Three Die In Area Road Crashes

Craig Is Scheduled To Drill Wildcat To Grayburg In Marlin

E. M. Craig, Jr., of Midland No. 1 E. M. Schencker, et al., is to be a 4,500-foot wildcat to try for production in the Grayburg-Permian lime in Central-South Martin County, 13 miles west of Stanton and approximately the same distance northeast of Midland.

It will be 330 feet from south and east lines of section 18, block 38, T-1-N, T&P survey. Drilling is to begin in the near future.

The wildcat is on acreage secured by Craig in a farmout deal with Gulf Oil Corporation. The location is a west offset to Ashland Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Tant Lindsey, small pumping discovery from the Spraberry which was completed in November 1951. The Ashland well had its Spraberry pay at 7,540-8,500 feet.

Shows In Grayburg

It also had an interesting show of oil and gas in the Grayburg at 4,274-4,300 feet. That zone also had some signs of water.

Ashland tested that section extensively, but was unable to make an oil well from it. After failing there it drilled deeper and then drilled on to the Spraberry, and completed from that zone for a pumping potential of 11.65 barrels of oil, plus 50 per cent water after fracturing and acidizing.

It is located 330 feet from south and west lines of section 17, block 18, T-1-N, T&P survey.

Sinclair Wildcat In NW Upton Area Indicates Opener

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company apparently has a Pennsylvanian lime discovery in Northwest Upton County.

It is No. 1 TXL, 660 feet from north and east lines of the southeast quarter of section 19, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey.

After drilling to 11,915 feet in barren Devonian, operator plugged back to 10,713 feet and perforated five and one-half-inch casing opposite the Pennsylvanian at 10,580-600 and 10,610-710 feet.

Swabs After Acid

Operator swabbed natural for several days and then swabbed after treating the above perforations with 800 gallons of mud acid and 3,000 gallons of regular acid. After recovering all lead water and acid residue the well was swabbed for 58 barrels of new oil in 24 hours.

Operator was still swabbing at last report.

Another acid treatment is scheduled for the wildcat. It is one mile east of Sinclair and Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 Davis, Ellenburger discovery.

Wildcat To Explore Delaware To Be Dug At SE Loving Site

I. A. Stephens of Lubbock, trustee and operator, No. 1 Mrs. Ollie P. Anderson is to be a 5,000-foot cable tool wildcat in Southeast Loving County to try for production in the Delaware sand formation.

It is located nine miles east of Mentone and 330 feet from south and west lines of section 32, block 29, pal survey. That makes it about eight miles east of the nearest production in the Wheat field which gets its oil from the Delaware above 4,320 feet.

Drilling will start by April 10.

McAlester Has Oil Flow In Lime Zone At SW Scurry Test

Flowing oil has been developed in Southwest Scurry County from a lower Pennsylvanian formation, possibly Strawn, by McAlester Fuel Company No. 1-A T. F. Allen.

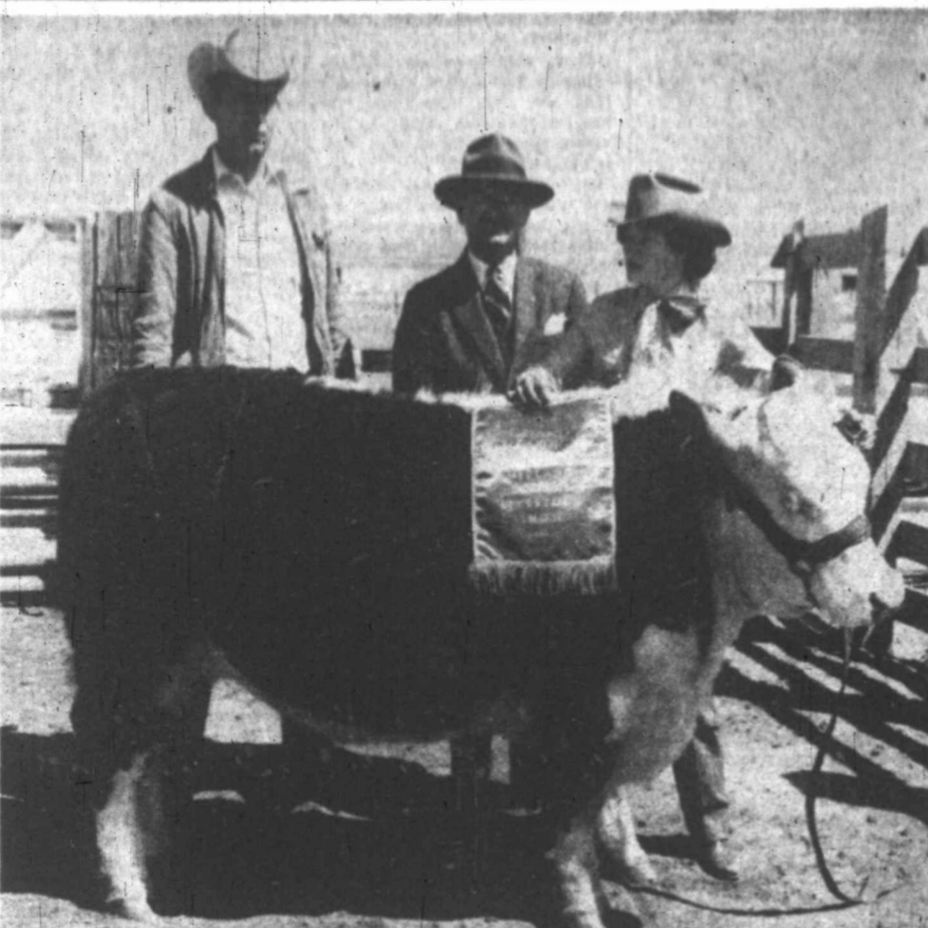

The flow came in a drillstem test at 7,877-82 feet. The test was open 28 minutes. Gas surfaced in three minutes. Mud came to the top in 18 minutes and oil started flowing in 20 minutes.

Flow Estimated

The oil was run to pits for five minutes and the flow was estimated at between 10 and 15 barrels per hour. There were no signs of formation water.

Recovery, when all of the drill pipe had been racked was 180 feet of 41.5 gravity oil. There was no water. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 1,320 pounds and 1,680 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 2,850 pounds.

BANK BUYS GRAND CHAMPION—The First National Bank Tuesday paid the top steer price at the auction ending the two-day Midland County Livestock Show. "Smoky," 894-pound milked champion, brought $1.05 a pound, President John P. Butler of the bank stands between Tiny Drake, owner of the prize baby beef, and County Agent Charles Green. The 13-year-old girl is a 4-H Club member.

Show Stock Sells At Top Price Levels

Steak, mutton and pork prices went up at the Tuesday afternoon auction ending the successful two-day Midland County Livestock Show.

The First National Bank of Midland paid $1.05 a pound for "Smoky," the 894-pound milked calf which swept grand championship honors in the milked division of the baby beef show. Bank President John P. Butler personally registered the top bid for the animal exhibited by 13-year-old Tiny Drake, Midland Junior High 4-H girl.

Triangle Food Market paid 65 cents a pound for "Colonel," 973-pound drylot king. Tiny Drake took home more than $1,600 for her double grand champions, another chapter in the annals of the V. A. Drake family.

The freckled-faced girl plans to help her brother, Norman, complete his education at Texas A&M College, where he is a junior. Remainder of the money will be spent for another calf from Winston Brothers. (Continued on Page Six)

HIGH PRICED PORK—Tommy Collins, Midland High FFA youth, received 70 cents a pound for his grand champion swine in Tuesday's auction. Jim A. Mears, vocational agriculture instructor for Collins, is shown with the 235-pound Duroc barrow and its exhibitor in the club exposition.

Spring Due In Officially

The sun is shining a little brighter each day, the breezes are becoming balmy and baseball is just around the corner.

And at exactly 11:14 a.m. Thursday, the whirling globe that is the earth will reach the position of the Vernal Equinox.

And spring officially will be here.

The weather man, however, paid little attention and predicted that sunny skies will reign (read: rain) that is as usual.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 18-member Wage Stabilization Board went into a marathon session Wednesday to frame recommendations for settling the big steel labor dispute before a meeting Thursday of the CIO Steelworkers Policy Committee, called to decide whether or not to postpone a nation-wide walkout scheduled Sunday.

FORT WORTH (AP)—Rep. Harold Cooley (D-NC) told the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Wednesday, "Congress will have no part of any price control program calling for livestock rollbacks and slaughter quotas for packers."

WASHINGTON (AP)—John W. Leahy, an engineer who was fired from his job on construction of huge, secret U. S. air bases in North Africa, told Senate investigators Wednesday the work "should be cut off tomorrow" to stop the waste of millions of dollars.

Eisenhower's Write-In Vote Crowds Stassen In Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—With almost two-thirds of the precincts reporting, write-in candidate General Eisenhower had won an amazing 39 per cent of the Republican total in Minnesota's presidential primary election Tuesday.

"Favorite son" Harold E. Stassen, whose name was printed on the ballot, got about 42 per cent.

The drive for the write-in vote, most always difficult to capture, had been started by Minnesota for Eisenhower only last Friday, following the attorney general's ruling that such votes would count.

Amid a confusion of court actions and legal opinions surrounding the primary, voters took the trouble to run up an unprecedented write-in total for Eisenhower in Minnesota. Even write-in voting on machines—a mystery to most persons before they entered polling places—was heavy.

Despite the fact Eisenhower made an astonishing showing against former Governor Stassen, the election will not automatically mean any national convention delegates for him. No delegate provision for write-in candidates is contained in the primary law. It appeared that only court action or national or state convention maneuvering could get any Minnesota delegates for Eisenhower.

In the Democratic write-in voting, Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn) had a heavy margin over President Truman. Senator Humphrey (D-Minn), whose name was the only one printed on the Democratic ballot, had announced he would turn his delegation to Truman should the President decide to run again.

With 2,227 of Minnesota's 3,769 precincts reporting, Eisenhower had 92,833 votes, compared to 100,520 for Stassen. Edward C. Slettedahl, a political unknown whose name also was printed on the GOP ballot, got 18,048 votes. Other Republican write-in totals were: 19,903 for Senator Taft (R-Ohio), 4,515 for Gov. Earl Warren of California and 1,264 for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Three Others Injured

Three persons were killed and three others seriously injured in two widely separated auto-truck collisions in the Midland area Wednesday morning.

Dead are: John Hurley Bowen, 29, and Roy Lee Bowen, 28, brothers, of 611 West Ada Street, Odessa.

J. W. Lumpkin, 18, of Weatherford.

The injured: Gene Jensen, 24, and Clomer E. Estes, 35, both of Odessa and companions of the Bowens. Jensen and Estes were admitted to Crane Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Charles W. Coates, 18, of Midland, was admitted to Western Clinic-Hospital, Midland.

On East Highway 80

The Weatherford youth was injured fatally when the automobile he was driving collided with a heavy transport truck east of Midland on U. S. Highway 80. He died in a Midland hospital within an hour after the accident, shortly before 8 a.m.

Seriously injured in the wreck was Mrs. Coates, wife of the construction foreman for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company here and a bride of only two weeks.

Coates said his wife had been visiting relatives in Fort Worth and had stopped Tuesday night to see friends in Weatherford. The Lumpkin youth offered to drive Mrs. Coates on to Midland in her automobile.

State Highway Patrolman M. O. Black said the automobile was in (Continued on Page Six)

Night In Jail Stirs Urge To Return Home And Plow

A 36-year-old Midland man was charged Wednesday with disturbing the peace, fighting and simple assault—all in his cell in the Midland County jail.

The charges were filed in Corporation Court after another prisoner, a 34-year-old Mississippian, told his story to Judge Fred Hartman.

The Mississippian, charged with drunkenness within 12 hours after he had been released from jail, denied he had more than a few beers.

"They paid my fine yesterday morning, judge, your honor," he said, "and I haven't been drunk since."

"I went over to the hospital a short time after I got out and gave a pint of blood to save a man's life."

Tuesday night, he continued, he was picked up.

"Then they put this other man in with me," he said. "He was crazy drunk. He started beating me up. He beat me up terrible. I thought he was going to kill me. I tried to duck under the table and under the bed and I kept yelling for him to quit. He was just crazy drunk."

He promised the judge he would leave Midland and go back to Mississippi "where I think I can do better with a mule and a plow than I can do here."

After signing the three complaints against the other man, his $40 fine was suspended on condition he leave.

Rain-Making Meet Called

Ranchmen, farmers and others interested in Midland County's participation in area rain-making efforts were urged Wednesday to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the district courtroom here.

B. T. Graham, Midland Farm Bureau president, and John Dublin, Jr., ranchman, both previously selected as this county's representatives in the governing body of the 11 county West Texas Weather Improvement District, announced the Thursday session.

Representatives of Krick Weather Resources, Denver, Colo., will explain plans for cloud-seeding operations in this section. Midland County has been committed for $7,000 of the $60,000 annual charge of Krick's concern. Operations are scheduled to start April 1. Silver iodide generators will be used.

Charge for participation in the weather improvement program is five cents an acre for cultivated land and two cents an acre for pasture.

Letters of invitation to the Thursday night meeting were mailed Wednesday.

Red Newsmen Hint At Truce Agreement Within Few Weeks

MUNSAN, KOREA (AP)—Allied spokesmen reported truce negotiations near agreement Wednesday on the 10 points of entry to be used during a Korean armistice.

United Nations negotiators proposed a compromise. The Communists promised to think it over. At the end of their discussion, Col. Andrew J. Kinney said:

"It appears that we are in agreement on the better part of the points question."

Another group of staff officers met for only a few minutes because neither side could answer a series of questions asked previously by the other concerning exchange of prisoners.

Unverified rumors circulated around the truce village of Panmunjom that some new step was in the making to break the long deadlock over prisoners.

Communist newsmen, who often reflect the view of Red delegates, talked of a truce agreement in three or four weeks.

Earthquake Shock Jolts Central Korea

SEOUL, KOREA (AP)—An earthquake of unmeasured strength jarred Seoul and Central Korea at 6:25 p.m. Wednesday. No serious damage was reported.

The quake was sharp in Seoul.

It was felt at the United Nations Command advance headquarters at Munsan. It rocked the press train there slightly. Most military personnel were at dinner. The quake rattled china and set hanging lights swinging.

Forecasters Hint More Sand To Fly

By The Associated Press

Fair weather with breezes of 20-25 miles an hour Wednesday replaced the strong winds and dust that had whipped around Texas 48 hours.

By 8:30 a.m., visibility was back to normal at all points and a thin haze of dust that earlier had obliterated partly the skylines of Dallas, Fort Worth, College Station, Lufkin and Waco had disappeared.

No rain was reported in Texas in the last 24 hours.

Soil conservationists said if more high winds came the sand certainly would blow again. And there was a hint of more dusts to come in the weather forecast.

Increasingly strong southerly winds could be expected Thursday, the forecast showed, with some clouds and a few scattered showers after Wednesday's cloudless skies.

Governor Invites Lovett To Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Governor Shivers has invited Secretary of Defense Robert S. Lovett to come to Texas, possibly in June.

Lovett was born in Huntsville. Shivers joined Huntsville citizens in the invitation. Huntsville plans a program in Lovett's honor.

14 West Texas Oil Fields Cut To 20 Days In April

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas oil allowance will be cut to 3,044,340 barrels a day in April, 115,137 barrels less than the current figure, the Railroad Commission announced Wednesday.

Fourteen fields in the West Texas District will be allowed to produce only 30 days instead of the 33 days permitted state-wide. Their curtailment is designed to prevent the flaring of gas at Phillips Petroleum Company's Goldsmith gasoline plant.

Announcement of the exact allowable had been delayed from Tuesday pending calculation of how much production would be reduced by the West Texas restriction.

Midland Businessmen Become Students Again As School Visitors On E-B Day

It was "back to school" Wednesday for a large group of businessmen and businesswomen who were the guests of Midland public schools in the observance of Education Business Day here.

The bell sounded promptly at 9:30 a.m. to assemble the business executives with their host principals and other school officials in the high school auditorium. Tardiness was at a minimum.

