Severe Snowstorm Envelops Midwest, Moves Texas' Way

A spreading snowstorm disrupted traffic in the Midwest Tuesday and Texas forecasters expected "a run of the mill cold spell" for the state by Wednesday.

A norther bearing possible snow flurries was due to strike the Panhandle by late Tuesday afternoon but no blizzard conditions were seen for Texas.

Midland continued to have June in January Tuesday with the mercury reading 63 degrees at noon under clear skies. CAA observers at Midland Air Terminal expected the approaching norther to sink temperatures to slightly below 30 degrees Wednesday morning.

The season's coldest weather was reported in some sections of the Midwest. It was 25 below zero in International Falls, Minn. Wintry blasts chilled wide areas from the Rockies to the Northern Appalachians.

The cold air extended as far south as parts of Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee. It was below freezing in many parts of the South.

A belt of new snow, generally two to four inches deep, extended from Montana southeastward into Iowa and Missouri and was working eastward.

A two-inch early morning fall produced one of the worst traffic snarls in St. Louis since a foot of snow fell in a 12-hour period in November, 1951.

The snow packed into ice on main streets, stalling or slowing long lines of traffic. Thousands were late for work.

Snow flurries hit Chicago about mid-morning and the Weather Bureau forecast two to three inches would fall by night.

Aberdeen, S. D., had five inches of new snow and Omaha, Neb., two inches by early morning.

Johnson Retains Connally Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Johnson (D-Texas) announced Tuesday the appointment of Arthur Perry, former administrative assistant of retired Texas Senator Connally, to his own secretarial staff.

Formerly of Austin, Perry came here in 1919 as an aide to the late Texas Senator Morris Sheppard. He also had several other government jobs before joining Connally's staff several years ago.

Officer Testifies Army Wife Drunk Or Drugged At Slaying

TOKYO (AP)—Dorothy Krueger Smith was quoted in court Tuesday as saying, "Too bad I didn't get him in the heart" while her husband lay bleeding to death of a wound.

The witness was Lt. Col. Joseph Hardin of Dallas. He said he entered the bedroom of Col. and Mrs. Aubrey Smith a few minutes after the officer was stabbed at midnight October 3.

Dorothy Smith is on trial before an Army court martial on a charge of premeditated murder.

Hardin testified that on the fatal night she was groping around a dressing table, apparently searching for something. He said she wore only panties and bra.

Smith was on his bed with a knife wound in his side.

"Did you hear Mrs. Smith make any statement?" Lt. Col. W. H. H. Jones, prosecuting attorney, asked Hardin.

"Yes," Hardin replied. "It was to the effect that 'It's too bad I didn't get him in the heart.'"

Hardin testified also that Mrs. Smith seemed either drunk or drugged, was not rational, was unable to coordinate her physical movements and mostly was unintelligible.

"Seemingly Passed Out"

Finally, he added, the attractive 40-year-old daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger and the mother of two children, "seemingly passed out."

Other witnesses variously testified she was asleep, in a coma or unconscious.

The second day of the dramatic trial then recessed until Wednesday. The case is being heard by a "blue ribbon" nine-member general court martial board, headed by a major general.

Hardin said he found Smith pale, perspiring and in great pain.

Hardin, a golf partner of Smith's, accompanied him to an Army hospital. He expressed "dismay with tragic delays encountered" at getting medical treatment for Smith.

As to a possible motive, one witness, Lt. Col. Melvin A. Coers of Champaign, Ill., who accompanied Hardin to the Smith home, said he heard the defendant make one statement.

"To the best of my recollection," he said, "the statement was to the effect that 'No one will ever know the reason why.'"

Defense counsel has not announced on what Mrs. Smith's defense will be based. However, it has indicated the main defense would be temporary insanity.

Midland Prepares Greeting For National Legion Chief

Lewis K. Gough, national commander of the American Legion, is scheduled to step off an American Airlines plane at the Midland Air Terminal at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in starting a three-day visit to Texas.

Lewis K. Gough

He will arrive from his home in Pasadena, Calif.

Gough will be greeted by State Commander Albert Brown and his adjutant, Ward Moody, and other state, district and Midland officials of the Legion. Brown and Moody will arrive here by plane at 10 a.m. to be guest at a noon luncheon.

Legion leaders here will accompany Gough and the Texas dignitaries to Pecos for a "typical Texas barbecue." W. C. Abbott, Legion commander here, said Tuesday the barbecue originally had been planned for Midland, which has the fourth largest post membership in Texas. But Pecos was chosen because it is more centrally located in the Sixteenth Legion District. Maury H. Alberts of Kermit is Sixteenth District commander and will be among 50 officials of the Legion due to greet Gough here.

Gough and his party will go from Pecos to San Angelo for a breakfast in his honor Friday. They will continue to Brownwood for a luncheon before filling engagements in the Rio Grande Valley.

GREETING TO CHURCHILL—British Prime Minister Winston Churchill is greeted by Bernard Baruch, left, at Churchill's press conference as he arrives in the United States for a "holiday" visit. Mrs. Churchill chats with Sir Roger Makins, right, the new British ambassador to the U. S., who arrived with the Churchills.

Winnie Dines With Dulles; Silent On Eisenhower Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—British Prime Minister Winston Churchill will confer at dinner Tuesday night with John Foster Dulles, secretary of State-designate in President-elect Eisenhower's Cabinet, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, who will be ambassador to Britain.

This get-together at the home of financier Bernard Baruch will follow by about 24 hours a similar dinner conference between Churchill and Eisenhower.

There was no indication whether Eisenhower also would attend the dinner.

Baruch said Churchill expected to leave for Washington, D. C., from LaGuardia Airport at 11 a.m. Thursday to visit President Truman.

Both Churchill and Eisenhower were silent on any conclusions they might have reached on world problems during their conference.

Eisenhower and Churchill — old friends from World War II days — got together at the Baruch home, Churchill is Baruch's guest during his stay in New York.

The possible topics of conversation may have included such things as the Korean war, Soviet Premier Stalin's recently indicated willingness to meet with Eisenhower, and Great Britain's economic problems.

Neither Eisenhower nor Churchill made any public statement after their meeting.

Eisenhower and Churchill met the photographers in Baruch's spacious living room. They and their host sat in comfortable chairs. Above the fireplace mantle was a portrait of Churchill.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said Baruch left the room with the photographers and Eisenhower and Churchill then conferred alone.

Smiling broadly, Eisenhower ducked quickly into his waiting car when he left at 6:45 p.m. He got a burst of applause from a crowd which had gathered in the street, but he said nothing.

On his return from dinner, about 75 pickets representing an anti-English organization known as the Irish-American Minute Men were parading near the doorway of Baruch's home. The general gave no sign that he noticed them.

The pickets carried placards saying "Windy Winnie blew in for another five billion dollars." There will always be an England with her hand out. "U. S. has the best friends money can buy." "England is called the 'mother country' because she is always expecting."

A woman standing near the door applauded Eisenhower and called out: "I like Winnie and you like Winnie."

The President-elect grinned and hustled inside.

Eisenhower left the house alone at 11 p.m., carrying what appeared to be a bulky book under his arm. He was smiling again but gave newsmen no chance to question him.

Iran's Premier Wins Vote Of Confidence

TEHRAN (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadeq won a 64-0 vote of confidence in Parliament Tuesday.

The visitors will be guests of the Rotary Club at its regular noon meeting that day.

Switch Engine Kills Navarro County Man

DALLAS (AP)—A man, tentatively identified as W. L. Nowlin, about 60, of Kerens, Navarro County, was killed by a switch engine Tuesday.

The accident occurred about 2 a.m. on a T&N trestle over the Trinity River bottoms south of Dallas.

Boxers' Release May Erupt New City, Society Feuding

Bouncer and Spice have escaped the fate of the gas chamber but in the wake of their departure was the threat of a new rift between the City of Midland and the Midland Humane Society.

The escape of the two Boxer dogs from their death sentence was disclosed Monday afternoon when Frank Rose, superintendent of the Animal Shelter, said he had released the pets to their owners Saturday night.

The animals had been held almost a month since they attacked and bit a 13-year-old Midland girl as she was pushing her bicycle down the street in the area of the Midland Country Club.

City Attorney Len G. McCormick, acting under instruction of City Manager W. H. Oswald, told Rose to keep the animals under restraint and informed the owners the dogs would be destroyed in the city's gas chamber on January 9.

Society Orders Release

Rose said he released the dogs Saturday night, under instruction of Mrs. Alden Donnelly, president of the Midland Humane Society.

"Under its contract with the city," Rose said, "the Humane Society has charge of the Animal Shelter and I work for the society instead of the city."

"If the city wanted the dogs held, they should have obtained a restraining order."

"The only thing I could do was release the dogs after the required observation period."

The city manager, informed of the release of the two dogs, was non-committal concerning the action of the society.

"However," he said, "our action was in good faith."

"We felt that we had an obligation to protect the public from these dogs. Our information is that they were involved in at least two other instances."

"On one occasion, they attacked two caddies at the Country Club and on the same day attacked a small boy."

Oswald said a complete report of the incident would be submitted Thursday afternoon to the City Council at its regular session.

Owners Decline Comment

The owners of the dogs, W. S. Montgomery and Leland Thompson, Jr., declined to discuss the release of the dogs.

They had indicated earlier, however, that the dogs would be placed in safe-keeping to eliminate the possibility of further attacks.

McCormick only shrugged when informed of the release of the dogs.

"There's not much else we can do, is there?" he said. "We certainly can't get a habeas corpus for two dogs."

Three New Plants, Additions To Two Others Authorized

The way was cleared for Midland's 1953 school expansion program Monday night with the awarding of a contract to Houston Hill, Midland general contractor for the construction of three new school buildings and additions to two others.

The contract with Hill was authorized by the Board of Trustees of the Midland Independent School District on his combined bid of $778,880, the lowest of any combination of other bids submitted by 28 general, electrical and mechanical contractors.

Work is expected to begin in about 30 days on the following:

- An 18-room addition to Midland High School.
- A shop building for Midland High School.
- The new William B. Travis Elementary School in the southern section of the city.
- The new Booker T. Washington Elementary School for negro children.
- A four-room addition to the DeZavala School.

The building program is scheduled for completion in time for use at the opening of school in the fall of 1953.

For Under Estimates

The low bid was good news to the school board, which had $975,000 worth of bonds authorized last October for the program.

With $67,000 earmarked for equipment and another $40,000 as architects fees, the total of $878,880 still is $96,120 less than the bond issue and board members indicated that amount in bonds will not have to be issued.

More than 100 contractors and suppliers were on hand in the high school cafeteria at the opening of the bids by the school board.

Bids were submitted by 14 general contractors, eight electrical contractors and six plumbing and heating contractors.

For more than three hours, with Thornton Hardie, Jr., presiding, the board considered the various combinations of bids and Hill's overall combined bid was determined to be $1,167 under the lowest of any other combination.

It was stipulated in the agreement with Hill that the electrical work would be done by the Phillips Electric Company and the plumbing and heating work by the Nell's Sheet Metal Company.

Other members of the board present at the meeting were Mrs. John Redfern, Jr., Judge R. W. (Bob) Hamilton, Robert Payne and Ralph U. Fitting.

On hand to advise with the board were Edward L. Wilson of Fort Worth, member of the architectural firm of Wilson, Patterson and Associates, and Jo Bill Pierce, Midland architect.

The Fort Worth firm designed the new Travis Elementary School, the high school addition and the shop building while Pierce drew plans for the negro school and the DeZavala addition.

Sudden Fire Sears Repair Shop In City

A flash fire at Ray Brown Automotive, Inc., 3508 West Wall Street, seared a paint and body shop at 2 p.m. Monday and caused an estimated damage of more than $10,000.

The Midland Fire Department blanketed the interior of the shop with a fog spray that put out the flames. No one was injured although two employees of the auto firm found their shoes afire after the flash. The fire was started by gasoline fumes flaring up on contact with a lighted gas heater.

Three Automobiles Seared

Three automobiles, including an expensive foreign-made Jaguar roadster, were damaged heavily in the conflagration. Estimated loss on the cars and shop equipment was from $6,000 to $8,000, reported Bob Jackson, manager of Ray Brown Automotive, Inc. The other two cars damaged were a 1951 Studebaker and a 1954 Ford "hot-rod."

The fire occurred in the east end of the building, and was prevented from spreading by a masonry wall that separated the paint and body shop from the garage and offices of the firm. Building damage, Jackson estimated at from $3,000 to $4,000.

INCOME TAX OFFICE BUSY

Midland's office of the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue is busier answering the telephone now than it is filling out those familiar forms. Taxpayers want to know the location of the office, now that it's moved from the courthouse.

This is it: Suite 219, the West Building, 401 North Colorado Street. Business hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Temporary assistants have been added to the regular staff—C. M. Kreidler, J. F. Wilson and William B. Hill—for the duration of the current heat-the-deadline rush.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The $750,000 suit of silent screen star Alice Terry against movie producer Edward Small has been settled out of court for what attorneys say is a "substantial sum," but they declined to say how much.

Judy Garland Files West As Estranged Mother Found Dead

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—(AP)—Actress Judy Garland and her husband, Sid Luft, were due here Tuesday to make funeral arrangements for her mother, Mrs. Ethel Milne Gilmore, who died Monday near the aircraft factory where she worked, apparently of a heart ailment.

