Full-Scale Truce Talks To Resume

HEY, WATCHA DOIN'?—"Go away, can't you see we're busy?" this snug little twosome seem to be saying as they while away the hours at Pagoda Pool. "After all, this is a private party." He's Johnny Stewart, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stewart, North Northup Street in the Grandview Addition. The lovely little lassie clutching her precious snow cone is two-year-old Heather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Singleton, 2712 Roosevelt Street. (See story Page 12.)

Ministers Arrive For Western Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—Lord Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, arrived Thursday enroute to Washington for a conference of the Western Big Three foreign ministers.

Salisbury said Britain regarded a Bermuda meeting of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and the French premier "not as finished but merely postponed."

"We hope the three power meeting will be held in due course when the Prime Minister is fit," Salisbury said.

The Bermuda meeting was postponed after Churchill's doctors ordered him to take a month's rest.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault was due here after noon.

U. S. officials said the Big Three talks opening Friday and running through Tuesday should result in a new and better understanding of their common problems.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was understood to be interested in urging the new government of France, headed by Jo-

Construction Begins On New Lamesa Road

Work on the final leg of a paved highway from Midland to Lamesa was started this week.

The State Highway Department office here said the contractor had moved in and started work on the south end of the project.

The project includes a 14-mile stretch beginning 25 miles north of Midland on State Highway 349 and ending at Patricia.

The contract, held by Centex Paving Company of San Antonio, calls for completion in 110 working days.

Razor Blade Artist Earns 19 Bucks, Return Ticket To Kansas

By COPE ROUTH

Jimmie Woods admits he "figured this one all wrong" but he still has contempt for the way a lot of people handle money.

Jimmie is an artist with a razor blade and a paste-pot and in 20 minutes' time he can convert a lowly one-dollar bill into an impressive-looking sawbuck.

"Course, you look at it close and you wouldn't take the $20 bill," he explained Wednesday afternoon as he was questioned by Detective Capt. Billy Patterson.

"But you'd be surprised how many people take a $20 bill or even a $50 bill without giving it a second look."

The 50-year-old Midland negro, his bald head shining, was arrested shortly after noon Wednesday aft-

Cattlemen Air Bids For Price Pegs On Stock

DALHART (AP)—Sand—there's no better reminder of drouth—sifted Thursday around the corners of Dalhart, where cattlemen of five states met at 2 p. m. to ask for federal price support on cattle.

A sandstorm reduced visibility to zero here Wednesday night, but by morning the air had cleared. As usual, no rain fell.

Sand swirled in Amarillo, too, where governors of five states meet Friday to see what their state governments can do to give drouth aid.

Panel Stalls On Refugee Entry Quota

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee met again Thursday without agreeing on an Administration bill to admit 240,000 refugees and other immigrants. An attempt to compromise differences was on.

Senator Dirksen (R-Ill) said after the secret committee session three possible compromises were being explored. Another meeting of the committee was called Friday.

Dirksen said compromise efforts were centered around the number of aliens to be admitted, the definitions of those to be made eligible for admission, and the duration of the legislation.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) dismissed as "nonsense" any talk that opponents of the measure were waging a filibuster against it.

"I am in the dark as to what is in the bill," McCarran said. "I want to find out and so, I guess, do the other members of the committee."

City Firm To Lay Water Extensions

Bids on another four miles of water line extensions were opened Wednesday afternoon by the City of Midland.

Apparently low bidder was T. and L. Construction Company of Midland, which submitted a bid of $45,811. Four other bids ranged up to $54,862.

Involved in the bids Wednesday were extensions in the Greenwood and Park Avenue Additions.

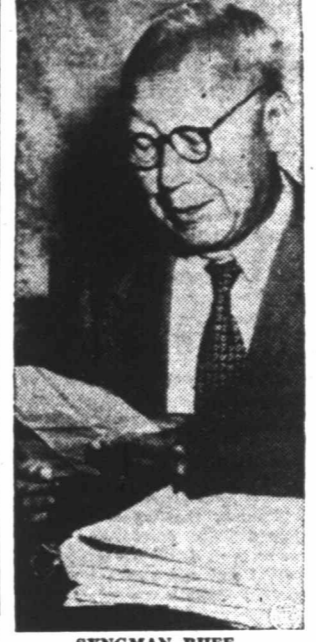

★ LATE NEWS FLASHES ★

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Reed (R-NY) Thursday charged the House Ways and Means Committee is "following blindly an order from the executive branch of government" in supporting a continued excess profits tax.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A State Department ruling that some books by Communist authors can be used in U. S. overseas libraries drew angry blasts Thursday from Senators McCarthy (R-Wis) and Mundt (R-SD).

WAXAHACHIE (AP)—The Optimist Club said Thursday it is going ahead with its youth center plans despite a Baptist preacher's outcry against mixed swimming at its pool and his assertion that the center was financed by gambling.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Board of Immigration Appeals Thursday upheld a deportation order against Jack Dragna, described by the Justice Department as a Los Angeles racketeer.

SYNGMAN RHEE

... "The same as yesterday."

Aging Korean Leader Still Trumpets 'No'

SEOUL (AP)—UN and Red truce teams will hold their first full dress session at Panmunjom Friday—second anniversary of the truce talks—since June 20, seeking a truce which South Korea still opposes but which Red China says may be in the offing.

Early Friday the Peiping Red Radio, quoting a dispatch from its own advance truce base at Kaesong, said there now were "hopes of an early realization of an armistice in Korea."

Friday's meeting was scheduled for 11 a. m. (8 p. m. Thursday, Texas time). Presumably it was arranged Thursday during a 15-minute session of liaison officers.

Announcement that the truce talks would resume came a few hours after a top-level UN delegation headed by Gen. Mark Clark tried again to win President Syngman Rhee's support of a truce. They apparently failed.

Savage Reds Fail In Brutal Assaults

SEOUL (AP)—American Infantry crushed three bloody Communist assaults Thursday but failed in a daring counterattack with flamethrowers to burn the last Red off Porkchop Hill in Western Korea.

South Korean troops braved rockets, believed to be Russian-type "Katushas," in smashing a fourth Red attack at Arrowhead Ridge, five miles from Porkchop.

The Korean front crackled with artillery barrages and hand to hand fighting as U. S. units for the first time in weeks caught the brunt of the Red charges.

The Daughtons hammered back 3,000 to 5,000 Chinese who Wednesday night slammed into U. S.-held positions at Outpost Berlin and East Berlin in the far west, Kim II

Sung Ridge in the east and Porkchop Hill.

Backed by ear-splitting artillery, soldiers of the U. S. Seventh Division by Thursday morning had cleared the Reds from all but six bunkers on the northwest finger of Porkchop Hill.

About 1,000 Chinese attacked the ROK's on Arrowhead Ridge, to the northwest, where a non-stop battle has been raging since Monday. A staff officer said the Reds poured 21,000 rounds of artillery and mortar shells on the area in the 12 hours ended at 6 a. m. Thursday, including 2,000 believed to be "Katusha" rockets.

The U. S. Eighth Army said more than 1,200 Reds were killed and wounded in terrific artillery duels and close quarter fighting—some of it hand-to-hand with gun butts and knives.

UN casualties were not disclosed.

Associated Press correspondent Robert Gibson, reporting from the Porkchop sector, said Chinese big guns were pumping 300 rounds a minute on some portions of that embattled hill.

In addition to the four main bloody fights, 45 small patrol clashes were reported.

Dies Blasts Texas Governor Shivers For Drouth Inertia

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Texas congressman accused his home state government Thursday of having failed even to try to meet a crisis resulting from the prolonged drouth in the Southwest.

"The governor of Texas should at least assemble the Legislature and set an example to the rest of the country that we will try to help ourselves," declared Rep. Martin Dies (D-Texas).

Dies spoke as the House opened debate on an emergency bill to provide loans to cattlemen and farmers in the drouth-devastated area.

He said it was inconsistent for Texas and the South to "clamor about states' rights" and to demand that "federal bureaucracy" be stopped, and then come to Washington seeking aid from the federal government.

Will Support Bill

"When it comes to someone else asking for aid," Dies said, "We're against it, but the minute our farmers, our people, get into trouble... we run down here like everybody else."

Dies said he would support the legislation because there was no alternative—"since the state has done nothing about it."

Texas, he said, is in far better financial condition than the federal government, and should at least "make a bona fide attempt to meet this crisis."

Another Texan, Representative Lyle, told the House the farmers of Texas and other afflicted states need credit now and have nowhere else to go.

"Has the State of Texas changed its position?" asked Representative Saylor (R-Pa), recalling that the governor of Texas wants nothing from the federal government.

"The people of Texas have not changed," Lyle replied, adding that "the governor of Texas has had to eat his words."

Lyle chided the House for making "comedy" over what he called a tragic situation.

Representative Gross (R-Iowa) commented that "if the name of the State of Texas was changed to Afghanistan or Timbuctoo, we'd rush to their aid with 200 million or two billion dollars."

Referring to claims of many Republicans that the Democratic Administration was bringing about "creeping socialism" in this country, Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas chided the Republicans.

Midland County's 1953 Chest X-ray Campaign passed the 5,000-mark shortly before noon Thursday. With only two more days to go, workers hoped to surpass last year's mark. The program will continue through Saturday.

Frankie Bailey, Star Of Gaslight Era, Dies

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Frankie Bailey, 94, the flame of Broadway in the gaslight era, died Wednesday in a sanitarium.
She shared stardom with such greats as David Warfield, Lillian Russell, Joe Weber and Lew Fields. She was known as the "Girl With the Million Dollar Legs," and a standard compliment to a girl in the '30s and '40s was to say she had a "pair of Frankie Baileys."

3-D Siren Kathleen Hughes Is Living Ad For Raw Foods

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— How do you like your meat—rare, medium or well done? Kathleen Hughes likes it raw.

Tall, tawny-blond and 24, Kathleen is the first new female sensation to be created by 3-D. Although she had a small role, she drew a lot of attention with her outstanding charms in "It Came From Outer Space." Her bosses were impressed with the way she stood out in the film and gave her a lead in another 3-D epic, "The Glass Web."

Others at the studio were impressed with the fact that Kathleen likes to eat nothing better than raw meat.
"What is this—another Piper-Laurie-eats-flowers routine?" I scoffed.

"No," she replied with wide eyes that couldn't lie. "I love uncooked meat. I always have. I even used to eat raw bacon, but my mother talked me out of that. However, she couldn't talk me out of my love for raw hamburger. It's my favorite dish."

To prove her point, she ordered a Tartar steak in the studio commissary. It was a large, livid mass of raw ground beef with an egg yolk nestling in its shell. She happily mixed in the yolk, plus anchovies and capers, and smothered the whole thing in ketchup. Then she proceeded to eat the whole thing with obvious delight.

"Ummm, that's good!" she enthused. "I like things raw. You get better meat when you order it that way. I like my steaks just barely cooked. Light a match under it. I tell the chef. Think of all the vitamins you lose in cooking!"
"Well, it's something to think about. So is Kathleen, who is a walking testimonial for eating raw food. She has given a new lift to cheeseecake, and I don't mean the kind you make with creamed cheese.

Turkey Clamps Lid On Opposition Party

ISTANBUL, TURKEY —(AP)— Turkey's prosecutor general Wednesday night ordered nationwide closure of offices of the minor opposition Millet (Nation) party, pending an investigation of charges it seeks to upset the reforms of the late Kamal Ataturk.

Istanbul authorities immediately moved to seize the party's offices here.
The five-year-old party has been in a state of crisis since several of its founders and other leaders resigned last week. They charged control of the party had been seized by reactionary elements seeking to undo the modernization program launched by Ataturk, the architect of modern Turkey and the republic's first President.

Los Angeles —(AP)— A premature baby boy weighing one and one-half pounds struggled for life Thursday.
The mite, born Wednesday to Mrs. Edward Ogden, 24, of Van Nuys, was 11 weeks ahead of schedule. He was placed in an oxygen tank at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Parents Of Lost Tot Spend Last 19 Nights Sleeplessly

By GRAHAM BERRY

COMPTON, CALIF. —(AP)— How would you feel if your little girl or boy suddenly vanished completely from your life?

Here is the reaction of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Nolan, foster parents of eight-year-old Stella Darlene, who disappeared 19 days ago Thursday without leaving a trace.

The blue-eyed, blonde youngster was last seen at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 20, playing with other children near a refreshment stand operated by Mrs. Nolan at Auction City, a shopping center in nearby Norwalk.

"Somebody must have seen her being taken," said Mrs. Nolan, 40, as she and her husband, 45, sat in their trailer home talking with friends. "I think somebody is holding back information."

Outside, Darlene's fat little dog Pal panted in the heat and gazed inquiringly at passing children. Her cat Mittens lay in the shade under her child's chair in front of the trailer.

Mrs. Nolan and her husband, a truck driver who recently retired as a chief aviation machinist's mate after 21 years in the Navy, are attempting to resume some sort of pattern in their lives. It's difficult to sleep.

"I'll never give up hope as long as there's breath in my body," said Mrs. Nolan. "But it's getting harder to feel that she's safe and alive."

Skeleton in Desert
Looking toward her husband, she added, "But he believes that she's alive." He nodded thoughtfully. "The police told us we must prepare ourselves to face anything," declared Mrs. Nolan, a tall woman with intense brown eyes. She recalled the case of six-year-old Rochelle Ghaskote, whose skeleton was found on the desert 18 months after she disappeared in 1944.

"I hope Darlene was taken by some woman with a mother's complex who has not harmed her and that she will be seen somewhere and saved."

Mother in Texas
"I do know in my heart and soul that she was taken by force. She never would have left by herself."

The Nolans have had the girl since she was five days old. The natural mother, Mrs. Betty Jean Stalcup Eckols, now living in Breckenridge, Texas, gave the child to the Nolans for adoption.

"If only whoever's got her would turn her loose near a policeman," Nolan said. "He wouldn't have to show himself. She'll go to the officer."

Mrs. Nolan took a deep breath. "Whoever took her, God help him!"

Truman Economist Takes Gloomy View Of Fiscal Prospect

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— An outstanding economist says the United States today has "all the makings of a depression."

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse for a time chairman of former President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers and former vice president of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C., told a teachers' conference Wednesday:

"We have passed from the time when adjustment to a free market basis would have been relatively easy to one when it will be extremely difficult. The problem we are wrestling with now is whether we will act with enough intelligence and have technical knowledge to prevent any breakdown in the flow of goods and services."

Dr. Nourse, observing that the Administration says that we have the means and will to prevent a depression, declared:

"The burden of proof lies with the Administration. The turn from demand to lack of demand is very sharp."

Author Defies McCarthy Panel

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Harvey O'Connor, an author who defied an unofficial summons to testify before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, was ordered served Thursday with another.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), the subcommittee chairman, said he plans to question O'Connor Tuesday about some of his books which have been used in U. S. Information Service libraries overseas.

O'Connor, at his home in Little Compton, R. I., said he does not "recognize the validity or constitutionality" of the investigation, and declared he refuses to "cooperate in book burning."

Called to California
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peden and children left Tuesday for Piedmont, Calif., upon receipt of a message that his mother, Mrs. A. C. Peden, is seriously ill.

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED

SEOUL —(AP)— Associated Press Correspondent Robert Gibson, stationed at a forward command post, was dictating a story on a field telephone to his office in Seoul Wednesday night.

"Just a minute," he said. There was a short pause with some rattling and banging in the distance.

Then he was back on the phone again. "That was some incoming Red artillery," he explained.

"Better knock it off and call back," he was told.

"Oh, it's all right now," Gibson said. "I'm under the table."

VACATION TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. Darrell D. Barton and children left Wednesday for a vacation at Red River, N. M. They were joined in Lubbock by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goss for the trip.

'Window' May Help In Heart Surgery

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Georgetown University surgeons announced Thursday they are trying to perfect "windows" through which they can watch the human heart as they perform delicate operations within it.

They said the technique is "still a long way from human application" but has been used on experimental animals.

The "window" was described as a transparent plastic tube with a needle and thread arrangement at the forward end. Pitted into an incision made in the heart, the tube pushes aside blood and allows clear vision for the operating surgeon.

Mass Inoculation Against Polio Ends

LENOIR, N. C. —(AP)— The mass antipolio inoculation in Caldwell County, N. C., was all but over Thursday. More than 12,800 children have been given gamma globulin shots that may protect them from infantile paralysis.

Meanwhile, six new polio cases were reported in the county, making a total of 97 for the year.

One of the four clinics still has enough serum for about 60 shots. It will be given to older children.

Iran-Russian Pact Rumored In Offing

TEHRAN, IRAN —(AP)— Tehran newspapers speculated Thursday that a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union may be in the offing.

They based their speculation on reports that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and the Kremlin are preparing to negotiate Iran's long-standing border and financial claims against her big Communist neighbor.

The newspaper Etefaat, Iran's largest, said a Soviet mission may come to Tehran for negotiations and that American officials are watching developments with anxiety.

The reports coincided with a disclosure by Iranian sources that President Eisenhower has written Mossadegh he can expect no large-scale American aid from the U. S.

until the Premier settles his oil dispute with Britain.

Eisenhower also was reported as telling the aged Premier the U. S. is disturbed by the freedom allowed Communist activity in Iran, presumably a reference to the infiltration of members of the Red Tudeh Party into key government departments.

It was understood that Eisenhower's letter referred only to new economic aid. Apparently the present U. S. military assistance and Point Four technical assistance program will continue. In recent years, Iran has received a 25 million dollar Export-Import Bank loan for economic development, 47 million dollars in Point Four aid and undisclosed amounts of military equipment, along with the services of a small U. S. military mission helping to train the Army and police.

In Washington, the White House would neither confirm nor deny that such a message had been sent to Mossadegh but said only there would be no comment "at this time."

Etefaat and other newspapers reported that Iran's ambassador to Moscow has told Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that Mossadegh is ready to negotiate her claims against Russia. This followed earlier reports that Russia had offered to open negotiations.

TRUMAN AND FRIEND—Former President Harry S. Truman chats with Kathy McKinney, two-year-old daughter of the former chairman of the Democratic National Committee at her home in Indianapolis. Truman, enroute from the East to his home in Independence, Mo., met with newsmen at McKinney's home, and in answer to question as to why Democrats lost the election, said voters "were prosperous, fat and easy-going, and they let demagoguery get the best of them."

