

Discovery In Chaves To Complete

Republic Natural Gas Company and Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware are to run casing and complete their No. 1 White Ranch, flowing wildcat discovery from the Siluro-Devonian dolomite in East-Central Chaves County, New Mexico.

This new field opener, which is 30 miles southeast of Roswell, flowed oil naturally on two drillstem tests. The last test covered the zone at 8,117-75 feet. The tester was open one hour and 44 minutes. No gas came to the surface while the tool was open.

Flowed 91 Barrels
Drilling mud flowed out at the top in 20 minutes and oil started flowing at the surface in 29 minutes. The oil was flowed to pits for 15 minutes to clean and it was then turned to tanks for one hour. During that period the well produced 91 barrels of clean oil. There were no signs of water. After the tool was closed operator reversed out 8.177 feet of clean oil. Recovery below the circulating sub was 480 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud and 80 feet of brackish water.

The water did not have any sulphur odor and the salinity was low. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 2,900 and 3,700 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 3,800 pounds.

Had Higher Test
The first test to flow oil in the wildcat was at 8,715-60 feet. Gas surfaced in 39 minutes and oil started flowing in 45 minutes. The tool was left open for one hour. During the last 15 minutes of that period the oil flow was estimated to have been at the rate of 30 barrels per hour.

Open flowing bottom hole pressure was between 2,850 pounds and 3,600 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 3,750 pounds.

After the tool was closed on that test operators reversed out an additional 8,710 feet of clean oil and 50 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud. There were no signs of formation water.

Location Given
Top of the Siluro-Devonian is at 8,735 feet. That is on a datum of minus 4,943 feet.

The discovery is ten miles east and two miles south of the nearest Siluro-Devonian production in the Chisum field in Chaves County.

Location of Republic Natural and Seaboard No. 1 White Ranch is 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from north lines of section 34-11-29.

Sun Develops Oil On Lime DST In NE Dawson Area

Sun Oil Company No. 1 Dean, wildcat in Northeast Dawson County, developed oil on a drillstem test taken from 9,898 to 9,922 feet in a lime section.

Operator used a 2,000-foot water blanket. Tool was open one hour. Recovery was five gallons of 38.3-gravity oil, 2,000-foot water blanket and 30 feet of oil and gas-cut drilling mud.

Flowing pressure was from 920 to 2,250 pounds.
More hole was to be made.
Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 22, block 1, Pottevaux survey.

Ellenburger Wildcat Set For Crockett
By Continental Oil

Continental Oil Company will drill No. 1-E J. M. Shannon Estate as a 9,000-foot Ellenburger wildcat in North Crockett County, 21 miles south of Big Lake.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 15, block BB, ELARR survey. It is four and one-half miles northwest of the Elkhorn (Ellenburger) field. Operations are to start at once.

West Flanker To Be Drilled To Shallow Discovery In Ector

Cities Production Company, (Cities Service Oil Company) and Union Oil Company of California have filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting a permit to drill their No. 2-D Cross as a west offset to their recently completed San Andres (Permian) discovery in South-Central Ector County.

New Strikes Hike Nation's Roll Of Idled

By The Associated Press
A nation-wide strike of 35,000 CIO rubber workers was started Thursday and the number of workers made idle by labor disputes throughout the country soared above 100,000.
The walkout by CIO union workers in 19 U. S. Rubber Company plants was the second strike this week involving a vital war material. The first brought an immediate reduction in steel production. A strike in its third week in Ohio has halted production of jet engines used in war planes.
Almost 50,000 workers have been made idle in steel and steel-related industries owned by U. S. Steel Corporation in Pennsylvania. The unemployment resulted from a strike started Monday by 1,500 Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on a connecting line serving the company's district plants near Pittsburgh.
The U. S. Rubber workers started walking off their jobs after the midnight deadline in contract negotiations. No wage issue is involved in the dispute. Issues included hospitalization, pension plan revision and the length of the new contract.
Another new strike which started Thursday involved 3,500 CIO utility union workers against the Southern California Gas Company. Wages, a union shop and other demands are involved in the dispute over a new contract.

Plan Change Delays Start On Rail Underpass Project

By COPE ROUTH
With a proposed $350,000 road bond issue coming before Midland County voters at a special election in early May, some concern has been expressed over the progress of the proposed Big Spring Street underpass.
Actually, there is no connection between the two projects.
The proposed bond issue will furnish funds for the purchase of right-of-way needed for the construction of a divided East Highway 80 between Midland and the Martin County line.
But the calling of the bond issue by the Commissioners Court immediately brought this question: "What has happened to the Big Spring Street Underpass, for which bonds were voted long ago?"
This, then, is a report on the status of the underpass project—a project which will take the Big Spring Street traffic beneath Front Street and the Texas and Pacific Railway Company tracks.
When plans were launched for the underpass project, they proceeded in two directions.
On the one hand Midland County began the acquisition of right-of-way for the project.
On the other hand, the State Highway Department and the Railroad began drawing actual plans for the project.
As of Thursday, the county practically had completed its assignment. After months of negotiations, all but two pieces of the necessary right-of-way had been acquired.
The county, in acquiring this right-of-way, already has paid out more than $125,000 in cash.
The remaining right-of-way will be acquired within the next few days, and County Attorney Reagan Legg Thursday was preparing the necessary condemnation papers, if the county must resort to that procedure.
The state has just about completed its assignment after considerable difficulties.
At one time, the plans actually were completed and the project was scheduled for the March lettings of the highway department.
Then the city of Midland asked for a change in the plans.
The original plans were based on a 29-foot roadway for South Front Street, under which the underpass would run. The city asked for a 41-foot roadway, to allow for future widening of South Front Street.
So the plans for the approach had to be revised.
S. C. Dougherty, senior resident engineer for the highway department, said Thursday these plans can be completed within the next week or 10 days.
They then will be forwarded to the district office at Pecos and then on to the state office at Austin for final approval.
"The project," Dougherty said, "probably will be ready to be included in the June lettings of the State Highway Department with work starting a short time thereafter."
It probably will require from six to eight months to complete the project.

Water Bond Ballots May End Dispute

RANKIN—A $360,000 Upton County water bond election April 25 could mean the end of the disputed Water Control and Improvement District now awaiting word of its fate from District Judge Garland Casabier of Fort Stockton.
John Menefee, Upton County attorney and one of the attorneys for the water district in last week's hearing, said county commissioners have okayed a bond election to provide funds for additional water for the county park lands in Rankin. This, he said, would mean drilling new water wells about four and one-half miles northeast of Rankin for use in the park swimming pool, building and grounds.
Surplus water would, he said, be sold to the city of Rankin to help ease the water pinch here.
The water district was the center of a court battle last week in which attorneys for oil companies and ranchers in the area called the district "unnecessary and expensive" and attorneys for the water district called it "vital and the cheapest route to water." Judge Casabier, who heard the almost endless testimony, took the case under advisement.
The commissioners meeting this week drew delegations from the water bond, citizens petitioning for the bond election and some 50 representatives of oil companies and mineral interests in the area. The oil company group, he said, voiced no objection to the bond election.

Allies Speed Plans To Care For Wounded

MUNSAN, KOREA—(AP)—The Allies and Communists quickly agreed Thursday to meet at Panmunjom Monday to discuss the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners, first step toward a resumption of truce talks.
The Monday meeting will be between liaison officers who will arrange for the early exchange of the sick and wounded. The Allies were making swift preparations for the first flow of returned prisoners. Their liaison team already is organized and ready to go.
The Communists suggested the Monday meeting set the time for a resumption of full-scale armistice negotiations. They also handed over official copies of Communist proposals for a resumption of truce talks, carried by Peiping Radio Monday.
Gen. Mark Clark, the UN commander, already has made it clear Allied truce negotiators will return to Panmunjom only after arrangements are completed for exchanging disabled prisoners.
Delivery of the new proposals from Red China's Premier Chou En-Lai and North Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung fed mounting hopes that the Communist world is serious about peace.
The latest development in a chain reaction touched off by Red China less than a week ago came only a few hours after Soviet Russia pledged its "all-out support of China's Korean truce plan."
But many Western observers still warned against overoptimism. Wait and see if the Communists do more than talk about peace, was their advice.
Devoid Of Propaganda
One Allied spokesman here, long in close contact with the protracted truce talks, said the businesslike tone of the Communist message delivered Thursday was "heartening."
"It's devoid of the usual propaganda," he said. He cautioned, however, against unbridled optimism and said the Communists would show whether they "really mean business if they settle the details of how we exchange the sick and wounded without a lot of haggling."
At this Allied camp, work was speeded on plans to care for wounded prisoners and for full-scale resumption of truce negotiations.
A team of three full colonels and two lieutenant colonels arrived here to choose a site for processing the sick and wounded.
Tentative plans called for setting up one or more forward aid stations to process and treat prisoners as they are released. It is (Continued On Page 12)

MACHINES GET WIDE MARGIN

Midland voters—on the basis of a straw vote conducted Tuesday and Wednesday by the Midland League of Women Voters—overwhelmingly are in favor of voting machines.
Mrs. Richard Dorn, in charge of the straw vote for the league, said 310 votes had been cast in favor of the machines, similar to the one installed in the Hotel Scharbauer lobby, while 30 had expressed opposition.

Military Escapee Held In Midland

A 34-year-old man sought by Army authorities more than a year was being held Thursday by Midland police.
Lt. Dewey Hockett, head of the department's division of identification and records, said fingerprints of the man, arrested as a drunk Monday night, had identified him as Albert Ray Moore.
Lieutenant Hockett said Moore, who was arrested by Officers J. C. Myrick and Roger Walker, had escaped from military authorities in March, 1952, while being transferred from the Oklahoma City jail to Tinker Field.

Off-Duty Policeman, Young Robber Slain In Chicago Gunfight

CHICAGO—(AP)—An off-duty veteran policeman and a young robber shot and killed each other in a blazing gun battle in a North Clark Street saloon early Thursday. A customer suffered a wound.
Two companions of the robber escaped. About a dozen customers were in the saloon.
The policeman, killed by a single bullet in his heart, was William Fuller, 49, who had stopped in Mickey's Liquor Store and Saloon after ending his shift shortly before midnight. He was not in uniform.
The dead gunman, James Boswell, 25, was shot at least four times. His automatic was on the floor, emptied.
Police said two of the robbers seated at the rear of the bar drew revolvers and told the bartender, Gordon Swahn, 44, "This is a stick-up."
They then will be forwarded to the district office at Pecos and then on to the state office at Austin for final approval.

Texan Protests FCC Ruling Reopening Wires To Bookies

AUSTIN—(AP)—Enforcement of a recent Federal Communications Commission ruling "would result in reviving the multi-billion dollar gambling parasite to feed on the citizens of this and other states," Attorney General John Ben Shepperd said Thursday.
The FCC ruling requires Western Union to resume the sending of race-horse bookmaking information over its wires.
Former Attorney General Price Daniel had obtained an injunction prohibiting Western Union from transmitting gambling information in Texas.
Shepperd said he is investigating possible violation of that injunction in Orange County.
Shepperd said the injunction still is in effect. He wrote FCC chairman Paul Walker: "Your recent ruling therefore will require Western Union to violate the decisions of the Texas court and risk contempt proceedings."
The attorney general said his office is beginning an investigation of how gambling information has been transmitted in Orange County. A memorandum was turned over to Shepperd by Orange County Attorney John Young Wednesday.
"We are investigating for possible violation of injunction secured in the past against Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and Western Union," Shepperd said.
He called the FCC ruling "a flagrant attempt to superimpose an arbitrary and bureaucratic decision over the laws and court decisions of this state."
"This office and law enforcement officers of this state lodge a sincere and vigorous protest against your ruling," Shepperd wrote to Walker.

Yes, 'Yield' Means 'Give'

YIELD right of way—not YOUR right of way, the sign reads, but Jerry Compton of 211 East Ohio Street isn't sure everybody's been reading the sign.
Five or six near-misses and good tongue-lashings have convinced him the corner of Baird and Ohio Streets just isn't a safe place for man or motorist.
"Just Thursday morning I was driving along Ohio and a woman came blaring at me along Baird. I swerved, she swerved, and then she gave me the dickens for not obeying the right-of-way sign," he moaned.
"Heck, the sign pointed her way—but she said it meant she had the right of way."
"Please tell 'em it's 'give,' not 'take,'" the flustered driver pleaded.

Suspect Arrested In Swindling Case

The arrest of a man sought several weeks by Midland officers for swindling with a worthless check was announced Thursday by the office of Sheriff Ed Darnell.
The man, H. R. Moore, has been charged in connection with passing a $50 check and was arrested Wednesday in Tulsa.
Sheriff's deputies said approximately 15 checks, passed by Moore over a period of several weeks, have been turned into the sheriff's office here.

Wind, Sand Return Forecast For City

Strong gusts of wind up to 25 miles an hour were expected to come back to Midland late Thursday with blowing sand due to reduce visibility to five miles at Midland Air Terminal.
Thursday morning, however, the weather picture still was comfortable with the high temperature recorded at 74 degrees Wednesday and a low of 48 degrees early Thursday.
No abrupt changes are in sight for Friday, CAA weathermen report, although widely scattered thundershowers are predicted east of the Pecos Valley.
Spring weather stayed off the mild and sunny beam in western sections of the United States Thursday.

Quartet Of Candidates Offers Voters Wide Choice In Council Race, Place 1

A quartet of candidates is seeking Place No. 1 on the City Council in next Tuesday's city election and thus is providing the top interest in the annual balloting.
The job now held by Councilman J. B. McCoy, who is not seeking reelection, appears to be the most popular one, on the basis of number of candidates.
The voters will have their choice between an engineer, a geologist, an oil operator and an architect.
The engineer is R. A. Estes, the only native Midlander to appear on Tuesday's ballot. The others include Hugh D. McCullough, an independent geologist; Jack Fetosky, an independent oil operator, and Joe Bill Pierce, an architect.

Estes is a member of a prominent, early-day Midland family and his father, the late R. E. (Bob) Estes, was for a quarter of a century the Midland County surveyor.
After attending Midland Public Schools, Estes was graduated from El Paso's Texas College of Mines. He has been with the Humble Oil & Refining Company 18 years and now holds the position of assistant division engineer.
McCullough, a 38-year-old native of Waco, first moved to Midland in 1941. Prior to that he attended Texas Tech, where he was graduated with a bachelor of science degree in geology.
He joined the staff of a major oil company in Midland as a geologist but in 1942, when the United States entered the war, he joined the Federal Bureau of Investigation, serving as a special agent the next eight years throughout the country.

He returned to Midland in 1950 as an independent geologist. Father of three children, he is active in church work, serving as a member of the Board of Stewards of St. Luke's Methodist Church.
Fetosky, a native of North Dakota, has been a Midland resident the last 18 years. He attended Ohio State University. He formerly operated a cafe in Midland, before becoming an independent oil operator.
The fourth candidate, Pierce, is a graduate of Texas A&M College, where he received degrees of bachelor of science and bachelor of architecture.

He was in the European Theater with the Corps of Engineers during World War II and later worked as an architect in offices in Dallas, Chicago, Oak Ridge, Tenn., and other points, before moving to Midland in 1948.
Since coming to Midland he has designed some of the schools in the Midland Independent School District as well as in other West Texas school districts.
He is a member of the Masonic Lodge and the American Institute of Architects.

West Germany's Chancellor Sails For Visit In America

LE HARVE, FRANCE—(AP)—West Germany's Chancellor-Foreign Minister Konrad Adenauer sailed for the United States early Thursday for important conferences but indicated that even more critical talks may take place next month when he visits Britain.

In a news conference shortly before he boarded the liner United States, the Chancellor said that in London he would discuss Britain's relationship with the projected European Defense Community (EDC).

Asked what he would take up with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, Adenauer at first only told newsmen the talks in mid-May after his Washington visit—would concern the world situation at that time. Then he added:

"I don't want to play hide-and-seek with you. I have repeatedly urged Eden to accede to France's wishes for closer association between Britain and the EDC."

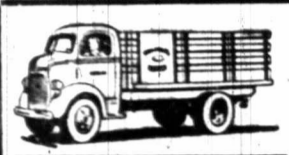

Referring to Britain's repeated refusal to join the European army because she must consider her position as head of the far-flung British Commonwealth, Adenauer added:

"I fully recognize the special position of Britain. At the same time, we have the same wish as France that Britain be associated as closely as possible with the EDC."

The bogged-down European Army plan is a prime question awaiting the 77-year-old German statesman in Washington. He also will talk about possible American assistance in handling refugees from East Germany, the troublesome dispute between France and Germany over the industrial Saar and the new Moscow peace offensive.

Grass Judging Teams Wins Top Sul Ross Honors

PECOS—Pecos' high three-man grass judging team walked away with top honors at the recent Sul Ross State College Wool, Grass and Livestock judging contest.

Composed of Louis Waters, C. D. Carter and James Bratton, the team took first place in the contest and placed two members as first and second high individuals of the meet.

Carter was first place high individual and Bratton was a close second.

Lloyd Runsey, vocational agriculture teacher, said this win gave the freshman team three out of five victories this year. The team has won at El Paso and a Soil Conservation meet at Alpine.

Individual members of the team have collected eight medals for judging this year. Waters was fourth high individual at Fort Worth and seventh high at San Antonio. Bratton was fourth high at San Antonio and in El Paso the boys took the one, two, three order of Bratton, Carter and Waters.

The Pecos wool team, composed of Otis Henson, Beade Northcutt and Leon Conley, placed fourth in the overall contest and third in wool judging at the Sul Ross meet. Henson was fifth high individual.

Pre-Fab Village May House Freed Allied Prisoners

MUNSAN—A complete village has been prefabricated and can be set up in a matter of days, perhaps hours, to receive Allied prisoners returned by the Communists.

The prefabricated buildings are stored at a U. S. Marine engineering outfit near Munsan. Presumably the village will be erected on a site being cleared in the same area, near the Allied truce camp.

The village will contain a hospital with surgical wards, a kitchen and dining shelters, barracks, showers, building to house decontamination units and an administrative building.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

Open Sesame To 3-D Actors Is Experience, Not Looks

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Exclusively Yours: It's a blow to talent scouts who hang around soda fountains in the hope of finding another Lana Turner, but the death knell has sounded for inexperienced keni and ruts in Hollywood—even if they look like Helen of Troy and Valentino.

The new shape of things in Hollywood—three dimensions and wide-screen Cinemascope—means actors must be able to play long sequences from beginning to end and be letter-perfect. It's like the stage—a flow of drama with the camera rarely off the principals in a scene even when they have no speeches.

Directing the first wide-screen Cinemascope comedy, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," Jean Negulesco told me:

"Actors who have learned their trade are safe. But with Cinemascope, no studio will take a chance with a green, inexperienced actor or actress. Not even with a personality. No longer will there be a place in Hollywood for the beauty contest winner and the handsome boy in the filling station. It will be too tough for them."

It's history repeating itself. The birth of the "talkies" in 1926 sounded the death knell for the screen's silent stars, who were replaced by experienced stage actors.

Steve Cochran is smoldering. He's Virginia Mayo's leading man in "She's Back on Broadway," but he's billed in tiny type under the names of Virginia, Frank Lovejoy and Gene Nelson. It's all part of the Cochran-Warner studio feud.

