Eden Hints At Softening Of British

CAIRO, EGYPT-(A)-An Egyptian Foreign Office spokesman Wednesday indicated Egypt would join a Middle East defense command if her current dispute with Britain is solved to this country's satisfaction.

The spokesman said this was the "personal impression" of the new premier, Aly Maher Pasha:

"If the other parts of the Egyptian case are dealt with satisfactorily from the Egyptian viewpoint, Egypt would naturally consider such participation favorably. "The principle of participation of Egypt in a defensive Middle East pact in the framework of the Charter of the United Nations is part of the whole Egyptian case. "The National Front (government) which is now under forma-

Will He Seek Third Term?

President Truman is in the position President Roosewelt was in during early 1940, when a nation speculated whether he intended to seek a third term. Truman obviously is enjoying greatly the puzzlement of press and public over his presidential plans.

The day hardly goes by without "informed" declarations on both sides of the question. A congressman emerges from the. White House to report the President's statement that he "never quits" anything he undertakes.

This promptly is interpreted as a sign he is determined to run again.

Then a reporter who says he has talked to someone who ought to know asserts flatly that Truman irrevocably has made up his mind to retire next January. He even goes on to name the President's choice as a successor, and

The President himself is not a deep thinker, for all his avowed love of history and biography. He chafes under the necessity for dealing with heavy subjects laden with figures and other abstractions.

But thrust him into the middle of this kind of speculation, with its inevitable good-natured banter, and he is happy. His news conferences show plainly he regards this

We don't get much solid information from these little seances. Truman does not intend that we should.

For instance, about all we learned for sure a week or so ago was that he would make his decision regardless of the identity of the Republican nominee. Up to now, the wise men have been saying he was most likely to run if Senator Taft were his opponent.

One other hard nugget recently has been mined. A new name has been fossed in as a possible successor. It is The dynamite regarding Truman's change has been made in the Just tily wrote a private memo to the that of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, one-term governor of Illinois.

West now realized that a spade continuation would do him no good East would have returned his fourth-best spade if he had held four or more cards in the suit. Since East had actually returned four of spades it was clear that

East had started with fewer than four spades. Hence South still had queen-eight of spades after two rounds had been played. West had already won two spade tricks and could win a third whenever he chose, He could also depend on taking the ace of hearts as a fourth defensive trick. Where was the fifth defensive trick?

West was afraid to lead a hear because South had bid that suit. So West led a diamond, and South rattled off nine tricks in clubs and diamonds with great speed and equally great happiness.

West would have led a heart if he had counted declarer's tricks. Nothning nine tricks if he had both red would succeed if East had both red kings, Thought was needed only if the red kings were divided. As West found out, a diamond lead was fatal if South had that king. A heart lead was correct because it would succeed if East had the king be fatal if East had the king of diamonds instead.

Suppose for example, that West didn't want it known how abruptly went to but for the attorney gen- and statistics to illustrate what the has led right up to South's strong suit. South wins that trick and can take five clubs and a diamondonly seven tricks.

If South tries to set up additional hearts, West can take his ace of hearts and shift to diamonds. Now declarer cannot get out of dummy without giving East the king of diamonds, which spells his doom.

THE STORY: Insinuations that all started." dul shock Br. Gus Logan, and he cannot understand why she gave Peter Surinev, a young Biophysiciat, a check for $1200. Actually Jeanet has been infatuated by Peter, but faithful to her husband and the money, raised by selling an sid piece of jewelry, had been a goodly gift to be made in Peter's pet campaign for simb elearance. Maxwell Cota, head of the hospital and side a immilest of the check and had used it in an effort to out? Peter from the hospital staff.

XXV GUO LOGAN ran to the stairs. his hands on the spokes of the balustrade, his knees bent, his face between the bars. "Jenny oh, Jenny, don't do this to me. I will listen. Come back and tell me it's not true-tell me I'm crazy, dreaming. I love you, Jenny. love you so much I'm dying of it.' His voice was so broken she thought he was crying. She came flying back down and she caught his sobbed words to her breast. They clung to each other for a moment, and then she led him to the couch and sat at his feet. With one hand Gus covered his eyes, and Jennet swung up to snap off the lamp. She sat down on the floor again, and stroked the palm that lay open on his knee, and then she closed her hand around

