St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, 1605 North Terrell Street, will observe Christian Family Week beginning this Sunday and lasting until next Sunday, Mother's Day. Theme for the observance, sponsored by the National Council of Churches of Christ, is "A Christian Foundation for Every Home." "Keep the Home Fires Burning" will be the sermon for the morning service this coming Sunday which is called "Family Worship Day." Families are urged to sit together in the church. On Mother's Day the morning worship service will be built around the theme of Christian Parenthood. The topic will be "Parents as Partners."

United Bankers Life Insurance Building

United Bankers To Occupy New Headquarters Building

One of the most modern structures in the Southwest is to be the new home office building of United Bankers Life Insurance Company in Dallas. The company will occupy its new quarters about June 30, third anniversary of United Bankers, according to Don J. Wilmon, president. The building was approved at the annual directors meeting in March, and transfer of the property was effective as of February 28. Work is being completed on the last details of construction and landscaping. The building is surrounded on three sides by a vast parking area, covering enough space for an additional building whenever it is needed. Present offices are in the Irwin-Keasler Building in Dallas.

Hurricane-Like Winds Up Erosion By 500 Per Cent

Ben Osborn, work unit conservationist, raised the estimate of acreage affected by erosion from 8,500 acres to 38,000 acres. This includes 1,000 acres of severe wind damage amounting to at least 12 inches of soil removal or accumulations of 6 inches or more of sand. Damage on the rest of the affected land was classified as moderate. Most of the cropland was ready for planting and very susceptible to erosion when the high winds struck. Osborn pointed out fields which had withstood earlier blows suffered from this week's winds. Some small grain fields in the area, land with feed stubble left on the surface, and some land re-beded since last week's rain stood the blow without damage. Most cropland had produced enough growth of early weeds and grasses to prevent serious blowing. Notable among the fields escaping damage Wednesday's blow were the irrigated pasture and winter cover crops on the R. E. O'Neal farm, and old stands of blue panic grass on Dr. W. L. Sutton's farm, Osborn reported.

Insiders Say Joan Crawford Is Marilyn's Big Headache

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood and Grapevine: Fox is worried about Marilyn Monroe's migraine headaches and air of depression. Insiders blame it on Joan Crawford's newsprint tongue-lashing and sniping at Marilyn from other directions.

But Faith Domergue, the sultry brunette who got the super-sex treatment just before Marilyn came along, has a word of advice for her. "Marilyn shouldn't let club-women or jealous movie queens get her down," Faith told me. "She shouldn't change or let the studio apologize for her. Nobody can hurt her. If she stays as she is holding her ground, being herself, she will be one of the great stars of all time."

Faith admits she got the freeze from women, too, because of the publicity campaigns on "Vendette" and "When Danger Lives." "But I didn't let it depress me," she said. "Women may not approve of an actress, but as long as they're curious, they'll come to see her films and bring their men along, too."

Columbia's "Strongarm," teaming Roberta Haynes, Brod Crawford and John Derek, is a remake of Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy," the movie version of which made William Holden a star.

Inside on Greer Garson's MGM contract: Her $5,000-a-week deal ends in June, 1954, and a five-year non-exclusive contract paying her for less and allowing her to do outside pictures then begins.

Lady Mary Lawford, Peter's mother, is making another try for an acting career. MGM curtailed her smoldering when she was under contract to the studio.

Rita Lupino, Ida's sister, launched a new act in a Houston niter. She danced solo in front of a three-piece band.

Type-casting note: Margaret Banzon, who landed in the middle of a mad café brawl as a cigarette girl at Ciro's, plays a hostess who breaks up a fight between Montgomery Clift and Ernest Borgnine in "From Here to Eternity."

Benay Venuta says she saw a 3-D movie—Dull, Dreary and Deadening.

Lex Barker vows that he has three flickers to do in Europe, but that in spite of his love for Lana Turner, he won't try for an 18-month tax exemption deal as is her plan. Does not want to stay away from his two kiddies that long.

U-I's Barbara Rush and Fox's Jeffrey Hunter, who are Mr. and Mrs. have received their studios' okay to co-star in a summer-stock version of "Voice of the Turtle" at the Robin Hood theater near Wilmington, Del.

Committee Advises Severe Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An aggregate cut of 22 per cent in appropriations for the State, Commerce and Justice Departments was recommended to the House Thursday by the Appropriations Committee. The biggest cut was for the State Department, for which the committee recommended $102,744,787. That is $48,403,803 less than former President Truman asked. However, the bill contained nothing for the education and information services, since there has been talk of moving them out of the State Department. Funds for these activities would be contained in another bill.

Truman's request of $1,131,195,925 for the Commerce Department was cut to $861,136,925. The Justice Department's request for $127,150,000 was trimmed to $179,265,000. The House will act on the bill next week.

American Experts To Douse Mexico's Silver Mine Blaze

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Mexico's government has authorized the entry into the country of two U. S. experts to extinguish fires which killed 25 miners in the Anganguebo silver mine last Saturday. The fires were reported still smoldering Friday, six days after faulty electrical cables caught fire from a short circuit.

The American Smelting and Refining Company, which operates the property 80 miles west of Mexico City, told the Interior Ministry Thursday it had imported fire-fighting equipment adequate to put out the fires but needed the aid of technicians.

Mrs. I. E. Daniel Top Winner In Midland Garden Club Show

Mrs. I. E. Daniel was the top blue-ribbon winner in the horticulture division of the Midland Garden Club's Spring flower show, held Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harvey Conner, 1600 Country Club Drive.

She was awarded seven first places in the horticulture division. She also received two blue ribbons in the arrangements division, as did Mrs. A. P. Shirley and Mrs. E. A. Culbertson.

Judging was on a non-competitive basis, with each arrangement and specimen graded according to its own merits. Ribbons were awarded to arrangements and specimens rating first, second and third place and honorable mention.

"Tables on Parade" was the keynote theme for the show, which featured flower arrangements suitable for all types of tables—formal and informal, breakfast tables, coffee and end tables, barbeque tables, library and bedside tables. An arrangement also was provided by each club affiliated with the Midland Council of Garden Clubs.

A new feature of the annual event introduced at this year's show was a printed program explaining the divisions and classifications of the show and how the arrangements and specimen plants were judged.

Two special entertainment events, both featuring the judges, were held in connection with the show. They were a coffee in the home of Mrs. F. A. Scott, 1606 West Louisiana Street, and a luncheon in the Diamond Horseshoe.

Judges were Mrs. B. L. Craig of Odessa, Mrs. R. L. Spenger, Mrs. John Casner, Mrs. Joe Koelger, and Mrs. M. E. Dickerson.

Short Sleeves Of Summer Clothing Remind Beauticians Of Elbow Notes

Smooth, young-looking elbows are achieved by this girl with a nightly scrubbing, using brush and soap lather.

When you wear short sleeves do you ever think of the appearance of your elbows? They are constantly visible to others and, if uncared for, their gray, pebbly, wrinkled look can make you seem years older than you are.

To keep elbows smooth, soft and snowy, every day use a complexion brush to scrub them with thick soap lather, using a firm rotary motion. Bend your arm frequently during the process.

For very bad cases, use pumice or a fine abrasive powder of the type used to clean bathtubs.

When you put on your night cream, scoop a little extra from the jar for your elbows. Massage upwards to help take off the overhanging lump of fat that collects above many girls' elbows.

Constant resting of the elbows on tables and chair arms helps cause the darkening. So eliminate this as much as possible. To bleach elbows, cut a lemon in half, squeeze the halves, but not too thoroughly, and rest your elbows in them.

Cancer Drive Hits $4,911

Midland cancer workers tallied some $4,911 Thursday night to close officially the 1953 Midland Cancer Crusade. But, Ed Stitt, crusade chairman, said, the "after-hours" total may push to $5,000, the unofficial Midland County quota.

Thursday night's total, however, has almost doubled the $2,854 quota assigned Midland County by the American Cancer Society's Texas Division.

"We are expecting a few late contributions which should push our total to $5,000," Stitt pointed out. Chairman of the drive committees were Olin Frather, big gifts; George Bush, building solicitations; Mrs. Ruth Pennycook, coin banks; Mrs. Phil Yeckel, downtown booths; Mrs. Raymond Lynch, publicity, and Mrs. Bill Pennybaker, education.

Red roses, the class flower, were featured in the centerpiece for the tea table, which was laid with a cutwork linen cloth. Red candles in crystal holders flanked the floral arrangement.

Purple and orchid iris were used as decorations throughout the party rooms.

Class guests for the event were Mrs. Bob Williams, Mrs. Delmar Aday, Mrs. Warren Reynolds, Mrs. Boyd Huff, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. Franklin Davidson, Mrs. Jack Lyles, Mrs. Wally Tingley, Mrs. Jay Haney, Mrs. Morris Hill, Mrs. V. D. Williamson and Mrs. D. D. Miles of Odessa.

Whirlwind Of Heart-Filling Events Welcomes Soldier Home From Prison

By SAUL FETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Cpl. Donald Legay, 23, stared into a glass of vintage champagne Friday and shook his handsome, crew-cropped head.

"It's like a dream," he said. "Just 11 days ago I was in a Communist hospital in Kaesong. I could hear the ack-ack fire right behind us and the artillery going off in the lines."

"And now this." The soldier was surrounded by his family, with whom he was reunited Thursday for the first time since he returned from 29 months imprisonment in North Korea.

He wore a new expensive suit of civilian clothes, one of several given him since landing in Boston Thursday night. In his wallet he had $200 earned by a television appearance. More money was coming for his personal story.

And he was sitting in the Stork Club, listening to a rumba, sipping champagne, watching celebrities come and go in a world which had no relation to the long marches in North Korea, the enemy stockades or his warped and wounded left arm.

Strange, ironic events. It was also a world difficult to link to his life before going into service—to the garage he worked in with his father, to his small green and white frame house in Leominster, Mass.

Later Friday he will return to the house for the first time since he went overseas in June, 1950. But right now Corporal Legay is clinging wistfully to his temporary status as a celebrity in New York.

The long night had gone by quickly in a blur of exciting, strange and sometimes ironic events. It began at the Boston airport, where he literally jumped into the arms of his mother, Mrs. Walter Legay, embraced his gaunt, quiet father, and his sister, Gloria, 18, and his twin brothers, Joseph and James, 16.

Mayor Ralph W. Crossman made a speech and gave the soldier a new convertible on behalf of Leominster. A few minutes later he was sped by police escort through Boston to a store where he was outfitted with a new suit, shirts, ties, shoes, topcoat and hat.

Next stop was a hotel for dinner. Donald enjoyed the steak and strawberry shortcake—everything but the chicken soup. The soup had rice in it, and this soldier had had all the rice he would ever want in North Korea. Later, the headwaiter apologized for the faux pas.

Motorcycle police raced the Legays back to the airport and an hour later they landed at LaGuardia. Then he went to the CBS-TV Theater for the quiz show, "I've Got a Secret."

Donald proved one of the worst kept secrets of television. It took the panel only 36 seconds to guess, especially after the prolonged, warm applause from the audience, that this was a war prisoner just home from Korea.

Garry Moore gave the young soldier the $200, more clothes, a new TV set, an invitation to the night club, a season baseball pass for the Boston Red Sox and a reservation for a suite at the Waldorf Towers. All the Legays were introduced to and had their pictures taken with Moore, Leo Durocher, Laraine Day and Henry Morgan.

At the night club, the Legays were introduced to and photographed with more celebrities—Dinah Shore, George Montgomery, Morton Downey, Eddie Fisher.

