Sun No. 1 McCabe In Mitchell Sector Flows 156 BOPD

Sun Oil Company No. 1 McCabe, Pennsylvania discovery in Southeast Mitchell County, flowed 156 barrels of oil and no water in 24 hours through perforations opposite the pay section at 5,890 to 5,916 feet. Operator was continuing to test the well.

Green Wildcat In SE Borden Kicks Out Mud, Oil, Gas

Charles C. Green, Jr. of Midland and associates No. 1 V. H. Wolfe, Southeast Borden County wildcat, five miles northwest of Vincent encountered interesting shows of oil and gas in a soft section at 6,170-74 feet in an unidentified formation.

After that four feet drilled soft the project blew out mud, oil and gas and kicked the fluid over theerrick.

Operator shut the well in and pumped in heavy mud to hold it. In pumping in that mud a full load of oil from the drill pipe was pumped out. There were no signs of formation water.

None of the samples from the bottom four feet of the hole have been secured and as a result it has not been possible to identify the section making the oil and gas.

More mud is being mixed. The project will be conditioned and a drillstem test will be run as soon as any danger of another blow out is eliminated.

Due To Test Soon
Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 40, block 25, H&TC survey. It is three-quarters of a mile east of the Hobbs (Canyon Reef) field, and one and one-half miles south of the Retnecke Canyon Reef field.

It is an old dry hole at total depth 4,247 feet in lower Permian lime, with no shows at that point. Green and associates took it over and cleaned it out and then started it to go to 7,500 feet or a test of the Pennsylvanian lime at a lesser depth.

The show at 6,470-74 feet is the first it has reported.

B. & N. Get No Shows In Top Of Ellenburger In SE Tom Green Test

The Blackwood & Nichols Company No. 1-209 Malone, Southeast Tom Green County wildcat failed to find in shows of oil or gas in a drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger at 3,225-70 feet. It is now making mud hole.

IRANIAN RIOTS—Rioting crowds surge around the royal palace in Tehran, Iran, during a national crisis touched off when Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi announced he was leaving Iran for an "indefinite" time. The aroused crowds, blaming Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for the shah's decision, have been rioting almost constantly for four days.

Mossadegh Regains Control As Tensions Mount In Iran

TEHRAN, IRAN—(P)—New tensions built up in riot-plagued Tehran Tuesday as fanatic Moslem leader Ayatollah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani ordered his followers to boycott a Parliament meeting at which Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had been expected to demand a vote of confidence.

A Communist-front group, The National Organization to Combat Imperialism, called a mass rally in Parliament Square Tuesday afternoon, but police cordoned off the square and dispersed crowds attempting to demonstrate.

Police cars equipped with loudspeakers cruised through the streets reminding that martial law does not permit rallies.

At various points, officers broke up small groups of demonstrators with clubs and rifle butts. They made some arrests. A few girls were among the prisoners.

After the weekend street fighting, Tehran seemed relatively calm. Kashani, Parliament speaker and on the outs with the Premier, issued his boycott order after the new Mossadegh-appointed army chief of staff installed a new chief of the guard at the Majlis Building. Kashani contended this left the deputies without proper protection.

Though heavily-armed guards Tuesday rinded the building in which a bloc of 28 Mossadegh supporters have been camping since Saturday night—Kashani's order prevented a quorum and by noon no meeting had been held.

The Premier had been expected to demand the confidence vote to re-establish his position after the weekend demonstrations. These broke broke out after it appeared Mossadegh might force 33-year-old Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to leave the country. The shah cancelled his trip after the rioting started.

The pro-shah demonstrators largely were replaced Monday by crowds cheering for the Premier. In a broadcast Monday night, Mossadegh urged the Iranians to call off their "general holiday" and get back to work. "If the need comes, I shall report to you and ask your assistance," he added.

The Communist Tudeh Party, however, still was trying to whip up trouble. Elogan shouting Tudeh members staged "spot demonstrations" throughout the city but each time scattered before police arrived on the scene.

A blustering cold front that marched into Texas Tuesday will mean high winds, a little rain but no snow for Midland.

Midland weathermen said winds with gusts up to 38 miles an hour will kick up sand at least until 8 p.m. Tuesday. Though Amarillo, Lubbock and Roswell are expected to have snow and fog, the weatherman saw little chance Midland will get any snow. Rain—light, that is—is possible.

Temperatures, however, were rising Tuesday morning. At 11:30 a.m. the mercury had reached the 60-degree mark and still was climbing.

Elsewhere in Texas, wind and thunder but little rain kept the weather picture front and center.

The Associated Press saw it this way.

Small craft warnings were ordered up along the Gulf Coast in the face of southerly winds of 25 to 35 miles an hour, shifting to northerly late Tuesday.

At mid-morning the southeast-moving air mass stretched across North Texas, its cool breath clearing up leaden skies.

Elsewhere in the nation, the late-winter storm that disrupted Texas Independence Day ceremonies in Washington and sprinkled snow, drizzle and freezing rain in its path was disappearing.

GIRLS IN AGGIELAND?— Let 'Em Enter, Senators Shout

By MARTHA COLE
AUSTIN—(P)—Girls at Texas A&M? It's all right with us, the Senate said Tuesday.

Without a word of objection, it passed a resolution to make the boys' school co-educational. The measure goes to the House.

Senator William T. Moore, Bryan, introduced his measure and said, "I move its adoption." Senators started saying "Aye, aye, aye" over the floor.

"Bang" went Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey's gavel, and the Senate started knocking down 75 years of tradition.

"West Point Of Texas" And over in the House a bill was making the rounds to change the law to read that A&M shall be open to students of both sexes. So far it's just a "feeler."

"When I went to A&M, it was a military school with a great reputation," said Moore, who graduated from there in 1940. "It was sort of the West Point of Texas. But now all the schools teach military science. A&M is no longer the military school. Why kid ourselves?"

"That college is going down, and this is the only thing that can save it," Moore told a reporter.

Moore's legislation is a concurrent resolution that must be passed on by both the House and Senate. It directs the A&M board to admit "female students."

Moore said as far as he could determine the board could make it co-educational, but that's such a drastic step nobody has dared try it without directing legislation.

Paper Takes Part
Let girls sing "We Are the Aggies?" The student newspaper, The Battalion, came out last week with an editorial saying something had to be done.

"Military academy, co-education, or mediocrity—which will it be for A&M?" read the editorial.

TAX OFFICES EXTEND HOURS
J. F. Wilson, internal revenue agent, announced Monday that the office of the Director of Internal Revenue here in Suite 219, West Building, 401 North Colorado Street, will be open until 5 p.m. on March 16. Since the March 15 deadline falls on Sunday, returns will be accepted until closing time the following Monday.

And from this day forward until March 16, the Internal Revenue office here will be open every day, except Sundays, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for late finishers in the income tax scramble.

Wilson has three other men in the Midland office to aid in processing the last minute rush of business. They are Agents C. M. Kreidler, William B. Hill, and Bill Latta.

Second 'Old Soldier' May Stir New Row

WASHINGTON—(P)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet arrived from Korea's frozen battlefield Tuesday and immediately went into a White House conference with President Eisenhower and top military leaders.

Van Fleet arrived at the Washington National Airport in a cold, drizzling rain and after brief ceremonies was taken to the White House.

Van Fleet went into Eisenhower's office accompanied by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Defense Secretary Wilson; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff, and Army Secretary Stevens.

He was met at the airport by Wilson, along with members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the President and members of the UN.

An honor guard of several hundred troops of the three armed forces and a saluting battery welcomed Van Fleet as he stepped from his plane.

Favors Offensive
The 60-year-old general, moving toward retirement (March 31, brings with him an expressed conviction that a United Nations offensive in Korea could "certainly" be successful. He contends the stalemate is one of the UN's choosing and not the enemy's.

But he has remained silent on what his recommendations would be to Congress and to his World War II comrade-in-arms, President Eisenhower.

In advance of Van Fleet's scheduled arrival, two Democratic senators Tuesday quoted Gen. Omar N. Bradley as having said that under present conditions neither side can launch a successful offensive in Korea. They were Senators Gillette (Iowa) and Humphrey (Minnesota).

Bradley Says 'No'
Gillette said in an interview that Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a recent closed-door session that there is "no chance" for a successful UN offensive in Korea at this point.

In a separate interview, Humphrey agreed Bradley had said this and had added that the buildup necessary for such an offensive would be costly in manpower and materials.

"The general said that launching an offensive would necessitate the diversion of materials and manpower from other areas of the world," Humphrey said. "He said an offensive would cost more in manpower, with greater casualties and greater consumption of goods and materials than are now programmed."

11 Die As Canadian Jet Airliner Crashes
KARACHI, PAKISTAN—(P)—Canada's first comet jet airliner crashed and burned on a takeoff from Karachi airport early Tuesday, killing the five Canadian crewmen and six British aircraft technicians aboard.

It was the first fatal crash for the record-breaking British-built Comet. Another of the four-engine passenger speedsters was damaged badly in a belly landing on takeoff in Rome last October 26 but all of the 62 persons aboard escaped injury.

The Canadian Comet was scheduled to inaugurate a Hawaii-to-Australia run on April 28 for Canadian Pacific Airlines.

At Least Six Die In Factory Flames

NEW YORK—(P)—At least six persons—five of them women—died in a lightning-quick fire that flashed through a Bronx furniture factory Tuesday. Firemen said there may be more loss of life.

Spores of panicky workers fled from the building when the blaze broke out.

"The householders are correcting the defect and the inspector is able to report them approved."

In some instances the garbage can is not proper and in such cases a gummed "Condemned" sticker is attached and the reason is stated. In these situations, a new garbage can, meeting the proper specifications, must be provided.

Tom Smith, city-county sanitation chief, said the city is carrying on an education program among schools and service groups, teaching them with films and speeches the value of eliminating possible fly-breeding sources. "The city manager also said Tuesday the city's spraying equipment and supply of chemicals is ready to go into action whenever flies appear."

House Votes Officers More Power To Curb Dope Racket

AUSTIN—(P)—A bill to give state officers more power to crush the dope racket in Texas was passed unanimously in the House Tuesday.

The measure stiffening penalties for sale of narcotics to minors and generally bolstering enforcement provisions went to the Senate for action.

The session's first restrictive labor measure was advanced in the House by an 87-49 vote, but its author said two amendments had "ruined" its effect.

The labor bill, by Rep. H. A. (Salty) Hull, Fort Worth, originally was intended to deny unemployment benefits to workers idled by a shortage of materials resulting from a strike somewhere else against the same firm.

Pro-labor House members tacked two amendments on the bill. One assures workers unemployment benefits if they are not responsible for the work stoppage. Another places the burden of proof on the employer to show why a willing worker should be denied employment.

The House action merely moved the labor measure to a point where it can be considered finally before being sent to the Senate.

Suspect Held In Car Death

PECOS—Simon McIntire, 32, of Carlsbad, N. M., was charged here Tuesday with hit-and-run driving in connection with the death of R. C. Brewster, 71, Pecos, who died Friday.

The charges were filed with Justice of the Peace P. D. Alley by Joe Hill, Pecos chief of police. A $5,000 bond was set for McIntire who is in the Reeves County Jail.

McIntire is alleged to have driven the automobile which struck Brewster, an abstract man, in downtown Pecos last Thursday. Brewster died five hours later.

The death car, subject to a widespread search, was spotted on State Highway 17 south of Balmercha by Highway Patrolmen Marcus Miles and T. D. Watson Monday.

McIntire signed a statement here Monday night saying he saw a man walk out in front of his car, but "I am not sure I hit him." He also said he had had "some beer, maybe eight, but I was not drunk."

Accompanying McIntire at the time were two Mexican nationals, Manuel Balco Perez, Escobedo, and a Latin American girl named Leonard, neither of whom admitting seeing anything.

Blustering Cold Front Holds Wind, Sand, But Little Rain

A blustering cold front that marched into Texas Tuesday will mean high winds, a little rain but no snow for Midland.

Midland weathermen said winds with gusts up to 38 miles an hour will kick up sand at least until 8 p.m. Tuesday. Though Amarillo, Lubbock and Roswell are expected to have snow and fog, the weatherman saw little chance Midland will get any snow. Rain—light, that is—is possible.

Temperatures, however, were rising Tuesday morning. At 11:30 a.m. the mercury had reached the 60-degree mark and still was climbing.

Elsewhere in Texas, wind and thunder but little rain kept the weather picture front and center. The Associated Press saw it this way.

At mid-morning the southeast-moving air mass stretched across North Texas, its cool breath clearing up leaden skies.

Elsewhere in the nation, the late-winter storm that disrupted Texas Independence Day ceremonies in Washington and sprinkled snow, drizzle and freezing rain in its path was disappearing.

Freezing rain has begun in South-Central Kansas with snow in the north and rain and thunderstorms from Eastern Oklahoma through Southern Missouri.

The indications are that this may develop into another major storm causing heavy snow Tuesday in the Kansas City vicinity and surrounding area with new snow accumulating to around four inches or more during Tuesday afternoon and night.

Freezing rain and packed snow still hampered transportation over a wide area from Eastern Montana and Northern Nevada through the Great Plains and the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys.

But the cold front plodding across Texas had no such bothersome features. Only thunderstorms, gusty but almost dry, stretched along the line of the front early Tuesday

City Starts Early In Battle Against Menace Of Insects

Midland is getting ready for a fly-free Spring and Summer. And, health officials hope, it will be a Spring and Summer with a minimum of disease.

Last year, with overcrowded sewer lines, dumping raw sewage into streets and swarms of flies buzzing throughout the City, Midland found itself with an epidemic of diarrhea and the threat of a polio outbreak.

