370 Dead, 200 Missing In Storm

Typhoon Cuts Deadly Swath In Philippines

MANILA—(P)—The Philippine Red Cross said Thursday night 370 persons were dead and 200 were missing in the wake of Wednesday's typhoon.

The Red Cross said several hundred were injured. The tabulation was based on telegraphic and radio reports trickling in from the devastated provinces.

The tropical storm roared out into the South China Sea Wednesday and Thursday threatened the battered shores of Indochina, about 850 miles to the southwest. A Saigon report said the typhoon would hit the coast Friday night.

Indochina, while waiting for the storm, was trying to clean up from the tidal wave that hit Phan Thiet Monday night, possibly killing as many as 500 persons.

Broken communications lines slowed the reports of Philippines casualties and damage.

A late report said 118 were killed in Tabaco, a town of 33,200 in Albay Province on Southern Luzon.

Gov. Manuel Calleja reported mass funeral services were held Thursday. Tabaco was in the direct path of the storm.

Eyewitness Account

First newsmen to reach Legaspi City, another devastated city on Southern Luzon, was Associated Press Correspondent Henry Hartzenbusch. This is the story he filed: The typhoon, worst in 50 years, swept through this city of 80,000 like a monster whirling a giant bolo knife.

It left only 15 concrete shells of buildings standing.

All else was complete ruin. Miles and miles of the surrounding countryside was a scene of utter devastation.

The toll in Legaspi City was not known. Dazed survivors groped through the ruins, looking for traces of loved ones.

Unofficial sources said at least 48 had died in this city.

Electricity is off. There is no water.

From the air, the Southern Luzon Island countryside was unforgettable.

Villages Under Water

Thousands of coconut palm trees were stripped as though a giant comb had been run through them.

Banana trees were bent in half or uprooted.

Entire villages were under water or marooned.

Fertile rice paddies had turned into lakes.

Legaspi Airfield still was soggy from rain-laden hurricane winds that swept in less than 48 hours before.

The Air Terminal still had four

Sun Rank Wildcat In SE Lea Flowing Oil To Complete

Oil Company No. 1 Harper, a rank wildcat in the Southeast Lea County, N. M., portion of the Delaware Basin, was flowing new oil to test and complete from the Bone Springs formation.

During 17 1/2 hours of flowing through various sized chokes from one-quarter to 3/8-inch, the well made 235 barrels of oil and 19 barrels of drilling mud. No water was flowed out.

Tubing pressure ranged from 700 to 150 pounds during the 17 1/2 hours of flowing. Gravity of the oil is 32.2 degrees. Gas-oil ratio was 1,157-1.

The oil is coming from perforations in seven-inch casing at 11,623-11,669 and 11,681-11,689 feet. Total depth is 11,692 feet.

This important discovery is 680 feet from south and east lines of section 25-25-35E. It is eight miles north of the Loving County, Texas, line.

Discovery Steps Out To Start At Once In S-C Terry Area

Operations are to start at once on two new prospectors in South-Central Terry County. Both are long stepouts from Fullerton Oil Company No. 1 Zornas, flowing discovery from the Pennsylvanian reef line which is now preparing to test and complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Jr., and Lynn D. Durham, all of Midland will drill their No. 1 Mantion Wells as a 10,300-foot wildcat at a site one and one-half miles west and one-quarter of a mile south of the Fullerton No. 1 Zornas. Location is 680 feet from north and east lines of section 148, block T, D&W survey.

It is seven miles south of the town of Brownfield and is to use rotary tools to drill to the Pennsylvanian reef line.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Jr., No. 1 May will be one-half of a mile north and the same distance east of the Fullerton No. 1 Zornas.

The location is 2,310 feet from north and east lines of section 119, block T, D&W survey. Drilling to 10,000 feet with rotary to test the reef line is to start at once. It is five miles south of Brownfield.

Fullerton No. 1 Zornas, located 680 feet from south and east lines of section 119, block T, D&W survey is bottomed at 10,032 feet in reef line. It is preparing to perforate the 5 1/2-inch casing at 10,007-10,051 feet and test. Total depth is 10,032 feet. The project flowed oil from the reef before the casing was set.

Cities Service Well Completed As Opener In NW Lea Region

Cities Service Oil Company No. 1, AD State, flowing discovery from the Devonian in extreme Northwest Lea County, N. M., has been completed for a calculated daily potential of 2,174 barrels of 41.5-gravity oil.

Production was through perforations at 9,880-9,900 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 115-1 and tubing pressure 75 pounds. The flow was gauged through a one-inch choke.

The flow is based on an actual five barrel flow of 453 barrels of oil.

This discovery is one location northeast of the discovery well of the Mesalero (Wolfcamp) field. Site is 660 feet from south and 1,880 feet from east lines of section 22-108-32E.

Initial Warrants Issued In Traffic Ticket Crackdown

The City of Midland Thursday began tracking down more than 2,000 motorists with out-of-county license plates who have failed to pay their traffic tickets.

The job of serving warrants on the 2,000 motorists was started by Warrant Officer Jimmie Hoover after names and addresses, corresponding to the license numbers, were received late Wednesday from State Highway Department. The first warrants were issued Thursday morning by Fergus Blackwelder, clerk of the Corporation Court, and turned over to Hoover for service.

The list included the license numbers of all automobiles against which as many as five traffic tickets had been issued.

The list furnished by the state department contains the names and addresses of the holders of the license numbers.

By checking Midland's phone directory and city directory, authorities are able to obtain the Midland addresses of most of them.

"Of the first five names we checked," said Hoover, "all of them now have Midland addresses although the cars are registered out of Midland County."

Extra Charges Accrue

The first one checked, incidentally, had 18 overtime parking tickets on file.

Blackwelder pointed out that $1 will be added as penalty to each fine, in addition to a charge of $5.20 for serving the warrant.

For instance, if a man has five overtime parking tickets, he will have to pay $10 plus the $5.20 service charge.

Tickets for parking in a restricted zone carry a fine of $3 plus the additional $1 and the $5.20 service charge.

Blackwelder said the names and addresses were obtained after checking back through all delinquent traffic tickets issued since last May.

Jury Indicts Shadow Man For Contempt

WASHINGTON—(P)—A federal grand jury Thursday indicted Henry W. (The Dutchman) Grunewald, shadow man-about-Washington, on 22 charges of contempt of Congress.

Grunewald's name fitted in and out of the sensation-packed hearings last year by a House committee investigating tax frauds.

Grunewald finally was called as a witness last January, but declined to answer any questions.

Linked With Capone

Thursday's indictment charged, among other things, that Grunewald refused to tell the House Ways and Means subcommittee what officials of the Internal Revenue Bureau he knew and whether he had ever discussed any tax cases pending in that bureau.

The matter the subcommittee particularly wanted to explore with Grunewald was the story told by Abraham Teitelbaum, Chicago lawyer and one time counsel for Capone interests.

Teitelbaum swore to the investigators that an attempt was made to shake him down for $500,000 under a threat that he would have had tax troubles if he didn't pay the sum.

Constable, Linked With Alleged Murder Plot, Surrenders

HOUSTON—(P)—Constable J. W. Lambert surrendered to police at 9 a. m. Thursday.

The constable, hunted since Wednesday, is charged with night-time burglary and attempted robbery.

He gave himself up to Homicide Lt. Frank Murray and his associate, Charles T. Pritchard, Jr. They met at a rendezvous.

Lambert walked from behind an old school building with a minister, the Rev. Albert Lee. He looked tired, needed a shave and was wearing dark glasses.

Deputy Shot, Killed

Lambert was charged in the case in which one of his deputies, William J. Young, was shot and killed by night club owner Delbert Roberts in a reported holdup attempt October 5.

The charges against Lambert, police said, are an outgrowth of an inquiry into an alleged plot to assassinate Sheriff C. V. (Buster) Kern by blowing up his automobile.

Kern, who says a price of $10,000 is on his head, alleges a Harris County political figure is the "big man" behind the alleged conspiracy against him.

Prompt B-E Day Response Urged

The Education Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday called upon business firms to respond promptly concerning their participation in the Business-Education Day program scheduled November 19.

Bill Chancellor, Jr., chairman of a sub-committee in charge of business firm participation, said only 18 replies have been received from the more than 100 business concerns contacted. He said a minimum of 40 participating firms is required.

Prompt replies are urged so that plans for the annual event can be completed on schedule.

Heaped-Up Plates Reflect Lower Midland Beef Prices

If you've been noticing more beef on your dinner plate the last two weeks, don't blame the Missus for being extravagant.

Actually, she's probably not spending additional money for the lower-priced cuts of beef, but just getting more in return.

A Reporter-Telegram survey of Midland grocery stores reveals an average decline of from five to 10 cents a pound on the lower-priced beef cuts, while choice cuts are remaining at a high level.

One grocer pointed out that with severe drought conditions, cattlemen are flooding the market rather than holding over calves for expensive winter feeding.

A majority of the grocers believed the price decline would only be temporary, with an upswing in both wholesale and retail sales prices after the "big drive" by cattlemen to the market is over.

So, Mr. Midland, better enjoy that extra cut of beef on your plate while you can. It's just too good a deal to last very long.

LED BY 'THREE-GUN MANIAC'—Police Seek Bandit Quartet In Highway Kidnap Spree

SPARTA, TENN.—(P)—Police searched three states Thursday for a quartet of bandits whose leader described himself as a "three-gun maniac" and lived up to the description in a highway kidnaping spree.

The gang, including a bushful boy of 18 who carried boxing gloves and a robe with him, abducted 10 persons and stole three cars Wednesday.

The victims escaped in the same haphazard manner they were kidnaped—one, two or three at a time at different places along U. S. Highway 41.

The State Highway Patrol said some of them were fired on by the bandits as they got away, but apparently none was injured.

A newly married couple from Houston, Maine, was the first to escape. Both jumped out at a stoplight at Sparta and spread the story of the wild spree of wholesale kidnaping and petty robbery.

A wide ground and air search was launched throughout middle Tennessee. Roadblocks were set up in Tennessee, Kentucky, and Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Cookson of Houston told this story: At daybreak Wednesday, they were awakened by two men—"well dressed and past middle age"—at a roadside park near Hasper, Tenn., where they had slept the night in their car.

"This is a holdup," the two announced, pointing two pistols. They took some jewelry and $40 cash, then ordered the Cooksons into the bandits' car.

The couple said several other captives already were in the back seat on the floor and under wraps. Three of the abductors then took the captives and drove off in a car.

Red Feather Drive Extended In Effort To Gain Chest Goal

A shot of new blood was injected into the Midland Community Chest campaign Thursday with the announcement that the fund drive is to be extended through October 31 in a last-ditch effort to reach the $68,250 goal.

Don Oliver, a Chest director, announced at a report meeting Thursday that gifts so far totaled only $55,000, leaving the Red Feather organization which supports eight agencies far short of its mark.

It is hoped that the campaign could be completed as quickly as possible, it had been planned previously that Thursday's report meeting would be the final one. However, as the fund drive has struck a snag with 50 per cent of the gift cards still not turned in, an emergency meeting has been scheduled next Wednesday to give workers a chance to press every available contact for gifts.

Growing Hurricane Whirls Near Cuba

MIAMI, FLA.—(P)—A small hurricane growing slowly in size and intensity whipped the waters of the Caribbean with 80-mile winds Thursday about 500 miles south-southwest of Miami.

Miami forecasters reported it drifting slowly northward about six to seven miles an hour at 10 a. m. (CST). Gales extended out from the center about 50 to 75 miles.

The storm was centered 320 miles south of Havana, Cuba.

It's Midland Air Terminal And No Other Name Will Do

City officials are ready to try to convince the world that the Midland Air Terminal is the Midland Air Terminal.

And not the Odessa Air Terminal or the Midland-Odessa Air Terminal.

The huge facility, which this year will serve some 100,000 air passengers, is owned lock-stock-and-runways by the City of Midland, having been purchased outright from the government after World War II.

But a stranger would be unable to tell, driving by the place on U. S. Highway 80, who it belonged to or just what it was—other than that it was a landing field.

So Thursday city officials had given the green light to engineers to proceed with plans for an elaborate marker at the entrance to the Midland Air Terminal.

It will consist of a huge stone pylon, to be built on an island in the entranceway.

It will be 21 feet high, 19 feet long and taper in width from one foot to six feet.

Emblazoned across each side in silhouette-lighted figures will be the words: "Midland Air Terminal."

Engineers have estimated its cost at $5,200 with the federal government paying half.

Milk Marketing Regulation Issued

A federal order to regulate the marketing of milk in Midland County and other West Texas areas was issued Wednesday by the U. S. Agriculture Department.

The action resulted from a referendum October 10 in which 81.97 per cent of the producers voting favored federal regulation.

Milk marketing orders regulate prices handlers must pay producers.

Texas, New Mexico Officials Hold Joint Oil Conservation Hearing Here Thursday

Officials of the Railroad Commission of Texas and of the Oil Conservation Commission of New Mexico held a joint hearing in Midland Thursday.

The session was held to take testimony to use in determining equitable production allowances for the multiple Dollarhide field which overlaps the state line of Texas and New Mexico in Southwest Andrews County, Texas, and Southeast Lea County, New Mexico.

Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson of Austin, senior member of the Texas Commission attending the hearing, said the joint session on the Dollarhide field is perhaps the most important conservation hearing held since conservation of oil and gas was established by law.

"The reason for that importance," Thompson said Thursday, "is that today two sovereign states—New Mexico and Texas—are holding jointly a hearing to prescribe conservation rules and regulations under the laws of their separate sovereign states for the prevention of physical waste in the production of oil and gas in the Dollarhide field which lies along the line and overlaps the line into each of these two oil producing states."

Federal Leads Involved

"Joint hearings have been held before between states, but today this joint hearing between New Mexico and Texas on this Dollarhide field includes federal laws.

"At a preliminary hearing on the Dollarhide field in Santa Fe, N. M., a few months ago, a representative of the U. S. Geological Survey testified that the federal government was in the position of any other land owner in connection with the Dollarhide field production.

"This is, of course, the proper position for a state or a federal government to take with relation to their lands when developed along with private citizens' lands under conservation laws, rules and regulations," Thompson asserted.

No Special Consideration

"The government, of course," Thompson continued, "is not paramount. It is a land owner. The federal government cannot expect any more favorable or any less favorable consideration at the hands of regulatory commissions than any other private land owner, lease owner or royalty owner.

"All the above is reflected in the transcript of the Santa Fe preliminary hearing. It was decided at

Eastern Teenagers End Trek To Midland, Seeking Fortune

A couple of youngsters from Pennsylvania reached the end of their own personal rainbow Wednesday afternoon.

And they found no pot of gold. Both of them 18 years old, they had heard a lot about Midland in their home in Bedford, Pa., and they were anxious to head West and seek their fortunes.

A friend had come to Midland earlier and had written glowing reports about the fabulous headquarters city of the Permian Basin.

So the two teenagers picked up a 17-year-old friend, climbed in their old 1937 model automobile and headed for Texas.

They made it to Missouri before the old jalopy broke down. But they managed to trade it in on another decrepit model, which at least would run.

"The motor knocked pretty bad but we used transmission oil in the crankcase and it wasn't so bad," one of them reported.

They reached Midland Tuesday afternoon and tried in vain to locate their friend here.

They finally went to police headquarters and sought the aid of officers. Police promised to look around and the boys slipped away into the night.

