Heavy Runs Lower State Stock Prices

DALLAS—(AP)—Mixed price trends dominated the southwestern farm products market Monday, U. S. Department of Agriculture officials reported.

The USDA's Production and Marketing Administration said that heavy runs—the largest in several years at many points—slowed cattle sales.

Around 68,000 cattle arrived at major yards, the report said. Although a few sales held steady, most were 80 cents to 90 cents below the USDA said. Replacement cattle made up the bulk of receipts.

Some 10,000 hogs and 21,000 sheep arrived at major stockyards.

Scrumptious dessert: Pill baked tart shells with sliced peaches and top with vanilla ice cream or sweetened whipped cream.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

TV Heat Devours Comedians, Or Leaves Them Badly Burned

By RED SKELTON
For Erskine Johnson

Toward the end of May 1951-52 season on television, reports often reached newspapers, wire services and Hollywood columnists that I had been rushed to a hospital.

There was some truth in many of those stories, but hospital rest was my own idea, not a doctor's.

There's no better way to avoid jangling telephone bells and joke-smiths with gags to peddle, and really get down to the business of sound sleeping, than to hide away in a hospital.

Television is a glass furnace. It devours material and comedians with the enthusiasm of a blast furnace eating up iron ore. After 25 weeks before the TV camera I can honestly say that for the first time in my life I've found out how utterly exhausted a human being can become.

Actors with whom I've trooped in some pretty rugged fields of entertainment won't understand this. When I played one-night stands, spent weeks and weeks stands in burlesque, I arrived in town, checked in at a theatrical rooming house, sent out my laundry, showed up at the theater an hour before the matinee, put on my make-up and sat with the gang playing rummy until the stage manager called.

Vaudeville was even easier. An actor would break in his act out of town and, after several weeks of careful polishing, it was set and never again altered. The TV story is something else again.

The problem of building a show, right from the basic ideas for gags, blackout scenes, musical interludes and the use of guest acts—as well as timing, pacing and spotting routines—becomes the responsibility of the so-called star.

Added to this is the job of coordinating all the activities of every department concerned with putting the show on the air—lighting, camera angles, sets, costumes, rehearsals and even the budgeting.

Lucas, Home From Switzerland, Mum On Ike-Adlai Issue

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. W. H. Lucas (D-Texas) is back from the Interparliamentary Union meeting in Bern, Switzerland.

He reported Monday that a highlight of the assembly, composed of representatives from the Free World's legislative bodies, was an ovation given retiring Senator Tom Connally of Texas.

Lucas will attend to some business here and leave for Texas in time for the dedication of Benbrook Dam, on the Trinity River, September 29.

The Texan declined to comment on his personal preference in the forthcoming Presidential election. He noted that it was following his departure from the United States that Adlai Stevenson took a pre-federal ownership position on the Tideland issue.

'Boudoir Look' Is Emphasized In Preview Of 1953 Swim Suits

By JAMES BACON
LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Cole of California previewed its 1953 line of swim suits Tuesday.

The showing had seven models that looked more appropriate for the boudoir or ballroom than the beach.

One is named "Zsa Zsa" after the glamorous Hungarian of the same name. It's a black velvet affair, loaded with plenty of costume jewelry, and easily could pass for the upper half of one of Miss Gabor's evening formals.

Another called "Sheer Formality" is a negligee-like one-piece linen-and-organdy shorts suit, plus jacket. Still another is "Treasure Chest," made in jeweled nylon latan and comes with a silk gauze coat.

Maker Fred Cole swears that all can be worn in the water, but conceded that they are designed primarily for sunbathing and male-catching.

At the extreme is a suit designed for women whose swimming is the channel, or serious, variety. The "Esther Williams" it was made to her specifications of lightness and figure flattery.

Shows the two extremes Cole showed a line which featured more attention to hip and leg lines than in previous years. Cole believes there has been undue attention to bosoms, to the neglect of midday's other figure problems. Hip interest is accentuated by a side fanning skirt, swathing of fabric around the hips, and all around pleats.

Cottons and the new synthetics, especially rayon, dominate the fabrics. The maker predicts a swing to darker colors by next Summer with many sharp contrasts. Pastels may hold throughout the coming Winter resort season.

The bosom is not forgotten entirely in the line. Featured is a telescope bra, which expands or contracts to meet any and all demands.

The lesson subject was "These Rights We Hold." Theresa Klapproth, president, presided and gave the opening prayer and the devotional was given by Mrs. Lutan on the Book of Acts. Eleanor Dunnam sang a solo, accompanied by Ruth Ann Farrar. It was announced a district meeting will be held October 5 in Andrews.

Former G-Man Hero Tracks Waste For Senate Probers

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Melvin E. Purvis, nationally known a decade ago as an FBI nemesis of gangsters and kidnapers, now is rated as an expert in a new though less spectacular field of government sleuthing.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said the former G-man had uncovered "waste and extravagance in government manpower policies that may result in savings of millions of dollars to the taxpayers."

For more than a year Purvis has been directing a special Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, of which Johnston is chairman.

Johnston said the staff under Purvis has been probing the more than two and one-half million civilians and more millions of military personnel now on government payrolls to learn where savings can be made.

"He discovered that the Army Navy and Air Forces were sending scores of officers to colleges and universities to study law," Johnston said, adding:

"At the same time there were hundreds of trained and experienced lawyers in uniform. Some of them

Capacity Of Dam Near Sweetwater To Be Increased

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State Board of Water Engineers decided Monday to increase the capacity of Oak Creek Dam near Sweetwater.

The dam is under construction. Hal A. Beckwith, board chairman, said plans call for installing gates on the spillway structure which would be used to raise the water level during floods.

Beckwith said this would increase the dam's capacity from 40,000 acre-feet, as originally planned, to 50,000.

The official said the main dam is scheduled to be completed "very shortly" but that construction of the gates would be delayed "for some time." He said funds to build the added-gateway will come from localities in the area.

Beckwith said the move would not increase the allocation of 10,000 acre-feet yearly to Sweetwater.

Multi-Million Bootleg Ring Blankets Texas, Jury Finds

AMARILLO —(AP)— A grand jury has charged that administration of the state liquor control law has resulted in a "multi-million dollar bootleg syndicate and general state-wide corruption."

The charge Monday brought an immediate reply from Coke Stevenson, Jr., administrator of the Texas Liquor Control Board, that he would welcome any investigation of his department "from top to bottom." The accusation was presented to the Texas House Crime Investigating Committee by Potter County grand jury at a session in a motor court here, District Attorney Hermon Pipkin said.

In Austin, Stevenson said: "We feel that we have a good working organization of clean, honest, hard-working individuals."

He added that bootlegging has been going on in dry West Texas counties since prohibition days and his department has been working "night and day" with its limited personnel to clean it up.

Seven Bribery Cases Stevenson said the department has had some trouble with bribery and took seven cases to court in Amarillo last year. So far, one has been tried. It resulted in a two-year suspended sentence.

A complete investigation of the charges was urged by members of the grand jury.

They said if the crime committee failed to conduct such a probe

Mexican Cattlemen Air Export Demands

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— Mexican cattlemen Monday explained their demands in connection with the cattle export industry to the minister of national economy, Antonio Martinez Bazas.

Mexico has not yet set an export quota for Mexican cattle after the opening of the U. S. border a week ago. Official sources have said the quota, which is expected to be around 400,000 a year, may not be announced until September 15.

The cattlemen also are to explain to Nazario Ortiz Garza, minister of agriculture, how they want the export system set up. They want a low quota for cattle they must deliver to the Mexican packing plants and a subsidy for meat sold in Mexico by growers who cannot export because they are too far from the border.

They would consider taking their report directly to Gov. Allan Shivers

Crime committee members made no immediate indication of whether they would carry out the request. One member—Rep. Wagoner Carr of Lubbock—said there was a large amount of testimony to be considered and a definite answer might have to wait several days.

Evidence Uncovered According to Pipkin, evidence of several bribes and attempted bribes involving employees of the State Liquor Control board has been uncovered by the grand jury. He said they were made by known bootleggers operating in some 30 dry West Texas counties who approached State Liquor Control Board employees in virtually all levels of the state agency.

Pipkin wouldn't say who or how many persons had been apparently incriminated—but he said it was clear from the evidence that corrupted employees of the state agency not only refrained from prosecuting what Pipkin termed "the syndicate" but used the law to corral the syndicate's competitors.

Pipkin, declined to identify witnesses called before the grand jury during the liquor investigation. He said only that some of those called are present and past employees of the State Liquor Control Board . . . and some are present and past county officials and some are liquor dealers.

Witnesses Summoned The witnesses were summoned from Austin, Lubbock, Odessa, Abilene, and other communities, the district attorney said.

Pipkin expanded on the charges thus: 1. Testimony before the jury reflected "irregularities, inequities and discrepancies under administration of the State Liquor Control Act across the state." 2. The jury was prepared to turn over to the crime committee nine to 10 hours of tape-recorded testimony plus a number of affidavits and records.

3. The jury also would offer the committee names and addresses of about 25 witnesses, most of whom had appeared before it and made sworn statements.

The jury cited as the most glaring examples of what it termed in consistent liquor act enforcement Port Arthur and Galveston. It said mixed drinks are sold openly and illegally in those cities.

Rep. Fred Meredith of Terrell heads the committee. Other members, in addition to Carr, are Bill Woods of Tyler, Charles Murphy, Houston; and Horace Houston, Jr., Dallas.

★ WASHINGTON COLUMN ★

Cross-Section Of Public Opinion Obtained In Poll

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The only issue in this political campaign can be most simply stated as:
You've never had it so good.

It's time for a change.

This is the succinct observation of John O. Hjelle, editor of the Bismark (N. D.) Tribune. He adds:

"If people shut their eyes, pat their fat bellies complacently, figuring 'why upset Paradise?'—the Dems will win. If they're worrying about the more distant future and have paid any attention to the charges that the U. S. is drifting toward the shoals, internationally and domestically, they'll vote to kick out Truman (in the person of Stevenson) and put Ike in."

This is but one of many sage "write-in" comments on a political-trend poll of the 700 newspaper editors receiving this column through NEA Service. Taken together as a postscript to this poll, these observations give what is perhaps the best possible cross-section view of what people all over the U. S. are thinking today.

Cash Is Against Ike
"The two candidates are too much alike for any great emotional campaigns for or against either. The platforms will be lost in the usual campaign prattle. Dollars and cents seem to mean more to the voter than anything else. Ike has an uphill fight against cold arithmetic."—Mexico (Mo.) Ledger.

