Critical Commont.

The S. C. V. Department of the Yeteran for January consaine interesting notes and comments upon the battle of Bethel in Virginia, June 10, 1861, this article based upon statements in a letter of Col. Alfred H. Baird, Springdale. 'Ark, a coler bearer in that battle. The editor quotes from the letter and says that Colonel Baird's statement needs no verification. With dee respect for both his and Col Baird's statements, I beg leave to quote Col. Baird's letter and point out some of the striking atterances therein contained. The Colonel writes: "This was a big battle, lasting from sumup until four o'clock in the eveming, and I hate to see it overlooked. There were three hundred Union soldiers dead on the field. We lost one man by the some of Wyatt. There is a monamont to his memory as the first endier to die for his country. It ie in Raleigh, N. C. I was color bearer in this battle, and the old flag I carried is now in the State name on it,"

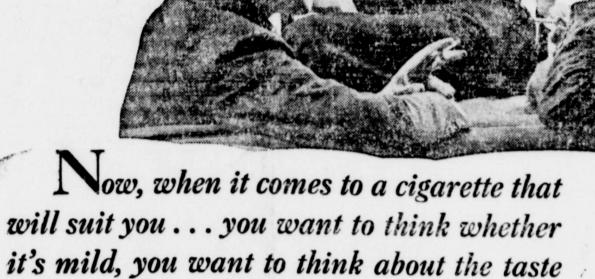

"Now, so far from having been everlooked, the fight at Bethel has been, with the excepmaybe, of Gettysburg, more discussed, particularly in North Carolina, than any of the more important battles of the first soldier to die for his counwar. It is a matter of historyundisputed - that, it antedated Manassas. It is known of all men that Heny Wyatt (the brave Virginian) who volunteered to burn the house which General Hill said hid the enemy from his yiew, proceeded alone, and was shot square in the forehead when about halfway ito the house. The others who voluntoered were called back to covor (D. H. Hill, Magruder, Randelph].

Thebattle was opened at about 9:15 by a shot fired from a Parrott gun of the Richmond Howitzers, which was aimed by Major Randolph and fired by Major Carter, both of Virginia. Forgotten Hospital, Complete, Is Found Forgotten for half a century, a hospital has been found on the sea coast of Denmark, and government officials are considering what to do with it. It was built in 1879 for cholera patients, there having been a cholera epidemic in Europe and a recurrence was expected. Soon after the opening a sailor believed to have had the dread disease, was admitted. He proved to have nothing worse than measles. No other patients came, and the place was closed and forgotten.

A young journalist found the hospital, with everything complete, from beds ready to use, to medicines and salt cellars containing salt put there 54 years ago. The discoverer has suggested that it be converted into a vacation resort for poor children of Copenhagen.-Montreal Herald,

PIERRE LAVAL, premier of France, | business was "reviving," declared re found himself in a tight place because of his efforts to retain the friendship of both Great Britain and Italy and to keep his government from being upset by its foes at home. In the process of trying to find a way to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war. Laval proposed that Britain withdraw its big home fleet from the Mediterranean to mollify Mussolini. This suggestion was laid down flatly. The cabinet gave hearty approval to the policy at Geneva of Capt. Anthony Eden and Samuel Hoare, secretary for foreign affairs. Its stand was reported to be substantially this: Mussolini will respect nothing but force. He would interpret any withdrawal of Britain's Mediterranean forces as a sign of weakening. If Mussolini wants to clear the way for Italo-Ethopian and representatives sailed from Seattle peace talks, let him halt his armies in for Manila to represent the United Ethlopia and accept league terms as States at the formal establishment of basis for negotiation as Ethiopia al- the Philippines commonwealth and the ready has done. DISPATCHES from the African war front are subjected to so severe a censorship that they are not only unsatisfactory but often quite unreliable. All kinds of sensational stories are circulated and some of them may be true. One such is the report from Djiboutl, French Somaliland, that Italians killed a number of British Somaliland subjects near the Ethlopian frontier, some of the victime being members of the came! corps that is a part of the colonial army, British Vice Consul Lowe heard, also, that Italians had gassed and shot a lot of cattle and goats in British Somaliland.

