

TRUMAN SAYS 'I WILL NOT RUN'

Statement Stuns Party Rally Crowd

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman announced Saturday night he will not be a candidate for re-election.

He electrified the annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at the National Guard Armory by declaring: "I shall not be a candidate for reelection."

A chorus of "Noes" broke out among the 5,000 Democratic politicians as the historic pronouncement was made.

It came as an off-the-cuff interpolation in his prepared address, which had contained no intimation of his intentions.

"I do not believe it is my duty to spend another term in the White House," the Chief Executive said. A second before that he had declared:

"I have served my country long and I believe honestly."

Thus the nation's thirty-third Chief Executive bowed himself out of the presidential picture seven years and 79 days after he entered the country's highest office on the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Although the announcement obviously took most of the diners by surprise, several cabinet members at the speakers table appeared unastonished.

Secretary of State Acheson didn't so much as blink at the announcement. [And Attorney General McGrath began shaking hands with well-wishers with no sign that Truman's announcement had surprised him.]

Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, who has been reported to be Truman's choice for the Democratic presidential nominee, was asked if the President's declaration made any change in the governor's position.

But the President had written the announcement in his own hand and included it in the leather-bound book in which he always puts his own personal copy of the speeches he makes.

Short would not say how long he himself had known of the President's intention, asserting that he is in a "very confidential relation" to the President.

Senator Kerr now playing for keeps

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma now is playing for keeps in the race for the Democratic nomination for President of the United States.

"I will make an announcement in Omaha at nine o'clock Monday morning," Kerr said Saturday night when queried concerning President Truman's announcement that he will not seek reelection.

"I am now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency," Kerr added.

No surprise to me, says Margaret

PORTLAND, ORE. (AP)—Margaret Truman, here for a singing concert, said Saturday night it was "no surprise" to her that her father will not be a candidate for reelection.

"I've known about it before and I learned this afternoon that he was going to make the announcement tonight," she said.

Front Street Project Work To Start Soon

Actual construction work on Midland's new Front Street super-highway may be launched within the next 30 days, according to plans announced by the State Highway Department.

Fred Wemple, a member of the Texas Highway Commission, said here Saturday the Front Street project will be included in the Highway Department's April contract letting and work is expected to begin soon thereafter. The successful contractor will be allowed 120 working days in which to complete the project.

Bids will be accepted by the State Highway Department in Austin until 9 a. m., April 16.

Commissioner Wemple said the alternate U. S. 80 route through the City of Midland will be a four-lane, paved highway extending from near the east city limits to the West city limits. The project will be financed by the State Highway Department.

Purchase of right-of-way for the highway widening and improvement project was handled and financed by the County of Midland. County Judge Clifford C. Keith said Saturday he expects to have all the right-of-way matters cleared up by the middle of this week.

The paving of the new highway route through the city follows the completion recently of the Front Street drainage program. That project also was financed by the county.

Underpass Next Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing said the contract letting for the proposed Big Spring Street underpass should follow within 60 to 90 days. Actual construction is contingent upon the (Continued on Page 10)

Telegraphers Talk Monday Night Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nation-wide strike of 31,000 Western Union Telegraph Company workers at midnight Monday was predicted Saturday by leaders of the AFL Commercial Telegraphers Union.

Strike ballots were being counted here, and Adolph Brungs, president of the Western Union division of the CTU, told a reporter:

"It certainly looks like a strike is ahead. We are getting a very heavy 'yes' vote."

Negotiations still were in progress, with J. R. Mandelbaum, U. S. Mediation Service commissioner, shuttling between the parties.

Despite Brungs' pessimistic report, J. E. Wilson, spokesman for the company negotiators, said the situation apparently has not changed since intensive bargaining began on Thursday.

The AFL union represents virtually all Western Union workers except those in metropolitan New York. The union is demanding wage increases, pensions and other benefits. The average earnings now are reported at about $1.65 an hour. The contract expires at midnight March 31.

Last-Minute Rush Due For Car Tags

A last-minute rush to purchase 1952 automobile license plates before the deadline is expected here Monday.

County Tax Assessor-Collector J. M. Speed was doing a brisk business Saturday morning and estimated the sale of tags had passed the 10,000 mark.

His office, he said, will remain open Monday as long as necessary until the deadline for purchase of the tags without penalty midnight Monday.

Showers Forecast In Eastern Texas, More Sand In West

By The Associated Press Strong southerly winds Sunday were expected to draw rain clouds inland from the Texas coast, producing scattered showers and thundershowers in East Texas.

The winds rushed inland Saturday night toward a low pressure system in the Central United States. However, no frontal system was expected to develop in the Southwest.

Scattered showers were forecast in East Texas with clearing skies and possible blowing sand in western portions of the state.

Saturday temperatures ranged from a high of 86 at Presidio to 62 in Del Rio. Light showers fell in Del Rio, Port Worth, Laredo and Victoria.

Ike Soon May Make Farewell Tour Of NATO Capital Cities

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED POWERS IN EUROPE (AP)—General Eisenhower may make a flying farewell tour in the next six weeks to the capitals of the United States' European Allies. Officers at SHAPE said Saturday, "It is a possibility."

Guessing here is that Eisenhower, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, will resign his supreme Allied command sometime in late May and return to the United States.

The tour probably would include visits to Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Britain, Portugal, Italy, Turkey and Greece. France, Denmark, Iceland, Canada and the United States round out the alliance.

If the general does plan to resign and go home in late May, he might use this last tour as a means of getting the approval of NATO governments for his replacement.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, the chief of staff most mentioned in speculation here on Eisenhower's successor, probably would go with him.

Gruenther Reluctant Gruenther returned to supreme headquarters Saturday from Washington after testifying before Sen-

The general has not been in some of the capitals of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization since he arrived in Europe more than a year ago to take over as commander.

On a trip early this month to Greece and Turkey, the newest NATO members, Eisenhower remarked in Athens, "I hope to come back in the Spring." He also is known to have promised government leaders in some other nations of the alliance he would visit them again.

ate and House committees on new foreign aid appropriations. Gruenther himself has been described as reluctant to take over the job if it is offered, and even has been quoted as saying either Britain's Field Marshal Lord Montgomery or French Gen. Alphonse Juin, both senior to him, would be better choices.

In the face of U. S. congressional insistence, however, there is little doubt the NATO nations will approve having an American succeed Eisenhower in command of the Allied military forces.

It appears a good guess that Eisenhower will start drafting his letter of resignation soon to allow time for President Truman's acceptance and the approval of the other 13 governments. The President made it clear two weeks ago that Eisenhower's resignation was for the general to decide and that he would comply with any request for relief the general may make.

Eisenhower told newsmen March 20 that the heavy primary votes he got in New Hampshire and Minnesota "are forcing me to re-examine" a previous decision to stay away from politics until after the Republican convention at Chicago in July.

He still hasn't said he would change his mind about not campaigning actively for the Republican nomination.

Dr. Painter Quits As TU President In Surprise Move

AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas began looking for a new president Saturday as the Board of Regents accepted the resignation of Dr. Theophilus S. Painter.

The small, bespectacled, 62-year-old scientist said he felt the time had come when he could relinquish the administrative reins without detriment to the school's progress, effective August 31.

Painter said operation of the university now is running smoothly, and Regent Chairman Dudley K. Woodward, Jr., of Dallas indicated he thinks the "academic tonnage" that swept the university from 1944 to 1946 has worn itself out.

But Painter's decision to quit at this time, came as a surprise, even to some of his closest associates.

Painter asked — and Chancellor James P. Hart recommended — that he be relieved of his $15,000-a-year post to return to his former teaching and research job as distinguished professor of sociology at $9,000 per nine-month school year.

Approving the request, the board praised Dr. Painter for "overcoming all obstacles" during almost eight "troubled and difficult years" to bring scholarship to the highest level in the university's history.

Four Prospects Mentioned Chancellor Hart said he would follow the routine procedure of asking the general faculty to elect a committee to recommend candidates for the presidency.

Individual regents said they had no immediate successor in mind. However, four prospects already were being mentioned: Dr. C. P. Boner, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and head of the Defense Research Laboratory; Vice President James C. Dolley; who (Continued on Page 10)

RED CROSS FUND STILL GROWING

Although the $16,000 goal of Midland's Red Cross finance campaign was oversubscribed Wednesday, contributions continue to dribble into Red Cross headquarters here.

Receipts Saturday totaled $16,353.7, Treasurer Murray Fashen announced.

Campaign Chairman R. L. Miller said additional contributions are appreciated and that they will enable the Midland County Red Cross Chapter to accomplish even greater results in its 1952 program. He said contributions still may be mailed to Red Cross, P. O. Box 1706, Midland.

"Thanks again to everyone who assisted in making our campaign such an outstanding success," he said.

Four Seek Single City Council Post In Tuesday Ballot

A lone City Council job held the spotlight Saturday as Midland voters prepared to go to the polls Tuesday in the city election.

The one vacancy around which interest has been centered is the Council Place No. 4, being sought by four candidates.

For the other Council Place, No. 5, the election will be only a matter of form for J. T. Baker, who is opposed in the election. He is vice president of The First National Bank.

Featured in the Place No. 4 race, however, are: L. M. Frels, restaurant operator. Ray O. Howard, owner of a printing and office supply company. Donald M. Oliver, geologist and independent oil operator. J. C. Williamson, geologist and independent oil operator.

The polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m., and for the first time, a city election will be conducted with four polling places instead of one.

City Secretary J. C. Hudman has designated the four balloting places as follows: PRECINCT 1—Fire sub-station at Edwards Street and Golf Course Road. PRECINCT 5—Fire substation at New Jersey and Baird Streets.

PRECINCT 6—Girl Scout Little House at 1100 West Washington Street.

PRECINCT 7—Midland Youth Center at 805 West Illinois Street. Wall Street and Big Spring Street are the dividing lines for the precincts, with the northeast area in Precinct 1, the southeast area in Precinct 5, the southwest area in Precinct 6 and the northwest area in Precinct 7. Heavy voting in Tuesday's election was indicated last week when Hudman reported 19 absentee ballots—possibly an all-time high here—had been cast.

Interest in the election picked up during the week as the candidates began intensifying their campaign (Continued on Page 10)

Relief Client Dragged Off Luxury Liner

NEW YORK (AP)—A man on relief was blocked from taking a tour of Scotland Saturday when an officer removed him from the liner Queen Mary in a near-riotous scene.

David Smith, 43, of Queens, was accused of defrauding the city by drawing relief checks 16 years—up to $266 a month for himself, his wife and three children—while having other financial sources.

Warrant Officer John A. Kennedy of the Long Island City Magistrate's Court was surrounded on Pier 90 by the wife, children and a number of Smith's friends, shouting and pushing, as he took Smith from the vessel shortly before it sailed.

Pier and city police restored order. Smith was held in $500 bail for a hearing Tuesday.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Tobin Saturday night predicted that no steel strike will take place April 8, and that steel production will continue uninterrupted until mid-1953, at least.

CAIRO, EGYPT (AP)—The British-Egyptian dispute appeared headed for possible solution Saturday night with reports in both Cairo and London that Britain may agree in principle to Egypt's demands on the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Claude Pepper, former Democratic senator from Florida, was taken ill Saturday night while attending the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner but apparently was not in serious condition.

Truck Kills Midland Man

A Midland resident identified as Richard Scott Morgan, 44, of 709 South Lorraine Street, was killed about 8:15 p. m. Saturday when hit by a truck just east of the city limits of Odessa on U. S. Highway 80.

Morgan suffered a fractured skull and broken leg. He was dead on arrival at the Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

Investigating state patrolmen identified the driver of the grocery delivery truck as Johnny C. Cromer, 28, Odessa negro. The truck is owned by the H. W. McClurg Grocery of Odessa.

Officers quoted Cromer as saying Morgan stepped out from behind a parked automobile. Morgan had parked his vehicle and was crossing the highway, the patrolmen theorized.

Cromer told the officers that he was going east at a speed of 35 miles an hour.

Morgan's body is at the Rik Funeral Home in Odessa. He was identified by the driver's license found in his automobile.

Odessa and Midland officers Saturday night were continuing efforts to locate relatives of Morgan, thought to be employed in the oil industry.

Presidential Straw Votes To Enliven Tuesday Elections In Four Texas Cities

By The Associated Press Presidential straw votes in four Texas cities and towns spark the municipal elections coming up Tuesday, April 1.

Waco, Liberty, Dayton and Kountze will hand out ballots for voters to show whom they favor for President. It's all unofficial. Newspapers are working with city and party officials in each town.

Dozens of Texas cities will hold their elections for mayor, aldermen, councilmen or commissioners on the first Tuesday in April, according to state law.

But very little, hoopla, hard campaigning or strife has cropped up. Waco city officials and the Waco News Tribune and Times Herald worked out the plan to take an unofficial tally of presidential preference there. Ten of the leading candidates for President in both parties will be on the unofficial ballots.

In Waco, too, both the Eisenhower and Kefauver clubs are carrying out a telephone, mail and personal contact program to get their candidates' supporters out Tuesday.

The election workers who count the official ballots also will tally the presidential straw vote.

The Southeast Texas oil and timber town of Kountze, population 2,000, is stirred up over its presidential vote. The weekly newspaper, The Kountze News, has printed a thousand ballots. Election officials are donating their services to tally them.

A group of citizens in Kountze started the straw vote plan right after Gov. Allan Shivers suggested that the people of Texas should have an opportunity to vote in a presidential preferential primary.

The names of candidates will appear on the Kountze ballot in alphabetical order: Eisenhower, Kefauver, Kerr, MacArthur, Russell, Stassen, Taft, Truman and Warren. A line at the bottom is for write-ins.

The Liberty Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the straw vote there. Ballots are being printed free by The Liberty Indicator. The names of Eisenhower, Taft, Warren, Kefauver, Kerr, Russell and Truman will be on the ballot there.

The same ballot will be used in Dayton, just six miles from Liberty.

The general state law sets biennial municipal elections for the first Tuesday in April, except for home rule cities, which may set their own date in their city charters.

House Budget-Cutters Hit Billion-Dollar Slash Mark

WASHINGTON—(P)—House budget-cutters passed the billion dollar mark last week in their drive to curb prospective federal spending in fiscal year 1953, which starts July 1.

Three departmental money bills passed the House during the week, and their combined total of 342 million dollars below the amounts President Truman had requested in his budget.

They are to finance the District of Columbia, cut $2,400,000; the Interior Department, trimmed $129,743,547; and the Labor Department-Federal Security Agency, chopped $200,167,893.

Previously the House had trimmed approximately $600 million from bills financing the Treasury Department, the Post Office Department and a score of independent federal agencies.

Awaiting action in the House this week are a bill to finance the State, Justice and Commerce Departments and the Federal Judiciary and another for the non-military programs of the Army Engineers. As recommended to the House by the Appropriations Committee, they call for a combined outlay of $1,562,427, or $373,400,000 less than the President sought. Barring an unexpected slowing down of the budget-cutting drive, they will be pared further by the House.

Still to be sent to the House by the Appropriations Committee are bills financing the Defense and Agriculture Departments and the foreign aid program. The defense bill alone is expected to be in the neighborhood of $6 billion dollars, and the President's foreign aid budget calls for $7,900,000,000.

Both the defense and the foreign aid measures are certain to be subjected to an assault by House members hoping to cut from five to 10 billions from the 1953 budget.

None of the appropriation bills has been considered by the Senate, but normally in the past that body has increased, rather than reduced, the amounts voted by the House. This leaves the final figures up to Senate-House conference committees.

Red Troops Chase Allies Off Hilltop

SEOUL, SUNDAY — (P)—Red troops supported by heavy artillery and mortar fire drove an Allied raiding party off a hill twice Saturday on the Western Korean front.

The Allied raiders moved out into the "no-man's land" west of Yonchon shortly after daylight and occupied the commanding height.

Three Communist squads forced the UN troops to withdraw after a sharp 10-minute skirmish. The Allies laid down an artillery barrage and regained the hill shortly after noon. But the Communists poured down such heavy artillery and mortar fire that the UN foot-sloggers again had to pull back.

Allied warplanes hammered Communist supply lines and front positions. Fog reduced the number of flights.

DALLAS —(P)—Pioneer Air Lines Saturday announced the purchase of nine two-engine Martin 202 airplanes to replace its fleet of 11 DC-3's.

Gen. Robert J. Smith, president of the airline, said the planes and necessary spare parts cost some $4,200,000. Smith said the DC-3's had been sold to an unnamed purchaser.

Air Force Vigorous In Denial That Base Cost Billion Dollars

WASHINGTON —(P)—The Air Force denied vigorously Saturday that a secret air base in Greenland would cost a billion dollars.

An Army colonel had given such an estimate to a Senate committee Friday.

Assistant Secretary of Air E. V. Huggins told a news conference "We want to deny any thought, contemplation or need of" the billion dollar expenditure and that such a figure was "completely apart from reality."

Huggins said in a prepared statement: "It is not the function of the Air Force to investigate and check proceedings of the Corps of Engineers (the Army Engineers which are in charge of actual construction at the base and its contractors).

"However, the best information available to the Air Force based upon continuing close contact with the Corps of Engineers, the construction agency for the Air Force, is that the base as originally planned will cost well under 200 million dollars. Even with a presently planned expansion program for the base to provide for the 126-wing Air Force, the overall cost of the Greenland construction project will be under 280 million dollars.

"All reports which the Air Force has received from its own personnel indicate that the construction has been of excellent quality and well carried out. The Air Force expenditures of funds must be authorized by Congress and the Air Force has no present plan calling for funds in any such amount as those referred to by Colonel Reed."

Americans Thwart Red Youth Attack On USIS Library

TEHRAN, IRAN —(P)—American staff members and Iranian soldiers Saturday thwarted an attempt by about 250 Communist-led youths to raid the U. S. Information Service Library.

The attempt apparently was aimed as a retaliation for the police closing of the nearby headquarters of the Organization for Democratic Youth, a Communist front, after bloody rioting Friday.

The youths first gathered in small groups around the three-story USIS Building and shouted insults at Americans entering. The staff members later noticed about 80 youths quietly had filtered inside. The staff quickly locked the building's iron gates.

Several truckloads of Iranian soldiers rushed to the scene and dispersed the mob. The American staffers, aided by U.S. Embassy Marine guards in civilian clothes, quietly persuaded the group inside to leave.

Taft, Kefauver Face Crucial Tests Tuesday In Wisconsin And Nebraska

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will learn Tuesday whether he is back on the up-grade in his battle against the absentee candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Ohio senator will get his answer from the voters of Wisconsin and Nebraska in primary elections that day calculated to give the Midwestern slant on the GOP contest. Voters from the same states also will take a long stride toward deciding whether Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is going into the Democratic National Convention of Chicago next July with so much strength he might be able to challenge a presidential veto on his candidacy.

Truman could shed some light on the chances of Kefauver and some other Democrats—including Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois—but he hasn't yet chosen to announce whether he plans to run again. Taft, wading up two weeks of intensive campaigning in Wisconsin, remained confident he will get from 22 to 24 of the state's 20 GOP nominating convention delegates.

But he could win that many, and possibly more, without being accorded more than a minor victory unless he gets half of the Republican votes cast in the state, or almost that number.

Such a showing would be classed by politicians as a "sweep" and would go a long way to restore the prestige that ebbed away from the Ohioan when he was defeated by more than 10,000 votes by Eisenhower in the New Hampshire primary and when Eisenhower rolled up 106,000 write-in votes in the Minnesota contest.

Voting in Wisconsin is on delegate slates under the names of the individual presidential candidates, with 10 delegates chosen in state-wide contests and 20 picked at the rate of two each in 10 districts.

There are five slates on the GOP ballot, backing Taft, Gov. Earl Warren of California, former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, Grant Ritter of Beloit, who is a "favorite son" running for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and Perry J. Stearns, Milwaukee attorney running for himself.

Eisenhower isn't entered, but Stassen has offered to share with him any Stassen delegates elected. Warren's delegate candidates have announced they will go to Eisenhower if the California governor gets out of the race.

Members of the Ritter slate insist MacArthur can be drafted despite his repeated statements he isn't a candidate and despite his advice to Wisconsin voters not to "waste" their ballots on him.

Courts MacArthur Vote

Although MacArthur has indicated he backs Taft, Ritter slate members have attacked Taft. Ignoring these attacks, the Ohioan has continued to say nice things about the general in campaign speeches here.

Roughly speaking the Taft and Ritter votes can be lumped as coming from the same general wing of the party. The Warren-Stassen vote, on the other hand, will be counted in part, at least, as support for Eisenhower.

In Tuesday's primary, Democrats can and probably will cross party lines—most of them apparently to vote either for Warren or Stassen as a stand-in for Eisenhower.

Despite all these conflicting factors, politicians will look at the results to see if the combined Taft-MacArthur vote tops the Warren-Stassen total and judge the outcome on that basis.

There can't be any substantial alibi for Taft if he fails to go over big in Tuesday's vote. He has the state Republican organization behind him, although Gov. Walter Kohler is reputed to be an Eisenhower backer. He has contended he is maintaining neutrality, although backers of Warren believe they have detected a leaning toward the Californian.

Wisconsin Key State

In New Hampshire Taft could claim the organization was for Eisenhower, but he has said Wisconsin is the "key" state in his campaign and the cards are stacked for him here.

In Nebraska, politicians will be able to read candidates. Whichever one tops the other will get the brass ring, despite the fact that Stassen's name is printed on the ballot in the preferential (preference) contest.

The outcome of this popularity poll isn't binding on the 18 GOP convention delegates to be elected the same day. Taft forces have been claiming a majority of these delegates.

Nebraska campaigning broke wide open the polite fiction that Democratic candidates were going to avoid slugging each other in their quest for convention delegates.

Kefauver, Kerr Scrap

Kefauver and Senator Kerr of Oklahoma, who has said he will step aside for President Truman if the latter runs, have been going at each other with hammer and tongs. Nebraska will provide 12 Democratic delegates.