Alec Guinness will be working for Burt Lancaster's Norma Productions next year. The English star heads the cast of "Operation Heartbreak," from the novel by Duff Cooper, which will be filmed in London. It's the story of a man who failed to get to the front in two wars, but who became the greatest hero of World War II.

Eather Williams, not too many months away from her third stork date, is getting ready to do underwater ballets for "Easy to Wed." Laraine Day will star in a new tele-film series to be produced by Bert Granet. Mrs. Duracher and Bert are mum about the plot, but the accent will be on comedy. . . . Joan Caulfield and her husband, Frank Ross, aren't seeing eye to eye about her forthcoming stint in CBS' television series, "My Favorite Husband." Ross doesn't approve.

Keenan Wynn won't be leaving MGM after all for a role in Paul Gregory's stage production of the court-martial scene from "The Caine Mutiny." He just re-signed with the studio for another year. . . . Jean Fontaine, who has worried herself sick over losing the custody of her small daughter to ex-husband Bill Dozier, is taking vitamin shots to ease her frayed nerves. . . . Jeff Chandler and Decca bosses have a "handshake agreement," as Jeff terms it, on a contract for him to record for the label. He'll wax his first songs when he completes "Brady's Punch" at U-I.

It's not retirement for 44-year-old Lew Ayres, but he won't go on with his movie career after completing "Donovan's Brain," a horror flick, unless the scripts pass the acid test of importance.

Lew has socked away a big hunk of the earnings he's collected from Hollywood since "All Quiet on the Western Front" in 1930 and means it when he says:

"I'd be very happy to be doing fine A pictures. But to do less than the very top, the choice pictures are few and far between. I'm not an A-caliber star these days. I'm just a B-picture guy. I would rather not be in this business than do bad scripts."

Bing Crosby is $25,000 richer—the amount of the advance royalty check mailed to him by Simon and Schuster, who will publish his life story. . . . Hollywoodites are giving depositions for Glida Gray's lawsuit against Columbia.

"For using my life story" in the Rita Hayworth picture, "Gilda." The shimmy queen will claim that major studios turned down her biography as screen material because of the belief that Columbia already had made the picture.

Midlanders To Have Part In Fight Against Cancer

Midlanders will have a part in raising $18,000,000 for use in the fight against cancer throughout the United States.

Congress has designated April as Cancer Control Month, and during this month the American Cancer Society will double their efforts to tell people of cancer's danger signs, the society's education program and ways to stop growth of the disease.

"The key to success in fighting cancer is the volunteer worker," Edwin T. Stitt, Crusade Chairman said Thursday. He credited volunteer service with "cancer education" success and raising funds for such important projects as the $4,100,000 national research program and service plan for cancer patients.

"Midland's share of the Texas goal is vitally important," Stitt continued. "Even a dime is important," he added, "because one dime will buy a test tube for use in research and treatment. Twenty dollars will support a research bed for one day, $500 will buy a special microscope and $65,000 will provide a million volt x-ray machine," he said. Stitt said that of every dollar given to the American Cancer Society 60 cents remains in Texas, 25 cents goes to the national research program, and 15 cents goes to national headquarters for use in preparing films and publications; for fellowship for young doctors; for service programs and many other projects.

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1953-3

'You Can't Take It With You' To Be Given By MHS Seniors

Senior student actors, directors, and technicians at Midland High School are hard at work in rehearsal and preparation for their final dramatic offering, "You Can't Take It With You" to be presented in the high school auditorium April 23-24.

A comedy in three acts, the play was written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman and is concerned with an eccentric family which has decided to enjoy life on what money they possess. Members realize they would get no chance to do so when they are old enough to retire.

The whole family is what is commonly termed as "flipped." For example Grandpa Vanderhoft, head of the family, attends commencements and collects snakes for his principal hobbies. His daughter writes plays because someone left a typewriter on the doorstep. Firecrackers are manufactured in the basement and a printing press is operated in the living room in this hilarious fast moving comedy.

Verna Harris, Midland High speech teacher, directs the play assisted by student directors Katherine Carter and Barbara Wilson. Members of the cast include James Johnson, Joyelyn Newberry, Steve Thorson, Carol Garrison, Bill Robitsek, Judi LeFever, Patsy Yeager, Dan Ratcliff, Charles Whitmore, Evelyn He" Jimmy Counts, Royce Measures, Benny Bedford, Helen Heidelberg, John Petty, Elaine Johnson, and Roy Thomas.

The casting committee was composed of sponsors Dorothy Perkins, Minnie Jackson and Mrs. Elsie Magee.

Props will be handled by Barbara Wilson and Ruth Ann Rhoades, and advertising will be done by Benny Bedford.

Both performances will begin at 8 p.m. and admission will be 40 cents for students and 60 cents for adults. Proceeds from the production will go towards a school gift.

Wednesday Club Hears Program On Ceramics

A program on ceramics was the highlight of a meeting of the Women's Wednesday Club in the home of Mrs. Erle Payne, 310 South I Street.

Mrs. Butler Hurley, guest speaker, discussed the making of ceramics from the molding of the figurine to the finished article. She demonstrated her talk with a selection of her own ceramic pieces.

Mrs. Marion Flynn, who was in charge of the program, introduced the speaker, and there was an exhibit of the hostess' collection of china figurines.

Legislative reports of the state senator were distributed and a social hour followed the program.

Other members present were Mrs. Russell Conkling, Mrs. Robert Turner, Mrs. W. G. Whitehouse, Mrs. R. L. Miller, Mrs. William Kerr, Mrs. Glyde Cowden, Mrs. Ida Fay Cowden, Mrs. George Glass and Mrs. Andrew Fasken.

Does that tell-tale look on your face say change of life?

A great many women suffer "change of life" after forty. They tire easily, have "nerves", sleep poorly, are hard to live with. Their eyes and face get that "change" look.

CARDUI has helped thousands of women to lose that "change" look. CARDUI acts to (1) improve appetite, (2) thus build strength and resistance, (3) ease tension and nervousness—sleep better. Let triple-action CARDUI help you feel better, look better and be your normal, cheerful self again. Get CARDUI today. (Say: "red-goo-ey").

Tech Choir Wins Acclaim In Concert Here

An appreciative audience, unusually large for Wednesday night of Holy Week, heard the Midland concert of Texas Technological College Choir from Lubbock.

The concert, held in the Midland High School Auditorium, was sponsored by the MHS A Cappella Choir, directed by R. C. Michener, music consultant for the city's public schools.

A highlight of the concert for the audience was the tenor saxophone playing of Dick McCollum, Tech student from Midland, featured in one of the popular selections in the last part of the program. McCollum was a member of the instrumental combo assisting with the concert.

Also popular with the audience were the spirituals sung by the entire choir, and the selections by the Madrigal Singers, who wore costumes typical of the sixteenth century, when madrigals were in vogue.

Winning acclaim with the choir was its personable young director, Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of the Tech Music Department. Ira Schantz, instructor of voice at Tech, directed the Madrigal Singers, and there were piano numbers by Herbert Colvin, instructor in piano.

Humble Net Earnings Decline $24,000,000

HOUSTON—(AP)—Humble Oil & Refining Company reported a decrease of 24 million dollars net earnings from 1951.

Earnings of $145,292,100 last year were equivalent to $4.05 a share, compared with 1951's $4.72.

The lower earnings were blamed on increased costs despite a large volume of production and larger gross revenues.

President Hines Baker and Chairman L. T. Barrow told stockholders: "The operation of a free market for so important a product as petroleum . . . should result, in time, in prices adequate to offset the higher costs incurred. Otherwise, there will not be sufficient incentive for the high rate of exploration and drilling needed to provide adequate domestic capacity."

The company's total crude oil production last year was 127,954,000 barrels, compared to 127,088,000 in 1951.

Small-Town Journalist Finds Moscow Friendly, Hospitable

Editor's Note: Eugene A. Simon is one of a group of American news executives now visiting Moscow. He filed this dispatch early Thursday at the end of his first full day in the Russian capital. A graduate of the Baldwin-Wallace College, Simon is president and general manager of the Valley Daily News of Tarentum, Pa. He was a lieutenant aboard a Pacific aircraft carrier in World War II.

By EUGENE SIMON

MOSCOW — It was quite a day—April first—the first day in Moscow for a small-town American newspaperman a long way from home.

Yes—it almost seemed like someone would punch me in the ribs and say "April fool!"

After an excellent egg omelet breakfast with all the trimmings, eaten in view of the Kremlin—with a large Chinese delegation in an adjacent dining room—we left to visit the American Embassy. Five of our correspondents stationed here came along.

While I took pictures of the Kremlin, a young girl rather vehemently wanted to stop me. After considerable gestures by both parties concerned, a police officer came up and after clearing up the matter offered apologies in rather good English.

Another little sidelight came when some Moscow small fry crowded around the big car in which we were riding and asked if it went backwards. Speaking of cars, there are quite a few on Moscow's streets—similar to Fords, Chevrolets and some like our Buicks.

As I was walking through Red Square with Pavlov, one of our interpreters and guides, a group of teen-agers crowded around for a picture—like kids anywhere. Pavlov said they were the common people—the salt of the earth.

I got better acquainted with Pavlov after awhile and found he is something of a philosopher. He was bragging about his boy of 12 and girl of eight, who were fine pianists. Pretty soon I pulled out a picture of my little girl. Pavlov pointed to it and said it was a universal law to live for your children.

Two things surprised me about Moscow. One is that it has some of the widest streets I have seen anywhere. The other is the great amount of construction and new building going on. The newly completed Moscow University looks like the University of Pittsburgh Tower of Learning in the center and Bethesda Naval Hospital on the side.

Our 10 press and radio representatives frankly expected some hospitality and perhaps strained situations in Moscow. As yet none has occurred and the people I have contacted up to now have been very friendly and hospitable. This is even true on the street, where a great deal of curiosity is evidenced. I guess we really stand out as foreigners.

Pacific Atom Tests To Return To Bikini

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission says it needs more room in the Pacific to test "new and improved nuclear weapons."

Speaking of a "rapidly expanding program" of weapons development, the commission said Wednesday night it will use as a test site Bikini Atoll, where the first post-war atomic tests were held in 1946.

Bikini, whose inhabitants were relocated before those tests, is 180 miles from Eniwetok, which will remain the headquarters and principal operating base of the proving grounds.

COMING UP?—American Aviation Magazine recently published this picture as the "first official Air Force drawing" of the XF-99 Boeing Bomarc, said to be a pilotless "fighter plane" designed to locate, track and ram an enemy plane. Launched from the ground, it carries an explosive warhead powerful enough to demolish an invading bomber. Its speed is reported at more than 1500 mph.

Midland Attorney Cites Legal Aspects In Trial Of Messiah

Emil Rasmann, Midland attorney, presented an unusual lecture to the Episcopal Men's Club Wednesday night on "The Trial of Christ" from a lawyer's standpoint.

The attorney emphasized at the outset of his talk that he was concerned only with the legal phase of trial of Christ rather than its religious bearing. His talk was based on historical facts.

To prepare his listeners he briefly summarized legal procedures in effect in Judea in 30 A. D., the year of the trial. All laws of the Jews in that period were very strict and just, he pointed out, although Christ's trial was an exception.

The trial was robbed of fairness because the Great Sanhedrin was "out to get Christ," Rasmann said, since his presence appeared to be a dangerous sign to its very existence.

Trial Was Hurried

"The Judean courts had even been deprived of the right to inflict the death penalty," he said "and such capital sentences had to be first approved by the governing Roman government."

"Christ was hurried through a trial which normally should have lasted many days. His pre-trial examination was violated in a number of ways. It was held in private rather than public, no witnesses were called, he was forced to testify against himself and he had to stand before the examiners without being charged."

The speaker then related how Christ was charged first with sedition on the basis of his statement the day before that he would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days.

"Later he was asked if he were the Son of God and when he said he was, Christ was charged with blasphemy and was given no opportunity to prove that he was the son of God," Rasmann said.

Seized At Night

"Other violations of Judean legal practice was the seizing of Christ in the night. Voting was not in the required order of younger council members preceding the older members, and his trial was held in the palace rather than the required temple."

UN Affiliate Turns Deaf Ear To Red Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — A Soviet move in the Kremlin's new "let's-be-friends" campaign was rejected in the UN Wednesday.

The 18-nation Economic and Social Council turned down Russia's request to make Russian one of the official languages of the council.

"Finally he was charged with sedition, convicted of blasphemy, and put to death for treason."

"The members of the court did seek the approval of the Romans on his death penalty but before they could get the Roman officials worked up they said that Christ was guilty of perverting the nation."

Pilate Is Fearful

"Pontius Pilate could find no fault with Christ and had him sent to Herod, who also said he could find no fault and sent him back to Pilate for the sentence."

"Pilate was fearful of decreasing the death penalty and said he should be beaten and put out of the city. This was not enough for the crowd, which asked for death. Pilate finally yielded to the crowd, knowing he was doing wrong."

"The infamous trial was ended with Pilate's calling for a bowl of water and washing his hands of the affair."

Oil And Water

"From a legal standpoint," the attorney said, "Christ suffered every disadvantage possible, particularly in the speed with which the trial took place, less than 24 hours from seizure to verdict."

"Justice and speed are like oil and water," he concluded, "they don't mix. Too much speed takes out the fairness and justice of a trial, especially a trial on which a life depends."

New officers were elected at the dinner meeting with Nick Carter as president, Bill Grant as vice president and Frank Brockenridge as secretary-treasurer. Outgoing President Hal Rachal presided.

The firm will be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. seven days a week. Balloons will be given to Midland youngsters who attend the opening Friday.

Fort Hood Expansion Still On Army Books

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department Thursday affirmed its proposal for an 87,000-acre expansion of Fort Hood in the Killeen-Gatesville area of Texas.

The department said the project, announced last year, had been reviewed since Secretary Wilson took office.

The proposal is subject to formal approval by the Armed Services Committee of the Congress. Representative Poage said House committee officials told him their previous study and approval of the expansion program for Fort Hood still stands and that no further inquiry is required. The Senate committee is expected to review the project after April 13.

Congratulations to the A&W ROOT BEER STAND on their opening.

Success Of Idaho Test Speeds Plans For Atomic-Engined Submarine Nautilus

By ELTON C. FAY
PITTSBURGH —(AP)—So swift is the pace that manufacture of the operating engine for the first atomic-powered submarine already is underway.

Obviously assured by what it is learning from the prototype engine under test at Idaho Falls, Idaho, the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has directed Westinghouse Electric Corporation to start work of the sea-going version which will be installed in the submarine Nautilus.

This start on the assembly of the nuclear reactor and steam propulsion machinery does not mean necessarily the design of atomic submarine power plants has been "frozen."

It does mean AEC scientists and Navy designers believe they have an atomic power plant which will propel a submarine probably faster and certainly longer without refueling than any engine existing today.

'Bugs' In Engine
No one expects this nuclear power plant to operate flawlessly the first time the Nautilus puts to sea. It is still highly experimental. It will have "bugs" as any newly designed machinery does. But until

IT WOULDN'T MATTER, REALLY
WHEELING, W. VA.—(P)—Putting at movies is likely to take a setback when three-dimensional films become the accepted thing, one theater manager believes.

The manager explained that if a sweet young thing—wearing the special glasses—rests her head on her boy friend's shoulder it's apt to throw the picture out of focus. The glasses must be worn straight to get the best view.

Toy Center Opens Friday

A paradise for Midland youngsters will be unveiled Friday and Saturday here when the Toy Town store, 415 Andrews Highway, holds its formal opening with a profusion of toys and games in stock.

Dick and Bob Peyton, well-known Midland brothers, own and operate the new enterprise. They have looked "far and wide" to gather a fine variety of playthings for the boys and girls.

A registration and drawing will be held for the opening, with three valuable prizes listed. They are a bicycle (boy's or girl's), a big wading pool for Summer use, and a certificate redeemable in merchandise.

Toys, hobbies and handicrafts for children are the three fields provided for by Toy Town. A complete line is available in all the items.

A surprise is in store for Midland boys and girls attending the formal opening of Toy Town. A secret novelty gift will be handed to each youngster entering the store.

Summer has not been overlooked by Dick and Bob. They have stocked a large supply of lawn furniture, wading pools, and sand boxes—just the articles that will soon be in demand.

Free gift wrapping for birthdays is offered at Toy Town. Another feature at Toy Town is a supply of baby furniture, including cribs, beds, and plan pens.

Senate Hears Local Bills; House Enjoys Holiday For Easter

AUSTIN —(P)—The Senate worked alone Thursday on local bills while House members were off on a five-day Easter recess.

The Senate planned to quit Thursday until Tuesday, when the House comes back.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee stayed on for a hearing on the big omnibus tax bill.

Its author, Rep. George Berry of Lubbock said it would add $4 million dollars a year to state revenue by raising taxes on chemicals, oil, gas and other earth products and levying a tax on timber.

Berry said more taxes were needed to give the teachers a pay raise. So many opponents appeared that the committee decided to hear them in relays for a few weeks.

A joint conference committee working out the multi-million dollar state spending budget met in secret.

Backers of a $600-a-year pay raise for teachers tried to pick up more votes, Rep. Lamar Zivley of Temple said he would seek Tuesday to get speedier action.

Prominent Louisiana Political Figure Dies

NEW ORLEANS —(P)—Leon C. Weiss, 70-year-old architect and a figure in the Louisiana scandals, died Wednesday night.

Relatives said he had a heart ailment for several years.

Weiss was indicted by a federal grand jury during the Louisiana scandals of the late 1930's and tried on mail fraud charges in connection with the construction of buildings at Louisiana Tech at Ruston. He was convicted and given a five-year prison sentence.

the engineering force first gets up steam in a dockside test and the Nautilus makes her maiden voyage, the designers won't know all the fine changes in design detail that must be made.

The power plant for the Nautilus is built around a "thermal" reactor, with a water coolant for transfer of the atomically produced heat to steam turbines.

Nuclear physicists call the devices "reactors"—which in layman's language means furnaces.

Two Types Used
The first reactors were, and still are, used for producing refined fissionable material, including plutonium, which goes into the manufacture of atomic bombs. The heat in those reactors is an unnecessary and undesirable by-product disposed of by elaborate water-cooling system.

But now they want the heat to produce power to drive naval vessels and later industrial machinery. So the intense local heating of a reactor is being tapped.

Two types of reactors are to be used in two submarines to see which works best—the thermal reactor in which the speed or energy of neutrons released in the fission process is relatively low, an intermediate reactor in which neutron release is faster.

Need Rare Metal
The relatively low neutron speed of the thermal reactor means that ordinary steel and other materials would absorb or capture too many of the neutrons.

To meet this situation, scientists of the AEC, the Bureau of Mines, of the Westinghouse Corporation and of a number of other firms turned to a metal little known or used until they demanded it in quantity—zirconium.

Zirconium looks, feels, weighs and generally appears to be much like high-grade steel. But it has the happy advantage of neutron absorption far lower than steel. It is used for key parts of the reactor's core.

Going Right Ahead
When the AEC and Westinghouse started looking for quantities of zirconium it cost more than $200 a pound and was obtainable usually in lots of only about five pounds. Production now is coming in at the rate of 200,000 pounds a year and the cost is down to about $15 a pound.