Chamber of Commerce Manager, Delbert Downing presided at the opening session, presenting School Sup. Frank Monroe who welcomed the "students for a day."

Jack Wicker, banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce, responded to Monroe's address of welcome.

The Midland High School A Cappella Choir was presented in several selections as a special entertainment feature. The choir is directed by R. C. Michener.

Charles F. Mathews, director of curricular services for the school system, spoke briefly concerning "Things To See."

The host principals, including Don Mitchell, high school; C. D. Johnson, junior high; C. R. Downing, Sam Houston; W. D. Ladd, North; Wilson Blurton, West; Dwan Estes, South; Frank Blackwell, David Crockett; Mrs. Lucy Mashburn, DeZavala; Mary Logan, Terminal; and E. L. Jordan and Samuel L. Taylor, Carver, then escorted visiting groups to their respective schools.

It was in the various school buildings that the days school work really got underway. Although "homework" had been slighted in most instances, the businessmen "students" marched right into classrooms to observe the process of education in action. And it was an interesting, enlightening and worthwhile experience for the business leaders.

Proud teachers and bright-eyed students extended cordial welcomes beyond description, and it quickly was evident the guest "students" were welcome visitors in the classrooms of the Midland public school system. The special guests heard lessons ranging from the ABC's of trigonometry—some of it doubtless being a bit over the heads of some (Continued On Page 14)

A LIFT FOR THE "VOICE"—This captive balloon being readied at Washington, D. C., gives a lift to the voice of America's floating transmitter, the USCG "Courier." The 60x35-foot bag, holding 150,000 cubic feet of helium, lifts an antennae from which programs will be beamed behind the Iron Curtain.

FIND DOZING POOR POLICY

BERLIN—Three British airmen were back at their Royal Air Force camp here Wednesday, convinced it's a good idea to stay awake on Berlin's elevated trains.

They learned their lesson during almost a month in Russian captivity. The men were arrested in Germany's east zone on February 24. German eyewitnesses said they apparently dozed off on the elevated and failed to get off at the last West Berlin stop.

The Soviets released them Tuesday night after a British demand.

Betty Hutton's Irish Mate Reveals St. Pat's Proposal

HOLLYWOOD—Betty Hutton's dance director, an Irishman named O'Curran, proposed to her on the evening of St. Patrick's Day this way:

"Shor-r-r, an' will ye be me wife now?"

"We were kidding around and singing in Irish accents," Charles O'Curran, 37, told newsmen Tuesday at a champagne reception for reporters following their surprise elopement by chartered plane to Las Vegas, Nev.

"I've known Betty six or seven months and been proposing every five or 10 minutes of that time," said O'Curran, who resembles Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. O'Curran, a native of Atlantic City, N. J., said both of his parents were born in Ireland. Miss Hutton, 31, a resplendent bride in ice blue satin, with an orchid in her hair, said she and O'Curran had wanted to be married by a Catholic priest, "but we couldn't because Charles had been married before."

O'Curran was divorced in 1940 from Betty Jo Brown, an artist, after a little more than a year of marriage. They have no children. Miss Hutton got her final divorce decree last January from Ted Briskin, Chicago camera manufacturer. They have two children.

Paramount Studio Signs Canadian Star

HOLLYWOOD—Susanne Cloutier, daughter of the queen's printer of Canada, has been signed to a movie contract at Paramount Studio.

She is a well known actress in Europe, having starred in such French films as "The Sinners" and "Juliet," and in the English "Derby Day" opposite Michael Wilding. Miss Cloutier was born in Ottawa. Her father, Edmund Cloutier, is in charge of printing currency, stamps, forms and other government papers.

Lila Leeds' new heart interest is her piano accompanist, Irwin Roghlin. She'll have a singing role in "Invasion, U. S. A." Joan Caulfield's wearing a black wig and taking dancing lessons. A change of type? Eve Barlow, who was Burt Lancaster's leading lady in "The Crimson Pirate," will play opposite Richard Todd in the British film, "The Venetian Blind."

Famous Trumpeter, Shorty Sherrock, Coming To Midland

One of the world's greatest trumpeters, Shorty Sherrock is a featured attraction with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra which will appear at the High School Auditorium starting at 7 p.m. April 2. A second performance of the evening is set for 9:15 p.m.

"Top Hat 'n' Spurs" will be sponsored by the Eagles. Don Payne, the original voice of Popeye, will be master of ceremonies.

Born in Minneapolis 33 years ago, Shorty began taking trumpet lessons while attending grade school. Later, at Horace Mann High School, he fronted his own small dance combination and played with some of the jazz groups in Gary, Indiana and Chicago. Immediately after graduating, Sherrock joined a touring band as jazz trumpeter. His first big break came when Shorty landed a spot with Jimmy Dorsey when the latter first hit the peak of popularity.

West Germany To Claim Estates Of Nazi Bigwigs

BERLIN—West Berlin's government is launching a legal drive to take over the million-dollar estates of former Nazi big-wigs in prison or dead.

The properties, reportedly totaling millions of dollars, were confiscated by France, Britain, the U. S. and Russia after conviction of the Hitler chieftains for war crimes.

The West Berlin Denazification Court announced Tuesday it had started proceedings to gain control of the estates of Konstantin von Neurath, Walter Funk, Albert Speer and Baldur von Schirach, all now serving long prison terms.

The Berlin denazification law permits confiscation of all or parts of the estates of officials who served under Hitler.

Officials said they hope to take similar proceedings against Rudolf Hess, Adm. Erich Raeder and Adm. Karl Doenitz, who also are serving long terms, and probably will move to get the estates of three top Nazis now dead—Josef Goebbels, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Roland Freisler.

Film To Stick To Real Script In Biography Of Duncan Sisters

HOLLYWOOD—Exclusively Yours: Movie biographies of show business greats haven't always been accurate, but the Duncan sisters have given Paramount the signal to throw away the whitewash bucket in filming their life story, "Topsy and Eva."

"We'd like the picture to stick as much to the truth as possible," Vivian Duncan, who will be portrayed by Ginger Rogers, told me. "And that goes for my marriage to Nills Asther."

Lively Rosetta—Betty Hutton will play her—agreed and added that "our lives were funny. No funnier situations could be invented than the things that really happened to us."

Singing the old songs these days as a merrily act at the Saddle and Siroin, they told me:

"We saw old timers like Sophie Tucker, Jimmy Durante and Eddie Cantor hitting the peaks of their careers. We listened to the old songs coming back. And we began to get offers of $2,500 for television shots. We just had to become active again."

Corinne Calvet's candid explanation for her wrenched back:

"Johnnie (husby John Bromfield) and I were 'aving a pillow-fight.'"

The Andrews sisters took one look at themselves in a pilot TV film and permanently shelved the picture. They're not happy, either, with live TV shows and are saying: "Television isn't for us."

The Humphrey Bogarts have already picked out the names for their second stork bundle. If it's a girl, her name will be Leslie. Peter Belmont (after Bogie's grandfather) for a boy.

Sophie Has A Version New
General MacArthur's famous line is back with us again. Sophie Tucker's singing a new song about Red Hot Mama which winds up with: "Red Hot Mama never die—they just go up in smoke."

Delicately Scented Hands Enhance Your Femininity

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Those wives and mothers who would like their friends and family to associate with them a delicate aura of fragrance sometimes feel

Frequent hand-washings with scented soap add to this young woman's sense of cleanliness, in her air of dainty femininity.

that today's overloaded schedules have relegated this particular bit of femininity to the pages of romantic literature. There simply isn't time to be forever making side trips to the dressing table to renew cologne or toilet water.

Almost every woman who takes any pride in her person at all makes frequent excursions to the bathroom basin, however; clean hands are an absolute must, according to modern standards of daintiness, as well as the basis of every program of beauty care.

By choosing a good soap in a pleasant scent, you can make your hand-washings a dual purpose operation. There are few combinations more irresistible to the nostrils than cleanliness combined with fragrance. A faint odor of sweetness that accompanies your hand, outstretched in welcome to your guests, or extended in a caress to your youngsters, will make a lingering impression!

If you wish to escape from the dishwasher and laundry smell that sometimes seems a natural complement of domestic duties, you might try keeping a cake of scented soap at your kitchen sink as well as at the bathroom.

A good choice is a new French-milled soap by a firm well known for its hand-care line. Especially long-lasting because of its hardness, this soap retains its fragrance to the last siver, making claim. You are offered either a musky or a fresh, light fragrance, both in a concave-shaped cake which does not stick to the soap dish, or cause mushiness when wet.

Exhibit Building Is 'Must'

West Texans who attended the Midland County Livestock Show and Sale Monday and Tuesday certainly are convinced of the need of an exhibit building in which to hold stock shows and similar events.

It was terrible in the open at Midland Fair Park Monday as judges attempted to place the choice steers, lambs and hogs, and as a handful of loyal spectators braved the standstill to witness the judging.

Attendance was cut to a bare minimum at the 1952 stock show, and this occurs almost every year.

But it isn't quite fair in progressive and prosperous Midland to ask the 4-H and FFA youths to show their fancy stock under such adverse conditions.

We might as well face the fact that Midland never can have a completely successful livestock show until adequate indoor facilities are provided.

Voters a few years ago turned down a county bond issue to finance the erection of an exhibit building which could have been used for many and varied purposes.

The Chamber of Commerce last year voted to sponsor a movement to provide Midland with a multiple-use exhibit building. The plan is to again submit to the voters a proposition to issue bonds for the erection of such a facility.

It is hoped prompt action on the matter will be forthcoming and that voters of the county soon may have the opportunity of placing their stamp of approval on the issuance of bonds to provide this headquarters city with a much-needed facility in which exhibits, shows, sports events, and meetings of all kinds may be held.

Again, we are confident spectators at this week's livestock show will work diligently to obtain the proposed building.

Truth may be stranger than fiction, but they sound just alike to the average wife.

If you have dollars your friends give you credit for having sense.

With proper connections, a live wire has a fine chance to shine brightly.

If it really woke them up, we'd be in favor of more speeders being pinched.

Of Course, He Could Move

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Neither union nor steel will decide strike; Navy rates censorship more important than jet planes; Key primaries will test Kefauver.

WASHINGTON—The final decision regarding a steel strike will depend primarily on four men. These men belong neither to the union nor to a steel company.

The four men are ex-Governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia, now on the immediate price fixing line as director of the Office of Price Stabilization; (2) Roger Putnam, Springfield, Mass., manufacturer, now head of Economic Stabilization; (3) Charles E. Wilson, former head of General Electric, now head of Defense Mobilization; and (4) finally President Truman.

All four, at the moment, are agreed that the steel industry prices are zooming, that they never have been so high before, and that they are ample to take care of the wage boost being proposed by the Wage Board.

In other words, the Navy appeared more concerned with smoking out my news sources than cracking down on officers responsible for the jet-engine blunder.

Furthermore, OPS Director Arnall feels so strongly about this that he would resign before upping the price of steel.

Truth may be stranger than fiction, but they sound just alike to the average wife.

If it really woke them up, we'd be in favor of more speeders being pinched.

So They Say

In all my years in Washington, I do not recall a time when there was such an atmosphere of dog-eat-dog and every man for himself as prevails in the Capitol today.

I want to tell you fellows (reporters) that whenever I get ready to make an announcement (on his political plans) I will make it to you. I won't go through a third person.

Women who try to hide their age just call attention to it.

I say that we should stop carping at the Europeans for having done so little in the short space of four years. It is a miracle that they have done so much.

I've studied the (Voice of America) programs. They're half-hearted. They don't advocate the overthrow of the Communist government. They tell how nice it is to live in the United States . . . and tell bad jokes that probably originated over there in the first place.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"What is the right play at the first trick on this hand?" asks a Portland, Oregon, reader.

"When the hand was actually played, South finessed the queen of spades from dummy at the first trick, and he came to a sticky end.

"He still had the ace of clubs as entry to the rest of his diamonds, so he was sure to set the contract.

"There is nothing worse than a lawyer on the witness stand," said Morris. He proved that, all right.

Under questioning by the senators and their chief counsel, Francis Flanagan, Morris got all tangled up in his own answers.

First he said a newspaper interview was absolutely right in quoting him as having said he never got a single dollar out of the tanker deal.

Then under questioning by Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Morris admitted that he shared—perhaps to the extent of $30,000—in the $158,000 fees which his law firm had received from United Tanker Corporation over four years.

"You said you didn't make a dime out of the deal," Senator Mundt charged. "It wasn't a dime—it was $30,000."

Morris then was challenged by Senator Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin: "You're sending out questionnaires to government officials, asking them about their income. Will you be satisfied with answers like that?"

Morris ducked it. "They'll have two weeks to prepare their answers," he said. "You want an answer in 10 minutes."

He was asked if he considered his answer forthright.

"I'm not known as an unforthright man," he countered. He proved that to the committee members by breaking in on their questions, arguing with them, giving long circumlocutions for answers.

Finally Senator Mundt told him, "You go ahead and give your answer, then I'll ask you the question later."

Throughout his first morning's testimony, Morris seemed to be trying to put over the idea that the only reason he was of interest to the committee was because he had been named to head up President Truman's investigation into government corruption.

"You started out to investigate the Casey tanker deal," he complained. His reference was to Congressman Joe Casey of Massachusetts who had cleaned up $450,000 by re-selling ships to United Tanker.

"Now they've become the Morris tankers," he said. Morris was president of China anyway. It is unnecessary for you to overstate your values with a jump-bid.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Shoe On Other Foot For Morris In Quiz About Oil Tankers

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—Newbold Morris in his first Washington public appearance accomplished the unusual feat of leaping from his own fires of investigation into a Senate frying pan.

The particular skill on which President Truman's six-foot New York Republican investigator of corruption in government now sizzles is North Carolina Senator Clyde R. Hoey's committee probe of huge profits on the resale and chartering of U. S. surplus ships to Chinese trading companies.

Morris came before the Hoey committee with a note from his wife, to which he constantly referred. It said, "Keep your shirt on." But there was some question at the end whether he did.

"There is nothing worse than a lawyer on the witness stand," said Morris. He proved that, all right.

Under questioning by the senators and their chief counsel, Francis Flanagan, Morris got all tangled up in his own answers.

First he said a newspaper interview was absolutely right in quoting him as having said he never got a single dollar out of the tanker deal.

Then under questioning by Senator Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Morris admitted that he shared—perhaps to the extent of $30,000—in the $158,000 fees which his law firm had received from United Tanker Corporation over four years.

particular hand. He insists, however, that it was the 'percentage' play to take the finesse. Is this true?

I'm happy to say that South was mistaken. I'm happy about it, because it would be embarrassing to some right out in print and advise a player to finesse a queen when I know in advance that the finesse will lose.

South doesn't need two spade tricks to make his contract. He must bring in the clubs no matter what luck he has in spades.

Let's see what happens if South wins the first trick with dummy's ace of spades. He immediately leads a club and wins in his own hand with the king. He returns to dummy with a diamond and leads another club. East can take his ace then or on the next trick but what can he do?

If East leads a spade, dummy's queen will stop the suit. If East leads anything else, South has nine immediate tricks.

The bidding has been: South West North East 1 Spade Pass 2 Clubs Pass

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-7-4-3-2, Heart A, Diamonds 9-6-5-3, Club 8. What do you do?

A—Bid two spades. This is about as much as you can have for a simple re-bid of only two spades.

You have a fine suit, but a minimum in high cards and not even a good fit with partner's suit.

If partner cannot bid again, it is unlikely that you will miss a game. If partner is going to bid again

LITTLE LIZ

International Piracy

It was under this daisy chain of holding-company operation that the tankers had carried petroleum products to Red China. Senator Mundt called it "international piracy."

Committee records indicated 26 cargoes were shipped to Communist China after war broke out in Korea. Morris insisted he knew only about four. He suggested recalling his partner, Mr. Wasson.

Committee Counsel Flanagan assured Morris that his name had been on the list of important witnesses to be called in this case, ever since last August. So he wasn't being persecuted just because he had another important clean-up job in Washington.

