DIDN'T ASK HIS WIFE—

Texan In Germany Applies For 'Practical' Korea Duty

By GRACE HALSELL, Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent. MUNICH, GERMANY—Lt. Oscar Busby of Texas, who has a wife and five children, volunteered for duty in Korea. Asked if he had gotten his wife's permission, the lieutenant replied: "Of course, I didn't ask her. I told her, 'I'm a Texan.'" Then the lieutenant spoke of their great love for each other ("We're still like high school sweethearts") and explained how he had volunteered "for her sake and for the children's sake."

In 1948, he went to Japan, a country he describes as a "soldier's paradise." The people are friendly, "more gracious and appreciative of why American soldiers are there and what we are trying to do than anywhere I have been," the lieutenant said. He thinks the countryside of Japan is beautiful, parts of it he says are similar to the Bavarian Alps. To help her with the five children, Mrs. Busby has three full-time and two part time servants. They are: (1) Haus frau—a woman who takes care of the house. She lives in the same house. (2) Kinder-maedchen—a woman who takes care of the three youngest children, "the two older boys being true Texans, they take care of themselves," reports the officer. This woman also lives in the house. (3) Putz frau—a woman for the heavy work, the scrubbing of floors, waxing, polishing. She is a full-time worker, but does not live with the Busbys. (4) A woman comes twice a week for ironing. They have an automatic washer and dryer. (5) A fireman—a man furnished by the Army who takes care of the furnace and garden, shovels snow off driveway and walks, and keeps the basement clean. If Lieutenant Busby's request for Korean duty goes through, he will leave his family in Texas.

The children are: Carroll, 10, born in Indiana; Oscar, IV, five, born at Fort Sam Houston; Mary Elizabeth, three, born in Kentucky; David Edwin, two, and Maurine, seven months, both born in Germany. CONFESIONS—Here's an "Iron Curtain" story making rounds in Germany. A Soviet examiner asked a student who wrote "War and Peace." "I didn't," answered the alarmed student. The examiner reported the incident to a superior. "Don't worry," said the superior. "Maybe he didn't do it." The examiner then met an acquaintance from the NKVD, and told him the "War and Peace" incident. The NKVD asked him to name the student and the officer. The following day both were missing. The Soviet examiner received a call from his friend in the NKVD. "I told you not to worry," he said. "They've both confessed!"

60 Years' Increase In Irrigated Lands Boosts Farm Output

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Texas land, under irrigation increased from 18,419 acres in 1890 to 3,150,527 acres in 1950, the Census Bureau reported Wednesday. During the same 60-year period, Texas land under cultivation increased from 18,419 acres to 3,150,527 acres. Total capital investment in Texas irrigation enterprises in 1950 was $144,443,313—or $45.84 per irrigated acre. Two thirds of the irrigated acreage in Texas is in single farm enterprises. These account for 2,134,459 acres. Mutual unincorporated enterprises account for 38,013 acres and commercial enterprises 329,072 district enterprises 590,529. U. S. Bureau of Reclamation $7,079, and city enterprises 2,949. The Texas irrigation system had 438 diversion dams and 566 reservoirs with a storage capacity of 1,402,883 acre feet of water. This would equal a single lake of 2,192 square miles. Texas counties which had more than 100 irrigated farms in 1950 included Cameron, 2,937; Hale, 1,482; Hidalgo, 4,608; Hockley, 512; Jefferson, 197; Lamb, 1,036; Lubbock, 1,584; Randall, 167; Reeves, 161; Tom Green, 174; Wichita, 217.

Vic Mature Stays In 'Racket' Till Public Catches On To Him

By ERSKINE JOHNSON, NEA Staff Correspondent. Behind the Screen: Victor Mature doesn't know how the rumor germinated, but he's denying that he's bored with his career as a movie profile king or has any notion about quitting the sound stages. Big-shouldered Vic has three more years to go on his Fox contract and quips: "Why would I want to leave pictures, anyhow? It's the biggest racket in the world. I get a bonus the end of every year—a big one that drives everybody at the studio crazy when it's mentioned in print. Nope, I'll stick to acting. If the public hasn't caught up with me yet, why should I retire?"