Senate Votes Hike In House-Reduced Appropriations Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Monday okayed $747,325,597 in funds for a score of federal agencies—$22,102,658 more than voted by the House.

The supplemental appropriations measure was hiked by a number of minor amendments, such as $880 for an automobile for Vice President Nixon and a $178,000 increase in the emergency fund for the President.

The bill is for expenses in the year ending June 30.

The total still is $1,280,195,538 below the amount sought by ex-President Truman before he left office January 20. Bulk of the cut was a House-imposed slash of $1,200,000—100 in funds for the military—a cut termed "phony" by some congressmen who said the money would have to be voted later, if not now.

The measure now goes to Senate-House conference to straighten out differences between the Senate and House versions.

LABOR FILM CONTROVERSY MOUNTS— Angry New Mexicans Chase Camera Crews From Streets

EL PASO—(AP)—The leading lady in a film is under arrest. Angry citizens chase their cameramen from the street.

Heated attacks are made from the floor of Congress.

The House Un-American Activities Committee and the FBI are watching.

And steps already are being taken to prevent showing of the film.

But a group of moviemakers who have been accused of Communist connections still are grinding away, trying to finish before anything else happens.

Rosaura Revueltas, 42-year-old Mexican actress playing the female lead, is held by the immigration service on a charge of entering the country illegally. Immigration Service hearings have been postponed to take street scenes. They were told to get out now or get out later without your cameras. We mean business.

In Hollywood, the Screen Actors Guild turned down a request for support in the case from the Mexican Actors Guild.

A mass demonstration of members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was narrowly averted here Monday night.

Ben Margolis, attorney for Miss Revueltas, addressed a union meeting after close of the deportation hearings. He said his client would be unable to make a scheduled talk "because the U. S. Immigration Service has threatened to throw her in jail if she does."

Joseph Minton, district immigration director, angrily confirmed the statement.

"This woman is under arrest," Minton said. "I've shown her every consideration in the world in light of her cultural background and accomplishments. She has been free to eat and shop anywhere in the city."

"Anyone else facing the charge she does would be in one of two places—jail or detention quarters. She's not going to make any propaganda speeches."

Some union members present at the meeting shouted for a march on Miss Revueltas' hotel room for a mass demonstration, but were restrained by Margolis, who told them they'd "only make things worse."

Margolis, during the hearing accused the Immigration Service of participating in a conspiracy to keep his client from working on the film. He termed the hearing "just window dressing."

All of those so far named in connection with the picture have been linked with left-wing activities.

Miss Revueltas last summer attended the Soviet-sponsored International Film Festival in East Berlin.

Producer of the film is the mine-bank union, which lost its CIO affiliation because its leaders refused to say they weren't Communists.

Refugees From Reds Swamp West Berlin

BERLIN—(AP)—An estimated 3,000 Soviet zone men, women and children lined up outside Berlin refugee headquarters in the British sector at daybreak Tuesday for registration as political refugees.

Half of them reported there Monday but could not be processed and had to come back Tuesday. The others arrived in West Berlin during the night.

Refugee officials worked feverishly to find shelter for the new arrivals after all 35 refugee camps in the American, British and French sectors were overcrowded by the weekend's stream of almost 5,000 East Germans.

Preparations were made to take over an administration building in the British sector as an emergency refugee camp. It would shelter about 5,000 persons—less than the number expected to be registered Tuesday and Wednesday.

Fog Halts London's Air, Sea Transport

LONDON—(AP)—Dense fog halted air and sea transport early Tuesday in Southern England and the English Channel.

The liner Queen Mary, due at Southampton Monday midnight with 843 passengers from New York had to anchor off the Isle of Wight.

Shipping on the Thames River came to a standstill and the French channel steamer Cote d'Azur was fogbound off Calais with London-to-Paris train passengers.

All airliners at London's airports were grounded as visibility dropped to as little as 30 yards. Cars and buses in the blotted-out area proceeded at a crawl and trains were delayed.

Spiritual Diary for Lent

For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.—Luke 19:10.

Today's Message: Who are you? Who am I? Chemists used to say we were worth 98 cents chemically. This is the laboratory view of life. Inflation now may bring us $1.98 if we could sell ourselves. But we can't sell ourselves, for we are not our own. Men sell themselves to all kinds of things, but they do not own their souls. That's what makes their bargains with life so dishonest. The Cross means that already we have been bought with a price. That price is God's own suffering love. God gives us our rights... our birthrights in the Kingdom which has no end. But there is a second act to this drama of life. There is the prelude to being born again, as the New Testament calls it. That is the recognition that all God's children have rights no matter what their race or color or station, since Christ died for them. He died for people— you and me. The Cross is a symbol of the fact that God recognizes us all as wayward children to whom He would teach the true way of life. Christ came to save the lost. You're lost and I'm lost if we don't know who we are. Let us pray together that we may re-discover ourselves... not by ourselves... but through Jesus Christ our Lord.—JOHN O. MELLIN

Today's Prayer: Speak to us, our Father, that we may find ourselves. Guide our thoughts, O God, that we may see all things praising Thee; the sun, moon, stars, and the children of men discovered through Christ. This we ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service

Most of America's best bridge players are better known for their other accomplishments than for their skill at the bridge-table. This is natural enough, since good bridge takes hard thinking, and the man who has the equipment for that thinking can usually make his mark in his chosen profession.

If I were a lawyer, I'd bolster up my case by saying that hard logical thinking is necessary in the legal profession and that successful lawyers and judges should make fine bridge players. And so they do. Exhibit A is Judge Aron Steuer, of the New York State Supreme Court—a luminary at the bridge table as he is in the legal profession.

The judge, playing the South hand in a recent friendly rubber, won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades. He next led his singleton diamond, and West took the ace.

For lack of a better return, West continued diamonds, and dummy won with the king. The queen of diamonds was ruffed by East and over-ruffed by South. Declarer next ruffed a club in dummy and led another high diamond, discarding a club from his hand.

West ruffed and looked around for a way out. He finally led another club, and dummy ruffed for the second time. By this time declarer was down to four trumps and the king of spades and could afford to lose two more tricks. He therefore led the ten of hearts from dummy—and carefully played the queen from his hand.

West could take the ace of hearts and lead a club to make declarer ruff, but then the judge could draw one more trump with the king and lead the king of spades. West would make his jack of hearts, but could not defeat the contract.

The judge carefully resisted the temptation to play a low trump from his hand on dummy's ten. The play of a low trump permits West to take the jack. West returns a club, reducing South to two trumps.

South must lead the king of trumps to force out the ace, whereupon a final club return punches out declarer's last trump. West then takes the setting trick with his small trump.

Wide-Screen CinemaScope Fox's Entry In 'Depth' Race

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

Behind the Screen: Set this type in a widdiee space, Mr. Editor, because I've just seen Hollywood's first wide-screen CinemaScope movie company at work.

"The movie is 20th Century-Fox's 'The Robe,' destined to be seen three times as wide as normal and introducing Jean Simmons, Via Mattar, Richard Burton and Bette St. John as Hollywood's first CinemaScope stars.

The giant screens, slightly curved, give the illusion of depth along with "three-dimensional" stage—like sound.

Director Henry Koster was shooting tests of Burton and Bette in the new process hailed by Koster as "The shot in the arm Hollywood needed. We were a little stale. We knew everything. Now everything is a challenge."

Koster had Burton run across the set while the camera followed him. "Maybe a fast pan shot or a big screen will make people dizzy," he explained. "We don't know. We want to find out."

"The camera looked like any other movie camera in Hollywood."

"The big secret is in the lens," Cameraman Leon Shamroy said. "That lens is making movie history."

"... problems for the camera-man?"

"Just the lighting and mike shadows," Shamroy said. "Instead of lighting part of a set we now have to light the whole set. Instead of one microphone we now have a minimum of three and as many as six."

Sets Are Wider

The set was the same as for flat-screen movies, except wider. There were twice as many lights, though, and behind-the-scenes crew looked like an army. A standard set crew of 50 jumps to 80 for CinemaScope.

Does CinemaScope eliminate close-ups?

Koster said no, although screening close-ups are out. "Now we have close-ups but we see the whole set, too," he said.

Unlike 3-D movies, CinemaScope required no polaroid glasses for the audience and only one projector in the theater. The big difference be-

Cardui has helped thousands of women to lose that "change" look. Cardui acts to (1) improve appetite, (2) thus build strength and resistance, (3) ease tension and nervousness—sleep better. Let triplenation Cardui help you feel better, look better and be your normal, cheerful self again. Get Cardui today. (Says "card-ew-ee")

Cream-Cleanse Away That Old Look

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Skin-care ideas have gone through several phases — the soap-and-water and no-creams, the creams and no-soap-and-water, and at last the compromise—both. Today most skin-care specialists believe that middle-of-the-road skins get cleanest with soap and water and softest with creams. Extreme skins may be too dry for any soap at all or too oily for any creams.

Let's say yours is an average skin. You'll see that it has a fresh, clear look after washing that it never has otherwise. It's highly important, however, to do the washing correctly. Tie back your hair and fill the basin with warm—not hot—water. Work up a thick lather in your hands with a mild toilet soap. Massage the lather into your face and neck with your hands, using finger tips to work carefully at nose creases, hair line, and crevice between chin and lower lip. Refill the basin with warm water and remove every last trace of soap. Then splash on lots of cool water. Have your soap-and-water care morning or night, but have it once every 24 hours.

If you wear make-up—and very few women don't—it's best to remove it before washing with a modern cleansing cream. There are many available which are utterly different from the old-fashioned greasy or sticky creams that were hard to get off the face once on. These modern cleansing creams are very pleasant to use. They have a consistency for easy spreading with the finger tips and melt without running after a few minutes of massage or steam from your tub. They wipe off easily with cleansing tissues used with gentle blotting motions.

You can be doubly sure of an immaculate skin if you use a second application of cream. Assuming still that yours is a normal skin, you follow your cream cleansing with soap and water to remove last traces of soiled cream and to get the fresh look.

Some women follow the cream with an astringent applied with pieces of cotton to remove traces of cream instead of soap and water. You may find this worth trying. If your skin can stand neither soap and water nor astringent, you'll have to make sure that your second application of cream is as thorough as your first. Remove it all carefully with tissues.

All but excessively oily skins require lubrication in addition to that given by cleansing cream. After washing and drying, apply a thick coat of lanolin-rich night cream and leave on about 30 minutes while you attend to other before-bed chores. You can take off the excess and leave on only the film that clings.

You will see a vast difference in the morning. Instead of the typical morning look, your skin will look moist and pliable and need only cool water to freshen it before making up. If your skin is only slightly dry, you needn't waste the night cream by applying a thick coat at all. Put on only the merest film to begin with.

If your skin is flaky and parched and feels itchy and drawn, give yourself daily skin treatments besides the night cream until your skin returns to normal. Massage in plenty of your rich night cream with upward and outward rotary movements. Around your eyes use the lightest possible pressure with your finger tips.

Except for the eye area, it has been found helpful to use the back of a teaspoon for this massage. Being cold and hard, it won't melt the cream before you've had time to get in a good massage to work off the flakes.

The convex shape moves easily over the facial planes. Keep the movement upward to avoid dragging your muscles down and always keep the pressure light to avoid stretching the skin.

Skin beauty continues through the years as this mature woman proves. Never a night passes without her faithful adherence to a routine that includes cleansing, toning and lubrication. She removes make-up and prime (right) with a rich but soft cleansing cream suited to her dry skin. After massaging upwards and outwards on throat and face with gentle hands, she thoroughly removes with tissues and then repeats the process. All traces of cream must be removed with a mild astringent or soap and water. Having experimented with both, she prefers astringent and uses lots of it on cotton pads (left). She follows with a rich night cream liberally applied (center). After 15 minutes the tissues off most of it, leaving a thin film that won't soil her bed linens.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

The woman who is pleasant to dine out with—whether she is with a man or another woman—is the one who:

Doesn't debate out loud over whether to have the roast beef or the swordfish, but makes up her mind quickly and enthusiastically.

Doesn't try to get green oases if they aren't listed as a choice on the meal she has selected.

Doesn't complain about the food or the service.

Doesn't let her eyes and attention keep wandering to the other diners, but concentrates on her companion.

In short, the woman who is pleasant to dine out with, shows she enjoys the meal and finds her companion more interesting than anyone else in the restaurant.

SEVEN ATTEND MEETING

Seven members attended the Monday meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church. It was decided to change meeting dates to every first Sunday. Refreshments were served to those present by Mrs. L. C. Pinson and Mrs. R. S. Pinson.

'China' On Ladings Cause Import Block

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Department of Commerce reports that addition by some exporters of the word "China" after Hong Kong when listing destination of proposed shipments in export license applications may have brought trouble.

Since there is a virtual embargo on exports to Communist China, such applications have been returned without action by the department's Office of International Trade.

In its current trade bulletin, the department's New York regional office points out that Hong Kong is not a part of China but a British Crown Colony and, of course, not subject to embargo. It advises exporters to be geographically precise.

France Denies Offer To Abandon Special Privileges For EDC

PARIS —(AP)— Foreign Minister Georges Bidault says France is not backing down on her demands for a special position in the projected six-nation European Army.

In a communique, Bidault Monday night denied reports that France had agreed at the foreign ministers' meeting in Rome last week to either withdraw her proposed protocols to the European Defense Community (EDC) Treaty or substitute new proposals.

These demands include provisions giving France the right to withdraw troops from the proposed unified army for defense of her overseas possessions and the right to manufacture armaments for her overseas forces. Under the treaty, the six nations would pool their arms production for the common defense force.

Bidault said the French proposals "are and remain in the eyes of the French government a fundamental necessity. There is not and never has been any question of dropping them nor of changing their effect."

