Phillips Gets More Ellenburger Shows In Andrews Tester

Phillips Petroleum Company has found more gas and oil in the Ellenburger at its No. 1-EE Texas University, Southwest Andrews County wildcat in the Block 12 area.

The latest shows came in a three-hour drillstem test at 10,590-715 feet. A 2,100-foot water blanket was used.

Gas surfaced in one hour and 19 minutes and the gas blow continued during the remainder of the test period. No fluid came to the top while the tool was open. However, after operator started pulling the tool the drill pipe unloaded the 2,100-foot water blanket, which was heavily oil and gas cut.

Recovered Free Oil
Then 5,951 feet of free oil was circulated to tanks from the drill pipe. That oil was cut with 14 per cent basic sediment and water blanket. An additional 220 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud was also circulated out.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was from 1,200 pounds to 3-4 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 4,175 pounds.

Operator is now preparing to drill deeper.
Southwest Of Andrews
This wildcat is 22 miles southwest of the town of Andrews and 1,980 feet from south and 665 feet from east lines of the west half of section 17, block 12, University survey.

It is on the northwest side of the Block 12-Clear Fork field.
This well had recovered 1,960 feet of free oil and the 2,130-foot water blanket, which was cut with an estimated 50 to 75 per cent oil, in a three-hour drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger at 10,555-680 feet.

Texaco Will Drill Yates Wildcat In W-C Pecos Sector

The Texas Company has staked location in West-Central Pecos County for a 2,800-foot wildcat to test the Yates sand.

It is the concern's No. 1 M. L. Bailey, at the center of the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 21, block 14, T&S survey.

It is one mile south of the Fort Stockton field.

Project In Scurry Will Be Taken To Strawn By Texaco

After failing to find production in the Cisco sand at No. 202 P. L. Fuller, wildcat in East-Central Scurry County, 12 miles north of Snyder, The Texas Company filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permission to take the exploration on to the Canyon reef and Strawn formations.

Located 467 feet from south and 1,800 feet from east lines of section 498, block 97, H&TCo survey, the project is now drilling below 6,390 feet. It started out to go to 6,375 feet. New destination is 7,400 feet.

The closest Pennsylvanian reef production is slightly more than one mile to the west in the Kelley-Snyder field.

Ellenburger Test Set In SE Upton Multipay Field

One-half mile west of the lone Ellenburger producer in the Flat Rock-multipay field of Southeast Upton County, eight miles east of Rankin, Cities Service Oil Company spotted location for No. 3-AH University.

It will drill to 11,000 feet for tests of the Ellenburger. Location is 666 feet from south and 2,021 feet from west lines of section 29, block 3, University survey.

The Flat Rock field also produces from the Spraberry.

Cactus Completes Glorieta Opener In C-S Gaines Region

Cactus Drilling Corporation of Texas No. 1 Knight, Central-South Gaines County wildcat has been completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 134 barrels of oil from perforated section in the top of the Glorieta at 5,995-6,004 feet.

That zone had been treated with 1,000 gallons of acid. No water was reported with the oil produced on (Continued On Page Eight)

Teasing Rains Bring Slight Drouth Relief

A cold front, perhaps the last of the season, brought showers and thunderstorms to Texas to give slight relief to the lengthening drouth.

Tracess of rain fell Thursday at Mineral Wells, Big Spring, Abilene, Midland, San Angelo, Junction, Waco, Wichita Falls, Fort Worth and Lubbock.

Rainfall totals for the 24 hours ended at 6:30 a.m. included .18 inch at Texarkana; .07; Austin .02; Waco .17; Fort Worth .01; Palestine .09; Snyder .20; Wichita Falls .15; Lubbock .03; Lufkin .04; Tyler .20.

Blowing sand appeared again in West Texas and reduced visibility at Big Spring, Wink, Midland, Marfa and El Paso. Midland's visibility dropped to one mile before dawn Thursday. Winds up to 46 miles an hour scooped up the sand at Big Spring, where visibility was three miles before daybreak.

Temperatures behind the cold front dropped about 10 degrees but nowhere in the state Thursday was the cold intense. Dairhart's 26 degrees was the only recording below the freezing mark.

Meanwhile, the drouth continued to worry residents of the state. In the ranching area around Del Rio, where only seven-sevenths of an inch of rain has fallen since January 1,

DEL RIO.—(P)—Rain began falling here at 9 a.m. Thursday following a special service for rain "open to all who believe in prayer."

The First Baptist Church opened its prayer meeting Wednesday night to all denominations who wanted to pray for rain.

Val Verde County ranchmen were estimated to be spending $50,000 daily for feed usually furnished by pastures. Now the pastures are almost arid wastelands. Last year's rainfall was half of normal. So far (Continued On Page 12)

Lamesa Gets Heavy Snow

LAMESA—A three-hour snow had Lamesans praising the rain-makers Thursday morning. The fall continued at 11 a.m.

Five Krick cloud-seeding generators were operating to capitalize on the cool front which moved in from the north and northwest. The "burners" were located at Santa Rosa, Clovis and Captain, N. M., and at Lamesa and Sterling City.

Sam Allen, Dawson County farm Bureau chief and temporary president of the 11-county West Texas Weather Improvement Association, quoted old-timers as saying the giant flakes were the largest they had seen in Dawson County. Some described the flakes as being "as large as half-dollars."

Leap Saves Driver Of Automobile Hit By Freight Train

A 24-year-old oilfield worker escaped serious injury early Thursday morning when he jumped from his automobile a few seconds before it was struck by a Texas and Pacific freight train.

The driver, William G. Chase, was given emergency treatment at Midland Memorial Hospital for abrasions of the face.

Police officers Joe Curry and Loren Beatty said Chase was crossing the tracks on the Tower Road west of the city when he apparently saw the approaching train for the first time.

He leaped from the cab just before the engine struck.

TORNADO ON FOUR WHEELS—The 300-foot path of destruction in the 900 block of North Colorado wasn't caused by the weather early Wednesday morning. It was an automobile which plunged out of control, damaged two parked automobiles, tore down a garage, battered apart this brick fence and sent the driver, identified as Frank M. McCarthy of Snyder, to the hospital. He had regained consciousness Thursday and his condition was reported improved although still serious.

Prayer-For-Rain Marathon Ends Under Overcast Skies

Midland's prayer-for-rain marathon ended Thursday morning under overcast skies which dropped light precipitation.

CAA observers at the Midland Air Terminal forecast additional "very light" rain during the day with skies expected to clear Thursday. A cool front had passed Midland Thursday morning and warmer weather was indicated for Friday.

The Rev. Vernon Yearby, First Baptist pastor, directed the closing hourly services in the church auditorium with expressions of simple faith.

"We are not defeated," he assured, "nor do we attempt to tell God what to do. We are simple believers who want to fit into God's plan. We have already experienced great spiritual victories and are assured that God in due season will water the earth."

Others at the early morning services joined in the belief of God's will being done.

Steel Wage Talks Still In Deadlock

WASHINGTON.—(P)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson Thursday dropped plans for a top level parley of government officials concerned with the threat of a steel strike April 8.

Instead, he talked separately with the various price and wage control executives and ruled out any immediate announcement of what he may do next to head off a strike.

Wilson has declared the recommendations of the Wage Stabilization Board, proposing a 17 1/2-cent hourly pay increase and other benefits for the CIO Steelworkers are inflationary and too high. This statement stirred up wrathful reports from CIO President Philip Murray and the union declared that if the steel industry doesn't accept the WSB recommendations, the responsibility for a serious strike will be on the companies.

Wilson talked 20 minutes Thursday with Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam at the Westchester Apartments, where they both live. Then, he had a talk in his own office with Nathan P. Feinsinger, WSB chairman who has upheld his board's recommendations as un-inflationary and justified. Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall was listed for a later, separate talk.

A spokesman for Wilson's Office of Defense Mobilization refused to confirm or deny that he plans to keep hands off the steel wage dispute for the present in hopes of progress in union-management negotiations which started Wednesday in Pittsburgh, and resumed Thursday.

The situation was such that it even appeared possible that, with President Truman due back from his Florida vacation in late afternoon, someone in the mobilization hierarchy may quit soon.

One thing appeared certain: that the CIO Steelworkers Union, headed by Philip Murray, will get nowhere in negotiations with steel firms until the Administration makes up its mind.

Pilots Bring Stricken Ship Down In Field

HUGOTON, KAN.—(P)—Two pilots guided a flaming airliner with 49 persons aboard to a perfect landing in a wheat field late Wednesday, then brushed off the feat as an ordinary job.

The Braniff Airlines DC-4 came down with one of its four engines gone and a wing in flames. Only one passenger was injured.

Chief Pilot Jack Stanford commented tersely: "The only sensible thing to do was land."

Minutes after the 45 passengers and four crew members scurried out, flames consumed virtually the entire plane. Neither Stanford nor Co-pilot John Beakley, both of Dallas, Texas, would take credit for an extraordinary job. They had little to say.

But O. R. Sikes, an Oklahoma City lawyer who was a passenger, described the landing "as smooth as any I've ever seen."

He gave this description: "I was sitting on the right side about two seats back of the wing when I noticed fire around the right inboard engine. I called the stewardesses and they went forward to tell the captain (Stanford)."

Master Falls Off
"He came back, took one look and told us to fasten our safety belts. Then he banked the plane to put the stress on the opposite wing and started down. I judged we were about 6,000 feet above the ground then. "About halfway down the motor fell off."

"No one talked at all. I guess they were too scared, just like I was." Sikes said the passengers "could feel the heat of the flames as we came into the wheat field."

Results Good In C-C Drive

The one-day blits to increase the budget of the Midland Chamber of Commerce was showing commendable results Thursday. Fifty business leaders carried on the drive Wednesday among 300 prospective members.

One hundred cards had been worked by Thursday noon with 40 new members added to the expanding C. of C. rolls. Burrin Hines, assistant Chamber of Commerce manager, reported.

All reports had not been turned in by the two-man teams. Chamber officials were to continue working the membership cards Thursday afternoon, hoping the high percentage will continue.

The one-day campaign was designed to increase the annual budget by at least $5,000. The Midland C. of C. budget is considerably lower than cities of comparable size.

The drive was staged under the direction of Joe T. Dikerson, chairman of the chamber's membership committee.

Eight Persons Die In Farmhouse Blaze

SOMEREST, PA.—(P)—Eight persons—six of them children—burned to death Thursday in a farmhouse blaze at nearby Rockwood, eight miles south of this Southwest-Pennsylvania community.

Only Franklin Whippley, 10, one of the seven children at home at the time, escaped unhurt. He jumped out of a window.

Neighbors said the blaze apparently broke out about 7 a.m. in the three-story frame home of John Whippley, retired coal miner and father of 14.

Burglars Get $103 In Second Midland Break-In Of Week

Burglars broke into the salesroom of the Elder Chevrolet Company at 701 West Texas Street Wednesday night and escaped with $103 in cash.

Police said entrance was gained through a window in the paint shop and the door to the salesroom was then forced open. The money was taken from the cash drawer.

It was the second burglary here reported in three nights.

On Monday night, someone saw a hole through the door of the office at the West Elementary school and took $14 in cash.

'Sure We Were Scared,' Say Burned Plane's Passengers

By MARYHA COLE
DALLAS.—(P)—Sixteen of the 46 passengers aboard a burning airliner that landed in a Kansas wheat field Wednesday arrived in Dallas Thursday "feeling wonderful."

"Sure we were scared," said D. B. Lowmyer, Houston. "I just sat there, waited and wished and said my prayers. The pilot was wonderful."

An Army doctor, Col. George H. Lane, Portland, Ore., who delivered twice just the night before he got on the plane, said "Nobody got panicky. We didn't have time to get scared. The crew was wonderful."

Maurice Helman, Seattle, said "Sure I was one of the lucky ones off the plane. It wasn't bad at all. I've been in rougher landings on the field. When that plane landed we all jumped out and ran like hell."

The passengers had been taken to Amarillo, Texas, in buses. Some of them took other planes from there. The group which arrived here came in a special Braniff DC-6. From Amarillo the plane went to Oklahoma City and dropped among other passengers, Mrs. U. G. Duback, 89, a Fortland, Ore., woman enroute to Oklahoma City.

Passengers here said she was one of the "pluckiest" they had ever seen.

They said she grabbed a magazine, rolled it around a rope to protect her hands, and slid down to the ground. Then two men grabbed her to get her away from the plane and she said, "I didn't think my 69-year-old bones would run so fast."

All of the passengers described the two hostesses as the "pluckiest girls they had ever seen."

The two—Dorothy Curry of Danglerfield, Texas, and Betty Murphy of Houston—were the last to leave the blazing plane.

They made one last check before they jumped to be sure no passengers were left on the plane.

Bits Of Paper Spell Brighter Future For Crippled Youth

By COPE RUTH
Reporter-Telegram Staff
The kind winds of fate puffed gently Wednesday and brought together a tiny piece of paper and a grinning, freckled-faced boy.

The boy, his enthusiasm unshaken by the folding wheel chair in which he sat, is R. A. Weinkauff. The tiny piece of paper, representing the generosity of thousands of citizens, is the Easter Seal.

And because they were brought together here Wednesday by a lot of wonderful people, R. A. Weinkauff is looking forward to walking almost before his former classmates stream from the schoolhouse for their Summer vacation.

R. A. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard S. Draper, who live at 712 East New York Street. He is 18 years old. He lives in his wheelchair.

"I've fallen lots of times. My bones used to be brittle and when I fell they would break. They would heal again, however, and I could continue walking."

"This time they didn't break. But I couldn't walk either." The joints refused to straighten and R. A. was forced to get about in a wheel chair.

"But it wasn't too bad," he continued "I don't like to read too much but I like to do things with my hands. "I got me a regular-sized typewriter and I'm learning to use it. I studied one year of typing before I left school and now I'm picking up the rest from books they bring me."

"I would have been a junior in high school this year but I had to stay out. With my typing I think maybe I can become a typist and

Texas Newspaper Poll Goes For Ike

BEAUMONT—(P)—If a poll conducted by the Beaumont Enterprise were the real thing, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and General Dwight Eisenhower would find themselves face-to-face in a runoff.

The Enterprise poll, conducted among Southeast Texas and Southwest Louisiana residents, gave Eisenhower a whopping lead with 1,679 of 3,857 votes counted.

Senator Taft ran second in the traditionally Democratic section with 792 votes. Senator Russell (D-Ga.) was third to lead all other Democrats, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur was fourth. Russell polled 363 votes; MacArthur got 273.

The rest of the presidential contenders ran like this: Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), 261; President Harry Truman, 215; Gov. Earl Warren (R-Calif.), 44.

Harold Stassen, (R-Minn.), 18; Vice President Alben Barkley (D-Ky.), 12.

Senator Robert Kerr, (D-Okla.), 3.

The straw vote also attempted to test sentiment in the U. S. Senate race in Texas with State Attorney General Price Daniel getting 2,795 votes to 470 for incumbent Senator Tom Connally.

A third proposition showed 3,356 voters wanting preferential presidential primary in Texas. Only 166 opposed the proposed primary.

The Enterprise poll was ended at midnight Tuesday. The count made Wednesday night was considered complete.

"Livery" which once meant an allowance of food and clothing has come to mean the dress furnished to servants.

Mrs. Eisenhower Hints At Early Return To U. S. A.

DENVER—(P)—The Rocky Mountain News said in a copyright story Thursday it had learned Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower had written a friend here saying she and her husband intend returning to the states within a month.

The friend, Mrs. Dick McCusker, told The Associated Press her remarks had been misinterpreted.

"I never said the Eisenhowers were coming," she said. "The letter just said it would be fun to see you and 'You never know in this business.'"

The newspaper said Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. McCusker were girlhood friends. Mrs. Eisenhower's parents live here.

The McCuskers planned to visit the Eisenhowers in Paris next month during a six-week tour of Europe, the News reported, but Mrs. Eisenhower had replied she and her husband planned to be in the states at that time.

Maureen Finds Five Is Crowd On TV But Has Seven At Home

By ERKINE JOHNSON
NEA Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Hollywood's champion mother of seven, Maureen O'Sullivan, is playing the mama of five kids in Hal Roach's "Children's Hour" films for TV. She says: "Five is such a crowd. I keep asking myself 'Do I have TWO more than this group?'"

Still-gorgeous Maureen, the wife of Director John Farrow, has a theory about playing a mother — "I try not to be too nauseating," and a classification of her career — "In an intermittent actress." Her last movie was a year and a half ago, the one before that four years ago.

"It's funny," she told me, "but I seem to have time to work occasionally. I think the children are happy to get rid of me for a couple of days."

More children for Maureen? "I don't know," she said, "seven is a nice number."

end of the year... Hush-hush! reason for the additional story footage changes being shot by Fox on "The I-Don't-Care Girl," biography of Eva Tanguay, is the flock of Eva's relatives and former associates who have come forward with demands for money... Fox wants Lauren Bacall's first picture to be a musical. The reason for her singing on Bing Crosby's recent airshow?

Producer Fred Finkelhoffe is offering everything in the book to Linda Darnell to make her Broadway debut in "The Sun Looks Down"... Maria Christine Aumont, six-year-old daughter of the late Maria Montez, arrives in Hollywood in March to enter school and live with her father, Jean Pierre Aumont. Maria's sisters will pitch in to help with the youngster.

A big squabble between Dan Dailey and his new flame, Marie Ailyn, in front of Dan's apartment house, has the movietown tongue-waggers in a dither.

Dies To Announce By May 7; Predicts Victory For GOP
CINCINNATI—(P)—Ex-Congressman Martin Dies of Texas said Wednesday night he would announce his candidacy for U. S. senator or representative before May 7. Dies told a reporter he had not yet decided whether he would run for senator, congressman-at-large, or for his old job as congressman from the Second Texas Congressional District. But he said he would run for one of the three places.
Dies was chairman of the original House Un-American Activities Committee. He has been talking of running for months.
"I know I can make it, too," the ex-congressman said. He revealed his plans in an interview during his visit to a construction industry convention.
"When I stepped out of office in 1945, I was unpopular," he said. "Now I can't fill 10 per cent of my speaking engagements," he said the change is due to the feeling that corruption and communism in government must go.
Dies said he expects a Republican President to be elected this year because of a split in the Democratic Party. "Texas and the South will vote solidly for Senator Richard Russell, thus leaving the door open for the GOP," he stated.

The Reason Why
DONALD M. OLIVER
Is A Candidate For
Place No. 4 on the City Council

Some of my friends and acquaintances have asked me why I would be willing to devote the time and effort required to serve on the City Council of the City of Midland, Texas.

I have told them that in these days every citizen ought to be interested in good, clean, efficient, economic, democratic government. It is my feeling that we are fortunate in enjoying this kind of government in the City of Midland and as far as I am concerned, I am willing to do what I can to keep it that way. I, therefore, am willing to serve as a city councilman and, if elected, I will try to do the best I can to serve all the people in a way that will bring credit to the community.

