Two Die In Area Traffic Mishaps

One Killed, Five Injured Near Stanton

STANTON—One person was killed and five others injured in a two-automobile collision two miles west of here Sunday afternoon.

Killed instantly in the crash was Mrs. Minnie R. Cork, 71, of Floydada, who was returning home after visiting a daughter in Midland.

Injured were Mrs. Lucille Scott, 31, her daughter; Clifford Scott, her son-in-law, and the Scott's two daughters, Minnie Pearl, 12, and Betty Lou, 10, all of Floydada, and Mrs. E. Murray Jones, 60, of Lubbock.

Three Hurt Critically
All were in the Martin County Memorial Hospital here and the condition of Mrs. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Scott was described as critical.

State Highway Patrolman Cecil Renfrow said Mrs. Scott was driving the automobile eastward as they returned from Midland, where Mrs. Cork had been visiting; another daughter, Mrs. Claudia McDearmon, 1111 Midkiff Drive.

Coming from the other direction was the automobile driven by Mrs. Jones.

Renfrow said a witness to the collision, D. O. Lawson of Stanton, told him Mrs. Jones' car suddenly began weaving across the road and plunged directly into the path of the Scott's automobile.

Mrs. Cork's body was to be forwarded Monday by the Arrington Funeral Home to Goodlett for services and interment.

DEATH CAR AND VICTIM—Wendy Woolcock, right, 14-year-old Midland girl, was killed and her three teen-age companions injured Sunday when the sedan pictured above overturned and landed on its top. Two of the four girls, including the death victim, were thrown clear of the wreckage.

Coal Miners Quit In Protest Strike

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Most of the country's 375,000 soft coal miners refused to work Monday as a protest against the government-ordered cut in the $1.90 daily wage boost they recently won from the industry.

A noon survey showed at least 304,000 idle in 12 major coal producing states.

Come-to-work whistles were ignored by 67,000 miners in Western and Central Pennsylvania alone. These miners refused to work last week across the nation while the Wage Stabilization Board was debating approval of the pay hike for miners formerly earning a basic minimum daily wage of $1.65.

After the WSB approved $1.90 of the pay increase, bringing the new basic daily wage to $1.78, more miners joined their idle fellow workers. Now at least 304,000 are staying away from work, including 30,000 in Kentucky, 12,000 in Ohio, 8,500 in Indiana, 17,000 in Illinois and 700 in Oklahoma.

The walkout came at a time when coal stocks are at a near-record high. The estimated 85 million tons of stored coal is the biggest stockpile in history except for 1942, when the supply of coal above ground was around 100 million tons. Ample supplies mean that industry and householders won't feel a coal shortage for two months or more.

Claim Contract Voided
Most miners said they considered the WSB action as nullifying their contract. Members of the United Mine Workers traditionally won't work without a contract.

First positive signs of the walk-out appeared in West Virginia when 1,700 miners failed to report for work on midnight shifts at the Grant Town No. 3 Mine of Eastern Gas and Fuel Association, and the Owings and Riversville Mines of Consolidation Coal Company of West Virginia. All are in the Northern area.

Texas Still Sings Dry Weather Blues

By The Associated Press
Old Man Texas felt anything but poetic Monday as he viewed October's "bright blue weather."

The drought stayed on and the weather forecast called for fair skies and little change in temperature the next two days.

October was two-thirds gone and stood fair to be one of the driest months in Texas' history.

Vann Kennedy Backs Stevenson, Resigns State Committee Post

AUSTIN—(AP)—Vann M. Kennedy Monday announced his resignation from the State Democratic Executive Committee in an open break with the party machinery's support of Dwight Eisenhower.

The radio station owner and one-time secretary of the Executive Committee said he intends to support all Democratic nominees.

"In order that I may feel completely free to do so, and in order that the governor may have complete harmony in his State Democratic Executive Committee, I hereby resign as a member of the 20th Senatorial District, effective immediately," Kennedy said in a letter to Executive Committee Chairman Wallace Savage, Dallas.

The resignation came as the Executive Committee met in Austin to consider, among other matters, the resignation of National Committeeman Wright Morrow.

Morrow announced his resignation September 20 because he does not agree with and can not work for policies of the national party.

