of one trillion dollars.

Streamlined for decisive action, the organization is built around the 11-nation security council with the U. S., Britain, Russia, France and China as permanent members. In the security council's hands lies the power to settle disputes, apply economic pressure to bear upon potential troublemakers and, if necessary, call upon the international air, sea and ground force to suppress any aggressor.

The strength of the organization's security council also is its weakness, since any one of the Big Five, or five of the smaller alternating members, can veto decisive action. Since the U. S., Britain, Russia, France and China will command the major influence in the postwar world, however, there is little likelihood that the smaller nations themselves will stand as a block on any question before the security council, thus leaving principal responsibility to the Big Five.

Possessing none of the powers of the security council, but constituting an open forum for influencing public opinion, the organization's general assembly of all the United Nations will have the right to discuss problems relating to international peace and human welfare and pass resolutions and recommendations for their advancement. Right to discuss problems relating to international peace was one of the privileges won by the general assembly, principally embracing the smaller nations, in the closing sessions of the San Francisco parley. Opposed bitterly by Russia, this right affords the general assembly the opportunity to help formulate organization policy by enlisting public support through the expression of views.

In addition to political action, the new organization provides for the legal adjudication of disputes through a world court, modeled after the one established by the League of Nations.

Like the old court, the new one possesses jurisdiction only in cases where interested parties have agreed to accept its rulings in the interpretation of a treaty or international law or in questions of a breach of an obligation and the payment of reparations. Further, the court is to furnish legal advice to the security council or other organs of the organization after open hearings of all the nations concerned.

In the event that one of the parties to a dispute failed to abide by the court's decision, the injured party could take up the question of judgment with the security council, with disposition of the case then depending upon the unanimous consent of the Big Five and the majority of the whole group.

With the French Delegate Paul Boncour calling it the keystone to the whole organization, the international air, sea and ground force to be made available for use in suppressing aggression ranks as the first of its kind in history.

To be under direction of a general staff, with branches in different regions, the international peace force may draw on as much as one-third of the U. S.'s wartime military establishment, officials recently predicted. Under provisions of the organization's charter, the security council shall determine the extent of aid member nations shall furnish for the execution of decisions.

To be made up of the chiefs of staff of the Big Five, the general staff of the international peace force also will be entrusted with evaluating the strength necessary to assure postwar security so that a start could be made on disarmament by reducing excess military establishments.

Recognizing that economic conditions have an important bearing upon the policies of nations, the organization provides for an economic and social council charged with the promotion of higher standards of living and full employment. The council also will study the solution of health and other problems, and the development of respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.

In the organization's trusteeship policy for conquered or subject territories, the holding powers are obligated not only to provide for the welfare of the natives, but also to help them attain their political aspirations or self-government. In case of Pacific islands vital to U. S. defense, America will be able to retain them for bases or turn them over for trusteeship if the senate so decides.

Not concerned with any peace settlements, but merely the instrument for maintaining security in the postwar world to be fashioned at the forthcoming peace conferences, the new organization already commands the support of 52 senators, 7 short of the two-thirds majority necessary for U. S. ratification. Among 18 classed as non-committal, many are known to favor a postwar peace organization, thus leading to expectations of easy approval of the San Francisco charter.

One advantage proponents of the organization will have in the senate is that no objection can be raised to enforce unpopular provisions of the not-as-yet-held peace conference, a major stumbling block in the attempt to secure approval of the League of Nations.