Close relationship between China Trading Company of Hong Kong and other China Trading outfits all over the world is shown by Hoey committee records. The whole operation indicates possible Chinese Communist control at the bottom, or else an unusual willingness on the part of Chinese Nationalists to do business with Red China.

In this trade the American associates and lawyers were either innocent victims, naive dupes or willing partners with full knowledge of what was on. The committee investigation hasn't shown which it was, yet. But that may come out in its final report.

But Dolly—well, she got out of bed, put on a dress in a-gown and slipped down. To read your sidebar, Marney. After she did that, she heard voices in the billiard-room. Yours and Orth's. Eve. She evidently investigated. And got whooled by ideas."

Eve Wheeler smiled thinly. "Just for the record, she hasn't got a leg to stand on. But a toe, maybe. I was holding Jim Orth's hands. Why, I can't remember now. But it certainly wasn't what she construed it to be. I'm probably old enough to be Orth's mother."

Well, I'll take my own mother. But, falling her, Eve Wheeler wouldn't have been so bad.

"Eve," said Jack Dumont, "I'm not asking you to explain."

"I know. But since we seem to be at it, in spite of what I said a moment ago, perhaps I should say a few words. I'm going to admit now, very frankly that I saw Ames Warburton in New York occasionally. Sam Houston P-TA Elects New Officers; Hears Guest Speaker

Mrs. T. J. Melton was reelected president of the Sam Houston Parent-Teacher Association for 1952-53 at its annual officer election and "Fathers' Night" meeting held Tuesday evening in the school's auditorium.

Other new officers are Mrs. Jack Walcher and Mrs. Jim Meyers, vice presidents; Mrs. Jack Moore, secretary, and Mrs. R. C. Hanson, treasurer. Mrs. John J. Redfern, Jr., presented the report of the nominating committee.

A record crowd attended the function.

Frank Bezoni, Midland attorney, addressed the gathering, speaking on the subject, "Our Resources—Our Destiny."

Calling upon citizens generally to take more interest in public schools and the affairs of government, Bezoni said there is greater need today than ever before to appreciate the causes and motives which prompted Francis Scott Key to write the words of "The Star Spangled Banner" in 1814.

"Our Children's Future"
"We adults have enjoyed freedom thus far, but it is the future of our children in which we should be interested," Bezoni declared.

He traced the history of the public free schools in the United States and in Texas, declaring that in America today there are moving forces seeking to destroy the public free school system as we know it.

He said there now is a program on foot in the United Nations which, if adopted there and ratified by the U. S. Senate, would destroy many of the coveted American freedoms. He termed the "so-called" International Covenant for Human Rights a vehicle which could "throttle free speech and free press and make of the United States an international socialist nation."

Attendance awards were won by the fifth grade rooms of Martha Scott and Mrs. Opal Bhow.

It was announced that Mrs. Shew's room was the first place winner in the visitor contest conducted during the recent Texas Public School Week—observance. Miss Scott's room won the second place award.

"It can happen here," he declared in urging citizens to take stock now of the situation. "The next decade may be too late."

"Elect Good Men"
Declaring that indifference on the part of the individual citizen is one sure way to lose freedom, he urged his listeners to take active parts in politics and to elect "good men" to public office.

"What we do this year may determine whether our children will continue to sing 'The Star Spangled Banner' and worship in the churches of their choice," he concluded.

Girl Scout Troop 19 presented the colors to open the meeting, and a special program of entertainment was presented by the Sam Houston Choral Club. Coffee and cake were served following the program, with teachers serving as members of the hospitality committee.

Attendance awards were won by the fifth grade rooms of Martha Scott and Mrs. Opal Bhow.

Captive Mice Suffer No Ill Effects After Rocket Trip 80 Miles Into Space

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Air Force scientist told Wednesday of a rocket catapulted 80 miles up into space with live monkeys and mice aboard.

It was a preliminary test aimed at learning eventually whether man can fly in outer space. Or in the border-zone of space ranging up to altitude of 120 miles above the earth.

The mice still are living and propagating freely.

The five monkeys survived the actual flights but four of them were killed when parachutes carrying them back to earth failed. The fifth monkey landed all right but died of heat prostration in the New Mexico desert.

The account, which outdoes a lot of science fiction, was told at a meeting of the Aero Medical Association by Dr. J. O. Henry of the Air Force's Aero Medical Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Base, Dayton, Ohio.

The tests were designed to determine the physical and psychological effects of being made "weightless" under certain conditions of extreme altitude flight—a possible hazard that would face man in the regions of free space.

Equals Earth's Gravity

Dr. Henry said this "gravity free" condition can be produced for several minutes as a rocket falls freely, with downward acceleration exactly equalling the earth's gravity.

The monkeys and mice apparently got through it all right, he said.

(In possible space ships of the future, however, the weightless condition would be of lengthy duration.)

In an interview, Dr. Henry told how the flights were made:

V-2 rockets, reaching altitudes up to 80 miles, and smaller aerobics rockets, with altitudes up to 40 miles, were used in tests at Holloman Air Force Base, White Sands, N. M.

All the monkeys actually "slept" through their 2,000-mile-an-hour ride, because they were anesthetized with morphine.

However, as they rode in the nose of a rocket, they were equipped with instruments for measuring pulse, breathing, heart action and blood pressure—and the information was radioed back to the earth all during the flight.

The mice were not given any morphine. And their chamber was equipped with a device in which they were free to run and jump—and all the time their antics were being automatically photographed.

During the "weightless" stage of three minutes, the mice literally floated in their rocket-nose "cabin"—but after the descending nose reached a point where gravity again took over, the mice hopped around normally, just as though nothing had happened.

San Angelo Pupils Contribute To Help Tidelands Battle

AUSTIN—(AP)—Junior high school students of San Angelo have chipped in $30 to help Texas fight for its Tidelands.

A Texas history class in San Angelo's Robert E. Lee Junior High School originated the school campaign, distributing posters and lapel tags and putting stories in the school paper to publicize the Tidelands issue.

Governor Shivers wrote Principal Nobel C. Smart and asked that his personal thanks be conveyed to the students "and to the fourth period Texas history class in particular."

"It is such loyal support as this that makes me confident Texas will be ultimately victorious in regaining title to our submerged lands," the governor wrote.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—(AP)—"I've got to have my ballot back," the woman insisted. "I've made a terrible mistake."

Submarine Volcano Pushes Up New Island In Pacific

MANILA—(AP)—A submarine volcano, coming to life after a 90-year sleep, Wednesday pushed a moving mass of volcanic rock 250 feet above the surface of the Pacific Ocean, 315 miles north of Manila.

The turbulent pile of rocks encompassed an area of at least five acres. For 15 acres around it the ocean boiled and bubbled like a witch's brew.

A 10,000-foot column of smoke and sulphurous steam towered.

Huge black boulders, some of them five stories high, were tumbled about.

Off to one side of the growing, crater-shaped island, a needle-pointed black rock stuck up starkly. The rock and the island both appeared to be surrounded by breaking surf. But at a C-47 plane piloted by Maj.

Lotsa Eggs, Little Dough

WILLIAMS, KY.—(AP)—Glennie Holton received a polite "Thank you" for his eggs, but the Collector of Internal Revenue asked that the remainder of his tax bill be settled with money.

Holton, operator of a country store, figured he owed $38.25 for Social Security taxes.

"But did you know," he wrote the Internal Revenue office, "I ain't got a cent to my name?"

He said his chicken business was a failure and continued: "Since there ain't no market around here, I'll just pay you fellers in eggs. You are close to a market and can swap the eggs for money."

He shipped a crate of 12 dozen eggs to Louisville.

American Sabres Cripple Two Reds In Jet Air Battle

SEOUL, KOREA—(AP)—Outnumbered American Sabre pilots damaged two Red MIG-15's Wednesday in a jet battle over Northwest Korea.

Eighteen Sabres fought 36 MIG-15's in a 15-minute afternoon battle. The hits were credited to Maj. Zane S. Amell, East Lansing, Mich., and Capt. Charles E. McDonald, Shreveport, La.

Shooting Star jet pilots reported they started landslides with their 1,000-pound bombs, burying large sections of Red railway tracks under tons of dirt.

Rainstorms grounded the planes during the morning and soaked the quiet battlefield.

Two Choral Groups Entertain Lions

A music program by two choral groups from John M. Cowden Junior High School was presented Wednesday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Midland Lions Club.

The program was presented by the Seventh Grade Girls' Choral and the Seventh Grade Boys' Choral groups, both under the direction of Miss Sarah Ann Lockwood.

J. P. (Kit) Carson presided at the meeting, held in Hotel Scharbauer, while Carl Hyde was in charge of the program.

Fliers Leap Safely From Blazing Plane

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, CALIF.—(AP)—Two fliers parachuted to safety Wednesday before their twin-jet F-86 Scorpion fighter crashed about seven miles north of here.

They were identified as Capt. Craig H. Keller, 28, Novato, Calif., the pilot, and Second Lt. Theodore S. Yaroch, 29, Santa Venetia, Calif.

An Air Force spokesman said the plane, on a routine flight, was seen afire shortly after taking off.

Youth Bruised When Bicycle Hits Car

A 13-year-old Midland youth suffered bruises of the hands and arms at noon Wednesday when his bicycle ran into the rear of an automobile driven by Mrs. Vina Peel, 510 West Louisiana Street, at the intersection of Illinois and Marienfeld Streets.

Treated at Western Clinic-Hospital was Wade Cutright. His address was not immediately available.

COTTON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Wednesday noon cotton prices were 25 cents to $1.20 a bale lower than the previous close. May 40.74, July 38.78 and October 36.91.

Farmer To Fight Penalty On Cotton Overproduction

CUERO—(AP)—A defiant DeWitt County tenant farmer, Johnnie Jansen, Wednesday said he was flatly refusing to pay a $1,207.76 penalty assessed by the Production Marketing Administration for alleged overplanting of cotton in 1951.

He said it was a violation of his "constitutional" rights.

Jansen told the U. S. district attorney he could send a marshal to seize the cotton, now stored on Jansen's father's farm, if he wanted, but that Jansen did not intend to pay the penalty.

"Almost two years after the penalty was levied on me by the PMA of Cuero," Jansen said, "the United States district attorney in Houston has requested me by letter to meet the fine."

"I was fined $1,207.76 for raising 35 bales of cotton on 70 acres of land."

Jansen said acreage allotments were determined by committees "supposedly elected by farmers of DeWitt County."

"Of approximately 3,000 farmers eligible to vote, only 300 participated in the election. This minority controlled the other 90 per cent," Jansen charged.

Cities Constitution

He said he was allotted 22 acres of cotton and that two neighbors were allotted 70 acres.

"I planted 70 acres in defiance of the PMA upon the contention the Constitution of the United States gives all men the inalienable rights of equality."

He said the Constitution guarantees the right of trial by jury, the right to a judge and the right to hire a lawyer in suits at common law where the values in controversy exceeds $25.

"I was denied this right," he claimed, "when the order to pay the fine was signed by one of these PMA committeemen."

Claude Jennings head of the Cuero PMA office, said the penalty was assessed purely on basis of the cotton allotment law, voted by the farmers themselves and that the Cuero office merely determined the excess acreage planted by Jansen.

He said the matter went to the state office of the PMA, then to the federal office, and that sole jurisdiction in the case now rests with federal authorities.

Three Die—

Adolf Coy, Jr., Texarkana, driver of the truck, was not injured. Lumpkin was rushed to a Midland hospital with a skull fracture and other injuries. He died about 6 a.m. The body is at Newlie W. Ellis Chapel.

Mrs. Coates suffered multiple fractures of one leg, broken ribs and internal injuries. The Coates reside at the Ranch Lodge here.

Car Hits Stalled Truck

The Bowen Brothers were killed and their two drilling crew companions hurt when the 1951 sedan driven by R. L. Bowen crashed into a stalled truck 10 miles northwest of Crane on the McCamey highway.

Both Jensen and Estes suffered a broken arm and leg and head and internal injuries. Jensen remained unconscious late Wednesday morning.

John Hurley Bowen was the driver on a rig five miles southwest of McCamey. The other three men were members of his crew. The four were enroute to Odessa after leaving work at midnight. All had been employed almost a month by the Elson Drilling Company of Midland.

The Bowen automobile was in collision with a United Trucking Company vehicle of Odessa operated by C. L. Miller, who was unhurt. Sheriff M. E. Lear of Crane reported Miller was replacing a light fuse when the collision occurred.

Failure of lights forced Miller to stop, the officer said.

Lear quoted a boy as saying the Bowen machine was traveling at a high speed a mile away from the scene of the collision.

The Bowens, both single, resided with their mother, Mrs. Ellen Bowen. They moved to Odessa three the Elson Drilling Company of Odessa Wednesday afternoon. Survivors include a brother, Henry, serving with the U. S. Navy.

Korea Casualties Reach 106,671

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 106,671 Wednesday, an increase of 318 since last week.

The Defense Department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday reported 47 killed in action, 180 wounded and a decrease of 14 missing.

A breakdown of casualties by services includes Army 115, Navy four, Air Force six and Marine Corps 65.

Korea May—

(Continued From Page One) McKinney said his own target date for public word from the President is May 15 when the Democratic Executive Committee meets in Chicago to pick a keynote and other officers for the convention.

McKinney, acting on Truman's orders, directed party officials in California to withdraw the President's name from that state's primary election June 3.

Regardless of whether or not Truman plans to seek reelection, he appeared determined to take personal command of the situation and carry out his original intention—to stay out of all primaries. He has called presidential preferential primaries "eyewash."

This determination could not have been lessened any by the spectacular showing made in last week's New Hampshire primary by Tennessee's Senator Estes Kefauver, who grabbed all of the state's convention delegates away from the President.

McKinney had persuaded Truman to change his mind and stay in the New Hampshire race.

Undecided Voter Holds Big Stick In Texas This Year

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (AP)—The voter who says he "don't know" appears to be a big fellow in Texas this year.

This correspondent, trying to find out how early Spring political winds are blowing, got the "don't know" or "won't say" answer often in asking folks how they would vote in various races if the election were tomorrow.

The voters in a section of Texas from Austin south to the Gulf, east to the Sabine River, and as far north as Nacogdoches would like to stay with the Democratic Party; many of them reluctantly would take Truman, but they would rather have some other Democrat as a candidate.

It also shows that there are a great many who are waiting for somebody to help them make up their minds, both in presidential and senatorial races.

A few miles out from New York it caught a Navy transport bound for Bremerhaven with families of servicemen and put aboard seven cases of diapers in answer to a request.

"More babies sailed than we had expected, said the Military Sea Transport Service.

Hints Of Schuster Slaying Creep Into Sutton's Trial

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie (The Actor) Sutton may make his current role as defendant in a 1950 bank robbery trial, strictly one of silence. His attorney hints he may not testify.

And, despite a court ruling, it appears he will have to share top billing with the ghost of the young man who identified him for police—Alvin Arnold Schuster.

Sutton and Thomas Kling, 45, both notorious bank robbers and jail breakers, went on trial Tuesday in a $64,000 holdup of a branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company in the Borough of Queens.

Queens County Judge Peter T. Farrell ruled the Schuster slaying had "absolutely no connection" with the defendants and "is not an issue."

But the murder crept into the proceedings a number of times. The judge made the ruling while defense attorneys were questioning prospective jurors, one of whom was excused when he mentioned the Schuster slaying.

George Washington Herz, one of Sutton's attorneys, also asked the talesman if they would be "prejudiced against this defendant if he did not take the stand."

"You wouldn't say to yourself, 'If he's innocent, why doesn't he get up there and say so?'" Herz said.

The task of selecting a jury continued Wednesday. Tuesday, three jurors were chosen—subject to a possible defense challenge.

Little, if any, fear because of the Schuster slaying was shown. Schuster, 24-year-old Brooklyn clothing salesman, was shot down near his home March 8. It was on February 18 he had recognized Sutton on a subway train and pointed him out to police.

