The Secret Of Power Over Weaknesses

AT A RECENT LUNCHEON, I SAT next to the president of a small steel company. We talked about a number of things and I found him most interesting. Finally, he said to me, "Really, you and I are in businesses which aren't too different."

"How?" I asked.

"Well," he replied, "I make steel for people and you put steel into people."

He went on to illustrate his point by telling me about a man whom he called his "most difficult personnel problem." The man was, he said, the best man with a slide rule who had ever worked for him. But he had a weakness, a serious weakness. He was an alcoholic and far gone in his illness.

"I was forced to let him go a half dozen times," the president told me, "for drunkenness and neglect of his duties. But I hired him back every time. His ability was so extraordinary that I was willing to make a good many allowances to hold him. But finally it became just too much. And then it occurred to me that there was a laboratory just down my street where they specialize in such cases. And that laboratory was my own church."

SO HE SENT THIS MAN to see his pastor and the pastor worked with him. Other people in the church helped, particularly two men who stuck to him drunk or sober. There were difficulties, failures and discouragements, but finally they succeeded in helping this alcoholic to get free from his trouble. Whatever the missing ingredient in his personality had been, the ingredient which prevented him from being strong and fighting against his weakness, it had been supplied. "You see," my friend said, as he finished his story, "you do more than make steel—you put steel into people. Isn't it a wonderful thing that men can go to church and find the secret of power over their weaknesses?"

Well, material was thrilled by this story and I thought about it a good deal since then. The characterization made by the steel man for giving people strength is an accurate one. In my own church, I can list the names of scores of people who found strength enough there to conquer their weaknesses. I remember how weak they were, how defeated, how utterly hopeless—until they found that priceless ingredient of strength which the church offers.

IT MAKES NO DIFFERENCE WHAT weaknesses any one of us may have, how long we have suffered from them, or how long we have struggled against them. We can find power over our weaknesses. The Bible describes people who find this power in some wonderful words: "Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong."

Here is a simple but effective method of attack on weaknesses. First, want, really want, to lick them. Then make up your mind that you are going to conquer your weaknesses right now. And that decisive mental attitude is the beginning of the end of your failures. Once you have made that decision, once you really want personal victory, you are the master of your own fate. Then spiritual techniques can operate in you and soon the weaknesses will have no more power over you.

ONCE YOU HAVE MADE UP your mind, you have made a beginning. But you will need help if you are to continue strong. By admitting your weakness to yourself, you have started the process of becoming strong. Faith will help you believe you can overcome it. That will make you stronger still. The practice of faith drives off negative attitudes and summons powerful positive forces to your aid.

With the admission of your weakness and faith that you can overcome it, pray for guidance, go to your church, and in this way you will find the help you need. Give your problems to God and believe that as His power flows through you, you are now weakest. That's an amazing thing, but it's true. I have seen it happen in case after case.

Start now, today, to win your victory over all your weaknesses. (Copyright 1953, Post-Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Reds Shut Off Allied PW Returns

Morse Sets Talking Record In Filibuster On Tidelands

WASHINGTON —(AP)—An implied threat to hold a Sunday session next week if the submerged offshore lands bill is not disposed of in round-the-clock Senate meetings starting Monday was voiced Saturday by Senator Taft (R-Ohio).

After an all-night session that began Friday morning and produced a new marathon speaking record by Senator Morse (Ind-Or), Taft Saturday agreed to recess at 4 p.m., "until 11 a.m. tomorrow."

Senator Douglas (D-Ill) reminded the Republican leader that "tomorrow" was Sunday and asked if he did not believe in the biblical reference to devoting the seventh day to rest.

Taft replied that he believed in it this week but was "not so sure about next week," and agreed to recess until 11 a.m. Monday. The session that started at 11 a.m. Friday ended at 3:49 p.m. Saturday.

Senator Jackson (D-Wash), an opponent of the bill to establish state ownership of the oil-rich offshore lands, sometimes erroneously called the "Tidelands," predicted a final vote might come by Thursday or Friday. All-night sessions are planned this week.

The last Sunday session was June 20, 1948, when the Senate started out Friday morning and remained in session until 7:14 a.m. Sunday.

30 Men Killed In Burning Mexican Mine; 60 Trapped

MEXICO CITY —(AP)—A silver mine called "The Light" was the dark tomb Saturday night of an estimated 50 to 60 miners trapped underground by a cave-in and fire.

Thirty bodies have been recovered. Huge bonfires and torchlights illuminated the area at midnight and cast weaving shadows as thousands of men, women and children aided in rescue efforts or moved about seeing information on trapped men.

The disaster scene is near Anganguaco, Michoacan, about 200 miles southwest of Mexico City. The mine is operated by the American Smelting Company and produces silver and zinc.

The tragedy was touched off by a cave-in just minutes before the miners were to have laid off for the weekend. The cave-in caused an electrical short circuit, setting fire to the mine.

All available doctors, nurses, ambulances and rescue equipment from a score of nearby towns were rushed to the scene. First to arrive came from Zitacuaro, the closest large city.

The Red Cross, Army, and all civilian resources were ordered placed at the disposal of rescue leaders.

One Call Never Is Enough

Merchants have got to make you want to "come back and see us."

Sure, you advertise to our old friends—as a service—but also to invite new friends. But we know—and you know—that if you came "to see us" once... and never came back... that's no good.

That's why advertisers always give you superior values and service. They know they must "make good."

Are we saying what you want to know in our ads? That is the purpose of the Community Survey.

Incidentally a brand new Survey starts TODAY. Clip the Survey form appearing in this issue of The Reporter-Telegram and fill it in daily through Friday. Then mail it to The Reporter-Telegram. Letters also are appreciated.

Action Comes As New Truce Parleys Begin

PANMUNJOM —(AP)—The Reds released 13 American and 71 South Korean disabled prisoners of war Sunday and told the UN Command they were through delivering sick and wounded Allied captives.

Though the Red share of the historic wartime exchange of disabled POW's was finished, UN and Communist delegates revived the long-suspended truce talks in full dress session Sunday afternoon.

The 13 Americans returned to freedom on this seventh morning of the exchange brought to 149 the total of Americans released by the Reds since the dramatic trade began last Monday.

In all, the Communists delivered 684 Allied captives in the exchange. They promised before it started to return 605.

An Allied spokesman said the Red control officer Sunday informed Col. Edward L. Austin, UN control officer for the exchange, "We have finished delivering prisoners."

The UN Command told the Reds it would deliver 500 disabled POW's to them Monday.

The UN Command is returning 5,800 POW's to the Reds in daily groups of 500.

Two veterans of North Korean POW camps were among the Americans returned Sunday.

One was Air Force Capt. Zachary Dean, Douglas, Kan., an F-81 Mustang fighter pilot shot down April 22, 1951, by Red anti-aircraft fire. Dean said he bailed out of his damaged plane at about 4,000 feet and that his parachute opened only moments before he hit the ground.

The other was artillery Capt. M. (Continued on Page 10)

President Sees Hope In New Moscow Statement On Peace

WASHINGTON —(AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday interpreted Moscow's latest peace statement as a possible sign Russia may be ready to do "something concrete" about making settlements with the Western world.

The President's reaction was disclosed by Press Secretary James Hagerty who issued a statement which at the outset made clear that it reflected Eisenhower's views. Hagerty began by saying that he had "talked with the President" and had an editorial in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda.

This might be a "first step toward something concrete," Hagerty said, and if it is, the Kremlin will find the United States and other free nations "ready to work unceasingly for peace."

The Russian statement, which also was published in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, declared Russia is ready to enter into "business-like" discussions with the West to end great controversies. It made plain, however, that the Soviets are not retreating on their foreign policy.

Here is the White House statement:

"I have talked with the President about the Pravda editorial. "Its milder tone is a welcome change from the usual vituperation against the United States and the free world."

It is "also significant that the world-wide interest in the President's April 16 peace speech caused the Soviet leaders to re-

Midland Elected Host City For 1954 Lions Convention

ODESSA — Midland will be host to the 1954 convention of District 2-7-2, Lions International, it was decided here Saturday by members attending the annual conference of the huge West Texas district.

The state convention will be held in connection with the 1954 district convocation. The Midland Lions Club will be the host organization.

Midland was selected by unanimous vote after Pecos and Colorado City had withdrawn their invitations, stating they would seek the 1955 convention.

Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, extended Midland's invitation for next year's state and district convocations.

The choosing of Midland as the convention city came during a day highlighted by the selection of R. A. Lipscomb of Wink, superintendent of Wink schools, as district governor.

His victory over Jack Y. Smith of Big Spring was announced at the district governor's banquet Saturday night in the Lincoln Hotel.

Approximately 300 persons attended the banquet which honored George W. Spence of Yaletta, the retiring governor. Ken Edmond of Odessa presided.

Monroe L. Nute of Pennsylvania, second vice president of Lions International, was the principal speaker at the banquet.

The Wink Club received a loving cup for having 100 per cent attendance at the Saturday luncheon here and the El Paso Five Points Club received a cup for having the largest delegation coming the greatest distance.

During a talent show, top honors went to the "Sickly Six—Minus One" — a popular hubbly-umbly ensemble of Midland High School youngsters.

Upton Votes Water Issue

RANKIN — A proposed $360,000 Upton County bond issue, which will finance water supplies for Rankin, barely won approval here Saturday in a special election.

The water development program principally will provide water for county parks here but it also will be available for domestic consumption.

The proposal carried by a vote of 344 to 306, with the lopsided affirmative vote in Rankin meaning the difference.

The two Rankin boxes plus the one at the Phillips Camp gave 217 votes in favor of the proposal with 20 against. McCamey's three boxes, on the other hand, reported only 124 affirmative votes and 283 negative.

The result of the election meant the death of a proposal to create a water district in North Upton County, a proposal which already had received one setback following a trial here last month in district court.

Mother Of Three Tucks Away First $40 Ad Survey Award

A Midland housewife, just barely a "city limiter," has netted $40 just because she read her newspaper and answered an advertising preference survey. She's Mrs. William L. Liles, 404 West George Avenue, who is the first winner in the Community Survey now being conducted by The Reporter-Telegram.

"I could hardly believe it when they told me I'd won," Mrs. Liles, mother of three children, beamed. "But as soon as I realized what had happened, I started 'spending' that $40. It really will come in handy."

Second-place winner for the week was W. H. Measurs, Wadley Ward Field, Route 2, Midland, whose

South Koreans Jam Streets In Protest At Truce Talks

SEOUL —(AP)—Thousands of South Koreans Sunday jammed the streets of this war-battered city in mass demonstrations against armistice negotiations, resuming at Panmunjom.

Shortly before the resumption of the full-dress talks, the courtyard and streets in front of the shell-battered Capitol were a solid mass of people.

Hundreds of others kept pouring into the area. There were chanting students, brightly dressed young mothers with their babies shawled to the backs and men on crutches with mock bandages around their heads.

On every available bit of space

COMMUNITY SURVEY WINNER—Mrs. William L. Liles, 404 West George Avenue, receives her $40 check from Perry Pickett, former mayor, after being named first week winner in The Reporter-Telegram's advertising preference survey.

What type of ad do you like? "I like ads that show pictures of the merchandise for sale — not those that just talk about it," she answered. "And I like to see those prices in the ad. It's not much fun to see what looks like a bargain and have to go all the way to the store only to find it's just too high priced. Merchants ought to give the price when they advertise an item."

The Liles have lived within the Midland city limits only a month and a half. They lived in the Texas Company Camp near Midland about two years before moving to the city. Mr. Liles is an employe at the Magnolia Gasoline Plant.

They have three children, Mike, five-months old, Diana, 18 months old and an "old timer," three-and-a-half-year-old "Scooter."

Mrs. Liles assured a Reporter-Telegram reporter she will keep entering her selections in the Community Survey throughout its duration.

Skeletons Of 200 Air Raid Victims Found

BERLIN —(AP)—Workers clearing away rubble Saturday found the skeletons of 200 victims of a giant Allied air raid buried in what had been a department store. City officials said a mass funeral would be held Tuesday.

All means of identification had disappeared.

NO MAIL-ORDER HONOR FOR HIM

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—William Burford, 26, a Dallas poet who also teaches creative writing at SMU, was named one of three winners of $50 awards in a national poetry contest sponsored by the Philadelphia Art Alliance.

The awards were given out Friday night but, because of the distance, the Alliance presumed Burford would receive his $50 prize by mail.

Not so, wired the Dallas bard. So he came to Philadelphia by air. The cost of a roundtrip ticket was $142.95.

LISTENS TO VOICES—Joan of Lorraine (Becky Huff) hears the voices of St. Catherine and St. Michael in Midland Community Theater's production which opens Friday. Maxwell Anderson's version of the immortal story is played on a bare stage, and, for the most part, in "rehearsal" clothes.

'Joan Of Lorraine' Opens Four-Day Run Next Friday

The Midland Community Theater will present "Joan of Lorraine" by Maxwell Anderson at the City-Country Auditorium starting next Friday and continuing through Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. A special performance for negroes will be given Thursday. The box office in the auditorium will be open for theatre members Wednesday from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 9 p.m. The Anderson version of the immortal story of Joan of Arc is played on a bare stage as a company of modern actors rehearse a play about Joan. The conflict between the actress Mary Grey, played by Becky Huff, and the director, Jimmy Master, played by Jim Fanning, over the interpretation of the character of Joan affords a fine opportunity for the author to link the moral problems of Joan with the dilemmas

Marion Davies Says Party Tab Belonged To Caterer Himself

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Marion Davies says the man who's suing her for expenses of a fancy party she tossed last October promised to pay them himself after she granted him use of her home.

Nightclub owner Charlie Morrison sued the former actress for $12,000 Thursday, charging she didn't pay him for catering the food and drink. The lavish affair honored newlyweds Marilyn Morrison, his daughter, and singer Johnny Ray, since parted.

Miss Davies said Friday Morrison asked her if, "in view of our long friendship," he could use her home, with Morrison to pay expenses. Morrison "felt the success of the party would be augmented by my sponsorship," she said, and "I gladly complied with this flattering request." She said she was "astounded" when asked to pay.

Jurors Free Youth Who Killed Father

HOUSTON—(AP)—The Harris County grand jury has no-billed David Medina, 18, in the death of his father.

The youth told police he beat his father with a wooden chair after his father stabbed his mother 20 times. Merced Reyes Medina, 45, died Monday two hours after being taken to a hospital. The mother still is hospitalized.

The dogs were in the station Friday while Braasch was outside, washing a car. When he went to get change for a customer he discovered his dog's income, $42, missing from the till. Both dogs were asleep.

Soviet Chiefs Would Exact Bitter Price In Return For World Accord

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

The Soviet government, in a most spectacular way, has all but openly asked for a top-level meeting between Washington and Kremlin leaders, but it advances the demand for world collaboration which eventually would turn out to be wholly unacceptable to the West.

In its mammoth statement in Pravda, mouthpiece of the Kremlin, the regime of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov deliberately has put forward the impression that Joseph Stalin and his works have been thrust aside and forgotten so far as international relations are concerned. But the text gives no such assurance. In fact, the impression it gives is just the reverse—that the USSR intends in the long run not to give an inch.

The full-page Pravda statement was a blunt reassertion of the peace offensive initiative from the United States in the wake of President Eisenhower's recent strong statement and the widespread welcome given to it. But the statement repeated other aims, too.

Echo Of Past Policy

There is virtually nothing in the statement—new though the words may sound—which is not an echo of past Soviet policy. The softening note is the official admission in the beginning that there were allies fighting with the USSR against Hitler in World War II. From there on, the statement is a poorly veiled recitation of the Soviet stand on international issues ever since the beginning of the cold war.

The AP correspondent in Moscow specifically cautions, in his dispatch, not to look upon this statement as a Pravda editorial. What it really seems to be, he says, is "a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union" in response to President Eisenhower's address.

It will be studied carefully in Washington and West European capitals, where it cannot but stir the suspicion that the Malenkov regime still is playing for time, but has no intention of giving up what the USSR has grabbed in these last eight years, still entrenching itself internally and in the empire, says it will not enter any discussion on unconditional terms. It says it will make no preliminary demands, but adds that of course, it has claims.

Here are some of the claims:

1. Communist China must be admitted into the United Nations, and Formosa must be turned over to the Chinese Communist regime.
2. West Germany must be demilitarized and there will be discussion of unity only on Soviet terms—that is, discussion first of a peace treaty uniting all Germany, then of withdrawal of occupation forces, leaving a neutralized vacuum in the heartland of Europe, at the mercy of Communist expansion.
3. Recognition of the Soviet claim that it does not dominate and control all the European satellite Communist nations.
4. Recognition of the Soviet claim that it is innocent of any fifth column activities in "colonial and semi-colonial countries" and admission by the West that all revolutionary manifestations in these areas are simply nationalist "liberation movements."
5. Removal of trade obstacles which have been pinching the Communist world.

Breakup Of EDC

8. Acceptance of Soviet terms on and Austrian independent treaty. Pravda says this would be on "democratic" line, and in the Communist glossary, "democratic" means Soviet.

9. The breakup of the European Defense Community.

After laying down all these terms, the statement then says "the Soviet leaders will welcome any step of the U. S. government or any other country if it is directed toward a friendly settlement of contentious questions."

"This," says the statement, "testifies to the readiness of the Soviet side for a serious businesslike discussion of problems both by direct negotiations and, when necessary, within the framework of the United Nations."

This seems a bid to the top-level meeting. With the conditions laid down, such a meeting could hardly turn out to be anything more than another interminable debate in which the USSR once again would attempt to picture itself to the world as the only bulwark of peace.

Meanwhile, such a meeting would have a profound effect upon Western European and even American politics and economics. It would go far toward knocking the props out from under the European Defense Community once for all in Western Europe, and it would also go far toward including the United States and Britain to let down their guards. Such a meeting might even lead to a period of temporary peace.

Rather Poor Smokescreen

But the Soviet Union would gain valuable time while at the same time disarming and weakening the Western world.

The statement definitely abrogates Stalin's leadership. In speaking of the speeches of the top Soviet leaders March 9, it does not even mention that the occasion was the funeral of Stalin. The name of Stalin is not mentioned even once. But there is mention of the "beginning or end of an era."

In this, the statement says that the disappearance of any person from the scene does not mean that the Soviet foreign policy had not been "correct." That is—Stalin is gone, forgotten, but Soviet foreign policy remains the same. If the policy is the same now as it was before, the whole Pravda statement stands out clearly as a rather poor smokescreen. If anything comes of it, the chances are that it will be temporary.

Byrd Says Budget Slash Is Feasible

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Byrd (D-Va.) said Saturday the Eisenhower Administration can cut the budget $6,800,000,000 without trimming military combat strength but must keep taxes high to escape a deficit.

The Virginia Democrat, long a voice of economy in Congress, offered a budget of $71,800,000,000, about nine per cent under the $78,600,000,000 in spending recommended by former President Truman.

Although the Eisenhower Administration has yet to come up with its own figures, Byrd, chairman of the Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Expenditures, said the books can't be balanced for the year beginning next July 1 if Congress lets automatic tax reductions take effect.

The excess profits tax will go off business firms on July 1 and individual income levies will go down 10 per cent next January unless Congress acts.

Asserting that it would be "folly" to let this happen, Byrd proposed that both taxes be extended until July 1, 1954, a position Senator Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, indicated he might support.

No Military Weakness

Byrd said he planned his proposed budget cuts so that they would involve no reduction in either major military procurement or armed force strength.

He proposed that military expenditures be limited to the $42,900,000,000 of the current fiscal year. Instead of being stepped up to $45,400,000,000 requested by Truman—a saving in this instance of $2,500,000,000.

The Virginian figured domestic-civilian spending should total $24,200,000,000, a cut of $1,400,000,000 under the Truman estimates. He listed total foreign aid expenditures of $4,700,000,000, or $2,900,000,000 under Truman's figure.

To help revenues close the gap against outlays, Byrd proposed that government corporations, like the RFC, dispose of one billion in assets and turn the money into the Treasury.

Body Of Drowned Officer Recovered

FORT HOOD — (AP) — The body of Lt. James Baggett, who was washed into flooded Cowhouse Creek early Friday, was recovered Saturday.

Baggett and three other officers, all of North Fort Hood, attempted to cross the swollen creek about 6:30 a.m. in a private car. The car stalled in about eight inches of water over a concrete ford.

The car began to move. As Baggett and another officer tried to jump to safety the car lurched and knocked them into deep water. The other swam to safety about a quarter-mile downstream.

Community Cotton Meeting Scheduled At Saint Lawrence

GARDEN CITY — A meeting of cotton farmers in the St. Lawrence community of Glascock County is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the St. Lawrence store. County Agent Oliver F. West announced Saturday.

West, who will conduct the session, said the subject of discussion will be pink bollworm control. R. B. Badger of Big Spring, Division of Pink Bollworm Control, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, will speak.

West will discuss control of other cotton insects and will review the latest information on insecticides. He will speak on the cotton outlook for 1953-54 and will show a movie and slides on the life cycles of various insects and the damage they do to cotton.

All cotton farmers in the community and the surrounding area are invited to attend the meeting.

Ghosts Live Again As POW's Recall First Months Of War

By ROBERT EUNSON
MUNSAN, KOREA—(AP)—The ghosts of dead men, the sound and fury of old battles, lived again last week as returned Allied prisoners slipped the shroud of secrecy from 30 months of captivity.

And beneath the shroud the Allies found something ugly and sinister that they knew was there all the time—the brutality of Communist captors, particularly in the early days of the Korean War.

The death marches, the hunger and disease of the prison camps, and shocking lack of medical care—all these had been outlined previously in official United Nations Command documents.

(NEA Telephone)

PEEK AT PLAN—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, right, gave the nation a peek at his celebrated secret plan for ending the war in Korea. The former Far East supreme commander revealed his proposals in a 1,500-word letter to Senator Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), left, who had queried him on ammunition shortages in Korea. Main feature of the letter: A threat to bomb Red China. "A warning of action of this sort provides the leverage to induce the Soviets to bring the Korean struggle to an end without further bloodshed," MacArthur said.