Arkansas Files Court Suit Challenging Tideland Law

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Arkansas has brought suit in Federal Court here challenging the power of Congress to give the coastal states title to submerged offshore lands and their mineral riches.

The Submerged Lands Act, signed into law by President Eisenhower May 22, was attacked as "unconstitutional, null and void . . . in that it is an unwarranted and invalid attempt to abdicate the sovereignty of the United States to a few of the states."

The suit, filed late Wednesday by Arkansas Attorney General Tom Gentry, is the first to question legality of the law.

The government has 60 days to file a response.

The Arkansas petition said the Submerged Lands Act violated "the trust under which all lands beneath the marginal sea . . . are held by the United States for the benefit of all the states, the people thereof and of the nation."

The people and the State of Arkansas were described as "beneficial owners," in common with the other states and their people, of the submerged coastal lands, as well as resources from the lands and any money derived from them.

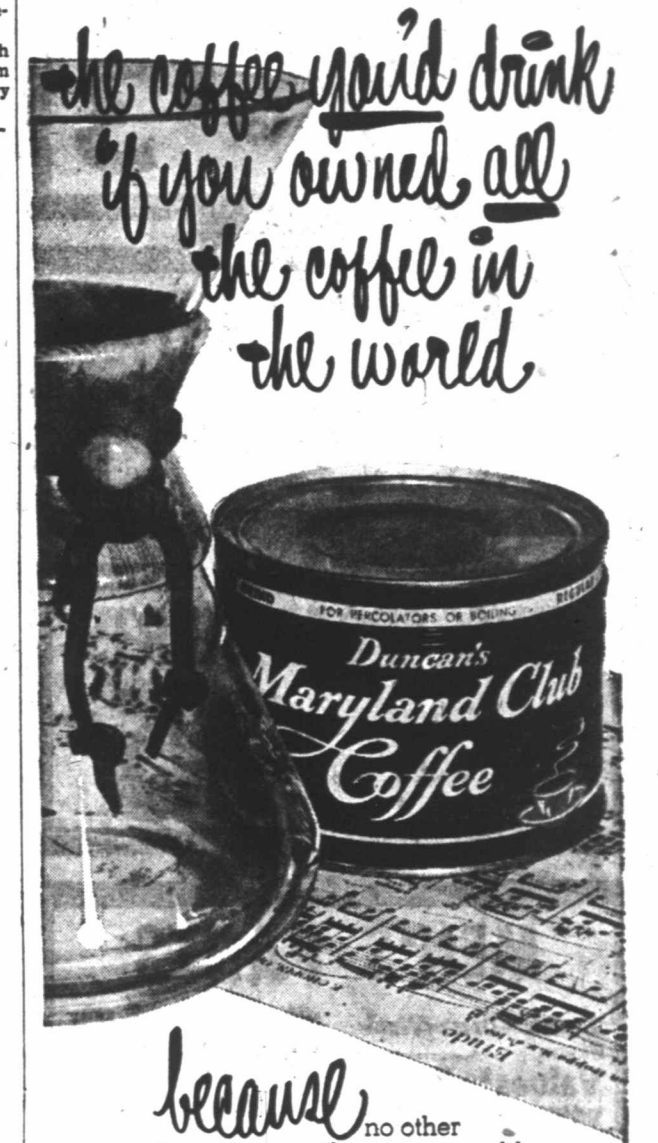

Japanese Officials Ban Second Meeting Of Prince, Blonde

ROME —(AP)— Japanese Embassy officials have nixed a second meeting between an attractive blonde portrait painter and 19-year-old Crown Prince Akihito of Japan. They said another get-together might start tongues wagging.

The painter, Maria Matteini, 25, was supposed to deliver a portrait of Akihito to the prince Wednesday but instead had to give it to a member of his retinue. She had persuaded the prince to pose briefly Sunday after brushing past guards at his hotel suite.

She said embassy staff members explained "there might be scandal" if she delivered the picture personally to the prince. "You understand what people are liable to think of an attractive blonde like you and our young prince if you are seen together," she quoted an official as saying.

The member of the prince's party who accepted the portrait said later that Akihito liked it "very much" and said the prince, who is on a tour of Italy, had sent Maria a letter of thanks and a present.

Reclamation Bureau Draws Master Plan For Texas' Unharnessed Water Supply

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The unharnessed water resources of Texas, enough to irrigate a million more acres, give the state "an unparalleled economic opportunity," a report released Thursday by Senator Lyndon Johnson said.

The report, prepared by the Reclamation Bureau's area planning office in Austin, warns that present irrigated land in Texas is imperiled by unreliable resources. It says farm income will drop unless new irrigation water supplies are developed.

Citing the lack of definite water policy in the state, the survey suggests the creation of either a "Gulf Coast Master Authority" composed of representatives of river authorities or a "state water planning board" that would coordinate river authority plans and prepare state-wide or regional plans.

The 96-page report was prepared at Johnson's request. He made the request shortly after he came to the Senate in 1949. "The present disastrous drought in Texas points up the absolute necessity for a realistic long-range program of water conservation and use in the state," Johnson said.

Magnitude Of Demands
The report states present and past development on Texas Gulf basin streams are primarily for flood control and power.

"Provision for water supplies in connection with such effort has not received adequate or effective consideration," the report comments. "They have not been conceived with an awareness of regional needs, particularly as related to potential irrigation development, or of the magnitude of water demands and "each will require large, new regulated water supplies."

It gave these examples of anticipated gains in production on the Gulf coast:

Synthetic rubber (peacetime): From the 184,000 tons in 1948 to 480,000 tons in 1975 and 670,000 tons in 2000.

Oil refining: From 812 million barrels in 1948 to 810 million barrels in 1975 and 900 million barrels in 2000.

Synthetic ammonia: Increase to 190,000 tons in 1975 and 280,000 tons in 2000.

Sulphuric acid: From 1,594 million pounds in 1948 to 2,400 million pounds in 1975 and 2,650 million pounds by 2000.

It said similar major increases are expected in cement, food processing, paper and pulp, magnesium and aluminum.

'Depleting' Resources
"Total present water usage, including withdrawal of ground water, represents only about 18 per cent of the 83 million acre-feet of average annual discharge by streams that border or originate in the state."

The report says Texas now irrigates more than 3,700,000 acres, but warns that 65 per cent of this is dependent upon "depleting" ground-water resources "and to a large extent cannot be considered a permanent part of the future agricultural need of the state."

"New irrigation based on reliable surface water supplies will have to be brought into production if present rates of Texas agricultural income are to be maintained," the survey declares.

Section By Section
The report offers these proposals for various sections of Texas:

High plains area: The Canadian River project, which the report notes has been authorized by Congress for construction with federal funds, cost $4 billion dollars. The 11-city project involves totaling the expected city and industrial water requirements of the cities and designing common water storage distribution works.

The report says the government will get back about 95 per cent of total construction costs with interest. Local interests will assume operation and maintenance charges.

Transport To West
Red bed region: Solution again lies in the multi-city approach because of "widely scattered occurrence of reliable water sources of acceptable quality." The report says resources ample for estimated needs but that it is not expected that any of the projects would be large enough to require federal funds.

Gulf Coast Area: An integrated system of reservoirs and distribution facilities. The report calls its Gulf plain one of "great magnitude, with total capital cost in excess of a billion dollars."

The report says much of the area's water is concentrated in the eastern section and would have to be transported to the western part to meet overall requirements.

No Specific Figures
The diversion is called "a relatively simple task."

The report says that under its plans ultimately about 12 million acre-feet of reservoir space would be provided on Gulf coast streams, primarily for providing reliable water supplies.

The report calls its proposals "very general in nature" and tabs the cost estimates as "rough approximations."

It proposes no dam sites, saying that final selection of these would be up to federal-state determinations.

Army Barges Unload Stricken Freighter
PUSAN, KOREA—U. S. Army barges from Pusan Thursday began unloading 1,000 tons of cargo from the 14,000-ton American freighter Cornhusker Mariner, on the rocks in outer Pusan harbor.

When the vessel is unloaded she may be pulled free and salvaged. The 564-foot freighter, which went aground in a storm Tuesday, was not considered in danger of sinking.

"New irrigation based on reliable surface water supplies will have to be brought into production if present rates of Texas agricultural income are to be maintained," the survey declares.

Section By Section
The report offers these proposals for various sections of Texas:

High plains area: The Canadian River project, which the report notes has been authorized by Congress for construction with federal funds, cost $4 billion dollars. The 11-city project involves totaling the expected city and industrial water requirements of the cities and designing common water storage distribution works.

The report says the government will get back about 95 per cent of total construction costs with interest. Local interests will assume operation and maintenance charges.

Transport To West
Red bed region: Solution again lies in the multi-city approach because of "widely scattered occurrence of reliable water sources of acceptable quality." The report says resources ample for estimated needs but that it is not expected that any of the projects would be large enough to require federal funds.

Gulf Coast Area: An integrated system of reservoirs and distribution facilities. The report calls its Gulf plain one of "great magnitude, with total capital cost in excess of a billion dollars."

The report says much of the area's water is concentrated in the eastern section and would have to be transported to the western part to meet overall requirements.

No Specific Figures
The diversion is called "a relatively simple task."

The report says that under its plans ultimately about 12 million acre-feet of reservoir space would be provided on Gulf coast streams, primarily for providing reliable water supplies.

The report calls its proposals "very general in nature" and tabs the cost estimates as "rough approximations."

It proposes no dam sites, saying that final selection of these would be up to federal-state determinations.

War Bride Given Light Prison Term In 'Kiss Of Death'

OAKLAND, CALIF.—(AP)—A stolid, 32-year-old German war bride has been sentenced to five years to life for the "kiss of death" murder of her husband, William Pelton, was found shot to death in his car on a lonely road near Niles, Calif., last February 1. On his forehead was the lipstick imprint of a woman's kiss.

Mrs. Hildegard Garni Pelton was nabbed by the FBI in New York City a month later after a widespread search. She confessed she shot her husband because he was cruel to her and then kissed him because she still loved him.

She was found guilty of second degree murder and will become eligible for parole in two and one-half years.

Profits Tax Bill Due Early Verdict; Amendments Barred

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Administration forces, after leaping a House Ways and Means Committee hurdle, prepared a fast track through Congress Thursday for President Eisenhower's proposal to extend the excess profits tax.

Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana predicted the House would pass the bill Friday, with an overwhelming vote from both Republicans and Democrats.

Senate GOP leaders have said they plan quick action and expect little difficulty over the six-month extension through December 31. The tax expired June 30, but can be renewed without loss of revenue.

The tax-writing Ways and Means Committee voted 16-9 Wednesday to recommend passage of the bill to the House. It was a clear-cut, if delayed, triumph for the Administration on one of the few major issues it has forced.

The committee smacked down repeated efforts by its own chairman, 78-year-old Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY), to sidetrack delay or defeat the Administration proposal.

It was a harsh reversal for Reed, who only a few weeks ago apparently had almost all the 15 committee Republicans and many of the 10 Democrats on his side.

Big Break Comes
As Reed and his supporters kept the extension bill bottled up for weeks, its passage seemed almost hopeless to some GOP leaders and there was speculation the Administration was headed for a major defeat.

The big break came last week when Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa) and other key committee Republicans, who previously had opposed the tax, lined up with the Administration.

They wanted to avoid a bitterly contested procedure under which the Administration attempted to bypass the Ways and Means Committee.

No-Amendment Rule
On the showdown, committee Republicans voted 9-6 for the bill and Democrats lined up 7-3.

House leaders planned to push the profits tax bill to the floor under procedure which would bar amendments, including income tax cuts.

The bill approved by the committee is a straight six-month extension, with no changes, offered by Representative (R-NJ). The tax, over and above normal corporation taxes, takes 30 per cent of corporation profits defined by law as abnormally large.

Minister Assails Youth Center Plan
WAXAHACHIE—(AP)—A Baptist minister assailed this city's growing youth center because he claims it is financed by gambling and tolerates mixed swimming and dancing.

Leaders of the Optimist Club, which sponsors the youth center, contend the establishment serves a worthwhile purpose as a place of recreation for teenagers.

The Rev. Herman Rice, pastor of the Ferris Avenue Baptist Church, said Wednesday his congregation strictly opposes an annual street carnival at which funds are raised for the youth center.

Rice also complained that girls and boys use the youth center swimming pool at the same time.

Chicago Cartoonist To Appeal Federal Deportation Order
CHICAGO—(AP)—A deportation order was issued Wednesday against Jacob Burck, Pulitzer Prize-winning editorial cartoonist for the Chicago Sun-Times, on grounds he was a member of the Communist party when he last entered the United States in 1938.

An appeal from the order by Jerome T. McGowan, immigration department hearing officer, is being planned by Burck's attorney, William H. King, Jr. Burck has 10 days in which to appeal the order to the immigration service's Board of Appeals in Washington.

Burck, whose syndicated cartoons appear in some 35 daily newspapers, denied he ever was a member of the Communist party.

He testified at hearings of his case that on his trip to Russia in 1938 in an attempt to sell the Russian government a set of murals he carried a party card to aid his selling efforts.

The government charged he was a Communist before and at the time of his last entry into the United States. The government also charged Burck had belonged to Communist organizations and had been seen at their meetings.

Eskimos Migrate To Escape Noise, Odors From Air Base

COPENHAGEN—(AP)—One of the northernmost towns in the world, Thule on the west coast of Greenland, only 800 miles from the North Pole, is being moved still farther north this summer.

The native population of Eskimos—about 100 men, women and children—saw their existence threatened by the great U. S. air base a few miles from Thule. They said the noise and smell from planes and ships scared away walrus, seals, polar bears and birds.

A suitable place, called Kanak, was found some 80 miles farther north, on the coast of Ingfield Inlet, where the Eskimos had often stayed during year-long hunting trips.

Before 1891 the Eskimos in Thule had little contact with the world. In that year the American explorer Robert E. Peary began his attacks on the North Pole. In the following 18 years he wintered among the Eskimos several times. The Eskimos taught him their way of traveling, and in turn he taught them the use of modern firearms.

Established in 1910
When he left them for good after succeeding finally in reaching the pole in 1909, the Eskimos had rifles but no way of obtaining the necessary ammunition. To meet their demands, the Danish arctic explorer Knud Rasmussen in 1910 established a trading station in Thule. After his death in 1932, the Danish government took over the station.

Guns have replaced harpoons, and kerosene stoves the blubber lamp, but in all other aspects of life, the Eskimos have stuck to the old way of living. In the few months when the sea is ice-free each year, they hunt walrus and seals from their kayaks. During the rest of the year, when the floods are icebound, they travel for weeks or months with dog sledges, hunting bears. They often cross the Smith Sound on short visits to the Canadian coast.

In the winter their food is meat and blubber from sea animals, and in the summer they catch thousands of seabirds and shoot reindeer.

Hides of polar bears, seals, foxes and reindeer give the Eskimo and his family clothes.

Wildlife Driven Away
The Eskimo earns his money by selling fur skins to the government. What he doesn't save, he spends in the shop on cartridges, kerosene, sugar or coffee. Liquor is unknown.

When the U. S. Air Force began construction of Thule air base, some Eskimos feared it would mean the ruin of the native in the nearby Eskimo village. The area was "off limits" to the Americans, though, and no contact with the Eskimos was allowed.

After two years of good neighborhood, however, it was evident, that the base, with its continuous roar of planes and exhaust from engines, was driving all wildlife away.

In June, the Eskimos in Thule loaded their sledges, put their wives and children on the top and signaled the dogs to start.

A whole town was on its way. Special care was taken care of an old man called Ovak, who does not know how old he is, but who followed Peary to the North Pole in 1909.

Man Who Loaded Rifle For Wife's Suicide Released
LONG BEACH, CALIF.—(AP)—A man who police say loaded a gun to help his wife commit suicide has been freed. It's not against the law to kill yourself in California, the district attorney's office holds—or to aid a suicide, either.

Deputy District Attorney Ted C. Sten released Oswald Christiansen, 38-year-old painter, observing: "How can a person be guilty of a felony as the result of aiding and abetting a deed which is not contrary to law?"

Christiansen had been arrested after the funeral of his wife Arta, 38. Police said she had brought him a rifle on July 4 and asked him to load it so she could kill herself. Christiansen did and she fired the weapon, officers said.

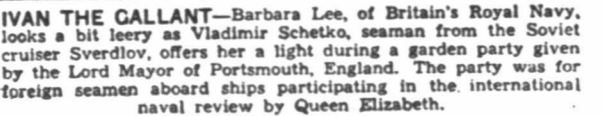

There was no witness to the act. Sten said a state law which made it a felony to abet a suicide had been declared unconstitutional.

Creature From Outer Space Proves Barbers Outa Order

ATLANTA—(AP)—Men of science have decided that a visit from an alleged unearthly creature was a lot of monkey business. The "men from outer space" that two Atlanta barbers and their butcher friend thought they discovered "definitely is a male monkey," ruled Dr. Herman Jones, who heads Georgia's crime laboratory. "It is not from outer space," declared Jones Wednesday after performing an autopsy. Dr. Jones said someone cut off the monkey's tail after the animal died. The creature was hairless, he reported, because of a liberal application of hair remover. The barbers, 28-year-old Edward Waters and Thomas Wilson, 20,

New York Sector Plans Largest GG Program In History

ELMIRA, N. Y.—(AP)— Authorities curtailed youth recreation programs here Thursday as preparations continued for history's greatest anti-polio mass immunization. City swimming pools were closed in Elmira, largest city in the two-county area where a polio outbreak has reached the epidemic stage. The villages of Campbell and Bath suspended Summer recreation programs indefinitely. Chemung and Steuben Counties were declared an emergency area after 51 polio cases and three deaths were reported this year. About 35,000 children from five months to 10 years of age will be inoculated this weekend with gamma globulin at a score of emergency clinics set up in the epidemic zone. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which is helping in the program, said the previous record mass inoculation was 31,000 in Montgomery, Ala., earlier this year.

Truman Repudiates Senate Aspirations

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Harry S. Truman was back in his home state of Missouri Thursday after his first trip to the East since he left the White House last January. During the three-week vacation, the 69-year-old former President and Mrs. Truman visited both Washington and New York. They traveled by automobile, with Truman doing his own driving. Wednesday, during a stopover in Indianapolis, Truman told a news conference he never would be a candidate for office again. He made the statement when asked about reports he might become a candidate for the Senate. He said, however, he'd still be available for consultation and advice whenever Democratic leaders seek it.