Pierre Laval before the British cabinet and turned

Certainly relations between Italy and Great Britain were growing worse dally and there were many predictions that the two nations would be at each other's throats before long. The British have been in a deadly cold humor ever since they found out that Muss .lini's friends had been trying to stir up an anti-British revolt in Egypt. Now the border between Egypt and Italian Libya is the scene of swift concentration of troops on both sides.

SERG of Michigan, who has been mentioned frequently as a possible Republican nominee for the Presidency, came back from a summer tour of Europe and declared flatly he is "not a candidate for anything on earth." He did not attempt to predict who would be named by the Republicans, but did say he felt the G. O. P. would win in 1936.

Movie · Radio  By VIRGINIA VALE **

T BEGINS to look as though I Joan Blondell feels that she has had enough of the movies for a while, at least. It's reported that she is planning to turn her back on Hollywood the last of the year and hie herself to New York with her baby, there to take an apartment with her sister Gloria and look over the theatrical field,

An engagement in a successful stage play is an excellent tonic for the career of a motion picture actress, of course. Hollywood is always newly excited about her after she's shown what she can do on the stage. Sometimes the venture works out the wrong way; either the actress can't get a stage job, or she gets one in a play that flops after a run

Joan Blondell, of a few nights, or she finds the stage so different from the screen that her technique won't stand up, and she gets the gentle razzberry from the critics because she's given a bad performance. It's not hard to see why Miss Blondell might want a change of scene, course. They do say that she is still in love with her husband, whom she recently divorced.

Charles Bickford, after being clawed by a lion during the making of "East of Java," wants to go right back and do the scene over, when he recovers, and with the same lion-seems he feels that it was all a mistake and the lion didn't mean any harm.

Do You Remember Department-Anna Q. Nilsson has gone back to Sweden to live: couldn't make a screen come-back or make a go of acting as actors' agent in Hollywood. Blanch Sweet, who is doing very well on the stage, married Raymond Hackett the other day; he's an actor, Bryant Washburn is returning to the screen in a picture in which his son appears.

The Joan Crawford-Franchot Tone nuptials certainly got them plenty of publicity. The report that they were secretly married last January was denied, of course-but it started rumors that she wanted to use her marriage as publicity for her picture, "I Live My Life," which opened in New York shortly after she and Mr. Tone arrived there. She had taken out in- J. Crawford. surance in his name.

he had given up his house, and hers had been extensively remodeled just before they left for New York. All of which was added up, with two and two making five or six. Meanwhile they rushed about to night clubs and theatrical openings and, like most screen stars in New York, had a beautiful time just being themselves. And Joan is certainly popular when she lets down and is herself.

Now they say that Robert Montgomery will play "Romeo" to Norma Shearer's "Juliet"; wish they'd decide on somebody soon. Also it's reported that Miss Shearer's husband, Irving Thalberg, one of the boy wonders of the movies, was coaxed to remain with the company by an offer of lots more money.

Apparently Garbo likes costume pictures, although when she appears in modern ones, her clothes set new styles. She'll do a picture based on the story of Madame Valeska, a heroine of the Napoleonic era.

Though you don't see a great deal about her in the newspapers, Margaret Speaks is one of the stand-bys of radio. Her voice is very beautiful, her selection of songs excellent, and the program on which she appears is looked forward to by people who don't bother to turn the radio on unless something really good can be heard. Even though her program precedes Grace Moore's by so short an interval, she loses nothing by comparison.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Myrna Loy's going to play "Billie Burke" in "The Great Ziegfeld"-with Billie herself in Hollywood, but not so young as she was in the great days . . . Merle Oberon is having fun in London, with young Fairbanks as escort . . . Marguerite Churchill is returning to the screen after too long an absence; she was last seen in Fox's "The Girl With the Room" . . . Dick Barthelmess wants to form his own company and direct pictures, and his longtime pals, Ronald Colman and William Powell, yearn to work for him if they can get leave of absence . . . Gary Cooper would like to play Buffalo Bill as a young man, but it looks as if he wouldn't have time . . . Ozzie Nelson, whom you've heard on the air so often, married Harriet Hilliard, singer with his band . . . And Sally Blane went to the altar the same day with Norman Foster, Claudette Colbert's ex-husband.