Britain's Tax-Cut Promise

Britain's announcement of proposed tax cuts on personal and corporate incomes, excess profits and sales is one of the most promising developments since Winston Churchill returned to power in 1951.

The planned five per cent reduction in personal levies is not the most important, for all the morale-boosting effect it probably will have. The basic income tax in Britain now is 47 1/2 per cent, and so small a slash is nothing remarkable.

More exciting to ordinary Britons is the proposal to trim the hated sales tax, called a purchase tax in Britain, by at least 25 per cent. Yet, again, this is a change of the second rank.

The significant cuts are in the corporate field, since they are designed to give British manufacturers the incentive to produce more, to add to plant capacity, and thus to better Britain's position in world trade.

Sagging output and productivity (output per man) long have bulked heavily among the root difficulties of the British. Their need for wider markets, so fervently proclaimed, is real. But the Canadians, dealing with the British within the friendly confines of the Commonwealth, can testify that lowered trade barriers are not the whole story.

Churchill's government evidently appreciates that the trade problem has its vital home-front aspect, for the new tax reductions are aimed directly at this trouble.

His new budget calls for elimination of the excess profits tax next January, and will grant "offsets"—allowances—against regular corporate income levies for those firms which invest money to increase production or plant capacity.

Britain's friends, always hopeful that that sturdy country will come upon better times, still must take a cautious view at this stage. For what the government has done represents promise, not reality.

The test will be in the hard statistics of the annual production totals and the additions to productive facilities. If these climb markedly in response to the bold stimulus that Churchill now has applied, then there will be genuine reason to feel Britain has taken a big step toward a sounder economic future.

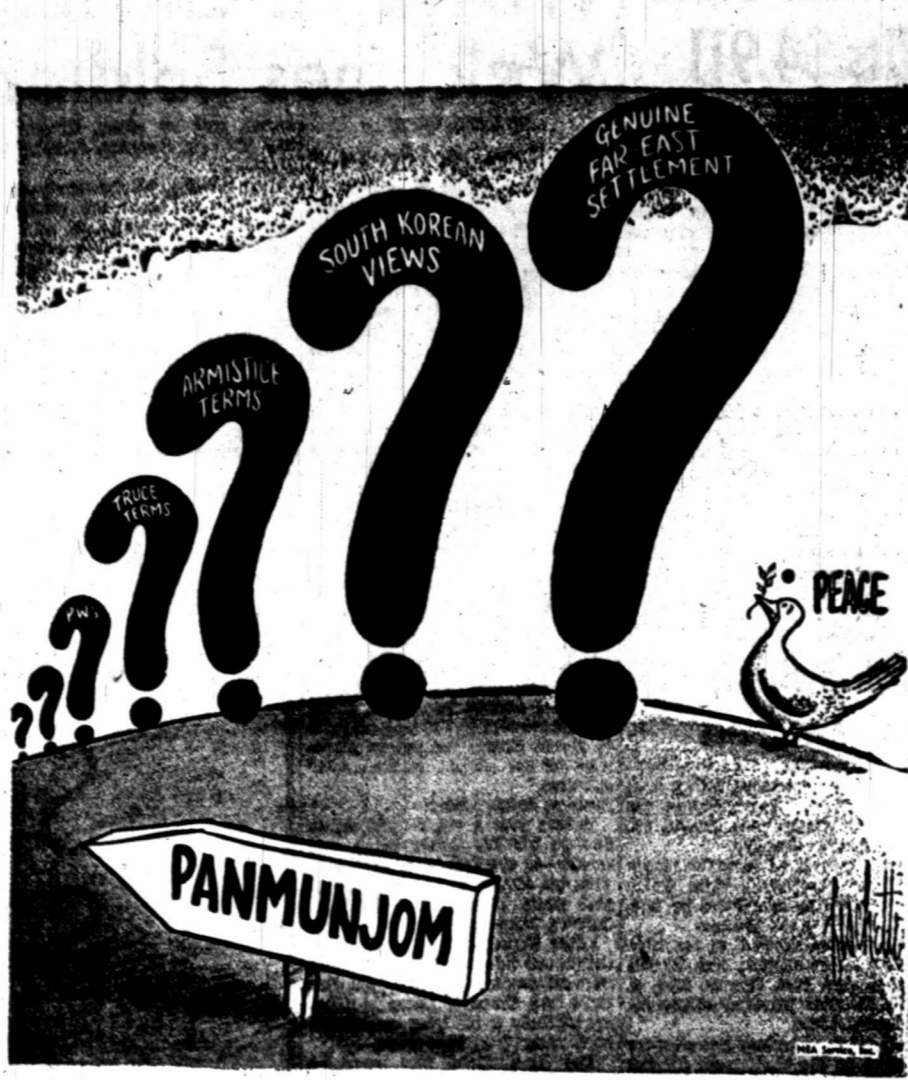

The average man can take a quick glance in a mirror and immediately spot the main trouble with middle age.

If something isn't wrong, it isn't right, according to the pessimist.

Mastering the art of ignoring your troubles is one sure way of making them seem small.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson (Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Science loses to politics at Bureau of Standards; Bureau scientist developed proximity fuse; Vishinsky's "peace move" was false alarm.

WASHINGTON—Behind all the furor over the dismissal of Dr. Allen W. Astin as head of the Bureau of Standards are some interesting maneuvers hitherto unknown to the public.

These quiet tactics center around the bureau's vital development work on fuses for bombs, shells and guided missiles. For years several large corporations have been anxious to take over the bureau's fuse program.

As far back as March 2, little more than a month after Sinclair Weeks was sworn in as secretary of Commerce and as boss of the Bureau of Standards, Moorehead Patterson, president of the American Machine and Foundry Company, paid a visit to the Bureau of Standards.

Headlines And Footnotes: Comptroller General Lindsay Warren has ordered his accounting sleuths to audit the huge "mail payments" the government is ladling out to the airlines.

Then, on March 25, Secretary Weeks wrote a confidential letter to Defense Boss Charlie Wilson urging the Pentagon to remove the fuse program from Weeks' own Bureau of Standards.

Q—What is a superstitious belief about the mandrake plant? A—It is supposed to shriek when pulled out of the soil.

Q—Why are postage stamps called "stamps"? A—Postage stamps originated in Paris in 1653, but they were letter covers or wrappers on which was stamped (printed) a distinctive mark.

Q—Is manganese an important metal? A—Yes. It is used in alloys. Q—How far north are mosquitoes found? A—They are numerous near the Arctic Circle.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By ORWALD JACOBY Written for NEA Service The suit preference signal is one of the most overworked conventions in expert bridge, but it can be very valuable when properly used.

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, West, and East cards. North: ♠1054, ♥1073, ♦1094, ♣A93. South: ♠AKJ73, ♥QJ98, ♦AJ, ♣106. West: ♠AK544, ♥AK544, ♦KJ53, ♣KJ53. East: ♠988, ♥KQ165, ♦K74, ♣Q74.

In leading a third heart, West is at perfect liberty to lead the five, the four, or the three. In expert play there is quite a difference.

If East and West are not experts, East will ruff the third spade and will look around for a likely-looking return. The king of diamonds looks like the best return from the East hand.

South wins the return of the king of diamonds with his ace, draws trumps, and returns the jack of diamonds to force out East's queen. Dummy's ten of diamonds then furnishes a discard for South's losing club.

What happened was that Senator Cabot Lodge, our hard-working ambassador to the United Nations, got a little optimistic.

At a closed meeting of the Security Council, just after Vishinsky returned from Stalin's funeral, the Russian envoy came up to Lodge and said:

"Hello, Mr. Lodge. I'm certainly happy to see you." And he pumped his hand at great length with an air of genuine cordiality.

Lodge took this as an optimistic sign and telephoned the White House. As a result he passed word out around the Cabinet table that Vishinsky was in a much more cordial mood and some encouraging developments were expected.

Shortly thereafter Vishinsky telephoned Lodge that he wanted to visit him: Again Lodge got enthusiastic and telephoned Washington.

When Vishinsky arrived to keep his appointment, however, he talked about the weather, about his trip to New York, about the nice spirit around the United Nations, and how well Ambassador Lodge looked.

Unfortunately, the reported peace offensive, as far as the United Nations is concerned, was pretty much a tempest in a teapot.

It is for you to judge how I succeed. It is for you to correct me if I fail. —Dag Hammarskjold, new UN secretary-general tells UN.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Treasury Aide Explains Aim Of Billion-Dollar Bond Issue

By FREDERICK EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—U. S. Treasury action in floating the latest billion-dollar bond issue at 3 1/4 per cent interest has made financial experts out of a lot of people who never bothered about such things before.

Commonest and most easily understood criticism of this action is that it raises the bill for government interest payments by $5,000,000 a year.

Since one of the principal aims of the new Administration is to cut the costs of government operations and so save money, the question naturally arises as to why the Treasury did this thing?

W. Randolph Burgess, New York banker now serving as deputy secretary of Treasury, is the official who took principal responsibility for engineering this deal.

Before determining the interest rate on the new bond issue, Treasury made a careful survey of this money market. Life insurance companies, savings banks, and the big pension funds like Standard Oil of New Jersey were polled on what terms they would pay for a new government long-term bond issue.

Eighty per cent of the insurance companies eventually were covered in this poll. Bonds Wouldn't Sell.

No interest was shown in buying government bonds at three per cent interest. If this issue had been offered at that figure, says Burgess, it would not have sold.

As proof of that, the experience of Allied Chemical is cited in trying to float a $200,000,000 loan just before the government bond issue was announced.

Furthermore, the government had to offer this bond issue on a 25-30-year basis. A 15-year issue was not considered practical because the Treasury has a number of other obligations maturing in 1968. The burden of refinancing in 1968 had to be kept down.

The alternative to issuing this long-term bond issue at 3 1/4 per cent would have been to print a lot of new money, as Burgess calls it, by selling securities to the banks.

This is the way the government raised much of its new money in recent years. And according to one theory, that is what is responsible for the rise in prices and the devaluation of the dollar.

Instead of printing new money, the Treasury was trying to find investors with a lot of old money saved up, and to get these people to buy government bonds.

The effect of this will be to put down the amount of money available for other purposes. It is hoped this will force some people who may be wanting to borrow money to postpone their operations. This is exactly what the Treasury wants.

Protects Value Of Savings. The purpose is not to force prices down, nor to force wages down, Burgess maintains. The spending power of the dollar can be maintained, he believes, but a little bit of the fat in the economy can be trimmed off.

Have A Laugh advertisement featuring a photo of a man and the text: A new father was looking through the window of the infant ward and all the babies were crying. He asked the nurse, "Why are they squalling?" She replied, "If you were only a few days old, didn't have any clothes, and had no job and owed almost $1,700 as your share of the national debt, wouldn't you be crying, too?"

BOOKS FOR THE BARON

THE words were uttered softly, the job was firm but not painful. Coming out of the gloom of the passage and the silence, they made Mannering's heart give a sickening thump. He shivered involuntarily, and then recovered enough to face up to his plight.

"Move a step forward," the man ordered. "It wasn't Fenner; it was a young, cultured voice. Mannering shuffled forward a few paces—and then back-headed.

There was a gasp as his heel struck the man's shin. Mannering whirled around while the other was backing away, his mouth wide open because of the pain. Something waved wildly in his right hand—not a gun but an electric torch. Mannering twisted the torch, manning twisted the man's wrist until the torch dropped, and then backed away and showed his automatic. Scared eyes turned towards it. The other had recovered his balance and was standing on one leg, as if the pain from the kick was still acute. He drew in short, gasping breaths; noisy breaths.

