New Deal is Establishing a Strong Nationalistic Spirit.

George A. Earle, first Democratic governor of Pennsylvania in 40 years, told the national convention of Young Democrats in Milwaukee that "the obsession of foreign trade which reached its height when Herbert Hoover was Secretary of Commerce, brought on much of the depression and was leading us blindly but surely into war."

Mr. Hoover, he said, "flung out a series of go-getters across the globe to sell America to all countries. Unfortunately, America was being sold out at home. The proper market for the great industries of the east coast is the agricultural population of the midwest. But the Hoover policy tended systematically to impoverish that potential market, while it sought to enrich our markets abroad with unpayable loans."

"The Old Deal said 'cut labor costs. Cut food costs. We must beat the competition of this or that other nation.'"

"The New Deal says 'raise the farmer's income. Raise the worker's income. Give industry customers at home.'"

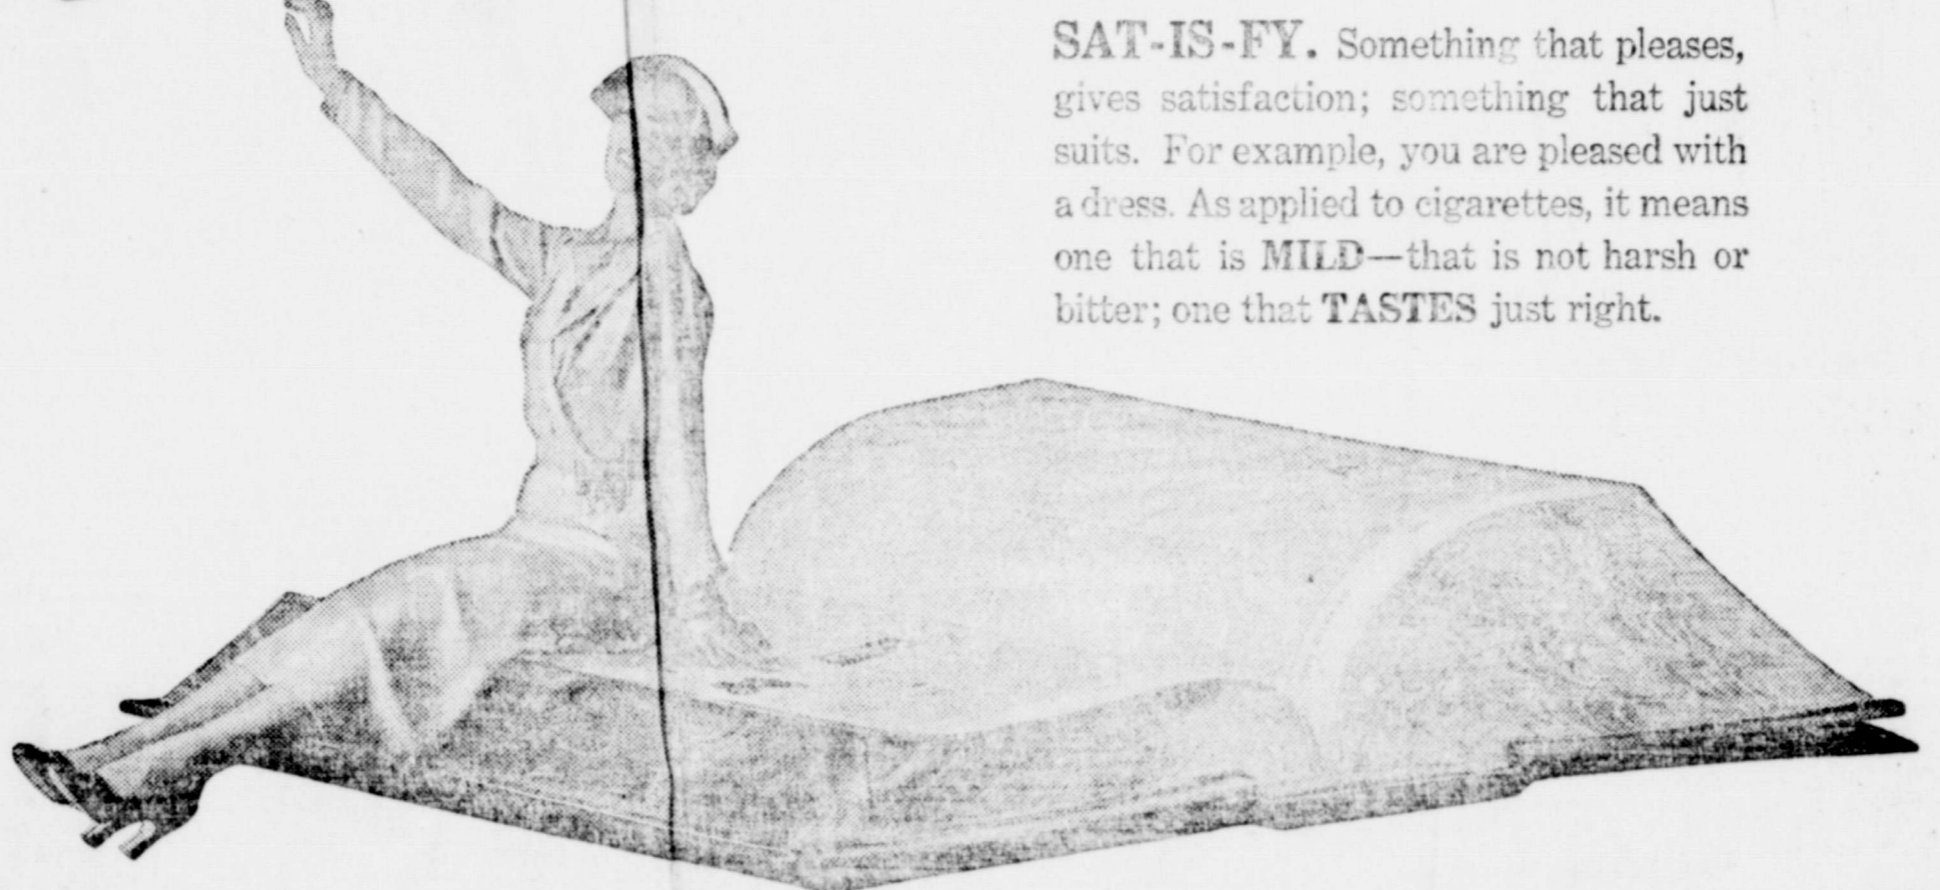

"Speaking as an industrialist and as governor of an industrial state," he continued, "I would rather sell a radio to every American farmer than a rifle to every soldier in Europe. It is our duty and our opportunity to keep this nation out of war. We can do it because President Roosevelt has freed the United States from the hallucination of dependence upon foreign trade and from the shackles of the international bankers."

"The fundamental change wrought by the New Deal is this:

"It has turned the eyes of the country upon itself. The center of gravity has swung away from New York. And the President's broad policy of raising wages and increasing farm income is reflected in steadily improved business conditions in every part of the country without any exception. Slowly but surely and in a manner none can deny we are climbing confidently out of depression along the Roosevelt trail."

The United Confederate Veterans at their National reunion in Amarillo Wednesday officially accepted the invitation of the Grand Army of the Republic to meet with them in joint reunion in 1938 on the historic Gettysburg battlefield. The Confederates have been assured by the G. A. R. that they would be free to carry the Bonnie Blue Flag of the Confederacy wherever they pleased. May these old heroes be spared to meet at this their 50th reunion on earth to meet again at their Great reunion in heaven.

A Successful Ruse.

Mr. W. R. Bringhurst, a veteran hotel proprietor of Clarksville, Tenn., relates an amusing incident of the War Between the States which, at the time of its occurrence, was so unimportant as to have been overlooked by historians. It concerns the recapture of Clarksville by a band of Confederate on a lark on the evening of August 19, 1862, a clever trick causing a body of three hundred Federals to surrender to two hundred "Rebels" without a fight.