FEAR: REAL AND UNREAL; LATTER IS MOST DEADLY

There are, of course, two sorts of fear. One is immediate anxiety-for the next meal; for the safety of some one close and beloved; for the job; for the rent money. These are bad fears, but they bave one advantage. They can be faced, and they can indicate direct action. There is something to be done, something which has to be done. One can take these fears out and look them over. The wolf is at the door, but perhaps he can be kept out; and there is always the hope that he is only a coyote after all.

The other fear is far more deadly because it deals with the spirit and feeds on the imagination. It senses about it some hostile force, but does not know precisely what the danger is. There is no more defense against this fear than against a ghost. It comes through the keyhole and hangs over the bed; and men kill themselves to escape it, or retire into asylums and sit huddled in dark

It is a psychosis-if that is the word. It has no actual reality. Each of us either builds it for himself or lays himself open to it. It destroys but never builds. It can take the strong and turn them into old men with shaking hands. It is more destructive than any fact. We can face hunger better, for hunger is a real thing. And the only way to fight it is to know it for what it is: sheer apprehension, despondency, funk, without reality except in the human mind.-Mary Roberts Rinehart in Cosmopolitan.

TRAIN POULTS TO ROOST IN TREES

Saves Moving About, Avoids Theft of Birds.

Turkey growers, who produce flocks of average size ranging in numbers from 100 to 200 poults, find it advantageous to train their poults to roost in trees, advises a writer in the Missouri Farmer. If large trees suitable for roosting are available, two purposes are served by this practice-laber in moving roosts to new locations is avoided, and the danger of theft near marketing time is minimized.

It can be appreciated that if turkeys are roosting high in trees during the fall when they have grown to market size they are rendered almost inaccessible to thieves, the foremost menace to the flock at this season. A few of the heavier, clumsier toms will roost on low branches and even on the feed hoppers and can be easily stolen, but if most of the flock is roosting high up the danger of the entire flock being stolen is almost entirely eliminated. Furthermore, any turkey grower knows that the restless turkey will not peaceably submit to a stranger invading its roosting tree; if a thief climbs the tree a commotion will ensue-the flock will leave the tree with a loud flapping of wings, a striking of branches, and sounds of alarm, which noise is apt to arouse the owner.

Are Caused by Injuries Chickens often have wind puffs-due to an injury, apparently, air gathers under the skin which causes it to puff up. Not much discomfort seems to be caused by it to the bird and if the "puff" is pricked with a needle or pin so the air can escape that is about all it amounts to. Once the writer noted a young chicken with a huge wind puff and upon examination found a sizeable needle protruding from its side, about half of which was still inside the bird as if it had worked through its entire body and this, to all appearances caused the wind puff. The needle was pulled out, which at the same time opened the puff, and the bird was none the worse for the experience.

Although wind puffs are caused by some slight injury, there are cases where this does not seem to be true; for wind puffs occur quite frequently among poults and the writer has seen them puffed up almost like a toy balloon, which causes them discomfort in that their locomotion is interfered with and they are hampered by it at the feed hoppers and water fountains, although it does not seem to cause them pain. When poults are afflicted with wind puff their skin so that the air can escape and one treatment will not suffice to entirely eliminate the trouble; attention for about three days will be necessary .-Missouri Farmer.

Foul Air Checks Laying One of the reasons many pullets fall to lay well during the winter, in spite of good feeding, is the damp and stagnant air to be found in many poultry houses. Many poultry keepers close up nearly all ventilators when winter approaches, under the impression that the fowls need the warmth. Fresh air is far more important than warmth. and many batches of pullets that fail to come into production at the proper age are suffering from this mistaken idea. Birds so affected may not suffer from disease, though they are very liable to colds.

Market Non-Laying Hens

With the prospect of a good crop of pullets on most farms, there is little advance in holding back poor producing hens, states Stephen Walford, Purdue university. The hens that quit laying earliest in the season usually stay out of production longest. For that reason they should be marketed as soon as they quit producing. When the hens lay less than 40 eggs per 100 birds it is time to start culling. The non-layers can be identified by the narrow space between the pelvic or laying bones.

Fall Chicks Thrive

Fall-hatched chicks and pullets often thrive better and are more hardy than spring hatches, probably for two reasons: Fall chicks are from the best hens of the breeding flock and brooding conditions are favorable because of the approaching cool fall weather. Furthermore, there is no more favorable time of the year for brooding chicks and growing pullets in confinement. Chicks to be brooded in confinement require about twice as much floor space as when ranged.