Phillips Stands Pat On Plan To Cut Off Gas For Irrigation

DUMAS—(AP)—Phillips Petroleum Company still plans to cut off cheap gas to some irrigation wells in five Panhandle counties on September 1. The firm was reported to feel the practice might result in Phillips being classified as a public utility instead of a gas-producing and gathering firm. W. J. Morton, Jr., chairman of a committee of farmers and ranchers, said the company repeated its May decision to cut off gas to the farmers. The landowners say they will take their troubles to a meeting of governors of five drought states Friday in Amarillo. The company has been letting lease-holding landowners "tie in" irrigation well pumps to natural gas lines. It gives the landowners cheap power for water wells.

Escaped German POW Gets New Chance For U. S. Entry

CHICAGO —(AP)—Reinhold Pabel, 38, an escaped German war prisoner who was arrested last March after eight years of freedom, will not be deported but will be allowed to leave the United States voluntarily. A ruling by the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service Wednesday paved the way for Pabel's legal reentry as the husband of an American. He plans to go to Mexico while his wife Avis, 21, starts legal moves to have him return to this country. Immigration service officials said since Pabel will leave the country voluntarily he probably will be allowed to return under a nonquota visa. Pabel, who since 1948 has operated a bookstore, married a Chicago girl two years ago but he said she did not know he was an escaped prisoner until FBI agents seized him last March. They have one son, Christopher, one, and are expecting another child.

New Order Puts Books Issue Right Back Where It Started

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Official word Thursday to U. S. overseas libraries that some books by Communist authors can be used just about completes the circle of State Department positions in the book purge controversy. The new policy statement, approved by Secretary of State Dulles, was made public Wednesday night by Dr. Robert L. Johnson, retiring head of the International Information Administration (IIA), the State Department agency which operates the 189 libraries in 63 countries. The statement puts State Department policy back to about where it was last February, when Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) began denouncing the libraries' use of books by Communists or pro-Communists. Ike's Advice Followed Its release came a few hours after President Eisenhower told his news conference the State Department and the information agency were taking a new look at the whole matter. Its net effect seemed to bring their policies closer to Eisenhower's "Don't join the book burners" advice to Dartmouth College's graduating class last month. There was no immediate comment from McCarthy, who has contended which brought these libraries into being," he said. 2. "Controversial" books are of course acceptable and indeed essential, if by "controversial" we mean honest differences of opinion honestly expressed. It goes without saying that we must not confuse honest controversy with conspiracy. 3. Under no circumstances will any book be burned because, he said, "the burning of a book is a wicked symbolic act" and "we don't deal with ideas we dislike by imitating the totalitarian techniques we despise." Johnson made plain he was referring mostly to the approximately 2,000,000 books already on the shelves of the overseas libraries. He said new purchases would be made only of books deemed useful to the libraries' specific purpose of creating better understanding of American life. He said, "The confusion and the mistakes have hurt us abroad as they have hurt us at home." But he said there was a real gain for the U. S. because the controversy showed Americans are not afraid to make mistakes in the open.

Suspect Charged With Mail Threats To Enter Hospital

NEW YORK—(AP)—The government has withdrawn complaints against Albert J. Drewny, 40, accused of threatening the life of President Eisenhower, because of the man's mental condition. U. S. Commissioner Edward V. McDonald, Wednesday granted a dismissal motion offered by Assistant U. S. Attorney Martin Klein, who referred to a federal hospital medical report and said Drewny will be committed to a state institution. Drewny was arrested last month in New Rochelle, N. Y., after a nation-wide federal hunt. He allegedly mailed threatening letters to the President and to the postmaster at Harrisburg, Pa.

Soviet Chess Team Threatens Walkout On U. S. Matches

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Soviet government has threatened to cancel a scheduled New York appearance of the champion Russian chess team unless the U. S. permits the players to rest on Long Island. Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told U. S. Charge d'Affairs Elim O'Shaughnessy Wednesday night the 12-man team would not be sent if its members are barred from visiting the Glen Cove, N. Y., estate of the Soviet United Nations delegation. The U. S. Vishinsky said, has granted the players visas on condition they not leave the New York City limits, which end 12 miles from Glen Cove. The matches between American and Soviet champions are scheduled to begin next Wednesday. The Russian team—invited by the American Chess Federation—left here for New York earlier this week and its present whereabouts are unknown.

National Weather Pattern Unchanged

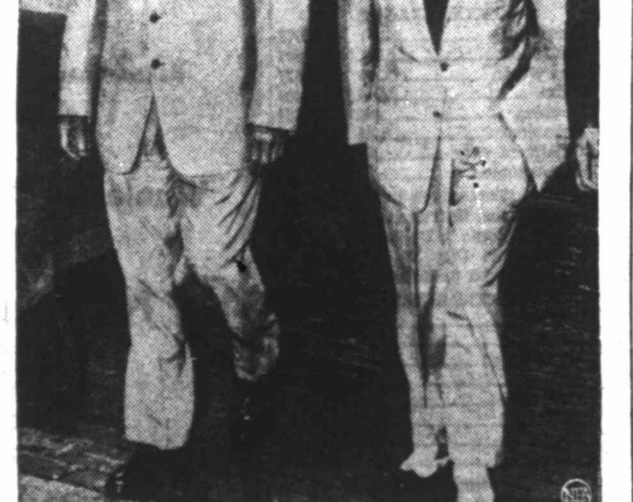

By The Associated Press The nation's weather showed little change Thursday—warm and humid over most of the South, cool in the mid-continent and around normal in other areas. There were several areas hit by showers, including the Central Plains, Southern Plateau region, Northern Great Lakes and along the North Atlantic Seaboard. Sand storms were reported in sections of the Texas Panhandle. Temperatures continued above normal over most of the Western Pattern region but were a little lower than in the last several days.

Col. Bill Barnes and Brig. Gen. J. Stanley Holtner, Edwards, Air Force Base commander, are at the speed course of the El Centro Naval Air Station. SPORTS PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

Blond, young Kenny Jones, who ranks with the most popular of past Midland ballplayers, apparently is taking part in his final year of pro baseball.

The one-time Indian, perhaps not the best backstop who performed here but definitely one with no enemies, has lost his throwing ability because of an injury and the way his current owners, the Temple Eagles, use him indicates he's making a last stand.

Catcher Gordon Tanner, on returning here from Temple, reports that the freckled Jones is given starting duty behind the bat where he lasts for about half a game. If the score remains close, he's next moved into the outfield, for opponents open up with their base-stealing tactics with him catching. And Jones' arm can not cope.

Thereafter, the Eagles shove Jones into the outfield to wind up the game.

It's a hope against hope that Kenny can sooner or later overcome his arm ailment; so far about six months of medical treatment have meant nothing.

Colt Regulars Keep Fit, Get Hits

The champions of San Angelo's Longhorn League cause attribute the Colts' success primarily to pitching but it's a three-point program that's put Rudy Briner's nine in first place.

Beside their hurling, the Colts play championship ball because of luck with their lineup and kindly batting. Luck? Well, Briner points out, while knocking on wood, that except for Andy Morales' slight leg injury recently there's been nothing physically wrong with the San Angelo team this season. Everybody has been in top shape all along, with the minimum of shifting about required.

The one big move, caused when

Second Baseman Morales was struck on the leg by a batting practice ball, sent John Tavoan from third base to second and enabled the Colts to prove that another player on the bench, rookie Dick Stone, was a worthy starter.

Tavoan's transfer across the infield was one of two good shifts by Briner, since he performed here in the recent series as well as any second baseman has this season, including Morales and Roswell's Ozzie Alvarez. Briner had put John Malgarini, an infielder, in center field at the start of the season. Nobody says that the squat speedster is a misfit.

Five Angeloans Bat Over .300

One needs only to consult the records to realize the Colts' Gil Guerra, Ben Bonine, Mario Saldana and Bobby Gregg make up the best pitching foursome in the league, but Briner himself joins San Angelo fans as guilty of overlooking the club's batting. They've been pointing out that the team's six-run average, low for this year's race, merely means the pitchers have needed to play it close.

It might be pointed out, though, that the Colts catch every opponent's best pitchers, resulting in a low run total and a sixth-place batting average of .286. The potency of the Colts at the plate sparkles through when you note that five regulars own plus-.300 averages, Malgarini, .368; Glen Burns, .344; Steve Follett, .336; John Jeandron, .321; and Tavoan, .314. Not bad, huh? against the Eppersons, Bacardies, Ruyles, Carsons and Blairs!

The Indians, who have lost 10 times by being overtaken in the late innings, got even on that score when they beat San Angelo Tuesday with a four-run seventh inning...

Rainey To Try Bronc Invaders After Tribe Cops Opener, 11-10

By ABE WEINER

Reporter-Telegram Sports Staff Mike Rainey owns two victories as a Midland Indian and both came over the Big Spring Broncs, whom he will face for the third time in six days Thursday as the Tribe goes after its second triumph in the three-game series.

It took some hefty hitting to make up for lackluster fielding and pitching for the Indians to turn back the Broncs, 11-10, in the series opener Wednesday night.

Ralph Blair, who started for the Indians, simply didn't have his control with him and was banded out in less than two innings. George Cockrell followed and was treated similarly by the Broncs, so Romario Soto came on to finish.

The Broncs laced Soto for four hits and four runs in the sixth, but otherwise he handled himself ably, even though he gave up 10 hits in his six and two-thirds inning stint.

While the Midland pitchers were taking their turns, Big Spring hurlers were having even a worse torment from the Indian batters. Tex Stephenson, in particular, enjoyed the two and a half hour affair, for during its duration, he collected three singles, a double and a home run for a perfect five-for-five night.

Scouter Hughes and Glenn Selbo each walked three hits with Hughes' home run in the eighth inning the blow that clinched the victory for the Tribe.

Glenn Grooms started for the Broncs, but he lasted only until the third when Jaime Fals took over. Fals went the rest of the way except for one out in the eighth, a strike out of Soto by Andy Alonso.

Midland started the scoring in the first. Stephenson and Roger Dalla Betta singled and Selbo walked. Julio de la Torre topped a Grooms pitch, and Stephenson was out at the plate, but all other hands were safe. Lou Dawson grounded out with Dalla Betta scoring.

Blair walked Joe Riney and Joe Niedson to open the second, and both scored on Armando Gallart's double. After Carl Harris popped out, Curt Borrett walked, and Gallart scored when Dawson dropped Blair's attempted pickoff of Borrett. Cockrell then relieved Blair and retired the side with no further damage.

The Indians got one of the markers back in their half as Stephenson singled and moved up as Dalla Betta was hit by Grooms. Selbo then singled Stephenson home, and De la Torre popped out ending the inning and his stay in the game.

Julio, who had hit in 26 straight games, hit a blooper into right that many thought was fair. The umpires, however, ruled it foul, and after hitting the fly, De la Torre tossed his bat at the stands. He was then ejected.

Four hits in the third chased Cockrell. George Murphy singled and Niedson doubled his home. Gallart singled Niedson across and moved around as Dalla Betta kicked Harris' grounder.

Singles by Dawson, Mickey Diaz and Hughes' double made up for two of them and Gordon Tanner's single plated Hughes.

Midland took the lead at 7-6 in the fifth on Hughes' walk and Stephenson's home run, but four hits and an error gave Big Spring a 10-7 advantage in the sixth.

EAST NABS 5-4 VICTORY IN GCL ALL-STAR GAME

By The Associated Press
The power versus speed battle didn't materialize in the Gulf Coast League's fourth annual all-star game Wednesday night but the favored East team won nevertheless, by a slim 5-4 margin.
A three-run seventh inning coming off four hits brought off the victory for the Eastern club.
Mike Conovan, Galveston, second hurler for the West hit a homer. The blow came in the eighth inning with nobody on base and ended the scoring for the night—one run shy for the West.

Stengel May Add Second AL Southpaw

NEW YORK — (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel, under fire for failing to select more than one left-hander among his six pitchers for the All-Star Game next Tuesday, may name another southpaw to the staff within the next 48 hours.
Stengel refused to confirm this Thursday but he admitted he had four pitchers in mind should any of the six be named "come up with a sore arm or something."

The four pitchers Stengel said he had "under consideration" were Boston's Mel Parnell, Detroit's Ted Gray, New York's Ed Lopat and Washington's Bob Porterfield. All, with the exception of Porterfield, are left-handers.

"I want to make it plain," the old New York Yankee skipper said, "that I intend to carry only six pitchers. That's more than enough for any single game."

"However, I may make a change. It all depends upon the condition of the pitchers I have. I understand one of them is not in the best physical shape to pitch. If that's the case, all his manager has to do is to tell me his guy is not ready and I'll replace him with another guy."

Stengel kept the name of the "doubtful" pitcher a secret but it was rumored that he might be Satchel Paige, the St. Louis Browns' venerable relief ace. The other All-Star pitchers are right-handers Al Reynolds and Johnny Sain of the Yankees, Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia of the Indians and southpaw Billy Pierce of the White Sox.

The report also persisted that Parnell, who has won 11 games while losing only four, will be the replacement. The Red Sox ace expressed surprise at the suggestion that he was being considered.
"This would be a fine time to pick a guy," Parnell said sarcastically. "Why doesn't he wait until five minutes before game time? I've already made plans. I'm going fishing those three days."

BASEBALL'S REWARD—Seventy-five officials and players from the Little and Pony Leagues of Rankin took a stretch for Midland while attending Indians-Big Spring game Wednesday night. The group, playing their first year of junior ball at Rankin, were special guests of the Midland club and the Chamber of Commerce here.

Rankin Ball Clubs Attend Pro Game

Rankin joined the Longhorn League Wednesday night and had more fun than all the regular league teams put together.

That is, Rankin's four teams of Little Leaguers and two of Pony Leaguers joined the Longhorn League for a game, that of Big Spring vs. Midland at Indian Park Wednesday night. And if pop corn, soda pop and snow cones, along with most of the boys seeing a first professional game, make for fun, the 60 players who visited here reached the ultimate in enjoyment.
Little League Chairman W. C. McDonald of Rankin presided over the players and 15 league officials while they were guests of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and the Midland Indians for Wednesday's game.

They had accepted an invitation by the Indians and Delbert Downing, chamber official, to attend and the Rankin school contributed two school buses for the players to use on the 55-mile trip.

Bell Sparks JayCee Win

Jasper Bell had the perfect kind of support when he hung up near-shutout victory in the Pony League Wednesday.

Bell allowed only four-hits as the JayCeers clubbed eight hits to go along with six errors in beating the Optimists, 22-1.
The JayCee hurler lost his shutout as Elton Howard ledoff the Optimist seventh with a single and was tripled home by Joe Clemons. Bell thereafter fanned three batters to escape any more scores.

Johnny Redfern collected three hits and Dogan Carruthers a homer among two hits to pace the winners. JayCees — 188 007 3-22 6 1 Optimists — 000 000 1-1 4 6 Bell and Smith; Kiser, Clemons (2), Jobe (5) and Briscoe.

NCAA To Hold Off Action On Irish's Theater-Television

NEW YORK — (AP) — The NCAA adopted a wait-and-see attitude Thursday on the action of Notre Dame in signing a five-year contract for the theater-television of its home football schedule.

The Irish and the NCAA have been at odds for two years on football TV.
The move by Notre Dame is not in violation of the NCAA TV code, which says nothing about theater television.

WT-NM Attendance Shows Slight Drop

ABILENE — (AP) — West Texas-New Mexico League President Hal Sayles said Wednesday attendance for the first half of the season was down 7,802.

The decrease was explained by the fact that the eight clubs have played only 244 games this season in comparison to the 249 played during the first half of last season.
The attendance this year is 235,768. Last season at the mid-point it was 243,570.

Lubbock, the current league leader, is ahead at the gate with 41,899 paid admission for 30 games. Albuquerque is second with 35,575 for 29 games.

Only clubs showing an average increase over last year are Pampa and Plainview. Plainview is a first year club, replacing Lamesa.

Single-Run Margin Defeats Elks Again

The Elks allowed a last-inning run for the second straight day Wednesday in the West Little League with the same results—a one-run defeat.

Tuesday the Sports edged the Elks, 6-5, and earned Pitcher Topper Pylant a win with the final-frame tally. Wednesday the Sheriff's posse slipped over a late score to prevail, 9-8.

A foiled double-play try by the Elks allowed Albert Beavers on second base where he stole the next two bases for the posse's winning margin Wednesday.

Elks — 102 140-8 6 3 Posse — 341 001-9 6 1 David Rankin, Brasse and McCall; Beavers, Hallman and Savage.

Cards Close Gap On Braves; Irvin Clouts Grand Slammer

By BEN PHLEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
Eddie Stanky, who says he'd rather manage from the bench, is back on second base and his St. Louis Cardinals are flying high.

With their skipper on the field, the Cards have won three straight and Thursday they are just half a game behind the second-place Milwaukee Braves in the red-hot National League pennant chase.
Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell mowed down the Cincinnati Reds on only two hits Wednesday night to give the Cardinals a 7-3 victory that pushed them a full game closer to the faltering Braves, who were beaten by Chicago in another 7-3 contest.

It was a bad night for the home teams in the National League. In addition to the Reds and the Braves, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies also lost.
Monte Irvin hit a grand slam home run in the eleventh inning to give the Giants a 10-7 triumph in Philadelphia while at Philadelphia the Phillies dropped their fourth in a row, 8-4, to Brooklyn.

While the visitors celebrated in the senior circuit, it was home town night in the American League. All of the home clubs won, even the hapless St. Louis Browns, who had lost 20 in a row in their own park.
The Browns upset Cleveland, 6-3, and dumped the Tribe out of second place. Chicago replaced them by whipping Detroit, 14-4. The White Sox trail the league-leading New York Yankees by six games.
The Yankees defeated Boston, 4-2, and Washington survived a home run barrage by the Philadelphia Athletics to win, 7-4.

Stanky, one of three managers who lists himself as an active player, was forced into the St. Louis lineup Sunday when Red Schoendienst, the National League's leading hitter and No. 1 second baseman, was injured.

He's been performing well both at bat and in the field. It's a tough job even for the boss to fill in for a guy hitting .351 as Schoendienst was. But Stanky, whose chief batting distinction used to be his ability to draw walks, is hitting at a .364 clip in three games and his fielding has been perfect. He's handled 11 chances without a fault.

Heavy hitting by Rookie Rip Repulski also is helping to fill the gap. The young centerfielder homered with two on and drove in four runs Wednesday night to go with a pair of homers and five RBI's from the night before. Ray Jablonski, another rookie, had a perfect night with five for five.