"Go into the kitchen," Mannering ordered. The other hitched in, obediently. Mannering stood by the door, listening, tense, but all was silent. Had anyone else been roused, they would have shown up by now.

The man here was young—probably in the early twenties, blue eyes narrowed in a pale but healthy face. He limped to the table and leaned against it, raised his right leg and hoisted the leg of his pajamas; a blue leather slipper fell out.

The kick had broken the skin, and blood was oozing up gently from the shin. He muttered: "I'll make you pay for that." Mannering's voice was harsh; not a voice even Lorna would recognize.

It was one thing to attack the watchman, or to lay him out when he was attacked, but to knock out young Kenley in cold blood.

Mannering was getting soft. Kenley hurried the packet at him, and leaped forward. The cigarette patted Mannering's head, and the clenched fist grazed his chin. Mannering swayed to one side, and a punch to Kenley's stomach, which he only half landed, and took a buffet on the side of the head. Another blow at the solar plexus drove Kenley's wind out with a wheezing gasp, his chin jutted forward.

Mannering's fist on his chin rocked Kenley and made his eyes roll. Five minutes later, he was as securely bound and gagged as the watchman.

Mannering dragged him, chair and all, into the scullery which led off to the kitchen. The key was in the lock, and the only half landed, and he found several small notebooks, some letters and a letter-bound book which looked very old. Some of the pages were loose, and the brown leather cover was badly rubbed at the corners and at the spine. He turned it open, and he found a few small notes, some letters and a letter-bound book which looked very old.

Mannering put them all in a pile, strung them round with a cord, and made a loop to use as a handle. Then he unlocked the bureau, went outside and put his hand on the settle near the front door. The door was bolted and chained; he unlocked it, and turned the handle. He could hear voices from upstairs or down.

He went to the kitchen. Neither prisoner appeared to have made much effort to wriggle free. (To Be Continued)

Approximately 80 people attended.

You aren't in the mood for a party but you have accepted an invitation and you have to go. Don't carry your gloom with you. One out-of-sorts guest can ruin a party. And, besides, if you'll put yourself out to be pleasant to others, you'll end up by feeling better yourself. You might even have a good time!

Solons Still Talk Of Tax Cut Despite Eisenhower Warning

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's statement that his Administration sees no way to balance the budget for the next fiscal year appeared likely Friday to delay indefinitely any fresh tax cuts.

Eisenhower told a White House news conference Thursday it will be impossible to bring expenditures completely in line with revenue.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said Congress may have to approve new appropriations without any fiscal spending estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

To Senator George (D-Cal.) an old hand at fiscal matters, this spelled delay and possibly no tax reductions at all beyond the already scheduled death of the excess profits levy on July 1 and a 10 per cent decline in individual income taxes set for next January 1.

Commenting on the President's statement, George said: "I don't see how it leaves any leeway for a tax reduction."

Some House leaders, however, cling to a hope they will pass a tax cut this year, although they agreed with the President that tax reductions should not be considered until a balanced budget is in sight.

Larger Slices Possible
Republican Leader Halleck (Ind) said in an interview, "I still wouldn't rule out any chance of a tax reduction. I don't think there will be any big fight with the Administration but we may cut appropriations even below the Administration requests."

And House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass) said: "I'm still hopeful we can make the appropriation cuts that will justify a tax reduction."

Eisenhower declined to speculate on possible additional tax reductions and Taft, the Senate Republican leader, significantly withheld any predictions on this score.

But the Ohio Senator said in an interview he doubts that any firm estimates will be given Congress in the present session on federal spending, which he said "will determine tax policy and whether there is a deficit."

Many Republicans promised a balanced budget and reduced levies in last year's political campaign, but Eisenhower has said he made no pledge to cut taxes.

Actual Savings Unknown
Eisenhower announced he will ask Congress to vote $8,500,000,000 less than the $12,900,000,000 in new appropriations former President Truman had recommended for the coming year.

But Eisenhower declined to say how much of that would be represented in actual savings at the Treasury's pay-out window, although Representative Short (R-Mo) previously had estimated the amount at $4,400,000,000.

It is the Treasury's actual income and outgo—not what Congress appropriates for this and future years—that determines whether the budget is balanced. The government can spend more than is appropriated because more than 100 billions voted in previous years has not yet been paid out.

Noting that Truman had predicted the nation will go into the red $9,900,000,000 in the new fiscal year, Eisenhower said it just wouldn't be possible to wipe this out because of commitments already made—largely for military equipment.

Although the President gave no figures on the over-all appropriations cut, members of Congress said about five billions less would be asked in new money for the military, $1,800,000,000 less for foreign aid, $1,200,000,000 less for domestic

Four Texas Homes Learn Imprisoned GI Sons Are Alive

By The Associated Press
"He's the only one I have left... He's such a young boy... It's such a long time."

It was a Beaumont mother, ill since she was notified her son was missing, learning that he was still alive.

"Oh, thank you, thank you," Mrs. Virgil Woolman said from her rented room. "His father died in January this year. I've been ill ever since they notified me he was missing in action."

The widow said she had heard nothing since she was told last July 19 he was missing.

"It's been such a long time... oh, but this is wonderful."

She said her son, Charlie Woolman, went in the service Nov. 14, 1951, "the day he was 20 years old."

Three other Texas families shared Mrs. Woolman's happiness. Cpl. Everett Pittenour of Woodstock, Va., had jotted down the names of 75 friends he left in Red Prison Camp No. 5 on the Yalu River.

That list contained names of three Texans: Cpl. John Wells, San Antonio; Pvt. Herman View, foster son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Boling, McGregor; and Cpl. Rufus Douglas, foster son of Mrs. Ben, Howard, San Angelo.

Boling, a father of 11, was proud of the 23-year-old View, a lad he had taken in "as a kid, no questions asked" when his own son, Chandler, showed up with the war in 1947.

"He said he didn't have any folk and we told him he did, too—if he needed a home, here it was."

No Questions Asked
"He never told us where he came from or why, and we didn't ask," Boling, a feed store employe said.

At San Angelo, Mrs. Howard was glad to have heard from her foster son, Douglas, but continued to worry. "It's just wonderful to know he's alive and well," she said. "But you can't help but worry about him when you know he's over there and you don't know if he'll ever get back."

The Howards adopted Douglas when he was 10. His sister and his foster father died within the last 18 months. Rufus doesn't know of their deaths.

In San Antonio, John Wells said, "this gives us something to hope for." The service station attendant added, "I'm thankful that he is all right. Worry about the boy has put plenty of grey hair in my head."

50 Sabre Jets Turn Dive Bombers, Rip Red Radio Station

SEOUL (AP)—Fifty swift F-86 Sabre jets flying as dive bombers Friday blasted a big radio station and a military headquarters building near the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

The 5th Air Force reported the attack shortly after announcing the 5th Fighter-Bomber Wing is flying F-86s, giving the UN Command four complete Sabre wings in Korea.

Twenty-five of the planes in Friday's attack were from the 8th.

The number of swept-wing Sabres in combat has been doubled in the last few months.

Other Allied fighter-bombers have cratered at least seven Communist airfields in North Korea in the last week to keep them out of operation, an Air Force officer said.

Communist armies along the 155-mile battle front observed May Day—the traditional Red holiday—quietly. There were only a few minor skirmishes.

PIONEER TEACHERS HONORED Business Correlation With Education Pointed Up In Talk Here By Dr. Hill

The close correlation between the ultimate purposes of education and business was pointed up by Dr. J. A. Hill, president emeritus of West Texas State College, in an informal address, Thursday night to more than 600 educators, teachers and businessmen who gathered in the Midland High School gymnasium to climax Education-Business Day here.

The occasion was the third annual award banquet honoring Midland teachers and public school officials. Certificates of appreciation were presented to two retiring members of the Board of Education by Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Judge R. W. Hamilton and John Cornwall received the certificates. Downing acted as master of ceremonies.

Frank Monroe, superintendent of Midland Public Schools, presented service award pins to long standing teachers. Mrs. DeLo Douglas was given a 15-year pin.

Ten-year pins went to Lida Beasley, Mrs. Jack Colvin, Mrs. Jack Ellington, Mrs. Helen Grant, Minnie Jackson, Mary Louise Yoe.

Five-year pins were presented to Mrs. Ruth Bedford, Mrs. Laura Clemens, Mrs. Mary Duke, Mary Jo Kearns, W. D. Ladd, Mrs. W. J. Parr, Fannie Reeves, Mary Stracever and Mrs. La Verne West.

Dr. Hill, noted Texas educator, newsman and author, chose as his subject "Learning to Live Together." He was president of West Texas State College some 30 years and was head of the school's history department from 1910 until 1918 before being named president. He retired in 1948.

"An important job of school administrators and teachers," said Dr. Hill, "is to let parents know more about schools and their responsibilities. That is why this Education-Business Day is a good thing."

"It is lamentable that we teachers have long looked with some distrust on 'big business.' When we as teachers realize that our job of education depends upon the business world, we can appreciate the difficulties and sacrifices that businessmen have to make."

"The education of youth is the business of all people," he said. "It has been proved that the level of our culture determines the level, quality, and amount of 'good things' that the public wants. Business and education have nothing in contradiction and everything in common."

"The attitude of distrust between businessmen and teachers is changing today, slowly. But we have plenty of evidence that certain business interests are taking the short view of education in Austin. They look upon education as an expense when actually education is a good investment."

"It is my opinion," stated Dr. Hill, "that the United States Cham-

Businessmen Are Impressed By School Progress, Facilities Seen During Tour

By BILL COLLYNS
Reporter-Telegram Editor

Education-Business Day—the second annual observance—was quite an event Wednesday for the scores of businessmen and women and P-TA members who spent the day as guests in the various public schools of the city.

It was the reverse of Business-Education Day, observed last Fall, and this time the principals and teachers were the hosts in the classrooms.

Nothing was said about diplomas for the visiting "students" as the day ended, but neither was anything said about anyone "failing." Teachers really are mighty nice!

The bell for the "students for a day" sounded at 9 a.m. in the high school auditorium. Only a few boys and girls were tardy. Then "Professor" Delbert Downing of the Chamber of Commerce called the class to order, outlining plans for the day. Supt. Frank Monroe welcomed the "students."

Host Principals

The host principals then were introduced and their "students" joined them in boarding special buses arranged for by Wesley Martin, director of special services for the school system. The principals and their schools are: Don Mitchell, high school; Dravin M. Estes, San Jacinto Junior High; C. D. Johnson, Cowden Junior High; C. B. Downing, Sam Houston; Wilson Blurton, West; Glenn L. Allison, Lamar; Frank Blackwell, Crockett; Wallace T. David, South; W. D. Ladd, North; Lewis Bohn, DeZavala, and E. L. Jordan, Carver.

Your reporter was one of about 30 "students" guided to Bus No. 7, and in a few minutes later we were pulling up in front of San Jacinto Junior High, termed by Principal Estes as the finest, most modern and best equipped junior high school plant in the Southwest. The new school is in its first year of operation.

The guests assembled in the school's attractive and spacious auditorium for orientation. We were told the school has the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, and that its membership averages 800 boys and girls. In addition to the principal, the school's staff includes 33 teachers, a band director, a librarian, a dean of students, a secretary, four building custodians, and five cooks. The P-TA has 400 members enrolled.

The visitors then were split into groups for classroom visitations. Estes escorted one group, while the others were led by Dean W. R. Houston and Students Eloise Conger, Mae Whitson and Carolyn Harp.