Move Started To Ban Warren From Wisconsin Ballot

MADISON, WIS.—(AP)—Legal steps were started Tuesday to knock Gov. Earl Warren of California and his delegate slate off Wisconsin's April 1 presidential primary ballot.

Max Polcyn of Milwaukee, a retired railroad yard worker, filed a petition with Attorney General Vernon Thomson in which he charged several Warren delegates candidates had filed defective declarations of acceptances as candidates.

In addition, Polcyn charged, "many of them in truth and in fact are not affiliated with the Republican Party and therefore are not entitled to be on the GOP primary ballot."

Warren's delegate slate of 30 includes many former LaPollette Progressives. Former Gov. Phillip F. LaPollette, a leader of the Warren forces, has said that the delegates will switch to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower at the GOP convention if Warren loses out.

Lubbock Farmer Charges Fleecing By Oil Promoters

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Two oil promoters have been jailed here after a Texas farmer complained they swindled him out of $2,300 and planned to take him for more.

J. B. King of Lubbock said the pair came to his farm near Lubbock recently and hired him at $50 a day to help them buy oil leases. Later they told King they would let him in on a good deal if he would meet them in a hotel here. The Texas said he met them here Saturday night, paid them $2,300, was supposed to pay $10,300 more but became suspicious.

King said his investigation showed the oil properties involved were worthless. Assistant County Attorney Nate Sherman said he would decide Wednesday whether to file charges against the pair.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD WEARS FALSIES

DECATUR, ILL.—(AP)—When four-year-old Joseph Michael smiles, he displays a rare set of false teeth.

Only five of Joe's teeth are his own. His baby teeth were poor, so a dentist pulled all but five on February 13 and installed dentures.

Joe gets along fine. Apples, caramels and bubble gum don't faze him.

With minor adjustments, his store teeth are expected to last Joe until his permanent teeth come in a couple of years.

Row Over Housing Threatens Ouster Of Berger Officials

BORGER (AP)—A petition for a special election to decide on ousting Borger's City Commission was on file Wednesday as result of a row over federal housing.

The election must be held within 30 to 40 days.

L. B. Nichols, Jr., a businessman who circulated the petition, said it bore more than 800 names. At least 467 were needed under city charter provisions to force an election.

Nichols started collecting signatures earlier this month after the city-appointed Borger Housing Authority purchased land on which to build low-cost rental housing. The units will be financed federally.

Present commissioners in Borger include R. V. Latimer, mayor; L. D. Patton, mayor pro tem; and Commissioners Everett Thrums, Claude Harrington and L. B. West.

Some citizens contend the federal housing project is socialistic. In paid advertisements, the city officials have taken the position that the housing authority was set up to carry out the program to be financed by the government and administered by the city.

City Manager A. A. Meredith said the housing authority started the project and the present city administration should not be held responsible.

Mother Held For Murder In Fatal Slapping Of Child

FORT WORTH (AP)—Mrs. Ruby Ray, 29, was held on a charge of murder Tuesday in the fatal slapping of her foster son, five-year-old Johnny.

She said in a written statement that she struck the boy when he irritated her by continuing to repeat his ABC's after she had told him to stop.

The child had been in a home for neglected children in Fort Worth until Mrs. Ray and her husband took him in 1947. Records at the home showed the child subnormal mentally and almost blind.

France Has Jitters At Germany's Part In European Army

PARIS (AP)—France's government wants a binding promise from the U. S. Congress and Britain's Parliament that rearmen Germans won't pull out of the proposed European Army and revive the Wehrmacht.

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told this to the National Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday, a committee reported.

Assurances against such German action were given Schuman by U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at their meeting in London last month, but the French now apparently want to be sure British and American legislators will back up the diplomats.

France originally proposed the European Army as a way of getting the Germans into uniform without reviving their national army. The French Parliament has raised objections to the plan recently, however.

Jury Finds Mother Who Strangled Baby Daughter Insane

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Mrs. Diane Lilly, 21, was declared insane Tuesday by a six-member jury in the court of County Judge Charles W. Anderson.

Mrs. Lilly, estranged wife of Dr. John S. Lilly of Richmond, Ohio, is under a charge of murder in the strangulation death of her ten-month-old daughter last February 18.

She was ordered committed to Windsor Hospital in Chagrin Falls, Ohio, placed under $1,000 surety bond and was being held under restraint.

Cattlemen To Name Officers Wednesday

FORT WORTH (AP)—Final sessions of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's Convention were held here Wednesday with Judge Marvin Jones, chief of the U. S. Court of Claims a morning speaker.

Other speakers were Rep. Harold Cooley (D-NC) and Porter Jarvis, executive vice president of Swift and Company.

Tuesday the cattlemen were asked for support in three major efforts directly affecting the future of the livestock industry.

They were urged to get behind these three programs:
1. A water conservation program for Texas.
2. A research program to find a control measure for foot and mouth disease.
3. The United States effort to halt the march of communism.

Making pleas for the programs were Gov. Allan Shivers, Oscar Flores, Mexican co-director of the Joint Hoof and Mouth Disease Commission, and Lt. Gen. Robert W. Harper, Scott Field, Ill.

Officers were to be elected and the 1953 convention site chosen Wednesday afternoon.

It's Time To Think of Midland

as a modern, growing city—a city that invites, and expects a large influx of new, vigorous citizenry. In this respect it is my contentions, based upon geological knowledge of Texas water reserves and resources, that Midland's water reservations are grossly inadequate to supply even our present needs for any appreciable length of time.

Good, plentiful water . . . our most essential element for the growth of our city.

The problem is not solved. I propose to devote considerable time to its solution.

Raschi Looks Good For Yanks; Giants Not Hitting Well

LAKELAND, FLA.—(P)—Vic Wertz will get a few days rest and Rookie Ben Taylor will take over at first base starting Wednesday for the Detroit Tigers.

But the switch of Wertz from rightfield to first hasn't ended. Manager Red Rolfe thinks Wertz will become his regular first sacker and wants to give him some time off to practice mechanics of the job and get some confidence.

ORLANDO, FLA.—(P)—Rookie Pitcher Gerald Lane's five hitless innings are the pride and joy of Washington Senator Manager Bucky Harris.

The Senators, notoriously shy of mound strength last season, are desperately seeking plugs for that gap.

SARASOTA, FLA.—(P)—Walt Masterson and Harry Taylor were to have divided the pitching duties for the Boston Red Sox Wednesday in their Spring exhibition baseball game against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg in the fire of a five-game road trip.

PASADENA, CALIF.—(P)—The Chicago White Sox probably will take along only 12 pitchers when they break camp Monday and start on their exhibition junket.

Manager Paul Richards is disappointed that he hasn't had more of a chance to observe carefully the capabilities of such bonus youngsters as Terry Loy, Charley Rabung and Floyd Penfold.

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF.—(P)—Unless some of the Cleveland Indians start perking up at the plate, General Manager Hank Greenberg will have money worries.

PASADENA, CALIF.—(P)—Manager Leo Durocher of the New York Giants is pleased with his pitching staff but worried over the lack of punch at the plate.

Bobby Thompson is the only player hitting consistently. Thomson is banging away at a .360 clip. Clean-up hitter Monte Irvin is under .300.

TAMPA, FLA.—(P)—The big question around Tuesday is what has happened to all of that fine pitching the Cincinnati Reds were supposed to have?

QUESTION MARK—Veteran Detroit Pitcher Hal Newhouse is the big question mark of the Tigers' 1952 mound corps. If the speedy southpaw's arm holds up, the Motor City organization is expected to be in the thick of the American League pennant fight. He posted a 6-6 record last year. (NEA)

Cubs Count On Hitting Of Rookie, Sophomore Talent

MESA, ARIZ.—(P)—The Chicago Cubs, in the best Spring condition in years, will be counting on the long ball-hitting potential of a rookie outfielder and a flock of sophomore slab talent to pull them out of the National League cellar in 1952.

ST. PETERSBURG, GA.—(P)—Right-hander Cloyd Boyer, sidelined by a shoulder injury late last season, returns to the mound for the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday in an exhibition game with the Boston Red Sox.

CLEARWATER, FLA.—(P)—Vic Raschi, veteran right-hander of the New York Yankees, appears as good as ever.

Hornsby Sold On Brown Rook

BURBANK.—(P)—Speaking as one of the fairly modern generation who did not see Ty Cobb at his best and has never understood how it was possible for a ball player to run the bases the way they say Ty did, we are looking forward to the coming season with something more than normal curiosity.

The reason is that Rogers Hornsby says he has a man who is the closest thing to a throwback to Cobb he has seen, a fellow who will have his, Hornsby's permission to run almost as he pleases, and who will prove to a lot of skeptics brought up in the era of the rabbit ball that the oldtimers aren't just dreaming.

Little Leaguers Get Final Tryout

Final Little League tryout of the year is set at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the South Side Field, located at the intersection of Carter and Johnston Streets.

Checked Career

Jim has had what they call a checked career. He was brought up in a rough sector of upper Manhattan and has had his difficulties which he has managed at a late date to surmount. Hornsby isn't interested in that. All Rajah knows is that here, like a man digging up a dinosaur in his back 80, he has come upon something out of the past. At least, Rajah says he has.

"He's the only player in the game today I'd pay my way into the park to see," says Hornsby. He's a little tight now. He's been reading them clippings about himself. But wait until he settles down. He'll show you base running like you never saw before.

Groping around, I said it doesn't make sense that a man could consistently light out and run the bases against the catching arms around today, or against the smart young collegians who man the infield and outfield, ever alert for such an overt act.

"Maybe it doesn't make sense to you," Hornsby said a trifle testily, we thought, "but you'll see. Rivera will run, and he'll get away with it. What do you think they were using for throwing arms when Cobb was running?"

"We said we often had wondered about that."

"Them catchers," Hornsby said "could throw as good as any around today, and some of them a lot better. There was one rookie catcher, I remember, name of Kling; He told the newspaper boys that he was looking forward to seeing Cobb try to run against him. He was going to throw him out every time. Ty must have read it."

"Anyway, first time he got on base, Ty Cobb hollered, 'Hey Kling, I'm going down on the next pitch,' and he did, slid in under the throw, and Kling never was the same again."

Hornsby was asked if Rivera, a six-foot, 200-pounder, would be an absolutely free agent once he reached base, free to take off like the wind as he chose. Rajah hedged a little and said not exactly, that circumstances would intrude, but he said that for the most part Rivera would be permitted to write his own ticket.

Jim, himself, doesn't know how it's going to come out, but he's looking forward to giving it a try. He hasn't been hitting well against big league pitching so far, he readily admits, but he attributes it to over-anxiousness and feels he will settle down once he quits reaching for the ball.

"Thirty is a heck of an age to be breaking into the big leagues, isn't it?" he laughs. "Maybe I'll have a few years, anyway."

Al Lopez, the Cleveland manager who did a lot of catching up to a few years back, says Jim is in for a great disappointment if he thinks he is going to run wild in the big show.

Midland To Enter Big Spring Meet; Odessa Favored

Coach Tugboat Jones will send his Midland High School track team into action Saturday at Big Spring in the annual Big Spring Relays.

Teams from throughout West and Central Texas expect to enter the event, with Odessa's high-flying Bronchos the favored team.

Midland's team is paced by sprinter Roy Kimsey, who won the 440-yard dash at the huge Southwest Exposition Track and Field Meet at Fort Worth last weekend in the good time of 51.9.

Coach Audrey Gill also will send his golf corps into action at Big Spring, competing against other West Texas cities.

Kimsey, in addition to running the quarter-mile also may compete in shorter dashes—the 100 and 220-yard events. He'll also run a lap on one of the Midland relay teams.

Others

Johnny Kennedy, Robert Keisling and Dan Black are other MHS tracksters who will compete with Jesse Hatfield, Fred Bilbo, Pete English, Terry Fugle, Bill Mims, Dick Spencer and others as possible contestants.

The favored Odessa teams will depend, in the main, on famed speedster Joe Childress to rack up points in all sprint events. Joe Holley is another top-notch Bronco performer.

Big Spring is believed to have a top-flight team and may contest for the title.

Finals will be unseeded Saturday night.

Rain Knocks Indians Out Of Drills; Squad Game Set

LUTCHER, LA.—Manager Zeke Bonura held "school" for the Midland Indians here Tuesday as rain knocked the Tribe out of its practice session the first time this Spring.

The ex-major leaguer tied the Indians up in a lengthy chalk talk, and no sooner had the session ended than the rain quit also.

It was, however, too late to take the field for practice workouts.

"We'll more than make up for it Wednesday," Bonura said as he surveyed the late-afternoon sunshine.

Thursday, the Indians will tie up in another game with Emil Ogden taking the mound to oppose rookie Mike de la Torre.

This will be the second such intra-squad contest, Sunday the Indians oppose Houma, La., at 2:15 p.m. in Lutcher to start a lengthy exhibition slate which finds them going against some of the South's top teams.

Californians Impressive In AUU Tourney

DENVER —(AP)—San Francisco's defending champion Stewart Chevrolet set a new scoring record Tuesday night in leading 18 teams into Wednesday's second round of the National Amateur Athletic Union Basketball Tournament.

The Californians slaughtered Santa Fe, N. M., 109-45.

San Francisco's nifty debut caused tournament observers to rate the Stewart even with Phillips and Oakland, Calif., pre-meet co-favorites.

George Yardley, the 1951 tournament's most valuable player, made 11 points as his mates from Los Alamitos, Calif., Naval Air Station doused Bedford, Ind., Kaler Kandy Kids 91-71.

The Navy Team plays Phillips champion seven out of the last nine years, Wednesday.

Winner's Wednesday go into Thursday's quarter-final round. The quarter-final victors will qualify for the playoffs later this month in New York and Kansas City to select the team to represent the U. S. in the Olympics this Summer. Phillips was the 1948 representative.

SCHMIDT IMPRESSIVE—

Cards, Braves Get Top Pitching In Exhibition Games

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals' long search for a right-handed pitcher of the caliber of Mort Cooper may be over. Willard Schmidt, a pitcher not even on the Redbird roster, looms as one of the finest right-handed pitching prospects the Cards have come up with since big Mort left the mound city.

The hard-throwing rookie right-hander has as much chance to stick as Vinegar Bend Mizell, the highly publicized left-hander.

Fred Saigh, Cardinal president, said recently:

"Schmidt has a great chance to stay up because of his great poise, good control and the fact that he's faster than any pitcher except Mizell."

Schmidt has appeared in four games so far and hasn't yielded an earned run in 14 innings. He has allowed eight hits, walked only four and struck out 15.

The husky 22-year-old is on the Houston, Texas, League roster. He won 19 and lost 14 with Omaha of the Western League in 1951.

Schmidt and Lefty Cliff Chambers teamed up Tuesday to pitch the Cards to an 11-0 four-hit victory over the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, Fla. Schmidt allowed two hits in five innings, walked three and fanned six.

The Boston Braves won a brilliant 14-inning 1-0 duel from the world champion New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. Negro rookies Speedy Bill Bruton and George Crowe, doubled with two out in the fourteenth off Joe Ostrowski to break up the game.

Pittsburgh also grabbed an extra inning decision, noosing out the New York Giants, 3-2, in 11 innings, at San Bernardino, Calif. Bill Howerton broke up the game with a two-out, two-run pinch-hit triple.

Brilliant pitching also featured the Chicago White Sox' 2-1 triumph over Cleveland at Pasadena, Calif., and the Philadelphia Phils, 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators at Clearwater, Fla.

Bill Kennedy and Howie Judson limited the Indians to four singles. Rookie Hector Rodriguez singled home the winning run in the seventh.

The Phils collected only five hits to Washington's six but bunched three of them, a homer by Del Wilber, single by Richie Ashburn and double by Willie Jones in the third inning to win.

Right-hander Art Houtteman, in the Army last year, allowed only four hits in seven innings as the Detroit Tigers downed the Philadelphia Athletics' A team, 3-1, at Lakeland, Fla.

A team of major league stars whipped the Hollywood Pacific Coast League team, 4 to 2, in a benefit game at Hollywood, Calif. The stars scored all their runs in a ninth-inning rally, climaxing by Tookie Gilbert's three-run homer.