The Cardinals and the Braves both lost their first-straight catchers in Wednesday night's action. Del Rice of the Cards and Del Crandall of the Braves both were injured.
The Braves disappointed another record crowd of 37,119 by bowing before a 13-hit Chicago attack which included home runs by Clyde McCullough and Bill Sereny.
The Giants scored early and late at Pittsburgh, getting four runs in the first inning, one in the second and five in the eleventh. Irvin drove in seven of the 10 runs.

The Dodgers rattled the fences of Connie Mack Stadium with two home runs and seven doubles with Carl Furillo in the starring role. He doubled twice, hit a home run and singled.

The Browns hadn't won a game in St. Louis since June 2, but they hopped on Art Houtteman and Bill Wright for six straight singles and a bases-loaded walk for five runs in the sixth inning and held on to the lead. Lou Kretlow won his first game of the season, with help from Marlin Stuart in the seventh.

Virgil Trucks, who swapped uniforms with Kretlow in an early June trade, won his fourth in a row for the White Sox. An eight-run upsurge in the third inning, capped by Sam Mele's grand slam home run, made it easy.

The Yankees got to young Bill Henry for three runs in the first two innings and Jim McDonald tamed the Red Sox on six hits for his fifth victory.

Washington came up with five runs in the seventh and eighth innings to turn back the Athletics, who got all of their runs on home runs.

Roughnecks Face San Angelo In Nightcap Of NBC Twin-Bill

SWEETWATER — Three last-minute withdrawals place the Midland Roughnecks in a stronger role as favorite here for the regional tournament of the National Baseball Congress when it gets underway Thursday night.

Manager Les Cobb's Roughnecks square off against the Bryan Electric team of San Angelo in the nightcap of Thursday night's doubleheader. Their bout begins at 8 p.m.

Thursday, remained after three service teams, Sheppard Air Force Base, Amarillo Air Force Base and Reese Air Force Base notified tournament officials of their withdrawals this week.

The Air Force clubs were considered big threats to Midland for the crown that entitles the winner to compete in the four-team state championships at Fort Worth July 18-19.

The tourney here is a double-elimination affair with the winner of the opener between Sweetwater Merchants and Bryan Air Force Base to face the winner of the Roughneck-Electrics game in Friday's nightcap. The losers will be paired for the first game Friday.

Cobb late Wednesday named a starting lineup for the Rough's first game but did not reveal his complete 16-man roster.

Right-hander Bruce (Gabby) Blumenthal, a former Longhorn League hurler, was scheduled to open on the mound.
The rest of the Rough starting nine, which won 28 and lost eight preceding the tourney, are Catcher Bob Moser, First Baseman Bernard Sello, Second Baseman Eddie Mellio, Shortstop Marion Treadaway, Third Baseman John Howard and Outfielders Carroll Nipp, Rob Hillin and Lefty Martin.
Midland's first foe, San Angelo, earned its way into the competition by winning the district NBO championship here last week.

Yank Error, Curtis Double Boost Eagles

Eddie Curtis doubled twice and scored one time as he teamed up with Pitcher James Brunson to pace the Eagles to a thrill-packed 2-1 win over the Yanks in a South Little League game Wednesday.

Brunson, who pitched a two-hitter, saw an error against the Yanks provide the eventual winning run.

Eagles — 001 100-2 7 3 Yanks — 000 100-1 2 3 Brunson and Wallace; Bingham and Schreiner.

Dies Blasts Shivers-

"It makes a lot of difference, too, which Administration is in power—which one practices and preaches socialism."
In the Senate, leaders were making a second try at passage of a bill similar to the one in the House.
Angry arguments over government buying of live cattle led to barbed political exchanges during almost six hours of debate Wednesday.

Pending was a proposal by Senator Griswold (R-Neb) to require Secretary of Agriculture Benson to buy up cows and pay farmers to have heifers spayed to prevent them from having calves.

Birth Control For Cows
Griswold's contention is there are too many cattle and that a government buying program would cut the livestock population and push beef prices upward.

Senator Kerr (D-Okla) derided Griswold's proposal as "birth control" for cows, and Senator Toby (R-NH) shouted: "What nonsense! Don't spay the cows, castrate the bulls."

Griswold's proposal was offered as a substitute for a demand by Kerr that Benson be ordered by Congress to support beef cattle prices at high levels.

Senator Aiken (R-Vt), chairman of the Agriculture Committee, who was seeking quick passage of the disaster loans measure, told Kerr he was injecting politics into an emergency program and "doing no good to the farmers of the United States."

He said the Oklahoman "has done as much harm to the farmers of Oklahoma as has been done by any other factor in our whole economy."

The Oklahoman said many farmers and ranchers have gone bankrupt and he told Aiken: "Your party already has assured the success of the Democratic Party in the next election campaign."
Anderson Disagrees
Senator Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, said there are some 10 million too many cattle but he did not back Griswold's proposal for decreasing the beef herds.

Kerr had asserted Benson and the Republican Administration had brought "creeping bankruptcy of the American cattle producers," and he said of Aiken:

"I think he is a good man and a sincere man, but if I ever saw a Rip Van Winkle in my life, I have witnessed him on the floor of the Senate today and in the past months."

Anderson, joining Aiken in opposition to government cattle buying, said "every cow would be owned by the secretary of Agriculture within 24 hours."

Aiken said a "funny lot of bed-fellows" had been sniping at the Eisenhower Administration farm program. He listed them as those who hoped to make big profits by buying cheap cattle, those who sought to make political capital from lower farm prices, and those who hoped to change the form of government.

Aiken told the Senate the assistance bill had been written to avoid aid for "cattle speculators." He described them as "sideline farmers" who took a flyer in feeding cattle in hopes of getting "a Cadillac in a hurry."

He said the temporary loans would go to established ranchers and stockmen, unable to get credit elsewhere, who needed $2,500 or more to keep producing cattle, sheep and goats.

The loans would be increased by local committees appointed by the secretary of Agriculture.
The loans would bear five per cent interest and could be made for three years, with renewal if necessary. The temporary program would operate for two years. A similar bill is awaiting House action.

Plunge From Roof Injures Girl, Six
DENISON —(AP)— A young girl was taken in an Air Force plane to San Antonio Wednesday after she was critically hurt in a fall from the roof of a two-story building.

Dorothy Bailey, six, stepdaughter of Sgt. George Beard of Perrin Air Force Base near here, fell from the Skags Motor Company Building. She had walked alone from a second-floor apartment to the roof.

The girl was flown to Lackland AFB after examination at Perrin AFB.

Hand-Made Le Mans Winner To Be Shown Auto Fans Here

A British-made Jaguar C walked away with a victory in the recent Le Mans Race, "Indianapolis of the sports car world," and cracked the 100 miles an hour barrier for the first time in the history of the French speed classic.

Midlanders can see this car's twin sister Friday at Ray Brown Automobile, Inc. The hand-made, $10,000 auto, one of only 50 produced, is owned by the Joe Mabee Drilling Company of Midland. The gleaming, aluminum-bodied auto will be on show for one day.

produced in order that the car could be classed as a "production model" for the race.

The famed Le Mans Race, the biggest of its kind in the world, is unique from start to finish—and this year sent cars from Britain, Italy, France, Germany and the United States hurtling along the crooked 8.38-mile course for 24 hours of almost continuous driving.

Unique Starting
Fans saw the winning Jaguar hit an average speed of 105.85 miles an hour and three other Jaguars place second, fourth and ninth.

Third place winner was a Cunningham, Florida-built car which became the first American racer to place in the Le Mans classic.

Outstanding feature of the French race is the start. Le Mans race cars are lined up at 90 degree angles to the track right-of-way. The drivers stand in circles across the track from their cars, and the drop of the starter's flag sends them running for their cars. Soon the sputter and roar of motors fills the air and the cars swing onto the track to vie for leaders' posts.

Auto Flips Over
From then on, it's 24 hours of hard driving with stops only for fuel and motor repairs.
The major disaster at this year's race involved an American driver, Tommy Cole, driving an Italian Ferrari. He was killed when he took a corner too fast, went into a slide, over-corrected, hit the bank and then flipped. He was thrown from his car and died instantly.

Driving the winning Jaguar were Anthony Rolt and J. Duncan Hamilton.

The car on show here Friday is capable of 170 mph speeds and weighs some 1,600 pounds. The engine in this car, Bob Jackson, manager at Ray Brown's, is basically the same as in the standard production model, with, of course, refinements such as stepped-up carburetion and cam action.

Stassen Says Aid Program Now Achieving Top Results

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Mutual Security Director Harold Stassen told senators Thursday there are signs this nation's foreign aid program is "right at the point of its most significant results."

Appearing before the Senate Appropriations Committee with a plea for funds to continue the program, Stassen said workers behind the Iron Curtain are now "willing to stand up and risk death" at the hands of their Russian bosses. He referred to the recent disorders in East Berlin and other Red-occupied areas.

Stassen faced sharp questioning from the committee which will recommend what amount of foreign aid money the Senate should vote.

Senator Robertson (D-Va) told Stassen he has supported the foreign aid program since 1948. But he said with some emphasis:

"I didn't intend for it to be something that would last forever or that would imperil the soundness of our own economy."

He said the U. S. per capita debt today is the highest in the world. Stassen agreed but countered with an assertion the U. S. does not have the largest per capita tax burden in the world. He said the U. S. standard of living is three times as high as the rest of the world's average, and saw no peril to the domestic economy in continuing the foreign aid program.

Defense Department Asks $529,386,000 For New Construction

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Defense Department asked Congress Thursday to authorize $529,386,000 more in construction at service installations.

Included are 169 new construction projects in 41 states.
Of the total $145,620,000 would be for Army installations, $96,138,000 for the Navy and $287,628,000 for the Air Force.

The department said more money for the fiscal year which started July 1 "will not be requested from the Congress for this construction."

It said it will ask Congress soon for authority to use construction money previously appropriated.
"The use of existing construction appropriations for the new projects will enable the military department to make the most prudent use of existing funds for construction purposes," the department said.

They're part of the more than 400 who make a bee-line for the pool each day.

400 Persons Daily Take Dip Into Cool Waters Of Pagoda

Even though splashing at Pagoda Pool is a "little off" this Summer, more than 400 Midland bodies have been dipping under the blue-green water every day thus far.

Sure, a lot of the same bathing suits and faces are seen there each of the six days the pool's open—but they're still in the pool and lending weight to the 400 plus figure.

Saturdays and Sundays lure more people out, sometimes as many as 500 per. Last Sunday, for example, found 525 cooling off, while the Fourth of July saw about 470 out, a drop from the usual Saturday rush because of out-of-town holiday trips.

"We get a good crowd every day," C. C. Shultz, pool operator, explained, "but it's a little off from last year's totals."

"We've been pretty lucky this year," Shultz continued. "There have been no accidents any more serious than a skinned knee or the like. And if the swimmers keep on being careful, we'll get along without any bad spills."

Three swimming instructors are on duty at the pool, two under the city recreation program. A new series of lessons will start July 14.

George Friday and Charles Wortham take care of the city duties, while Joyce-Howell conducts private lessons. To qualify for the city instruction program, beginners must be at least seven years of age. There's no maximum age. Joyce, on the other hand, will handle private lessons for all ages.

The pool is open from 2 p. m. until 7 p. m. Saturday through Thursday. "A day of rest" comes Friday when after-hours use by Midland civic, social and service clubs. Two lifeguards are on hand for these private parties.

How much soda pop do the swimmers consume? "Not much," Shultz laughed. "They're too busy swimming."

"Anyway, soft drinks run a poor second to the snow cones the youngsters can buy here. The adults who come out will drink a soft drink now and then, but those youngsters like the snow cones."

"They like lots of ice and syrup, and they get it all over them. But they have a wonderful time doing it."

Wilson, Stassen Called To Testify On Oil Price Hikes

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Chairman Wolverton (R-NJ) of the House Commerce Committee said Thursday Secretary of Defense Wilson and Mutual Security Administrator Stassen have been called for testimony about recent oil price hikes.

He said he wants to get their views about the effects of a 25 cents a barrel price boost on Middle East oil announced Wednesday by the Gulf Oil Corporation. They are to appear Wednesday.

Wolverton repeatedly has raised the question of the possible effects of oil price advances on the nation's military expenses and the foreign aid program.

He has told several witnesses the industry spokesmen have failed to justify decisions which boosted gasoline prices by three cents a gallon in some areas and crude oil by 25 cents a barrel.

Wolverton said he asked Wilson and Stassen to be prepared to say whether the Middle East oil price boost will increase this nation's expenses.

Low Meat Prices Of 1930's Recalled By Muleshoe Store

MULESHOE —(AP)— Citizens of Muleshoe, a Bailey County town northwest of Lubbock, are going to gasp and do a doubletake when they read the grocery and meat ads in their Muleshoe Journal weekly newspaper Thursday.

They are going to check the date on the newspaper to see if it isn't an issue of the 1930's when we had another drought and drop in meat prices—remember.

Anyway, here are the meat prices advertised by the Cashway Store, a Muleshoe supermarket: Hamburger, nine cent a pound, short ribs, five cents a pound, chuck roast 15 cents a pound, T-bone 23 cents a pound, loin steak 23 cents, round steak 33 cents a pound.

Down in the fine print below the big veal sale will be Jello at three cents a package.

The Cashway Store is operated by Thurman White, as manager for Elmer Gollehon, who lives in Colorado and is a rancher.

Crew Of Women May Make First Rocket Trip Into Sky

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Off we go into the wild space yonder. That theme song may not be far off, according to experts who are working on a film about space flight. One of them is Dr. Konrad Butner, scientist who researched the effect of heat and cold on pilots for Germany during the war. Now a researcher at UCLA on the human aspects of space travel, he comments:

"The advent of space travel is only a matter of how much money we want to spend to achieve it. The principles are established; now it is strictly a matter of dollars and engineering. Space travel stands at the same place where the atom was in 1940. Scientists know as done."

Dr. Butner has been advising on the technical aspects of "Riders to the Stars," which producer Ivan Tors calls a science picture. No science fiction, mind you. He claims it's for real.

The story concerns the search for personnel to ride a space ship 150 miles up to capture a meteor in its native state. The idea is to learn why rockets crystallize above certain altitudes.

"The selection of personnel to travel in space flight will be a major task," assured Dr. Butner. "They must be smaller than average in weight and size, but not too small so that they might have inferiority complexes. They must be around 25—fully matured but not yet declining physically. They must be pilots and have a college background, preferably in astro-physics and engineering."

Women Are Better
"They must also have high moral aspects. They will have to possess well-balanced personalities and be willing to risk their lives for the benefit of mankind."

Curt Siodmak, who wrote the picture, offers the notion that women might be the first space travelers. He points out that women would be smaller, weigh less, require less food and have a better nature for withstanding the boredom of remaining in space for extended periods. Dr. Butner said it was a possibility.

Most Important
He added that the establishment of space, stations, or artificial satellites, is actually more important to humanity than reaching Mars, the moon or other planets. The latter would largely serve to satisfy human curiosity, he said.

"But the construction of an artificial satellite would have a profound effect on the earth. Not only would it be a means of assuring travel to other planets; it also would be a valuable military weapon. The sending of rockets to enemy countries could be done with accuracy. There is virtually no countermeasure for such a weapon."

"It would be a means for insuring peace."

YOU'RE THE JUDGE—The two runners-up in the "Miss Morocco of 1953" contest caused the judges a lot of pondering before they finally chose Colette Ribes, center, as the winner. Gig Fernandez, left, was second, and Jeanie Respart, right, was third. What do you think of the judges' choice?

Reds Reopen Berlin Border First Time Since June Riots

BERLIN —(AP)— The Communists lifted the Iron Curtain before riot-torn East Berlin Thursday, permitting free Western travel into the Russian sector of the divided city for the first time since open rebellion brought tank-enforced martial law three weeks ago.

Border crossers said 16 major factories in the Soviet-occupied city still were seriously affected by sit-down strikes which broke out Wednesday to demand release of workers arrested in the June revolt. Apparently the strikers put little credence in the Red zone government's announcement Wednesday night that the "great majority" of these had been released.

Reports from the East zone outside Berlin indicated dozens of plants in Jena, Magdeburg, Leipzig, Halle, Brandenburg and Dresden were hit by slowdowns for the same reason. Refugees said the Russians long since had lifted martial law outside Berlin but still maintained a four-hour nightly curfew in Halle, where rebellious workers set fire to the giant Leuna chemical plant on June 17.

Cars, Trucks Checked

Though Red German infantry and police patrols were doubled along the 27-mile frontier between East and West Berlin, the Communists paid scant attention to the thousands again riding the previously blocked elevated trains and subways across the border.

Each automobile and truck at the dozens of crossing points was checked, however, and Red Police Chief Waldemar Schmidt declared on Radio Berlin that "every fascist provocateur and propagandist will be arrested and dealt with sternly."

Restoration of the normal intersector travel had been a secondary demand of the strikers Wednesday. The Reds announced they would accede only a few hours after the sit-downs started. West Berlin's three Allied commandants also had demanded in two notes that the blockade be ended.

Guards Ring Headquarters

Non-German Westerners' first peep inside the East since the June 17 outbreak revealed the Communists' puppet East German government had sealed itself off. Heavily armed East German infantrymen ringed the regime's headquarters building — chief target of the June 17 marchers — and stopped all but recognized Communist officials from approaching.

There were no Russian soldiers in sight, however, apparently in token support for the satellite government's declaration that its police would maintain law and order in East Berlin. The Russian Army has done this job since it roared in three weeks ago to smash the bloody uprising.

Lifting of the border blockade Thursday canceled the last of the emergency restrictions in East Berlin, but Maj. Gen. P. T. Dibrova, the Red Army commandant, has not yet formally declared an end to martial law in the city. Until Thursday, only persons with special passes had been permitted to cross the boundary, and these went only to Germans working across the frontier.

Prisons Help Pay Cost Of Operation

AUSTIN —(AP)— Well-managed inmate producing activities have cut the cost of operating the Texas prison system, State Auditor C. H. Cavness says.

The next cost was 59 cents a day for the 6,829 inmates, about one-sixth the average for federal prisons. The total cost to the state for the year ended December 31 was $1,479,231, the auditor said.

Activities bringing in cash include farming, cattle care and manufacturing. Cavness said improvement in methods of handling this work has made it more profitable since O. B. Ellis became general manager of the prison system.

