Plymouth Gets Show Of Oil In Wolfcamp At Midland Tester

Interesting shows for possible commercial production have been uncovered at Plymouth Oil Company No. 1-39 Midkiff, wildcat in Southeast Midland County.

The shows came on a drillstem test from 9,300 to 9,404 feet. Tool was open two hours. Gas surfaced in one hour and 15 minutes. Operator reversed out recovery. It was estimated at from three to four barrels of heavily oil and gas-cut drilling mud.

Flowing pressure was from 95 to 165 pounds and shutin pressure after 20 minutes was 1,340 pounds. The test was taken in the Wolfcamp.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 38, block 39, T-4-S, R-2-P survey.

The project is now making hole below 9,500 feet in Wolfcamp lime and shale.

It is 25 miles southeast of the city of Midland.

Two Deep Wildcats Are To Be Drilled In Hockley County

Drilling is to be started soon on two deep wildcats in Hockley County. Bankline Oil Company and Mid-west Oil Corporation No. 2-1 Helen Devitt Jones and others is to be a 9,500-foot exploration to test through the Permian in South-Central Hockley.

It will be 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 2, league 34, Concho County School Land survey. That makes it seven miles south of Levelland.

The new exploration is two miles east of Bankline and Midwest No. 8-1 Mallett, a recently completed deep dry hole. It is two miles northwest of Zephyr Drilling Corporation and Sunray Oil Corporation and Sunray Oil Corporation No. 1 Pace, a Clear Fork-Permian discovery completed a few weeks ago.

Test Pennsylvania. J. L. Hamon of Dallas No. 1 E. Bowman is to be a 10,000-foot prospect to try for production in the Pennsylvania in North-Central Hockley County.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 21, league 720, Abner Taylor subdivision of State Capitol Lands, Abstract 221.

It is four miles southwest of the town of Whittharrel and three miles north of the Levelland (San Andres) field.

More Flowing Pay Developed On DST In Sutton Wildcat

More possible pay in the Strawn has been uncovered at Ashland Oil & Refining Company and Felmont Oil Corporation No. 1 Wallace, indicated Strawn discovery in Southwest Sutton County.

The wildcat was drilled stem test to the interval from 6,970 to 6,979 feet. Tool was open 34 minutes. Gas surfaced in three minutes and fluid in 18 minutes. Clean oil was at the top in 21 minutes.

Flow was to pits for 13 minutes where it made an estimated 25 barrels hourly. No water flowed out. Gravity of the oil is 35.8 degrees.

Reds Punch Gaping Holes In UN Lines

SEUL—(AP)—Four South Korean divisions pulled back along the rain-soaked Korean East-Central front Tuesday night and early Wednesday under the impact of unceasing attacks by eight Chinese Red divisions that ripped holes four miles deep at points in the Allied lines.

The outcome of the battle involving more than 100,000 soldiers of both sides still was not clear after more than 24 hours of feverish close hand fighting in driving rain.

Bad weather sharply trimmed urgently needed Allied air support.

Positions long fought over in two years were in the endangered sector and their possession was in doubt. Among these were Sniper Ridge, Finger Ridge and Capitol Hill, all north and east of Kumhwa.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 8th Army commander, said after a first-hand look at the grave situation that ROK defenders were yielding some ground "as the defense readjusts itself to the new situation."

Truce Teams Talk, Make No Progress

PANMUNJOM—(AP)—Allied and Communist armistice delegates met for 39 minutes Tuesday and then called it quits until Wednesday, their negotiations apparently stalled by Red fears that South Korea will honor a truce only for a limited time.

Official secrecy shrouded developments inside the conference hut, but the Communist Peiping radio said the U. S.-South Korean accord "has placed another time bomb in the way to an armistice in Korea."

While the delegates talked, the war thundered to its highest crescendo in two years.

Excavation Begins For Two Swimming Pools; Others Due

Work on two new swimming pools for Midland was started Monday and city officials began laying plans for adding at least two more by next Summer.

The contracting firm of Calhoun and Bandy moved in on the job Monday to begin work on swimming pools for negro and Latin American residents.

The negro pool will be in a park in the 1600 block of East Indiana Street while the Latin American pool is being constructed in the 700 block of North Tyler Street.

Summer Show Unit Abandons Plan Here

The Summer stock theater, sponsored by Entertainment Arts, Inc., which was to have presented a six-week run of plays here and in San Angelo, has been cancelled, sources in Midland confirmed Tuesday.

Lack of cooperation in Midland was the reason given by the group, headed by Arnold Coy, for the abandonment of plans for the Summer theater which was to have presented leading actors and actresses in six Broadway productions.

Lower Crude Demand Indicated For August

AUSTIN—(AP)—Decreased demand for Texas crude was indicated by purchasers Tuesday to the Railroad Commission.

Advance nominations, or intentions to buy, showed a decrease of 10,402 barrels daily for August under July nominations. The total was for 3,139,200 barrels a day.

The permissive flow of oil for August will be set by the commission at a state-wide prorating hearing here Friday.

Traffic Courtesy To Add New Note To Yule Program

Traffic courtesy will be tied closely with the program officially opening Midland's Christmas shopping season this year.

Lester Short, chairman of the Retailers Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday announced plans for selecting courteous automobile drivers who will be rewarded with special gifts presented by Midland merchants during the Christmas shopping season.

Report Hints New Purge In Kremlin

MOSCOW—(AP)—Vyacheslav A. Malyshev, one of the Soviet Union's top engineers and planners, has been relieved of his post as minister of transport and heavy industry in another major government change.

The announcement that Malyshev was replaced by Ivan Isidorovich Nosenko was made in the newspaper Evening Moscow. The newspaper listed Nosenko as the new boss of the ministry in an account of a meeting at which it said Nosenko spoke out sharply against the purged deputy premier, Lavrenty P. Beria.

Hope Fades For All Aboard Airliner; 14 Bodies Found

HONOLULU—(AP)—The death plunge of a Transocean Airlines plane into the shark-infested Pacific 350 miles east of Wake last Saturday night with 58 aboard apparently was sudden and powerful but without fire, reports from the scene indicated Tuesday.

The Navy transport Barrett said none of the 14 bodies recovered showed burns but all had multiple fractures and clothing was ripped off as if from violent contact with the water.

The Barrett reported: "Evidence of violent, sudden death with multiple injuries. Previous report of flash burns erroneous. Skin showed water action but hair not burned. Clothing stripped probably by force of impact."

Barrett crewmen had to battle sharks in recovering the bodies.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate Finance Committee Tuesday approved President Eisenhower's proposal to extend the excess profits tax six months. It made no changes in the bill from the form in which the House passed it.

Four-Power Talks Before Fall Vetoed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Big Three Western foreign ministers wound up their Washington conferences Tuesday with indications of agreement that any high-level meeting with Russia should be delayed at least until next Fall.

A high British official said his government was willing to wait until after the German elections September 6 to avoid possible embarrassment to West Germany's government.

Diplomatic information reported that Acting British Foreign Secretary Lord Salisbury had presented this position to Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and that the three were in substantial accord.

Court Defers Action On Hospital Request

Midland County Commissioners delayed Monday afternoon a decision on a request that the county pick up the tab on $41,000 worth of bills for treatments given patients listed as indigent during the last year at Midland Memorial Hospital.

A complete list of the outstanding accounts, $28,000 of which were for Midland County residents, was presented earlier in the day by a delegation from the hospital.

County Judge Clifford C. Keith said the proposal would be discussed in detail at a later meeting.

West Wall Street Project Postponed Once More For Detailed Look At Costs

Midland County commissioners took an interested look Monday afternoon at plans for the widening of West Wall Street from the Andrews Highway to the Front-Street traffic circle.

But they want to get some idea of the size of the price tag on the needed right-of-way before making any definite commitments.

After listening to pleas for county participation in the project, which has been hanging fire for three years, the commissioner appeared favorably impressed but decided to withhold a formal decision.

"It looks to me," said Commissioner Alvey Bryant, "that we ought to take this thing under advisement until we can talk to those property owners and get some ideas about what it's going to cost."

Their final decision also will be influenced by the amount of funds available from a $350,000 bond issue voted principally to finance purchase of right-of-way for widening U. S. Highway 80 east to the Martin County line to a four-lane divided highway.

"I know this project has been battered around for years," explained County Judge Clifford C. Keith, "but our first obligation as far as the $350,000 bond issue is concerned is the purchase of the East Highway 80 right-of-way."

"However, I can see no reason why we shouldn't have enough money left for the Wall Street right-of-way."

There was a possibility a decision will be forthcoming within the next three or four weeks.

The City of Midland already is making a survey to determine the possible cost of the less than one acre of land needed for the Wall Street project.

And at the same time an appraiser is working on the East Highway 80 right-of-way and probably will be able to submit a report to the commissioners within the next three weeks.

Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the commissioners Monday afternoon to urge some action.

"I think it is time for some kind of a decision," he said.

"This project has been accepted by the State Highway Commission and the state is waiting for the right-of-way to be provided locally."

"If it's held up too long I'm afraid the commission will draw down that money and use it on some other project."

"Then we'll have to start all over again."

Len G. McCormick, attorney representing a group of West Wall Street property owners, spoke briefly, pointing out their interest in the project and offering any assistance required in getting it underway.

Plans for the project call for widening of the roadway to 80 feet with the state paying the paving bill.

Curbs and gutters also will be constructed with the cost borne by the adjacent property owners on an assessment basis.

In a letter to the commissioners, formally asking county participation in acquiring the right-of-way, City Manager W. H. Orwall submitted a figure of $25,000 as a "guesstimate" at the cost of local participation.

Envoy Robertson Flies Home After Truce Talks With Rhee

TOKYO—U. S. envoy Walter S. Robertson left Tuesday for the United States to report directly to President Eisenhower on his 16 days of secret talks with President Syngman Rhee on a Korean armistice.

The assistant secretary of State is flying by way of Alaska. He reportedly took with him a signed pledge by Rhee agreeing to abide by an armistice in Korea if one can be arranged at Pashunjom.

Robertson was affable, but just before boarding his plane he read this statement to newsmen:

"I have noted in the press many misrepresentations of the friendly and frank exchange of views in conversations including President Rhee, Prime Minister Paik, Foreign Minister Ryon, General Clark, Ambassador Briggs, Ambassador Murphy, Kenneth Young, and myself over a period of two weeks in Seoul.

"No Further Comment"

"However unintentionally such misrepresentations may have been made, they were nonetheless real. It was to avoid the confusion and possible misinterpretations of separate statements that President Rhee and I agreed upon a joint statement to be released simultaneously in Washington and Korea not before 10 a. m. Sunday, July 12, Korea time.

"I do not wish to make further comment before reporting in person to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles."

Robertson did not mention specifically what he called "press misrepresentations." However, he was known to feel that his mission to Korea was damaged in particular by a news story from Seoul last Saturday which quoted Rhee as saying South Korea would abide by an armistice for only 90 days.

Robertson was said to feel that the particular news account gave a false assessment of the accomplishments of his mission.

Reportedly, Robertson and Rhee agreed that if no headway was made in 90 days of talking at the post-armistice political conference, the United States and South Korean governments would then confer again and decide what course to take.

Robertson was said to feel that the particular news account gave a false assessment of the accomplishments of his mission.

Laborite Slates New Effort To Air Margaret's Romance

LONDON—A Labor Party member served notice Tuesday he'll try again to get the House of Commons talking about Princess Margaret's reported romance with a divorced air hero.

Laborite Emrys Hughes said he would file another question in the House Wednesday addressed to the air minister. Officially he wants to know why the ministry is assigning a new air attaché to Britain's embassy in Brussels.

The new attaché is Group Capt. Peter Townsend, 34, a divorced man and until his transfer an equerry in the royal household for nine years.

Reportedly he and the princess are in love, and some British newspapers have speculated he's being sent out of the country because the Church of England opposes a divorced person remarrying, particularly with royalty.

Neither Townsend's name nor Margaret's was mentioned in Commons Monday, but Hughes asked why a new air attaché was being sent to Brussels "where there already is a considerable diplomatic station."

Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd replied that the present attaché in Brussels is being replaced and "in the view of her majesty's government, it is necessary to have such an officer in that post."

Hughes then said he thought the government was supposed to economize on such attaches and tried to pose what he called "supplementary questions." The speaker of the House ruled him out of order.

Bobo Rockefeller Reported Preparing To Fight Divorce

LITTLE ROCK—A Little Rock attorney—reporting that Mrs. Rockefeller is preparing to fight her divorce.

The attorney, Edward L. Wright, said his firm of Wright Harrison, Lindsey and Upton was retained by Mrs. Rockefeller's New York attorney, Louis Nizer.

In New York, Nizer said Monday night, however, that he had retained no Little Rock counsel.

Wright refused to say why Mrs. Rockefeller needed legal representation in Arkansas.

Rockefeller, a multimillionaire New Yorker, came here several months ago and since has granted his wife authority to occupy his 18-room Park Avenue apartment.

He has denied time and again that he is here to obtain a 90-day Arkansas divorce.

Bridegroom Jose Is Party Host; Rosemary Is Absent

DALLAS—Jose Ferrer, one of the nation's top actors, married Miss de Havilland soon.

Ferrer said his bride couldn't get to the party.

"I think she is taking a shower and putting up her hair," he said. "I have to work tonight and she doesn't."

The actor is starring here in the musical, "Kiss Me Kate." Miss de Havilland, a recording and movie star, has been an almost nightly spectator at the theater. She attended Monday night with Miss de Havilland.

Ferrer's second wife was given a divorce in Juarez, Mexico, last week.

The couple slipped away from Dallas Monday to be married by an Oklahoma County judge. It was a surprise to none of the gossip columnists, who had been predicting the event several days.

Ferrer gave his age as 41. Miss de Havilland is 25. Kurt Prings, Ferrer's agent, and his wife attended the couple.

Youngster Tossed Out Door Suffers Internal Injuries

DALLAS—A 30-month-old baby was taken to Parkland Hospital Monday night after his 30-year-old mother threw him out the front door.

The child's father told Officers C. R. Dellinger and K. S. Stanfield that he was in the front yard, and that his wife, who had been drinking, was in the house with the child.

Suddenly, the woman shouted to her husband to "come and get this baby."

When the man failed to come to the door, his wife picked up the child and huried him from the front door onto the porch.

Hospital officials said the child may be suffering from severe internal injuries.

MARIETTA, GA.—W. E. Childress of Marietta is willing to give the Savannah, Ga., police "A" for effort but would have to assign an "F" for observation.

When in the South Georgia city recently on a convention, Childress found his car tagged because he had no city license tag. A few inches away from this tag was a windshield sticker identifying the car as belonging to a convention visitor to Savannah.

HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

Exclusively Yours: Movies too spicy for the film industry's purely seal are joining the big 3-D and wide-screen barrage in Hollywood's battle against TV competition.

"The Moon Is Blue" was the first and now it's "Hannah Lee," the Jeanne Dru-Macdonald Carey costar. The Johnson office censors have refused "Hannah" an industry seal of approval unless the seduction sequence is re-cut with heavy deletions.

"The cinema's demands are unreasonable," Producer Jack Broder told me, "and we've had no complaints from Philadelphia, Chicago or San Francisco, where the film is playing. I don't believe the cuts should be made. The lack of a purity seal won't stop me from selling the picture."

More censorship hassles are due over Hugo Haas' Independent, "Bait," and the RKO film with the Minsky flavor, "Son of Sinbad." The explosive plot of "Bait" has a middle-aged husband offering the love of his wife to a younger man.

Charles Laughton's London stint with Robert Donat in "Hobson's Choice" has its sad note. Laughton signed the movie contract in order to be near his aged mother in England, but she died before the picture started.