Lawton D. Geiger, manager of the Pittsburgh AEC area, sums up the program for building the atomic power plant to drive the first such submarine this way:

"Nothing has come up that would make us feel the least bit pessimistic. We are going right ahead."

Congratulations

We hope your toys will stand up as well as the steel we furnished you.

Wilson Disposes Of GM Holdings

WASHINGTON —(P)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has disposed of all his General Motors stock, retaining "no beneficial interest of any kind," he has told the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Confirmation of Wilson, former GM president, was held up weeks at the insistence of many senators that he dispose of his stock in the big automotive firm, the largest single defense contractor.

Wilson valued the stock at $2,500,000.

Wilson's letter to the committee, made public late Wednesday, gave no details of the disposition. The committee had not asked for such details.

Democrats Plan Off-Year Meet

WASHINGTON —(P)—The Democrats are going to explore the idea of holding a national convention next year to give "a single clear voice to the party to speak as one in a congressional election year."

The words are those of Paul M. Butler, national committeeman from Indiana, who made the proposal. The 13-member executive committee of the national committee, at a two-day session which ended Wednesday night, unanimously okayed the idea of giving it study.

National conventions are normally held only in presidential election years.

Probers Determined To Fix Blame For Ammo Shortages

By DON WHITEHEAD
 WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Byrd (D-Va) said Thursday he is confident a Senate investigation will disclose the people and conditions responsible for reported ammunition shortages in Korea.
 "I think we are going to find out who and what were responsible for these shortages," Byrd told reporters.
 The senator voiced this belief as a Senate armed services subcommittee delayed until next Wednesday further testimony on the dispute kicked up by Gen. James A. Van Fleet, retired commander of the U. S. Eighth Army in Korea.
 Van Fleet repeated to senators Wednesday his claims that a shortage of shells for his guns was a major factor in forcing United Nations troops into a defensive role in Korea. He was supported in this view by Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, retired former commander of the Eighth Army's 10th Corps.
 Secretary of the Army Stevens, who went to Korea to have a first-hand look at the ammunition situation, told newsmen in Seoul Wednesday the Eighth Army now has enough ammunition "no matter what happens."

 Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), chairman of the Senate inquiry group, recessed hearings until next week. To be heard then are former Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett and his deputy, W. J. McNeil.
 Pentagon chiefs have said Van Fleet had all the ammunition he needed to carry out his limited mission in Korea. And on this basis they insist there was no ammunition scarcity in Korea.
 But Van Fleet stoutly maintains his gunners did not have the ammunition they needed—and that shortages anywhere along the pipeline affected the rate of fire on the front lines.
 The big, husky veteran of four wars testified Wednesday he was stopped by orders from launching a sea-borne strike behind the enemy's lines in June, 1951, which he claims would have destroyed the Red armies.

Mitchell Reaffirms Morrow Resignation Accepted Officially

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has said again that Wright Morrow of Houston is no longer a committee member from Texas.
 Mitchell said he made a routine report of the Texas case to the Executive Committee Wednesday.
 "I made a report on the facts on Morrow and I didn't ask for any action because it is a completed matter," Mitchell said. "We had already ruled the resignation was effective."
 Mitchell said Mrs. H. H. Weintert, Texas national committeewoman, asked for an explanation of the ruling in Morrow's case and he read the recent decision by committee counsel declaring a vacancy there.
 Morrow supported President Eisenhower in last year's election. He resigned as committeeman but the Texas Democratic Executive Committee refused to accept the resignation. Mitchell said he had accepted a copy of Morrow's resignation sent him as Morrow's notice he was quitting.

Airports Eliminated From Budget Request

Marine Turns Down Father's Aid, Faces Murder Raps Alone

DUBUQUE, IOWA —(AP)— A handsome 18-year-old AWOL Marine Thursday faced murder charges in three states alone after rejecting the efforts of his grieving father to help him.
 Fred E. McManus, who shrugged off five slayings as "too bad," flatly told his father, Mose McManus of Valley Stream, N. Y., a brewery executive, he did not want the help of the lawyer the elder McManus had retained to defend him.
 The father flew into Dubuque from New York and had a brief interview with his son Wednesday night in the Dubuque County Jail.
 The youth, who earlier had said he didn't want to see his father, greeted the elder McManus calmly and shook hands with him before authorities led them to an office for a short talk.
 During the 15-minute meeting a deputy sheriff who was present, said young McManus shed a tear when his father made a reference to the girl who accompanied the boy on a four-day cross-country crime spree.
 The youth leaped from his chair knocking it over, and started for the door in apparent indignation at the remark. The father covered his eyes and wept, then left the room.

Five Persons Die As Flames Sweep Apartment Building

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— A fast-spreading fire swept through a 48-family apartment building near downtown Kansas City Wednesday, killing five persons, three of them firemen.
 Fifteen persons were injured. The firemen were crushed to death when two porches and part of a wall collapsed on them. They were Don A. Nastasio, 32; Joseph P. Cooney, 59; and Melvin Kurtz, 30.
 The bodies of the two other victims—Mrs. Willard Coon, 22, and her two-year-old daughter, Mary—were found in their third-floor apartment.
 Some residents trapped in their rooms escaped the flames by descending ladders. At least three were forced to leap into firemen's nets.
 Nastasio was an off-duty fireman who left home to buy Easter clothing for his wife and four sons. He stopped at a fire station to visit friends and voluntarily went to the fire when the alarm sounded.
 It took four hours for 24 fire companies to douse the flames. The cause has not been determined.

WILSON'S

Indian 'Coaches' Should Put Team Into Pro Grid Circuit

By CHARLEY ESKEW
A SHORT COLUMN OF MUSCLENEOUS ITEMS:
If Midland's front office can keep them in show until they return home, you'll soon see perhaps the healthiest bunch of Indians ever.
Instead of baseball, maybe Coaches Marion Flynn, Horace Busby and Jay Haney should turn the Tribe to pro football and use these hefty: Rookie Pitcher Bud Sisk six-foot, 220 pounds; Rookie First Baseman Milton Wallendorf, 6-3, 230; Outfielder Tex Stephenson, 6-11, 210; Pitcher Ben Quintana, 6-2, 212; Third Baseman Julio de la Torre, 5-11, 180; Pitcher Eddie Jacome, 5-8, 180; Catcher Freddie Lu-Jan, 6-2, 190; Catcher Ed Menapace, 5-11, 190; Catcher Art Bowland, 6-0, 185, and Outfielder Hayden White, 6-0, 180.

Second Baseman Roger Della Betta, too, is built on big-man proportions but because of his shortness (5-7) has to hold his weight to about 175—the same light-heavy class which boasts Pitcher Ralph Blair, Outfielder Bill Brown and Outfielder Lou Dawson.

George Susce, son of a former major leaguer, is an outfielder on the Brooke Army Medical Center baseball team that plays the Indians April 7.
And, if the locals are eager to see some good pitching in the game, well, they might get a chance at BAMC's ex-major leaguers, Don Newcombe of the Dodgers and Mervyn Robinson of the White Sox.

Since there are more soldiers just like those three, Midland probably should have asked for more money from the San Antonio trip. It's the only game on the exhibition schedule in which Midland earns no take and plays for Army chow only.

Midland High School, by the way, moves Saturday within seven days of winding up most of its 1952-53 athletic year. Bulldog teams in tennis, golf, volleyball and track enter the district meet at Odessa April 10-11 and only the top finishers can go any further.
Those not winning awards call it a year, then only Midland base-ballers will be playing out a schedule.

Despite the nearness of that TIL meeting in Odessa, hardly any of the Midland entries are definitely set.

Coach Frank Ford's tennis squad, for instance, is sure of only one player as a representative. That's the Ellen DeChicchia, who probably will be seeded No. 2, behind an Amarillo player.

Boys players likely will be chosen in playoff matches next week between John Galle, Bill Vender, John McGuigan, Johnny Godwin and Jimmy Garvin. The girls fighting over two doubles places are Wanda and Janna Murray, Dot Faye Black and Carolyn Faris.

Coach Edwin Nixon also will hold challenges and eliminations in determining track entries, especially those out for his commanding mile and 440-yard relay teams.

Golf, though, is set with Marcelino Moreno, Buzzy Bray, Lee Snead and David Breedlove.

OU Exes To Hear Talk By Wilkinson

University of Oklahoma exes will hear OU Head Coach Bud Wilkinson at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at a meeting of the Midland Alumni Club.
Movies of the Texas-Oklahoma and Texas-Notre Dame football games also will be shown when the group meets at Jimmy's Bar-B-Q at West Texas and Marfield Streets.

Jockey Forrest Kaelin recently took advantage of an off-day to win the Fair Grounds golf tournament.

MHS Netters-Cancel Kermit Duel, Move Into Abilene Action

Midland High's tennis team, which had no less than half-a-dozen matches called off by opponents this season, played turnout Thursday.

Coach Frank Ford canceled the Bulldog encounter here with Kermit—and there's a reason. Coach Ford asked Kermit Coach Neal Dillman to erase the duel from the schedule so that the MHS netters could travel to Abilene Thursday, a day in advance of the two-day invitational tourney there.

The 11 Midland netters who planned to leave here at 3 p.m. Thursday are boys players John Galle and John McGuigan, singles, and the doubles teams of John Vandeventer-Clayton Tatam and Johnny Godwin-Jimmy Garvin and girls Ellen DeChicchia, singles, and Dot Faye Black-Carolyn Faris, doubles.

Sammy Still Has Whammy In US Open

NEW YORK—(AP)—Except for defending champion Julius Boros, every competitor in the United States Open Golf Championship will have to pass through an elimination round, and that includes such hotshots as Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and Cary Middlecoff.
All the big names in golf will be at Oakmont, Pa., June 9-13 for the event, shooting for the biggest cash prize ever. Of the entire field, the man who will be under the most pressure undoubtedly will be Snead, the Slammer from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Sammy has won just about every golf championship the United States has to offer, including both the Masters and PGA crowns in 1949, but he never has been able to take the Open. Even Sammy can't explain it, although he's come close a couple of times.

Sad Sam's Swansong
In 1949, for instance, he made a spectacular rally in Chicago, but faded on the seventy-first hole to finish in a tie for second with Clayton Heafner, while Middlecoff went on to win it. Now winning the Open has become almost a phobia with Snead.

With the change in the format, whereby only the defending champion gets into the championship flight without running the risk of being eliminated, there was some talk that Hogan would not compete.

But Bantam Ben said Thursday in Augusta, Ga., where he is warming up for the Masters, that he is all set.

DUE RESPECTS TO JOE

Rocky's Camp Feels Wary

HOLLAND, MICH. —(AP)— The Rocky Marciano camp is far from brimming over with confidence as the time approaches for the heavyweight champion's defense against Jersey Joe Walcott.

Trainer Charley Goldman will let the champ forget he was trilling on points and being soundly out-boxed by Walcott before the explosive thirteenth round finish of their blistering September 23 fight. "It doesn't make any difference how weak Walcott might have finished at Philadelphia, if he stayed on his feet, Marciano couldn't have won a decision," Well said. "We don't know how Walcott may fight this time, but if the pattern is the same, the pressure again will be on Rocky."

Goldman has been grooming Marciano to dish out heavy body punishment to the 39-year-old Walcott to hasten the wearing-down process. At the same time, he has been conditioning the Rock for either a vicious early attack by Jersey Joe or a crowding chase if the former champ goes bicycling. Goldman explained that from now until Rocky breaks camp next Tuesday, he would have him "putting three minutes of boxing into every two-minute round."

Bulldogs Try Lamesa Nine In Tilt There

LAMESA — The Midland High Bulldogs 'found' a winning lineup this week in baseball and Coaches Keith Bobo and Louis Grevelle seek to prove it when the club squares off here at 3:30 p.m. Thursday against Lamesa.

Midland whipped the Tornados, 7-5, at home Tuesday after several lineup changes. Earlier they'd lost two games.

In the Tuesday encounter, Midland won despite being outhit 9-3 when Jesse Hatfield's move to left field from catcher sparked defensive play on the team. And Rusty Rutledge taking over behind the plate hit the jackpot also as he shone well defensively.

Except for two minor changes, Midland's lineup will be the same. Hatfield, left field; Gwyn Grisham, shortstop; Rutledge, catcher; Billy Kiser, third base; Walt Bingham, first base; Charles Hedges, center field; Tommy Spencer, right field; and Bobby Green, second base.

Boye McKnight, however, will start in place of Snooky Roberts as Midland's pitcher. And Bingham, who got two of Midland's hits Tuesday, becomes the cleanup batter in place of Kiser.

Either team, by winning, could square away its non-district record at .500. Midland has a 1-2 mark while the Tornados played only the game Tuesday. They begin district games next week, Midland opening at home against Odessa in Indian Park Tuesday.

Rusty, Jesse Get New Jobs

Two Midland High athletes who play everything but hooky, and don't have time for that, are the co-captains of the Bulldog baseball team.

Their teammates Tuesday elected Junior Russell (Rusty) Rutledge and Senior Jesse Hatfield to head the team for the rest of the season.

The pair are Midland's first captains in three years since the '53 squad resumed baseball after a layoff from 1949.

Rutledge, a catcher, and Hatfield, outfielder-catcher, both earned letters in football and basketball earlier this school year.

'Old' Colts Kick Off '53 Play Sunday Against Tough Enemy

Midland's oldest ball club, the Colts, picked a ripe way to start another season—they chose the Alpine Internationals for their opener Sunday.

Alpine just manhandled C. B. Nunez' Colts three straight times during last season and got away unscathed. But brighter things are in store for this year's Colts, team Captain Ciro Sanchez said Thursday. "We've got better pitching and hitting, we're bearing down to get even with the Internationals."

No matter what their fate Sunday, the Colts will be starting another season of their long career in the 3 p.m. game at Indian Park. Sanchez, a Midlander since 1942, at the moment didn't know exactly how long the Colts have played, but "it's been continuous for more than 30 years."

As for the better hitting, better pitching, Manager Nunez points to a couple of youngsters who are coming of age as members of the Colts; they've drawn vital spots in his starting lineup.

Eighteen-year-old Lee Velarde, for one, takes over as the club's cleanup batter and is peerless, the Colts say, as a fielding shortstop. He's a three-year veteran of the team. Fidel Ramirez, too, moves ahead of regular starting pitcher, Joe Chavez, to hurl against Alpine, but he won't go the route. Sanchez said Ramirez' best pitch, a high hard one, should confuse the Internationals before the junk man, Veteran Joe Chavez, finishes up with his assortment of soft tosses.

Nunez probably will start this ball team (in batting order): Julian Lopez, second base; Jesus Carrasco, first base; Romeo Caloso, left field; Velarde; Mariano Torre, right field; Arturo Ochoa, catcher; Tommy Valdez, third base; Chino Reyes, center field, and the pitcher.

The team officers this year are Sanchez, captain and business manager; Nunez, manager, and Chavez, assistant manager. R. M. Minton, Schlitz Beer distributor, is sponsoring the club.

Grade Schoolers Take Rest

Carver Tracksters Limber Up For State Meet At Prairie View

The Carver Hornets' 880-yard relay team and low hurdler Melvin Upson limbered up this week in anticipation of heavy preparations next week for the State Negro Track Meet to be held at Prairie View College April 25.

Coach Johnny Williams' relay team and Upson captured first-place ribbons in the district track meet last weekend.

The winning quartet of Bryon E. Hudson, Herman Colfield, Upson and Lloyd Bedford ripped the half-mile distance in 1:36.0.

Ez Impresses With Victory Over Layne

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— One-time Heavyweight Champ Ezzard Charles, back in the title hunt with a smashing 10-round win over tough Rex Layne, told the boxing world Thursday "I think I can beat anyone now."

The Cincinnati negro, 31, put on one of the finest battles of his lengthy ring career when he battered the Lewiston, Utah, gamester into a bloody hulk Wednesday night at Winterland.

Millions of nationwide television viewers and 7,500 fans at the indoor arena saw Charles floor Layne four times in the first, sixth, seventh and tenth rounds.

Charles, fighting for a title shot, beat Layne in savage fashion.

He pounded the 205-Pound Rex in the mid-section and belted his head with stinging left hooks and sharp right crosses to the face. Layne was groggy from the sixth round on.

DARTING FIVESOME—These quarter milers will be dwindled to a foursome to form Midland High School's mile relay team which will shoot for the ABC Relays record of 3:30.8 Saturday at Big Spring. Three of the five compete weekly to determine two places on the team. Roy Kimsey, second from right, and Roddy Braun, extreme right, are permanent members of the team. Dale Jobe, left, and Bill Mims, center, will comprise the entry at Big Spring. Robert Keisling missed the team by a scant yard in a test run Wednesday.

To Shift Reds' Lineup

SAVANNAH, Ga. —P—Manager Rogers Hornsby said Thursday he is going to continue to shift his Cincinnati lineup around until next week.

BULLDOGS MAY BREAK TWO—

Five Records In Danger At Big Spring

BY ABE WEINER
At least five records will be in danger in the ABC Relays at Big Spring Saturday, and Midland has an excellent chance of setting two new marks.
The Bulldog mile relay foursome of Dale Jobe, Bill Mims, Roddy Braun and Roy Kimsey is a virtual cinch to better the existing standard of 3:30.8 set in 1948 by the host team. Big Spring The Bulldogs have ripped off the distance in 3:28.4 and 3:30.2 in meets the last two weeks.
Kimsey also stands a chance of lowering the 440-yard dash mark of 51.3 held jointly by Rudy Bauman and Fowler, both of Amarillo. He was clocked in 51 flat just last week at Brownwood.
The pole vault record should fall by the wayside if previous performances stand as a gauge. The present record is 11 feet, four inches. Two Abilene vaulters, Winton Thomas and Gayle Myatt, as well as Ken Wineburg of Odessa soared over the bar at 11-6 at Brownwood.
There's a bare possibility that Byron Townsend's broad jump record set in 1948 will fall, providing Bob Crump of Amarillo is on hand Saturday. Crump was high-point man in the Bluebonnet Relays, and one of his victories was a 22-3 3/4 leap accompanying part of his squad to in the broad jump which broke the existing mark at Brownwood.
Amarillo Coach Frank Guess is Corpus Christi for the Quarterback Relays there this weekend. It is not known which of his trackmen he will send to Big Spring, outside of the mile relay foursome.
The other standard in danger is the 152-6 1/2 toss of Jimmy Samuelson of Brady in the discus. Lee Newman of Abilene tossed the sphere 164-5 last week.
Midland Coach Edwin Nixon Wednesday held eliminations for two positions on the Bulldog mile relay team. Jobe, Mims, and Robert Keisling finished within a scant yard of each other in the order named. Jobe's winning time was 53.7—which is considered excellent on the poorly-conditioned Midland oval.
Abilene and defending Champion Odessa are rated the teams to beat for the ABC title with Midland, O'Donnell and Brownwood expected to furnish stiff competition.
In all, 34 teams are entered for the meet which is sponsored by the American Business Club of Big Spring.