Brooklyn defeated its Fort Worth Texas League farmhands, 4-1, at Vero Beach, Fla., and the Chicago Cubs trounced the St. Louis Browns, 9-3, at Burbank, Calif.

Hank Sauer and Hal Jeffcoat each clouted a two-run homer to lead the Cubs to victory over the Browns.

Dallas Eagles Release Yet Negro Infielder, Ray Neil

DALLAS —(AP)—A negro second baseman who was signed to a conditional contract by the Dallas Eagles will be released Wednesday, the Dallas Morning News says.

Ray Neil, the first negro ever signed to a Texas League contract, has not proved that he can play Class AA baseball, Dallas Owner Dick Burnett told the News at Dayton Beach, Fla.

The action was taken on Manager Dutch Meyer's recommendation, Burnett said.

The News continues:

Neil was signed on condition that he could prove his ability to play in the Texas League. He had been a star for several seasons with the Indianapolis Clowns of the Negro American League.

Although the Eagles' training camp here still has a week to run, Burnett said he was releasing Neil immediately because no useful purpose would be served in holding him.

He wanted to give the second baseman a chance to hook on with another club if he could, Burnett said.

Besides Ray Neil, the Eagles have signed another negro, Shortstop Othiel Benfro of Atlanta, Ga.

Berrie R. Haigh, secretary of the City Bowling Association, announced Wednesday the 1951-52 association championship tournament will be rolled at Plamor Lanes April 19 and 20 and April 26 and 27.

Entries will be accepted to midnight April 13.

Haigh said the events will include five-man teams, doubles, singles and all-events. It will be a handicap meet, conducted under American Bowling Congress rules.

Handicaps will be 75 per cent of the difference between the bowler's season average as of March 16 and a base average of 300.

Approximately 150 participants are expected.

Haigh said he would mail entry blanks to all team captains this week.

OWLS DEFEAT SAM HOUSTON

HOUSTON —(AP)— Rice Institute took a 6-2 baseball victory here Tuesday over the Sam Houston State Bearkats. Steady pitching by Wall Deakin and Jerome Binsdel featured the Owl win.

Back in October when we were looking for a fullback to be added to our family and it didn't exactly work out that way, we took a lot of not-so-gentle "taunting" from some of our friends who considered themselves more fortunate than we—

These fellows, bless 'em, had little male tax exemptions and wanted the world to know it.

This particular breed of human seems to delight in flashing a lip curling sneer with words about "your little cheer leader" to those blessed with female heirs.

General opinion of these fellows seems to be that there's no place in the world of sports for members of the female race. Which is, girls, all the bunk and if you'll release hubby from his house chores we'll let these fellows in on a few sports trade secrets.

Time was when the ladies retired sedately to the drawing room while the men discussed such pertinent questions as "Who's on first?" at the coming heavyweight battles, or at

Came the revolution and the so-called weaker-half emerged in front in the battle of the sexes, got a vote and started to holler: "Take me out to the ball game."

But this sitting idly by didn't go too well with the ladies and they began to cast covetous eyes toward sports participation. As usual, the woman got the last word and started to fish around for a sport to enter.

One of the first women to make a big splash in sports was Gertrude Ederle, who actually splashed across the English Channel, something many of her male competitors can't, won't and never will do.

This set off a chain of events which saw women enter into almost every sport. The late Amelia Earhart made a name for herself in aviation and the swing-over was underway.

Tennis got into the act. The Alice Marbles, the Helen Jacobs, the Paul Betts, the Gussie Morans, began to appear around the country, play tennis and prove themselves surprisingly adept at it.

Golf came in for the fem touch, the incomparable Babe Didrikson Zaharias forging the front with lesser lights such as Patty Berg, the Bauer Sisters, Midland's own Pat Garner and the like touring the courses around the country in below-par style.

Mrs. Zaharias, in fact, could be a success in almost any sport. She is a swimmer, sprinter, hurdler, basketball player and probably could even be a top wrestler. At least, she'd have a good instructor, being married to a pro grappler. This however, is not about men but about the women, so back to that delicate subject.

Sonja Heile and Barbara Ann Scott head an impressive list of figure skaters, Andrea Mead Lawrence recently won two gold medals in the Winter Olympics for skiing ability, and fem softball teams are becoming increasingly popular around the country.

The women are picking up the rifle with success too, establishing skeet shoot marks around the U. S.; even right here at home. Most Southwest Conference schools have rifle teams for fems now, and we refer you to Rice Institute's pert twosome, Carol Smith and Nollie Turentine as a couple of lovely crack-shots.

The "rougher" sports haven't escaped fem clutches either. Witness Mildred Burke, June Byers and the like in the world of wrestling. These girls I wouldn't want to argue with, nor will many of my sporting brothers.

Football? Ah, but yes. Only last Spring Texas Tech staged a female game of "touch" football in which the girls waxed so rugged several required medical attention after the gup had sounded.

And who can forget Lucille Sweeney, the girl fullback of comic-strip fame? Stranger things have happened here.

In case some of the fellows take this a bit lightly, the wives might drag them out to the Midland High School gym Wednesday night for the Rotary Engineer (male) basketball clash against the famed Arkansas Travelers (female) and 11-times All-American Hazel Walker.

The Travelers play, and defeat, some of the top men's teams on tours such as this. Some bald-domes may look neon-lighted after the Travelers finish their performance here.

Fact is, with women surging to the front in all sports events, and with the hue and cry about modern day athletes being such sissies, we might have to turn the field over to the gals entirely.

If this happens, Zeke Bonura, 240-pound iron-jawed manager of the Midland Indians—and others like him—might have to purchase a powder puff. It might, in fact, be a good idea for "superior" males to have one handy Wednesday night just in case.

At any rate, the idea of our daughter Cheryl Ann—who glares wondrously at the world of males from near the top of this column—sometimes being named All-American doesn't seem so far-fetched anymore. And we wouldn't be surprised to see a husky male leading the side-line cheers if such should happen.

So put that in your pipe and smoke it men—if the wife will put it down long enough.

No Work Makes Long Life, Says Negro, 114

DECATUR, Ill. —(AP)— Ed Harris, who says his formula for longevity is "no work," observed his birthday Wednesday—he claims its his 114th.

Harris, a negro who says he was born in slavery in Georgia, has lived in Decatur 79 years. He says he's worked only two and one-half days since coming here. Harris lives alone and gets state aid. His wife died about 50 years ago.

BAYLOR BEARS WIP LONGHORNS

NAP LONGHORNS

NAP —(AP)— Baylor whipped the University of Texas Longhorns, 6-5, Tuesday in a non-conference baseball game. Texas took a 3-0 lead in the first two innings but the Bears broke loose for four runs in the fourth and were never headed again.

CHERYL ANN
... All-American?

Time was when the ladies retired sedately to the drawing room while the men discussed such pertinent questions as "Who's on first?" at the coming heavyweight battles, or at

Came the revolution and the so-called weaker-half emerged in front in the battle of the sexes, got a vote and started to holler: "Take me out to the ball game."

But this sitting idly by didn't go too well with the ladies and they began to cast covetous eyes toward sports participation. As usual, the woman got the last word and started to fish around for a sport to enter.

One of the first women to make a big splash in sports was Gertrude Ederle, who actually splashed across the English Channel, something many of her male competitors can't, won't and never will do.

This set off a chain of events which saw women enter into almost every sport. The late Amelia Earhart made a name for herself in aviation and the swing-over was underway.

Tennis got into the act. The Alice Marbles, the Helen Jacobs, the Paul Betts, the Gussie Morans, began to appear around the country, play tennis and prove themselves surprisingly adept at it.

Golf came in for the fem touch, the incomparable Babe Didrikson Zaharias forging the front with lesser lights such as Patty Berg, the Bauer Sisters, Midland's own Pat Garner and the like touring the courses around the country in below-par style.

Mrs. Zaharias, in fact, could be a success in almost any sport. She is a swimmer, sprinter, hurdler, basketball player and probably could even be a top wrestler. At least, she'd have a good instructor, being married to a pro grappler. This however, is not about men but about the women, so back to that delicate subject.

Sonja Heile and Barbara Ann Scott head an impressive list of figure skaters, Andrea Mead Lawrence recently won two gold medals in the Winter Olympics for skiing ability, and fem softball teams are becoming increasingly popular around the country.

The women are picking up the rifle with success too, establishing skeet shoot marks around the U. S.; even right here at home. Most Southwest Conference schools have rifle teams for fems now, and we refer you to Rice Institute's pert twosome, Carol Smith and Nollie Turentine as a couple of lovely crack-shots.

The "rougher" sports haven't escaped fem clutches either. Witness Mildred Burke, June Byers and the like in the world of wrestling. These girls I wouldn't want to argue with, nor will many of my sporting brothers.

Football? Ah, but yes. Only last Spring Texas Tech staged a female game of "touch" football in which the girls waxed so rugged several required medical attention after the gup had sounded.

And who can forget Lucille Sweeney, the girl fullback of comic-strip fame? Stranger things have happened here.

In case some of the fellows take this a bit lightly, the wives might drag them out to the Midland High School gym Wednesday night for the Rotary Engineer (male) basketball clash against the famed Arkansas Travelers (female) and 11-times All-American Hazel Walker.

The Travelers play, and defeat, some of the top men's teams on tours such as this. Some bald-domes may look neon-lighted after the Travelers finish their performance here.

Fact is, with women surging to the front in all sports events, and with the hue and cry about modern day athletes being such sissies, we might have to turn the field over to the gals entirely.

If this happens, Zeke Bonura, 240-pound iron-jawed manager of the Midland Indians—and others like him—might have to purchase a powder puff. It might, in fact, be a good idea for "superior" males to have one handy Wednesday night just in case.

At any rate, the idea of our daughter Cheryl Ann—who glares wondrously at the world of males from near the top of this column—sometimes being named All-American doesn't seem so far-fetched anymore. And we wouldn't be surprised to see a husky male leading the side-line cheers if such should happen.

So put that in your pipe and smoke it men—if the wife will put it down long enough.

BACK INJURY TREATED

Rod Anderson of the Modern Trailer Court, a roughneck for Lomax Brothers Drilling Company, was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital Tuesday for a back injury.

ELBOW IS INJURED

Billy Joe Wooten, 606 North Lorraine Street, received injuries to the left elbow in alighting from a truck. The patient was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital and released.

Rotary, Travelers Set For Cage Clash In Midland High Gym

Basketball makes its final seasonal appearance in Midland at 8 p.m. Wednesday when the Midland Rotary Engineers (male) tangle with the Arkansas Travelers (female).

Site of the contest is the Midland High School gym. Proceeds go to the MHS student council and to the girls' physical education department.

The Travelers play top men's teams around the country on extensive tours, using men's rules exclusively. Hazel Walker, 11-times All-American, tops the Traveler team.

Rotary will call on Leland Huffman, Texas A&M; Charley Kelly, H-SU; Jimmy Watson, U of Texas; Everett Thrall, Missouri Mines; Don Grove, Texas Tech; J. B. Collins, East Texas State; Bennie Rutherford, North Texas State; Herb Waterman, Colorado School of Mines; Dick Bergensch, Lafayette U; Paul Haskins, Texas Tech, and possibly others.

Tickets will be on sale at the gym at 7 p.m.

Snead Leads Way In Seminole Pro-Am

PALM BEACH, Fla. —(AP)— Sam Snead led the way into the finals of the two-day Seminole Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament Wednesday with a two-under-par 70.

The West Virginian held a one-stroke lead for the $10,000 pot after carding a 34-36-70 over the tough 7,000 yard Seminole Club course.

John Revolta of Evanston, Ill.; Henry Picard of Cleveland, Ohio; John Palmer of Badin, N. C., and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas, tied for second with 71's.

At 72 were Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich.; Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind.; Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y.; Marty Furgal of Lenont, Ill., and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Ben Hogan of Palm Springs, Calif., returning to competition for the first time since the All-American in Chicago last year had 73 to tie for eleventh place.

Jack Burke of Houston, Texas, who stunned the Winter circuit with victories in four straight tournaments, had 75 to tie for 17th.

A best ball of 63 gave the pro-amateur lead to Barnum and his partner, Robert R. Young of New York City.

Judge Promises Decision By Weekend In Suit Against Martin Water District

AUSTIN.—(AP)—Whether or not Texas' 1949 Underground Water Conservation Law will stand or fall on a court decision Friday or Saturday was in question Wednesday. Attorneys Tuesday argued both that it would and that it would not.

The dispute arose in the final arguments in the suit brought by the Colorado River Municipal Water District challenging validity of the Martin County Water Conservation District.

Judge Jack Roberts said he would decide the suit either Friday or Saturday.

Besides the Martin County district, similar districts have been created in Sherman County and in the Plainview-Lubbock area under authority of the same 1949 law.

Houston attorney Victor Bouldin, representing the CRMWD, earlier said he could not agree that validity of the law was being challenged.

Watson also told the court the CRMWD had not been hurt by creation of the underground water subdivision, which CRMWD contends was created without sufficient evidence to define its boundaries.

"They have been hurt instead by the regulations," Watson said. "Yet they have come here asking you to throw out the subdivision—and with it two other subdivisions—when they should have resorted to administrative remedy and should not be permitted in this court until they have."

Austin attorney Roger B. Tyler, Jr., representing the state board, told the court the board did all it could to ascertain the facts before designating the subdivision. He also argued the CRMWD was present at a public hearing and was given ample opportunity to voice objections and submit additional evidence but it never did either under the district passed regulations to which it objected.

Big Springs attorney George Thomas, representing Martin County, told the court the county had moved as it did to prevent CRMWD from draining dry the water field under its land in a short period of time.

Other attorneys joining the Martin County defense arguments included Arthur Duggan of Littlefield and Joe Greenhill of Austin, representing the water district in the Plainview-Lubbock area.

Bouldin replied to defense arguments that the CRMWD had moved against the Martin County district "when the shoe pinched."

The regulations adopted by the Martin County district following its creation shut off much of the water supply of the county's wells which CRMWD had intended to use to supply water needs at Odessa and Big Springs pending the filling of a new Colorado River reservoir.

"Evidence shows that the City of Odessa is in desperate circumstances (for want of water)," Bouldin argued. "The lives, health and welfare of 60,000 people stand in the balance with people who own 12 per cent of the land (overlying the water producing sands)."

Dr. Kurt Lekisch will discuss cancer, one of the most dreaded enemies of mankind, at the regular luncheon meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Friday in Hotel Scharbauer.

Members were urged Wednesday to hear the Midland specialist. The JayCeers will hold their inaugural dinner dance at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 28, at the Ranchland Hill Country Club.

W. W. Jackson, insurance executive of San Antonio and former president of Trinity University, will be the featured speaker. JayCeers have been asked to make reservations promptly.

"If the designation fails, every other designation also fails," Watson contended.

Classroom at the Boardman School is planned for the maximum of supervised fun. The play house, designed for climbing, is at the rear. Art work hangs on the wall and the students from many backgrounds build and paint and cut things out and just play.

Rich And Poor Go School Together To Learn Democracy In Kindergarten

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—The five-year-olds at the Boardman School were building a city with some very adaptable blocks. A little boy and a little girl watched their classmates build the Tri-Borough Bridge (with three ramps for buses, cars and trucks) and the Empire State Building and the Museum of Natural History.

They decided to erect a building of their own, and they called it the Museum of Natural History. The school also houses a library, where even three-year-olds go and browse and draw out books and then check them back in again. There's a dormitory for afternoon napping and an outdoor play area, with more things to climb on.

The scholarships are not awarded on the basis of superior intelligence, but on need and the school's desire to have a "well-balanced and representative community of children." They seem to have succeeded, because you see a happy bunch of youngsters there. And it's difficult to tell which ones have the millions.

The school has taught the children of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, children of Rockefeller, the offspring of people like Moss Hart, Benny Goodman, Oscar Levant, Yehudi Menuhin, bankers, publishers, actors. They attend the same classes and eat the same food as the children of carpenters, servants and truck drivers who are there on scholarships.

