Grisham Kills Gas; To Run Casing At Culberson Project

M. A. Grisham and associates No. 1 Grisham well, Central-East Culberson County wildcat, 30 miles northwest of Toyah has killed its heavy gas flow with drilling mud.

The project was reported to be completely calm Wednesday morning and the hole would not take any more drilling mud material.

To Take Surveys

Operator is now preparing to take electric log surveys.

That operation will be followed by setting and cementing 7-inch casing on bottom.

After the pipe is secured the plug will be drilled out and the project will core deeper.

It is expected that it will be late this week before the casing is started.

Could Not Run Tools

This prospector had been blowing large amounts of gas for several days. The gas flow was so strong operator had not been able to get the tools on bottom to core ahead from the total depth of 3,954 feet in an unidentified line said chest.

That section had shown gas estimated to have been at least 40 million cubic feet per day in a drill-stem test at 9,030-04 feet.

The gas was inflammable and it was sweet. It did not appear to carry any considerable amount of distillate.

Sprayed Some Water

After the drillstem test the gas continued to blow and it sprayed out some salt water. It is thought the water came from the section at 8,088-8,172 feet.

That zone was tested and made some gas cut salt water. No oil was shown in that test.

The wildcat is 600 feet from south and west lines of section 10, block 60, T-5, W-2P survey.

American Maracaibo Due To Acquire Case, Pomeroy Concerns

Frederick R. Ryan, president of the American Maracaibo Company, and Hadley Case, president of Case, Pomeroy & Company, Inc., announced Wednesday that the boards of directors of the two companies had adopted a proposal for the acquisition by American Maracaibo Company of all the capital stock of three subsidiaries of Case, Pomeroy & Company, Inc. These subsidiaries are Case-Pomeroy Oil Corporation, Felmont Oil Corporation and Moniopa Oil Company, Inc.

Subject To Approval

Subject to the approval of its stockholders, American Maracaibo Company will issue 1,100,000 shares of its common stock in exchange for the stock of the Case, Pomeroy subsidiaries, which will increase the outstanding common stock of American Maracaibo Company to 2,917,041 shares. This proposal will be submitted to the annual meeting of stockholders of the American Maracaibo, on May 20, 1952; with such submission financial and other information will be furnished stockholders.

Ryan To Retire

Ryan, who has been general counsel and director since 1924, and president since 1935, of American Maracaibo, has announced that he now desires to retire from such offices on completion of this transaction, continuing, however, as a consultant. It is expected that Case will succeed him as president.

Gulf Spots Site For 13,000-Foot Upton Exploration

Gulf Oil Corporation will drill No. 1 McElroy Ranch Company State as a 13,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Central-West Upton County.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 182, block E, C-2S-2-R-2P survey. It is one mile east of the north portion of the McElroy field and two and one-quarter miles southwest of Gulf's recent Pennsylvania discovery in the Jigger Y field. The closest Ellenburger pool is the Wilshire-Ellenburger five and three-quarter miles to the east.

Texas Drouth Now In Critical Stages

The Texas drouth, steadily growing more critical, was accentuated Wednesday by the statement of a soil conservation official that the worst may be yet to come.

Soldiers in Exercise Long Horn, joint Army-Air Force maneuver in Central Texas, found the drouth their common enemy as opposing sides in the war games choked and cursed the blinding, foot-deep layers of dust that hampered military convoy movement.

Regional Soil Conservation Service Director Louis P. Merrill said in Fort Worth that the next 30 to 45 days may be the most critical of the current season of sand storms.

At College Station, Chancellor Gilb Gilchrist of the Texas A&M College System moved to deal with the water shortage problems in the state. Gilchrist called a meeting of heads of six parts of his statewide organization now dealing with the problem.

Wind erosion conditions in the South Plains were described by Edwin Merrill of the Lubbock County Soil Conservation District as the worst he has seen in his lifetime.

Midlanders Conduct Marathon Prayers For Needed Rainfall

Midlanders moved under clear skies early Wednesday into the auditorium of the First Baptist Church to open an "around-the-clock prayer marathon for rain."

A wholesome attitude of humility, prevailed as the Rev. Leon Woods, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, started the inaugural service at 7 a.m. He read a scripture from the fifth chapter of James which told of the appeals of prophets for rain or its discontinuance.

A representative gathering of men and women joined Mr. Woods and the Rev. Jim Goins, pastor of the Belview Baptist Church, in offering prayer.

Mr. Goins asked that "we be worthy of blessings" and pleaded for rain on the assumption that God's will be done.

The hourly prayer services will continue throughout Wednesday night and until 8 a.m. Thursday. Regular Wednesday night prayer meetings will be devoted to appeals for moisture in this drouth-stricken area.

Mock Atom Blast Decimates Invading Long Horn 'Chutists'

FORT HOOD —(AP)— A mock atomic attack has struck aggressor forces which parachuted behind "U. S. lines" Tuesday.

The attack, announced Tuesday night by Exercise Long Horn headquarters, virtually wiped out the 2,500-man paratroop force dropped north of Copperas Cove.

A briefing officer said a hasty evaluation showed enemy losses to be staggering.

He also said a mock atomic bomb attack by U. S. aircraft early Tuesday struck aggressor targets in the vicinities of Victoria, Beeville, Cotulla, Alice and Hondo. For maneuver purposes all these South Texas points are assumed to be under enemy control.

Because "most civilians had been evacuated," the briefing officer said, there were few casualties among them.

An hour and a half after a brigade of 82nd Airborne "aggressor" troops parachuted from giant transport planes Tuesday, the atomic cloud burst over the drop zone.

It really was a smoke bomb timed to explode at about 1,000 feet.

The Army communique—No. 2 of Operation Long Horn, biggest air-ground maneuver in U. S. military history—stated briefly without detail: "The U. S. ground forces delivered an atomic attack against the aggressor ground forces." There were no U. S. planes in the air—

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Senate Banking Committee Wednesday voted to recommend extension of the Defense Production Act, which provides price, wage and other controls, for one year from its June 30 expiration date.

TRENTON, N. J. —(AP)— State Superior Court Wednesday ruled that Senator Taff's name will remain in the New Jersey April 15 presidential preference primary.

AUSTIN —(AP)— The State Pardon Board Wednesday recommended a 30-day stay of execution for William K. Jones, scheduled to die in the electric chair shortly after midnight for the murder of his 12-year-old daughter in Hamlin Feb. 27, 1951.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government Wednesday lifted its ban on white sidewall tires and increased the amount of natural rubber that may be used in passenger car tires.

Joseph McCarthy

Senator Sues Foe For Libel, Slander

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) said Wednesday he has filed a two million dollar "libel, slander and conspiracy" suit against Senator Benton (D-Conn.), who has demanded that McCarthy be ousted from the Senate.

Benton last week offered to waive his congressional immunity from suit. McCarthy said he was accepting Benton's offer.

There was no immediate comment from Benton. He is in Los Angeles, where a Senate Small Business Taxation subcommittee expects to open hearings Thursday.

C. Of C. Workers Seek New Members

More than 50 enthusiastic business leaders Wednesday were engaged in an intensive Chamber of Commerce membership campaign—the first staged here since before the World War II years.

Working in teams of two's, the volunteer campaigners were calling upon approximately 300 business firms in an effort to interest them in becoming members of the Chamber of Commerce.

The campaign is an all-out, one-day effort to increase the income of the Chamber of Commerce by at least $5,000 annually to meet the organization's $28,718 budget for this year. All workers are expected to file reports by Wednesday night.

Manager Delbert Downing said a complete tabulation of campaign results will be available Thursday. Only two or three teams had made incomplete reports by Wednesday noon.

"Judging from the excellent response reported this morning, it appears the campaign will be most successful from the standpoints of new members and membership revenue." Downing stated.

A well-attended briefing session Tuesday afternoon in Hotel Schaefer paved the way for the launching of the drive.

Joe T. Dickerson, chairman of the Chamber's Membership Committee, presided at the Tuesday meeting. He outlined the purpose of the campaign and expressed appreciation to the business leaders for their interest in the Chamber of Commerce.

Goal For Year Cited

"Our immediate goal is to meet the organization's present budget, but our goal for the year is to increase Chamber of Commerce membership revenues to at least $30,000, which is needed for adequate financing of your Chamber of Commerce," President Jack Wicker said in addressing the gathering.

Campaign instructions were given by Downing, who also outlined the broad program of community services and accomplishments of the organization.

Prospect cards were distributed by Hurvin Hines, assistant manager of the Chamber.

Nine Vote Absentee In Council Election

Nine absentee ballots already have been cast in the April 1 City Council election and the last day for such voting will be Friday, City Secretary J. C. Hudman said Wednesday.

There are two vacancies to be filled although J. T. Baker is unopposed for one of them.

France Ousts Top Tunisian Nationalists

TUNIS, TUNISIA —(AP)— France cracked down with a heavy fist on Tunisia's independence-seeking Nationalists Wednesday, arresting Premier Mohammed Chenik and three of his cabinet. Martial law and press censorship also were ordered.

The drastic steps were taken after the Tunisian government and the French protectorate's nominal ruler, the 70-year-old bey of Tunis, had balked at what was described as a French ultimatum that Chenik must be fired.

Muslims Go On Strike

The French action climaxed three months of Nationalist rioting and sabotage in this North African trouble spot and World War II battleground. In the violence almost 100 lives have been lost. Hundreds have been arrested and put behind barred wire.

Muslims in Tunis went on strike Wednesday in protest against the French action, which included a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. and transfer of all police powers to the military.

Tunisia wants more self-rule and has asked the United Nations for help. Asian, Arab and some African members of the UN are planning to push the Nationalist appeal before the Security Council, much to the annoyance of France.

The protectorate's real ruling authority, French Resident General Jean de Hautecloque, in a broadcast to the Tunisian people Wednesday, charged that the premier "encouraged, if he wasn't an accomplice to," the Nationalist demonstrations, attacks and sabotage.

De Hautecloque said France was ready to institute reforms that would satisfy the "legitimate aspirations of Tunisians" and "would lead Tunisia to internal autonomy" but that before these could be made, the present Tunisian cabinet would have to go.

Council Told March 29 Is Move-In Date

The City Council was informed officially Tuesday night that the United States government will exercise its right to recapture Midland Airpark on a joint use basis with civilians, effective March 29.

Representatives of the Air Force, the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Corps of Engineers were expected here Wednesday or Thursday to arrange final details.

Bitter Steel Wage Scrap Cools Down

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A bitter scrap among high Administration officials over wage policy simmered down Wednesday as steel firms and the CIO Steelworkers returned to negotiations.

A strike of more than 650,000 workers in the vital steel industry is threatened April 8, only two weeks away. Officials urged both sides to work for a speedy settlement to avert a walkout.

Negotiations got under way Wednesday afternoon in Pittsburgh between the union and U. S. Steel Corporation and Jones & Laughlin Steel, two of the largest producers. Talks with other major firms start Thursday.

The Administration row centered around Defense Mobilization Boss Charles E. Wilson. He touched it off by labeling Wage Stabilization Board proposals for settling the steel wage issues "a serious threat" to inflation control.

Wilson later sought to ease the situation by issuing a statement saying that, while he hadn't (Continued On Page Nine)

NO SALE—Steve Ribnikar, right, Houston, puffs on a cigarette after probation officers arrested him for allegedly trying to sell his chubby, three-year-old daughter, Sharon, for $500 and a car. Sharon holds tightly to her doll as Harris County probation officials determine dispensation of her case.

The official notice came from George F. Meier, deputy chief of real estate for the Corps of Engineers.

The airport will be used as an auxiliary field by the Big Spring Air Force Base, which is scheduled to begin operations early in April.

The City Council, as well as other groups, have protested its use strongly, pointing out that it would create a hazard to residential areas rapidly extending toward the boundaries of the airfield.

The government, in recapturing its use, is exercising a provision of agreement made by the city at the time it acquired Airpark after World War II.

"This office," wrote Meier, "appreciates the views expressed by the council in its resolution.

No Other Choice

"However, I am sure that the council is undoubtedly aware as a result of the conference with representatives of the government that an urgent military necessity requires the utilization, at least temporarily, of facilities at Midland Airpark for the training of Air Force pilots assigned to the Big Spring Air Force Base, pending the development of other fields for this purpose.

"Because of this military necessity and in view of the resolution of the City Council of 10 January, 1952, the Department of Air Force has determined that it has no other choice than to exercise the rights of the government for the use of Midland Airpark as a necessary adjunct of the Big Spring Air Force Base."

Although the Big Spring base will be used for training jet pilots, no jet planes will be used at the field here, according to Air Force representatives.

Instead, propeller-driven T-38 type trainers will be used here.

Crippled Children Attend Clinic Here

More than 70 children from eight counties had registered by Wednesday noon for the annual Crippled Children's Clinic sponsored here by the State Department of Health, with the assistance of the Children's Service League of Midland.

A trio of specialists was conducting careful examinations. They will recommend treatment.

Movies were being shown continuously as the children awaited their turn. Comic books were available to the children, too.

Sandwiches, ice cream and other food were served during the morning.

City-Owned Park Offered As Solution To Midland's Growing Trailer Problem

A community trailer park, owned and operated by the City of Midland, was proposed Tuesday night as the City Council renewed its study of the city's growing trailer problem.

The council instructed City Manager W. H. Oswalt to make a study of the costs involved and prepare a report on the project next week.