VATICAN CITY.—The Israeli flag appeared for the first time in Vatican City Thursday on a luncheon which bore Moshe Sharet, Israeli foreign minister, on a courtesy call to Pope Pius.

The MATURE PARENT

Why Youngsters Mistake 'Misery' For 'Love'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

A mother, distressed over her daughter's broken engagement, writes me: "She isn't sleeping or eating well. He was a nice boy, but he and my daughter had bitter quarrels. She believes that marriage would have solved this. Maybe she is right."

This mother seems to agree with her daughter that the satisfaction of two young people's physical needs for each other is all that is necessary for a good marriage.

Dr. Lawrence S. Kubie, clinical professor of psychiatry at Yale University's School of Medicine, writes: "Choosing a mate is one of the most confused steps that a human being takes in life... because each of the pair is ignorant of the unconscious purposes that determine their respective choices."

So I suggest that this mother get to work to discover why her child is so attracted to a young man who makes her miserable. Let her look deeper than her daughter's physical attachment to him. Look for the real need that may be driving her to pursue suffering.

What does this boy represent to her that she is willing to pay the price of constant tension? Does he offer her a chance to prove something about herself? Does he mean prestige in her family? Does he mean reassurance that she is desirable? Intelligent? More attractive than a sister?

She should be immeasurably grateful to psychiatry's insights into human motives for making unhappy relationships. Now perhaps

Up-And-Coming Stanton

Things are happening in a big way over in Stanton, our up-and-coming neighbor to the East. Scores of new homes have been erected there in recent months, and only a few weeks ago plans were announced for erecting another hundred or more additional dwelling units to meet an ever-increasing demand.

A new and completely modern motel opened recently off the Lameza highway. Several new businesses have opened, while other established firms have erected new buildings or remodeled present structures. One downtown theater and two drive-in theaters now offer entertainment for the residents of Martin County.

Several community betterment projects are underway or are in the talking stage. The population continues to increase as the oil play develops in the Stanton vicinity. And now the Stanton Independent School District has purchased a 20-acre tract of land as the site for a future high school plant.

France Is In Bad Way

Recent events point up all too clearly that France is in a bad way, both financially and politically. This is a matter of deep concern both to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which France is an important part, and to the United States, which is shelling out millions for France's rearmament.

Another thing is the costly war she is waging in Indo-China. If she could pull out of Indo-China her budget problem would be just about licked. Involved in all France's money troubles is the very real problem of the tottering franc.

Naturally, such devalued money puts a terrific hardship on the French people. The cost of living has soared 50 per cent in the last year and a half. Against this spotty financial scene, Premier Faure went home to Paris from the NATO conference in Lisbon recently to tell the French what they were going to have to pay out for rearmament.

How is France to correct this weakness? Many believe a change in the constitution will be required to bring about permanent benefit. Short of that, the only answer appears to be the emergence of a single party with strength enough to endure for a sufficient length of time to carry out remedial financial policies.

Middle of the road governments have failed to do this since World War II, which leaves France in the unhappy position of perhaps having to choose between an extreme of right or left. It's very nice to have polish, unless you got it being a slippery customer. Police arrested an Ohio man for giving his wife a shiner. She'll be her own perfect eye witness.

The greatest failure of all is the person who fails to even try. This is the season when a bowler who is always late at the alleys just grabs his coffee and rolls. Simple definition of a gag: something that people who pull them need.

Taking The Patient For A Ride

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

Copyright, 1952, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.
Drew Pearson says: Nunan testimony is get-rich-quick story. Ex-Commissioner was careless with his own tax returns; Nunan gave $3,000 cocktail party to entertain federal officials.

WASHINGTON — "How to get rich while working for the government" might well be the title of the testimony given the King tax-fraud subcommittee last week by Joe Nunan, ex-commissioner of Internal Revenue, the man who once collected the nation's taxes.

Only trouble with Nunan's sensational testimony was that it was given behind closed doors. The public couldn't get the full benefit of the Nunan object lesson in how to make money while working for the government.

However, this column is able to give the public a detailed report of what happened. Here are the highlights: 1. Nunan's outside law fees and other outside income increased from $13,306 to $77,450 while he was tax commissioner. This was from 1944 to 1947.

2. Nunan attended a party given by racketeer Frankie Costello at the Copacabana Night Club, which Costello owns. Parenthetically, it should be noted that, after he left the government, Nunan turned up working for the night-club owners of New York, of which Costello was one.

3. Nunan threw a $3,000 cocktail party for Attorney General McGrath and Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark. This was after he had left the government, and the purpose of the party was to introduce his law clients to McGrath and Justice Clark.

4. "Do you not think that a commissioner of Internal Revenue ought to carry out his own instructions?" needed Congressman Byrnes. "Yes, sir," meekly agreed Nunan. DeWind then explored Nunan's acquaintance with racketeer Frankie Costello.

5. "I have met him twice, yes, sir," admitted Nunan. On both occasions, he explained, they had met at a New York bar and had been introduced by mutual friends.

6. "You have never attended any party or dinner or other affair given by Mr. Costello?" fired DeWind. "Yes, I did," Nunan recalled. "I attended that dinner at the Copacabana that was supposed to be given for the Salvation Army."

7. "It was while you were commissioner?" pressed DeWind. "Yes, sir," acknowledged Nunan. "I was invited to this party by, I think it was a man named Jim O'Connell."

8. He identified O'Connell as an old friend in the construction business; also testified that no other federal officials had attended Costello's party. 9. "Did the income from that go into some of these legal fees that you reported?" Byrnes demanded.

10. "Under the agreement with the firm, it wasn't supposed to, Mr. Congressman," explained Nunan. "Did the only federal practice of the firm consist of tax practice?" DeWind interrupted.

11. "That would be, yes, I don't think they had anything with any of the other government agencies," replied the former commissioner. Nunan's Own Tax Returns. The House probers also were critical of the slipshod way Nunan made out his own tax returns while he was tax chief. Under sharp questioning from DeWind, Nunan admitted that he hadn't bothered to itemize his expenses, contributions and other deduction — although the returns explicitly called for itemized lists.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When the Midwest Regional Tournament begins next Wednesday in Milwaukee, it is expected that Jack Hancock and Manny Hochfeld will be on hand to defend the open pair championship they won in this tournament last year.

Jack and Manny are both members of the group of "youngsters" from Chicago who have scored sensational successes in bridge tournaments during the last couple of years.

In the hand shown today, Hancock and Hochfeld demonstrated their ability to stay out of trouble in defending a difficult hand. Hancock opened the queen of diamonds from the West hand, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer immediately tried the trump fi-ness, losing to the king. South took the diamond return with the king, entered dummy with a trump, and ruffed a diamond.

Table with 4 columns: NORTH (D), WEST, EAST, SOUTH. Contains card symbols and numbers for a bridge hand.

Now he led to the ace of hearts and returned the ten of hearts, allowing either opponent to win the second round of the suit. The idea was to persuade the defenders that a real end-play had taken place.

Mediocre defenders would have been bamboozled into leading clubs. It is easy to see that declarer can play to lose only one club trick (and thus make his contract) if either opponent begins the suit.

It's a little harder, however, to hornswoggle the two young experts from Chicago. Whichever defender won the second heart was sure to lead the suit right back. This would allow declarer to ruff in his hand and discard a club from dummy, but the discard would do him no good. He would still have to lose two club tricks, for a one-trick set.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been: North 1 Spade, East 2 Clubs, South 2 Spades, West 3 Clubs. You, South, hold: Spades J-10-5-2, Hearts 8, Diamonds 9-6-3, Clubs A-K-Q-8-4. What do you do?

A—Bid four spades. There should be a play for game unless your partner has three small diamonds and a losing card in the major suits — and if the opponents take the diamonds promptly, your chances are so good that you should not strain your partner with a mere invitation to game, but should jump there yourself.

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 8-2, Hearts K-6-3, Diamonds J-10-5, Clubs A-K-Q-8-4. What do you do?

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Iowa Showed Rustic Favors On European Correspondents

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Eleven topflight European newspapermen—brought over here on a goodwill tour to see how the U. S. defense program was going—are safely on their way home now, sadder but wiser men. Some of them thought for a time they'd never make it.

Highlight of their trip was a long, lost weekend in rural Iowa, buried under 12-foot snowdrifts, about which more later.

The 11 correspondents were here in Washington recently for a final fling of briefings by Pentagon, State Department and Mutual Security Agency officials. But in between lectures—at cocktail parties and in the Press Club bar—they have told all about their junket. And there hasn't been so much fun in Washington since Harry lived his last hot note to a music critic.

This, in a measure, even the score. All the GI's who have slept in billets over French peasants' prized manure piles—all the American foreign correspondents who have put up in Balkan flea bags and the heatless hoveleries of Paris and London now have been repaid.

They were three Frenchmen, two Brits, two Italians, a Dutchman, a Belgian, a Dane. They were to see America. First. And last. They saw everything. East of the Rockies, that is.

Big idea of the tour was that they would go home and write pieces about the great American standard of living and what the American taxpayer was doing to help defend Europe.

After landing in New York, duly accompanied by guides and interpreters, the party went to Bridgeport. Then they went to Cleveland. In those two cities they inspected factories.

Grass Roots Snowed Under. Then they went to Iowa. Somebody had dreamed up the idea that the right way to learn about America was to spend a weekend on an Iowa farm. This was to be a tour of "grass roots America."

The only trouble was that this particular weekend happened to be hit by a big snow. And as one of the correspondents said later, "All the grass roots were buried under 12-foot drifts."

Anyway, the Grange and the Farm Bureau took over as hosts. The visitors first were herded into a kind of stockholding pen, as they described it. And the hosts came up to pick out their guests.

One of the farmers was heard to remark, "I don't want any Italians. Haven't you got a good Swede?" Finally they all got sorted out and driven off home.

The experience of one may as well be taken as typical. These are the events in the stay of John Anderson, associate editor of the Manchester, England, Guardian.

The house he went to had a very high standard of living. There were two televisions—in the parlor and kitchen—and two Buicks in the garage. Only trouble was that the triple facilities were 50 yards out back, through all that snow, and no heat at the end of the line.

Being slightly Scotch, Andy Anderson felt the need of a little internal warmth. To his great chagrin he learned the hard way that Iowa was a dry state. And there wasn't a drop in the house, even medicinally.

suspected, it would be because he'd turned thief. "You may have seen the possibilities of the Peacock Path long ago. It's similar to a bowling alley. And Mr. Cravath was a crack bowler, once. He's got a trophy for bowling in his study. You doubtless knew too that his old bowling balls were in the attic."

"Your problem was simple. Get Ames out on the edge of the cliff and let him have it from about 30 feet off, with a fast heavy ball. A twin, incidentally, of the one over there under the trees."

He looked at me as I hope never to be looked at again. "You got Ames out there by stealing his watch which he probably put down somewhere after his arrival here when he undressed. You also sneaked a bowling ball out of the attic and hid it under one of these trees. The same way you did today. Then when the coast was clear that night, you went out here to keep your appointment. Only you went early and planted the watch outside of the chains."

"Ames came finally and stood at the chains, waiting for you. And saw his watch on the grass beyond them. He had no idea how it had gotten there. But, naturally, he stepped over to get it. When he stepped down, you simply let fly. A friend of mine in New York has established that you're a better bowler than Mr. Cravath ever was. What's more, he hasn't bowled in years. The date on his trophy is 1932."

Have a Laugh
By BOYCE HOUSE
A little boy was standing in front of the rabbit cage at the zoo. He added, "How much is 12 times 9?" Of course, there was no response. Turning away in disgust, Willie muttered, "I thought grandpa was just foolin' when he said rabbits are the greatest multipliers in the world!"

The Peacock Path

XXXIV
THERE was no excitement, no trace of tremor in the muffled reply: "Okay now!" Just the confident, assured tone of the superiorly thwarted—egotist. I wanted to look at Cravath, but I didn't dare. I could only hope that he was alerted, ready and on his toes.

Then the murderer made his supreme bid. He moved without haste, leisurely even, to the exact middle of that little moonlit strip. But suddenly the glistening tape he held slackened, fell to the ground.

Slowly he brought both hands up in front of him. And though I'd known what to expect, I had to force back a gasp. The dark thing clinging to his right hand looked, in this strange light, like a hideous and unnatural growth.

A few short swift steps down the path... an arm drawn back... then swung powerfully forward. A silver of moonlight caught the dark object, splattered off it like sparks of oxy. Once again, Death started down the Peacock Path.

With a half-choked cry Cravath sprang up from his crouch behind the chains. A burst of light exploded in the opposite row of evergreens. And the hollow clank sounded, the clank of hard material smashing against metal.

The striking, black object bounced off the piping, rose half a foot into the air and went on. It slowed deflected, abruptly harmless, and disappeared into the shadow of a tree.

The killer stood, his head poised like a snake's, a statue painted by moonbeams. Amazement, frustration and rage swept his face as a torch from the evergreens drenched his back in light. The killer was caught in a three-way trap. The light behind him; Cravath coming up from the cliff; myself moving into the open: He glanced around, swiftly, fearfully, like a cornered animal. I

Los Angeles Firm Plans Helicopter Passenger Flights

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—Los Angeles Airways, which has carried mail by helicopter here since 1947, expects to launch the nation's first scheduled helicopter passenger service soon.

The firm announced Wednesday it is receiving two 12-seat Sikorsky 8-55 Whirlplanes next month and will put them in operation after a "shakedown" period.

They will be converted to carry eight passengers plus mail and will make three round trips daily between Los Angeles International Airport and Santa Ana, Pasadena and San Bernardino and Riverside.

The Civil Aeronautics Board last July authorized the company to carry passengers between the 45 Southern California cities it now serves by mail helicopters.

The firm plans to serve all of these cities eventually, using 20-passenger ships on some routes, it said. At many stations the big 'copters will land on heliports atop downtown buildings.

It is estimated there are 2 1/2 million bicycles in use in the United States today.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE, Fishing Editor

A Chicago attorney by the name of Sherman Barnett deserves the thanks of every fisherman in the nation. Of all the fishing gadgets turned out in the last 20 years, his is by far the most practical—a pair of stapling pliers for tagging fish.

For $12.50 you can become a member of the Fish Taggers Association, equipped with pliers and supplied with tags bearing your name, address, and a request that information regarding this particular fish be forwarded to you.

The tag is attached to the fish by a monel staple. All you have to do is pop one of your markers in the plier jaw and slip the gadget under the bony plate of the gill cover. When you snap the handles together the fish is wearing your tag on his neck.

Curiosity is a virtue that all fishermen have in abundance, and there's no reason to believe that you won't be hearing about the recapture of your fish a month or even five years later. Members of the association can make important contributions to our know-

Stevenson Declines To Seek Presidency, Says Chicago Story

CHICAGO —(P)—The Chicago Daily Sun-Times, in a copyright dispatch from Washington, Thursday said Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois has "firmly declined" President Truman's invitation to seek the Democratic presidential nomination.

"And," said the story written by Carlton Kent, "it was learned Wednesday only a full-blown convention draft could shake his (Stevenson's) decision."

"Stevenson communicated this decision, gently but with great firmness, to Mr. Truman shortly before the President's departure for a Key West holiday on March 7," the Sun-Times added.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, in a copyright dispatch from Washington Wednesday, said Truman had requested Stevenson to become the Administration's presidential candidate.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short, in Key West, Fla., said he had no comment on the story. He added that this was in line with White House refusal to comment on any political story.

Stevenson, in Springfield, Ill., said: "I have no comment on the Post-Dispatch story. 'As I have said repeatedly, I am a candidate for reelection as governor of Illinois and have no other ambitions. I have also said, repeatedly that I cannot comment on my conversation with President Truman."

No Kerr Slate Due On California Ballot

LOS ANGELES —(P)—Oklahoma's Senator Kerr will have no slate of California pledged to him, Democratic Leader John B. Elliott says.

Elliott announced Wednesday night that although many state Democratic leaders had offered the use of their names for Kerr, there is insufficient time under California's complicated primary law to complete a full slate by the April 4 deadline.

DUDLEY SENANAYAKE IS NEW PRIME MINISTER

USCC Charges Senate Group Gags Foreign Aid Opponents

WASHINGTON —(P)— Gen. Alford M. Gruenther, top aide to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, went before a third congressional committee Thursday to support the $7,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

The Senate Armed Services Committee called Gruenther for a closed-door hearing. He appeared previously before the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs groups.

Thursdays session gave senators on the Armed Services group a chance to size up the man prominently mentioned to succeed Eisenhower as supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

Chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said Wednesday after hearing Gruenther that the general would make "a good man" if Eisenhower leaves the post to run for President.

Richards conceded Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the top American commander in the Far East, is in the running but Gruenther, as Eisenhower's chief of staff, has the best knowledge and experience for the SHAFS job.

Richards said he felt that ultimately a European should take over the supreme commander's post—something Gruenther himself has advocated—but he did not think the American people were ready to accept that now.

Richards' committee Thursday heard Undersecretary of State David K. E. Bruce in closed session on the foreign aid bill. The chairman said Wednesday he hoped his hearings could be finished by the Easter recess.

The Senate Foreign Relations group, which hopes to end its hearings Friday, had Tyler Wood, assistant deputy director of the Mutual Security Administration, and other mutual security agency officials in executive session Thursday.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, in a statement Wednesday formally opposing the foreign aid bill, accused the Senate committee of giving the Truman Administration a 9-to-1 advantage in time allotted to witnesses.

It said high-level spokesmen such as Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Lovett, MSA Director W. Averell Harriman, Gen. Omar Bradley and General Gruenther were given nine days—and "ample time"—to testify.

But, said the chamber, the committee plans to jam all non-government witnesses—including itself and 14 other organizations and individuals "representing the tax-paying public"—into a one-day Friday session.

In addition, witnesses Friday will be limited to 10 minutes testimony each.

Opposing "grandiose foreign aid spending" as a threat to the nation's economy, Chamber President D. A. Huley said no new funds are needed because when the current fiscal year ends June 30 the Administration will have $7,900,000,000 in unspent foreign funds left over from previous years—the same amount it is asking in new funds.

A MSA spokesman said later the chamber's statement gave a "misleading impression." He said there is a lot of difference between unexpended and obligated funds, and that although the Administration will have unspent funds on hand, all of it will have been obligated.

Iron resources are being developed to replace the dwindling reserves of the Lake Superior region.

McCarthy Suit Against Benton Raises Moot Question On Waiver Of Immunity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The McCarthy vs. Benton lawsuit brought disagreement among senators Thursday over whether a member of Congress can waive constitutional immunity from legal action in such a case.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) Wednesday sued Senator Benton (D-Conn.) for two million dollars, accusing him of "libel, slander and conspiracy."