New Polio Vaccine Promises Success In Test On Humans

By WILLIAM MANCHESTER
Copyright, Baltimore Evening Sun

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Working with little children, a Johns Hopkins scientist has developed and tested a vaccine which gives promise of being effective against all three types of polio.

"I am satisfied that it is possible to produce a satisfactory level of polio antibodies in human beings," Dr. Howard A. Howe, adjunct professor of epidemiology at Hopkins, said Monday.

Antibodies are specific agents which can be developed in the blood to produce immunity against a disease.

Using a vaccine made of killed polio virus, Dr. Howe found it made children develop antibodies against the virus. He presented his findings at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association in Cleveland.

The preparation of a triple vaccine made Dr. Howe's work especially difficult. Polio really is three diseases. Any one of its three types of virus—Lansing, Brunhilde or Leon—can cripple. A preventive must be aimed at all of them.

Dr. Howe warned that the vaccine isn't ready for use—that he isn't even sure it will be the vaccine to be used in large trials. Further testing will be necessary to improve it.

11 Tests Tested
The children, all two to five years old, were low-grade imbeciles at Rosewood State Training School. Their parents agreed to the experiment. No child was in danger at any time.

They were inoculated with a vaccine brewed from (1) the spinal cords of monkeys stricken with polio and (2) a chemical rendering the polio viruses harmless but still capable of producing antibodies.

In 1950, Dr. Howe had found four could immunize chimpanzees.

Eleven bedridden children at Rosewood, in good physical condition

despite their handicaps, were chosen for the human trials.

Blood tests showed only one of them had antibodies against more than one type of polio virus, before the vaccination.

Dr. Howe decided to give six of them the vaccine and nothing to the other five. If the vaccine took, the inoculated six would develop antibodies in their blood. The others would not.

That is what happened. The triple vaccine was given first to monkeys to be sure it was harmless.

The vaccine then was injected into the muscle of children. As a double safety factor, they also were given doses of gamma globulin before the experiment to combat infection that might develop. None did.

The vaccine was administered in two doses, about three months apart, and caused no discomfort or temperature.

Snow Falls As Ike Tours New England

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL—(AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower's good weather luck turned against him Monday as he pushed his presidential campaign into New England in the midst of the season's first snowfall. But it didn't chill the enthusiasm of his supporters.

At the first whistle stop at Stamford, Conn.—where President Truman spoke Saturday—several thousand persons turned out in overcoats and mufflers.

Snow began falling as his special train left New York City and it blanketed the Connecticut countryside lightly. This was the worst weather for the GOP presidential nominee since he began his campaign.

Eisenhower told the Stamford crowd—estimated at about 5,000—that the great issue of the day was peace.

Eisenhower left New York at 7:30 a.m. on a three-day tour of Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

On the eve of Eisenhower's departure for New England, his headquarters made public a letter to the general from Bernard Baruch in which the elder statesman lauded him for "abhorrence of cant, hypocrisy, intolerance in all fields of human relations..."

The letter was written August 7. Baruch told Eisenhower in the letter that he admired him for the "high purposes that have motivated you in all circumstances."

Critical Of Administration
The 62-year-old Baruch, a Democrat, has been an adviser to presidents of both parties since Woodrow Wilson's time. For almost four years past, however, Baruch has been critical of the Truman Administration.

Baruch was asked by newsmen by telephone if the letter constituted an endorsement of Eisenhower's candidacy.

He called the newsmen's attention to the fact that he had signed the letter with the word, "affectionately," and told them "I might have something to say later."

Two Texans Among Air Crash Victims

TOKYO—(AP)—The Air Force Monday released the names of 30 U. S. Air Force officers and airmen lost last Thursday when a C-46 disappeared on a flight over South Korea.

Names of five Navy personnel aboard have not been made public. The Air Force said it was the first passenger fatality on a scheduled flight by the combat cargo command in more than two years, during which more than 2,000,000 passengers have been carried.

The Air Force list included: A/2c Harry C. Gammage, engineer; Mrs. Virginia Gammage, San Antonio, Texas, wife.

A/3c George Freeman; Mrs. Maxine Freeman, Box 1253, Plainview, Texas, wife.

Texas Demo Panel Stands By Morrow

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee Monday refused to accept the resignation of National Committeeman Wright Morrow of Houston.

Morrow had offered his resignation because of his personal disagreement with national party views and because the State Democratic Convention at Amarillo had instructed him to support Dwight Eisenhower.