The trailer park possibly would be located at Rosedale on the Cloverdale Road and would provide not only the necessary utilities and sanitary facilities but planned recreation areas for the children.

The trailer situation came under discussion again as the council studied a proposal to change the zoning classification of a 14-block area in the South part of the city from B to C.

Under the B classification, no trailers are permitted although hundreds now are in the area, some in trailer camps and some in the back and front yards of private residences.

Residents Ask Change

A large delegation of residents from the area appeared before the council in support of the change but final action was delayed pending further study of the trailer situation.

Under present ordinances, trailers are permitted in G-zoned areas.

The area involved in the zoning change proposed Tuesday night is bounded by the alleys between Main and Baird Streets, Florida and California Streets, Terrell and Mineola Streets and New York and Washington Streets.

The change had been recommended to the council by the City Planning and Zoning Commission.

"We were reluctant to approve it," said A. C. Caswell, chairman of the commission, "but they were so persistent about it and the property owners so overwhelmingly in favor of it, we decided to turn it over to the council."

Caswell said there was a danger that such a change would create a health hazard and "we would need inspectors to check it constantly."

"I think if the people over there understood perfectly what is involved," he added, "they'd be against it."

Leonard Howell, an attorney, was spokesman for the 23 or 40 residents in favor of the change.

"The reasons for requesting the change are varied," he told the council.

"The homes down there are old and fairly worn. They were built many years ago, since that was the original Midland townsite.

One Objection Heard

"The majority of the people feel that a rezoning would enhance the value of their property."

The objection to the change was voiced by Robert Currie, who lives in the area.

"I have seen shotgun trailers put in that area and we were helpless to do anything about it.

"The reason they want the change is that they have been misinformed or they are just hungry for an extra dollar."

He produced a number of photographs showing some of the "undesirable establishments" which already have been built in the area.

"What's to stop any shade tree mechanic," he said, "from moving in and spending half the night beating out fenders?"

A middle-aged woman in the group arose to take exception to Currie's objections.

"My name," she said, "is Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, and I live in one of those shotgun trailers and I'm a registered voter.

"I just want to say that my place is as clean as any place in town and I'm particular who I live next to."

Howell added that "a trailer isn't objectionable just because it's a trailer."

Action Deferred

Oswalt pointed out that several hundred trailers already had moved into the area.

"If that's in a B zone," asked Mayor Perry Fickett, "how did those trailers get in there?"

"We just didn't have the provisions for enforcing the ordinance," answered Oswalt.

While no action was taken Tuesday night, members of the council—and Councilmen J. E. McCoy, J. W. McMullen and Jack Wilkinson—were present—indicated some regulation should be placed on the location of trailer areas.

On other zoning proposals, the council turned down a request to change an area in Parkside addition from B to C but approved the change from B to E of an area in the Midland Heights addition.

SQUIRTING IS COSTLY AFFAIR

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—(AP)—Squirting a fellow motorist with a fire extinguisher to resolve a traffic dispute was a costly affair for Barney Garrett, a 31-year-old truck driver.

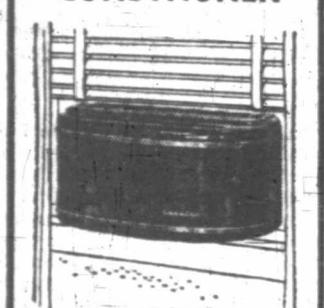

In city court Tuesday, druggist Lamar Howe testified Garrett challenged him to a fight after a near traffic collision.

Howe said he turned down the challenge. Garrett then drove the truck driver let go with the fire extinguisher, drenching him and three other occupants of his car, including two women.

Judge John B. Scott convicted Garrett of disorderly conduct and sentenced him to six months at hard labor.

Rumors Say TV Versus Movies Puts Ginger In The Middle

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—Exclusively Yours: The newest rumor on the Hollywood grapevine—is Ginger Rogers, riding the crest of the wave again as a movie queen, deliberately squeezing out of her CBS-TV deal to avoid being penalized by movie-makers? The visual shooting in the Hollywood-vs.-TV war has stopped in favor of cloak-and-dagger under-cover sniping.

Ginger Simms answers the "Will you wed rich Bob Calhoun?" question: "We're just very, very good friends and we have no plans to marry. I'm going to give into a career and make up for the time I've lost. It was an effort to work during my last marriage. Now it's fun. I'll send up shares if I change my mind about marrying."

Joan Bennett and Walter Wanger—in spite of all the smoke-screening about Joan's huddles with ex-hubby Gene Markey—have been having nighty dates. Ask the sharp-eyed headwaters in the quiet spots around town.

Frank DeVol, about a movie doll: "The only thing shy about her is 10 years when you ask her age."

Alice Corey, wife of Wendell Corey, was trying to persuade her eight-year-old daughter, Robin, to eat some strawberries. "You must," said Mrs. Corey. "Strawberries will make your lips nice and red."

"Lipstick's quicker," replied Robin. Harpo Marx, the voiceless clown with the demented grin, turned down an offer of $50,000 in 1946 to speak one word in Ben Hecht's "Specter of the Rose" and declined a lesser sum a few days ago to utter even a "Howdy" on a TV show.

But recently Harpo came close to breaking down, he says, to speak lines in a Hollywood movie version of "Don Camillo," a novel translated from the Italian.

"It was the role of a priest and I wanted to play it more than anything," he told me. "I was ready to talk for the first time in my career. Then we discovered that the picture was already being made in Italy."

Now Claudette Colbert's mixed up with British politics.

The producers of "White Blood," the picture she's making in London, are saying that Claudette was chosen over a British star because the Churchill government wants the U. S. to know the full story of its war effort in Malaya—background of the movie. With Claudette in the film, a bigger U.-S. audience is assured.

Watch for: The Andrews Sisters' new record click, "Why Worry?"

Marie Wilson and CBS are talking a new 10-year video deal because of her "My Friend Irma" hit on the TV screens.

Encouraging Note: Stanley Kramer's promising a war movie, "The Dirty Dozen," unique in its absence of cliché characters. The following characters, says Stanley, do not appear in the film:

The wise-cracking Brooklyn boy, the southern lad, the coward GI the others call "Pop," the oldie who turns hero and dies, the stinker who regenerates and the tough sergeant with the heart of gold.

La Errol "Flynn-Ching?"

Pat Wymore is keeping copious notes on life with Errol Flynn for the book she plans to write. That should be a best-seller.

Success Story: Four years ago Sally Forrest was in the chorus of a Gene Kelly, Judy Garland musical, "The Pirate." Now she'll co-star with Gene in "Invitation to the Dance."

If Jack Benny, Jimmy Durante and Jerry Lewis can dress up as gals on TV, Burt Lancaster can ditto in movies. Husky Bert disguises himself as a sexy doll in "The Crimson Pirate."

Zsa Zsa Gabor and Lisa Gerraday, who have both denied the feud reports, are moving into Hollywood's hottest meow-meow war.

Lisa blazes at the mention of Zsa Zsa's name and Miss Double Z, when asked about Lisa's remarks about her, bristled: "Who is this Lisa Ferret?"

Hair pulling, anyone?

Mary Anderson, meanwhile, is burning about a TV appearance with Zsa Zsa on her panel show. Petite Mary asked that her chair be built up with cushions so Z. Z. wouldn't tower over her. A few seconds before the show, Z. Z. found about Mary's padding and insisted on her own chair being built up.

Rita Plans Month's Motor Junket, Then Reno, Divorce

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Rita Hayworth says she will take a month's motor tour of the Southwest and then drive to Reno for her divorce from Prince Aly Khan.

The flame-haired actress finishes work on her picture Wednesday. She has purchased a station wagon and will drive to Southwest sun resorts with her secretary, Margaret Potter. Then she will report to Reno to pick up her divorce from the playboy son of Aga Khan, Moslem leader.

In an exclusive interview, Miss Hayworth scotched recurrent rumors that she is planning a return to Europe to reconcile with Prince Aly. She told me she has not been in touch with him. She agreed that the Aly Khan chapter in her fabulous life is ended.

Miss Hayworth will retain full custody of Yasmin, their daughter. She offered no comment on other terms of the separation. She will not be required to remain six weeks in Reno for the divorce, since she legally is a citizen of Nevada.

"I am a resident of Glenbrook, Nev.," she explained. "I established residence there when I returned to this country. The divorce could be a matter of hours, but I may stay around Reno for a few days. I like Nevada very much."

When I saw her Tuesday night, the actress remarked that she was weary from the movie-making routine.

"I started out with six weeks of dance rehearsals," she said. "That left me completely exhausted. After all, I haven't danced for four years. In fact, I haven't done anything for four years."

"When I started shooting, I had 'screen fright.' I knew I would. But after 10 days, I got settled down. Then I began to like working again."

Not Above Cheesecake

The picture stopped shooting last week. But she has been posing for photographs to advertise and exploit the picture of "Affair in Trinidad." She even is posing in a bathing suit, proving that princesses are not above cheesecake.

"Now I'm ready for a rest," she said.

New Texas Plant To Utilize Spent Sulphuric Acid

NEW YORK—(AP)—Large amounts of spent sulphuric acid will be used in a new chemical plant to be built at Texas City by Chemical Construction Company.

The new plant, for which ground was broken a fortnight ago, is the phosphate fertilizer and mineral supplement plant designed for Texas City Chemical Company.

Use of the spent acid, Maj. Gen. William N. Porter said Tuesday, will help ease the Texas sulphur shortage. R. L. Wheelock of Corsicana, Texas, and Jack Winfrey, Dallas, announced construction of the plant about three weeks ago. Winfrey, Wheelock, W. L. Pickens of Dallas and H. H. Coffield of Rockport are principal stockholders in the new plant.

Actual construction of the plant, Chemico officials said, would start around July 1.

Twentieth Century Hears Talk On 'Careers For Older Women'

Mrs. Brandon E. Rea spoke to the Twentieth Century Study Club Tuesday on "Careers For Older Women."

The club met in the home of Mrs. Carl O. Hyde. To introduce the speaker, Mrs. Rea used the following question from Cicero: "It is not by muscle, speed or physical dexterity that things are achieved, but by reflection, force of character and judgment. In these qualities, age is richer, not poorer."

She explained the difference between a job and a career, saying that a job uses a set of given skills and pays a living wage, while a career satisfies the deeper urges of the personality.

Other reasons given for why an older woman might want to seek a job, she named money, use of extra time after the children are older and the need to reduce the shock of a tragic experience.

Some of the fields open to older women, Mrs. Rea said, are marketing, housekeeping, homemaking service, housemother in a fraternity or sorority, hotel housekeeper, restaurant hostess, insurance or real estate salesman, merchandising and research.

Before seeking a job, she added, a woman should analyze both herself and her field, considering her liabilities as well as her vocational training.

She concluded her talk with this quotation from a Greek philosopher: "Employment is nature's best physician and essential to human happiness."

Unusual Careers Told

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. G. Epley, program chairman. Mrs. K. E. Heidland and Mrs. R. H. Frizell became new members. Roll call was answered with the name of an unusual career.

Mrs. J. B. Bain, incoming president, reported on the recent Texas Federation of Women's Clubs convention in El Paso. It was brought out at the meeting, she said, that clubs have for their three-fold purpose, programs, projects and resolutions.

Plans were discussed for a hobby show to be held at the next meeting. Each member was asked to bring something in the nature of a hobby which could be sold.

Rev. McCullough Is WMU Guest Speaker

The Rev. C. W. McCullough, missionary on furlough from San Andres Island, addressed the Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church Tuesday in the church auditorium.

He illustrated his talk by showing films on his work. The all-day meeting also included a morning program and a covered dish luncheon. Featured at the morning session were a film, "In His Name," and a pre-Easter program presented by the Dorcas Kindergarten.

AAUW Music Group Listens To Classics

Film Highlights Auxiliary Meet

A film, "Window in the Sky," was featured on the program at the Monday meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Trinity Episcopal Church.

The group met in the parish house with Mrs. J. R. Roseman, Mrs. Harward Fisher and Mrs. M. H. Greenstreet as hostesses.

Mrs. Harvey Hird gave a workshop report on Christian education and on a talk given by the Rev. Gray Blandy, who holds the Episcopal Bible Chair at the University of Texas. Other workshop reports were given as follows: Mrs. John Butler, church periodicals; Mrs. William Studdert, Christian social relations; Mrs. Don Strivals, United Thank Offering, and Mrs. F. N. Shriver, Altar Group.

Mrs. A. T. Barrett, president, reported on a talk given by Mrs. Wedel at the convocation held in Amarillo March 15, 16 and 17. Mrs. Wedel is the chairman of the board of the Woman's Auxiliary of the National Church. The group voted to pack and send several boxes to the Elizabeth Saunders Home.

Petroleum, Progress, Freedom

The concept that the world's resources are inexhaustible was advanced by Eugene Holman, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in addressing the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Holman, a native West Texan, pointed out that from the earliest times when men used minerals drawn from the earth, the availability of larger numbers of minerals, in greater quantities, has progressed by a step-like process.

Each successive age has been shorter than the one before it, he said in discussing the pattern of material progress. He noted that each step has been dependent on the one before it.

Holman emphasized that "use" of the raw materials available in one period supported societies in which men could accumulate knowledge, which made new quantities and new kinds of material available.

He said the concept of conservation as non-use is a fallacy which results only in hobbling progress.

Holman made it clear he does not advocate reckless squandering of natural resources, but he does advocate true conservation, which is not hoarding but efficient and intelligent use.

