MAYBE THERE'S HOPE for a more natural way of cleaning up after massive oil spills such as the Exxon Valdez off the coast of Alaska and the Mega Borg accident in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Texas General Land Office has been experimenting with a type of microbe that news reporters have laughingly referred to as the "Texas bugs" that saved the Gulf of Mexico.

But the oil-eating microbes introduced to the world in the wake of the Mega Borg oil tanker incident are no joke. They are serious about gobbling up oil. They eat it like a kid with a sweet tooth going after chocolate pie.

Tests conducted by the Texas General Land Office and Alpha Environmental, an Austin-based firm that developed the microbes, have indicated they can be effective against oil spills that threaten one of Texas' most precious natural resources--its Gulf Coast beaches.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who manages 20.5 million acres of state-owned and state mineral-right lands, including four million offshore acres and the beaches, bays and estuaries, became intrigued by the microbes about a year ago after meeting Dr. Carl Oppenheimer, a University of Texas microbiologist and oceanographer.

Dr. Oppenheimer has toured the world seeking out naturally-occurring microbes that seemed to have a particularly voracious appetite for oil. He also developed a process to freeze-dry them into a powder for easy storage and transport. And he has a catalyst that causes them to quickly multiply.

Trillions of them can easily fit into a hand-sized packet. A hundred pounds of them were used in a special test in the Gulf in the wake of the Mega Borg oil spill.

"Sometimes you have to believe your eyes," said Mauro. "After a few hours, there was no more oil in the test area."

Mauro cautions that additional scientific analysis is needed. But he is convinced that more emphasis should be put on technology in combatting oil spills, and that the microbes ultimately will become useful tools to keep Texas beaches clear of contamination from spills.

In the meantime, the commissioner wants everyone to know that the "bugs" are otherwise harmless. They will not creep up onto the beach and eat the sun-tan lotion off your back. They metabolize crude oil into fatty acids which are then eaten by marine life, causing no harm to the food chain.

The "Texas bugs" could become the basis for a new Texas industry and the state of the art in fighting oil spills.

Immunization Clinics Are Scheduled

Immunization clinics offering vaccines that give protection against several childhood diseases are scheduled for July.

Protection is against polio, diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella and mumps.

The Texas Department of Health is charging money to help with the cost of keeping the clinic open. The amount of money charged will be based on family income and size, and the ability to pay.

The town nearest Friona is Hereford at the Texas Department of Health Office, 914 Park Avenue, and the dates are July 5, 19 and 26. Schedule times are 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

IN THE "JAILHOUSE"... One of the fund-raising projects during the Fun Fair activities on July 4th in the City Park was the jail house. People could have someone put in jail for 50 cents, and it cost another 50 cents for them to get out. Several youngsters are shown enjoying their stay in "the pokey."

Highway Meeting Slated

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has scheduled a pre-construction meeting for U.S. Highway 60 in Parmer and Castro counties from Friona to the Deaf Smith County line. The meeting will be held July 10 at 10 a.m. in the City Hall, Friona.

The purpose of this meeting is to promote safety to the traveling public and construction personnel and to discuss the project plans, specifications and the plan and schedule of operations by the contractor, Gilvin-Terrill, Inc.

All interested citizens are invited to attend this meeting.

Legion Auxiliary Makes Donations

The regular monthly meeting of American Legion Post 206 was held at the Community Room of Friona State Bank, Thursday, June 28. The business session was conducted by Commander J.P. Sims.

The Auxiliary Unit met in the coffee shop room of Friona State Bank. Nine members were present: Jonell Sims, Orma Flippin, Ruth Drager, Waneta Taylor, Marlene Drake, Wana Brewer, Juanita Reed, Mildred Mingus and Geneva Williams.

Mrs. Williams presided. The membership report showed that the unit had met their goal of 32 members for 1990.

The treasurer's report was given by Mildred Mingus, secretary-treasurer. Girls State was discussed and reports from Holly Grimsley and Amy Israel, delegates, will be heard in the near future.

Projects were discussed and decisions made on the following: Kids, Inc., $300; St. Esther Baptist Church, $300; expense for Cancer Swim-A-Thon, $25; and expense for the unit's part of the dedication of the Veteran Administration Medical Center new nursing home wing, $50.

After a good discussion as to the community needs on these projects, proper action was taken and donations were made to these organizations.

It was decided that the group would meet at the Bank Friday morning for pictures and news coverage for publicity. Charles and Martha Russell have been active members of the Legion and Auxiliary for many years and a committee of Mildred Mingus, Wana Brewer, Marlene Drake and Waneta Taylor, was appointed to visit Charles and Martha and present them with a green plant from the Auxiliary.

Hazel Weir, another long-time charter member was mentioned and it was reported that she was to return to Friona soon. Plans will be made to visit with Hazel, also.

The dedication of the VAMC Nursing Home will be July 21 and all members were urged to attend this occasion. More information will be received as to the time for this program.

The Department Convention will be held July 12-15 in San

Bivins To Appear In Friona

With the conclusion of the sixth special session devoted to public school finance, Senator Teel Bivins will hold a Town Hall meeting in Friona July 11 to discuss the school reform measure and seek public input as he prepares for the upcoming 72nd Legislative session.