The new Executive Committee gave a unanimous vote refusing his resignation.

Its action adopted a committee report which said: "We see no reason for accepting the resignation of this most able advocate of Texas democracy."

Morrow told the committee: "I can not overstate to you my gratitude for your confidence. My first allegiance is to a majority of the Democrats of Texas. I shall keep that faith and allegiance as best I know how."

Screaming Chinese Charge Two Peaks In Vain Attempts

SEoul, KOREA—(AP)—Hordes of screaming Chinese Reds charged through their own artillery fire Sunday and early Monday but failed in an attempt to recapture two important central front hills.

U. S. and South Korean soldiers on Triangle Hill and Sniper Ridge forced back the fanatic Communists in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

Thunderous artillery, mortars and Katusha rockets supported the Communists. Allied front-line officers estimated a full regiment—3,000 to 3,500 men—advanced on each of the hills north of Kumhwa late Sunday.

At last report, the Communists held Pike's Peak, the northwestern knob of Triangle Hill. Allied troops controlled the rest of the rocky mass.

After bitter hand-to-hand fighting, the Reds called off their attack at 9 a.m. Monday and holed up in bunkers and caves to the north.

Early in their assault, the Communists surrounded troops of the U. S. Seventh Division on Pike's Peak. But the Americans fought their way out. They joined other U. S. troops and in a furious bayonet and grenade battle beat back Chinese who had swarmed to within 300 yards of Triangle's main crest. Top Of Pinepoint

Two miles to the east, the Communists advanced to the top of Pinepoint Hill, highest point on Sniper Ridge. South Korean Second Division troops counterattacked and drove them off.

South Korean troops with grenades and rifles fought Monday toward the crest of Iron Horse Mountain, a west-central front high northeast of Choron.

At last report the issue was still in doubt.

Red Menace In Britain

Britons who have viewed the Communist element as little more than a lunatic fringe which they could afford to ignore are getting a bit of a shock. They are hearing that the Reds have wormed their way into the Socialist Party, one of the two major political groups in the nation, in disturbing numbers.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

name of William F. McCarthy. Although in his brother's name, $10,000 used to open the account actually came from Ray Kiermas to the extent of $6,223.72, while the balance was supplied by a draft on the Appleton State Bank which suddenly seems to have lost its records and cannot now identify the source of this money.

Three years later, March 8, 1951, the account with D. F. Rice was closed out, a check for $7,198 going to William F. McCarthy. This check was cashed and the cash was deposited ten days later back with the same D. F. Rice Company.

This time, however, the trading account was in the name of Julia Connelly, the maiden name of William McCarthy's wife.

In 1951, the date when the commodity account was closed out and then re-established under Julia Connelly's name, it so happened that the senator from Wisconsin was beginning to come under the scrutiny of his fellow senators for extracurricular conduct.

This is just one chapter in the operation of a senator who has set himself up in judgment over his fellowmen.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Senator who attacks government gets away with amazing financial transactions; Senator McCarthy received $24,000 in cash in six years; McCarthy also received $75,000 in unidentified bank deposits in three years.

WASHINGTON—It is an axiom of military strategy that the best defense is to attack. But in political strategy it looks as if the best defense against income tax investigation is to charge that the government is full of Communists.

If you repeat that charge often enough and about it loud enough, you can get away with all sorts of things as far as your personal taxes are concerned—or at least that seems to be the experience of Wisconsin's Senator Joe McCarthy.

This may be because government officials know that they raise the cry of "martyr" and "revenge" if they prosecute a critic who has attacked them.

It is a safe statement that the average newspaperman who kept financial records the way McCarthy does, and juggled his finances the way he does, would have landed in the jug sometime ago. However, it is a known although never officially admitted fact that senators and members of the House of Representatives never have their tax returns too carefully scrutinized.

This is the unwritten rule of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The fact that McCarthy merits investigation and scrutiny, however, is indicated by the amazing fact that during the last six and a half years the senator from Wisconsin deposited $24,185.44 to his bank accounts.

The average citizen does not deal in large amounts of cash. Cash is the medium of the underworld, where pay-offs and protection money must be concealed. However, here is the record of the cash deposited by a member of the distinguished United States Senate, the most important deliberative body in the world:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Amount

Another case involved the Appleton State Bank in Wisconsin. In 1946 it was dunned McCarthy for funds in order to cover a loan, when suddenly from a completely unidentified source a total of $38,045.73 was deposited to McCarthy's account.