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has been quoted as saying the French proposals were not acceptable to the other five nations represented at Rome. Besides West Germany, these included Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Repeal Of Auto Insurance Law Sputters To Dead End

AUSTIN —(AP)— The law that makes drivers prove ability to pay for damages the first time they have a traffic accident appeared safe on the books for at least two more years Tuesday.

A House committee Monday night rejected a bill to repeal the law. Rep. Bill Chambers of May, the author, said later he feared the same fate awaits a similar measure scheduled for public hearing before a Senate committee Wednesday.

Attacking the present law, Chambers said it is working hardship on innocent people who lose their right to drive just because they can't afford liability insurance.

"In the minds of the people of this state, it's unfair, unjust and dictatorial," he said.

None Fought Plan

No witnesses spoke against his repeal proposal. Some members wanted to keep the bill alive for more study, but Committee Chairman Horace Houston of Dallas gave Chambers no chance to find out who was for or against the measure.

Houston called for a voice vote on the motion of Rep. Jack Hightower of Vernon to kill the bill, thus preventing any record of how individual committee members stood.

ers financial responsibility law was endorsed by Attorney Travis Kirk, a member of the Dallas Criminal Bar Association's legislative committee.

He said he has four or five cases a week in which "innocent persons lost their right to drive."

A person involved in an accident causing $100 damage and unable to prove ability to pay damages up to $15,000 is subject to suspension of his driver's license and car license plates. The only other way he can retain the right to drive is to prove innocence in the accident.

Kirk denounced the law as giving the department of public safety judicial power to deprive drivers of their cars and right to drive "without due process of law."

HIS BLUSHES DIED UNSEEN

REDONDO BEACH, CALIF.—(AP)—Let there be light, said the mayor of Redondo Beach Monday night as he pulled a switch intended to bring near-daylight vision along a mile of Pacific Coast highway.

Instead, the whole town was plunged into darkness.

Mayor J. Russell Shea's blush was hidden two hours until workmen repaired a power line, blown down by high winds, and the ceremony of dedicating the new high power lights was resumed.

Queen Grandmother Mary Of Britain III

LONDON —(AP)— Aged Queen Grandmother Mary has been in bed more than a week with a long-standing stomach ailment. It was disclosed Monday night. Doctors are seeing her every day and a night nurse is on call near her bedside if needed.

The queen will be 86 in May. The news of her eight-day-old illness was announced by household officials at Marlborough House, her London residence.

An informant in close touch with the household described her illness as "a gastric ailment which has troubled her many times before." He added that the queen still was somewhat weak from a stubborn attack of bronchitis last fall.

"The announcement has been made to dispel any rumors that she is seriously ill," the informant said. "But at the same time it must be remembered that because of her age, her condition is liable to vary from day to day."

Army Rejects Without Test Super-Weapon Invented By GI

By TOM STONE
HEIDELBERG, GERMANY—(AP)—The U. S. Army in Washington has brushed aside, on the ground that the armed forces do not need it, a new light submachinegun which field tests in Europe have showed will—

1. Fire 700 rounds a minute—almost twice as fast as the Army's present standard model, the M-3 "Greasegun."
2. Shoot farther and straighter.
3. Weigh four pounds—half as much as the M-3.
4. Cost approximately $10 to manufacture on a mass production scale compared to $45 for the M-3.
5. Have a muzzle velocity of 1,800 feet per second against 750 to 800 f.p.s. for the M-3.

Tested In Field

The new gun, which fires .45-caliber cartridges, or can be converted to use the standard 9-mm. European cartridge, was developed by Warrant Officer Loren C. Cook, stationed at Coleman Barracks near here. He is a machine-gun specialist assigned to the 7849th Ordnance Stock Control Center.

After field tests in Germany, a description of Cook's gun was sent to the chief of ordnance in Washington with a recommendation that "the weapon is of extremely simple and of rugged construction, easily adaptable to inexpensive mass production."

"Don't Need It"

The gun was designed especially for tank crewmen, paratroopers and military police. Tests have shown it can be stripped down, in the field and without tools, in seven seconds compared to five minutes for the standard M-3.

In reply, the chief of ordnance's office wrote:

"There is at the present time no U. S. user requirement for a new weapon of the machine pistol, submachine-gun or carbine class.

"This situation has existed over a period of some years, and it is believed unlikely that the using arms will give serious consideration to the adoption of the type proposed by Warrant Officer Cook."

The letter added, however, that "we will be pleased to receive a model of the Cook machine-pistol which we will examine and bring to the attention" of the chief of Army field forces.

The letter was signed for the chief of ordnance by Col. Rene R. Studer. Cook was given a copy of the correspondence.

Cook said the letter from Washington, dated last January 12, was considered here as a rejection and that his model has not been forwarded to Washington.

Cook's home is Redox, Calif.

Oldest Civil War Veteran, 111, Loses Leg In Surgery

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—James A. Hard, at 111 the oldest veteran of the Civil War, clung tenaciously to life Tuesday after losing his right leg in surgery.

Hard, who fought with the Union infantry at Bull Run, suffered a circulatory disorder in his right foot. Surgeons amputated the leg just above the knee Monday night.

General Hospital Tuesday reported his condition as "good" and said he had a "good chance of recovery." A surgeon called the amputation "very satisfactory."

Pecos Woman Bank Employee Charged With Embezzlement

PECOS—A young Pecos woman, Mrs. Helen Walker, 22, was arrested Monday by FBI agents on charges of embezzling approximately $3,000 from the Security State Bank here.

Mrs. Walker, an employee of the bank, was released on $500 bond after arraignment before the U. S. commissioner. She was charged with violation of the Federal Reserve Act.

Bank officials had reported irregularities to the Federal Reserve Board and state bank examiners. The books were checked and the Federal Bureau of Investigation called in on the case.

Special Agent Harvey G. Foster, in charge of the El Paso FBI office, said money had been transferred from 10 dormant accounts to other accounts. Apparently the accounts were not large, reported Foster.

Mrs. Walker was alleged to have told agents that she had spent the money on a recently purchased home. She had worked for the bank two years, and is married to Pee Wee Walker, a Pecos man.

Economy Axe Falls On Army In Europe

HEIDELBERG, GERMANY—(AP)—The U. S. Army's European headquarters said Tuesday it is lopping 27 per cent of its German employees off the payroll by June 10—under economy orders from Washington.

The Army listed as "classified information" not for publication—how many Germans would lose their jobs and how much money would be saved.

Early Spring Ahead, Robins Inspect Lawn

Joe S. Doakes noticed a couple of robins looking over his lawn and trees the other day, and he decided Spring was pretty close, so he came into the store, and got himself some fertilizer, lawnmower, rakes, hoes, and hose.

Now, Joe may be a little early, but he is not much ahead of the season. Sometime this month you ought to look over your situation and see what you need. Your grass is going to grow and it is going to need some help. You can start your Spring program by coming into the store, and getting your free sample of the best fertilizer for West Texas, TURF SPECIAL. No obligation at all, we are tickled to give you a sample of something really good. If we don't suggest it, you ask for it, take it home, look it over, and then spread the sample on a five foot square of your lawn. You will find that spot will stand out from all of your lawn for months to come.

Lots of folks have taken our advice and called us to pick up their lawnmower for sharpening and repair. They are going to be ready when the day comes. Will you?

You can still lay back a famous name power mower, and pay no money down. Have you?

Other committee action Monday: A proposed constitutional amendment giving women the right to serve on juries was approved and sent to the House floor. The same proposition has been killed in previous legislative sessions.

Aid Extension Asked

Another suggested change in the constitution to extend state aid to needy persons between 18 and 65 years of age who are totally and permanently disabled mentally or physically was sent to a House subcommittee for two weeks.

A similar two-week cooling-off period was given the Optometry Control Bill. The Senate Affairs Committee heard much the same arguments voiced before the measure was passed by the House, 96-41, last week.

A bill banning dragnets and seines in Laguna Madre waters off Cameron County was approved and sent to the House floor by the Game Fisheries Committee, 10-5. Rep. Obie Jones of Austin, opposed it, said commercial fishermen would be hurt and the price of fresh fish would go up in Texas.

Chambers' bill to repeal the driver's financial responsibility law was endorsed by Attorney Travis Kirk, a member of the Dallas Criminal Bar Association's legislative committee.

Conoco Executive Says Oil Gains Depend On Education

Education is the key to the successful development of the oil industry, L. F. McCollum of Houston, president of Continental Oil Company, Monday told more than 215 students of the University of Texas at its annual dinner-dance in Hotel Scharbauer's Crystal Ball Room.

The Permian Basin Ex-Students Association held their meeting on the 117th birthday of the Texas Declaration of Independence and the seventieth anniversary of their alma mater.

"Scientific research and development in the oil industry have made it possible to deliver more and better petroleum products to an ever-growing consumer market at lower prices," McCollum said as he listed contributions higher education has made to America's standard of living.

University Expansion
He urged expansion of the education system to match the future expansion and development of American resources.

The University of Texas, he said, has in its 70 years conferred 58,469 degrees and is now looking toward tremendous growth and expansion. Proposed building and improvement projects alone will require an expenditure of $25,000,000 between now and 1960, he said, in order to provide facilities for an anticipated enrollment of 20,000 students. Present enrollment at the university is 12,353.

McCollum predicted a good future for the Midland area for, he said, "I have been told that Midland has a higher ratio of college graduates among its citizens than any other town in Texas."

High Living Standards
Returning to his discussion of oil development, McCollum said that to him "it is almost axiomatic that a country having a higher rate of oil consumption also have a high standard of living." He cited the United States and Canada, top oil consumers, as nations with high living standards, as contrasted with Asiatic countries where per capita oil consumption is near zero and living standards correspondingly low. Americans consume 20 times as much oil per capita as the average for the rest of the world, he pointed out.

This development of natural resources to give us the highest standard of living in the world is proof that our educational system has been successful and points to the need for continued educational expansion, Continental's chief asserted.

Problem Of Surpluses
"Without fear of contradiction," he said, "I believe I can truthfully say that no other industry has made

The richest of the three is at Limoges, with an 85 per cent metal content, and is expected to be one of the world's most productive. The discovery is expected to boost France's uranium production to 10,000 tons a year, and put her among the first ranks in atomic power production.

a greater social and economic impact upon our every day lives, contributed more to our progress, comfort and well-being than has the oil industry."

McCollum predicted that by the end of this year the industry will be faced with the problem of absorbing surpluses of both producing and refining capacities beyond their current needs. The problem of surpluses may further be complicated by the return of Iranian oil to the world market, he added.

World petroleum consumption outside the United States had increased almost twice as fast as it has here," McCollum pointed out. "Now, when foreign consumption amounts to almost two-thirds of the United States consumption, the large percentage demand increases in foreign countries are beginning to have a very definite effect on total world demand. It is a healthy sign."

The United States and the world can count upon increasing supplies of oil and gas provided that reasonable economic incentives, adequate materials and a favorable climate for private investment prevail, McCollum concluded.

Joe Ward, outgoing president of the group, served as toastmaster. Wayne Ashmore led the exes in singing "The Eyes of Texas" before and after the buffet-style dinner.

Officers Named
Association members elected new officers at the dinner with Frank Stubbinsman winning the president's post. Other officers are Bob Bybee, vice president; Lucille Arick, secretary-treasurer; Betty George, reporter; and Paul Anderson, Bill Woods, Bill Chancellor, Jr. Hulon Brown and Carolyn Minton, directors. Bob Payne, Midland oil operator, was named Permian Basin representative to the Executive Council of the Ex-Students Association. Earlier Payne had introduced guests from such cities as Houston, Fort Worth, Odessa, Roswell, N. M., San Antonio and others.

Perry Pickett, Midland mayor, read a report from University of Texas Chancellor William Hart. Hart cited an optimistic feeling at the university—a feeling that expansion and increased enrollment are certainties. He urged continued support of the Ex-Students Association through membership in area groups such as the Permian Basin Association.

Walter Bierdaley reported that the Longhorn Club, a group primarily interested in university athletics, had a successful year in 1952. William L. Kerr, Midland attorney, introduced the speaker.

Allied Bombers Drop Load On Manchuria's Doorsteps

SEOUL —(P)— Allied fighter-bombers roared almost to the Yalu River Tuesday and dropped their destructive bombs right on the doorstep of Manchuria.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said its warplanes laid waste to a Red communications center just south of the Yalu and flattened 17 buildings of a training center in the heart of Manchuria.

F-84 Thunderjets swept far to the east and knocked out a rail bridge and destroyed seven buildings near Tanchon on the east coast.

Screening Sabre jets damaged three Communist MIG's in air battles, the Air Force said.

The U. S. battleship Missouri steamed 140 miles north of the 38th Parallel on the east coast and plastered Red coastal targets with its 16-inch guns. The Navy called the attack "heavy" and said the Mighty Mo concentrated on Communist bridges and tunnels.

There was only a brief flurry of ground action along the front. UN troops threw back three small Red probes before dawn and killed an estimated 20 Reds.

Armed Murderer, Bigamist Joins 10 Most Wanted Men

WASHINGTON —(P)— David Dallas Taylor, a convicted murderer who has figured in four spectacular escapes from custody, Tuesday was put on the FBI's list of "10 Most Wanted Men."

Taylor, 26, is under a 30-year sentence in Alabama for the killing of a prison guard in a getaway from Walker County Jail at Jasper, Ala., in 1948. He was serving a grand larceny sentence at the time.

Caught shortly after this escape, he and another prisoner made a dash for liberty from the Atmore, Ala., prison camp in a dump truck in late 1950.