Star Laurence Olivier and Lady Vivien are boiling mad over Hollywood reports that they are on the verge of bankruptcy and will have to sell their English manor. The Oliviers are in better shape financially than most Hollywood stars.

The big salary days in Hollywood are over but the memory lingers on. The Screen Actors Guild is sending out a form letter to every actor, talent agent and executive in the flicker business warning against slashes and urging name performers to insist on the salaries they commanded before the big panic.

Comes September and Xavier Cugat will collect $45,000 for the third straight year from RKO without uttering a single line or shaking a maraca in a studio picture. This No. 3 payment will terminate Cugat's contract with the studio.

Gilbert Roland's shuddering over what's happened to the Cisco Kid on TV. The last to play the role.

"Will you please explain DUKW, T-172E, M-38, A-1 and M-46. What about the Walker Bulldog tanks and performance of the Quack, Wessel and Greyhound?"

It also developed that most of the information he asked is a matter of public record, anyway, so Arnold got his facts with G-2 okay.

The 78-year-old expert estimated about half of Malaya's tin deposits have been mined, but there is plenty left, mostly of low quality, he said.

Svelte 'Starvation Silhouette' Dominates Fall Fashion Showings

By DOROTHY ROE
 AP Women's Editor
 NEW YORK —(AP)— The long-suffering figure of the U. S. woman must take another beating this year if she is to fit into the new skin-tight Fall clothes.
 Gone are the concealing full skirts, the padded hiplines, the comfortable crinolines. The new silhouette is narrow and straight as a knife, skin-tight around the midriff, revealing every line of the figure.

Visiting fashion editors viewing the New York collections this week have been impressed with the fact that the new season should mean a field day for girdle manufacturers and reducing salons. As one weary editor put it:
Season Of Diets
 "Here we go again, girls! Pass up that potato and deny that dessert. This is the starvation silhouette."
 Girdle and bra manufacturers, who gathered in New York for their annual market week just before the current National Press Week fashion showings, were jubilant over prospects of a land-office business this Fall.

New long-line bras and high-line girdles will be a recognized necessity with the new tight-midriff dresses. Designers rushed to adjust their foundation silhouettes to the new mode in time to exhibit them to buyers. Many bras have elastic midriff sections, to mold the rubber-tire area of the feminine figure into the required flatness. Many girdles are built with a high-waisted line reaching almost to the bust, for the same purpose.

Narrow Lines
 Typical of the straight-and-narrow lines that predominate throughout the Fall market is the collection of Harvey Berin, shown to the fashion press at the beginning of a crowded week of style previews.

Berin, a perfectionist, carves boucle tweeds to stiletto slimsness, shows them in a series of tailored dresses as crisp and decisive as an exclamation point. He trims them with small crisp white pique collars, adds a touch of black velvet or a black string tie for accent and eliminates any other distraction which might break the uncluttered line. The result is clean as a whistle, and destined to establish a new streamlined trend.

In addition to its change in silhouette, the new season is notable for the luxury of fabrics and trimmings. In a coronation year, U. S. fashions are as lush as might be expected in England, keyed to a note of elegance. Fur trimmings and linings, jewel embroidery, beading and sequins are all over the place. And strangely enough, they manage to remain in good taste.

Soapsuds Make White Accessories Practical

By ALICIA HART
 NEA Beauty Editor
 The newest note in white is in leather jewelry—white capekin and pigskin earrings, pins, and cuff, bangle, and expansion bracelets.

In the white leather picture, also, are kid collars—plain, fringed or rhinestone-studded. These are lined with fabric. You can have white calf, colt or kid handbags in box, barrel or bucket shapes and white leather belts to complete the snowy look.
 Upkeep of these accessories isn't as worrisome as it may sound. Soap-and-water care will keep all of these accessories clean.

Make a thick soapsuds and scoop some off the top of the bowl. Sponge off the soil and then wipe the leather with a clean, damp cloth.
 It's best to sponge these white leathers after every wearing, for appearance's sake and because ingrained dirt is bad for the leather and hard to remove.

Never immerse leather, unless it's in gloves. Let suds alone do the job.
 Avoid lipstick stains.
 Dry in an airy place, away from excessive light and heat.
 Wash white leather from the start, as dry cleaning dissolves the washable finish.

RUTH MILLETT SAYS— Inconsiderate Children Are Unwelcome Visitors

A reader asks: "Would you write an article on children who pick, trample and run over other people's flowers and shrubs?"

"It seems to me that if their own mothers would raise some flowers and teach their youngsters to enjoy them they would have more respect for their neighbors' flowers."
 With that I agree. And it applies to more than flowers. If a child is taught to appreciate beauty and to take care of things at home, he will usually show respect for other people's property.

But what can you expect from a child who isn't taught to take care of things at home? If he jumps up and down or walks on his own sofa at home, he'll do the same when he is in someone else's house.

If he hasn't been taught at home that it requires work and effort to grow flowers or had their beauty pointed out to him, it isn't likely that he'll have much respect for the flowers other people work to grow.

If he is allowed to treat his own and his family's possessions carelessly, that is the way he will treat other people's.
 So it is doing a child a real injustice to neglect to teach him respect for beauty and for the care of possessions.
Careless Child Unwelcome
 For no child is a welcome guest in other's homes if he or she hasn't been taught to take care of things. Even though a mother may not care if Willie stands on her coffee table, because she is waiting until the children are older to get new furniture, she can be sure that nobody else is going to appreciate having Willie treat their possessions so carelessly.

 You know yourself that whether or not you groan when you see a friend arriving with her children or are genuinely pleased to see them depends on whether or not you expect the house to look like a cyclone had struck when they leave.

L. Beria's Downfall

Some might see in the fall from power of Russia's No. 2 man an event which could affect the world situation. But most indications are that they would be seeing something that just isn't there.

Rather, there is considerable evidence that the downfall of Lavrenti Beria, Russia's deputy premier and head of the secret police, is purely an internal matter.

Experts in the field of international politics see small chance that the circumstances surrounding Beria's case are such as to affect Russian external policy in Korea or Europe.

A tip-off on what very possibly may be the principal case against Beria is to be found in the fifth of six charges against him as listed in Pravda, official Communist Party newspaper: "Attempting to turn the Ministry of Interior into a privately dominated force."

That ties in with recent reports from Europe that Beria craftily had been increasing his power since Stalin's death. Only the day before the announcement of Beria's fall, NEA Correspondent Leon Dennen reported, "The chief of Russia's secret police is inching towards the seizure of power in the Kremlin."

That reflects the old Kremlin tradition that if you plan to wield the axe, wield it fast, before you get it yourself.

The possibility also has been cited that Beria, as head of the secret police, was made the fall guy for the recent uprisings against Russia in East Germany and other parts of Eastern Europe.

And there's the possibility that Premier Malenkov is sacrificing Beria as a sop to the Russian people, who both hated and feared the police chief.

Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia said in an interview only a few days before Beria's fall that while big policy changes undoubtedly were going on inside Russia, there was no reason to think she had changed her "basic aims."

The President's Committee on International Information Activities reported to Eisenhower July 8 that there was "no reliable evidence that changes in the Soviet regime and in Soviet tactics involve any change in the basic Soviet objective of a Communist world controlled by the Kremlin."

Thus the facts at hand would indicate that while Russia is having her troubles they do not necessarily in this case involve the outside world. In fact, they probably don't.

What you don't know won't hurt you—unless you try to tell your friends all about it.

Most people are more interested in any given payday than in making every day pay.

A New Yorker who turned in a false alarm told police he didn't have a home. That's been taken care of.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Ike faces confirmation fight on appointing lobbying ex-senator to Appeals Court; Tax fight left some GOP scars; Ike used New Deal technique of pressuring congressmen.

WASHINGTON — You can't get anyone to talk about it for quotation, but Democratic senators are seriously considering a battle against Ike's most important proposed judicial appointment—U. S. Senator John Danaher to the U. S. Court of Appeals, Second Circuit.

Located in New York City, this is one of the most important appeals courts in the nation, made famous by Judge Learned Hand and other noted jurists. Judge Thomas W. Swan now is retiring from that bench and Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, has sold the White House on appointing genial John Danaher of Connecticut, one of the most skillful lobbyists in Washington.

Good old John is popular with ex-colleagues, but his chief distinctions of late include being an excellent GOP money-raiser, and president of Capitol Hill Associates, the so-called GOP "drinking club" across from the Capitol, and director of special activities for Eisenhower last November.

As a lobbyist, Genial John has some glib-tongued clients, including the semi-Socialist Bolivian government, for which he has just put across important U. S. aid, plus a contract to buy tin. He also represents Firestone and Goodrich in the rubber field, and some senators are wondering what part, if any, Danaher has played in persuading the Ike Administration to sell the government's valuable synthetic rubber factories to the rubber industry.

Danaher also represents Fuller Brush, and in 1947, shortly after the Lobbying Act was passed, was listed as the highest paid lobbyist on Capitol Hill with a fee of $25,000 from Revere Copper and Brass. He got this for getting the import tax on copper suspended.

During his career as a senator, Danaher had been a high tariff man. But as a lobbyist, he opposed the import tax on copper for his clients. In the year 1946 he also was listed as receiving $20,000 a year from the Republican National Committee as its contact man with Congress.

Danaher irked some of his colleagues by one brassy piece of lobbying in 1945 when he actually went on the floor of Congress, a privilege which he has as an ex-senator but is not supposed to abuse as a lobbyist. In order to lobby against the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, although not a member of the Senate, he actually held whispered consultations with other senators on the Senate floor in an effort to defeat a bill which Eisenhower now champions.

Just before the 16-9 vote to sustain Ike, Uncle Dan Reed suddenly announced that the secret meeting was "adjourned," banged his gavel furiously, and started to walk out of the room.

"Just a minute, Dan, you can't do that," shouted Congressman Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania. "It's against parliamentary procedure. A majority of the committee wants to vote on this and under the rules we have a right to vote."

GOP Congressman Tom Jenkins of Ohio quickly offered a motion to bring the tax bill to a vote as Reed, his face flushed with anger, turned at the door and reluctantly came back.

"In all the years I have been in Congress I have never seen anything like this," declared the 78-year-old New Yorker. "There never has been anything to equal the pressures that have been brought on this committee to force out a tax bill the majority of us still do not want. We might as well make a complete surrender—for that is what we are doing here—and let the Treasury Department write all tax legislation in the future."

Reed's blowup was followed by another angry hassle involving Tom Curtis of Missouri, who supported Danaher, and two other Republicans who opposed him—Martin of Iowa and Hal Holmes of Washington.

Several weeks ago Iowa's Martin told committee colleagues that the excess profits tax was "unfair and unjust" and that nothing would change his plans to vote against it. However, Martin did change his mind and colleagues say the change took place when Martin recently went to Iowa to announce that he would run for the Senate next year.

Accompanying Martin on the trip was none other than House Majority Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana, who labored night and day to bring the tax measure out of Reed's committee. Colleagues hinted that Halleck "put the squeeze" on Martin to vote for the bill in return for Administration blessing for the Senate.

Missouri's Curtis probably had this in mind when he jumped up at the closed-door meeting to decry the tactics of Ike leaders. GOP Defeat?

"I never dreamed anything like this would happen when I came to Congress," he declared. "It means the pressures that have been exerted on members of our committee to get them to vote on this bill. The pressure on me has been so heavy that I have been unable to sleep at night."

"I have been told that if I didn't vote to support this bill the Republicans would be defeated in the next election. Well, maybe it wouldn't be such a bad thing if the Republicans are defeated. I have serious doubts that the present leaders of my party are qualified to represent the American people if they do not fulfill campaign pledges and use pressure tactics to steamroller legislation like we have witnessed here."

Curtis next lashed out at Ways and Means Republicans who supported Eisenhower and opposed Reed—Those who vote for expediency and against their convictions, those who declare themselves one way and vote another."

At this, Iowa's Martin jumped to his feet. Wagging his finger in Curtis' face, he shouted: "I've heard enough of this. You can't accuse me of such things, sir." Holmes of Washington supported Eisenhower from the start of the profits tax battle, but he also took umbrage at Curtis' remarks. Addressing him angrily as "sir," the Washingtonian demanded to know if Curtis was referring to him.

"I am not accusing either of you," Curtis shot back icily. "Note—Heavy pressures used to be applied under Roosevelt; also were applied by Tom Dewey to switch delegates away from Taft at Chicago. The big steel mills in Pennsylvania, for instance, pressured Governor Fine to bring his delegates over to Ike. Contributions, it was threatened, would be cut off. However, these pressures leave scars."

PETER EDSON'S State Department Clean-Up

Ex-President Has No 'In'—Politics Vs. Protocol—Argentinians In Whirl—Gore On His Colleagues

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Not much attention was paid to it at the time, but in addition to all the Democratic politicians who called on ex-President Harry S. Truman during his recent Washington visit, there were nine foreign ambassadors among the visitors.

Most of the calls were purely social. The ambassadors who had been in Washington while Truman was in the White House merely came around to pay their official respects.

But several of the ambassadors came around to ask Truman if he couldn't do something to get them in to see President Eisenhower. They said they had filed their official requests with the State Department. But nothing ever happened. They wanted some action.

Ex-President Truman had to confess to his old friends that there wasn't much he could do about it. In fact, it was surmised that if he sent such a request over to the White House, it would do the ambassadors' cause more harm than good.

Mrs. Hobby Objects in a recent article by this correspondent on the "State Department Clean-Up" it was stated that Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, would not give "assurances of no security risk" in the case of Mrs. Mildred McAfee Horton.

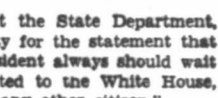

Mrs. Hobby says, as reported, that she sponsored Mrs. Horton's appointment as U. S. delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Council. Mrs. Hobby says she was asked to recommend someone for this appointment by the Department of State. At no time, however, says Mrs. Hobby, did she refuse to vouch for Mrs. Horton on the question of security, and she never was asked to do so.

Political Courtesy There was considerable speculation and gossip in Washington over whether President Eisenhower should have invited ex-President Truman to come over to the White House for a friendly chat. It became an argument of protocol vs. politics.

Ex-President Truman sort of put the kibosh on any such meeting before he got to Washington, by saying that the President had more to do than see every Tom, Dick and Harry who came along.

President Eisenhower invited in Adlai Stevenson before he began his world tour. President Truman invited in ex-President Herbert Hoover and put him to work on post-war famine-relief problems, even though Truman's political advisers were against it. And Truman's first act when he revisited the Senate was to go shake hands with the ailing Senator Taft.

There was some feeling that the courteous thing would have been for Truman to go over and pay his respects to the President, just to show there was no hard feeling. But Raymond D. Muir, deputy chief of protocol at the State Department, is authority for the statement that an ex-President always should wait to be invited to the White House, "just like any other citizen."

At the dinner reunion which ex-President Truman had with those members of his Cabinet who were in Washington, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson presided as master of ceremonies.

Acheson told one on himself. When he came back from his vacation in the West Indies, the first morning he set out for his law office he decided to walk. It's a good two-mile hike.

Going along one busy street, the secretary of State said he heard an auto horn being sounded somewhat angrily behind him. The driver of the car kept it up. Turning around to see what it was all about, the ex-secretary said he thought to himself, "What's that? People still giving Acheson the Bronx cheer?"

Happles Harry Strangled Retired Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan has found out the hard way that he doesn't rate around the White House any more. Vaughan now is in public relations in Washington.

He got a request from one of his clients for President Eisenhower's autograph. Vaughan sent the request over to the executive offices for handling through channels, as General Vaughan had himself handled many such requests when he was military aide to President Truman.