One of McCarthy's financial schemes was a joint banking account with his office assistant Ray Kiermas. Kiermas has had an average annual income of about $6,000. Yet from sources best known to himself, Kiermas has made large deposits not only to his own account but also has deposited funds to the senator's account.

It is possible that the senator has banked through his office assistant in order to cover the source of certain people who have paid him. He also apparently has used his brother, William F. McCarthy.

On August 26, 1948, for instance, a commodity credit account was opened with Dan F. Rice and Company, Chicago Grain Traders, in the name of William F. McCarthy.

Although in his brother's name, $10,000 used to open the account actually came from Ray Kiermas to the extent of $6,223.72, while the balance was supplied by a draft on the Appleton State Bank which suddenly seems to have lost its records and cannot now identify the source of this money.

Three years later, March 8, 1951, the account with D. F. Rice was closed out, a check for $7,198 going to William F. McCarthy. This check was cashed and the cash was deposited ten days later back with the same D. F. Rice Company.

This time, however, the trading account was in the name of Julia Connelly, the maiden name of William McCarthy's wife.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Present Soviet Policy Likely To Be Shown At UN Meeting

By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—First effects of the 19th Congress of the Communist Party, just concluded in Moscow, are likely to be revealed at the United Nations General Assembly meeting, just convened in New York.

Five top Russian diplomatic monkey wrench throwers have been assigned to this meeting. They are Foreign Minister Andrei N. Vishinsky, Ambassador to London Andrei A. Gromyko, Ambassador to Washington George N. Zarubin, Delegate to the UN Jacob Malik and his successor-designate Valerian A. Zorin.

This is the most powerful team the Russians have assigned to any international conference. And while the Russians came off second best at the Olympic Games in Helsinki last Summer, it must be apparent that they hope to make up for this defeat by a new try at the indoor diplomatic games in the new UN sports palace.

Obviously, this Communist quintet was not sent to New York just for the boat ride or its health. Trying to figure out what the Russians will do next or how they'll do it is as futile as trying to forecast an election, the World Series results, a football conference title or the horses. But a fair guess is that the Communist strategy will include another "peace offensive."

That was a main theme of the Moscow conference of the Communist Party. It was the sole purpose of the recent Peiping conference last year. Trying To Get Us This line is that the Communist aren't mad at anybody. All they want is peace, so they say. They want to break up the trade barriers against them in Europe. They want to break up the North Atlantic Treaty alliance. They want the United Nations "aggressors" in Korea brought home. And so on.

If the Russians at New York come up with nothing added to their old line about the American imperialists being warmongers who want to lead the world against their "peaceful" bloc, the new UN General Assembly may run on as just another boring talkfest.

But if the Russians come up with what looks like a real offer of peace for Korea, Indo-China, Austria, Germany or any of the other trouble spots, it could cause complications. India and the other free nations of Southeast Asia, the Arab states, some of the Latin American republics and even some of the countries of Western Europe might be tempted to listen to any phony slogan that would appease the Russians.

Again it is necessary to go back only to the recent Moscow conference to find declarations that Communist Parties all over the world are to subordinate militant revolutionary tactics and play up the idea of collaboration in popular front movements.

Anything that would weaken Communist pressure at home would be welcome in the anti-Communist world. It will make it all the more difficult to keep the free countries united in their opposition to Soviet aggression.

As the General Assembly session opens, it is not apparent that the leaders of the anti-Communist countries have any plan of their own, offer as a counter to Russian peace offensive propaganda.

Last year at Paris they had such an offer to make in their disarmament plan. It caught the Russians flat-footed and stumbling all over the place, frantically waiting for Moscow to think up the answers.

Last year, too, there were anti-Communist world victories in conclusion and ratification of the Japanese peace treaty and conclusion of the peace contract with Germany. This year the free nations seem only intent on holding their gains, defending and continuing the present policies of containment.

All this heavy international drama in New York is, of course, played against the most exciting domestic backdrop of the U. S. elections. The two may seem unrelated.

But it is entirely possible that the United Nations goings-on in New York could have their last-minute effect on the American political battle, as it relates to foreign policy issues.

