Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And Nothing But Chicken Feed

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, lives in a monkey house. He lives high in the top of a very tall tree, right in the middle of the Great Forest.

One day he was walking along beneath the trees very far from home when he met a fellow whose name was Always Hungry. Mr. Hungry was tall and thin, for no matter how much he ate, he could never get enough. "I'm hungry, hungry!" said Always Hungry when he saw Daddy Ringtail.

"You poor fellow," said Daddy Ringtail. "I'm hungry, hungry, hungry!" Mr. Hungry said again. He said he would wait for supper until they came to Miney Moe's house, he said.

But look! There was Miney Moe's house right now. Daddy Ringtail hurried in, and Mr. Always Hungry with him. But Miney Moe wasn't at home. He was gone away to dig for gold, and all there was to eat in the house was a bag of feed for the chickens that Miney Moe used to have. "I'm hungry, hungry, hungry!" said Mr. Always Hungry, and tomorrow I'll tell you what he did about it. Happy day!

from Daddy Ringtail's monkey house to hurry back home for something to eat. Daddy Ringtail didn't have a sandwich with him, either, or anything else to eat.

"I know!" said Daddy Ringtail. "We must hurry to see my dear old friend, Mr. Miney Moe. We can have something to eat at his house."

Mr. Hungry smiled to hear these words, and away he hurried with Daddy Ringtail to go to the house of Daddy Ringtail's dear old friend, Mr. Miney Moe.

"Now, now, now," said Daddy Ringtail. "Mr. Always Hungry, if you're so hungry, why not eat some of these berries that grow along the way?"

"Hah!" said Mr. Hungry. "Me eat berries? Why, a berry is hardly a mouthful for a chicken, and a tall fellow like me should not eat something that's nothing but chicken feed."

And so they hurried along, and

Army Says Economy Moves Delay Defense Readiness

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army says its effort to hold down the cost of the Korean War has delayed progress toward foolproof national defense.

Lt. Gen. A. C. McAuliffe, the Army's deputy chief of staff for operations, testified that funds were stretched as far as possible to finance the war for available money and to avoid asking Congress for extra appropriations.

As a result, he told a House appropriations subcommittee, stocks of equipment have been reduced, without being replaced, and standards of operation and maintenance have been depressed.

This has saved money, McAuliffe said in testimony made public Monday, but "has not improved our combat readiness position, however, and has further delayed progress toward achieving a proper state of mobilization readiness."

McAuliffe said major military equipment sent to Korea this year has not been replaced in the nation's stockpile because an estimate of the cost is to be included in a forthcoming military budget.

The Army estimated its personal costs alone would be 900 million dollars more. Other services were not asked for estimates by the committee.

Korea Comes Extra
Army officers said they had enough funds on hand to finance the Korean campaign through June, unless fighting intensifies.

Towns Get Busy, Too
Smaller donations are pouring in now.

Towns get busy, too. In Passaic and Clifton, N. J., where many Dutch settled as America grew, fire houses collected clothes and money in a whirlwind "Operation Holland," sparked by the Passaic Herald News.

In other towns citizens collected such quantities of clothing and blankets that the League of Red Cross Societies announced no more were needed, except for oilskin slickers, shoes and stockings.

In Kansas, two towns, Ottawa and Hays, themselves the victims of heavy floods less than two years ago, took steps to send Holland aid. Danville, Pa., adopted the devastated town of Zierikzee to help in its reconstruction. Other towns considered similar action.

Average annual wage and salary payments in U. S. private industry have been estimated $3,281 in 1951 compared with $1,408 in 1929 and $1,019 in 1933.

in regular military budgets but are met through special appropriations. Officers testified in support of requests for special appropriations totaling more than a billion dollars for the three services.

Persephal Costs
The Army estimated that over 90 per cent of its share of 786 million dollars was needed to finance bills voted by the last Congress to raise military pay and allowances, for mustering out pay and to give troops in Korea $45 monthly combat pay.

The Navy requested 140 million dollars for personnel, the Marines $3 millions and the Air Force 167 millions. They said most of this money also is for added pay voted by Congress.

An additional $11,700,000 was requested for civilian relief in Korea. Use Savings

The services said their added costs actually were 227 million dollars.

Clark Lee, Famed War Reporter, Dies

PEBBLE BEACH, CALIF. (AP)—Clark Lee, 46, one of the nation's top reporters who covered World War II from the fall of Bataan to the surrender of Japan, died Sunday of a heart ailment.