He cited the petroleum industry as one example how increasing knowledge operates to expand available natural resources. It is a story familiar to every West Texan and one which every resident of the Permian Basin Empire should know to the high heavens.

The internationally-known oil company executive said that by producing and using oil we have built a dynamic oil industry and have accumulated the means to find more oil. He mentioned recent discoveries including the Spraberry Trend, and the Seely County reef as examples of great new sources of oil.

He told the geologists that in the United States alone, there has been produced since 1938 as much oil as was known to exist in the country at that time, and that despite this great withdrawal, the domestic industry's proved reserves are at an all-time high level.

He hammered home the fact that in a very real sense raw materials do not exist, but rather are created, and that many storehouses of useful raw materials have been sealed by extreme nationalization, government controls and monopolies, currency restrictions, abnormal tariffs, threats of expropriation, and wars and revolution.

His concluding statement—"The basic requirement for progress is freedom—freedom to inquire, to think, to communicate, to venture"—was the climax of his fine address.

Petroleum, Progress and Freedom surely go hand in hand in the building of a better world.

A college professor says people are getting harder to fool. "Maybe because fewer folk are listening to campaign speeches."

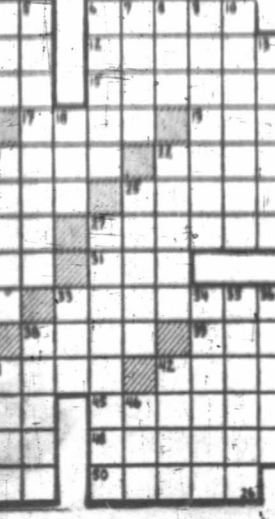

A Tennessee man was thrown into jail for stealing one slice of ham. "An unkind cut, we'd say."

It's Not Too Late To Turn Back, Boys

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson says: Brewster-Grunewald financial deal needs probing; King Committee reluctant to query senator; Maine Republican also dabbled in wire-tapping.

WASHINGTON — Senatorial col-leagues figure there is more than meets the eye behind the $10,000 transaction between Senator Brewster of Maine and Henry Grunewald, undercover lobbyist, wire-tap expert, and tax fixer.

The senator from Maine appeared briefly before the King subcommittee last week and testified he had paid Grunewald $10,000 in order to cover up two $5,000 contributions given to the primary campaigns of Senators Nixon of California and Young of North Dakota. Grunewald, Brewster claimed, had served as the conduit to pass the money on to their campaigns.

However, Senators Nixon and Young knew nothing about the deal and were sore as blazes when Brewster sprang his out-of-the-blue testimony.

It would be a matter of mere routine investigation for the King tax-fraud committee to have absolved deeper into the strange relations between the senator from Maine and Washington's most unusual tax-fixing lobbyist. Nevertheless, Brewster was asked few questions by the King committee.

He was not asked why he had saved Grunewald from a contempt citation by the Senate, or why he had used Grunewald in a wire-tapping deal; or whether he, as chairman of the Republican Committee on Senatorial Elections made it a practice to ignore the rules of his party and contribute to one Republican nomination as against another Republican.

Furthermore, Brewster will be asked none of these questions later. It's against the rules of the club. Members of Congress just don't embarrass each other.

Other witnesses can be grilled, day after day. They can be insulted and badgered on the witness stand. They can be thrown into jail if they refuse to answer questions.

But the unwritten law of Congress is that you don't ask embarrassing questions of a fellow member of Congress. The King committee has done an excellent job on other matters, but it won't violate this rule.

Strange Friendship However, since the public is entitled to know all the facts regarding the men who write the laws which the public has to follow, it is altogether fair to point to some highly significant facts in the relationship between Senator Brewster and mystery-man Henry Grunewald which the King committee passed over.

So They Say

If I had to buy anything personally, I'd just make my decision—and duck.

Rear Admiral M. L. Ring, vice chairman, Munition Board's Office of Supply.

He (President Truman) thought that if it would help bring about peace and benefit the nation and the world, he would ... run again.

Oh, Bob Taft and I get along all right ... He's a fine man, but he's on the wrong side of the fence.

Much blame rests on Congress for granting such absolute powers and then failing to review and repeal them.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY, Written for NEA Service

The safety play is usually a way of losing a trick that nobody else would dream of giving away. The opponents usually look at you pityingly and explain how any player in his right mind would have made one trick more than you did.

It's much more satisfactory when the safety play turns out to be necessary. Then the opponents glare at you and don't bother to give you lessons in the play of the cards. Today's hand, played recently by Generous George, had the opponents muttering unkind words for several minutes.

West opened the king of diamonds, and George won with the ace. While you think of George's method of playing the hand, take a look at his way of bidding it also. Some players would have waxed ginning with some sud, cue-bid as two diamonds or two spades. This would not improve South's final contract, but it would give the opponents a chance to find their beautiful sacrifice at seven clubs (which is down only two tricks).

George preferred to make all his bids in one lump, thus making it difficult for the enemy to get together on a paying sacrifice.

After winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds, Generous George cashed the ace of spades and led a low spade. As he led the low spade, George cleared his throat to make his customary little speech, but West glared at him so fiercely that George decided to keep quiet.

There was nothing the defenders could do to defeat the contract. Nothing could stop George from ruffing his other low spade with dummy's nine of trumps, after which he could return to his own hand to draw the rest of the trumps and cash the king of spades.

George would have lost the contract, of course, if he had tried to clear both of his top spades. West would ruff the king of spades and return a trump. South would then have two losing spades and only one trump in dummy, so he would have to lose a second trick.

Q—The bidding has been: North East South West 1 Spade Pass 2 Clubs Pass 2 Spades Pass 3 Clubs Pass 3 Hearts 3-2 Diamonds 3-4 Clubs A-K-Q-8-4. What do you do?

A—Bid three spades. Your spades are ample support for a re-biddable suit, and you have a side doubleton which may contribute some ruffing value. It would be pleasant to have four trumps, or to have a singleton instead of a doubleton, but the hand as it stands is worth a second response.

Q—Was Powhatan the real name of the celebrated Indian chief? A—His real name was Wahunsonacock, but he was commonly known as Powhatan because he was chief of a union of the Algonquian, or Powhatan, tribes.

Q—What kind of glass will float on water? A—Foam glass is lighter than cork and therefore floats on water. It is often used in place of cork.

Q—What became of the luxury liner Leviathan after World War I? A—The Leviathan, used to transport troops, was sold in 1929 by the U. S. Government to a private shipping firm. The line lost money on the huge vessel and it was sold for scrap in 1938.

EDF Budget Reveals That U. S. Supplies A Quarter Of Total

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A few more facts on European defense costs now are available. They make possible a better picture than heretofore has been obtainable on the proposed U. S. share of building up NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and EDF—the European Defense Force under General Eisenhower.

Complete figures on country-by-country expenditures have not yet been released. There still is a great inclination on the part of the military services to keep this a secret. Congress and the American people therefore are left pretty much in the dark on how the defense burden is being shared.

The European Defense Force budget for next year now is revealed as $13,900,000,000. This covers the Western European forces. It does not cover what France is spending in Indo-China. It does not cover what the British are spending in Malaya. It does not include all U. S. aid to Europe. It does not include the cost of maintaining six U. S. divisions nor American air and sea power in Europe.

The $13,900,000,000 European defense budget doesn't look very big when compared to the proposed $51,000,000,000 U. S. defense budget for next year. But it is pointed out that the European countries get more defense for a dollar than in America. European pay scales are lower. The costs of planes, tanks, guns and ammunition made in Europe are much lower than for comparable items produced in the U. S.

So, for $13,900,000,000, Western Europe will have at the end of this year about 43 divisions plus unspecified air and navy strength.

Substantial Contribution These figures include Western Germany's first year contributions. The figures do not include Greek and Turkish military budgets and forces. They do not include Yugoslav and Spanish military outlays. And they do not include Canadian and U. S. contributions to Europe.

The Canadian contribution is one brigade group—a division nucleus of 7,000 men plus 12 fighter squadrons of Canadian planes. Canada also is furnishing $325,000,000 mutual aid to Europe. This includes equipment for one division in Belgium, The Netherlands and Italy. It includes field and anti-aircraft guns and equipment for France, Denmark, Norway, Portugal and Luxembourg. Canada also will train 1,400 European airmen a year.

The U. S. contribution to EDF for the coming year is six divisions plus unspecified air and naval power. Proposed U. S. aid is $5,300,000,000. It is broken down three ways.

First is $1,400,000,000 for a relatively new item called "defense support." The name was used to a limited degree last year. But it still causes some confusion in Congress and the public mind.

Defense support may be defined roughly as U. S. aid which will go into European defense production. It may be machine tools, raw materials, fuel, semi-finished products.

TODAY'S QUESTION The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades J-10-5-2, Heart 8, Diamonds 9-8-3, Clubs A-K-Q-8-4. What do you do?

The Peacock Path

ON the sloping Peacock Path, scarcely six feet wide, a thing of destruction had raged. So swiftly and silently that a pair of eyes concentrated on something else beyond the chains at the end of the path might never have seen it.

Beyond it, I made my way to the evergreen and there stopped abruptly. The foothills were soft, barely audible. But distinct to my cocked ears—and oncoming, given away at intervals by tiny twigs snapping and the occasional crackle of dried leaves. The person responsible for the sounds was keeping in darkness as much as possible, understandably.

But, to gain the line of evergreens across from where I was concealed he had to whisk across a cleared space.

It was enough, though, for the moonlight to reveal the stocky form of Dave Sladen.

Reassurance swept over me. This was all proceeding according to plan, and Hoyle.

After that, however, I moved cautiously around the iron on the side facing the end of the Peacock Path, the white posts, the chains and the Sound. I edged on until I could see up the path as well as down, though I had to look up it through a tracery of branches.

Then, suddenly, I stiffened. Very clearly, in the livid light, I saw Marston Cravath appear where the path began. There was no mistaking his tall broad-shouldered figure—a little gone to fat now, but still athletic, agile-looking.

Cravath didn't hesitate. He started down that narrow moonlit avenue with swift confident strides.

Cravath had about reached the point of the Peacock Path when a second figure glided into the moon-drenched open. I saw Cravath stop short, fling up a hand to shade his eyes.

"Oh!" he ejaculated and his voice, soft yet carrying in the practically windless night, had a note of relief in it.

Somehow, I welcomed that veiled half-hidden note. He had seemed a little too composed, a little too reckless or careless. I guessed now that he'd been frightened—hence human—all along, though he'd disguised it admirably.

"Well," he was saying now, in a kind of strong whisper, "you timed it very nicely."

"I did just what you told me to," said the dark figure beside him. "I—'n an' drawn beside came to me—'always do."

In a wavering moonbeam, I saw Cravath nod. "Good. Well, come on! This'll only take a minute or two. But I wanted you to see how I figured it out."

They walked on down the Peacock Path, Marston Cravath and his potential killer, elbows practically touching.

They passed so close to me that I could have reached out and intercepted them. I had an impulse to do just that.

I had to control myself and watch the killer.

His voice was quiet, unexcited. "How did you figure this out?" he asked.

I was about 15 feet away, hidden by the dark bulk of the evergreen. I could see them plainly. They stood silhouetted in moon-glow, both on the safe side of the chains as yet.

"Mostly lucky-guesswork," Cravath replied. "But it's really a question of measurement. I'm going to do some measuring now. And you can help me."

With that he half-stepped, half-vaulted over into the no-man's-land beyond the chains.

Cravath took an object from his pocket. I knew that it was a steel tape measure coiled inside a circular leather case. The tape made a rasping sound as he pulled out a short length of it. Then Cravath passed the end of the tape under parts of components for finished weapon assembly. The main point is that defense support comprises something that Europe can't furnish for itself.

A specific example best may illustrate what defense support is. Recently France announced production of a new "Mystery" jet fighter. Production of this jet in France was made possible by $5,000,000 worth of U. S. machine tools, furnished last year.

Mass production of the plane will begin in April. By the end of the year the French will be turning out 80 planes a month, valued at $9,000,000. Thus the American defense support is multiplied many times in the value of defense items produced in Europe.

The $1,400,000,000 worth of defense support the U. S. plans to furnish Europe this year is included in the $13,900,000,000 EDF budget. Mutual Security Agency Director Averell Harriman says about $600,000,000 of this aid will go to Britain, $400,000,000 to France, $400,000,000 to other Western European countries.

It is not just economic aid by another name. If this defense support is not furnished, it is claimed that the European defense output for the year will be only $10,600,000,000.

In addition to the proposed $1,400,000,000 worth of defense support, the U. S. plans to furnish Western Europe with $2,800,000,000 worth of arms produced in the U. S. and $1,000,000,000 worth of "off-shore" military procurement.

This off-shore procurement includes complete weapons or military equipment produced wholly in Europe for EDF but paid for with American dollars. It will be contracted for directly by the U. S. Army, Navy or Air Force. By rule of thumb, this $1,000,000,000 worth of arms produced off shore in Europe would cost about $2,500,000,000 if produced in the U. S. and shipped abroad.

European expenditures, plus Canadian and U. S. aid, bring the EDF budget for next year to almost $19,500,000,000. The U. S. contribution, $5,300,000,000, not counting the cost of keeping U. S. forces in Europe, is about one-fourth of the total.