Murder she yelled

By Joseph Shalitz

When Kitty Lane started down the train steps, Eddie Fields let out a loud wolf whistle. "Just giving her a break," he explained. "She don't get much of that any more."

I stepped out of the station wagon, walked across the platform and took the two big suitcases out of her hands. "Such service," Kitty Lane said. "I never in my wildest dreams imagined—"

"Why not?" I said. "You know we all love you." "Sure," said Eddie Fields, rolling his little blob of a body out of the car. "I was so lonesome while you were away, I got out your picture every night and cried on it when my wife wasn't looking."

"Cut it out and give me a cigarette," said Kitty. Eddie fished a crumpled pack out of his pocket. Kitty slid into the front seat while I slung her iridescent aluminum luggage in the back of the station wagon. "Feels like you did a lot of shopping," I said.

"Had to, Dan," she said. "I've been wearing the same dresses in so many of our shows, the guests were starting to kick. Even the moths were getting bored."

"Hey, I'm supposed to make the cracks," Eddie rumbled, getting in beside her. "You're the singer-remember? Trying to hog the act?" "I wouldn't use that word hog if I were you," said Kitty. "It makes people think of ham."

Eddie's thin lips smashed together. "Sharper and sharper, I'll be scared to step on the stage with her."

I closed the back door and walked around to the front. What a load this station wagon had. Talent! Eddie Fields, the m.c. of High Hill Lodge, and Kitty Lane, the singer of sad songs, and me, the razzle-dazzle athletic director. This was what our vacation booklets were talking about when they said "rath-studded social stuff. It was a rash thing, putting us all in the same car. Just one skid on the mountain highway, and what would High Hill Lodge have left? Grass."

"You see, we let her go to New York," Eddie said. "Four days on Fifth Avenue, and she's got her nose so high, she has to wipe it through an oxygen mask."

"Yeah," said Kitty, blowing out a long drift of smoke. "I needed that vacation, bud. I could have used a lot more than four days in New York."

"I see—you don't like it at High Hill," said Eddie. "Mountain resort—hick stuff. You want lights, Broadway—all that crazy scramble, the noise, the rat race." He paused. "So do I."

Kitty wreathed the windshield with smoke as I drove up the incline out of the station. "The only one that likes it here is Dan Morrison," Eddie said. "That right, Morrison?"

"Maybe," I said. "See that, Kitty? Don't you wish you were young and innocent like Dan Morrison?"

I DROVE through East Stroudsburg, past the tidy frame houses that looked like a row of parsonages, past the little stores and the few small factories.

"Take in any shows in New York?" Eddie Fields asked. "South Pacific," she said. "And don't start choking—it isn't as hard as you think. If you just want a single, that is." She was friends again, now that they were talking shop. "I also went to the Paramount and took in the Frank Raleigh show. My old partner—"

"Your old—? Are you kidding?" "Nup—Frank's my old partner, all right. Raleigh and Lane, songs as you Like Them. Played most of Philly's spots before we broke up."

"Why the break-up?" "Hah, hah." Her little laugh had rough edges. "Just because Frank's rich brother obligingly died and left him fifteen thousand bucks."

"I see," Eddie said. "He took off like a bird," Kitty said. "Went to New York and hired the Bart Jamison firm to beat the gangs for him. It blew most of his wad, but zingo—it got him top bookings."

I made a sharp right turn off Main Street and started up the concrete highway into the mountains. Kitty kept talking: "You can sing at small clubs till you're 60, you can have a voice like seven angels, and nobody'll hear about you—nobody that matters—unless you get yourself some build-up. You've got to get everybody talking about you, to crack all the columns. Who arranges all that? Somebody like the Bart Jamison outfit. Pay them enough and they can make you sound like the biggest thing to hit town since King Kong."

"I almost fell over this pile of leaves and dirt—and a hand sticking out of it."

"She rushed around the car at me. 'Oh, Dan!' she cried. 'What a time to run into her!' Eddie muttered, ruffling his washboard forehead. 'Kitty, keep your claws in your pocket.'"

"Don't be silly," Kitty said, walking away from him. "I like Midge."

"A body," Midge blurted in my face. "A body! In the woods back there. Ohhh, Dan."

"Leave your luggage in the office, Kitty?" I said foggly. "A what, did you say? A what?"

"A body," Midge said, her voice suddenly falling. "A man. He's dead."