The story is told by Mr. Bringhurst as follows:

"At the age of sixteen I left Stewart College (now Southwestern Presbyterian University) and entered the hardware store of F. S. Beaumont, of this city, who had raised a company and left with the 14th Tennessee Infantry for Virginia, where he soon contracted fever and died. There were three other clerks in the store beside myself but they too also joined the army, leaving me, a 17-year-old inexperienced lad, in charge. I was pondering over the seriousness of the business, when I was startled by the "Rebel yell" which always struck terror to the enemy. I rushed to the door and found about two hundred Confederate cavalrymen under command of Colonel Tom Woodward (a Connecticut Yankee who had resided in the South 15 or 20 years) charging through the main street of the town, armed with shotguns, squirrel rifles, flint-lock guns, butcher knives, etc. They were not armed to fight, but were simply out on a lark. The camouflage was a success however, and after capturing a few straggling Federal soldiers, they proceeded to surround the college, where a Colonel Mason and th-

71st Ohio Regiment of Infantry were entrenched, with one piece of artillery, behind the picket fence on the campus. This detachment had been sent here as an occupation garrison following the fall of Fort Donelson. Ten or fifteen men dressed in red to represent the artillery, which we did not have, were placed on a hill opposite the college on the site now occupied by the Howell Elementary School.

"Colonel Woodward had sent in a flag of truce and demanded a surrender, which was under consideration by Colonel Mason. At first he would not agree to surrender, but Colonel Woodward explained to him that he had him surrounded, and it would be folly to resist and cause unnecessary bloodshed. Seeing that he was surrounded, Colonel Mason became alarmed as Colonel Woodward's words, 'immediate and unconditional' rang out.

"In the meantime I had locked the store, rushed home, saddled the old family plug horse, seized my brother's shotgun loaded with squirrel shot and joined the command near the college. I am not sure that Colonel Mason saw me coming at a rapid pace, with two loads of squirrel shot, but just as I fell in line, the flag went up. The men were ordered to stack arms, and we marched in and took possession without firing a gun. When we rode in the campus and the men saw what they had surrendered to, they were furious. We had no idea of provoking a battle and if surrender had been refused we would have withdrawn as rapidly as possible.

"Colonel Mason and his command were paroled and went the same day on a boat for their respective homes in Ohio. Clarksville was soon reoccupied by Federal troops and continued so until the close of the war. Col. Woodward's men continued to operate in this section of Tennessee and Kentucky for several months, when they went out with Forest and joined the regular Army of Tennessee."

The force of 200 men who "captured" Clarksville was composed of portions of Woodward's and Adam Johnson's commands, commanded respectively by Col. Woodward and Lieutenant Col. Martin. Following the episode here, Mr. Bringhurst became a member of Company A, Woodward's 2nd Kentucky Cavalry.

In conclusion, Mr. Bringhurst adds: "I am glad that the narrow prejudices which for a long time existed between those who wore the blue and those who wore the gray are fast disappearing, as we have one country, one flag, and our motto should be 'America First!'" Mrs. Nancy North, in Confederate Veteran.

The Roots of Altruism.
The three eternal roots of altruistic energy are these: First, the principle of justice; that there is a moral law before which all men are equal, so that I ought to help my neighbor to his rights. Second, the principle of charity; that I owe infinite tenderness to any shape or kind of man, however unworthy or useless to the state. Third, the principle of free will; that I can really decide to help my neighbor, and am truly disgraced if I do not do so. To this may be added the idea of a definite judgment; that is, that the action will at sometime terribly matter to the helper and the helped.

JUDGED BY THEIR CATS.

Miss Maid's Unique Way of Estimating Employers' Character.
"No, ma'am," said an Irish maid of much experience as she returned to a New York intelligence office the other day. "I didn't engage with that family. I didn't like the looks of their cat." "Of their cat?" repeated the owner of the office in amazement. "Why, Katie, I'm sure they wouldn't keep a cat that was in any way dangerous." "Not dangerous, ma, ma'am, but a restless, unhappy looking creature that didn't speak well for the family," replied the girl. "I always judge a family by their cat. A sleek, comfortable pussy who comes up and rubs against you means a quiet, good-natured family, and one that's not worrying about ways and means; but a nervous, unfriendly looking cat reflects a household which is on the verge of nervous prostration or financial ruin or some other horrible trouble. I've been living with families and studying their cats for 35 years, and I've never known the sign to fail. A family that can't make its cat happy is one to make any servant miserable."