The meeting will begin at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, July 11 at Friona State Bank, 1105 Cleveland. The public is encouraged to attend and visit with Senator Bivins.

Because the Legislature has been in session for the better part of two years, Bivins said these Town Hall meetings are an essential means of communicating with the citizens of the 31st Senate District.

Bivins will be accompanied by staff members from his Amarillo and Austin offices.

Committee Member Election Set

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will begin accepting nominations July 5 for election of county committee members under new rules that make it easier for farmers to qualify as candidates and to vote, Bobby Murphy said this week.

FmHA county committees perform a variety of duties for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's credit agency, including deciding whether an applicant is eligible for a farm loan.

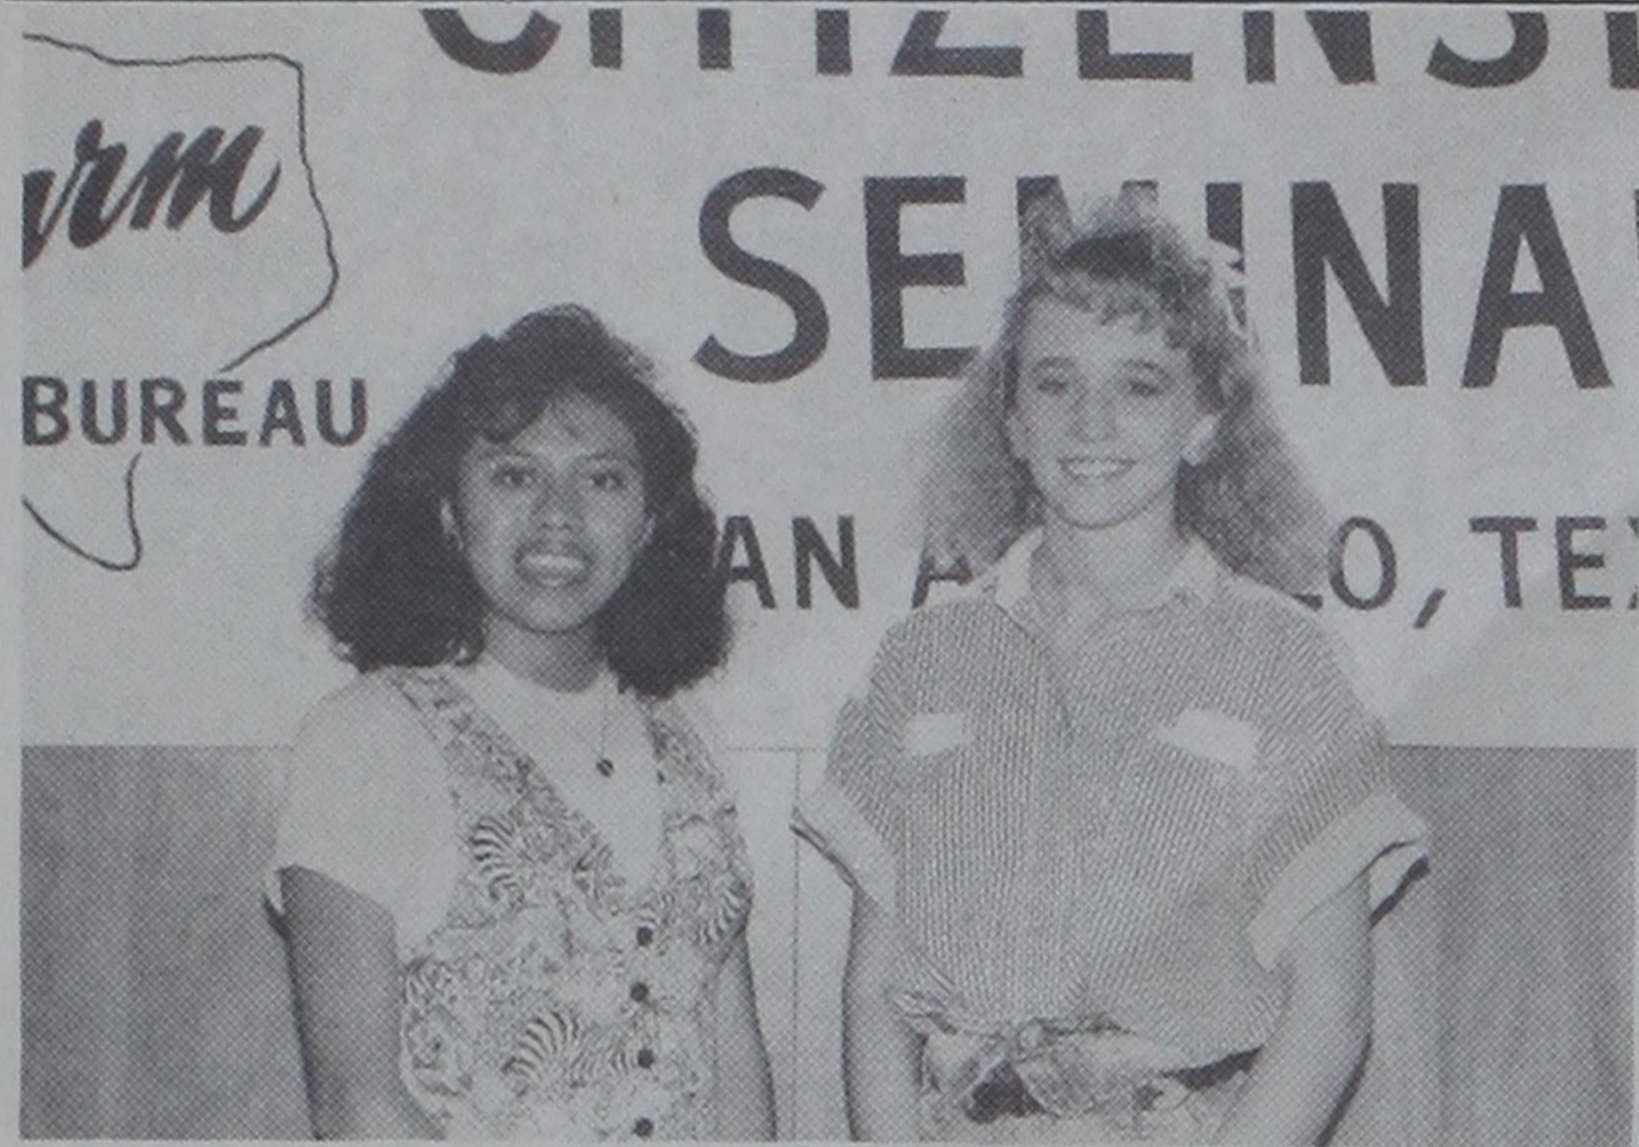

"One important change broadens the definition of a farmer to anyone who has an interest in a farm in the county as owner, tenant or sharecropper," Murphy said. "The new definition also includes the spouse of an eligible farmer. An old requirement that more than half of the candidate's income come from the farm operation has been dropped."

"The nominating period has been extended to 45 days from the previous 25 days, thus allowing more opportunity for people to run for the committee," Murphy said. "At least three eligible farmer voters, including the nominee, must sign the petition."

Two of the three committee members are elected by farmers in the county, and one is appointed by FmHA. Anyone interested in running for the committee can obtain a petition and other information from the FmHA county office at 207 Avenue, Farwell, Texas.

ATTEND SEMINAR... Attending the Farm Bureau's 28th annual Citizenship Seminar in San Angelo June 11-15 were Juanita Ramos and Amanda Curtis. Sponsored by the Parmer County Farm Bureau, they were among approximately 400 high school junior and senior students from 160 counties across the state.

EMOTIONS

Humility Begins With Modesty

By John Ingram Walker, M.D.

When Benjamin Franklin "conceived the bold and arduous project of arriving at moral perfection," he initially made a list of twelve virtues that he would attempt to master. Soon after Franklin added a thirteenth--humility. He wrote, "My list of virtues contained at first but twelve; but a Quaker friend having kindly informed me that I was generally thought proud; that my pride showed itself frequently in conversation; that I was not content with being in the right when discussing my point, but was overbearing and rather insolent; of which he convinced me by mentioning several instances;--I determined endeavoring to cure myself if I could of this vice or folly among the rest, and I added humility to my list..."