I scooped up Midge's arms and deposited her on the front seat. Her arm pits were a trifle damp. "I said, take this thing gradually," I said.

"I've already told Mr. Kemmer," she flustered. "He's out there now. I've been waiting for you for ages."

"Where did you say this body was?"

"Out there. In the woods." She pointed a shaky finger up the road past the women's cottages.

"Excuse us, Kitty," I said. Eddie clambered in beside Midge, and started the car going across the cinders. "Okay, kid, tell us about it."

"It was all on account of one of those wolves," Midge said, getting breathless again. "I said 'I'd go for a walk with him, and we'd get the road here, and he started getting fresh, and he wouldn't stop, and I ran away into the woods—and I ran far in so he wouldn't find me, and I almost fell over this pile of leaves and dirt—and a hand sticking out of it!'"

A soldier who was reading a letter from home looked worried. A buddy asked, "What's the matter?"

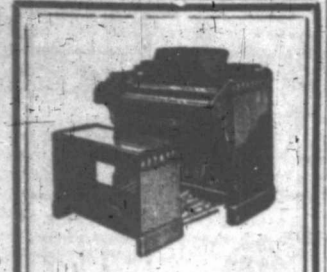

The other replied, "We've got a freak in the family. It says here, 'You won't know Johnny when you get back; he's grown another foot.'"

American Airlines Increase Revenues In Nine-Month Span

Net income after taxes for American Airlines, Inc. in the first nine months of 1952 was $9,782,000 as compared to $9,460,000 for the same period in 1951. This amounted to $1.35 per share of common stock after preferred dividends for 1952, as against $1.30 per share in 1951.

Woody Campbell, manager of American here, pointed out Monday. Provision for federal income taxes was $10,000,000 in 1952, and $15,400,000 for the first nine months of 1951. Revenues for the comparable periods were $138,054,000 in 1952 and $120,381,000 in 1951. Largest gains were recorded in passenger revenue, which increased from $105,000,000 in 1951 to $120,000,000 in 1952. The United States produces about five times as many tons of coal as tons of steel.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When the Metropolitan Championships begin this weekend in New York, Bobby McPherran will be on hand to defend the open chair championship that he won last year with Helen Sobel as his partner. McPherran first became prominent in bridge circles just over 15 years ago when he and his partner—"a pair of fresh teenage kids"—won a Philadelphia championship from a field that sparkled with mature stars. The other "fresh kid" was Johnny Crawford.

Bobby doesn't have so much time to play bridge these days, but he is still a threat to win any tournament he enters. If you'd like to match wits with him, try playing the South cards of the hand shown today and see if you can do as well as McPherran did. I'm sure that everybody begins with the correct play—a low club from the dummy. It would be very foolish to put up dummy's king, since West wouldn't dream of leading the queen of clubs if he also held the ace of that suit.

East could have been a hero by taking the ace of clubs anyway, and returning a spade. When the hand actually was played, East didn't even dream of this stunt, nor is it likely that anybody would do so in actual play. Declarer ruffed the next club. McPherran's next maneuver was to try for a heart ruff in the dummy. For this purpose he cashed the ace of hearts and then made the key play of the hand. If you're going to match his play, now is the time to think and think hard.

McPherran came up with the right answer by leading the queen of hearts. West had to win this trick with the king, and was then helpless to defeat the contract. If he failed to return a trump, declarer was sure to get a heart ruff in the dummy; and if West returned a trump, he would lose his trump trick. Note that declarer loses his contract if he leads a low heart on the second round of that suit. East wins with the jack of hearts and returns a trump, and now South must lose two heart tricks, a trump, and a club.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:

East South West North
3 Hearts ?
You, South, hold: Spades Q-9-3, Heart A, Diamonds A-Q-9, Clubs A-K-Q-J-5-4. What do you do?
A—Bid three no-trump. Against any lead but a spade, you have eight sure tricks, and there will probably be some play for a ninth. Even if a spade is led, the chances are that the opponent cannot run this suit against you. You have a far better chance to make three no-trumps than five clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

With both sides vulnerable, the bidding has been:
West North East South
3 Hearts Double Pass ?
You, South, hold: Spades J-9-7-3-2, Hearts 7-5, Diamonds Q-8-4, Clubs 8-6-5. What do you do?