Kefauver could offset a possible loss in Nebraska to Kerr to some extent by an expected victory over two slates of delegates running for Truman in Wisconsin. The situation is such here that the Tennessee senator has come to be regarded as a show-in in his campaign for 36 delegates.

A Kerr victory would make the Oklahoma a factor instead of merely a threat in the July Chicago convention. Such a victory also would puncture the prestige of Kefauver gathered in defeating Truman in New Hampshire.

A licking at the hands of Kefauver would just about put Kerr out of the running and would aim the Tennessee senator toward a position where he might be able to handle any presidential-backed candidate. As yet, however, Kefauver doesn't seem within striking distance of being able to prevent Truman from getting the nomination if the President wants it for himself.

Midland C-C Campaign Signs 65 Members For $1,850 Hike

The Midland Chamber of Commerce membership campaign, underway since last Wednesday, has resulted in 65 new members and a revenue increase of approximately $1,850 annually, Chairman Joe T. Dickerson announced Saturday.

He said reports have been received on only about half of the 300 prospect cards distributed at a meeting of volunteer workers last Tuesday. Workers are urged to file reports promptly at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Follow-up work continues in the campaign, and Manager Delbert Downing predicted Saturday the immediate goal of at least 100 new members will be reached before the drive is concluded. Letters have gone out to the headquarters offices of numerous firms requesting authorization to affiliate with the civic organization.

More than 50 business leaders are participating in the city-wide membership effort.

The commission's weekly report also showed eight gas wells completed to bring the year's total to 177. That's far behind last year's total to date of 247.

Drilling applications were far ahead of last year's with 5,153 compared with 4,233 last year.

The average calendar day allowable increased last week 16,183 barrels to 3,194,082.

It's Election Week

Midland this year established a record in poll tax payments.

The question now is, will Midland establish new records in voting?

The answer, of course, rests with the eligible voters—those citizens who were interested enough to take time out to pay their poll taxes or to obtain exemption certificates. And now that they have qualified themselves for voting, it is hoped these same citizens will flock to the polls as never before in each election scheduled in this important year of balloting.

Midland voters this week will have their first opportunity to use their brand-new 1951 poll tax receipts or certificates on not one but two occasions.

The first election is scheduled Tuesday when two city councilmen will be named for two-year terms. And then on Saturday, voters of the Midland Independent School District will select three trustees for three-year terms. Every qualified voter should express his opinion at the polls in both elections for the candidates of his choice.

All elections are important, but elections on the community level seem to merit even greater significance, due to the more personal interest of citizens in the affairs of their city and schools. It would appear, therefore, that previous voting records will be smashed in the forthcoming city and school elections. It is up to the individual voter.

Pre-election interest is at a high pitch, and absentee balloting has been heavier than usual. This would indicate citizens are interested sufficiently to establish new voting records.

Then, too, the City Council has made it more convenient for voters to cast their ballots by establishing four voting places instead of the one used in previous city elections.

Intensive "Get Out the Vote" campaigns are being conducted by the League of Women Voters, the Fundamentals of Citizenship Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and the JayCees.

Everything points to record voting in both elections. But again, it is up to the individual.

Let's all vote Tuesday and Saturday, and then hold on to our poll tax receipts so we again can use them in the other important 1952 elections.

Remember, Tuesday and Saturday are election days in Midland!

Vote as you please, but please vote!

This Baby-Sitting Deal Is Getting Out Of Hand

Government Slates 'Trial Run' Program On Movable Houses

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is trying to solve the defense housing shortage with homes which can be dismantled and whisked from city to city as needs change.

The Housing and Home Finance Agency Saturday announced the selection of seven types of mobile dwellings for a "trial run" program. They were picked from 36 designs submitted.

The homes being studied are two and three-bedroom units, the agency said, "designed for long-term use, utilizing a minimum of critical materials and adapted to speedy erection with limited manpower."

The houses submitted were required to be easily movable from one location to another "without substantial use of additional materials and with a limited amount of additional manpower."

"Initial production and installation cost was required to be no more than that of conventional fixed-to-site housing of comparable quality," the agency said.

Administrator Raymond M. Foley said his agency hopes to learn the latest and best ideas and systems for movable housing to serve defense areas where the need is temporary.

The death was the second of Exercise Long Horn, giant military maneuver being held there. A paratrooper was killed Tuesday when his chute failed to open.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
One of the most interesting hands from this year's Vanderbilt Cup Tournament was played by Edith Seligman, one of the leading tournament players of recent years. Both bidding and play were models of correct analysis.

Bridge hand diagram showing North (D) 29, West, East, South, and a table of cards and suits.

was necessary only to check for aces with the Blackwood Convention before bidding the small slam.

West opened a diamond, and Mrs. Seligman now had to plan the play. If she tried to set up her own hand in the dummy, she would have to get back a few times by ruffing clubs.

Hence, Mrs. Seligman won the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and immediately led the queen of clubs from dummy.

Having ruffed the club, declarer led a heart to dummy's ace and returned another club. This time East played the king, and Mrs. Seligman ruffed again.

Now it was easy to draw three rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and give up one club trick to West's ace. Dummy still had a trump as entry to the long club, and South still had the king of trumps to take care of dummy's low diamond.

Since his hand was played in a team match, it was played at another table. There, declarer planned for a cross-ruff but got confused by defensive false-cards and ended by going down one trick.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Combine Of Favorite Sons Can Foil Truman's Nomination Bid.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—In spite of New Hampshire, Kefauver, Russell and everything else, backers of President Truman for another term in the White House insist he still is in A-1 position to get the nomination—if he wants it. They argue:

Kefauver won the New Hampshire primary. So what? Senator Hubert Humphrey won the Minnesota Democratic primary. Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma will win in Nebraska. Senator Russell of Georgia will win in most of the Southern states. Other favorite sons may win in primaries in other states.

But none of them can win enough delegates to assure capture of the nomination. By playing off all these hopes against each other, Truman leaves himself as the "compromise" candidate behind whom they might have to unite.

The real threat to this theory would come if two or more of the favorite sons should unite forces in a deal to unseat the President.

Florida Promises Contest
The Russell-Kefauver fight for Florida's 34 delegates to the Democratic convention promises to be the most interesting primary in the South. The race is enlivened by Gov. Fuller Warren's row with Kefauver over his Senate crime investigations.

Florida's past political performances leave room for anything to happen, although Senator Russell has a big edge.

In the 1948 convention, Florida cast 19 votes for Russell, one for Truman. In 1944 the state's 14 delegates supported Senator Byrd of Virginia at the outset, then supported Roosevelt by acclamation.

In the three previous conventions the Florida delegation supported Roosevelt.

In 1928 Florida started out with 12 votes for McAdoo. In spite of the 103 ballots, Florida never gave more than three votes to the winner, Gov. Al Smith. That was the year that Florida broke out of the Democratic ranks and voted for Hoover, 144,000 to Smith's 101,000.

But in 1948 Florida was 281,000 for Truman, 194,000 for Dewey.

President Truman has made no political speaking dates for the Summer, and has announced no plans for a barnstorming tour across the country. Democratic headquarters nevertheless says it's straight dope that the President will take an active part in campaigning against both Democratic and Republican senators and congressmen who consistently have fought his "Fair Deal" program.

As far as Republican victims of this intended "purge" are concerned, they'll probably welcome Truman opposition in their states and districts as a sure boost for victory.

Concerning Georgia Senator Richard B. Russell's bachelor status as a presidential candidate, a New York reader corrects a recent statement in this column that James Buchanan was America's only unmarried President. Actually there was another—Grover Cleveland. He was a bachelor when elected President.

Today's Question: The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 6-3, Hearts K-J-6-3, Diamonds J-10, Clubs A-K-Q-8-4. What do you do?

Answer Monday

So They Say

I do say to you with all my conviction that the people of Hawaii are first-class; patriotic, sincere, God-fearing Americans.

Can I help it if I appeal to women? Seventeen-time husband Bruce Steels.

I am content to have people think I live in a cave and wear horns.

The past two weeks (at the NATO conference) have been a time of historic decision. They have brought us to the dawn of a new day in Europe.

The important thing to him. "Look," I said, "it was a pretty clumsy scheme. But I couldn't think of anything better."

Cravath's big jaw came forward suddenly. "It was good enough, Orth."

He said it composedly. But the last of the scales must have hurt, falling from his eyes.

Enough, though! I thought so too. So I didn't mention certain other of Harrison's findings. For instance, Dumont's association with some expensive friends in New York. The type you don't go after unless you're prepared to put a lot of dough on the line.

No sense dragging that out. But it explained why Dumont could have used 50 grand.

Not that I blamed him. Dolly, drunk and non compos, must have been a heavy millstone year after year.

I MIGHT have had to mention it, however, save for Eve Wheeler. She chose that gratifying moment to appear. In something woolen, and attractive, and suitable for autumn. She gave us a wave and started for a walk, with that graceful, indolent, free-swinging movement she had.

Right there Marston Cravath was subtle, like a bulldozer. "Excuse me," he said, and went.

I looked at Sally, the only girl who could ever matter to me. She didn't return the look. Her gorgeous eyes followed her uncle.

"Exit," she said, "what used to be the tons bachelor on Long Island." With that, she fluttered slim fingers after him. "Well, so long, darling."

Which got my goat. And also goaded me to speech.

"So long!" I said. "You've still got your uncle and you'll get a swell new aunt. But look at me! I got plenty of nuthin'."

She did look at me. Her best look. And, brother, that is something. "Oh, I'm no pig," she said, and, suddenly, her eyes went all hazel. "I'll share them with you. That's if you're planning to be around anywhere."

Well! Can you imagine how this particular private eye felt just about then.

Long Horn Personnel Takes Breather For New War Phase Beginning Tuesday

FORT HOOD — (AP) — Everybody taking part in Exercise Long Horn took a deep breath Saturday. Everybody needed it.

After one week of "battle" over 1,800 square miles of Central Texas ranch land, the 115,000 soldiers taking part in the biggest air-ground maneuver in U. S. military history are to use the "rest and regrouping" on tap before a new phase begins Tuesday.

The bullets may be blank in this mock war, but everything else is there, especially a boat-tired feeling after miles of marching, day and night, in rain, cold, and sun, through mud one day and choking dust the next.

Aggressor Air had its biggest day. It claimed it destroyed 158 tanks, 207 vehicles, wiped out 2,023 troops, destroyed 36 aircraft and damaged 66 others. It also dropped a simulated atom bomb, but where and against what sort of target was not revealed.

The aggressor force continued its pressure along the entire front, overrunning the command post of the 1st Armored in one hit and run drive, then withdrawing.

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Vice Chief of Staff Gen. John E. Hull and Lt. Gen. William Hoge, the maneuver director, have stressed the realism of the maneuver. After field trips, they said they think they have the action as real as it can be without bullets.

Both sides—the aggressor force of the 32nd Airborne Division and the U. S. forces, the 47th and 31st Infantry and the 1st Armored Divisions—are grimly serious.

Every trick of modern war has been employed, including simulated atomic artillery.

As an interesting aside, the 32nd and the 1st Armored apparently aim to prove in this maneuver just which is the better outfit.

The 32nd's "propaganda" leaflets, dropped Friday were aimed at the tankers.

"Snafu already," one was headed.

"Not enough food, not enough water, and not enough gas," it said.

"And you tankers of the 74th and 61st have just been committed."

"You won't be pulled out of the line for some time. How much of this will you have to take?"

Communications issued by the U. S. force are phrased in accepted military styles. Those from the "Aggressor" headquarters are slightly different.

Announces Overrunning

"Maj. Gen. Gustav Muller (exercise name for the 32nd's Maj. Gen. Charles D. W. Canham, commander of the North Texas battle area, announced Saturday the overrunning of elements of the inept 1st Armored Division," one stated.

It went on to detail how the "ill trained and poorly led soldier-slaves of the brutal Lt. Col. J. J. Davis' command were caught while still in their sleeping bags."

The aggressor forces had been on the attack all last week. The rough, tough paratroopers thoroughly enjoyed it, especially when they captured prisoners and could hold them "out of action."

Two fatalities added a grim touch of realism. One paratrooper was killed when his chute failed to open. A soldier was fatally injured when a vehicle backed over him as he slept in his pup tent.

But the maneuver has had its humorous sides. Like the "reliably reported" but unconfirmed fist fight between a group of aggressors and U. S. forces.

And the note that was supposed to have been in a coffee pot brought to the joint operation command of the U. S. forces: "You're dead. This is a bomb."

Or the troops that whined away the boredom of waiting for orders to move up by throwing rocks at each other.

Even the battles sometimes have a funny aftermath: Troops nonchalantly leaning on anti-tank guns while the umpires decide how many "kills" have been made.

Career Men Named To Head New York, Chicago Tax Offices

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Two career men, the first of 21 district tax commissioners who will be named under President Truman's plan to revamp the Internal Revenue Service, have been picked to head the New York and Chicago tax offices.

Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap said Friday night he has nominated Clarence R. Krigbaum for New York and Ernest C. Wright for Chicago. Both joined the Revenue Bureau as clerks in Washington, Krigbaum in 1919 and Wright in 1918, and rose through the ranks.

Under President Truman's reorganization plan, offered in the wake of tax scandals and approved by Congress, 31 district commissioners with Civil Service status replace 64 politically-appointed collectors.

Possible Pattern Seen

Eight collectors and about 150 lesser employees were ousted during disclosures of irregularities in the Revenue Service. Dunlap had indicated that most of the present collectors will be left out when reshuffling is completed, probably by next month.

Selection of Krigbaum and Wright, subject to Civil Service approval, was seen as a possible pattern for filling the 19 other district commissioner posts.

Krigbaum is a native of Hannibal, Mo. He served in revenue offices in San Antonio, Texas, and San Francisco and was agent-in-charge in New York in 1935.

Wright, born in Bismarck, N. D., would head a district embracing two collectors' areas in Illinois. He has been agent-in-charge at Chicago since 1938, held the same job previously in Springfield, Ill., and Wichita, Kan., and served in San Antonio, San Francisco and Cincinnati.

SAME OLD COON WITH NEW RING

KILGORE — (AP) — The Kilgore News Herald said Friday in a front page open letter that Senator Estes Kefauver appears "in full support of President Truman and his brand of creeping socialism."

"To put it plainly," the letter to Kefauver said, "a Kefauver administration would be the same old Fair Deal coon, with another ring around its tail."

The Tennessee senator has failed to answer two telegrams from Publisher Charles Deval asking his position on the Tideland issue now before Congress.

Cap Rock Co-Op Reviews Record Program In 1951

STANTON — The Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Inc., reviewed a year of record achievement at its annual membership meeting Saturday.

Report of Manager O. B. Bryan showed the cooperative built 205 miles of new lines serving 236 members in 1951. Since the first of January this year, the cooperative has completed approximately 150 miles of line serving 85 members. The irrigation district around Courtney has been rephased and connected to irrigation wells.

7,000 Officers, Men Will Participate In New Atom Exercises

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — (AP) — Seven thousand officers and enlisted men from all branches of the service will take part in forthcoming exercises at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada Proving Ground, the Department of Defense announced Saturday.

Tactical employment of weapons will be included in all phases of Army training, one phase of which will be simulated atomic warfare, the announcement said.

This marks a step forward over the tests of last fall in which, so far as known, troops acted only as observers.

In the new series, scheduled to start early in April, troops will prepare and occupy predetermined positions of safety before the blasts, and afterward will "attack an objective near ground zero." Ground zero is the point directly under the air burst.

The tests also are to indoctrinate units and individuals in the deployment of atomic weapons and physical protective measures.

The cooperative netted $28,450.40 in 1951, which is set up as capital credit to all members, Bryan said. This represents approximately 10 per cent, meaning that 10 cents out of every dollar paid for electric service by each member will be set up as capital credit, Bryan explained.

During 1951, the cooperative paid back money borrowed from the REA in the amount of $50,421.54. This was divided between $28,314.68 for principal and $22,106.86 in interest. To date, the cooperative has borrowed $1,890,000 from the REA for construction of the system, Bryan said.

The Cap Rock organization now has almost 1,400 miles of rural lines in the 10 counties of Martin, Howard, Midland, Glasscock, Reagan, Burden, Dawson, Andrews and Ector, serving 3,585 members. The average use during 1951 was approximately 185 kwh with an average bill of $6.25.

Directors Re-elected

All three district directors were re-elected Saturday. They are Mrs. Lee Castle of Valley View, District 4; Paul Adams of Knott, District 5; and D. W. McDonald of Midland, District 9.

Hundreds of members and their families attended the day-long session which featured the business session, special entertainment and an electrical equipment show.

The Rev. J. E. Harrell gave the invocation with Glenn Cantrell calling the meeting to order. Arah Phillips read the minutes of the last meeting.

Accused Officers To Fight For Trial In Home Bailiwick

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Attorneys for Sheriff Sully Montgomery and former Assistant District Attorney A. L. Wardlaw indicated Saturday they may make an issue of just where the two men go to trial.

The veteran county officials were named Friday in income tax evasion indictments returned by a federal grand jury. The cases are returnable May 5 in Dallas. They are free on bonds of $5,000 each.

But Attorney Clyde Mays doesn't see it that way—he contends they should go to trial in Fort Worth.

"We've had a law that requires a defendant in an income tax case to stand trial in the city where the district Internal Revenue collector has his headquarters."

"But Congress abolished the district's a few weeks ago and new ones haven't been established. As a result, we think Montgomery and Wardlaw have a right to stand trial here."

The interpretation of the statute governing such cases has been that the defendant will be tried where the offense occurs, which in the past has been Dallas, because that is the office in which the returns were filed.

Wardlaw Claims Refund

Mays, in outlining other points of his proposed defense, said he will contend Wardlaw, who handed the government $7,775 last week for back taxes, is due a refund from the government.

The attorney said Montgomery, denying that he evaded taxes, will send the government the $5,500 which the indictment charges he owes for 1948-49-50.

And both will maintain that "different interpretations of the law" and not attempts to cheat the government resulted in the variation of amounts paid and the amount the government says they owed.

Mays added that he planned, probably this week, to ask Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson to order U. S. Attorney Frank Potter to furnish itemized statements showing where he thinks Montgomery and Wardlaw got their money.

The federal grand jury which voted the indictments recessed shortly after the action and will re-convene Monday. Twenty-one Dallas law enforcement and investigative officers are slated to appear at that time.

Tulane Doctor Named Head Of University's Postgraduate School

AUSTIN — (AP) — Appointment of Dr. Roscoe L. Pullen to the deanship of the University of Texas Postgraduate Medical School was announced Friday by the university's Board of Regents.

He will succeed Acting Dean Dr. Mavis P. Kelsey of Houston, effective June 1. Dr. Pullen now is vice dean of Tulane University School of Medicine.

The postgraduate medical unit, newest in the University of Texas family, has headquarters in the Texas Medical Center, Houston. Divisions are at Houston, San Antonio, San Angelo and Temple.

Kerr Turns Down Kefauver Challenge

OMAHA — (AP) — (Senator Kefauver of Tennessee challenged Senator Kerr of Oklahoma Saturday to a winner-take-all battle for Democratic National Convention delegates in next Tuesday's primary election.

Kefauver said he would be "willing and happy"—if Kerr agrees—to have the presidential "popularity" contest be decisive in determining for whom Nebraska's 12 Democratic delegates will vote in the presidential nominating convention.

Kerr promptly turned the proposal down. He said delegates to the national convention are "free to make their own decisions."

In a statement made to reporters in Salt Lake City, where he went to address a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner, Kerr said of Kefauver's proposal:

"The Senator must think the delegates are robots or slaves to be harassed. They are neither. Under Nebraska law the delegates are not chattels who become property of either candidate. They are masters of their own decisions and actions. They are not mine to give nor his to take."

"I am confident I will win Tuesday but that does not give me title to the delegates. I would not outrage their personal dignity by trying to claim them like prizes in a bingo game, nor would I insult their intelligence by trying to force anybody who favored me to vote for someone I could not recommend."

Political Weathering

This development came as presidential candidates and their backers in both parties struggled to make Nebraska's primary a political weather-vane for the Middle West.

But the fight in Republican and Democratic ranks is so intense there have been none who will make a bold and unqualified advance claim of victory. Each group concedes it's a touch-and-go battle for votes.

Kefauver issued his challenge at Grand Island during a vote-getting swing into middle Nebraska. He cites a 1912 State Supreme Court decision which held that the results of a preferential (popularity) election are morally binding on delegates to a national convention.

Then he said: "I'm willing and happy to suggest to the (delegate) nominees that they follow the will of the people. I would recommend that they do so if Senator Kerr will join such a recommendation."

"People expect this statute means something. If Senator Kerr will let it be decisive, I certainly will join him."

Record Number Of Tax Cases Cited

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Justice Department Saturday reported a record number of criminal prosecutions was started in income tax evasion cases during the last four and a half months.

In a formal statement, the department said that between last November 1 and March 15, its tax division sent some 450 such cases to U. S. district attorneys over the country for presentation to grand juries.

This was said to be twice the number of prosecutions started in any comparable period over the last 10 years. The total compares with 178 presentations to grand juries in the same period a year previously and 198 in that period of 1949-50.

The federal gasoline tax of one and one-half cents per gallon now costs the taxpayers of the United States more each year than the total tax receipts of the national government from all sources 35 years ago.

Before he came to Wichita Falls in 1907, he worked on the Fort Worth Star Telegram, the San Angelo Daily News and the Fort Worth Record.

Survivors include the widow, three daughters and three sons.

New Device Kills Radio Jamming

WASHINGTON — (AP) — "Voice of America" radio stations overseas are using a new electronic weapon to combat Soviet jamming.

The State Department said Saturday the new device, known as a heterodyne filter, has proved effective in filtering out certain types of jamming and other interference.

In a recent test in one relay base, the filter proved effective against 52 per cent of the interference, the department said, and in another test it saved or improved program reception 60 per cent of the time.