Band Hall Visited

First, we visited the spacious and well-equipped offices. Then the band hall, in which Director Ted James was conducting a practice session. The Natural History class was the next stop, and there Professor David K. Jameson pointed out interesting specimens, including rattlesnakes, sharks, centipedes and other "things" in the natural history collection case. Elsewhere, live animals and fish were on display. Over in another corner of the room, swamp conditions were being created. (This phase of the science program is completely foreign to most West Texas students.)

The visitors then advanced from science to art, Lucille Carroll's art department being the next "port of call." There the visiting "students" joined the class in doing crayola etchings, the work of Morris Howard being judged "best." Miss Carroll explained art course procedures and techniques and exhibited the paintings of regular students.

A geography class, taught by Mrs. Ivy Epperson, was hearing student reports on materials of the world. Mrs. Marian Standefer's arithmetic class was studying percentages when the visitors entered for a brief stay. Several of the students worked problems on the greenboard, explaining the procedures followed for the benefit of the visiting "students," most of whom had not worked math problems in years.

Student Takes Over

The next stop was Mrs. Isyl Cox's Spanish class, where "Student" Roy McKee took over the teaching duties for a few minutes.

The visitors also toured the Home Ec. Department, directed by Mrs. Mary Hastings, before touring and inspecting the well-equipped shop, of which Harold Urbach is the instructor. Beautiful wood-work projects were on display in the shop.

Other groups visited Patricia Harrison's speech department; Helene Milley's world history class; Betty Bolman's English class; Mary Jo Gregory's physical education class, and the library, which is in charge of Christine Lane.

Everyone was hungry by that time, and Principal Estes' kind invitation to lunch in the huge cafeteria was much appreciated. Fried chicken and all the trimmings, plus delicious hot rolls, held the attention of the visiting "students" as nothing else had. More than 400 persons, incidentally, eat in the cafeteria daily.

Then it was back to the high school auditorium for the concluding session. There, a color film, "Your High School," was shown. The film was produced by the High School P-TA, with Raymond Leggett as the photographer, and Art Cole, the narrator.

It was a marvelous day and a wonderful experience for the adult "students for a day."

Rancher Convicted In 'Witch' Slaying.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—An Arizona rancher was convicted of second degree murder by a jury Thursday night for killing a woman he claimed had practiced witchcraft.

Joe S. Chavez, 45, faces a penalty of 10 years to life in prison.

Chavez was accused of shooting Mrs. Estrella Miranda, 41, in her home near the tiny Yaqui Indian village of Guadalupe, south of Phoenix, last September 12.

The week-long trial brought out a strange tale of belief in witchcraft by many of Mrs. Miranda's neighbors, and equally strong denials from a few friends.

A confession Chavez purportedly signed and introduced by the prosecution quoted Chavez as saying he had shot the woman because she placed a curse on his wife and caused her to go blind.

Six women who lived near the Miranda home testified she was a witch who could cast evil spells on those she disliked.

You're Right, Your Honor

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—"You've got to keep your mind on your driving," Police Court Judge John Scott explained to a newspaper columnist who complained that a one-way street was not marked clearly.

To prove it, Judge Scott took columnist Allen Rankin to the street in his car and pointed out the signs. Rankin agreed he had overlooked the markings.

The judge then offered to drive Scott back to his office, and turned off a one-way street to circle the block.

He was stopped by a policeman who pointed out a one-way sign the judge had not noticed.

Both the newspaperman and the jurist paid $2 fines and shook hands on it.

Foes Of Tidelands Bill Talk On; Final Balloting Set Tuesday

WASHINGTON.—Senate debate on amendments to the state ownership submerged lands bill continued under an agreement that there will be no votes Friday, and no Saturday session for the first time in three weeks.

Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio said he hoped all proposed amendments can be acted upon Monday. A final vote on the bill, before the Senate since April 1, is scheduled Tuesday.

Opponents gave up hope of making any major change in the bill after suffering two more defeats Thursday.

The Senate rejected, 59 to 22, an amendment by Senator Monroney (D-Okla) to cut off state offshore boundaries at three miles and devote federal revenues from the oil-rich continental shelf beyond three miles to reduction of the national debt. The Senate also rejected, 80 to 28, an amendment by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) to require states to measure their offshore boundaries from the shore of the main continent. Douglas said this would prevent possible state claims that their seaward boundaries should be measured from the outer rim of offshore islands.

Backers of the bill, which would establish state ownership of offshore lands within their boundaries, contend the lands rightfully belong to the state.

TAKING NOTES ON THE NINETEENTH:

A lot has been said about the favorites in the flight of the City Tourney; little about those two flights—the first and second—which claims players who barely missed being top ladder men.

Tippy Schmitt, for instance, can get plenty backing from his pro-am team captain of Thursday, Vern Farquhar of Amarillo, the winning pro and the winning team leader. Although speaking of the pro-am, Farquhar gave nothing of Tippy's possibilities in the second flight after playing with him Thursday.

"He's the reason my team won, he was its success," said Farquhar, who posted a par 71 round. And Schmitt may hold an advantage over his flight foes Friday through Saturday, Farquhar contends, because, "he knows that course, but like a book, knows every break on those greens. He told me where to putt on every green; I putted there and they fell."

Tippy, too, can take care of the crucial moments in competition, said Farquhar. "He held us with a birdie on No. 16 and pars on 17 and 18" while the wind renewed its vigor and hoisted the scores of others on the team.

Except for a bad break, Schoolboy Marcelino Moreno would be winning in the championship flight instead of being on the spot, among the first, fighters. His floundered one drive out of bounds—losing the same as two strokes—when qualifying last Sunday, and, despite it, registered a 76, one stroke back from the leading group.

The words repeated most often by the 99 to 126 players on the eve of the tourney: "Didja know that guy, I'm matched with shoots in the low 80's?"

Your low-humored agent, who likes a pun, found an obvious one when one player, with new-sunburn, called Thursday's weather, "dud-burn." ... But could that be any worse than this?

Fourth flighters, all of whom registered 85's in qualifying, tell Ed Grimes, "You have the honor" of being the only 85 golfer to play in the third flight." He won his "honor" in Sunday's draw for pairings.

You can find in the lower bracket of the seventh flight a baseball manager (Jay Haney), a basketball player (Kenny Jastrow), a high school team golfer (Waldo Leggett, Jr.), a sports writer and a man named Champion. ... Then there are two family combinations, Henry Shaw, Sr., and Henry Shaw, Jr., of the third and sixth flights, respectively, and Paul McHargue and Dickie McHargue, fourth flighters.

The Ranchland course record, a 67 by Bob Wortman, appears out of reach of the city tourney crowd as long as the current winds hold. Still, a player like Red Watkins could erase the old mark with a good round. Watkins showed promise of it when he played under-par golf through 15 holes Thursday in the heavy winds, only to bogie the final three holes.

Blumenthal Loses As Oilers, Broncs Split Double-Header

ODESSA—P—The Odessa Oilers and the Big Spring Broncs split a pair of seven-inning games Thursday night, with Big Spring taking the opener, 15-7, and Odessa coping a thrilling nightcap, 3-2.

Jim Fals and Ray Machado worked for Big Spring in the first game with Machado getting the win, while for the Oilers it was just about the entire staff, with Bruce Blumenthal starting, Carlos Villarreal coming in the second, Jim Carson in the same inning, Al Sokolowski in the third and Charles Craig in the seventh. Blumenthal was charged with the loss.

The big blow of the first game was a two-run homer by big Joe Riney the Broncs left fielder. The lanky fielder drove in five of the Big Spring tallies with timely hitting in the two hour, 20 minute ball game.

In the second contest, Tingo Ortiz of Odessa and Pancho Perez of Big Spring hooked up in the top pitching duel of the season as far as the Oilers are concerned with Ortiz winning his own ball game in the home half of the sixth inning with a timely single scoring a runner from second base.

Ortiz pitched himself a dandy four-hitter, while Perez was tagged for six bingles, but one was a game-tying home run by Leo Eastham in the fatal sixth frame.

Friday night the Oilers open a three game home stand with the San Angelo Colts. Francis Mehal is slated to do the pitching for the Oilers in the opening game.

Tribe Meets Big Spring After Loss To Colts

Angelo Slips From Behind To Win, 11-9

By CHARLEY ESKEW

Big Spring's Broncs move into Midland Park for the first of a three-game series against Midland at 8 p.m. Friday and found the Indians wondering how wasteful can they be.

Midland slammed San Angelo pitchers for 14 hits and received the aid of six walks and four errors—yet the Indians couldn't win. They left 15 runners, compared to San Angelo's three, on the basepaths.

And the Colts came away with a 11-9 victory. Quintana Called For the Friday club, Manager Jay Haney has named Ben Quintana as the Indians' starting hurler. His chance to gain a first victory rests on how well Midland grows economy-wise, maybe from a lesson learned Thursday when the Indians blew a seven-run lead by the eighth inning.

A belated rally by the Indians in the ninth failed after regaining one run from the 11-8 deficit. In that frame Midland left three on base when left-hander Bobby Gregg, the second reliever of the inning, fanned Bill Brown for the third out.

The hapless rally started with Hayden White greeting reliever Mario Saldana for a single, to be followed by Lou Dawson's pinch-walk. After a second Midland out, Scooter Hughes batted in White and prompted the Colts to insert Gregg.

Art Bowland then walked to load the bases but Gregg found his stuff to drive home a called strike on Brown while the three base-runners were cutting out on a full count.

Midland left a full house on base on the first, doing no damage. Only Bowland's two-out single saved things in the second, his rap going into right field to drive in two of the three runners and he and Hughes ran all the way home when Fleider Steve Pollett led the ball get through him.

Brown hit a 400-foot home run over dead center field to make the score, Midland 5-0.

Midland counted again in the third on Tex Stephenson's walk and hits by Roger Dalla Betta and Bowland, who incidentally enjoyed a three-for-four night.

Jim Prince tripled, ran home on an error and White singled in Julio de la Torre as Midland went ahead, 8-1 in the fourth.

Parks Thomas, the winner, teamed with his ninth-inning relievers to halt Midland with three hits the rest of the way. Meanwhile, their mates battered the Midland lead.

Four straight hits, including a one-run single by John Malgarini and a double for two runs by Royce Thiebaud trimmed the margin to 8-4 in the fifth. The Colts next routed starter-Joe Eddie Jacome (2-1) in a five-run eighth.

Glenn Burns drove two runs in with a single to be on base with one other as Pollett apologized for his second inning error by homering. His two on rap over right field gave San Angelo a 9-8 lead.

The Colts added two more, for insurance, in the ninth off Romarico Soto on an error, a sacrifice, John Jeandron's flyout and Brown's second triple.

Ward On Spot As Golfers Start Duels

Amarilloan Scores Win In Pro-Am

A trophy-hunting field of 184 Midland golfers Friday stroked into first round matches of the first annual Reporter-Telegram City Championship Tournament at Ranchland Hill Country Club and the eyes of all were directed at young Pearl Albert Ward, the favorite.

On the strength of his par 71 in last Sunday's medalist round, Ward outranked 15 other championship flight golfers. But, there's one thing ruling against him as top choice—lack of practice.

Hammer-strong winds and a full schedule of work this week halted any plan of his for playing. However his schedule, it was practically the same during the week before his qualifying round.

Others, too, were blown off the practice fairway and the course, except for several who competed in the West Texas Pro-Amateur tournament staged Thursday on the Ranchland course.