One hour later, the police radio cracked out a relayed broadcast from Pennsylvania state police, describing the youths and asking that they be picked up as runaways.

Police couldn't find them. But Wednesday evening, one of them walked into police headquarters to see if the officers had learned anything about their friend.

"Where are your buddies?" asked Detective Lt. Dick Hemingway.

"Oh," he answered, "they're across the street in the car."

Lieutenant Hemingway and Officer John C. Myrick walked across the street from headquarters and brought the other two back.

A few minutes later, the police officer had the parents of one of the boys on the telephone and they promised to leave immediately for Midland.

So Thursday the two juveniles were being held in custody, awaiting the arrival of the parents.

"I sure hate to go back," sighed one of them. "We had just gotten here and Midland looked like a nice little place to live."

St. Andrews Church Slates Drive To Aid Building Fund

A goal of $7,500 has been set for a drive next month by the St. Andrews Presbyterian Church to retire indebtedness on its new structure. The Rev. Lewis O. Waterstreet is pastor of the church at Terrell and Jax Streets. The congregation held services in David Crockett School until the new building was completed last May. The financial drive will follow a Loyalty Dinner at the church on November 13. Solicitations will be made November 17-20 under the sponsorship of the building fund committee headed by John W. Drummond and Mrs. C. A. McClinton.

John Covington is general chairman of the fund campaign, while Phil Hayes is co-chairman. Other leaders in the drive are Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Clark, arrangement committee; Don Crockett, program committee; Mrs. Francis Carroll, telephone committee; Ernest Barber and Hal Behrmer, team captains; Harold E. Whittington and Mrs. A. L. Barr, publicity committee, and Ray Howard and Charles Gaylord, special gifts division.

All members of the church will be given an opportunity to sign pledges for the fund for periods up to three years.

THE HELL BOMB—10

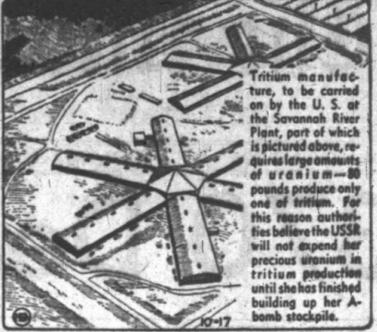

The Russian can make an H-bomb in 10 months. In the brain department, the highest-paid workers in the world. In addition, of course, Russia has stolen top nuclear research secrets from the U. S. and Great Britain.

Resources are Russia's biggest weakness. The U. S. can mine the two richest uranium deposits in the world—the Belgian Congo and Canada's Great Bear Lake area. Russia must use slave labor in an attempt to raise the yield of her depleted low-grade deposits in Czechoslovakia and the Smolny mountains.

By JAY HEAVILIN and RALPH LANE

Tritium manufacture, to be carried on by the U. S. at the Savannah River Plant, part of which is pictured above, requires large amounts of uranium—80 pounds produce only one of tritium. For this reason authorities believe the USSR will not expend her precious uranium in tritium production until she has finished building up her A-bomb stockpile.

Britain Unveils Super-Jet Engine

LONDON—(AP)—Britain lifted a corner of the security blanket around her latest jet aircraft engine Thursday, disclosing it produces twice the power of an ordinary jet while using less fuel. Exact details, however, still are top secret.

The Rolls Royce unit—known as the Conway—gives an extra boost for quick takeoffs and was designed especially for use in long-range heavy bombers and passenger aircraft.

The Conway is the world's first "by-pass" engine. It produces its double power by introducing part of the air drawn into the engine directly into the exhaust, instead of driving all of it through the combustion chamber. In ordinary jets, all the air intake goes directly into this chamber for use in burning the fuel.

A ROLE FOR FRANK SINATRA?—'Here To Eternity' Movie To Follow Cleansing Chore

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—They said it couldn't be done. But a producer has gotten a movie script out of "From Here to Eternity," the best-selling book laden with sex, four-letter words and slaps at the Army.

Many Hollywood producers had been interested in the James Jones novel. But most despaired of how to combine its elements into a movie that would get the combined blessing of the censors and the Pentagon. Columbia took a chance and bought the book. The gamble apparently has paid off, because the studio claims it has an acceptable script which will be done before the cameras in January.

The man who accomplished this is Buddy Adler, a distinguished-looking producer who is a reserve Army officer himself. "So I know what the Army would and would not approve."

"Flavor Of Words" Dan Taradash, novelist Jones was first brought out to whip up a treatment for his book, but that didn't work out. "Jones didn't seem to understand the censorship problems we have in the movies," producer Adler explained.

"Of course the four-letter words had to go," he continued. "We try to retain the same flavor by substituting words that have the same sort of feeling but are not offensive to auditors."

Much of the sex remains, he added, but in a form that will pass the Green Office. "Hollywood's self-censorship group. Adler remarked that one of the characters will retain a relationship with a lady of the evening, while another character dallies with someone else's wife. Suffer For Sins

"But the Green Office stipulates that sin must be punished," he said. "So the characters will suffer for their transgressions."

Some changes have been made in anticipation of Army disapproval, he remarked. The brutality of a stockade beating of a prisoner by a sergeant has been altered, he said.

"Also, the character of the Army captain is somewhat different," he said. "We show that he is a bad officer and don't make the claim there aren't bad officers in the Army."

"I don't particularly care to sing in pictures and the studios that are interested in me know it. My background is acting—I did so much. Summer stock—and it makes me more valuable as a straight actor than a singer to Hollywood."

It turns out that Johnnie was spurred to fame as a singer because a bit part he played in "A Place in the Sun" landed on the cutting-room floor.

"Hollywood plain told me to get lost," Johnnie wailed. "They didn't like me because I wore a hearing aid. I was told to regain my hearing or forget about a movie career. The public wouldn't accept a physically handicapped kid, they said."

"I told 'em to go to Hades. I proved that the public would accept me."

Trygve Lie Fires UN Worker For Refusal To Answer Red Probers, Checks Others

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—Trygve Lie began recruiting an international jury's panel Thursday to study what UN employees have to tell to U. S. congressional investigators.

Lie already had fired one American UN employee who balked at a McCarran committee question, suspended another and put 10 on special leave.

The jurists, a statement from the UN secretary-general said, would study the application of U. S. laws to UN employees, especially those who are American citizens, and the rights of investigating bodies to ask them questions about their private lives.

Lie announced Wednesday night he had dismissed Stanley Graze,

$8,000-a-year railway statistics expert of the UN Technical Assistance Administration, and suspended Joel Gordon, pending a full investigation, from his $10,000 post of trade analysis expert of the Economic Affairs Department.

Pay To Continue

Lie's statement said both had refused to tell the Senate internal security subcommittee, at hearings in New York October 13-15, whether they are "presently engaged in espionage activities against the United States."

Those put on special leave, a new UN category under which they will draw full pay while their cases are investigated, had refused to answer committee questions about Communist affiliations.

Lie's statement said he had read the official transcripts of the McCarran committee hearings here and was "very much concerned that any American officials of the United Nations declined to answer certain questions concerning matters outside their official United Nations duties."

Workers Named

Those put on special leave for refusing to answer questions were: Frank C. Bancroft and Julia Older, $7,300 a year each, editors in the document division of the Department of Conferences and General Services; Hope Dorothy Eldridge, $7,500, population statistics expert, Economic Affairs Department; Jack S. Harris, $9,000, researcher on territorial matters for the Trusteeship Council; Jane M. Reed, $5,200, library liaison officer; Alexander Svehchansky, $8,250, who prepared news and feature programs for UN broadcasts to Russia; Alfred Van Tassel, $9,000, chief of the special projects economic section of the Technical Assistance Administration; Marjorie (Mrs. Herman) Zap, $4,800, Economic Affairs Department officer.

A spokesman said the case of Ruth Crawford, publications officer of the Children's Fund, still is under review. She admitted that she had been a Communist party member—briefly in 1935.

A spokesman said Gordon would continue to draw his pay until his case is decided.

Baptists Of Texas Adopt $12,000,000 Operations Budget

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Texas Baptists had a 12-million-dollar budget Thursday to increase gifts to worldwide causes by a cool $550,000.

The budget also will increase gifts to state causes—including missions, education and health—a similar $500,000, and will boost building and endowment for educational and health institutions by a million dollars.

The Rev. Wallace Bassett presented the budget Wednesday night at the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The convention will end with Thursday night's session.

Earlier, the convention approved nominations for members of the executive board. Most of those whose terms expire this year, were reelected for a three-year term.

The other two-thirds were moved up to terms expiring in 1953 and 1954.

The budget compares with a 10-million-dollar budget for 1952, the previous record.

'Sick Old Woman,' About 65, Handles Gun, Robs Market

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Bennie Boscall says he's always been willing to help an elderly woman but his faith in human nature is at the breaking point.

Bennie was alone in his fruit market Wednesday night when a woman who "looked at least 65" stepped up to the counter and asked for a glass of water.

As Bennie turned his back on the apparently ill woman to get the water, she whipped out a revolver and said softly, "Hand over the money."

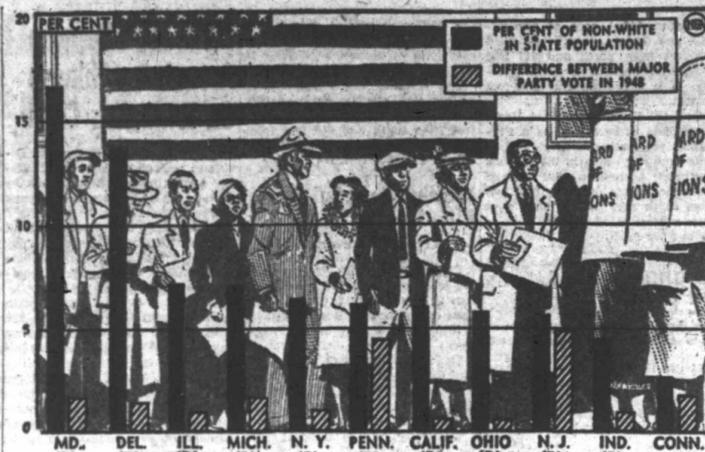

The bewildered fruit market operator gave her $45 and she departed. Bennie later told police: "I was stunned—she looked so sick."

Morse Slates Talk At Dance For Adlai

PORTLAND, ORE.—(AP)—The first speech Republican Senator Wayne L. Morse of Oregon makes in behalf of the Democratic presidential nominee will be a recording to be released here Friday night.

Morse sent word here from Washington, D. C., that he had made a 17-minute explanation of his jump from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. The recording is being sent here by air mail.

It will be played at a Volunteers for Stevenson dance.

NEGRO VOTE A MAJOR TARGET—Although other issues have shoved civil rights into the background, veteran political observers believe the Negro vote may be a prime factor in the coming election. Newschart above shows in what states the vote is crucial this year. The percentage of non-whites in each state is greater than the difference between the major parties vote in each state. By going to one party or the other these 11 states with 232 electoral votes may be able to swing the election to the GOP or Democrats. The symbols (R) and (D) indicate whether the state went Republican or Democrat in 1948.

Texas GOP Studies 1954 Bid For More State, County Jobs

DALLAS—(AP)—Texas Republicans already are thinking about cashing in on any gains they make this year by offering slates of local and state candidates in 1954.

Just how strong a bid they will make depends largely on how well they fare in selling Dwight D. Eisenhower to Texans November 4.

Arvin H. Lane, Dallas, chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee, told the Associated Press he was too busy trying to win an election in 1952 to give much thought, but is "quite likely" campaigns will be made for many offices.

That could include congressional candidates, but Lane wouldn't speculate on the U. S. Senate race.

Johnson Faces Race

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) will be up for reelection in 1954. There has been considerable talk that a strong conservative opponent will be sought to run against him.

Two names often mentioned in that connection are Gov. Allan Shivers and Martin Dies, unopposed candidates for governor and congress-at-large respectively this year. They both appear on the general election ballot as nominees of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Shivers will end his second full elective term as governor in 1952. It is not considered likely there will be a congressman-at-large spot open then.

The next Legislature is expected to carve out a new district to provide for Texas' Twenty-third Congressman by then.

Shivers and Johnson are already at odds in the presidential campaign. Shivers is working for Eisenhower and Johnson is one of the top leaders in the National Democratic Party's Adlai Stevenson campaign organization in Texas.

The Republican state chairman was certain that enough votes would be cast for Shivers—as a Republican—to guarantee a Republican state primary in 1952. The law now provides that a party whose candidate for governor polls as many as 200,000 votes in a general election must hold a primary in the next election year.

Safety Engineers Slate Second Meet

The second meeting of the newly-organized Permian Basin chapter of the American Society of Safety Engineers will be held Monday at 7 p.m. at Mrs. Atwood's Dining Room on West Wall Street.

Ed Gideon, secretary of the group which was organized here last month, said all persons interested in the work of the organization are invited to attend.

The chapter here is headed by C. E. Cure of the Phillips Petroleum Corporation as chairman. Other officers include J. S. Bell, first vice chairman, and J. W. Baldwin, second vice chairman.

UN Benefits Seen If Aims By Most People Carried Out

A United Nations organization can be very helpful in world affairs as long as it has for its main purpose the things to which most people can subscribe, Frank Stubbeman, Midland attorney, told members of the Lions Club at their regular meeting Wednesday night.

"The purpose of the United Nations is," he said, quoting from the UN charter, "to maintain international peace and security."

Stubbeman was the principal speaker on a program presented in connection with the observance of United Nations week. He was introduced by State Rep-elect Hulon Brown.

The speaker outlined briefly the working instruments provided in the UN Charter—the General Assembly, Security Council, Economic and Social Council, International Court of Justice, and the Secretariat.

Dangers Cited

Stubbeman mentioned also some of the dangers of an international organization, stating that the UN must be watched to prevent its becoming too paternalistic concerning human rights. He explained that United Nations treaties supersede the Constitution of the United States.

"I recommend that we lend support to the idea of a world organization which has as its main purpose the maintaining of international peace and security," he stated.

President L. V. Bascham presided at the meeting.

Members of the club's greeters committee met briefly following the regular meeting.

John L. Lewis Said Asking Full $1.90 Mine Pay Boost

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis reliably was reported Thursday to be demanding a $1.90-a-day pay boost for hard coal miners—the same amount the government partly vetoed for soft coal miners.

Lewis' strategy in doing this, the report said, was to give the government's Wage Stabilization Board a chance to reverse its decision on the soft coal pay raise.

Several weeks ago Lewis negotiated the $1.90 daily increase with the bituminous (soft coal) industry. However, last Saturday the WSB ruled that an increase of only $1.50 could be paid.

This brought on an industry-wide walkout of the approximately 350,000 soft coal diggers.

It had been expected that Lewis would be willing to take less than $1.90 by way of a daily wage increase in anthracite (hard coal). That industry, employing about 65,000 miners in Western Pennsylvania, had obliged Lewis some time ago by agreeing to an interim arrangement boosting from 30 to 50 cents a ton the production royalty paid by mine owners into the union's welfare fund.

Lewis got only a 10-cent royalty boost for the soft coal miners' welfare fund.

There is every reason to believe the WSB will not change its mind on the $1.50 limit, having once made it up. If it disallowed a $1.90 increase for anthracite workers, however, they would be almost certain to walkout.