The suit was based on Benton's charges under oath last September that McCarthy committed perjury and "calculated deceit" in pressing his Communist-in-government charges.

Benton made the charges before a Senate Elections Subcommittee in a demand that McCarthy be expelled from Congress. The Constitution says members of Congress cannot be sued for remarks they make in Congress.

In a Senate speech last week however, Benton offered to waive his immunity and to accept "full legal responsibility" for his charges. McCarthy took him up on that and suggested to Benton that their lawyers get together to draft a waiver for Benton to sign.

McCarthy takes bluff

Benton replied that was a grandstand gesture, and said McCarthy had his signature on a letter republishing the offer. McCarthy called that a "cheap, phony bluff" and added it would leave

Benton with the right to claim immunity in court.

In his suit, however, McCarthy based the action on Benton's waiver offer.

That started discussion among other senators as to whether a member of Congress can shed constitutional immunity. McCarthy himself said he knew of no precedent for a suit based on such a waiver.

Two senators generally regarded by their colleagues as experts on constitutional law took differing views.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) said he believes Congress members can waive immunity, "just as a man can waive his constitutional right to a trial by jury."

Senator Millikin (R-Colo.) said he was "inclined to doubt very much" that immunity can be discarded.

Expressing still another view, Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) said the issue of whether it can be waived probably wouldn't even come up for a court test in the Benton-McCarthy case if Benton doesn't claim immunity.

"I think the only way he could waive it would be not to claim it," Sparkman added.

There was other speculation, however, that the court itself might bring up the matter inasmuch as McCarthy's suit specifically rests on what the complaint termed Benton's "offer to waive immunity."

Navy To Continue Formosa Defense, Says Top Official

TOKYO (AP)—U. S. Secretary of Navy Dan A. Kimball believes the United States Navy will continue to protect Formosa, regardless of what happens in Korea, a Navy spokesman said Thursday.

The spokesman, who is traveling with the Kimball party on its Far Eastern tour, said:

"That is the secretary's interpretation of the present policy in Washington."

It marks a departure from policy statements made by President Truman at the start of the Korean war. The President at that time linked the use of the U. S. Seventh Fleet to prevent any attack on Formosa and called on the Chinese Nationalist government on the island to cease all air and sea operations against the China mainland.

Since then, the Seventh Fleet has maintained small patrols in Formosan waters while the most of its vessels have been concentrated off the coast of Korea.

Not Backing Down

The spokesman said Kimball was not backing down on what he told newsmen Wednesday on Navy policy regarding Formosa.

Kimball was asked at a Taipei press conference whether the policy of protecting Formosa was a permanent policy. He was told there was uneasiness among the Chinese on Formosa that protection of the island might be sacrificed in the event of a Korean truce or for other reasons.

The secretary said the policy of protecting Formosa "would go along regardless of Korea. These people on Formosa are our friends and we're going to continue to protect them to whatever extent is necessary."

The spokesman stressed again that this is the way Kimball interprets present United States policy on Formosa.

Kimball expects to spend at least a week inspecting U. S. Naval installations in Japan and Korea. He arrived Wednesday night from Taipei, where he conferred with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Ambush Slaying Brings Reprisals

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA (AP)—Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, new high commissioner, angrily clamped a 22-hour-a-day house arrest on the 8,000 villagers of Tanjung Halim and slashed their rice rations Thursday as punishment for the Communist ambush slaying Wednesday of 12 persons.

Summoning 300 of the village elders into the school house, Sir Gerald accused the village of being the worst communist area in Malaya, said many were withholding knowledge of Communist terrorist activities and ended with this parting shot:

"The solution is largely in your hands. Have some guts and shoulder the responsibility of citizenship."

Many in the audience were Chinese who do not have citizenship. Many villagers glowered angrily as the orders were issued.

Two Britons, two Malayan civilians and eight Malayan policemen were killed in the ambush Wednesday.

Moisture Falls In Dawson But Did Generators Help?

LAMESA Officials of the West Texas Weather Improvement Association speculated Thursday whether the first test of cloud seeding operations in the Llano Estacado had produced moisture.

Five generators, including one at Lamesa, were turned on Tuesday for the "marginal" weather front which moved in from the north, Denver headquarters of Krick's

Weather Service said the generators were turned on "to try and make something out of the marginal front."

Three generators sending silver iodide into the clouds were turned on at Artesia, Ft. M. Wink, Senora and Sterling City. The "burner" in Lamesa was turned on at 11:30 a.m. and operated until mid-afternoon.

Weather forecasts called for no moisture in the Lamesa area Tuesday. But small flurries of snow, sleet and traces of rain fell in Lamesa.

Anderson, temporary vice president of the weather improvement district, reported light showers fell six or eight miles north of Lamesa on the Lubbock highway.

Another generator for the district was set up Monday in Lubbock, bringing to 12 the number of generators ready to operate in the district.

Arrival of the district's charter is awaited. Once the Secretary of State has granted the charter, a permanent organization will be set up with the election of officers, selection of central office site and naming of a full-time manager and his secretary.

Armistice Signs Appear In Mexico Rebellion On Taxes

GUANAJUATO, MEXICO (AP)—Peace moves by federal and state governments Thursday produced signs of an armistice in the week-old tax rebellion which has cost 11 lives in this mountainous South Mexican state.

Students and business leaders had demanded the removal of Gov. Mayoral Heredia after he called in armed rural reserves to keep order following the killing of two demonstrators against a new tax law.

Four village mayors were killed by mobs in the continuing violence and five convicts died in riots at the state penitentiary over food shortages caused by a business and industrial shutdown protesting the tax law.

The law was repealed after the first demonstrations. To further appease his opponents, Gov. Mayoral Wednesday night announced he had fired important state officials connected with the unpopular tax and had withdrawn the rural reserves.

The completion test gauge. This project is one mile south-west of the Glorieta production in the southeast side of the Robertson multiphase area and it is one and one-quarter miles northeast of the Harris field. That reservoir also produces from the Glorieta.

Location is 860 feet from north and west lines of section 8, block A-22, T&P survey. It is eight and one-half miles south of the town of Seminole.

It drilled to a bottom of 6,492 feet. The section between 6,004 feet and the total depth had some shows, but not enough to make an oil well.

The 8 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 6,492 feet. Top of the Glorieta is at 8,950 feet. Elevation has not been reported.

Undeveloped Area In NE Upton Is Site For Tester

Phillips Petroleum Company spotted location for a Spraberry project in an undeveloped portion of the North Pembroke area in Northeast Upton County.

The new prospector is No. 1-C Tippet, 659 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of the south half of section 35, block 38, T-6-S, T&P survey. Contracted to 7,450 feet, operations are to start at once.

It is one and one-half miles south and one mile north of production.

Extender Finaled To Weiner-Floyd In NE Reagan

One and three quarter miles south and two miles west of production in the Weiner-Floyd field of Northeast Reagan County, Warren Oil Corporation finalized No. 2-D TXL as a prolific flowing producer from the lower Spraberry.

The new extender was completed for a daily potential of 866 barrels of 38.8-gravity oil through a three-quarter-inch tubing choke and from open hole at 7,550-7,539 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 385-1 and tubing pressure was 123 pounds.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 37, block 37, T-6-S, T&P survey.

Amerada Is To Dig Extension Try To Operate In Dawson

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1 Clint M. Wright, et al. is to be a 11,000-foot exploration to try to extend the producing limits of the Adcock-Siluro-Devonian field of Central-North Dawson County.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of the east 400 acres in section 106, block 34, T-7-N, T&P survey. All the above leases are for 10-year periods.

Crosby And Farmer Wildcats Fail; Both Have Been Plugged

Wildcat petroleum prospectors in Southwest Crosby County and in North-Central Farmer County have been abandoned and plugged after failing to find any sort of production.

Stephens Petroleum Company No. 1 Forrest, four miles east of Blanton, in Southwest Crosby County bottomed at 8,846 feet in barren Pennsylvanian shale and lime. That formation made salty, sulphur water.

Location was 330 feet from north and east lines of section 792, block B-9, ELARR survey. Bottomed in Granite.

United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Company No. 1-A B H Osborne, seven miles northwest of Friona, in North-Central Farmer County drilled to a total depth of 9,750 feet in granite. The top of the granite was at 9,715 feet.

No oil or gas shows were logged in the development. Some streaks of granite wash had good porosity but they had no signs of petroleum.

The wildcat drilled through a Pennsylvanian lime section and between that horizon and the granite was a zone of dolomite, thought to be of Mississippian age.

Location was 1,960 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of the west half of section 5-1n-3e.

Cherry Brothers To Drill Another Stonewall Wildcat

J. Blair Cherry of Lubbock and his brother Alton W. Cherry of Dallas are to drill another Ellenburger wildcat in South-Central Stonewall County.

The prospector will be their No. 1-B Dick Carson. It is six miles south and east of Aspermont and 1,700 feet from north and 380 feet from west lines of the east half of section 3, Seale and Morris survey.

It is projected to 6,500 feet to explore the Ellenburger. Drilling is to start in the near future.

Production Nearby The new project is two and three-quarter miles southeast of the Guest-Canyon sand field and four miles east of the Franklin-Ellenburger area.

It is five-eighths of a mile northeast of the operators' No. 1 Carson which drilled to total depth of 6,477 feet in the Ellenburger and which has been temporarily abandoned.

The exploration did not report any shows in the Ellenburger—but it did test extensively in the Canyon sand at 4,343-48 feet.

That some had some signs of oil, but so far it has not shown for commercial production.

Humble, Superior Takes Leases On Irion, Reagan Land

MERTZON—Humble Oil & Refining Company has renewed its lease on the 170,833.33-acre Sawyer Cattle Company Ranch in Northeast Reagan and Northwest Irion Counties.

The new instruments filed in the county seats of Reagan and Irion Counties calls for a 10-year lease. The lease now in effect expires Aug. 30, 1953.

Terms of the lease specify an annual rental of 90 cents per acre plus a cash consideration which was not reported.

Superior Oil Company leased four blocks of 1,760, 2,028.34, 1,920 and 1,920 acres from Sammie H. Sugg and others. That concern agreed to pay an annual rental of $1 per acre plus a cash consideration.

The 2,028.34-acre block is made up of H. Coward survey 1899, H. Nolte survey 1900, sections 3061 and 3063, block 28, GC&SF survey, and 192.72 acres out of section 3062, block 28, GC&SF survey.

The 1,760-acre block is comprised of Nolte survey 1901, Peter Klas survey 1902 and 1903, T. I. Halsell survey 1904 and H. Fisher survey 3065.

One of the 1,920-acre blocks is made up of sections 3071, 3073 and 3075, all in GC&SF survey. The other 1,920-acre block consists of section 3073, 3074 and 3077, all in block 28, GC&SF survey. All the above leases are for 10-year periods.

Stanolind Finishes Second Producer In Irion Field

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 2-A Williams, one location west of the discovery well of the South Dove Creek-Strawn field in Southeast Irion County has been completed. It is the second oil well for that field.

The project reported a 24-hour potential of 173 barrels of oil flowing from perforated section at 7,222-34 feet. The flow was through a 1 1/4-inch tubing chokes.

Treated With Acid The perforated interval had been treated with 900 gallons of regular acid. Flowing tubing pressure was 550 pounds. Casing pressure was 275 pounds.

Location is 1,960 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 1908, T&P survey.

The well drilled to total depth of 7,850 feet. The casing was cemented on bottom and perforated at 7,222-34 feet for the completion.

Two Wildcats To Be Dug In Runnels

Two wildcats have been staked for immediate drilling in Runnels County.

F. Kirk Johnson of Fort Worth is to drill his No. 1 Mrs. Lizzie Toney in Northwest Runnels County one and one-half miles northwest of Winters. Projected depth is 8,000 feet with rotary tools.

Location is 990 feet from north and east lines of section 77, block 63, CT survey. That makes it two miles southeast of the North Winters pool.

It is also a south offset to the George W. Strake of Houston No. 1 Thomas, dry hole at 4,949 feet.

Skiles To Drill The other new prospector is Skiles Oil Corporation No. 1 Ails D. Dickenson.

Drill site is one and three-quarter miles west of Ballinger and 380 feet from south line which is the Colorado River and 480 feet from east line of block 363, Nathan Taylor survey. That makes it in Southwest Runnels County.

It is to be drilled to 4,500 feet with rotary tools.

Cpl. and Mrs. Sylvan Hornes of Camp Roberts, Calif., and formerly of Midland are the parents of a daughter, Kay Elizabeth.

Odessa Man Hurt

Melvin Francis, Odessa, was given emergency treatment at Western Clinic-Hospital Thursday for removal of a piece of steel from his chin. Francis was injured in an oil field accident.

CAMERA TELLS TALL TALE—Apparently, either the Washington Monument now comes in the convenient portable size, or actor Tony Curtis has been doing some tall growing. Actually, the photographer saw the possibility of an unusual camera angle, and produced this illusion.

White House Loser In Battle Of Tulips

WASHINGTON—(P)—The White House Thursday admitted it has lost "the battle of the tulips."

There just won't be any tulips in bloom when Queen Juliana of the Netherlands arrives April 2 for a three-day visit with the President and Mrs. Truman.

The President succeeded in hurrying up carpenters, painters and mowers in getting the newly redone White House ready, but the thousands of tulips, planted in the grounds especially for the occasion, are taking their own bloom time.

In fact, these tulips are causing a lot of worry to the White House, the Netherlands Embassy and in high official greenhouse circles.

The tulips are Dutch immigrants. They are a new variety in a special shade of orange—Juliana is a member of the House of Orange—and they never have been exported from the Netherlands before.

H. J. Benkenkamp, agricultural attaché at the Netherlands Embassy, and the Associated Bulb Growers of Holland, decided it would be a nice gesture if bulbs

Officers Grab Huge Cache Of Marijuana

HOUSTON—(P)—Arrestment of two men picked up with the biggest bulk marijuana cache discovered in a year and a half was held Thursday before United States Commissioner Ralph L. Fowler.

The two men, one of whom was paid $50 a month just to keep it hidden in his home, were arrested Wednesday night by federal and city narcotics agents.

P. A. Williams, district supervisor for the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, said 118 pounds of marijuana, enough to make 100,000 cigarettes, was discovered in a corner clothes closet.

The marijuana, in 29 paper sacks and a 50-pound burlap bag, had come from Brownsville about six days ago, Williams reported.

Williams worked closely in the raid with Capt. George Seber of the city vice squad, two other squad officers, Sidney Smith and Lt. Foy Melton, and three federal narcotics agents.

New York Bans TV In Trials, Hearings

ALBANY, N. Y.—(P)—Governor Dewey Thursday signed a bill prohibiting the televising, broadcasting or taking of motion pictures at any official proceeding to which witnesses are subpoenaed.

The drastic measure covers all proceedings conducted in New York State by a court, commission, committee, administrative agency or other tribunal.

Police Suspect Link Between Car Holdup And Brink Robbery

DANVERS, MASS.—(P)—FBI agents Thursday began a roundup of all former employees of the U. S. Trucking Company, one of whose armored trucks was robbed of $681,000 in Danvers Square Tuesday while its three guards sipped coffee about 20 feet away.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation maintained an official silence on the matter but the information was divulged by a source close to the investigation.

The source, who asked that his name not be used, said he believes the FBI hopes to determine if one of the former employees kept a key to the truck when he left the employ of the armored car service or divulged how a key could be obtained.

At the same time Boston police swooped down on all known gangsters—"petty and big-time alike"—and made them account for their time Tuesday morning.

Boston police took that action after it was revealed the keys to the company's armored trucks were kept in an unlocked drawer just inside the entrance of a garage in Boston's North End.

Some police officers have expressed the opinion there might be a connection between the armored car robbery and the still-unresolved $1,219,000 Brink's headquarters robbery on Jan. 17, 1950.

The U. S. Trucking Corporation's armored trucks are kept in the same waterfront garage that houses Brink's Boston headquarters.

The Danvers robbery is believed to involve the second biggest cash haul in U. S. crime history. The biggest is listed as the Brink's robbery.

Retail Food Prices Show Little Change During Week

By The Associated Press Retail egg prices advanced in many stores this week. Butter went down a few cents a pound.

Except for scattered declines in fryer and broiler chickens, beef rib and chuck roasts and a few other items, meats held about steady.

Fresh produce also generally was unchanged, although some large marketing sections posted slightly higher prices for best green beans, cabbage, celery, good lettuce, peppers, tomatoes and tangerines.

Retail markups on eggs amounted to two to four cents a dozen and were attributed mostly to heavier military buying and shipment delays resulting from storms in the Midwest last weekend.

The widespread reductions in butter prices reflected continued consumer price resistance, according to wholesalers in New York.

Frying and broiling chickens were high on the list of advertised specials of many stores for the coming weekend.

Turkeys also were in heavy supply. Turkey hatcheries reporting to the government produced almost 60 per cent more gobblers last month than a year earlier, and at the beginning of this month had 30 per cent more turkey eggs in incubators than a year ago.

Foods to be featured this weekend by major store chains and independents included these most frequently: chuck, rib and pot roast, leg and rump of veal, leg of lamb chops, fresh or smoked pork shoulder, ham, pork loins, round steak, several varieties of fresh and frozen fish, cabbage, carrots, lettuce, peas, celery, and citrus fruits. The Agriculture Department's list of most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying this week included cabbage, cottage cheese and fish.

Negro Couple Hurt In Auto Accident

A negro couple suffered slight injuries Wednesday afternoon when an automobile overturned near the Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Rosie B. Williams, 308 North Carver Street, was admitted to a hospital for further observation, while her husband, L. O. Williams, was released after being treated for minor injuries.

Deputy Sheriff F. S. Buckalew, who investigated, said Williams apparently lost control of the automobile and it plunged from the road.

Oil's Wonderful For Midland— But the stuff tastes awful when you try to drink it, you can't spread it on the lawn and get pretty, green grass and, if you want to know how it feels under the shower, ask any begrimed driller who's brought in an old-fashioned gusher. So, no matter how much oil we have around Midland, it still isn't taking the place of water. We need water not only for our domestic uses and for our present commercial users but as an enticement to industries studying the possibilities of locating in Midland. Midland needs water to grow. But Midland doesn't have the water to grow. Much of Midland felt the pinch of a water shortage last Summer and they're going to feel it more this Summer. And Midland has to depend on its City Council and its municipal government for more water. That is the problem we face today. The problem is not solved. New Contract Ends Jersey Telephone Workers' Walkout

NEWARK, N. J. —(AP)— State Treasurer Walter Margetta announced Thursday a settlement in the strike of almost 7,000 New Jersey Bell Telephone Company workers. The agreement in the wage dispute reached at a marathon mediation session here which lasted until early Thursday. Margetta said the settlement would end the walkout of plant and accounting employees that started at 7 a.m. Wednesday and hampered long-distance and non-dial calls. Margetta said both sides agreed on terms for a new contract that would increase pay scales of the striking employees. Terms of the new contract would give weekly pay boosts of from $4 to $6.50 to plant workers and from $3.50 to $5 weekly to the accounting employees, Margetta said.

