How To Give Thanks

ABOUT TWO YEARS AGO THE editors of one of our great national magazines asked me if I thought there was a revival of prayer in our country and, if so, what were its manifestations. I wrote an article in which I pointed out the tremendous rise in church membership and attendance, listed some of the many groups of business and professional men who were meeting for the purpose of prayer in cities all over the country and discussed the activities of the group of Washington political figures who recently added President Eisenhower to their prayer meeting membership.

I went on to say that even the old custom of family grace before meals is coming back. Of course, in many families, it never has disappeared, but I am afraid for the vast majority of our people, grace before meals merely was something to be tolerated at public luncheons and dinners.

Recently, the news of a real attempt to encourage the saying of grace led me to believe that I was on the right track in my magazine article. For a group of hard-headed business men, the members of the Chamber of Commerce of Mamaroneck, New York, a suburban village of some 16,000 people, has sponsored the printing of small cards containing forms of grace before meals for Protestants, Catholics and Jews. With the cooperation of the local restaurant owners, these cards are placed on each table and at each lunch counter set to encourage patrons to ask a divine blessing before eating.

THE SPONSORS OF THESE cards hope that, as restaurant menus are reprinted, the graces will be printed on the menus themselves and so become a permanent part of each eating place's equipment.

Already, the idea has been taken up elsewhere. A Miami Beach hotel has announced that it will include the prayers on its menus, and hotels and restaurants elsewhere also are considering joining in the project.

What these people are trying to promote in public places, you can promote in your own home and in your own family. Learn to give thanks before each meal. Here are the graces distributed in Mamaroneck; clip them and keep them in your wallet or at your place at table at home until you have memorized the one you want to use.

Protestant—"Bless, O Lord, this food to our use, and us to thy service, and make us ever mindful of the needs of others, in Jesus' name. Amen."

Roman Catholic—"Bless us, O Lord, and these Thy gifts, which we are about to receive from Thy bounty. Through Christ our Lord. Amen."

Jewish—"Lift up your hands toward the sanctuary and bless the Lord. Blessed art Thou, O Lord our God, King of the universe, who bringest forth bread from the earth."

OF COURSE, YOU MAY HAVE other forms of blessing you prefer. I know one family named Tupper in which the little son was taught to say, "My name is Tommy Tupper and I thank God for my supper." Not all of us happen to be named Tupper to rhyme with supper, or Skinner to rhyme with dinner, but all of us can learn some form of giving thanks before meals appropriate to our particular belief. And all of us can urge our children and families to do likewise.

If you belong to a civic organization of some kind, perhaps you can persuade them to follow the Mamaroneck plan. They and you both will make a valuable contribution to your fellow citizens if you will do this.

And, in any event, give thanks yourself before each meal. You have much to be thankful for.

Four Negroes Are Wounded As Gun Blast Ends Dispute

WAXAHACHIE—(P)—Four members of a Dallas negro family were shot late Saturday at the little town of Milford after an argument with the white owner of a filling station and grocery store.

Two were listed as wounded critically.

Ellis County Sheriff Burl White said the 72-year-old owner of the combination business firm, south of here, made a statement and was released on $1,000 bond. White said charges would not be completed against the white man until further information was received on the condition of the injured.

Leona Massington, 48, shot in the back of the head; Arthur Massington, 48, her husband, minor wounds in the right shoulder; Ona Lee Moore, 23-month-old grandchild of the Massingtons, critically wounded in the left shoulder; Frankie Lee Rush, 23, minor wounds.

Several other negroes were in the group but were not injured, White said.

The sheriff quoted the owner as saying the argument began after the negroes complained about the service in his store. The negroes were ordered out of the store, and the argument continued in front of the place. The owner told White he picked up a single-barrel shotgun and again ordered them to leave. One shot was fired.

The injured were taken to Waxahachie for treatment and then to Dallas.

Sunday Truce Meeting Ends In Stalemate

PANMUNJOM—(P)—Communist truce negotiators Sunday insisted that all the 48,500 balking Red prisoners held by the Allies would be willing to return to their homelands after explanations were made to them by their own people following a Korean armistice.

Dulles Hints PW Deadlock Not Hopeless

WASHINGTON—(P)—Secretary of State Dulles Saturday declared some provisions of the Red proposals for disposing of prisoners of war in Korea are unsatisfactory as stated and should be clarified and probably modified.

At a news conference, he also disclosed that the United States has been rushing small arms ammunition and other military aid to strengthen the armed forces of Thailand against the threat posed by the Red invasion of Laos in Indochina.

His carefully qualified comments on the Korean truce negotiations provided the first official guidance to United States reaction to the eight-point plan which the Reds put forward three days ago at Panmunjom.

Dulles said the view he expressed was generally agreed upon among the United States and Allied nations like Britain, France, Turkey and others with troops fighting in Korea. The United States, he made clear, has been consulting these countries on the response which the UN Command should make to the Red POW plan.

Dulles' words sharpened an impression here that if the Reds would modify some provisions—principally the proposals for introducing European Communist satellite forces into South Korea and for settling the final fate of some POWs at a political conference—the United States and its Allies would agree upon the Red plan quickly.

Notrees Woman Hurt In Midland Accident

Mrs. O. B. Kelley of Notrees received painful injuries Saturday in a two-car collision in the 2800 block on the Garden City highway. She remained in Midland Memorial Hospital for treatment of forehead lacerations, multiple abrasions and fracture.

She was riding in a sedan driven by her husband and also occupied by their young daughter. He was being X-rayed late Saturday night at the hospital but his condition was not believed serious. The girl escaped injury.

The second sedan was operated by Charles Alva Phillips of Kermit, who was enroute home from Fort Hood, where he is stationed. Both Phillips and his companion, Willie M. Taylor, also a Fort Hood soldier, were unhurt.

Sunday Truce Meeting Ends In Stalemate

PANMUNJOM—(P)—Communist truce negotiators Sunday insisted that all the 48,500 balking Red prisoners held by the Allies would be willing to return to their homelands after explanations were made to them by their own people following a Korean armistice.

The Allies said that was "more than doubtful." The Red statement was made at Sunday's 59-minute truce session by the top Red negotiator, North Korean Gen. Nam Il, as he answered some of the many questions asked of the Communists Saturday by the senior UN Command truce delegate, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr.

Harrison sought amplification of the Communists' latest proposal for settling the balking POW exchange issue. The meeting adjourned until 11 a.m. Monday.

Nam insisted that all the 48,500 North Korean and Chinese prisoners, who have said they don't want to return to Red territory, would go home after they had matters explained to them in a neutral camp.

"No Final Solution" Nam insisted, too, that the disposition of any prisoners still balking after the explanations should be decided at a political conference to be held after a truce is effected.

Nam said differences in the five-nation neutral commission which would be set up under the Red plan for handling the leftover POWs could be settled by majority vote.

The Red proposal to leave to the neutral commission the fate of prisoners who can't be "persuaded" over a four-month period of custody is a key point in the Red eight-point plan—one that may draw a flat thumbs down from the Allies.

Saturday's questions by Harrison strongly indicated that his command would not accept such a proposal. He said then the Red proposal contained "no final solution."

Harrison cautioned newsmen against drawing any inference that his questions meant the Allies have accepted the Red offer as a basis for negotiations. Nor did they mean rejection.

Tornado Strikes Town In Southeast Nebraska

HEBRON, NEB.—(P)—A tornado struck Hebron in Southeastern Nebraska Saturday night, causing many injuries and extensive property damage.

E. H. Wellman, manager of the telephone company, said the hospital was filled but he could not estimate how many were hurt. He had no report of any deaths, he said.

Shivers Suggests Half-Price Compromise On Teachers Pay

AUSTIN—(P)—Governor Shivers Saturday publicized a plan to give school teachers a $300-a-year conditional pay raise and end the Legislature's session soon. It drew quick fire from backers of the $600-a-year boost.

The $300 increase and some other appropriations would depend on settlement of the 45-million-dollar gas pipe line tax suit in favor of the state. If the state lost, the teachers and others would lose.

Shivers told a news conference of the plan, but said it should not be taken as "the governor's program for a compromise." He said he and several members of the Legislature would explore "these and other possibilities and try to evolve a workable and acceptable program."

The governor loosed a new blast at the leaders of the Texas State Teachers Association, whose attitude, he said, was "arrogant and adamant" in insisting on a $600 annual base pay raise.

Charles Tennyson of the association, when asked for comment, said: "I am not trying to settle this fight in the press. The cause is too great. This isn't a game involving the welfare of 1,500,000 Texas boys and girls who must have teachers."

New Taxes Shunned

The governor outlined the latest plan to bring a quick end to the Legislature without a new tax bill after a week in which date for final adjournment could not be fixed.

Sulphur Gas Kills Worker At Gulf Well

MONAHANS—William Madison Wright, 22-year-old Monahans roughneck, was asphyxiated and driller Cecil Simpson, 42, was injured critically at 8:30 a.m. Saturday when sulphur gas erupted in water from a Gulf well six miles west of Monahans.

Physicians at Bell Hospital in Monahans said Saturday Simpson had a "fair chance" of recovery.

Both men were employees of the Zephyr Drilling Company of Midland. The well was drilling at about 3,600 feet.

Funeral services were pending Saturday for Wright, who had moved to Monahans from Odessa about six weeks ago.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Eva Wright of Monahans; five sisters, Shirley, 16, and Mrs. Janie Jones, both of Monahans, Mrs. Leona Walker of Sidney, Mont., Mrs. Ruby Peidrey of Cherry Point, N. C., and Mrs. Edith Kairvi of Mountain Home, Idaho; a half-sister, Mrs. Kathryn Covey, of O'Brien, and a brother, J. W. Wright of Walker, Montana.

Bond Proposal Gets Majority Of 303 To 38

The proposed widening of U. S. Highway 80 between Midland and the Martin County line received the hearty approval of Midland County voters Saturday as they voted overwhelmingly in favor of a $350,000 bond issue.

The complete but unofficial returns from the 10 election precincts in the special election showed 303 votes in favor of the proposal with only 38 ballots against it.

The funds will be used to acquire right-of-way needed by the State Highway Department for the widening to a four-lane divided highway of the 11-mile stretch east of the Midland city limits.

As the results of the election were announced by County Clerk Roselene Cherry Saturday night, County Judge Clifford C. Keith said the Commissioners Court will meet Monday to plan the next step in acquiring the necessary 150-foot right-of-way.

Ordinarily the acquisition of the right-of-way would be delayed by the formalities of awaiting the expiration of the protest period and the actual sale of the bonds.

But Judge Keith said the commissioners may decide to proceed with the right-of-way negotiations by making a short-term loan for the necessary funds.

The county judge pointed out that the State Highway Department is ready to proceed with the project as soon as the right-of-way deeds are turned over by Midland County.

At any rate, there was little doubt that the bond issue had the blessing of the voters, who far exceeded the requirement for a two-thirds majority.

The issue carried in all 10 of the election precincts with no opposition at all appearing in three precincts.

Votes By Precincts

The complete but unofficial results by precincts:

Precinct 1—41 for, six against.

Precinct 2—10 for, two against.

Precinct 3—six for, none against.

Precinct 4—seven for, none against.

Precinct 5—27 for, seven against.

Precinct 6—37 for, 11 against.

Precinct 7—66 for, five against.

Precinct 8—40 for, four against.

Precinct 9—20 for, none against.

Precinct 10—34 for, two against.

Absentee—13 for, one against.

The Midland County portion of the highway project will connect with a four-lane divided highway west to Odessa and to a similar road to be built across Martin County on the east.

Martin County will acquire its final tract of right-of-way Monday at a condemnation hearing and County Judge James McMorris of Stanton said it would be turned over to the State Highway Department by May 20.

Under plans for the highway improvement, two 24-foot strips, separated by a 50-foot neutral ground will be constructed.

City Street Work Bids Due Monday

Bids will be received Monday by the City of Midland for the first phase of a project to widen a 19-block stretch of North Big Spring Street from Texas Street to George Street.

The bids will be for the construction of a six-block-long storm sewer and 14 blocks of curb and gutter, preliminary to the general paving project of the State Highway Department.

S. C. Dougherty, senior resident engineer of the State Highway Department, said Saturday his agency is ready to proceed with the widening project and bids probably will be opened in July.

The construction of curb and gutter from Texas Street to Louisiana Street will be included in the overall construction project of the state department.

Work Scheduled Soon

After the bids are opened Monday afternoon, they will be studied by the City Council Tuesday night, when the contract is scheduled to be awarded with actual work beginning a few days later.

The Big Spring Street improvement project calls for the widening of the roadway from 40 feet to 60 feet between Texas and Louisiana Streets—the only portion of North Big Spring Street which now has curb and gutter.

The street will be widened from

Bi-State Commuters Get Auto-Tag Break

SANTE FE, N. M.—(P)—Texas and New Mexico members of the Reciprocity Commission on motor vehicle license and mileage tax have agreed to give commuters between the states a break.

From now on, persons living in one state and working in the other may buy license plates only in the state in which they reside. In the past, they have been required to buy plates in both states.

The New Mexico commissioners refused to go along with a proposal to give similar reciprocity to interstate buses.

Survey Entry She 'Almost Didn't Mail'

A Midland housewife who "almost didn't" mail her Community Survey entry last week is $40 richer because she did.

She's Mrs. Sam Holt, 504 West George Street, who was the winner in the Reporter-Telegram's Community Survey for the week of April 19-24.

Mrs. Holt, mother of three daughters—and grandmother of a boy and a girl—said she almost didn't mail the entry.

"I only lacked one question on the blank," she smiled, "and I had just about decided not to send it in. But a friend of mine told me to go ahead since I had only one question left. Now I'm glad I took my friend's advice."

"I hardly knew what to think when I was told I had won," Mrs. Holt said. "I imagine I'll keep entering. Maybe I could win again."

Winner of the $25 second prize was Mrs. Richard A. Lisman, 1403 West Tennessee Street, and Mrs. H. L. Ledbetter, 1216 South Dallas Street, pocketed the $15 third prize.

Mrs. Holt used a "hunt and peck" system in picking the winning ads. "I just looked through the paper

Street Surfacing Work Will Resume

Asphalt surfacing of streets being paved in the current street-paving program will begin May 18, T. G. Jenkins, city construction engineer, said Saturday.

Jenkins said base and curb and gutter already has been completed on approximately 50 per cent of the more than 100 blocks of streets in the program.

Texan Theater Sets Showing Of 'Fatima'

"The Miracle of Our Lady of Fatima," film story of the famous miracle that occurred 25 years ago in the village of Fatima, Portugal, will open Sunday at the Texan Theater.

The story deals with three shepherd children who reported they had seen a vision in a field near the town and that the vision had reappeared five more times on the same date in succeeding months to prophesy that World War I would end shortly and that there would be a second World War.

The children's faith in the Lady of Fatima despite threats and torture provides a dramatic story. The movie is highlighted by the "reveling sun" phenomenon when thousands saw the sun descend rapidly toward the earth and then suddenly stop and return.

Gilbert Roland and Susan Whitney are the leading roles.

Clyde McCoy Booked For Odessa Exhibition

Clyde McCoy, Capitol recording artist, his muted trumpet and his orchestra, will occupy one of the two main bandstands during the Permian Basin Home Show June 11 through 14 at Odessa. Ray Noble and his orchestra will occupy the other.

McCoy is a member of the famous "feudin'" McCoy's, born in Ashland, Ky. As a lad he played trombone with church choirs, and graduated to sax, drums, banjo, mandolin, piano and trumpet.

His first professional efforts came back in the days of the silent movies when he and two others played background for the flickers in Kentucky theaters.

Ray Noble, Jerry Colonna and other stars of the entertainment world will make Odessa and the Home Show their headquarters for most of one week this June.

Exhibit booths are available to builders, designers, suppliers, servicers and others of the Permian Basin.

Third Seven Taken Off Bottom Of Deck Fatal To Houstonian

HOUSTON—(P)—A seven of clubs turned out to be a death card for Felix Hardy in a poker game Saturday.

Hardy, a negro, died from a stab wound in the leg. Justice Tom Mason said.

A negro, 40, who was playing poker with the victim was arrested. "I caught him dealing off the bottom of the deck," the 240-pound man said. "I went into the pot with a pair of queens and he had a pair of sevens. I saw him pull the seven of clubs off the bottom of the deck and beat me out of the $14 pot."

Assistant Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Frazier said the men were playing poker in a building behind a cafe named the Black Cat.

Sonja Henie Joins Throng Of Stars Shifting To 3-D

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

Exclusively Yours: Sonja Henie skating right out into the audience in 3-D! Producer Harry Joe Brown has Sonja's word she will make her movie comeback under his banner in a big 3-D musical extravaganza.

"It's a matter of timing," Brown told me on the set of "I Ride Alone," a new 3-D film for Columbia. "If Sonja can get through with her London ice show and dates in France on time, we'll start the picture this Fall. We've been talking about it for several months. She's very enthusiastic about the idea."

The long-expected bloup of the Arlene Dahl-Fernando Lamas romance is near. Arlene's been seeing Raymond Hakim, whom she dated long before Lex Barker came into her life.

Lili St. Cyr, the strip queen has only one page of dialog in "The Son of Sarda" at RKO. But with Lili, who needs talk? John Huston's "Richard the III" will be the first full-length 3-D flicker to be made in London. Sir Laurence Olivier will replace Jose Ferrer as the star. Jose doesn't want to leave Hollywood—and Rosemary Clooney.

Van Johnson's rediscovery as a song and dance man by Jack Entratter of The Sands Hotel in Las Vegas left MGM bug-eyed—"Wed forgotten Van's talents," a studio executive sheepishly confessed to Jack—and raised the stature of movie stars as in-the-flesh, nightclub entertainers.

"I'm sold on movie names," Entratter told me after two weeks of jam-packed business with Van's hooding singing and breezy chatter. "But they must be movie stars with talent. They can't just stand up there with a take-a-look-I'm-a-movie-star attitude."

It was Entratter, now producing the lavish shows at The Sands, who lured the first Hollywood star, Jane Powell, to play the Copacabana Club in New York two years ago. Now he's ready to sign more movie names for The Sands, with negotiations already on for Marie Wilson, Mariene Dietrich, Bill Bendix, Peter Lawford and others.

Christine Debuts On American Stage

LOS ANGELES—(P)—Christine Jorgensen, the blonde who was George Jorgensen before surgery in Denmark, made her stage debut Friday before an Orpheum Theater audience of about 1,000.

Attendance was three times normal.

Wearing a bouffant evening gown of blue with silver net, plus rhinestone earrings, necklace and diadem, Miss Jorgensen said a few words in a well modulated contralto-voice, then stepped aside and narrated the travelogue she filmed in Denmark.

The crowd applauded politely. For five performances a day she will get $12,500 for the week or half the gross, whichever is bigger.

Reunions With Returned Prisoner Sons Bring Happiness To Scores Of Mothers

By CALVIN MANON
Associated Press Staff Writer
"It's wonderful to have him again."

These simple, quiet words by Mrs. Clarence Shaw of Syracuse, N. Y., summed up the feelings of scores of the happiest mothers in the nation Sunday better than any of the eloquent phrases and oratory that greeted the annual observance of Mother's Day.

Officials at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., where the released prisoners were processed on their return to the United States, reported that most of the repatriated veterans would be with their families Sunday. Few of the veterans had any special plans except to get home. Any celebrations were up to the families.

Among the group was Mrs. Myrtle Johnson of Leon, Iowa. The list of names smuggled out by repatriated prisoner of war Pfc. Joseph Pionor of New York City brought her the first news she had received of her son, Pfc. Sam Lamphier since he was reported missing in Korea Dec. 17, 1951.

But to Mrs. Robert B. Baird of Rutland, Vermont, the day brought only hope—growing hope that the picture of an unidentified officer released by a Communist propaganda agency might be that of her son, Capt. Robert J. Bird, 34, missing in action since Nov. 19, 1952.

High Tariff Advocates Map Plans To Modify Trade Bill

WASHINGTON —(P)—House members reported Saturday a compromise plan is taking shape to modify sharply a tariff bill for American industry.

They said the plan will eliminate or soften many of the bill's provisions opposed in testimony this week by six Eisenhower Cabinet members. But they predicted a House floor fight on a few points in the controversial measure.

1. A clear understanding that in administering the present law, the new Republican regime will be "more sympathetic than the Democrats" in granting tariff protection.

Le Tourneau's 'Industry God Built' Sold By Noted Millionaire-Churchman

PEORIA—(AP)—R. G. Le Tourneau, an industrialist who once said "God is chairman of my board of directors," is getting out of the earth moving business.

Le Tourneau and Westinghouse Air Brake Company have announced jointly an accord covering the purchase by Westinghouse of the earth moving tractor and related activities of R. G. Le Tourneau Inc., founded and headed by the millionaire businessman and lay preacher.

While details have not been worked out, it is contemplated Westinghouse will take over the Peoria and Toccoa, Ga., plants of the Le Tourneau Company. Le Tourneau expects to continue as consultant.

Longview Plant

Le Tourneau, 64, who attributes his spectacular rise to God's help, said Saturday his work may include a new development project in Peru—"I have a proposition I think they will accept."

He said his mission project for developing Liberia will continue with a goal of clearing a half million acres of jungle for farmland. Last year Le Tourneau sent the "Ark of Le Tourneau" to the African nation with 12 "technical missionaries" abroad, after the converted Navy landing craft had been blessed by evangelist Billy Graham.

R. G. Le Tourneau

Christ And Farming

The idea is to convert the natives to Christianity, and also to show them modern farming methods. Le Tourneau said he didn't think the natives could be converted "when their bellies cry for food."

Le Tourneau now lives at Longview where he heads the Le Tourneau Technical Institute of Texas. In 1946 he bought the Army's Harmon General Hospital at Longview and converted it into the institute.

Le Tourneau got the hospital for $1 in return for benefits accruing to veterans from a training program he started, providing free shelter and tuition. The hospital cost 25 million dollars to build and had an appraisal value set at $870,000 by the Surplus Property Administration.

Devout Parents

Le Tourneau was born at Richmond, Va., of devout parents. Three uncles and two sisters were missionaries. He quit school to work in a foundry at 14. Many years later at Stockton, Calif. he bought an old tractor and, as a small contractor, went into the land leveling business.

One night he attended a meeting of the Young People's Mission. He was so inspired that, when he got home, he turned out on his drafting board a design for a power control unit which became the nerve center for his "great steel monsters that can gnaw a mountain down or fill a valley."

Le Tourneau recalls, "I had a little foundry back in the boom period 1925-29 that was doing a modest business. Then the depression flattened me out. I was bankrupt and several thousands in debt. In my extremity I turned to the Lord for guidance. I promised a part of my income for missions."

Money Downpour

Money started to trickle in and then to pour down. In 1935 Le Tourneau organized what he called "the Lord's treasury" and what goes by the more formal name of Le Tourneau Foundation with headquarters in New York City. Le Tourneau gave 67.5 per cent of his company's stock to the foundation, which coordinates his religious philanthropies and evangelistic efforts.

The last balance sheet, as of Dec. 31, 1951, showed the foundation owned 317,641 shares, or 63.1 per cent, of the company's outstanding common stock. Presumably, Westinghouse will have to buy this stock, or a part of it, to get control of the company. Sales in 1951 totaled almost $6 million dollars and net income more than three million.

Le Tourneau moved his main plant in 1935 from Stockton to Peoria, where he held religious meetings inside the factory several times a day. As new buildings were added, each was dedicated to God and his service.

'Old Bolshevik' Calls Tune In Revolt Against Stalinism

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

A revolt against Stalinism gains momentum daily in Moscow. But in the long run, it bodes no good for the West.

An obscure, one-paragraph dispatch from the Soviet capital, fitted in with other puzzling developments, leaves little doubt such a revolt is on. For the time being, it would cause the leadership to move cautiously and play for time. But if and when the revolt is complete, it can mean a sharp shift away from Stalin's guarded isolationism, ultimately toward a more active Soviet role in stimulating revolution abroad.

The revealing Moscow dispatch brought the information that the Order of the Red Banner of Labor was awarded Grigori Ivanovich Petrovsky for his "services to the Soviet state." There was little point to recording this bit of incidental intelligence unless something lay behind it. Investigation showed there was something there.

Close Friend Of Lenin

Petrovsky appears to have returned from exile—an exile ordered by Stalin at the height of the mighty purges of the 1930's. Stalin then was establishing himself as supreme dictator.

Petrovsky was a close friend of Lenin, a revolutionary long before the 1917 upheaval in which Bolshevism seized power. He now is 76 years old, a real "Old Bolshevik." At one time he was secret police chief of the central Soviet state, the Russian Soviet Federated Socialist Republic.

In 1938, with the blood purge at its height, Pravda and Izvestia announced that Petrovsky had been fired from his Ukraine job. From that day until last Thursday, not a word was heard of him.

Petrovsky may have been among those freed by the amnesty declared by the government of Premier Georgi M. Malenkov shortly after it took over. He also may be one of many exiled by Stalin who now are returning. He was honored as an "Old Bolshevik" which in itself is significant, since Stalin all but wiped out the Old Bolsheviks in the purge.