Franklin decided that he would never directly contradict the ideas of others nor would he ever make a positive assertion of his own. He eliminated every word that imported a rigid opinion such as "certainly" and "undoubtedly" and adopted instead of them, "I conceive," "I apprehend," "I imagine," or "it appears to me."

In his "Autobiography," Franklin said, "Perhaps for these fifty years past no one has ever heard a dogmatical expression escape me." Wouldn't it be nice if all of us could be confident enough to be that flexible? Franklin went on to make another interesting statement, "For I was but a bad speaker, never eloquent, subject to much hesitation in my choice of words, hardly correct in language, and yet I generally carried my points."

Franklin reported that his indirect approach allowed others to more readily accept his opinions and he attributed his modesty to be, after integrity, the reason he usually got his suggestions and proposals adopted by others. He said, "I cannot boast of much success in acquiring the reality of (humility); but I had a good deal with regard to the appearance of it."

He closed this passage of his "Autobiography" with these words, "In reality there is perhaps no one of our natural passions so hard to subdue as pride. Disguise it, struggle with it, beat it down, stifle it, mortify it as much as one pleases, it is still alive and will every now and then peep out and show itself. You will see it perhaps often in this history. For even if I could conceive that I had completely overcome it, I should probably be proud of my humility."

Franklin's dissertation on humility is strikingly similar to the advice of Dale Carnegie in "How To Win Friends and Influence People." Part 3 of that book is dedicated to "Twelve Ways to Win People to Your Way of Thinking." Carnegie's advice, or most of it, is vintage Franklin.

"The only way to get the best of an argument is to avoid it."

"Show respect for the other man's opinions. Never tell a man he is wrong."

"If you are wrong admit it quickly and emphatically."

"Begin in a friendly way."

"Get the other person saying 'yes, yes' immediately."

"Let the other man do a great deal of the talking."

"Let the other man feel that the idea is his."

"Try honestly to see things from the other person's point of view."