The FBI said he went to Memphis, Tenn., and although already married and the father of two children, got married again there and later showed up in Louisville, Ky., where he stole a number of payroll checks and a check-writing device from a construction company and started floating some $1,100 in rubber checks in various Southern cities, using the names Johnnie Cole and Charles J. Raymond.

The FBI caught him in Indianapolis in June, 1951, and he was sent to Draper Prison at Spigner, Ala. There he joined 18 other prisoners in a mass break which involved in the theft of all guns and ammunition in the prison vault.

Leaps From Train
A year later, he was caught in Chicago while trying to sell a stolen car. Alabama authorities started him back to prison again in September, 1952, but in Birmingham he leaped from the train, handcuffed, and disappeared.

Taylor, tall and slender, is reported to carry constantly a gun and switch-blade knife. He is fair and blue-eyed, likes "Western" clothes, and has a one and one-fourth-inch scar on the inside of his right forearm, the FBI said.

On the "Most Wanted" list, he replaces Charles Patrick Shue, wanted for bank robbery at Lyons, Ill., and caught by FBI agents in Chicago two weeks ago.

Vishinsky Yowls Answer To Lodge In Deadlocked UN

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS / UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(P)— World diplomats Tuesday ruled out chances for any new action on Korea in the current UN session after hearing the uncompromising stands pronounced by both the Soviet Union and the United States.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei

V. Vishinsky fired a broadside at the new Republican Administration in the U. S. Monday. He told the General Assembly's Political Committee once again that the only way to stop the fighting in Korea was to accept his own formula for peace—a formula already rejected by an overwhelming majority in the UN.

Aside from Vishinsky's blasts at the Eisenhower Administration, which he accused of merely "borrowing" from the Truman-Acheson book, delegates found nothing new in the Russian's speech.

This adamant stand—and the announcement earlier by Chief U. S. Delegate John Cabot Lodge, Jr., that the UN Allies would not budge from their demands for an "honorable settlement" in Korea—indicated a continuing deadlock on the question during the rest of this seventh Assembly session.

Arms For China
In his sweeping attack on the U. S. Administration's foreign policies, Vishinsky slapped back with the charge that the Americans—and not the Russians as Lodge had said—sought to prolong and expand the war in the Far East and were planning to use Asians as "cannon fodder."

The Russian's speech was his promised reply to a 10-point indictment in which Lodge last week accused Russia of supplying armaments to the Chinese Reds and North Koreans.

Vishinsky repeated old charges that the South Koreans, at America's behest started the war. He acknowledged that the Russians had sold and still are selling arms to Communist China, as Lodge charged, but said this was under terms of the Moscow-Peking Mutual Friendship Treaty.

Young Woman Tells Story Of Kidnaping, Assaults By Youths

HOUSTON —(P)— A woman insurance company clerk told police she was assaulted repeatedly Monday night by four youths who kidnaped her as she walked to church.

Homicide Lieutenant Frank Murray described the attack as the worst in Houston in 25 years.

Five other cases of attacks on women have been reported to police here within a three-day period.

The 27-year-old woman said the youths stripped her and assaulted her repeatedly after driving to a secluded area in a Houston park. She said she clutched a prayer book in her hand during the attacks and never released it.

She also told officers one of the youths gave her a jacket when she complained of being cold during her two-hour ordeal.

After the young men had left, she said, she gathered her clothes and notified police from a building in the park.

Later in the day, police found the field jacket and an abandoned automobile near the scene.

Australian Baby Rescued From Jaws Of Huge Python

DARWIN, AUSTRALIA—An arrival from the sparsely populated "never-never" country of Northern Australia told Tuesday how a three-month-old baby girl was saved recently from the jaws of a huge python.

This was the story related by J. A. Quirk, field inspector for a Darwin firm.

A half-caste aborigine, Alex Scott, was camped with his wife and baby in a truck while the man was building a stockyard in a remote section of a large Ord River cattle ranch.

One night, when Scott was out of the truck, his wife awoke. Suddenly, she felt her baby's feet near her own, but moving away from her, and then felt the great snake, which swallows its prey.

At her scream the father raced to the truck. By the beam of his flashlight, he saw that most of his child's face was inside the jaws of the python, which was moving off the truck.

Scott hit the python with a stick and it freed the child. Later the snake was found coiled inside a 44-gallon drum.

The baby was treated for huge fang marks on its face but otherwise was unharmed.

Donovan To Clamp Down On CCC Men

WASHINGTON—Gen. William J. Donovan, a U. S. intelligence chief in World War II, is to get a new job: clamping down on shipments of strategic goods to Iron Curtain countries.

Announcing Monday that Donovan would be named "special consultant" to help tighten East-West trade controls, Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen said moves were planned against "triple C men"—the capitalist-Communist-collaborators who operated beyond the law, and, in the greedy drive for profits, carry on an underground trade sending strategic materials into the Communist area.

Stassen said the program would be undertaken in cooperation with U. S. Allies.

FREE GOODS GO IN HURRY

ALBUQUERQUE—Police had to be called Monday when a crowd of Albuquerqueans lined up to get free trees broke ranks and invaded the nursery grounds.

Once a year the city gives the trees away. This time a man dashed into the Chinese elm section and started helping himself. Others followed suit.

By the time police arrived, the man, the crowd, and the Chinese elms had disappeared—roots and all.

Chow Hound Counted Out

DETROIT—You might say 22-year-old Dewey Moss, discharged from the armed services last week, liked Army food.

The Detroit veteran was arrested Monday on a charge of stealing government property.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph C. Murphy said Moss went back to Fort Custer, Mich., last weekend to visit friends.

A gate guard noticed him leaving with a full barracks bag and stopped him.

The bag contained three 16-pound hams, two 10 1/2-pound slabs of bacon, nine frozen chickens, 20 pounds of wetters, two large salamis, two large liverwursts, two 12-pound pork loins and four 10-pound chunks of boneless beef.

Midland Teachers To Hear Austinite

Mrs. B. B. Sapp of Austin will discuss the teacher retirement system at the dinner meeting of the Midland County Teachers Association at 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria, President Dwayne Estes announced Tuesday.

Pat Patterson of Cowden Junior High School will sing and Billy John Whitehead is to play dinner music. Estes is principal at San Jacinto Junior High School.

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

The Wintery gusts of February behind and with such a day to play, it wasn't difficult to know where your best friend was Monday if your best friend wasn't at hand.

He was out on the links to cure swing fever. No doubt about it.

At both Ranchland Hill and Midland County Clubs, the pros were reporting much better crowds than even most of the previous weekends.

These gatherings on the golf courses, at that, gave both pros Abe Heckman of Ranchland and Boyd Huff of the MCC a chance to recruit amateurs to join the next West Texas pro-am field when the time arrives.

The time is March 18, the place is Lubbock. The Midland pros, along with Walter Thompson of Ranchland Hill, will participate in both the playing and Spring meeting of West Texas Pro-Am Association. Members set dates for weekly tournaments running afterwards until October.

While all the golf date-setting is going on, add the Iran Invitational to your calendar for April 25-26. The April meet will kick off the first of Fermian Basin invitational golf meets, preceding the McCamey tourney (May 15-17) by three weeks.

A bit away from the golf scene, Charlie Critz, Midland's novice winner in the Odessa Golden Gloves, has too much poundage now to defend the welterweight title he won in the Optimist Club boxing tournament last year. He weighs 170 pounds (28 over the limit). And he doesn't expect to enter this year and try to whip off to his fighting weight.

Of baseball: Al Monchak, former Odessa and Rowell pilot, has hired out as manager of Lexington in the Tar Heel League. Rowell's Pat Stacey, owner, president, vice, business manager and field manager, also is proving a traveling secretary these days. He's in the midst of a two-week junket to Cuba to bargain for and sign players for this season.

Look for Tom Hamilton, former all-Southwest Conference quarterback and baseball player at the University of Texas, to stick in this third Summer trial with the Philadelphia A's. A first baseman, he was pronounced ready for the majors two years ago but not while Ferris Fain had the job.

New, with Fain gone and Eddie Robinson (from Paris, Texas) none too happy with the A's, the Philadelphia club is reluctant to ask the ex-Longhorn to spend another year leading Savannah (of the Class A South Atlantic loop) in batting.

Coach Frank Ford, whose Midland High tennis team trails in individual matches, 31-62, against nine opponents, has produced 22 different doubles combinations on both his boys and girls squads. He does it seeking the best combinations to enter in the District meet when it happens.

The records of the individuals are below, and reading them, remember that one's record is not so indicative of his ability until weighed against the opponent he plays.

Ellen DeChicchi, the No. 1 girls singles player, has perhaps the most notable mark, a 7-1 singles record while she scored a 4-1 as a No. 2 doubles partner.

Big Fight Due For Class A Cage Crown

By The Associated Press
Favorites stand out in four of the classes—Poly (Fort Worth) in AAAA, South Park (Beaumont) in AAA, Bowie in AA and Big Sandy in B—but Class A is considered a tossup in the Texas schoolboy Basketball Tournament that opens in Austin Thursday morning.

The four teams in Class A—Denver City, White Oak, Troup and Deer Park—were considered so close together no one was seeded in this division.

Poly is defending champion of Class AAAA and returns to the state tournament with a gaudy 28-1 record. Pampa, however, has the top record—24 victories and no losses—and is considered Poly's toughest foe.

Poly plays Austin in the first round of the tournament while Pampa engages Austin of Houston. Austin has a 24-3 mark and Austin (Houston) 23-5.

In Class AAA, South Park comes to the big tournament with a 29-9 mark. Paris, however, has the best record, showing 24-2. Edison of San Antonio has 22-4 and the other team in the tournament—Vernon—has 20-8.

Edison plays Vernon and South Park meets Paris in the opening round.

Bowie is defending champion in Class AA. It is an overwhelming favorite over Dumas, San Marcos and Alvin, the other teams in this division. Bowie is unbeaten in 32 games.

Big Sandy is defending champion of Class B and it brings a 44-3 record to the state tournament. Gayuga is expected to be the team to meet Big Sandy in the finals.

Teams in this class are Stinnett, Lipan, Blum, Cuyaga, Big Sandy, Hutto, Pettus and Rankin.

Cunningham Becomes New Club Official

Peck Cunningham Monday became the ninth Midland Baseball Club director, replacing John Redfern, Jr., who resigned in January.

The board of directors of the club in a meeting at the Petroleum Club Monday approved the motion that Cunningham join the directors' group.

President Marion Flynn presided at the meeting. Besides him, five others of the board were present, Dr. Homer B. Johnson, club Secretary-Treasurer J. C. Smith, Foy Frazier, Chester Shepard and Cunningham.

Playing Manager Jay Haney and General Manager Horace Busby also attended the meeting.

The club officials reviewed player transactions of the team since January 1 and voted approval, among other business conducted.

Lorenzo Wright of Detroit is the only broad jumper besides Jesse Owens to have bettered 45 feet in the AAU indoor national championships.

SWC Fives Make Last Ditch Fights

By The Associated Press
Champion or co-champions of Southwest Conference basketball will be determined Tuesday night in games at Dallas and Fort Worth as Rice seeks a clinch tie for the lead against Southern Methodist and Texas and Texas Christian fight each other to see which tie Rice.

The three teams are deadlocked for the lead with 8-3 records and these two games are the last of the regular season.

If there is a tie for the championship, there will be a playoff to determine which goes to the NCAA Regional Tournament at Manhattan, Kan., March 13-14.

If Rice defeats Southern Methodist at Dallas—which it is expected to do—Coach Don Suman of Rice will go to Fort Worth to meet the coach of the winning team in the Texas-Texas Christian game. A playoff will be arranged, either of one game or two out of three.

A loss by Rice would hand the championship undisputed to the Texas-Texas Christian winner.

A crowd of more than 5,000 is expected at Fort Worth while Dallas is looking for more than 2,000 as SMU makes its bid to finish out of the conference cellar.

Five of the All-Southwest Conference players will appear in the two games—Gene Schwinger and Don Lance of Rice, Billy Powell and George Scalling of Texas and Henry Ohlen of Texas Christian.

Schwinger is the conference's leading scorer with 407 points while Ohlen is second with 362. Scalling has rolled up 301 points, Lance 254 and Powell 208.

Texas beat Texas Christian, 55-48, in their first meeting in the campaign. Rice bounced Southern Methodist, 64-54.

Midland City Bowling Meet Set For Four Days In April

The Midland City Bowling Association Tuesday announced plans for its annual City Championships Bowling Tourney and set the entry deadline for midnight, March 28.

The championships will be held April 4, 5, 11, 12. Four different events are on the card with five-man teams, two-man teams, singles and all-events classes to compete.

The American Bowling Congress-sanctioned tourney will find four Midland leagues getting into the action: City Major, Petroleum, Civic and Superior Mixed.

The tournament committee announced the bowling will be played under players' handicaps, with these figured by 75 per cent of difference between a base of 200 pins a game and the entrants' posted averages as of March 15.

For five-man team events, the entrant's individual average used will be his average from the league team of which he is a part. For two-man and singles events, the average used will be the individual's highest average up till March 15, according to the city association.

Entry blanks have been mailed to all team captains, Bert Haigh, tournament manager, said. They are available at Piamor Lanes, 111 North Weatherford Street. The entry forms should be mailed to Haigh or returned to the Piamor Lanes.

Middlecoff's 69 In Playoffs Wins Top Prize At Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, $4,000 richer, headed for the Baton Rouge Open Tuesday as the second leading money winner of golf's Winter tour.

The tall Tennessee won the tour's biggest prize Monday with a three-under par 69 in a five-way playoff that determined the champion of the $20,000 Houston Open.

The big check jumped the former National Open champion from tenth place to a close second behind Lloyd Mangrum among 1953's money winners. Mangrum has won $6,730, including $170 for a twenty-third place tie here. Middlecoff has collected $5,271.66.