CURRENT EVENTS IN REVIEW

Congress Session Ends; Long's Lone Filibuster

CONGRESS ended its session at midnight Monday—after the clock hands had been moved back three times—the house hilarious with refreshment, song and rustic antics, the senate furious because Huey Long of Louisiana had conducted a lone filibuster for seven hours and talked to death the third deficiency appropriation bill.

The Democratic leaders were afraid that if submitted to the house government loans not only on wheat and cotton but on other commodities would be voted at a cost of upward of $2,000,000,000.

They determined to let the appropriation bill fall rather than submit to Long's terms, although Robinson stated that information from the controller general's office indicated there would be no available funds for the social security program unless the deficiency measure were passed.

Most congressional authorities held that failure of the $103,000,000 third deficiency bill may delay operation until January of the bulk of New Deal legislation enacted the last two months of congress. It provided funds for many purposes besides those mentioned above.

Sept. 12 Is Deadline for Works Relief Applications

APPLICATIONS for money from the four billion dollar works relief fund must be in by September 12, according to an executive order issued by the President.

The President has set November 1 as the date for putting his works program into high gear and taking all the unemployed off the relief rolls.

Uncle Sam Warns Russia to Keep Its Pledges

FRIENDLY diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia, established in November 1933, will not longer be maintained unless the Soviet government mends its ways and keeps its solemn pledges to prevent Communist organizations on its soil or under its control from plotting to overthrow the government of the United States.

It was thought in Washington that Russia's reply might be delayed until the return of Foreign Commissioner Maxim Litvinov, who was in Geneva helping deal with the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

It was Litvinov who personally gave to President Roosevelt the pledges that Russia would prevent Communists under its control from interfering with the internal affairs of this country, and in Mr. Bullitt's note these pledges are quoted in full, with the assertion that they have been flagrantly violated.

The American note called attention to the recent meeting in Moscow of the Communist International where the speakers discussed openly the plan for subversive Red action in the United States.

Recognition of the Soviet government was, and still is, severely criticized by various elements in the United States, notably organized labor; and the friendly relations established by the Roosevelt administration never have "pallid out" in the way of increased business with Russia because the Soviet government demanded extraordinary credits in exchange for orders.

Winant Made Head of the Social Security Board

JOHN G. WINANT, former governor of New Hampshire and a Republican, has been appointed chairman of the social security board, the body that will direct the part of the New Deal which the President is proud of and which he declares is one of the outstanding social reforms in the history of the government.

In sending his nominations to the senate the President stipulated that Winant will serve six years, Altmeyer will serve four years and Miles one year.

As chairman of the new national labor relations board, operating under the Wagner act, the President named Joseph Madden, a Pittsburgh attorney. The other members appointed are John M. Carmody of New York and Edwin S. Smith of Massachusetts.

Mussolini Says Italy Will Fight Sanctions

GREAT BRITAIN, having ordered a concentration of naval strength in the Mediterranean for the purpose of protecting the Suez canal in case war breaks out between Italy and Ethiopia, followed this up by sending 1,000 troops to reinforce the garrison on the island of Malta.

"It should be realized without the possibility of misunderstanding that whoever applies sanctions (penalties for treaty violations) against Italy will be met by the armed hostility of our country."

The duce added that if the League of Nations voted sanctions against Italy, his country would at once leave the league.

In reply to a direct question whether there is the slightest possibility of his changing his attitude, Mussolini replied in the negative, saying "none at all—unless Ethiopia gives in."

Opening up of the vast Ethiopian interior, he said would benefit "all civilized states." Colonization of Ethiopia by Italy would "completely fulfill all colonial aspirations of Italy."

Little Lights on Living

By MARIA LEONARD, Dean of Women, University of Illinois

THE AMERICAN SPEAKING VOICE

THE American speaking voice is usually unlovely. So much so in fact that when one hears an exceptionally well modulated low pitched speaking voice, it attracts attention at once.