And the relationship is more than just at school. Boardman encourages the pupils to carry on their friendship after school and week-ends, too, and it is common for a Park Avenue youngster to play host to his less fortunate classmates on a Saturday. Next week, the visit is returned.

Boardman occupies two old private homes on a quiet side street. It is anything but quiet inside. From nine to three—with time out for an afternoon nap—the youngsters paint and sign and learn to build and read and learn and just act their age.

On each class room wall is a list of "duties" which the youngsters do in rotation. One such had the following jobs: "Paint brush washer, blackboard washer, juice server, table setter, animal keeper, librarian." The animal in that room was a little hamster in a cage.

In almost every room are two teachers, one graduate licensed teacher and the other a practicing student teacher. There is usually a parent there, too. Boardman encourages the parents to come as often and as long as they like, to help their children over the first jump away from home. It helps the parents, too.

Each room has a play house, extending almost up to the ceiling. This is to make the children learn to climb, something Boardman feels is important. And there are blackboards and easels and tools and books and blocks and goldfish in each room, too.

Airlifted Soldiers Arriving At Temple

TEMPLE.—(AP)—Big troop carrier planes began landing here Wednesday with the first of about 8,750 combat-ready infantrymen being flown from South Carolina to take part in joint Army-Air Force maneuvers.

The thousand-mile flight from Shaw Air Force Base, S. C., is the first air experience for many men in the 31st (Dixie) Infantry Division.

The armed forces say it is the first time for almost a complete combat infantry division to be airlifted to a maneuver area.

It will take five days to complete the giant airlift, which originally was to begin Tuesday but was postponed 24 hours because of weather. The last of the troops will be flown in next Monday, just one day before Exercise Long Horn begins.

"They're nice," said the boy. The fact that their economic backgrounds differed so widely didn't seem to bother them in the slightest. Like all 70 of Boardman's pupils, they take differences of backgrounds (religion and race as matters of course). For the school attempts to teach democracy at a very early age.

It takes children from 2 1/2 to 8. Of the total enrollment, about 20 per cent are scholarship students. Their parents couldn't possibly afford the $650 per semester tuition—plus extras—which it costs the regular students.

Civilian Air Patrol Flight Organization Planned In Midland

Persons in the Midland-Odessa area who are interested in the formation of a Civilian Air Patrol Flight here are urged to attend a meeting of the CAP at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Northwest Air Rangers hangar of the Midland Air Terminal.

Capt. John R. Scherer, commander of an Odessa flight of the CAP, said the district commander of the CAP from Abilene would be the principal speaker Friday night.

Captain Scherer emphasized the importance of forming such a flight here since it would be the first line of defense in the event of an emergency.

During the early part of World War II, the CAP patrol was said to be the nations only coastline defense. CAP pilots were credited with sinking several enemy submarines off the East Coast.

Ground personnel as well as pilots are eligible for membership in the organization in one of two groups. Cadets are accepted in the 14 to 18-year-old bracket while persons over 18 are eligible for acceptance in the senior division.

Class room training offered by the CAP would include such subjects as theory of flight, navigation, meteorology, radio, aircraft and engines.

When the additional flight of the CAP is organized here, it will work closely with civilian defense groups.

Scherer also said a similar flight would be organized for women if a sufficient number is interested.

DOG-GONE REUNION—Stella Jozwiak, seven years old, is reunited with her two St. Bernards, King and Lady Patricia. The two doughty descendants of the famed rescue dogs who search for travelers in the Alps, wandered away from their Philadelphia home in a snowstorm, and managed to lose themselves for two days in a snowdrift. Found and fed by Edward J. Sprague, they were turned over to the SPCA and returned to their home.

Teen-Ager Talks Away As Yeggs Hold Pistol At Head

ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—A 17-year-old girl—a burglar's pistol held at her head—carried on a seemingly casual telephone conversation Tuesday night while she and her family were robbed of $25,000 at their suburban St. Louis home.

The girl was Eldora Roehl, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Roehl of Frontenar, who together with her parents and a sister, Elizabeth, 15, was terrorized by three masked men who leisurely ransacked the dwelling.

The telephone episode occurred shortly after the burglars gained entrance to the home by knocking at the back door. The call was from a friend, and Eldora was forced to carry on a conversation after one of the men threatened to shoot if she disclosed their presence.

Approximately $20,000 of the loot was in cash, most of it representing a coin collection.

The four members of the family later were imprisoned in a basement closet almost two hours before Roehl managed to pry off some boards and escape.

"Evidence shows that the City of Odessa is in desperate circumstances (for want of water)," Bouldin argued. "The lives, health and welfare of 60,000 people stand in the balance with people who own 12 per cent of the land (overlying the water producing sands)."

Court Ruling May Throw Out Charges Against McDonald

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Former Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald of Texas never may go to trial on a charge of violating the Lobbying Act of 1946.

The case has been pending several years, awaiting a decision in another suit in which a special federal court ruled Tuesday that key sections of the act are unconstitutional.

The ruling appeared to pull the teeth of the law, which requires all federal lobbyists to register with Congress and fulfill other conditions under penalty of heavy fines or imprisonment.

Livestock Group Adds Two New Members

The Midland County Livestock Association has added two new members, Secretary Burvin Hines reported Wednesday.

The Borden Company and Montgomery & Knight have been added to the list of businesses affiliated with the organization. This brings the total of firms to 45.

Forty-five individuals also hold memberships in the association, which sponsors the annual livestock show for 4-H and FFA youths.

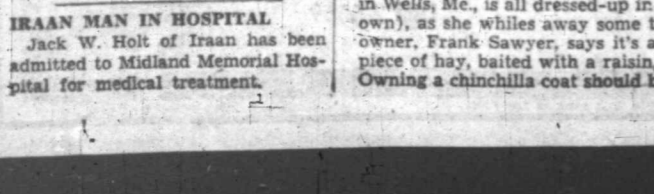

Spring Topper Has Ike Accent

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Here's the new Spring hat creation for lady supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A light blue faille pillbox beret, with red faille piping and a red ribbon cockade on the left front, decorated with a "I Like Ike" button.

Designer Sally Victor made up the hat at the request of the Wilton, Conn., Committee for Eisenhower. It sells for $5.

It was shown here Tuesday by Mrs. John Davis Lodge, wife of Connecticut's governor and an Eisenhower campaigner.

CORRECT COCKTAIL COSTUME—"Susie," a chinchilla living in Wells, Me., is all dressed-up in a full-length chinchilla coat, (her own), as she whiles away some time over cocktails. However, her owner, Frank Sawyer, says it's all in her mind. The "straw" is a piece of hay, baited with a raisin, and the "cocktail" is only water. Owing a chinchilla coat should be intoxicating enough for anyone.

WHY ARE CLASSIFIED ADS SO LITTLE?
Classified Ads are little because they need not be big to get attention. Classified Ad readers are interested only in what the Classified Ads offer—not their size. Besides, a small Classified Ad costs very little. A 15 word ad four days costs less than a carton of cigarettes.

Tarheel Delegates Lean Toward Taft

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(AP)—Conflicting claims over the division of North Carolina's 26 national convention votes enlivened a rousing state Republican convention here Tuesday.

An Associated Press poll of the delegates' personal preference showed Tarheel leaning toward Senator Robert A. Taft. The poll gave Taft 13, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower six, and seven uncommitted or not expressing a preference.

But Rep. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.), Southern manager for the Taft forces, claimed 18 delegates had pledged their votes to the Ohio senator. And Eisenhower's North Carolina manager, Sin A. DeLapp, listed 10 delegates for Eisenhower, 10 for Taft and six uncommitted.

Organization of the Tarheel delegation was completed by the selection of four at-large delegates to the national convention. The delegation, as a body, will go to Chicago in July uncommitted.

Two definite pledges of the four at-large delegates named here Tuesday went to Taft. One of the four is pledged to Eisenhower, and one told reporters she was not committed.

Taft forces received a setback when Eisenhower supporter Herbert P. Seawall, Jr., defeated Clyde R. Green as the party nominee for governor. Green, a Taft backer, later was elected one of the delegates-at-large. Other delegates-at-large are E. E. Broyles, a Taft leaner, and J. M. Bally, an Eisenhower follower.

A statement from Eisenhower-for-President headquarters in Washington claimed Taft supporters had used "sledge-hammer tactics" on Mrs. W. P. Few, who was elected national committeewoman. She told reporters she had not pledged her vote. The Washington statement quoted her as saying Taft representatives "tried to browbeat me last (Monday) night by saying if I did not switch my support to Senator Taft I would not be elected and I am still standing firmly for Dwight D. Eisenhower," the statement quoted Mrs. Few.

Permian Basin Oil And Gas Log—

at 7,462-82 feet. That cutting was being pulled at last report.

Location is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 75, block 29 Lavaca Navigation survey. It is five miles south of the nearest production from the Canyon reef lime on the south side of the Diamond M-Canyon field and it is 18 miles southwest of Snyder.

This project had indicated possibilities of production in the Canyon reef from pay in that zone above 7,340 feet.

It had a little show of oil and gas and a large amount of salt water in the section at 7,346-89 feet.

No Strawn top has been reported from the wildcat.

Sweetie Peck Test In Midland Region Gets Ellenburger Oil

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company No. 10 Sanders, exploration in the Sweetie Peck area of Southwest Midland County, has indicated as a producer from the Ellenburger.

A drillstem test in that formation was taken from 13,089 to 13,164 feet. With tool open three hours, recovery was 2,970-foot water blanket, 180 feet of clean oil and 920 feet of oil and gas-cut mud.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure was 1,500-1,700 pounds and shut-in bottomhole pressure was 5,150 pounds.

More hole was being made at last report.

No. 10 Sanders is one-half mile north of the closest Ellenburger producer in the Sweetie Peck field and three-quarters miles south of Sinclair No. 7-C Sanders, recently completed long north extender to the field.

The Ellenburger was topped at 13,095 feet, elevation 2,891 feet, giving it a minus datum point of 10,204 feet. That makes it 28 feet low on top of the Ellenburger to the same formation in Sinclair No. 9 Sanders, the producer to the south.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 16, block 41, T-4-S, T&P survey.

NW Cottle Wildcat To 8,200 Feet Will Be Drilled By Sun

Sun Oil Company has staked location for an 8,200-foot Pennsylvanian wildcat in Northwest Cottle County as its No. 2 L. Hughes.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 2, F. H. Knott survey. It is 12 miles northwest of Paducah.

Rotary tools will be moved in and drilling will begin at once.

NE King Project To Try To Complete In Bunker Sand Zone

Oil and salt water has been developed in the Bunker sand at Ard Drilling Company and Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 2 T. B. Mattern, Jr., Northeast King County development.

This project drilled to 4,448 feet in the Canyon reef lime. It has now set and cemented 5 1/2-inch casing at 4,156 feet to test the Bunker sand through perforations.

Apparently the Canyon did not develop any possibilities of production. The only show reported from the project was in the Bunker zone at 4,975-96 feet.

Flow To Pits

That zone was tested for 102 minutes. Gas surfaced in 10 minutes and oil started flowing in 94 minutes. It was flowed to pits for eight minutes. There was no gauge or estimate on the flow.

Recovery when all of the drill pipe was pulled was 3,810 feet of oil and 240 feet of salt water.

Efforts will be made to complete the exploration from the oil pay in the Bunker above the water.

Between Discoveries

Location is 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of section 1, block 10, TW&NG survey. It is 12 miles northeast of Guthrie.

The exploration is one location south of a Canyon reef lime discovery and it is one location north of a Bunker sand discovery.

4-Story Modern Building

Will be built in near future in ideal location for oil company offices. Easy access to oil fields, situated just out of downtown congestion. Ample paved parking area will be provided. Established independent oil operators and allied businesses will be given preference. Let us know your space requirements now, in order that we may design your areas to suit you. Reasonable leases.

LeMay Is To Drill Shallow Wildcat In SE Sterling

LeMay Oil Company is to drill its No. 1 Lester Foster as a 1,700-foot wildcat in Southeast Sterling County to try for production in the Clear Fork of the Permian.

Location is 234 feet from south and 350 feet from east lines of section 28, block 11, SP survey. That makes it one and three-quarter miles north of the shallow Clark-San Andres field.

That makes it ten miles northwest of Water Valley. Drilling is to start in the near future.

Ohio Failure In Schleicher Quits

The Ohio Oil Company No. 1-C A. L. Baugh, Central Schleicher County exploration, seven and one-half miles northeast of Eldorado has been abandoned and plugged at total depth of 6,835 feet in barren Pennsylvanian reef lime.

It found a little show of oil and gas in that formation, but not enough to make a producer.

Location was 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 17, block M, GM&SA survey. It was one location northeast of the discovery well and lone producer in Baugh-Strawn field.

SE Pecos Wildcat Temporarily Quit

L. H. Armer, Houston Oil Company of Texas and Forest Oil Corporation have temporarily abandoned their No. 1 Jasper County School Land, wildcat in Southwest Pecos County.

Total depth is 8055 feet in a formation believed to be the Wolf-camp. The project was plugged back to 3,265 feet in the San Andres and tested above that point. No shows for commercial oil and gas were developed.

Location was 660 feet from south and east lines of block 104, Jasper County School Land survey and 30 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

Spartan Abandons Dawson Failure

Spartan Drilling Company No. 1 E. W. Orison, Central-East Dawson County wildcat, eight miles northeast of Spartenberg, has been abandoned and plugged at total depth of 8,625 feet in Pennsylvanian shale.

This prospector did not find any Pennsylvanian lime and it did not log any shows of oil or gas in commercial quantities.

Location was 660 feet from north and east lines of the west half of the south 7/8 acres of section 28, block 34, T-3-N, T&P survey.

That made it one and one-half miles north of the nearest oil wells in the Spraberry-Deep field.

Central Concho Duster Plugged

Saxon Exploration Company No. 1 J. M. Simpson, Central Concho County wildcat has been plugged and abandoned on total depth of 3,479 feet in an unidentified formation.

It did not report having found any shows for possible production.

Location was 467 feet from south and 1,400 feet from east lines of section 119, block 72 T&NO survey. It was four and one-half miles northeast of Edin.

of the visitors, who also heard some of the problems of the teaching profession. Special student programs were presented in several schools.

Then it was lunchtime, and the hungry adult students marched into the cafeterias with the regular students, who also were ready for the delicious meal prepared and served by the courteous cafeteria attendants. Everyone seemed to enjoy himself immediately, and the teachers and youngsters were perfect hosts.

Enthusiastic Group

It was a happy and enthusiastic group of businessmen who reassembled at the MHS Auditorium at 1 p.m. to recount their experiences and to listen to the school story from the administrators' level. Accomplishments, projects, goals and problems of the school administrator were discussed briefly by school officials. "Class" was dismissed at 2 p.m. A pictorial brochure—"Annual report of the Midland Independent School District, 1952"—was distributed at the session. "Education, The Basis for Freedom" is the theme of the booklet.

To say that everyone had a fine time would be putting it mildly. All agreed it was a marvelous and beneficial experience.

Education-Business Day was the reverse of Business-Education Day which was observed last Fall when faculty members were guests of businessmen in their places of business. The purpose of the exchange program, sponsored by the public schools and the Chamber of Commerce, was to acquaint teachers with the operation and problems of business, and then, on E-B Day, to better acquaint businessmen with the operation and problems of the public school system.

Wesley Martin, director of special services for the school system, was in charge of general arrangements for the Wednesday observance.

Representatives of P-TA groups accompanied the visitors on tours of the various schools.

Ranch Area Placed Under Quarantine After Disease Found

A section of ranchland in the corner of Ector and Wilbier Counties was placed under quarantine Wednesday after an outbreak of anthrax was reported in the area.

Dr. Steve E. Shannon, Midland veterinarian, said he was notified Wednesday by the Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas that a sample of blood had tested "positive."

He said it was the first outbreak of the dread disease reported in this area in more than two years.

