Permian Basin OIL & GAS LOG

James C. Watson
oil editor

Roden, Et Al, To Finish Flowing- Borden Opener

Bill Roden and associates No. 1-Below, Northeast Borden County, Midland had leveled off to flow an average of six barrels of oil per hour from perforated section at 8,300-84 feet in a lime thought to be the Ellenburger.

It was showing no water. The producing zone had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid.

Operators are preparing to take potential test and complete the discovery.

It is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from north lines of section 37, block 30, T-4-N, T&P survey. That makes it four miles west of the Fluvanna (Mississippian) field and five miles west of the town of Fluvanna.

The wildcat is bottomed at 8,368 feet. The 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Offset To Discovery Terry Gets Reef Top 24 Feet High

Fullerton Oil Company and Standard Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Taylor, one location south of Fullerton No. 1 Borna, the discovery well of the StateX (Pennsylvanian) field in South-Central Terry County topped the Pennsylvanian reef lime 24 feet high to the top of that zone in the field opener.

The reef top in No. 1 Taylor is at 9,930 feet, which is on a datum of minus 6,632 feet. The project drilled to 10,023 feet and lost circulation at that point.

As last report operators were mixing mud to restore circulation. When that is accomplished it is planned to deepen to approximately 10,033 feet.

Then electric logs will be run, casing will be set on bottom and perforated opposite the pay already drilled and the confirmation project will be tested and completed.

It has been observed that No. 1 Taylor has given good indications of missing an oil well.

The location is 600 feet from north and west lines of section 120, block T, D&W survey. It is six miles south and slightly west of the town of Brownfield.

Cities Service Gets Pennsylvanian Oil In Crockett DST

Cities Service Oil Company and others have indicated Pennsylvanian production at its No. 1-B Hobbs, West-Central Crockett County wildcat.

The venture flowed oil on a drill-stem test in the Pennsylvanian from 5,872 to 5,930 feet. Tool was open six hours and 15 minutes. It produced gas in two minutes at the rate of 4,280,000 cubic feet per day.

Mud surfaced in eight minutes and clean oil in 30 minutes. It flowed 93.4 barrels of 46.4-gravity oil in five hours and 45 minutes. There was no water. Open flowing bottom-hole pressure was between 180 and 210 pounds.

At latest report, operators were pulling test tool. Top of the Pennsylvanian has not been reported.

Location is 2,068 feet from north and 665 feet from west lines of section 7, block GG, G&S survey and one mile west of the Clara Couch field which produces from the Wolfcamp. It also is two miles southwest of the shallow Olson field.

Magnolia Finals Two Spraberry Wells In Midland

Magnolia Petroleum Company has completed two new producers in the Spraberry Trend areas of West Midland County.

The Fox-Harvey field about 16 miles southeast of the city of Midland, Magnolia No. 2-A A. L. Judkins potential for a 24-hour flow of 283.56 barrels of 37.5 gravity oil plus three per cent water.

The completion test was flowing through a 24.64th inch tubing choke. Flowing tubing pressure was from 150 pounds to 210 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was 655-1.

Hole Was Fractured

Top of the pay is at 7,941 feet. The 5 1/2-inch casing is cemented at 7,941 feet. Total depth is at 7,231 feet. The open hole had been fractured with 14,000 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from south.

City Greet Embryo Year With Reserve

Midland moved quietly and safely into the New Year Thursday.

Even the traditional New Year's Eve celebrations were restrained and police reported only two drunks were picked up during the entire day.

One man was burned Wednesday afternoon in a fire at his home, but otherwise Midland moved from 1952 to 1953 without a scratch.

Joe C. Wilson, an employee of the Magnolia Oil Company, was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital for burns on his face and hands after some gasoline caught fire in the kitchen of his home at 114 East Parker Street.

The skies were fair Thursday morning but a cold front, with higher winds, up to 40 miles an hour, was expected to reach here by early afternoon. Lowest temperature Wednesday night was 39 degrees.

Police said most New Year's Eve parties broke up earlier than usual.

Banks, public offices, stores and other businesses were closed Thursday while most residents stayed at home to rest and listen to the football games in the afternoon.

Solons Wary On A-Secrets

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The new Congress Thursday cast a cool eye toward high-level suggestions from both sides of the Atlantic that the United States should lower its secrecy bars and share again some atomic information with Britain.

Incoming congressmen willing to take a stand in an Associated Press survey lined up almost 2-1 against an open interchange of data with the ally who teamed jointly with the U. S. in developing the first atomic bomb in World War II.

But there was a lively argument on the issue, and many lawmakers said they have not made up their minds.

Favorable replies voiced such views as these: Representative Cooley (D-NC), "Britain is our best ally"; Representative Seely-Brown (R-Conn), "The free world will stand or fall together"; and Representative Hyde (R-Md), "Either we're allies or we're not."

Total Eclipse Due Later In January

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A total eclipse of the moon will occur on January 29 Dr. Everett I. Yowell, professor emeritus of Cincinnati, noted Thursday in his monthly Astronomical Survey.

Dr. Yowell said the totality of eclipse would begin at 5:05 p.m. (CST) and would end at 7:30 p.m.

He said there would be one other eclipse of the moon and three of the sun during 1953.

Area's Oil Industry Scores Successes Despite Barriers

Despite the handicaps imposed on it by an oil workers strike which cut back production for several weeks; a steel workers strike which heavily decreased the already short supply of oil field tubular goods; and a national presidential election which disturbed business of all kinds, the oil industry in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico will have set several major records during 1953 when the full figures are collected, tabulated and analyzed.

Early in December the region had listed 242 discoveries of new oil and/or gas fields, or new pays in already discovered fields.

The West Texas sector of the Permian Basin was credited with

OH BABY, WHATTA HEADACHE!—It's only the beginning, Baby New Year. The headache you have now, after the party welcoming you to the world, is as nothing compared to the headaches Old Man 1952 has bequeathed to you. But you have company in your misery, Baby. All of us on earth will be holding our heads in sympathy, and hoping that you bring with you solutions to all our problems, particularly banishment of the shadow of war. We're pulling for you, Baby, and we wish you well. You look like a nice Baby. We hope you're a truly Happy New Year.

Nation Takes Day Off To See Warriors Of Gridiron Battle For Football Honors

By The Associated Press

Close to half a million fans pour into football stadia from California to Florida Thursday for the New Year's Day assortment of bowl games which millions of others had at their fingertips.

Unrestricted for the occasion, television picture tubes for the first time beamed all four of the major attractions into the nation's parlors, starting at 1 p.m. (CST). It's expected to produce the largest football viewing audience ever.

It should be a whale of a show, too.

Six of the country's top 10 teams are in action and nine all-America players spread their talent through the competing rosters. Odds indicate a series of close contests, with one touchdown deciding the issue in most cases.

Texas, Tennesseans and partisan neighbors gather at Dallas' Cotton Bowl for the 2 p.m. kickoff in a "repeat" classic between the Volunteers and the Longhorns. The Texas club is granted a one-and-a-half point edge.

Alabama, a hardened bowl veteran, is the only top heavy favorite, a 13 1/2 point choice over debuting Syracuse, pride of the East, in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

Elsewhere, Southern California is a seven-point choice to break the Big Ten's six-year winning streak in its Rose Bowl battle with Wisconsin at Pasadena. Georgia Tech, winner of 11 straight games this year, is conceded a similar edge over Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl. Here's the major bowl lineup:

Rose Bowl, Pasadena—Southern

California (9-1) vs. Wisconsin (6-2-1).

Sugar Bowl, New Orleans—Georgia Tech (11-0) vs. Mississippi (8-0-2).

Cotton Bowl, Dallas—Tennessee (8-1-1) vs. Texas (8-2).

Orange Bowl, Miami—Alabama (9-2) vs. Syracuse (7-2).

There are four other bowl conflicts, including a battle between Tulsa and Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, expected to draw 37,000.

The Salad Bowl at Phoenix has two service elevens, San Diego Navy and 101st Airborne Division; the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas, pits Mississippi Southern and College of the Pacific. The Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., matches East Texas State and Tennessee Tech.

In all, an estimated 406,000 was expected to pay $1,800,000 for Thursday's entertainment. The teams collect additional thousands from TV and radio receipts.

Injury lists, which plagued many of the teams in practice, have dwindled, and most of the competitors will be at full strength. Good weather is expected everywhere except New Orleans, where rain threatened.

Jimmy Sears, Southern Cal's 60-minute backfield ace, heads a glamorous list of performing all-Americans which also includes Tom Stohlhandke of Texas, end; Elmer Gilbert of Mississippi, tackle; Dave Suminski of Wisconsin, tackle; John Michels of Tennessee, guard; Peter Brown, center; and Bobby Moorhead, linebacker, of Georgia Tech; Marvin Matuszak of Tulsa, guard, and Charles Laprad of Florida, tackle.

Winds To Welcome Fans At Bowl Games

By The Associated Press

The only weather threat to New Year's Day football bowl games was gusty winds.

A new cold front which swept across El Paso and Far West Texas Wednesday night proved moistureless. Gusty up to 55 miles an hour hit El Paso and promised to give passers in the Sun Bowl game some tricky conditions.

Skies were mostly clear over the rest of the state and temperatures nippy.

30 Die, 200 Hurt In Chilean Blast

VALPARISO—(AP)—An explosion in an oxygen tank factory rocked this Chilean seaport Thursday and initial police reports indicated about 30 persons were killed.

More than 200 were said to have been injured.

Traffic Death Count Pushes Nearer Crest

By The Associated Press

New Year's Day brought death on the highway to a growing list of Texans.

By mid-morning, the first day of 1953 had added seven names to The Associated Press compilation of holiday-season traffic accidents/deaths.

This brought to 149 the number of violent deaths in Texas since the 10-day holiday period began at midnight December 23. Of these 87 were traffic fatalities. Many of the others were murders and suicides.