The filter, inexpensive and small in size, is to be installed on all "voice" transmitters overseas. It was developed by engineers of the State Department radio.

Three Teams Hit Olympic Semi-Finals

By The Associated Press

Peoria's (H) Caterpillars and Phillips Oilers from Bartlesville, Okla., finalists in the AAU championship and LaSalle's Cinderella Explorers, winner of the National Invitation Tournament, qualified Saturday night for the semi-final round of the Olympic basketball trials.

Peoria, winner of the AAU title, came from behind with a fourth period rally to down the U. S. Air Force from Tinker Field, Okla., 71-67 at New York's Madison Square Garden. The Oilers were carried into the second overtime period at Kansas City before defeating the Hollywood Fibber McGee and Molly five 50-48 on Wayne Glasgow's long push shot in the last two seconds.

Lasalle, conqueror of St. John's of Brooklyn in the NIT, repeated the triumph, this time 71-62 at the Garden.

In Monday's semi-final round at Madison Square Garden, Peoria and the Oilers will put on a repeat performance of their AAU final, and LaSalle will clash with the winner of the Kansas-Springfield (Mo) state game, Kansas and Springfield met in the second game at Kansas City Friday night.

Howie Williams, former Purdue University star who sat out the first half with a knee injury, proved the deciding factor in the close, hard-fought Peoria joust.

The six-foot-four Peoria guard rifled three long set shots through the hoop during the Caterpillars' fourth period spurt and clinched the game in the fading seconds with a driving layup.

Midland Wins Third Spot In Golf Tourney

ODESSA.—Amarillo's Sandies came from three strokes back Saturday to beat Odessa's Bronchos by one stroke in winning the team title in the West Texas Relays High School Golf Tourney.

Odessa's Arlyn Scott was the tournament medalist with a 73-74-147. Midland's Raymond Leggett was runner-up with 79-74-153.

Washington Defeats Farmhands, 1 To 0

ORLANDO, Fla. — Cass Michaels' single to right scored Frank Campos from second base with none out in the ninth inning Saturday to give Washington a 1-0 victory over their Chattanooga Farmhands.

Campos walked to start the winning rally and shifted to second on Pete Runnels' single to left before Michaels broke up the game and ended the Lookouts' strike of seven wins.

Washington obtained only five hits off Bob Mitchell and Sal Federico, but Don Johnson, Gerald Lane and Julio Moreng limited Chattanooga to three hits. Johnson was forced to retire in the third inning because of a pulled leg muscle.

During the Mississippi-Kentucky football game there were 46 passes thrown by both teams. Twenty-five were caught. None was intercepted.

Outfield Peg Cuts Off Rally

NEW IBERIA, LA. — Midland's Indians choked off a threatening rally in the last of the ninth here Saturday night to squeeze out a 5 to 4 victory over the New Iberia Pelicans.

Ahead, 5-2, going into the last inning, Pitcher Dave McKenzie allowed a double, a triple and another double to let in two runs. But an outfield peg from Roxie Humberston to Third Baseman Woody Pennington brought the third out as the runner tried to stretch an extra base. Midland scored two in the first inning with Humberston getting on by error, Stan Wilcox tripping him home and Hayden White doubling Wilcox in.

Odessa Wins WTR; Midland Is Third

ODESSA.—The swift Odessa Bronchos swept to the tournament title of the West Texas Relays here Saturday in the High School division of a 27-team entry, tying one record and setting three others along the way.

Odessa scored a total of 56 1/3 points to outdistance the second place Amarillo Sandies, last year's champions, who could only muster 21 1/3 points.

A surprising 12-man Midland team scored 14 points, which was good enough for third place.

Texas walked off with the university division title scoring 40 1/2 points while second-place Southern Methodist could count only 19 for the afternoon.

In the college division, the battle between Howard Payne and Abilene Christian College went down to the final three relay events before Howard Payne copped the title with 36 1/2 points to 29 for Abilene Christian.

Midland's place in the tournament was in doubt until the last event, the mile relay, when speedster Roy Kimsley thrilled the spectators by overtaking the other runners to breeze in first.

This same relay team placed third in a preliminary heat Friday behind Odessa and Amarillo.

Four new records were set, three by Odessa, and one tied, also by Odessa. Billy Huddleston of Iraan broke his own record in the 120-yard hurdles by breezing home in 0:15. flat. The old record was 0:15.2.

BLAKE DUNCAN CO. Midland, Texas

LUTCHER, LA.—Sports writers are notoriously brave fellows when it comes to predicting great things for someone else or putting an athlete or group of athletes "on the spot."

So we'd like to say right now we are entirely aware what we say probably will be taken with a grain of salt since the man-in-the-street knows the scribe's weakness for glowing phrases about nondescript athletes.

Nevertheless, I, Larry King, being of reasonably sound mind and body and knowing full well the caution which has been advised to us by Manager Zaké Bonura and Business Manager Horace Busby, do hereby predict that Midland will have one of the strongest Longhorn teams of all time during the 1952 season.

This isn't a press agent's dream, an opium dream nor does it stem from the bitter dregs of beverage.

We've seen the Indians for several days now. We know the plans which are coming up and we've watched the club's operation from the rawest rookie pitcher to the very top-level men.

And we think it's gonna be a great year. We say this after watching Midland make nine errors and take a 9 to 1 beating from Atlanta of the Southern Association, after seeing the Tribe defeat Class C Houma, La., 13 to 2, and after viewing a Class C team or two in this area and recalling past Longhorn League campaigns.

Now, we insist, Midland-fans are in for a few pleasant surprises about this team.

In case the doubting Thomases want a few facts and figures about the club we'll supply same and tell you why we think the team is destined for great things.

The main factor is pitching, an important item in minor league baseball. Such hurlers as Eddie Jacobs, Bruce Blumenthal, Keith Nicolls and Israel Ten look like money-in-the-bank. Our current choice for the fifth slot is Dave McKenzie and the necessary rookie could be Mike de la Torre.

Understand, however, these are strictly our own opinions and sentiments and not necessarily those of the management.

In the outfield, we would pick centerfielder Rexie Humberson and rightfielder Hayden White—both long ball hitters—as the top choices, with Rudy Eeohar and Dick Cassidy having the edge in left field.

If Cassidy can get more wood on the old horsehide than he's our boy. This kid is a pepper-pot.

The crying need currently is for a shortstop and first baseman.

Actually, the situation isn't desperate but there is a need for a couple of top boys at these slots. Julio de la Torre, a fine third sacker, just isn't a topflight shortstop. The Santiago is plenty fancy with the glove, but he's too slight to do much damage with the stick. Too, he's handicapped by the fact he speaks no English and is "dead" to signals from Bonura on sudden plays.

But at second base, Bill Crumley still is as magnificent with the glove as ever, even though his stick doesn't carry too much authority.

Infielder Bobby Gordon is yet unproved and may or may not be ready for this team yet.

Catchers? Gordon Tegner, who tolled well for the Indians in 1951, still is around and will do some first base duties. Ed Menapace and Bill Brown will fight for the other berth.

This is no wonder team. It will never beat the Yankees or Giants and perhaps it could go sour. But right now, we'd like to have our money on the Indians for the 1952 bunting, even-steven.

The Permian Basin Softball League will hold a meeting at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Russell Glenn Distributing Company office in Odessa, according to an announcement by Walt Roeber, secretary of the league.

Roeber requested that representatives of all interested teams attend the meeting since he wants as many as possible to enter the league.

Officers for the 1952 season also will be elected at the meeting. Midland did not have a team entered in the league last year.

Castellani Scores Unanimous Decision Over Johnny Bratton

NEW YORK.—(AP)—"It Ain't Necessarily So," sang happy Rocky Castellani Saturday as he celebrated a no-knockdown victory over heavy-hitting Johnny Bratton.

The 33-year-old ex-Marine from Luzerne, Pa., surprised Bratton and the 5,918 paying customers in Madison Square Garden Friday night by staying on his feet all the way to win a unanimous and decisive 10-round victory over the former NBA welterweight king. It was close, though. Rocky was staggered three times.

Now Rocky wants to give his push-button chin a sterner test against former middleweight champion Randy Turpin in England April 22.

"We made an arrangement with Jack Solomons (the London promoter) for a fight with Turpin on the twenty-second, providing Rocky whipped Bratton," said Manager Tex Sullivan. "If Solomons holds to the terms we're ready to go over whenever he says."

Childress Will Coach Memphis High Team

MEMPHIS, TEXAS.—(AP)—George F. Childress, former high school principal, is the new head football coach of Memphis High School.

He succeeds John Hansard, who resigned. Supt. W. C. Davis said Friday Hansard has had several good offers from other schools.

Shreveport Nine Wins

MONROE, LA.—(AP)—Shreveport of the Texas League downed Little Rock of the Southern Association, 9-2, here Friday night in an exhibition baseball game.

Site of Maxwell, 'Babe' Golf Match Undetermined

ODESSA.—(AP)—An official of the Odessa Country Club said Friday the proposed charity golf exhibition between Billy Maxwell and Babe Zaharias will be played either at Odessa or Denton.

Bill Breden, tournament chairman at the Odessa club, made the announcement after he talked by long distance phone with Fred Corcoran, director of the Women's Professional Golf Association.

"If the match is staged prior to June 1, it will be in Denton," Breden said, "after that date, Odessa will be the site."

Odessa cannot stage the match before June 1 because the course is being improved with the installation of five new greens. Odessa is the home of Maxwell, current national amateur champion, while he attends North Texas State College at Denton.

Breden said he was confident Odessa would get the match because he believed Maxwell and Mrs. Zaharias could not arrange to play before June 1.

If played at Odessa, the proceeds of the exhibition probably will go to the March of Dimes.

Hal White has pitched for the Detroit Tigers for 10 years, including his two year stint in the service, and has won only 39 games during that time.

Bob Garbrecht of New York is the only non-Texan on the Rice football roster with the exception of border resident Buddy Edwards of Texarkana, Ark.

Turnesa Denies Fem Golfers Equal Men

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—(AP)—Willie Turnesa, captain of the United States Walker Cup team, took exception Saturday to a recent statement that the current crop of feminine golfers can match shots with the best of the nation's male amateurs.

The statement was made by Fred Corcoran, director of the women's PGA. He suggested a match between Babe Didrikson Zaharias and U. S. amateur champion Bill Maxwell of Odessa, Texas. That match has been made and will be played in the near future, probably in Texas.

Corcoran said the "big four" of women's golf—The Babe, Patty Berg, Louise Suggs and Betty Jameson—are capable of gaining the quarter-finals of the men's amateur championship and might even win the title.

All of which caused Turnesa to say with emphasis:

"I'm not taking anything away from such fine distaff players as The Babe, Patty Berg and Louise Suggs, but they're only good as far as women go. When Corcoran makes a statement such as this, I think he's just whistling in the dark."

"In fact, I doubt very much if any of his girls could even qualify for the national amateur, let alone get to the quarter-finals."

The former American and British amateur champion also had a word or two to say about the Zaharias-Maxwell match.

"If the match is ever played," Willie said, "I don't think The Babe has a chance of beating Maxwell. I've never seen Maxwell play but he's the national amateur champ and that's good enough for me."

"If the match is played on a regulation course (no pitch and putt variety) and over 36 holes Maxwell will win in a walk."

Gophers Go Down, 8-2

HUNTSVILLE.—(AP)—Sam Houston staged a 10-hit attack in downing Minnesota, 8-2, here Friday night in a baseball game. Jackie Carroll led the batting with two doubles and a single.

Texas Tech Tries SWC Door; Midlander Draws Resolution

DALLAS — (AP) — Texas Tech will make another bid for a place in the Southwest Conference in May and it has at least one member school backing it.

Howard Grubbs, conference executive secretary, said Saturday that Tech's application for admittance had been placed on the agenda for May 9 and 10 when the conference faculty committee holds its Spring meeting.

The announcement followed action by the University of Texas Board of Regents in backing Tech's bid. At Austin the regents Saturday approved a resolution directing the university's representative to favor Tech's admission "consistent with efficient and orderly operation of the Southwest Conference."

Tech, a member of the Border Conference, has wanted in the Southwest Conference for years. In 1948, when it came to vote, the bid was turned down by the faculty committee which also barred any school making application for admittance for a period of three years.

Tech was placed on the agenda after J. William Davis, faculty chairman of athletics, wrote Dr. J. D. Bragg of Baylor, the conference president, saying Tech was interested in becoming affiliated with the conference and asking for an audience. Dr. Bragg instructed Grubbs to place the matter on the agenda.

Reasons for admitting Tech have not been officially announced but it is known that present conference members have looked with disfavor on it because they think the conference already is large enough, that there already are too many "crucial" football games on the schedule with each member playing all other members—six conference games.

Another reason is that the conference members do not think Tech can compete in the overall athletic program; this taking in all sports, not just football in which Tech usually makes a respectable showing. For instance, last year Tech beat Texas Christian, the conference champion.

Still another reason has been the financial angle—Tech has a small stadium and might not draw well enough. While Tech's stadium is larger than Arkansas' and almost as large as Texas A&M's, one official said "We already have two members that can't draw well enough and we wouldn't want to add another."

Tom Sealy of Midland presented the resolution to the University of Texas Board of Regents backing Tech's bid. Regent Sealy said: "As everybody knows we've had a loud clamor and din out on the prairies of West Texas saying 'open the door, Richard' to Tech in the Southwest Conference. It looks like we're going to have to stop playing them and getting whipped or ask them in."

RETIREES—Little Warren Mehrtens has closed the book on a brilliant riding career with a parting salute to King Ranch's one-time champion, Assault, Mehrtens, who rode the gimpy-legged, Texas-bred horse to turf glory and the triple crown in 1946, announced he has decided to retire as a jockey and accept a position with the Identification Bureau of the New York Racing Commission. With Mehrtens, center, are two of his racing buddies Johnny Longden, left, and Eddie Arcaro.

Sprinters, High Jumpers In TU Relays Spotlight

AUSTIN — (AP) — Sprinters and high jumpers are expected to hold the spotlight here Friday and Saturday at the Silver Anniversary Texas Relays.

Referee for the big track carnival will be one of its co-founders, L. Theo Belmont, who with track coach Clyde Littlefield first started the relays in 1925.

One of the strongest sprint fields in recent years comes to Austin this week and appropriately enough this year's relays are dedicated to one of the greatest gallopers of sprinters ever to perform in the meet. These men, who raced Texas to sprint supremacy in the mid-thirties, are Harvey (Chink) Wallender, Beverly Rockhold, Charles Grunstein, Jeff Austin and H. V. Reeves.

The sprint stars on hand for the twenty-fifth anniversary include 1931 century champion Hayden Fields of Howard Payne, Ray Henfro of North Texas, Thane Baker of Kansas State, one of the top sprint aces in the Midwest, and Texas' Charley Thomas and Dean Smith. Thomas and Smith, Coach Littlefield's top hopes for Olympic berths, have dominated every meet they have entered both last year as freshmen and this year as sophomores.

Form Half Of Foursome
Smith and Thomas form half of a sprint relay foursome which has been clocked in 41.4 already this year without being pushed. With a strong Oklahoma quartet providing competition a very fast mark is almost certain.

Three of the six high jumpers who have set the top marks in the world the last two years are due to perform in the Memorial Stadium pit where four of the marks were born.

The Texas Relays record-holder and the man who was co-holder of the record before him head the list of returnees. Texas A&M's versatile Buddy Davis, who set the existing mark of 6-9 last year, and Jack Razeto, member of the U. S. Navy Olympic team, who had shared the title the year previous with a record-breaking 6-8 1/4 leap are back at the scene of their triumphs. Razeto was competing for San Diego in 1950.

The third top high jumper is East Texas State's Charles Holding who soared 6 feet 9 3/4 inches in Fort Worth last year for the best height recorded in the last two years.

Holding No Stranger
Holding is no stranger to Memorial Stadium, having begun his collegiate career here before transferring to East Texas. In 1948 he won the high school title at the relays then came back to take the state Class AA schoolboy championship.

While the dashes and high jump seem to have drawn the strongest fields, other events will have outstanding performers. Texas A&M's fine weightman Darrow Hooper, who followed triumphs in the Texas Relays, Drake Relays, Kansas Relays and Southwest Conference meet last year with a victory in the shotput at the NCAA meet, leads the shot and discus tossers.

Oklahoma brings a mile relay team which posted a 1,600 meter relay victory in the Sugar Bowl Invitational meet, and North Texas in the College Division brings a widely-heralded sprint relay team.

SMU's Val Joe Walker returns to defend his high hurdles title with Texas' Willie Valls who beat him at Laredo, on hand for opposition.

Kansas sends a pair of star distance men in Wes Santee and Herb Semper.

UNMASKED—Gil Hodges removes the heavy tools and looks in the direction of first base after experimenting behind the plate during Spring training at Vero Beach, Fla. Manager Charley Dressen seriously considered switching the large Dodger first baseman to catcher to spell Roy Campanella. (NEA)

Nine Texas League Umpires To Return

DALLAS — (AP) — Nine hold-overs will be in the staff of 12 umpires for the Texas League this season.

The nine returnees range in experience from four seasons to 16, with Milt Steengrafe the top veteran. Umpires back from last year are K. P. Arceneaux, Frank L. (Buster) Capps, Ed Cassini, Bill Malesky, Cy Simon, Bob Smith, Mike Williamson, Bill Wilson and Steengrafe.

New men added to the staff are Kermit Cran and Leonard Roberts from the West Texas-New Mexico League, and Bud Newman from the Eastern League.

Cards Nip Bums, 1-0

MIAMI, FLA. — (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals ended Brooklyn's four-game winning streak with a sleek 1-0 victory behind the sharp pitching of Gerry Staley and Eddie Yuhas Saturday.

The game, twice held up by rain, was decided in the first inning when Manager Eddie Stanky walked and Stan Musial and Wally Westlake singled. Chris Van Cuyk, the victim of the lone run, allowed six hits in seven innings. Clyde King allowed two hits and walked as many in two innings.

Staley allowed four hits in five innings and Yuhas three in four.

Red Sox Blast Yank Pitching; Win, 8-5

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. — (AP) — The impressive Spring records of New York Yankee righthanders Tom Morgan and Tom Gorman were blemished Saturday as the Boston Red Sox blasted 16 hits and crushed the World Champions, 8-5.

Johnny Pesky led the onslaught with three hits and Ted Williams socked his third exhibition homer. Morgan, who had allowed only five safeties and one run in fourteen previous innings, was blistered in the opening frame for three tallies, two of which came on Walt Dropp's single.

Williams slammed his 400-footer over the right field fence in the third and the Sox picked up two more tallies in the fourth on four hits.

Gorman, best looking New York right-handed rookie, was belted for eight hits in the final three innings and gave up the final pair of Boston markers in the seventh as Pesky, Williams and rookies Jim Piersall and Dick Gernert lined successive singles.

Southpaw Mel Parnell started for Boston and was hit hard in his four-frame stint. Ray Scarborough, veteran righthander, took over in the fifth and quelled the Bomber pretensions of the two states.

Williams Suspended By Athletic Panel

CHICAGO — (AP) — Ike Williams, former lightweight champion who was beaten by Chuck Davey Wednesday night, was suspended for six weeks Friday by the Illinois State Athletic Commission.

The commission said Williams needed the time to recuperate from the fifth round technical knockout in the Davey bout.

The suspension will apply in New York as well as Illinois because of a recent agreement between commissions of the two states.

Osage Tribe Wants U. S. To Keep Hand In Affairs

By KEITH R. KING PAWUHUSKA, OKLA.—(AP)—Oklahoma's Osage Indians want the federal government to keep its hand on the rich oil business that made them the world's wealthiest people per capita. Their leaders have asked Congress to exclude the tribe from a resolution sponsored by Rep. Boone (D-Utah) to restore to various Indian nations the management of their own affairs. In the case of the Osages, such a step would mean an end to Indian Bureau supervision of their multimillion dollar oil and gas lease and royalty holdings. The tribe, whose wealth has been shared among its members almost half a century, probably would have to form a corporation rivaling in size some major oil companies. And this, the tribal council fears, would expose their interests to graft and mismanagement. Councilman George Labadie, Sr., emphasizes his people are not fighting the resolution—they merely want to be left out of it. He points out the Osages have paid the expense of their own tribal agency many years, and he declares administration of their affairs hasn't cost taxpayers anything. Furthermore, Labadie contends, Congress did not give the tribe its wealth. It was purchased, he says, and Congress has extended three times the tribe's common ownership of the minerals. The last extension expires in 1963. "We will not be able to get all the oil and gas out of the ground by that time," Labadie adds. He estimates oil known to underlie Osage lands at more than 600,000,000 barrels, almost as much as has been recovered from the fields to date. Labadie puts Osage oil output at two per cent of all United States production since discovery in 1859 of the Drake well in Pennsylvania. Osages share their income by headrights, each of which is one-half, 229th of their mineral rights earnings. In 1906 the tribe asked the government to hold these rights in common for them, and a census placed 2,299 men and women on its rolls as members. There are exactly that many headrights today, although births and deaths have made unequal the individual tribesmen's incomes. Headrights or their fractions are passed on by inheritance. That there have been few large Osage families is shown by current tribal rolls listing 2,562 members, 333 more than in 1906. First quarter headright payments this year were $390 each. The largest was slightly more than $4,000 to the holder of 10.778 headrights, the smallest 68 cents for .00176 headright. Osages had some income from mineral holdings soon after the headrights were established, but the Burbank oil field boom in 1920 made them rich. For the next six years each headright paid an average of $10,000 annually. Labadie believes his tribe is on the verge of another prosperous era. He thinks water-flooding and acidizing of oil wells will boost its income, now about $4,000,000 yearly compared with a one-time peak of $55,000,000.

Steel Outlook Bright For Petroleum Industry; DPA Approves Expansion Plan

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON — The oil and gas industry's outlook for steel supplies took on a brighter hue this week with the Defense Production Administration's approval of a 18-month expansion program for the industry.