Nick Stuart, a top star in the days when theaters were advertising "All-Talking Pictures," is back again in Hollywood after an absence of 15 years to pick up the career he left behind. "I got mixed up in the band business and I've been on the road all this time," going-gray-at-the-temples Nick confided. "A year ago I decided I wanted to settle down with my family in one spot. I want to be known strictly as an actor from now on." The former husband of Sue Carol (now Mrs. Alan Ladd) landed in two serials—"King of the Congo" and "Black Hawk"—in his comeback effort and recently signed a contract with Romer Grey to star in TV westerns. "I'm not in the Marlene Dietrich leg league!" Jane Russell, whose games are being glorified again in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," as a switch on anatomical emphasis, talks about the excitement they generated when "Son of Paleface" hit the theaters. "But it's fine, though, to be asked to show my legs and have them talked about," she added. "I was bored stiff with the other thing years ago."

Younger sister Barbara turns singer in MGM's "Dangerous When Wet," but Margaret Whiting does not have to worry because— "Because I'm trying to sing as unlike her as possible," Barbara said. "There could be a similarity, but I try to go the other way. I haven't let Margaret coach me, either. I don't want it said that I sing like her."

The most-junior Whiting started off her film career like a Roman candle in Fox's "Junior Miss" in 1945, then sputtered out until Ida Lupino gave her a small role in "Beware, My Lovely." Now Barbara's all smiles about her role in "Dangerous When Wet"—"It's the biggest break a girl could have."

It happened with Jimmy Cagney and Edward G. Robinson in years past, and now Warner Bros. are hoping it will happen with Frank Lovejoy. Frank, who showed he had the stardom stuff as a tough guy in "I Was a Communist for the FBI," is carrying the star burden in "The System" after a series of nothing-to-shout-about-roles and is saying: "I'll do the best I can. Stardom's a territory there's very little retreat from. Just like the boys you don't deserve, you get the rap you don't deserve."

Structural Engineer Is Suicide Victim. FORT WORTH—(AP)—William Edwin Hannaford, 51, chief structural engineer for Wyatt C. Hedrick, was found dead here Tuesday with a gunshot wound in his head. Justice of the Peace R. S. Gallaway returned an inquest verdict of suicide. Mrs. Hannaford told police her husband had been under a doctor's care some time. His body was found at his home here.

Source Of Future Strength

Sometimes presidential commissions conveniently find just the facts a Chief Executive hopes they will. In that respect they can resemble the all-too-familiar type of attorney general who always manages to unearth legal justification for whatever a President wants to do.

Since President Truman disapproved the McCarran Immigration Act and Congress overrode his veto, one might suspect that any commission study of the law would produce automatic support for the President's viewpoint.

His commission on immigration and naturalization did indeed report adversely on the purposes and effects of the McCarran law, but for the most part skepticism over the group's fairness and objectivity would seem to be unwarranted.

Truman's commission took testimony from about 600 organizations and individuals in almost a dozen cities around the country. Included were many experts.

Generally they were in agreement that the act hurts America both at home and abroad. The commission found them convinced the law's tone is one of "hostility toward and distrust of all aliens."

Naturally we need to screen any newcomers with careful regard to U. S. security requirements. We need also to accommodate their numbers to the capacity of our economy to absorb them.

But that is a far cry from assuming that every foreigner who enters the United States is either a definite burden on the economy or an enemy agent.

Moreover, as the commission correctly observes, there is serious doubt of the wisdom of solidifying the established immigration quota system. Under that set-up, entry quotas are weighted heavily to favor British and other Western European immigrants and to hamper admission of Eastern Europeans, Asiatics and others.

On its face this arrangement is highly discriminatory, and the McCarran act would freeze it. Whether the government would want to adopt the commission's proposal for complete abandonment of the "national origins" quota system is something else.

In summary, the commission appears to have done an intelligent job, recognizing that a steady flow of immigrants into America constitutes an important source of renewed strength for the country, basically a constructive rather than a destructive element in the nation's future.

Walking is good for the health of everybody except the people who are careless enough to get run down while crossing streets.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson. However, Humphrey's advisers will fix a general target of letting the excess profits tax expire automatically next June...

WASHINGTON—The man who picked Cleveland industrialist George M. Humphrey to be secretary of the Treasury was Gen. Lucius Clay, now head of Continental Can and one of Eisenhower's closest friends. Clay, incidentally, probably has had more to do with picking Ike's Cabinet than any other member of the Eisenhower brain trust.

First, here is the lineup of the Humphrey empire—the companies of which he is either chairman, president or director: M. A. Hanna Company; Hanna Furnace Company; Susquehanna Anthracite Corporation; Eastern Steamship Company; La Belle Steamship Company; Virginia Steamship Company; Jefferson Coal Company; National Steel Company; Donner-Hanna Corporation.

