

Ellenburger Wildcat Scheduled To Start In SE Midland Area

Location was being prepared Wednesday for a 13,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Southeast Midland County, 25 miles southeast of the city Midland.

The prospector will be drilled by Plymouth Oil Company, Benedum-Trees Oil Company and others as No. 1 Midkiff.

Site is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 39, T-4-S, T&P survey and nine miles east of production in the Pegasus (multipay) field which produces from the Spraberry, Pennsylvanian, Devonian and Ellenburger.

It also is four and one-half miles west of Spraberry production in the Midkiff portion of the Spraberry Trend Area field.

Devonian Discovery Is In Prospect At Andrews Exploration

Humble Oil & Refining Company has a flowing Devonian discovery in prospect at its No. 2-0 University, wildcat in South-Central Andrews County, seven and one-half miles south of the town of Andrews.

The prospector found the flowing oil on a drillstem test from 10,790 to 10,900 feet. Tool was open three hours. Gas surfaced in seven minutes, with no gauge or estimate being made on volume. Mud was at the top in 45 minutes and oil in 50. It was cleaned to pits 10 minutes and then turned to tanks.

During two hours the well flowed 33.2 barrels of 48-gravity oil. Gas-oil ratio was 2,550-1.

Unloads Oil
The project unloaded a full string of oil when the test tool was pulled. Open bottomhole pressure was from 1,785 to 2,540 pounds. Shut-in pressure after one hour was 4,330 pounds.

The flow was gauged through a one-quarter-inch top and three eighths-inch bottom choke.

Operator was to core ahead. The wildcat is one location north of Humble No. 1-0 University, pumping discovery from the Wolfcamp which had no shows of oil in the Devonian.

No. 2-0 University is one and three-quarter miles southwest of Shell Oil Company No. 1-A-1 University, discovery from the Ellenburger, which had gas and a spray of oil on a drillstem test of the Devonian.

Location for No. 3-0 University is 1,800 feet from south and east lines of section 20, block 1, University Lands survey.

Texas Gulf Slates Devonian Wildcat In C-E Ector Pool

Texas Gulf Producing Company No. 4 Headlee is to be drilled as a wildcat in the Headlee (Ellenburger) field of Central-East Ector County and the same contains No. 5 Headlee will be dug as an Ellenburger test in the area.

No. 4 Headlee will be dug as a Devonian project one location east of the discovery well for Ellenburger production in the field. It also is one location north of Texas Gulf No. 2 Headlee, now in the completion stage from the Ellenburger.

Drillsite for the wildcat is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west and south lines of section 8, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey and 17 miles west and south of the city of Midland.

No. 5 Headlee will be drilled to 13,500 feet. Site is 1,800 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 8, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey.

Operations will start in the near future on both projects.

Ellenburger Makes Water On DST In Schleicher Wildcat

C. L. Norsworthy, Jr., of Dallas is taking electrical surveys on his No. 1 Powell, wildcat in Central-East Schleicher County. Total depth is 4,800 feet in the Ellenburger.

That formation was drillstem tested from 4,712 to 4,800 feet. Tool was open one and one-half hours. Recovery was 180 feet of, slightly gas cut mud and 360 feet of muddy salt water.

Operator probably will plug back, run casing and test a Pennsylvanian sand at 3,995 to 4,022 feet, where gas production was uncovered on two drillstem tests.

Location of No. 1 Powell is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 21, block A, and 23 miles east of Eldorado. That makes it (Continued On Page 16)

Texas Flood Threat Nears Crisis

Final Frenzied Push Develops In Legislature

AUSTIN—(AP)—A majority of the Senate apparently wants to leave the drivers' financial responsibility law on the books as it is now.

They refused, 17-11, Wednesday to take up a bill amending the law to require a court to fix responsibility for an accident before the state police can suspend auto and drivers' licenses.

Licenses now are suspended automatically for both parties involved in accidents causing damage of more than $100. The financial responsibility act requires operators of cars involved in such accidents to show ability to pay damages up to $15,000.

This negative action on amending the financial responsibility act in the Senate dims possibility this late in the session that the law will be changed. The bill modifying it was passed originally in the House.

Last Week Whirl
Other pending major legislation made some progress as the session began its last seven-day whirl.

The House refused to take up one of the toll road bills by a vote of 62 ayes, 63 noes. It was a bill passed by the Senate setting up provisions for private corporations to operate toll roads.

The House had voted, 75-33, to take up the lead book cover bill and had just started debate when it took a noon recess.

The Legislature adjourns finally at noon next Wednesday and a final (Continued On Page 12)

Angelo Woman Hurt When Car Overturns

Mrs. James W. Stewart, 23-year-old San Angelo woman, was injured Tuesday afternoon when the convertible in which she and her husband were riding overturned five miles southeast of Midland on the Garden City Highway.

Mrs. Stewart was treated at Western Clinic-Hospital for hand and arm lacerations and a sprained back. Her condition was not regarded as critical.

She and her husband, a Marine on leave from Camp Pendleton, Calif., were on their way to Odessa for a visit when their car overturned.

Stewart said something apparently happened to the front wheel and he lost control of the car. He escaped injury.

NO QUARTERS FOR QUARTER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower reluctantly has turned down an offer of a Texas-located Quarter Horse.

He said he would like to have the horse for one of his grandchildren but that he has no place to care for the animal now.

The offer was made by the American Quarter Horse Association at Amarillo through Rep. Walter Rogers of Tampa.

Throwing Dollars Out The Window!

Suppose you stood on a busy corner and saw a woman tossing dollar bills out of a sixth-story window. She spreads them out carefully so they will fall prettily. Quite a crowd gathering to watch, isn't there?

It would be easy to find a jury in that crowd willing to decide that the woman was a bit "off."

Every time you waste your hours shopping, shopping, shopping without knowing just where you are going or why, you are somewhat like the woman we saw a moment ago floating those pretty dollar bills from the sixth-story window.

FLOOD—Boiling water from a Louisiana river floods a school and church in Natchitoches, La., as rescue workers evacuate more than 15,000 persons in the path of the flood waters. Five persons are known to have died in storms, rains and floods that lashed the Gulf Coast area.

Merchants Ask Termination Of Half-Hour Parking Limit

Thirty-minute parking meters in the shopping district of downtown Midland appeared on the way out Wednesday.

The decision still remains with the City Council but councilmen indicated last week they would go along with the desires of the merchants themselves.

The merchants made their wishes known Wednesday as a petition, bearing the signatures of 55 business men and asking the elimination of the 30-minute meters, was presented to City Manager W. H. Oswalt.

The petition, which asks that the 30-minute meters be replaced by one-hour and two-hour meters, was presented by Jerome Grayum, former chairman of the Retail Committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

This committee was asked officially by the City Council last week to study the parking meter situation and submit its recommendations.

The petition will be presented to the City Council at its meeting at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Midland County Courthouse.

The 30-minute meters were installed approximately two years ago in the shopping area, in an effort to provide a quicker turnover of parking space for shoppers.

Last week, Traffic Engineer Jack Keese asked the council to approve a plan for substituting one-hour meters for the 30-minute meters in the area around the courthouse.

The council, in discussing this request brought up the possibility of widening the change to include Main Street and other principal shopping areas. The merchants themselves were asked for their recommendations and councilmen indicated they would follow these.

Water Consumption In Midland Spurs As Mercury Rises

Fair skies and rising temperatures brought a record-tying use of water Tuesday in Midland.

H. E. Nunn, city sewer and water engineer, Wednesday reported 8,810,000 gallons of water were used Tuesday, equaling the year's previous record set on May 9.

With the water consumption increase, workmen continued the job of completing a nine-mile, 30-inch water line to the new McMillen Field.

City Manager W. H. Oswalt, after a tour of the field Tuesday, said two-thirds of the line has been laid and there is little doubt it will be completed by June 1.

Work also is being rushed on the booster pump station. However, if this is not completed by June 1, the water will begin flowing to Midland from the new field anyway. Without the booster pump, the water would pour through the line by gravity fall, since there is about a 100-foot drop between McMillen Field and Midland.

BUMPER STRIPS AVAILABLE NOW

Midland Rodeo bumper strips—the day and night glow variety—are available free of charge at the Chamber of Commerce.

"We want to get the colorful rodeo strips on as many cars as possible to publicize the big area attraction at home and abroad," rodeo officials announced.

"Get your bumper strips, placards and rodeo literature at the Chamber of Commerce now," they said.

Rodeo Reserved Seat Sale Will Open Monday, June 1

Reserved seats for the World Championship Midland Rodeo are expected to go on sale Monday, June 1, it was announced Wednesday by George Cone, chairman of the ticket sales committee.

The reserved seat tickets, which will sell for $3, will be distributed from the lobby of Hotel Scharbauer, he added. General admission tickets at $2 each will be sold at fair park gate which will open between 6 and 6:15 p.m. each day during the rodeo.

Business firms and individuals wishing to purchase batches of the general admission tickets may do so by contacting Cone at the First National Bank, or Louis A. Bartha in the First National Bank Building, telephone 2-1361. Bartha is secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Rodeo Committee.

Cone said he would make a check on the box seats to see if any still were available.

Raging Sabine Laps Dike Top At Deweyville

The leader of forces waging a frantic fight to save little Deweyville from the muddy Sabine River said Wednesday they would win again.

This view wasn't shared by some others on the scene. One resident predicted that the levee would give way before sundown.

School Supt. C. C. Chisum reported at mid-morning the situation "is pretty well in hand." Chisum, who spent the night fighting the rising Sabine for the second time in many weeks, said he expected the dike to hold when the flood crest passes sometime Thursday.

"The levee is in good shape and some of the Army Engineers here also think it will hold," Chisum said.

Sand-bagging has raised the levee to 16 inches above the swirling flood waters and work still is going on. Chisum reported there were plenty of workers and an adequate supply of sand bags.

A reporter for the Orange Leader, Ralph Ramos, said "the situation is looking bad and they're still calling for help—all they can get" at Deweyville.

Ramos agreed with predictions that the levee probably would not stand through the day.

Upstream at Bon Wier, in Central Newton County, the river stood at its highest level in history. Officers said a number of families were being evacuated by boat.

"We're evacuating all we can find," they said.

Bon Wier is a small community with only a few stores and filling stations. All these were flooded.

Two weeks ago Deweyville whipped the angry Sabine in a similar battle. That time the waters rose only to 17.3 feet.

Early Wednesday the water stood at 17.7 and was rising an inch an hour.

Down on the levee, which is keeping the water out of 100 to 150 homes, scores of men and boys were (Continued On Page Twelve)

Midland To Get More Blowing Sand

Tuesday's high temperature for the Midland vicinity was 91 degrees, according to the weatherman at the Midland Air Terminal, who said the mark was just shy of tying the year's record of 92 degrees reached earlier this month.

Wednesday afternoon and night was expected to be mostly clear with occasional blowing sand. South to southeast winds were expected to reach 25 miles an hour.

Top Expense Fund To Expand Rodeo

More money is being spent on this year's World Championship Midland Rodeo than ever before, it was disclosed in a meeting Monday afternoon of the Rodeo Committee. The 19th annual show will run five nights, June 3 to 7, inclusive.

"All of the loose ends were picked up and we're in fine shape now," said Louis A. Bartha, secretary-treasurer, commenting on the meeting which was held in the office of Midland Fair President Marion Flynt in the Midland Tower Building.

Final details have been made for the cutting horse contest and it has been arranged to have 40 yearling heifers on hand for the event.

A telephone conversation with Everett Colborn, producer of the Midland Rodeo, confirmed that Colborn is all set and "rarin' to go," Bartha said.

"Additional funds have been allocated for the parade and rodeo itself and should make this the biggest and best rodeo here yet," Flynt said.

Also attending the meeting were John Dublin, Jr., vice president of Midland Fair; Buster Cole, Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., Frank Cowden, Jr., John Nobles, Jr., and Gerald C. Nobles, all members of the Rodeo Committee.

Lighting facilities at the Fair Park on East Highway 80 were discussed and additional lighting will be installed on a 50-foot pole to eliminate shadows.

Necessary repairs have been made at the Fairgrounds to insure the comfort and safety of spectators, Bartha said.

The Rodeo Committee is on a standby status now, Bartha added, and is ready to be called into special session if the need arises.

The next formal meeting will be held Thursday, May 28, in Flynt's office, to make final arrangements.

MIDLAND RODEO PLANS READIED—Final plans for staging the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo, June 3-7, were mapped Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Rodeo Committee of Midland Fair, Inc. Members of the panel, left to right, are: Frank Cowden, Jr., Clarence Scharbauer, Jr., Gerald Nobles, Marion Flynt, president of Midland Fair, Inc.; L. A. Bartha, secretary-treasurer; Buster Cole, John Nobles, Jr., and John Dublin, Jr.

ment. The East-West bidding is almost incredible, it must be admitted, but Sheardown certainly took full advantage of the opportunity given to him.

West opened the seven of clubs, and dummy won with the ace. Sheardown, playing the South hand, suspected that East might hold all five of the missing trumps, but decided to find out by leading the queen of hearts from dummy. This held the trick, and declarer felt a bit relieved to discover that West followed suit.

South continued by leading a low trump from dummy, finessing the jack from his hand. West discarded a spade, and it was now clear (as declarer had suspected) that East was sure to get a trump trick.

The contract was not in the slightest danger, so Sheardown looked for a way to win an overtrick or two. After some thought, he rejected the idea of discarding all of his spades on dummy's high clubs. Instead, he led his low spade from his hand toward dummy's jack.

West didn't suspect that South

Latest Atom Blast Contaminates Cars In Two-State Area

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—The Army and the Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday began final preparations for the long-awaited firing next Monday of a nuclear shell from the nation's new 280-mm cannon.

The date for the historic shot was set Tuesday, a few hours after the ninth blast of the Spring series joined communities in three states.

Radioactivity from the drifting atomic cloud contaminated almost 100 vehicles in Utah and Nevada. The AEC said the radiation was not hazardous but it nonetheless paid for giving the machines a precautionary washing.

Cars, trucks and buses were halted at check points in the Nevada towns of Alamo, Mesquite, Glendale and North Las Vegas, and in St. George and Cedar City, Utah.

The 4,500 residents of St. George were advised to stay indoors from 9 a. m. to noon.

Police in California cities as far as 400 miles from the proving grounds reported the shock was one of the heaviest ever felt. Many residents thought it was an earthquake. There was no damage.

In a broadcast to the nation, the Egyptian Premier declared, "We shall not open the battle before we are fit and ready." Warning that it would not be an easy fight, Naguib urged Egyptians to train themselves to sustain hunger and deprivations.

The Premier asserted that he and his revolutionary government believe that "Egypt's rights should be taken by force and not given by the enemy."

WASHINGTON—The United States should cease to be a member of the United Nations if Communist China becomes one, Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) says.

He introduced resolutions to that effect in the Senate Tuesday.

WASHINGTON—The time required to make an FBI investigation of Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton has delayed her clearance for a post in the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, an official of the Republican National Committee says.

Bertha Adkins, assistant chairman of the committee, said Tuesday that is the reason Mrs. Horton was not sworn in as delegate to the UN Social and Economic Commission in time to attend its current meeting.

FBI clearance of all appointees is an Eisenhower Administration policy.

Mrs. Horton, former president of Wellesley College and wartime head of the Waves, made a speech to the 1949 Wellesley graduating class in which she said members of the House Un-American Activities Committee feared the students had "been exposed to dangerous ideas" and continued, "Of course, you have, in this free marketplace of ideas."

Congress Returns Bride's Bond Money To Jilted Veteran

WASHINGTON—Another fellow got the girl but Congress may see to it that John Lampropoulos gets back the $500 bond he put up so she could enter this country from Greece.

The House approved and sent to the Senate Tuesday a bill to return the money to Lampropoulos, a Chicago shoe repair man and World War II veteran.

He posted the bond so Tassie Papadopoulos could come to the U. S. to marry him. A 1946 law authorized the admission of an alien intending to marry a veteran, if the marriage took place within three months. The bond was required to guarantee that the marriage took place.

But on the last day of three-month period, a House Judiciary Committee report said, Tassie married James Kyriazis, described as an American citizen but not a veteran.

The committee said, "It does not appear that the government has lost anything and that Lampropoulos has lost his prospective wife and his money."