The program, drawn up by the Petroleum Administration for Defense, calls for 90,128 test wells between July 1, 1952, and Dec. 31, 1953, plus 23,500 additional miles of pipelines, and other improvements.

TIPRO Members Request Removal Of Most Controls

FORT WORTH — The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association asked Friday that price ceilings be removed from all goods not in short supply.

TIPRO members ended their sixth annual convention Friday.

They said price controls would permit prices of products to be determined by the purchaser under the supply and demand process.

The group's decentral resolution said that on the effective date of price control, oil and gas were selling at below parity and are now selling at about 25 per cent below parity. It also said gas and oil had not been in short supply throughout all the control period.

W. B. Smith, chairman of Midland executive vice president and general manager of Elkhart Oil Company, was named as a new member of the executive committee of the association at the Friday meeting.

Air-Conditioning Unit For Oil Field Engines Has Been Developed

The development of an air-conditioning unit for oil well drilling engines which cuts the cost of operation and increases the efficiency of those machines has been reported.

The announcement of the unit is being made after it has undergone six months of actual work on a rotary drilling rig in the Spraberry Trend region.

The showings already made have caused several drilling contractors in the Permian Basin to install the new apparatus in an effort to improve their hole-digging work.

Development In This Area

The oil well drilling engine air-conditioner is called, "Airefiner." It has been developed in this area during the last 18 months by The Airefiner Corporation of Mobile and Wager, Ala.

C. S. Bauman, vice president of the corporation and an air-conditioning engineer designed the unit and has directed the experimental work and testing which has been done on it. Bauman has spent most of his time since late in 1950 in this region working on the project.

A six-month test has just been completed of an "Airefiner" unit on a drilling rig operated by Kerr-McGee Oil Industries, Inc. in the Spraberry region adjacent to Midland.

Records Show Results

Records of the engines used on that rig before the air-conditioning unit was installed and after it was put in use show that it eliminated practically all of the dust, dirt and other foreign matter which had been going into the engines through the carburetor air intake.

The air which was drawn into the engines through the "Airefiner" was cooled and humidified and the men who watched the engine and kept the records say the unit proved its value during the six-month period it was tested on the Kerr-McGee rotary rig.

It is understood that the unit which has been used in the Kerr-McGee tests will remain on the rig where it has been working and it is also understood that the concern will probably install similar units on more of its rigs.

Bauman reports that Lomax Brothers Drilling Company and Southwestern Drilling Company are also installing the "Airefiners" on some of their rotary rigs.

He says that manufacture of the units on a large scale basis is to be started at once and he expects to be able to supply all orders for them in the near future.

Ralph Cramer of Odessa, who is operating as a manufacturers' agent for oil field specialties, is to be factory representative for "Airefiner" in the Permian Basin.

To Provide Service

J. M. Starr, also of Odessa, has joined the Airefiner Corporation organization as factory service man for this territory.

Bauman expects to spend most of his time in this territory, looking after the distribution and servicing of the engineer air-conditioning units.

Hauling Contractor Offers Oil Industry Use Of Radio System

Joe Bradley & Company of Midland is offering a new service to the oil industry of this region. The concern is an oil and water hauling contractor.

It has opened a new station at Hadacol in the northeast corner of Upton County, in the Spraberry Trend oil field.

The Bradley station at Hadacol is connected with the Company's headquarters in Midland by a two-way radio communication system and it also stays in touch with 12 truck units which work in the Spraberry areas by means of the two-way radio.

Ask Use Of System

Bradley representatives say they are anxious for persons and concerns in the oil business to use the radio system to send and receive messages to and from the Spraberry regions which can be reached by the radio.

Such messages can be handled through the Midland office at through the Hadacol station.

Lone Star Gets Nod To Meet Gas Needs Of Wichita Falls

WASHINGTON — The Lone Star Gas Company, Dallas, has been authorized to acquire or build natural gas lines to meet future demands of "the combined Wichita Falls area."

The Power Commission's action Friday permits Lone Star to acquire from Martin Wunderlick and Lee Aiken facilities they bought from the United Gas Pipe Line Company and certain properties of United Gas Corporation and Union Producing Company. The facilities include about 678 miles of pipe line from Wheeler County to Young County.

Sixty per cent of the surgical instruments manufactured in the United States are made in Philadelphia.

$58,000,000 Permian Basin Natural Gas Pipe Line Sought

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington
Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A $58,000,000 natural gas construction program, to carry Permian Basin gas some 300 miles north to the Texas Panhandle is proposed by the Permian Basin Pipeline Company.

In an application to the Federal Power Commission, the company, with main offices in Chicago, proposes gas pipe line, compressor stations and other construction designed to provide a capacity for 300,000,000 cubic feet by the second year of operation.

The company, which has retained Justin R. Wolf, former chief counsel for the Petroleum Administration for Defense, also would transport natural gas to facilities of Northern Natural Gas Company, Carson County, Texas, said the application.

The proposed construction:

1. A 20-inch, 14-mile natural gas pipe line from the Plymouth Gasoline Plant north to Phillips Petroleum Company's Pembroke Plant.
2. A 24-inch, 22-mile line from Pembroke north to the Spraberry compressor station.
3. A 26-inch, 105-mile line from the Spraberry compressor station northwest to a Hobbs compressor station in Lea County, N. M.
4. A 30-inch, 245-mile line from the Hobbs compressor station to Carson County, Texas for a connection with Northern's facilities.

Cost Estimates

The cost of the four pipe line projects are respectively $400,000; $233,000; $5,294,000; and $18,555,000. The total is $24,482,000.

Other construction:

- 5.—A compressor station of eight 1,320 horsepower engines near Plymouth gasoline plant, Upton County, Texas, costing $3,119,000.
- 6.—A compressor station of eight 1,320 horsepower engines at Pembroke.
- 7.—A Spraberry compressor station of 27-1,320 horsepower engines, $9,998,000.
- 8.—A Hobbs, N. M., compressor station of 10-1,760 horsepower engines, $5,007,000.

The total cost of the compressor facilities is $21,206,000. Other costs are to add $11,694,000, for a grand total of $58,180,000.

Spraberry Gas

The company plans to buy its gas in the Permian Basin, going into the Spraberry area and Lea County, N. M., for its supply. It plans to transport the gas for sale to one or more interstate pipe line companies.

President of the company is W. D. Gay, 135 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Ill. where the company maintains offices.

Other officers are named as:
Donald P. Fourdriat, vice president and treasurer; Benjamin R. Tyler, secretary; John E. Fennelly, and P. A. Walters, along with Gay, directors.

Spraberry Study Group Organized By PB AIME

A Spraberry Study Group, with Bert Crowder of Humble Oil and Refining Company, Midland, as group chairman, has been organized by the Permian Basin section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

W. A. (Bob) Roberts of Midland, assistant division superintendent of Phillips Petroleum Company's western division is program committee chairman.

The next regular meeting will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. April 3 in Magnolia Petroleum Company's conference room.

Subject for this meeting will be "Spraberry Casing Program."

Six Seek Mayor Post At Kermit

KERMIT—A mayor for the City of Kermit and two city commissioners will be named next Tuesday from a field of 11 candidates. Six have announced for mayor and five for the two commissioner posts.

Joe Arledge, present mayor, and Cecil Atwood, one of the commissioners, have not asked for reelection.

H. A. Coulter is seeking a third term as commissioner.

Despite the large slate of candidates, most of whom filed the last two days before the deadline, there has been little active campaigning. All but two of the candidates declined an invitation to speak at a political rally which had been proposed for city candidates only.

The six candidates for mayor are: John F. Moore, owner of an insurance and real estate agency and a former grocery store owner in Kermit.

Frank Williams, auditor and resident of Kermit for seven years.

P. W. Williams, trailer court operator and truck driver.

Joe E. Germuller, tool dresser for Ray Sindorf.

Ted Martin, former grocery store employe and now preparing to open a music store.

O. C. Kitzinger, mechanic.

Commissioner candidates are Jack Panake, Harvey Mitchell, W. L. Ethredge, L. L. Deaton and Coulter. Maury H. Alberis has been named election judge. Voting will be in the fire station at City Hall.

OIF Is Awarded Honor Medal For Motion Picture

NEW YORK — "Man on the Land," the Oil Industry Information Committee's 1951 motion picture, has been awarded an Honor Medal by Freedoms Foundation, Inc., for making an outstanding contribution to the principles of freedom.

This is the second year in a row that the Oil Industry Information Committee's motion pictures have been cited by the foundation, a non-political, non-profit, non-sectarian organization chartered in 1949 for the express purpose of honoring Americans who help provide a better understanding of freedom by what they write, do or say.

The committee's 1950 motion picture which won an award was "34 Hours of Progress." It was produced by Louis de Rochemont and featured a commentary by stage and screen star Ralph Bellamy.

The 1951 medal winner—one of a group of 15 in the 18-millimeter division—was produced for the committee by United Productions of America under the direction of Film Counselors, Inc. The OIIC's motion picture subcommittee which supervised the writing and production of "Man on the Land" is headed by Philip C. Humphrey, manager of public relations for the Texas Company, New York.

By protocol, arriving or departing presidents, ex-presidents, foreign heads of state or members of a reigning royal family receive a 21-gun salute and four ruffles and flourishes.

Taking a tip from the knights of old, several nations experimented with armor for soldiers at the end of World War I. Majority of the outfits, however, weighed an impractical 35 or 40 pounds. During World War II, 15-pound chest protectors, above, were issued to bulldozer operators who cleared way for advances in Germany.

Just What Can The Voter Expect?

On Tuesday thousands of Midland citizens will go to the polls to select two men to sit on the City Council and help guide the affairs of a growing community. It is only reasonable that they should expect something in return for their vote.

It seems to me that when a citizen is entrusted with that job...

- That fair consideration for everyone should be accepted as a matter of course.
- That he should not represent any particular group or institution.
- That his interest in civic affairs is a foregone conclusion and not an issue.
- That, having asked for and received the job, he should apply his talents and experience to the job.

This, then, is my pledge to the citizens of Midland; that I will work conscientiously and faithfully for a bigger and better Midland and a well-protected and happy citizenry.

An adequate water supply is to me the city's No. 1 problem but I will work just as hard for a well rounded recreation program for our children, a continuation of our program of sewer and water lines extensions, paved streets for every section of the city and a general program of community betterment.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

Most shotgun shooters, whether rabbit hunters or shoot and trap artists, have fitted themselves to their guns, rather than going to the trouble of shaping the gun to the man. For some 80 per cent of us it's easy to learn to shoot any smoothbore of reasonable dimension.

What the factories call a standard shotgun stock will usually measure no less than 17 3/4 and no more than 14 inches from the center of the buttplate or pad to the center of the trigger—which is length of pull.

The standard buttstock is so shaped that if we extend the line of its sights (simplest way is to turn the gun barrel down and buttstock up on a large book or table) and then measure down to the forward tip of the comb, this drop at comb will be 1 5/8 inches, give or take a sixteenth. The drop at the heel, or stern top section of the butt, will average 2 1/2 inches.

These measurements apply whether we shoot a pump gun, double, over-under, or semi-auto. The average man, from five feet six to six feet, kills game and smashes clay targets very handily with that gun-fit formula.

But lots of us characters have swan necks or no necks at all, Abraham Lincoln or moon faces, arms like either gorilla grippers or seal flippers. We have fits from our suit fit. There are thousands of old brook-stocked smoothbores kicking around that were designed for men who shot with their heads straight up. Trying to hold them in the modern fashion, sleek forward and firmly on the comb means only misses by under-shooting.

So if you can't hit a barn broadside, the fault is probably your own, but it might—just might—lie in the stock shape. Try throwing the gun up quickly and aiming it without thinking of aiming at that picture of Uncle Harry over the mantel-piece.

Try it a dozen times. If Uncle's nose is hidden by the breech section of the gun, it is probably too crooked for you, too little drop at comb and heel; probably also a shade short. If you see the longer half of the barrel, it's too straight, needs a little trimming on the top of the stock, and may be over long. If you seem to be off-line sideways, the comb, which on a shotgun acts like a rear sight, needs fattening or slimming as the case may be.

If you see just the last few inches of the muzzle lined up on Harry's chin whiskers, the gun is probably right for flushing game birds like quail, grouse, or pheasants, will shoot high on rabbits, and may on ducks.

The old scheme of checking pull length by crooking the right elbow, poking the buttplate into the bend, and then noting whether or not the reach to the trigger is comfortable for your right forefinger, helps some people—but proper shotgun dimensions depend as much on shooting habits as they do on a man's physical measurements, so don't rely on it.

And unless the weapon fits you as badly as Uncle Harry's wedding suit would, unless you've done enough shooting with it to have a clear idea as to what's wrong, don't blow your dough on a fancy custom stock job right away—make sure you're not able to fit yourself to that standard stock first.

Use Proper Pruning Surgery For Shapely, Healthy Trees

One of the most important spring garden tasks—along with the spading fork and rake—is a sharp pair of pruning shears.

Actually, the pruning of trees and shrubs is almost a year-round occupation, for certain species respond better at certain seasons. Some even die of injuries incurred by bad timing in necessary surgery. By and large, however, spring—while the plants are still dormant—is prescribed as the best pruning time.

Most bushes and shrubs and trees benefit from pruning if the pruner knows what he is about. One purpose of the operation is to remove dead and injured branches, leaving a clean, cut, smooth, surfaced wound with clean edges which can heal quickly.

Protect Tree Wound.

The wound—if larger than a couple of inches across—should be protected so that decayed organisms cannot get in. Such a wound should be painted with an antiseptic solution and covered with a compound of resin, beef tallow and alcohol, or a commercially prepared solution.

In cutting off larger limbs of trees, don't try to do the job simply by sawing through at a point close to the trunk. Its weight is likely to rip it off and make a big ragged wound on the trunk. Instead, do it the hard way with three separate cuts. The first should be from BELOW, well away from the trunk and cut about half-way through the limb. The second, from the top and an inch or so beyond the first cut. This cut goes through to take off the branch cleanly and without injuring the trunk. Finally, cut off the remaining short stump by sawing flush with the trunk, trimming the bark to points at top and bottom to aid the flow of sap.

Stimulates Production.

Other purposes pruning serves is to stimulate the production of either flowers or foliage, and to improve the form of the plant. It cannot change the natural habit of a particular plant, but it can keep it from getting out of bounds.

Few plants should be clipped, like a hedge or a poodle. In pruning, it is important to study the particular plant's habit, including the time when its flower buds are formed. Try to cut away old wood which is neither productive nor useful, usually from the base of the plant.

A rule of thumb—and there are exceptions to all rules—is that early-flowering shrubs form their buds on last year's growth, and therefore should be pruned a couple of weeks after flowering. Forsythia is a good example of this class of shrubs. Most shrubs which bloom in the late spring or thereafter form their buds on the current year's growth. For these, pruning activity should be undertaken in March and April.

Proper Pruning Time.

All evergreens, including the broadleaved ones are better pruned a few weeks before they go into spring growth. A few trees, including the maple, should be pruned when they are in leaf. They "bleed" if pruned in spring when their sap is rising.

In cutting branches and twigs to train trees to a desired shape and to remove woody sections which grow inward or rub other branches ers still cater to the age-old urge. There's a new pull-toy, which is a railroad locomotive. When pulled (and properly filled) soap bubbles pour out of the stack.

Musical instruments are another old toy stand-by. New this year is the first toy harp, complete with playing instructions. It's obviously a perfect gift for little angels.

The Western influence is still strong, as witness a new bicycle

NEW YORK (NEA)—The nation's toy makers are turning the youngsters into a generation of thinkers. The trend in new toys, introduced at the annual Toy Fair here, is all towards "do-it-yourself" terms.

There are kits, sets and assortments which enable kids to dye hair, drill concrete, make Indian headresses, design hats, cook pies, make disguises and scare the daylights out of their parents. Everything but how to print your own money.

The sewing kit is a charming number, consisting of selected practical jokes. Junior can make mother a nervous wreck in a week with the spoon that has a "lifeline fly" on it, or the "imitation ink blot" that looks like the real thing on mommy's best tablecloth.

Contains Buzzer.

This darling assortment also contains a hand-shaking buzzer, a flower that squirts, a device that tilts plates and some glorious imitation worms and bedbugs.

Another manufacturer, however has come out with something that should make mother's heart last longer. This is a pair of "high heels," that daughter can strap on her own shoes instead of borrowing (and breaking) mommy's best three-inchers.

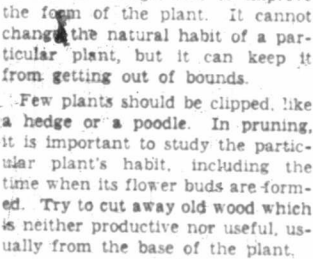

The whole trend, as the toy men point out, is toward stark, under-the-Christmas-tree realism. It's carried to the breaking point by one doll maker, whose latest creation is a ballerina well turned out with a pink-hair, poodle cut, green eye shadow, false eyelashes, star-shaped beauty spot—and low neckline.

Modern living also extends into the realm of children's furniture, with one manufacturer displaying a new contour chair for youngsters. There's also a set of building blocks out of which the children can make only modern-type structures.

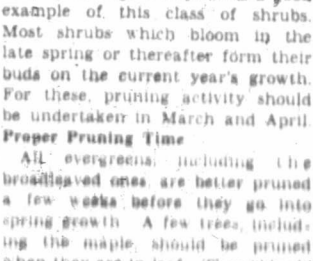

But, trend or no trend, kids will be kids and the toy manufacturer

For junior mechanics, new convertible has removable tires and hub caps, jacks, tools and spare tire in the trunk. Junior can put water in radiator, battery and gas tank, too.

Poodle doll has new poodle cut and green eye shadow.

New bike has saddle, horse's head, rein-like handlebars.

WATER PROBLEM—Even though the men pictured are part of one of Shell Oil Company's drilling crews working an off-shore drilling unit, they are still faced with a fresh water problem. They are shown here filling a tank barge to carry the water to the rig which is surrounded by water—but the wrong kind.

 Criminals were not given prison sentences until quite late in the Christian era. Only conception of punishment for crime was death or the infliction of bodily pain. Wrongdoers were held in prison only until they were tried or executed.

Garage 'Mezzanine' Gives Extra Storage Space

By MR. FIX
 Distributed By NEA Service

Storage space in the average small home always is at a premium. The closets are full to overflowing because there's no more space in the attic, which already has overflowed into the garage until the floors and corners are so full only an experienced driver can get the family fliover through the paint cans, garden hose, lawn mower, and baskets of topsail and dirty bulbs. There is one source of additional space however—a "mezzanine" floor in the garage.

This should be a foot higher than the hood of the car and extend from the back wall to a point less than a foot from where the car's windshield comes when it is parked correctly in the garage. This will give you an additional seventy-five square feet of storage space in a single garage or approximately a hundred and twenty square feet in a double garage.

The construction of this handy shelf is simple and with the exception of the two-by-four frame can be made of scrap lumber in random widths and lengths. The framing should consist of three two-by-fours that reach across the garage, spaced roughly two feet apart.

Don't expect nails alone to hold

Double Garage

Here's how a "mezzanine" storage shelf would look in single and double garages.

make the shelf in the garage as welcome as another room in the house, for a fraction of the cost.

Double Garage
 In the case of the double garage supporting 1222 should be placed under the center of the cross beams between cars and made to form a ladder by the addition of steps. The front of the shelf may be closed if you wish, and have enough material. This will keep out a lot of dirt. The shelf can be made drier with the use of moisture bags, purchasable at almost any hardware store or home furnishing department.

Terrace Should Be Planned For Family Use And Comfort

COLLEGE STATION—The terrace for outdoor living rooms should be located where Summer breezes can be enjoyed and Winter winds may be shut out. It should be in a spot which has shade during early afternoon says Sadie Hatfield, homestead improvement specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Miss Hatfield suggests the South or Southeast side of the house for such a terrace. If the terrace is stone or concrete she says grow trees for all day shade in the Summer. Otherwise the outdoor living room or terrace cannot be used comfortably even after sunset. But points out the specialist, not all terraces can be placed next to the house, sometimes it is better to build them around a group of trees for shade.

Grass Covered
 The terrace may be covered with grass, native stones cemented together or it may be made of concrete or brick. Sand is used sometimes, but this is undesirable because the sand is tracked into the house. Many terraces are covered with grass but after a Spring shower it may be several hours before it can be used.

Screen the terraces from the public and unattractive views. If the terrace is to be used in the Winter, a windbreak is needed. On sunny Winter days, such protection makes the terrace an enjoyable place for outdoor meals or sun bathing.

Miss Hatfield says the terrace should be planned for the comfort and convenience for family living and to add beauty to the homestead.

The "groundhog day" legend started with the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Man Of The House Also Has Role In Spring Cleaning

Mrs. America has a new helper for her annual Spring house cleaning—her husband.

Maybe "everybody worked but father" during Spring cleaning time a generation ago, but today's man of the house realizes there are many chores he can and should shoulder. The work may not be exactly fun, but it can improve the safety, appearance and livability of the home.

Here are some Spring cleaning tasks that definitely fall in the male balliwick, says a Tile Council of America report:

1. Checking ladders. Be sure your wife has a step ladder. About half of the 27,000 home accident deaths in 1951 were caused by falls, many of which undoubtedly resulted from use of poor climbing support. Be sure everyone uses the ladders you have.
2. Attic cleaning. The ruthless hand of the home owner usually is needed to put the attic in order—a necessary job, for fires start in cluttered areas.
3. Directing bathroom improvements. Walls and floor damaged by water and steam should be replaced with waterproof materials. It's up to hubby to get in the contractor and supervise the job.

Sharpen Knives, Too

4. Sharpening knives. Dull tools are hard to work with and can inflict painful injuries.
5. Window cleaning. You're stuck for this one. Use a ladder, and move it frequently. Don't sit on the window sill to clean outside panes; it's dangerous.
6. Major remodeling. A good idea

With The Services Captain Harris Prevents Reds From Breaking Up Church Service In Korea

Capt. Herbert S. Harris of Midland, a former law partner of Mayor Perry Pickett, recently had a hand in preventing a group of Communist soldiers from breaking up a church service in Korea.

