Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" will be the next production of the Midland Community Theater, officials said Tuesday. It is scheduled to open about the middle of June.

Wilde's sophisticated comedy will be a direct contrast to the serious poetic drama of Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine," which had its closing MCT performance Tuesday.

Tryouts for the Wilde comedy are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 3 p.m. Sunday in the City-County Auditorium. There will be parts for five men and four women.

The tryouts are open to all interested persons, theater officials stressed. Candidates for the parts are asked to attend at least two of the sessions.

Johnson Finds 3-D Glasses Make His Popcorn Look Dirty

Behind the Screens: Jack Benny's lawyers are near a big cash settlement and a percentage of the profits on TV showings of "To Be or Not to Be." Jack owns 10 per cent of the picture but hasn't collected a dime of the video gold.

Rosalind Russell reports backstage for her "Wonderful Town" performances half an hour earlier to apply special make-up on her leg. It covers the scar (that required 17 stitches) she received during filming of "Never Wave at a WAC." Rita Hayworth's shyness (?) gets worse every day. Now extras who play Marines in "Miss Sadie Thompson" are being asked not to whistle when Rita walks on the set in her tight-fitting gowns.

Personal observation: Far be it from me to offend anybody, but I can't think of a big star who has had worse career advice than Ann Sheridan.

Eye-popping title change: RKO's "The Lady Said Yes" is being released as "She Had to Say Yes."

Van Heflin, before the 3-D camera in "Wings of the Hawk" at U-I, denies that he threw the cast of "The Shrike" out of work by accepting the movie role. The producer and the theater owner, he says, decided to shorten the Chicago run to four weeks.

Bob Hope can take a bow for his last Comedy Hour TV show. For once, it looked like a program that had been rehearsed. Phil Harris, in the guest star spot, came through like a veteran.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

The Browns wonder why their social life has slowed down to almost a stop. They hear about a lot of parties, but they aren't invited to many any more. The answer is simple. The Browns have been coasting along without doing any entertaining themselves. If they want to be invited out they'll have to step on the starter and do some entertaining themselves.

Social life is give as well as take.

Mother Of Miss Universe Gives Her Belated Consent

HELSINKI, FINLAND—(AP)—Miss Universe's mother said Wednesday she is readying the documents needed to give parental approval to her minor daughter's marriage in Tokyo to a Filipino millionaire.

Mrs. Marta Kussela said she had cabled her best wishes to her 18-year-old daughter Armi and her groom, Virgilio Hilario, 25, immediately after the announcement of their secret wedding in Japan Monday.

"It's true that Armi is still a minor and needs her parents' okay," said Mrs. Kussela, wife of a grocer in a small town near Helsinki. "We are trying to get all the papers in order."

"Armi certainly has the blessings of our entire family," she added.

Tuesday Mrs. Kussela said she wished her daughter had "found a husband nearer home." She made public then a letter she had written her new son-in-law, cautioning him that "beauty withers away" and if he deserts his bride for that reason, he will break her heart.

Ecuador Refuses To Talk Reopening Of Closed Papers

QUITO, ECUADOR.—(AP)—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra has refused to discuss the reopening of two Guayaquil newspapers with the chairman of the Inter-American Press Association's Freedom of the Press Committee.

The government closed the two newspapers, La Nacion and La Hora, several weeks ago after they had criticized Velasco Ibarra's regime. The owner, managing editor and three reporters of La Hora were sentenced to five-year prison terms and fines on a charge of having a World War II Japanese machine gun in La Nacion offices.

The committee chairman, Jules Dubois, Latin-American correspondent for the Chicago Tribune, has been in Ecuador several days discussing the case with government officials.

U. S. Ruled Partly Liable In Air Crash

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The government may have to pay half the damages awarded survivors of 85 persons killed in a plane crash here Nov. 1, 1949.

U. S. District Judge Matthew F. McGuire, ruling in a test case Tuesday, said the government is jointly liable with Eastern Airlines for the collision between an airliner and a P-38 plane piloted by a Bolivian captain.

Judge McGuire said the personnel of the control tower at Washington National Airport failed to warn either plane that the other was on final approach to the airport.

Suits for almost 15 million dollars are pending. The one directly involved in Tuesday's decision was for $65,000, brought by the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Miller of Washington.

Broadway Theatrical Figures Recorded As Members Of Communist Cell In '30's

NEW YORK (AP)—House probers turned Wednesday from Broadway dance arranger Jerome Robbins' account of a Communist theatrical cell to testimony by the wife of writer-director Abe Burrows. Robbins testified Tuesday at a public hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities while its chairman, Rep. Harold H. Velde (R-Ill.), was taking testimony in private from Mrs. Burrows, who is ill. The committee is holding week-long, televised hearings here into Communist infiltration of education and entertainment.

Robbins—whose dancing triumphs include the choreography for such Broadway hits as "The King and I" and "Call Me Madam"—testified Tuesday that he belonged to the Communist party's "theatrical transient group" from 1943 to 1947. He named eight persons whom he said he knew as members of the cell. He said it derived its name from the traveling lives led by its members.

Names Of Members Among the eight he named were costume screen writer Edward Chodorov, who wrote "Kind Lady," and his brother, Jerome Chodorov, who co-authored the play "My Sister Eileen" and helped adapt it as the current Broadway musical hit "Wonderful Town."

Others named by Robbins were actor Lloyd Gough, actress Madeline Lee, Elliott Sullivan, Kionel Berman, Edna Ocko and Lettie Stevens. Robbins said Miss Stevens recruited him into the party and that he knew Berman as a party organizer. The witness said he thought Sullivan was an actor, but he did not identify Miss Ocko.

There was no immediate comment from any of those named. Party Asks Plug One of the things the party asked him, Robbins said, was that he lecture on how Marxist argumentation helped him to write his first

ROK Ministries Returning To Seoul

SEOUL (AP)—The Republic of Korea is planning to move most of its ministries back to this ancient capital from Pusan, provisional capital in Southeast Korea, during May. A government source said the Defense and Home Ministries would be the first to return to Seoul, followed by the Commerce and Finance Ministries. The National Assembly still is seated at Pusan. The government moved there following Chinese Communist intervention in the Korean War and the fall of Seoul Jan. 4, 1951. Seoul was retaken March 15, 1951.

ballet, "Fancy Free." He testified that he refused the proposal as "ridiculous and outrageous" and that he pointed out the ballet was "particularly indigenous American."