Not knowing how to continue, South decided to try the three top clubs. When declarer led the third top club from dummy, Shelwood carefully ruffed with the ten of spades.

At this time, all hands were reduced to three cards. South had the K-5-3 of spades, West had his original three trumps, and East had the blank eight of spades.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Ike's Budget Director Smiled Through Initiation By Press

By PETER EDSON. NEA Washington Correspondent. WASHINGTON—(P)—The new director of the budget, Detroit banker Joseph M. Dodge, had been told by someone that when he gestured for the news photographers he should say "Cheese!"

But when Dodge faced the Washington press corps for the first full-scale press conference to be held by a top man in President-elect Eisenhower's new official family, the reporters changed the formula.

Obediently, Dodge said "Billions," emphasizing it with a wicked shake of the right forefinger. Flash bulbs went off and the incident was recorded for history.

The new head money man turned out to be of medium height and build. His hair is thinning and graying. He had a nice, friendly, smile—not the usual banker's smile—and there was a twinkle of kindness in his eyes.

His suit was a banker's conservative charcoal-and-gray-striped, double-breasted job. His shirt was blue and white striped and his tie was plain navy blue.

He didn't have a great deal to say that was new. The press conference was his own idea. He had a two-page typewritten statement of 10 points which he had written or dictated himself.

The gist of it was that he was disassociating himself and the Eisenhower Administration as a whole from any connection whatever with the Truman Administration budget. Period.

If he had quit there, everything would have been all right, maybe. But Dodge was willing and eager to talk about his statement for background only and not for attribution or quotation.

The last two points brought out were first, that Dodge immediately was beginning a review of the Truman budget, with Eisenhower's new department heads. Later he said this would be completed in early April.

Two more committees were announced Tuesday for the Midland Real Estate Board, at 2910 West Wall Street.

The additional committees made a total of five appointed recently, reported Jimmy Wilson, president of the organization.

Roy McKee, W. R. Upham, and Barney Grafe were named as members of the Compliance Committee.

What's RIGHT? You once did an important favor for a person and now you are asking him to do you a favor.

Keep me advised, And, Carney, try to be more diplomatic about it. "All right, Mr. Jonas."

That accounted for the accent and probably for the pipe. As I recalled, he had been wounded.

MISS BOONE bent closer over the shoulder of the last accountant, watching closely as he worked the comptometer.

I looked at the results. Miss Boone had departed in lonely and savage triumph. The balances were there. The inventory charged to the counter checked with cash and supplies on hand.

THE Coronet is probably the best restaurant in town, and like most such fashionable places it hasn't anything that makes it essentially outstanding except a good press agent.

I checked my hat and got into the bar with a group of tourists. There I picked a leather stool at the corner where anyone coming in would have to pass me.

"The counter is okay," I said. "Never mind the details," he said. "What do you plan to do now?"

Years ago someone had sent me a copy of the hometown paper when I was in the Pacific. On the serviceman's page was an item about Jack Jonas.

EVERY time Eli Jonas came aware of shoplifters, he seemed to grow older and less pleased with his job.

"Well," he said, "suppose you go see how the check is coming. I want to know the answer before I leave."

I pushed up from my chair. Eli motioned to the man in the corner. "You don't know my son Jack, Carney?"

As soon as he stood and came across the room toward me, I knew him. He had six inches on his father but that didn't make him tall.

He pulled a stubby black pipe out of his mouth, "Heard of you," he said in short, clipped tones.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And The Tail And Short

Two of Daddy Ringtail's very good friends, Mr. Too Tall, the giraffe, and Mr. Hippopotamus, were down by the Whispering River to get a drink of water. Mr. Too Tall's neck was so very long that he had to spread his front legs apart and bend his knees a little to get his mouth down to the water. Of course, Mr. Hippopotamus, whose legs are very short and who has practically no neck at all, had no trouble getting his drink.

After they had drunk all the water they wanted, Mr. Too Tall straightened out his knees and stretched his long neck up into a tree and took a nibble of this leaf and then that one until he had eaten all he wanted. But Mr. Hippopotamus was too short to reach any nice, fresh leaves. He had to look around on the ground until he found some the wind had blown off the tree. So, it took him longer to get enough to eat.