The body of Mrs. Gilmore, 56, was found between two cars on the parking lot of Douglas Aircraft Company. She had been a 660-a-week clerk at the factory for a year, copying purchase orders.

In recent years Mrs. Gilmore and the daughter she had helped become a famous actress and singer reportedly had been estranged.

Attorney Harry Rabwin, who has known the family since they lived in Grand Rapids, Minn., Judy's birthplace, declared however that "from the mother's standpoint there was no estrangement."

Notified of the death, actor's agent Luft said in New York that he and Miss Garland were "very upset and very unhappy." He said they would leave for the West as soon as they could get plane reservations.

Celebrated Monroe Manuscript Case Nears Settlement

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—The celebrated case of Marilyn Monroe and the Reinhardt manuscripts is about to close, if it hasn't already.

If you remember, an intellectual impasse was created when the screen siren outbid the University of Southern California for 178 script books of the late producer Max Reinhardt. She paid $1,335 for them as an auction.

When Miss Monroe announced she would present the collection to the institution whose drama students best could use them, several centers of learning, including USC, Harvard and Stanford, expressed interest—in the books, that is.

Monday, her studio quoted her: "I feel that placement of the books... should be the decision of Mr. Reinhardt's son, Mr. Gottfried Reinhardt. He insists on reimbursing me for the auction price."

Area Cleaners Attending School To Study New Miracle Fabrics

By TESSICA MARTIN

The new fabrics which are a "miracle" to the housewife often are a headache to her cleaner. He usually gets the blame if the "miracle" falls and a fabric breaks down.

Characteristics of the basic fibers and fabrics now in use and how they react to cleaning are among the main problems to be studied in a one-month, on-the-job training course for dry cleaners of the area, which opened Monday night in Midland.

Instructors for the course are

Bethel Fox and C. A. Barr of the University of Texas. It is being offered by the university's extension division and is sponsored by the Dry Cleaner's Institute of Texas.

In the last few years, responsibility for only three per cent of fabric failures has been traced to cleaners. However, with the man-made fabrics already on the market and five more expected to be introduced within the next two years, the nation's dry cleaners are expecting a fight to maintain their good record, sponsors said.

"THE GOOD LORD TOOK CARE OF ME"—The gentle light of 107 candles light the past for Karl Gloeckner, of Eidengesass, Germany as he smoked a meditative cigar on the occasion of his 107th birthday. Gloeckner, West Germany's oldest citizen, claims to be the only German survivor of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71. Favorite pastime of the still-active old gentleman is chatting with "younger folks" of 80 or 90. When asked for the secret of his longevity, Gloeckner said, simply, "The good Lord took care of me."

DR. JORDAN SAYS Most Glandular Fever Victims Recover Fully In Few Weeks

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. Written for NEA Service. A correspondent who says that she is 62, writes, "I have had various sicknesses and nothing but worry to lower my resistance for years." She adds that she has suffered from mononucleosis and just does not seem to get over the effects of that disease, and her other troubles. This failure to get over mononucleosis is rather surprising, and one might suspect, therefore, that she either has some other trouble or some complications which keep her from regaining good health. Infectious mononucleosis, or glandular fever, as it is sometimes called, seems to be getting more common. It is probably one of the virus diseases and like so many of them its symptoms are variable and its course not alike for all people. The symptoms may develop either suddenly or gradually. A general feeling of distress, loss of appetite and vague pains here and there are common. Some fever is usual but it is not often high. Nausea, vomiting and a little pain in the abdomen are common. Symptoms occur too in the nervous system. Enlargement of the lymph glands in the neck and other parts of the body are frequent; it is this which gave it the name, glandular fever. It is the blood, however, which shows the changes which make the diagnosis. The number of white cells in the blood is increased. When the blood is smeared on a glass slide, stained and examined under the microscope, it will show a peculiar type of cell which was once called a "monocyte" and which is responsible for the "mononucleosis" part of the name. Except for these cells and a blood called the heterophile anti-body test, the symptoms of infectious mononucleosis are similar to a great many other conditions. For this reason the diagnosis is often long delayed and sometimes not made at all. Common In Youth Infectious mononucleosis is particularly common in young people. It occurs frequently in military life. In most cases complete recovery comes after a few weeks. In some, however, fever and a run-down feeling last for months. Occasional serious complications are reported, but fortunately, this is the exception. A really good treatment for infectious mononucleosis is not available. One or more of the newer antibiotics may prove helpful, but this is by no means certain. The possibility that this disease will become more severe and more widespread as time goes on cannot be ignored. Millions of meteors so small they are never heated enough to blaze across the sky as even faint "shooting stars" enter our atmosphere each day.

By BERT KRUGER SMITH Marjorie S. clasped the jeweled pin on her nylon blouse and turned to Ann B. who was standing in the doorway, impatiently tapping her foot. "For heaven's sakes, Marjorie, hurry up, will you? We'll be too late for the tour if we don't get started." Marjorie dabbed some perfume behind her ears. "Isn't it thrilling, Ann, getting to go through the State Hospital? Won't we have some exciting stories to tell when we get back?" Ann regarded Marjorie silently for a minute; and when she spoke, her voice was dry. "It's not—exactly a circus, Marjorie. In case you don't remember, we're going through as guests of the Community Council. We are going to plan to do some volunteer work at the hospital."

"Oh, I know that," Marjorie said airily, setting a black velvet beret on her hair. "But just the same, imagine seeing these padded cells and screaming maniacs at close hand. I'm a little scared." She gave a short laugh. "Wonder why I'm dressing up so much. You'd think I thought I was going to see somebody sane." Ann took Marjorie's arm and walked to the car. They drove the few miles to the State Hospital with Marjorie chatting gaily and Ann sitting in thoughtful silence. When they drove up to the Main Building, the dozen other people were there. Dr. T. came forward, introduced himself, and said, "Is there anything special you would like to see?" Marjorie spoke up first. "Can we see everything, Doctor? I want to go to the real scary places." Dr. T. took out a cigarette and lit it before answering. "I suppose you mean the most disturbed wards. I will be glad to show you anything you want to see except where visitors would disturb the patients."

"Well, I can't for the life of me see how a crazy person would know the difference," Marjorie blurted out. Ann took her arm, and Marjorie was silent. She looked around at all the red brick buildings, then whispered to Ann. "I don't hear anything."

"First of all," Dr. T. said, "we will visit the insulin shock ward. At present we have all of our women who are receiving insulin shock housed together." The group waited while Dr. T. unlocked the door to the screened porch and followed him into one of the brick buildings. They walked quietly through the main room where women in rocking chairs read magazines. One young woman, in a neat cotton dress, passed Marjorie and said pleasantly, "Good morning." Marjorie was too surprised to answer. At the door of the insulin shock ward Marjorie looked around. Beds, neatly made, were lined up side by side. A small bedside table beside each one held magazines or knitting. Some of the women—youth as Marjorie—were reading. Several of them were rinsing out underwear in a far corner of the room, and one was scrupulously applying lipstick at a wall mirror. A young woman, with a pile of golden hair, eyed Marjorie hostilely, and Marjorie edged closer to Ann. "Any questions?" "Out in the hall, Dr. T. asked, "Any questions?" And again Marjorie was the first to speak. "I don't understand Doctor, why those women have insulin shock. They don't seem crazy."

Dr. T. spoke slowly. "Crazy is a relative word. These women are at times disturbed. They have delusions. They get confused. I often think of the words of a prophet who said, 'The madman is no less a musician than you or I. Only the instrument on which he plays is a little out of tune.'" A tall man stepped forward. "What is this insulin shock, and why is it good? How does it work?" "Sometimes a shock has brought people to this disturbed state. Sometimes another shock can bring them back. Ideally shock should be followed by psychotherapy, but we haven't enough doctors to work individually. So, on patients whom we think it will help, we give large doses of insulin over a period of days. The insulin sends them into coma, during which time they are closely supervised." Another woman interrupted. "But if insulin shock is so good, why don't you try it on hundreds of patients instead of just a few?" "To understand that," Dr. T. said, "you will have to understand the whole hospital setup. We are allowed $2 a day per patient for care. Insulin costs money; nursing care costs more. And when these patients take insulin, they must, by the same token, have massive amounts of protein foods. Those foods, too, cost money, far above the 58 cents a day allotted per patient." "But then what other methods do you use to help patients?" the woman asked. "We have electro-convulsions which—" "You mean shock treatment?" a man asked. "It is often called that."

"But that's a horrible thing," Marjorie blurted out. "I've heard about it." "What the whole truth is not the whole truth," Dr. T. said gently. "The shock is not unpleasant to the patient, though it is not easy to watch. The results are much the same as in insulin therapy. Now, would you like to visit other parts of the hospital?" "Just one more thing," Marjorie said. "Aren't you scared to go around these dangerous patients? I expected to find them crawling the walls and screaming." "Some of them occasionally become disturbed," Dr. T. explained. "But many of them are normal much of the time. These people are sick, and what they need is understanding. We seldom fear what we understand." And they left the building. Marjorie made her way to Dr. T.'s side. "Do any of these people ever leave the hospital? I thought they stayed here for life." "No, my dear, they are not committed to life sentences. Many people are able to return to normal living in one or two months. Seventy-five per cent return home in three to six months; 90 per cent in a year with proper treatment and care. The earlier they come, the earlier we begin treatment, the quicker they can go home." "Home? Do you mean some of them may live near me?" Dr. T. smiled at Marjorie. "Have any your neighbors had surgery? Pneumonia? Tuberculosis?" "Yes, but—" "You don't condemn them for getting sick?" "No, of course not." "These people are sick, too." "But they're reading and walking around just like us."

"They are not so different from us. Here, let us look at the library." "Library! Well, I never!" "Admission Method Before they went into the small building, Marjorie took Dr. T.'s arm. "How do people get sent to the hospital? They don't just come, do they?" "No, my dear, they don't just come. In Texas they are sent to us like criminals. They can request admittance for 90 days; but if they must stay longer, they have to go before a jury. And they need treatment and don't request it, they must be committed by a jury." "But that sounds as if they've murdered someone," Marjorie exclaimed. "Exactly." It was two hours later when Marjorie left the hospital and got back into the car beside Ann. She said contently, "Ann, I talked like a child this morning about hospital patients. I know better now. I feel as if I've had my eyes opened. I never dreamed of libraries, and physio-therapy and dancing for the patients. I never knew how lonely some of them are, how much they need a friend. Ann, I'm ready to volunteer my services. When do we start?"

Choice Volunteer Ann smiled. "I knew you would be a choice volunteer when you realized the work of the State Hospital. You know, Point 12 on the State Hospital 14-point program is the development of a modern general education program which will keep people like you informed about hospital programs, developments and needs of the various institutions. "Already the hospitals have started weekly press conferences, inspections of the hospitals and reports to interested people. Later on, plans call for expansion of the educational program, special hospital days and more complete reports." Public understanding of the hospital program will mean better State Hospitals, more volunteers, more wide-spread public acceptance. Ask Marjorie S. She knows—now!"

Leaders Report Area-Wide Gains In Civil Defense DALLAS—(P)—People are paying heed when they hear the words "civil defense" these days, civil defense directors from three Southwestern states say. The directors met here Monday to compare notes on how the civil defense programs in their areas are shaping up. W. D. Haas of Bunkie, La., director of Louisiana's civil defense, says citizens are "less skeptical" about the subject. "We're in better shape than a year ago and in much better shape than two years ago," reported French Robertson of Dallas, regional federal civil defense director. Others present were William L. McGill of Austin, state coordinator of defense and disaster relief, and L. A. Chatham of Claremore, Okla., Oklahoma civil defense chief. Typical of concrete gains that have been made, they reported, is an underground civil defense communications center nearing completion near Austin.

TEXAS YOUTH FACING MILITARY SERVICE Pondering Advice Of Reprised Brother FORT WORTH—(P)—A 20-year-old Army inductee—Bud Long—leaves for military duty next Tuesday pondering advice sent him by his brother, condemned to death by court martial for rape and murder. The boys' mother learned Monday that Pvt. James E. Long, 21, had received a commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment. Mrs. Sidney Woods, 43, said she "screamed," then cried for the last time in her life when she received from President Truman's military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, news of the presidential action. Two days previously, Bud and his 17-year-old brother Fred received similar "last letters" from the brother who had been sentenced to death for raping and killing an aged Korean woman and raping her 11-year-old granddaughter. "Kid," one of the letters said, "this letter will be the last. So don't try to grieve over me. "You can't guess how hard it is for me to write like this. I hope it won't sound too mushy. Tomorrow's Christmas again. This will make my fourth away from home. "x x x If at any time you should join the service, keep your nose clean. If you don't drink now, please don't start. It will get you in a lot of trouble. I hope you can do this one little thing for me. You know that I would do anything for you that I could. "So be a good boy, OK? "Take good care of yourself. Your brother, Sonny." When Mrs. Woods received the letter from the White House she said she thought it would tell of James' execution. She had been distressed because Army officials told her husband they "didn't have to send back" Long's body. "I'd given up hopes of anything more than that," she said. Now she's planning a couple of trips. Said the happy mother: "I'm going to Leavenworth or any place they send him as soon as he gets in the states. "Then, if we can get our dilapidated car going, I'm going to Missouri and shake President Truman's hand."