I am sure it is not because I used to sing that makes me sensitive to speaking voices, for I have conversed with singers of unusual merit whose singing voices were soft and smooth as velvet, but whose speaking voices, strange to say, were as rasping and coarse grained as their singing voices were lovely.

When traveling in foreign countries the contrast is evident, for the occidental voice carries in its very speech the tension and "high stringiness" of American life and manners. We are as a nation high keyed and hurried and our life is reflected in our speech.

It is said that the little mountain rollers, the exquisite muffed tiny canary singers of the Hartz mountains, are trained in a room far away from noise of any kind.

WISHBONE VS. BACKBONE

DID you ever hear of a person having a wishbone where his backbone ought to be? It is not evident physically, but this is often the case.

In Paris there once lived a young violinist, on the top floor of a cheap pension. As a student he practiced hour after hour. His landlady had been instructed never to knock on his door, when she heard him playing.

"Effort is the price of everything." Oftentimes with effort comes sacrifice which is the basic rock of appreciation and achievement in life.

A university student at examination time prepared his room for study. He chose the lounging chair with pillows and soft shaded lighting. On a tilted stand he laid his book at the angle easiest for him to read and turned the radio on. He started to study.

The world is turning a slow curve, but it is turning. The time has passed when one rich man's son may nonchalantly spend three millions on his own pleasure yacht for his own selfish soul.

Our country needs men and women of backbone, who as yet, are far outnumbered by those of wishbone. GO is 're start to GOAL.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NEW SCHEME FOR BIG NAVAL FORCE

With statements and denials flying back and forth in London about the new navy Britain will build when the present sea power limitation treaties lapse, one clear fact emerged:

King George intends to have a navy second to none. Surrendering before immovable Japanese objections to continuing limitations under a system of ratios, the British are now negotiating with the principal powers for an exchange of building programs beyond which the powers concerned would agree not to build.

Thus, the United States would agree to lay down only five battleships in a stated time, Britain would agree to build only five and Japan five.

But even if such naval programs are declared in advance, they will not be binding on the powers, Lord Londonderry, the cabinet's spokesman in the house of lords, now reveals.

Any power changing its mind would promise to give a year's notice, he stated.

Chief initial difficulty about this system is that no government wants to declare what it is going to do until it learns what the other nations will build.

So Britain has taken the bull by the horns and submitted its tentative building program in the next few years to the United States, Japan, France and Italy. Germany already is tied to 35 per cent of the British navy.

But the British cabinet refuses to whisper a single detail of this program to parliament, which will have to vote the money, let alone the public, which will have to foot the bill.

So a sensation was caused when what purports to be the British seven-year naval plan was published and the cost of the vast armada put at approximately $750,000,000.

"Love Apple" Ranks First as Vegetable Canning Crop

Once called the "love apple," and grown mainly as an ornamental plant, the tomato now ranks first in the United States as a vegetable canning crop. As a vegetable crop it is led only by potatoes and sweet potatoes.

When introduced into the United States from the American tropics about 1800, the tomato was thought to be poisonous because it is related to the nightshade plant. Other non-poisonous members of the nightshade family are the eggplant, potato, and peppers.

About the middle of the last century canned tomatoes became an article of trade. The value of the annual crop is now estimated at more than $50,000,000, of which approximately $20,000,000 is spent for tomatoes by canners and manufacturers. Besides being canned, tomatoes are manufactured into soups, purees, catsups, and tomato juice. From 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 tons are grown annually for commercial purposes.

The industry is widely scattered over the United States, but Maryland, New Jersey, Virginia, Indiana, and California produce a large part of the crop for canners and manufacturers.

The tomato, like the potato, is the poor man's friend. It is not difficult to grow, it is not expensive, and can be served the year around, either fresh or canned. The ornamental "love apple" has become a utility vegetable, equally at home in a soup, a stew, a salad, in a dressing, or as that "home-grown" delicacy, tomato preserves.