The Vaughan request apparently got as far as the offices of the assistant to the President, Gov. Sherman Adams. There it was stopped with a comment that they couldn't think of bothering the President for anything like that.

Speaks Of Fellow Bulls It isn't often that one senator will give frank opinions about his colleagues, other than to call one of them "my distinguished opponent" during debate. Freshman Senator Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) did that the other day, however, in a speech delivered in his home state. Here are a few of his impressions:

Senator Taft of Ohio—"He is a man who has provoked and irritated many people. But he has at the same time retained the admiration of some of his bitterest critics."

Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas—"Not being particularly articulate in forensics, or unusually articulate, he does not at first sell himself for what he is worth. But as quickly as any man I know, he can go to the heart of an issue. . . . He has done much to rekindle the rips and tears of the Democratic Party in the Senate. There is more Democratic unity now than in the last decade."

Senator Knowland of California—"I knew him and he may have recognized me as a congressman, but I doubt that he could have called my name. . . . For the most part, his thinking is straight, though not very fast. He is a very serious and intense man, and I have wondered if his lack of a sense of humor would not be his greatest drawback as a leader."

Of senators in general Freshman Gore observed—"If you sit down to lunch with a senator or meet him in a social hour, he is a Chesterfield. But on the floor of the Senate each one is a prima donna carrying a flag which reads, "Don't Tread on Me." Entering Senate debate is like going into a ring with 95 semi-friendly bulls."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
 Written for NEA Service

No reader of this column could possibly mislay today's hand. But if you were playing this hand at the table, instead of in a newspaper column, you might have a little more trouble.

When the hand was played, West opened the three of spades. Dummy finessed the jack, and East was allowed to win the first trick with the queen.

Dummy won the spade return first. When South played the queen of diamonds from his hand, West very casually played the five of diamonds. West simply didn't want to give up his only possible entry to the long spade suit.

South could have made his contract by continuing with the diamonds in order to force out West's king. But how was South to know that West had the king of diamonds? The finesse had apparently

IT seemed to Pete that he had no more than closed his eyes than Walter was shaking him urgently by the shoulder. He sat up with a start.

"What is it? What's the matter?" he mumbled.

"Indian just ride up the trail in big hurry," Walter said. "I no see him in time to shoot."

"You know him?"

"Much. He is Juan Chee." Pete's brain was suddenly cleared of sleep. He sprang to his feet. "Where is he?" he demanded.

Walter pointed. "He go that way—up the river."

Pete rushed out to the edge of the brush just in time to see the tall, slender Navajo on a poor buckskin pony disappearing over the crest of a small ridge. Juan Chee seemed to be getting all the speed out of his animal he could.

"Come on, Walter," Pete said. "We've got to follow that Indian, and we mustn't let him see us."

In the next mile they caught two glimpses of the Navajo, but despite their haste he was increasing the distance between them, and soon Pete realized that they would see him no more.

Walter said, "I think we no see him again. Better we stop."

"We can't stop," Pete said. "Betty may be at his camp. I'm sure she is."

letting him know what his daughter's fate was to be, before Nate himself was put to death.

He said, "I just have a hunch, Walter, that if we can follow Chee we'll find her."

This seemed to satisfy Walter. The pony tracks were easy to follow, and Walter's eyes were unusually bright at that kind of work. The boy seemed tireless. But dark-ness came down upon them, and the Navajo had not stopped. Several times they saw where he had stopped to whip his horse as if giving indication of lagging. After that, for a while, it appeared to show bursts of speed.

Of one thing Pete was sure: Juan Chee was in a great hurry. He wondered why.

THEY were now in a wild, rugged region, and the tracks couldn't be followed in the darkness. They would have to wait hope of rescuing Betty overcoming the much of the weariness they felt.

Reluctantly, Pete admitted that he couldn't travel as fast as Walter; partly because of the advantage of moccasins over boots; partly because the boy was accustomed to walking, and Pete was not.

When darkness overtook them they felt that they had almost held their own. They paused to eat more of the bread crusts and pressed slowly on the tracks of a couple of dozen horses being much easier to follow than just one.

Walter was on lead, and it lacked a little of midnight when he turned and signaled a halt. Pete crept up beside him, and in the distance saw the gleam of an almost burned out camp-fire.

The fire itself indicated that the Navajo's party was not expecting pursuit. Likely no one was standing guard.

"We go kill 'em!" Walter asked. Pete stared at the distant embers. Yes, there would have to be killing in order to rescue Betty.

Bath Oil Has New Use

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Beauty products often serve purposes more far-reaching than their makers originally intended.

Take bath oil, for example. Most users enjoy it in their bath only. But do you know that it can act as a sachet? Rub a few drops of a very rich bath oil — one that contains no water or alcohol — into the wood of your bureau drawer. The fragrance will delightfully scent your lingerie.

Girls use bath oil to freshen up smoky or musty rooms. Rub a few drops on your electric light bulbs or pour a few drops into a bowl of very hot water and let the fragrant steam clear the atmosphere.

Do you think you have to do without the luxury of bath oil because you have time for only a shower? Rub a few drops on each of your shoulders. When the hot water strikes them, a cloud of perfume will arise.

A few drops of bath oil, rubbed into the wood of her bureau drawer, perfume this girl's clothes.

Frequent travelers, who often resort to the practice of de-wrinkling their clothes over a hot bathtub, may shake a few drops of rich bath oil into the filling tub. The rising fragrance will penetrate their clothes.

One well-known bath oil is now available in a leak-proof travel-size bottle with a dispenser-type opening.

The MATURE PARENT

Don't Expect Age Of Chivalry To Begin When A Boy's Five

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Ann is Brian's young neighbor. She has a new red-and-black tricycle which he deeply admires.

Yesterday, with her mother, she pedaled it over to his house. While their parents chatted over tea, Ann rode her tricycle proudly up and down Brian's drive. Finally, she agreed to let him try it.

Unfortunately, he couldn't contain his delight. As he clambered on to the seat she'd relinquished to him, she suddenly became jealous of his joy in her possession. So she rushed at Brian and tried to shove him off the seat. He resisted by giving her a push that knocked her down and cut her knee.

Ann's screams brought mothers flying out into the yard. Dismayed by the guest's bleeding knee, Brian's mother turned on him. She said, "Shame on you. How unmanly to push a little girl! Don't you ever dare shove a little girl again."

Nobody seemed to think it important to tell the little girl not to break promises to little boys again.

Chivalrous care of the female of their species is not to be required of five-year-old boys. When a girl breaks a promise to them, they are right to get mad. We may have to ask Brian to control his physical outburst, but we have no right whatever to condemn his anger. By condemning it, we are telling him that little girls are a specially privileged race to whom the laws of justice do not apply.

This is bad training in trust and love of women.

Someday Brian will be a woman's protector. If he suspects that he can expect no justice from her, his protection of her will be a burden, not a joy.

Justice has no sex. When we suggest that it does, we don't teach Brian to trust girls, but to pamper, suspect and secretly fear them.

I often have seen members of my sex smirk when men say, "Women! I don't understand them." It's not a flattering remark. We are being told that we belong to a strange, unpredictable, specially privileged race that must be indulged, but not truly trusted.

So let's go slow on training in chivalry until Brian has learned to expect justice from us. Then we won't have to worry about his chivalry. It will be his spontaneous gift to us.

The Age of Chivalry was a supremely lonely one for women. The Crusaders spent most of their time away from home. I don't blame them. Fighting Saracens must have been a relief from indulging the whims of the strange, unpredictable, specially privileged Queens of Love and Beauty back home.

Spreading Strikes Threaten To Tie Up Sabine Area Building

By The Associated Press
Iron workers in Houston and carpenters in Port Arthur, Beaumont and Orange struck Monday for wage increases averaging about 25 cents hourly.

The walkouts slowed construction, but no picket lines had been set up. Carpenters were to set up picket lines Wednesday, said the union business agent, J. H. Whitehead.

About 800 members of the AFL Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers at Houston stayed off the job.

The carpenter's walkout affects about 2,160 AFL carpenters and millwrights in the three Southwest Texas cities. When carpenters began picketing it was expected to tie up about 10,000 other AFL craftsmen.

Negotiations continued in an effort to avert a threatened walkout of operating engineers. It was scheduled Monday but postponed one week. If the engineers strike and picket they might tie up industrial and commercial projects worth 100 million dollars and idle up to 25,000 workmen.

Wiley Foresees Factors Within China To Increase Chances Of Peace In Asia

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) said Tuesday he is hopeful that post-truce political negotiations in Korea may open the way for peace in all of Asia.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he believes wide cracks are developing in the Kremlin which might lead to an independent move by the Chinese Communists to arrange a settlement for Asia.

"I'm satisfied that the Chinese people are sick of war and after an armistice has been arranged in Korea, they will be vitally interested in making some arrangements for peace in all of Asia," Wiley said.

Robertson's Report
Wiley and many of his colleagues are assuming that an agreement with South Korean President Syngman Rhee reached by Walter Robertson, assistant secretary of State, has paved the way for a Korean cease-fire.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said Robertson will testify at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday to give details of the agreement with Rhee.

He is likely to be questioned closely about a proposed mutual security pact with Rhee's government.

doubts that the pact will be brought before the Senate for ratification in this session. He said it was possible, however, that President Eisenhower might call the Senate back into session this Fall to act on it. The President has authority to summon the Senate alone into special session to consider treaties.

Senate Ratifies Wheat Agreement

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A three-year extension of the International Wheat Agreement, under which 41 nations pledge to buy 595 million bushels from four major exporters, was ratified by the Senate late Monday.

The U. S. export quota is 270 million bushels. The government pays subsidies to exporters if the price they receive is lower than the domestic price. Such subsidies so far have cost $70 million dollars.

Great Britain, a major importer, has been a party to the agreement in the past but has not signed the new pact.

Smith said, however, that if quick action is needed, he believes the Senate would ratify the treaty in this session despite an early adjournment target.

Wiley said he would not be too surprised if the Chinese Communist government, headed by Mao Tse-Tung, pulls away from Russia because of signs of an internal struggle for power in the Kremlin.

Mao Seeks Power
"Mao Tse-Tung thinks he is as big or a bigger Communist leader than any of those left in the Kremlin—that he is the logical leader of the Communist world," Wiley said.

Senator George (D-Ga.), a Foreign Relations Committee member, said he particularly isn't impressed, however, with the thought that the Chinese Communists may desire peace.

George said he thinks they are willing to sign a truce in Korea primarily because they have been told by Russia that the Soviet can't continue to equip their armies on the scale necessary to continue all-out war there.

Father Saves Son's Life By Tipping Up Overturned Truck

ASTORIA, ORE. — (AP) — A 165-pound father somehow tipped over a pickup truck with his bare hands to save the life of his 14-year-old son near here Monday.

The boy, Thomas Johnson, was pinned face down under two feet of water by the 3,000-pound truck after it skidded off a road and overturned on the bank of Young's River. The boy had been driving the truck.

The five-foot-eight-inch father, Howard Johnson, 42, saw it all from his nearby farmhouse. He ran to the scene and managed to tip the truck from its side back onto its wheels. Then he started artificial respiration on the boy. A state patrolman came by and took over after five minutes.

A half-hour later the boy began breathing by himself, and was moved to a hospital. Attendants said the boy was well on his way to recovery, suffering only minor cuts and bruises.

Dr. Blair Henningsgaard, the boy's physician, called the father's feat "superhuman."

Navy Announces Far North Runway

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Navy Seabees, working with the Air Force, have packed snow into a hard, mile-long runway near the North Pole.

The Navy, announcing this Monday, said the site is the farthest point north that it has tested construction equipment. The exact location was not disclosed.

Work on the runway, 15 feet wide, began late in March. By the end of June, the Navy said, wheeled aircraft were landing and taking off. The planes which took the men in originally were equipped with skis.

HALF-PORTIONS COME CHEAPER

PHOENIX, ARIZ. — (AP) — The diner patron was half-finished with his soup when he noticed a fly.

Gratiously, his waitress removed the bowl.

When the check arrived the 20-cent soup was marked "10 cents."

The puzzled customer asked why. "You only ate half of it," replied the waitress.

Building Abducted From Florida Site

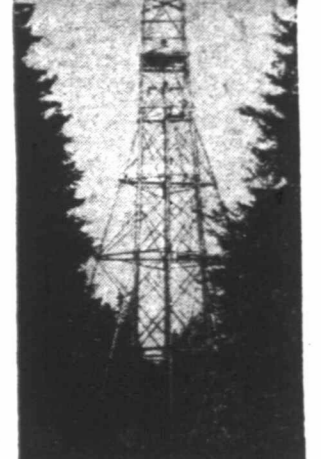

MIAMI, FLA. — (AP) — Police are searching for a 20-by-30-foot building.

Alvin Rose reported the structure was stolen from a lot where it had been used for storage by a construction company.

Detective R. P. Raulerson said the only clues to the strange disappearance were some large vehicle tracks leading away from the site.

Yank Volunteers Aid Free Chinese

TAIPEH, FORMOSA — (AP) — A group of Americans with no official U. S. connections is helping train and supply Chinese Nationalist guerrillas on a group of Nationalist-held islands off the Red China coast, informed quarters here said Tuesday.

The highly successful guerrilla raid on Red-held Nanjeh Island last October is attributed partially to this unofficial U. S. training and supply activity.

Informed sources expressed doubt that the more than 30 small coastal islands would be included in the official U. S. defense perimeter. They said aid given the guerrillas presumably will remain unofficial.

A Foreign Office spokesman explained that the agreement between the Nationalist government and the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group covers only the joint defense of Formosa and the Pescadores.

At various times over the last two years or so, the Nationalists have suggested that U. S. aid be extended to cover the Nationalist-held islands off the China coast. But nothing has come of this.

Government quarters said Nationalist garrisons on the islands are on a continuous alert, but so far there have been no direct assaults on the islands, which lie between Shanghai and Formosa.

A few islands of lesser importance have changed hands on occasion, frequently without bloodshed. Small Nationalist or Communist groups scout some uninhabited dot of an island, remain for a while and then withdraw.

Homemade Gun Puts Teenager In Hospital

GRAND JUNCTION, COLO. — (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Bill Shriver is recovering in a hospital Tuesday from injuries suffered when a homemade gun backfired, sending the barrel—a three-foot pipe—into his head near his right eye.

The youth walked to his grandfather's house nearby to summon aid, supporting the pipe in his hands to protect his eye. He talked to surgeons while they removed it.

Nudist Magazine's Mailing Privileges Restored By Judge

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Federal District Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut says he doesn't like pictures of nudists but neither does he think they "incite lustful thoughts in the mind of the average man."

On that basis he granted an injunction requiring postal authorities to renew delivery by mail of two New Jersey nudist publications, "Sun" and "Sunshine and Health."

The mail deliveries had been held up under regulations forbidding the mailing of obscene literature or pictures.

Said Judge Schweinhaut, after examining the magazine: "I don't like these pictures. I wouldn't give you a penny for the whole bunch of them. But I think the postmaster general was wrong in finding they were obscene. I don't think they would incite lustful thoughts in the minds of the average man."

Too-Good Description Puts Burglary Bee On Bystander

DETROIT — (AP) — Harold Cantwell's imagination failed to respond Tuesday, so now he's in jail.

Police arriving at the scene of a more burglary saw Cantwell standing close by and approached him to see if he could provide any clues.

"Did you see the man?" they asked.

"Yes, sir, he broke through that window and escaped. He was about my size and had on dark trousers and a white T-shirt," Cantwell said.