Egyptian Premier Warns Of Firefight In Canal Dispute

CAIRO, EGYPT.—Premier (Maj.) Gen. Mohamed Naguib urged the Egyptian people Tuesday night to prepare for a "death or life" fight to drive British troops from the Suez Canal zone. He spoke as the British Army announced the arrival of reinforcements for its huge canal base.

In a broadcast to the nation, the Egyptian Premier declared, "We shall not open the battle before we are fit and ready." Warning that it would not be an easy fight, Naguib urged Egyptians to train themselves to sustain hunger and deprivations.

The Premier asserted that he and his revolutionary government believe that "Egypt's rights should be taken by force and not given by the enemy."

Two Washington Children Recovered From Kidnaper

NEW YORK.—A year-old boy appearing in newspapers in the two cities. The boy had spent 24 hours in the children's center here without anyone claiming him.

The Washington mechanic told police there that he met a blonde woman in a restaurant Friday, took her home to meet his family, and left her with the children while he and his wife went out for about 15 minutes. Bradford said the woman and children were gone when he and his wife returned.

Deputy Chief Inspector James B. Leggett of the New York police said Miss Grimm "has a mother complex" and had lost a baby of her own.

He also said the Manhattan district attorney's office and FBI agents were conferring in an attempt to determine what charges would be placed against the woman.

She was quoted as saying she had been drinking Friday and "blacked out," not remembering anything until she awoke on a train in Philadelphia.

2,098 Interior Jobs Abolished

WASHINGTON.—The bad news that their jobs are being abolished has reached 2,098 employees of the Interior Department by Wednesday, officials said.

The 30-day dismissal notices went out to headquarters here and to scattered field offices when deep cuts in the department budget appeared certain. Former President Truman recommended $97,251,400, President Eisenhower, $484,363,000, but the House voted $406,130,343. The department had $6,178 employees March 31.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

Behind the movie and TV screens: "Rita Hayworth absolutely will not be in the lap of anybody in the audience."

"I'm beginning to realize what they mean by the heartbreak of Hollywood."

A starlet's lament? Yes, and a star's, too!

Jeanne Crain, off the Fox payroll after 10 years and headed for zipper roles, laid it on the line just after signing up to star in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes," to be filmed in London this Summer.

"Fox was wonderful to me," Jeanne told me, "but I wasn't happy for the last few years. I wasn't permitted to go to other studios on loanouts—and I lost the leads in 'Quo Vadis' and 'Carrie.' Other girls were signed for roles I wanted at my own studio. I asked for singing and dancing roles, but the answer always was 'No.' Now, after 10 years, maybe I'll get my big chance."

George O'Brien, now 53 but as rugged and muscular as in the days when he was the screen's top adventure star, is about to take the television plunge with a telefilm series based on authentic San Francisco police files. The series will be filmed in the Bay City, where George's father, Daniel J. O'Brien, was police chief for many years.

Zsa Zsa talked and Ingrid blushed! And that's a switch! The word's seeped across the Atlantic that Ingrid Bergman was absolutely shocked by some of Zsa Zsa Gabor's philosophy on love, husbands, marriage and diamonds. The more Miss Z-Z talked, the more Ingrid blushed.

Reason behind the headlines announcing that Paramount has dropped all 3-D production: High-echelon meetings in New York and Hollywood, and a unanimous vote that the future of movies is in wide-screen epics not requiring polaroid glasses.

Kathryn Grayson's mother is very ill—the reason the singing star hasn't been seen in public for a long time. . . . A Marilyn Monroe pin-up book, made up of photos taken before her rise to stardom, will soon be on sale for 35 cents a copy.

Producer Lewis Rachmill, trying to explain that no coming-right-at-you gimmicks will be used in Columbia's third-dimensional "Miss Sadie Thompson," says it this way:

Rains Puff Onions, Reduce Sales Value

DALLAS—(AP)—Texas onion men stand to do a lot of crying over their product this year, one of the state's largest growers says.

George Coon of Garland said Tuesday the 1953 onion crop would be "the biggest money loser in history." He laid the blame to recent rains which threaten to swell Bermuda onions to "jumbo" size. The South Texas and California farmer said, "growers will be lucky to get back 50 cents for every dollar put in the ground."

Actor John Wayne Unveils More Money Woes In Court

LOS ANGELES —(P)—"I know it sounds ridiculous," John Wayne told the court, but he and his wife "just couldn't make ends meet" on his income of several hundred thousand dollars a year.

In 1951, for instance, the rugged actor testified Tuesday, his wife's extravaganzas "ate up my $160,000 net income—and some of my capital too."

Wayne is disputing his estranged mate's demand for $9,000 a month alimony pending trial of her suit for separate maintenance. His wife, Esperanza Bauer, estimates his income at $500,000 a year and says she spent more than $13,000 monthly during their six-year marriage.

Wayne, named the No. 1 box office attraction in a poll of exhibitors last year, offered these glimpses of the financial problems of being a star during his day-long testimony.

"I haven't seen one of my paychecks for 13 years—they're handled by my manager, Bo Roos."

He spends thousands of dollars on clothes, "but you'd never see me in a tie if I wasn't an actor."

"We were spending too much money, but I did not wish to argue with my wife about it—I was trying to keep my home together at the same time."

He doesn't know the details of how his income is handled, but "I know what's going on. When I want to know how I stand, I ask men I trust to brief me. I think I have enough horse sense to understand what the experts tell me."

Last year, when his wife refused to limit her spending, he notified merchants he would not be responsible for her bills.

He has assets of $500,000, but liabilities, including more than $150,000 in income tax obligations, make his net worth only about $160,000.

Toastmasters Swing Guillotine In Fun At Weekly Meeting

Midland's Toastmasters would guillotine "just about everybody under the sun"—at least that's what they decided at their meeting Tuesday evening at the Diamond Horseshoe.

Benton Howell, past president of the group, struck the first note as topic master, setting the evening's topic as "If we could guillotine anyone that we would like to, whom would we guillotine?" From there on the Toastmasters laughingly wiped out women drivers, the Russians, politicians, others and still others.

"We left Truman alone," John Braue, another past president, said. "He's out of the picture now, so there was little sense in sending him to the guillotine."

Speakers leading other discussions were Don Brown and Phil Johnson, who broke the ice, and Bob Pine, who spoke on the tools of his trade (a screw driver and similar items used to repair typewriters).

General Critic was Bob Conaway, while Edward W. Grienecks, Ray Brack and Wesley Martin served as individual critics. Their task is to evaluate the speakers in a constructive manner, Braue explained.

Grammarian Tom King kept an ear out for grammatical errors and faulty sentence construction.

Presiding in the absence of President F. H. Walker was Vice President Pine. Lloyd DeArmon was toastmaster. Time keeper was J. C. Velvin, Jr.

The education committee of Jerry Harris, Olindo G. Giraro and Braue will meet Tuesday in Hotel Scharbauer to discuss varied programs for the following month. The group, as a whole, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Diamond Horseshoe.

SURVIVOR—Mrs. J. M. Cox of Panama City, Fla., lone survivor in the crash of a Delta Airlines DC-3 near Waskom, Texas, Sunday tells newsmen from her hospital bed in Marshall that she firmly believes in miracles and that "God spared me so I could return to my 14-month-old son who is with my parents in Panama City." Nineteen persons died when the stricken ship plowed into a dense pine forest during a rain storm.

Moonshine In Lake Bestirs Animals To Uninhibited Play

DETROIT —(P)—Members of Belle Isle's usually peaceful animal herd gradually shook off Wednesday the effects of a four-day binge incurred by the dumping of 300 pounds of whisky mash into a lake on the playground island.

John Jettke, of the parks division, said deer, squirrels and birds were starting to come back to the lake.

The animals left the lake area woozy. Jettke said the squirrels first found the mash, dumped by moonshiners. The furry animals lapped up the spiked lake water and began staggering around. Some fell trying to climb trees, others just passed out at the lake edge.

AFL Aims Attack At Mining Union

EL PASO —(P)—The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, controversial storm center of many southwestern mining areas, is under attack by the AFL, which is seeking to break the independent union's hold on the non-ferrous metal industry.

AFL leaders plan to tear control of bargaining units away from the Mine-Mill, which was expelled from the CIO in 1950 for alleged Communist domination.

BERKELEY, CALIF. —(P)—Kappa Sigma fraternity Wednesday got the bill for flowers at its last dance—about $1,000 and suspension of social privileges for eight months.

The bill was high because the floral decorations came, without authorization, from the gardens of almost two dozen homes.

The University of California faculty committee and the Interfraternity Council ordered the group to make full restitution and spend eight months on social probation.

Air Force Announces First Jet Flight Over North Pole

FORT WORTH —(AP)—The Air Force Wednesday disclosed:
1. The first jet airplane flight over the North Pole.
2. The first nonstop flight of six jet B-47 bombers across the Atlantic. Two B-47s flew to Fairford, England, from Limestone, Maine, in five hours and 38 minutes April 7; they returned to the United States two weeks later.

3. The breaking of all distance and endurance records for jet airplanes—by a B-47 which, refueled in mid-air, last year flew nonstop slightly more than 12,000 miles. The latter flight was over the southern and western parts of the United States. The airplane operated out of, and returned to, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.
The unprecedented flights were made public at a convention of aviation writers.

The Air Force said the first crossing of the polar region by jet was accomplished by a Boeing B-47 Stratofortress more than a year ago.

The swept-wing bomber took off from Eielson Air Force Base near Fairbanks, Alaska, headed out over the Arctic Ocean, circled the top of the world and returned.

The exact length of the flight was not disclosed. The B-47 is in the 600-miles-an-hour class and has a range of more than 3,000 miles without refueling.

The plane was piloted by Col. Richard C. Neeley, Salt Lake City. Col. J. G. Foster, New York City, was co-pilot, and Capt. D. J. Haney, Copperhill, Tenn., was radar operator-navigator.

The transatlantic flight involved two B-47s from the Strategic Air Command 306th Medium Bombardment Wing at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla. Their average speed for the 3,120-mile eastward crossing was 535 miles an hour. The flight was accomplished without aerial refueling.

Colonel Wackwitz To Take Training Command Position

BIG SPRING — Col. Ernest F. Wackwitz, Jr., commanding officer at Webb Air Force Base since its activation, has revealed his impending transfer to a position with Headquarters, Air Training Command, Scott Field, Ill.

He will be director of flying training for the command.

His successor here is expected to be Col. Norman Callish of Washington, D. C., who is now attending the National War College.

Col. and Mrs. Wackwitz and three children expect to leave Big Spring about July 15 for his new assignment. He probably will assume his duties at Scott Field, near St. Louis, August 1.

It is believed pheasants were first taken to England by the Romans.

"QUEEN'S MEN" PUT THEM TOGETHER AGAIN—The "Queen's Men" rush forward to untangle two horses which became involved with a tree, after they bolted a Coronation procession rehearsal in London's Mall, not far from Marlborough House. Unlike the nursery rhyme, the "Queen's Men" were able to put the procession together again, and also learned how to avoid an embarrassing, and possibly dangerous, situation on Coronation Day, June 2.

Siamese Twin Sons Born To 19-Year-Old Canadian Woman

INVERNESS, NOVA SCOTIA —(AP)—One of the Siamese twins born to a 19-year-old Canadian girl here Wednesday was reported "not doing so well" Wednesday.

Dr. Ronald Ritchie, called from Children's Hospital at Halifax, said the smaller of Mr. and Mrs. Max Wyrwas' two sons "seems a bit distressed."

The twins, first children born to the husky, 26-year-old garage mechanic and his wife, were joined face to face by a common bone from close to the neck to the navel. Dr. Frank MacLeod, chief surgeon of the Inverness County Memorial Hospital, said separation of the twins "will not be considered at the present time."

Dr. Ritchie said he thought no one "can say at this stage of the game just what the outlook is going to be."

Hospital officials said the babies weighed a total of 13 pounds at birth. They were delivered by Caesarean section.

Midlander Takes Fifth Honors In Poster Contest

Seventy Midlanders have filed applications for the first time for notary public commissions. County Clerk Rosennelle Cherry said Wednesday.

These will be added to the 1,112 present notaries, which must qualify again for commissions after June 1.

Mrs. Cherry pointed out that Wednesday is the last day for filing applications by persons who want to qualify between June 1 and June 10.

Those already holding commissions do not have to file applications again but after June 1 must re-qualify and post new bonds.

The county clerk repeated that such persons are not supposed to send in their bonds before that time since they only will be returned.

GHOST VOTING COSTLY SPORT

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Mrs. Evelyn Rice, 39, drew the curtain on a voting machine and was all set to cast her ballot in the primary election Tuesday.

Suddenly, she said, a hand reached under the curtain and began pulling levers she had not intended to pull.

Assistant District Attorney Leon Katz said the hand belonged to Charles Travis, 41, who was arrested on a charge of illegal assistance in a polling booth. Travis was held in $500 bail for the grand jury.

Stories Of Pat, Christine Labeled Too Sexy For GI's

FRANKFURT, GERMANY —(AP)— An American woman publisher said Wednesday the U. S. Army has banned her weekly newspaper for American troops because of its stories about Christine Jorgensen, Pat Ward and the like.

Mrs. Marion von Rosopach of San Francisco said a letter from the Army's European headquarters had ordered her to stop printing and distributing her Overseas Weekly to the GI's because its "stories of sex and prostitution" had "raised a storm of protest from commanders in the field and others concerned with the moral welfare of military and dependent personnel."

The 27-year-old woman said an Army colonel to whom she complained told her: "You know what you have done—stories like Christine Jorgensen and Pat Ward—"

A spokesman at the Army's Heidelberg headquarters refused to comment on the matter Wednesday. "Any comment the Army has to make is in the letter written to the Overseas Weekly," he said.

Mrs. von Rosopach is the wife of Cecil von Rosopach, information officer at the U. S. Consulate here. She started her paper in 1950, and it now has a circulation of about 40,000.

The paper is printed on the press of the unofficial Army newspaper Stars and Stripes and is distributed on Stars and Stripes newstands in all military posts. Mrs. von Rosopach said she had never had "one single dime" of help from the Army and had paid Stars and Stripes $100,000 for the printing last year.

Church Council Names Panel On Maintenance Of Freedom

CHICAGO —(AP)— The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. Wednesday named a 15-member committee to watch developments in Congress and elsewhere which "threaten the freedom of the people and institutions of the United States."

Appointment of the "Committee on the Maintenance of American Freedom" was announced at the bimonthly meeting of the council's General Board, the organization's interim policy-making body, by President William C. Martin of Dallas, Texas.

Bishop Martin, in a statement, expressed his personal hope that the committee "will help the churches to recognize any threat of Communist infiltration into American life."

"No body of people is more concerned to combat communism than the church groups of our country," Bishop Martin said. "If any Communists are carrying on their subversive work under the guise of serving the church, all who have a responsibility for leadership in the church should insist that such deception shall be exposed."

Bishop Martin's appointments were authorized by the council's General Board at a meeting in New York City in March. Heading the committee is the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church. Bishop Sherrill was the first president of the council, a federation of 30 Christian churches which claims more than 35 million members.

The council's president, who also is the newly elected president of the Council of Bishops of the Methodist church, contended there is a "right way and a wrong way to combat communism."

Cites "Right Way"

"The right way," Bishop Martin said, "is to stand without compromise for Christian truth and action and to point out clearly and concretely every area of conflict."

"The wrong way is to pin a Communist label on social liberals and advocates of reform—a procedure widely resorted to today. Such methods create confusion of mind in which many people no longer distinguish between communism and honest social criticism in the old-fashioned American way. Such confusion plays into the hands of the Communists and aids the enemies of the American way of life.

"Some people are so frightened about Communist infiltration that they pay no attention to the danger of un-American methods of fighting it. Other people are so alarmed by the wrong methods of dealing with communism that they ignore the danger of communism itself. I am sure that the committee will deal effectively with both aspects of the problem."