He and his wife, Liliuokalani, a Hawaiian princess he married in 1938, had returned from Spain only a few weeks ago.

Lee's career—which began in 1928 when he joined The Associated Press—carried him throughout the world.

After serving in AP bureaus in Mexico City, Honolulu, Shanghai and Tokyo, Lee was caught in Manila when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor.

His eyewitness and often exclusive accounts of the fall of Bataan won him wide acclaim. He later reported battles both in the Pacific and European theaters.

In 1946, he settled in this picturesque coastal community for a career of free-lance writing.

America's Answer To Holland's Plight Writes Out Epic Of Human Compassion

By ADELAIDE KERR
NEW YORK (AP)—An epic of human compassion and suffering is being written now in communities across America and on the flood-torn shores of Holland.

It is a spontaneous movement among hundreds of thousands of Americans to help hundreds of thousands of Hollanders in the wake of catastrophe.

At Camp Drum, N. Y., paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division conducted a two-day collection drive, raised $12,340 and sent a delegation with it to the Netherlands consulate general in New York.

"When we jumped into Holland during World War II, and the Germans were all over the place, your farmers risked their lives to hide us and feed us," they said.

In Kansas City, a little girl walked slowly from school. Throughout her supertime emotions chased across her face. Finally, she laid down her spoon and went upstairs. "I was saving for a bicycle," she wrote. "But I would rather the children in Holland had this $5."

'Wish I Had More'
In New England village, an old man living on a small pension walked to the Post Office in the rain to mail a $10 check.

"You Dutch renounced your Marshall Plan aid not long ago," said his letter. "I like the way you stand on your own feet. I wish I had more to help you."

In a living room in Huntington Valley, Pa., a babysitter, alone before a television set, heard of Holland's plight. "Here is the money I earned tonight," she said in a letter with the check she sent to the consulate.

In New York, Clarence Michalis, bank president and head of Dutch war relief during World War II, organized Holland flood relief and got it into action with a national committee.

Volunteers came from the Dutch United Nations delegation to handle the mail that poured into the organization's Wall Street headquarters. The first day's contributions totaled more than $30,000, chiefly in large gifts.

Senate Tidelands Hearings Opened

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversy over ownership of submerged coastal lands came before the Senate Interior Committee Monday with good prospects for settlement of an issue which had bedeviled Congress for 15 years.

Holland, joined by 39 other senators, is sponsoring a measure vetoed by President Truman last year. The measure would give the states clear title to the submerged lands extending three miles from shore. The distance would be 1 1/2 miles in the case of Texas and the Florida Gulf coast because of conditions under which they entered the Union.

Blizzards—

(Continued From Page One) Passes in Northern Colorado and forced the postponement of the national ski jumping meet at Steamboat Springs. Trees, telephone and power lines were leveled. Temperatures in the more critical three-state area of the storm were not as bitter, however, as in the section to the north. Aberdeen, S. D., had 14 below Monday and Fargo, N. D. minus seven. Temperatures of zero or lower were general in the Dakotas and Minnesota and were spreading southward and eastward.

There is considerable strength on Capitol Hill for a broader states ownership bill like one sponsored by Senator Daniel (D-Texas). It would give the states not only the marginal seas belt but also 37 1/2 per cent of oil and gas revenues from submerged lands in the continental shelf beyond the states seaward boundaries.

But Holland made it plain as he went before the committee that he feels his measure should be approved promptly. The Florida senator told newsmen that numerous angles involved in disposition of lands in the continental shelf would only complicate the picture and delay action. The shelf problems should be dealt with in separate legislation as soon as the other bill is out of the way, he declared.

No Texas Crude Price Hikes Seen

AUSTIN (AP)—Two members of the Texas Railroad Commission Monday said they have not heard of any efforts to boost crude oil or gasoline prices in Texas. U. S. Jets Attack Red-Type Planes Over Japan; One Hit TOKYO (AP)—Two U. S. warplanes challenged two Russian-type fighters over Northern Japan Monday, damaged one in a brief skirmish and chased both intruders to the Soviet-held Kurile Islands, the Far East Air Force said.

It is only four and one-half miles from Nemuro to the nearest Russian-held island. Japan's air boundary is only two and one-quarter miles from the tip of the peninsula—just brief seconds in a jet.

The Thunderjets were on a routine patrol mission when radar operators on the ground spotted the intruders. The radar men flashed the signal that sent the U. S. planes roaring in pursuit.