"Republicans have as good a chance of winning Pennsylvania as in 1948, when Dewey received 147,771 majority over Truman. . . . Traveled through Central Pennsylvania counties two weeks ago and found some gloom over prospects of an Eisenhower win in the face of millions of federal job holders—of which there are more in Pennsylvania than state job holders."—Jack Thompson, Chester (Pa.) Times.

"I hope fervently that I'm wrong in predicting a Democratic victory, but I'm pessimist enough to fear that a majority of the voters will fall for the siren song of phony prosperity. They're being bribed with their own money—and either don't know or don't care."—John Ayres, Port Arthur (Texas) News.

"Farmers will support whichever party's farm program is most beneficial to them. . . . Too many of us overlook the fact that many businessmen own and operate farms."—Peter V. McCoy, Daily News, Newton, Iowa.

Question For Old Guard
"I can't help wondering if the 'fat' people aren't secretly hoping that maybe Ike will lose, thus putting the so-called Old Guard back other four years in power."—Charles D. Hyton, Jr., Logan (W. Va.) Banner.

"It would be just as ridiculous to make Eisenhower, who has had only military experience, President as it would be to make Stevenson, who has had only government administration experience, a five-star general in charge of the Korean war."—Joe Parham, The Macon (Ga.) News.

"Our policy will be determined by the independence from machine politicians shown by the two candidates. We would not accept Stevenson dominated by Truman or the ultra-liberals. Neither would we like Ike controlled by the Old Guard or even Dewey."—A. R. Higgins, Quincy (Ill.) Herald-Whig.

"The South is beginning to realize it needs a real two-party system and if Eisenhower doesn't endorse compulsory civil rights legislation, he stands an excellent chance of carrying four Southern states and perhaps a few more."—J. W. Gore, Fort Lauderdale (Fla.) Daily News.

THIS IS THE VERDICT OF THE NATION'S LEADING IMPARTIAL MOTOR CAR EXPERT AS REPORTED IN MECHANIX ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE, SEPTEMBER, 1952, ISSUE

Tom McCahill tests all makes of cars — 200 different models in the past six years. He puts them through back-breaking grinds, testing performance and handling. His impartial findings prove the outstanding value of Nash. He writes:

"Among the best performing cars." In the "Grand Prix d'Endurance" at Le Mans, France, the Nash Super Jetfire engine powered the Nash entry to the top spot of all American cars.

"In hill-climbing, second to none." The Ambassador was the only over-drive-equipped car to take McCahill's "test hill" in high—proof of Super Jetfire power.

"By far the best Nash has ever offered, and that's saying a lot." Nash Airflytes are the first American cars styled by Pinin Farina, whom McCahill calls the "Rembrandt of automobile design."

McCarthy Favored As Wisconsin Votes In Primary Tuesday

MILWAUKEE.—(P)—Wisconsin voters, perhaps one million strong, went to the polls Tuesday to write an end—or a fresh start—to the stormy political career of GOP Senator Joseph R. McCarthy. The prospect of warm weather was expected to boost the normal vote total by about 400,000 in this primary election which has generated bitterness and controversy across the nation. The state's 3,234 polling places were opened at 8 a. m., and some of them were to remain open as late as 9 p. m. The issue at stake was the methods used by McCarthy in his drive against the Communists he claimed were in the Democratic administration. Some people saw this campaign as the highest type of "Americanism." Others a "smear" campaign recklessly tainting the characters of innocent people. McCarthy's chief opponent was Leonard Schmitt, an upstate attorney who relied on marathon radio talks to carry his anti-McCarthy message to the people of Wisconsin. Four other opponents weren't expected to be any real factor. McCarthy was favored to win his second senatorial nomination. The unknown factor in the race was this: How many Democrats had switched their vote to support the anti-McCarthy Republicans?

Defense Spending To Level Off, Says Truman Advisor

WASHINGTON.—(P)—A government economist says the golden tide of defense dollars is leveling off far ahead of schedule—and may wash some of the props under business in the process. Robert C. Turner, a new member of President Truman's three-man Council of Economic Advisors, gave this surprise appraisal Monday as he took his oath of office. In a brief speech, and later in an interview, Turner told of new government studies which he said show defense spending and production already virtually have reached their peak. Earlier forecasts, by Truman and his mobilization chiefs, had indicated a steady, continued expansion until mid-1953. This projected expansion—as well as current spending—had been a big stimulus to business. Turner, 44-year-old business pro-

Egypt To Dissolve Big Landed Estates

CAIRO, EGYPT.—(P)—Egypt's day-old Cabinet, led by Strongman Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, Tuesday okayed Army-backed measures cutting up the nation's big landed estates and reorganizing political parties with the eventual aim of dissolving those now existing. The 51-year-old Army commander's new government announced after a 9 1/2-hour session—longest in Egyptian history—that it had approved legislation limiting ownership of arable land to 200 acres per person. The measure approved by the Cabinet Tuesday calls for expropriation of all land above 200 acres under single ownership within five years. One fifth of the total is to be taken over each year. Landowners, however, are given the right to sell their land before it is taken over by the government. The price must not exceed 10 times its rental value.

Six Presbyterian Leaders From City Attend Hunt Meet

A group of six Presbyterian Church leaders from Midland are attending the annual meeting of the Southern Presbyterian Church Synod of Texas. The session began Tuesday near Hunt in Kerr County. Representing Midland from the First Presbyterian Church are Dr. H. Matthew Lynn, pastor; the Rev. Flynn Long, Jr., assistant pastor; and Richard L. Hughston, elder. The St. Andrews' Presbyterian Church sent the Rev. Lewis O. Waterstreet, pastor, and John Drummond, elder. Also attending is the Rev. Gaines B. Hall, a retired minister. A major issue to be considered at the conference will be a proposal to revise the organization's standing rules. Possible dissolution of the Texas-Mexican Presbytery, one of eight regional units in the synod, will be aired. The question of whether to continue publication of the Texas Presbyterian, a quarterly magazine experimentally issued in the last year, will be taken up. Routine business will include work on the 1952-1953 budget and reports from synod educational and benevolent agencies. Worship and devotional services at the three-day meeting will be conducted by the Rev. William M. Elliott, Jr., pastor of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas.

The PAD said five major projects with total construction costs of $281,024,000 had been given priorities assistance for 136,800 tons of pipe for the fourth quarter and more than 400 smaller projects had been allocated another 167,867 tons. Major projects which had received previous allotments of pipe and get new ones for the fourth quarter include: El Paso Natural Gas Company, El Paso, 20,508 tons for looping its existing Texas to California system.

Shooting Puzzles Jim Wells County

ALICE.—(P)—Police said Tuesday that an unknown assailant stepped out of the darkness of a garage and shot and critically wounded Jake (Buddy) Floyd, Jr., son of a veteran Jim Wells County lawyer and political leader. Young Floyd was shot between 9:30 and 9:45 p. m. Monday night after telling a house guest of the Floyd family that he was going to the garage to work on his automobile. Mrs. Jake Floyd, the youth's mother found her son in a pool of blood about 30 minutes later when she drove her car into the driveway. Neighbors gathered when she screamed. Young Floyd was shot once in the arm and once in the head. Alice doctors said they gave him little chance of recovery. A neurosurgeon from Corpus Christi was called here to operate. Police found a .38 caliber pistol in a nearby trash can. They said five shots had been fired from it. Deputy Sheriff Bob Miller said fingerprints on the gun were being checked by Fred A. Reid, Bertillon expert of the Alice Police Department. The elder Floyd, a reputed ad-

Polls Show Texas For Adlai But Rain Might Benefit Ike

By The Associated Press
 Good rains would improve Dwight D. Eisenhower's chances of carrying Texas in November.

Many Texas farmers are worried about crop failures.

One farmer in a great parched area said:

"We're too busy trying to figure a way out of the drought to do much thinking about politics. That can come later."

That farmers were thinking more about the drought than politics was indicated in an Associated Press survey of political thinking across the length and breadth of the state.

Here is the way one Panhandle editor put it:

"There is a shift on the part of farmers towards the Demos. It dates from about the time of the cattle slump and discouragement over lack of crops this summer. They fear a depression and too many remember the 'Hoover Days.' The vote for continued prosperity seems to be taking hold."

This editor's straw poll went eight to two for Eisenhower against the Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson. But the editor said "We don't believe the general is that strong."

Can't Beat Santa Claus
 Consider this report from an editor in a rural county in Central Texas:

"You can't beat Santa Claus. The 'noise' over the Tidlands, and other questions don't register on lots of the people here."

He put his county in the Democratic column by 75 per cent.

In a predominantly rural county of East Texas, a newspaper survey showed Stevenson ahead by 60 per cent. The explanation accompanying the report:

"Too many eating out of the public trough. Too many believe in Santa Claus. Too many with 'never-had-it-so-good' attitude for GOP to win this county."

A North Texas editor turned up a predominant belief among farmers that farm subsidies would be threatened by a Republican victory.

A Gulf Coast county was reported three to two for Eisenhower despite the fact "rice farmers here are sympathetic with the present Truman Administration—good prices, parity, etc."

A Panhandle editor who estimated the feeling in his county ran 60 per cent in favor of the Republican nominee added this note of caution:

"We may be a little too strong toward Eisenhower. We have the feeling that too many people, especially farmers, are talking Republican and will vote Democratic."

Wink's Football Prospects Bright

WINK—The old "crying towel" came in for a generous soaking from Coach Glenn Frazier of the Wink football team.

"We'll have a good team, and may be a great backfield this year," admitted Frazier. "But we are weaker in the line, and there won't be any powerhouses."

But District 5-A mentors are looking very skeptical when they hear the Wink coach's remarks. Last year the Wink Wildcats cracked through to the Class A quarter-finals before being submerged in the playoffs. They are being prominently considered this season as the possible upsetter of the old apple cart.

Frazier has lost five of last year's starters, and he said that he may lose another one from illness before the season opens.

Twenty-one lettermen are among the 37 players that make up the 1952 Wink aggregate. But Frazier pointed out that he lettered his entire squad last Fall after the playoffs.

Two of his lettermen are real veterans with two letters already in their history—Center Jackie Hayes and Quarterback Dudley Rogers. The third letterman is Isabel Flores, a back.

Other squad members are Howard Robinson, Don Collins, Leon Crawford, Jerry Castleberry, Truman Kennemer, John Cranfill and Ramon Garcia.

The schedule follows:

Garden City Squad Active; Seeks Tilt To Fill Schedule

GARDEN CITY—Coach Targe Lindsey's high school football team has a good chance to do well this year with 21 boys, eight of them lettermen.

One more game, for September 19, still is needed by the A team to complete its schedule, while the B squad wants a "los mare" game.