Required Reading

But this item alone is not the basis for the assumption of the revolt against Stalin. It fits in with other evidence.

1. The Soviet press, forcing Russian literature and culture upon the 15 republics outside Russia proper, has listed Plekhanov's works among the new required reading. Plekhanov, teacher of Lenin and Marxist philosopher, once was ridiculed by Stalin as an "Old Bolshevik who was remarkable only because he was old."

2. The Communist Party bible, the magazine Kommunist, recently announced that the "restoration of the united world market" is desirable.

Division of the world so half its markets cut off from the West was a boast of Stalin, who insisted it was deepening a capitalist world crisis. However, it had a damaging effect upon the Communist world and the Kommunist item is an open admission that what Stalin accomplished in this respect was wrong.

No Permanent Peace

3. The return to "democratic centralism in effect means rule by a small elite, which thrashes out problems by discussion, adopts decisions and then requires these decisions to be followed implicitly thereafter. Stalin became the symbol of one-man rule.

4. The new propaganda campaign on the world front smacks of Lenin. To him, the revolution was a world movement in which no permanent peace with capitalism was possible. There would be only strategic or tactical retreats. Under Stalin, long periods of truce were possible in his cautious, long-drawn-out struggle for the preeminence of communism.

Speculation Rife On Next Chairman Of Military Staff

WASHINGTON —(P)— Speculation on a successor to Gen. Omar N. Bradley as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff centered Saturday on Adm. Robert B. Carney, commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Southern Europe.

Bradley is due to retire August 15, and the field of possible successors appears to be wide open. Those who suggested that Carney be kept in mind regard him as a potentially satisfactory compromise in the long and bitter dispute between the Navy and Air Force over their respective roles in aviation.

Carney has kept virtually aloof from much of that bickering. Thus he has stirred no deep hostility in the Air Force camp and is looked upon as a friend of many Army officials.

But the factor that really counts is that Carney is not a naval aviator.

Adm. Arthur Radford, commander in chief, Pacific, is an aviator and has been a sharply outspoken proponent of the Navy in its quarrels with the Air Force and, at times, with the Defense Department. Radford's name has been high in speculation on the Joint Chiefs chairmanship, especially since he accompanied President Eisenhower on the latter's pre-inauguration journey to Japan and Korea.

But talk of appointing Radford evokes deep and angry muttering in Air Force circles.

Navy proponents, on the other hand, have evidenced alarm at fresh rumors that the chairmanship might go to Gen. Carl A. (Tooty) Spaatz, famous World War II air commander and later Air Force chief of staff. Spaatz, since retiring a few years ago, has been writing a magazine column on aviation—which is being used as ammunition by those who oppose him on the grounds he is too strongly pro-Air Force and anti-Navy for the impartial job of JCS chairman.

There is nothing in the law making rotation of the job among the services mandatory.

Therefore, if Eisenhower chooses to keep the appointment entirely clear of either of the contending services—Air Force or Navy—he can turn to any one of a number of his former Army colleagues.

Among these is Gen. Mark Clark, supreme commander in the Far East. But nomination of Clark might bring opposition in the Senate, which must confirm the nomination, from the Texas delegation. Some Texans still hold Clark responsible for heavy casualties suffered in a battle in Italy while he commanded forces there during World War II.

Mother Of Ammo Shortage Victim Goes To Capitol

PITTSBURGH —(P)—The mother of a dead soldier from nearby West Miffling will go to Washington Monday to tell about ammunition shortages in Korea.

Mrs. Andrew Haley said she has an appointment to talk to Senator Margaret Chase Smith, chairman of an ammunition subcommittee about the last letter from her son, Second Lt. Robert Haley, 22, of the 224th Infantry Regiment.

Mrs. Haley quoted the letter, post-dated April 15 and addressed to her son's fiancée, Marcia Matwick of McKeesport, Pa., as saying:

"If anyone tells you we have enough ammunition, they're crazy. We have about enough for a 15-minute fire-fight."

Lieutenant Haley was killed in the Punch Bowl section April 28, Mrs. Haley said.

"My son was killed by not having enough ammunition. The other boys still living over there should have something to defend themselves with."

Open House Set At Hospital Here

National Hospital Week May 16-18 is a step past the National Hospital Day observed throughout the United States since 1931, and will be climaxed in Midland Sunday, May 17, with an open house at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Designed to stimulate interest in operation and services of hospitals, National Hospital Week will find medical officials stressing the importance of understanding and support of hospitals. Hospitals are becoming more complicated and expensive, doctors point out, and their dependence on public support is growing. Support can come only, they say, when the people of the community understand thoroughly their hospital's problems and needs and its importance to their personal and family protection.

Members of Midland Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary will be hostesses and guides at the open house from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. May 17, and will preside at a refreshment reception following the open house.

National Hospital Week is sponsored nationally by the American Hospital Association.

Toll Road Building Takes Major Spurt

NEW YORK —(P)— Toll road building is having its biggest boom in history as one state after another decides on super-highways that pay their own way.

Toll express highways under construction or planned will stretch out 3,500 miles and will cost almost three billion dollars.

The newest pay road is Oklahoma's Turner Turnpike, which will open next Saturday. The $6-million-dollar pike runs 83 miles between Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

The trend to toll roads has taken a spurt as states take notice of the solid financial success of the New Jersey Turnpike, in operation since November, 1951, and the spectacular record of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

The Pennsylvania super-highway has been bringing in a fantastic yield since the end of gas rationing after the war.

Motorists Like Them
New Jersey's turnpike surprised the experts by accommodating 18 million vehicles in 12 months, more than double the number predicted.

Many a motorist has expressed his willingness to pay a nominal fee. He saves time and miles by riding the turnpike, a big factor in making a long trip in a short time. Also, the gleaming strips of concrete are easier on the automobile, often eliminate sharp climbs and have low accident rates.

Opposition comes from truckers, who contend they pay enough in gasoline taxes and registration fees. The toll road, they argue, constitutes double taxation.

Truck fleets often shun turnpikes, because they feel this adds to the cost of tonnage. Yet a trucker will use a pike in hilly country because the fuel saving often will offset the toll charge.

Ripe Topic In Texas
The longest of the toll highways, the 335-mile New York State Thruway, is expected to be completed late in 1954. The $600-million-dollar highway will run from New York north to Albany and then to Buffalo.

A recent check showed half of the 44 state legislatures in session, including Texas, were confronted with toll highway proposals. Many states have formed turnpike authorities.

HIRSUTE HORSE HAILS HOLIDAY

OTTAWA, ILL. —(P)— Cloud, a seven-year-old gelding, is right in style around Ottawa. He has a mustache like all the men in Ottawa, and his males are growing whiskers or mustaches to give the community a 100-year-old look.

Frank Aicher brought Cloud from a farm where he had spent the winter in Pasture. Aicher was surprised to note Cloud had a mustache growing on his upper lip. It measures about eight inches across and curls handsomely without grooming.

turnpike commissions or study committees directed by legislatures to report on the advisability of toll road construction.

Some major turnpike projects under consideration and their lengths include: 440 miles in Florida, 70 miles in Washington, 100 miles in Louisiana, 125 miles in North Carolina, and 250 miles in Wisconsin.

JUST COULDN'T STAND HITCHED

ERIE, PA. —(P)—The twenty-second divorce was one too many, Mrs. Esther Tail, 61, told Judge Samuel Roberts Saturday.

"We've been married 25 years," Mrs. Tail testified in her divorce suit against Newton L. Tail, 61, "and in that time, he left me on 22 different occasions."

"Divorce granted," said Judge Roberts.

Suit For Armistice In Indochina Looms As Reds' Maneuver

SAIGON, INDOCHINA. — (P)— The premier of Viet Nam, one of the three French associated Indochinese states, declared Saturday he believes the Communist-led Vietnamese rebels soon may propose an armistice in their seven-year-old war in Indochina.

The premier, Nguyen Van Tam, described such a move as "very possible." He added, however, that he did not think any such offer by the Vietnamese would be sincere.

French sources say an armistice offer would be a smart move for the Vietnamese because of its possible effect in slowing the French war effort and disrupting promised American military aid. Viet Nam officials frankly are frightened that Rebel Chief Ho Chi Minh will grab at the chance.

Thousands of Vietnamese troops continued their withdrawal from the little mountain kingdom of Laos, after overrunning a third of the country in a lightning 26-day invasion. Bombers harassed the retreating rebels but French and Laotian land forces made no attempt to pursue them.

Factory Men Draw Higher Pay In Texas

AUSTIN —(P)— The average weekly pay of factory workers in Texas rose 58 cents in March, the Texas Employment Commission said Saturday.

The weekly pay average was $68.55 and the average work-week for the group was 41.8 hours. The average work week in February was 41.7 hours.

Average hourly earnings in March were $1.64, a penny above those of February. Hourly pay ranged from $2.28 for oil refining workers to 97 cents for apparel and fabric products workers. Printing industry employees received five cents more in average hourly earnings, now $2.11.

Municipal Begging Begins To Increase As Revenues Falter

EL PASO —(P)— Municipal begging appears to be increasing. Smaller towns, unable to finance improvements from local revenues, have begun passing the hat among the nation's mayors, using different approaches to getting something for nothing.

Several such requests have been received by Mayor Fred Hervey. Recently an Ohio city asked for just $1 from each mayor to help build a swimming pool. Hervey sent his contribution and received a note acknowledging the gift, but pointing with regret to the fact that America's mayors on the whole are something less than generous.

The latest request received by the mayor is also for funds to build a swimming pool, this time at Chesaning, Mich., which is 70 miles from any lake or bay.

The letter asked for a wrapped gift which could be auctioned off on May 22 as a part of the fund-raising drive.

President Urged To Make Address On Cost Of Government 'Repairs'

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON —(P)— Some advisers are urging that President Eisenhower take to the airways soon to offset the bad political effect of disclosures that Republicans are going to continue red ink federal spending.

These advisers apparently feel that only some blunt talk by Eisenhower—delivered by radio and television into the voters' living rooms—can counter any feeling that the new administration is faltering in its purpose to balance the budget.

The political strategists want the President to blame the previous Democratic Administration for the financial difficulties which both Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey have said will prevent budget balancing in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Truman's "Crazy Quilt"
They want an expansion by the President of the note he sounded in a recent White House news conference when he said his Administration was trying to make sense out of a "crazy quilt of promises, commitments and contracts" left in the military field by the Democrats.

The advisers think the President should stress anew his complaint that holdover funds voted by previous congresses at Truman's request constitute an order at the corner grocery for "81 billion dollars worth of goods which we've got to pay for as they are delivered, in addition to paying the regular household running expenses."

Not Too Early
Eisenhower has been reluctant to make any really partisan political speeches since he took office but some GOP strategists believe it isn't too early for him to be- ginning preparing the nation for what's ahead financially in 1954.

As it is viewed by Secretary Humphrey, who has impressed Congress as a practical sort of fellow, the Republicans will wind up the fiscal year on June 30, 1954, with a sizable Treasury deficit. They probably will have been forced to increase the 275 billion dollar legal debt limit.

No Republican politician thinks either one of those events will be overlooked by the Democrats at the beginning of the vital 1954 campaign for control of Congress.

Drastic Implications
A bill raising the debt limitation would be certain to provoke a Democratic demonstration in Congress, with plenty of reference to the Republicans' 1952 platform pledge to reduce expenditures "by the elimination of waste and extravagance so that the budget will be balanced and a general tax reduction can be made."

Humphrey's statement that the risks to U. S. security would be "simply too great" to attempt to balance the budget ruled out, with implication of fresh tax reductions.

Humphrey even seemed on the verge of saying that automatic expiration of the excess profits tax on July 1 and a scheduled 10 per cent reduction in individual income taxes January 1 might have to be recinded.

Democratic Control
It would be bitter political medicine for the new Administration if it finds it can't attain its double goal of budget balancing and tax reduction. Democrats think that would be just what they need to sweep the House into their hands and give them a chance of winning Senate control in the November, 1954, elections as the first step toward getting back into the White House in 1956.

To some of his listeners, Humphrey sounded strangely like his Democratic predecessors when he told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the difficulty about balancing the budget was that about 70 per cent of expenditures were for security and about half of the remainder for fixed items such as interest on the federal debt.

Construction Jumps To 100 Million Mark

AUSTIN —(P)— Big commercial building projects boosted Texas into the 100-million-dollar construction bracket again last month.

New awards this week started May in the same direction.

The Texas Contractor, a trade publication, said Saturday April awards totaled $116,177,909, the third consecutive month to break the 100-million mark. It was surpassed only in April, 1951, when awards totaled 180 millions.

Awards this week amounted to $23,930,130. The year's total climbed to $463,756,857.

40 FROZEN DAYS OF HORROR— 1,000 GI's Start Korean Death March; 400 Survive

HEREFORD —(P)— A thousand UN prisoners started a Korean death march, but only 400 survived 40 frozen days of horror.

One of those who did live was Sgt. Gerald Neighbors, 22, Army veteran from this little Panhandle city.

Returned to the U. S. in the exchange of wounded, Neighbors is home with his wife, Shirley, and his daughter, Cindy, two and one-half. She was born while Neighbors was overseas. He saw her for the first time when he landed at Amarrillo a few days ago.

Sitting with his family, Neighbors, a young-old man, without dramatics, told Robert E. Baskin, staff writer of the Dallas Morning News, of the 40 days of death and weary misery in late 1950 and early 1951.

Millet and corn—just the grains were the only food served the prisoners. They were given one meal a day.

Frozen feet and hands and dysentery plagued the captured men. Four days after his capture, on Dec. 5, 1950, the march of death started.

"We moved out northward that night with Chinese troops and made between 15 and 20 miles," Neighbors said. "A few more prisoners joined up. Night after night we marched about the same distance with more prisoners, joining the column all the time."

"Our condition began to go down rapidly. The men were suffering with dysentery, frozen feet and frozen hands."

Too Weak To Help
"The column must have had about 1,000 prisoners in it. Men began to fall by the side of the road. Sometimes they were dead when we left them. Sometimes they were barely alive."

"We were too weak to help them. The Chinese didn't seem to care." On Christmas Day, 1950, the prisoners reached an old mining camp where there were wooden buildings.

"They put us in rooms about 10 by 10 feet and crowded up to 25 in each room."

"We had no blankets—just our individual clothes. I was wearing fatigues, shoe pads, a helmet liner, a jacket and didn't have an overcoat. It wasn't near enough to keep warm.

No Fires At Night
"Our water came from a frozen stream, and we had to break the ice to get it. There were no latrines. At night, fires were not permitted and it was extremely cold."

"The men died rapidly at this place, from the exhaustion of the long march, from wounds, starvation and lack of medical care."

"From the time the march started until January 15 I estimate 600 men had died, out of a total of a little more than a thousand."

Neighbors began another march January 15—this time to POW Camp 5 at Pyoktong on the Yalu River. He stayed there until the exchange of prisoners.

Mrs. J. W. Watson, Midlander's Mother, Dies In Hub City

Mrs. J. W. Watson, 74, a long-time West Texas resident and mother of James C. Watson of Midland, died Saturday afternoon at her home in Lubbock, following a prolonged illness.

She was the wife of the Rev. J. W. Watson, pioneer Methodist minister in West Texas. They had lived in Lubbock and vicinity the last 25 years.

Mrs. Watson was born in Navarro County and came to West Texas in 1908.

The Midland son is the oil editor of The Reporter-Telegram.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete late Saturday, but funeral services and interment will be held in Lubbock, with the Rix Funeral Home in charge.

Nation's Tax Chief Talks 'No-Red-Tape' Tax Return System

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Prospects of practically no red tape for millions of income tax payers—and of jail for those who try to cheat—were outlined Saturday by the nation's new tax-collecting chief.

T. Coleman Andrews, the Eisenhower Administration's commissioner of Internal Revenue, talked his policies in an interview and in testimony, made public Saturday, before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

Andrews said people who try to evade paying income taxes, no matter who they are, ought to be sent to jail with stiff sentences. At the same time, he said, there ought to be legislation under which wage and salary earners making less than $10,000 a year would file no detailed returns.

Such people, he said, simply would certify as correct the form under which their income taxes were withheld from their pay envelopes during the year. Andrews estimated it would take two years to put such a program into effect.

They were named in a notebook produced by a recent repatriated West Virginia soldier, Cpl. Tom Mitchell. Mitchell said all 56 were in good health when he saw them last.

Mitchell, 22, was in the first group of prisoners exchanged. The prisoners listed occupied three camps in North Korea, Nos. 3, 4 and 5. Mitchell said he was in two of these camps during his captivity.

Florida Bags Red Plane No. 13

SEOUL —(AP)— Capt. Manuel J. Fernandez, Jr., of Miami, Fla., Sunday became the world's foremost jet ace, shooting down his thirteenth Red MIG plane.

Captain Fernandez, who flew the first pictures of the returned United Nations prisoners of war from Korea to Japan, has been an ace since February 18, when he downed his fifth and sixth MIG's on the same day to become the twenty-sixth jet ace in the Fifth Air Force Korean War Service.

On March 21 he scored another double kill, knocking down two more MIG's to become a "double ace."

Coral Rocks Mark Waiting Grave For Tiny Swim Star

TARPOON SPRINGS, FLA. —(AP)—Two small coral rocks just far enough apart for a child's coffin marked out a place in lonely Anclote Cemetery Saturday for the bruised body of tiny Kathy Tongay, five-year-old aquatut who died in Miami.

Tongay was free in $5,000 bond after surrendering to Miami police Friday on a warrant charging second degree murder. He denied he had ever beaten Kathy and insisted she was injured while diving from a 33-foot springboard. She died in convulsions Wednesday.

and there was still no word as to when funeral services would be held.

Mrs. Helen Hennig, publisher of the Tarpon Springs Leader, went to Anclote Cemetery and saw the two coral rocks beside the grave of Russell Jr., who died in 1948 of a head injury when only 18 months old.

Two Tarpon Springs florists in this picturesque Gulf Coast town reported they were swamped with orders for funeral flowers from all over the United States.

The Vinson Funeral Home, in charge of arrangements, said they had been instructed not to open Kathy's coffin but had received no word about funeral plans.

Mrs. Tongay said in Miami Friday that they were driving to Tarpon Springs "to bury Kathy. We need to be alone to sit and think this thing out. We may be there for some time. My mother is very ill."

She made the statement shortly before her husband was booked on the second degree murder charge. A hearing has now been set for 1 p.m. CST, June 18 before Peace Justice Edwin Lee Mason.

Phils Keep Bums Half-Game Away

BROOKLYN —(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies dropped out of the National League lead Saturday afternoon and then jumped back in front again Saturday night as they defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-4, with Curt Simmons chalking up his fifth victory against one defeat. The Dodgers beat the Phils and Robin Roberts, 7-6, in the matinee on Roy Campanella's two-run ninth inning homer.

The split allowed the Phils to retain their half-game lead over the Dodgers. And Saturday night's triumph was the fourth for Philadelphia in five clashes with the defending league champions this season. They wind up their current series Sunday.

Campanella, after hitting the dramatic blow of the afternoon contest, did his best to give the Dodgers a sweep. He hit a second inning homer to tie the score after the Phils had jumped away in front with Johnny Wyrostek driving in a run with the 1,000th hit of his career.

Card Left-Hander Subdues Redlegs

CINCINNATI —(AP)—Harvey Haddix missed pitching a shutout by an eyelash Saturday as he hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-2, two-hit triumph over the sagging Cincinnati Redlegs.

The little left-hander's own wildness and an error by Ray Jablonski cost him a shutout. The Reds scored both of their runs in the fifth inning on Roy McMillan's single, a walk, hit batsman and Jablonski's error. McMillan's blow was the Redlegs' only solid hit of the game. Gus Bell bunted for the other safety in the ninth.

Four Runs Spell Victory For Ponies

Four runs would get you a victory in the Pony League games Saturday—and one-hit pitching would insure it.

John McNeil, occasionally wild as he walked six, earned one of two four-run victories, a 4-0 triumph by the Elkins over American Traders, with a one-hit pitching job. He fanned six. Only Preston Bridgewater, who singled in the sixth, could touch his offerings.

The Travelers nipped the Optimists, 4-2, in the other game when winning pitcher Dennis Patton and Larry Cooper both collected two hits each as the stars.

Cubs Clip Braves To End Bad Streak

MILWAUKEE —(AP)—Bullet Bob Rush ended the Chicago Cubs eight game losing streak by blanking the Milwaukee Braves, 2-0, Saturday before a crowd of 20,908. It was Rush who had hurled his team's last victory, a 5-3 decision over Pittsburgh.

The hard throwing right-hander allowed only three hits as he won his third game.

Snead Keeps Hogan Astern In Greenbrier On Neat 66

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA. —(AP)—Sam Snead stepped up the tempo of his snafu golf shooting Saturday with a 66 to widen his lead over Ben Hogan to three strokes with one more round remaining in the 72-hole Greenbrier Open.

Snead, in quest of his third straight championship in the tourney, compiled a 200-stroke total for 54 holes to be 10 ahead of the par-70 Old White course which he called home.

Hogan who had stayed within one stroke of the home pro for the first two rounds, shot a 68 for the second straight day. The winner of the only two tournaments in which he has played this year had to struggle on the second nine to stay even that close.

The determined bantamweight was one stroke behind par on the first nine holes. Hogan than birdied three of the second nine.

Al Smith of Danville, Va., who seldom roams far afield for tournaments, hurtled up to a leading spot with a third-round 65, the lowest so far. His 205 total was even with Pete Cooper of White Plains, N. Y., who has been stalking the leaders from the start and carded 69 for the second straight day.

Clayton Heafner, puddy shotmaker from Charlotte, N. C., joined Smith and Cooper in the third place spot by equalling Snead's 66 score.

The leading third-round scorers: Sam Snead, 134-66-203.

Good Thing Brain Test Not Needed

HOUSTON —(AP)—The prospective bride and bridegroom complied with the letter of the law in taking out their marriage license late Friday, perhaps a bit too closely.

The state law requires blood tests be taken, but only written proof must be presented to the county clerk.

As the couple walked up to deputy county clerk H. E. Kelly, they handed him two envelopes.

"I could feel something inside that certainly wasn't the application blanks," he said.

He was right. Inside was two vials of the couple's blood that a doctor had drained for the necessary test.

Kelly, somewhat shaken, sent the couple back to the doctor's office to leave the blood and bring the certificate.

Led Astray By The Dog?

ROANOKE, VA. —(AP)— Police wanted to train a new bloodhound to track down fugitives.

They released a pair of trusted convicts from a Western Virginia prison camp with the stipulation they go to a certain destination and see if the dog could scent them out.

The dog tracked the men down in fine style and the convicts kidnaped the animal and took flight.

All three, convicts and bloodhound, were picked up later near Roanoke.

Permian Basin Firemen Elect Monahans' Wilson President

KERMIT — Jack Wilson of Monahans was elevated from first vice president to the presidency of the Permian Basin District Firemen's Association at its Spring convention here Saturday, and Fort Stockton firemen won the meeting's three competitive events.

Walter Garnett of Marfa was named first vice president; John King of Denver City second vice president, and W. T. Marlowe of Monahans rejected secretary-treasurer. The association will hold its Fall meeting at Monahans in October.

As host city Kermit set the pattern in hose and pumper races but was ineligible to participate. In setting the pattern Kermit beat the time of the winning Fort Stockton team in one event.

Fort Stockton won the six-man pumper race in 21.6 seconds after Kermit's 21.5. Denver City was second and Crane third.

Fort Stockton won the two-man hose race in 9.9 seconds with Alpine second and Crane third, and the Fort Stockton six-man hose team won first in 14.3 seconds. Denver City and McCamey followed.

The firemen conducted a business session, the races, a barbecue and dance during the one-day event. The scheduled speaker, Frank Williams of the state firemen's pension commission, was unable to attend.

Participating cities were Alpine, Braunfels, Crane, Denver City, Fort Stockton, Grandfalls, Kermit, Lamessa, Marfa, Midland, McCamey, Odessa, Monahans, Plains, Seagraves, Wink, Pecos and Ptole along with Bunick, Jal and Hobbs, N. M.

Twenty-one persons from Midland attended.

Mess Of Trout, Golf Round Refresh Nation's President

The President, the first lady and her mother, Mrs. John S. Doud, arrived from Washington by special train for a quiet weekend at the campus home of his brother.

By mid-morning the President was tramping down the fairways at Centre Hills Country Club, a nine-hole course two miles out of town.

They played 15 holes with Wilmer E. Kenworthy, assistant to the college president and director of student affairs, rounding out a threesome. There was no immediate word on scores.

The Chief Executive and his brother then left for a well-stocked trout stream 14 miles west of here on the estate of Robert L. Harpster, a Phillipsburg, Pa., businessman.

Eisenhower returned from the trip about dinner time with a mess of about 20 rainbow, brook and brown trout, caught by himself, his brother, Harpster and Prof. George Harvey, nationally known fly-casting expert who teaches physical education at the college.

An aide reported the President caught from 20 to 25 trout himself, but kept only the larger ones.