"Be sympathetic with the other person's ideas and desires."

"Appeal to the nobler motives."

Both Franklin and Carnegie would agree with Lord Chesterfield who said to his son: "Be wiser than other people, if you can; but do not tell them so," or with Proverbs 12:23: "A prudent man conceals his knowledge, but fools proclaim their folly."

Humility, of course, entails more than graceful speech, but in reading Franklin one can understand how his modesty made him one of the most sociable of men. To read Franklin is to like him. Although Franklin records the disciplined achievement of fame, he appears never to take himself too seriously. Maybe that's where humility begins. Perhaps the modest acceptance of one's frailties marks humility's essence, and, in turn, allows us to better accept the imperfections of others.

Friona is to have its first real talking picture in the Marvelling Theatre Saturday night and it is expected that a large number of Friona people will take advantage of the opportunity to see a real talking movie. Manager H.P. Eberling has gone to a large expense and a large amount of labor to install this up-to-date and first class photophone apparatus so that Friona might boast of as good as the best in tone moving pictures.

(Quoted from the Clovis News-Journal): Rexford Tugwell says he is sorry he offended the Middle West with his recent speech predicting dust storms will convert this territory into a desert within 300 years, and that if we'd read all of his Albany speech, no offense would have been taken. But then, there are those who prefer the offense to a headache.

Men from Rhea, Black, Bovina, Lazbuddie, Lakeview, Midway, Oklahoma Lane, Farwell and any and all other communities are being invited to participate.

According to the geologists, vast underground rivers circulate under the flat plains of the Panhandle, and last week Ernie Neff, working at an irrigation well on the Gugenheim place 12 miles northeast of Hereford, found some evidence to back up the theory. For in the irrigation ditch, Neff found a live, fresh water clam--a specimen two inches wide and three and a quarter inches long. The well on the Gugenheim place has been in operation only four or five months.

"Friona's growing water systems, now boasting of 445 services is a far reach from the modest beginning when in 1929 the city system was inaugurated with approximately 50 services," stated City Manager Roy Wilson of the Panhandle Water Works Association at its Friona meeting last week.

During a week of hard downpours, Parmer County received an average of from six to eight inches of moisture, according to reports from farmers in different sections of the county. Consensus of the area farmers seems to be that the crops were not damaged to any great degree, and that if the sunny weather continues, crop prospects are good.

Slow-falling soaking rains have area farmers smiling this week. The City of Friona has measured 3.7 inches for a three-day period last Wednesday through Friday. The moisture fell just right for such young crops as cotton and maize. The fall was heavier in the Lazbuddie community, which also received some hail damage.

The contract for purchase of 7.81 acres of land for the location of the Friona Nursing Home was signed this week, with the City of Friona purchasing the land from Tommy Jones. The property is located just north of the present city limits, bounded by Main Street on the west and Welch Acres on the east. The council was also shown the architect's drawing for a 60-bed facility. The drawings included the floor plan and a front elevation.

Work on the new Post Office building is progressing nicely. The walls were completed this week and the building's roof installation was begun. The new Post Office may be ready for use by the early part of August. Some Post Office box patrons will need to change their box numbers when Friona

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

"LET'S GO TO MARKET!"

SUPER ACE MARKET DRUGS

IN THESE MODERN TIMES, GOING TO MARKET IS A MATTER OF GETTING INTO A CAR AND DRIVING TO THE SHOPPING CENTER. WE NEVER SEE THE MAN WHO GREW OUR FOOD, THE PEOPLE WHO MADE OUR CLOTHES, OR THE OTHER ARTICLES WE BUY AND USE. EVERYTHING IS PACKAGED NEATLY AND SHIPPED TO THE STORES WHERE WE DO OUR SHOPPING. BUT...

... THE BIBLICAL MARKET PLACE WAS ANOTHER MATTER. A CITY'S GATEWAY OPENED INTO A KIND OF PLAZA—HERE WAS THE MARKET, WHERE EVERY KIND OF TRADING AND SELLING TOOK PLACE. AN ANCIENT SAYING DECLARED, "ONE CAN BUY ANYTHING IN THE MARKETS OF JERUSALEM, FROM A FINE CAMEL TO A FALSE TOOTH!" AND YOU WOULD MEET THE MAN WHO RAISED THE MEAT YOU BOUGHT, OR THE GRAIN YOU WANTED FOR A FINE FLOUR—THE SHEEP-RAISER, THE OLIVE OIL-MAKER, THE FARMER, THE POTTER, THE CLOTH-SPINNER, WERE HERE TO PERSONALLY SELL YOU THEIR OWN GOODS. PEOPLE OF MANY NATIONS THROGGED JERUSALEM'S MARKETS—A DOZEN LANGUAGES MIGHT BE HEARD WITHOUT TAKING MORE THAN A FEW STEPS—A CONSTANT DIN OF VOICES, CRYING THE VIRTUES OF THIS MELON, THAT PERFUME, AGAINST A BACKGROUND OF THE CLINK AND JINGLE OF THE MONEY CHANGERS, WITHOUT WHOM THE BUYING AND SELLING OF ALL THESE GOODS COULD HARDLY BE MANAGED. A POLYGLOT OF ACTIVITY, WAS THE ANCIENT MARKETPLACE WHEN "GOING TO MARKET" WAS AN EXCITING EVENT, INDEED!