Four senior lettermen, which average 165 pounds lead the group. They are Wilburn Bednar, 164, quarterback who specializes in passing and punting; Bob Fyessell, 174, a punting-plugging end; Larry Calverly, 158, center and utility man who does defensive work and pass receiving and Bryant Harris, 173, end and quarterback who also does top defensive work.

LINDSEY'S LOOK IN THE SPORTS MIRROR—

Timber Time Brings Out City Bowlers

By JIM LINDSEY
It's timber time again in Midland! Another bumper bowling season is under way with regular team play and friendly matches.

Four leagues have been formed and others are in the process of organization.

The 20-team Midland Petroleum Bowling League plans to inaugurate regular play Thursday night. The eight-team Ladies Bowling League has set down initial action for Tuesday night.

The eight-team Major League went on the firing line Monday night with the Civic circuit bowling Wednesday night.

Superior and Sun Oil Companies expect to have their own leagues. Other concerns may join the parade to the shiny alleys.

The timber is falling again in Midland!

Who could ask more of Jay Haney as manager of the Indians?

The Tribe notched 35 victories as compared to only 10 losses under his direction. One game out of 21 was lost at home.

Oct. 10—St. Joseph of Abilene at Garden City

Oct. 17—Christoval at Christoval

Oct. 24—Merton at Garden City

Oct. 31—Forsan at Forsan

Nov. 7—Water Valley at Water Valley

Nov. 14—Sterling City at Garden City

The Warriors played 135 baseball in the 44-game stretch. The Odessa Oilers led the Longhorn League for the season with an average just above 500.

Some of the Longhorn League teams plan to use negro players next year. Unofficial sources report two negroes—a pitcher and an infielder—already approached by the Artesia Drillers.

First reaction of the Midland baseball moguls—the Indians will not use negroes next year.

Proposed realignment of the Longhorn League didn't arouse too many complaints in Midland. The Indian management and the most faithful fans believe the addition of Abilene, Lamesa and Carlsbad will add something to the circuit. Certainly, it will mean more games for Midland fans, who may drive to Lamesa without much effort.

A natural rivalry should develop between Midland and Lamesa clubs, too. It could reach the level of the current fever between Big Spring, Odessa and Midland.

Approval of the changes coming out of the Abilene meeting may not come quickly. Rowell is expected to buck its removal from the circuit in the Fall season of Longhorn bigwigs this month.

The baseball trade winds are blowing. Temple of the Big State League has notified the Indians Herb Dwire is expected back in the fold. Dwire would join another former Indian at Temple. Hustling Kenny Jones, ex-Tribe sparkplug, has been a major factor in Temple's climb to the top of the Big State League.

Respectable Floyd Martin will return to the Indians next year. He has been recalled from Baton Rouge, where his improved fielding and batting helped carry the Louisianaans into second place.

Big Joe Bauman, the home run king of the Artesia Drillers, must have seen the Midland fans pushing dollar bills through the barrier and dreamed of becoming an Indian.

The Indian followers prove themselves more generous than a majority of fans around the circuit. Longhorn League players have determined by comparing notes. A home run in the clutch is usually good for $100 at Indian Park.

Just think what Bauman could have pocketed as an Indian hitting 50 home runs at home!

John Tayan received no sympathy from Bob Milburn, San Angelo sports editor, after the Colt infielder and Umpire Orville Eckstine bawled on the Odessa diamond. Milburn had this to say:

"As fine a player as John is and as popular as he is with the home folks... it is hard to condone his most recent run-in with Umpire Orville Eckstine."

"Arguing with umpires and getting bounced out of games is fine if it isn't overdone. But when physical violence is threatened or carried out against an official of the game, no penalties are too stiff. The game must be held within bounds and the umpires and league officers are the only ones that can do it."

Kermit Gridiron Veterans To Play For College Teams

KERMIT—Gridiron veterans of four Texas universities had Spring graduates of Kermit High School to report for Fall practice.

Dale Williams, one of the last season's Yellow Jacket captains and an outstanding tackle, is attending Rice at Houston. He is a son of Mrs. Leona Williams.

Chuck Williams, 1951 Yellow Jacket end, has selected John Tarleton at Stephenville. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Williams and is majoring in veterinary medicine.

Wallace Harbin, another Jacket end, has chosen Texas Western in El Paso.

Jack Crodell, '51 Jacket end, has entered A&I in Kingsville where he is an engineering major. The two remaining 1951 Senior lettermen are Stanley Wright, end, and Kenneth Ives, North All-Star tackle.

Ives has entered the United States Air Force and Wright plans to stay in Kermit and work.

Adlai Sees Western Signs, Pronounces Them Beautiful

SEATTLE—(AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson headed south Tuesday, hunting political gold in the hills of California with the confident assertion his campaign is "going beautifully."

The Democratic presidential candidate is on a fast, wide-ranging tour of the Western states.

Apparently heartened by the size of the crowds and the reception they have been giving him all along the line, Stevenson told a Democratic picnic audience in Portland, Ore.:

"I think I can say with confidence the campaign is going beautifully. I have seen the signs all the way from New York to the Pacific Coast."

His trip has taken him into Minnesota, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. In a grueling round of speeches and appearances, the governor laid down the main ground work of his campaign, ridiculed and rebutted a long list of Republican campaign claims and discussed regional issues in the various states.

Most Glittering Prize
But California, with 38 electoral votes, represents the biggest and most glittering prize of this tour. Although it went Democratic in 1948 by a narrow margin, most Western political analysts consider it a doubtful state this year.

A California National Guard division, the 48th, has been fighting in Korea for months. Hence the war, the Far Eastern policy of the Administration and American foreign policy as a whole are considered one of the big issues in this presidential election.

Stevenson's schedule plainly indicates the importance he places on this next leg of his tour.

He plans to spend two and one-half days in the state, whereas some of his stops have lasted only as long as it took him to make a speech and return to his airplane.

His lieutenants indicated that his speech in San Francisco Tuesday night—which will be delivered over a national radio and television hookup—will deal extensively with foreign policy. In previous speeches, he strongly has defended the actions of the Truman Administration in the Orient and Europe.

The Whistle Stops
On Wednesday, he takes his first railway whistle-stop trip, traveling down the San Joaquin Valley, an important agricultural area of California. In 1948, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the GOP candidate, ran a strong race all through the valley.

Stevenson will make six stops in a 15-hour day on the road. In Los Angeles, on Thursday, he plans to visit his birthplace. The schedule calls for a departure the next day for Phoenix, Ariz.

In Portland and Seattle Monday, Stevenson covered questions of development of American's natural resources, the role of the federal government in building up the Pacific Northwest, and sub-topics of major concern to the whole area.

A roaring, wildly applauding crowd in Seattle's Ice Arena last night heard him assert:

"Our atomic weapons could not have been developed without the power generated by Grand Coulee and Bonneville Dams on the Columbia River. In some people's view, you remember, Grand Coulee and Bonneville not only were a waste of the taxpayers' money, they were—and this was a worse crime—an interference with the sacred right of a private monopoly to leave a region undeveloped."

Costello, Friends Face New Charges; Deportation Looms

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Three of the biggest figures in America's under-world—Frank Costello, Joe Adonis and Anthony J. Accardo—felt the weight of a new government crackdown on crime Tuesday.

In swift action Monday:

1. The Justice Department announced it will try to strip American citizenship from Costello, Italian-born racket czar who came to this country at the age of four. Loss of citizenship could lead to deportation proceedings.
2. A federal grand jury indicted Adonis and Accardo for contempt of Congress, a charge stemming from their refusal to answer questions before the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee last year. Conviction would entail both fines and jail terms.

Attorney General McGranery said the attempt to cancel Costello's citizenship will be based on a charge that the dapper gambling operator grew up in New York's tough Hell's Kitchen section neglected to disclose a criminal record when he applied for naturalization papers in 1925.

Family Vacation Closes In Tragic Drowning Mishap

STROUDSBURG, PA.—(AP)—The Nowicki family's vacation ended in tragedy Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nowicki and their two sons, Joseph, 28, and Leonard, 18, of Plains, were staying at a cottage at nearby Lake Tobehanna, a Pocono Mountain resort.

It was a perfect day for fishing. Leonard went down to the lake to catch some bass for dinner.

After trying his luck at several spots, he caught his line on a cumbersome object beneath the surface.

Reeling and tugging a couple of times, the horror-stricken youth suddenly discovered his hook was caught on the body of a woman's mother.

Monroe County Coroner William A. Anderson said the woman apparently lost her footing while walking along the lake front and fell into 10 feet of water, where she drowned.

Look Out For Campaign Vows

We may be hearing soon some promises—however vague—about cuts in income taxes, cuts in government spending. And it would make nice reading. But before buying any such campaign promises—however vague—it might be a good idea to take a look at the glum, gray, but solid figures.

The government this year will spend around $85,000,000,000 to $90,000,000,000. Last year it spent approximately $71,000,000,000.

Of the $85,000,000,000 to $90,000,000,000 to be spent this year, about $56,000,000,000 will be for defense. And agreed-on and contemplated defense expenditures for the next five years will total at least $250,000,000,000.

The qualification "at least" has significance if only as it covers the revamping of our military forces in line with the latest scientific improvements.

For instance, the B-36 bomber. Only about three years ago that giant aircraft was about the hottest card we held in the international air defense game. Today the B-36 virtually is obsolete.

It even hasn't been used in Korea, and chances are it never will see combat. Reason: the development of jet bombers by England and other countries. That same development will have to be made by our own Air Force, and it will cost lots of money.

Then, there's the atomic-powered submarine. We already have one near completion. If it's successful, and eventually it almost certainly will be, our whole submarine fleet will have to be revamped atomwise.

How extensively atomic energy will be applied to powering our other machines of war is anybody's guess. But the field seems at this time to be pretty wide open. And the cost of any such wholesale revamping as that is at this time almost incalculable.

The whole broad area of military electronics—radar, sonar, electric aiming and firing devices, and all the rest—still are largely in the development stage. Further improvements are coming along all the time. And they all cost money. Lots of it.

In fact top military men, speaking of the current costly revolution in fighting machines and weapons, estimate we may very well go on paying out at least $50,000,000,000 a year for defense for the next 20 years.

And when you stop to think that right now more than 62 per cent of our annual expenditures are going for defense, it's pretty hard to see where any sizable reductions are going to be made—in spending, and consequently in taxes.

The fun of running away from home doesn't really come to youngsters until they sneak back.

Don't forget that you're entitled to the bad breaks when you start out driving with them on your car.