Stewart Fourth
In winning his first tournament of the year, Middlecoff finished the playoff two strokes ahead of Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, and young Shelley Mayfield, Cedarhurst, N. Y. Pacing fourth was Earl Stewart, Jr., Dallas, who had a par 73. Fifth place went to Bill Nary, Los Angeles with a 75.

Ferrier and Mayfield each received $1,650. Stewart took $1,200, Nary $1,100. Like Middlecoff, each indicated he will take part in the Baton Rouge Open this week.

The five had been forced into the playoff after completing four tournament rounds over the 7,150-yard, par-72 Memorial Park course with five-under 283 scores. The

Tribe Holdouts Grow Uneasy After Greenberg's Ultimatum

TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP)—Hank Greenberg apparently got results with his "ultimatum" to Outfielder Larry Doby and Pitcher Early Wynn.

The Cleveland Indians' general manager wired the pair to telephone in 24 hours or consider his latest contract offers cancelled.

Doby appeared ready Tuesday to end his holdout and start playing.

Wynn, at home in Nokomis, Fla., said he would telephone Greenberg before he would decline further comment.

Jensen Clouts 'Em
ORLANDO, FLA. (AP)—Bucky Harris was crowing and talking of a lineup change for his Nats Tuesday, all because Jackie Jensen hit five batting practice home runs over the left field wall.

Instead of Mickey Vernon, Harris said, Jensen could be the clean-up hitter "if he stays hot."

Crandall Is Back
BRADENTON, FLA. (AP)—Catcher Del Crandall—who figures heavily in the Boston Braves' pennant hopes—has rejoined the team after Army service in Japan and an excellent condition. Discharged only a few days ago at Fort Ord, Calif., Crandall arrived in camp Monday night.

Stanton Quint, 66 Of Notrees Collide

Bentley's Stanton, the seventh club to enter, drew Phillips 66 of Notrees as an opponent to begin the district basketball tournament of the Texas Amateur Athletic Federation getting underway at Cowden gym Tuesday night.

As the 12 noon entry deadline approached Tuesday, the meet had but seven clubs listed for the four-day meet. A tentative schedule was announced after Bentley's joined.

Bentley's, which finished third in the Midland City League, will oppose the Notrees club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and will be followed by Murray-Young Motors and Phillips Tire Company of Big Spring at 9 p.m.

Each night of the four-day tournament will include four games. The champions will be decided Saturday night, with action scheduled Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and the final night.

On Wednesday's card, the Jay-

Cees of Midland tangle with Holder's Grocery of Odessa in a 9 a.m. game, following a consolation encounter between the losers of the Bentley's-Notrees and Motormen-Tiremen games.

The host team, the favored Rotary Engineers drew a bye in the first round but will face any possible late entry, tourney Chairman Phil Fickman said Monday.

Rotary automatically moves into the quarterfinals and will draw its first opponent Friday night. The Engineers who went to the state semi-finals in 1952 are assured of returning to the state meet again since they are the host team here and because they won the Midland city title.

The favorites boast a 20-4 record and scored 1,735 points in those games.

Fickman announced that Keith Kloola, an early season Rotary player, would join the staff of four officials for the tourney. He is scheduled to work with Jesse Mason in calling Tuesday night's games. Bernard Sells and Morris Howard are the other officials.

Fickman said that a small commission will be charged at each of the games in order to defray the expense of sending the tourney winners and the Rotary quietest to the state meet in Temple two weeks from now.

WOMEN'S GOLF DATES RESLATED

The Midland Country Club's annual Women's Invitational golf tournament has been rescheduled for April 29-May 2, club Pro Boyd Huff announced Tuesday.

The meet originally was planned for May 18-17, but had to be reset because of a schedule conflict.

Huff said the tourney would start three weeks earlier because of a conflict with the Women's Southwestern tourney at El Paso which will be played the weekend of May 17.

Howard JC Cagers Win Playoff Opener

DENTON (AP)—South Texas of Houston was to play Lon Morris and Howard County was to meet Panola Tuesday in the Texas Junior College Conference championship tournament here.

In first round games Monday, Howard County downed San Antonio Junior College, 104-98, though San Antonio's Tommy Smith got 25 points.

Panola scored three points in the last few seconds to stop Allen Military Academy, 32-29.

Tom Boyd of Amarillo scored 35 points, but it wasn't enough to prevent Amarillo's defeat by South Texas of Houston, 54-53.

Baylor Enters Team In Border Olympics

LAREDO (AP)—Baylor became the seventh university to enter the annual Border Olympics to be held here March 18-24.

Others in the university class are Texas, Texas A&M, Oklahoma A&M, Southern Methodist, Rice and the University of Houston.

Harlingen and New London High Schools also entered Monday.

Optimists Complete Plans For Pugilistic Tourney Next Week

Finishing touches were completed on plans for the coming Optimist sponsored Invitational Boxing Tournament at the Optimist luncheon meeting Tuesday in Jimmy's Pit Bar B Q Restaurant.
 Ed Stitt, chairman of the boxing committee, said Midland youngsters on the boxing team represented one of the finest groups ever entering a ring in this city.
 The aggressive fighters proved it in the recent regional Golden Gloves tournament in Odessa. Training without a coach or a regular meeting place, they placed second to Odessa.
 The Optimist Invitational Tournament will be held March 11 and 12 at the VFW Hall near Terminal. Approximately 20 Midland fighters will compete with entries from Odessa and other West Texas cities.
 Stitt said that the Midland pugilists have an excellent chance of sweeping the field. He said they are ready to fight.
 Jim Velvin, Jr., president, presided Tuesday. Two new members were accepted into the organization.
 Velvin asked all Optimists to be present at the next meeting when a slate of new officers will be elected.

 Most of the money was recovered in a bucket buried in the backyard of Davis' home in Buffalo, in Southeast Texas.
 Patterson was arrested later in North Carolina.

Contributions to the Ouwerkerk Fund are being received by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

What's Happened To Butter? Uncle Sam Has It--And How!

NEW YORK—Uncle Sam is going to try this month to sell some of the almost 90 million pounds of butter he has bought up since last November.
 Dealers here think he may have a hard time doing it—he's asking more than the present wholesale price of butter on this market.
 At the same time, he announces he will continue to support butter prices for another year, although at two cents a pound less than the 67.75 cents a pound he paid for the 90 million pounds. The government's selling price is put to 70.75 cents for Grade A.
 One of the most interested watchers of the government's butter troubles is the National Association of Margarine Manufacturers, which has been doing considerable crowding over the rise in consumer use of oleo last year, while butter consumption was falling.
 Oleo's cheaper price has been its chief selling point. Butter retails just now in New York around 80 cents a pound and oleo around 30 cents.
 Citing Agriculture Department figures, the margarine industry says its production last year totalled 1,300,000,000 pounds, a jump of 23 per cent over 1951.
 Creamery butter output is estimated by the department at 1,205,700,000 pounds. But the butter industry says that perhaps an additional 300 million pounds were churned on the farms.
 Consumption drops.
 The government got into the butter business again—it had a similar over-supply situation in 1949-50—because butter production just now is running 15 per cent higher than the 1947-51 average. At the same time consumption last year fell to 3.4 pounds per person, compared with 10.3 4 pounds in 1950.

 As butter prices skidded, the government stepped in and bought up all offered at 90 per cent of parity, or 67.75 cents a pound.
 The new secretary of Agriculture would like to get out of the parity support deal, warning dairy farmers it "will price them out of the market," but he's giving the industry another year "to solve its own problems."
 Margarine makers are having their problems, too. The industry has expanded so fast—some 22 makers with 42 plants in the 1940's and 34 makers now with 60 plants—that competition is keen.
 Some margarine spokesmen contend that "there is no profit in making oleo now."

Midland Television Dealers Approve Ethics For Sales
 Midland's Television Dealers Association moved further along in its "TV education" campaign Monday night by adopting a code of ethics governing sale and advertising of television sets here.
 The code is patterned after that of a similar association in Wichita, Kan., and is designed to prevent deception and unfair competition on the part of dealers.
 Specifically it forbids use of deceptive advertising, provides that performance claims be limited to the facts, not colored with flowery and unfounded claims of superiority. Dealers will be required to have evidence to back any claims.
 For example, the tag, "No outside aerial needed," must be matched with the explanation that this rule applies only in strong signal areas.
 Trial offers, the code continues, must be free from deception and obligation. The same applies to changes for extra equipment, prices of TV sets, types of wood, plastic or metal used in the sets, and guaranteed, warranties and service policies offered.
 In line with the code, the association will set up several service policies—"insurance" for service of the sets—which will be explained clearly to prospective customers. Buyers will not be required to buy a service policy but will find several from which they may choose.
 Bill Hester, president of the association, said Midland service men will present several tentative service policies for study at the next meeting Monday at 7:30 in the Midland Hardware & Furniture Store.
 A committee, headed by Bill Avery, also will report on an extensive advertising campaign designed to give the true facts on TV.

Tax Agent's Gifts To Girl, 'Bootleg Deal' Enter Quiz

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
 WASHINGTON—House investigators said they would ask revenue official Donald S. Tydings Tuesday whether there was any link between his gifts to an office girl friend and his alleged attempts to "put the bite on" a bootlegger.
 Chairman Kean (R-NJ) said a Ways and Means subcommittee investigating the Revenue Bureau wants to see if the lavish gifts formed a motive for loans sought by Tydings, now on leave as chief enforcement officer for the Alcohol Tax Unit in the Southeast.

Coincidence In
 The subcommittee has heard testimony that Tydings might have lost his $8,700 job except for alleged intervention by former Senator Millard E. Tydings, Maryland Democrat. The two are cousins.
 Donald Tydings appeared "untouchable," Kean said in an interview.

Various documents and testimony produced Monday showed Donald Tydings got a $3,000 loan from the Bank of Atlanta in 1946.
 Evidence was that James C. Garner, described as a bootlegger with a $678,000 black market liquor case pending before Donald Tydings at the time, was a part owner and director of the bank and guaranteed the loan.
Out Of Court
 Federal Agent Carleton R. McQuown said similar cases had produced prison sentences and heavy fines but Garner was let off with a $3,000 settlement out of court.
 Into the record went a statement from J. Frank Kemp, attorney for Garner, saying that when he tried to collect the $3,000 loan from Tydings, the Revenue Bureau official "said that he thought Mr. Garner should pay the note as he had helped him to get his case settled."
 As for the girl friend, W. D. Hearington, supervisor for the Alcohol Tax Unit office in Atlanta, says Tydings "obviously... had an affair" with her.
'Lady In Question'
 A 1948 memorandum from Hearington to the Treasury said it had been verified that "Mr. Tydings had spent a considerable amount of money in the purchase of a diamond ring, watch, and perhaps a fur coat for the young lady in question."
 Hearington testified this memo was one of many reports he sent to Washington. They normally would have brought disciplinary action against Tydings, he added, but top officials in Washington "said in so many words there was nothing they could do about it."
 "Why?" asked Kean.
 "Political pressure," said Hearington.

Frantic Woman Cuts Throat Of Infant In Futile Surgery

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—A frantic woman physician failed Monday night to save her infant daughter's life after cutting the baby's throat in an attempt to let her breathe.
 Deputy Coroner Russ Hersey said Dr. Eleanor Strathman, 27, a McClellan AFB physician, told him this story:
 Her seven-month-old daughter, Jane Marie, began choking after the doctor gave her a baby aspirin.
 After turning the baby upside down failed to dislodge the pill, she stuck her finger down the baby's throat. As a last resort, she took a pinning knife and attempted to make an incision beneath the baby's Adam's apple so the baby could take in air below the aspirin.
 The knife was too dull.
 The mother then said she took the razor blade and made the incision.
 The baby died 15 minutes after she began choking.
 A coroner's report said the toddler died from strangulation.

SCHOOL COUNT REACHES 4,500

More than 4,500 school children had been counted Tuesday morning in the annual roundup of Midland youngsters between the ages of six and 17 years.

 He expressed appreciation of school officials for the cooperation of teachers and parents alike in the yearly "nose count."

Hawaii Statehood Gains Panel Okay

WASHINGTON—The House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs Tuesday approved statehood for Hawaii, 21-5.
 An attempt to add to the bill a provision for statehood for Alaska was beaten, 14-13.

 Democratic backed him.
 Republican congressional leaders are aiming to put the Hawaiian statehood bill on President Eisenhower's desk in about three weeks.

 fire at a time when he felt he had the Communists on the run, and that he had to leave Korea before a victory was achieved.
 But there were no signs he was at odds with Eisenhower. He told a meeting in San Francisco last Wednesday: "All of us can safely leave the decisions on Korea to the great wisdom, the unflinching courage, and the world-wide knowledge of our new and greatest President—Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower."
 After meeting with Eisenhower, Van Fleet was the guest of honor at a White House luncheon to which top-ranking officers and civilians in the armed services and some members of Congress were invited.
 Tuesday night he will meet the President again at a dinner party at the Fort Myer, Va., home of Gen. and Mrs. J. Lawton Collins. Collins is Army chief of staff.

DON'T LOOK NOW

BUT I'M AN AD!

I am an ad. But before you read me, just glance through the advertisements in this paper.
 Look at them not just to see what goods or services you want to buy. Look at them in relation to your own job and future.
 These ads—and all the advertising that you read and hear—are busy selling goods and services.
 Now all the businesses and all the pay checks in America depend ultimately on somebody selling something to somebody else.

Advertising is the lowest cost way yet devised to sell goods. So advertising is what makes jobs, what makes more and better jobs, what gives you security and a chance for promotion.
 So be glad that business spends money for advertising. Be glad Americans read and listen to it—like it as well as the editorial material itself.
 For by selling goods, advertising keeps a business humming. And that's what makes jobs in general—your job—far more secure.