New! Fur Coat and Woolen Ensemble

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS THRILLING event which are casting their shadows before via an entirely new type of ensemble which works dress and lining of smart woolen in conjunction with coats of hand some fur into the 'nth degree of swank. Watch the excitement when once the college girl glimpses this sort of costume which is entirely new in the field.

It's this way, the woollens for fall are absolutely irresistible. Yielding to the lure of the perfectly fascinating new wool weaves and sensing untold possibilities in their use manufacturers of fur coats are playing up the idea of lining their garments with gay plaids and checks or a novelty woolen of some sort or other.

To be explicit, the new costume scheme, which is taking the world of fashion by storm, lines a chic fur coat with the same stunning woolen as makes the dress or skirt, with matching gilet that completes the ensemble. As soon as the first chilly autumn winds blow you will see this type of costume crowding the landscape for daytime wear in town, in country, on campus, in the grandstand or for travel whether you go by train, boat, auto or airplane.

The coats may be hip length, finger-tip length or three-quarter or seven-eighth, just so it is always somewhat shorter than the accompanying woolen skirt, so that some fraction of the skirt shows below, thus co-ordinating the ensemble even when the coat is buttoned tight and only a scarf, the collar lining or the gilet top shows above the fur.

The coats of these costumes are versatile, although generally speaking they are fashioned on swaggar lines. A dashing figure they cut, when left unfastened to fly out "accidentally on purpose" when in motion so as to artfully show off their smart gay linings.

SMART BLACK
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Among best-dressed women sentiment is increasing for smart, refined, "classy" black for daytime wear. Just now, for midseason days, quality-kind sheers that are exquisitely fashioned are first choice. The very newest models have belts of gilt leather with neck wear styled of matching gold kidskin. If not gilt leather collar and cuffs, then gold clips or other items of gold jewelry are worn. At any rate there should be a touch of color to relieve from somberness. In the picture, Jean Tennyson, beautiful blond grand opera songstress, expresses favor for black in that she is wearing a dress of handsome black wool crepe with jabot of colorful silk print to provide the desired color accent. The perky Breton sailor hat, slippers and envelope bag are of shiny black patent leather.

AUTUMN BERETS IN UNFAMILIAR FORMS

It being customary to rush headlong into a new season, it will be the fall hats that make their first appearance, and among them are the familiar berets in unfamiliar forms and drapes. In current displays many French milliners are represented as designers of beret. Among the variations of this silhouette, Mlle. Marthe introduces a model with a close back and kettle edge lifted front section, of brown felt, supplemented by a shallow crown part of sectioned beiting.

Other silhouettes include the small and the large, shallow Breton, and several versions of the brimmed sports hat of classic type. In addition, there is a pillbox with side bow and veil from Patou.

Other models not of the beret movement have a tendency to crowns that are deeper back than front, and to buckles and other metal ornaments.

Ancient Builders' Jokes Were Revealed in Stone

The builders of the old churches in England were not so serious but that they now and then perpetrated a joke, even in stone. On more than one of their creations, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald, they carved in relief a scene representing a monk preaching solemnly to a flock of geese. The same humorous spirit is sometimes to be detected in the domestic architecture of early times, when builders gave full rein to their sometimes vulgar ideas of jesting.

Just upon the boundaries of Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire formerly stood an old rambling farmhouse. The living room was long and low, and on the center that went across the ceiling was inscribed this legend: "If you are cold, go to Hertfordshire."

This seemingly inhospitable invitation was explained by the fact that one-half of the room was in one county and one-half in the other. The fireplace was in Hertfordshire.

DIFFERENT AMOUNTS OF LIGHT NEEDED

A survey shows that 22 per cent of children finishing grade school have damaged eye sight. When they have finished college, 40 per cent are so affected. At age forty, 65 per cent suffer from visual defects. And at age sixty, 95 per cent have eye defects.

This regrettable increase in eye troubles is in many instances caused by eye strain resulting from reading, studying, sewing at night with poor light and not enough light.

Science measures light in terms of foot-candles. A foot-candle is the amount of light one standard candle shines on a surface one foot away.