While angered by the WSB, Lewis still was maintaining his support of the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai Stevenson. Lewis plans to go ahead with a scheduled Democratic political speech at Morgantown, W. Va., next Saturday.

UN Troops Repulse Assault By Chinese On Triangle's Crest

SEOUL—(AP)—U. S. Seventh Division troops on Triangle Hill Thursday night threw back an assault by Chinese Reds who stormed the peak shortly after dark.

Flare planes and searchlights lit up the attacking Reds for the big guns of American and South Korean artillery. Officers said the battle raged two hours.

In another Central Front battle, South Korean troops regained the crest of Iron Horse Mountain, then battled fiercely against counter-attacking Chinese.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the ROK Ninth Division captured complete control of the hill and a nearby knob at 1:30 p.m. The Chinese launched their counterattack about 90 minutes later.

Fighting for the high ground, at the western end of the old Iron Triangle, has raged two weeks. The Reds had held it since Saturday.

In the air war, U. S. Sabre jet pilots tangled twice with Russian-type MIG-15's deep in northwest Korea. The Fifth Air Force said one Red warplane was destroyed.

The victorious pilot asked that his name be withheld.

Fighter-bombers chopped up Red lines along the west coast.

Scholarly Democrat Fights For McCarthy's Senate Job

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—Wisconsin Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's campaign for reelection may be political dynamite elsewhere but is causing no violent repercussions in his home state.

McCarthy, Republican senatorial nominee, is opposed November 4 by scholarly Thomas E. Fairchild, a stout Democratic vote-getter, who directs his arguments with a personal approach to the man-on-the-street.

McCarthy, on the other hand, is doing virtually no campaigning in the state with only a few radio speeches scheduled in the week before the election. The Junior Republican senator's backers think he'll win by a landslide.

The voluble McCarthy, though absent from Wisconsin much of the time since his tremendous victory in the primary, has been far from silent. Pounding away at his Communist-in-government theme, he has appeared on platforms and in front of microphones from Connecticut to Texas, with the same explosive reaction everywhere.

National Issue
 Moreover, he continues to be an issue in the presidential contest. Democratic spokesman, led by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and President Truman, lambast Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's endorsement of the Wisconsin senator. The Republican standardbearer called for the election of the complete GOP slate in Wisconsin when he visited the state recently.

McCarthy piled up a smashing total of 515,461 votes in the September primary—more than the combined vote of all other candidates for the office in both parties. The total Democratic vote was only 191,862 as compared with 759,343 for all Republican senatorial candidates in September. Fairchild won the Democratic nomination by 3,000 votes.

Fairchild, 39, a former attorney general of Wisconsin, resigned as U. S. attorney for Western Wisconsin to run for senator. He ran against Senator Alexander Wiley in 1950 and lost, 595,238 to 515,839.

Looks At Record
 Fairchild seldom attacks McCarthy personally as did several of the senator's opponents in the primary. Instead, he stresses Mc-

Carthy's voting record which he says shows McCarthy's lack of interest in domestic problems.

Backers of Fairchild contend he has "a good fighting chance to win." They point to almost 450,000 anti-McCarthy votes in the primary which they say will go to their man. If Fairchild gets these votes together with the stay-at-homes he can win, his supporters claim.

McCarthy, 42, won his Senate seat in 1946 despite long odds against him. His primary opponent, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., spent only one week in the state but McCarthy beat the bushes for votes, day by day, month by month, and was rewarded with a 5,000-vote victory. In the election he smothered Democrat Howard J. McMurray, 620,430 to 378,772.

IT HAD TO HAPPEN SOMETIME— Harried Husband Grabs His Pistol, Quells TV Babbling

By SAUL PETT
HEMPSTEAD, N. Y.—Every now and then an obscure little man rises up in wrath and smites the sounds and sights of a world that is too much for him.
It is so doing, he becomes a hero to many of us who share his convictions but not his courage.
Such a man is Frank P. Walsh. Unable to submit any longer as a captive audience, he rebelled. He shot his television set. He shot it dead, right through its 12 1/2-inch leaned over the rail overlooking the sunken living room. My wife and all the kids were there.

"I told them to move over and then I fired from an angle, about 15 feet away. Caught the tube in the upper right corner. It exploded into a thousand little pieces but the glass didn't fly far. Nobody was hurt, but the TV set was ruined.
"I guess my wife got scared. She took the kids outside and called the cops. They came and saw I was sober. They took my pistol and pistol permit away. Without them, I couldn't work and knew it. So after the cops left, I changed my clothes and went down to a neighborhood bar and really got loaded."

Walsh paused and looked at his wife.
"Now that it's over and I realize all I've done," he said, "I'm sorry I did it."
Mrs. Walsh said nothing. She just looked at the empty corner.

SUB-SIZED SUBMERSIBLE—Lt. H. T. Verry, carefully brings his miniature command to dock at London, England, as his second-in-command, Lt. Ralph Cudworth, prepares to make fast. The British "pocket submarine," the XE-8, is one of the smallest naval units in the world, but is rugged enough to have taken part in the gigantic NATO naval maneuver, "Operation Mainbrace."

But Walsh paid the price of martyrdom: He lost his job. "And I'm still in my wife's doghouse," he said. "It's very cold."
Mrs. Walsh, mother of five children ranging from five to 15, can't explain her husband's precipitous action. "The set may have been on a little too loud," she conceded. "But always before, when he complained of the noise, I turned it down and that was that."
Mrs. Walsh looked forlornly at the empty corner of her living room so recently occupied by her television set.

"I feel so lost without it," she said. "It cost $250 and I don't know when we can get another one. We had it two years and only made the last payment this August." On And Off Mourning her loss, Mrs. Walsh said television had become part of her life. It was her habit, she said, to turn it on at 10 in the morning for an early movie while she "cleared up in the living and dining room."

From 11:30 to 12, she watched "Strike It Rich" while she "got the kids' lunch ready." Then came "Side and Groom," "Love of Life" and "Search for Tomorrow."
"I almost always turned it off at 12:45 and didn't turn it on until 3 o'clock for just one-half hour of 'The Big Payoff,'" Mrs. Walsh said. "Then I kept it off until the early show movie came on at 6:15. From then on, I used to keep it on until I went to bed."
Now we come back to Frank Walsh, who is 38, tall and thin. He used to work nights for a private detective agency and by day he did odd electrical jobs. Frank liked the fights and the detective stories. He had nothing against television except when it disturbed his sleep. Urge Grews
Several times before the fatal incident, he said, he had felt like shooting the set when the sound shook his early evening naps.
"Finally," he said, "it happened. Sunday night I awoke hearing somebody scream, 'Hey, Abbott!'" It was Abbott and Costello, and I got nothing against them. But I was mad not being able to sleep. I figured the easiest way was the quick-

I got my 28 Smith and Wesson. I walked out of the bedroom and

Old Stove Roundup Scheduled In Area
R. W. Lewis, district manager of West Texas Gas Company, announced plans for an annual old stove roundup to be held October 26 through November 27, at a meeting of Midland and Stanton gas appliance dealers Tuesday night in the Cactus Restaurant.
B. F. McCarrroll, advertising manager, and W. H. Deardorf, assistant to vice president in charge of distribution; were present and helped formulate plans for the old stove roundup promotion.

Sarnoff To Head Manpower Use Probe
WASHINGTON—(AP)—RCA Chairman David Sarnoff has been named head of a commission to investigate the armed forces' use of manpower.
Defense Secretary Lovett said the commission will recommend legislative and administrative changes to bring about "further saving in manpower throughout the armed forces."

AP Survey Reveals Stevenson Gaining In Western States
By The Associated Press
A mid-October survey by The Associated Press of the views of editors and political writers in the Rocky Mountain-West Coast region brought out the opinion that Stevenson has gained in five of the 11 states in the last six weeks.
Eisenhower, listed early in September as leading in 10 of the 11 states, now is considered ahead in eight of them.
The way the newsmen see things in the West, California (32) electoral votes, Wyoming (3), Colorado (6), Montana (4), Nevada (3), and Oregon (6) probably would go Republican if this were election day.
Classed as doubtful but with some advantage for Eisenhower are New Mexico and Idaho with four electoral votes each.
Arizona and her four votes remain probably Democratic, while the 19 votes in Washington and Utah are regarded as doubtful but inclined at the moment toward Stevenson.
In addition to the stronger showings in Utah and Washington, Stevenson seems to have picked up power in Wyoming, Idaho and Montana in recent weeks.

Texas' Polio Cases Drop; Rabies Shot Results Promising
By The Associated Press
Texas' steadily dwindling polio spread struck only 30 persons last week and a Central Texas doctor Thursday pointed to results of an anti-rabies treatment against polio which looked promising.
Dr. Herbert E. Hipps, Waco, said persons who received anti-rabies shots at the Navarro County town of Frost so far have escaped falling victim of polio.
Dr. Hipps, along with Dr. Will Miller, Corsicana, conducted the experiments in the summer of 1951 to see whether the anti-rabies vaccine would prevent poliomyelitis.
Wednesday, the Waco doctor said not a single case has developed among Frost citizens who received the experimental shots. But he added that it still was too early to draw conclusions.
"Some other towns didn't have polio this year, either," Hipps said. "But if no cases occur next year at Frost we will be greatly encouraged."
Meanwhile, State Health Officer George W. Cox in Austin renewed his warning that the decline in polio cases should not lull Texans into failure to put on sanitation campaigns.
The year's record-breaking polio total stood at 3,815 cases, compared with 1,594 in 1951.

Double-Barred Cross, Seal Emblem, Now 50 Years Old
The Double-Barred Cross, which is featured with a lighted candle on the 1953 Christmas Seal, is a half-century old as the international symbol of the war against tuberculosis. Joe J. O'Neill, county Seal Sale chairman, pointed out Thursday.
Midland County residents will have a chance to see the new Seal on November 17, the opening day of the campaign, when sheets of Christmas Seals will be delivered to homes throughout the county. Proceeds from the 1953 Christmas Seal Sale, which will continue until Christmas Day, will be used for the 1953 tuberculosis control work of the Midland County Tuberculosis Association.
"The use of the red Double-Barred Cross, and adaptation of the historic Cross of Lorraine, as an emblem of the modern crusade against tuberculosis, first was adopted on October 23, 1902," O'Neill said. Virginia's Demos Divide Over Adlai

RICHMOND, VA.—(AP)—With two of its "Big Three" sitting out the presidential campaign because they don't feel they can endorse the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket, the Virginia Democratic organization Thursday faced one of the biggest splits in its ranks in recent years.
Former Gov. William M. Tucker Wednesday night joined Senator Harry Byrd in calling Gov. Adlai Stevenson a candidate of "Trumanism."

The third member of the "Big Three," Gov. John S. Battle, has come out for Stevenson and has made a speech in the Democratic presidential nominee's behalf.
While Tucker, like Byrd, did not come out directly for the Republican candidate, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, he did mention him in a state-wide radio address—something Byrd did not do. Tucker said: "Candor compels me to say that the Eisenhower platform in many vital particulars as well as the Eisenhower candidacy more nearly conforms to the traditional principles of the Democratic Party than does the Truman platform or the Truman candidate."

Tucker, who resigned August 28 as Virginia Democratic chairman because he was unwilling to commit himself on the presidential race, said he had hoped to remain silent.
Speaks Out Firmly
"But now that Stevenson has embraced Trumanism," he added, "I cannot be true to myself and those near to me... without speaking out firmly, particularly in the light of the dangerous situation which confronts us."

The disagreement over the presidential campaign has caused a bigger rift among Virginia Democrats than opponents of the Byrd organization have been able to bring about in the last 15 years.
Many lower echelon members of the Byrd organization came out for Stevenson before Byrd made his speech, and most of them have reiterated their support of the national ticket despite the stands of Byrd and Tucker.
Others, including two members of the State Senate and several in the House of Delegates, have been campaigning actively for the Republican ticket within a state-wide organization of "Democrats for Eisenhower."

AP Survey Reveals Stevenson Gaining In Western States
By The Associated Press
A mid-October survey by The Associated Press of the views of editors and political writers in the Rocky Mountain-West Coast region brought out the opinion that Stevenson has gained in five of the 11 states in the last six weeks.
Eisenhower, listed early in September as leading in 10 of the 11 states, now is considered ahead in eight of them.
The way the newsmen see things in the West, California (32) electoral votes, Wyoming (3), Colorado (6), Montana (4), Nevada (3), and Oregon (6) probably would go Republican if this were election day.
Classed as doubtful but with some advantage for Eisenhower are New Mexico and Idaho with four electoral votes each.
Arizona and her four votes remain probably Democratic, while the 19 votes in Washington and Utah are regarded as doubtful but inclined at the moment toward Stevenson.
In addition to the stronger showings in Utah and Washington, Stevenson seems to have picked up power in Wyoming, Idaho and Montana in recent weeks.

of death in many nations. Tuberculosis has been forced down from first to sixth as the cause of death in this country since then, but TB is still the leading disease killer among young people in this country between 15 and 35.
Made Official In 1908
On May 17, 1908, the National Tuberculosis Association made the red Double-Barred Cross its official emblem and in 1920 the NTA officially registered the symbol as its trademark. O'Neill added. The Double-Barred Cross is also the insignia of the 3,000 associations affiliated with the NTA, including the Midland County Tuberculosis Association.
"Regardless of the general design of the Christmas Seal," O'Neill pointed out, "the red Double-Barred Cross appears on it each year, assuring those who purchase Seals that they are contributing to the support of an organization dedicated to fighting tuberculosis. The Cross on this year's Seal is unusually prominent, covering roughly half the Seal."
A brightly lighted candle in an old fashioned, brass candlestick, the Seal's second feature, appears slightly to the right of the international symbol, O'Neill said, with Cross and candle standing out against a green background.

Alien Reds Face Ouster From U. S.
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Attorney General McGranery Thursday launched a new program for ridding the country of foreign-born leaders of the Communist party—a program involving jail-without-bail, denaturalization and deportation.
At the same time, the attorney general moved to get Communist Party Chairman William Z. Foster on trial for alleged conspiracy to advocate overthrow of the United States government by violence.
Foster was among the 12 top party officials indicted in New York City in 1948 under the Smith Act, which prohibits any use of force in bringing about governmental changes. At the time, he pleaded ill health and his case was separated from the 11 others.
All who went to trial were convicted and given sentences ranging up to five years. When the Supreme Court affirmed these cases, four of the defendants fled into hiding. One was captured in Mexico, but three are still at large, presumably outside this country.
McGranery said late Wednesday he wants to know whether Foster is now able to stand trial, in view of "current, multitudinous activities." He said these include publication of two lengthy books during the past year and regular contributions to the Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper in New York City.
U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane of New York was directed to seek a court order to require the party chairman to appear for a new medical examination.
Through the immigration service, McGranery ordered eight "active Communists" now defending deportation proceedings to surrender at once or face rearrest and forfeiture of their bonds.
McGranery said he proposes to hold this group without bail until they can be shipped out of the country.
In addition, the attorney general announced he has started or is considering denaturalization or deportation proceedings, or both, against 10 of the 88 alleged members of the party's forward echelon in this country who have been indicted thus far on conspiracy charges.