"I wish," said Mr. Hippopotamus, "that I had a long neck like yours so that I wouldn't have to work so hard to get my dinner every day." "Yes," said Mr. Too Tall, "a long neck is very convenient to have when you want some nice, fresh, green leaves. But did you notice how much trouble I have getting a drink of water? I almost have to stand on my head."

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, had been nearby in a coconut tree gathering coconuts. He had been so busy he hadn't seen his friends, but when he heard them talking, he slid down to the ground to say "happy day." He didn't like for them to wish they were different from the way they were.

"I heard what you were saying," said Daddy Ringtail. "You really shouldn't wish to be different from the way you are. You know, there is always something each of us can do better than the other. That's why we must always be friends, so we can help one another."

So after that Mr. Too Tall broke off branches of the trees for his friend, Mr. Hippopotamus, so that he wouldn't have to work so hard for his dinner. Mr. Hippopotamus couldn't hand Mr. Too Tall a drink of water, but he did tell Mr. Too Tall that he might get his drink at the waterfall much easier. Why, he could stand out in the river and drink the water as it fell from the rocks above.

And I guess Daddy Ringtail is right about doing things for each other. Don't you think so? I do. Happy day!

Ducats For Jones' 'Depreciation Revue' Sell At Brisk Pace

Brisk ticket sales were reported Wednesday in advance of Spike Jones' Musical Depreciation Revue of 1953 booked for the Midland High School Auditorium at 7 and 9:30 Wednesday night.

Pete Van Horn, chairman of ticket sales, said "There are still some good seats left, particularly for the later show." Proceeds of the two performances will be used by the sponsoring Optimist Club in charity work for boys.

Tickets are available at Lones Travel Service in the Hotel Scharbauer Lobby and at Albert Kelley, Inc. formerly Tailorline.

On trial in the same case are Wayne Babb, a third brother; Herman L. Fred and Leonard Wilkerson, Big Spring truckers, and Joseph T. Marchant, Midland cattle buyer.

Prieto and Olivas, arrested eight months ago in Mexico and charged with stealing a herd of cattle from Los Llaneros Ranch in Chihuahua, were brought here in police custody from Chihuahua City.

The two described movement of 150 cattle from an unidentified point in Mexico and named Walter and Irvin Babb as members of a seven-man party which rounded up and moved the animals.

Warning At Midland
Manuel Madrid Pena, official keeper of brand records in Guadalupe, Mexico, was a third witness. After examining drawings of brands cut from hides of cattle which the government has accused Marchant of selling, Pena picked 14 as brands used by Mexican cattle owners.

Irving H. Cone, a U. S. customs agent on the Rio Grande 27 years, testified he started investigating reports of cattle smuggling in October, 1951. He told of warning Herman Wilkerson about the cattle at the Midland auction ring on February 28, 1952.

"I told him that we had written to police that the cattle were smuggled from Mexico if not actually stolen. I told him that if he hauled the cattle he did so at the risk of prosecution."

North, East, Central Texans Head Main House Committees

AUSTIN—(P)—Three conservative representatives from Central, East and North Texas Tuesday were appointed chairmen of House committees that will deal with legislation on spending, taxing and state policy making.

The two whose committees will recommend the House course in money matters are Reps. Max Smith of San Marcos, Appropriations chairman, and D. H. Buchanan of Longview, Revenue and Taxation chief.

They said they will aim for strict economy and—if possible—no new taxes.

Rep. Horace Houston, Dallas, was named chairman of the important State Affairs Committee.

Smith, Buchanan and Houston won what generally are considered the three choice chairmanships as Speaker Reuben E. Senterlitt announced 729 appointments to 43 committees.

Smith, a cotton ginner and rancher, pledged close scrutiny of all appropriation bills to "try to hold within anticipated revenue." He thought his goal could be realized on all requests except that of the Highway Department.

Buchanan said he saw no need for new taxes, except possibly for highway construction, if the present revenue level does not drop.

Constitutional Amendments

Independent Loyalty Agency Is Proposed

WASHINGTON—(P)—Representative Rees (R-Kan.) Wednesday fired up steam behind a proposal to take the government employee loyalty program away from the White House and vest it in an independent agency.

Rees introduced a bill to establish by law a five-member independent board which, instead of the present executive established board, would be charged with weeding subversives out of the government.