Two Abandoned Getaway Cars Sole Clues In Daring $681,000 Robbery

DANVERS, MASS.—(AP)—A methodical search of two communities and the 15 miles of known getaway routes was underway Wednesday by investigators seeking their first tangible clue in the fantastic $681,000 armored car robbery by three icy-nerved bandits.

FBI agents and Massachusetts police said they hoped to find by nightfall at least one person who saw the men break into the armored car and transfer the money into a 1950 Buick sedan in bright daylight Tuesday in Danvers Square.

Stassen's Try To Ride Ike's Bandwagon May Swing Wisconsin Into Taft's Camp

BY JACK BELL
MILWAUKEE — (AP)—Competition among his opponents to get on the Eisenhower bandwagon seemed to leave Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio a claim Wednesday to a large segment of the GOP vote in next Tuesday's Wisconsin primary.

President ought to try to run under his own steam. Coleman declared. "Stassen is not running for Warren."

Atlanta Downs Tribe, 9-1

By LARRY KING
Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor
LUTCHER, LA. — Atlanta's AA Crackers cracked the Midland Indians, 9 to 1, Tuesday night in the opening Spring exhibition game for Midland.
For Atlanta, it was the fourteenth exhibition game and the twelfth win.
Midland's only score came in the second inning when Stan Wilcox, centerfielder, walked, advanced to second when Catcher Gordon Tanner was hit by a pitched ball, went to third on a wild pitch and scored when second baseman Bill Crumley singled to right field.
Atlanta, with Al Aucoin hitting a two-run homer off Dave McKenzie, led up a 3 to 0 lead in the first inning.
Midland committed nine errors, five of them by Julio de la Torre, a usually smooth-fielding third baseman who performed at shortstop Tuesday.
Most impressive for Midland was pitcher Keith Nicols. Nicols gave up a single to the first man he faced, then retired nine straight Cracker batters.
The Indians meet Houma, La. here Wednesday night with Eddie Jacobsen slated to pitch for Zeke Bonura's tribe.

Suit Filed Against TIL For Prohibiting Oil Bowl Grid Tilt

WICHITA FALLS — Midwestern University has filed an injunction and damage suit against the Texas Intercollegiate League over a TIL order prohibiting the annual Oil Bowl charity football game.
The suit, filed Tuesday in 28th District Court, alleges the University has a contract with the Wichita Falls Independent School District to play and exhibit six games a year in Coyote Stadium, the high school football field, and the district is being restrained by the league from fulfilling the contract.
The league voted last year to restrict the number of all-star games to the one held annually by the Texas High School Coaches Association.
The University asks a permanent injunction restraining the league from suspending the District if the contract is carried out for the remaining six years.
In the alternative, Midwestern asks damages of $17,000 annually for the six years of the contract. The figure is reported to be based on the gate receipts for the Oil Bowl game in 1951. The suit asks that both the school district and the league be made liable for the damages claimed.
Dick Donovan, rookie pitcher, is the only player on the Boston Braves roster who was born in Boston.

Defending Champs Hold Their Own in Fem AAU Tourney

WICHITA KAN — The defending champs still are going strong but last year's runnerup has stumbled in the National AAU Women's Basketball Tournament.
Hanes Hooley of Winston-Salem, N.C. had little trouble in handling Dorell's Dolls of Amarillo, Texas, 55 to 39 Tuesday night in a second-round game. The North Carolina team won the tourney last year.
Wayland College of Plainview, Texas, the 1951 runnerup, went down, 45-44, before Iowa Wesleyan College. A field goal by Connie Lou Cormick in the final seconds gave the Iowa team the win.
Earlier the American Institute of Commerce, Davenport, Iowa, breezed past the Osakloons, Iowa, Van Zee, 44 to 27.
Nashville, Tenn., Business fought from behind to edge the Denver, Colo., Vipers, 27-26, in another second-round contest.
Wednesday's schedule:
Consolation quarter-finals:
Dodge City, Kan., May Bees vs. Kansas City, Mo., Electric.
St. Joseph, Mo., Goetz vs. Atlanta, Ga., Peaches.
Klona, Kan., Conococ vs. Cabot, Ark., Lions Club.
Milwaukee, Wis., Trophy Athletic Queens vs. Atlanta, Ga., Tomboys.
Second round — championship bracket:
Kansas City, Kan., Dons vs. Jackson, Miss., Magnolia Whips.
Dallas, Texas, Hornets vs. Denver Rocky Mountain Tite.
Chihuahua, Mexico vs. Columbus, Ohio, Dicksons.
Ada, Okla., Little Dixie Queens vs. Nashville, Tenn., State Highway Patrol.

The average age of the St. Louis Browns is slightly under 28 years. It would be less except for the presence of Satchel Paige whose birthdate is listed as 1907, but who probably was born much earlier.

Three SWC Baseball Teams Win; Rice Is Only Loser

By The Associated Press
Three of four Southwest Conference baseball teams won victories Tuesday as Rice Institute dropped a 4-3 decision to Sam Houston State's Bearkats at Huntsville.
Southern Methodist's Ponies and the University of Texas Longhorns pounded out lopsided diamond wins as Baylor's Bears edged Minnesota in a baseball thriller.

NTSC Relays Won By Host

DENTON — The host Eagles won the first annual North Texas State College Relays with six firsts in 12 track and field events.
The Eagles took first in three relay events, the 100-yard dash, the 120-yard high hurdles, the 500-yard dash, and tied in the pole vault Tuesday.
The University of Houston, Abilene Christian College, East Texas State and Texas Christian followed in that order to complete the field.
With a slight wind at his back Ray Benfro of NTSC won the century with a fast 9.5 performance.
He teamed with Bill Walters, Jerome Zabojnik and Charley Teague to win the 440-yard relay in a fast 41.8 seconds.
NTSC also won the 880-yard relay, distance medley, 120-yard high hurdles on Ted Smith's 14.9 seconds, broad jump with Bill Walters' leap of 22 feet, 3 1/2 inches and Ray Lucas' tie with Paul Faulkner of ACC in the pole vault at 12 feet, 9 inches.
Abilene Christian's first came in the high jump, the mile relay, and sprint medley. Les Vanover of ACC cleared six feet six inches to beat East Texas' Charles Holding in the high jump, while the late ACC one-mile relay team of Graner, McCoy, Volpe, and Adrian clipped the University of Houston team in the good time of 3:18.6 in what was perhaps the best race of the day.
The University of Houston two-mile relay team of Richards, Tommaso, Treat, and Gentry won that event in 8:01.5, ahead of NTSC and TCU. Houston's Nick Spillios tossed the shot 47 feet, 11 inches to top second-place Jim Brewer of NTSC.

Kansas Faces St. John's in NCAA Finals

SEATTLE — (AP) — It will be Lovellette & Company of Kansas against the giant killers of St. John's for the national collegiate basketball crown Wednesday night.
Kansas got to the throne room doorway the easy way in the semifinals of the NCAA playoffs Tuesday night, as big Clyde Lovellette led the way to a 74-55 victory over Santa Clara.
St. John's of Brooklyn got there by the margin of a game-ending gap, with a 61-59 win over favored Illinois.
In the title classic Wednesday it will be the clever passing game of St. John's against the power that comes from having a tower of strength like 6-foot 9-inch Lovellette in the slot.
The big Kansas center scored 33 points against Santa Clara and he stood out as a playmaker and backboard bulwark as well as a scorer. He 33 ran his three-game NCAA 1952 playoffs total to 108 to set a new record. The old mark, in four games, was 83. It was set by Don Sunderlage of Illinois last year.
If crystal ball gazers want to look into the past competition between the two finalists for a weather vane reading, the edge is with Kansas. It won a 52-61 victory over St. John's when they met last year in Madison Square Garden.
But these St. John's hoop magicians have thrown the book out the window. The experts didn't even think they'd get to the national tourney. They did it the hard way, in the regional tourney, by beating Kentucky, No. 1 team in the Associated Press national poll. Illinois, the Redmen's victim last night, was the No. 2 rated team in the same poll.
One goal was clinched by both St. John's and Kansas by their semi-final victories.

LAKELAND, FLA. — Trade talks still are simmering between the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox.
Top men of both clubs conferred Tuesday and said they'll meet again in a week or 10 days.
The Tigers would like to get Boston's infielder Johnny Pesky and the Red Sox want a second baseman and an outfielder. There's a chance Detroit's Johnny Groth might be swapped to Boston in return for Pesky and Outfielder Don Lenhardt.
PHOENIX, ARIZ. — Shorn of a six-game winning streak, the Chicago Cubs were to try to snap the New York Giants' six-game victory streak in a rematch Wednesday.

Harris Makes Debut Against Tigers; Cubs Finally Lose

ORLANDO, FLA. — (AP) — Mickey Harris was to make his 1952 mound debut for the Washington Senators against the Detroit Tigers Wednesday at Lakeland.

He pitches four innings Wednesday after Bob Porterfield hurled the first five.

BRADENTON, FLA. — (AP) — General Manager John Quinn said Wednesday "there is nothing new on Bob Elliott," the Boston Braves long holdout.
Quinn said his last telephone conversation with Elliott, who is at his San Diego, Calif., home, was four days ago.
"Our differences are wholly financial and Elliott has no desire to leave Boston," Quinn said.

SARASOTA, FLA. — (AP) — The Boston Red Sox had no game scheduled Wednesday but Manager Lou Boudreau said he would put the squad through a long workout.
Boudreau said he was pleased with the showing made to date by Jim Piersall, infielder-outfielder, and rookie Pitcher Dick Brodowski.
"Piersall has surprised us by the way he came along at shortstop but he also will be a stand-in for Don DiMaggio in center field," Boudreau said.

LUTCHER, LA. — A casual, uninformed spectator might have thought he was on a movie set watching the making of a Hollywood extravaganza Tuesday rather than in a Spring baseball training camp.
For the Midland Indians' Spring war-grounds indeed had the mark of showmanship as the Tribe went through a brief drill readying for the Tuesday night clash with the Atlanta Crackers, pride and joy of the Class AA Southern Association.
Manager Zeke Bonura and Chester Shepard, member of the board of directors of the Midland ball club, spent most of the morning filming the players in action.
These films, according to Bonura, will be flown to Midland and exhibited to the various service clubs at the weekly luncheon and business sessions.
Hardly had Zeke finished putting his boys through warm-up exercises, work in the batting cage and sliding pits for the celluloid until he was making radio tapes to be sent to Midland.
And through it all, "The Eyes of Texas" prevailed loud and long.
This, and other songs of the 9-7-7-est state of Texas, blared forth from a loud-speaker system installed in a panel truck.
This truck, with Pitcher Emil Ogden on the talking end, serenaded the people of Lutcher and took off up and down the Mississippi River banks to invite the Louisiana people here for the ball game.
The old Mississippi showboats had nothing on the Lutcher-donated publicity setup which took to the surrounding area here Tuesday.
Bonura made a line-up change or two Tuesday after watching the Atlanta team defeat Thibodaux of the Evangeline League, 8-3, Monday night.
With seven left-hand hitters in the Cracker line-up and with only right-hand hurlers on the Midland mound corps, Bonura found need to do some revising.
So he said he would take Julio de la Torre off third base and stick him in at shortstop to replace Bobby Gordon and play Dick Cassidy and Woody Pennington at the third base position.
"The third baseman won't get many balls with the left-handers up there," Zeke said, "but the shortstop will. And since Julio has a good, strong throwing arm we'll move him over for this game to utilize it."
It's a matter of record that left-handers can make the trip to first base a couple of strides ahead of the right-side swingers and Bonura wants to do something to "cut 'em off."
Pointing out that Midland also is a Class C club compared to the AA category of the Crackers, Zeke said: "Man, they sure have the odds against us. Maybe instead of hoping for good weather we oughta pray for rain."
Cassidy looked better in the early Tuesday batting work than any of the Indians.
A young, aggressive type of boy, he put several out of the park well over the 300-foot mark. He's consistent too, getting the good wood on regularly in these sessions.
The Indians goes against Houma, La. here Wednesday night. Takes Thursday night off for a spaghetti feed and then rest until Saturday night when they play the New Orleans Pelicans. Sunday, the team goes to Thibodaux to play the Giants who last year won the Evangeline League bunting.
After that, these Spring games will come fast and furious and perhaps Ogden had better get his bugle ready. He blows the team out of bed with a boggy version of Reveille each morning, but if the Tribe fails to look good in these exhibitions Zeke may let him play only taps-and-doggone early at that.

Permian Basin Oil And Gas Log—

try to complete as an oil well and discovery from a Pennsylvanian sand.

This prospector drilled to total depth of 5,256 feet in barren Ellenburger. Samples through that zone did not show any signs of fluid and neither did the electric log.

No Test Taken
No drillstem test was taken in the Ellenburger. Top of that formation was called at 5,130 feet from the electric log. Elevation is 2,328 feet.

The exploration has plugged back to 4,587 feet and has set and cemented 5 1/2-inch casing at that point.

(That casing will be perforated to test zones between 4,420 feet and 4,551 feet. The section at 4,420-33 feet developed 810 feet of clean oil and 220 feet of heavily oil and gas mud during a two-hour drillstem test.)

Had Other Signs
There were some signs of oil in the interval at 4,620-51 feet but that show is not considered of any major importance.

No other shows were reported in the wildcat. It is on acreage secured by Delta Gulf in a farmout deal with Southern Production Company.

Location is at the center of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 9, block H, O.H.A. survey.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 231 barrels of 44-gravity oil through a 16/64-inch tubing choke and from perforations at 10,460-485 and 10,500-520 feet.