A two-car collision northeast of Cibolo in Guadalupe County Thursday morning killed five persons—three servicemen and two women.

Tragically high as the Texas violent death toll was, it still had not measured up to the official expectations.

The latest reported deaths included:

A young man identified as Joe Campbell, about 23, Dallas finance company employee, whose gasoline drenched body was found Wednesday night in a flaming auto on a Dallas street. An inquest verdict was delayed pending further investigation.

Two were killed early Wednesday in a two-car collision at Austin. They were John L. Prado, III, 29, and Matis G. Garcia, 41, both of Austin.

E. E. Tucker, 63, Dallas, died Wednesday in a Dallas hospital, apparently of injuries received Christmas Eve in a fight aboard a street car.

Sgt. Cecil Ray McVay, Jr., 27, Marine recruiter stationed at San Antonio, was killed early Thursday when he lost control of his car and crashed in Pleasanton.

Ryan Bibb, young Waco advertising man, was killed when his car overturned near Killen early Thursday. Two passengers, also from Waco, were hurt. The party was returning to Waco from Fort Hood.

Basin Takes Deep Breath, Looks To '53

By COPE ROUGH

The gaiety of New Year's Eve revelers marked the end of an action-packed 12 months in the history of Midland, but the biggest story of the year was written to the staccato pounding of hammers and the steady whine of carpenters' saws.

There were deaths and births; there were murders and rapes; there were heartbreaks and there were a few laughs, and there was honor and dishonor.

But the amazing growth of this headquarters city of the Permian Basin Empire furnished the biggest story of the year.

For when the final permit was issued Wednesday afternoon, it brought the year's total construction to a startling $22,004,250.

The figure compares with the $14,632,301 recorded for 1951 and stands in startling contrast to a three-year period 20 years ago, when only one residential permit was issued and the total permits barely could climb past the $17,000-mark. Residential construction again led the way in the city's building in 1952. Permits were issued for 2,420 living units, as compared to 1,233 in 1951.

There were other big stories, too, in 1952, and they are rated in this order:

TWO—The election which saw Midland County join most of the United States in voting for Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for President.

THREE—The weather which produced only 9.89 inches of moisture during the entire year and left the county and the rest of West Texas gasping still in the throes of a history-making drought.

FOUR—A critical sanitary problem which saw the whole city pitch in to battle the menace of polio, which left one person dead as overburdened sewer lines overflowed raw sewage into streets.

FIVE—And, of course the Midland Indians, who struggled through the season to wind up in third place and then, with Manager Jay Haney patching up an injury-riddled club, spurred ahead to win the Longhorn League championship in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Those were the high points of the year.

But there were a thousand and one other happenings—day by day and hour by hour—which must go.

Midlander Named Vice President Of Airport Executives

Clyde Sharrer, director of aviation for the city of Midland, was elected second vice president of the Texas Airport Executives Association Thursday for a one year term.

In the balloting by mail, West Texas completed a clean sweep of the top posts in the association.

Ed Colby, Lubbock, was named president of the group. Dennis Humphrey, San Angelo, succeeded to the office of first vice president.

Sharrer, contacted at his home, said he was surprised and pleased by the announcement of his election. He referred to the position as a high honor for a member of the aviation industry.

The Texas Airport Executives Association is composed of a membership drawn from the major cities of the state. It is a chapter of the national body, the American Association of Airport Executives.

Midland Teacher Wins Foreign Study Award From Rotary

Pioelle Jones, a teacher in San Jacinto Junior High School here, has been named the winner of a Rotary Foundation Fellowship award to study abroad for one year.

Her selection, as recipient of the award from District 183, Rotary International, was announced Wednesday afternoon by the Sweetwater Rotary Club, which sponsored her.

Under the terms of the award, she will study at a school of her choice and she has indicated the University of London as her first preference.

Miss Jones, whose home is in Sweetwater, where she taught last year, was awarded the honor on the basis of scholastic ratings and other qualifications and recommendations. She won the district contest last year but the district was not granted a scholarship at the time in the national contest.

She is a graduate of Sweetwater High School and the University of Texas, where she won high honors. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Jones of Sweetwater.

She will leave for her studies abroad late next summer.

Tax Refunds Get Speed-Up

WASHINGTON — (AP) — "Refund" written on the outside of an income tax return envelope will get quick attention for a taxpayer who figures he's got money coming from Uncle Sam.

The Internal Revenue Bureau which announced the plan Wednesday, picked up the idea from its Indianapolis office and is suggesting it to income tax filers everywhere.

Gary Campbell, director of Internal Revenue at Indianapolis, told taxpayers who thought they had refunds coming to use the marking and said the returns so designated "would be examined first."

AMONG MANY OTHER THINGS— Movies In Third Dimension May Give Hollywood Big Year

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — My exclusive prediction of things to come in Hollywood during 1953:

Lana Turner will find a new romance.

Charlie Chaplin will make big news.

Rita Hayworth will have further dealings with Aly Khan.

Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner will have a fight.

Shelly Winters will have a baby.

Of course, these events are more or less inevitable. What Hollywood would really like to know about the New Year is: Will the movie business stay on its feet? I predict that it will.

No, I don't own any movie stock and cannot otherwise be swayed. I simply feel that 1953 will be a good year for Hollywood. One of the main reasons for this belief is the third dimension.

There is nothing new about third-dimensional movies. People have been experimenting with them since the Edison days. But only recently have producers realized the need for a new "industry dynamic."

New Toy, TV

Talkies were an industry dynamic. The movie business was reeling from the effects of radio, public apathy and the depression. Then sound movies opened a whole new prosperity for film makers.

The industry sorely needs such a dynamic now. The new toy, TV, has taken its toll in shuttered theaters. The public is fed up with the same old plots.

So give them something new. Add the dimension of depth to today's flat screens.

Up To Elbows

Hollywood is now up to its elbows in third-dimensional projects. At present, there are two main methods of presentation. One projects the film from three different angles onto a large semi-cylindrical screen. This is the Cinemascope method, which is seen with a person's usual vision.

The other method requires two projectors and special glasses, which provide the same effect as the old-fashioned stereoscope.

Of course, third-dimensional pictures are not the only answer to Hollywood's problem of a decreasing and apathetic audience. The producers also will have to hunt up new and intriguing stars, fresh story material and new approaches to film technique.

Happy hunting, Hollywood.

And a Happy New Year to the readers, too.

Midland Restaurant Owner Recalls Chinese New Year

By SEYMOUR KOPF
Happy New Year! What New Year?

Listen to Joe Chung, the Chinese restaurant owner of 2501 West Wall Street:

"The American New Year isn't the only New Year on earth. There is also the Chinese New Year. That's because the Chinese calendar has about 13 months to it."

Oh, girls! An extra month of Leap Year! Go ahead, Joe. Joe continues:

"I've lived in this country so long, it's hard to remember. But in Old China New Year starts about 4 a. m. in the morning. All debts are supposed to be paid before the year ends."

All debts, Joe? What would the bill collectors do for a living here in America? Continue, Joe:

"The Chinese New Year comes out either in January or February. The celebration lasts as long as 15 days. In Old China, everyone returned home for New Year's—even if they were thousands of miles away. There it is a holiday celebrated in the home. Outside the home, the boys continuously shoot fire-crackers."

A lot of people wished they had stayed at home Wednesday night. But continue, Joe:

"In a Chinese home, rice, vegetables, tea, wine, tangerines, chicken and turkey make up the typical New Year's meal. It is the most important holiday for China. All work stops. In the old, old days, a suitor would visit his girl's house, and place some money beneath her pillow."

"Another old custom is to paste strings of strange-looking characters on front doors. They are supposed to stand for long life, wealth, happiness and good fortune. In old Chinese homes there is a character hanging near the stove. He is feasted with sweets. Then a paper chariot is burned so he will be provided with a carriage, so he may go up to heaven and make his yearly report on the household."

But, says Joe Chung, in the bigger Chinese cities, such as Shanghai, and in American Chinatowns, the Chinese are getting the habit of celebrating New Year's the same time Americans do.

Chung, who last visited China in 1950, says this is even encouraged by the Chinese government.

"The Chinese New Year is becoming another Thanksgiving Day. It is celebrated any day in the month any governor or other authority wants it to be celebrated," Chung pointed out, sorrowfully.

★ JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD ★ 'Seven-Year Itch' Treatment Has 'Doctor' Scratching Head

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Exclusively Yours: Vanessa Brown and Tom Ewell will do the film version of their Broadway comedy hit, "Seven-Year Itch," if producer Alex Gottlieb succeeds in buying the movie rights. But first Gottlieb has to come up with a treatment that will pass the film censors—and that could take seven years.

New Toy, TV

Danny Thomas is kidding about why he has to keep working: "My wife has very expensive tastes. Do we have Persian rugs on the floors at home? No. We have live Persians lying around at $2.88 an hour."

A Magazine's "How I Made a Million" series was New York scribe-brier Jessaya Russell's cue to interview Bing Crosby. But brother-manager Everett nixed the yarn with, "It wouldn't be dignified." Making a million is undignified?

Bette Davis is big news on both coasts. Her Broadway revue, "Two's Company," and her new movie, "The Star," just previewed in Hollywood, are in the cheer league. Spike Jones' money is behind a chain of new super-markets. The first one is in La Crescenta, near Los Angeles. Caesar Lives On Edward G. Robinson, playing a police captain in a new flicker, "Harnessed Bull," is giving the Robinson scowl to the Little Caesar legend. Everyone thinks of Eddie as a pistol-packing mug, see, but he says:

"I've made 70 movies and I've played gangsters in only six of them."

It's the night club and TV impersonators, says Eddie, who have kept Little Caesar alive. "But you know something," he claims, "when I'm asked to do an imitation of myself I can't do it. I have to do an imitation of my imitators."