BY RAY ELLIS and ED KUDLATY

William Harrison cut short a medical career to fight Indians on the frontier. His most famous victory was at the Battle of Tippecanoe in Indiana. When the Indians refused to cede their ancestral land, he marched into the region on Oct. 11, 1811, and soundly thrashed Tecumseh. Here was born the "Hero of Tippecanoe."

After service in the War of 1812, Harrison was twice the Ohio representative in Congress, then a member of the state legislature and finally a distinguished U. S. senator.

The panic of 1837 gave the Whigs ammunition for their candidate, Harrison, the first candidate to make speeches, was depicted as the man of the people. Appealing to the emotions of the nation, "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" were swept into office in 1841.

"Old Tip" was a man of mediocre talent and modest attainment. He owed his preferment to military fame rather than statesmanlike qualities. The new West was the scene of his fame and he found his way to the presidency over the same road as did Jackson. After one month as President, he died of pneumonia.

Toastmasters Say Convicted A-Spies Due Electric Chair

Death in the electric chair for the Rosenberg atom bomb spies was the verdict Tuesday night in the weekly meeting of the Toastmasters Club at the Cactus Restaurant.

J. H. Chandler served as topic-master for the question. Benton Howell was toastmaster and R. A. Berg officiated as acting chairman.

Four speakers addressed the gathering. They were Tom King, "Pins"; Loyd De Armon, "It's a State of Mind"; Nils Walker, "English Is a Living, Growing Language"; and Tim Dunn, "Securities."

John Braue presided as general critic, assisted by critics Dr. Henry Schlichting, C. Edward Singletary, J. H. Chandler, and Guy Brenne-man. W. C. McMahon functioned as grammarian.

Escaped Negro Trusty Asks Return To Southern Prison

CLEVELAND — "Are you sure you want to do this?" the judge asked the 28-year-old negro charged with a $3 robbery.

"Yes," replied Cartlyou Armstrong Tuesday, insisting that he wanted to return to Alabama's Kilby Prison to finish a robbery term which has 97 years and eight months to go.

Armstrong, charged with robbery, explained he had been a trusty at Kilby. "They treated me all right," he said. He insisted he enjoyed life there before he escaped June 26, 1950.

"You are the first colored person I ever heard of that preferred a Southern prison to a Northern one," said Common Pleas Judge Frank J. Merrick. Then the judge ordered the prosecutor's office to notify Alabama authorities their prisoner wants to go home.

Armstrong was sentenced to 99 years from Marengo County, Alabama, March 8, 1948. He was arrested here in the holdup of delicatessen owner Tom Ayns.

Young Medic Treats Dying Twin Brother As First Case

SEOUL — A young U. S. Army medic treated his first combat casualty in Korea recently without at first realizing the dying soldier was his twin brother.

Pvt. Irwin Rietz, 21, Rock Island, Ill., did not recognize his twin until he and two other soldiers lifted the brother, Edwin, into a litter jeep. Edwin died later at an aid station.

Irwin treated Edwin in a shallow trench, just one year to the day from the time the twins entered the service.

The surviving twin was taken off the line and will accompany the body of his brother home.

The story was carried Wednesday in Pacific Stars and Stripes. It was written by Pfc. Jim Morrissey, correspondent for the armed services newspaper at the U. S. 40th Division.

The young medic said he was so busy treating the wounded soldier that he did not recognize him immediately.

"You do not have time to worry about whom you are treating at a time like that," he said.

"I rolled him over," the medic related, "ripped open his shirt, and exposed a small wound in his chest." Did Everything Possible

As Irwin started to apply a bandage, the wounded man raised his head and moaned. Irwin, not looking up from his work, said "Take it easy, buddy, you are going to be all right."

Irwin got his first look at his patient's face when he and two other soldiers lifted the wounded man into an evacuation litter jeep.

"I knew," said Irwin, "that I had done everything possible for him on the hill, so I followed him down in another jeep."

"I thought he was wounded only slightly. When I arrived at the collecting station, the doctor told me he was dead."

Winter May Delay Removal Of Bodies Of C-46 Crash Dead

FISH HAVEN, IDAHO — Bodies of 40 persons who died in a C-46 crash on a desolate mountain ridge near here may not be removed from their frozen graves until Spring.

Col. Harry J. Kiebling, executive officer at Hill Air Force Base near Ogden, Utah, said an Army identification team from Washington, D. C., was due here Wednesday "to take over the highly technical job of identification and removal."

But Kiebling said due to conditions of the bodies and the heavy snow the removal job may have to be postponed until after Spring thaws.