Paul Wins Pro-Am Prizes And by that same pro-am play, a couple of the championship flighters greatly boosted their prestige in consideration of a possible windswept tourney Friday through Sunday. Those two, Bob Wortman and Red Watkins, former Ranchland club champs, pushed through the high winds in the pro-am to score three-over 74's and share the low amateur prize.

At any rate, one of the most interesting tourneys ever held in Midland began at 9 a.m. Friday when second-flighters were placed on the tee first. The first flight followed at 9:30 a.m. with the championship flight at 10 a.m.

Among those top 16, here were the opening matches: Ward vs. Bill Hightower, J. P. (Ed) Carson vs. Dave Sheridan in the first foursome; Ford Sturdivant vs. Evans Dunn, Jimmy Stone vs. W. Bill Barker in the second; Wortman vs. J. T. Jamison, A. T. Pierce vs. Roger Evans in the third and James Lyles vs. John Sherrod, Watkins vs. Vann Ligon in the fourth.

The last group, the eleventh flighters, began their first action as K. C. Rouch vs. Bob Johnson, Clyde Turner vs. Johnny Miles tied off on No. 1 at 2:28 p.m., ending more than five hours of teeing off.

Although Wortman and Watkins won prizes with their 74's, neither could claim membership on a winning pro-am team Thursday.

Schmitt On Winner An Amarilloan, Vern Farquhar, pro-am boss Rogers Munny, played the wind and a best ball of 66 for the top team prize. Highest amateur were Tippy Schmitt of Midland and L. L. Stretch and Earl Reynolds of Big Spring.

Farquhar sewed up first prize as he played 17 holes before Thursday's heaviest gusts struck the golfers. All of which made him confident enough of his position to leave for home midway in the tourney. "Would you send me a paper with the results in it?" he said in departing.

Not even a better playing time can rob him of credit for a fine round, though. Farquhar posted a 33, two-under-par, on the first nine, better than anyone competing in the city championship has done.

And to record that, he overcame a bogie five on the 390-yard No. 2 hole by birdying Nos. 1, 4, 5 and 9, two-putting the last one, a five-par hole.

He slipped to a two-over 37 on the home nine but the par 71 round still was good enough to capture the low professional prize.

Ablier's Foy Fanning recorded a 72 as second low pro, Boyd Huff of Midland Country Club and Joe Houck of Berger finished tied for third with 74's.

In team play, Buster Barber of Alpine captained the second place group—including Hightower and Jim Binford of Midland and Martin Shuster of Fort Stockton—which registered a 68. Fanning's team of Ken Baker, Jimmy Lyles and Tom Champion followed with 69.

Bob Pool ... Just Entered.

NO FAVORITE—Just a duffer like you and I is Bob Pool, slender Ranchland Hill golfer who entered the City Championship Tournament just for the fun of playing. Pool shot a 96 to qualify and was due to play Ford Schrock in Friday's first round.

Similar Starting Times Set For Saturday's Golf Matches

The starting times for Saturday's matches won't vary more than 21 to 23 minutes from Friday's. Pro Abe Beckman, City Championship Tourney director, has advised entries.

Like Friday's first round matches, the Saturday foursomes will tee off by flights in the same order—the second at 9 a.m., the first at 9:30, the championship at 10, the third at 10:28 and so on in order according to the flight's starting times.

First round losers, though, compete in the consolation bracket of each flight and make up the first two foursomes going out. For instance, the Friday losers of each flight's top bracket make up the first foursome off, the lower bracket loser make up the second. The top bracket winners make up the third foursome while the lower bracket winners form the fourth. The 46 quartets will tee off approximately every seven minutes.

Of another matter, Beckman said Friday that spectators are welcome to follow the matches any of the three days of playing. He anticipated a large gathering to watch the championship matches.

Sports Clip Eagles; Padres Rap Oilers

By The Associated Press The league-leading Shreveport Sports knocked Dallas over, 4-2, gaining a full game on the second place Eagles, and San Antonio jumped over Tulsa into third place with a 7-5 win in the Texas League play Thursday night.

In other action around the loop Houston trounced Oklahoma City, 13-6, while Beaumont won from fading Fort Worth, 3-2.

Shreveport parlayed nine hits into four runs while Right-Hander Hugh Scooter spread this nine safe blows by the Eagles. The Sports got solo homers from Bud Heslet and Joe Szekely to give their attack meaning. The Sports now have a game and one-half edge on the Eagles. The clubs meet twice more in this series. San Antonio got a Tulsa gift in their 7-5 win, scoring six unearned runs after they trailed 4-1.

The last-place Houston Buffs poured it on in their go with Oklahoma City, rapping 13 base hits off three Oklahoma City throwers. Seven of the hits were for extra bases, featured by Howie Phillips' three-run home run in the sixth.

Al Pappi went nine for Houston and had a poor first and last innings but was rough through the middle. Beaumont broke a three-game losing streak at the expense of the Fort Worth Cats in the fourth league contest. Toy Glane and Beaumont hurlers Don Frachia and Jack Creel hooked up in a nip-and-tuck affair.

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP)—Unbeaten Native Dancer places one of turf history's most enviable records on the line at 3:30 p.m. (CST) Saturday in the seventy-ninth Kentucky Derby. Eleven other three-year-olds are expected to challenge his right to be acclaimed one of racing's greatest.

Arcaro Says Native Dancer Is Overrated

LOUISVILLE, KY. (AP)—Eddie Arcaro feels both Native Dancer and the Churchill Downs track are overrated.

Arcaro, who will ride Correspondent in Saturday's Kentucky Derby, says of Native Dancer: "He'd better be a helluva horse. He hasn't proved he is yet, and he's got some good ones to beat."

Arcaro

Not since Man o' War has a horse caught the fancy like this smooth striding blue-gray son of Polyanthus from the stable of millionaire Alfred Vanderbilt.

Even Man o' War, who didn't race in the Derby, already had lost his lone decision at this stage of his racing career.

The Dancer can show nine victories in 1951 and two this Spring as a three-year-old.

One of two entries, including the Dancer's stablemate, Social Outcast, may be withdrawn before the sharply trained three-year-olds start the long trek to the starting gate before the crowd of more than 100,000.

Two of the entries have strong home-state backing. A large and noisy Texas delegation arrived well-stocked with words and money to back Royal Bay Gem, the center-of-behind entry of Eugene Constantine, Jr., of Dallas.

From California came representation, not quite so vociferous, for Mrs. Gordon Guberson's Correspondent of LaJolla, winner of three straight races at Keeneland, including a track record performance in the Blue Grass Stakes.

The Californians point out Correspondent will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, the winningest of all Derby jockeys with five to his credit. As a result the son of Khaled shapes up as the strong second choice at 3 to 1 with Royal Bay Gem third in line at 7 to 1. Jim Combest will be astride Royal Bay Gem, victorious in the Chesapeake Stakes at Bowie.

Pushing the pride of Texas for third best support at the betting windows is likely to be Bark Star from the Cain Hoy Stable of New York's Harry Guggenheim. Dark Star, an easy winner of the Derby trial Tuesday in which Royal Bay Gem was a fast closing fourth, will be ridden by Henry Moreno. The early line quoted him at 8 to 1.

The Derby, carrying a gross value of $118,850 with 12 starters, will be worth $80,000 net to the winner—not a record but a nice piece of change. If Native Dancer wins, it'll boost his lifetime earnings well past the $400,000 mark. He won a record $230,945 in 1952 and picked up $111,500 in two New York races this Spring before leaving for the Downs.

Unless the going is muddy, all of the other probable entries strictly are outsiders with the possible exception of Green Tree's Straight Face and the Saxon Stable's Invigorator. Straight Face, along with Royal Bay Gem, have showed they improved greatly on an off track. Native Dancer's mud-running ability is unknown but he won in the slop at Saratoga last August.

NOT DANCING—Second base takes on the appearance of a vigorous May Day dance as the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns engage in a tenth inning free-for-all during their game in St. Louis. The two teams came to blows when Brownie Catcher Cline Courtney slid into Yankee Phil Rizzuto, causing him to drop the ball.

AT STATE TRACK MEET—

Wink Rates Chance To Cop 'B' Crown

By The Associated Press
Sugar Land appears capable of repeating with the Class B school-boy track and field title in Austin next week.

Kenneth Hall, sensation of last year's meet with 38 points, is back and Sugar Land also has a fine 440-yard relay team and a mile relay quartet that should place. If Sugar Land doesn't win it, Wink appears the best bet and O'Donnell could edge in with the championship.

O'Donnell's Kenneth Fannon is one of the top men in both hurdles, and Bennie Clark has the best high jump of the season — 6 feet 3/4 inch.

Wink has four or five possibilities of picking up points by the chunk. Dale Dodd is the top shot putter, having flipped the 12-pound ball 50 feet, 1 1/2 inches, over a foot better than Sugar Land's Hall. Wink also had the fastest 440-yard relay time in the state in the regional meets—44.3. That was four-tenths of a second faster than Sugar Land's crack team. Sprinter Dan Villarreal and Low Hurdler Peje McDonald should get some points.

Putting Gives Ben Trouble

MEXICO CITY—Ben Hogan, one of the greatest putters in golf, entered the second round of the $15,000 Pan-American Open Tournament Friday hoping for a return of the touch that has won him virtually every top prize in the game.

Ben could do no better than a four-way tie for fourth in the opening round Thursday with a par 72. His putting was far off. He was bothered by the cement-hard greens, as were most other contestants.

Still, Hogan was one of the seven players to get home in par figures or better. Only three managed to go under.

Dave Douglas and Margarito Martinez, a Mexico City caddy, were tied for the lead with 69's.

The only other player to break par was Art Wall with 71. Jim Simpson of Fort Worth played as if he owned the course until he hit the seventeenth. He had to take a 10 on the par-five hole, mainly because of putting. He finished with a 76.

Al Zimmerman had a 75 while Tommy Bolt got home with a 73.

ROBINSON FILM TO BE SHOWN

A showing of the Jackie Robinson story is scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday at the First Christian Church for the new youth building with Little Leaguers and Pony Leaguers to be special guests. The public is invited.

The movie—a full length film—portrays the life of the Brooklyn Dodger second baseman, who was the first negro to play in organized baseball.

Howard County Is Track Favorite At North Texas

DENTON—AP—The annual Texas Junior College Athletic Conference at North Texas State College Monday and Tuesday will have track, tennis and golf teams from 11 schools competing.

The list includes San Antonio Junior College, Howard County, Blinn College of Brenham, Navarro, Clarendon, Amarillo, Lee of Baytown, Temple, Cisco and Frank Phillips of Borger.

San Antonio comes to the meet strong in all three sports with Howard County holding a slight edge in the track competition.

Phillies Cast Anxious Glances At Dodgers

By BEN PHILGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Not so long ago the Philadelphia Phillies were the hottest team in major leagues.

Friday Manager Steve O'Neill's charges are casting anxious glances over their shoulders in the direction of the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The change in Philadelphia's fortunes came when the St. Louis Cardinals came a visiting Tuesday. The Phils were riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak and boasted a two and one-half lead in the National League race.

The Cards swept the first two games and Thursday night battled the Quakers to a 1-1 standoff in a game that was called after five innings because of rain. While the Cards were mopping up the Phils, the Dodgers extended their winning streak to four and pulled to within a half game of the groggy Phils.

Brooklyn won their fourth straight during the afternoon as they trimmed Cincinnati, 7-4.

The New York Giants snatched a three game losing streak with a 1-0 squeaker over Milwaukee and Pittsburgh trimmed Chicago, 4-2, in other National League action.