But even Hollywood refuses to let Little Caesar die. Eddie remembers with a wince: "I played a harmless little fisherman in a movie titled 'Tiger Shark.' You know what the ads read?—'The Little Caesar of the Pacific!'"

"Abbott and Costello Meet Captain Kidd" opened in Chicago to sock business—the film should be their biggest money maker. Gilbert Roland and Dolores del Rio are huddling about a co-starring film to be shot in Mexico City.

Dana Andrews has lined up his second film to follow "The Sea Devil" in Europe and will sink some of his own money into the untitled project, which concerns the first air raids on Berlin during World II. The three Andrews kiddies have been enrolled in a school in Switzerland for the duration of the 18 months that Dana's staked out for himself as a member of Hollywood's Income Tax Exemption Club.

Time's Not Here

Now that Arch Oboler's three-dimensional "Bwana Devil" is a financial hit despite critical walls, it can be told that his last film, the science-fiction "The Twonky," is still on the shelf.

"Distributors say it's not commercial," Arch groaned. "I show it and they say, 'But where's the monster?' I'll just let it sit in the can until time is ripe for it. They said that my early science-fiction yarns for radio weren't commercial but one of them has just had its 200th performance."

Movie censors worried about film titles with too much zip weren't around in 1915 when a big comedy two-reeler howl was: "The Bathing Beauties With the Bears Behind."

"It was no gag about the bears," now-silver-haired Charles Winninger remembered. "The villains were two bears who chased me and eight girls in bathing suits all over Hollywood."

The comedy was Winninger's film debut—he was a vaudeville star then—but "I went back to the stage when a movie director started shooting Roman candles at me."

Michele Morgan and her latest husband, French matinee idol Henri Vidal, have separated in Paris.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — It was a tough fight, but Los Angeles County's marriage license bureau finally managed to get an eyelash decision over the divorce courts.

McCarran Accuses Professor Of Using Communist Idioms

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McCarran (D-Nev) says Harvard Prof. Kirtley F. Mather used "the same phrases" as the Communist Daily Worker in attacking the Internal Security and Immigration Acts.

Mather told the American Association for the Advancement of Science in St. Louis Sunday that the two laws dropped "a red tape curtain" around the country.

McCarran issued a statement Wednesday in which he called Mather's speech a "vicious attack," adding: "I recognized the same catch phrases which have been carried in the Communist Daily Worker attack on these acts."

McCarran, chief Senate sponsor of both acts, which were passed over President Truman's veto, attached to his statement what he said was a House Un-American Activities record of organizations cited as Communist fronts with which Mather was connected at one time or another.

There was no immediate comment from Mather.

Churchill Wishes Other Queen Mary Riders Good Cheer

ABOARD THE LINER QUEEN MARY, AT SEA — (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill took time out Thursday from preparations for his forthcoming talks with President-elect Eisenhower to join fellow passengers in welcoming the New Year.

"I trust we will all have a safe passage to the other side of the world and will strengthen the bonds between England and the great republic of the United States," he told a cheering crowd gathered in the first class lounge of this giant liner.

After the traditional 16 bells were sounded, Churchill wished all the passengers and crew a Happy New Year and joined hands in singing Auld Lang Syne.

Trellis Mae, Wilbur Learn Primary Lesson On Parties

By HAL BOYLE
HOMETOWN, U. S. A.—(P)—Like millions of other average couples who had had the same idea, by 9 p.m. they were bored and restless. Wilbur fell to wondering how quietly at home.

and Homer's wife, Hortense, were celebrating.
Wilbur dialed the McFudges.
"Whatcha doing, Homer?"
"Me and Hortense are spending New Year's Eve sensible."
"Me and Trellis Mae, too," said Wilbur.

County Still Needing $700 In Fight On Tuberculosis

More than $8,500 has been collected from Christmas Seals since November 17 but Midland still is $700 short of its 1952 goal in its drive against tuberculosis, Joe O'Neill, county chairman, announced Wednesday night.
"Our 1952 goal is for $9,500," he said. "In 1951, we collected around $8,300, and we found that was not enough. We feel that $9,500 is a minimum figure we can operate here successfully. Midland is growing, and TB will grow with the city, unfortunately."
O'Neill explained that 82 per cent of money raised from the seals remains here, 12 per cent to the state, and six per cent to the national organization.
The funds remaining in Midland, O'Neill pointed out, go for free chest X-rays, a city-wide educational program, and for tuberculin "patch tests" for school children, which shows whether they have the TB germ. O'Neill said that more than 2,000 children were given this test here during 1952 and that more than 7,000 persons received free X-ray service in the county.
"The 12 per cent that goes to the state," O'Neill showed, "goes chiefly for rehabilitation work, like vocational training. The six per cent to the national organization is chiefly for research."
"The folk who received Christmas Seals and forgot to return payment for them still can send in their money. That way we can meet our quota," O'Neill urged.

Special Services In City Churches Mark New Year

Climaxing New Year's observances in Midland churches, several services were planned for Thursday, following a series of Watch Night programs Wednesday.
Final services scheduled is a Rosary and Benediction service to be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in St. George's Catholic Church. Masses were held at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Thursday in the church, and there was a New Year's Eve service Wednesday night.
Many Midlanders observed New Year's Eve by attending the special services in their churches.
There was a worship service Wednesday night in the Grace Lutheran Church, and the Christian Youth Fellowship held a Watch Night party in the First Christian Church, concluding with a worship service.
Members of the Church of the Nazarene participated in a New Year's Eve service Wednesday night in the Odessa Church of the Nazarene.
The concluding part of the Watch Night program in the First Baptist Church was broadcast over Station KCRS.
Other Watch Night programs were held in the Bible Baptist Church, the Westside Baptist Church, the Bellview Baptist Church and the First Methodist Church.

Midland Rings In New Year

Throngs of Midlanders rang out the old year and greeted the new at a series of private and club-sponsored parties throughout the city Wednesday.
The music of Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra highlighted festivities for the Petroleum Club. Following the dance which was held in the Hotel Scharbauer ballroom, breakfast was served in the clubhouse.
In the Midland Country Club celebrators danced to the music of Jack Free's orchestra. A late supper was served at 1 a.m. to members and their out-of-city guests.
Lee Powers orchestra furnished the music at the Ranchland Hill Country Club dance. Breakfast was served at 1 a.m.
Music for the Midland Officers Club dance was provided by Gordon Sanders Orchestra of Roswell, N. M. Parties welcoming in the new year also were held by the veterans' organizations, such as the American Legion.

Trellis Mae had gone into the bedroom and slammed and locked the door, Wilbur silently stretched out on the broken sofa and wished the morning after would never come.

Midland-Monahans Route Sought By Pioneer Vetoed

A proposal to extend Pioneer Air Lines service from Midland to Monahans has been turned down by a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner. The airline had sought to extend its Dallas-Midland flight on westward.

The examiner did, however, recommend that Pioneer's Abilene-Fort Worth flight stop at Breckenridge instead of Mineral Wells, as it does at the present time.

Pioneer had requested the change because of the condition of the Mineral Wells airport, which made it impossible to land in wet weather. The change must be approved formally by the CAB itself.

Other recommendations announced Wednesday include:

Extension of a Trans-Texas route from San Antonio to Austin.

Service between Shreveport, La., and Tyler by way of Longview with the carrier to be selected in further proceedings.

Requests denied include:

Designation of Coleman, Snyder and Kermit-Wink as stops on regular airline routes.

Ritz Wine Cellar Located In Deluxe Comfort Station

LUBBOCK—(P)—Officers found a bathroom here Wednesday that was equipped with a well-stocked wine cellar.

They charged the occupant of the house with illegal possession of liquor.

The bathroom was normal to all appearances except that it had a radio and a shower stall that didn't look just right. Finally the bootlegger showed officers how to work the gadget.

He turned on the radio, stuck a nail in a hole at the back of the set, and moved it near the shower stall. Slowly the shower floor, operated by a hydraulic lift, sunk into a concrete vault beneath the bathroom.

The vault contained 28 cases of beer, six pints of whisky and eight bottles of wine.

Officers Search For Arsenic In Texas Poisoning Mystery

BEAUMONT—(P)—A coffee pot and some coffee grounds were new clues Thursday in the case of the Beaumont housewife who claims someone has been trying to poison her with arsenic the last two years.

Mrs. David M. Morris, 29, became ill again Wednesday after drinking a cup of coffee at her home.

Earlier Wednesday and Tuesday officers questioned her about reports that she had been given arsenic in her home over a two-year period. They reported no developments.

After Mrs. Morris became ill again Wednesday officers seized the coffee pot and grounds at the Morris home and planned to make a chemical analysis of them. They also took a sheet that was on the bed at the time Mrs. Morris became sick.

Morris, a 35-year-old loan firm operator and rancher, said he had spent $50,000 the last two years on medical treatments for his wife and on private detectives to find the alleged poisoner. He said detectives were unable to solve the mystery.

Officials of St. Mary's Infirmary in Galveston said that Mrs. Morris had been treated there for arsenic poisoning. A specialist in nervous diseases on the staff of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston said tests the past two weeks showed sufficient arsenic in Mrs. Morris' system to be "toxic." She was released from the hospital last week to spend the holidays with relatives in Marksville, La.

He left the house, returned and resumed the argument. She went upstairs, got O'Malley's service revolver, met him on the cellar steps and shot him.

"I just kept on shooting," Neider quoted her.

Four daughters, aged 11, nine, eight and three, were upstairs. Mrs. O'Malley was boked for investigation of murder.

Young Mother Kills Husband After Row Over Chinchillas

SAN FRANCISCO—(P)—A 34-year-old mother of four shot and killed her state highway patrol husband New Year's Eve after an argument over 10 chinchillas she raised in the basement.