A recent issue of Stars and Stripes describes the incident reported by the 25th Division, as troops of the 14th Regiment prepared to celebrate mass.

"Early one morning," reported the Army newspaper, "Chaplain Joseph A. Kubie, was preparing to say mass in the Company G area of the Lynx regiment. About 40 men were in the bunker chapel and apparently some were spotted approaching the area.

"Just before the chaplain began the service, an estimated 14 Chinese opened fire and began dropping mortar shells near the bunker.

"But they didn't figure on the quick retaliation. Capt. Herbert S. Harris, Jr., of Midland called for artillery support and soon the attempt to break up the congregation backfired.

"The Chinese fled from the area, leaving two dead behind." Captain Harris recently was awarded his second Purple Heart and has been recommended for the Bronze Star with a second Oak Leaf Cluster.

Machinery Grinds Away To Get Water For Odessa By Deadline

Machinery of contractors, suppliers and the Colorado River Municipal Water District is geared and grinding away at meeting the June 1 water delivery commitment to Odessa.

Every phase of the CRMWD project pertaining to this initial objective is being timed in order to prevent delay. In fact, said E. V. Spence, general manager of CRMWD, the date will be moved forward if humanly possible. Spence was in Midland Friday.

Sixteen miles of the 77-inch main supply line from Odessa east are now in the ground. The United Concrete Pipe Company has another seven miles of pipe strung on the ground ahead of the laying crew. It is turning out pipe from the Big Spring factory at the rate of 2,000 feet a day.

Jack Anderson, engineer for Freese & Nichols, the CRMWD engineers, said that contractors had pulled out of rock at a point half a mile west of the Midland-Andrews road and were pressing eastward beyond that road. Rocky formations have slowed laying to about 1,000 feet a day. In rock-free territory, crews can lay twice to three times that much pipe per day, he added.

There is a possibility that more rock will be encountered before reaching Martin County, but Anderson thought that operations might be split to expedite work. This would leave one to toll in the rock, another to go ahead in the dirt formations.

Work is to start Monday on laying of collecting lines in the Martin County well fields where the CRMWD will develop its initial supplies. There are in all 13 wells on district leases with a daily maximum potential of 13 million gallons per day. Average production is expected to be around six and one-half million gallons per day, Spence said.

A figure of 30 million gallons per day, attributed by another source as the daily demand from the Martin County well field, apparently was confused with the yield from the CRMWD lake in Southwest Sperry County, Spence pointed out.

Actually, the greatest combined consumption in any one day for Big Spring and Odessa, the cities which will draw upon the Martin County well fields, was never more than 14 million gallons from present supplies. These supplies would still be used in connection with the new well field supplies during peaking periods, the general manager pointed out.

A five-mile section of the pipeline from Odessa east is ready for test as soon as water can be put into the supply line, according to Anderson. The remaining 27 miles probably will not be tested until all of section III—(Odessa to the Martin County well field) has been completed, he said.

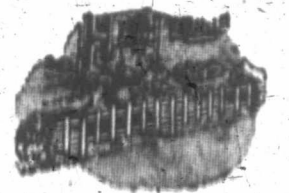

Some pumps are yet to be delivered and two pump houses to be erected. However, contracts for these are under negotiation. As gathering lines are laid, wells will be hooked up so that when the main supply line reaches the field, the section II will be ready for final test. All except one tract of right-of-way necessary for the laying of this section of line has been secured, said Spence. Storage tanks are in process of being erected.

"We realize the urgent need of district supplies for the health and safety of Odessa," he said. "No stone is being left unturned in efforts to furnish water at the earliest possible moment."

I offer two years of service. I ask you give me 6 minutes of your time.

WHAT are the ISSUES and the Solutions?

Every Problem Has Its Solution . . . Some Just Take More Time!

Consider These Qualifications of Ray O. Howard

Ray and Millie Howard have been married twelve years, come September and the Fall rains, and have three fine boys, Zack, age 9, Randy, age 3, and Mark, age 2. They own their home at 608 Cuthbert Street.

Not that it makes any difference, but after "busting" the physical for commissions in the Marines and Navy, Howard volunteered from Midland as a soldier correspondent and served over two years in forward areas of India-Burma-China with the GI newspaper, where he picked up 4 battle stars and finished as a sergeant.

Howard is sole owner of The Howard Co., a successful printing and office equipment business employing 16 persons, most all of whom own their own homes in various parts of town. Started with less than $500 a little over 4 years ago, the Howard Company has just won national recognition as RETAIL BRAND NAME DEALER OF THE YEAR over 6,000 competing entries.

Howard was never "the best liked" nor "most popular boy", but he always has been able to command the respect of his friends and associates for his good judgment, ability, and sense of fair play. He doesn't like to be pushed around, and at the right is how he looked when he fought his company and other merchants were being unjustly treated by laws governing parking of delivery trucks in Midland. He lost a jury trial, but forced an issue, and won a moral victory by seeing an impractical policy changed.

You don't have to go back to pre-war days to find Howard participating in community activities; take almost any worthwhile drive of the past five years and you will find he has contributed time and money to it. His civic affiliations are too numerous to mention.

Ray Howard has a thoroughly successful business background, is an honor graduate of the University of Texas, and is entirely competent to represent you on the City Council. He isn't being run by (nor will he be run by) anyone, nor is he obligated to anyone. If you support his platform, he wants your vote, and will serve you honestly, conscientiously, and well.

PROBLEM NO. 4: An Adequate Supply of Good Water

Water is NOT the No. 1 problem, although it is important. We have an assured supply at the present time for a city of 60,000, with excellent prospects of doubling the reserve in the very near future. Careful investigation will convince you that the Colorado River Authority proposition was turned down for very sound reasons . . . for $1,600,000 we are getting more water than we could have had for several times the price. People in Wichita Falls still are paying for Lake Kemp, which even the fish can't tolerate.

PROBLEM NO. 1: Parks and Recreational Facilities

Do you want parks, or to talk about them? We CAN have them. I believe we should have at least three large parks with complete recreational facilities, and a dozen small ones with playground equipment, all located to best serve the community. There is a good plan for this, but someone needs to push it . . . and if Pagoda Park is sold, what better use for the money than investment in this?

PROBLEM NO. 2: Better Police and Fire Protection

I am more interested in the safety of our children and our homes than in seeing how many red greetings can be distributed. The solution is simple: More and better personnel. You can't expect to get good men and keep them unless you pay more than a subsistence wage. Select them properly, and make them want to make a career of it . . . and get enough squad cars to cover the town, and see that they DO cover it. Train them, and keep on training them. "Off-Street" parking might solve their traffic problems.

PROBLEM NO. 3: Equal Representation in Council

Each major section of Midland should be represented by a member on the council . . . a man who can know the problems of his neighborhood and work toward their solution. We should have seven councilmen, four elected by precinct, three at large. We need a new City Charter, which could accomplish this while correcting a lot of other flaws in the present charter.

PROBLEM NO. 5: Efficient, Economical Administration

The City's affairs should be continually analyzed to determine that maximum use of available personnel and equipment is being made, and that all monies are being properly and sensibly spent for full value received.

PROBLEM NO. 6: Sanitation, Water, Sewer, Paving

If pro-rata charges for water and sewer connections are kept, some time-payment plan should be made available to those unable to pay in lump sum. There shouldn't be a "Chic Sale" in Midland. Water and sewer lines should be extended as rapidly as possible. Paving should be available to all, and should be accomplished without "leave-outs".

PROBLEM NO. 7: More Retail Businesses

If we want Midland to be the shopping center of the Permian Basin, we must have more good retail outlets. A very few selfish speculators are making it impossible for new businesses to come in, and hard for existing businesses to operate competitively. If Midland's rapid expansion is making land in the business section so exceedingly valuable, then the City is entitled to some return for its contribution.

PROBLEM NO. 8: Adequate County Participation

With added oil revenue accruing to Midland County, it is only fair that the county continue to participate in a solution of some of our more pressing community problems, such as parks, roads, hospitals, a library . . . even a swimming pool isn't out of the question. Most of the people in the country live in Midland, so Midland is justly entitled to a fair share of oil benefits.

PROBLEM NO. 9: Consolidate Fund Raising Drives

The less painful ways to raise funds for our welfare and youth funds is to have one large drive each year for established services. The same budget could be met, and thousands of man-hours would be saved.

PROBLEM NO. 10: Keep Midland A Friendly Place

Let's not let the problems of Midland's rapid growth grind us down. It still is a friendly, progressive town. Let's keep it that way. Let's solve our problems in a "neighborly" sort of way . . . with tolerance, impartiality, and fairness.

Probable Successor To "Ike" Pegged As Winner For Years

WASHINGTON (NEA)—If Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's wishes mean anything—and they usually do—the next supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty army may well be a compact, bridge-playing brain of a man from Nebraska.

That would be a four-star general named Alfred Maximilian Gruenther, now chief of staff for Ike.

His SHAPE staff members reserve for Gruenther such unimpeachable tributes as stentorian, fabulous, fantastic. This enthusiasm for the sharp-minded general is shared, if in not quite such glowing terms, by the head men in the military.

Top brass had Gruenther (pronounced like month-er) pegged as a winner for years, and he came through for them. He was the anonymous planner of the African invasion under Ike in 1942 and later was chief-of-staff in Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army in the Mediterranean.

In Public Eye

Strangely, Gruenther gained a spot in the public eye before he did with the military. And it all came about some 20 years ago in a curiously non-military matter. An incident which happened then gave a pretty good insight into the man who may soon lead the military strength of the Western World.

Back in the 1930s Gruenther, who serves as only an Air Force lieutenant in the 30s, could be seen to dunder and singular prominence as all of things, a tournament bridge director. He was also a top player.

His efforts to inject some military order into the tournament haphazardness of those days met the big test in the first journey he directed. The reigning bridge star, the late P. Hal Sims, and several cronies showed up for play 10 minutes late.

Gruenther forthwith barred them from play. The ensuing argument lasted just 30 seconds. Sims and his friends sheepishly walked away.

Other players who had already begun the tournament rose from their seats to cheer their dauntless director. Gruenther had latecomer trouble no more.

Still Fast Man

Twenty years later, Gruenther still is a fast man with a dare order, and his bridge-sharpened brain functions with a speed and clarity that is almost dummfounding.

With the people under him he is tough and demanding. He asks for a lot and he gives a lot. He once wrote in a letter, "If a man can work for me, he can work for anyone."

Rather than talk personally to his subordinates about all the day-to-day things that have to be done, he writes them notes which have become known at SHAPE as Gruenthergrams. He signs them just with the letter "G." And woe betide the officer who doesn't act as directed by the cryptic messages.

He has a quick temper, but he comes off fast, if things aren't going right in conference of some kind, he indicates his displeasure by a series of loud sharp coughs.

Gruenther has an amazing memory. He can tell you the date and year for just about anything that happened in the world.

Assounds Officials

He astounds officials of NATO countries by reciting to them off the cuff such things as their steel output two years ago, how many locomotives they have, where their production bottleneck lie.

A mind like this stands Gruenther in good stead when dealing with different countries on such complex and ticklish problems as who pays for what in NATO, which weapons shall be made the standard for all, who gets what raw materials and why.

Gruenther got invaluable training for his present job during World War II, and after.

The day he arrived in London in 1942, Ike told him, "Have a plan

Two years later he was named director of the Joint Staff, which does the plans and logistics for the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

When Ike was named to head SHAPE a year ago he called again for Gruenther the planner.

"You're my chief of staff," Ike told Gruenther when the latter reported for duty. "I suppose you've started planning already." Gruenther had. From his pocket he pulled the blueprint for SHAPE.

Sums Up Aims

Gruenther sums up the aims of SHAPE like this:

"Nobody can guarantee that Stalin won't start a war whether the West hears or not. All I know is that if the West does build a force capable of halting the Red Army, it may give Stalin some sober second thoughts."

From the way, Gruenther goes at his job, you'd think he was building the forces of the West single-handed. His work day often lasts 20 hours, including the heavy load of home work he takes with him from the office each night. And this is for a seven-day week, not five.

When he doesn't lunch with Ike, he has yogurt and crackers at his desk.

He often has as many as 20 visitors a day.

And when Eisenhower is away from his office, Gruenther handles all Ike's problems, as well as his own.

But despite the importance of his job, Gruenther is still "just an ordinary Midwesterner," says Major John S. Wood, his aide.

One of Gruenther's pet schemes at SHAPE was a semi-monthly tea for officers' wives at which he explained the important job they had to do in making things run smoothly. To Gruenther's regret, the parties had to be discontinued because of the pressure of work.

Gruenther can also be a very warm and human gent, an aspect which comes to light through another bridge story.

Shortly after the end of World War II, Gruenther attended a national bridge tournament at Atlantic City. He also invited the walking patients of a nearby veterans' hospital to come over and have a bull session with him.

When a tournament official appeared to see what was keeping Gruenther, he found the general diligently scribbling his autograph for the veterans.

"Don't you know," exclaimed the official, "that those are weekend passes you're signing?"

"Nonsense," said Gruenther, "they look like bridge scoreboards to me." And he went right on signing the delighted veterans' weekend passes.

Need For National Unity Cited By Jaycee Speaker

Midland Jaycees were told at their annual installation dinner-dance Friday night in the Ranchland Hill Country Club to help develop a sense of national unity.

"We must strive for this common goal," declared W. W. Jackson, San Antonio insurance executive and former president of Trinity University. "It must be built from the grassroots level."

The humorist urged a common sense of responsibility in government and the crystallizing of a spirit of unity. More than 125 Junior Chamber of Commerce members and guests heard the San Antonian.

New officers and directors were installed by Ike Johnson of Levelland, national director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

J. P. Marchioni assumed the presidency of the Midland organization, succeeding Frank Hawk, who presided Friday night.

Other new officers include: H. D. Bushnell, first vice president; Good-

In the boucle-textured fabrics, colors fairly bloom. There are varying shades of white aster, azalea red, blue iris, honeysuckle beige, pink lilac, blue tulip and marigold. In the tweeds, black-and-white makes a strong combination.

Ike Leads Taft In Seattle GOP Caucus

SEATTLE (NEA)—General Eisenhower ran up a seven to four margin over Senator Taft on first reports from a preferential vote taken at Republican precinct caucuses in King County (Seattle) Friday night.

The poll was in effect, a straw vote at the party "grass roots" level. It was without precedent here.

The count was 358 out of the county's 1,294 precincts. Eisenhower 2,822; Taft 1,870. There were scattered votes for General MacArthur, Gov. Earl Warren of California and Harold Stassen.

The vote was criticized and discounted by the Taft campaign leader in the state, Charles H. Paul, Seattle attorney.

OLYMPIC MAIL—Runner carrying the traditional Olympic torch will appear on the stamp to be issued by France in honor of the 1952 Olympic games. It is designed by Franz Tschersovsky, of Sarrebourg, France.

Of slightly different construction is the Marine Corps vest, worn by a mannequin above. Weighing seven and three-quarter pounds, it employs overlapping plates of plasticized glass fibers, as well as layers of nylon fabric. Both garments are said to stop a .45-caliber pistol or sub-machine-gun bullet at point-blank range, fragments from a grenade burst at three feet or a mortar burst at 10 feet (see inset). Fragmentation injuries comprise 70 per cent. of all battle casualties.

A Vote For Progress . . .

Midland's continued progress demands the energetic, imaginative and sympathetic leadership typified by L. M. Freels. Vital problems and thoughtful decisions lie ahead and L. M. Freels has the background, the vision and the experience to face them properly. Here is his record.

STUDENT As a student at Denison High School, he was Junior Class president, Most Popular Senior and, while starring in football, baseball and track, had the highest scholastic average of any boy in his class. At Baylor University, where he was graduated in 1934, he again starred in sports, was voted Most Representative Boy and was Senior Class president.

TEACHER He came to Midland in 1936 to accept a position in Midland Public Schools and for four years he served as instructor, athletic coach and friend to hundreds of boys and girls. His interest in a well-rounded recreation program for the city is based on the realization that these children are Midland's citizens of tomorrow.

SERVICE MAN With thousands of others, he heard the battle cry in 1942 and enlisted in the United States Navy. He was commissioned while serving in the Pacific and returned to the U. S. as battalion commander at an officer indoctrination school. Returning to the Pacific, he served in a combat operations center and, at war's end, was a full lieutenant.

BUSINESS MAN For two years prior to the war, he had known the oil business, first with the Texas Company and later as a scout for Seaboard. After the war, he returned home to realize a dream, born in the Pacific, and help build the JFS Ranch House. A genial host and successful business man, he also has been active in various civic organizations.

VOTE . . .

"It is the right and the duty of every citizen to vote — whoever their choice may be." — L. M. Freels.

That is the record of L. M. Freels—a record which qualifies him for the job and responsibility of helping to steer Midland on its course toward greater prosperity and civic leadership. A vote for Freels is a vote for progress.

Bombs Don't Stop Korean Railroads

By WILLIAM T. FARICY
President, Assn. of American Railroads

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The record of resistance to bombardment of the battered railroads of North Korea offers an answer to a question that could have top importance here at home in event of all-out war: How well would America's railroads hold up under enemy attack?

For more than a year, the North Korean railroads have been subjected to concentrated and sustained bombing from United Nations airplanes and naval ships. They have taken additional punishment from ground fire, from commando raiders and behind-the-lines saboteurs. Time and again, rail bridges, shops, marshaling yards have been reported destroyed.

Yet, follow-up reconnaissance almost invariably discloses trains soon operating again over the same stretch of track.

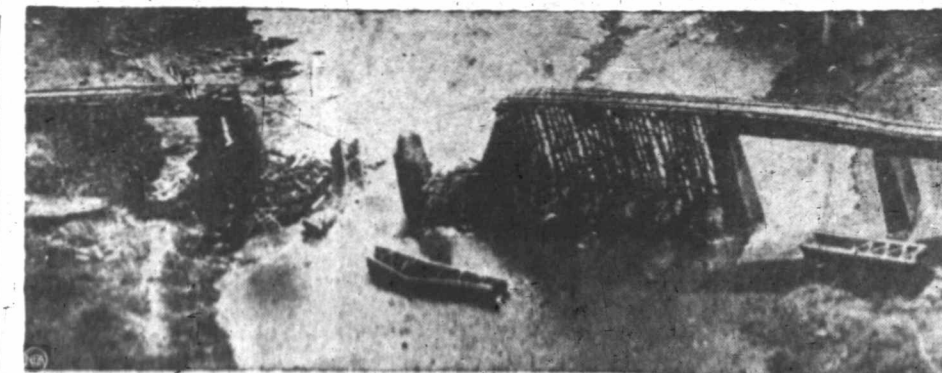

"There is no question but that our bombing has seriously disrupted and delayed Red rail transport from Manchuria and Russia to the front. Military officers, nevertheless, sum up the results of our strategic bombardment like this:

"The North Korean railroads have not been put completely out of commission. Trains are continuing to operate, largely on a short-haul basis . . . but still moving vital supplies to the Communist forces. They remain a primary target."

If an admittedly good but limited rail system like that of North Korea can stand up under such punishment, it is certain that the most extensively developed system in the world—America's—could do even better. The more solid roadways and structures, stronger-built equipment, and the widely dispersed network of American railroads would make the job of destruction that much tougher.

This is important to home-front defense. If an attack should be made on this continent, continuing railroad service would be essential to both resistance and recovery.

Among logistics specialists, it has become an adage that you cannot produce and use any more of anything than you can haul. And railroads are the domestic backbone of this hauling job, a fact borne out by their World War II

Sudden stop for Red railroad: Broken girders of a bombed-out bridge in Northern Korea lie in the river after the span was bombed by UN forces. Spidery framework under center span shows how bridge already had been repaired before by the Reds to keep trains going despite bombs.

record. During those war years, railroads moved more than 90 per cent of all military freight while producing at the same time more than twice as much intercity transportation service for all other goods as all other forms of transportation combined.

That explains why railroads rank as top targets. Obviously, if you can cut this vital medium of mass supply for armed forces or for production on the economic front, the enemy is half beaten, the war half won. This was basic in our military strategy during World War II when our massed bombers tried to knock out German rail service.

But so difficult was the task of putting the Reichsbahn out of commission that the German railroads remained largely intact to within half a year of war's end.

One Of Last

And even then, though singled out for sustained saturation bombing, they constituted one of the last facilities of enemy resistance to go out of action. This testimony to the railroads' sturdy resilience under shock is contained in the postwar report of the U. S. Strategic Bombing Survey.

The same kind of record was written by England's railroads during the early war years when the German aerial blitz was at its height. In some cases, entire yards and other strategic installations were bombed out of use. Yet, usually within a period of hours, damage was repaired sufficiently to permit resumption of train traffic. Or alternate routes around the blitzed area were set up and operating.

Major Clues

The foregoing expediences of quick repair and alternate routing are major clues to how American railroads would hold up. Not generally known is that the almost 700 railroads in this country have agreements already in effect to cope with emergency. These provide for the immediate use of alternate routes in case of damage to any one line or group of lines—a plan made possible by the existence of a sweeping pattern of 397,000 miles of track crisscrossing America, with innumerable possible routings connecting most major cities.

The raging floods of last Summer in Kansas and Missouri, and this Winter's High Sierra blizzards, bringing damage to rails beyond even what atom bombs could do, exemplify the effectiveness of alternate routing. The nation's rail traffic continued to roll around the stricken area. And prompt repair of damages quickly restored traffic into the area shortly after flood waters receded.

But probably the best example of railroad flexibility is the drama of re-routing during the Ohio River flood of 1937. Every river crossing from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., was closed then by high water. Yet, commerce between north and south continued, with trains routing in a giant circle through rail gateways east and west of the flooded region.

