Shooting Stops On Korean Front

Quiet Follows Final Intense Artillery Duel

SEOUL—(AP)—Shooting stopped along the Korean battlefield at 10 p.m. Monday (7 a.m., Texas time), bringing to an abrupt halt 37 months of death and destruction.

While ground fighting was all but nil the final hours, mounting Communist artillery fire took its toll of Allied soldiers up to the last minute.

At 10 p.m., a hush fell over the front. The last man to die never may be named. Nor, perhaps, will the last hero.

The front, usually aflame at this hour of night, just grew dark.

Men heaved sighs of relief, but with great caution. As the clock ticked off the seconds, they grew more brave.

The last reported barrage—the final one of the Korean war on the central front—lifted at 9:43 p.m. The fighting there, at least, ended in silence.

AP Correspondent John Randolph said the cease-fire came on the central front amid silence after a smashing artillery duel between Allied and Red guns that began in mid-afternoon and built up a deafening crescendo shortly before 10 p.m.

A few seconds after 10 p.m. wild yells broke out from American GIs.

All day and into the night the Reds sent artillery and mortar barrages screaming into Allied lines east of Kumhwa on the central front.

The barrages mounted in fury as the hours went by. Sometimes shells ripped front and rear line positions at the rate of four a minute.

Allied guns boomed back trying to silence the guns.

Even as the shooting ended, litter jeeps and ambulances wound down dusty hill trails from outposts to ridges, bringing moaning, broken men to rear hospitals.

Correspondent Randolph reported that between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m., a U. S. division east of Kumhwa had been hit by 3,000 rounds of Chinese artillery.

Only five minutes before the guns fell silent, American and South Korean artillerymen tried to muffle the Red guns once and for all with a time-on-target barrage.

Using massive supercharges of powder, almost 12 battalions of Allied guns boomed back.

Free Radiograms Home Await Freed American POW's

TOKYO—(AP)—American prisoners of war released by the Reds under "Operation Big Switch" will be able to wire home $5 words free of charge from Korea, the American Red Cross announced Monday.

The "free radiogram service" is part of the organization's extensive welcoming program for the returning prisoners.

The Red Cross program also will include mailing to next of kin portrait photographs of the prisoners taken at Inchon, free trans-Pacific top priority phone calls from Japan for the sick and wounded, mailing home of recorded messages and distribution of gifts and comfort kits at the prisoner receiving center at Munsan.

Diplomats Take Over Fight For Korea As Soldiers Rest

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Diplomats took over the battle for Korea Monday, and with the lifting of the pressures of open war a new set of problems and dangers arose to plague Allied and Communist governments alike.

Foremost among these on the Allied side is the threat of an eventual angry struggle between the United States and Britain over admission of Red China to the United Nations.

As for the Communists, there is speculation already about the impact of the armistice on relations between Russia, Red China and North Korea—a situation about which Western governments know little but hope for much.

The first arena of the diplomatic struggle over these problems is due to be the United Nations General Assembly, at a special session in New York next month. The Assembly's primary task will be to set the stage for a political conference on Korea—and perhaps wider Far Eastern issues. That means under the truce terms, must convene by late October.

In these sessions the major objective of the United States, and presumably of other friendly nations, will be to seek the Korean unification which both sides failed to win in the war.

The Western Allies conceive of this as unification under a non-Communist government. That means they want the Reds to give up North Korea, and it raises the critical question: If the Reds are willing to consider this at all, what price will they ask?

Authorities here do not know the answer, but they have an idea that what the Reds may ask is a seat for Red China in the United Nations, displacing Nationalist China; an end to trade embargoes against Red China, and satisfaction of Red China's claims on Formosa.

This prospect effectively kills off any optimism in official quarters about the chances of early unification of Korea. For while the British have seemed to favor a UN seat for Red China once the Korean fighting ended, there is such overwhelming opposition to it in the U. S. Congress that the Eisenhower Administration appears to have no choice but to fight any deal along that line.

The issue of Formosa is an even more bitter one for the United States, which recognizes the Chinese Nationalist government established there and also considers that Formosa in hostile hands would be a threat to the American defense system in the Western Pacific.

Plymouth To Dig South Outpost To Field In Midland

Plymouth Oil Company filed application with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permission to start drilling at once on a one-half mile south outpost to production in the two-well Hallanan (Strawn) field of Central-West Midland County.

The project is to be drilled as No. 1-F H. S. Foster, 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from north lines of section 14, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey and 14 miles west of the city of Midland.

Operator asked for permission to drill to 11,000 feet.

Murphy Schedules Reef Lime Wildcat At C-N Howard Site

The Murphy Corporation is to start drilling by August 1 at its No. 1 R. O. Wilson, slated 8,500-foot wildcat in Central-North Howard County.

It will be two miles west of the East Vealmoor field and about one mile northeast of Standand Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Smith, a small discovery from the Pennsylvanian reef which was completed early this year.

The Murphy project will be 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from south lines of the south half of section 39, block 31, T-3-N, T&P survey. It is approximately 21 miles north and slight east of Big Spring.

The wildcat is being drilled on acreage secured by Murphy in a farmout deal with Stanolind Oil & Gas Company.

Shell Will Drill Wildcat Project In SE King Area

Shell Oil Company announced plans to drill No. 1-D S. B. Burnett Estate as a 6,800-foot rotary wildcat in Southeast King County.

Location has been staked 1,065 feet from north and 3,300 feet from west lines of section 15, block X, R. M. Thompson survey and 16 miles southeast of Guthrie. Operations are to start at once.

Conoco Schedules North Stepout To E-C Andrews Pool

Continental Oil Company spotted location for a prospect at the north edge of the Wemac (Wolfcamp) field of East-Central Andrews County.

It will be drilled as No. 4 McCollum & Wiebusch, 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 24, block A-44, pat survey and six miles southeast of the town of Andrews.

It is scheduled for a 9,300-foot bottom.

The test is one location north of No. 3 McCollum & Wiebusch, project now in process of completion and one location northwest of the discovery well.

Alamo Sets Site For Long Outpost To Field In Garza

Alamo Corporation of Lubbock No. 1 B. D. Huntly has been staked as a long northwest outpost to production in the Garza field of West-Central Garza County.

It is 1,978 feet from south and 2,192 feet from east lines of section 1214, T&P survey and four and one-half miles northwest of the town of Post.

Operations to 3,400 feet will start at once.

Magnolia Reports Oil Show In Reef At Dawson Project

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 C. A. Elland, Central-West Dawson County wildcat, nine miles west and slightly north of Lamesa, had some slight shows of oil in a drill-stem test in the lower section of the Pennsylvanian line.

That test was run at 11,214-240 feet. The tool was open two hours. Recovery was 280 feet of slightly oil cut drilling mud. No shows of gas or of formation water were reported from the test. Open flowing bottom hole pressure was 45 pounds. Shut-in bottom hole pressure after 15 minutes was 119 pounds. The prospector is now making hole below.

TOO LATE FOR THEM—Wounded South Korean soldiers await treatment at a battlefield first aid station. They were wounded in the fierce fighting which erupted along the 155-mile battle line in the final days before the signing of an armistice and the cessation of hostilities in the bitter, three-year-old Korean war.

Generals Ink Truce Papers In Short, Silent Ceremony

PANMUNJOM—(AP)—Generals of the UN Command and the Red armies at long last Monday signed a compromise armistice in the bitter, three-year Korean War. It means not peace but a nervous truce.

They signed in 10 minutes a document that took two years and 17 days to write. It brought the fighting to a stop at 10 p.m. (7 a.m. Texas time).

The brief signing ceremony at Panmunjom ran smoothly in sharp contrast to the months of sharp words, demands, counterdemands and walkouts that marked the long-drawn negotiations.

Without a word to each other, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr. signed for the Allies and Gen. Nam Il for the Communists in a bare, one-room, Oriental-type building hastily constructed by the Communists for the occasion.

Nam Il Leaves First

The chief negotiators began penning their names one minute after the appointed hour of 10 a.m. and were through signing the 18 documents involved at 10:11.

Each looked at the other for a long moment after they were through. Nam Il arose from the table and walked out the north door. Harrison went out the south door.

Commanding officers of troops from 16 United Nations members in the war witnessed the ceremony. No representative was present from South Korea.

General Clark signed nine copies of the truce document at Allied advance headquarters in Munsan three hours later. About 400 guests and 100 newsmen watched him sign in an Army theater building.

Slight Mart Fall Comes With Truce

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market declined slightly Monday as the guns in Korea were silenced.

The fall was moderate, mostly a few cents and extending to between $1 and $2 a share at the most.

Sleep-Walking Wife Again Roams As Moon Turns Full

ENID, OKLA.—(AP)—A beautiful 27-year-old Sunday night again hused a full moon sleep-walking housewife from her bed. This time she de-murely kept on her nightgown.

Mrs. Ione Wier's full-moon walk last month received international attention. She left her bed then and later was found in the nude sleepily picking leaves from a tree limb 20 feet above the ground.

The telephone company employe, however, went to bed at 11 p.m. Sunday with a blue satin robe neatly wrapped around her to avoid another nude performance. A reporter and news photographer were stationed in the living room.

Shortly before 1 a.m., the woman glided smoothly through her living room as the photographer's flash bulbs popped, made her way neatly through the front door, crossed the porch and then fell on her face in the yard.

The fall broke her trance and Mrs. Wier's first words to her husband, who trailed her through the house, were: "Why did you hit me?"

Her husband, Wesley, a meter-reader for Oklahoma Gas & Electric Company, said he awoke when his wife rose slowly from their bed. She walked so quietly from the bedroom she surprised newsmen sitting in the darkened living room.

Phil Brown, Enid News-Eagle reporter, said Mrs. Wier was not disturbed by the photographer's flash bulbs but continued her walk as

ARMISTICE AT A GLANCE

By The Associated Press

Official cease-fire halted Korean War at 10 p.m. Monday (7 a.m. CST), 12 hours after armistice signed at Panmunjom.

Quiet blankets battlefield after three years, one month, two days of bloody combat and history's longest truce negotiations.

Artillery thunders right up to the moment a cease-fire goes into effect.

Armistice signed in 11-minute ceremony at Panmunjom by top negotiators. Military commanders each sign half of the 18 copies, then will trade and sign the other half.

Exchange of more than 100,000 prisoners of war probably starts within the week. Reds say they'll free 12,736 POW's, including 3,313 Americans. UN Command will return about 69,000 North Koreans and 5,000 Chinese.

Joint Military Armistice Commission charged with over-all supervision of truce holds first meeting at 11 a.m. Tuesday Korean time (8 p.m. Monday CST) in Panmunjom.

Within 72 hours of cease-fire, by 10 p.m. Thursday (7 a.m. CST) both armies pull back one and one-fourth miles to create a two and one-half mile wide buffer zone across Korea.

Chinese Peiping radio boasts that Communists won "glorious victory" and cautions Red troops to remain on guard.

Gen. Mark Clark tells his army there will be no "immediate or even early withdrawal" from Korea.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th Army commander, says truce is "just a suspension of hostilities."

South Korea's President Syngman Rhee says his nation will not disrupt the truce for a "limited time" but he is sure the armistice "will prove to be the prelude to more war."

Relief that the fighting finally has ended but doubt concerning the future intentions and sincerity of the Communists was the reaction of many Midlanders to the announcement of the armistice in Korea.

Here are the opinions of Midlanders polled on the subject.

"I'm scared it might start up again," said Mrs. A. L. Adams, a housewife whose brother-in-law was killed in Korea. "I think the Reds are waiting their chance to strike somewhere else. I'm glad that it's over and only can pray for the boys still there to come home soon."

U. S. Learns Lesson

Duke Jimerson, insurance man and civic leader, had this to say: "It seems that there is doubt in everyone's mind as to how permanent the armistice will be. The United States has learned a lesson, however, and that is to be on guard at all times. The main thing right now is that lives will be saved and the truce was worth that much at least."

Bob Wesselhoft, geologist, who served with the U. S. Army in China and the Far East during World War II, said: "I don't think you can put any trust in anything a Communist says or does. When a rat does anything, you still have to watch him. I think the Communists gained and we lost by the prolonged truce talks and unless we are awfully darn smart they are going to gain and we are going to lose again in this truce period."

