Phillips Petroleum & Oil Corporation of Houston No. 1 Nola Fisher is to be drilled as a San Andres wildcat in extreme Central-North Andrews County.

Operator staked location for the 5,000-foot test 1,980 feet from south and 600 feet from east lines of section 3, block A-34, psi survey and eight miles northwest of the town of Andrews.

It is one-half mile east of Ralph Lowe No. 1 Home State. Ellenburger failure which had shows of oil in the San Andres.

Discovery Stepout To Start At Once In Andrews Sector

One-half mile northwest of Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-OC Texas University, indicated Ellenburger discovery in Northeast Andrews County, now testing to complete, Phillips spotted location for 3-RR Texas University.

Location for the test is 600 feet from south and 2,002 feet from east line of the north half of section 42, block 3, University Lands survey and 10 miles northeast of the town of Andrews.

It is slated for a 14,000-foot bottom.

Superior Completes Ellenburger Test In NE Borden Area

The Superior Oil Company No. 14-388 Jordan, wildcat in Northeast Borden County, has been completed from the Ellenburger for a daily flowing potential of 184.4 barrels of 42.9-gravity oil through an 8 3/4-inch tubing chokes.

Completion was from open-hole pay at 8,421-8,423 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 38-1.

This new oil is one and one-quarter miles southeast of a recently completed Mississippiian wildcat and one-quarter mile northwest of a recently completed Ellenburger discovery which is across the line in Scurry County.

Location is 1,980 feet from west and 680 feet from south lines of section 308, block 97, H&TC survey. Hole is bottomed at 8,432 feet and seven-inch casing is cemented at 8,421 feet.

CSOC Gets Oil Flow From Abo At Stepout To Lovington Field

Cities Service Oil Company No. 1-AE State, on the west side of the proven area in the Lovington-Abo field of Central-East Lea County, New Mexico, flowed 141.6 barrels of oil in two hours from the section at 8,200-8,308 feet in the Abo-Petroleum.

No water was developed. Gravity of the oil was 48.1 degrees. Gas-oil ratio was 532-1. The fluid left in the drill pipe when the tool was closed after a two-hour and 45-minute drillstem test was run and reversed out. It was all oil.

The test gas surfaced in four minutes and oil came to the top in 23 minutes. The oil was flowed to pits to clean for 22 minutes and it was then turned to tanks and made the 141.6-barrel oil flow in two hours.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 1,525 pounds and 2,700 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure after 30 minutes was 2,000 pounds.

The project now is making machinery repairs. When that work is completed it will drill deeper.

Convicts Hold Seven Guards, Release Three

CHESTER, ILL.—(AP)—Three of the 10 guards held hostages in a series of uprisings at Menard State Prison were released Wednesday after a conference between acting Gov. Sherman Dixon and rebellious convicts in the psychiatric division.

None of the three guards had been harmed but all were tired and unshaven. They were released after Dixon agreed to permit newsmen to listen to complaints by the psychiatric convicts.

Still holding out with seven hostages in another section of the prison, the east cell block, were 332 prisoners who launched the rebellion at the prison late Monday.

These inmates tried Wednesday to set fire to a tower manned by guards and state police.

Courthouse Voting Place Is Abandoned

Residents in Voting Precinct 1 were reminded Wednesday that voting in the November 4 general election will be conducted at the Fire Station on North Edwards Street rather than at the courthouse, as previously announced.

Midland County Judge Clifford Keith said the change was made because the Fire Station is more centrally located and has better parking facilities.

CHURCHES TO OPEN, STORES TO CLOSE— State's Most Intense Vote Drive Will Climax Tuesday

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff

Free baby sitters.
Quiet places of prayer for divine guidance in voting.
Free rides to the polling places.
Notary service for the ill who must vote absentee.
"Vote as you please but please vote."
That's the story all over Texas in the most intensive get-out-the-vote drive in the state's history.

Some of it is partisan and well-organized. Backers of Gov. Adlai Stevenson or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower are prodding the qualified to vote—their way.

But much of it is as non-partisan as the Boy Scouts who'll ring door bells and the League of Women Voters and the JayCees, who have a long record of voter-stimulation.

Day Of Prayer
San Angelo set aside Wednesday as a day of prayer for divine guidance in voting.

The First Baptist Church at Waco opens its chapel daily through election eve as a place of prayer and meditation for those looking for divine aid in deciding who to scratch.

Also at Waco, the St. Paul's and St. Alban's Episcopal Churches will combine in divine guidance services on election eve.

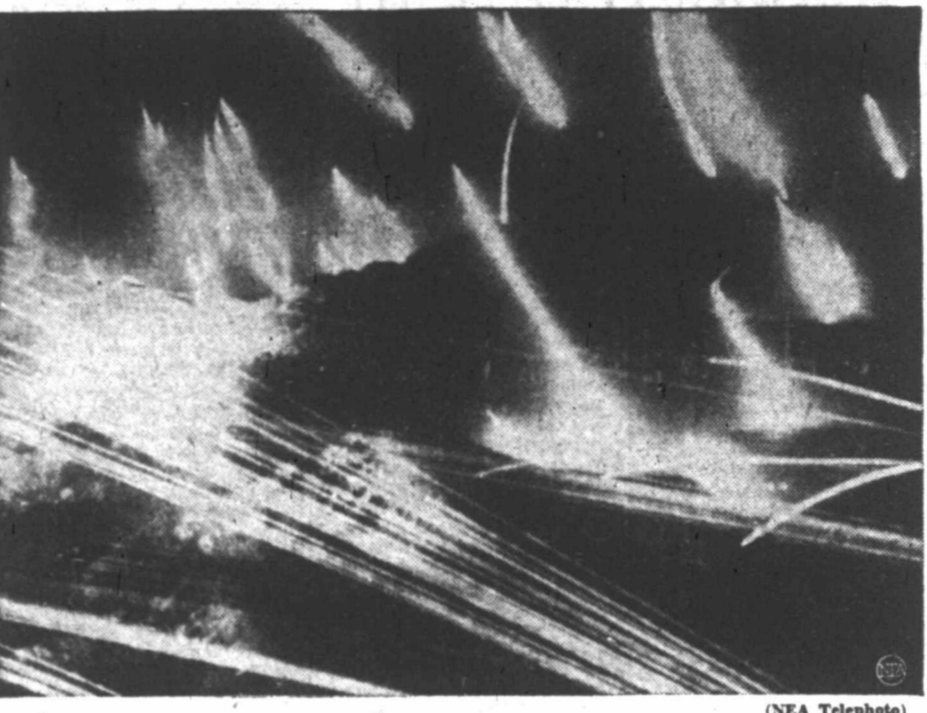

Republicans at Austin are telephoning voters in one precinct offering baby-sitters and free transportation to the polls—plus advice to vote late.