AGED NEGRO FREED IN SHOTGUN SLAYING OF WHITE ASSAILANT GADSDEN, ALA.—(P)—The fatal shooting of a white farmer by an elderly negro has been ruled justifiable homicide. Coroner W. W. (Red) Morris handed down the verdict Monday in the shooting of Johnny Dobbins of Beaz by Will Veasey, 70-year-old negro, Sunday night at the negro's home in East Gadsden. Veasey was released late Monday. He had been held for questioning pending the coroner's ruling. Assistant Police Chief G. H. Diggs said an investigation showed that Dobbins, who had been drinking heavily, came to Veasey's home and created a disturbance. The officer said the negro fired at Dobbins with a shotgun when the farmer drew a knife. Dobbins died in a Gadsden hospital from a chest wound shortly after being admitted.

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

Texas fighter Artie Dorrell, who once figured among the top welterweights in the world, told during the Christmas holidays how he discovered the late John Garfield was "one good Joe."

Dorrell found out at the expense of Garfield's producer, filming "Body and Soul." And also to Garfield's pain.

It was during the fight movie, in which Dorrell, a Tyler laundryman, was acting as technical adviser and as falling champion in the movie. It stemmed from the movies pre-release publicity, to-wit: That Garfield in his day had been something of an amateur fighter.

"I'm going to knock you out, Artie," Garfield taunted during the filming of fight scenes, but Dorrell paid no attention. He said they just don't do any hitting when they take the pictures.

Besides, the two had chummed together and Garfield dropped a fair sized bet on a Dorrell pick at one of the local fights.

But it so happened that Garfield was feeling his oats during the casting of the championship bout after a midday break.

"I was on my guard anyway," Dorrell laughed, "just in case. And when he came at me, swinging, he meant it."

In return, Garfield parried the left jab as Dorrell had shown him earlier, Garfield still swinging. Then bam—

"There was one thing I didn't show him," Dorrell said pausing. "I didn't show him what happens after you parry those jabs—I hooked him with a right and wham! down he went." Out for the count, out for the day.

When Dorrell later went to Garfield's room the damage was more than he figured. The actor was sore as a boil, besides having a cut eye. Movie making suspended. "But he took it real good and we went out together some more."

Midland High netters won't be seeing any action on the home courts for two or three weeks. Coach Frank Ford said Monday. Instead, he is working on arrangements for out-of-town matches, awaiting the completion of courts here.

Two new courts are going down now and when they're completed, Midland will play. Workers began pouring concrete on the courts early this week.

Ford's racquetballers bowed in their only duel so far, to Odessa, 6-4. Making up his first boys squad to date are James Wolf, Claton Tatum and Kenneth Hughes, singles, and Bill Vandeventer, John McGuigan, Johnny Godwin and Jimmy Garvin, doubles.

The girls are Ellen DeChicchi, Dorothy Faye Black and Phyllis Fryor, singles, and Janna Murray, Wanda Murray, Dorothy Faye Black and Carolyn Farris, doubles.

They've quit squabbling, for the moment, in the Gulf Coast League. Texas' lippest loop. They've decided to play it out in '53.

The Coasters ended all arguments Monday by voting to continue, stopping the annual I'm-quitting-no-matter-what-you-say battles. This time there will be the same clubs: Lake Charles, Port Arthur, Galveston, Texas City, Corpus Christi, Brownsville, Harlingen and Laredo.

It's an annual Winter warm-up when Lake Charles, Port Arthur and Galveston cry out that they are joining the Class C Evangeline League, while the others seem glad of it.

Yet, and although they want to, the others won't resign to reforming the Class C Rio Grande League. Instead, they meet and agree to keep feeding the Class B ghost to keep it alive.

Traveling distance is their big headache.

Thomas Nabs Scoring Lead In Loop Play

Lubbock's Westerners are down on the bottom of the District 1-AAAA basketball heap but not because they lack a scoring ace.

Even as Lubbock fell twice in its two league games thus far, Western ace Gerry Thomas boosted himself to the individual scoring leaders' list.

Thomas stoked the basket red-hot with 21 field goals in the two games and totaled 52 points, a 26-point game average. He chipped in 30 points Saturday when Abilene won over Lubbock, 65-64.

Keisling Seventh
The highest Midland scorer, Bob Keisling, wound up the first two games' work with 34 points, good for seventh in the point-making battle.

Behind Thomas, the leaders are Melvin Wright of Amarillo who entered two 22-point nights, Jimmy Ward of Pampa with 43 points, and Jerry Turner of Abilene with 38 points.

Tully, Pasqua Mangrum Plays Radio, Golf

Hired By Ball

GALVESTON —(P)—Ball High School at Galveston will have a new head football coach and assistant coach at the end of this month.

The school board Monday announced the hiring of Darrell Tully as head coach and Joe Pasqua as assistant coach.

Both will come from Crozier Tech High School in Dallas, where Tully is now head football coach and Pasqua line coach.

Tully will succeed Bill Rush, who resigned recently after 15 years at Ball High. Tully was a Little All-America back at East Texas State in 1939. He also played a year of pro ball with the Detroit Lions.

Pasqua made All-Southwest Conference guard in 1940 at Southern Methodist. He played four years as professional, three with the Washington Redskins and one with the Los Angeles Rams.

The pair are to start their new duties at the beginning of the Spring semester the latter part of this month.

Mangrum Plays Radio, Golf To $2,750 Tune In LA Open

LOS ANGELES —(P)—Lloyd Mangrum, who plays golf by ear, banked the profits Tuesday from his third Los Angeles Open golf championship.

The dapper mustached Mangrum carries a full complement of clubs in his bag and he knows what to do with them. But he also carries a radio, and he knows how to use that too.

As he toured his final round Monday, he kept tuned to the progress of his chief competitor, young Jack Burke, by radio.

Lloyd Mangrum is a system Mangrum devised several years ago. He started out the day five strokes ahead. He finished five strokes ahead.

At one stage, Burke was within three strokes and Mangrum stepped away from his portable long enough to card two birdies. It was the turning point. He never again was in danger.

Bartzen Skunks Foe In Dixie Net Meet

TAMPA, FLA. —(P)—Favorites in the twenty-sixth annual Dixie Tennis Tournament continued to meet local hopefuls Tuesday after easy victories in first round play Monday.

Gardner Mulloy, Miami, seeded No. 1 had a first round bye and won't open his campaign for his fifth Dixie title until Wednesday.

Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, seeded second, defeated Paul Roque, Tampa, 6-0, 6-0.

Mangrum is a gambler when the need arises, and like any good gambler can play them close to the vest. He did Monday, and collected $2,750.

He had 280, four under par, for the four days over Riviera Country Club's par-71, 7020-yard hill and dale course. His rounds were 69-72-69-70. Burke matched him on the final round, but couldn't out those five strokes. Burke's totals were 70-75-70-70.

Art Wall, Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., was tied with Burke—215 against Mangrum's 210—to start the day. But Wall fell away to 76 and sixth place behind three veterans, Johnny Bulla of Verona, Pa., who won here in 1941; Harry Bassler of Culver City and Zell Eaton of Montebello, a pair of Southern California club professionals.

Seeded players besides Mulloy getting first round byes were Calhoun Dickson, Tampa; Alfredo Miles, Rollins College; and Bill Davis, Knoxville, Tenn.

Of the 105 players in the National Hockey League, 13 were born in the Province of Manitoba, Canada.

Snively Says Coaches Due To Adopt Rigid Ethics Code

By WILL GRIMSLEY

WASHINGTON —(AP)— College football coaches will put the finishing touches Tuesday night on a rigid new code of ethics, and the president of the national body predicts adoption "with few or no changes."

"This is a move to protect our profession and to punish any member who does anything to tarnish that profession," said Carl Snively, who recently resigned as head coach at the University of North Carolina.

One of the principal objections comes from the Football Writers of America, who are opposed to a section of the proposed code which forbids a reporter to enter the dressing room until 15 minutes after a game.

And Bill Rives of the Dallas News, president of the writers' group, said he and other officers of his organization would appear before the coaches' trustees Tuesday night to protest what he termed "an obstruction of freedom of the press."

The coaches' activity was the main highlight as the vanguard arrived for the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Snively released the revised version of the coaches' code, drawn up by a special committee headed by Dudley DeGroot of the University of New Mexico.

Under provisions of the 14-page, 4,200-word document, a coach must be a perfect gentleman, on and off the field, or face suspension or expulsion from the organization.

Snively said the idea of an ethics code arose as the result of two unfortunate incidents:

1. The injury to Drake's Johnny Bright in a game with Oklahoma A&M in 1951, and.
 2. The charges the same year that Dartmouth went "out to get" Princeton's All-American Dick Kazmaier.
- "Both incidents created charges and bad feelings," Snively said. "Our code would eliminate such as that."

Breck Grabs Four Places On AAA Club

Breckenridge, the state champion, grabbed four places on the Class AAA all-state football team, released Tuesday.

Two of the Bucks were unanimous choices: Wayne Greenlee at guard and Jerry Tubbs at center.

Bobby Lockett, tackle, and Ken Ford, back, of Breckenridge also were first string selections.

Temple's End Roy Champan missed by one vote of being a unanimous choice while teammate Doyle Traylor, quarterback, and Ol Albrighton, guard of Corsicana, lacked two votes.

First Team
Ends — Roy Champan, Temple, and Norman Carruthers, Edison (San Antonio); Tackles — Bobby Lockett, Breckenridge, and Wayne Kimberlin, Cleburne; Guards — Wayne Greenlee, Breckenridge, and Ol Albrighton, Corsicana; Center — Jerry Tubbs, Breckenridge; Backs — Doyle Traylor, Temple; Odds — Mickey Kingsville, Leondous Ford, Brownwood, and Kenneth Ford, Breckenridge.

Second Team
Ends — Des Weatherford, Grand Prairie, and Bebes Stallings, Paris; Tackles — Neal Martin, Texarkana, and Ben Woodson, Brownwood; Guards — Luis Guerra, McAllen, and Don Miller, Fort Neches; Center — Don White, Brownwood; Backs — Bob Carpenter, Grand Prairie; Carol Overton, Palestine, Neal Williams, Gladewater, and Bill Dendy, Breckenridge.

Tough Lumberjacks Face Tech Tuesday

LUBBOCK — The first Border Conference basketball game of the season for Texas Tech's Red Raiders will be played against Arizona State of Flagstaff here Tuesday night.

Tech Coach Polk Robison has warned the Red Raiders; that the Lumberjacks are one of the fastest teams they'll encounter all season.

Senior Jim Topp, six-foot-two center from Kingman, Ariz., is the Lumberjacks' best scorer. Flagstaff also boasts in Lup Acevedo of Miami, Ariz., a man picked while in high school to play in the North-South game in Kentucky.

Bob Bouldin, Tech's senior forward from Sudan, may play for the first time since he suffered a shoulder separation against Oklahoma A&M December 13.

Tech now has a 4-5 record. Arizona State has won two and lost five.

Temple Coaching Aide Quits For Lufkin Job

TEMPLE —(AP)— Come February 1 and Temple High School will be without a backfield football coach. R. F. Erwin resigned Monday effective that date.

Erwin, who has been at Temple about a year, said he would enter business with his father in Lufkin. Erwin formerly coached the Nacogdoches and Lufkin High School football teams.

Freshman Fred Wyatt quarterbacked every West Virginia touchdown this season. He passed for eight TDs, scored five and handed off for the other 22.

BOOST — Utah State's Bob Harbertson seemingly gets an extra boost from Tom Hunt leaping high in the air to sink a driving shot for another two points as the westerners defeated Manhattan, 59-37, to win New York's Holiday Basketball Festival at Madison Square Garden. (NEA)

DIMAG NEARING HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK —(AP)— Joe DiMaggio, the famed Yankee Clipper, seems almost certain to be elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

Early returns from among 300 writers indicate that DiMaggio, who retired after the 1951 season, is well out in front in the balloting.

The announcement of those elected is expected late this month.

K-State Holds To First Spot In Cage Poll

NEW YORK —(AP)— Those holiday basketball tournaments are gone, but apparently not forgotten by the nation's sportswriters and broadcasters, who named Kansas State as the nation's No. 1 team.

Kansas State's rousing victory in the Big Seven Tournament last week—the Wildcats' only activity of the week—kept State at the head of the Associated Press basketball poll Tuesday for the second straight week.

The tourney success also widened the Kansas State lead, as the Wildcats piled up 758 points on a basis of 10 for first, nine for second, etc., to only 647 for second-place Seton Hall. Seton Hall trailed by only five points last week.

Illinois Fourth
A total of 101 writers and casters, voting for 56 different schools, kept La Salle in third place, followed by Illinois, which Monday night trimmed Purdue, 87-71. But from that point on, the standings were scrambled.

Oklahoma A&M, victor in the All-College Tourney at Oklahoma City, jumped from seventh to fifth, and North Carolina State climbed from eleventh to ninth after winning the Dixie Classic.

Kentuckians Sleek
Western Kentucky stayed at No. 10, despite a loss to Idaho in the All-College Tourney.