May Break Out Again

Mrs. Newt Rutherford, a grandmother and housewife who sent two brothers and a son to World War II, is glad the fighting is ended but fears Russia will break out with some new war. She said her servicemen all came back home "without a scratch on their bodies, but scratched in their minds."

Leroy Collyer, apprentice printer, who served with the Army in Korea, said: "I don't think it's over. There's a good chance that it might break out again. I don't trust the Communists and I don't trust the South Koreans. As long as Syngman Rhee is trying to untye Korea, they aren't going to give up."

Rev. Henry Stafford, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, said he is pessimistic about the truce since the details don't seem clear and the political situation still is so uncertain.

"There is still a feeling of animosity and there doesn't seem to be any real agreement," he added.

"Wonderful—But How Long?"

"I know it won't bring Billy home next week," said Mrs. G. E. Bissell, housewife and mother, speaking of her son, Second Lt. William M. Bissell, now serving with the engineers in Korea. "At least he may come home eventually but the ones that I have on my mind more are the Weathermen continued to sing the showers serenade Monday, expecting light thundershowers in the Midland vicinity Monday night.

Hard but limited downpours peppered parts of the city late Sunday afternoon. West Midlanders estimated the fall up to an inch or better.

The City Shops on North Fort Worth Street gauged 25 inch with "not even a sprinkle" at the Midland Air Terminal, 10 miles to the West.

Skies were clear over most of Texas Monday. Light showers spotted the state Sunday as the temperature ranged to 106 degrees at Cotulla. Midland recorded a high of 98 degrees with the same maximum expected Monday.

Nationalist Formosa Receives News Calmly

TAIPEH, FORMOSA—(AP)—President Chiang Kai-Shek and other Chinese Nationalist leaders conferred Monday on questions arising from the signing of a Korean armistice.

There was no excitement in this Nationalist capital following the announcement that a truce had been signed.

Returned To Andrews

Both were returned to Andrews, and Sheriff Floyd Peacock said charges will be filed after further investigation.

Superintendent Virgil Reed of the Andrews hospital said the man had been noticed loitering about the hospital all day Sunday.

"We had an accident victim in the hospital," he reported, "and this man told the nurses he had come to see his friend."

"He never did go to his room, however, and just hung around all day."

Around midnight, while all the hospital attendants on duty were busy, he said, the man broke the lock in the cabinet in which the "floor supply" of narcotics was kept.

"It was not our main supply," Reed said, "but they took about 10 bottles—all that was in there."

Someone noticed the man fleeing the hospital and a description of the automobile in which he left was broadcast over the police radio.

In Midland, Sergeant Fields and Deputy Sheriff Emmett Hunter parked their automobile on the edge of the city on the Andrews Highway.

"About 1 o'clock," he reported, "we saw this car pass by with a woman driving.

"We started after it and, when we turned on the siren along about Illinois Street, the woman pulled over to stop.

"Before the car stopped, however, I saw the man jump out the door and head for the baseball park. While Hunter stayed with the girl, I chased him on into the park."

Meanwhile Lt. Roy Merket and a half dozen other officers arrived and moved in on the grandstand, where the man was found hiding a few minutes later.

Sergeant Fields said the man told him he had been released from federal prison only five months ago and had been living in Midland "for some time."

Midland police captured a 33-year-old ex-convict and his girl friend early Monday after a wild chase which ended beneath the grandstand at the Midland Indian baseball park, and recovered more than $1,000 worth of stolen narcotics.

The narcotics, including morphine and cocaine, had been stolen a few hours previously from the Andrews General Hospital.

The man described by Detective Sgt. Walter Fields as a Midland construction worker, surrendered peacefully shortly after 1 a.m. when he was surrounded by a cordon of police officers in the darkened baseball park.

The girl friend, an attractive brunette, gave Odessa as her home address.

Ike To Ask Social Security For Millions More In U. S.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — About 10,000,000 more people will be included under social security by a special message which President Eisenhower will send to Congress early this week.

It is aimed to carry out presidential pledges made during the election campaign and will place under social security a large list of people hitherto not enjoying old-age or unemployment benefits. They will include:

Ministers of the gospel and lay church workers; state and local government employees; self-employed, such as doctors and lawyers; medical internes; civil employees of the Coast Guard, and American citizens employed on foreign-flag vessels such as those of Panama and Liberia, provided the vessels are owned by Americans.

President Eisenhower will send only a brief message to Congress, in which he will re-emphasize his belief in the basic principles of the social security program but will say that it must be strengthened.

Originally he had asked Congressman Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, to introduce the new social security bill. But Reed was so burned up over his reversal on the continuation of the excess profits tax that he refused. Eisenhower then turned to one of the Republicans on the Ways and Means Committee, Robert Keane of New Jersey, who consistently has supported him on tax measures.

Eisenhower's message will sidestep any increase in the limit of $75 a month which oldersters are permitted to earn without losing their old-age benefits. There has been a lot of pressure on the White House to increase the $75 limit to $100 a month. The President, however, has told congressional advisers that he felt a request for an increase of this limit would create too much opposition on Capitol Hill. However, he indicated he would ask to boost the $75-a-month ceiling at the next session.

The new social security proposals also will help those drawing social security benefits, by permitting anyone to drop the three worst years in computing his monthly wages. (Copyright, 1953, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Chaplains Honor Korean War Dead

Exclusively Yours: Red Skelton and Milton Berle, booked into the Sahara and Sands Hotels for the same two weeks, will be battling it out for the comedy king title of Las Vegas.

Whether it was premeditated or accidental may never be known, but it looks now like Red and Uncle Miltie will clash again on TV in the Fall. If Red lands in the CBS fold, as expected, he'll take over the Tuesday night 8:30 period opposite Berle.

Sterling Hayden and his wife, Betty, now are reconciled completely but another movie couple, Shelley Winters and Vittorio Gassman, are skating on thin matrimonial ice. They've decided the odds are against their marriage surviving and a divorce announcement is due.

Two movie agents met and the first raved about the commissions pouring in now that 3-D had arrived.

"You mean you handle such good actors?" asked the second ten-pen-center.

"With 3-D, who handles actors?" shrugged the other agent. "I'm handling roller coasters and knife throwers."

Maureen O'Hara is sitting on a sad story that explains her divorce from Will Price and her denials of the break-up until the last minute. Diana, Hollywood's dress designer, is putting a fashion show into a night club—the Calvada Lodge at Lake Tahoe. She'll emcee also.

Tavern Shooting Leaves Two Dead

CORPUS CHRISTI — A shooting in a beach-side bar Sunday night left a merchant seaman and the bar owner dead.

Police Sgt. N. C. Bauman said the seaman, Ernest Dexter Skipper, 22, of Fort Worth, shot and killed the bar owner, Griffith Arnold Heath, 48, with a rifle. Bauman, who had been called to the scene, shot Skipper as the latter ran out a back door.

People Regaining Confidence, Nixon Tells Interviewers

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Vice President Nixon says the Eisenhower Administration's biggest accomplishment has been "restoring public confidence in the integrity, loyalty and efficiency of the nation's public servants."

In an interview, Nixon said Sunday he interpreted last year's election returns as symptomatic of a feeling among voters that personal considerations were interfering with major policy decisions.

He said the people are now regaining confidence in their leaders. By way of example, he said many who disagree with Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey still regard them as able, patriotic men.

Two Are Coffee Honorees

Continuing a series of pre-nuptial parties, Peggy Whitson and Royce McKee were honored with a coffee Saturday by Mrs. Olen L. Shoemaker and her daughter, Mrs. Paul Westerfield, Lubbock. The coffee was held in the Shoemaker home at 2105 West Louisiana Street.

Miss Whitson is to be married to the Rev. Albert F. Lindley, Seminole, August 8 in the First Methodist Church, Midland. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Whitson, 408 North Big Spring Street.

Miss McKee is to be married to Larry Allen Bedford August 15 in the First Methodist Church in Midland.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. McKee, 907 West Michigan Street and Bedford is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bedford, 1110 North Big Spring Street.

The honorees were presented with gifts of crystal coasters banded with silver and corsages of red roses tied with blue ribbon.

The serving table, which was covered with white organdy over a blue linen cloth, featured a centerpiece of red roses in a crystal container.

Approximately 30 guests called.

The MATURE PARENT

This Boy's Refusal To Work May Be Anger At Parents

Although Art is 17, husky and capable, he won't take a Summer job. Instead of working, he prefers to loiter about the house all day until his friends get home at night from their vacation jobs and are ready for fun.

"His father is so disgusted with Art that he's cut out the boy's allowance," his mother writes. "This is hard on the boy as we have more than enough of this world's goods. Without a cent in his wallet, he's embarrassed among his friends who are also the children of well-to-do parents."

What's Art mad about? Can't his parents find out? Or could they be so busy being disgusted with him that it hasn't occurred to them that he may be disgusted with them?

When, at four years old, Art dragged on our hand, forcing us to pull him down the street, he was mad at us. He refused to go down the street on his own steam, not because he didn't want to, but because he wished to frustrate the will of a person he was mad at.

When at 17, he drags around the house all day, forcing us to accept his idleness against our will, he also is mad at us. He refuses to go to work, not because he doesn't want to work but because he wishes to frustrate the will of the person who wants him to go to work.

In such a situation, it is not intelligent to make Art madder at us by cutting out his allowance. His anger at us is our problem. If we want to solve it, we'd better not add to it, but get busy and find out why he's mad.

Children of parents who are plentifully supplied with this world's goods often balk at the idea of earning any money of their own, if we have offended or hurt them. They find it outrageous that they should have to exert themselves to earn money when we have more than enough to take care of their needs and wants.

This is not hard to understand. Unlike your lucky child and mine, Art is not compelled to face "the hard fact of a limited family income. Without any real financial limitation to accept and deal with, he can waste time juggling emotions. He can spend the whole Summer torn between his desire for a jalousy and his resentful need to frustrate us by making us pay for it with money he knows we have.

Art can remain immobilized for years if we don't get on to this conflict. If we want him to work, we'd better first find out where, when and how we offended him. (All rights reserved, NEA Service Inc.)

Luncheons Honor Bride-Elect

Pre-nuptial luncheons Thursday and Saturday honored Patricia Ruckman, bride-elect of Robert Gail Jacobs.

The couple will exchange vows Saturday in the Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Midland Country Club was the scene of the Thursday event. Hostesses were Mrs. S. P. Hazlip and Mrs. H. E. Chiles, Jr.

The table was centered with an arrangement of white asters and auratum lilies. A gift was presented to the honoree.

Those attending, in addition to the honoree, were Mrs. Dean Baker, Mrs. Ed R. Kennedy, Mrs. Joe Keyser, Mrs. R. J. Snell, Margaret Ruckman, Mrs. Jim McLaughlin and Mrs. J. P. Ruckman, mother of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Ruckman also was the honoree at a luncheon given Saturday by Mrs. Hugh Munn. The party was held in the Petroleum Club.

Centering the table was an arrangement of large white chrysanthemums and satin hearts entwined with small white blossoms and maline. A hostess gift was presented to the honoree.

Guests were Mrs. W. B. Harkrider, Mrs. Leif Olson, Mrs. James N. Allison, Mrs. Dan Hudson, Mrs. S. J. Lones, Mrs. John W. House, Mrs. H. E. Chiles, Jr., Mrs. J. K. Hazlip, Billie Ferguson, Mrs. H. M. She is accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Lawrence Wood Robert of Washington, wife of the former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee and now a Washington and Georgia capitalist.

Mrs. Regan and Mrs. Robert will be joined in Hawaii by Mr. Robert and daughter, Birney, who have been traveling around the world.

Mrs. Robert, socialite of Washington, is outstanding as a big game hunter in the Northwest. She is the owner of a fabulous string of black pearls, wilder her by the late Cissy Patterson, owner of the Washington Times-Herald.

'Miss Wool' Contest Extends Deadline

SAN ANGELO — A five-day extension for entries in the 1953 "Miss Wool" contest was announced Saturday by Mrs. Edwin Mayer, wool promotion chairman for the Women's auxiliary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

Texas girls now have until August to mail applications to the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce and become eligible for the "Miss Wool" title and prizes including $5,000 all-wool wardrobe, a set of matched luggage, and a tour of America's style centers.