The ballet, about three romantic sailors on shore leave, had a successful Metropolitan Opera debut in 1944. It later was expanded into the musical, "On the Town. Becomes Disillusioned It was this clash with the party that first disillusioned him, Rob-

Czechs Call Russian 'Peace Offensive' Western Dream

VIENNA, AUSTRIA (AP)—A Czechoslovak Communist magazine claimed Wednesday that talk of a Russian "peace offensive" is a lot of Western nonsense and that there is no change in Soviet policy. Vienna diplomats said the unusual statement could be confirmation of a widespread Western belief that the Kremlin peace drive is only propaganda. However, it also could be just a roundabout restatement of the usual Communist line that the Soviet Union and her allies always have sought peace and are the only nations with a consistent record as peace lovers and peace seekers.

Literarni Noviny, a weekly publication for Czech Communist writers and artists, declared: "In the last six weeks, the press of the capitalist world and particularly the American press has been full of news that a change has taken place in Soviet foreign policy. There has been much written and spoken about a Soviet peace offensive and the busy, small-town journalists have drawn far-reaching and fantastic conclusions that the Soviet regime has embarked on a new course, completely different than previously."

"This campaign reached its high point in the speech of President Eisenhower in which he demanded proof through deeds. This entire matter is only wishful thinking of the authors of this fantasy—the Soviet Union has never changed its foreign policy and has no need to change it."

GANG-BUSTER TAKES 'BRIBE'

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The State Legislature's crime crusader, Rep. Robert O. Cunningham, hit the jackpot the other night. While accompanying police on a vice raid, he shoved a nickel in the slot of a machine which looked suspiciously like an illegal gambling device. Out tumbled 148 nickels. Did he keep them? "Sure," said the legislator. "It was my nickel."

Nehru Overlooks McCarthy Activity

NEW DELHI, INDIA (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament Wednesday that "we attach no importance" to what Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) and his Senate investigating subcommittee do. Nehru's statement followed publication of a report by the subcommittee that cited two Indian ships among those trading with Red China during 1952.

bins said. He added that he finally quit the party when he saw how Soviet musicians were made to conform to party policy and when he saw that the party had no interest in minorities.

Robbins, who said he first joined the party because he believed it was fighting for minorities. "Constantly while in the party you are subjugated to propaganda and influence to make your art a political message."

Peron's Police Nab 150 In Rounding Up Terrorist Suspects

BUENOS AIRES, ARGENTINA (AP)—Police claim a wave of arrests throughout Argentina has broken a ring that plotted to terrorize the Argentine people by bombings. One source estimated more than 150 persons had been taken into custody. The roundup netted many opposition politicians, chiefly members of the Conservative party—once Argentina's strongest. Party headquarters in many provinces were raided and leaders arrested. Police claim the plotters were responsible for a wave of bombings that began here in March. Peron, himself, escaped injury April 15 when two bombs exploded in Buenos Aires' central Plaza de Mayo while the president was addressing a political rally there. Six persons were killed and 93 injured in the blasts and subsequent stampede.

Mexico Will Send Priests To Serve Workers In U. S.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Roman Catholic authorities here say 23 Mexican priests will be sent to the Southwest United States soon on Vatican orders to give spiritual and secular aid to Mexican laborers employed on farms in the area. Dr. D. Pedro Valazquez, director of the Mexican Social Secretariat, a church organization, said the priests will be under the direct supervision of the Roman Catholic Bishop of San Antonio. The secretariat also released a report on Mexican workers in the U. S. which claimed the Mexicans—and particularly the "wetbacks" who enter the U. S. illegally to work on farms—were treated as virtual slaves. The report, written by Carlos Diaz de Sotano, said the workers are imported when they are needed and then kicked aside after crops are harvested.

Air Force Secretary Sells Stock Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbott says he has disposed of stock and other holdings that might create a "conflict of interest" with his government post. Talbott is one of the Administration appointees who was required to do so as a condition for being confirmed. He told the Senate Armed Services Committee in a letter made public Tuesday he had sold, redeemed or given away holdings in the Chrysler Corporation, Talbott Corporation and six other firms.

Governors Expect To Repeat Capitol Conference In '53

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Washington officials speculated Wednesday that President Eisenhower, encouraged by reaction to his special conference of state governors, might call a second one before another year is up.

Both the President and the governors spoke of hopes for future conferences, but mentioned no dates.

There was some guessing also that the President may have helped himself politically. He appeared before the governors twice, had them to lunch, stressed solution of "too long neglected" problems with the states, and won the comment from some state executives. "He spoke our language."

The President himself said he was glad to see again so many old friends and he hoped he had formed some new friendships—in "both political parties."

Talking Politics

Governors of both parties took the opportunity while here to discuss politics with presidential aides, members of the Cabinet including Attorney General Brownell, and with Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Stephen A. Mitchell of the Republican and Democratic National Committees, respectively.

High Court To Rule On Buchanan Trust

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether Texas has the right to block use of $500,000 from the William Buchanan Foundation for building an addition to the University of Arkansas hospital.

Tom Gentry, Arkansas attorney who filed the suit, says he hopes the court will file a restraining order and take the whole dispute under advisement.

Gentry says Texas is interfering with a contract between the Foundation, which has headquarters in Texas, and the University of Arkansas.

Established in 1923, the Foundation of more than one million dollars specified that the funds were to be used for relieving suffering in Bowie County, Texas, in adjoining counties and for the benefit of other persons as decided upon by the fund trustees, Gentry said.

Baptists Garner Share Of History, Dr. Grey Reveals

HOUSTON—(AP)—Dr. J. D. Grey had quite a bit of Texas history in his president's address Wednesday before the Southern Baptist Convention.

His references included: The Texas Declaration of Independence was adopted, March 2, 1836, in a Washington-on-the-Brazos blacksmith shop owned by a Baptist, N. T. Byars, who later became a preacher.

The presiding officer of the Washington-on-the-Brazos convention was a Baptist layman, Judge Richard Ellis.

Two Baptist preachers were among those killed in the Goliad massacre of March 27, 1836.

Grey also said: Houston is the only Southern Baptist convention city to have been named for a Baptist, Gen. Sam Houston.

Southern Baptists Warned Of Conflicting Church 'Isms'

HOUSTON—(AP)—Southern Baptists were warned Wednesday of pressures from two conflicting forces, united protestantism and the "anythingism" of non-dogmatical-ism.

