

BOYLE STANDS BY IN BERMUDA Coral Wonderland Offers Special Conference Woes

By RAL BOYLE
HAMILTON, BERMUDA.—An open letter to President Eisenhower: When you come to Bermuda next month for the Big Three conference, you are going to run into one big problem that isn't on the program. That problem will be how to keep your mind on international woes in a coral wonderland where nobody was meant to worry, and few people feel like arguing. Coming to this island paradise with a problem is like bringing your mother-in-law along on a honeymoon. World politics could hardly find a pleasanter beachhead, and if I were one of the statesmen I would tell the others: "Follow me, you're not sensible about this? Let's talk and talk, but don't settle the issues before us. If we do settle them, we'll have to leave this climate and go back home." This may explain why I am not a statesman. The home folks here are highly flattered that the conference will make Bermuda a world political center. They regard it as perhaps the most important single event here since a British admiral accidentally ran into the islands in 1609 and had the forethought to claim them for his queen. The Spanish actually had been here earlier, but made no objection, not realizing how profitable the tourist trade would become a few centuries later. The Bermudians know that you, Sir Winston Churchill, and the French representative—if France gets around to naming one—have a heavy agenda. But they are very proud of their colorful islands, and hope you can take time off to see the sights. One final tip: Bring along plenty of suntan lotion and Mami. A fellow who visits as fair a place as Bermuda without his wife is bound to get an earful when he gets back home—even if he lives in the White House.

UMW-Steelworker Talks Spur Rumors Of Changes In CIO

NEW YORK.—The New York Times said Friday the heads of the United Mine Workers and the CIO Steelworkers talked secretly in Washington Thursday, and scheduled further talks in the future. The newspaper said the subject discussed by John L. Lewis, chief of the Independent Mine Workers, and David J. McDonald, Steelworkers president, was not disclosed. It said, however, that it was reported there had been "no discussion of merger at the moment." But, the report said, the meeting set off fresh speculation along these lines:
1. That McDonald might lead his million-member union out of the four-million member CIO.
2. That the CIO is on the verge of dissolution.
3. That there was truth in recent reports of merger discussions involving several smaller CIO unions and their AFL counterparts.
4. That CIO-AFL unity, which has been the subject of top-level union conferences, may be hastened by the possibility of a Lewis-McDonald merger.

TWO HEARTS BEAT AS ONE

HUNTINGTON, W. VA.—Mrs. Orville Via had plans for that $155 in a pocketbook her husband found. If no one claimed it, she would buy some new dresses for her home. Thursday, Mrs. Blanche Palmer established ownership of the pocketbook, gave the Via a $10 reward, and explained why the purse contained such a large sum. She had been saving up to buy some new dresses.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!
MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD—(HEA)—Hollywood on her reputation as the world's foremost collector of diamonds, mink, old masters and other negotiable gifts: "I've stopped that kind of collecting. I found out that I'm not really a collector. Once I collect something, I don't really know what to do with it."
Steve Cochran, about movie plots: "The screen has been making moviegoers mentally lazy. You don't have to tell an audience what's going to happen, show it happening, and then tell them what happened. Audiences should be given a chance to use their minds."
Ann Sheridan, after tussling with Glenn Ford in "Rage in the Jungles": "They warned me he was realistic in his clinches with his leading ladies. Realistic nothing. He's just rough."
Edmond O'Brien, about his roller-coastering in "Man in the Dark": "I've had it. Once is enough. They ran us around 18 times just for one scene on that blankety-blank roller coaster. I kept my nerve up but I couldn't keep my food down."
Eva Le Galliere, indicating stage retirement in her autobiography, "With a Quiet Heart": "I cannot tell whether there is any longer a place for me in the American theater."
Dale Robertson, not worried about scenery stealing all the honors in big-screen movies: "There's always been too much emphasis on actors, anyhow."
Mona Freeman, being philosophical about her career: "The challenging adult roles haven't come along as I hoped, but being off the screen for a while gives people the chance to forget the juvenile things I did. There has to be an interval when you grow into something else. I think it will happen for me. No actress his a stride until she's 30. She can't start to understand acting until then."
Sam Goldwyn, spiking retirement rumors: "The only time I'll retire is when they take me away in a casket."
Kearney Wynn, electing to remain at MGM for another year rather than turn free-lance to accept television offers: "I don't see any point in deserting a studio that's been good to me for 11 years. There's plenty of time for television."
Elsie Stewart, new MGM glamor doll: "People are unfair when they say that big screens and 3-D are making Hollywood forget all about building stars. A few months ago I was an unknown. Now I'm getting all the breaks—in roles and in pictures."
Gene Evans, wiring his agent he'd be available for "flat" as well as 3-D movies: "When 2-D calls I'll be there. Not dimension the money."

Jose Ferrer, on mixing membership in the 18-month, tax-exempt overseas club: "I toyed with the idea. I'm not allergic to money. I'm just allergic to poverty. But when they started explaining to me what I could and couldn't do if I wanted to take advantage of the tax exemption, I began to feel like an exile from my own country. For no other reason than that I gave up the idea."
Joan Caulfield, after starting in a live TV drama: "I had so many wardrobe changes I had to wear three costumes, one on top of the other, in one scene. Later people asked me, 'Joan, haven't you gained a lot of weight?' 'I'm surprised I didn't lose 50 pounds. I had to run so fast from the wardrobe room to the stage and back that I was panting. I felt like I had run two miles in Olympic record time.'"
Ray Bradbury, dean of science-fiction writers: "I boiled when 'It Came From Outer Space' was called a fantasy. Science-fiction writing is sociological studies of the future—things that the writer believes are going to happen by putting two and two together. Fantasy is dream-world stuff you can't believe has a chance of happening."
Diana Lynn, after working on TV with Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca: "I like Sid because he isn't a full-time comedian. He doesn't try to get laughs every time he opens his mouth. Imogene is shy and retiring off-stage. But when the camera catches her she's an entirely different person."
It is believed that the cow may have been first domesticated in Europe.

THEY REALLY WANT HIM NOW

OAKLAND, CALIF. — (AP) — First Robert (The Apple) Current, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men, was wanted even more Friday. Police said he led two other gunmen in a holdup of an American Trust Company branch bank Thursday and escaped with $2,000. The other two were trapped by police and $3,174 taken from the bank was recovered. But Current, a 39-year-old Oakland ex-convict and stickup artist, escaped on foot with the rest of the money. The two captured men identified themselves as Everett Rogers, 34, and Ronald Kail, 34, both of San Francisco.

Tour Of European Countries Described For Exchange Club

Members of Midland's Exchange Club got a quick "tour" of Europe at their meeting Thursday in Hotel Scharbauer when Carol Thomas, president-elect of the Rotary Club, told of his trip to Paris to attend a meeting of Rotary International and the European tour which followed.

Thomas visited in Belgium, Switzerland, France, Italy and England, where he witnessed the colorful procession which followed the coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

"Italy was the highlight of my tour," Thomas said, "and particularly Rome. I believe it would be worthwhile for everybody to visit Rome—as an orientation trip to acquaint themselves with all the places there they've heard about and will always hear about."

Other guests at the meeting included Everett Smith, manager of the Little League baseball team sponsored by the Exchange Club, and two of the young players, Larry Stanley and Lennie Smith.

SCRAPBOOK FOR A NIGHTMARE

EBB AND FLOW of war was symbolized by this picture of American troops moving up to meet the enemy while terror-stricken Korean civilians flee in the opposite direction.

STRAIN OF BATTLE is portrayed in the bowed head, the face-hiding hands and the posture of war-weariness.

During three years of war in Korea, combat photographers, both from the armed services and from the news photo agencies made many striking pictures. Almost every newspaper reader will remember those shown here, although some were taken in the early days of the war. They are remembered—and will be long remembered—because they have the imperishable quality of putting in focus the human side of "mechanical" war.

BOTTLED LIFE for many a severely wounded UN fighter was blood plasma, dramatized in this front-line photo.

MEMORABLE is this picture of a captain administering last rites to a fatally wounded Marine—a picture fated to be repeated many times before the guns are stilled.

Red Puppets Speed Reforms To Forestall New Rebellion

BERLIN — (AP) — East Germany's Russian puppet regime set up what looked like a substitute government Friday to speed sweeping reforms obviously designed to forestall further workers' rebellion against communism.

With apparent Soviet approval—perhaps given him as a last chance to survive—the East's new satellite Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl announced formation of a special "operative commission" with full power to initiate and drive through measures designed to cool the fires of revolt by improving the lot of the common man.

The commission's job—the Reds said its makeup and size were still being worked out—was in effect to split East Germany's wretched economy back towards capitalism.

Preliminary plans made public by the Grotewohl Cabinet Thursday night spelled the final collapse of the all-out communism drive that started last Summer and rolled ahead relentlessly until it bumped squarely into the June 17 rebellion. More Food, Clothing.

The Cabinet ordered the commission to:

- Strip the government's reserve shelves bare of food and clothing, throwing everything available onto the retail consumer market. This wipes out the traditional Communist "state planning" system.
- Slash appropriations for war-potential heavy industry by almost half and use the recouped government money for workers' housing, health and welfare improvements.
- Junk the crop, livestock and food quotas which have forced many farmers out of business, compelled some of the best of them to flee to the West and burned deep fires of resentment throughout the agricultural belt. Reductions on delivery of cattle, milk, eggs, potatoes and other farm products ranged up to 25 per cent, depending on the size of the farm.
- Increase old age pensions and sick benefits.
- Repeal laws for workers who voluntarily hike their production, abolishing the speed-up tactics of the old compulsory work quotas.

Party Boss Walter Ulbricht stuck to his Red doctrine of expediency even while bending all his energy to bring about a swing to the right. He said Lenin did the same thing in the early days of the Soviet Union when private enterprise was needed to keep Russia from collapse.

Lesser Communist officials throughout the zone meanwhile made a modest start toward restoring farms to original owners, brutally dispossessed by collectivization methods. They also gave back a number of small plants to private enterprise.

As an opening gambit in the drive to reach workers' hearts through their long-denied stomachs, the Reds threw 25,000 tons of meat, 50,000 tons of flour and 15,000 tons of sugar onto the store shelves.

The Russians commandeered additional supplies from the Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia to appease the Germans.

Gen. Vincenz Mueller, former Nazi officer who now is chief of staff of the 125,000-man East German Army, was reported to have confessed to the Russians that his force could not be relied on in any serious future situation.

The Russian Army continued to impose its martial law in the East zone and in East Berlin with nightly curfews and Soviet military might in open profusion for an incipient rebel to see and ponder.

Security Police Chief Wilhelm Zaisser totaled up the grim toll of June 17 and reported his men killed 19 rioters and two civilian bystanders during the riots. He said four of his men were murdered.

His report—which far understated casualties already published in Communist newspapers—did not make clear whether these figures took in the seven wounded who escaped to West Berlin and died.

At least 29 other Germans are known to have been executed by Soviet firing squads.

Ike Says Uprisings Rock Soviet Empire

BONN, GERMANY — (AP) — President Eisenhower said Friday the recent anti-Communist revolts in East Germany "will be felt throughout the Soviet satellite empire."

He expressed the hope that this might persuade the Russians to permit free elections in their zone to reunify divided Germany.

The American President expressed these opinions in a note to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer assuring him of American support for Adenauer's proposals to reunify Germany "in peace and freedom" through free nationwide elections.

Dr. Adenauer had appealed for such support in similar telegrams sent last Sunday to President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and France's acting Premier, Rene Mayer.

Churchill sent Adenauer a reassuring reply Thursday. No answer has come yet from Paris, which still is seeking a successor to Mayer, but it was felt certain here the French reply also would be affirmative.

Funeral Rites Set Saturday For Oil Man A. B. Harp, 44

Funeral services for A. B. Harp, 44, assistant manager of Exploration Drilling Company here, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Clarence Collins, Methodist minister, officiating.

Interment will be in Resthaven Memorial Park, Macons in charge.

Harp was killed last Tuesday near Thermopolis, Wyo., in an auto accident which injured nine others. The Harp auto and one driven by Jerry McGee, 30-year-old Thermopolis serviceman, sideswiped and the car carrying Mr. and Mrs. Harp, their five children, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lewis, also of Midland, rolled off the road and down an embankment.

Mrs. Harp and Carolyn Harp, 15, remained on the critical list Friday, but were reported improving.