The contest is unique in that the Texas sheepherders and their auxiliary are sponsoring the contest instead of the wool industry in an effort to promote interest in wool. "Miss Wool" will be crowned as a highlight of the Wool Fashion Revue and Fiesta in San Angelo September 3, 4, and 5. She will be chosen from 11 finalists picked from entries by John Robert Powers of New York City.

RETURNS HOME

Pansy Burrus, Route Two, has returned from a vacation in Fort Worth and Dallas.

Some people meet the nice inconveniences and small annoyances of everyday living with chips on their shoulders. They demand their rights, give people "a piece of their mind," and try hard to make sure that nobody puts anything over on them. They not only cause trouble for others, but create it for themselves. People who act like that aren't as likely to get their own way as those who are more tactful.

Tact accomplishes more than any amount of blustering.

Welcome Wagon Has Friday Meeting

The Welcome Wagon Canasta Dessert Group met Friday in the Ranch House.

Twenty-one persons attended, including three guests, Mrs. Hoy Harrison, Mrs. Rachel Abbott and Mrs. Todd Biggs, Del Rio.

Mrs. Carl Cubbison and Mrs. George Phenix won the prizes for the afternoon.

A Disturbing Situation

If the Republicans now are compelled to raise the legal debt limit from its present level of $275,000,000,000, the anguish in many GOP hearts will be great.

In fact, the situation is so full of little ironies that the pain may well prove excruciating for some lawmakers.

To begin with, it could prove very damaging politically to have to accept responsibility for boosting the limit. The Republicans, as everybody knows, campaigned for a balanced budget, and lower taxes. Both goals seem at this moment a bit remote, and still may be when 1954—election year—rolls around.

Yet apparently there is no way to avoid this step. The $9,300,000,000 deficit for the fiscal year that closed June 30 pushed the debt to $272,000,000,000. Of course, the budget that produced this deficit was a product of President Truman's Administration, but that affords slight solace to wincing Republicans who soon must face the voters.

The GOP discomfort is compounded by the Democrats' position in this matter. Whatever the facts about the fiscal situation inherited from Truman, the Democrats will be able to trumpet that their opponents actually raised the debt ceiling.

If this move is made, Democratic votes in Congress will be needed, unquestionably, to help bring it about. For enough Republicans are sure to fight it to force President Eisenhower's lieutenants to look to the other side of the aisle for backing.

So the Democrats will assist the GOP to accomplish an action which they then may proceed to denounce as proof that the Republicans' promises of economy were false.

The Democrats could, if they wished, play it another way. They might decline to lend voting aid. Then the ruling GOP would have to put the new and higher limit across all alone, or face the unprecedented dilemma of a debt limit which will not accommodate the expected deficit of this current fiscal year.

Not a happy outlook, and one can understand the squirming and fretting that has followed upon its disclosure.

The Republicans are learning what the Democrats had come painfully to realize before: the government has grown so large it is almost unmanageable. Only in the glib words of the campaigner do you lop off whole segments of this huge empire.

There's an old saying that enemies never really conquer China; they are in time absorbed by it. So it is, it would seem, with big government.

One plane crash, two auto accidents and a near drowning is the record of a Georgia girl. Now it would just be her luck to get married.

Lots of people are deep in debt because they spend what their friends think they make.

Where Away?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
 Drew Pearson says: Ambassador Luce reports State Department for slighting Italians; Hard-fought New York mayoralty battle may end in liberal victory; Robert R. Young progresses as railroad tycoon.

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, new U. S. ambassador to Italy and the wife of the Time-Life publisher, has sent a scorching telegram to the State Department. It was so hot that diplomats said it almost burnt their fingers.

Mrs. Luce lambasted Washington for inviting the Yugoslav military delegation to visit the nation's capital and ignoring the Italians. She said this honor had infuriated our best friends in Italy and might cause the fall of our long-time champion there, Premier De Gasperi.

To invite the Yugoslavs, rivals of the Italians, to Washington just at a time when Premier De Gasperi was trying to form a pro-American government, Mrs. Luce said, was the height of boneheaded diplomacy.

New York Dog Fight
 The political cat and dog fight over New York City politics may seem far removed from the rest of the nation. But since New York State usually dominates the choice of presidential nominees, the battle for mayor of New York may have important repercussions on who is elected President of the United States in 1956.

Two backstage battles are under way, one of them bitter in the extreme. The Republican battle, not so bitter, has featured some secret wire-pulling between Governor Dewey and his onetime close friend, Senator Irving Ives. Ives now has become the most popular Republican in New York State, and Ives came to Dewey to quit next year so Ives can become governor. Dewey, on the other hand, is determined to stay on, wants to control New York's powerful delegation to the next Republican convention, so as to take a third and last try at the presidency when Eisenhower bows out—as is expected.

Bitterest fight is between the Dems. What the race for mayor of New York boils down to is a battle between Jim Farley and Roosevelt New Dealers to control the next nomination as governor of New York and the New York delegation to the next presidential convention.

Big Jim, who has wanted to control New York politics since he booted Roosevelt, is back-stage campaign manager for Mayor Impellitteri. If he reelects Impellitteri, he plans to block either Franklin D. Roosevelt or Averell Harriman as South made a fine decision when he jumped to six hearts in today's hand. West's bid of three spades and North's failure to double for penalties made it clear that North had only limited strength in spades. Hence there was every reason to expect that North would have substantial strength in clubs to help make up his no-trump opening bid.

There would have been no story to tell if South had been as accurate in playing as he was enterprising in the bidding. He made only one mistake, but that was enough to do him in.

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South won in his own hand with the ace. He led a low trump to dummy's king and returned a trump to his own hand, a serious error.

South's next step was to lead a low club and finesse dummy's seven. East won with the queen of clubs and returned his last trump. The defensive maneuver left only one trump in the dummy. South could not ruff out the club with only one trump and could not make his slam contract without establishing the clubs.

South made his mistake when he drew a second round of trumps. After drawing one trump, he should have cashed the ace of clubs and surrendered a club to the enemy.

If East returned a trump, South could win in his own hand and would still have two trumps in dummy to take care of his own clubs. He could ruff a club, get back by ruffing a spade, ruff another club, and return once more by ruffing a spade. Now he could lead out the last trump and cash his good clubs.

Beside the Laughing Water

A Romance by LOUIS ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM

THE STORY: A strange fate befell Lillith Greene in Canada where she meets the widow of Giles Wayland, the man Lillith had loved during the war in London. Giles had been estranged from his wife and when his romance with Lillith was broken off, he sought death on the battlefield. No one knows that Lillith is the London actress Lesley Gray, who is blamed for the widow Avis for Giles' death.

LILLITH studied the sketch—a very good likeness. Surprisingly good, she had to admit, even though she didn't like the supercilious look, the long, thin, disdainful that Peg had managed to convey. Under the sketch was printed, "One of history's famous—or infamous—women."

Lillith looked up from studying it. "I think you flatter me." The red crown glimmered as Peg shook her head. "Oh, no, I'm sure it doesn't flatter you, Miss Greene."

"You were supposed to be paying attention, you know. You can't do two things at once."

"This is Canada. We can watch television or listen to the radio and do our lessons at the same time. I heard all of what you said. And I just had to make a sketch of you."

"Why did you?"
 "Something about you bothers me."
 She wasn't being insulting, Lillith realized. They were all amazingly frank, these girls—
 "I don't know what it could be, Miss Wayland—or shall I call you Peg?"
 "If you wish, Miss Greene. I can't explain to you what it was made me draw you. I drew you first without the chesters and I couldn't make a go of it. You look like someone I've seen before. It's as if I knew your face quite well—"

Power Project Plans Are Pushed Through Commission

By PETER EDSON
 NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Federal Power Commission handling of the controversial Idaho Power Company application to develop three Hell's Canyon dam sites indicates a determination to get this business settled as soon as possible. There apparently is some hope it will be a forgotten issue by the time the 1954 elections roll around.

Hell's Canyon on the Snake River—a main Columbia basin tributary on the Oregon-Idaho line—doesn't make big news in the East and South. But it is strictly front-page stuff in the Northwest.

The case has much more than regional interest, however, for this is the key to all Eisenhower Administration policy on the private power company vs. public power issue. Proof of this is found in the fact that big private power interests have entered the case as interveners. This means they become party to the action to protect their alleged interest therein.

Pacific Power and Light, the big Oregon utility, has moved into the case because it hopes to buy power from the Idaho company if it is granted license to build the three dams. Representatives of Electric Bond and Share, one of the biggest utility holding companies of America are present. And so are representatives of the National Association of Electric Companies.

These facts are taken as an indication of the importance which the private power industry puts on the Hell's Canyon decision.

Held Before FPC Examiner
 Current hearings on the case are not being held before the full Federal Power Commission. They are being held before an FPC examiner, William J. Costello, an old hand at this business.

Examiner Costello will hear all the evidence and make a finding of fact. This then will be reported to the full Federal Power Commission, which will issue the final decision on whether Idaho Power may begin construction.

The opposition to the Idaho Power application is pitifully weak. A National Hell's Canyon Association, headed by J. T. Marr of Portland, Ore., has been formed in the Northwest to support public power development of the Snake.

The association is long on numbers of people, but short on cash. It has the backing of Northwestern Grange, Farmers' Union, A.F. of L., C.I.O., some public utilities districts and local groups.

In Congress, almost their only supporters are independent Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Rep. Grace Poff, Idaho Democrat, who campaigned and won on this issue last election. Senator Morse's influence in Congress today can't be described as being at any peak.

What the Hell's Canyon Association wants is a single, high dam built by the federal government in place of the three dams built by Idaho Power. This is in support of plans made by Department of Interior with Truman Administration approval.

The new secretary of Interior, former Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon, walked out on these plans in May by withdrawing his department's opposition to the Idaho application. Secretary McKay's main argument was that there was no use asking Congress for money to build the high dam under present me. You are a bit of an enigma, you know. That's what mother says."

 "Should I be flattered or the reverse, I wonder?"
 "Oh, flattered, I should think. It's nice to meet someone different—someone who isn't just one, two, three, four and five, too—there is a key to every enigma in this place there was or had been a picture of her. Giles had one of the stills taken of her from Crosskeys, the play in which she first met her. There wasn't much of a likeness, Lillith thought consolingly, between the Lesley Gray of that long ago day and the Lillith Greene who stood here in the classroom.

"May I keep it?" she asked. "It's quite a tribute to be made the subject of a portrait at one's very first class."
 "Keep it if you like."

AT lunch Lillith sat next to Avis Wayland whom she had not seen since the morning Avis and Gavin had gone driving. Avis nodded to her as to an old friend. "Well, my dear, school's in at last. Everybody's back to the old grind and all the fun is over. How did you fare?"
 "Splendidly, I think. A bit early to judge, but they seem to have no higher aim in life than the acquisition of a good knowledge of English literature. They really are very earnest. You have to be rugged to face up to Walter Scott, Thackeray and Lamb, all in one year—"

"I know. That's what makes them so interesting."

LITTLE LIZ

The trouble with a lot of people is that in trying times they quit trying.

Teaching the classics these days is like playing a sither in a boogie-woogie band. How was my name-topped darling?"
 "We tangled—didn't that what you say?—first-off. She was expounding to her classmates the red-headed women have been the most famous in history—when I walked in and contributed the equally tangle truth that they have also been among the most infamous—"

"Oh, good! Was she furious?"
 "She has a temper and reacts like an irritated puma sometimes."
 "I'm not sure she liked it. But she was at least interested in me—wasn't she?"
 "No—really a rather flattering one—very appropriately labeled—'One of history's famous or infamous—'"

"Saucy brat! I hope you told her off properly!"
 "Oh, no. I took the sketch."
 AVIS looked at it a long time without speaking, her food neglected. "You know—I think she's got something on the ball. I don't really think it flatters you but she was trying to see into—"

"The enigma?"
 "What a chatterbox! Yes, I did tell her I thought you were something of a riddle, but I didn't mean to get her started on a campaign to psychoanalyze you."
 "She thinks she finds in me the after-image of someone she knew or saw someplace."
 "She'll forget it out if she really did. You never saw such a determined, persistent piece— goes with that red head—saps! No offense intended. I forgot about your own."
 "None taken, I assure you. I like having red hair."
 After luncheon Lillith went to her room and put Peg Wayland's picture on the bookshelf above her desk. "I wonder if she could have seen my photo," she thought. "It would be pretty weird thought now, if it was among Giles Wayland's things. I don't think there'd be any recognizing me from that dew-eyed young thing of 1945."