More Than 200 U. S. Planes Smash Ko-Red Buildup Areas

SEOUL—(AP)—U. S. Sabre jets Monday shot down three Russian-built MIG's, probably destroyed another and damaged seven while screening a massive air raid on a big Communist troop and supply buildup area.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported the Communist jet fighter losses after announcing earlier that 200 Allied fighter-bombers had turned the supply area southwest of Pyongyang into a boiling mass of smoke and flames.

It was the second straight day of jet dog fights in far northwest Korea.

The Sabres, outnumbered 45 to 22, shot down two MIG's Sunday, probably destroyed a third and damaged four. They were shielding Allied fighter-bombers which knocked out two generators at the big Suho hydroelectric plant on the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria.

More than 500 Air Force, Marine and U. S. carrier planes turned the giant Suho plant—the world's fourth largest—into a pile of junk last June 23, but the Communists evidently had rebuilt it.

Monday's target for the big Allied air strike was Kyomipo, about 20 miles southwest of the Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Jabara Flies Again

Participating in the stepped-up air blows were Marine Capt. Ted Williams, famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, and Air Force Maj. James Jabara, America's first jet ace, who is flying his second combat tour in Korea.

Williams' fighter-bomber developed trouble over the Kyomipo target area—presumably hit by ground fire. He managed to get the plane back to an Allied airstrip and crash-landed. He walked away from the wrecked and blazing plane.

Jabara, from Wichita, Kan., was credited with damaging a MIG—the first claim of his second combat tour after 20 or more fruitless missions. On his first tour Jabara destroyed six MIG's, probably destroyed another and damaged four.

Allied warships, meanwhile, began the third year of their bombardment and siege of the Eastern Korean port of Wonsan. The U. S. heavy cruiser Toledo and two destroyers, the Wedderburn and Moore, shelled shore installations.

The siege of Wonsan is the longest in U. S. naval history. It began Feb. 18, 1951, after the U. S. 1st Marine Division and other UN units were evacuated in the Eighth Army's retreat from North Korea.

New 'Surprises' Indicated

AP Correspondent Olen Clements, aboard the U. S. carrier Valley Forge, described Wonsan as "a battered hulk of rubble and death." He said the city, which once had a population of 100,000 and was Eastern Korea's transportation hub, has been reduced to an estimated 30,000 Communist soldiers and a handful of civilians.

On the battlefield, Allied infantrymen threw back five small Communist probes in pre-dawn darkness. Temperatures dropped below zero all along the front.

The Eighth Army's new command, Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, indicated there might be some unpleasant surprises for the Communists.

Taylor told a news conference the 17-nation army is "a formidable military force which has accomplished great things in the past and is capable of further achievements in the future."

He added that he would like nothing better than to meet a Communist offensive. He said also that Korea offered great opportunities for "ingenious and unorthodox commanders." But he did not indicate what unorthodox strategy he might have in mind.

Breakfast Opens Heart Fund Drive

A kickoff breakfast at 7 a.m. Tuesday in Jimmy's Pit Bar & Q Restaurant will launch the 1953 Heart Fund Drive, Duke Jimerson, Midland chairman, reminded Saturday.

"Help Your Heart Fund—Help Your Heart" is the slogan selected for the $10,000,000 nation wide drive for funds to be used in the fight against heart disease.

Dr. Fred Gaarde, president of the Permian Basin Heart Association, said Saturday heart disease ranks as the major killer and disabler of Americans among all of the destroyers of the health and happiness of citizens.

He reported that progress has been made in the battle against heart disease, but he emphasized that many questions are still unanswered. The causes of high blood pressure, rheumatic fever, and hardening of the arteries are listed yet as the unsolved mysteries of medical science.

"Research is the answer," said Dr. Gaarde, "and gifts to the Heart Fund help speed that research."

Many of Midland's service and social organizations have enlisted in the 1953 Heart Fund Drive. They will distribute plastic hearts and also placards to Midland business firms.

Climaxing the drive will be the campaign Saturday by the Half-Timers of Midland High School. They will seek contributions in the business district, with small plastic hearts to pin on Midland donors.

Delbert Downing will be the principal speaker at the Kickoff breakfast. Jimerson will introduce six drive chairmen at the event.

The chairmen are A. T. Barrett, office buildings; Jess V. Lindsey, business houses; Charles F. Mathews, schools; P. V. Thorsen, general solicitations; Perry Pickett, attorneys, and Dr. Gaarde, doctors and dentists.

FRISKY PUP'S IN DOGHOUSE

ALBUQUERQUE—(AP)—A frisky black cocker spaniel has become an arsonist.