Police interest in him was aroused when they noted the description of the handfit fitted Cantrell perfectly. After questioning him at length, they finally searched him and found some loot on him.

Cantrell was jailed on a burglary charge.

Blonde Milwaukee Widow Heads Two Chemical Firms

NEW YORK—(AP)—Vanda Sauerborn's husband deliberately taught her, during more than 20 years of married life, to be a successful widow.

Leo J. Sauerborn died three years ago, and his wife stepped into his shoes as president of the expanding chemicals business they launched on a shoestring at the height of the depression.

Today this blonde Milwaukee grandmother, a golfer and president of several related chemical products corporations, believes firmly that woman's place is in the office or factory; that the more the little woman knows about the source of the family cabbage, the better equipped she will be to cope

Then, if anything happens to them, their wives are left high and dry, without a clue on how to proceed, with the problems of maintaining the supply if tragedy hits.

"Why, I never learned to cook," explained Mrs. Sauerborn. "My husband thought that was a complete waste of time. But we always did a lot of entertaining because the thing I've always been most interested in has been bringing people together, getting them to know each other."

Leaders In Field

She and her husband believed there was an important social side to business success, but as a closely integrated team they supervised every phase of their operation. Today Mrs. Sauerborn's companies are leaders in the fields of marine, industrial and automotive chemicals, almost entirely a male preserve. And this well-dressed, extremely feminine executive is able to talk intelligently with industrial engineers, diesel experts and plant operators about technical problems.

Her firms (Lubold and Zecol) produce some 26 different products which by chemical action clean the running parts of motors, police up the insides of boilers and chimneys and combustion chambers, and protect exteriors from rust and weathering.

Her Judgment Verified

"Most men," she said, "seem to feel that the less their wives know about their businesses the better."

without knowing if they should try to keep the business in the family or sell out in a hurry."

When Sauerborn died in 1950, his wife was able to weigh the situation with intimate knowledge of her own experience. She turned down offers to sell. In the last three years her judgment has been verified by a 20 per cent increase in the business, worth more than a million dollars.

"And the business," she said, "gave me something to plunge myself into, something stimulating, to keep my mind from dwelling unhealthily on my loss."

Britons Maintain Canal Zone Squeeze

ISMAILIA, EGYPT—(AP)—The British Army maintained tight traffic controls around this strategic Suez Canal zone town Tuesday but no incidents were reported.

Seeking traces of an airman they believe was kidnaped, British troops at checkpoints continued to search thoroughly all Egyptian civilians. Maj. Salah Salem, Egypt's outspoken minister for national guidance, challenged a House of Commons statement Monday by Britain's Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd that Egyptian authorities had a part in the airman's disappearance.

"No Egyptian officer or Egyptian military or civilian had any connection whatever with the disappearance of the British airman," Salem said.

Red Press Backs Purging Of Beria

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Ivestia declared Tuesday the Communist Party "is strengthening its ranks when it purges itself of all kinds of filth."

Both Ivestia and Pravda, the official party newspaper, ridiculed foreign newspaper comment that the arrest of former Deputy Premier Lavrenty P. Beria indicated a weakness in the Soviet Union.

Ivestia, in a leading editorial, called for heightened vigilance and demanded that the party should "mercilessly expose and render harmless the criminal activity of the hirelings of the imperialists."

By the time she arrived, the jostling had shaken the breath back in the youngster and he was breathing normally.

Oregon Prison Again Quiet After Four Days Of Rioting

SALEM, ORE.—(AP)—The Oregon Prison—torn four days by strike, riot and rebellion—again was quiet Tuesday.

The last of the 1,000 rebelling convicts, cowed by discomfort, meagre food and little water, were returned to their cells last night.

They were taken in groups of 20 from the prison recreation yard, where they had been held since Saturday, and locked up. Warden Clarence T. Gladden said they were docile and respectful now.

Work was to begin soon to repair the $100,000 damage wrought by Saturday's brief but intensive rioting. And a private contractor was to rush completion of a new segregation cell block which the convicts had been building.

Gladden said the first occupants of the new cell block would be the 21 ringleaders of the revolt which started last Friday morning with a sit-down strike. They now are in isolation cells, under a stricter discipline.

The disturbance began Friday morning with an orderly no-work strike. The first flareup occurred Friday night when Gladden rejected the demands saying that standards of food, clothing and medicine already were high.

Saturday morning the convicts set the prison tailor shop and several other buildings ablaze.

The convicts were driven by tear gas into the recreation area in one corner of the prison yard. They remained there under the watch of heavily armed guards patrolling the wall, through Saturday and overnight. By Sunday morning many of them were ready to give up the re-

Propaganda Sheet Tallies Dead Flies Swatted In China

HONG KONG—(AP)—The Red propaganda magazine, China Reconstructs, has come up with some fantastic figures in reporting progress of the health movement on the Communist mainland.

It said: Children with fly-swatters, have accounted for a large proportion of $138,600,000,000 flies killed." (The magazine doesn't say who kept count.)

A 16-year-old village school girl won national acclaim by catching 3,506 rats and organizing classmates to kill 6,000 more. A company of Chinese soldiers in Korea caught 85,484 rats.

Workers were said to have exterminated 29,500,000,000 mosquitoes and removed 6,220 tons of mosquito larvae from ponds and canals.

Usually regarded as an industrial state, Connecticut is the second highest state in the nation in the value per acre of its farm products —$112.

bellion. But Gladden held them there, without food or water, through Sunday to be sure no more flareups would occur.

On Sunday night he called on 21 ringleaders to surrender in return for reopening the water line to the area. The 21 gave themselves up.

The revolt seemed to be over. Gladden sent a meal of soup, bread and coffee and started admitting the convicts 20 at a time, to their cells.

After about 125 had been returned, the remaining convicts became restrictive again and shouted, "Now we have the warden on the run."

Gladden answered that by closing the gate and leaving the 900 there until night.

Gladden, who was hired after the previous warden had been dismissed on grounds of laxness, said the convicts had controlled the prison for a number of years and that he was reasserting control.

Frail Grandmother Held In Bludgeon Slaying Of Brother

TEXARKANA—(AP)—Mrs. Agnes Watson, 66, a frail grandmother, was charged with murder Monday in the bludgeoning death of her blind brother, 70.

The small woman made a signed statement. She said her brother "had been grumbling a lot lately and had mistreated me."

The brother was James Albert Bray, a recluse and bachelor who lived in a three-room house on his cattle ranch nine miles south of DeKalb, near here.

Mrs. Watson went to live with her brother last Fall after his sight failed him.

Bray was found beaten to death with a stick of stove wood in the yard of his home June 29. Mrs. Watson first told officers she had come to town for feed and had returned to find him dying in the yard.

Mrs. Watson, who has five children, was being held in the Bowie County jail at Boston, Texas.

THE EIGHT-TO-ONE GAMBLE

To find the little inverted bowl shown at the bottom of this picture, more than a mile beneath the surface of the earth, is the key to natural gas service.

The consumer is dependent upon this search for his supply.

It takes eight attempts — eight heartbreaking, costly dry holes — before the one successful producer is found.

The consumer's interest is best served by encouraging the maximum number of people to carry on this search.

These little inverted bowls represent the reservoirs beneath the ground where nature over the millions of years of geologic time has stored this gas for your use.

The pipe lines by a network of thousands of miles of lines requiring billions of dollars in investment have connected these storage reservoirs directly to the valve in your home. But no gas will come through if the supply in the reservoir is exhausted.

To maintain this supply it is necessary each year to find more and more of these little inverted bowls.

We believe the consumer's interest is best served by a long range policy that encourages this search not only by the so-called "independent producer" but particularly by the pipe line companies that have the obligation to keep the gas flowing to your home and have the billions of dollars invested in pipe lines for this purpose.

Nixon Performs Major Political Feat In Avoiding Melees, Delivering Goods

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON—(AP)—In the curious and unpredictable fortunes of political life, Vice President Richard M. Nixon is one member of the "Eisenhower team" who has emerged unscathed by controversy from the first six months of Republican administration.

Storms have whirled around virtually every Cabinet member at one time or another since inauguration. Nixon has steered a course remarkably free of criticism either by Democrats or Republicans.

And yet just a short time before inauguration, Nixon was the most controversial figure in the new Republican lineup. The tempest over his acceptance of a private expense fund donated by wealthy Californians made him for a brief period appear as the Peck's Bad Boy of the campaign.

At one time, Eisenhower said Nixon would have to be "clean as a hound's tooth" to continue as his running mate. A dispute raged within the Republican high command over whether Nixon should be dropped from the ticket. Nixon's own television defense of himself as the victim of a smear made political history. Eisenhower stood by Nixon. The tempest quieted. The crisis passed.

Since inauguration, Nixon's conduct has been politically impeccable. Outside of his infrequent speeches, he has done little to gain public attention other than pat a lion on the head for the benefit of photographers. He has kept himself out of the headlines and become a behind-the-scenes worker.

Ike's Right Arm

When not presiding over Senate sessions, Nixon has been acting as a liaison man and trouble-shooter for Eisenhower in Congress. Three times each week he goes to the White House to attend meetings of legislative leaders, the National Security Council and the Cabinet.

While not a Cabinet member, he sits in on its meetings.

Eisenhower and Nixon are the only two whose presence is continuous at all these sessions — and thus next to the President there is little doubt Nixon is the man who knows most about what is going on.

A White House source who may not be named said: "Nixon has been a big help to Ike in his relations with Congress — particularly the Senate. He's been working hard and we think doing a good job." The same reaction comes from the Capitol.

No Headline Hunter

Having served in the House and in the Senate, Nixon knows his way around Congress. He is in a position to keep Eisenhower advised on the temper of Congress toward any legislation or course of action. And, from reports, the President is listening to his advice.

This self-effacement is new for Nixon. He made his name nationally known while in the House by keeping in the headlines — particularly in his Communist investigations which uncovered the Alger Hiss case. Hiss was convicted of perjury after denying he turned over State Department secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

But apparently the campaign furor last Fall and the weight of his new responsibilities have had their effect on Nixon. He has been a poor target for Administration critics these last six months.

The evening's entertainment will include a buffet dinner and dancing to the music of Lee Powers and his orchestra.

President Begins Campaign To Sway Aid Bill Opponents

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower began a campaign of personal persuasion Tuesday to get from Congress the billions he wants for his foreign aid program.

He had Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate Appropriations Committee in for a cozy chat over the breakfast table at the White House. He invited other members of that purse string controlling group to luncheon Wednesday.

Bridges, leaving the White House, avoided reporters. There was no immediate word as to what plugging Eisenhower did for his program or the senator's reaction.

"I assume the President will be asking for the full amount of the authorization bill," Bridges said before the breakfast. "But I must say frankly the temper of this Congress is to cut the funds."

Administration Victory

The House and Senate completed action on a $5,157,232,500 authorization bill late Monday and sent it to Eisenhower.

Action came on a compromise bill which had been worked out after the Senate and House passed varying measures. House approval of the final version was by 221-109 roll call; Senate approval was by voice vote.

The authorization was more than 300 millions less than the $5,474,000,000 requested by the President. But it still represented something of an Administration victory in view of forecasts of much bigger cuts. However, GOP leaders staved off some threatened reductions with the plea they should be saved for the subsequent money bill.

The authorization measure fixes ceilings for the cash voted in a money bill, not yet started through Congress. The program involved is for fiscal 1954 two weeks of which already have elapsed.

The authorization includes a provision, objected to by the Administration, which would require withholding of about a billion dollars from Western Europe unless treaties looking to formation of an international army are ratified.

French Budget Troubles

A report prepared by the staff of the Senate Appropriations Committee, made public Monday night, was highly critical of France and of U. S. administration of the foreign aid program there.

The study said there is a question "whether or not the French will ever put their house in order and balance their budget by collecting the proper amount of taxes as long as they receive American aid."

In the fiscal year which ended last June 30, it continued, plans were to give France about $35 million dollars but the amount mushroomed to about $1,300,000,000. In the current authorization, France is down for about $17 millions.

Two Teenage Boys In 'Chicken' Gang Sent To Gatesville

HOUSTON—(AP)—Two teenagers who were among a gang that raced stolen cars toward each other along the Galveston seawall boulevard have been sent to the State Training School for Boys at Gatesville.

The boys said they were members of the "11th Street Gang" of Houston. Each had an "11" tattooed on his left hand next to the thumb. They said they had to "steal and fight" to belong to the gang.

In the racing game they raced cars toward each other. The first to swerve was called "chicken."

Thirteen teenagers were rounded up by Galveston police for similar offenses July 1.

HOME OF BOOTH'S BACKBONE—Grisly Relics Of Violence Adorn Medical Institution

By ED CREEGH

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Say what you like about John Wilkes Booth, the man who shot Lincoln, he was a fellow with a lot of backbone.

So was that other, far more estimable character, James A. Garfield, who became President of the United States.

You can prove this to your own satisfaction by dropping in at a little-known Washington institution called the Armed Forces Medical Museum.

There you'll find portions of the backbones of Booth and Garfield, along with such other grisly exhibits as skulls bashed in with Indian tomahawks and still more skulls with holes bored in them.

How To Cure Idiots

This last group testifies to an interesting experiment. Some years ago a group of Peruvian surgeons tried to cure idiots of their affliction by drilling holes in their heads. The experiment was not a success.

The museum, part of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, was established in 1862 to study the wounds and diseases of Union soldiers in the Civil War. Since then it has built up a formidable collection of old bones, skin fragments and other portions of the human frame.

140,000 Sightseers

This may not sound enticing, but some 140,000 sightseers found their way to the collection last year. Many doctors and medical students avail themselves of the museum's specimens too.

John McKelway noted in Wednesday's Washington Evening Star that from the museum's storage room an interested student "can draw out a kidney the way one takes a book from the library."

The Booth and Garfield backbones aren't exhibited for their curiosity value alone.

Booth's is of medical interest because of what doctors did to it after the assassin was shot through the spine when he was captured near Bowling Green, Va.

Garfield's shows the hole probed by doctors for the bullet which ended the President's life after Charles Guiteau shot him in 1881.

Not to show any favoritism, the museum has a piece of Guiteau on exhibition too—the malaria-affected spleen.

DOG'S A MAN'S BEST FRIEND—Chuckie McDonnell, of Denver, Colo., believes the old-time adage after his cocker spaniel leaped from a 15-foot balcony in a vain attempt to stop Chuckie from running into the path of a moving car. Both boy and dog suffered broken legs and now each wears a plaster of Paris cast as a mark of their devotion to each other.

Expectant Mother Stricken By Polio

HOUSTON—(AP)—An expectant mother whose husband is in Korea was among five new polio patients reported Monday. She is Mrs. Rhoda Mullins, 33. Her husband, Maj. D. F. Mullins, has been granted emergency leave to fly to his wife.

The other new patients included a six-month-old girl from Lufkin. The polio cases treated in Houston this year totaled 105, compared to 475 last year.

Victim Identified As Sheppard Airman

Crew Rescued As Freighter Goes Down After Collision

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—The freighter Jacob Luckenbach sank minutes after an early morning collision Tuesday, but all crewmen were rescued, the Coast Guard said.

The outbound Luckenbach, reportedly headed for the Far East from the Oakland Army Depot, collided with the Hawaiian pilot, inbound from Hawaii, in dense Pacific fog about 18 miles southwest of the Golden Gate.

Details were scanty. First word came about 5:20 a.m. Globe Wireless picked up a terse distress signal from the Luckenbach, saying: "Believe ship sinking."

Before Coast Guard boats could reach scene, the Hawaiian Pilot messaged its lifeboats were picking up crewmen from the Luckenbach.