State Bar Asks Lawmakers Punish South Texas Jurist

DALLAS—(AP)—Judge Woodrow Laughlin stood accused Saturday by directors of the State Bar Association of reprehensible conduct in office. The directors asked the Legislature to punish him.

The five charges the committee said were "sustained by the evidence" were:

1. His sale of a second-hand law library to Jim Wells County while he was county judge. The report said he violated the law which calls for competitive bids on all contracts involving more than $2,000, and was also in violation of the law forbidding county officers to make business deals with their county.

2. Allowing his brother, a Jim Wells County commissioner, to sell private property to the county while Woodrow Laughlin was county judge.

Royal Films Attacked

DUBLIN—(AP)—Sinn Fein, a militant Irish nationalist group, called on Irish cinema workers Saturday to ban the film of Queen Elizabeth's coronation June 2 from Irish movie theaters.

Whitaker was stationed at Reese Air Force Base near here when the girl was killed. Later he was transferred to San Antonio as an aviation cadet. He is a member of a prominent Hartford, Conn., family.

3. Allegedly trying to dismiss the grand jury that indicted him in the law book sale. The report said this action "was not in accordance with high moral standards incumbent upon a judge."

4. Ordering 1962 election records turned over to Duval County Sheriff Archer Parr, nephew of George Parr, which, the committee said, "had the effect of preventing proper investigation of election law violations, if any, in Duval County."

Van Fleet Declines Senate Advisory Post

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said Saturday Gen. James Van Fleet has turned down an offer to serve as an expert for the Senate Appropriations Committee on military spending.

The House has passed the measure Thursday.

5. Naming the judge to try his own case. That was E. D. Salinas of Laredo who dismissed the book sale charges against Laughlin after the latter bought back the books.

Representatives of 26 oil producing states and 13 governors, including Governor Shivers of Texas, attended.

Two Of Four Aboard C-46 Plane Survive Crash In Mountains

SEATTLE—(AP)—Two survivors of a C-46 crash in the timbered, snow blanketed Cascades told Saturday of the unexpected ripping, tearing impact, sudden darkness and then silence broken only by the cry of a frightened animal.

The tale came from Capt. John Schroeder of Coral Gables, Fla., and Co-pilot James Gilbert of Hialeah, Fla., the relief crew of the Miami-based twin-engine plane being flown to Seattle for a load of homebound soldiers.

Two other crewmen died at the controls. They were Capt. Maurice Booka and Co-pilot Donald Dewey, both of Miami, who relieved Schroeder and Gilbert over Cheyenne, Wyo., before the C-46 met disaster early Thursday. The four were the only ones aboard.

One body, tentatively identified as that of Booka, was recovered Friday from the crash scene about 40 miles southeast of here.

There was no trace of the other body, and King County Coroner John P. Brill, Jr. said snows sweep feet deep might have to melt before it is found.

Even Far East Has Its Fringe

HONG KONG—(AP)—Three riot squads went into action Saturday, all because of a beautiful woman.

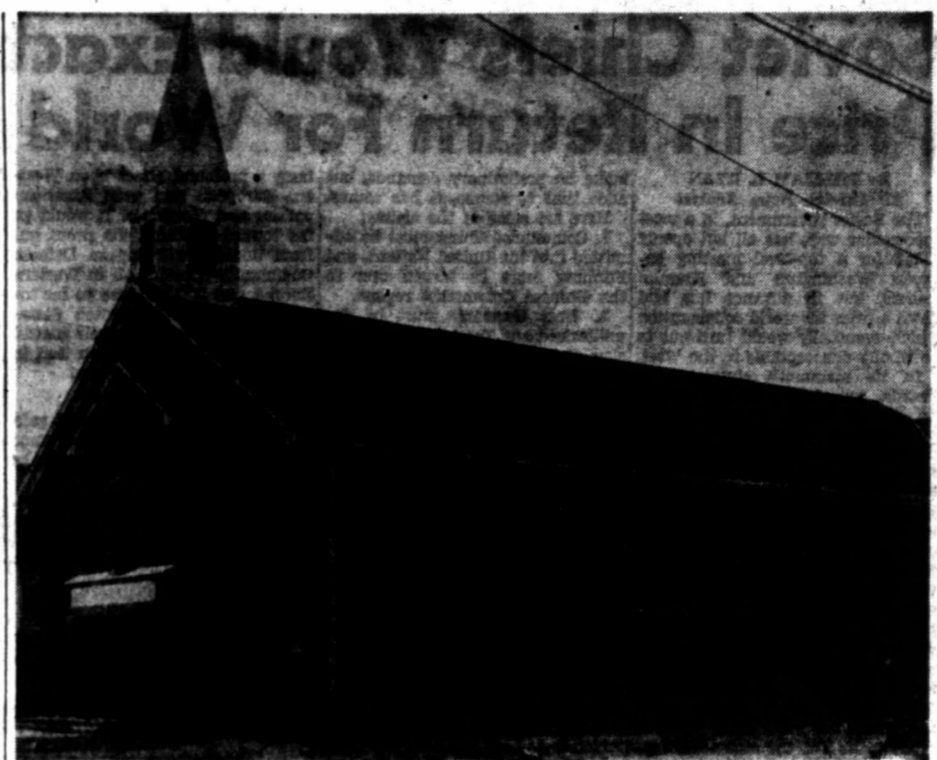

Two thousand persons jammed the streets around a downtown store when the word spread that Armi Kusela of Finland, better known as Miss University, was shopping there. She is on a world tour.

The riot squads were called out finally to the crowd moving. Miss Kusela, who won her title in a California beauty contest, ducked out a rear door.

Portraits By Ruben Showed At Annual Photography Meet

RANDOLPH D. RUBIN, part owner of the Midland Studio and Camera Shop, gave an exhibition showing of five portraits at the 26th Annual Southwestern Photographers Association convention in Fort Worth earlier this month.

The five studio pictures were "Sam," "Shella," "Velda Dee," "Gail" and "Holt Jewell." Four were adult pictures, while "Shella" was taken of a little girl.

Each photographer attending the convention was allowed to enter his five best portraits. Judges selected those which displayed the finest photography and choice of subjects.

Rubin has improved progressively his record at the Southwestern Photographers Association annual convention. In 1951, he placed three out of five pictures, and in 1952, four out of five.

is the biggest business venture of our time—the business of getting America so well prepared as to deter aggression and to defeat the aggressor who refuses to be deterred.

"We believe that the principles of sound business that have contributed so greatly to the success of American enterprise can well be applied to the administration of national defense."

He called the job of national defense "only partly ours in Washington."

"It is only partly the job of our armed forces," he said. "It is basically a job for all loyal and patriotic Americans. Together all of us can do it and do it successfully."

He said all those who have come in contact with Anderson, whose home is in Vernon, "have been deeply impressed by his sincerity, his logic, his loyalty and his devotion."

"I know you will be pleased to learn that those qualities that made him an outstanding lawyer, a successful business man and a respected civic leader among you back home are displaying themselves in his administration of the Department of Navy."

Barton Named Head For Valley Aggies

PECOS—Larry Barton was elected president of the Pecos Valley Texas A and M club at a recent meeting.

Approximately 26 Aggies attended the meeting which saw outgoing president Tom Cowan turn the office over to Barton.

Other new officers include Tom Freese, vice president; Buck Wheat, secretary-treasurer; and Chuck Norwood, director.

Sir Winston Dines With Royal Family

WINDSOR, ENGLAND—(AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, knighted by Queen Elizabeth II Friday, lunched with the queen at Windsor Castle Saturday before leaving for Chequers, the officials country home of British prime ministers.

Talbot said Johnson's name never can be omitted "when we discuss national defense."

"Senator Johnson is a tower of strength to the United States Air Force," said the secretary. "We are very proud of our stalwart champion from Texas."

He praised Navy Secretary R. B. Anderson and Senator Lyndon Johnson, both Texans.

When I look out upon this magnificent air field with its splendid facilities, I am more convinced than ever that what the American people set out to do they can accomplish successfully."

He said all those who have come in contact with Anderson, whose home is in Vernon, "have been deeply impressed by his sincerity, his logic, his loyalty and his devotion."

"I know you will be pleased to learn that those qualities that made him an outstanding lawyer, a successful business man and a respected civic leader among you back home are displaying themselves in his administration of the Department of Navy."

NATO Slows Defense Pace In Face Of New Red Growls

PARIS—(AP)—The United States and its 13 Allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Saturday declared Communist peace moves still don't look genuine and Western rearmament will continue.

The decision was announced in the face of a new Soviet "peace gesture," the latest in a month-long series that has made the NATO nations take a second look at their costly arms program.

The latest gesture was publication in Moscow's newspapers of a long response to President Eisenhower's April 16 speech—not a soft response, but not a hard one, as the diplomats here privately sensed it.

It was the second jostling in the North Atlantic Treaty Council before it could conclude its three-day session Saturday afternoon with adoption of a bright and cheery communique.

The first came Friday when the upper house of the West German Parliament, the Bundesrat, voted postponement of ratification of the European Defense Community Treaty, the agency through which a half million West German troops were to be recruited for a six-nation army.

Though the Western buildup is to go on, the pace will not be up to that urged by U. S. military leaders. Despite American views, the council voted for a slow-down in rearmament.

'Long-Term' Program

"It was agreed that the development of sound national economies and the increase of military forces should be pursued concurrently," was the way the communique phrased it.

This was called a "long-term program." But British and French members, who have been balking at speedup proposals of the Americans, felt they had established their point of view.

Their view is that the danger of aggressive communism, while continuing great, does not call for desperate straining of the economy of the member nations to get strong enough at once to beat a Red onslaught.

The communique stressed the value of "collective defense."

"The council felt that there was every prospect that this policy, continued with firmness and patience, will create a basis for a just settlement of unresolved international problems," it said.

Nevertheless the council devoted a chunky part of its communique to saying it felt Russia still needed close watching.

Hard Accomplishments

Hard accomplishments of the conference included:

1. Voting of a $550,000,000 plane contract to put factories in Britain, Belgium, Holland, France and Italy to work with the assurance that about half this production would be paid for in dollars.
2. Authorizing a military building program of $885,000,000 to be spread over a four-year period, with the United States promising to ask Congress for about 43 per cent of the money.
3. Approval of coordinated defense budgets of the various countries calling for spending well more than $12,000,000,000 this year in European defense. West Germany, not a member of NATO, has agreed to continue paying $142,000,000 monthly until December 1 to help support Allied troops. Heavier burdens face her under the EDC later.

But failure to find a basis by which France and Germany can get along together militarily has enfeebled the community to such a degree that the Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson warned their colleagues Congress would demand a report this Summer whether the program was a going concern or a flop.

Dulles gave them until June 30 to make a better showing on the European Army plan, while Wilson said Congress would want to see more combat material develop from EDC contributions.

HIGH SCHOOL SWITCHBOARD—Midland High School students, Steve Thorson, left and Bennie Bedford, manipulate the switch board which controls the lighting system in the school's auditorium and stage. Midland businessmen who visit the school on Education-Business Day Thursday will tour the auditorium to see the facilities available there, and throughout the school.

WEST ELEMENTARY INDIAN VILLAGE—A display of Indian lodgings, clothing and a model village will be viewed by Midland businessmen Thursday when they visit the West Elementary School in connection with Education-Business Day, set aside for business representatives to learn more of the city's school system. This picture, made in the second grade room supervised by Margie Byrd, standing, shows left to right, pupils Jimmy Fuller, Myrna Vanette and Larry Potter. The general public is invited to join the businessmen in viewing the school operations Thursday.

Former Ambassador Warns Russia Respects Only Force

DURHAM N. H.—(AP)—Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith cautioned Saturday that regardless of Soviet peace overtures, Russia will live live up to agreements only "if our negotiating position has solid strength behind it."

The former ambassador to Moscow said that under other circumstances Soviet commitments are likely to be violated "before the ink is dry on the document."

Smith expressed belief that recent Soviet conciliatory moves were largely a reaction to the Western defense buildup and said that they represented the eighth time since 1913 that the Kremlin has reversed its attitude towards this country.

"But we certainly will not reject a chance that the Kremlin is now preparing to negotiate East-West differences in good faith," he added.

Smith's speech was delivered at a convocation of the University of New Hampshire. It was written and given to newsmen in advance of the latest Russian peace statement that the Soviets are willing to enter into "business-like" talks with the West.

Smith said it is up to the Soviet leaders to grasp the open hand tendered in a sincere gesture for peace.

But he said the U. S. also had a fist clenched in readiness, because we are dealing with an extremely reactionary regime "still wedded to an archaic concept of power."

Those bombs had to be jettisoned before the plane could be landed safely.

Then he started talking Spaulding home, hoping to bring him down safely, now that the Thunderjet's deadly bombs were dropped.

After minutes of patient instructions—"It seemed like hours," Bell said afterward—he got Spaulding lined up for a landing at an Allied air base, only to have the semi-conscious pilot suddenly refuse because "the runway isn't long enough."

Pilot Remembers Nothing

Eventually Bell talked Spaulding to a second airfield and there completed the tricky takeoff and landing procedures.

"Spaulding" said later he did not recall dropping the bombs, nor the successful landing at the second.

Bell told of one particularly anxious moment.

"I had him just north of our nearest air base, when he suddenly asked me if he had released his bombs yet. Not knowing if he had or had not, I almost jumped off the mountain. I could just see that powder after a couple of thousand pounds exploded in the center of it."

Another time, Bell related, Spaulding suddenly yelled into his radio mike, "My God, I've been gllobbered. I've had it."

He was over a heavy anti-aircraft area and I thought he had been hit," Bell said. "But his plane continued to show up on my scope so I knew he was all right."

When the plane finally landed, rivets along the leading edge of the wing had popped out. Wing tip tanks were loose. Stabilizing fins at each end of the wing tanks had been curled back over the tips.

BOMBING BY REMOTE CONTROL—Van Horn Captain 'Talks In' Semi-Conscious Jet Jockey

SEOUL—(AP)—The Air Force Saturday night told the bizarre story of a Thunderjet that rocketed virtually uncontrolled through North Korean skies almost an hour before its semi-conscious pilot was talked to safety by a far-away ground controller.

Lt. Richard Spaulding, of Ionia, Mich., was on a bombing mission over North Korea March 26 when his oxygen equipment went haywire.

Spaulding slipped into semi-consciousness and for an hour his speedy jet plane, virtually flying itself, swooped, dipped, twisted and turned crazily.

Back at a mountain top ground control station, Capt. Clarence Bell of Van Horn, Texas, picked up the erratic action on his radar scope.

Suspecting a pilot blackout, Bell took over.

In a cool, calm voice, he repeated instructions to Spaulding over and over again.

First he directed Spaulding to a target area in North Korea and instructed him to drop his bombs.

Citizens Traffic Committee Planned In Safety Meeting

Midland soon will have a Citizens Traffic Commission, it was decided Friday night at a meeting sponsored by the Permian Basin Safety Society, and attended by representatives of 17 interested organizations.

Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing presided at the session, which was held in the conference room of the Humble Building.

After those present had voted to proceed with the organization, the chairman was authorized to report to committees which will report at the next meeting, May 11.

The following committees were named: Constitution and By-Laws—W. H. Conkling, chairman, Jack Keese, H. C. Hood, R. O. Smith, R. F. Carroll and Mrs. H. C. Rowland; Nominating—J. W. Drummond, chairman, W. C. Tillett, Fred Peyton, Bob Schultz and Doyle DeArman; Publicity—Guy H. Creighton, chairman, Cordella Taylor, the Rev. Henry Stafford, Louis Michaelson, Harold Bourland and Mrs. John Wainston; Meeting Place—Lyndon Birdwell.

Lubbock Plan Explained

The plan of the Citizens Traffic Commission of Lubbock was explained to those attending the meeting. Organization representatives generally were enthusiastic concerning the commission and all offered the cooperation and support of their respective groups.

Organizations represented included the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Midland Service League, Civitan Club, Kiwanis Club, West Texas Geological Society, Permian Basin Safety Society, P-T-A City Council, public schools, Police Department, Traffic Engineering Department, Optimist Club, Midland Ministerial Association, Rotary Club, IOOF, American Society of Civil Engineers, E&PW Club and Chamber of Commerce.

Reds' May Day Celebration Seen As Traditional Program

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Russians are looking forward to the possibility of a three-day weekend for May Day celebrations.

Friday will be a holiday, of course, with the traditional parade of military and civilian groups through Red Square.

It looks as if the Communist party and Premier Georgi Malenkov's government are going to call Saturday a normal workday, a holiday too. And then comes Sunday.

Three free days in a row!

This unusually extended opportunity for fun, sports and entertainment should go down well with the people.

Malenkov presumably will be in the reviewing stand with other high government leaders for the May Day parade.

The keynote speech ordinarily comes from some military man. Last year it was delivered by Marshal Leonid A. Govorov, who—standing beside Joseph Stalin—declared Russia would deal a devastating blow to any attack from "the imperialist aggressors." The name of the speaker and his topic for this year have not been announced.

Two Die, Five Hurt In Auto-Truck Crash

HOUSTON—(AP)—Two Houston brothers received fatal injuries Friday night in a truck-automobile collision near Gatesville. Five people, including four children, received serious injuries.

The dead were William Roberts, 25, Houston fireman, and Edwin Roberts, 22, a Navy recruiter.

William died two hours after the crash. Edwin was killed at once.

W. S. Nichols, manager of the Gatesville hospital, said the injured were Mrs. Hazel Roberts, wife of William, and their four children, Michael, seven, Gary, five, Sandra, Jean, two, and Timothy, several months old.

Ike Pledges Total Backing Of Full Employment Effort

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday assailed "the stupidity of mass unemployment" and pledged "every useful measure, private and public," to avoid it in the future.

In a letter to CIO President Walter Reuther, the President said he "firmly" subscribes to the Employment Act of 1946 which established the Council of Economic Advisers and made it public policy to "promote" full employment.

The letter, made public by the CIO, was hailed in Saturday's CIO News as "a clear outline for a liberal economic philosophy for America—the sort of economic philosophy which has proven so beneficial to the country and its people during the past 20 years."

Eisenhower's letter was in answer to one Reuther sent him April 6. Reuther asked the President to summon a "broadly representative conference at the earliest possible date to draft a work-sheet for full production and full employment."

"The President did not mention the words 'full employment' which in the past have been a bone of contention in Congress. Some legislators have contended that under the American form of government the federal government cannot guarantee full employment. Others have contended it should do all possible toward this end.

Major Air Training Center Due Closing

AUBURN N. Y.—(AP)—Representative John Taber (R-N.Y.) said Saturday one of the Air Force's three large training bases might be closed.

The three bases are Sampson, N. Y.; Parks, Calif.; and Lackland, Texas. Taber did not say which of the three was the likely one to be shut down, or when the action might be taken.

He said that unless the Air Force trainee load throughout the country became higher, in proportion to the number of men now assigned to do the training, one of the bases might face "sharp curtailment or even complete shutdown."

In view of this possibility, the congressman said, it would be unwise to "press the budget in behalf of the Wherry housing project at Sampson."

Argentine Officers Free Texas Cotton Men After Arrest

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Five Texas businessmen arrested Monday in Northern Argentina on suspicion of violating national security laws have been released without charges, police said Friday night.

The five cotton men were flown here Friday at the request of U. S. Ambassador Albert Ruffer.

An official said no charge or suspicion remained against the five. They had spent 24 hours in jail and three days under police guard, but said they never were told the basis for their detention and questioning.

Four of the men are with the Houston firm of Anderson, Clayton & Company, cotton brokers. They were James Griffin, Jr., Jesse Root, E. R. Connally and Edwin Turbett. The fifth man arrested was Walter Stindt of Houston, also in the cotton business.

Pipe Lines Inch Across Vast Mileage As Millions Of Dollars Change Hands

WASHINGTON—(AP)—More mileage probably will be added soon to the rapidly expanding network of oil pipe lines, the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) predicted Saturday.

No estimate of the mileage or costs were available but the agency said more than 12,000 miles of oil pipe line had been built in the last two and one-half years.

Despite steel shortages, 1952 was the banner year to date for construction of pipe lines for transporting crude oil and such products such as gasoline, kerosene and heating oil.

Two and one-half years, PAD said, 7,000 miles was for the long distance transportation of crude, 4,000 miles for petroleum products and 1,600 miles for crude gathering lines, mostly in new oil producing areas.

Most lines move crude oil from producing fields to refineries or petroleum products from refineries marketing points.

PAD said the oil pipe line system has grown from 150,000 miles Sept. 1, 1950, to a present total of 163,000 miles.

Since 1950, oil pipe line projects completed include the Platte Pipe Line Company line from Wyoming to Illinois, more than 1,057 miles at a cost of 67 million dollars; and the Mid-Valley Pipe Line from Longview, Texas, to Lima, Ohio, about 1,000 miles, at a cost of 56 million.

Recently opened were the line from the West Texas oil area to the Gulf Coast, 657 miles; the Rancho line from West Texas to Houston, 457 miles, and the Sinclair line from Drumright, Okla., to East Chicago, 683 miles.

In addition to these lines for crude oil, lines for carrying petroleum products have been built in the same period from Baton Rouge to Charlotte, N. C., 700 miles; Plantation Pipe Line Company at a cost of 52 million dollars and Phillips Petroleum Company has expanded its 533-mile line from Borger to Chicago at a cost of 21 million dollars and many other shorter lines have been completed.

Now building is a crude line from Superior, Wis., to Ontario, Canada, to connect with a line from Alberta to Superior, which could supply petroleum to Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota refineries on the way.

Another which may be completed by next Fall will run 700 miles from Edmonton to Vancouver in Canada. A spur line is to serve a 35,000 barrel daily capacity refinery scheduled to be built by General Petroleum Corporation at Ferndale, Wash.