Eisenhower backers at Houston are getting up lists of expectant mothers with babies scheduled for arrival around election day—then reminding them to vote absentee ahead of the stork.

Boy Scouts Active
Everywhere Boy Scouts will remind voters election morning: "The polls are open—vote."

At Sherman, JayCees are offering baby-sitters and automobile dealers are furnishing free transportation to the polls.

Non-political "please vote" reminders are running in daily papers and weeklies all over the state, with radio, television stations and movie houses spotting

Drouth, Cold Grip Texans; Forests Burn

By The Associated Press
The savagery of the state's long drouth grew more intense Wednesday as smoke from crackling forest fires cloaked hundreds of square miles of Southeast Texas.

Biting temperatures which plunged far below freezing at many points in deep East and West Texas added to weather-caused discomfort.

Whipped by north winds, flames ate through more than 3,000 acres of storied piney woods in the Lufkin area. The smoke cut visibility to one-half mile.

There was no rain in the state. At Mount Pleasant in Northeast Texas Wednesday morning, the thermometer dropped to an icy 23 degrees. Albany and Eastland had 25, Bronson and Graham 27, Bridgeport 28, Spur 29, Kaufman 29, Mulhouse 30, Dalhart 31 and Quanah 32. It was warmer in South Texas. Brownsville had a pre-dawn reading of 34 degrees.

Warmer weather was in the forecast for Thursday.

Gasoline-Drenched Woman Burns To Death Near City

Absentees Ballot At 100-A-Day Clip

Absentee voting in Midland County continued its 100-a-day average as Wednesday morning's count placed the potential vote at 1,088.

County Clerk Roselette Cherry said this total represents 692 ballots mailed out and 396 persons who have voted in the office. Tuesday morning's count was 988.

Absentee balloting is to continue through Friday.

In answer to queries concerning veterans' voting, J. M. Speed, county tax assessor-collector, said a veteran is eligible to vote without paying a poll tax or obtaining an exemption certificate if the date of his discharge is not more than 18 months previous to the time of voting. The veteran obtaining a free vote must present his discharge papers when he goes to cast his ballot.

Drouth Cuts County Cotton Crop Yield

Midland County Agent Charles Green estimated Wednesday that the county's cotton crop would yield only 2,500 bales this year, instead of the previously predicted 3,000 bales.

Green said the long, costly drouth has taken its toll, and he believed that as a result the county's dry land acreage, which totals between 6,000 and 8,000 acres, would bring only about 500 bales. He estimated that the irrigated acreage would yield about 2,000 bales.

Only two gins now are operating. Green added—the Farmers Co-op Gin and the Midland Co-op Gin. The Planters Gin, the county agent said, ginned only 22 bales this year then ceased operations.

Through Tuesday, total ginnings were 1,304 bales. Green estimated this to be a little more than half the harvest.

Community Chest Finance Drive Goes 'Over The Top'

Midland's Community Chest finance campaign is "over the top!"

That was the joyful announcement made Wednesday noon at an emergency report meeting, which turned into a Victory Celebration as the "victory is ours" announcement was made.

A total of $72,500 in cash and pledges was reported, the figure being $4,250 in excess of the $68,250 goal.

Victory yells and loud applause shook the rafters of the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church as John Perkins, chairman of the campaign's finance division, announced the drive was "over the top."

"And we still expect to receive numerous contributions which will push the total even further beyond the quota," he said proudly and joyfully.

Don Oliver, a director of Midland's Community Chest, presided at the meeting.

A congratulatory telegram from Joe T. Dickerson, general campaign chairman who is in New York City on a business trip, was read. Dickerson expressed sincere thanks to "all the fine people who have worked hard and diligently to make the campaign a success and to all the loyal Midlanders, who gave to Community Chest."

"Marvelous Victory"

"It is a marvelous victory and one of which all of us may be justly proud," the general chairman stated in his telegram.

Perkins lauded the hundreds of volunteer workers who participated in the campaign, expressing sincere thanks and appreciation in behalf of Community Chest and of the eight youth and welfare organizations financed by the Chest.

P. R. Hargrove, Community Chest president, and other Chest officials, expressed delight at the success of the campaign, which only a week ago was lagging badly.

"Midlanders put the drive over the top in typical Midland fashion," one leader commented.

"Thanks to everyone for their fine support and cooperation."

Illinois, Populous Home Of Democratic Nominee, Definitely In Doubtful Column

CHICAGO—(P)—Illinois, with 27 electoral votes at stake in next Tuesday's presidential election, remains in the doubtful column.

Although Illinois is the home state of Democratic Gov. Adlai Stevenson and delivered him a record 572,000-vote plurality four years ago, it is a good even bet now as to whether he can carry the state against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate.

Eisenhower is given a slight edge in one state-wide newspaper poll and in a survey of newsmen who previously thought Stevenson was ahead. Other observers see the leaning slightly to Stevenson. All are agreed that it probably will be very close.

For Truman In 1948
President Truman garnered the state in 1948, by the slim margin of 33,612 votes of the 4,975,090 cast. It was conceded that Stevenson's overwhelming gubernatorial victory delivered Illinois for Truman.

Democratic national tickets have carried the state since 1932, although a Republican governor was elected in 1940 and 1944. The GOP presidential candidates won Illinois' electoral votes in four contests from 1916 to 1928.

Traditionally, the Illinois electorate is divided into sharply defined party strongholds. Chicago, with approximately one half of the state's population, is Democratic. The rest of the state, with exceptions such as the urban industrial area across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, votes Republican.

The Republicans are basing their predictions of victory for General Eisenhower in Illinois upon the expectation of an unusually large vote in the 101 downstate counties and in the heavily Republican suburban portions of Cook County. Chicago is in Cook County.

Downstate Vote Is Key
President Truman's victory in 1948 might not have materialized had the downstate vote been heavier. He received 54.5 per cent of the 2,232,000 Cook County total. But he got only 45.1 per cent of the comparatively light downstate vote of 1,732,000. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Truman's opponent, received 54.9 per cent of the downstate vote.

Sing In Bathtub, Professor Advises; Read, Relax, Loaf
ATLANTA—(P)—In the interest of the better life, an Emory University medical professor advocates more time for singing in the bathtub.