The leaders' (first-place votes in parentheses):

1. Kansas A&M (31) 758
2. Seton Hall (20) 647
3. La Salle (17) 623

NEWEST MAYOR ISN'T MARILYN

UNIVERSAL CITY, CALIF.—(AP)—This movie municipality, a 400-acre property that is Universal-International Studio, has elected actor Rock Hudson as its mayor.

He defeated movie star Marilyn Maxwell.

Hudson succeeds Donald O'Connor in Monday's balloting. Mary Castle, a red-haired beauty from Pampa, Texas, had a badge pinned on her bathing suit as honorary police chief.

Steve O'Neill, manager of the Phillies, has won two pennants in 19 years as a manager. He led Beaumont home first in the Texas League in 1942 and his 1945 Detroit team won in the American League.

'MR. ENGLAND' IS BACK AGAIN

America is host once more to the cigar-smoking, "W" signaling, smiling British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Making his eighth visit to the U. S. since 1941, Churchill has become somewhat of a transatlantic commuter. He visited here in 1929 and 1932 as a member of Parliament, but Churchill's close, personal influence on Anglo-American relations began in August, 1941, when he met with President Franklin D. Roosevelt at sea to draft the Atlantic Charter. In December of the same year he visited Washington. He crossed the Atlantic again in 1942 and twice in 1943. He returned again in 1946 and 1949 as a private citizen after his Conservative Party was defeated by Clement Attlee's Labor Party. Churchill's last official call on President Truman in the White House was made in January, 1952. On his current trip he will pay a courtesy call on the Trumans in Washington.

1942—In January, Winnie rests at White House, showing famed "siren suit."

1943—Attired in naval uniform, Churchill displays determination and cigar as he rides with President Franklin D. Roosevelt on their way to the White House for their first meeting that year.

1946—After his Conservative Party lost power, Churchill visited Fulton, Mo., with President Harry Truman, where the former prime minister made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech.

1953—Back in power, Churchill made an official call on President Truman in January. On his present visit, he will confer with President-elect Eisenhower, then pay a call on President Truman.

Reporter Says Deserters Quit U. S. Army At 'Alarming' Pace

LOUISVILLE, KY.—(AP)— The Louisville Times reported Tuesday that desertions from the armed forces of the United States have reached "alarming proportions."

The situation has become so bad, the newspaper said in a copyrighted article, that well-informed Army Colonel called it "a national disgrace."

It said the wave of runaways is motivated, in a large number of cases, by the desires of young men to get dishonorably discharged and avoid service in Korea.

Hundreds Beam Free
In Kentucky alone, the article said, from 3,900 to 4,000 deserters are tracked down each year and other hundreds still roam the country.

It quoted military men as saying the situation is proportionately as bad in the other 47 states. Accurate figures on the other states are unavailable, however, because the Defense Department has refused to make them public.

The Times said it had learned, however, that since the Fall of 1950, the Fort Knox stockade seldom has contained fewer than 400 curate figures on the other states are unavailable, however, because the Defense Department has refused to make them public.

The Times said it had learned, however, that since the Fall of 1950, the Fort Knox stockade seldom has contained fewer than 400 to 600 prisoners, "practically all of them deserters and AWOL's."

Richard Harwood, Times staff writer who wrote the article, said: "As of two months ago, at least 700 soldiers and sailors were hiding out in Kentucky cities, on farms and in rural communities. Some of them deserted years ago. Some of them live almost like animals in caves and abandoned coal mines. Many of them are protected and hidden by relatives and friends."

Nationally, Harwood wrote, enough facts are known to justify the estimate of some military men that on any given day of the year enough able-bodied men to make up two complete combat divisions are classified as deserters or AWOL. That indicates a permanent force of runaways numbering 25,000 to 30,000 men.

Harwood quoted the colonel: "These young men don't even seem to know the meaning of patriotism. They don't give a damn what happens to their country. The only thing they are interested in is themselves."

The article added: "Parents have defended such attitudes, according to these officers, and more than once congressmen have intervened to prevent the Army from punishing the sons of their constituents."

Aliens Get Warning On Registration

Aliens have until the end of January to register and report their addresses to the government, N. G. Oates, Midland Postmaster, reminded Tuesday.

Reading a Justice Department ruling, Oates said that any alien temporarily absent from the United States during this month's reporting period is required to report his or her address within 10 days after returning to the United States.

The ruling, which is above the signature of James P. McGranery, U. S. Attorney General, states that deportation is a penalty for failure to report. The ruling added that probable imprisonment and fines will be levied before deportation.

An alien is able to pick up a registration card at any United States post office. The card—after being completed—must be handed to the post office clerk and not mailed, instead.

The registration card asks for eight statements. The alien must tell his registration letter and number, give his complete name, the name he last registered under, his United States address, name of the country in which he or she was born and the date of birth, the place where he or she entered the United States and the date of entry, and a statement of truth to all the answers.

The registrant must also state whether he or she is a permanent resident, a visitor, or a student of the United States.

New Commie Blows Crack Holiday Lull in Korean Fighting

SEOUL—(AP)—Communist armies cracked a holiday lull in Korean fighting Monday night with sharp attacks against Jane Russell Hill and three outposts on the east-central front.

Allied troops beat back all the attacks, the biggest by a reinforced Chinese company. Heavy shelling signaled each of the Red attacks.

In the air, 14 American Superforts pounded targets near Pyongyang and near the battlefield Monday night.

Eight Allied Sabre jet pilots clashed twice with 24 Communist MIG's in clearing weather Tuesday. They reported two Red jets damaged.

Temperatures on the Korean battlefield hit a low of five degrees before dawn but quickly rose to a high of 47 in one sector. A bright sun turned snow patches mushy.

Be Worthy Of America, Speaker Urges Kermit

By BILL COLLYNS Reporter-Telegram Editor KERMIT—"Let's thank God today and everyday for America," Roe Bartle, Kansas City, Mo. banker, civic leader and internationally-known speaker, told members and guests of the Kermit Chamber of Commerce at their seventh annual banquet here Monday night.

"Let's be worthy of America and its heritage by gearing our lives and our personalities to a vigorous, wholesome program which first will make our communities better places in which to live."

Dinner music was furnished by Mrs. Emil Bysl and Frank Wharton, pianists. The Rev. Charles Walker, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation. Officers Introduced K. E. Burrows, retiring president of the C. of C., welcomed members and guests before introducing E. E. Spangler, new president, and J. M. Pancake, vice president. E. M. Stodghill is the retiring vice president. Fred Pearson, new manager of the organization, also was introduced.

ETERNAL REST IN MIDST OF LIFE—The 127-year-old grave, above, was discovered along a road during expansion of West Hyattsville, Md., in suburban Washington, D. C. The legend on the old headstone declares that one Ann Baxter, born in London in 1826, died "near this place" in 1825. Maryland law forbids building of houses above graves, and so the remains of Ann Baxter lie undisturbed in the midst of a bustling community, except when youngsters, as above, play around the mound which houses the grave.

Air Of Mystery Cloaks Ike's Farm Experts' Policy Meeting

By OVID A. MARTIN WASHINGTON—(AP)—An air of mystery covered a scheduled meeting Tuesday of a 14-member commission named by President-elect Eisenhower to help draw up a Republican farm program.

But school officials said they had been requested to give no other information about the meeting, its site or place. Site Not Known Republican national headquarters said they too were unable to supply details. Several GOP farm leaders in Congress said they had been able to confirm that the meeting would be held but had not been able to learn the site.

The commission was named to make suggestions to the new Administration on such matters as farm price supports, extension of price supports to perishable products not now protected, soil conservation subsidies, foreign trade as it relates to agriculture, the suggested formation of a permanent, bipartisan commission to advise the secretary of agriculture, and reorganization of the department.

Taft Slates Open Hearings On Proposals For T-H Law

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said Tuesday he and Representative McConnell (R-Pa.) have agreed on "wide open" hearings on proposals to amend the Taft-Hartley Act.

These hearings to begin simultaneously in the Senate and House about February 1, with all interested parties invited to air their views.

McConnell is the new chairman of the House Labor Committee, and Taft indicated he will take over chairmanship of the Senate group, in addition to his new duties as Senate Republican floor leader.

This decision might involve Taft's quitting the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee if he seeks a place on the foreign relations group, as friends have said he may do. The Ohio senator said it is his present intention to introduce only what he called non-controversial amendments to the national labor law he helped write in 1947. He said he will leave to others the sponsorship of changes which might bring a floor fight. Major Objectives Although Taft did not specify what changes he has in mind, he already has drafted amendments under which (1) company officials would be required to take the non-Communist oath if they wished to use the law, as union officials now must do, and (2) strikers who have been replaced in their jobs would be permitted to vote in representation elections.

Both these changes in the law have been advocated by President-elect Eisenhower. Taft also may propose amendments to cure some loopholes in the secondary boycott section of the law, as well as to alter the legal definition of foremen and to clarify the relationship of the general counsel with the National Labor Relations Board. Dies In House He sponsored similar changes which two years ago passed the Senate but died in the House. Taft said he had talked with George Meany, new president of the AFL, about prospective changes in the law but had not heard directly from any of the higher officials of the CIO. "We will have wide open hearings," Taft said. "Any responsible person can come in and say what he wants changed in the act. I believe that we and the House members will come up with substantially the same bill, although it probably will vary in individual details, and that some amendments to the act will be passed."

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—(AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, the defeated Democratic presidential nominee and the party's titular head, says he has no plans to run for public office again. "Bear in mind I didn't seek the nomination for governor in 1948 or the presidential nomination."

Two Americans, 25 Britons Die In Air Crash At Belfast

BELFAST, NORTHERN IRELAND—(AP)—Salvage squads with Geiger counters hunted Tuesday for a box of "highly dangerous" radium in the wreckage of a British airliner that crashed at Nutt's Corner Airport Monday night, killing 27 persons, including two Kansas school teachers. Seven others were injured. The radium was being flown to Belfast Radiotherapy Clinic. Rescuers were warned "if the box has burst, don't touch the contents. They are highly dangerous."

passengers, saw the twin-engine British European Airways (BEA) plane hit a beacon tower, career against the airport's radio control building and crumple in flames on the main runway. Wreckage was scattered 180 yards. Only one of the 35 persons aboard the ill-fated craft—Steward Jack Young, 26, of Belfast—escaped unhurt. He was flung from the tail section into a muddy ditch when the plane broke up. The two American schoolteachers were Delores Griffing, 30, of Smith Center, Kan., and Elda J. Duerksen, 28, of Inman, Kan. The other 25 killed were Britons.

The plane was on a regularly-scheduled flight from London to Nutts Corner Field, 14 miles from here. It made a normal landing approach at 8:40 p.m., until it was about 50 feet off the ground. Then it ripped into the beacon mast. Ship Bursts Into Flames The impact hurled the plane against the control building, silencing all the airport's radio transmitters. The battered airliner then bounded onto the runway and burst into flames 200 yards from the airport lounge, where the waiting friends and relatives were gathered.

SAID THE PORPOISES TO THE PELICANS—"Come on in, the water's fine," tease two gay porpoises at Marineland, Fla., but their pampered pelican pals appear to be a bit doubtful. However, the smiling porpoises seemed so intoxicated with the water that the pelicans shrugged off their fears and were soon frolicking about in the waters of Marineland's oceanarium.

A screaming, panic-stricken girl ran from the wreckage with her clothing afire. Rescuers chased her 300 yards before they were able to catch her and take her to a hospital. Working by automobile headlights and hastily-erected arc lamps, fire squads extinguished the flames and removed the dead and injured. "When we reached the wreckage, bodies were strewn around the aircraft and some people were hanging half in and half out of the plane," said W. H. M. Clelland, a Belfast resident who came to meet a passenger. Everything 'Normal' There was no immediate indication how the plane happened to hit the beacon mast. Young, the only crewman to survive, said "everything was normal" as the plane approached for the landing. "The passengers had fastened their safety belts when suddenly there was a terrific crash like a bomb in a blitz," he added. "The next thing I knew I was lying in a muddy ditch." Ministry of Civil Aviation officials flew to Belfast Tuesday to hold an official inquiry into the crash—the first big air wreck in the United Kingdom in almost a year. Last January 10, 23 persons were killed when an Aer Lingus (Irish Republic) plane hit a mountain in Wales.

Court Decree Ends 25-Year Scramble For Snuff Fortune

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The 22-year-old scramble over the $7 million dollar Garrett snuff fortune was at an end Tuesday. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Monday dismissed separately 14 appeals in the long court wrangle, paving the way for final distribution of the fortune. The tribunal, shuddering at the thought of what it called a "fishing expedition" that could go on for a century, affirmed a decree handed down in 1931 by the Philadelphia Orphans Court. That decree awarded the money to the heirs or assigns of three late first cousins of Henrietta S. Garrett, who died 22 years ago. "The findings of the court below satisfied everyone but 26,000 disappointed claimants," the Supreme Court said.