Then came word from the pilot aboard the Hawaiian pilot that the Luckenbach had gone down. The message said all crewmen had been rescued and none was injured seriously.

There was no immediate indication of how badly the Hawaiian Pilot was damaged.

The 7,869-ton Luckenbach was owned by the Luckenbach Steamship Company of New York. The Hawaiian Pilot, an 8,448-ton freighter, is owned by the Matson Navigation Company of San Francisco.

When an umpire steps out onto a baseball diamond, he's fair game for the fans, players, et al, but there's a dividing line between what is proper razzing and what isn't. This corner was quite ashamed when a Midland fan attacked Tex Harper here recently with the vilest verbal barrage imaginable. In the same series, an umpire was hit by a deflected ball and the entire stands joined gleefully in applauding his agony. We wonder if these same fans would applaud someone seriously injured in an automobile accident?

Umpires, being members of the human race, make mistakes. Recently, an umpire calling an Indian game muffed a third strike and the visitors went on to score quite a number of runs. Accosted by Catcher Art Bowland for the bad call, the ump countered:

"Yeah, but I ain't responsible for those other pitches thrown up here."

Which brings to memory some of the favorite umpire yarns of old, and writers around the country. Like the time Leo Durocher stopped a game in New York by storming up to the plate umpire while a fat young rookie was at bat, and with a dead pan, screamed: "You can't let these two guys bat at the same time!"

This Guy Was A Real Lady Killer

A young southpaw was on the mound for Minneapolis against Louisville and both he and the catcher were fast becoming irked at the umpire's decisions—especially when he called a pitch a ball.

Suddenly there was a commotion in the stands back of first base. The ump called time and players from both sides rushed over.

The umpire alone remained in his position. "What happened?" he asked when the catcher returned to his position. "You finally called one right, you blind buzzard, and so a woman fainted," the catcher growled.

Loren McMullen of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram likes this one about Jimmy Humphries, president of the Oklahoma City Indians:

Humphries, then managing the Sherman, Tex., club had lost eight straight and was in the process of losing another, kicked along, he thought, by some bad calls by the umpire.

Finally, he charged the arbiter, snorting: "You blind sonuvagin, as soon as I see the league president, I'll get your job!"

"You'd better," replied the man in blue, "the way you're going you'll need one."

On The Serious Side Of The Business

Umpires aren't always wrong, either. Sometimes, says Lon Warneke of the National League staff, it's just conversation. Like the time, he recalled, Ted Williams was up at the plate in a spring exhibition. I called a strike on him, related Warneke, and he turned around and said: "I shoulda hit that one right out of the park."

Once, he went on, I was calling a game in which a knuckle ball pitcher was on the mound. I called a ball, and the catcher turns around and says: "Ever see a ball take so many twists and turns, I sure was lucky to hang on to that one." Yet, everybody in the park is sure the catcher is putting up a beef.

The real story is what Rogers Hornsby told one of his Beaumont players in 1950 when he protested an umpire's decision too bitterly:

"Is there anything in your contract which says you're supposed to umpire as well as play?"

It follows that Warneke says: "I've found out, down through the years, first as a pitcher, then as an umpire, that usually the guy who squawks the loudest is trying to cover up for a mistake he made himself."

"The better the ball player, the fewer squawks out of him on decisions."

Drillers Turn Back Potashers By 10-5

ARTESIA —(P)— Joe Fortin put the contest safely in the bag with a grand slam homer Monday night as the Artesia Drillers slapped Carlsbad, 10-5, in the battle for second place in the Longhorn League.

The Drillers already had a 6-4 lead, but Fortin's sixth-inning blow put the contest on ice for the Drillers. Fidel Alvarez, who took over in the third for a staggering Len Ruyle, gained credit for the win.

Ruyle was shelled from the hill on a four-run Potasher uprising in the third that narrowed the Artesia lead to 5-4. Elias Osorio's three-run homer, a double by Goldy Ghoslon and Ike Jackson's single did the damage.

But the Drillers improved on their lead with Les Mulcahy's lead off homer in the fifth and wrapped it up when singles by Vince DiGiantomasso and Bill Haley and a walk to Mulcahy had the bases jammed for Fortin's blow in the sixth.

Singles by Jackie Wilcox and Mulcahy and with a double by Joe Bauman in between gave the Drillers their initial two-run lead in the first. They added to that on a two-run single by Haley and DiGiantomasso's theft of home in the second.

Hank Williams, the first of three Carlsbad pitchers, was the loser. Carlsbad 004 000 100—5 13 3 Artesia 230 014 00x—10 14 1 Williams, Owen (6), Rogas (7) and Jackson; Ruyle, Alvarez (7) and Mulcahy.

Indians Struggle For 11-10 Win Over Oilers

Newcom Next To Accost Odessa Fire

By ABE WEINER Reporter-Telegram Sports Staff

Midland's Indians abhor prosperity or so it would seem from the manner in which they show reluctance to maintain a wide advantage over their opponents when they get one.

It happened again Monday night when they provided Pitcher Jack Schaening with an 11-3 lead in the sixth inning, but the curve-balling right-hander couldn't hold it and Midland had to fight to hang onto an 11-10 victory over the Odessa Oilers.

Manager Jay Haney, in quest for a position in the Longhorn League standings higher than fourth place, has nominated Max Newcom to face the Oilers Tuesday. Bob (Pepper) Martin has indicated he will counter with Orlando Zraggen (pronounced Scroggin). Zraggen in his last Midland outing suffered the agony of being lifted after pitching 12 innings in that 8-7 13-inning fiasco won by Midland 10 days ago.

After Odessa tallied once in the first inning on a walk, a ball and Barney Batson's single, the Indians provided Schaening with a 2-1 lead. Tex Stephenson walked, moved up on Roger Dalla Betta's ground out and scored on Art Bowland's single. Glenn Selbo then doubled Bowland across.

Three Odessa hits, including a home run by Floyd Martin, gave Odessa the lead in the third, 3-2, but the Indians knotted it in the fourth on Selbo's walk, Bill Brown's single and F. Martin's first of three errors.

The Tribe moved back into the lead in the fifth on Dalla Betta's walk and Bowland's double, and then chased Lefty Jim Carson with a seven-run uprising in the sixth.

Brown led off with a scratch hit and Scooter Hughes was safe as Raul Dieppa dropped F. Martin's throw at second attempting to force Brown. Milt Wallendorf walked, and Schaening drove in two markers with a single to center. Stephenson followed with a scratch hit to lead the bases, and Dalla Betta singled Wallendorf home.

Bowland was safe as F. Martin threw wild to home, and Schaening scored but the sacks were still flooded. Manny Rodriguez came on to relieve Carson and got Julio de la Torre to hit into a double play, but Selbo doubled two runs in and scored after a wild pitch and Felix Castro's wild throw to second to catch Brown, who had walked and stole second. Hughes grounded out, ending the inning.

Odessa came back with seven runs in the top of the seventh chasing Schaening and bringing on Ralph Blair. After Rodriguez grounded out, F. Martin drew a walk and Leo Eastham homered. Roberto Fabian struck out, but Batson and B. Martin singled and Roman Loyko scored them with a three-run homer. Castro and Dieppa followed with singles and Blair came on to face pinch-hitter Paul Zubak, who singled Castro in. F. Martin singled Dieppa home, and after Eastham walked, Blair got Fabian to ground out.

Midland threatened in the seventh and eighth against Wes Ortiz but couldn't score. Romarico Soto finished out for Midland, walking one batter and getting three fine plays by Dalla Betta to save him from trouble.

Schaening was the winning pitcher and Carson the loser.

Beta Sigma Phi Opens Ticket Sales For Save Baseball Tilt

Advance tickets for the booster game Monday, when the Midland Indians meet Rowell here, went on sale Tuesday at a booth in the Scharbauer Hotel staffed by members of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Heading the parade of Midlanders rallying to the call to "Help Save Baseball" this week, the sorority will maintain centrally located ticket booths in downtown Midland until the day of the game. Tickets also may be purchased from individual members of the sorority.

Members of the sorority's Xi Alpha Mu Chapter were staffing the ticket booth Tuesday. Iota Beta Chapter will furnish workers for Wednesday, and Beta Delta Chapter members will have ticket booths Thursday in the Scharbauer and the lobby of the McClintic Building. Locations of booths for the remaining days before the game will be announced later in the week, Mary Kay Bryson, chairman of ticket sales, announced.

Tickets to the Monday game will be $2 per person. With his $2, the purchaser gets a regular 80 cent admission to the Indian game, donates 25 cents to local charities of Beta Sigma Phi and donates 95 cents to the Indians.

The Tribe, which is thousands of dollars behind because of postponed and canceled games, in addition to the costs of testing players to maintain a first rate team, has appealed to fans to help keep the club going.

Midland Beta Sigma Phis have volunteered to assist with the "Help Save Baseball" drive as a part of their heavy schedule of local charities and assistance with civic and welfare projects.

In addition to their local work, the members participate in state and international projects of their sorority. For three years, they have participated in a state-wide project to aid Girlstown, which now is a beneficiary of the Beta Sigma Phi International Endowment Fund. Previously, the chapters of the state purchased a mobile X-Ray unit for Texas.

Mrs. W. E. Nance is president of the Beta Sigma Phi City Council, which co-ordinates work of the five chapters here. The chapters, all assisting with the ticket sales for the Indian game, are Iota Beta, Beta Delta and Mu Psi, ritual of jewels chapters, and Xi Theta and Xi Alpha Mu, exemplar chapters for members of four years or longer.

SAYLES FINES HANEY $50 FOR SQUABBLE

ABILENE —(P)— Jay Haney, manager of the Midland Indians, has been fined $50 by Longhorn League President Hal Sayles, as an aftermath of a rhuhab in a game at Midland July 9.

Haney was removed in a game after assailing Umpire Tex Harper after questioning him on a play. The manager then returned to the field later in the game and argued with the same umpire.

Haney also was charged with use of unfit language and with inciting fans to the point that they showered cushions and other objects on the field in the direction of the umpires, Sayles said.

Big Spring Broncos Finally Land White

Hayden White, former Midland Indian, reported to the Big Spring Broncos Sunday on option from the Temple club of the Big State League.

The move was one that the Broncos had been trying to maneuver since the start of the season. They had wanted him when the Indians obtained Mickey Diaz, but at that time White was hitting over .400 for the Tribe and the move could not be culminated.

Big Spring Downs San Angelo, 5 To 4

BIG SPRING—(P)—Their chances for a first division finish fast dwindling, the Big Spring Broncos showed they still perform like pennant contenders against the pace-setting San Angelo Colts by winning a 5-4 verdict here Monday night.

Never in the history of the Longhorn League have the Broncos lost a season's series against the Angelenos and Monday night's win gave the resident nine seven victories for the year against the front-runners, compared to six losses.

Young Tommy Herrera, who the Colts winter-Baller club broke up several weeks ago, pitched magnificent ball to gain the victory.

He again shaded Lefty Bobby Gregg, who was seeking his eleventh victory and instead settled for his fifth loss.

The Cayuses scored what proved to be the winning run in sixth Jess Jacinto laid a bunt down the third-base line and beat Ralph Carpenter's throw to first. The diminutive Big Spring shortstop then stole second and Nick Samela brought him home with a smash into left field. The Colts scored in the leadoff frame on successive singles by John Malgarini, Glenn Burns and Rudy Briner.

They added another in the fourth on a double by Briner and John Jeandron's single.

Armando Gallart reached first via a base on balls for Big Spring in the fourth, legged it to third on Carl Harris' drive into right and came home on Herrera's single.

Hayden White put Big Spring ahead for the first time in the game when he doubled past John Malgarini, Glenn Burns and Rudy Briner.

Ex-Bulldog Grid Star Crushed In Accident

Jack R. Burris, 20, former football star with Midland High School and Texas Western College, was crushed to death Monday when the tractor of a semi-trailer truck he was driving overturned several times on U. S. Highway 54 near El Paso.

According to Capt. Mike Sullivan of the State Highway Patrol, Burris was driving a truck leased by Safeway Stores, Inc. for whom he worked. Sullivan said the truck apparently was moving at a high rate of speed when it left the road, struck a ditch, rolled 100 feet and overturned after hitting a sand dune.

Burris' death was attributed to a broken back and neck when the top of the truck was crushed in on him. Burris was well known and very popular in Midland. He starred as a tailback for the Bulldogs each of the three years he played football with them prior to his graduation in June, 1951.

JACK R. BURRIS
... Ex-Bulldog Gridder.

In his senior year, Burris was elected captain of the football team, and he played particularly outstanding games against Forest High of Dallas and Lubbock.

He was also a member of the track team, and, of course, a leading figure in the M Club at Midland High School. He ran the 440-yard dash in track.

For his outstanding performance as a senior gridder, he was named to the all-district team and to the all-star Permian Bowl team in August of 1951.

Burris came to Midland from Paint Rock, Tex., and went to Texas Western when his parents moved to El Paso following his graduation here.

He is survived by his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Burris of Anthony, Tex., and three sisters, Mrs. George Kirkpatrick of El Paso, Miss Treva Joan Burris and Miss Donna Jo Burris, both of Anthony.

Big Leagues Block Future 'Hasty' Franchise Moves

CINCINNATI —(P)—The major leagues have set up a road block against any future hasty franchise moves by restricting territorial drafting to the two-month period from October 1 to December 1.

By joint action at Monday's meetings, the two majors wrote into the rule book a resolution adopted last Spring at Bellare, Fla., by the Executive Council. Although no official action was taken on the St. Louis situation in the American League, it was regarded as almost a certainty that owner Bill Veeck again will request permission from the league to shift the Browns to Baltimore next Fall.

There is no possibility of any move before the end of the 1953 season. Several club owners expressed sympathy with Veeck's plight and intimated they would go along with him next time. However, Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, hinted he may not be in favor of Baltimore as a site.

"While I am in deep sympathy with Veeck, said Webb, "I don't think it would be good for the league to move to Baltimore. We have too much major league baseball in Eastern cities as it is now. Why clutter it up more?"

"Baseball is supposed to be our national game. Yet we have no representation in the West. I believe the time will come when we will have to move such clubs as St. Louis and Philadelphia to Los Angeles and San Francisco."

"The Pacific Coast League is making a determined effort to become a major. They advanced from Triple A to open classification. I believe we ought to give it one more year to prove itself. If, at the end of that time, it has not reached major status, I think the people out there should be willing to allow Los Angeles and San Francisco to become major league cities."

Webb is convinced the Browns' problems are the league's problems, requiring drastic action. The majors beat down an attempt to cut the player limit from 25 to 23 men when Commissioner Ford Frick voted with the American League against a National League economy proposal.

FRY ON FLY—Shirley Fry is best known as Doris Hart's winning doubles partner, but manages to reach the singles semifinals of important major tournaments and is named on the United States Wightman Cup team. The Akron miss again will be on the American side against the British at the Westchester Country Club, Rye, N. Y., Aug. 1-2.

Odds One To Five Braves Or Chisox Can Cop Flag

By BEN FHEGAR

Recent baseball history shows the chances are only one in five that either the Chicago White Sox or the Milwaukee Braves will win a pennant this season.

The Sox and the Braves are the second-place teams as the flag chases await the outcome of today's All-Star Game. The Braves trail Brooklyn by one and a half games. Chicago is five behind the New York Yankees.

In 1951 the New York Giants moved from second to the pennant after the All-Star break. The Yankees did it in the American League in 1950. In each of the other last five seasons the National League winner already was in first place when the All-Star Game came along.