In an article in the October issue of the Emory University Quarterly, Dr. Herbert E. Alden, assistant professor of clinical medicine wrote:

"We need more time for reading, relaxing and singing in the bath. Present-day bath methods and manners are such as to take us away from the physical and spiritual comforts of the lazy, timeless, restful immersion of our bodies in tubs of warm water."

be considered to be leading if returning from Cook County show him getting 55 per cent of the votes or more. If Eisenhower's tally runs better than 55 per cent downstate, it would appear he would win.

Here's how the straws have been blowing in Illinois as the election nears:

A poll by the Chicago Sun-Times, on the basis of straw vote samplings in 16 downstate counties—including a substantial proportion from Democratic St. Clair County—indicated as Eisenhower lead of 52.57 per cent to Stevenson's 46.43 per cent in results published October 24.

In Cook County, the Sun-Times found, a Chicago lead for Stevenson of 52.31 per cent was offset by a 64.50 per cent preference for Eisenhower in the suburban Cook County area. Republican leaders say the suburbs will account for a larger proportion of the Cook County vote this year than ever before.

Registrations Increase
Substantial increases in voter registrations have been reported in both Chicago and the rest of the state.

In mid-October, a county-by-county survey of vote prospects was made by The Associated Press among member newspapers and election correspondents in Illinois. The editors, gauging only their home territories, supplied estimates which pointed toward a slim Eisenhower majority in Illinois.

This represented a reversal in that the same newsmen, in another AP survey late in August, thought Stevenson was ahead.

Jacob M. Arvey, Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, says Stevenson will carry the state by "100,000 or more." C. Wayland Brooks, one of Illinois' two GOP national committeemen, says the state will give Eisenhower "at least 150,000" plurality.

Eisenhower's Illinois fortunes may be closely linked with those of the GOP state ticket, which is headed by State Treasurer William G. Stratton, 38, the candidate for governor, whose vote-getting record is impressive.

When Governor Stevenson stepped out of the role of state Democratic ticket leader, his place was taken by Lt. Gov. Sherwood Dixon, 56-year-old, slow-speaking downstate lawyer with little campaigning experience.

Superforts Plaster Red Headquarters

TOKYO—(P)—Ten B-29 Superforts of the Far East Air Force early Wednesday dropped 80 tons of 500-pound bombs on a high Communist military headquarters near Sopo on the outskirts of Pyongyang, the North Korean Red capital.

It was the first Superfort raid on the headquarters. Pilots reported light anti-aircraft fire but no opposition from Red fighter planes.

Lt. James N. Cathay of Lubbock, Texas, a bombardier, said of the attack on the 54-acre target:

"I was able to see clearly the impact of my 500-pounders. The aircraft ahead of us had started a fire. Our bombs caused another secondary explosion, with a deep orange color."

Old Kentucky Spellbinder Takes Over Top Billing In Texas Political Circus

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff

The old Kentucky spellbinder — Vice President Alben Barkley — took top billing Wednesday in Texas' continuing political extravaganza with three speeches scheduled in as many towns.

It was six days until 1952's general election day and the day was dominated by Alben Barkley and his Democrats jousting with Republicans for Texas' 24 vital electoral votes.

Barkley was to take his appeals for Democratic Presidential Nominee Adlai Stevenson to Dallas, Tyler and Austin in a jam-packed day while speeches by Senator Tom Connally and Attorney General Price Daniel still rang in the ears of speech-smothered Texans.

Says GOP Selfish
Connally — at Abilene Tuesday night — said the "intentions of the Republican Party toward Texas are selfish. They want your votes but are not interested in your welfare."

Daniel — speaking over a state-wide radio hookup from an Austin Democrats-for-Eisenhower rally — replied: "The Truman crowd is playing Texas for a bunch of chumps."

The Republicans, said Connally, "both the Old Guard orators and their Charlie McCarlys, are making more campaign promises than they'll be able to keep."

And said Daniel, "The National Democratic Party of your forefathers and my forefathers does not exist any more. All that is left is the name."

Daniel Beat Steady
Daniel kept up his steady beat for state ownership of the Tidelands, lambasted what he called "Truman crookedness, and chided former Attorney General William McCraw of Dallas.

"William McCraw is so imbued with the political defense of those who are trying to take away our Tidelands," Daniel said, "that he has completely reversed his own position as attorney general of Texas in 1938."

Daniel quoted McCraw as saying then that the Tidelands' worth could run easily into hundreds of millions of dollars. Now, Daniel said, Mc-

Craw finds the Tidelands of "little value."

Connally in his Abilene speech heaped ridicule on the Republicans and the Democrats who bolted to back Dwight Eisenhower for President.

"Anything you want—or they think you want—they will be glad to promise," the Senator said. "How foolish do they think the American people are?"

'Same Old Line'
"This is the same line they fed you once before. Remember the promises in 1928; remember how there were going to be two chickens in every pot and two cars in every garage?"

"Of course you remember. And you remember, too, how the Republicans made good on their promises. Oh, boy, they really delivered. There weren't any chickens. There weren't any cars, and the housing shortage got so bad that people had to move into the empty garages."

As Barkley's visit to Texas approached, there were these other developments:

1. President Truman, speaking at Hibbing, Minn., touched on the Tidelands controversy with these words: "The oil millionaires expect to get something. First, they expect to get control of the immensely rich offshore oil reserves that are owned by all the people of the United States, including all of you people in this audience. On that question, the Republican candidate has already committed himself."

Truman On Tidelands
"Under pressure from the oil lobby, he has promised to sign a bill giving to three states (Texas, Louisiana, and California) the oil lands that the Supreme Court has said belong to everybody in the United States, including the people of Minnesota. That transaction would make teapot dome look like chicken feed. And he didn't even consult you folks who own the property."

2. Former Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith said he would make a state-wide radio speech at 7 p.m. Wednesday on the Texas State Network in behalf of the Eisenhower-for-President campaign. The speech by Smith—lieutenant governor from

All Refined Products
The line will carry all grades of refined petroleum products, liquefied petroleum gases, and natural gasoline.

Feeder lines will bring petroleum to Port Neches from Texas City, Houston, Beaumont, Port Arthur and Lake Charles. The line and its delivery branches will touch Shreveport, La., El Dorado, Pine Bluff and Helena, Ark.; Memphis, Tenn.; Jackson, Miss.; Nashville, Tenn.; Lexington, Ky.; Cincinnati, Dayton and Columbus, Ohio; Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, Pa., and Newark.