Grunning broadly, Eisenhower held up three trout—none less than about 15 inches—for news photographers. They he spotted several times in the crowd of about 200 students who crowded around to see his catch.

"We better let the amateurs have a chance," he laughed, walking over to where they stood and holding the fish aloft. The amateurs were delighted.

Plans Call For New Runway Surfaces At Airpark Here

Midland's Airpark, buzzing center of Air Force activity as an auxiliary training field, is going to get new surfaces for its runways, too.

Last week city officials disclosed that bids will be taken in the near future for resurfacing the runways at Midland Air Terminal.

The plans also call for the construction of an addition taxiway, leading direct from the Administration Building to the main North-South runway.

City Aviation Director Clyde Sharrer said Saturday plans now are being drawn up for a similar project at Airpark, located north of the city.

Officials form the Webb Air Force Base of Big Spring, which uses Airpark as an auxiliary field, inspected the runways last week along with Sharrer, Public Works director J. M. Orman and CAA officials.

Plans now are being drawn up for the resurfacing project there.

The Air Force, under its contract with the city, will pay its proportionate share of the cost, based on the ratio of its use to the total use of the field.

Three Planes Collide

BRUSSELS —(AP)— Three Meteor jet planes flying in formation collided Saturday and all three Belgian pilots died.

Seabee From Alpine Visits In Midland

Jess R. Wyatt of Alpine, who has served more than two years with the Seabees, visited friends in Midland over the weekend. He will report May 22 to Memphis, Tenn., for shore duty after serving on Guam for 18 months.

Street Bids—

The storm sewer is expected to alleviate flooded conditions in the Progress Park areas when it rains.

Completion In 90 Days

The cost of the curb and gutter from Louisiana to George Streets will be assessed against the property owners while the city will pay the cost of moving back the curb and gutter on the portion between Texas and Louisiana Streets.

Dougherty said the widening project, after the contract is let by the State Highway Department, probably will require about 90 days. Work will be scheduled so there will be a minimum of interference and detours for normal traffic.

The widening of the portion from Texas to George Streets marks the first phase of a general improvement program which includes the construction of an underpass at the T&P Railroad tracks and the widening of the approaches from Wall Street to Florida Street.

raise, opposed the suggestions.

"This isn't a compromise," Hughes asserted. "I don't want to compromise in the least. The $300 raise was what I wanted all along and a contingent raise is no raise at all. The 80-20 plan would be gutting the local districts."

Sen. A. M. Aikin, Jr., of Paris, author of the $600 pay boost bill, said he appreciated the effort being made.

"I have never said there couldn't be a compromise," Aikin said.

"When it is presented to me I will look at it and do everything I reasonably and consistently can to work something out. One thing I want to talk about is making the 80-20 effective two years hence."

Too Late For Taxes

Shivers said it was too late now to work out a tax bill at this session. He said if the teachers had been willing to accept less than $600 earlier in the session, there would have been time to work out a tax bill to finance it.

Speaker Reuben Senterfitt called the idea the "sensible answer." He said he thought the contingent teachers' pay raise idea was legal and that the Legislature would take it up and adjourn soon.

Shivers said he did not think the $300 pay raise could be retroactive, but could only go into effect when the gas tax suit was settled. The state Supreme Court last week upheld the tax, but appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court is in prospect.

Shivers said he met with Reps. Frank Carpenter of Sour Lake, Ben Olusing of Kingsville and Frank Crain of Victoria, who were spokesmen for legislators who tried to work out a compromise last week.

The session passes its 120th day Tuesday. Pay of members drops then from $10 to $5 a day. Both households were in recess Saturday.

Managing Editors To Hold Spring Session In Midland

The Spring meeting of the Continuing Study Committee of the Editors Association will be held in Midland next Sunday, Rod Watts of Houston, general chairman, announced Saturday.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram will be host to the more than 50 editors and managing editors who are expected to attend the session here. Reservations already have been received from newspapers from Amarillo to Houston and from Texas to El Paso.

It will be the first time the newspaper editors have met in Midland. Col. N. Dwight Allison, managing editor of the San Antonio Light, is president of the association. Watts is managing editor of The Houston Chronicle.

Frank King, general editor of The Associated Press, Dallas, and other staff members of the Texas AP bureau will be in Midland for the one-day session.

The business sessions will be held in Hotel Scharbauer, where a luncheon for the group also is scheduled.

Chairmen and members of the various subcommittees of the Continuing Study Committee will attend the conference to submit reports and to participate in the general discussion periods.

SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

You have to dig a long way to find something left out of "The Story of Minor League Baseball," which the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues has published and the Longhorn League sent out to member sportswriters.

It took a lot of digging to discover that Midland's greatest contribution to major league baseball, it says, was Eugene Moore, Jr., who played here in I-don't-know-when and went on to I-don't-know-where. The book doesn't tell. Outside of being left needing more about Moore, the book is a must for the sports bookshelf. (Does that sound book-erickickish?)

Anyway, there's a load of here you won't find between the binds of any book... did you know that Jim Prince and Eddie Jacobs, current Midland Indians, are members of the Minor League Roll of Honor? Prince for hitting the 429 in 1947, Jacobs for posting a 28-13 record as a 1951 Midland pitcher.

The book itself is mostly a compilation of past and present records of the minors, taken from league books, but the sidebars, where listed, are terrific in baseball color. For instance:

"In the Spring of 1910 the Northern Association in the Midwest blew up after only eight games, yet from that league with so short a life came five future big league stars—Charles (Casey) Stengel and Bobby Veach from Kankakee (Ill.), Fred (Fritz) Malsb and Bill Burwell from Elgin (Ill.) and Clarence (Pants) Rowland from Jacksonville (Ill.)."

No Longhorn Leaguers figured in the Most Famous Fifty events but a number of Texas baseball sons did, among them these:

Justin (Nig) Clarke, playing for Corsicana in the Texas League hit eight homers in eight time at bat—

June 13, 1902, against Texarkana in a Sunday game at Ennis. Clarke batted in 16 runners as his team won, 51-3. (As a sidelight to that, two others on the team also enjoyed an eight for eight day at the plate.)

Eugene Rye, too, became a Texan for the book when he hit three consecutive home runs in one inning, the eighth, as his Waco team played Beaumont of the Texas League Aug. 6, 1930.

Shortstop Buster Chatham, now the manager of the Waco in the Big State League, made six consecutive assists playing for Pueblo (Western League) Aug. 24, 1929, against Wichita, Kans.

Outsiders crowded into the book too.

Fred Toney, Winchester, Ky., of the Blue Grass League pitched a 17-inning no-hit game, May 10, 1909, vs. Lexington, Ky., striking out 19, and Louis (Bull) Durham, Indianapolis, pitched and won five consecutive doubleheaders in the 1947 American Association.

That's only a chapter. There is plenty more if you go for Nine Lectures for Use in Clinics, merely filler in case you use the book as a sleep inducer. The rest keeps you up and, curious, like going through the pages and finding out that Texas' own J. Walter Morris established 16 leagues, that Paris of the 1921 Texas-Oklahoma League got 16 runs in the sixth inning off Ted Blankenship, of Bonham, and neither team made another run and that Dallas' 30,000 attendance in the Cotton Bowl for a game in 1960 isn't even the record. Baltimore in 1944 attracted $2,833 paid to a Little World Series game with Louisville.

Jersey City could claim the record, the book attests, if its stadium were larger, for that city sold 65,391 tickets to its 1940 opener but Roosevelt Field only holds 40,000.

There are famous firsts listed—Harry Wright's first professional of the 1860's for instance. His team in a first tour went to both coasts and won 65 exhibition games, losing none and tying one with Troy when that team walked out in order to protect its owner's huge bet—said to

West Texas Teams Falter In State Meet

Kimsey Places Sixth In 440

By ARE WEINER
Reporter-Telegram Sports Staff
AUSTIN—West Texas was without a track champion for the first time since 1949 Saturday as the three conference favorites—Sugarland, Brenham and Sunset of Dallas—won as expected.
Sugarland and Brenham had no trouble whatsoever in picking up the Conference B and A titles, respectively. But Eddie Southern of Sunset had to run a great anchor lap on the mile relay team, pulling the Bisons into second place, enabling them to edge Robert E. Lee of Baytown, 38 to 36 3/4 points.
Odessa had won the AA title the three previous years.
But while West Texas was disappointed, the crowd of 8,500 was highly enthusiastic as they saw two of the state's best performances of all time.
Baytown's mile relay team ran a magnificent 3:22.5 and Roy Thompson's 18.6 in the mile hurdles was perfect. The Lamar hurdler finished eight yards ahead of the highly-touted Southern.
Records Established
These were but two of the 22 conference records and four overall state records set in the two days.
West Texas had one distinction. It was the only sector of the state to produce double winners. They were Kenneth Fannon of O'Donnell, J. Frank Daugherty of Olton, Don Maynard of Colorado City and Herman Johnson of DeLeon.
Midland's two performers were lost in the wake of the outstanding performers on hand for this, the greatest of all 43 annual state meets.
Robert Keisinger failed to qualify for either the high or low hurdles. Roy Kimsey, the ace quarter-mile, ran the 100 and 220 in the prelims, finishing second in a fast heat of the 220 in the prelims Friday. However, he did not run the event in the finals, saving his stamina for the 440. He failed to qualify in the 100.
Bussa Pushed
Friday, Kimsey had finished a scant two yards behind Baytown's Eddie Bussa in the 440 yard run. He was timed in 50.8 on that occasion while Bussa was clocked in 50.4.
In the finals Saturday, the blond-haired speedster ran himself out in the first 220 yards trying to best Bussa and the winner, Eddie Gray of Baytown. He tired three-quarters of the way through the event and finally lagged sixth when he saw no chance to do anything better than fourth.
In Friday's preliminaries, Daugherty of Olton—the lad who captured the West Texas Relays and Big Spring Relays 100 and 220 events—paced off the fastest high school 220 ever run in the state meet.
The other outstanding performance was the 48.9 quarter mile run by James Peters of Brenham Friday.
Wink, considered a good bet to cop the Class B crown, finished with

Marcelino Moreno Captures State Schoolboy Golf Crown

Reporter-Telegram Staff Special
AUSTIN—Midland's Marcelino Moreno, considered a second-rank contender by the experts, proved to be a first-rate competitor here Friday and Saturday as he stroked a 72-74-146 to win the state conference AA individual golf championship.
Moreno, playing cautiously, took a one-stroke lead over George Hale of Alamo Heights (San Antonio) in Friday's first round and then Saturday fought off bids by Hale and Gene Garrett of Lamar (Houston) to win by five strokes.
Low honors in the whole tournament, however, went to Richard Parvino of Pine Tree in Class B. He shot a 72-71-143, one over par.
Lamar (Houston) golfers repeated last year's performance to win top Class AA team honors.
Other championship teams were San Marcos in Class A and Pine Tree in Class B. Pine Tree has won the two previous competitions in its class.
San Marcos' Charles Waldrip moved up from runner-up place in the opener to pin down the Class A medalist championship. He shot 59-77-146.
Winning team scores were Lamar's 613, San Marcos' 632 and Pine Tree's 655.
Lamar High's team had a close shave from Amarillo's 616 performance—just three strokes behind the winner.

Bulldogs Laced, 12 To 3, In Finale

SAN ANGELO—The San Angelo Bobcats, beaten out of the District 3-AA baseball lead once by Midland in an upset, gained revenge and ended the Bulldogs' season on a 12-3 sournote Saturday.
The defeat left Midland in last place, with a record of two wins against eight losses.
Ralph Englert, a reliever in Midland's early win, proved the top star for the Bobcats as he twirled three-hit ball and became his own best friend at bat. He broke a 2-All tie

City Softball Clubs Start Triple-Bills

Midland City League softball teams Monday begin playing out a new schedule that has added 30 more games to its program but trimmed the playing season by one week.

The JayCeas, sponsoring the two loops, the American and National Leagues, turned that trick by relating the teams to play triple-headers each night instead of the regular two games.
The final night now will be marked July 8 in place of July 13, allowing more time for the sponsors to make plans for proposed play-off rounds and an invitational tournament.
The first of the tripleheaders Monday will match Humble vs. Rotary at 6:30 p.m., Rendezvous vs. Magnolia at 8 p.m. and Western Inspection vs. Phillips at 9:30 p.m. The JayCeas, setting up playing rules, announced that the leagues would follow those starting times the rest of the season.
Meanwhile, Monday also starts the third week of the season for the circuits, with each still boasting two unbeaten clubs.
Western Inspection became the first three-game winner in the National League. Rotary Engineers has won two.
Both Tide Water Associated and Gulf Oil captured their decisions in the American League.

Drillers Run Rampant At Bat

Those bull-in-a-china-shop batters of Artesia, smashing everything from fine curvings to glass arms, are etching some mighty classic figures in Longhorn League statistics.

This year's Driller team, in fact, looks equal or more powerful than the 1952 squad that rewrote the books. So far you can find only Buddy Grimes, Roswell, the hit and average leader, and Glen Burns, San Angelo, as individual pace-setters other than those of Artesia.

At that, Burns shares the home run lead, three, with Driller-Joe Fortin, Joe Bauman and Leo Mulcahy, and the total-base leadership, 31, with Mulcahy. Only Grimes as an outsider claims anything alone, his pace-setting .500 batting average on a leading 18 hits in 36 at bats.

Fortin leads the runs-batted-in department with 31. The other Artesia trophy-hunters are Jackie Wilcox with 15 runs and eight doubles and Joe Calderone with six triples.

Outside batting, Leo Eastham of Odessa heads the list in stolen from 1952—Artesia has a front-runner. Its Fidel Alvarez was one of two, the other is Carlebad's Marshall Epperson, who have won three games without setback. Epperson fanned 27 in his games to garner that leadership.

The official Midland leaders are Art Bowland, with a .475 average, Hayden White with five doubles, and 12 rbi's. Tex Stephenson with five doubles and 22 total bases, Roger Dalla Betta with 22 total bases and Scooter Hughes, two homers.

In team statistics, Roswell's 309 batting averages best second-place Midland by seven percentage points. And in fielding, Big Spring is tops with a .965 mark. Midland trails in fourth with a .953 defense.

Below are the officials leaders through games of May 4 with the exception of Big Spring-Midland, May 1, and Roswell-Carlsbad, May 4: (players hitting over .275 with 30 or more at bats):

Baker Enters ABC Tourney

Kenny Baker, the top average bowler in the Midland Petroleum League, joins a Lubbock team this week to compete in the American Bowling Congress tournament being held at Chicago.

Baker, a member of the Al Boring Drafting team in Midland, left Friday for the Chicago matches. His first games there with Lubbock are scheduled for Thursday.

The Lubbock group is an all-star team of bowlers formed by bowling alley proprietor T. I. Brown of Lubbock.

Baker, besides leading Petroleum League bowlers, holds the second high average in the Midland Major League.

TRIBE TO BEGIN GAMES AT 8:15 FROM NOW ON

The Midland Indians return home Sunday to a new starting time for their night games. Manager Jay Haney has announced.

Instead of the 7 p.m. starting time, the Indians will begin playing at 8:15 p.m., Haney said.

The new starting time was established because the days are getting longer, and often it is still twilight when the clubs take the field for the opening inning.

Steve Bilko, first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, is a member of the Honey Pot Volunteer Hose Company in his native Nanticoke, Pa.

Alpine Nine Seeks Clincher Tuesday In Tilt With Pecos

PECOS — District 5-A baseball teams play out their schedules this week but if Alpine wins Tuesday the rest will be just for the practice.

Pecos, in second place with a 6-2 mark, goes to Alpine and must win to catch up with the front-running mountaineer group (7-1). Otherwise, the two teams' fangles with Wink in make-up games, won't matter about settling the championship.

Pecos Friday night maintained its hope with an 11-6 triumph over Sanderson. Nick Highnojos spun a nine-hitter in winning.

Catcher Walter Mueller slapped a two-on homer to spark Pecos' six-run first inning. Although the Eagles led throughout, the victory was in doubt until a four-run outburst in the sixth wrapped it up.

Until then, Sanderson, making the most of six Pecos errors, had pulled within a 7-6 deficit.

Highnojos fanned nine while his mates got nine hits off loser Juan Olivares, who struck out six.

In other games, Fort Stockton won its second district decision, 10-6, when Kermit committed eight errors, and Alpine at Wink was postponed.

Notre Dame's final football game of the 1953 season will be at home against Southern Methodist.

Tulsa Batter Snares Lead In TL Hitting

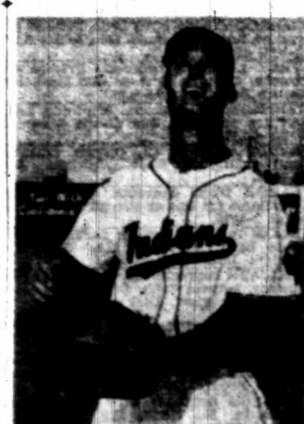

DALLAS—P—Texas League averages show 16 pitchers Saturday with perfect records and 21 boasting a 500 average or better.

Twenty batters are hitting .300 or better, paced by George Larchen of Tulsa, with .418.

Dimitrios Bakes of Fort Worth tops in home runs with seven. J. P. Jones of Shreveport has the most triples, four. Joe Fraser, Oklahoma City, the most doubles, 10, and Al Chiocki of San Antonio has the most hits, 33, and driven in the most runs, 22.

Wayne McLeand of Dallas, Harry Wilson of San Antonio, and Don Fracchia of Beaumont pace the pitchers with four victories against no defeats.

Octavio Rubert of Houston has the most strikeouts, 27.

TIMELIEST — Hayden White, Midland outfielder, ranks among the leading runs-batted-in leaders of the Longhorn League, with 12. None of the Indians, however, held top places in the most recent league statistics.

Rocky Rated 3-1 Over Jersey Joe

CHICAGO—P—Unbeaten Rocky Marciano, the shoemaker's son with the sledge-hammer punch, defends his heavyweight title for the first time against the man he blasted to the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

The 15-round match, postponed from April 10 because of injury to Marciano's nose, will be telecast nationally. The gate is a potential $637,000 gross.

It appears certain the former record indoor gate of $422,218, also set at the Stadium, will be broken.

Walcott, 39, who turned back the clock in boxing, currently is a 3 to 1 underdog in his quest to become the first man ever to recapture the game's premiere championships.

The pappy of six was giving Marciano, 28, a good whacking through 12 rounds of one of the most thrilling heavyweight bouts in years at Philadelphia September 23.

But suddenly the sturdy-legged Italian from Brockton, Mass., rocketed a paralyzing right to the jaw which sagged Walcott into oblivion against the ropes in the thirteenth.

Kermit Pair Loses Second Round Match

AUSTIN — West Texas tennis entries were ousted in the first round of state competition here: Friday with one exception.

Dick Spiers and Bobby Almond of Kermit won their first match in boys' doubles over Harris and Thompson of Center, 10-8, 3-6, 6-4, but lost in Saturday's second round to Terry Strove and J. C. Niemeyer of LaOrange in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

Pecos Maxine McMilland bowed out of the girls' singles right off the bat. Her conqueror was Nancy Mitchell of Terrell by 6-0, 6-1.

In class AA, Odessa's Luquita McNeel and Peggy Freeman were beaten in the girls' doubles by Beatrice Clapp and Valerie Barnes of Miller (Corpus Christi) 6-3, 6-4.

James Schmidt, Ball High (Galveston), for the second time in a row won the Class AA boys' singles tennis title. He beat John Rosenquist, Austin, 7-6, 6-0, 6-3, in the finals.

Area's Top Women Golfers To Figure In MCC Tournament

The women who dominate West Texas golfing — and possibly one who figures among the best in the country — are entering the Annual Women's Invitational tournament of Midland Country Club and promise to make it a tourney of champions.

Pat Garner, Midland's Princess Pat who reached the semi-finals of the Trans-Mississippi recently, at present here or follow up on an entry in the Women's Southern Championships at Chattanooga. That tourney begins May 18, not leaving any practice time there in case she plays here.

Midland's Invitational, to be played over the par-76 town course of the country club, runs Wednesday through Sunday, May 17.

Beside Pat, the rest of the possible Midland field is composed of titlists hereabouts: Gloria Ezell of Midland, the recent San Angelo Invitational winner, will be on hand to defend the championship she won last year.

Mrs. Roger Cummings also has received the entries of Mrs. Trilla Webster of San Angelo, Nell Moody of Sherman, Lois Hodges and Billy Dillon of Big Spring, Cecil O'Neil and Vera Gilmore of Odessa, Mrs. Andrew Brown and Mrs. Kathryn Hodges of Houston, all winners in principal Texas tournaments.

Mrs. Cummings said the MCC Women's Golf Association is expecting San Angelo's ace woman golfer,

Indians Fall, 11-10, Friday In 11 Frames

By The Associated Press

The Midland Indians, smothered out of the top spots in the Longhorn League by Artesia's ringing bats, return home at 3 p.m. Sunday after their Saturday game was called off by the Driller's Park.

Roswell is the Indian's Sunday foe.

Midland drew its first free breath in Artesia only when blowing winds and sand forced postponement of the two team's third game of a series.

The only Longhorn League game that got underway Saturday saw Carlsbad secure 10-0 post in first place with a 14-9 win over Odessa.

In Sunday's game at Midland, Manager Jay Haney probably will name Romarico Solo or newcomer Earl Winn as the starting hurler.

Even Midland's biggest night at bat could get the Indians no further than into extra innings with Artesia Friday night.

Artesia struck first, a season high, but Artesia netted 17—and the difference was Joe Fortin's lone single of five hits that drove in the winning run in the eleventh inning.

Fortin also collected four doubles as he batted in six runs to pace Artesia.

Roger Dalia Betta, Scooter Hughes and Julio de la Torre all collected three hits each for Midland.

Ralph Blair, following Eddie Jacome, who failed in his third straight start and Don Daley to the mound, suffered the loss.

In other Longhorn League games Friday Gil Guerra stopped Lamesa on four hits as San Angelo won, 4-0. Big Spring whipped Roswell, 16-8, and Carlsbad nipped Odessa, 9-7.

Oilers Drop To Carlsbad

CARLSBAD N. M. — Pecos Oilers' pitchers unloaded their big hits on Odessa here Saturday night with an 18-asmash attack that produced a 14-9 Longhorn League victory.

Three home runs accounted for six of Carlsbad's runs and provided the spark for a pair of big innings.

Odessa rapped Gene Wulf for 12 hits, but the Potashier hurler kept them scattered so that the Oilers came in clusters of two.

This was a creditable effort over the rugged 6,483-yard Dornick Hills course as some of the nation's finest players succumbed to the elements and toughness of this hilly par 70 layout.

Yanks Blast Five Boston Pitchers For 6-4 Verdict

BOSTON — The New York Yankees regained their mastery over the Red Sox Saturday by unleashing a 10-hit attack against five Boston pitchers for a 6-4 victory. The most potent of the Yankee blows was Mickey Mantle's fifth homer of the season, which was

The Yankees suffered their first loss in 13 games to the Red Sox Friday night when Billy Goodman homered in the eleventh for a 2-1 victory.

The Yanks got off to a running start by scoring three runs against Lefty Maury McDermott before he was replaced by Bill Werle with only one out in the first inning.

Phil Rizzuto opened the game with a one-base drive against the left field wall. Yogi Berra then was hit by a pitch and McDermott loaded the bases by passing Gil McDougald.

To Bill Kennedy.

Ewell Blackwell, the Yankee starter, drew credit for the victory, but he was followed by Tom Gorman and Bob Kuzava.

The score:

NEW YORK 030 000 200—6 10 3
BOSTON 000 000 200—4 5 1

Blackwell, Gorman, Kuzava and Berra, Silvers, McDermott, Werle, Freeman, Kennedy, Kinder and Scheib and Murray.

Nats Hand Slipping A's Another Setback

PHILADELPHIA — The Washington Senators handed the slumping Philadelphia Athletics their fourth straight defeat, 6-0, Saturday behind the two-hit pitching of veteran Walt Masterson.

The Senators took off on one of the Athletics ace left-handers, Alex Kellner, after knocking off the other half of Philadelphia's one-two mound punch, Little Bobby Shantz, 10-7, Friday night.

The score:

WASHINGTON 030 000 201—6 11 0
PHILADELPHIA 000 000 000—0 2 1

Masterson and Grasso; Kellner, Scheib and Murray.

Ponies Club Frogs, Clinch Share Of Conference Title

DALLAS — SMU, after 30 years of trying, clinched at least a tie for its first Southwest Conference baseball championship Saturday by drubbing TCU, 9-0.

The Mustangs will win the title either if second-place Texas loses either of its games Thursday and Friday at College Station against the Aggies.

Even if the Methodists, who wound up their regular campaign with a 12-3 record, and Texas, finish the season in a tie, SMU may be chosen to represent the conference in post-season play.

Coch. Bibb Falk of the Longhorns said he believed SMU, with a superior pitching staff, would be a better representative of the circuit in the NCAA tournament than his own club. Coach Alex Hooks of SMU Saturday said Falk had informed him that in case of a tie for the championship that he would recommend to D. X. Bible, Texas athletic director, that the Mustangs be allowed to carry the conference banner in any post-season play.