LITTLE RED TRAIN TO GLORY—

Patte Abbott Zooms To Top Of Swiss Mountain—Anyhow

By PATTE ABBOTT
Reporter-Telegram Staff
LUCERNE, SWITZERLAND—Today, I read in our guide book, "You will take one of the world's greatest thrill rides—a trip by cog railway to the top of Mount Pilatus."
I looked from the funny little red train, with its tiered seats, up to the snow-capped peak and back.
Not me, I thought. I'll take my thrills on the merry-go-round.
"Our train," the conductor said, "will climb 7,000 feet in the next 30-minutes."
I began edging toward the door.
"Excuse me," I said. "I'm not much of a climber. I think I'll go take a lesson in Swiss yodeling."
The conductor took my ticket and tore it in half.
"Heights scare me," I said a little louder. "I get dizzy. Now if you'll just excuse me . . ."
"Madam," he said, "the train is moving."
"Straight Up," Says Patte
It was, too. It was moving straight up with us and four other hardy pioneers inside. I would have felt just as daring and a whole lot safer going over Niagara Falls in a barrel.
The man next to me didn't seem to feel that way though.
"Look at that view," he exclaimed, pointing to more space than I ever cared to see at one time.

"I'd rather not," I said, but I looked anyway.
It was like looking at a toy village through the wrong end of a pair of binoculars. Lake Lucerne might have been a fish pond, with everything around it in proportionate size.
Halfway up, it started snowing and the bird's-eye view was lost in the clouds.
"If we don't come back in a week do you think they'll send up the St. Bernards?" I asked hopefully.
The conductor didn't even change expressions.
"We're here," he announced, and threw open the door.
Disappointed, too
I was a little disappointed to discover someone had been there before me. Not only that, but they had erected a hotel and tearoom which appeared to be doing a thriving business.

I felt a little less like Admiral Byrd, but I must admit it was nice to fortify myself with hot chocolate and cookies before starting the trip down.
Once back on the train, I ventured a timid look around. It still was snowing, but over the tops of the pines I got a breath-taking view of Lucerne and the lake. I could see so far I was just beginning to think Texas must be just around the next turn when suddenly we were back on the "ground" again.
"Mercy," the woman in front of me said, "the next time I go that high I'll be on my way to Glory." I thought she summed it up nicely.

A QUEEN IS CROWNED—This is an artist's conception of how Britain's Queen Elizabeth II will look immediately after her crowning in Westminster Abbey. She is seated in the famous Coronation Chair, under whose seat is the Stone of Scone, upon which British sovereigns have been crowned since Edward II in 1308. The queen, garbed in the Robe Royal or Pall of cloth of gold, wears St. Edward's crown, which, because of its weight, soon is exchanged for the lighter imperial crown. In her right hand she holds the scepter with cross and in her left, the rod with dove.

Henderson Lists Low Bid On Water Pumper's House

J. D. Henderson, Midland building contractor, was low bidder Tuesday afternoon with a bid of $11,000 for the construction of a three-bedroom house for the pumper at McMillen field.
Henderson's bid was the lowest of seven which ranged as high as $14,500 and the project will be completed in 60 calendar days.
The house will serve as the residence of Leonard Winkler, who is being transferred from the Rose-dale Pumping Station to operate the huge new McMillen Field, scheduled to go into production June 1.
H. E. Nunn, city sewer and water engineer, said Dunward Winkler, present pumper at Cole Park, will be transferred to Rose-dale and will be succeeded by W. L. Davis, now serving as his assistant. W. H. Measures will continue at the Wadley Pump Station.

The pumper's residence at McMillen Field will be brick veneer and contain 1,555 square feet of space.
Swing Quits Post In 'Voice' Agency
NEW YORK —A radio commentator Raymond Swing, resigning his job as political analyst for the Voice of America, says the agency is crippled "by slanderous attacks on its integrity."
He adds that the State Department is guilty of "spineless failure . . . to stand by its own staff." The Voice is part of the State Department.
Swing, in his letter of resignation released Tuesday, also wrote that budget cuts for the Voice "have reduced it to relative impotence."

Escaped German POW Weds Divorcee Who Stuck By Him

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —A Harry Girth, an escaped German prisoner of war who became a successful interior decorator, was honeymooning Wednesday with the girl who stuck with him after his identity was revealed.
Girth was married to Mrs. Evelyn (Judy) Florentine Sodel, a 29-year-old divorcee, Tuesday night in City Hall in nearby Ventnor.
Girth escaped from the Fort Dix POW camp in 1946 and for seven years was known as Henry Kolmer, a hard-working interior decorator. But early this month his picture was published in a magazine as an escaped POW and he was recognized. He surrendered to immigration authorities May 8 and was given 45 days to leave the country voluntarily, after which time he can apply for re-entry.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★
Use Of Iodized Salt Reduces Thyroid Ills Of Youngsters

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
A certain proportion of persons who have simple enlargements of the thyroid gland in the neck sometime will develop what is commonly known as toxic goiter or Graves' disease.
There is almost undoubtedly less toxic goiter today than there was even 20 or 25 years ago, and a large part of the credit for this can be given to the smaller number of those persons with simple thyroid enlargements.
This, in turn, appears to be principally the result of the wider use of iodized salt, particularly by children, which greatly reduces the number of simple thyroid enlargements.
This is a good example of the prevention of disease, or preventive medicine, as it is sometimes called.
Many years ago studies carried out in Michigan showed that school children in counties where the iodine was practically absent from the water had a high proportion of thyroid enlargement.
In Houghton County where iodine was almost entirely absent from the water, about 65 per cent of the youngsters had simple goiter; in McComb County, where the iodine content of the water was the highest of the four counties studied, only about 26 per cent of the school children had simple thyroid enlargements.
After this was discovered it was decided to urge the use of salt to which iodine had been added in homes in those counties where the iodine content of the water was low or absent. The result was an enormous drop in the frequency of goiter among the children.

It then appeared that adding iodine to table salt might be simpler. Some thought that adding iodine to the salt might be dangerous, but careful studies proved no harm. For example, one survey of more than 50,000 children four years after beginning the use of iodized salt showed not a single child had developed the slightest ill effect from the use of iodized salt.
Goiter Cases Use Salt
Iodine can be added to refined salt or can be supplied by natural, unrefined salt. The latter also has been done with good results in the prevention of simple goiter. The prejudice against "medicated" salt is not justified.
Since the "natural" iodine in the food is low in some parts of the country (the Great Lakes goiter belt, in particular), this use of iodized salt certainly has proved a boon to many children who would otherwise have had trouble later.

Gunman Shoots Down Two Prison Guards

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN —(P)—A green-masked, sharpshooting gunman picked off two guards patrolling the high walls of a state prison in downtown Stockholm Wednesday, killing one with a bullet through the heart and critically wounding the second.
Police announced they had arrested a 40-year-old former guard at the prison whose application for reemployment had been turned recently. They said the man had been seen running with a rifle nearby shortly after the shooting.
The gunman fired six shots at the two guards making their regular rounds atop the high wall surrounding Langholmen state prison. The prison is located on a small peninsula in the heart of Stockholm.

President Says 60 Cents Of Each Defense Dollar Goes To Air Power

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Eisenhower told the nation Tuesday night that, far from skimping on the Air Force, his Administration will put 60 cents of every defense dollar into offensive and defensive air power.

"These investments in air power represent and will continue to represent the heaviest single annual outlay of our government," the President said in a national radio broadcast from the White House describing what he termed his "middle way" military program.

"It is my conviction that our developing program — under constant review and study — will result in a steady growth in the size and efficiency of the air defense, until we have attained an adequate level of security," he declared.

Calculated Risks
The President said the arms program had been based on "calculated risks which have been prudently reasoned" to avoid natural bankruptcy but attain "lasting strength."

His speech won speedy praise and backing from Republicans in Congress, although some of them balked at the continued high taxes Eisenhower called for.

But many Democrats remained critical of the GOP Administration's decision to cut back Air Force goals from the 143 wings set for mid-1955 under the Democratic Truman Administration to 120.

'Inevitable' Charge
Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) voiced the view of this group when he said in an interview that "no amount of rationalizing will gain say the fact that the Republicans are making a severe cut in the Air Force."

Senator Symington (D-Mo.) former secretary of the Air Force who has called the proposed cuts

"incredible," said he will reply to the President on a Senate speech later this week.

Typical of Republican comment was the statement by Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee:

Atomic Pearl Harbor
"On the basis of the facts as I know them, under this program we will be building as rapidly as we can a more adequate and more effective Air Force than was originally planned by the last Administration."

Chairman Short (R-Mo.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he did not believe a five billion dollar slash in requested Air Force appropriations was dangerous but cautioned, "We always have the possibility of an atomic Pearl Harbor."

"We do not want to be caught unprepared," Short added, "and the President has agreed that security must come first."

Mysterious Figure
On the controversial cutback of Air Force goals, Short said:

"The President stressed that no one can say the country is safe with 143 wings and in danger with 120. The 143-wing goal was more or less a mythical, mysterious figure drawn out of the air."

As he has before at news conferences, Eisenhower outlined in his first direct report to the nation the theory that American defenses must be built to stand a long time, not just to meet a pre-chosen "day of desperate danger, somewhere in the near future."

Mobilize And Win
"There has been . . . no reason to believe that Soviet policy has changed its frequently announced hope and purpose—the destruction of freedom everywhere," Eisenhower said.

President Eisenhower

He said Communist guns have been aiming at U. S. bankruptcy, even though the Soviets realize that the United States, if forced to total mobilization today, could meet and win any military challenge.

"Observing that we live in an age of peril, he said defenses must be 'carefully planned and steadfastly maintained.'"

Not Blind At Home
"To watch vigilantly on the military front must never mean to be blind on the domestic front," he declared.

"Prolonged inflation could be as destructive of a truly free economy as could a chemical attack against an army in the field. And if, in today's continuing danger, we ever find ourselves straining our capacity until rigid governmental controls, indefinitely or permanently continued, became mandatory — where then would be the freedom we defend?"

On the military front, Eisenhower said, "there must be — far from any slackening of effort — a speeding, a sharpening, a concentration that will extract the last cent of value from every dollar spent."

No Magic Numbers
"Our defense establishment has yet to reach the level of performance we want," he said. "Until it has, we shall not rest."

In apparent reply to Air Force advocates, the President said it would be foolish and dangerous "to be hypnotized by magic numbers." He said one military man would argue hotly for a given number of aircraft as an "absolute minimum" while another might say planes of a different kind were "imperative."

"There is no given number of ships — no given number of divisions — no given number of air wings in the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps — no given number of billions of dollars — that will automatically guarantee security," Eisenhower declared.

'Special Pleaders'
He said his Administration had not set "any fixed sum of money to which our defense plans had to be fitted."

"We first determined what is truly vital to our security," he said. "We next planned ways to eliminate every useless expenditure and duplication. And we finally decided upon the amount of money needed to meet this program."

"Such an analysis rejects the extreme arguments of enthusiasts and of all groups of special pleaders. Splitting The Dollar

"But this I do assure you: What has been so carefully, so painstakingly evolved is a sound program. It contemplates in each of the armed forces calculated risks which have been prudently reasoned. And it represents, in my judgment, what is best for our nation's permanent security . . .

"Our revised budget will provide the Air Force with more than 40 per cent of all defense funds programmed for 1954," he said. "As of this June 30, the Air Force will have available a sum totaling more than 40 billion dollars. Butressing this strength are those additional funds allocated to naval air power for 1954 — totaling more than half of the Navy budget.

"This means that almost 60 cents of every dollar to be available for national defense in the next year will be devoted to air power and air defense."

Conviction And Realism
Eisenhower said the government equally must avoid "a needlessly high rate of federal spending in excess of federal income" or "any pennywise, pound-foolish policy that could, through lack of needed strength, cripple the cause of freedom everywhere."

"This middle way may lack drama and sensation, but it has sense and strength — lasting strength," he declared.

"It may not scream with shrill cries and emergency. But it speaks with conviction and realism."

Bitter Wrangle Looms In Congress On Eisenhower's Proposed Program

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Congressional leaders Wednesday forecast a quick and bitter battle over President Eisenhower's request for extension of the excess profits tax on corporations for another six months.

The President outlined this and four other tax steps in his nationwide radio speech Tuesday night. He snuffed out hope for immediate tax cuts and called instead for continued high revenues to keep "our nation secure and our dollar sound . . . in an age of danger."

His plea brought a mixed and wary reaction in Congress. Some leaders said the outcome appears in doubt, but that Eisenhower might get what he asked for after a tough fight. Detailed recommendations will be sent to Congress shortly, perhaps Wednesday.

Income Tax Issue
The President requested a six-month extension of the excess profits tax, now scheduled to die in exactly six weeks. And he asked Congress to repeal cuts of three billion dollars in regular corporation income taxes and exercise (sales) taxes on scores of items which are scheduled to take effect automatically next March 31.

He spoke strongly against a drive in the House to cut personal income taxes 10 per cent starting July 1. He called instead for letting the 10 per cent rate cut take effect January 1, as scheduled under present law.

Forego One Change
The President offered to forego one minor tax increase. He proposed to keep social security taxes at the present rate of one and one-half per cent of payrolls on both individuals and employers. Present laws call for a stepup to two per cent for both groups January 1. Since social security taxes are levied on only the first $3,600 of income, this would benefit a worker no more than $18 a year.

His overall program would provide an additional billion dollars in revenue for the year starting July 1, but still leave an estimated deficit of about five and one-half billion dollars for the first full fiscal year of his Administration.

Eisenhower said he would cut at least four and one-half billions from the spending plans left by former President Truman.

'Cheat Every Family'
If the tax rates the President proposed are maintained, they would provide two and one-half to three billion dollars more than present laws for the fiscal year starting in mid-1954 — the year his Administration plans to attain what Eisenhower called a "vital" goal of a balanced budget.

Immediate tax reductions would increase and prolong federal deficits and thus bring more inflation, he cautioned.

And that, he said, would "cheat every family in America. It would strike most cruelly at the poorest among us."

Battle Shapes Up

The President said his Administration regards present taxes as too high, but that Russia remains a threat to all freedom and that he believes no citizen "wants any tax saving at the price of essential national security."

Against the backdrop of that appeal, a fight shaped up immediately over the excess profits tax proposal. And other points seemed certain to stir a storm of opposition as they come up for action.

Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio, who reluctantly supports an extension of the tax, expressed doubt the House would go along.

Reed Stands In Way

In the House, opposition centered in the powerful ways and means committee, the group that starts all tax bills through Congress. The proposed extension promptly drew fire from Committee Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.), who has repeatedly vowed the levy never will be extended.

And, as Reed put it, "When I fight — I fight."

All 15 Republicans on the committee, in a private caucus, already have lined up against an extension. Whether any could be persuaded to change his position remained to be seen. Republican members said it

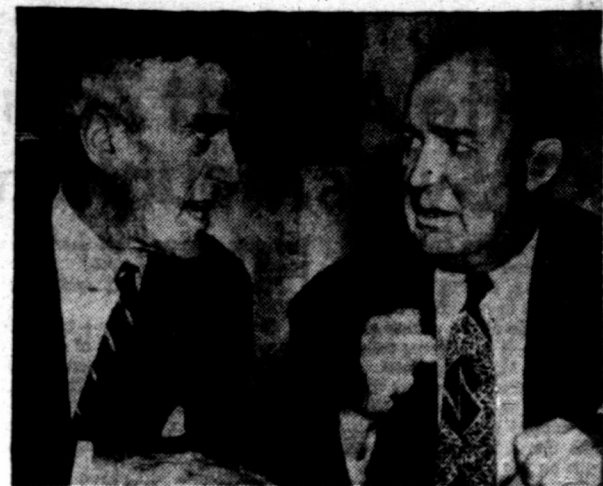

Television Areas Given Explanation By Ike, Himself

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Listeners who wanted a bit of explanation of the speech they heard President Eisenhower deliver by radio Tuesday night had only to flip a television switch and get it — from Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Immediately after he finished his radio speech the President was on the air over TV, quoting from it and discussing somewhat less formally the issues raised.

Actually, the TV program — which was for network use also — was filmed some seven hours earlier.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said it was the first time a President had ever given the public a resume of his own speech.

Smith Resigns Post As Superintendent At Fort Stockton

FORT STOCKTON — E. W. (Ike) Smith has resigned as superintendent of schools here effective July 1 after six years in the post. He will move to Abilene as director of the new public relations department of the Star Engraving Company, Houston.

Smith, however, told the school board he would stay in Fort Stockton longer if a replacement could not be found by July 1. There was no hint as to who that replacement would be.

The educator, a graduate of Texas A&I College, Kingsville, began his teaching career at Iredell and then moved to Veribest as principal and coach. He originated the Veribest Track and Field Meet.