Homicide Inspector Al Neider said Mrs. Caroline O'Malley gave this account:

John T. O'Malley, 35, unbraided her for keeping chinchillas that were unfriendly to each other in the same pen. At one point, he shouted: "I'll kill you."

He left the house, returned and resumed the argument. She went upstairs, got O'Malley's service revolver, met him on the cellar steps and shot him.

Electra Man Named Manager Of Andrews County C. Of C.

ELECTRA—Frank Ekins, manager of the Electra Chamber of Commerce since 1951, has resigned to accept the management of the recently organized Andrews County Chamber of Commerce at Andrews. He plans to move to Andrews about January 20.

Ekins is a native of Clay County. He attended North Texas State College at Denton, and served in the Army during World War II.

The Andrews County Chamber of Commerce was organized recently by a large group of businessmen and civic leaders in that fast-developing West Texas county.

Immigration Patrols In Mexico Sharpened

MEXICO CITY — Commanders of frontier Army posts have been told to consider a crackdown on illegal immigration as their primary mission.

Orders were issued Wednesday to increase patrolling activities to keep Mexicans at home in the north and to keep out Guatemalans in the south.

Thousands of Mexicans slip across the U. S.-Mexico border annually to work on farms in Texas and other border states. A smaller number of Guatemalans slip across the Mexican border for harvest work on coffee plantations.

Gotham Bus Strike Catches Celebrants At Holiday's Climax

NEW YORK —(P)—New York City was hit by the biggest bus strike in its history as the whistles and bells ushered in the New Year.

Eight thousand-odd drivers and maintenance men on 125 routes were called out at midnight in a wage-hour dispute.

Michael J. Quill, president of the CIO Transport Workers Union, said the walkout would idle all 3,500 buses of eight privately-owned companies.

These companies carry about 31.2 million fares on a normal business day, in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and the lower part of suburban Westchester County.

The strike affected only a fraction of New York's vast subway-elevated-bus-trolley systems, most of them owned and operated by the city.

The stoppage began on schedule at 12:01 a.m. (EST) as a snow and sleet storm swept the city and kept many merrymakers indoors.

The city had ample warning of the strike, but many New Year's Eve celebrants had a difficult time getting home to areas serviced by the tied-up lines.

Quill, who joined one of the picket lines thrown around company garages, declared "we'll stay out until we win." Shortly after the strike started, he said "everything is going according to schedule."

The companies did not try to run any buses. Roughly 7,000 of those called out on strike are drivers.

Late Talks Fall
City officials had tried — almost up to the strike deadline — to persuade the union to submit the dispute to arbitration or mediation. Contracts between the TWU and eight companies expired at midnight.

The strike's full impact will not be felt until the start of the business week Monday. With Thursday a holiday, and Friday sandwiched in between the holiday and weekend, traffic normally would be relatively light.

Principal issue in the dispute is the TWU's demand for a 40-hour work week on the private lines. The men now work 44 to 48 hours.

Former Indentured Slave, Wife Mark Anniversary, Recall Hard Eras Of Past

OSWELL, OKLA.—(P)—A 102-year-old blind pensioner who once was a white slave sees nothing to fear in the new year.

"God Almighty will take care of us," said Kendrick L. Miller as he and his 92-year-old wife prepared for their seventy-fifth anniversary Thursday. "Life has not been easy, but we're in His hands and there is nothing to fear."

When asked how long he would like to live, Miller, who has not been out of bed in more than a year, said:

"I don't know, maybe to see the end of time."

Solace In Faith
The Millers live in a $15-a-month three-room house in this little Southern Oklahoma town. A devoted son, Wiley Ell Miller, 64, does the chores. The three eat what is grown in a small garden plot back of the house. Their income is Miller's blind pension check and Mrs. Miller's old age pension.

Miller says he lost his eyesight in a rampaging sandstorm 17 years ago. Unable to read and virtually deaf, his only solace is his pipe and his faith.

Mrs. Miller fares better. She manages a little housework each day, listens to an ancient radio and loves to chat with neighbors.

Migrating Family
Miller remembers vividly their marriage. He was a hired hand for a farmer near Centerville, Ark. and his wife was the farmer's daughter, Nancy Adeline Isbell. That was the happiest time of their life. On Sundays, there was church and there was an occasional Saturday night square dance.

Happiness faded fast. Circumstances forced the family to migrate several times. All of the 12 children married and left home, except Wiley. Father, mother and son moved here last October, to be near a doctor.

Slave 20 Years
Miller also remembers his childhood. He was orphaned at eight and "bound out to a farmer who couldn't get enough blacks to work his farm. I had to promise to work for him 20 years before I could be free."

Then came the day when a traveling school teacher told the farmer that "it was not right to work white men that way." Young Miller was taken to Centerville and "let out one winter day without any shoes and just the clothes on my back."

"That's when I went to work for Nancy's father."

Mrs. Miller smiled as if she remembered the day.

O'Brien Marks New Year—Riding Same Old Ferry Boat

HONG KONG—(P)—To Michael Patrick O'Brien the new year brought merely another zig and another zag.

O'Brien, the man without a passport who is stranded on the ferry boat Lee Hong, made his eighty-ninth consecutive round trip to Portuguese Macau.

Insisting he is an American citizen, O'Brien came out of Red China on a set of Red Cross papers in September but neither British authorities in Hong Kong nor officials at Macau recognize them.

U. S. officials say he is a Hungarian. He has been on the ferry since September 18, forbidden by immigration officials to go ashore.

Sewer Line Blasts Set Off Queries

Telephone calls to the Reporter-Telegram Wednesday from women in the Lions Linda district of the city reported "earthquakes of high intensity—shaking houses and rattling dishes."

One "quake" was reported at about 2:30 p.m. and another one at 3:45 p.m. Wednesday.

City engineers cleared up the matter.

The city is blasting rock for a sewer line which runs around the north side of Midland.

The dynamite blasting will continue for several more days, a city spokesman said Thursday.

Ruth McIntire and Lora Hollis of Snyder were in the city Wednesday on business.

'Hate America' Feeling Strong In Red China.

BONN, GERMANY—(AP)—A prominent German businessman who has just come out of Red China says that hatred of Americans is "promoted by the government with such intensity that even children, in kindergarten begin the school day with a hate song."

Its main theme is "Kill the American."

This man, long a representative of American firms, lived in China 48 years.

"Animosity toward the foreigner in general, and the American in particular, is promoted from the top," this observer said. "The American's position in China is similar to that of the Jew in Hitler's Germany. It takes hold especially with the lower classes. I frequently was taken for an American and was spat at and stoned by children of the lower classes.

"Red China has been converted into a country of fear and hatred of Chinese against Chinese too. This was promoted in the various waves of purges. First, popular hatred was inflamed against the bankers. Then the businessmen were seized and forced to inform on others. It became an endless chain of blackmail."

This German said Americans practically had vanished from Shanghai, but some 14 Americans were known to be in jail there and "may never get out, poor fellows."

The Tide Trend

The face of China, especially of Shanghai, has changed under the ruthless force of the Communists. "But most Chinese do not consider Mao Tse-Tung a radical leader and many hope that he may eventually turn out a Tito when China's dependence on Russian economic and military aid can be lessened," this observer commented. "There is no doubt that the Russians are not popular in China. Most Chinese still call the Russians the 'big noses'—a derisive expression."

Midland Puts Colorful Year Behind—

to the writing of Midland's history for the year 1952.
They would read something like this:

JANUARY

Little Terry Wayne Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong, struggled into Midland Memorial Hospital only one hour and 13 minutes behind the New Year to be Midland's first baby of 1952. There was a flurry of snow and of candidates' announcements for county offices. M. C. Ulmer, civic leader and president of The First National Bank, died unexpectedly. Melvin Little took over as chief of the Midland Fire Department, replacing James T. Walker, who had resigned. Horace Busby was named general manager of the Midland Indians, and a flu epidemic kept hundreds of children away from school. Jack Wicker was named president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and Emil Rasmussen was chosen by the state junior Chamber of Commerce as one of Texas' five outstanding young men. The First Baptist Church received permission from the National Production Authority to go ahead with its plans for building a new $1,000,000 church plant. John P. Butler was named president of The First National Bank, and Vann Ligon was chosen head of the Midland Country Club. The city's first polo case of 1952 was reported just as the March of Dimes campaign was launched. A fire destroyed the Midwest Motor Company building in downtown Midland. Sherwood O'Neal resigned as county commissioner, to move literally his ranch to greener pastures in Oklahoma. He was succeeded by John King, Jr. Three bandits held up the night manager of the Har-Wil Tourist Court, getting $115.

FEBRUARY

Fourteen thousand persons served notice of things to come when they lined up and paid their poll taxes. A storm knocked over telephone poles and stalled traffic and workmen began knocking over the old Worth Hotel, which the county had purchased to make room for the widened Front Street. Louis Bartha gave up his job as chairman of the county Democratic Executive Committee. D. A. Hulcy, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned of socialism at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet, and the March of Dimes campaign passed its $185,000 goal. Midland's first bus system in two years began operating, but the City Council shook its heads to plans of the Air Force for operating from Midland Air Park. Margaret Ann Lamb, an oil company secretary, was killed in a railroad crossing tragedy and citizens demanded better crossing safeguards. Butter prices hit $1 a pound and the City Council joined the trend by raising maximum Corporation Court fines from $100 to $200. The body of a man burned to death in a tent fire south of the city was identified six days later as that of Marvin Anderson Peeler of Brownwood. Jimmy Hoover was hired as a full-time warrant officer to track down citizens who failed to bring in traffic tickets. Dr. F. E. Sadler resigned under pressure as head of the City-County Health Unit.