Ostrich Farming Is New Local Industry

The newest farm product in Parmer County these days is ostriches, as residents continue to devise ways of making money on the farm.

Kenneth Hall and Howard Fleming own a herd of 11 of the exotic birds in the Hub vicinity, and passers-by sometimes do a "double take" when they see the gangly fowls.

Hall said he bought his first pair of birds in May of 1989. They were ten months old at the time. Then later he bought a pair of two-year-olds.

The older birds are just about the right age to begin laying, but have not begun as yet. When the laying begins, Hall hopes to begin trying to get back his investment and eventually make some money.

Breeding-age ostriches have sold for as much as $50,000 per pair, but a pair can sometimes be bought for $25,000 to $35,000. Ostrich chicks eight to ten weeks old have sold for as much as $3,000 each.

Ostrich eggs have sold for up to $1,000. Hall was busy recently building a brooder, anticipating the time he would have eggs for hatching.

"A serviceman told me the other day he saw one of the roosters breeding a hen, so they should commence laying one of these days," Hall said.

The ostrich industry in this country has received a boost in recent years due to the import ban against South Africa, which was the supplier of most ostrich products to this country.

Estimates are that there are approximately 3,000 to 5,000 of the birds in the United States, and estimates are that the numbers should climb for awhile. Seventy-five per cent of the ostriches owned in the U.S. are believed to be located in Texas and Oklahoma.

Don Hall of Quail (no relation to Kenneth) said in a recent interview that there were 25 to 30 breeding pairs of ostriches in the Panhandle, and between 1,000 to 1,500 total birds.

Don Hall started with a pair of birds 11 years ago, and his herd has grown to about 150 birds.

Ostriches are slaughtered for their meat, and of course, the hides are used for fashionable boots and other products.

It may be a number of years before the ostrich growers in this area have any for slaughter purposes, since most of the birds are being sold to other prospective breeders.

They are a strange critter, Kenneth Hall says. He built a large shed for his birds to have shelter last winter. "But during the zero weather, they slept out on the bare ground—wouldn't have anything to do with the shed," he said.

Hall feeds his birds alfalfa hay, corn and (what else?) ostrich chow.

LHS Students Take Part In Program

Lazbuddie's National Honor Society members and their sponsor, Mrs. Thelma Coffey, established a new activity in their school during the last semester, which proved to be a very positive experience for them and for Lazbuddie's elementary students and teachers.

The activity is called the NHS Teacher Assistant Program. Members of the National Honor Society, which involves top academic students in grades ten through twelve, began the new project at the beginning of the second semester of this school year. NHS students made themselves available to help teachers in the elementary school for assistance in grading papers, preparing materials for lessons, and tutoring groups of students. With teacher supervision, some of the NHS students actually taught classes.

Roy Willingham, high school principal, said the program had a positive effect on all concerned, and plans are to use the program in the years to come.

NHS sponsor, Mrs. Thelma Coffey, praised her students for their dedication and sincere efforts to be of help to the elementary teachers and students. She stated that several of the NHS members, after working in the elementary grades, expressed an interest in becoming teachers.

Mrs. Coffey said that the most interesting aspect of the program was the response from the elementary students. For these children, it was a special treat to be guided by the high school students. The young students adored the older ones and they gave the new teachers undivided attention. Mrs. Coffey admonished the NHS members to be good role models.

She stated that the project had a very positive effect on the National Honor Society, helped the teachers and was a special experience for the young students as well as for the older ones.

Members of the NHS who participated were Casey Bradshaw, Diana Cozby, Lance Ivy, Mia

Jennings, Stacy Hodges, Gerardo Mata, Elsa Mendoza, Jana Vise and Eddie Zamora.

The following is a list of new members of the National Honor Society, who were inducted in ceremonies on March 22: Susan Alcalá, Stacey Barber, Doug Barnes, Frank Gonzales, Filemon Guzman, Holley Morris, Justin Morris, Sandra Martinez, Kevin McGehee, Juanita Ramos, Michael Williams and Raymond Zamora.

Angler's Corner

By M.D. McCALLUM

In this area, just about every lake contains a panfish that seems to get every angler's attention sooner or later. This panfish is the crappie.

The crappie is easy to fillet and once located can be caught by almost anyone. It has been said over and over that everyone is an expert crappie catcher during the spawn. As for the rest of the year, this critter can be mighty difficult to locate as they are a schooling fish that roams the reservoirs in search of food.

Crappies are sensitive to light and prefer to feed at dawn, dusk or night. Crappies also like some type of cover, usually wood, and during the day, will stick tight to this cover.

Of the two species of crappie, black and white, the white is more common to southern lakes. While the whites do not school as tightly as the blacks, they still stack up when compared to other schooling fish.

These fish are usually found in one spot at one particular depth in such a way as to keep one fisherman from catching one while their partner, just a few feet away, cannot seem to keep them off his line. These fish have frustrated more than their fair share of fishermen.