White Sox Clobber Lowly Tigers, 12-3

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox enjoyed a field day Saturday, scoring 10 runs in the fourth inning enroute to a 12-3 triumph over the tail-end Detroit Tigers.

The 10 runs were the most scored in one inning so far in the American League season.

Right-handers Art Houtteman and Hal Erickson were the victims of the Chicago outburst in which 14 Sox went to bat. Seven hits, three walks and an error by Owen Friend did the damage.

The score:

CHICAGO 000 000 120—12 3 7
DETROIT 000 010 020—12 15 0

Houtteman, Erickson and Batts; Fornieles and Lollar.

Indians Edge Browns In Overtime Contest

ST. LOUIS — The Cleveland Indians, twice tied but not to be denied, pushed across the winning run in the tenth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock and take a 3-2 decision from the St. Louis Browns Saturday night.

The score:

CLEVELAND 000 010 000—3 13 1
ST. LOUIS 000 010 001—2 10 0

Garcia, Aber, Hooper and Tipton; Hegans; Blyskal, Paige, Cain and Courtney, Moss.

Baylor's Bill Athey Signs With Baltimore

BALTIMORE — Bill Athey, 215-pound defensive guard from Baylor, has signed his contract, the Baltimore Colts said Saturday.

Athey was rated a top performer in the Southwest Conference last season.

Wildcat Sites Are Set In Lea Area

Nugent Heads Group To Arrange For SEG Meet In November

Appointment of R. M. Nugent of Midland, with Magnolia Petroleum Company, as general chairman for the seventh annual Midwestern Meeting of the Society of Exploration Geologists was announced Saturday by G. A. Grimm, Tulsa Water Associated Oil Company, of Midland, president of the Permian Basin Geophysical Society.

Co-chairman is L. H. Johnson, Honolulu Oil Corporation, Midland, Texas. In announcing these appointments Grimm said plans are now well under way for the two-day meeting of oil exploration scientists at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, Texas, on November 12 and 13.

This meeting, which is expected to attract more than 1,000 earth scientists from Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana and Oklahoma, is sponsored jointly by the Dallas, Shreveport, Fort Worth, Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Midland sections of the SEG.

Other Chairmen
The Permian Basin Geophysical Society, Midland section of the SEG, and the Dallas Geophysical Society are the host groups for this year's meeting, Grimm said, with members of the Midland section in charge of all arrangements.

Members of the Midland society have been appointed by Grimm to serve as chairman for the convention committees. They are Victor Brychok, The Atlantic Refining Company, Houston; L. Decker Dawson, Jr., Dawson Geophysical Company, finance; W. L. Homan, Republic Exploration Company, entertainment; H. L. Swords, Union Oil Company of California, program; Frank Springs, Honolulu Oil Corporation, registration; Paul C. Reed, Forest Oil Corporation, arrangements; and Joseph S. Pinta, Standard Oil Company of Texas, program publication. These committees will be made up of members of the other five sponsoring societies.

Gulf Abandons Nevada Wildcat
Gulf Refining Co. is abandoning its wildcat in the Dolly Varden area of Elka County, Nevada. The company decided to call it quits after drilling to 3,158 feet. Location is in section 36-30n-64e.

This is the fourth Nevada wildcat to be abandoned by major companies in the last five years.

Large Attendance Expected For PBGS Meeting May 16
More than 500 persons are expected to attend the second annual day-long meeting of the Permian Basin Geophysical Society in Midland May 16 in Hotel Scharbauer.

The presidents of the national oil organizations will be presented as speakers.

John Emery Adams of Standard Oil Company of Texas and president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists will talk on "Stratigraphy of West Texas Basins" at 9:35 a.m.

Roy L. Lay of the Texas Company, Houston, president of the Society of Exploration Geologists, will talk at 2 p.m. His subject will be "Let's Get Acquainted With SEG."

G. A. Grimm, president of Permian Basin Geophysical Society, and L. D. Dawson, Jr., of Dawson Geophysical Company, Midland, first vice president of the society, will preside at the morning session of the meeting.

Lester H. Johnson of Honolulu Oil Corporation and R. M. Nugent of Magnolia Petroleum Company, will preside at the afternoon session.

The meeting will get underway at 9:30 a.m. with a welcoming address by Grimm.

Freeman Still Drilling
Freeman is still making hole. The doctor who treated him and told him he wouldn't be around much longer, is now dead.

Freeman has had many other troubles keeping the operation going. The only major difficulty, though, was the loss of his first cable tool unit which was racked by fire.

One of his main headaches has been keeping his full crew of three working. He made the fourth member of the gang before his car accident, and now lets the others do the manual labor while he acts as a "straw" boss.

Since spudding date he has had at least 20 hands working for him. At the present time he has W. C. Powell, driller, and C. J. Krupella, tool dresser, working for him. Powell has stuck it out since spudding day.

Freeman, who has two children; a boy and girl, enjoys living at the rig site. Both his offspring are married, and as he put it, "are now on their own."

Although his wildcat location is about as far away from civilization as it is possible to get in Texas, Freeman is never bothered by loneliness.

North America's Largest Line Is To Be Dedicated Tuesday

The largest crude oil pipe line in North America, a 26-inch arterial giant 466.5 miles long and capable ultimately of transporting 440,000 barrels of Permian Basin crude daily, will be dedicated Tuesday by West Texas Gulf Pipe Line Company with ceremonies at their Colorado City pumping station, starting point of the line.

General Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, oil and gas regulatory body for the state, and L. S. Westcott, president of Pure Oil Company and chairman of the board of the American Petroleum Institute, will speak.

Industry leaders from throughout the country, national and state officials, business and civic leaders from Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, and press, radio, and television representatives will be on hand and will be given an opportunity to look over the huge manifolds and the automatic controls with which the flow of crude is regulated in this newest and largest of the nation's underground transportation facilities.

Five companies, Gulf Refining Company, Sun Pipe Line Company, Cities Service Oil Company, Standard Oil Company (Ohio), and Pure Oil Company, joined forces to build the line, augmenting their present crude transport facilities from West Texas.

J. H. Russell is president of West Texas Gulf. Other officers include David Proctor, vice president; W. L. Taylor, vice president and controller; J. L. Irvin, vice president; P. O. Settle, secretary; and H. R. Moorhead, Jr., treasurer.

Russell will serve as master of ceremonies at the dedication. This one big steel tube, with its 20-inch, 112-mile spur extending from Wortham to Longview, will carry more oil than could be moved in 10 eight-inch lines, the "big inch" for pipe lines less than a generation ago.

This new "biggest inch" for crude oil pipe lines starts about 12 miles north of Colorado City on the eastern edge of the Permian Basin, 100,000 square miles of sun-baked acreage under which there are almost seven billion barrels of proven oil reserves. Ten feeder lines bring the oil into the Colorado City pumping station. Largest of these is the 24-inch Mesa Pipe Line from the

Flowing Discovery From Abo Found In SE Lea Sector

Flowing discovery from the Abo-Permian has been uncovered in Southeast Lea County, New Mexico, at Southern Union Gas Company No. 1 Parcell-Federal.

Oil flowed on a drillstem test from 7,313 to 7,149 feet. Tool was open six hours.

Gas surfaced in 11 minutes, mud in 80 and oil in 81 minutes. It was flowed to pits for two hours and 39 minutes and then turned to tanks.

It flowed one hour to tanks through a one-half-inch choke and made 16 barrels of 35-gravity oil and then made five and one-half barrels of oil through a one-quarter-inch choke in one hour.

Shut-in pressure 460 pounds. Shut-in pressure was 1,290-1 and in pressure was 2,110 pound after 30 minutes. Abo top was called at 7,095 feet, minus datum of 3,594 feet.

More hole was to be made with core bit. Closest other Abo production is in the Wantz field to the West.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 19-21s-38e and three and one-half miles northeast of the town of Eunice.

Two Ellenburger Wildcats Are Set For Nolan Areas

Two wildcats have been staked for immediate drilling in Nolan County.

Rowan & Hope of San Antonio will drill No. 1 Ethel Boyd, et al in the northeast part of the county.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 42, block 20, T&P survey and seven and one-half miles east of Sweetwater.

Rotary tools will be used to drill to 6,300 feet to test the Ellenburger. No. 1 Boyd is one mile southeast of a 6,281-foot Ellenburger failure and four miles west of the White Flat multipay field which has production from the Ellenburger.

The other new Nolan County wildcat is General Crude Oil Company of Abilene No. 1 E. C. Bennett. It is in the central-east part of the county.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 283, block 64, H&T survey and two miles (Continued On Page Four)

Lloyd Slated To Talk For WTGS Meet

A discussion of reefs and basins by E. Russell Lloyd, Midland consulting geologist, who was one of the first geologists to recognize that reefs control much of the oil in the Permian Basin, will highlight the next program of the West Texas Geological Society.

The meeting will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of San Jacinto Junior High School.

Lloyd will call attention to the fact that basins may be classified according to the relative amounts of fresh and salt water which are supplied to them.

He will discuss a classification of the various types of reefs, both ancient and modern. Permian correlations in West Texas and New Mexico based on the basin and reef concept will be reviewed.

Lloyd, a Rhodes Scholar, honorary member of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and Fellow of the Geological Society of America, began his professional career with the U. S. Geological Survey.

After working for various oil companies in the Rocky Mountain and West Texas area, Lloyd started consulting work in Midland. He is associated with the firm of Lloyd, Penn and Hills.

Kubic Of El Capitan Is Transferred To Rocky Mountain Area

W. S. "Bill" Kubic, Scout for El Capitan Oil Company, has been transferred to Denver, Colorado, effective May 10.

Kubic will work out of El Capitan's Rocky Mountain Area headquarters in the Denver National Bank Building. Buck Wilson is the Rocky Mountain Area Manager.

Kubic has been associated with El Capitan and its parent company, The Western Company, for eight years. Both concerns maintain general headquarters in Midland.

Texaco Plugs Back For Completion In W-C Upton

The Texas Company has plugged back with cement to 11,900 feet in No. 1 Graf, indicated multipay discovery in West-Central Upton County, and was to set and cement oil string at that point.

Operator will test the Fusselman zone through perforations. The prospector was drilled to total depth of 12,645 feet in the Ellenburger where it made water.

Other than the Fusselman, No. 1 Graf indicated production on drillstem tests taken in the Wolfcamp and Strawn.

The project flowed oil from the Strawn and gas-distillate production was indicated in the Fusselman.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 102, block D, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Prolific Oiler In Lea Area

Gulf Oil Corporation has completed a prolific flowing producer at the east side of the Gladiola (multipay) field of Northeast Lea County.

The project was completed from the Devonian for a calculated 24-hour flowing potential of 3,276 barrels of 45-gravity oil through a one-inch choke. Completion was natural.

Gas-oil ratio was 203-1 and tubing pressure 200 pounds.

The new well is No. 2-AV Lea-State, 1,980 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of section 19-12s-38e.

It is one location east of Devonian production in the field.

The Devonian was topped at 11,886 feet, elevation 3,883 feet.

The potential test was based on a four hour flow of 546 barrels of oil.

Production is from open hole section at 11,885-11,955 feet.

Phillips To Build New Pipe Line To Serve NE Andrews Area

Phillips Pipe Line Company, wholly owned subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum Company, will begin construction immediately of a gathering system and main line to transport crude oil from the northeast area of Andrews County, the scene of extensive development activity.

The new facilities will include 18 miles of gathering lines and 26 miles of eight-inch main line, through which the crude oil will be transported to Andrews station on the company's trunk line system which carries West Texas oil to Borger and to the Phillips Oklahoma-Kansas pipe line system. The company announced that all materials for the construction already are available.

The main line will originate in the center of an extensive block of leases owned by Phillips Petroleum Company in the area. In addition to the immediate Northeast Andrews County area, the facilities can serve new pools developed along the route of the main line.

Completions Climb To 251 During Week

AUSTIN—(AP)—Oil well completions climbed again last week to 251, nine more than the previous week.

The Railroad Commission reported 3,729 oil wells completed this year compared with 4,058 a year ago.

There were 24 gas well completions, down 14. Wildcaters brought in 13 oil wells, nine gasers and 77 dry holes. The total average daily oil allowable rose to 2,592,602 barrels, up 12,968 from a week previously.

Other than the Fusselman, No. 1 Graf indicated production on drillstem tests taken in the Wolfcamp and Strawn.

The project flowed oil from the Strawn and gas-distillate production was indicated in the Fusselman.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 102, block D, CCSD&RGNG survey.

When asked what he intended doing when the well is completed, he had a ready answer.

"It all depends on how it is finished. If its dry-well I'll just find a place to start another project. If its an oiler, and don't ever believe it won't be, I think I will retire."

So far, the only shows found in the hole were in a sand section at 10,000 feet.

Joe Simms asked Freeman why he didn't give up the cable tool equipment and continue drilling to his proposed depth of 10,000 feet with rotary equipment.

"I started this operation without contributions of any kind tool unit, and with the cable tool unit. I would like to finish it that way. Besides cable tools is the best and (Continued On Page Seven)

Seven Years Is Long Time But Freeman Still Drilling

By JOE SALMON
Reporter-Telegram Staff Writer
How deep are you?

Below 8,140 feet in lime and shale. The question and answer are repeated in the exploration end of the oil industry countless times every day in a routine manner.

Doesn't mean much to those unfamiliar with oil industry jargon—in fact, doesn't mean a whole lot to most oil men, other than another of the countless oil projects throughout West Texas and the world which is making hole on schedule.

To one oilman, though, it has a different meaning. To aging R. E. Freeman, who calls Tulsa, Okla., his home, that 8,140 feet means seven years of hard work and the dwindling away of mineral rights under 15,000 acres of land in Terrell County.

Early in 1925, Freeman was on a "lease-hounding" tour through West Texas. A stop over in San Angelo for a talk with a geologist friend started him on one of the most unusual exploration programs in the history of oil.

On August 2, 1945, Freeman spudded his No. 1 Barksdale five miles west of the town of Dryden (population, 50 people), in South-Central Terrell County.

For 20 years prior to that day he persistently had been buying acreage in the area, which his San Angelo informant had recommended as having good possibilities of holding an oil patch.

In the present age of highly mechanized drilling with the most advanced rotary equipment possible, a hole in the ground 8,140 feet deep wouldn't cause an eyeing with a decided limp, he is still making hole. The doctor who treated him and told him he wouldn't be around much longer, is now dead.

Freeman has had many other troubles keeping the operation going. The only major difficulty, though, was the loss of his first cable tool unit which was racked by fire.

One of his main headaches has been keeping his full crew of three working. He made the fourth member of the gang before his car accident, and now lets the others do the manual labor while he acts as a "straw" boss.

Since spudding date he has had at least 20 hands working for him. At the present time he has W. C. Powell, driller, and C. J. Krupella, tool dresser, working for him. Powell has stuck it out since spudding day.

Freeman, who has two children; a boy and girl, enjoys living at the rig site. Both his offspring are married, and as he put it, "are now on their own."

'BIGGEST INCH' LINE—Pictured above is the rough of West Texas Gulf Pipe Line, largest crude pipe line in North America. Built to transport crude oil produced in the Permian Basin area of West Texas and New Mexico, the line stretches more than 466 miles across the state to Nederland, with a 112-mile spur branching off to Longview. It would take 10 eight-inch lines to move the 440,000 barrels daily that this giant tube can ultimately carry—a load equal to that of 20 trains of 100 tank cars each. Dedication ceremonies will be held at the line's starting point north of Colorado City on Tuesday.

North America's Largest Line To Be Dedicated—

Twenty trains of 100 tank cars each would be required to move the 440,000 barrels of oil this 26-inch line will carry in one day at a speed of three and a half miles per hour, or as fast as a man can walk. All the oil produced in Texas in two days, under present allowances, would be needed just to fill the pipe line and its attendant tank farms, which have a total capacity of more than five and a half million barrels. In excavating the ditch in which the pipeline is buried, enough dirt was dug to fill a hole a foot in diameter drilled all the way through the earth. The 26-inch pipe is laid in a trench 42 inches wide and 39 inches deep. The 20-inch Wortham-to-Longview segment ditch was 43 inches wide and 44 inches deep. A thousand men worked two million man-hours through dust and mud to move the 42 million cubic feet of earth, lay the line, and cover it over.

To secure the right of way, a strip of land 50 feet wide and more than 578 miles long, land men dealt with

Pump Stations
To move the crude through the gigantic system, three principal pumping stations are now under construction at Colorado City, Ranger, and Wortham. Intermediate pumping stations are now under construction at Abilene, Blum, and Trinity, halfway points along the 26-inch segment, with another completed at Brownsville on the 20-inch section. Batteries of massive pumps in each station push the crude on its way, building up a maximum line pressure of 750 pounds per square inch, equivalent to a push of almost 200 tons against the 26-inch diameter.

Horsepower necessary to drive these pumps, in the three principal stations alone, is equal to the power generated by five of the locomotives that pull the "Twentieth Century Limited" from New York to Chicago.

Rugged Pipe
The pipe that carries this pressurized cargo is easily equal to its rugged task. Some of the 40-foot steel joints weigh almost two tons each; 127,199 tons of steel pipe were welded together to form the line. And it took almost a ton of welding rods, pencil-thin, arm-long strips of steel, to weld each mile of pipe. Some 13,000 more tons of steel were used in building the tanks that serve the system. Each type of crude handled by the line has its own tankage, a total of 3,789,800 barrels. Operational control of this sprawling network is deceptively simple. In each station a man sits at a desk and pushes buttons. But behind this button-pushing job are years of scientific research to develop the complexity of electronic miracles that make the controls possible.

Push-Button Job
In each station, the operator sits at a console desk in a bay-window overlooking the pump room. He keeps his eyes on the maze of interesting lines and indicating lights on his control panel and knows at a glance what is going on in every part of the station and his immediate section of the main line. Then by pushing the appropriate button, he controls the action of the multitude of motors, pumps and valves which direct the movement of the oil through the station or to the storage tanks.

The operator and other personnel at each station are in constant contact with the chief dispatcher in Houston by means of private leased telephone lines. Thus, the Houston

Gulf Sill Testing Indicated San Andres Opener In Andrews

Gulf Oil Corporation was flowing to test its No. 1-AR State, indicated discovery from the San Andres in the "Triple T" (Ellenburger) field of South-Central Andrews County.
Last 24 hours of flowing developed 253 barrels of oil and 37 barrels of basic sediment and water.
Production is coming from pay at 5,470-5,550 feet.
Location is 2,346 feet from south and 3,310 feet from east lines of section 21, block 9, University Lands survey.

Magnolia Offset In NW Lynn Is Flowing To Cleanout, Final

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 J. A. Timmons, south offset to Hassie Hunt Trust Estate and Dan Auld No. 1 Timmons, recently completed flowing discovery from the Pennsylvanian in Northwest Lynn County, was flowing to cleanout, test and complete.
After acidizing pay through perforations at 9,335-95 feet, operator swabbed the project two hours. Recovery was 40 barrels of lead oil and 12 barrels of acid water.
At the end of two hours of swabbing, the well kicked off and flowed 121 barrels of new oil in nine hours through a 14/64-inch choke. Tubing pressure was 480 pounds.
Hole is bottomed at 9,914 feet, plugged back to 9,980 feet.
Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 142, block 12, ELARR survey and two miles southwest of the town of Lakeview.

Mother—Queen Of The Land

Mother's Day... The day on which we pay special honor and tribute to our Mothers... The day on which we make a special effort to tell Mother of our great love and devotion for her...

Yes, Mother, this is your day... Your special day throughout the land. All love and devotion is yours.

No sacrifice is too great for Mother; no task is too immense, and no disappointment for our acts is sufficient to turn Mother against us.

We also can make Mother happy by at least trying to live the kind of life Mother would have us live—not just on Mother's Day, but on every day of the year.

These are but a few things we can and should consider as we observe Mother's Day, 1953.

Mother asks and expects very little in the way of praise, honor and recognition—and yet, we owe so very, very much to Mother.

Yes, Mother, you are the Queen of the land today... You deserve to be Queen of the land every day!

"Now Keep Your Fingers Crossed"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Policy of "trade-not-aid" tossed out window; English firm's low bid has Cabinet in quandary; Westinghouse gets second chance to bid on dam project.

WASHINGTON—The inside story—knowing how low it would have to revise its figures in order to meet the British competition, since the British figures now have been made public.

Biggest Cabinet worry, however, was over economy. It wouldn't look good to throw out a $1,600,000 saving, Cabinet members agreed, at a time when they were preaching economy and trying to balance the budget.

Under the new system, he said, "when an order is issued from the top, it will be carried out down below—just as it is in General Motors."

Secretary of State Dulles, appearing at the second day's secret briefing, told about the Administration's fiscal troubles and predicted bluntly that the budget wouldn't be balanced in fiscal 1954 or '55.

As for Korea, Dulles reported that, when he first took office, President Eisenhower told him that the first objective of American foreign policy was a Korean truce.

Those people hold more conferences than a military staff. Senator Richard B. Russell on difficulty on contacting Department of Agriculture officials.

We accomplished some good, hard, practical results which I think on one hand protected the interests of the United States and on the other built up the strength of NATO in which we were all interested.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY

I can explain the bidding of South in today's hand merely by pointing out that it took place in a mixed pair tournament. In such an event the male half of the partnership usually tries to play as many hands as possible, particularly in no-trump.

Bridge score table with columns for NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH (D), and a section for South West North East with N.T. and S.N.T. scores.

the man. I am merely reporting what takes place in most mixed pair events.

Most experts would bid a spade with the South hand instead of one no-trump. Most experts, likewise, would raise spades if they failed to bid the suit the first time.

South already played the jack of clubs from dummy at the first trick. The idea was to tempt East into covering with the queen of clubs (assuming that he held that card).

Declarer therefore entered dummy with the king of hearts and led a diamond towards his king. West won with the ace and decided that there was lots of time to work on the clubs since apparently East had enough spades to prevent that suit from becoming a threat.

West therefore led a low club instead of returning a diamond. Dummy won with the ten of clubs, and now declarer came from behind the bushes by running the rest of the spades and his top cards in the red suits.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

President Strives For Accord With Taft And The Congress

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The great surprise in the first 100 days of Republican Administration White House-congressional relations is that the widely predicted split between President Eisenhower and Senate Majority Leader Robert A. Taft of Ohio has not come off.

Washington wags suggest that this may be due in part to the fact that both like golf, and that Taft is slightly the better golfer. That gives him a necessary superiority.

Whether the President can maintain this position for four full years, and whether the Congress will reciprocate in respect for his leadership and constitutional responsibilities, it will take more than 100 days to prove out.

So far the President has gone out of his way to avoid disputes with senators and congressmen. This has been interpreted as a sign of weakness in some quarters, and a lack of leadership.

The lack of leadership may be due more to lack of a complete program to present to the Congress for action, however. And the weakness may develop into a source of great strength if the President can convert cooperation into unity of purpose.

In this first 100 days, the President's temptation to start throwing a big stick around may have been great many times. The differences between the President and many Republicans in Congress make a long list.

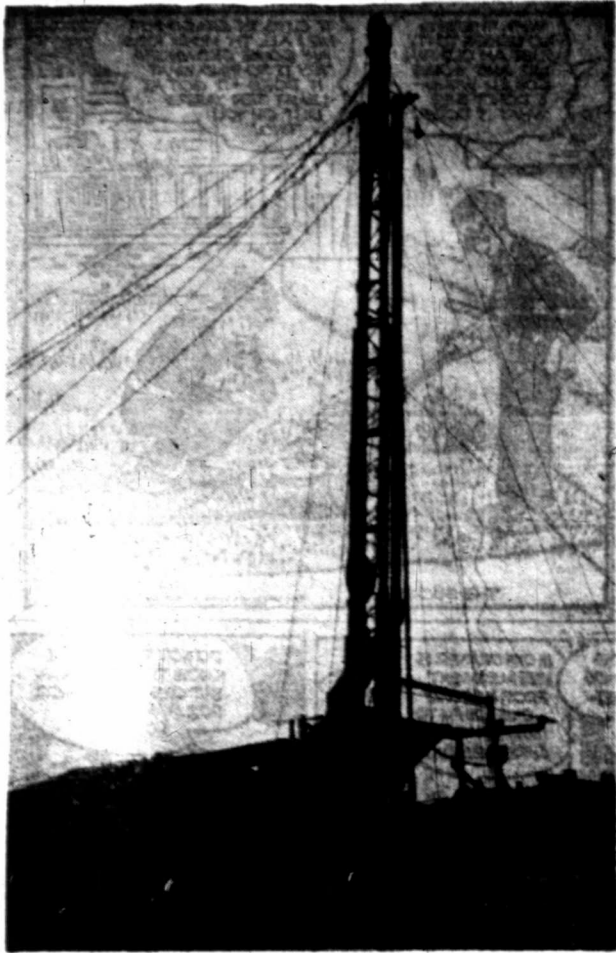

Senator McCarthy's methods in trying to stop shipments to Red China; Senator McCarthy's methods in demanding State Department loyalty files; Representative Reed's insistence on an immediate tax-cut bill; Representative Reed's amendments to renewal of the trade agreement with the active Velde's feints at investigating communism in the churches; first efforts to curb the President's reorganization powers; the mix-up over funds for school aid in defense areas; the mix-up over funds for a council of economic advisers; the curtailment of public housing funds; the differences over foreign policy discussed previously in this series.