Speaking about troubles, too many people go about doing just that!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Armed Services today begin unification of purchases; "Time for Change" slogan takes effect in various parts of nation; Political phonies are being eliminated.

WASHINGTON — Today, at long last the Armed Services will start doing what they promised to do six years ago—pool their buying of supplies instead of competing against each other.

Only after hearings by Congressman Eddie Hebert of Louisiana, backed by Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia and Congressman Jack Anderson of California, plus a lot of badgering by the columnist, have the Army, Navy and Air Force finally consented to do the common sense thing—buy in cooperation with each other, not as if the other branches were parts of the Red Army.

This was one of the big arguments put forward when the brass hats begged for unification. Millions of dollars, they argued, would be saved.

Instead, as revealed by this column last February, the Army bought six different types of carpenter's squares—one for the Signal Corps, Ordnance, Transportation, Chemical Warfare, Engineers, and Quartermaster, at prices ranging from 60 cents to $1.18.

The Air Force paid 12 cents a pound for 16-penny nails while the Navy paid six cents for exactly the same nails. . . . The Marines buy a combat boot for $16.80; the Navy buys exactly the same boot for $24.05. . . . The Air Force dress shoe costs $1.18; the Navy dress shoe costs $1.10. They are almost identical except for some stitching on the heel. The Air Force bought 1,700,000 dress shoes, thus could have saved $1,700,000 if it had bought the Navy shoes. . . . The Medical Services paid $11.15 each for blankets; the Air Force $14.15; the Navy $12.37.

The Armed Services also over-drove, thus waste money on warehouse space. The Navy now has enough anchors to last 50 years, the Army enough of certain jeep parts to last 104 years. . . . The Army, Navy and Marine Corps insist on having their own rival coffee-roasting plants. . . . The Army and Navy operate separate medical supply systems, frequently buying the same scarce items in competition with each other.

Senator Owen Brewster of Maine — after a quarter of a century of dominating the Republican Party in Maine, Brewster was ousted by progressive Gov. Fred Payne. The people of Maine had gotten wise to the manner in which Brewster was working for Dictator Franco of Spain, Pan American Airways, and others.

Congressman John Rankin of Mississippi — This rootin'-tootin' hate disseminator was considered unbeatable in his district. He has spread more intolerance than any other congressman since Bilbo, was the man who first whispered that Eisenhower was a Jew because of a kidding reference in the West Point year book to Ike as a "Swedish Jew." Last month, the people of Mississippi finally ousted Rankin.

The Republican machine in Philadelphia — Almost continually since the Civil War, the so-called City of Brotherly Love was ruled by a Republican machine. It was considered unbeatable. Last year, however GOP corruption got so bad that the Democrats kicked the Republicans out. Philadelphia now is run by a new Democratic administration.

Senator Kenneth McKellar — down in Tennessee, doddering Senator McKellar, long considered unbeatable, had served in Congress for close to half a century. But despite the back of the Crump machine, Tennessee voters have just kicked him out.

Senator McCarran's Nevada machine — For years McCarran has dominated the State of Nevada. But last week, a 31-year-old ex-Newsman, Tom Meehling, relatively unknown in Nevada, defeated McCarran's law partner plus the full weight of the McCarran machine. This was purely a Democratic fight, but it was indicative of the American public's desire for a change.

In Wisconsin today, there's another battle to end another false political god. State Senator Len Schmitt, a hard-fighting Republican is challenging Senator McCarthy, who has the backing of the powerful Coleman machine, plus his old critic, Governor Kohler, who now has strangely made peace with McCarthy.

Under these circumstances it seems impossible for Schmitt to win. However, a big vote rolled up in this primary also may indicate that the people of Wisconsin likewise are ready for a change.

Speaker Sam Rayburn is giving the cold shoulder to the Democratic convention in Amarillo today. . . . Several Texas congressmen already have declared for Eisenhower, including John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi and Lloyd Denton of McAllen. . . . Congressman Olin E. Teague, returning from Los Angeles, seems sympathetic to Ike, but remarked that the scant 12,000 who heard him at the Coliseum didn't make his chances appear too bright. . . . Since then, Denton has been careful about his crowds. When they first proposed that Ike speak in Philadelphia one day before the Labor Day weekend, Pennsylvania's Governor Pine was warned that few people would be around to hear him near a weekend. That was why Ike's Philadelphia speech was shifted to September 4. — three days after Labor Day. . . . In San Antonio, Sheriff Owen Kinney, boss of that city, indicates he may support Eisenhower, but says he'll consult his two brothers first. One brother is the congressman from San Antonio, the other is an assistant in the Justice Department, which Eisenhower is attacking as corruption-ridden.

Q—How far can a candle's light be seen at night? A—A standard candle of exactly one candpower could theoretically be seen in complete darkness and with ideal conditions for about 30 miles. However, practically, about 10 miles would be the maximum range.

Q—What is the world's highest capital city? A—La Paz, Bolivia, which lies in a valley about 13,500 feet above the sea.

Q—Does England have a pledge of allegiance to its flag? A—There is no pledge of allegiance comparable to the one used in this country.

Q—What was the peak membership of the Grand Army of the Republic? A—The Grand Army reached its greatest size in 1890, with 400,000 members.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service Some finesse are a mare and a delusion. By this I mean that if you take the finesse and win you get only an even break; while if you lose, you lose plenty. The average player usually takes this type of finesse and thinks he is unlucky if it fails. Certainly that was true of the South player when today's hand was actually played.

THE SECOND MAN on the Ticket

By Edwin Lanham

And here I am going back to my home town as a candidate for Vice President, the Governor said.

held his liquor manfully. He was an improver of the breed, and had once reared a small string of horses. As governor, he had put through a bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting, and the race tracks had returned to the state, bringing revenues that helped him to establish a 2 per cent sales tax instituted by his predecessor. These were among the qualities that recommended the Governor to me, but I had laid no emphasis on them in the biography.

THE Governor led the way to the observation platform, set down and put his feet on the railing. He was a big man, and in his movements and his postures there was no self-consciousness at all. "Roy," he said, "I'm a sentimental man."

"Population 3250. Rotary meets on Wednesday." "Population was about 1200 when I left there," he said. "I don't recall any Rotary Club, but there was an Odd Fellows Hall, of course, and a couple of pool parlors. I suppose it was primitive, even in those days, but it was a nice, friendly town, and I liked it. I used to have a couple of good friends in Hyderabad, but I lost track of them, you know, I'm wondering if they're at the station when this train rolls in. It will make me feel pretty good if they are."

"The whole town will be at the station, Governor," I said. "The county chairman but there, a fellow named John Mills, has been working overtime." "Oh, I know Johnny Mills," the Governor said. "We were boys together. He pulled the record out of the river one summer. He's one of the two I was talking about."

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail Cupboard Was Bare

Old Mother Hubbard, went to her cupboard, to get her poor dog a bone. But when she got there, the cupboard was bare, and so the poor dog had none. Anyway, people say it happened. I don't really know or didn't know, until the day I am telling about.

It happened that Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, and the Hufen Puffen, the friendly wolf, had gone to see about Mother Hubbard. Mercy me, because a someone had tipped out her door with her bonnet on, and also wearing an Old Mother Hubbard dress.

Oh, but the someone was not Old Mother Hubbard. The someone was Old Mother Hubbard's dog. She was really an old hound dog with a black ring around one of her eyes.

Fortunately, however, she was a dog-people of the kind that can talk. She was not plain, ordinary, not talking dog at all. Her name was Queenie.

"Queenie," said Daddy Ringtail to her, "why are you wearing an Old Mother Hubbard Dress? Why are you wearing her bonnet? Why do you come a tip-toeing out of her house.

Queenie sat down on a rock to answer the question. She held her hands between her knees to show how very worried she was. "Oh, Daddy Ringtail," she said, "something terrible has happened."

"Steady, Queenie," said Daddy Ringtail. "Now don't you begin to cry."

Queenie managed to steady herself, and not to cry. She began to tell the story of what had happened. She said that Old Mother Hubbard (poor thing!) was sick in bed with worries. Yes, because two men had come to her house and carried her cupboard away. Now she had no cupboard at all, not even one that was bare. But Queenie, brave dog, had decided to wear Mother Hubbard's clothes to go out in the world to find a job to make some money to buy another cupboard, all so Old Mother Hubbard would not be sick in bed with worries any more.

"Surprise!" said Daddy Ringtail because he is the one who paid the two men money to carry the old cupboard away, and fill it up with fine foods to eat, all so it wouldn't be bare any more, and then came the men to bring it back. Now Daddy Ringtail was happy indeed! Happy day!

CADILLACS HONK BY CAMELS—

Western Influence Promises To Create Modern Morocco

By BETTY SELLARS
Special Correspondent

(Editor's Note: Widening American defense lines have made U. S. citizens newly geography conscious. One country on which intense interest focuses is French Morocco. Thousands of airmen and their families have spent or will spend a tour of duty in Morocco, yet few Americans know the type people their sons and daughters will live among or such basic facts as the climate they will find or the food they will eat. This is a series of four articles, by a Texan, Betty Sellars, who has spent nine months there as an employe of the Department of the Air Force. The descriptions and opinions expressed are Miss Sellars' own, the result of her personal observations, and do not necessarily reflect the opinions and policies of the Air Force.)

French Morocco—intrigue, excitement, mystery surround the name. Recent headlines highlighted the millions spent by the Air Force to hurry construction of bases in this strategic location. Movies, profiting from the "glamor cities" of Morocco, have filmed several fictional romantic tales.

The average American thus pictures Morocco in terms of spies, romantic intrigue and occasional riots in native sections of cosmopolitan cities, and senate investigations.

The true Morocco scarcely is less colorful but more realistic than its storied counterpart.

The American GIs who fought in World War II's North African campaign remember Morocco. Tangier, and to a lesser extent, Casablanca, served as bases of operations during the 1942 campaigns.

Located on the northwest African coast just a little nearer the equator than Texas, this country opens the gateway to both Europe and the Near East. Ifrane, a resort in the Atlas Mountains a hundred miles from Casablanca, formed the site for a historic meeting between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin.

Contrasts Cited

Morocco, called Maroc by the Arabs, in its entirety is about two-thirds the size of Texas and includes the French protectorate, the tiny Spanish protectorate, and the even smaller international area centering around Tangier, which faces Gibraltar.

Strong contrasts mark Maroc. A potpourri of historical heritage encourages such contrasts as striking, modernistic buildings, set around the picturesque Medina, native sections of the cities.