There is little actual difference between damage from bombs and damage from floods, washouts and landslides. This sort of interruption is met by railroads with organized energy. And they are ready to meet any attack of the future with the same energy.

FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS

The cattle market was steady with last week at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday. Butcher calves and yearlings were strong, but slaughter cows were a little weaker. Top price on stocker steer calves, $37, was about $1 lower, but generally stockers sold for about the same as the week before.

Fat calves and yearlings were bid from $31 to $34, mediums $28 to $31, commons $25 to $28. Fat cows cleared at $21 to $23, mediums $19 to $21, canners and cutters $13 to $19. Bulls auctioned for $25 to $27. Fat calves and yearlings were bid from $31 to $34, mediums $28 to $31, commons $25 to $28. Stocker steer calves cashed for $33 to $37, heifer calves $32 to $35, steer yearlings $28 to $32, heifer yearlings $27 to $31 and cow and calf pairs for $190 to $295. Hogs sold up to $17.10. Consignments totaled 476 head.

Oklahoma A&M topped top honors in the Sam Houston State College intercollegiate rodeo held last week at Huntsville. Colorado A&M placed second, and Hardin-Simmons University, third.

Borders for flood irrigation have been staked on three Midland County farms. Two of the farms belong to F. F. Elkin and the other is the Midland city farm where sewage will be used for irrigation.

Jack Leonard and George Winters are operators on the Elkin farms. Leonard will drill about 40 acres to subside this spring which will be followed by permanent pasture this fall. The subside operation will provide protection against sand and wind for the grazing grass plants.

Barney Nichols, farmer 25 miles northeast of Midland, and Gene Strahan, who farms seven miles northeast of Midland, have completed terrace construction on their farms. Both systems have the ends fully blocked to hold all the water on the land.

It costs between $4,000 and $5,000 to develop and equip a new irrigation well on the High Plains of Texas, according to a study just published by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

These averages are based on installation and operation costs reported during 1947, 1948 and 1949 in a study of a yearly average of 176 wells in Lubbock, Hockley, Hale, Floyd and Fisher counties. Present costs may be somewhat higher than during the period of the study.

Installation costs included the drilling, casing and spoolway for the well, which averaged $1,272. Purchase and operating costs are given for four types of power units used to pump irrigation wells. These were electric engines, small and large automobile engines and industrial engines.

Respective initial costs during the period of this study were $750, $485, $782 and $1,320.

Cost Per Acre-Foot
An average of 126 acre-feet of water was pumped per well each year of the study. The cost per acre-foot varied with the type of power used and whether the unit was operated with electricity, butane, gasoline or natural gas. Price ranges are shown for each kind of fuel.

The study, reported in Bulletin 745, briefs the historical development of irrigation from wells on the Texas High Plains. About 1,860,000 acres of Plains land were irrigated in 1950 from about 14,000 wells. Most of this development has taken place since 1934, with the greatest expansion since 1945. Well drilling continued at a rapid rate during 1951.

Several hundred persons from all parts of Texas are expected to attend a two-day Agricultural Aviation Conference and Short Course on the Texas A&M College campus Monday and Tuesday.

Leading authorities on several subjects will appear on the program to discuss various phases of pest control by use of airplanes.

Fred E. Weick, aeronautical engineer for the Texas Engineering Experiment Station and chairman of the conference, will introduce a new type of experimental airplane developed for use in spraying and dusting crops.

Registration for the conference and short course will begin at 8 a.m. Monday, and at 9:30, D. W. Williams, vice chancellor for agriculture, Texas A&M College System, will present the welcome address.

Sponsors for the conference are the Texas A&M College System, the Texas Aeronautics Commission and the Texas Flying Farmers Association.

Minimum conditions, mostly on the short side, in all sections of the state for the last two years clearly have pointed up the necessity for farm and livestock producers to plan for a reserve supply of feed.

A. W. Crain, associate pasture specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that little can be done about the weather but much can be done to prevent situations such as have faced livestock and dairy producers since the beginning of the present drought. He advises as a corrective measure, the planning of a "complete" forage program.

Supplemental Pastures
By properly planning his supplemental pastures, a farmer usually can provide ample forage for the seasons when permanent pastures do not furnish adequate grazing. Crain classifies the present extended dry period as an example of the "unusual season" and adds that it is the sort of situation that livestock men always must be prepared to meet. Neither permanent nor supplemental pastures will furnish adequate grazing under very adverse weather conditions and here is where storage comes into the picture.

KNOW THEIR TEA
Expert tea tasters can identify between 1500 and 1600 different teas, telling where each is grown, what variety it is, what season of the year it was picked, how it was processed, how much it should cost and how it should be blended.

GIRL RIDES STEER IN CIRCUS—Nobody ever got a "bum steer" from beautiful Dolores, one of the prettiest of the Wallace Brothers' Circus performers. Talented as well as comely, Dolores is coming to Midland April 10 for afternoon and evening performances. The circus' appearance is sponsored by the Midland Optimist Club. It will be held on the tract of land just east of the KCRS tower on West Highway 80.

Reeves, Loving Counties Get Castor Bean Supply

PECOS A 5,000-pound shipment of castor beans has arrived here in April, or during the first of May, the beans are available for producers in Reeves and Loving Counties. Marjorie Smart, PMA administrative officer, announced.

Marked at a cost of 22 cents per pound, the seeds are the Baker No. 1 irrigated variety. The government has asked that at least 1,000 acres be planted in castor beans here this year.

One producer, R. D. Whittington, was pleased with returns from 30 acres of the dry land variety last year to the extent that he has requested seed for 100 acres of the irrigated variety this year.

Producers interested in planting castor beans are instructed to contact the PMA office here, which represents the Commodity Credit Corporation.

50 Acres Last Year
Production from the estimated 50 acres planted here last year was disappointing to many hopeful observers. However, the partial crop failure was due to two prime factors, late arrival of seeds, and use of irrigation on dry land variety seeds.

Also, last year's initial crop was seriously damaged by the hard freeze which came the first part of November.

Young Livestock Exhibitors Count $14,081 In Reeves

PECOS—Young Reeves County livestock exhibitors have realized a total of $14,081.68 in sales and prize money from top grade lambs and steers since Jan. 1, 1952, announced County Agent Jimmy Taylor Saturday.

About $300 of that amount was received as prize money as exhibitors in five stock shows this year, including those at Pecos, Fort Worth, El Paso, Monahans and Odessa.

Remainder of the total income was gained through the 4-H Club boys' and girls' sales of their animals to auctions and packers. Taylor added.

Eighty-two lambs and 22 steers were involved in the huge income for the active young people. Individuals realizing the highest income to date were Don Weinacht, Balmorhea, three steers, $1,455.92; George Boyd, Pecos, two steers, $935; Charles Weinacht, two steers, $879.45; Darlene Ellison, Balmorhea, five lambs, $737.50; Lee Renz, Balmorhea, three lambs, $398; and Mary Dale Miller, Pecos, four lambs, $232.80.

Kermit Sets Observance

KERMIT—Kermit's observance of Texas State-Wide Industrial Week, scheduled for April 1 to 7, will be held one week later, April 7 to 13, according to Steve Neely, chairman of the Kermit Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee. The change was made because of conflicting events already set in Kermit for the first week in April.

The Kermit Chamber of Commerce has chartered a 32-passenger bus which will be used for two days of tours to industrial plants and developments in the area, K. E. Burrows, chamber president, announced.

First of the area visiting trips will be on Tuesday, April 8, and will include stops at the Magnolia Gasoline plant, two Carbon Cabot Company gas plants and the Cabot carbon black plant, Sid Richardson Gas Company's repressing plant, the Pure Oil plant in the Dollarhide oil field, several plants in the Goldsmith area and the Shell Company in Notrees.

Wednesday, April 9, will include trips to many plants in the Jal and Wink districts.

Thursday will be for visiting industries in Kermit. Arrangements are being made with many such firms to hold open house for visitors on this date.

G. E. Thompson, superintendent of Kermit schools and also a member of the industrial committee, said plans are being made for school participation in the week's observance. These are tentatively being set up to include field trips by students and assembly programs on industrial resources of the area.

There'll Be No Swank Of Monarchy In Queen Juliana's April Tour Of U. S.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A smiling, matronly woman who embodies the solid virtues of the Dutch, as well as being their reigning queen, will renew American acquaintanceships during April.

She is Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, descendant of the royal house of Orange-Nassau, known as Queen Juliana of The Netherlands since her beloved mother, Queen Wilhelmina, abdicated in 1948.

People who see her in Washington, New York, Philadelphia, Tennessee, Georgia and Michigan will find it difficult to regard her as a queen because she is unassuming and neighborly. Many Hollanders still think of her as "Juliantje," the little girl who skated on the canals and rode a pony.

Today at 43 she is devoted to her family, German-born Prince Bernhard and her four daughters. The Prince, whom she met and fell in love with during the 1936 Olympic Games in Germany, will be at her side during the American tour.

There will be none of the swank of monarchy in the tour of Juliana. It would not be in keeping with the character of Juliana or her husband.

However, the three days of receptions in Washington which will begin the visit and the visit to Dutch centers in Michigan which will end it will reflect the friendly relations between The Netherlands and a country widely colonized with its countrymen.

In between, the Queen will visit Philadelphia, spend a weekend with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at Hyde Park, have a three-day round of festivities in New York (including a Broadway show), spend another weekend visiting at Sea Island, Ga., and tour the Ford plant at River Rouge, Mich.

A feature of the Michigan visit will be a call upon the city of Holland, America's tulip capital.

er steers 30.50 down; stocker cows 26.50 down; shorn fat lambs 24.00-26.50; Spring lambs 27.50 down; feeder lambs 25.00 down; yearling wethers 20.00-22.00; aged wethers 14.00-16.00; slaughter ewes, 10.00-15.00; closing hog top 17.00-25; sows 13.00-15.50; pigs 8.00-13.00.

DREAD DISEASE
Trachoma, a disease which causes blindness, is found mostly in the Ozark and Appalachian mountain regions, as well as among Indian tribes of the southwest.

After Michigan, the Royal Couple will head for the West Coast, making their visit a coast-to-coast grand tour.

Ample Opportunity
Throughout the entire trip, there will be ample opportunity for the down-to-earth queen to make friends. Friendship is a quality she has in good measure, a quality that has endeared her to her subjects.

It stems, largely, from her unregal upbringing. Her father, Prince Henry, once told her tutor: "Don't be any more indulgent with her than is necessary."

At the University of Leiden, she attended as a regular student. She was a member of the Women's Student Club, and her song—submitted anonymously—won the prize as the Club's "Song of the Year."

Juliana bestows the same ideas on her own children. Although 14-year-old Princess Beatrix is destined to someday succeed her mother on the throne, she and her sister, Irene, 13, Margriet, nine, and Marijke, five, are far from pampered.

They are not tutored privately but attend a progressive school in the neighborhood of their home. And their habits differ little from those of their schoolmates. They even take their own lunch.

As queen of The Netherlands, Juliana has only limited powers. All political decisions are made by responsible ministers. The crown and its wearer, as in Great Britain, symbolize the unity of the nation in much the same way as does the American flag. And the resulting impact of royal actions is extensive.

Feels Flight
Perhaps the most historic task Juliana has performed was that of presiding over the meeting, on Dec. 27, 1949, at which the 300-year-old sovereignty of The Netherlands over its Asian empire was transferred to the independent Republic of Indonesia.

In recent years, she has keenly felt the plight of the world's millions of refugees. Working to ease their sufferings, she has been in correspondence on the subject with President Truman.

When she arrives by plane in Washington, D. C., April 2, Juliana will be setting foot on U. S. shores for the first time as a queen. But it will not be her first visit. As crown princess—when she was a wartime exile in Canada—she was welcomed here several times.

Another Chapter Written In Studio's Growth

Firm Is One Of Finest In West Texas

Another chapter in the growth of the Midland Studio and Camera Shop into one of the finest organizations of its kind in West Texas has been completed.

A thorough remodeling job has been wropped up within the last few days and Randolph and Rudolph Rubin Saturday were proudly showing patrons and visitors all the new facilities.

Randy Rubin operates the modern studio while Rudy, his twin brother and partner in the business, is in charge of the camera shop, which boasts the most complete line of photographic equipment on display in the Permian Basin area.

The large building at 317 North Colorado Street, with its more than 4,000 square feet of floor space, is a far cry from the tiny studio opened here in 1941 by Randy Rubin.

Throughout State

Randy had worked in various studios throughout the state and, after completing a course at the New York Institute of Photography, came to Midland to open, with a partner, a studio at 116 South Lorraine Street.

Three years later, he moved to 210 West Texas Street and two and one-half years ago, with photographic equipment once more available, opened up a camera shop and moved it and the studio to the present location.

Rudy Rubin, meanwhile, had gone into the Army Signal Corps during the war as a radio engineer and wound up as special services director on Guadalcanal.

After the war he went into the radio business at San Antonio and three years ago joined his brother in the business here.

ditional 1,500 square feet of floor space was added to the rear of their building.

To Use All Space

"The current program," explained Randy Rubin, "was undertaken to utilize all the space we had and offer better service to our friends and customers."

The change is noticed from the moment the visitor reaches the front door, which requires only a

The camera shop is greatly enlarged from the former space and indirect lighting enhances the fascination of the hundreds of camera items on display.

Claims Fastest Service

"We have the fastest photo-finishing service in Midland," explained Randy Rubin. "You can bring a roll of film in here by 10 a.m. and the prints will be ready by 5 p.m."

This department has an automatic developing machine, into which the rolls of film are placed, to emerge a short time later, developed and dried.

Midland Studio and Camera Shop is equipped to do not only the finest portrait work, but all types of commercial and industrial photography, all of which is handled by Randy Rubin.

$10,300 Estimate Accepted In Kermit On Curb, Gutter Job

KERMIT — The Kermit City Council has accepted a $10,300 bid of Donnel Robinson, local contractor, for curb and gutter work on South Poplar Street from Campbell to the city limits on State Highway 82.

Awarding of the curb and gutter contract gets underway a long-planned program for widening State Highway 82 from the Y section of the Monahans-Odessa highways at the south edge of the city. The State Highway Department has had funds set aside for the widening of the route, but work could not be started until drainage problems could be worked out and completed along the upper sections of the road.

When the state's part of the highway construction begins, the Y will be eliminated and a square intersection will be built.

A number of owners of property abutting South Poplar have met with the City Council and agreed to an assessment of $1.50 per front foot for curb and gutters.

Drkerson and Dr. K. E. Reidland.

TRUMAN BACKS REFUGEE PLAN—As Congress debates the McCarran and the Lehman bills on immigration, President Truman has asked its members to consider his proposal. He is asking that the U. S. admit 300,000 immigrants over a period of three years at the rate of 100,000 a year, with aid going chiefly to those trying to escape Communist tyranny. Above Newsmag shows numerical breakdown of immigrants to be admitted to the U. S. from various sections of Europe under Truman's proposal.

Bureau Of Mines Helium Figure Reaches One Billion Cubic Feet

AMARILLO—During the month of January this year, the Bureau of Mines, Department of Interior, produced its billionth cubic foot of helium, Dr. C. W. Seibel, Regional Director of Region VI, announced here Saturday.

This is an average production of slightly more than one cubic foot every second, day and night, since the bureau first began producing helium in a full-scale plant 31 years ago.

In reaching this production milestone, the bureau processed more than 100 billion cubic feet of natural gas, according to estimates made by Paul V. Mullins, Chief of the Bureau's Helium Division, Region VI. This much natural gas would be approximately a 10-year supply for the average non-industrial city of 80,000.

The Bureau figures its helium production from 1921 when the world's first full-scale plant was put into operation at Fort Worth. Today the Bureau of Mines operates three helium plants; two near Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle and one at Olathe, Kan. It maintains a fourth plant on a standby basis at Shiprock, N. M. Began in 1929.

Production at the first Amarillo plant, seven miles west of the city, started in 1929 after it had become apparent the gas field which supplied the Fort Worth plant was nearing depletion.

From 1929 until March, 1943, when the Exell plant, 33 miles north of Amarillo, went into production as a wartime measure, the Amarillo plant was the only helium-producing plant in the world. The Exell plant derived its name from the XI Ranch in the Texas Panhandle. Helium was unknown in the world until it was discovered in the sun 84 years ago. Its existence on earth was unsuspected until its discovery in 1895 by a scientist who was hunting for something else.

Even after it was found in significant amounts in natural gas in Kansas, it remained a scientific curiosity until a little over three decades ago.

Today, it has some uses that are vital to the defense program and some that are important to private industry, medical science, the Weather Bureau, the armed forces and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The United States is the only known country that produces helium in large quantities. Amarillo is headquarters for all of the Government's helium activities. The Bureau of Mines is the only helium producer in the United States, and perhaps in the world. Helium is a member of the family of rare gases which includes neon, argon, krypton, xenon and radon. These rare or inert gases have been described as being so aloof that they are the aristocrats of the elements.

The characters to note in studying trees are leaves, flowers, fruits, barks, buds, bud arrangement, leaf scars, and tree form.

White's Store Employees Attend San Antonio Meet

Paul Woodard, assistant manager of White's Auto Store, and Claude Gates, salesman, joined other outstanding sales personnel of White's Auto Stores, Inc., in attending a convention held recently in San Antonio.

The convention is held annually in a different locale, those employees attending being determined by grades made on sales audits conducted by William's Service Station, Inc., a national sales auditing concern. The employees in each of the concern's stores located in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, who receive the highest average grade in seeking customers for the preceding year is invited to attend the meeting at the expense of the company.

District supervisors, including Max Cooper of Midland, also attended the convention. Harm E. Musgrave and John C. Hann, vice presidents, both from White's general offices in Wichita Falls, were in charge of the conclave.

National Magazine Features Article On Midland Home

The home of a Midland couple, Gerald and Charlot Self at 1811 West Kansas Street, is prominently featured in the April issue of Holland's magazine, which has a circulation of over half a million in fifteen Southern states.

The three and one-half page article, entitled "Light and Witch," is written by Mrs. Sue Powell of 3100 West Ohio Street, and illustrated with a sketch of the floor plan and five photographs by Frank Miller, who is a local photographer.

In this article, Mrs. Powell tells how she built their modern home with respect for the traditions of the West. Architects and Engineers Avery, Pierce and Norris planned the house around a large screened terrace fronting on the south lawn. And every corridor in the house leads to the terrace where the Selfs can look, eat and entertain in the open air.

Corridor Rambles

side the house as the room is visible from the door of another. The corridor is paved with crab-apple flagstone that continues through the opening into the living room to form the hearth. Crab-apple ledge stone is used to face the fireplace. The warm color of the stone is repeated in the burlap which covers the fireplace wall.

Although the living-dining room often plays second fiddle to the terrace as the social center of the Self home, it is a pleasant, adaptable room, large enough to accommodate a sizable party, yet cozy enough for every-day living.

Mrs. Powell is a free lance writer who has lived in Midland for the last 15 years. She is a charter member of the Midland Writers' Group and has written feature articles for magazines, trade publications and newspapers.

Fashion Experts Predict A Romantic, Feminine Spring

A romantic and feminine Spring is predicted for 1952. This will be seen in sleeves puffed out to exaggerated fullness, closely molded midrifts, elongated torso lines and novel back interest.

Midlanders will be wearing an abundance of tiny figure hugging jackets, nipped in waistlines, billowing skirts and exciting textured fabrics.

A variety of designs are used to make the sleeves puff. They include layer upon layer of tiny cape sleeves, they flare out at the elbow, lantern out to the elbow or appear as leg of mutton full at the very top of a long sleeve.

On dresses, sleeves are short and full and on coats they may be braces or elbow length. But they are full and deep set with deeper than usual armholes.

The closely molded midrifts also are new and popular. They are outlined by very narrow self belts, decorative contrasting seams, cut-in meribands or tiny jackets.

The giddy top look places emphasis on an elongated torso line. It is most effective when combined with a full skirt that may be pleated, gathered or simply a whirl all around.

Back interest is generously used on coats and suits. The coats, belts, placed high across the shoulders, hold back fullness. Suits feature skirts that hang straight and slim in front and gathered fully in back.

The tiny figure hugging jackets used for emphasis of molded midrifts, tightly nipped waistlines and full skirts can be made of fur, top a suit or be independent toppers.

Almost dominating the Spring fashion silhouette are the skirts that bell out on suits, dresses and coats. They offer youthful charm when fluffed out over petticoats. Many are fluttering pleats.

Perhaps predominant among the new textured fabrics, such as light-weight poodle cloths, tweeds, fleeces and cashmeres, is silk. It can be seen in everything from suits to blouses. It appears in a new weave that looks like a light wool tweed

Miss Howard and Har'grove were honored with a dinner recently in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Dean. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Mary Bell and Kathie Dean.

The serving table was covered with a linen and lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of peach blossoms.

Little Jackets Make Contrast For Subtle Spring Prints

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK — The frosting on the print silk dress for this Spring is a little jacket. And this little jacket, sometimes bust-length, may be a Spencer, a bolero or a capelet. Spreading from the small top is a full skirt, pleated, or with unpressed pleats, or simply with a soft fullness. The print of these new dresses is fine and subtle, offering pretty contrast to the monotone jacket. Usually, the print of the dress makes the jacket lining and the jacket fabric reappear as trim on the dress, either in the belt or neckline.

The princess silhouette, important in full-length coats for Spring, is essential to dresses, too. Add to this silhouette two others that register: the Empire look and the molded torso.

A fourth strong silhouette is the one with a straight front and fullness at the back. It's accompanied by moderately full sleeves.

The newest of the daytime skirts is the one that has fullness spreading from below the hipline. But skirts with all-around fullness, get emphasis, too, and are seen in many jacket costumes.

There's a difference in jacket dresses this year in that the dress that goes under the jacket has interest in itself, rather than being just basic. This means that without the jacket, the dress has merit of its own and can hold its place in the wardrobe.

Other fashion points to watch for in Spring dresses are full and girlish sleeves, crinolined skirts, and the waistline rising higher in nearly all daytime designs.