"I know. That's what makes them so interesting."

Reds Promise To Exchange 3,313 American Prisoners

MUNSAN—(AP)—The secret record of the Panmunjom truce negotiations released showed that the Communists have told the Allies they will return 12,736 prisoners of war—including 3,313 Americans.

South Korean Sits In At Truce Event

MUNSAN—(AP)—South Korean Maj. Gen. Chol Duk Shin said Monday he attended the armistice signing ceremony here on instructions from President Syngman Rhee and purely as an observer.

down of the captives they will release:

- 3,313 Americans.
- 8,186 Koreans.
- 922 British.
- 12 French.
- 228 Turks.
- 15 Australians.
- 40 Filipinos.
- 14 Canadians.
- 22 Colombians.
- 6 South Africans.
- 1 Greek.
- 1 Belgian.
- 3 Japanese.

This means a total of 4,577 prisoners of non-Korean nationality to be returned.

The Allies informed the Communists that about 5,000 Chinese prisoners and 69,000 North Korean captives will be returned to the Reds in the big exchange of prisoners.

The information was exchanged in a secret staff officers session held at Panmunjom July 22. Marine Col. James C. Murray spoke for the Allies and North Korean Col. Lee Pyong Il for the Reds.

The UN said that about 7,800

North Koreans and 14,500 Chinese captives will be turned over to the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission. These prisoners have renounced communism and do not want to return to their homelands.

The Communists said they would return 300 prisoners a day, including sick and wounded. They did not give the number of disabled men they still hold.

The UN Command informed the Reds they will turn back the Communists captured at the rate of 2,400 able-bodied prisoners daily, plus 360 sick and wounded each day until all the disabled are released. The Allies said they hold about 3,000 sick and wounded in UN camps.

Starting Date Not Set

The truce document requires that all prisoners desiring to return home be exchanged within 60 days after the signing.

The UN Command base camp spokesman said as far as is known no date has been set for beginning the mammoth task of exchanging the war prisoners.

The new figures released by the Communists on Allied prisoners they hold were surprisingly close to the figures announced Dec. 18, 1951, in the first prisoner lists.

The December, 1951, figures given by the Reds totaled 11,559, including 3,198 Americans and 7,142 South Koreans.

In the exchange of sick and wounded war prisoners last April, the Allies received a total of about 684 sick and wounded men, including slightly fewer than 150 Americans.

Parking By Card Trick

All that's needed to park in this unattended, self-service, Chicago parking lot is a card, but the trick lies in having the right card. The card, a specially imprinted card key, is inserted in an electronic device (arrow, top photo), that "reads" the card and then lifts the gate allowing the motorist to park. A close-up of the "reading machine" is shown below. To prevent counterfeiting, the card keys are changed each month.

Eisenhower Says Truce Alone Doesn't Make Peace In World

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Eisenhower hailed the Korean truce signing Sunday night with a prayer of thanksgiving but solemnly declared "We have won an armistice on a single battleground—not peace in the world."

"We may not relax our guard nor cease our quest," he said in a nationwide television and radio address an hour after the truce was sealed at Panmunjom, ending the 37 months' war.

A few moments before he went on the air from the White House, the President—a happy smile on his face—made a remark which undoubtedly was being echoed by hundreds of thousands of other parents all over America.

Hope For Son's Return

"I'm glad this war is over," he said quietly, "and I hope my son is coming home soon."

His son, Army Maj. John Eisenhower, has been on active duty in Korea since last July. The only break in his service was a brief return to the United States came when he traveled to Washington to attend his father's inauguration.

In his TV-radio address over all networks, the President started by saying:

"Tonight we greet, with prayers of thanksgiving, the official news that an armistice was signed almost an hour ago in Korea."

Sunday night, speaking gravely, he declared:

"And so at long last the carnage of war is to cease . . ."

Prayers For Peace

But he went on to note that the political conference—the conference at which such delicate issues as unification of North and South Korea will come up—still is ahead.

Referring to the negotiations, he added:

"On this Sabbath evening each of us devoutly prays that all nations may come to see the wisdom of composing differences in this fashion before, rather than after, there is resort to brutal and futile battle."

"Now as we strive to bring about that wisdom, there is, in this moment of sober satisfaction, one thought that must discipline our emotions and steady our resolution. No Peace In World

"It is this: We have won an armistice on a single battleground—not peace in the world. We may not relax our guard nor cease our quest."

Eisenhower said that for the United States the cost of repelling aggression in Korea has been high. "In thousands of homes it has been paid in terms of tragedy," he added. "Then he expressed the sorrow and gratitude of a nation whose loved ones were 'called upon to lay down their lives in that far off land to prove once again that only courage and sacrifice can keep freedom alive upon the earth."

Devotion And Care

America renews her pledge of "lasting devotion and care" to the widows and orphans of the Korean conflict, as well as to the wounded veterans, Eisenhower added.

Turning then to the American prisoners of war held by the Communists, he said:

"The swift return of all of them will bring joy to thousands of families. It will be evidence of good faith on the part of those with whom we have signed this armistice."

Eisenhower paid warm tribute to the "valorous armies" of South Korea and to that war-scarred country's President Syngman Rhee, who had bitterly protested the truce terms but promised to collaborate.

As for this country's allies, the President had words of praise for them too.

Thanks To Allies

"Soldiers, sailors and airmen of 16 different countries have stood as partners beside us throughout the long and bitter months," he said. "America's thanks go to each."

Eisenhower closed his address with a quotation from the second inaugural address of Abraham Lincoln, saying it more nearly expressed the true feelings of America at this time than any other words ever spoken or written. Said Lincoln, as the end of the Civil War neared:

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in . . . to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace, among ourselves, and with all nations."

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Overeating Is The Cause Of Most Cases Of Obesity

Most people who are fat or even only moderately overweight maintain that they want to lose the excess poundage. No doubt this is true, but most fat people seem more willing to talk about it than to eat less.

With exceedingly few exceptions, and I mean hardly any at all, the cause of obesity is overeating. By the same token those who say they want to lose can do so by eating less. This is not easy for the average overweight person, but it can be done by the liberal use of will power and without the use of drugs.

However, someone who really wants to lose should understand what foods to eat and how much. They cannot afford to cheat as so many people do by little extra mouthfuls now and then which they just "don't count." The few pieces of candy or the evening raid on the refrigerator have been the downfall of too many reducing programs.

The foods which turn into human fat most easily are the animal or vegetable fats such as butter or margarine and fat meat. The starches or carbohydrate foods, too, must be cut down or eliminated if weight is to be taken off. In this group belong potatoes, sugar and cereals.

If foods such as these are eliminated from the diet or taken only in small quantities, progress should be made. They can be replaced with lean meat, fowl, fish, vegetables and the less-sweet fruits.

Follow Strict Diet

A really scientific diet for reducing, however, must be calculated for each person by recording such things as height, age, sex and proper weight, and then figuring the calories which such a person ought to have. Then a strict diet in which the food is weighed can be worked out on a calorie basis and if the diet is really followed, weight loss inevitable will follow.

Obesity has a bad effect on general health; at all ages the overweight person is more likely to die or to become ill with most types of disease than the thin person. The medical evidence is overwhelming and more and more doctors are insisting that overweight patients lose weight in addition to other treatments indicated. The first two weeks are the hardest, however, and the diet generally seems easier after one gets used to it.

Funeral Rites Held In Stanton Church For Midlander, 47

Funeral services were held at 4 p.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church, Stanton, for Willie E. Whitson, 47-year-old Midland grocery operator, who was shot to death accidentally here Thursday night.

The Rev. J. B. McReynolds of Taran and the Rev. Fred McPherson of Lubbock officiated. Interment was in the Evergreen Cemetery at Stanton.

Whitson came to Midland in 1936 from Stanton. He entered the grocery business in '47 after farming near Midland for a year and working for the Continental Oil Company. He was the operator of the Whitson Food Store at 2000 West Front Street.

Whitson, a member of the Masonic Lodge, the American Legion and the P.W.F., served in the Air Force during World War II and spent 18 months in the Pacific Theater.

Survivors include the widow; the parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Whitson of Midland; three brothers, R. A. and Jess Whitson of Midland and John Whitson of Texoma, Okla.; and three sisters, Mrs. Susie Mae Davis and Mrs. Eula Mae Furman, both of Midland, and Mrs. Louise Reacrier of Minnesota.

Funeral services were held at Stanton, Okla., and four Stanton lodge members.

Midlanders Enter Model Plane Meet

The Rev. Ray Protzman, associate pastor of the First Christian Church, and Jimmy Crain and Ed Reel are attending a model airplane meeting at the Naval Air Station in Willard Grove, Pa. this week.

Crain and Reel will enter planes in stunt and combat flying contests.

The meeting is a national event which began July 26 and ends August 2.

The three Midlanders will visit New York City, Niagara Falls and Chicago before returning home.

UN Members May Confer Briefly Before Peace Talk

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(AP)—The UN General Assembly will meet three weeks from today to tackle the next big hurdle in the Korean problem—setting up the special political conference.

The conference provided for in the armistice agreement must meet within 90 days. Its chief job will be to try to transform the armistice into a permanent peace just what subjects will come up remain to be decided.

The 60-nation General Assembly will determine which nations will have a seat at the conference and will fix the time and place it will meet. Some delegates want the Assembly to work out the conference agenda too, but others have indicated they want to leave that to the conference itself.

The call for the Assembly meeting on August 17 went out quickly to members during Sunday night, but Assembly President Lester B. Pearson of Canada and other leaders thought it best to allow ample time for private consultations before the formal meeting begins.

Pearson expressed the hope that some plans might be agreed upon informally before the session opens. If this is done, Pearson said, the meeting might be concluded in a week or a little more.

Formal UN Notice

The UN received formal notification of the armistice at 8:48 p.m. EST—37 minutes after the conclusion of the Panmunjom signing. U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., informed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld orally and later, before television cameras, handed him a letter with the notification.

"Let us thank God and fervently pray that this armistice heralds a lasting peace," Lodge said.

Hammarskjöld said:

"I wish to express the firm conviction that all parties by abiding by the armistice will contribute to paving the way to a peaceful settlement of the political and economic problems still facing us in Korea . . . The United Nations will devote the best of its endeavors to the great tasks of reconciliation and rehabilitation that lie ahead."

Every now and then someone will leave a Dallas News on the counter of the cafe where we drink our coffee. Then we get a chance to read Paul Crume's column, "Big D."

About a month ago he wrote—"STREET CORNER PICKUP: A man who seemed to be an expert on lawns was giving another some advice about fertilizing and such. Anybody who wants a fine lawn, he said, should never, never set the lawnmower to cut close. The mower should be high so that the grass will shade the roots. Just recently, he said, his wife complained because he didn't set the mower blades closer to the ground."

Said the man: "I told her, 'Don't you dare set your hand to those blades. You just push!'"

Those are Mr. Crume's very words. It is a good story with a lot of truth in it. Mr. Crume got paid for writing it in one of the country's big dailies. We pay advertising rates, week after week, to bring you tips on keeping your lawn in order. Queer world! Ho! Hum!

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail And The Horseshoe

The Huffen Puffen, the friendly wolf, one day found a horseshoe on the Elephant Path. The Huffen laughed and chuckled to see it. A horseshoe makes happy things happen for you, people say, especially if you throw the horseshoe back over your right shoulder.

The Huffen picked up the horseshoe. It was made of iron, as horseshoes are, and it was a heavy thing. But it wasn't too heavy for the Huffen to throw, and he did throw it. He threw it back over his right shoulder—all for the luck he thought would happen.