Nine Green Children Sent To Three Separate Homes

CHICAGO —(AP)— Nine young Green children, whose mother and eldest sister drowned two months ago, were ordered placed in three separate homes Wednesday.

Custody of the motherless children, who have been living with their paternal grandparents since the tragedy, was decided by Judge Albert J. Dunne of Family Court. Patricia, 18, the eldest, sobbed as the judge announced his decision. Mr. and Mrs. Millard Green of suburban Willow Springs told Judge Dunne they did not have the financial means to continue caring for their grandchildren. Judge Dunne explained the grandparents were too old (they are in their 60s) to care for the children, who range in age from one to 15 years.

contributions be held in trust for distribution to them as they come of age. Patricia was allowed to remain in temporary custody of her grandparents until April 9, when another hearing on her case will be held. The three youngest children were ordered placed in an unidentified foster home. The five other children were placed in the Soldiers' and Sailors' Children's School at Normal, Ill., near Bloomington. The school is state-supported and the children are eligible for admission because their father is an Army veteran.

Browns, White Sox, Giants Win; Others Rained Out

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Earl Harris, a slim 31-year-old right-hander, is making good in what probably will be his last chance to stick in the major leagues.

Harris, a knuckleball artist, has turned in some pitching for the "new" St. Louis Browns. At the moment he is counted on for relief chores, a job he performed for Washington and the Chicago-White Sox in 1948.

Harris' chief claim to fame is the two no-hitters he pitched for Syracuse of International League in 1946. He led both Pittsburgh runs in 1947 and after dividing the 1948 season with Chicago and Washington, returned to the minors.

Harris was drafted for $10,000 by the Browns from Oakland last fall, probably upon the recommendation of the Brown's Manager Bruce Hornsby. Harris won 16 games from Oakland last year and impressed Hornsby who was pilot at Seattle.

The Browns, behind the stout pitching of Ned Garver and Harris, turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, at San Bernardino, Calif., Wednesday.

Garver Blanks Pirates
Garver blanked the Pirates over the first five innings. Harris was touched for both Pittsburgh runs in the ninth. The Browns sewed the game up in the first frame, jumping rookie Ron Necciai for all four of their runs on three singles, two walks and a wild pitch.

The Chicago White Sox exploded for five runs in the ninth inning to down the Cleveland Indians, 8-5, at Tucson, Ariz. Rookie George Wilson, once with the Boston Red Sox, broke up the game with a three-run homer off recruit Gerald Fahr.

Home runs also figured prominently in the New York Giants' 9-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz. The victory was the Giants' seventh straight.
Bobby Thomson, Al Dark and Whitey Lockman homered for the National League champions to wipe out a 4-0 deficit. Ron Northey poled a round tripper of 19 scoreless innings.

The Baltimore Orioles of the International League turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3, at Hollywood, Fla. Veterans Dixie Howell, Dwan Sloat and Blix Donnelly stopped the A's on six hits. Ray Murray accounted for all of Philadelphia's runs with an inside the park homer in the fifth.

Scheduled games between Cincinnati and the Philadelphia Phillies, Brooklyn and the Boston Braves, Washington and Detroit, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds and Tulsa of the Texas League were rained out because of rain.

The Yanks, Braves and Reds sliced their rosters. The Yanks sold infielder Gene Mauch, drafted from Milwaukee, to the Cardinals for the $10,000 waiver price.
Boston shipped nine players to the minors and eliminated three. The Braves sent infielders Johnny Logan, Jack Dittmer, Pitches Bob Hall, Murray Wall, Don Liddle and Catchers Jim Parks and Jim Bolt to Milwaukee and outfielder Harry Hanerbrink and pitcher Norm Roy to Atlanta.
Cincinnati optioned pitchers George McPhail and Buzz Zieser and catcher Hobie Landrith to Tulsa.

Selection Of Vic Raschi No Surprise

By The Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel has named Vic Raschi as his opening day pitcher, but the selection came as no surprise.
The Yanks open the season against the Philadelphia Athletics April 15 and Raschi boasts a lifetime 20-2 record over the A's.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Trade rumors have been revived in the camp of the New York Giants with the arrival of Pittsburgh General Manager Branch Rickey.

Giants Manager Leo Rurocher is looking for a left-handed pinch-hitter and part time outfielder. George Metkovich of the Pirates fits the bill. The Giants reportedly are willing to give up Catcher Ray Noble, Infielder Bob Hofman and Pitcher Sheldon Jones or George Bamberg.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Irv Noren says he isn't worried about his current batting slump—it happens every Spring. And his Washington boss, Senator Manager Buck Harris, agrees.

"I can't buy a base hit in the Spring," Noren said, "and I've known it for years. That's the reason I flunked out with the Brooklyn Dodgers three times in their Spring training camps. One look at me, and I was dropped like a hot stove lid."
Harris said the New York Yankees know Noren's history "and they still want him. So do I. That's why a deal wasn't made last month."

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(AP)—Southpaw pitching ace Curt Simmons is coming home from the Army—and with that announcement the chances of a second National League pennant in 37 years for the Philadelphia Phillies went skyrocketing Thursday.
Manager Eddie Sawyer and Owner Bob Carpenter said they were notified the slim, dark-haired southpaw would be sent to a port of embarkation in Europe about April 1 and would trade his rifle for a baseball glove shortly after reaching this country.

LAKELAND, Fla.—(AP)—Cutting of rookies from the Detroit Tiger roster is expected to start any day with at least five of 15 newcomers remaining with the squad.

Those expected to go north when the Tigers leave here a week from Friday are Pitchers Lynn Lovenguth, Paul Foytack, Dick Littlefield and Billy Hoft, and Outfielder Russ Sullivan.
Most likely farm club candidates include Outfielder George Lerchen, Infielder John Phillips, Shortstop

Indians Defeat Houma, 13-2

By LARRY KING

Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor
LUTCHER, La.—The booming bat of centerfielder Roxie Humberson set the pace here Wednesday night as Manager Zeke Bonura's Midland Indians won their first Spring training victory, 13 to 2, over the Class C Houma, La., Indians.

Humberson, who hit two home runs, a double and drove in six runs, shared the spotlight with veteran pitcher Eddie Jacome who allowed only five hits and struck out six batters in going seven innings.

Rookie Mike de la Torre took over the pitching chores in the last two frames and set the visiting team down in one, two, three order.
Midland never was behind in the contest, reeling up a single tally in the first inning and three in the second before two hits and an error gave Houma its only two runs in the third frame. Both tallies were unearned.

Humberson's blasts both came with two men on and cleared the left field wall easily. He socked the four-bagger in the sixth and seventh innings. Other extra base blows were by Woody Pennington who hit a ringing triple and by catcher Bill Brown who doubled.
Bonura expressed satisfaction with his team's work and said he "had learned a few things" by the game. At least one thing he learned is that first baseman Tito Santiago isn't named Tito Sanchez as he previously thought.
Santiago, who speaks no English, finally cleared the matter up after much sign language.

Davis TKO's Williams In Fifth Round

CHICAGO (AP)—After it was all over you would expect the winning fighter to say: "I murdered de guy."

Instead you heard Chuck Davey grate: "I'm glad the referee stopped it because I would hate to have to see such a great former champion as Ike Williams knocked unconscious."

And then, in Williams' dressing room where he was on a rubbing table with his seconds dabbing cotton on his gashed cheek, his manager said:

"The was, Lightweight Champion for six years and was the best with class and punch... three years ago you should have seen him pulverize..."

And so it went Wednesday night at Chicago Stadium.
Blinky Palermo, Ike's manager, whose license in Illinois has been suspended pending a probe of a police record, hovered over his has-been like a mother hen.

"We didn't fade Davey seriously enough," Blinky repeated. "The would like one more fight. As for a rematch with Jimmy Carter (who dethroned Williams for the Lightweight Crown 11 months ago) we won't hold him to a return bout now—it wouldn't be fair to the public, but a couple years ago Ike could have..."

Ike, on the dressing table, didn't say a word. There was the impression in the whole room that this one-time Lightweight King was washed up at 28 after 146 fights as a pro.

Davey, holder of a masters degree from Michigan State, had graduated to the ranks of a top welterweight contender.

He remained undefeated through 32 professional bouts by stringing a fifth round technical knockout over Williams in the televised scheduled 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. Each weighed 145 pounds.

Davey's southpaw style appeared to fluster Williams—a veteran who shouldn't be bewildered by it after beating 10 porters in the past.

Davey's speed and buzz-saw cuffing were just too much for Ike who kept holding his one-lunged right cocked but couldn't pull the trigger.

Williams was the stalker continuously, but was like a hunter who flushed the quail and then found his gun wasn't loaded.

Low Tender, the terrific southpaw mauler of the twenties who helped train scholarly Davey, said "Williams is a nice fellow... he has enough money... he should quit. Even a train stop, and Williams ain't even a train any more."

Kansas Rules NCAA Throne; Lovellette Wears The Crown

By JIM HUTCHESON

SEATTLE.—(AP)—Kansas rules the world of collegiate basketball and big Clyde Lovellette wears the crown.
The Jayhawks won the NCAA title in convincing fashion Wednesday night by downing St. John's of Brooklyn 80-83 in the championship final of the 1952 playoffs.
Lovellette, keeping up a terrific scoring pace with the championship chips down, led the way with 33 points. His record-breaking performance brought him the designation as most valuable player of the tourney.

The Kansas conquest came after Illinois won third ranking by downing Santa Clara, 67-64 in the consolation game. Kansas had beaten Santa Clara and St. John's had upset Illinois in the semi-finals.
Kansas, which was rated eighth by the nation's sports writers in the 1952 Associated Press poll, never gave the Redmen a chance in the playoff game. Lovellette put the Kansas in front with an opening free throw and they stayed there all the way.
The Jayhawks set up an iron defense that kept the Redmen in check so they never were able to keep a sustained offensive clicking until the final period. It was the only one in which the losers held a scoring edge.
Lovellette kept firing his deadly pushups and hook shots in run up a dozen field goals along with nine free throws.

Guard Bill Lischard and Forward Bob Kenny added a dozen points each as they shared the sharpshooting role with Lovellette, and Guard Gene Kelley was a sparkplug on the floor.
The 6-foot 9-inch Lovellette ran his four-game NCAA playoff scoring total to 141 points. He had broken the old record of 83 points in the first three games. It had been set by Don Sunderlage of Illinois last year.
He also set a new free throw record of 35 for the four games. The old record of 27 also was held by Sunderlage.
Another record that fell before the deadeye Kansans was the high score for an NCAA championship final. The 80 points topped the 71 tallied by City College of New York in beating Bradley for the title in 1950.

THE WHIP.—Young Rip Collins, Jr., feels the strong right arm of Cincinnati's star hurler, Ewell Blackwell, at the Red's Tampa, Fla., Spring training base. Blackwell posted a 16-15 record in 1951, is gunning for a 20-game season this year. (NEA)

LUTCHER, La.—A strangely silent man was Manager Zeke Bonura here Wednesday after his Midland Indians took a 9-1 pounding from the Atlanta Crackers in their first exhibition game here Tuesday night.
No one, even Zeke, expected a Class C ball club to defeat the Class AA team of the Southern Association, so there was no kick there.

But neither did anyone expect the Tribe to make nine errors, five of them by Julio de la Torre, who heretofore has been one of the better ball grabbers in the Longhorn League.

In defense of de la Torre, however, it must be said he was playing shortstop for the first time and just wasn't comfortable away from his normal territory around the third sack.

Jello himself wasn't too enthusiastic about going to shortstop, which may or may not have created mental barriers that eventually led to his miserable night.
"Jello is a fine infielder and I'm sure he will come around," said the big chief of the Tribe.

"I don't want come out with a song and dance about the game. We had a bad night, it was cold, our boys were tense and they just didn't look good at all. But exhibition games are to iron out these difficulties and it would be foolish to base any future predictions or plans on the result of the Tuesday game."

Thus Bonura dismissed the subject from his verbal thoughts and took the Midland players into a two-hour workout Wednesday morning under sunny and very warm skies.

One bright spot on the otherwise not so rosy scheme of things after the Atlanta contest was the work of Pitcher Keith Nicolls.
The scholarly Nicolls—who is a Pennsylvania school teacher during the off-season—impressed fans and players alike with his fine work in the game.

He went into the game to start the seventh inning, allowed one single and then retired the next nine men to face him—two via the strikeout route. The rest he had popping up and grounding out with the use of a very effective curve ball.

Nicolls won 13 and lost two last season in the Mid-Atlantic League and he'll be very disappointed if he doesn't turn out to be a cracker-jack hurler for the Indians this year.

Gabby Blumenthal looked good in spots against the Crackers, using his pet sidearm ball and a change of pace which he has acquired since last season. Five of the errors came when Gabby was on the mound. He allowed only one earned run.

Perhaps Dave McKenzie has lost too much weight. The former round man has slimmed down, trimming off 37 pounds. But he says it has made him weak and now he fears he'll spend half the season attempting to put some weight back on.

A couple of ex-Midlanders now are in New Orleans participating in the New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.
Pert Alice and stolid sister Marlene Bauer appeared on a television show here Monday night witnessed by the Midland ball players. On the show, as on the field, Alice was showman. She supplies all the color while Marlene is content to stick stolidly to golf. "The people here, like almost everywhere else the girls play, are charmed by Alice. The Bauer's now play out of Sarasota, Fla.

Southwest Shows Signs Of Spring

By GAYLE TALBOT
PHOENIX, ARIZ.—(AP)—Signs of Spring in the great Southwest!

The Chicago Cubs have been slaughtering everything in sight and the pitching monsters of the Cleveland Indians haven't been able to win for long. As usual, the exhibitions do not count in the final standings.

Leo Durocher of the Giants says he doesn't know what's eating his old pal Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers.

"I keep reading where he says we've been laughing at his club all Winter. Hell, I haven't even mentioned the Dodgers all Spring until right now. I know better than anyone does how lucky we were when Thomson hit that homer."

Roy Hamey, the Yankee's trouble-shooter, is out this way trying to put together a new scouting staff for the champs, who suffered a serious blow when their two famous talent hunters, Joe Devine and Bill Esick, died within a short time of each other.

Between them, Devine and Esick were responsible for practically all the West Coast stars such as DiMaggio, Gomez, Crosetti and many others who won fame with the Bombers over the last 20 years. Eddie Montague, the young scout who dug up Willie Mays for the Giants down in Birmingham, has been shifted to the West Coast as the big league clubs prepare to wrestle their Coast League pals for talent hidden among the vineyards.

Commissioner Ford Frick passed through Denver on his way to the coast and he brought word that the two-game series between the Giants and Indians in the Colorado capital next week is going to be a neat thing, indeed. Given a break in weather—anything short of a foot of snow—he declares the big leaguers will play to two capacity crowds of 18,000 and pay for a lot of training camp steaks.

It isn't Frick's business any more to blow the bugles for any one team or set of teams, and he conscientiously avoids the controversial topics. He does, however, go so far as to say he was more impressed by the Boston Braves than any team he saw in the Florida group. He retains an especially vivid memory of Ed Matthews, the big Braves rookie who accidentally crashed into him on the practice field. He says he still hurts all over every time he thinks about it.

Some astute observers do not feel the Chicago White Sox are displaying quite the fire and hustle they did in training games a year ago. From what he's seen of them, Rogers Hornsby doesn't hesitate to say his St. Louis Browns will finish higher than Paul Richards' speed boys.

And speaking of speed, the Giants scoff out loud at a recently printed suggestion that the Sox are the fastest club in baseball. They declare Bobby Thomson would beat either Minnie Minoso or Jim Busby by close to 10 yards in the 100, and that several others of their number, including Al Dark, Willie Mays and Whitey Lockman, would at least hold their own with anything the Sox can offer.

The Giants believe quite seriously that Thomson might have been the greatest sprinter in history if he had been trained for it. No baseball player has come even close to the flying Scot in a match race, and he ran right away from Vic Pollock, Army's top sprinter of two seasons back.

Marine Cage Title Won By Quantic Five

Reports Indicate Nation May Not Meet Cotton Goal

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Unofficial reports Thursday indicated the U. S. may plant considerably less cotton than recommended by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan.

The department itself has made no cotton acreage forecast, as it did last week for most crops. It is prohibited by law from making cotton predictions before July 1 of each crop year.

This prohibition was set up many years ago when Southern lawmakers argued that such forecasts worked to the disadvantage of growers and to the advantage of cotton merchants and users.

The planting report for other crops indicated less land would be planted this season than last, despite Brannan's plea for a steady increase.

Because cotton supplies are at the lowest level in 25 years—and low enough to cause a shortage of clothing and other textile products in the event of a crop failure—Brannan has recommended that at least 28,000,000 acres be planted.

Triplets, 84, Fete Birthday Together

MARLBORO, MASS.—(AP)—Three spry women—possibly the country's oldest triplets—are observing their eighty-fourth birthday Thursday.

The former Faith, Hope and Charity Goughlin are identical triplets.

They looked so much alike when they started school in their native North Brookfield, that their mother put them into different dresses to give the teachers a break.

When they wear identical dresses nowadays, even old neighbors get confused. But they only put them on for special occasions.

All widows, the triplets still are exactly the same height and weigh almost the same. All boast of good teeth. None worries about diets.

Their once-blond hair has turned a uniform gray. Although all wear spectacles, their blue eyes still are bright.

The three live together here now although they never were too far apart to visit each other frequently during their married lives.

All in good health, the triplets never have had a serious illness.

Truman's Heart, Soul In Cleanup, Declares Morris

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Newbold Morris says President Truman is the only person in Washington who has "his heart and soul" in the job of investigating corruption in the federal government.

Morris, named by Truman to head the corruption probe, told a WPIX television audience Wednesday night.

"There is no one in Washington who really has his heart and soul in what I am trying to do—either on Capitol Hill or in the various branches of the executive."

After the program, newsmen asked Morris for clarification of his statement. He then said he excluded President Truman from his remark and added:

"He's the only one in Washington who does have his heart and soul in what I'm trying to do."

RFC LOAN APPROVED

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has approved a $750,000 loan to the Jumbo Aircraft Corp., Shawnee, Okla. Rep. Steed (D-Okla.) said the loan will give the company additional operating capital and permit to step up its production of airplanes parts for military use.

Navy Trains Crews For Robot Vessels

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Navy has started training crews for its robot weapons warships, the first of which will be ready about 1954.

This came out Thursday in a list of routine orders transferring officers. One of them was assigned to "Naval Guided Missile Training Unit No. 31."