1 Brings you better goods for less money.
 2 Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.
 3 Grows consumer demand to production, to create prosperity.

EFFECTS OF GREAT FLOOD LINGER ON...

It will be many weeks before the stricken countries can total the effects of Europe's great storm and flood. In England's 300-mile danger zone, thousands of English troops are engaged in repairing damage and evacuating livestock, preparing for the advent of further winter storms. In The Netherlands, where thousands still are homeless, the Dutch have yet to total their dead, who so far number almost 1,400, for hundreds are missing. These photos show aftermath scenes in the two countries.

Grand Jury No-Bills Strip Teaser, Comic On Murder Charges

DALLAS—(P)—A grand jury Tuesday no-billed two well known Dallas night club performers—Strip Teaser Billie Shonnæ and Comedian Roscoe Allè—on murder charges. The sultry 23-year-old Billie, known professionally as "The Flame of New Orleans," and the balding Allè, 54, were charged in the December 21 pistol slaying of Alfred Rosenfield, 37. Rosenfield's bullet-torn body was found in an apartment here. Allè, arrested shortly afterward, said he shot Rosenfield in self-defense. Miss Shonnæ was arrested the next day in Oklahoma. The defendants appeared voluntarily before the grand jury last week. They had been free on bonds.

Gulf Oil Corporation and McElroy Ranch Company No. 1-BT Lea-Staté, five-eighths mile east of the Mescalero (multipay) field of Northwest Lea County, has developed flowing oil from the Wolfcamp. Interval tested was from 8,360 to 8,390 feet. Tool was open two and one-half hours. Gas surfaced in five minutes at the rate of 500,000 cubic feet daily. Oil flowed in two hours and 20 minutes. The well made three barrels of 46.5-gravity oil in 10 minutes of flowing to pits. Operator reversed out an estimated 2,700 feet of oil and 1,890 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud. Another test was taken at 8,390-8,490 feet. Gas surfaced in 18 minutes. Recovery was 9,036 feet of 46.1-gravity oil. More hole was to be made. Location is 830 feet from south and 2,210 feet from west lines of section 22-10a-32e.

Glasscock Venture Plugged, Abandoned

Cities Service Oil Company and Skelly Oil Company No. 1-B Cross, wildcat in Northeast Glasscock County, was abandoned after unsuccessful attempts at completion in the Pennsylvania and Wolfcamp. Both of these zones had some indications of production but extended testing failed to develop any petroleum in commercial quantities. A ten-hour swabbing test recovered 177 barrels of water after acidizing the Wolfcamp with 3,000 gallons through shot holes from 8,180 to 8,190 feet. Tested 18 hours through another set of perforations from 8,620 to 8,640 feet, recovery was 175 barrels of salty sulphur water. It also was a failure in the Ellenburger at 11,195 feet. Location was at the center of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 17, block 35, T-2-S, T&P survey and 14 miles northwest of Garden City.

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company has completed No. 1 Southland Royalty Company as a Pennsylvania producer at the north edge of the Huddale field of North-Central Schleicher County. The oiler was finished for a daily flowing potential of 22 barrels of 41-gravity oil through a 3/8-inch choke and perforations at 5,608-5,634 feet. Pay was treated with 250 gallons of mud acid and 1,000 gallons of regular acid. Gas-oil ratio was 1,870-1 and tubing pressure 410 pounds. Casing pressure was 125 pounds. Location of the new oiler is 1,700 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 56, block M, GH&A survey.

Bank Viewed By Thousands

The Midland National Bank settled down to normal operations Tuesday after a gaudy showing off its new home Monday to more than 7,500 visitors. In steady streams from 5 p.m. until almost 9 p.m., the thousands of visitors filed through the new million-dollar bank building at the former open house ceremonies. Bank officials and employees were on hand to take the visitors on a conducted tour through every part of the bank building from the spacious main banking room to the gleaming vault with its 10-inch-thick steel door. Floral arrangements from scores of well-wishers filled the building to lend a Spring-like atmosphere. "Needless to say," explained E. J. Wicker, executive vice president, "we were gratified by the expressions from our thousands of guests. Their kind remarks about our new homes made us feel very proud indeed."

Three Alarms Call Midland's Firemen

Two runs were made by the Midland Fire Department Monday as activity stepped up after a quiet weekend. A 1950 Cadillac owned by L. T. Miller was reported after at 10:55 a.m. near the T&P Depot. Firemen found the reported blaze out on arrival with minor damage caused. "A great fire" was called in at 4:20 p.m. Monday as it raged hot near the Kingsway Courts on West Highway, 80. It was allowed to burn out under supervision. One false alarm in the early morning hour Tuesday started action for the day. Firemen checking a reported blaze at 2105 West Illinois Street found an empty lot but no fire.

PRESIDENT OUTDRAWS GENERAL

Ike's Birthplace Attracts Mounting Flow Of Tourists

DENISON—(P)—The birthplace of President Eisenhower is drawing more than twice as many visitors as the birthplace of General Eisenhower. You can prove it by figures from Mrs. Monte Jones, head of the Gold Star Mothers of Denison. The Gold Star Mothers act as Eisenhower's birthplace guardians. Mrs. Jones reported Tuesday that 2,153 persons have visited the home since Eisenhower was elected President. That's more than twice the total for every seven-month period before the election four months ago.

The home is kept open only on Sundays from 2 until 5 p.m. on a regular basis. However, Mrs. Jones lives just a couple of houses away from the Ike birthplace and she is quick to spot a tourist driving up during the week. When she sees a car stop at the home, she gets her keys and asks the visitors if they would like to see the inside of the house. "They usually are quite eager to get inside," she said. Mrs. Jones described the average tourist group as "about four people equipped with cameras and eager to take pictures and ask questions." "They want to know about the various articles in the house," said Mrs. Jones. "I explain that the quilt made by the President's mother is the only item that was in the house at the time Ike was born. Questions Are Varied. Then they want to know who contributed the pictures, dishes, clocks and other items typical of the 1890's which furnish the home. "One of the items frequently asked about is a calendar clock in the living room which was presented by the XXI Club of Denison," Mrs. Jones said. "Persons interested in antiques also ask lots of questions about the thurns and coffee mills in the kitchen," she added.

TOGETHER AFTER 3500 YEARS—The right fragment of the sculptured head of Tutmosis, of Egypt, has been part of the Munich, Germany, art collection for many years, and all hope was lost of ever finding the rest of the head. Recently an art dealer in the city gave the museum a sculptured fragment which he had no use for, and it was found to be the other half of the head. The sculpture is at least 3500 years old.

Fugitives From Iron Curtain Describe Terror In Paradise

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent
The reason why an estimated 250,000 Iron Curtain "citizens" each month risk their lives to escape from the Red satellites is as varied as life itself.

Some of the escapees are bitter opponents of Communism and the Soviet-imposed regime. In many cases the reasons are economic; sometimes they are psychological. But the vast majority escape because of fear—because of the Red terror they can no longer endure.

Eternal Terror
Said Zygmunt Marchwicki, a 30-year-old Polish post office employee who chose freedom, "It is the eternal terror—a terror that seems to be lurking in every corner and rules our daily life—that transforms ordinary citizens, plain mortals into heroes."

A dramatic message which recently reached the International Centre of Free Trade Unionists in Exile through underground channels tells part of the story.

Grinding Machine
"Apart from a few fanatics, nobody believes in the regime any longer," the message reads. "However, we no longer have the strength to continue our resistance. The grinding machine of communism is crushing us."

No one engaged in newspaper work behind the Iron Curtain is safe. "A typographical error, or a badly turned out phrase (from the Stalinist point of view) is cause for internment in a forced labor camp, imprisonment or even death as an enemy of the working class," the newsmen write.

Slaves Of Lies
"We are slaves in the service of constant lying while we witness the terrible truth—misery, terror and economic failure," the message concludes.

Terror and rapidly deteriorating economic conditions are also the main reasons for Franciszek Nowak's escape from Poland.

A skilled mechanic, Nowak worked for 18 years in one of the largest machine-tool plants in central Poland. The plant was badly damaged during the Nazi occupation, but was put into production again in 1948 after Communist nationalization.

Gets No Wages
The first eight weeks, the workers of the plant received no wages. They were told by the new Red manager that as long as the plant was not in perfect working order he was unable to meet the payroll.

Since it is forbidden to strike under communism—strikes are regarded as sabotage and strikers are liable to 20 years in a forced labor camp—there was little that the plant employees could do to claim their wages.

Luxuries Absent
In Red-ruled Poland, despite official claims, there is a vast disproportion between wages and the cost of living. No worker, however skilled, ever earns enough to buy even the barest necessities. Only the Communist bureaucrats and their hangers-on earn enough to buy luxury articles in stores especially designated for the new Red oligarchy.

These economic troubles, however, are overshadowed by graver political and moral difficulties.

Secret Police
Before the last war, Nowak was a member of the executive committee of his local metal workers' union. On several occasions he even led local strikes. The Communists never forgot that. They always regarded him with suspicion as a "potential Social Democratic enemy."

Whether in the plant or at home, there was always an informer of the secret police lurking behind him. But what finally drove him to risk escape was fear that the regime was preparing to try him for "sabotage."

Same Old Story
Nowak's story is by no means unique and has been repeated with slight variations by many Iron Curtain refugees recently interviewed by NEA Service.

The satellite regimes, under Soviet pressure, constantly clamor for increased industrial—especially war—production. Each month, higher production "norms" are enforced. Machines and tools wear out faster, but once there is a break-down the Red officials start at once a hunt for a scapegoat, a "worker's enemy."

Nowak's turn came early in 1951. His tool grinder broke down. Immediately the secret police started an inquiry. As Nowak puts it, "to anyone familiar with the work it was obvious that my poor old tool grinder was simply worn out by overwork and age."

"But the Communist police saw the whole thing in an entirely different light. The same day they questioned two of Nowak's friends for several hours."

Then, exactly five minutes past midnight, there was a knock on the door of the little house where Nowak lived alone.

Escapes 'Paradise'
"Police, open the door," someone said softly.

Nowak was prepared for them. "Instead of opening the door, I opened my kitchen window. I took a few garments and jumped, looking back as I ran, I saw four men searching my room. All four had guns in their hands."

Through the kitchen window—and through the Iron Curtain—Nowak finally escaped the Red "paradise."

Doomed To Starve
Nowak paints a grim picture of life in Red-ruled Poland. Although life in the industrial cities, especially in Warsaw, is hard, it is far better than in the rural areas.

Under the new forced collectivization scheme, the rural areas are treated as colonies, in the worst sense of the word, and ruthlessly exploited.

Particularly tragic is the fate of the old and infirm, especially of the former middle or wealthy classes, who are doomed to slow starvation.

UN Report Shows Irish Population World's Best Fed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(AP)—A new United Nations report says the Irish—those that live in the republic of Ireland, that is—are the world's heaviest eaters.

The UN Statistical yearbook for 1952, published Monday, said each Irishman averaged 3,500 calories a day in 1951.

India had the lowest per capita intake—1,570 calories, with Burma next lowest at 1,990.

The United States was in seventh place among the better-fed countries.

Countries whose inhabitants averaged more than 3,000 calories daily were:

New Zealand, 3,450; Australia, 3,280; Switzerland, 3,250; Canada, 3,240; Sweden, 3,240; Iceland, 3,230; Finland, 3,210; United States, 3,210; Argentina, 3,190; Norway, 3,180; Denmark, 3,130; Britain, 3,100; and The Netherlands, 2,990.

Texas Public School Week

This is Public School Week in Texas—and throughout the Lone Star State faculty members and students are playing hosts to patrons, parents and friends in the classrooms.

They have issued a blanket invitation to all Texans to visit their public schools this week, to observe school administration, classroom operation, teaching techniques and student participation.

In other words, patrons are urged to visit their schools this week to see just what makes them tick.

It is a marvelous opportunity and one which citizens generally should not overlook.

Governor Shivers has proclaimed the special Public School Week observance and has urged Texans to take full advantage of the occasion by spending as much time as possible in their public schools.

Here in Midland, the observance is in full-swing, with a complete program of activities scheduled during the week. Service and civic clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations and other organizations are participating.

The observance affords citizens a marvelous opportunity to visit and inspect their fine public schools.

It also affords patrons a wonderful opportunity to congratulate the public schools on an excellent job, well and nobly done.

Let's hit the "back to school" trail this week!

In Good Tradition

The picture of former President Truman strolling unguarded around the streets of Independence, Mo., capped very well his first week of private life.

His high good humor reflected distinctly the easy grace and dignity with which he took leave of the presidency.

At almost every stage of this final chapter, Truman was at his best. His last message to Congress, his radio-TV farewell to the people, his behavior on Inauguration Day, all were in the good tradition.

But perhaps nothing better showed his basic humanity than his personal order directing the return of Maj. John Eisenhower—against his will—to see his father's inauguration.

Many times Truman suffered bitterly at the hands of his critics. But in the end his own good will surmounted these attacks. He enters this new phase of his life with but one regret—that he cannot live another 50 years and see this century out.

A Massachusetts man was jailed for keeping his children out of school. We know whose side the kids were on.

It would help a lot these days if even one could live as cheaply as one.

Not Much Swinging Room In There

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson says: President is enthusiastic White House guide; New housing agency appointee stirs bitter debate; Senator Alex Smith has embarrassing moment.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower not only is proud of his new home, but has spent hours studying White House history. Already he knows more about the subject than the guides who've been on duty there for years.