Cardinals Are On The Move

By The Associated Press
Now that they've shaken the Florida sand from their shoes, the St. Louis Cardinals are setting about to prove that they aren't as bad as their Spring record indicates.
With a feast of minor league pitching ahead of them the Red Birds should be able to pull into their Sportsman's Park home with a better than 500 average even though they won only eight of 22 in Florida.
Wednesday, in their first outing since leaving St. Petersburg, the Cards pounded out a 12-4 decision over Atlanta of the Southern Association.
At Clearwater, Richie Ashburn homered in the first inning and Smoky Burgess did the same in the tenth to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 extra-inning victory over the New York Yankees.
At Mobile, in another 10-inning contest, the Brooklyn Dodgers edged the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2. Rookie Bob Buhl scattered four hits as he went the first nine for Milwaukee but the Dodgers got to Lew Burdette for three safeties and the winning run in the tenth.
And then there was the 12-11 fiasco between Cleveland and the New York Giants at Denver, which the Indians won for their seventh straight. Cleveland pounded Sal Maglie for eight runs in the first six innings, led, 11-7, after eight innings, and then won with two out in the last of the ninth on a fluke single by Outfielder Dave Pope off the knee of Second Baseman Dave Williams. Seven home runs cleared the fences, five by the Indians, including two by Luke Easter. Williams homered with two on in the ninth for the Giants.
Elsewhere on the exhibition front: the St. Louis Browns outslugged the Chicago Cubs, 10-8, in a 24-hit battle at El Paso. Cincinnati smothered the Washington Senators, 13-4, at Hazlehurst, Ga.; the Boston Red Sox whipped the Jacksonville Braves of the South Atlantic League, 14-1, and the Philadelphia Athletics defeated their Ottawa farm club of the International League, 8-2, at Leesburg, Fla.

Skeeting Duo Sets New Bid

A pair of Midlanders, George Glass, Sr. and Clyde Cowden, set their sights on future skeet shoots after bringing back four titles and two runner-up medals in the Houston Open Skeet Shoot last weekend.
Glass is expecting his son, George Jr., holder of the over all state championship, in from Southern Methodist University Thursday afternoon, and he said they might travel to Phoenix, Ariz., for the skeet shoot there this weekend. Cowden plans no activity until later.
Two skeet shoots which will find many West Texans entered are the Lubbock shoot, April 11-21, and the Pan-American shoot in Dallas, April 17-18-19.

Cowden trumped in the 410-gauge Class E and 12-gauge Class E divisions and was runner-up in the 20-gauge Class D.

Eisenhower Seeks Authority To Reorganize Major Boards

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent Congress Thursday a plan to reorganize the Office of Defense Mobilization. He said it intended "to achieve the maximum degree of mobilization readiness at the least possible cost."

The plan would merge the functions of the mobilization agency (ODM) and those of the National Security Resources Board (NSRB). It also would give permanent status to the ODM, which has been operating as a temporary emergency agency.

The plan to create a single, central defense mobilization office will go into effect in 60 days unless either the Senate or the House veto the plan.

Better Organization

In a message to Congress, Eisenhower said the plan "will permit better organization and management of the federal programs relating to materials and requirements and will thus help to achieve the maximum degree of mobilization readiness at the least possible cost."

He said it is not practicable to try to itemize savings he expects to result.

New Director

The plan calls also for: 1. Appointment of a director to head the ODM, and a deputy director to serve as top aide.

Arthur Flemming is acting chief of ODM at present, but the White House declined to say whether he would be nominated to head the agency under the proposed new setup.

Flemming has been described as reluctant to take on the ODM work except on a temporary basis.

2. Appointing the director of ODM to serve as a member of the National Security Council in recognition of the vital strategic importance of defense mobilization.

3. Transferring to ODM responsibility now shared by the Defense and Interior Departments.

Eisenhower said the idea is to improve organization of the executive office of the President, and to enable that office "to exercise strong leadership in our national mobilization effort, including both current defense activities and readiness for any future national emergency."

Midland High Band Entertains Rotary

Rousing band music had Midland Rotarians happy Thursday at their noon meeting as the Midland High School band, under the direction of Ralph Mills, ran the musical scales in Hotel Scharbauer's Crystal Ballroom.

Richard S. Brooks, president of the Midland club, emceed the program which found Dr. Luther Kirk offering the invocation, Art Cole and Wallace Wimberly leading songs, and T. Paul Barron introducing visiting Rotarians and guests.

Bob Lewis introduced Mills and the large band—and then the club settled down for after-dinner music.

Discussed during the meeting was the Rotary-sponsored scholarship due this year to a Midland High graduate.

Latest Atom Blast Booms Softly, Poses Puzzle For Laymen

LAS VEGAS, NEV. (AP)—About half of the 300-foot tower used in Tuesday's atomic blast was left standing as an Atomic Energy Commission source says, which makes the puzzling shot even more of a puzzle to those outside the curtain of secrecy surrounding test explosions.

In previous detonations, so far as is known, the towers have been vaporized, leaving no appreciable trace.

Other unusual features of the blast:

Its cloud was a mere wisp of white, compared to the boiling smoke mass of most previous shots.

The shock wave, usually felt here, was not noted.

Senate Takes Short Recess For Easter

AUSTIN (AP)—The Senate whizzed 34 local and uncontented bills to final passage Thursday in a one-hour session.

Then it quit until 10:30 a.m. Monday, refusing to join the House in a long Easter weekend off.

The House had quit Wednesday until next Tuesday.

Youth Admits 400 Church Burglaries

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF. (AP)—A 20-year-old parolee from the California Youth Authority admits burglarizing more than 400 churches in the last three years, including several in Texas, says Police Chief C. H. Anderson.

He identified the youth as Richard A. Schaefer, who is held on suspicion of burglarizing the Church of the Good Shepherd here.

UNCLE EF

If anybody made the mistake of taking television advertising literally, they'd probably wind up drinking beer and smoking cigars day and night and maybe top it off by cutting their throat with a safety razor blade.

CRIME STILL DOESN'T PAY

CLEVELAND (AP)—Twenty-four years ago $4 was taken in a robbery.

Police held James Dunn, 49, Thursday for the theft. They said fingerprints Dunn made recently on a cab driver application led to his arrest.

Detectives said Dunn told them he jumped $5,000 bail after he was arrested and lived in Chicago until recently.

Grunewald Sentence Delayed To April 30

WASHINGTON (AP)—The sentencing of Henry (the Dutchman) Grunewald was put off Thursday until April 30 to give House tax scandal investigators a chance to question him publicly.

Grunewald, a Washington wire-puller, pleaded guilty March 17 to contempt of Congress. Grunewald had refused to answer questions and produce records demanded by a House subcommittee investigating tax scandals.

Assistant U. S. Attorney William Hitt asked Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff to postpone the sentencing.

Grunewald, a mystery man with friends in high places, was frequently mentioned in the tax scandal investigations. He sat silently in the witness chair when asked about his connections with high internal revenue officials.

Defense Secretary Starts Crackdown On Security Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson has cracked down on security slip-ups he blames on inter-service rivalry and lax handling of secret documents.

The nation's security has been affected and "countries hostile to the United States" have picked up vital intelligence, Wilson said, because of recent "leaks."

Two orders by Wilson, disclosed Wednesday, called for:

"A higher degree of security for our official documents."

Closer checks on disclosures of technical military data through "inter-service rivalry in the weapons development field."

CLARKSDALE, MISS. (AP)—Walter Gates, 10, fell dead as he crossed home plate Thursday after walloping a home run.

Walter was playing with his fourth grade classmates. The parents said death was due to a heart seizure caused by excitement and exhaustion. The boy had been suffering with a rheumatic heart.

Congress Gets Bill To Cut Oil Imports

He said that unless the imports are restricted soon, the U. S.'s oil supply will be "put in jeopardy."

Chile Says Britain Violates Land Rights

SANTIAGO, CHILE (AP)—Chile says it will protest immediately to the Organization of American States against Britain's destruction of Chilean and Argentine installations on Deception Island, near the Antarctic Circle.

The island, in the South Shetland group, is claimed by all three countries. In February, British forces demolished buildings erected by the two Latin-American nations and forcibly deported an Argentine citizen from the island.

UN Opens Holiday Recess As Kremlin Keeps World Alert

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Rapid-free moves in the new Soviet peace offensive gave United Nations delegates much to study over Wednesday and little hope for rest as they started a five-day Easter recess.

The U. S. and her Western Allies joined all other nations outside the Soviet bloc in probing warily the succession of dramatic Red actions of the last few days. One observer said it looked like a "surprise-a-day campaign."

The latest surprise here came Wednesday when Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, recently returned from Moscow talks with the new regime of Prime Minister Georgi M. Malenkov, scrapped for the first time in seven years his efforts to introduce harsh words against the West into the formal record on disarmament.

Weeks said he called for the resignation on the grounds that the bureau, a unit of the Commerce Department, had not been "sufficiently objective" in its testing method. He said there also were other reasons but did not disclose them.

Astin denied the accusation. He said the bureau must stand by its scientific findings regardless of "pressures."

Schoolgirls Tell Of Kneeling Ordeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two 11-year-old girls testified before a school board Wednesday they had been forced to kneel bare-legged in a principal's office two hours.

Herbert Lea, principal of the Live Oak School, was on trial charged with incompetency as an outgrowth of the kneeling episodes. The girls are Yvonne West and Sylvia West. Lea has admitted the kneeling incidents which he said he used as disciplinary measures.

Mrs. Elizabeth Carver, superintendent of the Protestant Children's Home, told the board one of the girls collapsed in her arms after kneeling and required medical attention.

Sarah Bowers, 11, said about 17 pupils had been forced to kneel about 40 minutes after they "started throwing things."

New Globe Replaces One Ike Gave Harry

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new globe is in President Eisenhower's office. It has taken the place of the one he gave Harry Truman after the war.

The big globe, which President Truman received from Eisenhower seven years ago has been moved to the office of Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's top aide.

In its place in the President's office is a globe presented to Eisenhower by friends at the Augusta National Golf Club.

When Truman left office January 20, he left his globe behind. On its stand was a plaque saying he was returning it to Eisenhower "for use of the President."

Square Dance Group Names New Officers

MCCAMEY—Bob Hester again will guide the Permian Basin Square Dance Association. He was re-elected when 300 dancers gathered in McCamey for the association dance and quarterly meeting.

Named to aid Hester were H. C. Dunkin, Jr., Fort Stockton, vice president; and Mrs. F. E. Saups, Midland, secretary-treasurer.

Hester said the group is planning at least four festivals during May, August, October and January.

McCarthy Gets Dulles' Nod In Negotiating With Greeks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), assured by Secretary of State Dulles his efforts are "in the national interest," sought Thursday to get more Greek ship owners to take a pledge against trading with Iron Curtain areas.

McCarthy's action, in the face of a new protest by Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen, takes up where the senator left off when he arranged Wednesday's conference with Dulles.

It started Saturday with McCarthy's announcement that his Senate investigations subcommittee staff had elicited an agreement among the Greek owners of 242 ships not to haul cargoes to Red China, North Korea or between any Communist ports.

McCarthy said then he hoped to get a similar agreement from Greek owners of about 150 more ships—but later he held off this action pending his talk with Dulles.

A source close to McCarthy's dealings with the Greeks said that, after his talk, the senator promptly renewed discussions with the owners of these 150 ships.

The source, who declined to be named, said McCarthy sent a detailed "progress" report to Dulles, in line with a statement issued by the senator and the secretary after their meeting at the State Department.

Top Falls 50 Feet; Doctors Are Hopeful

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A two-year-old boy was in fair condition Thursday after falling 50 feet from a fourth-story window and landing on a concrete stairway base.

Children's Hospital doctors said Michael Raychel suffered three broken ribs and lung injury.

This handsome couple test a toy car that really runs. Powered by a six-volt battery, it has a top speed of five miles per hour.

This tot has a good time trying out a sleeping-dog rocker made of fiberglass plastic, which manufacturers say is unbreakable.

Santa Gets Early Start On Big Job

Even though we haven't reached the halfway mark between Christmas, Santa Claus and his helpers have been busy turning out new toys to charm the youngsters comes the next happy December morning. The miniature sports car is one of the first to be made of spun glass, which the manufacturer claims is practically indestructible. The toys were on display at fairs in New York and Nuernberg, Germany.

When the arm of this doll is touched, the sucker is automatically removed and doll cries.

Ike Accepts Resignation Of Standards Bureau Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, backing up Secretary of Commerce Weeks, Thursday accepted the resignation of Dr. Allen Astin as director of the Bureau of Standards.

Weeks said he called for the resignation on the grounds that the bureau, a unit of the Commerce Department, had not been "sufficiently objective" in its testing method. He said there also were other reasons but did not disclose them.

Astin denied the accusation. He said the bureau must stand by its scientific findings regardless of "pressures."

Weeks singled out for special mention the bureau's decision that a battery "dope"—designed to pep up aging batteries—was no good.

Other members of the committee include A. H. Vineyard, John R. Redfern, Richard Peters, Dr. R. Matthew Lynn and C. D. Ewell. The membership drive will continue into next week.

LANDS SAKES!
WITHOUT ADVERTISING, WHERE WOULD WE BE!

Advertising is the Spark Plug of Business, And Good Business is What Makes Good, Steady Work!

WHEN you read the advertising in this issue—wherever you read or hear advertising—remember this: Advertising's job is to sell goods. Poor sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear and worry all through the family. Good sales mean steady work, pay increases, promotions, peace of mind for all.

For when advertising sells goods, there's just naturally more work to be done. In the factory that makes the goods. In the mines and on the farms that produce the raw materials. In the transportation lines, stores and businesses that handle the goods. Yes, and in the banks, insurance companies, machinery houses, real estate firms, builders, etc., that service that factory. It's a never-ending chain.

So be grateful for advertising for bringing you fine products at good values. But most of all—thank advertising for making your job more secure.

Advertising... BY SELLING MORE GOODS TO MORE PEOPLE

The 12 were members of the wartime Soviet mission to the Allied Council for Japan, which went out of existence when the Japanese Peace Treaty took effect almost a year ago. Soviet Russia did not sign and does not recognize the treaty. It legally still is at war with Japan.

Senators Debate Tidelands Action

WASHINGTON — P. — The Senate continues debate Thursday on a bill to establish the coastal states' title to oil-rich submerged lands off their shores—title which Sen-

Advocates of federal ownership of the offshore resources called it "giveaway" legislation. They noted that the Supreme Court has ruled in the cases of three states that all lands beyond low water mark fall within the dominion of the federal government.

Senate debate began Wednesday shortly after the House passed for the third time, 285-108, a bill to give the states the offshore property within their boundaries, usually three miles from low water mark but 10 1/2 miles in the case of Texas and the Gulf Coast of Florida.

The lands in question, often mistakenly called tidelands, contain oil estimated to be worth 40 billion dollars or more.

After Thursday's session, the Senate will take a customary recess over the Easter weekend. Republican Leader Taft of Ohio called for daily Senate sessions next week to speed final action on the submerged lands question. The Senate has been meeting only three days a week.

Passage of the bill is regarded, as certain, and President Eisenhower has indicated he will sign such legislation.

Pecos 'Beef Plant' Far Cry From West Texas Range Plan

PECOS—A $50,000 "beef plant" to fatten out livestock is being built in the Pecos irrigation area by Paul C. Davidson of Clint Reeves County land going under the plow. The first big individual feedlot in this area, the new project is in sharp contrast to the range grazing that has been used in this section of Texas since pioneer days.

The development of underground water for irrigation since World War II has resulted in 90,000 acres of Reeves County land going under the plow. Great ranges that once were arid expanses are now cotton fields.

But Davidson believes cattle feeding has a definite place in the future of the Pecos area and with cotton surpluses piling up, he believes cotton will give way to livestock feeds.

On his 1,600-acre irrigated farm south of here, Davidson already has 2,000 head of cattle on feed, the majority of them his own. And he has room for many more.

Davidson already has completed 18 large pens, each 75 by 200 feet and has a number of smaller pens. The heart of his feeding operation is his feed mixing plant which has a storage bin capacity of 160,000 pounds of grain or meal and 4,500 gallon storage tank for blackstrap molasses.

At a flip of switch, Davidson can mix four different kinds of feed and the molasses in his plant. Different switches regulate the proportions of the mix and a time clock controls the duration of the mixing process.

In addition to his bins, Davidson has 240,000 pounds of grain in open storage. He wants to be sure to have enough to tide him over in case of season shortages.

His current formula for fattening cattle is 10 pounds of grain to two pounds of meal, four pounds molasses, three pounds ground alfalfa and eight pounds cottonseed hulls.

Davidson is experimenting with the feeding of cotton burrs. He mixes burrs with molasses. The mix hasn't been used long enough to prove itself but it looks promising as a filler, Davidson reports.

Although he still raises some cotton, Davidson is going in for raising feed on his 1,600 acre farm. About 700 acres was in alfalfa last year.

"It's always cheaper to feed your cattle where the feed is," Davidson said. "Lots of time the cost of the freight on a consignment of feed makes the difference between a profit and a loss."

Student, Solon Would Fight Reds With Rubber Stamp

SAN ANTONIO—P—Ben Hayden Freeman, 14, of Dallas believes he has figured out a way to help stamp out communism with a rubber stamp.

State Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio thinks the idea is good enough to put in a law.

Freeman, a freshman at Texas Military Institute here, decided all books written by Communists or fellow travelers or containing the party line should have stamped on the flyleaf "The author of this book was Communist Front affiliations."

Bell incorporated the idea in a Communist-control bill he introduced in the Texas Legislature. He expanded the legend like this: The author of this publication is a member or former member of organization listed by the United States Department of Justice or by the United House of Representatives Committee on Un-American Activities as being Communist, Communist Front or Subversive Organizations.

The bill would require this stamp on every such publication kept on the premises of a state school, college or university.

Methodist, Presbyterian? They're Just Not Postive

TOM BEAN, TEXAS—It has been said that it would take a tornado and a fire to bring any two Protestant denominations under the same roof for more than an occasional meeting.

That happened here in Tom Bean between 1918 and 1923 and since that time, the Presbyterians and the Methodists have been meeting jointly.

In 1918 a fire gutted the Methodist house of worship and they joined forces with the Presbyterians by using the same church building. In 1923, a storm blew down that church.

The board of stewards of the Methodist Church met with the Presbyterian elders and agreed to share 50-50 on the construction cost if they could also share the building permanently.

So they pooled their resources—most of which included just a desire for a place to worship—and with their heads rebuilt a single building.

Since that time the two congregations (Continued On Page Ten)

Cheddar cheese goes by a number of names: "Store" cheese; American cheese; American cheddar cheese. Nowadays, cheddar cheese comes rind-free in air-resistant wrappers in mild, medium or sharp flavors. During Lent, use cheddar cheese in souffles and rabbits, in sandwiches and salads, and in toppings for casserole dishes of fish or eggs.

Youth Center Chatter

By JOAN FITZGERALD

Greetings! The Youth Center really has been a busy place this week. Saturday, Midland held the regional music meet and there were teenagers from many cities attending. Of course they all visited the Youth Center during the day and seemed to enjoy it. They took over the dancing and entertained us with the different dancing from their towns. The Youth Center was glad to welcome them.

Our baseball team won 7-5 over Lamesa Tuesday afternoon. There were many Youth Center members cheering them on. Seen there were Sharon Braaswell, Anne Grayman, Martha Frick, Mary Jane Miller, Barbara Ware, Joy Rawdon, Betty Bolton, Bill Leonard and Jack Penning, to name a few.