The Navy, both in its own research program and in collaboration with the other armed forces, for several years has been training a relatively small number of technicians for development work.

But to be ready with the thousands of officers and enlisted men needed when the new weapons begin reaching the fleet for operational use, it is opening guided missile training schools.

While officials did not specify where Unit No. 31 is located, a large part of the Navy's missile program is centered at Point Mugu, Calif., the overwater testing area. However, the Navy also carries on extensive operations afloat, including missile launchings from the former seaplane tender Horton Sound, now a laboratory ship, and from a submarine.

The Navy disclosed last year that a factory for production of guided missiles in volume was being built in California.

The overall objective is to have weapons, ships and crews ready at about the same time.

In January, the Navy announced two heavy cruisers, the Boston and Canberra, both 13,900-tonners, had been selected for conversion into guided missile vessels, "available for duty as ships of the line."

The two ships, towed from Puget Sound, Ore., through the Panama Canal, have arrived at the yards of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation, Camden, N. J., preparatory to a start on their remodeling, a Navy spokesman said Thursday.

Jose Cabello Loses Deportation Appeal

DALLAS.—Jose Cabello, 51, lost a deportation appeal Wednesday and will be sent to Mexico within the next 10 days, immigration authorities said.

Cabello, arrested in 1950, was suspected of being a member of a group plotting to overthrow the government by force. Federal Judge William H. Atwell found him to be a Communist and ordered him deported.

He had been held in the Dallas County jail pending the appeal dismissed Wednesday.

UN Group Seeks Equal Rights For Women Of World

GENEVA SWITZERLAND.—(AP)—A United Nations group Thursday approved a draft convention aimed at getting women equal political rights with men all over the world.

The UN Commission on the Status of Women will submit the convention to the Economic and Social Council. Before its goal can be reached, the convention must be made into law by about 30 governments, including Switzerland, which does not yet grant women the right to vote.

The Soviet Union, Poland and White Russia obtained on the final vote.

The only essential difference in the Hill amendment and the federal control measure under discussion is that revenues instead of going to the U. S. Treasury for general purposes, would be allocated to all states for aid in schooling from primary grades on up through universities and colleges.

Hill's proposal would establish a bi-partisan national advisory council on grants in aid of education, to be composed of 12 persons with experience in the field of education and public administration.

Taking issue with advocates of outright state ownership of the Tidelands, proposed in other pending amendments, Hill declared during debate late Wednesday, "This property never did belong to the states."

Among those who vigorously joined with Hill was Senator Tobey (R-N.H.), who argued that the submerged oil properties belong to the people of the nation as a whole and that nothing more beneficial to the nation could be done with the revenues than applying them to education.

"I can hardly wait to vote for the Hill amendment," he declared. Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.), also agreeing with Hill, said "We want this black gold" for the schools of America and added:

"The oil companies at long last will have a chance to do something good for America."

Cheap Cage Fouls, Late Stalling Due For Surgery

SEATTLE.—(AP)—Basketball's rules doctors were to operate Thursday on late-game stalling and cheap fouls—and in the opinion of most coaches who watched a trial run Wednesday night it should be major surgery.

It seemed certain that the rules body—the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada—would come up with something along the line of Wednesday night's experiment in the Illinois-Santa Clara consolation game at the NCAA Championships, won by the Illinois, 87-84.

Briefly, here were the changes:

1. All foul shots had to be taken. Present rules permit a fouled team to take the ball out of bounds and retain possession, instead of shooting.

2. A second shot was awarded when the first was missed on any foul, either defensive or offensive, up to the final three minutes.

3. In the final three minutes, every foul was considered international and worth two shots.

4. The ball remained in play if the last foul shot was missed. It went to the opposing team if the toss was made.

Howard Hobson, Yale coach, had this to say:

"It certainly didn't hurt the game and made it faster, with a better finish. There was the same ball hawking. In my opinion the trial was very successful."

Harry A. Combes, coach of the Big Ten champs from Illinois, called the changes "very fine."

"They had a lot of merit from the spectators' standpoint and took the pressure off the officials. We experimented with the same rule in the Big Ten two years ago and liked it," he added.

Bill Morris, assistant coach at Chihuahua Gals Gain AAU Quarterfinal

WICHITA, KAN.—(AP)—Mexico's champions look like a strong contender for championship honors in the National AAU Women's Basketball Tournament.

The sharp minded players from Chihuahua moved into the quarterfinal round Wednesday night with a convincing 50-20 win over the Columbus, Ohio, Dickersons. The Mexican team jumped off to an early lead and stayed in front all the way.

Also advancing to the quarterfinals with victories were the Dallas, Texas, Hornets, the Jackson, Miss., Magnolia Whips and the Nashville, Tenn., Highway Patrol.

The Dallas Hornets came from behind in the last three minutes to upset Rocky Mountain Title of Denver, 33-31.

Jackson had to control all the way in downing the Kansas City, Kan., Dons, 43-36.

The tall Nashville Highway Patrol team swamped the Ada, Okla., Dixie Queens, 56-25.

Top Golfers Tee Off In Azalea Open Tournament

WILMINGTON, N. C.—(AP)—The $10,000 annual Azalea Golf Open, sports feature of the annual Azalea Flower Festival, opens here Thursday.

The top prize of $2,000 will be the target of such handy gents as Lloyd Mangrum, Sam Snead, Bobby Locke, Cary Middlecoff, Tommy Bolt, Doug Ford, Jim Ferrier, and in fact, just about every Winter tour regular with the exception of Jackie Burke. The Texan who won four in a row in recent weeks, is sitting this one out in preparation for next week's Augusta Masters.

One 18-hole round will be played daily through Sunday over the 6,795-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, a par 72 layout.

Gopher Nine Shut Out By Longhorn Pitcher

AUSTIN.—(AP)—Riley Verdine pitched no-hit ball here Wednesday as the Texas Longhorns blanked the Minnesota Gophers, 5-0.

Rain halted the game at the end of the fifth inning, but Verdine had been the master of the situation all the way.

Two Minnesota errors helped the Longhorns along as they were able to get only three hits off the offerings of Paul Giel.

Glenn Davis' Wife Sues Him For Divorce

HOW ADVERTISING AFFECTS YOUR JOB

Raises, Cuts, Promotions, Layoffs Often Depend on How Much the Firm Sells

MECHANIC—I like advertising. It sells goods. And when sales go up, our shop is plenty busy. My wife and I can then have real peace of mind.

WAITRESS—Advertising my boss does means more tips in my pocket. Advertising other firms does means more business, steadier jobs for my customers and bigger tips in my pocket. So I'm all for plenty of advertising.

BOOKKEEPER—I know what a difference advertising made in my firm . . . made our volume four times as big in five years. Now instead of just being a clerk, I have seven people working for me.

NEXT time you hear or read advertising, just stop and analyze how it affects you.

Its purpose is to sell goods or services. More sales mean more work to be done. That means more jobs in the firm that advertises . . . and more jobs in the hundred and one firms with which it does business. It's a never-ending chain.

Now when more jobs open up, that means more security for everyone. It means promotion to many, with wage increases. It means opportunity—particularly for friends and sons and daughters of present employees.

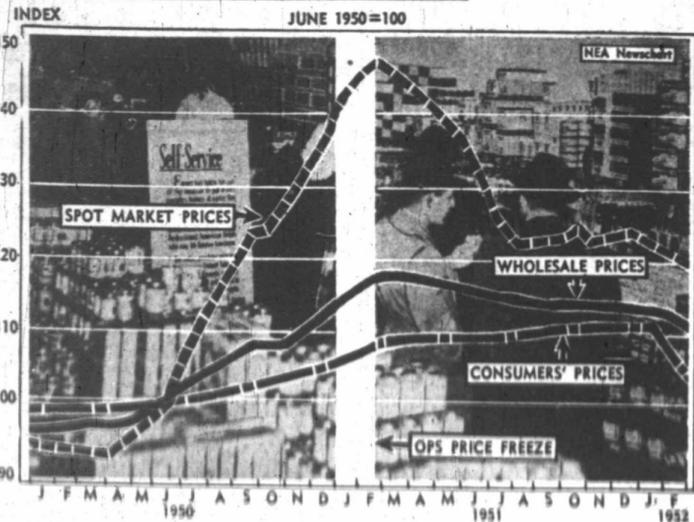

Whether or not you work for a firm that advertises, remember that this modern method of mass personal selling affects your company's business and its future. Hence it affects your job and your future.

Advertising, by selling goods, starts businesses humming, makes them bigger. That's how advertising affects your job. For tomorrow, it creates opportunity . . . for today, it makes your job more secure.

The Newschart shows the ups and downs of basic prices since the start of the Korean war in 1950. Up until the OPS price freeze in late January, 1951, spot (raw materials) prices skyrocketed, with wholesale prices lagging right along and the increases reflected in the steady rise of consumer (cost-of-living) prices. Former Agriculture Department Aide Is Excused From Stand

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A former Agriculture Department aide threw himself on the mercy of Senate investigators Thursday and then was excused from testifying about scandals in government grain deals. The witness was Alfred O'Neill of Edmunds County, S. D. He already is under grand jury investigation. O'Neill was sworn as a witness before the Senate Agriculture Committee and then asked "what you mean think" about whether he should testify. "If I were in your place," said Chairman Ellender (D-La) "I would not make answers. Ellender told him again later he believes whatever O'Neill said before the committee "might prejudice the grand jury. They may use what you say here against you. The committee doesn't want to take advantage of you." He is a former chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration Committee for his home county. The PMA is under the Department of Agriculture. The committee is making a detailed study of charges of "fantastic profits" by private grain storers and of misdeeds of department officials.

Rotarians Receive Grant Suggestions On Retirement Joy

Midland Rotarians learned of the pleasure of retirement from a fellow Rotarian at the club's regular luncheon Thursday in Hotel Schubarhaus. Financial, physical and mental factors were listed as the chief requirements for successful retirement by Lester Grant, whose travels include visits to five foreign countries. A former mining engineer and college instructor, Grant was in the oil and ranching business in this area for 22 years. He retired in 1949 from the McElroy Ranching Company. Grant suggested a varied program of activities in retirement. Some work was listed as a basic requirement. Grant has been a member of the Midland Rotary Club for 16 years. He found, he said, in his travels that the Rotary principle of tolerance would solve many of today's international problems. Ray Upham introduced Grant. Milton Tanner called attention to the membership race with the Big Spring Rotary Club. Several Big Spring Rotarians were guests.

Immigrant Brings Along Own House

LETHBRIDGE, ALBERTA—(AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. H. Reitman and their five youngsters, immigrants from Holland, arrived in Canada the first thing they did was unpack their house. Before leaving Holland, Reitman heard of Canada's housing shortage. He also knew it would be impossible to take over enough money to buy a house because of his country's foreign exchange controls. So he sold his house and bought a prefabricated house. It was shipped here via the Panama Canal. Reitman figures he brought his family here, along with their furniture and their new house, for less than $3,000.

After giving the bare facts to officers she estimated the value of the dress at $175, the G-string at $75.

Storm Signals Fly In Controls Hearing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Storm signals were up in Congress Thursday on the Administration's request to extend and strengthen the network of price, wage, rent, credit and materials controls. Angry comments about the proposed steel workers' pay boost, intended to avert a crippling strike, whipped up gales of opposition. Chairman Maybank (D-Sc) is pushing the Senate Banking Committee to get its extension bill on to the Senate floor. But progress was suspended until next week after Office of Price Stabilization officials entered a hurried protest on tentative Senate actions.

Board Orders End To Banking Empire

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Federal Reserve Board voted 3 to 2 Thursday to order a breakup of the Transamerica Corporation's big banking empire in five Western states. The majority found that the corporation—which controls $7,000,000,000 in bank deposits and half the bank loans in California, Oregon, Nevada, Washington and Arizona—tends to "lessen competition and restrain commerce." House Panel Trims Civil Functions Fund Sought For Army

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Appropriations Committee Thursday recommended that Congress vote $492,434,900 for Army civil functions in the year starting next July 1. Most of the money would be for flood control and navigation projects. The total is $200,542,900 or 29 per cent below President Truman's budget recommendation of $692,977,800. Percentages, this is the biggest slash the committee has made so far this year in the budget for any federal agency.

The committee okayed $105,459,313 less than what Congress voted last year for civil functions. Its recommendations are due to be considered by the House next week. The bill then will go to the Senate. For rivers and harbors projects the committee recommended $187,450,000. This is $96,783,000 or 34 per cent under the budget. For flood control projects it recommended $221,232,400, which is $88,662,600, or 28 per cent under the budget.

For flood control on the lower Mississippi River and its tributaries the committee recommended $59,605,000, against $60,520,000 budgeted. The committee recommended $18,139,500 for the Panama Canal. This is $3,944,500 above the appropriation last year but $13,776,000 below the budget.

In its report to Congress the committee reiterated its position of recent years that "the civil works program should be subservient to the defense needs of the nation."

Weather Grounds Allied Warplanes

SEOUL—(AP)—Stormy weather over North Korea grounded Allied warplanes early Thursday. On the 155-mile battle front only light, squall-size Communist thrusts were reported. Weather reconnaissance planes maintained a patrol. A break in the heavy clouds would permit resumption of Allied aerial strikes against the battered Communist rail system.

PAINTING RESTORED—Nardo Di Cione's 14th-Century masterpiece, "St. John the Baptist," is shown at the half-way point in the restoration process being applied to 14 Italian Renaissance paintings which will be placed on exhibit at the Yale Art Gallery, New Haven, Conn.

OKIE COWPOKES KNOW BARGAIN

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Traffic at the busy intersection of May and Reno Streets in Oklahoma City came to a stop Wednesday and motorists blinked their eyes. A 1,300-pound Brahman steer walked calmly across the street, pursued by cowboys mounted on horses and waving lariats. Brownie the steer decided he didn't like the way things were going at the Oklahoma City Stockyards. So he leaped a barbed wire fence to see what the downtown area was like. After more than an hour, Brownie was surrounded in a 50-acre alfalfa field five miles southwest of the packing plant. Two cowboys lassoed him from different directions and pulled tight. Brownie's freedom had come to an end. A veteran cattleman, Art Naylor, showed up with a pickup truck, took one look at the snorting animal and told the cowboys: "I wouldn't lead that critter for less than $10." The cowboys agreed, and figured they had a bargain.

Three Killed, Two Wounded By Shotgun Welding Assailant

MERRIMAN, NEB.—(AP)—A shot gun welding assailant opened fire on a ranch house near Merriman Thursday and by the time he was through, had killed three persons. One of the dead was a neighboring rancher who was answering a telephone call for help. Two others, including a 10-month-old baby, were wounded. Authorities immediately road-blocked this entire sparsely settled Northwest Nebraska sandhills area. Plane after plane was sent into the air in the search for the unidentified slayer. First speculation by authorities was that the slaying must have been by someone carrying a "grudge," or someone gone berserk. Killed were George Mensinger, 28; Mrs. Mensinger, his 23-year-old wife, and a neighbor, Deo Gardner, about 50. Wounded were the Mensingers' baby and another neighbor, Cliff McDonald, about 35.

France Weakest Link In West Defense; Italy Seen As Beginning To Come Alive

By RICHARD HOLLANDER
NEA Special Correspondent
PARIS—Surrounded by imposing evidences of past political and military glory, the French today are the weakest link in the chain of western defense. Geography and tradition made France the logical continental keystone in General Eisenhower's NATO plans. Now our vast investment in her recovery may turn out to be a total loss from a purely military standpoint. The disastrous political events of the past few weeks, hard upon the conclusion of the Lisbon conference, add up to the toughest problem yet, to be faced in the total effort toward mutual western defense. Failure of the French to find political stability likely will have an important bearing on Congressional debate on further foreign aid. The big fight now is between the Communists of the Left and the Gaullists of the Right. As usual, the middle-of-the-roadsers are being crushed. Should Gen. Charles de Gaulle come to power, France might crawl into a nationalist-isolationist hole with embarrassment to the entire NATO concept. Some Frenchmen charge we pushed them too hard and fast to military preparation. Some American experts believe that if the strain of military costs hadn't been added to the French economy she might have been in pretty good shape in two or three more years. Every movement upward of prices of civilian goods, every movement downward of the standard of living, sets off selfish political catterwauling. The going has been very tough indeed for the average Frenchman. Since the beginning of the Korean war, prices have gone up from 30 to 45 per cent. The present French military budget is three times as great as two years ago. The war in Indo-China, which Frenchmen feel we are inclined to forget about, has been costing $1 billion a year. French government officials assert that the more than 5,000,000 Communist votes in the last election are largely domestic "protest" votes. Whatever they are, the Communists, together with the Gaullists on the other side, have greatly weakened France in the eyes of the rest of the western world. France came out of the war with a national inferiority complex, stemming from the ignominiously swift defeat of 1940. Liberation didn't bring automatic prosperity. The Communists and the Gaullists grew on all this. Then there was the traditional fear of Germany. Finally, came the moment when our efforts abroad were focused, not so much upon a long-term stable economic future, but upon immediate defense against the threat of Russian aggression. This, with NATO and its military offspring, SHAPE, meant that economically tottering nations like France would have to divert increasing proportions of their national budgets toward production for possible war. To a French people starved for civilian goods was promulgated "guns instead of butter" as the order of the day. Most Frenchmen hadn't ever had the butter. This was gravy for all dissident groups. But even within this grim picture one finds a few bright spots for collective security. Right now there are 850,000 troops on active duty. Taken together with men already trained, France has an immediate potential of 1,200,000 troops. It is estimated that by 1954, a trained force of 6,000,000 troops could be available—if there is equipment and training facilities for them. To these can be added 90,000 airmen on active duty, and 80,000 men in the Navy. And she still has one important psychological point in her favor: the pride of past military glory that demands rebirth. It sticks deeply in men like Georges Bidault, defense minister in the last cabinet, who is determined that France will fulfill her NATO commitments. Others like him are convinced that only through honor can France win back her place of dignity in the western world. As staunch as France's Bidault, is Italy's defense minister, Rinaldo Fiore-Vernassa. Where Bidault is small and tired-looking, Fiore-Vernassa is full of robust vitality. In his office he gazes often at a large picture of Garibaldi. He has lost count of the number of threats on his life, first by Fascists, and, more recently, by Communists. "The Communists?" he snorts. "Every day I do something to provoke them. And what do they do? Nothing! Italy will fulfill its share for NATO. Publicly, he makes these ringing statements, and you are forced to believe that he means them. But between statements and fulfillment are the heart-breaking months of backing and filling while economists and politicians slice the harsh facts of daily life along the political lines of least resistance. Italy came out of the war with more physical destruction than any country except Germany. Her national economy was stalled. Communism was rampant. Only swift U. S. aid in the immediate post-war years (see chart) kept Italy from falling into the Russian camp. Today, the Communist vote is still numerically large — though, as in France, non-Red politicians maintain that this simply represents a "protest" bloc. Italy had one post-war economic advantage over other European countries. She was prevented by treaty from rebuilding her armed forces above a microscopic minimum. Now those terms have changed. Italy is scrambling to get its muscles back in shape, and her economy, weak at best, is being bent back upon itself. Here's the picture: at the beginning Italy's navy was largely depleted, her army was practically non-existent, her air force down to a few officers. In the months since, the U. S. has been re-equipping these forces with M-24 light tanks, 106 and 165 mm. artillery pieces, training aircraft, and some small naval vessels. Soon, Italy will begin to receive F-84 combat jets. There's a feeling of the nation coming alive militarily. It was not for her geographic position, Italy might well be tossed to the wolves—if one wanted to be ruthless. However, that position, jutting far out into the Mediterranean, and flanking France, would make her a powerful weapon against the West. That's why so much time, effort and expense are being poured into the boot in hopes the ancient seams will hold.