PAD said that in 1951 approximately three-fourths of the crude moved from wells to refineries was through pipe lines. Barges and tankers handled most of the rest.

Gasoline consumption in 1952 climbed to a new peak of 46.4 billion gallons, an increase of 2.5 billion over 1951, the American Petroleum Institute reports. California continued the top consuming state with 4.4 billion.

Panel Seeks More Texas Documents

AUSTIN—(AP)—A commission to bring to Texas more documents and manuscripts vital to the state's history was proposed Saturday.

Dr. Lewis Hanke, professor of Latin American history at the University of Texas, suggested the historical manuscripts commission at the Texas State Historical Society's meeting.

Remaining materials in European archives should be brought here to augment those already in Texas, Hanke said. Archives in London and Paris include much material relating to Texas early days, he said. The same is true of Spain, Italy, and Germany.

Italy has several battalions of infantry which march at a rpn.

Probe Proves America Put In Jeopardy By Ammo Shortage; Blame Hard To Place

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON —(AP)—A Senate investigation has revealed clearly the United States would have been in grave peril in the last two years from a lack of ammunition had the Korean conflict erupted into a world war.

The chilling evidence is this country didn't have enough ammunition in its stockpiles—certainly not in production—to fight a great war for any length of time. And without ammunition, American guns would have been useless hulks of steel.

The situation is improving rapidly after long delays, according to those who know, and there now is no danger in telling the story. But senators want to be sure such a thing never happens again. They would like to find out who was responsible for what they believe could have been a disastrous situation.

Many Fingers
You can get long odds in this town the investigators never will be able to pin responsibility on any one man or small group of men in the pentagon.

The plain truth is: So many people had a finger in this pie—from the top echelons of the Truman Administration on down the line—that responsibility virtually is lost in a mass of red tape, policy directives, splintered authority, and miscalculations at all levels.

Senator Harry S. Byrd (D-Va.), an old hand at Senate inquiries,

Fury Of Newest Atom Blast Spins Drone Plane To Earth

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—(AP)—A drone plane crashed after being caught in the furious updraft of an atomic explosion which jolted 14 aved congressmen and 2,650 maneuvering troops Saturday.

The shot, touched off from a 300-foot tower at 4:30 a.m., was described by observers as the most powerful of the Spring series. Wind-whirls rattled in this resort town, 75 miles southeast of the Yucca Flat test site. And the flash was seen in San Francisco, 600 miles away.

Among 52 aircraft, including B-47 and B-50 bombers, aloft over the A-bomb range was an AD-2 drone.

Such aircraft carry instruments to obtain scientific data. Controlled from the ground, the drone attempted to pierce the thermal envelope—the fast-rising cone from the explosion.

Trapped in the raging updraft, the plane tumbled helplessly and finally crashed.

After the searing heat blast, the troops scrambled from trenches 4,000 yards from ground zero and advanced until radioactivity stopped them. Eight volunteer observers huddled in trenches an undisclosed distance nearer the blast, the seventh of the series. There were no casualties.

Congressmen, at the Atomic Energy Commission control tower 10 miles from the blast point, said the detonation was the strongest of the series. Light bulbs and window panes of outbuildings were broken. "Frightful magnitude" of the weapon and told newsmen.

The principal deterrent to another world war is and will remain the offensive strength of our constantly improving atomic weapons.

Indianan Backs Bill Providing Immunity For Probe Witnesses

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Senator Jenner (R-Ind) Saturday urged immediate passage of a bill he said would help congressional committees unearth "a great many new facts of the Communist conspiracy" by giving witnesses immunity.

Jenner endorsed a bill by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), saying it would protect a witness against prosecution at any time for any offenses he confessed to congressional committees. After being given this immunity a witness could be compelled to testify, under pain of a contempt of Congress charge.

This, Jenner said, would help the committee learn much more about the Red plot "against our government and against our academic institutions." He said it would induce witnesses to tell more about their links with communism and also overcome their reluctance to testify about their friends.

He said the Fifth Amendment which permits a witness to refuse to say anything which might incriminate him, is being "perverted into a shield to conceal the facts of the Communist conspiracy."

New Service Station Opened By Midlander On Highway Route

Service to the customer is the foundation on which A. D. Black is building the business of his new Chevron Gas Station on Alternate Highway 80 Route one block east of the Triple - D Motel and Kangaroo Courts.

Jury For Dallas Murder Trial Put Under Lock For Day

DALLAS —(AP)—A jury to hear the Donald Hawkins Brown murder trial was completed Saturday after almost six full days spent interviewing 170 witnesses.

Because the law bars taking of testimony on Sunday, the jury was locked up and all witnesses ordered to be on hand for opening of the trial at 9 a.m. Monday.

Brown faces a possible death in the slaying of Edwin Joe Campbell, collector for a loan company that held a note on Brown's car. Campbell's body was found New Year's Eve in his automobile, which had been gasoline soaked and set afire on a South Dallas street. He had been shot four times in the head.

FROM THE SOVIET SIDE OF THE CURTAIN— Kremlin Bids For 'Business' Section In Resolving Problems Of World Peace

By EDDY GILMORE
MOSCOW —(AP)—The Soviet reaction to President Eisenhower's world peace and disarmament plan adds up to this: without retreating from its present foreign policy, Russia is ready for "business-like" discussions on world problems.

The Soviets agree there should be deeds, not words, and say they want some deeds in addition to words from the United States to show that it wants peace.

This exposition of the Russian position appeared in a statement spread across the front pages of Moscow's principal newspapers — Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, and Izvestia, official paper of the Supreme Soviet. The tone was sharp and argumentative, but not belligerent.

The statement excited Muscovites. Huge crowds gathered around newstands and at wall boards of which the newspapers were posted. Soviet "Readiness" to discuss world problems.

The Russian reply to President Eisenhower's April 16 foreign policy speech took issue with him on several points and vigorously criticized Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

It reaffirmed many previous Soviet positions on world problems and found fault with parts of American foreign policy.

But it declared: "The Soviet government will welcome any step of the American government or any other government if it is directed at friendly settlement of difficult questions," and added: "This is evidence of the readiness of the Soviet side for serious business-like discussions of outstanding problems."

Although it was unsigned and entitled solely "On the Address of President Eisenhower," it seemed clear from the wording that it is correct to call the article not an editorial, but a statement by the leadership of the Soviet Union.

Both Pravda and Izvestia printed in inside pages Saturday what appeared to be the full text of Eisenhower's speech.

The statement, referring directly to Eisenhower's comments that deeds and not words are needed to end Russian support of Communist Chinese and North Korean proposals for ending the Korean War was a prime example of a move from words to deeds. The Russians say they believe this support has opened up a way for stopping the war.

On the German question, the statement repeated that if West Germany is rearmend in alliance with the West it will be a fatal step, as far as a unified Germany is concerned. Thus, the Russians did not appear to have budged from their original position.

The statement completely rejected Eisenhower's ideas on independence for Eastern European countries. "It would be very queer," it said, "to expect the Soviet Union to intervene in favor of the restoration of the reactionary regimes overthrown by these people."

UN Membership
The statement stressed the point that the nations of Eastern Europe should be admitted to the United Nations. As far as an Austrian treaty is concerned, no new suggestions were advanced.

The statement noted the President did not mention the Communist Chinese in his speech and said that if this means he plans to turn back "steadily developing events" such a policy is doomed to failure.

As for Eisenhower's five-point disarmament plan, the statement said the Soviets have no objection to it, but the plan is too "general in character." It did not take very seriously the President's proposal to set up a multi-billion dollar fund from the savings of disarmament for world aid. The statement intimated the Russians considered the proposal as a new form of the Marshall Plan.

Referring to Secretary of State Dulles, the statement declared: "We cannot pass by in silence the claim of Dulles that the alleged call of Soviet leaders for peaceful settlements was made under the pressure of the so-called firm policy of the United States."

"It is, however, known to the entire world that Soviet leaders determine their actions not by consideration of the 'firmness' or 'softness' of the policy of one or another country toward the USSR, but on the interests of the Soviet people and world security."

Governor Shivers Receives Monahans Rodeo Invitation

MONAHANS — Preparations for Monahans' fifth annual RCA-approved World Championship Rodeo, scheduled May 7-8-9, are rapidly taking shape and invitations have been issued to Governor Allan Shivers and State Senator J. T. Rutherford to be honor guests.

The early May setting will not be in conflict with any other rodeo dates and the Monahans show is expected to again draw the big name cowpokes it has in the past.

The town will be decked out in banners, bunting and other typical rodeo decorations by the end of this week and tickets will go on sale May 4.

A full schedule of rodeo events will be offered with Bobby Estes of Baird furnishing the stock and producing the show. Bud Townsend of Henrietta will handle the public address announcements.

Among the featured added attractions will be "a real live" Indian war dance and an act billed as "Mae West and Her Educated Dogs," one of which reportedly plays the piano.

Casey Tibbs, present champion saddle bronc rider of the world and 1951 all-around world's champion cowboy, will be a participant again this year. Tibbs was unseated here last year in the saddle bronc event.

NLRB Puts Damper On Union's System Of Fee Collections

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) Saturday threatened a union with loss of its bargaining rights unless it stops charging non-union members for handling grievances.

The case was the first such decision handed down by the NLRB. The board gave the Independent Metal Workers Union 10 days to stop charging employees of the Hughes Tool Company, Houston, who are not members of the union a fee for handling their grievances with the firm.

The union established the fee system last year, insisting that non-members pay the union $15 for handling an ordinary grievance and $400 to take a grievance through arbitration.

The board held that the union, having been certified by the NLRB as the exclusive bargaining representative, was required to represent all employees.

'Swindling Sam' Becomes Divorcee While In Prison

CHICAGO — Sigmund (Swindling Sam) Engel, 77, imprisoned rascal who wooed women for their money, was divorced Friday by the woman he once called his Juliet.

The divorce decree listed Engel as "Carl Arthur Leammle, Jr. otherwise known as Sigmund Z. Engel, Sam Engel and Number 29157." The number is the one on his uniform at Joliet Penitentiary where he is serving a two to 10 year sentence for swindling a Chicago widow of $8,700.

Mrs. Pauline Langton Leammle, 45, of New York, said she married Engel under the name of Leammle four months before his conviction in November, 1949. She was awarded a divorce on ground that her husband had been convicted of a felony, grounds for divorce in Illinois.

Accident In Texas Laboratory Provides Valuable Clue Toward Conquering Cancer

GALVESTON —(AP)—Discovery of an ominous dust of destiny in cancer cells was reported Saturday.

This dust is smashed up by bits of chromosomes, the bead-like carriers of the genes which control heredity.

Healthy cells almost always have 48 chromosomes, all intact, all following the magnificent orderliness of nature, directing the destiny of the cell.

But in cancer cells, the number may increase vastly. Many chromosomes are broken into pieces—destiny turned to dust. These two changes may explain why cancer cells grow wild, without control, to kill life.

This finding was described to science writers on an American Cancer Society tour by Dr. C. M. Pomeroy and T. G. Hsu of the University of Texas Medical School.

They have found a way of being able to see and count the fantastically tiny chromosomes.

Unexpectedly, they find even a little variety in healthy cells. The law of genetics says human body cells should have 48 chromosomes, no more, and no less.

But at times they find as many as 52 or as few as 44 in healthy cells. There appears to be nothing wrong with these cells.

The big difference is in cancer cells. In one cell of a mouse cancer-

West Europe 'Tepid' About Russian Note

LONDON —(AP)—Russia's reply to President Eisenhower, rejecting the Western position on most issues in the cold war but nevertheless offering to negotiate, Saturday raised tepid hopes of a settlement among some of Europe's Western statesmen.

Some European quarters felt Russia might be willing to make some concessions.

On the face of it, however, the Soviet statement rejected many of Eisenhower's peace proposals.

West German government sources said the statement is disappointing and "fails to offer any evidence that Russia is willing to ease world tension with concrete deeds."

One government source in Bonn said this means future Russian peace feelers should be regarded even more skeptically by the West.

But other Western observers studying the 4,800-word statement found some encouragement in the assertion that Soviet leaders will welcome "a serious, business-like discussion of problems both by direct negotiations, and when necessary, within the framework of the United Nations."

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault called the Soviet statement "very interesting" but declined further comment now.

The conservative Paris newspaper Le Monde noted "with satisfaction that the moderate and courteous tone of the USSR reply leaves the door open to further negotiations."

85 R-T Golfers Seek Medal Sunday

Par, for the first time in a week, becomes a popular figure on Ranchland Hill Country Club course Sunday when 85 golfers play for the medalist prize in The Reporter-Telegram's first annual City Championship tournament.

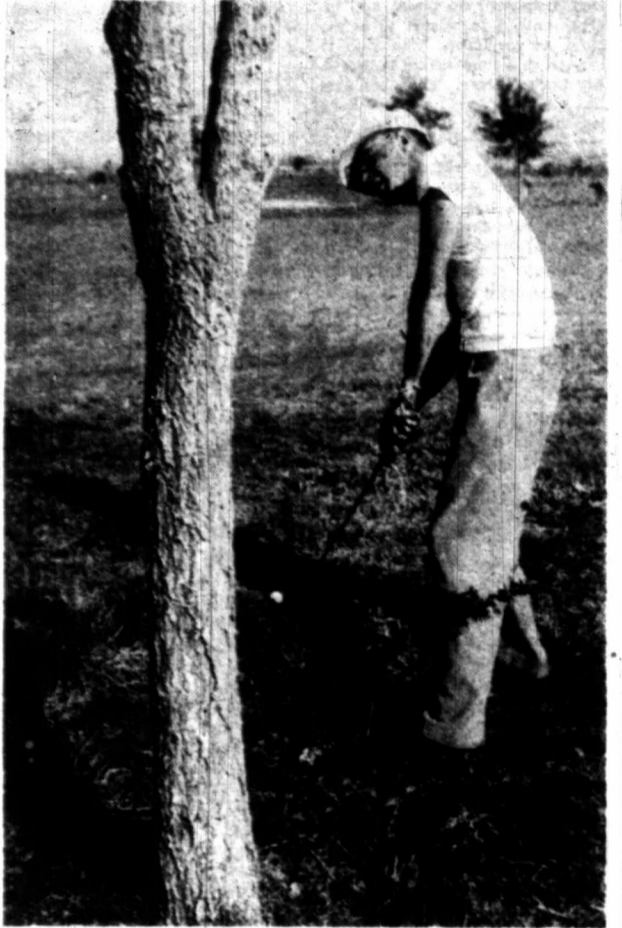

The low scorer over the 18-hole round Sunday wins the tourney's medal prize as well as the favorite's role when matches to decide the city champion starts May 1.

You can hardly keep track of the top-flight golfers mentioned as the most likely to succeed to the first city crown but about four from Ranchland and five from Midland Country Club are repeated most often.

Bob Wortman, Kit Carson, Red Watkins and Johnny Sherrad, from Ranchland, and Roy Lockett, Sonny Brinkerhoff, Vann Ligon, Jimmy Smith and Jimmy Stone, from Midland Country Club, draw the most votes.

Whoever wins takes home on May 1 a huge, square built 29-inch City Championship trophy for his efforts. The prize will rotate be-between the annual winners until one copes it three times. Each year's champ receives another, permanent championship trophy as well.

Meanwhile, Pro Abe Beckman, tourney director, announced a 3 p.m. Sunday deadline for entries. No morning starting time has been set.

The first contingent of golfers are expected to tee off at around 7 a.m. for a full day's swing at the 6,524-yard par-71 Ranchland layout.

H. L. Winkler will serve as starter. If 85, as expected, play Sunday in the medalist contention, the whole tourney will attract 175 golfers for the May 1 round of matches. There were 134 on line Saturday, 90 of them already on the board with qualifying scores.

They were the entries who had little to do with par. Only three shaded 80 strokes on their round.

W. Bill Barker, who registered his round Tuesday, remained as the low scorer to date. He had a 75, followed by L. L. Fuller's 78 and Bill Minnerly's 79.

The 80's proved the most popular totals, with 44 golfers landing in that bracket. Here are the qualifying scores from the first six days of play:

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

A one-minute interview with the man in charge of the City Championship Golf Tournament:

He's only 37, but a 30-year veteran at the game. "I never was an amateur, I guess," says unhurried Abe Beckman, Ranchland Hill Country Club pro. Abe, then, has been in on lots of organizing for golf tournaments; he wouldn't attempt to count them all.

He'd be apt to forget a few he worked in, like say, when "I was caddy when I was seven at Galveston and I was working in the golf shop cleaning shoes when I was 12."

Abe came on later to be an assistant pro at Galveston before moving to Houston as a teaching pro and assistant with Robert Williams at the Memorial Park course.

After that Abe joined Ranchland and when October rolls around he'll celebrate his third anniversary with the club. Around West Texas, he's really an "old pro" too, according to PGA membership. He has been a member more than 10 years, which is longtime service compared to many pros in this section.

Incidentally, he answers to Alfred as well as Abe.

Furillo, Maglie Rhubarb Brews As Giants Win, 7-5

BROOKLYN—A near-tie fight between Brooklyn's Carl Furillo and New York's Sal Maglie almost stole the thunder from Saturday's 7-5, come-from-behind Giant victory over the Dodgers on Alvin Dark's two-run single with the bases loaded in the eighth inning.

The bitterness that has been brewing between the rivals over the years erupted in the Dodgers' half of the third inning when Furillo flung his bat at Maglie following a close inside pitch by the Giant right-hander. The Dodger outfielder then charged out to the mound but Plate Umpire Larry Goetz and Giant Catcher Sal Yvars restrained Furillo before any blows could be struck.

The game was delayed several moments as players had rushed out of both dugouts but Goetz, with the help of his three fellow umpires, restored order in short time. Both belligerents were allowed to remain in the game and Maglie calmly proceeded to fan the still fuming Furillo.

"He threw at me," said Furillo after the game, "and I don't like being thrown at!"

"I didn't throw at Carl," declared Maglie later. "It was just a poor pitch. I was mad at myself for allowing Shuba (George) to get that base hit and didn't get the pitch where I wanted to. Heck, it was a let-up pitch and it didn't even come close to him. If I had really wanted to hit him, I would have thrown it harder and truer."

"The pitch slipped and the bat slipped," said Umpire Goetz.

Woodling's Wallop Brings Yanks 4-2 Win Over Nats

NEW YORK—Gene Woodling provided the big wallop, a three-run homer in the ninth, to carry the New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Washington Senators Saturday.

A ladies day audience of 24,636 saw the home team rip off its fifth straight victory. The loss was Washington's fourth in succession.

Al Sims, bespectacled left-hander who was a 24-game winner with Chattanooga of the Southern Association last year, was the victim.

Sims had a 2-1 lead entering the final inning and had held the Bombers to five hits.

He opened the session with a walk to Mickey Mantle and then yielded a single to Hank Bauer. Woodling twice batted foul while trying to sacrifice, then swatted a 2-2 pitch deep into the right field bullpen.

The chunky outfielder is the team's leading batter with a .438 average and top man in runs batted in, with nine.

Reliever Tom Gorman, who hurled only the Washington ninth, was the winning pitcher. Whitney Ford, the starter, was removed for a pinch hitter in the home half of the eighth. Ford, in his first start since the final game of the 1950 World Series, held the Nats to six hits.

Phils Beat Pirates On Three Homers

PHILADELPHIA—Home run wallops by Earl Torgerson, Gran Hamner and Del Ennis offset some erratic pitching by Curt Simmons Saturday as the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6.

The victory was the sixth straight for the National League's pace-setting Phillies.

Loser Johnny Lindell, former New York Yankee outfielder, who developed a worrisome knuckler while pitching in the Pacific Coast League last season, gave up only six hits—but they included Torgerson's leadoff home run in the second inning, and two-run homers by Hamner and Ennis in the fourth and fifth innings.

Cubs Take Second In Drubbing Cards

CHICAGO—The Chicago Cubs blasted their way into second place in the National League Saturday, smearing the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-6, on the strength of an eight-run explosion in the fourth inning.

Preston Ward homered to launch the big fourth inning uprising. Then with one out, the Cubs hammered out seven consecutive singles—three shy of the league record for consecutive hits in one inning.

CLEVELAND—Al Rosen singled across the winning run in the eighth inning Saturday as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, for their third straight victory.

Early Wynn, the Indians' top winner last year with 23 victories, nailed his first triumph of the season, and his tenth straight over Detroit. He went all the way, scattering 10 Tiger hits and walking only two, both intentionally.

Scheib's Wild Peg Neils Bosox Victory Over Athletics, 4-3

BOSTON—Thanks to Carl Scheib's second wild pitch of the game, the Boston Red Sox Saturday broke a four-game losing streak by noosing out the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-3.

Trailing 3-2 in the fifth inning, Jim Piersall rallied the Red Sox by lashing a two-bagger against the left field wall. George Kell brought Piersall in with the tying run by doubling to right-center.

Kell advanced on Dick Gernert's fly to deep right and Scheib wild-pitched the former home with the deciding run.

Lefty Mel Parnell became the first Boston pitcher to go the distance this season. He limited the Athletics to five hits after getting away in wobbly fashion.

Tribe To Fly '52 Pennant At Inaugural

Midland baseball club officials starting a new opening home game ticket campaign, wondered Saturday whether last week's sandstorm and rain washed the Longhorn League Attendance Trophy right out of the city.

Both of the Indians' first two efforts to play an inaugural at home were canceled because of the weather. And because of the cancellations—the games were with Odessa—Midland has to turn to San Angelo for a start here Tuesday.

That, the Midland group said, meant few, if any, visitors would be on hand to boost the attendance and a subsequent loss of about 500 or 600 who would have traveled here from Octor County.

Still, it's an ill sandstorm that blows nobody good and with the delay from last week's scheduled opener, the Midland association had two new features to begin another ticket drive.

In the first place, the 1952 Longhorn League pennant, won by Midland in the playoffs, has been received and will be unfurled as part of the Tuesday night program. Mrs. Jay Haney, wife of the Midland manager, will be special guest and will unfurl the flag during the pre-game ceremonies.