It seemed that at the baseball game Barbara DeVaney was very enthusiastic! What could be the reason, Barbara?

During the rush Saturday, Glenda McNeal, Clinton Hamlin and Milton Jones kept the bar for Myrt while L. C. had a holiday. Myrt thanks these good helpers for their work.

There will be a picture show Friday starting at 8 p.m. The show will be "I Was a Communist for the FBI." There will be a good comedy this week. Myrt is getting popular and enjoyable movies for us to see, so be sure and attend.

Busy Week For Teenagers
Youth Center members participated in many events last weekend. In the Odessa Tennis Invitational, Ellen DeChiclis went to the semi-finals, and Dorothy Black and Wanda Murray went to the doubles quarter-finals.

The mile relay team set a new record at the Brownwood track meet. The A Cappella and Girls Choir all came out with firsts in the music contest. Congratulations to all of these.

Clinton Noble feels good about everything lately. He is all caught up in his studies and he reports he is ready to help anyone else who might need assistance.

Ann Ashby is home for the Easter holidays from Mt. Vernon Seminary in Washington. Caroline Reagle is home from school in California. Glad to have you two back for a visit.

The competition for cheerleaders is drawing near once more, and the Youth Center has become a gallery for cheerleader posters. It isn't hard to know who is running because huge signs are posted everywhere. The candidates really are working for votes and their campaigning in the Youth Center is stupendous.

The carnival was a popular place for Youth Center members last week. They could be seen all over the place at just about any time. Ann Ashby, Tommie Underwood, Judy Edwards, Billie Sheppard, John Blackman, Jean Ann Watts, Becky Jones, Pinky Howell, Sylvia Smith, Peggy Tidwell and Elaine Conger seemed to be enjoying themselves immensely.

The site for our new Youth Center has been cleared off and the Youth Center will be started soon if the plans are carried out on schedule. The help of all members is needed to complete it, and all are urged to help.

"Candy," the cat is being trained by Bill Leonard to do tricks. He is the blond cat who is seen racing around the bar and jumping over boxes. Bill, you are doing a fine job. The Youth Center's other cat, "Paul Jones," has returned after a few weeks' vacation. We are glad to see him again.

A "Bulldog Stomp" will be held Thursday from 8 to 11 p.m. It will be a stag and drag affair and all members are invited to attend.

The Youth Center will be closed next Tuesday, because of the city election to be held there.

Saturday night is the date of the Easter semi-formal dance. This is one of the highlights of this Spring, so be sure and attend. The boy should buy the girl a corsage and a date is required. Now, boys, ask the girls. If you don't want to dance with the one that you take all of the time there will be opportunities to dance with other people. The boy may wear a sport coat and a tie or a suit and a tie. The dance will be from 8:30 to 12 midnight. It promises to be a lot of fun so be sure and attend.

John Murphey, an "ex of last year," is home from Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Emily Hamilton is home from school in Virginia.

We noticed that Barbara Blossom is sprouting a new ring. Looks sorta like a Senior ring.

Lost one Senior ring! Bill Cartwright. Hm m m m.

This will be our last time until next September when Nancy Lou goes off to school. Nancy will take over the Youth Center Chatter starting this week. We enjoyed doing this and we appreciate everyone who has helped us. It has been a lot of fun. See you next September!

HEAT BEATER—If you've got a hot job, here's the suit for you. On view at London's Factory Equipment Exhibition, the not-so-neat three-piece garment is designed to protect firemen, steelworkers and others exposed to high degrees in temperatures.

Birthmark Superstition Has No Basis In Scientific Fact

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

There is nothing so persistent as a superstition. A recent letter says, "Until recently I thought of the old wives' tale of marking an unborn child by some action of the mother had gone out with the Dark Ages. However, when our child was born with a red birthmark, I found how wrong I was and how many people honestly believe in this nonsense. Would you please throw some light on this subject?"

There are almost as many superstitions surrounding the appearance of birthmarks as there are about wars. Even today, in this so-called enlightened age, many people believe that birthmarks result from some incident to which the mother is exposed while carrying the child. Typical is the idea that, when a baby is born with a strawberry mark, the mother showed an uncontrollable desire for these berries during pregnancy. Often, too, the appearance of a birthmark is blamed on some fright of the mother during her pregnancy.

It may be stated categorically that there is no scientific evidence whatever to support any such beliefs.

There are several kinds of birthmarks. Many of them are moles, which may be flat or elevated and dark or almost skin colored. Brown ones are called pigmented moles. Some are hairy.

Some birthmarks are made up of numerous tiny blood vessels in the skin. Some are level with the surface of the skin but have a dark purplish color which gives them the common name of port wine marks. Birthmarks may be raised up of blood vessels which are above the skin level and are soft and spongy. These are called strawberry marks. This type may occur anywhere but is particularly common around the lips or tongue.

Mark Like Spider
Another common variety of birthmark made up of blood vessels is shaped irregularly and slightly raised. It is called a spider nevus because the blood vessels at the center resemble a spider's body, while the smaller ones passing outward resemble the legs of this insect.

What treatment should be used for a birthmark depends on the location, the size and the kind. Some can be removed by local treatment, including surgery, various types of electric cautery, freezing with carbon dioxide snow, X-rays of radium or certain chemical agents.

But it is not always advisable to remove or fade birthmarks even when they are on conspicuous parts of the body, like the face. Expert advice must be obtained. Many, for example, will fade of themselves as the child gets older.

★ TEEN TALK ★
 By VIVIAN BROWN
 AP Newswriter

The yen to ape a favorite movie star tends to spoil the pretty looks of many a teen-ager, says Rita Mann, instructor in "Make-Up" at the John Robert Powers modeling school. Says she:

"Many teen-agers in our classes are there for the simple purpose of finding out how to act their age.
 The desire to look older, to exaggerate makeup and to resemble Hollywood glamor girls is pretty normal in the teens. But what a shame! The teen-ager has natural beauty which shouldn't be disturbed."

Miss Mann does not believe in makeup for girls under 17 or 18, except for lipstick or powder on special occasions. But too many would-be Ava Gardners and Lana Turners make the mistake of plastering the stuff on. These are some of their grooming faults, according to Miss Mann:

LIPS . . . Few teen-agers know how to use a lipstick properly. They smear on a gross affectation of the mouth copied from a magazine photograph, and expect to look glamorous. Their own natural lip-line is much prettier perhaps than the movie stars, if they could but realize it.

EYEBROWS . . . They are mad for eyebrow tweezers to achieve some unusual shaping of the eyebrows. The danger is that they destroy their own pretty natural eyebrow line, which should be left alone until shaped by an expert at a later date.

MAKEUP . . . Too much makeup is the biggest fault. Heavy foundations and stage-type makeup not only destroy the magic of pretty lips but might ruin the skin. A light powder and a pale shade of lipstick are all that a teen-ager should have on her dressing table.

HAIR . . . They adore hair done in a voluptuous, tangled, overcurled mass that falls across an eye or trails the shoulders, a la some movie cover girl heroine. Young girls should have healthy hair.
 It can be attractively shaped by a good haircut. A permanent wave is not necessary for a girl in the middle teens, says Miss Mann. But if she insists on longer hair, the curled-under page boy is the neat answer.

CLEANLINESS . . . There is never enough emphasis on skin, body and hair cleanliness during the teens. This is the age of skin blemishes requiring three-times-a-day cleansings with soap and water, when the hair must be shampooed at least once a week, maybe twice, when dandruff treatments might be necessary.

Deodorant should be used twice a day and foot powder is essential during this gymnasium-age when feet are likely to perspire excessively.

Cologne, softer and lighter than toilet water or perfume, should be used rather than heavier scents.

FINGERNAILS . . . They should be cleaned with a brush every day.
 Trick nail shapes, such as little points in the middle of the nail, should be avoided. These are unattractive and cause nail breakage.
 Nails should be rounded to the shape of the finger, natural clear polish may be used. Light clear colors may be worn later on, but not exotic costume shades.

Rub nail cream or cuticle cream around the base of the nail, but do not rub the cuticle. Push the cuticle back with a soft cloth after washing the hands. If little hang-nails appear at the corners of the nail, these may be gently snipped off.

TOENAILS . . . A pedicure is important to keep the nails pretty and to avoid wear and tear on hoisery. Polish toenails with a nail brush as they are likely to get yellowish in color from being locked in shoes so much.

The important point to remember in the teens, says Miss Mann, is that "if you make the best of your looks you will look prettier than the personalities you are mimicking."

So keep that in mind, girls: A candid copy of the original is just a stand-in for the real thing.

Mama Rinso has a baby!

"Doc" Lever proudly announces the birth of Rinso DETERGENT!

New addition to the Rinso family gives you all the advantages of the best detergents, and inherits Mama Rinso's famous SOLIUM for whiter washes

MAMA RINSO SOAP has long been the most popular washday soap in the world. And "Doc" Lever predicts that the new baby will soon be the most popular detergent in the world. The grocers, who are crazy about the kid, call it RINSO
 "D." (D for detergent.)

Rinso "D" dissolves instantly, makes huge quantities of fragrant suds, cuts grease, and leaves no scum—even in the hardest water.

All detergents are good, but we have made tests which prove that the new Rinso "D" washes about twice as many dishes as today's largest-selling detergent—more than one thousand plates with one economy-size box! You don't even have to wipe.
 Just drain dry. Your glasses and silverware will sparkle.

Rinso "D" will also do a brilliant job in your washer. It leaves your wash looking whiter than new. That's because of the SOLIUM.

How's the mother—regular Rinso soap?

Mama's fine, thank you. She's still the most popular washday soap in the world, and she expects to be welcome in your home, alongside Rinso "D."

And why not? Don't most of us know by now that there's a place for detergent and soap in the well-run household today?

Why not keep it all in the family—the Rinso family? Rinso Soap for some purposes, Rinso Detergent for others. A great mother-daughter combination. You usually pay about 20% less for Rinso Soap than for most detergents. A great buy.

Tear out the "birth certificate" and give it to your grocer. It's worth 15¢ on the purchase of any combination of two large packages of Rinso
 "D" and Rinso Soap or one economy size of either.

P.S. There's a Lever Brothers money-back guarantee on both Rinsos.

Hair Styles Have Continental Look

Hair styles for Spring and Summer have "continental" look. "Continental Fringe" (left), recommended for oval faces and small heads, is cut three inches long at nape of neck and 4 1/2 inches long around face and temples. Natural wave or soft permanent is necessary as are frequent brushing and shampooing to keep hair style from going flat. "Sculptured Continental" (right) is also for small heads but is flattering to round faces. Hair is cut four to five inches all around, and style features smooth crown, brief back ruffie, and precise, refined ringlets near face. "Waved Continental" (center) requires thick, strong hair, either well-permanented or naturally curly. Hair is brushed up and back with deep waves pressed into place. Length when down comes well below ears. Looks well on larger heads and softens angular facial contours. Modify height and width according to facial shape.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The windblown bob is with us for Spring, but this time it's distinctly "continental." The influence comes straight from Italy via that nation's actresses and models, whose "crossed" hair-dos have the charm of naturally wavy hair blown in the wind.

A "tossed" hair style demands expert cutting by a scissors artist who has been trained to follow the natural direction of your waves, providing your hair has even a slight tendency to wave or curl. You can't have such a style if yours is Indian-straight hair. It's worn very casually with perhaps no part at all. Endless brushing keeps it looking well.

Most "tossed" hair styles are three-and-a-half inches long from every angle but may be worn longer if the face is full. It's most suitable for young or young-appearing women, and they will want to shampoo very often to keep the style from going flat.

Set it at home in sculptured reverse curls—perfectly shaped and with the coil tucked under, against the hair roots. Alternate the direction of the curls—right and left—so that the effect, when brushed out, will be one of overlapping. The hair twirls about the neck and flutters about the cheek.

Some girls wear bangs with this style, others do not. Whether to choose bangs is a question of what kind of forehead you were blessed with. If yours is rounded, in proportion to your face, and has a clean hairline, why cover it?

But if your forehead is too high, too low or too narrow, no one can see these imperfections through bangs. And bangs are charming in themselves. Be sure to start the part back on your head instead of at the hairline if you want to do some disguising.

There are other "continental" hair styles you can choose from this Spring. Hair brushed up and back from the face in deep waves with width and fullness semi-circling the head is one variation. Girls with pretty ears can use this style to display them. But you can have this style with ears concealed if you wish. Length below the ears is either nil or slight and there may or may not be a part in the hair.

This deeply waved, abundant style demands thick, strong hair that is naturally curly or permanently allowed to hang down; it would not quite reach to the shoulders. Girls with very beautiful hair will take this style to heart, for it shows off highlights, color and texture. It softens an angular face and frames a narrow or oval one beautifully.

The tiny head, with round, soft facial contours, takes well to the "sculptured continental." This style has an absolutely smooth crown with a few tendrils precisely and picturesquely brushing the cheeks. The back is a short "petticoat ruffie." Hair length must be four or five inches all around. To set, brush your hair sleekly while damp, put on a wide ribbon and curl the tendrils under it.

A leading hair stylist with salons in New York and in cities throughout the country predicts that these "continental" styles, already popular with his clients, will sweep the country this Spring.

It's Easy To Avoid Making Mistakes In Use Of Your Eyebrow Pencil, Colors

Eyebrow pencil is a much abused though useful cosmetic. The most frequent mistake is that of using a black pencil when one is a blonde or brunette. Unless the eyebrows themselves are really black, a black pencil line will stand out on the face.

Another mistake is carrying the line down at the end rather than up. Downward lines are aging. Carry the brow out a fraction of an inch and lift it up, very slightly.

You can't work well with a blunt or too-soft pencil. Have yours very sharp and just soft enough to make a mark on your skin without discomfort. You can sharpen it on a piece of sandpaper or, with some pencils, on a piece of plain paper.

Master the art of feather-stroking in fine, light lines, in imitation of nature, rather than drawing one continuous line that hardens the expression.

Before you begin, brush away all powder flecks and brush the hairs into a smooth line. If you wish to emphasize an arch, let it be a rounded one. A sharp point will make you look as if you were raising your eyebrows continually.

These Jobs Fill Housewives' Memos When Spring Comes

In the Spring a woman's fancy frantically turns toward the following hopes:

Losing a few pounds before she starts trying on Spring suits.

Doing all the things to the yard she has been planning to do the last five years. "This Spring, for sure," she always tells herself, "I'll start planting in time to have all the flowers I want."

Redecorating at least one room in the house. By Spring there is always one room she can't stand another day.

Getting rid of some of her club activities. By Spring she is sick unto death of being on telephone committees, baking cookies for one organization after another, etc.

Though, of course, by Fall she will have forgotten that last Spring she swore she wouldn't accept another job in any organization.

Cleaning out closets. There is something about the first Spring days that sets a woman's soul longing for neat closets.

Getting rid of "junk." On a warm Spring day a woman can be ruthless about throwing away things she has put up with all Winter.

Trying out a new hair-do. In early Spring a woman's self-esteem reaches a low ebb and she usually takes her dissatisfaction out on her hair.

Hounding the man of the house into making all the small repairs he has been putting off all Winter.

She may have permitted him to let things slide during the Winter months, but there's something about Spring that makes everything that isn't in tip-top shape look downright shabby.

No wonder when poets write of Spring they neglect to mention what Spring means to the housewife. A housewife's reaction to Spring is too practical for poetry.

GRANTED SUFFRAGE

Kansas was the first state to grant women municipal suffrage as well as the right to hold municipal office, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Developed as a curiosity is a radio that is only one and one-half inches long by two inches wide by three-quarters inch thick. A loud-speaker the size of a quarter may be worn on the coat lapel. The radio will pick up stations 100 miles away under good conditions.

Cows may be sad over synthetic ice cream, but to this young lad ice cream is ice cream, no matter how it's made.

Bossie Has Competition Now That Junior Can Eat Ice Cream She Didn't Help Make

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Writer

Don't let the cows read this. It's rather grim news and might have an adverse effect on their personalities.

But the truth is that a kind of synthetic ice cream is coming. In fact, in some parts of the country it's already here, and the future of butter fat is cloudy. If this ice cream substitute becomes a big thing, on top of the loss of much of the butter market, America's cows may be up the creek without a milking stool.

It's Texas Name
Technically, the new confection is called vegetable fat frozen dessert, but for reasons of brevity it will hereinafter be referred to as mellorine. That's the name it goes by in Texas, one of six states where it is legal. The others are Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma, California and Oregon, although in the last two there are tight restrictions.

Bills to legalize its manufacture and sale now are either up before legislatures, or being written, in seven other states—Louisiana, Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi, Arizona, Minnesota and Rhode Island. And there's a test case in the Indiana courts. Elsewhere, mellorine is just a delectable dream.

There is nothing radically new about using vegetable fat instead of butter fat in a frozen dessert. It's been done for years. In England, at present, butter fat is so short its use in desserts is banned. During World War II, butter fat was rationed in the U. S., and some manufacturers stretched their supply by bootlegging vegetable fat.

But, in the last year or so, economic factors existed which encouraged its rapid expansion. Butter fat prices are high—somewhere around $1.25 a pound—and vegetable fats are selling at about 22 cents. So the vegetable fat boom began.

It looks the same as genuine ice cream. Some say it tastes slightly different, some swear they can't tell it apart. One company conducted a blindfold taste, and most people picked out the mellorine as ice cream. It can be made in all flavors and served any way you serve ice cream.

And it is cheaper, but not the whopping bargain that also is. Almost all of butter is butter, but only about 10 per cent of ice cream is butter fat. By substituting vegetable fat, manufacturers save money on only one-tenth of the ingredients.

The other 90 per cent is the same as ice cream. And the manufacturing process is identical. At retail level, this means the savings will be about five cents a pint. Not large, but large enough to affect sales. In St. Louis last Summer, a vegetable fat frozen dessert captured more than half the frozen dessert market.

The dairy manufacturers learned their lesson in the oleo fight. Nowadays, as they watch mellorine's progress, they've adopted an "if-you-can't-beat-'em-join-'em" strategy. In most cases, it's the dairies and ice cream companies themselves who are making mellorine. Some are making it as a defensive measure, but are not promoting it. Under Many Aliases

One problem mellorine faces is that of so-called "standard of identity." Each state, so far, has adopted a different law covering identification of the new products. In Texas, it must be called mellorine. In Missouri, it must specify "not an ice cream." In Illinois, it must carry the legend, "a vegetable fat frozen dessert."

There still will be a market for some dairy products in mellorine, because the new dessert, like ice cream, contains about 11 or 12 per cent "milk solids, non-fat." But, as one ice cream man said, "This doesn't help the dairies too much, because if they sell the solids but not the fat, what'll they do with the fat?"

MEDICAL SCHOOL GOES ARTY—

Spiritual Diary for Lent

Be doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.—James 1:22.

Today's Message

Often we hear it said that Christianity has failed. The truth is that Christianity has not been applied. The god of materialism, in whom we have put our trust, has failed; his temple is crumbling around us and we realize that he is an idol of brass, and that there is no help he can give.

You and I cannot force others to put their trust in God, but we can set an example by ordering our individual lives in accordance with His infinite Will. And what is that Will? We find it in love, peace and harmony, and by casting out every lesser thing that may stand between ourselves and God, and between ourselves and other men.