Shivers, Dies Direct New Charges At Adlai

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff
Gov. Allan Shivers readied a new blast at Democratic Presidential Nominee Adlai Stevenson Thursday night after he and Martin Dies sent a double-barreled charge toward the Illinois governor Wednesday.
As he spoke Wednesday night, a Democratic gathering at Elctra, was devising strategy its leaders hoped might defeat Shivers and Attorney General Price Daniel in the general election, November 4.
Shivers spoke extemporaneously at a rally of some 1,500 Democrats for Eisenhower in Austin. He urged Texans to vote for Dwight Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for President, and not be swayed by what he called Stevenson's campaign of fear.

Dies said he would not tell Speaker Sam Rayburn, leader of the Stevenson Democratic campaign in Texas, whether he would work for Stevenson's election until he was assured the Democratic candidate would cooperate in ridding the federal payroll of Communists.
Dies spoke over a state-wide radio hookup. Dies, Daniel and Shivers apparently have accepted Republican nomination for office after winning Democratic nomination in the July primary. Dies is a candidate for congressman-at-large. Daniel is a U. S. Senate candidate. Shivers is running for reelection.
The Elctra Democratic Club asked voters to strike the names of Shivers and Daniel from the Democratic ballot and write in the names of Lindsey Beckworth for Senate and Ralph Yarborough for governor.
Ask New Committee
The group also called for a new State Democratic Executive Committee, passing a resolution which asked the Democratic National Committee to appoint and install a new Texas group composed of loyal Democrats.

America are satisfied with the way the present Administration has handled these three issues, they ought to vote for Stevenson," Shivers said. He again hit at the Democratic nominee for his Tidelands stand and advocacy of federal ownership.
Dies said that before answering Speaker Rayburn's question about working for Stevenson that "I think I am entitled to ask him, Governor Stevenson and Senator Sparkman a question which is of the utmost importance to this country," and he asked:
"If the Democratic Party is victorious on November 4 will you cooperate sincerely and enthusiastically with me and other Democrats in Congress in ridding the federal payroll of Communists, Socialists and other people who do not believe in the American form of government, or in the American form of free enterprise?"
Back To 1945
Dies said when he got the answer to the question, he would let Rayburn know what he would do.
Dies, original chairman of the House-Committee on Un-American Activities until 1945, told why he did not seek reelection in 1945.
He said that there had been two attempts made on his life, that his income tax returns, his record as a lawyer and his financial transactions had been subjected to intensive, well-advertised investigation. He said, in 1944, he learned that a plan had been formed to file separate libel suits against him on behalf of "thousands of people I had exposed in speeches, magazine articles and my book."
"While there was no danger that any of the suits would be successful," he said, "the cost of defending law suits in various parts of the country would have left me bankrupt and beggared my family. It would have kept me in court the rest of my life."

MAIL TRUCKS NON-PARTISAN
SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—The mails have been a little late this week, and Postmaster T. R. Wilson complained Wednesday, "somebody's been plastering 'Like the stickers all over our trucks.'"
"The drivers have to stop in the morning to scrape them off. It's against the law, you know."

Carver High Band, Rooters To Parade Friday Afternoon
The Carver High School band and student groups will march again at 3:30 p. m. Friday. It will be the second parade held by the school this year, preceding the clash between the Carver Hornets and the Wichita Falls Leopards Friday night at Memorial Stadium.
The marchers will start at the corner of Indiana and South Lee Streets, proceed up Illinois Street, and then return to the Carver School. After the parade, automobiles bearing the fighting slogans of the Hornets will tour downtown Midland.
Last week's victory over San Angelo, 13-7, was doubly sweet for Coach Johnny Williams and his speedy Hornets. It was the first time in nine years that Carver-High School was able to defeat San Angelo in a football tussle, and the Hornet triumph crowned Midland as District 2-AA champion. The Hornets will enter bi-district playoffs at the end of their regular season.

Bulldogs Go North Minus Fuglaar

Midland High School dispatched its convoy of Bulldog football players Thursday on the second invasion of the rolling North Plains of Texas within a week.

Coach Tugboat Jones, his aides and a 30-member squad rolled away from Midland shortly after 1 p.m. without Terry Fuglaar, 150-pound offensive guard. Fuglaar failed to meet scholastic requirements and became ineligible to play against the Pampa Harvesters Friday night.

Jimmy Mashburn, who also weighs 150 pounds, will take over the starting assignment usually handled by Fuglaar. No other changes in the customary lineups were announced by Jones.

Clinton Noble, 190-pound back, left behind when the Bulldogs departed for Borger last Thursday. He will be available for service against the Harvesters. Scholastic failures cut Noble from the Bulldog roster for the Borger encounter.

Bulldogs Slight Favorites

Rated slight favorites over the Pampans, the Bulldogs will spend Thursday night in Plainview. A workout was scheduled immediately on arrival in the city 50 miles north of Lubbock. The Bulldogs continue to Borger at 8 a.m. Saturday for their third District 1-AAAA game starting at 8 p.m.

The Bulldogs went through a light but comprehensive workout Wednesday on the eve of departure for "the game of the week" in Texas schoolboy circles. Encouraged by improved passing against Borger, Midland coaches continued drills on new packages for the aerial attack. Pass defense has been a major item on the training agenda all week.

Bill Brooks, classy B team performer, was elevated to the varsity squad this week. He'll be used as a surprise number against the Harvesters who have been pouring out reports of injuries among their topnotchers. Brooks connected for five out of eight passing attempts in the Bulldogs' 33-0 victory over Yaleta in Memorial Stadium. He looked impressive with his tosses against the Stanton B team last week.

Coach Jones is expected to use M. A. Rose, 160-pound back, against the Harvesters. Rose has been nursing a leg injury for weeks but showed improvement during the last several days.

Big Larry Friday, brainy quarterback, skipped any contact in practice this week. The 185-pounder experienced extended service for the first time this year in the Borger game. Little trouble recently from a twisted knee which kept him sidelined except for kicking duties assures full availability of Friday for the Harvesters game.

Midland Sees Ratings

Coach Jones chuffed Thursday to his prediction that the Pampans offer the stiffest competition of the year for the Bulldogs who have rocketed as high as fourth place in the week's statewide schoolboy ratings.

"It's going to be rough up there," Jones reiterated to the Bulldogs Thursday. Motion pictures of this year's Harvesters in action underlined his forecast.

But an air of confidence and coolness prevailed as the free-wheeling Bulldogs boarded the big bus at the Memorial Stadium house. They were ready for another rugged assignment in the "Little Southwest Conference."

The Bulldogs haven't lost a road game in two years. The last defeat away from Midland occurred in 1950 at the hands of Lamesa. The score was 13-7 for the Golden Tornadoes.

The Bulldogs will leave Midland only once more this year. That trip takes them over to Odessa for the campaign finale November 27. Three other remaining conference contests are at home.

The Abilene Eagles will invade "The City of Skyscrapers" next weekend. After an open date, the Bulldogs entertain Amarillo here November 14 and play the defending state champions, Lubbock's Westerners, in Memorial Stadium Saturday afternoon, November 22.

MIDLAND GROUP STALKS DEER

A group of Midland men and boys are in the Colorado mountain country seeking to bag blacktail deer.

Included in the group are two brothers, Hugh and Pat Carrigan. The hunters left Midland about 10 days ago to snare the fleet-footed animals.

Pampa Coach 'Fears' Single Wing Thrusts

PAMPA—The Pampa Harvesters went through another light workout Wednesday afternoon as they readied themselves for the invasion from the south of the mighty Midland Bulldogs.

"Regardless of the fact that these green kids haven't looked at any type of offense but a T formation, I can't take any chances on any more injuries," Head Coach Tom Tipps said. "If you'll remember back, we were stomped by Wichita Falls in the bi-district game of 1950, the last time we looked at a single wing. Most of these boys don't even know what it is."

And when he referred to further injuries, he looked at tackle Buddy Cokrell, 200-pound all-district athlete last season, and a brilliant running sophomore halfback, Harold Lewis. Both were injured in the Abilene game last week.

Lewis May Not Play

Cokrell is expected to see duty this Friday night, but it is doubtful if Lewis will be able. He tried to run Wednesday but he couldn't cut on the knee. Cokrell worked out Wednesday, and used the ailing member pretty good.

Most of the Wednesday workout was spent on readying the bogged down offense for the speedy and potent Bulldogs. Midland has been ranked fourth and eighth in the state polls conducted by the Dallas News and Fort Worth Star-Telegram while the Harvesters are rated ninth and eleventh.

Temperatures remained cool Thursday although the weatherman said there will be a long range forecast of mild and clear for Friday night.

Seven Games Top Schoolboy Slate

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Seven games headlined by the clash of Midland and Pampa stand out in Texas schoolboy football this weekend.

The Midland-Pampa struggle is one of the biggest battles of the year. It will project the major challenger to Lubbock in the fight for the District 1 championship in Class AAAA.

Both Midland and Pampa are undefeated and untied, two of four teams with perfect records left in Class AAAA. So is Lubbock, the defending state champion and favored to again be in the finals.

Class AAA has no such game—that is, one matching unbeaten, untied teams in conference play—but one of its unbeaten elevens may fall. Bryan, which has that distinction, plays Waco of Class AAAA. If Bryan can trip Waco it will be looked upon with great respect.

Pecos Vs Seminole

Pecos and Seminole fight it out in Class AA's feature game. Pecos, unbeaten and untied, and Seminole, undefeated but once tied, will be hooked up in a District 8 conference game.

Another top game in this class is between Cleveland and Humble down in District 20. Both are undefeated but each has been tied.

Class A's headliner matches one of its top teams against a strong one of Class AAA. It's Abernathy vs Floydada and both are unbeaten and untied. The major conference game in this class is between Panhandle and White Deer in District 1. Panhandle is undefeated and untied. White Deer hasn't lost a game but has been tied.

There are many important games but the schedule generally is the shortest of the season. There are only 224 games in the four classes that play through to state championships.

Fifty-five teams are undefeated, 40 of them undefeated and untied. Prospects are that will be around 45 with unbeaten records when the smoke has cleared away Saturday night.

It is the first week that the bulk of the games are of conference nature. But it's championship time. After this week there will be only one month left to determine district winners in Class AA and A. Classes AAAA and AAA go a week longer.

Sundown took its first game, a one-point victory over Dimmitt of 1-A.

The Midland High School Bulldogs continued to maintain their District 1-AAAA lead this week with an offense which has rolled up 728 yards by rushing and passing in two district games.

Official district statistics released Thursday showed the Bulldogs had piled up 587 yards by rushing and 141 through the air to set the pace.

Among the individual performers, Midland's Jesse Hatfield led in total offense and was second among the rushing leaders.

Carver High School Hornets To Tangle With Wichita Falls

The Carver High School Hornets, newly crowned champions of District 2-AA will meet a 3-AA outfit, the Wichita Falls Leopards, at Memorial Stadium Friday night. The aggressive Hornets, under Coach Johnny Williams, sport a proud record of three wins against one loss. A 13-7 triumph over San Angelo clinched the District 2-AA title for them last week.

The Friday contest, slated to begin at 8 p.m., should be a close struggle. Both teams bested Lubbock in earlier games, with Wichita Falls taking them 20-6, and the speedy Hornets squeaking out a narrow 12-4 victory.

The Hornets will enter the game rated as the underdog.

The east gate entrance will be used for the game. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. Principal E. L. Jordan announced.

Classen Forecasts Close Defeats For Rampaging California, Uclans

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK —(AP)— A seasonal average of 781 means that of every 24 selections, 19 are correct. It also means five are wrong.

There's no indication which 10 winners of the following college football games this weekend are incorrect.

Michigan State over Penn State; Penn State is unbeaten and has an outstanding end in Jesse Arnell. But Michigan State should preserve its No. 1 ranking with absolute ease.

Maryland over LSU; Maryland's nickname and mascot is that of a turtle. And if you remember the fable, the turtle always got there first.

Six Southwest Conference eleven were hard at work again Thursday for a new try at interseasonal glory and two important conference tussles this weekend.

Baylor and Texas A&M, with their annual grudge game set Wednesday, worked hard and long Wednesday and continued at top speed Thursday.

The Baylor offensive platoon polished its passing game while the Bear defensive outfit scrimmaged against Aggie plays they hope to see for a Waco homecoming crowd Saturday.

SMU, Texas, Tempe Stars Added To All-America Pot

DALLAS —(AP)— Jerry Norton, Southern Methodist's triple-threat; Gib Dawson, Texas' halfback who broke out in such a rash of scoring last week against Arkansas, and Marvin Wahlin, Arizona State of Tempe halfback, were added Thursday to All-America recommendations from the Southwest.

Norton, who had his greatest day against Rice with 140 yards carrying the ball and 84 passing, was nominated by Bill Rives of the Dallas News, who is a member of The Associated Press Southwest Board.

Rives pointed out that Norton had played fine football in other games but really reached his height against Rice last week. He added that Jerry definitely was an All-America possibility.

Athey Named Again
Lorin McMullen of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, another member of the board, projected Dawson into the All-America limelight for his great day against Arkansas when he ran wild to score 24 points.

Each team is undefeated in conference play. They meet Saturday at Commerce.

Pat Garner, Betsy Rawls Meet Defeat

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth, met pert Marilyn Smith, Wichita, Kan., Thursday in a feature third-round match of the Women's Texas Open.

The Fort Worth veteran, rarely a performer in tournament play, upset favored Betsy Rawls, in a 19-hole, 1-up victory Wednesday.

Amateur Polly Riley of Fort Worth met Betty Dodd Thursday after tripping Betty MacKinnon, Dallas, 3 and 2 Wednesday. Miss Dodd defeated Betty Mims Danoff, Dallas, 5 and 4.

Others in third round berths were Mrs. George Babe Zahris, the Tampa, Fla. star who set a new women's course record on the front nine with a five-under 32, then went on to crush Mrs. Hack Willford of Tulsa, Okla., 7-6, and Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., a 2-up victory Wednesday over Betty Rushing of Hot Springs, Ark.

Baseball Player Signs Pact For Single Game, Loses 5-3

LEWISTON, I. D. A. H. O. —(AP)— A baseball contract which called for a player's services for 24 hours was signed and executed by the Lewiston Bronos of the Class A Western International League in 1952.

This unusual circumstance in a game filled with oddities brought Pitcher Damon Hayes of San Francisco back to the league in which he had played 15 years earlier.

And Hayes went to the mound in the same ball park where he had been married in a home-plate ceremony 13 years previously to the day.

Hayes was a "home-town" lad in 1937 when he was signed by Lewiston for that WIL campaign. The franchise was moved after one season, but Hayes was among the first signed by Lewiston when it joined the class C Pioneer League in 1939.

Hayes went to Twin Falls of the Pioneer loop in 1940 and the next season was back in the WIL with Spokane. He moved up to the Pacific Coast League, playing with Oakland and Sacramento.

He never really left baseball, even after injuries suffered in an automobile accident cut short his career in 1946. He often pitched batting practice for Oakland.

Native Dancer Gets Derby Favorite Tag

NEW YORK —(AP)— Winter-book odds on the 1953 Kentucky Derby haven't been posted but when they are you can bet your bottom dollar Native Dancer will be one of the shortest priced favorites in the history of the three-year-old turf classic.

A lot of things can happen between now and the first Saturday of next May. But as matters stand the unbeaten grey-son of Polynesian from Alfred G. Vanderbilt's stable stands out as only a few horses have in recent years.

The Dancer answered the question regarding his staying powers Wednesday when he stepped the mile and one-sixteenth of the East View Stakes at Jamaica for his ninth straight victory. And the $38,525 he won boosted his earnings for the year to $230,496—a new record for a two-year-old. The old money-winning record was $219,000, won by the unbeaten filly Top Flight in seven races in 1931.