MARCH

*Frank Beznol was chosen chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, and Burton N. Sears came here from Dallas to be new administrator at Midland Memorial Hospital, succeeding Richard Harrell. While seeking the post of city councilman, Ray O. Howard was fined $75 on 15 overtime parking tickets by a six-man Corporation Court jury. The Humble Oil and Refining Company opened its new $1,235,000 office building here, and Reporter-Telegram subscribers opened their 212-page fifth annual Petroleum Progress Edition. A survey by the newspaper placed the city's population at 33,108. Leldon Charles (Treetop) Smith was shot to death as he ate breakfast in a Wall Street restaurant and a bricklayer named Robert Marion Boykin was charged with murder. The City of Midland wanted $500,000 for its Pagoda Park, and Dr. Irving Krick wanted West Treetop to sign up for his rain-making service. Plans were announced for a 200-car Petroleum Auto Garage at Texas and Big Spring Streets. Some of the county's finest showed up for the annual Midland County Livestock Show. Yeggs knocked over the F. W. Woolworth Company store and fled with some $3,000. Business men went back to school on Business-Education Day. Len G. McCormick was named the city's first full time city attorney. R. L. Miller beamed proudly as the Red Cross Drive he headed zoomed past its $16,000 goal.

APRIL

Ray O. Howard, who had three opponents, and J. T. Baker who was unopposed, were elected to the City Council as a record-breaking 2,985 voters turned out. Mrs. John J. Redfern, Jr., and Thornton Hardie, Jr., were elected school trustees a few days later while Hols Jowell was re-elected for another term. A straw vote gave Eisenhower 60 per cent of the vote with the rest scattered among 10 others. The city began cracking down on South Main Street beer establishments to begin the unhappy Main Street Beer Battle. Mrs. Katherine Griggs, a Midland Memorial Hospital anesthetist, was killed when her automobile overturned north of here. John P. Butler was elected president of the South Plains Bankers Association. Those mean Odessa Oilers spoiled the Midland Indians baseball opener by a 10-1 score. Foy Procter and Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., revealed they had purchased portions of the famed Matador Ranch. City Judge Fred Hartman and Police Chief Rube Hemingway tangled in a fist fight, which left Hemingway with a broken nose and both of them without jobs. Detective Harold Wallace was named chief of police. Raymond Thomson, Sr., announced plans for the Permian Estates subdivision with 1,996 homes.

MAY

Western Union was back in business after being closed by a nationwide strike, and the political season opened in earnest with precinct and county conventions. The city lost its first round in the Beer Battle and finally called it off, repealing an ordinance which would have zoned several places out of business. Attorney Ed Butts was named city judge, and plans for a general park program began taking shape. The whistling bandit, who whistled his victims to a stop and then robbed them, finally was caught. A broadened trailer ordinance, requiring permits for all trailer park operators, was adopted. A United Fund Drive for Midland was talked but plans fizzled out. A 37-year-old carpenter was held for rape in connection with an attack on his 11-year-old daughter. A Latin American miscreant thought County Judge Clifford Keith's fine of $150 was too steep, withdrew his guilty plea to a charge of aggravated assault, was even unhappier when a jury found him guilty and fined him $400. Ralph Lowe sold an interest in some leases for $6,000,000 plus. Midland High School graduated 169 seniors. Eighteen candidates for county offices found they had forgotten to file required expense accounts, waited apprehensively until Democratic Chairman Frank Beznol said their names would appear on the primary ballot after all. New highway signs spotted Midland's population at 34,378 instead of the 21,000 reported in the 1950 census.

JUNE

The 18th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo opened and Midlanders put on western clothes and tried to imitate Red Ryder—Fred Harman—who was an honored guest for the show. Mrs. Edna Mae DeArmon was injured fatally in a traffic accident in the business district, and O. W. Sanders and J. J. Butler, Houston tool company executives, were injured when their private plane crashed at Midland Air Terminal. Dr. Charles A. Pigford was selected as director of the City-County Health Unit, and the city opened warfare on flies and mosquitoes. The City Council added another six blocks to the zoned business district, and work was started on the Front Street widening project. Mrs. Ken Regan, wife of the congressman, was injured in an automobile wreck near Baird, and Mrs. Judy Baker, a Midland Memorial Hospital nurse and her companion, Henry Earl Ayers, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding, crashed and burned, seven miles east of the city. The Scharbauer Hotel began pushing its lobbyist elsewhere as the big improvement project moved into the old section of the hotel. A window pane fell five stories on Main Street but failed to injure the woman it fell on. W. W. Lackey, who had served as superintendent of Midland public school for 35 years, died in Fort Worth.

JULY

Hard-working Mrs. Kate Black was chosen by the Midland Memorial Hospital Auxiliary as its "Woman of the Year." Construction work was started on a new Parcel Post Annex to the Post Office, and W. Ily Pratt began his twenty-second year as tax collector for the City of Midland. Midland was quiet for the Fourth, except for one man who wound up, in the pokey for firing his gun just as his wife successfully ducked. Midland was heartened by an inch, and one-half of rain, the heaviest in 11 months, with 1.2 inches more a few days later. The county political campaign reached its climax as the League of Women Voters held a rally and 6,300 persons turned out to vote and return all incumbents, who so desired, to office. In addition, Warren Burnett was elected district attorney, Hulon Brown, state representative, and J. T. Rutherford, state senator. J. C. Hudman wound up 25 years as city secretary and received an engraved watch from city councilmen. Jay Haney took over the helm as manager of the Midland Indians as Zeke Bonura headed back to New Orleans. The files became so thick the Girl Scouts had to call off their Day Camp at Cole Park. The situation became worse as inadequate sewers began overflowing at manholes, dumping raw sewage into some streets.

AUGUST

The City Council began worrying about the sewer situation and asked residents to take fewer baths until a new South Side sewer line could be rushed to completion. Midland County Republicans decided to present a slate of candidates—some of them cross-filed Democrats—in the general election. They named Richard Hughton county chairman while the Democrats, scorned, pledged support to Adlai Stevenson, picked Frank Beznol. Some taxpayers hit the ceiling when the city's tax rate was boosted 15 cents and the mercury climbed to 103 degrees. In less than eight months, the building permits moved past the $14,000,000 reported for all of 1951. Midlanders turned out in record-breaking numbers to clean up the city and have their chests X-rayed. But a few days later Mrs. Jimmielee Reyna, who had been a candidate for county clerk, was stricken fatally by polio. A blindfolded and trussed-up night watchman at a meat plant sweated it out as he listened to bandits blow open a safe and escape with $500. Hadacol Corner lost its name because the Post Office Department thought Midkiff was more dignified and more appropriate. Fuel consumption near the danger point. Clark Moreland brought in the first bale of county cotton in 1952. Oran Leo Grubaugh picked up his wife when she got off work, drove her around all night and finally shot her 10 or 11 times. She lived. Earl Ray was named Precinct 1 county commissioner and J. C. Franklin, Precinct 3 county commissioner, in the runoff election.

SEPTEMBER

The youngsters began flocking back to school in record-breaking numbers and a record-breaking crop of Labor Day drunken drivers crowded before County Judge Clifford C. Keith to pay fines totaling $530. District Judge R. W. (Bob) Hamilton turned thumbs down on a ruling by the state land commissioner that a vacancy existed on a strip running through the Tex-Harvey oil fields. A 41-passenger airliner was crowded off a Midland Air Terminal runway by a wearying automobile, the driver of which paid a $200 fine in Corporation Court. Taxpayers approved by a wide margin a proposed $5,290,000 bond issue for a long list of municipal improvements. The First Baptist Church was ordered to abandon its 50-year-old auditorium at Illinois and Main Streets because, the city said, it was unsafe. The Community Chest Campaign opened with Joe T. Dickerson as chairman and Brig. Gen. Robert J. Smith, president of Pioneer Air Lines, as principal speaker at a community banquet. The Midland Indians finally won the Loughorn League Championship, beating out Odessa in the playoff finals. Willis C. Stewart, an oil field worker from Oklahoma, was sentenced to 40 years for the rape of a 12-year-old Midland girl. The Midland High School Bulldogs opened their football season with an impressive 33-13 victory over Lamesa. The New Revised Standard Version of the Bible was introduced to Midland at interdenominational services in the First Presbyterian Church.

OCTOBER

Midland stopped work for a few hours to listen to the Yankees win the World Series from the Dodgers in seven games. Development of McMillen Field, Midland's newest water source, was begun. Demonstration-Eisenhower began perfecting their organization, while Alford (Red) Petty was named to head the Stewenson campaign office. The cornerstone for the new Masonic Temple was laid at impressive ceremonies. The night deposit box at a Midland bank was so full the cashier had to go down late at night and empty it, while meters proceeded to empty parking meters of some $300 worth of nickels monthly. Midland public schools went ahead with expansion plans as a $975,000 bond issue received hearty approval. The City Council approved a $150 monthly pay raise for City Manager W. H. Oswald and agreed, finally, to let the Air Force use Air Park as an auxiliary field to Webb Air Force Base at Big Spring. Fourteen-year-old Wendy Woolcock was killed and three San Jacinto Junior High School friends were injured when their car overturned. The Permian Basin Firemen's Association met here and the six-man pumper crew from Fort Stockton proved to be the fastest. Seven thousand persons greeted Richard Nixon, the GOP vice presidential candidate, as he stopped briefly at Midland Air Terminal with his wife, Pat. Officials decided it was suicide after the charred, gasoline drenched body of a Midland housewife was found near her automobile on a lonely road south of the city. The Community Chest exceeded its $68,250 goal.