"We are like a healthy, wealthy, attractive lady," Dr. J. D. Grey said in his presidential address opening the Southern Baptist Convention. "These ambitious Lotharios are making eyes at us," he said. "But we have not, cannot and will not even drop our handkerchief to invite or encourage their attention."

Do Work Own Way

"Southern Baptists have a job to do for the Lord. They can best do it in their own way and perform their duty as God gives to them to see their duty."

The convention turned to one of the most important items, a record

Planes Scan Alps For Downed Fliers

VIENNA, AUSTRIA—(AP)—Almost a score of American and British planes flew over the Austrian Alps Wednesday, seeking a U. S. Air Force trainer missing with two officers aboard.

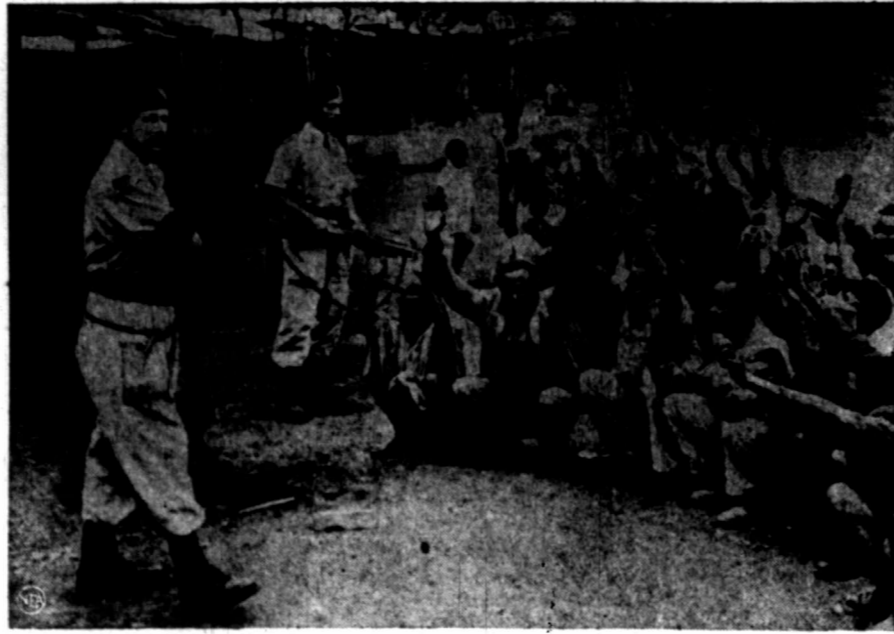

The AT-6 single-engine training plane vanished in midmorning Tuesday while enroute across the Alps from Salzburg in the U. S. zone to Graz in the British occupation zone. An Air Force colonel and a major were in the plane.

Teacher Pay Raise Backers Beat Off Adjournment Drive

AUSTIN—(AP)—Legislators seeking cash to back the $600 yearly pay raise they voted Texas teachers staved off the first hard drive to end the session soon without a tax bill.

A series of close and conflicting votes Tuesday on a proposal to adjourn finally May 20 indicated House members still are wavering indecisively over the session's last remaining major issue.

A resolution by Rep. Douglas Bergman of Dallas to end the session May 20 was rejected, 74-69, by the House after four hours of heated debate and parliamentary maneuvering.

One faction wanted to wind up the session quickly and defer the question of raising teachers pay to some later date—such as when the natural gas tax lawsuit is settled. That lawsuit has tied up $45,000,000 in state revenue.

Compromise Talked

The other faction argued for staying in session until a tax bill to pay for the $600 pay boost can be brought out, or at least until some kind of "compromise plan" can be reached. They indicated they would accept a compromise.

The Senate, groggy after 27 hours and 10 minutes of filibustering over toll roads, adjourned until 2:30 p.m. Wednesday to let its members rest.

Administration leaders in the House argued that financing the $600 pay raise plan would require the greatest tax bill in the history of the state, something between 66 and 75 million dollars for two years. They said they didn't think the Legislature would pass it, that the folk back home didn't want it.

Quick End Sought

They were pressing for a speedy end to the session. That would mean not enough time would remain for the tedious job of bringing out a tax measure. The first proposal was for adjournment May 12. The May 20 plan was substituted for it and seemed to be in until the final vote against it was cast.

The $600 teachers pay forces argued that adjourning soon would shut off possibility of passing much important legislation that is clogging the calendars of both houses. They said they were ready to accept a "reasonable compromise" on the teachers pay issue, but that quitting May 12 or May 20 would not give it time.

Dewner Asks Decision

"Don't go home and let the people say the 53rd is a do-nothing Legislature," said Rep. A. D. Downer of Center.

Representative Bergman said, "We have tried for a compromise on teachers pay and the teachers did not see fit to take it."

Rep. Waggoner Carr of Lubbock said the State Teachers Association leaders could not take a compromise because they were told to get $600 and had no authority to compromise.

Carr thought the best thing to do was to go home soon, that the Legislature could still be adjourned until July and still be deadlocked over taxes.

The Legislature finished work on two more amendments to be submitted to the voters.

One requires jury service for women.

The other permits joint city and county operation, with power to levy taxes, of a hospital. It applies only to counties of more than 190,000 and to Galveston County.

The amendments will be voted on in November, 1954.

Navy Considers Test Wells Near Oil Fields Of Orange

ORANGE—(AP)—The Navy is taking steps to develop oil believed to be under its acreage at Orange. It probably will be months before any derricks will go up.

Oil is being produced on private property next door to the Navy's acreage along the northern edge of the bi-state Phoenix Lake Oil field.

Under federal law, the Navy cannot develop its own oil but must call on the Interior Department to handle leasing and production.

Navy officials here said it took steps to bring about a drilling program. A Washington spokesman said "open discussion of all details might not be advisable at this stage." The source said development of the Navy's Orange oil properties is "still in the works" and hasn't yet been referred to the Interior Department.

Development in the Phoenix Lake field indicates that only a small part of the Navy acreage here is likely to be oil producing, although all of it is potentially rich in natural gas.

ALICE—(AP)—The body of Charles Brown, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brown, was found Tuesday night in the swimming pool of the Alice Country Club.

The boy's mother is a member of the Alice Daily Echo's editorial staff.