Those intervals had been treated with 5,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 3,450-1 and tubing pressure was 1,050 pounds.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 8, block 40, T-3-S, T&P survey.

McMillan Discovery Fined In Runnels

Miami Operating Company, Inc. of Abilene has completed its No. 1 C. L. James as an upper McMillan sand discovery for East-Central Runnels County.

The well was completed for 197.09 barrels of oil per day, flowing through a 12/64-inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 700-1.

Production is coming from perforations between 2,464 feet and 2,468 feet.

Location of the new opener is 2,900 feet from south and 2,800 feet from east lines of the N. Travis survey No. 533 and seven miles southwest of Crews.

Stepout Staked
Thomas D. Humphrey of Dallas has staked location for No. 1 J. L. Elkins estate one-half of a mile west of the Lindeman well opener in Runnels County.

Drillsite is 330 feet from north and east lines of tract 14, block 533, Travis survey.

Projected depth is 4,200 feet with rotary tools. Operations will begin at once.

Texaco Abandons Howard Failure

The Texas Company No. 1 A. L. Wasson, Northeast Howard County wildcat has been abandoned and plugged at total depth of 8,670 feet in barren Ellenburger lime.

The prospector made only water in that formation. It did not encounter any shows of production in any section it penetrated.

The failure is 21 miles northeast of Big Spring and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 4, block 29, T-1-N, T&P survey.

Bridges To Appear Before Tax Probers

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican Senate leader, will appear before House tax scandal investigators Thursday to explain his interest in the seven million dollar tax case of a Baltimore liquor dealer.

Representative King (D-Calif.), chairman of a House Ways and Means subcommittee investigating the Internal Revenue Bureau, announced Bridges had sent word he wanted to be heard.

King said Bridges "expressed a desire to be heard as soon as possible" and that the committee would hear him Thursday.

The tax case is that of Hyman Harvey Klein.

Puppets Due In Midland

Suzari Marionettes, the well-known New York puppet company, will appear in Midland, under the auspices of the Midland Elementary Schools, Thursday.

The play currently being offered is the Suzari Company's new and elaborate extravaganza, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," which the company describes as a "musical revue for children of all ages."

"Aladdin," the Suzari people further report, has many features never before seen in a puppet show. The unusually large puppets have moving faces—their mouths open as they speak; and they smile, and move their eyes in a way that gives a new realism to the wooden actors.

The use of moving bridges on a giant-sized aluminum stage, the latest word in sound and lighting effects, magic tricks, and startling illusions, together with the appearance on stage of both puppet and human actors, make "Aladdin" a show to be remembered by adults and children alike.

The performance take place at the High School Auditorium at 4 p.m. Admission is 50 cents.

Truce Negotiators Report Progress On Prisoner Exchange

MUNSAN, KOREA—(AP)—Truce negotiators displayed "much more frankness" Wednesday in seeking a compromise on exchanging prisoners—one of the three key issues blocking a Korean armistice—an Allied spokesman reported.

"Some slight progress" was made behind the screen of a news broadcast, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols said, "but they have not gotten down to brass tacks."

Simultaneously he disclosed a change in the UN Command strategy on the key to the deadlock. The Allies have rephrased their demand from "voluntary repatriation" of prisoners to "no forced repatriation."

"There is no fundamental difference in the two concepts," Nuckols said, but the new term might "be more palatable to the enemy."

Also, Nuckols said, UN negotiators have been telling the Communists repeatedly, "There is every indication that the great majority of their captured personnel now in our hands desire to return."

Agreements On Ports
The Communists have been insisting they want all prisoners returned. Disclosure came after a second group of staff officers cleared the decks for tackling the sole key issue remaining before it—whether Russia should help supervise the truce.

A UN Command communique said they cleared up the last of their minor problems by reaching "complete agreement on the ports of entry question."

The Allies then proposed the key issue be solved by dropping Russia and Norway, leaving four "neutral nations" to police the armistice. The Communists wouldn't consider it.

The third deadlock in the way of an armistice is Communist insistence they be allowed to repair airfields and Allied opposition.

The airfield question is not under discussion now. Armistice delegates told staff officers not to talk about it.

Shivers Commutes Two Death Sentences

His action was on the recommendation of the State Pardons Board only a few hours before Craft was to have been executed.

Lawton Seeks Substitute As Satan Moves To California

LAWTON, OKLA.—(AP)—The director of the Wichita Mountain Easter Pageant can't find anyone to play Satan.

Last year's Satan moved to California. "Most everybody wants to be an angel or a saint but not Satan," the Rev. Lambert S. Orton, the director said.

Mr. Lambert says without Satan for the temptation scenes the pageant can't go on.

"Usually we cast roles on the basis of matching character and personality with the part to be portrayed," the director said.

"In the case of Satan that won't work. There seems to be only virtuous souls in this 'City of the Saints.'"

Lambert said he probably would select a "saint" to give dramatic portrayal to the role of Satan.

Newest Medical Experiments Recall Monkey Gland Tests Of 30 Years Ago

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—(AP)—One of the great potential revolutions in medical science was disclosed Wednesday.

Three sick men and women have been given glands transplanted from premature babies to turn out hormones for new health.

It is an amazing and promising experiment in giving humans new spare parts. It may lead to many new methods of treating a variety of diseases.

Little pieces of glands were taken from unborn babies and put into stomach muscles of two men and a woman. The men got adrenal glands because their own adrenals had stopped making hormones, including cortisone. The woman got a thyroid gland, after her own sick thyroid was removed.

Animal tests indicate the new gland bits will stay alive, grow, and make hormones. It still is too early to tell about the humans.

If it works for them, humans someday may get new glands to control diabetes without insulin, a gland hormone, to replace sex glands, to control thyroid diseases, even perhaps control some kinds of cancer. New glands might come from animals as well as humans.

Humans might be able to replace wornout or lost sex glands, realising the monkey gland experiments 30 years ago of the late Dr. Serge Voronoff.

Human or animal bodies might supply successful transplants of nerves or blood vessels or other spare parts that would take root and stay alive or grow.

Embryonic Tissue
The big secret is using embryonic tissue—glands or other parts from very young, unborn humans. Only embryonic tissue and some cancer tissue can be transplanted and stay alive in another body.

The facts to date, and the future potentials, were disclosed in reports of research at Yale University Medical School. They were described during a tour of cancer centers sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Harry S. N. Green, Yale pathologist, showed that embryonic glands of animals could be transplanted successfully from one kind of animal to another. The bits of glands lived and produced hormones, even when transferred from an unborn mouse or rabbit or guinea pig into another, adult, animal of a different species.

Dr. Eugene E. Clifton, a surgeon, transplanted the bits of human embryonic glands into the men and

Father Jailed In Tot For Adoption

HOUSTON—(AP)—A Houston butcher who said he wanted a good home for his daughter was jailed at Pasadena, Texas, Tuesday and charged with trying to sell the tot into adoption.

Steve Ribnikar, 37, was arrested by two probation officers who posed as wanting to adopt two-year-old Sharon Ribnikar. They said the father was willing to take $600 and a new automobile for the child.

"I wanted to get out of Houston and wanted my girl to have a home," Ribnikar told a reporter. "I owe board and room and wanted to pay her doctor bills."

Ribnikar and the child's mother, Mrs. Agnes Ribnikar, were divorced in 1951 in Pittsburgh, Pa., the father said. He added that he and his second wife were separated.

woman. The glands were taken from unborn babies lost in miscarriages or in an operation necessary to save the mother's life.

Slices were put into the stomach muscles of the adults, where they could produce hormones and turn them into the bloodstream. The two men had Addison's disease, with weakness and prey to infection caused by failure of their own adrenal glands. Altogether, these slices may be producing only about one-twentieth the amount of hormones from healthy adrenals, but that may be enough.

The woman had lost her own thyroid gland because of sickness.

Dr. Green said animal results are "most encouraging." He cleared up diabetes in animals, offset the effects of loss of an animal's sex glands, and other troubles from gland failures.

If the transplants succeed in humans, the prospects are tremendous.

SHE

After a moment's pleased inspection, the average man would pass up this picture.

But not the average woman! She sees what the man misses: a fascinating new accessory—the "glove stole." With hat to match!

No matter where she first picks up such news tidbits—about clothes, food, beauty, home decorating—only the newspaper has the answers to her questions "Where can I get it? For how much?"

So she watches the newspaper every day. Sometimes she has a definite purchase in mind—a new rug, or refrigerator, or topcoat for Daddy.

Often she simply has a mental drawer full of half-conscious wants—anything from a new frozen food to a folding terrace tea table.

Like men, women have found from experience that if they miss a single issue of the local paper, they miss something important.

Everybody makes that same discovery, very early in life. So everybody reads the newspaper . . . every day.

Why do advertisers spend more of their money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising?

Simply because everybody reads the newspaper, for its advertising as well as for fun or news.

So, why advertise only to fractions of the people who can buy?

Radio and TV programs reach only fractions of anybody's market—sport fans, home-makers, kids, or whatever. And even they can't all listen at the time a commercial is broadcast.

Magazines reach only fractions of a market. For each one appeals to some people—not to others.

The Newspaper talks to everybody in town. It's created fresh every day to appeal to everybody.

Only the newspaper is first with the most news . . . first with the most people . . . first with the most advertisers!

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Permian Basin Teachers Seek Cost-Of-Living Boost In Pay

ANDREWS—Superintendents and school board members went on record here Monday night, favoring a cost-of-living increase for teachers in the Permian Basin.

The resolution, proposed by Wink Ralph R. A. Lipscomb, called for a $200 bonus to be paid the remainder of this school term with a boost of $800 for next year.

Official action on the increase must be taken by the individual boards of the schools.

Some 55 superintendents and board members of the Permian Basin Schoolmasters' Association met in the high school cafeteria to discuss teachers' salaries and wages prior to Spring budget planning. Schools included the group were Pecos, Big Lake, Rankin, Wink, Iran, Fort Stockton, Seminole, Crane, Mc-

Casey, Monahans, Denver City, Kermitt, Pyle, and the host school, Andrews.

Last year at a similar meeting, the group adopted a resolution calling for a $500 jump to the base pay of $7,800 for beginning teachers. Seven of the school boards subsequently adopted the plan.

The resolution passed Monday would pay an additional $500 during the remainder of the school term. The $800 boost planned for next year would be added to the annual base pay of $2,850.

Dissenting vote on the resolution came from three oil-free schools, Fort Stockton, Pecos, and Pyle.

Supt. E. W. Smith, Fort Stockton, summed up the minority viewpoint, saying:

"We'd like to go along with the resolution. Surely the teachers are underpaid. But we simply don't have the money. The only way we could get it would be to raise evaluations. Can you imagine trying to raise the evaluations on the farmers or ranchers' land when it hasn't rained in nine months?" he added.

The resolution climaxed a two-hour discussion period covering a wide range of topics including the threat of unionism in Basin schools, the Gilmer-Altkin law, national wage levels, but it all hinged on the belief by most of the group that the teacher is underpaid.

Supt. T. D. Hamilton, Andrews, quoted figures showing the national average of all salaried employees in 1950 was three per cent below that of teachers. In 1952, the salaries of teachers were three per cent below the national salaried scale.

Comparison Cited

Lipscomb told the group that bank employees received an average of $3,300 a year while the average for school teachers, which included administrators and custodians, was $2,975.

"We must pay a better salary or we simply won't get a teacher—we'll get an unqualified one," Lipscomb contended.

Crane was one of the schools that had to depart from the Basin pay standard set last year. Supt. Leland Martin, who acted as chairman for the discussion, explained that boom conditions forced the cost of living so high in Crane his teachers couldn't get by when the lowest oil field salary was $4,000. A subsequent increase raised the Crane teachers' salaries to $3,450

Jury Finds Hall Guilty Of Murder In Whatley Slaying

ODESSA—Don W. Hall, 27, of Odessa was found guilty Tuesday of murder without malice in the death of Clarence Whatley, 32, of Andrews.

Deliberating more than an hour, a 10th District jury returned the verdict which in effect sends Hall to the penitentiary for life, under the habitual criminal law.

Shortly after the verdict, Hall's attorney, George McCarthy, Amarillo, announced to the court he will appeal the case.

Although Hall did not take the stand, his wife, Wilma Sue Hall, 32, testified that her husband fought Whatley for her honor.

The woman stated that Whatley on the fatal night suggested to Hall that they shoot dice for her. She said Hall slapped Whatley, knocking him down, and that Whatley came up with a knife and threatened to cut Hall's throat.

According to the woman, Hall grabbed a gun from the top of a bureau. As he battled with Whatley, she said, the gun went off.

Testifying Monday, Dr. Prevost Hubbard said the gunshot wound caused Whatley's death. He said that it was first believed the pistol-whipping brought death, but that a later examination revealed a bullet hole in the back of Whatley's head.

District Attorney W. O. Shafer said Hall was first imprisoned for car theft when he was 17 years old and was sent back to prison at 21 for robbery by assault.

Hall was arrested by federal agents Saturday in connection with the January 2 burglary of the First National Bank at Carter, Okla. The bank robbers took $92,000 in bonds and $9,315 in cash. He is also under indictment for the $8,000 burglary of the Odessa Tower Food Market.

Mrs. Hall came into court here Tuesday from county jail where she is being held on charges of possession of stolen property, allegedly involved in the burglary of the Carter bank.