Other injured included Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Alvin Scott Harp, 12, George Harp, nine, Ernest Harp, five, Kay Harp, one, and McGee.

The Harp and Lewis families were on a vacation trip to Yellowstone National Park when the accident occurred.

Plans Thursday called for two of Harp's sons, Alvin and George, to return to Midland, but F. A. Scott, a close friend of the family, said Thermopolis physicians had ruled against the trip.

Other survivors include Harp's mother and stepfather and several sisters. Pallbearers, all Masons, will be Ben Greenwald, Bob Donnell, L. E. Stewart, Marvin Winters, Dick

Jet Liners Help Texan Set Record

NEW YORK — (AP) — Horace Boren of Dallas has set a new record of 99 hours and 16 minutes for an around-the-world flight aboard commercial airliners.

Boren completed his globe-girdling flight here Thursday on a Northwest Airlines plane. He took off from Idlewild Sunday with London as his first stop.

Among the 16 stops on his 20,955 mile trip were Rome, Cairo, Karachi, Calcutta, Bangkok, Manila and Seattle.

The old record was 115 hours and 35 minutes, claimed last year by Jean-Marie Audibert, a French newspaper reporter.

Helping to better the old mark by 16 hours and 23 minutes, Boren said, were the jet airliners he took from London to Tokyo.

Ike Urged To Deal Bluntly With Foreign Policy Foes

NEW YORK—(P)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis) Friday urged President Eisenhower to deal bluntly with Republican "saboteurs" of his foreign policy.

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a speech prepared for the United States Trade Mark Association, said he wanted the GOP Administration to encourage teamwork on foreign policy "rather than to idly permit and fail to discourage irresponsibility."

Wiley said he wasn't suggesting that members of Congress follow the Administration "slavishly" but was calling for a "greater sense of teamwork."

"It will do no good if the Republican Party is simply listed in its policy statements and resolutions on behalf of the Administration's foreign policy if a sizeable group in the party is effectively trying to sabotage those policies," he declared.

No Names Mentioned

Wiley mentioned no names in this connection, but he said Eisenhower "knows saboteurs and malcontents and goldbricks when he sees them."

He said he thinks Eisenhower is making "a superb, superman effort to bring differing viewpoints together and to create a greater sense of teamwork."

"He does not want existing frictions to grow still worse and existing divisions to expand into wide open gulfs," Wiley said. "He is seeking sound compromises whenever necessary, and without jeopardizing principles."

But he said the Administration ought to ignore splits over foreign policy and ought not to "regard their provokers complacently."

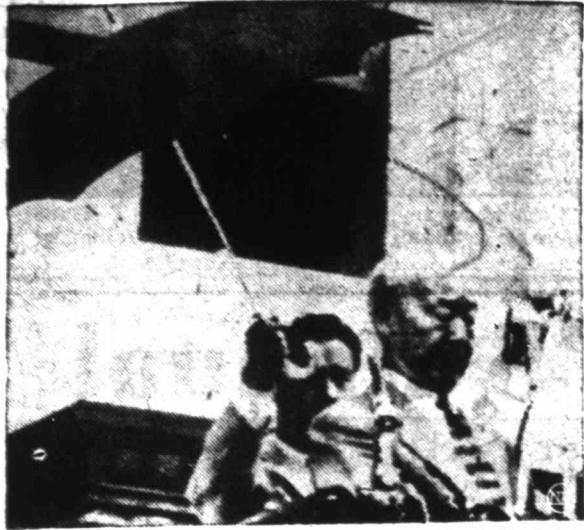

Wiley cited Senator Taft (R-Ohio) as a man he said "will never be gagged" but who has made many sacrifices for team play.

Violence Charged

The Wisconsin senator complained that some of those who criticized his opposition to the Bricker amendment to restrict treaty-making powers had been overly violent.

He said nobody is going to be able to rush the Bricker proposal through the Senate. It has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee over the objections of the President and Secretary of State Dulles. Senator Knowland (R-Calif.), acting GOP leader, has said it will be taken up this session.

Turning to international affairs, Wiley called on U. S. allies to "quit cringing and quit talking appeasement." He urged that they join in a series of demands on Russia.

Cafe Man Uses Vacant Lot For View Of 'Art By Acre'

BALTIMORE—(P)—The world's largest painting—labored over by 128 artists for four years—was unveiled Thursday for the first time since 1893 and found to be in pretty good shape.

The 18,900-square-foot canvas was unveiled on an East Baltimore lot for William Hausner, the restaurant man and art collector who bought it at auction last summer for $3,400.

It was the first time he had seen the painting, called Pantheon de la Guerre and created in tribute to the Allied victory in World War I. There was a relatively small hole in it, but the colors, costumes and faces of the 6,000 life-size figures in the panorama were in excellent condition.

The painting last was displayed at the Chicago World's Fair and, after a bit of travel about the country, was stored and forgotten until the auction.

Hausner's first view of it came with the help of two 20-ton cranes, three trucks and 22 men who graded the lot so the Pantheon could be spread outdoors on almost level ground.

He said he plans to give it to a war veterans organization.

More Than 1,100 Texans Lose Lives In Korean Fighting

By The Associated Press

More than a thousand Texans have died in three years of war in Korea.

The toll of at least 1,141 is more than twice that of Texas' revolution against Mexico.

At least 4,572 Texans have been wounded in Korea.

The figures represent an Associated Press tabulation. They are incomplete because casualty lists lag behind battle action.

To date, 1,074 Texans have been reported killed in action, 65 dead of wounds and two dead of injuries.

Best figures in the war for independence from Mexico more than a century ago give 546 Texans killed.

The Korean toll is almost half the 2,722 Texans killed in World War I, yet far below the 13,810 who died in World War II.

Nine have been reported killed and 38 wounded in June.

Pipe Lines Carry Gathering Tax Appeal To Top Tribunal

AUSTIN—(P)—Two natural gas pipe lines appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court Thursday to strike down Texas' gas gathering tax.

In appeals filed both from the State Supreme Court and the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals, the Michigan-Wisconsin and Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Companies asserted only one issue is involved.

That is whether the tax is a burden on interstate commerce and thus unconstitutional, they contended.

The appeals asserted the 1951 gas tax was "deliberately aimed at gas moving in interstate commerce; it was designed to produce revenue for the State of Texas by exacting a toll from interstate commerce."

"Since xxx the burden of the tax ultimately will be borne by those persons in other states who consume the gas, the statute enables the State of Texas to achieve the politically popular result of raising revenue at the ultimate expense of citizens of other states," the appeals contended.

The pipe lines argued residents of the consuming states had no voice in determining the tax.

"But they had spoken over 150 years ago when their representatives drafted a constitution which provided that no state may take any action which has the effect of impeding the free flow of trade between the states," the appeals said.

The state has 15 days to file an answer, after which the record will be sent up to the U. S. Supreme Court. The court is in summer recess. Whether it will accept the case for review probably won't be known before Fall.

About one million dollars a month in pipe line taxes is being paid under protest. It cannot be used by the state unless the tax is validated. Protest payments since September of 1951 totaled $15,600,000 on June 12. Suits brought by other concerns have been stayed pending a final decision of the test suits of Michigan-Wisconsin and Panhandle Eastern, who began action Jan. 2, 1952.

Retiring Atom Chief Warns Russia Of America's Might

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Gordon Dean has bowed out as head of America's atomic program with advice to Russia that starting a war would expose her to a rain of U. S. A-bombs "of almost any size."

"That was the picture Dean painted at a farewell news conference Thursday before his retirement from the job, after four years in the job, as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC)."

"It would be a great pity," he said, "if Russia started a war because she assumed the United States did not have the power to retaliate to the point of destruction."

Then, in contrast to the theory once held that bombs no weaker than the "nominal" ones dropped on Japan could ever be made—equivalent to the energy released in the explosion of 20,000 tons of TNT—Dean said the U. S. now has a whole family of A-bombs.

He told of "the development of a family which includes new designs of almost any usable energy release, small or large, and of almost any size."

Other Side Of Picture
He suggested it might be helpful if an official indication of the "magnitude" of the U. S. atomic weapons stockpile was given. But he didn't subscribe completely to proposals that the number of bombs be published.

Dean also looked at the other side of the picture. He said it might help the civil defense effort, which has been lagging, if Americans were presented with an official U. S. estimate of Russia's atomic capabilities.

Yes, he said in response to a question, he had the information but it was not up to the AEC to issue it. He said that was something for the White House, the National Security Council and other policy-making agencies to decide.

Dean was asked if there has been any serious effort to cut back the three billion dollar atomic expansion program authorized a year ago. "None that I know of," he replied.

To another question, he said the aircraft nuclear power project had been "stretched out" but he said he had no strong objections. No definite date for attainment of the project is needed, he said, and it would be better to work carefully.

Jury Orders Youth Held In Crippled Woman's Slaying
ATLANTA—(AP)—A coroner's jury has ordered an 18-year-old boy who likes "real scary comic books" held for grand jury action in the brutal sex slaying of crippled Betty Bagby.

David Gene Price admitted he killed the 23-year-old club-footed woman in a fit of anger after having sexual relations with her, police testified.

Homicide Detective W. E. Petty testified that the ex-Marine told him he "choked her down and then picked up a rock and squashed her head" after an argument.

Miss Bagby's mutilated body was found Monday in woods near her home in northwest Atlanta.

Police produced a statement which they termed a confession by Price that he killed the crippled woman, a next door neighbor. Coroner Ed L. Almand received the statement as evidence but refused to show it to William Hall, Price's lawyer.

Gordon Dean

What about the project for an atomic engine for a big aircraft carrier? Dean said there had been a "slight change" in this. He indicated he expects a start on the program in 1954.

Research Funds earmarked
Secretary of Defense Wilson has exhibited coolness toward the carrier project. He told a news conference recently that atomic power would be merely another way to power carrier and in itself "would not give you a completely new weapon."

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) chairman of the Senate-Navy Atomic Energy Committee, said Friday testimony before his group was that seven billion dollars earmarked in the budget for continued atomic research would be sufficient to continue developments that might be applied later to Navy surface ships.

I. I. Rabl, Columbia University physics professor, told the atomic committee Thursday the U. S. is technically ready to produce electricity from nuclear energy.

The committee recessed until Monday a series of open hearings on an AEC proposal to let private business operate atomic plants and handle flammable materials to spur the development of civilian power.

Temperatures Drop To Seasonal Marks In Seared Midwest

By The Associated Press
Temperatures leveled off to near seasonal marks Friday in most of the heat-stricken sections of the Midwest and some areas in the Southwest.

But hot weather continued in most other parts of the country. Shores were clear in most areas. Thunderstorms hit the Central Mississippi Valley during the night. Heaviest fall was almost two inches at Springfield, Ill., with falls of more than one-half inch from Central Illinois and Central Indiana into Southern Michigan. Thunderstorms were also reported along the Gulf Coast with the largest fall 1.15 inch at Appalachicola, Fla. A few showers fell in the western sections of the New England states.

High temperatures fell off slightly in the desert Southwest region Thursday with the top of 113 at Blythe and El Centro, Calif. The day's top mark was 117 at Presidio, Texas. It was 91 at Blythe during the night compared to a cool 86 at Big Piney, Wyo.

Methodists Open World-Wide Meet

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The Methodist church opened a world-wide convocation on evangelism here Friday with a two-fold purpose.

First, to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, British born founder of the denomination.

And second, to launch a nationwide evangelistic campaign by some 40,000 Methodist churches to win 250,000 new members.

Some 3,000 Methodists from scattered sections of the globe were on hand for the opening session. The meeting will be climaxed by a mass rally at Franklin Field Sunday, during which 1,000 persons from the Philadelphia area will be admitted into the church.

Bishop W. Angie Smith of Oklahoma City will preside at Sunday's session. Sixty thousand Methodists are expected to be on hand.

Among the principal speakers will be four prominent Methodist Bishops—William C. Martin of Dallas, president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.; G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington; Arthur J. Moore of Atlanta, Ga.; and Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis.

Ike Backs Taft On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower has endorsed a proposal by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to withhold a billion dollars in foreign aid until Western Europe agrees on a unified army.

Taft has proposed that the President be given discretion to withhold these funds or spend them. Eisenhower was reported to have spoken up at a White House meeting Thursday in favor of this method.