TWO GOVERNMENTS, ONE TOWN— Parliamentary Puzzle Puts City Dads In Double Tizzy

CLARKSBURG, W. VA.—(AP)—You can't buck City Hall, especially when you don't know who belongs there.

And that's exactly the dilemma confronting Clarksburgers Wednesday as two rival municipal administrations declared themselves "in."

A. Page Lockard and J. Frank Wiseman both lay claim to the city manager's job. Two judges reached for the single gavel in police court.

Two city clerks insisted each was the right clerk.

Police wondered which of two appointees was the real chief.

It all began with the conversion of a Democratic majority to a 5-4 Republican edge in the City Council.

At a Monday night meeting, the first since elections in this city of about 32,000, the holdover Democrats backed Wiseman to retain his city manager's post.

The Republicans defeated the motion, 5-4.

The city charter says it takes six votes to dismiss a city official.

Wiseman stuck to his post.

When the Republicans nominated Lockard for city manager, the Democrats pulled a parliamentary trick. They moved the meeting be adjourned. The city attorney ruled that such a motion took precedence over other business.

Democrats Walk Out

The Republicans defeated the motion, 5-4.

But every time they tried to proceed with the business of electing a new official, the Democrats moved for adjournment. There were 152 motions in four hours.

Finally, while the Republicans were holding a strategy meeting in one corner of the room, the Democrats suddenly voted to adjourn, got up and left.

Roger Morgan, a Republican adviser, then brought Lockard in and introduced him as the new city manager.

Tuesday Wiseman left town on business—city business, as the city manager, he said.

Lockard, accompanied by Republican Councilman Dominick Policano, marched briskly to the city manager's office. Policano, a 300-pounder, helped him try the door. It was stuck. They put their shoulders to it and "unstuck" it.

Before leaving town, Wiseman said he expected to be back Thursday or Friday.

In the meantime, city checks are not being cashed by the banks.

The lad was Michael Cronin, son of Red Sox general manager Joe Cronin.

Houston Oil Men Cheer Final Action On Tidelands Bill

HOUSTON—(AP)—Houston oil men were highly pleased Wednesday at the action of the Senate in passing the Tidelands bill.

"It was a triumph for the people of Texas," said H. J. Porter, independent oil man and Republican national committeeman from Texas.

"I'm happy because it restates the principle of states rights, more than because of the questionable value of the oil that might be found in the Tidelands," said H. R. Cullen.

"Congress has acted in the best interest of the American people," declared L. F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil Company.

"We are all very well pleased with the action of Congress," said Harold Decker, president of Houston Oil Company.

Lands in the continental shelf beyond the traditional states boundaries still remain to be settled, Hines Baker, president of Humble Oil, stated.

Grand Jury Indicts Former Lawmaker For Hiding Escapee

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Former Parker County Rep. Arthur Cato was indicted Tuesday by the Tarrant County grand jury.

Cato, 56, of Whitney, was accused of concealing an escaped inmate of the State Training School for Boys at Gatesville.

Named with him was Mrs. Willie Bell of Fort Worth, mother of a boy who escaped from school in March.

The indictment charges that Cato and Mrs. Bell visited her son at Gatesville March 8. They obtained permission to take the boy, Billy Bell, 18, on an auto trip.

They reported to the school later that day that during the drive Billy jumped out of the car and fled.

The boy was arrested in Fort Worth several days later. He told police he had been staying with Cato in an apartment.

Assigned Status In Draft Not Permanent, Board Says

When a man is classified by the draft board, that classification is not permanent. It may be changed when the man's status changes.

Each classified man and each person who has filed a request for the man's deferment must report to the board in writing any fact that might result in the man's being placed in a different classification. This must be done within 10 days after the change occurs.

Employers may be required to furnish information under the law, and police officials or other agencies may be requested to make investigations.

The local board may reopen and consider a new classification of a man (1) under his written request, (2) written request of a person who claims to be his dependent, or (3) any person who has on file a written request for the man's occupational deferment. This can be done, provided such request for reopening is accompanied by written facts not considered when the man was first classified, which, if true, would justify a change in his classification.

Draft regulations say that the "classification of a registrant shall not be reopened after the local board has mailed to such registrant an order to report for induction, unless the local board first specifically finds there has been a change in the registrant's status resulting from circumstances over which the registrant had no control."

Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, state draft director, points to two things which might happen to a man beyond his control: (1) a serious accident, or (2) death of his father, resulting in his becoming head of the family.

The local board must always reopen a case at either the request of the national or state director of Selective Service and must cancel any order to report for induction, if that is involved in the case.

HE NEGLECTED HIS HOMEWORK

DALLAS—(AP)—An accountant and tax specialist from Gainesville was fined $1,000 Monday and given a probationary prison sentence in Federal District Court here.

The charge was failure to file income tax returns from 1946 to 1950.

Benjamin J. Seibel, 59, the defendant, pleaded no contest. He said he had been too busy working on other people's returns to file his own.

West Texas Scouts Win Top Wildlife Aid Award

West Texas Boy Scouts have come out on top again—this time helping to save soil.

They are state champs in the wildlife division of the "Save the Soil and Save Texas" conservation awards program, sponsored by the Fort Worth Press.

Their key to victory: the Buffalo Trail Council Scout Ranch which blankets some 4,780 acres of Davis Mountain land near Balmorhea. The camp won the champ's spot for having made the greatest steps in setting up habitats and providing other aid to wildlife in the area.

The camp, owned by the 17-county Buffalo Trail Council, draws more than 1,000 Scouts a year to its mountains, plains and leafy miles. They play and learn to live outdoors while at the same time they're working to care for and protect the wildlife which find haven on the ranch.

There are almost no livestock on the ranch—with the exception of a few horses and burros used as pack animals—but wildlife thrives on the salt and feed laid out by the Scouts, the grass allowed to grow for grazing and the water provided in tanks built for their use.

The 1,401 acres of the ranch devoted exclusively to the aid of wildlife is "primped and petted" by Scouts and leaders, and while they learn the different types of vegetation which offer protection both to wildlife and to the soil, the Scouts are helping to make their ranch a center of wildlife wealth.

Most common types of wildlife found on the ranch are black and white tail deer and a few bear. Controlled hunting is observed the year round.

Buffalo Trail Council executives have promised no let-down in their efforts to make the ranch one of the most beautiful and useful areas in the state. Scout training will be the avenue to this goal.