From Veribest he went to a Corpus Christi junior high school as history teacher and coach, and later to a Corpus Christi high school as principal. His next location was Fort Stockton.

Smith, active in civic affairs, is president of the Fort Stockton Lions Club.

Eisenhower Tabs Six-Point Plan For Balancing Budget

WASHINGTON —(AP)— This is the tax program which President Eisenhower outlined in his nationwide radio address Tuesday night:

1. No action by Congress to advance the personal income tax cut of 10 per cent due to take effect January 1. Some veteran House members want to advance the date to July 1.
2. Retention of the excess profits tax on business, expiring July 1, for another six months.
3. Indefinite postponement of a drop of five percentage points in the tax on corporation incomes, now due to take effect next April 1.
4. Indefinite postponement of reductions in excise (sales) taxes also due to take effect automatically next April 1. Among others, these include taxes on autos (due to drop from 10 to seven per cent), gasoline (from two to one and one-half cents a gallon), cigarettes (from eight to seven cents a pack), beer (from $9 to $8 a barrel) and whisky (from $19.50 to $9 a proof gallon).
5. Indefinite postponement of a hike from one and one-half to two per cent of the social security payroll tax paid by both employees and employers on the first $3,600 of a worker's annual income. Under present law, the increase is due to take effect January 1.

The Midland Indians may lose every ball game from now until the end of the season, but the chances are slim that they will be shut out more than two or three times. It's part of a record Manager Jay Haney has going. The Indians haven't been shut out this season, nor under Haney's guidance anytime last year. In 1951, Haney's Lamson team went through a full 157-game schedule without being shut out. That makes it something like 237 consecutive games that a team he has managed hasn't been blanked.

Earl Winn, Indian pitcher, spends his Summers playing on the diamond and his Winters selling them... He's a jewelry salesman during the off season.

What the Indians need more than anything else is a couple of reliable pitchers. Thus far, there has been no consistency among the pitchers, and it's disheartening when a team can produce a half dozen runs or more and can't win. Ralph Blair appears to this corner as the only real pitcher on the club at this stage. Eddie Jacome, although he has a better record, is good for only three or four innings and sometimes not that long.

Don Dailey, the left-hander from Yakima, Wash., appeared very sharp in his first start and may make the grade... It's too early to tell... There's little to choose from the rest, however... Romarico Soto has been too erratic to depend upon.

Midland golfers, thirsting for a place where they can practice, will get their wish within a very short time. Pat Paterson, assistant high school football coach, has plans for a driving range to be in operation within two weeks' time. Now, golfers who aren't able to play at the several country club courses will at least be able to hit a few dozen shots.

The Tuesday afternoon mail produced a Texas Coaching School brochure sent by Stan Lambert, public relations director of the Texas High School Coaches Association. Stan's effort this year has produced one of the best and most interesting press books ever assembled. Says Lambert about Larry Friday, Midland gridders selected to the North All-Star team:

"Friday is one of the rarities of modern football—an offensive blocking back. He has played that offensive position regularly at Midland for the last three seasons."

Some 19 All-Americans have been performers in the All-Star tilt. Such glorious names as the late Stan Mauldin of Texas (1938), I. B. Hale of TCU (1935) and Davy O'Brien of TCU (1935) and perhaps the greatest of them all—Ki Aldrich of TCU (1935).

And then there were Myrtle Greathouse of Oklahoma (1941), Harold Fischer of Texas (1939), Tom Stohlhandke of Texas (1949), Bobby Layne of Texas (1944), Don Rhoden of Rice (1949), Don Menasco of Texas (1948), Hub Bechtel of Texas (1943), Chal Daniel of Texas (1938), Jack Crain of Texas (1938), Keith Flowers of TCU (1948), Kyle Rote of SMU (1947), James "Progy" Williams of Rice (1946), Bill Athey of Baylor (1949), James Weatherall of Oklahoma (1948), and Dick Harris of Texas (1945). The years indicate the season they performed.

DID YOU KNOW? That Scooter Hughes has hit safely in the last 10 games... That Art Bowland's 10-game hitting streak was broken Monday night at Carlsbad... That Bowland had a 15-game streak going until Monday if you discount the game with San Angelo May 5 when he appeared at bat only once and then was lifted in favor of Jim Harford... That Hayden White had a nine-game streak this season.

Blair To Face Drillers As Indians Fall, 22-12

The Midland Indians have to look up to the Artesia Drillers Wednesday night in a second game of their series in Indian Park while Ralph Blair, due to start, tries to pitch the Tribe back into third place again.

Midland met the Drillers for the first time in Indian Park Tuesday—and were overwhelmed, 22-12.

It's a long, drawn-out story, told on six Midland pitchers.

But to make it short Joe Calderone, Joe Bauman and Joe Fortin were the archvillain and moundsmen Eddie Jacome, Jim Harford, Bud Sisk, Earl Winn, Ben Quintana and Quintin Basco Indian givers. For instance:

Jacome, the starter, gave up 11 hits through the first four and one-third innings, with Artesia ahead

FLYING MACHINE—A muddy motorcycle and G. P. Walker cut a graceful figure air borne taking a hurdle in a contest at Adswold, Cheshire, England. (NEA) by then, 10-4. And before Harford and Sisk could quell a four-run fifth-inning uprising, Artesia led, 13-4.

The three other Midland pitchers had no better luck. When the dust settled, Bauman had homered twice, Calderone once and Joe Fortin once along with his two doubles to pace a 23-hit attack.

You could hardly hear it for the Drillers blasting bats, but Midland plinked 18 hits as Julio De la Torre went five for five and Lou Dawson four for six, drive in five runs.

Midland's setback meant Artesia moved a half-game ahead of the Indians into third place. Here's how it went, briefly:

Both went scoreless in the first inning before an error, fielder's choice and Calderone homered the visitors ahead 3-0 in the second. Midland though, rallied to tie it in the same frame on De la Torre's double, a triple by Dawson and Tex Stephenson's single.

The two tied again, at 4-4, through the third inning, Les Mulcahy doubling in the visitors' tallies and Dawson equalizing it with a single later.

Winner Frank Martin, working seven innings, singled, Jackie Wilcox singled, Bill Haley singled, Les Mulcahy doubled for two runs, Bauman walked and Fortin shoved three runners home with a two-bagger in the fourth to make it 9-4, Artesia. And Midland left it that way, going scoreless.

Harford relieved Jacome after Martin singled; he walked one and yielded to Sisk in the fifth frame and Artesia went from there on Mulcahy's single and Joe Bauman's one-run homer to extend the margin to 13-4. Dawson and Sisk got two back with a flyout and single, respectively, in the same frame.

Haley drove in two of three runs for Artesia in the sixth; while a double by Hayden White, De la Torre's single and an error enabled Midland to make it 16-5. John De Giamtasso batted in the one seventh inning run for Artesia and Midland went scoreless.

Bauman, though, kept Artesia going in the eighth with a homer for two runs, and Fortin followed suit a play later to make it 20-5. De la Torre tripled and Dawson singled to get two runs back immediately after.

The Indians, in the ninth, out-talied the Drillers, even though Wilcox and Haley batted in single runs in three run spree, Art Bowland tripled, De la Torre singled him in, Dawson doubled and Stephenson accounted for the final two runs with a one-bagger, winding up there with the final 22-12 count.

Bums Thump Braves, 4-1; Yankees Win

By The Associated Press
Now the folks in Milwaukee know what the rest of the National League fans found out a long time ago—as guests of the Brooklyn Dodgers leave a lot to be desired.

In full view of the largest crowd ever to pay its way in to a sports event in the Wisconsin metropolis, the pesky Dodgers slapped down the Braves Tuesday night, 4-1, and knocked them out of a first-place tie.

The victory was only the second for the Bums in seven Western road games and came on their very first appearance in Milwaukee.

Even if the wrong team did win, the home folks saw a real good ball game. The Braves broke it open in the sixth, after five scoreless innings, when Andy Pafko singled home Eddie Mathews.

But with the cheers of the 36,439 loyal fans still echoing, George Shuba sent Brooklyn ahead with a home run after Jackie Robinson had walked.

Faris Hurls Two-Hitter

Herbie Faris gave up only two hits Tuesday as he pitched the Yankees to a 3-1 South Little League victory over the Cards.

Faris yielded a run in the fifth frame to lose his shutout. Teammates committed only one error and gave him a 3-0 sparkling margin, although they collected only four hits themselves—two of them a single and a double by Billy Lord.

The Eagles play the Cards at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Faris and Bingham: Sherrard and Easterwood.

Bulldozers Nip Braves

The Bulldozers broke a 4-4 deadlock with two runs in the top of the fifth inning and then checked a Braves' rally in the last of the sixth to take a 6-5 Central Little League triumph Tuesday.

Jerry Hanson and Jimmy Lowe were the hitting stars for the victors with two safeties apiece.

The Cubs tackle the Bulldozers Thursday. There are no Wednesday games.

Sheriff's Posse Lassos Elks, 17-15

The Sheriff's Posse won a 17-15 slugfest from the Elks Tuesday in a West Little League game.

Home runs by Charles McCall of the Elks and Potet of the Sheriff's Posse were highlights of the contest.

The Elks play Johnny's Backbeac at 5:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Roughnecks Reset Sweetwater Game

The Midland Roughnecks' scheduled Wednesday night game at Sweetwater was postponed until June 3 by the Sweetwater team which discovered it had no place to play.

The Sweetwater Little Leaguers had scheduled the ball park previously and no playing site was available.

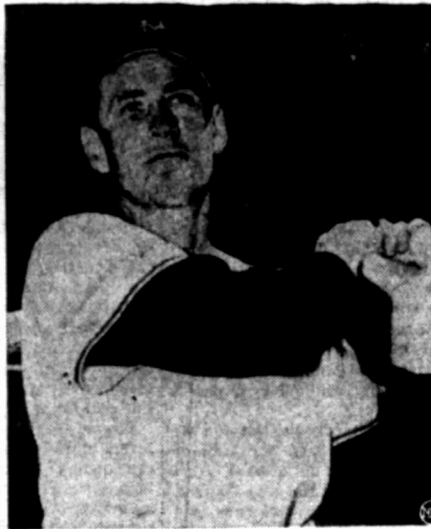

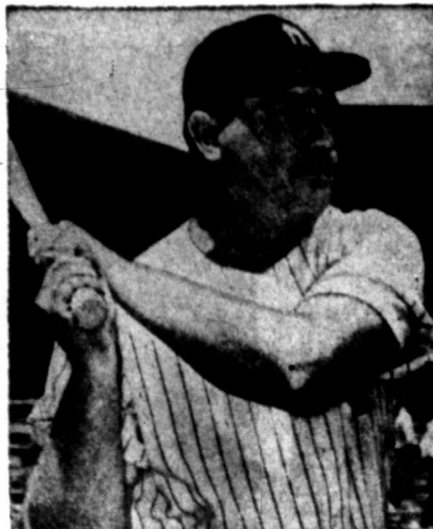

Midland's next outing will be May 31 against the Big Spring Black Broncs at Big Spring. Manager Les Cobb said.

Chances Good Of Lamesa Club Moving To Ballinger

Marion Flynt, president of the Midland Indians, thinks there is "a very good chance" for the Lamesa baseball franchise to be moved to Ballinger to comprise a combination Winters-Ballinger team after June 1.

Lamesa is having trouble hanging on to the club because of poor attendance. Owner-Manager Harold Webb reconnoitered the possibility of moving to Ballinger Monday. With him were Hal Sayles, president of the Longhorn League,

Allen Ingram, a director of the San Angelo Colts, and Flynt. Ballinger officials made two promises to Webb: (1) Webb would get all the money obtained from the sale of box seats and fence signs; (2) A large crowd would be on hand for opening day at $1 per head.

If these promises are met, there remains nothing in the way. A few Lamesa businessmen are reluctant to let the club slip away, but neither Webb nor league officials can see the benefit of playing to crowdless attendances of 200—give or take a few.

Webb's obligations to Lamesa are mostly financial. The Lamesa people also gave him the money from box seats and fence signs to operate on, but they failed to account for the poor attendance. If the move is made, Webb would be required to repay Lamesa for the amount they gave him.

After looking and talking the situation over in Ballinger Monday, Webb was quoted as saying, "I'm ready." He apparently isn't the only one hoping that the move is culminated.

League officials care nothing about Lamesa having a winning ball club, but they certainly don't like to see the Lobos having a losing ball club and a losing attendance (that is, not enough attendance to support the team).

Poor attendance for a team is harmful for the entire league, because the team cannot earn enough to build a better team on the money it receives from its home games, nor can other teams expect to draw when the "loser" appears at their parks.

It is for this reason that Flynt thinks the move "will be a good one."

He can see no reason that the move will not be made.

As for his own team, Flynt said the Indians' financial status is in good condition but that money is needed immediately in order to strengthen the club. It is a matter of expediency and not a long-range problem.

Wednesday and Thursday nights have been made "special nights" in order to help make up for the loss of revenue from the rainouts and poor opening day attendance.

Charles, it would not necessarily have to be New York but New York would figure strongly.

Both Weill and Norris said nothing definite was decided. Both are agreed Rocky's opponent must be either Charles or La Starza. Norris wants to have it in September but Weill said he wants time to think it over.

Norris, who is president of the IBC, said he hoped to put on the middleweight title fight between the American and European champions, Paddy Young of New York and Carl "Bobo" Olson of San Francisco battle it out for the U. S. title in New York, June 19.

England's Randy Turpin and France's Charles Humez clash for the European crown in London June 9.

Weill, meanwhile, hoped to settle Wednesday one way or another a proposed Pacific tour for the heavyweight champ. It calls for stops in Manila, Guam, Honolulu and Tokyo.

LaStarza Looms As Next Rocky Foe

NEW YORK—Roland La Starza may have a slight edge on Ezzard Charles in the maneuvering to get the next crack at Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano.

More light may be shed on the matter Wednesday or Thursday when Promoter Jim Norris and Al Weill, Marciano's manager, resume talks about Rocky's future foe.

The two conferred for an hour Tuesday while Jimmy de Angelo, La Starza's pilot, hovered anxiously outside the conference room in the International Boxing Club's offices.

There was nothing concrete for De Angelo to get optimistic about outside of Norris' remarks to newsmen that he would like to stage a middleweight and heavyweight championship fight outdoors in New York this September.

"If it's going to be La Starza against Rocky," said Norris, "the fight should be in New York. La Starza is a New Yorker. If it's

MCC Club Tourney Officials Seeking Big Field Saturday

Midland Country Club officials, beginning their member golf championships Thursday, are urging, not so oddly, that entries hold off their qualifying rounds until Saturday.

The point, they stress, is to get as many entries as possible in the National Golf Day competition along with the club tourney action. Saturday-National Golf Day — is when about 120,000 golfers throughout the United States will play their home courses, using their club handicap, against Julius Boros, the National Open champion.

Boros will be playing his 18-hole round over Pittsburgh's Oakmont Country Club, where this year's National Open will be held.

But while they encouraged big play for Saturday, the MCC officials, W. L. (Skeet) Meadows, Fred Hogan, Roger Evans and Joseph O'Neil, Jr., did not discourage Thursday and Friday qualifying. They also set Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week to complete the bracketing play.

About 120 member-players are due in the meet, said Pro Boyd Huff, who with assistant Jay McClure will direct the meet. Vann Ligon, the two pros said, will be on hand to defend his 1952 championship.

The matches begin May 28 and run through May 31.

Already 25 have put their names into the contention: Fred Hogan, Ford Schrock, Roy Lockett, Charles Marsh II, Dr. Jake Shapiro, Murphy Baxter, Charles Wilson, Frank Flournoy, Bill Chancellor, Jr., Ken Ballard, Bill Lathrop, Royal King, Frank Turner, J. Earl Wilson, Bob Whitehead, Ed Alstrin, Harry Lawson, Don Oliver, Murray Faskin, C. R. Vandervoort, Jim Binford, Roger Cummings, Ed Anderson, Bob Zonne and Henry Shaw.

Some of the club players, although they're not already entered, are expected to compete and offer Ligon his biggest run for a repeat title.

The top contenders, club officials point out, are Evans Dunn, last year's runnerup who hasn't indicated whether he'll play, Jimmy Smith, J. T. Jamison and Bob French.