Belief, Work Builds Success, Downing Says In Seminole

By JOHN BOWERS Reporter-Telegram Staff SEMINOLE—Success comes from pursuing relentlessly that which you believe in, Midland Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing declared at the annual Seminole football banquet Monday night. Downing was principal speaker of the evening which was highlighted by presentation of Seminole's two most coveted football awards. Danny Phillips, a defensive end, was selected by the Seminole community to receive the award as "Outstanding Lineman for 1952." Halfback Johnny Hargrove was presented with the "Fighting Heart" trophy for the past season. The "Fighting Heart" prize goes each year to the Seminole football player who best exemplifies the spirit of teamwork and "never say die" attitude that makes gridiron stars. Coaches made the selection. Tommy Roberts, president of the Seminole Booster Club, presided at the Monday night banquet, introducing school board members and a host of guests, including the head football coach at Seminole, George Zoller. Zoller presented the 16 members of his football squad that he would lose by graduation in 1953. Then he called upon his two assistant coaches to introduce the balance of the Seminole team. The Seminole Indians had a season record of eight wins, one loss, and one tie in regular season play. In the playoffs, the Indians advanced one game, and then lost in the next venture to be eliminated. V. L. Wilson, past president of the Boosters Club, distributed gifts to the coaching Seminole staff. F. J. Young, superintendent of the Seminole school system, introduced Downing as the principal speaker. Downing used as the theme of his address "Great Football Players are Great Boys First." He elaborated on his message by citing numerous cases of gridiron greats who were respected as private citizens of the football field. He gave as examples football stars of the past and present such as Lindy Berry, TCU; Doak Walker, SMU, and Sammy Baugh, TCU. Downing said all of the outstanding football players he ever knew practiced sportsmanship and clean living in every phase of their lives. He urged the Seminole footballers to follow their precedent in order to succeed.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce manager concluded by emphasizing that youngsters graduating from school today must overcome fear by developing faith in God, themselves, and their fellow man. He pointed out that the only true road to success in life was for one to believe in what they are doing, and never give up.

CIO Heads Shout 'Lockout' In Aircraft Plant Dispute

DALLAS—(AP)—Union officials shouted "lockout" Tuesday as absence of an estimated 250 aircraft workers at Chance Vought Aircraft Company threatened plane production. Company officials said the workers refused admittance to the plant had altered their identification badges in defiance of security regulations. Charles Scott, president of Local 893, United Automobile Workers (CIO), said the union members had affixed plastic "shields" around their identification badges. He claimed the shields "in no way" altered the badges. Scott added that the rule was hastily drafted and issued November 10, day after the union ordered the plastic shields. He told The Associated Press, "The matter has nothing to do with security, unless perhaps the management meant that the union's security was threatened." Several hundred workers removed the shields and reported for duty, but Scott said the 250 who refused to comply held an indignation meeting and decided to stick to their shields. "It amounts to a lockout," he repeated. Scott said the shields bore the local number and guaranteed return postage in event of loss of badges. Charles Brown moved to Cisco in the early 20's, returning to Midland in 1936. Five years later he acquired the ranch in Llano County.

Survivors include the widow, the former Miss Beulah Graves of Midland; two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Dorsey and Mrs. Jenny Dorsey, both of Midland, and a brother, Paul Brown of Austin.

Fallbearers will be Allen Dorsey, Mark Dorsey and Ronald Jarritt, all of Midland; Graham Brown of Austin, Joe Brown of Temple, Capt. William G. Noble of San Antonio, Don Carlisle of Waco and Jack Edwards of Monahans.

Rhee, Yosida Talk With General Clark In Touchy Meeting

TOKYO.—(P)—Two aged Asian leaders, President Syngman Rhee, 77, of South Korea, and Prime Minister Sigeru Yosida, 74, of Japan, conferred more than an hour Tuesday.

There was no clue whether they made any headway toward resolving the long-standing disputes between the nations. They met at the residence of Gen. Mark Clark, U. S. Far Eastern commander. Clark sat in on the talks.

The dramatic conference came against a background of ill feeling which dates back more than half a century. Rhee was a prisoner of the Japanese at one time during Japan's 40-year occupation of Korea.

Rhee told correspondents "we would like to see Japan show some effort" toward resolving their controversies.

Peace treaty talks between Japan and Korea broke down last April, largely over Japanese claims on property in Korea and fishery rights.

Rhee said Japan claims 80 per cent of Korea's property. He called this "outrageous."

Doomed Slayer Has New Hope Of Stay In Slated Execution

HUNTSVILLE.—(P)—Bible-reading Robert Miers, 22-year-old condemned slayer, had new hope Tuesday that he might skip his scheduled after-midnight walk to the state's electric chair.

While an attractive inmate of nearby Goree Prison Farm for Women hoped for eventual marriage with the condemned man, his lawyer sent word that he had new evidence in the slaying for which Miers was convicted.

Attorney Joe Lee Hensley of San Antonio said he would appear before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles in Austin Tuesday to appeal for a commutation of the death sentence.

Miers, meanwhile, sat in death row here taking it "pretty well," a reporter said. He was reading his Bible and writing letters almost continuously, he told the reporter.

Most of the letters were to members of the congregation of the Calvary Missionary Church at San Antonio, where for two months prayers have been offered night and day that Miers' life would be spared.

Writes To Girl Friends

But some of the letters were to pretty Glenda Clark, 22, who said she was with the condemned slayer the night of March 8, 1951, when they attempted to rob a San Antonio service station. Miers scuffed with A. J. Senderme, who tried to stop the holdup, and Senderme was killed.

The Goree prison matron, Mrs. Frank Dobbs, told a reporter Miss Clark had professed love for Miers and quoted her as saying she hoped "if things turned out right" to marry the youthful slayer. The girl, serving a five-year sentence for her part in the slaying, will not talk to newsmen. Miers had told reporters he loves Miss Clark.

The Rev. Frank Stribling, Calvary Missionary pastor, said Monday night that prayers for Miers "will not cease until all hope is gone." More than 2,000 continuous hours have been spent in prayer since late October. About 60 members of the church are doing most of the praying, Stribling said, with several praying in one and two-hour shifts.

New Hope, New Faith

"Bob's conversion is genuine," the pastor said, adding that he prays Miers' life will be saved because "the is just now ready to live since he has found a new hope and faith in Christ."

The preacher visited Miers in Bexar County jail at San Antonio after Miers wrote to him. He and his congregation became the prime movers in an effort to get the death sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

Since then, more than 3,000 San Antonio residents have signed petitions asking that the young man's life be spared. "Sympathy was definitely against him at the time we started the petitions," Stribling said.

Miers, Miss Clark, Richard Thorbus and Leroy Johnson were arrested three days after Senderme, county road employe, was killed. Thorbus was sentenced to life imprisonment and Johnson received a 30-year sentence.

Police Scour Entire Nation For Texas Slaying Suspect

DALLAS.—(P)—Police scoured the nation Tuesday for Donald Hawkins Brown, 27, wanted in the gun-torch slaying of a young finance company collector.

A nation-wide pickup order was issued for Brown Monday night after he was charged with murder in the death of Edwin Joe Campbell, 25, whose body—beaten, shot four times, and burned—was found in a blazing car here New Year's Eve. Brown, until last October a street car and bus operator here, lived only three blocks from where Campbell's body was found a short time after he was killed.

Homicide Capt. Will Fritz of the Dallas Police Department filed the charge against Brown after officers found bloodstained clothing in the attic of the apartment where Brown lived with his wife and two children. Fritz said the whole family was missing and apparently fled soon after the slaying.

Fritz said the former bus driver owned a three-months-past-due driver with Campbell's company on a 1947 Buick sedan. Texas license number JV7801.

The veteran homicide chief said he was given several names of persons who move and leave no forwarding address in efforts to avoid collector.

"We are confident Campbell was trying to repossess Brown's Buick when he met his death," Fritz said.

Campbell's employers said he was particularly adept at finding "skips," persons who move and leave no forwarding address in efforts to avoid collector.

Permian Basin Oil And Gas Log—

Near A Discovery

It is one and one-half miles south and three-quarters of a mile west of the same concern's No. 1 Dickinson, which was completed more than a year ago as a flowing discovery from the Ellenburger.

That well became depleted after a short time and was abandoned. Tide Water No. 1-B Dickinson had some gas in the Strawn section of the Pennsylvania and it had a slight show of oil in the Devonian.

It made salty sulphur water in the Montoya.

Gas, Oil Shows Logged At Wildcat In NE Glasscock

Cities Service Oil Company and Skelly Oil Company No. 1-B Cross, wildcat in Northeast Glasscock County, developed a show of gas and recovery of oil-cut mud on a drillstem test in the lower Permian.

Test was taken in the interval from 8,861 to 8,999 feet. Tool was open five hours. Gas surfaced in 20 minutes at the estimated rate of 14,000 cubic feet daily. Recovery was 780 feet of oil-cut mud, estimated to be 15 per cent oil. Open flowing pressure was from 300 up to 450 pounds. Shutin pressure after 30 minutes was 3,975 pounds.

Operator deepened to 9,112 feet and took a drillstem test from 9,059 to 9,112 feet. Tool was open one hour. Recovery was 60 feet of slightly gas-cut mud with no-shows of oil or water.

More hole was being made below 9,240 feet.

Location is at the center of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 17, block 35, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Strawn Discovery Indicated At SW Knox Prospector

Sohio Petroleum Company and Chicago Corporation apparently have a discovery from the Strawn sand at their No. 1 F. W. Thorman in Southwest Knox County.

A drillstem test was taken in the interval from 5,131 to 5,161 feet. Tool was open two hours and 20 minutes. Gas surfaced in 50 minutes. Recovery was 5,000 feet of fluid, of which 450 feet was mud-cut and 4,550 feet of 36.2-gravity oil. No water was developed.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure was 1,470 pounds and shutin pressure after 30 minutes was 2,210 pounds.

After the test, operator cored from 5,161 to 5,186 feet. Recovery was 25 feet of shale with no shows.

The Strawn sand was topped by samples at 5,138 feet, elevation 1,488 feet, derrick floor.

Location is 11 1/2 miles west of the town of Knox City and 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 66, block 13, H&TC survey.

Ellenburger Opener In C-E Ector Area Making More Hole

More hole was being made below 13,296 feet in line at Texas Gulf Producing Company No. 1 Headlee, flowing discovery from the Ellenburger in Central-East Ector County.

On a drillstem test from 13,106 to 13,270 feet, open flowing bottomhole pressure was from 3,225 to 4,800 pounds. Shutin pressure after one hour was 6,545 pounds.

On the test, 66.27 barrels of oil was flowed in three hours on a one-quarter-inch choke and 38.2 barrels of oil in one hour on a one-inch opening.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 8, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Magnolia, Hanley Stake Three New Spraberry Tests

Magnolia Petroleum Company spotted location for two Spraberry projects in Midland County and Hanley Company staked site for one in Glasscock County.

Magnolia will drill No. 5 J. W. Driver in the Tex-Hanley field of Central-East Midland County, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey. It will go to 8,100 feet.

Magnolia No. 9 D. T. Bowles will be dug in the Driver field of Southeast Midland County, 660 feet from south and 2,818 feet from west lines of the north half of the north half of the southwest quarter of section 4, block 37, T-5-S, T&P survey. It also is scheduled for an 8,100-foot bottom.

Hanley will dig No. 3-AB TXL in the Driver field of Southwest Glasscock County. It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 25, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey. It is slated for an 8,000-foot bottom.

Upton Wildcat Has Flowing Oil In DST

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1-RR TXL, one-half mile north offset to production in the west side of the Pegasus (Ellenburger) field of Northwest Upton County, is drilling below 10,550 feet in lime and shale after flowing oil on a drillstem test.

The test was taken from 10,510 to 10,550 feet. Tool was open seven hours and 15 minutes. Gas came to the surface in five minutes, flowing pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure after 30 minutes was 1,308 pounds.

The prospector is drilling deeper. It is slated to go on to the Ellenburger.

It is three miles northeast of Hylton, two and one-half miles southwest of the Hylton field and 330 feet from north and west lines of section 35, block 2, T&P survey.

NW Howard Wildcat Sets Pipe; To Test Pennsylvania Zone

J. K. Bally and Roy M. Eidal were preparing to swab and test a section in the top of the Pennsylvania reef at No. 1 R. D. Anderson, wildcat in Northwest Howard County.

After making water on total depth of 8,360 feet, operator plugged the project back to 8,260 feet. Five and one-half-inch casing was cemented at 8,270 feet.

That casing was perforated in the interval from 8,236-43 feet.

The section covered by the perforations developed a slight amount of free oil on a drillstem test when it was drilled.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 24, block 13, T-3-N, T&P survey.

Stepout To Gaines Pool Set By Shell

Shell Oil Company will drill No. 1 Oploton as a stepout to production in the Harris field of South-Central Gaines County.

Tennessee Production Company No. 3 C. B. Townes is to be drilled as a 7,500-foot rotary project in the Prentice field of Northwest Terry County.

Operator staked location 1,815 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 22, block K, psl survey and five miles northwest of the town of Tokio.

Operations are to start at once.

C-E Upton Field Gets Extension

The Benedum (Spraberry) field of Central-East Upton County has been extended one-half of a mile south and southeast with the completion of Champlin Refining Company No. 1-J University for a calculated daily flowing potential of 506.08 barrels of 35.2-gravity oil plus 11.8 per cent water.