"Crash!"

"Oh-oh!" said the Huffen. There he had thrown the horseshoe through the window of somebody's house. The noise had been the glass breaking. Oh, the Huffen was sorry, he was, but the somebody threw it back at the Huffen, and it hit him in the head "ker-bong."

"Ooooooh!" shouted the Huffen, and away he ran as fast as he could with the horseshoe. A horseshoe makes happy things happen for you, people say, especially if you nail it over the door of your house.

The Huffen did nail it over the door of his house. He stood on the kitchen stool to reach high enough, and just as he finished with the nailing: "Zoop ker-bong!" There the horseshoe had fallen down to hit the Huffen in the head

Item Company's Men Sweat Out Last 29 Hours Of War With Prayers On Lips, Shells Overhead

By JOHN RANDOLPH

CENTRAL FRONT, KOREA—I had promised Item Company I would bring them a bottle of whiskey the minute that agreement was reached on the armistice.

They didn't see me coming until the last 20 yards on the steep and muddy hill northeast of Kumhwa. Under my arm, like a football, I was carrying the fifth of 100-proof bond, wrapped safely in a dirty GI khaki towel.

Sergeant Ippolito spotted me floundering and gasping up the final slope. He looked a long moment—then he started to yell, his voice breaking with excitement.

"He's got it! He's got the bottle! It's an armistice, by God—they've got an armistice!"

Helmeted heads craned out of bunkers and foxholes and dirty bearded faces turned my way and Ippolito ran down the slopes to meet me.

A horrible suspicion of doubt crossed his face and he stopped short.

Sergeant Doubts Words
"You wouldn't kid us, would you? It's true, ain't it?"

"I wouldn't kid you," I said. "It's true. It's official. The UN Command this afternoon announced an armistice had been agreed upon. They sign it tomorrow at 10 a.m. The cease-fire is 12 hours later—10 p.m. Monday."

Another and deeper shadow crossed Ippolito's face.

"Tonight . . . You mean we gotta sweat out tonight . . . Jesus Christ. I hope we make it." Then he showed the awful fear out of his mind, brightened again and shouted:

"The lieutenant! Lieutenant! They got an armistice—he brought the bottle just like he said!"

Bottle Delivered
The others were crowding around now, maybe a dozen of them, and I was escorted to the muddy hole covered with logs that was the company command post.

Lt. Don C. Patton, the company executive, leaned out from under the sandbagged logs. Patton is a bronzed young man with a big brown moustache and a sweaty, mud-stained face.

We shake hands. Ippolito explains our bargain. I hand over the bottle.

"Whenever you think best," I tell him.

Patton considers.

Until Tomorrow Comes
It is 5 p.m. now, Sunday evening. For 29 hours still these men will be at war—while all the world relaxes and rejoices. Twenty-nine hours, 29 eternities, on a hill in North Korea, where death counts out the seconds, one by one.

"We'll drink it tomorrow night—at 10 o'clock," Patton decides, and he puts the bottle carefully in an old ammunition box underneath his field telephone and the mud-stained battle map.

"Thank you very much," he said. I am invited into the tiny bunker and the small group gathers around as the news is relayed to other company positions and outposts on the field telephone.

11 Ironie Casualties
I have come back to Item Company at a terrible moment. Only two hours before, in a tragedy almost beyond bearing in the last hours of the war, two rounds of American artillery have landed by accident in the middle of the company. In two seconds a sergeant was dead and 10 other men were wounded, some very seriously.

Just the night before, this company and King Company, its neighbor, fought back a savage Chinese attack that was launched with 5,000 rounds of Communist shellfire.

These men are bone weary . . . filthy . . . dirty . . . soaked to the skin by unending summer showers. They have been living in holes like rats since the U. S. Third Division was jerked from only three hours of reserve and flung into the Kumhwa front to plug the gap left by the collapse of the ROK Capital Division.

Cultivated Fatalism
Now these men are told that the war is over—except that they must go through one more night of fear and terror on this hill position, less than a mile from Chinese lines.

The "krump!" of a Chinese shell resounds from the hill where Love Company is waiting to cross the valley to our left.

These men, with their angers, their bitterness, their hope, their fears, their terrible physical exhaustion, are at a peak of emotional strain that is rare among the infantry, where fatalism is cultivated.

"An armistice—it makes a man think God," said Sgt. Sall Ippolito of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has served nine months in Korea.

"We'll stay in our holes tonight and pray to God we make it. It makes a man want to pray—make him want to cry and it was one of our own g—d—d—d rounds that got the guys today. We had to police up 11 men today—all at the last moment. I don't think it was the gunners' fault. Maybe it was just some bad ammunition."

The phrase "police up" is new Army slang the way Ippolito uses it. It always did mean "tidy up" but here it means gathering up the possessions of a dead or wounded comrade. A pile of those possessions is lying on the ammunition box beside the field telephone. There is a fountain pen, a New Testament, dog tag, a watch, and a few old letters from home.

Long Night Ahead
Cpl. Walter W. Turner, a negro squad leader from Baltimore, shook his head in deepest skepticism.

"We'll catch it tonight for sure. We can look for a lot of blank blank blank blanking held tonight. It's all in the trust of the Lord—it'll be a long night till daybreak comes."

Lieutenant Patton, who comes from Dallas, shook his head slowly.

"If I ever get back to Texas I'll never bitch again. All I ever want to do is to forget I was ever here. I keep thinking of the old sergeant who rotated home and said all he wanted was his dog tags for medals and his backside for a souvenir."

Sgt. Cobert Mitchell of New York City talked about the Chinese across the hill.

Wedding Anniversary
"You know, I don't think they want to fight any more than we do. I hope they stay in their holes tonight, just like we will. A lot of men here are going to be jumpy tonight."

On my way back I talked to Cpl. Manuel Ross of Bessemer City, N. C., the company's senior medical aid man who hands out pills and bandages cuts and carries the dead and the wounded in battle.

"It's really wonderful—if it's only true," he said.

"I feel better tonight than I have ever felt before. All I want to do now is to go home to my wife—yesterday was our fifth anniversary."

One last look back—at the red cocoa-colored mud, the primitive holes and bunkers on the reverse slope, the rocks, the torn scrub, the thin radio antennas trembling slightly on the skyline near the observation post, at a helmet here and there against the sky, and at the lush green hills beyond, rich and green in the rain season.

A man always feels cheap to walk away from an infantry company on the line. On the way down, I meet an outpost patrol coming up the hill. We are talking in a ravine when the old terrible whistle shrills. We fling ourselves to the ground and two Chinese shells crash a hundred yards beyond us. The war is not over here. It is deep dusk when I reach the jeep at the bottom of the hill. The warm summer rain begins to fall in torrents.

Rain Logs Infantrymen
I see men approaching—another outpost patrol from King Company. They are marching single file, each man 50 feet apart, hugging the sheltered side of the road in case of artillery fire. I pass them very slowly, for it is an unparadise crime to splash foot soldiers with mud. Then I stop and look back. The rain is driving, and already the night and the mist are closing in.

Already the head of the little column has disappeared in the gloom and the rest are hastening away into the darkness.

I think of the hour. It is 8:30 p.m. And I think of the crowds in the cities at home, hurrying along in the summer rain and the lamplight, and the noise of their feet on the pavement.

War's Last Patrol
And I watch these silent men disappear down the lone muddy road, tall helmeted figures, rifles slung, striding along to the last patrol of the war.

These are real men, but they look like ghosts as the mist wraps around them and swallows them one by one, until all are gone and the road is alone again.

And I think of all the men who have marched down all the sad, sad roads of Korea, and all their stories now forgotten, impossible to tell.

And I think of the words of Corporal Turner . . . "It'll be a long night till daybreak comes."

CARNIVAL

"I told you he'd find plenty wrong with you—he worked his way through medical school as a garage mechanic!"

Why FORD'S your best buy!

"WORTH MORE" IS THE ANSWER... IT COSTS SO LITTLE TO BUY... SO LITTLE TO RUN... AND HAS SUCH HIGH RESALE VALUE!

The best buy in an automobile usually means the amount of pleasure and satisfaction the owner gets from his original dollars-and-cents investment, plus low day-to-day running costs, plus the amount of value he recovers when he sells his car.

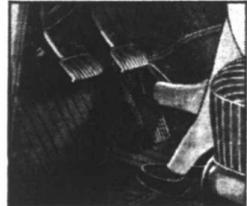

What is it that makes Ford your best buy? Is it the fine styling and craftsmanship of its Crestmark Body . . . or its new "ride" with curve-hugging and bump-leveling qualities never before known in low-priced cars? Or is it Ford's famous V-8 or Mileage Maker Six? Maybe it's the easy way the car handles with Fordomatic Drive that does your shifting for you, and Ford's Master-Guide power steering that applies hydraulic "muscles" automatically! Perhaps it's Ford's suspended pedals, or Center-Fill Fueling or Full-Circle Visibility!

Actually, it's not just any one or two of these fine things that make Ford your best buy. It's all of Ford's "Worth More" features combined . . . features which today's car buyers know make Ford worth more when you buy it . . . and worth more when you sell it!

"Best buy" where you ride! Ford's foam-rubber cushioned seats, front and rear, are sofa-wide and sofa-soft. Interior fabrics, color-keyed to Ford's smart outside colors, would be a credit to any car at any price.

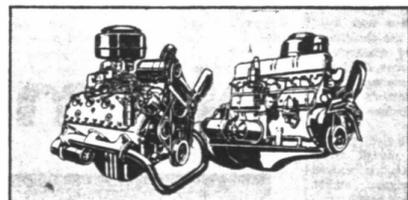

"Best buy" where you drive! Ford's suspended pedals operate more easily . . . eliminate dusty, drafty floor holes. And Ford drivers have a choice of Fordomatic Drive, Overdrive or Conventional transmission.

"Best buy" at the gas pump! When you need to "fill 'er up", you do it the modern Ford way with Center-Fill Fueling. And Ford's Automatic Power Pilot gives you power to spare on a lean diet of regular gas.

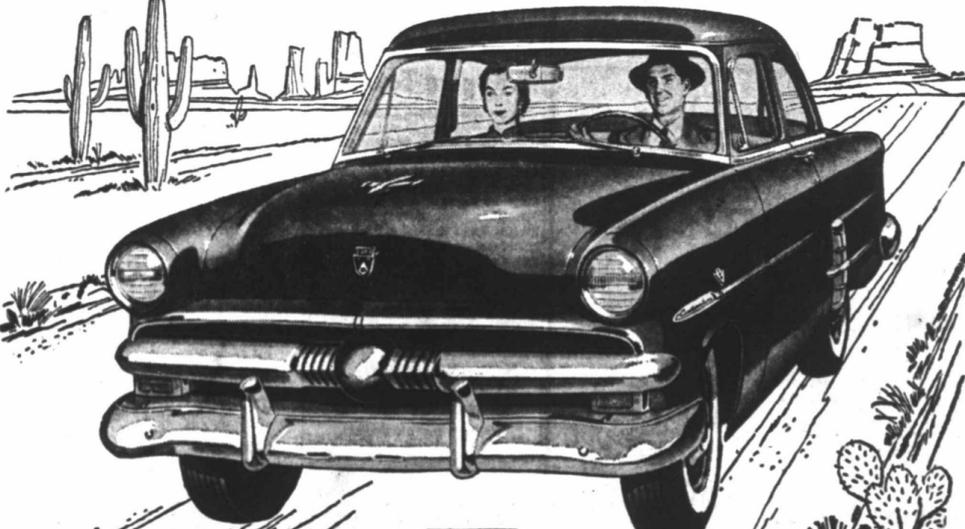

"Best buy" on the road! The rougher the road the better your Ford likes it because Ford's new "ride" cuts front end road shock alone up to 80% . . . babies you over the bumps . . . and cuts sideways on turns.

"Best buy" in engine power! Only Ford in its field offers you a choice of V-8 or Six. Ford has built more V-8's—over 13,000,000—than all other makers combined. And Ford's Six—the most modern in the industry—with Overdrive, won the Mobilgas Economy Run Grand Sweepstakes!