In the opposite direction, there has been considerable griping by congressmen over the active Republican patronage has been handled by the White House. But this may be

The beam of his own headlamp fell on the gate. They were closed; usually they were kept open. His foot went down on the accelerator, and the car shot forward. The other must have come out of the drive, or been parked near it; someone had closed the gates to hold up possible pursuit.

The man he had passed was shooting at him. The driver of the car in front was going fast. Mannering heard the squeal of brakes as it went round a bend. His own car held the road well, better than the one in front. The two seemed to be going at about the same speed.

Just here there was a long, straight stretch, and there was a chance of gaining. Mannering took the automatic out of his pocket and rested it on the seat beside him, so that he could pick it up more quickly.

WASHINGTON OIL—
Problem Of Excessive Imports 'Up To Ike'

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent
WASHINGTON—"It's up to Ike!" That's what they say about the problem of excessive oil imports.

The matter was dumped in the lap of the President last week by Governors Allan Shivers of Texas, Dan Thornton of Colorado and Edward Arn of Kansas.

The governors, collectively, played golf and had lunch with the President. They asked him to help haul down record-high levels of petroleum imports.

The main proposal was that the President ask the National Petroleum Council at its May 28 meeting to study and recommend ways to get a voluntary cutback. If not this, the governors wanted the President to call in oil importing companies for a White House conference.

Anti-trust clearance may be needed, Governor Thornton admitted, if any substantial cutback is to be agreed upon by oil importers. So, he said, he had talked it over with Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., who recently accused importing companies of anti-trust law violations. Brownell didn't like giving clearance.

While Governors Thornton and Shivers asked the President for help, both struck out at a proposed law to control imports. Both left Washington with no final promise the President would act.

Drive Continues
The drive for a law, meanwhile, goes on full steam. On Monday and Tuesday, independent oil producers, coal and railroad spokesmen go before the House Ways and Means Committee. The domestic producers want imports limited to 10 per cent of domestic demand. That is, to about 728,000 barrels daily, against more than a million today.

On Wednesday and Thursday, importing companies and oil jobbers argue against a law to curb oil imports. The five major companies are down to testify.
What are the chances of a law? The odds are against it, according to most observers. That is chiefly because President Eisenhower is against a law. But a nose count by the National Coal Association shows the committee lacking only one vote of a majority for oil import quotas.

Military Planes To Drone Overhead In Special Event

More than 40 military airplanes will fly over Midland Saturday and numerous items of military equipment will be on display at Midland Airpark in observance of Armed Forces Day.

"Power for Peace" is the slogan for 1953 Armed Forces Day and samples of that power will be available for inspection by Midlanders all day Saturday. No formal parades or speeches are planned.

Lt. Cmdr. George Todd, commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Electronics Company of Midland, has been designated Armed Forces Project Officer for this area.

Circle Over City
The planes to make flyovers are all Air Force and the first flight is scheduled at 10:18 a.m., with the final flight at 5:30 p.m. The planes will fly in groups of eight and will circle the city for approximately 10 minutes each flight.

Sixteen T-33's, jet trainers, and 16 T-28's, conventional single engine trainers, will fly over as well as eight B-25 bombers. The aircraft will be from Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring and Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo.

The static display of aircraft at Midland Airpark will include a Navy F6F conventional fighter, Navy TBM single engine torpedo bomber and Navy SNB two engine trainer, all from the Naval Air Station at Corpus Christi.

Other planes to be on display will be a T-28 conventional trainer, T-29 conventional trainer, a T-6 light trainer, and a B-25 two-engine bomber.

National Guard Unit
Weapons which will be seen at Airpark include rifles, machine guns, mortars and bazookas. The National Guard unit plans to have a tank there.

The Naval unit will open its doors on the permanent electronic equipment in their building at Airpark for public display.

The purpose of The Community Survey is to obtain helpful information that will enable advertisers to improve their service to you readers by preparing ads the way you want them.

When you indicate which ads you think will do the advertisers the most good, it is possible to tabulate that information and give it to the advertisers for their guidance.

On the first page of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad, which Small Ad and which Classified Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. . . . Just write four names on this blank each day.

Cash awards will go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey.

YOU ARE NOT REQUIRED TO WRITE A LETTER. The awards are made to those readers whose selections are nearest to the list of ads which get the most votes. The awards are ACCURATE . . . FAIR . . . and HONEST.

You do not have to be an advertising expert! All ads are written for you readers. YOU are best qualified to indicate which ads will do the advertiser the most good.

I THINK THE ADS LISTED BELOW WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award. The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKE some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our advertisers.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given the advertisers to help them to improve their advertisements BUT they will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week but only one award for a good answer will go to any one household during the survey. Since the purpose of the Survey is to obtain information, any indication of collusion to secure an award automatically will disqualify such answers. In the case of ties duplicate awards will be made. Free extra ballots may be obtained at The Reporter-Telegram and the newspaper may be read there. Facsimile ballots may be used. Daddy Ringtail And Open Wide Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, was sitting on a rock beside the Elephant Path. He was about to eat a scrambled coconut pie. The pie was in his hand. His mouth came open wide like the mouth of a great, black cake.

"Mugwump! Stop! Wait! Don't!" a voice called out.

Mugwump closed his mouth to wait and see who the voice was. Uh-oh! The voice was Huffy Tuffy who is the huffiest—and the tuffiest—somebody in all the forest. He likes to fight. And he likes to eat scrambled coconut pie. Quickly now, Mugwump's mouth came open again.

"Stop! Wait! Don't!" called Huffy Tuffy again. Mugwump closed his mouth again. One bite was all he needed to make an end of the pie, but Huffy Tuffy had said to wait, you see, Mugwump listened. "Mugwump," said Huffy Tuffy, "you should never take a great big bite of pie that way."

"No?" said Mugwump.

"It isn't polite to do it," said Huffy. "Here. Watch me. Let me show you. This is a bite of bite to take to be polite."

Huffy took a little bite of Mugwump's pie. "See how I did it?" asked Huffy. "Here, let me show you again."

And again Huffy took another little bite of Mugwump's pie. "You don't have to take a big bite," Huffy explained. "It isn't polite at all (Gobble, gobble). But of course you can take a whole lot of little bites real fast like this is you want to." (Gobble-gobble fast!)

And Huffy nibbled and gobbled so fast that the pie was nibbled and gobbled all gone, before Mugwump could say a word.

Poor Mugwump. Poor boy, but if you feel very sorry for him—wait and read what happens Monday. Happy day!

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The market was strong and active on all classes at last Thursday's Midland Livestock Auction Sale.

Most butcher cattle sold $1 to $2 per hundred higher, and most stocker cattle were up 50 cents to $1.

Fat calves and yearlings, good to choice, brought $19 to $23.50; medium to good, $16 to $19; cull to common, $12 to $16.

Cows, good to choice, sold at $13 to $13.50, while medium ones brought $11 to $12, and canners and culvers, $9 to $11. Not enough bulls were offered to establish a market.

Stocker steer calves went at $16.50 to $19.50, and stocker heifer calves, $15 to $18.50. Mixed breed and Brahman stocker calves and yearlings brought $12 to $15.50.

The weather still holds, Podner, with a general warm-up recorded here and elsewhere over the state.

One feller swapped his slacker for an overcoat early last week. He may wish he had the slacker back before this week is out. No further comment on the weather, Podner!

Barley, vetch and peas planted on eight acres of irrigated land have provided 90 days of grazing for 40 head of dairy cows since December 15 on the B. E. O'Neal farm south of Midland.

The crops were planted as a part of a trial of winter cover crops in a field last Fall, sponsored by the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District, the Midland Chamber of Commerce, and equipment and seed dealers.

Fertilizer was used at various rates on the different parts of the field. The field was watered three times with a level border system of irrigation.

Since the beginning of grazing O'Neal has had his stock on the field 15 days, then off 15 days. He uses it in connection with a permanent irrigated pasture.

A sample clipped by the Soil Conservation Service on April 10 had 1,440 pounds of green top growth per acre. The final growth on the field will be turned under for soil building.

Standstoms of the last two weeks failed to damage 40 acres of sprinkler-irrigated crop land on the W. N. Locklar farm, southwest of Midland, where a winter cover crop had been plowed into the soil.

Just before the recent high winds, Locklar turned under a dense growth of Abruzzi rye and vetch. He used a rotary stalk cutter and tandem disk to cut the green crop into the soil.

Locklar also had three acres of rye planted last Fall on dryland which has given excellent protection against blowing. It has furnished some grazing, and is heading out low.

Locklar has obtained legume inoculant for peas and beans he will plant in his garden this year. The inoculant will provide bacteria to produce nitrogen-fixing nodules on the roots of the plants. Black-eyed peas, garden peas and beans will respond to this treatment.

After 10 years of experience with terraces and contour farming, C. J. Lowe, who farms six miles east of Midland, believes these conservation practices are worth maintaining. He built terraces in 1942 as a part of his program with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District. He thinks the benefits of the practices outweigh the extra trouble in planting and cultivating.

Lowe estimates that terracing, contouring, and the rotation of feed with cotton has increased his crop yields as much as 70 to 80 per cent.

Rodeo is a sport new to the college and university campuses over the nation although it is the original sport of the west.

College rodeo first was organized as a part of school sport curriculum in 1948. Thirteen colleges from five southwestern schools formed National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association to sponsor rodeo for those talented.

Since 1948 the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association (NIRA) has grown until there now are 46 schools in its fold representing 15 states west of the Mississippi River.

NIRA rodeo activity is organized much on the same basis as other college sports, having high scholastic requirements for eligibility. In addition there are set rules to control rodeo production, contestant behavior, and the manner in which the six approved rodeo events are run. Approved events are calf and ribbon roping, bareback and saddle bronc riding, bulldogging and bull-riding.

"Rodeo of Champions" The rules governing NIRA rodeo competition are similar to those of professional rodeo, differing slightly in points awarded and a few other ways.

Each year approximately 20 of the member schools sponsor rodeos. Climaxing the college rodeo year is a championship rodeo held in which the top ranking four cowboys of each event and the ten leading teams from the NIRA's four conferences are eligible to compete.

The 1953 "rodeo of champions" will be held at Hardin-Simmons University's Carl Meyers Memorial Arena in Abilene next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Sul Ross College Rodeo Team, incidentally is leading the nation again after its recent winning of the NIRA rodeo at Texas Tech in Lubbock. The Sul Ross team accumulated 487 points to 431 points for the closest competitor, Hardin-Simmons University.

At the Tech show, Tex. Martin from Port Arthur was declared All-Around Cowboy by winning first in saddle bronc riding, third in bareback riding, fourth in bull riding, and first in steer dogging in the first go-around. Martin now is leading the nation for All-Around Cowboy with 190 points.

Beverly Thorn of Sanderson, another Sul Ross student, was All-Around Cowgirl at the show. She won first in goat-tying and second in barrel-racing.

Application forms for group membership in the 1953 Smith-Doxey program have been sent to all county agents. H. J. Matejowsky of the Abilene Cladding Office has announced.

Farmers who wish to join Cotton Improvement Groups and avail themselves for free classing and market quotation service shouldn't waste any time, Matejowsky stated. They should join a group before they plant their cotton.

After they're in a group, the elected group leader will make one application, with the assistance of his county agent or local gunner covering all members. He will send it to the Abilene Cladding Office.

Under the Smith-Doxey Act, Matejowsky explained, any group of farmers organized to promote improvement of cotton, which adopts a single variety, files an application, arranges for sampling, and meets certain other requirements, is eligible to take part. No fees are involved. Members get their cotton classed free by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at local classing offices.

After classing, a green card on each bale is returned to the farmer. This, plus the market news service, gives him a definite advantage in trading, for he knows exactly what he's selling and how much it's worth.

Also, Matejowsky added, he can even sell his cotton by presenting his green card to the buyer for examination, in place of an actual sample.

Cal Boykin, Jr., of the Soil Conservation Service office here, was among the several hundred farmers from this area who visited the Purina Research Farm at Gray Sum-

Ruling Of Board Upsets Union Plan 60-Day Contract

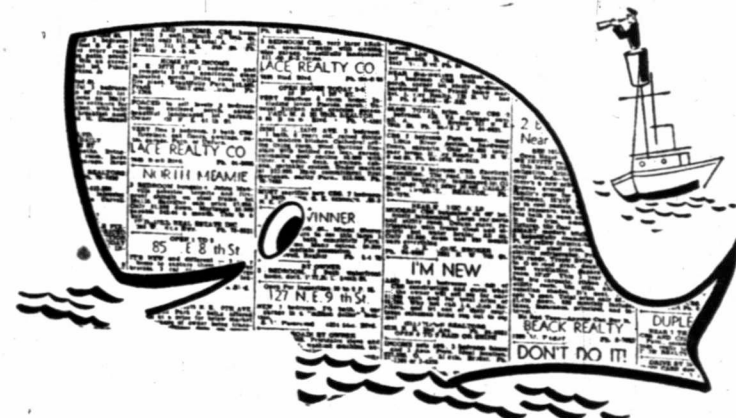

WASHINGTON—The AFL-Internationally Typographical Union (ITU) must bargain fairly with newspaper publishers, without insisting on 60-day cancellable contracts, the National Labor Relations Board has ruled.

The board issued its order Friday in the five year dispute between the union and the American Newspaper Publishers Association (ANPA).

It said the record indicated strongly a disposition by the union to try to obtain "closed shop" conditions and that "we have ample reason presently to believe that this disposition still exists." Closed shop contracts, under which a union supplies workers for the employer, are banned by the Taft-Hartley Law.

The union was ordered to post formal notice that it would not refuse either specifically "or by insistence upon a 60-day cancellable contract, or by any other means, to bargain collectively and in good faith with any employer in the newspaper industry" whose employees it represented.

FRIENDLINESS DIDN'T PAY

Seven-year-old Marvin Collins will know a ground squirrel the next time he sees one.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Collins of 1221 North Keith Street reached down Friday to pick up the invader of the family garage and show it to Mrs. Collins. The boy suffered a deep bite in the finger.

Frank Rose, manager of the Animal Shelter, and his assistants corralled the squirrel. It will be kept under observation for 10 days to be certain it doesn't have rabies, Rose said Saturday.

'Vacation Attitude' Helps You Enjoy Your Holidays

By RUTH MILLETT
Reporter-Telegram Columnist

Whenever you go where others are vacationing you probably notice, if you are observant, that it seems there are two completely different types of "vacationing wives."

The first type seems relaxed, happy-go-lucky and ready for any kind of fun that comes along. She is friendly and interested, even in those she meets briefly, and is also interested in every new thing she sees.

She isn't looking for things to complain about and she isn't upset because things aren't like they were at home. She has the right attitude toward travel, thus she is able to relax, enjoy new experiences, and learn something as she goes along.

The other type of wife, who sometimes seems to actually be in the majority, carries all the responsibility of her everyday life along with her.

If she has left the children behind she worries out loud about them. If accommodations aren't what she expected she complains.

Her main interest in the new people she meets is shown by telling them about everything "back home" and how far superior it is to what she has seen on her trip. Traveling is never a real vacation for her because she can't assume for the period of her vacation a truly vacation-like frame of mind.

At the first opportunity she'll tell you that she is tired out and that she'll be mighty glad to get home. She wonders if a vacation is really worth all the effort.

So when you are planning your vacation trip this year remember that the most important thing to take along is a vacation-like frame of mind.

Wolves come down from the mountains in winter to kill sheep and some have been reported in the suburbs of Rome.

New System Of Notices Set For Employment Board Use

The Texas Employment Commission is prepared to start a new system of notices of benefit decisions, John Bechtol, manager of the Midland office, said Saturday.

Bechtol added that changes in the system will not affect the procedure being followed by employers who use separation notices (B-81).

The Austin Court directed that notices be sent to employers whose tax rates might be affected by the payment of benefits to their former employees. The court made this holding in its decision denying the Shipyard's recovery of more than $100,000 of unemployment taxes.

Although the Commission ordered compliance with the court's decision shortly after the court's decision was rendered on March 25, the complicated changes of procedures involving its large, business-machine installations delayed the effective date of the change.

Under the new plan, all employers who have paid wages to the insurance claimant will be afforded the opportunity to participate in decision processes and to appeal any decision through the commission to the courts. This new notice procedure is in addition to the employer's right to question benefit wage charges which was established by act of the Legislature in 1948. In that year employees were permitted the right to file separation notices with the commission as a means of protecting their individual experience tax rates.

Harry Bengtson, chairman, in a joint statement said: "We always have administered the unemployment statute to the best of our ability in accordance with our understanding of its terms. We wholeheartedly adopt the interpretation placed upon the act by the Court of Civil Appeals."

Employers having any questions concerning the procedure are asked to telephone Bechtol at his office at 4-2263.

Wolves were still a serious menace in Scotland in the 16th century and a few remained there until the 18th century.

Wesley Alex LaReus Will Live In Midland After Wedding Trip

When they return from a wedding trip to Mexico City, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Alex LaReus, III, will be at home at 1601 College Avenue.

The bride is the former Anne Lockhart Harris of Midland, daughter of Mrs. James Padon Harris of Prairie Grove, Ark. She attended the University of Arkansas.

LaReus is manager of the West Texas-New Mexico District of Bethlehem Supply Company. He attended the University of Missouri and is the son of Mrs. Ida Carmichael of Humanville, Mo.

Home Ceremony
The couple was married in a home ceremony at 11 a. m. May 2 in Prairie Grove, with Dr. John M. Asbell officiating for the single-ling vows.

The ceremony was performed under a canopy of fern before a background arrangement of candelabra, madonna lilies and fern flanked with baskets of white snapdragons. Arrangements of sweetpeas and snapdragons in pastel shades were used throughout the home.

Musicians Named
Mrs. H. C. Mobley of Houston, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and "Traumerei" (Schumann) during the wedding. In a pre-nuptial program, she played "Poem" (Fibich), "Ave Maria" (Schubert), "Liebestraum" (Liszt), "Intermezzo" (MacDowell), "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell), "Clair de Lune" (Debussy) and "Serenade" (Schubert).

She also accompanied Myrilla Dorman of Prairie Grove, who sang "Oh, Promise Me" (DeKoven) and "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte). Anne Carlisle of Omaha, Neb., was the flower girl for the wedding and ushers were Frank Maupin of Shreveport, La., and Preston Magruder of Fayetteville, Ark.

Wore Mother's Dress
The bride wore her mother's wedding dress of ivory satin. Fashioned in a princess style, it had a court train and the shirred, fitted sleeves were pointed over the hands and finished with heirloom lace.

The bride's ivory illusion veil was caught to a Juliette cap of heirloom lace and pearl medallions edged with lilies of the valley from her mother's garden. She carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies.

For traveling, the bride changed to a navy blue suit, accented with white trim. Her accessories were navy blue and her corsage of white gardenias.

Dress for the flower girl was of white organza over pink tulle. She carried a nosegay of sweetpeas.

Reception Held
Assisting the couple in receiving guests for the reception were their mothers and Mrs. Frank Wann of Springfield, Mo., sister of the bridegroom, and Phoebe T. Harris of Cambridge, Mass., sister of the bride.

Centerpiece for the bride's table was an arrangement of sweetpeas and snapdragons, flanked with candles burning in silver candelabra. The tiered wedding cake was topped with a nosegay of sweetpeas in pastel shades.

Writer's Advice Troubles Reader

Joe S. Doakes, a reader of this paper, feels that in the best interest of all subscribers some of the columnists should be exposed. Mr. Doakes has taken the attitude that all is not as it should be. In fairness to our readers we think we should explain Mr. Doakes' position.

Just before the first rain of this year, Joe drops into the store and orders himself a few bags of that wonderful Turf Special. He put it on the lawn as we told him. Then it rained. Then Joe watered his lawn a little. A couple of weeks ago we had another good rain. He followed our advice, and got himself into trouble.

A week ago Joe was back in the store. "What," says he, "am I gonna do with my lawn?" We put on our best look of innocence and queried, "Whassa matta, Joe?" "Matter," he retorts, "how do I get rid of that gorgeous grass that is ankle high from that Turf Special treatment?" Yep, you guessed it! We had him in the nine hole, and he had to listen to us again. Know what? Joe's got a beautiful Jacobson gasoline mower now. He says that it is as good as his lawn, the best there is. Maybe you think we don't work both sides of the street!

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

When you send a letter to a person's home address it is impolite to mark it "personal." Why? Because it indicates that you are afraid that if it isn't so marked some other member of the person's family will be impolite enough to open it. The family won't like that implication.

Deadline To Fall Monday On Draft Deferment Tests

Midland students now in college are reminded that applications for taking the college deferment test must be mailed by midnight Monday, the draft board here reported Saturday.

Mrs. Nell Roberts, clerk, said the test will be given May 21 at various colleges. Only registrants who have applications in by the deadline may take the deferment test. Blank applications may be secured at the draft board office.

Mrs. Roberts emphasized that old certificates for the April 23 test will not be accepted for the May 21 test. The new test primarily is for students who were unable to take the April test, but they must secure new permits.

To be eligible to take the test, students must be satisfactorily pursuing full-time college work leading to a degree. They cannot have taken a previous deferment test. Students who make 70 or better on the test may apply for a college deferment. Mrs. Roberts said the results of the test do not compel

Clubs Asked To Aid Traffic Safety Program

CHICAGO—Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland last week made an appeal to the nation's 30 million organized clubwomen to join in the crusade for traffic safety.

Mrs. Hodge, safety chairman of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, pointed out that local women's or parents' clubs are an effective force for making individuals traffic safety conscious.

"Traffic safety requires grass-roots organization which must reach every individual in every community," she said. "The women's club can command the willing hands, feet and 'phoned necessary to spread the crusade personally into every home," Mrs. Hodge stressed.

The incentive for clubs to organize and promote such safety programs is greater than ever, Mrs. Hodge commented. In addition to the personal satisfaction of seeing the community's accident statistics improve, there is a $1,000 defense bond and bronze trophy for the club which creates the most outstanding program each year. She referred to the annual Carol Lane Awards, administered by the National Safety Council through a grant of Shell Oil Company.

Program Outlined
Mrs. Hodge outlined a five-point guide for women's clubs interested in organizing a local program:

1. Create a club committee to gather information about the community's safety sore spots from such professional sources as the police traffic department, major or local safety council chapter.
 2. Decide whether to focus on a single aspect of traffic safety or on an all-inclusive program.
 3. Coordinate the program with official and private agencies already working for safety. Seek their co-operation.
 4. Consider every publicity medium of the community—movies, newspapers, TV and radio station, churches, advertisers. Appoint members of the committee to provide material for these outlets.
 5. Earnest the serious business of safety to entertainment activities wherever possible. Barbecues, bicycle rodeos, dances, parades, rallies and stunts make the safety lessons fun to learn.
- Mrs. Hodge, who is one of the judges for the Carol Lane Awards, said that four awards will be presented each year to both women's or parents' clubs and to individual women. Entries for the 1953 awards are open through June 30 and should be sent to the National Safety Council, 425 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

THE BULLDOG

Written By The Journalism Class Of Midland High School

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, SUNDAY, MAY 10, 1953-11

BULLDOG EDITORIAL

Do you realize the importance of a college education? Too often the high school graduate decides not to attend college simply because he doesn't want to study any more. He doesn't realize that a college education is becoming increasingly important in the modern business world. A college degree is a necessary prerequisite for many positions, and in many other instances one man is promoted over another simply because he has a higher education.

While college is not a necessity, it often adds so much to a person's life that no opportunity to attend should be overlooked. College is a sort of human refinery, providing a chance to become more informed, better educated, and perhaps a little more mature, too. Think about it.—Bill Robitsek.

Gay Dancers Are Highlight Of Gymboree

On May 1, Midland High School presented the annual Gymboree which was enacted by the physical education classes and consisted of several exhibitions of tumbling by the boys and girls, and several other acts, including dancing and light drills.

In the tumbling, the girls dressed as clowns and were very outstanding in their part of the program. The boys also tumbled and did exhibitions of boxing.

A group of girls did a very enjoyable tap dance and another group did a light drill. A light drill is when all the house lights are turned out and a group does patterns in the dark using flashlights.

The Half Timers' drill squad, did a short but beautifully executed drill, followed by this year's majorettes and next year's majorettes, each doing a fascinating drill.

The outstanding act of the show was the "Rendezvous and Andy" dance by Audrey Young and Linda Davis.

BULLDOGS PUT FEATHER IN CAP

Who says our college freshmen aren't smart? According to a recent letter received from the registrar of the University of Texas, Midland freshmen have a grade point average of 1.472 as compared to the grade point average of 1.235 for all the freshmen enrolled in the University.

This increase of .237 above average should ease the minds of those MHS seniors who are planning to go to college. With such averages, no Midland High School senior shouldn't worry about flunking out of college.