Depth and location of the school is so critical that it seems they might fit into an area no larger than a 55-gallon barrel. Once located, any variance in depth or location of your rod, no matter how small, will stop the action immediately. If you are catching them at 15 feet, dropping your bait to 16 feet will defeat your purpose. It is better to present your bait a little higher as the fish almost never look down.

One of the biggest arguments in fishing for crappie is whether to use minnows or small lead-head jigs. Certainly the minnow has its own action and crappie will hit a lifeless minnow when the action is steady.

The jig has to be presented in such a way as to imitate a baitfish. This requires an up and down movement of the lure or casting out and allowing the lure to glide down on an arc while maintaining a semi-tight line. This fish is also known as the papermouth as a hard hook-set can rip the lure out of the tissue of the mouth.

The crappie is another fish that will go deep during the day to escape the heat. Deep water to the crappie can be as little as 15 feet in stained or muddy water or as deep as 35 feet in clear water.

Other panfish are naturally curious, not so with crappie. Noise can disturb the school. When suspended in open water, even the most experienced angler can come home with an empty stringer. Suspended crappie are the most difficult to catch of any panfish.

Crappie are known to be light strikers. A tight line will help in detecting this type of strike. Many anglers prefer to use a float, but with the loose line, concentration is essential. The bobber may barely move or appear to not move at all until the fish is excited and moves to free itself. When casting jigs a slow retrieve will produce more hook-ups than a faster retrieve.

Ultralight or light gear spooled with 4-6 pound test line will work best. Spinning reels or spincasters produce much better than even the lightest baitcasting gear.

Large crappie (slabs) are in the 1-1 1/2 pound range in this area. Two pound crappie and up are considered to be huge. Most area crappie anglers probably catch more crappie in the 1/2 pound range or even smaller. Crappie tend to group according to size. If small crappie are all that you can catch even when probing the deeper parts of the school, it is better to move on and locate another school.

In Texas, there is a statewide 10-inch minimum. Check with the local lake officials to make sure of the minimum as some lakes have their own set of regulations. Crappie caught under the limit and from deep water have little chance to survive and grow. Returning the undersized fish to water as quickly as possible will increase its chances of survival.

One phenomenon inherent to crappie fishing is the fact that every three to five years the size of the fish will increase dramatically. This is due in part to fishing pressure and too many crappie competing for the available forage base.

As the smaller crappie are weeded out over time, the more aggressive feeding survivors are then allowed to grow larger. This accounts for the one or two years of bigger crappie and better fishing.

A fishing diary will provide much needed information as to how and what to do during a specific time of the year. If you caught crappie at eight feet during early spring, this same depth will rarely produce any other time of the year. Transversely, deep fishing will rarely produce during the spring. A diary will eliminate a lot of frustration when properly documented.

While crappie can be caught on worms and other live bait, the minnow far outpaces any other bait. If you are the type of fisherman that prefers to tie up and fish, go with the minnow. The constant working of a jig can be tiring and decrease your fishing time.

When you're out on the water hunting the crappie, pay attention to the details of forage, water temperature, depth and the time of year.

Until next week, keep those lines tight and take someone fishing if you have the opportunity. Good luck.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR BETTER HEALTH

DR. GERALD GLASSCOCK

IS YOUR CHILD ATHLETIC?

If your child is athletic, his enthusiasm for sports can sometimes lead to problems. Minor injuries are common enough when two bodies collide at full velocity. But body contact is not the only problem.

Starts and stops at high speed, twisting and turning into awkward positions may cause strains to muscles, limbs, and back. Untempered enthusiasm may cause a youngster to try harder and play longer than is good for him. If his body is fatigued, there is greater potential for accidents and injury.

And if he's too proud to complain of minor injuries, how do you find out if there's a problem that should be treated before it becomes worse?

The best answer is periodic chiropractic examinations. These are recommended before the season begins, so he can start in top form. They're also recommended whenever an injury occurs as well as at the end of the season. Any structural defects should get the correction and treatment needed to keep your child in good health.

One of Ellen Kahan's biggest concerns as an elementary school principal doesn't concern elementary school at all. "College," she says, "is getting so expensive that parents really have to start saving when their kids enter the first grade." Ellen recommends buying U.S. Savings Bonds, the Great American Investment. "Bonds were the answer for our three kids. That's why I give parents I meet the same advice." Today's Bonds pay competitive rates, and now can be completely tax free when used for college. To find out more, call 1-800-US-BONDS.

Evaluation Offered For Area Irrigators

Irrigation represents the nation's greatest consumptive use of water. Industry and irrigation together use most of the water withdrawn from primary sources. In fact, farmers and ranchers withdraw nearly five times as much water for irrigation as municipalities use, and three-fourths as much as industries do. Irrigation consumes probably three times as much water as all other uses combined.

Throughout the irrigated areas farmers are becoming more conscious of the need to improve their irrigation systems and distribution lay-outs in order to use the already available water more efficiently. Water conservation must be accomplished through human effort. It will not get done until people have the knowledge, desire and means to do it. In all cases, a conservation farm plan is very important as a farmer's own guide in making the right decisions as to the kinds and sequence of practice to be applied on irrigated lands as on other land.