Last week he displayed his newly acquired knowledge as he conducted lunching congressmen on a tour. As the group entered each room, he gave a brief historical outline of the important events that had taken place within its four walls.

"Mr. President," said one guest, "you've learned a great deal about the White House in a very short time."

"It's been a lot of fun," replied the new President. "Besides," he added, "it's good job insurance. If I'm unemployed four years from now I can always get a good job as White House guide. I figure I'll be worth at least $1.25 an hour."

With big city slums one of the chief contributors to juvenile delinquency, the question of slum clearance and public housing is getting hot on Capitol Hill again.

Bob Taft, Mr. Big of Senate Republicans, has estimated that 10 per cent of all new housing construction each year, in order to keep abreast of the slum problem. On this basis a minimum of 100,000 low-rent, public housing units should be built this year. Yet Congress has provided funds for only one-third this amount—35,000 units.

What really stirred up backstage debate, however, is the appointment of ex-Congressman Al Cole of Kansas as boss of the Housing and Home Financing Agency. Cole is the only Republican congressman defeated in the rock-ribbed Republican state of Kansas in many years, and he was defeated in an election which went overwhelmingly for Eisenhower.

While in Congress, Cole was such a bitter foe of public housing and such a friend of the real estate lobby, that even such Eisenhower senators as New York's Irving Hves probably will vote against his confirmation. In June 1949, Cole delivered a blistering speech against the Taft Housing Act, which launched the same program of slum clearance and public housing which Cole now is supposed to administer.

That bill, he declared, "tends to destroy private homes and private business... it tends to destroy our form of government... It's a step toward government control of individual family life... May become so strong as to strangle the spirit of America... Today the Soviet government has in its constitution, Article 6, a provision that the homes of the laboring people shall belong to the state."

Senator Taft, however, who authored the Taft Housing Act, seemed to think that crowded, unhealthy big city slums are even worse breeders of communism than the Communist political platform.

Chief victim of Taft's economy drive will be the Pentagon's big military budget, considered essential to national defense. Defense Secretary Charles Wilson recently warned Congress that it would be "difficult" to reduce military expenditures, but to Taft, Wilson's statement wasn't a warning—it was a challenge that he's glad to accept. Talking confidentially to colleagues, Taft said: "I've been cutting government budgets for years and I'm the one in Congress who knows how to do it. I know where the bureaucrats pad their budgets and I know how to find

"Be careful, John," said a fellow Republican. "You may run into trouble with the White House if you slice the budget too thin."

"I don't care what the White House, the Pentagon, or anybody else thinks," replied the congressman from New York. "I'm going to cut government spending, if we have to stay here all Summer. And I'm going to cut it by billions."

Legion headquarters had set up the appointment to find out what there was to rumors that the White House was planning to reorganize Veterans' Administration. All veterans' organizations were getting a little panicky about the situation, and were irritated by what seemed like the President's stand-offish attitude toward them.

A few days before Gough's scheduled visit to Ike, the Legion learned that the study on VA reorganization had not yet reached the President's desk. Gough figured it wasn't worth asking the President if he didn't know what the report was all about. So the appointment was cancelled.

Legion officials feared this might irritate the White House. Much to their surprise and relief, they were gratulated. The most precious item in the executive offices today is time with the President. His staff thanked Gough for making some time available.

Close Doors Have Ears While the Washington press corps complains about too much secrecy in the White House, President Eisenhower has been amazed by how little secrecy there is. James C. Haggerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, says the President frequently asked him if a luncheon talk he was to make to a group of guests in the White House was to be off the record. Haggerty says he told the President:

"I have discovered that in Washington, the only way to talk off the record is to get into a closet and talk to yourself—and even then something may leak out."

It's A Woman's Heaven At the recent meeting of Democratic leaders with Gov. Adlai Stevenson, there was a lot of talk about

Revenue Bureau Oils Adding Machines In Case Of Income Tax Rate Changes

WASHINGTON — (ONE) — It doesn't pay to count tax reduction money till you get it, but the Bureau of Internal Revenue already has started worrying about what it will have to do if Congress changes the rates on individual income taxes.

Any change in rates means that new withholding-tax tables have to be computed, printed and distributed to the 3,500,000 employers, so they'll know how much to take out of your pay for Uncle Sam.

The "Employer's Tax Guide" which contains these tables is a 22-page book. Since his employer with large payroll requires many copies, BIR prints about double the immediate demand. The printing order this time will be about 8,000,000 copies. It will take at least a month to prepare and distribute them.

If the tax cut is applied June 30, people who pay more than the withholding tax will have almost three months in which to file amended returns of estimated income for their installment due September 15. If the tax cut isn't applied until October 1, taxpayers will have until December 15 to file amended returns. And then they can claim a refund for the amount of the tax cut.

Clock Rules White House American Legion National Commander Lewis K. Gough has an unusual "first" insofar as appointments with President Eisenhower go. While thousands of people are doing their darndest to get in to see the President, Commander Gough took it upon himself to cancel a scheduled White House visit.

Legion headquarters had set up the appointment to find out what there was to rumors that the White House was planning to reorganize Veterans' Administration. All veterans' organizations were getting a little panicky about the situation, and were irritated by what seemed like the President's stand-offish attitude toward them.

A few days before Gough's scheduled visit to Ike, the Legion learned that the study on VA reorganization had not yet reached the President's desk. Gough figured it wasn't worth asking the President if he didn't know what the report was all about. So the appointment was cancelled.

Legion officials feared this might irritate the White House. Much to their surprise and relief, they were gratulated. The most precious item in the executive offices today is time with the President. His staff thanked Gough for making some time available.

Close Doors Have Ears While the Washington press corps complains about too much secrecy in the White House, President Eisenhower has been amazed by how little secrecy there is. James C. Haggerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, says the President frequently asked him if a luncheon talk he was to make to a group of guests in the White House was to be off the record. Haggerty says he told the President:

"I have discovered that in Washington, the only way to talk off the record is to get into a closet and talk to yourself—and even then something may leak out."

It's A Woman's Heaven At the recent meeting of Democratic leaders with Gov. Adlai Stevenson, there was a lot of talk about reorganizing the National Committee headquarters, integrating the work of the women's division, which had been run somewhat separately, with regular party work. In other words, were women people, and should they be treated just like men voters?

Finally Governor Stevenson was called upon for his ideas and he opened with a story about Miss Pankhurst, the British suffragette leader in the early days of the women's rights fight.

Miss Pankhurst was arrested and thrown into jail so many times she got used to it. After one of her disturbances, she was locked up with a younger suffragette who never had been behind bars before. Quite disturbed by the experience, the young woman was sobbing bitterly over her disgrace. Miss Pankhurst tried to administer comfort without much success, but finally said: "Just you pray to God, and She will comfort you."

Reorganization Problem Republican National Committee headquarters in Washington is suffering from growing pains and cramped quarters. A year or so ago, under National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson, GOP acquired a four-story office building about three blocks from the White House. But it was a narrow building, and even before the Chicago convention, GOP staff members practically were sitting on each other's laps.

Now that the party is in power, its business has mushroomed and it's more crowded than ever. National Chairman Wes Roberts therefore is keeping his campaign headquarters space in a Washington hotel, until he can figure some way to get his whole organization under one roof.

Front Page At Last! Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma had some fast explaining to do when his wife brought to his breakfast table a morning paper which front-page had a picture of the senator kissing a 17-year-old essay winner from Muskogee, Okla., Mrs. Shirley Malone. The originality of her essay was questioned after she won the prize.

The senator explained to his wife that he had found Mrs. Malone in tears over having her authorship doubted. A photographer suggested that the senator chuck her under the chin to stop her crying and kiss her to make her be quiet. The senator said he would try, if she wouldn't laugh at him. She did, he did, and the photographer did his stuff, too.

Mrs. Kerr then told the senator off. "You have been in the Senate four years," she said. "Your gas bill was vetoed. You had a whirl at presidential politics. But not until you kissed a 17-year-old bride from Oklahoma did you get your picture on the front page of a Washington newspaper?"

Money Saved, Money Earned In connection with the big new atomic energy plant near Table Grove, Ill., General Services Administration claims it saved the government half a million dollars by hanging onto this site, instead of selling it as surplus.

The land formerly was part of the 16,000-acre Camp Ellis, a World War II Army training ground acquired at a cost of $1,450,000. Department of Defense ordered it sold in 1950. But when the Korean war broke out, GSA withdrew it from sale, figuring that some other government agency might want it. Two years later Atomic Energy Commission grabbed it.

A recent appraisal put value of the land at $1,940,000.

reorganizing the National Committee headquarters, integrating the work of the women's division, which had been run somewhat separately, with regular party work. In other words, were women people, and should they be treated just like men voters?

Finally Governor Stevenson was called upon for his ideas and he opened with a story about Miss Pankhurst, the British suffragette leader in the early days of the women's rights fight.

Miss Pankhurst was arrested and thrown into jail so many times she got used to it. After one of her disturbances, she was locked up with a younger suffragette who never had been behind bars before. Quite disturbed by the experience, the young woman was sobbing bitterly over her disgrace. Miss Pankhurst tried to administer comfort without much success, but finally said: "Just you pray to God, and She will comfort you."

Reorganization Problem Republican National Committee headquarters in Washington is suffering from growing pains and cramped quarters. A year or so ago, under National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson, GOP acquired a four-story office building about three blocks from the White House. But it was a narrow building, and even before the Chicago convention, GOP staff members practically were sitting on each other's laps.

Now that the party is in power, its business has mushroomed and it's more crowded than ever. National Chairman Wes Roberts therefore is keeping his campaign headquarters space in a Washington hotel, until he can figure some way to get his whole organization under one roof.

Front Page At Last! Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma had some fast explaining to do when his wife brought to his breakfast table a morning paper which front-page had a picture of the senator kissing a 17-year-old essay winner from Muskogee, Okla., Mrs. Shirley Malone. The originality of her essay was questioned after she won the prize.

The senator explained to his wife that he had found Mrs. Malone in tears over having her authorship doubted. A photographer suggested that the senator chuck her under the chin to stop her crying and kiss her to make her be quiet. The senator said he would try, if she wouldn't laugh at him. She did, he did, and the photographer did his stuff, too.

Mrs. Kerr then told the senator off. "You have been in the Senate four years," she said. "Your gas bill was vetoed. You had a whirl at presidential politics. But not until you kissed a 17-year-old bride from Oklahoma did you get your picture on the front page of a Washington newspaper?"

Have A Laugh

By BOYCE HOUSE In a town in the cattle country, a man was about to be lynched. The sheriff rode up and demanded, "Stop it; we must have law and order." The leader replied, "His crime deserves hanging." The sheriff asked, "What's he done? Steal a horse? Cheated at cards? Fiddled cattle?"

The leader said, "No, I've done worse than any of those things." The sheriff yelled, "What in tarnation is it, then?" The other replied, "He said 'eye-thee' and 'eye-thee'." The sheriff belched, "Come on, boys; what're we waitin' for?"

Although some students think Carthage was founded about 1300 B. C., the earliest remains which have been found have been dated about 700 B. C.

Princess burst into a frenzy of barking. Stopping the car, he looked back, and saw a martini glass on the entryway of an apartment house. Ish got out to meet him, leaping at the barking Princess in the car.

The man advanced with stretched hand. He was completely conventional-looking, well shaved, wearing a tropical-scented suit, with even the coat on. He was middle-aged and overweight, with a smiling face.

"Abrams is the name," he said, "Milt Abrams."

Ish fumbled for his own name. It was so long since he had thought of it. Introductions over, Milt Abrams took him inside. They went into a pleasant apartment on the second floor. A blond-haired woman, about 40, well dressed, almost smart-looking was sitting at a cocktail table, and there was a cocktail shaker before her. "Meet the Mrs.," said Milt Abrams. The catastrophe would scarcely have spared a husband and wife, and there had been no opportunity for any ceremony since. Milt Abrams was obviously conventional enough to let this worry him even under the circumstances.

The Mrs. looked at Ish with a smile, possibly at Milt's disclaimer. "Call me Ann," she said. "Warm martini, that's all I can offer you! Not a scrap of me in New York City!"

A meal of cold canned corned beef was not perhaps all that could be wished, but the wine was plentiful enough.

The evening passed pleasantly enough. They played cards by candlelight—three-handed bridge. They drank liquors. They listened to records on a tiny-tuned portable phonograph which had the great advantage of not needing electric power, but of being wound up by hand. They talked—as you might talk on any evening. "That record scratches... I haven't won a fessie yet."

When he came to the clogged-least above Jersey City, he stopped in the middle of the Skyway to read the signs. No break or sign was suddenly behind him; no horns blared; no truck drivers bewailed at him for blocking the road; no policemen shouted through loudspeakers.

"At least," he thought, "he is quieter." He swung north, and it was just across by the empty George Washington Bridge, and came to Manhattan.

He turned south on Broadway, thinking to follow it clear to the Battery. At 170th Street, however, he came to a very official-looking "STREET CLOSED" sign with an arrow directing him to detour eastward. He could have driven past the sign and ahead, but he felt a caprice to drive docilely to instructions. He drove over to Amsterdam Avenue, and then went south again. Daddy Ringtail And Scientist Machine

The Rainmaker said: "Yes sir, and yes indeed, and I am the Rainmaker!"

The Rainmaker man was talking with Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, and the Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf. Mugwump and the Huffen had come to see the Rainmaker, there at the Rainmaker house.

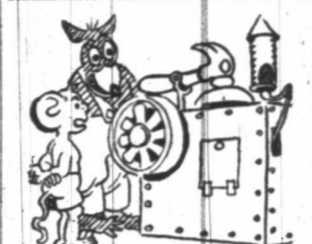

"Yes indeed," Rainmaker said. "You folks look around while the Rainmaker does his resting. Yes sir, you can look at my rain machine. You can look at my snow machine, or any machine you want to look at—but don't touch that machine over there."