Sale Of Pipe Line Approved By Agent

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A Power Commission examiner Wednesday recommended approval of applications by the El Paso Natural Gas Company for permission to buy a pipe line system now owned by the West Texas Gas Company, Lubbock.

The lines are used by West Texas to supply natural gas to Southern Union Gas Company, Dallas. The price would be $287,389.

RAF HERO HUSTLES TO BRUSSELS--

Princess' Thwarted Suitor 'Vetoed' By Churchill Aides

LONDON —(AP)— The Churchill cabinet was approached on whether Princess Margaret should marry a handsome, divorced Royal Air Force officer and joined with the Church of England in saying "no," the Tribune said Thursday.

The fortnightly left-wing magazine drew a comparison between the 22-year-old princess' reported romancing with RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend and her uncle's affair with an American divorcee, Wallis Simpson.

"This intolerable piece of interference with a girl's private life is all part of a myth about the royal family which has been so sedulously built up by interested parties in recent years," said the Tribune.

Case Of The Duke

"It recalls the hypocritical role played by the church at the time of the Duke of Windsor's abdication."

"Edward was loudly acclaimed as 'the best of kings' until he expressed the firm desire to marry the woman he loved. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and the archbishops did not approve his choice. So they pushed him off the throne."

The Tribune, a political supporter of Aneurin Bevan, declared "Princess Margaret should be allowed to make up her own mind whom she wants to marry. But the British cabinet does not agree."

Away He Goes

Townsend, 38, a "battle of Britain" ace, suddenly was given a new assignment abroad when his reported romance with Margaret became talked about generally. He takes over his new duties as air attache in Brussels two days before the 22-year-old princess is due back July 16 from a tour of Southern Rhodesia.

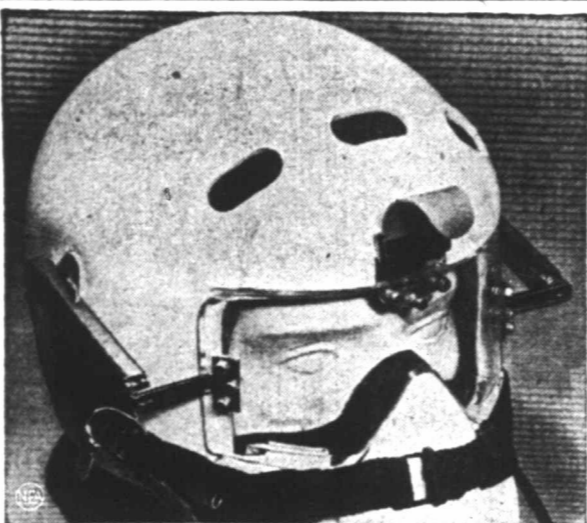

He had been acting comptroller at Clarence House, where the princess lives with her mother. He had a suite there. Townsend divorced his wife last Fall after 11 years of marriage, charging her with adultery. He was awarded custody of their two sons, nine and six, but they are living with their mother who has since remarried.

Casting First Stones

The Tribune, one of Prime Minister Churchill's sharpest critics, chided the cabinet for frowning on Margaret's romance with the dashing airman and pointed out three members of the cabinet have been involved themselves in divorce cases.

One is Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who married Churchill's young niece, Clarissa, after divorcing his wife for desertion.

Queen Elizabeth II, as head of the royal family, would have to approve her sister's marriage. Elizabeth reportedly is personally sympathetic to Margaret's position.

Senators Demand Red China Be Made Party To Armistice

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Two Republican senators sought Thursday to gain time for more U. S. discussions with South Korean President Syngman Rhee by proposing that Red China be made a party to any Korean truce.

Senators Knowland (R-Calif.) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) suggested new efforts be made to bring the Peiping regime officially into any armistice signing. United Nations negotiations to date have been conducted with the North Koreans.

Knowland, who has supported Rhee's demands for prompt unification of Korea, told the Senate Wednesday that the Chinese Communists, while supplying men and guns to the North Koreans, would not guarantee any truce that was signed.

Backing up Knowland, Smith said in an interview he believes the raising of this issue will give the U. S. more time to continue discussions with Rhee, who thus far has balked at accepting Allied truce proposals.

"I think the Communists have put us on the spot by accepting the terms laid down in the letter to them from Gen. Mark Clark in which he indicated he would restrain the South Koreans if they did not accept the truce," Smith said.

"I think we must exert every effort to bring Rhee around to our way of thinking and I would like to see our government officially raise the issue of bringing the Chinese Communists officially into the armistice picture."

Smith, who heads a Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he thinks an armistice signed for the Communists by the People's Republic of (North) Korea and the Chinese People's Volunteers "would be entirely ineffective."

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he agrees with Knowland and Smith that the Chinese People's Volunteers was a fiction to cover

Red China's participation in the war.

"But it is a fiction that has been accepted in the previous truce negotiations and I don't see any way we now can force the Chinese Communists into joining in signing an armistice," he said.

Funeral Rites Set For Oil Firm Officer

Funeral services were pending in Wewoka, Okla., Thursday for Charles B. Yates, 47, general production superintendent for Monterey Exploration Company, who died in Andrews late Tuesday.

The body was forwarded Wednesday by Newell W. Ellis Funeral Home to Stout-Sarber Funeral Home, Wewoka.

Survivors include the widow and two daughters, Mrs. George H. Nash of Springfield, Mo., and Mrs. Lawrence O. Davis of Wewoka.

Water Curbs Eased For Crane Residents

CRANE —The water rationing in the city of Crane was at an end Thursday after City Superintendent J. K. Price announced that the eight new water wells recently completed in the Sand Hills area had been tied into the main line Wednesday.

Price considers the water problem for Crane solved for a number of years, and gave the go ahead signal for citizens to use all the water needed for anything they desire, washing cars, watering grass and shrubs, or just plain wasting—if one can afford it.

Beef-Buying Off To Draggly Start

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government and meat processors are having difficulty getting together on a federal beef-buying program aimed at providing higher prices for cattle being forced to market in the Southwestern drought area.

The Agriculture Department announced two weeks ago a 200-million-pound beef purchase program, with a buying goal of at least ten million pounds a week for 20 weeks.

Last week only 3,621,000 pounds were purchased and this week only 5,250,000.

Officials said buying was falling behind schedule because some processors are asking prices out of line with depressed prices being paid for cattle in the distressed area.

The department said the buying program was designed to "stem the trend to ruinously low prices" for lower grade cattle. Beef being bought is of the canned and hamburger style produced from animals of these grades.

Officials had hoped the program, coupled with a food industry campaign to sell more beef, would strengthen cattle prices in the Southwest sufficiently to encourage farmers to halt dumping of animals on markets, and silence demands from some cattlemen that the government either buy live cattle at greatly increased prices or put a price floor under them.

Officials have said the department is not equipped to buy and handle live cattle.

What canned beef the department bought this week was higher priced than last. This week's price averaged 36.95 cents a pound compared with 34.36 cents last week. The beef will be turned over to the government-sponsored school lunch program. The department said reports indicate there has been some strengthening in lower grade cattle prices in recent days.

Free Hospital For Human 'Guinea Pigs'

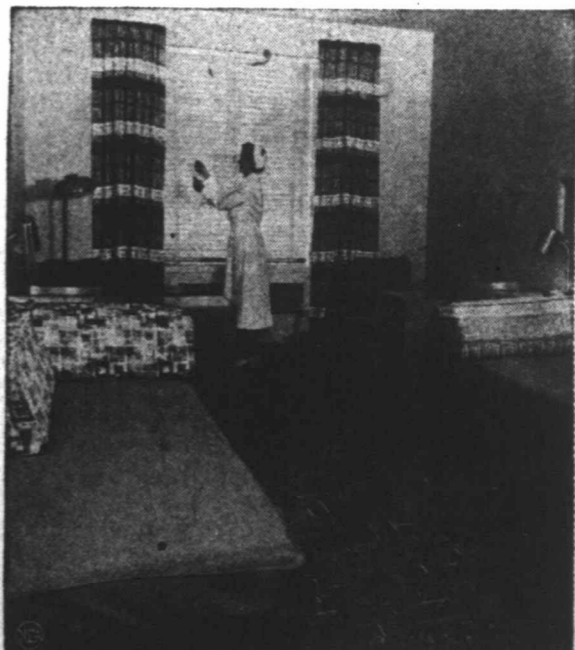

The U. S. government National Institute of Health, the last word in luxury, has opened in Bethesda, Md. The hospital will offer its services free, but just try to get in. Only requirement for admission is—you as a "volunteer" patient must have some particular form of disease which hospital staffers want to study. No expense has been spared to make this the homiest and most comfortable research hospital in the world. In addition to air-conditioning and hotel-like rooms, the "guinea pig" patients will have an entire floor for recreation, a chapel with a revolving altar for the three faiths and a huge gym. Hospital staffers will also have the best in equipment and research facilities.

An exterior view of the 300-bed hospital which cost $64,000,000 to build.

Patients may have breakfast in bed in an air-conditioned room.

Bedroom is easily converted to a home-like sitting room.

Europeans Take Dim View Of U. S. Efforts To Obliterate Reds' Influence

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram

LONDON—Comments overheard in London:

Mr. Darkins, aircraft employe: "The way most English people feel is that America is making too much fuss over communism. We feel that with all the talk in America about war, the Americans are doing just as much to bring it on as the Russians."

M. Corsy, French oil engineer who spent 18 months in Austin, Texas: "Your Marshall Plan might have been a good idea to start with, but it did absolutely nothing to help the average man. I traveled throughout the South in the U. S. A. and I did not see any negro whose living conditions were as bad as the French workmen's. When their lot is hopeless, they turn to communism."

ENGLAND'S SUMMER—"I slept until noon on Whit Monday," a "Texas" Douglas W. Boyd, was heard to comment, "and missed half of England's Summer."

It seems that was the one day the sun came out.

A telegram third class with the U. S. Navy, Boyd is the son of Mrs. Delbert Jackson of Coleman.

In the Navy since 1950, he has been in London a year.

Boyd was born in Lubbock, finished Coleman High School.

HAVE YOU GOT TROUBLES?—If you have trouble paying the rent and think life is hard for you in the states, you need only visit overseas to appreciate your lot.

Rent in London runs about the same as it would in most cities in Texas. Sixty to 80 is paid by Americans for apartments here.

But, salaries of English persons run one-half to one-third what Americans make.

Average wage here is about $24 a week.

Bob Ohl, a Navy man formerly stationed in Laredo, says he lives next door to England's star Rugby player. "He is to the English people what Joe DeMaggio is to the Americans," he said, by way of explaining his popularity.

"Yet," Ohl continued, "this man makes only 14 pounds a week."

That's $39.20 a week.

It goes without saying that DeMaggio does a little better than that.

AT BRIZE NORTON—At Brize Norton Air Base out from London, a spot where the Duke of Edinburgh recently visited to inspect the giant B-36, I met Capt. E. Y. Brown, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Brown Sr., of Fort Worth.

Born in Plainville, the captain has 11 years service.

He is one of those few persons who was lucky enough to get an assignment in his own home town. Before coming to England, he was based at Carswell. His wife, the former Mary Elizabeth McNeely of Fort Worth and their two children are with him in England.

Boys Not Impressed

In the lounge room of the serviceman's club at Bovington—an hour's drive out from London—some Texans were sitting around talking about the sights they had seen.

They were Cpl. Phillip Connor of Perryton, M Sgt. Frank Hayes of Houston and Capt. Jesse Tindall of San Antonio—a "naturalized" Texan, as he calls himself.

As air policemen Connor and Hayes, and as a pilot, Captain Tindall, all get around quite a bit.

"I was over at Istanbul last Tuesday," Tindall commented. "Real fascinating. Where the East and West meet."

Or, "I was surprised how nicely the women in Madrid are dressed."

Again he said during the chat: "Think I have to fly over to Algiers next Friday."

You would think the boys would be excited about such exotic places, but world capitals soon begin to mean nothing to them.

Asked to name the spot in all the world where he would rather be, the pilot did not think of the wide boulevards of Paris, the mysteries of the Middle East, the clatter of Hong Kong.

"The place where I would really like to be right now is someplace around Bandera, Texas. I like to go hunting in that neck of the woods better than anything. One of the nicest places in the world," the captain said.

Irish Jig, Solons' March Save UN Flag

SACRAMENTO, CALIF. — (AP) — Irish music and a parade of Senators carrying a Hibernian flag prevented the United Nations flag from being banned in California.

The ban was asked by Senator Jack B. Tenney (R-Los Angeles) who said the UN flag was "a symbol which represents an enemy in the U. S., the Soviet Union . . . and had involved the U. S. in the Korean War."

Senator Gerald J. O'Garra (D-San Francisco) said the UN was "our last best hope for peace. Then Senator James E. Cunningham (R-San Bernardino) led the flag parade and Tenney's motion was lost.

Russian Grass May Help U. S. Ranges

TUCSON — (AP) — A grass introduced into the United States from Russia 50 years ago may help restore livestock ranges in Arizona and New Mexico.

The crested wheat grass has been found to offer a quick and positive means for restoring range productivity in the cooler, more moist parts of the Southwest.

Value of the grass for seeding purposes was discovered by the Southwest Forest and Range Experiment Station here.

The experimenters found the grass can increase forage productivity of deteriorated ranges by 10 or more times in two years. Cattle grazed on the grass during the fall have gained as much as two pounds a day.

The 200-inch Hale telescope at Palomar observatory, in California, will photograph stars down to the 22nd magnitude. Probably it would be possible to see a star as faint as the 20th magnitude by looking through that instrument.

A Lot Of Selling, And In One Family

SUNSET — (AP) — Two businesses have been sold in this North Texas town—but it's all in the family.

Raymond Jackson sold his grocery store to a brother, Hollis Jackson. Connie Jackson sold his garage and gasoline business to his cousin, Raymond Jackson.

Tiny cannibalistic spiders that live by eating each other have been found at elevations of 23,000 feet on Mount Everest, 4,000 feet above the limit for plant life.

Bounty For Bushel Of Grasshoppers

CONCORD, N. H. — (AP) — New Hampshire, the only state in the nation with a bounty on porcupine, has another rare one—but no takers.

A statute put on the books in 1883—and never repealed—gives $1 to anyone showing his town selectman a bushel basket of grasshoppers.

But state Treasurer Alfred S. Cloues is uncertain if the bounty was ever paid or why the law was passed. But it stipulates the grasshoppers must be caught during June and July.

Youth Center Chatter

By NANCY LOU KLINGLER

We're really glad to have our old side-kick, Myrt, back for a change. Myrt, as you know, has been on his vacation in the New England states. While he was in Washington, the Trumans were honored to be able to sit behind our director. Myrt met all of the baseball players that day and had a nice chat with them. All in all, he had a wonderful time. They left early though and went back to Detroit, the old stomping ground. He was accompanied on the trip by his mother and father. Welcome home again!

Did you hear the noise at 1011 West Louisiana Street Friday night? Do you know what went on behind those closed doors? Here is only a sneak preview of it. Ann Hamilton, Janetha Holt, Gloria Hicks, Alice Ann Berry, Robinette Curry and Helen Short were at a slumber party over at Helen's house. Ask Gloria what went on during the early hours of the morning!!!

Shorts seem to be quite popular around the Youth Center. You know that Myrt or Fern don't care for the girls wearing shorts as long as you keep within the limits. Guess it is okay for the boys to wear them. Hats-Off To 'Timber'

Our hats are off to "Timber" for helping on the new Youth Center. "Timber" is up bright and early every morning. He is one of the jillions who will be glad when that little jewel will be finished. Good old "Twigs," always helping someone.

While in the East, Myrt obtained some records that are popular up there, and will be down here sooner or later. He also brought back some new ideas.

There are some new Southerners around the old YC. Yes, we have some boys from the deep South, "Alabama." Glad to have you all, come n' see us here Texans.

Myrt has ordered two new shuffleboard tables for the new YC. We will have all new furniture. There will be a fountain where you can order malts, fountain drinks, all kinds of ice cream, sundaes and etc. New games of all types and kinds will be in the game room. It is going to be a Youth Center that all of Midland will be proud of. It will be ready by about the first of September.

Janna and Wanda Murry and Pifi Pryor looked kinda tired Tuesday night when they came dragging in the Youth Center. Looked as though they had been to cheerleader practice. Let's keep up the peppy work!

The pool tables are being covered, or maybe we should say re-covered. Please leave them alone and they will be finished that much quicker.

Here's good news! There will be a "BULLDOG STOMP" Saturday night, starting at 8:30 and ending at 9. All members may bring as many guests as they like. All kinds of music will be played—from hillbilly to popular and to any other kind you like. A good time is in store for all attending. Starting time is 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Juanita Tibbets spent the weekend in Lubbock. She was visiting her aunt.

Seems as though Gloria Hicks does have some other favorite pastime besides going to the dentist. Seemed like she wasn't too excited about going. All that they do is drill holes in your teeth. Doesn't really hurt too much.

Congratulations to Carla Mae Lea

Poster. Carla Mae was a very faithful member. Cupid made a shot this time for our love!

The Fourth of July found Midlanders scattered all over town. Stuart Chancellor and Horace Greenstreet seemed to be having a good time celebrating the holiday.

Wonder what kind of a magazine David Gooch was reading Sunday afternoon? Must really have been a good one. Couldn't get him away from it.

All eyes were on Nancy Guyton Sunday when she had on that darling navy blue dress.

Picture Shows Slated

The picture shows will start in two weeks. You are the ones who are to choose them—not Myrt or Fern. You tell them what kind and a special one if you like. Next week we will tell you the outcome.

"Concert" still is going strong at the Youth Center. Many, many members are learning to play it and all who know how thoroughly enjoy it.

Wonder why all of the excitement over at the Curran's house about a week ago? Wonder what they were planning this time? Whatever it was, we heard it didn't work. Better luck next time.

The Midland Indians seem to attract quite a lot of YC'ers lately.

Also, while talking about baseball, the teams that play over at Borden Field every afternoon attract quite a few spectators. They really are good games. There is no fee for watching and everyone is invited. They start about 5:30 p.m. daily.

Thanks To Mrs. Adams

Our hearty thanks go to Mrs. Adams for the swell job she did while Myrt was away. She worked in his place during the afternoon. At night, Fern came down. This gave everyone a real good opportunity to get better acquainted with her. Thanks again to Mrs. Adams.