Robert J. Beck of Albuquerque was repairing his station wagon using an extension light. The dog was in the front seat and a can of gasoline in the back seat.

The dog jumped into the back seat. The gasoline spilled on the lighted bulb. The interior of the station wagon caught fire.

Firemen put the fire out. Beck put the dog in the doghouse.

Skeleton Reveals King-Size Roasts Carved By Cavemen

ALBUQUERQUE—(AP)—Indications of how prehistoric humans carved a caveman's rib roast from a slain mammoth have been found on a ranch near Estancia, N. M.

Official at the University of New Mexico say a skeleton turned up by a plow proved to be that of a huge beast slain by Folsom hunters some 10,000 years ago. It bore indications that a 300-pound rib roast had been hacked out by some flint instrument.

Folsom man is a prehistoric human believed to have lived in this area about 10,000 B. C. Mammoths, among the big game hunted by Folsom man, sometimes weighed as much as 11 tons.

At Least 22 Killed When Italian Train Plunges From Rails

BENEVENTO, ITALY—(AP)—Excessive speed, blamed on faulty brakes, hurled the Bari-Naples Express off the track here Sunday, killing at least 22 persons.

Eighty were injured, 23 seriously. All casualties were Italian.

The 10-car train raced down a hill at 65 miles an hour into this South Italian city and jumped the rails as it approached the station. The locomotive plunged onto the station platform. Only the last car remained on the tracks.

Many of the victims were headed for Naples to sail for a new life in Venezuela.

Train engineer Roberto Pietra and his assistant, Nicola Ricciardi, were arrested and placed under guard in Benevento's little hospital, which was crowded to overflowing with the injured.

Pietra told investigators the brakes failed.

Raimondi Giovanni, director-general of Italian railways, said the train should have slowed to 18 miles an hour before entering Benevento, but that a speedometer tape showed it had been going 65.

The late General George Patton held the academy record as a hurdler on the West Point track team.

Additional Training Is Set Up For Disabled Veterans

Veterans who received educational and vocational training under the World War II GI Bill or Public Law 16, the disabled veterans bill, and have been disabled in service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean campaign, may be entitled to additional training. The Disabled American Veterans pointed out Saturday.

Ben J. Gay, commander of the Midland Chapter, urged veterans in this classification to contact the DAV for full information on their rights.

The DAV commander said: "An able bodied veteran of World War II who used up all of his entitlement for education and Vocational Training under the World War II GI Bill, and who went back into service and was disabled in service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean Campaign, is eligible for training under the Vocational Rehabilitation Act for disabled veterans."

"A serviceman disabled in World War II who has completed his training under Public Law 16 and then reentered service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean Campaign and was disabled a second time may also be eligible for additional training.

"Able bodied veterans of service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean Campaign, are entitled to training under P. L. 850, the so-called Korean G. I. Bill.

"Also World War II veterans who interrupted schooling to enter service since June 27, 1950, the start of the Korean Campaign, may resume their studies."

"The DAV commander urged all veterans eligible for additional education or vocational training to take advantage of these opportunities to prepare themselves for a future vocation.

One estimate is that good land-scaping can add 13 per cent to the value of a home.

Two Lions Nabbed Quickly After Fleeing Circus Cage

MEMPHIS—(AP)—Two lions who spent a brief moment on downtown streets after slipping from their circus cages are back behind bars.

The lions, Goldie and Elizabeth, escaped into the arena of the auditorium Sunday while a crowd of 5,000 watched trainer Pat Anthony run through his wild animal set. Midway through the set, a feature attraction of the Hamid Morton Circus, the two young lions dashed from the main cage into their individual cages alongside.

The dash was according to script. But finding their cage doors wide open wasn't.

The lions loped through the pit-like arena and into the tunnel of the passageway. Roustabouts, policemen, clowns, gaudily costumed shriners and a few spectators streamed in pursuit.

The lions scooted out a half-open door to the street and a noisy flood of cars and buses.

Goldie raced halfway around the block-sized auditorium and re-entered at another open door. Her section of the corridor was blocked off by a partitioning door slammed by an alert attendant.

Elizabeth, befuddled by the roar of civilization, retreated back into the corridor and hid in a soft-drinks storeroom.

Anthony and his crew arrived on the run and shoved cages in front of the lions. It took little urging to entice both back behind bars.

The United Nations flag has a light blue field, emblazoned with a white polar map of the world between twin olive branches.