"Best buy" in power steering! Ford's Master-Guide (available on all V-8 models) supplies hydraulic "muscles"—automatically whenever you need them—to do the work of steering for you. All you do is guide the car. Makes all driving easier, safer. Parking's easy—requires only one-fourth of normal effort.

WORTH MORE WHEN YOU BUY IT... WORTH MORE WHEN YOU SELL IT

Ashers Rout Indians, 9 To 1

CARLSBAD, N. M.—(AP)—Proving once again that they can't go when the chips are down, the Midland Indians returned home Monday licking their wounds from a 9-1 pasting by the Carlsbad Potashers. After winning the series opener here, the Indians fell victim to the Potashers twice to lose an opportunity to climb out of fourth position in the Longhorn League—a spot they have occupied all season.

As in Saturday's battle when Marshall Epperson spoiled the Tribe's record of not having been shut out all season, pitching was the main factor in Sunday's victory by Carlsbad.

Audie Malone set the Indians down on seven hits and one run while the Potashers attacked Max Newcom with a vengeance in the sixth and continued their barrage on Jack Schaening and George Cockrell, scoring six runs to wrap up the victory.

The game was enlivened by a spitting exhibition by Midland Manager Jay Haney. He protested a call by Plate Umpire Sykes and let fly with part of his quid. He was chased and so was Catcher Art Bowland in the sixth.

The Potashers sent 12 men to the plate in the sixth, getting three hits and taking advantage of errors and walks to count six times. Bob Hobbs' three-run homer was the big blow.

Catcher Ike Jackson smashed a solo home run in the seventh for the winners.

Midland entertains the third-place Artesia Drillers Monday at Indian Park in Midland with Haney expected to call upon Ralph Blair or Fred Rodriguez, both of whom performed well in the series here.

Rose Captures Tennis Crown, Seeks Another

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Hardly 24 hours after winning one tennis title, Mervyn Rose of Australia starts in quest of another Monday in the opening round of the Middle Atlantic Grass Courts Championships. His victory over fellow-countryman Rex Hartwig in the Canadian Championships Sunday at Toronto was easy.

Rose, sixth ranking player of the world and seeded No. 1 in the foreign contingent here, meets unseeded Robert Bortner of Virginia, in a first-round match today.

Bernard Bartz of San Angelo, Texas, No. 6 in the seedings, meets William Harris of Texas.

Drillers Slug Odessa, 11-3; Oilers Protest

ARTESIA—(AP)—Artesia's Drillers slammed in five runs before a man was out in the seventh inning here Sunday night to put the game safely out of danger as they slugged Odessa, 11-3, in a game that was played under protest from the seventh on.

Oiler Manager Bob (Pepper) Martin officially protested the game, alleging that Artesia was "carrying enough rookies."

Joe Bauman's solo homer in the first got the Drillers started and they went out in front to stay with three in the second on singles by Bill Haley, Joe Calderon and Len Ruyle, a pair of walks and an outfield fly.

Singles by Vince DiGiantomasso and Bauman and Les Mulchay's fly got another in the fourth, and Bauman doubled in still another in the sixth.

Then they rapped it up with the five run outburst in the seventh that sent starter and loser Manny Rodriguez to the showers.

Included in the big inning were singles by Haley, Sanchez, Calderon, Ruyle and DiGiantomasso, a base on balls and Joe Fortin's double. All this happened before a man was out.

Roberto Fabian moved in the second for Odessa, singled up a notch when Felix Castro walked and scored on "Ridriguez" single. When Fortin let the ball get through him in right, Castro also came home. Their only other run came in the ninth on singles by Castro and Raul Dieppa and Leo Eastham's double.

Joe Conrad Upset In Kilgore Tourney

KILGORE—(AP)—Leroy Roquemore of Palestine Sunday defeated Joe Conrad of San Antonio, winner of this year's Southern Amateur and Trans-Miss toursneys, in the finals of the Meadowbrook Country Club invitational golf tournament.

Roquemore came from behind and birdied six of the last eight holes in the 18-hole match. He defeated Conrad, 4 and 2.

BEN HOGAN DAY—Home Town Opens Heart To Golfer

FORT WORTH—(AP)—Ben Hogan, golf champion of all he surveys, received the biggest tribute from his home town Monday.

The great linkster, winner of the triple crown of golf—the Masters, U. S. Open and British Open—in a period of three months, was honored in a jammed banquet room.

His home folks showed how much they appreciate him with a "testimonial luncheon."

The Rev. Granville Walker, pastor of the University Christian Church, where Ben and his wife, Valerie, are members, spoke of "Hogan as a Man." Lacy Boggs of Colonial Country Club, where Hogan is a member, talked on "Hogan as a Sportsman and Golfer."

Before the luncheon, Ben and Valerie went to the city hall where Mayor Edgar Deen, Mayor pro tem M. M. McKnight and members of the Fort Worth city council paid tribute. McKnight presented them with a framed proclamation making it "Ben Hogan Day" in Fort Worth.

The Carwell Air Force Base band, which greeted the Hogans Friday when they came home and walked a red carpet, also played for this occasion.

From city hall there was a parade through downtown streets to the hotel for the luncheon.

Hogan leaves August 7 for exhibitions in Washington, D. C., New Jersey and Joplin, Mo. Then he'll go fishing in Canada.

Colts Tip Rockets In 10 Innings, 6-3

ROSSELL—(AP)—For the second consecutive night the League-leading San Angelo Colts were forced to go into extra innings in topping the Roswell Rockets. They did it with a 6-3 10-inning victory Sunday night after a 15-inning victory the night before.

After the first two men went down in the tenth, Rudy Briner and John Margalini drew two straight bases on balls off a tiring Oliverio Ortiz, making his first start for the Rockets.

John Jeandron then loaded the bases with an infield hit and Dick Stone slapped a ground single into left for two runs. Bobby Gregg followed with another infield bingle, this one plating Jeandron with the final run of the night.

Gregg went the distance for the win, scattering nine hits very effectively. Only in the ninth inning did the Rockets fail to put a man on base off the slim left hander, but only in two innings did they present much of a threat. Gregg fanned seven and walked three.

Roswell opened the scoring in the first frame when Ricky Gonzalez drew a leadoff walk and scored on Osele Alvarez' two-out, line triple to left center.

The Colts rallied for a pair in the fourth when Burns led off with a double and Briner walked. Margalini forced Briner at second, but Jeandron followed with a single, driving in Burns.

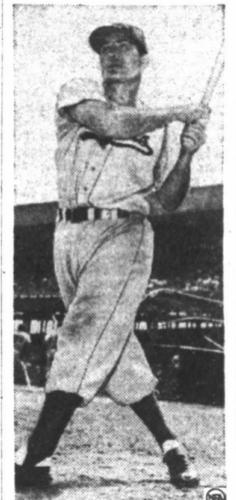

Stone scratched a one-baser to the infield to load the bases and Gregg popped out. Charles Galina then lined a single to left, scoring Margalini, but Wayne Crawford's throw nipped Jeandron at the plate.

Roswell again forged ahead in the seventh when Al Valdes gained life on first on a Colt error. Ortiz singled him to second and Bill Wollett's line bingle to center drove him in Alvarez' single plated Ortiz.

San Angelo, however, rallied in the next inning to tie it up at 3-3 and force the game into extra innings for the second straight night. Burns' single and a double by Briner did the trick.

BRILLIANT CAREER ENDS—Pitcher Hal Newhouser, released by the Detroit Tigers is shown with his family after receiving the news. Twice voted most valuable player of the American League, Newhouser said he hopes to stay in baseball.

YANKEE KILLER—

Is Hoelt Another Hal Newhouser?

DETROIT—Is Yankee killer Billy Hoelt going to be another Hal Newhouser?

The Yankees hope not. They had enough trouble with Prince Hal, whose sparkling career came to an end last week.

But Hoelt, a 21-year-old pitching jewel for the Detroit Tigers, may give the world champions even more trouble than Newhouser.

Newhouser concluded his 15-year career with a 31-31 lifetime mark against the Yanks. Anybody who breaks even against the New Yorkers is considered doing good.

Hoelt, pitching in the majors only a year and a half, has brought down the Bombers four times.

Billy has been beaten five times by the Yankees but the fact he has won or lost nine against them in such a short time indicates the Tigers think highly of him. So do the Yankees.

"He could be as good as Newhouser someday," said Casey Stengel, Yankee Skipper. "The big point about the kid is that he gets the ball over the plate."

Tiger Manager Fred Hutchinson said: "The boy is a helluva pitcher. And he's only 21. Sometimes I get irritated when he makes a mistake out there, but then I remind myself of his age."

Hoelt whipped the Yankees, 5-1, Friday night in what he termed "my best game in the big leagues. He gave up only three hits and fanned eight in evening his season's record at 7-7.

He relieved against the Yanks in the first game of Sunday's doubleheader and stopped them cold. He replaced Rookie Bob Miller, 18-year-old bonus baby, in the eighth inning. The bases were filled, there was one out and 47,717 fans were screaming for Billy the Killer to put out the fire.

That he did—and looked like a pro doing it. He fanned pinchhitter Andy Carey and Gil McDougald to protect Miller's first big-league win, 5-3.

"I don't feel any different against the Yankees," Hoelt said. "I do pretty well against their lefties—Mize, Berra and Mantle. But I have no secret formula for them. I just want to beat everybody."

Despite Slow Down, Chisox Still Yankees' Chief Threat

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago's slowed-up White Sox, despite a disappointing home stand, represented the chief threat to the New York Yankees' bid for a fifth straight pennant Monday. And they owe it to one man—pitcher Virgil Trucks.

Thanks to Trucks' four-hit 4-0 shutout over Philadelphia after the Athletics had taken a 4-3 opener, the White Sox were able to keep five and a half games behind the Yankees, who split a pair with Detroit.

Just two weeks ago the White Sox began a 12-game home stand confident they could whittle off part of the slump-ridden Yankees' five-game margin. The Yanks won only seven out of 13 games, but Chicago fared even worse, taking only six of 12. Trucks won half of those games by scores of 4-1, 1-0 and 4-0. The 34-year-old right-hander has won eight games without a defeat since joining the White Sox from St. Louis.

While all American League clubs were dividing double-headers, the Brooklyn Dodgers opened up a huge seven and a half game lead in the National, thrashing the Milwaukee Braves twice, 3-2 and 2-1, before 33,421 cheering fans—the largest Ebbets Field gathering in almost two years.

The bewildered Braves retained second place only because St. Louis' Cardinals whipped Philadelphia's third-place Phillies, 8-8, to leave the Phils eight games off the pace. New York's fourth-place Giants remained nine and a half games behind despite their sweep of a doubleheader from Cincinnati, 10-6, and 8-1. The Cards are in fifth place, 11 games from the top.

The Boston Red Sox missed an opportunity to close in on the Yankees, losing the second game to St. Louis, 8-5. They remained in third place, seven and a half behind New York and a half game in front of Cleveland, which came from behind to nip Washington, 7-6, after the Senators had won the opener, 4-3.

The double-header between Chicago and Pittsburgh also ended in a split with the Cubs winning the second game, 7-3, after the Pirates had eked out a 3-2 triumph.

Gus Zernial's bases-loaded single with two out in the eighth broke a 2-2 tie and gave the Athletics their first game 4-3 victory over Chicago.

Washington scored twice in the ninth to come from behind and defeat the Indians in the opener. Singles by Gil Coan and Mickey Vernon, an error by Catcher Joe Ginsberg and two long flies gave Bob Porterfield the victory over relief pitcher Art Houtteman. Homers by Wally Westlake and Bobby Avila gave the Indians the second-game victory after Washington had taken a 6-0 lead over Mike Garcia.

Jim Dyck's third home run of the day scored three runs for the Browns in the seventh and broke a 5-5 second-game tie. The Red Sox took advantage of four Browns errors and made their seven hits count in their first-game victory to overshadow Dyck's two home runs.

The Yankees exploded seven doubles and four home runs to crush the Tigers in the second game before 49,717 fans at Briggs Stadium, 14-4. Detroit won the opener, 5-3, behind the sparkling relief pitching of rookie Bob Miller and Billy Hoelt. The latter fanned Andy Carey and Gil McDougald with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to clinch the 18-year-old Miller's first major league triumph.