NOVEMBER

American Legionnaires jammed Midland for their district convention, and 11,500 voters jammed the polls in a record-breaking turnout. The Republican county candidates were beaten but Eisenhower swept 70 per cent of the county's votes. Robert Marion Baykin was convicted of murder in the slaying of Charles Leldon (Treetop) Smith and his nine-year-old son, Rodney, wandered off by himself to find his little brother in a New Mexico foster home. Glynn Rogers, a 28-year-old construction worker, was shot to death in a trailer house and a fellow worker was held for murder. Realtor Clark Smith reported two men attacked him as he reached home one night and took a $14,000 diamond ring. Marion Frynt was named again as head of Midland Fair, Inc. A 22-year-old office worker was held for indecent exposure after numerous complaints over a period of several days were received. Midland's Christmas lights were turned on the First Baptist Church began tearing down its condemned auditorium and the planning and zoning commission rejected a proposal to re-zone West Wall Street. School was out as Midland teachers went to town to learn how the various businesses and industries operate. The City Council ordered a new 250-block paving program. Thanksgiving was observed quietly as Union Thanksgiving Services were held in the Trinity Episcopal Church. The Midland Bulldogs finally finished their football season, winning six and losing four, including a final 26-0 decision to Odessa.

DECEMBER

Midland had something new in the way of banking services—an auto bank teller installed at Baird and Wall by The First National Bank. The Corporation Court, evicted from its church building quarters, finally found a home in the Midland County Court House. Thousands lined streets to see Santa Claus parade in which floats of the Westward Ho Kennels and St. Ann's School won top prizes in the contest sponsored by the Jay-Cees. An expectant mother admits cashing 26 forged checks in shopping spree here. The rumors became so strong that Charles Vought officials flew to Midland to deny they were contemplating building an airplane plant here. A woman told City Judge Edwin Stitt she would go to jail rather than pay a traffic ticket and she spent the rest of the day behind bars. Jess Henzley, a painter, gave up after 98 1/2 sleepless hours in a stay-awake contest with Robert Cook, another painter. Stricter enforcement of the city's dog ordinance was demanded as several children were bitten. Dr. Jack Walton was named chief of the Midland Memorial Hospital medical staff. Blonde Jackie Miller of Big Spring, was selected Miss Christmas Spirit in a Jay-Cee parade here. New Front Street route of U. S. Highway 80 was opened with members of the State Highway Commission, including Midland's Fred Wemple, on hand. The county tax rolls hit $37,347,740. Police Radio Dispatcher C. L. Jenkins was killed after he shot his ex-girl friend. Christmas shoppers flooded merchants during "busiest day" in city's history. The Post Office handled record-breaking Christmas mail with little trouble. The Optimist Club honored Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, as the 1952 "Friend of the Boy." Two police lieutenants resigned after tear gas drove 200 persons from a Christmas Dance in the negro section. Midland was designated as the eastern terminus of a new crude oil pipe line planned by the West Coast Pipeline Company. And there you have it—major happenings of 1952 in Midland!

VISIT IN BROWNFIELD
Mrs. J. P. Ames, and daughter and Mrs. R. S. Tyson visited Wednesday with friends in Brownfield.

Railroad President Denies RFC Charge

WASHINGTON—AP—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, indicted on charges of making false statements, Thursday emphatically denied it ever had misled anyone about its financial condition. The denial came from B&O President Roy E. White of Baltimore after a federal grand jury in Washington returned an 11-count indictment against the company. The indictment charged B&O, almost 10 years ago, made false reports on its finances to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

McCamey News

Visiting in San Angelo during the Christmas season were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Clegg and children and L. A. Bridges and family. Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Simmons visited relative in Mineola over the holidays and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Nelson visited in Temple. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Herrington had as their guests their daughter, Mrs. L. R. Meter and children, Lola, Lewis and Cathy of San Angelo. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hayes of Midland spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Edwards in McCamey. Other holiday guests were Johnny and Eddie Ohlenburg of Eldorado who spent Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ohlenburg, and Lt. and Mrs. Austin Richey of El Paso who visited the W. A. Hamptons. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Keith Somerville are at home in McCamey following their recent marriage and a wedding trip to Denver, Colo. The couple exchanged vows in the First Baptist Church in Del Rio. Somerville is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Somerville of Charles, W. Va. Mrs. Somerville is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Turner of Palestine, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Windham left Tuesday for Dallas where they will visit relatives and attend the Cotton Bowl game New Year's Day. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Leuschner also plan to attend the Cotton Bowl game.

CALIFORNIANS VISIT HERE
Mr. and Mrs. Chad Oliver of Santa Monica, Calif., arrived Tuesday for a visit with Mrs. Oliver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Jenkins, 604 East Broadway.

Deadline Nears
The grand jury, called in by Attorney General McCranney just days ago, reported only a few days before the legal deadline. Should a conviction result, the company could be liable to fines totaling $10,000.

President White, in denying any false financial reports, said the company probably will make a detailed statement after it sees the indictment.

The jury charged that during 1943 B&O filed financial reports with ICC and RFC which did not jibe with its books.

Nixon's Replacement Will Get Head Start

SAN FRANCISCO—AP—Republican Senator-designate Thomas H. Kuchel, left Wednesday night for Washington to be sworn in as California's junior senator, replacing Vice President-elect Richard M. Nixon. He expects to be sworn in Friday, gaining seniority over newly elected Senators.

Warning Sounded On Lapsed Insurance Policies For Vets

The future welfare of more than a million veterans' families may be seriously endangered, Disabled American Veterans leaders in Midland warned Thursday, unless 10 billion dollars worth of lapsed insurance policies issued during and shortly after World War II are immediately reinstated. Ben Gay, commander of the VFW here, said 10 billion dollars of GI term insurance will be lost forever under present law unless the 1-200,000 veterans who have permitted their policies to lapse reinstate them before the terms expire during the next year.

The policies involved are lapsed term National Service Life Insurance while in service during the last two months of 1944 and all of 1945, as well as servicemen who took out term NSLI policies during the last two months of 1947 and all of 1948. The Veterans Administration has estimated that 1,100,000 are in the first group, and 100,000 in the latter group. The DAV commander urged local disabled veterans and able bodied veterans who allowed these policies to lapse to contact the DAV Service Office for free assistance in reinstating these valuable policies which he pointed out are far less costly than similar policies issued by commercial companies. The following information was issued by the Disabled American Veterans regarding the insurance policies:

1. The first group of 1,100,000 veterans have eight year term policies and the second group of 100,000 veterans have five year term policies. Both terms expire in the near future, depending upon the anniversary date of each policy.
2. Veterans who do not reinstate their policies before the terms expire will not be eligible for further GI life insurance.
3. There are two requirements for reinstatement—one, a physical examination after three months of lapse; two, payment of two months premiums. One of these two premiums covers the premium for the month of grace coverage after lapse, and the other is for the month in which the application is submitted to the Veterans Administration. A new law, passed by the last session of Congress, permits policyholders to renew term government life insurance every five years without a physical examination at the premium rate for the ten-attained age. Thus, policyholders who reinstate lapsed term NSLI before the terms expire may renew the reinstated policies for another five years. The DAV spokesman emphasized the fact that veterans who have allowed their policies to lapse will receive no further notice from the VA on opportunity for renewal and must take action on their own to reinstate their policies before the terms expire, if they wish to continue this coverage.

Welch Foundation To Direct $42,500,000 Research Aid

HOUSTON (AP)—A non-profit foundation, with a value estimated at some $42,500,000, has been set up for the betterment of mankind under terms of the will of the late Robert A. Welch, Houston business man who died Saturday.

The organization, to be known as the Houston Foundation, will be financed for 10 years by a trust fund established in the Welch will. The primary aim of the foundation will be to support "research in the field of chemistry."

The will specifically states that any grants or gifts from the foundation "shall be used in the state of Texas."

The provisions of the will were released Wednesday by Dapler R. Bullard, senior trustee and executor of the Welch estate, to newsmen who attended a press conference in the Welch estate, to newsmen who attended a press conference in the Welch offices.

The will provides also that 15 per cent of the net estate will be left to "certain employees," who were in Welch's employ or that of the Mound Company or the Fidelity Oil and Royalty Company.

Worst Dust, Sand Storms Since 1930's May Trouble Texas Farm Areas In 1953

FORT WORTH (AP)—The worst dust and sand storms since the 1930's may occur in West Texas and Oklahoma in 1953.

Land in that area subject to blowing "have entered the new wind erosion season in the most perilous condition since the end of the blow years of the 1930's," Louis P. Merrill says.

Merrill is regional director of the Soil Conservation Service.

Merrill said reports from area headquarters in the wind erosion sections of the two states show 6,778,500 acres are not protected sufficiently by growing plants cover on crop residue to prevent destructive blowing in strong winter and spring winds. This total is almost two million acres more than were in this category at this time during the last 12 years.

The dry weather following wheat plantings and the large acreages in cotton, failure of sorghum crops, and overuse of sorghum stubble and range lands, account for the big increase in unprotected acreages, Merrill explained.

Good growing weather to permit new wheat and other winter growing crops could reduce the unproected acreage greatly, Merrill said. Panhandle Troubles

The Panhandle of Texas was added to the trouble areas of the Southern High Plains of Texas as a threatened area, Merrill reported.

Area Conservationists Myles A. Kelly at Perryton, reporting for the uppermost 16 counties of the Panhandle section, and George W. Taylor at Amarillo, whose area includes 11 counties, said in their reports that winter wheat seedlings are in poor condition and offer little or no protection for the soil.

Taylor said only 20 per cent of the wheat planted in his area has sprouted. Sorghum stubble in the Amarillo area at present is furnishing protection but much of it is being over-grazed. That reported. Cotton lands in Taylor area are in poor condition.

Big Spring Area

Area Conservationist Homer A. Tait at Lubbock reported 1,980,000 acres in his 12-county area without sufficient blow protection. Most of this is cotton land which was mechanically stripped and sorghum land on which the crop was cut for bundle feed.