FARMERS HARD AT WORK TO BOOST FOOD PRODUCTION

By L. G. ELLIOTT, President
La Salle Extension University

With the coming of warmer weather and better growing conditions for the crops, the farmers drive to produce the maximum amounts of food this year is making progress in the face of unusual handicaps. Unfavorable weather in many parts of the country interfered with the spring work of plowing and planting. Below-normal temperatures throughout large sections of the major agricultural regions have made the season quite a little later than usual. Even so, farmers are forging ahead in an earnest, constructive way. Production of almost every kind of food, except livestock, is already high and is being held close to the peak level which prevailed last year. Output of meat is much larger than average, but somewhat below the record amount of two years ago, with the most decline in hogs. More milk is being produced than ever before, not only because of the larger number of milk cows, but also because the amount of milk per cow is very near to the peak. Egg production has fallen off but is still more than 25 per cent above the prewar average. Early truck crops are above the record set last year, and 20 per cent above average. The first crop reports of the season show that prospects for this year's later crops are not quite so good as they were at this time last year. They are catching up rapidly, however, and with a few more good days will come close to making up the loss caused by the wet, cold weather. The heavy rainfall may turn out to be an advantage for it will mean more rapid growth later. The plants will have plenty of moisture to make them develop faster. The record winter wheat crop of over 800,000,000 bushels is a good indication of what may be achieved with other crops. The output of hay will also be near to a new record. Farmers planned to plant about the same number of acres this year as they did last year when the total was very close to the highest ever planted. They will do it even though they may have to get along with fewer workers and less farm machinery, at least until much later in the season. A substantial number of farm workers may be released from the armed forces, and manufacture of farm machinery may be speeded up, but many obstacles still handicap farmers. Some shifts in crop plans have been made necessary by the later season and delays in planting have proved farmers to be energetic and resourceful in carrying out their resolutions to put every acre of land to the best possible use that circumstances will permit. Farmers are also making plans for the postwar period when demand for food and fiber may not be so large as it has been in recent years, and will continue to be this season. They have put themselves in stronger financial position as they have evidently been using their large wartime incomes to pay off indebtedness, to invest in government bonds that will help speed victory, and to put the money into other forms of savings. The farm mortgage debt is less than half what it was at the high point several years ago, and is now close to the lowest in 28 years. It was reduced by many millions last year.

Representative Tells Of Work Done In the Legislature's Session

Earl Huddleston of Oglesby, who represents Hamilton and Coryell counties in the State Legislature, requests publication of the following report:

The 49th session of the Texas Legislature adjourned on June 5th. There were, as usual, several hundred bills introduced which, if they had become a law, would have affected every person in some way. One of the tasks of a legislator is to decide which measures should be passed and which should not. "Provision was made during the session for caring for our unfortunate people who must be cared for in our State Eleemosynary Institutions. Also these will be treated in a more humane way, I think. Some better provision was made for our school system, including more pay for our worthy teachers and for educating the boys and girls of Texas, which is the real purpose of our school system. I think fair provision was made to take care of our worthy aged people of our district and state. I did everything possible along this line because I think these aged people are worthy and should receive at least $40 per month, and this will be possible under a constitutional amendment, as I understand it. The Legislature also did quite a bit for our men and women in service. I mean by this that they passed several measures which will assist them when they return home and before that. I supported every measure in their behalf because they deserve even more than we can do in this way. I think also that we should remember them when they return home, which I feel sure you people will do because you have backed them while they were away. "We did all possible for Agriculture. Of course there is not much legislation in the state that will directly benefit the farmer. We tried to let Congress know our needs, and also I helped pass an appropriation for cotton research work, which we have had for several years, and according to Dr. Cox of the Research Department, this has helped much in Texas aiding the war effort and cotton prices in Texas. "I will now be here at Oglesby, so get in touch with me if you feel that I can assist you at any time."

JACK HOLLIS IS PROUD OF RECORD MADE BY COMPANY OF ENGINEERS HE IS WITH

Cpl. S. T. Hollis, on duty with an engineers outfit in the Philippines, has sent to his wife, Mrs. Walden Hollis, at Walnut Springs, a copy of the "Free Philippines" dated June 21, 1945, carrying an article about record time made on construction of the longest bridge in the Southwest Pacific Area.

The bridge is an H-20 type consisting of steel frame and trusses resting on piling driven into the bed of the river to a maximum depth of 74 feet. Besides the steel, approximately 135 tons of lumber were used in its construction.

The veterans 689th Engineer Base Equipment company has served overseas for 14 months, having left the United States on April 22, 1944. Besides Luzon, it has also served on Leyte, Biak Island in the Netherlands East Indies, and in New Guinea.

Right after setting the above in type, along comes an appreciated letter from the Old Man himself. He still likes to razz the editor about army life being so much nicer than this civilian struggle, especially about cigarettes, but a dollar will get you ten that Jack would enjoy being back home, along with eight or ten million other guys.