True, the Derby is three-sixteenths of a mile farther than the East View and that's where stamina tells. But Native Dancer won so easily Wednesday that the experts said there is no question about his route-running ability.

"He had no trouble at all," said jockey Eric Guerin after returning the grey ghost to the winner's circle. "He tried to pull himself up as usual just before the finish, but I kept him going."

Peccos is picked by the Williamson system as the top club in AA ball. Following Peccos are Quannah, Huntsville, Phillips, Uvalde, Stephenville, Terrell, Killeen, Brenham and Gonzales.

Crowwell is leading Class A, followed by Wink, Abernathy, Grand Saline, Smithville, Denver City, Haskell, Van, Hearne and Alpine, in that order.

So flabbergasted were the major writers that it took them several moments to get around to the interview, but then they made the most of it and pumped George for 45 minutes getting colorful, post-game tidbits "straight from the mouth of the coach."

George says the reason he does this is two-fold. "It gives the writers a chance to get the coach's comments immediately after the game without them having to look all over the grounds," he said.

"Also," he added, "it gives our kids a chance to get dressed after a game without the confusion of so many writers and strangers in the dressing room."

Mantle Faces Still Further Draft Checks

OKLAHOMA CITY —(AP)— There were more Army draft physicals in store Thursday for Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankee outfielder who Wednesday went through his third Selective Service checkup in less than two years.

The 21-year-old Commerce, Okla., Comet has been ordered to Fort Sill for a "more comprehensive examination" of a leg bone ailment which has so far kept him out of military service.

How long longer it will be before an anxious baseball world learns of the talented youngster's status still is conjecture.

Mantle, who starred in the World Series despite an added handicap of another physical hanging over him, is forced to wear protective pads on his left leg while playing. He suffers for osteomyelitis, a bone disease.

Mickey, whose rise from sandlot baseball to Joe DiMaggio's spot in the Yankee outfield in four years has captured the imagination of millions of fans, was processed exactly like 200 other state draftees at the Armed Force Examining station here Wednesday.

He then spent the night at the home of an aunt in Oklahoma City. The powerful switch hitter, now supporting his widowed mother, three younger brothers, a sister and an expectant wife, is expected to request a dependency deferment in the event Fort Sill doctors find him acceptable.

Under a presidential proclamation issued several months ago, local draft boards are authorized to grant such deferments.

Don Cherry Sports Career Of Singing Plus Golf Records

WICHITA FALLS —(AP)— This fellow Don Cherry, who went to the semi-finals of the national amateur golf tournament, is no Johnny-come-lately. He has been a fine golfer for a long time.

Don is more noted for his singing than his links accomplishments, however. Until this year he did most of his golfing in Texas. Twice he was West Texas champion.

His friend, Rufus King of Wichita Falls, who went to the finals of the national amateur several years ago, says Don has all the shots, that he's a long driver, a good iron player and when he's putting well he's tough for anybody to beat.

Cherry gets mad at himself when he misses a shot. But he's not the type who throws the clubs, blows up or stalks off when he does miss one. He just comes back fighting harder.

It's only natural that Cherry is a favorite in his area. He's a Wichita Falls native and worked his way through high school as a delivery boy and as a caddy at the country club. He attended Hardin College before entering military service.

In 1950, Jan Garber played an engagement here and heard Cherry sing. He signed him to a contract.

Broken Nose Okay For Rice Grider

HOUSTON —(AP)— W. C. Treadway, a 200-pound guard on the Rice football team, was very happy to have his nose broken in the opening game of the season.

It seems that many years ago Treadway had fractured his proboscis in a high school grid contest but never had the injured nose set.

Treadway now has a new-shaped nose and the Owls have a 34-7 victory over Texas Tech.

ECHOES FROM THE SPORTS TRAIL— Top College Campus Outfits Look Better Than Gird Pros

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK —(AP)— For a long time at about this season of the year we frequently have found ourselves sneaking looks at certain members of the sports writing brotherhood and wondering if they had, perchance, been bounced upon their heads in extreme youth.

These fellows would go afield on cold, snowy Saturdays and attend college football games as a job of work. They would return home late, frost-bitten and tired. They would bounce out of bed on Sunday, bright-eyed and eager, and beat their way through traffic to witness a professional football game—on their day off.

In reply to casual inquiries, they said they did this because the pro game was vastly superior to the college brand. They said they found pure relaxation in watching skilled artisans in action after they had spent an afternoon with the rah-rah boys. They didn't seem to think this especially strange, no matter what anybody said.

Nixon Hates Labor, Truman Says; Would Destroy Unions

WITH TRUMAN—President Truman Thursday denounced Richard M. Nixon as "anti-labor" and declared his party's leaders "hate labor unions and would like to destroy them."

Appealing for Democratic votes in West Virginia's soft coal and steel region, Truman made one of his rare attacks on the GOP vice presidential candidate and declared that the Taft-Hartley Act "can wreck the American labor movement."

In an address delivered in a rear platform appearance at Wheeling, W. Va., Truman said GOP presidential nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower "picked one of the most anti-labor men in Congress to be his running mate."

The Chief Executive said a provision in the original Hartley bill of 1947, banning industry-wide bargaining, was dropped out of the final version of the Taft-Hartley Act, "but it has not been forgotten."

'Unfair Procedure'

"The congressman who made the concluding argument on the floor of the House of Representatives in favor of the Hartley bill in 1947 was a young man who showed real promise as a leader in the battle against labor—Representative Nixon of California," Truman said. "He lived up to that promise so well that he was promoted this summer to run for vice president on the Republican ticket."

"Look out, neighbor!"

"Now, the Republican candidate for President does not have much of a record on labor questions. But he picked one of the most anti-labor men in the Congress to be his running mate. And he said that if he (Eisenhower) had been President this year he would have tried to get an injunction in the steel case. He would have applied this useless and unfair procedure without regard to the merits of the dispute."

"Look out, neighbor."

Truman campaigned in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland on the homebound trail to Washington after one of his whirlwind stump tours for Adlai Stevenson.

Credits Democrats

Truman omitted any reference to the soft coal strike and the action of the Wage Stabilization Board cutting 40 cents off a $1.90 a day award for the miners which brought it about.

But he recalled the days of "labor spies and private armies and strike breakers" and credited the Democratic Party with stopping such things.

"But there are still men who hate labor unions and would like to destroy them," he said. "These men still exist, and they exist in great number. And I have no hesitation in telling you where they are politically. They are a powerful group within the Republican Party."

He said that "a swing to Stevenson has set in all over the country, among voters who had been leaning Republican" and added with a note of modesty:

"I hope that I have performed some small service in helping to bring out the facts."

Stevenson To Hit 'Smear' Technique

WITH STEVENSON—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, given a howling welcome in Buffalo, N. Y., doubled back toward Ohio Thursday for a major address which his campaign manager said will deal with Republican "smear tactics."

Wilson Wyatt, the Democratic presidential nominee's manager, talked of Stevenson's speech in Cleveland Thursday night as one of the most important of the campaign.

Stevenson speaks at the Cleveland arena at 8 p. m. (CST). The address will be broadcast over CBS and Mutual radio networks an hour later.

In Buffalo Wednesday night Stevenson called into Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, his GOP opponent, and what he called the Republican "Old Guard" intent of blocking all progressive programs.

Police Chief Michael C. Noepfel estimated the widely cheering crowd in Memorial Auditorium at 14,000 persons.

Thursday's whistle-stop schedule called for a speech from the rear platform of the governor's train at Dunkirk, N. Y., and a talk at the rail station at Erie, Pa.

Wyatt told reporters Thursday night's Cleveland speech will deal "with the issue of communism, the Hiss case, and generally with other smear tactics."

The Hiss Case

During the first trial of Alger Hiss, former State Department official convicted of lying in contempt, he never passed government documents to a courier for Russia, Stevenson gave a character deposition saying that, so far as he had heard, Hiss' reputation was good.

Asked whether the governor's address would be in anticipation of a McCarthy attack, Wyatt replied: "No, it isn't solely with reference to McCarthy because McCarthy is

Dewey Fires Bitter Tirades At Truman

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Republican campaign for the presidency was augmented Thursday by a bitter attack on President Truman by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the party's 1948 nominee.

Dewey is accompanying the 1952 GOP candidate on a cross-state tour from Albany to Buffalo, N. Y., which started Thursday morning.

Eisenhower Wednesday night told a wildly cheering audience in Troy the Democratic Administration had adopted the inflation policy to win the election by duping the people into thinking they had more money.

But Dewey, in introducing Eisenhower, delivered an even more blistering attack. He accused Truman of heading an "unholy, filthy, stinking campaign."

Referring to Republican charges that Truman falsely accused Eisenhower of religious and racial bias, Dewey asked:

"How low can you get to conceal skeletons in your own White House?"

Dewey asked the Troy audience whether the voters were going to allow Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Democratic presidential candidate, to "sneak into the White House on a slimy trail of Truman mud."

Eisenhower, ripping into the Truman Administration, told 10,000 persons jammed into the Renaissance Polytechnic Institute Field House at Troy:

'Inflation Policy'

"The inflation we suffer is not an accident. It is a policy."

"What the Democrats have done," he said, "is to cheapen our money, and history shows that this is always done by an administration that cares more for the next election than the next generation."

Across Western New England Wednesday, from Hartford, Conn., to Pittsfield, Mass., Eisenhower struck back at Truman charges that a Republican victory would lead to a depression and unemployment.

He said that, at any sign of a recession, he would call in "the finest minds" in the United States to block a depression before it could happen. He said further that he walls standing. Its sheet steel roof was ripped off.

All that was left of the Weather Bureau Station was the foundation and damaged radio sets.

Milton Leavitt, U. S. State Department public affairs officer in Legaspi, said:

"It was a nightmare. It was hell."

Eye Passes

"Thirty families huddled in our house," said Leavitt, Worcester, Mass. "We took in as many as we could. The wind kept getting stronger and stronger. It blew trees, rooftops and shacks. At about 8 p. m. Tuesday, winds got pretty bad. Things started flying all around us—big things like parts of houses and whole trees."

"After three hours, the winds died down completely. But in a few minutes they rose again to a furious pitch. I know we were in the dead center of the typhoon."

Leavitt said it was a weird feeling in the darkness as the winds shrieked and howled.

Communications lines were down. Telephone poles littered the roads. A large concrete bridge was down at one end.

Weather Gauges Go

Along the road from the airport to the city people were trying to patch what little was left of their homes. Others were clearing bare patches of ground where their homes once stood.

There were tens of thousands of homeless in Legaspi. Police said there were no official figures available on casualties. Reports were scanty from outlying areas, most of which still were cut off.

Leon Tiansay, airline manager at Legaspi, said instruments at the weather station blew away when winds rose to 125 miles per hour.

"I was here during the Japanese occupation and time of liberation but the fighting and destruction then was nothing compared to this," Tiansay said.

Tabaco Wiped Out

There was not a house standing at Tabaco. Destruction of that port was 100 per cent. Nothing was left of the concrete pier built one year ago.

Fires were burning on bare patches of ground which once had been homes. It was pitiful to watch residents of Legaspi trying to pick up the threads of their lives again.

One elderly man with a beaten look on his face scrounged around for boards, steel sheeting and palm leaves to build a makeshift shelter for the night. His wife fanned fire with one hand. With the other she held a squirming pig—all that was left of their earthly possessions.

Victim Of Accident Reported Improving

Continued improvement was being shown Thursday by Gloria Hicks, 14, who was injured critically in an automobile accident Sunday. She is a patient at Midland Memorial Hospital. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hicks, 1501 West Storey Street.

After being hospitalized since Sunday from injuries received in the same accident, Helen Short, 15, was released from Midland Memorial Hospital Wednesday. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Short, 1011 West Louisiana Street.

Fatal injuries were suffered by Wendy Ann Woolcock, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Woolcock, in the accident.

Another girl, Nanette Hays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hays, 608 West Kansas Street, suffered minor injuries.

Britain Relaxes Arms Rules To Aid Settlers In Kenya

LONDON—The British government Thursday lifted its strict ban on carrying arms in civil aircraft so rifles and revolvers can be flown to frightened white settlers in Kenya.

Gunsmiths in Nairobi, capital of the British East African colony, cabled that their stocks had been depleted in the last few days as Europeans rushed to arm against possible outbreaks of African violence. The city has been in a state of emergency since Tuesday, when police began a roundup of members of the Mau Mau terrorist organization.

The Mau Mau, which has been waging a war of violence and arson against non-sympathetic Africans since last Summer, avowedly aims at driving white settlers out of Kenya.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Harmon Regsby, Conroe, Texas, construction worker, was reported by police to have been shot to death Wednesday night.

Orsini said Regsby was shot once in the head, apparently with a small-caliber rifle found beside his body.

Congressman Regan Is Rotary Speaker

Congressman Ken Regan was the guest speaker Thursday noon at the Midland Rotary Club presented a special program in observance of United Nations Week at its regular meeting.

Pointing out that he was not speaking for or against the United Nations, the Midland congressman reviewed the accomplishments of the organization since it was founded in 1945. He reviewed briefly the events leading up to its organization and told of the part played by Rotary International in founding the United Nations, which has as its main purpose the maintaining of international peace and security.

Introduced By Dyer

Congressman Regan, introduced by Delbert Downing, also pointed out the dangers of an international organization and stated his opposition to the idea of world government. He said that entangling treaties and alliances which supersede the Constitution of the United States are the aspects which must be guarded against. The speaker pointed out the United States is spending more than a billion dollars annually in support of the UN and its auxiliary agencies.

Despite the cost, the UN idea is sound and good as long as it does not drift away from its original purpose, he declared.

Ralph Mills was introduced by J. Q. Woodard as a new member of the club.

Oil Hearing—

that hearing that when the field was sufficiently developed to show reservoir characteristics that an additional hearing would be held to establish proper rules and regulations for the production.

"This is the hearing being held today in Midland," Thompson said.

The Dollarhide field has production from the Clear Fork, the Devonian, the Silurian and the Ellenburger. There are 329 wells in the two-state field. Total monthly allowable for all of these wells is 30,380 barrels.

At present most of the producing wells are in the Andrews County, Texas, side of the reservoir.

However, the proven area of the Lea County, New Mexico, side of the field is spreading and it may come to be as large or larger than the Texas side, Thompson said.

Authorized By Congress

Authority for a joint hearing on conservation of oil and gas by the regulatory bodies of two or more states is authorized by the United States Congress under the Interstate Oil Compact Commission legislation which first was approved in 1935 and which has been renewed several times, Thompson said.

Guy Sheppard and R. R. Spurrier, both of Santa Fe, are in Midland for the hearing. Both are members of the New Mexico Oil Conservation Commission.

Sheppard is state land commissioner for New Mexico and Spurrier is state geologist.

Each state commission has a number of engineers and other specialists here for the hearing. It was expected to be concluded late Thursday.

The sessions are being held in the district courtroom of the Midland County Courthouse.

Representatives of most of the oil companies having properties in the Dollarhide field were attending the hearing.

Low Bid On City Water Project Falls Below Estimates

In these days of high costs and rising prices, the City of Midland received pleasant surprise Wednesday afternoon.

The city had asked for bids on a project to lay a considerable amount of water pipe in the new Permian Estates addition on the west side of Midland.