The House voted to tie down the aid funds until all six Western European nations affected ratify the European Defense Community (EDC) treaties, which would create an international army. Only West Germany has voted ratification so far, with France among the five nations yet to approve.

Observing that he couldn't go along with the House action, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said in an interview he intends to support the Taft compromise.

Dem Backing Seen
"What Taft has proposed is the intelligent thing to do," Johnson said. "I am sure most of the Democrats will back the Taft amendment."

Senate leaders got a report on the Korean truce crisis at Thursday's White House conference, during which Eisenhower was reported to have expressed willingness to send any U. S. official to confer with South Korea's President Syngman Rhee on truce terms.

There was no indication the President was thinking of going himself to the Far East. Rather, speculation was that either Secretary of State Dulles or Vice President Nixon might be available for the role of peacemaker with Rhee.

The 78-year-old Korean leader has dramatized his opposition to terms of a proposed truce with the Communists by turning loose thousands of anti-Red North Korean war prisoners. Furthermore, he threatens to continue the fighting.

Meeting Speculated On
It was not clear whether Walter S. Robertson, sent to Korea as a special U. S. envoy to confer with Rhee, carried a message from Eisenhower proposing a high level discussion. But it was said by some of those present at the White House luncheon that Eisenhower believes such a meeting, if held, should take place away from Korea, possibly Japan or Okinawa.

As for foreign aid, Johnson said he knows of no fight on the Senate's version of the $5,318,000,000 authorization bill which would delay Senate passage. Eisenhower has asked congressional leaders to attempt to clear the measure, without major reduction, before he goes to the U. S.-Britain-France conference scheduled July 8 in Bermuda.

Army Reservists Choose Indefinite Term Commissions
WASHINGTON—(AP)—More than 64 per cent of the Army's Reserve officers have agreed to exchange their old, five-year commissions for indefinite term appointments now provided by law.

Of 353,896 officers offered a choice between giving up their military standing or accepting the indefinite commissions, 227,225 said they would stay with the service. An additional 15,246 officers will be given another chance to take indefinite commissions before their five-year appointments expire.

Reserve officers of the Navy and Marine Corps already are serving indefinitely and the Air Force is awaiting final returns on its change from short to indefinite term Reserve commissions.

Judge's Bird Turns Stoolie

OCEANA, W. Va.—(AP)—A parakeet involved in a court hearing finally turned stool pigeon Thursday.

Both Mrs. James Pfeiffer and Mrs. Carl Harvey, who had lost their parakeets, claimed one found by a small boy last week.

Mrs. Pfeiffer told Magistrate John Lambert the bird would say: "Jimmy is a pretty boy." Mrs. Harvey said she had taught it to say: "Joe is a pretty boy."

But the bird said nothing at the hearing before Lambert Wednesday, so he took it home to await developments.

Thursday, the bird broke the silence. "Joe pretty boy, pretty boy Joe," he squeaked, Lambert said he would return him to Mrs. Harvey Friday.

Rhee Restores 'Minimum Terms' For Korean Truce

SEOUL—(AP)—President Syngman Rhee reaffirmed Friday that his "minimum conditions" for accepting an armistice are simultaneous withdrawal of Chinese and Allied forces from Korea and a mutual defense pact with the U. S.

Rhee listed these terms anew just before he began talks with President Eisenhower's special truce troubleshooter, Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson.

In written replies to questions from The Associated Press, Rhee also said he had undertaken to "prevent further outbreaks" of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners from UN camps in South Korea.

Rhee said South Koreans "believe they can win the war if they are given weapons and ammunition and, if not, the Koreans want to try anyway."

Asked his "minimum conditions" now for the Republic of Korea to accept a truce at this time, Rhee replied: "Simultaneous withdrawal of both the Chinese and UN forces from Korea and a mutual security pact to be signed between the U. S. and the Republic of Korea."

"Another proposal is that the political conference be limited to a period of three months so that if no satisfactory result is agreed upon at the end of that period the armistice will be considered ended."

Rhee refused to answer a question of whether the U. S. had notified him it would withdraw military and economic aid if South Korea did not go along with a truce.

Rhee said he did not think the U. S. would sign a separate truce with the Communists that would exclude South Korea.

Asked whether he planned to release the remaining approximately 8,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners still in UN prison camps, Rhee said:

"The UNCG has asked me not to release the anti-Communist prisoners who still remain in captivity. These prisoners demand that they should be set free. We are in a difficult situation. I have however, undertaken with the UNCG to have our guards cooperate with the American guards to prevent further outbreaks."

Asked whether the ROK army and nation could fight on alone and win if aid from the U. S. is stopped, Rhee replied:

"If there is no other way to cease fire than to sign the truce as it is, then I believe it is best for the U. S. to let the Koreans try to save themselves. When the truce is signed, the U. S. can not participate in the fight, but it can allow the Koreans to continue the fighting alone."

"The Koreans believe they can win the war if they are given weapons and ammunition and if not, the Koreans want to try anyway."

Heart Ailment Claims Life Of North Carolina Senator

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Willis Smith (D-NC), 63, a strapping six-footer who won his Senate seat in 1950 in one of North Carolina's most heated political battles, died Friday at nearby Bethesda, Md. Hospital.

Death was attributed to coronary thrombosis. He had suffered a heart seizure early Tuesday and his family was at his bedside when he died, his administrative assistant, Jesse Helms, said.

He died about 4:40 a.m.

Smith, a self-styled conservative, unopposed Senator Frank Graham, a noted liberal, in a hot fight, pegged his campaign on a platform of opposition to some of former President Harry Truman's "Fair Deal" proposals.

Graham had been appointed by Gov. Kerr Scott to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator J. Melville Broughton, who died in 1949.

Smith had revealed recently that he intended to run for reelection next year. His term would have expired in 1955.

A Raleigh attorney at the time of his election, he was a former president of the American Bar Association.

Smith received praise of both Republicans and Democrats for his work on the Internal Security subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee. He also won recognition as chairman of that committee's investigation of the Office of Alien Property.

Texas Republican Named To Head FHA

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Robert MacLeish, 55, Texas Republican and farm leader, has been nominated to head the Farmers Home Administration.

President Eisenhower nominated the McAllen man Thursday.

MacLeish, a Republican since 1933, is executive vice president of Sugatex Corporation, McAllen, which handles various agricultural by-products.

The native of Galveston was general manager of the Texus Citrus Exchange, Texas' largest farmer cooperative citrus exchange from 1940 to 1945. In 1946 and 1947 he was general manager of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Planning Board, later changed to the Lower Rio Grande Valley Regional Chamber of Commerce.

Recently, he was appointed a U. S. representative on the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Helms said funeral services would be held in Raleigh, but that plans were not complete.

A native of Norfolk, Va., Smith was graduated from Trinity College (now Duke University) and was chairman of the Board of Trustees of the university.

He worked to pay much of his college expenses but played varsity basketball and was top man in his class. He served three terms in the North Carolina Legislature and was speaker of the House one term.

Smith was an observer at Nuremberg trials, a United States delegate to the Interparliamentary Union meeting in Istanbul, Turkey in 1951, and chairman of the American delegation to the Union meeting in 1952. He was a member of the American Law Institute, former president of the American Counsel Association, a member of the American Judicature Society and former president of the International Association of Insurance Counsel.

U. S. Guards Halt New Breakout Try

FUSAN — (AP) — American guards killed two anti-Communist North Korean prisoners and wounded another early Friday when prisoners in Camp No. 2 near here attempted a mass breakout, the UN Prisoner of War Command announced.

The Command said prisoners in the enclosure made two attempts to break out shortly after midnight. Both were broken up and none escaped.

There were no casualties among U. S. guards.

The Command also announced that five POWs escaped from Camp No. 7 near Masan shortly before midnight. No details were released.

American guards first learned of the escape attempt at Camp No. 2 after they noted prisoners moving "suspiciously in the compound."

An American soldier found a group of prisoners hiding in a ditch outside the compound fence.

Another guard spotted two or three anti-Communist prisoners advancing on him from another ditch. Three times he ordered them to halt, using their own language, according to the POW Command.

The North Koreans kept moving toward him. He fired at them, presumably causing the death of two and injury to the other.

The Command announcement said about 30 prisoners started to escape through a hole in the compound fence. The UN guards ordered them to halt and were joined by perimeter guards employing non-toxic irritants—either tear gas or vomiting gas.

The Command said 12 of the prisoners returned to the compound. The others in the group that tried to escape through a hole in the compound fence were captured by an American platoon.

Army Cuts Seven Training Centers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The economizing Army plans to have seven fewer replacement training centers in operation by January 1.

It announced Thursday that six will be closed and two more merged.

Training centers to be closed are those of the Signal Corps at Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif.; Quartermaster Corps Replacement Center at Fort Lee, Va.; Chemical Corps at Fort McClellan, Ala.; Transportation Corps at Fort Belvoir, Va.; Engineer Corps at Fort Sill, Okla.; Field Artillery at Fort Sill, Okla.

The Military Police and Signal Training Centers at Camp Gordon, Ga., are to be consolidated.

Camp San Luis Obispo is being closed entirely, but the Army said that in other cases only the specified activities will be discontinued at the camps and forts involved.

Unsolved Kidnaping To Set Off Probe Of Chicago Crime

CHICAGO — (AP) — A state legislator was kidnaped near his home two weeks ago and police, in an intensive state-wide hunt, have found no trace of him or his abductors.

Police have established no motive for the abduction of Clem Graver, 53-year-old Republican state representative and 21st Ward committeeman. There have been no demands for ransom.

Police have few, if any, clues. They have described the case as one of the most baffling in Chicago crime.

Six persons, including Graver's wife, witnessed the kidnaping. Graver, in politics all his adult life, was snatched by three men who followed him in a car as he drove into his garage about 10 p.m. June 11.

Gov. William G. Stratton, who earlier had ordered the state police to join in the case, Thursday told reporters he was "completely disgusted" with the "brassiness" of the kidnaping of Graver.

A bill appropriating $100,000 as a reward for solving the case has been passed by the House and is awaiting final Senate action. Asked if he was opposed to the bill, Stratton said "That's a problem for the legislature. He termed the bill an 'unprecedented' act. Graver had been in the legislature since 1950.

Stratton, commenting on the defeat of his bill to create a state crime investigating commission, said the state will investigate crime conditions in Chicago.

"Conditions in Chicago are inexcusable," he told reporters. "Those conditions are going to be investigated one way or the other by this administration."

"Conditions in Chicago are inexcusable," he told reporters. "Those conditions are going to be investigated one way or the other by this administration."

President Eisenhower yesterday signed into law the bill making the grant, out of surplus stocks bought by the government. He said, "Our sincere hopes for peace and prosperity go with this grain."

The "Anchorage Victory" sailed from Baltimore Friday with about 8,600 tons of wheat, the first package of the amount authorized by the legislation—up to one million tons.

SAVING MONEY IS EXPENSIVE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress late Thursday for a million dollars for expenses incident to obtaining greater economy and efficiency in the executive branch of the government.

The fund would be administered by the Budget Bureau.

UN Living, Growing After Eight Years

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said Friday, the eighth anniversary of the signing of the United Nations Charter in San Francisco, that the UN is an increasing force to be reckoned with in world affairs.

"In that momentous Summer of 1945, we could not foresee that the Soviet Union would reject peaceful cooperation in favor of ruthless power politics," he said in a statement.

"In the light of the Soviet's actions during the last eight years, the remarkable thing about the United Nations is that, despite all the obstacles, it is still a living, growing thing."

"Time and again—in Iran, in Greece, and in Korea—the United Nations has demonstrated that it has the courage to meet challenges head on."

British Diplomats Start Journey Deep Into Soviet Siberia

MOSCOW — (AP) — Two members of the British Embassy staff left the Russian capital Friday on a trip to Lake Baikal, deep in Siberia. It was the first time in recent years official Western representatives have been allowed to travel that far in Soviet Asia.

The Britons are the embassy's air attaché, Air Commodore V. C. A. Johnson, and its secretary, O'Brien Teare. Their departure came only three days after the Russians announced a relaxation of travel bans for foreigners in many parts of the Soviet Union.

Lake Baikal, the largest fresh water lake in Asia, is 2,600 miles east of Moscow, near the border of Outer Mongolia. The Trans-Siberian Railway skirts its northern edge. Nearby is the city of Irkutsk, a major transportation and industrial center of Eastern Siberia.

PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

The Midland vote, on a proposal for a split Longhorn League season, was a ringing "no." Why change the rules in the middle of the game?

President Hal Sayles made the proposal in a league-wide poll with the results, given a good chance of passing, to be announced presently. If adopted, the split season would alter the '53 playoffs to include the first half season winner, the second half season winner and the two other teams boasting the highest overall percentage of wins.

Midland voted in opposition with the present in mind, for it could be beaten out of a playoff spot even if it remained in its current fourth place spot.

A present-day second division club, encouraged by the rule could buy up a whole new squad and outdistance the others during the second half, getting into the playoffs although it may not reach the first division.

On the other hand, the first half winner could slump into the second division and contend in September for the league championship.

Fan Thanks Little League Leaders

You'll be able to see the basic work of Midland's builders of men when Tuesday the Chamber of Commerce honors the city's Little Leaguers with a "night" at Indian Park.

"Perhaps, as the chamber currently schedules the program plans, the men and women behind the scenes may be forgotten among the events honoring the boys. A fan, though, has remembered."

Mrs. Boyd Crain writes:

"I would like to take this means of expressing to Mr. John Redfern, Jr., who has done much in Little League baseball for the youth of our city, to each manager and his coach in the Pony League, and to Mr. Wendell Westerfield, who has done an excellent job as president of the League, my sincere appreciation for their promoting a better city in which to rear our boys. They have spent time, money and effort in their jobs. I say thank you."

LFOMBR No Tobacco Chant

There is also in Friday's mid-bag a note for a bill collector—goes promoter—and another from the Del Rio Chamber of Commerce.

The former states: "You'll remember the status of y'olde credit rating and won't forget to give us a plug on Texas' own Longest Fishermen's Outboard Motor Boat Races in the World, will you now?"

After the admonition, and that title, how could one? So, in the interest of fishermen:

From the Del Rio item, we learn that "in past years... more people were killed on the highways July Fourth than in the bullring."

Oh—really? Supporting Del Rio is right, other Midlanders—who can avoid the highways July Fourth—may play it safe the day after by being, at 5 p.m., in the Arena of La Macarena, Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, opposite Del Rio.

Indians Return Home Against Drillers Friday

Roswell Beats Tribe, 11-2 On 18 Safeties

ROSWELL—(P)—Roswell's Rockets greeted the odds for Midland's debut into the second division Thursday night and hoped some other Longhorn League team would come along and give the Indians a gigantic shove in the right direction.

Right, that is, for Roswell who powdered the Indians for the fifth consecutive time Thursday night, 11-2. Until the Tribe hit New Mexico teams, they had won four straight games. They added two victories against the Artesia team which will engage them at Indian Park in Midland Friday and then dropped seven straight against the other two New Mexico clubs.

The seven losses put the Indians in a precarious position, for Roswell is now breathing down their necks for a first division berth. The Rockets, after Thursday's triumph, are only a game and a half away.

Manager Jay Haney, who was scheduled to pitch Fred Smith Thursday, had to go with Prentiss Rainey when Smith developed a sore arm. Rainey lasted only four and two-thirds innings as the Rockets clubbed him for 11 hits and seven runs—more than enough to conquer the stumping Indians.

Romario Soto and George Cockrell made poor attempts to silence the booming Rocket bats, but they likewise were treated roughly, as Roswell went on to add another three runs off Cockrell and one off Soto. In all, the Rockets pounded out 18 hits.

While the Rocket batters were having a field day, Veteran Bob Weaver was busily working away on a neat six hitter. He fanned five and walked only three as he chalked up his seventh victory against five losses.

Haney indicated Thursday that he was saving Fred Rodriguez for Artesia's visit beginning Friday at Indian Park. Rodriguez has announced that he will be able to go full speed by Friday, and it will take all of that to humble the Drillers, who are fighting desperately to move into second place ahead of Carlsbad.

Weaver, in going the route for the win, was in serious trouble only twice. In the first inning, Roger Dalla Beta led off with a single and moved to second on Art Bowland's hit after Scooter Hughes went down. Bill Brown followed, Stephenson's out with a single scoring Dalla Beta, but Weaver got Lou Dawson to end the rally.

Again in the seventh, the Indians threatened. Julio de la Torre, who re-entered the lineup after a throbbing headache Wednesday, singled. Hughes walked, and Bowland's second single chased De la Torre across.

Three singles and an error gave the Rockets a 2-1 margin in the second inning, and they were never in trouble thereafter.

Roswell chased Rainey with a four-run outburst in the fifth inning as Rickey Gonzalez, who had four hits in five tries, single and Ozzie Alvarez, Pat Stacey and Modesto Peres followed with safeties and Al Valdes' double and two more Tribe errors permitted the big inning to flourish.

Wayne Crawford clouted a two-run triple in the eighth that highlighted a three-run inning.

Before and between those two big frames, the Rockets added single runs—in the fourth and sixth innings.

'Scooter Hughes Night' Set For Saturday By Midlanders

Hats off to Scooter Hughes, the stellar Midland Indian shortstop whom fans will honor Saturday night prior to the Artesia-Midland game at Indian Park.

Yes, it will be "Scooter Hughes Night"—the first for him since he's been with the Indians.

Marion Flynt, Indian president, urged all Midlanders in joining in the festivities.

"Scooter has been with us a long time, and offhand I can't think of a more deserving fellow. He's always given us a fine performance." Flynt observed in making the announcement.

Hughes only last week became a father, and with prices the way they are these days, Little Scooter could use some new shoes as the saying goes.

Already promised by local merchants were many gifts for the youngster and Scooter, and several cash donations to help defray hospital expenses. The general fandom is invited to join in with the program.

Unknown but to a few, Scooter has been the key to Midland's success—such as it has been—this season. His sparkling shortstop play has pulled the fat out of the fire many times for many pitchers this year. Like any ball player, he has made his share of the errors, but more often he comes up with the play that breaks a would-be rally.

So, folks, it's time to honor Scooter. He's your player and ours!

Potashers Rock San Angelo, 3-1

CARLSBAD—(P)—Carlsbad's Potashers put three big hits back to back in the eighth inning Thursday night to edge the San Angelo Colts, 3-1, in a game that set a league record for speed of play. The game left Carlsbad one game behind the league-leading Colts.

The entire nine-inning contest required one hour and 27 minutes to reel off while an overflow crowd estimated at 2,500 fans looked on. Total attendance for the three-game series is estimated at 7,500 fans.

San Angelo scored in the second inning on singles by Glen Burns and John Jeandron, with a passed ball sandwiched in between.

Merv Connors tied the score for Carlsbad in the third with a solo homer over the left-field wall. In the eighth Connors led off with a double and scored on Ed Jackson's triple. Jackson counted on Elias Osoori's double.

In all only 30 batters faced winning hurler Gene Wulf, who did not give up a single walk. Loser Oil Guerra walked only one and fanned nine Carlsbad batters.

SON OF FORMER STAR—New Earl Averill To Play For Cleveland As Backstop

By TOM PEOPLES
CLEVELAND—(NEA)—The battery for the Indians within a couple of years could be Garcia, Lemon or Wynn pitching and Averill catching.

The Cleveland club hasn't resurrected its one-time slugging center fielder, Earl Averill, given him a shot of eternal youth and stationed him behind the plate to add a little punch to the batting order.

The tribe, you see, has another Averill—Earl Jr., a little heavier and taller, but every inch an Averill from physiognomy to batting stance.

ARTESIA—(P)—Curtis Borrett, Jacinto's double and singles by Murphy and Niedson narrowed the Artesia lead to 8-7 in the ninth and left two men on base when Borrett saved the day with his roundtripper.

The Drillers went ahead in the first on Joe Bauman's homer with one man on, added three more in the third on a triple by Bauman, doubles by Joe Fortin and Sanchez, and a single by Miller.

Len Rayle, who came on in relief in the eighth, took the loss, his fourth against 11 wins for the season. Grooms, who survived the 17 hit attack by Artesia, including 10 for extra bases, staggered through to his eighth win of the season.

Jackie Burke, Vines Deadlock

CLEVELAND—(P)—A closely grouped pack of pros started the second round of the $15,000 Manhattan Open golf tournament Friday, trying to catch veteran Ellsworth Vines and Jack Burke.

Vines, making his first tournament start since January, and Burke, sensation on the Winter tour, fired six-under-par 66s Thursday to gain a slim lead.

Vines racked up eight birdies and went over par on only two holes. Burke, 30, a former Texas, came here fresh from his $3,400 Inverness Open victory last week and bagged six birdies, matching par on all other holes.

Sox-Sacked Yanks Welcome Series With Indian Cousins

By BEN FLEGGAR
AP Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians get another chance this weekend to make the American League pennant race look like a pennant race. In the National League, where it's been close all the way, the lead may well change hands.

The desperate Indians, trailing by nine games, renew their one-sided rivalry with the league leader, but suddenly slumping, New York Yankees in a three-part series opening Friday night in New York.

In Milwaukee, the dejected Braves, who like the Yanks have dropped four straight, collide with the second place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Braves trail by only two games.

The world champions have won seven in a row from the Ohio Tribe this season and they look upon the visit of the Indians as a pleasant change from the company of the Chicago White Sox. The Sox blew town Thursday night after sweeping a three-game set with the Yanks.

But the prospects of meeting the Dodgers in three games won't bring many smiles in the Braves' camp. Brooklyn won two out of two on its last Milwaukee visit and two Dodger victories this time would cut the Braves' lead to exactly zero.

Experts such as Leo Durocher figure the Braves have been playing over their heads and have real cause to worry. But as yet nobody is proposing seriously that the Yankees, who recently came within a single game of equalling the all-time American League winning streak, are ready to fall apart, especially against their Cleveland cousins.

The White Sox, who had beaten the Yankees in the first inning on Wednesday, waited until the ninth inning Thursday to pull out a 4-3 triumph. Cleveland blasted Boston, 15-4. The St. Louis Browns won their fourth straight, 3-1, over Washington, and Philadelphia finally caught up with Detroit after two setbacks, 5-2.

Milwaukee went 13 innings before bowing, 6-4, to Pittsburgh. Brooklyn swamped Cincinnati, 13-3. Philadelphia squeezed into third place by beating Chicago, 12-2, while the St. Louis Cardinals slipped to fourth in losing to New York, 9-4.

Yogi Berra and Nellie Fox traded two run homers in the White Sox-Yankees game and then Fox opened the ninth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored as Minnie Minoso ran his hitting streak to 17 games with a single.

Larry Doby and Al Rosen, who will have to produce if Cleveland expects to do anything against the Yankees, drove in five runs apiece in the rout of the Red Sox.

The Browns handed Washington its fifth straight loss by scoring once in the second inning on a single by Don Lenhardt and a double by Lenhardt and a long fly by pinch hitter Vic Wertz.

Philadelphia scored all five of its runs in the second inning against Detroit. Fitcher Harry Byrd, who won his eighth game, drove in one of the runs.

Milwaukee coasted into the ninth inning with a 4-1 lead over Pittsburgh but Johnny Lindell slammed a pinch-hit home run with two men on base to force the game into extra innings.

Johnny O'Brien opened the twelfth with a walk, moved to third on a single by Danny O'Connell and romped home when Frank Thomas singled, his first hit in 28 times up. Brooklyn bombarded the Redlegs with five home runs which made it easy for Prescher Ros to register his fourth victory. Wayne Belardi started the barrage with one on in the third. Carl Furillo also connected in the third. Duke Snider homered with one on in the seventh. Gil Hodges with the bases empty in the eighth and Pee Wee Reese with nobody on in the ninth.

A single home run caused most of the damage to the Cardinal cause in St. Louis. Pinch-hitter Bobby Hofman parked one into the left field bleachers with the bases filled to highlight a seven-run seventh inning for the Giants.

The Phillies continued their complete domination over the 1953 edition of the Cubs with a 19-hit attack on four Chicago pitchers. The Phils have won 11 in a row from the cellar-dwelling Chicagoans this season.

REDTOP DAVIS STOPS COLLINS

BOSTON—(AP)—Lisless Tommy Collins of Boston, obviously suffering from the mental after-effects of his 10 knockdown beating by Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter, lost to Redtop Davis of Hartford, Conn., by a technical knockout decision in 1:29 of the tenth and last round Thursday night at the Boston Garden. Both battlers weighed 128 1/2.