Long Horn Games In 'Static' Stage

FORT HOOD—(AP)—Battle action in Operation Long Horn Thursday was static over much of the long front, with troops being re-deployed to offensive or defensive positions. The 82nd Airborne Division had its paratrooper brigade linked with its ground attackers to form a solid front against the 4th Division, a National Guard outfit from Montana and Minnesota. "The Communists?" he snorts. "Every day I do something to provoke them. And what do they do? Nothing! Italy will fulfill its share for NATO. Publicly, he makes these ringing statements, and you are forced to believe that he means them. Rains—

this year, it's less than half of normal. To permit drought-hampered farmers two more weeks to take advantage of any additional moisture, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White Wednesday granted a 15-day cotton-planting extension to farmers in four Rio Grande Valley counties. White's action moved the planting deadline from next Monday at midnight to midnight of April 15 in Willacy, Hidalgo, Cameron and South Starr counties. Stringent planting and plowing deadlines are designed to combat pink bollworm infestation in the four counties. The new planting deadline, White said, will have no effect on the plow-up deadline, set now, 1 August 51.

Big Spring Leader Fined $10,000 For Tax Evasion Effort

FORT WORTH —(AP)—A fine of $10,000 and an 18-month prison sentence, probated for one year, was assessed Russell R. McEwen, 58, of Big Spring Wednesday in U. S. District Court.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson, in handing down the sentence for attempted income tax evasion, told McEwen:

"The manner in which your friends have responded is certainly consolation."

McEwen had been described by character witnesses as a civic leader with a good reputation in Big Spring. He had waived grand jury indictment and venue and entered a nolo contendere (no defense) plea.

The two-count charge against McEwen alleged he filed a tax statement for 1945 showing $4,686.36 earnings on which he paid $770 taxes. In reality, the charges stated, his net income was $12,973.35 on which he owed $3,764.07. Substantially the same return was filed for his wife, Lillian.

U. S. Attorney Frank Potter told the court McEwen also owes back taxes for 1944, 1947, and 1948. Potter said these were left out of the complaint after an agreement that shortages for those years would be brought out in court.

He declared McEwen owes a total of $28,790.92 for $55,848.49 in unreported income over the four-year span. He said McEwen failed to report earnings from auto financing, earnings made in selling autos for more than list price, and earnings made in the sale of homes which McEwen built in Big Spring.

NOT WHAT IT USED TO BE

FORT WORTH —(AP)—A 16-year-old escapee from the State Training School for Girls says the "campus hasn't been the same since Governor Shivers was there."

Juanita Lee Thomas, one of four girls who ran away from the school Monday night, was caught here Wednesday. She told a reporter she "and most of the other girls" do not like the way they are being disciplined.

She said she understood Governor Shivers told school officials to deal out more punishment. She said she had heard of no ban on whipping, and that she objected mostly to confinement in Witherpoon Cottage, a detention center for girls classified as trouble-makers.

The girl refused to say anything about the other three girls who left the school with her.

Cold Weather Hangs On Across Midwest

By The Associated Press

The nation's weather pattern of the last few days showed little change Thursday as cold weather continued over most of the Midwest.

It was zero again in Northern Michigan and below freezing was reported over most of the north central region. Light snow fell in parts of Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Southern Michigan and Northeast Indiana.

Warmer weather moved into the Rockies and it was mild in the Far Western states. Temperatures were around seasonal levels in other parts of the country.

Rain continued in Florida early Thursday and rain or snow was reported in Southeast Missouri and Central Oklahoma. Tampa reported rainfall measuring almost four inches on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Bits Of Paper-

was going on.

Mrs. John Hillis, a member of the Children's Service League, wheeled him into the building and turned him over to his old friend, Mrs. Elina Willingham, the health unit's public health nurse.

Scarred Faces, Bent Limbs

Mrs. Willingham took him on into the room where all the other children were waiting.

More than 75 children, some with scarred faces, some with bent limbs, some with crutches, were on hand for the annual Crippled Children's Clinic, sponsored by the State Department of Health.

Mrs. T. S. Jones and members of her Children's Welfare League, which had provided R. A.'s wheel chair, were there to assist in any way they could, and there were 30 of them working under the direction of Mrs. Charles Wilson, the general chairman.

Movies were being shown through the day by W. C. Mays, the health unit's sanitarian, and there was a big stack of comic books and trays of sandwiches and cookies and dishes of ice cream furnished by the Borden and Banner Dairies of Midland.

O. R. Cockrell, the laboratory director in charge of the health unit, came over to say hello and Marguerite Cunningham, field supervising nurse for the State Department of Health, was there to see that everything went smoothly.

R. A. waited patiently along with the children from Ector, Ward, Winkler, Howard, Martin and Reeves Counties.

One by one they went in to see one of the three doctors, Dr. W. W. Schuessler of El Paso, a plastic surgeon, and Dr. Edward T. Driscoll of Midland and Dr. Frank Hodge of Abilene, orthopedic surgeons.

Finally R. A.'s number was called and he was wheeled in to see Dr. Driscoll.

As the examination proceeded, Mrs. Willingham explained the operation of the clinic.

Treatment Available

"The doctors," she said, "make a very thorough examination and then recommend possible treatment."

"If the families are unable to afford this treatment, the children receive it anyway through state help and through the funds raised by the sale of Easter Seals."

"In addition, the state provides a program of rehabilitation for crippled children once they reach the age of 18."

"R. A. now is eligible and, if he likes, he will be sent away to school, where expenses will be paid. He is interested in radio and wants to study that. When he finishes, he will be guaranteed a job."

A few minutes later, the freckle-faced youngster came out of Dr. Driscoll's office, grinning from ear to ear.

The report of the examination was handed to Mrs. Willingham.

"It looks like R. A. will walk again," she said. "Dr. Driscoll wants him placed in the hospital here as soon as possible."

"In about a week he'll be in the hospital and we think with treatment and corrective therapy, he'll be able to walk again with the aid of braces."

"The doctors think that shouldn't take more than four to six weeks." Meanwhile, R. A. and 75 other youngsters went back to their homes, grateful to the tiny pieces of paper, which are the Easter Seals, and the gentle winds of fate which blew them together.

Candidates Step Up Efforts To Make Popularity Test Of Nebraska Primary

By The Associated Press

Republicans, waging a stiff presidential nomination battle in Wisconsin, Thursday stepped up their efforts to make Nebraska also a prime popularity testing ground.

Both states held primaries next Tuesday to choose GOP and Democratic convention delegates.

Backers of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio drummed up a write-in campaign in Nebraska they hope can offset his losses in New Hampshire and Minnesota. And supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower tried to match the Taft drive.

Two weeks ago the Nebraska primary appeared of little national significance in the Republican picture with only Harold Stassen and Mrs. Mary Kenny, Lincoln housewife and backer of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, entered.

Taft's forces called in retired Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, a native Nebraskan, to give their campaign a shot in the arm.

Wedemeyer told newsmen he considered Taft "the best qualified avowed candidate for the presidency considering the conditions faced by our country today." He said Eisenhower was "an avowed candidate" but not MacArthur.

In the Democratic race, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee returned from Wisconsin to resume his Nebraska campaigning. Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, his April 1 opponent, told newsmen in Lincoln Wednesday night he thought "we are gaining on Kefauver."

Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, wrote from Milwaukee that the Wisconsin outcome could hinge on Democrats who vote the GOP ticket. Voters are handed both tickets and given their choice.

Stassen has pledged he will turn over to Eisenhower half of any of his delegates elected since the general is not on the ballot and write-ins are not permitted. Delegates backing Gov. Earl Warrn of California have promised to support the general if the California governor drops out of the convention race. Warren himself has made no promises except to release his delegates if he fails to make headway.

'Shift' Votes Important

Bell said a strong Eisenhower sentiment among Democrats could benefit both Warren and Stassen. He said Wisconsin politicians thought Warren would get the most good out of such votes, even though he has not taken a stand one way or the other about Eisenhower.

Taft, the other GOP candidate in the three-way race, called the Stassen and Warren linkups with Eisenhower "hybrid tickets."

Kefauver remained a long-odds favorite to win the Democratic race against two slates supporting Truman, Bell reported.

Maine's Republicans gathered Thursday in Bangor for a two-day session to choose 16 delegates to the national convention. An informal Associated Press poll showed most of those seeking seats favor an unpledged delegation, traditional in Maine. The state's GOP forces are split by the Taft-Eisenhower fight.

Fish Have Big Role In World Position, Deserve 'Cabinet Status,' Toner Says

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Many people think of fish as something we eat more of during Lent. Royal Toner, president of the National Fisheries Institute, thinks of it also as a vital factor in our national economy and in our world position today.

The Fisheries Institute includes the leading American fishermen, primary processors, canners, sellers, smokers, freezers, distributors and boat owners, a $2 billion industry that employs more than 550,000 men and women.

"Fish and shell fish, being top sources of protein, play a vital role in international tensions," he explained. "For example, Red China's protein starved. The Chinese, not being seafaring people, have failed to develop the sources of protein in her coastal waters. Except off Siberia, Russia has very little sea-food and that is from a few months of the year. Also there is a shortage of protein food for her millions."

Full Status Asked
There has never been a world war when all the countries involved had enough protein for their people. Toner pointed out. "The importance of fish to our national economy and to international peace is so towering that it should be recognized with full cabinet status."

Toner, massive but soft-spoken, almost 40 years in the oyster growing business, fears our enemies may discover the remaining fishing areas in the world before we do.

While he ate a lunch of oysters on the half shell, followed by the first shad of the season from Georgia waters, he explained that fishing areas are controlled by international treaties. The first country to discover a fishing ground is the one that gets the best terms in treaties. Belong To Canada.

"Take a look at some of the world's fishing areas today," he continued. "Rights in the Bering Sea area belong to Canada, the United States and Russia, all based on historical reference to fishing experience. Rights in the Grand Banks area under present international treaties are restricted to the British, French, Spanish and Americans, based on discovery priority."

"The fishing area north of the main island of Japan were originally owned by Russia, but in recent decades leased to Japan by Russia. Since World War II, Russia has refused to renew those leased rights."

"On the western shore of South America, particularly off Chile, lies one of the richest fishing areas in the world. In the past 10 years freezing plants have been installed there and frozen fish has been exported to the U. S., competing with our fish processed by higher paid labor."

He called attention to Alaska. "All the gold and minerals together," he said, "do not compare with the wealth the Alaskan fishing industry has brought to this country." Future Important.

The future of fishing rights in oceans of the world is more important than land rights, according to Toner, who added: "As compared with what remains to be explored in the sea, land areas offer little hope of wealth to be gained by ex-

Vietminh Captives Given Meager Fare

HANOI, INDOCHINA—(AP)—It's a pretty tough life being a prisoner of the Communist-led Vietminh in Indochina.

That's the word brought back here by 103 war captives recently released by the Vietminh forces.

They said they were not mistreated by the Vietminh. They suffered principally because of the lack of food, clothing and medicines and the cold, rainy weather. The former captives reported they ate little except rice.

Communists Eye Southeast Asia

KUALA LUMPUR, MALAYA — (AP)—Communism has shifted its attention to Southeast Asia in its perils to the western powers, and Communist guerrilla warfare in Malaya is expected to increase as a result. Malaya's new high commissioner, Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, warns.

The Red terrorists will moreover have a temporary advantage in the war because many police jungle squads are being withdrawn for further training, he said. British troops are to replace them during the period.

Gen. Templer has said he could beat the terrorists in three months provided the entire Malayan population was behind him.

Youth Center Chatter

By NANCY LOU KLINGLER

We hardly know just how to start off this week's column, so we will just say "hi." Guess that is just about as good as any of them.

It seems as though the Youth Center members really like to square dance, at least they all were having fun Friday night at the Youth Center and most of them were square dancing. Jay Johnson is the caller and is one of the finest anywhere. We are very lucky to have him to teach us. There will be a square dance every Friday, so let's all be sure and come to the dances on Friday because if you don't you really are missing a good time.

Have you noticed Rex Greenstreet's hair? Well it was black and now all of a sudden it has turned into a burr and is just a little bit on the red side. Now, Rex, just how did this all happen so quick???

Tuesday the cheerleader tryouts were held in the high school gym, but Monday night at the Youth Center there was something quite unusual. It was a political campaign for the cheerleaders. They all had someone to campaign for them. Some of them really were quite funny. It seemed as though Corky Moss was very popular that night as he made about four speeches for different people. Paxton Howard really made a long speech. He just said about four or five words then sat down.

Sally Breeze really is a good singer. She had Corky Moss and Larry Mayfield to sing "You Are My Sunshine" and it was rather amusing, we thought. We haven't just quite made out what Sally sings, but that we mean alto, bass, tenor, or etc. but she really sings something whatever it is.

Larry Mayfield, Corky Moss and Alan Harris also sang another song. The name of this song was "My Gals A Corker" and they added some little version in favor of the candidates they were campaigning for.

All in all everything was very funny. Oh yes, we also learned one more thing. That is, that Anna Bea Doyle can play the drum and the like. We didn't find out for sure as to what Grace Boles could do, but we were given some information on just exactly how to find out. This certain information was Jimmy McClatchy. Well what is it???

We have two girls at the Youth Center that can turn cartwheels. Now these girls turned them the other night. They did this while doing their yells they tried out on the next day. The yell was, "When you're up and etc." And at the very last they did their cartwheels. Where did you girls get so limber that you could do them so well???

Each week there are members that didn't do anything (?) and they want their names in the paper. We guess they are society "kids" but we don't know for sure. But this week's an exception, since our subject does quite a bit around the Youth Center. So this time it is supposed to be FREDDY BILBO. Now we hope you are happy, Freddy. You see you got your name in the paper twice.

Band, Band, Band, Band, and then some more Band. That is where all band students spend their time nowadays because April 5 there will be the Interscholastic League contest held in Kermit. We really have a fine band this year, of course, we always have, but each year it is supposed to get better, and that is just exactly what it is doing. We hope that the band will win "sweepstakes" this year and the members have been working hard enough at it, so here's hoping they do.

Baseball In The Air
Last Saturday evening the boys who were interested in the baseball team went somewhere to try-out. We heard they might be five different teams or maybe we heard it wrong, but that's just what we were told. Now all boys interested in baseball be sure and see "Myrt" before too long.

Our deepest sympathy goes to Evelyn Adams and her family on the death of her father.

Wednesday saw the Student Council off to the state convention in Corpus Christi. We heard that the Alan Harris Band would be along to play for the campaign. In case you didn't know, the Student Council is running for vice president of Texas.

Toya Chapple and Jo Underwood Adams are home and we are glad to see them around the Youth Center. Both of them were at the Youth Center Monday night while the campaigning was going on. Toya attends Stanford University in California. Jo is from California but she has a different occupation. She is chief cook for her husband, Bill Adams. We are very glad to have all of you back at the Youth Center and we hope you will come more often.

Puffy Cheeks
Have you noticed Larry Friday going around with his cheeks a little on the puffy side? He has been going to the dentist all this week.

We hear that Jimmy Lineberger has a scholarship to Columbia University in New York. Say, that is really nice isn't it? Congratulations.

We are very sorry about last week that we forgot to mention that Keith Franklin and Wayne "Pee Wee" Cuthbert were home on leave. They both are in the Navy and they are stationed out in California.

Last Saturday night after the picture show did you notice that Milton Jones and Jim Hammett really were concentrating on a ping-pong game that they were playing? They both were very concerned about the game, so were we. To be sure, Milton got beat, and by that we mean, more than one way.

Not too much more to say except we will see you at the picture show Saturday night. Oh, there will be a very important meeting before the show and it will concern the Youth Center. If you don't understand it, just be here Saturday night.

After the show Saturday, there will be a "Sock Hop" which will be very amusing. There will be a prize for the loudest pair of socks.

Scholar, Producer To Film Expedition

PASADENA, CALIF.—(AP)—An Old Testament scholar and a film producer left recently on a flying trip to the Near East to record on film their archaeological expedition.

The travelers, Dr. William Sanford LaSor and William Brasseur expect to be in Nippur, Iraq, soon to take part in pre-Abraham discoveries being made there. Other countries to be visited by the pair include Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Lebanon, Cyprus, Athens and Rome. Brasseur expects to use 20,000 feet of color film on the journey. Dr. LaSor, who says he speaks 20 languages, will act as interpreter and assistant cameraman.

CIVIL DEFENSE MAPPED
SINGAPORE—(AP)—Lessons learned during the Japanese attack on Singapore in 1942 are to be incorporated in new civil defense schemes being mapped out here. Evacuation of the civil population from congested areas will be one of the main features of the scheme if a war came. Training of civil defense instructors is now in full swing at Singapore's new civil defense school.

THEY SHALL NOT PASS—With the help of a 20-gauge shotgun and a bulldog, invalid L. G. Deuren won a temporary victory over a ditch digging crew in Houston who, he claimed, would "ruin my yard." The crew has contracted to lay a salt water pipe line and Deuren said brine carried through the line would seep into the ground killing his shrubbery and trees. They stopped work at edge of his property.

Dual-Purpose Hair Product Helps Tame Unruly Tresses

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Many women, attempting to coax their own tresses into an approximation of the latest hair styles, often find these ingenuous coiffures are more easily admired than copied. Even if the trick of setting is mastered, it's sometimes difficult to persuade strong-minded locks, once arranged, to continue following the dictates of fashion.

If you've been condemning your hair as unmanageable, you may find helpful a new preparation dedicated to making difficult tresses respond to desired arrangements. It's not a lacquer, its makers claim, but rather a dual-purpose liquid which may be used to hold place, either at home or at your favorite hairdresser's apply the product in a light mist to help maintain the perfection of your coiffure.

The preparation is available in five transparent colors—blue, ash blonde, golden red, auburn and chestnut brown as well as in a colorless neutral. Choose the shade best suited for highlighting the particular color of your hair.

your hair in place either before you set it or after it's arranged and combed.