Engineers, taking the excavation figures and the previous unit prices on similar work, estimated the project would cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

The Moore Construction Company of Odessa submitted a low bid, instead, of $35,907.08 and promised to complete the job in 45 days.

Others of the six bids ranged as high as $53,858.20.

This would be two per cent above the valuation for Jan. 1, 1952, compared with increases of 12 per cent in 1950 and nine per cent in 1951.

Contest For Truman's Old Senate Seat Grows Into Top-Flight Political Brawl

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. —(AP)—A fight for President Truman's old Senate seat has turned into one of the roughest political brawls Missouri has seen in years. In one corner: Republican Senator James P. Kem, 62, white-haired and serious, a lawyer by profession.

In the other corner: Stuart Symington, 51, personable St. Louis businessman and former government trouble-shooter. They have waged a hard, name-calling campaign. Kem says Symington "is not a five percentor—he is a 500 percentor." He charges Symington made money out of war contracts and helped some of his friends to "feather their nests too."

Symington says, "Everyone knows Kem is the outstanding reactionary and isolationist in the Senate." He

Soviet Scientist Tells How To Reduce, Live To Old Age

MOSCOW —(AP)—The Soviet Union's outstanding authority on how to live longer—Prof. Olga Lepeshinskaya—Thursday disclosed her formula: take soda baths and avoid war propaganda.

The 81-year-old biology professor said that old standby, bicarbonate of soda, when added to hot baths would not only prolong life but reduce fat.

Other factors in her formula as published Thursday in the English-language magazine News:

1. Take part in sports. Leo Tolstoy, the great Russian author learned to cycle at 65 and skated when he was 75.

2. Avoid war propaganda. "Numerous clinical researchers have proved, for instance, great nervous shocks not infrequently bring cancer in their train. Therefore atomic alerts, practiced in certain countries, and war scare atmosphere, generally tend in the long run to reduce life expectancy." Professor Lepeshinskaya is head of the Department of the Development of Living Substance at the Institute of Experimental Biology. She tried out baking soda baths on frogs, tadpoles and chicken eggs before plunging into the water herself.

She took 15 soda baths with "interesting results." She recommends about two to two and a half ounces of soda to each tubful of water at about 95 degrees temperature. She remained in the tub from 16 to 20 minutes.

Among other things she noted "a general loss of weight, more particularly through the disappearance of fat on the stomach."

Professor Lepeshinskaya cautioned that her method does not guarantee eternal youth and "improper use may prove injurious," adding that the method should be employed only after consulting a physician.

charges Kem "is throwing up a smoke screen to hide his own miserable record as a senator."

Three times the men have met in debate, twice on planned programs. The other time it was a battle of sound trucks when their campaign trails crossed accidentally in a hill country town. The applause has been about equal on these occasions.

Kem won his way to the Senate in the off-year election of 1946. This year, he won re-nomination easily. He had only token opposition.

But Symington had to win his nomination the hard way. He beat Missouri Attorney General J. E. Taylor by 187,000 votes, although Taylor had President Truman's endorsement.

Since then, the President has endorsed Symington. And Kem has been endorsed by the Republican presidential nominee, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Both men have been successful in their chosen fields—Kem as a corporation lawyer in Kansas City, Symington as former president of Emerson Electric Company in St. Louis.

In the Senate, Kem has been a persistent foe of Administration measures, both on foreign and domestic issues. In his campaign he has opposed foreign aid on the present scale and says the big issue is to "restore honest, decent government in Washington."

In Washington Symington was chairman of the Surplus Property Board, assistant secretary of War for air, first secretary of the Air Force, chairman of the National Security Resources Board, and finally "cleanup" man of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He says Kem is presenting a "pittifully negative" record to the voters.

MARINES LEARN TO WORK IN DARK—

Blind Repairman Triumphs In Intricate Radio Realms

By HILL DEAN
OMAHA —(AP)—You don't find many success stories about blind men, but when you do they are likely to be pretty spectacular.

Take the case of a determined red-haired kid at the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind.

To young Laven Peterson, success meant two things: learning to be a radio repairman and being able to live like those not handicapped by blindness.

But who ever heard of a blind man mastering the intricacies of a finely wired radio circuit, ferreting out troubles that could only be traced by delicate meters and making pin-point repairs with a scorching soldering iron?

Today, at 33, Laven Peterson has found a substantial measure of success.

He has proved that a blind man can make a living repairing radios, even teaching others how to do it. And he's gone a good deal further in giving other blind men a chance at a better living as radio technicians.

Blind Students
Peterson created quite a stir seven years ago when he established his Radio Engineering Institute here and enrolled three blind students in radio technicians' courses.

Today the school has 85 students.

In seven years it has graduated between 700 and 800. About 200 of them were blind, about as many more had other handicaps.

Of the blind ones, Peterson says, "A strong 70 per cent are making a living at it."

Only eight of the students today are blind. The rest come to Peterson's school simply because it's a good place to learn practical radio and television mechanics.

"We put the emphasis not so much on theory as on servicing the manufactured article," Peterson explains. "The students learn by doing regular service jobs. In big schools, they can't do that."

Working In Dark
Peterson, blind since birth, began picking up a working knowledge of radio as a 12-year-old hanging around a radio repair shop. He added to it by asking questions, experimenting, reading books, and absorbing what was read to him.

By the time he went to college for some work in physics and math, he was running a part-time radio repair business on the side.

When the war started Peterson was operating his own business but moved over to Omaha Electronics School for Soldiers and Marines as a teacher.

In a pitch-black room, the servicemen learned how to repair field

WTCC Highway Meet Slated At Monahans

MONAHANS—A regional highway meeting, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Monahans Chamber of Commerce, will be held in the Community Center Building here at 2 p.m., November 10. It is one of a series of meetings scheduled over West Texas next month.

The purpose of the meetings is to provide citizens of West Texas with basic and factual information concerning Texas roads and highways. They will be educational in nature, sponsors said.

West Texans interested in highway improvements are urged to attend one or all of the highway planning sessions.

Other meetings are scheduled November 5 in Lubbock; November 6 in Amarillo; November 7 in Wichita Falls; November 12 in Del Rio; November 13 in Brownwood; November 14 in Fort Worth, and November 17 in Abilene.

Why couldn't the blind be taught this same thing—and more? Why couldn't the way be opened for them as Peterson had opened it to himself, to a better living?

In 1945, with a couple of sighted fellow instructors who joined him in the project, Peterson started the Radio Engineering Institute in the basement of the Omaha YMCA.

By this time Peterson had licked one of the problems that led others to throw cold water on his own radio ambitions. He had devised testing equipment that combined sound and touch to tell the blind technician what the sighted radio-man learned from his meters.

Gradually the Veterans Administration, various state and rehabilitation departments and the Army gave their stamp of approval to the school.

Peterson acquired a couple of new partners and the school moved from the basement of the "Y" to a building of its own.

Peterson, his wife, who also is blind, and their three sighted children live pretty much like other people in a bungalow they are buying in a pleasant suburban neighborhood.

New WTCC President Has 30-Year Record Of Service

ABILENE—R. Wright Armstrong, the new president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has been associated closely in affairs of the regional organization more than 30 years.

He was a familiar figure in the "big" WTCC conventions of the 1930's and early 1930's. West Texans best remember him for his former connection with the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce and his leadership of the nationally famous "Old Gray Mare Band," which made its first appearance at the second annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Plainview, 1922.

R. Wright Armstrong

Armstrong, who now is vice president of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway Company, Fort Worth, was named president of the WTCC at its thirty-fifth annual convention in Wichita Falls Tuesday. He has been a member of the organization's executive committee the last several years.

A native of Brownwood, Armstrong has spent his entire business career with the Burlington Lines. He is first vice president of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce and is active in numerous other organizations and associations.

Armstrong is a veteran of two wars. In World War I he was a captain and aide to Maj. Gen. John A. Hulen, who later became vice president of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway. He served overseas with the 36th Division, and was active in the Texas National Guard many years. He was president of

Hotel Menu Records Calory Information

NEW YORK—(AP)—Persons on a diet who dine out no longer will have to get themselves in a dither over whether the food on the hotel menu is fattening—at least not at the Hotel Edison.

Next to each dish on the menu will be listed the number of calories it contains. In addition, a note at the top of the menu will give the dieting women the advice that they limit themselves to 800 calories for the meal, while dieting men should not have more than 1,200.

Tricks For Treating Spritely Spirits Cited

Beware! Friday, October 31, is the night for happy haunts, and the neighborhood goblins will be at the door again. The eerie tribe of 1952 will come with hands open yelling "Tricks or Treats." Want to have them jump on their broomsticks and flit merrily away, satisfied with their goblin fare?

Cross their palms with one of their favorite brands of chewing gum. A package or a stick of gum will make their spirits rise. With the smallest effort, you'll have the spook-happiest neighborhood in the city. There'll be unghostly squeals of pleasure if you've visited a gum and candy counter before spirit time, Halloween night. Remember, when the treats are good, the tricks are on someone else!

Ike, Adlai Are Among Many On Texas November 4 Ballot

If the Democratic or Republican candidates for President and vice president don't suit you when you go to vote November 4, don't fret. There will be plenty of other choices.

Counting the Independent and write-in, there will be eight tickets appearing on the ballot—and Gen. Douglas MacArthur is the candidate for President on two of them.

The tickets listed on the ballots are Democratic, Republican, Prohibition, Progressive, Christian Nationalist, Constitution, Independent and write-in.

Candidates for President and vice president, in that order, for each are: Democratic—Stevenson and Sparkman; Republican—Eisenhower and Nixon; Prohibition—Stuart Hamblen, religious stringer and composer who wrote "It Is No Secret," and E. A. Holtwick; Progressive—Vincent Hallinan, who had the "distinction" of being in jail when nominated, and Carolina Bass; Christian Nationalist—MacArthur and Jack B. Tenney; and Constitution—MacArthur and Vivien Kellems, the little Connecticut manufacturer who has been doing battle with the government over her refusal to withhold income tax payments from her employees' paychecks.

Summer Sales Show Upgrade In Profits For Many Firms

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK—(AP)—Profits are on the upgrade again—if the first companies to report prove typical.

The first 45 corporations to announce their net earnings after taxes for the July, August and September quarter show:

1. Profits of 23 running ahead of the same period of 1951; 16 making less.
2. The 45 having combined profits of 15.4 per cent higher than in the third quarter last year—$189,492,431 this Summer against $164,188,179 last year.

These early comers are but a handful of the hundreds yet to report and contain only two of the industrial giants. Thus they are far from conclusive evidence of a trend.

But they make cheerful reading for stockholders when compared with the profit trend earlier this year.

In the April, May and June quarter, much more complete reports showed corporate earnings running 13 per cent behind the 1951 second quarter.

Dividends Raised
In the first three months of this year, corporate profits after taxes ran around nine per cent behind the 1951 first quarter.

Stockholders have another cause for cheer. In spite of lower earnings during the first half of this year, directors of many corporations maintained or raised dividend rates.

For the first nine months of this year, total dividend payments ran four per cent ahead of the same period last year.

In many industries, earnings prospects appear even brighter for the final three months than for the quarter just ended.

The 45 corporations show the usual wide variance in profit pattern. Four of them operated in the red in the third quarter. Two others were sharply lower.

One was a steel company, reflecting losses from the strike. The four small iron and steel companies to report so far showed combined net profits 40 per cent below earnings in the 1951 third quarter. For the first half of the year (including the strike month of June), 32 iron and steel companies had combined earnings 21.5 per cent below the first six months of 1951.

On the right side, nine of the 29 with higher earnings show substantial gains.

A food processing and grocery wholesaling firm reports profits six times higher than a year ago.

A household appliance company's earnings tripled. Two others were more than double their year ago figures.

A leather company reports a gain this year against a loss in last year's third quarter.

Others to gain notably were in the cement, textile, container, transportation and communication industries.

Youth Center Chatter

By NANCY LOU KLINGLER
The State Fair is over. Among those from Midland attending the fair were James Barron, Myrt, Nell and Pat Curran, Betty Bolton, Darlene Aldridge, Beth Warren and the Kinglers. It was enjoyed by all.

Former Midlanders Seen
While at the fair, Pat Curran saw a former Midlander, Richard Burke. Richard lives in Dallas and goes to Adamson High School. He sure wishes he was back in Midland. Also another former Midlander was seen, Bob Prophet, who now lives in Graham, was seen at Dallas by Nell Curran.

Graham Nugent, Horace and Fisher Adams, along with their fathers, are up in Utah on a hunting trip. They hope to come back with deer all over the car.

Harvey Diemer, Janice Rawdon, Carolyn Faris and Betty McNulty all seem to like the new pet around the Y. C. Yes, "Old Paul" is getting a whole lot of attention lately.

Two Baylor students, Tony Dunagan and Wanda Burnside, were through Midland and spent the weekend here enroute to the Tech-Baylor game at Lubbock.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to the family of our most beloved friend, Wendy Ann Woolcock.

PROUD OF COACHES
SAN JOSE, CALIF. —(AP)—San Jose State College is mighty proud of its gridiron coaches. Since the Spartans first started football back in 1898, 15 different mentors have handled the chores. These included two of the great coaches in history, Felding Yost served in an advisory capacity in 1899 and Glenn S. (Pop) Warner was advisory coach in 1939 and 1940.

WHITSON FOOD STORE

Corner of N. W. Front and "M" St. Dial 2-3401

Halloween is almost here. Yes, the time for the witching, the shots and cats to come out and haunt is here once again. At high school, it will be slightly different this year. There will be no carnival. There will be a family night supper with a talent show going on while you eat. They think it will be different and everyone will like it.

While on the subject of talent shows, participants really must be practicing very hard for it. Those whom we have seen practicing are Dona Ingram, Anne Grayman, Fil Pryor, Ohanna O'berry, Eddie Nugent and Betty Sviralis. They are going to do the "Bunny-hop" through the audience. They want everyone to be sure and take part in it because it is a lot more fun if everyone participates.

New Club Organized
Midland has a new club. The name of it is the "Bunny Club." Those wishing memberships in this club, see Dona Ingram or Anne Grayman.

Larry Ann Burnside spent the weekend in El Paso. She went out there with the Lumpkins. Larry Ann came back smiling so she must have had a good time.

Eddi Jenni and Ray Childers must have the society bug because they wanted to have their name in print, so there it was boys. Tell us again when the bug strikes.

The picture show this week will be held Thursday. It will start at 7:30 p.m. The name of this week's show is "Brute Man." It is a murder mystery. We know you never would have guessed if we hadn't told you. The fourth chapter of the "Green Archer" also will be shown. Friday night, the Seniors are sponsoring a play which is familiar to everyone. The name of this play is "Dear Ruth" and it is put on by the Speech Department of Abilene Christian College. The play is a comedy and we are sure everyone will enjoy it very much. For tickets, just see any senior or get them that night at the box office in the high school auditorium.

Bulldogs Do It Again
The Bulldogs have done it again. Yes, the Midland High School Bulldogs have piled up another victory. The Bulldogs defeated Borger last week for their second district victory. They journey up North again this week to play Pampa. They have the finest ball team that Midland has come up against this year, so the game really should be good. Everyone who can, be sure and go up there to help support the Bulldogs.

Those of you who do not attend the game or the play Friday night are invited to come to the Youth Center for another dance and to listen to the ball game. There was a nice crowd last week.