The Rainmaker pointed at a strange machine that stood by the wall. It had a wheel that would go round. It had a whistle that would whistle. It had a hammer that would hammer.

"That machine," the Rainmaker said in his Rainmaker voice, "that machine was given to me by a famous scientist. Yes sir, and yes indeed. I don't know what kind of machine it is. I don't know what it's for. But don't touch it! No sir, and no indeed. The scientist said for us not to touch it."

Having said these words, the Rainmaker stretched himself out on the bed to do his resting from all the work he would never have to do, he hoped. In a moment he was so fast asleep that rain or thunder could never have awakened him. That's how the Rainmaker

GI's From Texas, Pals Say Fighting Dutch Floods 'Hardest Work In Lives'

By GRACE HALSELL Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

THE HAGUE—When the flood disaster struck with hurricane force in Holland, an "army" of Americans moved in to help.

Many of them were Texans, and even though they were tall, sturdy ones like Pvt. Travis Mayes who has worked in West Texas oil fields, or farm boys like Pvt. James L. Frederick of Nacogdoches, the boys admitted "We never worked harder in all our lives."

They filled thousands of sandbags, worked on roads, repaired dikes—and important also, they cemented friendly relations between two good neighbors—the Dutch and the Americans.

As the uniformed boys learned, the Dutch have a high regard for Americans. "This is not just an idle remark. It is unusual in this age of envy of the dollar-rich Americans."

"Holland is the nicest place I've seen in all of Europe," said Pvt. Virgle R. Nelson, 26, of Childress, son of Mrs. R. O. Nelson, of that West Texas town. He was voicing the opinion of most of the 2,000 U. S. soldiers who helped in the Dutch disaster.

He said the table-top flatness of Holland reminded him of West Texas. Private Nelson volunteered as a truck driver to come from his German station to Holland. "I wanted to help out," he said.

He has a sister, Mrs. Jack Tucker in Dimmitt, brothers J. E. and R.

O. Jr., in Estelline, J. K. in Littlefield and R. L. in Bonham.

Another serviceman who likes Holland is Sgt. 1/c Willard Belyea of Temple, veteran of 19 years service in both the Pacific and two tours of duty in Europe. Belyea, motor sergeant in charge of the 24 vehicles which Company "B" of the 177th Combat Engineers moved into Holland, was impressed by the friendliness and kindness of the Dutch people.

Americans working 16 hours a day, sometimes in water up to their hips, risked life and limb, but most medical cases treated in the mobile hospital unit set up at Brenda "were not serious cases," Pvt. M. Gonzalez of Fallurria reported.

The mobile hospital unit had a 60-bed capacity, and most of the beds were filled "during the Americans' stay." "We treated broken arms, broken legs and many flu cases," the Texas boy reported.

A University of Texas graduate, he is now stationed with the 130th Station Hospital in Heidelberg.

Another Texan with the hospital unit is Sgt. 1/c Simon David King of Bonham, son of Mrs. Sovola King of Sherman, who served five years at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio.

His wife, the former Ruby Reaves of Anna, Texas, and their two-year-old daughter are with Sergeant King in Heidelberg.

As supply foreman in charge of water equipment, Sgt. Bascom Moore of Sherman was responsible for supplying 15,000 people with water in the disaster area.

"We tapped their main water supply and supplied the people with fresh water in 20 different towns," he related. Until Sergeant Moore and his team moved in, the victims had nothing to drink but "snow water."

Moore, who brought in 25 water purification units, will stay on in Holland for two additional months "setting up a school to teach the Dutch to look out for themselves in case of another such emergency."

The sergeant was another who had high praise for the people. "You couldn't deal with anyone nicer," he insisted. The Sherman man is a veteran of eight years in the Army, with 95 months spent in Korea and the Far East.

Pfc. Price Gloor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gloor of Edna, drove a two and one-half ton truck carrying sandbags used in rebuilding the dikes. Gloor is stationed near Frankfurt.

His brother, Pfc. Clarence Gloor, also has been seen in service in Germany and only last November returned to Texas.

Sgt. Manuel M. Velasco of San Antonio, former University of Texas student, did dike repair work at Moerdijk, and also was called to the Hague to do a demolition job on an old German pillbox.

The water getting behind the pill boxes was undermining the sea wall," he explained.

1st Sgt. John Markovich of Llano, veteran of Korea and formerly stationed at Fort Hood and Love Field in Dallas, had a supervisory job of 152 Americans in the disaster area.

"They were a bunch of young kids with no experience and they came through with flying colors. Every one of them knew what we were coming up here for. They accepted it. They wanted to save as many lives and as much equipment as possible. They all put out a lot of effort. They did an excellent job," Markovich believes.

He said he wished the men fighting in Korea "could have the same feeling of accomplishing something" instead of having to fight "without a purpose."

Cpl. Q. E. Nicholson of Sulphur Springs, stationed in Germany with the 49th Signal Photo Company, got movies of the flood areas for American television and newsreels and for the Dutch government.

Born in Childress, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Nicholson of Sulphur Springs. A sister, Mrs. Pauline Byrd, lives in Fort Worth, and another sister, Nadine Nicholson lives in Dallas.

Truck Drivers, Too

Pvt. William Conway, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Conway of Comanche served as a truck driver, bringing in a water purification unit to Dordrecht.

Pfc. Harold Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Roach of Albany a welder, was called on "to keep the heavy equipment" in order and rolling, while Pfc. Joseph McClinty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Matthews of Navasota, worked on dikes and on re-establishing the vital roadway to Walcheren Island.

A native of Houston, Sgt. Harry Quinn, Jr., a cook, set up operations in Dutch barracks and started turning out meals for the men. The Cypress High School graduate is the son of Harry Quinn, Sr., of Houston. He likes portable stoves even better for cooking than stationary ones, he says, "because they give out more even heat."

Another cook at Brenda headquarters is Cpl. Joe Sanchez of San Antonio. Most of the time the men have had "C" rations in the fields, but when I visited Company "B" messhall, the cooks served fine steaks with a couple of eggs on top, and sweet potatoes on the side.

Other Texans who served in meeting the disaster in Holland and in saving lives and equipment were Pfc. Raymond Ghiselli, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Ghiselli of Galveston; Pfc. Melvin E. Dickenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Dickenson of Chico, former telephone company employe at Carrollton; Pvt. Wilfred Stanush, tall (6-1) and handsome son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stanush of Pleasanton; Pvt. Joe Ayala, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ayala of Fort Worth.

Oil Field Worker

The oil field worker and the farm boy mentioned at the first of the story are from Lorraine and Nacogdoches.

Private Mayes, 21 and six feet, four inches tall, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Mayes of Lorraine. He worked a large part of the time in water "above my knees," he said.

Private Frederick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Frederick of Garrison, were piling sandbags to rebuild the dikes near Zevenbergen.

"Each sandbag weighs from 50 to 150 pounds. Carrying them around all day can wear you out by the time the day is finished," said Mayes.

Both Mayes and Frederick admitted "it was plenty hard work" but both were glad they could help out.

Mayes has a brother, Malcolm, in Fort Worth, and another, Wendell, in Colorado City. Private Frederick has a sister, Ivener Frederick, living in Houston.

YANKEE DOODLE—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proved that he could doodle with the best of them when he appeared for questioning before the House Foreign Affairs Committee. When asked what prompted him to write "Dulles Must Go," he said that was the new slogan of the New York Daily Worker, Communist Party newspaper.

Here's Why Wives Go Along When Husbands Buy Suits

Women don't know what a man should wear and are a nuisance to salesmen, according to James Cameron, president of the men's clothing retailers of Canada. He suggests men leave their wives at home when they need a new suit.

Obviously Mr. Cameron is a smart businessman. If Mama is a nuisance to the man who is trying to sell Papa a suit it's only for one good reason.

Mama is a cagey and experienced shopper.

Let a man go into a store to buy a suit alone and he takes whatever she says. "They are, from the seller's point of view."

When he gets home he can't even tell his wife what kind of material the suit is made of. He may not even be sure whether it is light gray or light blue. All he knows is he has bought a suit.

That makes the salesman's job pretty simple. But it wouldn't have been so easy if Mama had been along. She would have felt of the material, taken the suit over to a window to look at it in daylight, and turned thumbs down on a suit if it looked like the last Papa wore into the store.

She would have insisted that the salesman find a suit that would look well with the rest of Papa's wardrobe.

And if the prices in the first store seemed unreasonable Mama would have insisted on looking somewhere else before buying.

No wonder Mr. Cameron thinks women who go along with their husbands to buy clothes are a nuisance.

It's because we know too much about shopping, not because we know too little, that you don't want us around.

Plumpies Get Together, Talk Themselves To Proper Weight

By LEONARD RUPPERT NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—The overly plump woman was distressed. She shrugged her shoulders and looked around the room for sympathy.

"What could I do?" she whimpered. "If I didn't take a bite, I'd insult them."

She told of holiday parties, piles of cake and candy and her final surrender to temptation. Her equally plump listeners nodded sympathetically. Then they told her how to avoid such pitfalls in the future.

Only a Nibble

"It's all right to take a bite," they advised, "but make sure it's only a nibble. Make it last all night—as a special drinker does a martini. Or, better yet, ask for an apple."

Like similar groups in Boston, Akron, Berkeley and other cities, these women were talking their way to slimmness. The method is called Group Weight Control. It might be called Carbohydrates Anonymous. It offers fat persons a new, safe and pleasant approach to the reducing problem and the results have doctors excited.

Often dubbed "conventional reducing," Group Weight Control is not a cure-all. It doesn't always work. Even when it does, it's usually a lengthy haul. But it's fun and hundreds of fat folks swear by it.

Talk, Don't Eat

The plan was devised by Dr. A. L. Chapman of the U. S. Public Health Service three years ago. It's actually quite simple. Persons who need and want to lose weight first get the go-ahead from a doctor. They then meet weekly with other reducers and keep one another on the diet-wagon.

Some groups talk about food only occasionally. They spend most of their time trying to get at the emotional problems that cause their constant hunger pangs. These are the "psychotherapy" groups, usually led by a psychologist or psychiatrist.

Nutritional groups talk about food almost exclusively. They teach their members about calories—what foods are good for them, what foods to avoid. They swap recipes and tales of their bouts with temptation.

Slipping Behind

Both types are proving successful. A psychotherapy group led by Chapman in Alexandria, Va., lost an average of 17.5 pounds per member in 20 weeks.

Nutritional groups of New York's Public Health Department are doing equally well under Dr. Norman Joffile.

A typical meeting in New York began with the group leader going over each member's diet chart. Those doing well were commended. Those slipping behind were asked what had happened.

Most knew exactly where they'd failed and admitted it sheepishly. Those who didn't know, or would not admit it, needed a different approach. By going back in detail over the week's nibbling incidents, counting up calories, the others gradually drew them out.

One woman said her husband objected to eating her diet foods. "Keep on the diet yourself," she was told, "but cook him a regular meal."

Another woman wasn't eating the right foods because she didn't know how to make them appetizing. (She was flooded with recipes.)

"Gland Trouble"

Interest in the plan is high, as excess weight is a major U. S. health problem. Some 30,000,000 persons are now "seriously" overweight—10 per cent or more above normal. The reason for the fatness is simple—overeating. The common excuse that it's "gland trouble" usually doesn't hold water. Fewer than 10 of 1,000 fat persons have glands bad enough to influence their food usage. And even then they can reduce by dieting.

The reason for overeating itself isn't so simple. Many doctors now believe it has emotional causes. The fat person may eat too much because he's bored, underloved, frustrated or in some way mentally upset.

Emotional Emphasis

Others pooch-pooch the emotional emphasis and say it's usually a matter of ignorance. Fat folks just eat the wrong foods, they explain, and must be taught to change their dietary habits.

Both sides agree that there's only one way to reduce. Just as eating too much brings fatness, eating less brings slimmness. Going on a diet is a must. But often the reducer isn't determined enough, or doesn't know how to cope with the emotional upsets that led him to fatness in the first place.

This is where the group comes in. Sitting down together once a week, in comfortable surroundings, giving each other pep talks, sharing advice on diet and personality problems, plump persons from coast to coast are finding that it's easier to fight their fat together.

Seek Advice If Simple Means Don't Check Chronic Fatigue

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D. Written for NEA Service

All of us suffer fatigue sometimes, but there are some people who just always are tired, seemingly without any reason.

The proper balance between work, recreation and sleep has to be worked out, of course. Change of occupation is not often recommended in these cases, because it usually does not succeed.

Many people need to learn how to relax when they have the chance. The adoption of a balanced diet with plenty of vitamins is beneficial where the abnormal fatigue is at least partly due to faulty diet.

Some stimulating drugs are dangerous and should not be used unless under the advice of a physician.

Some who complain of being fatigued cannot identify the cause so easily. A true disease is sometimes at fault. For example, an anemia often shows up by lack of pep. People who suffer from chronic infections or disturbed bodily functions are also likely to feel tired all the time. Broken arches, overweight and many similar conditions also show by producing a state of chronic fatigue.

Diabetes, heart disease, tuberculosis, vitamin deficiencies, low blood pressure and low metabolism are among the disorders which may be discovered.

Need Right Treatment

When a definite physical condition can be found the proper treatment can be started. Each disease must be attacked by the measures which have been shown to be useful.

Those who are abnormally tired should first review and study the kind of life they are leading to make sure that they cannot solve the problem by simple means. If this cannot be done then the advice of a physician is indicated. If some physical cause—such as one of those mentioned—can be found, treatment is likely to be effective.