The tourney will be played on the MCC north course, par 72 and 6,902 yards long.

San Angelo Trips On Ten's Pitching

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A sterling seven-hit pitching performance by Israel Ten gave the Lamesa Lobos a 2-2 victory over the San Angelo Colts Tuesday night.

Played before a crowd of 1,871 who turned out for the game and Max Patrick, the baseball clown, the tilt saw Mario Saldana of the Colts and Ten hook up in a close pitching duel that broke open when Lamesa undid a 1-1 tie with two counters in the eighth inning.

Manager Rudy Briner had put the Colts out front in the second inning with a solo homer but Larry White of Lamesa tied matters in the seventh with a round tripper.

With one out in the eighth, Armando Sanchez singled for the Lobos. Herb Nauer sacrificed and was safe when Saldana bobbled the bunt. After Buzz Jackson forced Nauer at second with Sanchez moving to third, Curtis Rey unloaded his second double of the night, both Sanchez and Jackson scoring.

The Colts scored one in the ninth when, with two out, John Jeandron doubled and moved to third on Glenn Burns' infield single. Steve Follett singled to drive in Jeandron but John Malgarini fanned to end the game.

Late Homer Gives Brooks 9-8 Triumph

Joe Streun, Brooks catcher, clutched an uphill battle by his mates Tuesday with a final-inning home run for a 9-8 victory over the Hornets in the American Legion's League's second game of the season.

The day before, the Westerners beat the Eagles, 7-4.

Brook Pitcher Walt Bingham stuck to his starting chores despite a six-run first inning by the Hornets. In winning Bingham spaced nine hits while his mates collected 10 off two Hornets.

After a six-run second to tie it up, the Brooks scored twice in the fourth even as Hornet batters netted runs in the fourth and fifth. That set up Streun's rap, coming with the bases empty in the bottom half of the seventh.

Heavy Budget Cuts In Requests For VA May Go Deeper Yet

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Eisenhower Administration has cut close to 300 million dollars from new Veterans Administration appropriations of $4,575,000,000 requested by former President Truman.

If sustained by Congress, the reduction in funds for the year beginning July 1 could mean that the start of work on new hospitals planned in Cleveland, San Francisco, Topeka and Washington, D. C., would be deferred.

The revised Eisenhower estimates, still preliminary, have been submitted to a House appropriations subcommittee headed by Representative Phillips (R-Calif.).

Phillips said they amount to a cut of about 288 million dollars which the subcommittee probably will hike to around 300 million.

The biggest single cut from Truman appropriation request is in funds for the VA medical program, which includes operation of hospitals now in existence. This total was chopped from $921,100,000 to $823 million.

The hospital construction estimate of $113,553,664 submitted in January by Truman was cut about 48 million.

The allotment for veterans' compensation and pensions was pared from $2,546,291,000 to two-and-a-half billion, and funds for readjustment benefits from $884,962,000 to about 790 million.

Doctor Shortage

Phillips said no essential veterans' services would be abolished or curtailed by the reductions proposed, and there would be no reduction in the number of hospital beds originally planned for next year.

The new hospitals on which the start of work will be deferred if the revised budget is approved include 1,000-bed neuropsychiatric hospitals

Midland Lions Club Observes 'Hospital Day' At Noon Meet

Wednesday was Hospital Day at the noon meeting of the Midland Lions Club in Hotel Scharbauer as members heard a report on the operations of Midland Memorial Hospital. The program, arranged by Art West in line with the national observance of Hospital Week, was introduced by Frank Stubbeman.

The guest speaker was Burton Sears, administrator of Midland Memorial Hospital, who outlined the purpose, function, objectives and operation of the facility.

He said the hospital has cared for almost 14,000 patients since it opened almost three years ago. Almost 1,200 babies were born in the hospital last year.

Facilities And Services

The numerous facilities and services of the non-profit hospital were discussed by Sears, who invited his listeners to see and inspect Midland Memorial at any time.

Forty physicians, he said, are members of the hospital's medical staff. The facility is affiliated with the American and Texas Hospital Associations and is approved by the American College of Surgeons.

Stubbeman, in introducing the speaker, referred to Midland Memorial Hospital as a "public enterprise—financed, erected and operated by and for the citizens of Midland and of this section of West Texas."

Reserved Seat Ticket Sales Started For 'Kiss Me Kate'

Reserved seat tickets for the musical comedy "Kiss Me Kate" sponsored by the Midland JayCeers went on sale Wednesday. A box office has been established at the Chamber of Commerce office and will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. daily through the day of performance on June 3.

Tickets are scaled at $3, $2.40, and $1.80, and in view of the fact that "Kiss Me Kate" sold at $6 in New York City, the JayCeers feel they are offering the community a real buy in entertainment.

All seats are reserved and a policy of first come, first served will be in effect. In this way, those purchasing tickets immediately will

UN Truce Team Discusses Future Moves While Peiping Jeers Lopsided Questions

TOKYO—(AP)—High UN sources in Tokyo were silent Wednesday on plans for reopening the Korean truce talks Monday.

But Red Peiping radio jeered that Washington was endangering the parleys by "flouting world demand that the prisoner of war issue be solved immediately."

Reports circulated that the UN would modify the proposal put forward last week at Panmunjom to handle 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to communism.

There was no confirmation of the report at Gen. Mark Clark's headquarters, where the chief Allied truce negotiator, Lt. Gen. William

Texas Flood Crisis—

Sudden Awakening

The battle began late Tuesday night after the community, which had been unconcerned over the flood despite repeated warnings, awoke suddenly to the danger. Then Sheriff Curtis Humphreys of Newton County sent out an emergency call for volunteers. Wednesday, scores from nearby areas were rushing to join the levee fight.

A fishing camp operator at Deweyville, Claud Villemez, said "If the river comes any higher, and there is no question that it is going to, all the men and machinery in this part of the country won't save the levee. It'll be gone before sundown."

Mrs. Chisum, wife of the Deweyville school superintendent, said her husband had been out on the levee all night and still was there.

Couldn't Believe It

"People here just couldn't believe this river would do anything disastrous," Mrs. Chisum said.

Only Tuesday, Chisum said the residents of the town were "just rocking along" in the face of flood warnings.

A warning to evacuate went out from the Army Engineers and the Highway Patrol to some lowland families.

One bed-ridden resident, Charles Keysek, 78, was taken to an Orange hospital.

Deweyville is a town of about 800 about 12 miles north of Orange. Some of its residents work at Port Arthur, Beaumont and Orange plants. Others are employed by a sawmill. Filling stations and cafes line the Transcoastal-Evangeline Highway through the town.

At Ruliff, downstream from Deweyville, Humphreys said a crew of men were moving families out of the way of the river. "About 40 or 50 families in the area must get out," the sheriff said.

The river had reached a flood stage exceeding 18 feet. The sheriff quoted Army Engineers as saying a crest two feet higher was on the way. Before Tuesday night's sudden rise of the muddy, swirling stream, the Weather Bureau had forecast a record 18.5 feet at Deweyville by Friday.

Showers Forecast

The Weather Bureau reported fair, calm weather across Texas before dawn. Showers were forecast for all of the state.

The Navy base at Orange, 12 miles downstream from Deweyville, has 2,000 sandbags to the besieged town.

GETS FREEDOM ON EASY TERMS

WINNEPEG—(AP)—A 31-year-old Winnipeg cashier who pleaded guilty to stealing more than $10,000 from his employer can stay out of jail if he pays it back $2,000 down and $10 a month. That would clear him at around 98.

The cashier, Louis Wiginton, was given a five-year suspended sentence Tuesday on condition that he make the installment plan restitution. He is the father of two children.

Legislature—

A much-modified auto inspection bill and another making major changes in the election code advanced Tuesday.

The election code bill, eliminating cross-filing and the necessity for holding a primary primary next year, was approved by a Senate committee and took its place on the crowded calendar.

If the Senators want to, they can put on steam to take up the election bill and get it back to the House for final approval.

Auto Law Advances

After off-and-on debate for three weeks, the Senate passed the auto inspection law on second reading. That brings it up to final reading, which could come soon.

The bill would require inspections only for lights, horns, windshield wipers and brakes. It would not apply to 1935 or older models not used on state or federal highways.

Bills authorizing the governor to accept federal aid for tornado-torn San Angelo and Waco were passed by both Houses.

A bill to establish a state commission to fight alcoholism passed the Senate. Minor amendments sent it back to the House.

Toll Roads Hit

A Senate-passed amendment to the Constitution prohibiting pledging of the state's credit to support toll roads was approved by the House, 116-17. It will be submitted at the 1954 election.

The House passed two more amendments and sent them to the Senate. One would allow cities to place all employees under federal security. The other provides for the office of tax assessor-collector in counties under 10,000.

Also in the House, the last of eight bills recommended by the Governor's Water Committee was finally passed. It awaits Senate attention. It would allow the State Board of Water Engineers to cancel water permits not put to use for 10 years.

Passed on second reading in the Senate was a bill to permit firemen and policemen to appeal to district courts from demotions.

Elimination of the necessity of holding a Republican primary came in a Senate committee amendment to the House-passed election code bill. It would require a political party only if that party cast more than 500,000 votes for governor in the last general election.

British Motorship Aground Off Korea

TOKYO—(AP)—A U. S. Navy transport Wednesday rescued 31 crewmen from the British motorship Lady Wolmer, which ran aground near Cheju Island off the southern tip of Korea. Navy headquarters announced.

The Wolmer, a frequent trader with Communist China, called for help after running aground only 90 yards off Cheju and the Navy transport Henrico steamed to her assistance.

The U. S. landing ship Whelston stood by during the rescue operation, the Navy said.

Navy officials said the Wolmer is in no danger of breaking up unless a storm hits, and Capt. W. E. Jones sent 13 crewmen back aboard to await a possible salvage attempt. The men were given life rafts to make the beach if the ship starts to break up.

Seventeen other crewmen will remain aboard the Henrico.

The vessel was carrying general cargo, mostly beverages, from Kobe to Pusan and Inchon, Korea.

AFL Heads For Break With Capital Regime

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor seems headed for an open break with the Eisenhower Administration and may move in that direction at a strategy meeting which opened Wednesday.

The AFL's powerful 15-member Executive Council gathered amid considerable grumbling over the way things are going under the Republican regime.

Reservists To Hear Air Defense Lecture

The 9816th Vart Squadron will hear Capt. R. A. Dean lecture on "Air Defense" at the meeting of reservists at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at 319 East Texas Street.

A training film, "Research and Development," will be shown also.

Reclamation Bureau Workers Get Notices

AMARILLO—(AP)—Discharge notices, effective June 29, have been received by 57 employees of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation in Region 5.

Regional Director H. E. Robbins said the cutback includes 25 persons in the Amarillo regional office.

Fluorescent lamps are based on a principle learned about 100 years ago.

Justice Subs For Ed Stitt

Justice of the Peace L. C. Stephenson began handing out justice in the name of the City of Midland Wednesday.

He is presiding over the Corporation Court in the absence of Judge Edwin T. Stitt, who left Tuesday on a trip to Little Rock, Ark., to visit his parents.

Judge Stitt will return to Midland over the weekend.

Funeral Rites Pend For M. L. Mogford

Funeral services for Martin L. Mogford, Sr., were still pending Wednesday morning awaiting arrival of a son from out of the state. The 63-year-old veteran Western Union employee died Tuesday at his home on Route 2.

Mogford, who was born in Mason County, had moved to Midland in 1951 after serving 13 years as Western Union manager in Odessa.

Survivors include the widow, two sons, three brothers and two sisters.

District Breakdown Listed On Oil Allowable For June

AUSTIN—(AP)—The Railroad Commission gave Wednesday the district breakdown on the oil allowable of 3,019,434 barrels daily for June.

The allowable is 66,832 barrels more than that of May 8.

The daily permissive flow, by districts, for June, compared with May 8:

1. Southwest Texas—42,667, up 535.
2. Southwest Texas—161,409, up 4,784.
3. Gulf Coast—483,531, up 10,347.

SUPERHIGHWAY—Tom Logan, accompanied by his wife and five children, completes the 88-mile trip from Tulsa as he drives his covered wagon through the Oklahoma City end of Turner Turnpike. As Oklahoma proudly dedicates the Superhighway, Gov. Johnston Murray predicted it some day will be a part of a nation-wide network of superhighways.

Debate Keeps Teacher Pay Bill's Cinders Smouldering

AUSTIN—(AP)—Teachers pay was apparently a dead issue for the Legislature, but the backwash of arguing went on.

Two representatives of teacher organizations answered Tuesday Speaker Reuben Senterfitt's statement that it was "unfortunate the school lobby" was able to block the compromise teachers pay raise plan.

The teachers wanted a $600 raise and rejected anything less. Administration leaders proposed a $306 a year raise, provided the gas pipe

Shivers Signs Bill Jailing All Convicted Topsy Drivers

AUSTIN—(AP)—Governor Shivers signed many important bills Wednesday, including one that will mean minimum three-day jail sentences for drunken driving.

The bill attempting to slow down drunken drivers is by Senator Carlos Ashley of Llano. The minimum jail sentence of three days will be compulsory on conviction, but the judge may commute it to six months probation.

The maximum sentence would be two years imprisonment, and fines could range from $50 to $500. The law will go into effect August 25, or 90 days after adjournment.

The governor signed a bill calling for computation of the economic index for counties by using three-year date, with the index to be calculated each year instead of every four years.

The index determines how much each county must contribute toward the 45 million total in local support of the state's school program.

Another 90-day bill approved by Shivers allows an increase in the length of buses from 35 to 40 feet. A bill extending to March 31.

Band Seniors Are Honored

Graduating members of the Midland High School Band were honored Tuesday night at a banquet in the high school cafeteria.

Highlighting the program, arranged by Anna Bess and Sylvia McAllister, was presentation of the Arion Award to Bill Aldrich, baritone player in the band, by Ralph Mills, band director, and a review of band highlights by Raymond T. Bynum of McMurry College.

Guests and graduating seniors were introduced by Frank Monroe, superintendent of schools, followed by special music presented by Duke Jimerson. Organ music was played through the dinner by Billy John Whitehead.

Presentation of Band Aides (parents) by Mrs. T. E. Neely, topped off the program.

Toastmaster for the event was Deibert Downing, Chamber of Commerce manager. Don Mitchell, high school principal, gave the invocation, and Charles Mathews, director of curricular services, the benediction.

Table decorations were handled by the high school art department, under the direction of Inez Parker and Eugenia Wilson.

Nice Work, Says Thomas

FRANKLIN, PA.—(AP)—School Director Joseph Tomaskovich went to bed a tired but happy man Wednesday, reasonably sure he has been elected to a job which will pay him almost $50,000 for about two hours work in four years.

Tomaskovich won both nominations for tax collector in this Western Pennsylvania industrial community's primary election Tuesday. The borough has a population of 1,820.

Bethlehem Steel Company makes the job one of big pay for easy work. Its taxes on a plant here are collected once a year and taken to the bank for deposit, about a half hour's work each time.

Most of the other taxes are collected by an assistant.

FARM LAND STILL DESOLATE— Wichita Falls Agriculture Experiment Ends In Court

MANSFIELD, OHIO —P— The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce and author-farmer Louis Bromfield are going to court over 400 acres of Wichita County farmland.

It had been planned to develop the "desolate piece of land" into a fertile, model farm.

Bromfield, at his farm near here, said he was filing suit to recover $20,000 he lost operating the Texas layout for the Wichita Falls Chamber.

The Chamber of Commerce ordered its attorney to file suit against Bromfield to recover the 400-acre farmstead, patterned after his famous Malabar Farm. The Chamber claimed the property was not developed as planned in 1949.

The committee chairman, Leon Deaton, said he had discussed the situation with Robert W. Hulse, the farm manager.

Sees No Return

"Hulse claims he and his associates have spent $35,000 of their own money on the project," Deaton said, and added: "It is hard for the committee to see where this money could have been spent with no return whatsoever."

Deaton said the committee protested to Bromfield two years ago but nothing was done.

Bromfield said the development turned into a real estate exploitation project by the chamber and he became discouraged when he found the chamber was not interested in farm experimentation, but only in publicizing the area.

"The farm was not a legitimate agricultural experiment as we agreed," Bromfield said.