A delivery lateral line will run from Jackson to Paducah, Ky. The tax certificate replaces a previous certificate issued for a $63,000 project in April. This was withdrawn by the company when it enlarged the project.

The pipe line was among 89 defense plant expansion projects approved for federal tax assistance in the last week.

Their combined value, $214,198,707, brought to $23,155,026,000 the total of projects approved for tax benefits to date.

1943 to 1947. Are the True Democrats in Texas?

Franklin D. Roosevelt Administration, revealed that he is contributing to both the Democratic and Republican Parties. "Because of my Washington service said Jones, first administrator for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, 'I have friends in both parties and believe it is desirable that both parties have an opportunity to present their cases to the people.'"

News Writes Letter
4. The Dallas News, in a front-page letter to Speaker Sam Rayburn, Senator Lyndon Johnson, and former Attorney General William McCraw, demanded that the Democratic presidential nominee disprove charges made Monday by Senator Joseph McCarthy. The News, supporter of Eisenhower throughout the campaign, said:

"It is not charged that Gov. Stevenson is a Communist x x x that he prefers or supports communism. It is charged that he has not shown in the past, and does not now show, a suitable awareness of the importance of looking into the record of those whom he selects for important service."

"These charges are true—or they are untrue. If true, they are serious enough to warrant the withdrawal of Adlai Stevenson from the presidential race. x x x"

JUDGE PROVES KIND HEARTED
SEATTLE—Superior Judge Henry Claw Agnew decided Tuesday that Algie E. Hendley, 47, couldn't have an annulment for his 1947 Mexican marriage to his wife Dorothy, 45, but he gave him a divorce instead.

The judge said he could grant the divorce on basis of Hendley's testimony that Mrs. Hendley once had refused to let him have his false teeth.

Czech Girl Sent Back To Red-Ruled Country By Court
OXFORD, ENGLAND—A British court has turned a deaf ear to the sobbing 19-year-old daughter of a former Czech millionaire who pleaded not to be sent back to her Communist-ruled homeland.

Tearful Hildegard Dorschner was hailed up Tuesday for failing to renew her entry permit. Her Attorney, Gordon Franklin, pleaded: "Consider your own children if they were sent to a place like Czechoslovakia." He said her father had escaped to West Germany and now was living penniless, in Düsseldorf.

The magistrates sentenced her to a week in prison and recommended she be deported to Czechoslovakia. She had escaped from there some time ago.

Adlai Supporters Heckle Newspaper
NEW YORK—The New York Times said Wednesday it has received in the last four days 2,917 letters and telegrams asking it to switch its support from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

The Times said that in the same period it received 266 messages favoring the paper's stand for Eisenhower, the Republican presidential nominee.

Texas Couple, Airman Face Prison Terms For Kidnaping

LUBBOCK—A 23-year-old woman who kidnaped a three-year-old boy because she couldn't have children of her own will serve five years in prison.

Mrs. Fred Elrod of Levelland, her husband, and a serviceman friend of the couple were sentenced in federal court here Tuesday after pleading guilty to kidnaping Johnny Wade from his Astec, N. M., home last May 5.

Elrod was levied a three-year prison term and the serviceman sentenced to a year and a day.

Little Johnny was found in the Elrod apartment in Levelland, 27 miles west of here, last June 26 after an aunt of the boy posed as a census taker to get a look at a child the Elrods called their own. Mrs. Elrod testified during a three-hour hearing Tuesday that she and Airman Darrel Payne, 17, from Amarillo Air Force Base, took Johnny while her husband waited in the car.

Johnny disappeared from in front of the home of the Rev. and Mrs. Anthem Wade, just after he and his mother had returned from a meeting in a nearby church, where his father was pastor.

The Elrods testified that they, accompanied by Payne, had been to Tucson, Ariz., looking for a job and stopped in Astec on their way back to Levelland. They had seen the boy playing in front of the Wade home earlier in the day.

The wife said taking the boy was her idea "because I've always wanted a baby and couldn't have any of my own."

Treated Child Well
She said she took good care of Johnny and "treated him like I was his mother."

She said they did not learn the boy's name until they were returning to Levelland by way of Santa Fe, N. M.

In Levelland, the Elrods said, the boy was renamed Bobby Dean Elrod.

His true identity was discovered when an aunt, Mrs. Jim Wiman of Levelland, heard that Bobby Dean Elrod had an allergic condition similar to that of Johnny Wade. She went to the Elrod apartment posing as a church census enumerator. While there she got a glimpse of the boy.

Immediately after leaving the apartment she went to officers and told them she had found Johnny. The Elrods and Payne had been in jail here since shortly after they were arrested.

DPA Okays $140,000,000 Texas-East Coast Pipe Line

WASHINGTON—A $140,000,000 pipe line which will carry petroleum from Texas to the East was approved Tuesday for federal tax aid as a defense project.

"A certificate of necessity" has been issued, to the United States Pipeline Company of New York for the 2,100-mile project, the Defense Production Administration (DPA) announced Tuesday.

The line will run from Port Neches, Texas, to Newark, N. J., Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and other industrial centers.

The line will cost almost as much as the combined outlays for the "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" pipe lines which the government built during World War II for $146,000,000.

Construction, now starting, will be completed by Sept. 1, 1955, a DPA spokesman said.

The company estimates its outlay for the line, pumping stations, power lines, electrical equipment and right of way at $137,111,000 and for storage facilities on route at $2,610,000.

DPA authorized the firm to write off in five years, in depreciation for federal tax purposes, 25 per cent of the cost of ground and pipe line and 40 per cent of the outlay for storage tanks.

All Refined Products
The line will carry all grades of refined petroleum products, liquefied petroleum gases, and natural gasoline.

Dixie Democratic Chiefs Fall Into Line With Adlai

ATLANTA—(P)—Dixie's top Democrats have closed ranks increasingly behind Gov. Adlai Stevenson in the closing days of the bitter 1952 presidential campaign. Despite some conspicuous defections which could cost Stevenson some of the Solid South electoral votes, an Associated Press survey Wednesday showed more than 80 percent of this section's governors, U. S. senators and congressmen on record for Stevenson—with a majority of these active in some way, in behalf of the party's standard-bearer.

Dismissing Democrats and unprecipitantly active and hopeful Republicans, however, point to bolts by a few prominent figures and inst that much of the support for the Democratic nominee actually is "for the record" to preserve claim to the party regularly which almost always has been vital to political advancement in the South. These supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, argue that many top-bracket Democratic officials are giving only token aid to Stevenson or are actually "sitting on their hands" although planning to vote Democratic.