Water management on the farm is the crux or pay-off of irrigation development. One of the practices being applied in the area is surge flow irrigation. Through surge flow irrigation in appropriate soils, application efficiency can be as high as 85%. Surge is a relatively recently developed which allows for the intermittent application flow water to furrows in a series of surges rather than the traditional continuous furrow system. It helps in sealing the soil surface and reduction in deep percolation losses.

The use of sprinkler systems has expanded rapidly during the past 5-10 years. Center pivot systems have become increasingly popular in the area due to their reduced labor requirements and the ability to irrigate 20-25% more acreage with the same amount of water as with furrow irrigation.

It is recommended that an on-site irrigation system efficiency evaluation be done. They require four to six hours for sprinkler systems. The efficiency evaluation can analyze the delivery system's application rate and pattern uniformly; calculate the efficiency of the pumping plants; demonstrate the use of water metering; inform the farmer of equipment efficiency, evaporation, run-off water losses, and nozzle application patterns.

For further information, call or go by your local Soil Conservation Service.

The Gonzales Courthouse in Gonzales County was completed in 1896 for a mere $64,450. It is the second such building for the 150 year old county, the first having burned in 1893. The town was once called the "Lexington of Texas" because the first skirmish of the Texas Revolution was fought here. Gonzales was named for Rafael Gonzales, the governor of the joint state of Coahuila-Texas in the 1820s.

It is so good to be home again after an absence of nearly four weeks. I've been down to Garland, Texas visiting in the home of Richard, Frieda, Brandon and Barrett Dickson. It was hot down there and very dry in spite of the fact that there was so much rain in that area earlier in the year.

However, it did rain several times, so I imagined it was raining in the Panhandle, too. When I learned it had not, I visioned my lawn as dry as it would have been had I not had a good next door neighbor.

I was delightfully surprised when I got in sight and saw nothing except green in the front yard. Where else in the world could a person live where neighborliness would exceed that of Our Town?

Hazel Weir had another birthday while I was gone. Her daughter, Eunice Jeffers of Arvada, Colorado, came down and spent a few days and attended Hazel's birthday breakfast, which is an annual occasion for several of her friends. Then, these two spent some time in Cool, Colorado before returning to Friona early last week.

Eunice, or "Sis," as she is better known, returned to her home in Arvada a few days ago.

Cool, Colorado reminds me that Editor Bill Ellis, along with wife, Carol, and children, Laura, Stanley and Richard, recently spent a week at Colorado Springs.

In addition to cooling off and seeing the sights in the area, Carol reports, "We accidentally ran into the most fantastic Mexican food place you would ever want to go."

"It was," she continued, "just a little hole in the wall type place, but the food was excellent."

If you are in the area and want to find it, just look for Ristras and Ribs.

Another Friona couple has joined the ranks of "Married More Than Half a Century."

Johnny Hand and Elthie Brannon were married July 2, 1940 in Clovis and have lived southeast of town since that time.

They have two children, Johnnie Maurine Williams and Wessie Weatherley; four grandchildren, Keli Nance, Heidi Johnson and Ashlee and Dustee Gee; and one great-grandson, Karson Nance.

James and Sue Procter honored the couple with a dinner in their home Monday evening.

Others present were Wessie Weatherley, Ashlee and Dustee Gee, Darran Procter, John and Kathrine Blackburn and Ance and Iona Renner.

Carolyn Trimmell returned home Tuesday after a visit with her parents, Elvin and Wilma Johnston, who live at Kingston, Oklahoma.

Two grandchildren, Raynie and Jason Delasorge of Temple, Texas, came home with her for an extended visit. They are the children of Robert and Rita Delasorge, former Friona residents.

Maybian Rhodes has another great-grandson. He is Lance Harrison Rhodes of Shawnee, Oklahoma. He is the son of Jim and Joy Rhodes and grandson of Gaylon and Shelby Rhodes, who live at Abilene, Texas.

James and Glenda Mingus Nixon and children, Kayce and Nick, who live at Round Rock, Texas, visited in the home of Selma Habbinga Monday.

They had been to Fort Sumner Lake for a family reunion and did some fishing over the weekend. Enroute to Friona they went by way of Portales and visited friends and relatives.

While they were in Friona, Gertrude Renner and Judy and Tammie Potts came to visit with them.

The Nixons left Tuesday morning. There had been a fire at their place near Guymon, so they were going by to check on damage.

Kayce will be a senior in high school this fall and Nick will be a sophomore. They both attend Round Rock High School.

Peggy Allen had major surgery at Deaf Smith General Hospital in Hereford Tuesday. Thursday morning, her mother, Wilma Wise, reported she was making satisfactory progress.

Julie Simons, Brett Clements United In Church Ceremony

Julie Ann Simons and Brett Jayson Clements, both of College Station, Texas, were united in marriage during an early evening candlelight ceremony Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Hereford.

Officiating for the marriage was Doug Manning.

The bride is the daughter of Tom Simons and Jenna Simons, both of Hereford.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clements, also of Hereford.

The church altar was decorated by an arch candelabrum and two spiral candelabras entwined with fresh ivy. Two ferns in large brass planters enhanced the setting. White satin bows, accented with pink flowers, marked the pews.