Manila, P. I. June 23, 1945. Dear Mr. and Mrs. Holford: Guess it is about time for me to drop you a line and let you know I am still alive.

SONNY LEETH'S 128 POINTS SHOULD ENABLE HIM TO COME BACK HOME SOON Dallas, Texas June 26, 1945. Dear Mr. & Mrs. Holford: Am sending Sonny's change of address. When I last heard from him he was in Trinidad.

Respectfully, WES V. R. LEETH.

WILL ROGERS AND WIFE PASS ON SOME NEWS ABOUT THEIR THREE SAILOR SONS

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rogers, who have three sailor sons, seem to hear from them oftener than the editor does. The youngest, Marshall, a petty officer serving in the Pacific, has a new address which we haven't yet been able to figure out to the point that we can put our finger on him without the possibility of a slight error of five or ten thousand miles.

The two other boys, Eldon and Geoffrey, also petty officers in the Navy, served together on the same ship until their return to the States from the Atlantic and Mediterranean several months ago. A letter from each of them has been received lately, parts of which are reprinted below:

New Port, Rhode Island June 16, 1945. Dear Mom and Dad: I will just write a sheet to let you know we are still well and kicking about everything. Margaret (the wife) and I are together this week end, and two or three days next week.

Dear Mom and Dad: How is everything down that way at the time being? Was glad to get your letter. I wish I was there to help you hoe weeds — I think I would enjoy that now.

PFC. J. D. PATTERSON TELLS HIS PARENTS HE IS NOW IN AUSTRIA, AND HOW HE WENT

Kremsmuster, Austria June 18, 1945. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Patterson Route 3, Hico, Texas. Dear Mom and Dad: I received your letter that you wrote the 11th of this month and will try to answer your questions.

When I was away from the company I wasn't wounded. We were sent after some large tanks. Fifteen of us boys went to a place called Hanhoe. We came back by roads where bridges had been blown out and it took about eight days to get back to the company.

I don't know yet what we will do. Some think that we will stay here as the Army of Occupation as the Third and Seventh Armies are going to occupy this country, and others think we will be sent to some other army; so I guess we'll have to sweat it out.

SGT. BILLY COLLIER'S AIR GROUP CITED REPEATEDLY FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

TWELFTH TACTICAL AIR COMMAND FIGHTER GROUPS, GERMANY.—Sgt. R. O. Collier, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Collier of Route 4, Hico, Texas, a truck driver, now wears the fourth Oak Leaf Cluster to the Distinguished Unit Badge since his unit, the veteran and widely known 27th Fighter Group, has become the first AAF unit in the European Theater of Operations to be cited five times in War Department General Orders.

The group's fifth citation, according to general orders, covers outstanding operations in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations on September 4, 1944, against the 19th German Army. Air force fighter units were called upon to delay, and if possible, destroy rapidly retreating enemy forces in the Dijon area northeast of Lyon, France in the Rhone Valley.

In addition to its five citations, the 27th Group boasts other firsts in its long list of accomplishments. It is the only group in the theater to have also seen action in the Pacific before entering combat in Africa on June 6, 1943; was the first unit of the AAF to land and operate from the Riviera following the land invasion of Southern France, and was the first tactical unit of the 1st Tactical Air Force to operate in Germany East of the Rhine before the Nazi capitulation.

SOME OF YOU GUYS AND GALS WRITE HOWARD SO HE'LL BE HOME FOR THE BIG REUNION

Stephenville, Texas July 1, 1945. Dear Mr. Holford: I hope you remember a fellow that used to live in what is now your home. On my way to Waco the other day I drove past it. It was the first time I had seen the house since the death of my grandmother (Mrs. W. E. Russell) and I am afraid a lump rose in my throat when I saw it.

I have been in the Navy now for the past eighteen months. I have not been across as yet, but I hope to soon. I have spent a great deal of time in Naval service schools. I went through Aviation Radio School, and later I was sent to Aerial Gunnery School. Tonight I was reading the News Review and read about Owen and Odell Welborn being radiomen in the Navy, too.