Three Governors Rebel This, the Ike supporters reason, will be accepted by many normally Democratic voters and lesser office-holders as meaning that a vote for Ike won't actually be viewed this time as a vote for the Republicans. Govs. Allan Shivers of Texas, Robert Kennon of Louisiana and James Byrnes of South Carolina have thrown their active support to Eisenhower, raising rosy Republican hopes that part or all of the three states' 42 electoral votes will go to Ike.

Senator Harry F. Byrd, a powerful figure in Virginia, has repudiated the party's nominee but did not say he would follow through by voting for Eisenhower.

But eight of the other nine governors in the South are active in Stevenson's behalf—and the other, Herman Talmadge of Georgia, says he'll vote for Stevenson "reluctantly." And all the other 25 Southern senators either are campaigning for the Illinois governor, are raising funds for his campaign or, at least, have said they'd vote for him.

State and party officials in Alabama, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kentucky are solidly for Stevenson. And all are engaged in an active campaign in his behalf.

Florida is in almost the same category except that Senators Spessard Holland and George Smathers are not campaigning. Florida generally is rated with South Carolina, Louisiana and Texas among the Southern states where Ike's chances are brightest.

In North Carolina, the only "coolness" toward the national ticket is reported from Senator Smith and Rep. Graham Barden. But they are urging voters to vote a Democratic ticket from "constable to President." Elsewhere, the picture varies somewhat.

Four of Texas' most prominent members of Congress, Senators Tom Connally and Lyndon Johnson, and Reps. Sam Rayburn and Wright Patman, head the Stevenson campaign in that state.

In addition to Governor Shivers, Attorney General Price Daniel, unopposed candidate to succeed Connally; State Democratic Chairman Wallace Savage, and virtually the entire State Executive Committee are active in support of Eisenhower.

Sparkman Brands Ike Talks 'Baloney'

PORTLAND, ORE.—Senator John J. Sparkman of Alabama, disregarding a recent attack of laryngitis, reeled off six speeches in Oregon and Washington Tuesday and headed Wednesday for two more in Montana.

The Democratic nominee for vice president, warming up to his task in this final week of campaigning, went after Republican nominees Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Senator Richard Nixon personally in his Oregon talks.

He made five in that state, and in the most important—given at a Democratic rally that drew an estimated 1,000 in Portland—he accused the general of delivering "the biggest piece of political baloney waded before the voters in this campaign."

That was in reference to the general's stand on electric power developments in the Pacific Northwest. He told the crowd the general was trying to appear as favoring big public power projects, but in reality was siding with private utility interests.

In another talk—in the same Jewish synagogue building where Nixon, his Republican counterpart, spoke last month—he derided Nixon's stand on relations with minority groups.

Sparkman said he had voted against the McCarran Immigration Act, but that Nixon had voted for it. He said the bill was a slap in the face for immigrants and minority groups.

"Never at any time did he (Nixon) say one word about the need for modification which he has discussed so eloquently in recent days," Sparkman added.

In still another speech he characterized Nixon as a man "young in years, but in ideas older than Senator Taft himself."

Tax Attorney Says Federal Laws Grow, Change Constantly

"Federal income tax law is constantly growing and changing, not fixed and immutable," emphasized Richard S. Brooks, Midland tax attorney, Tuesday night at the Randal Hill Country Club. He spoke before the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Brooks outlined the technical aspects of the treatment of oil and gas income under the federal tax laws. He analyzed old and new court cases which had a bearing on the present methods of taxation. Featured in his talk was the place of real estate laws in determining how oil and gas income is recognized in different states.

He told the group that in some states, oil and gas are considered to be real estate, subject to transfer in the usual manner. But in other states, only the right to capture or recover the mineral wealth is present, with real estate laws not in the picture.

Neil J. Hilliard, Big Spring, president of the Permian Basin chapter, introduced the speaker. Next Tuesday Thomas W. Leland, College Station, Secretary-Treasurer of the Texas Society of CPA's, will address a special meeting of the Permian Basin Chapter.

JayCeos To Hear Political Talks

Platforms of both the Democratic and Republican candidates for president will be discussed at a meeting of the Midland JayCeos at 6 p.m. Thursday in the Cowden Junior High School cafeteria.

Bill Taylor will represent the Democratic Party, and Bob Jennings the Republican Party, in the discussions.

J. P. Marchioni, president, urged JayCeos to attend and "listen to both sides, and make up your own mind."

Grand Jury Says Kentucky Police Beat, Kill Soldiers

HOPKINSVILLE, KY.—(P)—Representatives from Hopkinsville and Ft. Campbell met Tuesday to study a federal grand jury report which said soldiers from the fort had been "brutally beaten or killed" by policemen here.

In a blistering exhortation of vice and law enforcement in Hopkinsville, the jury recommended Tuesday in a report issued at Paducah that all of the more than 25,000 Ft. Campbell personnel be barred from this city until the commissioner of safety and certain policemen are removed.

Mayor A. S. Koon said he doubted there was any more vice in Hopkinsville than other towns and added the city would act in case of law violations that come to the officials' attention.

The grand jury report said, "It is apparent that the Hopkinsville police department and the commissioner of safety have accepted bribes and payoffs."

Safety Commissioner Joe Davis denied "everything in the grand jury report" and added that he would not resign.

Police Chief James Greenfield Tuesday night labeled the report "the biggest lie I've ever heard." He added that his attorneys will take "proper steps, probably Thursday" in answer to the charges.

The report charged: "There have been at least four instances where soldiers were without provocation brutally beaten or killed by members of the Hopkinsville Police Department."

The grand jury did not identify any soldiers who had been beaten or killed.

Cotton Picker Wage Hike Draws Protests

LAMESA—(P)—Cotton farmers from three West Texas counties voted at a meeting in Lubbock Tuesday night to ask a federal court injunction against higher wages for cotton pickers, a Lamesa man said Wednesday.

Sam Allen, director of the Dawson County Farm Bureau, said 225 farmers from Dawson, Terry and Lynn Counties attended the meeting. Allen said it was called to take action against a recently "imposed" wage increase for cotton pickers.

The new floor for cotton pickers is $2 a hundred pounds in the field, Allen said. Previously farmers had been paying a minimum of $1.55, he said.

Another meeting of farmers was set at Brownfield Wednesday night. Allen said the resolution to seek an injunction in federal court was based on a feeling among the drouth-hit cotton farmers that the new wage was "not fairly or accurately arrived at."