Police Say 'Bomb' Intended For Nehru Just Fireworks

BOMBAY, INDIA—(AP)—A police spokesman said Tuesday an explosive grabbed from a railway track just ahead of Prime Minister Nehru's train turned out to be four giant firecrackers. Some Indians, however, doubted the explanation.

Reports Monday from Kalyan railway hub, 35 miles from Bombay, said a policeman there removed a live bomb from a track just a few minutes before the Amritsar express thundered through.

carrying Nehru from Jaina to Bombay.

These reports said the policeman patrolling the track, fired on an unidentified man believed to be causing the explosive. The man escaped.

The explosive was brought to Bombay for analysis.

The police spokesman said the four firecrackers were incapable of doing anything but slight damage.

He said they had been put in a container and placed on the track, probably by "mischief monger for the creation of a sensation."

Indians expressing doubt over the explanation pointed out that the government played down the story of an attempt to assassinate Mohandas K. Gandhi with a bomb, but the would-be killer was sentenced later for the attempt.

Russian Baptists Cite 800 Per Cent Membership Growth

HOUSTON—(AP)—Russians of the Baptist faith have increased 800 per cent in the last generation, Dr. Bredahl Petersen, president of the European Baptist Federation, said Tuesday.

Petersen said Baptists in Russia have increased from 400,000 a generation ago to 3,200,000 last year.

"This progress was made despite Soviet control of children until they are 18," he said.

The Danish church leader said the figures were turned over to the federal by Dr. Martin Niemuller of Germany and were given to Niemuller by the secretary of the Baptist Union in Russia.

"The figures were checked by the Russian Ministry of Cults, with which all religions must be registered and recognized and to which the leaders of the religious must be responsible, he said.

Texans Find Spring In Europe Signals Season Of Film Surprises, Beer Tapping

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram
Special Correspondent

PARIS FRANCE—Texans in Europe wish it would stop raining over here so much and rain in Texas awhile.

Dr. Allen Barr, son of Mrs. Myron Williams of Georgetown, now stationed at the American Hospital in Paris, said news from home indicated the continued drought was hitting hard into the economy of the Southwest.

Some weeks ago, when parts of Texas had a shower, it was rated such news in Europe that the Army newspaper "Stars & Stripes" printed two stories in one edition with rather large headlines, "Rain in Texas."

Now that Spring has come to Paris, visitors from such remote corners of the world as India (wearing flowing gowns in the case of the women, a diamond studded in one side of the nose) and from Texas (wearing business suits and in the cases of the men, a Western hat) may be seen crowding together on the big American Express buses for the tour of Paris.

Visitors in Paris are recognized—and welcomed—
A Parisian at every turn will know you—if you are an American. They will greet you, on every street corner. They all have the same approach.
"Mon-ee," they'll sidle up and say, "Wanna change some American dollars?"

Dealing with these little dark-faced men is about as senseless as trying to match wits with one of the Texas "confidence" men.
You never win.

"POTEMKIN" IN PARIS—A film considered by most critics to be the most important picture ever made is being shown for the first time publicly in Paris.
It may come as a surprise to you—and it certainly did to me—to learn that the film was produced by the Russians.
It is Sergei Eisenstein's famous, "Potemkin."

Shot in Russia in 1925, it has survived the years as few motion pictures have done. In achieving an effect upon its audience, "Potemkin" along with some Charlie Chaplin and Laurence Olivier film, proves strikingly that the motion picture can be "Art" on the highest level.
The story is an account of mutiny aboard a Russian battle-cruiser sailing the Black Sea in 1905 and of the massacre of the mutiny's sympathizers.
Photography in the striking close-ups, editing and cutting and the building of each sequence of its climax makes for a sledge-hammer impact upon the audience, so that the picture holds the spectator of 1923 as firmly as viewers of the film 28 years ago.

When one sees what the Russians did in the art of movie making with "Potemkin," one is astonished, not by the oddness of the film, but by the fact that in a quarter of a century there has been nothing new about motion pictures other than sound.
Unless you count third dimension.

MOURNING IN PARIS—It happened the other night in the jazz addicts' smoke-filled Left Bank cellar of Vieux Colombine, favorite hang-out of the bearded and uncombed younger intelligentsia.
An American on leave asked a Parisian girl to dance. She did. He asked her to sit at his table for some wine. She did. Then he asked her to jitterbug.
"I can't jitterbug this week," she replied. "My father died, and I'm in mourning."

TEXAS'S PRIZED TROPHY—Another Texan stationed with the Armed Forces over here has bagged one of the top hunting prizes—the strange and lonely "Auerhahn."
The proud hunter is Lt. Col. Morris B. Montgomery of Richards, a 36 graduate of Texas A&M and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Montgomery of Richards.
The Colonel, stationed in Austria, says it probably seems strange to Texas bird stalkers, who don't anticipate the flush of a covey of partridge, quail or geese—until Autumn, that the prized game bird of the Old World is hunted only in the Spring.

The strange black bird, about the size of a Texas turkey, is never seen except during the breeding season, and then only high in the mountains in regions remote and difficult to traverse.
As a Texan testifies, the Auerhahn is a challenge to a man's stamina and patience.
Colonel Montgomery, his wife, the former Nola Henderson of Winesboro, and their children, Sharon, four, and John, nine, will return to Texas in August. And he hopes his next Army assignment will be in Texas.

NOT A DROP TO DRINK—An American in Europe can't get over not ever getting any water to drink.
Europeans think we are strange for drinking water.
One man, who always drinks wine with his meals, said he couldn't remember just drinking a glass full of water "for maybe 30 years."
In an American "snack bar" in Salzburg, Austria, I asked for a glass of water.
"Water?" the waitress asked in surprise. "We don't serve that here!"

BOOK BEER TIME—Meanwhile, in Bavaria, preparations are being made for a world-famous beer festival in Munich.
On that day, the government-run

Hofbrauhaus taps its Maibock. When the beer is tapped, it is poured along a wooden bench.
Four burghers, clad in "lederhosen" (typical Bavarian dress, made of deer skin) plant their never-narrow seats on the bench, quaff their beer, and rise in unison. If the beer is "ready," the bench rises with them.
Old-timers say the beer has never failed to be ready.