Sul Ross Exes Will Form Area Chapter

Scarfs Add Gay Touch To Spring, Summer Fashions

For that gay, light touch in a wardrobe, scarfs are an important accessory.

Chiffon, tie silk, cotton or taffeta—all lend themselves beautifully to scarf trickery. And there will be a variety of hand-for Spring shoppers.

For those who prefer bold dashes of color, there will be wide squares in brilliant East Indian tones. For those who like it pastel, there will be soft, misty chiffons. Gay, striped or plaid taffetas also are being featured.

How will they be worn? Why, draped or flowing from a pocket or belt or perhaps tied around a slim waist. Chiffon scarfs make saucy bows to perk up a neckline, or to fill in the V-throat of a dress or suit.

Scarves will be popular for evening wear, too. Sequin-adorned scarves will be worn over the hair or draped becomingly around bare shoulders.

The fashion-wise will try one flowing from a rhinestone bracelet or caught at the wrist with a floss-gay of flowers.

The dress with a little jacket is essential for daytime wear this spring. As done by designer Paul Farnes (left), it's an alliance of wool and print. Short purple wool bolero tops a pure silk purple-and-white afternoon dress, is lined in the print of the dress. Stitched pleats of the skirt flare from the hips. From Eisenberg (right) comes a gray pure silk print teamed with jacket of gray flannel. Square neckline of the dress is edged in flannel and there's a gray flannel belt. Skirt is completely pleated, worn over a taffeta and horsehair petticoat for added fullness.

Sarah Genora Brown Weds W. K. Watson

Sarah Genora Brown of Midland became the bride of William Kenneth Watson of Groves in a double-ring ceremony held Saturday in the First Baptist Church. Dr. Albert Venting of Fort Worth, uncle of the bride, officiated and was assisted by the Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Yates Brown of Midland and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Watson of Groves.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of imported chantilly lace over satin. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped neckline and a yoke of illusion. The lace sleeves came to petal points over each wrist. The lace bouffant skirt over satin was fashioned with lace scallops which revealed a wide accordion-pleated nylon net panel front. The skirt extended into a chapel length train and her fingertip length veil of imported illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace over satin and was accented with lilies of the valley.

Bridal Attendants Listed

She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, centered with a white cattleya orchid, and tied with illusion and satin ribbon.

Mrs. P. M. Johnston of Waco, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She was attired in a light green strapless gown of nylon net over taffeta and wore a stole of nylon net. The bouffant skirt of net had an accordion-pleated paneled front, similar to the bride's dress, and her bandeaux and mitts were of shirred green net. White ranunculus and maiden hair fern, tied with green satin ribbon, made up her bouquet.

The bridesmaids were Sarah Hunter of Midland, Mrs. John E. Greene of Fort Worth, Patricia Tippett of San Angelo and Mina Matthews of Abilene. The bridal attendants were dressed exactly as the matron of honor and carried matching bouquets.

Eugene Offield of Abilene served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Yates Brown of Midland, brother of the bride, Elton Woodrom of Port Neches, Brooks Allen of San Angelo and Bob Hart of Levelland.

Vows were exchanged before a white archway entwined with plumosa fern and marooni daisies. Baskets of stock and white candelabra decorated the altar. Woodwardia trees formed the background. White satin ribbon and pew corsages of white feathered carnations marked the pews of the families. White tapers decorated the railings around the altar and the windows.

Nuptial Music Presented

The nuptial organ music was presented by Mrs. Joseph H. Mims. The selections included, "O Promise Me," De Koven; "Thine Alone," Herbert; "Because," D'Hardelot; "I Love You Truly," Jacobs-Bond, and "Clair de Lune," Debussy. Duke Jimerson, soloist, sang, "Through the Years," Youmans, and "I Love Thee," Grigg. For the processional, Mrs. Mims played "Lohengrin," Wagner, and "Wedding Prayer," Dunlap, during the ceremony which also was sung at the close of the ceremony. The recessional music was "Wedding March," Mendelssohn.

A reception was held in the home of Mrs. Barbara A. Wall, 601 North Marientfeld Street. Mrs. Wall is the bride's grandmother. The couple was assisted in the receiving line by Mrs. Brown, mother of the bride, mother of the groom, the matron of honor and the bridesmaids.

An arrangement of white gladioli and queen's wreath was the centerpiece for the bride's table. At one end of the table, which was covered with a white cutwork cloth, was a cut-glass punch bowl and at the other end, a three-tiered wedding cake on a round mirror.

The buffet in the serving room held an arrangement of white carnations and green tapers. An arrangement of gladioli was on the mantel in the receiving room and baskets of stock were placed on either side of the mantel and at the archway of the dining room.

Overly Critical Men Give No Credit To Wife's Abilities

Chances are your wife is a lot smarter than you give her credit for being.

If you long ago decided that she hasn't the foggiest idea of what you are up against in your business or profession, answer this question honestly. Have you ever gone to any pains to explain the real set-up of your business to her, what things are important and why, what your real problems are, what your chief aims are?

If you haven't done that and tried to keep her up to date on what is going on at the office, how can you possibly expect her to know what you are up against?

If you don't think such of her as a housekeeper, ask yourself another question. Do you ever make any comment to show that you notice the things she does for your comfort, or do you only mention her job when you complain that a button is off a shirt, there's no soap in the bathroom or that she forgot to buy light bulbs? If that is the case she probably got discouraged long ago and decided that you were more interested in finding fault than in anything else.

Give Wife Responsibility

If you think she is extravagant, how about this: Have you ever given her a chance to handle a certain amount of money and to try to get the most for it? Or have you put her in a position where she feels no responsibility for the bills she runs up—and charges what she wants with the thought that you'll probably raise rain when the bill comes in but, of course, you'll end up by paying it?

If you think she doesn't handle the children well, you might answer another question. Have you left the job entirely up to her, stepping in only to criticize her?

decisions after they have been made? No woman can handle children well if that is the set-up.

If you think she isn't well-informed about what is going on in the world, here is another question for you: Do you low-rate women's opinions on serious affairs and ridicule any ideas of her own she does express? If so, no wonder she sticks to such safe topics as the household and the children.

Most wives are smarter than their husbands give them credit for being or ever encourage them to be. How about yours? (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

For a late party supper snack serve cold baked ham with a ring of tomato aspic filled with potato salad. As an extra salad you might have a bowl of mixed greens tossed with French dressing. To complete the menu serve crusty rolls, lots of good strong coffee, and small frosted cakes or fancy cookies.

Filled canned peach halves with creamed cottage cheese and arrange on lettuce. Mix thick or sour-cream with tarragon vinegar; salt and sugar to taste and spoon over the filled peach halves. Serve as a salad-dessert.

Music Club Has Bach Program

The Young Artists Music Club met Thursday in the home of Barbara Tom, with Kay Colwick as co-hostess. Larry Ann Burnside gave the life of Bach and his style of writing was explained by Mrs. Gilbert Sevier.

The following program of selections by Bach was given: "Minuet in G Major," Mike Brady; "Minuet in E Major," Larry Ann Burnside; "Musette," Mike Brady; "Corale," Marilyn Elder; "March," Diane Burnside; "Cassocka," Joy Leggett; "Singing Towers," Nancy Grewell; "To a Wild Rose," Lois Nell West; "Canonetta," Janice Hill; "Etude," Kay Colwick; "Sonata," Tommy Miller, and "Impromptu," Evelyn Hill.

Refreshments were served and plans were made for the Inter-scholastic Festival.

Clean your electric mixer before you put it away by using a cloth wrung out of warm soapsuds to wash off the housing and stand. Rinse the same way and wipe dry with a soft cloth.

Spring Fashions For Men Emphasize 'Natural Look'

Emphasis on men's wear for Spring will be "The right clothes at the right time."

With the recent stress on casual attire, some men have lost sight of the fact that there are suits and individual types of sports apparel designed and meant for different occasions.

The dark blue suit is essential and right for informal evening gatherings. The tweedy sport coat has its place on picnics of at the country club.

With the large choice of suits and topcoats available in Midland stores the "man from Midland" will find it easy to select a wardrobe variety.

Men's wear makers are placing great stress on the natural look. An example is the single-breasted two-button suit. This type of suit also is typical of the trend to lighter weights and reduced bulk in suits.

Narrow Lapels

"Natural shoulder" suit models featuring narrow lapels, buttons set higher and trim, conservative tailoring are expected to increase in popularity this Spring in keeping with the "natural look" theme.

The same trend extends to topcoats. They are styled with narrower shoulders combined with set-in sleeves and fly or button-through fronts. Emphasis is placed on the straight-hanging effect.

Other suit silhouettes include the drape model with moderately broad shoulders and the lounge model with moderate width and slightly raised shoulders.

The fabric news is tweeds, cashmeres and shetlands. Also predominant are new rayons in linen weaves and shantung types.

Certain to win favor are the brighter shades of greys, tans and browns. These shades are accentuated in three-way, multi-colored checks, plaids and novelty patterns.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

BY NORTH CALLAHAN

NEW YORK — Carl Haverlin, president of Broadcast Music, Inc., the big organization that rivals ASCAP, has an unusual hobby. He organized and is head of the Civil War Round Table, a group of New Yorkers who meet once a month and intellectually fight the war between the states over again. Actually, the informal discussions are stimulating and informative. I have found as a member, and a nice balance is maintained between the Northern and Southern viewpoints. Carl, who with his horn-rimmed glasses looks intellectual, and who recently turned down the $100,000-a-year job as president of the National Association of Broadcasters, presides over the Lee-Grant or Lincoln-Davis discussions with nice aplomb. His is a wholesome hobby.

Out of the cold March weather, I dropped into the annual Flower Show in Central Palace and found there not only Spring but Summer. One's first impression is being at a great wedding—it's too cheerful to resemble a funeral—for flowers are all around. Orchids, roses, tulips and hundreds of other varieties were arranged in gardens so realistic one easily could imagine himself in the country instead of mid-Manhattan. Not only flowers but fruits and animals were there. New England delicacies vying with Southern fragrances. Near me a New Yorker, arms full of flowers and paraphernalia, bought one more article and sighed: "How what will I do with all this? I live in a hotel!" A smart attendant quickly pointed out to her the new terrace greenhouse, a miniature glass-enclosed garden designed for apartment dwellers. The show was the greatest floral festival Gotham has had. But maybe I lack some flower-appreciation, for I ended up buying a can of maple syrup.

An outstanding woman of New York is Miss Julia Wilson, well-known financial writer and editorial consultant, who proves that brains and success attach themselves also to the distaff side. Since 1935 when she came here from her home town of Chattanooga, Miss Wilson has been active in the field of finance—now her work in it is notable. You see, she makes Wall Street jargon make sense, a rare achievement, and in her sumptuous apartment-office at 300 East 66th Street, dictates thousands of words daily to her secretary, words that go to make up histories of big companies, sales brochures for stocks, and human-interest letters to shareholders. She has given big business a fine feminine touch.

One of the first families I met when I came to New York was the Tom Dewey, and not long afterward, met the George Gallup. Now I notice that Tom Dewey, Jr. and George Gallup, Jr., are trying to make their baseball team at Princeton, the former a pitcher, the latter a catcher. This column does not indulge in politics, but one cannot help but recall that in 1948, Tom, Sr., was pitching for the Presidency, while George, Sr., was catching the results of his famous poll—and Tom must have thrown him a curve—for George was caught off base.

Passing by the Henry Street Settlement House, I dropped in to learn how this first visiting nurse service in the world was founded. It seems that many years ago a young apothecary in New York named Lillian Wald decided to become a nurse—to the horror of her position-conscious friends. The first day she worked determined her career. She found nine persons living in two

New Hair Designs Emphasize Longer, Smoother Hair Styles

Like every phase of fashion, fads quickly come and go in the hair design picture. However, there is a definitely new trend in the latest forecast of hair style changes. According to a Fashion Council, the keynote this Spring is a longer look which is both feminine and more becoming to most women. It is called the "directional trend."

Carroll To Attend Houston Convention

CRANE — C. A. Carroll, Crane High School shop teacher, will attend the annual convention of the Texas Vocational Association in Houston, April 3, 4, and 5. The convention headquarters will be in the Shamrock Hotel, and Dewey F. Barick, manager, Industrial Arts Awards Program, Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Michigan will be the featured speaker with the topic "Public Relations for Industrial Teachers."

When cutting apples for salad, protect them from darkening by mixing the pieces with lemon, orange, grapefruit, or pineapple juice. Salad dressing will also add a protective coating that will keep the apples from darkening.

This new trend is for "the woman who dares to look a season ahead." Contrary to the bushy look of the short cuts, the general line of the "directional trend" is closer to the head which makes it more interesting and flattering for most individuals. The length brings out the full beauty of the hair. This trend emphasizes an upward movement which may be used all around the head. Or, it may appear on only one side while the other side has a horizontal line. The new upward trend is ideal for the new Spring hats. This season's sailors, discs and director's bonnets all have a small shallow feeling and are worn with a level pose.

Thicken the syrup from canned black cherries and flavor with a little orange rind; add to the drained cherries and chill. Serve with a spoonful of thick sour cream and a topping of freshly-grated nutmeg. If you have one of the attractive wooden nutmeg grinders now available you can pass it and let family and guests add their own topping of this aromatic spice.

FORECAST FOR SPRING—Fashion-minded women will be wearing longer hair this season. The hair style pictured illustrates the new "directional trend" with a swirled bang and upward movement on the sides.

One section of New York City has a "toyery" which lends toys to children free of charge after the manner of free libraries. There are new ironing boards available that can be adjusted to your height, so that you can work in a sitting or standing position.

Spring Fabrics Appear With 'New Face'

Two interesting and distinctly different "faces" appear in fabrics for Spring fashions this year. New fabrics are the by smooth draping feel in new silks and taffeta shantung and the sponge-like spring textured wools. For contrast, there are ribbed, slubbed and tubby effects. It is a textured look that can be seen in a variety of tweed-like linen-type cottons, sculptured fleeces and wool and rayon boucles. Striking effects are achieved by combining the smooth and the textured as in a light sheer wool with a dark boucle check. All new Spring fabrics have a lightness of weight. Over-sized patterns, blow-up versions of basket weaves, homespuns and herringbones make dramatic new-season fashions. Spring coats are predicted to be popular in deep textured nubby tweeds or other loopy-faced wools. Suits take to barathras and worsteds. This characteristic also is present in dress fabrics, as the linen-like silks and worsteds.

Spring Silhouette Is Slim And Flared

Spring expresses itself fashion-wise in two slim suits and a cylindrical coat. Soft suit (left) is in brown-and-yellow houndstooth check woolen. A Monte Nano design, it has a minute shawl collar and full sleeves with intricate elbow inset. Philip Mangone's nubby woolen coat (center) is cylindrical in shape, cornflower blue in color. Grey-and-white-worsted makes a suit by Seymour Fox (right) that has slim lines and jacket with petal cut.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The suit is a standby for Spring. One suit and two coats, perhaps one a sporter and the other full length, will make a wardrobe for many women this Spring.

The soft suit and the suit with slim lines are always favorites. This year they're most favored when they have the fairly short jacket, a molded bodice, soft shoulders and imagination in the sleeve details.

Generally, the suit with the full pleated skirt is regarded as the "extra" suit, the one to be purchased only when there's a new and basic suit for the Spring wardrobe. Menswear silk does well now for late-day party wear and can get along under a coat. Later, in warmer weather, it can be worn alone.

The rayon suit, one that knows no season, is shown in rayon rib, flannel or spun rayon. It's budget-priced, well tailored and often fully lined. A favorite for late Spring wear, it also does well under a coat.

The coat itself may be having an princess or the slim box type in a shorter length. The princess' coat is likely to have soft shoulders and a full skirt that's nearly bouffant. The box coat, in textured fleece, in tweed or in poodle fabric, is a fashion that looks well over either the slim or full skirt.

McCamey News

McCAMEY—Mrs. R. A. Barger and Mrs. John Sheehan entertained at bridge recently in the Park Building. Approximately 35 persons attended.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Anderson, Zetta Faye and Ann Kay spent the weekend in Houston.

Pfc. Jack A. Perty has been in McCamey visiting his mother and sisters.

Crane Students Name Basketball Sweetheart

CRANE—Miss Peggy McCasland was elected by a vast majority vote of the students to be basketball sweetheart for the '51-'52 season.

Peggy who is a senior has been on the student council three years and class treasurer in her junior and senior year. She was class favorite in the 8th grade.

If you have a group of unrelated small pictures, join them together with a flourish by attaching them to two-toned cotton decorator braid tacked to the back of each frame.

Theater Opening Set In McCamey

McCAMEY—The all-new, modern 560-seat Ford Theater will open in Rankin Wednesday, Manager Marvin Bell has announced.

The building is of tile construction, finished with brick in the front. A modern marquee is an eye-catcher from the outside.

The auditorium is finished in celotex, with concrete floors throughout as an extra fire precaution. There is a small balcony. Seats are upholstered.

For the opening of the new theater, the management obtained the film "Ten Tall Men," starring Burt Lancaster, one of the better movies of the year. There will be two complete shows on opening night and each evening.

Bicknell Plumbing Company Opened

G. E. Bicknell, formerly of Snyder, announces the opening of a modern and completely equipped plumbing establishment at 401 South Terrell Street. He is the son of the late G. L. Bicknell, who owned and operated a plumbing business in Monahans for a number of years.

Bicknell's business will be known as Bick's Plumbing Company, featuring reasonable prices on plumbing fixtures in Midland.

Lotion Helps Hide Scratches

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

To those women who've reached voting age, the onset of Spring winds is usually a signal for legs to go undercover, seeking the protection and concealment of filmy hose. For the girl still in high school or college, however, the change in seasons means relatively little—their legs must still stand upon their own merits, bare above their ankle sox.

Often the merit of smooth-skinned shapeliness is marred by the scratches and bruises that seem an inevitable part of an active life. Bike rides, picnics in the woods, hockey, exercise classes in the gym—all seem to leave small reminders in the form of angry red-skinned areas or dark spots.

For these minor imperfections, it's a good idea to keep on hand a medicated lotion such as that offered by one well-known cosmetic house. Not only is it antiseptic and healing, but it also is useful for covering up unsightly marks.

Since it was created as a double-duty cosmetic—to heal blemishes as well as serve as a safe make-up foundation for those with imperfect complexions—this product blends easily and inconspicuously into the skin around the injured area.

This campus beauty hides an unsightly scratch on her leg with a medicated lotion which heals as well as conceals.

Mix And Match Your Colors For Spring

Your scarves and jewelry offer many opportunities for wardrobe versatility. A little practice is all that is necessary, for instance, to make a pretty date-hat like the one pictured in the upper left hand corner. When you are entertaining guests, try a more formal draping of scarves (lower left) tied together at the shoulder and belted at the waist. Three flower pins accent the other side of the neckline. Black and white silk print scarves, one as a gilet top and the other as a bolero (upper center) spotlight this season's handsome gold cuff bracelets. Always a welcome sign of Spring are blossoming floral scarves and flower-shaped pins and earrings. An unusual way to wear these scarves is by tying two 36-inch squares together at the shoulder and belting them at the waist. The flying panels will give an entirely different appearance to your basic dress. Complete your accessories with feminine rhinestone bangle bracelets. Hats usually take a pretty gay touch at this time of year, and if you are on the mood for some frivolous fluff, make a quick hat out with two long, pink tulle scarves. Fold one scarf twice to form a square. Pin a tuck about one inch deep in the fold. Then fold the second scarf four times to achieve loose pleats at both ends, and pin it two-thirds of the way across. Fold first square on the double, and slide the other important above-the-waist interest. Gold star pins, worn three at a time, punctuate the belt-line. Always a favorite for at-home evenings or more social events is a bow, fashioned from a pure silk scarf, pinned prettily to accent a V neckline (lower center). Scarves and pins can be as glamorous as you like, too. Try tying two hand-woven turquoise and gold organza saris into a soft pouf at your throat, and let one panel float softly in front, while the other gives a dramatic back effect (right).

those new hand-woven organza saris imported from India. High-light your halter neckline with a gold orchid pin and matching earrings. For your arms, carry out this year's big but delicate, jewelry theme. Pick lacy gold bracelets. These are just a few of the possibilities you can try with your jewelry and scarves. As you experiment, you'll probably discover many, many others.

LIBRARIANS ATTEND MEET
Lucile Carroll and Helen Cartwright of the Midland County Library attended a workshop sponsored by District I of the Texas Library Association Friday in Levelland. The group met in the Hockley County Library Mrs. Carroll led a discussion on "Book Jobbers."

There are 39 books in the Old Testament; 27 in the New.

Designers Get In The Swim With Tailored, Dressy Beachtogs

Beach togs this year will be trim and tailored or dressy and frilled, all depending on the tastes of the wearer.

Tailored suits will feature shirt-waist styling, front buttoning, simulated belts, cuffing at the bustline or legs and the use of shirring low on a front panel.

The suits' lines are fresh and sleek—just the thing for the girl who has watched her lines through the winter.

Dressy suits will take to the water-front, too. These will follow princess lines, with ruffles or with pleating and embroidery. Their skirts are flared over brief shorts.

Designers also have given a lot of attention to the under-cover story. Newest suits are elasticized to control milady's lines. Some have an elasticized panel over the diaphragm, others a built-in tummy control which supports and flattens. Of course, the derriere is kept in line, too.

One firm offers its long-line bra as a separate item to be buttoned into any one of its new swim suits. Other manufacturers feature bathing suits with wire bras.

Swim suits everywhere this Summer will have an eye-appeal easily attributed to line, to hot and intense colors and to the imaginative use of elasticized cottons, prints, laces and Siamese prints. Even silk is being converted into acceptable beachwear.

Most of the new swim suits are marked for a double life. Not only will they feel at home in the water, but they also will be wonderful for sunning, for games and for just being lazy.