CHINESE NATIONALS, REDS BATTLE AT SEA

HONG KONG—(P)—Reports from Macau Wednesday said 15 small Chinese Nationalist gunboats and three Chinese Communist craft battled for 12 hours in the Pearl River Estuary between here and the Portuguese colony Monday night and Tuesday morning.

The outcome was not known.

Millers Garner Trophies In Hobby Of Building, Flying Model Planes

A father and son team which works together in an unusual hobby to win trophies and awards in Midland and other Texas cities, includes Frank Miller and his son Frank (Bill) Miller, Jr., 804 North Martenfeld Street. The two Millers are builders and fliers of engine-driven model airplanes, which they construct in their spare time at home. Frank Miller has been making the high-flying model airplanes more than 25 years, and his son has been engaged in the hobby three years. Bill, a senior in Midland High School, probably will discontinue his model plane hobby temporarily when he goes to college, but his father will keep it going while he is away. They have traveled more than 1,000 miles attending model airplane meets in Texas cities. Most of their flying is done in the Summer—to take advantage of milder weather for better performance of the tiny planes. The models are built in a workshop at home, and they are tested in flight on Sunday afternoons at Midland Airpark. The hobby is not an expensive one. Labor is the largest investment, because of the many hours of painstaking work required to put one of the planes together. A typical free flight plane may be assembled at a cost of from $10 to $20, and the radio-controlled planes may be built with an expenditure for parts from $40 to $50.

Crack-Ups Salvaged
Frank Miller, Sr., believes the hobby is not as costly as model railroading, skeet shooting, etc. Crack-ups always are salvaged, and the parts saved for use again. He said the radio assemblies in the radio-controlled planes, rarely are damaged when a plane crashes. He and his son make all their own radio equipment for use in the planes.

The free-flight contests are for model airplanes which are started in their flight by miniature engines, and then permitted to continue flying without control. The meets are regulated by the Academy of Model Aeronautics, which also keeps the records on the performance of the planes, and the winners of the contests.

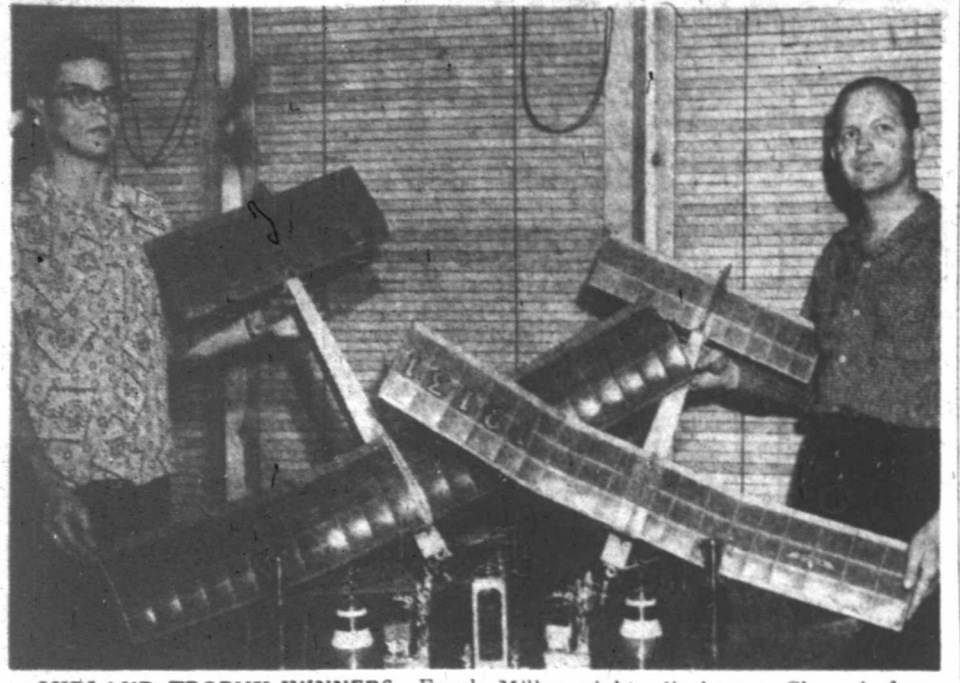

The academy carries insurance covering the activities of the model planes at the meets. Damage to property of spectators is paid for by the academy coverage. One of the fast-moving model airplanes can cause real havoc, as they have been known to shatter a car window on contact.

Simple Engines
The wingspread of the model planes average from three to six feet, although they have been built with wings as long as 17 feet. Planes in Class A must have a minimum weight of 10 ounces, including the engine.

The miniature internal combustion engine used in model planes usually weighs from one ounce to one pound. It is a simple mechanism, consisting of a piston, connecting rod, crankshaft, and rotary valve carburetor. The fuel used is a mixture of alcohol and castor oil, and in the model plane meets the engine is allowed to run only 15 seconds. The planes are hand launched, and a pneumatic control apparatus shuts off the engine to let the plane continue in free flight.

The model plane then glides on thermal air currents, in the same fashion as a bird. It can continue flight up to four hours, but the official judging time at the meets is 10 minutes. Three flights are required out of six attempts in the contests, and the timer judges planes only while they remain in sight. The builder chases them, if lost.

Radio Controls
Miller and his son have one radio-controlled glider which they have flown seven times. It takes about a week to build a free-flight plane, but several months are required to construct a working radio-controlled model. The radio transmitter used to control the flight from the ground can make the plane go through intricate maneuvers, by moving only the rudder.

The radio plane can make turns, loops, spot landings, and almost any complex flight phase that a normal-sized modern airplane goes through.

Frank Miller said the radio-controlled plane can land anywhere the operator wants to place it, and the "spot" landings are a part of the contests for radio-guided planes. Navy pilots act as judges in the radio control flying. They have set rigid standards for the model planes. Contests are divided into three parts: cross-country flights, straight flight, and turns, both left and right. Also included are figure eights, stalls, spirals, dives, and other stunt maneuvers. The pattern of flight is prescribed.

Both members of the father and son team have sizable collections of prizes from model airplane meets. Frank Miller, Sr., placed first, second and third in the San Angelo Radio Control Meet at Goodfellow Air Base in June, 1952. He was able to top all the leading positions in a contest for radio-controlled planes when his entry was the only one able to continue flight.

Contest Winners
Other awards he has won include first place, Class A, free flight, Lamesa, August, 1952; first place, free-for-all contest, Lamesa, August, 1952; first place, Class B, free flight, Midland, August, 1952; second place, Class B, free flight, Lamesa, August, 1952; and second place, Class ABC combined, free flight, Plainview, June, 1952.