Bock beer now has between 4.5 and 5.5 per cent alcohol in Germany. Germans drink it out of steins which look like half-gallon jars.
In old times, bock beer usually was dark, but nowadays it is brewed light. The color, however, has nothing to do with the alcohol content, the shade depending on the malt.
Bock beer, largely produced in Munich, has what the Germans call a starker (strong beer), with more flavor to it, and a higher alcohol content. It is produced only in the Spring, but there is no fixed end to the season.

DON'T TALK ABOUT HIS TAXI—Some believe the world's greatest "characters" are French cabbies. Rugged individualists, all.
A friend reports getting in a Paris taxi the other evening and noticing a peculiar odor.
She said to the driver: "This taxi smells awfully funny."
The taxi driver was very insulted and said: "Madame, it is not the taxi. It's me!"

ONE DEAD—One of a series of explosions that tore through the Thomas Construction Company in Dallas, roars over the head of a guarding policeman. One worker was killed and several homes in the neighborhood damaged.

Boyle Figures Out Why Women Live Longer Than Men: They Save Energy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(UP)—One reason there are so many widows in America is that their husbands wear down their strength in wasted motions.
Men fritter away too much of their energy doing unimportant things.
Recently I pointed out how meaningless gallantry was aging many men. There is no doubt that the thousands of times in his life the average man tips his hat to women, drags them across the street on his arm, lights their cigarettes, and pushes revolving doors around for them saps his vitality.

Beyond Chivalry
That article made me about as popular with women as a garter snake at a Ladies' Aid Picnic.
I hope, however, that I didn't convey the impression that living up to some of the outworn demands of chivalry was solely responsible for the fact men today don't last as long as women.
There are other factors perhaps even more important in undermining masculine health. The little lost motions—the waste motions—he makes on his own time help age him, too.
Take the matter of putting on shoes. Suppose a boy starts putting on his shoes at the age of five, and keeps it up until 70. In that time he will bend over and tie his shoes nearly 20,000 times. Each time—at least after 40—the blood falls down into his head—bong! He straightens up red-faced, grunting, and panting.
She Slides In
A woman is more sensible. She merely slips her feet into her slippers. No lost motions. Why can't men wear shoes like that?
Take shaving. It requires 200 razor strokes. If a man shaves every day for 50 years, that means 3,650,000 arm movements. Naturally, anything you do 3,650,000 times is going to shorten your life.
Quarter-Inch Smile
Take conversation. Women are supposed to talk more than men. But do they really? The truth is women get the most mileage out of their vocal cords for the time they use them. They use conversation either for relating gossip or to deliver an important message to their husbands from his sponsor—their selves.
The typical feminine greeting is an efficient quarter-inch smile. But a man? He breaks out in a rash of gobbledegook, such as "how're yuh?"

and "whaddaya know," and "what's new?" He does this, over and over, all day long, making unimportant noises with his mouth when he should be resting it.
No Help, Thanks
Take exercise. Only middle-aged men are foolish enough to believe it keeps them healthy to zoom up their blood pressure in a hot sun swinging a tennis racket or following the spoor of a golf ball. A mature woman has the wisdom of a lady tiger in a zoo. She knows she can get all the exercise she needs merely by stretching.
In this world every motion you make takes its invisible toll. Women know this by instinct. They make their motions count. And it is the lost motions of their husbands, spendthrift of energy, that leaves them widows.
When I told my wife about this theory, France said:
"Poor thing. Would it help any if I lathered and shaved you every morning?"
It might. But there are too many mornings when a husband doesn't feel like trusting his wife with the razor.

Daddy Ringtail

how maybe the frog should never have done it. Who cares if a frog eats a mosquito dinner? Well now.

Far away in the Great Forest, Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, was sitting on the ground like a frog. There beneath the bush was a real frog. The frog sat very still, and so did Mugwump. Mugwump was watching to see what the frog was going to do.

While Mugwump did his watching, a mosquito came singing along through the air. "Z-i-n-g!" was the noise the mosquito made. "Pop!" went the mouth of the frog, and that was the end of Mr. Mosquito. The mosquito wasn't a mosquito any more. The mosquito was a dinner that a frog had eaten, all so fast that Mugwump hardly saw it happen.

But Mugwump wasn't thinking about how fast the frog had eaten his dinner. Mugwump was thinking

By WESLEY DAVIS

"Teh! Teh! Teh! yourself," said Uncle Bunkum, who had walked up in time to see all this. Said Mugwump: "If Daddy Ringtail were at home today, I'd ask him about this business of a frog who eats mosquitoes."

"Well now," said Uncle Bunkum. "Well now." With Daddy Ringtail away, of course, Uncle Bunkum was wanting to do the job of seeing that all the children's questions were answered.

Uncle Bunkum looked at the frog. It was really a talking frog, a kind only found in the Great Forest. "See here, Frog," said Uncle Bunkum, "suppose you tell us the way of your eating mosquitoes."

Said the frog: "I'd-starve-to-death-if-I-didn't. I'd-starve-to-death-if-I-didn't." And with those words, the frog went hopping away to look for more mosquitoes. Oh a frog is a friendly fellow indeed, but mosquitoes are never friends at all—not with their "zing! z-i-n-g! z-i-n-g!" Happy day!

NO DRY CAMBRIDGE FOR BOYLE--

British Students Frown On U. S. Campus Rules

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—Well, rawther, old boy, we just don't go for a dry campus along the Thames.

"You can drink anything you want—if you can afford it, which you ordinarily can't," said one of Cambridge University's top debaters.

The British university exports two of its brighter, more vocal spirits every other year to America to make a debating tour.

The current duo, winding up a successful 30-debate tour—Alastair Sampson, 24, and Peter Mansfield, 24—found many things about America hard to understand, and particularly college drinking rules.

"Take your theory of a dry campus," said Peter. "You know, that wouldn't go at all in England. Wine and spirits are for sale on the campus. Most of our students, Alastair and I are typical, have spent two years in service, and particularly college drinking rules.

"It is difficult to tell a veteran what he should and shouldn't do." The British lads were a bit shocked at American university restrictions during their tour and the need for them.

They are accustomed to a system under which students are permitted more latitude. They can serve liquor in their rooms if they choose, and a man is free to entertain a woman student in his chambers without chaperon until midnight, but—

"I wouldn't say the same system would work at all in your country," said Peter. "You see, in England there are so few universities that the people who go there go, at least partly, to work."

"Yes," nodded Alastair vigorously, "not for the social life."