In the American League the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox, 6-1, and the St. Louis Browns defeated Washington, 3-1.

Fee Wee Reese Bobby Thomson

Philadelphia's game at Detroit was rained out while Boston and Cleveland weren't scheduled.

The Yankees, who got soaked $450 in fines for their part in the melee in St. Louis Tuesday night, found themselves involved in another small ruckus in Chicago but escaped with their pocketbooks unscathed.

Mickey Mantle has been hitting his home runs so far that they've left no doubt, but at Comiskey Park in the fourth inning he belted one which the White Sox questioned.

The ball bounced back on the field and Umpire Jim Duffy waved Mantle around. When Chicago Manager Paul Richards beated too long about the decision, Duffy waved him out of the park.

The hitting star of the contest was young Bill Renna who homered, tripled and singled in four trips. The husky righthander was playing left field for Gene Woodling, who was benched with inflamed eyes.

Bob Elliott, an unemployed third baseman when Spring training began, took over the rung batted in lead in the American League Thursday night with a three-run homer, all the runs the Browns needed to beat Washington. Elliott, who now has driven home 18 tallies showed up at the Browns' camp in March looking for a job. After a quick trial he was signed on the recommendation of Manager Marty Marion and he now is playing third regularly.

Brooklyn spotted Cincinnati two runs in the first inning and then caught up fast as Duke Snider homered in the Dodger half of the first with Fee Wee Reese on base. Brooklyn went ahead to stay in the second inning with four more runs including a two run blast into the lower left field seats by Reese.

The other two National League contests were settled by do or die efforts in the last of the ninth inning.

At Pittsburgh Rookie Frank Thomas picked the perfect time to hit his second home run of the year. With the score tied, 2-2, one out and Ralph Kiner on base in the last of the ninth, Thomas lofted a Paul Minner pitch over the left field score board to end the game.

In New York, Bobby Thomson hit a ninth inning home run to break up the game with Milwaukee.

Bulldogs Banking Hopes On 'Find'

The Midland Bulldogs are pinning all their hopes of pulling out of the District 3-AA cellar on a newly-discovered pitcher — Left Fielder Jesse Hatfield.

Scores Soar In Softball

High winds which scattered sands all over Midland Thursday night blew the softball scores sky high in the JayCee City Softball League.

Continental, which took a terrific beating from Gulf earlier in the week, battered and mauled the American League's newest member — Schlumberger — for four innings for a 40-23 victory. Continental scored 11 runs in the first and 15 in the third.

Seventeen Schlumberger errors were the biggest factor, but the winners smashed out 25 hits including seven doubles. Jack Thornton and Frank Brabney each had two doubles and two singles, but Bill Fry of the losers was the only player to get a home run.

In the National League, Western Inspection plastered the Humble Knights, 10-4. Skip Hull homered for the winners in the sixth while Hugh Reynolds had two singles and a triple.

Schlumberger 05 (14) 13-23 13 17 Continental (11) 5 (15) 9x-40 25 6 Fry, Higgins (5) and Washum; Disney and Manullik. Humble 001 210 0-4 6 0 Western Inspect. 102 054 x-10 8 4 Hightower and Mason; Montgomery and Jones.

Lamesa, the Bulldogs' foe for a 2:30 p.m. Saturday meeting at Indian Park, lost to San Angelo, 4-2. Thursday, giving Midland a chance to draw into fifth place by defeating the Tornados.

Hatfield is Coaches Keith Bobo and Louis (Doc) Grevelle's ace-in-the-hole—only they're hoping he doesn't turn out to be a deuce. They claim he has a blazing fast ball, and two different speed curve balls. BUT, not being a pitcher, he is inclined to be wild.

Carlos Berry, the losing pitcher against San Angelo, is expected to get the nod for the starting assignment against the Bobocs.

Midland's lineup—in the event that the coaches stick to Hatfield instead of Boyce McKnight as the starting pitcher—will read Hatfield, pitcher; Gwyn Orisham, shortstop; Walt Bingham, first base; Rusty Rutledge, catch; Dick Spencer, right field; Billy Kiser, third base; Robert Payne, second base; Jerry Morris, center field; McKnight, left field.

President Calls For Rapid Build-Up Of Military Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower contends America will hasten its military buildup next year despite a reduction in spending and with a "radical" change from fixed target dates to a long-haul program.

If the armed forces were worried about a reported $4,400,000,000 cut in spending for the fiscal year starting July 1—most of it in military and foreign aid funds—they could take some heart from Eisenhower's words.

In a news conference statement Thursday, Eisenhower called former President Truman's military blueprint a "crazy quilt." He said his Administration is scrapping the idea that the West should be ready for possible attack in 1954 or 1955 in favor of a gradual program.

The President was asked if the armed forces would be reduced, in view of Capitol Hill reports that spending would be cut.

Eisenhower replied he couldn't tell regarding long-range objectives but that he could say there will be more build-up in '54 than was possible under the operations and activities as they were proceeding in January, when the new Administration took over.

This, the President said, was possible because of a shortening up of lead times—the period between the designing of a weapon and the start of volume production—and concentration on critical areas of items.

Then, at another point, Eisenhower was asked if there would be a build-up in all three services—the Army, Navy and Air Force. He said he should think so.

Greater Expenditures: Someone wanted to know if the shortening of lead times wouldn't mean defense expenditures would be greater during the next several months. That probably was true, the President replied.

Defense Department spending March was at a rate of about $4,200,000,000, as compared with a spending rate of about $3,600,000,000 in January.

There seemed to be some discrepancy between the indication by Eisenhower that spending would be higher in the months ahead and a view expressed by Secretary of Defense Wilson several weeks ago that it was his intention to level off defense spending at about the January figure.

"Artificial Arithmetic": It was possible the President had in mind an increased volume in deliveries of munitions already on order.

In a statement read at the start of his news conference, Eisenhower blasted what he called a "crazy quilt of promises, commitments and contracts" growing out of defense planning on the assumption Russia would have the air strength by 1954 or 1955 to launch an atomic attack.

The President said he does not admit anyone can predict in what year such an attack might come. He said he was sure the American people would see the difference "between a quiet, steady, long-term improvement in their defense position and the tempests stirred up by public argument over the artificial arithmetic which is so easy to produce in the defense field."

"We had a good time," Myrt Baker, Youth Center director, said, "but we just didn't have the crowd we expected. After paying the band and covering other expenses, we found our income had dropped to $30."

Square dance callers from Midland, Odessa, McCombs, Roscoe, Big Spring and Fort Stockton gave a variety of polka waltzes, couple dances and calling techniques.

Attempt To Kidnap Plane Designer Fails

VIENNA, AUSTRIA—(AP)—Austrian police Thursday night reported an attempt by Soviet agents in Vienna to kidnap a former airplane designer of the German World War II Heinkel works.

The engineer was stopped on the street Wednesday night near his home by two men who posed as police officials, the report said. The two attempted to force him into an automobile, but their quarry struggled free and escaped over a garden fence.

Senate Hands Ball To House In Woodrow Laughlin Probe

AUSTIN—(AP)—The Senate today voted to toss over to the House the feverish question of a legislative inquiry into official conduct of District Judge Woodrow Laughlin.

The Senate as a committee of the whole voted 15-11 to recommend Senate passage of the resolution by Senator William Shireman of Corpus Christi calling for the investigation.

That sent the measure back to the Senate floor. But since the committee included the full membership, floor passage appeared certain. It then would go to the House for final decision.

The Senate committee threw out procedure it adopted in the first day of the hearing Wednesday and pressed for a quick showdown. It allotted each side one hour and 15 minutes to plead their cases.

The South Texas 79th District Judge sat solemnly through the second day's proceedings. He is charged before the Senate with 17 counts alleging misconduct.

Testimony was heard on only part of the charges. Shireman told the committee the others had not been abandoned but were omitted for the present to save time. He called six witnesses from the turbulent political domain.

Former Senator Clint Small, attorney for Laughlin, called no witnesses. He used the time allotted him cross-examining Shireman's witnesses.

The committee amended the Shireman resolution to place the proposed investigation in the hands of the House and Senate rather than with an address committee of six legislators.

The resolution still calls for removal of Laughlin if the charges are proved.

Writer Points Out Futility In Guessing Next Turn Of War

DALLAS—(AP)—Given any odds, a bet on what may happen in Korea is a bad one, Lief Erickson of The Associated Press told the Southwest Journalism forum Friday.

"I've noticed in print the last few days predictions that the Korean war could end this week or month," said Erickson, now AP Bureau chief at Albuquerque.

"I saw us losing the war twice, winning the war once, and finally stuck in a stalemate that still is with us."

"The overriding question up to now has been what the Communist side would decide to do about it."

"The Communists have released in recent days enough of our prisoners to make hopes rise again. But from the prisoners who have come back we have heard there were American sick and wounded in worse condition than they, who still are in Red hands."

"So again the question is: Will the Korean war be ended by Communist decision or ours? And if it is to be by our decision, what commitment in men and force are we prepared to stake to make the decision ours?"

"I'd like to know the answer to that question. So would the Communists. Maybe they're trying to find out."

Unscheduled Stop On Freeway Costs Newsman $320

HOUSTON—(AP)—An unscheduled stop on the expressway Thursday cost a traveling Nevada newspaperman $320, he told police.

James Nickell, 41, the Reno correspondent for the San Francisco Call-Bulletin said two men tricked him into stopping on the Gulf freeway between Houston and Galveston and then robbed him.

"I was driving toward Galveston when this car pulled alongside of me," Nickell said "and the man on the right yelled something and pointed at my rear tires."

Relative Of Crane Residents Appointed To Military Academy

CRANE—Tony Munger, grandson of Mrs. L. A. Davis and nephew of Lorene Davis, high school English teacher in Crane, has received his appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y. and will report there July 7 for admission as a cadet.

Munger, son of Capt. and Mrs. H. Anthony Munger, will be graduated from Mineral Wells High School this Spring. For the last two years, he was selected for an all-district position this year.

His appointment came recently from the adjutant general, on recommendation of William E. Burleson, representative from the 17th Congressional District.

Korean's Bravery Hailed, Grammer Notwithstanding

WESTERN FRONT, KOREA—(AP)—The story was delivered by a Korean Marine captain and was entitled "How They Captured Heart Burning Objective."

Neatly below was the subtitle "Bravery of Lt. Chi Dong Yul."

An English purist, perhaps, would have laughed and called the story quaint. You judge:

"At 0418 in the dawn the attack was commenced. The enemy poured all automatic weapons and mortar fire like downpour into our assault unit."

"Since the assault unit climbed 30 per cent of hill, lots of enemy hand grenades were thrown. In spite of all this Lieutenant Chi, When Lieutenant Chi and his platoon reached 40 yards of enemy position he was hit by hand grenade and fell to the ground. The fragments of the hand grenade hit his face and chin. The chin was broken and bled like a fountain pen. Although he could not speak, his body and hands were able to continue controlling his platoon. Lieutenant Chi refused all efforts of his men when they tried to keep him in rear."

"After just one hours fierce fighting the objective hill was completely occupied. After the success to capture the enemy position, Chi was treated first aid and evacuated."

El Paso Officer, Pecos Wife Reside Near Austrian Duties

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

SALZBURG, AUSTRIA—I had thought I had eaten some "international cuisine" when I dined at Maxim's in Paris—but that was before I broke bread with the GI's at Camp Truscott mess hall just outside Salzburg.

An El Paso man, Lt. John D. Patton, is mess officer—and as my host, shelled out 45 cents in Army "scrips" for my meal.