A three-run, eighth-inning rally against Johnny Antonelli in the first game and Carl Erskine's five-hit pitching in the second gave Brooklyn a sweep of a twin bill with Milwaukee. Erskine fanned 10 for the second straight time in registering his tenth victory.

Lew Burdette, winner of seven straight without a defeat in relief, made his first start for Milwaukee and was beaten by an unearned run. Billy Cox singled in the second and raced to third when Catcher Walker Cooper threw Erskine's bunt wildly to first. Cox scored the winning run when Junior Gilliam forced Erskine. Held to four hits and no runs by Antonelli through seven innings of the opener, the Dodgers routed the young southpaw in the eighth on hits by Gilliam, Reese, Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo.

Larry Jansen pitched a six-hitter for the Giants after Rookie Darryl Spencer had driven in five runs in the opener with a pair of homers, the second coming with the bases loaded in the seventh inning to snap a 5-5 tie.

Stan Musial's three-run homer in the sixth offset two home runs by Philadelphia's Del Ennis and enabled the Cardinals to salvage the finale of their three-game series with the Phillies. Curt Simmons lost his fourth game in five decisions since his return following recovery from a foot injury.

A four-run fifth gave the Cubs a split after Pittsburgh had tallied twice in the ninth to win the opener. Shortstop Roy Smalley's bobble of Eddie O'Brien's slow roller presented the Braves with the winning run.

Hall Of Fame Opens Gates To Dizzy Dean, Al Simmons

By JACK HAND
COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. — (AP) — Baseball's Hall of Fame opens its gates to Dizzy Dean and Al Simmons Monday as the new members' plaques are dedicated.

George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, is the principal speaker at the ceremonies, held in the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum.

After the dedication, the notables were scheduled to attend the annual major league exhibition game down the street at Doubleday Field. This year's game sends the Chicago White Sox against the Cincinnati Reds.

Cooperstown, a friendly village on Otsego Lake, was proclaimed the birthplace of baseball by a commission appointed in 1905. Abner Doubleday was supposed to have invented and named the game in the town in 1839.

In addition to Dean and Simmons other members of the Hall of Fame due to make an appearance were Connie Mack, Ty Cobb, Ed Walsh, Cy Young and, of course, Rogers Hornsby, manager of Cincinnati.

Dean and Simmons were elected to the Hall of Fame in January by the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. They were the sixty-third and sixty-fourth players so honored.

Although Dean's career was shortened by arm trouble, he was a real flash when he had it. From 1922 to 1944 the colorful right-hander won 150 and lost 83 games. He hit his peak with the St. Louis Cards' "Gas House Gang" in 1934 when he compiled a 30-7 record. No pitcher has won 30 since, although the Phils' Robin Roberts threatens to make it this year. Dean, only 42, now is a radio and TV announcer.

Simmons, one of the great stars of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics from 1924 to 1933, finished his career with a lifetime .334 batting average. He won the American League batting championship in 1930 and 1931. The slugger with the unorthodox "foot in the bucket" stance, played with several clubs in the league, strayed to the National with Cincinnati and wound up back with the A's in 1944. He has been out of baseball since he resigned as Cleveland coach in 1961.

Dean and Simmons were elected to the Hall of Fame in January by the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. They were the sixty-third and sixty-fourth players so honored.

Although Dean's career was shortened by arm trouble, he was a real flash when he had it. From 1922 to 1944 the colorful right-hander won 150 and lost 83 games. He hit his peak with the St. Louis Cards' "Gas House Gang" in 1934 when he compiled a 30-7 record. No pitcher has won 30 since, although the Phils' Robin Roberts threatens to make it this year. Dean, only 42, now is a radio and TV announcer.

Simmons, one of the great stars of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics from 1924 to 1933, finished his career with a lifetime .334 batting average. He won the American League batting championship in 1930 and 1931. The slugger with the unorthodox "foot in the bucket" stance, played with several clubs in the league, strayed to the National with Cincinnati and wound up back with the A's in 1944. He has been out of baseball since he resigned as Cleveland coach in 1961.

Cooperstown, a friendly village on Otsego Lake, was proclaimed the birthplace of baseball by a commission appointed in 1905. Abner Doubleday was supposed to have invented and named the game in the town in 1839.

In addition to Dean and Simmons other members of the Hall of Fame due to make an appearance were Connie Mack, Ty Cobb, Ed Walsh, Cy Young and, of course, Rogers Hornsby, manager of Cincinnati.

Harrison used the same pen to sign all 18 copies. It was his own pen—one he had carried 10 years.

Television and newsreel cameras hummed constantly through the signing.

Harrison's three fellow American delegates occupied three chairs at the end of the Allied table to Harrison's right.

The other American delegates were: Rear Adm. John Danel, who negotiated the exchange of sick and wounded prisoners last April with the Communists; Maj. Gen. George Finch, and Brig. Gen. Ralph Osborne.

Harrison declined to make any statement to newsmen. Persons close to the general, a lay Baptist preacher who on occasion has conducted church services for his men, described him as having misgivings.

Patriarchs Of Polygamous Cult Pack Jail Awaiting Trial In Arizona Court

By JAMES CARY
SHORT CREEK, ARIZ. — (P)—The multiple families of polygamous Short Creek were split asunder Monday by the wrath of Arizona.

The state hurled a united task force of 102 officers at the little settlement before dawn Sunday and took into custody 33 men, 50 women and 263 children.

It thus launched a supreme effort to wipe out forever a deep-rooted colony of polygamists that has operated near the Utah border for 20 years.

Gov. Howard Pyle called the cult "the foulest conspiracy you could possibly imagine." He said girls under 15 years of age were forced into marriages with men of all ages.

Half a dozen of these pigtailed brides were arrested along with the older mates of the Short Creek patriarchs.

Two men, 12 wives
The adults were charged with almost a dozen different offenses, including statutory rape, bigamy, open and notorious cohabitation, contributing to the delinquency of minors, and marrying the spouse of another.

Two men were accused of having six wives, two of having five, one of having four, and numerous others with having two or three.

Four of the wives reportedly were only 13 years old, two were 14 and two 15.

The raid—largest police action in the state's history—was launched at 4:02 a.m. as the moon hid itself in an eclipse.

Signals In Night
As police cars moved in with sirens screaming, a signal light flashed from a hillside. Three explosions—likewise warning signals—ripped through the darkness.

Despite all of the secrecy of the 26-month investigation, the colonists had learned the raid was coming.

Officers, knocking on doors, found only women and children in the houses. In the grey light of the dawn, they spotted a large congregation of men and some women standing near the village school.

The American flag had been hoisted overhead.

'No Marriages Forced'
Suddenly the people burst into song. It was "America." Then they sang hymns.

Leroy Johnson, 65, a purported leader of the cult, spoke for the colony.

"We have done no wrong," he asserted. "We just practice our religion according to our beliefs. We believe in the original tenets of the Mormon Church."

"The women don't have to marry if they don't want to. I defy anyone to prove that any girl was ever forced into a marriage."

Teenager Accused Cult
But a sobbing 17-year-old girl told officers:

"I was told I had to marry a 70-year-old man. I told them they could kill me first. They finally gave me a second choice of marrying a 45-year-old man. It was so hopeless, I gave up. I was his fourth wife."

Governor Pyle, in a radio address reporting on the raid, charged that the community was dedicated to the production of "white slaves who are without hope of escaping degrading slavery from the moment of their birth."

'Guilty Excommunicated'
In Salt Lake City, Utah, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Mormon code that "all infractions of the moral code by individuals which have been brought to our attention have been promptly dealt with by our ecclesiastical tribunals, and that upon proof of guilt those who have been found guilty have been excommunicated."

... We regard the reported proceedings as "being entirely within the proving of the civil authorities."

The arrested men were hustled off to jail at the County seat, Kingman, 400 miles distant. Some of the women were to be jailed too. Other mothers and their children were permitted to remain in their homes, their needs provided by the state.

Churchill, Eden Talk Future British Plans

LONDON —(P)—Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Monday began mapping the future leadership of the British government.

Britain's big two met for the first time since illness separated them eight weeks ago. They lunched together in seclusion at Chequers, the Prime Minister's official residence near London.

Wallace's selection was announced in a letter from J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, to City Manager W. H. Oswalt.

The fifty-second session of the academy will begin August 31 and the class will include carefully-selected peace officers from throughout the United States. The session lasts three months.

Oswalt said the invitation will be presented to the City Council Tuesday night for formal action.

Wallace joined the Midland police force in May, 1951, as a patrolman and became chief in April, 1952.

Rules On Drafting Fathers Explained

AUSTIN —(P)—Regulations under which local boards will draft fathers on August 25 and thereafter were received by State Selective Service headquarters Monday.

After August 25, a man with a wife and child is eligible for the draft, unless the child was conceived prior to August 25 and that fact reported to the draft board.

Selective Service headquarters said a man who has a wife and child now, must report that fact to his local board before August 25 to be eligible for exemption.

But fatherhood begun after August 25 no longer will entitle a registrant to deferment.

Brig. Gen. Paul Wakefield, state Selective Service director, said the new order would cut down on the number of men under 20 being inducted.

Farm Agent Tells Kiwanians Of Drouth Damage On Ranges

The sad story of Midland's drouth-stricken farm and grazing lands was told again Monday for the benefit of members of the Kiwanis Club.

The situation was reviewed by County Agent Charles Green who appeared as the club's principal speaker at the weekly luncheon-meeting in the Hotel Scharbauer.

"Unless we have rainfall before frost," said the county agent, "we'll face an increased danger from wind erosion this winter."

He explained an educational program is now being conducted to encourage farmers to plant some type of cover crop to forestall wind erosion damage.

Green said it is hoped to get seed for such planting in the drouth relief program. By this method, the seed would be made available at reduced prices, similar to government feed now being distributed throughout the drouth-stricken area.

Green was introduced by program chairman Alton Robert. F. S. Swenson presided.

'Outpost Texas' Stands As Grim Symbol Of State's 1,155 Killed In Korean War

By The Associated Press
The guns are quiet on "Outpost Texas" and it stands as a bloody symbol of this state's personal stake in the Korean war.

For centuries it was just another crag jutting from the rocky Korean peninsula. Then war came. Men killed each other on its dusty slopes. And the hill gained a name: "Outpost Texas."

The truce means a lot to Texans. That hill in Korea is a reminder of what Texas lost in a battle against Communist aggression.

Picture 1,155 dead men.
At least that many Texans died in Korea before the shooting stopped Monday morning after Sunday night's armistice.

At least 4,946 Texans were wounded. Scores are still "missing in action." More scores are in Communist prisoner-of-war camps.

William C. Barnard, Associated Press war correspondent from Corpus Christi, saw first-hand his state's stake in the Korean war. So he named one of those bloody hills "Outpost Texas."

One of those whose lives ended suddenly in far-off Korea was Walton Walker of Belton, commanding general of the Eighth Army when the war started. Walker saw lots of green men get their baptism of fire. Then he was killed in a jeep accident.

The Communist shelling stopped —at about the same moment the Allied barrage lifted.

If the Reds had not insisted on shooting it out, there would have been little or no firing on the closing day.

The 8th Army had warned division commanders only to fire defensively. The order was meant to save lives.

One of the missing is Maj. George A. Davis, Jr., of Lubbock, the state's leading jet ace when he was shot down. His score: 11 Red MIG jet planes and three light bombers. Five Texas Aces.

At least five Texas flyers downed five or more enemy planes, joining America's air aces. Besides Davis, they were Capt. Robert H. Moore of Houston; Capt. Robert T. Latshaw, Jr., Amarillo; First Lt. Cecil G. Foster, San Antonio, and Col. Royal N. Baker of McKinney.

Baker surpassed Davis' score of Red planes and for a time was the world's leading jet ace.

More than twice as many Texans died in Korea than in the state's revolution against Mexico.

"I doubt that anything is settled," said Mrs. J. A. Teasley of El Paso. "We should have gone on and won that war," said R. H. Johnson, Jr., of Dallas, a Marine reservist who was recalled.