For seeing one's way around and performing ordinary tasks which do not require seeing very small objects, 5 foot-candles is sufficient. For reading coarse print and large stitch sewing, you can get along with 10 foot-candles. For continued reading of ordinary print, or doing ordinary sewing, you need at least 20 foot-candles. For reading fine print and the sewing, you require 30 foot-candles, or more.

Your light may look bright, but it is the illumination you get on your work that saves your eyes from strain; and this diminishes rapidly the farther away you are from your lamp.

Seated with your paper or work 3 feet away from your lamp, it will require a light of at least 275 candlepower to produce the 20 foot-candles needed to be certain your eyes have enough light to do their work without danger of strain and permanent injury.

If you use electricity, your light company will recommend the right size bulbs to use.

If your home is not wired, one of the new 300 candlepower kerosene or gasoline pressure mantle lamps will supply plenty of "live" natural light for every home need. It takes the pressure to give you all the light you should have.

Aircraft and Radio Assist in Battle on Forest Fires

Increasing use is being made of radio and aircraft in protecting state and national forests from fire, says the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture. Both airplane and radio aided in apprehending a firebug from the air, in a case recently reported by the New York conservation department.

A man was seen starting a forest fire by Albert Leo-Wolf, forest-patrol plane pilot. He reported by radio and later located his man at a nearby cabin. This information also was radioed, resulting in the arrest, conviction, and sentence of the firebug.

Approximately 1,000 radio sets for emergency communication in national forests are in use this year. They include several types developed for forest use by forest service technicians. Many of them are of a "featherweight" type that can be carried and quickly set up by "smoke-chasers" at the scene of a fire. Air-

THREE PATENTED CONSTRUCTION FEATURES MADE THIS NEW GROUND GRIP TIRE POSSIBLE

THE new Firestone Ground Grip Tire is the greatest traction tire ever built. It has 54% more tread rubber to give your car, truck, tractor and farm implements the greatest traction ever known.

Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process which soaks every cord in liquid rubber, makes it possible for this tire to stand the terrific strains and stresses of the extra pulling power. Firestone Tires are the only tires built that are Gum-Dipped.

The tread is built of extra tough rubber and designed with deep grooves between scientifically placed cross bars, giving super-traction and long wear. Firestone Ground Grip Tires are self-cleaning. (Chains are not needed.) The bars of the rubber are so placed that they will not bump on paved roads, giving you easier riding and longer wear.

MRS. ADA DOUFRIT.

Boy Scouts of West Texas representing the Concho Valley Council with headquarters at San Angelo, 75 in all, are all safe and sound after two different tours of the Rocky Mountains and California.

One group with 47 Scouts from 12 towns of the council returned home last Saturday after 16 days in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado, Yellowstone National Park, Arizona's Grand Canyon, and New Mexico's caves.

The second contingent were 28 Scouts of Iran Troop 49's Scout band which toured to the San Diego, California Exposition, Los Angeles, Boulder Dam in Nevada, Zion National Park in Utah, Grand Canyon and the Indian Tribal ceremonies at Gallup, New Mexico.

Both groups of Scouts were those disappointed in not attending the National Jamboree at Washington D. C. during August. The big event of 55,000 Scouts was canceled because of an epidemic scare.

Some 25 leaders accompanied both groups. Busses were chartered from a Dallas company and drivers, helpers and cooks hired. Each group cooked all its meals, camped under pup wall tents.

In each instance no serious illness or injury was sustained. Several Scouts were caught with upset stomachs because of a change of water, and the like.

"The leadership could not have been better," according to R. L. Billington, Scout Executive. Leaders who took over the two trips and "clicked" from start to finish were John P. Robbins, Bert Haigh and E. L. Starkie, San Angelo; Dr. A. E. Armfield, Texon; M. H. Carr, Sherwood; and Vern Bronlee and Jacquie Nonce, Iran. Jack Stone, Assistant Scout Executive, accompanied the Iran group to California.

Texas Centennial Exposition Open Next June.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 3 - The romance of sixteenth century Spain will be woven into the theme of the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here next June, by the division of the grounds into seven sections representing the Seven Cities of Cibola.