Caps Capture Game, 2 To 1

By The Associated Press

The Galveston White Caps went to 10 innings Thursday night to defeat Brownsville, 2-1.

Second-place Texas City won over Hartlingen to remain six games back of the Gulf Coast League leading White Caps.

Galveston, already respected as a power club, proved it can play pressure ball and got a good pitching performance for the second straight night. Rookie Ed Bohmslav gave up only three hits over the 10 innings.

Bob Ramsey hurled a six-hit shut-out for Galveston Wednesday night. The White Caps scored the winning run, with two out, as Pop Paucet walked and Hank Yacquier doubled deep to left field.

Brownville's Fred Schmidt pitched seven hit bats in losing.

Hartlingen scored two runs in the fourth inning for Fort Worth the third time in the bottom of the inning and that was the ball game. Texas City 3, Hartlingen 2.

Lake Charles honored two local Korean heroes—GI's who had been POW's. Two thousand, one hundred sixty-three fans and the ball club, gave the GI-heroes $1,275 each. Then the Lakers gave Laredo the ball game, 7-3.

Corpus Christi scored two unearned runs in the ninth and topped Port Arthur, 8-6. Al Point won it in relief, pitching the last three innings.

Jacome Flies To New Job

Eddie Jacome, three years a Midland Indian pitcher, departed by plane for a new trial in Class B baseball.

The right-hander will join cellular partner, Wayne Schaeffer, of the Western-International League after a short stopover at his Tucson, Ariz., home. He goes to Yakima in a swap for another right-hander, Leroy Jack Scheaning.

Jacome had requested the trade.

He twice won 20 games with Midland and owned a 11-4 record this season.

Scheaning, a limited service player, is moving to Midland.

Mackey Falls In Golf Duel

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—(AP)—Charles Casaday of Southern California and Marion Hickey of North Texas State led off Friday's 18-hole quarter-final round of the NCAA Golf Tournament.

Hickey, a semi-finalist last year, became the favorite with a 5 and 4 triumph over Tom Masey of Notre Dame. He rallied to win, 2 and 1, over Mel Woelfling of Ohio State in the third round.

Casaday squeaked by Larry Harper of Ohio State in a 20-hole second round match, and downed Don Nichols of Oklahoma A&M, 2 and 1, in the third round.

Casaday and Hickey were followed over the Broadmore Club's mountainside course by Floyd Addington of SMU, paired with William Williamson of North Carolina University. William Penn of Texas, matched with Fred Brown of Stanford, and Earl Moeller of Oklahoma A&M, paired with Lewis Woodworth of Northwestern.

Addington reached the quarter-finals with a 4 and 2 victory over Graham Mackey of TCU and Midland. Williamson contributed one of the big surprises Thursday by dumping Stan Hosel of North Texas, 5 and 4.

Brown defeated Paul Johanson of Washington, 2 and 1, at Penn. Texas law student, dumped Jack Gregory of Wayne, 4 and 2.

Don Mueller, outfielder for the New York Giants is the son of Walter Mueller who played the outfield for the Pirates, 1922-1926.

Hayden White Teams With Dwire To Pace Temple Past Paris

By The Associated Press

Temple's Longhorn League investments—or, if you will, Midland's contributions to the Eagles—are providing big payoffs.

The Eagles acquired Hayden White from Midland early this week and he came across with a second homer in four nights Thursday.

It gave Pitcher Herbie Dwire, also a former Longhorn League Indian, impetus to pick up an 8-5 triumph over Paris in the Big State League's Thursday night action.

New team Bryan, playing its third night, won a third game, 9-3, over Longview.

In the other games, Tyler captured a 6-3 nightcap victory after bowing to Texarkana, 9-3, in the opener. Austin beat Wichita Falls, 5-0, in one game then lost 1-0, Dean Franka, a former 30-game winner with Rowell of the Longhorn League, hurled three-hit ball only to lose the second Austin verdict.

Six world heavyweight championship fights have been held on the Fourth of July and two on St. Patrick's Day.

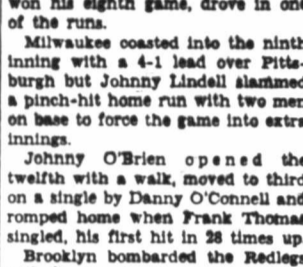

BAPTISTS QUIT SOFTBALL PLAY

The First Baptist Church softball team, yet to put a foot on the diamond, bowed out of the JayCee Church League Friday with an 8-3 record.

Martin L. Alday, co-chairman of the JayCee Athletic Committee said the First Baptist nine did not field a club and forfeited each of three scheduled games.

The new schedule arrangements call for these games Friday night: St. Marks vs. First Methodist; St. Marks vs. St. Andrews and Bellview vs. First Presbyterian.

Tigers, Red Sox Set Battle Over Lead In Crane Baseball

CRANE—The Tigers and Red Sox, making the Crane Pony League a two-team race, battle Monday in the week's feature game with first place at stake.

Both clubs won two victories this week as the Tigers protected a half-game margin at the head of the race. The loop leaders beat the Dodgers, 14-4, and the Giants, 18-7.

The Sox whipped the Giants, 10-0, and the Dodgers, 14-4. In clipping the Dodgers, Joe Boyd registered the week's ace pitching performance, a three-hitter.

The Red Sox play the Tigers Monday and the Giants Thursday while the Dodgers meet the Giants Tuesday and the Tigers Friday.

In Little League action, the Cardinals held the lead after dividing two games with the second place Cubs. The Cards won 18-6 before taking an 8-5 defeat.

Conoco Clips Gulf, 6 To 3, In Softball

Deazy Vance's solo homer and Thornton's one-on triple in the first inning sent Conoco on its way to a 6-3 American Softball League victory over Gulf at Wadley Field Thursday night.

Two singles and a brace of walks in the fourth ended the scoring for Conoco after it had wrapped up the game with two runs in the second and another in the third.

Gulf scored all of its runs in the third on three hits, walk and an error. All of the hits were for extra bases—triples by Hughes and Pester and a home run by Yoe.

Other games saw Bell Telephone wallop Schulmerger, 13-4, and Tide Water rout Texas Company, 17-3.

Bell scored most of its markers on six Schlumberger errors. Perry was the leading hitter for Bell with three hits in four tries. Cross limited the losers to seven scattered hits, with Lawson getting two doubles to lead the army.

Five walks, a hit batsman and four Texas Company errors enabled the Tide Water team to make the most mileage out of 10 hits while Bo Wise was giving up only four-widely scattered blows.

Nice Guy Umps Would Fizzle, Says Goetz

By JOHN McCALLUM

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A dead umpire, insists Larry Goetz, is an umpire if he gets the reputation of being a nice guy.

"Good fellows never make good umpires," asserts the man who has been calling 'em in the National League for 18 years. "You feel sorry for a guy and you're liable to give him a close one."

"You got to hurt someone on this job every day if you're on your toes."

"Leo Durocher would make a great umpire. All the bad guys make good umpires. He'd be able to talk his way out of tight spots. He's a mouthy guy and knows a lot about ball players, but sitting on the bench, he don't know anything about umpiring. But he could be a corker if he studied it."

Goetz says the constant bickering by managers not only drags out the game, but it also has a harmful influence on kids watching.

"They teach youngsters that baseball is based on fair play," he points out. "Well, what about these guys who betch their heads off about close plays? I throw Whitey Lockman out of the game for tossing dirt at me and Durocher is fit to be tied. He carries on like a madman."

"I'm lecturing at a Little League clinic the next day, and some kid pipes up:

"Why'd you give Whitey the heart? I tell him what Lockman said to me after the game."

"I didn't mean to throw dirt on you," Whitey said.

"I don't care if you meant it or not," I said. "It sure found me." A ball player said to me once, "You may be no good as a man, but you're a good umpire." That's all I want to be—a good umpire."

What ball player gives him the most trouble?

"They don't give me trouble," says Goetz. "I give it to them. Beets don't bother me. But I got young guys working with me and it does not do their confidence any good when they read about Durocher tearing umpires apart. They feel insecure. It takes a strong-willed guy to be an umpire. It takes character. I got to build up those young umpires. I can't let a guy like Durocher bully 'em."

In addition, Munoz was called in to put out a Civitan rally in the fifth inning when the home club threatened to knot the count with five runs. At the time he entered the fray, the Cats held a 9-6 lead.

Joe Berry had a perfect day at the plate for the Civitans, collecting three hits in three tries.

SPORTS ROUNDUP—

Little Ogden Put On Excellent Bout

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—They laughed like anything when Little Ogden volunteered to put on the second of the Archie Moore-Joe Maxim series for the 175-pound championship. Old Doc Kearns, the experts chuckled, had sold another inoffensive little burg a bill of goods, just as back in 1923 he closed every bank in Shelby, Mont., with his Jack Dempsey-Tommy Gibbons production.

Well, as it turned out the good doctor only sold the Utah live wires a regular gem, one of the finest boxing shows in some respects that the national television audience has yet set in on. Probably the old medicine man who manages Maxim surprised himself, but he still deserves credit for having discovered Ogden.

Probably never before did two bruisers perform before a scenic backdrop of such majesty as those mountains which rear up at the end of Ogden's main street. The mellow sunlight of late afternoon joined with the ring lamps to do an exceptional lighting job. In the late rounds the commentator said the moon was pitching in, too. It was a night for love and legalized mayhem.

This writer, among others, heard the late Mike Jacobs predict that the time would come when the size of the crowd at ringside would be inconsequential and that television money alone would make everyone rich. We have a feeling this was an important milestone toward realization of the great promoter's dream. Far as we are concerned they can hold a lot more championships in Ogden and let the beer-drinkers pick up the tab.

Here was proof that a town not much bigger than an apple orchard (but growing fast, mind you) can stage a big fight as smoothly as New York or Chicago. It was a professional job in every respect, granting that the Ogden folks had a right to see several of their home state gladiators introduced on a national hook-up. Perhaps they can be talked out of that next time.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing of all was the way the two principals laid into one another for 18 rounds. Those who witnessed the last scuffle between Archie and Joey at St. Louis still wake up some nights in a cold sweat, and yet this time they put on a good honest brawl that was well worth seeing. Neither of them ever dawdled, anyway.

Maxim in particular appeared to have been infected by the high mountain air. The former champ several times threw his body behind a hard, straight right in a manner that was both eye-catching to his great audience and rough on Moore, who plainly was unprepared for such a change in Joey. In fact,

Four Local Golfers Gain Top Flight

SAN ANGELO—Four Midland golfers stroked their way into the 32-man championship flight of the San Angelo Invitational Golf Tournament Thursday as a field of 166—biggest since the pre-war years when 200 entries were common—fought to better par.

Only Hennie Carson and Red Covington, both of San Angelo, and Ernie Vossler, the heralded Fort Worth entry, managed to better Old Man Par by more than one stroke. They all fired 70's to tie for the medal honors in the tournament.

Midland's foursome had to shoot 75 or better to make the round of 32. Bob Workman and Bill Hightower did it rather handsily with 72's, but Kenneth Baker only had a 74 and young Midland High School star Dave Moody barely got under the wire with a 75.

One other Midlander managed to get in the rankings. He was Slick Hall, whose 80 enticed him to a shot at the second flight trophy.

Not since the pre-war years has the San Angelo event been so well-packed with stars or has the quality of play been first rate.

The huge field teed off Friday for first round matches and followed up with double matches Saturday and the finals Sunday.

Special events Friday were the putting contest and driving contest, both scheduled for late afternoon.

Raymond Hart of San Angelo and Bobby Wright of Big Spring were the only others to better par Thursday. They tied for runner-up medal honors with 71's.

In Friday's opening round, Baker was to meet Vossler while Workman tackled Bernard McIntosh of San Angelo, who had a 78 Thursday.

Moody was to meet Hightower, as one Midlander was a chinch to drop out of the running.

'Book-Burning' Cries Injure U. S. Prestige

WASHINGTON—P—State Department disclosures that all copies of some 300 books have been banned from U. S. information libraries overseas brought new demands Friday for more details.

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, head of the information program, and two aides told a news conference Thursday that U. S. prestige abroad has been hurt to some extent by cries of "book burning."

"They said the department, having banned any further literal burning of the books, now is sweating out a new directive to end admitted confusion over purging of real or alleged Communist books."

Authorities here do not know how many titles, aside from the 300, have been removed by individual libraries abroad, battered by series of 10 directives during the last five months.