Nylon Picture Hose

A Cadillac honking past a camel or herd of donkeys on a main street of Casablanca rouses no more comment than a fatime (Arab woman of the working class) veiled to the eyes and her body concealed in the traditional djellaba—with a pair of open-toed, high heel shoes and nylon picture hose.

The Moroccan climate is another example of generous variations. Morocco is neither all desert, like the vast Sahara the Atlas Mountains shut out, nor the jungle of the central portion of Africa.

Ideal weather prevails along the coastline much of the year. A Winter temperature variation of less than 40 degrees (from about 50 to 90 degrees Fahrenheit) makes most coastline cities a resort when Europe is snowed in.

Inland, stretches of sandy waste alternate with fertile grainlands up to the foothills of the great Atlas Mountain range. High temperatures, up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, make miserable Summers inland, except in the mountain altitudes.

Rain falls on Morocco almost exclusively during the Winter and Spring, beginning in November and lasting through April. High inland winds, an offshoot of the Algerian Sirocco, sweep sand and misery before them in the Summer.

Morocco fosters wide agricultural activity. Rich farmland called the Rharb in the north central portion of the French protectorate, from the Atlas Mountains to the coast, supports vineyards and grain cultivation. Farther south, around Casablanca, stretches the Oueda Plain, where cereals and truck vegetables are raised. Poultry raising and egg production center around the Doukhal, along the coast south of Casablanca. Picturesque orange groves border highways in Morocco.

Sheep and cattle are the two main industries for the nomadically inclined Arabs. Goats abound in the Atlas region. Along the 500-mile coastline are profitable fishing areas.

Under French guidance, the large southern section of Maroc is becoming industrialized. Dams harness water and electric power for inland areas. Industries are fast expanding in the big cities.

Americans in Morocco see little of the most famous French organization in Africa—the Foreign Legion. Legion posts are scattered throughout the country but largely are manned by token forces. The main Legion outposts fringe the Sahara on the far side of the Atlas Mountains.

Historical Background

The Morocco of today is the product of a rich historical and cultural background.

Basic in Moroccan heritage is the culture of the Arab Berber tribes, who led a nomadic life in this region when Carthage flourished. Rome built a province here, and the German Vandals at one time settled on the coast near Tangier.

The ruins of a Roman city still may be seen in east central Morocco, near the foothills of the Atlas Mountains. Only 13 miles away is the holy Islam city, Moulay Idress, founded about 900 A.D. by a descendant of Mohammed, Ali, whose tomb is in the city he built.

Islam dominated Arab culture in Morocco. Western customs gained a foothold only in 1818 when the father of the present sultan signed the protectorate treaty with the French.

Western influence, however, augmented by the Americans, promises to modernize the old Maroc and create a powerful, modern Morocco.

CLIPPERS LOSE WAR IN PRICES

NOSLE, ILL.—(P)—This Southwestern Illinois town's two barber shops got into a short-lived price war and both barbers suffered a loss.

Prices at the shops, separated only by a building, went from 15-cent hair cuts to free ones. Such a rash developed that Barber Oscar Green closed his shop at noon one day and Barber Joe Smith locked his door but let customers in one at a time.

Scientists Examine Source Of Red Tide

LA JOLLA, CALIF.—(P)—University of California oceanographers are studying water samples taken from the "red tide" that visited the California coast recently.

The tide is a reddish-brown discoloration of the sea water caused by the sudden and luxuriant flowering of millions of microscopic, free-floating plants in the surface layers of the ocean.

In Mexican waters the red tide sometimes is believed responsible for poisoning millions of fish.

Peach Crop Slips After Winter Loss

CENTRALIA, ILL.—(P)—Big Midwest peach crops of recent years cannot be brought back until new trees are grown, the Illinois Fruit Council reports.

The semi-official agency blames the 1950-51 winter kill of peach trees for declining harvests. In Illinois 1951 yielded an all-time big crop of four million bushels and its latest big year was more than two million bushels in 1946.

The 1950 crop has been estimated at less than one million bushels.

Bar Group Blasts Proposals Favoring Legalized Gambling

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—An official crime study group of the nation's lawyers Monday took a swipe at proposals to legalize gambling.

The commission on organized crime of the American Bar Association said in a report issued here: "The evils that flow from tolerated illegal gambling—when the laws are simply not enforced—are precisely the same as those which appear when gambling is legalized."

"... No one has ever been able to come forward with positive arguments in favor of professional gambling in terms of intrinsic worth or social utility," the report asserted.

The report, the product of two years research was presented to the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, which opened a week-long meeting here.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Far More Men Than Women Suffer Muscular Dystrophy

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Four correspondents recently have asked for a discussion of a disease which I should much rather not write about—namely, muscular dystrophy.

Although there are several forms of this distressing disease, they are all somewhat similar in showing increasing muscular wasting and weakness. They are being considered as truly hereditary.

The hereditary nature of muscular dystrophy is shown by the fact that almost half of those who are afflicted with it have at least one other member of their families showing the same disease.

Another interesting thing which probably is tied to the hereditary element is the fact that the disease is about three times as common in men as in women.

As a general rule, the first signs of muscular dystrophy appear early in life. Quite often it comes on so slowly that the difficulty is hardly noticed at first. As one mother wrote about her teen-aged boy: "He noticed a certain inability to keep up in sports, about a year ago. He had been active in hockey and baseball, and also helped on the farm."

In addition to the hereditary factor, some victims of this condition show certain chemical changes which can be identified. As yet, however, these chemical changes have not brought much information which could be translated into effective treatment.

Funds Speed Cure

Here, then, is a disease which requires the most intelligent and concentrated kind of research in order that some clues may be discovered to its prevention or treatment. This must be done and it is hoped that funds can be raised to speed the conquest of this knotty problem.

In the meanwhile, as one correspondent wrote, "there will be many gallant chaps with gallant families, doing their best to lead normal lives and facing their muscular weakness with courage and intelligence." They should be saluted by all of us.

THE CRIBBING SCANDAL, NO. 6—

Ineligibility Haunts Cadets Ousted From West Point

(Editor's note: This is the sixth of seven Reporter-Telegram dispatches from NEA Staff Correspondent Murray Olderman on what has happened to 80 West Point cadets since their inglorious dismissal a year ago in the cribbing scandal.)

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

If Notre Dame's Coach Frank Leahy wanted a quick cure for his chronic pessimism, all he'd have to do is reach in his own backyard for five of the finest football specimens in the country.

But he can't touch them. Don Beck, Gene Gribble, Jim Guardino, Ray Bara and Bill Flick—all students at Notre Dame—carry the taint of the West Point cribbing scandal.

So Frank waxeslachrymose, and Coach Bobby Dodds of Georgia Tech knows how he feels. There are three of the same specimens in his camp—Bill Baise, Bill McGuire and Ben Brian.

An anonymous millionaire foots the bill for 13 ex-West Pointers attending Notre Dame, five of them the above football players.

Notre Dame is close-mouthed about their presence: "We have never released the names of the boys who are here, nor has the name of the unknown benefactor become known. Their ineligibility will never be lifted."

On good authority, however, we have learned the donor is former Ambassador to England Joseph Kennedy.

For an idea of the talent lying dormant, one cadet confided Linebacker Beck was superior to the more publicized Elmer Stout, now at Oklahoma A&M and prominently listed as a pre-season '51 All-American.

Don's college football career is over. He had a knee operation last fall. From La Junta, Colo., he first tried to enroll at the University of Colorado but was rejected, so he accepted the Notre Dame offer.

"We had no other choice," nodded Gribble, a fine defensive back from New Castle, Pa., who might consider pro ball some day "if the offer is right."

"Our family circumstances were not such that we could go to college on our own," said Bara, a regular guard from South River, N. J., to whom football was secondary to an education. "That's why we chose Notre Dame."

At Georgia Tech, halfback Bill McGuire actually worked in a week of varsity spring practice, but was dropped when Tech announced the former West Pointers would not be eligible to participate in athletics. Neither he, center Bill Baise nor guard Ben Brian were on scholarships.

The other former stars who forsook football fame were Harold Loeblein, captain-elect of the '51 team now studying veterinary medicine at Minnesota; guard Dick Roberts, an engineer at Kentucky; and, of course, Bobby Blak, the coach's son, who transferred to Colorado College.

Three former West Pointers are sitting patiently by for '53 before they are eligible to resume football. Vince Vergara, a third string fullback, matriculated at Syracuse last February—for obvious reasons, his brothers, Tony and Al, are regular members of the current Syracuse squad.

Howard Baldwin, a halfback at Ohio State, and Jack Chamblin, a guard at Illinois, must abide by the conference rule which calls for two seasons of ineligibility for students not in good standing who transfer to a Big Ten school. That ruling dissuaded others from the Big Ten.

Midland Dog Show Entries Reach 300; Boxers Lead Field

Three hundred well-curried dogs will put on their best manners here September 17 and each will try to convince judges he's the finest dog in West Texas.

Almost 40 breeds will be represented in the West Texas Kennel Club's show. They range from great danes to poodles and from wimaraners to cockers and collies.

Boxers will have the largest field of competition with 34 dogs entered. There will be 21 dachshunds and 14 chihuahuas. Midland residents have entered 44 of the contenders.

Selwyn Harris of New York City will judge the working, toy and non-sporting breeds, and John Banks of Webster Groves, Mo., will judge the sporting, hound and terrier breeds.

To earn a championship title a dog must prove its superiority over a certain number of other dogs under different judges at a number of shows. The title can be gained through wins at three shows, but more often it requires 10 to 20 shows. Some 200 dogs from a score of states will be in the Midland show "campaigning" for their championship title.

Some of the dogs are valued as highly as $5,000. Mrs. Ted Ayoub of El Paso will judge the junior showmanship classes for younger trainers of dogs. The show runs all day with an 8 p.m. period set for final judging.

Come On In and Order One... Today!

There are many people in this community who want a Cadillac ever so badly—and who are almost persuaded to order one——but who, for one reason or another, are just holding back and waiting.
To all these people we wish to say: "Come on in and order your Cadillac today!"
Every day you wait is simply postponing, still further, the wonderful time when you can have and enjoy the many delightful things a Cadillac will bring you.
There is, for instance, the deep feeling of pride which comes from owning a car which is universally acknowledged to be the Standard of the World...

... the great satisfaction that comes from driving a car so quiet you can "whisper and be heard"; so easy to handle that driving is no conscious effort at all; so comfortable and restful that a day at its wheel is the essence of relaxation...
... the comforting confidence that comes from the knowledge that your car is so soundly-engineered and so beautifully-built that you can keep it and enjoy it over almost any period of years you may care to designate...
... and, finally, the happy knowledge that you probably paid less for your Cadillac than hundreds of thousands of people who are driving other makes of cars—for there are numerous models produced by other manufacturers which actually cost more than the lowest-priced Cadillac!