They said only one out of 10 students at Cambridge was a woman, and she was bent on knowledge because she had to pass a tough examination even to be admitted to the institution.

Bag Matches Cap And Stole; Keeps Beach Beautifiers Safe

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

A beauty at the beach can quickly lose her looks if she lets wind, sand, sun and water have their way with her.

If you plan to spend much time at the beach this Summer, why not let this be, perhaps for the first time, a Summer in which you gain health and benefits with none of the usual pains and discomforts?

Guard against the burn that creeps up on you unaware, as you lie blissfully in the sun. You feel so warm and drowsy—the sun is not too hot. But that night you have a deep, angry red skin.

This doesn't have to happen if you use your sunburn preventive lotion even when you feel the sunshine doesn't warrant it. There's always reflection from sand and water. Re-apply it when you come out of the water.

Take with you everything you need to be as comfortable at the beach as in your home, and without loading yourself down with a towel dripping here and a bottle spilling there. Lightweight, waterproof bags—large enough and compartmented to hold everything neatly—take care of this problem.

One such bag made by a house famed for its beach accessories, is in sand-color mesh with a border of rubber flowers and a convenient drawstring. There's a wide-fringed stole in the same sand mesh, and a bathing cap comes trimmed with rubber flowers in coral, green or aqua.

Corsets Confuse Weight Guessers; So Do Full Pockets

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Hy Malik had his way, women would not be allowed to wear corsets or girdles to amusement parks. Hy explains that these garments are an obstacle to his chosen profession—weight guesser at a New Jersey amusement park (Pallades).

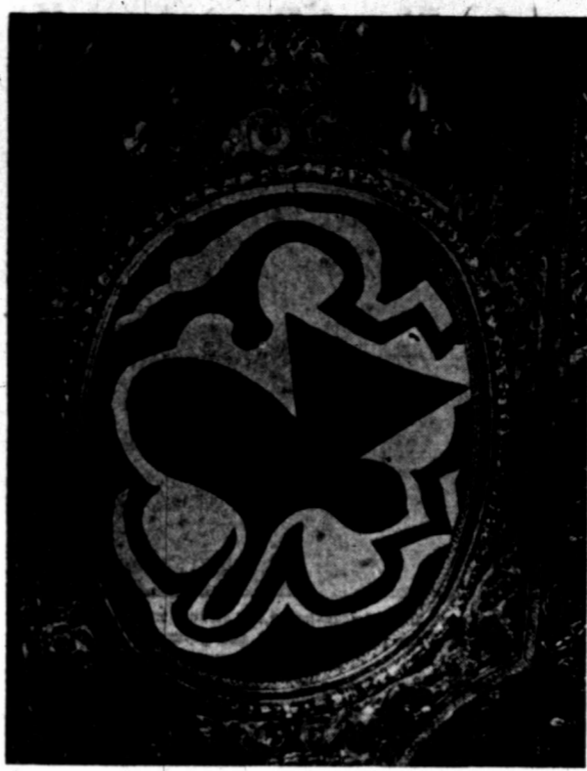

Hy has been guessing the weights of people for almost two decades. "You can't tell what is behind those corsets when a woman steps on a scale," Malik declared.

Malik said that "on a good day" he can guess men's weights correctly almost 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, if he can break 50 per cent with the women, he considers himself lucky. If Malik doesn't guess a person's weight within three pounds, the individual wins a prize.

Hy says that he always is running into people who are eager to outwit him. "One day at Pallades Amusement Park," Hy recalled, "a young man got on the scale with about 10 pounds of rocks under his coat. On another occasion, a man had a saah weight strapped around his waist."

Malik says that people on the average are fatter today than they were when he started out in business.

FOR THE BIRDS—Surrounded by traditional cherubs and other baroque 18th Century ornaments, this modernistic bird, by Georges Braque, adds a new look to the Louvre in Paris. The work has been fitted into a ceiling panel of the Henri II wing of the museum.

More Olive Sizes Added To First Nine

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—(AP)—Did the nine "size" labels on cans of California ripe olives confuse you?

Well, the State Assembly has passed a bill permitting olive packers to put up three more sizes—family, king and royal, all blends of several sizes.

You'll still have the original nine to choose from—small, medium, large, extra large, mammoth, giant, jumbo, colossal and super colossal.

Care Of Phlebitis Is Difficult; Disease Tends To Come Back

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Phlebitis is the medical term used for inflammation of the lining of the veins; thrombophlebitis or phlebothrombosis is the name applied if clots are present inside the veins at the same time.

Since inflammation of the lining of the veins is likely to bring about the formation of clots, thrombophlebitis is probably at least as common as simple phlebitis.

This (I am referring to both conditions as one), certainly is a miserable affliction. It can result from varicose veins, from injury, from too much bed rest, particularly in the presence of chronic disease, from certain blood diseases, and from a number of other things, though quite often no definite cause can be found at all.

There is increased emphasis today on trying to prevent phlebitis or thrombophlebitis. This involves a multiple line of attack, but has to be entirely under the direction of a physician responsible for the patient because the methods vary so much, and one must take into account other things besides the danger of developing these conditions.

Once phlebitis or thrombophlebitis have developed they should not be neglected, particularly because of the hazard of a clot breaking off and going to the lungs, causing what is known as a pulmonary embolism.

When either condition is acute, treatment includes absolute rest in bed, raising of the leg (if it is the leg which is involved) and application of heat.

After the acute inflammation has subsided the most important problem of treatment is to prevent swelling. Elastic bandages are particularly helpful in this kind of thing, but they must be properly applied.

Phlebitis or thrombophlebitis are hard to cure entirely and tend to come back. When this happens treatment often is difficult. It may be necessary to remove the inflamed veins by surgery if they are near the surface.

Seek Infection's Source

A thorough search for sources of infection is usually made, including examination of the teeth and tonsils. Treatments with small doses of X-rays and the use of one of the sulfonamide drugs or antibiotics may be helpful.

The prevention and treatment is being improved constantly. Early rising or mild exercise soon after an operation helps to prevent the blood in the veins from becoming stagnant. This does not appear to reduce the frequency of thrombophlebitis, but has cut down on pulmonary embolism. Some new drugs also are of help to prevent blood clotting.

Dam Controversy Rages In Flood-Conscious Kansas

Kansas wheat farmer George Hetsel tells...