Bill is not far behind his father. His greatest achievement was an eighth place in Class one-half A, free flight, in the National Model Airplane Meet held at the Dallas Naval Air Station in July, 1951. It also was the first free flight contest he had entered. Bill competes in a different class from his father, since he still is in high school.

Using the same plane for all three contests, the younger Miller placed first in Class A, free flight, Lubbock, July, 1952; first place in Class A, free flight, Midland, August, 1952; and second place in Class A, free flight, Lamesa, August, 1952. He said the wear and tear on the plane in those contests just about finished it for future flying. Frank Miller and his son Bill recommend the open air model plane hobby to anyone who has the time and patience to participate. But the older Miller says it can become an expensive hobby if one becomes too deeply involved in it. He told of one model plane dealer who assembled a radio-controlled plane at a staggering cost of $2,000.

The liquid steak is made to order for persons with dietary problems or persons having difficulty chewing. It can be drunk either like a cocktail or spooned like soup. Chrysler Models For 1953 Go On Display In Midland

Chrysler models for 1953, featuring entirely new and beautiful body styling with long, low lines, go on display Thursday in the showrooms of the Hargrove Motor Company here. "These cars, we know, will set the new highway fashion for 1953," Chrysler officials said. "The new, sleek bodies in combination with proven engineering advances make these the finest, most luxurious cars ever produced by Chrysler."

The 1953 Chrysler is offered in six models with a total of 20 body styles. The lines are the Windsor, Windsor DeLuxe, New Yorker, New Yorker DeLuxe, all on a 128 1/2 inch wheelbase. Custom Imperial with a wheelbase of 133 1/2 inches. Chrysler for 1953 is offered in 15 solid colors and in seven two-color combinations. Powerful Engines
All 1953 models, except the Windsor and Windsor DeLuxe, are powered by 180 horsepower V-8 high-compression Fire Power engines. The Windsor models are powered by an improved version of the Chrysler six-cylinder Spitfire engine.

The front end styling for the 1953 Chrysler models is designed to retain the established identification. The grilles have been redesigned and refined and the new front end treatment includes new hood top ornaments and new parking light styling. On the sides of the cars long, low lines are achieved by carrying the front fender top line back through the doors and blending it with the rear fender top lines. Driver and passenger visibility has been improved considerably and a feeling of lightness in the top design in the new Chrysler is achieved by the more extensive use of glass, including a new one-piece wrap-around curved windshield. The new Chryslers are one inch lower than the previous models, measuring 62 1/2 inches in height. Despite the lower over-all height, head room has been slightly increased. The interiors of the new Chryslers are completely new, styled to match the exterior design.

Medical Ethics Code Aids Doctor-Patient Relations

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Few things are so generally misunderstood as medical ethics. Most people who think about this at all have some vague idea that medical ethics is a set of rules established by the medical profession to protect the doctors and confuse the public. Actually, medical ethics is a code of behavior which physicians have developed themselves to improve their dealings with their patients and with other doctors. The origin of this code lies in the famous Oath of Hippocrates which I wish I could quote in full. However, contrary to what many people believe, the code of ethics has been modified repeatedly because of changing conditions of society.

The opening section of the present code of ethics states: "A profession has for its prime object the service it can render to humanity; reward or financial gain should be a subordinate consideration. The practice of medicine is a profession. In choosing this profession an individual assumes an obligation to conduct himself in accord with its ideals." A few points about "ethics" are particularly bothersome to patients. One of these arises when a patient or a patient's family wishes to change physicians. Such a change is at all times the privilege of the patient; the only thing that the patient or the family need to do in order to make a change during the course of an illness is to notify the physician in charge that another physician is to be called in his place. It should be obvious that if this is not done, a great deal of confusion and bad feeling is likely to arise.

A second thing which seems to bother many people is the question of consultation. The code of ethics states that: "In serious illness, especially in doubtful or difficult conditions, the physician should request consultations." This is clear enough, and the patient, too, can ask the attending physician for a consultation by another physician. A final point which comes up occasionally, and which this column has been asked, is whether there is any way by which a patient who feels he has not been properly treated, has been overcharged, or is otherwise dissatisfied, can ask for review of the conduct of the physician.

Complaints Are Reviewed
In a large number of places this now is possible since a goodly number of county and state medical societies have set up committees to hear complaints of this sort. Such committees have accomplished a great deal of good, and I am glad to say that most of them have not had too much to do. Since physicians, like patients, are human beings, and since the human body is a complicated organism, there always will be some unfortunate experiences with medical care and more misunderstandings. However, it seems beyond question that the principles of medical ethics have been enormously helpful to the public welfare and that this code has improved greatly the relationship between the medical profession and the public.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And Lying Down

Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, was lying down and looking up. He was lying on a grassy place with trees all around. Above his head was a blue, blue sky. Mugwump was supposed to be in school. He had been to school that morning. I mean, he had been to the animal-school for the animal-people of the Great Forest. But Mugwump had forgotten and left his lunch at home at the monkey house. The teacher had sent him home to get it.

Mother Ringtail was surprised to see him home at noon. But yes, there was his lunch, all right, all right. It was on the table where Mugwump had left it. "Hurry on back to school, Mugwump, dear," said Mother Ringtail, giving Mugwump the sack full of lunch.

"Sure," said Mugwump, and so down he slid to the ground in a hurry. Away he ran up the Elephant Path until he couldn't see the monkey house any more. Then he stopped, lying on his back in a grassy place. He was lying on a grassy place then—being rather sleepy—Mugwump lay down on his back in the grassy place. It was fun to be lying down and looking up at the blue, blue sky.

It was so much fun that Mugwump went to sleep. He dreamed he was lying on his back in a grassy place between the trees of the Great Forest. He dreamed he was lying down and looking up at a blue, blue sky. He dreamed it was great, great fun to do it, but suddenly—uh-oh.

Mugwump dreamed that if he didn't wake up—if he didn't hurry on back to school—he wouldn't be there for time to leave when all the children went home, and so—Mugwump woke up and hurried to school just in time to leave with all the folks and hurry out and lie down again there in the grassy place to look up again at the blue, blue sky. Happy, happy lazy day.

New Midland-Odessa Route Saves Nine Lives During Year

Nine people are living today somewhere in Midland and Odessa who owe their lives to the installation of a four-lane divided highway between the West Texas cities.