Now is the time to pray "Not my will, but Thine, be done," and to return to the activity of the Christian life. What is the activity of Christian life? It is not merely listening to sermons, no matter how eloquent, nor is prayer an intercession to change the Will of God. The real activity by which we may help ourselves and others is the activity of prayer and sacramental life, of entering into the Will of God so that He may work through us. In this work of prayer all things may be brought to pass: it is our breathing and our living, and it is the work that we are called to today.

Today's Prayer

O God, who by Thy Holy Spirit didst move holy men of old to reveal Thy Will to mankind, enlighten our understanding, that we may be doers of the Word, and not hearers only. Amen.

Korean Armistice Wouldn't Settle Problems In Korea

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—A Korean armistice would not settle the Korean problem. Peace talks begin when the shooting ends. Hagglng over peace terms may make the 22 months of haggling over truce terms look mild.

An armistice is not peace, even though men stop dying when the shooting ends. It's a temporary cease-fire, supposedly until a final peace settlement can be worked out. Representatives of the United Nations and the Communists agreed long ago they'd begin discussions about a permanent peace within three months after the armistice went into effect, if they could ever agree on an armistice.

When an armistice begins the UN troops and the Chinese Communists would not suddenly turn and walk out of Korea. Each side would withdraw one mile from the fighting front, leaving a demilitarized zone of two miles between them.

And there, presumably, they would stay until peace was agreed upon. Neither could clear out before then for fear the other would suddenly resume the attack. How long would that go on? It's anyone's guess.

The UN probably would continue training South Koreans, eventually letting them take over the forward positions. Other UN troops could then withdraw to supporting positions in the rear, just in case.

Both sides also agreed long ago that with the coming of an armistice neither could thereafter bring in more troops or build up its armament, although each could rotate its troops and replace beat-up equipment.

If the UN found the Communists cheating and building up strength for a new attack, again it's anyone's guess what the UN would do.

It could hardly sit still.

But the problems of a final peace settlement are greater than those which bogged down the armistice-talkers for almost two years. Here are some examples:

Should Korea be left divided into two by the 38th Parallel, as it was before the North Koreans attacked the South Koreans in June, 1950?

The Chinese Communists and their North Korean allies could hardly settle for anything else. To do otherwise would be to accept at the peace conference a defeat which the UN hadn't been able to inflict on the battlefield.

But would the UN and Chinese troops have to withdraw from Korean soil, once peace was signed? The Chinese might welcome that idea. They could withdraw just across the border and be ready to pour in suddenly at any future time. Withdrawal for the UN would mean clearing out to Japan, at least.

If the UN and the Chinese withdrew, would the North Koreans and South Koreans be disarmed? If they weren't, they might start war on one another again and the whole thing would start over.

The U. S. withdrew its troops in 1949 from South Korea and the North Koreans attacked in 1950.

But neither North nor South Korea is likely to agree to being disarmed. And if the UN withdrew from South Korea, what assurance would it have that the Chinese or Russians wouldn't secretly build up the North Koreans for a new sudden attack?

Meanwhile, the United States, which has paid out so much in lives and money to protect South Korea, would hardly agree to withdraw and not rearm the South Koreans well enough to stand off a new attack until help came.

And the Chinese Communists might want some guarantee that the U. S. would not only not encourage Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa to invade China but that it would stop military help to him.

That the Chinese would raise the Formosa question seems pretty sure. There is a tricky little symbol—"etc"—in the agreement the UN and Communist truce teams agreed on when they said peace talks would begin within three months after an armistice.

It's contained in a paragraph which says both peace teams would discuss "the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

gations have shared their blessings. Three times monthly the Rev. Lee H. Smith, a Presbyterian, shows up at 9 a.m. on Sunday to conduct a worship service. Then he rushes back to Whiteright to hold his 11 a.m. service. Methodists and Presbyterians alike turn out.

On the fourth Sunday, the Rev. R. H. Williamson of Denison, a Methodist pastor is on hand for an 11 a.m. service and an evening worship at 7:30 p.m. Again, Presbyterians and Methodists alike turn out.

The Tom Bean Methodist-Presbyterian Church has 35 adult members. Ten are Presbyterians, 25 Methodists.

One month the literature issued by the Presbyterian Church is used, the next month the Methodist religious quarters are used.

They meet jointly in all things. Sunday school is held at 10 a.m. with the teacher and superintendent appointed on "leadership" ability from the two congregations. At present, Presbyterians hold both posts with Mrs. Aline Phoebus the superintendent and G. E. Denny the teacher. A Methodist, Mrs. O. E. Thomas, is pianist.

These joint services have been going on long that a lot of members don't actually know to which denomination they belong. It wasn't surprising to the members when Mary Evelyn Thomas, daughter of the chairman of the Methodist board of Stewards, O. E. Thomas, joined the Presbyterian Church.

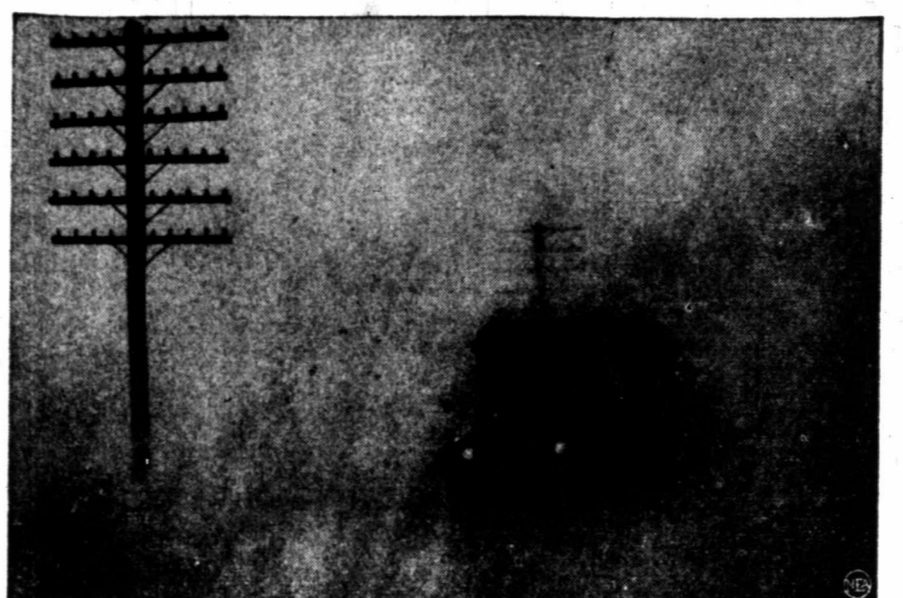

She got the spirit to join the day the Presbyterian pastor was preaching.

"I've been going to that church so long that I feel like a Methodist," said Mrs. J. H. Pennell, a Presbyterian.

To which members of both sides could only add that Mrs. Pennell was as right as rain at least one Sunday a month.

Hopes Of Kansas Wheat Farmers Go Up In Dust

The thick haze that almost obscures telegraph poles and an oncoming truck is precious topsoil, blown off Kansas wheat fields near Topeka by winds that reached 71 miles an hour in that area.

Just hopefully recovering from the effects of last year's drought, Kansas wheat farmers see their hopes dust-blown by the 60-mile-an-hour winds that whipped up hundreds of tons of precious top soil. Greening fields were turned into sand dunes. Rich topsoil mounded up around field obstacles. It filled ditches—topsoil from an Abilene farm filled ditches near Junction City, almost 25 miles away. Young wheat stalks, two or three inches high, were cut off at the ground by the wind-driven dust. Farmers in Central Kansas, heart of the wheat belt, strove furiously to stop soil from blowing. They drove their tractors at top speed, with disks, duckfoot cultivators, listers and other machines. It was almost futile. The farmers knew they had lost this year's wheat crop. But there was no despair. They didn't waste breath bemoaning their lost wheat. They talked about how much row crop they would put out.

H. L. Homman, of New Cambria, kneels over a ditch that filled with wheat soil in just three hours. Behind him is land that was green with wheat in the morning. Now it is bare as a desert.

L. P. Engle, on his wheat farm near Abilene, was stymied when his tractor stuck in three feet of dust. Topsoil from his farm filled ditches west of Junction City, nearly 25 miles away.

MODEL OR MIDGET?—Pfc. Eugene W. Mayfield, of San Diego, Calif., and co-worker Sadako Ishiyama have more than their hands full with this miniature bomber. Pfc. Mayfield, supervisor of the craft shop at Camp Sendai, Japan, and two co-workers took four months to build the craft, which has an 83-inch wingspread, and is powered with four model plane engines. Judges of a hobby contest couldn't decide whether to classify it as a model, or as a top-secret replica of an Air Force bomber.

Savings In Reeves Hit Record High

PECOS—Savings were at a high level in Reeves County during the last year, exceeding the "nest-egg" gains recorded in most other parts of the country.

Deposits in Reeves County savings and commercial banks reached the high figure of $8,541,000, a gain of 65 per cent over the $5,059,000 reported by the Federal Reserve after a previous survey, conducted in 1944.

The findings, a barometer of good times, are based on a report just released by the Federal Reserve System, showing bank deposits in every county in the United States as of the end of the last fiscal year.

This rise compares favorably with that shown by nation's banks generally in the period, 48.4 per cent. It is better than the composite 47.2 per cent advance made by banks in the West South Central states.

The Pecos bank holdings represent $695 on deposit for every man, woman and child in the county. This is more than in in the West South Central states, the average being $620.

Commenting on the situation, the Federal Reserve points out, "The expansion in deposits of business and individuals which accompanied the growth in bank credit in 1952 has been largely in the form of time deposits and only a moderate extent in demand deposits."

Winner of the Nobel Peace Prize is honored with a gold medal and approximately $30,000.

Servicemen In Europe Say Fishing, Hunting Supreme

Reporter-Telegram
Special Correspondent

BERCHSTEGADEN, GERMANY
—Even a Texas sportsman can get excited over the hunting and fishing conditions in Western Germany. Cold, swift streams are chuck full of trout.

Only minutes from the big cities are dense forests, where deer, the hirsch which look like elk and the roebuck, are plentiful.

As one native Texan, Col. B. Dixon Holland of Munich, stated: "The Germans have it all over us when it comes to conservation measures."

Their measures are so exact, in fact, that some sportsmen comment: "Every animal and every fish over here has a name and address."

One of the most avid of the fishermen in Germany is Ed Hanifan of Fort Worth, a civilian who does "ghost writing" in Heidelberg for general.

When he goes out early in the mornings to fish, he says it is "like a dream" to cross one of the picturesque bridges, to look up and see an ancient castle in the clouds by the "Odenwald" range of low mountains, and the cold, swift streams below, racing towards the Neckar River.

They Grow Big
Fishing around the ancient university town of Heidelberg is good, Hanifan reports. He has caught brown trout from 10 to 20 inches, Rainbow trout as long as 23 inches, and Brook trout from 10 to 13 inches.

In Germany, he says, limits principally are on length rather than weight.

Up until the Americans came in, fishing in this country was only for a "privileged few" Hanifan pointed out.

Almost all streams were leased or

You get longer wear from sheets if you alternate the placement of the hems. Wide hem is intended for the top, but sometimes put it at the bottom if wear is uppermost in your mind.

If your glasses often crack, you are probably putting cold glasses into hot dish water. Use only warm soapy water and this will stop happening. The same thing applies to your glass baking dishes.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"A very peculiar incident happened a few nights ago," relates a California correspondent.

"Everything was going well and we had a score of about 3,500, while our opponents had about 1,700. Our opponents finally melded and were almost fortunate in being able to connect their melds and go out. Our side had not melded, and we lost the total of our cards and three red threes, for a lost of 595 points.

"While we were counting, I discovered that my partner could have melded 120 with about seven or eight cards. I made no remark, but reduced our score to about 2,900 and proceeded with the game. We melded 90 in our next hand and boosted our score to about 4,200.

"Again we needed 120 points, and our opponents melded, added to their melds, and had very few cards in their hand.

"To make a long story short, the same thing happened again. I had a hopeless hand and never had a chance to make an initial meld. My partner could have made the initial meld with seven cards. He failed to do so, and we lost the count of our cards and once more three red threes.

"Could my partner possibly have a good reason for failing to make the initial meld in these two hands? If not, what was going on?"

This looks like a chronic case of "no-melditis." The best cure for this is to wave the score pad rapidly under the patient's nose.

It is sometimes unwise to use most of your cards to make the initial meld, especially when the opponents have all their cards still in the hand. There is then great danger that you will soon be obliged to give away the discard pile. There is far less danger of losing the pile when each opponent has a reduced hand.

When the opponents have made substantial melds and are trying to meld out, your side can likewise afford to meld liberally and play for out. This is especially true when your side has a healthy lead in the score, since then you are in excellent position to trade punches.

Nevertheless, there is nothing my correspondent can do but grin and bear it. Canasta is a partnership game, and a player is bound by the acts of his partner. If your partner plays well, rejoice; if he plays badly, perhaps you can have the pleasure of playing against him on some other occasion.

Sardine Sandwich Spells Thrift

PROTEIN-RICH SALAD of Maine sardines, hard-cooked eggs, sharp cheese and lettuce, plus Russian dressing is served chilled.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For meatless day luncheons, you'll enjoy this recipe which uses Maine sardines, a very economical source of excellent protein. The creamed pea sauce that goes with this puts more low-cost nutrition into the recipe.

Whole Meal Sardine Sandwiches (4 Servings)

One can Maine sardines (3 1/4-ounce size), 1 1/4 cup butter or margarine, 1 1/4 cup flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1 cup fresh cooked or canned peas, 1 2 teaspoon salt, 4 slices bread, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tomatoes.

Make a white sauce from butter, flour and milk. Add drained peas salt and keep hot over boiling water. Toast the bread, and butter the slices. Drain oil from sardines. Arrange on toast and top with tomato slices. Place under broiler long enough to heat tomatoes through. Serve hot with a generous helping of the creamed peas over the top.

Sardine Apple Salad (6 Servings)

Two cans Maine sardines (3 1/4-ounce size), 1 firm red apple, 1 1/2 cups diced pickled beets, 1/3 cup minced sweet pickles, 1 small onion (chopped), 4 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons sugar, salt and pepper to taste, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 1 2 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon pickled beet juice.

Drain oil from sardines and cut into small pieces. Peel, core and chop apple and combine with sardines along with potatoes, pickled beets, pickles and onion. Mix vinegar, water, sugar and salt and pepper. Toss lightly into sardines and vegetables. Pack into a 1-quart mold that Transparent plastic food bags should be washed often in warm, sudsy water to keep them sanitary. They can be put into the washing machine along with other plastic articles, but do not spin them dry.

Mattresses ought to be turned every week, one week from side to side and the next week from head to foot. Brush or vacuum-clean the surface beneath the mattress, as well as the mattress itself.

Some vinyl plastic floor coverings don't take well to wax when new, but after a few weeks of foot traffic and scrubbing, they look glossier and are better protected with wax applications.

NOT CHICKEN FEED FOR DICK—

Young Dick Jackson of Redwood City, Calif., was delighted when his father gave him four baby chicks for Easter back in 1951. But Dick, now eight years old, is a businessman. He fed the chicks well and when they grew up, built himself a cash egg business in the neighborhood. He built so well that recently he bought a share of General Electric stock from the profits. Pictures below show the young businessman and shareholder.

Young businessman checks out his assistant, sister Dale, who is off to sell nearby neighbors the eggs laid by Dick's chickens.

Kermil Lions Club Names New Officers

KERMIL — Kermil's Downtown Lions Club has named a new slate of officers headed by W. T. Varnell. Roy Peden, past president, said the following were elected: John Gammill, first vice president; J. M. Panoake, second vice president; W. E. Cook, third vice president; Ralph Looney, Lion Tamer; Bill Duncan, song leader; Rev. Charles Brinkley, Tall Twister; and two directors, Kenneth Burrows and G. E. Thompson.

The Lions named Rev. H. W. Sprowles manager of their Little League Baseball team and mapped final plans for their Easter Egg Hunt. Alton East, Louis Edwards and Raymond Reynolds are in charge of the Easter program.

The Kermil group will send a delegation to the District 2-T-2 convention instructed to vote for R. A. Lipscomb for governor of that district. Peden said.

'Picture Of Month' On Display At First National Bank Here

"Spring Near Paris" by Raymond Thibessart, noted French artist, went on display Wednesday in The First National Bank as its "Picture of the Month" for April.

Residents of Midland and area are invited to see and study this painting, which is said to be one of Thibessart's best.

The 76-year-old artist was born in Bar Sur Aube, France, and studied as a youth in Paris. Illness interrupted his vocation a few years, but when he regained his strength he resumed his studies of painting, developing his own impression in translating space and nature through a luminous atmosphere.

He has devoted his talent to the misty effects of light on fruit trees which bloom so profusely in the Springtime near Paris.

Recognition of his talent has spread rapidly through the United States, South America and many European countries within the last several years.

Wars, Strife Keep Refugees Seeking Shelter Forevermore

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Staff Correspondent
BERLIN—"Refugees."

An ugly word for this ugly century, revived again in Berlin.

By the hundreds, by the thousands, a new flood has been loosed upon us, driven by the East German purges. It is backed up here in an unwholesome eddy due to delays in transport to the West.

Again the old familiar smell of the emergency camps, overcrowded, poorly ventilated.

Again the stares: eyes aimed blankly at an unknown tomorrow, still foggy over yesterday and the political punches that cast them out.

You Feel Ashamed

As you step between the rows of cots, of mattresses on the filthy floor, you almost feel ashamed of yourself.

You are too well dressed, too well fed—and you have no fear.

In your pocket is a green symbol of what all the refugees of this century have sought and do seek; the passport of the United States.

It means something these Europeans, in their days, have never known: "Equality under God to work or worship or vote as you will . . . freedom from fear."

Tagged Like Bags

Corny words in New York or Chicago.

Living words in Berlin today.

Winston Churchill, in the dark hours of the last war, eternally damned Adolf Hitler with magnificent simplicity:

"He has peopled the world with exiles."

That indictment, supported by the blank stares in Berlin, now convicts Georgi Malenkov.

Babies, tagged like so many pieces of terminal baggage, who will never again know one or both of their parents.

A year and a world apart I recall two children, one yellow, one white, both about 11.

The first I saw in a Korean ditch. Next to the frozen body of a bearded patriarch was this small girl, sitting impatiently, waiting for her grandfather to arise, to continue the flight.

We packed her in the jeep and delivered her to an Army hospital. Her feet were already so stiff you could jam a jackknife in them and draw no pain.

Her home had been crushed by a wild shell; parents torn apart, grandfather the only other survivor. They had walked for three days until he just sat down and died.