Second, the new ticket campaign will be carried on with new help. Midland President Marion Flynn said a large group of Midland Little League ball players will circulate about the city Monday and Tuesday with game tickets for sale.

Joneses Top Texas Hitters

DALLAS —(P)— The Jones boys, especially John Paul, are knocking the ball all over the lot and that's a big reason why Shreveport is at the top of the Texas League.

John Paul, the hammering Sports first baseman, leads the league in most everything in the latest averages. He is clotting .442 with 23 hits in 52 times at bat.

Many 300 Hitters

J. W. Jones, the Shreveport catcher, is hitting .317 and is among the 20 Texas Leaguers batting .300 or better.

John Paul has more hits than anybody else in the circuit, also has the most doubles, eight, and is tied with Leg, Lamont of Fort Worth for the lead in triples. Each has two.

The top run-getter is Jim Clarkson, Dallas third sacker, who has crossed the plate 12 times. Clarkson also is the leader in home runs with three.

Runs For Missions

Al Chocki of San Antonio has batted in the most tallies with 11.

Twenty-one pitchers are undefeated with Ernie Groth of Oklahoma City and Octavio Rubert, of Houston the heaviest winners. Each has taken three decisions against no defeats. Floyd Woolridge of Houston is the strike-out leader. He has whiffed 18.

Shreveport is the club batting leader with 282 while Houston is second with 262. Dallas is third with 259.

While Midland lost a lot of first game fans from Odessa, the Chamber of Commerce, directing the sales campaign, revealed that tickets still had been going at a brisk pace. Delbert Downing said that about 2,000 fans had tickets purchased from 15 business houses and the baseball park office before last week's rainouts.

Two places, he said, still are in on the campaign, the chamber office and Hotel Scharbauer Cigar Stand.

Meanwhile, club General Manager Horace Busby issued a reminder that all those tickets sold for the Odessa game would be honored for the San Angelo encounter.

The price for adults attending opener is $1. for children 30 cents. Regular season games cost 80 and 30 cents.

11 CLUBS IN TWO LEAGUES—

City Softball Leagues Begin First Of Twin-Bills Monday

You're a member of the "Darkhorses" if your team is the twelfth and next one to join the Midland Jay-Cee-sponsored city softball league.

And you're on the schedule already.

The Jay-Cees, in want of a twelfth club, Saturday announced that one of its two city leagues would be a five-team circuit and one would be six. But they anticipated another entry by the time play gets underway Monday night so they went ahead and scheduled it—the Darkhorses. A club planning to join and take the place of the Darkhorses has until Tuesday night before playing.

Meanwhile, R. E. Cooper and Martin Allday of the Jay-Cee Athletic Committee Saturday put the finishing touches on other city league plans. The schedule they posted sends the city race into action at 7 p.m. Monday, the first of 45 nights of double-headers.

Tourney On Line

Allday said the Jay-Cees plan for a playoff round after the regular schedule is completed. Other current plans also call for an invitational tournament after the season.

Cooper announced that league teams will play four nights each week, Monday through Thursday. Games start at 7 and 9 p.m. each of the nights as the 11 clubs wind their way through three rounds.

Humble Oil and Refining Company, Magnolia Petroleum Company, Phillips Petroleum Company, Rendezvous Cafe, Rotary Engineers, and Western Inspection compose the six-team league, the National Continental Oil, Gulf Oil, Southwestern Bell, The Texas Company, Tide Water Associated Oil, are the first five teams in the American League.

Magnolia and Humble inaugurate the '53 season in the twilight game Monday with Gulf and Continental scheduled to close the first bill in their 9 p.m. clash.

All of the games will be played at Wadley Field which recently underwent repairs. Morris Howard, assistant city manager, supervised readying the park when city work crews replaced wind-damaged fences, reworked and squared away the diamond.

Saturday the current 11 teams were building up their squads to the 20-player limit. They were slated to turn their rosters to the Jay-Cees by then. And also Saturday, Cooper, Allday and Richard Sate of the athletic committee sought a sub for the "Darkhorses."

"If no one joins the league," Allday said, "those places in the schedule for the Darkhorses will be byes."

Here's the card (with the first game listed set for 7 p.m., the second for 9 p.m.):

Mulloy Sets Defertse Of San Antonio Title

SAN ANTONIO —(P)— Defending Champion Gardner Mulloy and runner-up Art Larsen head the field for the San Antonio Country Club Invitational Tennis Tournament which opens Monday.

Finals will be played next Sunday in four divisions.

Mulloy Downs Larsen Four Times In Row At River Oaks

HOUSTON — (P)— Defending champion Gardner Mulloy turned back Art Larsen in four sets Saturday to meet Vic Seixas Sunday for the River Oaks Tennis Tournament title.

Mulloy, seeking his third River Oaks championship, defeated his 1952 finals opponent, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

Seixas, the nation's No. 2 player, eliminated sixth-ranked Billy Talbert in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

In facing Seixas Sunday, Mulloy will be playing in his fourth River Oaks final. Seixas last year bowed to Larsen in a five-set semi-finals match.

The turning point for Mulloy in his fourth set against the little Californian came in the eighth game in which Larsen hit a 40-love lead. Mulloy then produced his only service ace of the day while quickly wrapping up the 9th and final game.

Seixas required only 75 minutes to win. The Pennsylvanian had too wide a variety of shots for the New Yorker, six years his senior.

Joan Mercedis, Modesto, Calif., and Ethel Norton, San Antonio, meet Sunday in the women's singles final.

Mrs. Mercedis Saturday eliminated the defending champion, Gladys Heidman, Houston, while Miss Norton defeated Mrs. Peggy Eby Startzman, Houston. Both scores were 6-1, 6-1.

Superior Oil Drops Back In Keg Race

Superior Oil Company, until recently the season-long leader, continued skidding last week in the Petroleum Bowling League when it lost one of the three-game sweeps registered by the 20-team loop.

With that, all first-place Tide Water Oil and second-place Union Oil had to do to stay up front was to beat their foes, American Trading and Drillers Petroleum Products, respectively, by two games to one.

One of the Tide Water games, however, has been protested. Seaboard Oil won the 2-0 match from Superior.

Other results included Stuart Photo Print over Al Boring Drafting, West Texas Reproduction over Tex-Harvey Oil, Midland Geophysical over Standard of Texas, Honolulu Oil over State Exploration and Core Laboratories over Axelson Manufacturing, all two games to one.

One Match Postponed

Rotary Engineering beat West End Magnolia in three games while the Ohio Oil vs. Phillips 66 duel was postponed.

Charles Hyatt's 223 game score and 90 series score won the week's high individual honors. Al Boring Drafting hit an 865 game total and Stuart Photo Print a 2,500 series for the team high.

The league has four more weeks to play.

INDIANS WINNING, SO— All Stays Quiet In Oiler Tussle

ODESSA — When Midland plays baseball at Odessa is the time and the place, ordinarily, for argument but not, according to Manager Jay Haney, when the Indians are winning.

Otherwise, when Ralph Blair hurled the Oilers down, 5-0, Friday night, it averted Midland's pursuing a rhubarb with Umpire Helky about whether Hayden White hit the first Indian homer of the season.

White, Midland right fielder, slammed a pitch by Wes Ortiz high into left field during the Indians' ninth-inning bat. The long rap sailed down in front of the left field scoreboard, 345 feet from home, and bounced straight up—off the scoreboard platform, most spectators and Manager Jay Haney asserted.

The umpire ruled it an inside-the-park hit and White stopped at second while Julio de la Torre, on by single, scored and Bill Brown, also on with a hit, pulled up at third. It might have been a three-run homer.

Haney charged up to the umpire but it was explained away that both men in blue thought the ball landed on the fence.

Since Midland was winning that was good enough—still the question remains, how does a fly ball against the inside of a fence bounce straight up?

Best Pitching

Outside of that, the game was perfect for Midland; Blair turned in the best pitching effort so far, allowing spaced singles only to Raul Dieppa, Barney Batson and Lou Eastham.

Blair counted Midland's first run on a single, Scooter Hughes' against-the-wall one-bagger and Jim Prince's fly-out in the sixth. Blair singled Hughes to second in the eighth inning, then the Scooter stole third base. Prince's fly-out drove in a second run.

In the ninth after De la Torre, Brown and White all hit for one run, Blair's fly-out got another and an error by Dieppa allowed the fifth and final tally.

Caribbeed won its game Friday with Artesia, 11-7. Rowell smashed Lamesa 30-4, and Big Spring beat San Angelo, 3-1.

Rapid Improvement Shown By Zaharias

BEAUMONT —(P)— Mrs. Mildred Zaharias is still weak from an operation April 7, for a malignancy but is showing rapid improvement, her hospital said Saturday.

The "no visitation" sign still is up on Babe's door but the famous golfer has been taking a little exercise each day.

ONLY A CLAY PIGEON— Shoot To Start Furor

When the State Skeet Shoot rolls around in seven weeks, many Midland sports fans will be wondering what all the excitement's about. Why create such a furor over shooting a clay saucer catapulted into the air? Why don't they go out and shoot at something live, they ask.

The answer is that skeet shooting developed for that specific purpose—to simulate the conditions of a hunter seeking live game. Actually, skeet shooting is a refinement of trap shooting, the main difference being that skeet targets come from all directions while trap targets are straight-away. Most marksmen find it more interesting than trap shooting.

Skeet shooting originated in 1910 in Andover, Mass., but it wasn't until 1936 when the rules were modified to the present ones that the sport became popular. The name "skeet" was derived from a Scandinavian word meaning shoot.

George Glass, Sr., president of the Midland Gun Club where the state meet will be held, says that Texas has most of the world's best marksmen and records prove him correct. Texas has been the dominating state in the national championships for many years.

Glass issued an invitation to the public to come out and watch the shoot. Also, members of the Midland club will practice every Saturday and Sunday afternoons from now until the shoot, and he urges anyone interested to be on hand as spectators. The club is located at the big airport on North Big Spring Street. The club now has six fields, two new ones having been prepared recently for the state shoot.

The club is located at the big airport on North Big Spring Street. The club now has six fields, two new ones having been prepared recently for the state shoot.

Skeeters know that there are four divisions. Shooters fire 100 shots in the sub-small bore (.410 gauge), 100 in the small bore (.2 gauge); 100 in the small bore (.28 gauge) in the 12 gauge.

Naturally, the 12 gauge is the easiest and more contestants enter this division than any other.

There are approximately 700 shot in the 12-gauge shell, and the shot has about a 30-inch "impact area." That is, the shot spread at the time it hits the target is 30 inches in diameter. Thus, it is fairly easy to hit the clay pigeon with the 12-gauge.

The sub-small bore—or .410-gauge—has around 150 shot and a much smaller impact area.

In order for a "hit" to be scored, the target must be broken. Oftentimes, only one or two shot will strike the target and raise dust, but this does not constitute a hit. The target must break into a visible piece.

The skeet shoot isn't until June 11-14, but when it arrives, perhaps you'll find it interesting.

Hooper's Big Throw Garners Limelight In Drake Meeting

DES MOINES—Shot-putter Darrow Hooper, 220-pounder from Texas A&M, shattered a 19-year-old meet record and Illinois hogged team laurels as the Drake Relays ended Saturday in rain-sprinkled Drake Stadium.

Hooper, runner-up in the 1952 Olympics, produced the only new mark of the two-day meet with a 42-foot, 4 1/2 inch toss which erased the 1934 record of 35-11.2 by Jack Torrance of LSU.

Hooper emerged as the meet's only double winner, taking the discus Friday with a flip of 164 feet, 7 1/8 inches.

Illinois produced three relay winners and three individual champions to steal the spotlight from a Georgetown-Kansas feud which fizzled.

In the college competition, Abilene Christian won three events—the 440, 880 and mile relays—leaving Loyola of Chicago, North Texas State and San Diego State to share the three other college division laurels.

The meet had its 25-event program heard hit by Friday's downpour and Saturday's persistent, windborne showers, although a closing crowd of 7,000 sat it out.

A much-publicized distance medley meeting between Georgetown and Kansas proved a dud when the Eastern quartet won by more than 100 yards over the Wes Santee-anchored Kansas.

In the college competition, Abilene Christian won three events—the 440, 880 and mile relays—leaving Loyola of Chicago, North Texas State and San Diego State to share the three other college division laurels.

Then the little gamster dug in to take the 11th and 13th and was only one down at the 15th tee. Here Campbell delivered the shot that saved the tournament for him when he put his four iron tee shot six inches from the cup, just missing a hole in one on the 206-yard hole. # Harvey Voices No Hopes For Talks At Panmunjom

By BILL COLLINS
Reporter-Telegram Editor

"I hold no hopes whatsoever for the talks at Panmunjom," Paul Harvey, noted news analyst and author, told a crowd of more than 1,000 Knute & Fork Club members and their guests, who filled the Midland High School Auditorium Saturday night.

"And neither can I celebrate the return of the handful of prisoners by the Reds, considering the tragic cost we will have to pay for the delay caused by the exchange," he declared.

Harvey, who flew here Saturday from Chicago, Ill., home to address the K&F Club's guest night program, was introduced by Perry D. Pic-tit, retiring mayor of Midland, Ralph J. Smith, club president.

"Good evening, Americans," said the 34-year old newscaster as he opened his address, in which he lashed out at communism, state socialism, crime, corruption and citizen indifference.

"The Communist cause in the United States is more man just a group of die-hard, card-carrying Reds," he stated.

He then explained the "merging" of the Communist Party with the Progressive Party, and told how certain trade unions and some local unions already are controlled by Communists through small, well-organized minorities.

He said communism now has a disciplined corps of fewer than 25,000 members, under discipline of Russia, in the United States.

The dangerous thing, he explained, are the thousands upon thousands of Americans who are affiliated with the Communist Political Association.

"These are Americans who are masquerading as 'decent citizens,'" he said, "they come from all walks of life and professions, and they outnumber the disciplined commies ten to one."

"History will record as the tragedy of this era, when the intellectuals started swallowing the collectivist tripe," he declared.

"We long have been against communism, crime and corruption, but we have lacked something to be for."

"How many more American boys must die before we get mad enough to do something?"

"It's time to get mad now," he stressed. "And when the American people get mad enough, they can do anything."

Turning to the domestic front, Harvey said, "We need more men in Washington who will do the right thing even if they never are elected again."

"We established a beachhead last November 4, but the war is not over yet."

"Let's let Washington know that we do not expect a rolling chair or a steady diet of Pabulum," he said.

"Let's let them know we are ready for raw meat and ready to go back to work."

"We eventually will have to learn that we need our 'sic' and foreign policies of our own, realizing that we have outgrown the apron strings of Great Britain."

He recommended a simple, basic formula of "right or wrong" in the solving of the nation's problems. He further recommended the American Creed as "something to be for."

He criticized the UN's Yalu River policy in Korea, termed the policy "political—not military."

Referring briefly to Joe McCarthy, Harvey said the senator is not an intellectual heavyweight, but that he is ready and willing to fight Communists when and where he finds them.

Concluding his address in a more optimistic vein, Harvey said storm clouds always have been on the horizon and always will be.

"Storm clouds are a part of the normal climate of life," he said, "and they must be faced with confidence."

"We stand on the threshold of the most fascinating era in the history of the world."

New Returnees Add To Tale Of Atrocities, Cold, Hunger

FREEDOM VILLAGE, KOREA—Americans, Turks and South Koreans told in tragic detail Saturday how poor medical treatment, cruelty, cold, hunger and the tortures of war caused the deaths of 2,300 Americans and other Allied captives.

Among the 100 Allied prisoners returned during the day, only four British repatriates remained silent on their treatment on official orders "not to discuss certain subjects and to answer questions on these subjects."

A tough, 42-year-old master sergeant of the 1st Cavalry Division, Gilbert Christie of Monticuma, Ind., told in a husky voice about a death march in the bitter winter of 1950.

He estimated there were about 3,000 prisoners in his camp during the cold months and about 50 percent of them died.

"I was one of the fortunate ones," said Christie. "I collapsed and rode the rest of the way on a cow. I had two wounds and needed help."

Christie's 8th Cavalry Regiment was the first American outfit hit when the Chinese suddenly entered the Korean War in November, 1950.

"Personally, I didn't see many die on the march because I was in poor shape at the time," he said.

Cpl. John A. Walters, Jr., of Beckley, W. Va., declared "about 800 died out of around 1,500 men in Camp No. 5 at Pyoktong," a concentration point for non-Korean prisoners near the Yalu River.

Wounds, lack of food, pneumonia, tuberculosis and exhaustion caused the deaths, Walters said. Treatment of prisoners improved "only in the last three months," he added.

Elsewhere on the 155-mile front, four other Red probing attacks were tossed back in brief fights. A South Korean raiding patrol killed 21 North Koreans in an attack along the Nam River on the Eastern Front.

Fifth Air Force fighter-bomber pilots reported destroying 124 buildings and 51 personnel shelters during daylight raids Saturday. Other fighter-bombers continued their relentless bombing and strafing of Red fortifications along the front.

Reds Shut Off

W. Green, Lawton, Okla., captured July 14, 1950, less than three weeks after the start of the war. He was seized by the Reds at Konju, near Taejon, where Gen. William Dean, still a prisoner of the Reds, was captured early in the fighting.

In Good Condition

Dean was married only six days before he came to Korea. His wife, Abigail, lives in Tokyo. Dean told correspondents his wife wasn't expecting him back in the exchange because he had always stressed in letters home that he was in good health. He was believed suffering from bronchial trouble, though he appeared in good condition.

Green is married and the father of three children. He said he hoped to spend his forty-third birthday, May 10, in Lawton with his family. In prison camp, he said, he was called "pappy" and played a lot of basketball with the other prisoners.

Dean and Green raised the number of officers returned by the Reds to four. A second lieutenant and a Navy ensign were returned previously.

The 13 Americans and 21 South Koreans were returned in the second group delivered by the Reds Sunday. Fifty South Koreans came back in the day of Daniel, one of five UN armistice delegates and YOU'VE OFTEN HEARD people say, "Cute as a bug." I guess that they mean something like 305 E. Cottonwood. It's got 2 nice bedrooms, relaxing living room, and rear kitchen. There's grass, paving, and a redwood fence. Completely redecorated 2 weeks ago. $8,250.

TO YOU WONDERFUL and patient people who waited for more of our Kessler Street houses, we can announce that two more are under way towards completion. Total down payment is $1,650, including closing costs. Priced at $10,750.
DO YOU LIKE COMBINATIONS? I'm talking about homes, not gambling. Say, something like Austin Stone and California redwood? And 3 bedrooms (2 are very large), and 2 baths? And the combination of a wood-burning fireplace in a large living room? And a separate dining room off the kitchen? And the combination of a 2-car garage? What about a water well to go with the grass and trees? And the best combination is the $14,000 loan with a sales price of only $18,000. ONLY $4,000 down! Call the combo of Key, Wilson and Maxson NOW!
YOU FIGURE IT from the following facts: 3 bedrooms, tile over the bath, large living room, separate dining area, nice kitchen with breakfast space, and 2 closets in each bedroom. Asbestos siding, attached carport, washer connection in the utility room. Central heating, central air conditioning, blower fan over stove, pantry. Nice lawn, high fence all around, paved street. 1 1/2 years old and in excellent condition. $2,900 down (I'll pay all closing costs), and priced at $11,750.
FOR SUBDUED SPLENDOR and quiet magnificence in home luxury, stop in front of 2507 Country Club Drive.
HER HEART WILL GO "PINGGGG" when she sees the delightful interior of this adorable cream brick home. 2 large bedrooms (each 15 feet), softly carpeted living room and dining area, ceramic tile bath, attached carport and storage. Ideal floor plan if you have children. Landscaped, paved street, and fenced yard. REDUCED TO $10,500.
DO YOU LIVE INSIDE your home or outside? If you enjoy the comfort of an idyllic interior, then you'll love 414 E. Pine. Immaculately clean 2 bedrooms, living room and dining area, and attached garage. Even then, it has a large rear patio and fenced yard for your outside private living. Priced at $10,950.
LOCATION! LOCATION! Who wants LOCATION? Try 1403 West Michigan for size. I know that the 2 bedrooms and the cheery kitchen will fit. Try it on for trade, too.
BETCHA DIDN'T KNOW that 206 Ridgela has 3 bedrooms, huge den, and 1 1/2 baths! And did you know about the strikingly attractive kitchen. And the fence which gives you privacy in your "little estate"? If you know all these, then you know how attractively it can be purchased. We have the home for you, but now it's up to you!

Wildcat In Borden Gets Stain In Mud

Vickers Exploration, Ltd., and associates have found slight shows of oil in the drilling mud at their No. 1 W. C. Orson, Central-West Borden County wildcat.

The shows came in the zone above the present total depth of 2,900 feet. The section is an unidentified lime, chert and shale.

Operators are now circulating for samples. The project probably will run a drillstem test after the cuttings have been checked and identified.

This wildcat is slated to go to 10,000 feet or production in the Pennsylvanian at a lesser depth. So far it has not encountered any possibilities of making an oil well.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 11, block 33, T-5-N, T&P survey.

It is 13 miles west of Oil and 20 miles southeast of Lamesa.

Housing For Oil Show At Tulsa Still Available

Housing accommodations for one, two or three days during the May 14-23 International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa will be available as well as accommodations for the entire 10-day period, Barton A. Myers, chairman of the IPE Housing Bureau, has announced.

Myers said he wishes to clear up any misunderstandings due to rumors that accommodations must be taken for the entire 10-day period.

He said both individual rooms and homes are available for the short periods and can be obtained upon arrival by calling the Housing Bureau or by contacting the Desk & Derrick Club information booths at the airport and railway station.

However, the chairman urged those who can to make reservations in advance by writing the bureau at 13 West 4th Street, Tulsa.

Myers said Tulsa citizens are opening up some of the city's finest homes for the event, since all hotel rooms are reserved.