Band Entertains At Rotary Club

On May 7, 78 members of the Midland High School Band were dinner guests of the Rotary Club in the ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel.

In return the band presented a short program consisting of "The Mexican National Hymn," "Fairest of the Fair," "Sound Off," "Joanna" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Congratulations go to James Johnson, Culture Korner Columnist, who was named Junior Lion of the Week.

Shirley Henderson Named Head Majorette For Year

Shirley Henderson, an attractive, brown-haired sophomore, is head majorette for 1953-54. She has been in the Half Timers for two years, and her schedule this year consists of algebra, Spanish, English, biology, typing and Half Timers.

Mary Ann Odom says she has been twirling a baton for about three years. She is five feet, five and one-half inch sophomore with blonde hair and brown eyes and she moved to Midland from Athens, Texas, at the beginning of last year.

Judy Ridge has also been in the Half Timers for two years. Judy is a cute sophomore with brown hair and eyes, who seems to be very interested in golf lately. Her schedule consists of typing, English, Spanish, algebra, general science and Half Timers.

Jane Calley is a five foot, four inch sophomore who has been in the Half Timers for two years. Her subjects are algebra, biology, English, typing, Spanish and Half Timers. Her favorite occupation is swimming and her favorite color is brown.

Sue Skaggs holds the distinction of being the only senior majorette next year. She has been twirling a baton for five or six years and her favorite occupations are swimming and dancing. She is five feet, three inches tall with black hair and dark brown eyes.

Congratulations to these girls and good luck for next year.

Robert: "You'd never believe I bought this car second hand, would you?"

Betty: "Why no, I can't imagine anybody paying for it."

A man walked into a bar and ordered a drink and drank it. Then he ate the top of his glass and threw the stem away. He noticed that the bartender was staring at him.

"You probably think I'm crazy for eating the top of that glass and throwing the stem away."

"Sure you are," said the bartender, "the stems are the best part."

Two old friends met after a long absence and were discussing current events.

One said to the other, "I heard that your brother's mother-in-law died and your brother must have been shocked."

"Shocked!" said his friend. "He was electrocuted."

Policeman (to intoxicated man trying to fit his key to a lamp-post): "I'm afraid there's no one home tonight."

Stoogie: "There must be. There's a light up stairs."

Postman: "Is this letter for you, sir? It has your address but the name is obliterated."

Man: "Don't reckon it's for me. My name is Jones."

Well! The sports picture seems to have come to an end at MHS for this year. With the Bulldog baseballers ending their season Saturday and the track season also ending with the state meet, what shall we write about next week? Oh well, that bridge has yet to be reached, much less crossed.

As the sports picture fades, we see the Bulldogs ending their baseball season against the top two clubs, Abilene and San Angelo. Previous to the Wednesday game with Abilene, the Bulldogs held a 6-2 win, lost, record and were tied the Lamesas for the cellar. At least one win was necessary to leave the Lamesas behind and only then if the Tornados fell to both their remaining foes. Having lost my superlative crystal ball (and this being Wednesday) all we can be sure of is that the Bulldogs finished the season. To find out where, turn to the sports page.

In last week's play the Bulldog nine lost to Big Spring, 16-8, and defeated Lamesa, 9-8. In the Tuesday game the Midland hunk held true as the honorable arbiter of the day blew a decision in the bottom of the seventh which allow the Steers three runs and a victory. To top things off, he admitted he blew it. The Big Springers started off with six runs in the first inning including a two run homer by Bobby Hayworth. After that the Bulldogs got two in the next pair of frames, rallied for six on the fourth, and added two more in the fifth. In the bottom of the fifth the Steers came up with the five more to bring the score 13-12 in their favor. Then came the seventh which saw Midland score three and go ahead only to have the umpire boot in three runs for a Big Spring victory.

In Saturday's action at Lamesa, the Debate team. He was in student council his freshman year, by the way he's a senior this year, and a member of the Science Club. Mr. Mystery plans to attend Rice and major in Chemical Engineering.

This five foot, nine inch blond puzzle can be identified by his pug nose. He lists his pet peeve as people who speak in high and false sounding voices, and his most exciting experience was learning to water ski. His secret ambition is to be a politician.

Can you guess who this well known student is? If you know, don't get for to turn in your guess. Last week's mystery faculty member was Miss Parker, guessed by Katherine Carter.

How do you like the Bulldog's jokes? They're works of art—they belong in a museum. Anyway, we don't violate the child labor laws—all the jokes are over 16 years of age. . . .

Reminiscent Reporter

By DON DWIGHT

When Paul Harvey, the noted commentator, was in Midland last week he gave us an idea for a new name for our column. Instead of the "Reminiscent Reporter," we could call it, "Remember These Things."

This week and the weeks following, our readers will have to be guinea pigs as we are going to conduct a little experiment. (Who knows? We may even surpass Dr. Frankenstein!) Since the morgue of the "Bulldog" is incomplete for the month of May, we can no longer supply you with our usual up-to-date information about what happened last year. Nevertheless, still undaunted by this cruel twist of fate which besieges all budding geniuses (or blooming idiots), we came up with an idea. Why not review what has happened at MHS during the last nine months? So, beginning with nine months ago, we will attempt to "renew old memories" in the annals of MHS.

Club News

Theban Club—Discussed plans for the last meeting of the year. A humorous debate will be held, and cokes and cookies will be served.

HOW COULD HE FORGET?

DENVER —(AP)—When thieves stole $81 that Yale W. Frezler had hidden in a radio set, he came up $5 short in his inventory to the police.

Frezler quickly rattled off the serial numbers of 14 $1 bills, one $2 bill, one $20 bill and five $10 bills. But he admitted he'd forgotten completely the serial number of the lone $5 bill in the cache.

FUNNY BUSINESS

"I'm afraid Wilbur's been leaning on his garden tools a little heavy lately!"

Chemical Engineer, Film Take Assembly

The film, "This Is Your School," was shown to the student body during assembly period Thursday. The movie, filmed by Raymond Leggett with Art Cole narrating, showed scenes of the life about Midland High School. Wesley Pittman, Bill Robitsek, Don Dwight, Elaine Johnson, Katherine Carter, Addison Young, and Clayton Tatom also were recognized as those students who helped write the script.

For the second part of the period, Tom Mathews, a chemical engineer with Research Division of Western Company, performed many experiments with the assistance of Jerry Ball. Mr. Mathews spoke on how important chemical engineering is in modern industry, and one of the featured demonstrations was the exploding of balloons filled with oxygen acetylene.

VIA THE GRAPEVINE

By BETTY BOLTON and NELL CURRAN

Great fun was had by all the cowboys and cowgirls at the wonderful Western dance given by Robert Payne, Charles Worthen, Fella Pattenon, Robert Stubbeman, Roy Kinsey, Jim Ten Eyck, Walter Cremin, and Bill Erskine, at Ranchland Hill Country Club Tuesday night. There were a lot of cute matching skirts and shirts for the occasion.

It appeared that everyone enjoyed the formal dance given by a group of senior girls and boys Saturday night at Ranchland Hill Country Club. Parties, parties, and more parties seems to be the only thing on the agenda until school is out. Andy Anderson was given a party at Mrs. W. H. Black's home Friday night, Shirley Green had a dinner Tuesday afternoon and evening before the Western dance, and last Friday week there was a picnic at Cole Park given by Pat Morgan, Clinton Noble, Darrell Spivey, Bob Proctor, Rusty Rutledge and their dates. We understand the boys had a slumber party after the gymboeree and picnic.

The library assistants had a picnic Monday afternoon and great fun was had by all. We especially think Terry Fugalar and Albert Harrington enjoyed it since they were the only boys attending.

You might say they were in their second childhood, but they say it was fun. It seems there is a group of overgrown playmates who enjoyed very much a quick two or three games of hide-and-go-seek. Those playing were: John Crowley, Ervin Townsend, Pat Curran, Betty McNulty, Carolyn Faris, Don Roderick, and Wayne Cooper. After they tired of this strenuous game they went to Betty's home for a little party and dance.

Carolyn Faris, Nell Curran and Frances Inman were seen in Odesa Tuesday afternoon buying clothes for graduation.

Seems Pat Frack received a present from Judi La Fever Wednesday in second study hall. Say, Judi La, we didn't know you could draw.

A party was held at David Breith's house last Friday night; it was very small, with only three couples attending and a bunch of junior high kids. The high school kids were: David, Barbara Cline, Jean Corbell, M. A. Rose, Robert Keising and Betty Bolton.

Some of the people with skirts and dresses alike at the Western dance were: Phil Fryor and Roy Kinsey, Helen Zant and Walter Cremin, Bill Erskine and Toodles McMillan, Timber Forest and Margie Neill, with skirts alike, but not meaning to, Barbara Whitson and Norma Copeland, Jane Calley and Julie Owens, and with dresses alike, were Dona Ingham and Nell Curran.

Mary Jane Miller and Dona Ingham went to Lubbock over last weekend. They said they had much fun and saw many interesting sights. Seems they like the cowboy bands up Lubbock way.

Jimmy Adams came home from Tech last weekend but had some trouble with his car and was afraid he couldn't get back to Lubbock in time for a trig quiz he had early Saturday morning. We believe he didn't quite make it, too bad, Jimmy.

Much, much fun was had at Club MHS as everyone sat around and drank Cokes and smoked candy cigarettes. The can-can girls were beautiful and the bartenders were just as cute.

Parties being planned for this weekend are: Andy's patio dance Friday night, the big formal Saturday night, Carla Mae Lea may have a slumber party after this dance, she doesn't know yet, and Yvonne Shain is planning a tea for Sunday afternoon.

As of a quarter till four Wednesday afternoon, there were 22 days, four hours, 15 minutes, and three seconds of school left for the seniors. A group of 30 DE students and their guests journeyed to Balmorhea last Sunday to go swimming and have a picnic. They were accompanied by Miss Donnell and Miss Gordon, we understand a great time was had by all.

TREASURY AID—Miss Catherine B. Cleary, Milwaukee, Wis., a bank official, has been nominated by President Eisenhower to be Assistant U. S. Treasurer. Her appointment must be confirmed by the U. S. Senate.

It is estimated that use of tractors on farms in 1950 saved 12.5 million tons of feed that might have been given to the horses of the United States.

The Kulturite of the Week is Charles Whitmire for meritorious participation in speech activities. Congratulations to Charles. The book of the week is an Abrahams Art book called the "Life of Toulouse-Lautrec. As you read you learn of a great French Impressionist. A recent movie was made of his life entitled "Moulin Rouge." Surely you will want to read about the life that inspired the writing of the "Moulin Rouge Theme."

Cool Lakes, Lofty Ridges Invite Canadian Vacations

BANFF, CANADA—Canadian Pacific announces four "all-expense tours" in the Banff-Lake Louise-Yoho Valley area of Canada. These all-expense tours will be sold only from approximately the middle of June, when Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise open, until the middle of September, when they close. But in those three months, Canada's mountain playground is at its best, the days sunny-warm, the air pine-scented, the nights moon-cool.

These tours are not meant to be sold to special tour parties handled by tour operators who set up their own arrangements in the mountains, but are intended for the use of individuals and families.

The three Canadian Rockies Playground Tours are of two-day, four-day and six-day duration. They start at Banff and end at Field, if the party is westbound, and vice versa if eastbound. The fourth is known as the Emerald Lake Chalet Tour, and is of four-day duration. An overnight stop is made at Chateau Lake Louise before arrival at Emerald Lake Chalet. This latter tour will be sold between the dates June 20 and September 8. It starts at either Banff, if westbound, or Field, if eastbound.

Cost of the tour—starting at Banff or Field, runs from $45.50 minimum on the two-day tour to $109.50 minimum on the six-day tour. The Emerald Lake Chalet Tour costs $62.50 minimum. All prices quoted are based on two-in-a-room accommodation.

Granddaddy Of Amusement Parks Opens Soon Only 3,000 Miles From Portugal

By WARD CANNEL, NEA Staff Correspondent
CONEY ISLAND, N. Y.—Unless the world comes to an end before the middle of May, Steeplechase Park will open officially for the fifty-eighth time and Coney Island, which is part of Brooklyn, will again become the Baghdad of New York's subway. It is an amusement park that wraps up the carnival, the beach and the roller coaster as neatly as a hot dog, and for millions of Americans it is a mecca as famous as Broadway (and easier on the pocketbook).

Reds Turn Harangue Toward French Area

HONG KONG —(AP)—Dispatches from the southern Communist metropolis of Canton say that France has replaced the United States as the number one propaganda target of Reds in that area.

Mountain air free from ragweed and Russian thistle pollen makes Sun Valley, Idaho, a haven for hay fever sufferers.

more than a million, business is terrible. And for the Fourth of July crowd to drop below the two million mark, there would have to be a tidal wave.

Sand On Beach
For those who have never made the Summer safari, Coney Island is easy to locate. It starts at the Atlantic Ocean about 3,000 miles west of Portugal and runs inland for three blocks.

The bathing beach, three miles long, is divided into bays—the most famous being Bay Yale (as in fav, it, six, sev'n, yale). There is sand on the beach. Also there are old, cold pastrami sandwiches and band-aids and chicken bones.

There are, in the course of a season, 300,000,000 people, too. Some of the people spill over onto the avenues—Bawdwalk, Bow'ry and Self. Here are the fun houses and whoopee rides that have made New Yorkers happy and the Inquisition pale.

Postponed Beauties
For example, there is the "pool table." This is an intricate set of cogs and wheels designed to spin the hardest into nausea. And so on down the avenue through the "parachute jump," "the cyclone," "tornado," "thunderbolt," and "Virginia reel." All of them spiraling, spluttering springboards to sensation.

In addition there are the Tuesday night fireworks, the baby parade, the beauty contests and September's Mardi Gras, which usually is postponed.

And like a minaret in this gingerbread Baghdad, there stands Naytn's (Nathan's) as in the sentence: "We'll get some hotdaws by Naytn's."

By measurement and manipulation, there is almost one square foot of Coney Island at ebb tide for each Sunday visitor. Not even room for the facts to lie.

Women In Halters
One woman in a halter—they all wear halters at Coney—explained to her husband who craned to see the ocean: "I'm going up to Brighton to change my mind."

Actually, the crowding at Coney is not so bad as all that. In the first place, considerable space is saved by the $1.50 each visitor deposits among the Island's 1,000 concessionaires.

Also, the tons of hot dogs and popcorn that take up desperately needed room are soon packed tightly into the hungry visitors.

But most of the space used for sunbathing and strolling is donated by 1,500 children, who, each year, wander off and get lost.

Plan now for a glorious vacation at the Flying L Ranch. Fun and relaxation for all. Fine food. True Western atmosphere. Write for folder.

Ranch-Style Loafin' Gets Blessing At Mayan Ranch

Ranch style loafin' is always the order of the day for vacationers at the Mayan Ranch, high in the Texas Hill Country near Bandera. Western fun center just half a mile away.

Now, even though ranch living isn't all rest, Mayan Ranch offers the kind of loafin' the city dweller wants: plenty of rest, good food, sparkling swimming pools, calm and frisky horses for mountain rides and plenty of cool mountain air as a chaser.

Home-Grown Steaks
Mayan Ranch food always wins the praise of vacationers. One hundred guests fit nicely into the ranch dining room—and those guests will find everything from home-grown steaks, chops and vegetables to Mexican foods and game and fowl (when in season). Outdoor eating is taken care of at barbecue or round-up meals around the chuck wagon.

Spending the day at Mayan Ranch isn't a difficult chore—except, of course, the days aren't half long enough. Horesback riding leads the sports field there. Palominos and Tennessee Walking Horses from the ranch carry vacationers over the mountains and through the scenic valleys, depositing them back at ranch headquarters in time for a swim in the under-water lighted swimming pool—called "Bandera's largest"—which is fed by two mountain streams. And, if smaller pools are sought, there are two of nature's own swimming pools in the Medina River which runs through the ranch.

Eating comes next and then it's time for the night's entertainment. There may be a barbecue around a camp fire followed by Western songs and moon-lit laughter, or there may be a dance.

There's always dancing—cowboy style—in the ranch patio. City dwellers are taught to frolic through cowboy dances such as Cotton Eyed Joe and Put Your Little Foot.

Mayan Ranch guests live in their own private ranch houses, colorful Western cabins with comforts plus for the weary cowboy and cowgal. To help start the day with a smile, the ranch serves coffee and fruit juice before breakfast to ranch houses from a chuck wagon.

Own Landing Strip
Mayan Ranch is but 42 miles from San Antonio as the motorist drives, and just a short hop for the pilot-vacationer. A private landing strip and hangar are available for those who fly in for their taste of ranch life.

Summer months are usually vacation months, but for those who like their vacationing in other months, the Mayan Ranch is open the year 'round.

A star begins to be created largely by accident, when interstellar gases in a cloud are brought together unevenly. Next the embryo star grows rapidly, adding to its mass by picking up other gases as it makes its way through the cloud.

GOP CLAIMS EARLY BIRDS

NEW YORK—P—Bertha Adkins says a survey of the morning traffic peak in Washington shows Republicans are getting to work half an hour earlier every day than their Democratic predecessors.

"We want efficiency in government," Miss Adkins, assistant to the GOP national chairman, told a party dinner Thursday night. "We've got it."

Houston Garden Special Leaves Station June 22

The Houston Garden Train, a special Summer trip which includes visits to points north and east from Washington State to New York City, will begin June 22.

The trip is conducted personally and starts and returns in Houston. Upon arrival at Montreal, a five day cruise will be made down the St. Lawrence River in the mysterious Saguenay River, stopping at Murray Bay and Tadoussac.

On the way back a two-day stop will be made at quaint old French Quebec City, where headquarters will be made at Chateau Frontenac. Spots to be visited will include the famous Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre and Montmorency Falls.

Canadian cities to be visited will be Toronto, Montreal and Windsor. Visits will also be made to Niagara Falls, then overnight into Detroit. The return date is July 7.

Reservations can be made by calling or writing W. T. Morrison, city passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific Lines, 911 Texas Avenue, phone PR-3151, Houston.

Time Stands Still In Old Maine Shop

SPRINGFIELD, MAINE—(AP)—Time seems to have stood still in Harry B. Burr's old general store. Here the 80-year-old proprietor still pumps "extra fancy Barbadoes" molasses from a wooden barrel into a wooden measuring cup for his customers. Here you may buy kerosene mantle lamps.

Here you may buy plug tobacco, hand-chopped, or slabs hacked from a great cheese, or horse collars and sweat pads, groceries and horse medicine, cartridges and hunting boots, vinegar—also from a barrel.

Harry's barber shop is in the rear. "I was going to fix this place up, once," Harry will explain, but the city men who come shopping for their hunting trips said, "Don't do it!" So Harry didn't.

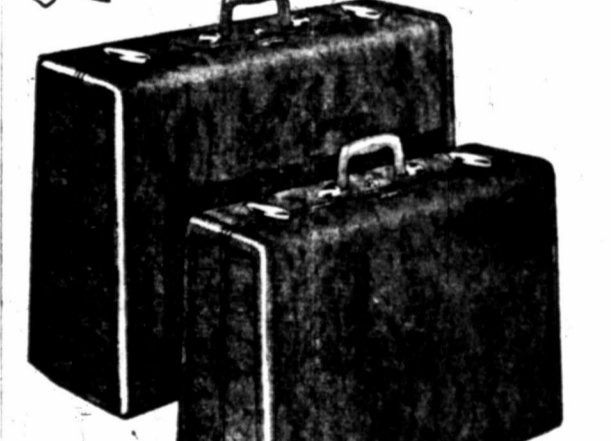

COLISEUM'S CAPACITY

The Coliseum at Rome accommodated 100,000 spectators, 87,000 of whom were seated. Its arena measured 182 feet from side to side, and 285 feet from end to end.

Mounting and dismounting from sleepy-eyed Jocko, a burro who rarely moves, is the favorite pastime of toddlers in the Sun Valley, Idaho, playground, where children may be left with a trained supervisor without charge.

Summer's Luxuriant Green Replaces Winter's Dazzling White At Sun Valley

NO BUCKING BRONCO—But a favorite of children at Sun Valley is Jocko, the playground burro. Hour after hour he lets the toddlers play cowboy in his western saddle. Children over three can be left at the supervised playground at the Union Pacific resort free of charge.

LINED IN GLASS—Sun Valley, Idaho, is the vacation spot where this attractive swimmer enjoys an afternoon in one of the two glass encircled pools. Because nights always are cool at the Union Pacific mile-high village the water is warmed artificially to just the right temperature.

SUN VALLEY, IDAHO—Touched by the wind of warmer days, Sun Valley is once more a Summer playground decked in greenery and gaiety.

Fighting trout wait in the mountain waters, horses stand saddled at the corral. At the quaint alpine village amidst Idaho's soaring Sawtooth Mountains the vacation mood is in the air.

Originally planned as a Winter sports center, Union Pacific's hotel village now stays open for a full season of fun in the Summer sun.

Last Great Frontier
Standing at the very edge of Idaho's breathtaking wilderness—America's last great frontier—and many miles from any large center of population, Sun Valley still is no more than 48 hours by air conditioned train from almost any part of the country.

And, despite its seeming remoteness, the sunny community has every convenience and luxury—with accommodations to fit all purses.

Rates run from $3 a day in comfortable, bunk-style rooms of Swiss chalets to top lush suites with sun rooms and private sun decks, $46 a day, at famed Sun Valley Lodge. Offering medium price private rooms is Challenger Inn bordering the village square.

Luxurious Base Camps
The range of Sun Valley activities is as wide as its rates and are open to all guests, no matter what their room tariffs.

For the lovers of the outdoors, Sun Valley is a luxurious base camp from which roads and trails fan out to sport and adventure in the back country—a camera fan's paradise.

But there are fun and sport aplenty at the village itself for the vacationer who wants a more leisurely pace: swimming in two shining outdoor pools, golfing on a superbly-groomed course and ice skating on the open air rink, a dazzling square of whiteness bordered by broad green lawns.

Wide Fun Range
Here, too, are tennis courts and skeet and trap fields. The latter will be the site of the Sun Valley Handicap shoot July 1-2-3-4 and 5 and the colorful Shotgun Indian Pow Wow Trapshoot July 29-30-31 and August 1.

A few steps away are Sun Valley

Lake and its tributary, Trail Creek, for boating and easy angling.

In Sun Valley Lodge are bowling alleys, pool and ping-pong tables. Expert instructors are available for all sports.

Bicycling or riding in a glossy black victoria carriage on the winding village streets one sees lawn bowling, croquet, horse-shoe pitching and archery courts.

Room For Resting
There's also plenty of space for that precious vacation activity, "resting," on great stretches of lawn dotted with brilliant flower beds and laced with tiny streams that feed sparkling lagoons.

For ranging farther afield the corral with its oldtime wranglers' shack holds the pick of a string of a hundred saddle horses waiting to roam the foothills that rise on all sides. More modern means of transport are available, however, for trips to nearby streams that offer the best dry fly fishing in America. Jeeps and station wagons also carry picnickers to Rocky Boulder Basin where there's skiing in July and to Redfish Lake for boating and swimming at the foot of snowy crags.

River Of No Return
Towering 3,000 feet above the village is Baldy Mountain. Lazy climbers top it in minutes on the chairlift that runs twice weekly throughout the Summer to wing them smoothly and silently upward through hardy evergreen forests.

From here in the sharp mountain air the view is of the steep rock faces and lofty peaks of the Sawtooths, guardians of the Idaho primitive area.

At Sun Valley's back door is the rugged country of the middle fork of the Salmon, fabled "River of No Return." Trips by car and pack horse with experienced guides are made from Sun Valley to this unparalleled haunt of deer, elk and mountain goat.

Dinner And Dancing
Meals at Sun Valley Lodge are a terrace delight. Under the great awning diners enjoy fine cuisine to the music of Hap Miller's orchestra and the sight of whirling skaters on the rink.

Across the village at the Tyrolean Ram, there's dinner and dancing to the Sun Valley Trio's brightly styled tunes.

Economy's the word at Challenger Inn's Continental Buffet. This restaurant also features terrace dining and help-yourself service from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. Fun doesn't stop when the sun drops behind Baldy Mountain. Hap Miller and his band play nightly at the swank Duchin Room in the lodge. There are weekly ice shows under the stars and at the Ram, the riotous Roundup, a beerfest and variety show. Especially fitted out for young folks is the Slalom where the teenage set finds happy times with the aid of a juke box and coke bar.

Moontide Hayride

For young parents Sun Valley holds special appeal. While mother and dad are off enjoying the varied activities of the resort, their children three years or older can be left under the watchful eyes of carefully trained supervisors all day long—at no charge.

At the playground are toys, sand-boxes, swings and slides and the favorite of all small-try, Jocko, the funniest, gentlest burro in the West. At night competent "sitters" are always available.

Sun Valley's ski lift on Baldy mountain is as popular with Summer guests as with skiers in Wintertime. From the 9,250-foot summit a breathtaking view of Idaho's Sawtooth mountains stretches range on range as far as the eye can see.

MIGHTY PRETTY CATCH—On Trail Creek, a stone's throw from Sun Valley, a pretty angler nets an Idaho rainbow. Miles of good trout streams fan out from the Union Pacific vacationland in the Sawtooth Mountains, tempting amateur and expert alike to test their skill.