"There are bodies all over," Air Force Capt. E. W. Morris of Lock Haven, Pa., who directed the first search party to reach the wreckage, said. "An arm, a leg, a piece here and a piece there. You would have to dig all the snow off the mountainside to get the bodies out."

The search party reached the grim scene Tuesday.

The big Army transport smashed into the mountain last Wednesday.

Two Brownwood Colleges To Merge At Spring Semester

DALLAS — Daniel Baker College will become a "school or department" of Howard Payne College at the beginning of the Spring semester, it was announced here Monday night.

The two Brownwood colleges will merge because "that area is no longer able to sustain adequately two schools of the high academic level one has a right to expect."

Canon Curtis Junker, Episcopal diocesan director of college work said.

Daniel Baker has been an Episcopal school while Howard Payne is a Baptist institution.

Dr. Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne, will continue as president of the combined schools. Dr. Wilford Cross, head of Daniel Baker, will be placed in a post yet to be designated.

Other details, school officials said, would be worked out later.

Barbers To Hear State Examiners

Barbers in Midland and surrounding cities are invited to attend a talk on barbering conditions in Texas sponsored by the State Board of Barber Examiners at 8 p.m. next Tuesday in the County Courthouse.

New legislation that might be needed will be discussed as well as barber laws.

State board members to be present are Ransom Brammen, president of the board; E. H. Coffield and Dana Powell, board members; Terrell Allen, secretary to the board, and R. M. Huey, city inspector.

American Indians in many areas of America used tobacco for smoking before the arrival of Columbus.

Casualties in Korea

WASHINGTON — The Department of Defense Wednesday announced the following Texas battle casualties in the Korean area:

Killed in action: Army: Pfc. Harvey L. Chambliss, Lubbock; Cpl. Gilbert Morales, New Braunfels (previously reported missing). Wounded, Army: Pfc. Joe E. Hawkins, Ballinger.

Midlander Locates Sister After Hunt For 27 Years

It happened Monday night by long distance telephone.

"Are you Grace Margaret?"

"Yes, I am."

"Then you're my sister!"

The woman, Mrs. G. W. Mooney, wept. After 27 years, she finally located her sister, through the combined efforts of Frank Hutchinson, head of The Reporter-Telegram classified department, and C. E. Hatcher, manager of the classified department of the Denver Post.

"Those were the days when the Missouri Waltz was popular, when 'Keep the Home Fires Burning' was sung in almost every home. I couldn't believe it, after all these years. I wept," Mrs. Mooney, who resides at 708 Atlanta Street, declared.

"But," said Mrs. Mooney, "it might be that I will never see my sister, anyway. My husband met with an accident last September and he has just started working again. I cook in a junior high school here to make ends meet."

"And, to make things worse, two of my sister's children got polio recently. She told me she has eight children now, and she might not have the money or time to visit me, you know."

Mrs. Mooney explained that her sister married at 16, and shortly after that Mrs. Mooney left for Kansas City with her parents. They lost contact with each other and even when their mother died, in 1926, her sister could not be located.

Mrs. Mooney went to The Reporter-Telegram offices to discuss inserting a classified ad in a Denver newspaper in search of her sister. Hutchinson wrote Hatcher who located the relative through telephone and city directories.

16 Smokers Shun The Weed For 100 Bucks At Christmas

SHERIDAN, IND.—(P)—Sixteen employees of a Sheridan factory can clip their boss for $1,000 if they don't let it go in smoke. Ken Biddle, non-smoker and owner of the Biddle Screw Products Company, last month offered the smokers among his 90 employees $100 if they would refrain from smoking until the company's next Christmas party.

Nineteen accepted the challenge. Three dropped out after only two days.

"Sixteen have gone through more than a week, which is half the battle, and I believe, as it looks now, it may cost me $1,000 come next Christmas," Biddle said.

"Although I don't remember ever buying more for less," said Biddle, "these cigarette companies are going to hate me."

Chandor, Heralded Portrait Artist, Dies At Texas Home

WEATHERFORD —(P)—Douglas Chandor, 55, portraitist of European royalty and prominent Americans, is dead.

The renowned artist died Tuesday night at 9:30 p.m. of a cerebral hemorrhage. Death came at his showplace home near here in the rugged hills that edge West Texas.

Chandor's latest work was a portrait of young Queen Elizabeth II, a work commissioned by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and the first portrait of the young monarch since she ascended the throne. The portrait was to be given to the British Embassy in Washington.