Isn't all this too much to miss for even one needless day?
Owners of Cadillacs will tell you it is—out of their own experience. Time and again, people who have just moved up to Cadillac have said to us—"Why did I wait so long to enjoy all this?"
That's why we urge you to come in today and start down the happy road to Cadillac ownership. You have already missed too much—too long!

Texas Construction Continues Rebound During Last Month

AUSTIN—(AP)—Texas construction continued on the rebound last month.

The Texas Contractor, trade publication, reported August's total awards amounted to $115,868,428, the second month in a row construction has held above the rare-for-Texas $100,000,000 mark.

Prior to July's $105,487,871 total, awards had dropped steadily since March.

The Journal tallied the awards for the first eight months at $764,178,338, below the 1951 total but in excess of previous years.

Non-residential construction was largely responsible for the high August mark. Work in that category amounted to $71,252,181. Residential awards totalled $33,871,088 and engineering projects accounted for $10,845,158.

IN SPITE OF LANGUAGE BARRIER Americans Make Friends Of French, Arab Peoples

By BETTY SELLERS
Special Correspondent
(Second in a series of four articles)
What impresses Americans in Morocco?

They talk about the wonderful resort-side weather along the coast or the terrific heat of the interior. They contrast the white French cities with the comparatively recent Medina, which look as ancient and knowing as an Arab fatima.

They write about the sidewalk cafes, where an airman can sip a drink and watch East and West walk by all afternoon. They are amused by the Moroccan version of a Five and Dime, filled with duty-expensive American imports.

found in the larger French cities like Casablanca and Rabat. They complain about the lack of modern American stores and American luxury items for living comfort.

Americans eat French food — dinner with a thick steak costs about $9, steak being one of the cheaper foods here. They sample the French salads drenched with oil and seasonings, the light wines, and cheese and fruit for dessert. Or perhaps they try the famous Arab dish, cous-cous, made of coarse barley, sliced ground chicken, and vegetables.

If they wish, Americans can go to the open markets and buy fresh foods to prepare U. S. style. They must, however, take proper precautions against any of the diseases prone to spread in this semi-tropically fertile country. Fresh food is plentiful and incredibly cheap; canned food, although plentiful, is impossibly expensive. A kilo (two pounds plus) of tomatoes may cost 10 cents; a medium size can of peaches sells for a dollar.

Americans dislike doing without fast, convenient roadside modes of transportation. Train and bus service, although efficient and clean for first-class passengers, does not match the speedy luxury of the States.

Americans lack the entertainment mediums of home. American movies show here, but French voices have been dubbed in. Parks have no playgrounds; tennis and volleyball courts are owned by clubs. Football and baseball exist more in theory than practice.

Only the beaches with their brasseries of refreshment stands, and the nightclubs in the cities equal stateside facilities.

Indelible Impressions
An American's most indelible impressions are of the people he meets. The language difference here, however, limits social intercourse.

French react to Americans much the same way we would react to the French on bases in Alaska, or even the same way an American town reacts to a U. S. base built near its environs.

The upper class of French and Arabs reserve their opinion, waiting for the Americans to prove themselves. Individual airman have made fast friends among the middle class families here. Lower class French and Arabs look upon the Americans largely as tourists.

The main contacts of an airman are with such groups as the grinning, quick-witted Arab shoe-shine boys, the friendly French and Arab indigenous personnel at the bases, the shrewd Arab merchants bargaining over the price of a hassock.

In spite of the language barrier, Americans are making friends of the French and Arabs.

A steam-electric power plant in southeastern Indiana will burn 800,000 tons of coal per year and produce 1,800,000 pound of steam per hour with just two boilers.

Naturals Battle With Synthetics

NEW YORK —(AP)— The battle of the blends is bursting out all over today.

It's not blends of whiskey for whoopee, as you may think, but of natural and synthetic fibers for clothing.

But either could get customers just as befuddled in the months ahead.

When they enter a clothing store they may be confronted with a bewildering variety of combinations of fibers: those that come from sheep and plants and those that come from oil, coal and lime, natural gas and hydrocarbons, from wood and grain, and from air.

Each blend—or each fabric from fiber in its pure state—offers different values in wear, price, and special qualities like holding the crease in dry or wet weather and washability. Also to be considered is in what state the garment will return from a trip to the cleaners, or whether it will develop static and cling to your body.

Old textile mills that a few years ago made nothing but cotton or wool goods are offering new blends this fall.

Don't sell wool and cotton short, however. There'll still be plenty of each, in their pure state, in the stores. Millions will go on buying them. And they are highly prized in the trade for mixtures with the new miracle man-made fibers.

The staid American Woolen Co. for example, may be causing a stir today by announcing it will offer mixtures of wool and crinol, or wool and nylon, and of wool and vicara. But it stresses that it will go right on making all-wool fabrics, too.

The high price of many of the synthetics has held them back, although their growth has been spectacular—up 253 per cent since 1939.

Leaving out the plants, rayon and acetate, the production of the so-called miracle fibers nylon, dacron, orlon, dynel, acrilan and the rest, hit $10 million pounds last year, a gain of 48 per cent in a year. It is expected to top 200 million pounds this year and 400 million in 1953.

If the price of the new synthetics—now ranging roughly from $1.40 to $1.90 a pound—comes down with increased production, man-made fiber enthusiasts predict that demand may call for output of 750 million pounds by 1950.

Taft Can Afford To Be Calm On Ike

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Sen. Taft can afford to be calm about the kind of support he gives Gen. Eisenhower. He is one of those fortunate men who no longer has to be troubled by ambition.

He has abandoned hope for the one job he desired above all others: the presidency. It's unlikely Eisenhower, if the general wins, could offer Taft any other spot he likes as well as his present job in the Senate.

No other job would give him such a forum for his views and opinions, which he likes to express. And he has a following which shares his views.

His Senate job—he was elected in 1930 to a six-year term—is safe for another four years. He's 68 now.

The fact that the majority of the Republican party, as represented by delegates to the National Convention, turned him down in favor of Eisenhower doesn't necessarily mean the majority doesn't share his views.

It may have chosen the general because it thought he had a better chance of winning in November, although the party has turned Taft down three times now—in 1945, in 1948 and in 1952—for a crack at the presidency.

Intruder Caught Playing 'Poussin'
NEWARK, N. J. —(AP)— Neighborhood housewives had been worried recently by unexplained midnight pantry raids and garbage can forays.

The mystery was solved with the capture of a "poussin" on the steps of a local hotel. The captor, Samuel Brantley, owner of the hotel, used to hunt "poussin" in his young days in Georgia.

When Brantley seized the animal by the throat the unlucky "poussin" was playing possum.

This does not seem to have made even a slight dent in his thinking. He has indicated in no way that he has changed. And he knows he represents the thinking of many Republicans who might have preferred him as a candidate.

For two weeks now at least there has been increasing talk—on an on-again and off-again basis—that he was going to confer with Eisenhower, who has apparently been anxious to have him campaign vigorously.

Several times, without committing himself to any promise of beating the bushes for the man who beat him in Chicago, Taft said he wants to talk with the general to learn his views and what he'd do if elected.

This hesitancy of Taft's leaves the door open for him to decline such a speaking tour if he doesn't hear from Eisenhower what he wants to hear.

If Taft stays out of it and Eisenhower wins, the general's supporters will, it seems sure, try to topple Taft from his present position of Republican leader in the Senate.

If Eisenhower makes commitments to Taft and then goes on to win, Taft's help, Taft would be in a better position to keep his Senate leadership post.

Well-Deserved Acclaim-

Congratulations to Manager Jay Haney and his Midland Indians who finished the regular baseball season in third place in the Longhorn League standings and who now are in the playoffs for the league championship.

The Indians have amassed an enviable record under the capable management of Jay Haney, and Midland baseball fans and citizens are proud of their Indians, and grateful to them for bringing added sports honors to this headquarters city of the Permian Basin Empire.

Midlanders also are grateful to officials of Midland Baseball, Inc., for the exceptionally fine job they have done in guiding the destinies of Midland's home-owned baseball club.

Right now, however, interest centers around the winning of the league pennant, and never before perhaps has interest been at such a high point. Citizen support is at a record high—a well-deserved recognition of the accomplishments of the Indians on the diamond this season.

The best wishes of all Midlanders ride with the Indians as they continue in the race for the Longhorn League championship.

Open Eyes To Education -

It's taken a war to open our eyes to a new wrinkle in education.

Under the so-called Korean Veterans Bill, discharged members of the armed forces who have been on active duty since July, 1950, are entitled to up to 36 months of educational benefits.

But whereas in World War II the money was paid directly to the school, under the new legislation monthly payments from the government will be made to the veteran himself.

This meant that schools, instead of getting a full semester's tuition in advance, were going to have to work out something to accommodate the veterans operating on a month-to-month basis.

One of the first colleges to work out a practical arrangement was the Stevens Institute of Technology, of Hoboken, N. J. Stevens, through an arrangement with local banks, now is able to get its tuitions from veterans in an advance lump sum, with the veterans repaying the banks out of their monthly government checks.

Which brings up the point, if such a system can be worked out for veterans why not also for other students who just can't get up the full semester's tuition in advance?

The president of Stevens says several banks throughout the country have written him about his college's plan. This may be a sign, he says, "that financial circles are at last becoming concerned with a problem that has bothered educators for years: how to permit young people, regardless of their economic situations, to attend the college they want to."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Copyright, 1952, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc. Drew Pearson says: Shake-up in Ike's camp displaces Summerfield and Lodge; Stevenson gathers strength from Lincoln; Democrats will champion Kefauver principles.

WASHINGTON — General Eisenhower is quietly shaking up his cabinet of political advisers. The chief shake affects Arthur Summerfield of Michigan, who virtually has been eased out of the top command and now has almost nothing to say about campaign strategy, although he continues to bear the imposing title of GOP national chairman.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service We hear so much about the hold-up play, but sometimes we overlook the fact that a hold-up can be a fatal mistake. It is almost as important to know when to hold-up as it is to know when to execute this very important play.

When West opened the seven of diamonds in the hand shown today, South made the mistake of holding up dummy's ace. East won with the queen of diamonds and returned the suit to dummy's ace. Thus West's long suit was established in the first two tricks.

Rural School Aid Asked By Teachers

NEW YORK (AP)—A teachers conference meeting at Columbia University has called upon state governments to adopt tax programs that will provide a sound and adequate education for country children as well as city children.