FBI Agent Extends Farewells At School For Area Officers

Harvey G. Foster, special agent in charge of the El Paso office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said his farewell Tuesday to peace officers in this section of West Texas.

The occasion was a special one-day school sponsored by the FBI and the Midland and Odessa police departments at the Midland Air Terminal.

Foster, who has been special agent in charge the last year and three months, will leave May 28 for Cincinnati, Ohio, where he will have a similar position.

He will be succeeded at El Paso by C. W. Brown, presently agent in charge of the Cincinnati office.

More than 50 police officers attended the school Tuesday, to discuss problems relating to thefts from interstate shipments.

At noon the officers had a barbecue dinner, prepared by Rube Hemingway, former Midland police chief and special agent for the T&P Railroad; Bill Anders, special agent of the FBI, and Ben Gay, a member of the Midland Police Department.

to make it," Bromfield said, "but an attempt to develop a real estate boom for an under-developed area."

Bromfield said the chamber provided land for the farm and some of the buildings, but that he invested "upwards of $20,000" in the project. He said the farm area was a "desolate piece of land, ruined by oil exploitation and virtually a desert."

"You can't turn a desert into a fertile farm in two years," Bromfield said.

At the Malabar experiment, a twister hit Tuesday night, demolishing a 150-cow barn.

Civilian Defense Chief Slates Visit To Waco May 26

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Civilian Defense Administrator Val Peterson will visit Waco May 26.

Representative Poage of Waco suggested last week that Peterson get a first-hand look at the tornado damage.

"There are a lot of factors in such a disaster that need to be considered in allocating relief funds," Poage said Tuesday.

"You need to see the situation personally to best understand it. The scenes in Waco reminded me of those in London during V2 bombings."

Poage said he had asked a liberal interpretation by Peterson of the federal emergency relief law which states public funds can be spent only in the "public benefit."

He said aid in cleaning up and repairing private homes and buildings where owners are financially unable to do so, would help the public by eliminating danger of spreading disease.

Revised Canadian Dam Bill Sent To Governor Shivers

AUSTIN — (AP)— The Canadian River Municipal Water Bill has gone to Governor Shivers after final legislative action.

Both houses agreed Tuesday on a conference version of the measure to build an 85 million dollar dam on the Canadian River near Sanford.

It would furnish water for Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview, Pampa, Borger, Littlefield, Brownfield, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Slaton, Lamesa and Levelland.

Title in the Canadian dam would revert to the district when its debt is cleared. The district would not deal with underground water. The State Board of Water Engineers would handle water appropriations from the reservoir.

Considerable activity came Tuesday on other water bills.

Four House-approved measures were recommended for passage by a Senate committee.

These bills would create a water pollution advisory council, create a committee to invoice Texas' water resources, let the water board issue temporary water permits, and define

Deepest Water Flooding Project Is To Start Soon

The deepest water-flood project in the United States is scheduled to get underway soon in the North Lindsay Bromide sand pool of McClain County, Okla. Announcement of the conservation project was made by S. B. Irelan of Bartlesville, president of Cities Service Oil Company.

The pool now is producing from the Bromide at about 11,000 feet and is nearing the end of its primary production. The injection of water in the low-structure wells in the field is expected to force oil to those wells higher on the structure and is expected to prolong the life of the pool another eight years.

To Increase Recovery

Primary oil production from the pool is estimated at about 2,800,000 barrels. Secondary recovery methods are expected to produce an additional 1,500,000 barrels of oil, it is said.

Most of the wells in the pool may have to be placed on the pump pressure, although operators believe that later in the life of the project, the pressure may be increased to permit a flowing-type flood.

The secondary-recovery project will cover a 720-acre unitized block in Sections 22 and 23, Township 36N&W. Cities Service is the principal owner, with other working interests owned by Anderson Prichard, Phillips, Mid-Continent, Sunray, W. F. Haynes, Aurora Gasoline, Nathan Appleman, Lindsay Corporation, Wason Oil, Zeneth Petroleum and A. J. Lewis. Cities Service will operate the unit. Oklahoma Corporation Commission approval was granted recently for unitization of the block for water-flooding.

The initial operators committee meeting is scheduled at Bartlesville May 26.

UN Infantrymen Chop Down 200 Of 300 Red Attackers

SEOUL — (AP)— UN infantrymen fighting with knives, bayonets, grenades and rifle butts, Wednesday chopped down more than 200 of 300 Red soldiers who battered their way into an Allied outpost in Western Korea.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said 45 Chinese were killed, 33 probably were killed and about 130 were wounded in the bitter 25-minute battle for Outpost Yoke at the base of T-Bone Hill.

U. S. Sabre jets scoured Northwest Korea without finding a Communist MIG.

Allied fighter-bombers struck at Communist supply areas across the narrow waist of North Korea, destroying buildings, supply dumps and trucks and cratering roads and railways.

Marine fighter-bombers from the escort carrier Bairoko dumped bombs and blazing napalm on Red positions southwest of Haeju on Korea's west coast.

Fourteen Okinawa-based B-29 Superforts dumped 140 tons of bombs on a sprawling supply area nine miles west of Sinanju in Western Korea. An Air Force spokesman said the center contained at least 365 buildings and 500 supply stacks. Darkness made an accurate damage assessment impossible, he said.

Carrier-based planes flattened 202 buildings on the east and west coasts of Korea Tuesday, the Navy announced.

Planes from the carriers Boxer and Philippine Sea hit the Pukchon, Songjin and Wonsan areas on the east coast. Marine planes from the Bairoko struck the Haeju Peninsula in the west.

Aside from the attack on Outpost Yoke, there was little action along the 155-mile ground front.

A small Red force hit an Allied forward position in front of the Hook, also on the western front, but was driven back in a brief battle, the Eighth Army said.

Kittens Prove Nightmare To Wichita Falls Sergeant

WICHITA FALLS — (AP)— Sgt. Clinton Lovell gazed at holes in his living room and dining room ceilings Tuesday night and hoped he never sees another cat.

His troubles started Sunday when a neighbor's cat let her three six-week-old kittens in his attic.

Firemen were called to retrieve the cats. One fireman stepped through the ceiling of Lovell's dining room.

Tuesday night, the owner of the cats was found on Lovell's rooftop still looking for her cats. She couldn't get down so firemen were called again. After she was rescued she insisted that the fireman take another look in the attic for her missing cats. They did. This time a fireman stepped through the ceiling of the living room.

"I don't know how I got involved in this and I don't know how it is going to end," the sergeant said after the firemen departed.

"My landlord is never going to believe me when I tell him how it happened."

U. S. AS IN 'OCTOPUS'—The United States was depicted as an octopus, strangling the world, in one of the anti-American propaganda posters carried by Communists in Left Wing demonstrations in Vienna. Though thousands of Austrians marched in a six-hour parade, most of them seemed unenthusiastic about shouting such Soviet-inspired slogans as "Ami Go Home."

Reds Parade Hours On End; Stalin's Name Most Popular

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

VIENNA, AUSTRIA—Communists might not stage the best parades, but they stage the longest. For six hours, I have witnessed the Left Wing demonstrations here. I heard "Ami Go Home" shouted in my face, and later sung by children to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia." No child who could walk is too young to miss the march, and the blind and crippled also stumbled along. Most enthusiastic were the women and children. They carried banners with a dove of peace, and next to these, the Soviet hammer and sickle. "U. S. Help Brings Us Unemployment" proclaimed one sign.

Another, "Stalin Continues to Live in Our Hearts." While there were dozens of blow-ups of Stalin, there were no tributes to Malenkov or any of the new Soviet leaders.

There was anti-American propaganda, but not nearly as much as I witnessed some months ago in the East Berlin Communist youth rally. Dollar Sign Portrayed One poster showed the dollar sign and the Nazi swastika linked together. Another portrayed Uncle Sam as the "American octopus" stretching out to strangle the entire world. American spectators, who took the parade comfortably from the windows of the State Department operated Bristol Hotel, were amazed by the number of bands gathered.

One Texan, Dr. James German of Dallas, started taking moving and still pictures with two different cameras at 8 a.m. When I last saw him, at 2 p.m., he still was grinding out the film.

I asked him to pose by one of the big blow-ups of Stalin being carried in the parade, but he admitted he did not want to get quite that close to the Communists. As the Socialists, who paraded first, and then the Communists passed by the Bristol, where an American flag was flying, there was booing and shouting of "Ami Go Home." The demonstrators had used newspapers to make megaphones in order that their voices might carry. One Socialist banner proclaimed: "Austrians won't be fooled by American milk and honey." Most of the Soviet families here with their officer husbands and fathers were crowded in front of the Russian occupied "Grand" and "Imperial" Hotels. I passed freely among them, taking pictures. They all wore lapel emblems with Stalin's picture. Nearby one of the hotels, I was standing alone. An Austrian came up to me. "You are an American, I am sure." Then he added: "Do not think so many Austrians are Communists. They are working in the Soviet zone, they are told to march... and so they march." Americans can only hope that is why they are marching under Communist banners.

Shift Of Air Group To Europe Proves Advance In Ability For Atomic Defense

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Last Spring, under top secret conditions the U. S. Air Force's whole 49th Air Division, consisting of B-47 light jet bombers and Republic F-84G Thunderjet fighter-bombers, took off from its home base at Langley Field, Va., and flew to fields in England and Germany.

It was a permanent move unprecedented in speed and size, involving about 3,500 men, 125 combat aircraft and many transport planes.

The Air Force now reveals this unique shifting of the nation's air strength is the key to a revised concept of the defense of Western Europe.

Decision Pays Off

The significance Pentagon spokesmen admit, is a major part of the background for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' announcement that new secret weapons could be a much better defense of Western Europe for less American foreign aid dollars.

Dulles' statement is further amplified and explained by an Air Force announcement at the recent open atomic test at Yucca Flats, Nev., that both the B-47 and F-84G are now capable of delivering improved small A-bombs.

The bold decision to move the 49th to Europe has paid off, thanks to improvement in this new weapons system made by both the Atomic Energy Commission and the Air Force since then.

Bomb War Improved

Constant tests, practice maneuvers and improvements in the use of the F-84G have improved steadily its ability to carry atomic weapons to distant targets, the Air Force now claims. Operating over the exact area where it might have to go into combat proved a big help. And the mere presence of the division in Europe has helped bolster morale of the other Western European countries.

The F-84G has proved such a good aircraft for its A-bomb-carrying role that it is in popular demand by all the Atlantic Pact countries. The Air Force admits that nine of these nations now have more than 1,000 Thunderjets in operation in Europe. And they are in addition to those being flown by the U. S. Air Force.

The AEC's progress in improvement of the A-bombs which can be carried in F-84G's was recently stated by James H. Doolittle, the famed Tokyo raider after watching one of the big blasts at Yucca Flats. He said:

"For security reasons, I cannot disclose the yield of the nuclear device just tested. But I can say that rapid progress is being made by this country in improving atomic weapons and the means of delivering them in many types of planes. And I can remind you that more than a year ago it was stated publicly that the U. S. had developed bombs several times as powerful as the one dropped on Nagasaki during World War II."

Navy's A-Power
Thus, the new secret weapons which are buying better European defenses for the democratic countries, according to Dulles, for less money, are more efficient, small atomic bombs which can be carried swiftly to their targets by jet fighters and light jet bombers.

The smaller packages for A-bombs also make possible the Army's 280-mm. atomic cannon. In addition, the Navy can carry atomic bombs in some of its carrier-based planes. And the Air Force's goal is to make all of its fighters and interceptors planes, as well as its bombers, capable of carrying atomic bombs.

The net effect of this increased atomic striking force, according to Pentagon spokesmen, is the need for fewer ground troops.

'RANGELAND CAPERS'

Rodeo Started From Chores In Early Day Cattle Empire

By WILLIARD H. PORTER

Rodeo, a modern professional cowboy sport as native to the U. S. as hot dogs and lollipops, got its start directly from the chores of the early day cattle country. It was an off-shoot, originally for play and relaxation, of the cowboy's daily work, a sort of "rangeland capers" conducted on a strictly competitive basis as it is this day.

When the first such rodeo or cowboy tournament was held is a matter of conjecture. Written records are scarce, and old timers, giving varying stories of the origin of this popular cowpoke contest, have their own pet theories.

Some say North Platte, Neb., was the scene of the first one, a tryout in 1883 for the Buffalo Bill Wild West show. Others are equally sure that Pecos, Texas, can rightfully boast of throwing the first competitive cowboy get-together, a riding and roping affair in 1883 supposedly attracting the top hands from a number of local ranches. Still others claim Prescott, Ariz., where the famous Fourth of July Frontier Days is active yet, blazed the trail with a paying audience in 1888.

These and other livestock pow-wows, insisting on their place in the gradual development of rodeo, were the forerunners of the present spectacular sport presented by the cowboys. But the beginnings of the event were vastly different from the glamour and excitement of today's arena shows.

There were neither arenas nor grandstands. Two events, bronc riding and steer roping, were contested in the open by a number of rival cowboys representing different outfits. The broncs, the wildest horses from the remudas (bands of horses) pooled by the various ranches, were ridden inside a circle of yelping, mounted waddies.

The roping steers were usually cut-backs, ones not wanted in the main herd. They were held in a cut (a group of cattle separated from the herd) until the roper was ready. One at a time they were driven onto the open range. After a steer crossed a designated mark the roper galloped after it, roped it around the horns, and jerked it down.

Surprise Watches Keep Unknown Man Abreast Of Times

LUCERNE, SWITZERLAND—P—Somewhere in the world there's a man who will give himself another present this year, although he doesn't know what it will look like until he receives it. And he doesn't care what it will cost!

Mr. X is known only to a very ingenious Swiss watchmaker, who every year makes him a costly, handmade timepiece that is never duplicated. Six years ago the watchmaker received a letter which said: "I would like to place a standing order for one watch a year. Each watch must be original in movement and design—there must be no other watch in the world like it. When you complete each watch you must tear up the plans. You needn't tell me about each watch in advance. I want each to come as an annual surprise. And never mind the cost."

The latest watch required 18 months to make. It is a pocket model, with a Viking ship reproduced on the dial in platinum set with 57 diamonds. A platinum oar is suspended from each side of the ship. At the touch of a button, the oars flip up. The left oar slides up a scale indexed from one to 12 to give the hour, and the other one ascends a scale marked 0 to 60 to record the minute.

As the stunned steer lay still, the roper dismounted and tied three legs, rendering the animal helpless. It was a timed event; the cowboy who bedded his steer down in the least time was the winner.

As rodeo became a great crowd-pleasure, other events were added, such as bulldozing, calf roping, wild cow milking, and bull riding. Trick and fancy roping and riding were also injected into an increasingly colorful pageant of the Old West.

The men and women who perform in the contrace events, trick and fancy roping, riders, clowns, and specialty actors, are paid a fixed salary. Cowboys who contest in regular events fork over entrance fees for the privilege of trying for the purse.

DALLAS FOLKS ENJOY SELVES

DALLAS—P—About 50 neighbors celebrated the completion of paving on Bowling Green Avenue here with a picnic spread on tables set up in the middle of the street. "Just a general get-together before our street was opened officially," said John T. Johnson. "Nice to get to know one another, you know. Of course, it was all thought up by the women out this way."

FIVE IN ONE

Wyoming has an area of approximately 100,000 square miles, which is equal to the combined areas of Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, and Rhode Island.

Today rodeo is full grown, a mature American sport with two prominent associations, the International Rodeo Association (a producer's group) and the Rodeo Cowboy's Association (a contestant's union). These groups assure a paying audience, rated third after baseball and basketball, a sports event providing good, clean entertainment.

Rodeo, a Spanish word literally meaning roundup, is correctly pronounced ro-day-o, with the accent on the second syllable. But if you want to make a hit with those who rope and ride for a livelihood, call it ro-dee-o, accenting the first syllable. That's what the best cowboys in the world call it. You'll be pleasing them if, when the grand entry is over, you holler, "Let's rodeo, cowboy!"

Citizen Of World Clashes With British, Loses Round

LONDON—P—Sol Gareth (Gary) Davis, who renounced his American citizenship to set himself up as "World Citizen No. 1," was discharged in Bow Street Police Court Monday, and official machinery was set in motion to pack him off to India in three days.