During that same spell the Yankees are the only team that climbed from lower than second. In 1951 they were third behind Chicago and Boston when the All-Star Game was played. In 1948, 1949 and 1952 the American League team in first place when the vacation came finished first.

This year the All-Star Game is being played later in the season than ever before. It is a full week later than a year ago.

Briefly, here's how the last five seasons have gone after the All-Star break:

American League — Cleveland, the pennant winner, was in first place, slipped to third at the end of July and then climbed back. The Athletics pulled into first in late July, then tumbled to finish fourth. Boston, in fourth at the break, moved to first in two weeks but ended second.

National League — The Braves were in first and stayed there. Pittsburgh, in second, quickly fell to fourth. St. Louis climbed from third to second and Brooklyn jumped from fifth to second before settling to third.

American League — The Yankees were first all the way. Cleveland was in second and finished back.

National League — Brooklyn slipped to second at the end of July but wound up first, fighting off the Cardinals, who held the lead briefly in July.

1950
American League — Detroit led the Yankees, Cleveland Boston at the All-Star break and it stayed that way until September when the Yankees took over.

National League — Philadelphia faltered briefly right after the All-Star Game, then resumed the lead. The Cardinals shot into first, but slumped to a fifth-place finish. The Giants in sixth started a steady climb to end third.

1951
American League — The Yankees were in third, their low point of the year. The White Sox fell from first to fourth before the end of July. Cleveland climbed from fourth to a second-place finish. Boston moved from second to first, then tumbled to third.

National League — Brooklyn stayed in front. The Giants slipped back from second to third the next week.

American League — The White Sox were a close second to the Yankees but hit the skids and fell to sixth before July was over. They recovered to finish third. Cleveland edged up to second. The Athletics started a slow climb from sixth to finish fourth.

National League — The only change from the All-Star break to the end of the season came when the Phillies, who were fifth, replaced the Cubs at the bottom of the first division. Brooklyn was ahead, followed by the Giants and the Cardinals.

Lee Velarde Given Release

Lee Velarde, the Midland youngster recently signed to a contract with the Midland Indians, Monday was released for financial reasons as well as for his own benefit.

Manager Jay Haney in announcing the move said that the club could not afford to carry as many players as they have been. He pointed out that he has been unable to give Velarde a chance to play because of the pressure upon the team at the present time to move up in the standings.

Haney indicated that the Indians would like the youngster to try out for the club next Spring when they would be able to give him a decent opportunity to show what he can do.

Velarde played with the Midland Colts prior to signing with the Indians several weeks ago.

SPORTS ROUNDUP— All-Star Game Brings Back Memories Of Earlier Feats

By JACK HAND
For Gayle Talbot

CINCINNATI —(P)— It happened at the All-Star Game . . . Bill Veeck, owner of the St. Louis Browns, sitting in a stay-up-late spot, telling the boys, "I'll bet Hornsby gets more money for not managing the Browns this year than he gets for managing Cincinnati." Willie is still paying off on his old contract to the Rajah . . . Alie Reynolds making like a State Department attache while explaining what happened when the players put their demands before American League owners . . .

Joe Cronin recalling Dave (Boo) Ferris in the midst of all the talk about the Giants' hot-shot rookie, Allan Worthington. Ferris also pitched a shutout in his first big league start. "You know Ferris could throw as hard with his left hand as his right," said Cronin. "Only he was a big bashful kid and he didn't want to show off. One day he was fooling around warming up and Bill Summers, the umpire, was watching. Bill came over to me and said, 'Is that Ferris? I didn't know he was a left-hander.' That's how natural he was throwing lefty." Where's Ferris now? A pitcher-coach down in Louisville on a Red Sox farm.

The All-Star Games and World Series are carried on radio and television under the terms of the old contract Happy Chandler engineered in 1951. The contract runs through 1954. Radio pays $35,000 and TV $75,000 for the All-Star. The series radio fee this fall is $175,000 and TV $925,000. All the dough goes into the player pension fund . . .

Johnny Vander Meer had just thrilled the nation with two consecutive no-hitters when they played the last All-Star Game at Crosley Field in 1938. Johnny was the starting and winning pitcher that day. Now he's manager of the Cincinnati farm at Burlington, Iowa, in the Three Eye League.

Ted Williams' appearance in Marine uniform will revive memories for fans of his tremendous performances in the 1941 and 1946 games. At Detroit in '41 he hit a homer off Claude Passeau with two on and two out in the last of the ninth for a 7-5 victory. At Fenway Park in '46 he hit two homers and a single and drove in five runs in a 12-0 rout.

Dixie Cotton Men Request Minimum Be Set On Quotas

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Southern cotton growers went Tuesday before the House Agriculture Committee asking retention of the present law in setting state cotton acreage quotas for 1954—but for a minimum of 22 1/2 million acres.

Brooks Beats Eagles, 16-6

Brooks Stores took advantage of seven Eagles errors Monday to capture a 16-6 American Legion victory.

Brooks collected only nine hits but made three of them count for six runs in the second and four of them produce five runs in the third.

Meanwhile, Boyce McKnight was holding the losers to three hits for five innings before they broke loose for three hits and as many runs in the sixth.

Walt Bingham hit a home run for Brooks in the second with two men aboard. Gene Howard, however, was the leading Brooks batter with three hits in four tries. Bill Burt paced the Eagles attack with two of the six hits off McKnight.

Bill McMillan led the Yankee hitters with two for three, but he played second fiddle to Don Richers and Don Boyce of the Lions, both of whom had three for four.

Condon Says AEC Imposed Security Edict Improperly

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Robert Condon (D-Calif.) told the House Wednesday he believes the Atomic Energy Commission "did not fairly evaluate the information concerning me" when it barred him from an atom bomb test at Las Vegas May 7.

"Furthermore, I deeply resent the manner in which the AEC handled this whole affair," the freshman congressman said.

He said he expects the case to be used "by my political opponents in 1954" and added that he is willing for the voters of the Sixth California District to decide the question of his loyalty.

In a previous discussion, Condon said the ban was raised against him on security grounds.

McCarthy Nears Agreement On Probe Into Spy Agency

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Tuesday he thinks he has about secured an agreement by the super secret Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) that his Senate investigations subcommittee has a right to question CIA people "where there is evidence of graft, corruption or subversion."

McCarthy said he had a meeting Monday night with Allen Dulles, CIA director, and said, "I feel that he (Dulles) agrees with us" on that point. He said he would have another meeting with Dulles this afternoon.

Senator Monroney (D-Okla.) told the Senate Monday such a probe "would disclose to our enemies . . . information that even the best spy apparatus of the Kremlin" could not get. He asked the Senate to "be willing to take full responsibility" if such an inquiry is carried on by McCarthy's investigations subcommittee.

Of McCarthy, he said, "I doubt that he has a monopoly within this government on despising, exposing and prosecuting Communists and backed by such Western states as Arizona and California.

Quotas are expected for next year because a growing supply of cotton. Quotas are invoked on the basic crop whenever a surplus is indicated.

It has become, in general, a South vs West issue.

The Southern spokesmen contended cotton growing has been a decades-old business there and is one of the backbones of its economy.

They claim that California and Arizona in recent years have jumped their cotton plantings and should be forced to cut back acreage more sharply if quotas are imposed.

The farm bureau proposal is this: That the national allotment for 1954 be set at 21 1/2 million acres plus some 500,000 acres as adjustments to prevent any Western states from receiving a cut of more than 27 1/2 per cent—while no Southern state would be cut more than 22 1/2 per cent.

Under present law, by using a five-year base period in arriving at a formula, Western states could be cut back from 40 to 50 per cent.

Woman Asks Death; Kin Complies, Turns Pistol On Himself

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — A woman flung her arms around her older brother and cried:

"Kill me — I want to die."

Edward Gray, 57, placed the muzzle of a revolver against the head of his sister, Elizabeth, 46, and complied, police said. Then he shot himself in the mouth once and twice in the head.

The powder in the bullets was old and the gun rusty—and that apparently spared Gray's life, although he is in serious condition.

Patrolman James Dinwiddie said Gray told police before he was wheeled into the operating room Tuesday he shot his sister "because he disapproved of her drinking."

He did not explain why his sister asked for death.

Two of the bullets merely grazed Gray's head and he remained conscious.

Eisenhower Said Optimistic About Armistice Outlook

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported to have told leaders of Congress Tuesday he believes a truce is near in Korea despite the massive new attacks by the Communists.

The leaders were briefed on Korea and the successful negotiations for an agreement with South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

Eisenhower was described by some as optimistic about the chances for a truce.

The President and military leaders were reported to regard the newest Communist offensive, directed at areas held by South Korean troops, as primarily to straighten out a bulge made in their lines by a 1951 Allied offensive.

"This puts the Senate up to the choice of giving the distinguished senator from Wisconsin carte blanche authority to fully explore, via any type of hearings which he may so determine, televised or otherwise, the innermost secrets of this highly confidential and secret arm of national security."

McCarthy, on another matter about which he made some mystery, said he handed the Justice Department Monday evidence of what he termed an "attempted $150,000 shakedown" of a friendly government by some employees "in the old Acheson State Department."

A former employe of the government involved fears harm might befall his relatives if he is identified as the informant.

Informant Identified
McCarthy met with the informant behind closed doors. He announced first he was handing the case to the State Department for further study, then changed that to say he was handing it to the Jus-

Big Spring Street Project To Enter New Phase Monday

Construction work on the first phase of widening a 19-block stretch of North Big Spring Street will begin Monday morning, City Manager W. H. Oswalt announced Tuesday.

The city manager said that Contractor W. L. Johnson will move in his crews at that time to begin the job of building the curbs and gutters from Louisiana Street to George Street and moving other curbs and gutters back to the new width.

The announcement came at the State Highway Commission in Austin prepared to open bids Wednesday on the job of paving the thoroughfare to the new 61-foot width.

Actually, the project is divided into two phases.

The first is the construction of the curb and gutters which will be financed locally.

On the stretch from Louisiana to George Streets, the cost of the curbs and gutters will be borne by the adjacent property owners.

On the stretch from Texas to Louisiana, where curbs and gutters now are in place at the 41-foot width, the City of Midland will bear the cost of moving them back to the new width.

The second phase of the subject is the actual paving of the widened street, which will be paid by the state.

This phase is expected to begin at an early date, to coincide with the completion of the first phase.

Meanwhile, Contractor Ernest Lloyd of Fort Worth was expected to move in within a few days to begin work on the Big Spring Street underpass project.

S. C. Dougherty, senior resident engineer in Midland for the State Highway Department, said Tuesday he had received notice of the appointment of a superintendent for the job but had not been informed when work actually will be started.

Power and telephone poles in the path of the project as well as water, gas and sewer lines are being relocated.

In addition to the underpass itself, the project includes the widening of South Big Spring Street from Wall Street to Florida Street.

Sad Death Of Elmer Brings Loads Of Toads To Newton

NEWTON, MASS. — (AP) — If you were planning to answer the plea of Superintendent of Schools Harold Gores for a horned toad, please forget about it.

He's got loads and loads of toads now.

The tale of the toad began with Elmer, sent by Albuquerque, N. M., last year after Davis school pupils wrote that they didn't have a horned toad in their pet collection.

Elmer died this Spring and the sad tidings went out across the nation on The Associated Press wires.

So the Harlingen Chamber of Commerce and folk in Eastland all hopped to it.

Florida horned toads arrived from Pensacola Friday eight strong, including a few born enroute.

Two more from Eastland got here Monday and a batch of 13 from Harlingen arrived in Boston by American Airlines early Tuesday.

With the Harlingen gift was a letter that began:

"Here are the Texas toads which Harlingen is sending you to replace the late lamented Elmer, that fragile product of New Mexico."

A sly dig, but at least the Texans didn't claim their toads are bigger than those from the rest of the nation.

With schools closed for vacation, Gores had a housing problem.

He solved it promptly by arranging with the Boston Museum of Science to keep the critters for the Summer.

With 23 of the little fellers around Gores is mighty wary of the mailman. He has visions of dozens more arriving daily.

So when you mention horned toads, partner—smile.

Boys Ranch Group Entertained Here By Optimist Club

Six unannounced lads from Boys Ranch of West Texas near San Angelo were guests at noon Tuesday of the Midland Optimist Club during their meeting in Hotel Scharbauer.

Carl Cahlan, executive secretary of the ranch, and Pope Johnson, member of the Sunday School committee, accompanied the boys to Midland.

The ranch secretary discussed club-ranch relations, citing aid and progress from sponsoring Optimist Clubs throughout this district. He also covered the initiation program which soon may be featured in Midland.

Midlanders were invited to attend the San Angelo club's sixth anniversary meeting July 27, at which Curtis Cook of Wichita Falls will be principal speaker.

John Grimland, president of the Midland Club, then reported on the recent district board of directors meeting in Dallas. Bob Meyers, secretary, and Ed Stitt also attended the meeting.

Some 56 persons were there, representing 26 clubs, said Grimland. Business included reports from District 7 group and study of recommendations.

Grimland was named head of a new club committee in this area.

In other business, Jack Chase reported on the Midland membership drive and a board of directors meet was slated at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at Grimland's office.

braced for further assaults.

"There are no reports of action ceasing in any sector," an Eighth Army briefing officer said. He said the situation was "very fluid."

Beside punching through at the flanks, the Chinese tried smaller holes all along the line.

The Red drive relied heavily on infiltrating troops who snaked across the rugged terrain and battled South Koreans behind the lines.

West Flank Hit Hardest
At least one South Korean regimental command post far behind the lines was overrun.

Although South Korean troops manned the entire defense line, several American artillery and mortar units and special groups attached to ROK divisions were in the thick of the fighting.

The immediate aim of the Red drive was not apparent, but the weak flank—defended by the crack Capitol and Sixth Divisions—took the brunt of the assault.

Most recent Communist drives have been leveled at ROK troops, possibly to punish South Korea for opposing a truce that would halt the fighting.

The Allies carved out the Kum-sung bulge—which lies above ruined power plants at the Hwachon Reservoir—in their great offensive of October, 1951.

Despite poor flying weather, Fifth Air Force planes unloaded 250,000 pounds of bombs on Red lines. Six Superforts dropped 60 tons of bombs on Communist front-line positions while others hit a 38-acre troop installation at Hunam, 15 miles east of Pyongyang, the Air Force said.

REPORTING THE TOP NEWS IN REAL ESTATE

A SYNONYM FOR CONTENTMENT is the word "HOME". And contentment means 3 wonderful bedrooms, 2 ceramic baths, spacious living room and dining combination, loads of walk-in closets, and a 2-car attached garage. Magnificent kitchen with ceramic tile features, pantry, DISPOSAL UNIT, fan, water softener, and rows of cabinets. Central heating and air-conditioning, luxuriously carpeted thru-out, and selectively finished in Decorator colors. $24,000.

MORE LIBERTIES FOR WOMEN! So we men let them take care of the lawn for us. If you have work-along (polite for laziness), then you will appreciate this exclusively attractive 2-bedroom home in the western section of town. Cozy living room, tile bath, and attached carport. A fence surrounds the neat lawn and landscaping - and all you have to do is turn on the water faucet. With relaxation, you'll live longer. Assume loan of $6,900 and make payments of $55. Owner requests offer.

ARE YOU A TOE-STEPPER? Do the kiddies scamper every time you pass because you don't have enough room in your home? Why not consider a TRADE? Let's say for this L.A.-G-E-R 3-bedroom, 2 bath brick home on BEDFORD Street. Huge living room, gigantic rear porch that can be converted into a magnificent den, and attached garage. Central air-conditioning, carpeting, wood-burning fireplace, DISPOSAL, draperies, and completely insulated. Attractively landscaped, tile fence, and excellent neighborhood. Will consider TRADE or as little as $6,500 down.