Circus Man Faces Federal Charge Of Transporting Loot

AUSTIN—A circus owner was released Tuesday in $10,000 bond on federal charges of interstate transportation of stolen money and securities worth $83,750.

Benjamin C. Davenport, 52, operator of Wallace Brothers Circus, was arrested by FBI agents Tuesday as his traveling show set up at Austin.

The FBI said the money and securities were stolen from a Uvalde rancher on Oct. 1, 1950. The rancher was not named.

The FBI said the loot included $29,700 in cash, $25,000 in U. S. Treasury bonds and $19,000 in stocks.

A hearing was set April 3 after Davenport appeared before U. S. Commissioner Robert Sneed.

A night patrolman noticed one on a sidewalk in front of a jewelry store and another in the car.

They fled in their car and the patrolman pursued them. Still in Austin, they wrecked their car and fled afoot. More officers arrived, bringing bloodhounds. Before 3 a.m. the escapees took another car, a 1951 Chevrolet, and sped away to the south.

The escape was the second one in two nights from the Seagoville Institution. Two others escaped Monday night.

ately to the problems of Midland County were undertaken when Dr. F. E. Sadler resigned as director of the health unit.

Dr. Cox said he believed Midland and Ector counties could support their own units in cooperation with the state but he was dubious whether Howard County has sufficient population to maintain an independent unit.

The three-county unit, he said, has been unsatisfactory because "it covered too big a territory and spread service too thin. One man couldn't cope with all the problems."

The State Health Department recruits directors, who must be approved by the participating county.

New Building Code Adopted

A new and stronger building code for Midland was adopted Tuesday night by the City Council.

The code was adopted quickly after it was explained there was no provision in it for charging for vault space beneath public sidewalks.

The council previously had discussed the possibility of the city collecting rental space from buildings which have excavated beneath the sidewalk.

But the only provision relating to this in the new code provides that no such excavation shall extend beyond the curb line and that there shall be no openings in the sidewalk itself.

City Manager W. H. Oswald estimated that enforcement of the new code will mean a reduction within a year's time of the fire insurance key rate with saving to Midland property owners of some $15,000.

The new ordinance, which will become law after the second reading next week, is patterned after a standard building code prepared by the National Association of Fire Underwriters.

AF Reserve Inventory Plans Made For Sector

Col. Edgar E. Glenn, commanding officer of the Third Air Reserve District with headquarters at Altus, Okla., and members of his staff were in Midland Tuesday for conferences on the hearing reserve survey in Midland and 13 nearby counties. The inventory is expected to include 800 Air Force reservists in the 14-county area. It begins April 7. The reservists will receive ap-

In many cases, Air Force records do not reflect accurately the current status of reservists as to dependence, physical condition, education, and occupation. Colonel Glenn said.

He emphasized that the inventory is not connected in any way with recall to active duty.

Appointments for interviews are being scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Reservists are being scheduled at their own convenience.

Counties included in the Midland inventory are Andrews, Martin, Howard, Loving, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glascock, Sterling, Ward, Crane, Upton and Reagan.

Col. Edgar E. Glenn points out cards asking them to report for a personal interview with the Air Force at Building T-215, Midland Air Park. Purpose of the inventory is to afford reservists an opportunity to learn their current reserve status.

Youngest Chess Player Claimed

"Little" black-eyed Andresito has defeated the top players of this city. The boy says he hopes to become world champion some day.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 106,794 Wednesday, an increase of 123 since last week. This was the smallest weekly rise since the start of the Korean fighting.

The Defense Department's weekly summary based on notifications to families through last Friday, reported 64 killed in action, 69 wounded, and a decrease of 39 missing.

A breakdown of the casualties by services include Army 72, Navy 15, Air Force two and Marine Corps 81.

Water Board Head Sees Some Good In Texas Drouth

AUSTIN—(AP)—Some good yet may flow from Texas' severe drouth. That is the opinion of H. A. Begwith, chairman of the State Board of Water Engineers, who probably has listened to as many moans and groans about the current water shortage as anyone in Texas.

"If the drouth pinches hard enough, people may forget their personal differences long enough to seek better conservation practices and stronger water laws that will serve everyone to better advantage," he said.

In the past, numerous attempts to revise Texas' anemic water laws have rammed into stone-wall resistance growing out of divergent philosophies of control and ownership of surface and ground waters. A between-sessions committee worked two years at a comprehensive remodeling of the system but its recommendations were scrapped by the last Legislature.

Warring Brazilian Leaders Resign

RIO DE JANEIRO, BRAZIL—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas Wednesday accepted the resignations of both Gen. Zenobio da Costa and War Minister Estilac Leal, who have been warring over Red influences in Brazil's armed forces.

General Da Costa, commander of the first military region and in charge of a campaign to rid the Army of Communists, offered his resignation to Vargas last week on the grounds Leal was not giving him necessary cooperation in the purge. Leal recently attempted to de-emphasize the Communist issue in Brazil.

Senate Approaches Vote On Tideland

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate will begin voting this week, perhaps late Wednesday, on control of offshore lands, Majority Leader McFarland (D-Ariz) predicted.

With specific amendments now up for consideration, he expressed hope they could be voted on by Thursday. But he declined to say how much more time might be given over to debate, which was resumed Tuesday after a delay of almost two weeks.

Senator Holland (D-Fla) pressed Tuesday for prompt action on an amendment he has proposed with announced support from 34 other senators. It is one of two major proposals to give the states control of the long-disputed lands.

He declared it would be "unthinkable" to "further aggrandize" the Interior Department by giving it control of the oil-rich lands.

His amendment, he said, would give the states clear title to the Tideland out for a distance of three miles from shore. In the case of Texas the distance would be 10 1/2 miles because of conditions under which that state joined the union.

But Senator Connally (D-Texas), one of the 34 joining with Holland, said he plans to bring up his own amendment as a substitute for the amendment as drafted by the Florida senator.

Connally proposes that it be changed to coincide exactly with the terms of the House-passed bill, which still is tied up in the Senate Interior Committee. The difference is that the Connally-sponsored House measure not only would relinquish to the states the three-mile marginal belt (10 1/2 miles in case of Texas) but would give the states 1/2 per cent of all revenues from oil and gas in the remainder of the continental shelf.

A vote would be in order first, therefore, on the Connally substitute amendment.

Missouri Grain Man Fries As Probers Ask Questions

WASHINGTON—(AP)—"I hope I never see another kernel of corn again as long as I live."

Thus spoke Harry Easley as he resumed testimony Wednesday at Senate Agriculture Committee investigation of "quick profits" in storing grain for the government.

Easley said he is a "small town" loan and investments operator from Webb City, Mo., who learned about the grain storage business the hard way. That was when the floor of one of his storage building collapsed under the weight of corn that arrived by the carload.

Easley also said he is a friend of President Truman, having been active in Democratic politics in Missouri.

"And I hope this does not get him involved," Easley told a reporter.

The Webb City man was called back to give more details about the Midwest Storage and Realty Company and its handling of government corn.

The Senate group is delving into details of this company's lease of surplus Army buildings at Camp Crowder, Mo., and its contract with the Agriculture Department to store grain there.

Senator Williams (R-Del.), critic of many Administration operations, contends Easley and four Missouri associates reaped big profits after setting up the storage firm in 1949. Sees Nothing Wrong

Chairman Ellender (D-La.) after two long sessions of testimony Tuesday, told reporters he could "see nothing wrong" thus far.

Ellender said the Agriculture Department was anxious to find any kind of approved storage space for its huge grain supplies in 1949 and Easley and his associates apparently helped out.

Sensors questioned Easley and his associates Wednesday about how they so quickly arranged both the lease for the Army buildings and the storage contract.

Woodrow W. Walton, former Agriculture Department official who signed the contract, testified emphatically Tuesday there was "no political favoritism nor official favoritism" involved.

75,000 acres in his reporting area had advanced from moderately damaged to severely damaged in the last three sand storms. Taff said these wastelands were in Southern and Southwestern Lynn County, Southern Lubbock County and Western Hockley County. He said an additional 95,000 acres in the region still were in the moderately damaged class.

Showers Could Hurt

Taff noted that cropland which had been given temporary protection by emergency tillage now had begun to blow.

In Fort Worth, the Soil Conservation Service said only enough rain to prompt growth of grain, grasses and other plant cover could help drouth conditions now.

Showers at this stage, it was noted, could put the soil in a crusted, more vulnerable condition.

SCS said that at the end of last week 1,338,300 acres of land in Texas had lost from one to six inches of topsoil. The report added 220,000 acres to the previous week's report.

In the Big Spring area, probably the core of the duster area, soil that drifted across highways was making a serious problem for highway maintenance crews.

Skies were clear to partly cloudy Wednesday. Some scattered showers, the type feared by the Soil Conservation Service, were in the forecasts.

Tuesday, light rain fell at Alice, Palacios, Austin, Corpus Christi and Mercedes.

A steering car is considered more effective for small boats than a rudder.

SECTION TWO

Everything's Snafu For California Kids

News cameras seem to indicate there's nothing but trouble these days for children in the Los Angeles area, as these pictures show. At left, Sharon Fuchs, 20 months old, yells her disapproval as she enters Children's Hospital, Los Angeles, with a straight pin in her lungs. At right, happy again, Sharon has had pin removed with aid of three-dimensional stereofluoroscope. Finger points to pin in X-ray photo.

Jill Roberts, left, of Burbank, with mumps for a birthday present, takes a dim view of things. But Jill's mother turns tears to smiles with an inside-outside birthday party. Jill's inside, the honored guests dine off the window sill.

There's nothing like offering your friends a spot of tea, or so thought Stevie Littenberg, four, of Los Angeles. The thought was fine but the "tea" was n't so refreshing—in fact, it was insecticide. Dr. L. E. Overhulse, right, gave Stevie and guests treatment, and sent them home, oiled of tea-tipping. From left: Robert Monico, five; Jimmy Fitzpatrick, four; Stevie; and cousin Mike Littenberg, four.

There's No Magic To Fuel Which Powers Jets At High Speed

HOUSTON—(AP)—There isn't any magic to the fuel that powers jet airplanes at speeds to make you whistle. Nothing new or revolutionary.

If you've ever lighted a kerosene lamp or cooked on a kerosene stove, you've used a fuel that's a kerosene cousin to that which powers jet shooting stars and sabres.

You could use the same kerosene you did in that lamp or stove for jet fuel. But pure kerosene isn't as abundant, or as cheap, as the mixture now used commonly.

This mixture is JP 4, a kerosene-type fuel that is predominantly gasoline.

It has to be of a kerosene type to insure a high boiling range and a low freezing point. E. N. Lewis of the Humble Oil & Refining Company said a rough estimate of percentage would be 70 per cent gasoline.

When refiners speak of kerosene type fuel, they mean fuel with a boiling range of kerosene. Thus, many kerosene types wouldn't be that clean, no-smoke fuel you used to get at the corner grocery store for Mama's lamp.

High Boiling Range
Lewis pointed out a jet engine needs a fuel that was a high boiling range, is non-inflammable and has no toxic odor.

The boiling range of kerosene-type fuels is up to 560 degrees, Fahrenheit. This is much higher than gasoline fuels. The freezing point, too, is as low as minus 72 degrees, F.

Where jet aircraft are radically different from propeller or piston driven planes so is jet fuel.

Ordinary aviation gasoline is of an extremely high test to produce a very high anti-knock quality. It must be highly refined. Jet fuels don't need this anti-knock quality.

And where not all refineries are equipped to produce high test aviation gasoline, almost every refinery can turn out jet fuel. This means a greater production potential in the event of all-out war and a sudden demand for tremendous quantities of jet fuel.

The first jet fuel produced during World War II was JP1. The JP means jet propelled. Next came JP3, with more gasoline content, and the JP4, the type commonly used now.

Gets More Mileage
It doesn't cost as much to produce jet fuel as it does high test aviation gasoline, but your piston type engine gets more mileage to the gallon. Jets burn fuel at a tremendous rate.

Most jet fuel is produced for U. S. military needs. Specifications for it are rigid. It must have a certain freezing point, be free of toxic odor, etc.

And because it is a mixture—not gasoline in the usual sense—doesn't mean any sudden demand for increased supplies for jet fuel wouldn't be felt by the ordinary motorist.

Lewis, in reply to a question as to how civilian gasoline supplies would be affected by production of jet fuel in the event of an all out war, smiled and said he didn't know.

"Probably like in the last one," he commented.

World War II displaced 10 for every one person left homeless before Europe.

MALIK'S A SKETCH—Jacob Malik, Russian delegate to the UN, unwittingly "sat" for this sketch by United States delegate Benjamin Cohen. Cohen caught the fleeting impression of the Russian spokesman during debate at a Security Council disarmament meeting in New York.

Forgery Declared To Be Easy In U. S.

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND—(AP)—Forgery is easier in the U. S. than in Britain, says Dr. Cecil L. Wilson, of Queen's University, Belfast.

Dr. Wilson, an expert on forgery, recently visited the FBI in Washington, where he was shown checks worth millions of dollars—all forged.

"In the United States," said Dr. Wilson, "people are so anxious to do business and salesmanship is of such a high-pressure nature that a check will be accepted almost from anyone. In Britain, a check is more difficult to cash, hence check forgery is much less common."