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

Arnall Had More Fun Than Headaches; Finds 'All Is Not Lost' In Price Controls

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Ernie Price Stabilization Director Ellis Arnall left Washington; mad at nobody. "I've had a wonderful time," he said in his best Georgia accent. "It was more like a vacation. I really had more fun on it than headaches, I really did."

The amazing thing about government is not that it is bad as it is. The amazing thing is that government is as good as it is, when you consider all the pressures that are put on it by people who want to get something from it.

Small, former governor of the West state, said he didn't even go away discouraged. "All is not lost," he declared. "It's just going to be a lot harder to hold prices levels steady than it was before the steel price increase was allowed as a pass-through for steel wages."

Special Session Talk Fades That talk about a special session of Congress this Fall, to deal with the high cost of living, was started just before Arnall resigned as price stabilizer, principally to stir up the animals to let them know that the control of inflation was going to be a harder job.

Agitation for the special session apparently was put out with President Truman's approval. But nobody now expects the special session to be called, unless things get a lot worse.

The situation is that the farmers are being promised steeper and higher prices, as part of the campaign strategy. Labor is demanding higher wages. Instead of absorbing these extra costs, business is demanding higher profits while the housewives are demanding lower prices.

The government's problem is how to achieve all these things at the same time. It can be approached only through some action of Congress. That puts the members of Congress on the spot. And in an election year, politicians don't like to be put on the spot.

So the special session talk will be allowed to die quietly, at least till after election. And it is freely admitted a lame duck Congress wouldn't do anything about inflation even if it were called back.

Layoffs Gained In Oil It is an old saying that every time you hit a lawyer in Washington, you hit the oil industry, which is extremely well organized to handle its dealings with government.

Thus, one of the reasons that inspired Missouri's Democratic senator, Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., to speech for the ticket in the big electoral state of California, and in other states where needed.

The warm-up to Kefauver followed some blunt advice by California's national chairman, John Anson Ford, who told Stevenson: "If California voters get the idea that the things Kefauver has been fighting for are being pushed aside, it might jeopardize the success of our campaign in California."

Ford also cautioned party leaders against "overconfidence." "Everyone at this meeting seems to be bursting with optimism," Ford told Mitchell and Wilson Wyatt of Kentucky. "That is fine, but too confident too early in the campaign. If we lie back with the attitude that this election is in the bag, we may wind up holding the bag."

Stevenson asked many questions about the progress of congressional campaigns in Western states, beamed when Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington, manager of Senate contests in the West, predicted that Stevenson would have a Democratic-controlled Senate.

Magnuson reported that the Democrats had an excellent chance of defeating four Republican senators: Cain of Washington, Eton of Montana, Watkins of Utah and Malone of Nevada. He added that Democratic senators running for reelection in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming were "safe," although Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming has a tough fight.

Have A Laugh

By BOYCE HOLDS An oil company had drilled a bunch of dry holes. The superintendent one morning asked for the lease man but he hadn't been in the office so the superintendent rang his hotel room. The lease man began to apologize, "I overslept" but the superintendent broke in, "That's all right; the more you sleep, the less time you have to buy us worthless leases."

THE SECOND MAN on the Ticket

Copyright by Herb Luban, Reprinted by WPA, London, Inc. When the train stopped at midnight at Marksville, and McDonald came aboard, I was asleep. I did not see him until morning, when I went to the dining car for breakfast. I had slept late, and there were only a few in the car. As I came in the first thing I noticed was a man with his nose buried deep in a book. It was the book that caught my eye. I could see the title on the jacket: Second Man on the Ticket, by Roy Mason, and when I looked at the man who was reading it, I recognized him: from the photograph that appeared at the head of his daily column as Clyde McDonald.

I stopped at the table and said, "You're Clyde McDonald, aren't you?" He glanced up and said, "Yeah."

"Lacking out," he said. "I'm looking in."

"My name is Roy Mason," I said, and picked up the menu. "Oh, yes," said McDonald. "The eminent biographer, I presume. I've been reading your latest achievement."

I gave my order to the waiter and sat looking out the window, feeling idly. "Yes, sir," said Clyde McDonald. "Willis G. Warburton, the business genius. The farm boy who made good. The two-listed investigator. The family man. The balancer of budgets and ferret."

"You almost made me forget I lost my shirt on one of his dog one day out at Jones'."

"You'll find that in one of your old Racing Forms," I said. "That isn't a book about horse racing." "One lucky thing," McDonald said. "I guess not many of them delegates at the convention go to the track much."

"Andrew Jackson used to race horses," I said. "And, Mr. Mac-

Boris Shishkin, an AFL economist, He points out that the survey covered 1950, which was an abnormal year.

Because of shortages brought on by the Korean war, many families over-bought. They purchased new cars and televisions on the installment plan because they feared such items would be hard to get later on. There was a 22 per cent rise in department store sales, April to July, and a similar rise in November and December.

As many of these purchases were made on 18 and 24 monthly pay plans, only half of the expenditure should have been charged to 1950 indebtedness.

'Soviet Sally' Broadcasts Psychological tactics of a hot war now are being waged by the Russians against U. S. troops and civilian construction workers at the huge new Thule, Greenland, Air Force Base. This is the new base, way up the West Coast, less than 15 degrees of latitude from the North Pole.

It is charged day laborers had to be paid $12,000 a year and mechanics $17,000 to get them to work up for the construction job. Work completed by the Norse and U. S. governments. Thule will be a key base for North Atlantic strategic air defense and counterattack.

Construction of this base has worried the Russians considerably. One of their efforts to hinder the work has been a series of regular propaganda broadcasts, beamed towards Thule, written and spoken in English to appeal to the Americans stationed at the base.

Following the pattern of Tokyo Rose and Axis Sally, a girl with a good American accent does the broadcasting. Every day she tells the men how many feet of runway they have completed; and other facts which are supposed to be correct.

Names of workers and Air Force and Army Corps of Engineers personnel are mentioned. And the gimmick of saying that the wives back home are being unfaithful to the men at this far-away base, is used frequently.

WRONG: Say as little as possible—and simply listen while others talk.

RIGHT: Realize that a "good listener" is one who talks enough to introduce interesting topics of conversation and to draw others out. One who does nothing but listen isn't a stimulating companion.

What's RIGHT? You'd like to be considered a "good listener" by those you meet socially.

IF 95% of the work is being done by machines, why is everyone so tired at night?

THE writer put my breakfast in front of me, and I drank coffee. McDonald closed the book and gave his cover a little pat, like an old friend. "What's in the schedule of the Great Hippopotamus today?" he asked.

I winced and said, "Mr. Evans can give you the schedule."

He nodded. "Maybe that's what I got here." He took a sheet of mimeographed pages from his pocket.

"Yes, this is it. Twelve fifteen, arrive at Milltown. Members of the party will be ready to leave the train upon arrival. Members of the press and photographers will kindly handle own typewriters, cameras, etc. at station. Reception committee to meet the Governor will include at station, at station. Entire party will proceed to Milltown Hotel at station, at station. Ah, here we are. Governor Warburton's schedule: 1 p. m. press conference at Milltown Hotel. To 6 o'clock luncheon, at station. Three o'clock conference with veterans' organizations. Three fifteen, conference with leaders of textile industry. Four, conference with at station, at station, at station. Hey, McDonald!"

Looting Truck Cargoes Grows Into Full-Scale Racket In U. S.

By HAL BOTLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jesse James was born in the wrong century. He wasted his criminal talents holding up banks, ambushing trains on horseback, and died young himself, a victim of the crude instrument by which he lived—a pistol. Today Jesse James would have to sharpen his technique considerably to survive in a crime field that has become a big business-truck cargo theft.

Looting the heavily-laden behemoths of the highways is now a highly lucrative industry for well-organized gangs who operate with the time precision of a professional football team making a touchdown.

The rewards are high. Single trucks have yielded $100,000 in furs, $50,000 in liquor, $40,000 in cigarettes, or—as in one case—$80,000 worth of brasserie.

Losses Are Mounting
Truck hijacking has become so widespread that losses rose from $22,000,000 in 1946 to $68,000,000 in 1951, and some insurance experts fear the toll this year may reach $75,000,000.

Here is the kind of cargo these criminal specialists go for, as measured by losses last year: clothing, food, textiles, tobacco, furs, liquor, metals, television sets, money, and furniture.

"All it requires to steal a 20-ton truck is nerve," said Jack Seide, 42, head of Babaco Alarm Systems, a pioneer in truck cargo protection.

"Contrary to the public's idea," he said, "most truck hijackings don't occur on lonely stretches of the open road at gunpoint."

"Ninety-nine per cent are pulled off in a metropolitan area. They are usually thefts from unattended vehicles. 'Gumplay is very rare, because it is unnecessary.'"

Some Inside Jobs
Some gangs set up their jobs with inside help from trucking firm employees, whose Seide feels aren't checked carefully for past criminal records. Some gangs loot unguarded trucks on the spot, others drive them away and empty the contents at their leisure, then abandon the vehicles.

Seide became interested in the problem as a young traveling salesman for a jewelry and watch supplies firm shortly after graduating from high school.

Thieves repeatedly broke into his car and stole his samples.

"It wasn't the value of the samples themselves that bothered me," he said, "it was the time I lost from selling until the samples could be replaced."

Made Own Alarm
With the help of a friend he made a crude burglar alarm that would sound the horn if anyone tried to tamper with his car. It worked. He lost no more samples.

Other salesmen heard of his alarm, and asked him to make one for their cars.

Seide decided to make vehicle protection his career, and developed his invention. It took him five lean years of hunger to interest trucking companies and insurance writers in it.

Today he leases his alarm systems to firms operating more than 8,000 trucks, has 200 agencies from coast-to-coast, boasts that no truck protected by one of his alarms has ever been hijacked.

"But having a million dollar idea," he said wryly, "isn't nearly as hard as putting it over after you get it."

Japanese Protest Ghost Town Edict

TOKYO—(AP)—A company decision to close Japan's most famous gold mine seems likely to establish a Western-style "ghost town" in the Orient.

Some 500 miners and the town of 10,000 which depends upon the mine are protesting against the shutdown on historic Bodo Island, once a place of exile for Japan's emperors. The vein was struck 251 years ago and has been worked almost steadily ever since. Once the mine employed 100,000 men but now the payroll has petered out.

Evaporated milk per capita consumption by rural families in Eastern North Carolina is four times that of Western North Carolina families.

The MATURE PARENT

Loyalty To Truth Doesn't Make A Child A 'Stool Pigeon'

His name is Jimmy. Though he is only nine years old, he has been struggling with a big moral problem.