Wayne Cooper, Dale Jobe and Don Davis met Hoss Stringer in Pecos last Friday and spent the weekend in Balmorhea. They reported they all had a good time.

Gayle Perry has a visitor in her home. She is Sue Marlow from Wichita Falls. She has been here a week and a half and will leave for her home town Friday. Everyone has enjoyed meeting her very much and hopes she will come back very soon.

Since there is a new group coming into the Youth Center by September, we are going to get a list of everyone's nickname so that the newcomers will know who someone is when their nickname is called. Please give your nickname to me as soon as possible.

Barbara Cline has been visiting in Fort Worth with some friends, and now is visiting in Shreveport, La.

That about winds it up for another seven. See you at the Stomp Saturday night.

THE CLEANEST DOG IN TOWN

BETHANY, OKLA.—(AP)—Mrs. Tommy Hays couldn't find her dog. She looked everywhere.

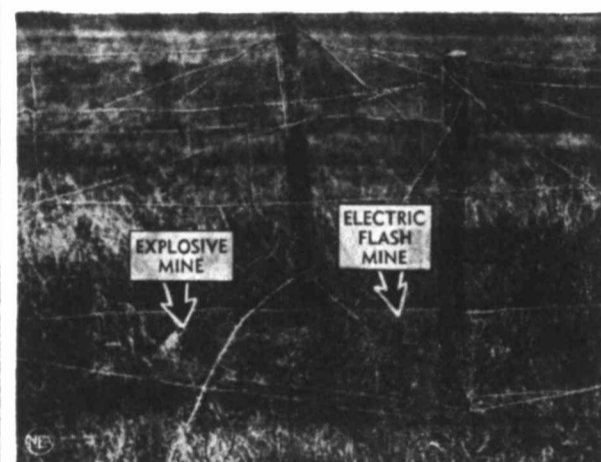

Then came a call from a laundry to which she has sent clothes. The dog had leaped out of the bundle when it was opened.

McMillan To Head U. S. Salvation Army

DALLAS — Commissioner Donald McMillan, Eastern territorial commander of The Salvation Army and its international representative to the United Nations, has been appointed commanding officer of The Salvation Army in the United States.

Commissioner McMillan, a second generation Salvationist, succeeds Commissioner Ernest I. Pugmire, who died recently following a heart seizure. The appointment was made by General Albert Osborn, international commander of The Salvation Army.

If you want rhubarb to hold its shape and provide color, don't peel it. Choose rhubarb stalks that are firm, fresh-looking and young. Rhubarb that has a flabby appearance usually gives a stringy and poor-flavored product when cooked.

THE FENCE IS LOADED—Communists take every measure to prevent anyone escaping from the Iron Curtain. For instance, here is the Iron Curtain in the form of a barbed wire on the Austro-Hungarian border. Behind the fence are an explosive mine and an electric flash mine to discourage fugitives.

Kermit Election To Decide Fate Of Bonds For New Park

KERMIT—Controversy concerning the proposed $320,000 Winkler County park bond issue was aired at a recent meeting here of the Citizens' Information Committee of Winkler County.

At the request of the citizens of Winkler County the Commissioners Court has called an election to determine whether or not the people wish to vote on the bond issue. The election is Saturday.

Those supporting the bond issue recommended it for the following reasons:

"As to specifically designating the exact cost of each facility in the county park, it is not practical to spell out in advance just exactly what will be spent for each item, but in order to provide for a swimming pool, barbecue pits, picnic tables, playground equipment, water fountains, baseball fields, tennis courts, rest rooms, etc., with necessary landscaping, water wells, water lines, lighting, sewage disposal, fencing, walks, drives, parking areas and other expense of this kind, it has been estimated that it will require a total of $320,000 to insure that the job will be satisfactorily completed.

Question Of Taxes

"Much has been said about giving the Commissioners Court a blank check to spend as they see fit, but that is substantially what the voters did when they elected the court, and that is the only means through which we can work to accomplish the desired goal.

"No one has seriously thought that this bond issue can be handled without it costing the citizens and taxpayers, but the statement has been made that there will be no increase in the tax rate when these bonds are voted as we already have improvements, but it will delay the time when there might be a reduction in the rate.

"No proposal of this kind is going to please every one in detail, but most every citizen in Winkler County wants a park. This is a means by which that desire can be accomplished.

"The plan has the support of the Kermit Lions Club, Kermit American Legion Post, Kermit American Legion Auxiliary, Kermit 20-30 Club, Kermit Junior Chamber of Commerce, Kermit Chamber of Commerce, Kermit Fire Department and Wink Chamber of Commerce. Members of these organizations are all local voters and have given the proposal sufficient consideration to declare themselves for it."

Those opposed to the park bond issue in its present form submitted the following objections:

"All agree that we need a park and believe that if a reasonable approach to this problem were made the bond issue would carry, but do not favor the present bond proposal.

"Some have asked why one of the existing four park areas has not been developed or why not now. These parks are located so as to serve more people than one located adjacent to the city limits. Also a great lot of money could be saved by using an existing park where paved streets, water mains, sewer lines and other utilities already exist.

Cost Of Park

"The price of the proposed park is one main point that no one seems to understand and why must the park be located in any area where streets must be paved and other heavy expenses incurred in order to develop property for a park. Under this plan most of the money would be spent for property development and less for park layout.

"Those supporting this proposal have stated that this bond issue would not cause an increase in the tax rate or evaluation of property. The accuracy of this statement is

Modern Way to Control Roaches, Ants

Scientists Discover New, Easy Way to Kill Crawling Insects

ROACHES and ants, pests that they are, are usually found near food and cooking utensils where you should not use bombs or sprays. And no need to either, when you can brush Johnston's NO-ROACH just where you want it, around cabinets and sink or wherever these bugs are found, without having to move dishes or pots and pans.

Effective For Months

Johnston's NO-ROACH is colorless, odorless, and stainless. Insects that walk across the invisible coating become paralyzed and die within three hours. Then the coating remains effective for months.

One important point to remember: NO-ROACH is a unique formula, made only by Johnston. It cannot be duplicated. For truly effective control, use Johnston's NO-ROACH. Available in 8-oz., pint and quart sizes."

Local Resident Air Conditions With Lawnmower

"Hey," says this dusty, sweaty store last week, "I want an air conditioner."

"Sure," we says, "that's right in our department. Step this way."

He did his best to go the way we did, but he didn't have the experience. After all it takes about thirty-five years of concrete floor galling to acquire that certain flat-footed, spavined limp that only a retail hardware man can have.

Was he ever surprised when he showed him these beautiful powerful Jacobsen Power Mowers? "Hey," he repeats himself, "you dope, I asked to see air conditioners!"

"Right, friend," we pipes up, "you've never seen a better air conditioner than one of these proud, orange-colored beauties. Why, pal, with one of these in your yard, you won't be coming in here all out of breath, and messy with yard mowing. You'll just crank 'er up and slip through that lawn in less than an hour. No grunt, no groan, no ache, no pain, no stoop, no squat, no squint! Instead of a day's hard pushing, you'll be sitting on your patio with a julep in your hand. Send it up?"

"Says," he sez, forgetting to use 'hey,' "do that!"

U.S. Postwar Patent Life Appears All Chemical

THE MIDLAND REPORTER-TELEGRAM, THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1953-3

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

Washington — (NEA) — America has been making itself a new chemical way of life since the war.

But in the fields of buttons, wooden barrels, needles and pins, buggy whips and pneumatic conveyor tubes, the nation is standing stock still.

This reflection of the direction which U. S. living has taken in the last seven years comes from a study of patent trends just made by the United States Patent Office.

Out of 188,523 patents granted since 1946, there have been 35,772 in the field of chemistry. Next are patents granted in electronics engineering, with a few more than 10, 000; machine tools, with a few less than 10,000; automotive engineering with approximately 9,000; and textile manufacturing, with about 8,000.

The list of new products which comes from these postwar chemical patents is almost endless. They include thousands of new plastic articles, new medicines and wonder drugs, fertilizers and insecticides, new synthetic fabrics and great numbers of industrial chemicals not commonly known, but used in numerous manufacturing processes.

There's not much agreement within the chemical trade as to just what basic postwar chemical patents are the most important. Some of the recent patents cover the new chemicals themselves. But many of the key patents have to do with processes for making chemicals. Most of the details on this subject are kept hidden as trade secrets.

Some industrial chemists claim that the patents on fluid catalysis which permit the extraction of a whole family of other chemicals from crude petroleum—used mostly for manufacturing processes—are the most important.

It is estimated that crude oil and natural gas now are the source of more than 25,000 different chemicals.

In the "wonder drug" category, Patent Office officials claim that it is difficult to pinpoint specific patents as the most important. For instance, the basic patent on penicillin dates back to 1938. But it has turned out to be virtually invalid because it failed to make an exact identification of the substance. The most important patents in the antibiotic drug field granted since the war stem from the discoveries of chloramphenicol, aureomycin and terramycin. Hundreds of patents having to do with the manufacture of these substances and related medical products have been granted in the last seven years.

Tracer chemistry, as a research tool using radioactive materials supplied by the Atomic Energy Commission, has figured prominently in the discovery and isolation of almost all of the important new postwar chemicals. In this respect it is claimed that constructive effects of the discovery of the atomic bomb threaten to overshadow its destructive effects.

Also in this connection the Patent Office report states: "Patents granted in organic chemicals in the last seven years (17,685) will some time during the year exceed the number of patents heretofore issued for weapons and explosive devices during the entire 120-year history of the government's patent granting program."

As might be expected, the bulk of the newer patents in the electronics field have to do with various phases of television and radio. Although automotive patents are fourth in the number of those granted since the war, the Patent Office points out that since long before the war this field has been one of the most consistent producers of new ideas, devices and manufacturing processes. The Patent Office finds that there are several fields in which patent applications are shrinking fast. These include road construction and road machinery, ammunition, bottles and jars and aircraft. Many of the patents included in the electronics category actually are for use in aircraft, however.

An expert Washington patent attorney says that he sees no change in the trend of increased applications in the chemical field. He points out that the ones coming in actually are opening up many new areas in the general field for discovery and invention.

KEEP FREEZER INVENTORY

In order to get the best service from her home freezer, the wise housewife keeps an inventory of its contents at all times. Do this and you will avoid being forced to rummage through the freezer whenever you need some frozen food. A small black board is ideal for this purpose.

BOTTLE OLD GREASE

Don't throw away those old baby-food bottles. When opening, pry off the tops carefully, and save caps and bottles. Next time you have grease from frying to throw away, pour into bottle, and re-seal with cap, then deposit in rubbish. Keeps insects away, doesn't mess up the rubbish can, and saves your drain from effects of grease accumulation.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★ Vaccination Of Babies Is Only Safeguard Against Smallpox

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Mrs. C. in a recent letter, raises an interesting question which I imagine has troubled many mothers. She says, "I am hesitant in having my eight-month-old baby vaccinated against smallpox, thinking it too young for this. My pediatrician advises, however, that no harm will come of it. What is your opinion?" I agree emphatically with the pediatrician. Here is why:

For several hundred years smallpox was a scourge of mankind throughout most of the world. At one time it was more common than measles. During the eighteenth century almost everyone contracted smallpox before reaching maturity. More than one-half million persons died every year, and during that century alone 60,000,000 persons were lost as a result of smallpox.

Smallpox now is fortunately rare in civilized countries. The fight against this horrible disease took a new turn in 1718 when Lady Mary Wortley Montagu introduced into England the practice of inoculation.

This simply involved taking material from a pock or pustule of a person suffering with the disease and scratching it on the skin of a person (usually a child) who never had had smallpox. This produced the disease in the inoculated person, but it was usually less severe and caused less scarring than if the disease had been caught in the usual way.

The great discovery came about 1796 when Edward Jenner, a country practitioner and son of a clergyman in Gloucestershire, England, made his famous experiment on a boy, James Phipps.

Jenner noticed that the milkmaids of the district in which he lived did not seem to get smallpox even when almost all others in the community came down with the disease. He pondered this fact, observing that most of the milkmaids had small scars on their hands as a result of a mild disease, called cowpox, present on the udders of cows. Studied Cowpox

Finally, on a farm close to his home there was an outbreak of cowpox. One of the milkmaids, Sarah Nelmes, was infected and, with pus taken from a pustule on her hand, Jenner inoculated James Phipps. This boy developed the usual changes on the skin which are characteristic of what we now call vaccination.

Personal To Women With Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to acid or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys! Use these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from those discomforts—help the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Six weeks later Jenner inoculated young Phipps with pus from a patient with smallpox and sat down to wait anxiously. The vaccination "took" and later the boy proved resistant to smallpox. It was in this way that modern vaccination was born.

A Teenager Speaks Out

"I honestly do not believe that we teenage drivers are as bad as most folks think we are—at least not all of us," Doris Jean Anderson, a Nebraska 4-H Club speaking contest winner, declared in addressing a meeting of the National Safety Congress.

"In fact, the figures show that drivers between 21 and 24 years old have more accidents than teenagers," she continued.

But Miss Anderson, speaking in behalf of millions of girls and boys of her age, does not pretend that all of the things that are said about teenage drivers are untrue. Rather, she said the unflattering opinion so many people have of the young drivers is the result of the actions of a small but spectacular minority of teenagers.

The young lady went on to explain that "Teenagers are rougher on clothes, rougher on furniture, rougher on food and rougher on most anything else than older people are."

"So why shouldn't they be a little rougher on cars?" she asks. "But that doesn't mean they necessarily drive more recklessly."

"I honestly believe that a big part of the trouble with teenage drivers today is that they aren't getting a good enough example from their parents or from other older people they respect."

"That lick landed where it hurt, didn't it?" "I think that teenagers have a right to look at their elders for a proper example in traffic as elsewhere," Miss Anderson continued.

"I think teenagers need models more than they need critics. I think we have a right to take our cue from those we have been taught to respect and obey."

There surely is no argument there. She goes on to suggest that safety should be presented to young people as something pleasant to take rather than as if it were medicine.

Miss Anderson concluded her address by asking a number of sensible questions, as follows:

- 1. "Why isn't driver training a required course in every high school in America?"
2. "Why is it so easy for a new driver to get a driver's license? Yes, and older drivers, too? Why shouldn't we be turned down for a license until we can prove beyond a doubt that we are mentally and physically able to drive a car skillfully, sensibly and safely?"
3. "Why shouldn't our licenses be taken away from us if we show we don't deserve them? In fact, why shouldn't anybody's license be revoked, regardless of age or experience, if he proves he can't drive a car properly?"
4. "Why should it be so hard to punish reckless and dangerous drivers?"
5. "Why are people such poor sports in traffic?"
6. "Why don't more people and more organizations do more about safety?"

Pledging the full cooperation of teenagers, the 4-H Club member said, "The sooner we find the answers to those questions, the sooner the traffic toll will come down." Miss Anderson really has something there!

Oh Boy! That Was A Narrow Escape!

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Butter accumulating at rate of 12,000,000 pounds weekly; Let's ship butter to East Berlin; Cabinet split over goods to Russia.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson is accumulating surplus butter at the rate of 12,000,000 pounds a week.

That's a lot of butter to be buying weekly, especially when you already have a quarter of a billion pounds on hand; so you can't blame the unenvied Benson for being one of the most harassed men in the Cabinet.

Furthermore, butter won't keep indefinitely. Eventually it becomes rancid.

I don't like to be repetitious about this butter question, but I still think we are losing a good bet by not using some of our surplus wheat and butter to fight our battles behind the Iron Curtain.

True, butter is a luxury. So also is the Voice of America—although necessary to fight the cold war. So also are the European posters and other instruments of psychological warfare with which we try to combat Communist propaganda.

And if we have enough butter, and it's likely to spoil, there's no reason why we can't make it help fight the cold war, too.

What I refer to is the idea of sending a million loaves of bread and a few thousand pounds of butter to Berlin, preferably to East Berlin, in order to feed the people who have been battling Red tanks with sticks and stones. If the Russians won't let the bread and butter enter East Germany, then the American radio station in Berlin, RIAS, can put them on the spot by blaring the fact behind the Iron Curtain.

Elastic Iron Curtain
Furthermore, all we have to do is put the bread and butter down in West Berlin and let the East Germans come and get it. Several thousand cross back and forth on the subway every day. I have crossed back and forth dozens of times. And it is not too difficult for food, packages, suitcases to be carried across the Iron Curtain, which in Berlin is largely imaginary. As a matter of fact, many East Berliners shop regularly in West Berlin.

The average American feels frustrated as to how he can help in the cold war. Europe is a long way off, and there isn't much he can do about it. However, if the Department of Agriculture could perhaps work out a system whereby John Q. Citizen could contribute about $2.21—the support price—for a bushel of wheat and about 70 cents for a pound of butter, and then if the U. S. government would deposit the equivalent in food in Berlin, a lot of our surplus might be used up.

What's more important, we could, for the first time in history, begin to get some people-to-people friendship behind the Iron Curtain—much to the discomfort of those in the Kremlin who don't want people-to-people friendship.

Note—If this worked in East Germany, the effect on Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, would be electrifying. It might prove the spark of liberation we have been waiting for. Super-Cabinet Agency

Most people don't know much about the ultra-secret National Security Council. However, it operates as a sort of super-Cabinet dealing with defense problems, and since President Eisenhower's inauguration, it has handed down 130 basic decisions, including "striking changes" in American policy toward the wars in Korea and Indo-China. Before the end of the year it expects to reach a record 300 decision that will lead this nation either to peace or war.

Recently the Senate Appropriations Committee was given an official backstage peek at the nation's most powerful agency when President Eisenhower sent his special assistant on security council matters, Robert Cutler, to Capitol Hill for a confidential briefing. Within the limits of security, this column can report what he told them.

Minnesota's GOP Senator Ed Thyne started it off by asking: "What is the nature of the questions that you study?"

"One question that the council has been giving a great deal of attention to this winter," Cutler replied, "has been the basic over-all policy of the United States toward the wars in French Indo-China and Korea, reviewing the basic policy, seeing to what extent it should be modified. We held a great many hearings, had a great many council meetings and eventually we recommended to the council, and it was approved in May, a new basic policy paper which represents striking changes from what had previously been in effect."

Goods To Russia
The exact nature of these changes cannot be printed without tipping off the Russians. However, Cutler also told about an internal U. S. battle over shipping goods behind the Iron Curtain.