But in any event, the dominant hope by Texans is that the guns will remain silent on "Outpost Texas" and other Korean hills.

Mrs. A. D. Sulak of Dallas, mother of Pfc. John Lee Sulak, 23, killed in action July 7, told a reporter: "I hope all the other boys not so unfortunate as John can come home and be with their families. And I pray none of them will ever have to go through such a thing again."

Shooting Stops—

led artillery opened simultaneously. Flames gushed from the muzzles as battery after battery fired in salvo.

The valleys roared and shook as the shells burst deep behind the Red lines.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1-39881 University of Texas, Northwest Hudspeth County wildcat 45 miles north of Finlay and 600 feet from north and west lines of section 19, block C, University Lands, took a drillem test in the Ellenburger at 5,140-64 feet.

The tool was open one hour. Recovery was 1,400 feet of drilling mud cut with fresh water. There were no shows of oil or gas.

The prospector is drilling ahead below 5,220 feet in line. No Ellenburger top has been reported. This wildcat has not found any shows of possible production in any zone it has drilled through above the Ellenburger.

The new well pumped 24-hours on the potential test and made 176 barrels of oil. No water was reported in the completion gauge.

The project has 7-inch casing cemented at 2,414 feet. Total is 2,500 feet in the Permian lime.

The open hole at 2,414-2,500 feet had been treated with 5,000 gallons of acid.

The new oil well is 1,230 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 9, block 3 1 2, CORDA-RONG survey. It is seven miles north of the town of McCamey.

Thomas D. Humphrey and sons of Dallas reported potential test on a small flowing discovery from the upper Gardner in Central Rannels County, four and one-half miles northeast of the town of Ballinger.

It is No. 1 Thomas C. Hall, completed for a daily flow of 80.50 barrels of 38.8-gravity oil through an 18/64-inch choke and perforations at 3,843-45 feet in five and one-half-inch casing.

Gas-oil ratio was 11,667-1 and tubing pressure was 900 pounds. Pay was fractured with 1,000 gallons.

Location is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 153, ETRR survey.

Oil, Gas & Water Shows Developed In Andrews Explorer

The Wilshire Oil Company of Texas was drilling below 7,192 feet in the Fullerton at No. 33-16 Cox, wildcat in Central-North Andrews County, after shows of oil, gas and water developed on a two-hour drillem test from 7,144 to 7,192 feet.

Recovery was 1,200 feet of gas in drillem, 70 feet of highly gassy mud and 90 feet of slightly oil and mud-cut sulphur water.

Flowing pressure was from 60 to 115 pounds and 15-minute shutin pressure was 405 pounds.

The Fullerton was topped at 6,680 feet, minus datum of 3,384 feet on that marker.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 16, block A-33, plat survey and 13 miles northwest of the town of Andrews.

REAL ESTATE BULLETIN BOARD

REPORTING THE TOP NEWS IN REAL ESTATE

"PARADISIACAL," SAID THE POET. "Nay," said the Man from Killarney, "it's like a bit of old Ireland." I wonder what you'll say when you see the magnificent grounds and miniature fruit grove of this home on the corner of Michigan and West Broadway. 3 large bedrooms, tile bath, wood-burning fireplace in the living room, full dining room, and 2-car attached garage. Constructed of beige brick, this home is only 4 years old. Grafaland at its very best behavior. $24,750.

UNBEATABLE FOR THE COUPLE who want to walk to work or downtown. Located on Illinois (near the high school), this cozy home has 2 nice bedrooms, comfortable living room and separate dining room. Relaxful rear yard with BBQ pit, fenced, ideal as revenue/home, office, or for future development as it is "D" zoned. Sensationally priced at ONLY $8,750.

A HUGE REAR PORCH is a mark of distinction! It eloquently expresses your ability to relax after office hours. And this brick home does just that! But it's got 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, wood-burning fireplace, and wonderful neighbors. Attractive landscaping, tile floor. Located on exclusive BEDFORD. Owner will consider a trade of reasonably valued smaller home or oil royalty.

REMOVED TO THE QUIET HUSH of suburban living—where comfort and gracious existence is paramount. Five miles NW of town, this masonry home has 3 lovely bedrooms, 2 baths, wood-burning fireplace in the living room, full dining room, 2-car attached garage. Central heating and air conditioning, fully carpeted, Vent-A-Hood, dishwasher, and pantry. Tile fence surrounding the magnificent grounds, patio, 2 seager water wells, and all located on 2 acres of land. No city taxes! Reduced to $21,500.

PLANNED WITH CHILDREN in mind so that Mother could take it just a little easier. Near Sam Houston, this brick home has the perfect floor plan, 3 bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, huge living room, ideally arranged kitchen, and utility room. Central air-conditioning, water softener, and some carpeting and draperies. Tile fence, attractive lawns, and covered patio for the kiddie play-time (which is infinitely interchangeable). In excellent condition. $18,500.

PROFESSIONAL MEN WHO NEED a clinic, office, revenue property, and a home! Owner must settle estate by selling newly redecorated 3-bedroom brick home on WEST WALL STREET. Large living room, dining room, front porch, 2 apartments in rear. Sprinkler system installed. SENSATIONALLY PRICED for immediate sale. $14,950.

READ THIS SLOWLY... on West Indiana. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, spacious living room, and attached garage. Excellent condition. Carpeted. Fenced yard. Owners leaving Midland immediately. $12,950.

THE SHOULDERS OF THIS HOME brush Grafaland. Located on Tennessee, it has 2 nice bedrooms, carpeting in the living room, dining area, ceramic tile bath, and attached garage. Distributed heating and air conditioning unit. You'll like the location. $11,500.

READ LAST SUNDAY'S ads for other terrific buys. Especially the 3-bedroom, 2-bath, living and dining room, huge porch, home which is priced at a THAT'S-THE-ONE-FOR-ME price of ONLY $10,900!

WE ARE NOT LION-TAMERS, but we surely put your inflated American dollar thru its paces. If you can gather together 1,656 of 'em, we'll let you move into a home which is worth 13,000 of 'em, even tho' the price is ONLY $10,750. Brand new, it has 3 wonderful bedrooms, lots of closets, living room with dining area, large kitchen, utility room, and carpet. Tile bath, ceramic fixtures in kitchen (with pantry and double sink), central heating, insulation, and on a paved street near school. Imagine, almost 1,100 sq. ft. for ONLY $10,750! See what I mean?

OUR MANY AND WIDELY DISTRIBUTED "SOLD" signs attest to the numerous sales that we have recently made—and no wonder! The smart seller lists his property with us—and the wise purchaser knows that his BEST BUY IS ALWAYS THRU' R. C. MAXSON, Real Estate.

West Texas Income Hiked $11,500,000 Monthly By Crude

ABILENE — Recent increases in the price of crude oil, averaging 25 cents per barrel, will add approximately $11,500,000 per month to income of West Texas producers and royalty owners according to estimates prepared by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The estimate was based on production reported to the Texas Railroad Commission in March, the last month for which the commission's detailed statement of crude oil allowable, production and removal from leases has been distributed.

March production in the West Texas districts of the commission's Oil and Gas Division totaled 46,061,406 barrels. This would have added $11,515,352 to the market value at an average hike of 25 cents as follows: No. 7-B, $878,734; No. 7-C, $1,342,097; No. 8, $7,266,860; No. 9, $1,435,259; No. 10, $592,402.

Burglar Declares He Has Knowledge Of Brinks Robbery

LUFKIN — A publicity-happy burglar who leaves typewritten notes calling himself "The King of the Safecrackers" says he knows something about the unsolved million-dollar Brinks robbery in Boston.

The burglar visited here again Saturday night and left his usual calling card—a four-page letter to the Angeline County sheriff. That is, he left it after taking between $250 and $400 from two safes broken open in a wholesale grocery.

Officers found a similar note following the burglary of another business firm June 9.

In his note Saturday "The King" detailed 53 safecracking jobs he said were his handiwork this year. A preliminary check indicated some of the jobs still were unsolved.

The pen-wielding thug added: "If you can bring me in I'll tell you some things about the Brinks job." He said he even knew how the door to the offices of the armored car services was opened—"a pick and squeeze was used."

Teacher-Education Work, Enrollment Related At Tech

LUBBOCK — A direct relationship between Texas Tech's teacher-education program and its regular undergraduate enrollment has been noted by Assistant Registrar Evelyn Clewell.

Miss Clewell reported 584 teachers, superintendents, principals, coaches, supervisors, and counselors were enrolled in Tech's education department during the first Summer term. The teachers represented 131 public school systems, five states, and one foreign country.

"It was noted that 67 per cent of Tech's full-time resident students come from towns which have people here in the Summer term," she said.

Only 13 schools, which have teachers on the campus, do not have students, Miss Clewell added.

Man Disappears On Stone Mountain

ATLANTA — A man trapped on the steep side of Stone Mountain disappeared in the darkness Sunday night a few minutes after crying, "I can't hold on much longer," police reported.

A rescue party was organized and searched for the man but found no trace of him.

Stone Mountain police said the man, waving a white shirt and calling for help, first was seen about 8 p.m., halfway up the almost sheer wall of the 1,100-foot mountain of granite.

More Heads Tumble As East German Red Purge Spreads

BERLIN — East Germany's Communist bosses Monday unveiled their first big purge of the party high command since the June 17 workers' revolt.

They plucked and deposed Police Chief Wilhelm Zaleser with further disgrace, throwing him off the party Central Committee and Politburo.

They also kicked Rudolf Herrnstadt, editor of the official newspaper Neues Deutschland, off the committee and dropped three officials, from both the Politburo and the list of "candidates" for committee membership.

The latter three were Acting Foreign Minister Anton Ackerman; his former wife, Elli Schmidt, President of the Women's League, and Hans Jendretsky, union chairman in East Berlin.

The decisions were reached Sunday at the windup of a two-day secret meeting of the committee in East Berlin. They were announced in a communique issued in the names of Premier Otto Grotewohl and Walter Ulbricht, party secretary general and deputy premier.

Ulbricht, often rumored as a likely purge target since the workers' outbreak, was unanimous re-election as secretary general, the post of real power in Red politics. He had to share the principal speeches and announcements with Grotewohl, however, which seemed to discount recent reports that these two top cogs in the East German setup were locked in a showdown battle.

The committee also deprived former Minister of Justice Max Fechner of his party membership and classed him an "enemy of the party" and of the state. The Russians used the same language in lambasting their deposed police chief, ex-Dep. Premier Lavrenty P. Berta.

Fechner lost his Cabinet post to "Red Hilde" Benjamin, notorious Supreme Court judge, on July 15, when he was jailed.

Aged Greek Strong Man, Four Times Premier, Dies

ATHENS, GREECE — Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, 69, veteran soldier and revolutionist who often headed Greece's government, died here Sunday. He had been stricken by a heart ailment a week ago.

The tall, white-haired leader—often considered leftist and anti-royalist—served his last term as premier from Oct. 27, 1951, to Oct. 7, 1952. At that time his coalition

Shah's Twin Sister Ordered From Iran

TEHRAN, IRAN — The Shah's court has ordered the monarch's twin sister, a foe of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, to leave the country following her unexpected return here from Europe.

The sister, Princess Ashraf, left the country in August, 1952, under conditions of virtual exile after Mossadegh accused her of scheming against him. She returned to Tehran Saturday night.

The newspaper Keyhan reported the princess said she came home to sell property. She was quoted as saying she needed $20,000 to pay for treatments in the United States for her child, who she said is suffering from tuberculosis of the bone.

Second Youth Dies In Effort To Climb New England Cliff

HAMDEN, CONN. — Hamden's Sleeping Giant has claimed its second life this year. The Sleeping Giant, a range of hills with a contour resembling a prone human form, has many cliffs to lure the adventurous.

Saturday afternoon, 16-year-old Thomas Beck of Bridgeport undertook to climb to the "Giant's Head," starting his ascent from the floor of an abandoned trap rock quarry. When within 20 feet of the top of the 200-foot cliff, the boy slipped, plummeting to the rocks below.

Less than three months ago a Princeton student, John K. Ewing, 19, of Berwyn, Pa., died on a Sleeping Giant cliff when a falling rock hit his head.