WE'VE RECENTLY SOLD 3 and we have only 1 left - and it's the best of them all. 3 bright bedrooms, spacious living room, dining area, tile bath, and attached garage. The colorful kitchen has YOUNGSTOWN cabinets, pantry, double sink, and dinette area. The closet space will amaze you - 11 of them! If you need MORE ROOM, the time to move is NOW. Assume 4% loan, $1,700 down with NO closing costs. Priced to make you the envy of your friends, $11,700.

THEN THERE'S THE ONE that we have on HARVARD... with 2 bedrooms and den. Priced at $18,900.

AND THE AUSTIN STONE job on West Michigan with 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Everything about this one is terrific. Rather than give you a lot of wonderful details, let's go see it. One tour will defy even the eloquence of Walt Whitman. Priced at $18,950.

IT'S LIKE STEPPING into a beautiful dream... and all your dreams will unfold realistically before you when you walk from room to room. From the entry hall to the spacious living room, to the full dining room with so many glass built-ins. Into the large kitchen... then back to the 3 larger bedrooms, the many closets, and the 2 ceramic tile baths. Full length mirrors lead to even greater depths. Central heating and air-conditioning, lush carpeting (not to awaken you from your dream), full draperies, and warm color tones thru-out. Tile fence, grass, and well-kept along-the-way rock patio. During your 15th hour, we'll dream by appointment only. $19,500.

RUNNING THRU GRAFALAND is Storey Street, and running along part of Storey is a brick home. This brick home has walls running thru it, and walls create rooms. For instance, there are 3 rooms for bed furniture, a B-I-G room for LIVING (with a wood-burning fireplace), a separate room for dining, and another room for kitchening. Then there are 2 rooms for your private privacy, and a lot of smaller rooms called closets. There's a room for your breakfast, and even a huge room for your car. And there are loads of room in the tile fenced and landscaped yards. And this I must say: There isn't much room for improvement - not even the price of $21,900.

IMPORTANT Don't be misled by any other firm who is making wild claims about the fencing material they have to sell. Midland has only two fence companies who actually specialize in erecting fences and we are one of them. May we suggest that for your own good you contact us and see for yourself that our materials are of a better quality and that we build a fence that will stand up. Drive around town and look at our fences... look for the small "Midland Fence Company Sign" on the corner of most of the fences we have erected.

SHE NEVER TALKS BACK—Nobody knows where she came from, but the men of the 45th Mobile Surgical Hospital in Munsan, Korea, are sure giving their mascot, Agnes, careful treatment. Lt.-Col. C. E. Hollingsworth, commanding officer of the 45th, is shown dusting the statue's big toe with great dignity. The wooden nude, carved 20 years ago by a Japanese artist, has been with the organization for two years.

Three Dead, Four Missing As Navy Bomber Hits Ocean

NORFOLK, VA.—(AP)—The Navy all but gave up hope Tuesday for four airmen missing in the crash of a patrol bomber off Cape Henry—a crash which already was known to have taken three lives.

Of the 11 crewmen aboard the plane, a Martin P-5M which had been on an antisubmarine training flight out of the Norfolk Naval Air Station, four were rescued by the destroyer McNair. They had been lucky enough to climb aboard a life raft dropped by another patrol bomber flying with the doomed plane.

The survivors said they were certain the four missing airmen went down with the plane following the crash 25 miles east of Cape Henry in the Atlantic. The Navy called off its air search permanently Monday night but service vessels continued looking for the missing men.

Bodies recovered Monday were those of D. C. Peddie, aviation machinist's mate first class, Bristol, Fla.; T. Kuzza, aviation electronics man first class, Fife Lake, Mich.; and S. W. Earnhart, aviation electronics man second class, Jacksonville, Ark.

Missing and presumed dead were H. L. Spyers, aviation machinist's mate third class, Wharton, W. Va.; J. B. Greene, aviation electronics technician third class, Skowhegan, Me.; R. E. Stewart, aviation electronics technician third class, Dupo, Ill.; and W. H. Justice, aviation ordnance man first class, Cowen, W. Va.

All survivors were officers—Lt. (jg) W. B. Sears, Wyoming, Iowa; Lt. W. S. Nugent, Watervliet, N. Y.; Lt. (jg) D. E. Malone, Dallas; and Ens. Tilston, Middletown, Ky.

Action On Houston Schoolman Deferred

HOUSTON.—(AP)—The school board decided at a heated meeting Monday night to postpone action on the question of renewing Dr. George W. Ebe's contract as deputy superintendent until a special meeting at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The postponement was made after the board had met one hour and 10 minutes in private session in the school superintendent's office.

BERLIN.—(AP)—Hundreds of hungry East Berliners gave the lie to Communist claims of ample food Tuesday, storming across the sector border to take advantage of a West Berlin food relief program.

Only three days after their Red government scornfully rejected a U. S. offer of 15 million dollars worth of food, the East Germans made a mass rush to buy privately donated stocks sold along one part of the border at a special reduced rate of exchange.

The relief market opened in the borough of Kreuzberg, with West Berlin city funds supplementing private donations of milk and fruit.

Within three hours the stocks were gone, though buying was restricted to persons from the immediately adjoining East Berlin neighborhood.

The food was sold at just more than one-sixth the normal price.

Chambers Says Reds In U. S. Concentrate On Brains, Cash

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Ex-Communist Whitaker Chambers says businessmen, including "an occasional millionaire," play an important role in the American Communist party.

Chambers writes in the current issue of Look magazine that the party used to contain "chiefly small to middling businessmen," but "now there are probably more of them, and bigger."

These Communist businessmen, Chambers says, are of "more use to the party than mere workmen," and often lend their "businesses and services to cover the party's secret activities."

For example, he says, Communist literature used to be distributed through a group of Washington drugstores to members of secret cells in the federal government.

on "The ABC's" of American communism: "The party includes 'a great many' highly educated people—doctors, scientists, engineers, artists, economists and teachers—and always has contained more middle-class people than laborers."

The party is not greatly concerned about the large number of people who drift in and out of membership, but only of maintaining the central core—the "brain" and "general staff of the revolution."

Texas Gain Sparks Crude Output Boost

TULSA.—(AP)—Substantial increases in Louisiana and Texas boosted the nation's daily average production of crude oil and condensate by 47,000 barrels during the week ended July 11, the Oil and Gas Journal said Tuesday.

Its objective, as described by Chambers, is to get party assets "invested in businesses in such a way as to make tracing its holdings difficult, if not impossible."

In this way, the party hopes to "escape confiscation in case the party is outlawed," Chambers writes. He also makes these other points in a series of questions and answers the private relief program in the Kreuzberg borough was only a local stopgap, the German and American authorities still studied suggested ways of getting the U. S.-offered food stocks into East Germany despite the brusque Soviet rejection.

Proposals included issuance of coupons which East Germans could redeem in food at special centers set up along the sector border, food distribution through church and welfare agencies, and increased mailing of gift food packages.

Burma Rice Helpful

MANILA.—(AP)—Burma's increased rice production has eased the threat of a rice shortage in Southeast Asia, says a U. S. Technical Cooperation Administration official.

Ison Dasthotela, TCA agricultural consultant in Burma, said this season's Burmese rice harvest is even more promising. A greater rice yield is expected because of early rains and more rice acreage.

Two Persons Hurt In Midland Crash

Two Goldsmith residents were injured, neither of them seriously, when the automobile in which they were riding was involved in a collision Monday night at West Wall and D Streets.

Treated at Midland Memorial Hospital were Mrs. Trozell's 8, Herbert, 31, who suffered head injuries, and Sylvia Hebert, her 10-year-old daughter, who had leg lacerations.

Police said they were passengers in an automobile driven by Trozell, a gauger for the Gulf Oil Corporation at Goldsmith.

Driver of the other automobile was identified as Esther Abrams, 18, 111-A East Washington Street.

NO DETOUR SIGN NEEDED

JACKSON, MICH.—(AP)—A small road north of Jackson is an unpopular spot these hot days.

During the weekend, someone dumped about 700 dozen rotten eggs in piles along the road.

Deputy Sheriff Blair Corley, who followed his nose to the source of the trouble, said some of the eggs were in cases dated November 1952. He theorized that the eggs were hatched and spoiled before the thieves could find a market for them.

Talk Of Texas Predominates Everywhere American Servicemen Pause For Breather

By GRACE HALSELL
Reporter-Telegram
Special Correspondent

LONDON — Servicemen's clubs are about the same, whether they be in Fayette, Texas, or Ruislip, England.

For instance, I walked in the Ruislip non-commissioned officers club — NCO as the boys call it — and started looking for Texas.

The juke box was blaring—mostly the songs Texas boys play — Hank Williams and Tennessee Ernie's "You'll Never Get Out of This World Alive."

Harried English waiters were kept scurrying — largely with the same type food the boys like at home.

I noticed Sgt. Ray Moore of Henderson, the first Texan I found, was busy with wieners topped with chili—and the last boy I talked with an hour later, M. Sgt. Edmon Burson, Jr., of San Angelo had ordered the same Texas-style food.

One big difference however, between the English and Texas bases is the "one-armed bandits" (slot machines) which are permitted in both the NCO and Officers' Clubs here. First time I had seen the "bandits" at an overseas base.

Walking into the places reminds you of the Flamingo Gambling Casino in Las Vegas — except there's no carpeting here. The steady clanking sounds the same, however.

When Texans like Sergeant Moore, who formerly worked for an engineering firm of Tyler, are interviewed, the Yankees sit around "heckling," all in fun, of course.

As the red-haired airman tried to tell about his engineering job, Sgt. Jesse Greathouse of Illinois interrupted: "Now, boy, you told us you had oil wells."

"What he really operated was a big still in a town called 'Saloon' which he tries to pass off as 'Grand Saline' — a Californian in the crowd, Sgt. Leonard Dillman chimed in.

The tall red-haired sergeant chomped away on his hot dogs and chili. "Not everyone," he said calmly. "Is lucky enough to be born in Texas."

Adopted Son
M. Sgt. John R. Bainter, handsome native of Kansas, is one of those men not lucky enough to be born in Texas—but he says he recognizes a good thing when he sees it.

Stationed three years at Bergstrom Air Base, Bainter says Austin now is "home."

"I have bought property there, and we intend to live in Austin or someplace near — maybe Bastrop or Lockhart."

He wants to go into the restaurant business, and has several sites in mind for the venture. His wife, whom he met in Paris during the war years, should be able to give him some good ideas on preparing tasty cuisine.

Tech. Sgt. Orvil Mason of Mount Pleasant says his children, Leo, 10, and Jimmy, seven, and even little two-year-old Shirley all are speaking with distinct British accents. "Don't know what the folks will think of them when we go home," he said.

The two older children attended English schools a year, but they didn't like it very much.

"They are supposed to wear school uniforms, and that's one thing they didn't like," the Texan said. "The other kids more or less laughed if our kids showed up in their blue jeans. Well, you know American kids like to wear their blue jeans."

Sergeant Mason, stationed at Carswell Air Base before coming overseas, thinks he has been in England "long enough now—I'm getting tired of it, ready to go home."

M. Sgt. Edmon Burson, born in Maverick, Texas, and a veteran of 18 years in the service, was awaiting arrival here of his wife, Ora, and their four-year-old daughter, Rene Ann, when I talked with him. The Bursons formerly lived in Houston.

The sergeant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmon Burson of San Angelo, runs a clothing sales store here.

"It is like a men's clothing store at home, in a way," the airman explained.

"When a man comes into the Air Force he is issued so much clothing. After that, he is given a monthly clothing allowance, and it is up to the individual to keep his uniforms smart and re-supply his own clothing."

When I moved in with Mr. and Mrs. Kirk of London, renting a room from them for the Coronation, the thin, fortyish Englishwoman exclaimed in heavy British accent:

"And so you are coming from Texas! Where the cowboys are from. My husband and I have been married 20 years, and the only thing we found we have in common is that we both enjoy cowboy movies."

Aquarium Nets Top Seahorse Dividend

AUCKLAND, NEW ZEALAND — (AP)—Dividends came to the New Plymouth Aquarium Society two weeks after it acquired a "string" of five seahorses.

The seahorses multiplied considerably in their new aerated salt-water glass tank at the home of S. Anchor. No other instances of seahorses "foaling" in a tank are known to the society.

The seahorse method of breeding is as unusual as the fact that these were bred in captivity. The female deposits eggs in a pouch on the male's front and he patiently nurses them until they are hatched.

With Nursing Chow and Calve Startena, you'll grow big rugged calves . . . the kind that you're proud to have the neighbors see. You raise 'em cheaper and better on this program than on regular cow's milk!

Bugs In The Soil Could Mean Oil

LONG BEACH, CALIF. — (AP)—If there are bugs on the soil there's oil down below.

That's the belief of Logan Goodknight of Long Beach, who has studied and found significant, the relation between the presence of certain soil bugs and oil deposits.

His theory is backed by the development of 18 wildcat producers in Texas, Kansas and California into million dollar properties.

"These bacteria," Goodknight said, "live on volatile gases from the oil and gas below. They multiply and leave 'tracks' and chemical tests verify their presence and indicate commercial production."

Age Rule Observed

AMES, IOWA — (AP)—A rule of the college at Iowa State College requires that administrative officials retire on the July 1 after they reach 65 years of age. Dr. Charles E. Friley will bow to the rule July 1 and quit office as President of Iowa State College.

The rule doesn't apply to teachers. Dr. Friley will, accordingly, join Iowa State's faculty as a teacher and researcher.

He has been President 17 years. His predecessor, Dr. R. M. Hughes, is still a member of Iowa State's faculty.

Lone Woman Gains Top College Honors

ATLANTA — (AP)—The only woman among 75 men, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Newbury, a widow with three children, received top honors in this year's graduating class of Southern Technical Institute, a Georgia Tech affiliate.

She studied electronics and communications and received a science degree, the third ever granted by the institute to a woman.

Widowed by an automobile accident, Mrs. Newbury has two sons and a daughter.

If they keep on raising postal rates, Aunt Molly Harmsworth says she's afraid more and more relatives are going to think it's cheaper to drop in for a week's visit than to write letters.

Pioneer Resident Takes Pride In Home Bought By Dogie Sale

By ANN ENGLAND
Reporter-Telegram Staff

Mrs. Lou Ella Ragsdale, pioneer Midland resident, makes her home at 407 North Marienfeld Street, in the house she built in 1917 with money she received from the sale of dogies.

Born back in Jack County in 1879, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Turner, Mrs. Ragsdale began raising dogies at the age of eight and was active in the cattle business many years.

She was married to Joe T. Ragsdale Dec. 23, 1897, at Vinson, Okla., and moved to Midland County with her husband and two small children in January, 1906, from Shamrock, Texas.

Mr. Ragsdale, in partnership with O. P. Jones, bought the Cowden-Waddell place 25 miles Southwest of Midland. The place was known as the TA Ranch. The Ragsdale-Jones partnership later was dissolved.

Busy Ranch Hand
At the time of the purchase, four sections of land also were filed on, and the Ragsdales lived out the four homesteads as well as two later ones.

Along with various duties as housewife, mother and often cook for numerous cowhands, Mrs. Ragsdale helped on the ranch with such chores as windmilling, fence mending, cattle feeding and other ranch duties. She also assumed the additional task of gathering and raising motherless calves. Another duty which fell to Mrs. Ragsdale was that of riding horesback along the barbed wire fences which carried th. rural telephone lines, and making needed repairs.

At round-up and branding time, in which she took an active part, the dogies were divided, with half of them being given the company brand and the remainder being branded as Mrs. Ragsdale's personal property. It was with money received from her first sale of cattle that she built her present home.