Jim Nevins Resigns Crane School Post For Winters Duties

Jim Nevins has announced his resignation as Crane elementary school principal, to accept the superintendency of the Winters Independent School effective June 15.

In his resignation, he expressed his appreciation to the board of education and school administration for their full cooperation, during his time here, and in their assistance in his new position. No successor has been named.

He has taught six years in Crane, as principal here the last three years, and was a band instructor three years at another time. Between the two periods, he was band instructor in Sweetwater. He also taught at Texas Tech and Pampa. In his teaching besides band are history, aeronautics and geography. Nevins is a graduate of Ahlens High School, and has both his bachelor of arts and masters degrees. He also has done work on his doctorate in the University of Wyoming.

OFFICE BOY LOST ON ROAD

Art Sherwood of the department staff said the employe, rather than face embarrassment, parked the car behind a haystack and walked to a filling station for directions.

Americans To Set New Travel Records In Summer Of '53

Americans will leave home this year in greater numbers than ever before—which is good news to the nation's $4,000,000,000-a-year vacation industry.

Hotel men and travel agencies optimistically predict 1953 will bring the greatest travel boom since the invention of the internal-combustion engine.

The great trek to greener lands or whiter hills has been going on since the first of the year. During January, February and March an estimated 15,000,000 vacationing workers and their families left the office and work bench to sun in the South or ski in the North. Others just rested in the middle Atlantic spas or visited the historical sites of the big cities.

No Abatement Seen

This is more than a 100 per cent increase over the 1,000,000 people who could afford a Winter season in the sun back in 1940.

There's been no abatement of this travel bonanza, either. Reservations for Spring holidays are well above former years and hotels, railroads, air lines and cruise ships are booked solidly well into the Summer.

Behind this boom, there's more than just a mass wish to extend the horizon past the familiar neighborhood. One expert on our seasonal migratory habits, J. E. Farr, executive vice president of Schenley Distributors, Inc., attributes the current

CHIVALRY NOT DEAD: LAW IS

PITTSBURGH—The wife of an attorney tells how she escaped receiving a traffic ticket by telling the truth about her husband.

"If I know these attorneys, he'll have this fixed up, so don't worry about it," said the policeman who stopped her speeding car.

"That's where you're wrong," she said. "If I get a ticket, he won't try to fix it. He'll have to pay it out of my own money."

The woman said the cop stopped writing and declared:

"Oh, he's one of those guys, eh? Well, if he won't take care of it, I will," and he tore up the ticket.

Riders In The Sky Vacation At Airman's Flying L Ranch

One of the first dude ranches to take to the air, the Flying L spreads over scenic hills near Bandera, popular Texas resort city, and offers one of the largest swimming pools in Southwest Texas, a fine string of homes, real Western food, and modern guest cottages.

Vacationers who have flown the 40-mile northwest from San Antonio will find 12 duplex cottages, each named after a famous airship, and a large rambling Ranch Lodge nestling among towering live oak trees. Each cottage has its own living room, central heating, natural fireplace, two bedrooms, two bathrooms and two screened porches. Up to 16 guests can be accommodated in the Ranch Lodge.

Appetizing meals are served in the Pilots' Lounge or "in the rough" during the horseback rides and evening barbecue.

WHERE EAST MEETS WEST—When the sleek thunderbird of the modern age settles down on the paved Flying L Ranch airstrip its pilot turns back the calendar to the colorful days of the Old West. Boots and saddles are the order of the day, and the accent has a Texas twang as the riders recall how "there I was at 10,000 feet..."

Survey Shows Cost Of Pecos Government Well Balanced

PECOS—A special survey of the municipal finances of 684 cities in the under 25,000 population group shows Pecos to be spending relatively more than most of the others and taking in greater revenue than the average.

The data, gathered and published by the International City Managers Association, supplements data for larger cities, covering 1951.

Many of the cities have been subjected to severe financial pressures because of inflation and the national defense effort have forced salaries up and required larger budgets for materials and supplies.

In Pecos, the expenditures for the year totaled $672,000 amounting to $34 for every resident. This was more than the cost of municipal activities in most cities in the 5,000 to 10,000 group, which was $52 per capita.

For the cities generally almost 10 per cent of the spending was for principal and interest payments on city debt. In Pecos, it was 24 per cent.

The figures are for municipal governments only and do not reflect the finances of counties, school districts

UNVEILING IN TWO WEEKS— Student Paint Big Mural For High School Cafeteria

Within two weeks Midland High School will be decorated with a mural in the school cafeteria, the first mural to be painted on a school building here.

The artist is James Johnson, 18-year-old senior, well known at Midland High School for his interest and participation in art, speech and journalism.

A student of Inez Parker, public school art consultant for Midland, Johnson recently began work on the mural which is approximately eight feet high and 50 long.

Depicts MHS Activities

The mural colorfully depicts every activity in the school, including arts and sciences, shop work and sports. The youthful painter says it is the largest mural he has undertaken to date.

Johnson has won six places in state art contests during the last four years. In 1951 he took first place in the national contest in the pen, ink and water-color division. His senior portfolio of a mural like the one being painted in the cafeteria was entered in the national competition this year at the Carnegie Institute in Philadelphia.

He won second place out of 49 entries in the state high school poetry reading contest held in Waco in March of this year.

Artistic Activities

At the high school Johnson is an art editor on the school's annual staff and is active in journalism and speech as well as art. He also writes a weekly column for the Bull-dog page of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and conducts a Saturday morning half-hour broadcast over radio station KJBC, concerning youth and called "Teen Review."

He also gives the regular Saturday noon news broadcast over the station.

James expects to have his mural completed by May 18.

Bells On His Toes Helps Tot's Mother Keep Up With Him

LOS ANGELES—Twenty-month-old Mike Conrad thinks he's a pretty lucky young fellow to have bells on his toes.

Although he occasionally bumps into things, he likes to toddle around the house just so he can hear their pleasant tinkle.

The little bells, tied to his shoes, were the idea of his mother, Mrs. Paul Conrad, 33. She decided she needed to know the whereabouts of the active, energetic youngster and the bells tell her.

Thus she can do her housework and, by the way the bells tinkle, she can tell where Mike is and pretty much what he is doing.

If you think Mrs. Conrad is keeping closer tab on her son than most mothers, she considers it necessary. Since birth, Mike has been blind.

Cost Of Insulting Colleagues Tallied

ROME—(P)—Talk costs about 20 cents a word in Italy's long-winded, name-calling Parliament. That's based on the official statistical records of the Chamber of Deputies itself for the last five years.

The figures are taken from the number of words deputies have used in five years and the operating costs of the chamber. Many deputies wonder whether most of the words have been worth the 20 cents. They've included some dances, however, in this chamber where insults are common.

Still based on the chamber's own statistics, the most frequently hurled insults have been—in this order—"fascist," "shameless liar," "shut up, you rascal," "scoundrel," and "coward." Crowding close after these, in number of times used, have been "slave of the Americans" and "shame on you."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Senator Robert H. Wagner was pioneer social reformer; Coalition ticket of Roosevelt and Willkie backed by WASHINGTON—An old man who came to this country from Germany at the age of eight died in New York the other day. He was almost 78, and during those years he had written more laws to help the common man than any other person in the history of this nation.

Most people will remember Bob Wagner for those laws—old-age pension, unemployment insurance, the Wagner Labor Relations Act—and rightly so. But I shall always remember him because of a role he played in trying to get Wendell Willkie to run with Franklin Roosevelt on a coalition Democratic-Republican ticket in the closing years of the war.

Had those efforts been successful in 1944 the post-war history of the United States might have been entirely different.

I have never written this story in full, partly because I played a personal and confidential role in it. However, most of the people involved are dead now, and there is no reason why it cannot be told.

In the early Summer of 1944 when it was apparent Franklin Roosevelt planned to run for a fourth term, the jockeying for No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket became intense. The friends of Henry Wallace demanded that he be renominated as vice president. Friends of Justice William O. Douglas, led by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, were less vocal but more persuasive.

Many Southern Democrats still urged Jimmie Byrnes, while the big city bosses—Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Ed Kelly of Chicago, Frank Hague of Jersey City and Bob Hannegan of St. Louis—were bent on nominating Harry Truman.

All knew that the life expectancy of the President was such that the man who became vice president was likely to end up in the White House.

Willkie Gets FDR's O.K.
During the period between his defeat in 1940 and 1944 I had come to know Wendell Willkie well. One day in New York some weeks before the Democratic convention I sounded him out on the idea of being the vice presidential candidate on a coalition ticket.

At first he pooch-pooched the idea, said the Democrats would never go for it. But the more we talked about it, the more he warmed up. Finally he agreed to stand still until Roosevelt himself could be sounded out.

The man who did the sounding was Leo Crowley, then head of the Federal Economic Administration. He came out of the White House with the confidential information that the President would welcome the idea of Wendell Willkie as his running mate, provided there was a spontaneous move from the Democratic convention to nominate him. He added that he didn't want anything that smacked of a political deal.

Simultaneously he scribbled a note to Willkie in longhand, and it later was typed by his secretary, Grace Tully. The President left for the West Coast and Alaska almost immediately, so he never actually signed the note, but it was mailed to Willkie.

Wagner Sparks Move
The Chicago convention began at once. The problem there was to arrange the spontaneous move for Willkie that FDR wanted, and to this end I told Senator Wagner, the grand old man of the Democratic Party, about our conversation.

He reacted with enthusiasm. His plan was to make the Willkie nominating speech himself, and he delegated Leon Keyserling, his former secretary, later head of the Council of Economic Advisers, to start writing the speech. Wagner called in various members of the New York delegation in my presence to unfold the Willkie idea, and they too were enthusiastic. I was a little surprised that Edward Loughlin, then head of Tammany, vouchered to second Willkie's nomination.

Wagner talked to other key Democrats at Chicago while I talked to several newspapermen, among them David Stern, then publisher of the Philadelphia Record. They agreed that, faced with the deadlock between Wallace and Truman, the Willkie nomination should be a natural. They also felt that Willkie's name on the ticket would be a great thing for the unity of the nation.

Most of this took place during the preliminary days of the convention, actually before the convention got down to business.

Officially Willkie wasn't supposed to know what was happening. However, I had been on the phone to New York keeping him posted, and at one point Senator Wagner seemed so confident that our plan would succeed that this message was conveyed to Willkie: "When the nominating speech is made placing your name before the convention, the only thing we ask is that you make no comment. Give the movement a chance to grow."

Senator Wagner felt that the psychological moment to make the nominating speech was after the expected deadlock between Truman and Wallace had developed. But he made one mistake, and there was also one factor he could not get around. This was the fact that Roosevelt was on his train crossing the continent and either could not or did not want to take telephone calls.

Big City Bosses Win
Therefore Wagner relied on the President's supposedly closest political advisers—Ed Flynn, Bob Hannegan and the big city bosses. This was his great mistake.

For at about 3 a.m. on the day before the balloting on the vice presidency got down to grips, Wagner got word from the bosses that the nation failed.

Wendell Willkie died shortly after this, and I have always been convinced that as much as anything he died of a broken heart—not so much over this, but because this came on top of other disappointments. For him the excitement of living was no more.

And not long afterward, the other great man, Robert Hans Wagner, who came to this country as an immigrant boy from Germany, who had pioneered a new social program for his fellow men—unemployment insurance, old-age insurance, a standard work week, the curtailment of child-labor, a nation-wide system of employment bureaus, workmen's compensation, the right of labor to bargain—got sick.

The other day he died. But the help he gave millions of other people will continue through the decades long after his name, his courage and his compassion for mankind have been forgotten.

Roosevelt wanted Truman, not Willkie.

The senator was a man of party discipline. During his long career in the Senate he had almost never bucked the President. He had been brought up that way—from the day he and Al Smith had served together in the New York Legislature. So he did not argue. He did not question the word of the party bosses. Nor would he make the Willkie nominating speech in view of their veto.

Personally I always doubted that Hannegan et al had ever really reached the President. For there was no step they would not have taken at that time to put across their man.

Thus the great chance to unify

City's Championship Rodeo Has Role In Vacation Plans

Vacation time and rodeo time hit in Midland and West Texas about the same time, and the early June vacationer surely will want to include the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo—June 3-7—in his vacation plans.

The Midland Rodeo annually is the big entertainment event of the Permian Basin Empire, attracting rodeo fans from over the great Southwest. More than 25,000 persons witnessed last year's rodeo and plans are being made to handle record crowds this year.

The 1953 Midland Rodeo promises to be the biggest, best and most colorful in the long history of Midland Rodeo—thrills, chills and spills galore being assured at each performance.

The big area event surely is one of West Texas' top vacation and entertainment attractions.

Top Cowhands
The top cowhands of the nation will be on hand at Midland Rodeo to tackle the world's meanest rodeo stock—competing for purses and prizes totaling more than $12,000.

The show, incidentally, is produced by Everett E. Colborn, internationally known rodeo producer of Dublin, Texas, who also will furnish the tough stock. The annual show is sponsored by Midland Fair, Inc., of which Marion Flynt, Midland rancher is president.

A mammoth parade through the downtown streets of Midland at 4 p.m. June 3, will open the annual celebration. Scores of floats, hundreds of riders, clowns, and miscellaneous units will be included in the line of march.

Then, promptly at 8 p.m. that night, the curtain will roll back on the greatest rodeo of them all—the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo.

Night performances only will be presented June 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 at Midland Fair Park on East Highway 80.

Thrilling Experience
From the grand entry, opening each performance, to the final bull riding event, will be one thrilling experience after another for the contestants and spectators alike. Saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, wild cow milking, steer wrestling and bull riding are the feature events of the rodeo. A cutting horse contest is another special attraction.

In addition to all this, the top novelty and specialty acts of the rodeo world will perform each night in front of the huge steel grandstand at Fair Park.

"Never a dull moment" is the pledge of the rodeo officials.

THIS IS NEW YORK

BY NORTH CALLAHAN

NEW YORK—Ward Morehouse joined me for lunch and we soon discovered we had picked a good place, thanks to our mutual friend, Ray Erwin, Editor and Publisher and formerly of North Carolina. The place is called "The Dewey Room" and is at 80 East 84th Street. It is the only restaurant in New York City that we know of, which serves genuine old-fashioned Southern cooking.

Lottie Pierce is the personable owner-hostess of this restaurant, but in her delightful culinary activity she is not alone. A clan of twelve relatives from Mississippi and Alabama help her run the place, and they turn out an assortment of fried chicken, hot biscuits, corn-bread, turnip greens, black-eyed peas and apple cobbler that are something for Manhattanites to marvel at. Others do too. Miss Pierce has a personal note of thanks from Winston Churchill, and one from Mamie Eisenhower. Ward Morehouse who has eaten all over the world, said this was his biggest meal since his recent stomach operation.

When I sat down, Ward had just autographed a copy of his new book, "Just the Other Day," published by McGraw-Hill, for a handsome young actor, Pat Anthony, who is striving hard here to make the theatrical grade. Not all of the interesting experiences of this veteran drama critic are chronicled in his column "Broadway After Dark" for the Scripps-Howard papers. I learned, Nor does Ward just take up where some of us leave off in the daytime. He has traveled a half-million miles, he told me, since he left his native Georgia to come to this city. Three things lured him from home: printer's ink, wanderlust and the stage. He has pursued successfully all three.

This is the way he tells in the book of getting his first job on the Savannah Post: "My ascent of those rickety stairs to ask for my first newspaper job remains one of the most terrifying of life's experiences. I faltered at the top step and considered a retreat. Then quickly in a now-or-never move and mood, I turned into the corridor, walked through a doorway, and was in the presence of the short, pudgy flat-topped Billy Suttle, a South Georgia cyclone." Ward worked for a time for nothing then got $9 a week. For $17.50 a week he was attracted to the Atlanta Journal. There he went to the Federal penitentiary with Arthur Brisbane and Frank Munsey—but it was only on a visit when the two came to town.

Hearty Slug Of Vodka Helps Defrost Cold War Atmosphere

By Grace Halsell
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

VIENNA, AUSTRIA—The Soviets tossed a party here and the Cold War warmed up like your solar plexus after a slug of vodka. As the "white fire" was washed down, together with a goodly amount of caviar and sweet cakes, the Four Powers floated around in a sea of mutual well-wishing. The commander of Soviet troops in Vienna, Major General Boryok, toasted me with a vodka and said I looked like a girl of 20. A Russian colonel, with a long wavy lock hanging down in his fierce blue eyes, wrote me some sort of note (it's in Russian and I can't read it) and his telephone number (I can read it) and then as a further token, presented me with his fountain pen.

This, of course, called for my giving him my fountain pen. A Soviet Captain George, clean-shaven and handsome with a perfect command of English language, insisted on giving me instructions on drinking vodka.

"You are among friends," he assured me. "Never sip vodka," he told me. "That is for wine." One should drink one's vodka in one swallow. First Experience

Upon my Methodist's word, I have never tried a bourbon or a Scotch or any liquor on my life, but I tried the vodka—Russian style. My Russian friend rushed over for one of the caviar canapes, and it briefly blanketed the fire raging inside.

About this time, the Soviet general came back, a mammoth mountain of a man, with more compliments and a wish to toast my health. Another vodka—the Russian way. It was the general who only the day before had given me permission to interview a Soviet soldier on Vienna's "International Patrol."

"And how did you like our boy?" he asked through our interpreter. The Russian captain who stayed at my side throughout the three-hour social. "Nice," I said. "And could you have fallen in love with him?" the general asked. "Does the general mean could I fall in love with him?" I replied.

"Such a dangerous woman," he replied, moving to another group. As Americans and Russians encountered each other, toasts to health were drunk and more cigarettes were exchanged than prisoners at Panmunjom.

The Russian cigaret is about the length of a king-size, but only one-third of it has tobacco in it. The rest is hollow.

On meeting a Russian, the typical remark seemed to be: "And how do

Famed Acapulco Hotel Gives Due Honors To Early Guests

When Carlos Barnard, founder of Acapulco's first great hotel, the famous El Mirador, decided to hold a typical Mexican fiesta to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of its opening, he checked back to find out the name of the very first guest ever to register with him.

The name was Aida Bleibaum and her address was San Antonio. Don Carlos got on the phone at once to try to locate the woman. He rang the Vogue Store, where she had worked but she was no longer employed there. He kept on. The man who started the first hotel in Acapulco, then an almost abandoned port, and through thick and thin helped build it into one of the world's great pleasure resorts, is not daunted easily. He kept following leads until he found Miss Bleibaum, and told her he was sending her a round-trip ticket to Acapulco by plane.

Naturally her stay at the El Mirador during the festivities, was as his guest. Besides Miss Bleibaum Don Carlos invited, on the same terms, all the other original guests who had been on hand to inaugurate the El Mirador 20 years ago.

The festivities were unending. Dancing, serenades, barbecues, banquets, and wonderful fireworks off the point of Quebrada, from which the famous diving boys launch themselves into the sea. Employees were not forgotten. All who had been with the hotel the 20 years of its operation received gold pins in the special symbol of the hotel, (a ship's wheel) adorned with diamonds, and a little plaque indicating the years of service. Employees of 18 years and 10 years service were so honored also, and there were typical abrasos and sentimental tears as the gifts were pinned on each faithful bosom.

CAPTAIN INTERVIEWED—Ranelle Rhodes, takes a quote from Capt. W. H. Holt, master of SS President Monroe, on which she is beginning a tour around the world.

12-Year-Old Midlander Tells Of Vacationing In California

By RANELLE RHODES
(Twelve-year-old Midlander who is on an around-the-world tour with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rhodes).

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—When we first arrived in San Francisco, I went across the Bay Bridge to Oakland. I really don't see how such an enormous thing could be built over such a big body of water. From this bridge you have a wonderful view of San Francisco and the famous prison, Alcatraz. By the way, they might do away with it. The view I had of Alcatraz was lovely because it was at night and it was all lighted up. It looked too pretty to be a prison. When we arrived in Oakland we took a beautiful drive up to the Clairmont Hotel. Here they have some of the most beautiful flowers in all of the San Francisco area.

New Acquaintance
I met Mr. Bell, president of the Bell Aircraft. He manufactures helicopters. He told me that the helicopters had saved more than 5,000 wounded soldiers in Korea.

Mr. Bell is on his way to Korea to see and to meet Gen. Mark Clark. He is going over on the President Cleveland and is staying in a suite called Neptune's Suite. That is where the crown prince of Japan stayed on his way to America. It really is a beautiful suite and the largest one on the ship. It has two living rooms and one bedroom and a bathroom. For one man, I think he'll have enough room, don't you?

About the second night we were here, we had dinner at the Fisherman's Wharf. This is where all the little fishing boats come in. Some of them are yellow, green and red. It's really very picturesque. But I like the cute cable cars better than anything else in San Francisco. I have ridden on them once or twice. We also rode over the most crooked street in the world—Lombard. I mean it is the most crooked street I have ever seen. The reason it is so crooked is because it is so steep that they had to make it crooked so you could drive down it.

Seals To Jade
We had lunch one day at the Cliff House where you can watch the seals play on the rocks. When we were there, however, it was so cold the seals weren't playing at all.

But anyway I saw some seals. I also have been to Gump's, the store where they have the greatest collection of jade.

We had dinner in Chinatown, where I tried my best to eat with chopsticks, but I didn't make any headway at all. I like Chinese food, but I just plain wonder what's in it. I wonder if China is going to be like this?

I have been to so many parks that I don't remember all of them. But I

I do remember the beautiful Suto Park. It has a collection of trees from all over the world.

I have been to some wonderful restaurants, but I like Trader Vick's best of all in San Francisco.

Tomorrow, we will leave on the SS President Monroe. So my next letter will be from Honolulu. Good-bye for now. See you in Hawaii.

Your excited friend,
Ranelle.
P. S. Tell everyone hello for me.

Farm Expert Says Flames Won't Kill Enemies Of Cotton

RALEIGH, N. C.—“You Can't Burn Out the Boll Weevil.” This fact is also the title of a folder issued by North Carolina State College Extension Service.

The cover of the folder depicts a raging forest fire in full color—often the result when farmers burn over their fields. The author, extension forester John Gray, writes: “You can't burn out the boll weevil unless you burn down all your barns and outbuildings, burn up all your haystacks and stored corn, burn up all woodpiles and stacks of refuse, and get all your neighbors to do the same.”

Even then, Gray writes, you would destroy only a very small percentage of the over-wintering weevils. “Fifty years experience has shown that the only effective way to control boll weevils is to fight them in the field with recommended sprays and dusts,” Gray says.

Low hanging Idaho stars form the canopy under which an ice show of professional calibre is presented at Sun Valley once a week during the Summer season.

Crime Rate Picks Up Speed As Texas Cities Count Cost

WASHINGTON—Crime increased nine per cent in Texas cities in 1952, one per cent faster than the rate for the urban centers of the nation as a whole, according to a Federal Bureau of Investigation report.

The report is based on data sent in by police chiefs of U. S. cities and towns of 2,500 or more population. The FBI says it does not vouch for its accuracy.

The information was compiled under the FBI's system of uniform crime reporting, however, and reflects general trends. Inaccuracies may occur in figures for some cities.

103 Commit Murder
Seventy-three Texas cities and towns with a total population of 3,373,523 submitted reports. Peace officers in these urban centers listed 78,033 crimes committed in 1952, as compared with 72,090 in 1951.

Reported murders and non-negligent manslaughters in these Texas population centers numbered 403 last year, as compared with 355 in 1951. Manslaughters by negligence however, dropped from 169 to 146 from 356 to 370.

Larceny accounted for by far the largest number of crimes in Texas, as in the nation as a whole. There were 43,634 thefts in the state in 1952 and 41,603 in 1951. There were 18,755 cases of burglary (breaking or entering unlawfully), from 17,111 in 1951.

Cases of aggravated assault numbered 3,406 last year, 2,923 the year before. Robberies increased from 1,310 to 1,555, and auto thefts from 8,263 to 9,765.

Figures on crimes in 1952 for principal cities in Texas include the following:

Amarillo—Four murders, 16 robberies, 92 aggravated assaults, 298 burglaries, 1,436 thefts, 376 auto thefts.

Austin—10 murders, 34 robberies, 283 aggravated assaults, 539 burglaries, 1,987 thefts, 267 auto thefts.

Beaumont—Four murders, 18 robberies, 108 aggravated assaults, 372 burglaries, 1,177 thefts, 153 auto thefts.

Corpus Christi—Eight murders, 52 robberies, 317 aggravated assaults, 743 burglaries, 1,963 thefts, 322 auto thefts.

Dallas—62 murders, 387 robberies, 904 aggravated assaults, 4,111 burglaries, 9,463 thefts, 2,468 car thefts.

El Paso—Six murders, 96 robberies, 91 aggravated assaults, 785 burglaries, 2,152 thefts, 508 auto thefts.

Houston's Problem
Fort Worth—45 murders, 148 robberies, 138 aggravated assaults, 1,871 burglaries, 4,428 thefts, 944 auto thefts.