OLD COLLEGE TRY
SOUTH HADLEY, MASS.—(AP)—Having College students make up their own beds and clean their own rooms to pare down college expenses is nothing new. Back in 1837, Mary Lyon, founder of Mount Holyoke College, organized her students into breakfast circles, laundry circles and baking circles. The first year all charges for board, room and tuition were $64. In 1838, by dint of good management Mary Lyon was able to reduce the charge to $60.

The American Legion's "Tide of Toys" has sent more than 10 million toys overseas.

Asphalt Plant At Pecos Becomes Big Business

PECOS—A sideline activity has developed into a rather large-scale business for F. M. Reeves and Son, Inc., of Pecos.

Less than a year ago the firm installed an asphalt plant at its gravel and sand-pit located 20 miles south of here. With a capacity of 70 tons an hour of the hot mix, cold laid material, the plant produced a total of 22,000 tons of asphalt last year, according to Allen Cunningham, sales representative.

Cunningham predicts that production will be even greater this year, in view of the increasing popularity of asphalt as a surface for streets, highways, parking areas and even tennis courts.

This is the only permanent asphalt plant between El Paso and Dallas, although there are other mobile units in this area.

The $50,000 plant obtains its sand and gravel from the nearby Reeves and Son pit, while asphalt is shipped here. It serves customers all over West Texas, and even provided asphalt for a street-paving project in Friona, near Amarillo, last year.

Foreman of the plant is L. R. Standley, who supervises the five-man operation.

Sand and gravel enters a bucket elevator through which the material passes to a large dryer equipped with a flame which maintains a temperature of 175 degrees.

Leaving the dryer, it passes through another bucket elevator to the plant proper. First step is a screen vibrator to sift the material into segregated bins below. From there it is dropped into weigh hoppers.

4-H Achievement Program Planned

HANKIN—The annual club barbecue and achievement program for Upton County 4-H boys and girls who made the best records this year will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in the Rankin High School Gymnasium.

Principal speaker will be Joe Glover, of Pecos Stockton, district extension service agent.

Eight club lambs are to be barbecued.

Compounds Aimed At Stopping Shock

CHICAGO—Have you ever been shocked sliding over a plastic automobile seat cover or while flicking on an electric switch after walking across a rug? It's caused by static electricity and the shock comes when you are grounded.

Eric O. Sonneman, general manager of the Merix Chemical Co., Chicago, announced his company now is ready to market its new anti-static compounds. One is used for smooth surfaces on which it is wiped, sprayed, or brushed. It prevents static in such objects as Plexiglass windows, plastic parts, automobile doorhandles, and phonograph records.

The other removes electrical charges from fabrics of textile fibers and plastic yarns. It is used on seat covers, belts on industrial machinery and is sprayed on hospital floors and garments to prevent static-caused sparks.

"He doesn't tip, so I have to use strategy!"

The MATURE PARENT

Stubborn Child May Be Balancing Fears

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Patty's Aunt Em was elderly, a collector of recipes and imaginary slights by her relatives. In the Wintertime, when she could not expend surplus energy in her garden, she was particularly susceptible to insult. So, one day, when she telephoned Patty's mother to say she wished to give her a wonderful new recipe for chocolate soufflé, Patty's mother reacted with hasty enthusiasm. "Oh, how dear of you, Em!" said Patty's mother. "Patty will pick it up on her way home after school."

But Patty got so tied up in rehearsals for the Washington's Birthday pageant that she didn't stop at Aunt Em's. She totally forgot the recipe until the telephone rang, just before dinner, and she heard her mother say, "Of course, I want it, Em. . . Oh, no, I really don't think she did it deliberately. . . Yes, you're right, thoughtlessness has to be curbed."

When Patty's mother hung up the receiver, she told Patty to get her coat. When Patty did not move, she said angrily, "What are you just standing there for? Didn't you hear what I said? Get right over to Aunt Em's and tell her you're sorry you kept her waiting in for you all afternoon."

Patty was nine years old. If she had been older, perhaps she might have said, "Yes, I am sorry I kept Aunt Em waiting this afternoon. It was a thoughtless thing to do. But, although I am ready to tell those I love that I am sorry, I am not yet prepared to say this to Aunt Em. You must let me have a minute or so—before you send me off to Aunt Em and her tedious discussions of her all-too-vulnerable emotions—to get my own feelings and thoughts straight."

But instead of saying anything like this, Patty said nothing at all. She fumbled with her coat. She couldn't fasten her gashaws. She found that she had mislaid her earmuffs and then had to search for a mitten. As she slowly pulled her sleeves down over her mittens, her mother lost her last scrap of patience and cried, "I declare, Patty Brown, you're the stubbornest child I ever saw in my life!"

To be "stubborn" the dictionary says you have to be "unreasonably inflexible." As Patty was not an inflexible child, but one whose power of action temporarily was immobilized by two opposite pulls of equal power, we cannot call her "stubborn."

Such conflicting feelings often are the cause of what appears to be unreasonable inflexibility in children. As in Patty's case, what we think is "stubbornness" is apt to follow, rather than precede, a loss of our approval. Having incurred our displeasure, youngsters fear to incur any more of it by voicing objections to a disturbing order or request. They can hesitate for some time between the need to please us and the drive to please themselves.

Writing on this subject in "Mental Hygiene," quarterly publication of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, Dr. Katharine M. Bamham of Duke University says, "A stubborn child may be one who wants to please others so much, needs their love so much, that he is afraid to set just his behavior should estrange him more than ever from those he loves."

It is wise to operate generally on the principle that children love us far more than we deserve. It therefore is intelligent to help the "stubborn" child feel his love is returned, and let him trust us with his real feelings about the objectionable order.

Freddie Is Almost Blind, But Braille And Two Homes Help Him To Get Along

CLEVELAND—(NEA)—Nine-year-old Freddie Allemeter is almost blind. But, by way of compensation, the blond, blue-eyed youngster has two homes—and in each, a loving mother, father, two brothers and two sisters.

As soon as he has mastered braille at Cleveland's Anthony Wayne School, he will leave the home of his foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Durbin, and return to his home in Lima, Ohio.

That day probably will come in advance of Mr. and Mrs. Allemeter's fondest hopes. The course generally lasts about two years, but in a little more than a month Freddie has breezed through the first and second grades.

His world an indistinct blur since birth, Freddie has been tutored in Lima's sight-saving classes. Because he is totally blind in one eye and has only a fading 38 percent vision in the other, Freddie could not make the grade.

The nearest braille classes, however, were in Cleveland, 180 miles away. Lima's Board of Child Welfare wrote a letter to a Community Chest organization here which specializes in finding foster homes for children.

High And Low

Children's Services searched high and low for a couple willing to shoulder the tremendous responsibility of adding a near-blind child

Freddie reads braille, something he's been able to learn because he's a lucky boy. Freddie Allemeter is lucky because he has two homes and two families to help him, although he's practically blind.

to their family Director William Schmidt was at his wit's end when Mrs. Durbin stepped into the picture. "I did it," explains Mrs. Durbin. "Because unless folks start helping one another, we'll go right on living in a world of selfishness and wars." Not until Freddie walked in the door to stay did Mrs. Durbin or her husband, an apartment house engineer, know what kind of boy was to share their home. With Freddie's first friendly and mischievous grin, they knew he would also share their hearts. Shortly after, Mrs. Durbin's married daughter and grandson became boarders. The daughter's National Guardsman husband had been called to active duty. In addition, Mrs. Durbin has a sixth-grade daughter living at home and has two other children away at school.

Still Mrs. Durbin claims little Freddie has been no trouble. "He's just like any other boy. He roller-skates and rides his two-wheeler lickety-split, plays with the neighborhood children beautifully and even goes to the store alone."

For Freddie the modest but comfortable Durbin residence is a second home. There is a piano in the front parlor on which his small and sensitive fingers can practice music learned in his braille lessons. And there is almost always someone around for Freddie to impress with his newly acquired ability to read. "Little Black Sambo" is his latest accomplishment.

Though the time for returning to his parents, his own two brothers and sisters and his soft, furry dog cannot come too soon for Freddie, he has not once rebelled at his fate. "The closest he's ever come to complaining," says Mrs. Durbin, "was once when he said that God had forgotten to give him eyes. "I told him that that might be true, but that he had certainly been given a good disposition."

He is Alex Josey, who was barred from the air several months ago because some of the members of the Federal Legislative Council didn't like his socialistic views on nationalizing rubber and stinging criticism of government mistakes. Parents Should Prepare Now For Children's Summer Camp

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
It is not too early for parents who are considering sending their children to Summer camps to complete their arrangements. These camps for boys and girls are now a part of the American scene which thousands of lucky youngsters enjoy each year. Most camps require that the youngsters have a physical examination before going. This is to reveal any physical defect which might interfere with full activity so that proper measures can be taken to avoid undesirable risk. The presence of heart disease, a severe allergy or diabetes, for example, should be known before the youngster gets into trouble from any activity normally conducted in a Summer camp. The camp also will give parents instructions as to what clothes should be taken, the number of blankets, and similar information which is always needed before a camping experience can be comfortable and happy. Most camps require one or more successful smallpox vaccinations. Some ask for typhoid inoculations, although the danger from this disease has greatly decreased. Others require inoculations against tetanus or lockjaw. The regulations for camps vary, and some other inoculations such as those against diphtheria may or may not be required. The youngster going to a camp should be prepared to abide by the rules. For example, if the camp is located in an area where there are rattlesnakes, high boots may have to be worn and it could be dangerous to break this regulation. Abide By Camp Rules In most places swimming is an important part of camp life and the rules of safety should be strictly followed. Knives, axes, and other instruments which can cause injury should be taken only as advised by the camp directors and then certain rules for their safe use must be observed. It is a mistake to believe that camps are bound by too many rules. Summer camps for youngsters have only those rules which have been proved necessary for the protection of the campers. To follow them will not interfere with pleasure but will greatly increase the safety of the fortunate boys and girls who have this opportunity. Parents who do not know how to go about choosing a camp for their youngster can obtain information by writing the American Camping Association (343 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.). This fine organization can also supply information on camps for youngsters who are suffering from some physical handicap which might make one of the general camps unsatisfactory.

Authorities Seize Interesting Antique

PARADENA—(P)—A swap-shop owner recently displayed an interesting antique which had had use during California's gold rush days. The antique was a whisky still and it was the center of interest at the shop—for a while. Then it was confiscated by Clair E. Kirk of the Board of Equalization Liquor Control Division, who remarked: A still's still a still. A host of tiny electric switches, commonly known as relays, function in transmitting a call through a dial telephone central office.

Amarillo Closer To Three Other Capitals

AUSTIN—(P)—The University of Texas Department of Geography helped settle the question of how many states have capitals closer to Amarillo than the Texas capital at Austin. Dr. Donald Brand, geography professor, said the answer is three. With a big globe and calipers Dr. Brand's assistants measured these geographic air line distances: Amarillo to Santa Fe, N. M., 230 miles; Amarillo to Oklahoma City, 240 miles; Amarillo to Denver, Colo., 355 miles. Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle is 415 miles from Austin. All other capitals were farther away than Austin. Topeka, Kan., however, ran a close race at 425 miles distant.

Communists Plan To Erect Tree Wall

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—The Chinese Communists boast that they are erecting a "modern Great Wall" in Manchuria—a vast shelter belt of trees intended to alter the climate of a windswept region of arid dunes. The Peiping radio says the shelter belt is to be 583 miles long, extending from Heilungkiang Province down to Liaotung Peninsula and Shanhaikwan, southeastern end of the actual Great Wall of ancient China. Width will range up to 186 miles, the Reds say. Robot, meaning a man-like machine or a man who works like a machine, came into general use after a Czech play about robots became popular.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Gloomy Coon

People will tell you that a coon's face is sad and gloomy, but most coons only look that way. A coon is usually a happy fellow, but I know of one coon who wasn't happy at all. In fact, his name was Gloomy Coon, but then he hadn't lived in the Great Forest very long and he hadn't had time to know Daddy Ringtail. No one who knew Daddy Ringtail could stay gloomy very long.

Whenever Daddy Ringtail saw anyone with a gloomy face, he would smile and say: "My! My! It's a fine day, now isn't it?" and then whoever was listening would smile and say: "Indeed it is a fine day, Daddy Ringtail. It's a very fine day." Everyone felt better after saying it.

But Gloomy Coon didn't know all this. He was new in the Great Forest, remember. Gloomy was sitting on the limb of a tree when

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail saw him, and he was looking as gloomy as gloomy could be. His face wasn't even about to smile.

"My! My! It's a fine day, now isn't it?" Daddy Ringtail said. "Oh, my, no!" Gloomy said, because he was really very sad and gloomy. "I don't think it's a fine day at all."

Daddy Ringtail was surprised to hear him say this. The sun was shining on the river; the birds were singing in the trees, the flowers were blooming everywhere. It was a really beautiful day.

"Please tell me," Daddy Ringtail said, "why you think it isn't a fine day."

"Well," said Gloomy Coon, and he began to look around him for something to be gloomy about. "It isn't a fine day. It's gloomy because... well, because..."

Daddy Ringtail smiled, and Gloomy began to smile a little bit too. "There now!" Daddy Ringtail said. "You've never really looked before to see what a fine day it really is."

"You're right," said Gloomy, and he laughed right out loud. "I'm going to change my name; I don't want to be gloomy any more." And if my name were Gloomy, I think I'd want to change my name too. Wouldn't you? Happy day.