Gas-oil ratio was 555-1. Production was based on an actual six-hour flow through a one-half inch choke and from open hole between 7,395 feet, where seven-inch casing is set and total depth of 7,439 feet. Top of pay was picked at 7,402 feet on derrick floor elevation of 2,671 feet. Pay section was cased with 4,000 gallons. Tubing pressure was 100 pounds and there was a packer on the casing.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8, block 3, University survey.

Brown Raps 'Strong Move' For Increased Oil Imports

HOUSTON — An oil industry spokesman Tuesday condemned "a strong movement" designed to discredit the domestic oil industry and open the door for increased imports of foreign oil with government approval.

Russell B. Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, said United States oil producers are being discouraged by petroleum imports coming into this country "at a greater rate than ever before."

Wicker Talks '53 Outlook

Jack Wicker, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and vice president of The Midland National Bank, will be the guest speaker Wednesday noon at the regular meeting of the Midland Lions Club.

Jack Wicker

"The Outlook for 1953" will be the subject of Wicker's address, President L. V. Bassham announced. The banker-civic leader is expected to review accomplishments of the last year and to discuss business prospects for 1953 in Midland and the Permian Basin Empire.

Club officials anticipate a large attendance of club members and guests at the meeting, which will be held at Jimmy's Bar-B-Q, 416 West Texas Street.

VACATION IN NEW MEXICO
C. W. Turner, and sister, Mrs. E. A. Ragsdale, left Monday for a month's vacation at Truth or Consequence, N. M. Enroute they stopped in El Paso to visit relatives.

He deplored the record of government agencies which he said have been influenced by a few foreign operating oil companies in the administration of petroleum supply policies.

"We have witnessed such power over the years," he said. "Too often when we find a government agent fostering destructive proposals we see the shadow of these (oil importing) companies at his elbow."

"We have watched with concern the ease with which officials of our State Department, the Department of Commerce and other agencies are interchangeable with officials of the importing companies," he asserted.

Brown, who spoke at a meeting of independent oil men here, said the United States is in the most fortunate position of all nations with regard to petroleum supply, so vital to national defense.

Matter Of Policy
"We have within the United States oil supplies equal to our full requirements for the foreseeable future," he said. "To whatever extent this country is now or may become dependent upon outside sources for petroleum supplies is a matter of government policy."

"Implementation of this policy so as to insure its recognition and effect its compliance becomes the joint responsibility of the industry and the government," he said.

Declaring new appraisals will be necessary in the correct formation of permanent policies for the nation's oil program, Brown said.

"The threat today is that a vast volume of oil discovered outside the United States is in the hands of those who desire to increase their welfare by bringing that oil here to supplant the market on which domestic oil must depend."

Cracked-Up Canines To Get Psychological 'Brain Wash'

LOS ANGELES—There are 700,000 dogs in Los Angeles and about 250,000 of them, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says, either are neurotic or close to it.

So the society has hired Bert Turquist, canine psychologist, to offer free treatment for dogs that have become frustrated by the noises of the city.

Says he: "We spoil our dogs; in many cases that is the clue to the neurosis. But a dog's hearing is tuned up four times that of a human. Noises affect them more and thereby bring on fears and nervous complexes."

One of Dr. Turquist's remedies will be to turn on so much noise for part of the dog's visit that when he goes home, ordinary noises won't affect him.

Londoners' Cozy Fireplaces Pour Out Extra Sting For Infamous Pea-Soups

By ROBERT F. S. JONES
LONDON —(P)—Every Winter evening Londoners sit toasting their feet in front of the cozy open fires so beloved by Britons.

And every Winter Londoners spend some of those evenings grumbling because their trains and buses have been bogged down by fog.

At last it's beginning to dawn on them that those cozy fires have a lot to do with the soupy fogs—but so far there doesn't seem much they can do about it.

Two Big Chunks
Twice recently large chunks of British life were brought to an abrupt standstill by the worst fogs in 30 years, with air liners grounded, trains running hours late and cars and buses jammed head to tail along main roads.

The total cost hasn't been totted up yet, but it's bound to run into millions of dollars.

Airlines were the biggest sufferers financially. More than a dozen international lines had to postpone flights for as long as 48 hours.

British Overseas Airlines, for instance, postponed 19 long-distance flights over one weekend—and it costs BOAC $42,000 dollars every time one of their trans-Atlantic planes is held up.

It cost a lot in frayed tempers, too, and got Britons asking, "How can we stop it?"

There's little the chemists and scientists don't know about fog—except how to stop it easily.

They know it's caused by what the experts call "a condensation of moisture always present in the atmosphere." In other words, when you have no wind, clear skies at night and a dropping temperature you've got ordinary fog.

Yellow Oil Surges
Shake all this up with a few hundred tons of assorted grit, dust and specks of coal and you've got the famous London "pea soup."

The pea soup has to be seen to be believed—and then you wish you didn't. It's dank. It smells thick and greasy. It swirls about you and past you in yellow oil surges.

It clogs in your hair and on your clothes. It gets stuck in your lungs. You can't see where you're going and you're not even certain where you've come from. People shuffle

Schools Try 'Teleteaching' In Strike-Bound Baltimore

BALTIMORE—(P)—Playing hooky from school was largely a matter of flicking the television dial for most youngsters Tuesday in this metropolis of empty classrooms and bulging garbage cans.

Stymied by a strike of city employees, including school janitors and garbage collectors, educators embarked on the Grand Experiment—teaching by television.

Scientists who dreamed of something like this in their world of tomorrow watched to see how it worked out today.

And television—up to now a magnetic power for the small fry—got its sternest test from 80,000 boys and girls, 60 per cent of Baltimore's public school enrollment.

All three Baltimore stations — WMAR, WBAL-TV and WAAM — offered time and technicians for "teleteaching."

Each station will beam studio-living room courses for the duration of the strike, with pupils advised beforehand about the time and channel they are to watch for particular subjects, planners said.

The situation began taking shape New Year's Day, when more than 3,000 city workers struck for higher pay.

Since then, sanitation officials estimate, almost 1,000 tons of garbage have been piling up daily in garbage cans and makeshift containers throughout the city.

Sewer and water department work has virtually been at a standstill.

Daily Calls Scheduled
Monday, 174 public schools reopened after Christmas vacation.

One hundred and four were closed after first morning sessions because their janitors had joined the strike and classrooms were cold. Three operated on curtailed schedules.

Pupils sent home from the cold buildings were given homework and told to report again Tuesday.

Dr. William H. Lemmel, superintendent of public instruction, said they would be instructed to stop in daily throughout the strike to get more homework to combine with their TV courses.

At City Hall, Mayor Thomas d'Alessandro huddled until the wee hours of the third straight night with representatives of the AFL Teamsters Union without reporting any agreement on a new contract.

Probe Reveals Death Fight Of Trapper, Prowling Bear

ANCHORAGE, ALASKA—(P)—The story of what appeared to be a fight to the death between an Alaska trapper and a marauding black bear at a remote mountain cabin was pieced together slowly Thursday.

A coroner's jury still has not ruled officially on what caused the death of Rudolph H. Gaier, 50, the trapper, but new clues turned up at his wilderness cabin strengthened the theory of a man vs. beast battle that ended in a fatal draw.

Gaier, whose mother and brother live at Chippewa Falls, Wis., was found dead in his blood-soaked bed late last month.

A bush pilot, Max Shellabarger of Skwentna, discovered Gaier's body on a flight with supplies for the hermit trapper. He brought the body here.

Later, returning to board up the cabin 100 miles northwest of Anchorage, Shellabarger probed in the deep snow outside the door and uncovered the body of a bullet-riddled black bear.

U. S. Deputy Marshal T. A. Langford, who made an on-the-spot investigation Monday, said he believed Gaier was asleep in his cabin when the bear broke in.

The trapper then apparently threw a lantern at the intruder and jumped out of a window, fired a number of shots through the door and finally peeked in to see if the animal was dead.

The bear, in its death throes, is thought to have attacked Gaier, clawing him fatally before it dropped. The trapper presumably crawled to his bed, where he died of wounds and exposure.

Bigger Children's Hospital Advocated By Solon Bryan

GALVESTON—(P)—Rep. Jack C. Bryan of Buffalo, who wrote the rural medical education amendment to the state constitution adopted in the general election, is working now for a larger state children's hospital.

He says it's because of what he learned while his infant son was ill. Bryan took his son, then 11 weeks old, home from the children's hospital at the University of Texas Medical branch here in late December.

"I'm greatly impressed with the outstanding medical and research work that is being done here for children and I see the need for expansion and enlargement of the only state children's hospital," he said. "More, I am already at work on the project with some of my colleagues."

Bryan brought his four-day-old baby to the hospital on October 12 from Fairfield, where he was found to be suffering from a serious and rare blood incongruity. Mr. Bryan had died one day after the baby was born.

He said the hospital is "the best place in the world" for sick children but "the place just isn't big enough to take care of the youngsters of the state who are referred here."

Bryan has made a study of hospitals in Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and other states trying to find the solution to the problem of lack of doctors in rural communities.

"I did this because for four years we were without a doctor at Buffalo," he said, "and I wanted a workable plan to get doctors interested in practice in small communities."

As a result of his study, he wrote the rural medical education amendment. It will provide state funds for medical education of men and women who can't afford to pay their own expenses. They must agree to practice in rural areas.

Bryan, who is beginning his third term representing Leon, Madison and Freestone Counties, wants a state children's hospital that can do "everything for the kids, preventive and corrective."

He would like to see small wards for children of various age groups—with equipment and laboratories meeting their needs.

"Because more and more operations are being discovered and found successful for children suffering from congenital heart disease, it will be important to have medical home care which will include recreational and school facilities and trained personnel for youngsters on the recovering list," he said.

Bryan wants more trained personnel for physical therapy and to help children suffering from speech and hearing defects, as well as for caring for "slow children."

"This is the only state children's hospital and the present 65-bed capacity just isn't sufficient to take care of the children who are eligible for the splendid service which can be received here, since doctors from the entire state have the privilege of referring patients here," he said.

Bryan said, "We need a bigger hospital for children from infancy to 14 years of age, and I will do all in my power to get appropriations for expansion at the next session of the legislature."

The present hospital was built in 1937 at a cost of $200,000, with the PWA furnishing $90,750 and the state $110,000. A long waiting list for admission was on file then and the same situation exists now.

Climber Rescued From Chilly Perch

TUCSON, ARIZ.—(P)—A mountain climber was stranded for 22 chilly hours on a narrow ledge before he was lowered 300 feet down a precipice to safety Monday.

Sheriff's deputies used ropes to bring down 22-year-old Gene Ransier from the Santa Catalina Peak near Tucson.

Ransier was reported in good physical condition although he spent the night on the precarious perch in subfreezing weather attired in a T-shirt and light trousers.

Abney Ivey, Denton Civic Leader, Dies

DENTON—(P)—Denton civic leader Abney Ivey, 72, died of a heart seizure Monday night while attending a stewards' meeting at the First Methodist Church here.

A former Denton County clerk, Ivey retired from the insurance business here about two years ago. He was an organizer of the Denton Kiwanis Club.

Farmers Must Lodge Tax Estimates By January 15

A farmer who made a gross income of $600 or more in 1952 must file an income tax return, whether he's single or married.

Farmers were reminded of this fact Monday by County Agent Charley Green.

Here are some of the other questions asked of Green, and his answers.

Q.—When does the farmer file his return?

Ans.—The same time other Americans do—by March 15 or before.

Q.—Many folk living in town and not on a salary have to file tax declarations. Does a farmer?

Ans.—Yes, he does. Farmers have until Jan. 15, 1953 to file their declarations for the year 1952.

Q.—What is a declaration?

Ans.—A declaration is an estimate of their 1952 tax. People in town have to make theirs much earlier, but due to the nature of farming, it is hard for the operator to guess his income early in the year. The tax law recognizes this fact and allows more time.

Q.—Can the final 1952 return be made on or before Jan. 31, 1953, and thus eliminate the necessity of preparing a declaration?

Ans.—Yes. When farmers can get their figures together by January 31 of the following year, that is the thing to do. Most farmers will have all of the facts about their 1952 transactions by then.

Q.—How much money must accompany the declaration on January 15, or final return made on or before Jan. 31, 1953?

Ans.—A farmer must pay all of his 1952 tax bill at that time, regardless of whether he makes a declaration or a final return.

Q.—Who is responsible for the accuracy of the returns?

Ans.—Farmers and ranchers should remember that they are solely responsible—not lawyers or accountants who might have made up the returns.

Q.—What are personal exemptions?

Ans.—The farmer receives an exemption of $600 for himself, and $600 for his wife, plus $600 for each dependent. An additional exemption of $600 is allowed for a taxpayer who is blind, or who has reached the age of 65 by the last day of the taxable year. If a person is both blind and over 65, a special exemption is given.

Q.—Who may be claimed as a dependent?

Ans.—A dependent must receive more than half of his support from the taxpayer. His gross income must not exceed $600, and he must be closely related to the taxpayer.

Q.—Which should the farmer use, the cash basis or the accrual basis?

Ans.—The average farmer whose income does not vary greatly, from year to year, probably will find the cash basis more satisfactory. The larger farmer or rancher who may frequently sell the production of more than one year during a single tax reporting period may use the accrual basis to advantage.