Houston—134 murders, 346 robberies, 250 aggravated assaults, 4,426 burglaries, 6,614 thefts, 2,080 auto thefts.

Lubbock—Nine murders, 29 robberies, 61 aggravated assaults, 519 burglaries, 1,529 thefts, 205 auto thefts.

Waco—Three murders, nine robberies, 107 aggravated assaults, 297 burglaries, 926 thefts, 121 auto thefts.

Wichita Falls—10 murders, 46 robberies, 225 aggravated assaults, 310 burglaries, 1,228 thefts, 490 auto thefts.

Mom Enjoys Day's Ride, Knowing Monday Cometh

By HALE BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—On Mother's Day the rest of the family treat Mom like a person instead of an institution. But that is only one day out of the year. And Mom goes along gamely for the ride, knowing Monday she will be back in the same old spot, taken for granted like the weather and the First National Bank. Some Mother's Day a Mom is going to revolt. Her little batch of monsters and their daddy will be having her out for dinner. One of the little monsters is going to gaze across the table at her, as if seeing her for the first time in his life, and say in surprise: Bite His Nose "Why, Mom, do you know... in a way... you're even kinda pretty." But instead of dimpling her cheeks, Mom is going to reach over and bite her baby scoundrel fair and hard on his nose. And if enough mothers follow her example maybe more families will start thinking of the lady of the house as a real human being the other 364 days of the year.

Most women gallantly submerge much of their own personality and individuality in motherhood. With so many squalling small egos in the land clamoring for expression, they silently squelch their own unsatisfied ambitions, and don't make much fuss about it. If they do any crying, they do it in the dark, when the kids can't hear. Motherhood, like virtue, is often its own and only reward. Whatever Mom does to raise her kids, someone is sure to say, "I'd do it different." One school of psychiatrists blames Mom for everything that happens to her children later in life, from falling hair to mental acidosis. If she picks her kid up by the wrong foot as a baby, that is why he turns out to be a lopsided lady-hater at 90. Under this theory no mother possibly can win. Nobody ever raised a perfect child, and yet Mom gets blamed for every flyspeck and flaw that junior develops. Trouble is that nobody can tell Mom when she is helping junior build a sturdy character, and when she is bruising his fine sensitive little nature.

Rev. Vernon Yearby Yearby To Address College Graduates

The Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Midland, will preach the baccalaureate sermon May 17 at Mary Hardin-Baylor College, Belton. Mr. Yearby, now in his second year as moderator of the Permian Basin Baptist Association, is a member of the executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, a trustee of Hardin-Simmons University and of South Texas Children's Home, and a member of the board of directors of Paisano Baptist Encampment. Dr. L. R. Elliott, librarian of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, will give the commencement address Monday, May 18.

'PEOPLE JUST DON'T BELIEVE IT'

Midland's Record Boom Recounted In 'Bee-Hive'

Midland, the headquarters city of the Permian Basin Empire, has scored again as the result of a publicity "hit" which cleared the bases. "Boom Town 1953" is the title of an illustrated, feature story on Midland, appearing in the Spring issue of "Bee-Hive," a magazine published by the United Aircraft Corporation at East Hartford, Conn. The article was written by John Innes, assistant public relations manager for Chance Vought Aircraft, a division of United Aircraft, at Dallas. Innes spent several days in Midland recently, gathering information and pictures for his story on Midland. "Flowing black gold!—Vast oil reserves discovered near Midland, Texas, have whirled up a small city out of the mesquite country," is the caption appearing at the top of the four-page story. "Most people just don't believe it when they see Midland, Texas—the biggest boom town of them all—headquarters city, information center and trading center of the vast Permian Basin oil empire which spreads over 46,000 square miles in West Texas and New Mexico," is the way the article starts out.

"Addison Wadley has trouble believing it, for one, and he's been watching the Midland saga develop since 1884, when he arrived with his parents in a tiny cow town of 20 little shacks. Today, more than 400 oil companies and affiliates of- fices maintain headquarters in this "white collar boom town" of 35,000 people." Innes then traces the early-day history of Midland, telling of the rapid but permanent growth and development of the city along all lines. "Other boom towns have come and gone," he writes, "but Midland, on the southern edge of the Staked Plains, halfway between Fort Worth and El Paso, booms perennially as the hub of an immense area where creation of rich oil deposits began 200,000,000 years ago in a geologic time when the Permian Sea covered all of West Texas." The author cites oil production statistics of the Midland area, along with information concerning its proven reserves. Why Midland has grown and why it will continue to grow is explained by Innes in his feature story. Breathtaking Growth "From the window of his hotel room at night, a visitor to Midland can see gas flares burning in the Permian Basin Empire, where 233 new oil fields were discovered and 5,996 new oil and gas wells, representing the cutting of 35,230,000 feet of 'hole,' were completed in 1952," Innes continues. "Below him are the rooftops of a city growing at a breathtaking rate." Concerning the oil man, Innes writes, "It's a simple matter, however, to draw what an oil man would consider an unfair picture of an oil man. "They make a lot of money but they're taxed heavily and they don't fuss about it," you are told. "And they're aware of their community responsibilities." The problems of the oil man and of the oil country also are mentioned. Ranchers also come in for considerable comment. Other interests and industries, including Midland Air Terminal, are mentioned in the feature story, along with Midland's record-breaking construction permits and bank deposits. Five photographs taken in and around Midland illustrate the article.

Bosom's Burgeoning Blamed On Clerk By Observant Judge

LONDON—(AP)—The burgeoning bosom of Laura Wilson was a clerical error, and it's Judge Wilfrid. Clothier who says so. She is entitled, therefore, the judge held Thursday, to 12 guineas ($35.28) damages from the Watson Dress Shop, where the incredible inflation occurred. Miss Wilson said she was measured for a frock at the Watson salon last Summer. A month later it was delivered and she tried it on. "It made me look like a sausage in a skin," she declared. The shop refused to take the dress back, claiming Miss Wilson had plumped "out plenty between order and delivery. To prove it, they measured her again and showed her how she had grown compared with their original measurement record. Judge Clothier compared the new and old figures and ruled for the plaintiff with this observation: "There can have been nothing like this in history. According to these figures, Miss Wilson gained three inches around the bust in four weeks."

Other period fittings, from ancient Royal Navy surplus include ash-trays, match-box-barrels, and paper knives, made of old ship's decks of teak and mahogany. Every item carries a metal plaque giving its origin and date.

The next time you find yourself alongside a new Cadillac at the traffic light—take a good look at the gentleman behind the wheel. The odds are overwhelming that you'll see a man who is relaxed and at ease. For serenity is part and parcel of the great experience of driving a 1953 Cadillac. In fact, owners frequently take to the highway just for the relaxation the car provides. And well they might. For here, beyond all question, is one of the surest therapeutics for the tension of work-a-day life! Just sitting there in the driver's seat is enough to put a man at ease. The cushions are deep and luxurious and restful... and beauty and comfort and spaciousness are in evidence at every hand. And driving a Cadillac is as restful as sitting in a Cadillac. That great, powerful engine responds as if by magic... carrying the car in and out of traffic almost as quickly and as easily as the driver makes his decision to do so. Steering is feather-light and effortless... and braking calls only for the slightest pressure from the daintiest foot. All in all, the car's ride is so smooth and level and quiet that it's difficult not to relax! Of course, if the driver has chosen a Cadillac Air Conditioner* for his car, he refreshes as he relaxes. With a simple adjustment of a single lever, he can lower the car's interior to any normal temperature he desires—even in the warmest weather. And so, as he drives, he leaves behind not only the cares of the hour... but the heat of the hour as well. Yes, it's little wonder that the man in the Cadillac always looks so comfortable and happy and relaxed. In plain fact—he is! Wouldn't it be wonderful to find such satisfaction in your own motoring? Of course it would—and that's why we suggest that you come in for a personal demonstration. We'll gladly put you behind the wheel—for the most relaxing hour you ever spent on the highway. *Optional at extra cost.

Presidential Vacation Finds First Family On Golf Course

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent
AUGUSTA, GA.—The Georgia city which has become President Eisenhower's golfing retreat, also is noted as the brick and tile manufacturing center of the Southeast. In its backyard it has what is probably the world's mightiest arsenal of war—the giant hydrogen bomb plant 10 miles across the Savannah River in South Carolina.

Blasting out of a trap at Augusta National golf club, golfer Eisenhower sprays the air with sand. The club pro, who also is his teacher, says Ike has shot as low as 84.

But the most notable landmark in Augusta is the one which attracts the President—the famed golf course which people here refer to simply as "the National" and which has enjoyed world fame for many years as the home of the Masters tournament.

Its wealthy membership was so secret that few townpeople knew who belonged until the names were published recently in a magazine. They include John Hay Whitney; Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel; Phil Reed of General Electric, and Gene Tunney.

Fees and dues are reported to be only a few hundred dollars a year—but each member is responsible for a pro-rated share of debt if the club goes into the red.

Club president is Atlanta's Bobby Jones, who retired from tournament play in the early 1930's as possibly the greatest golfer the game ever had known.

Concern For Bobby
It was a sad sight last month to watch Jones, now severely crippled by a spinal ailment, sit in a motorized cart he uses and watch his good friend Ike set out with a foursome over the course Jones helped design and where he won much of his fame.

"Where's Bobby, where's Bobby?" the President asked several times as he and Senator Robert Taft were lining up for the photographers before they teed off.

Gay And Buoyant
Anyone who might be critical of President Eisenhower for the love he lavishes on the game of golf should see the change that comes over the man when he steps out onto the course. It's particularly noticeable to the White House correspondents who see him regularly in Washington and who accompany him on his out-of-town trips. They know him as a pretty distant sort of fellow. He doesn't call them by their first names. It's always "Mister."

"We're about as close to him as we are to the North Pole," says one. "He is still strictly a five-star general," says another. "And don't you forget it."

They all knew the strain he had been under recently in connection with formulating the new government peace policy, and they were pleasantly surprised to see him gay and buoyant when he invited them out to the "National" the other day. III Tee Shots

He still didn't first-name anybody but he gave the group a casual wave and a grin and said, "Hya," when he passed them on the way to pose for some pictures.

He was wearing a bright red golf jacket, gray flannel trousers and a gray plaid cap, and tan spiked golf shoes of a heelless "wedge" design. For the benefit of cameramen both the President and Senator Taft hit a couple of tee shots on the sharply downhill tenth hole.

Both hit good balls, even discounting the pressure of performing before cameras. Their four drives landed pretty close together, about 230 yards out.

Eisenhower's Score
It can be said that Senator Taft has a wider, easier swing than the President, but the latter was revealed to have beaten the senator the day before by shooting either an 86 or an 87. Bobby Jones said it was 86 and Ed Dudley, pro at the National and the President's teacher, said 87. Dudley added that the President shot an 84 at the National in November.

The President's backswing seems a little cramped and restricted and he seems to have a tendency to get a little too much right hand into his shots.

But one of the caddies who was in the foursome the day before when the President had an 86—or an 87—said he "was putting mighty sweet."

Beautiful Course
"He'd hop and jump on the green when he'd miss even a seven-foot putt," the caddy said.

The National is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful golf courses in the world. It lies on the site of what was once a great nursery, and in addition to the native magnolias, hickories, junipers, camellias, dogwood, azaleas, firethorn and holly, there is a wide assortment of trees and shrubs from other countries.

There also is a pond stocked with bream and bass, where the President can practice his second hobby, fishing, and beside which he often practices his third, painting.

Enjoying Himself
The new $40,000 cottage being built for the Eisenhowers will be located in a setting of holly trees and evergreen Nandina bushes.

While the President is enjoying himself in this sportsman's heaven, the 30-odd reporters and cameramen who cover him can do their golfing free as guests of the Augusta Country Club, one of the three other courses in town besides the National.

After covering the non-golfing President Truman, the game is coming hard to many who never tried it before, but most are giving it a determined whirl. "What else am I going to do around here for the next four years if I don't learn to play golf?" one of them said.

Chairlifts Roll In Summer, Thrill Guests Of Colorado

From the Roof of the Rockies to the top of the world, by chairlift! That's the new thrill awaiting visitors to Colorado this year!

All this Summer, tourists will climb astride the chairlifts at Berthoud Pass, Arapahoe Basin and Aspen in Colorado and zoom up the mountainsides to view the glorious spread of mountain ranges and alpine meadows.

For many the chairlift ride is "the high point of a Colorado vacation" for it offers scenic panoramas hitherto unviewable and unphotographed except after long, arduous mountain climbing.

On Continental Divide
Nearest chairlift to Denver is at Berthoud Pass, only 57 paved miles from the Mile High City, on transcontinental U. S. Highway 40. The highway trip to Berthoud Pass is itself a scenic journey, frequented by lovely, gentle curves offering magnificent sweeping views of the higher ranges. At the summit of Berthoud Pass, 11,315 feet high, stands Berthoud Pass Lodge, Summer recreation center and hub of Colorado's Winter skiing activities.

Here the visitor takes his seat in one of the safe, comfortable double chairlifts and is whisked to an altitude of 12,000 feet to the very backbone of the Continental Divide, separation point between the Atlantic and Pacific Ocean watersheds.

Atop the Divide, tourists, sightseers and photographers have a field day drinking in the breath-taking panorama of mountain giants looming to the north, west and south. Over six miles of the serpentine U. S. Highway 40 are visible at one time. All Summer long, from dawn to dusk, the Berthoud Pass chairlift takes riders to the top.

The Arapahoe Basin chairlift, at the popular ski spot of the same name, just 68 miles from Denver, on the west side of Loveland Pass, on U. S. Highway 6, carries the visitor on a three-mile ride over flower-dotted alpine meadows up the higher ranges to an elevation of 12,500 feet.

Taking 40 minutes for the entire ride, the tourist is afforded endless opportunities to photograph the Colorado Rockies from many different angles. Scheduled for a July 4 through Labor Day season, the Arapahoe Basin chairlift may be operated earlier and later, according to the weather.

Ski Tourney Sites
Nestled on the fringe of Colorado's White River National Forest is another favorite Colorado ski center, also boasting a chairlift for Summer visitors. It is famous Aspen, site of many national ski tournaments.

Here visitors can ride to the summit of Ajax Mountain, 11,300 feet high, with no more exertion than sitting in a rocker. Featuring the world's longest chairlift, operated in two sections, each a 30-minute ride, visitors can look down over the pine forests to distant meadows, across to towering peaks. The Aspen chairlift has a 300-passenger-per-hour capacity and is 14,000 feet in length, with an overall vertical rise of 3,400 feet.

On the way up and on the way down, chairlift viewers catch thrilling new views of the color-plashed terrain with every turn of the head. Tasty Atmosphere

Colorado's three Summertime chairlifts make available mountain views and photographic opportunities that for many visitors are the highlight of a Colorado vacation.

The crisp, tangy atmosphere and clear blue skies, together with the bright, warm sunshine provide an invigorating that is the tonic for refreshing work-weary minds and bodies.

Coupled with the special chairlift facilities, Colorado in 1953 will offer visitors new highways to adventure in the mountains. Newly opened concrete highways now sweep alongside tumbling, white-watered brooks, through granite-walled canyons, past lush meadows and over exciting mountain ranges.

When you vacation for fun under the Colorado sun, make sure your itinerary includes a ride on one of state's three chairlifts.

"Mamie's Cabin" is the name they've given the house that will rise on this site at the National golf club. It will house the President and his wife during visits to Augusta.

Cost Of Farm Price Supports May Shove U. S. Debt To Limit

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Government officials said Friday the nation will go in the red no less than $6,500,000,000 this fiscal year and possibly as much as $8,500,000,000.

The most probable deficit figure June 30, say officials, whose jobs include watching the nation's finances, is between seven and one-half to eight billion dollars.

Former President Truman estimated that the government would spend $5,900,000,000 more than its income in the current, 1953, fiscal year. Specialists in government finance are estimating the deficit will be at least 600 millions more than Truman forecast and possibly as much as $2,000,000,000.

Larger expenditures than expected for support of farm prices, and lower revenues, especially from corporation income taxes, have boosted estimates of how much more the government will spend than it takes in.

A bigger deficit means increased borrowing by the government, and a bigger national debt at the end of the fiscal year, now less than two months away.

If the debt at the end of this fiscal year is substantially bigger than Truman's $263,900,000,000 forecast, that would mean it might run into the 275-billion ceiling in the 12 months beginning July 1 unless the new Administration is able to pare fiscal 1954 expenditures forecast by Truman or Congress lifts the debt limit.

RESORTS GET LOANS

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND—(AP)—Newfoundland has a government loan plan to bring its tourist accommodations up to the standard of its tourist attractions. A loan board is empowered to grant loans which can range as high as $30,000 to resort operators.

Many fine figure skaters find Sun Valley, Idaho, ideal for Summer-time. The outdoor artificial ice rink makes it possible to combine skating practice with the benefits of the mountain sunshine.

THEY MEET AGAIN—Regularly Russian and American greet other formally in changing of the guard at Berlin's Spandau Prison where a handful of aged Nazi war criminals while away their last years. Cold war formality has replaced the whoops and cheers of an earlier meeting of the two armies on the Mulde River.

Eight Years Change Outlook Of G. I. Joe, Ivan Of Russia

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON—(AP)—They seem almost incredible now, those happy and exciting days eight years ago when Americans and Russians found it easy to be friends on the banks of the Mulde River in Germany. That was on the eve of the Nazi surrender May 7, 1945.

For a few days, there was no cloud of suspicion or distrust. Ivan and Joe found pleasure in each other's company. They had no trouble getting along.

They had met at the town of Torgau in the role of victors near the end of the long and bitter march into Germany. As far as these soldiers in the ranks were concerned, there was no reason why they shouldn't be friends. They accepted each other on even terms.

They Meant It

There on the Mulde, we correspondents watched them throw their arms about each other and whoop with delight. They toasted with champagne in beer mugs and talked in sign language when they couldn't fathom each other's spoken words. They exchanged invitations to parties and swapped gifts. They insisted they wanted to live at peace. And they meant it.

But then came a subtle change. The Russians who had been so friendly withdrew into a shell. The Russian officers undoubtedly acting on orders from above began to cut themselves and their men from association with the Americans. They gradually strangled the thriving spirit of friendship even while the world cheered the defeat of Hitler's hordes as the way to peace.

The show of friendship at first had extended even to the generals. Russia's Gen. Ivan S. Koniev invited America's Gen. Omar Bradley to his headquarters for a feast. Tables were laden with caviar, sturgeon, mounds of other food, and carafes filled with vodka and wine. A soldier's chorus sang magnificently; they even sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and brought the American guests to their feet cheering.

Bradley returned the courtesy, laying on an American-style feast for Koniev and members of his staff. The Americans weren't going to be outdone in hospitality.

Bradley has recounted how he took Koniev into his war room and showed him the Allied might reflected on his maps. The Russian was treated as an ally.

If Left Alone

Later Bradley told me: "The war was over so far as we were concerned. I didn't see any reason why he shouldn't see my war map." Then Bradley added wryly: "But Koniev didn't show me his war map."

And so it was in many ways—some small and some large that the Russians began to roll down their Iron Curtain. But not before the Russian soldiers had shown they were ready if left alone to be friends with the Americans.

Many a Russian must have gone back home to tell his family and neighbors about those days of friendship. Ivan must sometimes wonder why peace with America seems so difficult when he found friendship with Americans so easy. That is the real tragedy of this eve of the eighth anniversary of victory in Europe.

Food Can Expedite Old Age Symptoms

RALEIGH—(AP)—Are you eating your way to an early age? Age always can't be measured in birthdays says Miss Virginia Wilson, State College Extension nutritionist. Scientists today agree that much of what is regarded as aging actually may be signs of poor food habits, she says.

Dr. Edward J. Stieglitz, an authority on the science of aging, says what you eat between the ages of 40 and 60 helps decide your health in later years. Many of the "old age" diseases of the heart, arteries, kidneys and joints find their beginning during the middle age period. The right foods in the right amounts are important aids in slowing up these old age symptoms.

Camp For Diabetics Changes Its Name

GAINESVILLE—Indicative of the broader scope of territory from which diabetic children are being attracted to Camp Sweeney, Gainesville's non-profit Summer camp, the name of the foundation operating the camp, has been changed.

Guided by a majority vote of directors, conducted by mail, the name has been changed to Southwestern Diabetic Foundation, Inc., replacing the name of Sweeney Foundation, Inc., which had been used since the organization was started six years ago.

The change was made with the concurrence of Dr. J. Shirley Sweeney, who remains as medical director of the foundation, but the Summer camp itself will continue to be known as Camp Sweeney. The change affects only the foundation. The first of three Summer semesters of Camp Sweeney will open June 8 and continue for one month. Other semesters will open July 4 and August 2. The camp will close August 30.

SAFETY SERMON—This picture of a grief-stricken father collapsing at the bedside of his two badly injured children was taken at a hospital the other day. It doesn't matter where. It could happen any place—even right here in Midland. The father meant well. He had a new motor scooter and took his five-year-old son and three-year-old daughter for a thrilling ride on it. He collided with a car at a busy intersection. Result: Both children have fractured skulls. The boy also has a crushed hand and mangled foot and may never walk again. The father has head and arm injuries.

Texas' Own Padre Beach Rivals Miami; Gulf Coast Resort Area Grows Rapidly

PORT ISABEL—In that superlative style all its own, Texas has turned up a brand-new recreational area which might well be its answer to Florida's fabulous resort strip along Miami Beach.

This newly-discovered seaside paradise is Padre Island, a skinny sandbar that stretches—barely offshore—along the 120 miles of Texas coast which dips to a junction with Mexico at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

The south tip of Padre Island, as almost any good South Texan will tell you, already "out-Miamis Miami."

Blessings Of Beach

The average Winter day is warmer at Padre Beach, as the southern section of the island is called, than at Miami Beach.

There's less rainfall at Padre Beach—meaning more sunny days.

The Padre Beach surf is just as warm as the famed Florida waters. And Padre Beach is blessed with a flawless, hard-sand beach—only a few miles from the Rio Grande.

Padre beach is 10 times as long as Miami's.

As if that isn't enough, Padre Beach boosters can point out—and probably do—that Mexico is only 25 miles away by highway, compared with the 85 miles of water which separate Miami Beach from Havana, the nearest foreign port.

Padre Beach is a natural as a high-grade resort spot, and Texas—surprisingly slow to grasp its potentialities—has been striving mightily in recent months to atone for that un-Texas oversight.

Already a $2,000,000 causeway tying the upper end of the island to the Corpus Christi area has been completed.

Three Large Parks

Now the officials of Cameron County, of which the southern tip of Padre Island is a part, have embarked on an even more pretentious development program.

As a starter, they called in the New York engineering firm of Parsons, Brinkerhoff, McDonald, and Hall to chart a long-range plan involving the expenditure of more than $10,000,000 for a causeway of their own and three large parks.

Then, last July, they signed a contract with a bond syndicate for the sale of $2,750,000 worth of tax-guaranteed revenue bonds for the causeway project.

Beach And Sand

The causeway, which will span a two-mile strip of water between the mainland and the island, already is under construction. The best estimates are that it will be completed before the end of 1953.

The first of the three parks is taking shape, too.

It is situated on the southernmost tip of the island and consists of 189 acres of beach and sand. Before it is finished, $1,660,000 will be spent for improvements.

The second park—a 343-acre about a mile northward—is due for development during the next five years.

On Scenic Drive

The cost for that one has been pegged by the county at $2,050,000.

The third park will be the biggest of the group, covering 500 acres and containing $3,750,000 worth of improvements. It will be the last to be developed and will be located three miles northward.

Naturally enough, causeway development at both ends of Padre Island have inspired plans for a scenic drive that will carry tourists and sightseers the full distance down the island.

Man Behind Growth

A preliminary survey already is under way by the Texas Highway Department.

This tremendous burst of interest in bringing Padre Beach into its own as a top-rank resort wasn't generated—of course—by itself.

It came about through the concerted efforts of many men—men like John L. Tompkins of Corpus Christi.

He Boosts Area

Tompkins, one of South Texas' top boosters and a prominent figure in the development of the Corpus Christi area, was quick to spot the potentialities of the southern tip of Padre Island.

Through the years, he has plugged the area incessantly.

Today, with Padre Beach on the eve of finding its place in the nation's resort picture, he has become a virtual one-man chamber of commerce, mailing thousands of pieces of literature and interesting facts about the island every year.

Big Name Boosters

Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines, is one of Padre's leading boosters, and, so, too, is another of the nation's top airline executives, T. E. Braniff, head of Braniff International Airways.

Joe Wrather, an editor of Better Homes and Gardens magazine, has predicted that Padre, within five years, will have "a development that will rival that at Miami."

But, probably, no expression was more cherished by Padre Beach boosters than the words of Mrs. Regina McLindon, who came to Texas in behalf of Mayor William Wilforth of Miami to take an on-the-spot look at this new-found rival.

Mrs. McLindon, looked, all right. Then she spoke.

"Padre Island," she said, "will be second only to Miami Beach within 10 years."

Mrs. McLindon's Padre hosts reasoned that—coming from a dyed-in-the-wool Floridian—such a statement was a high tribute indeed.