To make your hair easier to work with when you're setting it, try spraying on a bit of this preparation just after your shampoo. Because it adds extra body to limp, fly-away hair, makers claim, it offers additional control.

After your hair is dry and your curls and swirls put carefully in

Former Communist Warns Japanese

TOKYO —F— One of Japan's first Communist leaders is warning that Japan is Soviet Russia's primary target for aggression in the Orient.

Geku Sano, who broke with the party 20 years ago, said in the Japan weekly that Russian designs are being concentrated in the Orient because of the growing strength of Western Europe.

"Peace offensives and local rebellions tinged with nationalism are still effective weapons in Asia," Sano wrote. "So far, only China has fallen to the Soviets. To put all of Asia under domination, the Communists must also have Japan and India."

Primitive Villagers Like Basketball

ROME—F—A backward Mexican village has discovered basketball and with it more modern methods of community life.

Emile Tejada, UN Food and Agriculture Organization expert, told the story here. When he and his staff arrived in the almost inaccessible Mexican village of Cucuchucho the people ran and hid, he said.

Gradually the inhabitants became more confident. But the period of friendliness and cooperation really began after the discovery that the villagers liked basketball. The success of working together to build a basketball court inspired the villagers to take up other community projects.

WTCC Members Urged To Express Opinions On Federal Reserve Board Control Proposal

ABILENE—That they express their opinion to their congressmen about proposals to make the Federal Reserve Board accountable to the President is being urged upon members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

In a communication to its directors and taxation and legislation committee members, the WTCC pointed out that in most countries where the government has taken over primary functions, it has done so by first gaining control of the banking structure, then grasping credit, transportation and communications.

The bulletin calls attention to the report on federal fiscal and monetary policy just issued by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, chairman of the sub-committee which compiled the 1,300-page document. It notes that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder has expressed opposition to changing the status of the Federal Reserve Board.

The board is independent of the executive department and the President can now remove members of it.

CLERK'S OFFICE OPEN AT NOON

County Clerk Roselle Cherry said Thursday that her office in the Midland County Courthouse has begun staying open through the noon hour.

The change in schedule was necessitated, she said, by the increasing number of real estate and oil instruments being placed on file.

The office, she said, will close at noon on Saturdays.

SENTIMENTAL NOTE

Spread a layer of soap over your hot broiling pan and cover it with a wet dishcloth. By washing time, grease and food bits will slip off easily.

Vessel Of Death Found After Hunt

JAKARTA, INDONESIA — (F)— Reports from the remote island of Flores tell of the discovery of a "mysterious vessel-of-death."

Authorities recently set out by motor launch to investigate stories about a boat which cruised aimlessly along the east coast of Flores.

After a search of several hours they found the boat. It contained six bodies, a Singer sewing machine and a bicycle. The dead could not be identified, and the discovery still is a mystery to the police.

SIDE GLANCES

"Did you tell Dad my new boy friend was in the dental corps?"

Daddy Ringtail

By Wesley Davis

Daddy Ringtail And Hot Day

"My, it's hot!" said Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend. He stopped his work in the garden and fanned himself with his straw hat. "It's too hot to work at all today. I think I'll sit down and cool off a bit."

Daddy Ringtail sat down on the ground near an ant hill, hoping some of the friendly ants would come out of their house and talk to him. And some of them did.

"How can they go so fast on such a hot day?" Daddy Ringtail wanted to know. "Hey there!" he called to the next ant he saw. "What is your great hurry?"

The ant stopped and said: "Don't you know we have work to do. We have to hurry and get enough food in our house for winter."

"Yes, I know," Daddy Ringtail said, "but winter is a long way off. I have work to do myself, work here in my garden, but it's so hot today. I thought I might wait until tomorrow to do it. Why don't you leave your work for tomorrow? Maybe it will be cooler then, and you really have plenty of time."

"Oh, no!" said the ant. "That isn't the way we do things. We never wait for cooler days. The hotter it is, the faster we work." (They really do.)

"But why?" Daddy Ringtail wanted to know. "Don't you get awfully hot?"

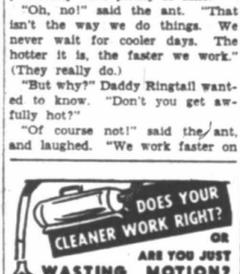

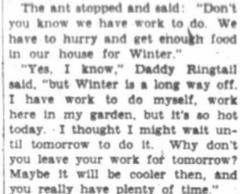

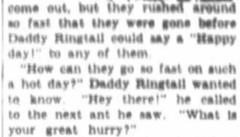

"Of course not!" said the ant, and laughed. "We work faster on the hotter days, because then we forget how hot it is." Then the ant asked Daddy Ringtail please to get out of his way, because he had work to do. "And that isn't all," said the ant. "I'm getting hot, just standing here and talking about how hot it is." Then the ant hurried away.

"Now maybe he's right," said Daddy Ringtail to himself. "I think I'll try working fast. Maybe I can forget how hot it is." And so he stopped fanning himself, and faster and faster he worked. Would you believe it? He forgot all about being hot, and he wasn't too hot at all.

You can do it if you want to. Try to keep busy on a very hot day, and see if you can forget how hot it is. Happy day!

Chocolate Bunnies Begin March Early

NEW YORK (AP)—The Easter Parade really gets started before Christmas. That's when leading candy manufacturers start production lines for the millions of chocolate bunnies that youngsters will see the morning of April 13.

One local "hatchery" (Rockwood) is sending out more than 10,000,000 Easter pieces this year including eggs, standing rabbits holding eggs, sitting jack rabbits, hens on the nest, roosters and dolls. It's quite a trick to make them especially to make them hollow.

How is it done? You fill the mold half full then for half an hour you rotate it while moving it through a refrigerated tunnel. The chocolate sticks to the chilled sides of the mold. At the end of the tunnel you open the mold and out pops your Easter bunny.

Rochester Mayor Holds Squawk Day

ROCHESTER, IND. (AP)—Every Monday, Mayor Robert W. Shafer hangs the city's civic linen on the line and invites the citizens in. What's washday to housewives is Squawk Day to Mayor Shafer.

"People really don't complain," he said. "They come here to make something known that should have been done in the past or should be done in the future."

One citizen suggested that community land near the city dump be explored for gravel, then the test diggings be used as holes to bury garbage. The mayor follows up such ideas and his all-Republican administration carries through.

Most trees on rubber plantations yield four to five pounds of rubber a year.

Lack Of Air-Support Bases Is Danger Spot For NATO

By RICHARD HOLLANDER
NEA Special Correspondent

PARIS—(AP)—It is a tragic and dangerous fact that in this Air Age, in which the United States is presumed to be the leader, the weakest link in our immediate lineup opposite the Russians in Europe is close air support—fighters and fighter-bombers.

It isn't because we lack the planes. It's because we lack the right kind of air bases in the right places.

If the balloon were to go up—the war start, as the military puts it—our ground forces, and those of our allies, would be in dire trouble.

We are well fixed for strategic bases, or will be when the present program of building is completed. We have bases in Britain, North Africa and elsewhere, from which long-range heavy bombers could take off and bludgeon most areas in Greater Russia.

But we're sitting ducks as far as bases for intruders, infiltrators, interceptors and ground support strength are concerned.

If the blame can be placed anywhere, it must be placed on the French, who have been fighting a strategic battle against construction of bases in France. They've been fighting against the cost of construction and against the use of good, arable land that is earmarked. Lately, in Lisbon, they seem to have come around to agreement about the extent of their responsibility, but much precious time has been wasted.

Most of our air strength in Germany is located at two old Luftwaffe bases near Munich, where two jet fighter-bomber wings are just about six minutes from the Czech border. In the event of a "Pearl Harbor" attack, it would be only through sheer luck that we wouldn't have most of our planes caught on the ground.

And then, the slim Allied ground forces in Germany would be left without air cover until planes in Britain could be brought into action. But they are too far away for effective ground support in Central Europe. Bases in France would be close enough to be fully helpful and far enough away to be defensible. The daily life of our ground units in Germany is one of almost constant alert.

Like the airmen, our ground troops are fully aware that they would have little or no warning in the event of attack from the Russian Zozh of East Germany. Their lives are more nearly those of active combat troops than any Americans are experiencing today—except, of course, in Korea.

Daily missions of these units involve border patrol along several hundred miles of the West-East Germany frontier. They are trained to be prepared at minutes' notice to throw blocks against an enemy, and their only hope is to delay him long enough to let our rear forces get set.

If the moment of invasion should come, these young men and their officers have no illusions about their ability to survive.

They know that the Russians have at least 150 divisions of their own, plus scores of satellite divisions. They know that our allies along the rest of the Iron Curtain perimeter are just as weak as we are. They know that those allies are ready to fight—in just as unsatisfactory a pattern of strategic retreat as we face. But our young men have only to look at a map to know that an eastern enemy's quickest way to the Channel is right through them.

The circumstance of our soldiers in Germany is not made easier by the relatively small but active minority of West Germans who are Communists or who do the Communists' work by using every device to make it clear that the Americans aren't wanted.

But in the last couple of years, the feeling of the average German toward the Americans has changed slightly. Not so very long ago he seemed to feel that the very presence of American, or Allied, troops in Germany was an open invitation to the Russians to accept a challenge to battle.

Now, although the number of Allied troops in Germany isn't enough to hold against a major Russian effort, Germans seem to agree that maybe their very presence has been a deterrent to the Russians. The Allied show of strength in the Berlin airlift had a good psychological effect.

Germans, of course, are increasingly aware that no European army can be a complete success without them, and that no European political and economic federation can possibly work unless they take part.

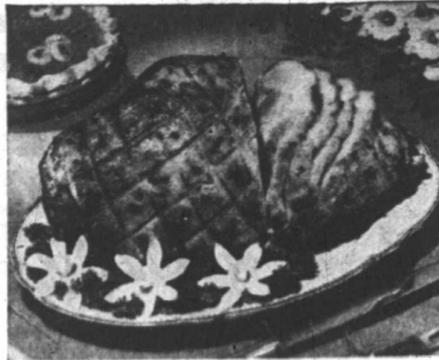

This has given them great bargaining power, and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has made complete use of it at every turn. The upshot is that, in so far as many American military and civilian leaders in Germany are concerned, the Germans come off best in any squabble with our closest European allies.

The recent agreements at Lisbon concerning the character of Germany's contribution in troops and money in European defense seem to mean that the immediate military side of the picture will be paramount, and the general responsibility for the defense of our "front" in Germany will have won their point.

Separate from the rest of West Germany, the Western sectors of the divided city of Berlin become shinier month by month, and the shops have more goods to sell than many of those in Britain.

But that is only on the surface. Berlin is truly a dying city, and it will die altogether unless it becomes a whole city again, and connected with its hinterland—the rest of Germany. This isn't likely to happen before rigor-mortis sets in. Without its hinterland, Berlin's industry will it ever be able to.

The Americans in Berlin are more relaxed than they were even a year ago. They used to feel that the war, if it came, would start there, and that they would be its first combatant victims. Now they don't feel that way. They feel that they're already strategically enveloped, and that, one morning, they'll wake up and find themselves official prisoners instead of unofficial ones.

EASTER BAKED HAM—Ham is the favorite choice for Easter feasting. Some cooks like to decorate the surface of the ham with fruit "flowers" before glazing. Others place attractive fruit or vegetable garnishes around the glazed ham, such as these "flowers" made of thinly sliced rutabaga. Whatever the trimmings, the important thing is to cook the Easter ham to perfection. Follow cooking directions, whenever possible, which come on the wrapper of the ham you purchase. If no directions are available, bake the ham in a 325 degree F. oven 18 to 20 minutes per pound for a whole ham; 22 minutes per pound for a half ham. (Most of the hams on the market today are the mild-cured type which require no soaking or boiling.) In baking a half ham, place cut side down on a rack to keep it from drying out; wrap in waxed paper or aluminum foil as extra protection, if desired. Half an hour before the end of the baking time, remove rind (if any), score the fat, stick with whole cloves and spread with a glaze. Brown sugar moistened with a little fruit juice is a popular glaze.

City's Founding Date Is Uncertain

CARBONDALE, ILL.—(AP)—They are going ahead with plans for Carbondale's centennial celebration this year—although there's some question whether this Southern Illinois city was founded 100 years ago.

Records show the site was picked in 1852, the first house was built, first sermon preached and first business set up. It was 1856 before the city was organized, '69 before it got its special charter, and '73 before it was brought under the Illinois City and Villages Act of 1870.

Gold Nuggets Are Yielded By Duck

PORT ELGIN, N. B.—(AP)—When the snowdrifts disappear, Leslie Turner, eighth grade student, hopes to find the source of the gold nuggets one of his ducks picked up recently.

The nuggets were found while dressing the duck for the table. Leslie figures there may be more where they came from.

A scarf keeps powder smudges off a coat neckline. A washable collar does the same for a dress.

Dorris To Confer With Crane Council On Phone Directory

CRANE—James W. Dorris of Odessa, an official of the Bell Telephone Company, said he will meet with the City Council at regular meeting April 8 to discuss the new telephone directories.

He said, "It is our regret that some of the Crane citizens have felt slighted about the new telephone directories. It was not an intention to do an injustice to Crane, and we are most anxious to cooperate with the council, and act on any decision that the council will make, to make any correction, or a reprint to the best satisfaction of Crane subscribers."

The townspeople and particularly the business people have expressed concern about the new directories, because they were not solicited for the yellow pages. Some persons said they felt McCamey was given preference in the ad section.

Hankin also is included in the directory.

MILLER RESIGNS POST AS UTILITY MANAGER

CRANE—James Miller has announced his resignation from the Texas Electric Company.

Miller had been with the company for five years, and moved to Crane as manager in April 1950.

He said he does not plan to leave Crane, but his plans are indefinite. Joe Bix of Odessa will fill the post temporarily.

TO ENTER CONTEST

CRANE—The Crane Choral club will enter the district contest in Odessa Saturday.

The club, under direction of Jack Allmäck, will sing three numbers: "Adoramus Te Christe," "Break Forth O Beauteous Heavenly Light," and "Sing Ye To The Lord."

'I'M SCARED'—"Chatounet," two-year-old cat who lives in Montmartre, Paris, is scared-out of several of her nine lives as she ends a four-day sit-down in a tree-top, above. A park worker, below, removes Chatounet, who is now cured of chasing pigeons in high places.

SUICIDE TRY FOILED

SINGAPORE—(AP)—A 27-year-old woman, fed up with life because she had married a "fascal," decided to end her troubles by jumping from the window of her house.

She landed in the seat of a pedicab, suffered only slight injuries and was ordered to sign a bond to be of good behavior for six months.

Before 1900, the U. S. Patent Office had issued 7,573 patents for bicycles, most of them after 1890.

APPLICATIONS RISE

SINGAPORE—(AP)—The Singapore government has been swamped by 109 applications for naturalization since relaxation of the English language qualification by Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttleton.

With 300 years of cultivation behind it, the island of Barbados has been made practically weed-free, says the National Geographic Society.

She Teaches Bible With Magic Feats

Mystifying magic is performed by magician-evangelist Audrey Guido, blindfolded before driving through Carmel, Ill. Her tricks are used to drive home lessons of the Bible.

CHICAGO—(NEA)—When attractive Audrey Guido pulls a rabbit out of her bonnet, escapes from a sealed wooden box, or drives through traffic blindfolded, it's only to illustrate a Bible lesson.

Audrey has been using feats of magic to present Biblical truths for the past nine years, is known in many sections of the nation as the "Mrs. Houdini of the Bible."

Officially, the term, 25-year-old brunette is half of the Moody Bible Institute's famed "Mr. and Mrs." evangelism team. While husband Mike preaches the old-fashioned gospel, she uses more than $3000 worth of trick equipment to make it as interesting as possible.

An orange tree which appears mysteriously from a hollow tube is used to point up the fruits of Christian living—love, joy and peace.

Escapes From Box

A 60-second escape from a wooden box, which has been nailed shut and then bound with ropes, illustrates "how sin imprisons us but through the power of God we can be set free."

And how "the world passeth away and the lusts thereof" is simulated by a vanishing canary.

Audrey planned to become a doctor, but interrupted her studies to take a temporary job teaching chemistry and physical education to her home town of Mettler, Ga. Midway through her first year, Mike came to town to conduct a revival meeting and she and her pupils were required to attend.

In less than a year they were married and she had begun to give her meetings with her knowledge of Chemistry.

Wishes Experiment

"The first thing I did," she recalls, "was an experiment in which I took two test tubes, representing two boys, filled them with a colorless liquid, and combined their contents so that both turned red. Then, to illustrate the Bible truth that 'though your sins be scarlet, they shall be as white as snow,' I added a chemical representing the word of God and the liquids became white again."

The stunt proved effective, but Audrey soon decided that she'd have to do better to hold the attention of the teenagers. She began haunting the magic shops and soon had built her repertoire to about 400 tricks, which now fill to overflowing three large trunks.

They range from disappearing alarm clocks to cakes which are transformed into men's hats and a wooden duck named Effie which will pick out from a pack whichever "Bible-memory verse card" a youngster may name.

It Never Fails

Perhaps the most mystifying stunt is the one in which Audrey tapes a rubber pad over her eyes, puts on a black hood, then drives alone through traffic. This one never fails to mystify, especially where policemen are concerned. In fact, the possibility of receiving a traffic ticket has become the tricks' greatest hazard.

Although Audrey has never seen a professional magician in action, she became so adept at the sleight-of-hand trade that she has received several television offers. So far, she's turned them all down, preferring to use her skill only for religious purposes.

Traveling with their equipment in a station wagon, the Guidos have been barnstorming for nearly eight years. They've appeared at universities, high schools, jails, clubs and churches of many denominations from Maine to Mexico, once addressed more than 40,000 persons in less than five months.

Often, young people ask the pretty preacher if she is not aided in her stunts by divine guidance. When they do, she immediately drops the mystic air traditional to magicians and comes up with a stock reply: "No! It's just a trick."

They range from disappearing alarm clocks to cakes which are transformed into men's hats and a wooden duck named Effie which will pick out from a pack whichever "Bible-memory verse card" a youngster may name.

It Never Fails
Perhaps the most mystifying stunt is the one in which Audrey tapes a rubber pad over her eyes, puts on a black hood, then drives alone through traffic. This one never fails to mystify, especially where policemen are concerned. In fact, the possibility of receiving a traffic ticket has become the tricks' greatest hazard.

Although Audrey has never seen a professional magician in action, she became so adept at the sleight-of-hand tricks that she has received several television offers. So far, she's turned them all down, preferring to use her skill only for religious purposes.

Traveling with their equipment in a station wagon, the Guidos have been barnstorming for nearly eight years. They've appeared at universities, high schools, jails, clubs and churches of many denominations from Maine to Mexico, once addressed more than 40,000 persons in less than five months.