A busy, prolific painter, Chandor's work included portraits of the queen's mother and father, the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VIII and now Duke of Windsor, and Queen Marie of Romania.

Among others whom Chandor painted were the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, Herbert Hoover, Sam Rayburn and scores of other prominent persons.

Born in Surrey, England, Aug. 20, 1897, Chandor turned to serious painting after serving in the First Life Guards in World War I. He gained fame as a portraitist after his first exhibition, held in London's Royal Academy in 1922.

Unique Home
The British-born painter came to the United States in 1926 and moved to Weatherford in 1934 after he married Ina Kuteman Hill.

The imposing home he built near here—"White Shadows"—was a West Texas showplace that attracted an estimated 50,000 visitors annually. It featured an 800-foot driveway, castle moat, hanging gardens and a miniature Japanese Fujiyama, which periodically erupted.

Chandor, a tall, soft-spoken man, was to have been honored at an appreciation dinner here February 2 for the national prominence he had brought this small Texas town.

His survivors include his widow and a daughter.

Ousted Morse Has Slim Hope Of Return To Key Positions

WASHINGTON —(P)—Senator Morse (Oregon) Wednesday held only a forlorn chance of regaining the two key Senate committee posts he lost by bolting the Republican ticket in the 1952 presidential election.

The Oregon senator was beaten, 81 to 7, Tuesday when he appealed to the full Senate from the decision of the Conference of All GOP Senators to bump him off the Armed Services Committee. After the vote, taken by an unprecedented written ballot, Morse gave up a fight to retain his old Labor Committee assignment.

His only hope now is in a resolution which he himself introduced to increase the size of the two committees by two members each, one spot to go to Morse and the other to a Republican.

This resolution was shunted to the Rules Committee, where it could rest for the remainder of the session. A Morse supporter, Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.), wanted the Senate to instruct the committee to report back for a vote by Thursday, but his effort failed.

Senator Jenner (R-Ind), new rules chairman, told a newsmen he had no plans to take up the resolution immediately and did not know what its fate would be.

Lyndon Johnson Objects
Senator Taft (R-Ohio), the majority leader, said he would accept the Morse resolution because it would preserve the GOP margin of one vote on armed services and labor.

But Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), the minority leader, told a reporter his side never would accept it since, in his view, the effect of the resolution would be to reduce the relative Democratic strength on the two committees.

Even if the Rules Committee should vote approval of Morse's move, the Democrats could talk it to death on the Senate floor.

Having disposed of Morse's personal battle, the Senate adjourned until Friday. The House met Wednesday to receive President Truman's annual economic message, read by clerks. The Senate won't get around to hearing the message, officially, until it meets again.

Morse, left off the Senate Labor and Armed Services groups, was assigned by the GOP conference to two less desirable committees—Public Works and District of Columbia. He declined to take those after he had lost his floor fight, and the spots were left unfilled temporarily. But Morse told newsmen he would serve reluctantly on the public works and District committees if his resolution did not get favorable action.

Significant changes were made on several top Senate committees in the slates worked out Tuesday.

Half of the Republican membership on Foreign Relations is new, with Taft heading the list of those in that category. He has been sharply critical of many of the postwar foreign policies of the Truman Administration.

Joining him as committee newcomers are Senator Langer of North Dakota, who has fought foreign aid and voted against the United Nations; Senator Ferguson of Michigan, another critic of overseas spending; and Senator Knowland of California, who has advocated much greater emphasis on fighting communism in the Far East.

The Democrats placed on Foreign Relations two senators—Humphrey of Minnesota and Mansfield of Montana—who have supported most foreign policies of recent years.

Officers, Directors Are Re-elected By Midland National

The Midland National Bank re-elected all its officers and directors at the annual meetings of stockholders and directors Tuesday afternoon.

R. M. Barron is president of the financial institution. Other officers are E. Jack Wicker, executive vice president; Murray Fasken and N. P. Taylor, vice presidents; William A. Hutchison and Foy Brantley, assistant vice presidents; James G. Byus, cashier; and Ray Krusemark, John T. Stanley, Robert M. Barnes, Jr., Leland Foster, Don Maples and A. E. Smith, assistant cashiers.

Directors are A. Fasken, chairman; Barron, J. P. Gibbins, Roy Parks, Harry Adams, Murray Fasken, Donald M. Oliver and Wicker.