"As a matter of fact," he reported, "at the council meeting (June 25) we brought up a paper which represented a split that has been going on between two great elements in our government since the war. They could not agree on what our policy should be. In this case, rather than make some less desirable compromise at a lower level which would please nobody, we brought up to the council

So They Say

I have assured the President on several occasions that I have no objection to hamstringing him in the conduct of his foreign policy responsibilities.

—Senator John Bricker, backing bill to limit President's "treating-making" powers.

I'll be cursed and discussed for another generation at least.

—Ex-President Harry Truman says he doesn't want a memorial to him now.

I don't think it will be necessary to subpoena Mr. Truman. I hope it isn't.

—Senator McCarthy says he may call ex-President Truman to testify.

In America you have the milkman at your house early in the morning. In Poland there are too many such early morning callers. There comes a knock on your door, but it is not the milkman. It is somebody to take you away.

Similar to yesterday's story—A man rushed into a lawyer's office and said "I had an argument with Brown and he told me to go to H—." You may not like the final contract in today's hand, but it would be difficult to pick a better one. When a hand is a misfit, no contract is very attractive.

West doubled four spades with such emphasis that it was perfectly clear that he had great trump strength and length. This length was to prove his undoing.

West opened the queen of hearts, and Dick Kahn, New York expert who was playing the South hand, won with dummy's ace of hearts. He

West led a third round of hearts, and Kahn carefully ruffed in his own hand with the five of spades. He later admitted that he wasn't quite sure why he ruffed with the five instead of with the deuce, but he knew it couldn't do any harm and might do a lot of good later on.

Declarer continued by leading another low club towards dummy, and West stepped up once more with the eight of spades to overruff the dummy. Once again West got out with a heart, and this time dummy ruffed with the three of spades, and South undertruffed with the two of spades.

This allowed declarer to stay in the dummy, from which he could lead a diamond. South could ruff, and West was forced to overruff. Since West then had to lead a trump up to declarer's ace-queen, South made his game contract.

The result is very different if South makes the mistake of ruffing the third heart with the deuce of spades instead of with the five. When, later on, West leads a fourth heart, South is obliged to win the trick with a trump in his own hand.

Now South must lead a trump himself, and East is able to win the trick with the ten of spades. The next trick comes through South, and West is able to win one of the last two tricks to set the contract.

Q-CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East 1 Spade 2 Clubs 2 Dmds. Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-9, Hearts K-10-4, Diamonds K-3, Clubs 6-5-2. What do you do?

A—Bid three diamonds. You must bid spades, and no other rebid is possible. You will not be disappointed if your partner tries for game at no-trump.

When Cass Dean received Pete's note, smuggled to her by Jess Williams, she was shocked more by the first sentence than by the last. It had seemed to her that he was taking this way to make it clear that things were over between them. What Pete had said about Betty scarcely made an impression. Now he was throwing her to Zed Barnes.

If that's what he wants, she decided, she would marry Zed.

Zed had a queer fascination for her. In her heart she admired men who took what they wanted. She hated poverty, and she knew Zed was rich. Already he had hinted that if she would have him they would clear out and go where they could live in luxury the rest of their lives.

For a few minutes she paced her room with a tigerish stride, and then she read the note again. This time she caught Pete's meaning and her anger subsided, but her opinion was not changed. She was still sure that Pete no longer cared for her, but had fallen for Morrison.

"So you're too modest to ask if I was infatuated with you, but why should I lie about it? I admire men who make their own way. And I'm a Southerner, and I don't like Yankee law. Frankly, I admire the way you before I ever met you. It's why I came here." She met Zed's bold gaze across the table without flinching.

"You're the woman for me," Cass said. "Don't ever make me jealous, Zed, for I'll likely kill you. Pete Morrison threw me over; that's why I don't care what happens to him or this girl he told me she was crazy about."

"The thing was, she realized, that she still loved Pete enough that if she couldn't have him she would be tempted to destroy him. And she had the means right in her hands. In bed that night her mind kept turning to the girl, Betty, and in spite of herself a strange pity began working within her. At least the girl was innocent and she was getting a horrible deal which she made every decent instinct in Cass revolt.

In the morning she had not made up her mind about what to do with her own life, but she had decided upon her plan of action.

She had met Zed at breakfast, greeted him somewhat coquettishly, and after they were seated she said, "Oh, by the way, here's something I thought you might want to see." She handed him Pete's note.

A FROWN deepened on Zed's face as he read. "Where did you get this?" he thundered.

"It's a funny thing. When I washed out some clothes yesterday I hung them out in the trees, and when I brought them in this was pinned to one of my garments."

Zed grinned. He was not pleased to know that a spy could have gotten right into his stronghold, but he had no reason to question her word.

"Is what he wrote true?" he asked abruptly. "Do you hate Morrison?"

"So you're too modest to ask if I was infatuated with you, but why should I lie about it? I admire men who make their own way. And I'm a Southerner, and I don't like Yankee law. STATE DEPARTMENT CLEAN-UP

Information Unit Clean-Up Presents Security Problems

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The clean-up or clean-out of the State Department's International Information Administration has presented a number of security problems not found in regular diplomatic work.

IIA, of course, is the outfit that runs the Voice of America, the U. S. libraries and information centers overseas, the American propaganda press, publications and posters program, and the international exchange of learned persons under the Fulbright Act.

The competent, professional personnel recruited for IIA must be writers, dramatists, newspaper and radio people, language experts, refugees or political figures with special knowledge of certain countries. Such people often live under different standards than run-of-the-mine folk. They are apt to be more liberal, more tolerant, freer in their conduct.

To use such people effectively involves some security risk. It has to be taken at times to get a particular job done.

28 Names Submitted
Since Scott McLeod came in as the State Department's new security administrator in March, the names of 28 top officials of IIA have been submitted to him for security clearance. Out of this group several have resigned, although not necessarily because they were security risks. Some just got tired of the way the program was being run, with heavy criticisms and heavier budget cuts from Congress.

IIA Administrator Robert L. Johnson and his deputy, Arthur A. Kimball, thus far have announced cuts of 830 employees in IIA. In addition, 160 unfillied jobs have been abolished. This reduces the IIA force from 9,100 to 8,110. This number may be increased slightly, however, as new talent is hired to step up programs aimed at countries behind the Iron Curtain. The increase will be 25 Americans and about 200 local nationals.

It is again emphasized by Security officers that the recent reduction of almost 1,000 employees is not made up entirely of loyalty case firings. Most of them were reductions in force necessitated by budget cuts. And there have been a number of voluntary resignations.

Force Not Used
Many of those who resigned could have been fired outright under security regulations, but they were allowed to leave quietly. There has been no effort to force anyone to resign, says Security Administrator McLeod.

This best is illustrated in the case of Theodore H. Kagan, former deputy director of information for the U. S. high commissioner in Germany. There is an untold story in connection with this case.

Kagan first was accused of having failed to receive security clearance in New York hearings before Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's committee, February 28, Kagan, in Germany, denied knowing anything about not being cleared, and the incident seemed cleared.

Then IIA Administrator Johnson asked McLeod for an evaluation on Kagan. Senator McCarthy's young investigators, Roy M. Cohn and G. David Schine then interviewed Kagan in Germany. He came out spouting about "gunshoers" after that interview, and demanded to be called back to Washington to clear his record. The McCarthy committee also requested that Kagan be called back.

While Kagan was in Washington, waiting for his hearing, he came into IIA headquarters and told Deputy Administrator Kimball that he wanted to resign. He had taken all the abuse he could stand, he said, and he wanted out.

Accept Resignation
Investigator Cohn heard about this, and wanted the State Department to accept the resignation at once, so that Kagan wouldn't be called for testimony. By this play, the McCarthy committee could take credit for getting rid of another State Department employee. But Kagan was allowed to complete his testimony first. Then the State Department accepted his resignation.

This incident is important in the story of the State Department clean-up for two reasons.

Besides showing that no State Department "blackmail" was used to secure Kagan's resignation, the incident showed that Security Administrator McLeod is not knocking under to dictation from the McCarthy committee.

McLeod and McCarthy admittedly are friends. But McLeod says that the senator had nothing to do with his appointment to the State Department security post, and did not know about it until it was announced.

Thurston Ballard Morton, assistant secretary of State for congressional relations, has assigned to McLeod's office the responsibility for liaison with all investigating committees.

"We cooperate with these committees," says McLeod. "But we have not given them any files and we have not shown them any papers they were not entitled to see."

This is his answer to the frequently heard Washington rumor that McLeod was made Security Administrator for the express purpose of funneling State Department secrets to Senator McCarthy.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail Old Stone Chimney

During the course of his many travels here and there in the Great Forest, Daddy Ringtail came one day to an old patch where people once had walked between a spring of water and the house where they lived beneath the trees.

There's another story I'll tell you sometime about the spring, but Daddy Ringtail turned the other way and walked until he came to the yard with the old stone chimney.

The chimney was made of huge white stones. It was really a fireplace chimney. Here was the place to make the fire in the fireplace. On up inside was the way for the smoke to go up and out. The old stone chimney with the fireplace once had been part of the house. The people inside the house had made their fires in the fireplace, warmed their hands by its dancing flames, told their bedtime stories in the glow of its embers.

Christmas stockings had hung by the chimney, and at other times, on cold Winter nights, children had stood with backs to the fire, lifting first one foot and then the other, warming themselves before going to bed. Yes, and the old mother cat once had curled there before the fire, and the hound dog had yawned and stretched. And apples had roasted, and popcorn had popped there. Wonderful smells of other foods had gone up the chimney to mingle with the clean sweet smell of woodsmoke.

Now the chimney stands alone.

By WESLEY DAVIS

Gone is the house around it, burned to the ground, I have to say. Gone, too, is the old hound dog, and the mother cat with her kittens. And stockings never again will hang by this chimney, nor children stand before it. Never again will it hear the old, old stories told at night, for the days and nights of those happy times are gone forever with the people who lived there. They went away on a faraway day. I don't know where—just away. And if you are unhappy to hear all this, you mustn't be. Somewhere, somehow, someday—if it isn't already—another chimney like this will stand anew as part of a house where children's children will live their happy lives as others before them. A hound dog will yawn and stretch and a mother cat will blink her sleepy eyes. Yes, and all the rest will happen too, while the clean sweet smell of woodsmoke drifts across the face of the moon. Happy day!

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor

Scattered over this country are several states where only the shotgun slug is permitted on deer; and there are more areas of dense brush where it is a very effective weapon indeed. Besides, chaps who don't like the price of a proper deer rifle can make out well with the old smoothbore from behind the kitchen door.

To find out something about the accuracy performance of shotgun slugs, I wandered down to the 50-yard pistol range of my club. I had a case of one-ounce slug loads, target papers, and all the shotguns I could conveniently lay hands on.

Only one of the smoothbores with me was equipped with sights—a slide-action rigged with a rear peep sight and an easily visible "gold" front bead.

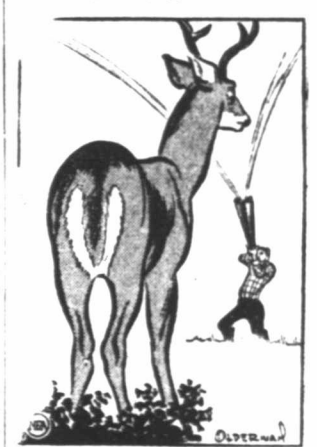

One of my pet bird-shooting guns, a Browning over-under that is as sure a meat-getter for me on flying game as I've ever owned, would throw a slug from the under barrel about nine inches higher than I figured. I was aiming at 50 yards. The slug from the upper barrel went higher than that by another six inches.

Fault of the gun? Not at all. I just couldn't be certain of where I was pointing it, lacking any rear sight except the eye-positioning comb of the stock. For another reason, those barrels were "regulated" or adjusted in their joining to throw birdshot, not slugs.

One handsomely engraved side-by-side double had an alarming tendency to throw the slug from its right barrel clear off the left side of a 50-yard pistol target—and the lead from its left barrel about as far off the right side.

But the big point which emerged was that from a single-barreled gun equipped with a rear-sonable rear sight, either like that made by Williams, or the adjustable peep made by the Redding Company up in Cortland, N. Y., I could keep those slugs inside of a three-inch circle at 50 yards, within about nine inches at 75 yards, and on the forequarters of a deer silhouette most of the time at 100 yards. So they're accurate enough for brush hunting—IF you have sights and some idea of where your gun shoots slugs.

KEEP CANDLES HANDY

Here's light on a dark subject. Electric power has been known to fail at the most inopportune moments, and flashlight batteries sometimes lose strength before householders replace them. For an extra backstop in case of lighting failure, buy a half-dozen candles, wrap well and store in a cool place. You can forget lighting worries, but don't forget where you stored the candles. They're fine, too, for heating canned food in a pinch.

Boy Scouts To Turn Grasslands Into City

SCOUT CITY, CALIF. (NEA)—

From the suburbs, a steer peers curiously at what last week was good grazing ground. From across the flat lands a calf bawls and a cowboy sings. But Main Street of the new city rising here is taking shape.

Within weeks, 50,000 honest, trustworthy, courteous, able, hungry Boy Scouts of America will move into their 3,000-acre city on the Irvine Ranch, 40 miles southeast of Los Angeles for their Third National Jamboree.

Almost 30,000 tents will rise. Almost 5,000 patrol kitchens will be set up. At least 36 health lodges, staffed by doctors and medical aides, will open. And six trading posts will do a thriving business.

The Jamboree will last only from July 17 to 23. But in that time, the boys from all sections, creeds and beliefs will live together and learn about each other. Scout leaders expect about 125 boys from other nations in addition to Scouts from every one of the United States.

Trips Scheduled

Besides their own pageants and meetings with outstanding Americans, most Scouts will tour several California points of interest. There is a scheduled trip to Knott's Berry Farm; a visit to the Long Beach Naval Base; a trek through the RKO Movie Ranch; an excursion to Catalina Island and through Hollywood.

The Jamboree facilities include formal worship services, a star-studded "Hollywood Night," and a Cavalcade of Scouting to commemorate the three-year scouting program of "Forward On Liberty's Team."

At least half of the excitement and adventure for the Scouts will come from their traveling to and from the Jamboree. Plans for many troops include visits to National Parks from Arizona to Wyoming and cities from Washington, D. C., to Spokane, Wash.

According to Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, Chief Scout Executive of the BSA, the great convocation of boys from all walks of life will be a practical demonstration of the democratic way of life.

"Here," said Dr. Schuck, "is a great experiment in citizenship, with the Scout Oath and Law and democratic procedures guiding the operation of each patrol and troop, and the great camp itself."

Scout City itself is divided into 36 sections, each housing 34 troops. The campsite will be administered by senior patrol leaders, Scout scribes, quartermasters and three adult leaders.

Each sectional camp has its own health tent, headquarters, commissary, post office and shower building. And if there's anyone you'd like to call there, you merely ask the operator for "Santa Ana, California: Jamboree 1953."

Every Scout pays a $48 fee to cover his camp expenses. But administrators foresee a rebate if the trading posts are successful.

They Come Friday

And so, on Friday, July 17, at 9 a.m., when a salute bomb signals the raising of the U. S. flag, 50,000 Boy Scouts of America will begin to eat their way through the week.

In the course of the Jamboree they will consume 18,000,000 gallons of water; 52,000 dozen eggs; 58,000 quarts of ice cream; 52,000 quarts of orange juice; 624,000 quarts of milk; and 100 tons of meat.

Even breakfast is phenomenal. One serving of morning pancakes for the Jamboree makes a stack higher than the Empire State Building.

RUTH MILLETT SAYS— Marriage Outside Religious Faith—Unhappy Parents

A girl of 21 finally agreed to stop seeing the young man she had planned to marry because her parents were so unhappy about the situation.

She says she and the young man belong to different religious faiths and her parents are determined that she marry within her own group.

But now that she has tried not seeing the young man she loves, she has discovered that though her parents are happy and satisfied, she is miserable. She's more sure than ever that she wants nothing so much as to marry the man she loves.

She wants to know what she ought to do.

It would be as bad for me to try to tell her what to do as it is for her parents to try to make up her mind for her.

She is 21 years old, a woman grown. It is her life to live and no one can tell her what she ought to do.

She may never face a bigger problem than the one she faces now, but face this one she must. Live Your Life.

Her parents aren't going to live her marriage for her, and they aren't going to be able to hand over another young man to take the place of the one she may give up—the way they could hand over a safe toy when she was a child to distract her from wanting to play with a dangerous one.

They have a perfect right to point out to her the reasons why they feel she would be making a mistake to marry this young man. But they have no right to make her feel that their own happiness depends on her choice.

It is her happiness that is at stake and not theirs. And she alone must decide what she feels she must do.

My only advice to this girl is to stop asking for advice and start thinking for herself.

At the age of 21, she ought to be enough to assume the responsibility for her own decisions.

KEEP CANDLES HANDY

Here's light on a dark subject. Electric power has been known to fail at the most inopportune moments, and flashlight batteries sometimes lose strength before householders replace them. For an extra backstop in case of lighting failure, buy a half-dozen candles, wrap well and store in a cool place. You can forget lighting worries, but don't forget where you stored the candles. They're fine, too, for heating canned food in a pinch.

Colonel's 41 Hours On Porkchop Ridge Hailed As Example Of Courage At Best

By ROBERT GIBSON
WESTERN FRONT, KOREA—(AP)—For 41 agonizing hours the colonel killed Chinese and nursed his men of the U. S. Seventh Division—the heroes of the battle for Porkchop Hill.

He came down the bloodied slopes Wednesday, pale and wan. Slowly, Col. Beverly M. Read of Monterey, Calif., went through the roll of those who didn't come back.

"They were good people — very good people," he said.

The Reds hauled in their deadliest weapons—flamethrowers and 122-millimeter cannon—in a savage assault on Porkchop. The attack started Monday night with 1,000 Chinese and boiled into a 3,000-man attack.

It ended almost two days later—with the division firmly entrenched on the crest of Porkchop.

The men of the Seventh took on the Chinese in grisly hand-to-hand fighting with gun butts and fists, even stones. One GI beat a Chinese to death with his steel helmet.

Read stayed with his men on "Chop" without rest.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Opl. Leo Jones of Hueysville, Ky. "He was everywhere, moving from bunker to bunker."

The 33-year-old colonel thanked God for the bunkers.

"That allowed me to call in artillery on ourselves," he said. "You see, the Chinese were on the top of the bunkers throwing grenades at us. The artillery knocked them off and it didn't hurt us."