Active Church Worker
When she built the house, it was located on grazing land, some distance from the then sprawling cattle town of Midland. Now the place is only a skip and a hop from the downtown district of the thriving, skyscrapered city. A postal substation, modern merchandising establishments and a new office building are located within half a block of Mrs. Ragsdale's home.

The pioneer Midland resident, who observed her seventy-third birthday Dec. 21, 1952, is active in affairs of the First Christian Church, of which she is a long-time member. She was named "Church Mother" last year.

She is a charter member of the Midland Chamber of Commerce and holds memberships in the Community Theater and the auxiliaries of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mrs. Ragsdale is alert and interested in national and international affairs, but more particularly in the affairs of Midland. Keenly interested in the youth of her city and community, she is quick to come to their defense when criticism is offered.

One of the honors of which she is proud is that of being chosen as Gold Star Mother to ride on a float in an American Legion parade here in 1948.

Son Killed In Action
Her youngest son, Lt. E. J. Ragsdale, was killed in Italy in 1944 while enroute back to his base from a bombing mission.

Mrs. Ragsdale has erected two additional house of two apartments each on her original lots on North Marienfeld Street, and it is from these rentals that she derives her living.

Along with many church, civic and social activities, she visits the

RUTH MILLETT SAYS—Loneliness Too High Price To Pay For Sake Of Pride

Some months ago her husband left her for another woman. Now he says he made a mistake and he wants to come back to his wife and 10-year-old daughter.

His wife says she still loves him, but her family and friends think she has been so badly treated she would "be a fool" to take her husband back. She wants to know what she ought to do.

She should listen to her own mind and heart, and stop listening to her family and friends.

After all, they won't have to rear a 10-year-old child without a father. They won't have to try to support and take care of a child at the same time.

They won't know the loneliness of giving up a man who still is loved, simply for pride's sake.

So this wife should decide what she wants to do entirely on her own. Her family and friends may think they have her welfare at heart when they talk to her of pride, but they can't live out her life for her.

A New Start
If she does decide to take her husband back and make a new start it might be well for her to consider the possibility of moving to another town or another part of the country where the past won't be known. There will be no one to pity her or censure her for having swallowed her pride in order to hold a family together.

But whatever she decides it should be her own choice, not an attempt to do what her family and friends think her pride should compel her to do.

Pride can be a costly indulgence, and a lonely one.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"I have a peculiar problem for you," writes a Pittsburgh correspondent. "The discard pile was frozen. My opponent asked his partner why she didn't make a canasta so that she could go out."

"To prove his point, he exposed his hand, which consisted of three kings. At her next turn his partner placed a meld of kings on the table and out he went."

"It seems to us that there should be a penalty for playing this way, but we can find nothing in the rules that covers this. What should be done?"

This is both an easy and a difficult question to answer. There is no real penalty for this sort of shenanigans, because it is an offense against the ethics of the game rather than against the laws.

Every canasta player in the world knows that he is not supposed to show his hand to his partner. Even the most inexperienced canasta player knows that he is supposed neither to tell his partner what to do nor to show his hand in order to indicate his wishes.

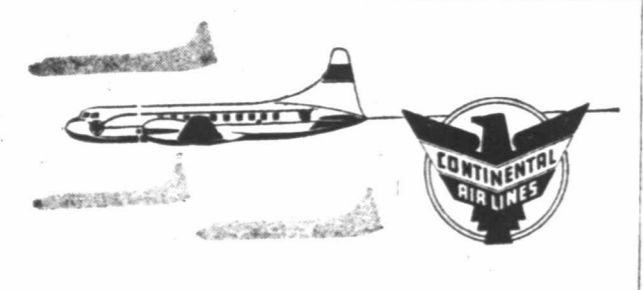

What sort of player would deliberately do what he knows to be wrong? Either a player who cares nothing about rules or a player who is so hopping mad that he can't think straight at the moment.

This is an easy problem to solve if your player just doesn't care about rules and is determined to break them when it suits his purpose. You read him the riot act and warn him that you simply won't play cards with him unless he mends his ways. You might even have to carry out this threat.

If the player was so exasperated that he completely lost his head, you have a difficult problem to solve. The laws of the game do not give an adequate penalty for this particular offense. (According to the laws, the defender's cards are exposed, and he must either meld them or discard them at his succeeding turns to play. Since the offender is delighted to meld them at his next turn, this is no penalty at all.)

When a player loses his temper he should be willing to apologize and to make amends. This is the general practice among non-card players as well as among card players. In other words, you have a problem in behavior and human relations, not a problem in the laws of canasta.

It May Cost Less than the Car You Own!

Surprised by the statement above? Then listen, for a moment, to these amazing facts:

The beautiful motorcar pictured here is actually priced lower than twenty-two different models of other motorcars built and sold in America.

Its gasoline economy is so extraordinary that it will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline than many cars of far less stature and size.

Its dependability is so great that, over a normal span of ownership, it will probably cost as little to operate and maintain as any car you could buy. The records of certain fleet operators indicate that this is true.

And authoritative records reveal that this Cadillac may be expected to return a greater percentage of its owner's investment, at the time of resale, than any other motorcar built in America.

Perhaps by now your surprise has changed to concern.

For if you happen to own one of the twenty-two cars priced higher than this magnificent Cadillac—or if you own one of the many, many other cars which are very close in price—then you've been needlessly depriving yourself of some of the greatest satisfactions in the entire world of motordom.

You've been depriving yourself of Cadillac's brilliant performance . . . its superlative handling ease . . . its marvelous riding comfort . . . its great and inspiring beauty . . . and the deep and abiding pride which comes with ownership of so beloved and respected a possession.

You'll surely agree—that's a lot of things to miss . . . especially when it costs no more to have them in this wonderful, wonderful car!

If you think this message might be addressed to you—come in and see us. You've already waited too long!

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And Tracker Story

I was telling you yesterday about the Train Track Walker who all his life has been walking and walking along the railroad tracks. Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, was talking with the Train Track Walker whose name was Tracker. They were sitting on the railroad tracks across the river from Daddy Ringtail's monkey house, there in the middle of the Great Forest.

"Tracker," said Daddy Ringtail, "why do you do it? Why do you walk along the railroad tracks to be a Train Track Walker?"

"Why do people do anything?" Tracker asked. "Because they have to, or because they want to." But Tracker smiled in a way that seemed to say that he was a Train Track Walker because a Train Track Walker is what he wanted to be.

He told Daddy Ringtail to look down the tracks, far away from where they were sitting. Daddy

Ringtail looked, and because the tracks were so straight, and the ground so flat, he could see a long, long way.

"Do you see how the tracks come together way down there?" asked Tracker.

"Oh, but they really don't come together," Daddy Ringtail answered. "They just look like they come together, because they are such a long way off."

Daddy Ringtail was right, of course, but Tracker shook his head and said: "Everyone says the tracks don't really come together, but I don't know. I just don't know, but I'm going to find out. That's why I'm a Train Track Walker."

Tracker stood up and said goodbye. Away he walked on down the tracks to try to walk to the place where the tracks seem to come together. He wanted to see for himself, you know, if they really did.

Ah me! He will walk and walk all his life. Always and always, down the tracks just ahead he will see the place where the tracks seem to come together, but they don't. And so, on and on he will walk forever. But we shouldn't feel too sorry for him. He knows what it is that he wants to do, and what it is he wants to be. Happy day!

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STEETSON
Dog Editor

The hot Summer sun can cause great suffering to a dog left in a closed car exposed to the sun. The utmost care and forethought should be given to parking cars so that they will be in and remain in the shade. Windows must be left open so as to allow the greatest possible ventilation and still keep the dog safely inside.

A dog can often get through a window if he can get his head out for car windows can be forced

Getting back to the home grounds, make sure that there is ample shade for the dog. There should be some small spot of shade at all times and, if natural shade is not available, a shelter should be built under which a dog can lie when the sun is beating down with Summer intensity.

Water dishes should be shaded. If there is no shady spot, a simple gadget can be constructed so that a thirsty dog will find the water comforting.

Insects are a Summer nuisance. They can and do pester dogs as well as humans. Any spraying done to reduce the presence of insect life will be mutually beneficial.

Another thought to remember—you will be much more comfortable yourself if you know that your dog is enjoying life with you.

down. I have had station wagons rigged with bars on the windows. They were not a thing of beauty but a more expensive installation, had I believed the investment necessary, could have been very attractive. I also rigged two rubber bladed defrosting fans which were left operating when parking in hot weather.

Steeplejack Fights Off Eagle 'Family' In Repairing Tank

HOWE, IND.—(AP)—A steeplejack Monday told of a battle he had with a mother eagle atop a 110-foot water tower where she had built a nest for her eight eaglets.

Earl Bowman, 55, found the eagles' nest when he went to the top of the tower to repair a tank roof. The steeplejack said the mother eagle and two eaglets, which apparently were hatched some time before the others, attacked him and scratched him with beaks and talons.

He drove the mother and two larger birds off, made the repairs and brought six of the eaglets down with him. He fed them a pound of hamburger and turned them over to Frank Test, who has a small private zoo.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Hemophiliac Bleeding Rare Though Often Fatal Disorder

A correspondent who signs herself "Worried Grandmother" writes that her two grandsons are suffering with hemophilia, and she would like to learn more about it. This is indeed a most interesting subject, though fortunately a rather rare disorder.

Persons subject to this bleeding tendency are remarkably healthy and are different from others only in their liability to easy and excessive bleeding. A trifling injury which would not be of any consequence to a normal person will cause severe bleeding in a true hemophiliac. Under such circumstances the blood may trickle or ooze on and on and prove almost impossible to stop. Bleeding may be internal as well as external. Most attacks are caused by some injury, even though the injury is nothing more than a slight bump or bruise.

The tendency to abnormal bleeding almost always is noticed in early childhood and lasts till adult life, becoming gradually less severe and finally disappearing if the victim lives through the early difficulties. Nose bleeds are common; bleeding after the extraction of a tooth is also frequent. Extremely minor operations have sometimes been followed by fatal hemorrhage. Bleeding can develop in the joints or in the lining of the mouth, the stomach, the bowels or elsewhere.

Treatment of the bleeding in a victim of hemophilia is difficult. Transfusion of blood is often necessary and usually is the best thing. Other measures aimed at increasing the speed of blood clotting have been tried with more or less success. The most important thing is to try to prevent bleeding. Every effort should be made to avoid injury and, of course, active games such as football, in which injury is inevitable, are permanently prohibited. Operations should be avoided if possible and anyone who is known to have hemophilia should be sure to inform a physician at once of the known tendency before the medical examination begins.

Royalty Hemophiliac

So far as is known, Queen Victoria of England was the first carrier of the hereditary factor or gene responsible for this famous royal bleeding disease. At least 10 of Victoria's male descendants have suffered from hemophilia and seven of her female descendants have been proven to be carriers of the gene. Where and how Queen Victoria acquired the fateful gene is however unknown.

In many cases of hemophilia the hereditary line is not easy to trace. The condition is limited to the male line although it is carried by

Stubborn American Male Keeps Clothing Industry Scratching For New Gimmicks

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The American male is quite a trial to the men's clothing industry at times. They're fighting an up-hill battle to make him as fashion conscious as his wife.

On top of that, his fidget keeps changing. This doesn't refer to middle-aged spread. Rather, it means that year by year stores find that the average size of suit they sell gets a little bigger.

The military made this discovery first. With world wars spaced about a generation apart, the Army found that today's draftee has a chest measurement one and one-half inches larger than his father. He measures that much more around the seat. But his waistline is one inch smaller. Today's youth takes a shirt with collar one and one-half inches larger than his father did at the same age. And his shoes are one size larger, too.

Makers of men's clothing have found the same thing, when the reorders come in. Whitty Brothers, men's clothing makers, say that 20 years ago they made the most in size 38 and 39. Today the stores report the best-selling sizes are 41 and 42. And some stores that 20 years ago always put size 38 models in their windows find that now size 40 window dummies look right to the window shopper.

But suit makers can adjust to the changing American male with less strain and stress than they can to his growing indifference to formality.

Dress Him Up

A concerted effort is underway to get him to dress up. The casual shirt that tends to double as a coat is a pain to every one in the clothing industry—except the happy makers of sport shirts.

The sport coat that teams with some slacks to supplant the regulation suit distresses those who think every male should have a wardrobe full of suits.

Now there's a big campaign to interest the American male in that old favorite, the fancy vest. First it was the tattersall and now the plume is getting brilliant in many varieties. This reverse, of course, the war-born move to get the male out of any vest at all by making only two-piece suits.

Jewelry makers are delighted that the shirt industry is pushing the French cuff, which calls for cufflinks. They hope for a big revival in that one-time big seller.

Jewelers also look with favor on the necktie people who are bringing out solid color ties with one blob of design just under the knot (if you can tie it skillfully). The effect is something like the old-fashioned tie pin. Jewelers hope this will put the idea of wearing tiepins into the male mind again.

Probers Told Reds Organized Strikes

ALBANY, N. Y.—(AP)—A Canadian labor leader testified Monday that the Canadian seaman's strike of 1949 was "a political strike organized by the Cominform."

Pat Walsh, 37, of Quebec, told congressional probers that the strike was aimed at "tying up shipping so that Marshall Plan shipments would not be delivered in time . . . and as a blow to the Atlantic Pact."

IN COLORADO

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Erwin and daughters, Grace and Mary Sue, are vacationing in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The shirt people also are going after the idea of getting men to be style conscious by multiplying the number of collar styles they make. Arrow has increased the variety of collars to 34 Van Heusen to 22. Manhattan has added five styles to its line and Jayson has doubled the number it offers.

Reluctant To Change

Current interest in the new synthetics is being made the most of, too. Brooks Brothers is blending long-staple Egyptian cotton with dacron in a shirt it's pushing.

In trying to shift styles on the male, suit makers have jumped from padded shoulders to natural drapes. And some are switching back. The idea is like the one auto makers use—bring out the new models and make last year's look out of date.

The American male, however, can be awfully stubborn about what he wants to wear.

Radar Tests Show Ample Alert System For Fort Worth Area

DUNCANVILLE (AP)—An Air Force radar expert said Monday a weekend test indicated the Dallas-Fort Worth area would have plenty of warning in case of enemy attack.

Maj. Hugh T. Arthur said he could not make public details of the test. He is commanding officer of the 745th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, stationed on a 240-acre military reservation south of Dallas, near Duncanville.

Operations of the station were kept secret until last week when the Air Force told Arthur he could begin releasing some information on the defense post.

Lowly By-Product Has A High Value

In this modern day it seems that a factory will suddenly find that their by-product will have a high, or higher, value than the product they are manufacturing. Seems to us that they used to burn cottonseed hulls, had no idea how to dispose of them, someone suggested them for cattle feed—now try to buy some. Other industries have had like experiences.

We manufacture a yard at our house. We give it a good shot of that wonderful organic fertilizer, Turf Special, and then we water it some, and after a little while we run a Jacobson Power Mower over it, and presto, a by-product—grass clippings. They are quite a problem. We get a pick-up truck full each time we mow. Our youngest son does the mowing and he piles the clippings along the curb, we come home, load them in the truck, and carry them off. A neighbor of ours phoned the other day and said, "The next time you mow I want the clippings."

We mowed, and then we phoned. His wife answered and we told her the clippings were ready for him to pick up. "What—?" says she, "is he going to do with that?" "Put 'em in the flower beds," we reply. "Oh," she allows, "that's going some, even getting your grass clippings. Why don't you write an ad about that?" And so we did.