SURVIVES—Mary Ann Church, four, left, survived 43-hours of bitter snowy cold in the dense Nicolet National Forrest near Lakewood, Wis. Mary Ann's sister, Cathy, and cousin, Steve Kennedy, both five years old, died in the freezing weather before rescuers found them in a closed resort.

Simple Safety Precautions Taken At Home May Avert Serious Accidents For Family

Spring safety check-up for the home includes grounding washing machine (above) to reduce chance of electric shock in laundry and tacking loose carpeting (lower center) to prevent accidents. These jobs are performed by home handyman. Ideal time to get them done is before spring cleaning.

The home handyman also takes time (above) to tack strips on low, overhanging beam in basement. This rules out possible collision that could result in painful or serious injuries. It works for pipes or other low obstructions. Strips should be renewed when paper gets dirty.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The place for the home handyman is, naturally, in the home. And the time for him to make a safety checkup on your house is now, before the whirlwind that's known as Spring cleaning gets under way.

The purpose of such a check-up is first to make your home as accident-free as possible, and second, to get your husband out of his easy chair. Any woman knows how irritating it is to see a man settle down to enjoy himself. Break it up. Get him on his feet.

Tell him that home maintenance is his job and if he doesn't want everyone in the family to break his or her neck, singly and collectively, he'd better do something about the stairs.

Stairs provide the most logical spot for nasty falls. Seriously enough, they cause almost 26,000 unnecessary deaths each year, according to the National Safety Council. They also account for numerous broken bones and other injuries.

Here, then, is a good spot for your "Mr. Fix-It" to start. Stair carpeting that's loose or curled-up is dangerous. Ask him to tack it down securely, so that it can't possibly slip. Stairs should be well-lighted, should have handrails or bannisters, should never have throw rugs at the top, the bottom or on the landings.

The best way to check your house for safety hazards that you and your husband can eliminate is to do it room by room.

These are just some of the things for which you should watch: floors slippery from wax, telephone cord trailing on the floor where it may trip someone, defective and overloaded electrical sockets and frayed wires, loose window screens, scatter rugs that aren't anchored, poisons left around where children or pets can get at them, bathtubs and showers minus handholds and non-skid mats.

Disorder causes one out of every six home accidents. This means that when working and walking areas are cluttered, the odds in favor of an accident shoot up. It's easy to step on, or to strike against, ob-

Crop Dusting By Planes Dangerous

BOZEMAN, MONT.—(AP)—Crop dusting by plane is 24 times as dangerous as driving an auto. The comparison was made by David Nelson, chief of safety operations, Civil Aeronautics Commission, before a Montana State College pest control course.

Nelson said 197 pilots had been killed, 202 seriously injured, 400 planes destroyed and an estimated three million dollars lost in crop dusting operations in the past five years.

SNOWSHOE POSTMAN

Squawks Are Heard When Beacon Is Off

LONG BEACH, CALIF.—(AP)—The Calstate Refining Company here doesn't have any trouble with its huge open gas flame until workmen turn it off.

The big torch, seen for miles at night, burns off surplus gases from the plant. On rare occasions when the flame doesn't burn, the plant and police station are swamped with telephone calls with the complaint: "The torch is out."

The flame also is a marker for pilots who land at Long Beach Air Terminal, a company official said.

Auto Blocks Train In Illinois City

ELOIN, ILL.—(AP)—When Donald L. Sprague of nearby Aurora visits this city again, he'll watch how he parks his car.

He parked his car on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad tracks which cut diagonally through the downtown area. Police searched the town for Sprague when a train was blocked, tying up automobile traffic. Sprague finally showed up at the police station and reported his car was missing. Police told him he could reclaim it by paying the charges incurred in towing his car away.

Woman's Work Is Never Done, Especially At North Pole

By GAIL DUGAN
NEA Woman's Editor
NEW YORK—There are times when almost any woman thinks that keeping house is both a trial and a bore. But whenever you reach the point where you'd like to throw the whole house out the living room window, you might consider the idea of keeping house at the North Pole.

For one young woman named Elsie Gillis has done just exactly that and she'll probably never again complain about civilization, without preparation or training she was launched into a life where she had to get meals using polar bear steaks, seal and walrus livers, Arctic hare, ptarmigan (Arctic birds) and char (Arctic fish). She got water by melting ice as she went along.

Actually, she was keeping a kind of boarding house at Arctic Bay, the point farthest north at which a white woman is permitted to live. With her were her husband, John, and three other young officers of the meteorological station.

On a recent trip to New York from Toronto, now her home, Mrs. Gillis talked about her experiences. She added that, since her return from the Far North, her hair has turned prematurely gray. "My husband's assignment to the Arctic was for a year," she explained. "And the only way I could go at all was to sign up as cook for him and the three other men at the weather station."

"We had ordered supplies sent up, of course, but after the 5,000-mile journey was over and we were getting settled, we discovered that 70 miles away. They were able to pay exactly one visit, by dog team, during the year. Aside from this mad social whirl, life was made up of bread-baking bouts, the everlasting ice and snow and occasional Eskimo parties. One little Eskimo woman usually would turn up wearing a one-piece suit of men's long-sleeved combinations topped by a bright print cotton dress with short sleeves. There were no movies, no radio programs, mail once a year and no television.

But housekeeping in the far north did have its advantages. Since there was no cook to whom she could be compared, her "boarders" considered Mrs. Gillis tops and she got lots of praise at every meal. And there were electric lights in the house, in-door plumbing and coal for heat.

But, in that land of ice and water, there was so little fresh water that when an iceberg once turned up practically in the back yard, it was a real luxury.

One outstandingly good thing came out of the trip north: a book that Elsie Gillis did with Eugenie Myles. It's called "North Pole Boarding House" and in it Mrs. Gillis delivers her personal blueprint for keeping house at Arctic Bay.

This is for all those women who are fed up on soap opera, dish water, three square meals and Spring housecleaning and therefore wish they could take off for some romantic place like the North Pole.

The largest ancient palace yet uncovered in Palestine, dating from the time of Christ, was discovered at Jericho.

Elsie Gillis; At the North Pole, a boarding house and polar bear steaks.

900 pounds of fresh meat, all we'd expected to have for the year, had been left by mistake at Churchill, 1,500 miles south. There was no way of transporting it. Right then, I started to improvise steaks and chops from seals and polar bears."

Fancy Clubs Help Make Duty On Okinawa Pleasant

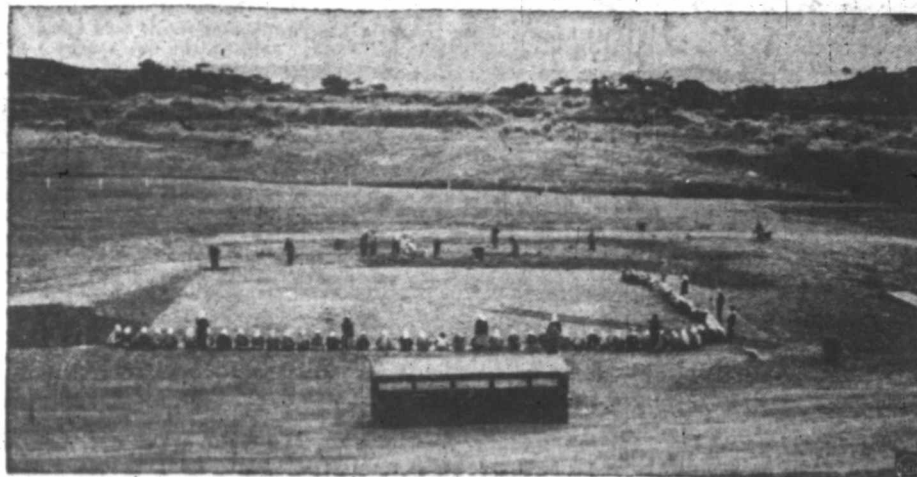

Okinawa personnel have fun at the island's fancy clubs, like this officers club. Mary Brown, dancing happily, says you can do anything on Okinawa that you can do in Columbus, Ohio.

OKINAWA — (NEA) — On the highest point of the southern part of Okinawa, with a magnificent view of the ocean and harbor, there is located what is probably the finest and largest U. S. officers club in the world.

It is the social hub for the civilians and officers of the Ryukyu Islands, but it didn't cost the U. S. taxpayers a cent. The officers built it and paid for it themselves.

Okinawa natives, like these women leveling a baseball diamond, were cheered at the U. S. official attitude. They were promised that the U. S. had no colonial ambitions on Okinawa.

when the island didn't have its standing as a vitally strategic spot in the Far East, morale among the troops here was zero. It had the reputation of a cemetery for officers — you came out here to be forgotten.

With New Role
Today, with its new role as the future keystone of American defenses in the Pacific, morale and living conditions are excellent.

And this is mostly the result of the efforts of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, boss of the Ryukyus Command.

"This is a long way from home and you've got to give the people who come here or who are ordered here as pleasant a life as possible, with plenty of recreation," he explains.

Most of the troops and officers stationed here agree that it is now a pleasant place for duty. The influx of wives and families is helping to bolster that attitude, along with new housing and other improvements going up all over.

Mary Brown of Columbus, Ohio, a young, attractive civilian employe of the Army who came out as a secretary a few months ago, expresses the typical view of the place:

"I love it. There is good swimming practically all year. Hiking, dancing, sightseeing. Practically anything you can do in Columbus. And you can save money."

From the looks of the Okinawans, most of whom have adopted American dress — including lipstick for the ladies — they seem not to be chafing under the occupation. They are friendly and obviously prosperous.

"We are working to restore the Ryukyus to self-sufficiency. We have established a sound political structure and, as fast as the people become ready, have given the Okinawans responsibility for their own governmental functions. For the first time in their history they are electing their own governors, assemblymen and Ryukyus-wide assemblies."

"Land is being returned to the proper owners as rapidly as consolidated military installations are completed. Small local industries have developed in surprising numbers and have found outlets and markets for their products and goods not only within the Ryukyus Islands, but in Japan, Formosa and the United States."

On a recent visit to the island, Assistant Secretary of the Army, Earl D. Johnson made the best explanation yet given to the Okinawans as the goal of the government there. He said:

"My country has no interest in a colonial policy or in governing other people. We believe that Okinawans have a life and culture of their own and they should preserve it. We do not want to keep any permanent responsibility for the civil administration of the Ryukyus."

This statement probably did more than anything else since the invasion to help relations with the Okinawans.

The very long view of the future of Okinawa, of course, depends on the state of the relations between the U. S. and Russia. If the U. S. should ever decide that the island was no longer needed for defensive reasons it could return it to Japan or place its fate in the hands of the United Nations.

★ TEEN TALK ★

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newscaster

Teen-agers have calmed down to the liking of their guardians, insofar as dress and life are concerned. But the common complaint of Aunt Myrtle and Uncle Charlie is that most young people are too boisterous.

Girls are no longer the little ladies they were a generation ago, say the elders. They are accused, specifically, of being loud, boisterous and unashamed in public. At home they are said to be surly, disrespectful, careless and immodest.

The habit of screaming and shouting in normal conversation instead of being "seen and heard," like young women in past generations, is what particularly irks parents. Today's young filly wants the world to know that she has a mind of her own.

But what kind of a mind? asks Uncle Charlie. The silent, demure manner of young women of long ago had its advantages, he says. A girl did not speak her mind until it had developed—the entire reason for keeping her quiet was so that she wouldn't make a fool of herself, he says.

Today the world knows what a teen-ager thinks long before she matures. And Uncle Charlie has his doubts that many of them ever mature. He has opportunity to ride with them on buses, subways and trains, and he thinks they are getting louder and louder. The din of their patter is enough to make a deaf person tremble, he says. Their yammering, according to him, goes like this:

"I promised to call me a couple of days ago, but he didn't so who cares . . . my father forbids me to go out with him, so I go out with another boy, and meet Johnny later . . . he's a drip . . . dresses like little Lord Fauntleroy . . . and on and on."

He points out that the chief fault of the younger set is a lack of pride.

Young people, he says, do not care what other people think of them . . . they are not interested in pleasing their parents, particularly . . . they've lost competitive school spirit and manage to pass grades by the skin of their teeth . . . they have no respect for their teachers . . . they do not give reason to expect nor do they particularly desire special courtesies from the male sex and they refuse to be guided.

And if there are lots of unmarried girls in their thirties sitting around waiting for a wedding ring it's because no man wants to take a wife who behaves the way these girls do, says Uncle Charlie. Teen-agers can take a cue from these older sisters, he advises, and wake up to the pleasures to be reaped by being a lady.

As in every generation, modern youngsters think their parents are old-hat. But in other days when the age of enlightenment came, a girl realized that her parents had good judgment all along.

Once upon a time a mother could tell daughter not to associate with so-and-so or such-and-such a group. Her offspring would dry her eyes, rebel inwardly, and think that her mother was the most unreasonable parent in the world—but she'd obey.

So while parents are on the subject of complaining about their offspring, let them ask themselves whether they enforce discipline at home. If mothers and fathers would take more time to steer young people in their formative years, the rest would be easy. The first thing to teach, of course, is respect for the parent. When that is indelibly impressed upon a youngster's mind, the parents' work will be easier.

Thief Brings Back Fishing Tackle

ADA, OKLA.—(AP)—J. H. Hewitt, an ardent angler, issued an invitation in the newspaper for a thief to return and get his rods and reels, left behind when his fishing tackle and tools were stolen. The poles were useless without flies and plugs, Hewitt explained. During the night the tackle was returned to the pickup truck from which it was stolen.