"Read's short, cropped hair is prematurely gray, but his face is young.

"I got shot at," he said, "but I didn't get shot up."

Many of his men were not so fortunate.

When he came off the hill, Read walked among his battalion to see who was missing.

In one company only one officer was left.

"They were the ones who did the fighting and dying," the colonel said. "They were good people—very good people."

It rained steadily throughout the battle and a man could see only three feet in front of him during the night.

"That let them get everywhere—behind us, on top of us—on our flanks," he said.

Read said he directed the fight from a bunker on the south side of the hill. The Communist snipers armed with burp guns trained their guns on his command post.

"Every time a man left me he got shot at," the colonel said.

"That's how they got one of my company commanders. He had 30 yards to run to the trench, but they got him halfway.

"Then we used the buddy system," he said. "One man would leave, and the sergeant or I would cover him. If we didn't kill some chinks at least we kept their heads down."

The sergeant was wounded seriously the second night and the colonel refused to leave his post until his battalion was relieved on the hill the next afternoon. The colonel was the last man to walk down the hill.

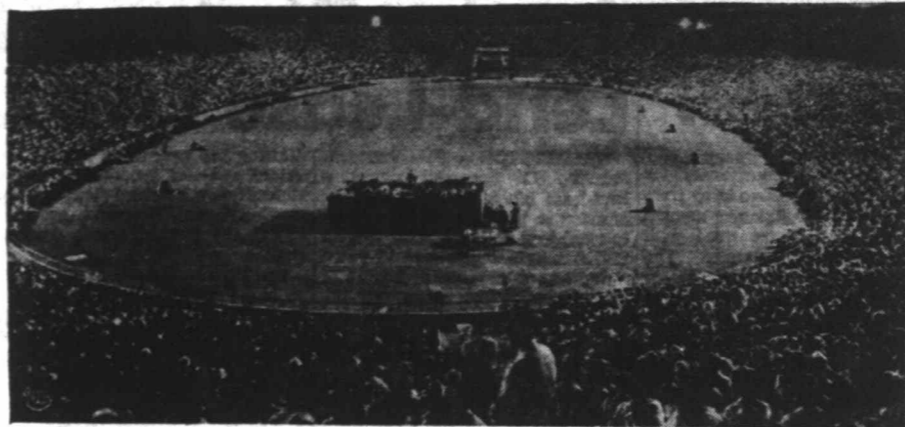

Throughout the battle, wounded were carried into the colonel's bunker. He cared for them until they could be evacuated.

"That man has greatness," said

Chaplain William E. Hall, of Hickory, N. C. "He didn't have to be there. He wasn't even supposed to be there. But we might have lost Porkchop if he had been somewhere else."

It was called the largest single evangelistic audience in church history. The most dramatic moment came when the 34-year-old preacher asked that all stadium lights be extinguished. Each person struck a match, and the stadium was once again alight. Graham then asked the people to pray that the flame of freedom will burn forever throughout the world.

Quick Money-Makers Spoil Movies' Comeback Chance

HOLLYWOOD—(P)—Is the movie business miffing its chance for a comeback? This Spring brought a burst of optimism to Hollywood. For the first time in three years, the movie industry moved into a position of advantage over its ace competitor, television. The public's excitement over 3-D and other tricks of film presentation buoyed up hopes as well as box office receipts.

But the craze shows signs of wearing off. Some of the gimmick pictures still are doing good business, although nowhere near the volume enjoyed by the earlier efforts. The fact is that film quality has suffered a severe setback in the attempt to make a quick buck.

Customer's Choice

A view of the product being shown in the Los Angeles area this week is appalling. It includes: a film about a sea beast that invades New York... another about a rambling robot... a quickie concerning space islands... a farce actually filmed in five days!...

A remake of a comedy hit of the '30's... a full-length foreign cartoon of dubious value... an old-fashioned costume epic... two low-budget Westerns that would get no notice except that they are three-dimensional. That doesn't offer much reason for people to tear themselves away from TV, even in these Summer months when the screens are filled with panel shows and giveaways. The current film fare offers plenty for the thrill-seekers, but how much of the movie audience do they comprise?

Almost everyone is curious to see these newfangled 3-D flickers. But once their curiosity is satisfied, how many will come back?

Still Need Plots

Recently a top producer told me: "If a picture is good, it can get by in the present market. But it has to be extra good to reach into that all-important 'lost audience' of people between 30 and 40. If you can get them to come to your picture, you have a big hit."

"But it's hard to get them out. They had the movie habit when they were younger, but lost it. They lived through the era when Hollywood was turning out great pictures like 'Gone With the Wind.' When quality fell off, so did their theater attendance."

So it would seem that Hollywood should aim at good dialogue instead of giant's grunts, better plots instead of bigger gimmicks.

Justice Discloses Roosevelt Held Lend-Lease Law Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON—(P)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed a lend-lease bill in 1941 although he branded a portion of it unconstitutional in a unique official opinion that has been kept secret 12 years.

Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, who was Roosevelt's attorney general in 1941, brought the opinion to light in an article in the current issue of the Harvard Law Review.

What the President objected to was provision that would let Congress cancel the lend-lease law merely by pushing a resolution through the House and Senate—drafting job over to a special assistant attorney general, Alexander Holtzoff, now a federal district judge in Washington. Roosevelt, he said, signed the Holtzoff draft without change.

The President, Jackson says, asked him to put the document in the Justice Department files and left it to him to make it public at some future time.

"The document probably is the only one of its kind in our history—it is extraordinary for the President to render a legal opinion to the attorney general," Jackson said.

Jackson says he is making it public now because it supplements a previous article in the Harvard Law Review on the control of federal Administration by congressional resolutions and committees, written by Robert W. Ginsane, a Justice Department attorney.

Why didn't the President make his opinion public at the time? "The reason," Jackson says, "was political."

The President's views, he explains, were those of opponents of the lend-lease bill, people who were his consistent political enemies.

Legislators who normally were loyal supporters of the President, he said, argued that the provision to which Roosevelt objected was valid and was an effective check on any "runaway executive action."

"For the President to make public his views at that time," the justice says, "would confirm and delight his opposition and let down his friends. It might seriously alienate some of his congressional support at a time when he would need to call on it frequently. It would also strengthen fear in the country that he was seeking to increase his personal power."

At the same time, Jackson says, Roosevelt wanted to be on record, in case the provision ever were invoked.

Jackson says his own doubts on the question of the constitutionality of the provision were not satisfied but the point that disturbed him most never bothered the President in the least.

"It seemed to me," Jackson said,

"to depend on whether the provision was to be considered as a reservation or limitation by which the granted power would expire or terminate on the contingency of a concurrent resolution or was to be regarded as authorizing a repeal by concurrent resolution."

Roosevelt, he said, invariably referred to it as a repeal provision.

Franklin D. Roosevelt by separate legislation subject to presidential veto. Jackson said Roosevelt considered the provision "constitutionally objectionable but politically necessary."

'Eased The Path'

Later on, Jackson writes, Roosevelt approved a series of laws with provisions similar to the one he pronounced unconstitutional. Jackson does not discuss any such later legislation in detail.

"Its acceptance," Jackson says, "no doubt eased the path to enactment of his wartime legislation. But from his earnestness in discussing this practice with me, I know he regarded it as a triumph of expediency over principle."

The former attorney general said Congress put in the provision with the support of Administration forces who felt it was not too damaging to the lend-lease bill and would meet criticism that the measure gave too much power to the President. The bill authorized a seven billion dollar aid program for wartime Allies.

Asks Record Of Opinion

On March 17, 1941, 10 days before Roosevelt signed the bill, Jackson got a memo from FDR asking him to draft a memorandum putting the Chief Executive on record that "the emergency was so great that I signed the bill in spite of a clearly unconstitutional provision."

Jackson writes he turned the

FBI Cites Texas Police Chief For Traffic Work

By TEX EASLEY
 WASHINGTON (AP)—The June issue of the FBI's "Law Enforcement Bulletin," circulated among peace officers throughout the nation, carries a prominent article by Police Chief Gus O. Krausse of Brownsville.

It is an account of the organization of a traffic division in the Brownsville department created specifically to cope with accidents. Chief Krausse tells how members of the division were selected from among men taking three-week course climaxed by participation in a fake accident and mock trial.

With the cooperation of the FBI and the Texas Highway Patrol, writes Krausse, the "staged" accident was so realistic that it fooled the officers taking the course. They had been thrown off guard by a "decoy" wrecked automobile, borrowed from a used-car dealer. The decoy had been parked in the police garage and presumably had to be used in the phony accident.

Unknown to but a few insiders, one of the officers taking the course was chosen to be the "victim" of a hit-run driver—an FBI agent. The accident happened when the "victim" officer, standing with classmates out of doors watching the making of plaster of paris casts, was sent across the street to get a bucket of water. He had a capsule of red cake coloring in his mouth which added to the realism. Needless to say, with one of their pupils apparently run down, the eager officer-students fled in hot pursuit. By pre-arrangement the hit-run driver got away. He was "captured" later, in a local warehouse . . . and the students learned his real identity.

One housewife witness to the "accident" later picked Chief Krausse as the man she had seen driving the hit-run vehicle.

Around the Capital: Four young Texans have been here for a busy week at the annual 4-H Club encampment. Selected because of their accomplishments in 4-H work, they are: Troy Lee McNeil, Floydada; Johnny T. Halbert, Attoyac, Nacogdoches County; Yvon Allen of Argyle, Denton County, and Ruth Anderson of Agua Dulce, Nueces County. They represented 121,997 Texas 4-H club members.

Miss Mildred Harris and A. H. Karcher, Jr., assistant state 4-H club leaders, were in charge of the trip. Floyd Lynch is state 4-H leader. Headquarters of operations are at College Station.

Miss Allen, who visited Washington briefly two years ago with a high school group, was guest of Rep. Frank Icard in the House of Representatives' dining room. She is a sophomore at North Texas State College at Denton. John (Skipper) Dowdy, 10-year-old son of the Athens congressman, is the envy of his friends here. He has a genuine horned frog, sent up from Texas by an aunt, Mrs. Clyde Carter of Karnes City.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sutherland Carpenter, correspondent for several Texas newspapers, recently was elected to the board of governors of the Women's National Press Club.

Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, one-time president of the University of Texas, is going back home when he retires from the Interstate Commerce Commission on July 1.

The White House announced on June 16—Dr. Splawn's 70th birthday—that he is retiring after almost 20 years on the commission.

Since his appointment by Franklin D. Roosevelt early in 1933, he has twice served as chairman. The chairmanship rotates annually among the commissioners.

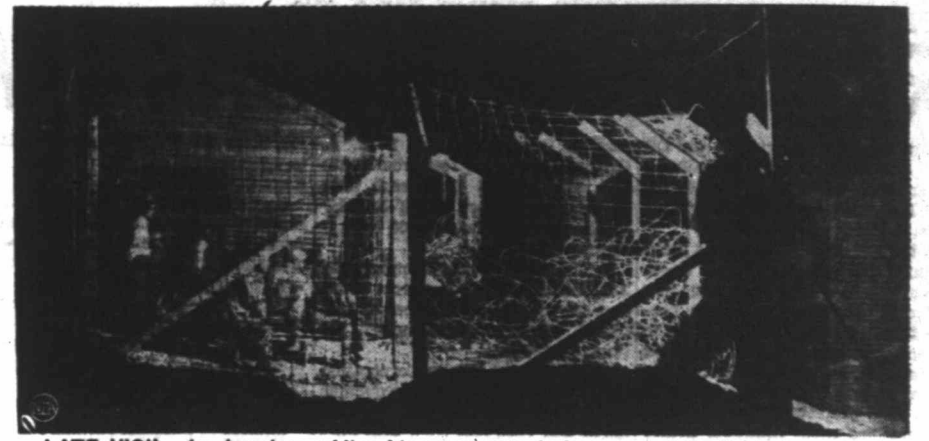

A native of Arlington, Dr. Splawn says he plans to retire to the family farm a few miles north of that community. He is negotiating with a publishing house concerning a book on economic matters that he will write.

"Then, when I get a little older," he observes, "I may get around to writing my memoirs."

The friendly and scholarly commissioner, almost blind for several years, has gotten to be almost a legendary figure at the ICC.

Unable to glance back at a prepared statement or document which has been cited, Dr. Splawn never the less can and does on occasions interrupt to refer back and quote from earlier testimony. He has developed a prodigious memory. Away from the bench, in his office and at home, he has aides read aloud to him and take dictation when he wishes to set forth his views in writing.

Dr. Splawn came to Washington in 1928 to work with the War Claims arbitrator and then served as counsel to the House Ways and Means Committee before his appointment on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

LATE VIGIL—An American soldier, his movements shadowy against the light of an overhead searchlight, stands guard at a prisoner of war compound which houses some 1500 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war, somewhere in Korea. American soldiers man guardposts of camps which house prisoners who did not, or could not, escape during the recent mass South Korean-inspired escapes from camps guarded by ROK troops.

Whoop-whoop: Fish Story That Is Wired For Sound

By RICHARD KLEINER
 WOODS HOLE, MASS. (NEA)—Did you hear about the one that got away? Must have weighed 20 pounds, and had the nicest baritone voice.

Fish story? Nonsense. Scientists have long known that fish make noise, and nowadays they're trying to find out how, why, and which fish make what noises. And they're succeeding.

A man from Woods Hole, Mass., Oceanographic Institution took himself up to the lower Saguenay River, at the mouth of the St. Lawrence Gulf. This is a hangout for white whales. He got a boat, an underwater microphone and a recorder and listened.

And he came to the conclusion that white whales make a noise like a Bronx cheer. They also squeal and mew.

This whole business of loud fish goes back to 1907. Before then, most people thought fish were deaf and dumb—hard of hearing. But in that year, Krummel, a German, wrote that fish make sounds like "zischen, schnurren, kurren, knauen, grunzen, trommeln und pfeifen." Pretty smart fish, speaking German that way.

Later, scientists of other nations heard the sounds, too. They reported all sorts of weird noises coming from the ocean's depths—from high-pitched sounds to bass voices. Gradually, more and more different sounds were catalogued.

The latest expedition, by the institution's vessel, Caryn, went to the Atlantic off Bermuda, southeast of Philadelphia. They were equipped with a big reel of cable, several underwater mikes, a battery of Gray Audograph recorders and plenty of deep water, because the ocean floor is two miles below the surface there.

They let the Caryn's motors stop to give the fish no competition, and the 97-foot ketch just drifted. And then, up from the briny, came amazing sounds. The scientists find it difficult to describe what they heard; they rely on such unscientific words as "whoops" and "whistles" and "screams."

So, temporarily, the scientists are calling the unknown fish after the noise they produce—there is the whoop-whoop, the woodpecker and the propeller. One day, they hope to put two and two together, and maybe you'll eat fried fillet of whoop-whoop yet.

To listen in on noisy fish, hydrophone is lowered into sea from deck of Oceanographic Institution research ship.

A second problem is to figure out how a fish makes noise. Fish have no vocal chords. They reason that some rub their fins, others drum on their air bladders, and some grind their teeth. There are still some puzzlers, and scientists can't figure how they make noise.

"The most puzzling aspect of the whole business is why fish make the noise they do. Nobody knows. But there are many theories. And it's important, because when the answer is known, there may be ways of sonically controlling the fish population—keeping them out of some areas, luring them to others.

One theory is that the noise has something to do with mating. Another is that it's a sound of warning. And here are some who say that fish make noise just for the halibut.

Begloved, Behosed Lads Quell Threat

SAN PEDRO, CALIF. — (AP) — Bee-deviled housewives, fearful of an attack by a swarm of bees which hovered into their neighborhood, resorted to a 13-year-old boy, Jerry Waddle, for help.

The lad climbed a plum tree, put on a pair of leather gloves, and casually scraped the bees into a box. Meanwhile, brother, Billie, 16, trained the garden hose on the bees to keep them quiet.

This was the boys' fifth swarm for their collection.

Kitchen arithmetic: You'll need a half cup of boiling salted water to cook a pint of frozen mixed vegetables. If you are planning to add a cream sauce to the cooked, drained vegetables, be sure to use any of the vegetable cooking liquid left in the saucepan, in your sauce.

Red Brutality In East Berlin Boosts European Army Plan

By LEON DENNEN
BONN, GERMANY — (NEA) — The West German parliament is now leading the campaign for speedy ratification of the European Army Treaty by the six signatory states. That is the principal immediate reaction to the brutal Russian suppression of the East German demonstrations.

Even the powerful Social Democrat opposition to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, while still opposed in principle to the European community, is veering to the view that only a well-armed Western world can resist Russian aggression.

Willi Richter, a prominent Bundestag member, told me: "Willi Goetting, executed by the Russians after a travesty of justice, and the East Berlin dead and wounded now stand between us and Moscow."

He said the Germans would be impressed now by nothing less than the complete removal of Soviet troops from German soil and the unification of the country on the basis of free, internationally-supervised elections.

Anything less, he said, will convince Germans that the Moscow peace offensive is nothing but a scheme to divide the Western powers.

In general opinion here is that the Kremlin has lost in East Germany an important round in the East-West struggle for Germany. Some compare the East Berlin events to the Kronstadt revolt of Russian sailors in 1920 which nearly led to the downfall of the Lenin regime in Russia.

Reports to official agencies here say that outwardly calm was restored quite swiftly to East Berlin under the guns of Russian troops and tanks.

But members of the Bundestag said their private advices were that the whole East Zone was like a seething volcano. Sporadic clashes between unarmed workers and the Red Army continued in Brandenburg, Magdeburg, Halle, Erfurt, Leipzig, Dresden and Rostock long after East Berlin had been quieted.

One report said that Lavrenti Beria himself had arrived in Berlin to conduct a post-mortem on the riots. Walter Ulbricht, once Stalin's most trusted agent in Germany, reportedly was removed from his post as deputy prime minister.

The heads of other top Reds in East Germany were likely to roll soon.

Fritz Heine, Social Democrat leader, forecast that the Cominform would move at once to stir strikes and riots in West Germany to divert attention from the East German situation and create the impression that all the zones of Germany were in revolt.

Authorities here saw the East German riots as a major propaganda defeat for the Russians. For more than 30 years they have represented strikes and riots as a protest of the workers against capitalism.

But in Berlin construction workers and engineering operators demonstrated openly against communism, showing up the hatred of Red rule and the puppet East German police.