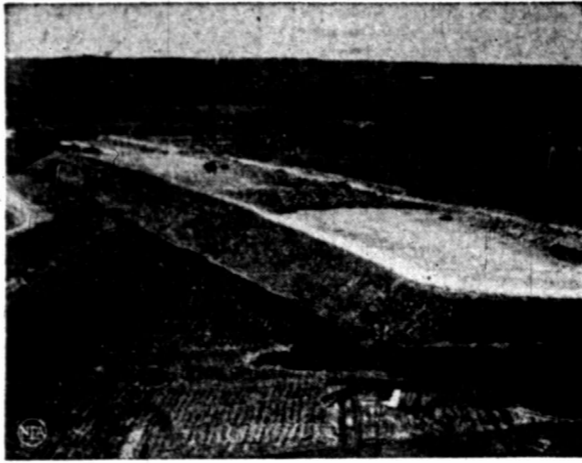

Gov. Edward Arn what he thinks about flow-ways.

Pro-Tuttle Creek Dam delegation, 1,500 strong, marches on state capitol to ask Governor Arn to endorse the big-dam principle. Said the governor, "I am in favor of whatever is best for Kansas."

A big dam controversy is raging in Kansas. Hot words fly. Demonstrators parade and irate citizens are preparing to march on Washington to back up their demands. It's all over the Tuttle Creek Dam flood-control project started by the Army Engineers last October. Five months after the work started a committee appointed by Gov. Edward Arn recommended it be stopped in favor of "flowways," wide channels that would scoot floodwaters out of the Kaw River valley. Meanwhile the new Eisenhower budget provides no funds for continuation of work on Tuttle Creek. Said one of the aroused citizens planning to go to Washington, "the ones who are really affected by the floods are convinced that big dams are their best protection."

... budget includes no funds for the completion of the dam seen stretching 7,350 feet across the valley near Big Blue River.

Meanwhile work continues at Tuttle Creek, where 850,000 cubic yards of rock fill have been placed. National administration's...

Story Of McKay's Offer By President Awaits Garden Tale

By PATTI SIMMONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Douglas McKay may not look like the beaming kind, but Washington social life has driven her to it. It's the star parties that are getting her down.

Mable McKay is a grandmother who after 36 years of marriage still looks forward to spending her evenings with her husband. And it isn't fair, she complains, for husbands who work hard at the office to have to go out and discuss more business at parties while their wives, who haven't seen them all day, stay at home.

But she's begun to realize that parties in the nation's capital are more than social get-togethers, and often take the form of important decisions over a dinner table instead of a desk.

His News Waits
The day Douglas McKay heard about his appointment as Secretary of the Interior, he came home and found Mrs. McKay, a great gardener, waiting excitedly to tell him what she had just finished putting in hyacinths, daffodils and tulip bulbs. Before he could get in a word she told him proudly, "I put in more bulbs today than I ever put in in my life." Her husband never said a word about the Cabinet post until the next day.

"He didn't have the heart," she relates.

Brown-eyed Mrs. McKay, who wears no nail polish and does her own cooking, won her own fame in Oregon—an angel food cake recipe which has won her State Fair ribbons. The secret? Probably the careful beating she gives the batter with a flat wire whip. Hundreds of Oregonians acclaimed the cake at the open houses Mrs. McKay used to hold once a week when her husband was governor.

'Only A Housewife'
"Heavens, no, I don't plan to hold open house in Washington," she says. "In the first place, we are sixth down the line in Cabinet rank. Besides, we are not equipped to entertain that way in an apartment."

Favorite topics with Grandmother McKay are those five grandchildren and, naturally, her own two daughters.

She's still surprised by women who say apologetically, "I'm only a housewife."

"Can any woman find a bigger, a more exacting, more challenging career than that of making a real home, of rearing a fine family, of being the balance wheel for her husband both in prolonged success and in momentary failure?" Mrs. McKay declares.

All this from someone who's no slouch with a shorthand pad and typewriter, herself. But there's a difference. Mabel McKay considers taking dictation from her husband on weekends something like, say mending his socks.

Writer's Advice Troubles Reader

Joe S. Doakes, a reader of this paper, feels that in the best interest of all subscribers some of the columnists should be exposed. Mr. Doakes has taken the attitude that all is not as it should be. In fairness to our readers we think we should explain Mr. Doakes' position.

Just before the first rain of this year, Joe drops into the store and orders himself a few bags of that wonderful Turf Special. He put it on the lawn as we told him. Then it rained. Then Joe watered his lawn a little. A couple of weeks ago we had another good rain. He followed our advice, and got himself into trouble.

A week ago Joe was back in the store. "What," says he, "am I gonna do with my lawn?" We put on our best look of innocence and queried, "Whassa matia, Joe?" "Matter," he retorts, "how do I get rid of that gorgeous grass that is ankle high from that Turf Special treatment?" "Yep, you guessed it! We had him in the nine hole, and he had to listen to us again. Know what? Joe's got a beautiful Jacobson gasoline mower now. He says that it is as good as his lawn, the best there is. Maybe you think we don't work both sides of the street!"

Movie To Depict Career Of Attila

MANILA —(P)— Manuel Conde, Filipino film producer, director and actor, has been hired by an Italian movie company to make a Philippine-Italian film.

He is to co-produce, co-write, direct and star in "Attila, the Hun," a color world-release picture to be filmed in Italy, France, Germany and Spain with an international cast.

Conde first became known among world movie-makers when he attended last year's Venice film festival where his Philippine-made movie, "Genghis Khan," won acclaim.

Italian Film Stars Pay Less In Taxes

ROME —(P)—Salaries of Italian movie stars are modest by Hollywood standards, but they compare pretty well after taxes. Italy's two greatest draws—Anna Magnani and Gina Lollobrigida—receive $64,000 a picture. That's one-third what a top U. S. star could draw.

Salary figures, a closely guarded secret in Hollywood, were released by the Italian Films Export Board—much to the displeasure of the Italian stars and their agents.

Italian stars pay few taxes. A good guess is an Italian star pays about 15 per cent to the government. A top American star would be giving Uncle Sam five times that much.

Governor Gets Bill On Gas Lease Co-Ops

AUSTIN —(P)—A bill to allow small gas lease owners to form co-operatives went to the governor Tuesday.

It was designed to help situations where secondary recovery on a large scale was impossible.

The House passed the bill early Tuesday. It was by Senator Harley Sadler of Abilene and already had Senate approval.