Davis, 31-year-old actor, appeared before magistrate Francis Reece on a charge of "wandering abroad," British designation for a variation of vagrancy. The charge grew out of his attempt to sleep in a Coronation grandstand near Buckingham Palace 10 days ago, and his refusal to go to a hotel to which he had been directed by police.

Previously Davis had sought a personal interview with Queen Elizabeth to plead for an extension of a permit to remain in Britain, and he was escorted from the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

In court Monday the magistrate was informed the American Red Cross was prepared to book passage for Davis on a ship leaving for India on May 21. The home office was prepared to extend his residence permit long enough to enable him to sail.

Magistrate Reece approved these arrangements, and Davis was discharged conditionally for one year.

Oak Ridge Citizens Keep Uncle Sam Saddled With Costs Of Running City

OAK RIDGE, TENN. —(NEA)— Uncle Sam seems to be stuck with a city on his hands.

The United States government which owns this atomic community from pea patch to plutonium, wants Oak Ridge isn't a pretty place the people say no thanks.

Of course, the government intends to stay in the atomic business here. What it wants to get out of is the housing renting, garbage collecting, and municipal house-keeping for this city of 30,000.

Creeping Socialism
But most Oak Ridgers like things the way they are. They voted four to one against running the city themselves.

Some people profess to see in this vote a sign of creeping socialism, a preference for "big government" and all sorts of ominous things.

What it seems to boil down to is that Oak Ridgers have a good thing here, know it, and want to hang on to it. At least until they can find out what it would mean to their pocketbooks if they get stuck with the town, instead of Uncle Sam.

Oak Ridgers have no local taxes.

Oak Ridge landmark are 29 apartment buildings, like this, built and run by the government.

Rents on the 8,500 government-owned homes and apartments are dirt cheap. A one-bedroom prefabricated house rents for $19 a month.

A three-bedroom house with 1,500 square feet of floor space, bath and fireplace can be had for $64.65. And that includes heat.

There is a strong community spirit and virtually no crime or unemployment. With 11 good schools and lots of space to play, it's a great place for children.

Residential section includes single-family homes like this. Oak Ridge rent for a three-bedroom house is $64 a month.

Oak Ridge isn't pretty place, although it's in a pretty setting in the rolling foothills of the Cumberland Mountains. The houses look like what they are—something thrown up quick and cheap during World War II.

But the houses are comfortable and that, with their cheapness, is a practical inducement to workers and their wives to remain here.

People who voted against local self-government feel all this is a pretty nice apple cart to risk upsetting.

AEC Goes In Hole

Right now the Atomic Energy Commission, which owns Oak Ridge, goes in the hole about $1,500,000 a year in running the city. That sum represents the difference between the money received for rents, and the amount spent for municipal services such as police and fire departments, street cleaning, electricity, water and sewage.

The AEC hires these services done by a private concern.

There's only one business here—a government business. So what a lot of Oak Ridgers want to know now is, lacking tax revenue from industry, how would the money be raised to run the city if they did decide to vote for home rule?

What Of Taxes?

The government wants to begin selling people the homes it now rents to them. But before buying, how much will real estate taxes be?

Will the government come through with an annual subsidy to take up the slack if it turns out the self rule government runs hopelessly in the hole?

TOT FINDS TOY REALLY RIPPING

SOUTHINGTON, CONN.—(AP)—The fellow who turned in the false alarm that brought fire engines speeding to a hospital here escaped arrest and prosecution.

The culprit was an 18-month-old patient whose crib had been moved into a hospital hallway. It stood under a fire alarm box which the infant occupant was just tall enough to reach.

While AEC officials are hopeful that Oak Ridgers some day will agree to take on the job themselves, these officials are sharply aware that one of their primary duties is to keep the city attractive enough to prevent the workers from moving away.

New Vote Asked

If the people now renting feel they are being forced to buy their homes, they're liable to pack up and leave.

Don McKay, publisher of the daily Oak Ridger, believes that many people who voted against home rule, did so because they didn't have enough information on how and at what cost it would be put into effect.

"For that reason a lot of them voted against, although in principle they are for it," he says.

McKay says the people at the atomic city of Richland, Wash., are up against the same situation, and wired the Chamber of Commerce here for details on how the referendum worked out.

So until the necessary information can get circulated, it looks like Uncle Sam will stay in the surplus city business.

By Actual Test on Your Car—Wynn's Boosts Gas Mileage*10%

*Laboratory report gas savings of 5% to 32%

ASK FOR DRAMATIC LUBE RACK TEST TODAY—AND START SAVING GAS NOW

Now, see for yourself how Wynn's Friction Proofing Oil can save you 10% out of every $1 you spend on gasoline. Right before your eyes—no guess, no promise—you see how Wynn's secret compounds cut down the friction drag that wastes up to half your car's power. These compounds bond a super-slick surface to engine parts, let them run with far less effort. As a result you get more power with less gas. The Lube Rack Test is simple, takes just a few minutes. The attendant lifts your car on the lube rack, starts the motor and puts your car in gear to make the wheels revolve just as they do on the road. Next, he sets the throttle so that your speedometer registers 30 mph. Now, watch what happens when he adds Wynn's to your regular lubricants...

POWER ZOOMS as Wynn's goes to work. Watch the speedometer needle climb—without any change in the throttle setting! No more gas goes to your motor, yet it turns out more power as Wynn's stops friction drag. At the same time, Wynn's is cutting down wear, protecting engine parts against acid.

HOW WYNN'S WORKS: Under a microscope even the smoothest engine parts look jagged. These tiny "sawteeth" snag against each other causing friction and wear. But Wynn's saturates these micro-pores, "plates" over the sawteeth with a tough, smooth surface. Engine parts then move freely, use less gas.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE... You pay nothing if the Lube Rack Test doesn't prove that Wynn's Friction Proofing cuts down gas-wasting friction drag in your car. Why waste another cent when Wynn's costs so little, saves so much wear, gives your car so much extra zing, pays for itself in gas savings?

Loop-holes In Espionage Law

The name of Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, still evokes strong emotions whenever it is mentioned. But almost forgotten are some of the glaring weaknesses his trials disclosed in America's defenses against espionage and sedition.

Senator Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, now usefully reminds us of these. He says an analysis by the research staff of the Library of Congress shows wide loopholes in our system of safeguards.

According to this study, hostile acts against America might wholly escape punishment in many situations. For one thing, the statute of limitations runs for too short a period (three years) on espionage.

Secondly, the constitutional guarantees of public trial often dissuade the government from prosecuting a spy, because to gain a conviction might require disclosure of more secret information than the spy had learned on his own.

Then, too, there are severe legal limits today on the admissibility of evidence, like that obtained in wire-tapping. These restrictions have handicapped the government in prosecuting Judith Coplon, former FBI worker charged with passing secrets to Russia.

The immunity granted foreign diplomatic representatives is another obstacle. No one has the slightest doubt that the Russian embassy and consulates in America, plus their counterparts among the satellite nations, are active spy centers.

The best we can do is ask recall of anyone we believe we have positive proof against. Of course, the deported spy quickly is replaced by another and the process of seeking out proof begins all over again.

To remedy these and other loopholes calls for extremely careful amending of present law. A slapdash job could endanger civilian liberties. But the task is one that has too long been overlooked.

Getting upstage with your friends does nothing but keep you out of the spotlight.

Pushing ahead opens the door to success quicker than just pull.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Some Call Choice Of Radford Blow To Air Force Supremacy

WASHINGTON—Air Force supremacy enthusiasts in Washington are reeling under a triple blow. Their budget is being cut from $16,000,000,000 to $11,000,000,000.

And Adm. Arthur W. Radford of the Navy has been designated by President Eisenhower as next chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Of the three blows, the last was felt the hardest. Four years ago, Admiral Radford left Washington under an official cloud.

Admiral Radford will return to Washington under the bright sunshine of official approval. His criticisms of the heavy-bomber program, four and five years ago, have been in part borne out by time.

With Gen. Nathan F. Twining—a fighter pilot rather than a heavy-bomber man—already designated as Air Force chief of staff, the new Pentagon team will have a complete reorientation away from World War II experience.

What has happened to make this so is that the efficiency of the atomic bomb has been greatly increased, and its size reduced.

It might be that the mere existence of the B-36 was enough to keep Russia from starting World War III, over the last five years.

In one other respect, Admiral Radford may have to revise his ideas of 1948 and 1949. Then he called the planned retaliatory atomic blitz a "fallacious concept."

Today the Eisenhower Administration defense thinking seems to follow the line that because the U. S. has an even greater atomic potential than four or five years ago, all the armed services can be cut back in the interests of economy.

What Admiral Radford's views on this subject are today he has not yet had an opportunity to say publicly. There is no doubt that he will, for he is a plain-spoken seadog.

Some of the Air Force fears of seeing Admiral Radford made chairman of the Joint Chiefs may be exaggerated.

One other objection to making Admiral Radford chairman of the JCS has been that most of his experience has been in the Pacific. That point is overcome now by designation of Adm. Robert B. Carney as the new chief of naval operations.

Admiral Carney's postwar experience has been in the Atlantic. As North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander for Southern Europe, Admiral Carney served under General Eisenhower when he was NATO supreme commander.

Naming Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway as Army chief of staff brings to the Pentagon a fighting soldier with plenty of experience in both Europe and Asia.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson (Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Sitting in court often is the penalty of being a newspaperman; American juries are fair institutions; Two lines costly.

WASHINGTON—For some time I have been sitting in court in a legal action that went against me. In 30 years of newspapering I have battled a few of these suits, and I'm not ashamed of them.

If you try to unearth what's really going on in Washington; if you try to tell what takes place behind the scenes, if you don't rely on the official handout, then you are likely to sit a certain amount of time on the hard benches of the court.

I believe in protecting my newspapers and radio stations, so I have always bought these lawsuits out. That's what courts are for, and as a strong believer in the American jury system, I make no complaints.

As a matter of fact, juries have treated me extraordinarily well during the years, handing down favorable verdicts in such important cases as that of Congressman Martin Sweeney of Ohio, the man in the red house on R Street, Attorney General Fred Hoover of California, Dan Duncan of Buzard's Roost, and others.

Last week, however, I lost my first case. Paradoxically I lost to a onetime friend, Norman Littell, whom I had defended when he was under fire in the Justice Department and during various other battles in which he got embroiled.

Two Expensive Lines However, the first time I wrote even two lines about him that weren't dripping with praise he slapped a suit on me. He also got Senator McCarthy's personal attorney to represent him while McCarthy himself even busied himself trying to collect certain evidence against me—evidence that didn't exist.

The two lines, buried near the bottom of a column, started the Justice Department was checking on Littell's propaganda activities for the Dutch in connection with the Foreign Agents Registration Act. This reference was written in 1949 when a lot of people in Washington were lining up for and against the Dutch during the row over Indonesia.

And perhaps the most important aspect of the Littell suit was the ruling of Judge Henry Schweinhaut that these two lines were libelous per se. Merely to report that a man is being investigated, or being checked by the FBI or having his tax records checked by Internal Revenue now is considered, under this ruling in the Littell case, libelous per se in the nation's capital.

This means that the press could not have reported that Ambassador Chip Bohlen was being checked by the FBI during the fight over his confirmation. It means that the press could not have reported that Lamar Caudle was under investigation by a congressional committee unless an official announcement was made by that committee.

It means that the press could not have reported that John Davies of the State Department was being scrutinized by the Loyalty Board, without an official announcement. It means also that the press could not report that Congressman Bramblett of California was being checked by the FBI or questioned by a grand jury without an official announcement.

In these days, when the FBI checks every official taking public office, and when everyone making more than $25,000 automatically is investigated by Internal Revenue, this may be something of a setback to the previous rule of fair comment.

Tempestuous Littell But getting back to Littell. During his latter days in the Justice Department he developed an impulsive, tempestuous quality that unintentionally affected his country's interests, and led to his being fired by President Roosevelt. The facts are set forth in a letter dated Nov. 7, 1944, from the later undersecretary of War, Robert Patterson, to the attorney general, then Francis Biddle, indicating that Littell was so headstrong and uncooperative that he caused grave concern among our top military authorities regarding the most priceless secret of the war—construction of the atom-bomb plant at Hanford, Wash.

Atom-Bomb Secret The letter, which I have permission to quote, states in part: "One of the most important industrial activities conducted by the War Department is the Hanford Engineering Works, located in Eastern Washington. The project is of a highly secret nature, undertaken by the War Department at the direction of the President. While the nature of the work cannot be revealed, its importance is indicated by the fact that it has been accorded top priority for labor, materials, and all needed facilities, outranking all other programs.

"One of the many problems presented by this difficult project is the acquisition of the real estate required. The War Department, for reasons connected with military security, has been most anxious that the condemnation proceedings be expedited and the funds distributed to the former owners, and also that there be no unnecessary publicity. The Department of Justice has been advised of this urgent necessity."

Secretary Patterson then went on to explain that the program of land acquisition had been delayed because of differences with Littell, then assistant attorney general in charge of the lands division, who disagreed with War Department land-value appraisals.

"However," continued the undersecretary of War, "to meet the desires of the Department of Justice, the appraisals were revised upward. Thereafter, when the situation nevertheless appeared to have reached an impasse, General Somervell arranged a meeting between Major General L. R. Groves and Colonel

John J. O'Brien and Mr. Littell at Yakima last April. At this meeting the prior appraisals were considered and we agreed to adopt all of Mr. Littell's recommendations as to revised appraisals and methods of procedure . . .

"We hoped that the understanding reached at this meeting would result in accelerated progress in settling the cases and that any additional problems arising would be resolved through joint consultation. Our hope, however, was not realized.

"On October 13, six months after the April meeting, Mr. Littell, without preliminary consultations with us, appeared in the United States District Court at Yakima and submitted a statement in which he reviewed the history of the acquisition, criticized the War Department's handling thereof, and stated that our appraisals were so far below the actual values that he could not continue to try the cases until he had reexamined the appraisals on each of the 721 cases remaining.

"In the statement he also attacked the juries for passion and prejudice and partisan political bias. This action was obviously incompatible with essential military security, the need for which had been carefully explained to him. His statement to the court has resulted in a considerable amount of undesirable publicity concerning a project which the President has personally directed should be blanketed with the utmost secrecy."

Because this emotional, headstrong quality on the part of Norman Littell could affect the welfare of the nation, as evidenced in the Hanford case, I considered it necessary to comment on his activities.

Machine Does Heart, Lungs' Work During Unique Surgery

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A machine which functioned as both heart and lungs of a human being for the first time in medical history has been unveiled by surgeons at Jefferson Medical College Hospital.

Invented by Dr. John H. Gibbon, Jr., director of surgical research at the college, the machine was shown to newsmen with the announcement that it had performed the combined functions of both organs while surgeons closed an abnormal opening in the wall of a patient's heart.

The operation was performed on Cecelia Bavolek, of Sayreville, Pa., 18-year-old student at Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

For years the girl had suffered from the malformed heart, a large opening between the auricles causing the trouble. Dr. Gibbon said the opening "about the size of a half dollar" meant a large portion of her blood was being recirculated continuously through her lungs, causing a condition known as circular spetal defect which deprives the muscles and bones of the body of their normal nourishment.

Heartbeat Continues

The patient's heart was opened and the abnormal opening closed. The surgeons placed tubes in the two big veins leading to the heart and another in the artery in the chest.

The tubes in the veins were connected to pumps which drew the blood out and circulated it through the artificial lung. The blood was then pumped back into the body through the arterial tube, in this way "short circuiting" the patient's heart and lungs.

Throughout the 45-minute operation, the patient's own heart continued to beat, even though it was not pumping blood. Dr. Gibbon explained the heart muscle was continuously receiving its normal supply of oxygenated blood from the machine, as did the rest of the patient's tissues.

Not A Cure-All

The surgeon said Miss Bavolek was connected to the machine for the full 45 minutes, but the apparatus did the work of the heart and lungs 26 minutes.

"For 26 minutes her life depended on the machine," he said.

Dr. Gibbon said the machine is "not a cure-all for all heart conditions. I want to emphasize the machine probably will be used chiefly on people born with a deformed heart, possibly blue babies, children with congenital heart defects. It can't help coronary artery diseases or hearts crippled by diseases of old age."

The patient has responded well to the operation and probably will be out of the hospital soon, Dr. Gibbon added.