Approximately 25,000 oil men are expected to be housed during the show, Myers said.

Ellenburger Opener Assured In Andrews

Flowing discovery from the Ellenburger has been assured in North-east Andrews County at Anderson-Prichard Oil Corporation and J. C. Barnes No. 1-E University, 13 miles northeast of the town of Andrews.

The project flowed oil heavily on a drillstem test shaken in the interval from 13,447 to 13,506 feet.

Tool was open three hours and 20 minutes. A 3,500-foot water blanket was used. The water blanket surfaced in 36 minutes and mud in one hour and four minutes. The top choke became plugged in one hour and 25 minutes and the flow of mud died.

After 35 minutes the choke was unplugged and oil surfaced in two hours and five minutes from the time the test tool was opened. The well was flowed to pits to clean for 15 minutes and then turned to tanks.

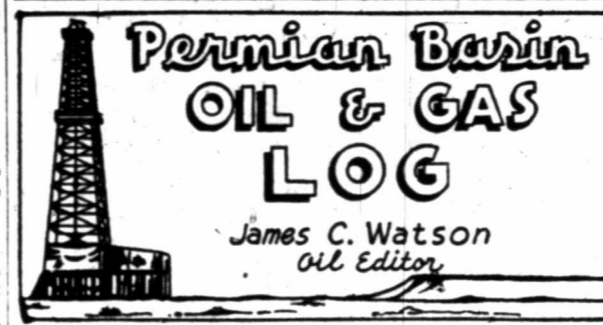

Records Good Flow - During the first 30 minutes of flowing, the wildcat made 40.5 barrels of oil and the same amount during the second 30 minutes. Gravity of the oil is 46.4 degrees.

Top hole flowing pressure was 40 pounds and shut-in top hole pressure was 1,250 pounds after an unreported length of time. Open flowing bottomhole pressure was from 4,800 to 5,950 pounds. Shut-in bottomhole pressure was not recorded.

At last report, operator was reaming core hole. When that job is completed more hole will be made with core bit.

The Ellenburger was topped at 13,479 feet, on an elevation of 2,994 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block 7, University Lands survey.

AUSTIN —(AP)—Oil well drilling activity was up a little in Texas last week.

The Railroad Commission reported 211 completions compared with 184 the previous week. The total for the year, 3,296, lagged far behind last year's 3,811.

Wildcatting edged up some. Seven wells were completed in unproven territory compared with six the week before. The total for the year was 173 compared with 205 in the same period of 1952.

More wells have been plugged this year, the commission's weekly report showed. The total is 2,997 compared with 1,991 last year. An increase of 11,106 barrels in the average calendar day allowable was reported, the current figure is 2,905, 021 barrels daily.

Murray Replaces Thompson As API Speaker Wednesday

William Murray, of the Railroad Commission of Texas, has replaced Lt. Gen. E. O. Thompson as the principal speaker at the sixth mid-year meeting of the safety and fire protection committees of the American Petroleum Institute in Galveston April 28-May 1.

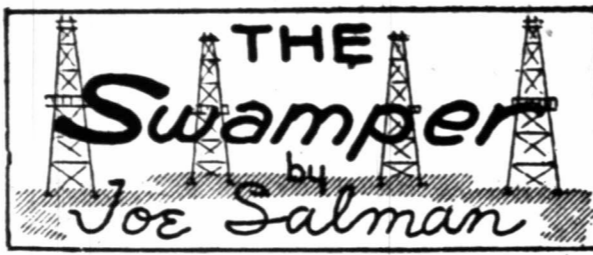

Murray agreed to address the group's traditional dinner session on Wednesday evening after Gen. Thompson was forced to withdraw because of an urgent change in his business schedule. Murray plans to discuss conservation of oil, and safety and fire protection practices in his address.

The mid-year safety meeting will open Sunday and will continue through Friday. All sessions will be held in Hotel Galvez. Upwards of 200 safety and technical men, as well as industry leaders, are expected to attend.

A demonstration on electrical hazards in home and industry will be one of the highlights of the meeting. It will be given by Les Dutton, senior staff engineer of the industrial department, National Safety Council. It will be presented at a group session Wednesday afternoon.

An address and motion picture on "Extinguishment and Control of Oil Tank Fires by Agitation" will be presented by J. L. Risinger, of Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, New York, at the same session.

The 1953 edition of Ira Rinehardt's Yearbook, a 527-page, two-volume review of oil and gas activity, now is out. The volumes cover activity in 20 states during 1952.

Volume I includes a 61-page symposium and geological forecast including an article on the Permian Basin area of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico written by Wayne Ashmore, J. H. Bartley, C. D. Elwell and J. W. Skrabanek, all consulting geologists of Midland.

Listed in Volume II are 1,987 discoveries, new pay openers and extension producers. Also included are 32 charts and 155 maps.

The forecast section in Volume I was written by 12 leading geologists who analyze 1952 activity and results for indications of 1953 prospects.

Among other special features is an article, "The Domestic Producer in 1953," by Charlton H. Lyons, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, devoted to such industry problems as steel, crude prices and imports.

Price of the book is $25 to Rinehart subscribers and $35 to non-subscribers.

The newly formed Permian Publishing Company last week published its first edition of Drill Bit, an oil industry publication devoted to the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico.

The publishing company is owned by Coy Holcomb, Gus M. Raymer and Thomas H. Smith, all of Odessa.

The first issue features a full color photograph of the recent Pecos County wildcat gas well on the cover. Articles include reports on jet bits, gas injection, Scurry Area Canyon Reef Operators Committee unitization and carbon black.

Special articles deal with drilling activity, locations and completions by counties, the first Permian Basin oil discovery and others.

Area of coverage includes all of the Railroad Commission of Texas' Districts 8 and 7-C, plus Chaves, Eddy and Lea Counties of Southeast New Mexico.

Smith is the editor, Holcomb the advertising manager and Raymer is production manager.

W. A. (Stud) Grapes, area manager for Falcon Seaboard Drilling Company, now drives with his car windows rolled up.

Recently, while driving to Jennings, La., he heard a thud on the top of his car; a few moments later, he felt something crawling down his back; and seconds later, he jumped out of the car to discover that a huge snake had dropped in for a ride.

He killed the snake and kept the body to prove his story. Without it, Grapes said, too many of his friends might put the blame on Louisiana moonshine.

WASHINGTON OIL—Producers Split With Coal Industry In Imports Scrap

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A spokesman for American oil producers split last week with the coal industry in the fight for legislation to slow down excessive imports of crude oil and products.

Russell B. Brown, counsel of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, defended a proposal to limit crude oil and product imports to 10 per cent of domestic demand.

He disapproved, however, of another proposal to further limit residual fuel oil imports to five per cent of domestic demand. This, he said, "is not in conformity" with IPAA aims. The IPAA should review the five per cent plan—a coal industry plan—at its April 27 meeting at St. Louis, he said.

The arithmetic of the matter shows that the 10 per cent quota, if adopted, would hold imports to 728,000 barrels daily. They now are above a million barrels daily.

If the five per cent quota were added, too, virtually the whole cut-back would be in the form of residual fuel. In fact, the final result would be to allow even more crude oil—48,000 barrels more—than came in during 1952.

Reciprocity Trade Hearing

The proposals, one from oil, the other from coal, are attached to legislation on reciprocal trade which finally reaches hearings Monday before the House Ways and Means Committee.

The IPAA and other proponents tell their story May 11 and 12. They are expected to point out that Texas production has been cut back by 400,000 barrels daily in the last few months due to imports. Whether IPAA wants Canada exempted from any quota may be outlined then.

At least five major oil companies are down to testify against the oil quota on May 13 and 14. They include Jersey Standard, California Standard, Texaco, Gulf and Sococo-Vacuum. Oil marketing associations and other importing companies will testify.

To head off legislation, they have announced plans to cut back imports by at least 34,200 barrels daily as follows: Jersey, 18,000 barrels daily; Sococo-Vacuum, 5,000; Texaco, 5,000; Gulf, 6,200; J. Ed Warren of Midland, Texas, deputy petroleum administrator, asked the cutbacks.

Empire State Petroleum Association, meanwhile, fighting any curbs on oil imports, has retained Leighton Wade, attorney who is from the same congressional district as Daniel F. Reed (R-NY), chairman of the committee.

A crimp in further plans to cut back oil imports may follow the Justice Department's civil anti-trust action last week against the five oil companies. A development in the "oil cartel" case, the civil action repleaders, a criminal one, and leaves out at the urging of the State Department, British and Dutch companies.

Rocky Mountain Summary Of 1952 Oil Is Issued

Publication of the twenty-third Annual Resume of Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas operations has just been announced by the Denver publication headquarters of Petroleum Information. The book presents a complete review of the operations of the oil industry in the region during 1952, which was by a considerable margin the greatest oil year of record in the Rockies.

Petroleum Information has for more than 25 years, operated an oil news reporting service devoted to development of the Rockies. Appraisal of the region, as expressed in the foreword of the twenty-third Annual Resume and based on the quarter century of Petroleum Information's experience is optimistic. "There is no other region within the continental limits of this nation with the prospective, undeveloped oil possibilities of the Rocky Mountain basins, and the lack of deeper drilling through a large part of these states leaves many possibilities for large volume oil and gas production which are not possible to find in any other sedimentary areas of the nation," the publishers state. The resume reviews, verbally and graphically, the work done in the region in 1952 with respect to total expenditures, production, rig activity, exploratory drilling and total drilling, discoveries, unit agreements, geophysical and logging operations. Discoveries are listed for the entire region, then discussed individually. The book is organized by basins rather than by states, and follows the pattern that the actual work done in the region has taken. Each of the areas of similarity of interest is presented as a unit, and a resume, plus maps of important developments, and discovery well reports, are presented for each basin. Plans of the immediate area of each discovery are part of the reports, and a log section showing the pay zone of each of the 96 discoveries is de-finer. Priced at $10 per copy, the volume is available at Petroleum Information offices in Denver, Casper, Billings and Bismarck. Although the year in which many European wines were produced is important to their flavor, this usually is not true of California wines because of the uniformity of the climate.

The Tool Pusher

Sharp Decline Is Registered In Non-Communist Oil Runs

TULSA—Despite record-breaking production in the Middle East, a sharp decline in crude-oil output in Venezuela and a smaller decrease in the United States caused a net drop of about 83,000 barrels daily in the non-Communist world total in February, The Oil and Gas Journal reported Saturday.

Venezuelan production fell 75,000 barrels daily for the second monthly decline from the record high level reached last December. The Journal pointed out that the February total of 1,717,100 barrels daily was 61 per cent below February, 1952.

Total Free World production of crude in February was 11,624,300 barrels daily. Of the decrease of 83,000 barrels daily from January, the United States accounted for about 13,000 barrels daily. The rest of the drop was the net decline in foreign fields.

The 2,256,400 barrels daily produced in the Middle East in February represented an all-time peak for this region. This total is almost 515,000 barrels daily above the lowest point reached immediately after the loss of Iran's 600,000 to 700,000 barrels daily in production. Saudi Arabian production was up 11,500 barrels daily in February, while output in the sheikhdom of Qatar hit a new record of 82,700 barrels daily. These gains more than offset small decreases in Kuwait and Iraq.

Total production of crude in Europe showed a slight drop in February. This resulted from a decrease in The Netherlands where the single field was closed in for a short time following the heavy floods which halted refining operations.

Total non-Communist world production in February was more than 840,000 barrels daily, or five per cent over February, 1952. United States output rose two and seven-tenths per cent during this period. Foreign fields, on the other hand, showed an eight per cent gain in output.

OIIIC To Release New Film On Williston Basin Oil Discovery

The Oil Industry Information Committee has announced that its new motion picture, which will be released this fall during Oil Progress Week, will dramatize the story behind the story of the discovery of oil in the Williston Basin in North Dakota.

Appropriately, the title of the new film will be "American Frontier."

It will show how the discovery of oil in April, 1951, changed the whole economic and social development of a section of modern America; how the first successful well put new life and new meaning into a rural area where farmers and ranchers alike had depended upon the vagaries of the weather and a single crop.

From Real Life
The 1953 motion picture will be a real-life documentary, a true story using Williston Basin residents as its cast. It will record the day-by-day bustle and transformation that takes place in the development of a new frontier.

Her essay, which tells of the work of women in the oil industry, says in part:

"You see us everywhere. The trim little blonde who brings your mail during the day is the mail girl. The lady in the white uniform that gives you the red pill and swabs your throat is the industrial nurse. Peering through her microscope and juggling test tubes up on the next floor is the chemist. Beating out a tattoo on her typewriter in the next office is the stenographer. Down the hall working on a map to select the spot to 'shoot a well' is a lady geologist. And the efficient young woman who makes your appointments and keeps your personnel records is your secretary."

In concluding of her essay, Miss Bracher wrote:

The Show Industry
"The International Petroleum Exposition will show me in a clear-cut, understandable manner, such important oil steps as exploration, drilling, production, refining, pipeline networks, and the latest in scientific research."
"This 10-day session at Tulsa can do what it would take many years to do here on the job. Just think, I would actually see portrayed almost a century of progress in the oil industry!"
"Boss, let some of that Tulsa oil lubricate this little 'cog' in our company. I'll come back geared to do a better job for you and Humble."

Jessie Whiteside of Hissom Drilling Company and Dorothy Herzer of D-K Drilling Company, both members of the Midland Desk & Derrick Club are planning to attend the Tulsa oil show. Several other members of the Midland club may go.

Midland D&D Club Officials Shown In IPAA Monthly

The Midland Desk & Derrick Club received nation-wide publicity in the April, 1953, issue of "The IPAA Monthly," which is the official publication of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

A picture showing the members of the executive board of the Midland D&D organization was carried in that publication.

Those shown in that picture were: Ernie Hays, Honolulu Oil Corporation, recording secretary; Glen-yth Herring, McIlroy Ranch Company, director; Reta Beights, Humble Pipe Line Company, vice president; Betty Wright, Vega Corporation, president; Madeline Graves, Shell Oil Company, past president and director; Louise Metz, American Republics Corporation, corresponding secretary; Margaret Larkin, Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company, director and Ruth Donnell, Richmond Drilling Company, treasurer.

When, in old motion pictures, the spokes of a wheel on a moving vehicle seemed to be standing still or revolving backward, it was the result of coordination of the motion of the spokes with the 24-pictures-a-second speed of the film.

S. Army by Major General G. S. Meloy, commandant of the Infantry School and also commandant of Fort Benning.

Meloy had heard Stripling in series of addresses he had given at the Army War College in 1947, 1948 and 1949. In those addresses the Midland man gave the military men to whom he talked information about various activities and operations of the communists.

Stripling was asked to give the talks at Fort Benning, headquarters for all infantry training for the U. S. Army by Major General G. S. Meloy, commandant of the Infantry School and also commandant of Fort Benning.

Meloy had heard Stripling in series of addresses he had given at the Army War College in 1947, 1948 and 1949. In those addresses the Midland man gave the military men to whom he talked information about various activities and operations of the communists.

Stripling gained his intimate and detailed knowledge of communism during the ten years he served as chief investigator of the House Un-American Committee. That service was prior to the time he came to Midland in early 1949 and became an oil operator.

His 1949 appearance at the Army War College was after he had moved to Midland. He went back to that institution for the lectures for that year at the request of top military officials.

Since he came to this city Stripling has had many requests to speak to many different business and professional groups on the dangers of communism.

He has also been called on frequently by various governmental organizations to appear on programs which have been directed at telling of the threats the American way of life from various subversive elements.

Fills Many Requests
He fills many of those requests and that work takes him away from Midland and from his activity in the oil business for considerable periods.

However, he said Saturday that he was going to continue as a Midland citizen and was going to stay in the oil business.

"I think it is my duty to do my part to help protect the United States," Stripling said. "So long as I can I will continue to work with all persons and organizations who are fighting communism."

To Speak In NGAA
The Midland oil operator is to be the principal speaker at the general session of the 32nd annual convention of the National Gas Association of America which is to be held in Houston on Thursday of this week.

He will talk on the "General Aspects of Communism."

The NGAA convention opens Wednesday and continues through Friday.

NEW 'TURTLE CLUB' MEMBERS—Award of a white, turtle-shaped, hard head and life-time membership in the world-famous "Turtle Club" was made recently to Lowell P. Johnston, Shell Oil Company engineer, Midland. The club consists of individuals whose lives have been saved by the protection of a hard safety helmet. The award is made by the E. W. Bullard Company of San Francisco. Shown above witnessing the presentation are, from left to right, Guy Creighton, M. A. Sherwood, M. C. Brunner, Johnson, R. P. Moscrip and Joe C. Smith, all in the Shell Oil Company organization in Midland.

Lion Oil Wins Two National Safety Honors

EL DORADO, ARK. — Lion Oil Company has been represented two times by the National Safety Council for the accident-prevention record established by the employees of the company in the year 1952.

The Award of Honor is the highest industrial recognition for safety achievement awarded by the National Safety Council.

The company as a whole, which has more than 2600 employees, was presented an award for "a remarkable reduction in the frequency and severity of accidents." The employees of the company's manufacturing division, consisting of the El Dorado (Ark.) refinery and El Dorado chemical plant, won the other award "for working in excess of three million man hours without a disabling injury."

Two Wildcats Plugged In Lea County Areas

Marlowe Oil Company and Oceanic Oil Company No. 1 State, wildcat in Central Lea County, New Mexico, has been plugged and abandoned on total depth of 5,160 feet in the San Andres.

That formation was topped at 4,860 feet, elevation 3,983 feet. Location is 660 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 9-15-35e.

J. H. Elder and others No. 1 Sheldon, wildcat in Southwest Lea County was quit as a failure in Yates sand at 3,950 feet. Sulphur water was made at total depth. The Yates sand was topped at 3,805 feet, elevation not available. McAlester Fuel Company No. 2-C

Pat H. McClure, location in the Denton (Wolfcamp) field, has been abandoned. Site was 430 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 14-15e-37e.

The Atlantic Refining Company No. 3-A-1 Betty C. Dickinson is also an abandoned location. It was 990 feet from south and 330 feet from west lines of section 1-15e-37e.

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

That slicker surely came in handy Wednesday night, Podner! Was a real pleasure to get to use it, too!

Boy, that rain was about the finest thing that has happened in this section in a long time. It came about as near being a "million dollar" rain as anything we have had in many moons.

Ranchers, farmers and city folk again are smiling—some of them even are laughing out loud.

Just to wake up in the middle of the night and hear rainwater running off the house is a joy to all West Texans. And if there is a tin can or tub under the rain spout, it is all the better.

And Thursday morning, the song of the day in Midland was "Oh, What A Beautiful Morning." Really was, too.

Pasture lands will green-up again now and the farmers can go back to work in their fields.

Rain in March, followed by rain in April, surely will be followed by more rain in May. We can hope anyway, can't we?

So, better keep that slicker handy, Podner!

Reporting a light run, the market was steady to strong on most classes compared with the week previous, at the Midland Livestock Auction Sale Thursday.

Fat calves, good to choice, brought $18 to $20; medium to good, $16 to $18; cull to common, $11 to $16.

Medium to good cows went at $12 to $13.25. Canners and cutters sold for $8 to $12. Old shells were lower.

Bulls brought $12.50 to $15.50. Not enough good stocker calves were offered to establish a market. Mixed breeds, Brahman and plain stocker calves and yearlings brought $11.50 to $14.50.

Frank Midkiff, who ranches 25 miles southeast of Midland, has constructed ditches and is ready to irrigate 15 acres of land which he will irrigate with a level border system. He has constructed an earth reservoir into which he will pump from his well to build up an adequate irrigation supply of water. Midkiff plans to drill grain sorghum for feed this summer, and will seed the field to alfalfa or permanent pasture this fall. Assistance in designing and laying out the system is being furnished by the Soil Conservation Service through a cooperative agreement with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District.

Blue panic-grass is making good growth on the Dr. W. L. Sutton farm southeast of Midland. He recently has plowed out the middles to kill the weeds and stimulate growth. Dr. Sutton has 180 acres of the grass planted in 36 inch rows. Twenty-five acres was planted in May, 1950, and has maintained a good stand with summer use since July of 1950.

Joe Heideberg has completed approximately two miles of new irrigation ditches on the Midland sewage disposal farm. This includes the revision of old ditches and construction of new ditches to extend the irrigation system. Water from the city sewage plant is used for irrigation after it has been treated at the new sewage plant. Heideberg uses a level border system of irrigation installed with the assistance of the Soil Conservation Service.

The American Hereford Association comes up with quite a discourse on "Land, Grass and Herefords," a part of which is reproduced as follows:

One word hasn't changed its meaning or lost any of its prime importance since a cow named Silver gave birth to a white-faced calf and the Hereford breed of beef cattle in Herefordshire, England, some 200 years ago.

That word is PROFIT.

It was uppermost in the minds of the thrifty farmers of the County Hereford when they developed a breed of cattle that could convert the knee-deep stand of native grass into superior beef to meet an expanding market created by Britain's eighteenth century industrial boom.

As seedstock was imported from Herefordshire to America and Herefords began appearing more and more on the ranges spreading westward, the profit motive took on an even greater importance. Herefords replaced the Longhorns and took over where other breeds once ranged because they had a ruggedness that withstood extreme variations in climate across the water. They had a constitution that made them good doers in all types of terrain. They had the inherent qualities that guided them instinctively through blizzards and droughts.

Predominant Breed

Today, in America, Herefords are the predominant breed of beef cattle. They didn't win that position because their cherry-red bodies and their appealing white faces form a beautiful picture on a green carpet of grass. They are the predominant breed because they have proven to be the most profitable breed for the registered producer, for the commercial cattelman, for the feedlot operator, for the packer and down through the butcher. The same profit factor is keyed closely to the common goal of Hereford producers to provide nutritious and superior beef for American tables at a price the average American family can afford to pay.

About seven per cent of U. S. men of draft age are ineligible for military service because of eye defects.