Any one of the group could be your neighbor, the kid down the block, or perhaps a close relative, such as your wife or husband.

Figures released by Capt. Glen Warner, Peccos office of the Texas Highway Patrol, show only three deaths in the first year of operation of the 20-mile stretch of West Highway 80, from Oct. 13, 1951, to Oct. 13, 1952. The comparable period from 1950 to 1951, when a two-lane road lay between the two cities, recorded 12 fatalities in eight accidents.

The difference is nine—individuals who have cheated fate by not becoming a traffic accident death. And the three who were killed in December, 1951, on the four-lane highway all died in a single accident. There have been no deaths on the new road for almost 11 months, a record which holds a promise of greater reductions in fatalities on the divided highway.

Injuries also declined in the comparable period from 39 to 32 in the number of personal injury accidents, and 72 to 46 in the number of persons injured on the four-lane highway as compared to its two-lane predecessor. Thus 26 Midland-

Odessa citizens have escaped being maimed or crippled in auto accidents.

The only increase registered in the statistics was in the number of property auto damage accidents, which climbed from 54 in the 1950-1951 period to 69 in the 1951-1952 records. Captain Warner attributed this to the Financial Responsibility Law, which became effective Jan. 1, 1952. He believes more accidents are reported since inception of the new law.

Captain Warner said, "Before that date I am sure that quite a few property damage accidents were unreported."

No one has died on the divided highway between Midland and Odessa this year. As a basis of comparison, a stretch of highway 1.3 miles long just outside the Odessa city limits, which was a two-lane road until recently, has claimed three lives, all pedestrians, since the beginning of 1952.

That short area of road is east of Odessa in a heavily populated region. Other figures on traffic fatalities this calendar year are one death each on the Andrews Highway and the Garden City Highway, and four fatalities on East Highway 80 in Midland County.

German 'Genius' Has Answer For Most Of World Problems

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

BERLIN—In Berlin such fascinating things happen that it shouldn't surprise me if some man walked up and introduced himself as the person who harnessed the sun. Actually, the man did. Martin Schwartz had none of his trappings with him when he approached me in the Harnack House, once the guest house for famous scientists who came from all over the world to do research work in this capital.

Now, lonely looking Americans sit and try not to make too much noise with their soup in the big dining room, where occasionally the quiet is broken by a German string trio, or in my case, a—"May I join you?" From his dirty white shoes to his horn-rimmed glasses, the young man standing at my table looked the intellectual. I was unprepared for a genius, however. "I was one of those persons who started in the first grade and skipped to the third," he explained. "He was in Harvard by the time he was 15. "Luckily, I was always big for my age," he added. His crew cut, glasses and round face made him look like a fat Russell Nye.

It was in America where Schwartz heard for the first time a man who always had been his "idol"—the German scientist, Dr. Otto Warburg. Power Supply Warburg had won a Nobel prize for his cancer research and was engaged in scientific research to utilize the solar energy as a power supply. "I met him and gave him a few of my ideas on the subject," said the 27-year-old Dr. Schwartz. Then he mentioned next what he had suggested on other occasions to Einstein and I ordered another cup of black coffee. Americans sitting nearby and talking about nothing more weighty than PX prices, turned to stare but the Man who Harnessed the Sun paid no attention.

It was in a Washington laboratory where Schwartz worked out an equation which proved a great step towards man's utilization of solar energy. "James Conant, he's the president down at Harvard," Schwartz said, "was in Washington and visited the lab. He was making a luncheon address. He talks in headlines, you know, and told the group that research as important as atomic energy was going on right here in Washington."

The next day a syndicated columnist had picked up the "lead" from Conant and written about the "Man who Harnessed the Sun" hailing his equation as of more value than the atomic bomb. "His column is run always right next to the funnies," Schwartz added.

For the next two weeks, the young reporter in the country "away from reporters." "It's simple." Last month, he came to Germany and began work with Dr. Warburg on making it possible and practical to utilize the sun's energy. "It's simple," he said, explaining it mathematically. As I get it, however, (and I don't really get it) the sun shines on plants and produces a sugary substance in them. Sugar supplies energy. As when we eat a bar of candy. This energy could be utilized to drive automobiles, airplanes—anything.

"After all, our supply of coal and oil is not infinite," he says. Although it was late, he then showed me the famed Kaiser-Wilhelm Institute the three-story building where he and Dr. Warburg work alone 10 hours a day on harnessing the sun. "I would take you in and show you the lab and my apartment, but Dr. Warburg has said, 'No Women' to me." Inside the large institute, I could see electric lights blazing down on plants, where experiments were made on how much light is needed to produce how much energy. It looked like a scene from a Grade B Hollywood science picture. "It's wonderful!" the young man exclaimed. "I have nothing to think about but my work."

Asked if he ever became bored, he replied: "I have known loneliness—but never boredom." Works Hard—Likes It "I work hard," he said, "because I like it. For no other reason." He lives in the institute, gets up at six, has breakfast at the nearby Harnack House, and starts "thinking" by 8 a.m. He thinks until 8 p.m. where he again goes to the Harnack House for dinner.

"The routine will be good for me," he said. "Before I used to work 48 hours at a stretch, and then sleep for three days."

Sometimes, between mathematical problems, Schwartz has time to think about related subjects to man. "I was sitting in the lab thinking," he recalled, "and it came to me that whatever scientists discover, it is always reasonable. It is there and it is reasonable. We just have to find it."

He thinks the purpose of life is "to come to know one's self." In philosophy, there can be no greatness in any field, literature, art or science, unless the person himself is great.

"Greatness," he terms as the ability to be kind to "little people." Writers such as T. S. Eliot and Tennessee Williams reach truths, he says, but they somehow are snuffing at people. "They reach truth—but not compassion," he says. Charlie Chaplin, he says, is great because he never forgot the "little man."

Turns To Politics Turning to politics, Dr. Schwartz said he thought America's trying to turn the other cheek to prevent war was a good idea. He respects Dean Acheson and the State Department's foreign policy. "I came to this by reading Gandhi," he said.

He then related that once the Mahatma was beaten by two hoodlums, his son came to him and asked his father what he would have wanted him to do, if he had been present when the beating occurred. "Should I have just stood idly by?" the son asked. "No, you should have fought them off," Schwartz said Gandhi answered. Then he quoted him as saying: "A weaker person has to fight. The only time you can afford not to fight is when you are stronger than the other person."

"We are stronger than Russia—and we don't have to fight," he said. College diplomas or "sheepskins," often actually are printed on sheepskin.