There will be a bunny-hop dance here Saturday night. This is just like the "Bulldog Stomp." It is a stag or drag affair. It will start about 8 p.m. Come on down and join in the fun. We also will play a lot of games, and that is where it differs from the Stomp.

Within the next few days the Youth Center will have a drive for funds or the needy people for Thanksgiving. A jar will be placed in the Center and everyone is invited to contribute as many pennies as he is years old. Of course if you would like to give more, always feel free to do so. There also is one other feature which we shall tell you about later.

Red Pattern In Japan

Two recent events give added shape to the often shadowy form of Russian foreign policy. One was the publication of a new book for Josef Stalin. The other was a conference in Peiping, China.

In his book, Stalin says the most important economic result of World War II was the dividing of the world into two markets, one dominated by the United States and the other by Russia.

Out of this situation, he says, has developed the twin emergence of West Germany and Japan in the United States orbit, both countries so directly competitive they will cause severe conflicts in the Western World.

While what Stalin says isn't exactly new, the fact that he places emphasis on it is significant. For, realizing the Communists' historic readiness to stir up and aggravate differences among their enemies, there's every reason to expect them to do so in this case.

How they will operate in detail Stalin's book doesn't say. But the conference in Peiping makes pretty certain that action there will be, whatever its nature.

The Peiping meeting—called a peace conference—was attended by representatives of more than 30 countries, some of them so small as to be identifiable only on a pretty big map.

But the important thing, in the light of Stalin's book, was the emphasis given to the Japanese question. It was the first detailed order of business.

Coincidentally, perhaps, this emphasis on Japan followed by only a day or two the terrific licking the Japanese Communists took at the polls in general election voting. Some observers in that part of the world believe, however, that this setback would serve only to intensify general Communist activities regarding Japan.

Neither Stalin's book nor the Peiping meeting, in themselves, give us very much that is conclusive on Russian plans, but taken together they indicate a pattern. It might well be a pattern we should keep a sharp eye on.

Nature Blows Progress Down

In these bewildering atom-jet-radar days, it's oddly satisfying to see old Mother Nature put her foot down, issue a stern "No" or otherwise put man and his wondrous new gadgets in their places once in a while.

Such an instance has occurred high over the North Atlantic where the Old Dame puffed out her cheeks, blew a mighty blast, and convinced the British Overseas Airways Corporation that the time was not yet for beginning jet airliner service between New York, Bermuda and Nassau.

BOAC had planned to begin the service by next Spring. But after a further check of the strong winds over the North Atlantic they changed their mind. Now it may not begin for four more years.

Progress is very fine but it's still fun to see it get its come-uppance now and then.

Lost Horizon

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Eisenhower advisers seek to appease Gerald L. K. Smith; Democratic chairman admits race isn't won; Texas businessmen threaten Texas senator.

WASHINGTON — An Eisenhower committee has just taken an interesting step to appease Gerald L. K. Smith.

Smith is the organizer and chief spark plug of the Christian Nationalist Party and has nominated General MacArthur for President with State Senator Jack Tenny of California for vice president.

Smith's financial angel is Judge George W. Armstrong of Texas, whose donation to Jefferson College in Mississippi was rebuffed amid nationwide publicity.

A few days ago, a committee speaking for General Eisenhower called on Smith and urged him to take the Christian Nationalist Party out of the presidential race.

In states where the Democratic Republican race may be close, the Christian Nationalists could hold the balance of power. Therefore, Smith was urged to withdraw the party's name from the ballot.

As an inducement, Smith was told that if he would withdraw, General Eisenhower would take the initiative in calling personally on General MacArthur.

The significance of this gesture is that no less than ex-President Herbert Hoover himself has been trying to get Eisenhower and MacArthur together, but so far has been unable to persuade Ike to see Mac.

Mac Eisenhower is willing to get together with his former commander, but he isn't willing to go to the Waldorf Tower where MacArthur lives. And MacArthur in turn won't go to see him.

However, according to the Eisenhower committee that called on Smith, Ike now will go to see Mac.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Important tournaments are being held this weekend in several different parts of the country.

Today's hand, taken from last year's Columbus tournament, shows the importance of sound technique in keeping control of the trump suit.

Four hearts was the contract at almost every table, and the opening lead in most cases was the queen of spades.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, West, East, and South cards and tricks.

Latest size-up on how the campaign is going: There's nothing to smear but smear itself.

Senator Robert F. Kerr of Oklahoma, who wanted the Democratic presidential nomination for himself, finally has gotten over his disappointment and gone campaigning for the Stevenson-Spartan ticket.

Having ruffed twice, South now had only as many trumps as East. When he knocked out the ace of diamonds, still another spade return, would force declarer to ruff a third time, after which East would have one more trump than declarer.

The student newspaper at Columbia University may have come out officially against their president-on-leave, but the faculty is mixed.

A leader of the latter group is the dean of journalism, Carl Ackerman, who administers the Pulitzer prize awards and has helped to train thousands of newsmen.

Education, he wrote, "has a vital stake in this campaign. The election of General Eisenhower will set an example for every student from the kindergarten to the graduate level that cramming is a laudable substitute for serious study.

Declaring didn't really mean that trick, but it would prevent the enemy from making him ruff spades.

With both sides vulnerable, the bidding has been: West 1 Heart, North 2 Spades, East 3 Hearts, South 4 Spades.

All during the campaign, the Republicans have been beating Democratic presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson over the head for this pre-convention statement:

"I have no ambition for the nomination. I have no fitness, temperamentally, mentally, or physically for the job. I just don't want to be nominated."

But now, at the end of the campaign, Republican National Committee headquarters has come up with a printed statement that, Ike's real thoughts run like this:

MURDER she yelled

By Joseph Stabilitz
"THE STORY: Although Al Kemmer, owner of High Hill, a small town, has made Dan Morrison, his athletic director, Eddie Phillips, an entertainer, and Midge Barnett, a great promoter, Dan doesn't like keeping secret the fact that a murdered man's body was found on the place and then moved away by Al. So Dan and Midge decide to find where Al left the body and report it to police."

Q—How old is the science of fingerprinting?
A—It is believed that the Chinese used thumbprints to sign important documents long before the birth of Christ.

Q—Is the production of soft drinks a major industry in this country?
A—The soft-drink industry ranks twenty-first among the industries of the United States.

Q—What was the significance of tulips frequently painted on early American stoneware?
A—When groups of three tulips were used, they had a religious meaning and symbolized the Holy Trinity.

Q—Which President received the smallest popular majority of any American election?
A—James A. Garfield who was the winner by 700 votes out of over nine million cast.

Q—Of what constellation is the Big Dipper a part?
A—Ursa Major.

I hurried up the dirt road and across the bridge. Midge scrambled after me. "Griscomb!" I called out.

He turned his head. He didn't look startled. He talked to his dog, and the big brown-anon-tan thing pranced around on the leash to have a go at me.

"I don't have much time—what is it?" he said as I entered the woods, but his tone was bland, unhurried.

I HAD seen G. O. Griscomb only once before, and only briefly. I took a good look this time. He was about five-ten, just about my height, pretty thick through the chest but with a pronounced stoop, which anybody would get walking

WASHINGTON COLUMN

GOP Opposition, Money Woes, Plague Southern Democrats

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Republican hopes of winning several Southern states in the presidential race are buoyed up by a couple of new factors in Dixie politics.

The first is that the regular Southern Democratic organizations never had any opposition from the Republicans before. Democratic leaders don't know what to do with this opposition, and they're running scared.

Any little show of Eisenhower enthusiasm is blown up to the proportions of a major catastrophe and causes a yell to Washington for help.

The second factor is that because of the dispute over Tideland oil, a lot of the big money from Texas and Louisiana oil men in particular is going to the Republicans.

In years past it always has gone to the Democrats. That makes the Democratic campaign in the South harder to wage. Instead of taking money out of the South, the Democrats this year are having to pour it in.

Defenders of Senator Nixon were quick to point out that nine of the 23 professors were listed in files of the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee.

To this the critics of Senator Nixon promptly replied in effect, "Columbia University! Oh, yes! Isn't that the school that General Eisenhower was president of? Is he the man who is going to root the left-wingers out of government? Why didn't he root them out of the Columbia faculty, to show how it could be done?"

There will be at least 69 new representatives in the new Congress to pre-election causes, plus a more November 4 upset.

Of those members of the last Congress who won't be back next year, three died, 26 retired, six ran for governor of their home state, 12 ran for the Senate, eight were defeated in contests involving redistricting of states that lost one or more seats through reapportionment, and 14 were defeated in Southern state primaries where getting the nomination assures election in November.

Of these 69 congressmen, 19 were Republicans and 50 Democrats. This doesn't mean that the Republicans will make this much of a gain in the new Congress as almost all of the Southerners will be replaced by other Democrats.

LAST OF THE KNOTS
DURHAM, N. C.—(P)—Doug Knotts, husky six feet one inch, 190-pound freshman center on the Duke football squad, is the fourth member of his family to play for the Blue Devils.

During an evening of dinner dancing a girl finds herself alone at the table with a man who is not her escort.

WRONG: She asks: "Why don't we dance?"

RIGHT: She carries on a conversation with him, waiting for him to suggest dancing. If he does not she does not look wistfully at the dancers, but concentrates on conversation.

"I know," said Midge, letting Alex down on the ground.

"We don't get such visitors any more," said Griscomb.

"I think that's a shame," said Midge.

"You're an unusual young lady," said Griscomb. He quoted some poetry about the Poconos.

"You still haven't explained what brings you around here," broke in.

"I've already made that clear," he said calmly. He took another loop of the leash around his wrist, gave Alex a jerk and started away.

"Come see us again," Midge called after him.

Griscomb didn't answer. He was scrambling after his dog, trying to stay on the same side of the trees as Alex.

"Isn't he a nice old geezer?" said Midge.

"I still want to know what he's doing in this part of the woods," I said.

"You see, this guy owns that big slice of land across the lake, and about a month ago some of our lovebirds went canoeing over there. He burned their ears off—even threatened to shoot them. Then he came over and told Al Kemmer we were a lot of vermin, dirtying up these virgin woods, and if he ever caught anybody else trespassing on his land, we'd have to spend a week picking up the pieces."

"I don't believe it," Midge said firmly.

We walked in silence down the dirt road. Midge suddenly stopped and put her hand on my elbow.

"Dan—let's find who did it—the one who shot that man." She looked up at me avid-eyed, like a kid saying, "Let's play house."

"None," I said. "You can't go catching murderers. The Detectives' Union would picket you."

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail Wants to Buy a Cow?

Old MacDonald has a farm, ee I ee I oh! and on that farm there was a cow, ee I ee I oh! But the cow wasn't on the farm—not on the day I am telling you about.

The cow was lost somewhere in the Great Forest where Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, lives in a monkey house. The house is high in the top of a very tall tree, right in the middle of the Great Forest.

"Mugwump," said Daddy Ringtail out on the porch, "better slide down to the ground and help me look for Old MacDonald's cow. She is lost somewhere in our forest."

Daddy Ringtail slid to the ground. Mugwump slid down with him. Daddy Ringtail went "that" way up the Elephant Path. Mugwump went "this" way down the Elephant Path. Pretty soon Mugwump found the cow eating grass. He had just found her when a man stuck his head from behind a tree and said: "Mugwump, my boy, that's a fine cow you have there."

"Thank you, Mr. Mister," said Mugwump, "but who are you?"

The man explained that he was the man who bought a cow from the boy named Jack in the story of Jack and the Beanstalk. Mugwump remembered the story.

Why the story began when Jack started out to town to sell his mother's cow for money to buy the food to eat. He met the man who saw the cow and wanted to buy her. He gave Jack some magic beans. Jack hurried home but his mother was so angry she threw the beans out the window. Up they grew in a mighty beanstalk to the land of the giants where Jack had a very exciting adventure.

beans?" asked Mugwump. "I am the man," said the man. "Want to buy another cow?" asked Mugwump. "I do," said the man, and he did. But first Mugwump made the man promise to turn the cow loose after awhile so she could find her way back to Old MacDonald's farm where she really belonged.

The man gave Mugwump a handful of small, strange-looking seeds. They didn't look like beans to Mugwump, but Mugwump hurried home with them—and tomorrow I'll tell you what they really were and what Mugwump did with them. A very exciting something happened next. Happy day!

Further Test Of Guar Crops Planned By Farmers In Area

Further trials of guar as a combination cash and soil-building crop are planned for the Midland area as a result of an on-the-ground evaluation of the new summer legume by a small group of farmers and soil conservationists on the Gerhard Synatschek farm southeast of Valley View Tuesday afternoon.

The two-acre field on the Synatschek farm is one of three trial plantings made last summer under the auspices of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District which matured a crop in Midland County. The others were on the Terry Eichen and Gustav Meissner farms east of Midland.

The group met Tuesday afternoon in the Synatschek field to appraise the crop and discuss the possibilities of its use in the local conservation program.

After an examination of the soil in the field, Horace Mitchell, Big Spring, soil scientist for the Soil Conservation Service, pointed out three principal needs of the land, which is typical of much of Midland County. These were limited moisture supply, low fertility and organic matter content, and severe wind erosion hazard.

Guar Crop Studied

The guar crop was examined and evaluated in relation to each of these needs.

It was agreed that guar is a crop of low moisture requirement. The Synatschek field was planted about July 26, two weeks after a rain. Since then it has had two and one-half inches of rain. It successfully has matured a crop, although not making a large yield.

Guar is a legume, and if properly inoculated has the ability to take nitrogen from the air and restore fertility to the soil. It was noted, however, that if the crop is harvested for seed, only a small amount of organic material would be returned to the land.

The principal fault of the crop would be the small amount of cover

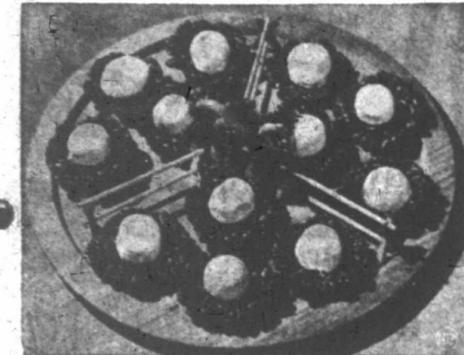

left to protect the land from blowing. In this respect, it was judged inferior to maize, hegari, or other sorghums. For this reason, it would need to be grown in combination with sorghums, or be followed by a winter cover crop, to get good conservation results in this area.

The possibilities of growing guar under irrigation and of using other varieties which produce larger, more branching plants, were discussed.

Prospects for next year's seed supply were discussed. Marvin Posey, Lubbock, of the Agrow Seed Company, offered to furnish the district information on trade sources of seed. J. T. Flowers, district supervisor for Zone 4, said the matter would be discussed in a future board meeting, and that further small trials of the crop would be encouraged.

Others participating in the field examination and discussion were Synatschek, Gustav Meissner and Otto Meissner, farmers, and Ben Osborn and Calvin C. Boykin, Jr., of the Soil Conservation Service.

Cowboy Candy Is Big Treat For Hungry, Young Cowpokes

"Cowboy Hats" of marshmallows, puffed rice and chocolate invite the eager help of young "cowpokes" in your family when you make them.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Looking for a wholesome party idea for the young set? Perhaps this "Cowboy Hat" will be a good chocolate answer.