It was international, as Maxim's never will be.

First, the fried chicken. It had been shipped from the States. It was delicious. I know it must have been from one of the Texas poultry farms.

Then the potatoes (mashed and topped with brown gravy) and the bread were from Austria. Vegetables (steamed tomatoes) and the salad—lettuce and tomatoes were from Italy.

Served Texas-Style
The butter, served Texas-style, a half-pound of it on each table—was from Denmark, and the fresh milk from Holland.

Fresh fruit, sometimes served as dessert, comes from Israel, but on the day I visited, we had chocolate ice cream—a big cereal bowl full of it. It is prepared, by the Austrians, from an American mix.

As officer for the Consolidated Dining Hall, Lieutenant Patton supervises 3,600 meals served each day. He says a master menu is sent from U. S. Forces Austria headquarters, "and we have to follow it—exactly." He tells the men it isn't his fault when the menu calls for C-rations.

From the menus I heard about, however, the men would have little to complain about. Steaks and fried chicken are served often, and constitute the favorite main course for the men. "Some liver came over from the States last week. It was delicious," Lieutenant Patton said, "but it cost $1.19 a pound."

The men never go hungry, he can testify, and get a larger amount of milk here than in the States, because milk is cheaper here.

No KP Duty
Another item to make life happier for the enlisted man here is the absence of KP duty.

"A man can make a donation each month, and this frees him from any possibility of KP," the lieutenant explained.

Finances are handled by the "Camp Truscott Glaserbach Austria Consolidated Mess Fund Council" of which Patton is custodian and recorder.

What the high-sounding council does is merely set a fee for each man to pay to free himself of KP duty. Funds are used to pay indigenous personnel, many of them refugees, to wash dishes and set tables.

"The average wage for these people is $40 a month—and they are plenty glad to get it, too," he added.

The lieutenant is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patton of El Paso. While in France he met and Mrs. W. S. Patton of El Paso. His wife, the former Carolyn Carlberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Carlberg of Pecos, will sail from the States in May, arriving in Leghorn, Italy, June 2.

The lieutenant was to leave this week by military train to Leghorn to pick up their car, and he will again return to the Italian port to meet his wife on her arrival.

"I figure I will go through the Brenner Pass (between Italy and Austria) a dozen times during my stay here," he commented. "Those mountains are nothing to sneer at, either," he added, remarking, "after all, they are the Alps."

Patton said goodbye to his wife on January 29—in Pecos—and came to Salzburg to find housing for them in record time. "People say you can't find housing here, but it's like anything else—you can if you are determined to do so."

After only one day's search, the lieutenant found a place in "Gasthof Eder" in which one of Salzburg's most famous restaurants is located.

"We only have a room and bath—but we shouldn't go hungry with the restaurant just below," he said.

Rare Opportunity
The lieutenant thinks he and his wife have a rare opportunity with his overseas assignment.

"I had a trip over I could never have taken as a civilian," he commented. "We had stop-overs at Casa Bianca and at Naples—and got to see Pompeii and Vesuvius."

"Now I can bring my car and my wife over—and everything is paid for. The same sort of deal would cost a tourist several thousand dollars."

He and his wife met while both were attending Austin High School in El Paso. Lieutenant Patton also attended Texas Western College, and worked for his father in El Paso, who has a wholesale business for automobile dealers.

Polite Policemen
Pinch Pleasurably
KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Can a cop hand a traffic violator a ticket without irritating him? Perhaps it's impossible, but he should try. That's what Sgt. James Sprague, training officer at Kansas City's police academy, thinks. He is recommending the following code of etiquette to his rookies:

Be courteous. Don't snarl at the victim, and above all don't needle him with wisecracks ("Flying a little low today, bud?" or the even hoarser, "Where's the fire?")
Be serious, however, so the offender won't be tickled unduly by his brush with the law.
Don't put your foot on the bumper of his car like a hunter on the back of a lion he just bagged. This somehow annoys motorists. Stand erect, in dignified posture as you write out the ticket.

Sober Alcoholics Work Together, Keep Thousands From Surrendering To Disease

NEW YORK—(AP)—"Alcoholics Anonymous" has held its third general conference here in New York without fanfare or hangovers which feature many conventions.

The four-day sessions received no publicity, but the 75 delegates and 14 trustees helped spread the word of the success of the movement that rehabilitates sufferers from alcoholism.

The "AA" delegates had a good time and they drink all right, but it is always coffee or soft drinks. They stay up late, like other conventioners in the big town, but their enjoyment was tempered with serious discussions about how to lead other people from the morasses of alcoholism.

In New York the delegates inspected "AA" facilities in the metropolitan area, including hospital wards in the Knickerbocker and Bellevue Hospitals, and the 24th Street center from which "AIAI" operates. On the edge of the Bowery they inspected the Third Avenue center where 10,000 "Skid Row" derelicts have sought help during the last five years.

Volunteers Run Center
This center is operated by volunteers, with the exception of one of the caretakers who is paid $1 a day for his work. He is a rehabilitated alcoholic from the jungles of the Bowery.

In many respects an amazing present day human movement, Alcoholics Anonymous is not an organization. It has no officers. It is even more of a fellowship than a society. Deeply spiritual by accident rather than by design, "AA" members concern themselves with only the task—to stay sober themselves by helping others to get sober.

Into the fellowship come persons from all walks of life, from all economic, cultural and intellectual levels, from all racial and religious groups in 60 countries. In 18 years since its start, about 128,000 men and women have joined. There are 4,925 groups, of which 3,198 are in the United States.

The highlight of the New York meeting was a speech by the founder of Alcoholics Anonymous, a man known round the world as "Bill." Discovered in 1934 that the only way he could help himself live normally without alcohol was to help others whose problem was identical with his own.

Completely Selfless
From a small beginning in Akron, Ohio, the movement now is credited with saving more people from degradation, and even death, than any of the other treatments conceived by man in his 5,000-year old battle against the crippling disease known as "alcoholism."

Completely selfless, "AA's" Bill today took the conference delegates along the milestones of the past and pointed them toward other milestones of the future. A tall, slender, gray and grave New Englander, in his fifties, he spoke about the responsibilities of "AA," the necessity for its never lending itself officially to any other movement, however good or noble; stressing the fact that it has "nothing to sell, but everything to give away."

Once a successful stockbroker and investment banker who "rode the jug to the gutter," he has had, since his rehabilitation, countless opportunities to make a personal fortune as a result of his success with "AA." Principal author of the society's bible, "Alcoholics Anonymous," which is known to members as "The Big Book," he tells the story of "AA" with deep feeling and simplicity.

Alcoholics Anonymous accepts no financial support from anyone outside its membership; has no initiation fees, no dues. There is no business side to the society, from "Bill" down to the newest, shakiest communicant.

All "AAs" have but one thing in common. They are people whose alcoholism has been arrested. They say no victim of the disease ever is "cured." Their chief aim in life is to stay sober, day by day, by helping others fight their way back to sobriety.

Polio Session
SET MONDAY
Directors will be elected and a financial report studied at the annual meeting of the Midland County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the County Courthouse.

Richard F. Keller, new state representative, will present information on gamma globulin, its availability and use during the "polio season," Ray Gwyn, Midland chairman, said.

ON VACATION TRIP
Verna Thompson, Wilma Buckner and Bobbie Barley, left Thursday for San Antonio to spend the remainder of the week.

OFF FOR LAS VEGAS—Soldiers load the Army's atomic cannon aboard a flat car at Fort Sill, Okla., for shipment to the Atomic Proving Grounds near Las Vegas, where the first atomic shell in history will be fired sometime in May.

Crocodile Hunters Losing Their Jobs

SYDNEY—(AP)—Professional crocodile shooters may desert Australia's Northern Territory after this year. Shooters and hide agents say crocodiles are becoming scarcer in all rivers within reasonable distance of Darwin.

Only four shooters are going out this year, although the price of hides has risen by 20 per cent. Shooters say there are still plenty of crocodiles in outback rivers, but not in numbers large enough to cover the heavy expenses of hunting.

The number of crocodiles has been decreasing steadily since before the war, but at a faster rate since the war. They take a long time to grow. Buffalo shooters, too, are complaining that their industry is fading out.

CAMERA CALL!

We try to make this column as "general" as possible, to catch and hold as many readers as we can. Then, when we toss in the old harpoon, you'll like it. (That's supposed to be good advertising—the sugar-coated kind.)

But today we're talking to just a part of you folks. Please, the rest of you, eavesdrop if you wish...

You who belong to clubs or groups—did you ever think of taking simple flash-shots of individuals, or your group in action? Your pictures might become an important part of your organization's history. And it would be loads of fun, too. (We'll LEND you a camera for this, any time you say.)

We make these suggestions, not just to "sell" something, but to spread the use of pictures. To make them serve a purpose. They do, you know.

Daddy Ringtail

They put the scarecrow in the cornfield. Old MacDonald stood it up in the corn to look like a man, although it was only a pair of pants and a coat and a hat to look like a man.

"Hah!" said Old MacDonald with a laugh. "I can't stand here myself to scare the crows away all day."

Daddy Ringtail knew that Old MacDonald was right, because a crow is a bird that is very fond of corn. A crow is always hungry, and so are all his friends.

Daddy Ringtail said maybe the thing to have was a scarecrow, all to scare the crows away from his corn. Old MacDonald was happy to hear it, and so they began to make a scarecrow. They got an old pair of Old MacDonald's pants and one of his coats, and one of his hats. They put hay in the pants and coat and hat to make them look like a man. And so there was the scarecrow ready to do its scaring of the crows.

But, the scarecrow will do it for me. They will think the scarecrow is a man, and away they will fly from my corn."

Daddy Ringtail and Old MacDonald left the scarecrow there with the corn. They went on back to the farmhouse. But a crow is a very

ARE THE CLOUDS BREAKING?

No one doubts that we are living in troubled times. Few generations have faced such a constant threat of war; none has known such appalling weapons of destruction. A storm of terror threatens to engulf the world.

Yet, there are some who see signs that the clouds may be breaking. They point to crowded churches . . . Sunday Schools with record enrollment . . . tremendous demand for the new translation of the Bible. They reason that such concern for the spiritual realities of life is certain to have effect on the course of our history.

Whether we share their optimism or not, there is no denying the premise on which it is based. Though we cannot read the future, we can read the past. Man's hope of peace and happiness, in national and in personal life, has always rested upon spiritual foundations.

People who want the peace of God must turn to God to find it!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Communists Mark Guatemala For First Coup In Hemisphere

By DANIEL JAMES
NEA Special Correspondent

NEW YORK—A Red time-bomb is ticking away on America's doorstep, but few Americans know it. The name of the "bomb" is Guatemala, ripe for the role as Russia's first satellite in the hemisphere.

Guatemala is small and obscure, but strategic. Separated from us only by Mexico, it is two hours by plane from the Panama Canal and five from our atomic installations in New Mexico. Should Guatemala go Communist, the Soviets would find there three U. S.-built airfields ready for missions to the Canal and Albuquerque.

Already At Work

A Communist Guatemala would also work overtime to subvert other Latin American nations. With some already inflamed against "Yanqui imperialism" it would not be difficult to create an anti-U. S. bloc in Latin America. In fact, Guatemala, working with Peron's Argentina, is already busy at this job. The chances of Guatemala's going Red have greatly increased of late. While Moscow has been holding out an olive branch, its Guatemalan agents have been loading cannon.