Less than a dozen of the books removed from the shelves have been burned, and instructions have gone out that no book is to be burned or destroyed. The books instead are being stored.

These and other bits of information came out at the news conference held, after weeks of newsmen's demands, by Johnson, Richard Humphrey, director of the library operation, and Ben Crosby, public relations officer of the International Information Administration.

Johnson, in an opening statement, said existing instructions on eliminating books by Communists or those who "follow the Communist line or participate in Communist front organizations" had "led to confusion in the field." He said new instructions are being prepared to govern the twilight zone, as he called it.

Johnson said some librarians may have removed books never intended to be hit by the orders.

The 188 libraries are those the government operates in 83 countries. The idea is to provide free books, magazines and other publications as one means to give native readers a true picture of life in this country.

Like Hennings, he renewed a demand for a list of all the books of authors or works banned but he declined to do so, saying it would be contrary to the interests of the program.

Senators Hennings (D-Mo) and Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) fired some tart comment at Secretary of State Dulles, demanding written explanations more detailed than Johnson gave.

"No Answer At All"

The two senators Thursday received identical replies from Dulles to their previous queries, and both rejected the secretary's letter as unresponsive. Jackson called it "no answer at all."

Like Hennings, he renewed a demand for a list of all the books

banned the exact standard used to judge them, and a copy of each of the 10 directives on the subject.

Hennings wrote Dulles that he will not allow the State Department to "make scapegoats" of any employees who may have misunderstood some of the multiple orders.

Humphrey said he has seen no evidence that anyone has tried to sabotage the book purge by making it "book silly," as alleged by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis).

McCarthy heads the Senate investigations subcommittee, which is looking into his assertion that more than "30,000 Communist books" were placed in the libraries through some body's deliberate design.

HEAR THE LATEST? WE'RE BEING EVICTED—The threatened eviction of the hippopotamus from his native home, in East Africa's Masina Springs has most of the Kenya population in outrage. Public works engineers wanted to tap the springs to get water to Mombasa, the principal port, but public opinion protested and started a "Save the Hippo" campaign. Any government plan to placate the public with a compromise failed. The people want to maintain the famous "Hippo Ballet" which attracts thousands of visitors.

More Suits Forecast Unless Spraberry Ruling Clarified

AUSTIN—(P)—More suits over Railroad Commission efforts to eliminate gas flaring in the Spraberry field are likely unless the Supreme Court's recent flare gas decision is made clear, the court was told Thursday.

Rowan Oil Company and others filed a motion asking clarification of the June 10 opinion. Other such motions had been filed previously.

Thursday was the deadline for motions for rehearing of the Spraberry case. No rehearing is indicated although one such motion, involving only the question of who should pay the court costs, has been presented.

A court clerk said the June 10 decision would not become final until all pending motions are handled by the court.

Rowan's motion said attorneys for the commission and for some of the flaring operators are misinterpreting the decision which struck down a commission order aimed at halting waste of gas.

The commission order would have required field-wide shutdown of all wells, regardless of whether they were flaring casinghead gas, which is produced incident to production of oil.

The commission said it was necessary to shut in the non-wasteful wells to protect the rights of the flaring operators whose leases would be drained by other wells if the flarers were the only ones shut down.

The court said non-wasteful wells could not be shut completely, and since part of the order was invalid, the entire order had to fall.

and east lines of northwest quarter of section 4, block 15, H&TC survey and three miles northeast of the Marvin (Wichita-Albany) field. Seven miles south of the town of Southland in Garza County, Duncan Drilling Company of Big Spring has plugged No. 1 J. L. Kuykendall at 3,810 feet in barren Clear Fork.

It was 990 feet from west and 1,066 feet from south lines of the northeast quarter of section 1421, abstract 347, TFR survey.

J. B. Hardin, et al No. 1-9 Chester Jones, project in Northwest Mitchell County, was plugged and abandoned after plugging back from 3,102 to 2,977 feet and testing.

Location was 330 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block 26, H&TC survey.

Rowan, a non-flarer, said some parties are construing the opinion as meaning the non-flarers cannot produce their rightful allowance because they might drain and therefore confiscate the property of the flarers.

Foes Of Proposed Military Shakeup Fight Lost Cause

WASHINGTON—(P)—Foes of President Eisenhower's plan to re-define the duties of the military high command took Friday in a last-ditch effort to kill it.

They appeared to be fighting a lost cause.

At stake was the President's plan of reorganization of the Defense Department, with provisions Eisenhower has said would result in greater efficiency and economy.

Unless voted down by a majority of 218 of the 435 House members, it takes effect at midnight Monday. Even the bitterest opponents conceded little hope of that kind of support. There has been no active opposition in the Senate.

Major opposition centered on a provision of the plan to increase the authority of the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff over the service heads and the Joint Staff, the working group under the military planning body.

The House Government Operations Committee said this would result in a "Prussian-type general staff" and would mark "another step" toward control of the government by the military.

Brownell Proclaims Middle-Road Policy

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS—(P)—Attorney General Brownell proclaimed a middle of the road policy Friday in the anti-trust field, but he said there will be "no winking" at violations of the monopoly laws.

Brownell pledged no wholesale dismissals of the big batch of anti-trust actions which he inherited for prosecution from the Democratic administration.

He said he proposes to set up "the attorney general's national committee to study the anti-trust laws."

Odessa Sailor With Texans 'Aboard' For Royal Review

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram Special Correspondent

LONDON—To salute England's new and lovely Queen, the USS Baltimore anchored near Portsmouth and when the Royal couple passed in review of the fleet, Isaac McComas of Odessa and the other crewmen shouted "collegiate-like 'Hip, Hip, Hoorsays!'"

The seamen of the Baltimore were all "manning the deck" when the shouting was done, and I could not ascertain for certain, but I imagined the 29 lusty Texans among them did their share of the hearty greeting.

Master of ceremonies for the heavy cruiser's participation in the naval review was a Texan, as a matter of fact.

He is Lt. (jg) William Evans, Bonham born, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Evans, Dallas.

An electronics officer with 16 years naval service, Evans comes from a family of tall Texans. He stands 6 feet, 4 1/2 inches. His father is "just short" of six feet. A brother, James, a certified public accountant in Dallas, is six feet, two inches, and Brother Benjamin, resident architect at Texas A&M, is six feet, seven inches.

First seaman I talked with was Robert Young, son of Mrs. Mamie Young of Dennison, who showed me his look-out supervisor's station.

With his binoculars, he helped me focus on the Sverdlov, the Russian cruiser of about 13,000 tons which attracted more attention than any other ship in the review.

Almost as much as the review itself.

The boatswain mate first class said: "See the broken deck aft. You'll note it is a mine-layer type cruiser, that the super structure is pyramid shaped."

I felt that I should have spent the last two weeks with "Jane's Ships"—for I wasn't following the description too well.

"You see," the Texan continued, "the Sverdlov has large straight

Iron Curtain Drama Gives Author Fidgets

The scribe of this so-called column took in a movie the other night. He chose one called "No Time for Flowers", thinking it was something light and fluffy, but, as has been pointed out before, one can never tell about a movie by the name. This gimmick turned out to be a struggle between the "good-uns" and the "bad-uns" in Russian-occupied Austria. We weren't in the mood for same, but we got interested in it, and we found a lesson.

No matter how bad it might seem here, we ain't got no troubles at all in comparison with those poor folks.

Just suppose that every word, every glance, every motion that you make was being spied upon, and for any reason at all, some big lug could come and haul you off to jail at night. Brother, we have our troubles, but you and I can lay our heads down at night and get a good rest. You can even make up your mind to come to the store tomorrow and get yourself one of those handsome, powerful, smooth-running Jacobson power mowers without asking the Gestapo or the OGPU if you may. And maybe you ought to do it.

Photographs revealed Soviets were shooting right back at the Americans—with their cameras aimed at the helicopter.

stacks with raked caps." He noted, also, that the "captain's stateroom is resting on the main deck, flush with the hull."

That, he added, is most unusual. "Maybe the captain wanted more room and enlarged his stateroom all the way to the hull," I suggested. "Could be," Young agreed. "He is a huge man, I would say over six feet tall and big besides."

At his look-out station, the Denison boy has gotten a "few scares." "I'm sitting here with my binoculars trained on their cruiser, making maps and notes, and suddenly I pick up about six Russian officers . . . and they have binoculars trained on me! Gives you a funny feeling," he admitted.

The helicopter from the USS Baltimore flew low on the Soviet cruiser getting very special photographs. Photographers used telescopic lens so they could pick up details.

What the pictures showed was Russians on board taking pictures of the American helicopter.

Churchman, Two Politicians Lead Farm World's Civil War

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Three men—a churchman and two politicians—hold the key positions today in the Administration fight to carry out President Eisenhower's campaign promise of a new farm program for American agriculture. But this high command may be split wide open in the months ahead.

The churchman is Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture and long-time leader in the Mormon church. The politicians are Senator George Aiken (R-Vt.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Representative Hope (D-Kan.).

These three are, in effect, the ranking Republican generals in the farm world's civil war—a conflict centering around the Administration's ideas on the best way to increase and stabilize farm income.

Their strategy and leadership will determine in large measure the kind of program Congress will adopt when the present law requiring fixed high support prices for basic crops expires next year. The basics are wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts.

But in the showdown fight, Eisenhower may find one of his generals at odds with the other two.

And here's why: Benson and Aiken are in strong agreement that the fixed high support price program developed under the Truman Administration should be changed to a program of flexible price supports. But Hope—who comes from a wheat state—is waving a "go slow" signal.

Benson, Aiken Critical Where Benson and Aiken are highly critical of the present high-level supports, Hope thinks this program has worked well and that support programs should be extended where possible to other crops.

As yet, Benson and his aides have developed no specific recommendations on a new program, and none are likely before Fall.

But Benson has outlined a fairly clear picture of the direction in which he wants to go and there is every indication he has the full support of President Eisenhower.

On price supports, he said recently:

"I doubt very much if any government can, by high, rigid supports, prevent some adjustment in prices, unless we can step from one commodity to the next and then to the next, until finally we have control of all of them. When we have that, we will practically have state socialism, and I do not believe that farmers want that any more than you or I do."

Benson believes high price supports tend to "freeze" crop production. In other words, if a farmer is guaranteed a profitable return for growing corn, then there isn't much reason for him to shift to a more-needed but less profitable crop, even though corn surpluses do pile up in storage as is now the case.

Benson also thinks the fixed high supports tend to price a commodity out of the market in domestic and world competition. The secretary says that as long as prices are supported at high levels, there is no pressure on farmers to increase efficiency and lower production costs by using better seed varieties and farming practices in order to be in a better position to compete in home and overseas markets.

In other words, he says, high supports subsidizes inefficiency. As a farmer, Benson never accepted a government subsidy payment himself. But he says there should be some price support structure to protect the farmer from

U. S. Lines Must Keep Pace

Most Americans realize that the U. S. international air lines, like the domestic lines, draw a partial subsidy from the government.

The system is complex, and lately it has shown a tendency to bog down, with seriously hampering effects for the air lines and for America's competitive position on world air routes.

The lines receive what is called mail support. This payment is partly subsidy and partly legitimate reimbursement to the carriers for the mail they carry.

The Civil Aeronautics Board has the job of calculating mail pay rates, which are supposed to be set at a level sufficient to pay for all mail services and include a reasonable subsidy as well.

But evidently this calculation is becoming more and more difficult to make. The CAB no longer is able to tell the international companies just how much mail support they can count on in any given year.

This might not be so bad if the government proceeded to settle up with dispatch at year's end. But it does not. The CAB appears unable to make up its mind in some cases, where these mail support accounts still are unsettled after seven years.

The government has promised to clean up this situation in 1953, and there certainly would seem little excuse for not doing so.

To do that they need financing. But private investors show slight taste for the stocks of companies which cannot tell them what their real earnings are.

This would seem a poor reward for companies that have made great strides toward self-support—mail pay now accounts for 20 per cent of air line revenues, as against 56 per cent in 1938.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

(Copyright, 1953, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) Drew Pearson says: Red riots may shake Kremlin; Signs of recession may shake U. S. A.; Kremlin's difficulties and U. S. economic slump affect each other.

WASHINGTON — The two biggest stories in the world today are: 1. Riots behind the Iron Curtain. 2. Depression clouds in the U. S. A.