These Cowboy Hats are easily made. Puffed rice forms the base. Then a marshmallow-chocolate sauce is poured over the puffed rice to coat each individual kernel. The fun comes when the young cowboys and cowgirls shape the candy-puffed rice mixture to resemble cowboy hat brims.

This calls for an experienced "hand" as any young cowboy will tell you, so call for volunteers at this point. When the brims are all shaped, cap each with a toasted marshmallow for the crowning touch.

Arrange the candy-coated cowboy hats on a large platter. Serve milk as a beverage, and prepare for a stampede.

Cowboy Hats

Base: Six cups puffed rice, 1/2 pound fresh marshmallows (about $2), 1/3 cup butter or margarine, 2 squares (2 ounces) unsweetened chocolate.

Measure puffed rice into a large greased bowl. Melt marshmallows, butter and chocolate in a double boiler, stirring occasionally. Pour marshmallow mixture over puffed rice, stirring until puffed rice is evenly coated. Shape 24 hat "brims," using about 1/4 cup of the puffed rice candy for each. Place in refrigerator.

Topping: Twenty-four marshmallows.

Just before serving, toast the marshmallows on a baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until a delicate brown (2 to 3 minutes). Place a toasted marshmallow on each hat brim to form the crown.

American Horsemen Prepare For Tests

NEW YORK —(AP)—The U. S. equestrian team will defend American honors against the best international jumpers of Ireland, Canada, Mexico and possibly France and Italy at the 64th National Horse Show opening November 4 at New York's Madison Square Garden.

The team is expected to be allied at the big show with two other members of the American Olympic equestrian team in Miss Marjorie Haines and Capt. Robert J. Borg. They will present their mounts in highly trained dressage maneuvers.

Heading the U. S. squad will be Team Captain Arthur McCashin. The jumpers will be Mrs. Carol Durand and William Steinkraus. Norman Brinker will be the alternate.

Texas 'Honey Week' Observance Slated

Climax of this month's special promotion of honey will come during National Honey Week, October 28 through November 2, according to T. E. Burleson, member of the Texas Beekeepers Association.

The honey industry, food handlers and the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration have been conducting a nation-wide campaign to increase household use of honey during October.

USDA reports that civilian consumption of honey during the last ten years has ranged from a low 1.4 pounds per person to a high of 1.8 pounds in 1945.

"We hope the honey campaign will help push consumption above any previous year," Burleson said.

The Newars, the original people of Nepal, are noted for their wood carving.

"GUNNING" FOR IKE—The occupants of this front-line bunker in Korea leave no doubt as to who they'll cast their absentee ballots for in the forthcoming presidential election. Grub-Infested Cattle Require More Feed, Producers Told Extra feed is required for cattle infested with cattle grubs and there is no profit in feeding these parasites, Charles Green, Midland County Agent, said Thursday.

The losses caused by cattle grubs are borne by the livestock producer and he can do something about it, Green pointed out. These parasites annually cause damage to hides and high priced meat cuts that amount to millions of dollars to say nothing about lowered milk production in the dairy herds. This loss could be added to the income of cattle producers and dairymen if the parasites were controlled, he said.

Green recommends the use of a power sprayer—with a pressure of 200 to 400 pounds. Lower pressures decrease the effectiveness of the treatment, he says. The animals should be held in a chute while they are being treated. The spray nozzle should be held no further than four inches from the backs of the animals. It is best, Green said, to use a full gallon of spray on each animal and from 10 to 15 seconds are required for doing a thorough spraying job.

The spray material should consist of 7 1/2 pounds of 5 per cent rotenone dust for each 100 gallons of water. Mix it thoroughly, Green said.

The first application should be made as soon as the grubs appear in the animals' backs and repeated at intervals of three weeks as long as needed. Three or four treatments are usually sufficient to get good control, he said.

The county agent added that a good control job should result in weight gains for cattle of up to 20 per cent and materially increase the value of the hides and cattle when they are marketed. The dairymen with a grub free herd can expect a good increase in the herd's milk production and, adds Green, a good job done now means there will be few or no heel flies next Spring. Animals tormented by these parasites lose weight rapidly and are coupled with milk losses for the dairy herd. Controlling the cattle grub breaks the life cycle of the parasite and thus stops the damage from grubs and the multiplication of the heel fly.

Right now feed is about the most important item being considered by Midland County livestock producer and, Green says, the animals cannot fully utilize their feed if they are heavily infested with grubs.

Green said that this office will be glad to supply additional information on controlling this livestock profit robber.

Girl, Seven, Takes Driving Instructions

DENVER—(P)—When a startled policeman saw an apparently driverless car go through a stop sign, he took off in pursuit and forced it to the curb.

To his surprise, he found a seven-year-old girl at the wheel and a 65-year-old man beside her. The man, a partly paralyzed veteran of World War I, said he was within reach of the driving controls and could have stopped the car at any time. The car was fitted with special driving controls to enable him to drive.

The young girl said she was getting her third driving lesson from the veteran who said he was a friend of her family. Police asked her not to take any more driving lessons until she was old enough.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Repeat Immunizing Vaccines In Later Years Of Childhood

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

One reason why children have much better chances of growing up today than they did years ago is because of the vaccines and immunizations which now can be used against so many of the contagious diseases that formerly brought death to many youngsters.

This column will tell parents what some of these commonly recommended immunizations are and when they should be given.

Vaccination against smallpox comes first, usually within the first six months after birth.

After this vaccination (which should be and almost always is a "take" at that age), immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus (lockjaw) usually is desirable. These are given most often between six and nine months after birth, usually in four doses.

The inoculation against diphtheria consists of a "toxoid" which protects the child against the disease for several years. Whether or not this protection remains adequate can be checked by a Schick test of the skin at or about the time of entering school.

The injections against whooping cough can be given about the same time and often are combined with the diphtheria and tetanus injections.

These four are probably the most important protective inoculations for children. All of them, including smallpox, should be repeated in the later years of childhood to reinforce the resistance.

Between the ages of one and two the possibility of building up immunity against scarlet fever well can be considered. This is the only one of the inoculations which is rather likely to produce painful reactions.

Other types of inoculations come up—particularly regarding typhoid fever, which is a disease usually contracted from contaminated water, milk, fruits or vegetables.

If a person is going to some part of the world where the sanitation is poor, inoculations against typhoid and possibly other diseases may be desirable.

The advice of the physician who takes care of the child from birth should be followed when it comes to giving these protective inoculations. Just because two doctors do not give exactly the same inoculations at exactly the same ages does not mean that one is right and one is wrong, since some differences of opinion are justified.

Lad Disappointed In Western Sheriff

BUTTE, MONT.—(P)—Montana may be in the heart of the TV cowboy's bad lands, but a four-year-old New Yorker is sorrowfully learning that civilization has encroached upon an area where even brave men once walked with caution.

The youngster critically examined an undersheriff as his parents filed an automobile accident report. "How come you only got one gun?" the boy finally said. "Western sheriffs is supposed to have two."

When two deputies with only one gun each and dressed in business suits and ordinary hats left the office and jumped into an automobile to answer a call, the boy became disgusted. "Let's go find some Indians," he said to his father, Robertson Short of Norwood, N. Y.

Scouts To Take Active Role in 'Get Out The Vote' Drive

Good Citizenship Pocket Reminder

Each Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Explorer taking part in the non-partisan "Get-Out-The-Vote" Campaign is to receive the pocket piece shown above. It will be a reminder of the boy's participation in this nationwide citizenship project sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and Freedom Foundation. Before Election Day, Nov. 4, Boy Scouts will place on the door knobs of 30,000,000 homes Liberty Bell cutouts urging every citizen to vote.

Plans have been made definite for the participation of Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers in the El Centro District in the national "Get Out The Vote" campaign.

On November 1, every home in Midland and Terminal will be visited by a Scout who will place a specially designed Liberty Bell cut-out on the doorknob urging the residents to vote.

Under the leadership of W. R. Upham, district commissioner, a coordinating committee met to make arrangements, and to formulate plans for directing the efforts of some 600 Scouts who will take part in the project.

Members of the committee include Upham, R. A. Combs, Dr. Henry Schlichting, Wallace Wimberly, Ken Griffin, R. O. Smith, Gilbert Gilles, Jim Kendrick, and T. Whitehead.

The project is being sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and the Freedom Foundation, with an estimated 30 million homes in America to be visited by Scouts prior to election day.

Each boy who participates will receive a "Good Citizenship" pocket reminder in recognition of his service. Local Scout units cooperating in the effort will include: Episcopal Men's Club Pack 7, Presbyterian Men's Pack 31, St. Ann's Mothers'.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"Sandwiches! Coffee!"

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"Can we use your car?" asked Jeff, sheepishly. I knew this was coming since mid-Summer, when the Stevens family acquired a new sedan, hardly the place for a pair of muddy setters. "Sure, Jeff," I said, "but what are you going to do when I'm not hunting with you?" "Well," said Jeff, "I've been thinking of putting the dogs in the trunk. It's plenty large enough, but the idea just doesn't seem to be right. How about ventilation and exhaust gases?"

There is room enough, although I can understand anyone's concern for ventilation, heat and carbon monoxide standpoint. I think, however, that the problem can be solved very easily.

In the first place, you must never leave the dogs in the car when it is standing in the sun. This is a must.

Ventilation very easily can be provided by putting a grating in the section of deck between the back of the rear seat and the rear window. When the car is in motion with the windows open, there is a pressure against the rear window which will force air into the trunk.

This will supply ample ventilation while traveling. It also will help to satisfy the partial vacuum that is formed in back of the car which tends to pull exhaust fumes into the trunk. Thus there will be less carbon monoxide pulled into the dogs' compartment. Such an arrangement is adequate for short trips—but not for parking.

If you want more room and ventilation while parked you'll have to build (there are concerns that build to fit your car and your specifications) an adapter with sides and rear to fit under the raised trunk lid. The ventilation which such a device will permit also will increase the exhaust hazard.

With the rear ventilation it is advisable to "stack" the exhaust. An extension of flexible tubing can be rigged to a height of a foot or more above the roof line. The tubing can be held in place with suction cups such as are used for ski racks and can be installed or removed in a minute. Such a rig will greatly reduce the percentage of deadly carbon monoxide from the exhaust which would otherwise be sucked into the compartment by the partial vacuum produced by the forward motion of the car.

There is no need to modify the car or cause undue wear and tear with either a stack or a trunk insert. The only change from a standard car is the removal of a section of the inside deck and insertion of a grating or some device for letting the air through. If this is neatly done the car is the better for it.

Incidentally, don't forget that the ventilator must be closed if the windows are closed as the carbon monoxide content inside the car will be increased. Your concern over this is an indication that there is reason for concern for your dogs if they ride in the trunk.

Earthworms Uncover Ancient Roman Home

VIENNA—(AP)—Busy earthworms recently led to the discovery of the remains of an old Roman home near Petronell, an Austrian village on the highway to Budapest, 15 miles east of Vienna.

A party of Austrian scientists digging for a buried Roman city noticed tiny particles of colored earth pushed to the surface by earthworms. Assuming that the color came from murals of a buried building, the group dug up the remains of a 30-yard-wide two-story Roman villa.

The villa is believed to be part of a "city" attached to the ancient Roman fort of Carnuntum, which was excavated by Austrian scientists before the first world war.

Standardized Parts Cut Aircraft Costs

NEW YORK—(AP)—Standardization of service specifications for the aircraft industry has resulted in savings of millions of dollars for the taxpayer, says the Aircraft Industries Association.

During the last four years, 251 designs have standardized 19,410 hardware parts for aircraft engines and propellers alone. A typical saving, the association says, is that of an engine bolt and nut which cost $2.52 before standardization. Now it costs $1.

The association says power-plant makers with service contracts will use 78,000,000 fewer kinds of parts this year than formerly.

TELETYPE RECORDS TROUBLE PULSE OF AMERICA

Red Cross Network Links Troubled Soldier, Civilian

WASHINGTON — The pulse of America in trouble is closest to the surface in a clacking terminal of the Red Cross telecommunications system.

Each day, in a hundred such terminals across the nation, busy machines buzz and chatter and pour out endless messages like these, the names and addresses of which have been changed:

"For Field Director, ARC, Selridge Air Force Base, Mich.—Sister requesting presence Cpl. Walter Jones death mother today. Verified. Funeral pending word serviceman."

"For Field Director, ARC, Ft. Benning, Ga. Wife requesting presence M Sgt. John Smith illness son, Ronald, 8. Doctor reports boy seriously ill. Giving hospital attendants trouble yelling for father. Doctor strongly recommends presence."

"Home Service, Natl. Hqs. Re. Seaman William Green, USS Arkansas. Mother requesting emergency leave above serviceman and brother Joseph, on same ship. Brother Raymond killed in action Korea. Body arriving Friday. Funeral Friday if possible. Reply if leave granted."

"Field Director, Travis Air Force Base, Cal. Re Pfc. Luther Banks Request health and welfare report. Family hasn't heard from serviceman for three months. Mother ill, worries constantly."

From the thousands of chapters in all parts of the country and the hundreds of field stations at military posts the messages come and go, heavy with the urgency of people in trouble.

With 3 1/2 million men and women in the armed forces, virtually every family in the United States has at least one relative in uniform. Since the Red Cross provides the emergency communication link between field personnel at military posts and hospitals in this country and overseas and Red Cross chapters in local communities. Helping to speed a large proportion of them on their way is the organization's telecommunications system, one of the largest privately leased systems in the country in terms of participants served.

The line is busy: Far end of the Red Cross communications network is in Korea. Here a field director hands a Canadian army teletype operator an emergency welfare radiogram for transmission to a serviceman's family back in the United States.

In a recent month 204,000 communications were exchanged between field personnel at military posts and hospitals in this country and overseas and Red Cross chapters in local communities. Helping to speed a large proportion of them on their way is the organization's telecommunications system, one of the largest privately leased systems in the country in terms of participants served.

Today the system is handling more than 110,000 messages a month. Approximately 95 per cent are welfare communications involving the armed forces. Monthly traffic just before Korea was only 29,000 messages a month.

The Washington center is the busiest, principally because all messages involving servicemen abroad funnel through it. Over its eight trunk lines to other main terminals and its 19 local lines, pass 6,000 messages a day. Three circuits connect with the main Signal Service center in the Pentagon for speedy transmission to overseas points. The trunks connect directly with San Francisco, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, New York, Norfolk and Atlanta.

Time and economy are the system's watchwords, but there is constant awareness, too, of the personal urgency and need punched out of the ticking machines with the streaming tape. But there is a bright side, too. A good big chunk of the news is good. Like this message for a field director in Japan:

"Re Sgt. James T. Morton. Hospital authorities report wife delivered boy May 31. Mother and baby fine. Going home June 7."

And there is an occasional touch of humor. A sergeant at a western post asked for an emergency leave on the basis of a wire from his sister which read, "Aunt Nellie died today. Come at once."

The Red Cross check-up reply caused many a smile as it sped through the system. "Retel" Sgt. ... it read. "Aunt Nellie is family cow. Killed on highway by truck. No need serviceman's presence. She's already butchered and stored food locker. Sister apologizes."

HAS SURGERY
H. S. Merrell, 609 North Main Street, who underwent surgery last week in the M&S Hospital, Bonham, is reported doing as well as could be expected. With Merrell in Bonham are his wife and an aunt, Mrs. Ada Thrasher of Sulphur Springs.