Kristy Parman served her sister as matron of honor. Chad Clements, the groom's brother, was best man.

Bridesmaids included Melissa Leyendecker of Bryan and Melissa Whitaker of Amarillo.

Groomsmen were the groom's cousin, Steven Smith of Austin, and Chris Cockerham of College Station.

Guests were escorted by the bride's brother, Scott Simons of Austin, Garry Parman of Houston, Cody Anderson and Scott Michal, both of College Station, and Billy Burnam of Hereford.

The bride's cousins, Holley Simons and Daniel Simons, served as flower girl and ring bearer. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Simons.

Stephanie Simons and Heather Hodges lit the candles.

Polly Hays, vocalist, sang "Evergreen," "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Will Be Here." She was accompanied by the bride's great-aunt, Joy Grimes, who accompanied at the organ and piano.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal length gown of European taffeta. The gown featured a sabrina neckline, French puffed sleeves and a princess style bodice encrusted with pearls and jewels. The skirt was made of full and flowing taffeta and was fashioned with a draped peplum. The gown plunged to a low back which was centered with a designer's bow. The cathedral length train was studded with pearls and jewels.

She wore a wreath of silk flowers and pearls scattered with tiny pink rosebuds in her hair.

The two-tiered bridal illusion veil was accented with pencil edged scallops.

She carried a cascading bouquet of pink and white roses accented with greenery and baby's breath.

Her jewelry consisted of pearl earrings surrounded by delicate rhinestones.

The bridal attendants wore blush pink moire taffeta dresses each designed with a low v-shaped back, which was centered with a large bow, a sabrina neckline and puffed sleeves.

The matron of honor carried five white long stemmed roses tied with a satin bow and the bridesmaids carried three long stemmed roses, also tied with a satin bow.

The groom's sister, Robin Clements, registered guests at the reception held in the E. B. Black House.

Cake was served by Natalie Sims and Susan Bailey. Punch and coffee were served by Kristen Cassels and Kim Williams.

The bride's table, which was covered with a lace cloth, was decorated with a crystal vase holding spring flowers, two crystal candle holders with pink tapers and Precious Moments bride and groom figurines. The three tiered white wedding cake was topped with a Precious Moments bride and groom in a departure car. Pink icing roses cascaded down the side of the cake and also centered the bottom two cake layers.

The groom's chocolate sheet cake featured the Texas A&M logo and was placed on a table covered with a maroon cloth. A white floral arrangement and a silver coffee service completed the table setting.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride wore a black and white off-the-shoulder fitted dress and black and rhinestone earrings.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Hereford High School and is currently a journalism student at Texas A&M University. She is an August candidate for graduation. She is currently employed by the Texas A&M journalism department.

The groom, also a 1986 graduate of Hereford High School, graduated from Texas A&M in May. He plans to attend graduate school in the fall.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H.E. Simons of Mt. Pleasant; Mr. and Mrs. Don Simons of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Steve Simons of Mt. Pleasant; Mary Bearden of Tyler; Lynna Muse of Mesa, Arizona; the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clements, all of Friona; and Mr. and Mrs. David Minaldi of Plano.

Selling Short Makes You A Market Bear

One way to make money in the stock market is to bet on losers. Instead of looking for undervalued stocks, concentrate on overvalued issues. Get excited over bad management, lousy products and falling earnings. Change your attitude on investing. Then, sell short.

Strictly defined, selling short is the sale of a security that must be borrowed to make delivery. A looser, but perhaps just as descriptive, definition may be betting on the losers.

Here's how it works. Your broker borrows shares of the stock and sells them on your behalf. If you're correct, and the stock drops in value, you buy the shares back later at a lower price and "cover" your short. Your profit is the difference between what you sell the stock for and how much it costs to buy it back. That's the good news.

The bad news is the unlimited risk of selling short. There is no limit to how high a stock can climb or how quickly it may do so. In recent years, thanks to takeovers and leveraged buy-outs, some obvious short-sale candidates unexpectedly doubled or tripled almost overnight. If you had been short these stocks and were forced to buy back, or cover, at the artificially inflated price, you could have suffered a sizeable loss.

If you're still reading, here are the mechanics of short selling. Before the transaction, set up a margin account with your broker. Either cash or securities may serve as collateral. For every dollar in cash, you can sell short up to $2 worth of stock. For every dollar of stock you have as collateral, you can sell short a dollar's worth of stock. If the stock you shorted goes up, your broker will probably ask for more collateral. For that reason, any broker with your best interests at heart will advise never to short the maximum allowable amount. Leave yourself a cushion.

Generally, no interest is charged on the stocks your broker borrows for you to sell short. It is, however, good business to clarify this before you sell. While you're at it, ask about commissions and any other charges. Completely understand all liabilities beforehand, and be prepared, both emotionally and financially, to absorb any losses when you sell short.

The most successful investors on Wall Street have advised against selling short. Why?--because it goes against the historic trends of the market and demands more research, market attention, risk and discipline than most long-term, value-oriented investors desire. J.P. Morgan said it best, "Remember, my son, that any man who is a bear on the future of this country will go broke."