These two dwarf Korea. They make Dr. Rhee's gymnastic look like a Punch and Judy show. For if the Kremlin can't keep law and order at home it will have to drop Korea like a hot potato.

Furthermore, if revolt behind the Iron Curtain spreads, it could begin the breakup of that unwieldy, heterogeneous mass of peoples, 55 per cent of them non-Russian held together against their will, called the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Most people don't realize how deep and serious are the Czech-German riots. In Pilsen, Czech workers stormed Communist headquarters and raised the American flag. In Handlova and Ostrava, both Czech mining areas, workers tore down the pictures of Stalin and Ootwald. In Germany riots occurred not merely in East Berlin, but in many industrial areas.

In Berlin two years ago, I talked to East German youths attending the Communist youth festival who sneaked over to the West Zone to get U. S. food. They were Communists only because the alternative was the uranium mines or the army. They were obvious fodder for revolt.

Again last winter, I talked to German youngsters of draft age fleeing across the border. Military service for the Soviet was not for them. But they were not then in a revolting mood. Now they are.

Tragedy is that though the United States for years has looked forward to this day, we now offer little hope. Little leadership. Free elections behind the Iron Curtain were one proviso of the Yalta pact. Now is the time for us to demand free elections, this is our biggest ace-in-the-hole, but we're not using it.

Big story No. 2 is why the Federal Reserve Board and U. S. Treasury are shaking worried heads and holding day-long meetings. Their Effect was twofold: A drop in bond values and an increase in interest rates throughout the business world. Various corporations, all set to finance new plants or improvements, suddenly changed their minds.

This deflating trend may be healthy. Some of it was considered necessary. However, it happens to coincide with a drastic cut in the defense budget and when government spending is being pulled in with a jerk.

danger signals have been raised in the business world. The last thing this nation can afford is a depression, especially at the crucial moment when parts of the Soviet Union seem about to fall apart.

Ever since V-E Day the Kremlin has banked on depression in the U. S. A. This was their biggest goal, the thing they have set their hearts on. The capitalist system was to be shown up as a tawdry failure.

That's why riots in Berlin and Czechoslovakia are interdependent with the problems of the U. S. A.—both the biggest stories in the world today.

John Snyder, Truman's secretary of the treasury, also had pegged the price of government bonds at one hundred cents on the dollar. This was the subject of acrimonious debate between the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board, but Truman himself finally stepped in to remark that as a young man he had lost money when liberty bonds slipped from $100 to around $90 and he wasn't going to have that happen again.

So U. S. bonds remained pegged, despite protests that this caused inflation.

Came January 30 and new treasury-federal reserve officials shortly unpegged the price of bonds and hiked interest rates on government borrowings from around 1 1/2 to 3 1/4 per cent.

Effect was twofold: A drop in bond values and an increase in interest rates throughout the business world.

This deflating trend may be healthy. Some of it was considered necessary. However, it happens to coincide with a drastic cut in the defense budget and when government spending is being pulled in with a jerk.

Pakistan Wheat Bill Opened Drive For Huge 'Give-Away'

By PETER EDSON, NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower's request to Congress for authority to give Pakistan $75,000,000 worth of surplus U. S. wheat for famine relief is just the beginning of what may become a multibillion-dollar give-away program of American farm products.

Now in preparation by the White House is what has become known as "the general bill" for disposal of all U. S. farm surpluses. It would give the President broad powers to dispose of these surpluses in any way that he chooses.

For a time the draft of this proposed legislation was known as "the Benson bill." This name was taken from the fact that the White House had asked Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to draw up such a bill.

But when Secretary Benson heard that his name was being tacked onto the idea, he protested violently. Remembering what had happened to former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan's so-called "Brannan" plan, the new secretary hastened to decline any credit for the Eisenhower Administration idea.

Secretary Benson had to take this position for the simple reason that he has been a leader in trying to save the government money, get it out of the farm business, and end federal handouts. This new idea, however, was nothing more than a disguised U. S. subsidy to American agriculture, and a give-away program to beat anything heard of since the days of Lend-Lease and UNRRA.

Extension Of Pakistan Bill So the Benson bill was rechristened the general bill. It now is being polished off by White House, Budget Bureau, Mutual Security Administration, Departments of State and Agriculture, before being submitted to Congress for approval.

In substance, this general bill is merely an extension of the Pakistan bill, on a global basis. It also is an extension of other proposals made by the American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Grange. Their aim has been to get rid of U. S. crop surpluses by dumping them abroad, so as to keep American farm prices high at home.

The Farm Bureau proposal is a one-shot proposition. It would authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation to turn over to Mutual Security Administration up to $1,000,000,000 worth of U. S. crop surpluses. These surpluses would be sold abroad by MSA at market prices and paid for in foreign currencies. The foreign money then would be spent abroad to finance U. S. military and economic aid.

The Grange proposal is to establish a two-price system on American farm products. The higher price would be charged American consumers. The lower price would be charged for export sales of the surpluses.

No matter how the Farm Bureau and Grange proposals are dressed up, they are nothing more than disguised farm subsidies. And no matter how the Pakistan relief or general bills may be justified, they are in essence handouts.

In spite of the fact that there was a change of administrations last January, the philosophy of the multibillion dollar give-away still prevails in Washington, as the solution to all foreign problems. Department Opposes Plan This has caused something of a split within the Eisenhower Administration. The Department of Agriculture Service under Romeo E. Short, are opposed to the give-away. State Department and MSA are for it.

There is no question about Pakistan needing and deserving the aid. She has had two years of crop failures and famine. She has been a good friend and supporter of the United States in foreign affairs. She is a young and struggling country. She has just gone through a cabinet crisis over failure to solve food shortages.

Six months ago, when the Pakistan government first asked the U. S. for aid, it was on the basis of a loan to buy wheat. Last year Pakistan was given a $15,000,000 loan with which to buy U. S. wheat. She got other aid by barter from Russia, Japan and the British Commonwealth countries.

This year the request again was made for a wheat loan. Republican Speaker Joe Martin came out of a White House conference saying that a wheat loan for Pakistan had been agreed on. But when the formal request came out, it was for a gift.

Two years ago, India asked for a famine-relief wheat loan. President Truman asked Congress to give India 2,000,000 tons. Congress balked, and authorized a $19,000,000 wheat loan instead.

The question now is whether the Republican Congress will follow suit to convert the Pakistan and general bills into loans.

"You've got to have a search warrant," Pete tapped his revolver. "This will do. By the way, where's your niece, Anderson?"

"Mrs. Anderson preceded him into another room despite her husband's order for her to come back. "No use your wasting time," the woman said drowsily. "Hoot's got her tied up in the cellar."

Still cautious, Pete made his way to the cellar just behind the house, opened a door into a cellarway, and walked down a flight of wooden steps and threw open another door. There was a musty smell, and the only light came from the door he had just entered, but he could make out Betty's form standing against a center post under the ridge-pole. Her arms were tied around the pole behind her back, and there was a gag in her mouth.

"Pete stepped over, removed the gag, and cut the rope that bound her. Betty looked at him without speaking. He said, "What have they done with your father?" Her eyes opened wide. "My father? What do you mean?" "The man you met in the store. He is your father."

"He—he said he was. I didn't believe him." "Well, he is. And he's been looking for you for 15 years. What have they done with him?" "Gabe Cox took him to Two Rivers. Gabe said the man was my father's enemy."

"You mean Zad Barnes' enemy. He is Barnes' kidnaper, you years ago. What happened here? I've got to know." "The man was looking for me. While he had Hoot Anderson covered with a gun Gabe stuck a gun in his back. The man turned to me and said he was my father, then Gabe hit him with his gun and knocked him down. Then they put him on a horse and Gabe took him away."

"Then what happened?" "After while we saw you coming. Hoot said he couldn't trust me. He forced me into this cellar and tied me up. I—I'm all mixed up." (To Be Continued)

THE STORY: Pete Harrison is seeking to rescue Betty from the clutches of her kidnaper, who has hidden her in the cellar. Pete's friends, Mrs. Anderson, and her two girls, open the door when Pete knocked, and looked at them inquiringly.

"Your husband here, Mrs. Anderson?" Hazelton asked. "No, he's out in the field somewhere," the woman said. "This gentleman would like to speak to your niece, Nancy Price, and the gentleman who left my store with her."

The woman's face was pallid, and her tongue kept clicking against the roof of her mouth. "Not here," she said. "They left."

"Where did they go?" Pete demanded. "I don't know where the man went. My niece took a ride into the hills."

An inner door opened and Hoot Anderson entered the room behind his wife. Pete noticed that he was breathing hard.

"What can I do for you gentlemen?" he asked. "What're you breathing so hard for?" Pete asked. "I saw you coming and I ran in from the field. Just got here."

"Pete said, "What have you done with Betty Barnes?" "Don't know what you're talking about."

"Stop lying, Anderson. The girl you called your wife's niece was Betty Barnes from Two Rivers. We want her. And we want to know what you did with Nancy Wilkinson."

"Now look here," Anderson began to bluster, but Pete cut him short. "Call in a couple of your men, Hazelton."

The blacksmith and another man entered. All were armed. "Just keep an eye on this fellow," Pete directed. "I'm going to search this house."

Anderson turned wrathfully.

GOD and the City

You may not think about it while crossing the ferry, but God plays a mighty part in the life of a city!

A city is coldly impersonal. Its millions jostle one another in the subways and crush each other in the elevators, yet everyone is a stranger. You never get to know the fellow who has his elbow in your face or the lady on whose toe you are standing.

But under the hustle and confusion flows a stream of human and divine love. Sympathy and kindness and understanding express themselves in a million unnoticed acts. Prayer and faith unite multitudes in a bond of reverence and hope.

God is in the city! He is the One who is a stranger to no one . . . and to Whom no one is a stranger.

That's why in the city, just as in your town and mine, folks turn to the Church to satisfy that universal longing to be Known . . . and Understood . . . and Loved!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And Huffen Hungry

The Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, had learned the trick of stepping out from behind himself. He had done the stepping out from behind, and so now the Huffen was two Huffen Puffens.

They were just waking up at the Huffen's hollow tree house. Which of which was the first Huffen Puffen who had stepped out from behind himself to be the other Huffen? Each of these Huffens was quite, quite sure that he was the first Huffen there ever was.

"I'll go into the kitchen and cook us some breakfast," they each said together.

They started to go through the door, but they bumped together and stopped.

"I said I'll go into the kitchen and cook us some breakfast," they each said together again.

"I wonder which of us is really me," they both were wondering. And then one of the Huffens thought of an idea very fast. He thought of it so very fast and he forgot it so very quick—the other Huffen didn't have time to think of the idea at all.

The idea was this: Why not hurry into the kitchen and pretend to cook breakfast but really eat up all the food there was and quick. Then the other Huffen would be real hungry, and he would have to go away somewhere for breakfast, and maybe he wouldn't come back, and then there would be no problem.

The Huffen with the idea did it. He ate all the food in a hurry. He ate so much, and so fast, his stomach ached.

And did the other Huffen go away hungry and look for food? No sir, he didn't. He stayed right there with a stomach ache from hunger.

And these two Huffens were all the same somebody, remember. They were both really the Huffen Puffen, because he had become two people when he stepped out from behind himself.

And so the Huffen had a stomach ache from eating too much—and he had a stomach ache from eating nothing at all. He did it all at the very same time, which is something very hard to do.

Happy day!

His Science must be apprehended by as many as believe on Christ and spiritually understand Truth" (p. 110).
 Also included in the reference is "From Puritan parents, the discoverer of Christian Science early received her religious education. In childhood, she often listened with joy to these words, falling from the lips of her mainly mother, 'God is able to raise you up from sickness,' and she pondered the meaning of that scripture she so often quotes: 'And these signs shall follow them that believe: . . . they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.'"

UT Profs Compile Management Tips By Gilbreth Team

AUSTIN—Frank and Lillian Gilbreth are known to many thousands through the warm and human story of their family life in the best-seller "Cheaper by the Dozen."
 Now their writings on scientific management have been compiled and edited by two University of Texas professors—Dean William R. Sprigeli of the College of Business Administration and Clark E. Myers, management department chairman. "The Writings of the Gilbreths" is a tribute of two great pioneers in modern management. Their nine basic volumes in that field are now out of print and difficult to obtain.
 The new book is the first collection of their writings available in one volume for managers, teachers and students to read and study. It includes "Field System," "Concrete System," "Bricklaying System," "Primer of Scientific Management," "Motion Study," "Applied Motion Study," "Motion Study for the Handicapped," "Fatigue Study" and "The Psychology of Management."