Haley To Talk Early Days In Ward C. Of C. Speech

MONAHANS—J. Evetts Haley, renowned author, historian, educator and lecturer, will speak at the annual membership banquet of the Chamber of Commerce here Thursday night, January 29.

Haley, raised in Midland, is author of "Fort Concho," about the spirit of the Texas Republic and its influence in history. It won him last year's Summerfield Roberts $1,000 award. Haley also wrote "Life On the Texas Range," "Charles Goodnight, Cowman and Plainsman," "George Littlefield, Texan," and

"Jeff Milton, A Good Man with a Gun."

Haley at present is a professor of English at Texas Technological College, Lubbock. He started life as a cowman, then attended West Texas State College and the University of Texas where he received an MA degree.

The book-learning he received did not lessen his flare to write about the blood, sweat and drama of the Texas of old. In his speech here, Haley will tell real-life stories of early Ward County history "in the days of the Apaches and the Comanches when Monahans and Grand Falls were abreast of the great Comanche War Trail and when Hearshead Crossing was an important stop for the Butterfield Overland Mail."

Chamber of Commerce members will have tickets mailed to them. Membership reservations to the banquet after the tickets are mailed will be on a first come, first served basis. In 1952, almost 260 persons attended the banquet.

Spending, Taxation Slashes Are Urged

LONDON—(AP)—The Association of British Chambers of Commerce, representing more than 70,000 business executives, has sent a letter to Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler telling him to slash government spending and taxation when he makes out his 1953 budget.

Complaining that taxation is too high, the letter said "about 25 per cent of the selling prices" of all British goods represents overhead caused by taxation. "In our view the keynote of the budget should be a drastic reduction of government expenditure," the letter added.

Why Just Hear About It? Drive It!

Road Test and Rate the New Dodge V-Eight

It's something you must experience and judge for yourself. Red Ram V-8 power teams up with Modern Design to usher in a new era of driving mastery. Waste space has become usable space. "Meaningless metal" is no more. "Deadweight" is done. So remarkable are the results that a specially planned Road Test Ride has been mapped out for you by your friendly Dodge dealer. It's thoroughly safe. It's completely revealing.

Here's How To Make Your Own ROAD TEST RATING

Get your free check list. Road Test a Dodge. Rate Dodge on these 12 key points. Then compare with any other car.

1 Roominess Check on the extra leg-room, head-room. Easy waste space. Curved one-piece windshield, wrap-around rear window. Up to 244 sq. inches more glass area.	2 Acceleration Feel the surging power of new Red-Ram V-8 engine. High power-to-weight ratio through Dynamic Design. Gyro-Torque Drive gives greater "break-away."	3 Maneuverability Check on the feeling of complete control in traffic. Modern design and compact engine eliminate "meaningless metal." See if Dodge isn't the nimblest car of all.	4 Cornering Discover how Dodge "snugs down" on curves like a sports car. Less roll, less sway. Body and chassis form a compact unit. New suspension gives great "roadability."	5 U-Turnability Shorter turning radius lets you complete a U-turn in limited space. You'll find most cars cumbersome by comparison. Center-Balance Steering cuts wheel effort.	6 Hill-Ability When you come to a steep grade, let her out a bit. You're not hauling "deadweight" around. Power goes into performance... and there's loads of power to spare!
7 "Seat" Action Today's driving calls for a car that really "digs in" when you need stick-up. Just wait till you try the "Seat" gear! Red Ram power gives added "margin of safety."	8 Highway Handling Important on vacation, long-haul trips. Dodge design cuts wind-swept, side-sway, wheel fight. You sit in better position. You're in control all the way.	9 Smooth Ride Pick out any kind of road: gravel, "washboard," rutted. See how matchless Orflow ride control makes you the master. Tames bumps. Levels the road.	10 Brake Safety Positive brake control with two brake cylinders in each front wheel. No "deadweight" to stop—less dip, less sway. You get safer stops with less pedal pressure.	11 Parking Easy parking is an important "by-product" of Dodge nimbleness. You can "cut her sharp," slip into spaces that you'd pass by in a more cumbersome car.	12 All-Round Economy Dodge performs on "regular" gas. Command the most efficient engine design in any car—no "deadweight." Drive The Action Car for Active Americans.

JUST COMMON HORSE SENSE...

EVERYDAY LOW PRICES • QUALITY FOODS • EXTRA SAVINGS

WHAT IS PIGGLY WIGGLY'S PRICING POLICY?—Pipkin Grocery Company buys in large quantities and receives the highest discount available for volume buying. Our entire operation—our warehouse—our general office and our general administrative staff are all located in Eastland. In a compact organization such as ours, considerable money is saved on operational costs in comparison to long range operations, whether statewide or nationwide.

Piggly Wiggly is a cash and carry operation. We do not have telephone service, delivery service, credit service and so forth. Those things are fine for those who so desire them. Naturally, they cost money. Consequently when you shop at Piggly Wiggly you save money, because these things do not have to be taken into consideration in the overall cost of operation.

Piggly Wiggly has "special prices" on certain days. We believe that the housewife should have an incentive to shop in our stores on the days of our "special prices." However, our prices are low, low, everyday. According to OPS our store is a group 4 store. Group 4 means that Piggly Wiggly is in the cheapest bracket.

We believe that if we can sell you an item one day in the week at a low price, we can sell it to you every day in the week at a low price. Piggly Wiggly extends itself to be competitive at all times on every item that it offers for sale, quality considered.

WHAT KIND OF MERCHANDISE ARE YOU OFFERED AT PIGGLY WIGGLY?—Piggly Wiggly believes that you, the customer, are the sole judge of brand, quality, size and variety of food that you want. Piggly Wiggly has no private labels or controlled brands. We have no one single product or brand that we prefer to sell over the others.

Consequently we offer you only brands that are nationally and locally known for their quality, flavor and goodness. You are the judge. You can buy what you want, when you want it, when you shop at Piggly Wiggly.

WHAT ARE "S&H" GREEN STAMPS—"S&H" stands for Sperry & Hutchinson, two men who fifty-eight years ago conceived the idea of mass merchandising a thrift program whereby thrifty people, who so desired, could acquire extra savings at no added cost by accumulating their "S&H" Green Stamps and redeeming them for beautiful and useful gifts. This plan was adopted by Piggly Wiggly over three years ago, giving it the opportunity to pass on to its customers an added discount on their purchases.

As in most progressive and competitive businesses, Piggly Wiggly advertises its services and its merchandise in the newspapers and on the radio. But with Piggly Wiggly there is one other medium it uses as a means of advertising and that is the "S&H" Green Stamp plan.

This plan was at the time of its conception—and still is today—in the strictest sense—an advertising medium. To be successful it must be used only as such. No other food concern in the city of Midland uses this particular medium. We give you, our customers, (EVERYONE) "S&H" Green Stamps every day of every week in the year on every dime you spend. That is our way of saying to you an added "Thank You" for your patronage.

NOW LET'S ADD IT UP—You get the finest food available at the lowest prices possible, which means cash savings when you buy. You get friendly, courteous service and "S&H" Green Stamps every day at Piggly Wiggly. You be the judge. Write it down—add it up—compare. COMPARISON WILL PROVE THAT TRADING AT PIGGLY WIGGLY JUST MAKES GOOD COMMON HORSE SENSE.

A Commendable Goal

Leaders of the new Republican Congress voice an earnest hope that the annual sessions on Capitol Hill may be shortened considerably in the years just ahead.

The goal is commendable. The inefficient use of congressional time is a luxury this country can't afford nowadays.

Senator Taft believes that in the even-numbered years when presidential or congressional elections are held, Congress ought to get out of Washington by July 31.

In odd-numbered years, he would shoot for July 4 as a recess date, then have the lawmakers come back around October 1 to begin laying the ground for the following year.

This whole plan contemplates getting the essential appropriations bills out of the way each year before the new fiscal period for government starts July 1.

There is no excuse for such delays in the vital appropriation field. They are a mark of sheer neglect of duty.

His proposal for a recess and subsequent October resumption sounds good. Besides allowing time to outline money needs for the succeeding term, it would permit a cleanup of matters left hanging earlier.

To facilitate a badly needed speedup, more will be required than just good intentions from Republican leaders. The cooperation of the Eisenhower Administration is basic.

None of these obstacles ought to be allowed to stand in the way of improved congressional performance.

"Tell Him It's Just A Social Call"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson (Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Churchill worried over proposed use of Chiang Kai-Shek troops in Korea; Britain's prime minister opposed to any blockade of China ports; Ike advisers are wary of Churchill's charm.

WASHINGTON—British sources close to Winston Churchill say that while his initial reason for coming to see Eisenhower was the dynamite-laden situation in Iran, the prime minister has become equally steamed-up over reports of Eisenhower's proposed strategy in Korea.

This strategy, as relayed to London by British observers, follows: 1. Send two divisions of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops to Korea from Formosa.

2. Blockade the China ports. 3. Turn over a certain number of American naval vessels to South Korea and the Chinese Nationalists in order to form Korean and Chinese navies, which in turn would harass the coast of China.

4. Lift the present ban against Chiang Kai-Shek's sending military expeditions to the Chinese mainland.

5. Possible use of atomic weapons in Korea.

6. Send three U. S. divisions to Japan, presumably to prepare for a Korean offensive next Spring.

British Opposition The first five of these cut squarely across British policy in the past—not only the policy of the Conservative government, but of the Conservative government in fact.

Churchill is reported by friends to be particularly upset over Ike's reported plan to use Chiang Kai-Shek's troops and also the reported plan to blockade the China coast.

The British long have argued that Chiang Kai-Shek is completely discredited, that he can never stage a comeback, and that using his troops either in Korea or on the Chinese mainland would be like a red flag to the Chinese. It might, they argue, prolong the war indefinitely.

The British also claim that any blockade of the China coast would be tantamount to an act of war. If U. S. warships should blockade Russian-held Dairen, for instance, it might easily provoke war.

Churchill's advisers say that since he and Eisenhower are old comrades from World War II during which they enjoyed an extremely close relationship, Winston tactfully may suggest that the new President should not move merely for the sake of movement, but that his moves be thought out carefully so as not to alienate this country's allies.

Note—It's interesting that while Eisenhower was aboard the U. S. S. Helena some of his advisers harbored over the prospect that Churchill might use his old friendship with Ike to influence policy.

Churchill's burry-up trip to New York had not been announced at that time. But even then, Ike-men worried over the intimate relationship between the two, and the persuasive influence of the prime minister.

Note 2—It was British hesitancy over Roosevelt's proposed naval blockade or "quarantine" in the Far East in 1936 which finally upset his attempt to stop Japanese aggression.

It also was the lobbying of British and American oil companies which helped break up the League of Nations sanctions imposed on Mussolini when he invaded Ethiopia in 1935.

Each postponement of a showdown, however, built up for a greater and more tragic eventual showdown with the Axis.

Farewell Luncheon President Truman had a farewell luncheon with Democratic senators right after New Year's day. There were moments of sadness and also moments of mirth as he said goodbye to colleagues with whom he had served and with whom he sometimes had differed.

Senator Ernest McFarland, retiring not only as Democratic leader but as senator from Arizona, made a speech which touched his colleagues.

Referring to the fact that he had been mentioned as ambassador to Mexico, McFarland said: "I don't think the Republicans owe me anything, and I don't expect anything. I've battled them as hard as I could and have done the best job I know how. I'm going down with the team."

"When the team comes up again, I'll be there playing right guard—if they want me to."

President Truman also spoke and got a laugh when he kidded new Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, whom Truman tried to have defeated in the Democratic primary there.

"I want to warn you, Stu," said the President, "that about 20 days from now I'll be one of your constituents. And you'd better watch out. I'm quite a letter-writer and I'm going to write you some letters."

The President also told about the Missouri senatorial race in which Symington defeated Republican Senator James Kem, and the picture of a cow which Kem had circulated indicating that he understood farm problems.

"Kem doesn't know how to milk a cow," said the President. "The only thing he knows how to milk is a corporation."

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook Atlantic Runs By Immigration Service Pose Second Problem In Solving First

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—In an effort to find some solution for the hassle over admission of foreign seamen for shore leave in U. S. ports, the Bureau of Immigration is planning to make three test runs on some of the big transatlantic liners.

A survey of a typical Queen Elizabeth landing, with 2,100 passengers and a crew of 1,200, showed that it took 16 immigration service inspectors five hours to clear them all under the new McCarran-Walter immigration law. That's the equivalent of 10 man-days.

What it means is that the immigration service may have to keep one inspector on board the Queens at all times, traveling back and forth across the Atlantic in five-day crossings, just to supervise admission of seamen to the U. S. for their shore leave.

Eventually it is hoped to work out some practical way to solve this problem without delay to U. S. commerce. But it raises the question of whether the immigration service now has enough inspectors to do the job.

For the last five years immigration inspectors have been boarding Pacific liners at Honolulu for the run to San Francisco. But that's a minor job compared to handling Atlantic crossings, which have the Europeans aroused.

Their story going around Washington about a couple of men sitting on stools in a restaurant, eating their lunch.

"What do you think of Harry Truman?" asked one of them, just to make conversation.

The other looked around the restaurant and replied, "Too many people here now, I'll tell you later."