Fattening Broilers

At the age of eight or ten weeks the most promising chicks intended for broilers should be confined to house or pen where exercise would be limited and a special fattening ration should be provided. This will consist of cracked corn, ground oats without hulls; a small proportion of wheat, millet seed with mash made of bran. shorts, cooked potatoes and bread crumbs, once or twice a day. Meat scrap, sour milk, buttermilk, grit and charcoal also should be available,

Take Great Precautions With Diamond Workers

Before workmen are engaged in the De Beers mines at Kimberley they must sign a contract for four months, which can be prolonged. During this period the workers are prohibited from leaving the mining district and must live in compounds without their wives. When the wives visit them, conversation may take place only behind wire grat-Native shops on the comings. pound supply all necessities. HOW Firestone GIVES YOU LOWEST COST PER FIRESTONE TIRES are built different - they have three patented construction features not used in any other truck tire. The body is built with Gum-Dipped High Stretch cords. Gum-Dipping, the patented Firestone process, soaks the cords in pure liquid rubber, insulating and coating every strand in every cord. This is why Firestone Tires run cooler and are stronger.

The tread is made of a new and tougher rubber compound which gives greatest resistance to wear. This, together with the scientific non-skid design, gives greater traction and longer non-skid mileage. Firestone locks this wider, heavier and more rugged tread securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body of the tire by building two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords (patented) under the tread.

These exclusive construction features result in lowest cost per mile. The largest operators in the country and operators of all types of equipment buy Firestone Tires year after year on their cost-reducing performance.

Call on the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store or Tire Dealer nearest you today, and start reducing your operating costs. When buying new equipment be sure to specify Firestone Tires.

The answer is simple. By taxes—whether hidden or open-clipped from whether indeed or open—chipped from the earnings of every man or woman who labors, of every family that con-tributes its strength, its courage and its spirit to the building and preservation of a free, productive America.

This public enemy is an insidious one. He leaves his calling card—the tax bill—with comparatively few of his victims. R. C. CAMPAIGNS TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Program Inaugurated in Local Chapters to Cut Down Farm and Home Accidents

The American Red Cross has launched a nation-wide campaign to eliminate hazards in the home and on the farm that now take an annual toll of nearly 35,000 lives, according to a recent statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"Every Red Cross chapter is being asked to play a part in this campaign." Mr. Fieser said. "Hazards in the various communities will be pointed out. The children in our schools throughout the country will be given a list of the home hazards and asked to enroll parents or relatives in the fight against

Nearly five million men, women, and children were temperarily disabled in the homes of America last year by accidents, officials of the National Safety Council have revealed. Most of the accidents in which persons were killed and injured could have been prevented, according to this safety agency, this fact alone largely motivating the Red Cross drive for accident elimination.

Active cooperation of social, civic, educational, veterans', and other groups has been secured. Red Cross inspection forms or home check lists will be distributed to homes where there are uo children with the help of these organizations.

Due to inaccessibility and lack of compensation coverage, little or no pioneering has been done in the field of farm safety, the Red Cross states. However, more people were accidentally killed in agricultural pursuits last year than in any other occupation, making the need for safety education and farm home inspection apparent.

Other agencies now active in the accident-prevention field point to the fact that, because of its nearly 13,000 chapters and branches, the Red Cross has a unique opportunity to successfully promote a project of this nature.

Home accidents injure many more than do automobile accidents; they kill nearly as many, claiming an average of about 80 lives daily. In terms of dol lars and cents, for the practical minded home accidents cost more than $1,000

Accidents of all types are Public Enemy No. 4. Only three diseases cause as many deaths each year, heart disease, cancer, and cerebral hemorrhage. "The home is not the place of safety it is commonly supposed to be," said Mr. Fieser in commenting on the new Red Cross service to the community.

"The Red Cross, as a part of its chartered obligation to prevent death and alleviate suffering, is conducting this humanitarian program to cut down the mounting toll of avoidable personal injury and death in the homes of the country.' The annual Red Cross roll call, running from Armistice Day to Thanks. giving Day, is one of the means of backing such a campaign. All citizens of the United States are offered the opportunity to join and assist in the work of the organization.