Reports on operations of the bank during 1952 were heard by the stockholders and directors. Directors termed last year's business "most satisfactory," and predicted another good year in 1953.

The Midland National Bank expects to occupy its new, modern and spacious building within the next few weeks, officials said.

Child Takes Vitamins A And D When Diet Is Short On Them

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

In this column vitamin A and D will be discussed together, both because they have many features in common and because they are primary of interest to children, since most grown-ups get what they need of these vitamins (with rare exceptions) without giving them any special thought.

Lack of enough vitamin A may cause eye difficulties. Inability to see well in a dim light caused by deficiency of vitamin A is cured promptly by giving extra doses of this vitamin.

There are other kinds of poor night vision which do not respond to such treatment, of course. Therefore, the claim that vitamin A will aid drivers of automobiles and lessen their chances of having acci-idents at night is not warranted.

Vitamin A also is supposed to be helpful in the treatment of certain kinds of skin calluses, but only when they are caused by a lack of this vitamin in the diet. Vitamin A is not considered to be helpful in the prevention of influenza, colds or other infections.

Likewise, the claim that taking enough vitamin A will prevent the formation of kidney stones is probably not justified. It is present in liver oils of several fish, in butter, cheese, egg yolk and many vegetables.

The term, vitamin D, is applied to at least two substances which are known to aid in the proper use by the body of calcium and phosphorus. Consequently, this vitamin is recognized as a specific method of treating certain conditions in which calcium is not properly used.

These conditions are rickets, a kind of bone softening in children, infantile tetany and probably some other conditions in which there is abnormal use of calcium and phosphorus.

Vitamins Help Teeth
There is reason to believe that vitamin D also plays an important part in tooth formation, but it is doubtful that this substance is the only important element in the prevention of such diseases of the teeth as caries. This vitamin is also present in almost exactly the same foods as vitamin A.

In children, particularly, combinations of vitamin A and D are frequently given during the winter months with the purpose of improving bone and tooth formation.

This is particularly important in winter because in northern climates at least, the sun is less powerful and the skin of children is less exposed to the sun. At such times, therefore, the vitamin D which is formed by exposing the skin to sunlight may be insufficient to supply the necessary amount.

PLEASE, BOYS, NO CROWDING

BRISTOL, ENGLAND —(P)—Free cocktails in class are the latest addition to the curriculum in Bristol University's psychology department. But it's all in the interest of science.

"We are trying to discover the effect of small doses of alcohol on skill and perception," explained Prof. G. C. Drew. The experiments will last three years.

There's one snag. The drinks will be disguised and not every glass will contain hard liquor.

WARNING BACKED BY BULLETS—Guns Are Primed To Pepper Next Red Plane Eying Japan

By ROBERT EUNSON

TOKYO —(P)—Japan and the United States have warned Soviet Russia that they have embarked on a new, get-tough policy in the Far East and they are ready to back it up with bullets.

The warning Tuesday to a "foreign power" left no doubt but that Japan was talking about Russia, whose Kurile Island-based planes are only six miles from Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost isle.

At least one Soviet plane already has been escorted from Japan. So far no bullets have been fired.

The warning means that planes and anti-aircraft guns are prepared to handle the next violation with force if necessary.

There is no particular significance in the timing of the warning. There has been no marked increase in the number of violations of the Japanese skies. But continuing violations have caused concern.

Shooting down a Russian MIG over Hokkaido would have caused a lot more flap internationally before the warning was issued than it would cause now that the Soviets mean business.

Why They Fly
Both nations concurred in the warning and both the U. S. Ambassador Robert Murphy and Gen. Mark Clark came through swiftly with statements backing up the warning.

Two interesting questions remain to be answered.

1. Why are Soviet planes flying over Japan?
2. What happens to a Soviet plane and its pilot if one is shot down or forced to land inside Japanese territory?

The 20 to 40 Soviet planes reported over Japan since June could have been reconnaissance planes or they could have been thrill-seeking jet jockeys of the Russian variety.

Most of them, however, are believed to be reconnaissance planes, taking photographs of security force installations. There are two purposes for reconnaissance: (1) to find out if the other side is getting ready to hit you, and, (2) to find out what his defenses are before you hit him.

The first is the most logical reason in this instance, because Hokkaido is covered with four feet of snow in its vulnerable places and it is doubtful if the Soviets would attack now.

One theory of their violations is that Russian planes fly out from the Kuriles to Japan and then back to test their own radar and see if it is working properly.