In the 13-county area with head-

Bride To Wear Two Rings; Second Recalls Ex-Fiance

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Catherine E. Larson, 18, a blue-eyed blonde, will wear two engagement rings Thursday when she is married to Glen E. Andrews.

The one on her left hand was given her by Andrews, a 24-year-old veteran of Korea and Heartbreak Ridge.

The ring on Catherine's right hand was given her by the late Pfc. Robert E. Heath of Birmingham, N. Y., her childhood sweetheart, and Glen's closest buddy in Korea.

Bob Heath was killed on Heartbreak Ridge. His death was a heartbreak for Catherine. The day he died—Sept. 27, 1951—one of the four stones from the diamond ring he gave Catherine fell from its setting and was lost.

"I'll never want the ring re-

First Lynch-Free Year Recorded, But Not Sans Violence

TUSKEGEE, ALA. (AP)—Mob action claimed no lives in the United States during 1952, said Tuskegee Institute in the first lynch-free report since it began keeping records in 1882.

"But other rather similar forms of violence and lawlessness have not declined," F. D. Patterson, president of the famed negro school declares in his annual report.

He said there appears to be too many instances of police "brutality and killings" of persons suspected or guilty of crimes, "and a resurgence of the mob spirit as expressed in beatings, floggings, incendiarism, bombing and the like."

The 1952 report especially deplores bombings in its "patterns of violence."

This weapon has been used mainly where negroes have moved or attempted to move into white neighborhoods. Patterson noted, but blasts have also occurred at the homes of whites "who have in some way incurred the enmity of the bombers."

For the four years from 1949 through 1952, the report listed at least 68 bombings or attempted bombings—49 against negroes, 10 against whites and public institutions, eight against Jewish synagogues, schools and community centers, and one against a Catholic church.

Shorthand was invented and practiced by the ancient Greeks and Romans.

Navy Says McCarthy Asked Six Decorations Be Awarded

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy said Wednesday that Senator McCarthy asked—in reply to a Navy notice of eligibility—for the six World War II decorations he was awarded Monday. It said he was entirely within his rights.

The Wisconsin senator served as a combat intelligence officer attached to a Marine scout bomber squadron in the Pacific during the war. Earlier this week he was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal and four gold stars in lieu of additional air medals.

A Navy spokesman quoted Undersecretary Francis Whitehair as saying that McCarthy requested the decorations under a directive issued by the Navy in 1944.

In reply to questions, the Navy spokesman quoted Whitehair as saying that "on or about Sept. 22, 1951, Senator McCarthy requested that he be considered for retroactive awards."

The awards to McCarthy were based on 30 missions into enemy territory.

The Navy spokesman said that as an air intelligence officer, McCarthy probably rode with a number of Navy pilots on those missions.

1952 Proves Year Of Relief To Many Retailers In Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—For most retailers, 1952 was a year of respite and relief—a welcome breathing spell after the panic buying, sales slumps and price wars of its immediate predecessor.

Many merchants who had been operating in the black found their earnings a little better. And losses generally tended to be less pronounced for those in the red ink column.

Sales as measured in terms of dollar volume headed for another all-time high. Some economists predicted total retail sales for 1952 would reach $163,750,000,000 as compared with $158,250,000,000 the year before.

Ahead of 1951

During the final months of 1952, sales were running about six per cent ahead of the year-ago rate. Authoritative sources said 1953 would be even better.

The outgoing year showed some significant changes in America's buying habits. Sales of soft goods and sales of refrigerators, washers and TV sets.

While appliance sales in general lagged behind the soft lines, home air conditioning equipment enjoyed a record boom. Aggressive promotion, sparked by a scorching mid-Summer heat wave, pushed air conditioner sales well above 1951's billion-dollar mark.

Credit Buying

More people bought on credit. The increase in installment purchases was spurred by suspension May 7 of regulation W. This meant retail buyers of such big ticket items as automobiles, appliances and furniture were no longer required by federal regulation to make a minimum down payment on their purchase and to pay off the balance within a specified time. Automobile and appliance sales improved at once in most parts of the country.

In less than a month, however, retailers were confronted with a new obstacle when the CIO steelworkers went on strike. The shutdown in steel and the accompanying lay-offs in dependent industries stalled retail's midsummer upturn in its tracks. And business dragged its feet until the long strike was over.

All-Time High

The pickup merchants were hoping for came in early Autumn. October sales surged to an all-time high of 14 billion 440 million dollars, up six per cent from October, 1951. Shopkeepers got set for a banner Christmas season.

The improved earnings picture in 1952 reflected a welcome end to the distress selling, price cutting and inventory liquidation of the year before.

By and large, independent stores, mail order houses and suburban stores fared better than big city department stores. The latter part of the year brought a sharp upswing in business for the corner gasoline station, the local automobile dealer and the neighborhood clothing store. The package retail liquor business continued in the doldrums. Dealers blamed the slump on increased federal taxes.

Daddy Ringtail Holiday House

Daddy Ringtail lives in a monkey house, up in the top of a very tall tree, right in the middle of the Great Forest. Yes, and now the day had come when the monkey house was going to be a holiday house. Yes it was!

A holiday house is a house where people are going to have a holiday for a little vacation. People at the house don't work at all, all through the holiday day when the house is to be a holiday house.

Yes, and so Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, was sitting out on the porch in the swing, talking with all the people who had come to help with the fun.

The Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, was there. He said he was happy, he was, to be helping with holiday fun at a holiday house. Why, he would help with having all the fun he could, he would. Ah oh! how happy he was right now with the fun of having eaten the fine big dinner that Mother Ringtail had given him to eat.

But Old MacDonald was there too, to have fun at holiday house on the happy holiday. He too was happy to help with the fun, and now he was having fun indeed with thinking about the fine big dinner that he had eaten.

Mother Ringtail was a wonderful cook, everyone said, and the dinner she had served was the best ever.

Scrambled coconut, scrambled coconut salad, and a whole lot of other good things to eat, and last of all, scrambled coconut pie!

"Yes!" said Old MacDonald with an Old MacDonald laugh, "Mother Ringtail is the best cook we have at holiday house." But Old MacDonald would have more fun, he said, all on a fine day of no work at holiday house, if he would have the chance to wash the dinner dishes.

Continuing Studies Assure Savings In Hospital Funds

By BERT KRUGER SMITH

It was a morning for sleep, with the light of early winter on the window panes, and Sue M., smuggled under the covers and tried to ignore the insistence of the alarm clock. Every year it seemed a little tougher to make it out of bed in the early morning.

The clock kept ringing, and Sue, yawning, dropped the blanket away from her warm body and sat up. This was the time of day when she wished she were married and asleep in her own home. She pushed back her hair and grinned. If she'd married Hank 20 years ago, she'd probably be up at five feeding the chickens. She looked over at Margaret, who was snoring slightly, and for a minute Sue wanted to prod her awake, to make her share this cold, early morning misery.

Sue's bare feet touched the cold floor, and she was awake instantly. Margaret worked later than she did every day, but it was only in these dark, morning hours that Sue wanted to change her food job for an attendant's work.

In 15 minutes she was dressed in her green uniform, as crisp and cool-looking as a fresh lettuce leaf, and in 30 more she was breakfasted and ready for work.

She stood for a minute beside the ramp which led to the vegetable-preparation center, and looked through the beginning light at the gigantic hospital. Like staring eyes, lights brightened one window and then another. Noises, like reluctant sighs, sounded from the buildings. In the distance she could hear the crunch of gravel as the heavy trucks made their way to the meat and vegetable centers, and in the back-room across the way the clatter of pans and trays broke the morning stillness.

Sue smoothed her uniform over her hips. She was either going to have to request larger uniforms or take off some of that middle-aged spread. Uniforms had changed since she first came to work here five years ago. She'd worn any old kind of dress then instead of those pretty green uniforms. And there had been a dozen different preparation areas at the hospital instead of one big vegetable center. In fact, it kind of gave Sue the creeps to think how the food used to be prepared. She remembered the big buckets of string beans, or peas or potatoes which had been sent around to the different wards to be fixed. And that, of course, had meant hundreds of hands touching the food. Sue gave a little shudder. No telling what kind of germs had crawled in with the vegetables!

Sue climbed the ramp and took her place near the big potato peeling machine. This was the clean way to do things. Sue worked automatically, with the ease which came from experience. She watched the others take their places—Bunny, the new worker, awkward at the slicer and Morris carting those big boxes as if they were matchbox size. She recognized the patients too. Gladys and Fay and Marie. Gladys was going home soon, and her smile was big as a half-moon.

The rhythm of the work caught Sue. There was something she liked about this place. Standing here, getting the thousands of pounds of vegetables ready, was sort of like being Lady Bountiful feeding the hungry. One thing about this place though, there wasn't such a thing as a little mistake. They were all big. A bad shipment of potatoes or some soggy onions or tough carrots, and you'd wasted hundreds of dollars of hospital money. Sue could remember hearing the fellows talk about that batch of meat last week. Just some off. Good thing Fred had noticed it before it was cooked and sent to all the dining rooms. Would have meant almost a thousand dollars. A little mistake like that.

Food Is Better

Sue liked the way things were shaping up here around the hospital. Food was better now. The new steam tables helped get the meals served good and hot. And fixing all the vegetables in one center saved money too. With only 58 cents a day per patient for food, a little money saved could help a lot. Dr. T. said every extra penny went for better food or more steam tables. That made her job pretty important. It was a good job now. Things were being done with a system, and she knew that systems save money.

Food is only one of the many items which have been standardized in the new hospital program. Standard specifications also have been established for numerous items of hospital supplies and equipment; standard drug and clothing lists have been established so that purchasing can be done in larger lots; medical and business forms have been standardized and a modern system of accounting and cost control has been set up. Central raw food preparation has been established, with centralizing of warehousing and food preparation effected for all institutions. All standard operational procedures are being restudied.