These seven legendary cities, whose streets the Conquistadores believed were paved with gold and whose walls were studded with jewels, were the "will-o'-the-wieps" which ever flickered ahead of Spanish exploration.

Cabeza de Vaco, shipwrecked on Galveston island in 1528, first heard of these mystic cities from his Indian captors. He carried the news of the treasure trove to Spanish settlements south of the Rio Grande and several expeditions explored Texas in the hope of finding them.

Francisco de Coronado in 1540 crossed the prairies of West Texas, making his trail with stakes and buffalo bones so he could find his way back, thus naming the Staked Plains in this section. He went north into Kansas and circled into Western New Mexico. He found no treasure. The cities of the legend were at the rainbow's end. In New Mexico he captured a half dozen squalid Zuni pueblos, the lintels of their doorways being decorated with blue turquoise matrix. They were probably the jeweled cities of Cibola. However, he did open the Southwest for future Spanish settlement.

The uncounted wealth of Texas, which has developed from Coronado's exploration will be displayed in the seven sections of the Centennial Exposition. Each section will be named for one of the legendary cities. In great exhibition palaces will be shown the heritage of the conquistadores; cotton, oil, corn, and cattle and all the tremendous industrial and natural resources of the Southwest.

Most of the success of the fall garden depends on preparing the soil correctly, according to J. F. Rosborough, Extension horticulturist. "All weeds and vegetation must be removed before planting," Rosborough said, "or the soil will dry out quickly and possibly carry disease." He recommends that summer manure, which has no acids or burning ingredients, be spread to prevent the soil from becoming hard after the fall rains.

DEFINES BANKERS' PART IN RECOVERY

Head of American Bankers Association Assures the President of Confidence and Desire to Cooperate Among Bankers

WASHINGTON, D. C. - President Roosevelt in his address before the NRA conference here on March 5 announced that he had received the following telegram from Francis M. Law, President of the American Bankers Association:

"On this your first anniversary please allow me in behalf of the country's banks to express our full confidence and our sincere desire to cooperate in your courageous efforts to bring about recovery. The banking structure of the country is sound and liquid and banks have never been in stronger position to function effectively. Conditions have improved to the point where it is no longer necessary for banks to be super-liquid. There is a definite call now for banks, not to extend loose credits or to make improper loans, but for a most sympathetic attitude toward legitimate credit needs and for a recognition of responsibility for their proper and vital part in the program of recovery."

The Soundness of Banking
In an address before a recent trust conference of the association's Trust Division in New York, Mr. Law said: "A depression cannot long survive a sound banking structure if the banking structure is responsive to legitimate needs and functions in a way that is viable and alive. The most cheering fact of the present situation is the knowledge that banks are in strong position. Recovery, even to the most pessimistic, is no longer a myth or a rumor, nor is it merely psychological. Abundant evidence and proof lie on every hand - tangible proof. With a return of confidence the wheels have begun to go round and a great many well managed businesses may look for a profit during this calendar year with fair assurance at least. For what has been achieved let us thank the President, who has labored with courage and patience and vision. Let us thank the Congress, whose members during the emergency have put the public welfare above partisanship. Let us thank one hundred twenty-five million of our own citizens who have refused to be stampeded, but rather who have kept alive the divine spark of faith and hope."

Cause for Confidence
"We may reasonably expect that the recent action of the government in stabilizing the dollar will have a marked tendency to encourage industrial and other business commitments. Business men need not be so exclusively engaged in taking counsel of their fears now that uncertainty does not haunt them. Much has been said about the loss of credit by banks. During the acute period of the depression banks for the most part have not been lending normally, nor should they be blamed. With public confidence shattered the banker was properly concerned in liquidity, having in mind his primary obligation to pay off deposits. The situation has improved to the point where super-liquidity no longer seems necessary. Conditions have materially changed. Banks will desire, for every reason, to return to a more normal lending policy. This means a sympathetic attitude and a recognition of responsibility for his proper part in the program of recovery by the banker as he passes upon and meets sound credit requirements of business as it swings into and continues on the upward turn."