One-third of Texas' 1952 cotton crop was ginned in a Rosen High Plains counties, according to the final crop report of the Bureau of the Census. The 12 counties ginned 1,236,896 of the state's 3,471,185 bales.

The cotton-growing counties of the 132-county area served by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce ginned a total of 1,999,621 bales, or 54 per cent of the state crop.

Hidalgo, in fifth place outranked counties outside of West Texas, with 158,073 bales.

Reeves County, with its expanding irrigation, stepped into the above 100,000-bale group with 105,268 bales. That county ginned 69,239 bales in 1951.

In this immediate area, ginnings are reported as follows: Dawson, 47,880 bales; Gaines, 17,788; Martin, 17,940; Pecos, 10,735; Ward, 8,901; Howard, 2,689; Midland, 3,159; Tom Green, 3,597. (Will be a far different story this year if the rains continue.)

Members of the Glasscock County 4-H Club will be in Rankin May 30 to participate in a District Six rifle shoot.

Then on June 4-6 the boys will make a trip to district camp at Alpine.

A number of other trips also are planned by the 4-H Clubbers during the summer.

A group of 56 outstanding Santa Gertrudis cattle will be shown for judging at the first annual Pan-American Livestock Exposition, scheduled for the State Fair of Texas in Dallas, October 10-25. Major Tom Armstrong of the Armstrong Ranch Kingsville, president of the Santa Gertrudis Breeders International, has announced.

It will be the first time that Santa Gertrudis cattle have been entered in a major livestock show to be judged under SCBI sponsorship. Eight classes will be shown with a grand champion and a reserve champion to be named among both bulls and heifers.

The 1953 Panhandle South Plains Fair will be held September 28 - October 3, according to reports coming out of Lubbock, home of the big event.

Present indications are that 100,000 acres will be planted to castorbeans in Texas this year. This is the acreage allotted the state on which prices are guaranteed by the United States Department of Agriculture. This acreage, says W. I. Butler, assistant agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, compares with 94,000 acres planted in 137 Texas counties last year.

Total income from last year's crops, explains Ross, was approximately one and one-half million dollars. Yields were low in many areas due to drought and lack of experience on the part of new growers.

MORE TROUBLE FOR BRITAIN?—Newsmag indicates where Iran is reportedly massing troops along its southern coast, opposite the three British-protected islands of Tumb, Abu Musa and Sirri. Iran has long claimed the islands, together with oil-rich Bahrain Island, farther north. Britain recognizes the sovereignty of the Sheikhdom of Trucial Oman over the three islands, and any invasion of the sparsely populated bits of land, used mainly for grazing, would presumably involve Britain.

Treasury Bond Offer Told By Savings Panel Leaders

John P. Butler, volunteer chairman of the Midland County U. S. Savings Bond Committee, Saturday reminded holders of F & G Treasury Bonds, which mature between May and December, 1953, of the Treasury offer to exchange their bonds for the new Treasury 3 1/4 per cent fully marketable bonds if they desire.

The offer, announced earlier this month by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, does not apply to Series E Savings Bonds, which mature during the same period. Holders of maturing E Bonds still are privileged to hold the bonds and additional 10 years with interest.

Holders of maturing F & G Bonds must make application to exchange their bonds for the new issue before May 1, Butler said. Banks will be glad to advise holders of making the exchange, he stated.

Par For Par

Exchanges of Series F & G Bonds, Butler explained, will be made par for par and will be allotted in full. Since holders of the F & G Bonds will receive interest on the new bonds at the rate of 3 1/4 per cent from May 1, 1953, interest adjustments will be made as follows: In the case of Series F Bonds the subscriber will be charged an amount equivalent to interest from May 1 to date of maturity of the F Bond at the rate of 2.53 per cent per annum. With Series G Bonds, the owner will receive an interest payment at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent per annum borne by the G Bonds, from the last interest payment to May 1, 1953.

The lowest denomination of the new bonds will be $500, Butler said. Holders of smaller denominations of Series F & G Bonds may exchange them for the next higher multiple of $500 upon payment of any cash difference.

Eligible F & G Bond holders who do not wish to make the exchange will have the opportunity of reinvesting the proceeds of their bonds as they mature in Savings Bonds currently on sale, or to receive cash payment.

The offer expires Thursday, Butler emphasized.

Dog Poison Danger Seen To Children

With an increase in dog poisoning last week, Frank H. Rose, Midland humane officer, Saturday warned that city police had joined him in an effort to corner the culprits.

Rose appealed to Midlanders to report any suspicious actions to him immediately. Recent patrols have indicated a large number of dogs are being allowed to roam certain neighborhoods, particularly in the evening.

Rose expressed rising fear that children may eat poisonous bait or other food planted by the dog poisoner.

"The danger of death for children is on the increase," he pointed out Saturday.

Youth Center Plans To Be Resubmitted

Labeled too fancy, plans for the New Youth Center will be withdrawn. Revised plans are to be resubmitted to bidders.

The building committee decided over the weekend that new plans will be turned out immediately in order that construction may start as soon as possible. Members are Arlo Forrest, George McEntire, and E. W. Anguish.

More than $48,000 has been raised toward the $60,000 goal set for the new center. Revised plans should be ready within a week, officials said Saturday.

Kin Of Midlander Interred In Kansas

Funeral services were held in Arkansas City, Kan., last Thursday for R. W. Houston, 74, brother of Mrs. Ethel Gravette, 1308 South Main Street. He died Wednesday after being in poor health for several years.

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. C. C. Williams of Paducah, Ky., and Mrs. Minnie Gamble of Bakerfield, Calif., and a brother, T. A. Houston of Arkansas City.

Geologists Look To WTGS Library As Important 'Research Storehouse'

West Texas geologists swear by formations—and one they bank on particularly is but 18 years old, a far cry from the usual thousand-year cycle. Their prize was the "formation" of the large geological library housed at present, in the County Court House Basement.

It's not strictly a "county project," even though it's supervised by librarians under Mrs. Lucile C. Carroll, Midland County Librarian. The county library is simply the house; the West Texas Geological Association furnishes the material.

Each year, the WTGS adds books to the library—now 4,500 volumes strong—through purchases and donations. The county doesn't spend a dime on the books, periodicals and other volumes in the library. The WTGS carries that load.

One of the best sources for the library is the geologist himself, in which there are more than 1,000 in this area. Each day West Texas geologists receive information not pertinent to their projects and, rather than junk the bulletins, donate them to the Midland library. Quite often a geologist or oil man will donate his complete private library for the aid of other geologists. That was particularly true during World War II.

Large donations have made the library click through its eighteen years. Such people as John Emery Adams, Lawrence Lees, R. V. Hollingsworth, E. Russell Lloyd, W. A. Waldschmidt and University Lands administrators gave, and are giving, volume upon volume to build what is now one of the outstanding collections in the Southwest. Addison Young and Lloyd stand as crutches for the library as it took its first steps in 1935.

Geologists, engineers, "civilians," anyone—whether he is a WTGS member or not—may use the library facilities. And they do.

Newcomers to Midland usually start with the West Texas-New Mexico Symposium, a geological round-up of this area compiled by Ronald DeFord and E. Russell Lloyd.

Library users especially are pleased with one of the most valuable research and reference systems found in any library, the "American Journal of Science." Geologists and engineers can look back as far as 1871 into the realms of science and roam their way right up to the present.

And Midland children aren't neglected. They hear geology at home, at school and at play. Why shouldn't they read about it? Now they can trot right down to the library and read up on their geology in simple, well-defined books for younger set geologists.

There are quite a few hard-to-get items in the library. Take, for example, the "young" but already rare volume on "Red Beds and Associated Formations in New Mexico." Though the book was published in 1928, it is already out of print. Readers may use the book in the library only. The only route the book can take in leaving the Midland library is the quick straight-away route to photostat experts. Individuals are not permitted to tuck the book under their arms and walk out.

Other old and much-sought-for volumes included a glossary of geological terms originally published in 1918 and a book on the microscope written by Jeber Hogg in 1857.

Mrs. Carroll has classified and catalogued books on general geology under the standard Dewey Decimal System (as in most libraries), but the rest of the books are arranged under a special—but simple—system.

The library parades itself in definite classifications: general geology, professional periodicals, federal publications (U. S. Geological Surveys and the like), and state geological surveys and field trip reports.

Books and periodicals which feel the most thumbing are AAPG publications, bulletins from the University of Texas, the University of New Mexico and New Mexico College of Mines, and volumes on petroleum engineering and geophysical exploration.

As a help to readers the WTGS has installed a micro-film reader. Through this plan, readers can study out-of-print and rare volumes as they reel along on a strip of micro-film.

Finally, Midland's geological library doesn't keep secrets. Instead, it helps out throughout Texas, the Southwest and occasionally as far away as New York. Individuals don't check out books by mail—but through libraries throughout the United States that call upon the Midland center for books, research and other aids. Former Midlanders are quick to call upon the library for aid in problems whatever and wherever they may be.

In return, the WTGS gets bulletins, field trip reports and other information from such states as Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Illinois, Alabama and Colorado on an exchange basis.

Mrs. Carroll pointed out that the library is binding the geological store as fast as possible. Growth of such a library, she said, is a difficult thing to match.

The Midland committee which handles the business and policy ends of the library includes John Hills, chairman, W. E. McEachin, G. G. Cooper, John W. Daly and Garret L. Wilde. This group picks books and equipment for the library and works to promote growth through donations. Part of the steel shelving in the geological section, for example, was bought and installed through an earlier WTGS committee.

Each year the association steps up its work to better a library already one of the best in the petroleum world.

How many people use the library each day? Well, Mrs. Carroll isn't quite sure—but she does know that some 3,470 books were checked out during 1952.

"And that doesn't take into consideration the many who come to the library every day and spend hour after hour on research," Mrs. Carroll said. "It would be an almost impossible task to keep track of all who use this library."

DEEP PIT

Meteor Crater, between Winslow and Flagstaff, is one of Arizona's most unusual marvels. It is a great pit caused by the impact of a comet thousands of years ago. Its rim has a diameter of almost a mile, while the pit is some 600 feet deep.

Teakwood contains a gritty substance that quickly dulls edged tools, but is easy to work when tools are kept sharp.

Texas Supreme Court To Decide Fate Of RRC's Edict On Gas Flaring, Venting

By JAMES N. ALLISON
Reporter-Telegram Publisher

AUSTIN—Texas' Supreme Court will determine the fate of the State Railroad Commission's first field-wide "frontal attack" or "all-out assault" against gas flaring and venting. Meanwhile, operators of some 600 wells in the Spraberry Trend Area near Midland who were plaintiffs or intervenors in a district court suit challenging the commission's field-wide order can produce their wells. The remainder of the 2,300 wells in the 500,000-acre oil field must be shut until further action is taken.

District Judge Charles O. Betts granted a permanent injunction against enforcement of the commission's shutdown order for all wells in the Spraberry area insofar as it would apply to operators who are not flaring or venting gas. His ruling at the conclusion of a three-day trial leaves the order in effect against operators whose wells have been wasting natural gas.

Appeal Filed Quickly
Notice of appeal immediately was filed in the court by Assistant Attorney General C. K. Richards who said the case would be taken directly to the State Supreme Court.

The court's ruling late Friday upheld arguments of the five plaintiffs who declared they were not flaring or venting gas and therefore should not be forced to halt their production.

"As applied to them," Betts ruled, "the order is invalid because it is based on no substantial evidence—in fact, no evidence at all."

He said any parties to the suit, including some 30 intervenors, and some of whom now are flaring gas may regain the right to produce where they can show they have stopped wasting gas on their properties.

Effect On Allowables
The court's action was "without prejudice" to the commission to issue subsequent orders, granting exceptions, exemptions or amending the directive as long as it does not conflict with his injunction. He also declared the commission is free to change oil and gas allowables in the Spraberry area "to the extent that it not cut allowables to any complying plaintiffs or intervenors with respect to wells which are not wasting gas. Amplifying this, Betts explained the commission, under the terms of the injunction, cannot reduce the allowables of complying operators below the market available for the field.

The field-wide order, described by Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, commission chairman, as a "new frontal attack and not a flanking movement," was slapped on the Spraberry area April 1 and the area's allowables for April was set at zero. In his testimony during the trial Thompson asserted that any oil produced in the Spraberry since the order was effective would be deducted from the next allowables set for the field.

At the conclusion of arguments, Judge Betts immediately announced his decision. He explained it in detail but there was considerable confusion and a number of attorneys strolled to the bench to ask questions and obtain specific information. It probably will be several days before the complicated ruling is typed in final form. And meanwhile there is some speculation on its exact provisions.

Called Only Test
Betts said he was convinced substantial waste was occurring in the Spraberry but the only way he could test the validity of a field-wide order was by studying the way it effects individual operators. The five plaintiffs urged that the commission's order be held invalid in full or in part so as not to shut operators who are complying with terms of the directive.

Attorneys for Phillips Petroleum Company has gasoline plants in Spraberry, and Sohio Oil Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of Ohio, urged that the order be declared valid or invalid in its entirety. These companies were intervenors in the lawsuit. They declared the commission issued the field-wide order to protect the rights of all operators, and they asserted that authority for nonflaring operators to produce while flaring operators are shutdown would mean a loss of millions of dollars in oil and gas through drainage from the shut-in leases to the producing leases.

They said some operators may be flaring gas through no fault of their own.

'Unfair' Contention
Main plaintiffs in the case were the Rowan Drilling Company, Major Arthur T. Harvey, Plymouth Oil Company, Republic Natural Gas Company and Blackwood & Nichols Company. They contended it would be unfair to deny nonflaring operators the right to produce their wells because someone failed to find beneficial use for his casinghead gas.

Eiton Hyder, Jr. of Fort Worth, representing Rowan, and W. P. Z. Gorman, Jr. of Midland, representing Harvey, asserted the commission could shut-in only the flaring wells. They said "lawful operators" should not be penalized because other operators violate the rules.

In his argument, Richards asked that the entire order be upheld, asserting the commission is charged with the responsibility of conserving natural resources of the state.

"The commission was acting for the benefit of the entire state," Richards continued. "Natural resources do not belong to operators but to the entire state."

Wasted Gas Cited
The commission charged in its order that 220,000,000 cubic feet of gas wasted daily in the Spraberry was only 65,000,000 cubic feet daily was put to beneficial use.

In his long oral explanation Judge

Betts declared the Spraberry Trend Area is one reservoir—"a unit." This the Plymouth Company challenges and indications are it will seek a divorce of the Bendunum Spraberry Field from the Spraberry Trend Area.

George Bunn, manager of the Phillips Petroleum Company's natural gasoline department told the court the bottleneck in the Spraberry is insufficient pipe line capacity to take the gas to available markets. More pipe lines now are being projected to take gas from the field and operators hope most of the gas will be put to beneficial use by January, 1954.

Meanwhile, some operators hope to obtain outlets for their casinghead gas promptly and get their wells back into production.

Irrigation May Pep Up Area Cattle Work

PECOB—The huge irrigated cotton district around Pecos soon may become one of the leading cattle feeding areas of the state.

This is the belief given by a long time stock-feeder in the article "Cattle Feeding in Cotton Country" in the May issue of The Progressive Farmer magazine.

Paul C. Davidson, Reeves county rancher, believes so strongly in the future of feeding beef cattle in the area that he has completed a $50,000 feeding plant on his farm. Last year he planted about 700 acres of his land to alfalfa.

"I need alfalfa to feed my cattle and alfalfa enriches the soil," Davidson points out. "By rotating cotton and alfalfa, I'll not only get more feed, but I'll also make my land grow more cotton."

NATURAL GAS RESERVES—Gas reserves in the United States continued to expand in 1952 despite a record withdrawal of 8.6 trillion cubic feet. At the end of the year 5.9 trillion cubic feet had been added to proved recoverable reserves, bringing the total to almost 200 trillion cubic feet. Increased exploration activities accounted for new discoveries last year of 5.4 trillion cubic feet compared with only three trillion of reserves in new fields brought in during 1951. Extended drilling in existing fields added another 8.9 trillion cubic feet to the nation's fuel reservoir.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And Blue Was The Sky

Everyone else had left the circus to go back to the Great Forest, Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, and Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, were ready at least to go home too.

"Giddup, Archibald!" Daddy Ringtail called the words to Archibald, the donkey, so Archibald would pull the wagon away. Archibald brayed like the donkey he was, and away he went with the wagon. The wagon made a creaky noise.

Daddy Ringtail sat in the driver's seat. Mugwump lay down in the back of the wagon, but plenty close enough to the seat in front, so he could talk with Daddy Ringtail.

"Daddy Ringtail," said Mugwump, "I betcha I sure am going to be glad to be home again."

"Oh, my yes," Daddy Ringtail agreed.

Archibald brayed a donkey noise to say that he was going to be glad to be home too. Archibald had worried at the circus about the rebras with rebra stripes. Archibald thought that the stripes were stripes that ought to wash off, but they would not wash off, of course.

Yes, and Mugwump Monkey had

had a very fine time at the circus with the circus mystery, but now he was happy—oh so happy—to be going home again. He had been almost sick to be home again.

Our friends rode in the wagon all day long. Archibald, the faithful donkey, pulled them along through all the day with only a little stop for lunch of fresh green grass that grew by the way. At last, late that afternoon, our friends were riding again through the Great Forest. They were riding now on the Elephant Path.

Mugwump lay very still on his back. He looked straight up at the blue, blue, blue of the sky. The sky was bluer, it seemed, the closer to home they came. And stronger even than the smell of the flowers around was the happy smell of scrambled coconut.

Yes, and there! They were home at last! They were down on the ground beneath the very tall tree with the monkey house in the top. Mother Ringtail was waiting up there on the porch. She had a great big plate of scrambled coconut supper ready and waiting, and home was a happy place to be again, for home is the happiest place in the world. Happy day!

McCullum Suggests Government Cooperate In Hunt For More Oil

CASPER, WYO.—Necessity for the oil industry to keep its exploration activity at current or even higher levels, in order to provide an ample supply of oil for national security in the event of war, was stressed by L. F. McCullum, president of Continental Oil Company, Houston, in a recent address here before the Rocky Mountain section of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Speaking on the subject, "Can We Keep Our Million-Barrel Reserve Productive Capacity?" McCullum pointed out that the job of maintaining an adequate reserve, as requested by our government, will be a very real problem.

Expressing hope that there always would be adequate economic incentives to drill exploratory wells, McCullum stated that if such incentives are lacking, and drilling activity is subsiding, there is another reserve which the industry can create upon which to draw in the future.

Develop Knowledge

"The reserve to which I refer is knowledge," he said. "If we experience such a decline, let's go about building a storehouse of knowledge of places to drill and ways of discovering and recovering oil, better even than we have developed in the past."

"Let us keep our exploration programs intact or at a higher rate than during normal times," continued McCullum. "Then, should an emergency occur, we can resort to drilling these reserves more rapidly. Thus, we may avoid any threatened decline, or actually increase our reserve productive capacity."

Speaking parenthetically, the Continental president also suggested that consideration be given to the possibility that the government might provide additional tax incentives in order to maintain adequate emergency oil reserves.

Incentives Suggested

"Perhaps defense planning might also include additional incentives in the field of oil finding, comparable to those provided by the rapid tax write-off of refining facilities," said McCullum. "I should like to remind you that up to 1942 all geological and geophysical expense was allowed as a current deduction."

"Since that time the Bureau of Internal Revenue has required the capitalization of a large portion of such expenses. Would it not be advisable for the bureau to reverse its present policy, and thereby provide additional incentive to expand exploration?"

"Would it not also be advisable," he concluded, "for the government to permit the industry to determine its own depreciation rates on lease and well equipment, as well as all other types of depreciable equipment?" This would add incentive to those who contemplate expansion of their plant and lease facilities."

McCullum expressed optimism for the long-range outlook, stating that "the oil industry is dynamic and strong, and the long-range picture is one of greater success and achievement. I have every confidence that we will develop a solution to our short-range problems."

Relation Shown

"It was found that the oil saturation was determined in the laboratory did not correlate with the in-place saturations, except at saturation?"

"This would add incentive to those who contemplate expansion of their plant and lease facilities."

Water Needs In Oil Recovery Discussed At A&M Conference

COLLEGE STATION—(Sp)—"Increasing demand for water may require planned management of ground-water reservoirs to increase effective use," William O. George, U. S. Geological Survey, Austin, said last week at Texas A&M College.

Speaking at the Sixth Oil Recovery Conference on "Ground Water in Relation to the Production of Petroleum," he said that "some lines of research in petroleum engineering and ground water seem to be converging."

"Water required for production of oil and gas is relatively small but because of concentration of mineral salts in water generally associated with petroleum, the disposal of or the use of such waters for secondary recovery becomes important," George said.

Discussion of Cores

Harvey T. Kennedy of A&M; O. E. Van Meter of Magnolia Petroleum Company of Dallas and Robert G. Jones of The Ohio Oil Company, Houston, presented a paper on "Interpretation of the Results of Saturation Determinations on Rotary Cores."

"This investigation was made for two purposes," the paper showed, "first, to study the mechanism of mud flushing and pressure depletion on several types of rotary cores and, second, to determine the extent to which the final fluid saturations measured on cores in the laboratory may be taken as an indication of their contents in place of the reservoir."

"The investigation included a study of the effect of several muds, including both water and oil-base, on the flushing of oil from nine different sandstones and limestone cores, varying in permeability from 2.3 md to 3,940 md. It was shown that substantial fluid displacement occurs with all muds, including oil base mud with zero API filtrate. Further loss of original fluid results when the core pressure is reduced to atmospheric."

tion below 15 per cent and above 75 per cent.

However, the sum of the oil and gas saturations, as measured by laboratory tests, shows a linear relation to the in-place oil saturation and this relationship may be useful in interpreting the results of the core analysis."

Speaking on the water situation in Texas, which took up a part of the program, A. P. Rollins of the Texas Board of Water Engineers, said that "the most vital problem confronting the people of Texas is water conservation."