In the future continuing studies will be made into all aspects of present administrative and business methods, and all funds saved from more effective and efficient business operations will be placed back into the care and treatment of patients.

There is plenty to be done yet. But the improvements are there. Ask Sue M. She knows!

Air Conditioning Industry Sees Big Year Ahead In '53

NEW YORK (AP)—Air conditioning is entering upon its period of greatest growth and 1953 should prove to be the industry's biggest year to date by a substantial margin. Cloud Wampler, president of Carrier Corporation, said in a year-end statement.

Total sales of the industry on a retail basis, which reached one billion dollars for the first time in 1951, are estimated to be about $1,250,000,000 for 1952, he said.

"There is every indication that if present general business conditions continue this trend will be maintained and perhaps accelerated in 1953."

The most common accident to an iron is a fall from an ironing board. This may break the handle, jam the heat control, or break connections inside the iron. To prevent falls, see that your ironing board is level and steady, and that the cord is not in the way where it can be tripped over or jerked easily.

Western Movies Continue Hold On Midland In 1952

Western movies and the cowboys who star in them copped popularity honors among Midland moviegoers in the year 1952.

If the dollar bills carried away from each and every cashier's cage in the city and drive-in movie houses have anything to do with popularity, say the movie managers of Midland, "High Noon" starring Gary Cooper and Grace Kelly, was the city's "Picture of the Year."

The managers listed these pictures as the year's favorites next to "High Noon":

"The Will Rogers Story," with Will Rogers' son as star player in the film. Story of the favorite American humorist.

"Scaramouche" starring Stewart Granger and Janet Leigh. A romantic story about a fugitive from the Crown who disguised himself as a clown.

"Springfield Rifle," again starring Gary Cooper. About how the famous rifle changed the course of military history against the Indians.

"Son of Paleface" with Bob Hope and Jane Russell. Bob tried to show he wasn't a coward and won the hand of Jane.

In the "family movie" circuit, the managers reported that the two favorite cowboys, Roy Rogers and Gene Autry, were the usual favorites with the kids. However, "Boyz n' the City" with Cary Grant, had the folks and kids coming into the theaters a couple of times for the same show.

In the mystery division, Universal's attempt to finally replace the old Frankenstein pictures met with some success. The name of the film: "The Strange Door."

As far as musical films go, Esther Williams, the swimming beauty, copped top honors in this city, judging from box office receipts.

Her "Sisters Ahoy," about three girls who joined the WAVES for different purposes, and "Million Dollar Mermaid," about a crippled Australian girl who turned into a champion swimmer, were the people's choices here.

"Working Her Way Through College," with Virginia Mayo and Patricia Wymore, hit high popularity, too, in the musical-comedy division. In the drama class, moviegoers here preferred Jane Wyman in "Just For You."

When you are tired of washing dishes, serve your family a finger-food supper. Chicken turnovers can be your main course. Your salad can be cheese-stuffed celery wedges, carrot strips, pickles and olives. For dessert serve a big bowl of fresh fruit (pears, plums, and grapes) and some brownies.

Traffic Fatalities Decrease In Midland Patrol District

PECOS—Nine persons have died in traffic accidents on Reeves County highways during the year of 1952, Capt. Glen Warner of the Texas Highway Patrol reported Wednesday.

In addition, 87 other persons were injured.

Captain Warner revealed, also, that property damages alone in Reeves County accidents amounted to an estimated $75,000. This figure does not include ambulance fees, hospital and doctor bills, towing charges, loss in time and other expenses.

Of the 1,691 traffic mishaps investigated the first 11 months of 1952 in Warner's 16-county district, 105 of them were in Reeves County. Property damages from wrecks throughout these 16 counties amounted to about $1,065,839.

There were 123 traffic deaths in the district the past year, compared to the 146 in 1951. Reeves County recorded 19 deaths in vehicle smash-ups in 1951.

Captain Warner said the number of traffic fatalities had dropped below that of the preceding year because of three factors:

1. Improved enforcement
2. Luck
3. The public's growing more and more safety conscious

Counties included in Warner's district are Brewster, Crane, Culberson, Ector, El Paso, Huddspeth, Jeff Davis, Loving, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

Working out of the Pecos office are Warner, Sgt. Hugh Shaw, and four patrolmen, J. R. England, Marcus Miles, E. E. Gilbert and George Mundy. Office secretary is Miss Charlene Brown.

Recent Snows Help Texas Wheat Crops

AUSTIN—(AP)—Fading wheat prospects were revived with the White Christmas that came to the Panhandle, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported Wednesday.

The snow drifted very little and the added surface moisture, along with show cover, should stimulate emergence of wheat, the USDA's weekly weather bulletin said.

Moisture penetration, however, still was limited and additional timely rainfall was needed to establish and maintain plans.

Farm and ranch work, except caring for livestock and other necessary jobs, remained at a virtual standstill through the usual holiday lull.

Among some marine worms, the male lives as a parasite in the body of the female.

Murderer Baptized Before Electrocuting

PINE BLUFF, Ark.—(AP)—A convicted murderer here waited until after he had been tried and sentenced to life imprisonment before he was baptized into the Baptist Church.

The man, father of six, was convicted in the slaying of his wife on a Pine Bluff street. He said he wished to wait until after his trial was over before being baptized because he did not want the public to think he was seeking sympathy.

Dwindling Number Of Whooping Cranes Blamed On Hunters; Only 21 Now Alive

AUSTWELL—(AP)—A flock of strange birds—tall, white birds—rose and swung gracefully south. The day was sharp and the chill of coming winter lay over their marshy lake in the Arctic.

While they still were over Canada, a man with a gun saw them. "Huk," he said, "those are screw looking geese," and he fired. One of the graceful birds flopped awkwardly to earth.

It was a whooping crane, a dying member of a dying species. And U. S. and Canadian wildlife authorities say this is the way most of them die.

Only 21 whoopers made it to their Winter haven, the Aransas Wildlife Refuge near here. Except for a pair in a New Orleans zoo, they are the last whooping cranes on earth. Twenty-eight had left here last Spring on the northward migration.

Two years ago there were 37 whooping cranes in the refuge. For a few days there were 38, because Jo and Crip—the pair now in the zoo—had a baby, Rusty. It disappeared. Maybe a water rat got it. Maybe Rusty just died.

A hunter has to be careless, ignorant or malicious to shoot a whooping crane.

The whooper is pure white—except that its head and throat is brownish red and has a thin growth of black hair. It is America's tallest bird—more than four and one-half feet in height.

Hunters Kill Two

At least two of them were killed by hunters last fall.

A whooper shot in Canada was found near Regina, Saskatchewan, and sent to the San Antonio zoo. The bird was called Queenie.

Dr. R. L. Shea amputated part of its broken wing and put a plastic cast on its broken leg. The wounds were healing and Queenie seemed to be doing well on fish and boiled eggs. But Queenie developed lung congestion and died on November 2.

The other wounded bird was found and died in Kansas.

John H. Barker, president of the National Audubon Society, said in New York recently: "Each year it becomes increasingly apparent that illegal hunting is a factor in reducing the numbers of the whooping crane and increasing the threat of their extinction."

Vegetables Pay Off In Texas, But Drouth Keeps Figure Lower

AUSTIN—(AP)—Commercial vegetables paid off in Texas in 1952 despite the drouth, the Agriculture Department says.

Value of vegetables for the fresh market exceeded the 1951 value by 53 per cent, with a total of $65,281,000.

Value of vegetables for processing declined, with a total of $2,372,000 in 1952 compared with $3,417,000 in 1951.

The USDA's annual survey of the commercial vegetable markets give these reasons for the increase in value:

1. A total acreage of 352,150 in 1952 compared with 333,300 in 1951.
2. Conditions for the crop season as a whole were somewhat improved over 1951, when winter vegetable supplies were limited chiefly to irrigated areas.
3. A larger onion crop and a better price per sack, which accounted for about 40 per cent of the 1952 gain in value.
4. Longer harvest seasons for such crops as lettuce in the Panhandle and tender vegetables in South Texas.

Easy? Oh, very! These cranberry muffins, rich with tasty flavor, can be made in a few minutes.

A speedy pancake ready-mix eliminates several steps in measuring and assures perfect, golden-brown muffins every time. The chopped, raw cranberries permeate the batter in baking and lend a tingle-fresh fruit flavor that is a delightful surprise. Serve the muffins for luncheon with a creamed chicken or turkey main dish. Their tartness will be a delicious contrast.

NOTE: One cup whole cranberry sauce may be substituted for raw cranberries and sugar in the recipe. Proceed as above.

'Greatest Year' Written Down In Pecos Records

PECOS—This rich agricultural area has completed perhaps the greatest year in its history.

Enjoying an almost perfect growing season, Reeves County has produced 111,978 bales of cotton from 99,000 acres, according to the most recent report from the Texas Employment Commission office. And, Manager G. W. Modeste says scattered picking is likely to continue until mid-January.

Modeste, pointing out that the production figure above was taken from "gin run" cotton. Therefore, he feels that on a 500-pound bale basis, the figure may be even greater.

Total rainfall for 1952 here was 8.83 inches, but rain is welcomed largely by the ranchers, since the abundant cotton crops are made possible by a plentiful supply of underground water.

Here in Pecos, postal receipts as of the night of December 30 amounted to $112,229.04 for the past 12 months, said Postmaster Morris Collier. Last year's postal receipts amounted to slightly more than $83,000.

"Another criterion testifying to the growth and prosperity was the building activity in Pecos. Permit records estimate the value of new construction here in 1952 at $1,451,251. Last year, it was close to $1,173,000.

Pig Crop Declines, 1952 Report Shows

AUSTIN—(AP)—The pig crop declined in Texas in 1952, the Agriculture Department reports.

The crop totaled 1,666,000 head, 28 per cent below last year and the smallest since 1935.