Approximately 200 head of cattle will be affected directly by the quarantine and must be vaccinated. The quarantine can be lifted 21 days after vaccination if no other cases break out.

Dr. Shannon, who declined to reveal the name of the rancher affected, said that the blood samples were taken from three animals, including a Hereford breeding bull, had dropped dead.

Army Deserter, Tracked Down By Address On Match Folder, Goes On Trial For Murder

TUCUMCARI, N. M.—(AP)—The murder trial of 36-year-old Frederick W. Heisler, Army deserter from Brooklyn, started Wednesday.

Tracked down through an address on a matchbook folder, he is accused of the shooting last October 11 of John Gunnish, 38-year-old Martins Ferry, Ohio, steelworker.

The trail led from Wisconsin through West Texas and New Mexico to California, where Heisler was arrested about four weeks later in the lumber town of Adin. He was using Gunnish's Social Security card.

Gunnish, with five .22 caliber bullet wounds in his head, was found three miles west of Tucumcari several hundred feet north of U. S. Highway 66.

The victim's abandoned car was found in Amarillo, Texas, and in it, Sheriff Claude Moncus of Tucumcari found the matchbook. It bore the name of the Hitching Post Cafe in Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

Wisconsin officers told Moncus a cook at the cafe had left there September 4 for Nevada and California, saying he planned to lead a gambler's life.

Moncus said Heisler later was identified from photographs as the last person seen with Gunnish.

When he was returned to New Mexico, Heisler pleaded innocent, saying he shot Gunnish in self defense.

"It's his way of trying to find out the size of the tip before he gives 'em too much service!"

Shivers Says Water More Vital Than Oil

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Governor Shivers says he hopes Texas will work out its own water problems and not look to Washington for the solution.

In a speech at the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association convention, Shivers emphasized the urgent need for hoarding and conserving surface and subsurface water.

"We hear much of the importance to Texas of oil and gas x x x but water is more important," the governor said. "We have had inflation in everything I can think of, except water. There has been a steady increasingly serious deflation of it."

Shivers said the time may come when Texas is forced to pipe water from one area to another.

"Unless an effective, permanent water conservation program is developed, such diversion of water to meet emergencies may come sooner than you think," Shivers said. "I hope that when the ultimate solution comes, as come it must—that when a permanent conservation program is finally adopted, it can be on a state, rather than a federal level. I believe that we, as Texans, can and should work this thing out for ourselves."

Cities CRMWD "Water district financing could be achieved through a combination of tax and revenue bonds authorized by a special water district, the size of which would be largely determined by the magnitude of the project itself. Certainly it should be large enough to take in all property, both rural and urban, that would benefit from the project."

"An excellent example of what can be done on the local level is the so-called Colorado City project, with which many of you are familiar."

This project is a dam and reservoir on the Upper Colorado, in Scurry County, to furnish water to the cities of Big Spring, Odessa and Snyder, which constitute the Colorado River Municipal Water District. The people of the area, faced with the grave fact that they had reached the limit of their available water supply, took action. As a result, they have made provision for an adequate quantity of water to insure the continued growth and development of their section of the state. The eleven million, seven hundred fifty thousand dollar project, now more than half completed, was financed by revenue bonds, to be retired through the sale of water to the cities within the district."

AUSSIE WOMEN GO FOR BUTTER

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA—(AP)—About 11,000 persons went to McDowell's Store in Sydney to buy 2,000 pounds of butter advertised for sale.

Twenty-two women fainted and others were trampled in the room. Police had to restore order.

Sydney has had a butter famine most of the last six months due to falling production. There is no official rationing, but dealers normally will sell to only regular customers, and they get only a pound or less a week.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★ Expect Slow Convalescence Following Serious Illness

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

If a person has had some severe disease or serious operation, he or she can't expect to get out of bed at once, feel full of pep and vigor, and start in right away with all the work and pleasures of life.

On the contrary, after a serious illness or operation, one must plan on a period of recovery of strength and health which is called convalescence.

This is often a discouraging time, particularly when it seems to drag on and on. Yet convalescence from a disease or an operation is an important part of the recovery process and the need for it should be recognized.

Rest is the main key to convalescence. Rest in bed is generally required at first; the person who gets up too soon or stays up too long may suffer a relapse which delays the return of perfect health.

During convalescence everything, particularly exercise, should be done slowly. The periods out of bed should be short at first. Gradually, they can be extended. Fatigue should be avoided. How one feels after being up is a good sign as to whether one is pushing oneself too much or just right.

In addition to gradually increasing the activity, plenty of sleep and soft but substantial foods are desirable. Most convalescents require frequent small meals rather than a few large ones.

Special foods may be needed at this time, just what of course, depends on the disease or operation experienced and must be individually prescribed. The use of small frequent feedings of easily digestible food is almost always the same, however, regardless of the type of illness suffered.

Convalescents from disease or operations should relax and realize the fact that they cannot expect recovery to happen all at once. Many people are impatient to get well and tend to take chances too soon.

The gradual increase of activity, proper diet and resumption of normal life is the best guarantee that convalescence will progress as rapidly as can reasonably be expected. The return of fully normal vigor and pep may take longer than anticipated, but the proper activity during this period and the right mental attitude pays off in the end.

Suspended Service Won't Affect Bus Schedules Here

Officials of the Midland Greyhound Bus Lines Depot at 211 West Indiana Street expressed doubt the suspension Tuesday of service on three eastbound and westbound runs between Dallas and El Paso would affect bus service here.

Their announcement came as the result of a bulletin issued by the Southwestern Greyhound Lines, Inc., in Fort Worth that service was suspended temporarily as of Tuesday on three eastbound and three westbound runs because of a bus drivers' strike on the Pacific Greyhound lines.

A Midland spokesman for the company said, "As far as we can determine, the suspended service will have no effect on bus service in or out of Midland."

Booby-Trap Blast Kills Painter Who Thwarted Robbery

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—(AP)—A painter who recently frustrated an attempted robbery was killed with his wife Tuesday in a booby-trap explosion which tore his light delivery truck apart.

A charge of dynamite set to go off with a touch on the truck's starter, police said, apparently caused the explosion near the New Haven County jail.

The blast, heard for blocks away, killed Homer Wright, 42, a negro, and his wife, Ophelia, 41.

Wright was a witness on February 27 to an attempted robbery in a shoe shine parlor he was painting. He routed an armed bandit by hitting him with a bottle of turpentine and then throwing a can of black paint at him.

Ozarka Water Is Recommended For Variety Of Uses

Midland housewives are buying the handy five-gallon bottles of the soft, sparkling clear water sold by the Ozarka Water Company, 402 South Big Spring Street, because they have discovered it can be used for a variety of purposes.

Women use it for washing their hair and even for washing their face and hands because its soft quality is good for their complexion.

Mothers use it in babies' formulas because it is recommended by many doctors. Some of the mothers bathe their babies in the water.

A delivery service is operated by the firm, supplying retail outlets and providing service to hundreds of Midland housewives.

Cooler Rental Service
 Cooler rental service and drinking cups also are provided. The delivery service is free.

Ozarka water has diuretic and slight anti-acid properties which make it especially valuable in all gastric disturbances due to acidity and hyperacidity. It is excellent for the sick and the well, according to B. H. Spaw, manager of the Midland firm.

Spaw has been a Midland resident 22 years and has been associated with the Ozarka firm the last seven years.

The water flows from the base of a lofty limestone and granite mountain. After the water is tested for purity, it is shipped to Midland in glass-lined tank cars. Here it is tested again before being bottled.

Spaw invites you to try Ozarka water and take advantage of its wonderful benefits.

K&K Company Suggests New Tires For Vacation Trips

With Summer and vacation time just around the corner, you'll want to equip your automobile with tires for that vacation trip.

K&K Tire Company, 618 West Wall Street, stocks safe, trouble-free, Goodyear tires and offers trade-ins for your worn tires.

Weakened cord bodies invite blowouts and blowouts all too often cause serious accidents. Smooth tires make driving hazardous.

That's why you'll want to have K&K Tire Company lay away a set of tires for you now so they'll be paid for by the time vacation time arrives.

Why take chances with thin, worn tires when you can have the comfort and protection which new tires provide? Thin tires cut, bruise and puncture easily—causing needless repair bills, delays and inconveniences.

W. O. Keeler is the owner of the K&K Tire Company and service station which is operated in connection with the company.

Varied Services
 In addition to Goodyear tires, tubes and batteries, complete road service, station service and other needs are available at the firm.

In the line of service, K&K offers car washing, greasing, oil change or tire repairing. Shell oil and gas products are sold by K&K Tire Company also.

The firm carries a complete line of home or auto accessories, including both plastic and fiber seat covers.

In the line of small appliances for the home, K&K Tire Company handles such items as waffle irons, coffee makers, toaster, food mixers and beautiful Arvin radios.

TOKYO—(AP)—Fire of unknown origin damaged two wards of a U. S. Air Force hospital near here Tuesday. The 219 patients—including 40 bed patients and two newborn babies—were removed without injury by American airmen and Japanese civilians.

Several airmen fighting the flames were overcome by smoke.

Lt. Col. L. E. Gatto, commanding officer of the hospital, said quick action of the airmen and civilians saved many patients from injury and kept the blaze from spreading.

French Finances Hurt By Unpaid Taxes; Already Hard Hit By Shortage Of Gold

PARIS (NEA)—If the French government could make people pay their taxes, revenue would exceed expenditure. If they would turn over to it their holdings of gold and gold currencies there would be no trouble about paying off debts incurred abroad.

Against the less than 500 tons of gold that constitute the official national reserve, there are at least 3,000, probably 3,000 and possibly 4,000 tons owned by French citizens.

What taxes citizens should pay—but don't—is the equivalent of at least one billion, probably two billion and possibly three billion dollars a year.

Within a few months recently, two governments bit the dust because Parliament refused to step up taxes in order to make the 1952 budget balance. A third, now in office, pronounced its aim to collect existing taxes instead of raising tax rates. Estimates of tax evasion run from 20 to 50 per cent. The budget deficit would be more than covered if just 20 per cent could be collected.

For Same Reason
But it probably can't be, for just the same reason as the two or three thousand tons of hoarded gold can't be gotten into the commonsensical, nearly empty, all-steel vaults of the national bank.

One shrewd Parisian put it this way: "Almost every citizen of France is convinced that the government is certain to lose or waste a good part of any gold or francs he may surrender into its keeping."

"Therefore he says to himself: 'The less surrendered, the better!'" Seeing what has been happening to the national currency for almost 40 years past, it is only natural that the French citizen should hold onto his gold and evade his taxes.

The government, after trying in vain to extort this gold, finally made it legal for him to buy and sell and hold it. It has now begun to make it legal for him to evade his taxes in full because they have become exaggerated, inequitable and complicated to the point of confusion.

Three Defects
The fiscal system developed these three defects by reason of the French genius for dodging taxes and successive short-lived governments' need of getting in more money as quickly as possible by any and every means. So one tax was piled on top of another and rates of taxation constantly raised.

Income taxes introduced into France less than 50 years ago, and never a success, proved slower and slower to react to incessantly rising prices and harder and harder to collect as their rates were raised. Of all state revenue, they never produced more than 26 per cent and now they produce 23 per cent. Where they are paid in full it is by the salary-earners, who represent 90 per cent of all income declarations.

Business contributes only 20 per cent and agriculture a mere 13 per cent.

In 1950 just 80,000 farmers paid income tax on profits averaging less than $650, while the 640,000 businessmen liable to tax on industrial and commercial profits declared an average of less than $1,500, the majority of them being taxed ex officio as having earned less than $1,500. Of course the progress of inflation brought payment in francs of less and less purchasing value.

Disappointment over the yield of direct taxation made France rely more and more on indirect levies. Use taxes now contribute 61 per cent of the revenue, turnover taxes 38 per cent.

But there is evasion there also. These turnover taxes amount sometimes to 20 per cent of the cost of a product, and naturally they rise as prices and production rise. Thus the temptation is to make out bills for less than real values, the balance passing in cash. The estimated tax loss is hundreds of millions of dollars a year.

Another defect in indirect taxation is its multiplicity. For instance, 14 taxes fall on coffee on its way from the plantation to the consumer. Another, still more serious, is that the more rates are raised the more prices rise.

Another Grievance
The taxpayer has another grievance. Only 64 per cent of all public revenue comes from national taxes. In addition, 26 per cent represents "parafiscal" charges, such as social insurance, and 10 per cent local taxes. The Ministry of Finance estimates that "fiscal and parafiscal pressure" absorbed 38 per cent of the national income in 1951, against 28 per cent in U. S. A. and 40 per cent in Great Britain.

Parliament's recent revolt against higher taxation makes some sense. What is wanted is simplification of more moderate rates and less, but not least, something like stability of the currency.

An authority on taxation suggested the other day in the most serious of Paris dailies that fiscal injustice may be today greater than in 1789, when fiscal injustice bred the Revolution. Like the franc the fiscal system is tottering.

On-Spot Analysis Of Anti-Red Nations In Europe Shows Cost And What We Got

By RICHARD HOLLANDER

PARIS (NEA)—The people of the United States have spent almost 12 billion dollars—exclusive of loans—since the end of World War II to aid the actively anti-Russian countries of Europe, and every taxpayer has the right to ask:

Is this investment paying off?

Obviously, the answer isn't as simple as the question.

First off, the money we've spent has to be broken down into three main categories.

1. Immediate public and private relief—for DP camps and milk stations for emergency food and winter clothing—to ease, temporarily, the personal tragedies of war. About $1,500,000,000 went for this purpose to these countries.

2. Long-term economic aid to rebuild the economy and local industry of the various countries so that they might one day stand on their own feet, cease to be a drain on U. S. taxpayers, and, through domestic prosperity, combat the internal menace of Communism. (This largely came to an end with the outbreak of the Korean war.)

3. Military aid to strengthen the countries with this aim in view: to make the anti-Communist and anti-Russian countries strong enough to discourage Russian aggression in Europe, or, failing that, to resist it until we get rolling. This is what Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower continually emphasizes as "enlightened self-interest."

To achieve this it is sometimes considered necessary to continue economic aid to certain countries, to revitalize those local industries that conceivably can be turned to war production, and to make it possible for the governments to finance larger defense budgets.

But, with the approach of the bright Spring of another fateful year, we are not ready to face the threat of a Russian attack. This is the sober opinion of American observers and experts abroad who are prepared to face the grim facts. They are too close to the guns to do otherwise.

These impressions and opinions, together with the information in the rest of this series, were gathered on a reporting trip to 10 countries of Europe and North Africa to study the progress of rearmament of our allies.

But as 1952 moves ahead, there are certain specific indicators of how our money is being spent, and why, and with what result toward the ultimate goal of collective security.

If you look at some of our allies and potential allies in Europe with a cold eye you find a conglomerate of what a wry post-World War I humorist called "small busted nations." To which the unsympathetic would add "disgruntled, selfish and disagreeable."

There's France, for instance. Unstable politically, she is harboring millions of Communist sympathizers—and fighting every step of the way against further drains on her economy for development of such prime mutual security projects as air bases for the American jets.

There's Britain, with an economy almost on the rocks, but which could be recalled to robust health if some way could be found to mine annually some 20 million more tons of the coal that lies temptingly beneath the island.

Part of that problem could be solved with more mine labor. There are 2,000,000 unemployed people in Italy, many of whom would like to go to England to work in the mines. But the British mine labor organizations won't have it.

Then there's Italy with those 2,000,000 unemployed, a high birth rate, and a local problem of Communism similar to France's.

Those millions of Communist party votes represent a sufficiently strong danger to make any government walk warily when it comes to our demands that greater portions of the national budgets be earmarked for military defense.

Take Yugoslavia, newest collaborator in our alliance against Russia.

This is no less a Communist dictator than when he was an honored partner behind the iron curtain. His country is woefully poor and only a long and expensive process of outside investment will bring the Yugoslav economy for war—or for peace—up to the posturing of the Yugoslav military talk.

Greece and Turkey are small and poor and have had to start almost from scratch in becoming modern military powers.