"However," he said, "we think that in this matter of conservation—whether soil or water—what can be done by the individual should be done by him."

Much Water Required

R. C. Earleough and W. A. Heath of Tulsa, in a paper on "Magnitude of Water Requirements for Secondary Recovery Operations by Water Flooding," said that "based on a potential flood area 1 1/2 (one and one-half) million acres in the United States having an estimated thickness of 25 feet and average porosity of 15 per cent, ultimate water input requirements are estimated to be 82 billion barrels of which 60 per cent or 49 billion barrels should be make-up water."

The Texas Petroleum Research Committee which sponsors the conference, was formed Nov. 25, 1947 by the board of directors of the Texas A&M College System, the Railroad Commission of Texas and the board of regents of the University of Texas. Its purpose is to develop a cooperative program of research in petroleum engineering with particular emphasis on secondary recovery of primary methods.

More than 150 attended the conference.

Sun Plugs Duster In C-N Tom Green

Sun Oil Company No. 1 Robert T. Neil and others, Central-North Tom Green County wildcat, six miles northeast of Carlsbad, has been plugged and abandoned at total depth of 6,512 feet in a lower Pennsylvanian lime.

It found no shows for possible production.

Location was 660 feet from north and east lines of the J. Thornton survey No. 28.

Early U. S. settlers, noting that war followed the appearance of large broods of cicadas in several instances, believed they were omens of war says the National Geographic Society.

McLean GI Says Italian Girls Prettier Than Those Of Texas

By GRACE HAINSELL
Special Correspondent
Reporter-Telegram

SALEZBURG, AUSTRIA—It's not true the most beautiful women in the world come from Texas. They come "from Italy," Sgt. Cecil A. Myatt, Jr., a Panhandle man, would have you know.

The McLean, Texas, native felt strongly about his beliefs.

He married the former Ivana Lebertini of Rome—and he still thinks the young Italian girl, his wife of five years now has qualities Hedy Lamarr would envy.

The tall—six feet four—Texan met his wife while he was with the Allied Commission in Rome. She was working in the same office as an interpreter and translator.

With her as guide, Myatt fell in love with Rome—and the attractive translator. He learned the language fast, but says you need "almost a lifetime" to see all there is to see in Rome.

"It is the most beautiful city in all of Europe," he is convinced. The weather makes sight-seeing a year-round pleasure, he pointed out, saying it never got as cold in the Winter-time as in Amarillo, nor as hot in the Summer-time.

Temperature Ideal

"The average temperature is in the 60s," he said.

After their marriage in 1948, the Myatts went to Texas to meet his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Myatt, Sr., of McLean. They formerly had a farm there, growing cotton, water-melons, corn and grain, but now the senior Myatt is employed in oil field work north of McLean.

"Ivana made a big hit in McLean," her proud husband recalled, saying she made speeches about life in Italy to the high school and Lions Club of McLean.

The sergeant was sent overseas, after assignments in New Orleans, Fort Sill and Fort Sam Houston, in February, 1952.

His wife and child, Cecil A. Myatt, III, came in July of last year. As he had not been in Austria long enough to receive government quarters for his family, he found his own quarters and paid for his family's transportation.

"If you wait for government housing in Salezburg, it takes as long as a year and a-half to get your family over here," the sergeant said.

The house he found is very modern, equipped with good stove and bathroom, two rare luxuries in Europe.

They pay 1,850 Austrian shillings (about $77) a month, and in addition pay for coal and light.

Another On Way

The house has a large yard, big enough for their son to play in.

"We're expecting another child in June—and this one will be a girl,"

JAVA TALK—It's Texas talk when Sgt. Cecil A. Myatt, Jr., left, of McLean, and Sgt. George E. Ferguson, right, of Lamesa, get together over a cup of coffee in the Camp Truscott, Austria, mess hall. Sergeant Ferguson, veteran of Korea, formerly worked for Western Geophysical Seismograph Company in Big Spring, Odessa and Midland.

the sergeant said. Cecil the Third meanwhile is learning German and Italian, as well as English.

"My Italian is good, now, but I speak it with a Texas drawl," the handsome sergeant testified.

He is glad his children can learn other languages, and thinks languages should be taught in U. S. schools to the children in elementary and junior high.

"Almost all of the Europeans have English in high school. My wife did. And besides, she had eight years of Latin. That helped, too," he said.

"Now she can speak almost any language."

The sergeant has a brother, Keith in McLean, and another brother, Bobby Wayne, with the Navy. He has two sisters, Mrs. George Shelby and Mrs. Norma Lee Martin, both of Amarillo.

One of the specialties of Austria is "Hungarian" goulash, and one of the cooks who turns out the best—as far as the privates and the generals are concerned—is Cpl. Rafael Gamble of Huntville, Texas.

The corporal is called the "generals' cook" here in Salezburg, because the top brass eat at his mess hall in headquarters, U. S. Forces in Austria.

"I serve the goulash every Tuesday—and no matter how much I cook, there's never enough. The men just can't get enough of it," the proud chef declared.

As far as cooking Hungarian goulash, "there's nothing to it," he would have you know.

This is the way he prepares it—and he cut down his recipe considerably for a "family size" amount.

Two onions, chopped well.

One garlic.

One-half box of Paprika.

One tablespoon shortening.

Five pounds chopped stew meat.

Fix It His way

Melt grease in a pan. Add onions, paprika, and let cook a few minutes. Add meat, stir well, add one cup of water, let cook for 10 minutes. Add one quart of water, season with salt and pepper—not too much pepper. Add three drops of Tabasco sauce.

let cook an hour. Mix some flour with cold water in a cup, and when thoroughly mixed, add to goulash to thicken it up. Let simmer awhile, and it's all ready for you. (I wonder what it really tastes like, don't you?)

Corporal Gamble has his BA and Masters' Degrees, formerly taught school and was a veterinarian—but "someone said cook, so I cook."

He likes cooking, too.

He is a veteran of World War II duty in the Pacific, with the 24th Infantry Division, and of Korea, with the 28th Infantry Division.

He was wounded once in War II, twice in Korea.

Of the two fighting periods, he says "Korea was rougher."

Austria he likes "fine."

No complaints.

Just coming from Germany, that's music to my ears.

Spaniard Requests More Information About Pecos Area

POST—They know about Pecos in Spain—and want to know more! How do we know? Well, it's like this . . .

Requests for information on Pecos "pour in" from all over but one "poured in" last week from a longer distance than any has before, Chamber of Commerce Manager Jack Pridden said.

The request was from R. Rita Merce, Centrala Electrica, Aytona, Spain.

Merce wanted "descriptive literature and tourist folders about Pecos and county, with general travel information."

"This request takes the distance record," Pridden asserted. "We get them from Mexico all time, but never as far as Spain."

The broods of cicadas which appear each year, do so in 17-year cycles, the different broods being numbered from 1 to 17 with the brood of 1936-1953-1870 being one of the largest.

W. O. Stubbeman, 76, Father Of Midland Attorney, Interred

Funeral services were held in Cuero Saturday for William G. Stubbeman, 76, father of Frank Stubbeman, Midland attorney.

A longtime employee of the Cuero Record, a weekly newspaper, Stubbeman died Friday night. He had suffered a heart seizure two weeks ago and entered a Cuero hospital last Tuesday. The Midland son had gone to the bedside Wednesday.

Mrs. Stubbeman and William B. Neely left Midland Friday to attend the service in the Freud Funeral Home. Interment was in a Cuero cemetery.

Stubbeman came to Texas as a child from Ohio with his parents. He was employed as a linotype operator for the Cuero Record until recent years.

Survivors include the widow; two sons, Frank Stubbeman and Alfred W. Stubbeman of Fort Worth; a sister, Alma Stubbeman of Cuero, and a nephew, Earl Stubbeman, employed in Venezuela by an oil company.

Pvt. Hauley D. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hero Mitchell, 3001 North Big Spring Street, now is serving with the 24th Infantry Division in Japan. He is chaplain's assistant in Headquarters Company, 34th Infantry Regiment.

His wife, Elinor, lives in Arlington, Calif. Before entering the Army last September, Mitchell worked in Compton, Calif.

Major M. L. Williams (whose first name also is Major), brother of Mrs. Oscar Reynolds of Crane, is now assistant operations and training officer with the reserve liaison and training section at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He will aid in preparing the extensive program for thousands of Marine reservists due training at Camp Pendleton next Summer.

Major Williams served with the Fifth Marine Division in the assault on Iwo Jima during World War II. Before getting his new assignment, he was an instructor with the Third Marine Division at Camp Pendleton and 29 Palms. He is executive officer of the 102nd Howitzer Battalion, a Marine reserve unit in Los Angeles, Calif.

Sgt. Jack D. Sims, husband of Mrs. Shirley Sims of McCamey, is returning to the United States after 18 months in Korea with the 82nd Field Artillery Battalion First Cavalry Division.

Sims, a fire direction specialist, has been awarded the Korean Service Ribbon with two campaign stars, UN service ribbon and the Army of Occupation Medal for service in Japan.

A graduate of Eagle Pass High School, Sims entered the Army in 1951. His father, John H. Sims, lives in Quemado, Texas.

Engineerman Third Class Johnny R. Meneghetti, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Meneghetti of Toyah, has returned after duty aboard the USS Andromada, operating in the Far Eastern waters. It was his ship's second tour of duty in the Far East.

Sgt. Leroy Williams has returned to Barstow after two years of Korean duty with a U. S. Army tank unit.

Leroy and his brother, Vernon, a sergeant in the Marine Corps, started their overseas tour together. Both of them were in Barstow on furloughs before shipping out. They traveled together as far as California where they parted, Leroy going to Camp Stoneman and Vernon to Camp Pendleton. Both went from California to Korea—but it was 18 months before they saw each other again.

Vernon was wounded and flown to Japan for treatment. Leroy wanted a pass and went to Japan to visit his brother. But two hours before Leroy arrived at the hospital, Vernon was shipped to the United States. Leroy returned to his outfit and was sent home in April under the rotation plan.

The purpose of The Community Survey is to obtain helpful information that will enable advertisers to improve their service to you readers by preparing ads the way you want them.

When you indicate which ads you think will do the advertisers the most good, it is possible to tabulate that information and give it to the advertisers for their guidance.

On the first page of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad, which Small Ad and which Classified Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good . . . Just write four names on this blank each day.

Cash awards will go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey.

YOU ARE NOT REQUIRED TO WRITE A LETTER. The awards are made to those readers whose selections are nearest to the list of ads which get the most votes. The awards are ACCURATE . . . FAIR . . . and HONEST.

You do not have to be an advertising expert! All ads are written for you readers. YOU are best qualified to indicate which ads will do the advertiser the most good.

Pecos Chamber Of Commerce Programs 1953 Work Calendar

PECOS—Action is the word on the big ambitious 1953 work program adopted by the Pecos Chamber of Commerce board of directors. Containing 10 avenues of effort, the 1953 work program is designed to maintain the progressive movement of the town and area. President Porter Donnell explained. The work program was worked out by a work program committee appointed by the board. This committee comprised of chairman, Earl Crow, R. F. Kjos, Glenn Hunt, Jack Hawkins, R. H. Blackwell and Ray Whittier, put in much time and effort in seeking people's suggestions, other programs and their own ideas into a final program which will benefit Pecos. Industry, highway and roads, membership, transportation, civic, retail trade, tourist promotion, sign program, agriculture and constitution and by-laws will all receive high interest under the new program. The Chamber will strive to locate more industry in Pecos and will work with neighboring towns in a combined effort to get Highway 80 four-laned from Odessa to El Paso. And in the meantime will strive to secure more farm-to-market roads into Pecos.

during March. He was in Midland March 1, 1952, for the opening of the Permian Abstract Company. George Schmidt has been named to succeed Hollyday with the Permian Abstract Company.

Joe Starnes, manager of the abstract company here, has known Hollyday for some six or seven years. "They couldn't have picked a better man for the job," he said. "He knows what it's all about."

As federal housing commissioner, Hollyday will direct the agency that administers FHA loans. It is one of the three bureaus directly under the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Hollyday has long promoted the huge slum clearance project in Baltimore, and worked toward the rearing of the Maryland city. A much-sought-for speaker, he has made national tours, discussing municipal planning and allied civic matters.

The new commissioner also is president of Title Guarantee Company of Baltimore which will present the Baltimore slum clearance plan in Dallas in May. Dallas officials will study the plan for use in their clearance project.

Hollyday is vice-president and director of Randall H. Hagner, Inc., a Washington mortgage banking firm. He is a graduate of John Hopkins University.

Civic posts held by Hollyday include the presidency of Fight Blight Inc., membership on the board of directors of the Fight Blight Fund, both organizations which help slum dwellers finance improvements to their property, and chairman of the board of the Council of Churches and Christian Education of Maryland and Delaware.

Home Remodeling Is At Record High

National reports indicate a remarkable growth in the home remodeling and improvement market, a fact often overlooked because of the large number of new homes built in the United States during the last half dozen years.

An authoritative estimate of nine and a third billion dollars worth of residential, non-residential and "all other" repairs and maintenance in 1951 exceeds the value of all new construction of all classifications.

Bathrooms and kitchens particularly prominent in the total number of remodeling jobs being done today, for these are the rooms which most commonly "date" the home.

Progress in the development of new types of building materials especially well adapted to the modernization of kitchens and bathrooms has had a strong influence on this trend to bring old homes up to modern standards.

Among these newer materials are prefinished wallpanels which provide the answer for the home handyman who wishes to do his own work in bringing durable and colorful walls and ceilings into his home. This wall and ceiling surfacing material is thin hardboard coated in the factory with a baked enamel finish in a wide variety of colors and patterns. Prefinished wallpanels, available at most building supply dealers throughout the nation, come in sheets up to four by twelve feet in dimension.

Prefinished wallpanels readily are applied to any smooth and dry wall or ceiling surface by means of a special strong bond adhesive and metal or matching color moldings produced for this specific purpose enable the home handyman or the professional applicator to cover walls and ceilings with a continuous waterproof surface.

Room For Closed Cabinets Available In Most Garages

Even a crowded garage has room for closed-in storage for garden equipment and auto supplies. Narrow cabinets at the sides may be as shallow as eight inches and still provide ample room.

By using modern building materials, anyone quickly can build storage cabinets, complete with space-conserving sliding doors. Just put up a framework of lumber and cover it with Masonite Tempered Presswood, an all-wood panel that is without grain or knots. In this application, use panels that are 3/16-inch thick.

Sliding Doors Sliding doors should be the same material. Make the doors slide in saw grooves cut into the supporting lumber above and below, or install metal channels. One door will be just behind the other, so that they will have sliding room. Hardware, of course, may be bought at the lumber yard which furnished the lumber and Tempered Presswood.

Inside the cabinet, leave room for some shelves or install a Peg-Board hook rack, which is a handy device for hanging all kinds of items.

Often overlooked as storage space is the waste area above the automobile. This becomes readily accessible with a stepladder.

Pint-Sized Set Needs Attention In Bath Design

Bathroom design should take into consideration the people who will use the room most—the children.

The average small child is in and out of the bath countless times daily. He may make a pretty picture striving to reach a high faucet, but it's no fun for him. And the towels he discards on the bathtub rim aren't fun for the homemaker either, but often Junior just can't reach all the way to the towel rack.

Give the pint-sized crowd a break with some of these ideas in bath design:

A second shower head. Novel, but really nice for Junior. Install it beneath the regular one when the bath is built, and see how fast it gets the small ones out of the tubbing class.

Waterproof finishes. The young splashy set certainly needs bathroom walls and floor of a waterproof material like clay tile, which never needs redecorating or painting.

Low towel racks. Provide one for each child in the family and see how much more orderly the bathroom becomes.

Long bath counter. The bathroom is the logical place to bathe the baby. A counter finished with clay tile to match the bathroom walls won't be damaged by the baby's tub or by spilled water. Mother can use it too as a make-up counter.

Step-up stool. Get Junior really close to the wash basin by building

Week's Building Operations Pushes Total To $8,071,000

Midland kept right on building new homes and commercial structures last week.

SALTY YEGG, NO LETTUCE

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—Hand thrust in coat pocket, the man ordered George Hughes, bartender, to give him all the money in the till. Hughes refused and he also refused to hand over $10 or $20.

The man then pulled his hand out of his pocket, laid a salt shaker on the bar and fled.

Grab bar. A grab bar should be built into the tilework above every tub. It will prevent dangerous accidents from slipping for young and old alike.

Low mirror. Tots like to inspect their appearance too. An inexpensive mirror on the bathroom door is a subtle reminder that dirty little faces need a scrubbing.

Higgins, city superintendent of inspections, reported $675,908 worth of new building had been authorized during the previous seven-day period.

The week's business brought the 1953 building permits to $8,071,000. Permits issued during the week included:

G. L. Cunningham, residence, 509, 111, 901, 602, 605, 607, 609 Howard Drive; 614, 612, 610, 608, 604, 602 Waverly Drive; 3700, 3702, 3704, 3706 Thomson Drive, $7,000 each. ## City Council Demonstrates Best Ticket Fix Procedure

The City of Midland finally got around to "fixing" a parking ticket Friday.

Several weeks ago, the city opened bids on more than $3,000,000 worth of tax and revenue bonds and one of the prospective buyers remained too long with the City Council.

A few minutes after he left, he returned with a parking ticket from his automobile and asked the councilmen if they could "fix" it for him.

The council agreed, in view of the $3,000,000 involved.

So Friday a check for $1—a regulation City of Midland check—was properly delivered to the Police Department, attached to the parking ticket.

40 Speakers Will Address Southwest Journalism Forum

DALLAS.—Forty outstanding speakers will appear at the first annual Southwest Journalism Forum, opening Thursday at Southern Methodist University.

They will discuss current developments in the news field and related areas.

The Press Club of Dallas is sponsoring the three-day educational event. Tom Parker, president, said Saturday speakers were chosen to represent both the executive and "working" levels of journalism.

Journalism students and professionals from throughout the Southwest have been invited to attend. All expenses are being borne by the Dallas Press Club from proceeds of its annual Gridiron Dinners.

A highlight will be public addresses Friday night at McFarlin Auditorium by Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta, Ga., Constitution, and Inez Robb, International News Service by-liner.

Murrow, top Columbia Broadcasting System newsmen and the Christian Science Monitor. A special award also will go to the Humble Way, magazine of the Humble Oil & Refining Company, Houston.

The convalesce will open at 10 a.m. Thursday with a television-news workshop. It will be followed by a big-name public relations workshop that afternoon, with John L. Terrell, public relations manager of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, as moderator.

Friday's program will begin at 9 a.m. with talks by two wire service men with experience in Korea. They are Leif Ericson, now Associated Press bureau chief in Albuquerque, N. M., and Robert Bennyhoff, now United Press manager in Reno, Nev.

Two workshops also are scheduled Friday morning, one on daily newspaper news problems, and the other for weekly newspapers.

Midlander To Speak

A Friday afternoon panel will discuss the problems and opportunities of women in journalism.

Three simultaneous workshops—teletypewriter service, industrial press, and radio news—are scheduled Saturday morning.

A luncheon Saturday noon will conclude the forum.

Canadian Currency Faces Redecoration

OTTAWA.—(AP)—The chances are that the traditional allegorical symbols printed on the back of paper money in Canada will be replaced next year by scenes typical of the Canadian countryside.

The new money will bear the face of the Queen on the front. Officials have not disclosed what will be on the back, but the best guess is something like a prairie wheat field.

WILSON'S

A Community Survey Ad

Classic teen-age hair style can be varied many ways with ornaments. When it comes to baking cakes, this girl knows the importance of keeping every hair in its right place. She brushes it back smoothly from her forehead in partless style and keeps it that way with Alice-in-Wonderland semi-circle comb (center). For tennis or any other active sport, she wears her hair brushed back smooth again, but varies it by brushing the ends together into small chignon which is caught and held by a clincher (right). There are many variations of this ornament. The one shown above is tortoise shell in ship's wheel design with pearl on each spoke. The teeth lock together without damage to hair. For evening, this teen-ager parts hair at side and presses waves into place, holding them with "bicycle clip" of heavy plastic crowned by tiara-like rhinestone studs (left).

Outdoors Activities Prompt Hair Hints

Young girls generally favor the loose and tumbled locks that, year-in and year-out, they claim the boys prefer. They have their wind-swept charm. But there are times and places when these locks must, in some way, be tamed.

To get out the scissors or permanent-wave kit every time such an occasion comes up would be highly impractical. But you might keep on hand a small stock of hair ornaments which can fulfill for you the practical function of holding wild locks in check while, at the same time, adding a glamor of their very own.

You've probably seen many a girl with bobby pins littering her coiffure so that every vestige of hair charm was destroyed. If the hair is set correctly, i.e., exactly in the direction and shape you want it to take when combed out, you won't need any such barbed-wire fences to corral it.

Easier To Handle

Waves, properly placed, should stay up by themselves when brushed by the first reversing the direction of setting and afterwards brushing as set. The addition of a barrett may be an aid.

If your hair consistently falls down, it may be too heavy—in that case you might get it thinned. This will make it easier for you to handle at setting time and less likely to fall of its own weight or to cause the barrette to unlock.

Taking classroom notes at school or boning up at home are the worst possible times for hair to fall in front of your eyes. You can hold it back securely with one or two bar-rettes—perhaps one at each end of a deep wave or one on each side of the head. In shiny gold, smartly designed, they aren't merely functional—like bobby pins—but pretty as well.

The well-loved pony-tail coiffure—a favorite of teenagers long before that name came into general use—isn't pretty when a rubber band secures it. And such bands all too often break the hairs. It's better to have some other way of holding it in place—a clincher, for instance, with comb-like teeth that grasp the hair firmly without hurting it and lock together. It's important to choose the right size for the texture and weight of your hair.