The Same Theme

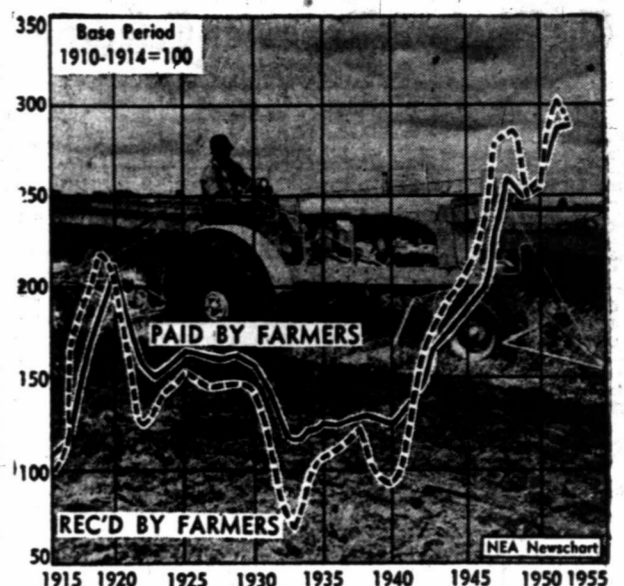

The second child I saw this week also with grandfather, grandfather alive though feeble. They had been in line for six hours before a West Berlin charitable center.

The child, a boy, had only one shoe. The other lost, somehow, in the nervous flight. His parents arrested, the old man had brought him to American sanctuary, to hope.

Today's city of exiles is West Berlin, where these refugees from East Germany huddle together after fleeing the Reds.

FARM PRICE PINCH—When farmers have to pay more for things they buy while their own income is dropping—there's trouble. That's what's happening now. Trace the dotted farm "price received" line above. During World War I it soared above the black "prices paid" line. In 1920 it nosedived. Result: trouble leading into the Great Depression of the 1930's. With World War II farm prices soared again. Result: "prosperity." Now, farm prices have been generally dropping since 1951, while manufactured goods farmers must buy remain high. Result: that's what farmers, manufacturers and Washington are worried about. Chart data from National Industrial Conference Board

Resident Resents Neighbor's Industry

Saturday afternoon, a couple of years ago, this guy rushes into the store, "Say," sez he, "I don't like that fertilizer you sell!" Now, we are always interested in customer's complaints, but, for the life of me, I couldn't remember selling this character any of that fine Turf Special for his lawn—and I told him so, saying, "Why, friend, the fertilizer that comes in the red bag never did any harm to anyone, it only does good to the grass and stuff."

"That's just it," he retorts, "You didn't sell it to me. You sold it to my neighbor, and now the misus won't let me rest until our lawn looks like his. So, gimme four bags, loan me a spreader, and let peace prevail in my domicile!"

It's about time for Joe to come in again. He's found it easier to grow a lawn, and to keep the peace, by coming in around this time of the year to order his Turf Special. And so will you!

A Dramatic Disclosure

Communism, as distinguished from socialism, is rooted in force. Especially in production, whether on the farm, in the factory or in the mine, governed by force.

Because the Communist state also puts totalitarian control in the hands of a powerful few, you are not likely to hear serious internal criticism of enforced plans, or admission of weaknesses in the system. Least of all are you likely to witness backsliding on the use of force.

World observers therefore see as intensely dramatic the disclosure that Communist Yugoslavia is planning to do just that—give up the club compulsion in industry. Some feel this is the most important development in that country since Tito broke with Moscow.

Yugoslavia intends to replace its system of forced production with old-fashioned capitalist incentive production.

This doesn't mean giving up the basic socialist feature that underlies communism—control of industry by government. Plants will remain where they are, in the hands of government-sponsored workers' cooperatives, to which management is responsible.

Said one Yugoslav: "We are going to try capitalism without capitalists."

Roughly translated, that means they are going to let industry make what profits it can on its own, and then tax earnings progressively, as capitalist nations do. Right now Tito's government in effect taxes business in advance, using rigid formulas based on estimates of desired—not actual—production levels.

No reason to imagine Tito hereby is initiating a trend. The Soviet Union, although it often has made concessions to the need for incentives, is too heavily committed to the idea of forced output to back off. China probably is in the same fix. And the satellites have no choice.

With Yugoslavia it is different. Fringed by hostile lands, the Yugoslavs cannot enjoy the luxury of testing Communist theory over several decades. They are fighting for life, economically, politically, every way. They must be practical, above all.

It is here, in the zone of the practical, that they have seen communism break down. Their system of force has failed on three counts: it has stirred resistance that blocks economic progress, it has brought government inefficiency and bureaucracy, and it has not done the fundamental job of increasing production.

So, emboldened by their peril, the Yugoslavs are venturing to cast off, one by one, the shackles that make other Communist nations prisoners of their own infirmities. First Tito stopped collectivizing the farms. Now he plans a freer role for industry.

Who knows? In a few years Yugoslavia may look more like partly socialized Britain than like Russia, the Communist fatherland it now spurns. In this boiling crucible where the struggle for men's minds is hottest, new elements of freedom are rising to the surface. Free men everywhere can take heart.

Tough Nut To Crack

Months ago sober warnings were issued that the victorious Republicans would get a shock the day they took over the government and saw how few jobs they could count as spoils.

The GOP leaders understand now. So far their efforts to install deserving party members in the great federal bureaucracy have been about as effective as chipping away at a glacier with an ice pick.

Much of the federal personnel list is properly under Civil Service safeguards. President Eisenhower would seem wholly within the bounds of reason and fairness, however, with his plan to strip Civil Service status off policy-making jobs which were blanketed into the service to keep Democrats at work.

Operation Turnover, if it may be so labeled, is proving just about as difficult for the Eisenhower team to crack as is figuring out how to break the Korean stalemate.

Social Set Cut To Quick

By decreeing early working hours for his White House staff and for many of the people who inevitably deal with him, President Eisenhower has put a severe crimp in Washington's social life.

The man who has to be at the White House door at 8 a.m. to see the President just can't be out partying until two o'clock the night before.

Clearly this has the czarinas of the capital social set considerably disturbed. It is just possible there may be severe cutbacks in the list of hostesses long before the axe is applied to the federal bureaucracy.

The Ties That Bind

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Drew Pearson says: Speaker Martin asks like to keep him informed on job appointments; Colleagues crack down on Michigan's Clare Hoffman; Stassen turns on one-time political pal McCarthy.

WASHINGTON—Speaker Joe Martin has been surprised when at 9:50 Martin is the earliest man in Congress to get along with, but he also has certain ideas on how job appointments should be handled. They are not radical ideas, and in a half-serious half-joking way he expressed his views to the highest Republican in the land—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

At a Monday morning White House conference, Joe reminded the President that it was customary to let congressmen and senators know in advance before a job was to be filled in their state so they could get credit for helping make it. The speaker, however, didn't come out with this directly. He backed into it by asking "Is it the policy of this Administration to notify members of Congress when appointments are about to be made in their districts?"

President Eisenhower replied that it was. "Well, does that policy include members of our own party?" There was a twinkle in the speaker's eye, but he couldn't quite tell what was breaking behind the twinkle. He nodded in the affirmative.

"Does that also apply to the speaker of the House?" pursued the speaker.

"Yes," replied the President. "Well, there were four appointments in my district last week," concluded the speaker, "and I had to read about them in the newspapers. Do I have to subscribe to every paper in the district?"

Eisenhower turned to Assistant President Sherman Adams and somewhat irritated, told him to tighten up liaison with Republicans in Congress.

Congressman Clare Hoffman of Allegan, Mich., now 77 years old, is one of the stormiest Republicans on Capitol Hill. His acid remarks are shot at Republicans as well as Democrats, and he is just as likely to tangle with his own GOP leadership as anyone else.

Having reported on the tempestuous activities of the Michigan solon over the years, I once offered him a chance to even up the score and invited him to write a guest column while I was on vacation. He accepted with alacrity and proceeded to take me to the cleaners in a column which was duly published among his mildest epithets were "Deceiver of the People."

"Pretends to give exclusive information which has already appeared." "Giver off of effluvium colloquially known as stink."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"Both clubs really will make you cry," said a familiar voice directly behind me. I looked for the nearest exit, but it was to late. "Hard Luck" Joe never lets a victim go.

"I took my life in my hands to bid four spades, and I was glad to be in that contract when I saw the dummy. But I couldn't make the game even though the contract looked so good.

"I won the opening lead in dummy with the ace of diamonds and immediately led a club to take a finesse. West took two club tricks and led a third club for his partner to ruff. I eventually had to lose a heart trick, and had to play the hand properly to avoid losing two hearts.

"But wouldn't that burn you up? Both clubs wrong, both hearts wrong, and the clubs 4-2 rather than 3-3. No way to make the hand!

Joe was wrong, of course, as he usually is. The hand is made very easily by the right line of play. If you haven't spotted it already, take a second look at the hand and find it for yourself before you read on.

Joe made the correct play when he won the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds. His next play was wrong, however. The right line of play is to draw three rounds of trumps and then lead a low club from the South hand!

West's best defense is to take the club and to lead a heart at once. Declarer plays a low heart from the dummy, allowing East to win the trick. East cannot continue hearts, so he must shift to a diamond.

South ruffs the diamond, and leads clubs again until West takes his ace. If West then leads another heart (the best defense) dummy puts up the ace of hearts, and South gets back to his hand by ruffing another diamond.

South can now lead clubs in order to discard a heart from dummy. This limits the loss to one heart and two clubs no matter where the high hearts and high clubs may be.

Meantime, Democratic Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts, William Dawson of Illinois, and Karsten of Missouri demanded a showdown on why Hoffman was wasting the committee's time by an unauthorized investigation of something that happened in the Democratic Party in Michigan three years ago.

When the showdown meeting started, a majority of the committee, including most GOP members, were all set to pass a resolution curbing Chairman Hoffman's investigative powers. However, rather than supporters, present—the Michigan politico ate crowd and promised not to step out of line in the future.

It was significant that the first public rebuke to Senator McCarthy from a leader of the Eisenhower Administration came from Mutual Security Administrator Harold Stassen, an old political friend.

It was McCarthy who helped undermine Stassen's campaign for President at the Philadelphia convention in 1948, and it was Stassen, in turn, who came to Washington to support McCarthy's charges against Ambassador Philip Jessup during his confirmation fight over appointment to the United Nations.

Yet Stassen did not hesitate to tangle vigorously with McCarthy when the Wisconsin senator barged into the Greek ship negotiations with a face-saving compromise for the Greeks—just as the Eisenhower Administration was working on its own plan to bar Greek ships from Iron Curtain countries.

The Maritime Administration also had discovered a loophole in the sales contracts whereby many of the Greek ships could be recaptured by the United States. Since the Greeks bought the ships from Uncle Sam for a song, the last thing they want is to surrender them. So naturally they jumped at the McCarthy deal, whereby they merely agreed not to sail behind the Iron Curtain again.

Whether he sat on the hillside in the sun, or whether, during rain and fog, he sat in the house, still they began to come to him bearing little gifts—a handful of ripe berries of which he was fond, or a bright stone or piece of colored glass to flash in the sun. Ish did not care for the glass or stones, even though the stones were sometimes sapphires or emeralds taken from a jewelry store, but he appreciated the gifts because he realized that the young men were giving him things by which they themselves would be pleased.

But now, since even talking was a labor, the mind turned inward on itself, and Ish thought of all this strange life. Even if there had been no Great Disaster, he would now be a very old man. Now, doubtless, if it had not happened otherwise, he would be professor emeritus, pattering around, taking some books out of the library and intending to do some research, a little of a nuisance to the younger men in their fifties and sixties who now ran the department—though they might say loyalty to the graduate students. "That's Professor Williams—a great scholar, once. We're very proud of him."

Now the Old Times were deeper buried than Nineveh or Mohenjodaro. He himself had seen everything crash and go under. Yet curiously, too, all that crash had not been able to destroy his personality. WASHINGTON COLUMN

GOP Hirings And Firings Are Both Good And Not So Good

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Many of the resignations of top government officials now being accepted by the Eisenhower Administration are justified as necessary in order to field a brand-new team. This is said to be in line with the mandate of the voters in the last election to clean house in Washington.

Some of these resignations are being accepted with lavish praise for the outgoing officials. There is said to be nothing against their records. But the Eisenhower leaders want their own hand-picked men to run the show.

To the career public servants—the people who have made government administration their life work and who expected to rise and eventually retire in the nonpolitical service of their country—the story is something else again. To these people, some of the transfers now being made look like pretty mean firings.

The case of David L. Cole, whose resignation as director of Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service has just been accepted, is being cited as the No. 1 case of this new trend. Cole is a New Jersey Republican. Furthermore, he was picked for this job by Cyrus Ching, another Republican, who Cole succeeded.

Cole generally was credited with having done a good job. He was respected by both employer and union groups. He was named director of Conciliation by a Democratic Administration, on merit. So there was nothing political about his appointment. The question posed for the Republican Administration is why there should be anything political about his retirement?

Others Above Politics
Two other cases of this kind, with slight variations, have cropped up in Department of Interior. The resignation of Dillon S. Myer as commissioner of Indian Affairs has been accepted by Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay. And Marion Clawson, director of the Bureau of Land Management, is to be transferred.

Both these officials have records of having run their bureaus above political controversy, as public administrators should.

Dillon Myer performed brilliantly one of the most difficult of all wartime assignments in running the War Relocation Authority, which handled Japanese-American internees. This role won him the equally difficult role as Indian commissioner.

Nobody can perform that job to the satisfaction of everyone, but Myer gave it a try. His replacement may be justified, but it seems hardly a fair reward for faithful service.

Marion Clawson's removal as director of public lands deprives the government of the services of a world-wide authority on a subject to which he has devoted his entire career.

Since Clawson has U. S. Civil Service status, he cannot be fired summarily. But moving him to another job to make way for an unspecified political successor merely puts two men in fields where they are less experienced. It is hard to see how the government gains by this transfer, unless on the theory that a general shaking up is a good thing in any organization, every so often.

These cases are not parallel to the removal of Claude R. Wickard as Rural Electrification Administrator. Wickard came into the government as a Democratic politician, to become President Roosevelt's secretary of Agriculture. As a political appointee, Wickard was fair game in the Republican shooting gallery.

The Republican record is beyond criticism on the retention of some key officials. In Department of Defense, for instance, Assistant Secretaries W. J. McNeill and Frank G. Nash have been kept over from the Truman Administration. McNeill is in charge of budget and Nash runs foreign arms aid. Both men were retained because they were recognized as tops in their fields.

In the State Department, Secretary John Foster Dulles has shifted around his top command considerably to put new faces in Washington. But he has relied on career foreign service officials of experience in naming Douglas MacArthur, II, as counselor, and sticking by Charles E. Bohlen for ambassador to Moscow.

This same pattern was followed in naming as Assistant Secretaries of State Robert Murphy for United Nations Affairs, Livingston T. Merchant for European Affairs and John Moors Cabot for Latin America.

For his assistant secretary in charge of Far Eastern affairs, Secretary Dulles brought in a Virginia-Eisenhower Democrat, Walter S. Robertson, a man experienced in this field. In the same spirit, Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey named T. Coleman Andrews, another Virginia-Eisenhower Democrat, to head Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Q—Why did the Chinese at one time wear five buttons on their coat fronts?
A—They represent the five virtues: humility, justice, order, prudence, and rectitude.

Q—Where is Thomas Payne buried?
A—No one knows.

Q—In what years did our country experience its worst depressions?
A—In 1870's, 1890's and 1930's.

Q—What is the meaning of the word Bolshevik?
A—A member of the Communist party in Russia.

A—Six, they were George Clymer, Benjamin Franklin, Robert Morris, George Read, Roger Sherman, and James Wilson.

One thought is that the American Indians donned war paint to terrify their enemies, but the real purpose may have been to camouflage themselves.

One day Ish sat on the hillside in the sun, and after a while he looked to his left side, and saw that no one sat there. Then he realized that at last Ezra, the good helper, was gone, and that no good would ever sit there beside him on the hillside again. At that thought he gripped the handle of the hammer, which in these days was very heavy for him to lift, even with both hands.

"It is called a single-jack," he thought, "but now it is too heavy for my one hand. Yet now it has become the symbol of a tribal god, and it is still with me, though all the others, even Ezra, have gone."

Texans In Congress Okay Idea Of 'Lunch With Ike'

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON—(AP)—Texans in Congress are in favor of President Eisenhower's get-acquainted luncheons at the White House.

The President has been entertaining members of Congress in groups of a dozen or more. About half the Texas delegation in Congress now has luncheoned with the President.

The Texas old timers like the idea just as much as the first-terms.

Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, now in his fifth term, beamed after his turn at the White House table and remarked that it had made him feel more important than anything else that happened to him in Washington.

Rep. Lloyd Bensten, Jr., of McAllen said he found that Eisenhower "has a terrific memory—and is a darned good chef."

Although the affairs are strictly social the President broke into the conversation at one luncheon to ask about the amount of land needed for Falcon dam on the Rio Grande and about the problem of relocating the town of Zapata.

It was Texas Independence Day when Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco was invited. He pinned a small Texas flag on Eisenhower's lapel, in view of the fact the President is a native of the Lone Star state. The President wore the flag the rest of the day.

After each of the luncheons the President takes his visitors on a personally conducted tour of the White House. Most of them come away with comments about his personal collection of medals displayed in a case, and of his swords and gup.

The collection includes a pair of western style revolvers, with matched, hand-carved handles.

Rep. Frank Icard of Wichita Falls was impressed with the White House bomb shelter.

Expecting to see a small office-size cubicle when he took the elevator to the depths below the White House, he said he was amazed to find that it spread out under a part of the White House lawn and bomb shelter is protected overhead by about eight feet of reinforced concrete and an additional six to eight feet of earth. Underneath is also a six to eight foot concrete flooring, in order to support accommodate some 5,000 persons.

Built to resist any known atomic port the walls and ceilings against the impact of any direct overhead blast.

Doors are steel and a foot thick, as in bank vaults, and the place can be entered by several different stairways as well as by the elevator. The elevator permits the President and his family speedy transportation from his overhead family quarters.

Inside the shelter are oxygen tanks, electric generating equipment, food, water, decontamination equipment for those exposed to atomic radiation, and other necessities.

Around the Capitol:
 Recent visitors included Mrs. E. I. Icard of Henrietta, mother of the Wichita Falls congressman. She drove from Texas with two of the legislator's aunts, Mrs. M. M. Alexander of Dallas and Mrs. W. J. Neville of Henrietta.

They visited noted flower gardens in South Carolina and elsewhere on the way, and arrived in the Capital to find the famous cherry blossoms in full bloom.

Tennessee Dairy Cuts Milk Price

Tennessee Dairy joined two other Midland milk distributors Thursday in cutting prices for homogenized milk. Frank Mote, Tennessee distributor in Midland, announced a one-cent cut per quart effective Thursday.

In addition, he said, the firm has lowered prices for whipping cream one cent per half pint, and coffee cream two cents for pints.

Borden and Banner Dairies announced one-cent price cuts on homogenized earlier this week.

Triplets Produce Triple Headaches For Mom And Dad

When triplets first arrive there is unbounded joy and the newcomers and parents are often minor celebrities. But after the glow fades a bit, the picture changes. William L. But the Petersons wouldn't trade their triplets for a singleton now.

 WASHINGTON—It isn't so strange that teetotaler and Secretary of Labor Martin P. Durkin should have married the salon keeper's daughter. For Ann Durkin's father, Barney McNicholas, was a pretty special salon keeper.

Barney reigned over the most respectable saloon on Chicago's South Side, thanks to strict house rules from which he wavered, not once. Irishman McNicholas was never known to serve a man more than the amount of drink that was good for him, didn't allow a woman in the place, and closed up promptly every night at 11:45.