Inspired By Reds

Only this month, the Communist-influenced Guatemalan Government charged before the UN Security Council that a "vast interventionist conspiracy" against it was being hatched in the United States. Guatemala's government hopes to utilize this timely fact to discredit America before the world, and at the same time to divert attention from its own pro-Red activities.

Central American States (ODECA) because its four other members want to form an anti-Communist front. Although ODECA was to meet in Guatemala May 2, the host government thought nothing of attacking its anticipated guests to please Guatemalan Communists. The ODECA break, in fact, was inspired by Guatemalan Reds.

In Guatemala itself, pro-Communism and anti-Americanism have assumed even more alarming forms. Led by President Jacobo Arbenz

Unless a miracle happens and United Fruit recovers a sizeable amount of its land, it will have to fold its $50,000,000 Guatemalan operation. This will put its 9,424 Guatemalan employees out of work and hit other industries and other workers as a result.

Ironically, the expropriation will not benefit the peasants, for the government is unable to supply them with equipment, credit, seed and training to farm the seized land.

Arbenz has restored the $65,000,000 International Railway to its owners, but this is a gesture in cat-and-mouse game whose ultimate object is nationalization. He is still demanding the company pay alleged back taxes totaling $3,500,000. And the railway union is demanding $3 million in wage increases and benefits. IRCA made only $400,000 in 1952. Those demands could bankrupt it and give Arbenz an excuse to take over.

Influence Is Deep

Two other big U. S. companies under constant fire are Pan-American World Airways and Empress Electric, an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary. A 72-day Communist-engineered strike almost chased Pan-Am out of Guatemala in 1950. Congress is simply threatening to cancel the electric company's contract.

These facts reflect a Communist influence that is deep and extensive. In 1945, the notorious Mexican Communist, Vincente Lombardo Toledano, was invited by then President Juan Jose Arvalo to organize Guatemalan workers. By 1950, Lombardo had assembled them all in one big federation, known today as the General Confederation of Labor (CGTG), and turned it over to a Guatemalan henchman, Victor Manuel Gutierrez.

Just Like China?

Secretary General of CGTG, Gutierrez is also a member of Congress and co-leader of the Communist party. With 30,000 organized workers in his grasp, Gutierrez can, and has crippled many a business enterprise, including domestic ones. Lately, the Communists have been concentrating upon the more important peasants. Of 900,000 peasant family heads, 150,000 are organized in the National Confederation of Peasants (CNC). Its leader is a fellow traveler, Leonardo Castillo Flores.

A firm hand is kept on Flores through local peasant committees throughout the country which are usually under Communist leadership. These groups sparked the land expropriations, and, as in China, will form the peasant legions at the head of which communism hopes to march into power.

TINY NATION, of Guatemala (top map) sits in strategic spot in relation to vital U. S. installations (bottom map).

Guzman, a sustained drive against U. S. business is in progress. Ostensibly aimed at curbing "monopoly" and "imperialism," and furthering agrarian reforms, the end result is likely to be economic chaos and a Communist or near-Communist dictatorship.

The Communists themselves launched the drive in January, when their peasant cells started seizing and pillaging land. In February, not to be outdone, President Arbenz expropriated 234,000 acres of United

Exchange Club Hears Former G-Man Expose Horse Race Racket

The "Judge Baker" horse race racket, which confidence men have used to swindle thousands of dollars from Americans, was explained by John P. Mansfield of the Western Company at the Exchange Club meeting Thursday.

The group met at noon in the Scharbauer Hotel. Mansfield told of the elaborate schemes set up by men in preparing the gullible citizen for the swindle. The basic plan of the scheme, he said, was to set up phony winnings on horse races by the victim. Then, before the victim could collect, he was asked to deposit funds to cover his bet. The con men then disappeared with the sucker's money.

Mansfield was formerly an FBI man, who saw service overseas during the war and at numerous posts in the United States. He resigned from the FBI in 1952 to enter industrial employment in the Southwest.

Jack Biscoe, Exchange Club president, was in charge of the Wednesday meeting. Cecil Inman introduced Mansfield as the featured speaker.

Members of the Exchange Club voted to accept sponsorship of a Little League baseball team.

PROWLER UNCOVERS ANCIENT GOVERNMENT SURVEY OF MIDLAND COUNTY

Delbert Downing of the Chamber of Commerce reports a prowl in his office unearthed an old "Soil Survey of Midland County, 1928." We admit that we just love to prowl, and Delbert is a swell assistant. This is the usual government work, exhaustive and exhausting. It has 32 pages, a big map in 17 colors, and can be had from Washington for some fee, probably less than the postage. We are still paying taxes on this, so some quotes should be permitted.

It says there are 23 types of soil here, and they write at length on irrigation, alkali, crops, etc. These Federal boys really spent a lot of time on this job. The most significant statement that these early Brain Trusters made occurs on page 28. "The decrease in productivity is due to the depletion of plant food." Folks, the soil pitch was a long time coming, but here it is—Poor soil 1928, poorer now. You ought to start using that grand Turf Special this instant before your land gets any worse. Taint every part of the country that is so sorry that it has an organic fertilizer made just for it? Can't you just hear your grass yearnin' for a good square meal of Turf Special?

Taxpayers Must Foot Bill If Veteran With Insurance Gets VA Hospital Care

Typical operating room scene in VA hospital often includes a patient with non-service connected injuries—but plenty of private health and surgical insurance the VA can't collect.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Fuzzy bookkeeping and legal entanglements in Veteran Administration efforts to collect bills from private insurance companies are costing U. S. taxpayers millions of dollars.

Here's a typical case: Recently a Pennsylvania veteran of World War II was injured in an automobile accident. He was rushed to a VA hospital—because it was close—where doctors discovered that a back injury completely had paralyzed the man.

In making out records VA hospital officials found that the man was covered fully with private surgical and hospitalization insurance.

VA notified the company what had happened to its client. At the end of the first month VA sent the firm a bill itemizing $700 worth of care and requesting some reimbursement.

The insurance company refused to pay a cent for the man's care. And, as in thousands of cases, VA attorneys finally were forced to admit that there was nothing they can do to collect. They say that a health policy is strictly a contract between a man and a firm with the VA an outside party.

It also happens that the injured vet will be paralyzed for life in a VA hospital.

Special 'Anti-VA' Clause
In this case there wasn't even the so-called "exclusion clause" in the man's contract, which an increasing number of firms are including in policies to make their positions against the VA airtight. The exclusion clause states specifically that no benefits will be paid for treatment in a government hospital.

During the first half of last year, a special study reveals, VA hospitals treated 14,592 veterans for ills which had nothing to do with their service, who had some form of private to the nearest VA hospital. All VA could collect was $30 on a $400 bill. VA bills are figured on either standard state hospital charges, or on a charge set by GAO, which is now $14.25 per day for room and board.

Collection Costs More
The fact that VA can collect on some bills reveals that some insurance firms are willing to pay VA for treatment given their clients. In the recent case of a man who got VA treatment for serious injury to his back while working in his house, the VA collected $213 on a $244 bill. And in many cases total bills are paid.

VA now tries to bill only for the extent of the man's coverage. And VA has adopted the policy of not billing on insurance with exclusion clauses and where the company refuses to pay after the first notice. The money they might get in cases of pressing for payment, a VA spokesman says, is less than the cost of trying to collect.

health insurance. Bills totaling $4,913,390 were sent to these companies. But only $1,263,564 was collected.

Efforts To Collect
VA regulations require hospitals to get non-service-connected patients to assign over to VA the right to collection of health insurance. And they call for notifying companies within 24 hours after the admission of insured patients.

However, the General Accounting Office reports, in addition to the legal barriers, the VA is lax in its efforts to collect.

"Assignments of insurance benefits were not always being obtained at 40 of the 48 hospitals surveyed, from veterans entitled to insurance benefits. Necessary billing control cards were maintained at only 17 of the hospitals," the GAO said.

Employer Adds Bit
"Moreover, 43 of the hospitals failed to bill promptly. And no effort was made at 30 of the hospitals to collect charges where the veteran was covered by employer's compensation and only occasional collection was being made in workmen's compensation cases at 16 hospitals."

Efforts now are being made to tighten up lax procedures. But it is becoming more difficult for VA to collect in spite of that.

In a Southern state recently a veteran smashed his leg in an accident on the way home from work and was carried to a VA hospital. He was covered by a special group health insurance plan maintained by his employer. But when VA tried to collect, the man's employer refused on the grounds that the firm paid taxes and that VA was a tax-supported government agency.

All Charges Standard
VA could do nothing about it. Another case involved a man injured on a job which was covered by workmen's compensation. He was ruptured and the injury didn't become an emergency until several days later, whereupon he was taken

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE

"Brother this is tough going! Where the dickens do you figure those birds have gone?"
"Hanged if I know. Last Saturday the Jedge and I found eight coveys in the forenoon, and it was a lot drier underfoot than it is right now. They must have taken plumb out of the country."
But those birds hadn't moved clear off the plantation. Quail don't travel as pheasants sometimes do. A covey of birds generally will hang out in the same field near the ash brush corner, for weeks or even seasons at a time, broken up by shooting or by predators, or until the fields have been replanted in some crop that offers quail no feed.

We knew where several coveys ought to be but we couldn't find a bird to save us. There wasn't a square foot of that whole plantation along North Carolina's Yadkin River bottom that wasn't familiar to at least one member of the party, and our good pointing dogs were baffled. The birds just plain had disappeared.

This wasn't a case of poor scenting condition. Two nights before there had been a steady rain, soaking covers and ground and leaving for the dogs just the right amount of dampness. Yet for one whole day we had not located a single quail in an area normally productive of limits if a man shot even reasonably well.

But this Yadkin River situation was a real toughie. Even the tenant farmer who had come with us to point out sure-fire covey corners had to shift his chew from one side to the other and allow as how he plumb was stumped.

The situation wasn't exactly new to me, because I've bumped into it in chasing quail in the Southwest, where the top-knotted sprinters have to range over a lot of country to find adequate feed. But I'd never seen fine dogs draw such a complete blank, under good scenting conditions, in country that was familiar to both dogs and men.

Strange Goings-On Preplex Housewife; Chicken Turns Ham

NEW CANAAN, CONN. —(AP)—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of a pound of coffee and two tins of chicken from the car of a resident here.

Mrs. James Eddy bought the coffee and chicken at a store, and placed them on the front seat of her car. At home she opened the package and found, much to her surprise, two hamburgers with onions. Immediately she phoned the store where she bought the coffee and chicken and asked if the package could have been switched by mistake.

Later the same day a woman from the neighboring town of Darien called the store. She had found the coffee and canned chicken in a bag in her car when she arrived home. But she wanted to know if anyone had seen her package which contained curtains.

Investigation showed that neither car was ever parked near the other. This ruled out any possibility of misplacement of the packages. New Canaan's police chief, Henry Keller, surmised that it must have been children playing a prank, but admitted the occurrence was very mysterious.

Becky Huff Plays Big Role In Drama To Open Friday

Becky Huff will be following such stage "Joans" as Sarah Bernhardt, Katharine Cornell and Ingrid Bergman when she steps into the role of Joan of Arc in the Midland Community Theater's production of the Maxwell Anderson play "Joan of Lorraine," which opens at the City-County Auditorium Friday night. Miss Bergman had the title role in Anderson's hit drama when it ran for 200 performances in New York.

The Joan of Arc history is presented uniquely in "Joan of Lorraine," which will continue at the Auditorium through Tuesday, May 5, in that it is woven as a "play-within-a-play" into Anderson's story of a stage director and an actress who disagrees on how the famous historical character should be interpreted.