"My poor darling, listen to me. I did meet Peter for the first time I gave a lot of money—not just at the Pelletiers'. I've only seen him four times in my life altogether. The morning after the party, you remember, I brought that medical paper down to Walter Pelletier and Peter was there and he offered to show me his lab. I told you that. Then last Monday night, you had a meeting. I was on my way home and I bumped Jennet? What are you talking about, on my way home and I bumped Jennet? What do you mean—you on my way home and I bumped Jennet? What do you mean-you into him and went to that cursed ecture with him-that's when it the money? Do you have a savings

"So it did all start." "Not what you mean, Gus, listen

"I don't know. The sin of selfishness, I guess. The sin of having a nice home while others live like pigs."

is not time for tact. Maybe the love that I thought there was between its-maybe it's all in my own head. Don't you love me, course, I love you, darling. And you've always been kind and good and marvelously understanding and I am lucky to have your love. But just this one thing—well, I thought you'd tell me I was silly. And I was silly, but that was neither here nor there because I was also desperate. I thought if I gave a lot of money—not just don't use it? Where did you get

"Anyway," she went on hope-lessly, "I phoned Peter the next morning from my office and I told him: I had something to give him. We had lunch-nowhere hospital, dear, on some hill-and he thought I was crazy too, for giving so much, I mean, but he also said it was needed and that he would give it to his friend at the housing association. That's last I've seen of him. In fact, last I'll ever see of him. I told him so yesterday at lunch. He's nothing to me, Gus, nothing. A nice bright boy, a total stranger. (To be Continued)

Give it Air and Watch it GO!

MAKE ONE GALLON of good gasoline -■ 8,350 gallons of ordinary air—mix well and feed in small doses to a Fireball Engine-and what do you get?

Well, mister, we could give you a lot of sparkling adjectives. But the closest we can come to describing the result is to tell you-it's something like the mighty thrust of an airliner - swooshing down the runway for a take-off.

All of which is another way of saying that this newest and finest of Buicks can rev up the highest horsepower in its distinguished

Now, you seldom need 170 horsepower. A lot of owners will never let it full out. But it's nice to know it is there for emergency. It's nice to know you can boss it around even if you use no more than an eighth of it at 40 miles an hour.

BUT THAT IS ONLY one side of the story. Buick engineers never do things by halves.

In the process of getting this whopping new charge of power, they also came up with more miles per gallon from gasoline. And the way they did it is one of the neatest bits of ingenuity we've seen in years.

Instead of building a whole new engine they focused on ways to feed a better mixture to the great Fireball Engine they already had, A mixture-that is-of fuel, which costs money, and air, which is free.

The result was the Airpower Carburetor -a four-barrel automatic-which works on a booster principle.

Two barrels supply all the fuel you need for most of the miles you drive - and they're sized and designed to supply the just-right thrifty mixture of fuel and air for anything from smooth-running idle up to some 40 or 50 miles an hour.

But when you call for more power-for a quick spurt out of a tight spot - for an unbroken gait up a steep hill-or for fullthrottle operation - the reserves go into action.

You have two more barrels - to feed the just-right thrifty mixture for extra power -something like a "second wind."

LIFE'S GREAT behind this great-powered eight, but that's only part of the story.

The rest, we can best tell you with a new Buick right at hand.

It's a story of interior styling stepped up to a new plateau of excellence and taste - a story of silencing to a point where a whisper almost sounds loud inside this car in motion-a story of bigger brakes and a smoother ride - and of Power Steering* as you have always hoped it might be

It's a story you need to know, if you want to be up-to-the-minute on what's what in 1952 cars.

How about coming in and getting that story soon?

General Manager Horace Busby, front-office "brains" of Midland Baseball, Inc., tells us the Indians are receiving applications from all over the country from young men who want to play here.

"The principal reason," says Busby, "is because Zeke Bonura is our manager. Other baseball managers and men throughout the country tell their boys to come here and play under ura if possible, because he'll teach them the tricks of the trade." Letters have been received from Canada, Florida and other far-away nts, according to Busby. And, Warren Sliter who toiled here and at Sweetwater, told a friend his in Chicago to contact the club here. The boy receiving Sliter's free advice is a 205-pound shortstop (rookie) who hit 16 home runs in 44 games last year, according to Busby. He also is supposed to be a good glove man, and may be "invited" to go through drills with the Indians.

There's no more definite baseball news. We know fans here are same, and as soon as we are able to dig up anything new, we'll pass it along.