Young Marty Durkin got no blarney whatsoever when he bearded McNicholas for permission to keep steady company with his pretty daughter. Barney probably had heard about Martin's reputation. Mrs. Durkin smiles now. "All the boys in the neighborhood used to ask him how he could still stand up at the bar after all the soft drinks he put away."

Brown-eyed and petite Ann Durkin talks about girlhood days in a soft, pleasing voice with only the barest suggestion of a brogue. Although a mother and grandmother herself, she has no trouble recalling the happy and close-knit family life in the apartment over the saloon where her father brought up his brood of five. "It was probably because mother died when we were so young," she recalls, "that Dad was so strict about our upbringing."

Monastery For Son
 Likewise today, the Durkin family is a pretty close corporation. Their two married sons and families, plus school son Jack, 19, wouldn't think of missing Saturday night Durkin tradition—the family dinner party.

After dinner the boys talk over labor matters with their Dad. Both married sons are laboring men and Durkin is proud that they have followed his trade of steamfitter (they are installers of air-conditioning equipment). Son Jack, a talented painter in oils, hopes to enter the Trappist Monastery soon.

Devoutly Catholic
 The family is devoutly Catholic. A glass-enshrined replica of the famed Infant Jesus of Prague statue claims a place of honor in the hallway; nearer the living room, reverent prominence is given to a wall crucifix. The Secretary and his son Jack are daily Mass-goers. On weekdays Mrs. Durkin remains at home to have a hot breakfast waiting for them.

In 1948 the Durkins went to Europe, where Durkin was a delegate to the International Labor Organization meeting in Geneva. Slight-seeing virtually was limited to week ends, but for Mrs. Durkin and Ireland it was a case of love at first sight. She was pleased to discover a number of relatives.

Lives In Danger
 Mrs. Durkin reveals she didn't learn, until a lot later, how precarious her early married life was. Her husband's life was threatened several times when gangsters were trying to take over the local of which he was business agent. But she knew nothing of it at the time. Durkin saw to that.

"He was not afraid of them. I guess that's the only way to deal with those fellows. If you are a little scared they just use you," says Mrs. Durkin proudly about the man she married 32 years ago.

The title—giving a tenth of produce to the Church—began in ancient times as a government tax and was later extended to religion.

Mrs. Martin Durkin: "All those soft drinks he put away . . ."

Daddy Ringtail And So Help Me Hannah!

The Big Bruiser had gone away from the Great Forest. He had come back to the city to live. With the Big Bruiser gone away, there was no one left in the forest to bruise people. I mean there was no one left but the Big Bruiser's cousin, Huffy Tuffy.

Huffy Tuffy liked to bruise people, he said. He said it to Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy.

"Do tell," said Mugwump.

"Dat I will," said Huffy Tuffy. He was very Huffy and very Tuffy. "I likes to bruise people," Huffy Tuffy said.

"Humph!" said Mugwump. "You don't even know how to talk. It's because you haven't gone to school."

"Dat I haven't, dat I haven't," said Huffy Tuffy. He said maybe he didn't know how to talk, but he knew how to bruise, and he was going to bruise right now. He was going to bruise our Mugwump.

"You'd better not," said Mugwump. "Hannah won't like it, if you bruise me."

Mugwump explained that Hannah was a secret friend of his. Hannah was invisible. Nobody could see her. Nobody but Mugwump, I mean. And Hannah wouldn't talk so anybody else could hear her but Mugwump.

"Let's hear you say something to her," said Huffy Tuffy.

Mugwump said it. Said he: "Hannah, you wouldn't like it at all—would you—if Huffy Tuffy bruised me."

"I don't hear nuttin'," said Huffy.

"But I heard her," said Mugwump. "and she said you had better behave yourself, because if you don't—so help me Hannah—we'll attend to you."

The BIBLE

By WESLEY DAVIS

"I didn't hear her say it. I didn't hear nuttin'," said Huffy.

"Close your eyes to hear better with," said Mugwump, and Huffy closed his eyes to hear Hannah talk.

"Bam!"

Mugwump had picked up a bamstick and bammed real hard over Huffy's head.

"I heard her dat time," said Huffy. "I heard her dat time." He thought he had really heard Hannah, and away he hurried, never to bother anyone else, all the rest of that very fine day. Happy day!

Texan Teaches Skiing Safety To Yanks Occupying Germany

By GRACE HALSELL
Special Reporter-Telegram
Correspondent

BERCHTESGARDEN, GERMANY—A Texan, Sgt. Eugene W. Huddleston, is an instructor in a school unique in Europe.

It is the Berchtesgarden Ski Safety School.

The school is the only chapter of the National Ski Patrol System of America outside the U. S. A.

Purpose of the school is to teach patrolmen speed in getting to the scene of a ski accident, how to give the victim rudimentary first aid and get him to a spot where complete medical attention can be administered.

As an instructor in standard and advanced first aid, Sergeant Huddleston proved so invaluable that he was made a National Ski Patrolman, certified out of headquarters in Denver.

Nothing To It

Learning to ski for the Texan was a simple matter.

"Anyone who can walk can ski," the most of the German ski experts, had started at the age of four or five, but not this Cameron native.

"I just took it up a year ago," he announced casually.

"Nothing to it," he adds.

His sports career first began in Waco, where he was a star for the Waco High School Tigers under Coach Paul Tyson and Henry Prenting, and for the track team under R. B. Keithley.

"We won a few meets," he recalled.

Moving to Fort Worth, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Huddleston still reside, Eugene attended Polytechnic High, where he played ball for the Poly Parrots, and at Texas Christian for the Horned Frogs.

Plays Professionally

In 1939, he turned pro going with the Washington Redskins. With the Army in 1941, he played ball and coached at Fort Sam Houston.

As coach at the Deming, N. M., Air Base, he had among his players Norm Standlee All-American from Stanford, Harold (Legs) Ender, eight years with the Philadelphia Eagles, and Monk Heller, All-American from Michigan.

With the 29th Bomb Group, Huddleston "made a few missions" in the Pacific Theater, then in 1947, he coached the Schofield Redlanders of Hawaii before becoming Football Commissioner for the Central Area of Japan.

In 1951, the Texan came to Europe and in Munich was made a recreational supervisor. His duties include instructing swimming, life-saving, first-aid and skiing safety.

Sergeant Huddleston's wife is the former Leona Guildry of Marshall. The couple has three children, Charles, seven, Jeannie, 10, and Elaine, 13. They are all attending the American school in Munich.

THEY'RE ALL YANKEE FANS— Brownells Say Family Life Must Be Full Of Fun, Work

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A good osteopath is one cabinet wife's remedy for the current Republican pace.

And it could be that another member of the town's officialdom thinks so, too. Mrs. Herbert Brownell, Jr., confides she got the doctor's name from Oreta Culp Hobby, new Federal Security Administrator.

Mrs. Brownell, the outspoken, reddish-brown-haired wife of the Attorney General, says that since Inauguration Day invitations have been arriving at the rate of 15 to 20 a week, the phone hasn't stopped ringing and the social whirl is just about the fastest she's ever seen.

Husband Too Busy

Even though cabinet wives automatically become top ranking hostesses, the Brownells so far have cut partying to the official bone. After her husband finishes his regular 9 to 6:30 p.m. hours, he's been bringing cases home to study and is usually on them until after midnight, his wife explains.

Any stepping out they've done to date has been of an official nature. A good politician's spouse, Doris Brownell likes all kinds of entertaining, but embassy parties will be something new and she's looking forward to them. Partial to Greek food, she plans to RSVP her first invitation from that embassy country in a hurry.

Glib Texas

Green-eyed and dimlutive, Mrs. Brownell packs a personality like a Texas oil well. She's dynamic but a good listener, and speaks with the remnants of a soft Texas drawl, a hand-me-down despite 20 years of Manhattan living.

Like most mothers with a couple of boys, Mrs. Brownell knows a lot more about third baseman's mitts than she does about butlers. Baseball is something the Brownells can't get along without. The family had a season box at Yankee Stadium last year, where they turned out for nearly every home game.

All Yank Fans

"That was our vacation," declares Mrs. Brownell. "We didn't go away for the Summer. I love baseball games. I have all my life."

Mrs. Brownell guesses they will attend a lot of games here — "but will always be Yankee fans."

The offspring in question—Joan, 17; Ann, 14; Tom, 12, and Jim, nine, are a closely knit band but at the same time an amazingly self-reliant bunch of individuals.

Allowance Problem

Allowances are forked out on a sliding age scale beginning at five years and 10 cents a week. There are automatic increases on certain birthdays, but this part of the family banking is between the children and their father.

The Family Chores

The boys can wield a dish rag with their sisters as well as a baseball bat. Usually, family chores are not parceled out ahead of time. The youngsters have grown up to feel that being part of a family is just like being part of a community—the idea being to chip in and do anything that will help the household along.

The girls mend and keep up their own clothes under Mrs. Brownell's supervision. Out of her allowance, Joan buys her clothes as well as school supplies and pays for recreational activities. She's been doing her own shopping since she was 13.

Family Nights

Date curfews for their eldest daughter may change in Washington, the cabinet wife admits. Currently, however, the New York schedule holds—Joan is home shortly after midnight on Friday and Saturday, the two nights she's permitted to go dancing or to the movies with an escort.

Sunday is family night around the radio. Birthdays are always big Brownell events. Festivities start with the cocktail hour (fruit juice for the children) and everybody dons a silly hat before being admitted to dinner where there's a present for everyone—a big one for the person whose birthday it is and a little one for everybody else.

Probably the most family fun are the music sessions, where Mrs. Brownell mans the record player and Tom pretends his Caruso to compete with Joan's imitation of Lily Pons.

And when the Gilbert and Sullivan album comes out, there's no holding the Attorney General. It is a sure signal for him to cut loose with some first rate chorus work.

Tornados are especially common and violent in the Mississippi Valley, but are known in other places such as Australia and Europe.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
Hunting Editor

When I was a kid, I felt the luckiest lad in town was a boy named Eddie. He owned a beagle hound. It wasn't a champion, and I suspect there were several bars sinister on its breeding, but it was lively little pooch, and it would run rabbits all day if there were any rabbits to run. And there were in those days.

One of the highlights of that adolescent period was to get off with Eddie and his dog, down near White Island Pond back of Plymouth, Mass. Not because we ever bagged a large mess of rabbits there, or because we liked hasenpfeffer at that stage of life, but just to watch—and listen to—that little hound as he shagged cotton-tails from one brush pile to the next.

The shotshell manufacturers tell us that some 29.6 per cent of their hulls are sold to rabbit hunters—and a goodly percentage of them must be successful, because all the statistics about rabbit kills are in terms of million of pounds of tender eating meat.

Down on the Eastern Shore of Maryland some years back we gunned for ducks until the season closed on December 31, and then celebrated New Year's day with a rabbit hunt. I don't recall the name of the beagle working for us, but it should have been indefatigable. He investigated every brush pile in the county until our coats were bagged full. He finally took off after a fox and stayed out for two days.

Whether you kick out the bunnies yourself or have a dog to start them with, missing rabbits is a cinch for the confirmed bird shooter. The shotgunner who operates most of the time on flushed game is accustomed to a rising target, ordinarily one that flies in a reasonably straight or at least predictable line—and his shooting ego can be deflated abruptly by a target that runs in fits and starts, bounces and bobbles, and dives into the brambles with all the careless grace of a New Yorker ducking into a subway entrance.

Furthermore, the birdshooter's gun ordinarily is stocked to throw its shot charge a mile high, to take care of the rising flight of his target. Time after time, he'll splutter his shot charge across the ground over the back of a cottontail. I suspect the great majority of rabbits that are quartered for stew are killed by farm-raised youngsters out with Gramp's old double-barrel—just the ticket for blowing over Brer Cottontail.

mouth, Mass. Not because we ever bagged a large mess of rabbits there, or because we liked hasenpfeffer at that stage of life, but just to watch—and listen to—that little hound as he shagged cotton-tails from one brush pile to the next.

Leaky Pipe Lines Put Rio De Janeiro In Throes Of Thirst

By STANFORD BRADSHAW
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Rio de Janeiro has water, water almost everywhere around it, but sometimes not enough to drink.

At fault, authorities say, are the city's major conduits and pipe-lines. They are old, clogged and liable to breaks.

This means they cannot carry full pressure. When the load is stepped up, a pipe line bursts. The neighborhood at the end of the line, or on a side street, is left without water.

One city engineer even estimates that 40 per cent of all the water the municipality pumps from the Paraíba River or mountain reservoirs is lost through pipe line waste after it reaches the city.

New Social Calls

The situation in Copacabana, Ipanema and Leblon is complicated by the fact that demand there runs about seven million gallons ahead of the supply.

This lack of water has led to a new type of social call, the "bathing visit." If a couple has friends in a more fortunate zone, they go over to take a bath. They provide their own towels, however.

The lack of water poses a much graver problem—that of fire. Sometimes, fire hoses must be extended five or six blocks to reach a hydrant with water.

Water Merchants

Water merchants have come into existence in the areas most seriously affected.

They cart in barrels of water and sell it out in small quantities. A three-gallon can costs 10 cruzeiros (50 cent). A barrel can be purchased for 300 cruzeiros ($15).

Some families used bottled mineral water for cooking or drinking. That way, they are assured of a minimum supply. But it's expensive, too.

"Spring Near Paris"
By Raymond Thibesart

Raymond Thibesart, now 76 years of age, was born in Bar Sur Aube, France, and when barely 18 years of age he went to Paris to study at the Atelier of Jules Lefebvre, a strict and severe master of the rendition of light and distance.

Thibesart's vocation was interrupted by illness a few years, but upon regaining his health, he resumed his studies of painting, this time alone—far from the influence of other artists—in order to retain his own impressions in translating space and nature through a luminous atmosphere.

His impressions are taken from the delicate and gracious surroundings of the Ile de France, along the sloping terrain through which the Seine River gently flows after leaving Paris. Thibesart has devoted his talent to the misty and capricious effects of light on fruit trees which bloom so profusely in the Springtime over the region where his Summer home is located, a few miles from St. Germain en Laye.

Czech Refugees Attribute Gottwald Death To Unusual Disease: Hanged Wrong Man

BY LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—President Clement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia seems to have died of a disease fairly common among Communist leaders. He couldn't "see" the right candidates in the Kremlin power struggle. Anti-Communist Czech refugees here doubt Gottwald's sudden death upon his return from the funeral of Joseph Stalin in Moscow was due to natural causes.

Top Reds Jailed
They see a remarkable resemblance to the sudden passing of Bulgaria's Premier Georgi Dimitroff several years ago. Like Dimitroff, they said, Gottwald was something of a "national" Communist—and therefore a potential Tito.

These sources said Gottwald backed V. M. Molotov in the jockeying for position around Stalin. They told this story which sheds interesting light on the circumstances surrounding the Prague treason trials of last year: After keeping 14 top Czech Communists in jail for almost a year, Gottwald suddenly brought

Beria Outraged
One Moscow official did more than catch his breath. He caught a train as soon as he heard about the trial. He was Lavrenti P. Beria, chief of the Soviet secret police and now No. 2 man in Georgi Malenkov's new Red regime.

Beria was outraged because one of the defendants was Rudolf Slansky, General Secretary of the Czech Communist Party and a strong supporter of Malenkov and Beria. One of the charges against Slansky was that he plotted to poison Gottwald.

While Beria was rushing to rescue his henchman, Gottwald's hangman ended the argument—for the moment.

Hangman Wins
It developed later that Gottwald had given Molotov a fill-in on his plans to execute Slansky and the others. But the hangman sprang a surprise on the current two top men of Russia when he sprang the trap on Slansky.

Gottwald, in common with other satellite leaders, went to Moscow and attended the funeral of Stalin. Photographs show him among the mourners apparently hale and hearty. He was given billing just behind Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Kremlin protocol.

On his return to Prague, Gottwald reviewed a military body-guard. At that point he still appeared healthy.

Two days later he was dead.

The Real Disease
The official Communist obit said Gottwald had been given the best possible treatment by Soviet as well as Czech physicians. They said that he had contracted pneumonia at Moscow and that an autopsy disclosed blood in his chest, indicating tuberculosis.

Czechs here recalled that Dimitroff also had been taken care of by Soviet doctors after being suspected of plotting a Balkan federation with Tito. The disease of "nationalism" is almost always fatal in top Communist circles.

They said Gottwald's death leaves once-democratic Czechoslovakia firmly in the grip of the Beria-run secret-police.

Spirited Walking Helps Figure In Addition To Your Disposition

Do you have a woebegone walk or do you seem to face up life?

A shuffling, spiritless walk, with your head drooping and you knees like water, can make worthless the time and money you've invested in clothes because the figure you bought them for isn't there any more. All your best beauty points are wasted when you don't move gracefully.

To get yourself into line, concentrate on your rib cage. Stand with feet together and take several deep, slow breaths, until you feel your waistline pulled up out of your stomach.

Then walk off with feet pointed straight ahead, moving your legs from the hips, and your chin at a right angle to your body. Pick up your foot very definitely before you set it down again to avoid any tendency to drag. Let your feet strike the ground very light, heels first.

As you walk, feel your head is touching the sky or that you are displaying a badge of honor on your chest or balancing a pail of water on your head. Any trick of this kind when borne in mind will do wonders to help you walk beautifully.

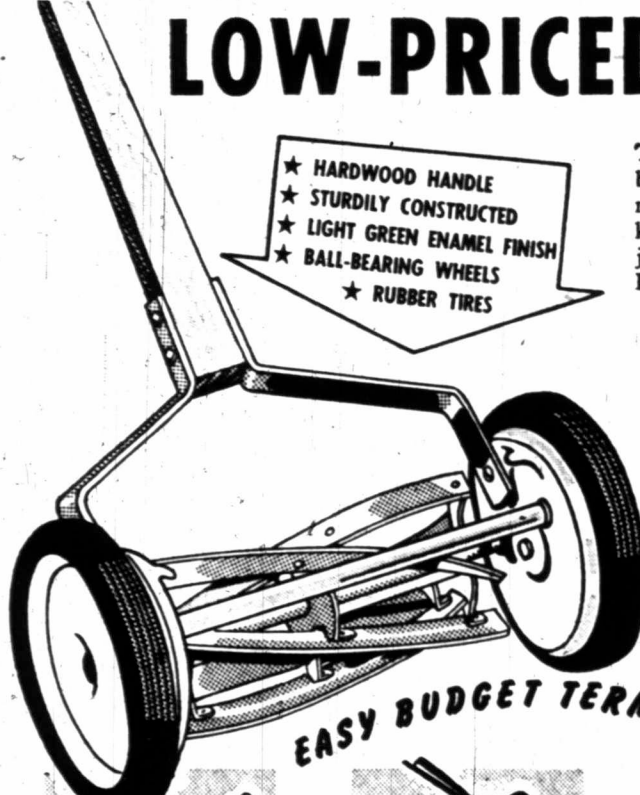

Walking habitually in thin-soled shoes tends to cause arches to sag and callouses to form. The soles of one pair of walking shoes, at least, should be thick enough to cushion the foot and absorb the shock of walking on unyielding pavement.