Texas Group Attends Development Course

AUSTIN—Three University of Texas faculty members and one graduate student are attending a six-week National Training Laboratory in Group Development in Bethel, Maine.
 They are Dr. Philip Werchel and Robert R. Blake of the psychology department, Ralph Duke of the educational psychology department, and Joseph H. (Tony) Lumpkin, graduate student working toward a doctoral degree in educational psychology.

UT Authors Pen Six Books, 31 Articles

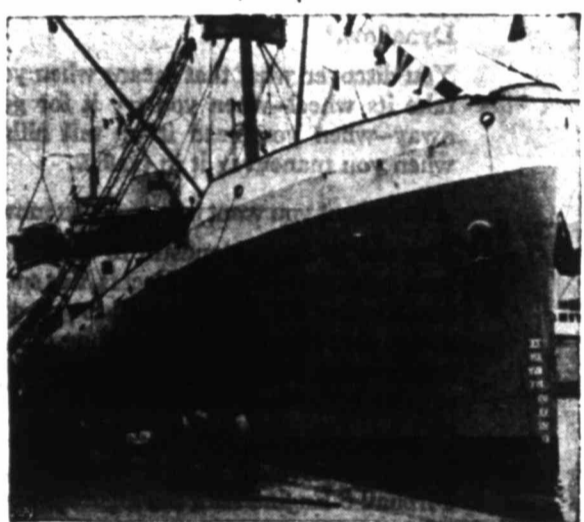

AUSTIN—Titles of six books and 31 research articles by 30 University of Texas teachers, published in 1952, are recorded in the annual bibliography of the Modern Language Association of America just issued.
 Books include a linguistic survey of verb forms in the U. S. by Dr. E. B. Atwood, a biography of Charles Brockden Brown by Dr. D. L. Clark, an account of Byron Shelley and their circle at Pisa by G. L. Cline, a volume of folklore edited by Dr. W. M. Hudson, a study of French drama by Dr. L. E. Dabney and a study of Spanish drama by Dr. D. H. Roasten and a collaborator.

Alien Ships Begin Wider Use Of Great Lakes Ports

By JAMES MONTAGNES
NEA Special Correspondent
TORONTO—One dream of the backers of the St. Lawrence Seaway project is the flow of sleek ocean liners and cargo ships from overseas that will head through the waterway bound for North America's inland ports.
 But already the cargoes of Europe and North Africa are coming direct to those inland ports in foreign-flag ships from across the Atlantic.
 With the Seaway still on paper, the docks of cities on Lakes Ontario, Erie, St. Clair, Huron and Michigan will handle more international shipping this year than ever before. The traffic has been growing since 1946. There were 360 foreign trips in and out of Toronto alone in the 1952 season.
 Seasons Close Route
 These ships bring practically all of the British and European automobiles now sold in cities close to the Great Lakes. They bring steel and heavy machinery from England, France and West Germany for Canada's construction boom.
 They bring textiles, wire, glassware, chemicals, toys, prefabricated houses, tin, tea, olive oil, wines, sewing machines, marble and grass seed—not only to Toronto but to Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago as well.
 Their season begins in mid-April, when the ice goes out of the locks that join the St. Lawrence with Lake Ontario, and lasts until the locks freeze up again.
 To reach the Great Lakes ports, ships must go through 26 locks along the St. Lawrence, limiting their length to 250 feet.
 In the U. S. Senate, a foreign relations subcommittee has approved a bill to authorize U. S. participation with Canada in constructing a 27-foot channel in the international rapids section of the river between New York and Ontario. The Administration is also in favor of the idea.
 Until the Seaway project embracing the rapids is a reality, however, no really big ships can make the inland voyage.
 But when international traffic into the Lakes opened up again after World War II, foreign shippers began building new ships that could make the trip under present conditions. Today ships from eight foreign lines, flying British, Netherlands, German, French and Swedish Overseas visitor to Great Lakes ports is this Netherlands ocean freighter unloading at Toronto. Like many other foreign-flag ships now seen in these inland waters, it was built especially for the St. Lawrence River route.

Love Can Fight Reds, Bishop Tells Asians
SINGAPORE—(AP)—If Christians in Southeast Asia wanted to defeat communism they would have to "out-think, out-love and out-sacrifice the leaders who offered communism," a Methodist bishop declared here.
 Speaking at the annual conference of the Methodist Church in Southeast Asia, Bishop R. L. Archer said:
 "We should seek, not so much to undermine and overthrow the communist way of life, as to present the Christian way in such a manner that it will win the support of all who are interested in the uplift of mankind."

Pioneer Air Lines Receives National Award For Safety

DALLAS—Pioneer Air Lines Friday was notified that it had been awarded its eighth consecutive National Safety Council's aviation safety award for 1952. Gen. Robert J. Smith, Pioneer president, announced.
 The Pioneer award covers the period from the inauguration of operations on Aug. 1, 1948, through Dec. 31, 1952. During that period, Pioneer has not had a fatality or fatal injury on its scheduled operations.
 During the period, 1948-1952, Pioneer transported a total of 797,957 passengers a total of 214,934,000 passenger miles (passenger times miles traveled).
 Pioneer's 214,934,000 safe passenger miles is the equivalent of moving every person in the city of Dallas from their homes to Memphis, Tenn. Gen. Smith pointed out. Pioneer is one of the nation's 14 airlines to have an unbroken safety record.
 During the seven years and five months covered by the award, Pioneer flew a total of 22,137,070 airplane miles with Lockheed Electra, DC-3 and Martin F-40

Nothing To Buy, Just Be There For Break

EVERGREEN PARK, ILL.—(AP)—Here's a store that gives the customer a break—a coffee break, that is.
 The branch of the Chicago Loop Fair Store takes time out each Friday morning to be neighborly with shoppers. For one hour customers knock off shopping and have coffee and refreshments on the house.
 While they rest their feet and enjoy a snack, the store stages a fashion show, has a critic give an oral book review or presents beauty hints.

Rice paper is not made from rice but from parts of small trees found in the swampy forests of Formosa, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

ONE OF THE SCHEDULED AIRLINES OF THE U.S. FOR 19 YEARS

"OLD" IS NEW—An old design becomes new among modern aircraft with the production of this twin-engine plane using "old-fashioned" pusher-type propellers. It made its first appearance at Hagerstown, Md. The five-passenger plane is said to attain speeds greater than any other type executive plane, but can be operated at unusually low speeds. Note the unorthodox seating of the engines. It is being produced by the Custer Channel Wing Corp.

Churchman, Two Politicians—

Program Outlined
Judging from Benson's speeches, policy statements, interviews, and testimony before congressional groups, he favors in general a program that runs in this direction:

1. Flexible price supports. Parity is a return estimated to be fair to both the farmer and the consumer. Under this flexibility, supports could be lowered to discourage overproduction, or raised to encourage shifts to needed crops.

2. A greater voice for farmers and commodity groups in drafting programs to fit their particular needs. This would mean, Benson says, decentralizing federal control with emphasis on controls at the state and county level.

3. Expanded efforts through private enterprise and government to build up foreign markets which have been sagging badly in the past year. This would call for expanded sales efforts and efforts to remove trade barriers at home and abroad.

4. Shifting to the Agriculture Department some of the authority and responsibility now held by the State Department in the field of foreign trade policies.

5. A concentrated effort by government, farmers and food handlers to find ways to cut marketing costs. Costs have risen sharply in recent years and cut deeply into the farmer's share of the consumer dollar spent for food.

6. The possible wider use of marketing agreements, price insurance and a two-price system for exports. The two-price system would mean one price at home and a world price that would seek its competitive level in foreign markets.

Aiken stands close to Benson in the fight and the senator says farm sentiment is swinging toward the Administration view.

He insists the Administration is not going to abandon any part of the present farm program "until we find something better." But he is confident something better can be found.

Benson, in recent speeches and statements also has promised that he will seek no changes in the present program until something is found that will "do better" by farmers.

Flexible Plan Favored
Aiken was asked why it was he and other Administration leaders favor a flexible price support plan now when the flexible plan of the 1930's wasn't considered a success.

Amarillo Hobbyist Makes Wood Express Gratitude

AMARILLO—(P)—J. M. Hobson established his "Glory Hole" in depression days when he had plenty of loafing time. Now that the 71-year-old Amarillo contractor is semi-retired, he wouldn't give up his "Glory Hole" for anything.

The "Glory Hole" is a workshop in his basement where Hobson makes things from wood. He still has the same lathe, powered by a Model-T Ford engine. And the same jig-saw, constructed from an old treadle sewing machine.

Hobson's workshop is not a money-maker. He has made things of every kind of wood in the nation. Except for the few items of woodwork in his home, he has given all his work away. He estimates he has given away $12,500 of his handiwork.

"I have never sold an item," Hobson says. "They definitely are not for sale. I got the idea of making the hobby express my gratitude for an appreciation of mankind."

Coffee tables, lamps, library tables, serving trays, nut bowls, pin trays, plates, paper weights have gone out in a stream over the years to those for whom Hobson has affection. Each item bears a number, the date and Hobson's name, and each is recorded in a book here. Almost every state is represented.

"I try to impress upon the young wood-hobbyists of Amarillo the beauty of our native woods. I make my most beautiful things of wood found in Palo Duro Canyon—cedar, mesquite, chinaberry, hackberry and cottonwood." He also has used Chinese elm, cherry, apricot and peach wood, all found in Amarillo.

He has made one discovery he believes may be valuable. "After 40 years of patching splints in cured wood, I learned a simple way to dry and season wood without it splitting."

He uses the same principle our forefathers used in curing meat—the salts the wood down in barrels. The sap is drawn out from the wood by the salt before the wood ages and cracks from the outside.

The MATURE PARENT Self-Sacrificing Mom Breeds Ingratitude in Her Daughter

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
The lightweight navy wool suit costs $89.95.

The jacket fits Mrs. G. perfectly. So does the skirt. The suit is exactly what she needs, wants and can afford to buy.

She doesn't buy. As always in these situations, Mrs. G.'s need for her daughter's affection overwhelms her own need for new clothes. So she goes to the store's budget department and picks out a rayon suit that costs $28.95. Although it doesn't fit well, this is not important to her. What's important is that she has money enough to buy Jeanne a pink rayon suit, too.

That evening, Jeanne complains that it's unbecoming. "If you had $28 to spend on me," she says, "I wish you'd let me spend it the way I want."

The next day Jeanne exchanges the pink suit for perfume and two expensive slips she doesn't need. Jeanne, a girl with an undeveloped understanding of economy, has not felt gratitude to her mother for some years. There's no real reason why she should. Mrs. G.'s habit of denying her needs to indulge Jeanne's wants is not based in interest in Jeanne. It's based in interest in escaping from the guilty, uncomfortable feeling that overwhelms her whenever she considers herself. Unable to consider herself, she can feel no true consideration for Jeanne.

It is a perilous thing to deny a child the experience of gratitude. It is response to love. Mrs. G. has denied it to Jeanne because she never has grown up to see that both love and gratitude operate in a realm that has nothing to do with the give-and-take of rayon suits, perfume and slips.

If she could see that all true giving is the support of another's dignity, a revolution would take place in her life. She would be freed from her compulsion to prove she's a "good" mother by the denial of her own material needs.

As it is now, she has no freedom. Her decisions are made for her by a compulsion she knows nothing about.

On movie and television stage sets, an actor's movement is rigidly controlled for him by chalk lines his director marks out for him. He submits to them consciously as part of his job. In exchange for this sub-

Political Crisis Over Milk Eased

MANILA—(AP)—The birth of triplets on Caiduanes island off the southeast tip of Luzon touched off a local political issue which threatened their survival.

The head of the local social welfare commission refused to issue relief milk to the triplets. He claimed the voiding of President Elpidio Quirino's controversial emergency powers prevented him from doing so.

The impoverished parents of the triplets—all girls—next turned to the Red Cross branch in Virac for help. But it had run out of stock.

Then a commercial firm in Manila heard of the plight of the harassed parents. The firm sent 192 cans of canned milk and it was delivered by a Philippine Airlines plane, free of charge.