When the crowd had thinned out a bit, the question was repeated. The second man looked around again and then mumbled, "Still too many people here."

Finally they were alone in the restaurant and the counter man had gone back to the kitchen. "Now tell me what you think of Harry," came the demand.

The second man looked around again, swallowed his final bite of pie, washed it down with his last sip of coffee, wiped his mouth, leaned over and whispered into his friend's ear, "I like him."

No Encore A number of Democratic Administration officials—like Commodore Jack Small, head of the Munitions Board—tried to resign their jobs early in December.

The jig was up. They couldn't start any new policies till the new team took the floor. They wanted to take a little extra Christmas vacation before going back to their old jobs or finding new ones to make a living in this tough, but more remunerative, civilian life.

But the word that came back from the White House on all proffered resignations was, "Stay until the curtain goes down." The only exception made were for a few officials like ex-Stabilization Director Roger Putnam, for whom a successor—Mike DiSalle in this case—had been found.

One More Bruiser President Truman probably will get another parting sock in the jaw when his Missouri River Basin Survey Commission files its report. The commission is expected to criticize everyone who has had anything to do with Big Muddy's development in the past. This includes Army Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation and all those who have advocated a Missouri Valley "Authority" like Tennessee's.

The Missouri commission may recommend an interstate compact agreement to control floods, navigation, irrigation and power development. This is understood to be what General Eisenhower favors for the future, although he has approved continuing TVA.

If interstate compacts are proposed by the new President for the Missouri, Columbia and other river systems, majorities in the new Congress are expected to approve them more readily than federal river management.

Stabilization Director Mike DiSalle has what he considers a good reason why indirect monetary and credit controls over inflation won't work. These indirect controls now are being advocated for use by the Eisenhower Administration in place of the direct price and wage controls.

From June, 1950, to February, 1951, says DiSalle, we had indirect controls, we had a surplus in the Treasury, the budget was in balance and there was no shortage of goods. Still the country went through an inflationary boom.

People drew out the money they had in savings and bought things they feared were going to be in short supply. It was psychological inflation, which doesn't follow any of the rules of indirect monetary controls.

One out of every four physically disabled men and women now is being given assistance by federal and state vocational rehabilitation programs. The aim of these programs is to train the handicapped for paid jobs. The total cost of these vocational education programs is $28,000,000 a year, of which the states pay a third. To place all the physically handicapped in gainful employment would cost an estimated billion dollars a year.

Mary E. Switzer, head of the Federal Security Administration's vocational rehabilitation program, says that of the 63,000 physically handicapped people placed in jobs last year, 12,000 had been on relief rolls. As public-assistant beneficiaries, they cost the taxpayers more than $8,000,000 a year. It cost $6,000,000 to train them. Now they earn $22,000,000 a year in wages.

Major revision of the U. S. Social Security system is the object of a referendum and drive being conducted by U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The proposals are to merge the present federal old-age and retirement plan, the railroad retirement plan and all federal, state and local government civil service retirement plans into a single organization.

These plans now cover about 45,000,000 people. The new plan would bring the 15,000,000 employed people not now covered into the single system. Then—and this is the kicker—the aim would be to put social security on a "pay-as-we-go" system.

This would mean reducing social security payroll contributions by employers and employees to the amount needed to cover only the actual costs of old-age retirement payments and other benefits. It would eliminate the huge reserves now being built up to meet the costs of future benefits. This is an old reform idea—dressed up in a new form.

A farm tractor attachment which burns weeds but does not hurt the growing crops has been developed. The flame moves across the crop row, attacking the weeds, and doing no substantial harm to the growing crops.

Search for a Hero

MAMA got up and went to the dining-room doorway. "They're some smooth rocks out there plenty big enough to fry."

"You just take you some corn bread out there and pick up one. Now don't get a pullet. . . I want to save all them pullets."

"Yesum," Johnnie Mae replied. "We heard the train then, pulling through the Cut, passing the house half a minute later; and the last sound of the whistle seemed to shake the room."

"Johnnie Mae?" Mama said. "Come and see who's here."

She came to the dining-room doorway and waited, smiling bashfully. She was very tall.

"Howdy, Johnnie Mae?" "How you, Mistra Don?" She had a slow, deep way of speaking that made her sound like an old woman.

"We done give you up fer dead, not long ago?" "Johnnie Mae," Mama said. "Could you milk for me? The boys and their daddy's not here yet. Just this once?"

"Yesum."

"When you get the chicken on, call me. I'll watch it while you go milk."

"Yesum." She went back to the kitchen.

"She don't want to milk—you could tell that, couldn't you?" "Yes, mamam."

"When you get the chicken on, call me. I'll watch it while you go milk."

"Yesum." She went back to the kitchen.

There was a sound in the yard. "That's the boys and your daddy. That's them all right." In the mild darkness I saw Mama's throat quiver. Lowering her voice, she said, "Did William write you anything about Meb?"

"No." I started to say, "Are they married or something?" But Mama was already in the doorway, going out to meet them. I had the feeling it was not only too late to say that but too late for so many other things as well. In another minute we would all be together again, face to face in that room, and whatever was said, whatever happened had been decided long ago. I remember—day when I was working Uncle Lew; in the middle of the afternoon a heavy rain came. All of us ran for the house, leaving our hoes in the field, and huddled on the porch: Aunt Modine, Uncle Lew, Bea, Frances, Doris. Because the rain had brought us close together, I felt that all of us ought to be laughing and talking.

But nobody said a word, not even Doris and Frances. We just watched the rain while time drowned, and I thought how if I had been at the other end of the rows when the cloud burst I could have dropped my hoe and run toward Mr. Tonce's house. But it was too late.

I COULD hear Wallace's voice in every aspect, singing his favorite tune:

"Leona, Leona, Lean over and kiss me. . . Then William, talking loud, said, 'Somebody's been here.'"

"How do you know?" Wallace said.

"Here's a fresh car track." "He ought to join the FBI—oughtn't he to, Papa?"

William said, "Hello, Verdie."

"Guess who's here?" Mama said. Wallace said, "The hero. We've already heard up at the dining station he come home with a private chauffeur and medals hanging from the tail-light."

The voices were suddenly hushed. I heard Mama talking, heard her call Meb's name. A warmth, almost a burning, covered me and while I tried to hear what was said, only the ticking of Kenny's watch reached my ears. Whatever Meb had done, or William had done, they would have to tell me; I would not ask. That thought, that decision, was like unblemished strength flowing into me: like eating bright, dew-wet supernovae, the kind that never stain the teeth.

CORN MAKES 'SNOW'
CENTRALIA, ILL.—P.—Gallatin County corn growers were surprised when they learned much of their white corn was being used as snow in movies. Many had believed all their corn was going into breakfast cereals. Corn-snow also is used to create winter scenes in August for furriers' store windows.

"Tabu" or "taboo" is one of the few Polynesian words which have found a place in the English language. Tammany Hall, New York political organization, derives its name from an American Indian chief called Tammany or Tammanend.

Daddy Ringtail And Adventure In Huffen House

By Wesley Davis

No lion could come in the door now. The Huffen chuckled to himself to think about it.

Suddenly, "Huffen Puffen," said a voice behind him.

"Ooooooh!" said the Huffen. It was the lion, he thought, and so the Huffen began to throw chairs up high in the air. He clawed at the bed and the table. He shouted in a very frightened voice: "Oooooh!"

Then the voice said: "Oh, Huffen Puffen." Why, this quiet voice belonged to Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend. He was a very dear friend to the Huffen, too.

The Huffen began to chuckle. He pushed the bed against the door. He piled all the chairs on top. There now!

The Huffen thought he was safe.

He had been. Daddy Ringtail understood, of course, how people are frightened by any voice, when they've done a something they shouldn't—like hitting a lion with an arrow. Daddy Ringtail said the Huffen should talk with the lion and tell the lion he was sorry. It isn't fun to hide from trouble, and so he said he would find the lion, and tomorrow I'll tell you what happened next. Happy day!

Parade of White House domestic help which Mamie Eisenhower will take over is depicted in this sketch. In addition to the tasks accounted for, another 20 or so "mystery" figures are on the staff in a variety of miscellaneous roles.

Mamie To Have 65 Helpers Chasing Dust Out Of White House, Preparing Dinners

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—The gave up an army to become President. The President's wife, Mamie, will take on an army beginning Inauguration Day.

Ruler of the housekeeping at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, Mrs. Eisenhower will be lucky if at first she stays just one step ahead of the Executive Mansion's regiment of maids, butlers, cooks, housemen, doormen, laundresses, gardeners and repairmen.

Sixty-five strong, with another 20 or so to handle miscellaneous jobs, they're battle-seasoned from years of blitzkrieg with dirt, dust, moths and unwitted guests. There's even an exterminator, except that at the Executive Mansion you politely refer to him as "the engineer" who sprays the place.

Protocol Pointers
The new First Lady must learn some fine points of protocol.

For instance, Mamie must never tell a White House maid to man a mop or wield a vacuum sweeper. Strenuous jobs are tackled by housemen, leaving a quiet maid to go about the chores of bed-making and waiting on lady guests.

It would be a first-rate boner to send a butler to the grocery store. Each morning the shopping list is handed to Melvin Carter, the steward, who does all White House marketing.

Cop Goes, Too
In spending the taxpayers' money for spinach and lamb chops, Carter doesn't have to stick to the same store. One rule, however, never changes—a White House policeman always accompanies him.

Another precaution Mamie will have to get used to is having every department store purchase fluoroscoped in the White House mail room before being delivered to her. If she goes shopping and carts the package home herself, there's that secret service man who'll stick by her side.

Plenty Of Cooks
Any resemblance between Mamie's kitchen and a woman's world would upset White House tradition. Probably as large as the Blue Room, the space is a mammoth chromium kingdom ruled over by Maitre d'Hotel Alonzo Fields, aided by five cooks and four assistant butlers.

The impeccable Fields is responsible for inventory on all food, as well as the china, glassware and silver. It's up to him to decide on the quantity and quality of food purchased and to prepare the daily menu for approval of the President's wife first thing each morning.

If the new First Lady follows in the housekeeping footsteps of Bess Truman, her day will begin at 8:30 or 9 a.m., which is when one of the ushers appears on the scene with the menu.

Mamie Must Choose
The ushers, captained by Howell Crum, constitute four major-domos in charge of White House maintenance and staff personnel.

Should a prime minister of guest of state come to stay with the Eisenhowers, it's still the maitre d'hotel who'll conjure up four different dinner menus for each day of their stay. From these Mamie will make her choice.

Ask most anyone at the White House about Fields and they'll tell you there's not another man in Washington who could take his place. He learned his butler's secrets from the blue bloods of Boston. Before coming to the White House 21 years ago, Fields worked for the president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Small Snack Bar
White House Chief Chef Estanislao Medina is a native of the Philippine Islands and chats in an accent thick as one of his country's dishes. Medina retired as an officer's cook first class in 1949 after 30 years in the Navy.

In the sub-basement mess where the White House help eats, an assistant cook dishes out the chow.

If Mamie would like a bedtime snack, there's a small diet-kitchen on the third floor.

The gal who can tell the new First Lady all about the high cost of living at the White House is Mrs. El Clarcrochi. As acting housekeeper grocery bills are her responsibility.

48-Hour Week
One housekeeping headache that doesn't exist at the White House is Spring and Fall cleaning. Prettifying up at the Executive Mansion is one perpetual process. Floors may be waxed three times in a single week. Every few months the stage-size draperies are carted to the dry cleaners and the myriads of separate crystals sparkling in the big chandeliers are given a bath in ammonia and water.

The domestic staff works a 40-hour week and has different days off. Ushers probably work longer hours than anybody in the place. They've been known to arrive at 6 a.m. and stay put at their posts till midnight—with no overtime pay.

Veterans On Staff
When veteran doorman Robert Mays takes his day off there are still four others to take turns at the front door. Mays is one of the real Washington landmarks. His tenure at the White House dates back to the Administration of President Taft.

Another staff veteran, head gardener Robert Redman, started at the White House when he was 16 years old. Redman claims his work is light compared to the early FDR days. During Roosevelt's Administration 32 greenhouses which belonged to the White House were destroyed to make room for a city bridge. Today's lone greenhouse is on the White House roof and Redman places a daily order for cut flowers with a Washington florist.

Whitehousecleaning job is tackled in the executive wing after a tense day of conferences produced this litter.

"It was President Roosevelt's idea," Redman says, "that his would be cheaper than rebuilding 32 greenhouses."

For a typical daily order, Redman figures 50 roses, eight or 10 bunches of pom poms and 25 to 50 snapdragons. As soon as Mamie's last luncheon or tea guest departs, Redman will transplant all bouquets to the ice box. This way they keep a week or more.

Redman and his 10 assistants also maintain watch over 300 or 400 plants stashed into Gark White House corners. Every couple of weeks, the plants go back to the greenhouse for light and sun.

But No Lifeguard
The Eisenhowers will have their own full time staff of repairmen able to fix anything from a leaky faucet to a temperamental streak in the air-conditioning.

The impressive battalion includes plumbers, carpenters, painters, electricians, engineers, even a movie projector man.

The beautiful Taj Mahal, a royal tomb in India, has had trouble with a leaky roof almost since the time it was built in the 17th Century, says the National Geographic Society.