No one, not even General Eisenhower in his North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters outside Paris, could begin to read the future of all this. It adds up to playing the odds of calculated military risks—since no one can tell what goes on in Stalin's mind—and at the same time assisting the economy of the various countries so that in the foreseeable future they can take over their own jobs of military defense.

There is only one thing that these mis-mated and often traditionally antipathetic nations have in common. They form a wall around the iron curtain. NATO's aim is to reinforce that wall with steel. And, despite the continuing problems that sometimes seem almost insuperable, there is reason to hope that this can be done—without eventually destroying the American taxpayer.

Egypt Arrests Two Leaders Of Ousted Wafdist Government

CAIRO, EGYPT (P)—Fused Serag El Din Pasha and Abdel Patan Hassan Pasha, key men in the ousted Wafdist Party cabinet, were arrested Tuesday and whisked away to villages in Northern Egypt.

Serag El Din, party strong man, was interior and finance minister in the regime of Premier Mustafa El Nahas Pasha. Hassan was social affairs minister.

No charges were filed against them immediately.

Egypt's prosecutor general, however, recently accused Serag El Din—whose Interior Ministry controlled the police—of "administrative responsibility" for the disastrous fire riots of January 26, which took 67 lives and caused millions of dollars worth of property damage.

Political circles term the arrests the "first major blow" aimed by the independent government of Premier Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha against the Wafdist Party, which ruled Egypt two years before King Farouk ousted it after the Cairo riot.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Whoa! Whoa!

Old MacDonald has a farm, ee I ee I oh, and once he had a horse whose name was "Whoa." Daddy Ringtail had gone to the farm for a visit with old MacDonald and together they had gone to the barn to see the horse.

"Here, Whoa! Here, Whoa!" Old MacDonald called out. The horse whose name was Whoa came running up from out of the barn. Whoa was white all over. "Whoa, Whoa!" shouted Old MacDonald, because he wanted Whoa to stop his running. Whoa did stop his running. Whoa did whoa, and Old MacDonald held out a lump of sugar for him to eat. Daddy Ringtail gave Whoa a carrot. Whoa ate the sugar and the carrot too, and then he galloped around the barnyard fast, all to show what a very fine horse he was. Old MacDonald said he was awfully proud of Whoa. Why it wasn't everyone who had a big white horse whose name was Whoa.

Yes, Daddy Ringtail agreed. "Whoa is a very fine horse indeed." But wasn't the name of Whoa a little bit confusing? When a someone wants a horse to stop, the someone calls and says for the horse to whoa. And so wouldn't a horse get all mixed up when told to whoa if his name was Whoa?

But old MacDonald explained that not a bit of trouble had he had, especially because he had another horse whose name was "Giddy-up." Daddy Ringtail laughed to hear it. Said he: "Why, 'Giddy-up' is the word to my when you are wanting a horse to go."

"I know it, I know it," Old MacDonald agreed. He explained that he always hitched his horses together to the wagon. On one side he would hitch the white horse whose name was Whoa. On the other side of the wagon he would hitch the black horse whose name was Giddy-up.

"Giddy-up, Giddy-up!" Old MacDonald would shout when he wanted the horses to go. Giddy-up would giddy-up, and Whoa would follow along. When Old MacDonald was wanting the horses to whoa, he would call out the words: "Whoa, Whoa!" And so Whoa would whoa, and Giddy-up would stop beside him.

"No sir," said Old MacDonald, "I don't have any trouble with my horses at all." And I am glad he didn't, aren't you? Happy day!

Fabulous Construction Program Is Making Okinawa One Of America's Most Modern, Strongest Bases

Okinawa's bombers can range from Kamchatka to Southeast Asia.

OKINAWA (NEA) — When America completes all details of its peace with Japan, this island will assume a brand new strategic role in the Far East.

A fabulous construction program is rapidly turning Okinawa into one of the most modern, heavily fortified outposts that the U. S. will and used to be head of the Ohio highway system. He describes the new role of the island:

"The military importance of Okinawa under United States jurisdiction lies in its twin value as an offensive bomber base and as a potential staging area from which either amphibious or airborne operations could be launched to retake territory on its flanks which might be lost as a result of further Communist aggression.

"Okinawa-based medium bombers have far greater flexibility in choice of target areas than those based on either Japan or in the Philippines. They have an effective advantage in that they can reach all important target areas within an arch which includes all of Southeast Asia, the whole of modern China, the Lake Baikal industrial area, Eastern Siberia, and the southern tip of Kamchatka Peninsula.

Big Landing Strip
Under construction here is a new huge landing strip at Kadena Air Force Base which will be able to handle the largest bombers in existence, including the B-36, the new B-52 all-jet long-range bombers and practically any other big planes on blue prints. Okinawa's advantages as an A-bomb base are obvious. The island offers excellent facilities for atomic bomb storage.

During World War II, close to 200,000 troops were stationed in the Ryukyus. They were maintained and kept supplied across the beaches and through the badly damaged, unimproved ports of the island. Beightler explains:

"With the improvements which have been made in the port facilities, road nets, communication facilities, utilities, storage facilities and air fields, the total number of troops which could be staged through Okinawa should far exceed the number stationed there during the last war."

In cooperation with the 31st Air Division, Combat Cargo, which is headquartered at Fuchu, Japan, combat-ready troops based here are already carrying on extensive air transport maneuvers. This means maintain. And it will also be the only area in the Far East over which American forces will be exercising all powers of government.

Boas of the whole Ryukyus Command, with Okinawa as the main island and headquarters, is Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler. Fittingly, he is an experienced construction engineer

Okinawa-based combat troops sailed for Korea.

As the details of the Japanese peace are being worked out, it is becoming evident that there will be considerable pressure to consolidate U. S. military installations on Japan. And if peace in Korea should come, that pressure would be increased.

In the minds of many U. S. officials in Tokyo, Okinawa offers the best place to move those American defenses which are not absolutely essential on Japan. There has even been some very serious consideration given to the movement of the headquarters of the Far East Command here.

At the recent rate of expansion of all kinds of facilities here, the island could handle this major shift very nicely.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"My opponent picked up the discard pile in the middle of a hand, after both sides had seen melding freely, made some unimportant meld, and then discarded a king. Thereupon, since it was my turn, I asked my partner for permission to go out.

"The opponents raised quite a hullabaloo about this question. They stated that I was indicating that I was in position to take the discard pile, and that this gave my partner information that she was not entitled to have.

"Actually, I intended to take the discard pile and meld out if my partner gave permission. Otherwise I intended to draw from the stock and play on. When I admitted this, my opponents fussed even worse than before.

"What is the right procedure in this situation?"
It is perfectly legal and proper to ask for permission to meld out in this situation. The official laws specifically state that a player may ask permission to meld out before or after drawing from the stock.

The only reason for giving this privilege to a player is to make it possible for him to ask the question before he definitely commits himself to a draw from the stock. Otherwise, he could always draw from the stock first and then decide whether or not he wanted to ask any questions.

When he asks before committing himself, he leaves the way open to take the discard pile instead of drawing the top card of the stock pile.

Sometimes a player asks the question because he intends to take the discard pile and meld out if given permission. Sometimes, however, his intention is just the opposite.

For example, suppose there are several cards in the discard pile, and suppose also that you are in out position even before you draw a card. You might have three kings in your hand at a time when your side has already completed a canasta. With this kind of holding you are ready to meld out no matter what you may draw from the stock pile.

Now the player at your right throws a king. You ask permission to meld out, intending to take one card from the stock pile and meld out if given permission. If refused permission, you will pick up the discard pile, meld your kings, and continue with the play of the hand.

Gen. Beightler: Okinawa has "begun to pay for itself."

that the island is being readied right now as a staging area for airborne operations. The vital new military mission of the Ryukyus is already partially operational.

Number Secret
Next to Europe and Korea, Okinawa now has more U. S. Army and Air Force personnel than any base outside of the American continental limits. The actual number of U. S. forces here is a secret, but it is considerable, and growing just about every day.

Okinawa, as the last major action in World War II, cost America heavily in blood and dollars. But it is Beightler's opinion that the island has already "begun to pay for itself as a formidable weapon against aggression." He explains:

"While the U. S. scrambled to get supplies and equipment to combat troops at the outbreak of the Korean war, Okinawa, a scant 850 miles from Korea, stood poised not only with ready-made airfields, but with a gigantic roll-up stock of material from World War II. Less than a month after hostilities began,

Children, like us, are very apt to behave most defiantly when they are most ashamed, most in need of the knowledge of their shame. We should try to remember this, so that when they are behaving too arrogantly or abusively, we can say, "My goodness, I don't know what you're so ashamed about, but it certainly can't be as bad as you think it is." They will be very grateful to us for holding open our communication with them so that they can feel free to admit that they have really felt shame instead of anger.

Some parents close this channel of communication with a child and battle with his defiance instead of helping him utter the shame that is back of it. The shame piles up until it chokes the child, while the blind parent kept on nagging, scolding, and condemning.

It is a terrible thing to be a child and have one's shame mistaken for cockiness and defiance. (All rights reserved, NEA Service Inc.)

Truman Describes Self As Sentimental, Lonely Man In New Book, Mr. President

By ED CREECH

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Harry S. Truman, in his own words, is a sentimental, lonely man who sometimes feels the White House has turned him into "a two-headed calf" — a freak in the eyes of the American people.

Truman believes "there is no indispensable man in a democracy." The President makes this comment on politicians in general:

"They never get out until they die or are kicked out."

A big, 55 book full of these and thousands of other "unrehearsed private thoughts" of the 32nd President went on sale Tuesday. The title: "Mr. President."

William Hillman, Mutual Broadcasting System commentator, is listed as the author. But some 65,000 of the 80,000 words are those of Harry Truman himself. They are from his leather-bound diaries, his private memoranda, his correspondence, his sometimes startling frank conversations.

This unprecedented — if unrefined — look into the mind are activities of a President still in the White House discloses among other things that:

Twice, at least, since he took office, Truman has feared World War III was on the verge of breaking out.

As early as January, 1946, Truman declared he was tired of "babbling the Soviets" — saying so in a memo that rapped the knuckles of James F. Byrnes, then secretary of State, for keeping him in the dark on foreign policy developments.

He welcomed the nomination of Thomas E. Dewey for President by the Republicans in 1948 because he felt Dewey had nothing to offer the voters except a "warmed-over platform."

Dangerous Dreamer
And he viewed one of his own cabinet members — Henry A. Wallace, whom he fired — as a "dreamer" more dangerous to the country than the old German-American Bund.

This 253-page book, a best-seller even on the basis of pre-publication orders, adds up to a campaign document that the Democrats can use whether Truman seeks reelection or not.

For all its wealth of personal information about Truman, before and after he went into politics at the behest of the Pendragon organization in Kansas City, it is significant for what it leaves out as well as for what it contains.

Among the noteworthy omissions: There are only fleeting and non-committal references to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After World War II, Truman praised Eisenhower to the skies and promised to help him get anything he wanted—including the presidency in 1948.

Now, in 1952, Eisenhower is in the running for the Republican presidential nomination although not personally an active candidate.

And Truman, in the new book, does not mention Eisenhower on his list of the "greatest generals" while saying Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff "tops them all."

Similarly, Truman has nothing significant to say about Eisenhower's chief rival for this year's GOP nomination, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Crooked Politicians
Truman makes no bones of the fact that he was sponsored in politics by the Pendragon organization. But he says the Kansas City machine never influenced him as a public official.

"There is nothing I detest so much as a crooked politician or corrupt government official," he says. And he adds, speaking of the corruption charges made against his own Administration:

"But the type of businessman who is a fixer is even lower in my estimation."

The Truman-Hillman book will be read avidly for, among other things, the President's frequently uninhibited comments on other public figures and his accounts of his dealings with them.

He blasts John L. Lewis as "a demagogue in action" who "cannot face the music when the tune is not to his liking."

He makes public the 1948 letter which precipitated his break with financier Bernard Baruch — a letter implying Baruch was ungrateful for favors he and his family received.

Truman records that he has had to fire some of his top aides because they got "too big for their breeches," and he gives this account of a 1945 talk with former President Hoover:

"We discussed our prima donnas and wondered what makes them. Some of my boys who came in with me are having trouble with their dignity and prerogatives. It's hell when a man gets in close association with the President. Something happens to him."

What a Life!
Something happens to the President, too, once the White House gates close behind him.

Truman records the dreariness of dining in state alone: "What a life!"

He speaks often of his enforced separations from his wife and their daughter — "our baby," he calls her.

Wallace Lashes Out At Truman's 'Mr. X' Reference

SOUTH SALEM, N. Y. (AP) — Henry A. Wallace Tuesday indirectly accused President Truman of "character assassination."

Wallace's charge was in reply to newly published Truman diary notes about a Sept. 18, 1946, conversation with a "Mr. X" whom Truman called "dangerous" and a "pacifist."

Wallace said Truman "knew the newspaper men would conclude that Mr. X was I."

Wallace said that if Truman either admitted "Mr. X" was Wallace, or refused to comment on the identity, "I shall charge him with the same deliberate character assassination which he finds so despicable in others."

The MATURE PARENT

Childish Defiance May Be Concealing Shame

Eddie's teacher gave out the midterm report cards just before the dismissal bell rang.

Outside in the noisy school corridor, Eddie opened his folded card. He didn't faint, scream, or clutch his brow. He contemplated the card for a moment or two, then, putting it into his pocket, zipped up his windbreaker, slung his books over his shoulder and started home.

Nevertheless, he was in a state of shock. As he reached fresh air, his brain already was busy flashing along the delicate nerve lanes of his body. "Prepare for enemy action!" radioed Eddie's brain to his body — and at once, within it, an extraordinary stir, silent and invisible, began to take place.

His body's complex defense systems, alerted now to arm Eddie against his father's reaction to his algebra mark, began to marshal its reserves, pouring stimulants into his bloodstream, tensing his muscles, accelerating his heartbeat until by the time his father came home, Eddie was braced for battle.

Nothing could have been less attractive, more cocky, more defiant than the way he tossed his report card at his father and said, "I've failed algebra." He was or course ashamed of having failed algebra. Unfortunately, Eddie's father did not perceive his son's shame over his failure. If he had he would have about putting the shame to a useful purpose. He would have said, "Eddie, too much shame over a failure is as bad as none at all. Every good person fails, and every good person is ashamed, sometime or other. Only if they are foolish do they stay ashamed too long."

Comfort like that for all Eddie really needed to quiet down. Just some truthful words to which the truth in the child would respond so that Eddie would come flying out of the false defiance and say to his father, "Oh, dad, when I saw that 18 on my report card, I wanted to run away and never see anyone I know again."

But as Eddie's father did not perceive that his boy was ashamed of his failure, he could not, of course, say what his boy needed to have said.

Why didn't he perceive that Eddie was ashamed? Because Eddie's father was in no condition to perceive anything but his own emotions when he learned that his son had failed. His own feelings about the failure were so overwhelming he was quite blind to anything but them.

He was afraid, for example, that his neighbors might think he had begotten a moron instead of a bright and creditable child. He foresaw future embarrassment if Eddie couldn't collect enough credits for the right college. He saw, in Eddie's algebra failure, the alarming possibility of other, more serious failures. His concern for himself so preoccupied him that in the hour he took to express himself on the subject of Eddie's failure, he never once thought of interrupting himself to say, "And how do you feel about this mark, Eddie?"

Children, like us, are very apt to behave most defiantly when they are most ashamed, most in need of the knowledge of their shame. We should try to remember this, so that when they are behaving too arrogantly or abusively, we can say, "My goodness, I don't know what you're so ashamed about, but it certainly can't be as bad as you think it is." They will be very grateful to us for holding open our communication with them so that they can feel free to admit that they have really felt shame instead of anger.

Some parents close this channel of communication with a child and battle with his defiance instead of helping him utter the shame that is back of it. The shame piles up until it chokes the child, while the blind parent kept on nagging, scolding, and condemning.

It is a terrible thing to be a child and have one's shame mistaken for cockiness and defiance. (All rights reserved, NEA Service Inc.)