Mechanic Bitten By Best Friend

Ed Harwell of 708 Andrews Highway suffered a minor injury last week when he was bitten by his best friend. Harwell is a lawnmower mechanic and a darned good one. His best friend is a lawnmower, and rightly so, because he earns his living repairing them. Who could ask for a better friend than one who contributes a large portion to your upkeep?

Ed works on the things, and that is how he got bit. He rolled the flesh of his thumb between the chain that drives the machine, and the sprocket that drives the chain. One or more of the teeth on the sprocket bit him. Seems to us it ought to make news, "Machine Bites Man," or something.

All of which leaves us a good opening to tell you that your lawnmower can be your best friend during these hot days, if it is in good repair and sharp. Could be your worst enemy, too, if it doesn't run properly. If you have to fuss and fume with a balky mower, if your machine isn't right up to snuff, then you ought to call the store, and we'll call Ed, and Ed will call your mower—his best friend.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

A hunting buddy of mine came busting in the other evening all torn out at the heel—seems he'd carelessly knocked off the little ivory sight bead that graced the front end of his trusty rabbit gun. I was loaded well with free advice, which I had no hesitation in giving him.

Sights on a shotgun that is to be used against fast-moving targets are about as useful as toothpaste to a turkey gobbler. You don't sight a shotgun, anyway, not on flying birds, you aim at the presence or absence of a little dinky ivory or brass bead out on the gun muzzle is a cause of concern, then there's something very wrong with your shotgun.

The small front sight, perhaps duplicated in a smaller size half-way back along the shotgun's barrel, is highly decorative, and it would serve a definite purpose if you were trying to use the gun with buckshot or slugs, possibly even if you were aiming it at a crippled duck that was about to make deep water. But it's entirely too small to be of much use in the fast gun-handling required to hit upland birds or even to be of any great use in the duck blind itself.

Clay target shooters long ago found that any front sight for fast-moving targets needed to be big. They experimented with and found useful chunky blocks of metal screwed atop the barrel rib, and with muzzle bandages made by wrapping a few layers of shotpun tape around the muzzle.

The majority of skeet shooters today use one form or another of muzzle attachment, not at all because the muzzle gadgets permit easy choke change, which skeet fans don't need, or because they reduce recoil, which is of some importance to some skeet shooters sensitive to gun-pounding, but primarily because the hunk of metal out there is quickly picked up by the eye, easily seen in relation to a 60-mile-an-hour clay target.

Over the years shotguns have been offered all manner of gadgets to calculate lead automatically. These are a delusion and a snare for one simple reason. A ring sight or some form of spreader on the muzzle can be used with targets that fly at a known speed, at known angles, and any eighth grade algebra student can dope out proper leads for those targets, given the time of flight of the shot charge. But my experience has been that pheasants and quail and ducks and doves are very impolite about the way they fly—they just never travel at the same angle or speed twice in succession.

But there's one time when sights are needed on a smooth-bore. That's when you use slugs for deer. The umbrella-shaped shotgun slug, those one-ounce busters that are fired by a 12-gauge, will really clobber a buck if you hit him. They will stay in a three-inch circle at 50 yards from a good pump gun or an auto-loader if the gun has a peep sight on it—but without the sight you'll be lucky to keep the slugs inside a wash tub at the same range.

Stock for the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo is furnished by Gene Autry and Associates. The event is staged here June 3 through 7.

TROPHIES FOR SHOOTERS—Shown above are the trophies and merchandise awards due winners at the Texas State Bench Shooters' Association's second annual State Championship meet May 30 and 31 in San Angelo. Bench rest rifle competition is a rapidly growing sport which involves the use of heavy rifles fired from sand-bag rests on tables. Ranges of fire are 100 and 200 yards. Left to right, above, are P. D. Moore of Midland charter member of the association, E. L. Phillips of Odesa, secretary, and John I. Moore of Midland and San Angelo, founder and president of the group. The trophies were donated by the Moore brothers and the merchandise by shooting equipment manufacturers.

HINT TO MOTORISTS

The storage battery of a car, including the connecting terminals, should be kept clean at all times. A cloth dampened with a little ammonia, or a soda solution, should be used to remove sulphation.

Buster Mills, coach for the Cincinnati Redlegs, played major league ball with the Cardinals, Dodgers, Red Sox, Browns, Yankees and Indians.

NO TROUBLE COUNTING YEARS

PECOS—Moises Morales, Pecos man who became a naturalized citizen in U. S. District Court here last week, did not have to stop and count up how long he had been in the United States. He had lived here 41 years on the day he took the oath of allegiance.

GULF WARMTH

England has a milder climate than Labrador, which is in the same latitude, since the Gulf Stream brings a large current of warm water to her shores, while the Labrador current flows from the North Pole regions.

You don't want to miss the mile-long opening day parade at 4 p.m. June 3 for the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo.

Daddy Ringtail And The Sad Case Of Braggadocio

Braggadocio was in trouble. The Featherman said: "That fellow—that Braggadocio—told me he painted the blue up there on the sky."

But everyone knew that Braggadocio hadn't really done the hanging out of the stars at night, or the taking them down in the morning. That's why he was in trouble.

And Mugwump said: "That fellow—that Braggadocio—told me he hangs the stars in the sky at night, and he says he takes them down every morning."

But everyone knew that Braggadocio hadn't really done the hanging out of the stars at night, or the taking them down in the morning. That's why he was in trouble.

And the Huffen said: "That fellow—that Braggadocio—told me he did, that he puts the clouds of white up in the sky."

But everyone knew that Braggadocio had really had nothing to do with the putting of clouds up there in the sky. That's why he was in trouble.

Yes sir, and yes indeed, Braggadocio had bragged. He had told of these wonderful things to make people listen, but the wonderful things weren't true. That's what everyone said, and Braggadocio waiting now to see what would happen.

Daddy Ringtail, you monkey friend, spoke up and said: "Braggadocio does have a friendly smile. His voice is kind."

LARGEST CREATURES

Blue whales, which weigh up to 115 tons and sometimes are 100 feet long, are the largest creatures known. They would equal in length, and far surpass in weight, the gigantic extinct dinosaurs, according to one authority.

You'll be in tune with the times June 3-7 for the 19th Annual World Championship Midland Rodeo if you wear your Western regalia.

RATTLES DON'T TELL AGE

Newly born rattlesnakes have no rattle, but develop a new joint with each succeeding moult. The older joints wear away, however, and are lost, so that the number of rattles is no criterion of the snake's age.

Scores Scramble In Mud, Seeking Ancient Quarry

The great mastodon hunt is on near Mogadore, Ohio, and everybody wants to get into the act, despite the fact that it's a dirty business. It all started when Chester H. Keller, Atwater, Ohio, ditching contractor, was gouging out a ditch to drain a bog on the Mogadore farm of Arthur J. May. His power scoop brought up the upper part of a mastodon's skull. Keller and May called in Dr. William E. Scheele, director of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, who directed volunteer searchers in bringing up almost all the rest of the skeleton. Dr. Scheele said it was "in an exquisite state of preservation." Still sought are the tucks, two front legs, a hind leg and shoulder bones. They are deep under layers of swamp slime. Pictures below show scenes of Ohio's greatest mastodon hunt since 1926, when bones were found under similar circumstances.

Thigh bone of mastodon, held by Chester H. Keller, of Atwater, O., indicates size of animal. His equipment scooped up first bones.

Grappling in mud of drainage ditch, workmen hunt missing bits of skeleton, directed by Dr. William Scheele (hatless, top center).

Gigantic pelvis is held by John Silvasy, left, of St. Joe, O., and Fred Thompson of Cleveland Museum of Natural History.

Arthur May, on whose farm mastodon skeleton was found, examines huge jaw bones with Dr. William Scheele.

More Vocal Chiefs To Replace Present Military Executives

WASHINGTON — The present Joint Chiefs of Staff, long-time companions in arms of President Eisenhower, stated their positions clearly enough but all in all, they have been fairly mild and quiet men. The new Joint Chiefs—named by Eisenhower in a complete overhaul of the top-command in the armed forces, may turn out to be more aggressive and vocal and therefore a disappointment to any politicians who want rubber stamps. The present Joint Chiefs, the top military men of the country, are: Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff; Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff; and Adm. William M. Fechteler, chief of naval operations.

Fechteler has had his job only since August, 1951, when he was moved up to succeed the late Adm. Forrest Sherman. The Joint Chiefs got mixed up in politics in early 1951 when they opposed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's desire to hit the Chinese with an all-out attack. They said it might involve this country in an all-out Asiatic war. They urged watching Europe. That was before Fechteler succeeded Sherman. During last year's presidential campaign, Senator Taft of Ohio, Senate Republican leader and the most powerful man in Congress, said he had no confidence in the present Joint Chiefs.

Advised to satisfy Secretary of Defense Wilson, Eisenhower last week announced he was appointing all new Joint Chiefs, including Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman; Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Army chief of staff; Gen. Nathan Twining, chief of the Air Force; and Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of

Nationalists Seeking Okinawa For China

TAIPEH FORMOSA — Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists apparently hope that Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyu strategic Pacific islands between Formosa and Japan, one day will come back to Chinese rule. Evidence of this was provided by a letter sent to Foreign Minister George Yeh by the control Yuan. Free China's highest watchdog body. The letter, inspired by press reports that Japan intended to discuss with the United States the "problem of the Ryukus," asked Yeh to pay close attention to the situation. The Nationalists all along have claimed the Ryukus were part of the Chinese empire before they were taken by Japan.

PECOS—Pecos Junior Chamber of Commerce members joined hands with other Texans this week in lending a helping hand to tornado victims in San Angelo and Waco.

The JayCees sent a truckload of clothes, bedding, food and other items to the ravaged towns Wednesday afternoon. Mayflower Transport Company of Pecos provided the truck to haul the goods free of charge.

At the same time, the Pecos Enterprise announced it is sponsoring a continuance of the drive, soliciting funds, clothing, household items and anything anyone wants to send.

Graduating Collegians Find Greatest Success Outdoors

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — An open letter to Joe College, class of 1953:

Dear Joe, I see by the paper that when you hang up your cap and gown next month, you are going to be looking for a job holding down a swivel chair rather than packing a salesman's sample case. This is sad. Why should a young fellow your age be so anxious to join the indoor battalions of business? There is nothing wrong with wanting to be a chemist or an accountant, a personnel executive or a business administrator. But, why, Joe, are you so reluctant to take up a selling job? Do you think being a desk technician offers you more security? Are you trying to hide from life and its struggles behind your bright new sheepskin?

Meet The Public Get out in the rain, kid, and meet the public. Join the great foot infantry of business if you really want to learn your business. You have a better chance of becoming a captain of industry if you first serve as a private on patrol, scouting for new customers and new ideas.

Maybe you heard too many jokes about traveling salesmen when you were young, Joe. Maybe that Broadway play, "Death of a Salesman" scared you into believing a salesman's only reward is to die, leaving insurance money to make the last payment on a house he never wanted to own.

Role All Wrong If so, you've got the salesman's role all wrong, Joe. He's the reconnaissance man of industry, the lead fellow for all to follow. He may wear out a pullman mattress in his travels, but he's as much of a pioneer as those who journeyed west in covered wagons.

All business is built on selling. Let some desk jockey in the home office envy you as he totes up your commissions every month. You're too young to rust.

CORONATION'S B'S—

Hearty Brew Gets Blessing Of Vicar

LONDON — Britain will celebrate Queen Elizabeth's coronation with the traditional "three B's" of national rejoicing—beef and beer.

The bells will ring out from every church tower across the country. The beer will be a special triple-strength brew laid down last year by most brewery firms and now mellow and mature. It will cost up to five shillings (70 cents) a pint—four times the normal price—but the brewers say it will keep 50 years and get better all the time.

Quick Peek At Hell-Bomb Plant Awes Reporter; Tin Hats, Pistols Abound

By WADE JONES
NEA Staff Correspondent
AIKEN, S. C.—The big yellow and black sign on the highway 15 miles south of here says, "Caution, you are entering the area of the Savannah River Plant."

That's like telling a tight-wire walker over Niagara Falls to watch his step.

Because if there's one place in the world where a person is going to be cautious without being told to, it's at the Savannah River Plant.

The plant is not, as you might expect from its mild name and Dixie setting, a place where they make mockingbird cages.

It's the home of the hydrogen bomb—also known as the H-bomb and the Hell Bomb—this bomb to end all bombs, and maybe all people.

The Hell Bomb is so powerful it takes an atom bomb to even set it off. They figure that a medium-sized one would burn the buttocks off everybody in a 300-square-mile area.

The 30,000 workers at the plant walk softly and take a pretty serious view of things. For instance, there's the matter of the helmets.

They Wear Pistols

You pull up to the three-story gray administration building and the first thing you notice is three men working on the lawn, cutting grass and pruning. They all wear gray metal helmets, with goggles strapped on the front.

Inside the building, typical-looking executives wearing business suits, some fat and some wearing eyeglasses, also wear brown metal helmets with the goggles in front. Others have on the same get-up, except they wear pistol holsters around their hips. With pistols.

It turns out there are enough cops here to run a plant the size of San Francisco or Boston or Washington, D. C.

Picture And Badge

The girl at the information counter asks you so many questions it sounds like Quiz Kids. Another girl takes you into a little room and takes your picture. The first one looks like the Hermit of Sharktooth Shoal, so she cuts it up in tiny pieces and throws them in the wastebasket.

The next picture comes out all right and they put it on a badge and pin it to your coat. The badge has lots of little squares around the als used would fill a train reaching from Atlanta, Ga., to New York. The dirt removed would form a wall 10 feet high and six feet wide from Atlanta to Portland, Ore.

When they get through building the plant, a permanent force of about 7,000 actually will produce whatever it is they're supposed to produce.

The guide seemed to be under the impression that there couldn't be an accidental H-bomb explosion here, because the things would be assembled elsewhere. But you know how guides are.

Savannah River scenery these days is not complete without metal helmets like these workers wear everywhere they go.

Even executives wear hard hats at Savannah River Plant edges with holes punched in a few of them. The holes designate places in the 202,000-acre plant area where you will be allowed to go. It doesn't seem like there are very many holes.

About Those Flowers

A young man comes downstairs and says he is going to be your guide and leads you out to a car, past some more men with pistols.

But now you feel like Public Enemy No. 1.

"What would you like to know?" he says. "Ask me some questions. Go ahead, ask me."

Nature seems like a safe topic so you ask him what kind of flowers those red ones over there are. He looks disgusted.

By now the car is passing a strange-looking long gray building with a big fence around it. You ask him what they're doing in that building.

"About those flowers," he says. Then a buzzing begins under the dashboard. The young man stops the car and pulls a telephone out of the glove compartment and begins talking. Turns out he's a cop, too.

Radiation Zone

Over on the right is a big hole in the ground with red clay piled all around it. The whole thing is enclosed by one of those triple-decked fences with barbed wire on top. On the fence is a sign with red letters saying, "Danger, Radiation Zone."

The young man seems to have thawed out a lot. "You can feel free to draw any conclusions you like from what you see around here," he says.

That led to one of the quickest conclusions ever drawn—Let's get out of here.

Buildings Spread Out

On the way back to the administration building, the guide got downright talkative and explained that the people wore the tin hats because it was a regulation of the DuPont company on all construction jobs. DuPont is constructing the whole project and will run it under Atomic Energy Commission supervision.

The plant—actually there are several widely scattered buildings connected by 75 miles of railroads and 105 miles of highways—produces and the ingredients for both atom bombs and H-bombs.

Big Dirt Wall

Somebody has figured out that "in magnitude and scope it has never been approached by any single undertaking anywhere." The materi-

Mama Sue's Little Family Growing By Hops And Jumps

PECOS—Sue, a mama cat out at the Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Holdman's farm, believes in large families—even if part of hers has to be rabbits.

She recently mothered five young kittens and apparently had her paws full taking care of them. But now she has added to the family by picking up two young stray rabbits.

Dave Vaught, who owns the cat, raises rabbits. One young group apparently died at birth and he took them out into the brush. But Sue decided one was worth keeping so she brought it back home.

It lived and soon became one of the family, taking a place at dinner along with the young felines. No one seemed to mind, least of all Mama Sue.

In fact she believes in the old saying, "there's always room for one more."

For only a day or so ago, Vaught came home to find another boarder at the dinner table. Sue had found another stray rabbit and brought it home.