For some time, he has known that his older brother secretly was charging ice cream and candy on their parents' grocery account. When this truth came to light, he was asked why he hadn't told what was going on.

He was troubled by the question. He said, "How I am to know when it's right to be a 'stool pigeon'—and when it isn't?"

Writes his mother, "I fumbled the answer. I just didn't know what to say. We certainly should have had this information—but to get it at the cost of Jimmy's regarding himself as a 'stool pigeon' doesn't seem right. What is the answer?"

I don't put such important answers into the mouths of other parents—but I certainly know what my own would be.

If Jimmy were my little boy, facing such an issue of human loyalties, I would say, "Darling, I am going to give you a rule to solve such problems. It is to try and always give your first loyalty to truth, not to people you love. Unless we give our first loyalty to the truth about the faults in ourselves and others, we cannot be loyal either to ourselves or to them. We end up by supporting and encouraging what is wrong and should be made clear and straight."

Then I would add, "If you had told us what your brother was doing because you gave first loyalty to truth, you would not be a 'stool pigeon.' A 'stool pigeon's' motive for exposing the wrong-doing of others is to gain something for himself—money, a pardon or a reward. Yours would not be this motive."

If Jimmy had been trained consistently to apply this rule of first loyalty to truth about himself and others, he might not have had to carry information about his brother to his parents at all. He would have gone straight to his big brother himself and said, "I think what you're doing is wrong. If you can't stop it by yourself, I will have to ask daddy and mother to help you stop it."

If Jimmy's mother can accept this rule of first loyalty to truth, she can give Jimmy a little lesson in how it works right now.

Since it requires us to expose the truth about ourselves as well as that about those we love, she might say, "Now let's apply this rule to you. What, for instance, was your real reason for keeping silent? Were you thinking about Brother—or were you just afraid of being called an ugly name like 'stool pigeon'?" Was it affection for Brother that kept you quiet—or fear that he might try to 'get back' at you for telling us?"

Youngster Builds Growing Business

NUTLEY, N. J.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Edward Wettach wants to be a newspaper editor and, what's more, he's working at the job right now.

The youngster puts out a weekly paper on his father's mimeograph machine consisting of neighborhood news. It sells for two cents and the circulation has risen to 27. Edward has a staff of five reporter-circulation men.

He got the idea for a newspaper from a comic book he was reading while laid up in bed with a sore foot.

FIRST RESERVE

The first United States forest reserve, the Yellowstone park timberland reserve, was created by President Harrison on Sept. 16, 1891. Land included within this reserve now forms part of several national forests in Montana, Idaho, and Wyoming, adjacent to the Yellowstone National Park.

Human relationship can get very mixed up indeed when we dare not speak out against what we believe is wrong in those we love, or when those who love us cannot do the same. Under such circumstances, we do not love very long. We just placate, condone and resent.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail How Many Fingers?

Uncle Bunkum lives at the zoo in his monkey cage. He likes to live there with the Monkey Catcher to look after him, and bring him his breakfast in bed, and hop and jump when Uncle Bunkum wants anything to make him hop and jump about.

Why, there was never anyone any kinder, or gentler, or sillier looking with silly chin-whiskers on his chin, than the Monkey Catcher. Except he never wanted Uncle Bunkum to have a vacation. Never, Never, Never.

Now the late-at-night had come. Then Monkey Catcher was sound asleep in his bed in his nightshirt. The phone rang. It was over by the window on a table. Monkey Catcher got out of bed to answer it.

"Now you see here, Monkey Catcher," said the voice of Uncle Bunkum in the phone, "I want a little vacation."

By WESLEY DAVIS

But the Monkey Catcher answered in his silly, stupid voice: "Are you in your cage where you belong? Turn on the light and let me see you."

Monkey Catcher looked out the window in the dark, trying to see Uncle Bunkum's cage, and whether Uncle Bunkum was in it.

"Don't be silly, Monkey Catcher," said Uncle Bunkum's voice in the phone. "If I turn on the light in my cage, I'll wake up the elephants, or the lion, maybe, and they'll make an awful noise."

Well sir, the Monkey Catcher knew that Uncle Bunkum was right about all the noise the elephants and lions would make if they woke up. But was Uncle Bunkum really in his cage? Or was he phoning from the great forest—back home at Daddy Ringtail's monkey house?

Well, the Monkey Catcher thought he knew how to find out. Said he: "Uncle Bunkum, how many fingers am I holding in the window?"

"Well sir," said Uncle Bunkum. "Right now you are not holding any fingers up in the window. You are holding on to the phone with both your hands, so you can talk to me. That's a foot you are holding up in the window."

And so the Monkey Catcher thought for sure that Uncle Bunkum was at home in his cage, but he wasn't absolutely sure. No no! He was looking through a telescope of the kind where you can see far away in the night—all the way from Daddy Ringtail's monkey house. Happy Vacation! More about the telescope later.

Ousted West Point Cadets Adjust Well, Ask No Favor

(Editor's note: This is the seventh and last of seven Reporter-Telegram dispatches from NEA Staff Correspondent Murray Olderman on what has happened to 90 West Point cadets since their inglorious dismissal a year ago in the cribbing scandal.)

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Only two of 38 West Point football players dismissed for cribbing indicate they would return to the academy if the Army granted sudden absolution for their "sins."

One is Hardy Stone, II, a tackle at Mississippi State who intends to follow a regular Army career; the other is Jack Erickson, Iowa State tackle.

Stone, an ROTC senior, was presented an award last June for the "Outstanding Military Student at Mississippi State" and selected cadet colonel for the coming school year. Erickson barely missed making the Olympic wrestling team, eliminated in the semi-finals by the eventual winner. The 205-pounder went to Iowa State because "we were pressed for time, and I tried to choose the school that gave me the best offer and yet ranked high academically."

Iowa State is rather starchy in admitting that Erickson and Walt Walker, an ex-West Point halfback from Ottumwa, Iowa, are in school.

Wants To Return
Erickson remarked wistfully, "I believe I would go back to West Point if it would be possible in a year or so."

The rest? "I'm too accustomed to civilian life to go back to the regimented living there," summed up one former cadet. "Besides, my pride wouldn't permit it."

Two stated bluntly many cadets who remained to play football for Army in 1951 also were cribbers.

"Everybody knows we got a raw deal," snapped Ray Malavasi, who expects amnesty to be granted his group this fall.

Analysis of their motives for getting involved in the cribbing scandal reveals the prevalent theme that friendship, personal loyalty and the football team superseded the honor code.

Grid Over-Emphasis
That over-emphasis of football was a factor must be conceded. Look at the roster of dismissed cadets. Seven are from Pennsylvania, five from New Jersey (football talent sectors). That's almost one-third of the team, not an equitable distribution of talent for an institution that draws its men from all over the nation.

That these former cadets are "men of high character," as Coach Earl Blaik insisted, after their ouster, also must be conceded. Their splendid academic and athletic progress at 21 different colleges proves it. Only two of 38 failed to continue their education.

Ironically, 80 per cent of these men, deemed unfit for West Point commissions, are destined to be officers anyway, through Reserve Officer Training programs at their civilian colleges.

Three Groups Work
Three groups are working to erase the stigma of the cadets' enforced resignations from West Point.

They are (1) a Parents Committee of families of the expelled cadets; (2) the Committee on Justice of the New York Criminal and Civil Courts Bar Association, and (3) an Interim Committee of West Point Graduates.

Their aims are to reveal the hushed-up facts behind the dismissals and put pressure on West Point and Congress to grant the boys honorable discharges and clear their "honor."

Public and official apathy has marked their efforts. The real job of redeeming honor is being done by the cadets themselves through their conduct since leaving West Point and their fine rehabilitation to civilian life.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Only Slight Adjustments To Process Of Aging Are Required

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

When people grow older they begin to face problems of health entirely different from those which they had when younger.

A. A. writes, for example, "No little is written about ailments and home care of the very old, although it's a big problem. Why do they stay awake in the night and nap all day, whether they are in a chair or some other position? Is there anything that can be done to change the habit?"

Perhaps it is not correct to speak of this as an ailment of old age, but it is certainly common. Actually, many persons, as they grow older, do not require as much sleep as they did previously, and I cannot see any particular reason why one should try to change this habit. Does it do anyone any harm?

But there are other changes in the later years of life which the older person should recognize and which should be understood by younger relatives and friends.

The tissues in general become more dry. Also the ability to repair injury becomes gradually lessened—wounds heal more slowly, broken bones knit with much greater difficulty.

There is a slow decrease in energy, the tissues are less elastic and the skin becomes more wrinkled.

The strength and endurance of the muscles and the speed of reaction are decreased.

The special senses become impaired and the vision, hearing and memory are never as good in old age as in youth.

None of these changes, however, need cause great concern, but require only simple adjustment and understanding.

Easily Digested Foods
The digestive system cannot take overloading in later years as well as it did in youth. Consequently, the older person should be careful to eat foods which are easy to digest, and the amount may well be reduced. It also is desirable not to drink too much water, because this places an added burden on the digestive system and the kidneys.

People do not age at exactly the same rate. Ordinarily it is not until the late 40's or early 50's that any conscious adjustment to the aging process is necessary. Perhaps it would be well if people, as they reach these years, think a little more often of the slightly decreased capacity of their functions and organs and save them accordingly.

Old age does not mean that all of the active joys of life have to be cut out, but merely that one should be sensible about them and engage in those which are best suited to the age and physical condition.

Calm acceptance of minor ailments and habit changes should be the watchword of both the older person and his or her friends and relatives.

QUADS BRING HOSPITAL FAME

PORTLAND, MAINE. — (AP) — What happens to a hospital when quadruplets are born there? Since Mrs. Elizabeth Pinkham recently became the mother of three daughters and one son the hospital has:

Received nation-wide publicity; had donations to its building fund from as far away as Iowa; its purchasing department has been besieged by salesmen; scores of persons have kept calling to ask if they can see the quads, and the morale of the hospital staff has snapped upward.

Not only that but patients are being visited by friends they did not even know were friends—all in hopes of catching a glimpse of the famous babies.

Skunk Cabbage Gets Overdue Recognition

WILLOWS, CALIF. — (AP) — No survey of natural resources is likely to list the lowly skunk cabbage, a plant spurned alike by men and livestock on forest lands. But the herbivore useless weed, which goes under the scientific name of verstrum californicum, is the basis of a thriving infant business in the higher regions of the Mendocino National Forest in Northwestern California.

Russ Bacon, resource manager of the Mendocino headquarters here, explains that the harvesting of the skunk cabbage developed through the accidental discovery that the root of the plant was valuable in the preparation of a new drug which is used in the treatment of high blood pressure.