Often, young people ask the pretty preacher if she is not aided in her stunts by divine guidance. When they do, she immediately drops the mystic aid traditional to magicians and comes up with a stock reply: "No! It's just a trick."

Ballet Is Helpful Hobby For The Talented Youngster

Keeping a pinfore-type ballet costume clean and well pressed is no problem at all. A quick sudsing and simple ironing will swiftly do the trick.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The ballet has been invaded by the younger generation. There's hardly a little girl who doesn't spend some part of each week bending, twirling and jumping in the traditional steps of this art form.

Heavily padded ballet practice outfits fortunately have been replaced with washable pinfore-type costumes "stutus," and they can be kept clean with a simple warm water sudsing. Add a small amount of starch for a stiff, full-skirted effect.

The "baby ballerina" costumes are easy to iron, too. Simply use

Little girls seem to love to learn the intricate dance steps of the ballet. The rhythmic and graceful movements also help youngsters to develop poise and self-confidence.

A swinging motion as the point of your iron heads into the gathered ruffles.

The slim point of the appliance should be slipped into the gathers as far as possible, then away to the right and left for smoothness and wider surface coverage.

Ballet shoes are no problem, either. Just rub the shoe surface with a soapy cloth. This will erase rosin dust and small marks on the leather. If the slippers are equipped with long black ribbons, place them on a flat surface and wipe clean with a damp rag.

Because toe shoes are difficult to keep clean, buy black satin for studio and rehearsal use. Protect the light-colored slippers by slipping them into a clean pair of white cotton socks when they are not being worn.

Although soap and water will cure many marks on your toe shoes, do not use water near the "box." The stiffened toe point of the shoe. You'll only soften the "box" and make the shoes completely useless.

Jackson To Speak At Annual JayCee Installation Dinner

Newly-elected officers of Midland's Junior Chamber of Commerce will be honored at its annual installation dinner at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Ranchland Hill Country Club. Highlight of the event, according to H. D. Bushnell, program chairman, will be an address by W. W. Jackson, prominent San Antonio insurance executive, on "The Place of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in Community Life."

Dr. Jackson, who is administrative vice president of the American Hospital and Life Insurance Company,

W. W. Jackson

San Antonio, will be in Midland for the opening of that company's new branch office here.

He was born in Tennessee, reared in Texas and was educated at Southwestern University, the University of Texas and Yale University. He is a member of the State Board of Education, past president of the San Antonio Rotary Club and past governor of Rotary District 129, member of the board of directors of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, YMCA, Community Welfare Council, Association for the Blind, Armed Services for the YMCA and numerous other civic groups.

As state chairman of the Texas Methodist College Association, he is responsible for raising endowments and operating expenses for the five Methodist Colleges in Texas, including Southern Methodist University. He is a member of the Central Board of Education and of the Joint Committee on Public Relations for the Methodist Church, and immediate past president of the San Antonio Council of Churches which comprises 83 churches representing 21 denominations.

It is believed that no people settled on the site of Rome until about 1,000 B. C. because of volcanic activity in the vicinity.

Club's Treasury Emptied By Gift

PITTSBURGH—(P)—The distinguished Union Club, founded a half century ago by steelmaster Henry Clay Frick, finally has disposed of its last $500.

Back in 1923 the club, which once had a membership of 800 prominent Pittsburghers, closed its doors. In 1936 the records were lost in a flood which engulfed most of Pittsburgh's business section.

The directors couldn't decide who was entitled to the money. The club books were finally closed with a $500 gift to the local Red Cross chapter.

The regular meeting of the 8815th Volunteer Air Reserve Training Squadron will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the District Courtroom, Midland County Court House. Major John Thomas will lecture on "Reciprocating Engines and Propeller Development." All members are urged to attend.

The MATURE PARENT

Our Young Children Need Force, Lovingly Applied

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In the park when he wasn't slapping and kicking other children, he was snatching their toys. Their mother called him "The Terror," but his own mother called him "Sugar."

She would address him by this name while he stood, furious and resistant, his fingers clenched on the handlebars of somebody else's tricycle. As she stooped over him, the rank mother on the park benches would watch her with cold, hostile eyes, stilling their chatter so as to leave space for her appeal to be heard.

"Sugar," she would say too brightly to the four-year-old child, "don't you remember mummy's telling you that we must never take other people's possessions, without asking their permission? Now if you ask Billy politely if you can borrow his tricycle . . ."

He would kick at her. In the end, it would be Billy's mother, flushed and contemptuous, who would twist the spotted child's fingers from the handlebars, and with eyes carefully averted from his helpless mother, move her own son away.

At dusk, moving homeward, the park mothers would lift significant eyebrows at each other as the sound of her cajoling voice pursued them. "But if we don't go home, Sugar darling, daddy won't have any dinner. You wouldn't want mummy to let daddy starve, would you? No, of course you wouldn't . . ."

Now if you think Sugar's mother enjoyed being helpless and humiliated, you are greatly mistaken. She hated it. Yet if you said to her, "Madam, you are in trouble because of your fear of using physical force to protect your child from himself," she would be outraged. In a superior voice, Sugar's mother would say to you, "I despise physical force. I prefer to reason with my child."

Youngsters Are Grateful
Sugar's mother has to talk like this because she has built her life on contempt for force, or physical action.

She discovered that she felt contempt for physical force one day when she was seven. She had been slapped unjustly and when she protested was slapped again.

With the taste of blood in her mouth, Sugar's mother saw there had to be some way to live with a parent who used physical force long after it should have been displaced by another kind of control. She decided to "despise" the use of it. Thereafter, instead of protesting or crying when she was slapped or spanked, Sugar's mother took refuge in feeling superior to slaps and spanks.

She became expert in the use of cajoling, pleading words to solve her problems. And nobody, until Sugar, ever caught on to her. Before he was three he knew that his mother's dependence upon words was fear of physical action. Just exactly as his grandmother had used that fear to humiliate his mother.

Says that reliable expert, Dr. Benjamin Spock: "When your child is young, rely most heavily on physically removing him from dangerous or forbidden situations by distracting him to something interesting and harmless. He counts on you to keep him out of danger."

Danger to children is not limited to mad dogs, gas jets, speeding cars or other physical hazards. They can be endangered by exposure to the sustained dislike that moved the park mothers to call a four-year-old boy "The Terror."

Children are grateful for force, firmly and lovingly applied to impulses they cannot control. If we cannot give them this control, we should want to know why. Perhaps our passion for "reasoning" with young creatures not yet equipped to respond to reason may not be affection for them at all—but dread of what they may do to us if we try to restrain them.

Whales Fight For Comeback

AP Newsfeature
LA JOLLA, CALIF.—The gray whales of the Pacific, once hunted almost to extinction, are definitely coming back.

This was the word from the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, which has just completed its sixth annual check.

An actual count of 800 passing here was made during the Winter whale migration from the North Pacific, or Bearing Sea, to the warm, shallow calving lagoons along the Lower California coast of Mexico.

Previous Count 600
The previous high count was slightly more than 600 in the Winter of 1949-50. Only 250 were counted in the initial check in 1946-47. The increase, it was noted, were due in part to the more thorough observations, particularly during the last Winter.

But Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, head of the Scripps' department of marine vertebrates, estimated that the latest count may indicate that as many as

2,000 whales (since many were probably moved south in the migration. That's approximately 180 million pounds—a whale of a lot of whale.

Hunted From Ocean
The 30-ton ocean mammals were no doubt even more numerous in the middle 1800's before they were just about hunted from the ocean during the succeeding 75 years. Fortunes were made from their oil (for lamps and candles) and whalebone (for corset stays).

An international agreement was finally made (Japan did not subscribe until after World War II) under which killing of gray whales was prohibited.

Dr. Hubbs said proposals are being considered to again permit hunting, under restriction. He added that he favors continued protection for a few more years until the population reaches about its natural limit. A larger surplus of bulls then would be available for kill. They would provide oil for such modern products as butter substitutes and soaps; meal, for such uses as fertilizer and poultry food, and meat for cats and dogs and, possibly humans.

Meat from other types of whales is now eaten in some countries, including parts of the U. S., Dr. Hubbs said.

Calving Lagoons
This year it was also definitely determined that the gray whales' calving lagoons were limited to the Pacific side of the Lower California coast, the scientist said. The whales used to calve in San Diego bay in California but were driven south by hunters and the increase in human population.

To confirm this year's count Hubbs, and Dr. Gifford C. Ewing, Scripps' oceanographer, traveled approximately 2,500 miles by plane in four days.

Mr. Hubbs, who acts as her husband's secretary, took 50 pages of notes during the trip—including observations on reactions of whales when the plane swooped low over them. They saw how a killer whale bullied a hammerhead shark out of a tasty morsel—a fat sea lion—in the Gulf of California.

The gray whales migrate south, close to shore here, between the end of November and later part of February. They pass by on the reverse migration in March and April.

A similar migration takes place along the coast of Korea, on the other side of the Pacific. Dr. Hubbs said that with Japanese whaling stopped, the population there was also probably on the increase.

The gray whales and the Pacific's prize fur-bearing seals move south and north at about the same times but the seals mate and reproduce on the Bering Sea's cold and lonely Pribilof Islands in summer months.

International Agreement
He said the international agreement limiting the annual kill of seals was "the finest and surest example of the conservation and wise utilization of any natural marine resource." Under it, he added, the seal population has grown from 150,000 in 1911 to from three to four million now.

Take Time To Watch Your Step

Your feet require daily attention. If they are to stay healthy and well-groomed, set aside fifteen or twenty minutes of your evening beauty ritual and treat your feet to some special care. Start with exercising. Feet that are encased in shoes all day can easily become stiff and cramped. A bit of toe wiggling and picking up of marbles (left) will help to relieve the tension and relax the muscles. To keep the cuticle around your toes smooth and unbroken, follow a warm, sudsy foot bath with an application of an oily cuticle remover. If you use an orangewood stick tipped with a piece of cotton (center left), you will find it a convenient aid. Another foot comforter is massage. Use a cream that softens and smooths the skin. It should be non-greasy and rapidly absorbed into the skin so that you can hop into bed right after it is applied, without fear of soiling the linens. Work the cream over your feet and ankles, kneading as you go along (center right). If your nails are inclined to be brittle, strengthen them with a cream (right) designed for that purpose.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

How about your feet? Do you consider them a part of your body, or are they just too far away for you to bother with? Such things as a pedicure or routine health treatment may seem a waste of time and energy.

If you have been neglecting your feet, your whole physical system may suffer, as well as your general appearance.

There's practically nothing as painful or uncomfortable as feet that hurt. You've certainly experienced one or two occasions when the thought of taking another step seemed a fate worse than death.

Feet don't demand too much attention. They're tough and quite able to take you wherever you want to go.

It seems reasonable, under the circumstances, that a bit of daily pampering would go a long way in keeping them in good condition.

Since you have already put aside the time every evening for your regular beauty care, why not add fifteen or twenty minutes, so that you can include your feet in your beauty program?

is to soak your feet in a bowl filled with warm, soapy water. Use a low china or enamel bowl. Let your feet stay in the water for a few minutes. Sit back and relax. What a wonderful feeling!

Next, place a foot on the edge of the bowl, and clean under the nail tips with an orangewood stick. To keep your cuticle from catching in your stockings, or becoming infected, wrap a piece of cotton around the orangewood stick, and then apply and oil cuticle remover.

Work the cotton gently around the cuticle, pushing it back away from the nail. Start from the base of the nail at the center and work up and out. Wipe away any loosened cuticle with a towel or tissue.

It's no wonder your feet burn and ache after a day of normal activity. Increased in shoes, they are constantly striking the hard, unyielding surfaces of pavement and floor. In addition, they must carry your full weight, without help. That's why it is so imperative for you to massage them every night.

When you finish using your hand cream on your hands, arms and elbows, you can apply it to your feet as part of the massage. One such well-known cream is non-greasy and rapidly absorbs into the skin.

It softens and smooths the skin quickly, without leaving a trace of oil or moisture. No worry about ruining your bed clothes.

If you are ever troubled with brittle toe nails, you'll be happy to know there's a new cream available that will help to prevent these nails from splitting.

This cream also keeps the cuticle soft and pliable.

That's all there is to a night foot care ritual. If you follow it faithfully, you'll find standing on your own two feet a pleasure.

Warm Welcome Is Received By Pastor
BELLEVILLE, ILL.—(AP)—The Rev. S. I. Buchanan, new pastor of the First Baptist Church, figures a fire in the church is too much of a warm welcome.

A serious fire was averted by a passerby who noticed smoke coming from the building. Firemen put out the blaze that started in the coal bin.

Mr. Buchanan was installed as pastor the following year.

Stretch leftover ham by slicing it and adding it to a cream sauce with sliced hard-cooked eggs; serve squares of hot split cornbread.

Sit yourself down in the privacy of your bedroom, and practice several foot exercises. Your feet may seem to stiff for much movement in the beginning, but as you continue the exercises, they will become more relaxed and supple.

Spread and stretch your toes twenty times each foot. Try picking up marbles with your toes, or crumpling a newspaper. These simple exercises will relax and strengthen your feet.

The next step in your night care is to soak your feet in a bowl filled with warm, soapy water. Use a low china or enamel bowl. Let your feet stay in the water for a few minutes. Sit back and relax. What a wonderful feeling!

Next, place a foot on the edge of the bowl, and clean under the nail tips with an orangewood stick. To keep your cuticle from catching in your stockings, or becoming infected, wrap a piece of cotton around the orangewood stick, and then apply and oil cuticle remover.

Work the cotton gently around the cuticle, pushing it back away from the nail. Start from the base of the nail at the center and work up and out. Wipe away any loosened cuticle with a towel or tissue.

It's no wonder your feet burn and ache after a day of normal activity. Increased in shoes, they are constantly striking the hard, unyielding surfaces of pavement and floor. In addition, they must carry your full weight, without help. That's why it is so imperative for you to massage them every night.

When you finish using your hand cream on your hands, arms and elbows, you can apply it to your feet as part of the massage. One such well-known cream is non-greasy and rapidly absorbs into the skin.

It softens and smooths the skin quickly, without leaving a trace of oil or moisture. No worry about ruining your bed clothes.

If you are ever troubled with brittle toe nails, you'll be happy to know there's a new cream available that will help to prevent these nails from splitting.

This cream also keeps the cuticle soft and pliable.

That's all there is to a night foot care ritual. If you follow it faithfully, you'll find standing on your own two feet a pleasure.

'Blitz On Blazes' Is Set At Brownwood

BROWNFIELD—A blitz on blazes will be conducted here April 17 by a corps of expert "fire detectives" who hope to eliminate fire hazards in this community.

Every public and mercantile building in Brownfield will be inspected in a search for potential causes of fire. Trained inspectors from the Texas Insurance Fieldmen's Association, West Texas Division, will go the checking as a public service. The group, with headquarters in Lubbock, is composed of fieldmen representing capital stock fire insurance companies.

The inspection is sponsored by the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce. Other civic groups, including the Fire Department and the Boy Scouts, are helping with the inspection.

Bright red "Fix Me" tags will be pinned by the Boy Scouts on all fire hazards discovered. The inspections will be made by teams consisting of a fireman, two trained inspectors from the Fieldmen's Association and a Brownfield Boy Scout. Tenants will receive detailed reports on the hazards found, with suggestions on how to eliminate them.

Brownfield is the twenty-first city to be inspected by the Texas Insurance Fieldmen's Association. Other Texas cities checked in the last three years are Gatesville, Wichita Falls, Littlefield, Pharr, San Marcos, Hearne, Bryan, San Angelo, Eastland, Texarkana, Beeville, Lamesa, Comroe, Hillsboro, Longview, Taylor, Kerrville, Ennis, McKinney and Mexia. Other Texas communities will be inspected this Spring.

Dogs In Lakewood 'Take' To Mailman

LAKESWOOD, CALIF.—(AP)—That old saying about neither snow, nor rain, nor heat nor gloom of night staying the postman ought to have something in it about dogs, says Mervin Haworth.

The worst dog Haworth says, ran up to me barking and his owner said, "Don't pay any attention, he doesn't bite." About that time the mutt took two chunks of meat off the back of my leg, the mailman said.

★ THE DOCTOR SAYS ★

Stuttering Is Believed To Be Caused By Nervous Disorders

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Mr. A. writes: "I stutter, and sometimes it is very difficult for me to speak. I have tried to talk slower and think before I talk. Neither one seems to work, so I would like to know what you think I should do."

This reader is perhaps typical of the 1,300,000 others in the United States who are estimated to stutter. Nop, stuttering or stammering as it is sometimes called, is a real handicap, but one which most who are properly treated, learn to surmount. It is considered to be a nervous or emotional disorder. The exact cause is not known.

Probably, some children are born predisposed to the disorder; that is, they may be called a "stutterer-type." Stuttering is not inherited, but the nervous constitution which makes for susceptibility to this speech difficulty is probably inborn. Sex plays some obscure part, as there are almost five times as many boys who stutter as there are girls. Children of the "stutterer-type" may live for a long time without developing any speech defect, unless they have some shock or accident which upsets their nervous system. Then something happens which brings out the difficulty for the first time.

There are two stages in the development of stuttering. The chances of stopping the trouble are much greater in the first stage than before anxiety and feelings of inferiority have developed. A stuttering child should never be punished with a hope of breaking him of the habit. The youngster can't help it!

The treatment at this stage is principally to slow down the pace of living and remove as much excitement and tension as possible. Family quarrels, games or amusements which are too exciting, and similar stimulations should be avoided.

Strain Induces Stuttering
Left-handedness is probably not fundamentally related to stuttering. A left-handed child who is made to use his right instead of his left is being forced to do something contrary to what was intended by nature. This, of course, puts an added strain on the nervous system and in a child who is predisposed to stuttering might be serious enough to bring on the symptoms. A great deal has been learned about stuttering and its treatment in recent years. When treatment is begun early the results are often astonishingly good.

Many famous people have suffered from speech defects, including Moses, Aristotle, Virgil, Charles Lamb, and Clara Barton, the founder of the American Red Cross. Great accomplishments can, therefore, be made in spite of a speech defect of this sort.

Several medical schools or universities have speech clinics to help the stutterer and the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (11 South La Salle Street, Chicago) has taken an interest in the problem.

When chicken livers are bought the day before using, some cooks like to cover them with cold water before storing in the refrigerator.

Television Boosts Room Service Take

NEW YORK—(AP)—Room service revenue in one New York hotel doing mostly tourist business has hit an all-time high and television is given as the reason. "People from small towns are so impressed with the fine reception and programs which they can get on television sets in New York that they spend many more hours in their hotel rooms watching TV and ordering their food and beverages in," said Irwin Kramer, Hotel Edison head.