One of the most attractive teenage hair styles is brushed slickly back to expose a good hairline, round forehead and pretty ears. The ends can be softly curled or brushed into a page-boy. It takes a lot of brushing to keep this style looking well.

Coronation Influence

When the brushing is done, you might hold the polished hairs in place with an Alice-in-Wonderland hair ornament—a semi-circular comb which adjusts to the head size and grasps the hair firmly. The top edge of the comb is gold-finished.

For dances and parties, brush soft waves high and back and keep them in place with a "bicycle clip" modified by the influence of the Coronation. The top of the clip is rhinestone studded, giving it the appearance of a very youthful tiara.

Do Designers Of Homes Need Woman's Touch In Blueprints?

By RUTH MILLETT
Reporter-Telegram Columnist

Our new First Lady is reported to have said that the only flaw she could find in the White House is that there isn't enough closet space. Probably nine out of 10 American women have the same complaint about their homes. Why is it that we women can't get enough storage space in our homes to take care of a family's belongings and make our housework easier?

Isn't it because only a woman who has kept house knows the importance of adequate storage space? Yet most of our homes are designed by men. We need more women architects. No woman-designed house would ever be short on closet space. Any woman knows the frustration of not having a broom closet in the kitchen, a convenient closet for guests' wraps, two walk-in closets in every bedroom, etc. And only women seem to realize that a family has to have storage space for such bulky items as vacuum cleaners, traveling bags, golf clubs, tennis rackets, and so on. Half the frustration of the average housewife living in a home she didn't plan herself comes from a builder's apparent lack of knowledge of how many clothes, and how much equipment it takes to keep even a small family functioning. Since the job of keeping house falls on women, it would help a lot if more of the houses women have to keep were designed by women. But until that happy day arrives we women can only wish that every firm of men-architects employed one housewife as a consultant in charge of closet space.

Office Grime Bad For Hands; Protect Them With Cream

Young secretary keeps hand cream in desk which she uses regularly to prevent carbon grime from working into skin. The Lord Great Chamberlain of England formerly received the clothes he wore before putting on the coronation robes as a fee for his services, but in recent years has received a sum of money as a substitute.

tection. After every wash-up, you see to it that grime stays on the surface if you coat your hands well with cream. Especially in winter weather, when there may be minute crevices on your hands, due to roughness, it's important to keep office grime out. Work the cream into the knuckles, around the nails and up beyond the wrist bone. If you use cream faithfully, dry your hands thoroughly after washing, rinse off all lather that may irritate if left on, avoid very hot water, and never go out without gloves, then your hands may never appear red and rough. Dialing phones, tapping typewriters, and using heavy file drawers may break off long nails. It's more practical to file your nails into ovals that barely extend beyond your fingertips. You may find it handy to keep a kit or box in your desk drawer for emery boards and hand cream as well as your comb, clothes brush and make-up retouching items.

Ruth Millett Gossip You Spread Today May Shame You Tomorrow

Six months ago Mrs. Brown was telling all of her friends about everything that was wrong with the young man her daughter "thought" she was in love with. That was when Mrs. Brown was trying frantically to break up the match. But, as so often happens in such cases, the marriage took place anyhow. And now Mrs. Brown busily is trying to take back all the things she said about the young man who is now her daughter's husband. Of course she can't ever really take them back and she looks a little silly trying. She wouldn't be in such an unenviable position if she had used a little discretion in the first place. Parents who are convinced that the young man their daughter "thinks" she is in love with isn't good enough for her, or even feel that the marriage would be a tragedy, have a perfect right to try to make their daughter see the light. But they haven't a ny business discussing the situation with their friends or telling them, in so many words, just what is wrong with the young man from his ancestry to his character. The chance is too great that the young man, may in spite of their wishes, become their daughter's husband. Then, no matter how determined the parents are to accept the son-in-law and make the best of what they regard as a bad situation, they have already made statements they can't take back. Wise parents keep their discussions of the young man their daughters "think" they are in love with confined to the family circle. That is not only being fair to their daughter and the young man in question, but it is also a protection for themselves.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

BY NORTH CALLAHAN

NEW YORK—This big town sometimes is a good example of how small our world can be. Thirty years ago, three boys were classmates in McCallie Preparatory School in Chattanooga, Tenn., and having a lot of fun along with their studies. After graduation, the three went separate ways, attending various colleges, then going into business in different parts of the country. Eventually, they all gravitated to New York, not having seen each other in the meantime. Today, they work within three blocks of each other in downtown Manhattan, and get together now and then for old times' sake. They are: Howard W. McCall and Kenneth A. Durham, both vice presidents of the Chemical Bank and Trust Company; and E. Hornsby Wasson, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Mel Melnikoff is an honest florist I am convinced. He has a little shop at 122 East 42nd Street and now and then I purchase a posy or something from him. I was impressed by what happened to him the other day. An out-of-town couple came in, asked Mel if he had orchids. He nodded amiably. He showed them his giant orchids, $10 apiece. Of course he had smaller ones, he explained, and cheaper. They asked him if any of the giant ones would be enough to send their New York aunt. Mel almost fell over. How big a lady was she, he asked. Medium size, they replied. "Well," said Mel, shrugging his shoulders. "I'm telling you the truth. Of course I'd like to sell you two of these 'giants' but honest, folks, two of 'em would be big enough for the fat lady in the circus!" They took one.

There's a bunch of mugs in a certain spot in Radio City—and by this is not meant tough guys. These are shaving mugs of all sorts and they're in the window of a barber shop which specializes in old-time barbering paraphernalia. The ancient mustache cups on display by the dozens are a revelation to most of us clean-shaven chaps. Some of the razors of bygone days would be right at home in a heavy-handed butcher shop, while the shears they used in those times remind me of those my grandfather used to trim the sheep back on the boyhood farm.

In a suburb of New York City lives an estimable gentleman named W. C. Handy. I talked to him recently and found him to be as spry as a youngster, although it has been quite a few years since this distinguished negro musician wrote "St. Louis Blues" and other song hits. For years he appeared in Billy Rose's nightclub here, singing choruses of his famous songs to applauding audiences. Now he lives quietly at home. But he is not idle. There has been established the W. C. Handy Foundation for the Blind—W. C. is blind himself—which has provided braille dictionaries for 10 of the schools for negro blind children in the Southern states. It seems to me that few people who can see

PROWLER UNCOVERS ANCIENT GOVERNMENT SURVEY OF MIDLAND COUNTY

Delbert Downing of the Chamber of Commerce reports a prowler in his office unearthed an old "Soil Survey of Midland County, 1928." We admit that we just love to prow, and Delbert is a swell assistant. This is the usual government work, exhaustive and exhausting. It has 32 pages, a big map in 17 colors, and can be had from Washington for some fee, probably less than the postage. We are still paying taxes on this, so some quotes should be permitted.

It says there are 23 types of soil here, and they write at length on irrigation, alkali crops, etc. These Federal boys really spent a lot of time on this job. The most significant statement that these early Brain Trusters made occurs on page 28. "The decrease in productivity is due to the depletion of plant food." Folks, the sales pitch was a long time coming, but here it is—Poor soil 1928, poorer now. You ought to start using that grand "Turf Special" for some fee, probably less than the postage. 'Taint every part of the country that is so sorry that it has an organic fertilizer made just for it! Can't you just hear your grass yearning for a good square meal of Turf Special?

Mission Dedicated To Midland's Needy Finds Expenses Greatly Exceed Income

A small mission organized here last year to serve the spiritual and physical needs of unfortunate persons has expanded to such an extent that its pastor has been forced to sound a community-wide appeal for support.

It is the Midland Christian Mission, located at 403 West Kentucky Street. The Rev. C. D. Blanke is the pastor.

Actually, the Christian Mission was started by Mr. Blanke on $25, but now the current expenses of the project average $450 a month.

Mr. Blanke says he no longer is able to carry the financial burden alone, and that unless additional help is forthcoming he will have to close the mission or curtail its activities.

"Due to increased demands for services from the mission, we desperately are in need of financial assistance," he said.

The Midland Ministerial Association has endorsed the project, and several member churches plan some financial assistance. Chamber of Commerce Manager Delbert Downing has agreed to serve as treasurer for the mission.

Mr. Blanke said the Christian Mission needs and must have regular monthly contributions from as many sources as possible if it is to continue its program of service.

The Christian Mission, for instance, has fed and lodged 360 transient men, sent to it by the Police Department and various churches, in recent months. Eighteen transient families of from two to nine persons each also have been fed and lodged. The mission has prepared approximately 900 meals, according to its pastor.

Many long distance telephone calls have been placed and numerous telegrams sent by the mission for distressed persons.

Mr. Blanke said clothing has been supplied to more than 140 persons, local and transient. Grocery and milk bills for numerous families have been arranged and paid for by the mission, which also has arranged for the care of six sick persons. Many other services have been provided.

In addition to financial assistance, the mission needs 30 sheets of sheet-rock, lumber, three doors and frames, paints, folding chairs, reception room furniture, typewriter and other items.

"The work we are doing is from a heart of love for the unfortunate," Mr. Blanke stated, "and we pray that the people of Midland will show the same love by helping us to help others."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
 Drew Pearson says: Administration China lobby attitude shapes up; Dulles encounters same situation Acheson faced; China lobby finds sympathy in Senate.

WASHINGTON—One year ago this month while visiting with General Eisenhower in Paris I had occasion to suggest that one of his most difficult problems after he got into the White House would be the China lobby.

This reared of course to the small but powerful group dominated by the Soong-Kung dynasty which has benefited richly from U. S. aid to Chiang and which has siphoned part of those funds into one of the most skillful propaganda and political machines ever to operate in this country.

From the safety of the U. S. A. they have not hesitated to sell strategic materials to Communist China, attempted to corner the soybean market just before the Korean war, and hired some of the most politically potent lawyers in the nation to plead their cause with Congress.

I suggested to General Eisenhower that inasmuch as certain senators received heavy campaign contributions from the China lobby, its operation actually amounted to having our Asiatic policy fixed not by the secretary of State but carefully placed dollars. I also suggested that it would be to his advantage to encourage a congressional investigation of the China lobby—a probe which the State Department and many Democrats would welcome.

The general, then new in politics, expressed incredulity that U. S. senators would accept campaign expenses from the China lobby. He did not spark to the idea of such an investigation.

Dulles Vs. Formosa

The other day, however, President Eisenhower was forced to choose between China-lobby senators and his own secretary of State. The choice came after his secretary of State had dropped a hint that the United States might have to abandon Chiang Kai-Shek and Formosa in order to get peace in Korea.

As between his secretary of State and China-lobby senators, Eisenhower hesitated only a few minutes. He repudiated his secretary of State.

This leaves the nation right back where it was during the Truman Administration. First, we have a State Department just as intimidated by the China lobby under John Foster Dulles as it was under Dean Acheson—except that Dulles retreated quicker and farther than Acheson.

Second, we have a foreign policy influenced by secret foreign agents, many of them not registered with the Justice Department—a foreign policy swayed by campaign contributions to certain senators. When foreign policy is influenced in secret by private individuals, no matter how well-intentioned, it is dangerous. That's what the Foreign Agents Registration Act is supposed to prevent.

Third, and most important, it will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to win peace in Korea without sacrificing Chiang Kai-Shek.

This was the unofficial view which John Foster Dulles took with newsmen before the wraithy China lobby scared Eisenhower into a retreat. It also was the view discussed inside the National Security Council.

Peace Vs. Chiang

Dulles had reasoned: In order to get the Reds to retreat some 80 miles to the waist of Korea it will be necessary to give them something in return. That might well be an agreement to keep Formosa as an independent republic or UN trustee-ship, giving up all claims to the Chinese mainland.

Dulles knew that the Reds are not going to retreat to the Korean waist easily. He knew he faced the alternative of sacrificing thousands of GI lives or else making diplomatic concessions such as Formosa. He knew Eisenhower had talked rather extravagantly during the election campaign about settling the Korean war. And he knew that public opinion would not stomach much more loss of GI lives.

He also knew that a report to Washington from Formosa told how Chiang's soldiers now have an average age of 29. This is considerably older than the American army, and older still than the Communist army, and, under Chiang's standards, much too old to fight. He also knew Chiang had no means of recruiting fresh troops.

Finally Dulles knew that Chiang was so fearful of being invaded from the China mainland, rather than invading himself, that a reference to using his troops recently was taken out of a Gen. Omar Bradley speech—on request.

Yet when Dulles hinted at certain concessions inherent from these facts, the China lobby showed its teeth, and in one day President Eisenhower took the almost unprecedented action of reversing his secretary of State.

Friends Of China Lobby

Here is the roll-call of senators who play ball with the China lobby and whom Eisenhower apparently fears:

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican—received a contribution of $1,000 to his last election campaign from Alfred Kohlberg, a key figure in the China lobby. Also received contributions of $3,000 from Edward Heller, a Democrat, whose wife is Democratic national committeewoman from California. It seems strange that a California Democrat should send so heavy a contribution across the continent to help a Republican in New Hampshire. However, Heller happens to be director of the Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco, biggest repository of Chinese Nationalist money. Heller denies that this has any connection.

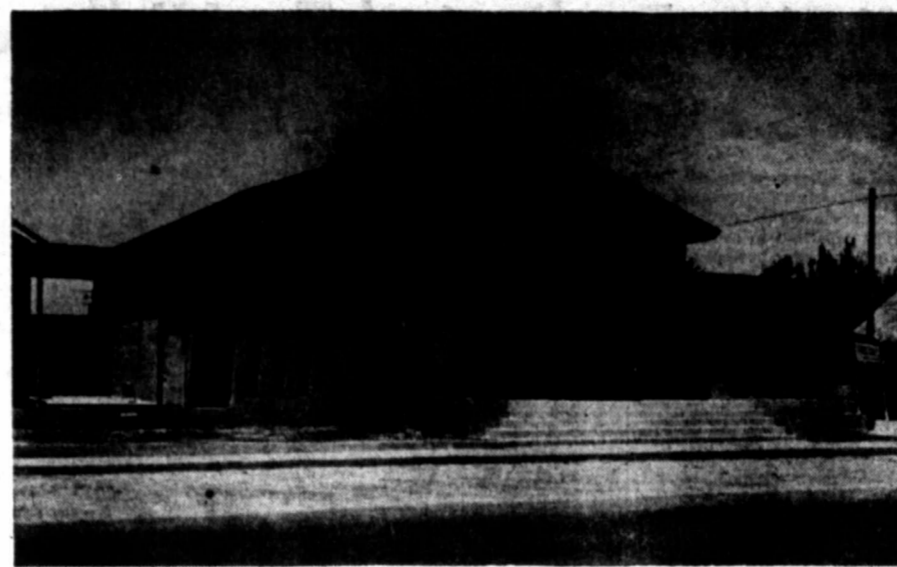

Bridges, who is chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee, appointed a special "ambassador" to study the Chinese situation when the Republicans controlled Congress in 1946. The ambassador turned out to be an ex-senator working in the law firm retained by T. V. Soong, Chiang's brother-in-law.

GOP Senator William Knowland of California—Knowland is so persistent in pushing Formosa that he has been nicknamed "the senator from Formosa." No China-lobby contributions have been recorded for his campaigns, but he gets heavy political support from San Francisco's Chinatown.

Vice President Nixon—Bank of China public relations representatives sent a special press agent, Leo Casey, to help Nixon on his 1950 Senate race. Casey states that when he met Nixon in the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, Louis Kung, second son of H. H. Kung, son-in-law of Chiang Kai-Shek, and the finance man for the China lobby, was present. Casey's expenses in California during the Nixon campaign were paid by public relations representatives of the Bank of China.

GOP Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin—Has voted consistently with the China lobby, is a close friend of Alfred Kohlberg. He speculated on soybean market at about the time the Chinese made their killing.

Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, Republican—got interested in China lobby when he first championed silver, has been a staunch supporter ever since.

Sheppard Voices Protest To Secrecy In Government

SAN ANTONIO—Attorney General John Ben Sheppard told members of the South Texas Press Association here Friday that "there is no business in public office that should not be made public."

He condemned much of the present classification of government information as attempts at security from the public eye rather than the eyes of the enemy.

"Freedom of the press is contested every day by men in high office," he said.

Sheppard quoted Napoleon as saying, "Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets," pointing out that dictators always have feared the anger of the press.

The attorney general called on the newspapers to use their weapons to end tyranny in Texas. He called the editors' attention to the legal action now pending against a district judge in South Texas.

THE BULLDOG

Written By The Journalism Class Of Midland High School

BULLDOG EDITORIAL

The right to vote is one of the most important factors in a democracy. Yet it is the most neglected of our duties as citizens of our great country.

Many citizens don't bother to pay their poll tax in order to qualify to vote in city, state and national elections. It is important to vote so as to safeguard against men who would overthrow our government. It is duty of the citizen to vote.

We believe that a teenage high school student should take part in school elections with an open, investigating, and fair mind in order to become a more qualified voter in the near future. This will make for a better citizen and what is the limit of power to a nation full of good citizens?

Soon in Midland High School, an election will take place to determine who will become the president and vice president of the Student Council for next year. Midland High School has been elected president of the student councils of Texas and we must have the right president to guide and represent us.

We should vote for a candidate, not because he is our best friend or is a teammate on the football team, but because of his character, attitude and ability. Of course there are differences of opinion on who would make the best officer but I believe if every student would seriously study the candidates merits, the best man would succeed in winning the post.

So, think it over students, and vote for whom you believe would honestly make the better officer. You will be helping yourself and your country by helping to become a better citizen of the United States.—John Galle.

Popularity Of Shop Class Gains Ground

The Shop Department of Midland High School gradually is becoming a large and busy department. Mr. Stroth has an enrollment of 85 students, of which 50 are boys and two are girls.

First year students are not allowed to use the machinery until they prove they know all the safety rules and the correct procedure of all the machinery. Second year students have priority to all machines, but if they use unsafe practice they are deprived of all their privileges. The school furnishes all of the machinery for the students' use.

A few of the projects of the students are night stands, desks, what-not-shelves, cedar chests, bookcases, end tables, and coffee tables. Mr. Stroth also has an adult class on Monday and Tuesday nights from seven until nine. There are 10 adults enrolled and most of them do woodwork for a hobby or for household furniture. The advanced class is making a combination radio-phonograph, desks, headboards and lawn furniture.

This is a two-year course and next year a course in advanced cabinet making may be listed. The program consists of the majority of the students enrolled in Physical Education.

The program includes tumbling boys and girls, tap dancing, square dancing, precision drilling and relays.

After defeating the Tornados twice in practice games, the Bulldogs blew a two run lead in the seventh and lost, 7-6, to Lamesa. April 14 Snookie Roberts started for Midland and lasted until the fifth when he was bombarded for three runs. Boyce McKnight came on and gave up two hits, both in the final frame. Winning pitcher was Carlos Berry.

Last Saturday afternoon the Abilene Eagles came for their first encounter with the Bulldogs and left the same way undefeated. Midland started off right in the first matching Abilene two runs. From then on it was Abilene all the way. In the top of the fifth Boyce McKnight, starter was chased as was Lee Sneed, reliever but only after five runs were scored. Then J. N. Steele came on to finish the game and partly put the fire out. Six Midland errors helped the Abilene Eagles cause along with four bases on balls and six hits for the Eagles.

Last Tuesday the Bulldogs played the San Angelo Bobcats, and defeated them 12-2. The Midland net team lost out in the Sandie Relays Tennis Tour-

With the coming of Summer (the good old summer time), many students are making plans for a vacation (or avocation?) to keep them occupied.

The typists last year were having to type a little booklet on manners and public behavior. Speaking of manners, never break your bread or roll in the soup.

Three years ago, James Johnson was quite fond of making puns. It must have been his belief that, "the pun is mightier than the sword." In fact, one might say that he is quite a "pundit."

For those of you who have trouble with dandruff, you ought to try the French method of curing it—a guillotine. As for me, it's one of the few things that give me a pain in the neck.

When asked what he thought of the Grand Canyon, one student, who had vacationed there, replied, "It's gorgeous."

A senior who was asked what line of occupation he was going into after he graduated, replied, "The belt line." Speaking of belts, we have heard that Bob Mace just pointed the "Belts Boys," which consists chiefly of Joe Cates, Harvey Diener and now, Bob. Maybe his reason for not supporting his pants is because his pants don't support him.

Thought for the week: "Try Wheaties, the breakfast of Champions."

Two years ago this bit of advice was offered to all the boys, "When a woman says, 'You flatter me,' do so!"

Charles Whitmore was the only student who was sure of coming out on top. (By request of "Hair today, gone Tomorrow" Whitmore, this was printed.)

In the Daffy Definitions this definition of "forebears" was found: "Forebears—quadruplets born from a bear." (If you don't like it, just grin and bear it.)

Many students, after seeing a play given in assembly, thought that the cast should have been put away in a plaster one.

It was a few students' opinions that all model airplane enthusiasts were just plane crazy!

Here's some advice to all you people who drive, "Car, caress, care."

Choir Entertains Music Association In Special Program

The A Cappella choir presented a program Tuesday evening for the Midland Music Association. The theme for the program was music in the city. Proceeding the choir, the Boys and Girls Choir of the Methodist Church sang four numbers. Then Mrs. Eston Howell and Mrs. Nancy Hitchcock played a violin duet.

To open the selections of the A Cappella, the choir sang "O Sing Unto the Lord." Also "Brother James' Air." The triple trio sang their contest number, "Moon Mailing." The members of the trio are Evelyn Hejl, Ruth Ann Rhodes, Sally Breeze, Mary Jane Miller, Jo Ann Basham, Elaine Johnson, Carolyn Smith, and Wanda Moore.

The girls of the A Cappella Choir also sang their contest numbers, "Bow Down Thine Ear Oh Lord" and "Greetings." Charles Whitmore, tenor, sang the solo with the choir accompanying him in "Cool Water." Among their number was "Dark Water." To lighten up the program, the choir did a special arrangement of "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater." They closed with their customary singing of "May The Lord Bless and Keep You."