Swim suits in junior sizes, 9 to 15, will be offered for the small girl. Bathing beauties, sun-worshippers or just plain escapists from the city

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1952, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Senator McCarran uses Espionage Act to browbeat press; Aisop brothers' wrath; Florida shrimp fishermen threaten war with Mexico.

WASHINGTON—Pat McCarran, the senator who rules the Senate Judiciary Committee with the same highhandedness that marks his domination of the State of Nevada, has developed a new technique for browbeating the press.

If a newspaperman fails to agree with him or dares criticize his dictatorial techniques, McCarran proceeds to investigate that newspaperman for violation of the Espionage Act.

Such an investigation of two newspaper columnists, Joseph and Stewart Aisop, now is being conducted by McCarran through his Internal Security Committee because the Aisop brothers dared criticize McCarran's high-handed methods.

The Espionage Act, originally passed in 1917, during the height of the World War I hysteria against Germany, is so broad that the press associations and even the staid old New York Times unwittingly violate its letter—although not its spirit—probably once or twice a month.

It is quite certain that the Aisop brothers have gone no further than such a technical violation. However, it is certain they have had the courage to do what few other newsmen have done in challenging Senator McCarran.

Joe Aisop, who served in China during the war and knows far more about its problems than any member of the McCarran committee, had this to say about McCarran's tactics in cross-examining John Carter Vincent, U. S. diplomatic adviser to Vice President Henry Wallace on his mission to China:

"Vincent all but had a light shined in his eyes and was beaten by a rubber hose. . . . The central issue was almost completely ignored.

"The main upshot of the Wallace mission to China, in which Vincent participated, was a recommendation to dismiss the pro-Chinese-Communist Gen. Joseph Stilwell, and to replace him with sturdy anti-Communist Gen. Albert Wedemeyer. . . . Under the circumstances you might have supposed that the central issue would have been examined by the senators at some length.

"Had you done so, however, you would have gravely misjudged Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada. . . . Instead, Senator McCarran and friends concentrated on trying to show that Vincent had somewhat misjudged the Chinese situation in the crucial late war and post-war years."

In another column the Aisop brothers questioned the veracity of Louis Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker.

"Senator Pat McCarran's Internal Security subcommittee. . . they wrote, 'has just finished beating John Carter Vincent over the head with its verbal substitutes for a rubber hose.

"In all the brutal questioning of this high State Department official not one word was said about the veracity of Vincent's sole accuser, the professional ex-Communist, Louis Budenz."

McCarran's answer to the Aisop brothers' criticism was not given on the floor of the Senate in the traditional form of American debate. It came in the form of an investigation of the columnists' writings in an effort to nail them with a violation of the Espionage Act.

Phantom War With Mexico

For about two hours last week, the highest executives of the U. S. government were trying to stave off possible "war" between the United States and Mexico.

Secretary of Defense Lovett was on the telephone with Secretary of State Acheson, then in touch with the chief of Naval Operations, Adm. William F. Fechteler, to head off an attack on the Mexican coast by a band of Florida shrimp fishermen.

The tip of the forthcoming attack on Mexico came from acting Secretary of the Navy Francis Whitehair who had received a telephone call from Florida that 20 shrimp fishermen had been detained by Mexican authorities for fishing in the Gulf of Mexico, and that other Florida shrimp fishermen were determined to rescue their comrades.

Reverberations of the 1917 attack by the U. S. Navy on Tampico immediately were remembered in the State Department.

"So, after some quick consultation, Secretary of Defense Lovett ordered a Coast Guard vessel to stand by in the Gulf of Mexico to ward off the invading Florida shrimp fishermen—only to find that Mexico already had released the other shrimp fishermen and there was nothing to get steamed up about after all.

Kicked Upstairs

Ed Johnson, the hulking Democratic senator from Colorado, has a peculiar system for deciding whether to support certain Truman appointees. It sometimes depends on whether he wants them ousted from their present jobs.

Referring to Dale Doty, recently appointed to the Federal Power Commission from his post as assistant secretary of the Interior,

Johnson told Senators: "I would like to say this, that I have been very much disappointed in Mr. Doty's handling of Indian affairs. I have understood that he handled the Indian affairs in the Department of the Interior. I have been very much disappointed with many of the things that he has tried to do down there on behalf of Indians, but as I understand it, the Federal Power Commission will have nothing whatever to do with Indian affairs."

"So, personally, I am glad to see Mr. Doty out of the Interior Department where he has been handling Indian affairs and going over to a commission which does not handle Indian affairs. In other words, I am glad to see him kicked upstairs."

Note—Doty, a career man, has had a long and competent record in the Interior Department, should make a good Power commissioner.

Cuban Embassy Revolt

It seldom happens that revolution takes place on the soil of one country by nationals of another country against their own country.

That, however, was what happened in Mexico City the other day when Dictator Batista seized control of the Cuban government in Havana.

Mexico had nothing to do with that revolution, yet a minor revolt was staged in Mexico City by two groups of Cubans for control of the Cuban Embassy.

When the Batista uprising occurred in Havana, the Cuban ambassador in Mexico City, Manuel Brana, refused to bow, remained loyal to President Frias and the constitutional government of Cuba.

Whereupon the Cuban military attaches in Mexico City, together with the air and naval attaches set up machine guns inside the embassy, threatened to shoot up the embassy unless the ambassador surrendered. All this happened without the immediate knowledge of Mexican officials, since Cuban Embassy territory is Cuban soil not subject to Mexican law.

Finally, Ambassador Brana decided that he who fights and runs away will live to fight another day, and surrendered the embassy to the Cuban military.

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Old Stone Wall.

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, had nothing else to do and so he decided to do something he had done before. He decided to go for a visit to a far corner of the Great Forest. He decided to go for a visit to the Old Stone Wall where once upon a long time ago he had sat on the wall to do some thinking of happy thoughts.

The stars were beginning to wink and twink in the sky as he climbed on top of the wall. A mockingbird in a bush nearby was singing in a sleepy little song. From on away and across a hill came the faint tinkle-tinkle of a cowbell where the cow was walking back home to the barn! A man called out from over the hill, and farther away came the answering call of a woman. Daddy Ringtail didn't understand the words, and they didn't call again. Daddy Ringtail guessed that the man was coming home to his house for supper and that the man was bringing the cow back home from the fields.

Daddy Ringtail sat down on top of the wall all ready to do some thinking of the happy thoughts he used to think in the very same place on the wall. Again he heard the tinkle of the cowbell, very faint and far away. Once he thought he heard the happy barking of a dog.

Daddy Ringtail looked at the stars. They were old friends up there in the sky. Some of the stars he knew by name. Others had names he didn't know. A star always a friendly something. It is

Western Company To Present Radio Show Over Midland Station

The Western Company, with headquarters offices in Midland, will present a series of radio programs based on the authentic experiences of undercover agent Matt Cvetic, company officials announced Saturday. The 30-minute programs, starring Dana Andrews, Hollywood actor, is titled "I Was a Communist for the FBI." They will be heard over KORS at 7:30 p.m. each Monday.

For nine agonizing years Matt Cvetic listened in on the communist top secrets, and pipelined them to the FBI. During those nine years, his mother died thinking him a Communist, his wife labeled him a spy, his son rejected and shunned him. His friends thought him a traitor. Those nine years gave America a new kind of hero.

One of the most provocative documents in America's war on communism, formerly a sensational series in the Saturday Evening Post and a "must see" movie, now emerges as a timely and powerful radio show. The series dramatizes the actual experiences of Cvetic who posed as a Communist for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

It is said that if one per cent of the eggs laid by oysters came to maturity the increase in oysters would be so rapid that, within 50 years, they would fill the seas, and all the countries of the world would be flooded by an overflow of water.

The cucumber is a favorite vegetable in desert countries because when eaten it quenches the thirst. Sweet vine products, such as the watermelon, have much less effect.

Azalea Party Large Affair At Wilmington

By HAL BOYLE
WILMINGTON, N. C. —(AP)—Any excuse for throwing a party is a good one.

But they have a particularly fine excuse for an annual community-wide party here to honor a flower.

The flower is the azalea. It is as symbolic to the people of historic Cape Fear as the magnolia is to the deeper South.

"The azalea is Robert E. Lee with petals," said one old resident, summing up the feeling Tarheels have for these bushes which turn the countryside into a rainbow of bloom.

Right now old Wilmington, where Lord Cornwallis once had his headquarters, George Washington danced and the father of Woodrow Wilson preached, is flooded with thousands of visitors who have come to pay homage to a flower.

There are a lot of other side attractions during the unique four-day festival. They call out the Army, the Navy and the Marines to march in parades, they dance fi the streets at night, they fly in a Hollywood actress and crown her queen, they hold folk music concerts and a $10,000 golf tournament.

Come To See Azaleas

But the real show is 1,000,000 or more azalea plants just reaching peak beauty. That is what 100,000 nature lovers really come to see and it is a tremendous demonstration of the pride Carolinians have in their land, a mystic kinship with the soil built up through almost 300 years.

The three great azalea mecca around Wilmington are Greenfield Lake, one of America's most lovely municipal parks, and two show places—Arlie Gardens and famous old Orton Plantation.

Dominating the 135 acres of Arlie Gardens is a 39-room mansion built by Pembroke Jones, a nineteenth century rice magnate and friend of Banker J. P. Morgan. It contains a staircase from Sir Walter Raleigh's home in England.

W. Albert Corbett, an industrialist, bought the estate for a home in 1947, but the gardens are open to the public. It costs more than $25,000 a year to keep them flowering.

One Of Finest

Rising from the midst of a carpet of riotous azaleas is one of the finest trees in the nation, a towering wide spreading liveoak draped with Spanish moss.

It is a tree that looks like father time. Visitors come and stand under it in silence for a long time, looking almost reverently up at its tremendous wrinkled arms. "It makes you feel like you are in a cathedral," one said.

A lady who lives here says her husband is in love with the old oak, but she isn't jealous of it at all.

"They say oaks like it grow for 300 years, live for 300 years, and die for 300 years," she remarked. "The Arlie oak is in the middle 300 years. I'm glad of it because I'd hate to see my husband outlive that tree. "It would be the death of him."

Senior Girl Scout Troop Is Organized

ANDREWS—A new Senior Girl Scout Troop was organized in Andrews recently with Mrs. Paul Cumble and Mrs. J. W. Woodard named as troop leaders.

Officers are: President, Marlene Moore; vice president, Sandra Parker; secretary, Shirley Latham; treasurer, Carolyn Reed; reporter, Jerry Sue Scott, and song leader, Jatuan Merritt.

Induction Service Is Held For MHS Chapter Of Honor Group

The annual induction service of the Midland Chapter of the National Honor Society was held in assembly March 26.

The program was opened by Peggy Read, president of the Midland chapter. She told of the objectives which are to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage the development of character in the students of Midland High School.

Short talks on character, scholarship, leadership and service were presented by Jackie Ewald, Emily Hamilton, Tommy Vanaman and Peggy Simmons.

Delbert Downing, manager of the Chapter of Commerce, was the principal speaker. He complimented the group on the honors they had received but also said these honors brought forth new responsibilities and urged them to be ready to meet these responsibilities.

Don Mitchell presented the new members with their membership cards.

Let's Raise Standard

(An Editorial)

Few persons think of cheating as a form of stealing. Yet, stealing is defined as the taking of that which is not one's own, and cheating actually is taking the time, effort, and mental accomplishments of another.

Often students are surprised in finding that a certain teacher does not trust him. Perhaps the real reason may lie in the fact that the teacher has seen that student cheat at some time or another. Do you blame that teacher for not considering him trustworthy?

It has been proven that the more cheating done in a school, the lower the scholastic standard of that school. So let's raise the citizenship as well as the scholastic standard of Midland High School by lowering the amount of cheating.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting On 'State Plan'

Several members of the faculty of Midland High School journeyed to Lamesa to attend a meeting on the state plan for vocational education. The purpose of this meeting was to plan and discuss proposals for a state-wide five-year program of vocational education. The conclusions reached by the committees were sent to Dr. Edgar, commissioner of education.

The afternoon program consisted of an introduction by school community groups, a talk by E. R. Alexander about the background for holding conferences on the plan and a panel discussion of proposals led by G. B. Wadcock, superintendent of Lamesa Schools, who served as chairman of the day.

After group discussion, vocational service meetings were held. These included industrial education, distributive education, agriculture education and home and family life education. The home and family life education group was under the direction of Mrs. Faye Massey.

Midland representatives attending were Miss Ruth Donnell, director of distributive education, J. R. Cuffman, director of agriculture education, Mrs. Faye Massey, director of home and family life, and Mrs. J. J. Black, lay person invited by home and family life division.

Grid Spirit Revived As Tryouts Staged For Cheerleaders

That peppy football season spirit was revived Tuesday when tryouts were held for the new 1952 and 1953 cheerleaders. The tryouts opened with two yells, "The Midland Echo" and "Fight," led by Cheerleaders Maxine Hill, Corky Moss, Pat Boles, Larry Mayfield and Sadie Nugent.

Sadie Nugent, head cheerleader for next year, announced the individual tryouts, including the following: Tom Dyer, Bill Crenshaw, Tommie Underwood, Barbara McMillan, Oshanna Gadberr, Donna Howard, Eddy Tanner, Bill Mayfield, Mary Ann Hill, Carol Loop, Nona Lynn, Faye Henshaw, Bobbie Elliot, Shirley Burnham, Jim Ten Eyck, Charles Worthen, Margie Nell, Penny Jones, Fifi Pryor, Betty Sivalls, Grace Boles, Anna Bess Doyle, Sharon Herrell and Dianne Nichols.

Throughout the tryouts various campaigns were staged. At the close of this year's cheerleaders said a farewell and asked the student body to back the new cheerleaders as much as it had backed them.

With Teacher III, Class Carries On

For the last two weeks a very unusual thing has been happening in Midland High School. One may have entered the home economics department and found the girls hard at work, or looking further, see that no teacher was conducting the class.

The teacher for these classes of second and third year clothing is Mrs. Faye Massey. Due to illness she was absent for two weeks. During her absence the class assumed responsibility and carried on.

Under the supervision of more experienced girls, each one serving as chairman for a three-day period, the other girls planned their work for the week and carried it out.

These girls certainly deserve a vote of confidence and dependability for the way they conducted class in the absence of a teacher. They should also serve as a fine example for all other MHS students.

Freshman Winner Of Bedroom 'Suit'

A hush covered the auditorium, a box was brought on stage and opened, a ticket for a bedroom "suit" was drawn out and the name on the card was read—Audrey Young.

This cute freshman rushed to the stage and was awarded the bedroom suit—a red-and-white flannel pair of pajamas to say the least, Audrey was speechless.

Audrey rather sheepishly claims Odessa as her birthplace. From Odessa she moved to Portland, Ore., where she lived for several years before coming to Midland four years ago.

Interested In Dancing

Dancing and piano interest Audrey greatly. She has studied tap and piano two years. She did a soft show dance for the recent coronation.

Science, Coach Bobo and red rate tops with Audrey. She also has an extensive collection of ornate fans.

Audrey has a busy schedule. Her schedule includes general math, English, general science, history and PE.

Remember When?

One year ago:

Marion Sevier was chosen by the Junior class to represent Midland High School at Blue Bonnet Girls State and Peggy Reed was chosen as the alternate.

The scholastic awards were listed for the benefit of the seniors.

Marion Sevier was the featured student.

The MHS students were asked to keep off of the newly planted grass.

Two years ago:

The Freshman Frolic was presented as a part assembly program.

Frances Treadway was elected PFA sweetheart. Votes sold for a penny each.

Ann Shelton Wins 2-AA Declamation

Ann Shelton won top honors in the Junior declamation competition at the District 3-AA literary meet in Lubbock, March 22. Theresa Jones placed second.

The one-act play, "The Twelve Pound Look" won second place. Members of the cast were Charles Whitmore, Betty Campbell, Eddy Tanner and Bill Rohitsek. Whitmore was placed on the all star cast.

Royce Measures placed second in extemporaneous speech.

The Bank of England carries its premises, furniture, and fittings on 1:1 balance sheets as assets to the value of one pound sterling.

Small Talk

By THE SNOOPER

Spring is just around the corner! Yes, the happiest time of the year is beginning to leave its signs in every nook and corner. The grass in front of the school is putting forth a valiant effort to look green, so for a while let's try to use the sidewalks for what they are intended, instead of taking a short cut across the lawn.

Free Lance

By GREGORY LOVELADY

Had you ever stopped to think? The large majority of our student body looks forward to assemblies only as a means for missing part of an uninteresting class, relieving acute boredom, catching up on their sleep, or maybe just to have a good laugh. Are you missing the important things?

The speaker for our assembly March 21, Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, cited a few excellent examples of one of the many important ingredients for good character and citizenship concerning "It's The Little Things That Count," especially our personal habits and public actions.

Our school could be improved tremendously if every student could take Dr. Lynn's speech, examine it like the print on a cereal box, take it as seriously as a death sentence, and be as conscientious about it as an out-of-place cur.

Influence Is Great

Dr. Lynn stated, we influence people so greatly with such "little things" as carving an initial on a desk, throwing waste paper on the school ground, or doing just the opposite of such things that are detrimental to the good of our fine high school.

The moral of his speech was pointed toward improving our little and seemingly unnoticeable habits.

Why not give yourself a close examination and see what you can find? It might even prove to be profitable.

Bulldog Barks

The Midland Track team journeyed to Big Spring and placed fourth in the meet.

The Bulldog golf team played a match at Big Spring, winning second place. They, along with the track and tennis teams, competed against some of the best teams in the West Texas Relays at Odessa.

A mistake in the golf write-up was made in the last week's Bulldog. In the Port Worth Southwestern meet Lee Snead shot the best score, with Marcelino Moreno shooting second best. Last week's column said that Morepo shot the best score.

The tennis team traveled to San Angelo and competed against San Angelo, Odessa, Sweetwater, and Sonora. Fifi Pryor won her first round of play in the senior girls singles but lost in the second round. In the junior boys' doubles, Troy Allen and Johnny Godwin won the championship. Carolyn Paris won the finals easily in the junior girls' singles while Sylvia Sullivan and Gay George went to the finals in junior girls' doubles, but lost.

Class Gives Own Version Of Play

The radio speech class presented its own version of the childhood story, "Dick Whittington and His Cat" March 25 over KJCB. The play was listened to by students of several schools in their story hours.

Those taking part in the play were Shirley Biggs, Bill Cartwright, Ann Fitzgerald, Martha Forrest, Helen Galloway, Jessie Hatfield, Bobby Hudson, Johnny Kennedy, Virginia Kroenlin, Robert's Stewart and Ann Matlock.

The production was under the direction of Verna Harris.

MHS Students Enter Odessa Competition

The A Cappella Choir and the Girls' Glee Club entered the vocal music competition in Odessa March 29.

Various ensembles also entered the competition.

The piano solos and vocal solos also were held on Saturday.

Coming Events

Monday — club group I.
Tuesday — advisory rooms.
Wednesday — assembly.
Thursday — advisory rooms.
Friday — advisory rooms.

The Rev. Aid married Mrs. John Lemon to Miss Mary Sugar at Wooster, Ohio, in 1939.

By MARY ANN SEARLES

We would like to introduce you to a group of fellow-students.

Deanna Lee Harris, a sophomore, intends to become a nurse or secretary and doesn't see any need of studying Latin, square dancing, volleyball, ball games, or Don's leisure time activities. She thinks Jim Thorpe, James Stewart, the color red, and Cadillacs are especially interesting.

Mary Ann Hill, sister of Maxine and a sophomore, hopes to follow in the footsteps of her cheerleading sister. If she could indulge in swimming and bowling and consuming quantities of steak and french fries, she would like to attend the Honneville Hot Rod Show in Utah, and think the General Motors assembly the best of the year. In other words, hip is "motor-minded."

Paula Hancock, a freshman from Ada, Okla., plans to go to California this summer and play tennis and swim. Winning first place in a poster contest was an exciting moment for Paula. Mr. Kilg's world history, Oklahoma, Buicks and fried chicken find favor with Paula.

Bobbie Elliott enjoys music and dancing and aspires to be a cheerleader. She finds Mrs. Feldman and biology to her liking. Perhaps since she comes from Louisiana and East Texas is the reason fish is her favorite food. The nursing field interests this sophomore.

Wins Trophies

Kenneth Ray Feemster thinks brother Wade's main interest has been "girls." This sophomore craves adventure and has won two trophies in motorcycle races and spends his spare time riding horses and motorcycles. He hopes to live on a ranch, be a bachelor, and enjoy lots more of his mother's cooking.

Ruby Faye Griffith, a freshman, thinks skating and the movies are the nicest ways to use leisure time—a rare individual who doesn't care for football but enjoys baseball. She lists homemaking as her least favorite subject but mathematics as her favorite.

Gay George is a sophomore. Her hobbies of collecting old coins and knives along with volleyball, tennis, and swimming fill her spare time. The plane ride from Georgia to Midland was a unique experience for Gay. Her aim is to be a stonographer and work in Washington, D. C.

Kay Colwick's hobby is one every body would enjoy — collecting old silver dollars. Being a substitute railroad engineer was the real thrill of Kay's life. After college a trip to Tibet would fit in with her plans. She likes freshman history and English.

EVER LOOK BEHIND AN AD?

I AM an ad. I'm one of hundreds in this paper. And I'd like to take you by the hand and show you what's behind these ads.

Obviously their job is to sell goods or services. That's why you look at these ads or listen to radio advertising. You're looking for something that you want to buy.

But advertising affects you and your family far more deeply. Buying and selling goods and services is what, in the last analysis, creates all the jobs, all the pay checks in America. And ads that you read and hear are the fastest, most powerful, most economical way yet devised of selling.

More and better advertising means more sales. More sales mean more jobs and better jobs.

Less advertising means less sales, less business activity.

So whenever you see or hear advertising, be thankful for it. Be glad that people like to hear and read it. For advertising, by selling more goods to more people, makes your job—everybody's job—more secure.
